THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER

A recent bulletin of the American Publishers Association carries word of the newspaper advertising views of Safeway Stores, Inc., a large Western food chain. These views could be profitably emulated by industry and commerce in general.

In brief, the Safeway company believes that newspapers of regular publication, large and small, perform an important public service, and that advertising revenue is essential to keeping the price charged the subscriber, low enough to bring the paper within financial reach of every possible family.

The company believes that when the so-called free circulation newspaper attempts to lure advertisers, using a lower rate as bait, "it is the beginning of a vicious circle—first, depleting the established publication; next, through bankruptcy, depriving the community of such news service; encouraging the free distribution paper into becoming a paid circulation and news distributing publication, followed by additional free circulation papers and thus completing the cycle."

Finally, the Safeway company instructs its division managers to avoid using handbills and free distribution papers except when absolutely necessary, and then to use the job shops of local regular newspapers where possible.

Here is a logical and progressive policy. The local newspaper fills a vital place in the American scene. It is more than a business—it is a record of the times in which we live. Through news and comment it brings to its readers knowledge of what is going on at home—as well as what is going on in the far flung capitals of the world. Measured by the rigid yardstick of dollars-and-cents alone, the newspaper advertiser gets his full money's worth—and at the same time makes possible the existence of an irreplaceable institution.

HOW LONG IS AN INCH?

Probably it is not of world-shaking importance from a practical, everyday point of view, but it does seem that Congress might do something about the length of an inch.

In the last session a bill was introduced to establish the legal length of the inch as the same as the British inch, which is four-millionths longer than ours. In nine million yards of goods that would make a difference of a yard between English measurements and ours, but what are a few millionths between two great nations?

The status of the inch today is a good deal like the width of a window which a green workman was asked to measure. The boss handed him a two-foot rule. The man reported that the window was as long as the rule and a half a brick and the length of his thumb over.

There is a law on the statute books of the United States which defines the length of the world-wide unit of measurement, the meter, in terms of inches, but it doesn't say how long an inch is. Working backward from the legal definition of the meter, it comes out that an inch is .025349905 meters and then some. You can carry the division to infinity and you never will come to an exact numeral.

It would be difficult to make a political issue out of the exact length of the inch, because nobody cares, much, except physicists and other scientific highbrows, and they haven't enough votes to count.

Indeed, most Congressmen doubt whether scientists ever vote, and few of them know much about science anyway. Nobody else has the power to define the inch, however, and some lover of truth might find a way to persuade Congress that even such a trifling thing ought to receive attention from that august body.

AN EDUCATIONAL NEED

A common criticism of the public schools is that they do not teach pupils to read and speak the English language correctly. Insofar as that is true, it is partly due to the fact so many children come from homes where the correct use of words is not understood or observed, and they find it difficult to learn a new way of speaking.

Children are especially sensitive to the accusation of being "stuck up" with which they are often met by their familiar out-of-school associates when they pronounce words differently from the common usage of their environments, or use the correct word among people who consistently use the word wrong.

Now the same charge is being made against great universities, notably Harvard and Trinity, that they do not turn out graduates proficient enough to read and write their mother-tongue correctly.

This is a serious matter, especially for those who have to make their own way in the world. As between two candidates for a job or for promotion, the choice will always go to the one who speaks better English, all else being equal.

Too many youngsters of both sexes get through their school years still addicted to such misuses of language as the classic example: "If I had of knew what I'd ought to have knowed I'd never of did what I done."

The early schools gave first attention to the "Three R's"—Reading, 'Ritin and 'Rithmetic." The schoolmasters of those older days recognized that a child who went forth into the world solidly grounded in those elements of education carried with him the keys with which to unlock every other door of knowledge through which he might seek to enter.

Two widespread influences are at work today to improve the language of the masses of the people. They are the talking pictures and the radio. But any lasting knowledge of the elements of education must begin in the lowest grades of the schools.

A SENSELESS BILL

Branding the proposed optometry law as class legislation and discriminatory against Texas business, many retail merchants, jewelers and optometrists through the state are planning to fight the measure to a finish.

The bill regulating optometrists has been introduced both in the Senate and the House of Representatives. Opponents of the bill claim that powerful interests, some of them from out of state, are trying to lobby the bill through in a hurry.

