Rail-County Row Over Victim

Police Baffled In Search for Clues In Rich Widow's Death

UNABLE TO GET EVIDENCE ON WOMAN HELD

Mrs. Sheldon Clings To Story That She Slew In Self Defense

GET MYSTERY NOTES

State Gets Letters From Friends of Slaim Woman

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 3. After having traced every clue having a bearing on the death, Sept. 25, of Mrs. Ada McCobb, District Attorney C. M. Chambers said tonight that he and his special investigators have been utterly unable to uncover evidence which would controvert the story told by Mrs. Mable Longworth Sheridan, 30, charged with her murder, and held in the county jail here.

She has been unable to give a $10,000 bond, set following a hearing before Judge W. S. Anderson of the Thirty-seventh district court. The district attorney will present the Sheridan case to the grand jury which meets Monday.

Mrs. Sheridan, in a statement to Chambers, said she killed Mrs. McCobb in defense of her own life after she had been attacked with a hammer. She claimed she wrenched the hammer from Mrs. McCobb's hands and struck her on the head with it.

Get Letters

Chambers today received three letters from persons who claimed to be either friends or relatives of Mrs. McCobb.

A woman writing from Modesto, Calif., claiming to be related to the dea dwoman, said Mrs. McCobb had been subject to mental derangement.

"At one time she was a very pretty woman," she wrote.

She said that Mrs. McCobb was the mother of a daughter, "Effie," who died when she was 12 or 13 years old.

A man writing from Ceres, Calif., claimed kin with Mrs. McCobb. He said the last time he had seen her was in Chicago, in 1898.

A Seattle, Ore., lawyer wrote that John McCobb, a mechanic of that city, claims to be a nephew of the dead woman. The nephew told the lawyer that his father, whose name also was John McCobb, now deceased, had had a dispute with Mrs. McCobb over "money matters" and that they had not corresponded with each other for a number of years before his father's death.

Hear of Man in Case

A Los Angeles, Calif., friend of Mrs. McCobb, writing Chief of Police T. O. Miller, gave little new information about the woman. She told of relations between Mrs. McCobb and a mining engineer in Mexico which had already been indicated by letters written by the man and found in Mrs. McCobb's trunks. She gave the name of a Los Angeles detective who, she said, could help in the investigation. She also said she believed Mrs. McCobb has been "followed from New York."

Saunders' Rich Estate Auctioned

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 3.—(AP) Cla-Le-Clare, planned by Clarence Saunders as a "million dollar" country estate with its partially completed "pink palace" passed over the auction block today to a syndicate of Memphis men to be subdivided into building lots.

The property, estimated to represent a cost of more than $800,000 was bid in for $343,000. The sale was made to satisfy creditors who filed claims in bankruptcy proceedings.

Saunders planned the Pink Palace as a palatial country home while at the head of Piggly Wiggly.

CALLED "VILEST MURDER."

Man and Wife Sentenced in Death of Woman's First Husband.

MARION, Ill., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Characterizing their alleged crime as the "vilest murder" he had ever heard of, Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell today passed formal sentence on Robert Tate and his wife, found guilty by a jury last Sunday of the poison slaying of Joseph Herrington, her first husband. Tate will serve 30 years at Chester, and Mrs. Tate 20 years at Joliet, the terms fixed by the jury.

TEST SAFETY LAWS.

Railroad Sues Texas Commission on Interlocker Case.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Construction of the federal transportation act of 1920 and authority of the Texas railway commission to require railways to construct and operate interlocking devices at crossings are involved in a brief filed today in the third court of civil appeals by the International-Great Northern against the railroad commission, et al.

Coolidges Will Celebrate 20th Year of Wedding

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP) President and Mrs. Coolidge will celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary quietly tomorrow, having made no plans to observe the day in any unusual manner. They expect to attend church in the morning as they do each Sunday and then remain in seclusion at the White House until their departure late in the day for Omaha, where the president on Tuesday will address the American Legion convention.

Mr. Coolidge will be in Omoha about ten hours arriving Tuesday morning after breakfast and leaving for Washington before dinner in the evening.

The president's special train will travel by way of Cincinnati and St. Louis on both trips.

QUEISSER GETS HUDSON-ESSEX AGENCY HERE

Popular Wichita Auto Man Acquire Local Franchise

Frank ueisser, popular Wichita Falls automobile man and police commissioner of the city, has secured the franchise for the Hudson-Essex motor cars in the city.

Up until the first of the month, Mr. Queisser was head of the Overland Motors, which place he recently resigned. He is an experienced automobile man o fthe old school and has a host of friends who wish him well in his new venture.

"I'll be glad to see my friends at the Hudson-Essex exhibit at the Texas-Oklahoma fair," said Mr. Queisser. "While fair week is on I intend to devote my full time to the fair and will make a more detailed announcement of my plans for Hudson-Essex later on.

25,000 in Tulsa For Oil Exhibit

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Kentucky day, City Club day and Natural Gas day were the feature events of the third day of the third annual international petroleum exposition being held here. After the first two days had been marred by rain and muddy roads, today was an ideal autumn one and more than 25,000 people passed through the gates to view the exhibits depicting the development of the oil industry.

Special interest at the exposition today centered about the Russian booth, where three representatives of two governmental agencies which control Russian oil output, have their booth.

Will Be Hung In The Alamo, Scene of His Martyrdom.

WACO, Oct. 3.—In order that a picture of Colonel William Travis may be hung in the Alamo, the scene of his martyrodom, D. W. Stallworth of Waco, whose father was a first cousin of Colonel Travis, has obtained a picture of the Texas hero from Conecuh county, Alabama, where both Travis and Major Stallworth, the Wacoan's father, were raised.

Libel Charge Against Waco Pastor In Court Oct. 7.

WACO, Oct. 3.—Reverand A. Reilly Copeland's second trial on an indictment charging criminal libel is set for Wednesday, October 7, in county court, it having been postponed from last month's session on account of the illness of Nat Harris, counsel for Mr. Copeland.

Police Puzzled In Murder of Nurse

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Only theories aided the authorities tonight in their search for the slayers of Miss Emma Ara Bacon, 30, a trained nurse, whose body was found early today in a vacant lot in Dolton, Ill., about thirty miles from Chicago.

The woman had been attacked and strangled to death. Judging by foot prints the police decided she had been killed by the roadside a short distance from where her body was found.

SCOFF HEINEN THEORY

Shenandoah Survivors Say They Heard No Signs of Warning.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Disputing the theory of Captain Anton Heinen, veteran airship pilot, that the primary cause for the Shenandoah disaster was a filure of Commander Zachary Lansdowne and the other officers to heed obvious danger signals, two survivors testified today before the naval court of inquiry here that no immediate danger signals were manifest until just before the huge craft broke in mid-air

HENCHMEN OF FERGUSONS IN AUSTIN CAUCUS

ALL FOR A PURPOSE

First Pre-Campaign Conference Observed in Capital Hotel Lobby

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—The caucus season is now open.

The big game is nominating for office; lesser game is the prestige of place by the mighty, of importance in drives which bring the lucky guessers into the green pastures of contact with those to hold office in the future.

The point is, that soon these caucuses will no longer be novel, nor will they be confined to Austin.

Probably every candidate for general office, and every prospective candidate for office, and the half dozen or so of close friends and leaders of and for each have already dropped the pebble on the campaign pond to start ever-widening ripples which will take in more and more territory and more and more workers until the campaign shall be in full force early next year.

Lining Up the Faithful.

The Ferguson preliminary caucus, if held as indications seemed to confirm, followed naturally after the first steps, announced more than a week ago, when James E. Ferguson and Guy R. Holcomb, manager of the Austin branch of the Ferguson forum—"home of Texas democracy" as the sign over its door proclaims—addressed letters to friends in various parts of the state, asking for names of dependable workers, and asking for poll tax lists.

If this year's preliminary organization first steps follow the well worn path of custom, by December, there will be larger "private" meetings called, to which principal county or district leaders for the candidates will be called. Then probably in Janurry or February, the first public "rallies," to which all those who have the railroad fare and the desire to work or to be seen among the other political big boys, will be welcomed. Then the lid will be off and the hullabaloo on, the noise to grow in ever heightening crescendo, until the primaries.

From now on the caucus will grow in number and in frequency and in size, and with about three months or four months, campaign organizations will be budding forth from them.

First of The Season.

And if we mistake not, the first little caucus of the season; one of the little informal parties of friends, when the loose ends are gathered up for the first time, and the campaign material sized up for the first time, was held here during during the past week.

At least, there was a considerable number of those known friendly to the Ferguson cause here. They came in silently; did little talking, and mingled freely about the statehouse and hotel lobbies. There were probably 15 to 20 persons here during the week, any one of who or nearly all of whom, may have been in Austin to discuss politics and the next campaign with the Fergusons. Most of them were here Thursday.

No Politics Broached.

Any particular one of, them may have been here on other business. The point is that no one disclosed the mission which brought them here; and none was disposed to talk of politics or campaigning for publication. Wherefore we beg leave not to mention any by name, except perhaps Senator Parr, who was here several days; and simply say that there were enough of those of long-established political affiliations, here at the same time, to make it appear the first tentative, preliminary groundwork laying, so to speak, had begun.

R OP N TOLL BRIDGO.

Burkburnett Span Was Washed Away in Recent Flood.

BURKBURNETT, Oct. 3.—The Burkburnett toll bridge will be open for traffic the first part of this week. About one-third of the bridge was washed away a few weeks ago in a flood in Red river.

Moody Probing American Road Company Books

Contracts for Maintenance in Several Counties Object of Official Scrutiny in Highway Investigation

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Attorney General Dan Moody is carrying his investigation, begun some time ago, further into the activities of the state highway commission, by having an auditor working on the books of the American Road company at Dallas, it was learned authoritatively today.

The auditor has been checking the books of the American Road company in connection with the contracts for maintenance in several counties, since Monday.

Some of the highway department's records are being gone over in the attorney general's office it was learned officially. How far the investigation will be made, was not stated.

Company Has Maintenance Work In Twenty-Five Texas Counties

The American road company has approximately 25 maintenance contracts.

Moody will leave Sunday night for Houston, where he will represent the state in a suit for injunction against the state highway commission restraining the commission from expending further funds on the contract it has with Sherman and Youmans, Houston contraction firm. Friday night he conferred with Chairman Frank Lanham of the commission, but neither would state what came up at the conference. Lanham left after the conference for his home ot Dallas.

Supplemental Contract Basis Of Heated Argument At Austin

Statement there is such a proposal was made Friday by Lanham and resulted in bringing to an abrupt and heated close to the conference between Lanham and W. D. Haden of Houston. Haden, member of the firm of Haden and Austin, had offered to take over the Sherman and Youmans contract for 17 cents a square yard, but cancelled his offer when Mr. Lanham failed to produce a copy of the supplemental proposal.

After the conference, Mr. Lanham said the supplemental proposal had been forwarded to W. G. Love, Houston attorney, who will represent the commission in the injunction suit hearing.

Thousands Seek Lost Mail Plane

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Oct. 3.—(AP)—More than a thousand persons and eleven airplanes joined in the search today for Charles H. Ames, missing mail plane pilot, but when darkness fell over the Allegheney mountains tonight no trace of him had been found.

The flier was bound from New York for Chicago when he failed to land at the aviation field just east of this city Thursday night. No communication has been had from him.

Simpson-Roosevelt Expedition Again Proves Marco Polo Told Truth

BAG RARE SPECIES

Mysteries of Chinese Turkestan Pierced by American Expedition

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A cablegram received here from Kashgar, the cross roads of central Asia, reported that the James Simpson-Roosevelt expedition for the field museum had bagged in the glacier-capped Tian Shan mountain hundreds of birds and mammals "which undoubtedly include new species."

In addition to the species believed to be new, the party had slain such rare big game as the Asiatic bear, bigger than the grizzly, the giant of all Ibexes, with curling fifty-inch horns, and the goitered Gazelle. Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt, with George K. Cherrie have been exploring fastnesses of Russian and Chinese Turkestan which were trapped in mystery until Marco Polo, mediavial Venetian protege of Kubla Khan, told Europe the true stories which unjustly branded him the greatest liar in Christendom.

Claiming Son Is Unbalanced, She Asks for Pardon

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—(AP).—A pathetic plea was made today at the governor's office by Mrs. Ivy Harkins of El Paso who asked a parole for her son, W. A. Harkins, sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for foregry. The mother claimed her son's mind became unbalanced when he fell from his airplane in 1917 while serving as a lieutenant in the United States air service.

"I want my son paroled so he may go to a government hospital for proper treatment," she said. "He is now in jail at El Paso, having been brought back from the penitentiary a short time ago and adujged insane."

No indication was given as to when the governor wold act on the petition.

NO "MONKEY BUSINESS"

Disciples of Christ Say There Will Be No Row On Evolution.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 3.—(AP) Leaders of the international convention of the Disciples of Christ emphasized tonight that there would be "no Darwinism and no monkey business" in the deliberations of the convention which starts Tuesday.

Pointing out that the organization of the convention is such that the question can be kept from the floor if desired, they were unanimous in saying that any effort to precipitate a controversy over the subject would die quickly in committee.

W. C. T. U. Members In Santone in a Row

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 3.—With the state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union less than a month away, an echo of the 1924 convention promises to reverberate in San Antonio as dissention splits the local organization into two factions, both claiming to be the affiliated body, and with a press statement purported to have been made by Mrs. Van D. Watts of Austin, president and alleged to be the cause of the discord, that San Antonio delegates would not be seated.

LEGISLATORS FAVOR MONEY TO CATTLEMEN

They Respond, With Lone "No" to Ma's Saturday Query

BULLETIN.

WACO, Texas, Oct. 3.—Representative D. W. Bartlett of Waco sent a telegraphic reply to Governor Ferguson's query on the foot and mouth deficiency declaring that he would oppose "further burdening our people with debts of this character, with the small hope I have of obtaining results in this case."

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—(AP).—Of the 68 legislators who answered Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's appeal today or support to cover a deficiency to fight the foot and mouth disease in south Texas, only one said he would oppose it.

The governor's message said the amount needed would be about $400,000 to pay dairy men and cattle men for stock slain in the eradication.

Former Governor James E. Ferguson expressed pleasure at the response of the men who are to be members of the 40th legislature, and said the response were patriotic, with sectional and politicinl feelings swept aside.

Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller, who will be president of the 40th senate, and Lee W. Satterwhite, speaker of the house, declared they would support such a measure.

Heidler Picks Pirates to Win

NEW YRK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—John A. Heidler, president of the National leagues believes that the "Pittsburgh Pirates have a little the better chance to win" the world's series from Washington, but also pays tribute to the strength of the American league entry.

"It would be foolish," said Mr. Heidler in a statement to the Associated Press today, "to make confident predictions when a team of the steadiness and spirit of the Washington Senators is engaged with a team that has the dash, brilliance and power of the Pittsburgh Pirates."

Predicting greater interest than ever before, Mr. Heidler adds his belief that the games could be played before crowds of 200,000, if facilities for such were available.

KATY REFUSES BURIAL WHEN MAN IS KILLED

DEATH AT CROSSING

Unidentified Man Is Horribly Mangled When Struck by Fast Train

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 3. An unidentified white man was killed instantly about six miles southeast of San Marcos this morning when struck by a northbound M. K. T. passenger train. One of the man's legs was cut off and his body mangled.

The man was wearing a pair of overalls and carrying a bundle of coffee, soap, tobacco and tools when he waas struck.

A controversy arose between railroad and Hays county officials over the burial of the man. Railroad officials declared that the county should bear the burial expenses while county officials said the railroad was responsible for the man's death and should bury him.

Early this afternoon the man's body had not been moved from the railroad station.

COMING OUT OF THEIR TRANCE.

China is as old as time. Now the Chinese are giving up eating rice. Japan is as old as time. Now the Japanese are giving up eating rice. These peoples of the Orient are turning to wheat as their staple food and baking it into cakes which cannot be eaten with chop sticks.

Canada knows. Canada is a great wheat producing country. In 1915 Canada exported no wheat at all to China. In 1918 her wheat exports to China were 8,000,000 bushels. In 1924 China imported more than 5,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and more then 111,000 barrels of Canadian flour.

A Canadian wheat and flour expert predicts that Chinese and Japanese wheat and flour imports for the year 1925 will eclipse even these amazing totals. He says this revolution in taste is one of the most remarkable facts of the changing modern world, for the Oriental is now copying the west in food as well as commerce and war. He does not eat wheat in the grain stage. He makes it into little rough cakes which he finds enormously appetizing. Furthermore, owing to Oriental demand for wheat (Canadian wheat, this Canadian expert says) that Canadian wheat magnates are looking westward and building big flour mills and grain elevators along the Pacific coast of Canada. And according to Canadian newspapers optimistic Canadians are predicting that if the Chinese and Japanese continue to give rice the cold shoulder and clamor for wheat, the Canadian prairie country will reap enormous profits.

Canada produced an enormous crop of wheat this year and has 200,000,000 bushels of wheat for the export trade. Americans are the greatest wheat consumers in the world, and if the population of the United States continues to increase at its present rate, the time will come when the home yield of wheat will not supply the home demand of consumption.

There are 39 wheat producing countries. All these countries appear to be in evidence in the markets of the work this year. But think of the Chinese and Japanese after subsisting on rice for hundreds of centuries turning to wheat as their chief article of food. There is a new civilization in the making and it appears to be covering all the nations of the earth.

ADAM WAS A RICH LIVER.

Adam died of the gout. An ancient document held by a college of London tells the story. This document was written in the 16th century. It shows that all the Saxon kings were lineal decendants of Adam and Eve. Then Adam must have been a rich liver. He must have been a lover of the good things on the table and the wine cellar.

This all happened after the snake had entered the garden and tempted Eve. It all happened after the forbidden fruit episode in the lives of the first parents. Adam must have made his own tipple. He must have constructed the first wine cellar. He knew all about the exhilerating effects produced by the taking inwardly of large potions of the stuff that cheers.

If Adam died from the gout, then Adam must have been a good old scout all the days that he lived upon the earth after he had been expelled from Paradise. There were no physicians in those days, were no lawyers, but there were editors or chroniclers who kept the records straight.

DEMOCRATS ARE SCARCE IN CALIFORNIA.

California is the home of William Gibbs McAdoo. Woodrow Wilson carried California in his contest for presidential honors. Where are the California democrats now? In 1920 California slid to Harding by a tremendous majority. In 1924 thousands of California democrats voted for Coolidge or followed the flag of LaFollette. Coolidge carried the state.

Samuel Shortridge is a republican United States senator from California. He is Hiram Johnson's colleague. Shortridge is a re-actionary. That is, he is a regular of regulars and does not believe in political progress or any other kind of progress. An honest man, yes. A good citizen, yes. A man who moves with the time, no. He sees no necessity for progressive legislation. Not many years ago he would have sworn that the earth was flat.

Now Hiram is just the opposite. Shortridge comes up for re-election next year. Hiram desires a progressive republican as his colleague and he is doing his best to get a progressive republican to make the race against Shortridge. What are the democrats doing? Just milling around. They have no organization worthy of the name. It was shot all to pieces last year. Those who followed the flag and remained true to the faith asked McAdoo to make the race for the senate against Shortridge.

McAdoo side-stepped. He did not care for an empty honor. Then they turned to James D. Phelan, who had represented them in the senate for one or two terms and Phelan side-stepped. Phelan is a millionaire. He was a power in politics with the kid of a long pocketbook in days gone by. He presented the name of McAdoo to the Madison Square Garden convention. Newspaper correspondents, after listening to the Phelan effort, voted unanimously that the Californian could not be classed with Cicero, Burke, either of the Pitts, Calhoun, Clay or Webster as an orator.

If the followers of John W. Davis and the followers of the late Robert M. LaFollette in the Golden Coast state would come together and agree upon a candidate they would be able to make it mighty interesting for the honorable Samuel Shortridge, prince of re-actioneries, brilliant advocate of the criminal court room and ever a stand-patter in the politics of the country.

However, the democratic party of California is made up of fragments at the present time and if McAdoo and Phelan are unwilling to gather up the fragments and build a solid organization, why worry? William Jennings Bryan is gone. He had a following in California. His following did not follow the flag of John W. Davis in 1924. If the Phelan following followed the flag of Davis, then Phelan as a popular leader of democratic hosts is a sorry figure in the land of the Argonauts.

A Californian newspaper correspondent who is friendly to Hiram Johnson says the democrats will place a candidate in the field and if a Johnson man wins, thousands of Coolidge republicans are expected to vote for the democratic nominee, while if Shortridge or some other regular wins, it is as certain as the sun will set that a big part of the Johnson vote will go to the democrats.

Democrats think they need new blood in the upper house of congress. Senator Wadsworth of New York, a republican leader, must stand for re-election next year. Senator Samuel Shortridge of California, a republican stand-patter, must stand for re-election next year. California democrats should draft William Gibbs McAdoo as their candidate. This would give McAdoo a chance to test his popularity as a vote getter.

New York democrats should draft Alfred E. Smith. This would test his popularity as a continuous vote getter. If McAdoo lost he would be out of the run as a contender for the presidential nomination in 1928. If Smith lost, then he would be out of it. McAdoo isn't going to run for the senate, and the wise politicians of New York say that Governor Smith isn't going to run for the senate. New York has a democratic party and a magnificient organization. California has a democratic party made up of fragments and no organization.

TALKERS AND RIDERS.

Americans are talkers and riders. In these fields of endeavor they are world beaters, there are 17,000,000 motor vehicles in America and 16,000,000 telephones. According to the experts automobile manufacturing has never been in a more favorable position than it is now and they are putting in new telephones every minute.

As a side line the experts say that crime in all its ramifications cost the American public ten billion dollars a year. Fast moving people. Fast moving country. There may be spots on the sun but they all will disappear in time.

New 'Al Smith Presidential Boom Seen Under Way

Reception given to Governor Al Smith of New York by Illinois democrats when he visited Chicago, is seen by political observers as the beginning of a new Smith presidential boom. Nearly 100,000 persons gathered at a picnic at Beverly Hills, suburb, to hear him speak. He is seen (top) in action there. Bottom, George E. Brennan, boss of the party in Illinois, is seen greeting him in Chicago.

The New Fable of the Flapper Feud —By George Ade

Moral: Suffering in silence has become a lost art.

Once there was a Lone Man who was compelled to take a ride on the new kind of bus which is helping the Zinc Elizabeth to make a joke out of the average passenger train. This conveyance looked like a battle ship with wheels. It breathed blue smoke and made a noise like Niagara Falls, and when it came surging along a rural highway the chickens would beat it for behind the barn and remain there for days.

The traveler, who had planted himself in one of the springy seats, had a couple of fresh magazines in his lap and counted on finding out how all of the butter-and-egg men started as weed-pullers and got their kile by hiring employes who were too dumb to steal. Like many other readers, he was keen for these confessions of the successful, little suspecting that most of the strong-arms who have taken it away from the common people, hide their black jacks and marks after they become bank directors and, after that, want to talk about paintings and the opera.

He had just started to eat up a thrilling piece entitled, "How it feels to be red-headed" when his attention was directed to two pearls of young womanhood planted directly across the aisle.

Claudine's Porous Eats.

They were regulars and had overlooked nothing. They were clipped high and had been dipped in flour and had large rolling eyes and wore one-piece growns which did not seem to be securely fastened. The exposure included a long vertical stretch of shin-bone.

This traveler had no desire to pry into the secrets of these cuties, who probably came of refined people, no matter what they looked like. He was no eavesdropper, interloper or buttinsky. If he could have kept out of their confidences he would have done so. But his only chance would have been to get off the bus.

Because he could not help himself, he heard the whole story, involving an undramatic prologue, a treacherous betrayal, scandal and dirt, plot and counterplot, the dissolution of friendships and the bust-up of Love's young dream. That is to say, he got it in a general way. Some of the intrigues were a bit turgid and the details became jammed in the talking machinery but as nearly as he could gather it up and sort it out and unravel it, here was the whole seismic disturbance:

Everything had been O. K. between Edna and Claudine up to the time of the picnic. It must have been, because the two of them packed in the same basket, and it was underatood, from the beginning, that they would eat with Raymond and Ollie, but nothing was said before the picnic about Claudine's boob cousin from Springfield who was nothing but a ringer and had an appetite like a horse.

It wouldn't have been so bad if Claudine had come through fifty-fifty, but she was always looking for a chance to make a Splurge with somebody else's chow. For one thing, she didn't bring any pickles or thousand island dressing, after promising, and her sandwiches were so thin the sun could shine through them. Just the same, she told everybody where to sit and let on as if it was her party, all the time telling Edna what to open next.

Elmer the Goof.

All of that rought stuff at the picnic might have been forgotten if she hadn't traipsed all over town the next week telling everybody that Edna had told Alma that Raymond was going to be captain of the basket ball team instead of Elmer. Always trying to start something. Her middle name was certainly war. Edna had told Alma, right in front of the Public Library, or it might have been more in front of the Service garage, that she hoped Raymond would be captain, because everyone knew he was the best player, but she hadn't even mentioned Elmer's name and wouldn't have, for the world, because she had always been friendly with Elmer and liked him, in a way, even if he was a goof to look at, but anybody who said that Elmer had any license to be captain of the team must have mush in the coco, to say the least, coming right down to it, as far as that's concerned.

It was a funny thing that Claudine would knock Raymond the way she had and then go out to vamp him. And get away with it! Right from the start Cludine had misrepresented, in every way, shape, manner and form, everything that Edna had said about the basket ball team, even going so far as saying to Raymond, after he didn't get to be captain, that he would have been all right if Edna hadn't been all right if Edna hadn't queered him by going to the superintendent and some of the boys and shooting off her mouth and getting everybody sore at her. All of which was a pack of lies, becuz Edna never opened her face about basket ball unless she was asked and then said, in a nice way, that she hoped Raymond would be captain becuz that was before he had gone blooey in the bean and fallen for the pinheaded wiggler and giggler.

Probably Raymond was a goner unless somebdy could get to him and give him the low-down and inside on the trouble-maker, becuz, say what you will, Raymond wasn't such a bad scout, just weak, that's all. Claudine had sewed buttons on him becuz the simp believed everything she passed out to him. It was only a question of time until he got wise to all that apple sauce she was feeding him and then he would walk out on her and leave her flat. You know it.

Sooner or later he would find out what she had told Mr. Finch, who ran the picture show. It seems that she had been waiting out in front for the poor egg to show up and take her in to see "Unprotected Women" and Mr. Finch, in a joshing way, started to kid her about Raymond and she said that he was nothing in her young life but she couldn't give him the air becuz he was nuts about her and tagging at her heels every minute. Those were the very identical words she had used, becuz Mr. Inch had told Mrs. Finch, who had imparted the big sensation to Alberta Wilcox.

Swiping the Old Geek Badge.

The very idea of her saying that Raymond had been chasing her when everybody in town knew that she had been making googy-eyes at him for a year and doing a lot of other things that no girl who had been well brought up would think of doing! For one thing, he couldn't back the car out of the garage without her being on the corner, all diked up like a horse and buggy, to flag him. Every time she pulled the old one about just happening to be there.

It's funny where they went riding at night. Her mother didn't seem to have the slightest control over her. She could get away with all that murder for a while but sooner or later she would get such a hard name that she wouldn't be able to break into a public dance with a letter of introduction from President Coolidge.

If Raymond wasn't such a goose he'd remember what she pulled on George Spelvin while he was home from the academy. She told around that he gave her the frat pin, but it was purty well known that she just the same as swiped it and then gave him the old one about losing it, which is awful coarse work, if anyone should ask. Kit Lawrence had told Effie Dusenberry that she knew Claudine still had the badge. If that didn't make a thief out of her, what would you call it? I ask you.

As for having a chance to go to Hollywood and be in a picture, all that chatter just proved that she was crazy in the head. Somebody had told her she looked like Leatrice Joy and since then there had been no living with her. No wonder everybody was sorry for her mother.

It seemed that the future of the universe was now hinging on the junior prom. She (Claudine) had been buying thing and telling around that Raymond was going to take her, but Edna and Blanche said wouldn't it be a good joke if he gave her the toss?

While further plans for saving the much-to-be-desired Raymond were on the fire, the traveler had to alight and he may never know what happened to the eternal triangle.

Ring Accepts Nomination for Mayor Of New York —By Ring Lardner

To the Editor:

Complying with the demands of practically the entire population of Great Neck the writer has consented to run on a independent ticket for the mayor of N. Y. city at the coming election in November. No idea of any such a proposition had entered my mind up to last Thursday inclusive but on Thursday evening the door bell rung for the 1st. time in mos. and mos. and you will never guest who was at the door it was Mr. L. M. Graham one of our most prominent citizens and chairman of the householders welfare assn.

Mr. L. was Mr. Graham's opening remarks, on behalf of the householders of Great Neck I hereupon ask and demand that you allow the usages of your name as a independent candidate for the mayor of New York.

I appreciate the honor Mr. Graham was my reply, but a person that don't live in New York ain't eligible for the mayor of New York and in order for me to become eligible it would be necessary for me to move to New York or in other wds. give up my residents in Great Neck.

That suits us was Mr. Graham's surprising reply, a palpable slip of the tongue.

Well to make a short story out of it here I am a candidate for the mayor of the largest city in the world and my campaign committee have asked me to come out flat footed at this time and state my standing in regards to the various civic problems which now affronts us and which my rivals has made the principal issue of the impending mayoralty.

New York is Divided Into Burrows.

To begin with leave us take the question of the subways. For the benefit of out of town readers I would better exclaim that New York is a mess of tunnels in which is laid subways in which to carry people to and from their work and back. On acct. of all these tunnels being burrowed in the ground, why instead of naming the different parts of town departments or sections like in Paris, London and etc., why in New York they call them burrows like the Burrow of Manhattan and the Burrow of the Bronx. Out in the far west they have got a little animal which they call a burrow and when I first come to New York I thought that the burrow of Brooklyn was a nickname for Mayor Hylan but come to find out it is just what you half to go through to get to Coney Island. Now my rivals has made the promise that if elected they will start right in and burrow some more subways. Personly I am vs. the addition of any more subways as it is tough enough to find your way around on the ones they have all ready got.

I have thought up a counter scheme which it looks to me like it would kill 2 birds with one (1) stone. It seems that another of the questions before us is the question of garbage disposal. My scheme would be to stop running trains on 2 or 3 of the present subway routes and you would have plenty of room to store garbage in the tunnels thus vacated.

As far as the 5 cent fare is conserned I think it is probably O. K. to charge a person that amt. the first time they ride on the subway but after all they ain't much you can see down there and after you have rode on it once you have saw everything they is to see so I would issue buttons to be presented to people that has took their first subway ride and if it was nessary for them to ride on the subway a second time they would just half to show their button and ride free. And I think you would find that when people knowed they could ride free they would not be so anxious to ride and hence depreciate the present congestion.

Another scheme for cutting down on the congestion would be to have all the stores and offices open and close at different hours instead of 8:30 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. like at present. The way it is now everybody has to go to work at the same time and go home at the same time and the result is that you can't get either here nor there without being squeezed and wasped and tromped on by big whopping shop girls. Let some stores open in the morning, others at noon and still others at night and they would not be no more constriction either to or fro.

If for any reason the above plan for garbage disposal don't meet with the approval of my admirers I submit the following methods for decreasing the number of grabakes to be disposed of:

a. Make it compulsory for every citizen to keep 10 or more greedy dogs.

b. Offer medals and cash prizes for obesity and make dieting a felony.

c. Have lots of company a specially wrestlers.

d. Don't order stuff that nobody wants to eat like hominy and crackers and etc.

e. Cultivate a taste for fish bones, peach pits, olive stones and etc. These items is often throwed away as offal but they ain't really so offal if chewed up fine.

That leaves us without hardly any of the campaign issues to be took care of with the exception of grade crossings, school congestion and the removal of snow from the streets all of which can be tended to in a few wds.

As far as grade crossings is conserned I have always been neutral but would advice others that if they don't like them why either go around the other way or stay home. As for school congeston if your kid squawks about conditions as he finds them in our N. Y. schools let him get his education abroad. We don't want those kind of children in this country always finding fault with their Uncle Sammy. Last but not lease the people that comlsain about the lenth of time snow is left on the streets would do well to follow the example of their mayor and spend the winter in Florida they's a deuce of a lot worse places and not always in snow up to your neck.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

A black starless night. A sultry moist wind, weighted with the nearing rain.

Their headlights illumined the deserted road. No houses for over a mile. An isolated stretch of thick, spectral woods.

Crickets, tree-frogs, all the sounds and fragrance of the country at night. "Oh, listen—isn't that an owl?" Helen leaned forward. "They always sound so lonely."

"Huh, this's no great white way," grumped Warren. "Pretty dead spot."

"And much longer," admitted Lawrence, blowing for a turn ahead. "But we had to take that detour."

"It'll be eleven before we get home," complaind Carrie. "A shame to keep this child up so late."

"He's asleep now. Don't wake him," Helen dreaded the resumption of Bobbie's squirming fretfulness.

"He ought to be in bed," Carrie covered him with the robe. "I told Lawrence not to try to make Blakewood today."

"Been home by now if it hadn't been for that blowout."

Helen, leaning back, drank in the fragrance of the night. She loved that murmurous drone of crickets and tree-frogs. If Carrie would only stop talking! Just to lie back and dream in the darkness—with the moist, wood-scented air in her face!

A heavy bump as they sagged over a gulch.

"Oh, this awful road! Lawrence you'll have to slow up along here."

"Where's my balloons?" Bobbie's peevish whine.

"They're both here. Go back to sleep, Precious—no, don't put your feet on mother. Lawrence, you sure we're on the righ road? We haven't passed a car."

"Yes, this's the Dry Brook fork. Be out of it soon."

"I want to sit in front with Daddy," whimpered Bobbie.

"No, Daddy has to drive—and this dark road. We'll soon be home."

"I can sit on Uncle Warren's lap."

"No, you don't!" squelched Warren. "Don't want you squirmin' around the gears on this stretch."

"No, no, Pettie," Carrie dragged him back as he tried to climb over the front seat. "You must stay here with mother and Aunt Helen."

A loud report! A sharp rending of the still night.

"What's that? Not another blowout?"

"No, Bobbie stepped on one of his balloons."

"My balloon!" wailed Bobbie, just realizing what had happened.

"Mother told you to sit still. That's what you get for not minding."

"Car behind!" cautioned Warren.

They swerved to the right as a small roadster shot past. Empty but for the hunched-up man at the wheel. An uncouth figure, his cap pulled low over his eyes.

"Crazy to speed like that on this road," muttered Warren. "He's hittin' over forty."

"Did you notice the way he looked at us?" shivered Helen. "As though—Oh, I don't know what——"

"Rum runner," shugged Warren. "No wonder he's steppin' on it."

Another mile of black woods. Ominous rumbling from the cloud-clotted sky.

"W'ed better get the curtains out," worried Carrie.

"Not yet. Don't want to stop along here. We'll be out of this soon. Hello, there's another car! No, the same one."

"Stalled!" Warren peered through darkness.

Drawing nearer, Lawrenc jammed the brake for the car ahead blocked the road.

The driver, a flashlight in his hand, was working over the engine.

"What's the trouble? called Lawrence.

"Somethin' wrong here," in a muffled voice. "Can't get it goin'. Got a Stilson in your tool-chest?"

But before they could jump out, he whirled on them, a revolver glittering in his hand.

"Now, let's have it all! Quick!"

A shriek from Carrie. An oath from Warren.

"Get out—both of you! The Molls can stay in. Now come across or I'll let you have it!"

Helen, too frightened to scream, saw Lawrence and Warren hand over their wallets.

"Now, how 'bout the tickers? And you might throw in them cufflinks."

Dexterously pocketing the loot, he backed closer to the car.

"Step up here so I can keep you covered! Now don't be frightened, sisters—just let's have them sparklers."

"I can't get them off," sobbed Carrie, frantically jerking at her rings.

"Oh, yes you can—take your time. And you be gettin' yours," leering at Helen. "No, you don't brother!" whirling on Warren. "Don't try to pull anything! You stay right there!"

Through Helen's paralizing terror flashed the story of a foiled hold-up. Some bottles in the car—the woman had kicked them over! The highwayman distracted by the crash, her husband had leaped on him.

And Warren—grim, alert—ready to spring.

But no bottles! Nothing she could kick over. Nothing in the car but Bobbie's balloon.

Then a thrille! inspiration! Only a chance—but worth trying. Would Warren be quick enough? Could she give him some inkling?

Her gaze compelled his. He knew she was trying to tell him something.

Her eyes travelled from his to the balloon at her feet. Again the insinuating shifting of her glance.

His responsive wink! Did he understand? Could he see the balloon? She must chance it.

Her heart thumping wildly, Helen raised her foot over the red rubber globe.

Like a pistol came the loud report!

Simultaneously Warren leaped forward, knocking up the revolver. The next second a rolling tussle in the dusty road.

Bobbie, now awake, added his clamorous screams to the melee.

"Somethin' to tie him with!" shouted Warren. "Got a piece of rope.

While Lawrence helped hold down the blaspheming thug, Helen lifted the front seat and dragged out a rope.

"That's not enough! No more? Look in his car."

"Be careful!" shrilled Carrie, distracted with fright. "He may have a knife.

"Won't do him any good now," Warren was roping his arms to his sides. "There, guess that'll hold you," prodding him to his feet.

The light from the head lamps revealed a vicious, snarling tough, his hair tumbled over blood-shot eyes.

"Now get in there. We'll turn you over to the first cop. Hold on, where's his gun? We'd better have it."

"That's what I'm looking for," Lawrence was kicking through the grass.

"There's his flashlight. Turn it on those bushes."

"I got it! And here's his cap."

"We'll have to back up his car. Can't leave it like that."

The car pushed out of the road, Warren, slamming on his prisoner's cap, shoved him into the front seat.

"Now get set back there," glancing over his shoulder, as with the revolver he mounted guard on the running-board. "All ready, Kitten? Step on her, Lawrence!"

It was a nerve-taut drive. Lawrence intent on the dark narrow road, Warren alert to his prisoner, Carrie hushing Bobbie's whimpering fright.

At last back on the lighted highway, they soon encountered a motorcycle officer.

Sighting Warren on the running-board, he chugged up beside them.

"What's the trouble?" gruffly.

"This yegg held us up down the road. Got our stuff on him yet. Here's his gun," handing over the revolver.

"Let's see his mug," the officer jerked off the cap. "Motor Mike! Just out a couple of months. This'll send him up for another stretch. You folks drive down to the station with me."

"We'd rather not tonight," protested Lawrence. "Got a child here—want to get him home. Here's my card."

"All right, sir. I'll have the sheriff call you in the morning."

"Hold on, what 'bout the stuff he lifted? Can't we have that now?"

"Sure. I'll frisk him. But you'll have to bring it to court for evidence."

"My rings!" shrilled Carrie. "Oh, they're not lost—when you threw him——"

"Here's some rings. Three? Two wallets and three watches."

"He can keep that one," grinned Warren, passing back a nickel timepiece.

"That all? Got to hand it to you for landin' him. Motor Mike's a slippery bird. How'd you trip him?"

"One of them Janes had a gat," the surly prisoner's defensive growl.

"That 'gat' happened to be a toy balloon," chuckled Warren. "When Mrs. Curtis squashed it with her foot—I jumped on him."

"A toy balloon!" roared the officer. "Mike, that's tough on you. Take a long time to live that down. Well, that was clever head work, miss. Here, cut that—no language before these ladies! Where's his car?"

"Back there on the Dry Brook fork—'bout two miles."

"A BALLOON! Bobbie's balloon?" amazed Carrie, when they finally drove off. "Why, I thought it was his revolver—when you knocked it up!"

"Nob much!" shrugged Warren. "Couldn't have pulled that with him."

"And it was Bobbie's balloon!" cuddling him. "Mother's Precious Lamb!"

"Precious rot. This's Helen's big scene! If she hadn't used her head—that crook would've got away with all our stuff."

"My balloon!" walled Bobbie. "Aunt Helen busted my balloon!"

"Never mind, Son, we'll get you a dozen balloons," promised Lawrence. "We ought to be mighty thankful to Aunt Helen. But how'd you two make your signals?"

"Yes, that was good team-work," chuckled Warren. "We had that act well timed. Helen gave me the high-sign—then planted her heel! I was ready to spring when the thing went off. Knew he'd be quick—only a second to nail him. Darn good stunt, Kitten! You ruined the rep of that wallet-snatcher. Ha, ha, wasn't he sore when he found he'd been landed by a toy balloon?"

WELCOME TO THE GREATER TEXAS-OKLAHOMA FAIR

When Guests Assemble in Your Home Beautiful

ANNOUNCING OUR DISPLAY DURING FAIR WEEK

We extend a most cordial invitation to our friends and customers from out of the city to call and visit us during the Fair. We will appreciate the opportunity of serving you.

Nowadays, more than ever, folks judge us by our homes—how they are furnished and maintained. The home affords a true criterion of character as well as substantiality—and therefore it should be a just cause for pride.

