

Budget breakdown sought

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

In its move to be an active, working organization, Rockport's city park board has called for a breakdown of the $10,000 allocated for parks and recreation expenditures in the city's 1982-83 budget adopted last month.

The board voted to request the breakdown from city officials during a meeting Wednesday, Oct. 20, at City Hall in which board members also asked that Memorial Park's caretaker be invited to the board's next meeting, scheduled for Nov. 16.

Purpose of the invitation is to allow the caretaker to discuss with the park board his observations on Memorial Park's present facilities and needs. Park board members indicated this will be only the beginning of a general community-wide survey to determine what recreational facilities local residents need and want.

Wednesday's meeting was the first for newly-appointed board member Bobby Jackson who was sworn into office by City Secretary Helen Braffett minutes before the meeting began at 7 p.m. Acting Chairman Kathryn Winkelman presided over the session in the absence of Chairman George McCague.

Winkelman opened the meeting by presenting board members present with a list of improvements recommended by the city park board for Memorial Park and adopted by Rockport's then-city council on Dec. 11, 1972.

Recommendations approved by the council at that time included clearing of the entire 25-acre park site (except for a stipulation by the 1972 bond that no trees

Fulton zoning ordinance meeting set

By LESLIE ABRAMS
Staff writer

FULTON — According to Sandy Belaire, secretary for the Fulton zoning committee, a second draft of the proposed Fulton zoning ordinance is currently undergoing legal review by Fulton City Attorney Allen Lee. Belaire said she expects Lee to complete his review by midweek.

Copies of the proposed ordinance and a zoning map will be available for public review following the city attorney's legal review.

The zoning committee will hold an open meeting at Fulton City Hall at 6 p.m.

Monday, Oct. 25, to discuss council and citizen concerns. The committee has made a study of mobile home/trailer park zoning in all major cities of the Coastal Bend area to use in comparison with their own recommendations. The study will be discussed at the Oct. 25 meeting.

Some area mobile home/trailer park owners have expressed discontent over the zoning committee's recommendations that mobile home/trailer parks be zoned business along 125 feet of road frontage with the rest of the property residentially zoned. Many park owners are asking that their property be zoned all-business.

Committee members have argued that an all-business zoning status could increase the resale value of the parks, making it profitable for park owners to sell to developers and thus defeating the purpose of a zoning ordinance. The park owners have countered that the services they provide are no different than those of a motel and they should be zoned for business accordingly.

Several mobile home/trailer park owners attended the Oct. 12 Fulton City Council meeting at which the zoning committee was supposed to present their recommendations to the council. Although the presentation was postponed, due to the absence of Zoning Committee Chairman Charles Belaire, park owners voiced their concerns before the Fulton city council.

The zoning committee was appointed by the Fulton city council at their June meeting to draw up an ordinance that would regulate growth and development within the city. Fulton Alderwoman Pat Loflin serves as an advisory member to the committee.

Shrimpers rescued from bay

Two shrimpers were rescued by Texas Parks & Wildlife officials after their boat went aground and began breaking up in Aransas Bay just off Key Allegro Wednesday morning, Oct. 20.

The shrimpers, 36-year-old Khan Van Bui and Thanh Van Vu, 27, both of Rockport, were taken aboard a Texas Parks & Wildlife Department boat shortly after 8 a.m. and taken to the ramp at the Bay House Condominiums where they were met by Aransas County Chief Deputy Doug Carroll.

Carroll said Bui, operator of the 28-foot shrimp boat, the "Jewel D", and Vu, the deckhand, told him they had just started from Fulton Harbor about 6 a.m. Wednesday when they were caught by the front that swept into the area. They said the boat began taking on water, the vessel's bilge pump wasn't working and they lost an engine.

The vessel drifted aground off Key Allegro and began breaking up.

Authorities learned of the incident about 7:30 a.m. when a man reportedly called them from a convenience store near Key Allegro. County and Rockport city units responded to the call and contacted local TP&WD officials.

The rescue was made by TP&WD Warden Doug Parker and Bob Newman. Parker said his office received the call about 8:05 a.m.

Carroll said the shrimp boat belonged to another Vietnamese for whom Bui and Vu were working. He added by early Wednesday afternoon, the vessel "had completely broken up. It's gone."

Tax rate to be set for Goose Island Lake Estates

LAMAR — Setting of a 1982 tax rate heads the agenda of a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27, of the Aransas County Municipal Utility District No. 1, serving the Goose Island Lake Estates subdivision in Lamar.

The special meeting was called at the district's last regular meeting, on Oct. 12, in which the district's board of directors were told that, if they set tax rates at the effective tax rate as calculated under the Texas Property Tax Code, that rate would be $13.40 per $100 valuation.

Herman Little, attorney for the district, assured the directors they could set taxes below that figure. "I'm not proposing you set this rate," Little told ACMUD directors at the Oct. 12 rate. "Not even I am going to ask you to set that rate."

The 1982 effective tax rate is based on Aransas County Appraisal District property rolls that set a valuation of approximately $3.4 million on property in Goose Island Lake Estates — the area served by the utility district.

The 1981 tax rate, $1.66 per $100 valuation, was set late — on Feb. 10 of this year — and was considerably below the $8.10 per $100 that Little said was needed by the district at that time to meet its obligations.

Taxes collected by the district are used to pay off the ACMUD's $1.6 million bond debt incurred by the issue of bonds in 1977 and '78 to construct the district's water and sanitary sewer facilities.

In May, in an effort to gain some relief from financial problems that have plagued the district as a result of the bond debt, the directors adopted a nine-point "debt adjustment plan" which was subsequently presented to the director's creditors.

In order to be implemented, the plan must be approved by 100 percent of the district's bondholders. At the Oct. 12 meeting, Little told directors he had received favorable responses from holders of 255 of the total 287 bonds and no negative responses.

As part of the debt adjustment plan, the district proposed a 40 percent general homestead exemption that applies to resident property owners in the district.

In other action on next Wednesday's agenda, the utility district directors are scheduled to consider a proposed water supply agreement.

Rockport-Fulton High School celebrates annual homecoming Friday night. Game kickoff is 8 p.m. against the Warriors of Tuloso-Midway.

Ghosties, ghoulies will be at Halloween carnival

"Ghosties and ghoulies and things that go bump in the night" . . . witches and spook houses and magicians . . .

They'll all be in evidence next Saturday night, Oct. 30, as Rockport Elementary School puts on its annual Halloween Carnival for all Aransas County youngsters.

Tickets, 10 cents each, will go on sale at the school beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday and the doors for the carnival will open at 5 p.m. Two magic shows are scheduled for 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. and between shows, Magician Grumberger will make balloon animals for the children. Trick or treaters may also meet the "wicked pocket witch." For the price of one ticket, youngsters will have a chance to search the witch's pockets for a prize — if they dare . . .

Children are urged to wear a costume and enter the costume contest that starts at 5:30 p.m. in the auditorium. Judging will be in two age groups — kindergarten, first and second grade and third, fourth and fifth, with preschoolers included in the first age group.

Prizes will be awarded for the spookiest, funniest and most original costumes and first, second and third place will be awarded.

The spook house, located in the cafeteria, will challenge the bravery of all who enter — and for the younger children, there will be a "wee" spook house.

All visitors to the carnival are urged to bring their appetites. The "Witches' Gingerbread House" and "Witches' Cauldron" will be serving a variety of goodies including sandwiches, candied apples, frito pie, popcorn and cold drinks.

Games, a cake walk, helium balloons, a hayride and a chance to visit a fortune-teller are included in the evening's lineup of fun and no carnival-goer will leave empty handed, according to the Rockport PTA sponsors of the affair. A prize will be awarded every child in every game.

Weather

Skies are expected to be mostly clear through Monday with highs in the 70s to 80s, lows in the 40s to 50s.

