IPAA: Exploration investment needed

By PEGGY ROBERSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The Independent Petroleum Association of America, seeking ways to rebuild domestic oil and gas production, warned Friday that the growing U.S. reliance on petroleum imports will continue unless unprecedented investments are made in domestic exploration.

The IPAA concluded the three-day meeting with a statement that said capital commitment to U.S. exploration "will depend not so much on geology and technology as on effective government policies which establish an economic climate with incentives for investment in high-risk petroleum development."

U.S. oil production has dropped dramatically in the past two years as world oil supplies outstripped demand and prices fell. For many U.S. producers, the cost of drilling for oil and bringing it to the surface is greater than the price they can get for their production.

While prices have edged upward and some analysts believe profits can be achieved on new production by the early 1990's, IPAA members said investors will be reluctant to put money into the domestic industry as long as it burdened by too many taxes and federal regulations.

Attending his first IPAA convention, Dave A. Miller of Midland said he believes the oil producers are "being restricted by a lot of government rules, regulations and tax policies" and that, somehow, the country and community should be enlisted on their side.

"We have a lot of concerns, but we don't see much action," said Miller, who works in the service end of the oil business, for Dowell Schlumberger Inc.

During their meeting, IPAA members made it clear they will continue to push for repeal of the windfall profits tax on oil producers and for opening the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in Alaska to oil development. Some members also said they want to see a tax imposed on imported oil to allow domestic prices to rise.

While only about 10 percent of U.S. oil demand is met by Persian Gulf producers, debate has focused on the United States' increasing reliance on imported oil from all sources, which reached 37 percent in 1987.

The Energy Department, as well as members of Congress and independent oil experts have said the U.S. would be especially vulnerable to supply disruption or price increases if imports reached 50 percent of demand.

"An economic policy which does not account for energy issues, particularly domestic crude oil and natural gas production, is flawed," the IPAA statement said. "At best, policies so formulated are incomplete. At worst, they may be self-defeating, or even dangerous."

Oil price predictions lowered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government forecasters again have lowered their prediction of oil prices and sharply raised their expectations for imports this year.

In the quarterly publication "Short Term Energy Outlook," analysts of the Energy Information Administration said crude prices for the rest of this year and next should run $15 to $18 a barrel, a reduction of $1 to $2 from their January predictions.

The average for this year should be about $16 as opposed to $17.30 predicted in January, the forecasters said in the April edition made available Friday.

Meanwhile, imports of crude should rise 11 percent compared with last year, from 4.57 million barrels per day to 5.06 million barrels, the forecasters said. In January, the EIA, a semi-independent arm of the Energy Department, predicted that crude imports for 1988 would rise 2.6 percent to 4.71 million barrels per day.

Business leaders optimistic

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The state of the economy seems almost too good to be true less than seven months after the stock market plunge, business leaders said Friday.

The Business Council, composed of 61 executives from the largest U.S. corporations, predicted modest growth, low unemployment and moderate inflation this year in a report issued at its meeting at the Homestead resort.

"The economy and our businesses are doing quite well in spite of that problem," said John F. Akers, chairman of International Business Machines Corp., referring to the Oct. 19 stock market crash. "Nobody is talking about that anymore."

In fact, the economic forecast of the business group, which represents the consensus of member corporations' chief economists, paints a more optimistic picture than the prediction issued just before the crash.

The business executives projected somewhat slower growth in the economy as measured by the gross national product — 2.4 percent this year compared with a forecast of 3 percent made when they last met in early October.

But they said both inflation and unemployment will be lower than they thought seven months ago and that growth will be more balanced than the 3.8 percent expansion in 1987.

A buildup in inventories contributed almost one percentage point to last year's growth. That is expected to moderate, with increased exports and spending by businesses on new equipment filling in the gap.

Consumer spending, although growing at half of the 4 percent annual rate of the early 1980s, is expected to hold steady through 1989, providing room in the economy for the production of exports.

"I don't want to go on record saying (the crash) was a good thing, but there were certainly good aspects to it," said John S. Reed, chairman of Citicorp, the nation's largest bank holding company.

It relieved an unhealthy buildup of tensions in the financial markets and provided the world's central bankers an opportunity to lower interest rates, Reed said.

But underlying the optimism was a sense of unease among some executives that they attributed to two of the principal problems blamed for causing the crash: the federal budget deficit and the trade deficit.

Foundation makes wish come true for 8-year-old Midlander

By JULIE HILLRICHS
Staff Writer

A three-week celebration came to a quiet conclusion Friday for an 8-year-old Midland boy, his parents and younger siblings, as they gathered in the comfort of their own living room and viewed a favorite family flick, "Crocodile Dundee."

Daniel Barron is suffering from a life-threatening brain tumor, which has affected his ability to speak clearly, but hasn't diminished his interest in feature films.

Granted a wish, Daniel dreamt of having his own video cassette recorder because the cost of renting a VCR and movie each weekend was beginning to drain the family pocketbook, he said.

On Friday, the Make-Wish-Foundation of the Permian Basin gave the South Elementary School third-grader a VCR replete with a video tape version of the box office smash starring Australian-born actor Paul Hogan and blank tapes to use at his leisure.

"It's pretty nice getting a VCR and stuff," Daniel said as Make-A-Wish representative Claudia Smith instructed the boy in the VCR's operation.

"When we have to go and rent a movie, it costs $20 and that gets pretty expensive," he said.

Because of the tumor, doctors in Bethesda, Md., feared that Daniel's desire for a dirt bike was too risky and suggested that the boy make another wish.

That's when Mrs. Smith's teen-age son, Joey, and his Midland High School chum, Kendra Tomlinson, got involved in the picture. The two have spent the past three weeks collecting donations from their classmates to help pay for the VCR.

"There are so many bad rumors about what kids are doing and what they're not doing," said Kendra, whose largest contribution was in the form of a $20 bill from her grandparents.

Soliciting donations from 32 classmates, Joey embellished, "There are kids that really do care."

Mrs. Smith learned about Daniel's wish from South Elementary School Principal Rob Van Stavern, who sought the Make-A-Wish Foundation's assistance. Van Stavern also has organized a few parties in honor of the child.

Make-A-Wish focuses on children with life-threatening diseases and grants them wishes, she said of the foundation intent on operating as a cohesive unit, though some members don't work directly with the children.

Mrs. Smith felt she had no choice.

"It's just really important to me to give back something because my child is healthy," she said.

'Southwest Plan' put into action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Houston's Coastal Banc Savings Association acquired four insolvent Texas thrifts Friday in the first consolidation under the federal government's vaunted "Southwest Plan" designed to clean up the troubled Texas industry.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. will spend $138.3 million to merge into Coastal the Alliance Savings and Loan Association, Houston; Colorado County Federal Savings and Loan Association, Columbus; Security Savings and Loan Association, Dickinson; and Cameron County Savings Association, San Benito.

The cost to liquidate the four would have been $160 million. All deposits will be protected, even those that exceed the federally insured limit of $100,000, Federal Home Loan Bank Board Chairman M. Danny Wall said.

The consolidation boosts Coastal's assets from $68 million to $600 million, and adds 15 offices to its current five locations, stretching from Houston south to San Benito in the Rio Grande Valley.

Coastal will continue to operate all branches for three to five months, when the arrangement calls for it to eliminate half of the 20 branches.

Residents don't revere idea of restoring historic road

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — Colonial historians want to restore a five-mile stretch of road where Paul Revere was captured and the first shots of the American Revolution were fired to the way it looked circa 1776.

But people who live along Battle Road don't exactly revere the idea of reverting the highway to a cow path. "You call turning a paved road into dirt progress?" asked one.

The section of Route 2A that connects Lexington and Concord is just another highway to most, but American history buffs consider it a hallowed site.

British troops clashed with the Minutemen along the route on April 19, 1775, in the first battle of the Revolutionary War. The British captured Paul Revere on the road as they retreated toward Boston.

Supporters of a National Parks Service plan to restore Battle Road include retired House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill and Thomas Boylston Adams, scion of the family that produced two U.S. presidents.

O'Neill lives on Cape Cod and Adams lives in Boston.

"This is the most important road in America and deserves to be treated as such," the 78-year-old Adams said, likening Battle Road's significance to already restored historic sites like Gettysburg.

But few people living and working along the road share Adams' enthusiasm, arguing that they may be forced to leave land they've worked for decades.

"We're history, too," says Kathleen Cook, whose farm was first worked by her husband's grandfather.

"I don't consider this progress, and most people here agree with me," said Lou Snay, head chef at the Willow Pond Kitchen in Concord, the last remaining business on Battle Road.

Under the Parks Service plan, to be made public May 20, traffic on most of Battle Road would be rerouted and the segment would be restored to its original dirt state.

Trees now crowding much of the unoccupied land along the road would be cut to recreate the pastures of Revolutionary days. The crumbled stone walls built by the colonists would be rebuilt to waist height.

The Parks Service has overseen restoration of a dozen historic buildings along the roadway since 1959.

Smith says he has support for his ethics legislation

By JANE MARLER DEES

Smith

U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith said Friday he has bipartisan support for a bill he's introduced to make Congress adhere to a system of ethics.

The San Antonio Republican was in town Friday to discuss what he said could be "landmark legislation" that would forbid a former member of the House, Senate and those bodies' senior staffers for two years from lobbying the staff of committee where they last served.

At a press conference in his Midland office, Smith explained his bill would serve a two-fold purpose.

The bill would "protect the government from having information used against it that members (Congress) and congressional employees gained during their previous public employment, and prevent those former officials from using information for their own benefit gained during their employment," Smith said.

Congress exempted itself from the 1978 Ethics in Government Act that forbids former high-level executive branch employees from from lobbying their former agencies or departments after they leave the government, Smith said.

Periods of restrictions on the executive branch's bill vary from one year to a lifetime depending on the sensitivity of the former government employee's position, Smith said.

Academic says American 'marketplace dances to oil'

By MELLA McEWEN
Business/Oil Writer

Maxey

As she began her speech, Dr. Margaret N. Maxey acknowledged that her background was not in petroleum, engineering or economics, but she wasn't going to let that intimidate her, she said.

The director of the Clint W. Murchison Sr. Chair of Free Enterprise at the University of Texas in Austin, Maxey was in town Friday to address the Midland Desk and Derrick Club's annual industry appreciation dinner.

She told the audience that, because this area is so involved with the oil industry, it was hard to see what has been going on in the industry over the past 15 to 20 years.

She quoted Sheik Yamani, former oil minister for Saudi Arabia, as saying the worst mistake OPEC made in the 1970s from the Arab embargo of 1973 through the fall of the Shah of Iran in 1979 was letting the price of oil rise to $30 a barrel. It made alternative fuels irresistible.

As long as the price of oil is at, below or near $18, what makes domestic production attractive is very little, she pointed out.

"The best interests of this country are not served if we continue to cry out for low oil prices. Because, soon we may be awash in a global glut of oil, but we'll end up being the losers. The marketplace dances to oil, and we keep taking dancing lessons but we're not learning to turn off the music," Maxey stated.

