How's that?
Chamber dues

Q. How much does it cost a business to join the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce?

A. It varies, according to bookkeeper Arlene Olsen.

Minimum payment for a year's membership with the Chamber is $120. However, businesses are encouraged to take a membership investment test. They rate themselves in terms of number of employees, volume of business done in a year's time and floor space.

Mrs. Olsen said membership rates are tallied according to the score received on the investment test. Some small businesses pay the $120 fee while other businesses pay higher fees.

OPEC pact: no price cut

Area rig count may rise

From staff and wire reports

An agreement by OPEC ministers today not to change oil prices and basic production quotas in the near future is good news for the Permian Basin, according to Ed Thompson, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association.

Thompson, contacted at his Midland office today, said the agreement "will serve as a kind of support" for the Permian Basin oil industry. "This will give us a steadier base to work from."

"A lot of people are scared when OPEC meets," Thompson said, because the group could vote to cut or raise prices and lower or raise production, moves which directly affect the Permian Basin.

Thompson was asked if people in the area oil industry would have preferred that the OPEC ministers raise prices and lower production, thus opening up an avenue for more production in this area.

"No, no, no," Thompson said. "OPEC was talking about cutting the price to $25 a barrel (from $29) and increasing production."

Such a move would have created an oil glut and "would have created problems for us," Thompson said.

But the agreement "is a good happening for us. We're pleased with the results. I think we'll see the rig count move up in the next couple of weeks."

Although OPEC ministers, meeting in Vienna, agreed to make no changes in their oil prices and basic production quotas, Saudi Arabia said it would temporarily cut its output to make room for more oil sales from financially pressed Nigeria.

Representatives of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided to keep the price for Saudi light crude, on which all other prices are based, at $29 a barrel.

In London, in March 1983, the OPEC agreed to cut their base price by $5 a barrel and to limit members' oil production to a total of 17.5 million barrels a day in an attempt to dry up a worldwide oil glut and prevent further price declines.

Bentsen friend claims senator out of VP race

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, whose vice presidential nomination is viewed by many as Walter Mondale's only hope of carrying Texas this fall, apparently will not be invited to join the ticket, it was learned Tuesday.

LLOYD BENTSEN

A friend of the senator, who asked not to be named, said in an interview that Mondale campaign officials have indirectly notified Bentsen that he will not be selected.

The senator was informed of Mondale's decision through a mutual friend, the informed source said.

The apparent decision to drop Bentsen from consideration as a vice presidential running mate is being viewed by some political observers as an early indication that Mondale is writing off his chances of defeating Reagan in Texas.

One Democratic leader said polls show Mondale trailing Reagan in Texas by 25 percentage points.

The differences between Mondale and Bentsen on defense issues and other matters is a major reason for the decision not to select the Texan, the source said.

Those differences surfaced when the senator and the former vice president met at Mondale's home in North Oaks, Minn. June 23 to discuss the possibility of Bentsen joining the ticket.

Following the three-hour session, they told reporters they disagree on the nuclear freeze (Mondale is for it) and on the B-1 bomber (Bentsen supported it).

Further, Bentsen has supported some of President Reagan's economic proposals, a position that some Democrats believe would leave a Mondale-Bentsen campaign open to criticism.

PUC says new ruling to save electric costs

AUSTIN (AP) — An emergency rule that requires electric companies to compete with private industry in generating power should save Texans millions of dollars, the Public Utility Commission chairman said Tuesday.

The PUC adopted that emergency-basis rule Tuesday to encourage "co-generation" of electricity, which is byproduct power produced by steam already used in industries' manufacturing processes.

PUC Chairman Alan R. Erwin said that industrial heat — now being wasted in many cases — could be turning turbines to make power that can be sold to local electric companies.

Under the new rule, which could have a significant effect on Dallas and Houston, utilities that want to build a new generating plant must first prove that sufficient co-generated power is not available elsewhere.

City delays referendum on chief job

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

City officials said this morning that a referendum to decide if Big Spring should have an elected police chief cannot be held until next January.

The news came in the form of a prepared 2½-page statement attributed to Mayor Clyde Angel that was released at a 10 a.m. press conference at City Hall.

Angel's statement refers to the 64-page petition containing 1,100 names that local bail bond company owners Mary Thomas and Danny Heckler submitted July 2 to City Secretary Tom Ferguson.

The petition calls for the charter election on the question of having an elected police chief, recommends a two-year term for the proposed elected office and stipulates that a person running for the office reside in the city for a period of a year before filing for election.

"If the petition is verified as a valid petition which contains the required number of signatures...the earliest election date that the city council could set would be January 19, 1985," read the statement.

Setting of the January election date comes as a result of state election codes, which limit the dates for city-held elections to "only four dates through the year," according to the statement.

The soonest date among the four is Aug. 12, according to Angel's statement.

'I have some reason to believe there are some forgeries on that list and there are some problems with it.'

City Manager

However, because state law requires that elections be held at least 30 days after the city council passes an ordinance calling the election, and because, according to City Attorney Doyle Curtis, the 30-day deadline would be up tomorrow.

Assistant D.A. eyes job in private sector

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Assistant District Attorney Don Richard said today he is leaving the 118th District Attorney's office to go into private practice.

"I would have left before the election, but I told Rick (Hamby, the district attorney) I would stay through the election," Richard said. He then decided to stay through the federal district court trial of Guy Talbot, the former 118th District chief probation officer, on whose behalf he testified, Richard said.

Richard, who has worked in the D.A.'s office for 7½ years, said he needed to take off a month to look for a job because "you can't work full-time anywhere and look for a job."

He is considering going into private practice in Big Spring, San Antonio or Dallas, he said.

"He (Richard) tendered me his resignation, and I accepted," Hamby said. "I understand he has several offers elsewhere, and I wish him all the luck in the world."

Weather

Cool front drops rain

By the Associated Press

A weak cool front rolling southward through North and West Texas today brought scattered showers and a few thunderstorms to the area, and forecasters predicted more precipitation in northern sections later.

Showers developed in an arc from the New Mexico border west of Midland 40 north and northeast of Amarillo, the National Weather Service said. The front extended from near Childress to the mountains of Southwest Texas.

Storms weakened in the northern Panhandle after producing marble-sized hail and heavy rains Tuesday evening.

Other storms moved inland along the middle Gulf Coast. Elsewhere in the state, skies were fair, except for patchy low cloudiness over the Hill Country.

North of the front, temperatures ranged from the 60s to 70s, with 70s and 80s south of the air mass.

Extreme low readings were 62 degrees at Marfa and a sultry 85 degrees at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

Scattered thunderstorms should redevelop along and north of the front, across Northwest and extreme North Texas, this afternoon and tonight.

Very warm temperatures were expected for most areas, while cooler 80-degree readings were predicted by the weather service for the Panhandle.

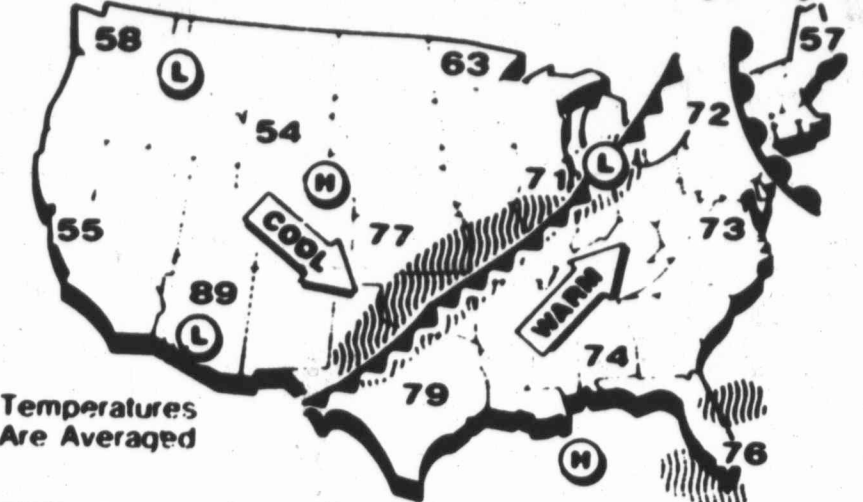

A cold front pushed thunderstorms across the central Plains, through the upper Mississippi Valley, and into the Great Lakes region today after tornadoes, high winds and hail pounded the nation's midsection from Texas to Minnesota.