Foreigners are aware of U.S. crime rate

NOW I'M AS OPPOSED to future wars as anyone alive, but I'm afraid that I'm not much use to any of the anti-war, ban the bomb groups. For starters, right or wrong, it appears to me that those groups are of a mind to say forget about arms superiority. They are, I feel, willing to take their chances with Russia, or whoever else, and sit back and put their trust in whatever.

I often suspect that they think they can prove the Russians aren't bad guys and that when they see their peaceful bent they will be left alone. A chance I'm neither ready nor willing to take. A stupid attitude, if you would know what I really think.

I have known a fair number of Russian men and women and can't think of one I haven't liked. In truth, I always found them intriguing, rather fascinating. On the other hand, none were in any way associated with Kremlin thinking. Rather, the contrary was true.

TAKING PEOPLE OF any race or nationality on a one-to-one basis, I've found that I usually get along with them as well as I do with my own countrymen. It has been an eternal foible of the human race to associate certain characteristics to people from various countries and those attributes and shortcomings are in the long run appropriate, proven over the years.

Constantly, in conversations with friends all of us hear about their encounters with foreigners and somewhere someone always injects the "well, that's a typical Britisher" or Mexican or whatever. Seldom do we think about what others think of us, so allow me to make a report. To other people, Americans are noisy, braggadocious, flamboyantly generous and kind. Most like to talk about freedom and democracy, but have very little academic knowledge of what either is.

We are convinced that ours is the only way of life and long for the rest of the world to adopt it. When that doesn't happen we are put out, annoyed and dismiss them as ignoramuses.

Foreigners are also aware that we have a world record crime rate, criminals get off with a tap on the wrist, we consume too much alcohol and don't know how to handle it. Foreign traffickers in narcotics regard us as the mecca for their trade.

PRESENTLY, COUNT- less thousands of people hold dual nationalities. Mostly, they are people who have come to this country in their youth, spent their productive years here and then return to some quiet peaceful village that they remember from youth. Although I suspect this picture may have changed in recent years, there was a time not so long ago when U.S. Foreign Service Officers, people in our diplomatic corps, more than 40 percent, chose to live abroad upon retirement.

In that regard, I might recount some amusing stories, personal observations of Americans living abroad. I have known people almost paranoid in their dread of being transferred home, to an office in New York City. As a matter of fact, I once had ambitions to live in the Far East and missed out only because of the once-Dutch Indies becoming independent. (Today, it is Indonesia.) Here, I feel obliged to insert that the masses of people of Indonesia, as with most third-world countries, were better off as colonies.

A FEW DAYS AGO I read, or possibly heard in a newscast, that there are three and one-half tons of TNT for every individual living on this planet. Rather horrifying, I grant. The anti-war people no doubt rejoiced in that disclosure. Think of what the world might be if all that value could be put to use in feeding, clothing and housing for the world's poor. One can paint a beautiful, idealistic picture.

Well, I too am terrified, though not surprised by the disclosure, but I have something else to say — something that may be shocking to many.

More dangerous than those three and one-half tons of explosive for each of us is people. I refer to the world population explosion, an explosion that is most rampant in what we refer to as the Third World.

Without intent to sound superior in any way, I submit that rare indeed is the American who has known or seen real poverty of the sort to be seen on the streets of Calcutta to cite an example. The truth is that if every cent we and other countries spend for weaponry were to be devoted to the world's suffering people, the result would be only to increase the potency of the alternative weapon — people, too many people.

Even today, in this very hour, the danger created by people is as fearful as our most destructive man-made weapons. Doubt me? Look around you. See the people risk anything to better themselves even to the slightest degree.

If you have a world globe at hand, give it a spin. Count the lands where there is peace and good will among men and consider the consequences of increasing their numbers, while recognizing that this increase in numbers among us is greatest in countries where there is the least hope. Bluntly, however crudely said, the pleasure of sex is the only joy that exists in the world for millions of poor, ignorant and poverty-stricken men and women. Consider further, the leaders of virtually all Third World countries are more concerned with acquiring weapons than feeding their people.

Editorial & Opinion

Waitin' for the trickle to trickle down

You could be disappointed

If your hopes were buoyed by Washington talk of income tax reform legislation that might have a flat-rate schedule as its centerpiece, you will be disappointed by the latest reports on such a move.

The push for a flat-rate tax bill that tempted President Reagan into saying he thought it was something worth exploring struck a major political barrier as government studies concluded such a tax could shift a huge burden from the wealthy to middle-income Americans.

If that would be the case, middle-income Americans would be unhappy, to put it mildly, because they now pay a big chunk of the income tax load.

Members of the Senate Finance Committee and the Reagan administration agreed the income tax system is ripe for a top-to-bottom overhaul, but warned that proposed flat-rate tax reforms would raise taxes for most Americans.

In its purest form, a flat-rate tax would wipe out all deductions and tax everyone at the same rate, regardless of earnings. At first blush, such a plan appears fair and equitable, but experts disagree.

The Senate Finance Committee is trying to come up with an acceptable alternative to the present system of collecting income taxes. It may have abandoned for the time being further study of the flat-rate tax, but it is exploring other alternatives aimed at making income tax forms easier to file.

Complicated income tax forms, which experts believe have caused a growing trend toward evasion during the past decade, are a crucial element in a voluntary tax system.

A single tax rate for everyone from billionaires to paupers might help simplify tax returns, a Treasury Department study found, but it also raised questions of tax equity.

In proposals studied by the Treasury Department, the shift always favored the wealthy at the expense of middle-income taxpayers, in some cases by up to $32 billion a year.

The Congressional Budget Office reached the same conclusion. Its study said "the most important effect of the flat-rate tax would be a significant shift of the tax burden from upper-to-middle-income taxpayers."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., described the flat-rate tax another way. "If you're rich, you'll love it. If you're not, look out."

A flat-rate tax, said John E. Chapoton, assistant secretary of the treasury for tax policy, would mean a tax cut for those making $50,000 a year and a tax increase for those making less.

If they put their minds to it, lawmakers can come up with an acceptable alternative to income tax forms and formulas that even baffles those who make a living preparing income tax forms.

How ironic

While President Reagan and U.S. Rep. Jack Fields were introducing legislation that if passed would eventually curb the power of federal judges, U.S. District Judge John Singleton of Houston ruled that lyrics of Aldine Senior High's school song violate constitutional separation of church and state.

Because of the circuitous process of amending the Constitution, there won't be quick solution to the problem of federal intervention in local affairs.

Change will come, however, because the federal judiciary has gone beyond reasonable limits in decisions that strike at the heart of American institutions and cast doubt on America's claim as a Christian nation.

Some of the legal assaults on our institutions and customs are being mounted by people who have come to this country to escape the heavy hand of government in their daily lives. After a time, and often at the urging of such organizations as the American Civil Liberties Union, these relative newcomers seek judicial relief from what they perceive to be repression or violation of their new-found freedom. How ironic.

Nonetheless, our higher courts in some instances, find themselves on the side of the dissidents and hand down rulings that run counter to long-standing American practices, beliefs and customs.

It is because of this trend that counter moves are being planned and made.

President Reagan has proposed a 37-word amendment to the constitution that would permit prayer in public schools. It says:

"Nothing in the Constitution shall be construed to prohibit individual or group prayer in public schools or other public institutions. No person shall be required by the United States or by any state to participate in prayer."

In a message to Congress, the president said the amendment would "restore the simple freedom of our citizens to offer prayer in public schools and institutions." Such prayer has been prohibited since 1962, when the Supreme Court ruled it violated constitutional separation of church and state.

"The public expression through prayer of our faith in God is a fundamental part of our American heritage and a privilege which should not be excluded by law from any American school, public or private," President Reagan declared.

Fields, who represents Baytown and other eastern Harris County areas as eighth district congressman, has introduced a proposed constitutional amendment in the House limiting the tenure of federal judges, including Supreme Court justices, to 10-year terms, after which they would have to be reappointed to stay on the bench.

The Rockport Pilot applauds the actions of President Reagan and Rep. Fields as being representative of the wishes and desires of most Americans.

