RODEO FINALS TO BE TONIGHT

British May Fight Japanese Blockade

LONDON, June 14. (AP)—The British government informed the House of Commons today that it was considering possible measures of retaliation against the Japanese blockade of the British concession at Tientsin.

Foreign Undersecretary R. A. Butler announced the government's position, but said exact nature of possible retaliatory measures had not yet been determined.

He said Britain was keeping in close touch with the governments of the United States and France on all developments. The French concession at Tientsin also is blockaded.

Asked whether he would inform Tokyo immediately that Japanese ships would be barred from Britain's Far Eastern ports of Hongkong, Singapore and Penang in retaliation for the blockade, Butler said:

"The question of what measures would be appropriate with regard to the Japanese blockade of the British concession at Tientsin is at present under examination and must depend in some degree on the nature of action taken by the Japanese."

The government was said by an informed source to be continuing to urge establishment of a court of inquiry with a neutral chairman—the United States consul general—to settle the dispute.

A spokesman announced two developments in the situation which arose from refusal of British officials to hand over four alleged Chinese terrorists:

1. Authorization by the United States for Consul-General John K. Caldwell to act as chairman of the three-man committee to sift evidence against the Chinese. Japanese army circles in Tientsin said the proposal for a neutral committee, which would include one Japanese and one Briton, had been rejected. (At the Tientsin consulate-general, it was said nothing was known yet of authorization for Caldwell to act.)

2. Disclosure of fresh evidence implicating the Chinese with the slaying April 9 of S. G. Cheng, Chinese official of the Japanese-sponsored North China bank.

A foreign office spokesman said that in case the proposal for an impartial tribunal were dropped,

Relief Fund Asked By FDR Recommended

Committee Urges Many Changes In New Set-Up

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—A 1940 relief appropriation, carrying the full $1,477,000,000 asked by President Roosevelt for WPA but recommending substitution of a three-man board for the WPA administrator, went to the house today from its appropriations committee.

Announcement of this and a handful of other recommendations for major changes in the relief set-up signaled opening of a major fight over whether federal relief would continue to be administered along the lines followed by the Roosevelt administration since 1933.

The committee axe, its report to the house showed, was directed chiefly against the National Youth administration. The NYA appropriation was slashed from $123,000,000 asked by the President to $81,000,000.

The full Farm Security administration appropriation of $123,000,000 was recommended. Additionally, the committee provided for earmarking $125,000,000 of the WPA's $1,477,000,000 for heavy construction approved by the PWA.

The bill, carrying funds for the fiscal year beginning July 1, totaled $1,716,000,000.

The WPA appropriation recommended was $773,000,000 less than the outlay for the current fiscal

Drillers Enjoy Friendly Party

By THE ROVING REPORTER

Unless one went into detail it would be hard to tell you about the Top O' Texas Fiesta committee's party for the veteran drillers last night at the wrestling arena.

Drillers began arriving 30 minutes before the opening time, and they were on hand at 1:30 o'clock when the lights were turned out and the last men went home.

The party was one of the best ever held here for members of the oil industry. Good fellowship and good humor prevailed throughout the evening. The drillers sat around and talked and reminisced.

They furnished their own entertainment, and several poets, "negro preachers," and orators were uncovered.

Refreshments and eats included barbecue, potato chips, cheese, pickles, onions, potato salad and drinks.

Beverages were furnished by the Highland Sales company of which Grady Slocum is manager, and the bread by Dilley's and Puritan bakeries, and cheese by the Panhandle packing company.

Several crews who came off their tower at midnight came in about 1 o'clock.

Body Of Kidnaped Boy Recovered

CLYDE, O., June 14 (AP)—Sheriff H. L. Myers announced today the body of a 10-weeks-old Haldon Fink, reported stolen from the crib of his home here last night, had been found in a creek on a farm seven miles west of Clyde.

The child had been missing about 12 hours when its body was found in Green Creek on the George Thomsen farm near U. S. Highway No. 20.

Sheriff Myers, who said earlier today disappearance of the boy "looks like a kidnaping," announced he had enlisted aid of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Finding of the body ended an all-night search after the baby's disappearance between ten and 11 o'clock last night.

The body, its mouth slightly bloody, was recovered from the creek by two deputy sheriffs, Ted Paul and L. D. Krugh, who sighted it downstream as they stopped on a bridge over U. S. highway 20.

Deputy Paul theorized the body had been thrown from the bridge. The body was dressed in a baby's shirt and diaper. A bootee and blanket taken with the infant when it was snatched from its cradle were missing.

I Heard---

That Top O' Texas Fiesta officials received a letter from Sam Isaacs of Canadian which was postmarked New York City, N. Y., Mr. Isaacs wrote that he was sorry he couldn't attend the Fiesta but that he wouldn't return from New York in time. He sends best regards to all his friends.

Japanese Reject British Overtures

TIENTSIN, China, June 14. (AP)—Japanese officers tonight rejected British mediation attempts and widened their demands on the British while Japanese Gendarmes, aided by Chinese police, blockaded the British and French concessions, whose approximately 120,000 population was virtually cut off from all supplies.

The Japanese military took the position the dispute leading to the blockade—a British refusal to hand over to Japanese four alleged Chinese slayers of a Tientsin official—could not now be settled merely by relinquishing the accused Chinese. The officers advanced five broad demands which they said were necessary if the dispute were to be settled.

A Japanese statement said:

"The British must: First, discontinue protecting anti-Japanese and Communistic elements; second, cease supporting Chinese currency; third, cease hoarding goods in Tientsin, thereby causing price increases; fourth, cease using unregistered radio stations in Tientsin; fifth, allow the use of Japanese-prepared schoolbooks in the British concession."

Dies Will Probe Branding Of Jew

HOUSTON, June 14. (AP)—Chairman Martin Dies (D., Tex.), of the House committee on un-American activities, said today his committee had started an investigation of the branding of a Jewish high school student in Baltimore and the nation's schools in general.

The Texas representative did not comment on the attack on Melvin Bridge, 14, who said he was pulled from a baseball game last Friday by 40 Baltimore youths, with swastikas inked on their arms, who scratched the letter "H" on his neck with a knife.

Dies indicated the congressional committee check up on school activities would include reports Nazi, Fascist and Communist propaganda had been spread in the schools.

Drunk Starlings Fall, Then Burned

WAUWATOSA, Wis., June 14 (AP)—Ol' demon rum is proving handy in combatting the starling nuisance. It is said that residents, annoyed by flocks of birds, are feeding them liberal quantities of oats soaked in alcohol.

When birds fall stupified to the ground other species are weeded out and the starlings meet their doom in an incinerator.

Commission Will Appeal Court Ruling

By EDWARD CURTIS

TULSA, Okla., June 14. (AP)—The oil industry watched crude and refined prices go opposite ways today while a federal court decision prompted some uneasiness over East Texas proration methods.

The gasoline market at the refinery continued its firm to strong tone and Sinclair Refining Co., increased, effective today, tank wagon prices on all grades ½ cent a gallon on its 42-state territory.

Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the executive board of consolidated Oil Co., the parent company, three weeks ago asserted prices for refined products must go up or he feared a breakup in the structure of crude oil prices.

Previously Standard Oil of Indiana had boosted to normal tank wagon prices in much of its territory and Continental Oil Co., made its second boost in two weeks in Oklahoma tank wagon prices.

Illinois production continued to climb.

The effects of a federal court opinion in an East Texas proration case was watched closely with op-

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, June 14 (AP)—A group of 1,619 Spanish Republican refugees from France cheered Mexico and shouting "death to Franco and Fascism."

Disembarking from the French liner Sinaia yesterday, the refugees organized a parade carrying the standard of the Mexican Communist party. They cheered President Lazaro Cardenas who granted them asylum in Mexico.

Northwest Florida Warned Of Gale Winds

NEW ORLEANS, June 14 (AP)—Northwest Florida was warned today to prepare for gale winds up to fifty miles per hour attending the first tropical disturbance of the season.

The United States weather bureau here reported if the present movement and intensity continued the storm center would reach the coast tonight between Applachicola, Fla., and Mobile, Ala.

Baseball Centennial Stamp On Sale Here

First issue of the new Baseball Centennial stamp arrived in Pampa yesterday and is now on sale at the postoffice. Collectors are especially interested in the new stamp while baseball fans are also buying them

The stamp is rich purple color, special delivery size. On it is pictured a group of boys playing ball in front of a school. At the left of the picture are crossed bats with wreath and in the center a ball and glove. Above is the date 1839 and below the date 1939.

Japs Blockade British, French Concessions

TIENTSIN, China, June 14. (AP) Japanese gendarmes, aided by Chinese police, blockaded the British and French concessions today, in effect cutting the flow of all goods to a combined population of about 120,000.

No fresh food entered the concessions today and prices leaped 50 per cent. There was an immediate scarcity.

Officially passage of such supplies was not barred but Chinese carriers fearing charges of anti-Japanism, brought virtually no food into the concessions.

The restrictive measures were taken as a result of refusal by British concession authorities to relinquish four Chinese whom the Japanese accused of slaying a Chinese official of the Tientsin provisional government. The British had held that there was insufficient evidence to warrant surrender of the men.

All Chinese entering and leaving the two foreign areas were searched, together with some foreigners, but most of the latter were permitted to pass police barricades after showing a special stamp on their passports. The stamps had been distributed by the Japanese consulate to consular officials of countries not involved in the dispute.

Ships coming up the Hai river from Tangku on the Gulf of Pohai were ordered to halt at the Japanese wharf below the concessions and automobile traffic over the international bridge, linking the French concession with the main railway station, was stopped.

The Japanese, apparently turning down a British proposal of a three-power settlement of the dispute, declared further negotiations would be fruitless and argued it was necessary to isolate the concessions as "a nest of intrigue and plots."

Houston's Son Sues Makers Of Picture

HOUSTON, June 14 (AP)—Sam Houston's only surviving son is seeking $1,000,000 damages because he believes the moving picture, "Man of Conquest," libeled his father and mother.

Brig. Gen. Andrew Jackson Houston of La Porte filed the suit yesteday against the Interstate Circuit of Texas, Inc., Republic Pictures Corp. of Texas, Republic Productions, Inc., and Horwitz Texan Theatre, Inc., of Houston.

White To Be Beauty Revue Judge Sunday

Pampans will have an opportunity to show their goodwill toward Canadian when the dedication of Lake Marvin, near Canadian, is held Sunday.

Garnet Reeves, secretary of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, today urged that Pampa send a large delegation to the program, and for each person attending from Pampa to obtain a hatband from the chamber of commerce office here.

County Judge Sherman White has consented to serve as one of the judges in a bathing revue as a part of the lake dedication program.

Several Pampans have received tickets to the Commodore's ball, to be given by the Canadian Boat club, and to a noon-day barbecue.

Canadian is preparing to welcome the largest crowd in its history.

Notice from owners indicate that a steady procession of speed boats will start arriving here Saturday afternoon and continue until Sunday morning, affording the drivers ample time to test the course on the lake that many assert is the fastest mile course in the Southwest due to construction of the lake.

