NET CLOSES ON LINGLE MURDER SUSPECT

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

The hardest job we can imagine is that of the Republican congressional candidate who faces the necessity of talking to an audience of farmers about farm relief. In such a situation this Talker would try to switch the subject to prohibition and the London naval treaty.

And here in Texas the candidates who have been in politics for a quarter of a century or more are not finding it easy to get away with the old line of palaver. The voters of Texas are a good deal like Judge Carrigan about judicial reform. Judge Carrigan says it's not reform he wants but change. The voters are tired of the old buncomb and want change. That is one of the reasons why the candidacies of Clint Small and R. S. Sterling are gaining ground—both are comparatively new to politics and neither is promising reform so much as change.

It is estimated that there are 7,785 candidates running for nomination in the Democratic primaries in Texas to say nothing of Republican candidates. Hardeman county leads this section of the state in the number of candidates, the voter in the Democratic primary there having 109 names to scan in picking his choice.

There's many a candidate draining his purse and straining his nerves in the contests this year. Merely to hold the primary—that is to print the ballots and pay the election officials—will cost more than $3,000 in Wichita county and the individual expenses of the candidates will be several times this amount. All this effort and expense goes along with Democratic government, and it's worth it.

For every candidate who wins there will be several defeated, but the loss is not total to those who are defeated. Usually there is compensation for the defeated candidate in the new acquaintances formed and in the new experiences gained and it has sometimes happened that a candidate has been much better off in defeat than he would have been in victory.

The vendors of fireworks have little mercy on pater families. They display their wares 10 days before the Fourth of July and make it impossible for the family to ride in peace even after a surrender in the matter of ice cream cones. Is it better to surrender at once or to hold out until July 3? That is the insistent question of the hour.

Deaths from drownings and from automobile accidents will turn sharply upwards as the American people take to the highways and the rivers and lakes with the season. Medical science makes progress against communicable diseases to see a good part of the record gained wiped out by accidental deaths, especially deaths from automobiles. Danger can never be entirely eliminated from auto travel or from fishing, swimming or boating. But it can be greatly minimized by the observance of care and precaution. Life ought to be too dear and sacred to be risked carelessly and wantonly by anybody.

Democrats now out of the county or who will be out of the county on primary day may vote absentee ballots. These ballots may be voted by persons now out of the county and intending to remain until after the primary during the period from 20 to 10 days before the date of the primary and may be voted by those intending to leave the county before the primary on and after next Monday, July 7. Application should be made to the county clerk.

The Wichita Falls Boys club hears songs by George Taylor and a talk on David and Goliath. Al Beidenharn sent over a case of soda pop. There's a hint for Sunday school superintendents who are having trouble keeping up attendance these hot Sundays.

A Wichita Falls building and loan association publishes an announcement of its semi-annual dividend of 3¼ per cent and extends an invitation to the public to participate in its earnings for the new half year. The building and loan associations are making it easy to invest in their certificates and shares. Every dollar invested with a Wichita Falls building and loan association is loaned in Wichita Falls or in some other community in West Texas. It is not only a good investment but it helps the community. If you have some money that isn't working look up that advertisement and put it to work. The more money we can have working in the community the better off all of us will be.

Brother-in-Law Charged In Slaying at Hobbs

HOBBS, N. M., June 30. (AP)—J. H. (Whitie) Sexton, formerly of Borger, Texas, was shot to death here Sunday and his brother-in-law, Norman Brinnistool, was charged with the shooting. It was said trouble started when Sexton was accused of beating his wife. Sexton came here a short time ago from Carlsbad, where he had been held in jail on a charge of disorderly conduct.

SoftWater Bond Issue Asked Of Council

$150,000 FUND WOULD GUARD CITY SUPPLY

C. H. Clark Submits New Proposal to Board Of Aldermen

VOTE ON PLAN URGED

Douglass Approves Plan Of Protecting Supply At Lake Wichita

Intimation that a bond issue of approximately $150,000 may be called during the summer for the purpose of softening city water from Lake Wichita was given Monday night by the city council, when the aldermen listened favorably to a proposal made by C. H. Clark, member of the chamber of commerce water committee, president of the board of irrigation district No. 2, and for the past several years actively identified with water problems in this vicinity.

Mr. Clark's proposition, outlined in brief for the council, included the building of a huge ditch by which the salt water now flowing in great quantities into Lake Wichita could be cut around the lake, leaving the soft water for the city water supply. A dyke which would protect the land around the lake and at the same time provide drainage for that land, and large conduits for the purpose of eliminating flood danger were also included in the plan.

Source of Hard Water

Drainage from the numerous salt wells above the lake is largely responsible for the hard water used in the city, Mr. Clark said, and the elimination of this salt water from the suuply in the lake would insure a much better grade of water for city use. At the present time 2,000,000,000 gallons are being used annually out of Lake Wichita for irrigation purposes alone, with only half that amount used for the city water supply.

A supplementary idea advanced by Mr. Clark proposed a connection of the Lake Kemp and Lake Wichita irrigation systems in such a way as to make possible the discontinuance of irrigation out of Lake Wichita. This project, according to Mr. Clark and Dr. A. H. Douglass, head of the city water department, would be necessary for the complete success of the plan, but would cost approximately $40,000 in addition to the $150,000 required for the construction of the ditch, the dyke and the enlarged outlets and conduits.

Economy for City

"There is nothing more important to the welfare of Wichita Falls than the water situation," Mr. Clark said. "If I were a member of the council, I would rather spend this money to soften the water and let the holes on Tenth street go unpatched for a while. Within a few months, we would have saved enough on water softener and soap to pay for the expense of building the ditch and dyke."

Mr. Clark's appearance before the council Monday night was as an interested private citizen, he said.

No action was taken by the council in regard to the matter.

Mr. Clark also stated after the meeting that he would secure an engineer's report on the approximate cost of such a project if necessary. City officials also stated that they would investigate the situation.

The arrival of the water problem came almost a year after the council had prepared an ordinance calling for a $2,000,000 bond issue and had then withdrawn it. A long unbroken heat wave during the summer of 1929, when the filtering plant was unable to care for all the water needed by the city, precipitated the issue at that time, and a similar occurrence is feared this summer, the aldermen stated.

Bandit Trio to Die In Electric Chair

OSSINING, N. Y., June 30. (US)—Sing Sing prison authorities tonight were completing arrangements for a triple execution late Thursday night. At that time three young bandits of Buffalo are to die in the electric chair for the murder of Ferdinand Feghter, a Buffalo restaurant owner.

The condemned men are Alexander Boodenoff, Max Rybarczyk and Stephen Grbechowiak.

Record Flight Continues

City of Chicago Pilots Set '4th' As Landing Date

CHICAGO, June 30. (AP)—The dreary drone of an airplane cutting monstrous figure eights above Sky Harbor airport gave proof tonight that those Hunter boys and their second-hand monoplane were burning their brand deeper into the world's record for nonstop refueling endurance flying. At 9:15 p. m. they took on enough gasoline to keep them up until dawn.

At 11:40 p. m. the old plane and the pert young pilots, John and Kenneth Hunter, had been in flight continuously for more than 19 days —464 hours—surpassing by a day and a half the old record of 420 hours 21½ minutes established by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine at St. Louis a year ago.

There was no indication as to when the new endurance champions would bring the "City of Chicago" down to land and luxury, bath and bounty, rest and riches. In frequent messages dropped to their ground crew and refueling partners, Walter and Albert, brothers of the two endurance pilots, the fliers said they intended at least to celebrate the Fourth of July in the air and maybe stay up longer if neither man nor machine gave out.

The only complaint the endurance pilots made was a friendly rebuke to their sister and dietitian, Irene Hunter, whose food they said was not "he-man enough." "Give us more hot dogs and hard boiled eggs," a note said, "and less of that fancy fixed duck and chicken."

PAYNE TO PUSH BLAST INQUIRY

Amarillo Attorney Has Clue To Explosion

AMARILLO, June 30. (AP)—Declaring he intended to see an investigation through to the finish, A. D. Payne, attorney whose wife was killed in an explosion that wrecked the family automobile last Saturday, stated today he had received information that might help in solving the blast.

Except to say the explosion had been meant for himself, Payne declined comment. He spent part of the day in his office where he could be easily accessible to officers directing the investigation.

"I believe I have obtained one or two valuable clues," Payne said. "I have given every one the benefit of a reasonable doubt and have tried to be fair. I could not associate even an enemy with such a terrible affair. But some conclusions are forced upon us.

"Piecing together bits of information, there may be a solution in sight. If so, the explosive was meant for me."

Payne's 14-year-old son, A. D. Payne Jr., who was seriously injured in the explosion, was said to have passed the day in good condition.

During the day's investigation, officers interrogated Mrs. Payne's father, L. C. Johnson, Austin, and the attorney's two daughters, Ladell, 13, and Barbara, 9.

Executive Clemency Bandit's Only Hope

DENVER, June 30. (INS)—Only executive clemency remained as an escape from the gallows for the Lamar bandit trio—Ralph Fleagle, George J. Abshier and Howard L. Royston—following denial of their petitions for a rehearing before the Colorado supreme court today.

Fleagle is scheduled to hang the week of July 12, and Abshier and Royston are scheduled to hang the week of July 19, for the murders resulting from the holdup of the First National bank of Lamar.

California's Population Reported at 5,642,282

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30. (AP)—The Associated Press compilation of official census figures for California's 58 counties today disclosed a total state population of 5,642,282. This is a gain of 2,215,421 since 1920 or 64.64 per cent.

HIGH COURT TO HEAR BOLTER PLEA JULY 5

46 Barred Candidates For Party Offices Seek Place on Ballot

MANDAMUS PETITION

Executive Board to Stand By Its Decision, Says Scurry

A hearing on a plea for a court mandamus to compel the Wichita county Democratic executive committee to print the names of J. R. Ogle and 45 others on the ballot for the July 26 primary as candidates for county chairman and precinct chairmen will be held before the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth Saturday, July 5, according to a statement Monday from Mr. Ogle to The Record News.

Scurry Gives Views

George Smoot, Wichita Falls attorney, representing the group of 46 candidates whose names were barred from the ticket, spent Monday in Dallas on conference with attorneys there, Mr. Ogle said. Mr. Smoot arranged with the court to call the hearing at an early date in order to allow time for entering the names on the ballot in the event the court grants the mandamus plea. Mr. Ogle said it was his understanding the supreme court was unable to set a date for the hearing in the near future and for that reason the case was carried to the appeals court.

Judge Edgar Scurry, chairman of the county committee, said Monday he had not been informed of any such action against the committee and had not conferred with attorneys or members of the executive group concerning what steps the committee would take in the event mandamus action was brought. Judge Scurry added he would not make any preparations for fighting the case until served actual notice to appear for a hearing. The committee, he said, would maintain its original stand in the case.

The names of Mr. Ogle and the 45 others were barred from the Democratic ballot at a meeting of the executive committee when Judge Scurry recommended that their names be left out for the reason that they had not stated in their petitions whether they were Democrats or otherwise in their party connections. The members present at the meeting voted to empower the chair to exclude the names but Judge Scurry threw the question back to the committee, which voted to bar them from the ballot.

Deserted Party

In a statement following the action of the committee, Mr. Ogle and a group representing the 45 candidates for precinct chairmen charged that a quorum was not present at the time the committee passed action against them and stated that their petitions to have their names printed on the ballot were in accordance with the statutes. Mr. Ogle also said the barred candidates were not formed as a "bolter" group, although most of those whose names were refused had not voted the Democratic ticket in the last presidential election.

Congress Lifts Ban Against German Woman

WASHINGTON, June 30. (INS)—Congress today consummated an international war romance when the house passed a senate bill permitting Mrs. John Munsill Ulrich, German wife of a Connecticut citizen to enter the country.

Although she was married to Ulrich on Dec. 17, 1927 and he was an honorably discharged American soldier, she was barred because she had been convicted of larceny and abetting forgery while a girl, in German courts.

Morrow Impressed By Texas

Ambassador Stops For Half Hour on Way To Mexico

FORT WORTH, June 30. (AP)—A keen interest in the development of the Southwest and particularly the grain production of West Texas was evinced Monday by Dwight L. Morrow, United States ambassador to Mexico, who was in Fort Worth for 30 minutes while on his way to Mexico City. The ambassador, traveling in a private car, was accompanied by a group of embassy officials and friends.

A short stop will be made at El Paso and the party will then continue to Mexico City by train. Ambassador Morrow is expected to remain in the Mexican capital until the middle of September, during which time he will wind up all of his affairs in Mexico as Ambassador, pending his resignation if he is elected to the United States senate. He is now the Republican nominee for senator from New Jersey, having won the nomination on an anti-prohibition platform.

Ambassador Morrow declined to talk about either politics or prohibition.

HOOVER TELLS OF BUILDING

Public Works Exceed 1929 Boom Figure

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—President Hoover said tonight public works construction during the first six months of the year totalled $1,700,000,000, exceeding by more than $200,000,000 the boom year of 1929.

In a radio address from the White House study to the Governors' conference at Salt Lake City, the chief executive said the second half of the year "promises even greater results" and asserted the "splendid endowment of our country of fortitude, courage, boundless energy and resources, together with the unity of effort is the guarantee of recuperation."

"To definitely organize so as to prevent the activity in public works from receding like other activities in depression, and to speed them up in anticipation of future needs so as to alleviate unemployment in such a time is a new experiment in our economic life of the first importance," Mr. Hoover said in thanking the governors for their cooperation following the stock market depression of last fall.

"We have hitherto regarded great business depressions with their inevitable train of unemployment and hardships," the president said, "as an inevitable fever which must run its course, and in former times if public works were undertaken in alleviation of unemployment it has been in the sense of semi-charity . . . had matters followed their previous course, we should during the past six months have undoubtedly seen a diminution in volume of employment in public works over normal times but on this occasion we witness a large increase."

Terrier Rescued After 13 Days Under Ground

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 30. (AP)—Nothing daunted by 13 days entombment in a rat tunnel two and a half feet under ground, Pete, a terrier owned by James L. Docherty, today was sniffing about for new rat holes to conquer.

Pete's enthusiasm for the rat chase led him 20 feet along a narrow tunnel starting in the cellar of his master's home. There he became wedged in, unable to advance or retreat.

Thirteen days after he first sighted his quarry, Pete was dug out by Docherty who had given the dog up for lost until he heard a faint bark. A hot milk diet quickly restored Pete's enthusiasm for hunting.

West Texas Student Killed by Dynamite

ALPINE, Texas, June 30. (AP)—Clayton McCollum, 22, Alpine, was killed Sunday by a dynamite blast in the Rainbow mines near Terlingua. McCollum, a student at Sul Ross college in the winter, had been working in the mines during vacation. His father, R. C. McCollum, is a prominent Big Bend ranchman.

Bank Robbery Trial Opens at Galveston

GALVESTON, June 30. (UP)—Trial of W. S. (Shilo) Scrivnor for the $5,000 robbery of the First National bank of Texas City in 1927 got under way today after the defendant pleaded not guilty to the robbery by assault indictment and his attorneys announced ready.

RAIDS SWEEP 10 GANGSTERS INTO CUSTODY

Web of Circumstances Tightens About Grover Dullar

PAY ROLL REVEALED

'Bugs' Moran Tribe Under Fire of District Attorney's Staff

CHICAGO, June 30. (AP)—Grover Dullar, suspected of complicity in the slaying of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, together with nine companions was arrested by detectives from the state's attorneys office who raided two Moran gang gathering places late today.

Dullar was formerly connected with a gambling resort in which Lingle, Julius (Potatoes) Kauffman and Joe Josephs were said by investigators to have been interested.

Dullar, according to the information upon which the state's attorneys office acted, was at the Hotel Sherman when Lingle entered there the afternoon of June 9 shortly before he was killed.

