Wellington Rotarians and the Future Farmer Chapter again will repair toys for the needy children of the community at Christmas, Danny Garcia, vocational agriculture instructor announced this week.

Several people have already delivered toys, and repair work will begin next week.

Garcia suggested that used toys may be delivered to the vocational ag department by parents when they bring their children to school around 8:45 a.m.

This is a joint project of Rotary and the Wellington Future Farmers Chapter every year.

Oklahoma Trio Charged With Bronco Burglary

The November 6 burglary of the Bronco Theatre was solved when Sheriff John Rainey and Deputy Kenneth Hodge questioned three men in Pawhuska, Okla., Thursday, Nov. 17.

Charges were filed against Zigurids Kokors, 23, Dale Scott, 22, who formerly lived here, and Wesley Rankins, 29.

The three were arrested by a member of Osage county Sheriff J. F. Streetman's staff on a minor traffic charge. A carton, addressed to the Ritz Theatre, Wellington, Texas, was found in the car. Sheriff Rainey said some of the items taken were still in the box. Both the box office and concession stand were entered and two charges were filed against each man.

The trio is also charged with

Scott Speaks

Zook Thomas Heads Comanche Scout District for Coming Year

Zook Thomas was named chairman of the Comanche District of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council in the annual meeting and banquet held in Wellington Monday evening, Nov. 21.

Thomas succeeds Dr. Carter Holcomb. Vice chairman is Lawrence Neece of Clarendon and the District Commissioner is Bennett Goodloe.

D. E. Scott, Crossroads Reporter columnist, was the guest speaker. In his talk, "The Spirit of Scouting" Scott told of a little known facet of early Boy Scout work, the Lone Scouts.

This group, he explained, flourished during the period 1915 to 1924 and was made up of boys living on farms and in isolated sections who could not belong to Boy Scout troops. They did alone what town and city boys did together.

The Lone Scout movement served more than 600,000 boys across the nation and ceased to exist only when improved transportation facilities made it possible for almost any boy who wanted Scouting to belong to a troop.

Scott, himself, was a Lone Scout, and each year he attends the reunion of these former members. He told the group of Scouters of his meeting this summer with F. A. Morgan, former Chicago teacher who set up the movement at the request of W. D. Boyce, Chicago publisher and founder also of the Boy Scout movement in the United States in 1910.

Later in the meeting Murray Smith, district Scout executive, presented certificates to Dr. Holcomb and Clyde Price, outgoing commissioner. Dr. Holcomb then recognized for their outstanding work Byron Range, health and safety chairman; Melvin Jennings, leadership training chairman; and George Henry, finance chairman; and Smith.

Roundup awards were presented to Joe Williams of Memphis; Tom Saye of Clarendon; Wayne Thompson of Shamrock; and Ted Myers of Memphis.

Certificates of appreciation to unit leaders went to Williams, Saye, Myers, A. J. Fires, Glenn McLain, Bill Land and Gus Allen.

Fire Comes to Firemen

Sharp Increase in Fires During Past Week

The Wellington Fire Department put out 7 fires during the week, including one fire that came to the firemen.

The rural fire truck answered a call to the Quail Gin about two p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17, to put out a blaze that had started in a bur pile. This was short work, but as the fire truck was driving away, a Mexican arrived at the gin driving a truck of burning cotton, according to Troy Marsh, police chief and fire marshal.

The man was not aware of the blaze and only the top of the load was burned over. Marsh said they did not learn the driver's name or who he was hauling for.

Tuesday, Nov. 15, firemen answered a call to 110 Bowie street, at 4:15 p.m. to fight a blaze that gutted a house where several Mexican families were living. Firemen rescued suit cases and a tobacco can containing money. An elderly couple first told firemen there was $300 in the suit cases, but later seemed uncertain if there was that much, Marsh said. The money was scorched, but not destroyed.

Marsh said the fire was due to too many electrical appliances on one extension cord.

At 1:35 a.m. Wednesday, firemen were called to the Traders Compress, where four bales of cotton on the dock were ruined by fire.

A chicken house behind the Boyd residence on north Fort Worth St. in the colored section burned Saturday. Johnny Cagle, driver for the department, said it appeared to have caught from burning trash.

Next in the series of fires was a grass fire Sunday on Graham street, which Cagle said was probably started from a cigaret tossed away.

Four bales of seed cotton belonging to Louis Allred, which he was hauling to town were destroyed in a blaze Tuesday, Nov. 22 at mid-afternoon.

Cagle reported that Allred discovered the blaze about 3 1/2

Teachers Hear NEA Director

Mrs. Grace Scott of Tulia, Texas representative on the National Education Association board of directors, will speak to the Wellington classroom teachers association here on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 29. Mrs. Bernice Welch, program chairman, announced this week. She will speak on "Local Benefits Derived from Classroom Teachers Associations."