Caravans, motorcades and delegations will begin arriving early Sunday morning and are expected throughout the day for the free program of entertainment.

Woman Says Prayer Restored Her Sight

HEMPHILL, June 14 (AP)—Mrs Mattie Boyett, 69, today believed prayer restored her sight after 15 of blindness.

Ill of an incurable malady, Mrs. Boyett prayed for two days and nights that she might see her grandchildren before the death she felt was near.

Monday she awakened to find she could see dimly. Yesterday her sight was stronger.

A prominent Sabine county physician, who requested his name be withheld, examined Mrs. Boyett. He said she apparently suffered from glaucoma, but could not account for her restored sight. He said he had never heard of a similar case.

Mrs. Boyett lost the sight of an eye 32 years ago. A film grew over the other and she was blind for 15 years. The film has disappeared. No physician has treated her eyes for several years, she said.

Her relatives looked upon her new sight as an expectable answer to prayer.

FCC Demands Control Of 'Phone Industry

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission asked Congress today to give it additional control over the $6,000,000,000 telephone industry, but toned down some of the previously published recommendations of one of its members.

The report, approved by all seven commissioners, omitted some of the most far-reaching suggestions of Commissioner Paul A. Walker, who directed a two-year investigation of the industry at a cost of $1,500,000

Among Walker's recommendations not included was one urging the FCC be authorized "to review, approve, or disapprove all Bell policies and practices promulgated by the central management group" of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Despite substantial revision of his proposed report, Walker expressed gratification that the commission approved it "in principle, and largely in substance."

Major recommendations of the commission included:

1. The FCC be authorized to prescribe basic cost accounting methods for the Western Electric company described as the "manufacturer and supplier" for the vast Bell system.

2. The FCC be given jurisdiction over issuance or refunding of securities by telephone companies subject to its jurisdiction.

3. The FCC be authorized to prohibit abandonment of any interstate line operated by any firm subject of its jurisdiction.

4. Filing with the FCC of applications for consolidation of telephone companies be mandatory, instead of optional, as present.

5. FCC approval be required of all acquisitions by one company of the stock of another company for purposes of control.

6. The Bell system be required to license its patents to others who can use them beneficially. The present practice, officials said, is for the Bell system to refuse patents to others who are engaged in the same field.

Lobbying Condemned

Asserting that the Bell system "has pursued an active policy of cultivating public good will at considerable expense," the report added:

"There is evidence to indicate improper influence has been brought to bear upon regulatory and legislative bodies charged with the duty of fixing rates for Bell system companies. This practice is clearly

Communist Bloc In WPA Expected, Harrington Says

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP) — WPA Administrator Harrington said today some WPA workers have had such a hard time of it, it would not be unusual for the Workers Alliance to have a "relatively high" proportion of Communists.

Appearing before a house committee investigating WPA, Harrington gave this description of the men and women from whom the Alliance—a WPA-unemployed union—recruited it members:

"Project workers who have been pretty severely buffeted by fate, who have been taking an economic licking, and whose normal tendency would be to align themselves with a political party which promised a Utopia in which everyone would be happy and prosperous."

Harrington, who said he had no definite figures on Communists in the Alliance, gave the committee a statement in which he told of plans to make administrative changes in WPA.

Chandler Car Found Stripped In Ravine

Brad Chandler of the Pampa Mortuary has a car but it is without battery, radio, spare tire and tools.

The car was stolen late Monday night but was recovered in a ravine between Duncan and Yeager streets yesterday afternoon with radio, battery, spare tire and tools missing.

The car was pushed by two men from behind the mortuary on to the street where a car was driven behind it and then pushed north, according to George Inman, who saw the theft. He believed it was Mr. Chandler trying to start his car.

Three Probes Of Attack On Jewish Youth Under Way

BALTIMORE, June 14 (AP)—Three separate investigations of an alleged attack on a junior high school Jewish student by swastika-decked schoolmates were under way today.

Mayor Howard W. Jackson ordered Forest Bramble, school board president, to conduct an exhaustive probe into the reported branding of Melvin Bridge, 14, Jewish Gwynn's Falls junior high school student by 40 fellow pupils. Bridge said an "H" was slashed in his neck when he admitted he was Jewish.

J. Bernard Wegis state's attorney, said he was to confer with S. Page Nelson, grand jury foreman, and would present the evidence already gathered to the grand jury within the next two or three days.

David Weglein, superintendent of schools, already has an investigation under way.

Mayor Jackson said he would personally conduct the investigation if the school board probe results were unsatisfactory.

Wells said the grand jury would probe "various phases" of the incident, including the original attack on Bridge.

So far, the only arrest made was the detention of Morten Rosen, 19-year-old seaman friend of Bridge, held for grand jury action and released under $100 bail on charges he assaulted Harry Ebberts, 15, and Carroll Phillips, 17, in retaliation for the attack on Bridge.

Eighteen Gwynn's Falls students have been suspended in connection with the Bridge occurrence. Four students of City College high school were suspended for a retaliatory foray after the alleged branding.

Youth Sees Movie, Mails Bomb Threat

CUERO, June 14 (AP)—Threats the Cuero federal building would be blown up unless $1,000 in cash was left at a designated spot by the postmaster ware cleared today with apprehension of a 11-year-old boy, officers said.

The lad sobbed out a confession to officers, they said, that he had been caught in the act of mailing a third threatening letter.

Officers said they learned the boy's father is now serving a sentence for forgery and that the boy is the eldest of several children for whom his mother had experienced hardship in providing.

The boy, authorities reported, said he conceived the idea of sending the threatening letters after witnessing a gangster movie.

Champions Will Be Crowned In Daring Exhibitions Here

Tonight's final rodeo performance at Recreation park, when champions will be crowned, will get under way at 9 o'clock or immediately after the Premiere in front of the LaNora theater at 8:30 p. m.

Top cowboys from over the nation vied with the toughest stock ever presented in a local rodeo in two performances yesterday and according to time and performances, the stock, especially the broncs, came out a shade ahead. So salty were the calves and steers that no records were shattered.

This afternoon and tonight, however, the cowboys are scheduled to swing into their own against Beutler Brothers stock.

The Ross family of Sayre, Okla., four brothers, topped yesterday's performances when Gene won the calf roping and Hershel won the bulldogging with Roy second and Gene third.

Judges Have Trouble

Bucking steers and horses were so frisky that those sticking aboard gave great rides. As a result, judges had tough jobs selecting winners and in the steer riding Ken Roberts and G. K. Lewallen tied for first place. No bronc riding winner was named because Leo Murry was granted a reride which will be allowed him this afternoon.

No one received serious injury although there were several narrow escapes as steers and horses crowded the fences and steers turned after dumping their riders. Torn shirts and pants and skinned elbows and knees were numerous, however.

Nearly 7,000 persons witnessed the two performances yesterday and that record is expected to be shattered today as the final reckoning between man and beast takes place.

Clown-Riders Enjoyed

Calves that looked as though they had wings gave ropers a merry chase up the arena but Ross was able to get his pair in 15.4 seconds which is mighty good time. Hershel Ross dropped his big Brahma bull in five seconds which is only one and one-half seconds slower than the world record.

Steers that appeared to have springs on their feet gave riders their stiffest competition, even rougher than the bucking horses.

There was plenty of fun and thrills during the performances as "Tinhorn" Hank Keenan and his trained mule "Moonshine" and pet pig "Porkchop" entertained the crowd. Cecil Cornish presented his trained Brahma bull, his beautiful Palomino horses, and his educated horse "Smoky." W. J. "Winks" Adams of near Clarendon, a non-professional, presented "Dago," an ordinary cow pony that can do tricks.

Then there were the trick and fancy ropers, Wiley McCray, Hank Keenan and Cecil Cornish.

And they'll all be on hand tonight for the final performance.

Day winners with times in yesterday's contests:

Calf roping: 1st, Gene Ross, 15.4; 2nd, Jack Skipworth, 15.6; 3rd, Sonny Hancock, 16; 4th, Earl Moore, 17.4.

Bulldogging: 1st, Hershel Ross, 5; 2nd, Roy Ross, 6.2; 3rd, Gene Ross, 6.8; 4th, Tex Doyle, 7.2.

Steer riding: 1st, Ken Roberts and G. K. Lewallen tied for first and second; 3rd, Frank Marion; 4th, Ken Hargis.

Good rides were made by George Yardley on Amos; Vic Schwartz on Relief Worker; Ken Roberts on Rasputin; Andy Curtis on Red Snapper. This division is not complete due to a reride coming to Leo Murray.

NEW WHITE HANDBAGS

You'll like this summer's white handbags. There are plenty of washable ones in both fabric and leather. Serviceable and good-looking are those made of a specially treated pure silk that can be cleaned by simply rubbing off with damp cloth or can be washed with a mild soap and warm water. These come in large under-arm envelope and pouch styles. Or you may prefer white combined with a color. In that case, white linen embroidered with an all-over roseleaf design in color, bound and finished in capeskin to match the embroidery, is very smart. The colors are wine, black, navy and brown on white linen.

GOOD NEWS FOR HUSBANDS.

Rug manufacturers advise against old-fashioned rug-beating. Regular use of your vacuum cleaner, properly adjusted to the height of the pile, remove dust and dirt just as thoroughly without straining or weakening the weave. Shaking small rugs is just as unnecessary as beating their bigger brothers, and almost as harmful. Here, too, the vacuum does a better job.

HONEYMOON WEDDING CAKE.

A wedding gift that goes right along with the bride and groom on their honeymoon— a traveling clock —is probably "just what they wanted." It's a very deluxe timepiece, all done up in a fine case of blue Russian leather. Or you may select the same thing in a hazel pigskin case.

Her Majesty Abets Current Vogue For Frilly, Feminine Costumes

Queen Elizabeth likes pearls, and she wore them with this casual wool sport suit when she and King George visited Mt. Robson, B. C.

Her Majesty, pictured aboard ship en route to America, wore this fairly dressy beige ensemble. The dress, off-the-face hat, shoes, bag and gloves all match in color.

NEW YORK, June 14—The mere fact that she is there makes every function Queen Elizabeth attends important—and more or less formal. And that she is well aware of this is evidenced by her choice of clothes. She is always—in an American sense—"dressed up."

Her majesty likes jewels and flowers, dressy hats, pale, soft colors, light furs, longish coats rather than brief jackets, and accessories which exactly match her dress. She prefers sheer silks which lend themselves to soft draping rather than fabrics with slightly more body. Woolens for her coats usually are sheer and soft looking. She seldom wears tweeds.

Even on trains and sightseeing trips, Queen Elizabeth may modify but not modify her rule about "dressing up." She went aboard the Empress of Australia at Portsmouth in a light beige silk dress under a full-length, unfitted coat in matching shade, an off-the-face hat—the brim faced with beige silk, and beige shoes, bag and gloves. She appeared on deck the second day in a similar costume in light gray wth gray fox collar.

WORE SPORTS SUIT ABOARD SHIP

Later during the sea voyage, however, Great Britain's queen walked around the promenade deck and posed for photographers in a two-piece sports suit, a casual felt hat, colorful scarf, a straight-hanging, short-haired fur coat and low-heeled ghillies. She watched the ice fields, as the boat neared the Canadian shore, in a hooded coat worn with two cross foxes.