Movements Traced

When Lingle left the lunch counter there, according to investigators, Dullar either joined him or trailed him. Between the hotel and the Illinois Central subway under Michigan avenue, where the assassination occurred, Dullard was joined by a "short, swarthy man," who was walking with the reporter when he was killed.

Dullard, investigators said, was known to have carried a short .38 caliber revolver such as was left near the body of the slayer.

If, as the prosecutor's office theorized, Dullard did not fire the shot, he possibly passed the weapon to the slayer somewhere between the hotel and the subway.

Ledger Retrieved

Dullard was taken by the raiders as he walked into an office in a downtown building where a number of Moran followers were conferring. None of the men offered resistance beyond attempting to make away with a heavy ledger. The book was retrieved after it had been thrown from a window and was found to contain 150 names—supposedly the pay roll of George (Bugs) Moran.

The other Moran raid was made at a room in a north shore hotel. Names of those taken were not given out.

Both groups were rushed to the state's attorney's office, where the suspects were questioned behind closed doors. Chief Investigator Pat Roche refused to disclose the results of the questioning but it was understood a number of witnesses to the Lingle slaying were sent for to view the suspects.

New Gangland Deaths

The raids followed close on two new gangland deaths—those of Michael Gillitchio, alias Frank Pitello, and an unidentified man, apparently an Italian. Gillitchio's body, shot nine times, was found on a lonely road near McCook, a western suburb. His hand clutched a nickel — gangland's symbol of "cheap." Only 17 years old, the victim had been in the racket for two years and was affiliated with "Red" Bolton's west side mob, a Capone subsidiary.

Sonora Inaugurates Train Service Today

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 30. (AP)—A special train carrying 400 passengers from this section will leave tomorrow for Sonora to help that community celebrate the coming of the "iron horse."

Pat M. Neff, former governor and chairman of the state railroad commission, will pull the throttle of the locomotive, passage of the train over the 65 miles of new track officially inaugurating service on the Santa Fe extension to Sonora. Mayor A. A. Glover of San Angelo will take up the tickets.

20 Killed in Mexican Communist Procession

MEXICO CITY, June 30. (INS)—Twenty persons were dead today and eight others were in hospitals recovering from wounds as a result of a fierce clash between police and Communist paraders in the streets of Matamoros, Coahuila state, according to newspaper reports from that place. The parade was intended as a protest to the Mexican government's arrest of Communists in various parts of Mexico recently.

Crowned Czar of Federal Prohibition

A new monarch was enthroned in America at midnight Monday when the treasury department transferred to the department of justice the responsibility of enforcing Uncle Sam's prohibition laws. Under the new order Amos W. W. Woodcock, Maryland lawyer, became the director of enforcement. A veteran of the world war, the bachelor attorney is fond of music, the drama and the marshaling of men in military formations. He said: "I didn't seek this job but I will give it the best in me."

Men and Money for Dry Enforcement Turned Over to Justice Department

New Prohibition Machine Designed to "Smell, Seize, Arrest and Prosecute" Liquor Sources

By M. L. RAMSAY

WASHINGTON, June 30. (US)—Twenty-seven hundred men and millions in enforcement funds passed into the control of the department of justice at midnight tonight for the supreme and possibly final attempt to enforce federal prohibition.

Four able lawyers, all credited with faith in the dry laws that will work to make effective, will take over command of the reorganized enforcement machine. Their last minute orders have been issued and they are ready to move.

Alcohol Bureau

Behind their little army will be an alcohol and medicinal liquor control force of 1,700 additional men, coast guard fleets and customs squads, all continuing to operate under the treasury.

The 2,700 agents, investigators and others transferred tonight from that department to the department of justice will take over most of the fight against illegal distilling and bootlegging that already has cost hundreds of lives and approximately $400,000,000.

Their organization is the sixth to go into action in 10 and a half turbulent years of the 18th amendment. They are headed by 12 administrators, mostly veterans, in as many districts, and 87 deputy administrators.

Single Machine

With the district attorneys and U. S. marshals they will unite for the first time the detection and the prosecution of Volstead crime.

A single agency will handle the dry law violators from his "wildcat" still to the inner side of prison walls. It will smell, seize, arrest and prosecute.

It will make the initial selection of judges before whom cases are tried, and operate the prisons in which convicted violators are confined.

Next to this all-embracing jurisdiction and authority the impending attempt to shift more of the enforcement burden to the states is the most striking feature of the new organization.

3,000,000 Battle On North Chinese Front

MAJ. CAMPBELL FLINGS CHARGE

Retiring New York Dry Chief Accuses Officials

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—Maj. Maurice Campbell, retiring tonight as New York prohibition administrator, issued a statement charging "certain treasury officials have not been sincere in their efforts to enforce the prohibition law," and that local politicians and certain administration officials in Washington feel that some permits, revoked by him, must be restored in order to obtain support for the Republican state ticket next fall.

Campbell tendered his resignation last week after orders came from Washington transferring him to Boston.

In his statement, in addition to the charges he made, he said that after years of watching the "results of prohibition from the inside," he had concluded that "prohibition is not the logical solution for temperance in our form of government, and I now publicly advocate the repeal of the 18th amendment before the nation is consumed in the fires of its consequences."

Hambone's Meditations

Death Closes Dr. Harvey W. Wiley's 30 Years War Against Impure Drugs

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—The long and turbulent campaign of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, noted pure food specialist, to protect the public against adulterated food and drugs was ended today by death.

The 86-year-old scientist died this morning after he had been virtually an invalid for eight months from heart disease. The funeral will be held Wednesday.

Dr. Wiley began a lifelong crusade against adulterated food and drugs in 1883 when he became chief chemist of the department of agriculture. He led the fight which resulted in enactment of the pure food and drug laws and kept a watchful eye on their administration almost until the end.

It was a 30 years war into which Dr. Wiley led the agriculture department and he was a principal in many a bitter battle over pure foods and drugs. In 1912 a special board recommended that he be "permitted to resign." Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Attorney General Wickersham approved the report but President Taft sustained Dr. Wiley and praised his work.

Thus vindicated, the chemist resigned from the department of agriculture and turned to the more peaceful occupation of contributing editor to a national magazine, writing articles dealing with food problems for the home. He resigned this position last January because of failing health.

June's Hot Finish in Temperature Race Fails to Beat Average in '29

June, 1929, was a hotter and a much drier month than the 30-day period which ended Monday, whatever contrary impression the last seven days of 100-plus temperatures may have left. The average for last year's June was 82.85 degrees as against 81.47 degrees this year.

The current June ended with the seventh scorcher in a row, the mercury playing around 101 degrees Monday. The century mark was first reached last Tuesday and the temperature has hovered between 100 and 106 at its highest every day since then.

Thermometers registered 100 degrees or more seven days last June, but the sweltering days were scattered and between times the mercury dropped down to a merciful 92, according to figures compiled by the Texas Electric Service company bureau. The maximum for June, 1929, was 105 degrees, and it was that hot only one day, the figures show. Minimums for the two months were the same, but the average made June, 1929, the hotter of the two months because of the large amount of rain and the continued cool weather of two weeks ago.

[illegible] fell [illegible] in 1929 only 1.59 fell during the month.

STABILIZATION CORPORATION CALLS IN MORTGAGED GRAIN

CO-OPS SECURE FRESH STORAGE

Wheat Pledged on Loans Taken Over

CHICAGO, June 30. (AP)—All grain on which loans were made to producers was taken over effective today by the Grain Stabilization corporation, it was announced at the corporation's office late today.

George S. Milner, the corporation's president, said the action was taken because it was the understanding at the time the loans were made the grain was to be taken over July 1 unless the market had reached a point where producers could sell to pay off the loans.

Mr. Milner declined to estimate the amount of wheat involved, but issued a brief statement in which he said:

"The grain stabilization corporation has completed arrangements with the federal farm board and the various cooperative associations which have made loans from the board, for taking over and handling the wheat which was pledged as collateral against said loans."

At the same time the Farmers National Grain cooperation announced that an additional 2,000,000 bushels of storage space has been acquired, including purchase from the Nye-Jenks Grain company of Omaha of a 600,000 bushel capacity elevator at Fremont, Neb. The corporation also is taking over the Nye-Jenks company's lease on the Missouri Pacific elevator at Omaha, with a storage capacity of 1,400,000 bushels.

A branch office of the Farmers National Grain corporation at Omaha will operate the Nebraska properties under direction of the Hall-Baker Grain company, the corporation's subsidiary at Kansas City, Mo. No announcement of the name of the local manager for the Omaha office was made, but it is expected within a few days.

PRICES TUMBLE AS CROP MOVES

KANSAS CITY, June 30. (AP)—The early marketing of new wheat today was the dominating factor in the decline of futures here 1⅜ to 2c in early trading. Despite the predictions of grain men that farmers would hold wheat for higher prices, receipts at several southwestern terminals exceeded arrivals of a year ago.

Kansas City, however, today received only 533 cars of wheat, in contrast to 621 cars a year ago. Of the arrivals, 450 were of the new crop. Wichita received 570 cars, against 513 a year ago; Hutchinson 1,037 against 639; Enid, Okla., 509, against 200.

In the carlot market here it was reported three-fourths of the arrivals were offered for sale.

Prices closed ⅞ to 1⅛ cents lower, July being quoted at 82½c; Sept. at 86⅛c and Dec. at 91c.

CHEMISTS PERFECT A DE-NAUSEATED CALOMEL TABLET

Retains All Medicinal Virtues But Free From Dangerous and Unpleasant Effects—Sold Under the Name, "Calotabs."

Science has given us smokeless powder, wireless telegraphy, colorless iodine and tasteless quinine—now comes the good news for everybody that the pharmaceutical chemists have perfected a nausealess calomel tablet that does all the work of the old-style calomel without the danger, griping nausea or sickening after-effects. After the most extensive and critical tests, all of which proved eminently successful, the new tablet known as "Calotabs" is on sale at all drug stores. It presents all of the system-purifying and liver-cleansing qualities of the old-style calomel, but is pleasant to take and entirely safe and delightful in its after-effects.

One tablet at bedtime with a glass of water, that's all; no taste, no nausea, no griping. The next morning you are feeling fine, liver clean, appetite splendid. Eat what you please—no danger nor unpleasantness.

Beware of imitations! Genuine Calotabs are sold only in "checkerboard" (black and white) packages bearing the copyrighted trademark "Calotabs." The large, family size sells for 35 cents; vest-pocket size, 10 cents. All dealers are authorized to refund the price if you are not delighted with Calotabs. —Adv.

Place in Second Primary 'Sure,' Says Mayfield in Address Here

Candidate Opposes State Bond Issue, and Calls for Taxes on Foreign Corporations

Declaring there was "not the slightest doubt" about his going into the second primary, former Senator Earle B. Mayfield, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, Monday evening addressed a crowd of about 50 persons assembled in the 78th district courtroom and said the only question in his mind on that subject was "who's going to be my running-mate?"

Mr. Mayfield's address was broadcast by remote control over station KGKO. The speaker was introduced by Claude Miller as "the friend of the independent merchant." In opening his speech, Mr. Mayfield named taxation as the "greatest single problem before the citizens of Texas today."

Taxation Problem

"Our forefathers were forced to tax real and personal property, our farms, homes and livestock, because there was nothing else to tax," he said. "But they foresaw that the great resources of Texas would someday be developed and they wrote into our law that 'all property shall be taxed.' They did not say tangible property, or intangible property. They said all property. And for that reason, the solution of our tax problem is to shift to the great corporations and public service combines their just proportion of the tax burden, which they are allowed to escape as things now stand. Taxation of real and personal property today is the most unfair, unjust legislation that can be imagined. The charter, corporation, franchise and other special taxes should be increased and the ad valorem decreased. A tax of one cent on each bottle of ginger ale or on each cigar and package of cigarets would yield to the government $5,000,000 annually, in either case. This luxury tax, basically good, should be placed on the wholesalers, not on the retailers.

"I am unequivocally against a state highway bond issue. We have enough money under present means to keep up a huge program of road building in the state, with our highway commission receiving annually $56,000,000 from various sources. I am opposed to placing the burden of highway construction on the farms and homes when commercial buses and trucks use our highways and contribute not one cent toward building the roads they use. The commission's own report shows a monthly unexpended balance of $9,000,000 for the last two and a half years. That balance should be used to take the road burden off the property tax payers. Voting a $300,000,000 bond issue to pay off the $70,000,000 bond issue already existing would be like borrowing from a bank to pay a note to the bank.

Opposes Short Ballot

"The possibility of inventions taking the place of gasoline makes a gasoline tax uncertain in the future years. In case of such an invention, what then would pay the interest on a $300,000,000 state bond issue? You farmers, merchants and home owners would pay it and throw yourselves and your children for the next 50 or 75 years into tax slavery for having voted such bonds.

"I am strongly opposed to the short ballot, which would concentrate political power in an oligarchy, a political machine to take away from the voters the right to select their own office holders. I am opposed to the chain stores which drain Texas and centralize wealth and commercial power in the great commercial centers of the North and East. I believe in placing a just burden of taxation on every corporation and concern which takes its profit from Texas and hands it to Kansas City, Chicago or New York. I believe the voters of Texas will understand the justice and truth of the issues for which I stand and I am certain that I shall go into the runoff."

MAYFIELD HEARD BY VERNON CROWD
Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 30.—Speaking here this afternoon in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor, former Senator Earle B. Mayfield declared the solution of other governmental problems will easily follow when the tax question is properly solved. He contended that the state could not progress as long as taxation is based upon the present ad valorem system that places such heavy burdens upon the farms, the home owners and business property owners of the state.

He advocates an equitable distribution of the tax burden so as to give relief to the property taxpayers of the state. This can be done only by carrying out the provision of the constitution which declares that all property in the state, whether owned by natural persons or corporations, shall be taxed in proportion to its value.

JIM WILLIAMS' FUNERAL HELD

Victim of Lake Tragedy Buried Monday

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, June 30.—Last rites for Jim Williams, 32, drowned when his boat capsized on Lake Kemp Sunday morning, were held from the First Methodist church at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. J. N. Hunt of the First Baptist church, assisted by Rev. H. H. Neely of the First Christian church, and Rev. J. C. Marshall of the First Methodist church conducted the services. Burial was in Henrietta.

Active pallbearers included Bryant Edward, Will Neville, Earl Nutter, Carl Green, Onie Ross, Harry Myers, Ham Douglas and L. B. Hapgood. Otto Gilliland, Lewis Ikard, Percy Neville, Ed Bomar, George Myers, Doniey Suddath, Brad Staggs, and Claud Vaughn were honorary pallbearers.

Mr. Williams, a prominent Clay county, ranchman, had spent much of his life in Henrietta. He was born in Antelope, Texas, but came to Clay county in his early youth. In December, 1928, he was married to Miss Bennie McGlasson. After a few months of residence in Wichita Falls he returned to make his home in Henrietta.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Williams; a sister, Mrs. Grace Miller, Jolly; two half-sisters, Mrs. Woodward of Wichita Falls, and Miss Jennie Carter, Denton; and a half-brother, Wallace Carter of Jolly.

FRECKLES

Magic Treatment Fades Away Unsightly Freckles

It is surprisingly easy now to remove those rusty little spots that blemish your skin. No time-taking frills, no long-drawn-out treatments. In only a few days you can banish your freckles and restore the natural dazzling whiteness of your skin.

Simply get a jar of Othine double strength and put a little of the dainty white cream on your freckles at night before you go to bed. Then look for results in two or three days. Almost before you realize it, your freckles will be gone!

It is always the exquisite skin that freckles, remember. If you remove those ugly little brown spots, you reveal a skin so enchantingly fair, every woman you meet will envy it.

All drug and department stores sell Othine, but be sure to ask for the double strength as this is sold with a positive guarantee of money back if it does not remove even the worst freckles and give a beautiful complexion.—Adv.

Senate Democrats Claim Enough Votes to Increase Veterans Aid

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Senate Democrats claimed enough votes tonight to win adoption of their amendment to increase the disability pensions provided by the house in the world war veterans relief measure.

