JOHNSON'S DEFEAT A TRAGEDY

England's Labor Regime Approaches Finish; King Is Asked For Dissolution

Crisis Comes When Conservative-Liberal Combination Vote in House Demands Probe of Action Dropping Prosecution of Communist Editor

WELCOME APPEAL

Yet Liberals Party Prospects Can Hardly be Improved, In View of Recent History, By Going to Kingdom Decision

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Great Britain's first labor government virtually came to an end at 11 o'clock tonight when by a combination of conservative and liberal votes the house of commons carried a motion demanding that a select committee of the house investigate the action of the attorney general, Sir Patrick Hastings, in withdrawing prosecution in the case of the communist James R. Campbell, acting editor of the workers weekly, charged with inciting His Majesty's forces to sedition.

The government declined to accept the motion and treated it as a vote of censure which if adopted by the house would involve an appeal to the country against parliament's verdict.

Debate a Sharp One.

The debate was sharp and exciting, and after it was closed the opposition wanted to drop Sir Robert S. Horne's motion of censure and vote on Sir John A. Simon's amendment calling for an investigation on the government's refusal to accept this course. This divided on the question as which it should vote on. By a vote of 359 to 198, it decided to vote on the Simon amendment. This was equivalent to defeat of the censure motion and the Simon amendment became the substantive motion, and was carried 364 to 198.

Announcement of the figures was received with loud cheers and counter cheers. The prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, immediately arose and said:

"In view of what has happened, Mr. Speaker, I move that the house do now adjourn."

Agreed Unanimously.

This was agreed to unanimously. The premier will see the king tomorrow and ask for dissolution of parliament. It is understood, however, that the government has decided to carry on until the Irish boundary bill is safe and the boundary commission appointed.

Throughout the final scenes the excitement rose to the highest pitch; jibes and retorts were flung across the house and some of the members indulged in singing. Up to the end there were rumors of maneuvers to avoid defeating the government, but as it appeared not improbable from the tone of some of the speeches, there was some disposition on the part of the opposition to reconsider its tactics, it had seemingly committed itself too far to recede.

Will Welcome An Appeal

There is little doubt that the labor party and the government will welcome an appeal to the country, thus as they contend, thrust upon them and they are convinced that they will return to the house of commons a much stronger party, even though they may not command a majority in the house over all other parties. They believe they have a good cause to present to the electors in what they argue is the triviality of the question upon which they have been defeated and on their record, especially in the realm of foreign affairs and finance.

There is no reason to suppose that the king will oppose granting dissolution of parliament. The liberals, it was pointed out, can hardly expect, in view of all recent political history, that they will improve their party prospects by an appeal to the country and as far as the conservatives are concerned, their idea probably is that if even they should fail to attain an absolute majority in parliament, there may arise some opportunity to form a new coalition from conservatives and liberals to keep labor out.

Attack Horne's Speech

Sir Robert Horne's speech in moving the vote was an attack on Attorney General Hasting's conduct of the Campbell case. He accused him of lack of candor and asked whether he knew that Campbell was elected a member of the red internationale this year and was affiliated with the Moscow internationale.

The attorney general's speech in 'is own words, was strongly lament. He declared that he was not an apologist and would take exactly the same course again. He placed before the house a long statement of everything concerning the case from beginning to end and sought to show that precedents for his action had been set by his predecessors in office.

CARE OF WOUNDED

Mrs. Sone Tramps Over Battlefield With Coolies Doing First Aid

Special to The Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Oct. 8.—Not a great deal is known in Chillicothe about the fighting in China, but first hand information received here from Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Sone, Methodist missionaries, who are in the Chekiang province, stationed at Huchow makes it a little bit clearer.

The battle has been raging around Huchow for several weeks, the missionaries write, but the Texans have been in no immediate danger. They and other missionaries and foreigners have been offered protection by the Chinese government. If danger arises, they will be held in a portion of the city made impregnable by a high wall.

The inventors of gunpowder are finding its horrors in the war. Fighting has thinned the ranks near the city of Huchow, and the missionaries are helping to care for the wounded. Mr. Sone is in charge of relief expeditions and oversees the work of the coolies in bringing the wounded to the temporary hospitals provided for them.

Mrs. Sone has tramped over the battle fields with coolies doing first aid and administering to their needs before they can be taken to the hospitals. She stated in her letter that she would serve in one of the hospitals as nurse to the injured.

Mrs. Sone is remembered here as Miss Helen Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jackson.

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 8.—Prospective jurors in criminal cases may be questioned on membership in the ku klux klan, the court of criminal appeals held today in reversing a sentence against Guy Moore of Jefferson county.

Moore was charged with violation of the liquor laws. His attorneys attempted to ask a venireman specifically if he was a member of the klan. The trial judge held this was an improper question and asked the venireman if he belonged to any organization whose oath would interfere with the oath of a juryman.

The high court said this was error, holding that every defendant has a right to know whether a juryman belongs to the klan in order to challenge him intelligently.

ANTI-U. S. PROPAGANDA.

Japan Has a Report That U. S. Ships Brought Munitions to Pekin.

By The Associated Press

TOKIO, Oct. 8.—A spokesman of the Japanese foreign office today characterized as unconfirmed reports widely circulated in Tokio press circles that an American steamer landed large quantities of munitions at Tientsin, China, during the night, consigned to the Peking armies under control of the central government of China.

"An investigation has been started in this matter," the spokesman said.

The report is an outstanding example of the propaganda now being prepared in Japan to urge the government to intervene in the Chinese war on the side of General Chang Tso-Lin, who is attempting to obtain control of the government of China by force.

The basis of the propaganda is that America is supporting "Japan's enemy," General Wu Pei-Fu, military head of the central government of China.

Most of the propaganda has been traced to army quarters.

Reports from Oklahoma points indicated a storm area of more or less intensity in the northwest part of the state, but the effects of this would not be felt in Wichita Falls it was indicated.

Says His Country Like A "Great Lady Held in Durance—Gagged"

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Blasco Ibanez, declaring he considers it his duty to make known the truth about his country, is engaged in writing a book against the Spanish directorate. The novelist says he does not intend even to spare the king, of whom he remarks:

"I never consented to be introduced to him because I knew that one day I would have to fight him."

Disclaiming that he sought either fame or pecuniary profit, the writer added:

"Spain is like a great lady held in durance—securely gagged. Before the directorate one thing had always been respected: one might write what one might. But the times have changed. There is now a visage on all books, even text books of geography, history, mathematics and philosophy.

"It was the last existing liberty and it had to go. * * * * I intend to write pitilessly on Spanish militarism with facts, examples and anecdotes and the materials are not lacking.

HIS FAILURE THE KIND THAT GOES INTO THE HEART

50,000 Were With "Old Master" to Win and He Couldn't Do It

LOOKS LIKE GIANTS

Much as Thousands Don't Want Him to, Appears McGraw to be Crowned

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A rousing reception, much like that accorded victorious football teams by college students, was given the Washington baseball team upon its return from New York late tonight. A crowd estimated at more than 5,000 was at the union station and cheered the team to the echo.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Walter Johnson, the "old master" buckled on his armor today in a final fight for the glory of world's series victory that he has sought for eighteen years. But fate, it seemed, and the mighty bats of his foe, turned him back.

Unleashing a furious, ruthless attack, the New York Giants battered the great veteran pitcher into defeat for the second straight time, captured the fifth game of the series from the Senators by a score of six to two, and left tonight for Washington with the 1924 world's series championship within their reach.

Attack Is Powerful.

The Giants, coming back today with the powerful type of attack that carried the Senators to triumph yesterday, now hold a formidable edge of three to two games. They need only one more victory to clinch the series and give their leader, John McGraw, his fourth baseball crown and a new major league record.

The forces of McGraw, who shares the present record of three world series victories with Connie Mack and his Athletics, are heavy favorites tonight to carry off the major honors in one of the games most spectacular battles, for today they spiked Washington's big gun and left the Senators with shattered resources for the rest of the fight.

Art Nehf, McGraw's brilliant southpaw, who was prevented from starting today's game by a thumb bruise suffered in his victory over Johnson in the opening game, is able to take the mound tomorrow, the Giants will have an excellent prospect of ending the series. If not, or if Nehf fails, the decision will go to the seventh game which will also be played in Washington.

It's Tragic Figure.

Through the smoke of today's conflict, Johnson stood out as a gallant but tragic figure, one of the most tragic baseball has ever known. Another outpouring of 50,000 fans, braving the chilliest day of the series, came chiefly in the hope of seeing Johnson hang up his first world's series victory. Their sympathies, which have been with the Senators throughout the New York games of the series, were evidently for Johnson. They cheered him to the echo in the early part of the game, but as it wore on and Johnson's defeat seemed inevitable, they became quieter, realizing that "Bib Barney" one of the game's greatest idols, was taking the bitterest setback of his career.

Johnson took punishment administered by Giants' bats grimly, but it was a sad spectacle to those who recalled his greatness over nearly a score of years and his valiant struggle to reach the door that refused to open to him when he knocked, yet, probably no one realized the tragedy of it all more than Johnson himself when after "Goose" Goslin's third home run of the series had revived Washington's hopes in the eighth inning, the Giants spelled the veteran for three more runs and removed the last uncertainty over the outcome.

Did Not Jerk Him.

Under this terrific bombardment, it seemed foolhardy for Manager "Bucky" Harris to keep Johnson in the game, the outcome of which meant so much to the Senators's championship hopes, but the young Washington pilot was apparently willing to accept defeat rather than clap the climax of the veteran's last stand by taking him from the box.

In Johnson's declaration after the game that he may retire from the game next season, for all time, may lie the real reason for leaving him to the last. If it was to be the veteran's final battle, he wanted to be on the firing line to the last, even in the face of crushing defeat.

Johnson's famous fast ball, which had forced the Giants to twelve hitherto contested innings before they won the opening game, held no terrors today. The national league champion pounded "Barney" for thirteen safe blows and bushed three of them in each of the third, fifth and eighth innings, when the did all their scoring.

Jack Bentley, southpaw star, opposed Johnson and held the Senators to one run until the eighth inning, when he left under an outbreak that was started by Goslin's homer, a blow that gave the slugging "Goose" a tie with Babe Ruth for the greatest number of clouts in a single series.

But before Bentley left the game his own bat gave the Giants a lead they held to the finish. He caught one of Johnson's curves in the fifth inning for a towering home run to the upper tier of the right field stands, scoring Hank Gowdy ahead of him. This proved the deciding punch of the game, although the Giants came back in the eighth with a three run rally that clinched their victory.

Came the Crucial Blow.

Bentley's was the crucial blow, but the most dramatic feature in the day's attack was Freddy Lindstrom, 17 year-old Chicago school boy who starred in the ninth when Johnson's first broke into the big leagues in 1907. Lindstrom, who was the youngest veteran Harris took at third base

City Willing to Build Disposal Plant When Able

Council Will Spend Money If Needed Regardless Of Legal Loopholes

MAKE INVESTIGATION

Officials Will Determine Exact Status of Sewer System Here Now

Even should it be able to escape through a legal loophole, Wichita Falls should build a sewage disposal plant, in the opinion of Mayor Collier and members of the city council.

This is the attitude taken following complaints made by Byers and other communities that raw sewage from this city, emptied into the Wichita river, was creating unsanitary and unpleasant conditions between here and the Red river. It is believed in some quarters that the city, should it so desire, can successfully block efforts to compel it to build a sewage plant. Provisions of a sanitary law passed a number of years ago, making special concessions in favor of Wichita Falls and Beaumont, would permit this, it is thought.

The officials, however, have no intention of riding on this and if it is found that conditions created by the city's sewage disposal are as harmful as painted, they will probably dig into the municipal treasury to the extent of $150,000 or so and put up the plant.

Resolutions obligating the city to thoroughly investigate the situation have already been passed by the council.

A total assessed valuation of $69,872,120, which is a decline of over $2,000,000 in the figures for last year, is shown for Wichita county for the year 1924. The totals were reached yesterday by County Tax Assessor Irvan Denton, who completed compilation of his rolls.

The total valuation of the county, with the supplemental rolls excluded, is $67,820,600, and the supplemental roll itself adds another $1,851,520. Without the supplemental roll, the 1923 total was $69,735,200 and the supplemental roll $2,229,610, making the grand total $71,974,090.

Poll tax payments in 1923 were 13,871, and in 1924 were 16,659.

In figuring the tax rate for the present year, the county commissioners proceeded on a basis of a $60,000,000 valuation.

JUVENILE CASE REVERSED.

Martin Rules Against County Court In Delinquency Suit.

A decision which reverses claims of the county courts that they have jurisdiction in juvenile delinquency cases was handed down Tuesday morning by Judge P. A. Martin of the 30th district court in granting a habeas corpus writ in behalf of a Wichita Falls boy now held in the Gatesville reformatory. The decision is interesting since it brings the juvenile question up again and puts it in a position where it will probably be carried to the appelate courts for final consideration.