For the official drive through Quebec the day she landed in Canada, Queen Elizabeth wore a cape ensemble of pearl gray triple sheer, with a wide band of smoky fox about the hemline. She did not change her costume for the state luncheon immediately following the sight-seeing tour, but simply took off her long coat and wore a long scarf of the same grayish-brown fox with the dress.

At the unveiling of the Canadian War Memorial at Ottawa, Her Majesty appeared in an off-white outfit consisting of a loosely cut dress and a full-length, straight coat of white woolen with white fox at elbows and cuffs. On the previous day, at the laying of the cornerstone of the Supreme Court building, she wore a wool ensemble of hyacinth blue and gray, a high-crowned hat, also in hyacinth blue, a smoky fox scarf, and gray bag, shoes and gloves.

The first time the Queen wore sports clothes in Canada was at Banff, Alberta. For the trip thru Tunnel Mountain, she put on a long-sleeved sports dress of dusty gold flannel, with a row of buttons from neckline to hem. Later on, for a buggy ride over the countryside, Her Majesty chose a casually tailored suit of tweed in bluish gray, a high off-the-face hat, gray suede pumps.

To wear with a mauve crepe ensemble of sheer wool texture, Queen Elizabeth chose a matching flowered hat and a little corsage of carnations. For a State dinner, she wore a Victorian picture frock of rose tulle, embroidered all over with silver and gold thread, and re-embroidered with roses in pink, gold, blue and silver. With evening gowns she usually wears a diamond tiara, bracelet and necklace.

For daytime her Majesty's skirts usually are nine or ten inches from the floor. She wears ankle-length afternoon clothes, and seems to prefer bouffant evening gowns to all other types. The majority of her evening gowns are white, with rose, pale blue, and light pink vieing for second place.

She seldom is seen without a double strand of pearls and at least two other pieces of jewelry. Her hats are more pretty than smart, her dresses more queenly than downright chic. They suit her perfectly, and they are perfectly suited to her position in life. Because they do suit her and because they are eminently right for the background against which they are worn, Queen Elizabeth may be rightly called a woman with fashion sense.

The lesson was led by the hostess following the opening song and prayer.

A picnic supper was served to 11 members and three guests, Mmes. W. R. Noel, Foster Moore, and J W. Tullie, after the study.

Mrs. J. V. Kidwell was hostess to the 11 members of circle seven in the church parlor. The devotional was given by Mrs. Carl Wilson and the study was led by Mrs. Leo Southern with Mrs. Dean Dark and Mrs. George Hood assisting.

LaNORA

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

Nice People — By EDGAR MARTIN

Premiere To Be Presented Here Tonight

Under a battery of a dozen huge spotlights, a Hollywood premiere will be presented at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the LaNora theater, honoring George (Windy) Hayes, Nellie Walker, and Walter Mattex, special guests of the Top O' Texas Fiesta. The celebration will end tonight.

Carl Benefiel, general chairman of the fiesta, is to introduce the three Hollywood guests and others in a program in front of the theater. Impressions will be made in fresh concrete of the hand and footprints of some of the arrivals, after which the picture "Man of Conquest," will be shown.

Hayes is to appear on the LaNora stage and tell of his acting experiences, later will be in the theater lobby to give autographs.

L. C. Griffith of Oklahoma City, president of the Griffith Amusement company, will be among special guests at the premiere.

Another part of the premiere will be the introduction of several local citizens, both inside and outside the theater.

Republic's "Man of Conquest," the life story of Sam Houston, is a story replete with characters whose names are etched in history's thrilling pages.

Richard Dix gives an unforgettable portrayal of Houston; Gail Patrick and Joan Fontaine are lovely and capable. Such crack character performers as Edward Ellis, C. Henry Gordon, Victor Jory, Robert Armstrong, George Hayes, Max Terhune, Robert Barrat, Ralph Morgan, William Benedict, and Janet Beecher enhance every scene.

The story traces Houston's life from the time he left the Cherokee Indian tribe, with whom he had been living for a year, to fight with Jackson in the War of 1812.

We are taken on Houston's violent, exciting campaign for governorship of Tennessee; his tragic love affair with Eliza Allen, his first wife; his long period of despair and neglect in trying to forget Eliza; on through his immemorable fight to free Texas from Mexico.

Republic spent two years in research to guarantee historical accuracy. The only liberty taken with actual events is the time of Houston's romances with Margaret Lea, played by Gail Patrick, since the film only takes Houston's life to the time he frees Texas.

Rose Host To Peace Officers

Sheriff Cal Rose of Gray county was host to a group of 27 peace officers at a luncheon held at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Courthouse cafe, following the Top O' Texas Fiesta parade that morning.

Members of the Texas Highway patrol present were Capt. Jim Line, C. O. Layne, Jimmy Young, J. D. Lundy, R. H. Routh, all of Amarillo, and Bill Robertson and Byron L. St. Clair, both of Pampa.

Out-of-town sheriffs attending were Henry Rathjen, Canadian; Vern Underhill, Borger; Guy Pearce, Clarendon; Jack White, Tulia; Tom Harris, Panhandle; Sheriff Shahan, Lipscomb, and Deputies Dale Lane, Borger, R. J. Fester, and Deputy Riggins, both of Amarillo.

Local officers included Sheriff Cal Rose's deputies, and Sam Fort, Pampa agent of the Texas Liquor Control commission.

BRITISH

British authorities on the spot would consider the new evidence and act accordingly.

He explained that the new evidence was not considered sufficient to warrant surrender of the four suspects. Earlier, informed sources had said Britain had told the Japanese government she was reconsidering her refusal to surrender them.

"It seems clear from semi-official Japanese statements," the foreign office spokesman said, "that the four men are being used as a pretext for aggressive measures with the object of giving the Japanese economic and political control over the concession."

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—After four hours of taking a beating all along the line, stocks rallied sporadically in the closing hour today.

At the last bell a graph of price trends would have looked as irregular as the Rocky Mountains, with only one circumstance certain—transfers had approximated only 400,000 shares.

News of fundamental importance to traders was at a minimum—and so were the activities of the traders. They had sat back most of the day, dabbling intermittently at "trend determining" transactions. Then, near the end of the session, some seemed to feel prices had gone low enough to make repurchases.

The result, in the "thin" dealings prevailing, was a sharp halt to the downward drift and actual elevations, in some cases, above yesterday's final prices.

Metals and aircrafts were made the basis for the rally, with Douglas climbing around two points and copper stocks resisting the general downward move throughout the session.

The upward-bound contingent included Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro De Pasco, Electric Auto Lite, Chrysler, Westinghouse Johns-Manville and North American.

American Telephone, exdividend, was off more than two points near the close, but still a full point better than the day's worst quotation.

Other declining securities included U. S. Steel, Goodyear, International Harvester, Air Reduction, Texas Corp., Standard of N. J., Santa Fe, and Owens-Illinois.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 14 (AP)—The wheat market was firm in a light trade today and prices advanced as much as ⅞ cents a bushel at times.

Aiding the upturn here were higher Liverpool quotations, fears of rust damage spread to the domestic spring wheat area and disappointing reports of harvesting southwest. A Kansas City firm reported that the first combined wheat at Galva, Kas., tested 56 pounds and yielded only 7 to 8 bushels an acre.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅝ up, July 73⅝-¾, September 74-73⅞; corn unchanged to ⅜ off, July 49½-⅝, September 51; oats ¾ up, July 34¼, September 32¼; soy beans unchanged to ½ up; rye unchanged to ⅞ up and lard unchanged to 5 cents up.

Batons Given To Visiting Bands

Batons and baton cases were presented to seven bands as a token of appreciation at a luncheon given for visiting bands at the Panhandle Lumber company at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, following the Top O' Texas Fiesta parade in which the bands participated.

Joe Key, fiesta committee member, presented the batons and cases to the Guymon and Elk City, Okla., bands, and to bands of Shamrock, Clarendon, Dumas, McLean, and Amarillo.

Also eligible to receive the trophies were the Wheeler and Canadian bands, but representatives were not present at the luncheon, Mr. Key said. Woodrow Wilson, Horace Mann, and the Harvester-Reaper bands are also to receive these awards.

The batons are 22 inches long, of white pine, with wine colored case lettered "Top O' Texas Fiesta, Pampa, 1939."

A crowd of 250 bandsmen and local persons attended the luncheon, which consisted of barbecue, potato salad, pickles, onions, bread, and an orange drink.

County Judge Sherman White, Mrs. Sherman White and members of the Methodist missionary societies, B. B. Altman and Horace Johnson, aided Mr. Key in giving the luncheon.

year, which ends June 30. Col. F. C. Harrington, administrator, told the committee it would provide employment ranging from 2,400,000 persons next January and February to 1,500,000 in June, 1940.

As consideration of the broad relief problem reached the house floor, however, members professed themselves much less interested in the amount to be appropriated than the long range relief policies and organization to be decided upon.

19 Changes Urged.

In all, the appropriations committee, after a lengthy investigation of the Works Progress administration, recommended 19 major changes in its rules and organization.

These were led off by the proposal for a three-man administrative board, replacing the single office of administrator which Harry Hopkins, trusted President aide, held until he became secretary of commerce early this year. Harrington, regular army officer, is the only other man to have held the position.

Other recommendations included:

Elimination of the federal theater, arts, writers, music and historical-records projects.

New bans on political activity of relief officials.

A requirement that all supervisory persons swear loyalty to the constitution and to discharge their employment faithfully.

Allocation of relief money to states on the basis of jobs.

Fixing of a maximum $25,000 construction cost for buildings.

Substitution of a fixed monthly earning schedule for the current prevailing wage provisions.

A regular survey of WPA rolls to detect those who have not tried to obtain private employment.

Elimination of persons who have been on the rolls 18 months and elimination of the current practice of direct relief.

Dedication ceremonies start at 1:30 p. m. when H H. Finnell, head of the Soil Conservation Service presents the lake to the public. John McCarty, president of the Panhandle Water Conservation authority and Gene Howe, the man who started the lakes program idea, will be principal speakers.

The ten major boat races, bathing revue, water contest and speedboat rides will fill the days entertainment program. The recreational building will be open to the public for dancing in the evening with music being furnished by a popular orchestra. This, as well as all other parts of the entertainment, is free.

against public interest, is condemned and should not be countenance by any regulatory body.

"The Bell system has subsidized various publications. The propriety of including in operating expenses of any Bell system company, for rate-making purposes, amounts designed to promote good will is a question for the regulatory body which may be faced with this problem in a specific rate proceeding."

It described as necessary "strong regulatory powers over the telephone industry, both through the agencies of state regulatory bodies and the federal government.

The report said the Bell system controls 21 operating telephone companies commonly known as associated companies, among which is General Electric.

At the end of 1934, the parent company, American Telephone & Telegraph, was reported to have direct or indirect ownership of 10 per cent or more of the voting securities of 272 companies, and in 181 of these companies owned 50 per cent or more of the outstanding voting securities.

erators sharply divided over its meaning. The court voided as confiscatory an order of the Texas Railroad commission distributing allowable production on the basis of 2.32 per cent of the hourly potential on five wells of the Rowan & Nichols Oil Co.