When guests assemble around your friendly fireplace, you want them to be impressed, not necessarily by the luxury of your furnishings, but rather by your good taste. The proper selection of furniture has so much to do with a favorable impression.

During this annual event—"Fair Week"—your attention is directed to your home. At the start of a new indoor season you need look to its comfort, its attractiveness—and ofttimes, as you do, new pieces of furniture will suggest themselves. So at this opportune time we present a most interesting display of the new in home furnishings.

FURNITURE THAT EXPRESSES INDIVIDUALITY

A discriminating home-maker doesn't like sameness. She wants her home to be a little different—to express her own individuality. And, with the wealth of beautiful new styles now being shown, there is no reason why her home cannot be distinctive.

There are striking new effects in the matching of rare woods that distinguish the late creations in diping room and bedroom furniture. In overstuffed the tendency is still further away from the massive designs of a few years back, with elegant wood carvings adding much to tone. Odd pieces are a little more elaborate, with richer wood effects.

It is our practice to sell only such furniture as we can unhesitatingly guarantee. Sometimes it may cost a little more than the ordinary—but we know that, when such occasion does arise, it's worth the difference. You don't buy furniture often but when you do, you want something good, the kind that will afford beauty and comfort to your home for years to come. Good furniture never is expensive.

You don't take a chance when you buy our furniture. Good value for what you invest is certain.

During this special display you will find much in the way of moderately priced home furnishings to interest you. No matter what your problems may be it would be a good idea to bring it to this showing. There is never any obligation to buy in "looking around" at our store.

The Problem:

What Is The Sum Total of the Figures Forming the Elephant?

Simply Add Them Up to Get the Solution

There are no marks, lines or characters in the elephant figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each standing alone. There are no "ones" or ciphers." There are no groups of figures such as "23" or "42." The heads of the "6's" are distinctly curved while the tails of the "9's" are straight, or practically so. There is no trick or illusion of any description in the chart.

General Rules of the Contest

This competition is open to all residents of the states of Texas and Oklahoma, except employes of The Record News and members of their families.

Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution. NO SOLUTION UNACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

The Record News offers these prizes for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. When in the judgment of the contest manager more than one member of the same family, or more than one of any number of persons he believes have worked together send in a solution of the puzzle, he reserves the right to refund subscriptions and return the solutions he believes have been submitted contrary to the foregoing rule. The Record News reserves the right to reject any solutions it believes have not been submitted under proper conditions. The Record News also reserves the right to finally decide any other questions or points which may arise and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions.

In the event of ties on this puzzle, as many prizes will be reserved as there are contestants tied, before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution. For instance, if five people were tied on the best solution, the first five prizes will be reserved for them, and they would be awarded the prizes in accordance with the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the one submitting the best solution of the second puzzle would receive the first prize, the one submitting the next best, the second, and so on.

Subscriptions may be NEW or RENEWALS. Both count the same.

Closing Date

The Great Elephant Puzzle Contest Will Close at Nine P. M. Saturday, November 14, 1925

The earlier you send in your solution the longer time you will have to go over your figures, AND SEND IN ANOTHER SOLUTION, if you find you can do better. Additional charts may be secured at any time by calling at the address below or sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope for mailing them. NO SOLUTION CAN BE CHANGED AFTER IT HAS BEEN ONCE REGISTERED.

Important Facts to Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the amount you will receive, should you win one of the first nine prizes, as the value of these prizes is determined by what the winners pay. This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize. Accuracy is what counts.

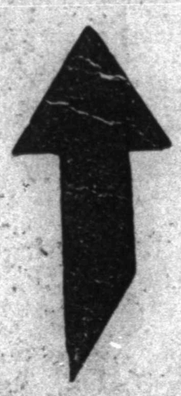

Not more than one prize will be awarded to any one person.

Row Over Mitchell Awaits The Legion Convention At Omaha

LEGION HOSTS OF TEXAS SAY FIGHT LOOMS

Lively Discussion On Mitchell Expected At Omaha Meet

FORT WORTH, Oct. 3.—Air service, national defense and the "Mitchell incident" are certain to come up for a lively discussion at the American Legion national convention in Omaha next week, with Texas delegates taking an important part, according to Ben J. Dean of Breckenridge, member of the national executive committee, who was in Fort Worth Saturday to accompany the legionnaires to Omaha. Dr. W. T. Dunning of Gonzales, state commander, had nothing to say upon the subject after reaching the city, although his attitude, previously announced, favors a more extensive air service.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 3.—(AP).—Friends of Colonel William Mitchell arriving in Omaha for the national convention of the American Legion were organizing their forces in an effort to secure endorsement of his recent criticism of the navy on the general convention floor of the American Legion.

Many were bitter in their denunciation of legion officials for not officially inviting Colonel Mitchell to the convention as a distinguished guest. This was taken to mean that legion officialdom is co-operating with the army and navy in preventing his carrying his fight for a unified air service to the great veterans' organization, they explained. Those in charge of invitations, however, said that Colonel Mitchell was not invited as a distinguished guest because he was not a combat general. The forty and eight, the legion's fun organization, of which Colonel Mitchell is a member, however, extended an invitation to Colonel Mitchell yesterday.

Although it is not expected that he will be able to attend, prominent legionnaires are planning to carry his fight to the convention floor. Alvin Owsley of Texas, former national commander, will fight for a resolution upholding Mitchell's contentions and demanding that the next congress provide for an air service department of equal rank with the army and navy departments of the government.

LOTS NOW ON SALE IN

Kempfair Park Addition

On Your Way to the Fair Grounds

You pass directly through this addition, and you can note the obvious advantages it offers. Just south of the factory district, on the paved road, near the car line, accessible to the conveniences of city life. To the eastward is Country Club Estates, to the westward is Westmoreland Park, the two exclusive additions where a million dollars is being spent on development.

A Wise Buy for Both the Home-Planner and the Investor

All $750 Lots Are On Pavement

Corner Lots Priced $50 Additional

$30 Down—Balance at $15 Per Month

The Trend Is South and West

These are the only directions in which Wichita Falls can grow. Those who recognized this fact two years ago are cashing in handsome profits now. In West Side Addition, for instance, lots that are now selling for $1,500 to $2,000 were bought less than two years ago for $500. As growth comes, lots in Kempfair Park Addition will bring big profits to first buyers.

All the Conveniences

The city's big 18-inch sewer line runs directly through Kempfair Park Addition. The other conveniences—water, lights and gas—have their lines on the very edge of this addition, ready for extension into it when home-builders are ready for them. No addition recently marketed has offered such facilities at such a price.

On the Paved Road to the Lake—Convenient to Street Car Line—Accessible to Water, Gas, Sewer, Lights

In the Path of Development

We are placing these lots on sale with the conviction that we are offering you a noteworthy value. We believe that whether you buy to build a home and quit paying heavy rents, or whether you purchase in order to profit by our city's steady growth, you will not find a prospect of greater return upon your capital than is offered you here. The terms make it easy to act promptly—just $30.00 reserves the lot you choose—and the balance in payments that are comfortably small. The early purchaser gets the early choice.

A Real Opportunity for the Man of Moderate Means Who Is Looking Ahead

We have an office on the addition, for your convenience. Or call at our downtown office at 804 Eighth, Kemp Hotel building.

Trio Well, Olney Squabble, Wilbarger Wells Feature N. Texas Week

NORTHWEST HARMEL AREA LOOKS GOOD FOR MUCH NEW ACTIVITY AS RESULT OF 600-BARREL WELL

Application for Special Drilling Permits Precipitates Shut Down Orders for Townsite Wells

An important strike on the northwest end of the Harmel pool in southwest Archer county, development in the Olney townsite where the railroad commission is requiring 300-foot spacing between wells, and an important wildcat discovery in Wilbarger county, provide making a firm stand for the enforcement of "rule 37" a three-phase feature for North Texas oil activity during the closing days of September and the first days of August.

Refined Market Slumps.

The refined market slumped off toward the middle of the past week. Apparent unwillingness to let the end of September buying pass them by with storage of consequence caused many of the smaller refiners to unload their new navy at from 9 1-2 to 9 3-4 cents, from a half to a quarter of a cent lower than the prices prevailing four or five days ago.

Olney Situation.

One of the most interesting developments in North Texas in a long time is seen on the Olney townsite where a single well, a small producer at that, has precipitated a fight between the railroad commission and North Texas operators. At a meeting last Monday at Austin applications of five operators to drill on lesser spaces than the application of "rule 37" will permit were turned down. The operators were told to try for five days to get owners of property on townsite blocks to pool their acreage and lease it together. Operators were skeptical over the outcome of these attempts, and Judge H. E. Bell, head of the oil and gas division, was in Olney Friday to personally conduct a hearing for the second time on the applications, and to look over the situation himself. One well, that of Murchison and Fain, southwest of the discovery well, has shut down and started up again several times, and at this writing is shut down at 920 feet, less than a hundred feet off sand, waiting for something to be done in the matter.

A short summary of townsite operations follows: Murchison and Fain, No. 1 Wilborn, sand at 920 feet; Alexander, et al, No. 1, Dyer (discovery well), pumping 60 barrels from sand at 1,019-31 feet; Navarro Oil company No. 1, Dunnegan, drilling at 720 feet; Humble No. 1, spudded and drilling; Texhoma No. 1, Dyer, location; Carey No. 1, Valentine, drilling at 520 feet; Consolidated Oil company No. 1, Thomas, moving on; Lowery, Weldon, et al, No. 1, Thomas, location moving on; other work is being held up pending completion of another well or so and the outcome of the fight with the railroad commission.

Trio's Big Strike.

The big strike of the week in the Olney district came in the Trio Oil company's No. 2, Brom, located 750 feet north and 150 feet west of the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of block 1,582, TE&LCO survey, two locations north of very small production on the far northwest edge of the Harmel field. The well has swabbed and flowed better than 600 barrels for several consecutive days from sand at 1,369-91 feet. The new pool, for as such it is being regarded, is being played as existing to the west and northwest. The most interesting location in connection with the new well is seen in W. J. Greene, et al's, No. 1, Brazina, two locations west of the old Muse dry hole on the south line of block 2,410, and northwest of the well. The rig is moving on. The Jones, et al, well on the Darilek, west and a bit south of the well, is regarded as flanking the producing area to the southwest. In all the area shows seven locations and drilling wells as a result of the completion.

Trio Oil company is a local concern containing T. W. Hunt, president of the First National bank at Olney; E. T. Seigler, geologist, and John Barclay.

Terminal Well.

The Terminal Oil company has a 10-barrel show in its No. 1, Falls county school lands, in the southwest corner of block 62, of that survey, sand at 1,173-80 feet. The well is being equipped for the pump.

The John and Jeff pool featured the Wichita county play. There two smaller than 100-barrel wells gave that area two quarter-mile extensions. Texhoma-Grisham No .1, Waggoner, in the northeast corner of lot 3, BS&F section 11, is showing for 75 barrels, and going on the pump, sand at 1,742-46 1-2 feet; Hammond-Garrett et al No. 1, Waggoner, east of the discovery well, may make 100 barrels from sand topped at 1,749 feet. Daniels and Rutis and three of the Texhoma drilling wells should be wells or dusters within two or three days.

Atlantic's Mitchell wildcat north of the Hooser pool, southwest of Iowa Park, was abandoned as dry at a total depth of 1,879 feet.

Clay County.

An interesting development of the week came in the completion of Bevering, et al, No. 1, Body, just 400 feet north of the old Body farm well, a six-barrel pumper for three yeras or more, for a 20-barrel well at 1,305-6 1-2 feet. The well is located six miles northwest of Petrolia in Clay county, block 47, Bacon sub-division. Location for No. 2 has been made 300 feet to the north.

Wilbarger County.

Two more big wells and an important wildcat strike northeast of the Noble well gave Wilbarger county its usual spectacular week, usual for the past three or four weeks, anyway.

Barkley and Meadows No. 2-A, Stephens, in the southeast corner of the northwest 40 of the northeast quarter of section 83, block 14, started off early in the week flowing better than 1,000 barrels a day from a sandy lime at 2,315-50 feet. The well was a deepening job from the 1,800-foot sand. A west offset is well below 2,000 feet and headed for the same sand. The second well of the week was a Thursday completion in Atlantic Oil Producing company's No. 3, Zipperle, in the northwest corner of the southwest quarter of section 80, block 14, which flowed at a rate better than 700 barrels a day, following its completion when only seven feet in the sand. It was being deepened in the pay and being bettered considerably and it was believed that the well would show 1,000 barrels too when fully drilled in. The flow is through a string of 5 3-16 inch casing The well was deepened from 1,300 feet where it had been a small producer to offset a well on an adjoining Humble lease which showed about 200 barrels from the 2,300-foot pay. Hardly had it passed the 2,000-foot level when a northwest offset, Sheerin-McCamey No. 21, Stephens, showed 1,000 barrels there. It was deepnd to 2,300 feet standardized, and drilled in, and rates as Atlantic's best well in Wilbarger county.

Landreth Leases.

Landreth Production company of Breckenridge is one of the most active concerns in the Wilbarger county fields at present. Its drilling report shows D-2, Waggoner, in section 43, block 4, pumping 150 barrels from a sand at 1,864 feet; D-3, swabbing 175 barrels a day from a sand at 1,885 feet; F-1, section 46, block 4, swabbing 110 barrels from sand at 1,800 feet; F-2, rigging up 300 feet west of No. 1; G-1, section 43, block 4, drilling 250 feet; H-1, section 46, block 4, rigging up; I-1, section 43, block 4, drilling at 1,450 feet; M-1, section 47, block 2, drilling at 1,300 feet; P-1, rigging up on GC&SF survey; N-1, section 44, block 4, location; A-2, location 300 feet west of A-1 producer, to be drilled with rotary tools.

Milham Strike.

Milham corporation made one of the most important wildcat strikes in the area since the initial discovery oil when it filled up with oil from a sand barely touched at a depth of 2,470 feet. The well is located in the southwest corner of section 48, block 4. The hole showed full of salt water in the Noble horizon sand. It is the deepest well in Noble field, and is regarded as good for better than 200 barrels at worst. The pay is true sand whereas the other Wilbarger 2,400-foot completions have been in a sandy lime.

The Noble No. 2 is about a 30-barrel well from the Noble horizon and will go deeper.

Atlantic-Roxana are drilling below a last reported depth of 2,065 feet in their No. 1, Waggoner, in section 50, block 14, between the Texas company group and the Gulf pool; Humble Oil and Refining company is fishing for tools at 1,925 feet in section 46, block 4; Humble F-1, Waggoner, in section 52, block 4, is dry and abandoned at a depth of 2,811 feet. Tidal No. 1, Wagoner, section 37, block 4, drilling in water sand at 2,295 feet; No. 2, section 35, block 4, drilling at 650 feet; Burton-Ruff, section 48, block 14, drilling at 700 feet; Hoffer No. 1, Waggoner, in section 12, block 14, casing trouble at 2,450 feet; McLester, section 20, block 14, dry and abandoned below 2,200 feet; Dyson, section 47, block 4, drilling past 2,240 feet.

Gulf is reported to have some sort of sand at a depth of 1,871-73 feet in its No. G-2, Waggoner, section 46, block 4; I-1, section 46, block 4, is repairing the rig at 1,110 feet.

Durham, et al, No. 2, section 20, block 2, has been abandoned at a total depth below 2,400 feet.

Gulf is drilling below 1,870 feet on its R-3, section 0, block 14, Q-1, same section, is drilling below 1,985 feet; U-2, section 65, block 14, is drilling below 2,280 feet.

"Princess Texas" Has Aspirations; Seeks to Become "Queen Petrolia"

MISS RUBY MORGAN

Miss Ruby Morgan, pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morgan of Corsicana, named "Princess Texas" for the third annual International Petroleum Exposition and Congress which is being held in Tulsa, Okla.

Miss Morgan was chosen from a large field of beautiful Texas girls entered from various oil-producing centers in the state. She will enter the contest for "Queen Petrolia" which will be held the final day of the exposition in which a total of 14 princesses will compete. Corsicana people are united in backing "Princess Texas" to assist in winning for her the crown. She is 22 years of age.

California Wells Have Best Marks

CALIFORNIA'S wells are the largest average producers of any in the United States. The annual statistical report of the bureau of mines shows that on Dec. 31, 1924, California's 11,320 wells averaged 53.6 barrels daily, with the Louisiana Gulf Gulf Coast second with an average of 37.4 barrels, Arkansas third with an average of 33.5, Texas Gulf Coast fourth with 28.2 and Wyoming fifth with 26.9.

California's lead was maintained notwithstanding the fact the average production per well Dec. 31, 1924, was 21.3 barrels less than on Dec. 31, 1923.

Set 4-Inch In Deepest Rotary Hole

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—E. J. Miley, has kept his word!

No. 6 Athens, at Rosecrans, the deepest drilled well in the world stands cemented with the bottom of the hole at 7,591 feet. Four and three-quarter-inch pipe with 285 feet of 60-inch mesh screen has landed on the bottom, the longest string of pipe ever set in an oil well. A combination string was set and cemented at about 7,300 feet through perforations, and the finishing touches were added with the landing of the big string of pipe.

Incidentally, No. 6 Athens, outdistanced its nearest competitor, a well in West Virginia which was drilled with cable to 7,579 feet. Rotary equipment was used on the Miley job. The well has 285 feet of oil sand and Miley expects to complete his world record by bringing in a gusher.

Miller and Lafayette Counties Hold Major Play

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 3.—The most systematic campaign of exploration for new oil and gas territory, and the largest in proportion undertaken in Shreveport territory, is underway in southwest Arkansas by the Humble Oil and Refining Co., and has been at a cost of over $500,000 since the first of the current year. It has been carried on in such wise that those outside of the oil industry, and many of those not connected with the larger companies, in the industry, and those in the immediate vicinity of the several operations undertaken, have been aware of it, though there has been no attempt at secrecy.

Want Information.

At present, oil or gas in commercial quantities is not the immediate object of the campaign though no one would be disappointed if such were found. The score or more of wells that have been drilled thus far have been primarily intended as geological studies of subsurface formations in the five counties where work is going on in an attempt to obtain exact definition or location of the Balcones fault line, or whatever the name of the extension of that fault may be in Arkansas.

This fault, along which so many prolific oil fields have been developed in Texas, enters Arkansas in the southwest corner, extending northeastward and is a part of the great transcontinental fault extending in a southwest—northeast direction from Mexico to Pennsylvania. The Smackover and El Dorado fields bear the same relation to it as many of the Texas pools bear to the Balcones fault.

Miller and LaFayette.

The exploration, so far, has been carried on principally in Miller and LaFayette counties with southern Nevada county, Columbia and Ouachita following in the order given as to number of tests. Twenty wells have been completed to date, eight in Miller county, seven in LaFayette, three in Nevada county and one each in Ouachita and Columbia. With the exception of one test in Miller all have been shallow holes from 1,000 to 1,700 feet, the deep test being abandoned at 2,799 feet, and in excess of $200,000 has been spent for actual drilling aside from whatever the leases may have cost. As casing has not been set in a majority of the tests the costs of drilling is estimated to have been around $10,000 per well. As the Humble has leased a broad belt through the territory from Ouachita county to the Texas state line, the cost will run around a half-million dollars at the least.

The only point of the campaign on which any secrecy has been maintained is what knowledge these 20 wells have added to the store already on hand concerning subsurface conditions in southwest Arkansas, and, going at it on so large a scale and at so

A Certain Mother and Her Son

By Rupert Hughes

Since there are all kinds of mothers and all kinds of sons, there are bound to be all kinds of relations between them and all kinds of theories as to what their relations should be.

This is the story of how one mother is managing her young boy. It is not put forward either as a model or a horrible example, but as a bit of the history of one home in the United States in the year of our republic the one hundred and forty-ninth.

This mother's method is working excellently in this one case; and it is not an easy case, for the boy is wilful, all but indomitable. It might not work with other children; but it fascinates me as the picturesque effort of a singularly delightful, wholesome and conscientious woman to help a son who has been having some difficulty in adjusting himself and his sensitive, almost ferocious temper to the world as he finds it.

The home-life that my own mother gave to me and our large family, I have already described elsewhere in a tribute of profound admiration and gratitude. Our conditions were different and were differently met, but I hope that this child when he grows up will realize as well as we did, how much thought a mother can give to the welfare of her offspring; and how vital it is that the mother should adapt her training to the child instead of trying to break her child to her own will.

Suppose we call her, "Mrs. Alice Claymore," and her boy, "Tom." One of the first things Mrs. Claymore learned of her little gift from heaven was that he had a heap of hell in him. His anger was instant and tremendous. It was a sickness, a delirium, almost an insanity.

Most children announce their main traits of character in their cradles, and it is hardly more possible to change a child's character than to change the color of his eyes or hair. Sometimes, however, one may present the world to a definite child character in such a way that his reactions are changed, and establish habits of self-control or self-release suited to the child's nature and to its environment as well.

In the good old days the effort of everybody was to instil into everybody else a sense of abject obedience to everybody else. Children were taught to kneel to their parents and obey them implicitly. In Israel, Greece, Rome, Europe, Asia, Africa, and Puritanical America, a disobedient child was liable to the death penalty. The parents themselves had been taught to obey the officers of the king with groveling servility, and to kneel before the king as he passed. The king was supposed to be the divinely anointed son of heaven and obedience was a religion. By so much more was obedience to one's deity a duty. Since people knelt to their parents and their kings, of course they knelt to their gods. Since great men, geniuses, merchants and noblemen approached their kings only with petitions, of course they approached heaven in the same way. Their lives, their healths, wealths, and liberties were wonderful, undeserved mercies granted from an indulgent throne; and misfortunes were their simple deserts.

But for the last hundred and fifty years the thought of obedience as a first principle of duty has been oozing rapidly out of the world. Kings are either ousted altogether or permitted to pose only as figureheads during good behavior. In no country in Europe is there a king who is absolute or whose authority is not derived from the consent of the people.

The sense of groveling obedience to parents has gone glimmering with the divine right of kings. This makes it more difficult for the parents, but much pleasanter for the children—also more profitable. The law nowadays recognizes almost nothing as a parental right beyond the rights of a trustee; but parents are under terrific bonds for good behavior. This is the day of children's rights.

Millions of them are cheated out of their rights, but in a general way it is true that the child, for the first time in history, is having himself considered as a person of dignity and prospective equality with anybody else on earth.

Mrs. Claymore found in Tom a modern child with a resentment against dictatorship that was almost maniacal. Before he could say or think the words, Tom Claymore had made it plain that his motto was: "Give me liberty or give me death!"

When he was crossed in his desires, reasonable or unreasonable, he would climb to the roof or some other height and in a spasm of frenzy, promise to throw himself off if he were not granted his wish.

The most ruthless parents would hesitate to say to their only son, "Go on and kill yourself, and good riddance!"

Mr. and Mrs. Claymore were not so set in their ways that they were willing to sacrifice their firstborn to their theories and risk a life that remains from the ground.

So they temporized, reasoned, pleaded and cajoled till they coaxed him down. Thus, eventually, they got him out of the blood-curdling habit of staking his existence on his tempers. But he still has spells of obstinate ugliness that are like onsets of scarlet fever or typhoid deliriums. They are doubtless as painful to him as they are to his parents and perhaps he is as helpless as they are. A man with the lockjaw looks very stubborn but cannot unlock his jaw until the germs are conquered by an antitoxin. One of the hardest things on earth for people to realize is that the angry, unjust, unreasonable, person is in acute distress.

Last summer was a hard one for Tom—and once he grew so incorrigible that his mother packed his things, took them and him in her car and drove to the city jail to deliver him up to justice. He could not believe that you are not my son at all. I used to think you were, but I've decided you're not."

He was learned enough in the mysterios of life to laugh at this:

"I've just about made up my mind that that's the only explanation and I'm going to take you to that Cracker mother and say, 'Take back your baby and give me mine.'"

This was pretty terrible but he gasped:

it and went sheer bravado, until the sight of the great stone portal broke his will; he made a hasty appeal for forgiveness, surrendered, promised to be an angel and was taken home.

He is not a boy who will swallow the same medicine twice and when another of his spells came over him he could not be coerced by a threat of jail. So his desperate mother was driven to this device. She said to him:

"It has gradually come over me that you are not my son at all. I used to think you were, but I've decided you're not."

He was learned enough in the mysterios of life to laugh at this:

"I've just about made up my mind that that's the only explanation and I'm going to take you to that Cracker mother and say, 'Take back your baby and give me mine.'"

This was pretty terrible but he gasped:

"Aw, y[illegible]

"Oh, couldn't I? They have the records in the hospital register. All I have to do is to go and look in the big book and find what baby was born the same day you were and what the mother's address is. She'll be glad to have you, and heaven knows, I'll be glad to get my own poor baby out of that horrible place where he's being beaten and kicked about and frozen and starved, and [illegible]"

With a wild cry for mercy he flung himself into his mother's arms and begged to be taken back into her heart. And he made a desperate effort to prove that he was really the scion of gentlefolk and not a changeling.

One of the ghastliest horrors of a mother's life is when her boy comes home contaminated and befouled by his first encounter with the behavior and language of such children as he is bound to meet in the democracy of and cheap but not at all shocking or terrifying. They lost most of their charm at once.

This was this woman's way with her boy and it has worked wonderfully. He has run the awful gauntlets through which we send our young to be bludgeoned and stunned or perverted by chance. He has come through with a clean mind and a wholesome distaste for the frightful experiences and experiments to which the vast majority of parents condemn their children. They have a dread of curing the maddening thirst for information by the one sure cure—which is information. She gave him plenty of that.

The well of truth is there whether we like it or not, and it is a deep well. Parents may dip the water and set it to the lips of their children with a benediction of decency. Otherwise, the children will lap it up from the dirt or take it from the foul vessels of other children or from those terrible creatures who love to tear innocence to pieces.

All this while Mrs. Claymore has been taking her boy's health and strength into consideration. He has a pony and can swim it across a river, holding on by its mane or its tail. He has a boat, he has a bicycle. He is encouraged to give parties and to go to them, to dance and to sing, and to dress himself up when the occasion requires it.

His happiness is another of her concerns. She is his playfellow, his companion when he wants her to be one, and his chief admirer when he tries to be brilliant. She talks to him, not with the lofty condescension of a saint, nor with the sickening baby palaver of odious sweetness. She talks to him as one boy talks to another.

When his mischief is not too serious, she grows extravagant with the extravagance characteristic of Americans.

"You do that again, and I'll kill you!" she cries. And it means just what he knows it means. If he keeps up his mischief, she attacks him with fury, and a mad chase ends in a rough and tumble wrestling match on the rug or the lawn or wherever he is overtaken.

Mrs. Claymore did no try to express swooning disgust, much as she felt it. She knew that she would only enhance evil by dramatizing it.

She took Tom's smutty words as if they were merely a smutty nose, unpleasant, not neat, not nice, not pretty, but nothing to be proud of or excited about. So they ceased to be fascinating.

She encouraged him to tell her the off color stories he heard and managed to find them simply rather stupid

"You say that again, and I'll [illegible] you down!" is one of her favorite expressions. It is not recommended in the Rollo books, but it has a cheerful sound somehow.

When he begins to frown or whine, she knits her brows and threatens: "Take off that pout or I'll knock it off!"

She helps him with his studies and makes them her own. The homework usually begins grimly in chairs. By and by he is rolling on the floor in agony crying:

"I can't learn it! My brain refuses to learn it!"

She insists, and before long goes to the mat with him, trying to force the unwelcome facts into his dyspeptic mind. And soon she is saying with a magniloquence that he loves:

"You will learn this lesson tonight or we both die together here!"

This is her line of talk. It will not be found in any book of etiquette or in any manual raising little imps into little cherubins. But the boy loves it and his home is a bit of the real world to him, a democracy where he lives a real life; not an artificial school where a couple of pretentious dubs try to overawe a child by hypocrisies that any child can penetrate at once, however much he may, in his turn, pretend to be deceived.

Too many children pay their parents a lip-service of respect and an imitation of deference and even of affection solely as we pay the government our income tax—because it is less trouble to pay it than to try to get out of paying it.

Too many children think of their homes as places of gloom or boredom where they get board and lodging in return for certain sacrifices. They seek their real happiness and their real love outside—and learn all the realities outside.

Tom Claymore's father is a busy man but he gives his boy a far bigger share of his life than most fathers do. Tom and his father are chums in a thousand manly ways.

But he does not find his mother a mere weak old lady who must be humored and petted and deceived for her own sake and for the sake of peace and freedom outside. He finds his mother the wittiest, liveliest, gayest, sanest, most irresistible, uncertain and fascinating person in the world.

He grows better and wiser and more tractable in the ways in which he ought to be tractable year by year; and a splendid manhood is increasingly indicated for him.

His mother in any case can know that if he does not succeed in being a great man, she has done her utmost to be a great mother, seeking tirelessly to adapt herself to his real spiritual and physical needs, and hunting for inspirations for the persuasion of his soul.

Other mothers with other children may find it wise to adopt other methods. But those are her methods.

great a cost it is not surprising that very little, if any such information is finding its way outside company offices. Considerable data concerning this territory is already on hand, however, particularly as to LaFayette county, as a considerable number of wildcats have been drilled along all the north side of the Louisiana state line since the Homer boom of 1919-20 which gave such an impetus to exploration throughout north Louisiana, east Texas and south Arkansas. Since the discovery of El Dorado in 1921 there has also been much prospecting throughout the southwest quarter of the state, though on never so large or well organized a scale as the Humble's campaign.

Dry or Water Wells.

While all the humble wells have been dry or water, there have been the usual shows common to all wells drilled in Shreveport territory and doubtless much valuable information has been accumulated on which to lay out a campaign for production whenever the Humble gets ready to go after it. On the other hand if the information be of the opposite sort, such as to warrant conviction that drilling for oil or gas in the locality covered is a useless waste of time and money. Only the future can show which.

In addition to the wells already drilled, Humble has a dozen or so others under way, scattered among the five counties embraced in the survey and locations for several others and meanwhile is drilling its leases in Smackover proven area and in Cotton Valley. The following is a list of the completions in this campaign giving a description of the well, date and depth of completion:

Heiress to Ten Million Is Back In U. S. With Fifth Husband, Adding New Chapter to 24-Year Romancing

Daughter of Edwin B. Crocker of San Francisco Picks Another Tall, Handsome Russian

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Aimee Crocker Gouraud, who inherited $10,000,000 from her father, Edwin B. Crocker of San Francisco, is back from Paris with another prince for her fifth husband. He is 25; she is 51.

Though they occupied separate suites on the Berengaria, Mrs. Gouraud admitted to immigration authorities that Prince Mistillaw Galatzins and she were married in Paris September 22 after a courtship of one month. Like Prince Alexander Misknikoff, whom she married in 1914 and divorced a year later, her new husband is Russian, tall and handsome. He has a pointed black moustache. The princess is five feet six and inclined to plumpness.

"I am exceedingly opposed to constrasts," she said, when they were asked to pose for a picture.

At the Waldorf they registered as Prince and Princess Galatazine. Two maids and a valet accompanied them. The prince said his ancestry went back into the Russian and Polish nobility.

Eloping with R. Porter Ashe, a horseman, as a girl the princess has been divorced from three husbands in 24 years. Her third, Jackson Gouraud, New York clubman, died. In Paris she has been known as the queen of pearls because of her lavish display and entertainment.

Her divorce from Prince Alexander attracted attention because it was hinted that the prince had fallen in love with Yvonne Gouraud, 16-year-old foster daughter of the princess. The princess said later:

"No more foreign titles for me."

She was sued for $100,000 in 1922 by Mrs. Bruno Schill of New York on a charge of alienation of the affections of Mr. Schill. The case has never been settled.

In Paris Count Ferri Pisani sued her for $900 salary as her confidential secretary. The princess countered that he was not her secretary, but a suitor and said she had bought all of his clothing. Her second husband was Henry F. Gillig, former commodore of the Larchmont Yacht club, who she divorced.

Sharks May Have Eaten Bodies of Crew Caught When S-51 Was Rammed

ABOARD U. S. S. CAMDEN OFF BLOCK ISLAND, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Operations of the rescue fleet off Block Island seeking to recover the bodies of the crew of the S-51 have been enlivened by the appearance of a school of shovel-nosed sharks ranging in length from six to eight feet. Sailors expressed the fear that the sharks may have consumed the bodies of some of the crew believed to have been swept overboard when the S-51 sank.

Four of the creatures swam about the Camden late yesterday.

ROUGH WATER HALTS WORK

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The entire fleet working under the direction of Rear Admiral H. H. Christy seeking to recover the bodies of the crew of the S-51 has suspended operations for the day because of rough weather and has been ordered to port, according to a wireless message intercepted here.

Nebraska 14; Illinois 0!

Nothing to get excited over. If you remember correctly, and surely you do, it was none other than so-called big green teams from the Cornhusker institution that walloped the famed fighting Micks of Notre Dame two years running when Rockne's four horsemen were supposed to be right at their height of gridiron supremacy. They have a habit of spilling the dope. The Illinois tackling Nebraska's big Swedes in the first game of the season weren't due to win, Red Grange's broken field dashing ability notwithstanding. Playing the Cornhuskers later in the season the story may have been different. Nebraska's eleven right now is going as good as it will at any stage of the current race. Such has always been the case with this club.

That the hard-fighting little Nocona club held Jim Reese's Electrans to a 7-7 tie score yesterday on the Electra grid indicates soft picking for Vernon and Wichita Falls may be the surmise of some. But don't believe it for a second. Reese has a club with potentialities, an eleven that was held under wraps yesterday just as we averred in these columns several days ago they would be. We also declared the score would be close.

DOC'S ALIBI

Doleful Doc Stewart's pre-game wails panned out as usual Saturday. Whenever Doc says his club has a hard task billed in the next conflict, and there's a great possibility of getting run over, in fact, all is lost right now, you can put it down as so much apple sauce. Doc's a wily one. He doesn't expect to lose a game, not a single one, but he builds his alibis ahead of time so if some cog should break and the Steers become upset, the pill won't be so bitter. Needless to announce, Texas slipped it on Mississippi, 25 to 0, yesterday.

On the whole, Coyote showing Saturday against the Altus eleven was more or less pleasing to followers of this, eleven, who are comparing its strength with that of Vernon, Electra and Quanah, teams the Pack must defeat before any advance toward state football honors can be made.

* * *

There were a number of errors of defense and offense displayed and one or two of omission, but that is to be expected this early in the season. The club waged a fighting brand of ball and at times performed in mid-season style. McCallum's youngsters showed just enough stuff yesterday to serve as a warning that the Coyote attack will be versatile, very muchly so this year.

* * *

That the Pack will be able to work a sweet running game both from punt and closed formation seems assured. Rowdy Curtin and Buck Steed showed themselves dangerous ball packers at wing skirting forays and in broken fields. They plunged off tackle for substantial advances, too.

MOORE SERIOUS MENACE

An open and running game is ever a menace, but in Dempsey Moore, McCallum has uncovered a back that can polugh the forward defense and carry half the line several yards along with him. If the Coyote mentor can improve his front wall sufficiently between now and the date of the conference opener two weeks hence to bring unison of charge, and more speed on the jump the advantage which will result will make it well nigh impossible for any team in this section to halt Moore inside of four yards past the line of scrimmage.

MEAN TACKLE

Moore hasn't been looking so good in practice sessions, but yesterday he proved himself a power on defense. Playing at full, it was greatly through the fierce tackling of this husky back that Altus did not gain so much over the Wichita Falls line or tackle.

* * *

Moore, it was who made it possible for the scoring of the second Coyote touchdown. Steed took a punt on the first hop about midfield. An Altus wingman was bearing down on him just as he reached for the ball, but a split second before the tackle could be made, Moore dived in and dumped the would-be tackler. This gave Buck the necessary time in which to recover and break away on a pretty dash through a mottled field to the goal line.

WEAK AERIAL DEFENSE

Wichita Falls defense against an aerial attack was poor. Placed against a team efficient with an overhead game the Coyotes would have been trampled all over the lot. Time and again Altus ends and backs romped out into an open field with no Wichita Falls man within yards of them. Had the Oklahomans been a bit more adept at snatching the oval (a number of crip passes were muffed), the home crew would have been left flatfooted holding the burlap.

Incidentally, Jim Reese of Electra is working away hard in effort to develop an effective passing game for that opener here with the Coyotes, October 17.

LIGHTWEIGHT TOURNEY

Matchmaker Ross plans an innoration for Wichita Falls wrestling, beginning with the card of October 13. Wichita Falls is to sponsor a real mat tournament. It's to be a lightweight championship meet with championship belt valued at $500 to go to the victor. Any and all lightweights are invited to participate.

* * *

Jack Fisher is recognized in some sections as lightweight mat champ. He's entered in the tourney with the rest of the gang with no rating as a titleholder. Jack Gorman and Johnny Hatfield are coming in, also, according to Ross.

The first elimination match is to be staged as a feature of a double windup card slated October 13. Matty Matsuda and Jim Brown, the Chicagoan, clash in a welterweight finish go. The lightweight contest is to be between Young Gotch of Dallas and Scotty McKay of Winnipeg, Canada.

* * *

The tournament is open to any lightweight wrestler in the world. The matches are to be held weekly, is the present plan, working right through to the finals some time late this fall or early winter. The tourney is to be run along the same lines of Tex Rickard's 1924 middleweight wrestling meet, conducted under Police Gazette rules, two falls to a finish.

BROKEN FIELD RUNNING BY STEED AND CURTIS LEAD TO DOWNFALL OF OKLAHOMANS

Moore Plays Smashing Game At Fullback While Wainscott Tears 'Em Up At Tackle

Coyote stock mounted higher Saturday afternoon when the Wichita Falls youngsters, playing a progressive brand of ball and taking advantage of the breaks, downed the speedy Altus high school eleven, 19 to 7, on the Fairpark grid.

Although playing erratically at stages, the Coyotes on the whole performed in surprisingly good manner considering the earliness of the contest which, incidentally goes into the records more or less as a practice affair, being a non-conference tilt.

Wichita Falls used straight grid tactics almost all the way, slipping off tackle, around end and plunging the line.

Dempsey Moore, Coyote fullback, ploughed the line terrifically, proved a power in the interference, and stopped an average of seven out of ten punches at the Coyote first defense by the Altus backs. The tackling of this youngster was hard and sure.

Captain Rowdy Curtin, Wichita Falls halfback, was a consistent ground gainer on off tackle plays and end runs.

Buck Steed, the other half, got away for a number of long runs.

Wainscott in There.

Swede Wainscott, tackle, played a great game both on defense and offensive. Wainscott broke through on defense several time sto toss Altus backs for losses.

Hyde, Altus quarter, was the most consistente pigskin packer for the visitors. He plunged the line nicely, and received several forward passes for goodly advances.

Bailey, halfback, did quite a bit of good passing, but was not supported very well o nthe receiving end of the flings.

The Coyotes have no game billed for this week, and it depends on how bruised the club turns out to be Monday following the Altus go whether or not McCallum matches a contest. It is very probable a game will be played but whether or not it will be of the light practice nature or a stiff contest has not been decided.

McCallum said yesterday that he could match a contest wit hthe T. C. U. Pollywogs, freshman eleven, if he so desired, but wasn't sure whether or not he wanted to shove his club into such a tough affray as this game no doubt would prove to be.

Tank Horton, halfback, for one will be out of the game for several days due to a scalp injury received yesterday when stepped on by an Altus player. Horton was taken from the game with blood running down his face, but was sent back into the scrap later after being bandaged up.

A fumble by Altus on its 15-yard line in the first quarter which was recovered by Powell, Coyote quarter, led to the first score. Hodges went over right tackle five yards. Curtin went off left tackle on a fake play for three more. He followed through center on the next play for two yards. The Coyotes then carried through for the touchdown with Curtin again packing the ball. Goal for point was missed.

On the first play in the second quarter, Altus, backed almost on its goal, punted to Steed, who received on the 50-yard line and raced through the entire Oklahoma club to the goal. Again try for point after touchdown failed.

Midway in the second period, Wichita Falls kicked from its own goal and Altus was down on the 25-yard line. Three successive plunges advanced netted eight yard, and then Bailey, Altus left half, uncorked a pass to Hyde, quarter, who ran five yards further for a touchdown. Reid drop-kicked goal for point after touchdown.

The final Coyote score was made in the last quarter on a blocked punt. Altus kicked from the 10-yard line, and the Coyote forward wall swarmed in knocking the ball across into the end zone. Horton covered the ball. Point after touchdown was made on a pass, Curtin to Steed.

Rain Delays Golf Meet for Women

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Rain in torrents today prevented decision of the woman's national golf championship at the St. Louis Country club where the international affray was to have been played by Mrs. Alexa Stirling Frazr of Ottawa, Canada, and Glenna Collette of Providence. The greens on several holes were flooded so that the ball could not be placed anywhere to get a putt clear of casual water, and officers of the United States Golf association put over the 36 hole finals until Sunday.

This is the first time in American golf that the finals have been postponed and one such delay is recalled in Great Britain.

