Unwed Mother, Who Loses Custody Of Son To His Father, Wishes Them Well

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 3.—The custody of 6-year-old James Elias Lewisohn was awarded today to Ludwig Lewisohn, the father, while the mother, Thelma Bowman Spear, kissed the middle-aged author tearfully and cried out:

"God bless you; be kind to him."

The decision—by State Supreme Court Justice Aaron Levy—ended a bitter suit in which Lewisohn and Miss Spear had made public many of the tempestuous scenes of their 16-year-long liaison.

Relations Criticised

"Much may be said," the justice remarked in his opinion, "of the pathetic situation presented here, but a few observations will suffice. The relations which these parties saw fit to maintain over a period of years may not be looked upon with any measure of favor under our system of law.

"After considering the evidence the court is constrained to hold that this respondent (Miss Spear) is not temperamentally or otherwise prepared to care for the child and that its interest is best served by superseding any claimed natural rights which the mother may tender.

Talks With Boy

"She will, however, be afforded every reasonable and proper right of visitation but in the light of what has occurred here, this will be cloaked with the obviously necessary safeguards."

The boy himself — who attends Lakewood Hall, a boarding school in Lakewood, N. J.—never was called upon to say publicly which parent he preferred. He was with Justice Levy in private conversations, however, for about an hour before the final award was made.

Lewisohn was accompanied by his wife, Edna Manley Lewisohn, to whom he was married recently—over Miss Spear's protests—in a Baltimore synagogue. It was after the marriage that he brought suit to take Jimmy from his mother.

All Chances For Changing Labor Law Are Killed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 3.—All prospect of wage-hour law revisions at this session of Congress vanished today when the House voted to direct its labor committee to give further study to the question.

The decision climaxed a week of noisy and angry debate on proposed changes.

The House had adopted amendments, one at a time, which would have exempted many hundreds of thousands of workers—the exact number was in furious dispute—from the provisions of the law. Then it surveyed its handiwork in its entirely and found it bad.

All Work Undone

A roll-call vote of 211 to 171 undid all that had been done and rejected the amendments as a whole. A second vote, 205 to 175, recommitted the entire subject to the House labor committee for further study and recommendations.

Under the prevailing situation, leaders had no expectation that the committee could complete its work in time for action before the session's scheduled June adjournment.

The result was both a victory and a defeat for administration leaders in Congress. The latter had vigorously opposed the sweeping amendments which were written into the bill in the course of the debate. Their victory lay in the fact that

Settlement Of Mexican Oil Fight Reported

Details Of Peace Agreement Are Not Aired By Mexico

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 3. — A partial settlement of the long and bitter dispute over Mexico's seizure of American oil lands was reported tonight from Mexico City and the report seemed to be confirmed by developments here.

Dispatches from Mexico City said the Consolidated Oil company (Sinclair) had reached a settlement with the Mexican government.

The Sinclair properties were among the American lands expropriated on March 18, 1938. In the long dispute that followed, the American companies sought return of the oil fields or prompt compensation. They attempted to form a united front and sought a settlement covering all the oil lands.

Break Is Indicated

The Mexican government, on the other hand, held that settlements could be reached with the companies individually and was against making the controversy an international diplomatic incident. Tonight's developments appeared to indicate a break in the united front.

It was understood the agreement with Consolidated involved the delivery of Mexican oil to that company.

In Washington, Jesus Silva Herzog, general manager of the Mexican Petroleum Distribution agency, announced he had concluded contracts with three United States companies for sale of Mexican petroleum products. The contracts would amount, he said, to an aggregate of $54,000,000 spread over four or five years.

Others Not Named

Silva Herzog named the First National Oil corporation of New York City as one of the companies now willing to buy Mexican oil. He declined to name the other two.

Some time ago Secretary of State Hull urged Mexico to arbitrate the whole oil expropriation issue. The Mexican reply has been delivered in Washington and is being decoded and translated for publication Sunday morning. It is understood that Mexico has rejected the idea of arbitration, flatly.

In state department circles it was said that regardless of the reported settlement with Sinclair, the diplomatic controversy with Mexico would be continued.

The belief was expressed here that the department would continue to demand prompt indemnification for others involved or submission of their problems to arbitration.

Tech's Student Officers Named

Only four places were contested Friday in the election of student council officers at Texas Technological college.

James Snyder of Moran and Roy Wilkes of Floydada had been nominated by acclamation for president and vice president, respectively, John Williams of White Deer was only remaining candidate for business manager when Wayne Rash of Lubbock withdrew his nomination.

Other officers named, according to Snyder, were:

Emily Ann Mack of Fort Worth, secretary; Paul Redding of Punxutawney, Pa., representative to the athletic coucil; V. C. Sanderson of Lubbock, man yell leader, and Lois Nance of Post, woman yell leader. Miss Nance won by nearly 1,000 points on the preferential ballot over two others candidates, Betty Jo Wagner of Merizon and Doris Peavy of Slaton.

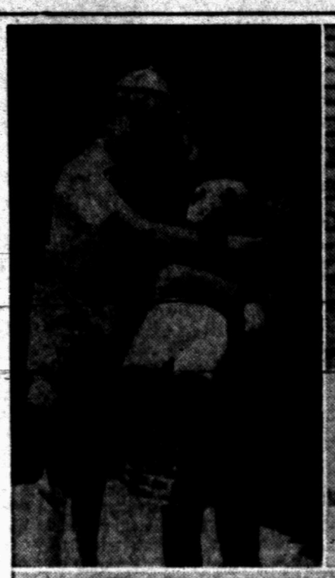

Geraldine Conner of Haskell and Marilyn Riggs of Lubbock were other candidates for secretary; Jack Wheelis of Mart and Joe Pierce of Lubbock, for athletic council representative, and L. Dean Butler of Tulia, yell leader.

Population Growths Shown By Two Towns

Crosbyton and Ralls both showed population growths in the past decade, the Crosby county seat gaining nearly 20 per cent and the former metropolis almost 10 per cent, according to figures announced Friday by Robert H. Bean, district census supervisor.

Crosbyton increased from 1,260 to 1,515, or 255, while Ralls grew from 1,365 to 1,512, an increase of 147.

Both figures are preliminary and are subject to revision, Bean added.

Large Scale Farming Shown To New York, Chicago And Dallas Newspaper Visitors

By J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

MORTON, May 3. —Seventy-five West Texans and friends staged an entertainment here today in true western style for a party of Dallas, Chicago and New York newspapermen on what are probably the most extensive single farm operations in this section—the F. O. Masten farms at Oasis, on the New Mexico state line west of here.

The visitors were given glimpses of modern mass farming, of tractors planting cotton and knifing weeds without a driver, of the popular coyote hunt and a jackrabbit drive, not to mention a first class West Texas barbecue and all the trimmings.

Masten himself was master of ceremonies, with A. C. Ward, a rancher and farmer as foreman and George W. Springer as "cook" of the barbecue. Several neighbors brought in houn' dawgs for the races and a good time was had by all.

Guests Brought Along

Eugene Butler, editor of the Progressive Farmer at Dallas, had as his guests three men from the advertising department of the Allied Farmer groups. H. E. (Earl) Butcher of New York City and D. M. Dugger of Chicago, had never seen any ranch activities, while L. R. Wiley of Dallas was also a tenderfoot. So Masten and his friends decided to entertain them in a regular way.

Ward dug up the loudest shirt he could find, mouted one of his best trained ponies and got a few other

Two American Vessels Raked By Gunfire

By JOHN A. MOROSO 3d
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 3.—The little American freighter Flying Fish, her deck plates pitted by bullets as mementoes of the German-British battle for Bergen, returned home today with master and crew in sharp dispute as to which side had fired upon her.

All agreed, however, that the bullets which struck the Flying Fish and another American vessel, the Charles R. McCormick—cutting away the latter's mast stays and wire rigging—had been fired either by accident or by mistakes in the identities of the targets.

Speaking for 15 fellow seamen, hopeful of receiving $250 bonuses by contending that they were under fire, George Gilbert declared unequivocally that it was an Allied plane that, on April 12, loosed three bursts of machinegun fire upon the hapless Flying Fish, making her maiden voyage.

Germans Blamed

Captain W. W. Wollaston insisted, just as flatly, that his ship was struck accidentally by a shell from a Norwegian land battery which had been seized by the invading Germans.

"I was on the bridge," he said, "and I saw everything that happened." He was supported by some of the 32 other crew members.

Said Gilbert, in a statement made in an NBC broadcast before the Flying Fish had even reached her dock:

"We wish to settle this question once and for all. With all due respect to our captain (who, we understand, was below decks when the incident occurred) we, the members of the crew who were on the fo'c'sle-head and the foredeck wish to emphatically state that the fire came from the plane and no mistake about it."

Claims Supported

Chester Shimp of Baltimore, chief engineer, and the vessel's log both supported the Gilbert con-

Defenders Give Up After Allies Abandon Fight

Military Activity Reported Stopped After Plea Made

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, May 3—The expeditionary armies of the Allies today abandoned the whole of Norway below the Arctic circle and the Norwegian central command, left to hold the line against the massive German war machine almost without bullets, bitterly gave up the fight and sued for an armistice to negotiate peace in central area.