New type prison sought

If U.S. Rep. John LeBoutillier, R-N.Y., has his way, a surplus federal facility in Alaska will be converted into an icy Alcatraz for convicts sentenced to life imprisonment without parole.

LeBoutillier has introduced legislation to accomplish this. "We want to create a prison for the most violent criminals who have forfeited their right to live in society," said the lawmaker, a conservative freshman from Long Island.

Since America has no Siberia for hardened criminals, LeBoutillier believes frigid Alaska would be the ideal place for some types of criminals.

Incorrigible criminals were for many years sent to Alcatraz off the California coast and surrounded by water, but the prison has been abandoned and is now a tourist attraction.

LeBoutillier suggested Middleton Island, a wet, windswept speck of land in the Gulf of Alaska about 200 miles southeast of Anchorage. The island has a Federal Aviation Administration airstrip manned by four employees, LeBoutillier said, adding prisoners he would put there could "sweep the runway."

LeBoutillier's "Arctic Penitentiary Act of 1982" would require states to assess new penalties for murderers, rapists, arsonists and kidnappers, providing for life imprisonment without parole, before they would be eligible to send inmates to the new federal prison.

The congressman and his staff could not name any states that now have such laws.

With Congress preparing to adjourn for the election on Nov. 2, and a scheduled lame-duck session to be dominated by the budget, action on LeBoutillier's bill this year seems unlikely.

He said that wouldn't deter him. He plans to reintroduce his bill on the first day Congress meets in January.

Asked about the response of Alaska officials to his idea, LeBoutillier said he had heard that Alaska Gov. Jay Hammond was not too pleased by it. "He suggested we send the criminals to Manhattan Island," LeBoutillier said. "They're already there."

Drunk driving a disgrace

A total of 106 persons were charged with driving while intoxicated on East Harris County highways in a 12-hour crackdown by law enforcement officers from nine separate agencies.

In addition, the push through the eastern half of the county, resulted in issuance of 355 citations for traffic offenses and 17 other drugs and weapons charges being filed against motorists.

Despite the fact the DWI roundup was announced two days before it was to take place, a total 538 persons were arrested and received court citations before it ended.

The drive on violators, specifically those who drink and drive, began at 8 p.m. and ended at 5 a.m. on a weekend night.

Law enforcement officers participating in the crackdown said only a few drivers were arrested on DWI charges during normal weekend patrol operations in East Harris County.

Officers in 50 patrol cars were spread out along major highways and roads over a wide area while the operation was in progress. Agencies cooperating in the project were the Texas Department of Public Safety, Harris County Sheriff's Department, Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, Precinct 3 (Baytown) constable's office; Baytown, La Porte, Pasadena, Houston and Bellaire police departments.

The East Harris County "sting operation" was one of several being carried out in the county and adjacent territory in an effort to curb the drunk driving menace.

It was also in response to a growing movement in Texas and across the country to reduce the mounting number of drivers who drink and drive, and cause many of the accidents on the nation's highways.

The Rockport Pilot commends the crackdowns and recommends to those in charge that more such drives be staged to keep drunk drivers off streets and highways.

The mounting national traffic fatality rate is a national disgrace and many of the fatalities are caused by drinking drivers.

Letters

Nov. 2, election day is approaching. In many races the differences between the opposing candidates are settled and only awaits the people's vote.

Mr. Bill Patman has for two years in office as Congressman voted strictly the party line as dictated by the liberal Chairman Tip O'Neill and Majority Leader Jim Wright. Though Representative Patman represents a conservative district, his record on the federal budget and other issues does not stand equal with his constituents.

On March 6, I attended a meeting of Bill Patman supporters at a Victoria restaurant. Following his address Mr. Patman directly answered my questions concerning his stand on a balanced budget amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

When I asked his idea for a forced balanced budget, Mr. Patman stated, "I would be in favor of a bill (which is non-binding) to balance the federal budget, but an amendment to require a balanced budget would be too restrictive and not in the best interest of the nation."

In June he attempted to appease his constituents by "co-sponsoring" a balanced budget amendment. After it became an issue in the campaign, he signed the discharge petition, on the last day, and then voted for the amendment.

This is but one area where Bill Patman talks one way and then votes another.

Fellow voters — the current $1.1 trillion deficit is the root of our current economic woes, not puny budgets of the local county or school district.

I urge each voter to personally determine if Mr. Patman's ideals are the same as yours.

Does the 14th District need another two years of a "conservative" representative who vote with liberal congressmen?

The 14th District voters must demand that Bill Patman come straight with his ideas. We deserve to know the differences between Bill Patman and Joe Wyatt. A face to face debate is the only answer.

Sincerely,
Dale D. Zuck

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grassburr farm examines some of the signs of a hard winter, including one of his own.

Dear editor:

Along about this time of year, as surely as night follows day, or day follows night, I don't know which one follows the other, Congress has never decided the issue anyway, along about now some people begin predicting what sort of winter is ahead.

Some rely on the Old Farmers Almanac, which isn't written by farmers and isn't relied on by them. If there's anybody who knows that nobody knows what the weather is going to be, it's a farmer. Any farmer who plans, plants and harvests solely on long-range weather forecasts won't contribute much to the crop surplus.

Some people rely on nature's signs. If woolly-bear caterpillars grow thicker fuzz, look out for a severe winter. If geese fly south early, that's another sign, although they do not know they may be flying toward a nuclear waste dump. If squirrels hoard more nuts than usual, start chopping wood. If the shucks on an ear of corn are thicker than usual, they say, a hard winter is ahead. If the hair on a cow's hide thickens early, look out.

I don't go by any of these signs. I have a better one:

When politicians'

campaign wallets thicken in October, hold on to yours and look out for another bad winter.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Choke Canyon nears completion

Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Governments

Campers, fishermen have until 1985 to gear up for outings in Choke Canyon State Park. That is when the first facilities will open to the public. Jeff Parrish, manager of the developing state park, is living at the old townsite of Calliham, now relocated, as surveying and preliminary work gets underway. Other Texas Parks and Wildlife employees are working in these early stages, a biologist from Beeville, and a representative of the fisheries division from San Antonio.

One of the first things that has been done is to stock the tanks and ponds on farms and ranches. As the reservoir fills and the water backs up, it will drink the waters of the ponds and increase the fish population. Fishing is expected to be one of the most popular activities. Only about one-third of the lake area has been cleared. Each pond is its own hatchery.

There will be three park areas, North Shore, South Shore and Calliham. At Calliham, a walkway will be paved on a six-foot wide, 1,000-foot jetty, directly accessible to a parking lot. In South Shore Park, on the river below the dam, a fishing platform will have direct ramp access from a parking lot, so both types of fishing will be possible from wheel chairs.

At Calliham, there will be a sand beach created along the curve of a natural cove for swimming. The jetty there will serve as wind protection for a seven-boat launching ramp.

There will be boat launching ramps in parks and at other sites around the lake. A canoe drop-off will be designated below the dam for canoe trips from there four miles downstream to Tips Park at Three Rivers.

In South Shore and Calliham Parks, campsites will be equipped with water and electricity. North Shore will be a primitive camping area for tent campers only.

Some of the buildings existing in the old community of Calliham will be converted to park use, including the school gym where a swimming pool will be built. Two houses will become the residences of park superintendents.

At present, registered hunters are being allowed to shoot, with hunts scheduled for dove, quail and deer. When parks are opened, hunting may continue under specified conditions in the James E. Daughtrey Wildlife Management Area. This was named for a game warden who lost his life in the line of duty.

Roadways leading to parks and launching ramps will be fenced off. The Wildlife area will be open only to those with permits. Homes may be built with views of the lake but not with access, as the shoreline will be fenced.

Parrish says detailed plans will be made at a later time about activities to be provided in the park, such as nature walks or educational centers.