Mrs. Scott has taught in the Tulia school system for 25 years and is now serving as chairman on the finance committee of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association. She is also a member of the executive board.

She will be accompanied here by Mrs. Helen Douglas, president of the Tulia classroom teachers.

After she speaks there will be a question and answer period, Mrs. Welch said.

All Wellington teachers are urged to attend and other county teachers are invited.

Marsh Speaker at Childress

Police Chief Troy Marsh was guest speaker for the Childress Rotary Club at its luncheon Wednesday, Nov. 23.

Chief Marsh discussed "Why I Am a Peace Officer."

Tom Ferguson Dies Sunday of Injuries

Tom Ferguson, 51, died Sunday morning, Nov. 20, in St. Joseph's Hospital of injuries received ten days earlier when he fell from a utility pole on which he was working.

He was service man with the West Texas Utilities Company here nine years and with the company 14 years.

The accident that cost Mr. Ferguson his life occurred across the road from the Lattie Gin Thursday evening, Nov. 10. Company officials were never able to talk with Mr. Ferguson to determine definitely the cause of the accident. Although his fall of about 30 feet was slowed by his safety belt, Mr. Ferguson received two broken vertebrae and other injuries.

During his years with West Texas Utilities, Mr. Ferguson had become one of its most valued employees in the service department, and a man held in esteem both by his company and by the public with whom he dealt.

In recent years he became keenly interested in Little League baseball, and during the past season he was in charge of the Peeewe teams. All who knew of his work and of the program considered his work with these small boys as outstanding, and their praise was unstinted. He was due to have one of the top positions in the youth baseball program during the coming season.

Working through his company, Mr. Ferguson cooperated with many civic undertakings requiring the service WTU offers.

He was a member also of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Tom Ferguson was born Jan. 3, 1909 at Denton, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Ferguson. In 1911, he came with his family to Duke, Okla.,

Younger at Quail School

Douglas Younger, Texas Tech senior who grew up in the Arlie community, has been selected to do his practice teaching in the Quail vocational agriculture department under the direction of Frank Kennedy.

He has begun work there and will be at the Quail school until the Christmas holidays. He will assist Kennedy in various phases of work and will teach three classes of vocational agriculture.

Younger is majoring in agricultural education.

The son of Mrs. Frances Younger, now of Amarillo, and the late Tice S. Younger, he has been away from here much of the time since 1953. After graduating from Hollis high school in 1952, he attended college two years then served three years in the Army with 20 months in Germany. He returned to Tech upon receiving his discharge.

Game Group to Hear New Warden Friday

Carl Carter, new game warden for this district, will make his first public appearance in the county Friday night, Nov. 25, when he speaks at the annual meeting of the Quail Game Association. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. and will be held in the Quail ag building.

Carter will discuss game laws in general and as they pertain to the coming quail season.

He replaces Slim Davis, long time game warden, who retired about six weeks ago. Formerly of Mobeetie, Carter was a deputy under Wheeler county Sheriff Bus Dorman before entering the service of the Texas Fish, Game and Wildlife Department.

An additional feature of the Friday night meeting will be a film of an actual mountain lion hunt, made in New Mexico.

Officers and directors for the Quail Game Association for the coming year will be elected. Palo Cummings now heads the organization; Lonnie Neeley is vice president; Fred Bourland is secretary-treasurer, and Richard Gilbreth reporter.

Frank Kennedy, who is helping with arrangements for the meeting, reminded that hunting is by permit only within the Quail Game Association area. This covers an area south of Salt Fork River, having as the east boundary highway 83 from the river south to highway 203. There it jogs west

Notice Board

Let Firemen Get to Fires, Public Told

Local citizens who go to city fires were requested this week by Troy Marsh, police chief and fire marshal, to give fire department members five minutes to get to the fire before they race to the scene.

Since Wellington was converted to dial telephones there is no way to call firemen the location of fires, Marsh pointed out, and no satisfactory method of notifying them has been arrived at. It is, therefore, necessary that they drive to the fire station, learn where the fire is located, and go to it. They have been delayed frequently by people rushing to the fire along with them.

"Just stand still five minutes, and give the firemen a chance, then come on; we may need you to help," Marsh declared.

A city map and lighting system has been worked out recently by Johnny Cagle, department driver, and mounted at the front of the fire station. Lights will be turned on to indicate the street and block location, but it will be necessary for persons phoning in fires to give the street number of the blaze, Cagle said.

It means, however, that members of the department will, upon hearing the siren, drive to the fire station, note the location of the fire on the board and then go to that place, Marsh and Cagle explained.

Merchants to Sponsor Trades Day Program

Wellington merchants have again slated their annual Christmas Trade Days, opening Monday, Nov. 28, and continuing through Christmas Eve.