SELENADO FIRST

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Senelado won the Havre De Grace handicap $15,000 added for three-year-olds and up this afternoon. Primrose was second and Big Blaze third. Time for the mile and a furlough 1:52 4-5.

BOB CATS PLAY QUANAH MEN TO SCORELESS TIE

Slow, Pepless Game Is Staged on Childress Grid

CHILDRESS, Oct. 3.—The Childress Bob Cats and Quanah Indians played a scoreless tie here this afternoon in a slow, pepless game. It was the first game of the season for Childress. Throughout most of the game the teams battled in the center of the field except in the last few seconds when the Bob Cats staged a drive down the field and were within eight yards of the goal line when time was called. The Bob Cats gained through the line and made a few gains around the ends but fumbles in the first half game gave the Indians an even break. Quanah made only one first down during the game.

Lyons, Old Baylor Star, Wins for Sox

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Chicago made it two straight over Cleveland today by defeating the visitors 9 to 2. The locals hunched their hits, one big rally in the fifth inning giving them a commanding lead which was never endangered because of the good pitching of Ted Lyons, former Baylor university, Waco, Tex., who allowed only seven hits, and registered his twenty-first victory of the season.

HENRIETTA AND OLNEY BATTLE TO 6 - 6 SCORE

West, Olney Tackle, Grabs Henrietta Pass For Touchdown

Coach Sullivant's Henrietta eleven fought Hill's Olney grid machine to a 7-7 tie Saturday afternoon on the Olney gridiron. Both teams played straight football most of the way but to resorted to an aerial game late in the contest.

Roy West, Olney's tackle, accounted for his team's touchdown. Besides playing a great game throughout, he intercepted a forward pass in midfield during the fuorth quarter and ran 50 yards to the goal.

The Henrietta score came as the result of a forward pass.

A COUPLE OF HOMERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel of the Yankees hit successive home runs in the fifth inning of today's game with the Athletics. It was Ruth's 25th circuit clout of the year and Meusel's 33rd.

Centenary Halts Howard Payne And Wins Game, 20 to 0

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 3.—(AP)—After being outplayed in the first two minutes of the game when Howard Payne scored, four consecutive first tdowns on line plays that brought the ball to the five yard line, the Centenary Gentlemen braced and turned the tide in their favor to win by a score of 20 to 0.

Taking the ball on his five-yard line York punted out of the danger zone but Howard Payne's safety man missed the oval and Woods picked it up and ran 35 yards for a touchdown. In the second quarter York kicked two placements, one for 35 yards and another for 42, and White added to the score when he bucked the line 5 yards for a touchdown. The last half was a punting duel with York having the better of the exchanges. Exceedingly hot weather made play slow.

New Era of White Hopes Making Debut

Lumber Jacks of North Woods Break Out With Title Aspirations

By ROBERT EDGREN

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Met the Tin Eared Sport again yesterday.

"Say, listen," said he, "have you noticed the return of the White Hopes?"

"How's that?"

"Why, I just came down from a hunting trip in the northern woods. On the level, the camps are running out of lumber jacks. Every rough, strong guy in the great open spaces has gone to town somewhere to get a manager and train to take Dempsey's job as heavyweight champion. They used to say 'the woods are full of 'em.' But you go through the woods anywhere today and six-foot loggers are scarcer than bull moose on Long Island. When I got down to tidewater, at a little town there, I found a local gymnasium open day and night and eight—count 'em—eight big battling behemoths who didn't know a boxing glove from a saucepan working with coaches and sparring partners and watching each other for fear one of the bunch might jump out and get a crack at Dempsey's title ahead of the gang.

There ain't no cooks up in the lumber country no more neither. They're all managing fighters and expecting to make Jack Kearns look like a piker and all sending telegrams collect to Tex Rickard telling Tex they've got the greatest heavyweight the world ever saw, under cover and nearly ready to be sprung on Dempsey or Wills and get Dempsey if possible because this new guy is six foot six and weighs a quarter of a ton and can break axe handles with his fingers.

Since Lonnie Austin slipped Big Bill McKinnon out of a camp up in British Columbia and took him down to Seattle to teach him how to step out with his left foot and swing his right without hitting the rafters all the managers of little fighters have closed up shop and gone to the woods armed with contracts and powers of attorney and measuring tapes. Honest—they give me the best laugh I've had in 14 years."

"I suppose you didn't bring any big logger out of the woods with you when you came down," I suggested.

The Tin Eared Sport turned red around the gills and choked a couple of times before he answered.

"Now listen," he said. "Listen. Let me explain. I did bring a guy down with me, but this is different. You ought to see this buy. He's near seven feet tall and he eats with his knife and he's bigger than Jess Willard and tougher than Bat Nelson. Why, when I found him he was sitting on a log with his hands in his pockets letting anybody sock him on the jaw for two bits a sock. He had all the loose silver in camp and all the rest of the buys had skinned knuckles. I've got him down here now training back of a barber shop and every time he swings on one of the boys the seismograph at Harvard university records a new earthquake in Brazil."

"I suppose you'll be sending him after Dempsey before Christmas," I said.

"Who? Me?" chuckled the Tin Eared Sport. "I've got that game beat. I'm training this buy to get him good enough to take the rest of these battling loggers when their managers bring 'em out of the woods. I figure he can keep busy fighting every week for the next year and not run out of work. That's where the real money's going to be."

"In a year he might have enough experience to fight Dempsey."

"He might—at that," said the Tin Eared Sport, "and if I'm tired of having him around by that time I'll give him a chance."

The scramble for heavyweights all over the country just now is due to a popular demand for a little variety. For three years there has been a lot of talk about a Dempsey-Wills battle—and little but talk. If some new heavyweight could fight his way to the front and provide real action he could earn a mint of money, whether he ever reached the championship or not, and all the managers of little fighters know it.

The threat of Wills and the lesser threat of Godfrey, who has been touring the west knocking out second rate white heavies and all the dusky fighters who can be hauled into a ring with him have given almost a "white hope" aspect to the new heavyweight crop. There's no need of a "white hope" if Dempsey is going on fighting, but Dempsey's affairs have been so muddled that no one knows exactly what he will do. If Demmsey dropped out there would be a ballyhoo for Wills as champion, and the ballyhoo would come very near carrying him into the title although as a plain matter of fact Wills never has done any fighting in the ring that proves him a champion in ability.

In the coming year or so the country will be searched for white heavyweights. And you never can tell—someone may find another Jim Jeffries or a new and younger Jack Dempsey. There are thousands of men who might rival them, with training and experience.

The White Hope craze of 1910 and following years is still remembered. It provided more interesting fighting than the heavyweight class ever knew before or has known since. It started the evening of July 4th, 1910, when the country was stunned by news of the defeat of Jeffries at Reno and the crowning of Jack Johnson as king of the heavyweights.

That evening a young teamster in Oklahoma heard the news, quit his job, went to the nearest town and started as a "White Hope" determined to become a fighter and knock Johnson out. This was Jess Willard, and five years later Willard after a fairly successful campaign among the White Hopes, met Johnson at Havana and turned the trick by knocking Johnson out in the twenty-sixth round.

But there were many other White Hopes. One of the first was Carl Morris, the Oklahoma Giant. Morris served in the Phillippints when only sixteen, and knew something about fighting. He was a locomotive engineer years later when he started on Johnson's trail, a huge, powerful, well built fellow 6 feet 4 and weighting 235 pounds. A rich Oklahoma oil man took Morris to New York after a few fights and matched him with Jim Flynn as a starter. Jim Flynn gave Morris a terrific beating but could not knock him out or even discourage him. Morris spent a little time in a hospital having a broken jaw fixed up, then went right on fighting. He became a prominent "White Hope," knocked out a lot of other heavies, but never did have the speed needed to become a champion. His specialty was flattening the rival hopes, and he put many of them away.

One of the classiest looking White Hopes was Al Reich, a famous amateur shot-putter who took up fighting. Reich went through the amateurs like a load of buckshot and in his first professional fight cleaned up Sailor White, a wild man with a wallop. Then his eager manager made a mistake and sent him against the experienced Morris, who knocked Reich so cold in the second round that Reich never did fight with much confidence afterward.

Most spectacular of the White Hopes was big Al Palzer of Minnesota, developed in a White Hope tournament held by Tom O'Rourke in New York. Palzer was six feet three and a half inches tall, weighted over 200 pounds, was grandly built and has the chin and map of a fighter, if any fighter ever had. He knew nothing about backing up, and had a ferocity in conflict almost like Jack Dempsey's, Billy Delaney, former manager of Jim Jefferies, brought east by Al Kaufman his White Hope, touted as a sure successor to the title. Palzer nearly tore Kaufman apart in a furious fight that went only five rounds. And Kaufman was a real fighter with a wicked punch. He had knocked out Sam Berger, Jack Sullivan, George Gardner, Mike Schreck, Battling Johnson, Jim Flynn and a score of other well known heavyweights of the time.

AL PALZER KNOCKED OUT BOMBARDIER WELLS OF ENGLAND IN THE MOST SENSATIONAL OF ALL WHITE HOPE BATTLES.

Luther McCarty The Best of The Lot.

Later England sent Bombardier Wells over as a White Hope, to get a match with Johnson. Wells was a wonderful boxer and a great hitter, but fragile around the ribs. He murdered Palzer for two rounds, knocked the giant down repeatedly, and looked a sure winner when Palzer rushed in and swung a savage hook into the Bombardier's body and broke him in two. Poor Al died a hard death. Visiting his home he was shot by his own father, who was on a drunken rampage.

Fred Fulton, the long plasterer, appeared in 1913 with a string of knockouts, most of them in from one to three rounds. He went along in great shape until knocked out by Al Palzer and did some good fighting for three or four years afterward until he was whipped a few times and took to faking instead of fighting. Fulton had the physical equipment of a great fighter, but no heart. If he started winning nothing could stop him, but when a couple of hard punches shook his confidence he became the fiercest diver in the business. Fred could drape his six and half feet on the floor in a dozen different ways.

There was one corking fighter in the White Hope bunch—Luther McCarty. Luther had Indian blood in his veins, and Scotch and Irish, and he knew no fear? He was six feet four and weighted 205 pounds, and he could put it all into a punch. Luther knocked out Joe Grim, the Philadelphia iron man. He knocked out fourteen men his first twenty fights, and one of them was Carl Morris, in six rounds. He fought Jess Willard ten rounds, no decision. He knocked out Al Palzer in 18 rounds at Vernon, Cal. Al Kaufman in 2 rounds, Jim Flynn in 16, a lot of others in a round or two. McCarty claimed the heavyweight title, and many regarded him as champion. He died in a peculiar way. Diving in the tank at the University of Pennsylvania, he struck the bottom and injured his neck. Only a week later he fought Arthur Pelkey, a fairly good heavyweight, at Calgary, Alberta, going in without any training. As they came together Pelkey struck a light right hand blow and McCarty fell at full length and died a few minutes later. The autopsy showed a fractured vertebra. A curious thing was that two thirds of the break was about a week old, as reported by one of the examining physicians. Luther had gone into the ring and had fought with a broken neck. Pelky was exonerated of all blame for the accident. But the affair broke his nerve, and he also dropped out of sight as a white hope.

Tommy Burns tried to make Jack Lester a white hope. Burns had lost the title to Johnson in Australia, before Johnson had fought Jefferies. Lester clouted a few before he was knocked out by Sam Langford.

Then there was Gunboat Smith, a 175 pounder who developed the greatest punch of his day and put up some extremely sensational fights. The Gunner was a lean, wiry fellow and dbegan boxing while in the Navy. His specialty was a downward curving hook that landed just above the victim's left ear and was scientifically described as the "occipital punch." With this punch Gunboat knocked out nearly all the best heavyweights of the White Hope era. He flattened Charlie Miller in a round, Mexican Pete Everett in 2, Bombardier Wells in 2, Jim Flynn in 5, George Godfrey in 2, Jim Savage in 3, Jim Stewart in 7, and took decisions over Sam Langford in 12 and Jess Willard and Frank Moran in 20 rounds each. In the Willard fight Gunboat hit the giant so hard in an early round that Willard tincanned for the rest of the distance.

Frank Moran with his "Mary Ann" punch was a rugged battler but he never did learn how to use anything but that swinging right. He had a chance with Johnson in Paris and lost a decision. There were many more "Hopes," but most of them hopes in name only. However, the woods are still full of them, and the modern gold rush led by Big Bill McKinnon may bring out some big fellows who can fight.

JONNARD CUTS TO $100 SLICE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 3.—The Panthers divided their $21,487 share in the Dixie series and the pennant fund Saturday.

All of the players on the team received a full share except Gus Foreman, pitcher, bought late in the season.

Each player received $1,621.12. This is the largest individual share received by the Cat players in the history of the series. Foreman received $300. Jonnard, Wichita Falls catcher, borrowed for use in the Dixie series after Possum Moore was injured was cut in for $100.

Ed Hughes' Column

EDERLE'S CHANNEL TRY DOESN'T RIVAL MME. SION'S

The failure of Miss Gertrude Ederle to swim the English Channel has probably churned up more printed and spoken comment than any other attempt successful or otherwise, in the history of channel swimmink. Whole columns were printed in foreign and American papers reciting the effort at the time it was made. The explanation of this is not so difficult. So much had been made of Miss Ederi's chances by her American friends that Europeans in general were brought to the belief that at last a woman was about to achieve the exploit of being the first of her sex to swim the "big ditch." Hence the staggering amount of publicity given the thing from the first.

That such an expectation was practically general, or at last that Miss Ederle's chances were considered better than those of any woman that had heretofore essayed the job, was made plain following the attempt made by Mme. Sion. The French woman made the best showing for her sex in all the history of channel swimming. She came within a mile and a half of victory and then was forced to abandon her struggle. Yet scarcely any mention of the magnificent near-triumph was made in either European or American journals Astonishing as it may seem, even the Paris prints accorded but a few perfunctory paragraphs to Mme. Sion's endeavor.

NO SURPRISE.

Miss Ederle's failure was no surprise to those who appreciate the manifold hardships which attended the task. But there must have been ample chagrin even abroad when the news of her defeat was announced. The impression that she would be the first woman to breast the treacherous channel waters grew from the first day she landed in England. Lloyd's of London promptly set the odds at 20-1 that the powerful young American girl would not make good Lloyd's tune changed considerably by the time the ambitious young mermaid took the water on the French side. The odds had been pruned down to 5-1, and it wasn't all American enthusiasm backed by pelf that brought the reduction in price.

That the importance of the whole stunt has been grossly exaggerated is now patent to most everyone. At the time much was made of the sporty disposition of the young girl in attempting the trial, merely to discover whether her extraordinary capabilities could surmount the obstacles which abound in the channel. Now that she has failed one realizes that Miss Ederle and her supporters looked upon the business in a more serious light.

CONSIDERABLE COMMENT OVER DEFEAT.

Miss Ederle has not accepted her reverse gracefully if one may judge from the complaints, excuse and general illhumor which is still being aired in the press. Neither for that matter has the Women's Swimming association of New York which defrayed the expenses of the trip. Gertrude has charged that her trainer Jabez Wolfe was in league with the channel to beat her. According to the girl, Wolfe, who was paid trainer ($50 a week) deliberate—had her hauled from the water when she could have swam on and perhaps, ultimately, have succeeded. The charge, curiously enough, was not made until Miss Ederle reached this side and got in touch with W. S. A. officials. The natural conclusion is that the W. S. A. is considerably disappointed at the result of the venture. Had Miss Ederle succeeded the expenses of the trip would have more than been countermanded by the fame which the club would have gained in having as one of its members, the first woman to swim the English channel. But Miss Ederle failed and this aroused a feeling of bitterness amongst the association officials.

HELMAY HACKS UP WOLFE.

The outcome of Miss Ederle's trip inflicted no small measure of chagrin throughout the W. S. A., as this writer learned only a few days ago. In a talk wit hthis writer one of the association's chief executive were laid bare her whole feelings in the matter. She blamed Wolfe for Miss Ederi's failure. When reminded that newspapermen aboard the boat accompanying the swimmer agreed in their reports that the girl was fairly beaten by the rough waters and that Miss Ederle was in a state of semi-collapse the officials merely answered:

"All the newspapermen abroad the boat were sea-sick." She also disparaged the nearer to successful attempt of the French woman, Mme. Sion, who it was unanimously reported struggled to within a mile and a half of her destination.

"Mme. Sion really didn't come as close as that," she argued. "Mme. Sion made the trip practically alone so that her claims of coming so close to winning are indeed hard to substantiate."

* * * *

Miss Ederle has evidently been instructed to keep mum on the subject until the W. S. A. prepares an official protest of her treatment abroad. Nevertheless now and then she has voiced her belated complaints. These protests, by the way, differ widely wit hthe newspaper reports of her condition when she was forced aboard the boat practically in a state of collapse.

Also with some "good loser" remarks which were attributed to her when she had recovered from the effects of her nine hours mauling by the angry channel brine.

She claims that Wolfe, in a fit of jealousy, or something else, ordered her drawn from the water when she was able to continue, received a rude dent the other day. Helmay, the Egyptian swimmer, was the individual who rescued her after Wolfe had shouted his order from the tug "Grab her!" The Egyptian if the papers are to be believed, was a good friend of the girl's.

Entering the controversy, the Egyptian now rises to state that Wolfe did right in so ordering him, and that Miss Ederle was in no fit condition to continue the channel fight.

Helmay's statement just about disposes of the girl's and the W. S. A.'s petty, unsportsmanlike remarks that Miss Ederle was "jobbed" by her foreign trainers.

The welter of international wrangling, back biting and publicity-seeking which has grown out of something which once had the earmarks of a sporting proposition must be a sad blow to the sentimentalists who are forever prating about women's refining new found importance in the realm of athletics.

Chick Evans Wins Over Al Espinosa

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Charles "Chick" Evans of Chicago shot with such consistent precision and Al Espinosa, his closest opponent with such failing skill here today that Evans won the Kansas City open golf tournament by a margin of four points. Evans shot 283 for the 72 holes of the two days of play and Espinosa, who led until this afternoon, shot 287.

Walter Hagen of Pasadena, Fla., professional champion, turned in 288; Ed. Dudley of Joplin, Mo., 289 and Bobbie Cruickshank of Oklahoma City 290.

NOCONA INVADES TIGER LIAR AND SCRAPS JIM'S ELECTRA MOLESKINNERS TO 7-7 SCORE

Crites Scoops Fumble and Dashes 98 Yards to Goal—Trammil and Coolidge Show

ELECTRA, Oct. 3.—Jim Reese's Electra Tigers and the Nocona football team battled to a 7-7 tie here this afternoon on the local gridiron. Reese used a number of substitute players.

Both teams fought valiantly for the contest, but a fumble by Kent on the visitors' two-yard line proved disastrous as Crites, speedy back of the visitors, recovered the oval and dashed 98 yards for a touchdown.

The feature of the clash was the offensive work of Trammill and Coolidge for the locals. Trammill circled the invader's ends for many long gains, one for 60 yards. He also played a good defensive game. Coolidge, playing his first game in the backfield played an excellent game reeling off one gain of 27 yards and going oer on the next play for the Tiger's touchdown. He went through the invading line for numerous other gains.

E. Crites of the visiting eleven also played a good offensive game. Gilger of the locals played a bang up game at guard.

The Tigers had numerous chances to score but fumbles proved costly in many instances.

The line-up:

Electra	Positions	Nocona
	Positions
Coolidge		Lindenlof
	Fullback
Lebus		Covington
	Left Half
Trammill		Maddox
	Right Half
Moore		E. Crites
	Quarter
Kent		H. Crites
	Right End
Aven		Williamson
	Right Tackle
Vrewer-Smith		Storey
	Right Guard
Carnahan		Benton
	Center
Gilger		Cooper
	Left Guard
Sargent		Russell
	Right Tackle
	Right End

Touchdowns—Coolidge, E. Crites. Goal after touchdown—Maddox, Moore. Substitutions—Buzz Smith for Kent, Kent for Lebus, Peoples for Brewer, Turner for Sargent, Sims for Peoples, Wright for Buzz Smith, Brewer for Sims, Cape for Cooper, Wood for Lendenlof, Gritty for Covington, Knox for Storey, Cline for Clark, Covington for Cline, Griffin for Crites. Referee—Hemphill; Umpire, Underwood, head linesman, Van Hoove.

ABILENE TEAM TRAMPLED ON BY MUSTANGS

S. M. U. Defeats Christian College Club 52 to 7, Using 3 Squads

DALLAS, Oct. 3.—(AP).—Southern Methodist university defeated Abilene Christian college 52 to 7 today, Coach Morrison using three entire squads against the Christians.

The second string men who started for S. M. U., made a touchdown early in the first quarter but Ingram failed to kick goal. Abilene took the ball at that point, however, and by good playing made a touchdown and kicked goal.

Hill intercepted a pass from Mann and made a good return. Two line plunges by Beale netted five yards. Beale skirted right end for a yard. Powell passed to Adams 10 yards for first down on the S. M. U. yard line. Stevens made four yards on a cross buck. Beale gained a yard through the line and Powell passed to Stevens for the touchdown. Kerr kicked goal.

Craig Carries Ball.

With the score 7 to 0 in favor of Abilene at the end of the first quarter, the S. M. U. second string men were desperate and ripped their way down the field, Craig carrying the ball most of the time. Mann made a good gain, fumbled and Red Crown recovered for S. M. U. Mann, Craig and Jones each made short gains and Jones bucked through right tackle for a touchdown. Ingram drop kicked goal.

The S. M. U. first team then went in and swept through the Abilene line and around the ends with little trouble now and then negotiating a long pass. Visor scored a touchdown but failed to kick goal. Cortemeglia took the ball over and Bishop kicked goal, making the score 26 to 7 in S. M. U.'s favor at the end of the half.

Third Team Goes In.

Morrison sent in his third string men at the start of the third quarter and neither side scored. The first string went in again for the final quarter, when Cortemeglia made two more touchdowns, Dawson three and Mann one.

Score by quarters:

S. M. U.	6	20	0	26
A. C. C.	7	0	0	0

The line-up;

S. M. U.	Position	A. C. C.
Van Winkle	Center	Hill
Burklee	Right Guard	G. Brown
Tatum	Right Tackle	Roberts
Key	Right End	Smith
Ingram	Quarterback	Adams
Wilkerson	Left Half	Beale
Craig	Right Half	Stevens
Mann	Fullback	Powell

Substitutes: S. M. U., First string, consisting of Parks and Dawson, ends; Magness and R. L. Watters, tackles; Vaughan and C. Watters, guards; Ford, center; Roy Bishop, quarterback; Wade and Cartemeglia, halfbacks; Visor, fullback. Third string, consisting of Hudgis and Stainback, ends; Hickerson and Marshall, tackles; Woodul and Phills, guards; Thompson, center; Ingram, quarterback; Kimbrough and Wilkerson, halfbacks; Tatum, fullback. Other S. M. U. substitutes getting into the game; Jones, halfback; Germany, tackle.

A. C. C., Kinley, C. Brown and Thomas.

LaFayette Repeats Pittsburgh Win

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Duplicating its feat of last season, much to the surprise of close followers of the game, LaFayette college this afternoon scored a 20 to 9 victory over the University of Pittsburgh gridders.

Not once did the Panthers cross the LaFayette line, the nine points for Pittsburgh being field goals.

Giants Are Saved From a Shut Out

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A home run by George Kelly saved the Giants from a shut out in the first game with the Phillies today, the latter winning, 8 to 1. The Giants were unable to hit Carlson consistently, while the Phillies collected 10 off the delivery of Virgil Barnes. One of these was a home run by Cy Williams.

50,000 SEE GAME

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—(AP).—Pennsylvania defeated Swarthmore today 26 to 13 before more than 50,000 persons.

CUBS BUNCH ON CARDS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Chicago bunched hits today and defeated St. Louis 7 to 5 in the second game of the final series here. Despite their victory, the Cubs went into a tie for last place with the Phillies who won a double header from New York today. Blake pitched steady game, the visitors being able bunch hits in only two innings.

Texas Tech Grid Men Tie in First Game in History

LUBBOCK, Texas, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Tech college Matadors, playing their first game in history, were held to a scoreless tie here today by the McMurry college Indians, when the time keeper's whistle halted the battle as the ball was snapped for what proved to be a perfect field goal from the toe of Archibald on the 35-yard line.

McMurry was kept on the defensive all the way except in the third quarter when they opened up an air attack that gained a little but proved short lived. Tech showed a total gain in the game of 222 yards and a loss of 33 while McMurry gained but 96 and lost 20.

Coach Freeland, of the Matadors, sent in a new squad, with the exception of two men at the opening of the second half and this squad proved practically as effective against the Indians as the former. They opened a heavy line attack that threatened to smash the Abilene defense, but the Indians realized and punts were sent back and forth freely in the defensive battle.

Tech opened an air attack that for a time baffled the Indians toward the latter stages of the last quarter, drawing within striking distance, but to no avail.

TIGERS GO TO BURK SATURDAY

Ludgate's speedy Burkburnett eleven played no game the past week but worked fairly lightly on signals and fundamentals. The club will take a workout at 8 o'clock Monday morning, according to the coach, as the starting preparation for the Electra game Saturday. Reese and his Electra Tigers played Nocona to a 7-7 tie yesterday at Electra in the first game of the year for the Tigers. The Saturday tilt is to be staged in Burkburnett at 3 o'clock.

Northwestern U Defeats Dakotans

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Northwestern university showed to good advantage in her first game of the season today, defeating the University of South Dakota 14 to 7. Northwestern's outstanding star, Ralph Baker, was on the side lines with a bad ankle, but substituteLeland (Tiny) Bewis, a sophomore playing his first game, shone brilliantly in his stead.

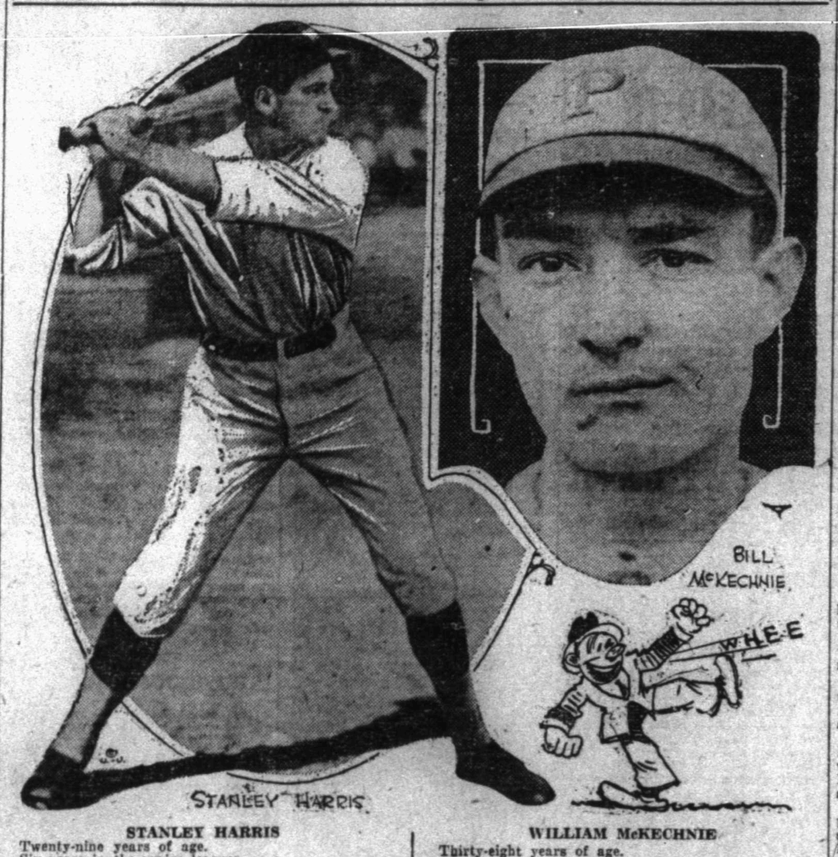

Drake Bulldogs Beat Washington

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Unloosing a fierce attack in the final period, Drake university's Bull Dogs defeated Washington university's rejuvenated football team, 6 to 0 in the opening battle of the season here today.

FUNDAMENTALIST VERSUS MODERNIST

They Match Their Wits in Impending World's Series

STANLEY HARRIS

Twenty-nine years of age.
Six years in the major leagues.
All that time with Washington.
Manager of that team since January, 1924.
Second baseman most of career.
Ranks as one of greatest second basemen in the game.
Is the pivot man in the greatest double player combination in baseball.
Is the "spark plug" of his club.
Is not normally a .300 hitter but known as a dangerous and timely hitter. Hit .333 in last year's world's series.
Is speedy base runner.
As a manager has already won fame as a master strategist and a daring leader. Is credited with outgeneraling the Master Mind, McGraw, in the 1924 series.
Normally rules with good fellowship and light hand. Does not hesitate to fine offending players real money, however, when disobedience or laxity become serious.

WILLIAM McKECHNIE

Thirty-eight years of age.
Signed with major league club (Pittsburg) for first time, 1907.
Played with or at least was the property of Canton, Wheeling, St. Paul, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh and Minneapolis before becoming manager of Pirates.
Joined Pirates April, 1922.
Manager of that team since July, 1922.
Played shortstop and third base during most of career.
Known as a heady, earnest player.
Was timely hitter.
As manager employs under normal conditions a "fundamental" game. Of recent weeks, however, has seemed to introduce a more elastic style of play.
Main asset as a leader is his ability to weed out troublemakers and shirkers and mold material at hand into harmonious club.

About the World Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Salient facts and figures in relation to the 1925 world's series follow:

Contending teams: Washington (American league and world's champions) and Pittsburgh (National league champions).

Schedule: October 7-8, Forbes Field, Pittsburgh; October 9-10-11, Griffith Stadium, Washington; October 12-13, Forbes Field, Pittsburgh. In case of postponement, game for that day will be played in the same city the following day.

Capacity of fields—Forbes Field 40,000; Griffith Stadium 38,000.

Prices—Ranging from $1.10 for bleachers to $6.60 for box seats.

Team managers—Stanly Harris, Washington; William McKechnie, Pittsburgh.

Division of receipts—Fifteen per cent of gross to advisory council, sixty per cent of first four games to players (70% of this is to contending players on 60-40 basis—remainder to be divided among players of first division teams in each league). Remainder of gross to clubs which turn over fifty per cent of their share to leagues for distribution among the other clubs.

Umpires—Rigler and McCormick, aNtional league; Morarity and Owens, American league.

Time of games—Two o'clock eastern standard time, both cities.

The PASSING HOUR

by Wm. B. Ruggles

THE TEAM

(The air of course is the late Mr. Charles Lever's.)

The halfback leads a merry life—
He gets the praise that's in the strife—
He gets the plaudits of each dame
And all the headlines print his name.

But when the halfback crashes through,
He's tackled by an end or two—
They grind him in the dust and mud
And try to drown him in his blood.

I think a center I would be
Who snaps the ball in manner free,
And once that leather sphere is flung
Pursues his way—unwept, unsung.

But when the team is on defense—
The center's job becomes immense—
At some time in the rushing game,
Each player sits upon his frame.

So when the headlines come to me,
I think the halfback I would be;
And when they're smashing in his map,
I'd rather be the center chap.

BY KNOCKING out Bartley Maddeu, Tunney established himself as the foremost contender for Dempsey's title.—A. P. Who knocked out Harry Wills?

PERHAPS the Senegambian Shadow has been waiting so long they have forgotten he is part of the line.

The Difference.

YOUNG HARRY COOPER, who went to the semi-finals in the PGA championship at Chicago, before Walter Hagen eliminated him, may be an open champion one of these days, but he represents a peculiar phase of the professional end of golf.

Originally, a golfer became a professional because he undertook to teach the game. Young Harry Cooper has never really been an amateur. Educated to the links by his father, Syd Cooper, a really fine golf instructor, Cooper graduated from knickerbockers to the pro class by the simple device of becoming an assistant to his father. Subsequently, while in his teens, he has been the pro for various clubs over the state and today he holds a technical pro place with a Dallas club.

But he is pre-eminently a golf player, and has never yet earned his spurs as a teacher of his chosen sport.

As a matter of fact, if Harry Cooper had been born with the proverbial silver spoon in his mouth, he would be one of those young men who make up the army of entries at amateur championships and who play because they love it better than anything else.

As a professional the young Angle-Texan is in the unlucky predicament of never having won a big enough fixture to qualify for a gravy job on the links, but to have the other characteristics of the Hagens and Sarazens who play a lot and teach little.

BAYLOR now has the rest of the fall to find out whether they hadn't go started or Knute Rockne had.

AND YOU have to admit that brother Bridges' selection of a game for the practice position is open to question.

Laying the Predicate.

A GOOD many years back, Scotty Israel, then writing sports in San Antonio, got the best of a slight fistic argument with Ham Metz, a ponderous first sacker. The rest of the year Scotty used to write about how good Ham was.

"Sure," said George Leddy, who was managing the club, "he isn't going to let anybody believe he licked a dub."

Something of the same thing comes to mind in view of Notre Dame's score with Baylor Saturday. Folks around here of course are inclined quite justly to think well of the Bears. But Rockne spread a good deal of advance publicity around other sections on how good Baylor would be.

Notre Dame was not meeting any other conference teams. It was meeting Baylor.

JOHNNY DUNDEE once said the featherweight title was a liability, not an asset. And now they will not let him bill himself as the champion.

IN ONE MORE week, the big cut in grid squads will cut off the surprised young men who have been acting as reserves on the third practice eleven.

MAJOR LEAGUE GETS READY FOR BIG SHOW

Schedules Cose Today And World Series Starts Wednesday

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—With both National and American schedules closing tomorrow, major league baseball is clearing its decks for the final drama of the season—the world's championship series between Pittsburgh and Washington that starts next Wednesday in the Pirates' stronghold.

In contrast with the situation a year ago, when the excitement of the rival campaigns was kept at fever pitch almost to the final day, this season's finishes have been devoid of thrills and permitted fandom to concentrate its speculation on the merits of the rival championship contenders.

Marking a reversal of opinion prevailing a week ago, expert circles tonight apparently has established the Pirates as favorites to take baseball's premier crown from Bucky Harris and his veteran Washington crew. The margin now widely conceded to the National leaguers is slight but fairly well reflected in several wagers made at odds of six to five in Wall Street.

Senator Fans Chilled

At least part of this switch in opinion undoubtedly is due to the somewhat alarming reports of the last few days concerning the condition of several of Washington's stars. Backers of the Senators have been given a few chills by announcements which picture Stanley Coveleskie, star right hander, suffering from back strain; Roger Peckinpaugh, veteran shortstop, sustaining fresh injury to his weak ankle; Stanley Harris still experiencing trouble with a wounded digit; and Walter Johnson, not entirely recovered from an attack of influenza and a leg injury.

It is generally conceded that most of Washington's hopes rest on the twirling skill of Johnson and Coveleskie, who are slated to start the first and second games in that order. Should injuries or mishaps weaken the effectiveness of either veteran, the Senators' chances will be correspondingly dimmed.

Pirates Gain Support

In this pre-series speculation, the Pirates also are gaining support because of the aggressive and powerful attack which they are expected to launch against the American league title holders. Backed by youthful spirit there is a growing impression that the Buccaneers may break down even the resourceful and brilliant defense which has been a consistently outstanding feature of Washington's work. On the other hand, there is a substantial concensus of opinion which is confident the Senators will check their impetuous rivals and triumph on their super-steadiness and experience.

In virtually all calculations, however, it is assumed that the Senators will go at least six games and probably the limit of seven, as did last year's total conflict. In such an event, Washington's super-reserve strength may prove a deciding factor.

MONTY'S JUNIOR HIGH GRIDMEN SWING INTO CONFERENCE RACE WITH BOWIE ATHLETES FRIDAY

Coyote Pups Green, Nevertheless Strong Contender Expected to Be Developed

Coach T. V. Montgomery's Wichita Falls Junior high school eleven swings into action Friday against Bowie on the Bowie grid. This is not only the first 1925 game for the Coyote Pups, but is a conference affair. Starting late and then being held up by poor weather conditions, the Pups were unable to stow any practice tilts under their belts, hence are forced to break into the title running right at the start of their season.

Montgomery opened training with a green squad. But two players from the 1924 eleven have returned, and one was substituted. Both Hunky Farris, the regular, and Floyd Herndon were linemen last season, but Monty has shifted them to the backfield to start the impending race.

Monty is being assisted with his coaching duties by Kay, formerly of John Tarleton, and Golden and Falls, both of Canyon normal. These men hope to surprise their class B competitors by developing from the practically inexperienced squad a strong team.

Montgomery has 20 men in the line, 12 of which are divided between the ends an dtackles. Herndon and Stevens are the best bets at end with Cone, Goff, Saye, and Reeves making a strong bid.

Holstead and Berry are paving the way for tackle positions while Abbot, Baines Mix and Davenport are showing up well.

Montgomery and Tonday, Chafin, Powell, Howle, and Hodgkiss in which to pick his guards. Nichols, Howell, and Lewis are working steadily at center.

Quarterback is Monty's biggest problem. Babe Anderson has been showing up the best at the post, but is hard pressed by Dulaney and George. Fly, Herndon and Beach are the best looking halves in the lot, but Brackett, Batey, Cone and Powell are beginning to flash some form. Cone and Powell will also be used in the line. Montgomery hopes to develop Powell into another Coyal Franeis, defensively speaking. Powell having been working great on backing up the line.

Hunky Harris and Hugh Hannon are the Pups' fullback hopes. These two are the only ones that seem to be eager for the position.

2,000 Indians See Haskell Defeat Tulsa Team, 33 to 0

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 3.—(AP)—More than 2,000 Indians of many tribes and from all parts of Oklahoun and Kansas watched Haskell Indians of Lawrence, Kan., defeat Tulsa university by a score of 33 to 0, here this afternoon.

Tulsa university played well during the first half of the game but weakened the last half allowing the Indians to run in their heavy score.

Eight persons were injured when a tier of low temporary bleachers became overcrowded and crashed to the ground. None was seriously injured.

Yanks End Year With 9-8 Victory

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The New York Yankees ended their season today with a 9 to 8 victory over the Athletics giving the latter the edge on the year, 13 triumphs and 9 defeats. Babe Ruth hit his twenty-fifth and Bob Meusel his thirty-third home runs in the fifth while Earl Combs scored the winning tally with two out in the ninth. Meusel is the home run champion of the American League with Ruth now tied with Ken Williams for the runner-up honors. Al Simmons of the Athletics ran his season's hits to 251, seven short of Sisler's 1922 mark which stands as a baseball record.

Philadelphia Takes Giants to Cleaning

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Philadelphia finished its home season today by taking both ends of a double header from the New York Giants, 8 to 1 and 3 to 0. Carlson allowed but four hits in the opener and was robbed of a shutout when George Kelly hit his twentieth homer of the season. Fitzsimmons allowed but five hits in the nightcap, but four were bunched in the second and third innings for three runs.

Middlesberg Falls Before Yale, 53-0

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Yale, minus the services of Captain Joss, defeated Middlesbury 53 to 0 this afternoon. Using three complete back fields, the Blue team made an impressive showing, making eight touchdowns. The Yale backs showed skill in passing, open field running and line plunging.

Oklahoma Aggies Fall to Kansas U

LAWRECE, Kan., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Oklahoma A. & M. football team went down before the University of Kansas in its initial appearance here today in the Missouri Valley conference. The score was 13 to 3. The game opened the season for both teams.

MILLER COMING BACK

Claude Miller, scrappy little Coyote quarterback, who was injured in the Henrietta game last week announced Saturday that he would be back in the practice Monday afternoon, and ready to go.

3 TEAMS TIE FOR SIXTH PLACE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Last place became sixth place in the National League club standings today with Brooklyn, Chicago and Philadelphia teams in a triple tie. Each club has won 68 games and lost 85. At the season closes tomorrow and each team has one more game to play a tie for one position is inevitable. The Braves clinched the fifth rung by beating the Robins.

HAWKS PLAY GRAHAM NEXT

Coach Brewster intends to send his Iowa Park Hawks onto the Graham grid Friday against Graham high. The Hawks beat Archer City at Iowa Park last Monday, 12 to 0, practiced hard Wednesday and Thursday and laid off Friday and Saturday. Intensive drill will be the order for the early days of this week.

Iowa Soph Wins From Razorbacks

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Nick Kutsch, sophomore, proved that he is probably one of Iowa's most brilliant football players when he led the Hawkeye's offense to a 26 to 0 victory over Arkansas here this afternoon.

Kutsch plunged off tackle and skirted the ends for two touchdowns, made one point after touchdown, and made a place kick for a total of the seventeen points that Iowa amassed. In addition to that he threw some of the prettiest passes that in the opinion of veteran sport writers have ever been hurled on the Iowa field.

A heavy rain let up just before the opening whistle blew and let the field a ea of mud which made an effective aerial attack impossible.

Peckinpaugh To Play in the Series

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Roger Peckinpaugh, Washington shortstop, will participate in the world's series, despite the slight ankle sprain he suffered Wednesday in fielding practice in Boston. No signs of improvement have been noted in the condition of Pitcher Stanley Coveleskie also on the sick list. He has a sore back and both Manager Harris and Trainer Martin were doubtful today over his chance of playing in the baseball classic. Unless there is a decided improvement in the veteran spit baller's condition within the next three days, Harris will have to revise his pitching assignments.