In effect, the bill would put Texas optometrists under a board which is a virtual dictatorship. The board would have no accountability for its collected fees—and the present license fees on optometrists are doubled by its provisions—but can spend such money in any way they may desire. The board would be given absolute power over optometrists and can deprive any optometrist of his license to practice without any further or higher appeal. The board alone determines who can make a living as an optometrist in Texas. The provisions of the law, so its opponents claim, will put many optometrists out of business in the smaller communities of the state and greatly limit and handicap the following of this profession in the larger cities.

No optometrist is allowed to advertise or to announce any credit rates for the provision of eyeglasses. Newspapers, neon signs, optometrists displays in store windows, radio, bill boards and all other mediums of advertising for optometrists are wiped off the map by this stringent statute. Poor people will not be able to pay for spectacles on terms unless specially arranged for with members of the selected group who will profit by this legislation. Many members of both houses in which the bill is pending will oppose it as being in restraint of trade.

Pot Shots

With the basket ball and volley ball tournament over for another year the Burk boys can start thinking about track, and spring football again. According to Coach Hill, the track and field organizations will be better this year than ever, if things shape up as intended.

Lady Luck forgot Burk in the recent tournament and both the boys and girls met defeat. The girls lost their first round of play to Electra and the boys lost their second match play to Iowa Park.

Valley View upset the dope when they defeated the Fairview girls in the finals Saturday night. Playing the first game tight, they came back in the second game to completely put Fairview in the shade by dealing them a 15 to 5 trouncing.

Iowa Park looked bad in their final game with the Fairview boys because they could not pass the ball, nor could they shoot when they had the way clear for them to do so.

Valley View and Fairview will meet again to determine the championship of the volley ball division. Valley View has stopped the Fairview girls every time they have met and if they play like they did Saturday nite it will be victory for Valley View again.

Don't get me wrong, though, Fairview has a fighting bunch of gals on the court at all times and they may surprise everyone present by trouncing the Valley View girls good and proper—of course, that remains to be seen.

The thriller of the whole meet was when Burk and Iowa Park tangled on the basket ball court. The game was the closest game of the entire tournament. Until the final whistle the fans were kept in an uproar because of the score staying close between both teams. Burk held the lead until the closing minutes of the game when Iowa Park took a three point lead and held it for the remainder of the game. Tough luck Burk, you played a bang up game and everyone can say, with truth, that both the girls and boys gave all they had for the sake of the game and the school.

Congratulations, Fairview. You came, you played and you conquered. You now hold the basket ball title for this county and everyone knows you deserve it.

The tennis boys and girls are limbering up their muscles on the local courts again. The match play isn't far off and tennis plays an important part in the tournament grand total for the county.

Wichita and Archer County champs in basket ball will play a two game series starting tonight (Thursday) to see which one can remain at the top of the ladder. Fairview, champs of Wichita county, and Holliday, the champs of Archer county, are the two teams. The first game will be played at Fairview and the second one at Holliday later.

The play-ground ball for boys and girls is getting under way with lots of practice in view for the players.

Baseball is the best form of game for those who are not heavy enough for football, and baseball, playing it when young, develops the boys and girls into the learning of better sportsmanship.

Texas Tech is having some trouble about their Sunday game next season in California with the St. Mary's team.

California goes strong on Sunday games and the game was booked for Sunday much to the disapproval of the Tech board. The last action taken on this subject is that they are trying to get the game changed—which I am sure will be done.

Burkburnett is trying hard to get a well rounded athletic system. The interest here lies mostly in football and if they can get more interest started toward the sport that is in season it will not only help the school but also the players that take part in the events.

Vernon is still going strong in the Wilbarger county district. They have a basket ball team that shows up as one of the best teams in the country. They will go far in the race if they can stand the pressure that is being put on them now.

Fire Dept. Was Present For Drill Hardin School

In line with the plans adopted by the local Fire Department for an intensive, year's Fire Prevention Campaign, members of the department attended a fire drill at the Hardin Grade school Friday afternoon, Feb. 3rd.