Co-ordinating the program is the Collingsworth County Chamber of Commerce.

N. M. Higdon, C-C manager, announced that the program will be carried on much as it has been in the past.

Merchants are giving away $300 in Script which is redeemable with any merchant participating in the program.

Five big drawings are scheduled, with the first on Dec. 3. Others will be Dec. 10, 17, 23 and Christmas Eve.

There will be two drawings each day. On the first, tickets will be drawn until someone present is the lucky name. The second is cumulative and if the first name drawn is not present, the amount will be added to the next week's drawing.

All drawings will be held at 4 p.m. on the south side of the court house.

This is only one phase of the holiday program sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Christmas lights will go on around Dec. 5, and merchants already are decorating display windows with some of the most distinctive merchandise Wellington has seen at the Christmas season in recent years.

It is these individual decorations that will give much of the festive look to Wellington's business section this holiday.

Merchants participating in the Trades Day program are John French Clothiers, City Grocery, White's Auto Store, The Fair Store, Fashion Shop, Bratten Jewelry, Raburn Grocery, Wellington Hardware, Lowell Wells Clothier, Lewis Grocery, Harrell's Variety, Parsons Drug, C&H Pharmacy, Pruden Drug,

West Side Grocery, Lewis Tingle Grocery, Stop and Shop Grocery, Parker Furniture, Steve Owens, Owens & Scott, John Holton, Cicero Smith Lumber Co., Sullivan Hardware, The Toggery, Hatch Dry Goods, Thompson Cleaners, B. F. Evans Service Station, Phipps Service Station, Brooks Auto Supply, Porter Grocery and Market, Homer & Howard Holton, Wellington Lumber Company, Clay and Ward, O.K. Rubber Welders, Wellington Leader, Martin Conoco Service, H&H Hardware and Appliance, and The Leader Department Store.

Licensed to Kill

Imagine that you are the father who, not long ago, was driving down the street in one of America's pleasant cities. Your daughter is chattering happily to herself beside you. Life is good, and promising . . . and then an oncoming car lurches into your lane and cracks you head-on.

In the hospital, when the agonies of reality start to penetrate the shock, your first fearful question is about your daughter. She is in a cast, they say; it took 70 stitches to try and repair her knee, but she's alive.

And you? The pain tells a lot, but they have to specify it for you: multiple face lacerations, a smashed knee, undetermined back injuries, broken ribs, broken teeth, broken shoulder, a smashing blow to one eye that has damaged your vision and muscle coordination.

Then you learn about the other driver. He was drunk when he struck you. He has only minor injuries. He's recuperating at home.

He has no insurance, no money. THEN you lean about his driving record, over the last ten years:

Convicted of a stop sign violation. Fined $10.
Convicted of speeding. Fined $30.
Convicted of involuntary man-slaughter and drunken driving, in a crash that killed a person. Served 10 months in jail. Released. Driver's license restored two days later.

Convicted of speeding. Fined $10.
Convicted of driving too fast in a two-car crash. Fined $25.

Given a warning ticket for speeding.
Convicted of speeding and improper passing. Fined $25.

Convicted of drunken driving and negligent homicide, in accident that killed a person. Served 10 months in jail. Released. Given a new 5-year license to drive.

And the next notch this killer filed on his automotive weapon is for YOU and YOUR DAUGHTER. Not quite a killing, this time, but he really brought you down on the wing!

You add it all up in your bewildered brain. It isn't just your smashed eye that's giving you trouble, now; your whole vision of society seems to have been smashed. The pleasant world you knew has dissolved into a jungle. The pleasant roads you traveled have dissolved into savage concrete trails where licensed killers prowl. You had always respected the law and its enforcement; but now it all seems like a flimsy illusion that vanished when a criminal jumped you and your child on a city street, in broad daylight.

Anger begins to mount through the pain. Then fear arises to engulf everything—even the pain—for a while. "Will it finally be all right with me? Will I ever be able to walk again, and work again, and see again, as I could before a drunken, immoral, irresponsible, legally-licensed-to-drive fool crossed my path?"

Would that this were fiction . . . but the appalling fact is that it's true. Of course, some states are doing far better than others in legislating killers off the road. But there is room for improvement everywhere. One coast-to-coast look at our traffic toll tells us — no, Shouts — that there HAS to be room for improvement!

What's the first step? Total revision of our attitude toward driving. We still cling to the nation that propelling a car through life's traffic is a common right that we grow into, like long pants. Everybody walks, everybody talks, everybody breathes, EVERYBODY DRIVES.

We must come to realize that driving is a PRIVILEGE to be licensed just as painstakingly as the privilege to practice medicine — for drivers, as well as doctors, must prove that they have sufficient skill and maturity to safeguard life and welfare.