From the little town of Grong, on the Steinkjer-Namsos front above Trondheim, emptied of Allied troops in a startling two-day withdrawal and reembarkment, acting Norwegian Commander Col. O. B. Getz sent word of the surrender in an order of the day surcharged with disillusionment.

German forces later were reported to have reached Grong and to have made contact with the Norwegians, with all fighting reported stopped.

Allies Are Blamed

Getz, at the reported instigation of a majority of his officers, decided to ask for the armistice for the whole Trondheim area after the Allies left. He did not, however, speak for the Norwegian government, which alone has power to sue for peace for the country as a whole, and so far has made no such move.

He placed full blame for his plight on the Allies.

"The British and French — for reasons unknown to us—have given up helping us in our fight and have withdrawn their troops from Namsos," he said.

"We stand today alone against the entire German war machine, already outflanked and encircled on the line which the British and French should be holding . . . without aid from outside . . . with only enough ammunition for one day . . . without planes and other necessary

Two Mutilated Bodies Found

STOCKTON, Calif., May 3—Grisesome discovery of a Stockton youth and his girl companion, with their throats cut and their arms and legs trussed, as they lay dead in a field, spurred investigators tonight on a hunt for the slayers and a motive.

"NAZI-BRANDED"

PITTSBURGH, May 3 (AP)—Headless bodies of three men, with the word "nazi" carved on the chest of one in five-inch letters, were found today in boxcars assigned to the scrap heap at the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad yards in nearby Stowe township.

Authorities advanced one theory the three were victims of the "mad butcher of Kingsbury run," blamed for 12 torso slayings in Cleveland, because of the similarity to the "butcher's" work. Two of the bodies had been dissected with the dexterity of a surgeon or a butcher.

sence next day. Monday night the automobile in which they were last seen was found abandoned in Fresno, 100 miles away, with a blood-stain on the seat and a window broken.

Bound With Belt

Chinchiolo had been bound with a belt from the girl's coat, and with strips of its lining. He also had been gagged. Miss Woofter's hands were tied behind her back.

Dr. Orrin Fry, general autopsy surgeon of the San Joaquin General hospital, said the death was caused by the throat gashings.

The district attorney's office questioned at least ten persons who were acquainted with the young couple, but gave no indication he had arrived at any suggested motive for their deaths.

Heaviest Fighting On West Front Is Private Affair

(By The Associated Press)

BASLE, Switzerland, May 3. — French and German soldiers got so worked up over an exchange of loudspeaker insults from one line to the other that the nearest thing to a battle yet staged on the Rhine front continued for an hour tonight.

It started when the broadcaster on a German musical program which entertains the French through a loudspeaker departed from the usual insults to the British and compliments to the French to brag about the German victory in Norway.

This so excited the French broadcaster that he made uncomplimentary references about Adolf Hitler.

A German sharpshooter took a pot shot at the French loudspeaker with his rifle.

For an hour thereafter the whole sector north of Basle resounded with rifle, machine-gun and heavy artillery fire.

Military observers estimated that at least $50,000 worth of ammunition was used up by both sides—and they doubted whether anyone in Germany's west wall or France's Maginot line even had been wounded.

Bewhiskered, Clean-Shaven Take Turn About In Tank

(By The Associated Press)

PAMPA, May 3.—Bewhiskered gents mumbled something in their beards tonight.

And the clean-shaven softies around town must have heard it because they have been dunking bewhiskered gents in the town tank and having more fun.

It all started a month ago when Johnny Wells asked the men of Pampa to grow beards so they would resemble Francisco Vasquez de Coronado when the play Estrada is produced here June 13, 14 and 15.

Waddies who failed to sprout beards were roped in and plunged into the tank by the hairy-chested hombres hereabouts.

This daily bath with their clothes on got under the skin of the smooth-shaven ones and they formed a posse, caught a bewhiskered gent and ducked him in the tank.

The bewhiskered boys retaliated.

Now the town tank is half full of splashing bewhiskered and clean-shaven men all the time.

Fried Chicken's A Spring Treat, Whatever Frying Style You Fa

The Woman's Angle
by Margaret Turner

TRENDS in baseball this far this spring lead one to believe times are not normal.

THE LITTLE WOMEN

ELLEN BALLOON, petite Canadian pianist, insists that the very short woman never should wear fussy, frilly clothes. Anyone under five feet four needs to maintain the effect of a long, sweeping line from head to foot, she explains.

"Furthermore, the little woman's clothes ought to be dignified. After she is twenty-five so-called "cute" togs are no more becoming to her than they are to a tall woman. Regardless of height, only the very young can get away with coy, cute, girlish effects. A mature person is flattered by mature clothes." More philosophy from Miss Ballon. She lists five "don'ts" for women five feet four and under:

Don't wear huge hats with wide brims. ("They'll give you a chopped-off look.")

Don't go in for too many horizontal lines. ("They cut the lines of the figure and make you seem shorter and broader.")

Don't combine too many colors in one costume. ("Remember that you are too small a pallette to be able to stand being covered with more than two shades at a time.")

EYE-CATCHERS

Don't have more than one focal point of interest in your costume. ("Wear a startling hat with an otherwise simple outfit or a conservative hat and eye-catching gloves. But don't wear both hat and gloves that are attention-getting.")

Don't wear accessories which are out of proportion to your size. ("Enormous bags, too bulky gloves and shoes, great chunky jewelry, or even big, splashy corsages certainly are not for the little woman.")

ON WEDDING GIFTS

THERE'S nothing that helps your feelings so much after sending someone a wedding gift than to receive a nice little thank you note, written in the enthusiasm of spontaneity. Here are a few cautions suggested by a critic on etiquette.

Even if you receive gifts calmly, don't let that keep you from writing the note at once. It's embarrassing to have a frowning husband come home, weeks after the wedding, to say: "Mother called at the office today to find out why we didn't thank Aunt Betty for the teapot." Forgetting to thank the in-laws is the sort of thing that leads to rifts with them.

Many brides write down each gift and the donor's name and address as soon as packages arrive. They find the list handy, later, when deciding on who should be asked to dinner, cocktails or bridge.

SINCERITY IS BEST

MAKE the thank-you notes sincere (and short, too, for your sake, especially if you're writing gift by gift). And mention the gifts in the first paragraph, even if your letters are long.

Sometimes a bride gets a gift and can't tell for the life of her what it's supposed to be. Odd pieces of silver and lots of nickknacks can be baffling. It's worth the trouble of calling a jeweler or department store to check up so that you can mention the object specifically. It's neither polite nor flattering to misname a gift.

WHAT IS IT?

TAKE the little object pictured above which appears to The Woman's Angle to be a cross between the Neuenburg stove, something left from breakfast or an object on sale. A bride would not only NOT be pleased to receive it but for the life of her probably wouldn't know what to do with it.

Wedding gifts belong to the bride, but the wisest brides sign their notes of thanks from both bride and bridegroom.

Five Styles Are Among Favorites

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Associated Press Feature Service Writer

Springtime parties and fried chicken are about as perennial a combination as strawberries and cream.

You're safe in serving it at picnic, party or family get-together; people can always take another crispy, golden wing if they are the least bit hungry.

But, as in the preparation of many another popular food, schools and schisms have developed around the frying of chicken. You may have your own fetish, but you might like to look over the next chicken-fryers back fence—might give you an inspiration. Here's a survey of several popular methods:

In Deep Batter

Batter deep fried chicken: Cut the fryer into quarters, wash and chill. When time to cook, dip into batter (1 cup flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, 1 egg and 2-3 cup milk, beaten together). Carefully lower the batter-covered chicken into deep, hot fat so the fat covers the chicken by at least an inch. Fry about 15 minutes, turning the chicken several times. Drain and serve on a heated platter, surrounded with corn fritters and a glazed pineapple garnish. Pass broccoli with Hollandaise sauce; serve strawberry shortcake for desert.

Iowa style: Put flour, salt and paprika into a paper sack, then put your cut chicken into the sack and shake until chicken is coated. Heat 6 tablespoons of fat in a frying pan. When fat's hot put the chicken in and brown it quickly. Put in 3 tablespoons of butter and 1-4 cup of milk. Cover tightly and cook over a moderate fire for 20 minutes. Turn several times with a fork. Creamed new potatoes, buttered asparagus, hot rolls, green salad and lemon pie tie up deliciously with chicken fried Iowa's way.

Old-Fashioned Fried

Old-fashioned style: Sprinkle salt and pepper over cut chicken, then lightly dust it with flour and brown it quickly in chopped bacon, melted in a frying pan. Cover tightly, lower heat and cook 30 minutes. Pour in 1-4 cup boiling water last 5 minutes of cooking. Transfer chicken to heated serving platter. Mix 4 tablespoons of flour with chicken drippings in the pan, add 1 cup water and 2-3 cup milk and cook until creamy. Pour this over the chicken and surround with sweet potato fritters. Garnish with spiced pears. Serve buttered cauliflower surrounded by green beans, hot biscuits and currant jelly, tomato jelly salad and stuffed angel food cake for the dessert.

Smothered fried chicken: Quickly brown cut-up floured chicken in 6 tablespoons of olive oil heated in a frying pan. Also brown 1-4 cup each of chopped onions and celery. Transfer to a well buttered casserole. Add 1-2 cup cream and 2-3 cup milk, sprinkle with salt, paprika and minced parsley and cover tightly. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Mix in a cup of mushrooms and bake 15 minutes. Uncover and bake 10 minutes to brown. Escalloped corn, buttered spinach, fruit salad and sponge cake round out this menu.