Army Grid Team Defeats Detroit

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Old fashioned football colored with flashes of aerial warfare carried the army to a victory over the University of Detroit team here today, 31 to 6, in the Cadets' gridiron inaugural.

The new forward lines of the Cadets backed up by a sturdy and experienced back field, presented an impregnable front to the Detroit warriors.

Princeton Beats Amherst, 20 to 0

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Princeton defeated Amherst today 20 to 0, scoring all its points in the second half. Both teams opened the game with second string men.

FRED COMERS WINS

FRESNO, Cali., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Fred Comer dashed to victory this afternoon in the Fresno district fair 150-mile automobile race on the Fresno speedway. His time was 1:28:5, an average of 102.2 miles an hour. Bennett Hill was second, Ray L. Cariens third and Dr. W. E. Shattuck fourth.

SANDE WINS AGAIN

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 3.—(AP)—King Nadi, with Sande up won the Latonia championship stakes, $15,000 added at Latonia today. Old Slip was second and Drowsy Waters third. Four horses started. Time for the mile and three quarters was 3:06 3-5.

UMPS SELECTED

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—George J. Moriarity and C. B. "Brick" Owens today were assigned by President B. B. Johnson to officiate as umpires in the world's series. They will cooperate with two National league umpires in handling the series.

Mighty Red Grange Nailed Down at Every Start By Nebraska Team

CORNHUSKERS GET REVENGE ON ILLINI, 14-0

Football Hero Crushed By All-American Calibre Of Ed Weir

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Out of the mist hanging low over Illinois' $2,000,000 memorial stadium, a revengeful Nebraska football team, smarting under defeat of 1923 and 1924, rose to super-power today, vanquished Illinois 14 to 0, and accomplished what no other football team has been able to do—completely stopped Red Grange, America's outstanding football star.

Grange was nailed almost in his tracks virtually every time he started. Once the flaming red head brought the 30,000 spectators cheering to their feet when he broke away on a left end run, but he was chased out of bounds after sprinting 15 yards, his most spectacular effort of the game.

Grange, unable to pierce the magnificent Nebraska defense, and thwarted in his efforts to circle the ends, was taken from the game shortly after the start of the fourth period.

The stopping of Grange was chiefly due to the deadly tackling of Captain Ed Weir of the Nebraska eleven, himself an all-American star. Weir smashed through the Illinois interference, spilling the players in every direction and brought Grange down with gains of two or three yards.

Nebraska's first touchdown, scored a few minutes after the opening of the first period, came directly as the result of a forward pass which Grange attempted, Dailey, the Nebraska fullback, intercepted Grange's pass on the Illinois 40-yard, and with interference quickly formed about him, carried it the remainder of the distance of the goal.

The Cornhuskers' second touchdown came when Rhodes went over near the close of the game after Scholz had intercepted a pass from Dangherty, the Illinois fullback on Illinois' 45-yard line. Rhodes then tore off a 40-yard run around right end. Captain Weir, on a tackle around play, made a yard and Rhodes went over on the next smash.

Brown scored the extra points with drop kicks.

RICE DEFEATS NORMAL AFTER BIG STRUGGLE

Owls Encounted Unexpectedly Hard Resistance

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 3.—Rice encountered unexpectedly rugged resistance here this afternoon in the Sam Houston Teachers and it was only by scoring a touchdown in the latter part of the final period that Coach Hesiman's charges were able to win 7 to 0.

The Teachers were on the defense most of the game, and their strong line could be penetrated but for small gains by Rice. The Owls depended solely on straight football to advance the ball. Three forward passes were attempted and only one completed. This toss, however, came in the drive for touchdown and placed the ball on Sam Houston's 3-yard line, when Big Ed Herring plunged over for the score.

The play of the Sam Houston secondary defense, especially of Kirk and Linn, was exceptional, while Sandlin and Sandle, big tackles, and McAdams at center, played vigorously.

Aside from the plunging of Hoculi, Herring, Murray and Smiley, Captain Heavy Underwood's play at center was the best individual performance of the afternoon. Underwood also did the Owl's kicking and his fine spirals rivalled those of Mayfield of Sam Houston. Line-up:

Sam Houston	Position	Rice
P. Rogers	Left end	Joseph
McAdams	Center	Underwood
Lyons	Right guard	Williams
Sandlin	Right tackle	McVey
Perkins	Right end	McKinnon
Mayfield	Quarter	Ogg
Miller	Right half	Herring
Linn	Fullback	Murray

Score by quarters:

Rice	0	0	0	7	—7

Scoring touchdowns, Herring (Rice). Points after touchdown, Herring. Official scorer, Viner, Missouri; referee, Lawrence, Southwestern; umpire, Hammill (David Elkins) linesman.

BOSTON AT FIFTH.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Boston clinched fifth place in the National league today by handing Brooklyn a five to two set back. It was the fifth straight game lost by the Brooklyn club and its seventeenth defeat in the last nineteen starts. Fournier scored both of the Robins' runs, one with his 23rd homer of the season.

TRIBE, IN GREAT SHAPE AFTER CLARENDON GAME, PRACTICES FOR CAMERON AGGIE SET-TO

Bubs Mosley's Junior college gridmen, coming out of the Clarendon college battle Friday in great shape and practically unscathed, will hit the ball early this week. And when we say early that's exactly what we mean, for the gang plans to don the moleskins Monday morning at eight o'clock said the Tribe mentor last night.

The Indians have no game billed for this week, but more than likely a light practice contest will be matched, according to Mosley.

The next stiff set-to is scheduled Friday a week with the Cameron Aggies.

The Tribe performed in surprisingly good form the past Friday against the Bulldogs, and but for a series of bad breaks may have slipped off with a victory. Running smoother and in better condition by time of the Cameron contest, the Indians stand in a fair way of coming through on top.

Wisconsin Beats Ames Moleskinners

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Wisconsin kept a clean slate against Iowa State and made an impressive start in the 1925 football season when it defeated the Ames team, 30 to 0 at Camp Randall today.

Crowell Fails To Show at Vernon

VERNON, Oct. 3.—Crowell's football team failed to show up here today for a scheduled game with Baggett's Vernon Lion reserves. The Lion mentor had his team on the field at game time ready to play

TEXAS BEATS MISSISSIPPI ELEVEN, 25-0

Saxon Mystifies Tacklers And Stars In Longhorn Victory

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—(AP)—After putting up a superb fight in the first half holding the Longhorns at bay, Mississippi university crumbled in the second half and Texas scored four touchdowns, winning 25-0. Mack Saxon, stocky lad, who runs with a queer hip-shifting motion that mystifies would-be tacklers, was the ace of the winning offensive. Early in the third quarter, Saxon broke off right tackle and raced 55 yards for a touchdown, supplying the big thrill. He also backed up the line in splendid fashion. Prince, right guard, stood out on the defensive for the visitors.

Texas was on the offensive most of the way, registering 13 first downs to two made by Mississippi. "Jack Rabbit" Cook, offensive star of the visitors, went out early in the first quarter with an injured leg, materially lessening Mississippi's chances of victory.

The keen fashion in which the Longhorn followed the ball was a big factor in their victory. Sewell recovered a bad pass from Mississippi's center on the seven yard line, and King plunged over for the first touchdown early in the third quarter.

"Swampy" Thompson recovered Biles' fumble on the Mississippi 25 yard line and 20 yard run by Estes followed by a pass from Wright to Estes scored the second touchdown. Saxon's long run scored the third, and Homan raced 30 yards for the final score, after recovering a fumble of Prince who was called back of the line to pass.

"Heinie" Pfannkuche, big line captain and center of Texas, was the outstanding defensive star of the game, making numerous sensational tackles.

Texas (25)	Position.	Mississippi (0)
Baldwin	Left End.	Cohen
T. Thompson	Left Tackle.	Applewhat
Penny	Center	B. Thompson
Sewell	Right Guard	Prince
Higgins	Right End	Smith
Wright (C)	Quarterback	Mustin (C)
Saxon	Right Half Back	Martin
King	Full Back	Allen

Score by periods:

Texas	0	0	13	12.

Texas scoring: touchdowns, King, Saxon, Estes, 1 (substituting for Stalter); Homen (substituting for Penny). Goal after touch down, King. Officials: Kinney, Mississippi, referee; Venn, Carlisle, umpire; Winters, Ohio state, head linesman. Length of quarters, 15 minutes.

TULANE HOLDS SHOW ME MEN TO 6 TO 6 TIE

Missourians Unable To Score Deciding Point

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3—(AP)—Under a blazing sun Missouri and Tulane fought out a six to six tie here today. The forward pass was the deciding factor of the contest. A 30-yard aerial effort placed Missouri inside Tulane's five-yard line in the first period and the touchdown was then a matter of seconds.

Over zealousness on the part of the Missouri valley champions gave the Greenbacks an opportunity to tie the score in the second period. A Missouri back interfered with a Tulane end as he reached for a pass on the two-yard line. The interference gave the ball to Tulane and a completed pass and the touchdown followed on the next play.

The one point that would have given either team a victory was not forthcoming.

Flournoy's kicking was the feature of Tulane's play. The big back got off only one poor punt and an intercepted pass saved the Greenies then when the visitors seemed about to score.

Every year many Wichitans leave or have gone about this time to witness the conclusion of the world series. This year Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Timberlake, Abe Marcus, Judge and Mrs. R. E. Huff, W. C. Witcher, and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Martlew are the attendants from this city. Mr. and Mrs. Martlew left some time ago for New Orleans where they took boat for New York City, whence they planned to go to Washington and Pittsburgh to witness the games. W. C. Witcher also left some time ago, but will be at the games. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McCutchen, who left some time ago to attend the American Bankers association at Jersey City, might also stop over to witness the games en route home.

Each mother present at the Alamo Mothers' club meeting Friday afternoon was presented with an artistic favor prepared by the art department under the direction of Miss Florence Barrier, bearing the motto of the club for October, "How few think justly of the thinking few." The attendance prize was won by Miss Abilene Field's room, it was a flag which was presented by Mrs. Lawson and Mrs. Streef. Mrs. Vigus won second prize.

Matty Meets His Toughest Opponent Next

Jim Brown, Chicago welterweight, will be Matty Matsuda's next opponent at the Wichit Falls wrestling association arena. They are to meet Oct. 13, Tuesday a week, in a finish match. To the unitiated mat enthusiast this bare statement of facts doesn't mean so much, but to the dyed-in-the-wool fan who knows his okra, so to speak, in regards to American westling activities this item stacks up as one of the choicest morsels of wrestling news broadcasted this year.

Champion Matsuda has met Brown before. They clashed in a memorable engagement Jan. 16, in Chicago. They battled three hours and 45 minutes to a draw in one of the most sensational bouts ever staged in the Windy City. Neither man could gain a fall. Matsuda declares Brown to be the toughest man he ever grappled. Incidentally, the Chicagoan has not lost as much as one fall in two years.

British Feminine Links Stars Still Supreme, But American Women Golfers Soon Due to Grab Laurels

As "Long Jim" Barnes sports the British open title about the United States in his smiling, wholesome manner, England once more is hard put to it to derive the tiniest bit of cheer from the golfing situation.

Barnes' victory, in itself, was a blow to England of course. But it wasn't so much the victory itself as it was the fact that this same act had been staged for the fourth time in five years that hurt.

For years—up to the open championships of 1921, that event had gone to home stars—Braid, Tylor, Vardon, Ray, Duncan—a long list of great golfers. Then, in 1921, Jock Hutchison journeyed to the British Isles and when he sailed back to the U. S. the British cup lay buried in cotton in his trunk.

Great Britain took this successful invasion lightly. Confident that one of the "old guard" would recover it the following year they waited, only to see Walter Hagen repeat Hutchison's act. They still carried hopes of recovering the coveted cup when the 1923 tourney came around and when Arthur Havers, with an exhibition of wonderful golf, nosed out the American contenders they breathed a sigh of relief.

But that sigh seemed still lingering in the air when Hagen returned to England last year and regained the brown. For the first time, then, British golfers realized that America, to all intents and purposes, was taking from them the glory of the game they called their own. And when the Americans, without the aid of the masterful Hagen, hogged the honors again this year and Jim Barnes emerged on top the gloom of the British golfing flock rivalled that of the London fog in its density.

It rested with the obliging, colorful Abe Mitchell to dispel a bit of this gloom and give the Britishers some reason to live a bit longer.

Barnes, fair sportsman that he is, met Mitchell in an exhibition match—and went down to defeat before the playing of the British pro. The victory not only gave Britishers a chance to find some solace in the thought that there did live in the Isles a man who could halt the American invasion but it gave them a chance once more to see what a beautiful golfer Abe Mitchell is. Mitchell is one of the greatest drivers in golf today. Were he to carry the steadiness, the poise of Ray, Vardon or Taylor, he might now be basking in the limelight that follows the British open champ on America's open king wherever the royal one steps.

Great Britain's women seem to reign supreme on the links just now but there is a wrning in the showing Glenna Collett made in her first effort to lift the British women's title. The powerful driving of the American girl, her cool "money" play, not only intrigued but worried British experts. And they know she is not an exception. She but heralds the approach of a type of free-swinging feminine stars in Uncle Sam's land who will invade England some day with the same success the men have achieved—unless England looks to her laurels.

THE WHY AND HOW OF THE RULES

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

While the ruley state specifically that seven men of the team in possession of the ball must be on or within a foot of the line of scrimmage and the other members, with one exception, must be on a line five yards behind the scrimmage line, no limitations are placed upon the defensive team's formation—except those regarding "off-side" (to be explained later.)

It is perfectly obvious, however, that the defense must so pace its men as to check the advance ofthe offensive team's line and halt the progress of the man with the ball if th erunner passes the first line of defense.

In the days when mass plays ruled the game the range of defense formations was of course limited by the necessity of matching man for man on the line and the need of the others directly behind this line to halt the pile-driving backfield of the opposition should the first line be broken.

The opening of the game in general and then the ever-growing use of the forward pass made the matter of defense a more intricate one. The defense must be equally as well prepared for forward passes, one-side kicks, etc., as it is for tackle and end plays.

The best defensive team, of course, is the one which has the tightest line—the one which can block the attacking team's line, prevent them from opening holes for the backfield and the man with the ball, and a second defense which can "read" a play at its inception and create a defense instantly for that play.

Kansas Aggies In 16-0 Victory Over Oklahoma Eleven

MANHATTAN, Kansas, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Locking horns in their first Missouri Valley conference football game of the season, the Kansas Aggies broke through the University of Oklahoma for a 16 to 0 victory here today.

The scoring came in the second half of the game, the first being rather listless. A feature of the melee was a 75 yard run for a touchdown by Dick Haskard of Hutchinson, sophomore halfback.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Cincinnati-Pittsburgh game postponed today on account of wet grounds. These teams will close the league season here tomorrow with a double header.

The Willing Workers class of the Yale Avenue Evangelical church entertained their teacher, Mrs. W. D. Cook with a lawn party on the church lawn Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to Misses Velma and Grace Enterkin, Goldman McClung, Blanche Beckner, Eva Carrow, Gladys Johnson, May Crabtree, Mary Keen, Ruth Johnson, Pauline Nichols, Birmah Arnold, Mattie Cook, Beatrice Beckner, Mary Allday, Eddie Alice Gilbreath, Vinta Hosford, and Beulah Mae Hosford, and Messrs. T. B. Tidwell, Hallie Moore, John Entrekin, Louis Ayres, Geirge Putty Jr., Alfred Ayres, Carl Smith, Martin Crule, Leo Cook, James Culver, Luther Hale, William Welch, Johnnie Warmuth, Curtis Cook, C. Moody, Johnson and Morris Peeples, and Mesdames Johnnie Dunn, and Mr. and Mrs. Bethel Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Entrekin, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Mansell, and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Martin.

60 Notre Dame Men Used in Defeat Of Lombard Team, 69-0

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Sixty different Notre Dame football players had a part in the 69 to 0 defeat of Lombard college here today.

Coach Knute Rockne made changes so rapidly the faus were groggy and it was only in the third and fourth periods that his team played in satisfactory form. Despite frequency of fumbles and other misplays in the first 40 minutes, Lombard did not have a chance.

BAYLOR BEARS CRUSH FOUT'S TEAM, 20 TO 6

Teachers Beaten After Outplaying Bridgemen Two Quarters

WACO, Texas, Oct. 3.—After playing the Baylor Bears for two quarters, Coach Fout's Denton Teachers crumbled before the rushing play of the Baylor team, losing 20 to 6 here Saturday.

On three plays, through the Baylor line netting 45 yards, Sportsman and Lewis took the ball to Baylor's one yard line in the second quarter. On the fourth down Captain Sportsman scored.

Kelley opened the Baylor offensive in the third period with a series of long runs, culminating with a 55-yard dash through a broken field for the first Baylor touchdown. Five minutes later, following an unchecked march up the field, Jack Jones went through the Denton line for another touchdown. Jones kicked goal. Nash scored the third Baylor touchdown in the fourth period.

The lineup:

BAYLOR	Position	DENTON NORMAL
Taylor	Left End	Miller

Bucs Figured in Greatest World Series, Held in 1912

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's pennant victory this years is its fifth in 25 years but it will mark only the third time that the Pirates have battle for the world's championship with an American league rival.

Back in 1901, 1902 and 1903, the Pirates, then under the management of Fred Clarke—who has come back to help in this year's triumph—dominated the senior circuit but it wasn't until the last year of this reign that the world's series idea took root.

In that year, the Pirates met defeat in the first championship struggle at the hands of the Boston Red Sox, losing five out-of eight games.

Six years later in 1909, still under Clarke's leadership, the Pirates swept to the top once more and for the last time prior to this season. They battled that year against Hughey Jennings' Detroit Tigers for the premier title and won out after a nip and tuck fight that went the limit of seven games before being decided.

Adams Was Hero.

The Pirates and Tigers won on alternate days in that series and Babe Adams, the only playing survivor still in Pirate uniform, was the hero of the National leaguers' triumph. He was credited with three of the four Pirates victories.

The series, incidentally, was one of only three which have gone the limit of prescribed games, which at various times has been fixed at seven and nine contests.

It ranks among the most keenly contested of all championships, though for closeness and spectacularly dramatic elements it was eclipsed by both the 1912 series, in which the Red Sox conquered the Giants after eight games that included an 11-inning tie, and the 1924 thriller in which Washington's first pennant winning team fought its way to victory over the Giants in seven sensational games.

Two 12-inning battles fought out before the president of the United States and a baseball-mad national capital; an uphill fight by the Senators under the inspired leadership of their young pilot, Bucky Harris; and the final triumph of Walter Johnson, famous pitcher, after two tragic defeats—these were the high spots of last fall's baseball drama which stirred the entire country as it had never been before.

Strain Terrific.

Nerve-testing as was this series, however, it is doubtful whether the rival players experienced as great a strain as those in 1912. It is recalled that in the Eighth and final game of that series the players were hardly able to control their emotions, so tense and exhausting was the struggle. The game went to ten bitterly fought innings before the Red Sox gained a 3-2 decision, with a fatal error by Fred Snodgrass, Giant outfielder, contributing to the downfall that was heartbreaking to the National leaguers, and their mound ace, Christy Mathewson. When it was all over, the rival managers John McGraw and Jake Stahl, declared their men could not have stood the strain of another game.

The quickest series on record was that of 1914, when the Boston Braves, after their sensational pennant drive, overthrew Connie Mack's Athletics in four straight games. The Chicago Cubs, conquering Detroit in 1907, and the Giants, downing the Yankees in 1922, also hung up records of four victories and no defeats but on each instance a tie game prevented a

DANIEL BAKER FALLS BEFORE FROGS, 12 TO 0

T. C. U. Plays Coutiously In Order to Keep In Shape

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Kicking on the first, second and third downs repeatedly and confining their attack to a few plays, mixing it up with only three passes throughout the game, Texas Christian university beat Daniel Baker 12 to 0 in the second game of the local season, Saturday at Frog stadium. It was hard on the spectators to sit through a game as long drawn out and as devoid of spectacular play as the one T. C. U. played, but it was the only thing for the Christians to do, for far more important than piling up a big score against the hill billies is keeping in shape for the Baylor game October 13.

Frog Defense Ragged.

As far as that goes, while the Frog defense looked ragged at times, the visitors did not make one single first down, being forced to kick time after time with only a short distance to go for the down. This was the second shutout in the two games played by the Frogs.

T. C. U. was not impressive in victory, taking things easily, putting across a touchdown in the first quarter after a fumble and then settling back to a kicking duel between Captain Clark and Vihla of the Billies. Clark, averaging 35 yards on 13 punts, had an advantage of two yards per kick over Vihla, who kicked an average of 33 yards on 16 attempts. The difference in effectiveness on booting was measured most by the work of Harry Taylor, at safety, who returned Vihla's punts time and again for long gains, sometimes as high as 20 yards.

Daniel Baker Fumbles.

Receiving in the opening quarter, T. C. U. took the ball on Vihla's kick off and the ball went into play at the 25-yard line. On the first play, Clark elected to kick, and booted 55 yards. Daniel Baker, on the first play, fumbled and T. C. U. recovered in a mad scramble for the ball. Then, after two line plays, Harry Taylor took the ball and scooted around his left end for 10 yards and a touchdown. It was a beautiful run, and brought the 2,000 fans to their feet. Washmon made a bad pass and the try for point failed.

Fro mthis juncture on out, the main story of the game through the first half was a mere exchange of kicks, first Daniel Baker playing in Frog territory, and then the reverse. During the first half, "Blackie" Williams, who started at fullback and played mot of the game in smashing style, made a first down, as did the fast Harold Carson. Both Clark and Vhla got off three or four good kicks during this period, but were rushed at times, and their boots went wild.

Beautiful Kick.

The third quarter started off like the other two, but all of a sudden Herman Clark got off a beautiful kick which went over Flack's head and rolled for a total of 60 yards. Trickey Ward, playing at end, smeared Flack and the Billies were deep in their own territory. The Frogs got the spirit then after long inactivity and after smearing the Billie on line plays, rushed the kick and it went for only 25 yards.

Williams ripped off a first down and then Captain Clark pulled the first pass of the game for the Frogs, passing to the reliable Carson for 10 yards and an easy touchdown. Try for point was blocked. This ended the scoring. The line-up:

T. C. U.	Position	Daniel Baker
Washmon	Center	Irby
Greer	Right Guard	Stringer
Wolfe	Right Tackle	McInnis
Matthews	Right End	Montgomery
Clark (c)	Quarterback	Flack (c)
Carson	Left Half	McWilliams
H. Taylor	Right Half	Hammond
Williams	Fullback	Vihla

Score by periods:

T. C. U.	6	0	6	0	—12

T. C. U. scoring: Touchdowns, Carson, Taylor. Officials, Richenstien, (Texas A. and M.) referee; Boswell, (Centre) umpire; plawn (Texas) head linesman. Time of quarters 15 minutes each.

From the Lowly Ford to the Luxurious Pierce Arrow, Every Kind Of Automobile You Want to See Is At the Texas-Oklahoma Fair

in a green-grey hue with Arizona grey top. Six-cylinders, with power and speed to burn, ready for a three-mile pace in crowded down-town streets or an 80-mile-an-hour flight on uncluttered country roads, thus stands the Lincoln as an aristocrat of aristocrats in the world of cars that cost

As a sideline the Lincoln display includes a crankshaft taken from a car driven over 74,000 miles. They wiped off the oil, shined it up a little and now defy the layman to tell it has been run at all. "Balance, precision, perfection," they say.

While on the subject of quality cars, consider the Cadillac.

Three Leviathans of the road, all enclosed models, are displayed by the Munger Automobile company as visible proof that Cadillac is still the ultimate in automotive utility and beauty.

Cadillac Holds the Favor It Gained Decade Ago

Fro mthose long gone days when the automobile industry was in its infancy and Cadillac brought out the snorting and bucolic forerunner of today's thoroughbred, this machine has held high place in popular fancy and favor. The creation of Cadillac today seem entirely capable of continuing this hold on fancy and favor.

A custom-built 7-passenger suburban sedan finished in Brewster green; a standard Broughm and a standard 7-passenger sedan comprise the line. The ever pleasing pilnes of thic ar have been changed a little more in the latest resign; the color scheme has been enriched and deepened; mechanical refinements have been added; the V-type 8-cylinder motor has been amplified somewhat and a number of parts eliminated; rear spring suspension re-designed; a thermostatic controlled shutter provideed over the radiator; a Watson stabilator on the motor put in.

The interior, of course, is more luxurious tha never. Dpep-cushioned seats and rich upholstery provide a refined and comfortable finishing for a mechanical creation as near perfect as possible And speaking of refinements, Cadillac now offers on the broughm two full sized trunks and a hat box, carried in a specially designed compartment on the rear. Thesecrpresent no small investment in themselves.

Ford's Big Brother, The Lincoln, Also Is There

To show the mechanical perfection of the motor, or reather a part of it, the Munger display includes a crank shaft, perfectly balanced, which weighs 100 pounds and which is spun by the draft from an electric fan blowing against a propeller arrangement on the front of the shaft. A reasonably light wind against the propeller is sufficient to whil the heavy shaft on its bearings, noiselessly and with all-apparent ease.

Still sailing high and in the high-brow class, the auto-intoxicated visitor finds even more of the larger machines that challenge attention from all angles. The Marmon, for instance. Four models of this popular make are displayed by the Fritz Motor company—all of them closed. A Victoria coupe; a Broughm coupe and two sedans, one of the 5 and the other of 7-passenger capacity make up the line. The Broughm coupe, by the way, has already seen sold to C. H. Verschoyle but is being retained by the company for exhibition purposes at the fair. These models the practically impossible to obtain from the factory, whichis far behind on orders of this type.

Balloon Tires Rapidly Are Becoming Standard

The Marmon line, of course, is a familiar and colorful one. It has been for many years and is an established leader in the 6-cylinder class. All cars are now finished in duco coats, many of them of the two-tone type of grays and greens, while all include balloon tires as standard equipment.

Sidled up alongside the more pretentious Marmons are the smaller but none-the-less attractive and serviceable Reos. A coupe, roadsted, sedan and special chossis comrise the Reo exhibit, giving the Fritz Motor company one of the largest displays of the entire fair.

be Reo chassis, by the way, is a show in itself. D L. Fritz, manager of the company handling the car, declared yesterday the chassis cost about $20,000 to construct and is insured for that amount. It is stripped to the essential mechanical features and has special plate glas windows over the gear train; rear transmission and differential box; over the motor nd piston heads and in other vital points which the layman never sees but which comprise the real working factors of his car. An electic motor keeps the exnine, gears and rear wheels slowly turning so that the actual operation of the car is visible and can be explained.

Not so long ago the Pierce-Arrow startled the automotive world with a new series of mohels, raricai departures from the old time juggernauts that plied the roads in regal splendor. he line leaped into instant popularity as a high class car, and of this type six models are shown by the Bradley-Duke company.

New Feature of 4-Wheel Brake Plan Is Shown

On behalf of these machines the agents declare they are the only ones on the market equipped with four-wheel brakes that hold fast on a turn. All others, they say, are released when a car rounds a curve, but such is the design of the Pierce-Arrow it gives uninterrupted brakeage as long as the driver so desires. All Pierce-Arrow models, of course, include balloon tires as standard equipment and also have an unusual amount of accessories as standard he series 33 is a four-passenger sedan finished in Cleveland grey, while the five-passenger sedan is also finished in this hue. A two-passenger coupe with a Judkins body, finished in sage green; a four-passenger roadster in Bordeaux blue; a four-passenger touring in desert sand; and a coach in brown-grey complete the line. The roadster and touring car, the only open models, are of the soprt type. All models have the distinctive fender headlights by which a Pierce-Arrow is readily distinguishable on the road at night. The story is familiar of the boy on the bicycle who tried to drive between two motorcycles he met coming down the road at night—only they were a Pierce-Arrow and he told abont it in the hospital.

Of the six models shown, one is a series 33 and the others of the series 80 type. All, of course are six-cylindered.

"Performance or appearance, we'll match any one of them."

Thus says the Peerless Sales and Service company whose four big Peerless models in closed car type stand out among the newer and larger machines. Two of the cars are 8-cylinder and two 6-cylinder type. A 7-passenger suburban sedan; a 4-passenger phaeton come with eight lungs, while the sixes take the shape of two sedans. One of the latter is in Palmetto green and the other in Standard Blue Duco finish. Standard blue is also furnished on the 8-cylinder 7-passenger sedan; while the phaeton is done in desert brown.

All the models have numerous refinements that are the hallmark of quality automobiles.

"Ask the Man Who Drives One" Is Packard Slogan

"As the man who owns one," runs an advertisnig phrase used extensively by the Packard company; and by the same token, ask the crowd at the fair show where two of the most popular cars of the bunch are located. It's a safe bet Packard will be mentioned some where with the leaders.

None of the celebrated straight eights are shown by the Lloyd Weaver company this year, but they have two six-cylinder enclosed models that are models in every sense of the automobile construction word. One is a club and the other a standard sedan, both in the light grey and green tints that make Packards the lustrous shafts of light they are on the road.

And right along with them is a galaxy of six other cars, a brand the world has wondered at in recent years since Walter Chrysler launched in the production business on his own hook and turned out a car that is multiplying with amazing rapidity.

Two six-cylinder models, a roadster and a coach, and four 4-cylinder machines make up the exhibit. Touring car, coupe, coach and sedan have their place in the latter classification. A variety of colors are offered in this line, all with the stamp of an artist and a master craftsman

Rickenbackers Have Won Place in Motor World

A vertical 8 coupe, the same in a sedan and a six-cylinder coach broughm make up a three-way threat supplied in Rickenbackers by the Victory Motor company. This make, popularized by the famed and capable Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, America's ace of aces in the world war, has taken a firm hold on the American motoring public. Its mechanical perfection, distinctive lines and decoratic touches brand it as an automobile apart. Incidentally, it was the first machine to introduce four-wheel brakes, designs for which it has perfected. Duco finish and balloon tires come a standard equipment on all models.

"When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them." And if there were any better cars to be shown at the T-O fair, the Dixon Motor company would show them.

Five cars are included in the Buick line, all 6-cylinder and all with Duco finish, all with 4-wheel brakes and balloon, three. Two standard and three master models are on the floor, the former being the 4-door and Tudor sedan type and the latter in coupe, roadster and sedan models. Brown, grey and blue are included in the color scheme, while numerous accessories ardered in preparation for the fair exhibit are attached here and there to the cars.

Up in the front end of the exhibit building are two Willys-Knight cars, a 6-cylinder sedan and a 6-cylinder roadster, while next to them is a 6-cylinder Overland sedan in two-tone duco finish. Dustproof grey in color, with balloon tires as standard equipment and with the usual accessories attached, both the Willys and Overland machines are of a type commanding and receiving more than passing attention.

"Constantly improved, but no yearly models" says Dodge Brothers. Constanaly popular and no decrease in their serviceability, says the public.

Six Dodge cars are on the floor in the McFall Brothers booth, three being sedans, one a roadster, one a coupe and one a touring car. Dodge, one of the acknowledged ledsers in production of four-cylinder cars, has turned out a machine mechanically perfect, or as nearly so as it is possible for a car to be, and in addition has made available at a medium price one of the best designed and most attractive machines on the market.

Like Ford until the revolution came, Dodge has persistently stuck to a one-color polley as regards finish. A lustrous black, highly polished and durable, trimmed in nickle, some of them, with serviceable but attractive furnishing, the Dodge job is a real beauty. As a supplement to their pleasure car showing, McFalls have added a stripped Dodge motor, showing the construction and operation of that highly efficient power plant.

A newcomer has made its bow to the motor world in the guise of the new Ajax, built by Nash and which is destined, it is believed, to assume a commanding position in the world of lighter six-cylinder automobiles. Two of these are displayed by the Nash-King company, one being a sedan and the other a touring model. Both bear the unmistakable impront of Nash design and workmanship, although they differ widely in appearance from the larger and more elaborate Nash cars. Of these latter, three of the six-cylinder machines are furnished. One is a tudor sedan in sky-blue finish; one an advanced roadster and one a four-door advanced coupe. Four wheel brakes and balloon trise come on these.

Watch the Stars. Three of them are taking more than average attention in the lighter car class, while with them is a stripped chassis showing every important point in design and construction. A coupster in blue duco; a sedan in blue duco and a touring car in black make up the assembly. Cord tires are supplied as standard equipment on these, although balloons can be furnished when wanted.

Studebaker a Veteran In The Automobile Field

Studebaker, veteran in the auto field, but a youngster when it comes to pep and new ideas, is well represented by four cars supplied by the Keim company here. All are of 6-cylinder type; all are done in Duco finish and all adhere to the time-tried and proven rear wheel brake alone. Two standard six models, a sedan and a roadster; a special six sedan and a big six sedan make up the layout. Studebaker has always been a leader in refinements and new design in the automobile world, and for that reason it was only to be expected that the big "Studees" would make up one of the most distinctive of all the exhibits. They do.

"Oakland by McElreath,' three of them: a touring car, a sedan and a Tudor coach are the three six-cylinder machines on the floor in the McElreath booth. All are equipped with balloon tires; all have numerous accessories; all are well designed and well appointed—and all have been the center of a curious and admiring throng from the time the gates were opened.

Oakland has long been a familiar model on the road; and the present design bids fair to retain this popularity.

The Fox-Brown Chevrolet company has four machines on display, all of the latest Chevrolet type and all with the appearance of the rugged, enduring and serviceable machine that the small, light but active car really is. A sedan in sage green duco; a coach; a coupe and a touring car make up this quartet. Balloon tires are now furnished in standard form on all closed models while disc wheels are supplied on the coupes and sedans.

Two Hudson and two Essex cars are on hand under the banner of the Wichita Hudson-Essex company which has just come under the ownership of Frank Queisser, veteran automobile man here.

Style, Economy And Speed Are Features

The Hudson coach is synonymous with style, speed, service and economy in the automobile field. It is one of the real veterans in the business, and rather than decay and retrograde it has profited from its long experience. The Hudson today stands out as one of the foremost automobiles of the world, and the reason is apparent from the two machines shown at the fair.

The other two cars of the smaller Essex make are also six-cylindered and supplied with balloon tires as standard equipment. Hudson-Essex own enameling and baking process give these machine sa finish all their own.

Of recent appearance in Wichita Falls is the Auburn, handled locally by the Auburn company which is making history insofar as exploitation of a high class machine is concerned. The new Auburn, both the 6-60 and 8-80 is a highway greyhound as well built and serviceable as it is attractive. All models are finished in the two-tone duco scheme while the closed models have velour upholstering and a wealth of interior refinements. An eight-cylinder roadster and an eight-cylinder broughm, with two six-cylinder models, a roadter and a sedan, make up the disnlay. The roadster, especially, finished in Italian cream with jet-black finish, is a thing of beauty.

Classy New Hupmobiles Have Late Improvements

Two Hupmobiles were on the floor Saturday, but assurance was given by the Motor Sales company that two more would be presented Sunday. In evident quality, though, the Hup needs no more representation. A five-passenger sedan in Beige Duco and a six-cylinder touring car in steel grey duco are the two already showu. Four-wheel hydraulic brakes and full balloon tires are standard equipment an all Hups.

Last but by no means least.

Birch and Gates and their Oldsmobiles, three of them, all six-cylinders and all with balloon tire have high plnce in the show. And then, to top it off, is one of the real creations, a Gardner "8-in line" which has the appearance and earmarks of one of the road's best cars. A coach, a sedan and a roadster are supplied in the Oldsmobile makes, all with balloon tires and all with the famous Olds motor that has given unremitting service in thousands upon thousands of quality cars plying the highways and byways of the land.

The Gardner is a sedan, long low and powerfully built, finished in a dark sheen and powered with an eight-cylinder motor of ample proportions. To show what it really is, a stripped motor is shown on a special mounting. Its working parts are cut away, while a special mirror arrangement permits an inspection of the very vitals of the block.

Giant Member Of The Swine "400" Is On Display Here

He weighs 900 pounds; his hair is as red as fire; he has teeth that wreck an ear of corn at one movement of the jaw and when he grunts a half dozen pens vibrate.

But in spite of all his ugly immensity, he is a prize winner and the pretty purple and blue ribbons, signals of grand championship and first prize honors, respectively, cover his pen.

He is a giant Duroc-Jersey boar owned by R. O. Hammil of Grandfield, Okla., who carried off the grand championship and first prize honors in the swine division of the Tillman county fair this year, and who won like honors in the Texas-Oklahoma fair last year and who—but here the hitch comes—will he duplicate his feat of last year? Some hog men say he will, but others say that there are some mighty fine boars on the Hampshire, Tamworth and Poland China division that will run him a close race.

TUNNEL CAVES AGAIN

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 3.—(AP) A second cave-in occurred at the Church Hill tunnel of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad tonight as laborers worked to remove the debris of a slide beneath which are buried the bodies of three men who were trapped when the walls collapsed Friday.

Miracle Claimed; Farmer Sees Again

William R. Davis, 69, Neteong, N. J. farmer, prompted, he says, by a vision of a dead son, prayed three days in a cornfield for recovery of his sight. Then he declares, his right eye allowed him to see the light of day again. An explosion 21 years ago put out the left eye. The right failed him in 1915. "A miracle!" say awed neighbors. Physicians, discrediting the supernatural, say that evidently the eye was not permanently injured.

Fire Prevention Display Excellent

In keeping with "Fire Prevention Week" which begins in Texas today, an attractive as well as an instructive exhibition in Woman's building at the Texas-Oklahoma fair carries a forceful warning against using gasoline for cleaning, leaving an electric iron on, and allowing children to play with matches.

The exhibit shows two views of a kitchen, with a housewife busy ironing, using gasoline as a cleaner, while on the floor is a child playing with matches. St reflects the "before and after" affect, with the final scene in the hospital.

A background for the display are posters made by children from all over the state with such admonitions as, "Save the Baby," "Don't Leave Your Iron on Too Long," "Little Matches Cause Big Fires," etc.

Another feature of the exhibition is a fire box placed in the booth by the local fire department for the instruction of women and children of how to turn in a fire alarm.

The display is given under the supervision of the State Fire Insurance commission prevention division, with Miss Olga Juniger of Austin, in charge.

Need Farm Help In Deaf Smith County

Because of a severe shortage of labor in the Texas Panhandle, and the advent of the grain harvesting season there, T. D. Moss of Hereford, who is here with the Deaf Smith county exhibit at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, has been called home. The exhibit, which consists of a display of agricultural products grown in Deaf Smith county, will be left in charge of J. B. Ellison, secretary of the Deaf Smith Fair association.

Mr. Moss will leave this city today for Hereford to help secure approximately 500 laborers to work in the grain fields.

The Deaf Smith exhibit is one of a number from various counties of this section of the state being shown here.

The New HUPMOBILE Six

Out of a seventeen-year experience in the designing and building of fine motor cars has come an entirely new six-cylinder automobile.

It is a Hupmobile.

To members of the great Hupmobile family, to seasoned motorists who are familiar with Hupmobile traditions, the announcement of a Hupmobile Six is of more than noteworthy significance. The announcement is historically important.

It means that now to the six-cylinder type are brought, as was so recently to eight-cylinder motoring, the superiorities of economy, endurance and reliability that have made Hupmobile famous the world over.

It means, because of all the qualities guaranteed by the name Hupmobile, that the six of moderate price has reached a higher, finer plane than it has ever before approached.

It means that in a six has been incorporated a practical relationship between performance and price never before available in a six-cylinder automobile.

You cannot afford to accept anything else that the present market offers without first inspecting this new Hupmobile Six, without personally testing its performance, without studying its amazng dollar value.

Bear in mind that this new six is exclusively a Hupmobile product.

It carries with it the seventeen-year Hupmobile reputation for doing things well, for quality of material, for consistency of performance, for long length of service.

And with these qualities, that are particularly and individually Hupmobile's, are combined achievements of surpassing importance in engineering, in manufatturing and in serving. From other authorities in those respective fields, praise will be unanimous, so complete are the Hupmobile accomplishments.

You, too, will voice your approval of the Hupmobile Six. Your enthusiasm will increase daily as you drive your six and more fully appreciate the satisfaction you have secured for an expenditure which heretofore could not bring you comparable peformance, comfort or satisfaction.

POSTAL RECEIPTS PROVE CITY GROWS.

Postal receipts for the nine-month period ending September 30, 1925, show an increase of $38,901.28 over the receipts for the same period of 1924, according to an announcement from the postoffice department yesterday afternoon. Receipts for the month of September, 1925, were $22,230.48, while for 1924 the receipts for September were $16,288.03, showing an increase this year of $5,942.45.

HOOSIER CLUB PLANS DAY AT T.-O. FAIR.