Administration leaders opposed the increase and Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, significantly pleaded "I hope for the sake of getting something for our veterans we will stand by the rates in the bill."

Senators Walsh of Massachusetts and Connally of Texas, Democrats, led an all-day attempt today for disability pensions with a maximum of $60 a month, as allowed to Spanish war veterans, instead of $40 as provided by the house bill.

Both sides were agreed tonight a vote would be taken tomorrow. House leaders were determined to return the legislation to conference if the Democratic amendment for higher pension rates was allowed.

Unidentified Victim Of Gangsters Discovered

CHICAGO, June 30. (UP)—The body of an unidentified stockily built and well dressed man, dead from five bullet wounds, was found today in a ditch alongside a state highway near Kentland, Ind., a farming community, Chicago police were notified.

Efforts were made to trace the "ride" victim to Chicago's gangland.

ONLY A DOCTOR KNOWS WHAT A LAXATIVE SHOULD BE

Danger lies in careless selection of laxatives! By taking the first thing that comes to mind when bad breath, headaches, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, gas on stomach and bowels, lack of appetite or energy warns of constipation, you risk forming the laxative habit.

Depend on a doctor's judgment in choosing your laxative. Here's one made from the prescription of a specialist in bowel and stomach disorders. Its originator tried it in thousands of cases; found it safe for women, children and old folks; thoroughly effective for the most robust man. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It is composed of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients. You can get it, in generous bottles and ready for use, at any drug store.—Adv.

BEST FOR SUNBURN
Beach First Aid Stations Report

Chief Lifeguard McMonigle treating a sunburn case at First Aid Station.

Soothing, cooling Noxzema ends pain instantly

. . . doesn't stain clothes

WHEN FIRST AID STATIONS and Lifeguards at America's biggest beaches use Noxzema exclusively, you can rest assured that it's the best thing out for sunburn.

John McMonigle, director of lifeguards, Coney Island says, "For going on thirty years I've been a lifeguard or director of lifeguards In all that time I never found a thoroughly satisfactory sunburn remedy till I tried Noxzema.

"This is the fifth season we've been using it in our First Aid Station here at Coney It cools and soothes, and relieves the soreness and burning almost instantly. And you'd hardly believe how quickly it will heal even a bad burn."

Beach authorities at many other leading resorts like Atlantic City, Asbury Park and Long Beach have also found Noxzema the most effective remedy for sunburn. Don't suffer needlessly—get a jar today at any drug or department store.

STATE TO AID SAYRE PROBE

Assistant Attorney General Sent to Beckham

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 30.(UP)—Atty. Gen. J. Berry King said today that his assistant, W. H. Lawson, would go to Sayre tomorrow to conduct an investigation into the slaying of Sheriff C. H. Phillips.

Lawson will arrive at Sayre late tomorrow, King said.

Three men are held in connection with the shooting which occurred at the sheriff's office nine days ago. They are former Sheriff Joe Pounds, and two farmers, Jess Brown and Frank Griffin. Murder charges have been filed against the trio.

A temporary exchange of children to give parents a proper perspective is urged by Dr. Ethel E. Murphy of the College of Electronic Medicine, San Francisco.

'Supreme Hour' Ends in Crack-Up As Theoretical Pilot Tries to Fly

CHICAGO, June 30. (UP)—John C. Burchard, 28, son of former Gov. Roswell B. Burchard of Rhode Island, was almost but not quite, convinced today that one can not learn to fly airplanes by just reading about them.

For seven years Burchard, an engineer and Harvard graduate, studied all the things that have been written about airplanes. He even wrote a book about them himself and experienced fliers have said that he probably knows more about the theory of flying than most pilots ever will learn.

But Burchard never had been in the air. His first trip up, he said, was to be his "hour supreme." To the whole world, and a group of his skeptical friends in particular, he was going to prove that he could fly a plane on his theoretical knowledge alone.

He had no flying license and could not take off from a regular airport, so he picked a cow pasture, had the tall grass mowed down, bought an old Swallow plane, borrowed a parachute and set out at daybreak to realize his "hour supreme."

Burchard was accompanied by five friends, three of them aviators who protested against the experiment, and another a physician, who took his first aid kit.

The young man still was optimistic when he stepped into the cockpit. He followed his book instructions to the letter. The plane roared down the field, left the ground as it should, rose to a height of 30 feet, wabbled a bit, did a crazy caper or two, nose dived, struck the earth, turned up, over and landed on its back.

Burchard was out of the wreckage before any of the five terrified onlookers could reach him. His only injury was a bruise on his head. Little harm was done to his optimism or his belief in his books and he remarked, smiling that "Oh, well, it's just my first crackup."

OKLAHOMA BOY SHOT TO DEATH

Oil Station Operator Fires Upon Brothers

HOLDENVILLE, Okla., June 30. (AP)—Edward Greer, 16, was shot to death and his brother, Henry, 18, probably fatally wounded early today by L. W. Harris, filling station operator when they drove into his station here to fix a flat tire.

Harris said he thought they were stealing gasoline.

A court of inquiry was ordered to determine whether charges should be filed against Harris.

The Greer brothers, sons of a pioneer farm family living eight miles northeast of Holdenville, and three brothers named Owen, were returning to their homes from a camp meeting.

One of the Owen brothers testified at the hearing that Harris shot through a glass door with a shotgun, wounding Henry Greer. As the youths were loading him into a car to take him to a hospital, Harris emerged from another door and shot Edward Greer with a pistol, killing him, the Owen boy testified.

Best Way Known To Heal Toe Itch

This condition of the feet, cracked skin between and around the toes; inflammation and severe itching; water blisters and burning, is now known to be caused by a germ, or fungus growth.

The only way to get relief is to kill these fungus germs, which you can do, in from 24 to 72 hours, with a pleasant-odored, delightful-to-use ointment, known as "Tetterine," prepared by Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Tetterine is almost infallible in bringing prompt and comforting relief in these distressing conditions of the feet, and it may be had at any drug store for 60c, with a guarantee of perfect relief or money refunded.—Adv.

Dixie Publishers Open Convention

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 30. (AP)—Informal proposals for an increase in the postage rate on first-class mail and the editorial reactions they brought from Southern newspapers were given a place of prominence today at the opening session of the 28th annual convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers association.

J. S. Parks, of Fort Smith, Ark., president of the association, in his annual address asserted he personally would not oppose such an increase if the postoffice department should recommend it.

Frederick A. Tilson, third assistant postmaster general, told the 200 newspaper men present that it appeared to be the logical way to avoid the yearly postal deficits.

Taylor Company Wins Water Diversion Rights

AUSTIN, June 30. (AP)—The state water board today granted the Water Supply company of Taylor the right to divert 100-acre feet per annum of water from Brushy creek in Williamson county for mining purposes. The water will be used in oil well development in the Thrall and Taylor fields.

Application of Hidalgo County Water Improvement district No. 6 of Edinburg to divert water from the Rio Grande was continued. The project included the irrigation of 570.93 acres of land.

EGYPT'S LEADER OUTLINES AIMS

New Premier Seeks Peaceful Economic Progress

CAIRO, June 29. (UP) — Peace and economic betterment are the two chief aims of Ismail Sidky Pasha, Egypt's new premier, who was named by King Faud to head the government when Nahas Pasha resigned as premier last week.

Sidky Pasha has been very busy in the few days he has held office, but he found time yesterday for an interview with the United Press in which he outlined his program for Egypt. The new premier has found politics rather involved, particularly since Nahas Pasha has been urging a "passive resistance" campaign in Egypt if the government does not expose itself to a vote of confidence by midsummer.

He made it clear while talking with the United Press correspondent that if the Wafdists created disturbances the government would not hesitate to use whatever measures it found necessary to establish order.

Neither Sidky Pasha nor his cabinet are members of the Egyptian parliament. They all resigned from their political parties to participate in the non-party government. Sidky Pasha resigned from the directories of 11 companies to become premier.

Besides the premiership, he holds the portfolios of finance and the interior.

"Inasmuch as neither myself nor any of my ministers are members of parliament, we felt we could only recommend that the king postpone parliament—which is perfectly constitutional—in order to give us an opportunity to study the situation in a relatively calm atmosphere," Sidky Pasha said.

"The most urgent reforms needed are the establishment of order in our country and increasing our productivity. We hope to improve the economic situation, especially regarding the cotton crisis which is worse now because of the piling up of cotton.

Woman Noted in Church Work Dies

KANSAS CITY, June 30. (AP)—Word was received here today of the death last night of Mrs. Mary Lipscomb Hargrove, 75, widow of the late Rev. Thomas Hargrove, Methodist minister, at the home of her son, the Rev. W. H. Hargrove in Linn, Mo.

Mrs. Hargrove was an instructor at the Scarritt Bible and Training school here from 1896 to 1918. She also had taught and lectured at the University of Chicago. In 1918 she was conference secretary of women's centenary work of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and she also was a former instructor in religious education at the Texas Woman's college, Fort Worth.

Gall Bladder and Stomach Troubles
Give Early Warning of Many Serious Conditions That Follow

Gallstone and gall-bladder sufferers have had early warning through some slight derangement of the stomach. Many of the very worst cases of high blood pressure are due to liver troubles and intestinal toxemia.

Fatal heart failure is often heart block, caused by intestinal and stomach poisons.

Muco-colitis has its early history of catarrhal stomach, and nearly all cases of rectal troubles are accompanied by constipation and intestinal diseases. Many great scientists believe that cancer is caused by an intestinal ferment.

The low blood pressure of tuberculosis and catarrhal conditions has an early history of hyper acidity and so on through a long list of diseases.

The Health Service Doctors are affiliated with three large health institutes of the East and Southeast, at Newark, N. J., Atlanta, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala., which insures everyone who calls on them the latest method for relief of deep-seated chronic conditions.

They offer every modern facility for the treatment of stomach and intestinal troubles, disease of the blood, nerves, rheumatism, diabetes, high or low blood pressure, diseases of the rectum and special diseases of men and women.

Wasserman blood tests are only $3. Consultation is free. The Health Service Institute is permanently located in Wichita Falls. Office hours daily 9 to 5; Wednesday and Saturday evenings 7 to 8; Sundays 10 to 12 only.

A Fool and His Money "Who Steals My Purse" Mr. Folger's Investment Bought Shakespeare

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Young men who live without a philosophy die, like cowards, many times before their death. "Santa Claus" Ryder, Broadway's millionaire playboy, now bankrupt, learned nothing evidently from experience, precept or example. He thought, like so many wasters before him, that money would make amends for all things. He was easily deceived because in New York there are beautiful women who may be purchased, consciences that may be salved, people with honor who can be tempted and bribed. He knew this, and it was sufficient for him.

Ryder's wisdom went no further. His will was absolute. He ruled his limited night-life monarchy like an hereditary despot. Now his well-lined purse is empty and he is done for. The money he spent with profligate extravagance took its toll. But that did not ruin him. What ruined him was the time, energies and moral fiber that he wasted in senseless carousals with double-dealing vipers.

It would not matter today if Ryder stood penniless ("Who steals my purse, steals trash"), if only he was still rich in stamina and character. ("But he that filches from me my good name, robs me of that which not enriches him, and makes me poor indeed"). Too bad Ryder wasn't more of a Shakespearean scholar. The words of Polonious to his son might have saved him, exactly where the words of ladies of leisure damned him utterly.

Another millionaire, Henry C. Folger, late Standard Oil head, lived a wiser and completer life than Ryder. And he was something of a Shakespeare lover. With $10,000,000 he could have bought up all the scintillating gold diggers on Broadway, with Ryder thrown in. But Folger took that money and invested it in Shakespeare. This was truly "laying up for himself treasures in heaven that neither moth nor rust doth corrupt."

The senate slapped Mr. Hoover's face good and hard when it passed the relief bill for war veterans by a vote of 66 to 6. The president's protest had no effect whatsoever. A cost to the government of $100,000,000 additional in the coming fiscal year is a huge burden to carry and discharge; out where millions are wasted annually in inefficiency, sinecures and grart, millions may be spent to aid those who stood ready to give their lives in a cause that could hardly be called their own.

Business is good in Oberammergau. The actors of the Passion play are not only busy acting, but in the evenings they are kept on the go at their shops and booths selling pottery, wood carvings, souvenirs, etc., in addition to autographing books—a lucrative enterprise. There is some talk of reducing the 10-year interval to five. Even in Oberammergau (which is not America) business is business.

England has "socialized" medicine by establishing a public medical service, available to the entire population, irrespective of ability to pay. The idea is that health is of such vital national importance that the question of one's ability to pay should never have to arise. Dr. M. L. Harris of Chicago, retiring head of the American Medical association, labels this "socialization of medicine" as a menace to the profession. Good physicians do not fear this "menace," just as they do not fear competition from state hospitals and dispensaries. The socialization of medicine is a step in the right direction.

Thirteen million barrels of flour are shipped to Chicago annually.

With the report that Shakespeare's sonnets may be filmed, chances seem bright we shall yet hear some good English in the talkies.

Whistles in the Night

MECHANICAL experts of American railways convened in Atlantic City the other day and agreed that the steam locomotive is beginning to make a little better showing in comparison with the electric; and while the spread of electrification still goes on, there seems to be a germ of hope for such Americans as were brought up to look on the steam locomotive as one of the finest of all man-made machines.

It may be all very true that the electric locomotive is more efficient and less expensive to operate. Doubtless it does make for cleaner train rides, what with the elimination of smoke and soot. But we have a deep, perverse hope that the steam engine will continue to hold its own; a hope that these mechanical experts will find more and more reasons for delaying the shift from steam to electricity.

After all, efficiency isn't all there is to railroading. The man who holds huge blocks of railway stocks must feel that way, of course, but he is in a minority and doesn't count. Railroading is essentially a business of glamour and romance. It is a thing apart from ordinary pursuits, both for the worker, the customer and the mere spectator. And this is chiefly due to the steam locomotive.

Why do small town folk go down to railroad stations to see No. 6 pass through? To see who gets on and off? Well, partly, perhaps; but it is more probable that they go chiefly to get a look at the engine. The engine is more nearly alive than any other machine yet devised. It puffs and pants like any other living creature. When it labors up a long grade its labored breathing is the sort of noise that is made by a living organism. Its very whistle has a wild, eerie note that no other mechanical sound can ape.

Indeed, the mere spectator has a big stake in the railroad. The world, fortunately, is full of a number of thrills; but what thrill is greater than the thrill you get when you stand at a railway crossing and see a great express train thundering by, its cars gleaming with brass and bright paint, a long plume of smoke lying low over its wind-swept back, a grim-faced engineer peering alertly from the window of the cab, its red lights blinking as it disappears in the distance?

The electric engine cuts a poor figure by comparison. It may have efficieney on its side. It may be the cleaner proposition, it may give more power and more speed; but it does not pant and puff, it does not emit trailers of white smoke, it has no authentic personality, it cannot whistle with a voice that challenges infinite space. Eventually, probably, it will drive the steam locomotive out of existence; but we are permitted to hope that that day is a long way off.

Hats Off to Allison

COLLOQUIAL prejudices are so firmly entrenched in most of us as to be broken down only on rare occasions. The fact that supreme success in any field of legitimate endeavor breaks down such walls to make all classes one will be demonstrated throughout Texas as a result of an athletic contest near London Monday morning.

Wilmer Allison, former Texas university tennis star, and seventh ranking tennis player of the United States, stepped out on the Wimbledon courts to sweep Henri Cochet, French champion of the world, completely off his feet in successive sets.

Only a small percentage of Texas' millions of inhabitants have any time for tennis. A vast portion of the state's population probably regard lawn tennis as nice morning exercise for ladies and artists. This because we are only slightly removed from pioneer days which afforded no time for such sports. Allison lives in Austin—when he isn't playing tournament tennis. In spite of the location there of the state university, it is safe to say that Austin is generally unpopular throughout the entire state, as cities go. It is the capital, and politicians will flock there.

