Farm Bureau Names Officers, Delegates Plans New Year

W. R. Breeding was re-elected president and Monty Mitchell vice president of the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau at the annual barbecue and election meeting Thursday night, October 30.

Riley Dunson was named secretary-treasurer and will be in charge of the Farm Bureau in Wellington. He succeeds Mrs. Eddie Smith, who resigned a short time ago to devote her full time to her own business.

Directors for the coming year include J. C. Jones, J. A. Coleman, Herbert Knoll and Riley Garner from the area north of Salt Fork River; Lonnie Neeley, Palo Cummings and George L. Roberts from the area west of Wellington and south of Salt Fork; and John R. Henard, Fred Cox Jr. and Osa Black from the section east of Wellington and south of Salt Fork.

Delegates to the state convention, which will be held November 10 to 12 at San Antonio, are Dan Henard, Ruel W. Alexander, J. R. Henard, George L. Roberts, Louis Allred, J. I. Morgan, Ben Farmer, Gus Gooch, W. R. Coleman, Rolan Bryan and Tom Cunningham.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Loys Barbour of Iowa Park, a leader in state Farm Bureau activities.

Pointing out that Farm Bureau policy was bi-partisan, Mr. Barbour pointed to present trends in state and national legislation and outlined the Farm Bureau's stand on each.

He reminded the group that every day, fewer farmers are being called on to feed more and more mouths, and he also reminded them of the proportion of every dollar which goes to labor and the proportion to farmers.

He cited figures to show how many minutes an American must work to earn enough to buy a pound of butter or a loaf of bread or a pair of shoes compared to the time required in other nations, both western and the Soviet Union.

During the business session Farm Bureau members passed five resolutions:

1. Resolved that the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau Federation urge the Texas Farm Bureau Federation to work in the 53rd Texas Legislature that the amendment to gasoline tax rebate law be repealed so that gas dealers can again keep gasoline receipts and exemptions and have the power to prepare gasoline exemption returns.

2. Resolved that the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau Federation urge the Texas Farm Bureau Federation to work in the 53rd Texas Legislature that there be no change in the present gasoline tax law, especially we are against any increase in gas taxes.

3. Resolved that the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau Federation urge the Texas Farm Bureau Federation to work in the 53rd Texas Legislature that we are against taking 1 cent away from bond assumption fund and license tag receipts from counties.

4. Resolved that the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau Federation urge the Texas Farm Bureau Federation to work in the 53rd Texas Legislature that we are in favor of 10 cent minimum natural gas price at the well head.

5. Resolved that the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau Federation urge the Texas Farm Bureau Federation to work in the 53rd Texas Legislature in favor of modication of present school laws to restore to school trustees more local power without changing the standards of the minimum foundation program, and do discourage further mandatory or arbitrary consolidation of our rural schools.

The nineteenth annual state convention of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation will be held Nov. 10-12 at the Plaza Hotel in San Antonio, according to an announcement by Vice-president C. H. DeVaney of Coahoma. Registration starts Sunday, Nov. 9, on the mezzanine floor. The convention proper will get under way Tuesday morning at 9:30.

J. Walter Hammond, president of TFBF, will be unable to attend the meeting this year for the first time in many, many years. The state farm leader is recuperating at his farm at Tye, Texas, after suffering an artery condition Oct. 1 at a meeting of American Farm Bureau board of directors in Chicago.

High on the convention agenda are problems dealing with water legislation, rural roads and many

Parents to Look at Their School

School Observes Education Week Here November 10 to 15

All parents are invited to the open-house Tuesday, November 11 from 7 until 10 p.m. Parents will visit the school that their children attend from 7 until 8:15. Everyone will then meet in the high school auditorium for a program of entertainment by the students.

"The importance of the Public School in our democracy should not be treated lightly," warns Supt. Roberts. We must all actively enter into the school functions to prevent these few people from destroying Free Public Education in America."

During the entertainment program, students from the high school will present a ,'television" program, featuring numbers by a vocal quintet, Tanya Smith, Ruthie McCaskill, Jean Stingel, Fred Alexander and James Frederick LeDerer; and the "Hungry Five," LeDerer, Cynthia Akin, Mary Ann Hunter, Sharon Swift and Harlan Lamkin.

Rockets Play Bobcats There Friday Night

By JAMES GLASSCOCK

Friday night, November 7, the Wellington Skyrockets resume district play when they meet the Childress Bobcats after a week's rest. This will be the second game for the Rockets in district play. It will be the third for the Childress Bobcats. This is the second year the Rockets and the Bobcats have been in district 3-AA.

In last year's game the Bobcats won over Wellington by a score of 21-0. The Rockets will be all-out to win this game because the winner may be the district champ. As of now, there is a three way tie for first place. Wellington, Childress and Shamrock have won all their district games so far.

The Rockets have played one district game. They beat the Memphis Cyclones 19-0. Childress has played two district games. They beat Paducah, and last week beat Memphis 21-7.

Wellington has had one week's rest for this game and they have been working hard on offense and defense. They should be ready for the game.

Coach Maxey McKnight said, Childress has a good running and passing game. They are very versatile and can play a good ball game. They run and pass off the T, split T, and a new formation to most of us. It is known as inside-double wing. All it really is is the spread formation. They also have a good defense.

"We are going to work and work this week," he went on to say.

This will probably be the hardest game for the Rockets in district play except the Shamrock game. The boys are in good spirit and should play an excellent ball game.

Most of the boys are in good condition. Doug Duncan still has a bruised shoulder and by Friday he will be ready to go against Childress. The rest of the team is in good shape after this week's rest.

The Childress team may outweigh the Rockets by about 10 pounds per man in the line but the backfield of Childress weighs about 15 pounds more per man.

Game time in Childress is 8:00 p.m.

Probable line-up:

Ends: Ted Lane and Don Raney.

Tackles: Joe Norman and Sam Wrinkle.

Guards: Carl Eatherly and Ed Liles.

Center: Tom Chestnut.

Backs: La Noel Castleberry, Perry Morren, Billy Browning, and Lindley Davis.

Future Homemakers to Observe National Week

Wellington Future Homemakers have joined with other chapters throughout the nation in observing Future Homemakers of America Week October 2 through 8.

Highlights of the week are the appearance before the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs of the president and vice-president of the chapter, Rugene Black and Ruthie McCaskill.

Special emphasis will be placed on homemaking and the goals of the FHA in classes during the week, Mrs. Harry Leonhardt, vocational homemaking instructor and chapter sponsor, said.

This is the first time that Future Homemakers of America Week has been observed on a national scale. In many chapters, the FHA'ers are staging assembly programs, window displays in stores, family nights, church days, or parties.

The Future Homemakers of America Club was organized in 1944. There are approximately two million members in the United States. The Wellington chapter has 57 members, and it is one of 7,341 as of the latest available figures.

Within the organization, the nation in divided into regions and sub-regions; the states into areas and chapters. The club was organized to be a non-profit youth organization.

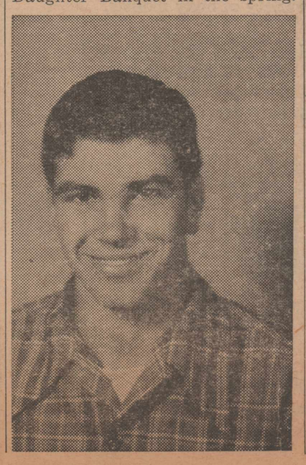

"The main goal of the Future Homemakers of America is to teach its members to learn to live better today so that family living of tomorrow will be greater," Mrs. Leonhardt explained.

The FHA motto, "Toward New Horizons" expresses this purpose. The emblem symbolizes that the future homes of America are in the hands of the youth.

Edward Bawcom, high school junior, recently was selected sweetheart of the Wellington Future Homemaker Chapter. He was selected by the girls on qualities of leadership, friendliness, congeniality and helpfulness.

Bawcom, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bawcom, is active in many organizations. He is a member of the student council, plays right end on the Skyrocket football team, has been a member of the Future Farmers of America for his three years in high school and has held several offices in that organization.

He will be crowned FHA Sweetheart at the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet in the spring.

Voters Here Give Eisenhower Slim Margin; Approve Tax Proposal

By fourteen votes, Collingsworth County favored General Dwight Eisenhower over Governor Adlai Stevenson in the presidential election Tuesday, November 4. They also approved re-allocation of the county tax rate for the next six years, but they voted against both proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Unofficial election returns gave General Eisenhower 1336 votes and Governor Stevenson 1322. In the case of both candidates, several voters had scratched out the name of the vice presidential candidates, Republican Richard Nixon and Democrat John Sparkman.

Voters turned out in larger numbers in this election than for any in many years, and Joe Terry, who has helped hold elections in Wellington's South box for a long period, said it was the largest vote he could remember.

On the tax re-allocation issue, held as a special election along with the general election, voters approved the county's present policy 1816 to 882. This measure carried in every voting box except Lone Mound, the last to report.

With the strange situation of the same state candidates appearing on both the Democratic and Republican ticket, results in the two key races, governor and United States Senator, showed that Governor Shivers received 1801 votes on the Democratic side and 457 Republican votes. Senator Elect Price Daniel got 1865 from the Democrats and 475 from the Republicans.

On the amendments, voters turned down the proposed provision for compensation insurance for municipal employees 404 to 713, and likewise refused the medical education fund 446 to 675.

Voting by boxes in the presidential election included:

South Wellington: Stevenson 385; Eisenhower, 699; North Wellington: Stevenson, 242; Eisenhower, 241; Aberdeen: Stevenson, 48; Eisenhower, 18; Samnorwood, Stevenson, 62, Eisenhower 20; Dodson: Stevenson, 106; Eisenhower 60; Dozier: Stevenson 34; Eisenhower, 37; Abra: Stevenson, 28; Eisenhower, 23; Swearingen: Stevenson, 23; Eisenhower 7; Marella: Stevenson, 32; Eisenhower, 20; Shinnery: Stevenson, 22; Eisenhower 8; Nicholson: Stevenson, 31; Eisenhower, 17; Rolla: Stevenson, 20; Eisenhower, 6; Absentee box: Stevenson, 53; Eisenhower, 76; Quail: Stevenson, 71; Eisenhower, 70; Buck Creek: Stevenson, 21; Eisenhower, 32; Lutie: Stevenson, 64, Eisenhower, 25; Lillie: Stevenson, 32, Eisenhower, 2; Lone Mound: Stevenson, 48; Eisenhower, 24.