On next Wednesday, all former citizens of Indiana will celebrate by their presence at the fair, a day of their very own, known as "Hoosier day." Previous announcements that it would take place on Monday, October 5, being in error. The Wichita Falls Hoosier club having a membership of nearly 150, hold their regular meetings on the second Friday nights of January, April, July and October during each year. The next regular meeting night will be October 9, or Friday night of this week. The place will be Scotland park, this city, the hour to be at 7 p. m.

UNIQUE PUBLICATIONS ARE SHOWN AT FAIR.

One of the original copies of the Gazette or talks and debates given by the legislators of the seventh legislator of the state of Texas in Austin 1858 will be found in the exhibit antiques at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, the Woman's building. The debates in this volume are those where the opponents of the University of Texas tried to kill the bill by trying to establish two or more universities in Texas, knowing that the state could not at that time establish more than one university. Another volume is that of "The-Lone Star," and the "Southern Watchtower," 1851 and 1852. Another volume that from 1855-1857 was published in Washington, Texas, in the early days.

BUILDING PERMITS SHOW AN INCREASE.

Building permits for the week ending October 3 showed an increase of $7,100 over the total of the preceding week. The thirty-three permits for the week amounted to $84,435, according to reports from the office of the city clerk, W. E. McBroom.

AMPLE PROTECTION IN CASE OF FIRES

Ample fire protection is available at the fair grounds through the courtesy of the Wichita Falls fire department. A hose truck and a full crew of firemen is stationed near the main office building and will be ready any time, night or day, for duty in any part of the exposition site. Fire plugs are scattered liberally about the grounds.

PLENTY OF JUICE FOR THE T-O FAIR

One of the important crews on the T-O grounds Saturday was that of the Wichita Falls Electric company which is supplying all the juice needed. When it is considered that every concession stand, every building and almost everything else has to have its supply of current, the importance of this commodity may be seen. No kicks were heard on the service.

CROWDS ARE STEERED STRAIGHT AT FAIR

A small army of attendants and employees are being used to steer the crowds straight, handle the routine matters and keep the wheels turning at the fair. And all of them, sooner or later, find their way to the general office to ask a question or receive an order.

EPWORTH LEAGUE OF FIRST CHURCH MEETS

Ansil Lynn Epworth League of the First Methodist church, corner Tenth street and Lamar avenue, will meet Sunday evening October 4th, at 6:45 p. m. Miss Florence McCulloch will lbe the leader, who selected as her subject "The Art and Practice of Friendship." The program will be arranged as follows: Scripture Reading, Miss Florence McCulloch; "How to Win Friends," Judge Bruce; vocal solo, Baldwin Montgomery; "Friendship of the Bible," Mrs. McCarty; piano solo, Miss Catherine Kilander; reading, Mrs. Lloyd Young.

SPEED SHOWN IN EXAM OF BABIES

Three babies every fifteen minutes were measured, weighted and given physical examinations during the day Saturday at the Texas-Oklahoma fair at the free medical clinic of the Better Baby contest. There will be no clinic held on Sunday, but the work will continue through Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

BANK CLEARINGS HIGHER THAN BEFORE

Bank clearings for the week ending October 3 totaled $3,416,582.43, according to the statement issued by the Wichita Falls Clearing House Association Saturday. The week's clearings were $646,120.43 more than that of the week ending September 26. Thursday was the biggest day's business with $829,934.18 clearings.

Scene of Tragic Tunnel Cave-In Near Richmond, Va., Is Historically Famous, Says Wichita Visitor

Cause of Bore Through Hill Directly Under Old Home Of Betty Van Lew, Noted Union Spy in Civil War

No one in Texas is more interested in the story of the tunnel cave-in at Richmond, Va., than Beverly White, newspaper reporter and showman, now at the Kemp hotel. Mr. White is a native of Richmond. Scores of times he went through the tunnel as a boy.

Richmond, like Rome, is built on seven hills. Church Hill is the most easterly. Mr. White's grandfather, the late Capt. Edward S. Gay, was one of the engineers who built the Church Hill tunnel. The bore dates back to Civil war days.

As Richmond grew it was necessary to build a tunnel to bring trains further west than Fulton, which is just east of Church Hill. The tunnel was the result. Since it was built no serious accident has occurred until the recent cave-in. Once in its history there was danger of a train wreck and fire in the tunnel.

At its western mouth a car load of unslacked lime turned over. This was wet by water backed up in a drainway. The fire that resulted endangered a train coming through the tunnel. However, a quick thinker ran through the fire, flagged the train, turned it back.

On Historic Site.

The course of the tunnel is almost directly under two historical places. One of these is St. John's Episcopal church. It was where the House of Burgesses, or Virginia Colonial legislature was in session when Patrick Henry made the speech that fired the war of the Revolution. The other was the 'Betty' Van Lew home. Situated on Church Hill it commanded a view of the battle fields around Richmond, and also of the navigable waterway of the James river.

It was in this home that Miss Van Lew, of Philadelphia, lived. She was a Union spy, and for the greater part of the war kept the Federal generals supplied with facts directly from within the Confederate capital city.

Once Abandoned.

In the administration of President Grant she was postmistress at Richmond. It was from this house, located just above the tunnel cave-in that she sent a negro through the lines to get fuel wood. His actions aroused suspicion. Search proved he carried valuable papers in his shoe.

For several years the tunnel was abandoned for passenger traffic, as building the Chesapeake and Ohio depot nearer the river offered the road a chance to run around the south end of Church Hill.

MAY EXPECT NO DECREASE IN TIRE COST

General Tire Co. Advises Users Not to Delay Purchases

Without analyzing the tire price condition, car owners in many sections of the country have drawn the false and illogical conclusion that prices must drop. The falsity of this reasoning lies in the fact that when the last raise was made effective July 18, crude rubber for immediate delivery was quoted at $1.20 per pound and for delivery from October to December 98 cents per pound.

It can be seen how this opinion was formed when we consider that there are those who believe tire prices should be based on current market quotations rather than on actual cost of rubber going into the tires. Notwithstanding this opinion, prices have always been and still are figured at the cost of rubber actually going into the tires. Present tire prices are based on approximately 55 cents per pound but since June 15 or over a month previous to the time tires were priced on that basis. Rubber for immediate delivery has not been as low as 55 cents since the middle of May. Rubber for October-December delivery on September was quoted at 80 cents without much hope of relief.

Manufacturers did not think it necessary to set their prices for tires higher than on the basis of 55-cent rubber because most of them were fairly well covered around this figure and they believed the highly inflated crude market would break. They felt that an increase in London stocks of crude rubber and a curtailment of tire production would bring this about. In fact, they were so thoroughly convinced of this that while rubber was being quoted between 80 cents and $1.20 no purchasing whatever was done by manufacturers. It was limited only to speculators who were largely responsible for the high market at those figures.

Conditions now do not bear out the fullest expectations of manufacturers. The general feeling that August would show a large curtailment in the manufacture of rubber goods was disproved when the August consumption figures were published. London stocks of crude rubber, instead of incressing as was predicted, showed very sharp decreases. So that the two factors on which hope was based for stabilizing the market reacted in exactly the opposite from a favorable direction.

The General Tire and Rubber company has always followed a policy of advising against speculation and they have shown in their history the soundness of maintaining this policy. They have never advised their dealers to load up with heavy stock nor have they advised their dealers to load up their commercial accounts. However, under the present conditions General does advise tire users, especially commercial accounts, to keep up regular purchases for current requirements. General tire officials feel with the present aspect on the situation tire users can consider themselves fortunate if manufacturers are able to continue on present prices.

NO CLUES T ROBBERY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Detectives assigned to run down the thieves who on Wednesday stole the famous Woolworth-Donahue $863,000 collection of gems have been furnished with enough clues to run down all the crooks in New York. The thieves did not leave the clues; they have been furnished by an army of amateur detectives who have besieged police head quarters to be assigned to the case.

INDIANS ON WARPATH.

KINGMAN, Ariz., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Swearing vengeance against the white man and threatening reprisals if the penalty of death is carried out against George Sujynamie, young member of their trib who has been sentenced to be hanged at the military reservation near Prescott on October 10 for murder, a number of the members of the Walapai tribe have taken to the mountains here.

BAGGING SHORTAGE SEEN.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 3.—(AP) Memphis merchants reported tonight that several cotton gins in the south will be forced to suspen operations soon if a shortage of cotton bagging continues to exist. An unusually early cotton crop has caused the shortage.

Lemons Tighten Wrinkled Skin

Squeeze the juice of two lemons in a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents, shake well and you have the very mildest anti-wrinkle lotion to tighten relaxed skin, erase fine lines and eradicate crows-feet.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion into the skin at night. By morning most of the tell-tale wrinkles, tired lines and crows-feet are smoothed out, giving a more youthful contour to cheeks, chin, throat. It leaves the skin velvety soft, clear and fresh.

Beauty experts use this astringent lotion for enlarged pores, also to bleach and whiten sallow, tanned skin.

Mix this harmless lotion yourself since it acts best immediately after prepared.—Adv.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

After lying on my bed for five months with Rheumatism, part of which time I was only able to move my right foot, I was in fact practically paralyzed at the time I heard of "Bracey's Rheumatic Wonder."

After taking in all eight bottles of "Bracey's Rheumatic Wonder" in conjunction with "Bracey's Joint Ease" I am now able to do all my own housework and feel and look 20 years younger, though I am 46 years of age. I and all my children will cheerfully recommend "Bracey's Rheumatic Wonder."

THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Mariam Thompson by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the 1st Monday in December A. D. 1925, the same being the 7th day of December A. D. 1925. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 26th day of Sept. A. D. 1925, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 17528-B wherein, Annie Thompson is plaintiff and Mariam Thompson is defendant and said petition alleging, that plaintiff and defendant were legally married Feb. 15, 1921, and continued to live together until December, 1924, wherein they separated on account of the cruel and outrageous conduct of the defendant toward this plaintiff. That the defendant has never since their marriage supported the plaintiff, but she had to work and make a living for herself and child. That there was one child born to plaintiff and defendant, a boy four years old, named Clyde Thompson.

Wherefore plaintiff prays for judgment dissolving the bonds of matrimony which now exists between plaintiff and defendant, and that she, be given the exclusive care and custody of the child, Clyde Thompson, for costs of suit, etc.

Herein fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 26th day of September, A. D. 1925.

A. F. KERR, Clerk,
District court, Wichita county, Texas.
By EUNICE JACKSON, Deputy.

"Scotland Addition"

Scotland Addition is the only close in addition on the market and it will soon all be sold out. You should use good judgment and common sense in purchasing real estate.

Vacant lots are worthless to build on unless you can secure all the modern conveniences. When you purchase a lot in Scotland Addition you absolutely know it is accessible to water, sewerage, electric lights, street railway, telephone, gas, paved highway, etc.

Why go way out several miles to buy vacant lots without modern conveniences, when they can be had close in to the business district with all modern conveniences at a saving of several hundred dollars? We still have a few choice lots in this addition which we can sell as low as $400 each, on good terms.

If you own one of these lots, free of encumbrance you can easily get a modern home built on same where you can pay it out like rent. If you want one of these bargains you had better see us at once.

Exhibit Shows Of Gopher Damage

The United States Department of Agriculture, bureau of extension service, has placed on exhibit at the fair a relief model booth showing damage wrought on farms by gophers and methods of killing them in the north east corner of the agricultural building at the fair.

The booth shows a "before and after" scene in an an alfalfa patch. On the one hand gophers have chewed up the roots to plant and the field presents a very barren aspect. On the other side of the booth the field is supposed to have been rid of the gophers and a bumper alfalfa crop is shown, graphic representation of best poisoning and trapping methods are shown in the display.

QUEEN

featured performer Mrs. George Thorburn, who sang "You're Just a Flower From an Old Boquet." This was something of a prologue to the Bluebonnet skit coming a moment later when, with Misses Katherine Weeks and Elizabeth Langford dancing a minuet to perfection,a Bluebonnet supportin gcast bobbed about.

The last two standard bearers were J. D. Buford and Mrs. Fred Weeks, the former representing the Confederate period of reconstruction from 1861 to 1870, and the latter representnig the present age which started in 1870. For the Confederacy skit a character dance in costume was given by Camille Avis, Charlotte Sutton, Wilma Brown, Ona Bell Britain, Nancy Faver and Juanita Mozengo.

For the United States period was provided a medley of music, dancing and militarism. Boy Scouts opened it with military manouvers and were followed by Girl Reserves with Miss Ivo Wilson representing the Associational Spirit.

Miss Anna Mae Cato as "The Jazz Girl" in a solo dance with Jane Rahl and Suzette Paul brought on the beginnin gof the end as she introduced Mrs. Louella B. Thompson as "Columbia," symbolic of culture. As the Torch of Progress was presented by the queen to Miss Columbia the band broke into the Star Spangled Banner, the crowd stood at attention and the recessional brought the pageant to a close.

As the coronation was a tribute to Mrs. Jouette M. Bonner and Mrs. Luther Hoffman who designed and directed thi sfeature, so was the pageant a tribute to those who have worked long to make it a success.

It was supervised by Mrs. E. L. Fulton, assisted by Miss Ella Merle Mathis. Everett Johnson of the Chicago Cadet band ably directed the music, while the historical data on which the pageant was based was supplied by Miss Johnnie Morgan.

As aides in the garland dance were Frances White, Alice Sides, Margaret Louise Bollier, Mary Ella Harblin, Blanche Penick, Lucile Waggoner, Iris Green, Patsy Lou Thornberry, Juanita Harrison, Arlene Murphy, Irvene Roberts, Sue Ann Timberlin, Margaret Helgerson, Helen Clayton, Jane Clayton, Charlotte Joiner, Jessie Kelley, Mary Hyatt, Wilma Warman, Grace Warman, Mary C. Boone, Helen Berney, Elizabeth Albritton, Roberta Corbin, Louise Corbin, Joan Erwin, Marie Dollard, Winella Ward, Mary Leonard, Naomi Lynn, Elizabeth Hines, Mary E. Smith, Beatrice Hathorn.

In the Spanish chorus were Reva Ray Brown, Dorothy Coleman, Harriett Peterson, Jewel Rose Akin, Margaret Hines, Dorothy Shamburger, Lora Lee Hampshire, Geraldine Monroe, Olista Ruth Morrison, Emily Mitcham, Dolores Peavy, Mary Peters, Mary Ferguson, Estellyne Allday, Winzella Witherspoon, Elnora Stovall, Bettie Ray Glydell, Jane Moore, Fair Murphy, Lucile Carter.

WAR MYSTERY SOLVED

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 3.—(AP)—A monument erected here in honor of the dead of the world war has salved in a tragic way a mystery that long worried David Jansen of Portland. Seeing the name of John Jansen on the monument while here yesterday visiting the state fair, David Jansen made inquiries at the office of Adjutant General George A White of the Oregon national guard and found the name to be that of his brother, from whom he had not heard in 20 years. John was killed June 25, 1915. The brothers were natives of Hutchinson, Kan.

FASCISTI ASSASSINATED

FLORENCE, Ltaly, Oct. 3—(AP) Cavalier Luperini, member of the fascist party directory of Florence was assassinated here tonight. His assailant Giovanni Benciolini, was pursued and seriously wounded. The assassination caused great excitement especially in facist circles.

Benciolini in his attempt to escape was chased by a great crowd, some of whom fired their revolvers at him. He was captured, suffering from wounds.

All the theatres in Florence have been closed.

G. O. P. Candidate for Mayor

Frank D. Waterman, "regular republican" candidate for mayor of New York City, endeavoring to take advantage of the split in the democratic party over the nomination, is appealing to women to wrest the metropolis from Tammany. He is seen with his wife. Mr. Waterman has a wide-world reputation, not as a politician, but as a fountain pen manufacturer.

ENDORSE LEAGUE PLAN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The 23rd conference o fthe Inter-Parliamentary Union, in a resolution adopted tonight, endorsed the efforts of the league of nations and the Pan-American union to codify international laws and called for a general and constructive plan for codification based on progress made in recent years.

ROUNDUP OF CHINESE.

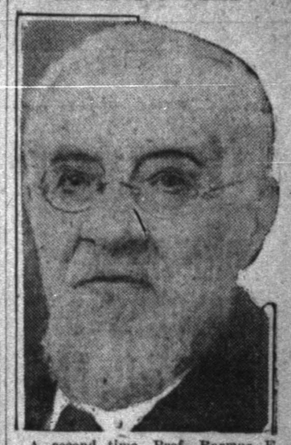

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The general roundup of all Chinese in Minneapolis, ordered by Chief of Police Frank W. Brunskill, in an effort to bring tong war activities to a stop, after the murder of George Chin, Chinese laundryman, Friday night, resulting in more than 70 Chinese being brought into police headquarters today for questioning.

TEXAS CATTLE HELD UP

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 3.—(AP) Two car loads of Texas cattle are in the Great Western railroad yards here pending word from shippers as t owhere to consign them. They were shipped from a non-infected area of Texas, against which many other states have set up embargoes because of foot and mouth disease and were consigned to Minnesota. That state, however, refused admission of the shipment and ordered it stopped in Iowa, where there is no embargo, except against the specific territory in Texas where the disease has been prevalent.

Refuses Medals

A second time, Prof. Rasmus E. Anderson, University of Wisconsin, has declined a foreign decoration with the comment that "decorations and medals are a humbug." In 1889 he refused the Cross of Danneborg offered by King Christian for work in Norwegian literature. Recently he declined to accept the Cross of St. Olaf offered by Christian's son, King Haakon.

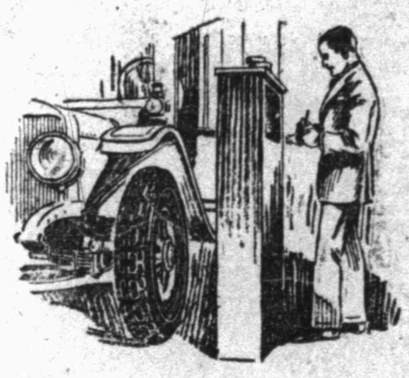

Yellowstone Park

Persons and organizations who caused the present investigation of the operation of Yellowstone national park are being attacked by the park superintendent, H. M. Albright (above). He says their own purses are uppermost in their minds and not the best interests of the park, which is as large as the states of Rhode Island and Delaware combined. Albright is accused of favoritism and misuse of park facilities.

The Right Tire in the right place

If tire salesmen calling upon commercial truck operators could carry five-ton scales with them, fewer truck owners would be disappointed in the mileage given by the tires. We weigh trucks and always recommend tires of sufficient size to carry the load. It would not pay us or our customers to use an undersize tire or a tire of insufficient number of plies in order to have a slightly lower price. This is one of the reasons why the General Cord has the reputation here for delivering the longest mileage on trucks, busses and other business cars.

Thousands of New Exhibits In Woman's Building

Needle Work and Culinary Products are Included

GREAT FLOWER SHOW

Children's Department Attracts Much Interest

With exhibits of women's work, children's work, flowers and plants, everything was in a hustle in the women's building at the Texas-Oklahoma fair Saturday arranging the various booths and displays which will interest every visitor to the huge exposition, especially every woman.

Exhibits in this building will include plain and fancy sewing, embroidery, children's work, older women's work, quilts, crochet, antiques, plants and flowers, applique, knitting and tatting and home club demonstrations from rural districts.

Mrs. J. C. A. Guest is chairman of the domestic art department. Mrs. Arch Dawson of the domestic science, and Miss Louise Webb of the home club demonstration department.

Sewing.

Mrs. C. E. Basham is in charge of the plain and fancy sewing booth which includes article of clothing, table linen and all sorts of articles made by women; Mrs. J. L. Maxwell is chairman of the embroidery booth which is well filled with beautiful articles for the home, including embroidered floor pillows, bed spreads, center pieces, luncheon sets and many other pieces of fany work too numerous to mention.

Mrs. E. A. Skalinder is chairman of the booth where work done by older women is displayed. Here some of the most exquisite hand-made articles in the entire building are shown, with the age of the maker tagged to them. Two unusually handsome bed spreads in the crocket work in colors of pink and white and blue and white call forth much admiration. Mrs. C. C. Randle is chairman of the quilt booth where are shown patch quilts, pieced quilts, a cross-word puzzle quilt and quilts of every design and color.

The crocket work booth is in charge of Mrs. G. C. Woodruff and every design of crocket known to womankind is shown here. The work is displayed on all sorts of articles from lingerie to table linen, bed linen, table runners, etc.

Antiques.

In the antique booth, which is of especial interest, are many articles of all kinds dating back more than 100 years. Mrs. D. G. Whitney is chairman and special attention is drawn to several articles owned by C. C. Randle and by Mrs. Mame Dale Brown, the latter of Iowa Park.

Mr. Randle has on display two bound books, one containing the official reports of debates and proceedings of the seventh legislature of the state of Texas, the date given, 1858. The other, a bound file of newspapers entitled "The Lone Star and Southern Tower, Washington, Texas," dating from May 17, 1851, to September 18, 1852.

Among the antique articles of Mrs. Mame Dale Brown on exhibit is a tea kettle of copper and holding two and one-half gallons, which is tagged, "more than 140 years old and still good." Another one of Mrs. Brown's articles is a yoke made in white solid embroidery, more than 100 years old.

Mrs. H. R. Wilson has on show a piece of basket weave cloth worked in the most difficult embroidery probably known. Small cross stitches form a very beautiful little poem under which are decorative characters. The work is exceptionally neat and the letters so evenly done as to appear like they were made with various colored pencils or ink.

It was made in England in 1808.

Replica of Library.

In this section also, is a miniature Kemp library where a sample of what one may find in the local library, including books, magazines and newspapers may be found.

Mrs. G. L. Shapard is chairman of the plant and flower display which occupies a long space in the front of the right wing of the building. This is the most colorful and beautiful exhibition in the building and constantly viewed by admirers. Of especial beauty are several huge princess feather plants with the largest heads probably ever seen in this state. Numerous roses of every variety, zinnias of many colors, two blooming hibiscus, the latter the property of Mrs. Fred Weeks, foliage plants, ferns, verbena in various colors and every kind of plant and flower grown in this section are here on display.

Mrs. Hubert Harrison is chairman of the applique booth and Mrs. B. M. Hester of the knitting, and on exhibition in these booths are boudoir pillows, table runners, dresser scarfs and every article known to the housewife that can nbe thought of on which work of this kind is used. Many unique original patterns are shown in both kinds to work.

Show Kiddies' Work.

The exhibit of fancy work by small boys and girls, in Mrs. D. J. Carither's booth will prove of interest not only to the children, but to grown-ups, as well, and will make up a large part of the educational program of the fair. This exhibit includes sewing of various kinds, spreads, luncheon sets, machine and hand sewing, crochet, knitting, cross stitch, stolychrome work and even a miniature aeroplane, all made by the "kiddies" ranging in age from about five to nine years.

Evolution of the Night Gown From Heavy Dimity to Sheerest Silk Is Seen in Exhibits At the T-O Fair

They Used to be Long and Three Yards Around The Bottom With High Neck and a Tight Waist

Daintiness, sheerness and frailty may characterize the night robes of the women of 1925, but to see the charming nightgowns displayed in the shop windows at the present time, charming in their pastel shades, it is hard to believe that only a few decades ago, the style, even in a "nighty" has so completely changed.

On display in the Woman's building at the Texas-Oklahoma fair is a fancy gown of 20 years ago. It is of heavy white dimity, long waisted with the flounce put on at the long waist line, measuring more than three years around the bottom. The set-in sleeves are long and fairly tight. The garment is cut with a high neck, and turn-back collar, in a manner resembling the cut of a Buster Brown.

It is not of the slip-on type, but buttons down the front with large buttons hidden by the lace trimming. The lace is made of tiny rickrack braid joined together with a chain-stitch of crocket. The design is worked out into a delicate pattern.

In the same booth is a dainty organdie dress of 20 summers ago. The kirt is cut in ten gores, giving it a flare such as is not seen in the present day skirts. It has hand embroidery around the bottom, and the same design trims the waist front. The dress is in two pieces, meeting at the wasp-like waist line. The blouse fastens in the back and has a high collar. It is much different from the loose one-piece dresses that the girls of today wear.

MERCHANDISE DISPLAY AT T-O FAIR WOULD DO JUSTICE TO ANY CITY IN THIS SECTION OF U. S.

Merchants, both wholesale and retail, of Wichita Falls have a display of their wares in the exhibit building at the Texos-Oklahoma fair and exposition, a display of merchandise that will do credit to any city in the state or this section of the counry.

The display of articles carried has a wide range—from soft drinks, to samples of coffee served to the visitors, from lumber yards where materials for houses may be found and the plans for homes, companies that furnish the interior, furniture of beautiful kinds, radios, phonographs of latest types, beautiful china, electrical fixtures, almost everything is carried by Wichita Falls merchants.

Some of the exhibits are unusual; some approach the funny side, all are instructive, and at each booth is someone to tell about the exhibit.

Furniture.

The W. A. Freear furniture company displayed a home of four rooms, each furnished with appropriate pieces. The sun parlor contained a wicker suite finished in gray; adjoining it was a breakfast room with a match. The dining room was furnished with an elaborate walnut table, buffet, china closet, serving table, and cut glass hanging mirror. The living room was complete with a three piece set, a divan and two chairs with odd chairs used in the room. An octagon table, a small gate leg table and a desk completed the room.

A bedroom in two-tone walnut with the pieces hand painted completed this display.

Clothing.

Perkins-Timberlake company's booth was a reproduction of a window of the store down town. One of the windows was given over to a display of men's clothing, featuring of fall suit and overcoat. Shirts with stiff attached collars and cuffs were in the display. The other window showed two models in French importations. One was a handsome red, afternoon gown, the other a ngeligee.

P. B. M. company showed a living room scene with two models in evening dress; the blond was gowned in a silver and rose costume with silver slippers; the brunette wore a gold beaded gown with harmonizing accessories.

"Wichita Falls, Population of 100,000 by 1930." was the poster displayed by Saul in the booth of Saul's store which was a miniature of the establishment on Seventh and Indiana. It represented the chain of stores in Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, Iowa Park and Electra. An electrical display lent amusement to the booth.

The W. B. McClurkan store booth displayed a little girl's frock in pale green crepe and valenciennes; a small boy in grey suit, double breasted coat and long trousers and two fall models in women's dresses, one in brown, the other in black, featuring the long sleeves. Fur neck pieces were also shown.

Other Displays.

Other interesting displays were shown by: Wichita Hardware, the W. S. Radio and Auto Supplies, Lone Star, Texas Water Softener, Charles Falls Electric company, City Laundry, B. Watson Paint company, Wichita and Dry Cleaning company, The Home of the Belle of Wichita, Christian Science Monitor booth, Draughton's Wooten Grocer company, Patton Mattress and Furniture company, Galbraith-Foxworth Lumber company, Martin Printing and Stationery company, The Robbins Insurance company, The Phonograph Shop, Blair and Maupin Wholesale Grocers, Taylor Brothers and Rhine Manufacturing company, Maxwell and Son Hardware, North Texas Furniture company, Noble-Little Hardware company, The Little Red Schoolhouse, Cline's Commercial College, Burdette Oxygen company, C. C. Lindley, drink stand, Panhandle Refining company, Williams-Dwyer Insurance company, M. J. B. Coffee, Nossett Studio, J. C. Penny store.

HALF HOLIDAY TUESDAY; W.F. DAY AT FAIR

Mayor's Proclamation Urges Whole Town To Turn Out

Tuesday, Oct. 6, has been designated as "Wichita Falls Day" at the Texas-Oklahoma fair. Every man, woman and child in the city who can do so, is expected to attend the exposition on that day. Mayor R. E. Shepherd, issued the following proclamation Saturday:

"Hear Ye! Ye citizens of Wichita Falls and be guided by this proclamation:

"Whereas, the Texas-Oklahoma fair, being a great regional exposition, which aids in the educational and progressiveness of the territory it serves, and:

"Whereas the people of Wichita Falls are indeed proud to be the hosts to the thousands of visitors, and deem it an honor to entertain them during the fairs, and because every man, woman and child should have an opportunty to attend the fourth annual exhibition;

"I, R. E. Shepherd, because of the power and authority invested in me as mayor of the city of Wichita Falls, do hereby decree a half holiday for the city of Wichita Falls from 1 to 6 p. m., Tuesday, Oct. 6, 1925, and have caused the official seal of the city to be attached.

Attest:
W. E. McBroom, City Clerk.

Canada Exhibit Very Attractive

One of the largest and most attractive exhibits in the Agricultural building is seen in that of the Canadian Government in charge of J. R. Bothwell, connected with the Immigration and Information department of the dominion. The exhibit takes up an entire corner of the agricultural building and has vegetables, grains, and fruits, stacked up in an engaging display ceiling high.

The grains in the display make a permanent exhibit, mut perishables such as vegetables and fruits require renewal at least once and sometimes oftener each week.

Clubs Have Dining Hall at the Fair

The local Civic league is conducting a dining room and lunch stand at the east end of the Woman's building where two meals a day, dinner and supper, are served. Home cooking is done by the members, a different squad of women from the organization being in charge each day.

The league will not serve meals today (Sunday) but have turned their dining room over to the Jewish women of the city who will be in charge, the proceeds of the sale of food to go to the Council of Jewish Women's treasury.

CROPS RAISED ON IRRIGATED LANDS SHOWN

Wichita Valley Exhibit Attracts Praise of J. A. Kemp

IS PRIDE OF FAIR

Occupies Central Honor Place in Agricultural Building

"Little short of wonderful!"

This was J. A. Kemp's remark following examination of the Wichita Irrigated Valley's display at the fair yesterday. Mr. Kemp, more than any other Wichitan, has been instrumental in bringing about the realization of north Texas' irrigation dreams, and the exhibits in the agricultural building yesterday told him better than words just how well he had succeeded.

"I don't know that I have ever seen a better display of irrigated cotton," Mr. Kemp said. "The whole to me is supremely beautiful, and in my opinion the greatest exhibit ever worked up for the fair."

The irrigated valley's display is the predominant exhibit in the agricultural building. It occupies the center space, and is by far the largest aggregation of farm products brought together for the fair.

Fine Cotton

Six varieties of cotton grown in the valley with stalks containing 100 and more bolls make up one side of the exhibit. The grades and the farms on which they were grown are as follows: Accalla, Experiment farm station; Lone Star, Ed Hoge, Kemp City; Meban, Charles Donaldson, Iowa Park; Mueck, Grady Wigley, Iowa Park; Greers, Iowa Park.

The opposite side of the display shows grains, fruits, vegetables and preserved fruit exhibits that easily match anything in the fair.

Show Vegetables

Ed Hoge at Kemp City has a display or Shallu, Mrs. Mamie Dale Brown at Iowa Park an exhibit of black eyed peas, Charles Berry, Wichita Falls, pumpkins; A. J. Dunn, Sudan grass that it is predicted will raise five tons to the acre; mung beans from Warren at Iowa Park, and sweet potatoes from Solon Downing of Wichita Falls. Downing also has exhibited some large bell peppers.

The experiment station at Iowa Park has exhibited a large number of grains and products adaptable to the valley, these including kaffir corn, premo, dwarf feterita, spur feterist, and chiltex.

The whole display is topped off on one side by a large birdseye view of the irrigated valley from the far west end of Lake Kemp through to Wichita Falls, a distance of about 80 miles. On the other side a banner forcasting a crop of better than a bale to the acre for the irrigated valley is displayed.

NEXT TO WOMAN, COW SWEETEST, SAY STOCKMEN

Also Are Wonderful Help Mates, Fair Exhibitors Claim

The sweetest, and greatest helpmate in the world, next to a woman is —can you guess

Visitors to the Texas-Oklahoma fair learned yesterday. It's a high-bred cow!

A high-classs cow demands more attention, more affectionand is, in return, more devoted than anything else in the world—except a woman, exhibitors at the fair said yesterday.

"They are very temperamental and are very high strung—just like a woman. If you don't humor them and pamper them, they sometimes are hard to get along with—just like a woman. But they are the most devoted, and at the same time, the most profitable things in the earth to have around, in the way of animals or business investments—just like a woman," said one exhibitor, who, for obvious reasons, declined the honor of being quoted.

Explain Comparison.

"We hasten to add," said one of a group of exhibitors in the dairy barns yesterday, "that we do not place cows on the same plane with women. We merely wish to pay the highest tribute possible in the world to the pleasure of owning, the profit of owning, a high-class cow."

This view brought a round of "amens" from the exhibitors.

F. O. McDonald of Brown and McDonald, Cleburne, Texas, owners of Bright Morning's Sultana, one of the finest and most famous cows in the world, says cows are mighty fine things to have around.

"But there is one thing certain," saiad Mr. McDonald. "If you have good cows you have to treat them right. They are very temperamental animals. We do not allow any herdsman or milker to yell at our stock, to strike them, or to abuse them in any way. You simply cannot keep cows in good condition unless you are good to them."

Pays Ten Per Cent.

"Bright Morning's Sultana paid ten per cent on a valuation of $10,000 in one year. And most business men would be happy if they could put their money in a sure thing that netted them ten per cent regularly. In one year Bright produced milk that sod for $1,200 and presented us with a bull calf that sold for $650."

One of the most attractive and out of the way features of the Agricultural exhibits is found in the mosaic work that has been done to make patterns and names for the various exhibits. Two of the most attractive of these are seen at the Randall county, Canyon booth, and at the Collin county stall.

The first mentioned work out an Indian design with the word "Canyon" spelled out in different colored grain seeds.

The Collin county booth shows a farm view depicted by the same method.

Variations of the same kind of work are seen in the name plates for the Portales, New Mexico, and the Hereford, Deaf Smith county, exhibits.

Notable Is Kept Away From Fair Due to the Stork

The stork has kept a distinguished visitor away from the Texas-Oklahoma fair.

Yesterday it was learned at the livestock department that her majesty, Bright Morning's Sultana, queen milch cow of Texas, would not be here this year because she had given birth to a bouncing baby bull. Bright, as she is affectionately known among the Jersey men of the state, and her brand new son, sired by Noble's King Bee, were reported doing nicely in advices to local representatives of Brown and McDonald, Cleburne, Texas, owners of the world-famous animal. The new addition to the famous Cleburne herd is a descendant of the famous imported bull, Cow Slip Noble, and it is likey that the youngster's name will include part of names of his famous ancestor, his sire and his mother.

COUNTY FARM EXHIBITS ARE BIG FEATURE

Shows Result of Scientific Cultivation of The Soil

DISPLAY FINE CROPS

Agricultural Building Is Scene of Remarkable Display

The agricultural exhibits make one of the most attractive features of this year's fair. The group, located on the south side of the agricultural building, carries displays from Portales, county, New Mexico, Deaf Smith county, Randall county, Dallam county, Collins county, Wilbarger county.

Stalls at both ends o fthe county booth group have been arranged for individual exhibits from the counties, and are well filled with choice specimens of crops over Northwest Texas calculated themselves to take individual prize offerings.

Wilbarger has a very attractive county display. There are 64 different groups in the booth, with grain and cotton predominating. Various grades of the cotton lond and short staple, ordinary and "half and half" are shown. Large melons, pumpkins, sweet potatoes and a number of jars of preserved fruits make up the biggest portion of the remainder of the exhibit.

Dalhart Exhibit.

Dallam county's exhibit, sent out from Dalhart, is an attractively arranged display of unusual grain and fruit specimens. It was this display that won first prize in the county exhibits last yedr.

Portales, New Mexico, displaying products of an irrigated district there, has put together an exceedingly attractive display. It is doubtful if another display in the building will surpass this for size of the fruit and vegetables and quality of every specimen. The exhibit includes large sweet and irish potatoes, watermelons, grain, onions, turnips, cabbage, beans, tomatoes, and apples.

Giant Potaoes.

Randall county's exhibit shows some of the largest sweet potatoes ever raised in Texas, and has an exceptional display of grains and peanuts. Hereford has some large pumpkins that make up the feature of its exhibit. Collin county stresses diversification and shows a large number of farm products, all of an exceedingly good quality.

30 Fine Jerseys To Be Auctioned

Thirty head of fine registered Jerseys from the dairy herd of Brown and McDonald, Cleburne, Tex., will be sold at auction at the Texas-Oklahoma fair livestock exhibit halls Tuesday. The auction here was selected by a committee appointed by R. E. Shepherd, secretary of the fair, which included one of the most eminent livestock authorities in the state.

Great Demand Reflected In New Features

Spectacular Exhibit Shows Remarkable Development of Industry in the World

Transportation in some form or other is one of the big problems of today.

Railroads, probably inadequate already to handle the world's commerce, are finding their most efficient supplements in the motor car. Man, with expansion of his individual sphere, dependent on something more reliable than the pedal extremeties the good Lord supplid, has develope dand is using the automobile. In the future it may be the airplane, the pneumatic tube or anything else the scientists conceive, but for the present it is the automobile and the vital part it plays in the transportation circles of the world that holds commanding place.

Immense Sale of Cars Permits of Improved Models

Consider, then, the automobile.

There have been cars and machines of some design for years, but it is only natural that with the immense demand now made for cars of quality; cars of speed, endurance, beauty, economy and durability, the auto manufacturer should seek to improve his product. This he has done—and Wichita Falls is furnished a cross-section of it in the automobile show at the Texas-Oklahoma fair.

Sleek, lustrous, gleaming — long rows of them in panoplied ranks, seem more like many-hued mirrors reflecting back long shafts of deep rich color, 88 cars make up what by common consent seems to be the best auto show ever arranged here.

An automobile in its ultimate analysis is something to ride in and travel in. But on the exhibition floor and before it has seen much service, it is a thing of beauty; a thing that stands as an artictic creation in which is embodied visual art and art of the utilitarian. This is a fact impressive in the extreme to othose who inspect the show.

A detailed study of the auto exhibit reveals this year a startling advance in the popularity of balloon tires; of two-tone duco finish and of four wheel brakes.

Eighty percent, probably, use this duco finish now; slightly less use the 4-wheel brake arrangement; and balloon tires are found as standard equipment on almost every type.

Why?

"The public just wants them," the dealers say, and there is sufficient explanation.

One other thing!

Open Models, Veteran Auto Dealers Say, May Be Passing

That is the closed car question.

Open models, experienced auto dealers say, are rapidly becoming passe. Sedans and coupes are selling far ahead of the open machines despite their greater cost and all indications point to a continuation of this trend.

For the benefit of the readers, the public generally, the auto men and the Texas-Oklahoma fair, The Record News presents here a detailed survey of the auto show. Every car sold in Wichita Falls is represented. And those displayed are of latest design and type.

Here's how they look, what they are, how they are equipped and who handles them. Take your pick.

Give the devil his due.

Lined up on the exhibit building and extending full length of the rambling shed are many and varied models; cars which in appearance and capabilities brook no comparison; but say what you will or believe as you will, the greatest drawing card in the auto show was the lowly Ford.

Perhaps it is the universal appeal of the universal car, more probably it is the curiosity aroused by the widely heralded new model. At any rate, the three Ford machines on display by the Langford Motor company had an unending circle around them.

Now everybody knows that a Ford has never been a mechanical creation calculated to challenge consistent attention from connoisseurs of automobile beauty. The celebrated Detroit man of affairs who first conceived the flivver has never fallen for the aesthetic side in his production.

Lowly Ford Will Continue The King of the Highway

But be that as it may, Ford has survived and prospered because he built an automobile the average man could afford; an automobile the average man could maintain; an automobile that gives many miles per dollar and an automobile that will for all time rule the road and highway in point of quantity at least.

Lately there has been a revolution in Detroit. The standard and accepted body models have undergone decided revisions—and Wichita Falls yesterday was given its first glimpse of the closed types. The Langford company has had a new model touring car for some time, but the closed car types were just brought in a few days ago and made ready for exhibit at the fair. A Tudor sedan, a coupe and a touring car are on display with the two closed cars commanding the greatest amount of attention.

"That looks like a real automobile," one callous observer remarked as he inspected the coupe with a critical eye. And it should be observed, is does—and is.

The motor, so the engineers say, has not been changed. Hence in mechanical performance there is little or no difference in the new model and those already on the road. But when you get around to design, prepare for a mental eruption.

Slung low, with a somewhat rakish line, more room, new conveniences and refinements—all are included in this popular type. The steering wheel, for instances, is larger; windshield wiper and rear view mirror are provided; the seats are tilted back for more comfort. The rear compartment carrier has been altered radically to provide more room and greater beauty; the gasoline tank has been taken from under the seat and placed in front of the cowl; the coil box, under the coil in the old models, is on top of the engine and out of sight under the hood; brake bands have been enlarged; the control pedals improved in design, fenders ar ewider and have a greater curvature.

These are the principal changes. They differ in the touring car and sedan only in degree. The touring car, the most popular of all Ford models, is also hung lower; spring design improved; lines improved.

Thus the Ford presents itself and challenges attention. From the time the doors of the auto show opened yesterday until they were closed at night, Ford products were a center of attraction. It might be remarked here that one of the most revolutionary changes of the whole thing is the departure from the conventional black to a color, tint in the closed models. The coupe and sedan are finished in channel green with nickeled radiator shell and nickel-trimmed headlights. The open cars continue their sombre appearance.

A change from the plebian to the aristocratt is merely a matter of steps.