The case involved was one in which a local boy was sent to the reformatory some time ago after a delinquency hearing before Judge R. D. Sartin. Counsel for the boy, in presenting their plea, held that the county court did not have jurisdiction in juvenile matters and in his decision Judge Martin concurs in this.

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY.

Two Negroes Alleged to Have Held Up Montague Man Arrested.

Moore of Montague as the men who last Sunday night held him up and robbed him of $110 in cash. The robbery took place on the edge of the city as Moore was walking along the Wichita Valley tracks.

The two negroes were arrested yesterday and Moore, after looking them over, stated they were the same men who had robbed him.

Both are now held in the county jail.

TO PROTECT GAME HERE

North Texas Association Plans Preserve In Archer County

The North Texas Game and Fish association will take an active part in procuring passage of legislation for the protection and propagation of game over the state of Texas as a result of plans formulated at a meeting of that body at the court house last night. At the suggestion of John W. Stayton, speaker of the evening and secretary of the Texas game and fish commission the legislative committee of the association was authorized to prepare bills to be presented to the state legislature at its coming session emphasizing especially the conservation of game and wildlife in northeast Texas.

William Coleman, owning a large ranch near Scotland, Archer county, and Staff Bolin, ranch owner of the Dundee district, last night offered the use of their ranches as a game preserve to be stocked and held inviolate for hunting.

Mr. Stayton made a short talk, telling of the activity of other states in the conservation of wildlife, and just what this community can and should do in the same line. Mr. Stayton is in Wichita Falls in the interest of Hollands magazine, that periodical paying his expenses in the interest of game conservation.

TREMAINE AFTER GOODMAN

Boston Ready to Make Final Bid for Championship

Carl Tremaine, the lad who has been knocking at the championship door in the bantamweight class for 3a, three many years, is ready to make his final bid for the crown now held by Abe Goldstein.

Tremaine's last march on the coveted crown was halted last year when he was knocked out by Sammy Goodman. And, to show his confidence in his ability to regain his lost prestige and force a fight at last with the champ, he has taken a match with the same Mr. Goodman to open his campaign.

Goodman and Tremaine meet in the first "winter" battle in the public hall at Cleveland, O., Oct. 10. Billy Fergus, promoter of the show, figured on Tremaine for the main bout and went to Carl in midsummer to ask him to name an opponent.

"Get Goodman," was Carl's request.

PROBE MINE DISASTER

Officials Seek Man Who Dynamited Gates

By The Associated Press.

M'ALESTER, Okla., Oct. 7.—A day of investigation following the dynamiting of the gates of mine No. 12 of the Rock Island Coal and Mining company, and the burning of two nearby bridges near Hartshorne Monday night, failed to bring officers any clue as to the identity of the persons responsible. No one was injured in the explosion and the fires were quickly extinguished. The mining community was quiet tonight.

Sheriff Will Anderson of Pittsburg county, attributed the explosion and fires to labor troubles which have been in progress for several months and has seen intermittent outbursts.

No. 12 mine paid the union scale of wages but mine owners recently announced their intention of opening other mines on an open shop basis.

"Indeed we do," smiled Dorothy Anne. "It's the nicest morning! I thought maybe you'd like to go for a bike down the road. It's really very pretty around here. I have another suit like this that you can wear."

"Of course I'd like to go," answered Betty, jumping out of bed. In a few minutes she had on a biking suit, too, and the girls started on a before breakfast walk down the lane.

Opportunities of South Now a Real Challenge-Dickey

Henrietta Attorney Says Texans Should Feel Proud of State

SPEAKS AT U. CLUB

We Live in Best Age Of Best Country World Ever Knew, He Says

"My message to you is that the opportunity that the south affords, the opportunity that Texas affords, and the opportunities that are right around us constitute a challenge to us to a higher degree of citizenship and to put more into our lives," Judge J. S. Dickey of Henrietta said in an address to the University club at the Kemp hotel Tuesday at the regular luncheon.

"It is left to us to tell people of our country, to know Texas, and it is our duty to sell Texas, and to believe that we are living in the best age of the best time in the best country the world has ever known," the speaker declared.

The speaker quoted statistics showing the progress the south has made in the past ten years, and gave comparisons along educational, social and industrial lines of the south to other sections of the United States.

A vote of thanks was accorded Judge Dickey for his inspirational address to the club.

Current events given by Judge R. D. Sartin, C. H. Verschoyle and Dr. J. W. Cantwell proved interesting to the members.

Miss Marguerite Fisher entertained with a humorous reading, "Angeline at the Seal Rock," a story based on the doings of mountaineers in Kentucky.

TRENTON, N. Rejected suggestions for changes in the committee's draft included those declaring the use of injunctions to suppress labor disputes as invasions of the right to trial by jury, and favoring biennial legislative sessions.

JOHNSON'S DEFEAT A TRAGEDY

England's Labor Regime Approaches Finish; King Is Asked For Dissolution

Crisis Comes When Conservative-Liberal Combination Vote in House Demands Probe of Action Dropping Prosecution of Communist Editor

WELCOME APPEAL

Yet Liberals Party Prospects Can Hardly be Improved, In View of Recent History, By Going to Kingdom Decision

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Great Britain's first labor government virtually came to an end at 11 o'clock tonight when by a combination of conservative and liberal votes the house of commons carried a motion demanding that a select committee of the house investigate the action of the attorney general, Sir Patrick Hastings, in withdrawing prosecution in the case of the communist James R. Campbell, acting editor of the workers weekly, charged with inciting His Majesty's forces to sedition.

The government declined to accept the motion and treated it as a vote of censure which if adopted by the house would involve an appeal to the country against parliament's verdict.

Debate a Sharp One.

The debate was sharp and exciting, and after it was closed the opposition wanted to drop Sir Robert S. Horne's motion of censure and vote on Sir John A. Simon's amendment calling for an investigation on the government's refusal to accept this course. This divided on the question as which it should vote on. By a vote of 359 to 198, it decided to vote on the Simon amendment. This was equivalent to defeat of the censure motion and the Simon amendment became the substantive motion, and was carried 364 to 198.

Announcement of the figures was received with loud cheers and counter cheers. The prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, immediately arose and said:

"In view of what has happened, Mr. Speaker, I move that the house do now adjourn."

Agreed Unanimously.

This was agreed to unanimously. The premier will see the king tomorrow and ask for dissolution of parliament. It is understood, however, that the government has decided to carry on until the Irish boundary bill is safe and the boundary commission appointed.

Throughout the final scenes the excitement rose to the highest pitch; jibes and retorts were flung across the house and some of the members indulged in singing. Up to the end there were rumors of maneuvers to avoid defeating the government, but as it appeared not improbable from the tone of some of the speeches, there was some disposition on the part of the opposition to reconsider its tactics, if it had seemingly committed itself too far to recede.

Will Welcome An Appeal

There is little doubt that the labor party and the government will welcome an appeal to the country, thus as they contend, thrust upon them and they are convinced that they will return to the house of commons a much stronger party, even though they may not command a majority in the house over all other parties. They believe they have a good cause to present to the electors in what they argue is the triviality of the question upon which they have been defeated and on their record, especially in the realm of foreign affairs and finance.

There is no reason to suppose that the king will oppose granting dissolution of parliament. The liberals, it was pointed out, can hardly expect, in view of all recent political history, that they will improve their party prospects by an appeal to the country and as far as the conservatives are concerned, their idea probably is that if even they should fail to attain an absolute majority in parliament, there may arise some opportunity to form a new coalition from conservatives and liberals to keep labor out.

Attack Horne's Speech

Sir Robert Horne's speech in moving the vote was an attack on Attorney General Hasting's conduct of the Campbell case. He accused him of lack of candor and asked whether he knew that Campbell was elected a member of the red internationale this year and was affiliated with the Moscow internationale.

The attorney general's speech in its own words, was strongly lament. He declared that he was not an apologist and would take exactly the same course again. He placed before the house a long statement of everything concerning the case from beginning to end and sought to show that precedents for his action had been set by his predecessors in office.

Mrs. Sone Tramps Over Battlefield With Coolies Doing First Aid

Special to The Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Oct. 8.—Not a great deal is known in Chillicothe about the fighting in China, but first hand information received here from Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Sone, Methodist missionaries, who are in the Chekiang province, stationed at Huchow makes it a little bit clearer.

The battle has been raging around Huchow for several weeks, the missionaries write, but the Texans have been in no immediate danger. They and other missionaries and foreigners have been offered protection by the Chinese government. If danger arises, they will be held in a portion of the city made impregnable by a high wall.

The inventors of gunpowder are finding its horrors in the war. Fighting has thinned the ranks near the city of Huchow, and the missionaries are helping to care for the wounded. Mr. Sone is in charge of relief expeditions and oversees the work of the coolies in bringing the wounded to the temporary hospitals provided for them.

Mrs. Sone has tramped over the battle fields with coolies doing first aid and administering to their needs before they can be taken to the hospitals. She stated in her letter that she would serve in one of the hospitals as nurse to the injured.

Mrs. Sone is remembered here as Miss Helen Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jackson.

"Every dollar brought in and expended by all three parties should be accounted for," said Senator Caraway. "You may say for me that bought elections will not be tolerated."

High Court Holds Jurors in Criminal Cases Must Answer Question.

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 8.—Prospective jurors in criminal cases may be questioned on membership in the ku klux klan, the court of criminal appeals held today in reversing a sentence against Guy Moore of Jefferson county.

Moore was charged with violation of the liquor laws. His attorneys attempted to ask a venireman specifically if he was a member of the klan. The trial judge held this was an improper question and asked the venireman if he belonged to any organization whose oath would interfere with the oath of a juryman.

The high court said this was error, holding that every defendant has a right to know whether a juryman belongs to the klan in order to challenge him intelligently.

ANTI-U. S. PROPAGANDA.

Japan Has a Report That U. S. Ships Brought Munitions to Pekin.

By The Associated Press

TOKIO, Oct. 8.—A spokesman of the Japanese foreign office today characterized as unconfirmed reports widely circulated in Tokio press circles that an American steamer landed large quantities of munitions at Tientsin, China, during the night, consigned to the Peking armies under control of the central government of China.

"An investigation has been started in this matter," the spokesman said.

The report is an outstanding example of the propaganda now being prepared in Japan to urge the government to intervene in the Chinese war on the side of General Chang Tso-Lin, who is attempting to obtain control of the government of China by force.

The basis of the propaganda is that America is supporting "Japan's enemy," General Wu Pei-Fu, military head of the central government of China.

Most of the propaganda has been traced to army quarters.

Most of the crew, many of whom are former navy men and super-stitious are not enthusiastic about starting on Friday and say that Saturday suits them much better.

SHOWERS NORTH OF HERE.

Few Points Report Light Rains Wednesday Night.

Scattered showers of a local character were reported last night from points north of here as being the outgrowth of ominous looking cloud banks that rolled over Wichita Falls in the early evening. A heavy rain fell in the vicinity of Electra and scattered showers fell around Vernon and Chillicothe. Amarillo reported clear and cold at midnight and intermediate points also indicated comparatively clear skies.

Reports from Oklahoma points indicated a storm area of more or less intensity in the northwest part of the state, but the effects of this would not be felt in Wichita Falls, it was indicated.

Liberty Vanished In Spain, Blasco Ibanez Charges

Author Will Write Book Condemning the Spanish Directorate

EVEN THE KING

Says His Country Like A "Great Lady Held in Durance—Gagged"

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Blasco Ibanez, declaring he considers it his duty to make known the truth about his country, is engaged in writing a book against the Spanish directorate. The novelist says he does not intend even to spare the king, of whom he remarks:

"I never consented to be introduced to him because I knew that one day I would have to fight him."

Disclaiming that he sought either fame or pecuniary profit, the writer added:

"Spain is like a great lady held in durance—securely gagged. Before the directorate one thing had always been respected; one might write what one might. But the times have changed. There is now a visage on all books, even text books of geography, history, mathematics and philosophy.

"It was the last existing liberty and it had to go. * * * * I intend to write pitilessly on Spanish militarism with facts, examples and anecdotes and the materials are not lacking.

HIS FAILURE THE KIND THAT GOES INTO THE HEART

50,000 Were With "Old Master" to Win and He Couldn't Do It

LOOKS LIKE GIANTS

Much as Thousands Don't Want Him to, Appears McGraw to be Crowned

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A rousing reception, much like that accorded victorious football teams by college students, was given the Washington baseball team upon its return from New York late tonight. A crowd estimated at more than 5,000 was at the union station and cheered the team to the echo.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Walter Johnson, the "old master" buckled on his armor today in a final fight for the glory of world's series victory that he has sought for eighteen years. But fate, it seemed, and the mighty bats of his foe, turned him back.