But such local prejudices as may be held superficially against Austin, and such indifference as may be harbored to the game of tennis will be submerged for the present in the just pride which all Texans will take in Allison's victory. Cochet was considered practically unbeatable in this year's field. He is at his height. Allison won a clean cut victory for his own game, for the United States, but more particularly for Texas.

We're Misinformed, Too

AN article in the current issue of Good Housekeeping mazagine reports a very interesting fact. Travelers returning from Russia assert that the great mass of Russian people has been convinced that the United States and English are planning to make war on them and are only awaiting a favorite chance to strike.

The ideas that a nation sometimes get about another nation are sometimes funny, and nothing could be much wider of the mark than this one. What England's intentions may be we do not know; but if there is in this republic any thirst, official or otherwise, for war on Soviet Russia we have not yet heard of it.

However, it won't do to laugh too heartily at Russian ignorance. A great many people in our own country are firmly convinced that our social structure is being seriously undermined by Russian plotters. Indeed, our congress now is officially investigating the great "red peril." Our ignorance seems to match Russia's ignorance rather neatly.

Remnants

Slowly your ardor cooled, Oh, I could see
The symptoms that you tried so hard to hide;
The stifled yawn, the deepening lethargy
When I was ever constant at your side;
The clock that once sped magic hours away,
Now dragged accusing hands across its face,
The romance that we dearly loved to play,
Turned farce with every casual embrace.

So it is done—small use to place the blame,
I only know that we are strangely through;
It is no task to quench a sickly flame,
Yet as my thoughts drift back—this much is true;

That for a while the fire leaped heaven-high,
Leaving a score of things that will not die!
—The "Torch" Singer.

Things That Knock Me Cold

According to the N. Y. World's story about "Santa Claus" Ryder: . . . he himself would not talk to reporters, and a friend explained that this was because of his resentment of stories, particularly in the tabloids, that he was a celebrated night club spendthrift and liberal with his hospitality to Broadway beauties. The only night club he had been in this winter, said the friend, was the Central Park casino.

It must have been two other felons.

Merciless Truth

Russell Ryder, Broadway's doughboy, apparently has discovered that night club is another way of spelling trouble. An unconfirmed rumor, however, has it that Jean Ackerman, Ziegfeld girl, is writing a tune to be titled: "Ryder Wrong, I Love You."

Imagine

Among other things most of us overlooked for publication during the Sharkey-Smelley fight was that when Sharkey entered the ring draped in an American flag, for which he was booed, the seconds removed the flag, rolled it up and tossed it in a corner on the ground.

A little fellow seated at the ringside leaped out of his pew and shouted: "Pick that up, do you hear?"

It was picked up.

The defender of the flag was an immigrant, in America less than a year.

A Form of Criticism

An unpopular movie actor suddenly disappeared from his home and has never been seen since. A group of Hollywoodmen were discussing it.

"What do they suspect," sarcastically asked Keene Thompson, "fair play?"

H. M. G.!

A veteran reports that Albert Lingle, the Chicago reporter, who was assassinated, had a namesake in Indiana, who 50 years ago was a terror to all evildoers, the same being Wm. S. Lingle, of the Lafayette, Ind., Courier.

He was a terror with his pen and once denounced a lady prohibitionist and suffragist named Helen H. Gougher. The opposition paper defended her and attacked Lingle, arguing that Lingle had "deserated holy womanhood."

With one shot Lingle smashed Helen M. Gougher's champion, and this was the shot: "When a farmer sees a snake approaching the child of a neighbor, does he stop to ascertain its sex? No! He kills it as best he can, then puts it in a bottle of alcohol and labels it H. M. G.—helpless, fangless and disgusting."

Observation

Most of those night club dandies with greased heads, says Harry Reichenbach, whose hair stays put, go around with women who don't.

But He Wants More!

Among other prize possessions of Robert Benchley, the critic, is a rare Ernest Hemingway classic, one of his earliest tomes. During Hemingway's visit here last week Benchley urged him to come to his shack. Once in the place Benchley displayed the book and said: "This would bring me at least $300 if I wanted to sell it. Why not autograph it for me."

Hemingway jotted down an amusing but unprintable flippancy. "Now, there!" said the distinguished writer, "I've spoiled your sale and I did it just so you would always keep it."

The next day when a wealthy society woman had heard of the "foul inscription" she offered Benchley $2,000 for the book!

Hehehch

Benny Holzman reports that he overheard it in one of the "Flying High" undressing rooms.

1st Chorine: "Did you read my honey's story in the Saturday Evening Post?"

2d Ditto: "I never read the Saturday Evening Post, dearie. I'm always afraid that just as I'm going to sleep it will fall on my face and kill me."

Oop!

George White was selecting girls for his chorus earlier this season and counseled one of his prettiest charmers on how to behave herself.

"Whatever you do," said George, "keep away from press agents, they'll promise you everything and give you little in return."

"Please don't worry," cooed the gal, "I can't bear press agents. I inherited a great dislike for them. You see, my father was a dramatic editor!"

By Way of Report

Judge Jr.'s. swelegant look (in miniature) entitled "Noble Experiments" will be released on July 10 and no home will be complete without one. It contains 63 pages of recipes, many of them suggested by intelligentlemen and others. George Jean Nathan, Heywood Broun, Ralph Barton, Bruce Bairnsfather H. L. Mencken, Milt Gross, et al., are represented, but the Retlaw Chinwell recipe probably will be tasteless because of a typographical error. So this is directed to Jack Shuttleworth, of Judge, who prepared the tome. "The Pink Lady" recipe is recorded in this manner: "Half pint orange juice, ditto cream, ditto grenadine and ditto gin." It should be a pint of gin! Then shake well till frosted, drink three of them and then say "Truly Rural."

If it comes out "Trooey Roor," you're drunkee!

"SHEILA"

Love and Mystery Humor and Tragedy

A Story of Wichita Falls By GORDON TURNER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Frank Sheridan, wealthy young lawyer whose hobby is the solving of crime mysteries, is making a double investigation into a safe robbery at the home of William Oliver Wilber, inventor and manufacturer, and into the strange death by electrocution of Lena Swartz, a maid in the Wilber home. From the safe was stolen a diary of Wilber's wife, now dead, which contains a secret of the birth of Sheila, Wilber's daughter, who was engaged to marry Joseph Hedley, assistant county prosecutor. The diary was stolen by Riley Morgan, burglar client of Homer Menton, unprincipled criminal lawyer, who gets possession of the diary and persuades Andy Masters, Sheila's wayward cousin, to join him in a blackmail plot against Wilber. Andy, while intoxicated, tells Sheila she is a foundling and has no legal right to Wilber's name. Sheila surprises her father into partial confirmation of Andy's accusations and feeling herself disgraced, returns her engagement ring to Hedley. Andy has been paying court to Edna Rogers, Sheila's chum, but has an affair with Menton's stenographer, Mercedes Riverton. Menton is killed and Andy injured in an automobile accident before the plot against Wilber can be put into execution. Mercedes, in the same accident, escapes injury and plays the role of Andy's nurse at his apartment, which is presided over by Ike Sellers, Andy's valet. Chastened by their narrow escape from death, Andy and Mercy plan to get the diary from Menton's office and return it to Wilber.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER 30

These were dark days for Sheila. Mrs. Hendricks, the housekeeper, had returned, and the household machinery was running smoothly. Outwardly, nothing had changed, but to Sheila the world was turned upside down. She felt herself alien to all around her.

Hedley had called at the house and telephoned frantically, but she refused to see or talk to him. To Edna and her other friends, she pleaded illness and kept almost constantly to her room. Wilber saw her only at meals, but an insurmountable wall seemed to have arisen between them. Since the one painful interview following Andy's visit, both instinctively had avoided mention of the subject uppermost in their minds. Sheila was not satisfied with the fragmentary disclosures made by Wilber, but she shrunk fearfully from further revelation. Wilber, though torn with anxiety, wisely awaited a better time.

Then came the news of Andy's accident. It was a countershock to Sheila and turned her mind from herself. Instantly the old tie of affection for her cousin asserted itself. She had not resented his disclosure of her birth secret—Wilber's confirmation of it had erased her first anger. She inquired eagerly as to Andy's condition and would have gone to him at once, but was restrained by Wilber, who advised her to wait until he had prepared the way.

"A nurse?" Sheila exclaimed, when Wilber had reported on his visit to Andy's apartment.

"Yes, a very capable young woman," Wilbert replied, "a Miss Riverton, I believe."

"Miss Riverton!"

"Yes, I think that was the name. Why, do you know her?"

Sheila bit her lip nervously. "I—I don't know," she said, and fled from the room.

Wilber looked after her in amazement. "Now, what have I done?" he muttered, "surely she can't object to a nurse."

Alone in her room, Sheila faced this new development. Miss Riverton—it must be Mercy . . . yes, she had been with him when the car was wrecked . . . that girl . . . there with Andy, alone with him in his apartment.

Suddenly her face burned. Her mind flashed to the last time she had seen Andy, his angry defense of Mercy, his assertion that "at least, she was not born out of wedlock." She flung herself on her knees, her arms outstretched.

"Oh, God," she cried in agony of soul, "Oh, God, who am I to judge? Oh, what a hateful snob I've been. Until this happened I felt so superior toward everybody who did not have the advantages which have been heaped on me—advantages that I never earned, that I never worked for. I looked down on girls like Mercy Riverton, without knowing, as I know now, that if our places in the world had been reversed I might not have done so well. This is my punishment, to know now that if people knew everything about me, they would shun me as I have shunned the Mercy Rivertons."

In self-abasement, in humility of spirit, she prayed, and with the flood of tears that followed, she found a blessed peace.

Sheila arrived at Andy's bungalow at almost the same hour that Sheridan was questioning Riley Morgan at the point of a pistol on a lonely country road. She drove there alone in her own car. Though her face was unnaturally pale and showed the strain of the emotional storm through which she had passed, she was in complete control of herself again.

She stood silently for a moment after Ike opened for her the door to the living room and waited until he had retreated to the kitchen.

Andy had so far recovered that the doctor had permitted him to leave his bed. With his arm in a sling, but with most of the headbandages discarded, he was installed in a lounging chair at a window overlooking the apartment house entrance. He had seen Sheila park her car at the curb and had warned Mercy.

Mercy and Andy had awaited Sheila's visit with apprehension. Both recalled the distressing scenes which marked their last meetings—Andy's attack on Sheila's birthright and Mercy's quarrel with her following the Lake Wichita road encounter. Andy was wholly repentant, but Mercy, jealous of Sheila's influence over Andy and still resentful of Sheila's contemptuous treatment of herself, was warily on the defensive.

Neither, of course, had an inkling of the soul-probing ordeal Sheila had undergone; neither saw in the tall, pale-faced girl who faced them with serious, sorrowful eyes, a chastened, humbled Sheila.

Mercy stood with an arm across the high back of Andy's chair. Andy started to rise, but Sheila darted across the room and pushed him gently back into his chair.

"No, no, you're ill,' she protested, "you mustn't get up." She stooped and kissed him. Then she whirled about and swept Mercy into her arms.

"You're a dear," she said, her face pressed closely to Mercy's bobbed curls, "it's so good of you to come here and take care of him. I can't tell you how grateful we all are. Papa says you are a wonderful nurse. And—and I hate myself for the way I talked to you that other time!"

Mercy, startled by Sheila's unexpected actions and words, struggled from the girl's embrace and sank gasping into a chair. This was far from the greeting she had expected! She tried to speak but no words would come. Andy was the first to recover speech.

"That's mighty sporting of you, Sheila," he said feelingly. "Oh, Sheila, can you ever forgive me for what I did—what I said—"

"Please, please, Andy," Sheila interrupted pleadingly, "let's not talk about that. There's nothing to forgive."

She sat on the broad arm of his chair and took his hand. "It was the truth, Andy," she continued in a low voice, and I must face it, no matter how it hurts. I think, dear, I have been crazy—clear out of my mind. It was such a sudden change from all I had been—all I thought of myself. My pride was all torn to pieces . . . to find you are a nobody, oh, it is hard to bear! . . . I kept thinking of what people would think if they knew . . . how they would sneer at me, laugh at me—at me who had always carried my head so high. And then, last night, it came to me that I was just picturing to myself how I would have acted toward anybody else who had suffered such a blow and that this was a punishment for my holier-than-thou selfishness. It made me look at things differently. I saw that I had been quick to judge others harshly when maybe they couldn't have helped themselves . . . It's the end of everything for me, Andy—I have nothing to look forward to—but I know I'll never again look down on anybody whose station of life or mode of conduct is different from mine—or—or what mine has been. I have been horrid to you and Mercy—"

She broke off abruptly, suddenly remembering they were not alone. She glanced apprehensively at Mercy. Andy intercepted the glance and squeezed her hand tenderly.

"You mustn't talk that way, Sheila," he said. "It's all going to come out right and Mercy and I are going to help all we can. Mercy knows all that I know about it, but nobody else need know a thing. Nobody's going to have a chance to sneer or laugh at you. It's going to be a close family secret, just you and I and Mercy and Uncle Bill. I want to tell you, Sheila, Mercy is to be one of the family—she is going to marry me, knowing I've got nothing but myself to offer. She's true blue, Sheila, and you can trust her with your life."

Sheila's eyes were filled with tears as she went to Mercy with arms outstretched. They clung to each other a moment. Then Mercy led Sheila to a chair and sank down beside her.

"You said something a while ago about facing the truth—I have had to face it, too," Mercy said. "You were right that time you said I was trying to trap Andy; I was, but I got caught in my own trap. I thought all I wanted was Andy's money, but when Andy told me his money was all gone, I found out that Andy meant more to me than all the money in the world."

Then she poured into Sheila's ears the whole story. They talked together for a long time. Sheila was distressed to learn that Andy's fortune had vanished. For the time her own troubles were forgotten. They were brought back to her poignantly as she was preparing to leave. She was standing near Andy. She picked up her driving gloves from a table beside his chair. Andy's eyes followed the movement of her hands.

"Sheila!" he exclaimed, "where is your engagement ring?"

She dropped the gloves. Her face paled.

"I—I—that's all over—I couldn't couldn't marry Joe," she said, "everything is so different now."

"Nonsense, Sheila, nothing is changed," Andy protested. "You are the same girl you always were—you mustn't let a morbid idea ruin your happiness."

Sheila did not reply. She again took up her gloves and her eyes fell upon a small, neatly wrapped package on the table, addressed and stamped for mailing. She mechanically read the address and seized upon the opportunity to turn the conversation away from herself.

"Why, this is addressed to papa," she said, taking the parcel in her hand. "What is it, Andy?"

"Oh, that—that—" Andy stuttered in embarrassment, "why, that—oh, it's just some papers I am returning to Uncle Bill."

"Well, I'm going right home," she said, oblivious to his distress. "I'll take them with me and save you a trip to the letter box."

Sheila went out with the little parcel under her arm. Andy and Mercy stared at each other in dismay.

Planes and Eagles

EL PASO, Texas.—Airplanes are a great aid to sheepmen in Texas. Some herders have employed planes to go on eagle hunts. The eagles, heretofore, have had their own way in stealing young lambs from flocks. Now, however, a plane "rides herd" over a flock all day. When the pilot sees an eagle approach to make a kill, he follows and shoots it.

Q.—Is it true that the acoustics are so good in the Hollywood bowl that one can hear a pin drop?—G. A. L.

A.—An even more delicate test has been made on its acoustic properties. When engineers were trying out the audibility of the sound reflector on the stage of the Hollywood bowl they dropped one No. 10 bird shot (weighing slightly more than one-thousandth of an ounce) eight inches on a kettle-drum. The sound was heard throughout the bowl. When dropped only one-quarter inch, listeners in three-quarters of the Bowl heard the shot fall. The reflector is the half shell of a huge cone, 45 feet at the front of the stage and 18 feet high at the rear. It is made of 36 tons of structural steel, padded inside and out with asbestos sheets. No electrical amplifiers are necessary.