In the tax re-allocation issue the vote was: South Wellington, 712; against 443; North Wellington, for, 345; against 111; Aberdeen: for 50, against 8; Samnorwood: for 68, against 18; Dodson: for 128, against 39; Dozier: for 32, against 19; Abra: for 35, against 17; Swearingen: for 19, against 10; Marella: for 39, against 9; Shinnery: for 21, against 8; Nicholson: for 40, against 10; Rolla: for 14, against 9; Absentee: for 91, against 25; Quail: for 75, against 50; Buck Creek: for 32, against 14; Lutie: for 70, against 20; Lillie: for 24, against 11; Lone Mound: for 31, against 39.

Representatives of 4-H Clubs of Collingsworth County will meet Saturday evening, November 8, for their county recognition program in observance of National 4-H Achievement Day, and to organize a county 4-H Federation, Miss Mary Trammel, county home demonstration agent, has announced.

County Judge R. L. Templeton will be the guest speaker, and each of the four schools in the county is asked to furnish one number from its 4-H Clubs for entertainment.

Awarding of county and state 4-H medals will be a part of the program.

For the organization of the county federation, each club will be allowed 5 voting delegates who will elect the federation officers, Miss Trammel said. These voting delegates should be the president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, song leader and game leader or their alternates.

Following the election of officers, there will be recognition of parents, leaders and friends who support the 4-H program.

The public is invited to be present at this meeting, which will be held at the community building at 7:00 p.m.

Floyd Lynch, state 4-H Club leader for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, says the 1952 Achievement Day culminates the work for the year of 117,000 members in nearly 5,000 4-H Clubs in Texas.

"Serving as Loyal Citizens Through 4-H" has been the 1952 theme and November 8 be achievement day for the Club members of the state. Recognition will be given the work done by individuals and clubs, as well as to parents, 4-H leaders and friends who support their activities.

"If you are familiar with 4-H Club members and their activities in your community, you will enjoy being their guests on November 8 at 7:00 p.m. in the community building in Wellington for their recognition program. If you are not familiar with 4-H Club work and the young persons in your community, November 8 will be a good time for you to take notice of their activities," Miss Trammel said.

$100 to Department

Cicero Smith Host to Firemen Monday Night

Firemen from Childress and Wellington will be honored at a steak supper Monday, November 10, by the Cicero Smith Lumber Company. This supper is in recognition of the work which the men of these two departments did in controlling the fire which destroyed part of the Wellington yard buildings last winter, Ben Hurst, manager, announced.

The supper will be given at the community building beginning at 8:00 p.m.

Additional guests will be men not members of the department who joined the firemen in fighting the blaze.

"Our company is continually grateful to the men of the Wellington department, those others who volunteered their services, and the group from Childress for the fine work they did. They worked under severe handicaps, and it was because they did such a fine job that they were able to bring the fire under control as soon as they did. This supper is one way we can say 'thank you' to these men," Mr. Hurst said.

Mrs. C. M. Aaron is in charge of the supper.

It was also announced at this time that J. Lee Johnson III, vice president and general manager of the company, has presented the Wellington and Childress fire departments with $100 each on behalf of Cicero Smith Lumber Co. The money is to be spent by the departments as they see fit.

In presenting the money, Mr. Johnson wrote Fire Chief Bura Handley and Fire Chief John Belew as follows:

"We hope that you and all your boys will be at the supper, since this is just a small means of expressing our sincere appreciation to all of you for the splendid work you did last December saving so much of our property from the effects of the fire.

"We also enclose herein our check in the sum of $100.00 with the hope that your Fire Department can find some good use for this money either for the purchase of needed equipment or for something beneficial to members of your department. In other words, simply use it to benefit your very able Fire Department."

Succeeds Cameron Beam

Bill Hughes New WTCC Director From County

Bill Hughes, ranch manager of the Mill Iron Ranches, has been named Wellington director for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Cameron Beam, who has served in this capacity for 12 years, it was announced this week by Clark Anderson, president of the Wellington Chamber of Commerce.

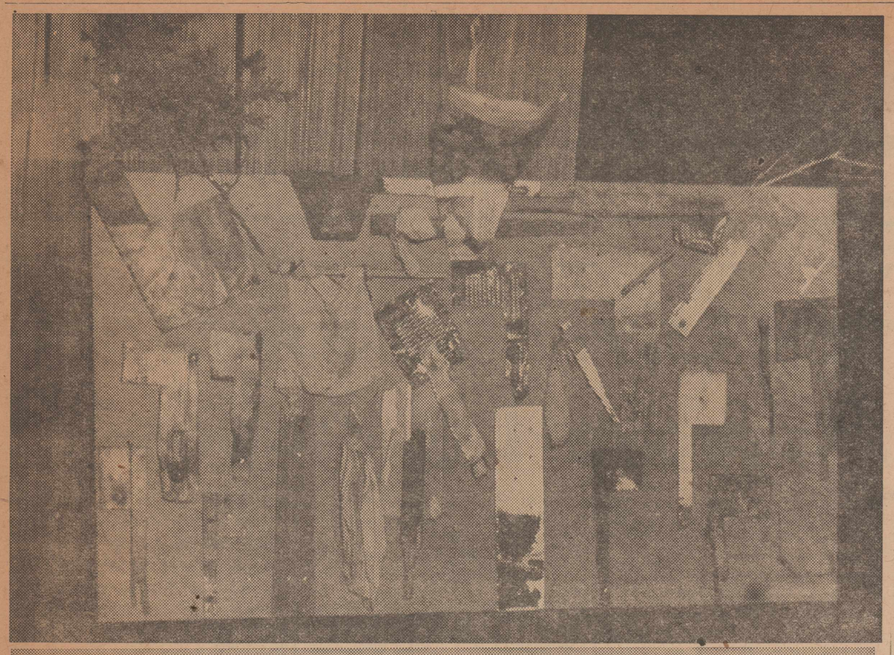

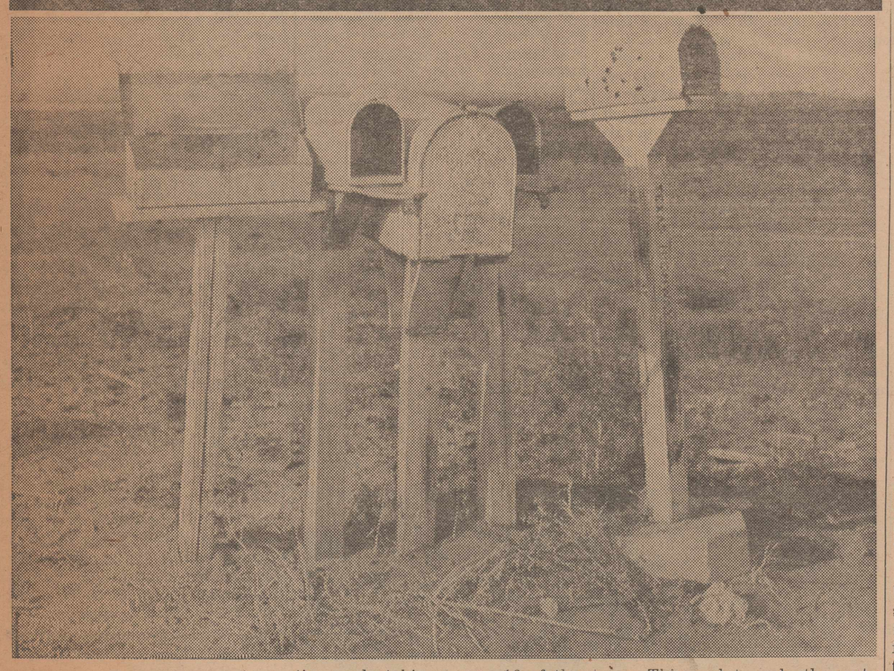

Mr. Hughes has served as a director of the local Chamber of Commerce three terms and has been active in its work from the time of organization.

He has been a county resident since January 15, 1946, and prior to that, except for service in the Navy, his home was in Denver, Colorado, where he was a member of the Colorado Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Beam's work has been concentrated on enlarging membership in the WTCC in Wellington, as well as in pushing the organization's program of work for West Texas.

He is also a former director of merce and a long-time member of the Wellington Chamber of Comthe group.

R. Martin Williams, Rural Mail Carrier Transfers to Ky.

Mrs. Lela Maxwell, postmaster at Quail, has announced that R. Martin Williams, rural carrier on Quail, Route 1, has transferred to Anchorage, Kentucky. He had been here for the past eight years.

He will be succeeded at Quail by George Emanuel, formerly of Anchorage, who is a veteran of World War II and who is coming here through the advice of his doctor that this altitude and dry climate will helpful to a sinus ailment.

Mr. Williams' new route is in a wealthy suburban area near Louisville, Ky., and he will have among his patrons the governor of the state. It is an all paved route.

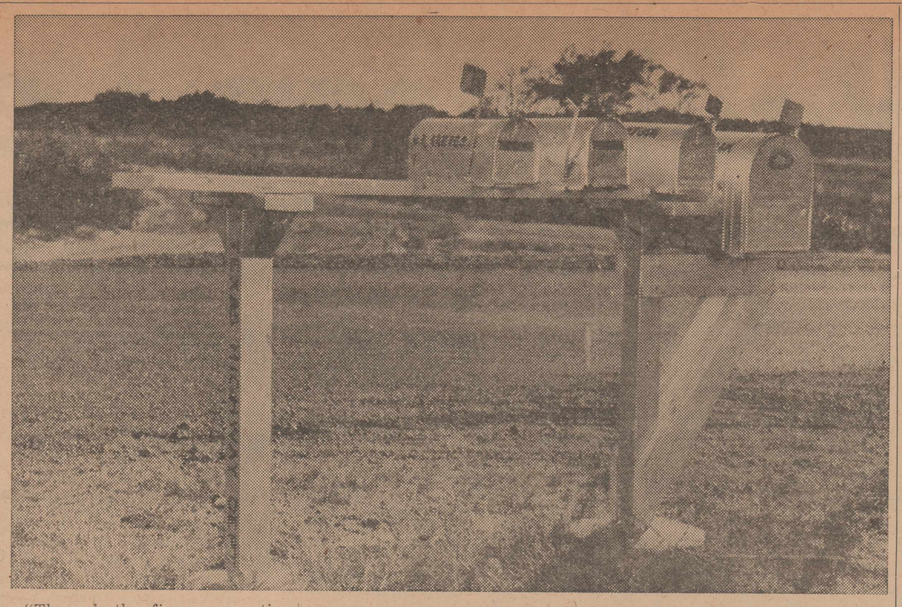

Before leaving, Mr. Williams reviewed the progress made on his route during the time he has served as carrier:

"Eight years ago about 25 boxes on the paved road complied with the post office regulations for rural route boxes, and of the remaining 100 boxes, only five were actually qualified to receive service."