The department was very much impressed with the calm efficiency with which the whole drill was conducted. The 633 children and 18 teachers cleared the building in exactly 58 seconds. The primary pupils were out of the building in 18 seconds from the time the fire signal rang.

These drills are held periodically and students and teachers have no advance knowledge whatsoever of them. But that all have received detailed and perfectly observed instructions was evidenced by the manner in which the children moved out of the building calmly, without hurry and confusion, but with no time wasted and the fact that teachers closed class room doors after the children had left, thus observing one of the most important factors in fire fighting; the prevention of its spreading. This practice also helps to keep pupils from going back in the building in case of fire.

And here is a very important feature that the Fire Department wishes to impress on every citizen: Do not, under any circumstances, reenter a burning building once you are out, or try to enter one in an effort to salvage clothing or any other possession.

Your Fire Department is trained to do this work and your co-operation and trust in them will eliminate much loss. It is important that everyone realize that these men are trained fire fighters; not amateurs. They have spent months studying methods of fire fighting and are trained in the proper use of ventilation and elimination of water damage.

The department plans to make an inspection of every business

Burkburnett History

As revealed by the files of The Star 10 years ago.

The Weather, By Hawkeye
The folks out here are just about snowed under, as this neck of the woods has received three snows. The LeBarre brothers, Clarence and Ed, report that the snow had drifted so high on the way back from the big oil city, Burkburnett, last Saturday, that it was nearly impassable.

The body of Arthur Pendergraft, Oklahoma farmer, reported missing last week, was found with a bullet wound in his head in a clump of bushes on a ranch at the head of Lake Wichita, Saturday afternoon. D. J. Hoobler was charged with murder after leading officers to the body. He had been an employee of Pendergraft for 11 years.

The Board of Education in session Thursday night of last week re-elected Butler Westerfield superintendent of the Burkburnett public schools; C. J. Duncan, principal of the High school, and H. Lee Clifton, principal of the grade schools, were also re-elected.

Postmaster N. R. Vaught is back on the job after being out for a few days due to illness.

The P-T A celebrated Founder's Day at their last meeting with an impressive candle lighting ceremony. Some of the girls who took part in the ceremony were: Margaret and Marian Boden, Edna Cropper, Letha Faye Minick, Wynona Owens, Loreta Stacy and Helen Gloger.

G. W. Counter, Sr., of this city has just received notice of his appointment as an authorized Silver-Marshall Service Station for the building and installation of S-M radio sets.

"Law of Fair Play" Practiced By Grade School Students

While visiting in one of the rooms in our elementary school we found the following "Law of Fair Play" written on the board:

1. I will not cheat. I will keep the rules.
2. I will play the game for the fun of the game and will win or lose through fairness.
3. I will be friendly and courteous to my opponents.
4. I will play, not for my own glory, but for the success of the group or the team that I am playing with.
5. If I do not win, I will always try to be a good loser.

In another room some of the following safety rules were prepared by the pupils and placed on the board:

1. Play fair—remember the other fellow has rights, too.
2. Look where you are going.
3. Remember, the boy or girl who does not interfere with the rights of others is a good sport.

4. Help those smaller than you.
5. Keep playgrounds and buildings free from rubbish and trash.
6. Report broken equipment.
7. Observe traffic rules already learned.
8. Play quick games.
9. Play the kind of games enjoyed by the majority of the group.
10. Play games that can be played safely on the school grounds.
11. Rest—but do not sit in drafts while resting.

Students Approve President's Plan For Air Reserves

College students of America thoroughly approve President Roosevelt's plan to put wings on 20,000 collegiates as part of his $500,000,000 national defense program, the current poll of Student Opinion Surveys revealed today.

Results from 82 colleges, measured from the University of Texas, showed that only three out of every ten college students opposed the program which would spend $10,000,000 for training of young aviators at aerially-strategic campuses over the nation.

As a trial balloon, aviation would become a vital part of the training for 300 volunteers in the universities of Washington, Alabama, Minnesota, and at Purdue University, Texas Agricultural & Mechanical College, Georgia School of Technology, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. If successful, the program would be expanded to include other colleges and universities, it was pointed out.

The course would provide six months training in solo and dual flying calculated to build a reserve of 100,000 American pilots with fifty or more flying hours, the surveys stated.