Glittering, shimmering mirrored-coats, with power and beauty apparent in every line are the Lincoln, big brother and pater moster to the ubiquitous flivvers across the way. In the realm om higher-priced machines they have won a forefront rank; and the exhibit at the show is ample testimonial to why they have attained this favor.

Three of these models are shown; a six-passenger sport-touring; four-passenger coupe and four-passenger Lebaron sedan. The latter two are finished in cobalt blue and the first

Cross Word Puzzle Craze Fails To Stop With Hat Trimmings, Jackets And Shoes, But Now Goes to Quilts

Unique Comfort Fashioned in Pink, Blue and White Squares of 1925 Fad Is Among Exhibits at T-O Fair

The cross word puzzle craze did not stop with hat trimmings, jackets and the like, for on display in the quilt exhibit of the Texas-Oklahoma fair in the women's building is a novelty quilt fashioned in pink, blue and white after the 1925 cross word puzzle.

This interesting study was pieced and quilted by Mrs. M. A. Huey, 70 years old.

Patchwork quilts which were heard about often in the days of our mothers and grandmothers are on display, too, in the quilt booth of which Mrs. C. C. Randle is chairman. In silk and in wool, the quilts are well preserved. Many persons inspected the quilts, looking especially to the silk materials of 50 and more years ago. Some were embroidered after the fad of the time, some corded, pictures were woven in the cloth, old brocade and other varieties were shown.

Among the best kept old quilts of silk and velvet patch work, was one with a borden of red velvet and lined with a heavy dull red satin. It is in a class to itself because of the handiwork. Thousands of tiny French knots help to hold it together. It was embroiidered in little flowers, fans, rings and intricate needle designs.

The pieces in both the wool and silk quilts were put together with fancy stitches, including the feather stitch, both plain and fancy; crow's feet, cat stitch, and others.

Woman's Love For Beautiful Things For the Home Leads To Establishment of Unique Interior Decoration Shop In This City

Deep down in her heart she cherished a love forthe beautiful things, not so mucsh for anything as for the lovely and suitable things to furnish a house called "home." She had studied music, but even that did not satisfy the instinct within her.

Then the settling changed. She lived out in the western part of Texas for four years—in a romantic setting, on a big ranch with hundreds of acres of land stretching miles into the endless prairie. Shut off from the outside world, she had visions of beautiful things, and even there, in a two-room house 90 miles from a railroad, she created it into a thing of beauty, her little home.

This woman is Roma Tandy, interior decorator, who has recently opened her shop at Tenth and Broad.

Her husband died, and she no longer lived at the ranch. She went then to Chautauqua Lake, N. Y., to study with Frank Alva Parsons. Following her study there, she came back to Texas and was with the Halaby Galleries in Dallas. She worked in the daytime and studied at night.

Studied Abroad.

She had opportunit yagain to go to New York to study, and this work was followed b ya trip to Europe with her teacher, Frank Alva Parsons, and there she studied interior decoration in England, France, Italy and Spain.

"In London we saw the best of England in architecture and decoration in the British exhibition. In Paris, France, we studied the best tin the museums. In Italy we studied in Milan, Venice, Florence and Naples, while in Spain we studied at Madrid and Barcelon."

In speaking of furniture, Mrs. Tandy said that a good piece of furniture will always bae all right. "styles of furniture var, it may be English style, it may be Spanish. Just now there is a noticeable interest in Colonial things which is due to the opening o fthe new American wing of the museum. The best in early American furniture is shown, and maple, a good wood, is prevalent."

In her shop at Tenth and Broad, Mrs. Tandy has reproductions duplicates of the best pieces. "The old pieces were made by hand, but the new ones that are used now are copied by machinery which turns them out deftly," the decorator said.

"Spend Wisely."

It is hed desire to help the women to get the right things fortheir home furnishings. "I do not wish to get things that I would like, but to help them get the things they like, and find the best things for the money. I wish to help the woman with limited means as well as the one who has all she needs to spend. If she has means, it is important that she should spend it wisely," she stated, and she poke of her desire to be of service to the woman of the cottage or the apartment.

Mrs. Tandy carries a line of furniture, rugs, works of art, light fixtures, chintzes, damasks, in fact everything for an attractive interior.

Society

Peggy Piedmont

THIS week almost found me too busy to pen my letter to you, but pleasure before duty, my dear child, if you want to live long and be happy. The Texas-Oklahoma fair with its attendant social affairs and those given for the out-of-town guests has laid claim to most of us this week-end. I really don't think we have had a leisure minute for three solid days.

We have also been busy entertaining "royalty" Kitty, (now don't become excited) so if you detect an unusually aristocratic sound to my letter, don't be surprised and think it will be permanent, it is only temporary, and if you find it that way, I will tell you right here that it was caused by "association." For since the coronation ceremonies last night when Judge A. H. Britain was announced Rex Wichita, king of the Texas-Oklahoma fair, and Catherine Moore, was crowned queen, we have been in a social whirl where the atmosphere was permeated with royal graces.

AND despite the prolonged heat, October is again upon us with its hint of autumn days, social and club activities and there is more than the usual stir among Wichita Fall's club women this year, whose season was formerly opened Thursday afternoon with a lovely musical program and reception at the Wichita club.

On the same day two important Parent-Teachers associations met in their first fall sessions, the Carrigan and Austin, followed by the third, the Alamo, on Friday. With these meetings added to those of the literary, art, music and dramatic organizations, we are indeed beginning to bestir ourselves.

AND then Friday afternoon, the New Century club, the oldest federated club in the city, met with Mrs. D. G. Whitney in the first meeting of the fall and outlined fall and winter work. At this sort of a get-together session, the new officers were installed and instead of the usual roll call answered with current events, the women told entertainingly of their delightful vacation trips.

The new officers installed were: Mrs. Mack Thomas, president; Mrs. R. E. Shepherd, vice president; Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, secretary, Mrs. C. W. Snider, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. W. Gardner, treasurer and Mrs. D. G. Whitney, federation director.

THIS week, on Wednesday afternoon, there will be a gathering of another clan, the Wednesday Study club. These women who have been studying Shakespeare's plays now for several years, will continue their course along this line, under their same able director, Mrs. Charles William Wallace. However, this meeting Wednesday will not be a study session. But a charming get-together for the members when entertaining numbers will be given by the musicians in the club and others of special talent. Mrs. Wallace will also give a brief outline of the work which will be taken up this season.

I am not an exposition fan, but the opening last night of the Texas-Oklahoma fair, where so many Wichita Fall's women are engaged in making the big exhibition a success, reminds me that I would like to see the exposition of women's work and art industry that is now being held in New York. There are about 300 women from all parts of the world exhibiting their wares. The exposition makes no pretense at being conducted for artistic or charitable purposes. It is frankly a means whereby women may attract attention to themselves.

AMONG the justly famous and well known exhibitors is Marion Powys, the lace expert, who competed against men of many years' experience and won a gold medal at the Panama exposition of laces. Then there is Marguerite A. S. Korzelius, one of the most prominent ten specialists. There is also Grace C. Guard, a teacher in the art of jiu-jitsu, probably the only woman in the east who holds such a position. Another participant will be Marjory Walton, who operates a successful silver fox farm in Oakville, Ontario. Then there are advertising experts, jazz orchestra leaders, heads of publications, theatrical directors, etc.

Doesn't this make you feel that we are thoroughly emancipated, as it were?

I read somewhere that green hats are all the rage in London, as a result the popularity of Michael Allen's play, "The Green Hat." At the resorts and on the tennis courts all the ladies are effecting this bright green "sort of felt" creation, "pour le sport."

AND by the way, the play is a great box office success. The receipts are something like 350 pounds nightly with the S. O. S. sign in evidence at all times.

"The Green Hat" is now on at the Broadhurst with Katherine Cornell as Iris March. You simply must see it. Michmael Arlen has two other plays going, "These Charming People," which is really very much better than "The Green Hat" they say, and "The Family Upstairs," also a decided success.

Speaking of plays, did you get much fun out of "The Gorilla"? It is said to be a clever burlesque on the melodrama.

PLAYWRIGHTS have their own troubles. They say that although the author intended his play for an out-and-out burlesque, many persons took it seriously even on sophisticated Broadway. Witness the following announcement that the management of "Love's Call" issued: "As was the early experience with 'The Gorilla' and even further back in the theatrical annals with 'The Tavern' so it is with Love's Call' at the Thirty-ninth street theatre. Joseph Totten, the author, wrote the piece as a melodramatic satide, but on the opening night, save to a minority, critics and public alike were confused. Beginning with tonight's performance 'Love's Call' will be presented for exactly what it is, virtually a burlesque on melodrama, Mr. Totten having rebroadened the effects to an appreciable result, to judge by the laughter of those priveleged to witness this week's rehearsals.

ANOTHER behind the footlights tragedy? It is most heart-rendering when audiences laugh in the wrong places and thrill when they should laugh. Don't we Little Theatre workers know it? We have laughed with satisfaction and triumph when our audiences wept in the right places, and wept with fury and disappointment when they laughed in the wrong places. So we know exactly how poor Mr. Totten felt.

KITTY, I hear an auto horn blowing itself hoarse. So I must go to my front door and see who my callers are. Maybe it's somebody coming to take me out to the fair grounds. And if so, I shall not refuse to go.

PEGGY PIEDMONT.

MRS. ROUNTREE HOSTESS TO ATHENIAN CLUB.

Beginning the fall season, members of the Athenian club met at the home of Mrs. C. W. Rountree on Ninth street Thursday afternoon when the Chautauqua course which the club will study this year under the leadership of Mrs. S. P. Jones, was discussed. Mrs. Jones outlined the first lesson and also talked on the subject, "Dr. John Vincent," the originator of chautauuqa.

Mrs. J. L. Downing read a paper on "How to Read" and Mrs. T. J. Brock read one on "What is Chautauqua?" Mrs. Rountree spoke briefly on "The Story of a Man's Life on Earth," by Dr. Samuel Christian Schmucker.

During the business session, Mrs. B. B. Craft was elected president, and Mesdames J. L. Downing and T. J. Brock were enrolled as new members.

Following the business session an informal program was enjoyed in which Miss Katherine Kilander gave a solo; Misses Mary Ashmore and Marjorie Rountree, gave a piano duet and Mrs. Frank Creighton gave a reading entitled "Joy of Being Fifty."

An ice course was served to Mesdames L. P. Amason, B. T. Burgess, Paul Barnett, W. M. Barringer, J. L. Downing, B. B. Craft, A. R. Cannon, Frank Freighton, H. G. Harris, S. P. Jones, C. B. Montgomery, Charles Pridgen T. J. Brock and J. F. Vincent.

MRS. BARNARD WILL AGAIN HEAD CLASS

Mrs. C. J. Barnard was re-elected president of the Dorcas class of the First Baptist Sunday school at a meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. J. L. Jackson, Denver street. Mrs. T. P. Duncan was elected vice president; Mrs. S. Morgan, second vice president; Mrs. G. Clint Wood, third vice president; Mrs. J. L. Maxwell, secretary; Mrs. Joe Erwin, treasurer; Mrs. W. H. Davis, teacher; Mesdames M. L. Hooker, W. E. Priddy, R. H. Hall and B. F. Roberson, class leaders, and Mrs. R. C. Smith, press reporter.

New business and plans for the year were discussed, after which a program was given including piano numbers by Mrs. Ben Bell and a unique "coon hunt," staged, with Mrs. R. C. Smith, former teacher of the class, the principal hunter, assisted by many blooded coon dogs. Mrs. Smith is the much-loved retiring teacher who has taught the class for four years, and at the end of the coon hunt she was rewarded in finding many gifts for herself.

At the close of the afternoon the hostess served an ice course to a large number of class members and guests.

Mrs. T. R. Boone and children have returned from a trip to Washington, D. C. and New York.

Mrs. T. S. Christian of Altus, Okla., Mrs. F. E. Scott and T. O. Christian of Sulphur Springs, Texas, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Little on Eighth street.

MRS. PRESSON TO HEAD WESLEY GIRLS.

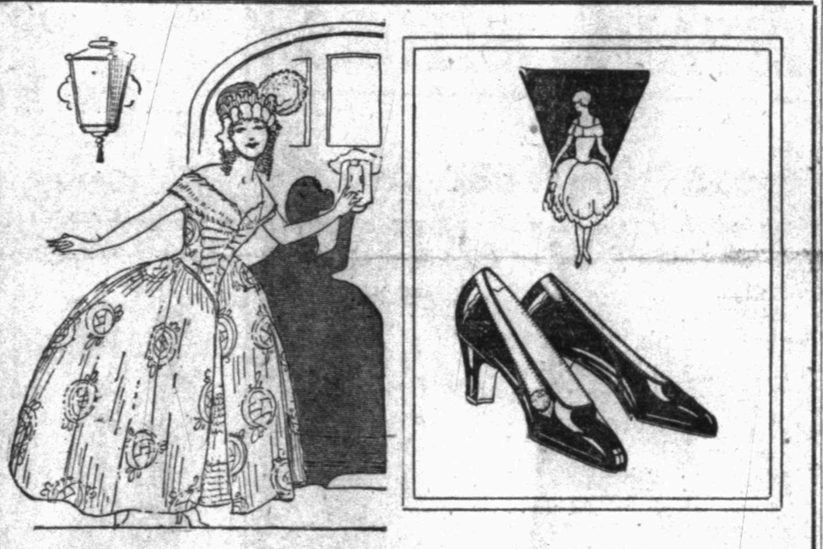

Mrs. A. K. Presson was elected president of the First church Wesley Girls at the meeting held Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. T. E. Miller, first vice-president; Mrs. John Riggs, second vice-president; Mrs. F. L. Mercer, secretary; Mrs. L. M. Byars, treasurer; Mrs. Hugh Weaver, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. L. Fisher, social chairman; Mrs. J. S. Gullihorn, house chairman; Mrs. Everett McCollouch, publicity; Mrs. Grover Bullington, cradle roll; Mrs. O. B. Keil, pianist; Mrs. Sadler, Mrs. Martin Rowe, musical director.

It was decided that the annual luncheon to be given by the Wesley Girls will be held at the Kemp hotel on October 15, when the new officers will be installed.

The meeting was opened with devotionals led by Mrs. C. F. Mercer and Mrs. W. W. Silk led in prayer.

During the social hour, refreshments were served by Mrs. J. J. Jenkins division to 30 members.

Mrs. C. C. Anderson who recently underwent an operation at the General hospital, is reported improving.

The Booterie . . . . . at the Fair

When Dame Fashion swings wide the door of the new fall season Monday evening the Booterie will be prominently represented. Models from Miller-Ferguson, The Parisian, and the Georgiana Shoppe will be appropriately shod in Booterie Creations. Beautiful slippers designed for every activity from morning until midnight will grace their feet—in keeping with the mode.

Originality . . . . . and the Booterie

The eminent distinction that characterizes Booterie footwear is the result of a thorough knowledge of the correct in shoe designing and an anticipation of the coming mode in the fashionable woman's attire. Booterie distinction is deftly embodied in every model—a quality that instantly removes it from any suggestion of the ordinary.

Hosiery—to Be Sure!

Sheer and lustrous—clear and of a cob-webby texture—Booterie hose will enhance many a costume at the pageant and style show. An assortment of new colors enables one to choose hosiery to harmonize with the fall mode—a blending that complements the ensemble.

Exclusive Models

Interpreted by The Parisian For Fall Wear

Silk for Afternoon Wear

Rich, softly glowing silk that tends itself gracefully to the flaring mode of the day. Trimmed with unusual embroidery, beads, lace and lingerie, these frocks are the height of smartness. In the season's smartest colors.

New Dinner Frocks

Richly fashioned of silk, chiffon or lace, they graciously answer the question of "what shall I wear?" More elaborate than the ordinary afternoon dress, yet not so formal as an evening frock, they are ideally suited to wear to dinner, theatre or informal dancing. Reflecting every new feature of the winter mode, they may be had in all the newest shades.

APPEALS LIFE SENTENCE

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Appeal of George Bankard, sentenced to life imprisonment in Polk county for murder of W. C. Richards in San Jacinto county, was filed in the court of criminal appeals today. Richards was slain by being struck by a piece of iron April 2, 1925, and the case was tried in Polk county on change of venue.

Jack Crews Becomes Head Of Greatest Electric Project

FROM chief engineer of the power plant of the Wichita Falls Electric company to chief engineer and plant superintendent of the vast new super-power plant of the Electric Bond and Share company at Trinidad, Texas, is the step of W. P. (Jack) Crews of this city has just made. The affable Jack, a well known figure in technical circles of Wichita Falls for the past five years, has gone to Trinidad to assume the duties coming with his promotion to the superintendency of what will be the biggest electric power station in Texas.

The eyes of the electrical world are focused on the Trinidad project now under construction by the Electric Bond and Share company, which is the parent concern of numerous power and light plants scattered through the state. The Texas Power and Light company, Dallas Power and Light, Wichita Falls Electric company and allied companes comprise the system.

For Central Texas.

This Trinidad project in its present state is designed to generate and supply electricty for use in central Texas, while its eventual development will make it capable of delivering current to points 600 at least and probably 700 miles away. That means current generated at the plant which is not far from Corsicana and Athens could burn lights and spin motors in Amarillo and beyond. The copper lines to carry this potent energy will radiate in all directions, although geographic limitations will necessarily bar them from extending but short distances in some directions.

There are other interesting features, however.

In the power plant of the Wichita Falls Electric company are dynamos developing electricity rated at 15,000 horsepower. That is the present capacity, and incidentally this has grown in the last five years from 6,333 horsepower developed when Crews came to take charge. The tremendous expansion of the plant made necessary by the remarkable growth attained by Wichita Falls in recent years and demands from small outlying communities served by the local plant, has been carried out under the supervision of Crews.

53,000 Horsepower.

Getting back to the Trinidad project, though, it has been found that Crews goes to take charge of a plant the first unit of which develops 53,000 horsepower in current. The plan on which it is building contemplates that eventually the generative and distributive facilities will care for 170,000 horsepower.

To generate this inconceivable flow of power, the company is introducing a plan unique not only in Texas but in the United States and the world, for that matter. It has worked out and is putting into operation a method marking a radical departure from anything ever tried before in the way of electrical production. Hence the interest shown from technical men the world over; and hence the importance attached to the promotion of Crews to the superintendency of the plant.

Two major factions enter into this generation, one being water and the other pulverized lignite. Each of these are available in profusion on this particular site. To obtain water, the Trinity river has been dammed to create a lake one and one-fourth miles long, three-quarters of a mile wide and 15 feet deep. And all this water is to be used for condensation purposes only. Eighty thousand gallons a minute, or 117,200,000 gallons per day are required for the mammoth condensers. Some idea of this condensing business may be obtained by comparison with the amount of water consumed in Wichita Falls. During the hottest days last summer the city never used over 7,000,000 gallons a day, while its average daily consumption is about 5,000,000 gallons. Hence, the Trinidad project utilizes in its condensers about 23 times as much water every 24 hours as this city consumes in a like period.

By Pulverized Lignite.

The real innovation of the plant, however, lies in its use of pulverized lignite for fuel.

About eight miles from the plant are lignite mines owned and operated by subsidiaries of the Electric Bond and Share company. Spanning the eight-mile stretch is a company railroad and over it is transported the lignite for use in the plant furnaces. This mineral is a very low grade of coal and is not adaptable to commercial use except after special treatment. It is used extensively in the cement industry where it forms a fuel base for the intense heat required in the cement kilns.

In the Trinidad plant it will be thoroughly dried, then pulverized into a powdery dust and blown in this form into the furnaces. Under the draft of a concrete smokestack rising 300 feet in the air it produces the raging heat required. The usual methods of firing with coal, gas or fuel oil are therefore rendered obsolete in this particular case.

One unusual feature of the plant construction is in this 300-foot smokestack, no part of which rests on the ground. A special steel frame work and bracing platform was built over the boiler rooms, forming a foundation for the towering and weighty concrete needle above.

Aside from its purely technical features, the Trinidad project is interesting as a study in industrial development on a large scale. The company has built a village all its own around the plant. It owns and conducts the churches, schools and other buildings and provides all modern conveniences for the small colony of workmen it has transported to the place.

As chief engineer and superintendent of the plant, Crews has under his direction over 100 subordinates at present, with the prospect of this number greatly increasing as more units are added to the concern. His promotion came as a merited reward for efficiency and thorough technical training and experience. He has seen extensive service in the electrical world. He came to Wichita Falls from Beaumont where he was with Stone and Webster, and during his stay here established an enviable record as an electrical expert.

Sam Houston Needs More Desk Room

Desks were moved from Sam Houston school to the Bowie school Saturday, while new desks were placed at Sam Houston, in order to take care of the crowded conditions, W. W. Brown, secretary of the school board said yesterday.

The school board will meet Monday night, Mr. Brown stated, and will go into plans for the new Junior High school building which is to be erected between Avenue H and Avenue I between Polk and Taylor. The construction work will be begun as soon as specifications and plans are approved by the board.

Remodeling of the toilet rooms of Austin school will be begun immediately. Plans also are being made for the immediate installation of a first class cafeteria at the Old Junior High school. The building was erected in 1890, and at that time no sewers were in the city, and other sewers will be added at this time. The repairs for both buildings will total $1,000, the secretary said.

A big rush is expected in the schools Monday, for children who have been in the cotton fields are expected. Each Monday since the opening of school many new pupils have registered, it was said.

SOCIAL MEETING.

In the Baptist church parlors Monday afternoon the Woman's Missionary union held its social and missionary meeting. Mrs. B. Kimbrough was leader and Mrs. Mae Ellis was hostess for the afternoon. Mrs. Ellis conducted the devotional worship and Rev. J. N. Hunt, pastor of the church, offered prayer. This was followed by an interesting program, with Mesdames H. M. Tannahill, McClure, R. J. Brown, Cyrus Coleman, J. M. Houten and Miss Ettie Pickens taking part. After the program lovely refreshments were served by the hostess to the flolowing guests: Mesdames G. P. Jones, B. Kimbrough, W. P. McClure, Jake Lebus, J. M. Van Houten, G. B. King, Cyrus Coleman, T. J. Thaxton, A. L. Thompson, R. J. Brown, H. M. Tannahill, Lillie Brown, S. E. Galloway, Long of Decatur, Mae Ellis, Lucy Bean, E. P. Moffett, Miss Ettie Pickens and Rev. J. N. Hunt.

HONORING MRS. McMORDIE.

Mrs. F. D. McMordie, who left this week for Decatur to reside, was honoree at a bridge party Wednesday afternoon given by Mrs. E. C. Carter.

There were four tables of players and Mrs. J. O. Gilliland won high score prize, several pretty handkerchiefs. The honoree was given a Madeira guest towel. An ice course was served to Mesdames W. J. Mangum, Fred Cummings, F. O. Moore, W. H. Myers, Alvis Fuller, C. K. Brown, B. P. Schwend, R. J. Brown, J. O. Gilliland, W. L. Mount, Joseph Edwards, Roy Snearly, Brad Staggs, A. B. Edwards and Miss Hart Galloway.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Methodist church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. George Cunningham, leader. It was decided at this meeting to hold a get-together meeting October 9 with a varied program, each organization in the church and Sunday school will be represented.

MUSIC CLUB.

The Music club held its first meeting of the season Monday night with Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Schwend. Miss Junmay Norman, president of the club, had charge of the meeting. Opera and choral work will be studied this year. The next meeting will be October 6.

BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. B. P. Schwend was hostess this week to the first meeting of the Thursday Bridge club. Lilacs, golden glow and cosmos formed the house decorations. There were four tables of players and Mrs. Joseph Edwards received a comport for high score. An ice course was served to the following guests: Mesdames C. W. Firestone, A. B. Edwards, Will Neville, Lewis Ikard, Brad Staggs, E. C. Carter, Roy Snearly, W. L. Mount, Cedric O. Taylor, Joseph Edwards, P. H. Neville, W. S. Culwell, Alvis Fuller, R. J. Brown and W. H. Myers.

CHILDREN'S PARTY.

Wednesday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. St. Andrew Myers, little Miss Virginia Myers was hostess to a large party of her little friends with a make believe camp in the woods. The lawn had been converted into a typical "camp," the hidden spring (filled with ice water), the "mystic well" (filled with punch), the sugar plum tree (ladened with candy), the peep show and the tent where an Indian told fortunes was a most important place.

After dark lanterns were lighted and the camp was more realistic. The refreshments consisted of hot roasted wenies, hot rolls, pickles, hot chocolate, punch, cake and candy. Those enjoying the pleasant occasion were Francis Culwell, Maurine Cook, Lozell Hohenstine, Laura Marie Marberry, Billie Mae Culwell, Jessamine Nutter, Ruth Woods, Elizabeth Fuller, Jane Fuller, Carla Mae Worsham, Evelyn Taylor, Bernice Alcorn, Christine Carter, Louise Woods, Mary Woods, Joe Etta Holaday, Alice Net Holoday, Dorothy Ince Hembree, Mary Parrish, Pauline McConnell, Ruth Barker, Bess McMordie, Marjorie Moore, Virginia Bevering, Allene Bevering, Marjorie Bevering, Ida Catherine Neville, Agnes Hanagan, Sara Neville, John Henry Williamson, Bill McConnell, Bud Barker, Bob Holoday, Troy Douthitt, Jr., Roy Snearly, Jr., Lucian Parrish, Harston Alexander, Tommy Alexander, Billy Barlow Neville, Percy Neville, Norman Neville, Howard Reed, James Neville, Adolphus Hembree, Frank Neville, Claude McKinney, Jr., Leslie Culwell, Mrs. W. S. Culwell, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Myers, Mrs. Carl Barker, Mrs. Roy Snearly, Mrs. Joe Douthitt, Miss Mamie Kae Nutter, Miss Hart Galloway, Miss Dorothy Evans and Mr. and Mrs. St. Andrew Myers.

SPANISH CLASS PARTY.

Friday evening at the home of John Louis Koethe, the second year members of the Ibanes Spanish class entertained the first year members with a most delightful party in the form of a "kangaroo court," assessments were set and a penalty was given each. DUNN-MILLER.

At 8:30 Tuesday evening Miss Byrd Dunn, daughter of Mrs. N. S. Dunn, of 401 East Wabash, became the bride of Ray Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Miller. The ceremony was performed in the spacious living room of the bride's home, in the presence of a few friends and relatives, with Rev. E. M. Francis, pastor of the First Baptist church making them man and wife. The bride wore a lovely creation of blue satin, with accessories to match, and the house was decorated appropriately for the occasion. Those witnessing the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Norris Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Smith and children, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Miller, father and mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stephens, Mrs. N. S. Dunn, mother of the bride, and Messrs. Joe and Horace Miller. After the ceremony congratulations were in order and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Miller is a very popular member of the younger set, and has made her home in Electra the larger part of her life. She graduated from the local high school with the class of 1922, and has since been employed in the millinery department of the Marchants Dry goods store, and is a very efficient milliner.

Mr. Miller is a member of the Electra volunteer fire department, but is at the present time employed in the oil fields. The young people have a host of friends to wish them a long and happy married life. They will make their home on West Harrison avenue.

THURSDAY'S BRIDGE CLUB.

The second meeting of the season of the Thursday's Bridge club was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Chaffie on West Ide ave. Four tables of bridge were played, and 14 of the members and two visitors were the guests. The house was decorated in white and gold, which color scheme was later carried out in the score cards and the favors. Cut flowers were about the house in profusion. Those playing were: Mesdames Edward Schlaffke, H. D. Miller, Bruce Frazier, S. B. Marchant, Matt Chaffee, Ralph Watson, Henry Krohn, Sam Cummings, Paual Green, C. R. Miller, Johnnie Marriott, Jr., J. P. Parr, M. O. Turner, G. R. Davidson, E. R. Brown, R. H. Cook and the hostess.

Mrs. Edward Schlaffke, won high score and was awarded a perfume atomizer of frosted glass with mounting and traceries of gold. Iced lemonade was served throughout the games and at the close of the playing, delightful refreshments in the form of a one course luncheon, consisting of frozen fruit salad, chicken sandwiches, salted almonds and ice tea were served. Next week they will meet with Mrs. Mat Chaffee.

RAIN AT ELECTRA.

Rain began falling about 12 o'clock Thursday and a heavy shower completely drenched the city, before people had time to realize a rain was falling. Several other showers fell during the early part of the afternoon but the later part the sun was shining. According to a gauge taken about 1.5 of in inch of rain fell.

ROTARY CLUB.

W. J. Sheldon, a local business man promised the Rotary club of Electra, the sum of $250 if they would have each of the four meetings in September with a 100 per cent attendance to which sum they are entitled, having responded to the call. The money will be placed in the Student loan fund, which is sponsored by the Rotary club, for the purpose of sending some worthy young man through school. The club in the past has raised almost a $1,000 for this fund, and the added $250 will aid greatly towards this noble work. At the last meeting of the club, the program was gotten up by Messrs. Chas. McGaue, Frank Lebus and Douglas Rowland. Attorney Ben Tipton, spoke on "Unselfishness." and J. S. Pittman of Wichita Falls rendered a piano selection, and later "Sunny" Bevins, assisted by Mrs. Bevins, gave a monologue and song. Bill Slaton, the president presided. The guest who were: Miss Catherine Barr, Mrs. Sam Bevins, and Messrs. Ben Tipton, "Sunny" Bevins, and J. S. Pittman were welcomed by the club.

LARGE PARADE IN ELECTRA.

The Christian people, gathered in front of the W. P. Kipatrick filling station on East Cleveland ave., Thursday for a religious parade. About 1,000 people gathered about dusk, and paraded the streets of the city singing "Just the Right Savior is Jesus," "Brighten the Corner Where You Are" and other religious songs until they reached the tabernacle. The parade was led by by the Rev S. J. T. Williams, after which came a large sign on which was painted "Will "Hogg Revival," and carried by four young men. The next in order came the four banners for divisions A, B, C, D, of the young peoples organization. The Nazerene church had a very attractive banner, and the entire student body of the Thompson Ward school turned out, and paraded with their respective room teachers. Other organizations, as Sunday school classes and the Ladies' Missionary societies paraded in a body. The parade extended for about two blocks.

THURSDAY BRIDGE.

The home of Mrs. Johnnie Marriott, Jr., on North Main street, was the scene of the Thursday Bridge club, when they entertained their husbands Wednesday night. Five tables of bridge were played. Mr. Rollo Davidson won the men's prize which was a box of lovely silk handkerchiefs. Mrs. Will Chaffie was the winner of high score for the ladies, and was awarded an inlaid mother of pearl pin tray. The dining room was atractively decorated with cut flowers. Those playing were Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Parr, S. B. Marchant, G. R. Davidson, Frank Doores, Jim Gookin, Edward Schlaffke, Will Chaffie, Dave Brown, M. O. Turner, of Elliott, guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Marriott, Sr., Bob Cook, Paul Green and Johnnie Marriott.

This is the first meeting of the season in which the men participated, and the women met for the first time last Thursday with Mrs. E. R. Brown.

EX-STUDENTS OF C. I. A.

Ex-students of the C. I. A. held a meeting recently with Mrs. Dannie Dale, in Woodruff Heights, to register their approval of the course pursued by Dean White, and the faculty in regard to matters under discussion. Mrs. Capps of Denton wrote a letter giving the concensus of opinion by the following C. I. A. alumnae; Mesdames Homer Grizzle, Frank Doores, Jere B. Barnes, Homer Jones, Claude Suggs, W. L. Hubbard, Jim Gookin and Miss Minnie Maude Cox.

There are a number of other C. I. A. students in the city who as yet have not joined the alumnae, but are expected to do so in the future. They are planning to organize a C. I. A. luncheon club in the near future, and will meet once a month, but plans for the luncheon club have not been perfected.

J. M. C. MEETS.

The J. M. C. club met Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 with Mrs. Sam Ripley, at 301 West Ida avenue. Only a few members were present on account of the cottage prayer meeting, but they had a very nice club meeting and quite a bit of fancy work was done, and ideas of crochet, embroidery and tatting were exchanged. At the close of a pleasant evening, Mrs. Ripley served cherry ice cream and pineapple cake to the following: Mesdames S. C. Messengill, John Little, Bob Chandler, Herman Barnett and the hostess.

SQUIRREL HUNT.

A jolly group of young folks enjoyed a squirrel hunt Sunday morning. They left town at 6 a. m. and were back at 9 after a most enjoyable morning's hunt. Driving east to Little Mud they were successful in finding any number of squirrels. After the hunt was over a fire was built and breakfast cooked over the coals. Those in attendance were Misses Marguerite Frazier, Mary Slaughter, Frances Lemons, Holleen Thomson and Gladys McBride; Messrs. Jimmie Biffle, Leon Weis, Hollis Thomson, Chas. Thompson and Herschel Alexander.

DORCAS CLUB.

Dorcas club met Tuesday with Mrs. J. T. Eischeid, hostess and Mrs. Dick Coleman leader of the interesting Bible study. After the quiz on the "Life and Letters of Paul," a Bible contest was enjoyed. The hostess served a delicious collation at the close of the afternoon.

TUESDAY DINNER.

Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Bodenhammer entertained at dinner Tuesday evening. The house was gay with garden flowers and a lovely three-course dinner was served. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bodenhammer, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Surface and their two children, Dorothy and Dean, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cotner and their baby son, of Wichita Falls.

PROFESSIONAL WOMEN

Business and Professional Women's club entertained the women teachers of the Waurika public schools Thursday night of last week at a dinner, in the Stuard dining room, which was made gay and festive with baskets of golden rod and other fall flowers, which were banked in windows and on the buffet. The tables were centered with crystal baskets of gorgeous garden flowers and green and yellow ribbon outlined the length of the tables. These with the place cards and programs which were yellow covered with green ties furnished a very pleasing color scheme. Following the invocation which was sung softly with bowed heads, Mrs. J. S. Cole as B. and P. W. president, welcomed the guests. Mrs Edward Koeniger introduced each teacher and they were welcomed as a body by a rousing yell. Following the dinner there was a song fest with Mrs. S. L. Moore as director of the chorus, after which Mrs. C. I. Hoffman tuned in for a radio program which was being broadcasted from the "great and wonderful city of the southwest," Waurika. The following enjoyable program was given: Toasts, Mrs. O. E. Hancock, toastmistress; "Our Guests," Mrs. E. B. Anderson; "No Man's Land," Miss Edna Ponder; "Coming Home," Miss Jennie Mae Kerby; "Peaches," Mrs. Cora Adams; "Dates," Miss Marguerite Frazier; vocal solo, Mrs. C. A. Holding; reading, Mrs. E. B. Anderson; vocal solo Miss Uleeda Williams; piano solo, Miss Kathleen Bowden; piano solo, Miss Helen Huffman; quartette in costume, Mesdames E. B. Anderson, Nellie Phelan, Carl summers and Jeffie Thompson; the Paprodsky orchestra furnished the two closing numbers under the direction of Mrs. S. L. Moore. The guests for the evening were the 16 teachers and Mrs. Jim Thompson, Mrs. H. W. Lemons, Miss Gladys McBride, Miss Hazel Jones of Wichita Falls, Mrs. C. A. Holding and Miss Kathleen Bowden of Comanche.

KUREAN CLUB

The monthly social meeting of the Kureans was held Monday night at the home of Mrs. E. G. Ray, Mrs. Cora Adams and Mrs. Edward Capps being assistant hostesses. The guests were seated at beautifully laid tables with roses in crystal vases as decorations, and after each guest had contributed an amusing story they were allowed to guess what each item on the menu would be. To ask for "What Adam has been doing ever since the Garden of Eden," and to be served with a spoonful of dressing, added interest and spice to say the least. Following the lovely two-course dinner Mrs. Cora Adams gave a much enjoyed Irish dialogue reading which was followed by a debate, "Resolved, That Oklahoma's Next Governor Should Be a Woman," with Mrs. J. S. Cole and Mrs. O. E. Hancock affirmative, and Mrs. Joe Dillard and Mrs. E. B. Anderson negative. The judges, Mesdames Barger, Bernard and Davidson, rendered a unanimous verdict for the affirmative. With a Bible guessing contest and some music, Mrs. Aydelotte at the piano and Miss Veran Davidson singing, the evening was brought to a delightful close. The meeting next Monday night will be at the home of Mrs. Milo Bernard and will be the regular study lesson.

HIS TWELFTH BIRTHDAY

Friday night of last week Joseph Martin celebrated his twelfth birthday with a 6 o'clock dinner. A lovely three-course dinner was served at a beautifully laid, flower centerd table. After the dinner the jolly crowd of boys went to the Empress theatre where they enjoyed the musical revue which was being given that night. Joseph's guests were Donald Morrison, Jesse Sims, Leo Fincher, William Dawson and Billy and Junior Martin.

DELPHIAN CLUB

Delphians held a business meeting Friday afternoon of last week at which time Mrs. A. D. Cummings was appointed critic and Mrs. Harry Sutton parliamentarian. The first study lesson will be in "Modern Fiction," to begin with Thackray, and will be held Friday afternoon, October 5 at the home of Mrs. W. M. Browning, the meeting to begin at 2 o'clock. Roll call will be Current Events.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The M. E. Missionary society met Monday afternoon at the church with Mrs. M. C. Groseclose leader of the lesson from the Missionary Voice. The devotional lesson was "Friendly Counsel in Domestic Adjustment." The program follows: Women's Missionary Council on Lynching, Mrs. Charles G. Morris; "Miracle of Money," Mrs. O. L. Sims; "Life of Mrs. Booker T. Washington," Mrs. W. R. Sparks; "Foreign Students in America," Mrs. Bert Thompson.

The Presbyterian Missionary society met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. K. Price, who conducted the devotional meeting. The afternoon was given entirely to a business meeting and plans formulated for the Pure Food show which the society will have, beginning October 31.

ANNIVERSARY

Thursday night of last week to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Mrs. W. Y. Dilley a number of guests were entertained in the lovely Dilley home, which was charming with baskets of gaily-hued garden flowers. The evening was spent at bridge, Mrs. Jack Jasper having high score for the women and was rewarded with a lace handkerchief. A. E. Landon for the men, was given a necktie. A two-course luncheon was served following the games. The guests presented Mrs. Dilley with a lovely console mirror, and she responded in her usual pleasing manner. Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jasper, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Landon, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pitman, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stuart, Mesdames Gail Durham, W. T. F. Bush, J. N. Johnston, D. M. Bridges and J. L. Vertrees.

THURSDAY BRIDGE

Thursday Bridge club held a committee meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. E. Landon. After the business meeting there were two tables of players who enjoyed bridge for the remainder of the afternoon. Mrs. Gail Durham, having high score, was given a lovely embroidered handkerchief. The meetings will begin regularly Thursday, October 8.

Twelve members of the Catholic church have organized a society to be known as the Catholic Ladies' society which will meet once a month, in the homes of the members. Mrs. W. L. Gibbons is president and Mrs. A. D. Cummings secretary.

PERSONALS

Earl Burge went to Oklahoma City Wednesday night of last week where he attended a meeting for the purpose of the organiaztion of a crippled children's society of Oklahoma. The state is divided into nine districts and all civic clubs and societies will be asked to contribute assistance to the work.

Mrs. D. C. Goode and little daughter, Madena, went to Oklahoma City Tuesday afternoon to visit her father, W. W. Floyd, and other relatives.

Mrs. M. L. Kendall of Gainesville who has been visiting relatives at Henrietta, came to Waurika Tuesday noon to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Watson, who are old-time friends.

W. B. Phillips of Gainesville, Texas, spent Monday night at Waurika with his brother, J. C. Phillips, and family.

Mrs. Jack Stowe visited in Chickasha Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. Walter Roberts, and daughter, Mrs. Charles McBride, and Mrs. S. L. Moore and little Betty Jo McBride were Ryan visitors Sunday.

Hugh Cotner of Wichita Falls came to Waurika Saturday night to join Mrs. Cotner and little son in a visit with home folks. Hugh returned to Wichita Falls Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Turnage, Mrs. Jack Jasper and daughter, Mary Elizabeth, spent Sunday in Chickasha the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Turnage's daughter, Miss Hazel Turnage, who is a student at O. C. W. this year.

Friday, October 2, was spent by the Baptist church people in an all-day meeting at the church. The day was spent in work, cleaning and getting the grounds and building in readiness for occupancy. Dinner was served at noon by the women of the church. The dedicatory services will probably be held the third Sunday in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Augrabright of Ryan spent Monday in Waurika with Mrs. Augrabright's parents ,Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Watts.

J. S. Cole and E. G. Ray are two men who have the courage of their convictions. Monday night all alone they journeyed to Wichita Falls to see the big circus. And they went just because they wanted to; no excuse was necessary.

Seaman Jones, B. E. Vanbebber, Jesse Vanbebber, Fred Keene and Jimmie Henson of Addington all went to Fort Worth Saturday night to see the big ball game Sunday.

Hugh Marshall of Terrell was in Waurika Tuesday on business.

Mrs. Whit Sawyer of Lindsay is spending a few days in Waurika with her sister, Mrs. Lee Curtis, and family. Mr. Sawyer was called to Arlington, Texas, for the burial of his mother, and Mrs. Sawyer remained here.