The commission announced it would appeal and continue its present plan of proration. Ernest O. Thompson, commission member and chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact, asserted the court decision had merely reversed the details of the commission's allowable plan.

"In effect the court declared we had given the poorer wells the right to produce practically the same amount as the better wells and that was not a fair distribution," said Thompson.

Commission Chairman Lon A. Smith asserted "We think we have a fair, reasonable plan in effect in the East Texas field and intend to stand on it until the last court of resort overthrows it."

Spanish Loyalist Aviator Kills Self

DeWITT, Ark., June 14 (AP)—The body of Frank G. Tinker, 29, Annapolis graduate and former aviator with Loyalist Spanish army, who ended his life, lay in an undertaking parlor here today while relatives held funeral plans in abeyance pending arrival of his mother from Texas.

Tinker shot himself yesterday in a downtown Little Rock hotel as the radio in his room blared out music which muffled the sound of the shot from a small-caliber pistol. The body was returned to his home town last night after the coroner's office registered the death as a suicide.

His mother, visiting in Cameron, Texas, was expected here late today. He also is survived by his father and two sisters.

Author, aviator, sailor and soldier of fortune, the greying flier left no letters in connection with his death but his effects included a large quantity of notes on his experiences. Found in his room were copies of recent letters to friends, one of which referred to an effort to contact a Chinese general at Hankow on the subject of aviation.

Large Fund For Migrants Proposed

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Appropriation of $100,000,000 to carry on the work of the Farm Security Administration among the nation's needy farm families was proposed to the House today by its appropriations committee.

Advocating provision of the full amount requested by both President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace the committee informed the House this sum would enable FSA to continue its program in the next fiscal year upon practically the same basis as during the present period.

Of the total, $85,000,000 would be used to make original rehabilitation loans to approximately 70,000 families and supplemental loans to some 150,000 additional families.

Another $20,000,000 would be expended in the form of direct relief grants, while $5,000,000 was proposed for expenditure in establishing additional migratory labor camps for approximately 2,000 families on the West Texas, in Texas and in Florida.

Other portions of the proposed appropriation would enable FSA to continue its farm-and-home management assistance, voluntary debt adjustment, work relief and other programs.

Big Texas Peach Crop Forecast

AUSTIN, June 14 (AP)—A Texas peach crop almost double that of last year was forecast today by the Austin office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

V. C. Childs, agricultural statistician, of the bureau, predicted production would approximate 1,890,000 bushels as compared with a yield last year of 964,000 bushels and a 10-year average of 1,278,000.

Pear production was forecast at 420,000 bushels, about the same as last year and considerably above the 10-year average.

The statistician said wheat would yield about 30,860,000 bushels on a basis of June 1 conditions. Total production last year was 35,046,000 bushels and the average was 32,038,000.

Oat crop conditions declined further in May, Childs reported, with a forecast of very poor yields in the southern, central, southwestern and west central districts in the state. Condition was placed at 56 per cent of normal compared with 74 per cent a year ago and an average of 64 in June.

The grapefruit crop from the 1939 bloom rated only 59 per cent as compared with 70 per cent last year at this time and a 66 per cent average.

Rocks, Pop Bottles Thrown In Strike

FLINT, Mich., June 14 (AP)—Members of the CIO United Automobile Workers loosed a barrage of rocks and pop bottles today to drive pickets of the rival UAW-AFL away from the entrance of the CIO union's office opposite the gates of General Motors' Fisher Body plant No. 1.

It was the second violent outbreak of the day in the strike called by the UAW-AFL in General Motors plants here.

The noon clash occurred when two Fisher plant employes attempted to enter the UAW-CIO headquarters. About 80 members of the UAW-AFL blocked the entrance, police said. The two men were set upon. A moment later a rock crashed through a window of the UAW-CIO office, and in reply a barrage of pop bottles, rocks and other missles poured from second floor windows.

Police separated the fighters and rescued two injured men.

DOBBIN HOLDS UP CRACK TRAIN AN HOUR

GLENROCK, Wyo. (AP)—An east bound passenger train was rolling along right on top of its speedy schedule when the engineer peered ahead and saw a horse in the middle of the tracks.

He reached for the brake lever and transcontinental passengers killed time for an hour while the train crew untangled the horse's legs from the ties on a trestle he had attempted to cross.

Finally they laid a carpet of box car doors over the ties so the horse could walk back to solid ground.

Radio Talks Against Sales Tax Assured

AUSTIN, June 14 (AP)—Legislators went into a sprint on the last lap of their record-smashing session today.

The senate yesterday adopted conference committee reports on three major money bills—higher education, eleemosynary and departmental. The house may take up the first two of these today and the third tomorrow. The other three appropriation bills, judiciary, rural aid, and vocational education, will come next.

Yet to be settled was the question of financing social security. When the final test on the senate sales tax constitutional amendment would come in the house was in doubt. Some members thought it might be today, and others set the time as Friday or Monday.

"Proponents want to give Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel one more whack at us over the radio," said one foe of the resolution. The governor has repeatedly spoken in favor of the amendment in his Sunday morning radio broadcasts.

Further blasts against the amendment were assured today in the nature of radio speeches by Reps. Harvey Riviere of Port Arthur and Jack Langdon of Glen Rose. They will speak over the Texas State radio network) from 3:45 to 4:15 p. m. Both led the attack on the resolution when it was rejected by the house for the fifth time last week.

Meanwhile, expenses of the lengthy session went on. Placed on the governor's desk was a bill appropriating another $100,000 for expenses, bringing the total to $850,000.

The senate amended and passed a house bill rewriting the liquor control laws. Future liquor administrations would be subject to senate confirmation under one amendment adopted.

States Can Get Together If They Will

People who deplore the extension of federal power usually have trouble in answering the question: "Well, who's going to take care of those things which affect two or more states, if not the federal government?"

Offhand, one might say there was no other answer. But there is. And gradually the states are finding it in the technique of interstate agreements and joint operations.

Compacts to control sewage flow in four of the country's major river basins have either been approved or are pending today among 16 states and the District of Columbia. The Council of State Governments, that invaluable agency which is working to co-ordinate the work of states in legislative and administrative problems, reports that the valleys of the Ohio, Delaware, Potomac and Red River of the North are the major rivers affected .

Each flows through territory in many states. Clearly, each state has rights and interests. None can be selfish about its river-control measures without affecting the others. They might have all stepped aside and asked the federal government to take charge. But they did not.

Instead, they got together. Nine states are included, for instance in the Ohio River Valley Water Santitation compact. Indiana and West Virginia have ratified the agreement. It is pending in Illinois, New York, and Pennsylvania. Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia are the other states affected. The agreement becomes operative when five states have ratified.

North and South Dakota and Minnesota have approved a compact for pollution and conservancy control of the Red River of the North. The Delaware basin is already under the joint control of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

For many years the Port of New York Authority, a joint creation of New York and New Jersey, has handled a vast busines in connection with navigation between these states, and handled it effectively and well. It is gradually "paying out" both states on the money they entrusted to it.

Possibly one reason for federal "encroachment" on such fields is the general helplessness of the states themselves. They forget their sovereignty except for oratorical purposes.

It is when states step up and demonstrate their ability to grapple with their problems that the cry for federal aid dies down.

No Martyrdom For Moseley

The proposals that Gen. George Van Horn Moseley be court-martialed, and the suggestion of Thomas E. Stone, chairman of the Council of U. S. Veterans, Inc., that he is guilty of treason, seem pretty middling ill-advised.

Whether any such charges could be technically sustained against the general under army regulations, is a matter of military law, in which we are not skilled. But it would seem unwise to pursue them. For the very worst thing that could happen would be at this point to make a martyr of General Moseley.

Hitler never amounted to much until he was jailed for his sickly "putsch" attempt against the republic, and the Communist movement is much indebted to the building up of martyrs in the public, and especially the party, eye.

The general has been very definitely out of order. Despite a service record in many ways distinguished, he seems never to have grasped the fundamental fact of the American military service—that it must not, and generally does not, meddle with politics. The American way implies a complete separation between the military and civil powers which is something galling to military men with poltical minds.

Yet it is basic. An American soldier is an American trained and pledged to carry out missions assigned to him by the appropriate civil authorities. He is not an intriguer, nor has he any duty to "save the country" except under difinite orders from his properly-constituted superiors, chief of whom is a civilian president.

General Moseley should know these things, as practically all of his associates in the service know them, and as 99 44-100ths of them observe them.

As a pensioner drawing $6000 a year from the taxpayers, the general is not only subject to the military authority directly, but he is subject to a canon of good taste which dictates that he employ his well-earned leisure in pursuits outside the active political field. There is always trout-fishing, and the collecting of stamps is said to induce quietness of mind.

The general, during his active career, served his country well. The country, in retiring the general on a generous and sufficient pension, recognized this, but it also pointedly indicated that it no longer required his formal active services as a soldier.

From this, any man able to take a broad hint might deduce that neither does the country require his informal and all-too-freely-volunteered services as a sleuth and amateur undercover man.

Wes Ferrell, Yankee pitching cast-off, is treating his arm by allowing bees to sting it. Swell idea.

A Congressional committee was told that Moscow ordered young girls to serve as missionaries in the U. S. We'll hold back the attack on Communism until we see the gals.

The king and queen may have thought Niagara Falls impressive. But it couldn't have been as stupendous as it is to a pair of honeymooners.

"JUNIOR COLLEGES PARKING PLACES FOR UNEMPLOYED"

In the Atlantic Monthly, under the heading of "Fascism and Higher Education," Ralph Cooper Hutchison, has the following to say in regard to Junior Colleges:

"The third form of duplicating competition at public expense is in the establishment of municipal and junior colleges. The purpose of this movement is to give each town and bailiwick, regardless of its already great burden of taxation, regardless of its now inadequate elementary and secondary system of education, regardless of its poorly paid teachers—to give each such town its college. The standard of such colleges would inevitably be low. The greatest values of college and university are impossible in these overgrown high schools. Rather than achieving academic objectives, they tend to become parking places for the unemployed and to continue an impractical education for the masses. But low standards, community indebtedness, and educational needs at other levels, do not stay the tide of this movement, and another threat against the independent colleges gathers strength and momentum.

"There are several reasons for the insatiable extension of tax-supported education at the cost of private education, for the assumption of further financial burdens by already bankrupt towns and communities, and for the expenditure of public funds for the duplication of educational work already carried on without cost to the state. The first of these reasons is the blind and noble devotion of the American people to anything bearing the name of education. Second is the persuasive and unanswerable influence of great men doing a great work in the field of public education. Finally, however, there is a less happy cause: the politician welcomes any extension of power or patronage. To him it makes no difference whether it is new roads or new canals or new colleges. Anything which means more families on the public payroll, more votes under government subsidy, and more friends in positions of any kind, means more power to the man in political office. Hence, it is that funds for colleges and universities can always be secured, and that the federal government as well as the state is eager to help by subsidizing existing or new institutions of learning . .