Unleashing a furious, ruthless attack, the New York Giants battered the great veteran pitcher into defeat for the second straight time, captured the fifth game of the series from the Senators by a score of six to two, and left tonight for Washington with the 1924 world's series championship within their reach.

Attack is Powerful.

The Giants, coming back today with the powerful type of attack that carried the Senators to triumph yesterday, now hold a formidable edge of three to two games. They need only one more victory to clinch the series and give their leader, John McGraw, his fourth baseball crown and a new major league record.

The forces of McGraw, who shares the present record of three world series victories with Connie Mack and his Athletics, are heavy favorites tonight to carry off the major honors in one of the games most spectacular battles, for today they spiked Washington's big gun and left the Senators with shattered resources for the rest of the fight.

Art Nehf, McGraw's brilliant southpaw, who was prevented from starting today's game by a thumb bruise suffered in his victory over Johnson in the opening game, is able to take the mound tomorrow, the Giants will have an excellent prospect of ending the series. If not, or if Nehf fails, the decision will go to the seventh game which will also be played in Washington.

It's Tragic Figure.

Through the smoke of today's conflict, Johnson stood out as a gallant but tragic figure, one of the most tragic baseball has ever known. Another outpouring of 50,000 fans, braving the chilliest day of the series, came chiefly in the hope of seeing Johnson bang up his first world's series victory. Their sympathies, which have been with the Senators throughout the New York games of the series, were evidently for Johnson. They cheered him to the echo in the early part of the game, but as it wore on and Johnson's defeat seemed inevitable, they became quieter, realizing that "Bib Barney" one of the game's greatest idols, was taking the bitterest setback of his career.

Johnson took punishment administered by Giants' bats grimly, but it was a sad spectacle to those who recalled his greatness over nearly a score of years and his valiant struggle to reach the door that refused to open to him when he knocked, yet probably no one realized the tragedy of it all more than Johnson himself when after "Goose" Goslin's third home run of the series had revived Washington's hopes in the eighth inning, the Giants spelled the veteran for three more runs and removed the last uncertainty over the outcome.

Did Not Jerk Him.

Under this terrific bombardment, it seemed foolhardy for Manager "Bucky" Harris to keep Johnson in the game, the outcome of which meant so much to the Senator's championship hopes, but the young Washington pilot was apparently willing to accept defeat rather than clap the climax of the veteran's last stand by taking him from the box.

In Johnson's declaration after the game that he may retire from the game next season, for all time, may lie the real reason for keeping him to the last. If it was to be the veteran's final battle, he wanted to be on the firing line to the last, even in the face of crushing defeat.

Johnson's famous fast ball, which had forced the Giants to twelve bitterly contested innings before they won the opening game, held no terrors today. The national league champions pounded "Barney" for thirteen safe blows and bucked three of them in each of the third, fifth and eighth innings, when the did all their scoring.

Jack Bentley, southpaw star, opposed Johnson and held the Senators to one run until the eighth inning, when he left under an outbreak that was started by Goslin's homer, a blow that gave the slugging "Goose" a tie with Babe Ruth for the greatest number of clouts in a single series.

But before Bentley left the game, his own bat gave the Giants a lead they held to the finish. He caught one of Johnson's curves in the fifth inning for a towering home run in the upper tier of the right field stands, scoring Hank Gowdy ahead of him. This proved the deciding punch of the game, although the Giants came back in the eighth with a three run rally that clinched their victory.

Came the Crucial Blow.

Bentley's was the crucial blow, but the most dynamic figure in the Giant attack was Freddy Lindstrom, 18-year-old Chicago school boy who was in the cradle when Johnson first broke into the big leagues in 1906. Lindstrom, who took the place of the veteran Heinie Groh at third base.

Greater Love Hath No Man, Is Proved By College Head

Obtains Divorce from Wife That She May Follow Heart's Dictation

AIDS OTHER MAN

Carefully Guards Publicity's Glare from "Perfect Passionate Love"

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—To enable his wife to marry another man, for whom she confessed a "perfect passionate love" and with whom she was said in evidence to have been living in Evanston, Ills., for more than a year, Dr. Alfred Lawrence Hall-Quest, director of the University of Pittsburgh extension work and noted lecturer, has obtained a divorce.

Every precaution was taken to guard the name of the man, the cultured love letters telling of her infatuation for him having been copied into the record with his name carefully deleted. In her letters the wife pleaded for freedom so that "social laws might sanction" her life with the other man, for whom she said she was ready "to give up everything else in the world."

Decree is Signed

Afterthe signing of the decree here by Judge Harry A. Lewis every effort was made to shield Dr. Hall-Quest from publicity and precautions were taken to prevent the proceedings becoming public.

Dr. Hall-Quest, 44 years old, was educated at Princeton and recently while a professor at Columbia University, took the degree of doctor of philosophy. He taught at the University of Illinois and University of Cincinnati and wrote a number of scientific works.

He married Miss Shirley Ivy Knox in Minnesota in 1908. In 1923 he said in evidence while he was at Columbia she left his home in Cincinnati and came to Chicago with the other man.

A few days after the elopement she wrote to Dr. Hall-Quest a letter which was introduced as evidence in which she said:

"I wanted to show you if possible that my going away with..... was necessary, not because it meant a consummation to the love that is between us, but because it offered as we saw it the only way for an upbuilding made necessary by years of tearing down processes.

Defends His Name

"That public scandal should be avoided for your sake I can quite realize, but....and I can and must take all of the blame that attaches to our decision to live together and therefore no secrecy was even contemplated when we left."

Attorneys for Dr. Hall-Quest, who left last night for Pittsburgh expected chagrin that the case had become public and declared the husband had done "a noble thing in giving up his wife.....who after all can not be blamed for following the dictates of her heart."

WORLD'S SERIES

when the latter was injured, smashed out four hits in five times at bat. He drove in two runs, sparkled in the field and established himself as one of the greatest sensations of the series.

Every Giant except "Hack" Wilson, shared in the barrage of hits that whistled past Johnson and had it not been for two double plays that checked the Giants in the midst of rallies, the margin of victory would have been much greater.

The first of these double killings came in the third inning after the Giants had tallied once and filled the bases with one out. Jackson scratched an infield hit to Miller and scored on singles by Bentley and Lindstrom, after Gowdy fanned. Miller's failure to touch third for a force out on Frisch's bounder to Bluege filled the bases but Ross Young lined to Rice and Bentley, due largely to poor base running, was doubled at the plate on a relay throw by Johnson.

Again in the fifth, after Bentley's homer had brought in Gowdy, the Giants were halted by fast fielding. With Lindstrom out, Frisch got a double on a Texas leaguer to right center and Young was hit on the knee by a pitched ball but Kelly hit into a double play via Bluege, Harris and Judge.

Meanwhile the Senators were making little headway against the southpaw shoots of Bentley although they threw away good chances to score in both the second and third innings before finally breaking through for a run in the fourth on Judge's single, a sacrifice by Bluege, infield out and Miller's single.

Goslin Gets His Sixth

Goslin registered his sixth straight hit when he beat an infield blow, was forced by Bluege, and Ruel walked, but Miller failed in the pinch. Three hits failed to produce results in the third. Johnson's hard single to left was lost when he overran first and was caught on the return to the infield. It was a particularly bad break because McNeely and Harris followed with hist only to be stranded by two of the club's heavy artillery, Rice and Goslin.

Encouraged by his home run blow, Bentley improved as the game wore on allowing only one hit in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings and retiring the side on strikes in the sixt, including Goslin. But the "Goose" had his revenge in the eighth when his home run, followed by Judge's single drove Bentley from the hill in favor of Hugh McQuillan, right hander, who held the Senators scoreless for the rest of the game.

Giants Fall on Johnson

But just when Goslin's homer put the Senators within striking distance of the lead, the Giants fell on Johnson in their half of the eighth for the final clinching attack. Singles by Kelly, McQuillan and Lindstrom, Jackson's sacrifice fly and a pass to Terry figured in their three runs.

The Senators, as in the previous two games here, sadly missed the veteran shortstop, Roger Peckinpaugh, who was forced out by a "charley horse." The substitute link in Washingtons' inner defense, Ralph Miller, at third in place of Oscar Bluege, who took Peckinpaugh's place at shrot, was largely responsible for the hole in which Johnson found himself in the third. Two scratch hits which the third sacker handled poorly, and his failure to touch third with a forced out in sight, were costly mistakes, although he partly atoned for them by knocking in the Senators' first run in the fourth.

Butte Alludes To Gooseneck Bill's Ferguson Leaning

Tells Jim He Can Have Him In Coming Election If He Wants Him

APPEALS TO WOMEN

Declares They are Looking Forward, Not Backward, In This Campaign

By S. RAYMOND BROOKS. Record-News Staff

Butte, republican candidate for governor Butte, republican nominee for governor tonight before an audience of over 2,500 in the city auditorium here, reviewed his campaign of the past 10 days during which he addressed more than 12,500 voters, and claimed he will carry every section he has visited.

Charles M. Boynton, vice chairman of the republican state executive committee, introduced Butte tonight. Delegations from every community in the county, and from Hill county were present. J. M. Nash, democrat, presided over the meeting.

A called meeting of the ku klux klan, said to be attended by 1,500 persons, was being held in another part of the city.

Boynton said James E. Ferguson sat as a proxy with a bare majority of the Ferguson democratic executive committee at Austin this week, "and expects to sit at Austin with a proxy to be governor."

General and Mrs. Felix H. Robertson, parents of the democratic candidate for governor were among the 200 democrats on the platform.

George C. Butte, republican candidate for governor of Texas didate for governor of Texas turned back briefly in his address to McClennan county voters at the Waco city auditorium Wednesday night, to his role of school teacher, reading from a Texas history text, by Barker, Potts & Ramadell, the record as condensed into history, of James E. Ferguson's impeachment and removal from office, and the later discovery that the $156,000 currency whose source Ferguson would not reveal, was from Texas brewers.

First in Central Texas

Butte, coming into central Texas for his first address here, after having spoken through north Texas from Sherman across to Amarillo and back to Fort Worth, cited the Ferguson Forum as authority for a statement that "Gooseneck Bill" McDonald, Ft. Worth negro politician, had bolted Butte's nomination, and would support Ferguson, and that 75,000 negroes would follow him.

"All I can say to that," Butte declared, "is, Jim, take him and go in peace. But for every vote that Gooseneck Bill brings to Ferguson, I will get 1000 votes from high minded Texans, who put the constitution first and who believe in honesty in government."

There is one class of voters, Dr Butte declared, which will repudiate Ferguson and this is, he declared, the women citizens of Texas "who look forward and not backward, and who are thinking of the boys and girls of the state."

Credits Jim 156,000

Ferguson has a personal following of 75,000, Butte declared, which will support him for anything and under any consideration.

"There are probably as many more" he continued, "binded by partisanship, or as I see it, misinterpreting the obligation extorted by the party primary pledge, who will vote for him; but as against those, are the women of Texas, and those high minded men who put Texas first and party second, who measure their democracy rather by the high standard of John W. Davis than by the standard of James E. Ferguson, who tore the primary pledge to tatters two years ago."

He quoted Charles W. Bryan's declaration that nine republican U. S. senators are now showing symptoms of refusing to support the nations ticket and asking "if they can bolt, why not other voters?"

"If James E. Ferguson could bolt the ticket two years ago," Butte said, "I ask you in the words of Bryan, why can't you bolt?"

HAMPTON CASE REVERSED

Fine on Negligent Homicide Charge Is Set Aside.

A verdict returned here several months ago against J. C. Hampton, convicted of negligent homicide and fined $1,000 in connection with the death of Onita White on the night of Oct. 31, 1921, was reversed and remanded in a decision handed down Wednesday by the court of criminal appeals at Austin. The fact that he had been tried once and given a sentence before the trial resulting in imposition of the fine led the court to reverse the case on grounds that he had once been placed in jeopardy.

The case arose after a car driven by Hampton on the Iowa Park road on the night of Oct. 31, 1921, had crashed into a truck carrying a party of Hallowe'en revelers. Miss White was killed in the accident which was alleged to have been caused by Hampton's negligence.

ROOT ROT HURTS TREES

Park Department Enlists Aid of A. & M. to Combat Disease.

A root infection which has gained a foothold in many trees and shrubs in city parks has given park department officials considerable trouble lately and the aid of the experts at Texas A. & M. college has now been invoked in an effort to check its spread.

The rotting away of the roots has killed a number of trees. Remedial measures taken here have, to a large extent, been successful. A large branch of roots infected have been sent to College Station and a report on a remedy is expected in the near future.

Gov. Bryan Opens Oklahoma Drive In El Reno Speech

Centers His Attack Upon Republican Vice-Presidential Nominee

MENTIONS TEAPOT

Declares G.O.P. Responsible For Agricultural Situation in the West

By The Associated Press.