The carrier replaced on his own time and at his expense 16 of the worst boxes with new ones, replacing one box a second time, and put over 30 metal flags instead of makeshift flags, furnished about 60 posts, painted all boxes two or three times, and paid for having the patrons names painted on their boxes. This work to make the route a 100 per cent route was not required of the carrier. All boxes are served from the left side of the car, and those on the pavement are turned away from the slab and the carrier drives back of them.

"Through the fine co-operation of the patrons and business firms in this trade territory about 98 per cent of the mail comes correctly addressed to route and box number. The patrons buy their stamps in advance of mailing, 25c to $1.00 at a time, have their money order applications made out before the carrier arrives. All of this speeds up delivery so that now all the patrons receive their mail before noon instead of 1:30 as was the schedule eight years ago," Mr. Williams said.

"The accompanying photographs show a part of the makeshift flags that were replaced with metal flags that will raise and lower without cutting your hand. The second photograph shows a group of boxes before they were remounted on a plank, painted and one flat top box replaced. The third picture shows the same boxes after the change was made."

Forage Needed For Dairy Cows

COLLEGE STATION — The hot, dry weather has upset hay and silage plans on many dairy farms, and dairymen will lose efficiency in production if they fail to supply these basic needs. According to Richard E. Burleson, dairy husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, every effort should be made to obtain one or two tons for each cow in the herd.

He reports that, Texas A. & M. College dairymen got good results from feeding a silo of immature Atlas sorghum which was ensiled last summer before it had headed. Although no preservative was added, the silage proved to be of excellent quality and cows pushed aside good leafy alfalfa hay in the feed troughs to get it.

This appears to be conclusive evidence that there is little to goin by allowing sorghums to make seed before ensiling except to get increased tonnage and grain.

When drouth conditions cause the sorghum crop to burn before reaching the soft dough stage, the crop should be ensiled promptly. Much better quality silage is obtained by ensiling green material without adding water than is obtained by ensiling dry material and addition water.

Water should never be added to silage unless the material is too dry to pack without it, Burleson advises.

Billion and Half Needed For Texas Highways

AUSTIN — Texas needs $1,570,000,000 to bring its highways up to adequate standard of safety and utility, according to recent studies of the State Highway Department.

This program would permit completion of the present farm-to-market road system of 35,000 miles, with all gaps and fillers, at a cost of $228,872,000 according to the Texas Good Roads Association, which is sponsoring a movement for the modernization of the entire state's system.

This almost equals the $289,896,000 needed for the primary system. Arterial highways would amount to more than $1 billion.

It would take more than $2 billion to replace the present highway system of Texas, which totals approximately 44,000 miles. Present highway income is slightly in excess of $100 million annually from gasoline tax and automobile registration fees. Maintenance work requires almost half of that amount, leaving insufficient funds for complete modersization of roads.

Texas has always used a pay-as-you-go system, which means there is no debt against its highway system.

One of 18 Drivers In Accidents Has Physical Defect

CHICAGO — There was something wrong physically with one out of every 18 drivers involved in the 32,500 fatal motor vehicle accidents last year, according to the National Safety Council.

In "Accident Facts" the Council's statistical yearbook, which is just off the press, three-fifths of these defects were listed as fatigue and sleeping while driving.

One out of every nine pedestrians willed by motor vehicles had physical defect. Defective eyesight was reported in more than one-fourth of these cases, defective hearing in one-tenth, and illness or other bodily defects in the remaining three-fifths.

FUTURE FARMER TEAMS COMPETE IN DISTRICT LEADERSHIP CONTESTS

Wellington FFA teams will compete in the district leadership contests of the Greenbelt District, to be held in Memphis Saturday, November 15, M. L. Burks, chapter advisor, has announced.

Pioneer Resident Visits in County

Mrs. T. T. Fain of Canyon came last week to visit in the home of her sister, Mrs. L. T. Alexander of Wellington, who is convalescing from a serious illness, and with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Fain of Lutie.

Mrs. Fain, who was one of the pioneer settlers of this county, has recently returned from a trip to the Pacific Northwest, which she made by air. At Takoma, Wash., she visited her brother, L. A. Winney, who is also known to old timers here. She also visited a niece at Portland, Oregon and a nephew at Port Blakeley.

News of Men in Service

Lt. Eddie Bassel of Hollis who has been serving in Korea, with the Air Force, has returned home and received his discharge from service.

He is the son-in-law of Mrs. Fred Watkins.

Bassel, a member of the 45th Division National Guard Unit at Hollis which was mobilized to active duty, has been flying helicopters and light planes.

Marine Burl Brim is in Nevada for a short period of intensive training in winter warfare, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brim, said this week. He will return to Camp Pendleton, Calif., and from there is is due to leave for service in Korea.

Safety Movement Organized in 1913

CHICAGO — Death and taxes may be inevitable — but the experts are beating the former.

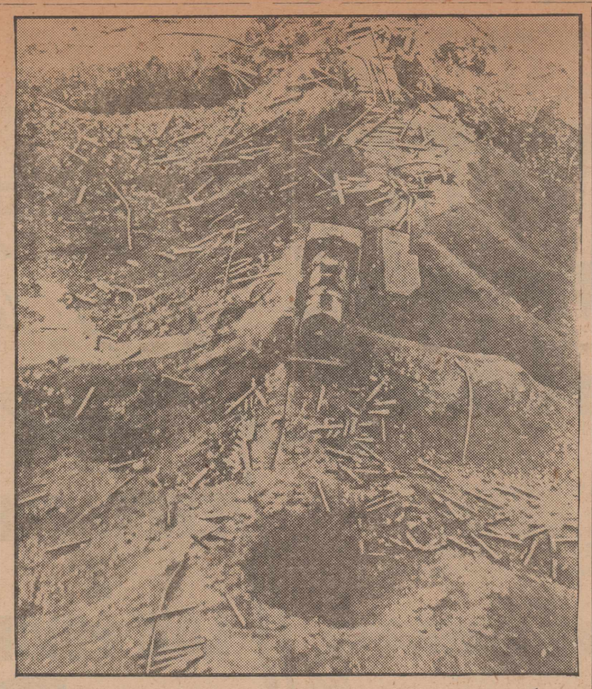

Since 1913, the year of the formal organization of the safety movement, about 500,000 persons have been saved from accidental deaths.

From 1900 until 1913 an average of nearly 75,000 persons were killed in accidents each year — a rate of 85 deaths per 100,000 population. The toll would have reached 84,000 persons in 1914 if this rate had continued, but it was reduced to 79 and the death toll to 77,000 — a saving of about 7,000 lives. Similar comparisons based on rates for succeeding years show that about half a million lives were saved by 1951.

Despite these accomplishments, "Accidents Facts," the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, just off the press, shows that one home in every five is touched by a serious accident each year.

"No Housing Shortage Here!"

ALL OUT OF TOOT—This badly battered North Korean locomotive hasn't enough steam left to go out on a toot nor the track to run on since being clobbered by U. S. Navy fighter-bombers of Carrier Task Force 77. As is apparent, the pilots flying interdiction missions against Red transportation facilities, were very methodic in reducing the rail line to rubble.

Minerals, Vitamins Needed by Hogs

COLLEGE STATION — Swine producers who feed their animals on rations deficient in minerals and vitamins can expect trouble. This warning comes from E. M. Regenbrecht, swine husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The trouble, he adds, will show up in the form of stunted pigs and in severe cases death losses will occur.

One of the most common of these deficiency diseases in hogs is leg weakness, down in the back, paralysis of the rear parts of rickets. There is a common misunderstanding among many hog raisers that these troubles are caused by kidney worms. This, according to Regenbrecht, is not the case and the trouble can be prevented by proper feeding.

It is a sound management practice to keep a good mineral mixture before hogs of all age, he says. The cost of minerals is small because hogs eat only a limited amount. The specialist suggests the following as a good mineral mixture. Two pounds of limestone or oyster shell flour; two pounds of bone meal; one pound of iodized salt and one-tenth pound of iron sulphate. If limestone or oyster shell flour cannot be obtained, then use four pounds of bone meal.

He says about two pounds of this mixtures should be fed with every 100 pounds of feed. This mineral supplement can be mixed with the feed or fed in a separate mineral box where the hogs have access to it at all times.

Vitamin A is the one victim that is most often lacking in the hog ration, says Regenbrecht. This vitamin has never been successfully stabilized in stored feed and even though it has been added to the feed, feeders cannot be sure that it is in the feed in sufficient quantities. Good, green, succlent pastures are the best source of this vitamin and Regenbrecht points out that every hog producer should make every possible effort to have year-round grazing for his hog herd. Too, he adds, good pastures can save about 50 per cent of the protein supplement and also considerable grain.

Of course, he adds, vitamins other than vitamin A are needed in the ration. These are supplied if a complete ration is being fed and if the ration materials are high in quality.

Hogs need comfortable surroundings if they are to do well during the hot summer months, and Regenbrecht says that in addition to good feed and pasture, they need plenty of clean, cool water and a ventilated shade. A concrete hog-wallow will soon pay for itself in the summer time. Hogs must be kept in top condition if they are to make profitable gains. The care producers give their growing pigs during the summer months will determine whether or not the pigs go to market at a profit early in the fall before the heavy marketing season begins.

Carbon Monoxide Kills 1,000 Yearly

CHICAGO — Carbon monoxide poisoning, caused by gas leaks or incomplete combustion of gas in defective home appliances, kills about 1,000 persons every year, according to "Accident Facts," the statistical yearbook of the National Safety Council, just off the press.

New York City alone reported 222 deaths from accidental and undetermined carbon monoxide in 1950. An inspection of 22,328 apartments in older areas covered 11,056 appliances which were leaking raw gas, were otherwise dangerous, or were in bad repair. Of these appliances 8,085 were gas ranges and 2,140 were gas refrigerators.

During a 10-year period, from 1940 through 1949, there were 2,442 accidental gas poisonings in New York City and 40 per cent of these deaths occurred among persons 65 or more years old. Aged, infirm persons, living alone in small rooms tightly closed to maintain warmth, are the most frequent victims.

Wellington Asked To Have Day at Fat Stock Show

Wellington has been invited to have a special day at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show. The letter received by the Chamber of Commerce was written by W. R. Watt, president-manager of the Fort Worth exposition. The invitation says:

"Out here at the Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum we are busy with plans for the 1953 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, the '52 show was, in many ways, a record-breaker. This was made possible only through your splendid cooperation.

"We hope to present a still better show, Jan. 30 through Feb. 8, and to do this we need your help. Your city is invited to have a special 'day'. Name a Cowgirl Sweetheart, bring the band and a whoopingly enthusiastic caravan of citizens displaying badges and hat-bands to publicize your city and your own rodeo, fair or other civic enterprise. You will all enjoy the trip and the publicity department will do its best to give advance publicity to your plans.

"The Stock Show is yours — serving the livestock industry of the Southwest since 1896. We are counting on you and are awaiting your reply."