On Tuesday, Kansas City, Mo., was pelted with hail the size of golf balls and winds gusted to 60 mph at Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo.

At least five tornadoes touched down in Kansas, Wisconsin and Illinois. A twister damaged several buildings in West Bend, Wis., another touched down at nearby Waukesha and a third knocked down a few trees at Rockford, Ill.

West Texas: Fair southeast. Isolated thunderstorms extreme southwest. Scattered thunderstorms elsewhere today. Scattered thunderstorms all sections except southeast tonight. Partly cloudy most sections Thursday with widely scattered thunderstorms extreme southwest. Not quite so warm north and far west today. Highs today upper 80s Panhandle to upper 90s southeast to near 104 Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight mid 60s Panhandle to mid 70s extreme south except upper 50s mountains. Highs Thursday near 90 mountains and panhandle to mid 90s south to near 102 Big Bend valleys.

Budget on trustee agenda

Big Spring Independent School District trustees will hear a report on policy updates and will discuss a budget workshop schedule when they meet at 5:15 p.m. Thursday in the board room at the high school.

Trustees will also consider employment and resignations of personnel and a request for a student transfer. Paving bids and an in-kind aid request will also be discussed.

Golden to represent county

Gordon R. Golden of Big Spring has been named to represent the Howard County division of the American Heart Association in Texas at the Annual Meeting of the membership in Fort Worth July 13-15.

Golden will be among over 200 delegates, board members and directors who will review the activities of the American Heart Association in Texas. Policies for the board of directors will be formulated, and officers and directors will be elected for the 1984-85 fiscal year.

Dancing on a water show

MIDLAND — Area dancers who attend taping sessions July 14-18 at Water Wonderland on Highway 80 between Midland and Odessa will be featured on "Dancin' U.S.A.," a 30-minute dance and music show on The Nashville Network.

Dancers from the Big Spring, Midland and Odessa areas are asked to participate and to appear on camera, according to a release from TNN out of Nashville.

The shows will be cablecast to more than 16 million TNN subscriber households this year.

County music artist Jacky Ward is the host of "Dancin' U.S.A." Show production begins at 8 p.m. at Water Wonderland. Dancers should arrive by 7:30 p.m.

Minors must be accompanied by parents or guardians. Western wear is preferred but not faded blue jeans or white clothing. For more information, call Water Wonderland at 915-563-3141.

USDA wants to hear farmers

Farmers, ranchers and others involved in agriculture-related industries will be able to express their views of current federal food and agriculture policy to U.S. Department of Agriculture officials on July 19 in Dallas.

The meeting, which begins at 10 a.m. at the Ramada Hotel on Regal Row in Dallas, is the fifth in a series of "listening sessions" conducted by the USDA.

Persons as possible will be allowed to make oral presentations within a time limit to be specified at the meeting. Written comments can be submitted whether or not the individual participates in the listening session.

Persons interested in participating should sign up as soon as possible by writing John Kermick, Room 226-W, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20240 or calling him at (202) 447-4737, before Thursday.

City woman hurt in accident

A Big Spring woman was treated and released from Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital following a Tuesday evening major two-car accident, according to police reports and a hospital spokesman.

Cynthia Lloyd Parrish, 29, of 2600 Chanute was taken to the hospital by private vehicle following the accident that happened at 5:47 Tuesday on the 2700 block of Wasson Road, police reports said.

According to police reports, the accident happened when Ms. Parrish, driving a 1978 Chevrolet Camaro, collided with a 1976 Chevrolet Chevette driven by Danne Hepner of 4504 W. Hwy. 80 after Ms. Hepner pulled out on the street from a private driveway.

Ms. Hepner was ticketed for failure to yield right of way following the accident, reports said.

In other police reports: John Elliott of 2600 Crestline told police at 8:35 p.m. Tuesday that someone sometime between 10 a.m. Monday and 3 p.m. Tuesday entered his apartment and stole jewelry valued at a total of $13,300, police reports said. Among items stolen in the burglary were two rings, one with nine diamonds and one with five diamonds, a gold chain bracelet and an gold Omega Constellation watch, reports said.

Marion Hays of 1425 E. Sixth told police at 3:05 p.m. Tuesday that at 10:28 p.m. Friday someone she knows threatened her with a .38 caliber revolver, police reports said.

Connie Eva Level of 600 W. 16th told police at 11:20 p.m. Tuesday that at about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday someone she knows assaulted her by striking her with his fists, pulling her hair, slapping her face and kicking her, police reports said.

Charles Fisher of 1506 Sycamore told police at 6:24 p.m. Tuesday that someone sometime between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Tuesday stole an AM-FM stereo cassette deck from his unlocked 1971 Ford while it was parked outside the T-Club at 311 N.W. Fourth, police reports said. Value of the car stereo was set at $99, reports said.

John Eric Nolting, 21, of 2500 E. 25th was arrested at 12:08 a.m. Wednesday near the intersections of Similar and Warehouse Roads on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, having an expired drivers license and having an expired inspection sticker, police reports said.

Ruling

Erwin said the rule will cut the cost of building costly plants and in turn save consumers millions of dollars.

"Most of the utility cost increases we're seeing are due to massive construction programs under way for which ratepayers usually are being asked to pay," Erwin said.

The PUC staff is already trying to cancel permission for Houston Lighting and Power Co. to build a $2 billion lignite plant. The staff says the power it would produce can be bought from private industry.

The rule could also spell trouble for Dallas-based Texas Utilities Electric Co.'s Comanche Peak nuclear plant project.

Marianne Carroll, a PUC staff attorney, said the rule could subject Comanche Peak's second unit to delays or even cancellation.

The co-generation policy applies to all utilities with incomplete or planned power plants, Erwin said, adding that "Comanche Peak is going to have to prove itself efficient."

The new rule also requires utilities to pass excess co-generated power over their lines to other electric companies that need it.

Erwin estimated that in Houston, about 2,000 megawatts of excess power could be produced by local industries and shipped to other places such as Dallas.

Most of the potential industry-generated power is expected to come from the heavily industrialized Gulf Coast.

Council

row, "the August date cannot be met," said the statement.

A second Nov. 6 date was discarded because the date can only be used for state and county elections in even numbered years, according to the statement.

"However, in spite of these legal constraints, the council is very concerned and committed to deciding this issue as soon as legally possible. We will work as diligently as possible to verify the petition and call the election," said Angel's statement.

City officials Monday received from County Tax Assessor Collector Dorothy Moore an alphabetized, unnumbered list of all registered Howard County voters to facilitate their verification process.

According to Angel's statement, the city secretary must "manually go through" the list and eliminate the registered voters who live outside the city limits, hand-count the remaining registered voters and multiply that total by 5 percent to determine the number of registered voters to validate the petition.

"Then the city secretary must go through the petition signature by signature and verify that the signers of the petition are listed on the voter registration list and that they live in the City of Big Spring."

Loosely: Love on the lam

KNOXVILLE — Mary Evans, the 27-year-old lawyer who spent 4½ months on the run with a convicted killer, may soon be seeing her drama re-enacted on television.

MARY EVANS

NBC is working on a script "loosely based" on her life, a network producer says.

The network bought production rights several months ago to a Rolling Stone magazine article about Ms. Evans, Deborah Aal said Monday. Once the script is written, "we'll decide whether or not to make the movie. Right now it looks promising," she said.

The story, tentatively called "The Lawyer Vanishes," will be a fictionalized account of Ms. Evans' flight with William Timothy Kirk, Ms. Aal said.

Ms. Evans was Kirk's court-appointed lawyer when they fled from a psychologist's office March 31, 1983. They were arrested Aug. 17 in Florida. Ms. Evans pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting escape and received the maximum sentence of three years. She will be eligible for parole in February from the Tennessee Prison for Women.

Kirk, 37, received 40 years for his part in the escape and is confined at Tennessee State Prison. He was convicted in absentia of manslaughter for two prison killings.

Under state law, neither can receive money from the telling of their story.

Invented the radio, too

LOS ANGELES — Saying that British television can do more than produce documentaries and drawing-room dramas, Princess Anne of Great Britain inaugurated a BBC-developed teletext system especially designed for the Olympics.

"I know North Americans' idea of Britain's contribution to television is programming such as 'Brideshead Revisited,'" Princess Anne said Monday. "But they are responsible for not just new productions, but new techniques," she said.