Fried chicken creole: Brown floured and seasoned chicken in any kind of fat heated in a frying pan. Transfer to a buttered baking dish, mix in 2-3 cup each of diced celery and boiled rice, 1-4 cup each of chopped onions and green peppers. Pour in 2 cups of tomatoes or tomato juice. Top with 3 tablespoons butter and cover. Bake 1 hour in a moderately slow oven. Uncover the last 10 minutes to brown. Serve with this corn bread, buttered cabbage, fruit gelatin salad and baked cherry roll.

Engraving of maps began in the year 1460. Before that date they were in manuscript.

TRIMMINGS—Fried chicken's good beyond doubt, but it needs trimmings, too, and here one of the favorites—pineapple fritters.

British Columbia's Gas Strike Ended

VICTORIA, B. C., May 3. (U.P.)—British Columbia's week long gasoline strike was ended today and foot weary motorists were riding again.

The government and oil companies compromised on a base rate of 25 cents for standard fuel against a previously fixed price of 24 cents an imperial gallon. Oil companies refused to supply distributors when the provincial petroleum board cut prices three cents a gallon.

They sought a compromise, however, when Mayor J. Lyle Telford of Vancouver arranged to obtain 50,000 gallons of gasoline daily from Seattle, Wash.

Rindlaub To Succeed Capt. Pettit At Tech

Capt. Bruce Rindlaub, now on duty in the Philippine islands, will succeed Capt. Frank A. Pettit as commander of the Texas Technological college engineering unit of the Reserve Officers' Training corps, President Clifford B. Jones said Friday afternoon.

nest O. Thompson Urges Attendance At Democratic Precinct Conventions

His Intentions Not Disclosed

FORT WORTH, May 3 (U.P.)—Still non-committal about the possibility that he may run for governor, Col. Ernest O. Thompson said tonight that Texans should make a special effort to attend Democratic precinct meetings Saturday, a prelude to the most "important election in our lifetime."

Thompson declared before his radio broadcast that he will run for governor only if he feels that there is sufficient public demand.

"There is plenty of time for anyone to file for office up to June 1," he said. "But it seems to me that what happens to Ernest Thompson is unimportant compared with some of the great problems that confront our people.

Thinks Of Perils

"With war all about us, we must think first of the national perils that are ahead. A mad man is loose in Europe. We have talked of our splendid isolation, with the ocean separating us from Europe, but we must remember that Canada is a part of the British empire . . . Newfoundland is but two and a half hours from the United States by air . . .

"If Hitler should defeat England and occupy Newfoundland, Bermuda or Canada, our security would at once be changed to insecurity. Whoever though for a moment that little Denmark and Finland would be violated?"

With these factors to face, Thompson urged that all voters go to their precinct conventions Saturday to make their wishes known. He said that he was traveling all the way to Amarillo to participate in a Democratic precinct session.

"There probably never will be a more important election in our lifetime than the one that starts its momentum in Texas tomorrow,' he said.

Won't Err Again

Concerning the governor's race, Thompson added:

"Every once in a while, the voters will be carried away by some passing fancy. But they won't make the same mistake twice. It will take a different tune to fool them again."

Thompson asserted that his demand for a five-cent-a-barrel tax on oil has cost him much support among independent oil men, and that he had never received any endorsement from major companies.

"Every time I mention this five-cent oil tax I make enemies," he said. "But I know I am right, and I dare to fight for this tax to save our working people from the terror of a sales tax that would eat up a whole week's wages of every worker in Texas each year."

Salvador is the smallest and most densely populated of the Central American States.

There's Joker In Reward For Hitler

DALLAS, May 3. (AP)—As Dr. S. D. Myres, jr., sees it, there's quite a joker in that $1,000,000 reward for the delivery of Adolf Hitler to the League of Nations for trial.

Dr. Myres, head of the Arnold school of government at Southern Methodist university, who is regarded as something of an authority on the league, said the league cannot try an individual.

"I am surprised that the head of the Carnegie institute did not know this," he added, in reference to Samuel Harden Church, who made the offer in behalf of various groups.

"The (league) covenant deals with states—not with individuals—only states can be subject to international law," he said.

"The only way that Hitler can be brought to any kind of responsibility is for him to be assassinated."

An Englishwoman, Mrs. Sage, was the first woman to ascend in an air craft. She accompanied Vincent Lunardi in a balloon on June 29, 1785.

Club Boys To Meet Today

Club boys interested in the annual Lions club one-variety cotton contest are to meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the district courtroom to complete arrangements for their planting seed, said Monroe U. May, assistant county farm agent and club leader.

After the boys sign up and make their financial arrangements, seed will be distributed to them at the Panhandle-South Plains fair ground where 100 bushels has been stored.

To Use Same Plan

Practically the same plan will be used this year as in previous years. Planting will be limited to five acres and awards made at the close of the contest will be based on that acreage, and upon attendance at a cotton classing school to be held this summer at Texas Technological college. Gross income will count for 90 per cent and attendance 10 per cent.

Changes have been made in the varieties of seed available this year. Rogers Acala, D. P. & L. No. 11 and Paymaster, used in the previous years, will again be used.

Last year approximately 75 4-H club boys entered, but only a little over half completed the project due to very unfavorable weather conditions and drouth. Some of the boys lost their crops too late to replant.

To Teach Grading

In addition to club boys, vocational agriculture boys will be eligible. The eight vocational teachers of the county are making their arrangements for their own groups. The contest sponsored by the Lions club is for vocational and club boys only, all entrants must belong to one of the two groups.

Cash prizes will be awarded winners in two groups at the close of the season, when a field day is held and the cotton is checked, records examined and the crop sold.

Date for the cotton classing school has not been set, but will be announced soon. In it the boys will be taught how to class and grade cotton.

INDUSTRIALIST DIES

DETROIT, May 3 (AP)—Frederick J. Haynes, 69, long prominent in the automobile industry, died in a hospital here today. He was treasurer of the Automobile Manufacturers association.

Canada's 1938 honey crop was the largest on record, with an approximate production of 34,000,000 pounds.

Arline Judge Granted Divorce From Topping

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 3.—(U.P.)—Arline Judge, film actress, was granted a divorce today on ground of cruelty from Dan Topping, millionaire-sportsman and owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers professional football team.

According to a stipulation reached before the referee's hearing, Topping granted a $250,000 cash settlement and alimony of $1,000 a month for five years, and permitted his wife to retain custody of their son.

Among the allegations of cruelty, it was reported, were Topping's excessive drinking and friendship with other women, and an assertion he broke down his wife's bedroom door at Palm Springs, Cal., when she rebuked him for kissing a woman guest at a party.

The Toppings were married April 9, 1937 at Virginia City, Nev., after Miss Judge divorced Wesley Ruggles, film director. She also has custody of their son, Wesley Ruggles, jr.

Weatherman Relents But Bimelech Doesn't; Anyway, It's Kentucky Derby D

Nine Horses Entered In Classic But Bimmy Looks Like 'Natural'

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3. — Everything looked made to order for Big Boy Bimelech tonight.

A field of nine was named for tomorrow's 66th running of the Kentucky Derby and Old Man Weather promised to turn off his frost and rain faucets for the big doings.

Derby-town was on its usual jam-packed Derby-eve merry-go-round accompanied by the customary musical comedy didoes around the Fourth and Walnut corner and in every hotel lobby.

With sun and fair weather on tap, it was conceivable that the turnout might skyrocket over the 80,000 mark anticipated at Churchill Downs for the annual four-star turf show. The Derby field is slated to go to the post in the neighborhood of 4:45 p. m. (CST) to the tune of "My Old Kentucky Home" sung by Movie Actress Irene Dunne.

Bimmie Wants It Dry

Mr. Weather didn't say positively but if he does his stuff and provides a fast running strip, it will just make the whole mile-and-a-quarter affair more lopsided for Bimmie, who is bidding a fifth Derby victory for Col. E. R. Bradley and who probably will be the shortest priced favorite in the history of the classic.

If he's as good as 2 to 5 in the mutuels, the betting boys and girls will consider it a bargain, indeed, and if he wins (which just about everybody fully expects) he'll collect a neat $60,675 as the winner's end in a nine-horse race.

Seven Positive Starters

In the overnight field entered today—at least seven of which are positive starters—Bimelech is likely to have opposition only if the track is "off."

With the exception of Arnold Hanger's Dit, the $4,000 Saratoga yearling sales bargain who romped off with the Wood Memorial last week, the standouts are the slop-steppers, like William L. Brann's Pictor, a son of Challenger 2nd, who really can pick 'em up and lay 'em down in the soup; Royal Man, bought by Harold S. Clark, of Miami Beach, last winter for $15,000; Joseph E. Widener's Roan, never beaten in mud, and Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion.

On a fast track the threats are Dit and Mioland, the California glamour boy with the international bloodlines, for whom Charles S. Howard kicked in $15,000 a few months back.

Will Bradley See It?

The other two in the field are Sirocco, owned by Charles T. Fisher, of the Fisher Body Fishers, and the "Wonder Why" colt, True Star, a yearling sales purchase for $550 representing the barn of Martin J. Schmidtt, a local lawyer. True Star was a surprise entry this morning.