Letters From The PEOPLE

Nov. 4, 1952

Dear Wellington Leader:

I got my first copy of the Leader last week at 1309 Herman St. We have got located, so please send to the above address.

I read the little piece in the Leader about our move. To be exact Mr. Fritts was working out of Amarillo, but not as a traveling salesman, but he has work in Amarillo now.

I had been a correspondent for the Leader 33 years, to be exact. I first wrote Salt Fork news in the fall of 1919, and early 1920, I began to write Plymouth news in 1921, and wrote news in Eastland county from the time I was 15 years of age.

To say I miss looking for some news each Monday, I enjoyed doing so.

Mr. Fritts' family came to Collingsworth county in March of 1906. And we had lived all our 32 years of married life on our little farm 3 miles south of Norwood.

So you see we will have fond memories of that little place.

H. C. Morrow farms our farm. It will take time to adjust ourselves to city life.

Thanks for the many kindnesses shown me as a correspondent.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. C. W. Fritts

Halloween Party For Church Group

The "Olhers" class of the Glenn Davis Memorial church of Dozier entertained the members of the church school with a Halloween party Wednesday evening, October 29.

The guests were admitted at the door by Ching How Chow and ushered into a veritable land of mystery and horror, where they were greeted by black bats, skeletons, witches, and grinning jack-o'lanterns.

The receiving line contained a witch, a gypsy fortune teller, a pirate and a little red devil. Later in the evening the little red devil was frightened by himself and ran away.

Prizes were given to the best spooks and the winner of the doughnut pushing race.

The party was ended by each of the fifty guests having their fortunes told and being served hob goblin sandwiches, gold cookies, mystery candy and witches brew.

Farm Leases Need Revision

COLLEGE STATION — Tenant operations are still an important part of Texas agriculture Some 30 per cent of all Texas farms are operated by tenants. Like most other farming practices, says C. H. Bates, farm management specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, many leasing arrangements are out-of-date.

He points out that lease arrangements set up for cash-crop systems of farming do not fit the situations brought about by the shifts to livestock production. Therefore, new rental agreements are needed between the tenants and landlords that clearly define the part each is to play in this livestock-crop system of farming.

During the past several years farm management specialists from the southern states, cooperating with those from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, have been studying the existing rental arrangements and seeking possible solutions to tenure problems. The economists have found that both tenants and landlords improve their lot when leases are used that really cover present day farming and livestock production. The use of up-to-date leasing arrangements meant more income to both tenants and landowners as well as better soil maintenance and improvement programs.

The latest findings of the cooperating economists are reported in the publication "Rental Arrangements for Progressive Farming" which is available at your local county agent's office. Other material on the subject of rental agreements, prepared by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Extension Service, are also available.

Bates says the specialists, through studies and actual experience, have come to the conclusion that a good rental agreement should always be written. It should cover more than a single year or contain an automatic renewal clause. It should specify how the expenses, upkeep and labor as well as income are to be shared. It should encourage the tenant to produce livestock as well as crops wherever possible and profitable. Finally the lease should provide for permanent improvements on the land and in the home.

Bates believes the use of rental agreement containing the above items will improve landlord-tenant relations and add stability to the agricultural economy in the areas where farms are operated by tenants.

LONE STAR Agriculture

Released by The Texas Department of Agriculture

By John C. White, Commissioner

THE TEXAS CONSUMER

Many thousands of dollars are lost by the Texas consumer each year because of faulty scales and measuring devices. The farmer doesn't get his full 100 pounds of feed, the housewife's pound of meat is an ounce or two short and the motorist fails to receive a full gallon of gasoline.

But the consumer isn't the only one who loses out on transactions based on inaccurate units. The merchant stands an equal chance of loss from devices which have accidentally slipped out of adjustment.

The Weights and Measures Division of the Texas Department of Agriculture is now engaged in the annual blanket check of all commercial scales and measuring units of the state. Ten inspectors are making a circuit tour of Texas in an intensive effort to assure the customer and the dealer of a fair share in all transactions. The job is expected to be completed by midsummer — and the results, thus far, are encouraging.

Last year, an average of one out of every five scales was found to be in poor working order or out of adjustment. And an average of one out of every 4 1/2 gasoline pumps was giving an inaccurate measure of fuel. Preliminary reports from inspection this year reveal that the ratio of improvement may be as high as 93 per cent. This is due, in part, by the constant inspection program maintained by the department, in addition to cooperation between city and state weights and measures divisions.

A relatively small percentage of cases are found to be deliberate fraud and these are vigorously prosecuted. Most violations are the result of careless scale and equipment maintenance. Essentially, the inspection program is not a police action to ferret out criminals, but a service of government for the protection of all persons.

The really alarming ration of dollars lost is in the purchase of commodities weighed and packaged in stores such as lunch meat, fresh meat, cheeses and fryers. About every other package checked by inspectors is incorrect as to weight. Approximately 35 percent of these are overweight and the remainder underweight.

But these figures do not necessarily reflect on the honesty of the merchant. The commodities can be properly marked and then placed under refrigeration where shrinkage is bound to occur. Any package that has been in cooling compartment more than 24 hours is almost certain to be wrongly marked. The only solution would be to require merchants to reweigh the goods every day. This would be a tremendous job for some of our super markets.

The most practical solution is for the purchaser to request the packaged goods be re-checked at the cashier's stand where he can pay for the current weight.

It is partly up to the consumer to see that he gets a full weight and measure of goods. Any person who suspects faulty transactions should report them to the Texas Department of Agriculture in Austin. A check will be made at once.

Fewer Accidents On Friday 13th

CHICAGO — Afraid to start a trip on Friday the 13th?

Actually, says the National Safety Council, fewer people are killed or injured in traffic accidents on Friday the 13th than on Saturday the 14th — for the simple reason that there is more traffic on Saturday than on Friday.

"Accident Facts," the Council's statistical yearbook, which is just off the press, shows that 21 per cent of the 32,500 fatal motor vehicle accidents last year occurred on Saturdays.

Sunday was second highest, with 19 per cent of the fatal accidents. Then came Friday with 14 per cent. Monday and Wednesday each had 12 per cent of the fatal accidents, and Tuesday and Thursday 11 per cent.

Saturday also led the list last year for all motor vehicle accidents, including those causing property damage as well as injury, with 19 per cent occurring on that day. Sunday was next with 16 per cent.

Profession An Accident Factor

CHICAGO — If you drive a car your chances of being involved in an accident may depend on how you earn your living. The reason is that you drive more in some jobs, and when you drive more, you have more chances for an accident.

"Accident Facts," the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, which is just off the press, lists the following classifications of workers and their percentages of traffic accidents:

Professional and business men, 9 per cent fatal accidents; 10 per cent, all accidents.

Farmers and farm laborers, 14 per cent fatal accidents; 9 per cent all accidents.

Clerical, sales, etc., 5 per cent fatal accidents; 10 per cent all accidents.

Commercial drivers (including traveling salesmen), 21 per cent fatal accidents; 16 per cent all accidents.

All other workers (excluding domestic servants), 32 per cent fatal accidents; 36 per cent all accidents.

Housewives and domestic servants, 5 per cent fatal accidents; 7 per cent all accidents.

Military personnel, 6 per cent fatal accidents; 4 per cent all accidents.

Students, 6 per cent fatal accidents; 6 per cent all accidents.

All others, 2 per cent fatal accidents; 2 per cent all accidents.

Persons classified as "all other workers" (drivers and non-drivers- make up about half of all workers, the Council said.

A Texas oil man divorced his wife because she kissed him only when she asked for money. Gosh, isn't that often enough!

Don't you suppose the weaker sex is often the stronger sex because of the weakness of the stronger sex for the weakness sex?

"DUCKY" DECOY—Happily checking their score sheet of Communist snipers are Marine T/Sgt. John E. Boitnoot, left, of Chicago, and Pfc. Henry A. Friday, Nikoosa, Wis. Acting as a decoy, Friday stood on a hill and let the Reds shoot at him. From concealment Boitnoot picked off the then exposed snipers. The week before their company commander called a halt to the novel experiment the boys got nine Communists.

Norwood Teams Meet Granite Friday Night

The Samnorwood basketball teams will meet the Granite, Oklahoma teams in a double header Friday night, November 7, at 7:30, Orville Cunningham, superintendent, announced this week.

This will be the first game since school was resumed following the cotton picking vacation.

"Granite has had some strong teams in the past, and the Eagles and Eaglettes have been playing games during the time school was out. We believe we can promise you a fast, spirited ball game that will keep you on the edge of your seats," Mr. Cunningham said.

The Samnorwood gym underwent considerable repair during the time school was out, and the floor was refinished and put in top condition.

Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note. Like everybody else, the Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek is talking about the election, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editar:

I've heard a lot of people say they're tired of the Presidential race and they'll be glad when it's over, it's been too bitter, too much wranglin, too many lies being told, maybe too much truth, too much dissension among friends, too much time wasted, too many radio programs interfered with, too many good murders crowded off the front page, but I do not look at it that way.

I'll admit the campaign started a little early and the candidates got to the name-callin stage too soon and it's gettin a little dull, after all, after you reach the climax and call your opponent a liar, there's nothing much left to say, and if you call him one too early in the campaign you have to spend the last three weeks just repeatin yourself. All the shock value is gone out of your charges and a man is almost reduced in the home stretch to runnin on his own merits and in lots of cases there ain't nothing more borin than that, regardless of how much merit you got.

But on the whole the campaign has been pretty good. Believe there have been more new ways invested for callin the other fellow a liar than I've ever remembered, more real ingenuity and evidence of some real thinkin in that field, there've been more predictions of disaster than I can remember, more promises of plenty, more concern for the future of the country and more assurances of how to protect it than I've ever encountered. There are people who say democracy is worn out, but when democracy can stand a dog fight like the one we're about to emerge from and keep right on goin, there ain't nothin seriously wrong with it.

And three or four days after the election, after the enthusiasm of one side and the disappointment of the other has worn off and the bets have been collected, things will settle back down and the campaign will be about as interestin as a last year's football game.

I ain't predictin how it will come out, but it might not be a bad idea for both candidates to be givin some thought not only to a victory statement but to a telegram of congratulations to the other one.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Violation of Speed Regulations Accident Factor

CHICAGO — The faster you go, the harder you hit!

Excessive speed was a factor in 35 per cent of the nation's 37,300 motor vehicle deaths last year, according to "Accidents Facts," the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, just off the press.

Twenty-eight per cent of the drivers involved in these accidents were reported violating some speed regulation. Fourteen per cent exceeded the stated speed limit, 5 per cent exceeded safe speeds although traveling under the stated limit, and 9 per cent violated safe speeds in areas where there was no stated limit.