F. P. Dunkin, W. H. Divers and Claude Beeson spent Thursday of last week in Frederick.

BLACK AMAZONS ROB

Soldiers At Fort Sam Houston Victims of A Pair.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 3.—The "black amazons" added the second and third victims to their reign of banditry Friday night, when they held up Robert L. Phillips, Battery E, Twelfth Field Artillery, Fort Sam Houston; and T. J. Smith, a soldier attached to the base hospital.

Both were accosted at dark street intersections by the pair of negro women and forced at the point of an automatic pistol to submit to search. The former lost $15, while the latter contributed $10.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"In children's ills, a harsh, sickening 'physic' often makes matters worse by lowering the child's resistance."
—DR. CALDWELL

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every day or two was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

The Texas Qualified Druggist League Says:

"Filling prescriptions alone would be a highly unprofitable business. Drug stores could not exist on that alone, and you would be deprived of the service of these skilled pharmacists if it were not that drug stores carry a tremendously large stock of related articles. These are sold on a small margin of profit necessarily because competition is very keen in this line of business."

Cotton Market Active With Trading An Evening Up Affair

Stock Show At T-O Fair Best Ever Seen Here

Entries Here From Some Of Finest Herds In Southwest

Thousands of dollars worth of beef and pork on the hoof, from some of the choicest herds in the southwest were shown hundreds of visitors at the Texas-Oklahoma fair livestock department yesterday morning. Although many pens and stalls were unoccupied, fair officials said arrivals in every branch of the department already far exceeded those of any preceding year. The vacant pens were being bedded for a score or more carloads of cattle which are due in early this morning. Conflicting dates with some other fairs in the southwest caused the delay in arrivals ,it was explained.

The exhibit of dairy cattle in the livestock department this year is especially good. The attractive premiums have attracted some of the most famous herds in the southwest, including that of Brown ad McDonald, Jerseys, Cleburne; Mistletoe Farms, Jerseys, Fort Worth; Diggsfield Farm, Holsteins, Fort Worth; Primrose Farm, Guernseys, Ardmore, Okla.; Woodhull Farm, Ayrshires, Hutchinson, Kan.

Beef Cattle.

Three fine herds of Herefords and Shorthorns were on display yesterday, with three herds still on the way here. G. W. Rasor company of Frisco, Texas, had a fine bunch of Shorthorns; W. E. Peterson of Justin, Texas, also showed Shorthorns and C. M. Largeft and son of Merkel, Texas, had Herefords. George Keith of Wichita Falls and P. S. Kendrick of Albany, both have herds at the Breckenridge fair which should arrive in town at any time for entry at the T.-O. fair. Another herd, unnamed, also is reported on the way here.

One of the finest bunch of sheep ever seen here, as well as one of the greatest varieties, with respect to breed and age, is that entered by R. P. Barnett, prominet sheep and goat raiser of Lone Oak, Texas. Oxford Downs, Shropshire Downs and Rambouillet sheep, and a fine bunch of Angora goats, are included in Mr. Barnett's exhibit.

Swine Show.

Entries from widely scattered points in the southwest are shown in the hog department.

Hampshires from the Flowerdale Farm, Dallas, the Joe Lillard Farms at Arlington and from Carl Williamson's farm near Wichita Falls compose an attractive part of the swine show. Great, fine-bred hogs are to be seen.

A bunch of Durocs have been entered by Joe Lillard and Carl Williamson, while a full show herd of fine Poland Chinas has been placed on exhibit by the North Texas Agricultural college at Arlington. A Duroc-Jersey boar is on show from the R. O. Hammill farms, Grandfield, Okla.

Tamworths are being shown by the Flowerdale Farms, Dallas, and Joe Lillard, Arlington, while Spotted Poland Chinas have been shipped here from Washington Court House, Ohio, and are on show. Another herd of straight Poland Chinas is here from Sedalia, Ohio.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The cotton market today was fairly active for a short Saturday session although trading was largely of an evening up character for over the week-end. The trend of prices was downward from the start and such rallies as occurred were due mainly to shorts covering to take profits. The lows of the day were reached right at the end and the market closed at the bottom showing net losses for the day of 16 to 23 points.

At the start Liverpool was lower than due, but not much attention was paid in cables, although first trades here were two to eight points down. The market continued to ease off after the opening sell under pressure of hedge selling, some belated long liquidation and a little short selling. There were several unimportant rallies due to covering by satisfied shorts to take profits and evening up for over the week-end.

The market reached the lows of the day right at the end with December at 22.15, January at 22.13 and March at 22.11, or 21 to 22 points down compared with yesterday's closing levels. The close was at the bottom.

The market was influenced to lower levels, the lowest reported on the present movement by the heavy movement of the crop, the bearish character of the weekly statistics and the raising of crop ideas in advance of the bureau report due October 8. Fears of record breaking ginning totals was also a weakening influence as some people are looking for a total of about 7,000,000 bales. Only one additional private estimate was issued today making the yield 14,400,000 bales. Exports for the day totalled 46,700 bales from New Orleans alone.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Cotton futures closed easy at net decline of 1½ to 22 points.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—With the volume of business exceeded in half hollday sessions only a few times in the history of the exchang, today's stock market gave another impressive demonstration of strength in early trading under the leadership of the motor, oil and baking shares. The rapidity of the advance for which no new reason could be found in the day's news, invited heavy profit taking which caused considerable irregularity in closing quotations.

Reports of large current earnings and rumors of special dividend distributions provided the basis for the further advances in the automotive issues. Dodge Brothers "A" was bid up nearly four points to a new high record at 38 on a total turn over in excess of 135,000 shares in apparent anticipation of the stock being placed on a $3 dividend basis in the near future.

General Motors duplicated its high of 112⅛. Studebaker, which reports that third quarter sales were the largest of any corresponding period in the company s history, moved up nearly two points to within a fraction of the year's high. Eaton Axle and Chrysler preferred "A" bettered their previous 1925 high prices.

Revival of speculative interest in the oils was based on the recent decline in crude production. Marland established another new 1925 high and most of the popular issues improved fractionally. Reports of marked improvement in the packing industry were reflected in the steady accumulation of those stocks. Armour "A" and Cudamy mounting to new high levels for the year.

Talk of further mergers stimulated the demand for baking issues. Ward Baking "B" soared 11 points to a new high record at 95½ and then fell back to 86¼, under an avalanche of realizing sales. General Baking held firm around 225 Fleischmann moved up 3 points to a new high at 143 and then eased to 141. Other stocks to attain new maximum prices were American Agricultural Chemical common and preferred, Mathieson Alkali, International Paper, Freeport Texas, New York Building and Woolworth.

Trading in the rails was rather quiet, prices fluctuating within narrow and irregular limits. Chesapeake and Ohio was one of the few features, closing nearly a point higher at 108⅛ after having crossed 109. Jersey Central jumped nearly 4 points on two sales.

Reactionary tendencies prevailed in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm around $4.83 11-16 but French francs ruled a few points lower around 4.63 cents. Moderate reaction also took place in most of the other continental rates.

LIVESTOCK REVIEW.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 3.—Unusually active trading developed in Fort Worth for a Saturday market. With 5,000 head of cattle and 200 calves here, buyers were out early offering fully steady prices, and trading was brisk. Mixed shipments made up the bulk of the supply and no really good cattle were here. A few consignments of desirable calves were offered, but nothing was at all toppy.

Hog receipts amounted to only 100 head, two loads making up the supply. Nothing was toppy. Both loads went to an order buyer—one at $12.80 and the other at $12.65. The market was steady to 10 cents higher, quality considered.

Sheep receipts amounted to 2,000 head. Nothing was on the open market however. Receipts consisted of consignments on direct and through billing.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 3.—Cattle, 700, including 200 calves; market unchanged. Beeves $4.00@8.00; stockers $3.25 heifers $3.00@8.75; bulls $2.50@4.25; calves $2.50@10.00.

CHICAGO CASH GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.— (AP)— Lowest prices yet this season were reached today by future deliveries of wheat. The downturn accompanied news that importation o fa considerable amount of Canadian wheat to Minneapolis for milling had been arranged. Wheat closed nervous at ⅝ to 1¼c net decline; new style, December $1.34 to $1.34⅝ and May $1.35⅛ to $1.35 4-5, with corn ⅞ to 1⅝c off, oats ⅝ to ¾c down, and provisions varying from 55c decline to a rise of 17c.

Corn and oats sagged with wheat, there was persistent selling of corn in small lots which was apparently for rural account. Besides, corn receipts were larger. Most deliveries of provisions were higher as a result of packers freely buying October lard.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 3.—The following shows range of values on the Fort Worth cash grain market, basis delivered group three, or Texas common points, based on bids, offers and sales of Fort Worth dealers, according to the Fort Worth grain and cotton exchange:

Wheat: No. 1 dark hard, $1.66@1.70; No. 1 ordinary hard, $1.64@1.69; No. 1 red, $1.73@1.84; No. 1, 75 per cent red, $1.74@1.79.

Corn: No. 2 white, $1.02@1.03; No. 2 mixed, $1.01@1.02.

Oats: No. 2 red, 62@63c; No. 3 red, 61@62c; No. 3 white 51@52c.

No. 3 barley 83@86c; No. 3 milo $2.05@2.10; No. 3 kaffir $2.00@2.07; maize heads $28.00@31.00; kaffir heads, $26.00@29.00.

K. C. CASH GRAIN.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 3.—Wheat: No. 2 hard, $1.47@1.62; No. 2 red, $1.50@1.61.

Corn: No. 2 white, 79@80c; No. 2 yellow, 80½@816c.

Oats; ½c lower; No. 2 white, 39½@40½c.

Produce

TEXAS PRODUCE.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 3.—The usual week-end trade was noted in poultry and eggs the shortage in Texas points. Receipts were not overly generous, however, and demand cleared offerings are approximately unchanged prices; San Antonio, poultry hens 18@19c; fryers 23@25c; old roosters 10@14c; turkeys 18@22c; geese 22c; ducks 18c; pound live weight. Guineas 25c each. Eggs: No. 1 candled mostly 31c; dozen, some higher; butter, packing stock country 25c pound.

Fort Worth-Dallas: Poultry hens large 17@19c; small 14@16c; springs large 26@27c; small 20@22c; old roosters 9c; turkeys 16@18c; pound live weight basis; geese and ducks 50@75c; guineas 25@30c each.

Eggs, No. 1 candled $0.75@10.00. Infertiles $10.50@11.00. Butter packing stock country 27c; creamery 50c; B 480 pound.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Poultry alive, firm; receipts 6 cars; fowls 17@25c; springs 22½c; roosters 15½c; turkeys 20c; ducks 22@26c; geese 17c.

TEXAS VEGETABLES.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 3.—Texas rolled a car of pears yesterday, but was not represented in the movement of other commodities. Potato shipments of the day were light but 700 cars, but apple shipments were brisk, 1,225 cars of this commodity moving by freight and 40 by boat in the 24-hour period. Total shipments of other commodities follow: Lemons 22; grapefruit one; cucumbers three; cabbage 207; grapes 831; cantaloupes 23; lettuce 46; celery 74; mixed vegetables, 67; peppers nine; spinach one; oranges 20; onions 183; peaches 31; pears 132; string beans 7; watermelons three; sweet potatoes 150; tomatoes 65.

Lettuce at Colorado points continues strong around three dollars, per California crate of iceberg. Some usual terms sales were reported as high as $2.25. Potatoes at Grand Junction were steady, notwithstanding a rather slow demand and light wire inquiry, with peoples russets, sacked quota at $1.25@1.30 for wagon loads to growers. Idaho Falls reported a cash track market for sacked rurals of $1.20 while Minneapolis-St. Paul on a car load delivered basis, freight only deducted reported sacked round whites bringing $1.70 @1.75. Grapes at Fresno were weaker around 85@90c per four basket crate of malagas and $1.15 for similar pack of emperors.

COTTONSEED.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 3.—Cottonseed markets are unsettled at the recent decline but wagon lot market is mostly in the neighborhood of $38 ton, although some points report prices as low as $32. The slackened demand as a result of cheap freighting privileges on feed stuffs to the drouth section of Texas has limited the outlet for cottonseed products.

San Antonio—Carlot delivered mills nominally steady at $36 to $37 ton. Receipts light, demand inactive.

Giddings—Wagon lot market in the neighborhood of $32 ton. 56pplies light.

Market Gossip

COTTON.

Liverpool opened about five points lower than due, and the close was 1 to 7 points up.

Temperatures warmer over belt, heavy rains Chattanooga, scattered rains Tennessee, Georgia, Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi.

Texas weather mostly fair to part cloudy. No rain of consequence.

Our markets opened slightly lower and continued to sag throughout the short session, and closed at bottom with net losses of about 20 points.

Heavy heading selling, and continuing clearing skies were the chief bearish factors, while trade buying was good, and probably saved the market many points decline.

COTTON SEED OIL.

Houston seed $38; oil 8½; meal $39; linters 4½ to 7 cents, hull $10.50; cake $36.50.

New Orleans: Active demand for crude oil and strength of lard reduced selling of cotton seed oil to a minimum and prices for futures and spots held steady and unchanged. Soap makers reported free buyers of oil. Spots 9.05 fro prime summer yellow. Seed unchanged.

GRAINS.

Canadian grain belt weather mostly fair, with temperatures below freezing at night, and late threshing still being delayed.

Our grain markets were just another chapter in the continuing series of light bulges at the opening and sharp breaks later, against taking all months to new low ground for the present movement.

Final prices were ⅜ to 4 cent lower on wheat, 1½ to 1⅝ down on corn, ⅛ lower on oats and ⅛ to ¼ higher for rye.

We see no reason to change our views on wheat, and believe it a sale on all good rallies for the present.

STOCKS.

Hure trading again featured the stock market, and prices were very active for the two hour period.

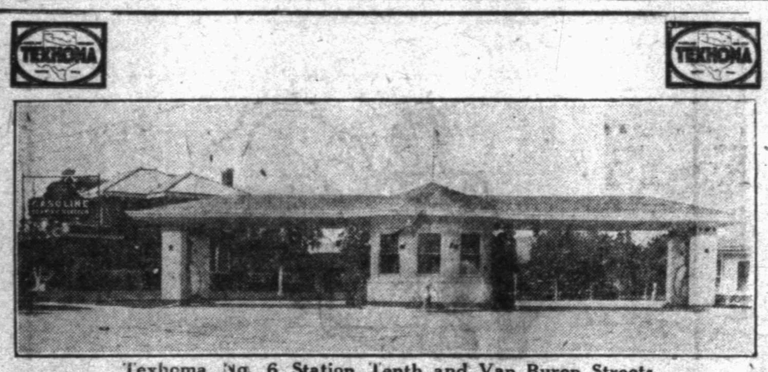

Oils continued very bullish, almost every issue showing an advance.

Ward Baking ran up 11 points on prospects of acquiring control of General baking, but lost most of the gain when profit taking swamped the Ward post.

Dodge Brothers, which ascended to new highs, featured the motors.

Rails were about unchanged.

As a whole the market closed with slight losses, and the final tone was irregular.

News of Church Services In Today's Wichita Falls Pulpits

Presbyterians Vote New Name

The Central Presbyterian church of this city is no more, for by a recent vote of the congregation, the name was changed to the First Southern Presbyterian. The last service of the Central Presbyterian congregation has been held in the old church building at Eleventh and Bluff, and today, for the first time worship will be conducted in the new tabernacle in front of the Junior college.

The new tabernacle is thoroughly equipped for the services, with a good floor, comfortable pews, and will accommodate a much larger audience than the former meeting place.

Services will be conducted at the tabernacle until the new building is erected. Invitation is extended by the church to the public to attend the services there.

All church announcements should be in the hands of the editor not later than 6 o'clock Friday evening ready for publication on the church page.

Theatre Offerings Include Variety of Vaudeville

"The Test" Will Headline Bill Of Majestic Review

Headed by C. B. Maddock, presenting Glenn and Richards in "The Test," Majestic has an unusual vaudeville offering this week.

Three Lerdens "Lights Out."

When you have visited circuses in the past and watched the work of the acrobat haven't you often thought of the other things that might be accomplished on the flying trapeze if they weren't impossible. These things are what the Three Lerdens do and there's a thrill in every minute of their act while the pretty lady in their act gives the audience a fine dancing treat. A human 'loop'—the loop' around the bar is just one of the many sensational feats that make you gasp.

A Tropical Revue.

To be tropical you must be timely. Hamilton and Bucher offer a tropical song revue which means a review of timely songs. Hamilton and Bucher are two attractive girls; attractive girls with pretty voices and pleasing personalities. So that their song revue is tuneful and attractive as well as tropical.

"At 4 P. M."

"At 4 P. M." is described as a summer episode humorously portrayed. Every hour is a witching hour in the good old summer time, but for vaudeville purposes 4 p. m. is a time for comedy and song. This is a skit with dialogue, having to do with vacation and songs with lilting melodies and clever lyrics.

"Rain Beau."

A church is a natural place of a christening. Two attractive sisters known as Tempest and Sunshine are named in a church, but not through the usual order of things. The original of these two names has caused considerable comment and created an avalanche of questions. Here is how it happened:

Their family name is Ijames and the two daughters were christing Florence and Marion Ijames. They lived in Louisville and as clever youngsters they participated in most of the Sunday school functions. At one affair they attributed themselves anything but creditably. Each blamed their failure to the other and a terrible quarrel ensued. This was brought to an end by the preacher who suggested that they should be known as Tempest and Sunshine as during their argument one sister was terrific, the other all smiles and so when the girls went on the stage they adopted these names.

Their first appearance was with Lincoln J. Carter, then the kind of melodrama in a thriller called "Two Little Waifs" Tempest played the boy and Marion the girl waif. Their theatrical career has included everything even Shakespearian drama. They were with Robert Mantel when this legitimate star played "Rich III" of course playing the two little princes.

Contempt Charge To Face Dancer Again

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—(AP) A secret file warrant against Evan Burrowes Fontaine, dancer, charging her with contempt of court, is on ite way to Chicago for service today after having been sworn out in the United States district court here.

In the past few years Miss Fontaine has brought a series of breach of promise actions against Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, a young New York millionaire, charging that Whitney was the father of her son. One of the actions brought here was decided against Miss Fontaine with the additional order of the court that she was to be enjoined for all time against bringing any similar action against Whitney at any place within the country. She is charged with having violated this order through the filing of an action in an eastern city, and the warrant is based upon such alleged violation.

Kappas at Iowa U. Get Rushing Jolt

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 3.—(AP) The University of Iowa chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma has been denied the right of rushing and pledging until January 1, 1927, by the action of the Pan-Hellenic council, composed of all society chapters on the campus. The Yappas are accused of having violated the spirit of rushing rules by sponsoring a breakfast Sunday morning, September 20, after rushing had informally closed the previous night.

Alumnae of the chapter are asking for a reconsideration.

MURDER CHARGED

DALLAS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—L. L. Dowd, Dallas electrician, was indicted for murder by a grand jury today for the slaying of W. B. Berry here last Saturday. Testimony at a habeas corpus hearing indicated the shooting occurred after an argument over a $100 debt for rent Dowd owed Berry.

Dowd was released on $4,000 bond after the habeas corpus hearing.

A NEW WALL ST. "BLAST"

But It Was Only The Army Practicing Anti-Aircraft.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Memories of the Wall street explosion of 1920 caused considerable nervousness in the financial district today when anti-aircraft guns began to boom in the army's sham battle, designed to represent the ousting of an enemy who had taken possession of the lower end of Manhattan.

Scores of inquiries jammed telephone wires of local newspapers.

Rex, Wild Horse Actor Is Star Of "Black Cyclone"

Rex, who acquitted himself so nobly in "The King of Wild Horses" last year, is again to be seen on the screen, Hal Roach, producer of that film sensation and the proud owner of the wild horse he saved from an outlaw's death, tamed, trained and made a motion picture star of, has written "Black Cyclone" to fit the marvelous talents of the horse. It is the feature attraction at the Olympic theatre today.

"Black Cyclone" is a story of the wild lands, where herds of wild horses roam the hills and plains. Rex is first seen as a motherless colt who is driven out of the herd of the Killer, a hideously-spotted and fiendishly tempered stallion who has never been vanquished in battle. When Rex reaches full growth he is a magnificent creature and seeks and wins a mate. She is one day captured by the killer, who defeats Rex in battle.

A natural enemy of Rex—king of all wild horses—is man, but Rex was to know the worth of a man's friendship. Hell's Hole quicksands are about to claim him as another victim when he is saved by a cowboy, who has been forced to hide in the hills to avoid the vengeance of a bad man who is out for Jim's life because he was the lucky man to win Jane Logan's love. Rex repays his debt to the cowboy by killing a cougra that was about to spring on the man while he slept. He also saves Lady from a wolf pack that trails her when she effects an escape from the killers' herd.

The big climax comes when the bad man, in pursuit of Jane, shoots Jim's horse from under him. Seeing his man's predicament, Rex offers his broad, bare back, which Jim had several times tried, disastrously, to mount. But now Rex was docile and willing to bear this burden. Like the wind he swoops across the sagebrush plain—no horse in the world could have kept ahead of that demon—that black cyclone! Then, when he sees Jim winning in his hand-to-hand fight with the bad man, Rex rushes off to beat off the killer, who has found Lady and come to claim her. For the first time in his mean life, the killer is defeated!

Guinn Williams, Kathleen Collins and Christian Frank play the only human roles in "Black Cyclone," which is primarily the story of the life and love of a wild horse. The entire picture was photographed in Nevada, with no two sequences having the same background. Fred Wood Jackman, director of "The King of Wild Horses," also directed "Black Cyclone."

True-to-Life Said Of New Feature For the Olympic

There's a sure cure for the trouble with wives and husbands, too, at the Olympic theatre starting Wednesday in the Paramount picture, "The Trouble With Wives," featuring Florence Vidor, Tom Moore, Esther Ralston and Ford Sterling.

The story, written especially for the screen by Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin, is a comedy of newly married life. As the wife, Grace Hyatt, Florence Vidor wants only to be alone with her husband, to sit before the fire with him and memorize the days of their courtship.

But someone's always taking the joy out of life and in this instance it's not strange to relate, the mother-in-law and one of Hyatt's old college chums, Al Hennessy (Sterling).

Hennessy gets Moore into hot water by picturing him to his wife as a holy terror in the old days. Just when Hyatt has almost squared himself, along comes Dagmar (Miss Ralston), a shoe designer, from Paris, persuades him to come to her apartment for the purpose of interesting him in some newly created slipper models. He goes, but much to her disappointment he takes Al along with him.

Here a new phase of the triangle gets off to a flying start when Hennessy falls for the girl who is in turn very strong for Bill Hyatt. After dinner that night Hennessy blunders along with no damage until he inadvertently mentions that they both had been to the designer's apartment.

That is the end!—Moore's, also, to all appearances. And it is not until the closing scenes of the picture, which takes place at Catalina Island and, incidentally, feature fifty or more of the most beautiful bathing girls you've ever seen in pictures, that Al straightens things out for all concerned by introducing Miss Ralston to Mrs. Hyatt as his wife.

Death Ray Will Be Shown With Mystery Picture

A mysterious power, striking death to birds and animals is loosed in the Colorado Grand Canyon country and strikes terror to the inhabitants. This is one of the thrilling incidents unfolded in "The Mystery of Lost Ranch," Pete Morrison's western thriller, which comes to the Palace theater on Friday. The scenes of the photoplay are laid right in the heart of the most wonderful sections of the wild Colorado Mountains and canyons and are packed with adventure of the most hair-raising description. Beautiful Betty Goodwin supports Morrison and once more film patrons will see in action, Lightning, the wonder horse.

FABLES—GRANTLAND RICE SPORTOGRAMS

Big State Hit Is Filmed in "Up The Ladder" Here

"Up the Ladder," the Universal-Jewel feature coming to the Palace theatre next week starring Virginia Valli, is the adapation of Owen Davis' big stage success.

"Up the Ladder," is a story which revolves around a young woman, who, after sacrificing her hereditary fortune that her husband may climb to fame, discovers his infidelity through the instrument of his own invention, the Telerisionphone. This ultra invention is an apparatus which makes it possible for one to actually see whom one converses with over the telephone.

Not only is the idea absolutely new, but the instrument, used to great advantage in the picture, is a practical television phone constructed by Universal's chief electrical engineer.

Aside from this unusual mechanical feature of the picture, the plot is one that combines all the elements of human interest and gives Virginia Valli, as the wife, a splendid opportunity to display her histrionic ability as an actress of rare ability.

For the supporting cast, Edward Sloman who directed the picture has chosen such well known stage and screen favorites as Forrest Stanley, Margaret Livingston, Holmes Herbert, George Fawcett, Lydia Yeamans, (Baby) Priscilla Moran, and Olive Ann Alcorn.

Constance Wears New Style Bob In Late Picture

What a difference a new haircut makes!

Feminine visitors at the studio in Hollywood, where Constance Talmadge was making her new starring photoplay, "Her Sister From Paris," couldn't get over it.

"What ever has she done to her hair?" the fair ones would inquire.

"She's bleached it!" one would suggest.

"She's letting it grow," another would argue.

Frequently warm discussions developed among the visitors as to why Connie's hair looked different.

The answer was really simple; she'd just had it cut.

After wearing it fluffed and curled for several months Constance decided she'd try a new style of hairdressing in "Her Sister From Paris." After long consultation with the beauty parlor expert she had it cut in a particularly boyish bob and wore it perfectly straight.

The new hair dress brought out the blonde tints in the star's hair and made it seem much lighter than when she wore it curled.

If the frequency of arguments at the studio is a criterion, feminine admirerse the world over will find much food for conversation in Connie's new haircut when it is seen for the first time in "Her Sister From Paris" at the Strand tomorrow.

One reason for the peculiar cut was that in this new picture Constance plays two distinct roles, the principal one being a vivacious, flirtatious stage dancer who completely charms male hearts with amusing and sometimes alarming complications.

She practices her wiles particularly upon Ronald Colman and George K. Arthur, co-featured in the masculine roles. The story is said to be Constance's finest to date, and it is worthy of note that it was written by Hans Kraly, who also wrote "Her Night of Romance," one of the star's recent hits.

Sidney Franklin directed "Her Sister From Paris." It was made under the banner of Joseph M. Schenck for First National.

U. S. Navy Aids Barthelemess In His New Picture

Richard Barthelmess has been enjoying the life of a regular gob in an American battleship recently. He sailed from New York on the U. S. S. Arkansas, abroad which scenes for "Shore Leave," his next inspiration picture for First National releases, were filmed.

These scenes were taken on the way to Hampton Roads and off Annapolis. Accompanying Barthedmess was his director, John S. Robertson; his chief cameraman, Roy Overbaugh, and Robertson's technical staff.

Prior to sailing, much progress had been made on the production of "Shore Leave" at the studios in New York. With the special permission of the navy department, a squad of 40 sailors, commanded by two petty officers, were permitted to appear in scenes taken in a large ship set at the studio. At sea Barthlemess was enabled to avail himself of the services of even a greater number of gobs.

In this screen version of Herbert Osborne's stage success Dorothy Mackaill is appearing opposite Barthlemess as Conuie Martin, dressmaker in a small New England seaport, the part which was played by Frances Starr before the footlights.

Barthelmess has the role of the romantic "gob," "Bilge" Smith. Ted McNamara, who scored recently in New York as the trainer in "Battling Butler," has the colorful part of "Bat" Smith, "Bilge's" friend.

Other prominent members of the screen cast are Nick Long, well known character actor, who has his original role of the old sailor, "Bimby," which he played in the Belasco production. Marie Shotwell will be seen in the role of Mrs. Schulyer-Payne, and Arthur Metcalf has another prominent part.

The picture is booked for the Strand theatre next Friday.

Fighting Flames At Mission Will Offer New Thrills

Fighting the Flames, which comes to the Mission theater today has a very remarkable cast assembled to play the exciting fire story which form the basis of the picture.

The lead is played by William Haines who will be well remembered for his success in The Midnight Express, another action picture depicting railroad life. With Mr. Haines is Dorothy Devore, who is a great favborite with film-goers. David Torrence is the brother of Ernest Torrence of Covered Wagon fame, but happens to be a very excellent actor in his own right. Sheldon Lewis needs no words. He is a villian and every one knows him for those parts.

The rest of the cast includes Frankie Darrow, who though a little boy, plays one of the largest parts in the production. Charlie Murray takes one of his inimitable character parts. Max Davidson and William Welsh are the other two well known actors who also play in the cast.

The production was directed by Reeves Eason.

Lightning Fast Plot Is Shown In New Western

Fred Thomsen and Silver King! That is enough of an announcement to call forth hordes of movie fans; but when the famous western star and his beautiful horse appear in such a picture as "Ridin' the Wind," which goes into the Garden Theater for a three day run on Sunday, it is a particularly auspicious occasion. Master and mount are a "Greater Movie Week," in themselves, and Marion Jackson has written a lightning-fast plot for them, replete with the most laughable incidents. The comedy is even more uproarious than in his preceding F. B. O. successes, and Thomson has long had a reputation to uphold comedy that is an enviable one. Silver King displays his wonderful intelligence in many new and surprising ways, and proves anew the "wise-crack" of a Texas exhibitor who recently remarked in comment on a Thomson picture: "What a horse! What a horse!" If we only had him in the Texas legislature!" A well-balanced and versatile cast has been handled with exceptional adroitness by Del Andrews, a director who knows how to make the most of his comedy and does not forget to high-light his most intense drama with the proper amount of conrast.

Stylish "Bobs"

Easy to Keep Thick, Wavy, Lustrous

Girls! Try this! When combing and brushing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can dress your hair immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy, an abundance of gleamy wavy hair, sparkling with life, incomparably soft, fresh, youthful.

Besides beautifying the hair, a 35-cent bottle of refreshing, fragrant "Danderine" from any drug or toilet counter will do wonders, particularly if the hair is dry, thin, brittle, faded or streaked with gray from constant curling and waving which burn the color, lustre and very life from any woman's hair.

"Danderine" acts on the hair like fresh showers of rain and sunshine act on vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, stopping falling hair and helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.—Adv.

Wealthy Business Man Of East St. Louis Falls Into Net

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The first of long-heralded arrests of wbusiness men believed involved in wholesale liquor trafficking in the Mississippi valley was announced by police today. W. Garland, who the police say has used the name of Ray E. Stevenson, was arrested in his hotel room and charged with possessing liquor and conspiring against the Federal government.

Garland, whose home is in East St. Louis, Ills., while engaged in the operation of a cigar store in that city, is alleged to have been concerned in the shipment to St. Louis and other points in the Mississippi valley of more than 50 freight cars loads of liquor which prohibition enforcement officials said netted the shippers more than $1,500,000.

MAIL PLANE IS LOST.

Search Renewed for Ship and Pilot, Chas. Ames.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Search was renewed today for a mail airplane which has not been heard from since it passed over Hartleton, east of the local landing field, shortly before midnight Thursday on its flight from New York to Chicago. More than 100 men scoured the mountainous country between Hartleton and Bellefonte yesterday without finding a trace of the missing plane or its pilot, Charles H. Ames.

MARMON GIVES THREE - PHASE IMPROVEMENT

No Increase in Price For New Model Marmon Cars

The three improvements and the three additional body styles announced last week by Marmon have been accepted with unqualified approval by those who make it a point to keep in touch with advancements in automobile designs and efficiency, according to Frith Motor company, local Marmon dealers. The local Harmon salesroom, where a representative line of the new Marmon models in which the improvements are incorporated, is being shown, has been crowded with visitors since the arrival of the new cars, and this condition has been general in Marmon dealer establishments throughout the country, C. O. Frits says.

Three Improvements.

The three improvements include double fire ignition, in which the ignition spark is shot into the combustion chamber of each cylinder from both sides of the engine; the exclusive Marmon three-way oil purifier, which retains the viscosity of the lubricating oil, and the Marmon self-lubricator by which all bearings or wearing surfaces of the chassis are lubricated simply by pushing on a pedal, conveniently located under the cowl. In addition, Marmon announced three additions to its line of body styles—a Victoria for four-passengers, a two-passenger coupe and a two-passenger speedster with a rumble seat in the rear deck for two extra passengers.

Interest has been manifested, particularly, in the Marmon system of double fire ignition, which adds greatly to the performance of the Marmon engine. Increased acceleration, added power and greater fuel economy are results of this system of ignition which was adopted by Marmon only after it was thoroughly tested in the Marmon experimental laboratories. That the double fire ignition system is of more than passing interest has been shown by the large number of demonstrations given by local Marmon salesmen in the last week.

A large number of messages testifying to the enthusiastic acceptance of the Marmon improvements have been received at the factory of the Nordyke & Marmon company in Indianapolis. The messages have come from dealers and from purchasers of the new cars in all sections of the country. So great has been the demand for cars that the factory is far behind in orders despite the fact that the plant is being operated at capacity.

No Price Increase.

Marmon is offering the improvements at no increase in price. With the exception of the seven-passenger sedan the models of the standard line, increased to five in number with the addition of the Victoria and two-passenger Coupe, are being offered at exactly the price of the Marmon open type cars. The Marmon standard line, in addition to the new types mentioned, includes a five-passenger sedan, five-passenger Brougham and a seven-passenger Sedan which, because of its added seating capacity, is priced at $75 more than the other models.

"Nobody has yet approached Marmon's beauty and distinctiveness of body design," said H. H. Brooks, general director of sales of the Nordyke & Marmon company, in a message to the Marmon distributing organization last week. "The rapid advances which Marmon has made in sales, not in isolated sections but throughout the country, and the rapid growth of the Marmon dealer and distributor organization in the last few months, presage a Marmon sales record for 1925, greater than any sales records yet attained by the company. Engineering developments are usually mysterious to the layman and necessarily must be explained by tiresome mechanical descriptions. This is not the case with the Marmon engineering improvements. They are a conspicuous and outstanding that they can be understood with utmost ease by any person, familiar or unfamiliar with automotive engineering. Marmon engineers have done a wonderful job and Marmon salesmen are rapidly translating this accomplishment in terms of sale.

Bradley-Duke To Display at Fair

The Bradley-Duke Motor company will have a large display of Pierce-Arrow cars at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, C. G. Anderson, general manager and L. J. Bryan, one of the owners, will have charge of the display.

A series 33 four-passenger four-door sedan, painted Cleveland gray with high grade leather upholstering; a series 80 couch painted brown grey and upholstered in Lancaster fabric; a series 80 runabout painted Bordeaux blue with leather upholstering to match and fully equipped with golf rack and everything; a series 80 five passenger sedan in Cleveland gray and upholstered with a beautiful broadcloth; and a series 80 special built coupe will compose the display.

The body on the series 80 coupe is built by the Jenkins company and is one of the most beautiful jobs that was ever put out. It has broadcloth upholstering and is painted a dark gray with black trimmings.

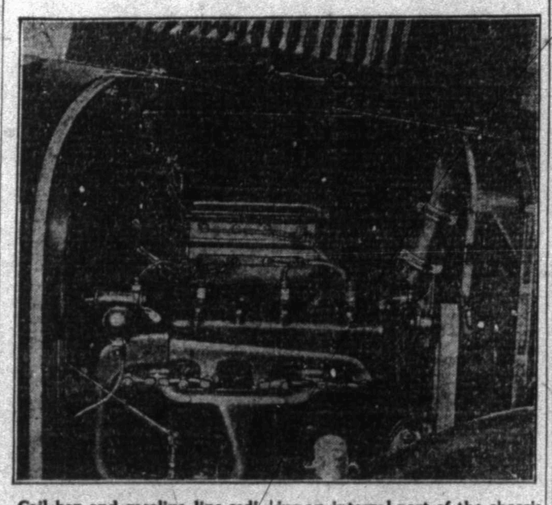

SLAYER GETS BOND.

Dallas Man Charged With Killing Sweetheart's Father.

DALLAS, Oct. 3.—Harry Lawrence, 20, convicted of manslaughter for the slaying of E. P. Payne of Dallas, the father of the girl whom he was to marry, was released today on appeal bond of $5,000.

Payne was shot at his home here August 16. Lawrence had called to see Miss Anne Payne, when an argument ensued, followed by the shooting. Lawrence claimed self defense and protection of members of Payne's family.

Ford Improvements

Coil box and gasoline line sediment bulb—vital elements in the ignition and fuel system—have been placed under the hood within easy access in the improved Ford cars. As illustrated in the accompanying photograph, the coil box is now mounted on the left side of the motor. A felt gasket on the box cover protects the coil points from dust and the cover itself is so designed that it offers full protection from moisture. The change in the coil box also makes the motor wiring an integral part of the chassis and high tension leads to the spark plugs are shortened.

Locating of the gasoline tank under the cowl permitted the placing of the sediment bulb in a convenient position almost directly over the carburetor, as shown.

The fan bracket has been raised and is now integral with the cylinder head outlet and fitted with an eccentric permitting easy adjustment.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

CAREFUL MOTORISTS ARE ALWAYS THOUGHTFUL

Thoughtful motorists are always careful.

The careful motorist will always slow down when approaching children playing on the curb. One can never tell what a child will do.

The thoughtful motorist will never pass a street car discharging passengers on the opposite track without slowing down and without sounding a warning.

The careful motorist will never pass pedestrians on the curb, looking in the opposite direction and about to go somewhere, without sounding a warning.

The thoughtful motorist will never compel the pedestrian to run to escape being hit.

The thoughtful motorist will always indicate to the pedestrian what he is going to do.

If motorists and pedestrians always did the right thing there would never be any motor vehicular accidents. The careful and thoughtful motorist is the one who is ever alert to protect the pedestrian who unconsciously may do the unexpected.

Probably En Route to the Hospital.

Life in our cities is hurried and pedestrians may have a hundred things to think about as they cross streets, in and out among rapidly moving motor cars. The careful motorist will always have his car under control, ever able to stop quickly.

Too much cannot be written about the constant need of care and thoughtfulness on the part of motorists. And pedestrians need to be careful too. It pays in human lives.

Duco Service Is Established For Manufacturers

Will Make Investigation Of Proper Colors For Motorcar Use

A Duco color advisory service for the use of automobile manufacturers which will bring to the users of this new finish the latest and most desirable in colors and color combinations has been established under the supervision of H. Ledyard Towle, a nationally known artist. The service is prepared to consult and advise with manufacturers as to the colors they have under consideration and to suggest new lines of colors for every type of car. The number of requests that have already come in for the service indicates that it fills a very real need in the automobile world. The service is also in touch with fashion centers in Paris and New York and is able to show the motor trade the colors which have been selected as the prevailing tones for the coming year. The establishment of the Duco Advisory Service is regarded as a step in advance in the finishing world because is brings into the field combinations of colors chosen by an artist which are fundamentally correct. Suggestions are also made by the Service as to the use of colors which will help to develop the effect of certain lines desired.

Mr. Towle, in charge of the Duco Advisory Service, is a portrait painter, mural decorator and instructor, who is widely known in the world of art. He has won several notable art prizes and his work is represented in important collections, including the National Gallery, Washington, D. C., and the Museum of Fine Arts, San Francisco. During the recent war he was nationally known as the author and lecturer on military camouflage.

Phonograph Is Proxy for Auto Man At Meeting

Chevrolet Magnate Speaks To Sales Forces Simultaneously

A unique address to more than 208 000 members of the Chevrolet selling organization scattered throughout the United States was achieved recently by R. H. Grant, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company.

Mr. Grant announced the opening of the Chevrolet fall selling campaign by means of duplicate phonograph records which, reproduced his voice in the show room of every Chevrolet dealer.

Under Mr. Grant's direction the phonographic address plan worked out smoothly to complete success.

In each of the thousands of Chevrolet salesrooms was gathered at exactly the same hour, an interested group of salesmen. Their ranks were augmented by numerous members of the Chevrolet organization not directly interested in selling, who attended because of curiosity over the novelty of the meeting.

At a previously established "zero hour," the thousands of records were started simultaneously and Mr. Grant's voice was heard in every state in the Union.

"The present selling campaign, the most ambitious in Chevrolet history, is of such importance that I wished to attend personally every meeting of every sales group," said Mr. Grant. "This being impossible, I chose the best substitute—the phonograph.

"Thus every salesman received a personal message by which he was informed of all the campaign details. Through this campaign and because of the gratifying sales volume of recent months, I expect that Chevrolet will do a record fall business."

K. Robey, manager-engineer of the local improvement association, has received a copy of a measure proposed by Senator Charles L. McNary under the terms where the government will construct projects and permit organized districts, 40 years in which to pay. Money advanced by districts for investigations and surveys will be returned by the government if the bill becomes a law.

AUTO TAX IS DOOMED SAYS GARDNER HEAD

Time Has Arrived for Removal of Transportation Tax

By RUSSELL E. GARDNER, JR.
President Gardner Motor Co.

It is assumed that tax reductions amounting to some three hundred million dollars will be made at the next session of congress. But as yet, there has been no indication that this tax reduction will be extended to include automobiles. The inequity of all war levies has already been recognized by partial repeals, and it certainly seems unfair to tax any one group, especially when that group so vitally affects the public welfare as does the automotive industry.