We cannot blame our state vehicle department for the licensed killers and potential killers who prowl our concrete trails. Neither can we blame our state legislatures. We can blame only ourselves. Because until we get up on our hind legs and overwhelmingly demand licensing, enforcement and record systems with stronger, sharper teeth in them, we will never have them.

And until we do have them, there will be many a pleasant street in man ya pleasant town where life for the innocent will suddenly turn hideout, or be destroyed —Iron County Miner, Hurley, Wis.

CROSSROADS REPORT

I see where a Texas business man hired three chimpanzees to work in his factory, but the deal is about to fall through on account of they don't have union cards.

And I note that our newspapers let the instant quip boys write up this story instead of the sob sisters, just like as if there is something humorous about an unemployed chimpanzee.

But my civil righteous neighbor says he is glad somebody is trying to practice fair employment by not discriminating against citizens just because they haven't evolved far enough.

I see where this is Farm-City Week, and farmers and city inmates are supposed to bury the hatchet and experiment a little with integration.

My caste-fallen neighbor says in his locality there is already considerable mingling going on, what with rich farmers moving to town and putting rich citizens in the shade.

Says also lots of farmers who got programed out of business by the government are moving in and upsetting the city climate with their cut-throat work habits.

I see where the Brookings Institution is going to make a five-year study of government spending and taxes.

My dubious neighbor says this job is going to take a crew of very agile studiers, on account of it is very hard to study an item which won't hold still.

Says the Institution has maybe waited too long already to tackle these matters, as both government spending and taxes have long ago gone out of sight, and not much chance they will orbit into range again in a mere five years.

I have been reading about how many peoples used to go in for Ancestor Worship, and it seems like some folks still do, in cases where they have got a famous ancestor.

But my self-wrecked neighbor says his ancestors didn't do much for him, so he goes in for Posterity Worship, with patrician attention to his grandchildren.

Says he reckons the last remnants of Ancestor Worship will go when our descendants find out how we have been living high and courting security on their credit cards.

I see where the National Union of Teachers recommends children be taught to "approximate" and "estimate" instead of how to get exact answers to math problems.

My poor-guesser neighbor says he used to keep books by this system, until the Internal Revenue bureau taught him better.

Says he has also been converted to accuracy on account of not wishing to run the risk of being interred too hastily because some Union-taught doctor figures he is approximately dead.

I see where the U.S. attorney general has cracked down on a couple of Tennessee banks on account of they are denying to some citizens the civil right to borrow money.

My soured-credit neighbor says he always figured the millenium would be a time of free milk and honey, but having the bankers fixed so they can't turn you down is an even better idea.

Says the best part about this development is, after the government wins this case, and he goes in to ask for a loan, it will be the banker who does the sweating.

NEWS LETTER from Congressman WALTER ROGERS

The Dark Continent

No area on the face of the earth today presents more of a question mark than the burgeoning, teeming continent of Africa. To most of us, the territory has presented an impression for many years of a place where our missionaries work and endure untold hardships, and a place overrun with wild animals and primitive peoples.

In a manner of speaking, it is difficult for some of us to realize the continent is assuming a position of such importance that its present and future determinations could spell the difference in the concepts of freedom or slavery in other parts of the world.

This situation was brought about by the fact of the granting of independence and the privilege of self-determination for virtually all the countries of the continent, starting in 1957 when Britain granted independence to Ghana.

From this point a great wave of nationalism has asserted itself in every political subdivision of Africa. Certainly no one who believes in the dignity of the individual in a democracy would deny this right to any country or group of countries. Their status of readiness and ability for self-government is what poses the tremendous question in the world today. Let us look at some of the factors which contribute to the riddle.

The continent is almost four times as large as the continental United States. Because it is impossible to traverse some parts of the continent, it is difficult to accurately assess the population, which is estimated to be something over 220 million people. Literacy is also difficult to assess, but it is assumed that approximately 95 per cent of the people cannot read or write.

There are more than 700 languages spoken on the continent, very few of which are written at all.

The continent is rich in abundant natural resources that are primarily unexploited because of the lack of capital and of the lack of a qualified labor force. The natives generally eat adequately, though their diet is unbalanced and erratic. Although the countries of Ethiopia, Liberia, the Union of South Africa, and the United Arab Republic have known independence for some time, most of the African countries did not experience it until the past decade, and the bulk of them in 1960.

Despite the fact that each African country has an established boundary, the chief political divisions are tribal and the tribe is the dominant factor in African life. Their food, shelter and welfare are sought tribally. Food is obtained principally from hunting forays, although a few of the nomadic tribes do a small amount of cultivation and raise small herds.

In a sense, the prospect of independence is incomprehensible to the African mind, and there was considerable belief that independence would automatically solve the majority of their problems.