Barracudas blast Rowdies 11-0

The Pee Wee Division of Rockport's Youth Soccer League provided lots of action last Saturday morning at Memorial Park with three shutout games and a total of 24 goals.

The Aztecs started things off with a 12-0 bombing of the Sting. Chuckie Nixon nosed six big goals in the first half and Andy Grumberger added another to put the Aztecs up by seven goals at the half. The powerful Aztecs added five more goals in the second half on three fine shots by David Werntz, one by Bebo Martinez and another blast by Chuckie Nixon.

With inexperienced players the Sting are improving each game but the explosive offensive power and tough defense of the Aztecs was just too much this week. Kristie Arispe made some fine plays for the Sting and threatened the Aztecs' goal several times.

The second game in Pee Wee action was totally different — still lots of excitement but very little scoring! The Chiefs held on for a 1-0 victory over the Kicks in a rough-and-tumble game. Greg Bennett of the Chiefs blasted the only goal of the game in the first half and keyed the Chiefs' offense along with Shane White. Rene Contreras anchored their tough defense.

The Kicks had a lot of scoring threats but the offense could not manage to get the ball past the Chiefs' goalkeeper. Byron Hailey, Chris Hoover and Joe Zambrano had several outstanding plays for the Kicks and Bridget Brun-drett led their strong defensive team.

In the last game of the day the Barracudas blasted the Rowdies 11-0. Robert Solis scored four goals in the first half and five more in the second to set a scoring record for the league. Larry Krogsgaard fired in two more goals as the Barracudas dominated the Rowdies.

Lee Heyden provided a few exciting plays for the Rowdies but could not crack the strong defense led by Elias Anderson of the Barracudas.

In Intermediate Division action Charlie Lozano picked up where he left off last season with four goals to lead his Hurricanes to a 6-2 victory over the Cosmos. Miles Adkison and John Little each added a goal to the Hurricanes' total to insure the win.

Paul Wilson and Brandi Brundrett scored for the Cosmos but had a hard time all day long trying to crack the defensive barrier set up by Russell Green and Johnathan Sifuentes.

In the other game in the Intermediate Division, the Strikers pounced on the Tornados by a score of 3-1. Troy Brown kicked in two goals in the first half and Roland Rios added another in the second half for the Strikers. P.J. Levy had several fine defensive plays during the game.

Robert Robertson scored the only goal for the Tornados but got lots of offensive help from Eric Flores and James Griffith. The Tornados fought back all day long with a tough defense led by Andy Valdez but couldn't score enough goals to stay in the game.

Extra permits may be issued

AUSTIN — Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials have announced that some landowners may be eligible for an extra allotment of antlerless deer hunting permits under some circumstances.

Deer Program Leader Horace Gore said if a landowner uses all his permits and feels there is a need for more, he may apply for supplemental issuance not to exceed the original number received.

"These requests will be examined on an individual basis," Gore said, "and additional permits will be issued only after a biologist has determined that a surplus of antlerless deer still exists."

"Ordinarily less than half the permits issued each year are actually utilized, but there have been cases where the original issuance was not adequate," said Gore. He added that in areas of high deer populations an adequate annual harvest of antlerless deer is necessary for keeping deer numbers under control and maintaining good quality in the herd.

Gore pointed out that the supplemental issuance program is not needed in counties designated as "either sex" deer hunting counties, because in those counties the landowner receives an unlimited number of special antlerless deer tags. "However, most counties still have the traditional permit system, so we feel the supplemental issuance will give more flexibility wherever we judge it will benefit the deer herd," Gore said.

Anglers gear up for croaker run

The annual fall croaker run apparently is getting underway along the Texas Gulf Coast.

The annual migration of Atlantic croakers from the bays into the Gulf of Mexico often coincides with the flounder run to give anglers fast action around passes and jetties during mid-September through October, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists.

Reports from Rollover Pass on the Bolivar Peninsula in Chambers County indicate a run already has started in the Galveston Bay area. Croaker fishing also is popular in other Texas bay areas, especially around Port Aransas.

Biologist Paul Hamerschmidt of Port Lavaca said the croakers, known regionally in Texas as "golden croakers," sometimes can be caught in large numbers by bottom fishing in ship channels and passes, using dead shrimp for bait.

Mature croakers usually weigh less than a pound, but they are regarded as fine table fish. The state record croaker weighed five pounds, two ounces. There are no daily bag or possession limits.

Anglers caught 2.5 million fish

AUSTIN — The popularity and importance of the spotted seatrout can be seen in Texas Parks and Wildlife Department data showing that of the approximately 2.5 million fish caught by coastal boat fishermen during a one-year period, about half were trout.

Spotted seatrout, referred to as "speckled trout" by most coastal anglers, was by far the major species reported in the creel survey. The survey covered the one-year period from May 15, 1981, to May 15, 1982.

Biologist Larry McEachron of Rockport said fishermen had to spend about 4.5 million man-hours to catch the 2.5 million fish reported, averaging about one-half fish per hour.

Wildlife area is dedicated

TILDEN — Law enforcement officers, legislators, county officials, wildlife officials and friends and neighbors of James E. (Jim) Daughtrey gathered here last week to dedicate a new Texas Parks and Wildlife Department wildlife management area to the memory of the game warden killed in the line of duty.

Daughtrey died in an automobile collision on Dec. 8, 1978, some 20 miles from the management area which now bears his name.

Daughtrey, who was 37 at the time of his death, became a game warden in 1962 and had served 16 years. He was a resident of Tilden.

The James E. Daughtrey

Wildlife Management Area, formerly called Choke Canyon W.M.A., promises to be one of the finest in the state. It is part of a 38,000-acre tract which eventually will contain the 26,000-acre Choke Canyon Reservoir. Choke Canyon State Park also will be operated in several units along the shoreline.

The Choke Canyon Dam was recently completed but a lack of rainfall on the watershed has prevented any significant accumulation of water. Officials said most of the 37,000 acres can be utilized as a wildlife management area until the lake fills, then they expect the management area lands to comprise between 10,000 to 15,000 acres, depending upon the lake level.

Lucky Herron: he just likes to play baseball

By PAT BLAIR

If baseball had been an integrated sport back when Lucky Herron was playing it, he thinks he could've made the big league. "I was good," he says, in the voice of a man who knows his abilities.

Added to that, Lucky — the name is the one his parents gave him, not a nickname — loves the game. He can recall playing ragball when he was "comin' up a kid, 9 or 10 years old" in Refugio County where he was born and raised.

At 14, he got started in baseball and when he was 16 or 17, he said during a recent interview, he got into the "big team."

The "big team" was the Woodsboro Club. "We didn't have the names like they got now," Lucky said. "It was just the Woodsboro Club." Lucky played centerfield for the team and a query on how he rated himself as a player got a laugh then, "I was good. I could play."

There were no statistics kept of team players, no talk of batting averages or RBI's or earned run records. "All we did," Lucky said, "was get up a good team, go out of town and play every Sunday. We used to have a pretty good team," he recalls, naming some of the other towns his team played: Beeville, Mathis, Robstown...

There was no pay for the players either. "Oh, no!" Lucky emphasized. Lucky and his teammates didn't play for money — in fact, he said, they themselves would get up the money for their trips to out-of-town games.

"Back in those days," he added with another laugh, "I spent it (money) up havin' fun, didn't think about keepin' any." He played baseball, he emphasized, because he loves the game, loved to play it.

LUCKY HERRON shows just a couple of his trophies — one from 1977 and one presented to him this year — from area softball organizations honoring his services as umpire. Lucky has been umpiring for 50 years — since he gave up playing baseball. (Photo by Pat Blair)

In the meantime, Lucky — who was living in Woodsboro at the time — operated a "beer garden, bar, whatever-you-want-to call it" for a while then later worked in grocery stores — and kept playing baseball. The end came, he said, in a game when he was "30 or 31 — a ball was hit to me and I knew I should've caught it, but I missed it."

"I missed two balls that day," he said. "I decided then it was time to quit. I should've caught those balls. That was when I decided it was time for me to come out."