PRINCESS ANNE

The Metrotex Olympic Teletext Magazine, switched on by the princess at KTTV, the Metromedia station in Los Angeles, will beam game results, background information, and traffic, news and weather reports to 200 sites and 600,000 cable television subscribers.

Amtrak train, truck collide

MCBEE, S.C. (AP) — An Amtrak passenger train collided with a tanker truck today in downtown McBee, killing two people and setting off an explosion that forced the evacuation of the area, authorities said.

The truck exploded after the 7:30 a.m. collision at a crossing, located near two gasoline storage tanks, officials said.

Authorities evacuated the downtown area, said Olivia Brock of the Lake Robinson rescue squad, and at least three fire departments were sent to the scene.

Amtrak spokeswoman Marci Larson in Washington said the train was No. 82, the Silverstar, en route from Tampa and Miami to New York.

The train engineer and the truck driver were killed, she said, but there were no injuries among the passengers.

On Saturday, an Amtrak train derailed in northwestern Vermont, killing five people.

BUILDING DESTROYED — A Lebanese policeman stands guard outside the Libyan embassy in Beirut's seaside Jnah neighborhood after the building was blown up by masked gunmen.

Embassy bombed

Gunmen dynamite Libyan quarters in Beirut

BEIRUT (AP) — Masked gunmen overpowered guards at the Libyan Embassy today, then dynamited the building in an attack staged just before the scheduled arrival in Beirut of Libya's foreign minister.

The building was heavily damaged but no casualties were reported in the pre-dawn attack. The embassy's staff had left Lebanon following the seven-hour abduction Monday of Libya's top diplomat in Beirut.

A Shiite Moslem group called the "Sadr Brigades" claimed responsibility for the bombing and demanded the "immediate release" of Imam Mousa Sadr, Lebanon's Shiite spiritual leader who has been missing since an official visit to Libya in 1978.

Also today, the Lebanese Cabinet met to discuss the controversial issue of missing people believed kidnapped by various militias during the latest rounds of civil war fighting. Local radio stations said the Cabinet was considering a decree that would subject kidnappers to the death penalty.

Despite agreement by the warring militias to turn over control of Beirut to the army, police sources said today that Christian gunmen had kidnapped unidentified five passengers from a ferry as they disembarked at Beirut's port.

The sources said the abduction occurred Tuesday, shortly after the ferry arrived at the newly reactivated port from Cyprus, when the armed kidnappers drove past army checkpoints in two cars, seized the five passengers and sped away.

Military prosecutor general Jamil Bairam said the bomb at the Libyan Embassy contained 55 pounds of explosives and was placed on the bottom steps of the four-story embassy building.

A woman living on the top floor of the building, who identified herself as Mrs. Faour, said she had just awakened when there was a knock on her door.

"I opened and saw four or five masked men with only their eyes showing. They told me to get out. I was in my nightgown. They blindfolded me with a scarf and pushed me into the elevator and then out of the building. I started running when I heard the explosion."

The three security guards and two soldiers at the gate of the embassy, in west Beirut's seaside Jnah neighborhood, also were blindfolded and led out of the building by the gunmen before the explosion, Bairam said.

German terrorists targeting U.S. bases

KARLSRUHE, West Germany (AP) — The Red Army Faction plans new terrorist attacks on American military bases and high-ranking officers in West Germany, Federal Prosecutor Kurt Rebmann warned today.

Papers confiscated from six Red Army faction members and sympathizers July 2 in Frankfurt included detailed sketches and descriptions of U.S. installations and the NATO fuel pipeline in south and central Germany.

4 Taiwan miners rescued

TAIPEI — Five miners were rescued today from an underground coal mine where they and 119 other workers were trapped by a fire Tuesday. Officials said rescuers also recovered the bodies of four miners killed by the fire, which prompted the government to order all of Taiwan's mines closed for safety checks.

The 124 miners were trapped in the Mei-shan Coal Mine, 31 miles northeast of Taipei, when the fire broke out, and today's rescue spurred search crews to probe deeper into the tunnel despite heavy smoke and lingering coal gas.

4 held in Nigerian plot

LONDON (AP) — Magistrates today ordered three Israelis and a Nigerian to remain in custody pending a July 19 hearing on charges they kidnapped and drugged Nigeria's most-wanted fugitive, former Transport Minister Umaru Dikko.

The four were arraigned today in a bullet-proof British courtroom at Lambeth Magistrates Court in south London. They are charged with abducting Dikko from his $520,000 London home last Thursday and taking him to an airfield where customs officials found him in a crate.

Iraqi jets attack tanker

BAGHDAD — Iraq says its jetfighters and navy ships destroyed a large ship, presumably an oil tanker, near an Iranian oil field in the northeast end of the Persian Gulf. Its claim followed an attack, allegedly by Iran, on a British tanker in the gulf.

There was no immediate confirmation of the Iraqi attack and no word on the nationality of the stricken vessel, which an Iraqi military communique late Tuesday referred to as a "big naval target." That phrase when used by the Iraqi military usually refers to an oil tanker.

Neither Iran or Iraq commented on reports earlier Tuesday from shipping sources in Kuwait and Bahrain who described an attack on the British tanker in international gulf waters.

Liner, freighter collide

COPENHAGEN — A Greek ocean liner carrying 812 passengers collided with a Soviet freighter today outside Copenhagen's harbor, tearing open the Soviet ship and causing its stern to sink, shipping officials said.

The Greek ship sustained only minor damage, and no injuries were reported.

Kim Enrum of the C.K. Hansen Shipping Agency said the Greek vessel Royal Odyssey was able to sail the remaining five nautical miles into Copenhagen.

Dear Abby

Reader writes about hunters' odor

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter from the Oregon deer hunter who said the hunters in his area used Tabu perfume to attract deer. I am sure it's possible because I live in Louisiana and do a lot of duck hunting. In our salt water marsh are mosquitos second to none when it comes to lust for blood. The only truly effective mosquito repellent used by duck hunters in these parts is a product made by Avon called Skin-So-Soft. If you think I'm making this up, come to New Orleans and look around in the sporting goods stores, and you'll see Skin-So-Soft on the shelves right next to the commercial insect repellents.

LOUISIANA DUCK HUNTER

DEAR ABBY: We had my husband's relatives as houseguests recently. As they were leaving, John (my husband) said to them, "Even though Dolores (that's me) said it was a lot of extra work for her, we certainly enjoyed having you, so please come again."

Abby, I never said it was "extra work," and if John was trying to be funny, I failed to see the humor in that remark. Now his relatives probably think they were a burden. They were not!

What should I have said or done? And what should I say in the future, as John has made similar remarks in an attempt to be funny?

PUT DOWN First tell John privately that you refuse to be the butt of his so-called jokes, and if he pulls that stunt again, you will deny it, leaving him to admit that he was either lying or joking.

Dr. Donohue

Patient decides treatment

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I think I'm the only patient on my block prescribing his own blood pressure treatment — and with my doctor's approval. Let me explain.

I went in to be checked by my doctor, who I hadn't seen for more than two years. Sure enough, he found out that I had high blood pressure, not too high, however, only 10 points over what is the norm for a woman my age — 54.

But I was surprised when he gave me a choice of treatment. He said he could give me pills to take or I could treat myself by losing 15 pounds, cutting out all salt at meals, quitting smoking, and getting in some regular exercise. He suggested swimming for me because I do have just a touch of arthritis. I have to do these things every day for a month, then come back for a recheck. How much lower should my pressure be? — Mrs. F.F.

I am sure the doctor would have prescribed medicine to lower your pressure had he thought you were not going to keep your end of the bargain, so please do that. Sure, this is being done by many doctors. Based on what your doctor saw when he examined you and based on what he asked you to do about it, I would predict a resounding success. I would not be surprised to find your blood pressure at or very close to the normal reading you want.

Every single one of those steps he set forth should be good for a point or two of pressure reduction. When you add them all up, you should be back to normal. I would like to hear from you again to see how well you have done. It is almost always best to treat an illness without medicines when that is possible.

Public debt rises with blink of eye

The recent vote in Congress to increase the federal debt ceiling brings us face to face with another of those incomprehensible figures. The debt now will be permitted to rise by another $53 billion to a total of $1.573 trillion, and that will serve only until the end of August or early September.