It is difficult for the average native to understand the benefits and problems of working in a society and they cannot be employed for any length of time to become stable. Their transactions were once almost entirely by payment in kind, but have come to be principally cash, which they have little idea how to accumulate or earn. Employers have come to adopt a system they call "target employment," i.e. they hire a man to do a job where the payment will be not necessarily a certain wage or amount of cash, but whatever amount the native needs to purchase his current need.

Presumably a man who wishes to buy a horse could hire out and end up chopping 40 acres of cotton in exchange, never knowing the value of his horse or his work.

The most valuable commodity in Africa is education and one who possesses even a small amount of it is automatically set above his brothers and, in a manner of speaking, is marked for leadership.

To me, this is a hopeful sign and I trust it points the way toward a future to the end that intelligent, enlightened leadership culminates in the prized right of self-assertion in democracy. Should these newborn nations hitch their wagons to the red star of communism, the tragic results would be obvious.

Events Honor Mr. and Mrs. Joe Peterson on their Golden Wedding

Two events last week honored Mr. and Mrs. Joe Peterson who, on Thursday, Nov. 17, observed their golden wedding.

Throughout that day, friends called at the home to bring gifts, extend best wishes and visit informally. But the greatest surprise to the couple was the arrival of five of his brothers and sisters to help them observe the occasion.

The following day, the couple was honored at its luncheon meeting by the Kiwanis Club, of which he is a member. He is the first local Kiwanian ever to observe a golden wedding and it was the first time the Club has honored a Wellington couple on such an occasion.

He recalled events of his married life and told of his civic work, then paid tribute to them for the active and useful lives they have led. This is about birds. "Screw" birds. Birds you've seen, but seldom read about.

First bird we want to call attention to is the heavy-footed Fenechawk.

He rides the fences for all they are worth. He spreads the barbed-wire enclosures so wide you could drive a truck through them. Crawling through one of the openings he makes in a barbed-wire fence is a snap. In fact, he is so heavy footed and so strong armed that he pops the staples clear out of the posts.

Another fine-feathered friend is the Snipeflicker.

He's the bird who tosses cigarette stubs and cigar butts with reckless abandon. This addeheaded snipeflicker has cost Uncle Sam (that's you and me, Bub) millions of dollars in fire damage to timber and wild life. He's not careless in our book. He's just one bird that doesn't give a hoot. If his grandchildren have no place to hunt, it makes no difference to him. What the heck does he care about the future? He won't be here anyway.

This bird's even worse than the Migratory Litterbird. That creature has the same attitude, true enough. Also—the same lack of respect for the property of others. And the same lack of appreciation of what has been made available to him by the farmers or the parks board, or the game and fish commission. Often wonder what his home looks like inside, don't you? Betcha there are banana peels everywhere, apple cores all over the house and empty beer cans in every room.

There are plenty of other creatures of the woods and the waves.

For example . . . there's the Redeyed Swallow . . . better known as the Boozeybird.

No need for him to wear heavy hunting clothes. He's fired up internally. Why be a comfortable 98 degrees, body-temperature bird, when you can feather your nest with 100-proof alcohol and feel oh so light-headed? Actually, this bird isn't light-headed, he's empty headed. There are just no brain cells in that ivory-covered skull. Couldn't be, or he wouldn't be out hunting in that condition.

And anyone who hunts with him had better be a Roadrunner and in the finest trim. Otherwise he'll never make it back to camp . . . alive.

This Boozeybird, incidentally . . . more often than not . . . is part Snipeflicker and part Litterbird.

The Redeyed Swallow also has many traits common to the Largemouth Grouse . . . a very loquacious and vociferous animal. Much of his time is allocated to complaints that are reminiscent of the Bellyaching Bullfrog, who's not even part of the feathery tribe.

While we're at it, let's not overlook the Dimwitted Woods-ruff. He's the hot-tempered bird who clobbers the park fountain if it fails to work. He does so with the park bench and he doesn't care which collapses first, so long as his temper is not restrained.

You've seen this bird I know. I'm talking about the Sneaky-eyed Woodpecker. He trans-fere shrubbery from the field to his own front yard.

Not to be overlooked is the Largepocketed Camprober. He is known to have carried off the grate from the roadside barbecue pits, to appropriate it for his own use. Neither does he think anything of totting all the extra state park firewood with him.

Then there's the Redhatted Loon, who doesn't know the difference (or care) between a 12-point buck and the farmer's choice Jersey cow. He's the farmers delight. But only if the cow is heavily insured.

Too, let's not forget the Roostertailed Waterthrasher. He's the speed demon of the waterways. This gink "wakes up" the fishermen with mammoth man-made waves. He boils them up as close to the angler's boat as the law allows . . . if not closer.

These birds are not legal game. But more than one hunter thinks they should be.

IT'S THE LAW

WHAT IS "ESCROW"?