But even if it was time to leave the game, he wasn't ready to leave the ballpark. He'd already done some umpiring in games when he wasn't playing; now he took it up "full-time. I like it," he said. "I loved it both ways — playing and umpiring."

Counting the years he served both as team player and (occasionally) as umpire, Lucky figures he's put in about 50 years of umpiring duties — possibly even longer. When he moved to Rockport "40-some-odd years" ago, he continued umpiring for organizations here. Over the years he's received awards from the Rockport-Fulton Softball League Association and the Aransas Pass Softball Association for his duties to the leagues.

Umpiring, he concedes, is not one of the easiest tasks. "There are plenty of problems," he says. "But you got to keep a cool head. You have a lot of jaw at times, but you just got to keep it under control."

In all the years Lucky has been umpiring, he says there's one thing he's never done: "I've never thrown anybody out. I hate to throw 'em out." He could, he says, if he had to — but so far he hasn't had to.

Lucky's brother brought him to Rockport, he said, and for a while he worked for the Del Mar Cafe "washing dishes" then worked at a tailor shop. He also worked for the Aransas County School District "for seven and a half years," he said. "Then I quit there and," again he chuckles, "I been at home ever since."

"Home" for him and Pecola, to whom he's been married 26 years, is a house on Verne Street. The couple are members of Rockport's Greater First Baptist Church. They appear to have a quiet life — except when Lucky hits the road on weekends to umpire various weekend games.

"When I was playing baseball," he said, "I'd liked to've got in the (major) league. I feel like I could've made it. But at that time, I couldn't."

"But," he added with a smile, "I kept playing ball."

Pet talks

Calico cat can confuse owner

By Dr. Hap Lutz

Dear Dr. Lutz, A friend of mine from up north keeps referring to his "money cat." What is a "money cat?"

Signed, Alvin Bond Dear Alvin,

A money cat is a three-colored calico. I would imagine your friend is from the state of Maine. In Maine, money cats are thought to bring good luck.

Apparently, good luck is associated with money!

A similar tradition is common in French Canada. The cat is always fed well at Christmas time, because it's considered bad luck if there is a "meow" on Christmas Eve.

Signed, Dr. Hap Lutz If you have any questions concerning the health and care of your pet, please mail your questions to the Rockport Pilot, 1002 Wharf St. Dr. Lutz will answer them in the weekend edition.

Dr. Lutz is a former instructor of diseases of dogs and cats in the College of Veterinary Medicine, Texas A&M University.

Genius has its limitations, but vanity and stupidity have no limits.

Von Dohlen points to his record

Veteran State Rep. Tim Von Dohlen says it is vital that the seat left vacant by the death of State Senator John Wilson be filled by an experienced, veteran legislator, someone who can match Wilson's years of service, and he points to his own 12 years as proof that he can do the job.

Von Dohlen has pledged to run a campaign based on the issues, not personalities, and he is quick to praise his opponent, Rep. John Sharp:

"My opponent is a friend and a good member of the Legislature. John has served the people of Victoria well during his freshman term in the House and he is undoubtedly in line to receive a committee chairmanship or major assignment if he chooses to return to the House. "The people of South-Central Texas deserve to have strong representation in both the House and Senate. During my 12 years in the House, I have worked with many members of both houses and I would take my knowledge of the process and the personalities to the Senate, where I have many friends and colleagues," Von Dohlen says.

Committee chairmen are appointed on the basis of seniority and they command a great deal of leverage over pending legislation. Their position as chairmen also gives them added clout in passing

Liven up fall menus with fish

COLLEGE STATION — Why not put a touch of the "exotic" in your fall menus? You can still enjoy the "flavor of other lands," even if this isn't your year to travel. With fish that's especially easy, says Annette Reddell Hegen, a seafood consumer education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&I University System.

An extra bonus is that this gourmet fare doesn't add inches to the waistline. And, since fish is a very nutritious food, you can eat it in good health.

Here are some recipes from other lands that you may wish to try.

FISH MEXICALI
2 pounds fresh fish fillets
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
Dash liquid hot pepper sauce

Place fillets in a single layer, skin side down, on a well-greased broil-and-serve platter. Combine remaining ingredients. Pour sauce over fillets. Broil about 4 inches from source of heat for 7 minutes, or until fillets flake easily when tested with a fork. Baste once during broiling, with sauce in pan. Garnish with lemon wedges. Makes 6 servings.

BROILED FISH HAWAIIAN
2 pounds fish fillets
1/2 cup pineapple juice
1/4 cup steak sauce
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Skin fillets and cut into serving-size portions. Place fish in a single layer in a shallow baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over fish. Let stand for 30 minutes, turning fish once. Remove fish, reserving sauce for basting. Place fish on a well-greased broiler pan.

Broil about 4 inches from source of heat for 4 to 6 minutes. Turn fish carefully and brush with sauce. Broil 4 to 6 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

FISH IN WINE SAUCE
2 pounds fresh skinless flounder, sheepshead or other fillets
3 sliced tomatoes
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons melted margarine
1/2 cup skim milk
1/4 cup dry white wine
1/2 teaspoon crushed basil
Chopped fresh parsley

Sprinkle fillets on both sides with salt and pepper.

Place fillets in a single layer in a greased baking dish. Arrange tomatoes over top of fillets. In a small saucepan, blend flour into margarine. Add milk gradually and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in wine and basil. Pour sauce over top of tomatoes. Bake at 350° for 20 minutes or until fish flakes and is opaque. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes 6 servings of approximately 180 calories each.

Calcium in warm milk may help insomniacs sleep

By Jean Glowka

Q. My grandmother used to always drink a cup of warm milk before bed to help her sleep. She swore by it! I don't like warm milk by itself, so I have tried drinking hot chocolate. It doesn't work for me. How come? Is the warm milk bit just an old wife's tale?

A. The reason your grandmother's warm milk helped her get to sleep was because of the high calcium content of the milk. Calcium soothes the nerves; heat speeds up the digestive process.

Your hot chocolate does not work because chocolate contains caffeine, which acts as a stimulant. (You've been defeating your purpose!) You could force yourself to drink the milk plain or start using a carob drink mix (the taste is almost identical).

Also, some people find it helpful to take two or three calcium tablets WITH their milk drink before retiring and two or three more tablets every hour, if wakefulness persists.

Q. I have a friend who is a real "health food nut." She complains that the chlorine in our drinking water is bad. What's bad about it? Doesn't the body need some chlorine anyway?

A. Chlorine IS an essential mineral needed in small amounts by the body to establish electrolytic balance in the cells and aid in the manufacture of hydrochloric acid. HOWEVER, chlorine continuously used in our water supply destroys vitamin E. Also, it destroys many of the intestinal flora that aid in the digestion of food.

Until next week, folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

Everything is beautiful

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." He called the light forth, He gathered the waters together, He let the earth put forth vegetation, He set lights in the heavens, He put fish in the sea and birds in the air and living creatures upon the earth . . . and made man in His own Image . . . "And God saw everything that he had made, and behold, it was very good." (Genesis 1) — Solomon surveyed all that God had done and exclaimed: "He has made everything beautiful in its time." Judge for yourself and see.

Even each season of the year is resplendent with its own radiance. Winter whips in to throw a pure white scarf around the shoulders of the mountains and grace ever so delicately the leaves and trees with glistening snow. Hardly have you taken in its beauty until fresh upon winter's heels walks the sound of spring. The grass awakes and gently paints the earth with a refreshing coat of green. The white-faced daisy lifts up its head and birds warble their song, and suddenly it seems that the whole world has been reborn.

Summer comes marching in with its helpful days as cumulus clouds pile high in the sky "as if the angels had gone to worship and had left their plumes lying there." Silently the glory of autumn falls and it seems that the very paint brush of nature has been dipped in the rainbow itself. Golden grain and mellow fruit adorn the pathway of life. Everything is beautiful in its time!