They celebrated at the depot the other day because old No. 6 came is on time. Then they discovered the train was a day late.

Bloat Control Important With Spring Pasture

Once a locomotive engineer became annoyed at hearing the steam safety valve pop off — tied it down and sat on it.

You, too, may be "tying down a safety valve" if you pasture cattle on young, lush legumes without adequate coarse forage or dry roughage, livestock authorities point out.

Even among blue blooded aristocrats of the cattle hardbooks belching is not only socially acceptable but a real necessity. Gas formation is a constant by-product of the work of micro-organisms which live in the cow's paunch and help her digest feed Bloat occurs only when that gas is trapped in the paunch and is not relieved by belching.

Many factors related to bloating may not yet be understood. But, nutrition scientists agree that feeding a coarse roughage with sharp edges "tickles" the lining of the paunch and stimulates belching. Dangerous, acute bloat does not occur as long as cattle are belching freely. This is why it is always a good management practice to be sure that cattle are filled well on dry roughage before starting legume grazing, and to feed at least small amounts of dry roughage as long as the legumes are soft and fast growing.

Any palatable dry roughage available is usually quite satisfactory. Most feeders is cotton-growing areas prefer cottonseed hulls because they are easy to feed without waste and appear to be especially well adapted to preventing bloat because of their many sharp irregular edges and their capacity for water absorption. Also, hulls are easily mixed with cottonseed meal, molasses or other ingredients which add sufficient palatability to insure the cattle eating enough roughage.

Special attention is needed the first day the cattle are turned on young legume pasture. Be sure the cattle are well filled on roughage or more mature pasture forage. See that plenty of palatable water is available before the cattle start grazing. Mid-day or early afternoon is a better time to start grazing than early morning. Always avoid starting grazing when the young legumes are covered with dew or wet from rain. It is sometimes best to let the cattle graze only a short time the first day if they appear to be eating heavily. If cattle are removed from the young legume grazing, the same precautions must be observed in starting them back on the legumes.

Pasture mixtures which contain some grasses are much less likely to cause bloat because the sharp grass blades are inclined to perform some of the same function as that of dry roughage. Some cattle and sheep raisers do not attempt to graze legumes when they are exceptionally tender. However, when bloat may be prevented, early grazing is usually advisable.

Self-feeding cottonseed hulls or other dry roughage usually insures satisfactory consumption to prevent bloat and also avoids the "washy" digestive condition frequently associated with young forage. Five to ten percent of either cottonseed meal or molasses may be added to increase palatability.

Chronic bloaters and other exceptional cases which do not respond to the usual bloat prevention practices require specail attention. Sticking an animal with a knife or trochar may become necessary to prevent death but should be the last resort. A halter with a stick tied in the mouth may induce belching. A stomach tube or rubber hose may sometimes be passed down the throat to relieve gas pressure. Your veterinarian may recommend other emergency measures.

Never Too Late To Learn

COLLEGE STATION — Knowledge and skills can be acquired at all ages. People continue to learn when they develop habits of mental alertness and keep up with the times.

Eloise Johnson, specialist in family life education with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says investigations show that the ability to learn seems to reach its peak at about the age of 25. Then it drops slowly until at the age of 45 the ability to learn is about the same as it was at 18. After 40 the learning capacity drops slowly, about one per cent or less each year.

Older people do learn and can acquire skills as well as young people, but adults over 40 take longer to acquire new ideas. Mrs. Johnson says skills are learned in later life as easily as in adolescence. Within limits, ability, interest, energy and opportunity are more important factors in learning than age. The ability to solve problems often improves with age. Whenever knowledge of ways to do things is important, then the older person's erperience is valuable.

People should be learning continually if they are to grow older graciously. This means acqquiring dignity. patience, unselfishness, tolerance and sympathetic understanding for others. It means building the kind of personality which is a source of strength to others as well as a source of strength to the inner self against stress and strain of living.

Mrs. Johnson says that older people have a contribution to make to society. They must be made to feel useful and to know they do have worthwhile contributions to make. As the world faces more adjusted people with experience, knowledge and judgment are needed. People who continue to learn as they become older have these qualities and by example, give courage to others.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

TEXAS POLL TAX REQUIREMENTS OUTLINED

During the past few months, citizens all over the United States have been exhorted by printed, radio or movie advertisements to be sure to "Register" in order to be eligible to vote in the November 4 election. To many Texans these ads have been confusing, some of them wondering whether the new Election Code passed by the last session of the Legislature may have contained some requirement regarding registration.

This confusing situation has arisen because in a large number of states registration has replaced the poll tax. National get-out-the vote campaigns were planned with the requirements of the "registration states" in mind, and campaign advertisements circulated in "poll tax states" along with the others.

Registration is not required by the Texas Election Code. Unless you fall within specified statutory exceptions, you must still have a poll tax receipt in order to vote. In some but not all cases persons exempt from payment of the poll tax must obtain exemption certificates from their County Tax Collector.

Under Texas law a poll tax is not just a license to vote, even though it is a requirement of voting. It is a tax which the statutes say shall be collected from every person between the ages of twenty-one and sixty years, who resides in this State on the first day of January preceding the levy of the tax.

Indians are not taxed, nor persons insane, blind, deaf or dumb. Those who have lost a hand or foot, those permanently disabled, and all disabled veterans of foreign wars (where such dsability is forty per cent, or more) are excepted from the payment of a poll tax.

Those who are exempt from the payment of a poll tax, and who reside in a city of ten thousand inhabitants or more, must secure a certificate from the Tax Collector of their County of residence before the first day of February of the year when such taxpayer shall become entitled to said exemption.

This exemption is good for one year. A new exemption must be secured for each year. Certificates of exemption are issued without cost to the person entitled to receive the same.

Those who reside in cities of less than ten thousand inhabitants are not required to secure this certificate of exemption before voting. These may make proof of their exemption at the time of voting to the presidisg judge of the election where they are qualified by residence to vote.

Spectacular Rise In Texas Metal Output in Decade

AUSTIN — A spectacular increase in Texas' output of metals has been witnessed in the past 10 years, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

Wide diversity of metals produced in the State is cited by Stanley A. Arbingast, Bureau assistant director, in an article on "Metals Indusries in Texas" in the monthly Texas Business Review.

Texas now smelts or refines aluminum, magnesiom, tin, antimony, iron, copper, lead, zinc and cadmium (a by-product of zinc smelting). Small amounts of indium, gold, silver and other metals are recovered during certain smelting operations, but these recoveries are minor.

"A recent addition to the list of Texas metal products is manganese," Arbingast pointed out. "It was announced this year that two plants to process and concentrate this valuable ferro-alloy would be built in the State, one by the Tenn-Tex Alloy and Chemical Corporation, at a site on the Houston Ship Channel, and the other by Texas International Manganese Corporation in Brownsville."

Dow Chemical Company is now carrying on research in West Texas to discover whether sub-surface brines of that section are suitable for production of magnesium and certain other chemicals, Arbingast said.

She said that she was just a little pebble on the beach of his life, so he asked her to be a little boulder.

The Miller Bell Tower marks the location of famed Chautauqua Institution on the shore of Lake Chautauqua, where "education and recreation meet" during the vacation season. Organized in 1872, the institution is now operated in conjunction with New York University, and features a daily schedule of opera, drama and other cultural activities.

Maintenance Big Highway Factor

AUSTIN — If Texas could spend all its highway income on construction of new highways it would have a system of new roads unequaled anywhere.

Maintenance, however, is becoming such a factor in use of highway revenue that it is eating fast into the total amount of money paid by the highway users, according to a study of the Texas Good Roads Association just released.

In 1952 road maintenance will take some $42 million out of the $120 million total that will be available to the highway department, according to the figures.

"It must be remembered that we have many hundreds of miles of highways, built back in the Model T days, that are now carrying from 2,000 to 4,000 automobiles a day," said General Ike Ashburn, executive vice-president of TGRA.

"The speed of the automobiles is twice as great and the load limit for trucks is eight times as great. This beats down these old roads unmercifully and the maintenance cost is high," he said.

Highway planners also point to the dwindling dollar value. A dollar of highway money, like any other dollar, is worth less than half what it was when the roads were built.

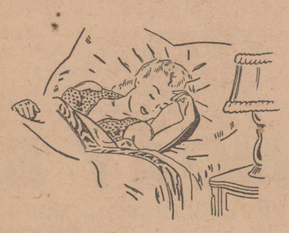

He said he was so old he could remember when the big dipper was just a drinking cup.

A dollar may not go very far, but usually it travels far enough so that it never finds its way back.

Built Homes With Eye To Safety

COLLEGE STATION — Home accidents are costing Americans over $600,000,000, annually in wage loss, medical expense and insurance overhead.

Thousands of new homes have been built in the last few years with little or no attention given to the elimination of accident hazards. This failure almost guarantees to make accident statistics out of the occupants.

Families planning to build should check house plans carefully for every possible hazard so they can be removed before they are built in.

Bernice Claytor, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says watch the slant of the stairs and be sure there are hand railings on all stairs inside and out; use adequate insulation around furnaces, pipes, fireplaces and chimneys; have sufficient numbers of wall plugs; install electric wall switches at top and bottom of stairs and in bathrooms; arrange kitchen equipment for elimination of fatigue; build adequate storage and closet space for family needs, especially utility and cleaning closets; have medicine chests which can be kept locked and out of reach of children.

If remodeling is planned, Mrs. Claytor says watch carefully and get expert advice so that accident causes are built out of your home. The majority of women do their own housework. If there are children, more hours are spent in the kitchen. So make the kitchen efficient as well as eye appealing.

Greater efficiency means less fatigue. The burden of fatigue often leads to an accident.

Inside stairs are seldom changed once they are built, but the addition of good lighting, carpeting and hand railings can reduce accident hazards.

There are many ideas for securing more storage and closet space in an old house; such as building in cabinets under slanting roofs or hanging wall cabinets for storage of out-of-season items or building them in unused corners.

For information on building a new home or for remodeling contact the local county Extension agents.

Co-operation Asked in Garbage Collection Work

The City of Wellington is needing the cooperation of all residents in carrying out its trash and garbage collection program, Bura Handley, city manager, said this week.

Co-operation has been excellent so far since the city inaugurated its program of increasing the water rate minimum to $2.00 and eliminating the garbage collection fee, but at the same time making it town-wide in coverage.

Many residents, however, do not have suitable containers for putting their garbage in so that it may be lifted into the collection truck, Mr. Handley pointed out, and this is where more cooperation is needed.

Recepticles may be regular garbage cans, barrels, tubs, are any of a number of containers, but they must not weigh more than 75 pounds when filled.

The city has available a number of 55 gallon oil drums with the head cut out, which it will deliver anywhere in town for $2.75, Mr. Handley said. This is about cost on the barrels.