Collegians voted 71.8 to 28.2 per cent to "approve President Roosevelt's plan to train an air reserve corps of 20,000 men now in college."

In an earlier poll, the college students voted 62 per cent to 38 per cent in favor of the President's huge rearmament program.

THE DOCTOR Tells the Story

by W.E. AUGHINBAUGH MD

Hospitals
The first hospital ever built and conducted for the benefit of sick men and women was erected in the Island of Ceylon, in the year 161 B. C. Later on a pious man in Ceylon, named Duttha Gamani built and maintained during his life eighteen similar institutions where "those sick of body and soul might come for comfort and medicine prepared by physicians."

Later a Persian King sent his personal physician to Ceylon and to India to study hospitals and the treatment of the ill. When this man returned, he brought with him the game known as chess, which originated in India, and which, strange to say, was always used in the treatment of certain types of nervousness.

Indeed, the Hindus were the first physicians to practice plastic surgery and the surgeon of the days before Christ employed approximately 200 instruments for the performance of operations. A Buddhist King named Asoka, erected hospitals not only for human beings, but also for animals and birds.

Gradually the erection of hospitals for the caring of the sick extended into Turkey, Greece and Rome, Turkey becoming famous for its numerous well-equipped, sanitary hospitals with running water for baths and toilets.

Prior to the building of these houses for the diseased, it was the custom to kill those whom it was thought impossible to cure. Later, as Europe progressed and more hospitals were built, it was difficult to get physicians to practice in them, and the caretakers were forced to do whatever they could for the inmates. A hospital specially built for the care of the sick, equipped with beds and attending physicians and surgeons, was formally opened and in 500 A. D., the City of Lyons, France, did the same thing.

Charlemagne became active in relieving the sick and distressed and when he issued a permit to build a convent or a monastery, made it obligatory on the order erecting the same, to support and provide medical care for the poor, the infirm and the stranger. In imitation of Charlemagne's generosity, the wealthy, as an act of piety, made donations to these institutions and erected many similar ones throughout Europe.

The Mohammedans, not to be outdone by their Christian neighbors, opened what at that time was the greatest and most perfect hospital in the world, at Constantinople.

As the Renaissance advanced all the states of Europe constructed hospitals, Italy leading, followed closely by Germany. Venice established the first hospital devoted to the treatment of contagious diseases exclusively.

TODAY and TOMORROW

Help—Comradeship
One of the things which makes this newspaper business that I have been following for half a century so fascinating is the friendships one makes among other members of the craft. There is something real and enduring in the comradeship which makes all of us ready to help out a fellow-worker in time of need.

I happened to be within earshot when Mrs. Lawrence W. Robert, Jr., called for help a few days ago. Mrs. Robert is the wife of a distinguished engineer, who is also a prominent political figure in Washington. In her own right, however, she is a newspaper woman, whose daily column, "Eve's Rib" appears in the Washington Times and other papers.

"Eve," as all Washington calls her, is going to have a baby soon. How to keep her daily column going while she's in the hospital is a problem which she solved by calling on her newspaper friends to pinch-hit for her. We all responded, and this week I'm going to pass on the column I wrote for Evie Robert.

Washington—Changes
Coming back to Washington to live, after nearly fifty years of rambling around the world with only occasional excursions back to the city which was my home town from the time I was ten, I have been trying to find out whether there have been any real changes.

Except that there are more people, more handsome public buildings and better pavements, I haven't found any important changes at all. The spirit of Washington is the same as it was when I first knew it in the 80's.

The people of Washington are still divided into different social camps which mostly have nothing to do with each other. Those are the permanent Federal employees of Civil Service status, the temporary social set of official higher-ups which changes whenever the other party gets in to power, and the permanent residents who make their living by feeding, clothing, housing and entertaining the folk on the Government's payroll.

That class, the real Washingtonians, and their outlook on the shifting political scene, haven't changed a bit in the nearly sixty years that I've known them.

Politics—Parties
These real Washingtonians have never been greatly concerned about the political complexion of the Administration in power. They are used to all kinds, and would as soon shake hands with a Republican as a Democrat.