Dit and Sirocco are the geldings in the field; the rest are colts.

One of the mysteries around this Derby-daffy town tonight was whether Col. Bradley, aged and ailing, would come over from Lexington to see the colt he insists is the best he ever owned run for the all-time high Derby record for one owner.

Bimelech, undefeated in eight starts over his two year racing career, stands out as potentially the greatest thoroughbred since Man-O' War, and if he goes to the races as many times as he's expected to this year—the Preakness, the Belmont, the Withers and the Arlington classic and a few others with juicy pots—he may wind up as a greater money winner than Seabiscuit.

Angott Defeats Day For Title

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3. (AP)—Setting up a fearful pace all the way, Sammy Angott left-hooked his way to a decision victory over Davey Day tonight to win what the National Boxing association has called its version of the world's light weight championship. Angott weighed 134 1-2, Day, 134.

McKnight Pitches Dalbys To 10-6 Softball Win

Fourteen-strikeout, five-hit pitching by E. J. McKnight made up for some rather sloppy fielding by his mates, and Dalby took a 10 to 6 victory from Southwest Products in the feature game of the city softball league last night. In other contests, Central Labor won by forfeit from Good Eats and Sash and Door defeated Borden's, 15 to 13.

Only remaining undefeated team in the league, Home Lumber, goes into action against the Hub Laundry team at 8 o'clock tonight. Robinson Grocery, winner of their first game Thursday night after forfeiting a couple, returns to play Poultry and Egg in the windup.

See-Saw Contest

The Southwest Products-Dalby game started out to be a pitcher's battle, McKnight retired the Hair Oilers runless for four innings, while Bill Rodgers sent the Freighters back for three. Then in the fourth, Dalby batted Rodgers out with six consecutive hits, scored five times before Jake Geron could get them out.

Southwest tied the count with two in the fifth and four in the sixth—all resulting from poor fielding rather than incapable pitching—but four runs in the sixth gave Dalby the game.

The line scores:

Oilers Nip Loboes In Late Rally, 11 To 10

PAMPA, May 3. (Special)—Pampa's Oilers did it the hard way in defating Lamesa's Loboes here tonight, 11 to 10, in the series opener and initial nocturnal contest for the city. The Oilers had to come from behind with a three-run splurge in the final two frames to win.

Beeler paced Lamesa with two home runs on his first two trips to the platter. Stevens and Riordan hit three each for the Loboes, each getting a double in the deal. Summers led the Oiler attack with a triple and two singles.

Parrish fanned 12 Loboes in seven innings after relieving Vannoy.

Three Teams Seek District Crown Here Today

Max Minor Of Tahoka Sets Hot Pace In State Meet Prelims; Is Favored Today

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUSTIN, May 3. (AP)—Brady's defending champions were in the thick of the race for the state schoolboy track and field championship at the end of qualifying trials today but a one-man team from Tahoka and Ysleta's powerful squad threatened the Bulldogs supremacy.

Brady qualified four, the same number as Ysleta, as 62 schools put men in the finals during a day that saw one state record broken and another tied.

Equal Hurdles Record

Matthew Batts of San Antonio Tech pitched the javelin 201 feet 5 1-2 inches, almost five feet ahead of the record set in 1934 by D. C. O'Neil of Yoakum.

Max Minor, the one-man gang from Tahoka, raced through the 220-yard low hurles in 23.8 seconds to equal the time made by Jack McGarraugh of Edison (San Antonio) in hanging up the record in 1933.

Minor did this in the preliminaries and to show he wasn't fooling he turned in 23.9 in the semi-finals.

Won't Take Much

This sturdy youngster from the Plains country also had the best time in the 220-yard dash, which he negotiated in 21.7 seconds and ranked fourth in the broad jump.

It is highly probable that Minor may win the meet by himself. Two first places and a point or two in th ebroad jump would be a long stride toward carrying off honors in this traditionally tight meet.

Highland Park of Dallas, the pre-meet favorite, put two men and a relay team in the finals which means the Scotties are running about true to form and should be up around the top when the last race is run tomorrow.

Highlander Is 'Cinch'

Ralph Schrimpf, the brilliant Highlander half-miler, ran the distance in 2:01.7 to lead the qualifiers. He was not extended and looked like a certainty to win the event.

The relay team did not fare so well, however, as Port Arthur's quartet roared in with a time of 3:28.4, more than a second ahead of the Highlanders.

Larry Wolf qualified for Highland Park in the 440-yard dash but his time was the fifth fastest in 51.4. Leroy Mattingly of Brackenridge (San Antonio) sped the distance in 50.4 to lead the field. This is more than a second over the record.

Relay Team Qualifies

Brady's Bulldogs qualified its relay team but ran fourth in the time. Aubrey Shaw, Brady's state javelin champion, ranked next to Batts with a throw of 194 feet 3 inches. Miles McInnis qualified in the 120-yard high hurdles in the slowest heat.

The other Bulldog qualifier was Bitsy Jarvis who broad jumped 21 feet 2 inches to rank far down the line.

Ysleta's qualifiers were Bill Barry in the javelin, Lawrence Roberts in the high jump, Chester Spier in the 120-yard hurdles and Eddie Olsen in the 220-yard low hurdles. Barry, one of the leading javelin throwers of the state in the regional meets, was not up to standard today, tossing only 177 feet 3 1-2 inches.

Bitter Schoolboy Rivalry Emerges In Tournament

By JAY HARRIS
Avalanche Sports Writer

A trio of red hot schoolboy nines let their hair down in earnest at Fox Park this afternoon to climax the second annual District High school diamond melee with the enviable prize plum an expense-paid journey to Dallas two weeks hence to participate in the all-Texas tournament.

Burning with desire for a revenge shot at undefeated Whitharral, defending champion, Coach Fred Rich's Cooper crew and Coach Ira Steele's Frenship machine tangle in the afternoon's semi-final opener at 2 o'clock.

Three Games Possible

Winner of the fray will take a short rest, then match wits and base hits with the rugged squad from Whitharrel, a small community of rabid baseball enthusiasts ten miles north-northeast of Levelland in Hockley county.

Should Whitharral's confident clouters lose the second game, it would be necessary for them to come back for another test to determine titlist—the double loss elimination system being in use in the tourney.

Hot Battles In Prospect

All bitter rivals, the Cooper-Frenship-Whitharral triangle promises to produce some of the best ball of the three-day event. Should Cooper's hopefuls barge into the final fray with the charges of Coach W. G. Sanderson as it seems they will, the ensuing proceedings should rival the best debates the game can offer.

Roosevelt went out via the double defeat route Friday afternoon, succumbing to Frenship, 15-12, after a late eight-run rally was stifled. Frenship then sat by and watched Cooper grab a quick three-run lead on the defending champions.

Whitharral Comes Back

But Cooper, last year's runner-up—extremely anxious to get another parting blow at Whitharral, crumbled under pressure when its defense fell apart in the fifth and the winners started connecting, five tallies crossing the platter that frame.

Three more came in in the sixth and six more clinched the interesting affair in the last and seventh stanza.

Newsom Hurls Three-Hitter

Outstanding individual performance of the day was that reeled off by Pitcher Weldon Newsom of Whitharral, a three-hitter being registered to his credit. First Baseman N. Womack's booming double in the second and stout singles in succession by C. Gill, right fielder, and Red Phillips, centerfielder, in the fourth were sold threats in hitting that Cooper made.

Newsom found himself in trouble to any great degree in the third, a combination of three errors and a walk permitting Cooper to count twice. He shared batting honors with Gray, Catcher Wayne Waters aiding in this department with a

Cowboys Tan Clovis 14 To 5, In Opener

CLOVIS, May 3. (Special) — Finishing with a burst of speed that netted eight runs in the final three innings, Midland's rampant Cowboys registered a convincing 14 to 5 decision over Clovis here tonight.

The setback sent the Pioneers into the cellar slot, Lubbock moving up a notch with a victory at Borger.

Roscoe Hunt and Hyer toiled for the losers, giving up 13 hits between them. Johnson, working for Midland, was touched for 10 bingles. Nine Pioneers errors contributed to their setback.

Aniela Goldthwaite Holds To Steady Game, Defeats Champion Jameson 6 And 5

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, May 3.—Comely Mrs. Aniela Goldthwaite, who traded tournament golf for the business of rearing two daughters some two years ago, returned for the sweetest triumph of her career today — a clean, 6 and 5 blasting of National Champion Betty Jameson.

The 27-year-old Fort Worth matron, one of golf's most beautiful competitors, methodically erased America's links queen with cold, errorless play to enter the finals of the Women's Texas Golf association tournament against Mrs. Earl R. Hury of San Antonio.

One Under Par

Two-time member of the United States Curtis Cup team, former Southern and Texas titlist, Mrs. Goldthwaite finished her match one under women's par, broke a stony silence of two hours with:

"There's the sweetest match I've ever won—my greatest thrill."

Seemingly oblivious to the fact that she had a foe, Mrs. Goldthwaite played her own game, shot for shot ignoring trouble that Miss Jameson constantly found and going for her pars.

Miss Jameson, erratic throughout the first three matches of the tournament, thus relinquished a Texas title she had held four years without interruption.