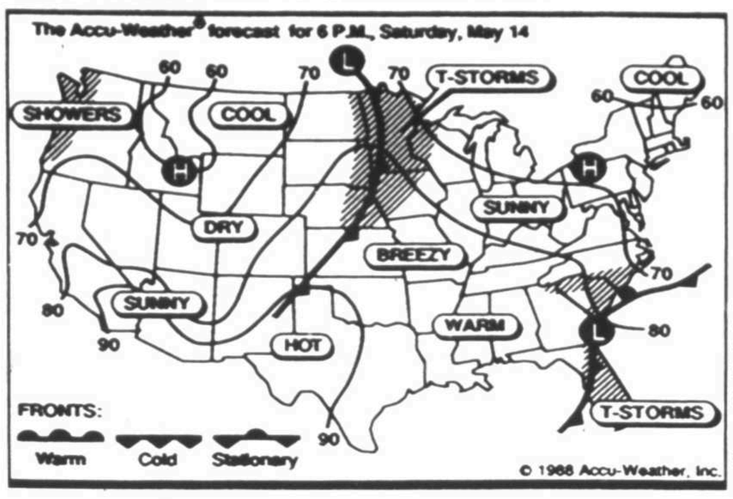
WEATHER SUMMARY



Hot weekend forecast

From Staff and Wire Reports

A hot weekend is in store for Midland and the surrounding area, forecasters at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport said.

Today should be mostly sunny with a high in the low 90s. Winds will be from the south at 10-20 mph.

Tonight should be partly cloudy with less than a 20 percent chance for thundershowers. The low tonight should be near 60.

Sunday will also be partly cloudy with less than a 20 percent chance for thundershowers. The high should be near 90.

The record high for yesterday was set in 1960 when it reached 102. The record low for today was set in 1953 when it dipped to 41.

STATE

High pressure over the state produced clear skies over Texas except the Coastal Plains which had partly cloudy skies.

The forecast called for mostly sunny skies Saturday with scattered areas of dense fog over southeast Texas on Saturday morning.

On Saturday, North Texas should have partly cloudy skies, bringing a slight chance of thunderstorms in the northwest. Highs Saturday were expected to reach into the 80s and 90s.

The extended forecast for North Texas called for fair skies and high temperatures through Wednesday.

In West Texas, a few thunderstorms were possible from the mountains eastward, with more numerous thunderstorms predicted in the Panhandle. Highs were expected in the 90s, except near 100 along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend.

In South Texas, generally partly cloudy skies should dominate Saturday through Sunday. Highs could reach the 80s and 90s in the Rio Grande Plains.

NATION

Scattered rain and thunderstorms hit the East from the Florida Keys to New York State on Friday, while a cold front brought strong gusts to the West.

Rain also fell over the Pacific Northwest. Sunny skies prevailed over much of the rest of the nation.

Thunderstorms developed across the Florida Keys and over western Pennsylvania in the morning and extended into Ohio and New York State. Youngstown, Ohio recorded one-third of an inch of rain in the six hours ended 2 p.m. EDT.

Showers also stretched from the South Carolina coast across Georgia and northern Florida.

A cold front from central Montana to southern Nevada whipped strong winds over several states and sent temperatures falling sharply in its wake.

Rain and thundershowers were forecast Saturday over the northern Plains and from eastern South Carolina into Florida. Scattered showers were predicted for northern Maine and northern Washington State.

"Somehow we must find ways to turn off that spigot that are making our problems greater."

She went on to broaden the focus of her speech from the oil industry to industry in general, in particular how industry and technology are publicly perceived.

Public perception that industry was dangerous and that the public needed to be protected from industry and technology began with the publication of such books as The Wastemakers by Vance Packard, and Silent Spring by Rachel Carson.

"Rachel Carson's book did more to teach us that everything we breathe, eat or drink causes cancer," she remarked. "Then Ralph Nader came along and told us that everything causes cancer."

As a result of this, Maxey said, people believed that all the chemicals that spewed into the atmosphere after World War II caused the cancer epidemic, and that Mother Nature was benign, benevolent and fragile.

"In 1978, there was Love Canal. Who was the culprit? Hooker Chemical. In 1979 there was Three Mile Island. Who was the culprit? General Power Utilities. In both cases, how many people died immediately? Zero," she said.

She then cited the Bhopal disaster in which 1,200 people died immediately, and the Chernobyl nuclear disaster in which 31 people died. What galls her, she said, was that in this same time frame — between Bhopal and Chernobyl — there was a cyclone in Bangladesh that killed 10,000 people, an earthquake in Mexico City that killed another 10,000 people, and a volcanic eruption in Colombia that killed 20,000 people.

"And people have the gall to say Mother Nature is benign, benevolent and fragile. She is a threat to health and safety that knows no rival. Technology has given us the early warning system, flood control, water treatment systems."

As a result of public fear of industry and technology, stringent and complicated legislation such as the Environmental Protection Agency's Superfund and the Delaney Amendment which bans substances for human consumption if they cause cancer in laboratory animals.

"Here we are, chasing parts per billion. What are people in Washington doing to us, lying? No, they're following the Delaney Amendment, which needs to be revised or revoked. They've lost their common sense. We're chasing receding zeros. How can we comply with zero standards if they keep receding," she asked.

"This matter needs your urgent attention," she told the audience. "It won't stop here. If we don't do something to feed these hungry lawyers or give them something else to do, we are in serious trouble."

She urged her listeners to use their influence with the politicians in Austin and Washington, to let them know enough is enough. "If we don't start turning this nonsense around, this country won't be the citadel of freedom it once was.

You must make a commitment for freedom so we can begin to care for our fellow man. We are our brothers' keepers. The buck stops here. But it won't as long as we continue this narcissistic navel-gazing," she concluded. "Please hang tough. You are survivors. If you don't survive, this nation won't survive."

IPAA

Speaking to the more than 1,000 members Friday, former Democratic National Committee chairman Robert Strauss said he could not criticize the Reagan administration's energy policy "...because this administration doesn't have one."

Turning to the presidential campaign, Strauss predicted that whoever wins will be a one-term president because looming economic problems will cause him to lose favor with the voters.

Strauss also said that both parties' prospective candidates — Republican George Bush and Democrat Michael Dukakis — "are better than they are given credit for."

Describing Bush as "a decent and reasonable fellow," Strauss said the "wimp factor," won't cling to vice president. At the same time, Strauss said Dukakis"is not a left wing liberal" as he has been portrayed by some.

Predicting "an exceedingly close election," Strauss encouraged the hard-pressed oil producers to hang on. "If you folks can weather for another two or three years, you'll be all right," he said.

OIL

Counting refined products also, net petroleum imports this year should increase 8.7 percent, from 5.77 million barrels per day to 6.27 million barrels. The January prediction was for a 4.1 percent increase to 6.04 million barrels per day.

Overall petroleum use should rise 1.8 percent this year, from 16.55 million barrels per day to 16.85 million barrels, the forecasters said. Earlier, they had predicted a 0.8 percent increase to 16.66 million barrels. That would mean the import share of the market would rise from 35 percent to 37 percent instead of 36 percent.

Much of the predicted increase in consumption already has occurred as a result of colder-than-normal temperatures in January and February.

PLAN

"This is the beginning and we will begin to see a number of future transactions that will provide stability to Texas thrifts," said FHLBB member Lawrence J. White, who called it a good deal for the FSLIC.

Wall said the transaction "accomplishes the Southwest Plan's key objectives of consolidation, strong management and the infusion of new capital."

Coastal will bring in new outside capital of $3.5 million from private investors in the months following the transaction.

The consolidation is the first in the three months since the FHLBB announced its Southwest Plan to restructure the crippled Texas thrift industry and cut the number of thrifts in the state by one-third.

Midlander stabbed during argument

From Staff Reports

A Midlander stabbed twice early Friday morning is in stable condition at Midland Memorial Hospital today, a hospital spokeswoman says.

Greg Hendershot, 35, of 3600 N. Midland Dr., was stabbed twice at the New West nightclub Friday during an argument, police said.

A suspect in the incident, a 37-year-old Midlander, was arrested for public intoxication and released on $100 bond from the city jail at 2:30 a.m. Friday, police said.

Witnesses told police a fight broke out between the two men shortly after 12:30 a.m., reports said.

Hendershot was stabbed in the lower rib cage and two of his fingers were severely cut, Midland Police Cpl. Jim White said.

The altercation was the second stabbing incident this year reported at the nightclub located on South Midkiff Road.

The Senate has passed a similar congressional ethics bill submitted by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-South Carolina, but Smith said that document is being challenged as unconstitutional.

The Senate version, the Integrity in Post-Employment Act, is "badly bloated and fatally flawed," Smith claimed.

"It may well violate the Constitution, it clearly ignores historical precedent and certainly it unduly restricts the ability of public servants to earn a living in the private sector," Smith said of the Senate bill.

Smith said the Senate bill would prohibit former members of the House and Senate from discussing legislation with current members for one year, even when the former member had no association with the legislation in question.

Senate opponents of the Thurmond bill "are looking to the House for serious support" of a passable measure, Smith said.

Smith said his legislation "supports the precedent that says post-government restrictions should apply to work involving the kind of special, inside knowledge gained during government service that could be used to undermine the integrity of the decision-making process."

The legislator said his bill strives for a balance between having congressmen and staffers avoid the appearance of impropriety and allowing them to earn a living after leaving government.

Twenty co-sponsors are behind Smith's proposal, he said. Support has come from everyone from "liberals to arch-conservaties."

Smith Friday also said the Windfall Profits Tax — which is tacked on to the large Omnibus Trade Bill — should be repealed by mid-summer, despite President Reagan's threats to veto the measure.

The representative expects that a bill rewritten in sections not pertaining to the windfall tax should pass the president's desk, he said.

Odessan jailed on drug charges

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — A 29-year-old man remained in the Ector County jail and a 33-year-old woman was free on $24,000 bond after both were arraigned Friday on charges of aggravated possession of cocaine.

About 1:30 a.m. Friday search warrant-armed Odessa police raided a residence in the 1300-block of East 23rd Street, seized more than two ounces of suspected cocaine and arrested Travis Orlean Gardner and Janet Lynn Giles.

According to police spokesman Cpl. John McAhon, narcotics officers conducted a systematic search of the residence and seized the suspected cocaine with "an estimated street value of approximately" and unspecified drug paraphernalia.

Gardner and Ms. Giles were arraigned Friday morning before Municipal Judge J.E. Weatherly. The judge set bond at $24,000 for each on the charges of aggravated possession of a controlled substance.

ECONOMY

"Many of us continue to feel we must be living on borrowed time to be having such good business conditions when the underlying fundementals are so questionable," said Edmund T. Pratt Jr., chairman of Pfizer Inc., a diversified health care company.

The stubbornly high trade deficit will drop from a record $171.2 billion in 1987 to less than $150 billion this year, the executives said.

But they said that will not be enough to prevent a further slide in the dollar, which has already lost half its value in two years when measured against the Japanese yen. The executives said the dollar, now trading at about 125 yen, will drop to 115 yen by the end of next year.