EL RENO, Okla., Oct. 8.—Attacking those who would have it understood that there is "unrest" or "dangerous elements among the farmers of the west" Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, opened his Oklahoma campaign here today with a lesson based on conditions in his home city of Lincoln. Referring specifically to "the republican vice presidential nominee," the democratic candidate for vice president declared "he begins to talk about demagogues and reds but we don't have them in Nebraska."

"You know what has happened at Washington," Mr. Bryan said. "I don't have to outline in detail what has taken place there, but it has done more harm than all the farmers and wage earners in the United States would ever create."

Declaring the people "up there" meaning Lincoln and the state of Nebraska, "know what co-operation means," Governor Bryan said, "there was no danger in the west from unrest nor is there any indication of any action against anybody entitled to a square deal."

Says H. C. L. Reduced

A crowd sprinkled with railroad men gathered around the flag-draped rostrum at the Canadian county courthouse square from which Governor Bryan spoke out doors in a blazing sun.

Through the co-operation of the railroad brotherhood and the federation of labor, Governor Bryan said, "the state of Nebraska has reduced appreciably the cost of living." As to gasoline, he facetiously remarked: "The people of Nebraska are all for riding at the expense of Rockefeller."

Governor Bryan renewed his attack on the tariff and the proposal of Charles G. Dawes, his republican opponent, that reclamation be abandoned to balance production.

"That great national duet, the one that does all the singing, asks that the reclamation farmers stop farming," Governor Bryan said.

"It's all right," he continued "for you to clip coupons but when you clip production you clip agriculture and the farmer becomes the prey of the loan shark."

LaFollette To Press Charges Of G.O.P. Slush Fund

Declares Republican Money Is Buying Election In Some States

"FABRICATION" SLEMP

Coolidge's Secretary Enters An Emphatic Denial To Pink Charges

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, replied to Senator LaFollette's slush fund charges today with the assertion that "the whole story is bunk." He combined his answer with an appeal to republicans "to contribute and contribute liberally to our fund."

"I would like to inquire," Mr. Butler said, "as to what is the total of the money he (LaFollette) has so far received from the democratic leaders who are engaged in this conspiracy to throw the election into the house."

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. — C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, branded as "pure fabrication" today the statement by Senator LaFollette, independent presidential candidate, that he would have charge of a campaign "slush fund" for the republican party.

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 8.—Senator Robert M. LaFollette's charge that a slush fund was being raised in Pennsylvania "for use elsewhere" in the republican presidential campaign by a committee including W. T. Mellon, nephew of the secretary of the treasury, Andrew Mellon, was characterized as "ridiculously absurd" by W. T. Mellon today.

"No statement is necessary," said Mr. Mellon. "It's just a lie and does not call for any answer."

By The Associated Press.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Oct. 8.—Determined to press his demand for a senate investigation to establish whether a "slush fund" is being collected to "buy the election for President Coolidge in doubtful states" as he charged in his address last night at Scranton, Pa., Senator LaFollette intruded New Jersey today for a speech in Newark before swinging westward on a tour to the Pacific coast.

On reaching Hoboken he issued a statement reiterating the "slush fund" charges.

To Press Demand.

"I intend," he said, "to follow up vigorously my demand for an investigation of the special slush fund which is being collected under the direction of W. T. Mellon of Pittsburgh, brother of the treasury secretary, and Edward T. Stotesbury, the Philadelphia partner of J. Pierpont Morgan, for the alleged purpose of buying the election for Coolidge in doubtful states."

"It is evident that this is a repetition of the tactics used by Mark Hanna in the campaign of 1896, when the famous message was sent to Colonel Dudley of Indiana with its instruction 'vote them in blocks of five.' In that campaign a greater found than ever previously had been collected for political purposes was assembled by substantially the same methods that are now being used and when election day came voters were openly bargained for in the doubtful states.

Says More Prevented.

"Every since that time the progressives in congress have been striving to restrict campaign expenditures and to prevent the use of money for corrupt political purposes. They have introduced many bills designed to remedy these evils and purify American politics. In every instance the reactionary members of both parties have joined to prevent the enactment of any law that had teeth.

Senator LaFollette was awaiting a reply today to his telegram to Senato Borah of Idaho, chairman of the senate committee on campaign expenditures, in which he demanded an immediate investigation of the alleged slush fund and urged him to subpoena Chairman Butler of the republican national committee, W. T. Mellon, Mr. Stotesbury, Joseph Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association, and others who, he declared in his Scranton address, he had reason to believe had a hand in the effort to raise a slush fund of $5,000,000 or $4,000,000.

Gladly Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Louisville, Nebraska.—"I was married twelve years before my boy was born. I had a lot of female troubles and had been treated by a physician for them but they continued much the same. Then I read your advertisement in the newspapers and thought I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a good trial, for if it had helped others, why not me? I have taken 36 bottles of the medicine and am never without it in the house. My baby boy is three years old now and I sure am happy since I got relief from my troubles. When any one has troubles like mine, or any ways like mine, I am always glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound so that they will get the right kind of medicine." —Mrs. Jos Novak, Box 682, Louisville, Neb.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

MARRIAGE A PROBLEM

U. S. Railroad Labor Board Asked About Women Employes Wedding.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. — The United States railroad labor board has been asked to decide whether women employes of the railways should lose their jobs because they get married.

The question came up at a hearing yesterday in a case brought by the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes against the Kansas City Southern Railroad, J. H. Silvester, vice president of the Brotherhood, and William Davis, chairman of the system federation, appeared in behalf f the women employes and argued that men employes are not discharged when they marry and that to discharge women employes would be discrimination.

Representatives of the road insisted however, on the right to discharge women employes when they married if it saw fit, but said this action was not always taken. In some cases the road argued married women were not as valuable to the carrier as single ones because of two things—one the division of interest between the railroad and domestic duties and the other the possibility of motherhood and a long lay off.

He thanked the delegates for their cooperation with the administration in developing and controlling the radio which he said is "a fresh evidence that the genius for progress has not left the American people."

Describing radio as one of "our greatest blessings," properly safeguarded, Mr. Coolidge declared it should render possible a more complete understanding of national problems and "bring to the fireside large contributions towards entertainment and education."

Certify Ma's Case To Supreme Court With Questions

Move Will Expedite Decision Whether Women are Eligible to Office

Appeal for Rulings Loses Out of the Third Court Of Civil Appeals

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN, Oct. 8. — The Ferguson injunction case was certificed today to the state supreme court for decision by the third court of civil appeals. The civil appeals court sent the case up without hearing arguments.

This move will expedite a decision on the main question of whether women are legally eligible to hold office in Texas and on the other less important questions involved in the suit brought by Charles M. Dickson of San Antonio to prevent Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson's name from going on the ballot as the democratic nominee for governor.

The supreme court probably will receive the certified questions today or tomorrow and counsel for Mrs. Ferguson expects to ask at once that the hearing be advanced on the docket so arguments may be made at the earliest possible day.

The court of civil appeals will ask the supreme court to answer these questions:

Has a woman a legal right to hold office in Texas?

If a woman is not barred because of her sex, is she barred because she is married?

Would Mrs. Ferguson be barred because she is the wife of a man who has been disqualified by the legislature to be governor?

Hrs Mr. Dickson the right as a private citizen to maintain such a suit?

Several of Mrs. Ferguson's attorneys were present in court, but neither she or her husband appeared. Mr. Dickson represented himself as his counsel. Judge I. W. Stephens of Fort Worth had been notified last night that there would be no argument today.

Mr. Dickson submitted a statement of facts in the case which was admitted by agreement of parties. Judge Brady for Mrs. Ferguson asked the court whether the certified questions would be ready today as the supreme court, he said, had indicated it could receive them today or tomorrow. The court replied that the questions would be ready today or tomorrow.

TO FACILITATE APPEALS

Two Divisions of Tax Board to Make Trips Over the Country.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Developing the plan to hold hearings on disputed tax cases in localities where they arise, Chairman Hansel of the board of tax appeals announced today that two divisions of the board will leave within 10 days to hold sessions outside of Washington. One of the divisions will go west to the Pacific coast and the other will visit cities in the middle west, and south, each one covering a dozen or more points.

Although the itinerary has not been definitely decided nor the dates specifically named, one of the groups is expected to visit St. Louis, Kansas City, Dallas and Austin, Texas; New Orleans and Probably Birmingham and Atlanta. Other cities probably will be included in the tour of each group.

It is the hope that in thus sending out divisions of the board hundreds of tax payers will be spared the necessity of coming to Washington to present their cases. The suggestion for such a plan was made by Secretary Mellon and provision for it was made in the tax law under which the board was created.

BORAH STILL REPUBLICAN

He Wants Votes in Idaho to be Under no Misappreension.

By The Associated Press.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, Oct. 8.—Opening his campaign here last night Senator William E. Borah, republican, expressed thanks to the progressives of this state who nominated him for the same office, but declared that at the time of the nomination the progressives "understood perfectly that I was a member of the republican party and intend to remain a member."

Referring to the organization of a third party he said:

"I entertain no doubt as to where I can be of the most service if I am to remain in public life. I propose to fight for clean economic government and for progressive principles inside the republican party."

Senator Borah lauded President Coolidge as the only president who has had the courage to combat the growing tendency toward bureaucracy and extravagance. "President Coolidge because of this is the greatest man in the political history of the United States," he said.

PIMPLES CAUSE FOLKS TO SHRINK FROM ATTENTION

Whenever you go out, you can't help but pity the many folks you see trying to have a good time, but are so shrinking and backward about coming near others where pimply, blotchy and eczemic skin can be seen.

You almost feel like going up to them and telling them that they ought to begin using Black and White Ointment, and Soap, which so many thousands of happy people are depending on to keep their skin clear, smooth and good to look at.

Black and White Ointment, and Soap, are selling at the phenomenal rate of more than two million packages a year, and the fact that they are so economically priced is largely responsible for this record. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

THE INCENTIVE

The heathen Chinee, in an earlier age
Was a person of pacifist bibits;
He didn't give way to the transports of rage
And more than a covey of rabbits.
If the people around him suggested a fight,
He packed up his goods and his chattels,
For he felt in his heart that he'd better take flight
Than engage in undignified battles.

Though all of the world was sometimes by the ears,
And murder and rapine ran riot,
In China the people were free from all fears
For they lived in an absolute quiet.
No Bolshevik stirred 'em to fits of unrest,
And, though they had no constitution,
A fear of the law every rascal possessed
Which kept him from red revolution.

But as soon as the Chink had been taught how to drill
And to handle the gun and the sabre,
He put on the war paint and started to kill
And rob and despoil his next neighbor,
And just as the world has at last found surcease
From shooting and bombing and smiting,
And indulges the hope of indefinite peace,
The heathen Chinee starts to fighting.

We do not belong to the pacifist crowd,
No futile illusions uplift us,
We are perfectly sure we should not be too proud
To battle if anyone biffed us.
But one finds that people of various lands,
Though commonly tame as a turkey,
The minute they get any guns in their hands
Become most decidedly perky!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

LIBRA.

Today's planetary aspects are adverse until noon, but thereafter become benign and extremely favorable. During the forenoon all energetic action, especially along new lines, should be restrained and thought and deliberation should take the place of deeds, the morning should be devoted to thinking, the afternoon to doing. The signs, after midday, indicate success to any well thought out plan, provided it does not savor of speculation or hazard, especially along constructive lines. They favor optimism and encourage energy, and the utmost advantage can safely be taken of such stimulating conditions.

A child born today will enjoy quite normal health, and given ordinary conditions, will achieve a healthy maturity. Its character will be rather boisterous; its disposition jovial; its mentality mediocre. This child, without any very deep emotions, will, as time rolls by, become a hail fellow well met, whether it be a boy or girl; its joviality and merriment will attract others; the limited intelligence that it possesses will be overlooked, and its lack of sincerity of feeling ignored. This child should be given as much outdoor life as possible.

If today is your birthday, you possess exceptional mentality, and are very temperamental. If you are tied down to routine duties, either in the home, the workshop, or the office—you are a square peg in a round hole, and are destined, not only to become a comparative failure, but to acquire a disposition of dissatisfaction and general crouchiness.

You must have atmosphere, and you need some opportunity to reveal those gifts which you know you possess, but for which very few are willing to give you credit. You know that in the drudgery of everyday work of an ordinary nature you can never find that self-expression which is essential to achievement, and yet you are afraid to take the bull by the horns and seek the field of endeavor to which you know full well you would shine.

You must, if not too late, make up your mind as to whether you will travel in a rut, with no prize in sight, or, no matter what the difficulties may be how many hardships may be incurred, how many apparently insurmountable obstacles have to be overcome, risk everything you have and map out yourself that career for which you know you are best fitted.

A BUSINESS GIRL

INSTALLMENT 1.