"It may be too much to hope that all of our independent colleges will survive. It would be well if some were to disappear. But it is essential to the maintenance of democracy in a fascistic age that most of the colleges shall survive, that they remain absolutely free from political fear or favor, that they stand like gigantic fortresses against the regimentation of thought by political dictatorship of any kind, and that they guard their sister institutions under state control from the dangers implicit in that form of support. This is a mission which justifies the independent college and university and which should demand unprecedented support from all who realize the significance of free, untrammeled, and liberal education."

WHAT KIND OF A DEMOCRACY?

As we hear the word "democracy" used so often as an end and aim, it might be well to explain what we mean.

Is democracy majority rule? I think not. What I believe public-spirited people want is a government that attempts to have each member get as nearly as possible what he produces and at the same time encourages each individual to use all his talents to protect all its members from the elements and from forces from within and without, that will interfere with these aspirations.

This, it seems to me, is democracy and the kind of a government all good citizens should strive to attain.

COTTON STATES' PROBLEM GROWS MORE ACUTE

(Pasadena (Calif.) Post)

Down in the cotton states are some 11,500,000 bales of cotton, and no one is quite sure to whom they belong. They represent the South's surplus of cotton and, theoretically at least, they belong to the farmers. But the growers have borrowed money from the Federal Government, and in most instances, money owed exceeds the market value of the cotton, so, unless a miracle happens, the Government may have to take over the cotton. In a few years the world price for American cotton has dropped from approximately 18 cents a pound to an all-time low of 5 cents.

Hoping to do something about it, the Cotton Belt States and communities are uniting this month in a challenging campaign to promote greater consumption of cotton products through Nation Cotton Week, this week. Retail merchants throughout the United States have promised to feature and display cotton products. Even the fashionists are endeavoring to interest milady in chic cotton dresses.

There are about 35,000,000 families in this country, and nearly four persons to the family. Some statistician has figured out that if each family could buy two sheets for each member, eight sheets for the family, it would use up 840,000 bales of cotton. Or, if two males in each family bought an extra shirt, it would use up 100,000 bales. A pair of pillow cases for each member of the family would use up another 200,000 bales.

However, there would still remain more than 10,000,000 bales, and the 1936-39 crop, though smaller than usual, is coming on, and will be sufficient to meet domestic needs next year. Praiseworthy as the Cotton Week project may be, the unfortunate fact remains that the South's cotton problem still lingers.

The problem has been made more acute by the mounting production and use of synethetic fibers, manufacture of which has increased in 10 years from the equivalent of 738,000 bales to 16,700,000 bales.

The plight of the grower has been alleviated in a small way through diversified farming, which means, of course, reducing the cotton acreage. But this procedure has been slow and difficult, for the farmers are without equipment, or money to buy equipment, to carry on diversified farming.

In fact, the crux of the South's economic plight is the abject poverty, which is the lot of so many of the rural inhabitants. For example, the average farm dwelling in the South is worth about $650, while the average house of the renter—and the renters are in a majority—is worth less than $350.

MR. GARNER'S HAT IS IN THE RING

Around Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 14.—Now that another racing season has begun—this one at Hollywood Park—movie directors are cheered by the prospect of being able to make better pictures. The idea is that the producers and other studio bigwigs will spend many of their afternoons at the track, thus leaving the real, moviemakers free from interference.

This view of the situation is being told around town for a laugh, but like most good jokes it includes considerable truth. For evidence, look at the several best-selling flickers made in England by American companies. Most of the directors of those films have said that they were able to make them just as they pleased, without executive meddling. And right here in Hollywood there is a quickening trend toward giving directors complete authority over their pictures.

There now are eight or ten producer-directors, and their features are more distinctive and more successful than those of any overbossed and closely supervised group.

All For Front.

A prosperous front is considered important in the colony, and a former star who desperately hopes to make a comeback has been trying gamely to keep possible employers from knowing that he's broke.

This fellow goes to the track frequently, and before each race he can be seen standing in line before one of the $100 or $50 betting windows. Most of the people who see him there figure he's still in the money. But he never makes a bet of any such size. Upon reaching the window he fumbles with some bills and murmurs to the seller, "Sorry—I changed my mind," or "I didn't notice, but I'm in the wrong line."

Sentiment On the Track.

One of the movie moguls has spent a fortune on a racing stable which has made a very poor showing. When his favorite nag came in seventh in an important race, the owner blamed everything on the jockey. "Why can't you follow instructions?" he stormed. "I told you to hold him in, in fifth or sixth position, and then make your move at the three-quarters. Why didn't you come up then, like you were supposed to?"

"Because, boss," explained the jock sadly, "I just couldn't bear to leave the horse."

Requiescat In Pace, Joe Miller.

This year the movies could celebrate with trumpetings and pageantry two major anniversaries. One would be the golden jubilee of the invention by Thomas Edison, of the Kinetoscope. The industry has been talking about some observation of that occasion, although it may not get around to doing anything elaborate.

The other anniversary is a bicentennial but probably will pass unnoticed. It was 200 years ago that the first edition of Joe Miller's joke book was printed. Hollywood gag men, and those who have strayed into radio, owe an inestimable debt to the old music hall comedian whose name has become a byword in all show business. True, it's no compliment these days to brand a gag as a Joe Miller joke. But a lot of them are, whether anybody likes its or not.

Another Joe—Joe E. Marks, screen writer and actor, knows all about Joe Miller because Marks has collected a large library on wit and humor. He says Miller had nothing to do with the book published in England in 1739. It was titled, "Joe Miller's Jests, or the Wits' Vade-Mecum." The flyleaf added: "Being a collection of the most brilliant jests; the politest repartee; the most elegant bon mots and the most pleasant short stories in the English language, first carefully collected in the company, and many of them transcribed from the mouth of the facetious gentleman whose name they bear, and now set forth and published by his lamentable friend and former companion, Elijah Jenkins, Esquire."

The jokes sound pretty sour today because their effect is spoiled by wordiness and stilted phrasing. But among them you can recognize the ancestors of many a modern, streamlined gag.

People You Know

Out at the carnival . . .

Here we are standing beside the loop-o-plane, listening to the girls scream and the boys yell.

Next in line to go up is a strange couple. A tall, beautiful girl with a daring dignity. Her companion is a boy of about 17. He looks younger than she. He is drunk to the point of staggering. However, there is a calm smile on his lips. He staggers to the plane door and is pushed in. You think that he'll soon be sick. But he doesn't get sick. The couple is given an elaborate ride with the plane stopping on top for several seconds several times. As the couple's heads hang downward, the boy and the girl go into a movie clinch and their kiss lasts until the loop-o-plane stops a couple of minutes later. Then the beautiful girl steps out laughing and the boy staggers out, with the same calm smile on his lips . . . The most fascinating game of chance at the carnival is a game in which a mouse falls out of a trap onto the floor, and finally runs into a hole which may be gold, red, blue, green, etc. You bet on the color of the hole the mouse will run into . . . The ride we enjoyed most was with 10-year-old Troy Ray on the ferris wheel . . . Mrs. Russell McConnell's western costume, made of pure leather, probably was the most elaborate in the Fiesta.

Book A Day

RURAL SOUTH IS WELL PICTURED

A warmly colored picture of rural life among small landowners in the South at the turn of the century is "Purslane," novel by Bernice Kelly Harris (Chapel Hill: $2.50). It is distinguished by its faithful pictures of the everyday, commonplace events in these people's lives, of which the baptism, excerpted briefly below, is a striking example.

"Shall we gather at the river?" . . . sang the faithful as the candidates advanced toward the stick that had been placed at the right depth for the tallest. The preacher entered the water; the . . . little girls followed, the boys awkwardly holding to their hands . . . The preacher raised his hand in benediction, the baptism was negotiated, and the child came up strangled, but with that clean baptized look.

Nannie Lou was next. Her breath came fast; she swallowed at the lump in her throat . . . drew one last breath on "Holy Ghost" . . . her eyes shut tight after that one glimpse of fathomless expanse of water she was being lowered into . . . surely this was the end . . . Her hands were about to snatch after reality, to struggle against the weight that deafened and held her, but a tired voice from her past droned above the mighty roar in her ears: "Don't struggle and fight like Kate did."

Suddenly . . . a brightness flashed into her wet face; she coughed some of the weight from her chest while somebody wrapped Aunt Cynthia's shawl around her shoulders . . It was over. She felt light . . . Jesus was her Savior; there was fried chicken, ham, cabbage, pound cake, cucumber pickle in the cupboard at home—one didn't mean to think of eating, dear Jesus, but she had been baptized on an empty stomach, and anyhow when she was happy she always thought of eating . . . Would Jesus please not be angry at her gladness that the water part of it was over.

Tex's Topics

By Tex DeWeese

CONGRATULATIONS ARE IN order for Carl Benefiel and his Top O' Texas Fiesta general committee for the finest show in the history of Pampa's annual summer celebrations . . . There were more "ohs" and "ahs" to the square foot yesterday than ever before in fiesta history as between 30,000 and 35,000 persons lined the entire route of the Top O' Texas parade—that two-mile long pageantry of color depicting Texas under six flags and a mixture of the Old and New West . . . To Wayne Phelps and his parade committee goes the palm for that greatest of all fiesta parades . . . Mr. Phelps was going around in circles when it was all over, but he did a swell job.

George (Windy) Hayes, Hop-A-Long Cassidy's co-star in the movie horse operas, is a gracious person . . . He made a fine one-minute speech at the Top O' Texas Press luncheon where was a guest Tuesday noon . . . "I've met thousands upon thousands of people," Mr. Hayes said, "but this is the first time I ever got into a gathering of 100 per cent 'just folks'." . . That was a fine tribute to the folk at the Top O' Texas who made up that luncheon gathering of a half hundred newspaper, radio and out-of-town guests.

AND, SPEAKING OF that press luncheon, one of the most beautiful and charming visitors ever to grace a luncheon or banquet table in Pampa was Miss Jean Tomberlin, of Amarillo, who came to the fiesta yesterday as Miss Tri-State Fair . . . Miss Tomberlin is the type of beauty with personality plus . . . It looks as if this year's fiesta would wind up in the black . . . Record crowds were reported at every event, and Tuesday afternoon and night rodeo crowds were probably the largest in history of a fiesta rodeo . . . Incidentally, Lynn Beutler, the Elk City, Okla., nationally-known rodeo producer, has brought some of the fightingest rodeo stock in the country to Pampa this summer . . . It's a grand show if you like to watch the pitching broncs and leather pullers in thrilling action.

As a rule, crowd numbers are magnified, but beyond any question of doubt yesterday's fiesta crowd of more than 35,000 persons is the largest ever to congregate for any single event in Pampa. . . The parade, says the official parade measurer, was at least three and a half yards longer than Amarillo's Mother-In-Law Day parade, and that was ballyhooed as the world's longest . . . So what? . . . Among other personable newspaper folk at the Tuesday press luncheon was Mrs. Emma Meador, editor and publisher of the Pampa Press, and Doug Parlington, Press city editor.