Q.—Is it true that the elements of our body are constantly changing? H. A. B.

A.—Dr. Edward F. Adolph of the University of Rochester has stated that the elements in our bodies undergo the following changes: Water changes every three weeks; salt every 22 days; potassium, 72 days; magnesium, 103 days; nitrogen, the fundamental element of muscles, 290 days; iron, essential element of the blood, changes about every 300 days; phosphorus, 800 days; and lime, 2,300 days. Certain cells, such as the brain cells, apparently last a lifetime.

Q.—What is the bean that is used in chop suey?—M. T.

A.—It is the mung bean. This is an oriental bean grown primarily in China and Japan. The bean sprouts grow to be from one to one and one-half inches long. It is only the bean sprout that is used, as practically all of the bean goes to sprout. For sprouting, the bean should be soaked 24 hours in water and then placed in a well-drained container and kept at a medium temperature for about 10 days. The bean should be moistened daily.

Q.—What was the French play about Lindbergh?—R. N.

A.—In France, Sacha Guitry wrote and produced a drama entitled simply Lindbergh, epitomizing the arrival of the lone eagle in Paris at the end of his memorable transatlantic flight. For the title role, a young Frenchman who was once mistaken for Lindbergh in a Paris crowd was located and trained for his stage debut.

Q.—Why are society people spoken of as the four hundred?—E. F.

A.—The four hundred is a phrase coined in the nineties which referred to the relatively small number of New York society people who were deemed eligible to be guests of prominent hostesses. The phrase has become a figure of speech.

Q.—With the difference in height above sea level of the various Great Lakes, what retains the water in their various basins?—F. M. P.

A.—These differences result from the restricted passageways between the lakes. The outlets of the higher lakes are not of sufficient depth to permit their surfaces to reach the levels of the lower lakes into which they drain.

Q.—What is the origin of the expression "showing the white feather"?—C. E. A.

A.—To show the white feather" is synonymous with "to show cowardice." The proverbial expression arose from the circumstance that a white feather in the tail of a game-cock is a certain sign that he is not thoroughbred.

Q.—What are the otter-like animals which are often tamed in India?—M. G.

A.—Mongooses are often caught and tamed. They are quick and sharp-eyed, and live almost entirely upon snakes and reptiles. They are often kept in houses as snake killers. They are intelligent and make excellent pets.

Q.—What stamp first bore the picture of George Washington?—M. B. W.

A.—The 10-cent postage stamp of the series of 1847 was the first that bore the portrait of George Washington.

Q.—Was the community chest suggested by the war chest?—B. E.

A.—The community chest is the outgrowth of the Federation of Charity and Philanthropy, a pre-war development, and the war chest.

Q.—Where is the longest paved road in the world?—E. B.

A.—It is said to be U. S. route 40, from Wilmington, Del., to St. Mary's, Kan., a distance of 1,254 miles.

Q.—Will singed eyelashes grow to their natural length?—B. B. B.

A.—Usually they will.

The Record News Offers A Booklet on Moths

While moths may be on the wing in steam-heated buildings during almost any month, they are present in greatest abundance the country over from May to July and during September and October. This means that housewives are now in the midst of one of their anxious seasons. The booklet on moths, prepared by federal government experts, lists 18 different remedies for the control of these pests and indicates which should be used under various conditions.

Don't think you will not need the booklet because the moths have not bothered you yet. Send for a copy today, using this coupon.

Lamar Avenue Baptist W. M. U. Circles Meet

Only a few of Lamar Avenue Baptist circles met Monday as it was the fifth Monday and not the regular day for the W. M. U. Circles two and three met at the home of Mrs. A. V. Hibler on Fourth street in a social session and spent a pleasant afternoon playing games and holding interesting contests.

At the close of the afternoon, delicious refreshments were served to Mesdames W. N. Rawls, O. R. Ivey, A. N. Duckworth, P. F. West, W. G. Nabors, C. F. Somerville, R. D. King, N. B. Rawls, L. R. Hall, L. C. Blakeley, Riley Yawls, V. W. Chambliss, W. P. Neal, E. M. Teeters, Annie Fulcher, C. T. Walters, J. A. Strickland, C. O. Wilson, R. C. Milford, J. C. Elrod, E. F. Moore, Mrs. A. V. Hibler, the hostess and one visitor, Miss Lillian Cherry of Texarkana, who is the guest of Mrs. Teeters.

Circle Seven

Mrs. E. S. Richardson was hostess to circle seven at her home on the Speedway and gave the opening prayer.

The devotional was given by Mrs. E. L. Kemmerly who presided in the business session in the absence of the chairman. After the business session, Mrs. W. E. Walker taught the lesson from the W. M. U. book, "Why and How." Mrs. Kemmerly gave the closing prayer.

A delightful refreshment plate was served to Mesdames W. E. Walker, W. M. Cone, E. L. Kemmerly and the hostess, Mrs. E. S. Richards.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Once in the chronicles of old Egyptian times they told of the plague of the locusts.

In Herodotus' ever-interesting tales, he tells of the land of Egypt and speaks of the long low tables on which feasts were spread; slaves fanned the guests gently with great, irridescent feather fans. The blossoms of the lotus were beautiful in a pool inside the tables and their sweet scent was in the air.

In tales of Greece, hot weather clung ever more lovingly. The shining blue seas; the vine clad hills; shepherds piping to their flocks; the tread of bare feet purpling in the great wine vats.

When the historians told of hot days in Rome, the streets were most often quiet, the marble baths were filled. The tales that were told of the royal baths! Water colored in pellucid tones to glow on every figure. Slaves waiting with soft silken robes. Rich perfumes in the air. More than a suggestion of licentiousness in the gleam of wet bodies and boisterous bursts of laughter.

And in the Roman evening, when the table was spread with spiced meats and piled high with rich fruits and foods; when wine flowed in ruby splendor and even the unhappiest slaves forgot their griefs—then it seems, the hot summer winds were forgotten.

That summer thousands of years ago when the Hebrews sweated beneath hods of new made bricks and when later, as one of the plagues, the locusts came to eat everything green; when all vegetation was gone and the clicking song of the cicada was an incessant horror in the ears of Egyptians—about that there was nothing lovely.

And when Herodotus wrote, he told many things marvelous and many that later historians deem untrue, but he paid no attention to flies and gnats and the insects.

Is it possible that in Greece, the wine could have been trod by foot, as they say it was in the earliest days, that native life could have been outdoors and that sun and flower and the goats in their great herds—all these could have been and still no one was worried by insects?

In the ruins uncovered at Pompeii, there is a lava figure of a dog. Dogs abounded on the streets of Rome. No dogs without their fleas.

History and romance have been false to us. Our age is the most sanitary of any time. Yet we are constantly warring against insects of all kinds. Not to speak of the discomfort they cause, we hear rumblings of "The Greatest Enemy of Mankind"—meaning bugs.

Well, they were always the things we hated most. If we were an author, we would give coming generations warnings about them. As it is, we think that from Herodotus down, we've been gypped!

Miss Annie Strum Honoree at Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Sturm, eight miles south of the city, was the scene of a pretty party Friday night when Miss Alice Sturm, entertained with a surprise shower honoring her sister, Annie, on the occasion of her birthday. Many beautiful gifts were presented to the honoree.

The evening was spent in games and contests. In the apple eating contest, Edward Rathgeber was winner.

A delicious two-course plate was served to the honoree, Miss Annie Sturm, and Misses Esther Krottinger, Alice Sturm, Katherine Ford, Edna Sturm, Mildred Anderson and Berneice Taylor; Messrs. Much-Married Daughter of Solon Severs Bonds Again to Wed Texan

RENO, Nev., June 30. (AP)—Eugenia Bankhead Hoyt Butt, daughter of Congressman W. B. Bankhead of Alabama, whose matrimonial ventures have been chronicled annually, or twice a year in the last few years, jumped out of another matrimonial frying pan here today and announced that she would jump into another tomorrow evening.

The groom is to be Howard Lee, aviator and official of Southern Air Transport of Dallas, Texas.

Waiting today for her turn in Judge Moran's court to have her annulment action against Wilfred Lawson Butt heard, Mrs. Butt said:

"I am sure this will be my last trip to Reno—for busines reasons. I will be married tomorrow night to Mr. Lee, and he's a dear. We will fly back to Los Angeles and then to Dallas. You know I'm learning aviation and I hope to have the control sticks part of our flight back."

There was no contest to the Butt annulment, the last husband, a former University of Nevada student, having filed an appearance in the case, but not appearing in person. Mrs. Butt was given permission to resume the family name of Bankhead.

"We are going to go back to Alabama just before the primary to do some campaigning for my uncle, who is seeking the senatorial nomination," the much married young woman said. "Howard and I will fly over the big cities and write dad's name in the air as we fly."

Then she was asked about having the wedding party photographed tomorrow night.

"I haven't had a wedding picture made for some time," she said. "The last wedding was not photographed. Howard and I are going to look funny in this picture, too, for he's so tall and I'm so short."

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Anglin of Nara Visa, N. M., are visiting relatives in Iowa Park and Wichita Falls for a few days.

Pilot Loses Pants While Making Flight

GREENSBORO, N. C., June 30. (UP)—Pete Branson, pilot on the New York-to-Atlanta air mail line, claimed the doubtful distinction today of being possibly the first airman in history to lose his pants in flight. It was on one of those hot nights that he took them off, rolled them up for a head rest and in a moment of forgetfulness leaned forward to look out the cockpit. Out the window went the pants. Residents of Rowan county were requested by Branson to keep an eye open for the missing garment.

She called 'em "Conglomerates"

but now Aunt Sally's secret is out

"AUNT SALLY WHITE used to bake the best cakes in our neighborhood," writes the woman who sends me this recipe. "And she was so secretive that when someone asked what went into this particularly good cake she replied testily, 'Oh, it's a conglomerate.' The name stuck, even after she left her handwritten recipe book to my mother. The original conglomerate recipe called for another fat, but I've found Crisco much better."

No wonder—for not only does Crisco taste fresh and pure like sweet butter—but it's so spoonable and workable that you can put your eggs, Crisco and sugar all into the bowl at once and blend them in one operation.

CONGLOMERATES

1 cup seedless raisins	3 cups flour
2 cups hot water	4 teaspoons baking powder
1½ cup Crisco	1 teaspoon nutmeg
1½ cups sugar	1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs	½ teaspoon cloves
1 cup walnut meats (chopped)	1 teaspoon salt

Boil raisins and water together about 10 minutes. Drain off and save the water, adding enough more water to make 1½ cups of liquid. Blend Crisco, sugar and eggs in one operation. (You'll save ½ of your mixing time.) Add walnuts and raisins; then the liquid. Sift together the flour, salt, baking powder and spices. Add to first mixture and mix thoroughly. Fill well-Criscoed muffin pans about half full. Bake in moderate (375° F.) oven 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 30 cakes. Ice with Mocha cream icing. Blend 1½ tablespoons Crisco with 1½ cups confectioners' sugar, 2 tablespoons cocoa and ½ teaspoon salt. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 2 tablespoons strong coffee.

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL. Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

• • •

And when you haven't time to bake cakes at home it's nice to know that you can go to a nearby baker or grocer and buy delicious cakes made with Crisco.

Most good bakers do use Crisco, I've found. And when a baker is so particular about this shortening, he's apt to use the very best of other ingredients. WINIFRED S. CARTER

Taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor will tell you why things made with Crisco taste so much better.

Dr. Hardee Chambliss

Eminent International Scientist and Noted Educator

says: "I have tested 33 dentifrices with reference to cleansing qualities . . . Colgate's is greatest."

Dr. Hardee Chambliss

Dean of School of Sciences, Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.; noted internationally as a scientist; member of the American Chemical Society; American Institute of Chemical Engineers; Society Chemical Industry of England; Chemistry Society of London, and other leading associations.

DR. HARDEE CHAMBLISS, Dean of School of Sciences, Catholic University, Washington, D. C., says: "I have tested and compared thirty-three different dentifrices with reference to their cleansing qualities. I find Colgate's not only cleans the surfaces safely, but also because of its very effective wetting power and low surface tension (penetrating foam) it has greater ability than other dentifrices to get down into tiny crevices and fissures of the teeth, flooding away decaying food particles. Other dentifrices, because they are sluggish, lack this power.

"Colgate's fulfills the one function of a dentifrice—to cleanse the teeth thoroughly."

Hardee Chambliss

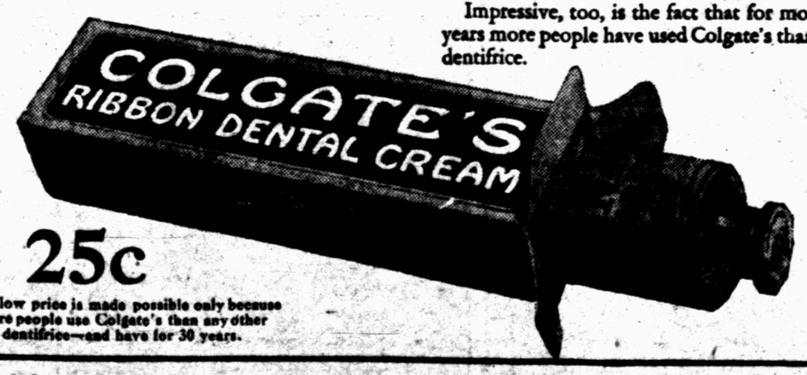

DOESN'T it impress you to know that this noted authority made a scientific analysis of 33 different dentifrices? He exhaustively tested each one for cleansing properties. Studied their action—noted their effect. His opinion is based on his findings.

Colgate's, he discovered, has greater ability than other dentifrices to get down into tiny crevices and fissures of the teeth, where pasty, sluggish dentifrices do not reach.

He found that Colgate's has the unique power of flooding away decaying particles of food, which, hidden away in these tiny crevices, cause the greatest trouble. Thus leaving hidden, as well as exposed surfaces thoroughly and healthfully clean.

And wouldn't it impress you still more to know that agreeing with Dr. Chambliss are such eminent authorities as Doctors Shirley W. Wynne, Commissioner of Health, New York City, and H. H. Bunzell, Ph.D., University of Chicago, and other prominent authorities, who were retained to make analytical tests and to render their expert opinions?

Impressive, too, is the fact that for more than 30 years more people have used Colgate's than any other dentifrice.

Non-Starchy Soups in Summer

Most people think that soups are more valuable in winter than in summer, but as a matter of fact soups contain so much water that their main action is to cool one off even if they are hot and cause one to feel warm temporarily. In using soups during the warm weather, however, it is a good plan to use soups which do not contain starches and which are not too hot.

I do not believe that many of you have ever tried a cold raw soup, but you would find this very refreshing on a warm day. A good soup may be made by grinding some raw tomatoes through a coarse grinder on your food chopper, and then putting on a finer grinder and grinding through some parsley, celery and carrots. This makes a soup about the consistency of catsup, with a very good flavor. If you like, you may give a creamy consistency to the soup by adding a small amount of almond or peanut butter, mashed first with a small amount of the juice and then the balance slowly added. This soup should be chilled on ice before serving. Cold cooked tomatoes may be used if you prefer.

In cooking soup you will achieve the finest flavor if you chop the ingredients into pieces and start it with cold water over a low flame. The old saying that soup should smile and not laugh illustrates a proper way to boil soup, allowing it to simmer slowly but not boil vigorously. In this way the full flavors are extracted and blended together in the water.

It does not matter whether you call soup a broth, consomme, bouillon, bisque, chowder, puree or pottage. It consists essentially of food particles suspended in water. In preparing soup one should remember that the food combinations should be observed in soups as in meals. Meat soups are quite wholesome when only one kind is combined with some of the non-starchy vegetables. When making a meat soup you may use that soup standby, tomatoes, but do not use crackers or any other search in the meal at which tomato soup is served. The meat extractives when boiled out give the soup an agreeable flavor and are not harmful.