What is an "escrow"? It is a deposit of money or documents, or both, with an escrow holder, who is really a "stakeholder."

What does an escrow do? The escrow holder gets money from the buyer. He gets documents from the seller, and he carries out instructions of both upon the performance of some act or the meeting of some condition. As a rule, in the escrow instructions the seller and buyer tell the escrow holder what to do and when.

An escrow arrangement helps in buying and selling land. It is an especially useful device when you may live in another city, or expect to be gone when time comes to close the deal. Suppose, through a real estate man, you find a buyer for your place. But he may not want to pay in full until you can give him a clear title, or it may take time to raise the money. So you agree on terms, and both of you use the escrow to put the deal through.

As a neutral go-between, the escrow holder, which may be a bank, may only carry out instructions you give him. He cannot, for example, give you advice as to whether your deal is a good one.

The seller may tell the escrow holder: Hold the abstract and deed until the buyer pays over the money; then pro-rate taxes, insurance, rents; pay the real estate broker and pay the proceeds to the seller.

The buyer may have the escrow holder hold his money until the title is approved; pro-rate real estate taxes, rents, insurance; pay the seller at the close of escrow; receive and record the deed from the seller, etc.

As a rule, you work out most deals before you open the escrow. Look carefully at "preliminary arrangements," "deposit receipts," or escrow instructions, for such papers may be binding. As a rule, one or more of them will be your basic contract.

Don't Shoot a Hunter

AUSTIN.—Don't take chances on your shooting. This is the warning of Capt. E. M. Sprott, director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission. Be sure your target is legal game. Don't shoot just at a movement in the brush, he warns.

CHANGE OLD ORDER?

The practice of ginning cotton in the order of arrival at the gin needs revision. The reason, says B. G. Reeves, extension cotton ginning and mechanization specialist, is the ever-increasing number of machines used to harvest the staple. Machine harvested cotton usually has a higher moisture and trash content than hand-picked cotton and different settings of gin machinery and drying equipment are required for each type. Grouping of the bales on the gin yard according to method of harvesting or moisture content will enable the ginner to do a better ginning job.

In event of fire, call the fire department first, then try to fight the fire.

Thanksgiving 1960 We are Thankful

FOR OUR HARVEST

Seldom in recent years have we had so rich a harvest, enjoyed by so many of our citizens. It is with joy, yet humbleness, that we watch the produce of our rich soil and our labor as it is gathered. In this alone, let us think how much we have to be thankful for.

FOR OUR COUNTRY

There is the priceless tradition of Thanksgiving Day, and the inheritance of courage, Faith and Power that is ours.

FOR OUR CUSTOMERS

Your generous patronage has been ours throughout half a century that we have served this area. No bank could ask for finer support than you have given us.

FOR OUR CHURCHES

They offer us freedom to worship as we desire, under the leadership of strong and devout pastors.

Wellington State Bank

This little farmer will inherit 49 empty tummies!

Grandpa fed 10 people. Dad produces for 25. But our skyrocketing population will force baby Bill to provide 53,655 meals yearly for 49 people. And he'll do it with the help of modern science, farmer know-how, and push-button electrical power.

Today, nearly 1,000 non-profit Rural Electric Systems—owned and operated by local people and financed by REA loans—are bringing better health and a touch of city living to people in rural areas. These same Rural Electric Systems are building lines to help Bill and other future farmers feed 175 million more people by 1995. And they have plans to install bigger transformers, and string heavier lines to fill future rural power needs which are now doubling every five to seven years.

Rural electrification is food insurance for all. Its cost, however, is borne by the people who use it. Already Rural Electric Systems have paid more than $1 billion in principal and interest on their $3½ billion REA loans . . . added proof these locally-owned systems are one of the best investments our Nation ever made.

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Benson

LOOKING AHEAD

New Approach Needed

America today is facing tremendous economic problems. She is approaching her greatest crisis. Millions of American jobs are involved. The balance in foreign trade is involved. A balanced budget is involved. Our ability to continue to pay our high taxes is involved. In fact, the future of the nation is at stake in this grave internal problem. Yet it could be solved with the application of fairness and farsighted judgment within the industrial team—management and labor.

For many years America has been an exporting nation in steel, automobiles, sewing machines, clothing and so forth. In the past 40 years America has probably used more coal, oil, iron and gas than all mankind used in all the previous history of the world. While using these raw materials at this rapid rate America has probably created more liquid wealth than all mankind had created in all previous centuries. During the past decade our nation has created approximately 45% of the world's total wealth.

Our Markets Going

But suddenly America finds herself in tremendous difficulties. For 30 years labor unions have continued to grow and to gain more and more strength, and some labor leaders have become tremendously powerful. Labor unions during this time have been chiefly asking for one thing—higher wages and greater fringe benefits. Industry has worked hard to offset these raises in production costs by improving machinery. Today machines are doing about 95% of all the work done in American industry—but now we seem to have reached a ceiling, and each wage boost pushes up the price of the products, making it harder and harder for our products to compete in the market place.