CHAPTER I.

Barbara's Lover.

Barbara Linwood pulled down the roll top of her typewriting desk and rose to her feet. The action was symbolic.

It was the ritual which brought to an end her working day. The click of the lock was the signal which heralded those blessed hours which belonged to herself.

She gave a quick glance round the little cubby hole which represented the pride of the business girl—a room of her own. From a dispatch case she drew a number of papers, and put them in an envelope, which she sealed and addressed.

Then she took from a peg a navy blue coat and a plain, broad-brimmed hat. These she put on in front of a small mirror, with a critical glance which was not one of disapproval.

These formalities completed, Barbara Linwood left the offices of Messrs. Kersland & Co., contractors, Fifth avenue.

Having reached the street she glanced to the right and to the left and then, with a radiant smile, hurried forward.

"Have I kept you waiting long? I know I'm horribly late. I simply couldn't get finished in time. You are a dear not to scold me."

The man thus complimented showed no desire to scold. A cynical observer might have scoffed at his air of proprietorship, but such an observer would not have understood the look of ardent eagerness in Alan Kennedy's very honest blue eyes.

"I've only got to register this package," she went on, "and then I can forget the office. What shall we do this evening?"

"I suggest an early dinner, and then a theatre. What would you like to see?" replied the man.

"Can you afford it?"

"Rather. I found out today that my bank balance is actually $10 more than I thought it was. We simply must get rid of that money."

"Don't forget we go shares."

"Not this time, please. The possession of so much money is too severe a responsibility for me. I must get rid of it."

"We shall never save enough to get married if you go on like this" laughed the girl.

"Oh, yes we shall. And before so very long, too! What sort of a day have you had?"

"Pretty busy. I had to type the estimate for the Great South Branch line. It filled simply acres of sheets. I do so hope our firm gets the contract. They tell me it'll put us on our feet if we do. Things are rather shaky as it is."

"That's a pretty common complaint," said the man, grimly. "Some of the Great South business would do me a lot of good as well."

"I hinted as much to Mr. Rutland, you know," Barbara reminded him.

"Rutland wouldn't do me a good turn to save his life, and you know why, Babs. He'll never forgive me for bagging you, old girl. I wish to blazes he wasn't your chief."

"Oh, he's all right in the office, Alan. And he's an awfully clever business man. He's worked out this estimate all by himself."

"That's nothing!" cried Alan Kennedy, loftily.

"Oh, yes, it is. It comes to a tremendous lot of money."

"I daresay."

"Six hundred and twenty-eight thousand four hundred and sixty-five dollars."

"Some contract," smiled Kennedy. They had arrived at the postoffice. Barbara Linwood hurried inside. She returned with the receipt for the package in her purse.

"Now, my darling," she cried, "I shall simply love to do anything you suggest!" She pressed his arm.

"I wonder how other girls get along without you!" she whispered.

The dinner was a merry one; the piece at the theatre, viewed from the dress circle, was bright and amusing—there was now a big hole in Alan Kennedy's ten dollars—and a taximb bore them to Barbara's tiny flat in Harlem.

"I want to make money quick," said the man suddenly, "a lot of money, Barbara. And then, when I drive you home, I shan't have to go away and leave you, for your home will be mine, too. Sometimes I think I shall never make any headway."

"Of course you will. Everybody who knows you says it is only a matter of time."

"A matter of time! That's the tragedy of it. Every day that keeps me from you is a day wasted. Besides, I hate to think of you cooped up in a beastly office, and—"

"Oh, Alan, it isn't a beastly office, and you know I love the work. Things might be ever so much worse."

"They might be a dashed lot better. If I could only lay my hands on even a hundred or two at the moment—"

"Yes?"

"Well, I could double it. There are opportunities going just now that may never occur again. Take the Great South Railroad, for example. Now, if I'd a little capital—"

"Have patience, dear old boy."

"It's easy to talk," grumbled the man.

"Is it any easier for you than for me?" asked Barbara quietly.

He was immediately contrite.

"I'm a selfish beast, sweetheart," he cried. "I'm always thinking of myself. Of course, it's as bad for you. Not quite, though. There's heaps of fellows far, far better than I about, but there's only one you in the world. Barbara," he turned to her quickly, "I couldn't bear to lose you, Barbara."

She drew him toward her.

"And I do not think I could live without you, Alan," she whispered. Her eyes were shining. Her lips trembled in their smile.

"So, we're quits!" she said, softly. "We've got to keep on waiting, for we can't do without each other. Isn't that very wonderful? I needed you, and you needed me, and so we met."

"And so we met," he repeated, half to himself. "It is the most wonderful thing in all the world. It is love."

There was nothing in the footnight that ensued that gave any indication of the crisis with which it was to terminate.

It was a fortnight duller if anything that the others, for Alan Kennedy had to go to Cleveland on business, and so the evenings which Barbara had hoped to spend with him were spent instead in her own company.

It was on a Friday morning that Barbara got Alan Kennedy's letter, telling her the wonderful news of his legacy. An aunt of whom Barbara had never heard him speak had died, and his share of the fortune was $2500.

"This means a tremendous lot to me," he wrote. "I do believe, Barbara, that it'll mean that we can get married before the year is out."

CHAPTER II

Underhand Work

It was indeed great news. Barbara could only think of Alan's delight at being able to put his plans into operation, and to long for their success.

She went to the office with a light heart and high spirits, and on the very threshold she realized that a crisis had occurred.

Mr. Kersland rushed past her with a face pale with anxiety. He was followed by Mr. Rutland, his manager, who also betrayed extreme excitement. A door crashed upon them. Barbara passed through the general office on her way to her room.

Barbara was at work when Mr. Rutland's bell rang, and she obeyed the summons, carrying her notebook with her. She had assumed that air of general detachment from mundane affairs which is the safest defence against a chief who is at war with the world.

Do Men of Today Kiss and Tell?—Do They Boast of Their Conquests?—Shall She Be a Movie Actress Against Her Parents' Wishes. The Man Who Loves His Wife's Sister.

DEAR MISS DIX:

Do you think a man will kiss and tell? Do you think that a man will show a love letter that a girl writes him?

I say that unless a man is an utter cad he will not boast of the favors that a girl shows him. My friend says that all men brag about their love affairs. Which of us is right? HORTENSE.

Answer:

I am afraid that I have to side with your friend, Hortense. Of course, if a man is a perfect Sir Galahad he will keep silent concerning his conquest among the fair sex, and wild horses couldn't drag from him any of the details of amorous episodes in which some poor, foolish, little girl, who was perfectly crazy about him, figured. Also, he would carefully file away the love letters that girls wrote him, in his safety deposit box.

But, alas, perfect Sir Galahads are rare among the jellybean youth of the day, and the average young man loves to pose as a devil among the women and tell how he gets them going. Therefore, he not only kisses and tells, but he broadcasts the glad news to all who will listen.

Nor do I think the girl has any right to resent this or consider it dishonorable in the boy. Why should she expect the man to be more careful of her reputation than she is of it herself? Why should she expect a man to cover up her indiscretions? I never have any patience with people who rage so against gossip. It is only those who do something wrong who object to being talked about. As long as people discourse about our virtues they cannot say enough to please us. It is only when they begin discussing our faults that we brand them as malignant gossips.

Anyway, we are foolish to suppose that the world is going to enter into a conspiracy of silence to guard our good names. We have to do that for ourselves, and so if you don't want boys to kiss and tell don't kiss.

As for writing a man a love letter, write only such words and use only such terms of endearment as you would be willing for his friends, his mother and sisters, his landlady and the chambermaids in hotels to read. Not every man shows his love letters as Exhibit A to prove what a fascinator he is, but all men are careless. They leave their letters in bureau drawers, on writing tables, in the pockets of coats, for any prying eye to peruse, and this is a fact that girls will do well to remember when they are tempted to slosh over sixteen pages with sentimental gush under the delusion that it will be sacred to some man and that nobody but he will ever know of their indiscretion. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX:

I am thinking of going into the movies. Dancing seems to be my talent. Does it require a college education? My parents are opposed to my becoming a movie actress. Should I go against their wishes? I feel that I cannot make a success of anything else. N. G.

Answer:

My poor, deluded child, there are about seven million other young girls in your frame of mind. They also want to go into the movies. All those who can rake and scrape the price of a ticket to Hollywood go there and about a week later most of them are hunting jobs as dishwashers or chambermaids in hotels.

So many girls want to be Mary Pickfords that the city of Los Angeles has broadcasted warnings telling them how little hope there is of their ever getting even inside the lots where they make picture, still less of their ever being able to get a tryout, and of how infinitesimal the chance that they would succeed in the most hazardous of professions.

It takes the peculiar kind of beauty that screens well, it takes a vivid personality, and it takes the biggest sort of luck to make a moving picture actress. And over and above all these, it takes pluck and courage, and the ability to take punishment and stand discipline, and to do such hard work as you never dreamed of.

Your next choice of a profession is to be a dancer. No, it doesn't take a college education to make a dancer, but it takes a physical education that must begin almost in one's cradle, when the bones are soft and the muscles pliable. And this also takes ceaseless work, and great courage and determination. And after all of your labor, unless you are one of the very best, it is an ill-paid and precarious way of making a living.

So, little girl, if I were you I would cut out these more or less romantic occupations and choose something that was practical and for which there was a large every-day demand. What about taking a good course at a commercial school and getting to be a cracker-jack stenographer? How about studying domestic science, or dressmaking, or millinery? People will always have to eat and wear clothes, and will be ready to pay out good money to those who feed them well or make them snappy hats and dresses. Besides, when you get married it will be a mighty comfortable thing to know how to keep house and make yourself clothes that your worst enemy thinks come from Paris.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX:

I am a man in my thirties, have been married about 15 years and have two children. My wife is older than I am, and I had not been married to her for two years before I realized that her younger sister was the one woman God put on this earth for me. I do not know if this girl loves me, but she still remains single, perhaps because she feels toward me as I do toward her. I have lived absolutely true to my marriage vows, with the exception of the love that I have for my wife's sister. Neither of these women know my true feelings. What should I do? Should a man's vows be more sacred than his love? As I grow older the burden is harder to carry and the will power that it has taken to guard my secret for 12 long years grows weaker.

HEAVY-HEARTED.

Answer:

It is a horrible situation in which you find yourself, but it seems to me that your duty is clear. You should conquer your guilty love for your wife's sister and be true to our wife and your children. DOROTHY DIX.

Gleanings From the Book of Life

BY CLARK KINNAIRD

GENIUS AND COMMON MINDS

A young woman in Massachusetts has been declared a genius. In other words, she has the highest order of mind man has attained.

What is the difference between the mind of a genius and the mind of John Doe?

It is one of the tritest of truisms that human intelligences of a simple order are very literal. They are slaves of habit, doing what they have been taught without variation; dry, prosaic, and matter-of-facts in their remarks, devoid of humor, except of the coarse physical kind which rejoices in a practical joke; taking the world for granted.

But turn to the highest order of minds, and what a change! Then, as William James puts it, instead of thoughts of concrete things patiently following one another in a beaten track of habitual suggestion, we have the most abrupt cross-cuts and transactions from one idea to another, the most unheard-of combinations of elements, the subtlest associations of analogy.

"According to the idiosyncrasy of the individual, the scintillations will have one character or another," to use James' words. "They will be sallies of wit and humor; they will be flashes of poetry and eloquence; they will be constructions of dramatic fiction or mechanical device, logical or philosophic abstractions, business projects, or scientific hypothesi, with trains of experimental consequences based thereon; they will be musical sounds, or images of plastic beauty or picturesqueness, or visions of moral harmonies and unheard-of combinations of these.

"But, whatever their differences may be, they will all agree in this—that their genesis is sudden and, as it were, spontaneous."

To Professor Jevons is due the greatest credit of having emphatically pointed out (in his Principles of Science) how the genius of discovery depends altogether on the number of these random notions and guesses which visit the investigator's mind.

The true genius' mind does not run in the same channel. Leonardo di Vinci is known best as a painter, but his notebooks show him to have possessed greatness as an engineer, as an inventor, as a philosopher, in all the arts. He is but one instance.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

Grit

In the smoking car of a Canadian railway, I fell into conversation with a man about 30, who had just made a trip to Montreal to apply for a position in the national forestry department.

"It didn't get the job," he told me, "but I got a promise. I've got to go back and take care of my wife and child now, and save up my money to go up there next winter. It was only a promise, but I'm going to keep reminding them of it till I land the job."

I am just as certain that this man will not only get the job but will succeed in it as I am sure of anything in this world.

I found in talking to him that he was born in Maine, of French Canadian parents who didn't speak the English language; that he got a good education in the public schools, and enlisted in the Canadian army the day war was declared.

He was gassed in action, and came home with a bad throat. But he got a job shovelling coal in an American city, and felt prosperous enough to marry the girl to whom he had been engaged since boyhood.