The budget deficit was predicted to remain "disturbingly high" at $154 billion in 1988, up from $150.2 billion in 1987.

"Clearly nothing will be done about it in an election year," said Robert D. Kilpatrick, chairman of CIGNA Corp., an insurance company.

The executives' report also sounded a warning about rising interest rates. Major banks this week raised their prime lending rate from 8.5 percent to 9 percent.

Too much economic growth "could produce an unavoidable rise in interest rates and a recession before the end of 1989," it said.

However, Willard C. Butcher, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, said he was not overly concerned about the increase in the prime rate and said rates may fall back slightly by the end of the year.

The Business Council saw consumer prices rising 3.9 percent in 1988, down from the 4.4 percent rate in 1987.

Water tanks donated to cancer society

CHARDON, Ohio (AP) — In her zeal to raise money to fight cancer, Donna J. Lang saw a unique opportunity in the donation of 63,000 flawed water softener tanks.

The Geauga County chapter of the American Cancer Society is charging $1 to $2 for the tan, blue and white tanks, which stretch hundreds of yards on a tract that one day will be turned into a golf course.

"I'll probably be in a nursing home by the time we sell them all," Ms. Lang, the chapter's executive director, said this week. "But I'm the kind of person who likes to try anything once."

Ms. Lang said the society has made more than $1,200 so far selling the tanks, which people in the county east of Cleveland have been buying to use as drainage pipes, buoys, lawn rollers, boats and even dog houses.

The cylindrical tanks, which have a hole in one end for pipe, range from 6-by-13 inches to 30-by-40 inches, she said.

Burlington Development Co. here offered the tanks to the society about two months ago, said Chuck Steckley, the company's construction supervisor.

Burlington acquired the tanks when it purchased 2,400 acres it plans to develop as housing and golf courses, Steckley said. The stockpile had been owned by late architect Carroll Bassler, who got them from a Chardon firm called Structural Fibers, Steckley said.

"They were all seconds, so Structural Fibers couldn't use them," Steckley said.

Lawmen reopen unsolved murder cases

STATE

AUSTIN (AP) — Last month's execution-style slaying of a woman in the fashionable Lakeway community has prompted authorities to dust off case files of two other unsolved killings in which victims also were shot in the heads and their bodies stuffed in car trunks.

One victim was an enforcer who once broke the kneecaps of a man in retribution for gambling debts. The second was a used-car salesman abducted on his way to a high-stakes card game.

The most recent victim was Betty Ann Thomas, 45, whose body was found April 13 in the trunk of her Jaguar. The other killings occurred more than five years ago.

"I don't think these murders were related," said Lakeway Police Chief Tom Evans. "We can't put a link on them, other than that they were all killed and put in trunks."

Austin Police Lt. Jerry Slatton said homicide investigators haven't found any connections in the three slayings, other than the method by which they were killed.

"They are not similar enough. They were killed and found in trunks," Slatton said. "That's about as far as it goes."

On Aug. 30, 1982, Benjamin Boyd Smith, 54, was found in the trunk of his Buick, parked at an industrial firm parking lot in Austin. He was strangled with a cord and shot twice in the head with a .22-caliber handgun.

John Samon's body was discovered in the trunk of his Oldsmobile on March 6, 1983. He was shot twice in the head with a .22-caliber handgun.

Ms. Thomas was shot once at close range with a small-caliber handgun. She was found beaten, bound and gagged in the trunk of her car.

Smith, a former San Antonio policeman and ex-professional boxer, was described in a Corpus Christi trial as the "baddest man in town."

He was believed to have connections with Las Vegas gambling interests and had a long criminal record, said Austin Sgt. Dusty Hesskew, who worked on the case.

"He was an enforcer, a collections man. If someone owed you money, he'll get it for you," Hesskew said. "In fact, he broke the kneecaps of some guy who didn't pay a gambling debt."

In 1980 in Corpus Christi, Smith was sentenced in an assault-for-hire case in which a 34-year-old private investigator was beaten by two men using baseball bats. Smith was given a $2,000 fine and one year's probation.

When officers found Smith's body, he was carrying a business card that read: "For You We Get The Money."

Samon, a 52-year-old Austin man, was en route to a high-stakes card game in Waco when he disappeared Feb. 23, 1983. His decomposed body was found 12 days later in his car trunk in a north Austin parking lot.

According to private detective R.G. Lopez, who was hired by Samon's family, the car salesman's pockets had been turned inside out and $50,000 was missing from his car.

Hesskew said he believes the slayings of Smith and used-car salesman Samon could be linked to organized crime.

"B.B. Smith had a lot of ties in Las Vegas. I'm sure a lot of people wanted him dead," Hesskew said. "Samon was tied in with gambling. A lot of times, gambling is closely tied with organized crime."

Bus overturns after colliding with truck; Trucker allegedly killed

HOUSTON (AP) — A 70-seat school bus overturned in a residential area Friday afternoon after colliding with a pickup truck, killing the truck's driver and injuring several students and a 9-month-old child.

About 30 students were aboard the Houston Independent School District bus when it overturned shortly before 5 p.m. in the Pamela Heights subdivision in southeast Houston, said Trudy Harold, a school district spokeswoman.

She said the truck's driver died.

The young child, a passenger of the truck, was taken by LifeFlight helicopter to Hermann Hospital, said hospital spokesman Tony Delaney.

"Right now, the child is in stable condition and still being evaluated. The other people in the accident are being treated at the scene," he said.

Sgt. Paul Labonge of the Houston Police Department's accident division said the child was the only one hospitalized so far.

But a KTRK-TV report said eight children riding the bus were hospitalized and that the male driver of the truck was killed.

Labonge could not confirm the driver's death.

The accident occurred about a half-mile from R.W. Dowling Middle School, where the bus originated, Ms. Harold said.

Children on the bus told the television station that three boys sitting on the side of the road threw rocks at the bus, hitting one student. The bus driver then apparently sped up and collided with the truck at an intersection, crushing the truck and forcing the bus on its left side, the children said.

The children were able to crawl out of the bus through the back emergency door.

"When she (bus driver) tried to dodge from the truck, it flipped over on top of the truck and everybody just fell over on the other side," said Robin Teal, a student riding the bus.

"Nobody could get the back door, but then we did and everybody crawled out."

Linda Scott, who lives in the neighborhood, said she heard loud noises before the wreck.

Inmate escapes while being taken to Texas

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Authorities were searching Friday for a prisoner who had completed his sentence in New Jersey and escaped at Newark International Airport while being taken to Texas, where police said he was to serve more time.

Keith Sommerville, 29, of Dallas bolted from an officer of the Dallas County Sheriff's Department on Tuesday while they were eating lunch at an airport restaurant, said Jim Ewell, a sheriff's spokesman.

Lt. Leonard Nisivoccia of the Essex County Sheriff's Department said Somerville had friends and family in northern New Jersey and that authorities were trying to determine whether the escapee had contaced them.

Sommerville had completed a 15-month sentence for assault in New Jersey when he was turned over to Genaro Rangel, a Dallas sheriff's deputy, Ewell said.

When the two stopped at a restaurant for lunch before their flight, Sommerville asked if his handcuffs could be removed and Rangel agreed, Ewell said Ewell.

He said Sommerville jumped up and ran through the crowded airport when Rangel bent over to pick up a napkin.

Ewell said Sommerville faces a life sentence in Texas as a "habitual criminal," but he did not know what offenses Sommerville had been convicted of.

Lawmaker says students who quit school should be denied licenses

AUSTIN (AP) — A powerful incentive for kids to stay in school would be to deny drivers' licenses to dropouts under the age of 19, a state lawmaker said.

"I believe that a child should have to be in school and on track toward graduation in order to get a driver's license," state Rep. Bill Hammond, R-Dallas, told representatives of more than 40 education groups Thursday.

Currently, any 16-year-old can obtain a driver's license upon completion of a driver-education course. Hammond's proposal would bar dropouts from obtaining a license until they become 19.

"While this would be a drastic action, our dropout situation is serious enough that it warrants action like this," he said, adding that he plans to sponsor legislation for the new requirement next year.

About one of every three high school students in Texas drops out before graduation.

State Board of Education chairman Jon Brumley of Fort Worth expressed interest in the measure.

"This really hits the right button, because teen-agers want to drive as much as they want to do anything," Brumley said. "This could be the way to motivate some of these students. It's a very clever idea."

Hammond, a member of the House Public Education Committee, said he has received an enthusiastic response from educators and various members of Gov. Bill Clements' staff.

Clements' press secretary Reggie Bashur said the governor is studying Hammond's proposal and other proposed reforms.

Official says money won't prevent dropouts

McALLEN (AP) — Dropouts cost the nation billions of dollars a year, but money is not what it takes to keep students achieving in school, the man who may succeed William Bennett as U.S. education secretary said Friday.

"Any time you have quality teachers and quality principals, with parents involved in the process, you don't need additional money," Linus Wright, undersecretary to U.S. Education Secretary William Bennett, told the state convention of the League Of United Latin American Citizens.

Bennett said Monday he would be leaving in September and recommended Wright to succeed him in the Cabinet position, although the White House has not responded officially.

Wright said the role of the education secretary is "to call attention to successful programs that have been observed and to disseminate research programs that have proven to be successful."

Wright, 61, former Dallas school superintendent and former assistant school superintendent in Houston, said there only will be four months left in the Reagan administration when someone replaces Bennett, and that policies already will be in place.

He told the LULAC group that nationwide, 700,000 students drop out of high school every year, costing the economy $100 billion in welfare and lost productivity.

"We have to move beyond the state of recognizing and calling attention to the problem, and really working on solving it," Wright said.

Wright said two public schools he observed in McAllen provided examples of ways to improve education and keep students interested in school.

Both schools expected much from students and worked hard at making them feel successful, with involvement from teachers, administrators and parents.

He said he was impressed at Sam Houston Elementary School when people answered the phone, '"Sam Houston students are great. May I help you?'"

"Unless you raise the expectations, unless you raise the level of achievement, they will never rise above the level at which they are taught," Wright said.

Military pilots killed in jet crash

WINSLOW, Ariz. (AP) — Two military aviators stationed at a Texas base were killed Friday afternoon in the crash of an Air Force RF-4C Phantom-2 jet about seven miles northwest of here, a Coconino County deputy said.

Sheriff's Lt. Ron Anderson said an initial search of the crash site indicated that one of the plane's two occupants tried to eject.

No identities were made available.

Luke Air Force Base Sgt. Scott Clough said the plane was en route from Davis-Monthan Air Force Base at Tucson to Nellis Air Force Base near Las Vegas, Nev., on a routine training mission.

It was not immediately known what led to the crash, he said.

Clough said the plane was assigned to the 67th Tactical Reconnaisance wing at Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin, Texas.

Shevardndaze optimistic about nuclear weapon reduction

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet foreign minister expressed optimism Friday that "substantial results" in reducing long-range nuclear weapons will be achieved at the superpower summit, the official East German news agency reported.