There was a great deal of curiosity, I recall, as to what sort of people Democrats were, when Mr. Cleveland first came to the White House in 1885, after 25 years of Republican rule. It did not take long for Washington folk to discover that Democrats were as human as Republicans, even if the newcomers did have different table manners.

Among the old friends of the District, whose forebears were of Maryland and Virginia pioneer stock, I think there has always been a more friendly feeling toward Democrats, by reason of the traditional Southern dominance of that party.

Now, after six years of one-party domination, the new Republican members of Congress are almost as strange beings as were the Democrats who came in with Cleveland. Some Washingtonians are still waiting to be convinced that Republicans are human.

Gossip—Malicious
In one aspect Washington has definitely not changed in the memory of living men. It is still the hottest hotbed of gossip in America, most of it malicious.

Newcomers to Washington are frequently appalled by the tales they hear, told as gospel truth, about the morals and conduct of officialdom, from the White House family down.

Most of such gossip is discounted about 100 per cent by those who have known Washington through a dozen administrations. People told the same stories, or worse, about every President from Washington down. If one is the sort of person who lends a ready ear to scandal, you can hear any sort of slander you want to hear, about the President or any member of the Administration or Congress.

Since I came back to Washington last Fall I've heard the identical scandals, dressed up in modern verbiage, about the people now in high places, that I used to hear half a century ago about their predecessors.

I don't believe them now any more than I did then. Having had, in one degree or another, some personal acquaintance with every President since Grant, I don't believe any of them could have got to the White House if he had been the kind of person the gossip-mongers would make him appear.

Indians—Pedigrees
Reading Indian Commissioner John Collier's report of the prosperity and progress of those wards of the nation, I began to wonder why none of those aboriginal Americans had ever got to the White House.

We have had English, Dutch, Irish, Scottish, Welsh and German-Swiss Presidents, but no Indian. Unless, of course, some of them had an unknown or undisclosed Indian strain, which might well be true of almost any of the early Colonial stock.

President Pierce's brother John married a French-and-Indian quarter-breed, Josette La Framboise; but the nearest White House any man Indian blood ever got to was President Charles Curtis. President Wilson married a descendant of Pocahontas.

That seems to place Washington's social ladder among the first ladies of the first American pedigree.

"All those who go to heaven," said the school teacher, "please hands."

All did except one. "Why, Johnny," exclaimed the teacher, "wouldn't you go to heaven?"

"Now," said Johnny, "that bunch is going!"

A calf that is being beef will drink from gallons of water a day that plenty of clean, is available at all times.

Shelterbelts Of Great Plains To Cover 7,000 Miles

Wichita Falls, Texas, Feb. 14—Over 7,000 miles of shelterbelt have been planted on over 13,500 farms in the prairie plains region since 1935, according to the latest advice from F. A. Silcox, Chief of the Forest Service. The job of shelterbelt planting, which extends from North Dakota, south through South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and north-west Texas, is yet far from completed. The program for 1939 alone calls for 600 miles of planting in Texas.

The Prairie States Forestry Project has planted approximately 1150 miles in northwest Texas to date. Planting is now underway in Wilbarger, Foard, Harde-man, Cottle, Motley, Hall, Don-ley, Gray and Wheeler Counties. When this year's planting is com-pleted, approximately 1750 miles will have been completed in Texas. Few people realize the extent of the shelterbelt plantings, which are concentrated as much as pos-sible in definite areas so as to obtain the maximum good to the rural communities.

Although individual applica-tions for one-half or one mile tree belts are being accepted for further examination before final approval, the Forest Service is having its men make determined efforts to group the belts. Indi-vidual belts help the individual farm, but a concentration of belts is more desirable. Individual tree belts are not as effective in pro-viding the protection that can be had from a large concentration of belts spread across country. For that reason, the Forest Service is stressing the added value to crops, soil protection from wind erosion, protection to stock and farm homes, and to the community at large.

Over the past four years, effec-tive concentrations of shelter-belts have been planted around Turkey with over 200 miles of belts; north and west of Paducah over 100 miles; east and west of Shamrock over 200 miles; about 160 miles around Quannah and Vernon, and several hundred miles of concentrated plantings in other communities.