Presently he discovered that there was no future in coal shovelling, so he shovelled coal by night instead of by day, and earned money that way, not only to support his wife but to send him through the school of forestry in the American town where his job was.

The course was four years, and it was hard to study after four or five hours of work, but it never occurred to him to quit.

On his graduation he got a place in a state forestry department, but finding that promotion there was based on political favor he quit and went on his mission to Montreal.

To the average boy whose parents take care of him till he is twenty-four or so, the struggles which this man has gone through would seem incredible.

But they impress him as merely being part of the game.

"I wasn't one of those people who were born lucky I guess," he said "but I have had a lot of fun in life, and I am going to have more before I get through.

"I picked the forestry business because it was out in the open, and with my inheritance, a part of which is from the Indians, I love outdoors.

"All I want to start is eighteen hundred dollars a year. After that I will raise my own pay."

Often we see people in high places, who have come from poverty, and wonder how they got so far.

Here was one of them in the making.

With that amount of grit which is merely industry combined with determination and cheerfulness, that young traveller on the Montreal train is bound one day to become a great success.

HOW IT STARTED

CALLING HIM A "BACHELOR"

There is history in this word whose meaning in common speech today is confined to an unmarried man. Its derivation hints not of matrimony, all reference on the root from its origin being to the land.

Directly the modern word "bachelor" comes to us from the old French "bachelier," a young man, and previously a young knight or novice bearing another's standard. Its origin, however, is from the Latin "bacculus," which meant the holder of a small farm. This was derived probably from the Low Latin "bacca" for cow, implying grazing land.

The term was applied in early times to tenants of certain church lands, then to monks who had not yet taken full vows, and thence to young men in the probationary stages of knighthood. From the latter, we are told, came the extension of its meaning to unmarried men who were regarded as candidates or probationers for matrimony. Hence our word which is used exclusively in the last sense and conceals the interesting steps of its evolution.

FAVORABLE FOR COTTON

Crop and Weather Summary Recounts Cessation of Rain and Sunshine

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—Crop and weather conditions during the week ending yesterday summarized today by the department of agriculture show the week was favorable for cotton. The cessation of rain with abundant sunshine following the heavy and damaging rains of last week was very favorable in the eastern portion of the belt where the general outlook was improved. There was little rainfall in any of the cotton districts and picking and ginning made good progress in all sections.

There was little change in the condition and progress of cotton in Texas where the early crop is mostly picked and the late continued to make fair and to very good advance and is maturing normally. Bolls opened rapidly in most sections of Oklahoma with practically no insect damage.

They were opening very slowly in northern Arkansas, but picking has been completed in many localities of the south and is progressing rapidly in the central portion. Some bolls are still opening in northern Louisiana, but harvest has been about completed in the south and is also nearing completion in the southern third of Mississippi and in southern Alabama.

Ross was sentenced to 20 years and Good to 25 years imprisonment.

The sentence of 99 years given Mathew Thomas of Bastrop on a charge of statutory assault was reversed because of improper remarks to the jury.

HUGE RAIL EARNINGS

Profits Alleged to Have Been 10 Billions in Last 12 Years.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. — Railroad profits totalled 10 billions of dollars in the last 12 years and are now running at approximately a billion a year, E. H. Fitzgerald, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers and other station employes, declared in opening the wage hearing involving the brotherhood's request for a restoration of the 1920 wage rates before the United States railroad labor board today.

Fitzgerald cited the increasing prosperity of the industry as grounds for reconsideration of the present wage rates by the board. The rates established by the board in 1920 were cut by it during the depression extending through 1921 and 1922, when he said the board stated it would be able to "give increased consideration to the scientific adjustment of a living and saving wage" when the condition of the carriers was improved.

The union president argued that in view of the fine condition of the railroads today the board should make good the implied promise to reconsider the justice of wages set in previous decisions.

Legion Stages First Fight Tonight In New Arena

34 Rounds Glove Battles Scheduled As Entertainment

Frankie Fink Meets Jackie Sanders in 12-Round Main Go

LEVINE BOXES RIVERS

Jack Atkins Scraps Jimmy Carrol in 8-Round Session

Tex Rickard has his Madison Square Garden, New Jersey has its Boyle's Thirty Acres, and Don Wofford his amphitheater.

The weekly Legion fisticuff program will be shifted tonight to the new arena, known and labeled as the American Legion amp'itheater, 1505 Lamar. And as time wears along, and changes are made little by little, Don's indoor boxing quarters possibly will stack up as one of the best in the southwest. There is ample space with which to take care of all Wichita Falls fight fandom and seats are so arranged that all will have unhindered vision of the bouts in progress.

Cleverness vs. Ruggedness

The amphitheater will be broken in this evening with 34 rounds of glove by-play, Jackie Sanders of Charleston, S. C., versus Frankie Fink of Dallas, bantamweights, in the 12-round main event. Ruggedness, good condition, and a fighting heart (that's Jackie Sanders) will be pitted against speed, cleverness, and a powerful punch (that's Frankie Fink.)

Two speed merchants will appear in the semi-windup, Tabby Levine of Wichita Falls and Johnny Rivers of Fort Worth. Tabby is rated the better boy by virtue of past victories over Rivers, but if the bouts already staged by this pair bespeak much for tonight this 10-rounder will be full of thrills.

Sluggers true, science to the sidelines! That's Jack Atkins, Childress light heavyweight, and Jimmy Carrol of Fort Worth in their scheduled eight-round affair.

Snyder and Popcorn Kid

The curtain raiser will bring back Kid Snyder of Burkburnet in a four-rounder with Popcorn Kid of Oklahoma City. Popcorn is a question mark in Wichita Falls circles, but he declares that he has the stuff, and will give Snyder more than he can carry in the way of leather-covered fists.

Up to last night no arrangement had been made for a referee. Legion ring officials have gone on a strike because of embarrassment caused them by an unsportsmanlike minority who attend the bouts.

LITTLE SERIES IN ST. PAUL

Orioles, Leading 3 to 1, Invade Saints' Diamond For Fifth Tilt.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 8.—With the game count 3 to 1 in their favor, the Baltimore Orioles invade St. Paul's own stamping grounds tomorrow for the fifth game of the junior world series, which will determine the minor league baseball champions.

With the veteran Danny Boone missing from his usual post at shortstop, the Saints, American association champions, will go into the game somewhat crippled although Mark Koenig has shown himself a fairly capable substitute.

In an endeavor to stem the Oriole onslaught, Manager Nick Allen probably will send Paul Fittery, southpaw to the mound tomorrow while Manager Jack Dunn is expected to start his strikeout King, Lefty Groves.

Five victories are needed to win the junior world series title.

Coombs to Coach at Princeton.

Jack Coombs, who once basked in the limelight of world's series fame will change his baseball stamping grounds next spring. For several seasons the former Athletic pitching star has coached the Williams college nine. Now he has signed to act as coach of the Princeton pitchers next spring.

O'Connell, Briber, Washes Dishes

While his recent Giant teammates are battling the Washington team in the world's series, Jimmy O'Connell, confessed briber, is at his New York flat with his wife, helping her do the housework. "I can't go home. I can't go home,' he says, meaning San Francisco, where fans presented him with a house as a testimonial of his prowess on the diamond.

Veteran Johnson To Retire From Diamond Game?

Smoke King Declares Doubt As to Return Next Season

HARRIS PHILOSOPHICAL

Peckinpaugh Expects to Be In This Afternoon's Contest

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. — Walter Johnson said today after he was beaten for the second time during the world series by the Giants that it was doubtful if he would play ball next year.

The big pitcher who waited 18 years to get into baseball's classic would not elaborate on his statement but did deny a report that he had bought stock in the Oakland club, of the Pacific Coast league.

"I could not hold them," he said, referring to the game which he evidently considered to be his last appearance in a world series if not in big league baseball.

Manager Harris was philosophical. "They made breaks and they beat us," he said. "Life is that way. But we'll catch them tomorrow, Zachary will pitch."

Roger Peckinpaugh, veteran shortstop and captain of the Senators whose absence because of a charley horse has been severely felt during the last three games, was determined to play tomorrow.

"I'll get in that game if I break the leg" he said.

Manager McGraw was in happy spirits as his team made ready to catch the special train engaged to take the players of both teams to Washington shortly before six o'clock.

"I think Nehf will be ready to use tomorrow. His hand was in fair shape today and 24 hours should make a lot of difference. If Nehf cannot work Barnes will get another chance."

BALL IN LONG GRASS

When a ball is in long, thick grass how should it be played?

Answered by
BILL STRACHAN
Wichita Falls Golf Club Professional.

In playing a ball in long grass try to miss as much grass as possible on the down-swing. Then use very little follow through—just work to hit the ball and no further. Also, lift the club straighter than you would otherwise. The best club to use in the long grass is the mashie.

BLONDY

The veteran Walter Johnson, rated by many as the greatest moundsman of all time, probably is one of the saddest, most forlorn, and heart broken athletes over the nation today. The smoke king after waiting 18 years for a chance in a world series has entered the annual classic and failed. Twice have John McGraw's burly Giants turned back the popular Washington hurler, Johnson's showing is one of the most sorrowful events in athletic annals. But after all, the dope was not kicked over, many prophets declare. For in history of the game few pitching celebrities have managed to come through victoriously in a world series. This recalls a recent article written by Ray Schalk. Schalk was right, He prophesied that Johnson would be defeated.

Few football followers in this section seem to believe that Wichita Falls high school stands much chance to win the Vernon game at Spudder park Oct. 18. Most of this belief is based on the showing Vernon made against Altus recently as compared to the 0-0 game Wichita Falls struggled through with the Oklahoma eleven. Vernon drubbed Altus, 27 to 0 But comparative scores mean little.

If grid fans still desire to base their predictions on the Coyotes' strength by comparing game tabulations dopesters will be given a chance to prophesy something by watching the Vernon-Junior college game tomorrow in Vernon. Playing on a foreign field, if the Indians, crippled as they are, manage to hold Vernon to but a touchdown or two, Coyote fans may rest as far as comparative scores are concerned that the Coyotes will not be the underdogs in the conflict with Vernon next week. In scrimmages between McCallum's youths and Mosley's Junior collegians neither club has been able to do much to the other.

At present there is one feature which favors the Coyotes over Vernon. Wichita Falls has been ribbed up that it is going to get beat. Vernon, on the other hand, is developing overconfidence. It's the team which is doped to lose that usually puts up the best game, where the clubs are fairly evenly matched, with an eleven that is nearly sure of winning. Confidence in baseball is good, but much of it in football very often is a forerunner of disaster.

I never was much of a hand at picking a winner, but just for the sport of it will choose Fink to outpoint Sanders in the legion final bout tonight, which probably means that Fink now is sure to lose. I've had the privilege of putting on the gloves with both boys in friendly workouts. Fink is the cleverer of the two, and hits cleaner. Sanders is tough, and the type of scrapper who keeps tearing in and swinging away regardless of how much punishment he may be receiving. But if Fink is in the shape he should be, Jackie will have trouble laying a glove on him. But anyway the outcome of the bout may go, the pair should put up a pleasing entertainment. Fink punches straight; Sanders hooks his blows. The straight puncher usually wins.

When Jack Atkins, Childress light heavyweight, squares off tonight with Jimmy Carrol of Fort Worth he will have the backing of the entire Childress sporting population.

Childress fight fans believe this mauler is a coming top-notcher, and declare the slugging Cowtown scrapper is in for a good beating.

Carrol has laid off a span of several weeks, fighting but once, and in this bout put up one of the best battles of his more or less hectic career. It would not be surprising if Jimmy fools the followers of Atkins by giving the Childress boy a neat lacing. They are billed for an eight-rounder.

Rockne Refuses Highest Salary Offered Coach

Knute Turns 15 Offers Down And Continues With Notre Dame

"YALE BEATS BROWN"

Leonard Can Lick Firpo, Avers Manager Gibson

By ROBERT EUGREN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Knute Rockne, football coach at Notre Dame, is an original character. Rockne has been bothered for two or three years by receiving big money offers from other colleges. His football teams are extraordinarily successful.

Not long ago Rockne was offered the highest salary paid an American college football coach. He refused. The offer was raised. He refused again.

"I don't want to leave Notre Dame anyway," he explained, "and in any case that is too much money to be paid any football coach. I know of very good professors who are getting less than a quarter of that amount. It is out of all proportion to the services involved."

Last year Rockne had offers from 15 other colleges.

To avoid any other discussion, Rockne signed a new contract with Notre Dame.

K. O. Challenges Yale.

Nate Lewis of Chicago has managed some interesting fighters, and has picked up a lot of interesting stories about them.