On cold days you can serve some of the starchy soups made of potatoes, rice, peas, barley, macaroni, etc. The starchy soup should be served as a thick soup so that it is possible to almost chew it. At least each spoonful should be held in the mouth long enough to properly mix the starch with the saliva. In making the starchy soups you may combine them with non-starchy vegetables such as spinach, celery and parsley, but do not use tomatoes with a starchy soup.

Soups are more wholesome if the usual thickenings of flour or arrowroot are not used. You may make your soup thicker by boiling away more of the water, and this is much preferable to adding thickenings.

Tasty soups are relished by everybody. An ingenious cook can make a good soup out of almost any good substance, even leftovers, although fresh vegetables are best. Those in good health relish soup, for it starts the meal off well, awakens the appetite, and a bowl of filling soup will often round out the menu in a satisfactory manner.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cancer of Stomach

Question—Mrs. C. L. asks: "Will you please state some of the symptoms of cancer of the stomach? Is there any pain or bloating in the advanced stage?"

Answer—The symptoms of cancer of the stomach vary entirely with each individual. There may or may not be pain or bloating. If you have any kind of stomach distress you should certainly have a careful examination made, going to some doctor who uses the x-ray. Do not try to diagnose your own case if you suspect it is as serious as you intimate in your question.

Mustard

Question—J. H. H. writes: "I am very fond of prepared mustard as a condiment and would like to know if you consider it harmful."

Answer—Mustard is a comparatively harmless condiment if it is used with meat at a meal which does not contain starchy food. The danger of all condiments is that they excite the appetite and encourage one to eat more than normal hunger would call for.

Head Sweats

Question—O. L. M. writes: "My baby nine months old has for several months been subject to profuse perspiration which occurs only when she is sleeping or nursing, and the strange part of it is that the condition manifests only at the head. Will you tell me if this is an indication of anything wrong and what measures I can take to overcome it?"

Answer—Most mothers dress their babies too warmly, and this is generally the cause of the baby sweating. The baby will sweat if too many covers are used while she is sleeping, or if she wears the same amount of clothes while nursing as she does at other times, as the heat of the mother's body and the effort used in nursing will make the baby's head unusually warm.

Hubby Besieges Wife and Rival Until 'Surrender'

CHICAGO, June 30. (INS)—Disposition of a disorderly conduct charge against Robert Simpson, St. Louis salesman, and Mrs. Ruth Anderson, 24, was continued until tomorrow in morals court today.

The charge was made against the couple after they barricaded themselves in a hotel room for eight hours while Mrs. Anderson's peeved husband parked himself across the corridor.

Mrs. Anderson, who has filed suit for separate maintenance, demanding a half interest in her husband's $250,000 filling station chain, yesterday registered at the hotel with her companion as Mr. and Mrs. R. Simpson of St. Louis.

Anderson, who is 55, arrived soon after, accompanied by a detective. He phoned Simpson's room, saying: "Listen you! You've got my wife in there."

"What of it?" the salesman is said to have replied.

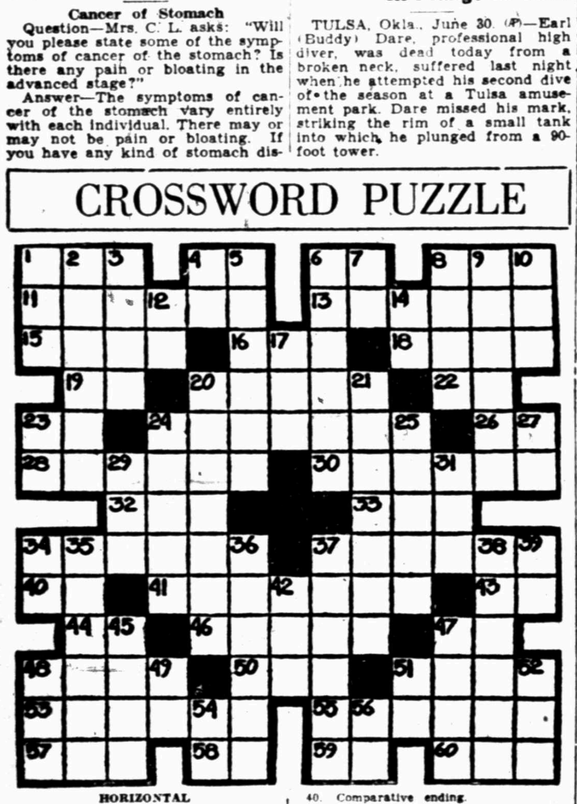

Thereupon Anderson rented a room across the hall from Simpson's and settled down to an eight-hour siege. Lacking a search warrant, he could not force. He tried to lure his wife out by sending a savory breakfast to the door. She spurned the food and Anderson nibbled at it himself.

Finally Mrs. Anderson's attorney arranged an honorable surrender.

INDIAN UNREST INJURES TRADE

Boycott Brings Slump In Importation

BOMBAY, June 30. (AP)—American trade with India has been hard hit by the business slump brought about by the Swaraj, or independence movement, and the subsequent boycott. The chief sufferers have been the automobile industry and shippers of various kinds of machinery.

The Nationalists' boycott is directed against British goods in particular but all foreign firms doing business in different parts of the country are feeling its effects. Enormous losses have resulted. Japan's trade in cotton goods also was hard hit not only by Mahatma Gandhi's campaign to stimulate homespuns but also by the five per cent Indian preferential tariff which importing agents say works in Great Britain's favor. Business men believe that in a short time the automobile, as well as the cotton yarn and piece goods business will be in the doldrums owing to Indian unrest and the feeling of uncertainty which prevails generally in commercial circles as well as among individuals.

During 1929 there were shipped from the United States and Canada 15,000 trucks and 12,000 private cars for the Indian trade. This average continued until last month, when business began its decline. In May, 1929, 459 cars were sold in Bombay presidency, while in May, 1930, but 284 cars were sold, and observers say indications point to June figures far below May's.

A detailed analysis of British India's trade returns for May, issued by the department of commercial intelligence and statistics, reflected the falling trade due to the political situation. It showed the visible balance of trade in May was but 9,300,000 rupees, or approximately $3,300,000 dollars, in favor of India, as against 36,600,000 rupees, or about $13,300,000 dollars in April, and 24,600,000 rupees, or about $9,000,000 in India's favor in May of 1929.

The British owned Bombay News says "if the trade decline continues, owing to the political situation, India is heading for a big economic crash."

ANOTHER RECORD, ALAS
My Idea of It

The Hunter boys turned from the plow
With endurance honors their concern
And while the rest think they're the wow
I do not give a dern.

On that glad day I'll give a whoop
Expressing my unshorn delight;
When the public merely stifles a yawn
When it hears of a new endurance flight.

Homer's Idea of It

Beside the roaring waters of the dark Aegean sea
Sat Homer, blind, with downcast head and deep in reverie
Scribbling verse that told the tale of the tottering town of Troy
And how Achilles proved himself a brave and noble boy.

When suddenly the blind old bard was given to a vision.
He saw an airplane circling toward him with a bird's precision.
On it's crest it bore the sign "We'll fly a century."
And Homer gave a throaty squawk and dived into the sea.

What Edgar Thought

Anon there came from out the dusk a figure bending low
Who proved to be no other than one Edgar Allan Poe.
A raven circled o'er his head, but he chanted allegretto
Because he had died before having to hear of the latest flight at Chicago.

These Clever Children!

Oh how I would like to go up in the sky,
Up in the sky so blue!
Alone in my plane, except, of course,
For you and you and you.

The sunset's blue would be my drink,
The clouds my daily ration.
That is, in case I didn't hit
An airy filling station.

Oh I would reach heights the birds cannot
And soar quite out of sight
That is, in case I didn't crash
Into an endurance flight.

Envoy

And now you've heard the dictum
Of both men of age and kids
That endurance fliers, one and all,
Should get the well known skids.
And personally, while these bloomin' guys
Are wearing out the rudders
I'm going to recline and enjoy life
And read about the Spudders.

And, having started it that way, we'll continue this col. in verse; not with our own, but with a contribution to the Rambler's Corner by one Tom Beecey, as follows:

Lo, the Poor Indians!

From the wigwam called the dugout
Came the chieftain, Carlos Williams,
Calling his warring braves together
Seated in a circle 'round him.
There he spake, his voice commanding
Sternly, kindly, spake his biddings:
"You are warriors of a nation,
Wichitas, the chosen people,
Fate has chosen you the ruler.
Hark, then, lest that rule be threatened.
'Cross the field in yonder wigwam
Sit your proud and hated rivals,
Sit those San Antonio Tribesmen
With their fat and chuckling chieftain
Sneering like a prairie rabbit
That has turned upon the coyote
He so startled and bewildered.
Yesterday you lost in battle,
Not a brave was killed or wounded.
You were like unto the coyote
Startled into futile efforts.
Are you as but fleeting pheasants
Born with wings for their protection
Or the courage of the cougar
Ever fighting and aggressive?
Go then forth into the battle,
Die or come to me as victors.
Wichitas must save their honor
You will save or lose that honor."
Straightway went the smarting warriors
Smarting from those words so burning
Sternly spoken by their chieftain.
Five attacks found dead resistance
Due to deadly arrow shooting
Of that bow and arrow demon,
Malicky, that shooting terror.
But the north tribe could not weaken,
Onward they crawled toward this demon,
Never darting, never flinching
From his stinging poison arrows.
With a crash they fell upon him
Swinging bludgeons in a frenzy,
Crazed by thrill that comes of battle,
Hearing not his cries for mercy.
Now the Sanantones were fleeing
And the Wichitas pursued them,
Chased them back across the prairies,
Saved the honor of the Northland.

CHAMPIONSHIP STARTS TODAY

44 Golfers Enter Electra's First Contest

By ROY MANKINS
Record News Correspondent

ELECTRA, Texas, June 30.—Jack Parr, youthful Electra golf sensation, came near shooting his last name today as he toured the treacherous 18-hole course here in 74, two above par, to win medalist honors in the qualifying round of the first annual Electra Country club invitation tournament.

Parr was closely pursued by George Meredith of Eastland, who shot a 75, and J. H. Marriott Jr., Electra, who came through with a 76. The three were the only ones of 44 registered in the tournament to shoot the course in figures below 80.

Championship Today

The championship flight will start Tuesday morning with 16 players in the lists.

Golfers from all over this section of the state are participating in the tourney, the first sponsored by the Electra Country club. It is planned to make the event an annual affair. Club officials today were pleased that much interest is taken in the tournament. The course was crowded with several hundred onlookers as the qualifying round began.

Two players, J. C. Nuchels of Chillicothe, and Staton Bonner of Wichita Falls, played their qualifying round Sunday, Nuchels making a score of 86, very poor for him, while Bonner shot an 83. Nuchels has made the course in 73, one above par.

A separate tournament for women started today, the fair ones playing nine holes. A similar number will be played each day of the tournament.

Qualifiers today, their scores, and the city from which they came follow:

Electra: Porter Gilliland, 123; Rollo Davidson, 93; James C. Scheurer, 110; A. C. Bledsoe, 95; Francis Awtrey, 103; A. C. Hill, 100; Roy Lebus, 82; Herman Gibson, 88; Jack Lebus, 86; H. W. Myers, 81; J. H. Marriott Jr., 76; A Kemple, 87; A. Beasley, 99; U. G. White, 85; J. C. Shaw, 121; J. E. Lebus, 85; Frank Lebus, 86; Jack Parr, 74; James Parr, 83; S. B. Marchant, 98; Paul Brush, 112; E. R. Brown, 115.

Wichitans Entered

Wichita Falls: S. T. Burns, 82; J. H. Bonner, 83; Roscoe Davis, 94; E. P. Bass, 94; J. D. Bright, 100; L. W. McCrory, 95; Guy Underwood, 86; K. F. Haley, 82; L. T. Burns, 82.

Iowa Park: J. A. Griffin, 99; O. J. Kidwell, 110; J. G. O'Donohue, 95; C. F. Johnson, 87.

Knox City: T. Parmer, 86; Jack Wilson, 108.

Quanah, Roy Cope, 91.

Childress: A. J. Brown, 81.

Fort Worth: R. L. Lotspeitch, 86.

Eastland: George Meredith, 75; Ray Morris, 92.

Cox' Homer Gives Cats 4 to 2 Win Over Steers

FORT WORTH, June 30. (AP)—A home run into the right field stands by Larry Cox with two men on gave Fort Worth a 4 to 2 victory over Dallas here this afternoon. It was the Cats' third straight win over the Herd and four out of five for the series. Stoner pitched all the way for Fort Worth. Specs Meadows started for Dallas but was hammered out of the box in the sixth. Score:

Tribesman Riley Is Sent to Western Loop

SAN ANTONIO, June 30. (AP)—First Baseman Jim Riley has been transferred to Topeka, Kan., of the Western league. This followed acquisition of Sam Leslie, hard-hitting first baseman, from the New York Giants together with Pitcher Roy Lucas in a deal for Pitcher Jim Chaplin. The Indians are also to get an outfielder in connection with the Chaplin deal.

Houston Retains Lead With Night Victory Over Waco

Has Good Arm

TED LYONS.

CHICAGO, June 30. (AP)—An injured right arm made Ted Lyons' pitching last year for the White Sox ineffective most of the season.

There was some fear that the arm and shoulder, hurt when Lyons collided with Joe Judge, Washington first baseman, never would be sound again.

This year, however, the soreness was gone, and his record thus far indicates that no vestige of the old trouble remains.

He won eight of the first 10 games he started, making him the most effective pitcher the White Sox have, and one of the best in the American league.

Lyons, who attended Baylor university at Waco, Texas, is one of a select group of performers under the big top who made the jump direct from the college campus.

CUBS' OWLISH STREAK BROKEN

Victory Puts Buffs Further Ahead of Idle Spuds

WACO, June 30. (AP)—Houston broke Waco's streak of night wins tonight, 10 to 3 with 3,700 fans in the stands. Many of them, however, were women admitted free on ladies' night. Houston staged a seven-run rally in the third after Waco had scored three runs in the second.

The victory enabled the Buffs to retain undisputed possession of first place in the league standings, the Spudders remaining idle after having played their scheduled game with Shreveport as part of Sunday's double-header. A loss tonight would have placed the Buffs and Spudders in a tie. The Spudders swing into action again Tuesday at Dallas.

Texan Upsets Henri Cochet Of France in Wimbledon Match

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 30. (AP)—Wilmer Allison, blond whirlwind from Austin, Texas, upset the great Henri Cochet of France in straight sets in the quarter-finals of the British tennis championships today.

Cochet, the defending champion and recognized No. 1 player of the world, was beaten 6-4, 6-4, 6-3 in one of the most surprising matches ever witnessed here.

Upset Startles Crowd

Although Allison has been playing brilliant tennis since his arrival in Europe with the United States Davis cup team, few were prepared for the wonderful exhibition of serving, driving, volleying and smashing with which he all but swept his famous opponent off his feet. Probably none was more surprised than Cochet himself who never had a chance to get started.

Two other Americans followed Allison into the semi-final round of the tournament while the potent racquet of Jean Borotra, the bounding basque, gave the other berth to France.

Borotra downed George Lott of Chicago, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4, in a match that American adherents had had far more hope of winning than the Allison-Cochet encounter. Bill Tilden trimmed Dr. J. Colin Gregory, one of England's two top ranking players, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, and in an all-American encounter John Doeg, stalwart Davis cup player from Santa Monica, Calif., turned back his Newark, N. J., rival, Gregory Mangin, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4.

In the semi-finals on Wednesday Allison meets Doeg and Tilden tries conclusions with Borotra whose victory today saved the French from immediate and complete elimination from the tournament they have won for the last six years.