THE BOY WONDER was in the front line of parade spectators yesterday, and he was astounded by the man with the dog on his head . . . That happened to be City Editor Archer Fullingim who was rigged up in buffalo hunter's raccoon chapeau . . . Only the day before that, having been warned to stay out of the grass or the chiggers would get him—he came running into the house to report that he had just been bitten by a chinker check.

Darlene McClenaghan, the Boy Wonder's 12-year-old Yankee cousin, who never before has been out of Ohio and who is here on a vacation, marveled at the cowboys, and cowgirls, the horses, etc., but was disappointed to find that there was no profusion of Indians . . . Back where she comes from, Indians are synonymous with Texas.

YOU'LL SEE PICTURES in a day or so of the boys with the bushy beards—the fellows who stuck to their original promises to grow fiesta whiskers . . . There always is a reward for those who stick things out . . . Likewise, you'll see photos of the beautiful cowgirls, many of whom rode in the pageant of flags in Tuesday's parade . . . Bill Rutherford, of The Moore County News, took time off on his busiest day of the week just to attend the opening of the fiesta and the press luncheon . . . He left immediately after the fiesta and press luncheon for Dumas where he had to jump into the business of getting out a paper.

Remember, tonight will be your last chance to see the big rodeo . . . The carnival will remain here all the rest of this week . . . Another top-notch attraction tonight will be the Hollywood presentation in front of the LaNora theater with all the fanfare of a Grauman's Chinese theater opening night . . . There will be a radio broadcast, autographs of the movie notables, short talks by distinguished visitors and the glamor of a first night in movieland . . . It will be followed by a showing of "Man of Conquest," movie version of the life of Texas' Sam Houston.

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein

At this season of the year fresh fruits are available in most markets at reasonable prices. Fruits are exceedingly valuable in the diet because they are among the richest of sources of vitamin C and are also quite rich in pro-vitamin A or carotene. The fruits which are richest in vitamin C are the oranges, lemons, grapefruit and limes, and those which are yellow colored are also the ones which are most rich in pro-vitamin A.

Fruits also provide some sugar, varying from 3 to 18 per cent but they do not provide much in the way of fat except for olives and avocado pears. These are exceedingly rich in fat. Few people realize what they provide in the way of Calories. Olives give 30 calories per ounce; half an alligator pear will provide from 300 to 500 calories.

The fuel value of fruits is usually low because of the large amount of material taken in relationship to the sugar content. Bananas give about as many calories an ounce as fish, but most fruits contain so much water that the fuel value may be ignored. For that reason fruits play an important part in the diet. Fruit gives bulk without caloric content. Dried fruits, of course, get rid of the water and thus provide calories in considerable amounts at a low cost.

Canned fruits vary greatly in the amount of sugar that they contain, and anyone who is planning to use canned fruits as a part of the diet has to know the percentage of carbohydrate. Nowadays, however, many fruits are being canned without added sugar so that it is possible to figure the diet on the basis of the fresh fruit.

When fruits are cooked, the fibrous material which the fruit contains becomes softened. This makes the fruits more digestible. However, fruits are in general quite digestible, the ease of digestion depending on the nature of the fruit and its degree of ripeness. Everyone knows that a ripe apple is digested with reasonable ease but a green apple may take much longer.

One of the questions most frequently raised nowadays is the question of eating fruits which may have been sprayed with toxic materials to prevent infestation by parasites. Under the laws of various states fruit growers and packers are supposed to wash fruit to remove dangerous quantities of these substances. Special washing solutions have been devised which tend to invalidate the toxic substances which have been left on the fruit.

Furthermore, it is advisable for people to wash fruit before eating in order to make certain that any contaminations are removed from the surface.

An estimate of the food value of fruits is conveyed by the fact that an apple will provide 100 calories; three plums or three prunes will give 100 calories, and a two-inch slice of watermelon will give 100 calories; a whole orange will provide 100 calories, but it also takes a whole cantaloupe to provide 100 calories. For this reason a slice of cantaloupe, which is very filling, is a good substance in a reducing diet.

Lamesa Will Open Three-Game Series Here

New Pampa Lineup Beats Abilene 10-6

After meeting the Abilene Apaches this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, the Pampa Oilers will swing back into night baseball tomorrow when the second-place Lamesa Loboes come to Pampa for a crucial three-game series. Game time tomorrow night will be 8:30 o'clock.

Pampa and Lamesa will also cross bats Friday night at 8:30 o'clock and on Saturday night at 9:15 o'clock and that will be another Ladies' Night battle, all women being admitted free to the game.

Lamesa lost to Amarillo last night which put them just 2½ games ahead of the Oilers. League-leading Lubbock also lost last night to Big Spring, which left them only 3 games ahead of the Oilers. The first half of the league schedule ends June 28 and the team in first place automatically enters the playoff at the close of the season and that is where the Oilers have their sights set.

Manager Grover Seitz presented a changed lineup against Abilene yesterday afternoon and he got plenty of power, winning 10 to 6. Lloyd Summers, catcher, joined the Oilers yesterday and was behind the bat. Manager Seitz sent Ed Beavers to right field, Paul Reeves to left field, Gordon Nell to third base, and Fred Pietras to second base. Tony Swift was placed on the temporary suspended list to keep the roster within the limit.

Oilers Hit Ball.

The Oilers opened their scoring yesterday afternoon in the second when Summers tripled and scored on Beavers' single. Four more were put across the plate in the third. Cross opened with a single, Vannoy went out trying to sacrifice, Reeves singled and Bailey tripled to score the pair. Seitz singled to score Bailey and then stole second and third. Nell walked and Seitz came home on Summers' sacrifice fly. Beavers singled but Nell was trapped off second.

Juicy errors, two by Cross and one on a misjudged fly by Beavers in the sun field, cost the Oilers in the first of the fourth. Hillin opened the inning with a single and Cross let two double play balls go between his legs. Scruggs fanned and then Beavers misjudged Danner's fly and three runs crossed the plate. Potocar singled another across, but Franklin, new pitcher, hit into a double play.

The Oilers put the game on ice in the seventh. Reeves opened with a single and Bailey doubled. Nell scored both ahead of him when he hit one over the left field fence. Summers, Beavers, and Pietras singled in succession to add another run.

Abilene staged a ninth inning rally when Danner opened with a triple and Potocar doubled. Hendrix, a pinchhitter, filed out but Barnhall, another pinchhitter, singled a run across. The next pair went out to Cross.

Milbert Vannoy won his third straight from the Apaches, letting up 10 hits. Vannoy won a doubleheader in Abilene a week ago. Parks and Franklin gave the Oilers 16 bingles. Bailey led the parade with a single, double, and triple and Beavers bagged three singles.

Hubbell Admits Arm Not Ready For 9 Innings

CHICAGO, June 14 (AP)—If Carl Hubbell winds up the current season in his customary spot among the National league's top pitchers no one will be more surprised than the lanky southpaw himself.

The 35-year old erstwhile "meal ticket" of the New York Giants called the turn on his condition today by admitting his arm wasn't ready "to go the nine inning route."

In fact, Hubbell said a bit wistfully he was extremely doubtful if "I ever win 20 games in a season again," and added:

"I've come to the conclusion that winter operation on the elbow took a lot out of my arm and I think it's going to take me the better part of the season to make it strong again.

"As long as our present starters (Harry Gumbert, Cliff Melton, Bill Lohrman, Hal Schumacher, and Manuel Salvo) keep up their work of the past two weeks I don't stand much chance to start any games. But I guess I'll get in there as a relief pitcher."

Hubbell, generally ranked as one of the great southpaws of all time, has won only one game and lost four this season—a far cry from the 35 victories he turned in the past two years against 18 defeats.

Midget Cars Will Race In Chicago

CHICAGO, June 14 (AP)—Jitterbugs of automobile racing are going to have a championship meet of their own for the first time.

From the rock-bound coast of Maine to the slopes of the Pacific, et cetera, the jitterbugs—drivers of those roaring midget racing cars—are coming here to decide just who's who.

There are champions of Colorado, Kansas City, Toledo, and the townships, but no national champ unless it might be Harry McQuinn, Indianapolis, claimant to the national indoor title.

The races open Sunday night, winding up a week hence with a 100 lap final for the title.

The event, with a prize distribution of $15,000 has attracted the best of the speed boys in the business. They include Jimmy Snyder, Chicago, who blistered the bricks at the Indianapolis speedway to qualify at a record speed of 130.128 miles an hour; Tony Williman, Milwaukee, who drove 450 miles of the Indianapolis "500"; Lyle Dickey, Kansas City; Judd Piccup, Denver; Art Hartsfield, Toledo, former national motorcycle champion; Paul Swedborg, Los Angeles; Paul Russo, Chicago, national board track auto racing champion, and a flock of others.

Tyler Defeats League Leaders

(By The Associated Press.)

Ralph Pate held Henderson to five hits and singled in the winning ninth-inning run to give Tyler its second consecutive victory over the East Texas league leaders, 2-1, last night.

Texarkana scored all its runs in the eighth inning to defeat Palestine, 5-2. Nelson had allowed the Liners only two hits but in the eighth, issued five free passes, gave up two hits and a sacrifice fly.

Marshall pounded Fred Isert for 14 hits and swept the series with Kilgore, 4-2.

Longview coasted to a 10-2 victory over Jacksonville behind the three-hit hurling of Ed Lopat.

Willie Davies At Last Has His Diploma

PITTSBURGH, June 14 (AP)—William (Wee Willie) Davies, who passed up a chance at the world's flyweight boxing championship to go back to school six years ago, got his reward today—a college diploma from University of Pittsburgh.

Wee Willie was 26 when he made his big decision after fighting his way through 40 amateur and 287 professional bouts. Wife Evelyn persuaded him to quit the prize ring while still in possession of all his faculties.

Fighting is the only business Wee Willie ever knew. He boxed exhibitions in vaudeville at 11. Weighing only 96 pounds, he won an amateur title at Wilkinsburg, Pa., when 15, dulpicated the feat a year later in Pittsburgh and became amateur flyweight champion of the Alleghenies at 18.

Wee Willie forsook the Olympic tryouts to begin his career as a professional boxer.

For nearly nine years he beat the best at his weight in the business. Friends dubbed Wee Willie an "uncrowned champion" after he licked Frankie Genaro, the titleholder, in a non-title go.

He won five of six engagements with Izzy Schwartz, claimant to the crown.

But flyweights were not big attractions and Wee Willie's fight purses weren't large. His best was $1,800. He fought at the rate of one bout a week.

The boys were catching up with him and inflicting a few marks when Mrs. Davies had a heart-to-heart talk with the battler and won out in her plea for a halt.

So Willie left the ring and went to high school as the classmate of boys 14 and 15. It took him only two years with the help of his teacher wife to finish. Then he went to Pitt.

It's been a long, hard struggle but today at 32, Wee Willie has made the grade. He's going out qualified to teach and coach in high school with a major degree in physical education and minors in history and biological science.

Lou Gehrig Goes Thru Mayo Clinic

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 14 (AP)—Lou Gehrig was back in a lineup today, not at his old first base post with the New York Yankees but in the Mayo clinic.