We find that our American industry today is unable to compete on the world markets in the very areas where we formerly had our greatest strength. We now are importing more steel than we export. We import four automobiles for every one we export. Approximately 80% of the barbed wire used in the nation is now imported. Our stores are stocked with a greater amount of foreign-made men's and women's clothing than American factories are exporting to the rest of the world.

The Right Approach

The problem is getting worse rapidly. Foreign nations are beginning to realize they can invade our markets, all over the world and even right here in our own country. They are going after the business. If American labor and American industry can get together and understand one another and work with genuine cooperation and goodwill, this situation can be overcome. Many people, in good position to understand the facts, are certain that to cope with the situation, these actions are necessary:

1. Wholehearted cooperation between employers and employees.
2. A genuine desire on both sides to eliminate waste, to eliminate featherbedding, to obtain maximum production from existing machinery.

Would Solve Problem

If these two key actions were taken, American industrial productivity, with the present work-force and present hours of work, would probably increase by 20% over a two or three year period. This would mean we could regain home markets and world markets. It would mean we could provide adequate jobs for our American people. It would mean we could maintain the necessary trade balance to stop the exporting of American gold—which has become a very serious danger to our monetary stability. It would mean adequate prosperity to meet our high budget and our high taxes.

When one thinks of the 114-day strike in the steel industry last year, the recent railroad strike in Pennsylvania, one wonders if we are making any progress toward an understanding in this area.

Our steel plants are operating at 50% capacity. Our railroads are in real trouble. We must realize that America belongs to us all and our interests are wrapped up in maintaining our markets and keeping our industries going, and that good understanding between employers and employees is essential to this achievement.

Can we promote the new approach which will seek the general welfare of the whole nation and the productivity essential to maintain our markets thereby benefitting every segment of our population?

Norwood Wins 3 of 4 Games Played

Samnorwood's Eagles and Eaglettes came out victorious in three of the four games played this past week. Norwood downed Clarendon girls 58-36 with Barbara Stembidge leading the way with 24 points. Sandra Webb was high for the Clarendon team with 14 points. Norwood boys whipped the Clarendon Broncos 60-43 after a close first half with the score being tied 29-29. Joel Lowry and Randall Murry were high for Norwood with 18 and 17 points respectively. Talley let Clarendon with 12 points. Samnorwood traveled to Port, Okla., Friday night and split a pair of games with the Oklahoma teams. Norwood lost the girls game in a thriller 39-38. It was the Norwood girls' inability to cash in on free throws that proved to be the major cause of their downfall. Norwood could only hit four of 15 shots from the free throw line. Port returned four starters from the team that was beaten in the finals in the State last year.

Norwood's Eagles had a much easier time of it as they coasted to a 51-32 victory. Bill Bentley led Norwood scoring with 17 points, followed by Joel Lowry's 16.

Samnorwood girls now have a 4-2 record, having beaten Kelton 57-25 and 66-44; Gruver 49-42, and Clarendon 58-36. They dropped games to Hedley 49-40 and the one-pointer to Port 39-38.

GOD'S WORD

Bible Question: Since the secondary meaning of Baptized is to "wash or sprinkle" is sprinkling permissible?

Bible Answer: "We were buried therefore with him through baptism into death." (Rom. 6:4.) "Having been buried with him in baptism." (Col. 2:12.) The Bible pictures baptism as a BURIAL. God has never blessed one who does more or less than he commands.

The secondary meaning of "believe" is to "have an opinion" . . . and a secondary meaning of "saved" is "to be pickled." The result of this would be: "He that hath an opinion and is sprinkled shall be pickled." (Mark 16:16.)

Do You Have House Insects

COLLEGE STATION. — It is next to impossible to observe a home and its surroundings without finding some form of insect life. This is not odd because insects and related species constitute the largest number of animals found in the world.

Some insects feed on fabrics, contaminate food, attack dwellings, bite humans, carry diseases, cause secondary infections and make themselves generally obnoxious. On the other hand, some insects are very beneficial to mankind. But, generally, the control of insects in and around the household is a very real problem, says C. F. Garner, extension entomologist.

Certain pests may be found and controlled outside but some live entirely within the home.

The only way to control these house-dwellers is to apply insecticides, either sprays or dusts, inside the home, Garner continues. Fumigation is seldom necessary, but in case it is, the homeowner should rely on a professional exterminator.