We were contemplating what one-and-a-half trillion dollar bills would look like, stacked neatly or laid end to end, when another item from Washington caught our eye. The U.S. Office of Personnel Management has announced that the Civil Service Retirement System — the pension plan for federal employees — now has an unfunded liability of $528.1 billion, an increase of $13 billion over the last year.

This obligation to present and future retirees was increasing at the rate of $25,000 a minute during 1983, or more than a billion dollars a month.

It is hopeless to measure the size of the national debt because it grows faster than you can punch the figures into a calculator. Think about this: Given the rate of increase in the debt created by federal budget deficits and the unfunded pension liability, the government's debt has gone up by more than $1 million just since you started reading this editorial.

Choices for VP

WASHINGTON — In picking a running mate, Fritz Mondale has to balance personal preferences, convention appearances, electoral considerations and the unity of the Democratic Party. That rich mix is hard to master.

So far Mondale has not made any obvious mistakes. Still, he seems to be badly boxed.

The personal choice, for idiosyncratic psychological reasons, weighs heavily with Mondale. He prides himself on having served as an effective vice president under Jimmy Carter. His instinct is to pick a running mate who can work with him in a similarly valuable supportive role. That means, above all, a figure who will not shake the campaign, or the presidency, with foolish sole efforts.

That requirement works against Mondale's most prominent opponents in the race for the nomination. Even if Jesse Jackson and Mondale were on the same wave length in foreign policy and minority representation, the spectacular grandstand plays of the black leader would eliminate him from consideration. One reason Mondale has placed the black mayors of Los Angeles and Philadelphia — Tom Bradley and Wilson Goode, respectively — in the vice presidential running is take the edge off rejection of Jackson.

One way or another, the Jackson issue now threatens to explode at the convention.

Gary Hart, who has been keen for the second spot since his reconciliation with Mondale in New York last week, is a borderline case. Mondale plainly worries about Hart's uneven performance as a candidate and his penchant for going it alone. It is extremely hard for the former vice president to cast Hart in his own image.

Still, there are plenty of candidates around who can clear the hurdle of personal rapport with ease. Sens. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, Dale Bumpers of Arkansas and Lawton Chiles of Florida all fit into that category. Govs. Bob Graham of Florida and Mark White of Texas also make the cut. As do the two women who have been most prominently mentioned — Mayor Dianne Feinstein of San Francisco and Congresswoman Geraldine Ferraro of New York.

When it comes to contrast with Ronald Reagan, Gary Hart and the women lead the pack. Hart personifies youth, both in his person and in his following. His "ideas" bring the values of the New Deal abreast of the modern emphasis on less government and lower taxes. He underlines an undoubted Reagan weakness — age.

The women candidates touch a second chink in the Reagan armor — the perception, particularly strong among female voters, that the president is a tough-talking hombre, who could lead the U.S. into an unnecessary war. Without anybody having to say a word, a woman on the Democratic ticket would reinforce the gender gap and bring front and center the issue of peace.

Moreover, an astute woman pol, Congresswoman Pat Schroeder of Colorado, has forged a link between Hart and the women candidates. She has declared that Hart, whom she backed in the primaries, would take the second spot. She has also said that if the nod does not go to Hart, it ought to go to one of the women. Thus if he goes elsewhere, Mondale risks disappointing two important constituencies within his party.

But there is an elsewhere, and it counts importantly in the definition of the Democratic Party and its relation to the country as a whole. The elsewhere is the conservative belt that runs through the South and West. Mondale himself does not run well in those areas. Hart, though he beat Mondale in the California primary, is hardly a match for Reagan there, or in such Southern states as Texas and Florida.

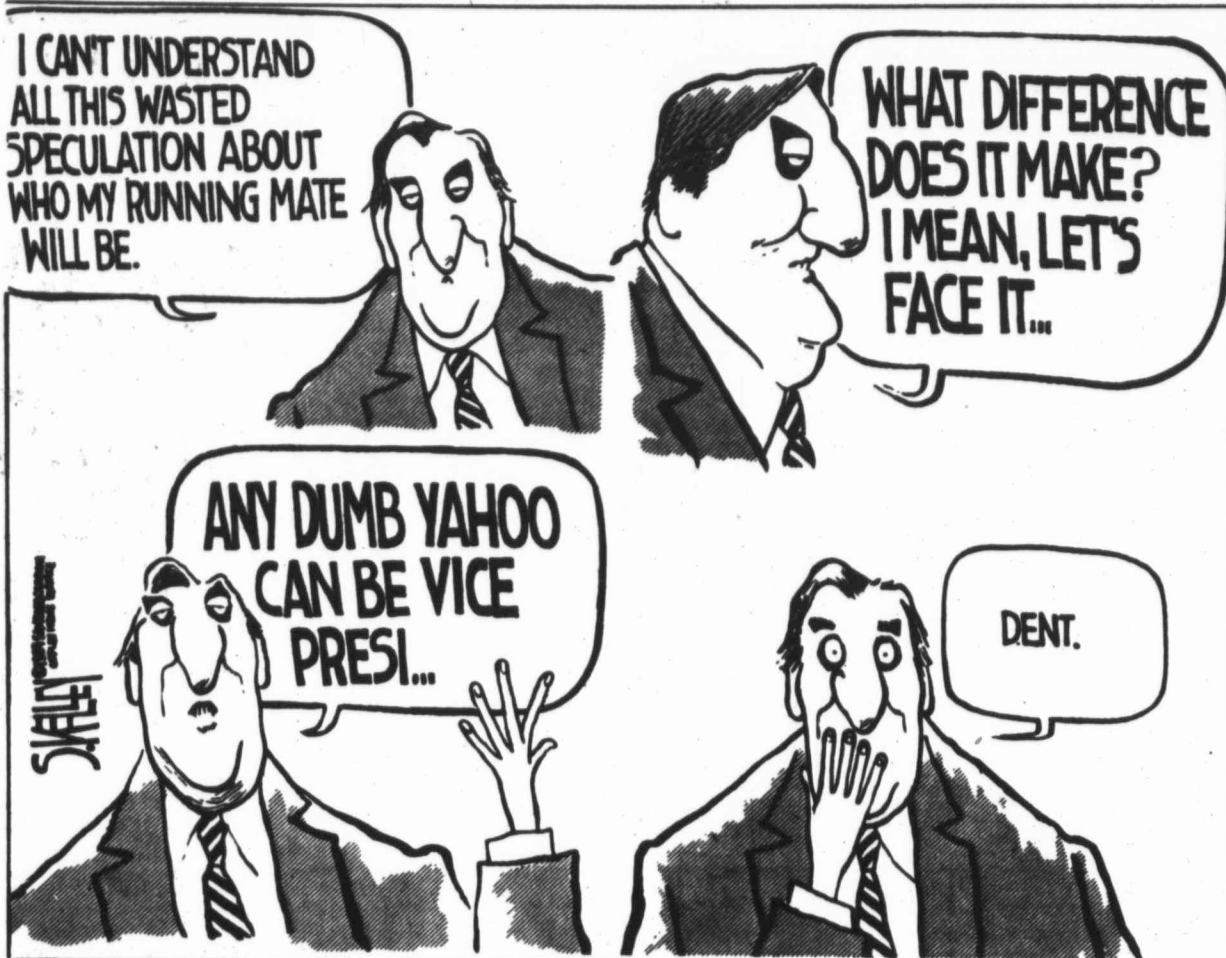

Women candidates do even worse in the South. Indeed Lloyd Doggett, the liberal state legislator who is running for U.S. Senate, is letting Mondale know through the pollster they share, Peter Hart, that putting a woman on the ticket would lose Texas.

There remain the native sons, with local pulling power and a good rapport with Mondale. Bentsen, who runs extremely well in Texas, particularly with Mexican-Americans, is the obvious choice. He has also made a record for himself in the Senate that appeals to the business community across the country. Bumpers, while less well known, is accounted a better campaigner, and he has mastered the trickiest issues of the budget.

But picking any of them would reflect a conscious choice to balance the ticket, regionally and ideologically. That is the old politics. The backers of Hart and the women ridicule such tactics. Mondale, by such a choice, would confirm the impression that he is a mere relic of the outworn past, incapable of bold action or new departures.