The big man who once toted the most potent bat in the big leagues took his turn among the motley throng that each day begins the long trek past consultants.

Should the procedure reveal whatever it is that Lou says cost him his speed and then his regular first base job after setting a major league record for consecutive games, Gehrig will continue on to a specialist or a surgeon.

In any event, the veteran Yankee star expects to return as the mighty Larrupin' Lou who blasted a life time big league batting average of .344.

Houston Wins Eighth Game From Rebels

(By The Associated Press)

The Houston Buffs seem to have the Indian sign on the Dallas Rebels, or maybe they've just got a better ball club.

The Buffs climbed out of a tie with Dallas for the Texas League lead by taking the series and their eighth game of the season from the Rebels, 3-2, last night. Dallas has beaten Houston only once this year.

San Antonio lost to Tulsa, 8-0, and went into a tie with the Rebels for second place.

Shreveport made a clean sweep of their three-game series with the Fort Worth Cats, 6-1.

Beaumont downed Oklahoma City, 4-3, when Ned Harris' double scored Dixie Howell in the ninth inning.

Hank Nowak, rookie right-hander, celebrated his first Texas League start since being recalled to Houston from the East Texas League by limiting the Rebels to four scattered hits. Nick Cullop hit a triple to drive and Manchukuo. Lieutenant Perhome the tying score, then counted the winning marker on Red Davis' base knock.

Tulsa's George Milstead held San Antonio to two singles and allowed only two Missions to reach second base.

Hugo Klaerner turned back the Fort Worth Cats with three hits in Shreveport.

At Beaumont, Hal Manders scattered nine blows and outpitched Bob Harris to win his tenth victory at the expense of Oklahoma City.

Oklahoma City at Dallas (night).
Tulsa at Fort Worth (night).
San Antonio at Shreveport (night).
Houston at Beaumont (day).

Tony Lazzeri: He don't stay in long and he don't stay out long . . . It just doesn't look right to see the New York papers playing the Dodger games over those of the Yanks and Giants, but that's what they're doing.

We're Asking You.

Nine hundred turned out to see the world champions in St. Louis the other day . . . We don't know whether the Yanks are slipping or business in St. Louis is picking up . . . What do you make of it, Watson?

Free speech dept.: Some days ago, Bill Cissell, Hollywood second sacker, did a bit of popping off in words and music . . . He was quoted in an Oakland paper that W. C. (Two Gun) Tuttle, Coast league president, knew nothing about baseball and recommended Umpire George Hildebrand for the job . . . Tuttle slapped a $200 fine on Cissell . . . A Seattle paper conducted a "man-on-the-street" poll and the unanimous verdict was Tuttle went too far—that Cissell was entitled to air his views even if they were a bit hard on some ear drums.

Help! Help!

Here's a howdy-do . . . Paul Derringer, Red pitcher, lost an $8,000 court suit here . . . There's a warrant out and if Paul sets foot in New York, they'll pinch him and throw him into the clink . . . Can't get into Beantown, either, unless he goes around by Nova Scotia . . . Red fans are thinking of putting on a "Derringer day" to raise the dough before the next crucial series with the Jints or Dodgers.

Woodruff Case Holds Interest

LOS ANGELES, June 14 (AP)—Leaving the rival brass hats to settle the celebrated John Woodruff case, the country's finest track and field athletes staged final workouts today for the National Collegiate championships opening Friday.

Verbal wars continued unabated between N. C. A. A. leaders here and the Amateur Athletic Union, but whether Woodruff, center of the controversy, would run here or in the A. A. U.-sponsored Princeton invitational remained uncertain.

Athletic Director James Hagan of Pittsburgh said he wanted his running star to compete in the N. C. A. A. Coach Carl Olsen nodded assent.

Sharp criticism of the A. A. U., which reportedly threatened Woodruff with disqualification from the 1940 Olympic team if he didn't run at Princeton, was voiced by college representatives.

Highlight of one of the workouts was the discus throw of Archie Harris of Indiana. He tossed the plate 170 feet—four feet better than his best official mark.

Good form was also displayed by Francis Ryan of Columbia in the shot, Michigan's Bill Watson in the shot and discus, Boyce Gatewood of Texas, Earl Vickery of U. S. C., and Steve Gutting of Purdue in the hurdles.

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

There is a suspicion going around that the St. Louis Cardinals aren't being given full credit for a job well done.

Considerable fuss has been made over the Cincinnati Reds, leading the National League, and the amazing Brooklyn Dodgers, but ever since May 26 the Cards have been hanging on the Reds' heels—just close enough so it hasn't been safe to say the race has developed into a runaway.

If Lon Warneke and Curt Davis can keep up their recent pitching performances, aided by Bob Bowman, who looks like a real find; Bill McGee, who is pitching good ball, and Bob Weiland, who has a tendency to plow hot and cold, the Cards look like one of the best bets to chase Cincinnati out of the throne room.

But there's cause for considerable worry around St. Louis right now, for those Dodgers open a three-game series in Sportsman's Park today and Pepper Martin won't be in there doing the usual amount of damage.

Pepper's comeback—not that he has been far away—is one of the main reasons why the Cards are up where they are. The Wild Hoss" has been going at a pace reminiscent of the days when the gas house gang threw cold chills up and down every National Leaguer's spine.

Undistinguished most of last season, the madcap Martin has compiled a .330 batting average, driven in 14 runs and scored 22 himself—most of them probably sliding on his stomach, one of his favorite ways of getting home. But he took one slide too many and cracked up a wrist, so the Cards sent him home while they were in Boston.

Right after that, the Cards ran into a slump that has cost them four of their last five games and now they tackle the Dodgers with only a game and a half margin to work on.

The Dodgers, on the wings of a victory streak that gave them seven wins out of their last home stand of 11 games, and clicking like a dollar watch, are a first division club—on the say-say of no less authority than Will McKechnie, boss of the Cincinnatis. If they can get past the Cards into second place and at the same time prove they can win on the road, or if they fail dismally, this series may have a vital bearing on the race the rest of the way.

Barring cloud and fog, the constellations of the Big and Little Dippers and of Draco the Dragon are visible at any hour of night throughout the year.

State Board Will Control City Police

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 14 (AP)—The legislature handed the Kansas City police department, a patronage prize, to Gov Lloyd C. Stark today—climax of his intra-democratic party fight against imprisoned Boss Tom Pendergast.

By an overwhelming vote, the senate last night passed the house bill. It added an emergency clause which makes the act law the minute Stark signs.

"The Pendergast organization has met its Waterloo," Stark jubilantly told reporters.

The bill places the Kansas City police under a bi-partisan board of four to be appointed by the governor. For years until 1932 such a board directed the police, but in that year the Supreme Court ruled the law unconstitutional on a technicality.

Stark, who turned on Pendergast shortly after his election in 1936 with machine support, last March demanded control of the police. He declared racketeering, gambling, and prostitution in Kansas City "smelled to the high heavens."

A bitter three-month legislative battle followed. Pendergast supporters gradually lost strength. Their boss pleaded guilty to income tax frauds at the height of the police bill fight and was sentenced to Leavenworth federal prison.

Kansas City's police force numbers 633 men. About a score recently have been discharged following a civic shakeup in which Mayor Bryce B. Smith seized control from City Manager H. E. McElroy, who immediately resigned.

Police Director Otto Higgins, who had held office at the pleasure of McElroy and Pendergast, was forced to resign a few days later.

Czechs Fined For Death Of Policeman

PRAGUE, June 14 (AP)—Johann Mueller, Czech policeman slain Friday by a German police officer, was buried privately today after German authorities had banned a public funeral in fear of disorders.

Only relatives and a few others were present for the interment at Porici. Mueller's home town.

Approximately 20,000 persons had gathered yesterday at nearby Nachod for a public funeral when German authorities banned the ceremony, saying they feared trouble.

The Jewish community of Kladno will be forced to pay 80 per cent of the 500,000 crown (about $20,000) fine levied upon the district by Baron Konstantin von Neurath, reich protector, for the killing of the policeman, it was learned from Czech informants.

The remaining 20 per cent will be collected from supporters of the "Bens" (former Czecho-Slovak president) system. This means Germans living in the district and those sympathetic towards the protectorate will be exempted from payment.

City Commission Postpones Meeting

When its fiesta time in Pampa even official routine is altered.

Members of the city commission postponed their regular meeting from Tuesday afternoon to Thursday this week.

Mayor E. S. Carr was one of the four speakers at the official opening program of the Top O' Texas Fiesta, held at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, in front of the La-Nora theater.

J. M. Collins, chairman of the distinguished visitors committee, introduced Frank Monroe, president of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, fiesta sponsors, Dick Stout, Texas assistant attorney general, and Mayor Carr. Each made brief talks, standing before a public address microphone in front of the theater.

Reds Get Monopoly On Cuban Ivory

CINCINNATI, June 14 (AP)—And now the Cincinnati Reds have obtained a monopoly on imports of baseball ivory from Cuba.

Warren C. Giles, Reds' general manager, said today the Cuban government agreed to become, in effect, a scout for the National league team and give it exclusive call upon any island player of potential major league caliber.

Under the agreement, effective next spring, Cuba will pay all prospective players' expenses to the Reds training camp at Tampa, Fla.

Giles explained the arrangement resulted from Cuba's appreciation of numerous opportunities to "make good" given Cuban players over many years.

Pepper Martin Gets 'Shower' For Farm

ST. LOUIS, June 14 (AP)—Pepper Martin is going to find things plenty comfortable back on his Oklahoma farm.

When the Cardinals decided to honor their veteran outfielder with a "Pepper Martin day" Sunday Pepper's friends got busy.

Oklahoma City admirers announced they would send a walking plow to go with a pair of strawberry roan brood mares St. Louis fans are greeting him. Other gifts now planned are a hayrake, plow, electric churn and a pair of pedigreed rabbits.

The Kaibab squirrel, found only on the north rim of Grand Canyon, Ariz., and the Albert squirrel, found on the south rim, are the only squirrels in the United States with tufted ears.

Sidewalk Supers Show Deep Interest

Star Spangled Banner Slightly Moth Nibbled

By EDDY GILMORE.

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—American moths, not British bombshells, have tattered the original Star-Spangled Banner.

On this, the 162nd anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the American flag, the piece of bunting that inspired Francis Scott Key to write the national anthem isn't exactly unscathed.

True, there are a few penetrations described as bullet holes, but those are nothing compared to the jagged spots which are monuments to the obesity of forgotten moths.

The forage on the famous flag by insects is at an end, however, now that it has come under the careful guardianship of the Smithsonian Institution.

The Institution got the Star-Spangled Banner from Eben Appleton of New York, grandson of Col. George Armistead, the heroic commander of Fort McHenry, Baltimore.

It was in bad shape, and in addition it had been mounted the wrong way—the stars to the left as you look at it.

Experts had it moth-proofed and fireproofed and then put it under a huge glass case which, incidentally, isn't locked.

The Star-Spangled Banner has never been one of the Institution's most successful possessions because—strange to say—Americans won't believe it's the original.

The Star-Spangled Banner was the work of Mrs. Mary Pickersgill of Baltimore. She received $405.90.