Even though Emerson declares that "beauty is its own excuse for being," I am made to wonder if it is not the index of some larger fact. Ruskin says that beauty is "written on the arched sky; it looks out from every star; it is among the hills and valleys of the earth, where the shrubless mountain-top pierces the tin atmosphere of eternal winter, or where the mighty forest fluctuates before the strong wind, with its dark waves of green foliage; it is spread out like a legible language upon the broad face of the unsleeping ocean; it is the poetry of nature; it is that which uplifts with us, until it is strong enough to overlook the shadows of our place, of probation, which breaks link after link of the chain that binds us to materiality and which opens to our imagination a world of spiritual beauty and holiness."

Order, beauty, perfection everywhere! Doesn't it mean something to you? Doesn't it declare the glory of God? Doesn't it call forth your praise? Doesn't it make you want to worship that One who has made everything beautiful in its time?

— John Gipsen

Field trip nets many bird sightings

By Jane Wilds

Leading field trips has never been "my bag." I bog down in watching birds and forget about the time. And I don't like having to keep a schedule. I'd rather someone else do the herding. So naturally, Doug and I were put in charge of this season's first Audubon Outdoor Club field trip!

This time of year the chances of finding a lot of birds is really "iffy." If there are fronts coming down this far or if the fronts stall so that the migrants remain here to eat, then we might have some luck.

With all these "ifs" Doug and I were pretty worried about leading this trip since we are relatively new to the area. The whole week before was beset with deadlines so I really had no time to scout around much. And Doug had to spend the whole week in Houston. I should have known!

So, with what little time I had to scout, I just mainly eliminated places to go — no birds here, or there or just about anywhere. But the old stand-by and birders' favorite, Estes pond, was loaded with birds.

At any rate, I didn't expect a large crowd. It was still horribly hot and people gripe a lot about getting up so early. The plan was to end up at my house at noon to eat our sack lunches under the trees.

Doug didn't get in from Houston until Friday night so he stayed home and mowed the lawn while I, figuratively speaking, led the field trip.

By the time Nina Arnold and I arrived at the meeting place, practically everyone was already there. Sixty people showed up, including 18 from Kingsville! So much for outguessing birders. My instincts seem to be infallibly wrong all the time.

But the birds didn't let me down. By 8:30 a.m. we were at good ole "Estes pond" and it was loaded with birds. Who's going to complain about roseate spoonbills, little blue heron, tri-colored heron, snowy egrets, great egrets, solitary sandpiper (a real treat), spotted sandpipers, sora, willets, various ducks, pied-billed grebe, still sandpiper, American avocet, gull-billed and black terns and long-billed dowitchers?

Kay McCracken remarked that we really didn't need to go on from there because it had already been a great trip. But about 10 a.m. we pushed on down to Ingleside Cove. At this point Bob and Dixie Fraley led us to the best spots. They've led this field trip for years. At the Cove we had a Mississippi kite fly over and we picked up several plovers and gulls. Enormous blooming silver-leaved sunflowers were attracting yellow warblers, goldfinches and flycatchers.

On the way to Aransas Pass we stopped at a pond and saw groove-billed anis, eastern kingbirds, baltimore orioles and blue-gray gnatcatchers — plus one person sighted a black-headed grosbeak.

At Redfish Bay, between

Aransas Pass and the ferry to Port Aransas, more herons and egrets greeted us. Wilson's plovers, piping plovers, killdeer, barn and tree swallows all hung around. An osprey was sighted and the telescopes were brought out and set up. Osprey cooperated fully, sitting on a post out in the water, turning this way and that allowing everyone to see him from all angles.

By this time we were panting from the heat and eager to have lunch and some shade. So 15 cars caravaned back to our house. Even here, the birds took over the entertainment. Black-bellied whistling ducks showed off their young down the road. And hummingbirds at my feeders did their aerial ballets all around us.

We lucked out this time. The weather was right, the birds were great, the people were companionable and even I enjoyed it.

Mexican manufactured vehicles must meet federal standards

AUSTIN — Apparent "bargain-basement" prices on new cars and trucks manufactured in Mexico have prompted a number of U.S. citizens to purchase these vehicles for use in the United States.

While import duty on these vehicles is a modest 2.8 percent, the additional cost of bringing the vehicles into compliance with federal safety and emission standards is prohibitive — if compliance can be accomplished at all.

U.S. officials report that cars and trucks manufactured in Mexico commonly fail to meet most safety standards required for vehicles used in the U.S. — including all-around safety glass, collapsible steering wheel and other crash protection features. Vehicles made in Mexico also do not have pollution control systems.

The Texas Automobile Dealers Association cautions consumers that unless a buyer can find an authorized U.S. dealer willing to modify the vehicle and certify compliance with federal safety and emission standards, U.S. Customs will require that the vehicle be destroyed or exported back to Mexico. TADA Executive Vice-President Gene Fondren doubts that any U.S. dealer will be willing to engage in this type of modification. "Difficulty in conversion and potential liability is too great," Fondren explained.

According to the U.S. Customs Office, failure to declare the vehicle and pay import duty is a felony and will also make the buyer liable for civil penalties of up to 12 percent of the value of the vehicle. The U.S. Customs Office in Brownsville reports that it has confiscated a number of vehicles that will be exported or destroyed unless the owners can pay import duties and obtain the necessary work and certification to meet all federal standards within 90 days.

Safety aspects of using the vehicles, which may appear to be quite similar to vehicles meeting safety standards, is the most serious problem for the unwary consumer.

In order to protect public safety and halt import violations, the Customs Service has redoubled its enforcement efforts and is actively seeking to locate and confiscate any vehicles that have gained illegal entry. Customs has asked for cooperation from the Texas Highway Department and the Department of Public Safety in adopting stricter titling and inspection requirements. This is a nationwide effort, not simply confined to the Mexican Border area. TADA is cooperating with these efforts and is alerting member dealers to help make consumers aware of the problem.

Funerals & deaths

William "Bull" Wright

Memorial services for Rear Admiral William "Bull" Wright of Aransas Pass will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23, at the First United Methodist Church in Aransas Pass.

Adm. Wright, 80, passed away at Spohn Hospital in Corpus Christi after an extended illness.

After graduation from Corpus Christi High School in 1919, he enlisted in the Navy and was selected to attend the U.S. Naval Academy. He was graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy Post-graduate School in 1932.

He assumed command of the USS Sturgeon on June 2, 1940, and was attached to Submarine Division 22 of the U.S. Asiatic Fleet. The Sturgeon was moored in Marvilles Bay, Philippines, when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.

He became one of the nation's submarine heroes as the Sturgeon's commander for four war patrols, and was awarded the Navy Cross for actions against the enemy during the Sturgeon's second war patrol in January 1942.

He received the Gold Star for action against the enemy during its third war patrol in March and April 1942. He was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service against the enemy as commander of the Sturgeon during its fourth war patrol in June and July 1942.

He was presented the Legion of Merit for service as commander, submarine division 261. Wright was also operations officer and chief of staff of the seventh fleet commander submarines. His name was inscribed on the Honor Roll of Submarines — Pacific Fleet.

He retired from the Navy in 1946 and moved to Aransas Pass, where he resided until his death. Adm. Wright was in the delegation that attended the Groton, Conn., launching of the USS Corpus Christi in April 1981.

Adm. Wright is survived by his wife, Nancy, of Aransas Pass; two daughters, Betty Kelly of Corpus Christi and Nancy of Aransas Pass; six grandchildren, Leslie Kelly of Rockport, Glenn, Stephen and Rachel Kelly of Corpus Christi, Cindy Milton of Aransas Pass and Cathy Spell of Lake Jackson; six great-grandchildren; four sisters, Lolabelle Kobey of San Francisco, Calif., Lois Reynolds of San Jose, Calif., Helen Dru Jack, Palo Alto, Calif., and Doris Goodgion, Powderhorn, Colo.; one brother, Franklin Wright of San Antonio.