In these conditions, it is hard to see a good outcome. By organizing a visible selection process, Mondale has invited the pressure groups to apply pressure. But to me, anyway, the least bad decision is to balance the ticket with a Southern white. For in that way the Democratic Party avoids achieving unity as a minority party. It stakes its claim to remain a governing party with national appeal.

Officials shy from waste expose

WASHINGTON — Ernie Fitzgerald, the most determined "waste" gunner the Air Force has ever seen, is back in the headlines. The reason: Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and the Air Force brass welshed on their solemn promise to let Fitzgerald expose the billions of dollars in exorbitant costs the Air Force pays its contractors each year.

Adding insult to injury, the Pentagon brass tried to muzzle their watchdog to keep him from telling Congress how they were thwarting his efforts to save the taxpayers money.

Even after Fitzgerald testified under a subpoena issued by Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa — the only way he could appear on Capitol Hill — Weinberger had the effrontery to dismiss his charges of rampant waste because he wasn't an official Air Force spokesman. How's that for a bureaucratic Catch-22?

Old-timers will remember Fitzgerald as the Air Force cost cutter who blew the whistle on the extravagant C-5A transport plane. In 1969, a vengeful Air Force fired him. His sin, Fitzgerald lamented, was "committing truth before Congress." He won reinstatement only after years of court battles.

Even then he was given a title but no work to do. Finally last year the Air Force agreed "in good faith" to give Fitzgerald assignments to go with his job description. But my associates Indy Badwar and Donald Goldberg have uncovered evidence that the Air Force's "good faith" was as empty as a jettisoned fuel tank.

As early as last July, Fitzgerald felt obliged to write an internal memo to his boss, Assistant Defense Secretary Russell Hale, complaining of the military staff's "obstruction of cost control efforts" and "foot dragging" on a cost monitoring project. "One Air Force officer characterized this as 'sabotage,'" the memo noted.

Fitzgerald complained that the obstruction of efforts to get runaway costs under control had become so "institutionalized" that only Air Force Secretary Verne Orr's direct intervention could hope to make "a start toward regaining civilian management control of the Air Force." In fact, Fitzgerald had outlined his dissatisfaction personally to Orr in a private meeting.

"I have been patient in this matter," Fitzgerald wrote in his memo, "because it has become clear that the strategy of the dominant elements in the military hierarchy is either to incite me to legal riot or to lead me to accept functional paralysis through inaction."

Recognizing that resort to the court — which had ordered the "good faith" agreement — could drive a wedge between him and his bosses, Fitzgerald wrote: "If I do not, however, make legal protests, the status quo advocates win by default. They will establish through custom a virtual freeze-out of my office and set a precedent for sloughing off the remnants of civilian control."

Fitzgerald is no wild-eyed radical out to destroy the military. Quite the contrary. He's a patriotic government official and taxpayer who is quite simply outraged when he sees Air Force purchasing costs go off into the wild blue yonder.

And unlike the generals and Weinberger, Fitzgerald realizes that such extravagance ultimately hurts the Air Force at budget time. When word gets out, for example, that the Air Force paid $1,118.26 for a 26-cent plastic cap on an airplane stool leg, it casts doubt on even the legitimate items in the Air Force budget.

The shortsighted Pentagon brass think the way to handle the situation is to cover up embarrassing mistakes. A better way would be to unleash Fitzgerald and let him do the job he wants to do.

WATCH ON THE FED: The Federal Reserve Board's confidential forecast last summer on interest rates was seriously wide of the mark, both in actual percentages and in the direction of the trend. This is of more than academic interest. Mortgage rates dictate the health of the housing industry and the manufacturing that depends on home builders: lumber, cement, steel and household appliances. When housing suffers, these industries feel the pain.

The Fed's experts thought interest rates were heading down. They predicted mortgage rates averaging 13.37 percent in the last quarter of 1983; they were barely under 14 percent. The Fed forecast 13.25 percent for the first quarter of this year, they actually averaged 13.8 percent. For the second quarter of 1984, the Fed predicted 13 percent; the rate has now shot up to 14.25 percent.

As for the Fed's rosy expectation of 12.75 percent mortgages during the last half of this year, experts now anticipate that the rates will rise even higher than they are now before peaking.

As any potential home buyer can attest, the difference between a 12.75 percent mortgage and one at more than 14 percent can make a substantial difference in the monthly payments — enough of a difference to kill the idea of buying a home.

Around The Rim

By KEELY COGHAN

Plain talk

The tables have been turned on U.S. District Judge Miles Lord, on trial before a panel of five judges in a St. Paul, Minn., court for speaking his mind on the bench.

The judge doesn't like it, and neither should we.

Lord is being tried for calling the behavior of corporate executives of A.H. Robins Co. of Virginia, the makers of the Dalkon Shield birth control device, "corporate irresponsibility at its meanest."

What he was referring to is the company's consistent refusal to reveal records regarding injuries and deaths that might have been caused by use of the intrauterine device. The company has been settling cases out of court with the stipulation that women, their families and their lawyers not reveal or stop trying to discover information on the company's research into the Dalkon Shield.

What the company's action has done is limit the information that plaintiffs claiming injuries from the device could use to base a case on. One of the reasons Lord is on trial on misconduct charges in the cases tried before his court is the active role he took to find company records for plaintiffs — company records that should have been available during the normal process of discovery.

If Robins' charges against Lord are upheld, then the judiciary will face a "chilling" effect. Judges should be free to speak on the issues at hand, and with strong language. That is, after all, what they are paid to do. The best judges — Judge Learned Hand, William Douglas, Hugo Black, Louis Brandeis, Earl Warren, Felix Frankfurter — have more than once spoken strongly in favor of one plaintiff or another in their opinions.

Consumers have a right to expect safe products. They have a right to expect a company that finds dangerous defects in its products to remove them from the market — and sooner, rather than later.

Corporations who do not exhibit concern for the health of those using their products deserve scathing condemnation from the bench, especially corporations obviously partially at fault because of the number of cases settled out of court for large sums and their resistance to revealing records involving injuries that might have been caused by their products.

Would you expect a judge to praise the toxic waste company that created the situation in Love Canal, N.J., or Times Beach, Mo.? No, and neither should we expect a judge to be silent when he sees a pattern of "corporate irresponsibility at its meanest" developing in front of his eyes.

Lord has been described as a "populist," someone who favors the rights of individuals when in conflict with large, rich and powerful corporations. Unfortunately, there aren't enough of those judges around.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

C-City eyes land for fire station

COLORADO CITY — The City Council here Tuesday night decided to make the Colorado City Independent School District an offer on school property to be used for the construction of a new fire station, said new city manager Brenda Tarter today.

Under state law, the land in question has to be put up for bid, Tarter said. The bid was written so the property will be used exclusively for the construction of a fire station, Tarter said. There were no school board trustees present at the meeting, she said.

She declined to reveal the amount of the city's offer to the school district for the property.

The council also presented interim city manager Gary L. Smith with a plaque of appreciation for his services. Smith will serve as interim city manager until July 15 when Tarter will assume the duties.

The council also authorized Tarter to proceed with an application for a grant from the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife. The grant will be used for the renovation of the city pool, Tarter said. The application is for a 50 percent matching fund grant.

The council authorized Tarter to advertise for bids for city employee insurance.

NCAA television plan short circuited again

CHICAGO (AP) — After two years of determining which teams played college football on TV on which Saturdays, the NCAA has been banished from the television business — at least for the time being — by members who voted to take matters and revenue into their own hands.

By a 66-44 vote Tuesday, the football-playing institutions of Division I-A voted down a hastily arranged, one-year NCAA plan that would have replaced the one killed recently by the U.S. Supreme Court.

"My own gut feeling is that it came down to there being too much uncertainty and too little time," said NCAA President John Toner. "The vote also tells me that there was no way to keep everyone — and I mean everyone — together in one group."

But waiting to pick up the pieces, as well as most of the revenue, were the College Football Association, which claims 63 members, including most of the traditional powerhouses, or the Football Television Planning Committee, a coalition that enfolds the CFA as well as the Big Ten and Pacific-10 Conferences.

The consensus among athletic directors attending the special meeting was that the coalition would likely emerge as the pivotal bargaining agent in the fall television picture.

The CFA already counts most of the traditional conference powers such as Alabama, Georgia, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas, as well as independent powers such as Notre Dame and Penn State among its number, and the inclusion of the Big Ten and Pac-10 would add enough key television markets to make the group almost as strong as the NCAA had been.