Eduard A. Shevardnadze briefed President Erich Honecker and the other Warsaw Pact foreign ministers on two days of talks in Geneva with Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

On Thursday, he and Shultz said it would not be possible for President Reagan and Mikhail S. Gorbachev to sign a treaty on long-range, or strategic, arms at the summit scheduled for May 29-June 2 in Moscow.

The news agency, ADN, said: "Eduard Shevardnadze came away (from Geneva) with the impression that progress and substantial results can be made at the Moscow summit in all areas that have been under discussion."

It said Shevardnadze told Honecker "there is the determination on both sides to cut in half the number of strategic nuclear weapons, as has been agreed in principle. Intensive work is being done in this regard."

ADN added that Shevardnadze told Honecker the Kremlin is aware that "results are expected from the Moscow summit which would give the process of disarmament and detente a new impulse." It did not elaborate.

WORLD

Shevardnadze met with Honecker soon after his arrival, then briefed the foreign ministers.

A communique issued by the ministers said they "gave their full support to the Soviet Union's efforts in negotiations with the United States, and voiced hope that the talks between Gorbachev and Reagan will result in the halving of strategic offensive weapons and achieve results in other disarmament areas."

After the Geneva talks, Shultz said he and Shevardnadze resolved a dispute over verification procedures for a treaty eliminating intermediate-range nuclear missiles. It was signed in December but has yet to be ratified by the Senate.

Foreign Minister Ioan Totu of Romania did not attend the briefing, an East German Foreign Ministry spokesman said, adding: "I don't know why he decided not to come." Romania was represented by its ambassador, Gheorge Caranfil.

Shultz met with NATO foreign ministers Friday in Brussels.

He told the allied officials, in a closed meeting at North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters, that there was no chance of the superpowers concluding before the Moscow summit a treaty cutting long-range missiles by half.

David Mellor, a British minister of state, said Shultz had given NATO allies "no further insights" into how long it might take to wrap up such an agreement.

Paraguayan group to meet with pope

SANTA CRUZ, Bolivia (AP) — Paraguay's authoritarian government has withdrawn its ban on a meeting between Pope John Paul II and a civic group that includes opposition politicians, the Vatican said Friday.

A statement read to reporters traveling with the pope in neighboring Bolivia said the meeting Tuesday in Asuncion, capital of Paraguay, "will be held just as planned."

The announcement came as the pontiff urged Bolivians at this cocaine crossroads to make war on the drug trade that "sows your soil with corruption and death."

Earlier this week, midway through a 12-day papal tour of four South American countries, Gen. Alfredo Stroessner's Paraguayan government canceled John Paul's scheduled meeting with the Builders of Society.

About 350 intellectuals, businessmen and politicians belong to the group, which is sponsored by the church and includes representatives of unauthorized opposition parties.

Paraguay said the ban was for "security reasons." The Vatican said it was "astonished" at the "unprecedented step."

According to the statement, the reversal was arranged at a meeting between Paraguayan government representatives and the Vatican ambassador and local bishops.

It appeared from the wording that the meeting would be held as planned in a government-owned sports complex, but a Vatican official in Santa Cruz could not confirm it.

Cancellation would have marked the first time a government interfered with John Paul's official itinerary on the 37 overseas trips he has made since becoming pope nearly 10 years ago.

Celebrating an open-air Mass in sticky heat at Santa Cruz, a frontier boomtown, the pontiff delivered his strongest condemnation of drugs on the tour.

"The drug trade has become a real trafficking in freedom, since it leads to the most terrible form of slavery and sows your soil with corruption and death," he told an audience the local radio estimated at 220,000.

"There is an urgent need not only to protect the youth from drug consumption but to combat trafficking itself, which is a totally infamous activity."

John Paul spoke at the city's secondary airport, which U.S. narcotics officials say is used primarily by cocaine runners.

In his sermon, the pope ticked off a list of ills afflicting Bolivia, ranging from high infant mortality to unjust distribution of wealth and challenged the faithful to do something about them.

"Do you really feel the hunger and thirst for justice?" he asked.

"Narcotics trafficking, and its internal and external consequences, tend to generalize in different forms of corruption," he said.

He acknowledged that all Bolivia's problems are not of its own making, declaring that it suffers from an "excessive economic, technological, political and cultural dependence."

In a March encyclical on social issues, John Paul blamed many economic and political problems of poor nations on the rivalry between East and West.

Bolivia supplies nearly one-third of the cocaine that reaches users in the United States and Western Europe.

It is prepared in clandestine labs and shipped from hidden airstrips dotting the tropical lowlands of this eastern Bolivian zone near the Brazilian border.

Santa Cruz, Bolivia's second-largest city with 377,000 inhabitants, is a major cocaine transit point. It has luxurious homes, villas and country clubs said to have been built with illicit drug money.

Earlier Friday, the pope flew to Tarija, in Bolivia's southern wine-producing country, to speak with children.

Crowds surged against police lines to get near him. A woman slipped past security and climbed onto a papal stage at the airport. She was gently escorted back down by Vatican representatives.

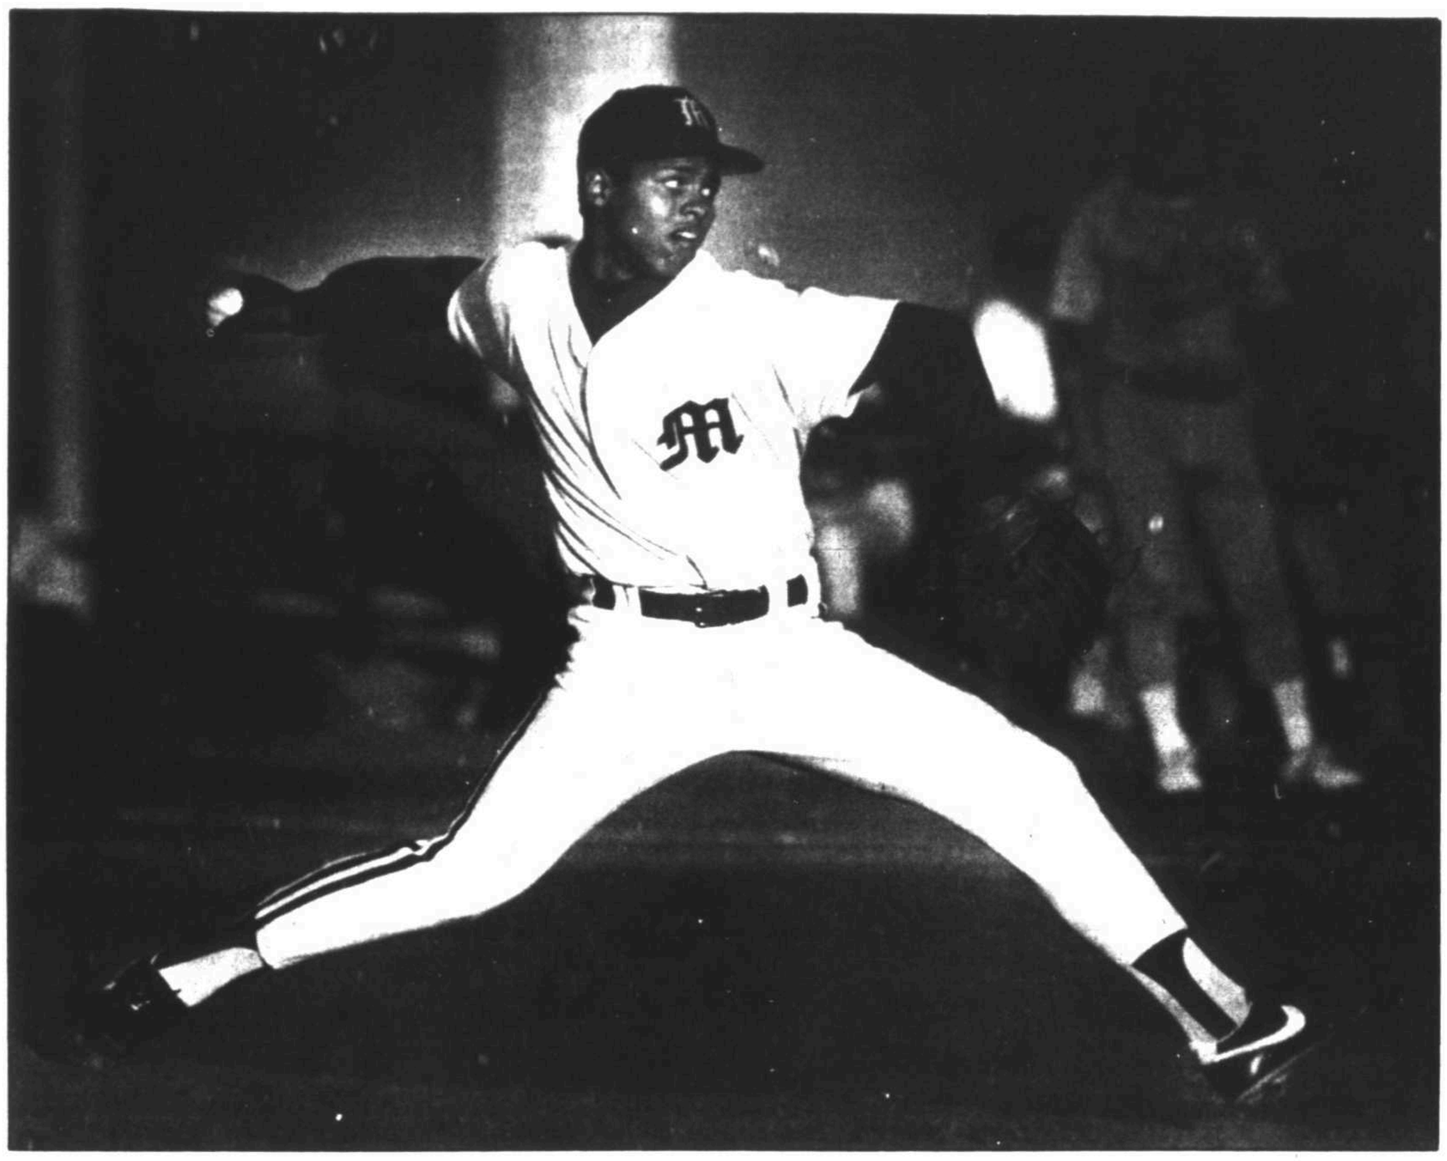
Bulldogs rally to win, 4-2, square series



George Wolf/Reporter-Telegram

Midland High pitcher Kevin Rychell takes long stride in delivery against Plainview Bulldogs.

Midland, Plainview meet in decider today

By JIMMY PATTERSON
Sports Writer

The Midland High Bulldogs scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth to pull off a come-from-behind 4-2 victory over the Plainview Bulldogs Friday night at Angel Stadium.

With the win, Midland High pulls even in the best-of-three bi-district series with the third and decisive game set for 1 p.m. today at Angel.

MHS starter Kevin Rychel lasted the distance, pitching a gem of a game in allowing only four hits and one earned run while striking out eight.