Relief Problem Tackled By House

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The house tackled the relief problem anew today, amid indication a bitter floor fight would develop over proposals to revamp the WPA.

Among the changes to be proposed, it was said, were substitution of a three-member administrative board for the present single WPA administrator; wage differential in favor of relief works with dependents; elimination of the federal theater projects; limitation of the time workers can spend on relief rolls, and earmarking of $125,000,000 of relief funds for a public works program.

Republicans served notice they would renew their efforts to turn administration of relief back to the states and local communities, limiting the federal government's participation to footing the major share of the cost.

"We're more concerned about policies than amounts just now," one influential republican said, "because the $1,477,000,000 the President has requested for the WPA is $773,000,000 less than it got for the current year."

Besides the WPA appropriation, Mr. Roosevelt requested $123,000,000 each for the National Youth and Farm security administrations, and $39,490,000 for various other relief purposes.

AFL Accused By Maverick In Garbage Strike

SAN ANTONIO, June 14 (AP)—Labor trouble, a lawsuit and plans for reorganization of the city's police department gave San Antonio's new mayor, Maury Maverick, plenty to do today.

Although he denied garbage collections ran behind schedule after walkout or holdover employes in that department, Maverick yesterday instructed the new crew to work overtime.

The denial followed charges by those who quit that garbage left uncollected was creating unsanitary conditions. Maverick accused two American Federation of Labor officials, A. F. Cadena and Bill Williams, of attempting to destroy a program of more sanitary garbage removal.

Maverick, five officials and two city depositories were named in a suit for an injunction to restrain the city from issuing bonds or further warrants for back wages and overtime under terms of the state wage and hour law for firemen and policemen.

Henry Lee Taylor, attorney, filed an amended petition to his original suit seeking to restrain the city from issuing $630,803 in warrants. A hearing has not been set.

Maverick announced yesterday the city would import experts to reorganize the police department and make a survey of tuberculosis and venereal disease.

Grant Faces First Real Competition

ATLANTA, June 14. (AP) — Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant, seeking his eighth title, faced his first real competition in the southern tennis championship tournament today as the large field of players moved into the fourth round.

Grant, easy winner yesterday over Dick Morris of Winter Park, Fla., in his first match, was doped to take without much trouble a fellow Atlantan, Gordon Kiser, and then meet Burtz Boulware of Tampa, Fla., the tenth seeded netter.

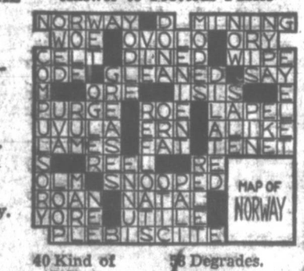

Eighteen survivors, eight from Florida, went into the fourth round.

Doubles play was arranged to start today, with the team of Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., and Russell Bobbitt, Atlanta, ranked fifth nationally, expected to have little difficulty in copping the title.

SERIAL STORY

BRIDE ON A BUDGET

BY JANET DORAN

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Bart's troubles with Iris begin as she balks at cooking and sewing. He realizes now that those old jokes about the "little woman" are all too true, too real!

CHAPTER VI

CONTRARY to Bart's belief that she was unreasonable, Iris knew only too well that her precarious position depended solely upon cool, clear reasoning. She would crash, with the deadliest certainty, into the yawning pit before her, if she yielded by so much as a fraction to the clamoring urge her emotions were inciting within her.

Loving Bart, knowing full well that he had married her with the budget idea fixed firmly in his methodical mind, she knew she was breaking faith with him. But she knew, with greater certainty, that she owed $21 each and every week of her life for the coming seven months, and it was no time to look back at earlier bargains.

Bart would have to make the most of it. He'd have to get used to things as they were. Because if she didn't make the payments each week, he would learn about her debts. And if he learned about the debts there'd be a riot.

Bart loathed installment buying almost as much as he loathed the peculiar system set up and made legal by the budget plan sellers. The "fines" inflicted on the account that was delinquent, the carrying charges—ten times more than any bookkeeping and financing through legal channels required. The crafty method of withholding ultimatums until cost of merchandise was completed, then cracking down and taking the stuff back to resell at almost the same price over again.

"I remember, once, when I was ten, they took the piano away from us," Bart told Iris, during the first weeks of their marriage when he discovered a "slip" she had run at the corner grocery for groceries for the week, and had argued vigorously against it, insisting that she promise never to do it again.

"I'll never forget how my mother cried. And how mad I was. I made up my mind then I'd never buy anything on time. Not if I went without it forever."

SO—Bart must never know. And nights, when Iris lay awake, thinking about the accounts she was paying on, each week, shivers raced her spine as she contemplated the awful consequences, should Bart ever learn her secret.

Only he wouldn't. She comforted herself with that belief. Bart need never know. She'd never tell him, and when they were all paid, she'd buy on a cash basis, since he was so set on it. But it was silly. People who never used budget plan buying had practically nothing. And you had to look well nowadays or you'd be out of everything.

So, little by little, she lulled her fears, and since Bart never mentioned debts again, it wasn't long before she saw something else she had to have. And could only pay a small deposit down on.

It was an evening gown this time. A gorgeous, heavy, printed linen it was, with a big splashy gold and green maple leaf against an ivory background. Really enormously effective in contrast with her glowing sun-tan, shining blond hair and blue-violet eyes. But—$25!

"Marked down from $29.95, Miss . . . Mrs. Whittaker," the saleslady urged subtly, "it's really a buy. Not another gown like that in Linwood. And you can wear those linens. They look like Paris on you."

Iris bought it. She bought gold linen sandals to match, and a tiny beaten gold ornament to wear in her hair. And then faced the problem of getting her boodle home so her husband wouldn't see it.

She took the dress home the next noon, and hid it away in an older suit box. She had wracked her brain for a suitable fable to explain the dress with, and had finally decided on something that would make doubly dear the new dress. She would make Bart think it was a last year's dress. She knew he wouldn't remember; he never remembered her clothes from one season to the next. Men seldom did, she believed.

Hiding the box far back in her clothes closet, deep under a pile of other boxes, she smiled a little, planning how she would spring it on him.

THAT night, dressing to go to the weekly Saturday night dance at the Yacht Club with John and Ellen Kent, Iris pretended to find a great flaw in her pet dance dress.

"Goodness, Bart, this seam has come out! Whatever can I do? This late?"

"Needle and thread is indicated, wife," Bart answered, grinning, "or doesn't one sew an evening dress?"

"Definitely not, Bart! It's a job for a tailor, and a mighty smart one. Unless you want to buy a new dress."

Sitting down on the little gray enameled bench before the matching gray dressing table, Iris was a convincing study of a perplexed, frustrated bride. Until her faintly frowning gaze swept the closet and a puzzled, hopeful smile tugged at her mouth.

"Unless—oh, Bart, get me that pile of boxes, will you? Up there on the top shelf of the closet. In one of them I've an old linen evening gown—one I wore last year several times, but didn't like. It doesn't need pressing or cleaning—and I'm almost positive I had it cleaned before I put it away last summer—I'm saved."

Bart was so proud of her in the new, but allegedly "old" last year's gown. It was, he insisted, stunning. It was the best-looking thing he'd ever seen her wear. It was a knockout. She looked grand in it.

"You'll wow 'em, honey," he ended up enthusiastically.

Definitely, the $5 down had been worth it. And, but definitely, the weekly payments completing the price would be nothing. Bart's enthusiastic approval of the dress more than proved how accurate her judgment had been in buying it. You had to buy a new dress now and then, to keep a man noticing you. And it didn't matter if he did think it was a last year's dress. If a man was going to be so unreasonable about buying new clothes a girl had to use strategy, didn't she?

At the dance, Bart got quite a kick out of the others thinking Iris' dress was new, too. He beamed with pride, he even bragged a little.

"Not new at all," he admonished Monica Bradon from the science department at the university, "just something Iris put away in a box last year and kept over. I'll bet she does the same thing again this year with it, too. A dress doesn't wear out in several years."

Iris avoided Monica's clear, direct glance. She avoided Ellen's mirthful brown eyes, and the hilarious grin on John's face that Bart mistook for appreciation.

Let them, she thought mutinously. They didn't have to scheme and figure 40 ways to have so much as a decent dress to wear to a dance, where there were smart summer people from New York and Boston and everywhere. They didn't have a husband who lived by a silly old budget book, and raved hours on saving two dimes a day so he'd have $2000 in 15 years. They didn't have the present and the immediate future hamstrung and made ugly and barren, just so the far future might be gilded.

"After all," Iris told herself sulkily, "who knows if we'll live that long? In this day and age you have to get what you can, while there's the chance, and never mind the far future."

And the linen gown was doubly, trebly precious now.

Bankhead May Be Candidate For President

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP) — Presidential talk buzzing in political circles embraced today the unusual possibility that the names of the presiding officers of both senate and house would be presented to the 1940 democratic convention.

Friends of William B. Bankhead of Alabama, 65-year-old speaker of the house, said there had been some informal discussion of his candidacy, although without any encouragement from him, if President Roosevelt does not run. If the President does seek a third term, Bankhead may be proposed as his running mate.

Boosters of Vice President John N. Garner, 70-year-old presiding officer of the senate, already have announced Garner's name would be placed in nomination regardless of Mr. Roosevelt's decision.

Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, when asked about the Bankhead talk, said:

"The speaker must talk for himself, but friends in Alabama, and more particularly members of the Alabama delegation would seize any opportunity to present his name to the next convention."

A somewhat similar situation was developing around the candidacy of Paul V. McNutt, high commissioner to the Philippines and former Indiana governor.

Senator Minton, democrat, Ind., said the "entire McNutt campaign is predicated on the assumption the President will not run." McNutt is due in San Francisco June 23. He is returning presumably to resign his Philippine post and lead his own drive for the presidential nomination.

Mr. Roosevelt has given no indication whether he will run again. He said yesterday he would make up his mind June 23 whether to make a trip to the west coast July 2 or after congress adjourns. Politicians say such a journey, with the opportunity for sounding out sentiment, might help the President reach a decision.

Even before it was officially opened the Great Smokey Mountains National Park was the second most popular federal park in America.

If all American hotel corridors were placed end to end they would reach from New York to San Francisco and several hundred miles into the Pacific.

Officials Fail To Find Kidnaped Boy

CLYDE, Ohio, June 14 (AP)—Officials widened their hunt for 10-week-old Haldon Fink today after an all-night search failed to produce a clew to the whereabouts of the baby, snatched from a cradle while his mother was away.

The baby was sleeping in a street-level room at the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oran Baker. Mrs. Irvin Fink, 27, the mother, and the grandmother left the house at 10 o'clock last night. An hour later they returned and found the baby gone.

The grandfather, hard of hearing, said he perceived no sounds as he sat in an adjoining room.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were to enter the case today.

The parents are divorced. The child's father, a 27-year-old foundry worker, was in nearby Fremont all evening.

Sheriff H. G. Myers said he had been unable to establish a possible motive.

"I believe it was the work of a maniac," he declared. Seems like the entire family is absolved."

Cod liver oil is widely used to supply vitamin D in feeds for livestock, particularly poultry.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.