In lieu of flowers, contributions in Adm. Wright's memory may be made to the First United Methodist Church in Aransas Pass.

Olive Layman

Graveside services for Olive Layman of Lubbock were conducted at 10 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 21, in the Aransas Memorial Cemetery.

Nursing Home News

By Maxine Mayer

The Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center enjoyed plenty of activity last week. Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 12, the Caring Ones joined us for bingo. In addition, Marvix Wix and her mother, Daphne Davis, helped mend our residents' clothes, a project sponsored by the Ladies of the First Presbyterian Church of Rockport.

Members of the Order of the Eastern Star, chapter of 1037, of Ingleside visited Thursday afternoon to play bingo. In addition, the ladies of the First Presbyterian Church of Rockport brought over new name plates to go over residents' doors.

Friday afternoon activities included an old-fashioned sing-along with the Rockport chapter of the AARP. Dorris Hanke of the First Presbyterian Church of Aransas Pass brought 12 much appreciated hospital-type gowns. We'd also like to thank Eckerd Drugs for the candy they sent to our residents.

Sunday morning worship services were led by Rev. Al Bankert. That afternoon, Adolf Hanke celebrated his 100th birthday with a party given by his family.

VOTE For
Tim Von Dohlen
For The 18th Senatorial District
November 6, 1982

GOLIAD — State Representative Tim Von Dohlen Democrat from Goliad, Texas, has announced that he is a candidate for the 18th Senatorial District special election to be held on November 6, 1982. This is to fill out the unexpired term of Senator John Wilson. Senator Wilson and Representative Von Dohlen were desk mates for three sessions in the Texas House of Representatives while each was serving in that body.

Von Dohlen said, "I was fortunate to witness the outstanding performance of John Wilson while he served as the Senator for the 18th District. He exhibited such fine personal characteristics as integrity, strong commitment, and dedication to his constituents. I offer myself to the citizens of District 18 with the full support of my wife, Cherie, my family, and many friends who have observed the type of person I have been and will continue to be during twelve years of service to the people of the 39th Legislative District, which includes DeWitt, Goliad, Karnes, Lavaca, Jackson and Refugio counties.

Von Dohlen also said, "During my six terms in the Texas House, I have attempted to tackle some of the most difficult issue facing the State and for constituents whom I serve. I always done so with the thought in mind of doing what the people felt needed to be addressed by the Legislature and not being worried about whether my involvement in a controversial issue would adversely affect my future political activities. I feel that the people want a man to stand up in the halls of the Legislature and be counted in their behalf. I have done so in the past, and I intend to continue to do so in the future to the point that one man's vote out of the 31 in the Senate will, in fact, make a big difference."

Von Dohlen's leadership is exhibited through the fact that he has been a member of most of the major committees in the Texas House having served as Chairman of the Constitutional Amendments, Judicial Affairs, and Regions, Compacts and Districts Committees as well as chairing several special committees including the Special Committee on Offset Emission Standards and a Special Study for the Deaf in Texas. In addition, he has been recognized as the Speaker Pro Tempore of the House, the second highest position in the Texas House of Representatives.

Von Dohlen said, "People who have worked with me know that my word is my bond, and that when I tell them something, they can count on it.

I attempt to apply the same standards to my personal life that I do in politics. These include my actions to put people over politics, friendships over personal advancement, independence over special interest control, and maturity over political expediency."

Representative Von Dohlen has authored several major Legislative proposals which have become law, including the Texas Controlled Substances Act, the Health Planning and Development Act, the Health Maintenance Organization Act, the Texas Administrative Procedure and Texas Register Act, and the Tax Relief Amendment which provided for the agricultural use exemption, the removal of the State tax on stocks, bonds, and bank accounts and an assurance that there would never be a State-wide valuation of real property. He sponsored a resolution calling for an amendment to the U.S. Constitution to balance the Federal Budget. Von Dohlen also has been the sponsor of successful legislative proposals to encourage economic development, to improve the distribution of physician services throughout Texas, and to find workable ways for Texas businesses to meet national air quality requirements. He sponsored legislation reauthorizing the Texas Good Neighbor Commission and has been active in projects to improve relations with Mexico.

Von Dohlen said, "I think it's time that government get its priorities straight, I'm concerned about the family, particularly our youth and the problems that they are encountering with drugs and alcohol abuse. I have always spoken out for the farmer and rancher, and I will continue to do so, but doing so realizing that in today's time we must work to remove tax burdens not only from the farmer and rancher but for the small businessman, and to look at a means of restructuring our tax system so that we do not impose an undue burden on any group of taxpayers."

Von Dohlen was born in Cuero, Texas, and grew up in Goliad where he graduated from Goliad High School. He attended The University of Texas and graduated with a degree in Pharmacy in 1966. After practicing pharmacy in Goliad, he returned to Austin in 1968 to attend The University of Texas School of Law. He received his J.D. Degree, and presently maintains a general law practice in Goliad. He was selected and listed as an outstanding young businessman in "Personalities of the South" and "Outstanding Young Men in America". He was the recipient of the 1981 Hubert H. Humphrey Award presented by the American Pharmaceutical Association to an individual in the United States making the greatest contribution in public affairs.

Von Dohlen's family includes his wife, the former Cherie June Shelton of Goliad, and three boys: Tim II, 17 years; Christopher, 15 years; and Patrick, 12 years. The Von Dohlen's reside in Goliad, and are active in the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church. He is currently State Deputy of the Texas Knights of Columbus. Professionally, he is a pharmacist, attorney, and real estate broker with degrees from The University of Texas in Austin.

Von Dohlen concluded, "I believe in the United States of America, and I am so proud to be a Texan. Most of all, I believe in the people, and I think that the people want a person to hold office who has a positive attitude and who will make his constituents proud that they have had a part in electing him to hold their position. I want to continue to work for the people, and I hope that you will give me that chance by voting for John Wilson on November 2 and Tim Von Dohlen on November 6. This will assure that the people have a Senator representing them who has experience, maturity and political effectiveness."

Fran Rodgers and Earl Smith

Fran's Galleria offers unique art, crafts

Fran's Galleria offers a unique collection of oil paintings and crafts that will satisfy serious and amateur collectors alike.
Run by Fran Rodgers and her husband Earl Smith, most of the artwork at the Holiday Beach gallery is done by the proprietors themselves.

Both Fran's and Earl's specialty is coastal-type oil painting. Fran has a flair for seascapes while Earl has come up with an impressive combination of oil painting and collage to put together a three-dimensional piece of work. In one painting of a beach house, Earl has constructed a walkway complete with sand, shells, wooden fence poles and a rope fence, all built to stand out from the painting.

Fran used to have an art gallery in Port Aransas, which was open for about four years. When asked what brought Fran and Earl to Holiday Beach, the answer was quite simple,

"Hurricane Allen." Fran closed her Port Aransas gallery in July of 1981 and opened the Holiday Beach
gallery on Labor Day, 1981. "This was a good time to move," says Fran, "since we didn't have much to move."

Fran says that much of her business comes from tourists to the area, although she has "had a lot of followup from the Port Aransas shop." She also teaches art classes from November to March.

Fran's Galleria is located on Hwy. 35 North in Holiday Beach, across from the Sportman's Center.
The phone number is should be removed unless absolutely necessary"; construction of a main road with separate entrance and exit and "good vehicular circulation"; an entrance sign; a large picnic area; a caretaker center and tennis courts — "two with a possible increase to four."

Board members noted that these recommendations have been carried through as were the additional recommendations for "plenty of parking space," a playground, adequate restroom facilities and a "Pony League ball park." The park does not have a pony league park but little league and softball parks are provided. Soccer fields — not recommended by the 1972 park board — have also been added to the Memorial Park facilities.

Among recommendations approved by the city council in 1972 but not provided for in the park were a putting green, bike trails and swimming pools for "adult and tiny tot."