"This clearly demonstrated our inventory is a powerful show," said Otis Singletary, president of the University of Kentucky and chairman of the CFA's television committee. "There's no way of knowing for sure if the coalition will come through, but it's been our position that would be the No. 1 choice."

The CFA and coalition groups set Thursday as the deadline for formal commitments from institutions that elect to participate in their respective plans for 1984.

Before Tuesday's vote on the NCAA proposal, CFA members voted 60-0 with three abstentions to commit to either the CFA or the coalition plan.

"If we're not part of the coalition, we'll be part of the CFA," said Gene Corrigan, athletic director at Notre Dame, considered the one school that could write its own ticket because of consistently high TV ratings. "I think what ended the NCAA plan's chances were the worries that it would be everybody against everybody else. There wasn't enough to keep people in line."

Corrigan, who chairs the coalition's television committee, said its plan mirrors many of the CFA proposals, but added, "There's a lot still to be worked out."

The CFA plan would not guarantee any national appearances and would limit any school to no more than four in the upcoming season. It also would grant some "exclusivity" to national networks on Saturdays — similar in many ways to the NCAA plan which the courts found to be in violation of federal antitrust laws.

The CFA also plans to turn over about 4 percent of its revenues to the NCAA to continue administering football-related programs, Singletary said.

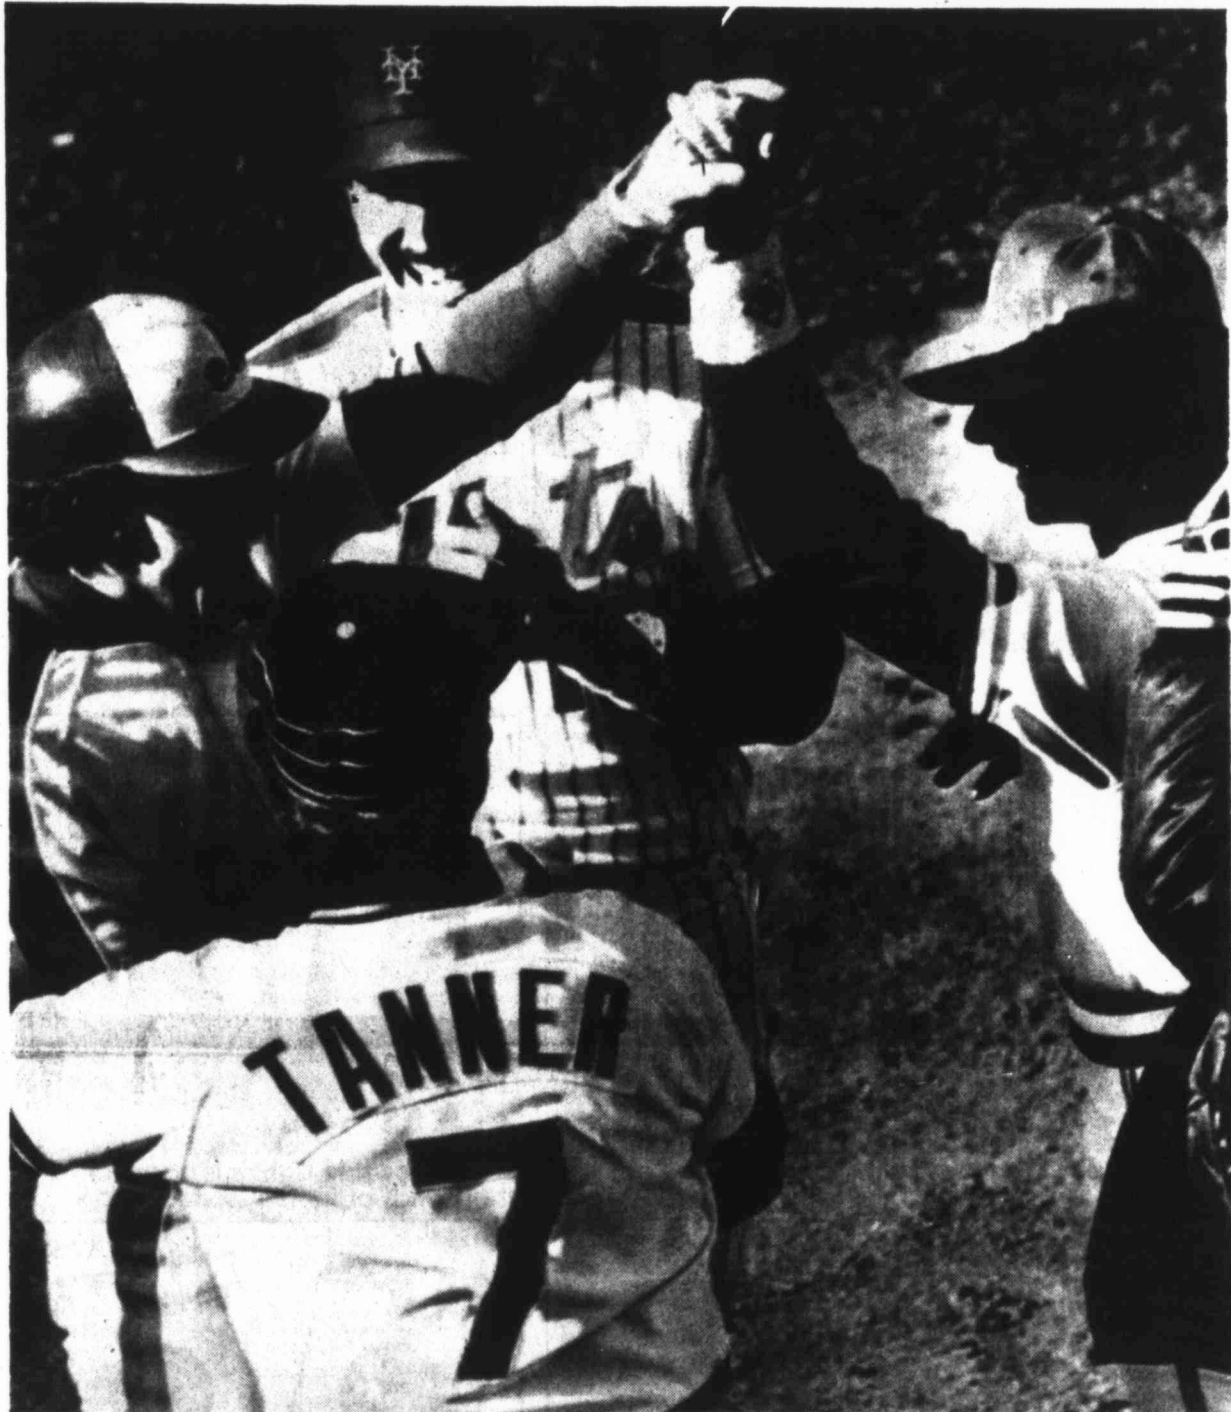

Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke said he expected conference members to make a decision on whether to join the coalition "within 24 hours."

"Whatever plan evolves, the Big Ten will continue to play a dominant role in college football," he added.

Pac-10 Executive Director Tom Hansen said, "We'll still discuss the coalition plan, but we're going to examine other options. The whole sports industry is slipping on TV and I'm afraid of what this will mean when we go in for renewals down the road."

John Swofford, athletic director at the University of North Carolina and chairman of the NCAA Television Committee, conceded the organization's plan was "very rushed," coming less than two weeks after the Supreme Court upheld a lower court decision and ruled that the NCAA could not continue as the sole bargaining agent for its members.

CONGRATULATIONS — Montreal Expos Gary Carter (8) is greeted after a home run in the second inning by National League teammates Keith Hernandez (17) of the New York Mets, Claudell Washington of the Atlanta Braves, right and coach Chuck Tanner of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Nationals strike hard in gaining All-Star win, 3-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It was a battle of strikeouts on the 50th anniversary of the greatest strikeout performance in All-Star history.

The National League regained its winning form 3-1 Tuesday night, a night for Fernando Valenzuela and Dwight Gooden, the youngest man ever to appear in an All-Star Game. They struck out six consecutive American League batters, breaking the record of five straight strikeouts by Carl Hubbell in 1934.

It was a night of power against power, as Gary Carter and Dale Murphy homered for the Nationals, and George Brett hit a monster shot to straightaway center field for the American League's lone run.