Plainview starter Raymond Pena stifled 'Dog batters early on, retiring the first 11 Bulldog batters. Pena lasted five innings yielding only one hit. PHS fielding proved the demise of the South Plains Bulldogs Friday night.

IN THE SIXTH, with Plainview leading 2-1 and time slipping away, right-fielder Eric Boyt led off the inning with a walk. Boyt went to second on a Pena wild pitch and advanced to third on a sacrifice bunt by Rychel. After catcher Scott Mowles followed by reaching base on Pena's throwing error, courtesy runner Russell Page came on and stole second to put runners at second and third.

It was at that point — with Midland High trailing — that the momentum suddenly shifted for the Bulldogs.

Boyt — in one of those definitive "plays of the game" — took off on relief pitcher Stan Robertson's delivery, successfully stealing home. Both Boyt and MHS head coach Tim Whalen confirmed that the suicide squeeze was not planned, and that the steal was just a matter of expert base running.

"I THOUGHT I saw (Robertson's) stride go the other way, so I just took off," Boyt said.

"The kid (Robertson) was in his stretch," Whalen said. "I thought he was leaning a little bit. It was lucky he threw the ball high or (Boyt) would've been dead. You've got to have a special situation and a kid with a lot of guts to do that."

Despite Boyt's heroics, his was not the single most important run of the game. Following the suicide squeeze, Danley landed a shot to right to score Page for the go-ahead run.

Leading 3-2, a single by MHS designated hitter Dorey Thompson scored Danley for the fourth and final Bulldog run.

"I don't want to go against Coach Whalen and his thinking," Plainview head coach Fred Oilver said, "but I think Rychel's a heckuva pitcher. Better than Boyt."

"Kevin seems like he's the hard luck pitcher on our staff," Whalen said. "At times, when he throws around the plate, he throws harder (than Boyt).

Rychel was aided by his defense, which committed only one error, which would prove to be inconsequential.

Plainview pitchers did not have the same luxury. Error-free through four innings, Plainview committed two costly errors in the fifth and another in the sixth. Of the four MHS runs, only two were earned.

DANLEY WAS the night's hitting leader, going 2-for-3, scoring one and d-iving in another — the game winner.

Plainview scored its two runs in the first when Pena walked and center-fielder Willie Ansley doubled. Stan Robertson singled home Pena and MHS second-baseman Jason Stone's throwing error allowed Ansley to come across.

In the sixth, Plainview was denied a run when Rene Perez got in the way of Mowles' attempted throwdown to third to nail Pena. Pena might have successfully stolen home had it not been for the batter interference which got Midland High out of the inning.

"I don't agree with (the umpire). I think it's a bad call but that's beside the point. Because of that call — I think it took the air out of us.

"We let it get away. We just didn't get our bats going tonight. I told my kids to look up at the scoreboard and see 3-1 (errors). That's what the ball game boiled down to — 3-1. We had outs that weren't called. We had outs that we didn't execute."

On the other hand, Whalen was just thankful his team finally got a spark that ignited them.

"We didn't have anything going," he said. "(Plainview) sat there and made routine plays all day. I think it'll be interesting to see what happens (today)."

Right-hander Joe Rendon (1.29 ERA in 18.0 district innings pitched) should get the nod in today's third game. Rendon scattered eight hits through district play while striking out 11 and allowing only five earned runs.

Plainview's Oliver is undecided on his starting pitcher.

BULLDOG BEAT: Should Midland High win today, the Bulldogs would host either El Paso Sorocco or El Paso Irvin in the next round of the playoffs. In the best-of-three series, all games would be played at Angel Stadium May 20 and 21.

Andrews' Finley third in 4A discus

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

AUSTIN - The Permian Basin couldn't find the gold lining here at Memorial Stadium in the first day of the state track meet, but maybe it was just a matter of a Friday the 13th complex.

But the truth of the matter probably lies in the fact that the Permian Basin rarely turns in impressive numbers when the Eyes of Texas is upon it.

Certainly, Andrews' Joe Don Finley, the favorite to win the Class 4A discus, wasn't using the Friday the 13th excuse for a third place finish with a respectable 177-6.

"I don't place any importance on Friday the 13th," said Finley. "We just didn't have any wind and all the others were just stronger than me. I need to get back to the West Texas wind."

Finley's 181-9 was the top 4A effort this year, but Tomball's Stuart Tyner won the event with a 181-7, his best throw of his career.

"Everyone in 4A knew that you had to come here and beat Finley," said Tyner. "I felt like I could do it, but 180-1 was the best I had ever done and I felt like it would take more than that."

Jerry Burleson
...new Crane head coach

Burleson's goal is get Cranes airborne next fall

(This is one of a series of features on new football coaches at Permian Basin area high schools)

By BILL GRIMES
Sports Writer

CRANE — Recently-promoted Johnny Burleson hopes a philosophy of positive reinforcement can help his Crane High School football team reach the levels to which they had been accustomed before last season's 4-6 slide.

Burleson succeeded Ricky White as head coach earlier this year after White accepted a similar position at Class 5A Donna in the Rio Grande Valley. The 1980 McMurry College graduate has been at Crane since 1981, and most recently served as defensive coordinator.

Burleson was a football standout at Odessa High School before playing linebacker at McMurry. He spent his first year after graduation as a coach at Crockett Junior High in Odessa.

Burleson said he tries to be the kind of coach that he had the good fortune to compete for as a youngster.

"I really looked up to my coaches," he said. "That led to my decision to go to college and led to my decision to coach.

"My coaches were always there for me," he added. "I had more than one daddy.

"I hope my players can come to me at any time - good or bad."

Burleson hopes that positive reinforcement will motivate the Cranes to improve upon last year's season, when nine players quit the team in mid-season and 16 more were declared academically ineligible.

"We basically finished the season with our junior varsity team playing a varsity schedule," Burleson said. "We'll be a predominantly junior team this season."

The coach feels those youngsters will benefit from a healthy dose of positivism.

"The key to coaching high school kids is praise," he said. "So many times we chew on a kid when he does bad.

"We expect good, but we often don't reward the kid with a pat on the back. Kids today need that positive attention."

Celtics take 2-0 lead in playoff

Associated Press

The Boston Celtics outscored Atlanta 25-9 in the first quarter, but needed a strong final period and Kevin McHale's 32 points to beat the Hawks 108-97 and take a 2-0 lead in their NBA playoff series Friday night.

The Celtics squandered their early lead as Atlanta closed the deficit to 26-18, then to 45-39 at halftime and 75-71 after three quarters.

Dennis Johnson scored 10 of his 23 points in the fourth quarter as Boston took control with a 10-4 run that made the score 85-75 with eight minutes left. The Celtics led by eight to 18 points the rest of the way and beat the Hawks for the 13th consecutive time in Boston.

Johnson began the fourth quarter with a jumper from the foul line and Dominique Wilkins, who led Atlanta with 22 points, hit two free throws. A foul shot by Mark Acres and a basket by Johnson got the lead to 80-73. Artis Gilmore then blocked Wilkins' shot and Johnson retrieved the ball and fired a halfcourt pass to McHale for a layup.

Wilkins' field goal preceded a free throw by Johnson and a basket by McHale, making it 85-75.

Atlanta made only four of 26 shots in the first quarter, but got right back in the game with the 9-1 run.

The Hawks got as close as 41-37 late in the first half and closed the gap even further with a seven-point spurt, capped by Randy Wittman's running bank shot that cut Boston's lead to 51-49 with 8:51 left in the third quarter.

On Saturday, Detroit is at Chicago and at Dallas. Chicago won 105-95 and Dallas defeated the Nuggets 112-108 on Thursday to even those series 1-1.

Pistons-Bulls

Michael Jordan, the league's leading scorer who was named the NBA Defensive Player of the Year on Friday, had 36 points and a big hand in 31 more in the Bulls' victory. Prior to the game, Jordan told teammate Sam Vincent: "Hey, we need you to come out and play relaxed. Don't let any pressure get to you. You're a good player. We have confidence in you."

A's Stewart finally loses

BALTIMORE (AP) — Eddie Murray and Fred Lynn hit consecutive two-out home runs in the fourth inning and the Baltimore Orioles handed Oakland ace Dave Stewart his first loss after eight consecutive victories by defeating the Athletics 4-1 Friday night.

AL

The Orioles won for only the fifth time in 34 games this season against the team with the best record in the American League and the winningest pitcher in baseball.

Stewart, 8-1, came into the game with four more victories than the Orioles and had allowed just six runs in his previous 40 innings. The A's have lost three in a row after winning 14 straight while the Orioles snapped a four-game losing streak.

Baltimore starter Jay Tibbs scattered nine hits in 7 1-3 innings.

Angels 5, Yankees 4

NEW YORK — Brian Downing hit a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning, his first ever at Yankee Stadium. Reliever Cecilio Guante retired the first two batters in the ninth but hit pinch hitter George Hendrick with a pitch. Downing then hooked a high fly ball just inside the left-field foul pole at the 318-foot mark.

Willie Fraser, 3-3, got the victory with two innings of scoreless relief and DeWayne Buice pitched a perfect ninth for his third save.

Tigers 7, Twins 0

DETROIT — Luis Salazar, Alan Trammell and Ray Knight homered in support of Doyle Alexander's seven-hit pitching. Alexander struck out six and walked one in handing the world champion Twins their 11th setback in 14 road games.

Indians 4, Brewers 3

MILWAUKEE — Cory Snyder greeted Milwaukee relief ace Dan Plesac with a three-run homer with two out in the eighth inning, giving the victory to Greg Swindell, 7-1.

Red Sox 14, Mariners 8

BOSTON — Mike Greenwell drove in four runs with a pair of homers, Sam Horn hit a three-run shot and Rick Cerone added a solo shot as Boston won a nine-homer slugfest.

Four-time American League batting champion Wade Boggs broke an 0-for-10 drought with four consecutive singles, his first four-hit game of the season, for the Red Sox, who had hit only 12 homers in their first 30 games.

Rangers 2, Royals 1

ARLINGTON, Texas — Rookie left-hander Ray Hayward allowed six hits in 7 1-3 innings and Oddibe McDowell keyed a two-run second inning with an RBI triple as Texas stretched its winning streak to seven games.

Hayward retired 15 straight batters from the first through the sixth inning in his third start since coming up from the minors.

White Sox 4, Blue Jays 1

Unbeaten rookie Melido Perez pitched a three-hitter for the first complete game of his career and Harold Baines broke an 0-for-8 drought with a two-run homer and a single.

Perez lost his shutout bid when Fred McGriff hit his eighth home run with one out in the ninth. Loser Todd Stottlemyre lasted 5 2-3 innings, allowing seven hits and all four Chicago runs.

Astros Ryan wins, 8-2

Associated Press

Nolan Ryan pitched a seven-hitter for his first complete game in more than two years, and Glenn Davis drove in four runs, leading the Houston Astros to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday night.

Davis got two of his RBI with a home run in Houston's four-run eighth inning.