Masked Gunman Slays Youth in Automobile

FARGO, N. D., June 30. (INS) — Fargo today had a "maniac killer" mystery of its own to solve after Leif Erickson, 25, was shot to death by a masked gunman as he sat in his parked automobile with Vera Helgerson, 22. The slaying occurred at the city's outskirts.

The slayer, wearing a mask with queer eye-slits, suddenly opened the door of Erickson's car, prodded his victim with a revolver and demanded that he "stick 'em up."

Although Erickson complied, the killer shot him through the shoulder, killing him almost instantly. An approaching automobile caused the assailant to flee. No attempt was made to rob his victim.

More Planes for Navy

WASHINGTON.—The awarding of contracts for the construction of airplanes valued at more than $3,500,000 will bring more than 75 new planes to the U. S. navy. The contracts, recently let, include 18 torpedo and bombers, 25 patrol planes, boat type, 9 VP patrol boats, and 27 fighting aircraft.

LEADING CUBS WHIP GIANTS

Ott and Hartnett Crack Home Runs

CHICAGO, June 30. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs took a little firmer hold on the National league leadership today as they defeated the New York Giants, 10 to 4, in the first game of the series. The victory puts the Cubs out in front by one and one-half games. Mel Ott hit his 16th home run and Gabby Hartnett cracked out his 17th of the season. Score:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—Cotton was very quiet today with an early decline under liquidation and scattered local selling followed by rallies on covering. July contracts after selling at 13.63 at the start declined to 13.41 and closed at 13.46 or 13 points net lower while the new October after selling off to 12.93 rallied to 13.03 and closed at 12.98 compared with 13.02 at the close of Saturday. The general market closed steady at net decline of 13 points on July and 2 to 5 points on October and later deliveries.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 11 points under selling which seemed to be promoted by the outlook for unsettled weather with showers in parts of the south. The relatively steady showing of Liverpool brought in enough buying to absorb the initial offerings and hold the market fairly steady right after the call, but the circulation of a few additional July notices caused a little near month liquidation.

Liverpool cables said American selling had been absorbed by continental buying in that market. Port receipts today 4,940. U. S. port stocks 1,665,203. Exports 10,701, making 6,649,164 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 30. (AP)—Cotton was rather tame today with narrow price fluctuations and absence of definite trend to prices. Despite good Liverpool cables the market opened irregular, 6 points down on July to 1 up on October.

A general desire to know the policy of the farm loan board with respect to the new crop restricted trading. The general market closed steady at net declines of 4 to 9 points. July closed at 13.09, October at 12.98 and December at 13.14.

Port receipts 4,840, for week 7,267, for season 8,599,865, last season 9,436,975. Exports 10,701, for week 14,483, for season 6,475,728, last season 7,706,756. Port stock 1,673,341, last year 780,693. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 63,425. Last year 58,556. Spot sales at southern markets 1,293, last year 2,315.

Stocks Register Sharp Gains As Bear Influences Become Scarce

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 30. (US)—Sharp price advances were witnessed on the stock exchange today as persistent demand uncovered comparatively light offerings. Appreciation in quotations, averaging over seven points among leading industrials and relatively as great in rails and utilities, was all the more remarkable because of the continued light volume, aggregating for the day 1,828,000 shares. This was the smallest daily total since Jan. 20, last. It was evident that the professional bear party were leaving the market severely alone, so that the reinvestment demand incident to the month-end dividend and interest distributions brought about substantial gains in practically the entire list. The highest-grade issues were particularly favored by such investment buying, which in turn induced considerable short covering. Constructionists were in complete control of the market, which rose steadily to close at the top levels for the day.

Steel common, assuming leadership from the opening, touched 160 for the highest price in several weeks and reacted only fractionally to close at 159¾, up 3⅝ points. American Can was up five points, American Telephone and Telegraph 3⅞, General Electric 3, Westinghouse 6¼, Consolidated gas 5¼, and equally large gains were scored throughout the list. The railroad stocks enjoyed a strong comeback, particularly the highest-grade issues such as Atchison which jumped 8 points, Pennsylvania, up 2, Union Pacific, up 5¼. Allied Chemical was the outstanding performer, achieving a gain of 16 points and closing at the top.

It was an investors' market from the opening. Further outbreak of weakness in wheat failed to influence stock prices even temporarily, while a rise in call money to 3 per cent likewise was ignored, the stiffening being attributed to month-end calling of loans for the heavy disbursements by corporations. Investors found high-grade stocks yielding from 4½ per cent to above 7 per cent, as a result of the recent sharp reaction in prices. Baltimore & Ohio was taken in large amounts because of its high yield. The same was true of New Haven, in which one of the leading banking houses presumably acting for the Pennsylvania added to its holdings. This stock at par yields 6 per cent. This is the first time in several years that mid-year reinvestment funds have been placed in stocks at such yields as now prevail. In the case of the leading rails the yields are the highest in three years or more. Thus, New York Central, Atchison, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and others of similar caliber yielded at their recent lows 5 per cent or better, Chesapeake & Ohio and Pennsylvania yielded well over 5½ per cent.

Southern Railway, for which a fairly heavy loaning demand was reported, recovered several points. Specialties such as Worthington Pump, Vanadium and Radio while not meeting much investment demand, were all higher under influence of the strength in the highest grade issues. Sharp rise in Allied Chemical resulted from a frightened rush by shorts to cover an announcement that one of its subsidiaries plans to spend $5,000,000 on further expansion due to increasing business. Considerable short covering throughout the list took place last week by professionals anxious to lighten commitments over the July 1 reinvestment period and also over the July 4 holiday. The short selling of the last few days has been chiefly by small traders. Sentiment naturally improved as the market advanced, while President Crowley of the New York Central, created additional optimism by his statement over the week-end that business actually had turned the corner. His association with George F. Baker on the board of the Central was stressed.

That investors' tastes still favor stocks was reflected in a generally irregular bond market with volume about 20 per cent below Friday's total. Mid-year reinvestment demand apparently failed to influence the bond list, despite the known desires of bankers to build up a more active and stronger bond market. For the most part, professionals on both the bull and bear side of stocks were inclined to remain inactive in the market because of the four-day week-end holiday. The thinness of offerings on the upside, as evidenced by the rather brisk advances recorded today, was a development of considerable cheer to the constructive forces.

PIPE LINE LAW TO BE TESTED

Darst Creek Operators To Attend Hearing

Special to The Record News

AUSTIN, June 30.—First test of effect of the new pipe line law to provide relief for oil producers will be made Tuesday, in hearings before the railroad commission.

Operators of the Darst Creek field, Guadalupe county, will appear to ask the commission to act under the new law to provide for transportation of oil, now allegedly clogging all storage facilities there. Their storage tanks are filled; earthen storage pits are flush, and the producers are unable to get the oil moved, they contend. A single heavy rain would float off thousands of barrels of open-stored oil, and would likely involve numerous proceedings involving stream pollution, as well as involving loss of the oil, it was said.

The field is served by three pipe lines, those of Humble, Magnolia and Shell companies, it was pointed out. At least one of the lines has just been completed.

The new law requires pipe line companies to take oil pro rata from all producers offering it. It also gives the railroad commission to require the construction of storage facilities, or additional pipe line facilities in certain instances. Where pipe line companies hold themselves out as purchasers, this law requires them to buy rateably from all offering oil for sale.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 30. (AP)—Good demand continued on the Fort Worth cash grain market Monday for all wheat offered although estimated receipts of 899 cars set a new record for June on this market. Exporters were bidding 93@94c for ordinary export wheat delivered Texas gulf ports. Mill bids ranged about 94@95c for ordinary No. 1 hard delivered Texas common points with 13 per cent protein bringing 1c more.

Corn was slow sale as were sorghums. Oats and barley were wanted but offerings of the latter were light.

Estimated receipts of coarse grains: Corn, 8 cars; oats 31, barley 3 and sorghums 5.

Bids and offers ranged as follows, basis delivered in carloads at Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 90@91c; No. 2 white 95¼@96½c; No. 2 yellow 94½@95½c.

Oats—No. 2 red 43¼@44¼c.

Barley—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.85@1.87; No. 2 kaffir $1.56@1.58.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivery Texas group one points: No. 2 mixed corn 88@89c; No. 2 white 93½@94½c; No. 2 yellow 92½@93½c. No. 3 white oats 46@47c, to which add 1c for delivery group three points.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 30. (AP)—Newly harvested wheat ariving in big volume at domestic market centers southwest sent prices down today. Receipts aggregated about 4,000 carloads at principal southwestern centers. Arrivals at all domestic primary points were nearly 2½ times as great as a week ago but not equal to last years' exceptional huge aggregate.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1⅛@1½c a bushel lower. Corn closed ⅜@1¼c down, oats ⅜@1¼c down and provisions varying from 5c decline to an equal gain.

At times the selling of wheat future deliveries attained a high speed character, and many standing orders to stop losses were forced into execution, but the pressure diminished when the market came near to recent bottom record levels. Corn and oats, however, sympathizing with wheat weakness, outdid any low prices heretofore reached this season.

Upturns in hog values operated to sustain the provision market.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 87⅜@87½c, 91¼c; Sept. 91½@91⅝c, 95¼c; Dec. 97½c, $1.00⅜@1.00½. Corn—July 72⅛c, 74⅜c; Sept. 72½@72⅛c, 73⅝c; Dec. 66⅜c, 68⅛c.

BULLET ENDS WOMAN'S LIFE

Last Services Today For Mrs. Littrell

Funeral services for Mrs. Edith Littrell, 38, who was instantly killed early Monday morning by a bullet from a .38 caliber pistol at her home, 1317 Sibley avenue, will be held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the First Evangelical church with Rev. Frank Doege, pastor, and Rev. Ben Bell, pastor of the Sibley-Taylor Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be in Rosemont Burial park with arrangements under the direction of the Merkle Undertaking company.

Active pallbearers will be J. M. Ashford, J. R. Aldridge, W. B. Rutledge, F. W. Michael, M. O. Presslar and J. H. Harmon. Honorary pallbearers will be the members of Mrs. Littrell's Sunday school class at the First Evangelical church.

Mrs. Littrell is survived by her husband, a railroad man here; one daughter, Rae Littrell, 17; two sons, I. M., Jr., 9, and J. A., 4; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rondot of Amarillo; and two brothers, Russell Rondot of Milwaukee, and Herman Rondot of New Hollywood, Calif.

Mrs. Littrell's death came shortly after 7 o'clock Monday morning, when she went into a room adjoining that which the children occupied. A shot was heard a few minutes after she left the children, it was reported, and when they went into the room, Mrs. Littrell was on the floor with a bullet through the right side of her head. Judge O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, held an inquest over the body. His verdict was "death from a self-inflicted bullet wound. The woman had been in ill health for several months, he was told.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, June 30.—(U.S.D.A.) (AP)—A weaker undertone was again prevalent in the beef steer and yearling market and trading ruled slow at steady to 50c lower levels as compared with late last week. Choice weighty steers scored $12.05 at Chicago for the day's extreme top but most of the fed offerings were eligible to sell from $8.00 to $11.00. Most classes of she stock sold at steady to 25c lower rates with the trade slow at the decline. Demand for stockers and feeders was limited at around steady prices. Desirable feeders brought $9.00 at Kansas City. Receipts at 11 markets were estimated at 49,600 against 45,069 last Monday and 54,721 a year ago.

The hog market was very uneven. Chicago and St. Louis reported an active market at strong to 15c higher rate while most of the river markets were slow with values weak to 20c lower than last Saturday. Choice light and medium weight offerings brought $9.35 at Chicago and St. Louis for the top. Offerings totaled 107,800 as compared with 132,064 a week ago and 128,643 the same day a year ago.

Trade in fat lambs was very slow and declines of 25@50c were registered against last week's close with range lambs taking the maximum loss. Closely sorted natives reached $11.75 at Chicago while best Idaho range lambs stopped at $11.50. Mature classes held about steady with fat ewes selling from $3.50 down. Receipts totaled 50,000 against 43,632 last Monday and 45,168 a year ago.

Young County Legion Completing Plans for Reunion Jubilee July 3-5

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, June 30.—The American Legion of Young county is completing plans for the old settlers reunion and oil men's jubilee, sponsored by the organization to be held at the Young county fair grounds July 3, 4, 5. Elaborate plans have been made by the Legion for the entertainment of a big crowd, for which the entire business district will be decorated.

The celebration will open Wednesday evening, July 3 with carnival and rodeo attractions. A dance will be given each of the three evenings, music to be furnished by a six-piece colored orchestra. A group of cowboys from western ranches will take part in the program of calf roping, bronc riding, wild horse races and bull-dogging. A number of Brahma steers and wild horses will also be used by the cowboys, as well as a wild buffalo. Some of the local cowboys will take part in the rodeo events. Between the contest events there will be trick riding by trick ropers, and a cowboy clown will entertain.

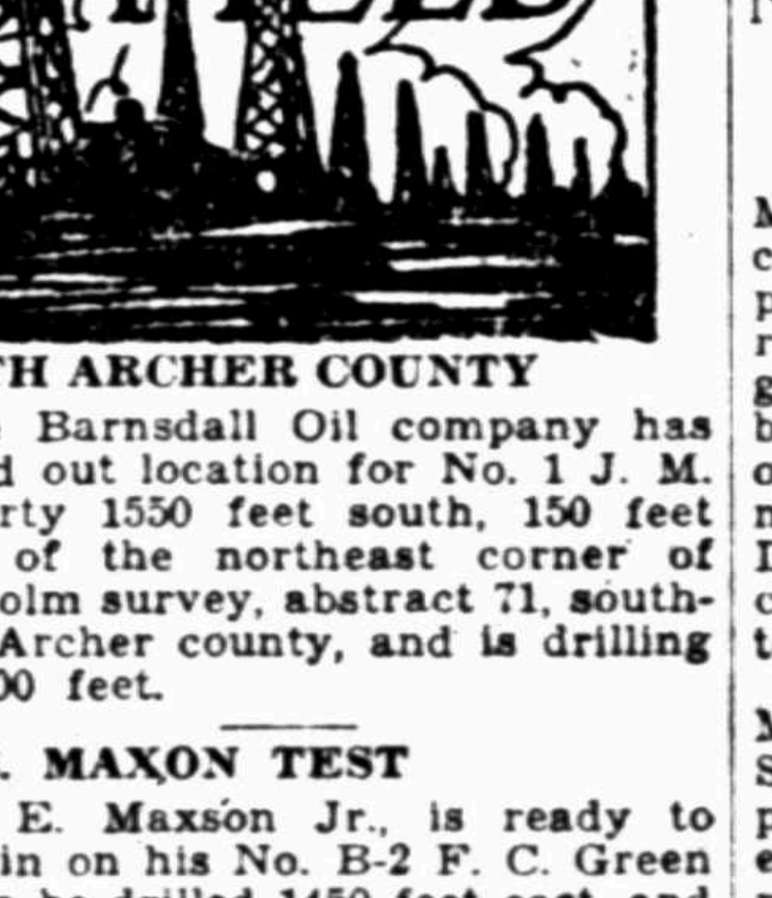

A parade will open the program July 4, to be around the business section of Graham at 10 o'clock, and prizes will be awarded to the best decorated car in the parade and to the cowboy or cowgirl wearing the most attractive shirt.

Thursday's program will include parades at 10 a. m.; old fiddler's contest at fair grounds, 11 a. m.; public speaking immediately following fiddlers contest, noon; band concert and free attractions—1:00 to 2:00 p. m.; rodeo and races, 2:30 to 4:30 p. m.; free attractions; dance, 9:00 p. m.

Death of Man in Accident At Diversion Basis of $25,000 Suit

Damages amounting to $25,000 are asked in a suit filed here Monday against the Wichita County Water Improvement districts and others in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Daulton, parents of Elmer J. Daulton, 22, who was fatally injured in an accident at Diversion lake in July, 1928.