"There was that time I took Knockout Brown, the Greek, up to Hamilton, Canada, to fight Jack Dillon," reminisced Nate a few days ago when we met at the Morrison in Chicago. "I won't claim too much for Brown, but he was a good game fighter and not afraid of anyone, and he was given the decision in many newspapers. We got home to Chicago and I suggested that we have breakfast and then go around to the newspaper offices. 'We go to the offices first,' said Brown. 'We can eat afterward.' So we went around to a newspaper office and sat down with the sporting editor and Brown told me to tell the editor about the fight. I was talking when all of a sudden there was a howl from Brown, and I looked around to see him tearing a newspaper up in his hands and throwing the pieces on the floor, while he jumped on them. At first glance I thought Brown had gone crazy. We all jumped up and asked him what was the matter.

"'Matter!' yelled Brown. 'Looka the paper. Looka the big headline clear across the top. Looka what they say. Yale Beats Brown. What do you think about that? I haven't fought any guy named Yale. I lick Dillon, and then the paper say I fight Yale and get licked. Who is this guy Brown who's using my name? Who is this guy Yale what says he beat me? You get this Yale for me quick. I knock him for a loop.'

"This was the day of the Yale-Brown football game," explained Nate.

Moha Walloped.

"A good big man can always lick a good little man," said Billy Gibson.

"Sure," said Florry Barnett, "but what a champion a good little man looks like when he licks a big man that isn't quite so good. Remember the night Bob Moha fought Cox, who was supposed to have licked Willard out west. Moha was five feet two and Cox just a foot taller. Moha had to jump up to reach Cox on the chin. In the first round Cox didn't do anything but laugh when he looked at Moha, and from that time on he didn't do anything but fall over his feet and sit down when Moha walloped him."

TITLE GOLF UNCERTAIN

Nothing could illustrate the uncertainties of championship golf better than the failure of three of the best players in the world, Tolley, Sweetser and Dr. Willing, right at the beginnin gof the National amateur. Sweetser made a 260-yard drive down the middle of the fairway, and sunk it in a muddy spot three strokes to get out. Can't beat that.

FEAR FOR JAKE DAUBERT

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 8.—Friends of Jacob E. Daubert, first baseman and captain of the Cincinnati Reds, were alarmed last night when word came from the hospital that he failed to rally as was expected from a recent operation for appendicitis, and that his condition was serious.

Dreyfuss and Ban Johnson At It

The world's series has shelved the "baseball scandal," but President Ban Johnson of the American league and Barney Dreyfus of the Pirates are still setting off fireworks with charges against the Giants. Above, John F. Heydler (left), president of the National league, is seen with Dreyfuss (center) and Johnson, and below is shown Clark Griffith (left), president of the Washington team, listening to the views of the baseball czar, K. M. Landis, on the situation.

Aggies May Find Sewanee Eleven Hard Proposition

The Texas Aggies although crippled greatly by the absence of Captain Silent Miller, halfback who broke his leg for the second time in two years last Saturday, are doped to defeat Sewanee at Dallas this week-end in one of the three intersectional tilts the southwest conference has carded this season. The game will be played at Dallas.

Regardless of pre-game prognostications the engagement is expected to be a hotly contested affair with Dana Bible's Farmers finding the Mountaineers no very easy club.

Herewith are the names, ages, weights, and heights of players on both squads:

Junior College Gridmen Invade Vernon Friday

Injuries Hinder Indians In Preparation For Contest

WEST'S NOSE BROKEN

Mosley's Warriors Doped To Lose by Fairly Close Count

Wichita Falls Junior college gridsters will hook up with Vernon high school Friday in Vernon, at 3:30. The strong Vernon team is expected to give the collegians a tough battle of it, and pre-game dope possibly augers the Vernonites an edge.

Mosley's athletes have practiced hard this week in preparation for the contest, but injuries received in the game with Southwestern Teachers college last week-end has hindered the squad to a great extent. Little scrimmage has been indulged in, and no practice with McCallum's Coyotes has been held.

Captain Steve West will be out of the game. This backfield star was the greater portion of the Juniors' machine, and his absence spells gloom. West's nose is broken, injury received in the teacher tilt. Tyson, also, is out because of a damaged side. Several of the moleskinners are nursing minor hurts.

With West in the lineup the Junior college ranks about even-stephen with the Coyotes, but with him out the high school is believed to be a better eleven. For this reason the outcome of the Vernon game will give Coyote followers a little idea of the comparative strength of Vernon and Wichita Falls high. Should the Junior college win, however, Coyote stock for the game between Vernon and Wichita Falls Saturday a week will soar to the heights.

The probable starting lineup of the Indians as announced last night by Coach Mosely will be,

Clary, center; Coburn and Hershi, guards; Beatty and Whitlaw, tackles; Delaney and Smith, ends; Caskey and Keevil, halves; Weith, fullback; and Thurman, quarter.

FEW GRID RULE CHANGES

Solons of Football Decide Present Game Is Satisfactory

The football solons decided that there was practically no need for changes in the football rules this year. Football as played is perfectly satisfactory. It isn't like the old days when every football program carried the addresses of all near-by hospitals. Football is now scientific. Lots of colleges go through the big game of the season now without losing anything more than the hats the snake-dancers throw over the cross bar.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

The director of the motion picture explained to Billy in yesterday's story just what they wanted him to do.

Mr. Dates was so kind and talked to Billy so nicely that Billy took a liking to him then and there, and made up his mind that he would try to do the very best he could, whatever the director might ask him to do for a moving-picture.

Consequently in a jiffy they had Billy dressed in black trousers and red jacket, with a big, black helmet on his head. Then he was told to jump up on the front seat of the beautiful little brand new fire engine that was shining like gold. He was told to sit down and let his fore legs stick out like arms, and to them were fastened the reins. It looked as if Billy was guiding the ponies in reality he was only holding the reins, for the ponies had been taught just what to do and where to go.

Right then a big bell rang madly somewhere in the yard, and the ponies started off of their own accord. Great volumes of black and yellow smoke followed by crimson flames burst out of the door and through the windows of the house on the corner, and around it came a hook-and-ladder company, followed by the hose cart, both of which stopped at a fire plug, and soon the firemen on the hosecart (who were baboons, monkeys and dogs) caught hold of the hose and dragged it to the plug. Then a baboon took one end of it and, with the nozzle in his hands, climbed up a ladder the big bear had just pulled off the hook-and-ladder wagon and leaned up against the house next the one that was on fire, while the Big St. Bernard, Newfoundland and great Dane dogs ran with pails in their mouths to tubs of water that were standing near. They dropped them in the water, pulled them out full, and then ran back to the house to give them to the monkeys, who took them in their hands and ran up the ladders and poured the water on the roofs of the houses.

They all worked so well and seemed to enjoy it so that the fire was soon put out. Then they replaced the hose and the ladders on their wagons and drove off, the baboon mopping his head with a handkerchief he took from his pocket. The ponies Billy was driving started off and trotted down the newly-made street, with two dogs standing on the back step of the engine, just as the firemen do. As the ponies were headed for the stable and passed the camera man and Mr. Dates, Billy heard this:

"I'll tell you what, that will make a dandy movie picture. There wasn't a hitch in it," said the camera man.

"You are right. And that big white goat behaved splendidly and acted like an old hand at the business."

(Wouldn't it be fun to see the picture Billy and all the other animals made?)

Color Cut-Outs

"We must get ready for the corn roast now," said Dorothy Anne, the little country girl Betty Cut-out was visiting. "I'm going to wear my hiking suit that I've had on all day, and you can wear yours, too. It's getting kind of cold, though, so I'd better wear my jacket that goes with it. I have a nice slip-over sweater that you can wear with your suit."

So the two girls got ready, and, with Dorothy Anne's dog, Skipper, they set off down the country road for the big farm house where all the boys and girls who were going to the corn roast were to meet.

Dorothy Anne's jacket is bright red with a white vest. The dog is tan and white.

WARNS RED CROSS

Community Chest Idea Not Good One For It Speaker Declares.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A warning against lowering the efficiency of the Red Cross by coalitions with local financial community chest federations was given today in an address by J. Arthur Jeffers, manager of the Washington division to the society's convention here. He emphasized that the Red Cross was a membership movement and that financial federations might weaken the potential membership of the society unless the Red Cross officers pointed out to chest officials that membership as well as money was necessary to the welfare of the Red Cross.

Since the Red Cross must always be the first organization to respond in case of disaster, being the official organ of the government, he said that "it is imperative that this national and international work receive the careful consideration of every financial federation which Red Cross chapters join in as a means of financing their work."

A resolution calling for a definite national policy towards financial federation was referred to the central committee for a report to be submitted to the next annual convention.

Parrish-White District Gets New Good Well

Ross Robertson Completes No. 1, White and Swabs At rate of 300 Bbls Day

FIVE OFFSETS

Simms Bailing on No. 1, Parrish, in Southern Part of Pool

Ross Robertson et al., have completed their No. 1, White, northeast corner of lot 1, block 35, ATNCL, and were swabbing it yesterday at a rate of about 300 barrels a day, from sand depth given as about 1,600-1,604 feet. The completion of this well extends the producing area of the Parrish-White district about 900 feet to the west. The rig from the well is being skidded 300 feet south for another test and another rig moved on to a location 300 feet west for still another, this to be almost a south offset to the Lane Drilling company's No. 1, White, southeast corner of lot 13, block 34.

Carter-Phillips - Macon have spudded and are drilling on No's. E-6 and 7, offsetting both the Robertson and Lane wells to the east. Lane Drilling company is reported to be down about 600 feet.

In the south extension to the pool Simms Oil company is bailing on No. 1, Parrish, northeast corner of the southwest 40 acres of the northwest quarter of section 30. Sand encountered at a reported depth of 1,586 feet has been penetrated a short distance. Muse is still trying to make a producer from his No. 2 Parrish, south offset to No. 1.

STANDARD FILES ANSWER

Says No Restraint Trade But Claims to Have Rendered Assistance.

By The Associated Press

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 8—An answer setting forth that the Standard Oil company of Indiana has lived up to the spirit and letter of the Missouri supreme court order of June 28, 1913, with respect to the state's anti-trust laws was filed here today. It was a reply to ouster action of Attorney General Bartlett of Missouri filed September 11 last.

The answer pleads that the company has by its licensing of other manufacturers to use its refining methods aided its competitors in enlarged trade opportunities instead of restraining trade and has served the public in such a way that the price of gasoline has been kept more nearly to the level of 1913 than prices of any other commodity in general use.

The proceedings begun in September seek to set aside the supreme court order of 1913 permitting the company to do business so long as it obeys the state laws.

REAGAN COUNTY OUTPUT.

Production Figures Show Big Lake Region in Column for First Time.

Pipeline companies include production from that county in their reports for first time.

The major pipeline companies that go the trouble and expense of getting up production reports on oil producing areas throughout the State included the Big Lake-Reagan county-field in past week for the first time. There has in the past been a great deal of question as to the real output from this district, and to jus wha it amounted to, but the figures quoted elsewhere on this page may be assumed to be a more or less reliable, and the figure 5,000 barrels daily average for the past week very nearly correct.

Almost all of this production is on Texas university lands, with a one-eighth royalty accruing to the university from production.

Another county, Mitchell, was also included in the producing column this past week, with about 1,500 barrels production.

PANHANDLE REFINERY

Shipment of Machinery to Location Will Start Soon.

PANHANDLE, Oct. 8,—Shipment of machinery for the new refinery which is being built by J. D. Wrather at Panhandle, from Oklahoma; will start within the next day or two Mr. Wrather stated yesterday.

He now has 20 men busy in Oklahoma, tearing down a refinery plant which he purchased in order to ship it to Panhandle, Mr. Wrather will superintend the construction of the refinery building as soon as the machinery arrives.

The refinery will have a 2,000 barrel daily capacity, will be in operation by the middle of December, according to Mr. Wrather.

RUSSIAN OIL OUTPUT

Black Sea Fields Second to U. S. Says Russian Oil Man.

By The Associated Press

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 8.—Virtually destroyed as the result of the world war and the several waves of civil warfare that engulfed the oil fields of south Russia, soviet Russia within six years has restored the petroleum industry and last year the production from the Black Sea fields was second only to the output from the fields of the United States, A. S. Serebrowsky, president of the Azneft government corporation, told the international petroleum exposition and congress in session here today. Azneft is a province in the soviet nation.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Failure to use sensible precaution in writing checks causes men and businesses huge money losses every year.

The next time you receive a check or make one out, see whether it is made out in such a way that it will give a check raiser the maximum of trouble in an effort to raise it.

In making out your checks, use one of the various "safety papers" if possible. This will reduce the probability of loss through forging and check raising, but it is not infallible.

In making out any sort of check, write in the name of the payee flush with the words, "pay to the order of," or at least at the beginning of the line, if "pay to the order of" is on a line by itself.