NL

Ryan, 3-2, broke a three-game losing streak with his first complete game since April 25, 1986 against Cincinnati. Ryan walked two and struck out 11, moving past teammate Mike Scott for the National League strikeout lead with 66. Ryan has struck out 10 or more in 176 times in his career.

Davis, meanwhile, raised his league-leading RBI total to 33, the last two coming on his ninth homer after the Cubs had closed within 4-2.

Jamie Moyer, 2-4, gave up three runs on seven hits in six innings for Chicago. The loss was Moyer's fourth in his last five decisions.

Andre Dawson drove in both of Chicago's runs with a double and homer, his 10th.

Cardinals 7, Braves 5

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Terry Pendleton had three hits and drove in two runs, and Jose DeLeon struck out 10 batters in 8 2-3 innings as the St. Louis Cardinals rolled to a 7-5 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

DeLeon allowed seven hits, retiring the first nine men he faced in becoming the first Cardinals pitcher to win three games. Ken Dayley got the last out in Atlanta's three-run ninth, earning his first save.

DeLeon didn't allow a baserunner until Dion James lead off the fourth with a double to left. James later scored on a single by Ken Griffey.

Pirates 6, Reds 5

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Barry Bonds opened his second straight game with a homer, then scored from first base on two Cincinnati errors and Jose Lind's sacrifice bunt in the ninth as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Reds 6-5.

Bonds singled for his third hit of the game to greet Rob Murphy, 0-3, the Reds' third pitcher.

First baseman Dave Collins fielded Lind's bunt to the left of the pitchers' mound and threw wildly into center field as Bonds raced toward third.

Bulldogs go back to basics

By BILL GRIMES
Sports Writer

Fans remember great touchdown runs and eye-popping defensive plays on the football field. But sometimes they don't realize what must happen to make those plays a success.

Coaches do, however. That's why the Midland High football team has spent much of its spring training practicing the seemingly mundane task of being in the right place at the right time.

"We're beginning to get better execution, lining up properly on offense and being in the right places defensively," Bulldog head coach Doug McCutchen said. "We're not where we need to be, but we've gotten better in a shor ttime so far.

"On the one hand, we've progressed a lot, but on the other hand — we have a long way to go."

The Bulldogs finished their second week of spring practice this past Friday, and will conclude spring drills with the annual Bill Mims game this coming Saturday.

McCutchen said the 'Dogs overall progress has been encouraging.

"We're especially pleased with their attitude and their enthusiasm," he said. "You always want to be better, but as young as we are..."

About 70 players are vying for varsity positions on the 1988 team. From 25 to 28 of those varsity slots will be filled by seniors, who cannot play junior varsity ball.

McCutchen is particularly pleased with running backs Brent Noisette and Sammy Williams, along with tight end David Rhea. Defensively, ends Jeff Rashell and Ronnie Forrest, linebacker Ernest Carrasco, and backs Michael Savas and Julius Bowers continued to excel.

Defensive mainstay Roman Duran missed most of the week with a bruised knee, however. Other absentees continue to include seven members of the Midland High baseball team — running back Dwane Roberts, wide receiver Shaun Savas, defensive back Kevin Rychell, Will Sowders, and quarterbacks Russell Page, Patrick Mowles and Jason Stone.

An annual scrimmage between graduating seniors and the 1988 varsity that had traditionally taken place after the second week of drills was called off due to liability concerns.

Finley was fifth last year as a sophomore. And both Finley and Tyner are now juniors. Second place went to Hallsville's Max Berry with a 178-8, his only throw of the day to bust 160-feet.

"It's going to be Finley and me again next year," said Tyner.

Finley responded, "He (Tyner) won't beat me next year. I'm going to come back stronger than ever. I really felt like I was going to win this year, so this is a little disappointing."

Another area medal winner was Rankin's Bruce Hooker with a third place 14-0 in the Class A pole vault. Goldthwaite's Steve Bridges won as expected with a 16-0.

"I've been recovering from a bad left ankle," said Hooker. "I've had a 14-6 in a meet and have been going over 15-feet in practice."

Hooker passed until 13-6 and then missed on his first jump. "I just slowed up and didn't have the speed," he said, before clearing two heights in a row before bowing out.

Andrews' Kathleen Johnson, who had a season best 41-6 in the shot put, finished fifth with a 40-0. Johnson was so disappointed with her effort that she broke down in tears after the event and couldn't talk about it because second place was only 40-2. Still, she was in the hunt for a medal all day as only Jo Ann Hacker of San Antonio Southwest broke 41-feet, winning with an impressive 43-2.

Greenwood's Randy Donnell equaled his season best with a 6-6 in the high jump, but that was only good for fifth place. Cotulla's Dale Avant won with a 6-9.

"I knew it would take a 6-8 or better to have a chance at winning," said Donnell. "But this is the best I've done in a meet. I had hoped to do a little better."

Donnell cleared 6-6 on his third attempt, passed at 6-7 and failed to clear 6-8 in three attempts. He also tipped the bar at 6-4.

Greenwood's Cheryl Martin, who was second in the state meet as a junior, finished sixth in the 100 hurdles with a 15.2. She had a 14.9 for second place last year. Martin, who is also a state caliber basketball star, wouldn't comment on her race after the event.

Grady's Naomi Morales placed fourth in the Class A girls shot put, but she was really pleased with her throw of 35-4.

"That's the best I've ever done," she said with a smile.

Sweetwater's Tara Lemmons gave West Texas a state record in the 4A girls discus with a fine effort of 156-3.

"I don't think I really realized what I had done until about two hours after the event. Wow! - a state record - that's something big," said Lemmons.

Wichita Falls pole vaulter Jayson Lavender set a new state record in the only 5A event Friday with a 16-9 1/2 after a 16-1 in the Region I meet two weeks ago.

The 3A and 4A team titles were still to be decided late Friday night. Today, team titles will be decided in classes 5A, 2A and 1A.

Midland Lee's Marcus Strambler (300 hurdles) and Jimmy Fennell (110 high hurdles) will go for state glory tonight while Midland High shot putter Tracy Parker will compete at noon.

Arkansas' Osteen tops Midland, 5-0

From Staff Reports

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Arkansas Traveler pitcher Dave Osteen only had a 1-4 won-loss record going into Friday's game with the Midland Angels — but the one win was a shutout.

His second victory was, too. Osteen improved upon a 5.93 earned run average by blanking the Angels 5-0 on a complete-game five hitter, walking one and striking out three.

The Angels advanced baserunners to third only twice off Osteen, and only had two runners on at a time once.

Arkansas got the only run it needed in the second inning, but the Travs added single runs in the third and sixth before breaking the game open with two runs in the eighth.

In other Texas League action, San Antonio defeated Tulsa 5-0. Results of El Paso at Jackson and Shreveport at Wichita were unavailable at press time.

The Angels traveled to Jackson overnight to begin a five-game set with the Mets tonight. Steve McGuire, 1-3, will start for the Haloes in the 7:30 p.m. game.

Reb coaches busy shuffling grid deck

The Midland Lee football coaching staff is looking at spring practice like poker players with a brand-new deck of cards.

With only tight end Quincy White and middle linebacker Michael Pearson as returning starters, head coach Earl Miller said there's a lot of shuffling going on in an effort to find some "wildcards" - players who can play both offense and defense as situations dictate.

"We're trying to find the kids who can play," Miller said. The Rebels have been practicing since May 6 and will culminate their spring efforts with the annual Maroon-White game May 26.

MILLER said steadily decreasing turnout has forced him to depart from a pure two-platoon system for the 1988 season. The Rebels have 75 players on the varsity for spring drills, despite having what Miller calls the smallest senior class in 10 years.

"What we're going to do is have nine or 10 kids who will be able to play both ways," he said. "They will be smart enough and athletic enough to give help where help is needed."

While Lee has a numbers problem relative to past seasons, Miller said other district schools should be in the same leaky boat.

"Things have caught up to us," he said. "A lot of kids we used to have moved off because of the economy. It's put us in a tough situation, but I feel like the same thing has happened with the other district schools."

THE NUMBERS dearth may have caused a drop in sheer athletic talent, but Miller remains optimistic about the 1988 season.

"Any average football team can be overachievers and get there (the playoffs)," he said.

To that end, Miller has the Rebels spending most of their spring practice sessions in full uniform to simulate the amount of work it may take to beat such toughies as Odessa Permian and Abilene High.

"We're trying to make practice as competitive and strenuous as district play," Miller said.

THE REBELS haven't had a junior quarterback since Gary Butler in 1978, but juniors Vince Henderson and Ty Chambers are still in the hunt to replace graduates Geoff Rich and Dudley Jordan. However, senior Kyle Greeley can keep the senior-QB streak going if he can overcome persistent knee problems.

"All three are doing an extremely nice job," Miller said.

The Rebel staff is stressing fundamental football throughout spring practice.

"We're going to continue to get better," he said. "We have far to go, but we'll get out there and see if we can't work a little harder and get the fundamentals of tackling and blocking down.

"That's what wins ballgames."

NHL officials face reprisals for walkout

CHICAGO (AP) — Four NHL officials may face reprisals for staging an embarrassing "wildcat strike" when they boycotted last Sunday's playoff game between the New Jersey Devils and the Boston Bruins, says the chairman of the league's Board of Governors.

Referee Dave Newell, linesmen Gord Broseker and Ray Scapinello and backup referee Denis Morel boycotted Game 4 of the Wales Conference final at New Jersey because of the presence of Devils coach Jim Schoenfeld.

Schoenfeld was given a one-game suspension for an altercation with referee Don Koharski in Game 3, but that was blocked by a temporary restraining order issued by Judge James Madden of New Jersey Superior Court.

"There's no doubt about it," he said. "It was very embarrassing ... and it will be addressed."

A walkout by officials "cannot happen. It was a wildcat strike," he said.

Devils fight for survival

NHL

BOSTON (AP) — There is no doubt in Joe Cirella's mind that the New Jersey Devils will be the underdog in Game 7 of the Wales Conference final against the Boston Bruins Saturday night.

"All season long our backs have been against the wall," Cirella said after the Devils defeated the Bruins 6-3 to even the series at three victories apiece. "The fortunate thing is this team seems to play better when that happens."

The Bruins will have certain advantages playing at home. They have won seven of eight playoffs games on their ice and have beaten the Devils in two of three games in the Boston Garden.

Boston will also have the final choice in matching up lines and will have a vocal following that will determine who meets the defending champion Oilers in Edmonton next week when the Stanley Cup championship series opens.

THE REMARKABLE thing heading into Game 7 is the fact the Devils are in it.

They made the playoffs for the first time since their move from Colorado — they also made it once as the Rockies — on the final night of the regular season and then beat the New York Islanders and Washington Capitals to get here.

Their 38-36-6 regular-season mark was their first better than .500 record.

The Bruins are trying to reach the Stanley Cup final for the first time in 10 years. In getting this far, Boston posted its first playoff series victory over Montreal in 45 years.

Now the team that stands in the way is one whose club history spans just six seasons.

"It's just all a matter of playing the way we do in the Boston Garden," Bruins defenseman Glen Wesley said. "We play the same way there all the time, just bumping and grinding in the corners. We have to play tight defensively, that's been the key to the season for us."