The petition states the lake is a part of the water improvement districts and that a man is employed by the districts to prevent persons from entering certain prohibited areas. It is alleged that Scott Allday and R. N. Tweedy were on the lake in a boat the day of the accident and that they drove their boat into partially inclosed waters at the spillway, where persons are prohibited. The petition further states the man employed by the districts was not at his proper place of duty to prevent the two men from driving their boat up to the spillway. Allday and Tweedy threw a 10-pound rock attached to a chain over the top of the spillway in order to anchor their boat, but the rock came loose, rolled down the spillway and struck Mr. Daulton on the head, fracturing the skull so that he died a short time later, according to the petition. R. S. Ragsdale is the attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Daulton.

SHRINE HONORS CLINE, ELLIS

National Officers Lauded At Banquet

Seventy-five Shriners gathered Monday night for a banquet at the country club given by Maskat temple in honor to Walter D. Cline, recently elected imperial outer guard of the Imperial council; Albert Ellis, elected national recorder of the Shrine, and Sydney Gaines, named vice president of the Shrine Directors' association at the last convention. Clarence Rogers was toastmaster at the banquet.

Walter Caldwell gave a toast to Mr. Ellis, reviewing the history of Shrinedom and telling of the appointment of Mr. Ellis to fill the unexpired term of the late national recorder and his subsequent election to that office at Toronto recently. Mr. Ellis was described as an outstanding Shriner in the nation.

In responding, Mr. Ellis told of the work of the imperial council in connection with that of the recorder's association and its importance to the Shrine.

Guy Rogers toasted Mr. Cline, describing the importance of his election to the office of imperial outer guard and referring to the honors given him by other national organizations and by European nations. He reviewed Mr. Cline's work in organizing Maskat temple and pointed out that the custom of the imperial council will make him imperial potentate in about nine years. He presented Mr. Cline with the jewel of the outer guard.

Mr. Cline responded by paying tribute to the work of those who aided in building up Maskat temple and reviewing the work of this temple in the affairs of the national Shrine.

Entertainment features on the program included a colored minstrel sketch by Abe Marantz and Jack Pitman. Tom McCarty sang a solo, accompanied by Miss Mildred Anderson, and Dr. O. T. Kimbrough also gave a vocal number, accompanied by D. E. Baldwin. Miss Marian Mendenhall presented a dance, accompanied by Miss Anderson at the piano.

Shriners from other cities who attended the banquet included John Fleming, Judge W. E. Forgy, Mayor Charles Richardson and R. A. Barton, all of Archer City; Dick Rowland and Mr. York of Stamford, and W. F. Moore of Des Moines, Iowa.

Entertainment features for the affair were under the direction of J. T. Yeargin. The arrangements committee was composed of Kindel Paulk, James E. McKanna and E. E. Fischer.

Shallow Pool North Of Newcastle Extended

Special to The Record News

NEWCASTLE, Texas, June 30.—Extending production in the Lowe pool one mile east, Terrel, Mason and Fullerton today completed their No. 1 J. F. Larimore in sand at 556-7 feet as an estimated 50-barrel well. The new producer is five and one half miles north of Newcastle and in the northwest corner of the southwest 80 acres of section 253, T. E. & L. survey.

Two of Ten Escaped Convicts Recaptured

HOUSTON, June 30. (UP)—Two of the 10 Mexican prisoners who escaped from the Blue Ridge prison farm early today had been captured tonight and officers continued their search for the eight still at liberty. The convicts broke and ran while guards were taking them to the fields for the day's work.

KIWANIS CLUBS HOLD FROLIC

150 Attend Inter-City Party At Lakeside

Celebrating "fellowship hour" as instituted by the Kiwanis International convention at Atlantic City, Kiwanians of Lawton and Ryan, Okla., Henrietta, and Wichita Falls with members of their families and friends aggregating about 150 persons made merry at Lakeside park Monday night from 6:30 p. m. until near closing time.

Entertainment provided for the evening was in three distinct phases. A formal program was presented first in the open-air theater, followed by a barbecued loin steak dinner on the picnic grounds, and members of the party patronized various "rides" continuously throughout the remainder of the outing.

Misses Sybil Anderson and Cleona Smith of Ryan, Okla., opened the platform program with a series of vocal duets, with Miss Smith playing piano accompaniments. They were followed by Miss Lorene Hager of Lawton, who presented two of Dorothy Parker's poems as effective readings. Mrs. P. M. Cordell, soprano, with Mrs. F. R. Collard accompanying, sang "Oh, Miss Hannah," and "It is June," by Dorothy Forster. Miss Faith Galmiche, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. G. J. Galmiche, presented two song and dance numbers, using noticeably clever tap dancing on chorsues. Paul Pearson delivered a brief greeting to visitors from other cities.

Jouette Bonner presided during the prgram, and read telegrams from Dr. Ralph H. Peterson, club president, and Phil M. Cordell, district trustee, who are attending the annual convention of Kiwanis International at Atlantic City. Guests from other cities were introduced by Roy Parkinson, Kiwanis club president at Lawton; Dr. H. Overby, president of the Ryan club; and W. T. Glasgow, president of the club at Henrietta. The Lawton delegation numbered about 30 persons, and Ryan was represented by more than 20 persons. It was explained that the absence of many Kiwanians from Henrietta was due to the death of Jim Williams, well-known Henrietta rancher, who was drowned Sunday morning. Only two Henrietta members were present. The program of entertainment was arranged by Howard Renfro.

Vast quantities of barbecued steaks, a large barrel of lemonade, and seemingly inexhaustible supplies of brick ice cream were prominent features of the picnic dinner.

Tickets good for the various Lakeside park concessions were distributed in abundance to members of the party by the local Kiwanis club, and many of the juvenile attractions received surprising adult patronage throughout the evening.

Council Delays Work on Barns

Harvey Harris Named To Hospital Board

Vigorous protests were registered by residents of the district immediately below the city barns at the city council meeting Monday evening, following announcement that the city was building new barns on the old site occupied by the city stables at Sixth and Holliday.

With A. J. Chambers, 1312 Fifth, and G. H. Litteken, 1701 Truehart, as spokesmen, a delegation of those who live near the barns reminded the council of their past promises to move the barns and protested the erection of any more buildings on the score that they would insure the permanency of the site.

Filth, flies and disease are inflicted on the residents of that section, Mr. Litteken and Mr. Chambers said in their pleas, because of the mules kept there. It is impossible to maintain any degree of cleanliness unless the mules are removed, it was stated.

The delegation was assured that the city will replace the mules with machinery as soon as possible, and that the buildings now being established will be portable. It was voted to hold up construction until further investigation is made.

Harvey Harris, local attorney, was appointed to succeed Harry L. Hunter on the board of managers of the Wichita General hospital, following Mr. Hunter's resignation.

A permit was granted Ralph Hines for the construction of a filling station on the northeast corner of Seventeenth and Lamar streets, there being no protests registered.

Suit Asks Damages In Injury of Child

Alleging that injuries sustained by his five-year-old daughter, Betty Jo, in an automobile-bus crash here last Jan. 2 resulted in permanent scars on her face and head, Joseph A. Richker Monday brought suit against the Wichita Falls Traction company on a claim to damages of $650.

The crash, according to the petition, occurred at Speedway and Taft streets, a traction company bus and the automobile driven by Mrs. Richker colliding so that the child was thrown against the side of the car, suffering severe cuts and bruises. In an answer to the petition, T. R. (Dan) Boone, attorney for the traction company, denied all claims made by Mr. Richker. Luther Hoffman, local attorney, is representing Mr. Richker.

PASTORS NAME WOOD LEADER

Five Union Services For August Planned

Rev. H. T. Wood, pastor of the First Christian church, was elected president of the Ministerial alliance, and Rev. W. B. Walker, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, was named vice-president of the organization at a meeting at the First Christian church at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning. Rev. C. M. Simpson, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church, was named secretary.

Plans were made for five union services to be held during the month of August on the lawn of the Memorial auditorium with a different speaker for each evening. The list has not yet been completed, it was announced. E. F. Bohmfalk will have charge of the music for the meetings.

Fort Worth C.-C. Group Here July 7

Officials of the local chamber of commerce were advised Monday by Charles G. Cotten, manager of the trade extension department of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, that a large group of Fort Worth business men will visit this city next Monday, July 7, on a good will tour of Northwest Texas.

According to the information given, members of the visiting party will be managers and executives of business and industrial concerns in Fort Worth. They will arrive in Wichita Falls at noon, and will leave about 1:45 p. m., according to the announcement made. Plans for their entertainment here will be made by the reception committee, of which Walter D. Cline is chairman, as soon as definite information is received relative to the number of persons to be included in the group, it was said.

Tourists to Mexico Advised of New Rules

Chambers of commerce at Del Rio, Eagle Pass, El Paso and Brownsville have asked chambers of commerce throughout the state to urge citizens of their respective communities to obtain letters of introduction from their local organizations before starting for Old Mexico by land, it was announced here Monday afternoon.

New regulations governing passage between Texas and Mexico call for travelers to carry passports issued by chambers of commerce of the border cities where crossing is made, according to the information given. Letters of introduction from local chambers of commerce will be accepted immediately as identification by chambers of commerce in the border cities, and greatly simplify the matter of obtaining a passport, it was pointed out.

Completion of new hard-surfaced highways in South Texas and in Mexico has resulted in a great increase in the number of United States citizens visiting the country across the Rio Grande this summer, it was said.

PLANE CONTESTS

Edward Silk and Alvin Woodley won prizes of free airplane rides given by the S. A. F. E. line Monday afternoon in an airplane flying contest which was held at the regular meeting of the Wichita Falls Air Cadet club at the Memorial auditorium.

The plane made by Edward Silk stayed in the air 15 seconds while that made by Alvin Woodley, one of the larger planes, flew 12 seconds. Approximately 40 planes were entered in the event.

Similar contests will be held at the next meeting which will be on Monday, it was announced.

After being bare two years, hills in the Big Bend section of Texas now are green with grass, the result of heavy rains.

BUILDING-LOAN SPLITS MELON

Sound Business Reported In Dividend Vote

The directors of the North Texas Building and Loan association in regular meeting Monday noon voted the usual semi-annual dividends on all classes of shares for the six months period ending June 30, and checks were placed in the mails Monday for the holders of full paid certificates, according to A. C. Estes, vice president and secretary, while the dividends will be credited to the various other classes of accounts.

The North Texas Building and Loan association has had a rapid growth since its organization seven years ago, and has earned and paid over $1,500,000 in dividends to its members.

Hundreds of Wichita Falls citizens will share in the distribution of this dividend, amounting to $128,272.30, as will the many thousands of members in other states and foreign countries.

In speaking of general business conditions, Mr. Estes stated that in spite of the depression in many lines the building and loan associations were going right on in their even tenor, due to the fact that all loans are made only on first mortgage security on improved real property, worth at least twice the amount of the loans.

According to Mr. Estes, the investors of the Southwest are rapidly turning to the conservative, well-managed building and loan association as a place for their permanent investment because of the higher earning rate and their unparalleled record of safety covering a period of nearly 100 years.

The officers of the association present at the meeting were A. H. Britain, chairman of the board; J. C. Mytinger, president; J. T. Harrell, vice president; A. C. Estes, active vice president and secretary; J. K. Estes, vice president; W. B. Abbott, assistant secretary and treasurer, and Miss Stella Watson, assistant secretary.

2,800 VISIT PARKS

Attendance at the three city parks reached 2,800 last week it was announced by C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent. Projects of flower stands and vases have been completed and work will begin on a marionette show this week, it was announced.

Today

At the Theaters

By ELEANOR FLEMING

MAJESTIC: Lawrence Tibbett in "The Rogue Song." Screen sound novelty, "Marriage Wows," and sound news.

STATE: "Evangeline" with Dolores Del Rio. Short subjects and sound news.

STRAND: Nancy Carroll in "The Devil's Holiday.' Comedy, "The New Halfback," screen song and sound news.

GEM: "Street of Chance," with William Powell.

Like other business concerns, theaters are run for profit. Whatever opinion may be expressed by a theater critic, who uses a pass, can have no effect on the management when it does not agree with the opinion held by the ticket-buying public. There's nothing strange about that.

◇ ◇ ◇

Wichita Falls theater-goers packed the Strand to break all records thus far last winter when "Sunny Side Up" played to seven consecutive full houses, and when the SRO sign was hung out often enough to establish the picture as a 150 per cent success. At the same time, the Majestic was practically deserted, only a few dozen paying their good money to see the unsurpassable George Arliss in "Disraeli." The George Arliss picture was jerked a day ahead of schedule, while critics howled in vain. The customer is right.

◇ ◇ ◇

In answer to fervent requests, the Majestic brought "The Rogue Song," one of the best movies yet produced, for a four-day run, only to have about a 50 per cent house. "The Rogue Song" had cost more than any other, but it was a box-office fizzle. The best money-makers, on the other hand, had been such insipid sugar-coated romances as "Honey," "The Girl Said No," and "Not So Dumb."

◇ ◇ ◇

Theater critics the nation over laid aside the vitriol and took their long-forgotten superlatives off the shelf in writing of "Disraeli" and "The Rogue Song," but what does the opinion of a few newspaper writers mean when stacked up with that of those who pay the overhead?

◇ ◇ ◇

Maybe the critics are a peculiar type, liking those things which nobody else likes and poking fun at those things liked by everyone else. We think not. We can't think of any movie critic who enjoys spinach any better than anyone else.

◇ ◇ ◇

In order, however, to gauge the similarity of likes and dislikes of The Record News critic and the Wichita Falls theater-goer, a score will be kept on current movies hereafter. According to the critic, a show may be rated at only 45 per cent, but it may be a 125 per cent box office success, or vice versa.

◇ ◇ ◇

Judging by direction, star personality and ability, the plot, audience reaction (what audience there was) and even by the smallest detail, "The Rogue Song" should rate around 95 per cent. So far, it has been a 50 per cent box office success. That should be a good start for the comparison.

C.-C. HEADS TO VISIT TEMPLE

Junior Leaders to Attend Banquet Tonight

Several members of the Junior chamber of commerce will be guests of the Temple, Okla., Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening at the regular monthly dinner of that organization, it was announced here Monday.

Tuesday night's dinner will mark the opening of the new city hall at Temple, and will be the first gathering of the chamber of commerce merbership in that building since its completion, it was said.

Walter Nelson Jr., chairman of the inter-cities relations committee of the Junior chamber of commerce, Shadie F. Hale, P. R. Freeman, Joe Richker, Dick Kenley, Maurice Cheek, Jerry Vinson, president, and Wilburn Page, secretary, thus far have registered for the trip to Temple. Other members wishing to join the party should get in touch with Mr. Nelson Tuesday morning, it was stated.

DODGE BROTHERS
ANNOUNCE
DODGE EIGHT MILEAGE MARATHON
AND DODGE NATIONAL DEMONSTRATION MONTH

Thousands of owners of the Dodge Eight-in-Line are acclaiming it the greatest performer and the finest example of Dodge dependability ever produced by Dodge Brothers.

To get an accurate measure of the dependability of this car—its stamina—its economy—just what total mileage it can achieve—Dodge Brothers announce a Dodge Eight Mileage Marathon.

A Dodge Eight-in-Line sedan selected from stock starts from Detroit. It will be driven back and forth across the country from coast to coast—over all sorts of roads in every part of the continent—until it literally can be driven no longer. We confidently expect that the total mileage attained will startle the world.

To give every motorist a first-hand acquaintance with the luxury and sparkling performance of the Dodge Eight-in-Line, a Dodge National Demonstration Month will be held during July.

You are cordially invited to come in and drive the Dodge Eight-in-Line. Thrill to its flashing acceleration — its sureness and steadiness on the road — its ability to do the difficult without effort. Test its internal hydraulic brakes. Experience the luxury of its beautiful, safe and silent Mono-Piece Steel Bodies.

Here is a car that is going to be driven across the continent as no car has ever been driven before. Learn from that what a sound car it is—learn from your own experience what a glorious performer it is.