Chemical control should be supplemented with sanitation and good housekeeping, if it is to do its job properly. Insects live in cracks, under bits of wood and other debris, in the walls and beneath the floors of homes, and in almost any dark, quiet place. Hiding places such as these should be cleaned, but even the most spotless homes may occasionally become infested.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has prepared a leaflet, L-311 "Texas Guide for Controlling Household Insects" which contains the latest recommended controls for 24 pests and a section on insecticidal formulation and one on equipment needed for application. A copy of this guide may be obtained from the county agent.

Final Heartbreaker

Rockets Tumble to Bobcats 13 to 8

By Eli Wolf
(Delayed)

Football fans were treated to some of the best defensive work this season as the Rockets played their final game of the year against the Childress Bobcats, going down in defeat, 13 to 8.

There were some outstanding plays on both sides, but very little spectacular ground-gaining. Both of the Childress touchdowns came in the first half, and both off the arm of Jerry Harmon, the Bobcat quarterback. Seven minutes deep in the first quarter, Keith Fanning took the pass from Harmon for the first tally from the 10-yard line. With 23 seconds left in the second quarter, Fanning took another Harmon toss from the 9-yard line. The half ended with the score 13 to 0.

The third quarter saw no scoring. In the fourth quarter Mauldin passed to Daves to place the ball on the 17-yard line, from where Burl Lowe crashed through right tackle for the only Rocket tally.

Deep in the fourth period, Jackie Daves took an attempted field goal try all the way downfield in a brilliant run that carried all the way to the Bobcat 8-yard line. The Rockets failed to penetrate the Childress line and the threat died. This ended the season for both teams.

Starters for the Childress team were Wilson, Beal, Kelley, Naron, Harmon, Kindie, Hopkins, Rich, Havens, Shries, Norman, King and Fanning.

Starting for the Rockets were Lacy, Mauldin, Holliman, Cleveland, Daves, Watkins, Killian, Forbis, Estes, Rudy, Brown, Hatch and Coburn.

Although the Skyrockets got off to an unusually slow start in the season, they gradually began to pick up in tempo and at the last were providing the fans with many thrills. They are losing ten seniors this year but with thirteen regulars back on the 1961 roster, plus some boys moving up from the lower grades, the Rockets are expected to suit out next year with lots of power, both in the backfield and line. They will also benefit greatly from added pounds and experience.

New Terracing Rig Announced

A small Kansas manufacturer has joined with a major equipment distributor in a plan to market its terracing machine—the Model D-911 Multi-Grader.

William H. Tucker, general manager of Tumaco Equipment Co. of Marion, Kan., which produces the Multi-Grader, has authorized Plains Machinery Co., distributor, through its sales outlets in Amarillo, Abilene, Lubbock and Odessa to market the machine.

"This unit—tractor and terracer—costs half as much as other machines often used for terracing, yet it does the job twice as fast," according to Ward M. Harrell, sales manager for Plains.

Tucker, a former rancher and cattle feeder, has been in the business of building terracing equipment since 1949.

The Multi-Grader constructs all types of terraces from one side—the upside only—which results in a wide, flat channel and gently sloping backslope to the ridge. This makes the terracing more acceptable for farming.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

A dead litter cover in which to seed native grasses is an important step in the establishment of permanent grasses, such as switch grass, blue-stem and the grama grasses.

Such crops as cane, sudan, and millet are used for this dead litter crop. It is normally seeded in the summer, mowed before it produces heads, and allowed to stand through the drilling of the grasses. This prevents soil blowing, provides shading for the seedlings and gives a firmer seedbed.

Some cooperators of the Salt Fork Soil Conservation district who have established dead litter cover this year for grass seeding next spring are H. J. P. Field, P. E. Starr, Monty Mitchell, Milt Williams, Frank Coleman and Fred Bourland.

Terrace construction has begun on several farms in the Salt Fork SCD. C. E. Pitts has enlarged some terraces. Dennis Lacy also has started enlarging his terraces. Some 25 to 30 other farmers have expressed a desire to build new terraces, rebuild old terraces or enlarge old terraces as soon as they gather their cotton.

Those cooperators desiring to stock their livestock ponds with fish should make their applications now. The necessary forms are available either at

Justice Agent Visits City

Paddock W. Ferguson of Fortuna, N. D., was among the relatives here for the funeral of Tom Ferguson. The men were twin brothers.

Mr. Ferguson is an investigator with the Department of Justice dealing largely with resident aliens and subversive groups. His territory is a large area near the Canadian border.

Before going to North Dakota, he was assigned to New York City in liaison work between the New York police and the Justice Department, primarily in narcotics investigations. In this, he explained, he worked with all levels of people, from the Bowery to some of the nation's most prominent families.

For one year, however, he checked identification of entertainers coming into the United States from other nations to work, and recommended or withheld recommendations for identification cards. In this, he met some of the world's top talent in that field.

Not all of his work is the apprehension of those who would undermine the nation or who run afoul of the law. Much of it concerns nationals of other countries who come here to work or to visit for extended periods.