Too many times Miss Jameson's tee shots and long irons strayed into trouble that flanks Brook Hollow's thread-the-needle fairways. She lost the first hole to Mrs. Goldthwaite's beautifully played four over the long 445 yards and didn't win her only hole of the match until the twelfth, where Mrs. Goldthwaite three-putted.

Betty In Trouble

Four straight pars on the first four holes gave Mrs. Goldthwaite a three hole lead, Betty dropping the third when she exploded from one trap to another and losing the fourth when her tee shot soared over the 165-yard one shotter. A missed shot from a trap cost her the fifth and again at the eighth.

But Betty really dissipated her last chance at the tenth when, after laying her tee shot some eight feet from the pin, she three-putted in a bold effort at a birdie.

Mrs. Goldthwaite was out in 38, making no mistakes, and then carded 3-4-6-4, women's par, on the five holes of the last side.

Burning the first nine in 37, only two shots over men's par, Mrs. Hury, lacing tremendous tee shots, owned a three hole lead over Mrs. Dan Chandler. The Dallas woman exploded from a trap at the tenth to save a hole, but she lost the twelfth to go four down and seemingly out of the match.

Mrs. Chandler Threatens

Mrs. Hury's putter suddenly grew cold and the rout turned into a golf match. On the thirteenth Mrs. Hury planted a long tee shot smack in front of the green, chipped up to within five feet—and then three-putted. Mrs. Chandler took a smooth four for a win and then added the fourteenth with a par.

On the long 500-yard fifteenth, Mrs. Hury again three-putted to lose her third straight hole and Mrs. Chandler went into the sixteenth only one down. She laid a great shot on the green, 225 yards distant, but three-putted herself to lose the hole. They halved the seventeenth to end the match.

Tomorrow's finals will be over 36 holes.

Sox Drop Big Spring, 18-7, To Hold Lead

AMARILLO, May 3. (Special)—Manager Claude Jonnard's league leading Gold Sox continued their merry way of clouting the apple all over the lot here tonight to pound two Big Spring hurlers for 18 hits and an 18 to 7 decision.

The winners played errorless ball throughout, the Barons being charged with one miscue.

Bus Dorman scattered 11 safe blows over the route as his mates started strong in the third and kept moving.

Buddy Baer Beats Nathan Mann To Bloody Pulp; Wins In 7th Round

NEW YORK, May 3. (AP) — Buddy Baer of Sacramento, Calif., won by a knockout over Nathan Mann of New Haven, Conn., after 1:36 of the seventh round of their scheduled 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Baer weighed 249 and Mann, 188.

The end came with dramatic abruptness after six rounds in which the lighter man held his own and carried the fight to the apathetic logey Baer.

Leaping from his stool at the start of the seventh, Baer rushed across the ring and began to belabor Mann with a series of long, vicious rights and lefts.

A right under the heart put Mann down for a nine count. He arose groggy and bleeding but fought back gamely, but mammoth Baer scented the kill and followed his opponent around the ring pouring in volleys of punishment from all directions.

Again Mann went down for nine and when he arose, his face a gory smear, he dazedly turned his back on Baer and started for his corner. Referee Arthur Donovan walked over to Baer and hoisted his hand as the winner.

TRENDS SHIFT

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—It was a swing-high—swing-low stock market today with war influences providing the motivation for rapidly shifting trends.

The list nose-dived in the forenoon but on a sudden rebound reduced losses running to 2 or more points or transformed them into gains of as much.

The pace quickened both on the relapse and quick recovery. Activity slackened toward the close. Final advances were well under the best and declines were widely distributed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, despite the rebound, finished off .1 of a point at 49.8. Transfers expanded to 1,070,750 shares from 645,420 the day before. It was the first million-share day since April 19.

Steels and motors led the morning slump and were among the first to revive. Ending with plus marks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, Consolidated Edison, Baldwin Locomotive, Crown Zellerbach, Rayonier and American-Hawaiian Steamship.

Chrysler was down 1¼ as some disappointment was shown over failure of directors to declare a larger dividend.

Up as much as a point or so in the curb were Aluminum of America, Hammermill Paper, Pantepec and American Republics.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—Foreign news, Washington political developments and crop reports ganged up on the cotton futures market today and depressed prices 4 to 10 points.

Foreign offerings put prices back at the start and despite a short-lived rally the list headed down to close at the day's lows.

Initial losses were extended by active hedging sales against both domestic and South American growths.

Most effective clamp on speculative buying interest, in the opinion of many brokers, was the tie-up in a joint House-Senate committee considering the appropriation bill of the department of agriculture. The committee failed to agree on the section affecting parity payments and disposal of surplus farm products, which went back to Congress.

Favorable weather was a further weight on buying forces and tended to bring out foreign as well as domestic selling.

Bombay houses sold July and October actively as they liquidated straddle holdings in New York against the reverse deals abroad.

Exports Thursday 38,776 bales; season so far 5,915,011. Port receipts 10,821; port stocks 2,657,106.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, May 3 (AP)—The average price of middling 15-16ths-inch cotton at 10 designated southern spot markets today was 6 lower at 10.66 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days was 10.61. Middling ⅞ths-inch average was 10.42 cents a pound.

The rally was due to buying based largely on the critical European situation, particularly in the Mediterranean, strength in securities and a revival of inflation gossip.

Independent early strength in corn and oats helped to bolster wheat during the first hour.

Corn closed ⅝ to 1⅛ higher than yesterday, May 65⅝, July 66⅛@66⅝; oats ⅛ to ⅝ up; soy beans ⅝ to 1 up; rye 1 to 1¼ higher and lard 3 to 10 higher.

Masten Farm Shown

cowhands to do some fancy riding. They even went so far as to get the three tenderfeet mounted. Masten was his own ringmaster and Dean A. H. Leidigh of Texas Technological college suggested the Panhandle-South Plains fair might do well to hire him to stage some shows next fall.

Springer Cooks Barbecue

A group of Masten's old neighbors in Wellington, headed by Maurice Dickson, a ginner, and H. C. Dickey, came over, leaving Wellington at 6:30 o'clock and stopping at Matador where they got three half-grown coyotes for entertainment.

The party left Lubbock shortly before noon and arrived at the ranch at 1 o'clock. After the visitors were introduced, the barbecue was served. It was prepared under the direction of Springer, assisted by Oscar Frazier.

Adjourning to the cotton fields, Masten had six tractors to give a demonstration of planting seed without a driver. The machines were started and the drivers jumped off and ran alongside, getting on only to shut off the power. The machines then returned to the starting place.

Two tractors were used to show how weeds were killed. J. P. York of Lubbock Joint Stock Co., Inc., whose company sold the tractors, assisted in the field demonstration. Four row planters were attached to each machine.

See Riding Stunts

T. A. Holman and J. O. Perry of Lubbock, each had two hounds for the coyote hunt and J. P. Cunningham of Morton had five. Ward and several cowboys chased the coyotes one of which ran in the opposite direction of the open field and got lost among the machinery. The dogs were then used to chase rabbits.

Ward with a trained horse, entertained with some riding stunts, including a demonstration to show how a cowboy takes his mount from one place to another, in a trailer attached to a pickup. He put the animal in the trailer, drove the pick-up around and then stopped, letting the horse get out and then get back into the trailer alone.

Eighteen Tractor Drivers

Masten explained that he was operating 6,400 acres north and west of Morton, all but 400 being in cultivation. He has 2,350 acres in cotton and 3,700 in feed and neutral acres. Using six tractors day and night, he estimates he can plant approximately 600 acres a day. The machines average better than 75 acres a day in two shifts.

Eighteen men are used when tractors are in operation. There are a number of other employes, including two foremen.

During the serving of the barbecue Garland J. Moore, an old time fiddler and Gordon Houghton, with a guitar, entertained. Three Wellington musicians, Alva Woods and Vernon and Morris Brown also entertained.

Visitors Named

During the afternoon a number of Morton business men and nearby farmers visited the farm to watch operations.

From Wellington were, W. D. Cottingame, county agent; Ike Emmert, C. E. Roberts, C. V. Griffin, R. L. Simpson, John Harper, W. R. Adams, L. C. O'Neal, E. R. Dent, H. C. Dickey and Jap Smith.

In the Lubbock party, besides Dean Leidigh were, Henry P. Clay, Texas Technological college; Douglas Pounds, W. S. (Buck) Moss, Maple Wilson, W. A. Dykes, F. A. McClain, Roy Riddel, R. D. Shinkle and F. A. McClain. Other visitors included Kenneth Cox, Lamesa; V. P. Jones, county farm agent and T. H. McElroy, assistant at Amherst; E. M. Carter, Plainview and W. G. Kennedy, Muleshoe.

Norwegians Ask For Armistice

war materials.

"Any further fighting would only lead to destruction, without serving any military purpose.

Incomprehensible Act

"I therefore am notifying the German military command to establish contact toward establishing peace in the Tronddlag area (all the area both north and south of Trondheim), as has been done in the southern part of the country.

"It is my heavy duty as acting commander of Tronddlag to give this notice to the soldiers under my command."

To this, Colonel Getz added:

"It was an incomprehensible action on the part of the British and French, without notifying me, to lay open my flanks in the rear so I was cut off from any possible retreat toward Mosjoen."