Where the amount is written out, write the amount flush with the left side of the line and draw a line completely out to the word "dollars." Where the amount is put in after the conventional dollar sign, make the figures flush with the dollar sign, thus: $22.45, not $ 22.45, as the latter case would give a check raiser an easy chance to make the check $922.45.

New York Money

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Except for rather brisk selling of some of the high priced public utilities just before the close trading in today's stock market was extremely sluggish with prices in the general list moving irregularly lower. Absence of many traders in observance of the Jewish religious holiday was reflected in the volume of business, total sales again approximating half a million shares.

United States Steel common fluctuated within a range of ¾ of a point closing unchanged at 107¾. Independent steels showed no responses to reports of possible mergers as a result of the abolition of the Pittsburgh plus price plan which were hinted at in the weekly steel trade review. Bethlehem and Studebaker showed small fractional recessions.

General Electric closed more than 3 points lower at 280% after having sold as high as 283½. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and Nash Motors each broke about 5 points.

Further accumulation of Jordan Motors sent that stock up to a new high record for the year at 35¾, recent buying being based on high current earnings. New peak prices also were attained by Packard preferred, Nash Motors preferred, International Nickel preferred and Federal Light and Traction preferred. Chandler touched another new low at 30¾, and then rallied to 30½ for a net loss of ¾ on the day. General Motors and Great Western Sugar also sold at net low prices.

Railroad shares held relatively firm.

Money rates held steady. Call money was unchanged at 2 per cent. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with borrowers manifesting little interest.

Extreme irregularity characterized the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling moved up more than a cent to $4.86¾ and French francs fluctuated around 6.20 cents. Silver exchanges touched new highs. Further weakness cropped out in Japanese yen which yielded ¾ to 35¾.

Market Letter

R. E. FLOWERREE AND COMPANY
New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 8.—Cotton values rose nearly 50 points early Dear bad weather and a bullish bureau report, but dropped 100 after the government's report was issued. The forecast is nearly 100,000 bales under the government's estimate of two weeks ago and its condition figure well under the average of the private bureaus but the fact that it predicted practically twelve and a half millions bales upset bullish confidence for the time being and brought on considerable liquidation.

Ginnings of a four and a half million bales also turned out to be larger than expected and created the belief that there was a good deal more of cotton to be bedded.

The ginnings, while large, do not of themselves indicate as large a crop as predicted, as the crop has been picked and ginned rapidly in the southern and central sections and any one familiar with the outlook in the various states can easily point out where the government has over-estimated the crop, the dry-goods trade will again be upset and the market becomes overbold, the desire to sell on rallies will doubtless check rallies from assuming sizeable proportions.

Sentiment here has again yielded to the bear side. Would adopt a trading position for the present.

Southern Areas Show Big Jump In Production

By The Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 8.—Heavy oil production from the saline dome pools of the Texas and Louisiana coasts increased the daily average 13,000 barrels for the week ending October 4. The entire gain came from the Texas pools, as the Pelican state salt dome pools registered a loss of 300 barrels.

The big gain in the Texas heavy oil output is due to the Big Creek field in Fort Bend county, where two good wells have been completed by the Gulf company.

The old Humble field showed up with a gain of 2,000 and Orange a jump of 1,500 barrels. Goose Creek increased 400 and Blue Ridge 800 barrels. Total for all pools was 151,720 barrels, a new record. Daily average production, as estimated by a major pipe line company, follows by pools:

Wheat Strong

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Wheat scored a brisk upturn at the last today as a result of enlarged buying based more or less in a correct opinion that crop estimates issued this afternoon by Winnipeg would prove bullish. Reports of rain in Canada also a restraining factor. Closing quotations on wheat were firm ¾ cents net higher, December 150¾ to 150¾ and May 153¾ to 153¾. Corn finish unchanged to 1¼ up; oats at ¼ to ¾ and provisions unchanged to 30 cents lower.

New York Cotton.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The government crop report indicating a crop of 12,499,000 bales was followed by a break of approximately 150 to 185 points in the cotton market today. December contracts, which had advanced to 25.70 during the early trading, declined to 23.93 and closed at 23.95. The general market closing hardly steady at net declines of 130 to 135 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 12 to 20 points and sold up on relatively steady Liverpool cables and an unfavorable western belt forecast pointing to unsettled weather and lower temperatures in the southwest with probably frost in the Texas Panhandle and northwest Oklahoma.

In addition to covering, a little fresh buying on the advance carried October up just before the government report was issued.

The official condition figure of 53.6 was closely in line with the average expectation of cotton exchange members, but the crop indication of 12,499,000 bales was evidently a surprise to recent buyers and prices immediately weakened. Selling on the crop outlook was stimulated by the report of the census bureau showing 4,525,520 bales ginned to October 1, in sympathy of rains last month and moderate rains from the big break on the crop, figures ran into increased offerings. The latter were supposed to include considerable offerings of the south against cotton previously carried unhedged and the lowest levels of the day were reached in the late trading when October sold at 24.70 and July at 24.04 or 134 to 140 points net lower. Last prices were only a point or two up from the lowest on covering.

Exports today 12,876, making 1,135,668 so far this season. Port receipts 57,406; United States port stock 648,397.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.—The cotton market experienced a sharp downturn in today's session following the publication of the government production forecast. Prices which had advanced 51 to 57 points during the first hour of trading on a forecast for unsettled weather, and possibly frost in the northwest portion of the belt declined 153 to 158 points within a few minutes.

Despite several small rallies in the market it again eased off during the afternoon on continued liquidation until December traded down to 23.82 and January to 23.88 or 187 to 192 points down from the highs of the morning and 135 to 136 points below the close of yesterday. The close was but little above the lowest prices of the day showing net losers of 126 to 127 points.

Although today's forecast was nearly 100,000 bales smaller than the forecast issued September 23, it was still larger than the trade expected hence the general desire to liquidate commitments on the long side. The selling was assailed by the census bureau's report in ginnings to October 1 which were larger than expected, although owing to the changes in the dates established for this season's reports there were no comparative statistics available for previous years.

7,000-Bale Crop Is Predicted In Wichita County

Cotton Production Here Will Exceed That of 1923, Is Belief

ALL FARMERS BUSY

Pickers Still Needed As Season Wanes in This Territory

With picking going ahead full force and nearly all the farm of this section showing a better yield than last year, cotton production for Wichita county in 1924 gives promise of at least 7,000 and possibly 8,000 bales. A 5,000 bale crop was brought in here in 1923.

Reports reaching here from farmers all over the county indicate a yield substantially greater than has been the case in the past several years. Until more progress is made on picking the crop, accurate forecasts as to what it will yield will be impossible. Those in a position to know, however, predict between 7,000 and 8,000 bales.

Grasshoppers Hurt.

Weather conditions were ideal here throughout most of the season and had it not been for a grasshopper invision and an excessive "blow" of dry, hot winds in August, the yield would have been much greater. As it was, a determined fight against the hoppers minimized to some extent the damage from this source.

Need More Pickers

Picking is being delayed in Wichita county as it is in other parts of the state by a lack of help. However, Wichita farmers are faring better in this respect than are those in many section and there is every indication that the crop will be brought in with a minimum of loss. Pickers are still in demand here and calls are received daily at the federal labor bureau office in the city hall to supply hands for the fields. These are being filled as rapidly as possible.

With cotton commanding a high price on the markets now, farmers are working over time to get their production to the gins.

FRANCE LETS SULTANS IN

Ex-Ruler of Turkey and His Three Wives Are Admitted.

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—The French government has given the ex-sultan of Turkey permission to enter France with his three wives, although the French law prohibits polygamy.

The ex-sultan will leave Montetux, Switzerland, with a train of personal servants and his three legal wives, with whom he will take up his residence in a villa near Nice.

The arrangement now made gives the ex-sultan the right to spend his English money—allowed him by the British government on a life annuity arrangement—in France. That indecision overcame the objections against the three sultanas, the only remaining members of the former sultan's once flourishing harem.

The experiments will be conducted hereafter in a $10,000 laboratory, funds for which the city council appropriated last night.

Super Power Knot In Radio Circles May Be Untied

Heavy Broadcasting Stations As Experiment for Year Suggested

AT THE WHITE HOUSE

General Radio Problems Are Discussed at Invitation Meeting

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—First official information as to the output of the rapidly growing infant radio industry was made public by the census bureau today showing the value of radio apparatus and tubes to have aggregated $48,030,937 last year.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. — Installation of super power radio broadcasting stations under experimental licenses by which the government might discontinue them within a year if their operation eliminated others from the field, loomed at the third national radio conference today as the solution for the super-power problem which has been before the delegates since the conference opened.

The delegates, who were invited to Washington by Secretary Hoover to discuss great problems of the radio industry, called at the White House today and were addressed by President Coolidge, who declared for the preservation of the freedom of the air at all costs and who pointed out the responsibility of the broadcaster in sending out programs that reach into the nation's homes.

From Sub Committee

The suggested solution of the super power problem was made as a recommendation to a sub committee of the conference considering the general question by Walter A. Strong, representing the American newspaper publishers' association.

With other representatives of publisher-broadcasters, Mr. Strong has been opposed to any authorization by the government for an increase in the amount of power which may be used by radio stations.

David Sarnoff, vice president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, expressed the willingness of his concern to erect a super station within several miles of New York City on the condition that it would be closed by the government within a year if it created undue interference with other stations, or did not meet with popular approval. The radio corporation, he decared, was willing to run the risk so confident was it of success.

To Draw Up Plan

The committee then requested officials of the commerce department to draw up a revised experimental license which would authorize general construction of super power stations on this basis. Present experimental licenses authorizing use of more than one kilowatt, are granted only to concerns manufacturing their radio equipment, a feature that would be eliminated in the proposal license.

The revised forms will be submitted to the sub committee at its session tomorrow for consideration.

The general session of the conference today was given over to open discussion of general radio problems. Questions of wave length allocations and marine radio interference with land broadcasting were discussed and later given to committees for consideration.

Tomorrow's general session of the conference will receive reports of progress from the chairmen of the seven sub-committees appointed by Secretary Hoover to consider various problems of the industry.

"He shows the need of physical instruction," Cullen said of Mr. Davis. "His condition is such with two treatments a day he will freshen up and be as good as when he started this grind.

LOST RACE TO END LIFE

Woman's Slayer, Out of Ammunition, Arrested Before Could Get More.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—George Munding, riding master who shot and killed Mrs. Julia Douglas, widow and riding instructor, tried to kill himself after the shooting, but missed and used all his ammunition, he has told the police. He was racing in his motor car to procure more ammunition, he said, when he was arrested.

Meanwhile the police have ordered Robert Plummer, a motor car salesman and ex-police captain, whose name was brought into the case by Munding, remain at his home and cease the threats they said he made against newspaper men. Jealousy of Plummer, according to the police, caused the quarrel that precipitated the shooting.

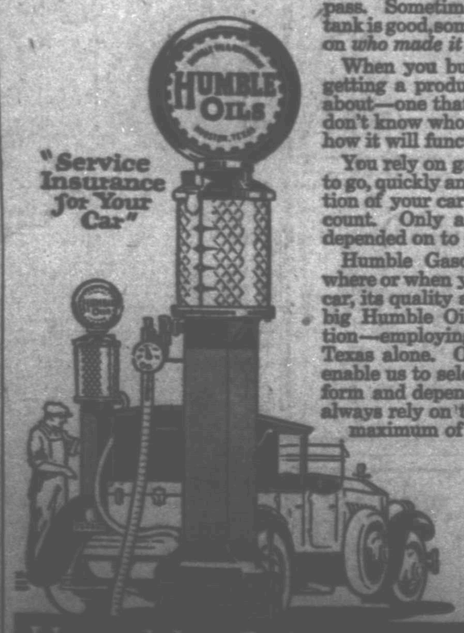
Humble Gasoline is Always Good



Many motorists buy their gasoline haphazardly—here and there—from any station they happen to pass. Sometimes the gasoline that goes into the tank is good, sometimes, poor—depending of course on who made it and how it was made.

When you buy from a "blind pump", you are getting a product that you know nothing at all about—one that has "No pride of ancestry." You don't know who made it or how it was made, and how it will function in your motor.

You rely on gasoline to get you where you want to go, quickly and cheaply. It is the efficient operation of your car and the cost per mile that really count. Only a uniformly-good gasoline can be depended on to give you these things.

Humble Gasoline is always good, no matter where or when you buy it. From the wells to your car, its quality and purity are safeguarded by the big Humble Oil & Refining Company organization—employing over 3,500 people in the state of Texas alone. Our immense production facilities enable us to select and refine so as to secure a uniform and dependable product—one that you can always rely on to give efficient operation and the maximum of mileage.

Look For The Humble Signs

Name if you can, another manufactured article that is maintained at such a high standard, that is so widely and regularly distributed, that is dispensed at so narrow a margin of profit to the producer, as Gasoline.