"The city is not trying to sell you a barrel, for we don't care where you get your recepticle, but we are making these available for those who want them," he said.

"In order to do the job of keeping Wellington clean that we want to do, we will need the cooperation of every householder in this matter," he continued.

Mr. Handley added that in disposing of such things as tree branches, these should be cut in lengths of not more than four feet and tied in bundles. Other large material should be handled in a similar manner.

SCOTT FARMALL TRACTORS — INTERNATIONAL TRUCKS

TRUCK & TRACTOR CO.
Wellington, Texas

Orval Vaughan in the shop with his Farmall M tractor last week. The radiator was seeping a little. He has only had this tractor nine or ten months, so we repaired it without any charge to him.

J. L. O'Hair had Doc and Leland out to his place recently to overhaul his row binder. This binder has seen a lot of service, being about as old and worn out as I am, but Mr. O'Hair says it's kicking out the bundles now in good shape.

* * *

Raymond Ford and Joe Terry both had their cars in the shop last week to get the brakes overhauled. This is a sign of maturity—when you get more interested in having good brakes than in how fast you can take off.

* * *

It always does me a lot of good to watch Doc Barjenbruch and Leland Bonneau working in our shop. Careful, precision work on mechanical things has been a kind of religion with me all my life, and it's nice to observe that they both feel the same way. There's nothing slipshod or careless about the way they fit bearings, pistons, rings and other parts into a car or tractor motor. I've never heard either one of them say "that will do;" because to them it will not "do" until it's right.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Lennon, who guide young ideas at the Dodson school, came in last week and bought a new International Harvester refrigerator for their home.

* * *

Zook Thomas brought his Farmall M tractor to the shop the other day for some minor adjustment and repair. This is a specially good time to have your tractor checked over and put in shape for another year — now while we are not especially busy, we can spend a little more time getting everything just right, yet it doesn't cost you any more.

* * *

R. C. Patrick sent his M Farmall in for a clutch overhaul the other day, and L. O. Tyson brought in the magneto off his M tractor.

* * *

Allen Graves had his car in the shop for motor overhaul early this week. We're specially well equipped for this kind of work—Doc has one of the finest and most accurate cylinder reboring machines obtainable. With it, he can and does fit each piston in each cylinder individually and perfectly. He also has a crankshaft bearing machine which cuts bearings to absolutely correct size—if a journal is 7½ thousandths small, we make the bearing that size—not 4 or 6 or 10 thousands undersize as most such bearings are made.

* * *

This is Future Homemakers of America Week. These girls are learning all the better ways of running a home, and when they have homes of their own you can bet these International Harvester freezers will find places in many of them.

Ira Shields Fatally Stabbed In Argument

Bernice Starr, 22-year-old colored woman, has been charged in justice court with murder with malice aforethought in connection with the death of Ira Shields, also colored, who was fatally stabbed about 9:30 p.m. Thursday, October 30, in front of the Lewis Green cafe in the flats, Sheriff Hubert Mauldin reported.

Shields, 18, was stabbed once in the chest with a steak knife, and died about an hour after he was wounded, Sheriff Mauldin said.

Friends of the two told him, he added, that the couple had been quarreling for about 45 minutes inside the cafe before going outside.

The woman waived an examining trial and was bound over to await the action of the grand jury. She is being held in the county jail under bond set at $2,500. She has lived in Wellington for several years.

Shields has been in and out of Wellington for about two years, Sheriff Mauldin said, and worked for S. B. Owen during the last crop year.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Stratton, Jr. of Fort Worth are the parents of a daughter, Tamela Lea, born Nov. 2. She weighed 7 pounds and 12 ounces. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Cap Davis of Wellington and Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Stratton, Sr. of Riverside, Calif. This is the first grandchild on either side of the family.

The hard of hearing are not so unfortunate as it might seem. They miss a lot of small talk.

THE MOST DRAMATIC READING

The McCarran Internal Security Committee of the U. S. Senate is digging out some startling facts on the Communist Fifth Column organization in our nation. But the reports on its findings are not getting wide enough circulation throughout the population. They ought to be read and studied by every parent and teacher, by every college student and high school senior in the nation. They shed light on an internal conspiracy that, in spite of a growing resentment against it, is still scoring amazing successes in its work to communize America.

Anybody can get copies of the Judiciary Committee's transcripts simply by writing his Congressman or Senator, or the U. S. Government Printing Office. Ask for transcripts of the hearings delving into subversive infiltration. These documents provide the most dramatic reading available in America today. They bring into the reach of your mind and mind's eye exciting and vitally important episodes in the great human conflict of this age—godless Communism vs. Christianity: Freedom vs. Slavery.

THE RADIO WRITERS

A Judiciary sub-Committee recently released transcript of testimony taken in its investigation into Communist infiltration of radio, television and the entertainment industry. The sub-Committee said its hearings in this field sought to determine: (1) "To what extent are these media of expression conduits for the poison of Godless Communism" and (2) "To what extent has the Communist fifth column succeeded in worming its way into the nerve centers of public expression." The sub-Committee's conclusions, based on its findings, are stunning.

It finds that pro-Communist writers have gained the political control of an organization of 1,500 radio writers who produce 90 per cent of the spoken words heard on all the radio networks of the country. The Committee concluded, further, that this Red stranglehold was being used in some instances to slant news and dramatic shows in a manner to subtly conform to the Communist line and to just as subtly undermine our love of country and its institutions.

EXPOSING THE REDS

An anti-Communist faction of the radio writers' guild is fighting the Red control. Members of this anti-Communist group have been testifying in the Judiciary Committee hearings. Paul R. Milton, author of 10 books, contributor to such magazines as the Saturday Evening Post and Life, and for the past 10 years a top-flight radio writer, has given testimony clearly exposing the whole body of the danger.

"The more Communist individuals or the Communist element are in control of any element of the broadcasting industry," he told the Committee, "to that degree they lend that industry to he dissemination of Communist ideas . . . This means that the broadcasting industry, through programs, through the publicly expressed attitudes of is personalities, can aid in the dissemination of Communist ideas by means of radio and television . . .

USE CUNNING TECHNIQUE

"Communist ideas and attitudes may be expressed in the most ordinary dramatic programs by holding up to ridicule the various American ideals of free enterprise, of democracy, of capitalism as we understand it, of American institutions in the shape of our egislative arms; of holding up, for instance, the FBI to ridicule . . . It is possible for a writer to hold up to scorn an American ideal without in any sense seemingly carrying out a propaganda activity. This can have the effect of arousing public opinion on a question under an emotional stimulus which has a Communist origin and which is not clear to anybody except close observers of the situation . . . At times it may be extremely critical for the security of our country."

Paul Milton, who is working among them and has been fighting them for years, believes that Communists should be legally controlled — outlawed. "I hope," he told the Senate Judiciary Committee, "that eventually it will be decided within the framework of American history and ideals, that to be a Communist or to subscribe to doctrines of that nature is treasonable." Most sober-minded people who know Communism for what it really is feel the same way. Get these Judiciary Committee transcripts and learn why.

Homemakers of the Future

During

National FHA Week

It is our particular pleasure to congratulate the girls who are enrolled in high school homemaking courses this year. Many of you are already our friends and we are aware of the fine wholesome homes you are going to establish in the future.

We are aware, too that every young woman should know the principles of financing as they pertain to homes. This is a far more important phase of homemaking than many realize.

So we join other firms in calling attention to the work the girls and their instructors are doing. It is one of the most important points of education.

Afternoon-Into-Evening

Wool Bureau Photos

FLUID MOTION, subtly controlled, in below-the-waistline fullness makes news in the season's outstanding afternoon-into-evening dresses of soft textured woolens. Here Pauline Trigere presents a beautifully cut, dramatically simple fashion in Forstmann's Navy chiffon broadcloth of virgin wool. Snug fitting waist is high and unbelted. Soft cascading fullness in skirt falls entirely from one side—is emphasized with single march of tiny self-covered buttons. At right, Frances Sider offers a sparkling example of 1952's favored afternoon-into-evening separates. In snow white wool jersey, all-over-embroidered with scroll pattern of silver metallic yarn, this two-piece fashion has fitted basque jacket with low novelty-cut neckline—wide-whirling skirt, smoothly fitted at hip line. Both dresses were recently selected by the Wool Bureau as outstanding fashions for 1952.

Fashions Solve Junior-Figure Worries

For growing girls in that "bean pole" stage is this sanforized gingham dress done in two-color small check. Six-inch pleated dust ruffle breaks the skirt line.

Ruffles Enhance Child-Charm

BY EDNA MILES

ADULTS are not alone in their figure problems or their need for fashions that camouflage faulty points. Children have their problems, such as: too-weedy arms, pipe-stem legs, or the reverse side of the picture, a roly-poly body that's the result of baby fat.

In recent years, designers have come to understand that children need fashions that take cognizance of figure faults. Thus, they are giving them fashions that will foreshorten and soften where it's needed, fashions that will cut down bean-pole height or minimize a roly-poly small girl.

STRIPES AND PUFF SLEEVES HELP

A dust ruffle, for instance, breaks a skirt line and thus detracts from the height of a little girl who's shooting skywards rapidly. Combinations of solid and striped fabrics foreshorten, while puff sleeves soften angular young arms.

Added to these fashion fillips is the convenience that lies in cotton fabrics that are sanforized to prevent shrinkage. This is a factor important to mother since she must handle the laundering and balance the budget at one and the same time. It means, then, that a small wardrobe will retain its fit and therefore, its original good looks.

Half-and-half is the styling theme of this one-piece sanforized chambray dress designed for the young Miss who needs foreshortening and the softening effect of puff sleeves.

McFarland Made Cadet Sergeant

Donald McFarland, who was employed at the Holton Gulf Station during the summer, has been promoted to the grade of Cadet Sergeant in the ROTC Corps of Cadets at John Tarleton College, it has been announced by the professor of military science and tactics.

Presentation of the promotion was made by Lt. Colonel Lloyd G. Huggins at a recent Corps Review. Cadet McFarland was selected on the basis of leadership, knowledge and proficiencies in military subjects and academic standing. He is a senior majoring in mechanical arts.

McFarland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. McFarland of Prairie Hill and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Holton of Wellington.

Mrs. Pete Harris of Dumas is visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Aldridge, and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Raburn and children.

SOLID SILK—Beginning and end of silk hose manufacture is seen above. Pretty Joan Knamiller, all smiles, examines a silk stocking made from unwound cocoon fibers spun by the silk worms wriggling in foreground. Eating mulberry leaves, the worms make cocoons like those on the table edge. More than 80,000 of the insects live and work in what is probably America's only silk mill, built in 1812 in Mansfield, Conn. They eat two tons of leaves annually.