Automobile taxes are taxes on transportation. Other federal taxes on transportation have been removed. Government authorities have repeatedly acknowledged the present levy on automobiles inequitable and concede it should be removed when conditions permit. As a matter of fact, the automotive industry now pays all the taxes other industries pay, and in addition, must shoulder the additional burden of a special wartime sales tax.

The war ended more than six years ago. Today there is a probability of a $400,000,000 federal surplus. And yet the American public is still forced to pay approximately $31 more per car than would be necessary were the federal tax on automobiles removed.

The elimination of the federal tax on transportation would have a favorable effect on business generally. The automobile industry employs more than 3, 119,000 persons directly or indirectly. The continued success of the automotive industry is vital if the standard of living and purchasing power of this great group are to be maintained.

Its welfare is important to other businesses as well. Today the makers of motor cars take 46% of our aluminum production, 52% of our plate glass, 60% of our leather upholstery, 80% of our crude rubber, and 15% of our hardwood lumber.

The importance of the automobile industry to the railroads can be readily appreciated when, he realize that motor transportation products provide the steam railroads with more than 2,000,000 carloads of freight annually. In fact, the deeper one goes into the making and marketing of automobiles, the more one appreciates what an essential part the motor car plays in American business and social life, and the less reason one finds for the continuation of the time tax on the industry.

Army Men Fly 190 Miles for Chrysler

Chrysler popularity among members of the army air service was further emphasized recently by the sale of two Chrysler Six coaches to Lieutenant R. G. Lockwood and C. E. Crumrine, of McCook Field, Dayton.

At the same time the possibilities of a new slogan, "I'd fly 190 miles for a Chrysler" were made apparent. Lieutenants Lockwood and Crumrine flew from Dayton to Detroit and drove their cars back overland.

Both are flyers of international reputation, Lieutenant Lockwood being the present world's record holder of the 1,000 kilometer speed flight, and Lieutenant Crumrine "advance man" on the late Round-the-World flight, also project engineer for the coming Pulitzer races.

The World's Finest Low-Priced Cars

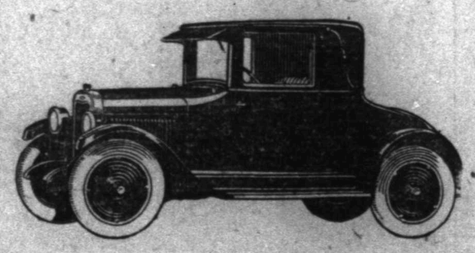

CHEVROLET

THE COACH

THE COUPE

Here is why Chevrolet offers greater value than any other low priced car.

Body Construction

Fisher built bodies of wood and steel construction with the flexibility and strength which enable them to withstand hard driving over rough roads—every joint in the hardwood frame carefully glued and screwed together—every door hinge attached with a through door bolt in addition to wood screws—every steel panel carefully fitted.

Appointments

Everything for your convenience and comfort. An automatic windshield wiper. A dome light—always convenient and often a necessity. A dash light. Quick-acting Ternstedt window regulators on all windows. A silk shade over the rear window.

Windshield

The Fisher VV one-piece windshield—undoubtedly the greatest step forward in automobile body construction in recent years. Easily raised or lowered by a Ternstedt regulator—absolutely watertight in all kinds of weather. No adjusting nuts to bother with. Full ventilation across entire cowl. A feature you should become acquainted with.

Motor

The powerful, well known valve-in-head Chevrolet motor, unusually high in its efficiency and therefore economical in its operation. Carefully balanced running parts made of fine materials result in that smooth flow of power desired by everyone.

Lubrication

Combination splash and force feed lubrication is used. An oil pump maintains a continuous supply of oil.

Cooling

Few cars are as efficiently cooled as the Chevrolet. A Harrison honeycomb radiator with ample area not only insures efficient cooling, but, in combination with its polished, non-rusting airplane metal shell, adds greatly to the beauty of the car. A water pump cooling system provides ample circulation and minimizes the possibility of freezing in cold weather.

Duco Finish

Chevrolet cars are all finished in Duco—a finish that retains its luster and color indefinitely. There are many imitations but only one Duco.

Springs

Chrome vanadium steel springs, extending over 88% of the wheel base.

Chassis Construction

The foundation of the Chevrolet car is its long, rugged 4½-inch channel steel frame with its five sturdy cross members. This construction provides unusual strength and adds materially to the life of the car.

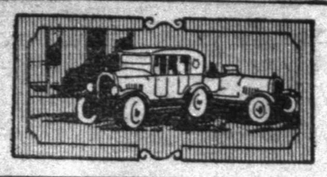

Vacuum Fuel Feed—Gas Tank in the Rear

The gasoline tank is located at the rear of the chassis and all models are equipped with the Stewart vacuum fuel feed system—insuring the utmost convenience and safety.

TRAVEL MODES HAVE ADVANCED IN LAST YEAR

Oldsmobile Models Present Graphic Instance Of Achievement

Methods of transcontinental travel have shown marvelous progress since the gold rush of the '49ers blazed the way from the Atlantic to the Pacific at a fearful cost of human life. How great the changes have been was strikingly brought out recently when the Miller Brothers 101 Ranch, real wild west show, was playing in Lansing, Mich., the home of Olds motor works. At this time there were grouped all types of conveyances used for personal cross-country transportation in the history of the country.

"Covered Wagon."

The first means of travel westward was depicted by an original "covered wagon" drawn by a yoke of oxen and piloted by Ezra Meeker, who is 95 years old. Mr. Meeker blazed the Oregon trail in 1852, making the first northern trip and using a replica of the wagon he had at Lansing. Last year he was a candidate for the state legislature in Washington and campaigned in an early, one-cylinder Oldsmobile.

The next step after the covered wagon was the stage coach, which formed connecting links across the wilderness. This phase was shown at the gathering by one of the original stage coaches which ran from Fort Sill to Enid in the "Deadwood Dick" days. The old "hack" still bears the marks of fights with Indians and road agents.

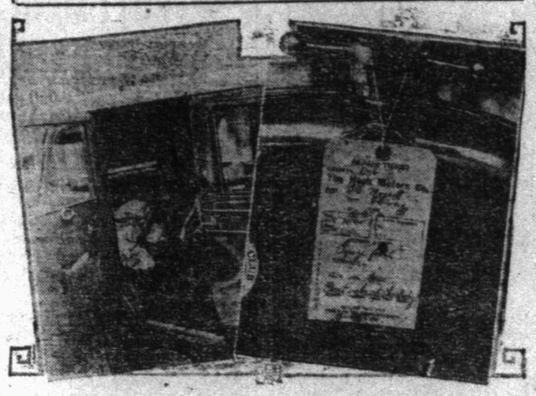

The entrance of the automobile into cross-country travel was represented by one of the two curved dash Oldsmobiles which held the first transcontinental race. On May 8, 1905, two Oldsmobiles started from Broadway and 50th street, New York. The winning car arrived at Portland, Ore., 44 days later. The second car took more than a week longer to make the trip. At the "transportation reunion," Zack Mulhall, one of Oklahoma's pioneers was in the driver's seat. Mulhall aided in breaking up the famous James Boys band and, about two years ago during impeachment proceedings, the affairs of the state were turned over to him by the governor when he placed the state under martial law.

An Oldsmobile.

To complete the picture and bring the methods up to date were Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Richards and the Oldsmobile with which they are touring the world. The "Rambling Ramblers," as the Richards are known, have automobiled over the entire western hemisphere during the past six years, and will spend the next five or six years touring Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia.

They are now driving their third Oldsmobile, having covered over a quarter of a million miles in their last two cars.

Don't Wake the Baby

A shop ticket bearing the inscription, "Don't wake the baby," with the more prosaic instructions to "grease front wheels and look to air in tires," was a new one to seasoned mechanics at the Nash factory in Kenosha the other day. The baby, Virginia Morrow, aged 2½ years, lay sound asleep on the back seat of her daddy's Nash four-door coupe while the mechanics tiptoed about the car carrying out instructions on the shop ticket. Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Morrow of Chicago and baby Virginia were on their way to the north woods of Wisconsin.

Motorcade Plans Are Announced

Scores of inquiries are pouring into the National Motorists association, Chicago relative to details of the National Motorcade to the Mississippi Gulf coast and Florida to be held in October.

This big motor undertaking is being promoted in the interest of the further development of good roads is sponsored by the National Motorists association and the National Highways association.

The Motorcade will travel in three divisions. According to the schedule as prepared by a joint committee representing these organizations, the caravan will leave Chicago at 10 o'clock a. m. on October 12th.

The luncheon stops will be at Kankakee for the first division and at Momence for the second. Dinner and overnight stop for the first division will be at Effingham. Mattoon will entertain and house the second division and Urbana will look after the welfare of the third.

The progress of these trail blasers, mapping a new route to Florida and Mississippi, that will shorten the time between Chicago and these points appreciably, will be marked by luncheons, dinners and receptions all along the route.

On the second day out—October 13 the first division will have luncheon at Centralia and the second at Vandalia. Dinner and over night stop for the first division will be at Sikeston, Mo., Charleston, Mo., will dine and house the second division, and Cairo, Ill., the third.

For full particulars motorists should write P. J. Martin, general manager, National Motorists association, 2819 S. Michigan Ave. If you want to visit Florida or the Mississippi Gulf coast this motorcade presents an opportunity never before afforded to do so at a great savings.

HUPP '8' SALES TO SET RECORD FOR ALL TIME

Forecast 15,000 Cars to Be Sold in 1925 Before Year Closes

The great international demand that the Hupmobile Eight has created will result in its sales for 1925, its first year, exceeding 15,000, says O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car corporation, in a statement emphasizing the remarkable success which has attended that car ever since its inception.

15,000 in One Year.

"A record of 15,000 sales in its first year for a car of the high quality of this Eight is a mark never before approached in the automotive industry," the statment reads. "It means a demand more than three times as great as that enjoyed, during its first year, by any other company manufacturing eight sylinder cars.

"What Hupmobile has actually done has been to increase its initial estimates for eight cylinder output over 50 per cent. Last December we made plans to produce 10,000 of these cars during 1925. What has happened is that we have exceeded our production estimates every month since the first car was built. Within five months the Eight became the most demanded car of its type in the world. Since it gained that high honor, its sales have been even greater, until today they are rapidly approaching a point where they will surpass those of all other eight-in-line cars put together. The reduction in its original prices of from $180 to $230 on each model brought the car to a point where it has since represented an outstanding value."

Exports Large.

In making this record, the company announces that sales by its distributors and dealers for the last three months have exceeded those for the same period a year ago by nearly 50 per cent. Its export sales likewise show an unusual demand abroad, more than $2,000,000 worth of these cars having been shipped to countries overseas during the first eight months of 1925.

LAUD WILLYS AND OVERLAND NEW SERVICE

Chicago Motorists Satisfied On Florida Trip

Along the entire route taken by the Illinois Automobile club's motorcade to Florida and return, Willys-Overland dealers have given such unusually good service to club members that the Chicagoans are highly enthusiastic over their reception.

On every stretch of this unusual modern calvacade to the south and return, members of the Motorcade are unanimous in their report of very efficient service by Willys-Overland dealers.

The Motorcade left Chicago early in October on the most pretentious expedition ever attempted by organized motorists. Their itinerary includes stops in many of the historic and important towns and cities en route through which they are led by the Willys-Knight six pilot car which made the trip in advance to chart the route over which the Motorcade would pass.

Loss of Gas That Need Not Occur

In any study of the economical way to use natural gas in the household we early come to the question of leakage, which is really far more serious than most people appreciate. Government engineers have estimated that through leakage in house lines one foot of every eight paid for is lost without doing anybody any good.

Three places in the average household equipment are always subject to the suspicion of leakage. One of them is right where the gas enters the range, stove or furnace. The fact that this connection is often slightly disturbed by moving may account for this. Anyhow, small leaks are very often present, and a small leak will sometimes use up a large amount of gas in a month.

Another frequent location of leaks is in the joints of pipes. Sometimes a turn of a wrench will remedy this, but in other cases where the connection has been damaged it should be replaced.

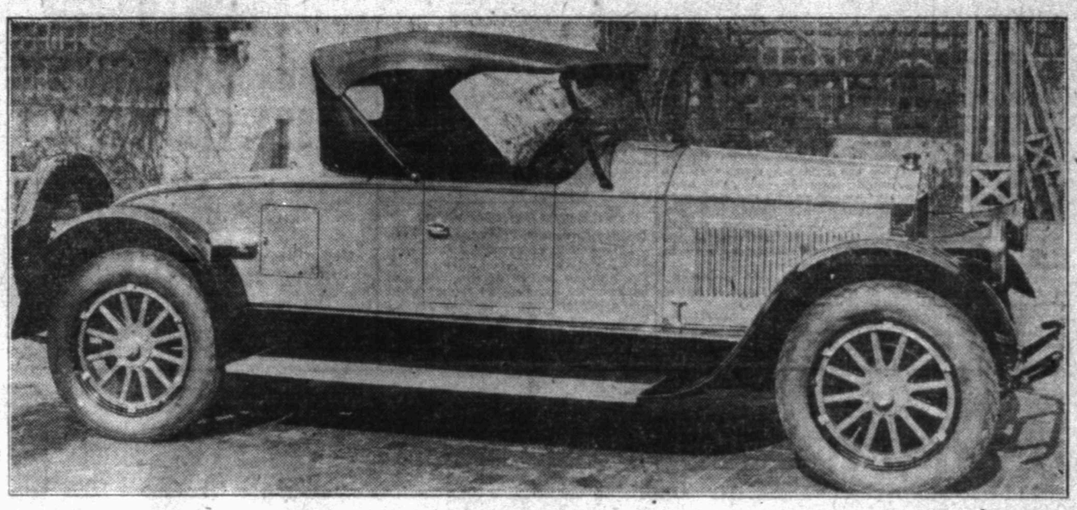

A third fault is sometimes found in the pipes themselves, which may be cracked or have minute blow holes.

To be sure your house system is leakproof is one of the ways to conserve gas and save money both. Take a strong soapsuds and a brush, and paint over all the pipes. If a leak is present you will see the gas bubble through the film of soapsuds.

Nobody with good judgment will hunt a leak with a match or candle. It might be that a larger one than expected would be found, with disastrous results.

Six color choices

Turned out by the same skilled coachmakers, by the same painstaking methods, whose product has been saluted by the world's foremost custom body builders since the early days of the industry. Every sill, every pillar, every cross bar, every cleat is the finest, straight-grained Northern Ash obtainable. Seasoned for two years in the open, then prepared in a kiln, each piece has just the right moisture content when woodmakers shape it for use. It takes time and money—but did you ever see a Pierce-Arrow body that rattled or squeaked, or one whose doors were warped out of true.

A silky engine that is off like a streak. Simple, too, for it is a six—a six designed and built by men who have specialized in six cylinder development since 1907. Twice built and twice tested as all Pierce-Arrow engines are built—an extraordinary precaution, but one that adds years to its life.

The easiest steering mechanism that ever guided balloon tires; a two pound pull on the wheel overcomes a 600-pound pressure against either front tire. That's engineering.

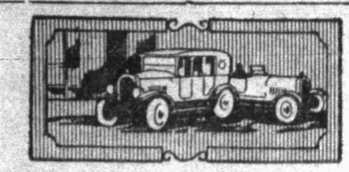

Positive mechanical four-wheel brakes unlike any other in America, free from toggle joints, universals or other complications.

P. OWEN JOINS DODGE FOREIGN SALES BUREAU

Government Chief Resigns To Take Position With Auto Concern

Percy Owens, chief of the automotive division, department of commerce, Washington, will join Dodge Brothers, Inc., Detroit, on October 5 as director of foreign sales.

Announcement of Mr. Owens' appointment was made today by F. L. Sanford, general sales manager of Dodge Brothers, Inc.

Mr. Owens is known throughout the United States and abroad for his long and important activities in the automobile industry and as an official of the United States department of Commerce. His entry into the automobile business dates back to 1899. For 12 years he was a dealer, branch manager, importer and eastern sales manager for Winton, Bianchi (Italian) and Chalmers cars. In 1912 he became general sales manager and director of the Chalmers Motor Car company, Detroit. In 1915 he was vice president of the Saxon Motor Car company and from 1916 to 1924 was president and general manager of the Libert Motor Car company.

Mr. Owen then joined the department of commerce as chief of the automotive division and in this capacity has achieved results of vast benefit to the industry and to the manufacturing interests of the country as a whole. Only last winter he was the official representative of the United States government at the international meeting of Central Council of Automobile Tourism in Paris. He has investigated the automobile industry of Europe on behalf of the United States, visiting nine countries, inspecting all the principal automobile manufacturing plants and conferring with various government officials.

In addition to being chief of the automotive division, Mr. Owens is chairman of the following department of commerce committees: Pan-American, oreign exhibits, highways. He is also the department of commerce representative on the committee of federal specifications board on standardization of motor propelled vehicles.

For several years Mr. Owens was president and director of the New York Automobile association of Automobile Manufacturers.

Dodge Brothers foreign sales have shown substantial increases year after year and are now a major factor in the company's business as a whole. Their exports during the first six months of 1925 were 54 per cent greater than for the first half of 19[illegible] which in turn was the largest export year in the firm's history.

Safety Movement Takes Shape For School Children

With the commencement of the school year hundreds of reminders are reaching the American automobile association that this is the time for every agency interested in accident prevention to take steps to give the maximum protection to school children.

Despite the fact that during the first nine months of this year a good many of the larger cities made progress in reducing the number of injuries and fatalities in automobile accidents, it is indicated that in many cities the death and injury rate for school children has increased. There is every reason to believe that the ratio of children involved in accidents as compared with the adult population is increasing rather than decreasing.

A survey recently made by the Cleveland automobile club showed that for the first six months of the year there were 10 per cent more children injured and 35 per cent more children killed than during the previous six months. The court records disclosed that in 70 per cent of the cases the children themselves were to blame for the accidents.

The A. A. A. suggests community action in behalf of children of school age along three distinct lines:

First, regular safety instruction in all schools, automobile clubs affiliated with the national motoring body having undertaken to co-operate in this educational activity.

Second, development of the system of "School Boy Patrols," that has proven so effective in Chicago, Detroit and other cities that have adopted the plan.

Third, continuation of an active drive to secure action by cities and towns providing for children more playgrounds. Practically every city surveyed will increase its margin of safety by giving the children more protected areas to play in, it has been ascertained.

MRS. WILSON TO WED?

Dr. Ruffin Says Nothing of His Rumored Engagement To Widow.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Dr. Sterling Ruffin of this city said he had "no comment to make" when his attention was called to reports from Paris of a rumored impending engagement between himself and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

4 Ways to "See America First," 1852-1925

The above photograph depicts the wonderful progress of transcontinental travel in less than 75 years. At the left is an ox team and Ezra Meeker, who blazed the Oregon trail in 1852. Next at the rear is an original stage coach of the "Deadwood Dick" era. In front and to the right is an original curved dash Oldsmobile, the first automobile made commercially in the U. S. and the first gasoline propelled vehicle to compete in a coast-to-coast race, making the run in 1905. Zack Mulhull, former sheriff in Oklahoma, is at the tiller. At the extreme right is a modern Oldsmobile being driven around the world by the Rambling Ramblers, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Richards. The photograph was taken when the Miller Brothers 101 Ranch, real Wild West Show, which lists Meeker and Mulhull in its roster, was playing in Lansing, Michigan, where the Olds Motor Works is located. Col. J. C. Miller, Zack T. Miller, George L. Miller, owners of the 140,000-acre ranch at Marland, Oklahoma, are responsible for this unusual photograph.

AUBURN SALES INCREASE OVER 1924 FIGURES

Already More Sold Than Were Sold in Entire Year Before

E. L. Cord, vice president and general manager of the Auburn Automobile company in a statement just issued says 1925 is the greatest year in the history of the company.

"The enthusiastic reception accorded the new Auburn models by dealers and the motoring public at their introduction last winter led us to predict a great sales record for Auburn this year. But our actual sales have exceeded even our greatest expectations," continues Mr. Cord.

"Many departments of the factory have been forced to work two shifts for months and still production has been unable to keep pace with orders.

"New dealers are being added to the Auburn organization in increasing numbers. More new dealers were added in the month of June than in any previous month in the history of the company. And every Auburn dealer has many orders on his books far in advanuce of delivery. Sales throughout the entire year have been limited only by production.

"In spite of the fact that we were unable to get into production on our complete line of six and eight cylinder models until late in the season, by special production efforts we have been able to ship more cars during the first six months of this year by a comfortable margin than we did all last year.

"Orders now on file justify continued high production during the coming months.

"Earnings have been very satisfactory this first six months."

FOOLED THE COPS

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 3.—"Being good and drunk" has its compensations as one soldier learned Thursday night.

A soldier, while being detained on the second floor of the central police station, reeled drunkenly through the door.

Suddenly he was gone. An officer started in pursuit.

Before he could be captured, the soldier had leaped from a window to the street, 25 feet below. He landed running and escaped.

DOUBLE AJAX OUTPUT; MEET BIG DEMANDS

More Than 5,000 Cars Are Shipped Within the First Four Months

Production capacity of the factory of the Ajax Motors company is to be doubled. Overwhelming demand for the Ajax six has made necessary the heavy increase in volume and active work preparatory to the installation of new machinery has already begun.

This announcement, coming as it does within four months of the day the first Ajax was run onto the loading dock for shipment, is evidence of the enthusiastic manner in which the automobile buying public has endorsed the Nash-built car. Coupled with regarding production expansion, it has been made known that Ajax Motors celebrated its fourth monthly "birthday" in the shipment of the 5,000th car to leave the plant since May 26 when the first Ajax was shown to a group of dealers.

Remarkable Fact.

The remarkable thing about this 100 per cent increase in Ajax production at this early date is that it is brought about by a demand from only one-fifth of the major cities that will ultimately handle the car. What will happen when shipments are made to the other dealer points is a matter of interesting conjecture.

"While it was felt, before actual production on the Ajax had begun, that demand for the car would be unusually heavy, I am frank to say that we did not anticipate public acceptance of so sweeping a character," said D. M. Averill, vice president and general manager of the Ajax Motors company. "Because of its engineering features and design we knew that the Ajax would occupy a field entirely new to the automobile industry and so for weeks pats the factory has been steadily increasing production with cars moving almost immediately from the hands of dealers into the possession of buyers.

Much Too Soon.

"With the opening of new dealer points, factory production has been increased to meet shipping schedules, but the demand has grown in proportions greater than our present facilities can supply, so we have literally been forced to prepare for doubling production considerably sooner than our original plans called for. When the Ajax Motors company was organized it was Mr. Nash's fixed policy that nothing be left undone which would make the Ajax a quality product in every sense, and that production should be increased only as acutal public demand for the car made greater volume necessary. And that is precisely the plan we have followed."

The program as carried out provided for limited production at the outset and as the cars passed into the hands of owners, their character of performance was closely checked by the dealer and by the factory. Production increases, on a careful basis, have been made from time to time until volume reached the point where the necessity of increased plant capacity was apparent.

WOMANHOOD ON TRIAL

Flapper Era But A Temporary Test Period, Says Pastor.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 3.—(AP) The flapper era is but a test period from which a new order of women will arise, the Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins, pastor of a large Seattle church, declared last night in refutation of contentions of Armand T. Nichols, director of the Atlantic City beauty pageant, that modern beauties are not only dumb but wicked.

"Womanhood is on trial today as never before," said Dr. Hawkins, "and I'm not worrying about the outcome. It isn't externals, like the cut of a girl's hair, that determine her womanliness," Dr. Hawkins asserted. "Skirts that do not pick up germs are a sign of progress."

PIERCE-ARROW CUSTOM-BUILT COACH ON SALE

Bradley-Duke People Have New Model Pierce-Arrow on Display

Offered in six choices of colors, the new Pierce-Arrow custom built coach, just announced publicly, was placed on display yesterday at the show rooms of The Bradley-Duke Motor Co., local Pierce-Arrow representatives.

The new coach body is hand built at the Pierce-Arrow factory with a frame of northern white ash, seasoned for two years in the open. Thick aluminum plates, hand hammered, are used for body panels.

The coach makes the eighth body style naw available in the series 80 line. Pierce-Arrow's moderately priced car. It is priced at $3,150 at Buffalo, close to that of the series 80 open cars. Its moderate price results from the inherent simplicity and economy of the coach design.

Looks Like Long Car.

Built on the standard 130-inch series 80 chassis, the squat lines and windows of the custom built coach make it appear even longer. With 32x5.77 balloon tires, chubby spoked military wheels, a smart trunk rack in the rear and the distinctive Pierce-Arrow front, the new coach is a worthy campanion to the other members of the series 80 line.

The interior of the coach measures up to every standard of custom built luxury. The doors are extra wide, 36 inches, and permit entrance and exit without folding up the, tilting front seats. The rear seat is 50 inches wide with plenty of room for three six-footers. Forty-two inches of space is found between the seats.

Excellent Cushions.

Roysersford springs and curled hair are used for the cushions. Upholstery is soil proof. Carpets are of velvet. Tailored across the bottom of each door is a strip of carpet, to prevent wear on upholstery from scuffing. Silk roller curtains, silk toggle grips, mahogany vanity and smoking cases, a carpet covered foot rest—these are some of the custom-built appointments. Hardware is of Butler silver finish. A dome light furnishes sufficient illumination to read by.

Laminated joints, two and one-half times as strong as the ordinary mortise and tenon joint, are used throughout the framework wherever twisting and weaving strain occur. Doors are double braced and fitted with weather strips. A one-piece windshield and narrow pillars give perfect vision to the driver.

The power plant is the standard series 80 engine with Six cylinders, developing more than 70 horse power. Hoo-Dye cushioned springs, four wheel brakes and ballon tires make up the standard equipment.

Willys Taxicab Embodies Many Good Features

Rated as One of the Best Willys-Overland Products

Of interest to the taxi and commercial field is the announcement of Willys-Overland of a new model taxicab which incomporates some unusual features.

The new cab, now in production, has many essential features toward the comfort of its driver and passengers, as well as several improvements over the former model. Three Styles are listed in the new cab, known as Models F G and H for the three-door limousine, four-door limousine and three-door laundelet respectively.

Taxicab dealers who have seen the new car declare it to be an example of the finest coach work ever placed in any taxicab. Among the many improvements are included a lower and stronger braced body, fashionably curved windows at the rear of the sides which replace the former steel shutters, nickeled radiator bar cap which is monogrammed and illuminated. A heavy nickeled front bumper is standard equipment on the new car which has nickeled barrel head lamps and bullet cowl lights as well as Knight-head pillar lamps and monogrammed stoplight.

Larger Interior.

The interior of the new Willys-Knight cab has been made larger, it now being possible to seat six passengers in comfort. Heavy, 12 gauge shee steel fenders and heavier running board with four nickeled kick plates add much to the rigidity of the body parts.

Snubbers as standard equipment on the new car, insure easy riding qualities, while heavier and larger brakes add to the safety features of the car.

The steering ratio of the new cab has been increased from 9 to 1 to 11 1-2 to 1, insuring greater ease of handling. In addition, two other improvements include the placing of gasoline gauge and speedometer on the instrument board to the right of the driver's seat.

Disc Wheels Standard.

Disc wheels are standard equipment on the new model, with 32 by 4 1-2 Fisk Cord tires as standard tire equipment at the list price of $2250 fob. factory. Six-ply full balloon tires, size 33x5.77, are optional at an extra cost of $20.

Already Willys-Overland's taxicab sales department is experiencing the first demand for the new Willys-Knight cabs, with many orders on hand from taxicab distributors who have seen the new cab, according to manager H. H. Pate.

DENY 7CT FARE

NEW GENERAL MOTORS AUTO IN PROSPECT

Will be Issued as Companion to Oakland Six

That the General Motors would produce a new motor car in addition to the five that are now built by this corporation has been rumored in automotive circles for some time.

The first authoritative statement that this new car would be built appeared this week in advertisements in national and trade publications.

No specifications as to type of car to be built are given.

The car will be produced and distributed by the Oakland Motor Car company, Pontiac, Mich., as companion to the present Oakland Six.

This was the only information contained in the announcement, save for two medallions, in rich sepia brown above the reading matter. The medallion at the left had an engraved Indian head, while the medallion at the right had engraved lettering, reading "Product of General Motors."

It is reported that the new car will be produced in the present plants of the Oakland Motor Car company. Considerable space is available in these factories since the Fisher Body corporation erected a two million dollar building in Pontiac two years ago in which to build all Oakland bodies.

Previous to this time all Oakland open bodies were built in the Oakland factories.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE NEW FORD?

Wichita Falls has seen the improved Ford cars.

Early in the week they were on display in the showrooms of authorized Ford dealers, and ever since have been the center of curious and admiring groups.

"Have you seen the new Fords?" is rapidly eclipsing as a needless question the time honored "is it hot enough for you?" when the temperature stands at blood heat. Ever since the first display of the new Ford models, Wichita Falls has been examining the cars until now there is scarcely anyone who isn't familiar with their improved appearance and increased riding comfort. Lower bodies on a lowered chassis frame, one-piece windshield in the Coupe and Tudor, lower windshileds which conform to the shape of the cowl in the open cars, closed cars colors and especially designed low seats are now popular topics of conversation wherever Ford cars are mentioned.

The gasoline tank under the cowl which may be filled without disturbing any of the occupants of the car benefits carburation and makes possible comfort features in the tonneau heretofore unknown.

Open car devotees have found the new Ford touring car ideal for general use.

The Coupes new standard color of channel green, together with its many improvements and refinements, is a magnate for all those who are interested in a two passenger closed car. The Runabout is frequently termed the sport model of the Ford line. The car is built low with low windshield and low set top. The effect is accentuated by the lowered chassis frame and gives to observer a suggestion of speed and ability to cling to the road. Seekers for all-year, all-weather closed car comfort at moderate cost are enthusiastic over the Ford Tudor which combines the smart features of the Coupe with the added attraction of comfortable accommodations for all the family.

Air Pilots Told To Quit Scaring Oil Well Drillers

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 3.—Brooks Field pilots [illegible] scaring oil well drillers.

Orders to that effect have been issued by the officer in charge of flying at the field.

The drillers, accustomed to risking their lives at working in windy weather and doing the other duties connected with their dangerous occupation, don't enjoy the sensations caused by airplanes hanging on edge in thin air a few feet above their heads. Some pilots of the primary flying school have been turning around the derricks and otherwise flying toward the drillers.

As the result of a complaint by the oil men orders have been issued that no pilot use the derrick as pyton and that all fliers refrain from "jazzing" the derrick in any manner.

HOUSTON, Oct. 3.—Max Fink, orchestra leader, formerly of New Orleans, is at liberty this afternoon on bond of $5,000 following the discharge of the jury in the case because of inability to reach an agreement by Judge C. W. Robinson in criminal district court, this morning. Fink was charged by indictment with assault on a fifteen year old girl. In a previous similar case a jury found Fink "not guilty" after deliberating 45 hours.

DEATH PENALTY TO BE SOUGHT FOR DENTONITE

Alleged Slayer of Deputy Sheriff to Trial Monday In Dallas

DALLAS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The death penalty will be asked in the trial of W. A. Martin of Denton, alleged slayer of R. B. Parsons, deputy sheriff of Denton county, when the case comes to trial here Monday. The case was transferred from Denton to Dallas on a change of venue.

Twenty witnesses are likely to be introduced by both sides.

Parsons was shot on the publis square at Denton recently. Afterward Martin barricaded himself in his home and surrendered when 100 rounds of ammunition were fired into the house by Dallas and Denton county officers.

Radium Is Restoring Health to Thousands

The wonderful curative power of Radium has been known for years. However, the benefits of this precious health-giving substance have in the past been available in sufficient quantities only to persons of wealth.

Since the invention of Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad, any man or woman, poor or rich, can afford this treatment which offers so much relief from suffering and disease.

Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad is worn next to the body day and night. It pours a constant stream of radio-active energy into the system while you work, play or sleep, helping to build up weakened nerves and tissues to a strong, healthy condition. It creates a vigorous circulation of blood, thus removing congestion, which is the real cause of most diseases.

To prove just what this remarkable treatment can do for you, we will send our appliance on trial with the understanding that we will not charge you a cent if it fails to give satisfactory results. This offer is open to any person who has pain of any kind, nerve weakness, high blood pressure, stomach, kidney or liver complaint, bladder trouble, or disease of the lungs or heart.

No matter what your ailment or how long you have had it, we will gladly let you try the appliance at our risk. Write today for free literature giving complete information. Radium Appliance Co., 252 Bradbury Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.—Adv.

Finds "Wound" In His Wooden Leg

DALLAS, Oct. 3.—Ten minutes after a man had indicated to an artificial limb manufacturer of Dallas today the position of a bullet wound that had resulted in amputation of his arm, a workman fashioning him a wooden arm, found a bullet imbedded in a location corresponding exactly to that of the man's injury. Examination revealed that the bullet was of the same calibre.

The steel jacketed bullet had presumably been buried in the willow wood by a hunter.

"Built Me Up".

YOU SHOULD read the following description, by Mrs. Albert Sparlin, of Gorman, Texas, whose picture is shown above, of the troubles from which she suffered, and how she finally found relief.

"About four years ago, I got in bad health," says Mrs. Sparlin. "I was weak and generally run-down. All this was due to female weakness and when, one day, one of my neighbors came in and told me to take Cardui for it, I did as she told me.

"It is wonderful how much it helped me and how quickly I recovered."

Some time after that, Mrs. Sparlin says, she had trouble which left her again in very bad health.

"I sent at once for Cardui," she says, "and took it for some time. I was in such bad shape. It soon built me up to where I was able to be around the house and do my work.

"Cardui is a grand medicine for womanly troubles and I am glad to recommend it. It has helped me twice when I was in bad health and that was enough to prove its worth."

MOVIE-FATHER - By FANNIE HURST

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

Copyright, 1925, by
The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Adela, the movie mother, was given credit for Marcia's success. Adela, who had entered Marcia in a child-beauty contest when she was six years old. Adela, who signed contracts, interviewed directors, represented her daughter before the press, convened with famous authors—Adela was given the credit.

Sometimes Marcia wrote a childish, short, little note to her father—back in Philadelphia, living in a hall bedroom, with the neuritis in his arm becoming worse—a note saying that some day he must come visit them in the lovely California sunshine.

And Adela, the movie mother, worked on with her daughter.

THE Ryersons lived in Philadelphia. Matthew, Adela and the prettiest little four-year-old bud of an offspring imaginable, named Marcia.

Marcia was the boarding-house pet.

The Ryersons occupied a second-floor front room of two four-story, brownstone houses that had been joined into one by a little bridge of sighs, so that the boarders in the annex, in order to reach the dining room in the main building, could do so by crossing under cover.

Matthew Ryerson was a city salesman for a large wholesale grocery concern. In his room there was usually a little array of cans of imported sardines, tubes of anchovy paste, jars of little ring-around-a-rosy sardelles, bottles of olives with pimiento hearts, and glasses of clear, sherry or mint-colored jellies. Matthew's samples.

Ryerson was one of those fellows, quiet, enormously steady, and with a dry, brittle kind of humorous slant on the political affairs of the day, that you just know somehow is not destined for money-making.

Ryerson was a congenital salesman. He was born to be a salesman. He was born to die a salesman.

And the pity of it was that Adela Ryerson had to marry him to find it out. She had mistaken his dry kind of humor for cleverness. Ryerson wasn't clever. He was just steady and plodding and conscientious and a wee bit humorous.

Adela had had day dreams.

The kind of day dreams that went with her yellow hair and her blue eyes and her rich red lips.

When Adela graduated from her position as bookkeeper in the Hodge Department Store of Philadelphia, into the estate of matrimony, she did it with her eyes, her shining blue, pretty eyes, fixed on the future. The future that led into Matthew Ryerson's rise to eminence, indeed pre-eminence, in the commercial world. And so, when disappointment began to dawn on Adela, she turned with the most blazing kind of concentration, to the exploitation of their little girl.

When Marcia was four years old, she was already dancing in the parlor Saturday nights for the assembled boarding-house guests, who loved to applaud her and pat her yellow hair and carry her on their shoulders and cram jelly beans into her sweet little hands.

When Marcia was six years old, and at the expense of what amounted to family fracas with Matthew, who loathed the ostentation, Adela entered her in a child beauty contest conducted by a local newspaper.

Marcia won.

When Marcia was eleven years old, and Matthew Ryerson was earning $25.00 a week, more than he was ever to earn again in his life, Marcia was taking dancing lessons, singing lessons, delsarte lessons, and wearing silk socks that went two-thirds up her pretty little legs and finished in silk garters with flowered rosettes.

Those were the days when Ryerson, who was somewhat clever as an accountant, worked nights for $2.00 an evening, four evenings a week, to pay for the lessons.

When Marcia was fifteen she sang at a charity benefit and danced and did a little pantomime about a girl under a cherry tree. A motion picture director saw her, and advised her to visit the west coast where the studios were out after just such unbesmirched loveliness as Marcia's.

For the next two years, what with the lessons and the dream on Adela's horizon for Marcia, Matthew Ryerson worked on an average of six nights a week. It caused him astigmatism, neuritis in his right arm, and what is known as bookkeepers' stoop, but at the end of the twenty-third month there were the equivalent of two railroad tickets to Los Angeles in the bank. That was how Marcia Ryerson made the break.

Matthew Ryerson stayed back and kept his position with the wholesale grocer, except that now, owing to the neuritis, Matthew was obliged to take indoor work at a slightly lower salary. But then with Adela and Marcia gone it was a simpler matter to move to a smaller boarding house and a smaller room.

The plan was that presently Matthew was to join his family on the west coast, but somehow it did not quite happen that way.

What happened was this:

Marcia was pretty, and almost her second month in the west was earning enough to keep herself and her mother without contributions from Matthew.

And Adela. She was like a rose in its fullest bloom. She was a movie-mother, in a fair way to becoming the mother of a star.

In fact, in no time at all Marcia had achieved the rotogravure sections and a picture of her home, a little pink mud imitation of an imitation Italian villa, was printed in the motion-picture magazines.

Marcia Ryerson was a comedy star. Adela Ryerson signed contracts, interviewed directors, represented her daughter before the press, convened with famous authors, and picked out a cream-color roadster, upholstered in violet, for Marcia Ryerson to drive her blue, blonde way about Hollywood.

Marcia Ryerson was a star. Adela Ryerson was a movie mother. They travelled together. They occupied de luxe hotel suites together. They posed before newspaper cameras together.

There was still talk, in the occasional letters that went back and forth, of Matthew joining them on the coast. His neuritis was laying him pretty low. Adela wrote him suggesting California sunshine, and Marcia added a little postscript in her round, childish hand:

"Dear Father:

We are so well and happy and hope you are. Some day you must come and visit us in this lovely California sunshine."

But somehow that was as far as it ever got. Adela and Marcia were always rushing about "on location." On "personal appearance" tours. Indeed, Adela had bloomed to such an extent into her blown-rose period, that the company that employed little Marcia as star even offered to cast Adela once in a mother role, but Adela was satisfied in her capacity of movie-mother. Life had a sheen to it.

Sight-seeing buses megaphoned the home of Marcia Ryerson as they passed it. Adela had her picture taken along with the mothers of five of the leading stars of their day. "Movie Mothers" was the caption under the picture. Six loyal, courageous women who were largely responsible for the success of six lovely motion-picture stars.

Back east Marcia Ryerson had come to have quite a following. She was billed in headlines and out in incandescents over the theatres in which she played.

The guests in the boarding house where the Ryersons had lived, those early years, were proud of little Marcia. Were proud of having known her. The guests in the boarding house used to relate anecdotes of little Marcia, and of her mother's pride in her, and of her mother's eagerness to train little Marcia in half a dozen arts.

Adela, who was largely responsible for the success of little Marcia. It was love among those who had known them in the early days of Marcia's career; the valiant struggle of Adela.

Matthew, of course, had long since moved into the smaller quarters. What practically amounted to a hall bedroom with a single bed and wash stand with a bowl and pitcher and a tooth brush mug with "Max" painted on it in gold letters. There was no particular reason why "Max" should have been painted on that tooth brush mug in gold letters. Possibly at some time it had brightened the life of someone named Max, but for ten years after the departure of Marcia and Adela, Matthew lived in that slit of a room with a tooth brush mug with "Max" painted on it in gold letters, the most animate looking thing in his environment.

The letters just came occasionally on pink paper, the color of the imitation Italian villa, and sometimes there was a postscript from Marcia. But somehow the years just went on. And the neuritis.

Not infrequently, there was talk among the shifting, come-and-go boarders at the table, evenings, of motion picture stars. One night there was mention of Marcia Ryerson. "I suppose you're related to her, Mr. Ryerson," said one of the new boarders, jocosely. "Forty-first cousin, or something like that. Well, nothing like being mixed up with royalty. I suppose you're related to her."

"Yes," said Matthew Ryerson, scooping himself up a spoon of succotash out of his canary-bird bath tub of it. "I am her father. Her movie father."