Although shelterbelt operations have been underway only a few years, results are becoming evi-dent on a good many 1936 and 1937 belts, which have reached heights of 12 to 20 feet. An actual study showed increased yield and better grades of cotton within the zone of influence of shelterbelts which have only seen their third growing season. Last year, corn stayed greener in fields protected by 1936 shelterbelts than in ad-joining fields where no protection exists. This zone of influence ex-tends for about twenty times the height of the trees to the leeward of the belts.

State Director W. E. Webb of the Texas Prairie States Forestry Project recently stated that a greater number of applications for shelterbelts are being receiv-ed in those communities where 1936 and 1937 belts are proving their effectiveness.

Memories

By Mrs. H. J. Brown
Our nation was once known as the land of the free and the home of the brave. But since the begin-ning of the World War in 1914, millions of people continue to suffer daily.

No one was on charity before the World War and people had plenty to eat and live on; but when they heard about relief, they heard it under pressure. Over half of our nation is broke. No more can a poor man be trusted. He is relieved of his money, he is relieved of his farm, he is relieved of his stock and taxes that strip his pockets bare. No use to howl. There will be no pork or beef to buy for he has lost his last dollar. He is tickled over a hand-out; it helps to dull his grief.

All these conditions are very unpleasant for the laboring man, for he is robbed of his liberty. He has lost all hope; this makes the working class slaves. The working class has long been bow-ed down to the grafter's yoke.

The stock raisers, the farmers and all laborers work early and late and receive practically no-thing for their labor. The time used to be in our land when peo-ple felt free to till their land and lie down at night in peace and happiness, but it is different now; they are distressed and living in constant fear.

Ever since the World War, sor-ow has been upon the earth and there has been a time of trouble ever since. And now all nations are preparing for war. Our coun-try does not want war for it is a rich man's war and a poor man's fight. Millions of young men went into the World War to defend our country, strong and brave heroes, and more than one hundred thousand were slaugh-tered. The ones that did return had no means of support and are still suffering from the effects of it.

What our country wants is peace and prosperity where ev-ery honest toiler may have a home, when wars shall cease and peace has come, and to raise ev-erything that will grow to feed and support our people on and not depend on other nations to feed and clothe us. We ought to build our own factories and give the unemployed jobs of justice and keep those war horrors, sor-rows, burdens and starvation out of our land.

But the grafters will say we must try to use our bluff, some way, for the Texas people have been the goat long enough. They will say, "What must we do to square ourselves with the people who put us through, for we live in splendor swell. Now, we de-cided to use this excuse, for the Texas people are sure to do any-thing when called on with just two smiles, a nod, or boo-ha-ha. What other information can we wish?" But, "Never, never," the people say, "will we forget elec-tion day? We are not armed with rifles, but ballots in our hands. We'll cast our votes for justice to every working man and for the wealth they produce to stay within their till. The time will soon be here when truth and right shall win."

Then there's the fellow who mapped out a transcontinental tour without hitting a single ex-position.

How Does Your Garden Grow?

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

time to start a spring garden is last fall, but too late. Some soils several plowings or more for nature to aerating, pulveriz-ing. If this was not fall plowing and fer-tilizer can still be done, but labor. A poor seed bed with the ordinary cost of loss of stands but it is inexcusable. In either case good before planting is the most economical.

early vegetables it will serve as a cold frame to grow early plants for the open garden when all dan-ger of frost is over. Where wind, and sun are most severe, as in Western Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma, a half-shade cover made of plaster laths spaced one or two inches apart is advisable. Sub-irrigation for gardens has long been in successful use in the Southwest, and directions for in-stalling lath pipes or tile may be had from county agents. This winter is a good time to lay out such an underground system as an insurance for a good spring and summer garden, larger than the frame garden. Sub-irrigation uses less water and does not en-courage weed growth and bak-ing of the surface soil as rain and sprinkling do.

There are sites on most farms where the run-off water from other ground may be turned onto a garden for the vegetables which require considerable space. Fred Kveton of the South Plains plants his Irish potatoes, corn, melons, main crop beans, peas, etc., in regular cultivator-width rows and waters an acre or two by col-lecting the run-off from several acres of pasture on the garden plot. It thus gets two or three times as much water as falls di-rectly on the garden, the flow be-ing distributed by a system of "syrup-pan" terraces carefully laid out by the farm level in-strument.