Grocery Ceiling Price Posters Now Displayed

DALLAS — Retail grocers in Collingsworth County began displaying official OPS ceiling price posters on November 3 in an extension of the Office of Price Stabilization's nation-wide "community food pricing" program.

The announcement was made in Dallas by Frank C. Tomlinson, OPS regional food and restaurant branch chief.

On the same date, the OPS grocery price posting program was extended to 179 counties in Texas, covering the entire state. Since September 29, "community pricing" has been in effect in a 72-county area in the northern half of Texas, and in the three south Texas counties of Bexar, Harris and Galveston.

According to Tomlinson, the official charts which are posted in this county and in most of West Texas, list uniform ceiling prices for some 450 food items. The posters basically are the same posters which have been in use in northern Texas, out with some minor price changes and a few additions and deletions reflecting local food items and brand preferences.

"Community pricing" gets its name, the foods chief explained, because all stores of the same class have the same retail ceilings in an area or "community" where wholesalers are able to deliver to retailers without adding freight costs.

Tomlinson pointed out that posted prices give grocery customers an opportunity to see at a glance the ceiling prices on many of the important foods they buy. Also, the grocer is relieved of the task of figuring his own price ceilings, since this is done for him on a periodical basis by OPS.

Quail Pioneers Near Fort Worth

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Owens, who sold their farm north of Quail about six weeks ago, are now living at La Junta, 20 miles west of Fort Worth, where they have bought a farm complete with a modern home.

They returned here during the week end to attend to business.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Owens came to Quail as children and their families were among the early settlers of the area. Mrs. Owens' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Barton, came in 1900, and her father built the family home between what is now the Quail stores and school, although at that time the town had not been started. The story and a half house, one of the finest in the west part of the county then, is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop. Mr. Barton also built the first store is Quail, a general merchandise, located near his home.

Mr. Owens family came in 1902 and his parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Owens.

Mr. and Mrs. Owens have three children living at Fort Worth, Curtis Owens; Mrs. Billy Powell, the former Betty Jean Owens; and Mrs. N. B. Wood, the former Jo Owens. Their other daughter, Ruth, is Mrs. Leon Payne of Borger.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Loving and baby of Andrews visited over the week end with Mr. Loving's mother, Mrs. John Gulley and Mr. Gulley.

A 3/c and Mrs. Clifton Hartman of Wichita Falls visited relatives and friends over the week end.

NOTICE

TO

PROPERTY OWNERS & TENANTS

We wish to call your attention to the fact that in order for the City to collect and dispose of all the trash and garbage from homes within the corporate limits of the city, as provided in the Trash & Garbage Ordinance and have a cleaner city, it will require the cooperation of each and every property owner and tenant in the matter of providing suitable containers of sufficient number and size such as garbage cans, barrels, tubs, etc., to hold the trash and refuse from one collection period to the next.

Your container and its contents shall not exceed 75 pounds in weight.

A large number of property owners and tenants have no containers at all, and many others have containers with the bottoms out. This makes it impossible to load the contents directly from the container to the truck without scattering some.

Your co-operation is earnestly solicited in this matter in order that we may do a better job of collection with personnel and equipment available.

The City has available 55-gallon barrels with tops removed which we will deliver to your place for $2.75 each.

At Charley Bearden Farm

Orchard Demonstration Set Friday Afternoon

An orchard demonstration, with emphasis on tree borer effect and eradication, will be held at the Charlie Bearden orchard five miles east of Wellington on the Mangum highway Friday afternoon, November 7, at 2:00 p.m., County Agent J. W. Thomas has announced.

Mr. Thomas will be in charge of the demonstration, and all persons having orchards, or others who are interested are invited to attend.

In pointing out that it is time to treat tree borers, Mr. Thomas said:

"All farmers who haye a home orchard should check your peach and plum trees for an exudation of rosin and frass at the ground line and just below the ground line on the trunk.

"If this rosin and frass is found the tree borer is present. The treatment is one ounce of paradichlorobenzene placed around each 4-year old or older tree which is infested with borers, 1/2 ounce of P. D. B. is sufficient for younger trees. P. D. B. should be put out by the middle of October. Put P. D. B. out in a narrow band around the tree, 1 1/2 inches from the trunk and cover with 3 inches to 5 inches of dirt.

The soil temperature at this time of the year causes evaporation which forms gas that is 3 times as heavy as the air. This gas goes into the burrows of the tree and roots where the tree borer, in the larva stage, has bored in to spend the winter. The life cycle of the borer includes the egg, larva, pupa, and moth stage. The moth lays the egg on the trunk of the tree in the late summer.

The egg hatches and the larva crawls down near the ground surface, a few inches above or below, and bores into the tree trunk or roots, he works here all winter, boring around in the cambium layer and vicinity, often girdling the tree, then in the spring the larva goes through the stage of pupation and emerges as a month to lay eggs in the summer.

By treating in the fall the larva is killed before much destruction is done to the tree. The mound of dirt and PDB should be pulled away from the tree trunk in 5 or six weeks. Do not treat a tree that does not show signs of tree borer infestation. Ethylene dichloride treatment saves some labor and is almost as good.

In use of PDB remove soil cone from around tree in about 6 weeks. PDB will injure bark of tree if brought in contact with it.

Ex-Students of Mobeetie to Meet

A homecoming day for Mobeetie ex-students is being planned for November 14, 1952, at Mobeetie. The first event of the day is the football game at 2:30 at Mobeetie with Kelton as the opponent. This is the last game of the season and will feature the coronation of the football queen between halves.

The American Legion Auxiliary of Mobeetie and the high school seniors are inviting former students of Mobeetie Schools to come to a banquet in the high school building at 6:30 the same day. Actually, the dinner will be served cafeteria style from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The tickets for the dinner cost $1.50 each and those planning to attend are asked to send their money for tickets to Mrs. Earl Alexander, Mobeetie, Texas, by November 7, and she will forward the tickets immediately to each sender. Those in the vicinity of Mobeetie who desire to attend the banquet may buy their tickets at Matthews Mart or Murrell's Barber Shop in Mobeetie.

The purpose of the dinner is to have an old-fashioned get-together and to raise money to put an electric scoreboard in the Mobeetie gymnasium. Mobeetie school buildings have been repaired and refinished during the past summer, and an electric scoreboard would be a very attractive and beneficial addition to the gymnasium.

The senior class of Mobeetie High School this year has only six members, and the American Legion Auxiliary is helping this class in this project in order that the seniors may make a worthwhile contribution to the school, as is the custom of each graduating class.

All who plan to attend the banquet are urged to get their tickets by November 7.

RED CLUNKER—Captured by United Nations forces in Korea, this Russian-made truck bogs down in a mud hole. When G.I.'s put it into service the Red clunker broke down under the strain of heavy duty. It just couldn't take the punishment that American trucks are built to endure.

TRUE BLUE OR SOMETHING—Recently arrived at the San Francisco Academy of Sciences is this chameleon from the African Congo. The turn-color creature, a chameleon "dilepis," is the only true chameleon. Those found in the U. S. are a type of lizard called "anolis," explained a scientist.

DONE-IN DRAGON—Gulping a spear tossed down his throat by a "knight of goodwill," this artificial dragon dies his annual death in the Furth Am Wald pageant held every year in the German village. The custom of re-enacting killing original town dragon is continued to fulfill a church pledge made in 1440 to have "a knight of goodwill kill a dragon" every year of the town's existence.

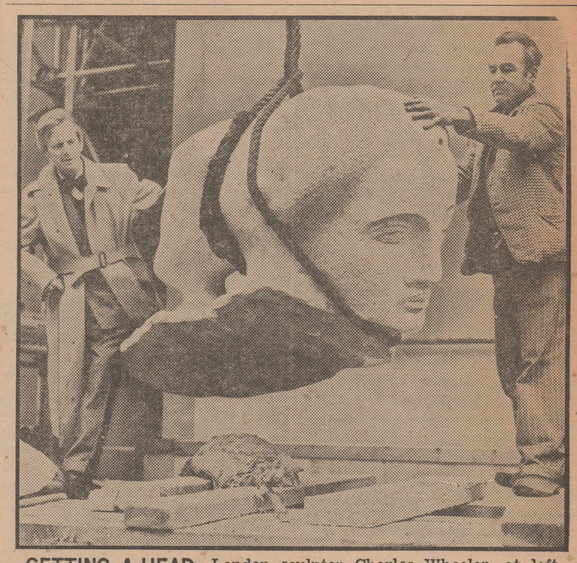

GODDESS MUST GO IN NAME OF PROGRESS—Stately, beautiful Buddhist Goddess Kwan Yin will soon be moved to make way for new Hong Kong housing projects like those in background for refugees in the British colony. Woman in black silk Chinese dress is lighting incense as other Chinese women pray to the age old goddess they believe makes their hopes for children realized.

FLY BOYS AND BULLETS—Getting ready for the usual night's business over Korea, Airmen 1/C Joseph Wolfinger, at left, and James Pibur, of Philadelphia and San Francisco, load their four-gun forward turret on a B-29 superfort. The gunners are with the FEAF Bomber Command based in Japan. The ammunition will be used to make it hot for North Korean Communist military positions these cold autumn evenings.

IT COMES OUT THERE?—Doubting two-year-old Parisian Patrick Comink wonders about the big blast he hears from the tuba. Part of the 123-piece U. S. Army band, the horn was played in a concert given in Paris. Little Pat was part of the audience. Was, that is, till overcome by curiosity about the horn and the big noise.

GETTING A-HEAD—London sculptor Charles Wheeler, at left, watches lowering of his newly carved head of "Earth" as the top portion of the statue is placed on a building overlooking Whitehall Gardens. In contrast to her maker's worried look, the statue's face is gracefully serene. Wheeler is making a pair of statues, "Earth" and "Water," for the new British Government Building. He used six blocks of stone. Each figure weighs 30 tons.

MOO QUADS—While the fourth calf waits three of the quadruplets on the C. A. Sprague farm near Michigan City, Ind., form their chow line. The proud mother bore her offspring unattended and vetinarians say their survival is very unusual.

GONE SWIMMIN'—Humphrey comes up from a plunge in his private swimming pool at San Francisco's Fleishhacker zoo to tell us that he may not look too bright but at least he has enough sense to stay in the water during this kind of weather. If the truth be known, Humphrey, like most of us, would appreciate a cake of ice to sit on.

TRAGEDY—This apple-blasted robin's nest remains as a mute reminder of a tragedy. The Mendota, Minn., owner of the apple tree was proud of the bird's nest in his tree, wondered where mother Robin might be when she was absent for several days. Investigation revealed the scene above. When the apple was removed several eggs were found, crushed.