ANOTHER KEY will be getting a good game in goal from Reggie Lemelin, who is expected to start again. He had a bad game on Thursday night, giving up five goals on 13 shots.

"It's another game," Lemelin said. "We know it's the last one and someone will be out. You just have to have the same feeling that you are going to do it and go on with it."

Devils defenseman Tom Kurvers said there is nothing else to do in a "one-game" series other than play at maximum intensity every shift.

Kurvers did not feel the Devils were at a disadvantage at the Boston Garden.

All Mark Eaton can do is block

Murray

The first look you get at Mark Eaton, you think the Empire State Building has grown arms. You want to ask if there's a restaurant on the top floor. If he asked you to meet him at City Hall, you wouldn't know which was which.

The book says he's 7 feet 4 inches but that's just an estimate. OK, Manute Bol is bigger but Manute Bol is a country. And if Manute turns sideways, he disappears. He weighs 220. Eaton weighs 290. Or is it 390?

The best thing about Mark Eaton, who plays center for the Utah Jazz, is he doesn't need the job.

Let me put it to you this way: What's in shorter supply in this country — 7-foot centers or qualified auto mechanics? If you think that's an easy answer, try taking your car to Manute Bol the next time it overheats on the freeway.

MARK EATON went to auto mechanics' school right out of high school because he didn't think he was a good enough basketball player to make a living at it. In this judgment, he was concurred with by just about every owner, coach and college administration in the land.

Except one. An assistant coach from Cypress College came in to get a lube job one day, took one look at the mechanic and probably thought, "If it can talk, we win the championship." He left his card. Mark Eaton threw it away and resumed work.

But Tom Lubin persevered and Cypress got its junior college championship. But when Eaton went on to UCLA, he did not put anybody in mind of Bill Walton or Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. In fact, he played only 41 minutes in his senior year.

WHEN THE Utah Jazz sent for some action film on him, says Coach Frank Layden, "All we got were pictures of him putting on and taking off his sweat clothes."

Apologized one Bruin assistant: "All he can do is block (shots)." Well, in the immortal words of Illinois football Coach Bob Zuppke, all Caruso could do was sing. And all Tracy could do was act. Rembrandt probably couldn't dance.

Mark Eaton made blocking shots an art form. He set a rookie record for blocked shots and then, two seasons later, in 1984-85, hung up the highest total in the history of the league. No one had ever blocked 400 shots a year. Eaton blocked 456.

A case could be made, a blocked shot is worth more than a basket. It is catching a line drive over the fence with the bases loaded, intercepting a pass in the end zone, returning a blistering service ace with a winner. A steal is just a turnover. A block takes points off the board.

THE NBA record book credits Mark Eaton with 3,461 points, a modest 7 a night. But what about the 2,076 blocks? That's a lot of negative scoring. Not all of them were going to be baskets but chances are most of them were. A lot of them were layups.

An Eaton-blocked shot is not your desperate wild-eyed swipe that either hits the ball or the nearest ear. It's as calculated as a pocket pick.

"You don't want to just swat it up in the fifth row someplace," Eaton explains.

The trick is to slap it not only back into play but over to a teammate. A blocked shot can become a 4-point play, properly executed.

How does he know when to go up for the block — the eyes?

Eaton shakes his head. "The eyes lie," he says. "A pro doesn't let you know what he has in mind."

He adds: "I just try to get them to commit. I try to get them to change shots. That can be as effective as a block."

IT HELPS to be 7-4 and have a wingspan of 90 inches. But Eaton describes his speed as "One-tenth of a second better than slow." Or, teammates counter, "One-fifth of a second better than not moving at all."

He would have trouble jumping over the Sunday paper. He has the shooting touch of a polar bear. He gets his points the old-fashioned way: He blocks them.

He presided over one of the biggest upsets of the sports season the other night at the Forum.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is the only man on the courts today who has more blocked shots than Mark Eaton — 4,004 to 2,076). And, of course, Kareem's 37,838 points are more than anyone else has. Even at 41, he can be the most devastating force on any floor for 30 to 40 minutes.

But this night, his sky hook was coming up a foot short, he was being nudged into uncomfortable spots, awkward shots. By the end of the first half, Eaton had blocked 7 shots, pulled down 7 rebounds, been slickered into only 2 — and the Utah Jazz had an 11-point lead. They managed to smuggle it into the clubhouse and turn it into their first win over the Lakers at the Forum in almost five years.

No one's going to start comparing the Utah Jazz with the 1962 Celtics. No one's apt to start calling Eaton the Big E or Dr. M, but he's had quite an impact for a guy who really thought he wanted to spend his future under a lube rack, checking crankcases for leaks.

How many guys in the NBA have a trade to fall back on if the blocks start slipping? How many could get out and fix the team bus if it broke down in Provo after a night spent subtracting points from the best shooters in the league?

Vincent scored a career-high 31 points, all by two in the first half.

"The coaches have been telling him that, but I think for Sam's sake, he needed it to come from some players, or from myself, being one of the leaders," Jordan said of Vincent's performance. "He came out and played well."

Nuggets-Mavericks

While Chicago has won all of its home games, Dallas has found more success on the road, where the Mavericks have won three of four contests. They are 1-1 at home.

The Nuggets need desperately to win at least one game at Reunion Arena, however, to regain their home-floor advantage. And to do that, the Nuggets will have to do a better job of putting the ball in the basket.

Jazz takes 2-1 lead over LA

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Karl Malone scored 29 points and Mark Eaton outplayed Kareem Abdul-Jabbar again as the Utah Jazz defeated the Los Angeles Lakers 96-89 Friday night and took a 2-1 lead in their second-round NBA playoff series.

The Jazz, who never trailed but fought off a late Lakers rally, will play Los Angeles in Game 4 here Sunday. The series will return to Southern California Tuesday night.

The Lakers defeat marked the first time the defending NBA champions have trailed in a playoff series since 1986, when the Houston Rockets defeated them 4-1 in the Western Conference finals.

The Jazz, who won 101-97 at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., Tuesday, held the Lakers to just one field goal in the first 2:35 and 38 percent shooting from the field in the first half, when Los Angeles trailed by as many as 16 points.

Eaton, who finished with 10 points, 14 rebounds and six blocked shots, continued his dominance of the Lakers, clogging up the middle and holding Abdul-Jabbar to just six points, none in the final quarter.

Abdul-Jabbar, showing frustration like the rest of the Lakers, was whistled for his third personal foul with 5:13 left in the first half and his fourth with 7:51 left in the game and played sparingly.

John Stockton had 22 points and 12 assists and Thurl Bailey 21 points for the Jazz. Byron Scott led Los Angeles with 29 points and Magic Johnson had 16.

Crenshaw's 65 good for Nelson lead

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Former champion Ben Crenshaw shot a 5-under par 65 Friday to take the second-round lead at the $750,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

The round was marked by the on-course withdrawal of Arnold Palmer, who withdrew due to pain in his ribs.

Crenshaw, who won the 1983 Nelson after it moved to the Tournament Players Course from Preston Trail, had a six-birdie, one-bogey round in the 90-degree heat for a 36-hole total of 9-under-par 131.

He owned a two-shot lead over Jeff Sluman and Mark Wiebe and was three shots up on Craig Stadler and John Cook, who had the day's best round with a 64.

Crenshaw, winner of the Doral Open this year, is fourth on the money list with $369,292.

"I had the caution flag out because the greens were so firm and fast," said Crenshaw, who one-putted nine times. "You could let some strokes slip away out there today. I was proud of the way I played. I just didn't waste any shots."

Crenshaw's only brush with danger was when he hit a 6-iron into the bunker on the 217-yard Par 3 No. 17 and suffered a buried lie. He took two out of the bunker but holed a short putt for bogey.

"I was very, very happy with the bogey there," Crenshaw said. "That ball was really buried."

Sluman shot a 3-under 67 and first-round leader Wiebe, who finished second to Andy Bean in 1986, had a 69 after shooting an opening-round 64. Stadler, the 1984 Nelson champion, shot a 66.

Masters champion Sandy Lyle made the cut with a 71 that put him at 1-under par 139 over the 6,767-yard course.

Three-time Nelson champion Tom Watson also made the cut at 140 despite a 73.

Bean, the 1986 champion, soared to an 80 and missed the cut at 152.

Lopez fires 4-under 68 for LPGA golf lead

MIDDLETOWN, N.J. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, looking to regain the No. 1 spot on the LPGA Tour, fired a 4-under-par 68 Friday to share the first-round lead at the $250,000 Chrysler-Plymouth Classic.

Lopez had five birdies and a bogey on the 6,232-yard Navesink Country Club course and was tied with Alice Ritzman, who came into the tournament looking for her first victory in 10 years on the LPGA Tour.

Ritzman, whose best finish this year was a tie for sixth early in the season, had four birdies and no bogeys in a round that featured three long birdie putts.

Janet Coles was alone in third place in the field of 106 golfers that lost defending champion Ayako Okamoto of Japan, who was was forced to withdraw after nine holes because of neck pain.

Lopez already has won twice this year and can become the LPGA's first three-time winner in 1988 by winning this event for a fourth time.

"I want to be No. 1 again," said Lopez, who lost last week's Crestar Classic in a playoff. "The only way you can do that is to compete and play more. Last year, I would play three weeks and then take three weeks off. Not this year. I want to play in 22 or 23 events."

Lopez hit each of the first 11 greens in regulation and rolled in birdie putts of 6 feet on No. 1, 20 feet on No. 4, 6 feet on No. 8 and 12 feet on the ninth hole. Her only bogey came on the 12th hole when she went into the bunker, but a 5-foot birdie on the 16th hole got her back to 4-under.

"I hit the ball real well today," said Lopez, who is second in earnings this year with $152,382, less than $10,000 behind leader Amy Alcott. "I putted better today — not that I was putting bad the last few weeks, but the putts were going in."

Lopez said there is nothing pushing her to be No. 1 this year, and that she's having fun.

"When I go out there, I am enjoying myself and playing to win."

Quinton Gray leads Seniors

MALVERN, Pa. (AP) — Quinton Gray, a former minor-league baseball player who turned to golf at age 28, shot a 3-under-par 67 Friday to take the first-round lead in the $225,000 United Hospitals Senior Golf Championship.

Bruce Devlin, Bobby Nichols and Mike Rhyan were next at 69.

Lee Elder, last year's runner-up, and former U.S. Open Champion Billy Casper came in at 70, along with Lou Graham and Bill Collins.

Defending champion Chi Chi Rodriguez, who birdied the second and 17th holes, was at 71 along with former U.S. Open champions Gene Littler and Orville Moody, Bruce Crampton, Gay Brewer, Dave Hill, Doug Dalziel and Ben Smith.

The 54-hole tournament continues through Sunday, with the winner earning $33,750.

Gray, 77th on the Seniors money-winning list this year with $3,500, said the wind Friday was "gusty at times, but it didn't bother me since it's always windy in Oklahoma City."