And baseball's 55th All-Star contest, played in the chill evening winds of Candlestick Park, was a battle of heat, with a record 21 strikeouts — 11 by the National League and 10 by the American.

"Being part of this will give me something to look back on," Gooden said. "It will always be a part of my career I can be proud of."

Hubbell accomplished what is considered the All-Star Game's most impressive strikeout feat in 1934, when he struck out in succession Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmie Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin — all, like Hubbell, to become Hall of Famers.

Protecting a 2-1 lead, Valenzuela, of the Los Angeles Dodgers, struck out Dave Winfield, Reggie Jackson and George Brett in succession in the fourth inning. Then, the rookie Gooden, only 19 years old, struck out Lance Parrish, Chet Lemon and rookie pinch-hitter Alvin Davis in the fifth.

Gooden leads the NL with 133 strikeouts, and Valenzuela is second with 128.

The previous single-game strikeout record was 20 — 11 by the Americans and nine by the Nationals — in 1968.

Carter, the Expos' catcher, was named the game's Most Valuable player, with his third All-Star homer that gave the Nationals a 2-1 lead in the second inning.

Carter caught the NL pitchers through six innings, and said the American batters "were out here to swing the bat."

"Dave Winfield's not hitting .370 because he has his bat on his shoulder," Carter said. "Reggie Jackson doesn't have close to 500 homers because he has the bat on his shoulder."

Carter said Valenzuela used the screwball to set up the batters, "then he got them with his fastball, and those guys are some pretty good fastball hitters."

National League Manager Paul Owens of Philadelphia said Gooden used the "good high heater," and he also felt vindicated for picking Valenzuela to the club. Valenzuela, 8-9 with a 2.97 earned run average, was a late selection, chosen to replace Joaquin Andujar of St. Louis, whose grandfather was ill.

The American Leaguers had never seen anything quite like Gooden, whose fastball has been clocked at 93 mph.

"He's in a class by himself," Lemon said. "You can't foresee the future, but I'm glad he's in the National League."

A peerless relief pitcher and a speedy outfielder produced the record-breaking strikeout, and the game's final out. Rich Gossage of San Diego caught Oakland's Rickey Henderson looking at a curveball for strike three to end it.

Protecting a 2-1 lead, Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers, a screwballer himself, felled Winfield of the New York Yankees on a 2-2 pitch, took out Jackson of California on an 0-2 count and got Brett looking at a 1-2 pitch.

Big Spring entries do well in tourney

Big Spring teams fared well in opening round games in District Tournament action at Roy Anderson Complex for Big and Junior Leagues.

In Monday's Big League action, Big Spring destroyed Coahoma 22-2. Mike Wilson got the win for Big Spring as he went the entire seven innings, allowing five hits.

The 18-hit Big Spring attack was led by Sammy Watson who went five for five with three doubles. Chris Lamb got three hits and drove in five RBIs. Jay Pirkle hit a homer and drove in three RBIs while Mike Dodd hit a double and triple.

Tuesday night Coach David Drake's Big Spring team landed themselves a spot in the Sectional Tournament in Lubbock by downing Coahoma 14-2.

Again the Big Spring bats were smoking as starting pitcher Dodd hurt Coahoma with his bat, collecting three hits in three at bats and driving in two runs. Lamb went two for three with three RBIs.

Randy Hargrove was perfect at the plate going two for two with two RBIs while Pirkle collected two hits and drove in two runs.

Dodd, Gartman and Pirkle combined for a three hitter. Dodd went the first four innings without allowing a hit. Gartman pitched two innings and allowed a run while Pirkle allowed a run in one inning.

Sectional play is scheduled for July 23 in Lubbock.

BIG SPRING 12, COAHOMA 4
The Big Spring Junior League All-Stars also downed Coahoma by a count of 12-4 on Tuesday night.

Jason Phillips got the win and was aided in relief by Brent Heartfield.

The loss eliminated Coahoma from the tournament while Big Spring will test San Angelo tonight at 8 at Roy Anderson.

LITTLE LEAGUE ACTION
In other Tuesday action at the American League Park in the District Little League Tournament, Midland Western edged Midland Eastern 2-1.

Western's Kevin Irish outdueled Eastern's J.J. Johnson for the win. Irish pitched his way out of a bases loaded jam in the final inning.

Irish allowed only two first inning hits while striking out 11. Johnson gave up only one hit while fanning seven.

B.S. NATIONALS 5, MIDLAND MID-CITY 3

The Big Spring National League All-Stars downed Midland Mid-City 5-3 behind the 10 strikeout pitching of Sammy Carillo. David Lee and Peter Buske both homered for the winners while Carillo, Lance Newell and Neil Mayfield all collected hits.

The Nationals will meet the Big Spring American All-Stars Thursday at 8 p.m. at the National League Park.

Dedication shines in Jackson album

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A 14-year-old cystic fibrosis victim didn't live to see Michael Jackson in concert, but the boy's mother says a dedication on the singer's latest album is keeping her son's memory alive.

A month before David Smith died in May after a 13-year battle with the lung disease, he got one of his longtime wishes — a visit with Jackson at the singer's California home, said David's mother, Karen.

The trip was arranged by the Brass Ring Society, a Tulsa group dedicated to making dreams come true for terminally ill children.

Jackson gave David the rhinestone-studded glove he wore this year when he received a record eight Grammy awards, and the red jacket he wore in a rock video.

The superstar also promised to send David tickets to one of the Jacksons' concerts and to dedicate his hit song "Beat It" to the youth when he attended.

Shortly after David's death May 28, Mrs. Smith called Jackson's personal secretary and left a message that David had died.

"But I never heard anything from him," Mrs. Smith said. "Not a card, not flowers, not anything. I was kind of upset because everybody was asking if I had heard from Michael. I kept having to say no."

Then last week, one of Mrs. Smith's friends heard a radio disc jockey talking about a dedication to David on the jacket of "Victory," the latest album by Jackson and his brothers.

The friend told Mrs. Smith, who rushed out and bought six albums. She hopes to get them autographed by Jackson.

The three-paragraph statement says the album is dedicated to the Jacksons' mother and to the late singer Marvin Gaye. It also reads: "Finally, best wishes and love to Teddy Pendergrass and our friend, little David Smithy."

Mrs. Smith doesn't mind that her son's name was misspelled. "I know who it is," she said. "That's all that counts."

She said the dedication "has meant a lot to me," she said. "It has reopened memories, but they are pleasant memories, memories of the trip and of how nice Michael Jackson is."

For Service, Experience Look to Home Realtors

It's important for newcomers to Big Spring to select a realtor who isn't a newcomer. In other words, to select a realtor who has been in business for many years and has a thorough knowledge of the real estate market here.

Home Realtors has served the Big Spring market for 23 years. They are confident that they offer the most thorough and effective sales effort available in this area.

According to Jeff Brown, president, "Today's sophisticated real estate market demands a positive, straight forward approach. Your needs will receive the maximum effort from Home Real Estate. We are aware of every facet of the real estate market here in Big Spring and can give you the help, advice and knowledge to make the sale of your home ... or the purchase of a new home ... the best experience possible."

Brown recommends that before you choose a realtor you consider the following points.

- †Length of time in business.
- †Accredited appraiser on staff.
- †Exclusive representation of choice residential builders.
- †Continuous in-service training for all sales associates.
- †Exclusive local agent for RELO Relocation Service, world leader in relocation. Member of MLS.

The associates at Home Real Estate never "rest on their laurels." Each one continues to develop expertise in the field through the firm's own training programs as well as industry seminars. A strong plan of management direction and constant market exposure constitute the final honing that makes Home's associates razor sharp in serving the needs of their clients.

When you need a realtor, drop by their office at Coronado Plaza and get acquainted.

Classic Auto Sales Is Family-Owned Business

"We pride ourselves in our cars," says Gary Hopper, owner of Classic Auto Sales. "We work hard to purchase good, late model cars."

Eschewing the use of the term "used cars," Gary prefers to refer to them as "pre-owned cars," which better describes the quality of their stock.

"We look for cars with low mileage. We buy locally when we can so that we know the history of the cars," Gary explains. "We prefer to buy our cars from the original owners, or at least where we are able to locate the previous owner."

Classic Auto Sales is owned by a Big Spring family that has been synonymous with the automobile business here for over 25 years. Jimmy Hopper owned Hopper Auto Sales in the 1960's and Jimmy Hopper Toyota in the 1970's. Son Gary has been in the business 14 years. The two founded Classic Auto Sales in 1979.