There is a way to have a gar-den in every soil and under ev-ery climate in the Southwest, and its value in contributing to a wholesome diet, besides the mon-ey value, is incalculable. A few cents' worth of seed multiplies a thousand-fold in skillful hands.

Legume hays are high in pro-tein and minerals and therefore the amount of protein supple-ments may be cut down where leg-umes are fed as roughages in fattening beef calves.

1st and 2nd Grade News
Our Rhythm Band will play on the P-T A program Monday night.

We are sorry Ralph Cozby is still ill.

3rd and 4th Grade News
We gave each other Valentines in our school room. Instead of having a Valentine Box, we mailed our Valentines to each other in our room postoffice.

Roy Morris has been sick for two weeks. We miss him at school very much.

5th and 6th Grade News
We will have our Valentine party tomorrow.

The boys and girls will play each other in playground ball one day this week. The boys won over the girls one day last week.

Twelve boys and girls in our room are entering declamation contest.

7th Grade News
Nearly all of the 7th graders are going out for Interscholastic League math.

Freshman News
The Freshman class has enjoyed just the same as others. The most recent happening was when the teacher asked a student if he thought a skunk was handsome. The astonishing answer was that "I think that handsome is as handsome does."

Sophomores
In the Class Ball games the Sophs seem to be almost entirely victorious. This is just one more proof that the Sophs have a lot of vigor and vim and that they are at least one of the most athletic classes in the Clara High school.

Junior News
The Juniors are looking forward to an evening of entertainment sponsored by Miss Nora Miller, a member of our class, February 17th.

We hope this will be an evening of fun and enjoyment.

Senior News
Basket ball queen, popularity races and volley ball is no more for the patrons of dear old Clara High. Our annual High school tournament in these activities was staged in the gym last Thursday and Friday nights—and did we come out on top? Well, nearly. To take the place of those feats which have come and gone, however, we have more things on which to work. They are namely: track, tennis, and good ole Civics work books.

P-T A News
Clara P-T A was well represented at the County Council in Burkburnett last week. Clara not only won the attendance banner but received the award on the best report.

The Trailer
Well, now it looks as if a new romance is starting between Ruby Nelle Jackson and Robert Beavers.

Johnnie let Nora wave at you next time first so she will have time to recognize you.

Say Johnnie, why were you and Paul not at the party Saturday night? Oh, that Maxine Gilbow and Irene Hayes?

John Osborne, why is it that you always put Bonnie Lee on the outside while sitting in the east balcony? Are you afraid?

Gee, Dorothy Schroeder, you and Ruby Nelle McClure may be sisters after all. You know Dick and George?

Say, Vivian Marten, was that Dudley Frazier really winking at you Thursday night?

Well, Marilyn, who wanted to take you home from the ball game Friday night? We wonder.

Well, Ima Gene, I guess we will have to have the balconies cleared all time because it seems that you can serve those balls better, Reckon why?

It is getting strong when Connie Watson asks Oscar Loveless if he will go with her to a party Friday night or is it that she hasn't got a way?

Eugene Schroeder what is this we hear about Bobbie Hill, keeping your tennis racket?

Jack Peed, can't you find anybody else besides Othelia Loveless to play tennis and go bicycle riding with you?

Dick, why is it that every time you pass Dorothy Schroeder's desk you always grin and wink at her? She is stuck on Rex Anderson.

Hubert Butts still is trying to get Marjorie for his girl.

Vivian Marten is Willie Meek a good boy to go with?

Dick Grozier, the looks of things you and Dorothy are liking each other very much. Watch out Oscar Goetze.

Marilyn, how are you and Harry Marten getting along?

Bonnie Lee, who's red pick-up was that we saw you in Sunday? It could have been John's, we think Oscar Goetze, how come you always like to stay around Frances Frazier?

Paul Sansom, you and that Virginia Giffard must be getting up a case from Saturday and Sunday nights.
Oscar Loveless, who was that you were playing hands with Friday night. Could it have been Connie?

American Boy Magazine Companion To Thousands

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read The American Boy Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than a magazine.

"It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our school basketball team because of playing tips I read in The American Boy."

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Boy sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance direct to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan. 28-2tp