British Denial

(The British war office later issued a statement in London that "there is no foundation for the statement that the Norwegian commander-in-chief was not informed of the Allied decision to evacuate the Trondheim area or that he has negotiated an armistice. The commander-in-chief of the Norwegian army and his staff embarked on a British man of war on the night of May 1-2, 1940."

(The British statement did not name the "commander-in-chief." Colonel Getz made his order of the day as acting commander of Tronddlag in the central Norwegian area around Namsos).

German troops were expected in the area held by the Norwegians at any moment.

Doubt Expressed

The Allies' general withdrawal from all the center of the country left them with a grip upon Norway only in the far northern sector about Narvik, the German-held iron ore port.

Whether some of the troops withdrawn from central Norway would go there was in doubt—(one British officer said they were going "to England")—but in any event, the war in central Norway was finished.

All fighting was reported stopped.

The British and their French "blue devil" supporters pulled out of the Steinkjer-Namsos front, 60 to 100 miles north of German-occupied Trondheim, leaving behind entrenchments, supplies and ill-equipped, hopelessly outflanked Norwegians. Then they sailed away in their ships.

Norwegians Not Told

If Colonel Getz can be believed, they did this without even telling the Norwegians and hence ruining his line of retreat northward along the railway and motor road to Mosjoen, some 80 miles away.

At Narvik, the Arctic ore port which the Allies have ringed—some 300 miles north of Namsos — the British and French, apparently, expect reinforcements, preliminary to starting a push from three directions on the town. German forces still are holding out at Narvik, and, even there, are reported in some advices to be showing signs of offensive action in an effort to break the siege.

German bombers also have penetrated on to the Narvik area, and are described as active.

News of the Allied departure from Steinkjer and Namsos came suddenly and stunningly, on the 24th day of Norway's invasion.

The world already knew of the withdrawal of the British expeditionary force, in the face of German air superiority, from their Andalsnes foothold 100 miles southwest of Trondheim.

Facts Are Disclosed

Before then, even, the Germans, holding all of southern Norway, had hammered a line of communication from Oslo all the way to Trondheim, where a nazi landing force took possession at the start of the campaign.

But it had been presumed that the British troops from Andalsnes would go to Namsos and that the British and the French Alpine Chasseurs who were with them there would try to form a line across the country above Trondheim, from the coast to the Swedish border.

Instead, it became known today that the French began moving out of Namsos Wednesday night and the British—under heavy German plane attack—Thursday night.

Filled With Troops

The bomb-packed streets of Namsos were filled all Thursday with troops marching to the docks, said correspondents who got their stories across the border only today.

They were taken out to six troopships, guarded by destroyers, which lay at anchor in the fjord.

"A German bomb dropped near one destroyer, killing thirty and wounding sixty," said one Swedish correspondent.

On the Steinkjer front, the Germans were expected at any time.

The British had suffered heavily there—a whole battalion was cut up by a nazi company ten days ago. The main factor in stemming the German advance, since then, has been the valiant defense by Norwegian troops.

Fight Seems Hopeless

But now the Norwegians' fight seems hopeless.

Although the British left trucks, army cars and a wealth of other supplies behind, and these supplies now are being speedily distributed to the remaining Norwegian troops on the Steinkjer front, it is not enough.

The Norwegians themselves, with scarcely enough ammunition for ten minutes of heavy firing, are being encircled.

In any event, advices coming across the border tonight indicated Narvik now is the chief area of combat, and there was speculation that the Namsos Allies may be headed for there.

The Allies at Narvik now include both British and French blue devils.

Within the port, the Germans have blown up the ore docks while German air bombs drum steadily on the Allied siege lines.

The Allies are awaiting supplies, as well as more men.

Destruction of the ore docks will keep the British from using them for shipments for Narvik, even though they take the town. Moreover, the Germans still are masters of the iron ore line to the Swedish border and Swedish mines, and could destroy the line and tunnels, if need be.

Besides the British and French troops at Narvik, there may be some British patrols at Tromso, 125 miles further north.

Attend Your Convention!

IF MORE people appreciated the importance of party conventions in determining affairs of government, more would attend the precinct conventions to be held all over Texas this afternoon.

However, regardless what might be said or done, the conventions today doubtless will follow the usual pattern. In the typical convention, a handful of voters will assemble. If, in one gathering out of each 100, the attendance is sufficiently large to be genuinely representative of the citizenship of the precinct, it will be most unusual.

Yet it is in the conventions—not by direct vote of the people—that party platforms and policies will be determined. In the conventions will be decided, for example, whether the Texas delegations to the national conventions will be instructed for any candidates and who those candidates are to be.

In the Democratic conventions will be the actual decision as to whether the Texas delegation will be instructed for Vice President John Nance Garner, for President Roosevelt, for some other candidate, or will not be instructed at all.

Today's convention will afford Texans their only direct opportunity to say whom they want for President of the United States. After the conventions today, they either take or leave whatever the state and the national conventions may offer them.

Another reason why the "average" citizen should attend today's conventions is the certainty that those with selfish interests, with axes to grind, who may be tools of machine politics will be on hand. The individual who is interested only in an efficient, honest and economical government should be present to protect his own interests.

The conventions are to be held at the polling place of each precinct. The Republican conventions have been announced for 3 o'clock and the Democrat for 4 p. m.

For your own protection, try to attend your convention.

Figures Tell The Story

CERTAIN complications announced recently by the American Iron and Steel institute regarding that industry doubtless are somewhat typical of the increased tax burden that industry as a whole has been required to bear within recent years.

The figures from the institute do not necessarily prove that the industry is overtaxed now. On the contrary, they admit rather substantial earnings in the total sum. But the report is interesting to the layman for at least two reasons: One is its evidence that the particular industry either was under-taxed 10 years ago or is overtaxed today; the other is that it presents in understandable form just what taxation means in terms of wages that could be paid or additional workers who could be employed if tax money should be applied to payrolls.

According to the institute's figures, the industry paid approximately $141,000,000 in taxes last year, as compared with $103,000,000 in 1929. Taxes last year, according to the claims, represented "more than half of the industry's net earnings." That still acknowledges a substantial aggregate of net earnings even if the fact should be overlooked that the steel industry is one in which enormous salaries are paid to certain of the high executives—those salaries being charged against operating expenses. However, those financial statements are so involved as to be beyond the comprehension of even the layman who is willing to accept the industry's figures exactly as represented.

But certain other statements are not beyond average comprehension. For example, anyone can understand the claim that taxes amounted to $332 for each wage earner employed during the year; or the statement that the taxes represented a year's pay for 92,500 employes.

Probably the iron and steel industry is not in great need of sympathy. Doubtless it has been guilty of its full share of questionable and selfish practices. But even so, its report does suggest a picture of why it is that industry has been unable to progress more rapidly in providing private employment for those now on the semi-charity of public payrolls.

"We have little patience with the person whose chief thoughts in spring are of sandstorms and housecleaning," notes E. L. Hill in the Lynn County News, Tahoka. "To such we would say, 'drop it for awhile and spend a little time searching for the beautiful in your home town!'"

Little Spitfire

By Joan Randall

YESTERDAY: Abner tells Brenda the reason he so bitterly opposes Alaine's marrying Ned. He believes that Ned is supporting another woman. Brenda offers to find out the truth.

Chapter 14
Maud

"What shall I do about it all?" Brenda asked Hugh Saltus.

"Must you do anything? Better not, little Brenda. Trying to help other people gets you into the devil of a mess sometimes. I knew a man once," he went on deliberately, "who tried to do something to help another person — something that cost him quite a bit of time and trouble, to say nothing of money—and the reward he got for it was to lose the—the affection and respect of the—the only person he cared a single whoop for in this rotten old world!"

Brenda's hands gripped each other tightly in her lap. Was Hugh telling his own story? Surely he wouldn't put so much emphasis, so much bitterness, in a tale which had to do with another! She hoped with all her heart he would go on, but he merely laid aside his pencil and flung himself down in a chair, both hands clasped wearily behind his head.

"But I'm already in it," she ventured presently. "That is, I've told Alaine I'd talk to her about Ned, and Ned that I'd do my best for him with Alaine. I can't just shrug the whole thing off my shoulders like this, Hugh!"

"Then talk to Mac about it," he advised. "You say Mac saw the—the incriminating deed. Also Mac's got sense. Lots of it, little Brenda. Sometimes you don't realize that, do you?"

Here she was on firm ground. "Now let me tell you something, Hugh! I know that in our best fiction—our worst, too, if it comes to that!—the hero and heroine of a romance always start out by being bitter enemies. Mac and I made a swell beginning along those lines. But this story's not going to be like that," she informed him sternly. "In the first place, Isobel Burke's simply mad about him—and don't think he doesn't know it! Wedding bells are going to ring on The Shortest Street within the year, but the name of the bride isn't going to be Brenda Burnham!"

"And in the second place——" he suggested.

"In the second place, Mac's antagonism to me—or mine to him — is the real thing. There's no underlying feeling of romance, or attraction—anything like that. I just plain don't like him and more than suspect that he'd enjoy his happy home—or Adelaide's happy home — a lot more if I suddenly packed my trunk and departed for parts unknown."

"Methinks the damsel ——"

"I shall throw something if you say 'doth protest too much!'"

"The second pillow to your right — the green one — is the best for throwing purposes!" the artist said.