The firm recently moved to larger facilities on

FM 700 at Birdwell Lane.

"Now we can provide a complete service department with the capability to work on any car including those with on-board computers. Our mechanic is Ray Phillips, a native of Big Spring who was with us at Jimmy Hopper Toyota."

Classic Auto Sales offers 3-month-3,000 mile warranty or the optional 12-month, 12,000-mile warranty at a low cost. Every car they sell must pass a stringent 10-point check list before it is placed on the lot.

Classic Auto Sales is the only independent dealer with a service department, a service protection plan, financing and service after the sale, Gary says.

Other staff members are Evon Lauderdale, bookkeeper, a 3-year-resident of Big Spring; Bob Brown, a Big Spring native, salesman; and James Hulse, a 12-year resident, salesman.

1924 Cook Book features Ladies Circle's recipes

The Cook Book, published in 1924 by the South Side Ladies Circle of the Methodist Church of Big Spring, is among the many items in the Potton House's kitchen. Many items in the kitchen are examples of typical supplies and equipment that were used during the time the Pottons occupied the home.

The Cook Book's cover is worn and bent, but its recipes are all classics submitted by the women of the circle. The Potton House volunteers decided to reproduce the Cook Book and sell it to visitors for $3.50 each. Proceeds from the sales will be used to maintain the Potton House as a historical monument. The Cook Book is only available at the Potton House.

The identical reproduction includes all the old ads, a recipe for preserving a husband and a message from the circle. Many of the businesses that advertised in the Cook Book are no longer servicing Big Spring. Inside are the quotes, "Dishes just like Mother used to make," and "Cook well and keep Father at home." The recipes are still usable today, and the Cook Book provides some interesting reading...a lesson about cooking in 1924.

The Potton House Volunteers give tours and maintain the house and yard. The Potton House is open every Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. this summer.

NICE WAY TO COOK YOUNG CHICKEN

Mrs. B.H. Settles

Dress and joint them as usual. Place in a dripping pan and just cover with sweet cream. Season with a little salt, pepper and a little butter. Now set in oven to cook, and by the time the cream is almost cooked away the chicken will be done. They are splendid done in this way.

HOW TO PRESERVE A HUSBAND

Be careful in your selection; do not choose too young, and take only such varieties as have been reared in good moral atmosphere. When once decided upon and settled, let that part remain forever settled, and give your entire thought to preparation for domestic use. Some insist on keeping them in pickle, while others are constantly getting them in hot water. Even poor varieties may be made sweet, tender and good by garnishing them with patience, well sweetened with smiles, and flavored with kisses to taste; then wrap well in a mantle of charity, keep warm with a steady fire of domestic devotion, and serve with peaches and cream. When thus prepared, they will keep for years.

TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE

Mrs. R.E. Gay

A clean pot should be used each time. To as many cups as wanted put in cold water one tablespoon of any good brand of coffee to each cup of water, boil three minutes. Let stand on stove where it will keep hot till ready to serve.

CREAM TOMATO SOUP

Mrs. N.W. McCleskey

Place over fire one quart of peeled tomatoes and a pinch of soda. Stew until soft. Then add one quart of boiling sweet milk. Season with salt, pepper and butter the size of an egg. Can tomatoes may take the place of fresh ones.

POTATO SOUP

Mrs. C.W. Davis

Three medium sized potatoes, 1 medium sized onion. Place in a kettle and boil thoroughly; mash through a strainer, take a teaspoonful of butter, brown with a spoonful of flour. Add this to a pint of milk. Cook until thick and add to the potato mixture.

DELICATE EGG DUMPLINGS FOR SOUP

Mrs. R.B. Whiteman

of Quanah, Texas
2 eggs, 4 tablespoons milk (or bouillon), pinch salt, heat thoroughly together and pour into a POTTON HOUSE COOKS — Potton House volunteers Frances Hendrix and Lea Whitehead, dressed in period costumes, try their hand at one of the recipes listed in the Cook Book, published in 1924 by the South Side Ladies' Circle of the Methodist Church in Big Spring. The Cook Book is among many items in the Potton House kitchen. Potton House volunteers have reprinted the cook book and are selling it to visitors to the historical site.

well buttered sauce pan; stand gently ½ hour (boiling will spoil it); it will then thicken so you can cut it in any shape desired, and put in soup as it is served.

SMOTHERED CHICKEN

Mrs. J.B. Neel

Prepare chicken as if frying, salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Place in a baking pan and cover with water, lay two or three slices of bacon on top and cook slowly until tender.

CHICKEN PIE

Mrs. H.T. Sefton

Cut up one chicken and stew until tender, season with butter, pepper and salt. Line the sides of a baking pan with a crust made with equal parts of lard and sweet milk, place the chicken and a few dumplings in pan, pour sweet milk over the whole and cover with crust. Bake a few minutes in a quick oven.

BEEF LOAF

Mrs. J.C. Morris

Three pounds beef from lower round and piece of suet size of lemon ground twice, 2 onions chopped fine, ¼ cup of milk, 3 eggs, 8 soda crackers rolled fine, 1 tablespoon of salt, cayenne to taste. Mix well together, pack in a greased bread tin and bake one hour in a moderately quick oven after turning upside down in baking pan. Stand away until cold; cut in thin slices and serve with sauce.

CHOW-CHOW

Mrs. J.M. Cheate

1 peck green tomatoes (ground with medium blade of food chopper), 6 large onions, 6 sweet peppers, 2 hot peppers, 1 cup salt, 2 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon each of mace, ginger, allspice, cloves and cinnamon then cover with vinegar and cook until it looks clear. Put tomatoes in sack and drain after chopping.

TOMATO CATSUP

Boil together, 4 quarts ripe tomatoes, 2 onions, for 30 minutes. Then rub through sieve. Prepare ½ pint vinegar, ½ pint sugar, tablespoon salt, tablespoon cloves, tablespoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon red pepper. Add to strained tomatoes and boil until there are about two quarts. Tie spices in muslin cloth to prevent making dark colored.

CORNBREAD

Mrs. W.R. Purser

2 cups sour milk, 1 scant teaspoon salt, 1 scant teaspoon soda, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon flour, 1½ cups meal. Mix milk, salt, soda and egg. Add meal and flour. When thoroughly mixed pour into shallow pan which has been well oiled and bake in moderately hot oven.

GINGERBREAD

Mrs. Fox Stripling

1 cup molasses, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ cup shortening, 2 eggs, 2½ cups flour, 1 cup sour milk or cream, ½ teaspoon each of ginger, cinnamon and cloves.

SPOON BREAD

Mrs. F.M. Purser

1 pint of boiling water salted. Add cornmeal to make stiff mush, 2 tablespoons shortening, ½ teaspoon soda in ½ cup sour milk, 3 eggs well beaten. Bake in greased pan till firm.

BAKING POWDER BISCUITS

Bertha Eubank

Proportions: 2 cups flour, 1 cup milk or water, 5 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lard or butter. Mix dry ingredients and mix fat with flour with tips of fingers. Add liquid and mix quickly to form a soft dough. Toss on a floured board and roll lightly to ½ inch thickness. Shape with biscuit cutter, place on buttered pan and bake twelve minutes.

FRUIT SALAD DRESSING

Mrs. Walter T. LeMond

1 cup pineapple juice, ½ cup water, juice of 2 lemons, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup flour. Place pineapple juice, water and lemons on stove. Beat sugar, eggs and flour together and stir in hot liquid.

OATMEAL COOKIES

Mrs. B.H. Settles

1 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs (well beaten), ½ cup sour milk, ½ teaspoon soda in milk, 2 cups flour, 1 cup raisins, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, 2 cups oatmeal. The art of making these cookies is not to get too much flour.

FRUIT AND NUT SALAD

Mrs. J.M. Manuel

1 cup diced pineapple (canned), 1½ cups English walnuts chopped, 1 cup diced oranges, 1 cup diced dates. Mix all together and add golden salad dressing one hour before serving. Golden Salad Dressing: ¼ cup pineapple juice, ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 eggs well beaten, ½ cup sugar, after beating eggs well add the pineapple juice, lemon juice, sugar and pinch of salt. Beat together and cook in double boiler, let boil two minutes. Let cool before adding it to the salad.