G.I. JOE "SHOJO" — To the amazement of Japanese spectators, Lt. Donald C. Mills, of Shreveport, La., performs the difficult and graceful Noh dance, "Shojo," in Fukuoka, Japan. Experts predict that the Itazuke air base officer will become an excellent Noh dancer in time. He was ready for his first performance after only a few months' instruction.

Cotton Sleepwear Is Warm and Bewitching

These Cute Cuddle-Clothes for Bed Will Add Glamor to Night-Time Togs

BY EDNA MILES

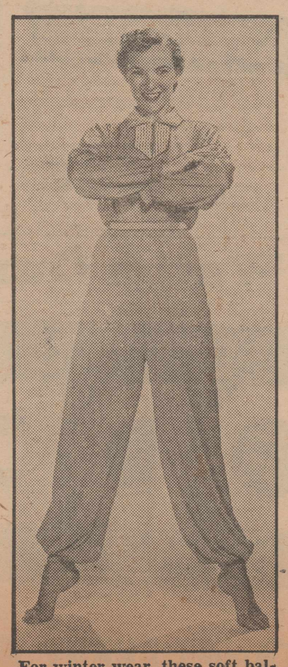

IT was not so long ago that warm winter sleeping fashions were chiefly notable for their lack of fashion. It was assumed that any woman who wanted practicality in sleepwear wasn't interested in glamor, too.

Things have changed. These days, a girl can get practicality in a pretty guise. For instance, balbriggan, long considered a staple, has taken to candy stripes in both gowns and pajamas. They come in tropical colors: pink, yellow sunshine, coral and blue. And a quaint rose challis print is used for the yoke of a peignoir that has a ruffled neckline.

A fabric called "candlelight" has a shimmering rayon fleck knitted into soft cotton and for an added look of luxury, is trimmed with a "gold loom" knit fabric.

Heavenly, soft brushed rayon in jewel colors gets the flattery of seed pearls scattered over a gathered bodice or a star-shaped yoke. Jeweled touches appear, too, in the nylon tricot styles for winter. Rhinestones are sprinkled over net or embroidered sheer details and satin appliques are used.

Color counts in these new winter sleepwear fashions. Ombred effects are used in nylon gowns; tri-color treatment appears in three tones of green and grape. Green jewel, coral gem and rose pastel are three of the newest colors.

For winter wear, these soft balbriggan pajamas have warmth as well as glamor.

This cotton balbriggan gown for winter wear has inset yoke of pastel candy stripe.

Change Waterfowl Hunting Regulation From Power Boats

AUSTIN — The Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission called Texas hunters' attention to a 1952 change in the waterfowl regulations affecting power boats.

He said gunners may now use a boat with an inboard motor or boats with an outboard motor providing the boats are tied or secured to a permanent blind.

The law covering this phase previously forbade use of inboard motor boats altogether and stipulated that boats using outboard motors had to have the motor immobilized and placed in the bottom of the craft when it was kept in a duck blind.

The Executive Secretary said the liberalizing regulation is expected to accomodate many hunters in the coastal area where power boats are commonly used.

He cautioned hunters that use of motor boats to disturb or chase waterfowl is unlawful, although motors may be used to retrieve dead or crippled ducks or geese.

The Executive Secretary said the regulation governing baiting waterfowl has been tightened in that shooting over baited areas is forbidden altogether.

He used to catch her in his arms before they were married. Now he catches her in his pockets.

MOUTHFUL — Maureen Connolly, Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament star, is not taking a big bite from her tennis ball. Actually, she is following through on a return shot and the ball is on its way back to her opponent, Doris Hart. Camera - coincidence creates the choking illusion. In fact, Maureen played so well she beat Doris 6-4, 3-6, 6-1 in the game at Los Angeles, Calif., recently.

Norwood Splits Games at Allison

By MRS. ALEX COLEMAN

The Samnorwood Eagles and Eaglettes played the Allison teams Friday night, October 21, at Allison. The girls were victorious by 21 points, defeating their opponents 58 to 21.

The boys did all right up to the last quarter, when the Allison team started creeping up on them, and the Eagles were beat by one point. The final score was 24 to 23 in favor of Allison.

The Economic Tragedy of Highway Accidents

"America's highways are saturated with blood. Last year alone, 27,500 people were killed in highway accidents. Another 2,000,000 were injured.

"There is no way of adequately describing the suffering of the victims and their families. But anyone can see that the price we are paying for recklessness, carelessness, and incompetence behind the wheel is out of all reason and must be reduced.

"There is still another aspect to this —the economic aspect. Last year alone, despite all possible savings and economies ,the automobile casualty insurance industry was unable to make both ends meet. The premiums it collected were more than $100,000,000 less than it had to pay out because of the steadily mounting cost of accidents. Manifestly, no enterprise can long operate on a deficite basis.

"The immediate answer is higher rates. But it is conceivable that, should the rates go high enough, the insurance companies would be priced right out of the market. And then the alternative would become government-operated compulsory insurance, paid for in part through premiums and in part by taxes. And anyone with the slightest knowledge of government-in-business knows that it is always accompanied by flagrant waste and inefficieny, by err-expanding, patronage-staffed bureaus, and by an insatiable appetite for more of our tax money. Even worse, government-in-business means less freedom and opportunity for our people — and brings us closer to tyranny of total socialism.

"There is only one answer to the highway carnage and all the human and economic problems it creates. The essence of it is to pass laws that will bar the incompetent and the congenitally reckless from the public highways, and to enforce stringent, uniform traffic codes to the letter. The man who refuses to drive cautiously must be punished and, if necessary, refused the right to drive at all."

The Bible is News

You wouldn't think a new version of the Bible would be headline news in American newspapers. But—it was all of that the past few weeks since its introduction on the market. And indicative of the interest is the fact that at a showing in a midwestern city over 1,500 people turned out to see the new version.

"A lot of people are curiously checking the new version to see whether any of the poetic beauty of their favorite messages has been lost thru modernization. This might be one method to get more people to read the scriptures. This new version should be all right, it had 49 world scholars involved in the revision progress.

"The Bible is not as obsolete a part of the American home as some people would like to have us believe. A survey of 2,500 housewives turned up the following information ,according to a recent news report.

Ninety per cent of Protestant families and 70 per cent of others, principally Roman Catholics, own Bibles.

"The living room is the traditional place for the family Bible and 47 percent of the families questioned said they kept their Bible on a bookshelf, 28 per cent on a table and about a third of the families keep their Bibles on a bed side table.

"Of all Americans 95 per cent have sometimes or other read the Bible. About 41 per cent claim they have read it once a week. Forty per cent say they regard the Bible as literature and the remainder say they read the Bible to 'study it.'

It's gratifying to note the interest that surrounds the issuance of a newly revised Bible — it's the one book that stands between godless Communism and the rest of the world."

—The Grandfield (Okla.) Big Pasture News.

Today's Biggest Problem

For twenty-two years the Harvard Business School has been holding a one-day summer conference for businessmen. Purpose of the conference has been to bring the best thought of faculty and industry leaders to bear on the one subject most important to businessmen for that year.

Before reading the next line, stop for one minute or so, close the book and see what was chosen as the subject of the conference held this year.

Here is the title: "Getting People to do Things."

To Love Is to Be A Good Christian

A good question quite often asked many churchgoers is: What does it mean to be a Christian?

The answer can be found among the many works of the New Testament. These writers whose books make up our accounting of the Christian way of life, all agree on the fact that being a good Christian comes from within the person himself.

Paul defines this inner working as Love. In his eulogy on Love found in Corinthians I, Paul goes so far as to say that having knowledge of the Christian mysteries, even having faith and the power to work miracles, is not enough. The person must have Love or all other possessions are useless.

John, James and Peter agree with Paul. James insistes that Love, if it is a real and vital thing, will manifest itself in many ways. Peter and John agree that anyone who has a love of humanity, shares a part of the Supreme Being.

In contrast to these plain facts and rules for being a true Christian, we see the millions of so-called "professing Christians" who fall far short of this ideal.

Fortunately, in every sect, there are both those who profess and those who are sincere. And among the sincere are those described by Paul who commended them because they sincerely and earnestly followed the path as best they knew how.

These are the true Christians.

And if we deplore the fact that there are not more of them, let us pause and be thankful that despite the world's inequities, there are so many whose character and activities reveal them as true Christians.

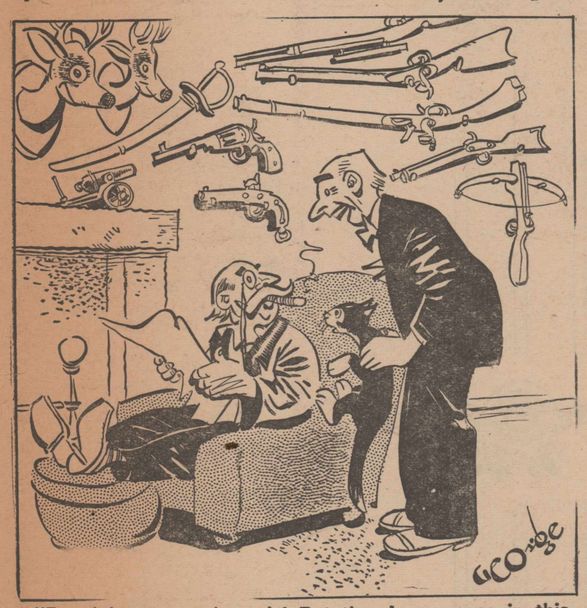

Funny world: A man won't kiss his wife for years; yet he'll shoot the first man who does.

Wonder if they call marriage an institution because you have to be crazy to enter

One sure way to double your money is to fold it and put it in your pocket.

We don't believe that brunettes have any sweeter disposition than blonds. The wife has been both and we can't see any difference.

Our Thanks To The Men OF THE Wellington AND Childress Fire Departments

Circumstances have prevented us from doing it earlier although we have had it in mind for months: but next Monday night we want to express our appreciation to the Fire Departments of both Wellington and Childress for the splendid work they did when our building burned. At that time we will give a steak dinner for all firemen of both cities and every member of each department is cordially invited to attend.

And at this time we would like to say something about how much each of these splendid departments contribute to the welfare and the safety of the people in each of the cities they serve. We are not only grateful for the work they did in keeping the fire in our own building from spreading: but we also appreciate the work they do every week of the year. We wish to commend their loyal and unselfish service.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS

This bank joins other institutions in congratulating the girls enrolled in Future Homemaking this year. More, perhaps, than many others, we recognize how vitally important it is to the family welfare and its economic growth that the wife and mother be in every sense a homemaker.

It is gratifying to see the training the girls today receive in their homemaking classes, the new emphasis that is being put on the home as the center of life and living. It is a healthy sign of what we may expect in the nation's future welfare.