'A Real Chat'

Maud Van Ness telephoned to ask Brenda for luncheon.

"But you simply mustn't refuse," she protested. "Doctor"—she invariably gave her father his professional title—"is so eager to talk over old times with you. We won't keep you long. It's only a step, you know, across the lawns. At one, then. Now don't disappoint us!"

"I suppose I must go?" Brenda demanded gloomily of her landlady.

"Oh, I think so, my dear! Maud's very sensitive. No one knows just what does hurt her feelings sometimes. You won't have to stay long—I hope," she added.

"I shall be home by two-thirty," was Brenda's affirmed determination.

But as it turned out it was almost four when she wearily crossed the lawns and ascended the stairs to her own room. It had been a trying social experience, if one could call anything so dismal by that festive name.

To begin with Dr. VanNess was absent. His daughter made excuse and apology for him, but Brenda suspected that from the beginning she had known he could not be there. The meal itself was so hearty as almost to constitute a dinner: soup, roast, salad, dessert, coffee. Brenda felt positively torpid as they left the table, but Miss VanNess seemed stimulated by the enormous quantities of food she had consumed.

"What keeps her from getting fat?" Brenda wondered. "She's bony as a bed-slat and yet if she eats like this every day——" She gave it up with a sigh. There were mysteries on The Street far beyond her understanding.

"Now," said Maud coyly, "we can talk! I've been longing for a real chat with you."

Brenda eyed her severely. Miss VanNess would never see fifty again. She had small eyes of an indeterminate color, hair that slithered and slipped about a head too small for it, a chin which receded until it was almost no chin at all.

"I want so much to ask your advice," went on the hostess. "We lead such a secluded life here on The Street that I . . . My dear, I suppose you've had scads of Proposals?" She pronounced the word with such a mixture of solemnity and relish that Brenda had hard work to bite back a smile.

"Not—scads exactly."

"But some? A few? Even one?" She leaned forward anxiously.

"Yes," the girl admitted. "A . . . few."

"Then, dearie, you're the one to advise me." Miss VanNess clasped her hands together tightly. "You see living on this street is almost like being on an island. We—at least the womenfolks—see very few other people than our neighbors. And until you came I've been the only young woman——"

"There's Alaine Abernathy," Brenda reminded her, "And Isobel!"

"Alaine is a child. She knows nothing of romance. Isobel — poor Isobel, I fear, will never stir men's hearts. She's too homely."

Brenda said with spirit: "I don't think she's homely at all! Her skin is lovely, and her mouth ——"

Maud VanNess waved Isobel away impatiently.

"I asked her once if she'd ever had a proposal and she said no. So that rules her out. Please, Brenda, let's don't waste time. The doctor may return earlier than — earlier than usual. I want to consult you I must consult you!"

'A Little Shy'

"Yes?" Brenda was beginning to feel a little bored. She considered she had done her full duty by remaining here for lunch. She wanted to get home and to work on her book. But plainly this unattractive woman had something which weighed heavily on her mind; something about which she erroneously believed her caller could advise her.

Maud began to pleat her handkerchief. It was an affair of pink chiffon, about as unsuitable to a September afternoon as could be imagined.

"It's about Judge Harper," she began in a low voice. "He — he's been in love with me for years, Brenda."

The girl could not restrain a start of surprise. Dignified Judge Harper, with his silvery hair and somewhat stiff gait, was the last man on The Street she would have connected with the grand passion. And to have fallen in love with Maud VanNess; Horrified, she heard her own voice asking:

"Are you sure?"

Maud bridled. "Most certainly I'm sure! He's—he's done everything but tell me about it, I assure you. There have been times" — she sighed — "you will understand me, my dear, when I tell you that there have been times when his devotion has been positively embarrassing."

"What did you wish to ask me, Miss VanNess?"

"Say Maud, dear! We're friends already, don't you feel it? Oh, I was going to consult you, wasn't I?" The big handkerchief began to move swiftly in her hands; swiftly and nervously. "It's — it's —how do you bring a man to the point of proposing, Brenda?" she shot at her guest suddenly.

Brenda's dimples came into view, she dropped her lashes to hide the laughter in her eyes.

"But I thought you said his devotion was ——"

"It is! Oh, it is! Others besides myself have noticed it! But the dear judge is a little shy. He can't quite bring himself to the point of asking me to marry him."

Brenda swallowed. Judge Harper shy! This was farce of an unbelievable quality.

"And will you accept him if he does—bring himself to the point?"

The handkerchief was now being wrung like a dishcloth. ("It will never be fit to use again, thank goodness!" Brenda mused.) "Oh, yes, dear, I think so. He's so alone, the poor dear man; and he's cared for me so long and faithfully. Even before his wife died——" she began, then stopped, significant eyes on the girl's face.

"Some — some years. Twenty-eight or nine, I believe. I was, of course, a mere child then; unconscious of what . . . but others have told me since."

SUDAN, May 3—Sudan telephone users may have an opportunity to get a dial telephone system, said F. L. Butler, special agent of the Southwestern Associated Telephone company of Lubbock.

AUSTIN, May 3 (AP)—Maj. Walton D. Hood, former Texas commander of the American legion, will be a candidate for state railroad commissioner.

Hood announced that he will enter the race after tendering his resignation as chief enforcement officer of the motor division of the commission. The resignation is to be effective May 15.

Hood's formal announcement of candidacy and statement of platform will be issued later.

The News Behind The News

By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT Roosevelt's third-term decision may depend upon whether he can satisfy himself that he will be a sure winner in November. He will take no chance on walking out of the White House as a defeated and discredited Chief Executive. So far the primaries and private canvasses have furnished no conclusive evidence that he can successfully violate tradition.

His transcontinental trip in June is generally regarded as an attempt to test his popularity with the people and the politicians. Besides his public appearances, he will consult the local bosses and pulse fingerers in every state he visits. What he learns from them may be the determining factor when, as now expected, the convention indicates that he can have the nomination if he will take it. He will also enjoy the advantage of knowing the identity of the GOP nominee.

Key Democratic leaders are sharply split over his reelection prospects. Their own personal prejudices and ambitions shape their viewpoints as much as their regard for the President and the party. The "palace guard"—Messrs. Ickes, Hopkins, Cohen, Corcoran—want him to make the try for obvious reasons. So do men like Mayors Hague and Kelley, who figure that he will help to elect their local tickets. But if he talks with hard-boiled realists like National Chairman Farley, Vice-President Garner and Bennett Clark—which he probably won't—he will receive the frank advice that he cannot brave the third-term tradition and get away with it.

ALARM: Martin Dies promises sensational revelations as a result of his undercover investigation of the scope and operations of a "Fifth Column" in the United States, Mexico and South America. His mail on the threat of an internal invasiin has increased 10-fold since the Norwegian affair, and he insists that his checkup has struck foreign dirt.

Communists, fascists and nazis have penetrated churches, civic clubs, the colleges, labor unions and youth groups, according to the tall Texan. Thousands are now working in key factories and business concerns. Trained propagandists have been sent into Mexico by the thousands under assumed names, including some of Berlin's and Moscow's ablest troublemakers. The influx of aliens below the Rio Grande, he maintains, is far greater than a complacent American public senses. Mexican authorities privately concede that foreign arrivals have reached huge proportions.

Mr. Dies can hardly be blamed for capitalizing—perhaps overcapitalizing—revelations of Hitler's Trojan Horse technique. But the fact is that once-skeptical officials here have grown alarmed; the scoffs have been shaken out of them. Washington's concern over this problem accounts for creation of the new "spy division" in the Department of Justice.

COMMENT: Even close friends of James A. Farley cocked their eyebrows at apparently inspired claims that he now commands sufficient delegates for the Presidential nomination if FDR bows himself out of the national picture. It appears that the politicos are playing a cagey game even though it involves deception of such a popular figure as the national chairman.

Local bosses want to make no comments until they know the President's plans. With the exception of a very few, they are most excellent bandwagon jumpers. So the easiest way to dodge the importunities of friends of other candidates—Messrs. Garner, McNutt, Clark, Barkley, etc.—is to serve notice that they favor renomination of Mr. Roosevelt. When pressed for their second choice—and any alternative candidate will enjoy an advantageous spot if FDR does not run—they fall back on "Jim". No rival can buck a Roosevelt-Farley preference, even though he may suspect that it is a stall.

Mr. Farley—make no mistake about it—is the best loved political figure in the Democratic party, except for the President. The politicians would be only too glad to nominate him for first or second place if they thought he would be acceptable to FDR and could win. But they are extremely dubious on both counts and, as the President recently said to a visitor, they "hope Jim won't be too disappointed if he finds that he can't make it."

WORKERS: The Federal Reserve system's personnel has been quietly transformed under the regime of men like Chairman Marriner S. Eccles and Members Chester Davis and Ernest G. Draper. It no longer consists of bankers who look at America only with the eyes of men deep in finance.

With only one exception—and he is a holdover—the chairman of the board of the regional districts are business men, industralists, agricultural experts, lawyers. Every advisory committee now contains a practical or theoretical farmer wise in the ways of making money out of the soil. Typical of the new membership are Owen D. Young and Robert E. Wood of Sears-Roebuck. They bring to their assignment a broader understanding of the nation's problems—in war, near-war or peace—than did the old-fashioned bankers.