On Jan. 22, 1973, the park board recommended — and received council approval — a "recreation center or recreation room" that could be used as a meeting room for adults, youth and organizations and two basketball practice courts. Board members noted Wednesday night that neither of these facilities have been provided.

Following discussion of the 1972 and '73 recommendations, Winkelman said, "This is what they had before us (referring to the present board). We're open to any suggestions."

The discussion subsequently turned to the budget for parks and recreation for 1982-83. "Our budget," Winkelman told board members, "is $10,000."

Board member Howard Black added, "A lot of that, I understand, is little league."

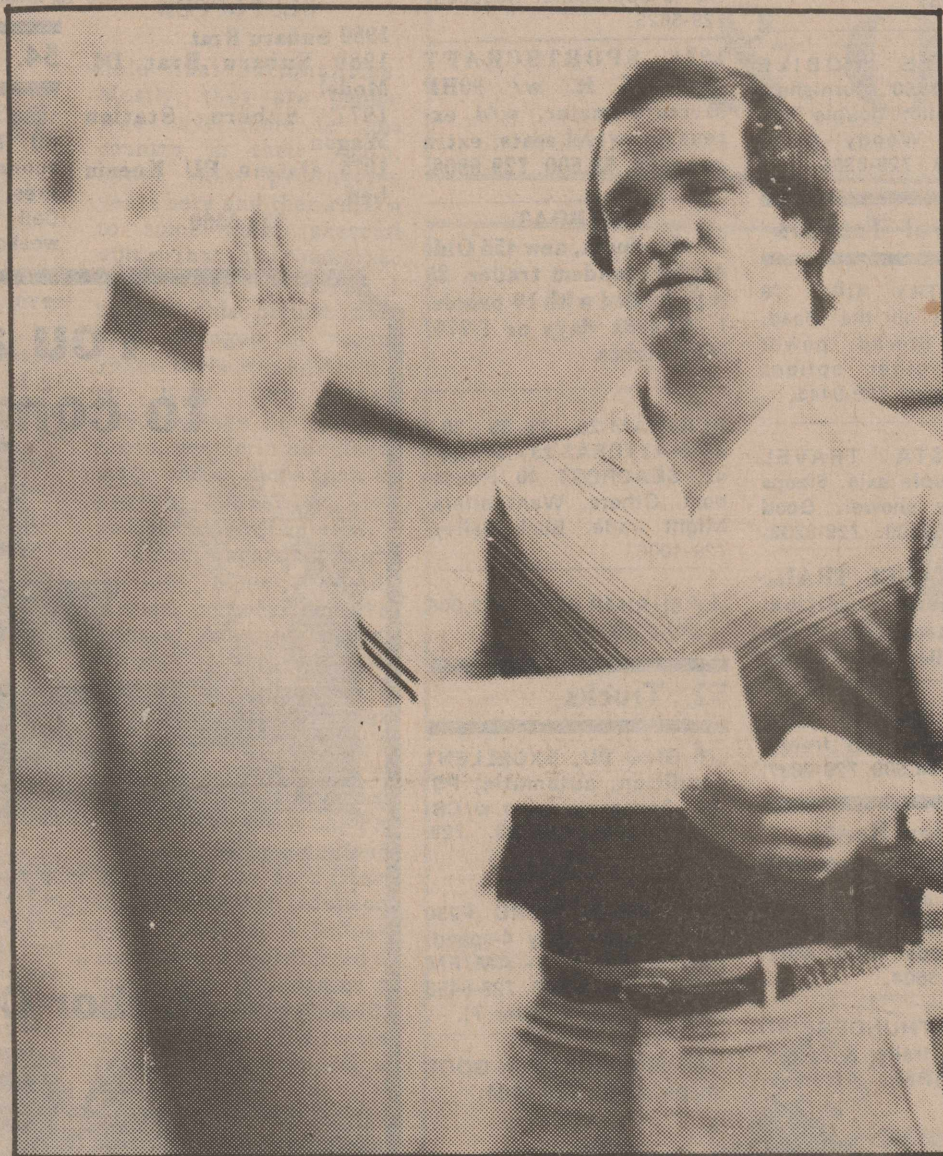

Jackson asked if the board could get a breakdown of the allocations and subsequently moved that such a breakdown be obtained by the board's next meeting on Nov. 16. That motion was seconded by Black and approved unanimously.

Jackson later suggested that the caretaker at the park be invited to a meeting of the park board. "He could give us some ideas" concerning park facilities, Jackson said. "He sees what's used and what's needed out there."

Black subsequently moved that the caretaker be invited to speak to the park board, if possible at the Nov. 16 meeting. This motion was seconded by Jackson and also approved unanimously.

On the question of the budget, park board member Gordon Dancer asked, "What determines the budget for parks?" On being told by Black that the city council sets the park budget without consulting the park board, Dancer said, "I think it's because we haven't expressed a need for money. I think if we make our presence be known, maybe we can get some more money."

The discussion of funds turned to a discussion of recreational needs in the city and Dancer observed, "I would think the school board would be a place to go to see what is needed (for recreation)."

Jackson replied, "I think we need to canvas as many sources as possible."

"Maybe we should just get out and canvass people," Dancer said, mentioning civic organizations and school officials as likely sources for information.

Jackson said he felt the board needs to look at the financial status first, "then maybe we can do some research."

He and Dancer expressed an interest in working up a questionnaire to present at the board's next meeting for use in a recreation needs survey.

Hobby challenges Texans to overcome voter apathy

AUSTIN — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby today challenged Texans to overcome voter apathy and urged them to vote on Nov. 2 for the most important office in the nation — that of citizen.

"No office in the land is more important than that of citizen," Hobby said. "As citizens, we have the power to help our state weather the recession and continue our prosperity by exercising our right to vote."

Hobby said he is disturbed by recent polls that show most Texans are neither Democrats nor Republicans; instead, they list themselves as "undecided."

"Apparently, apathy is high this year. This is particularly alarming when you consider that more than 200 elective offices, including all top state officials and all Texas House and Senate seats, are up for grabs."

Hobby said that Texans should ask themselves, "Who will I have to blame if Texas fails to maintain its status as one of the best states in the nation in which to live?"

"Our Texas Constitution guarantees the right of free speech and free assembly and all the other basic freedoms," Hobby said. "How sad it is that so many thousands of Texans, enjoying the blessings of liberty and the high quality of life that has become characteristic of our state, will refuse to exercise the fundamental process of free democracy in a free republic."

Hobby said that the history of Texas is proof that the struggle for prosperity is an ongoing process and never a final achievement.

"I believe that Texans will continue to be a land of opportunity, as it has since its inception more than 100 years ago," Hobby said. "This will happen only if the people of Texas combine their sense of mutual progress and pride with a sense of participation and vote during the general elections on Nov. 2."

Cost-control workshop set

AUSTIN — The state's largest small-business organization — the National Federation of Independent Business — will host an employment cost-control workshop, Tuesday, Oct. 26, in a move sparked by soaring employment costs. According to Mills Boon, director of governmental relations for the nearly 46,000 NFIB members in Texas, "The state legislature passed measures to increase employment costs by as much as 450 percent next January in the recent special session. Further borrowing from the federal government will not be needed now to replenish the state unemployment fund, which was wiped out by a high number of unemployment claims.

"Unemployment and workers' compensations are just a few costs that employers can and must control," he continued, noting a recent study showing that employer-paid unemployment costs alone have soared 540 percent over the last decade.

A nationally-recognized consulting firm, Gates, McDonald & Co., has been retained by NFIB of Texas to present an all-day workshop on both workers' and unemployment compensation costs.

The workshop will feature ways to review workers' and unemployment compensation costs, how to comply with new laws and coverage requirements, ways to plan ahead to control costs, and money-saving tips to help prevent unwarranted claims.

The workshop will be held at the Ramada Inn Arlington, 700 East Lamar, Arlington. Registration begins at 8 a.m. and all small-business owners are invited. For information or registration, contact Mills Boon at (512) 476-9847.