The change also represents a definite saving in dollars and cents. Formerly the board chairmen received salaries ranging from $25,000 to $50,000. Their successors serve for nothing, and they work at it, too. At a recent Board conference Mr. Young gave instructions to his office not to interrupt him with phone calls under any circumstances.

NEW YORK
By Richard Waldo

DIPLOMATS here were surprised to discover Herr Ribbentrop's shot in the dark scored as many hits as it did. Privately they are generally agreed that the documents alleging Britain's plans to invade Norway stand up only if allowance is made for their having been prepared by Territorial officers—not by trained military men. But after the recent Bullitt-Kennedy revelations—widely acknowledged as accurate—a shell like the last one found a lot of believers.

Actually, the general staff of every country has a military blueprint for the attack on neighboring countries in peace or war. It is not even debatable that England has such charts against the contingency of a war against any world power, including the U. S., and that it is the standing job of the admiralty and general staff to bring them up to date regularly. A surprise raid into the archives of all major powers would show what Admiralties do with their spare time.

This much is known of British foreign policy—that the creation of a battlefront in Scandinavia, preferably Finland and Sweden, was an objective as far back as January. But that the plans had taken such concrete shape as to make it a question of ten hours whether Briton or nazi got there first is generally discounted. Not to do so would be to rate British organising abilities at a lower level than seems creditable.

PRIVATE: A little known story of American stakes in the Scandinavian trouble shows the chastening influence the Neutrality law has had on shipping tycoons. It's mum when the waterfront is in trouble—in the hope that Congressional isolationists will keep their seats and let the shippers settle problems their own way.

Hitler's blitzkrieg in the North caught some 1500 Danish and Norwegian vessels on the high seas with more than $200,000,000 worth of American exports in the holds. For a week it was touch and go whether more than a quarter of this floating fortune would reach destination, whether it would be captured, interned or unloaded in off-route ports for auctioning. To the credit of some trigger-thinking Yanks—aided by plenty of luck—an estimated 95% of the cargo will reach destination without greater inconvenience than a small delay and some extra charterage costs.

This epidemic of murder rings, which has the police going around in circles, winds up as another argument for the straight and narrow.

Chairman Dies knows how it feels to be a census enumerator. It's getting so no one will answer his committee's questions, either.

Here And There In T

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
Associated Press Staff Writer

A HAIR'S breadth means exactly that to a dozen transplanted New Englanders employed at Houston in what may be a big Texas industry some day—mohair sorting.

Solely with his sense of sight and touch, a mohair sorter will ascertain in which of 30 possible matchings a batch of goat's hair belongs—a matching in which the individual hair may be measured in ten-thousandths of an inch.

The hair, for example, may be, .0030 or 0067 of an inch in diameter, or 13 other measurements between those two.

The mohair, shipped in mostly from West Texas, is dumped on tables divided into stalls for the sorters. The men seize batch after batch, eye it, feel it, and toss it into a box reserved for hair of its particular classification.

The operation is completed so swiftly the sorters handle 400-500 pounds daily in an eight hour stretch.

The speed with which the men work, however, does not mean carelessness results;

The sorter's decisions are calibrated regularly with mechanical micrometers by the Bureau of Standards and must be correct.

Errors Are Costly

Daimeter, length and color are considered in weaving fine mohair velvets, plushes and other fabrics, and the sorter must be practically 100 per cent efficient. A single error may mean the ruin of a costly fabric.

The mohair sorter's job is his lifetime profession, and so he takes good care of his health generally and his eyes especially. Some of them read little, in order to save any strain on their eyes.

Wearing glasses will not always, reduce a sorter's efficiency, but when he first begins wearing them, his speed usually slows a bit.

FRANK M. MONTAGUE of Bandera and Peter Ingenhuett of comfort are pioneering the business with the sorters. Back of this simple statement lies an interesting story.

Some time ago, Montague and Ingenhuett decided there was no need to send their mohair to a sorting establishment in New England before it went to the mills for processing.

They organized a firm—the Ingenhuett and Montague company, but ran into trouble when they sought to obtain sorters.

Except for the Houston establishment, there is no mohair sorting plant South of New England.

Reforming State Prison System Is Sugge

State Support Needs Cited

GALVESTON, May 3 (U.P.)—District Judge Langston G. King of Houston asserted today that 1,000 of the 3,000 new inmates of Texas prisons last year could have been "taken care of" under an adequate adult probation system without sentences.

Judge King told the annual convention of the Texas Welfare association that the present system of penalizing offenders against society badly needs correction and urged legislation to create a probation system to those similar in other states and in federal courts.

Sectional Meeting

The judge spoke at a sectional meeting this morning after the convention last night elected Dr. Daniel Russell, sociology department head at Texas A. and M. college, president of the association and selected Dallas as the 1941 meeting city.

Cost of probation runs from $40 to $60 per persons, Judge King said, compared with a cost ranging from $250 to $400 per person to maintain inmates in penitentiaries.

"Too many times a conscientious judge, taking judicial action in a criminal case according to old and defined roles, from which he dare not depart, feels that he is aiding in the miscarriage of justice," Judge King said. "He feels the urge to burst out of the traditional shell and to dare to get on untrodden paths more nearly to assure justice in criminal prosecution."

Case Not Closed

Sentencing of persons to jail and to prison does not close a case, he asserted, and this is proven by the number of "repeaters" brought before the courts. Suspending of sentences also does not meet the problem because this method does not provide guidance and supervision.

"Punishment standing alone is not a cure for crime and not an efficient deterrent. Crimes prevented and not crimes punished should measure the worth of the law."

Even the best-intentioned and best-managed prison, he added, could not avoid being "a deteriorating influence," particularly on first offenders." He said that offenders could be salvaged more successfully outside of prison.

The convention adopted a resolution calling for better state support of welfare needs and authorizing association groups to present a plan at the next session of the Texas Legislature.

Junior High Annual Distribution Begun

Distribution of the 1940 edition of the Cowboy Roundup of Junior High school started Friday.

The yearbook has a blue and white plastic binding. It is engraved. Last year's book was lithographed.

Approximately 600 students are pictured, said Jay E. Gordon, assistant principal of the school and co-sponsor of the book.

In addition to the class sections showing individual photographs, the book has a section devoted to faculty pictures; a page showing school officials; a page dedicated to the Lubbock High school Westerners, 1939 state champions, many of whom had played on the Junior High squad; a section devoted to sports; sections entitled "activities" and "features" showing numerous photographs, some candid; and pages of cartoons entitled "teach'rtoons" and "studen'toons."

Approximately 500 students purchased the books, Mrs. Bruce Bryan is sponsor. Staff members are Lee Turner and Virginia Graham, co-editors; Dorothy Hutto, art editor, and LaRue Hall. J. R. Newman, T. S. Cranford, Lucille Lancaster, Gene James and Helen Sanders.

The book was printed by Harry Adams, Lubbock printer. Engraving was by Reeves.

The Republic of Guatemala was established April 17, 1839.

Vitamin To Cure Gray Hair Is Announced

MADISON, Wis., May 3. (AP) — Isolation of a vitamin which prevents and cures graying of hair in animals was announced today by a group of University of Wisconsin bio-chemists.

The scientists said they had not determined definitely whether the vitamin also would be effective in treating human being seeking to maintain or restore the youthful color of their hair.

Experimental quantities of the pure vitamin were removed from liver by Drs. C. A. Elvehjem, Edward Neilsen and J. J. Oleson, who now are trying to determine its cifemical structure as a step toward synthetic production, which would provide for more extensive experiments.

Successful Surgery On Heart Performed

DALLAS, May 3. (AP) — Doctors have performed two rare operations on Robert Estrada's heart in recent weeks.

Estrada's heart was ripped by a knife as he sought to separate two men in a fight. Parkland hospital doctors stitched his right auricle between spurts of blood.

After he was discharged from the hospital he became ill of pneumonia. His heart developed an aneurysm, which is similar to a bulge in a weak spot in an inner tube.

Fearing the bulge would rupture, doctors opened Estrada's chest again. Around the narrow neck of the bulge they tightly tied ligatures. The aneurysm was opened, while the heart throbbed, and a clot that had formed was removed.

Estrada was reported "doing well."

Student Meet To Be Today

Annual reunion of former students in the area of the old East Texas Normal college will be held in Hilton hotel here this afternoon, according to announcement Friday by Judge E. L. Pitts.

The college was founded in Cooper by the late Dr. W. L. Mayo but later was removed to Commerce and became a state school.

Dr. L. H. Moore of the Texas College for Women at Denton, is to be the principal speaker at an informal banquet in the hotel Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock. He is a former student.

Others Are Expected

A number of outstanding former students are expected, including W. A. Thomas, Dallas, collector of internal revenue for the northern district of Texas; A. P. Barrett, Fort Worth capitalist and Dr. and Mrs. E. F. George of Texas Technological college faculty. They are in charge of the program at the banquet.

Former Judge Homer L. Pharr is president and Claude L. Hale secretary of the local group. Committees have been working on the affair for several weeks and invitations sent to all known former students in this area. Several other prominent former students from other sections may attend in addition to those who have announced their intentions.

The late Dr. Mayo organized the college and after five years of operation at Cooper, it was moved to Commerce where the name was changed to East Texas Normal. In 1917 it became a part of the state system of colleges.