Soldiers help dig for people missing in collapsed building

AGUASCALIENTES, Mexico (AP) — Soldiers were called out Friday to help dig for people missing in the rubble of a building collapse that killed at least 13 the day before.

Red Cross and state government officials confirmed the number known dead and said 53 people were injured.

Gilberto Sanchez, radio officer at police headquarters, said about 60 soldiers from the army garrison joined firefighters, police and volunteers in the rescue effort. Bulldozers and cranes were brought from as far away as Salamanca, 78 miles to the southwest.

Aguascalientes, a city of about 500,000 people 320 miles northwest of Mexico City, is the capital of Aguascalientes state.

"Hundreds of people have come to help in the rescue of an undetermined number of people who are missing...although as time passes our hopes of finding survivors diminish," said Juan Diaz, head of special services for the local Red Cross.

He said at least 116 workers were in the building when the four upper stories collapsed. Diaz was reached by telephone from Mexico City.

"Relatives of the victims practically attacked the ambulances, trying to identify" the victims, he said.

The building, still under construction, consisted of three basements, a main floor and three upper stories.

As workers were about to pour the last concrete late Thursday afternoon, it collapsed onto a furniture factory that occupied the ground floor and part of the basement area.

Lower floors of buildings in Mexico often are occupied while the upper stories are constructed.

Roberto Padilla, an Aguascalientes state government spokesman, said the state attorney general's office was investigating the collapse of the building, which was three blocks from the main plaza and the state capitol.

Jorge Castaneda, head of the Aguascalientes Civil Engineers Association, said a committee of engineers and architects also would investigate.

Juan Navarro, a police duty officer, said by telephone: "They were apparently pouring fresh concrete when it caved in. Apparently the building did not resist the weight."

Juan Flores, a survivor who was buried for five hours, was quoted by the Excelsior news agency as saying:

"I had finished working and was about to leave when...all of a sudden everyone started yelling hysterically that there was an earthquake. I dashed under a table and all of a sudden everything went dark, and there was this terrific noise and there was dust everywhere."

He said a slab of concrete fell on the table and "that is what protected me from the rest of the debris."

Flores said he was quiet at first, but "the fear and the anguish of being buried...impelled me to yell very loud, and the rescue squads dug me out."

On To Maturity

The writer of Hebrews' phrase, "let us ... go on to maturity" (Hebs. 6:1) has meaning for all people, especially that long-suffering group of people known as parents. I'm convinced Mark Twain put his finger on what causes parents to suffer when he said:

"When I was fourteen I thought my dad was the most ignorant man in the world. But when I became twenty-one I was amazed how much the old man had learned in seven short years."

That reality of such an experience not only causes pain in parents, it also produces maturity, because maturity comes from being able to survive some of the frustrations that come from parenting children, especially during teenage years.

Yet, when the children follow Hebrews' advice and "go on to maturity," then the parents experience a growing maturity that comes precisely because they have hung-with the growing children.

And both children and parents ultimately come to know the joy of being family, of being "maturing family."

Evangelist to speak at Emmanuel Baptist

Evangelist Gilbert Herrera will speak at 7 p.m. Monday at Emmanuel Baptist Church, 1800 E. Cherry Lane.

Now serving as an evangelist out of Lubbock's First Baptist Church, Herrera was a member for about 10 years of the Brown Berets, a Hispanic group which sometimes used violence to call attention to its cause.

"I really feel we would have been the next terrorists in the U.S.," Herrera said of the Brown Berets, which he joined in 1973.

At one time, Herrera was the first Hispanic to run for mayor of Lubbock.

He also sold drugs and had a $300-a-week heroin habit. At the time of his conversion to Christianity, he had a $300 to $500 cocaine habit.

His conversion began when an evangelist told him about God.

"I though I had some religion," Herrera said. "I just didn't have Christ, I guess."

Although Herrera had been against ministers, the message of Jesus Christ got his attention because of the way it was presented.

"This man was concerned more in me accepting Christ than in trying to change me himself," Herrera said.

In July 1985, Herrera allowed an evangelist to come to his home. Herrera's bodyguard was present as well as several people with guns who stood around the evangelist. Herrera's wife and bodyguard were converted.

Several months later and about a month after a suicide attempt, Herrera made his decision while talking again with the evangelist.

He went into a closet to pray. He was able to kick the drug habit and soon began preaching.

He said he believes he is an example of how a person's life can change.

"I feel a great change in my life," he says.

The public is invited to hear him speak Monday.

Mormons scheduled to meet

The Holiday Inn T-Dome, 3904 West Wall, will be the meeting place for the West Texas District Conference of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints today and Sunday.

Howard "Bud" Sheehy, Jr., a member of the First Presidency, will be sharing ministry of the Temple with the several branches from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

The conference begins at 10:00 a.m., Saturday morning with a pastor's meeting and at 10:30 a.m. with district commission classes. Formal registration is at 1:00 p.m. Children's classes for ages 3-11 will also start a 1:00 p.m.

At 1:30 p.m., the congregation will share in an opening worship and Sheehy's class on the "History and Purpose of the Temple" will begin at 1:45 p.m.

The second class at 3:45 p.m. will reveal "The World View of the Temple." After a break for dinner, the next class, "Our Temple Experience," will begin at 7:30 p.m. The closing worship is planned for 9:00 p.m.

Sunday's services will begin with a commitment service at 8:45 a.m. A short business session is set for 10:30 a.m., followed by the 11:00 a.m. preaching service featuring Sheehy.

A nursery will be provided for all class sessions and services. The public is invited to attend.

The world headquarters of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is at Independence, Mo.

Astrology now seen as innocent pastime

NEW YORK (AP) — Astrology and other strategies presumed to predict the future are sharply denounced in the Bible, but the ancient stargazing system has evolved somewhat over the centuries.

In its modern popular form, which reportedly has been used by Nancy Reagan, it has little to do with religion, but scholars say it still has ramifications that can turn it at odds with biblical faith.

"A lot of people today regard it as kind of an innocent pastime," says the Rev. Page Kelley, an Old Testament scholar of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

"They don't put much store in it. I put it in the same category as reading fortune cookies in a Chinese restaurant. But if people really take it seriously as a scheme for ordering their lives, the old objections become valid again."

To rely on it seriously, he added, "borders more on stupidity than sin."

In olden times, astrology was closely connected with idolatry, used along with other devices both to determine courses of action and ascertain the will of the gods.

"An abomination," Scripture calls it in Deutertonomy 18:9, decreeing death by stoning for any Israelite, man or woman, who "practices divination" or uses soothsaying, augury, sorcery, a charmer, medium, wizard or necromancer.

Divination, linked to early astrology, used various clues to determine the will of the gods, such as positions of celestial bodies, tossed arrows to see how they fell, examining configurations of oil on water or in a sheep's liver.

The prophet Isaiah, assailing the evils of Babylon, says scornfully: "Let your astrologers come forward, those stargazers who make predictions month by month, let them save you from what is coming upon you. Surely they are like stubble. The fire will burn them up."

Similar reproaches are scattered through Scripture, with astrologers described as those "who divide the heavens (into 12 signs of the zodiac), who gaze at the stars, who at the new moons predict what shall befall...

"They wander about each in his own direction."

Rabbi David Sperling of Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion said the strong condemnations of divination (early astrology) were because of its ties to idolatry, contrary to Judaism.

"We had the prophets and got the word of the Lord directly from them," he said. "We didn't have to rely on looking up at the stars or inside animals to see what the gods had in store for us. The prophets were much more reliable.

"What the Bible condemns is considering the stars as kind of heavenly writing, telling you what God has in store for you."

He said astrology had evolved since ancient Bible times, modified in later ancient Greek and Egyptian civilizations to be seen not as revealing the gods, but charting planetary effects on earthly behavior and moods.

"That's not quite what the Bible was dealing with," Sperling said.

Added Rabbi Eugene Borowitz, also of Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion: "There's not a simple straight line from the Bible to the kind of astrology Mrs. Reagan is involved in."

'CROP' walk to help fight world, local hunger problem

A 10-kilometer "CROP Walk for the Hungry" is scheduled for 9 a.m. May 21 at the Midland College circle.

"Millions of people in the world must walk for their daily needs and tasks," says walk spokesman the Rev. Jonathan Holmer, pastor of Hope Lutheran Church. "Many Midlanders will, in a limited way, share the experience as they join in the walk to fight world and local hunger."

Christian Rural Overseas Program is a division of Church World Service, which raises money for worldwide hunger through community walk-a-thons. Area churches are sponsoring the event.

Of the funds raised, Holmer says, 75 percent will go to worldwide relief and development work of Church World Service and the remaining 25 percent will go to the Permian Basin Food Bank. Sponsors may designate that their donations go to Church World Service or to other specific church relief agencies.

The Permian Basin Food Bank distributes to local social service and relief agencies. For every dollar raised, 90 cents goes directly to people in need.

"Walkers are urged to ask individuals, corporations and organizations to sponsor them for this event," says a news release for CROP.

Babysitters will be available during the walk. Sponsor envelopes are available at area churches, including St. Ann's Catholic Church office, 204 N. M St.

For more information call walk coordinator Sue Holmer, 685-1830, or Marge Hellinghausen, 682-6783.

Trinity hosts adolescence workshop

Trinity Presbyterian Church, 2800 W. Louisiana Ave., is hosting two workshops for parents and fifth and sixth grade youth dealing with adolescence and sexuality.

The workshops, "In The beginning God Created...," are being presented by Christian Life Enrichment Resources, Inc., a non-profit organization in Midland.

The purpose of the workshops is, a news release from CLER says, "to impart God's original plan for his creation in regard to human sexuality; to teach the correct names and the functions of each part of the male and female reproductive anatomies; to prepare children for the changes that will take place in their bodies during adolescence; to alleviate fears and destroy myths that are perpetuated about sexuality; to provide children with an open and loving atmosphere in which to ask questions abhout their sexuality and related issues; to enable parent/child communication in the area of human sexuality; and to provide information and resources to help parents be good sexuality educators for their children."

A 2 hour and 30 minute workshop for fifth and sixth grade boys and their parents will be held from 4 to 6:30 p.m. Sunday, and a 3-hour workshop for fifth and sixth grade girls and their parents will be held from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. May 22. Both will be conducted at Trinity Presbyterian Church.

For more information or to register, call Linda Goddard, 697-5078.

Mrs. Lee to retire as church secretary

Lee

At a specially called parish meeting of St. Paul's Anglican Church, the Rev. Charles Hageman announced the retirement of Pauline Lee.

Mrs. Lee has served the church for many years as secretary-treasurer. In recognition of her years of devoted labor, the congregation voted that she be given a plaque acknowledging the debt of love due her from the parish. When St. Paul's building is completed, a copy will be hung in the Nartex to serve as a continual reminder of her faithfulness.

Through the years, Mrs. Lee, a longtime member of the Desk & Derrick Club, has been a secretary in many Midland businesses including First National Bank and Core Laboratories.

Hageman has just returned from a conference of the clergy of the Diocese of the Southwest of the American Episcopal Church. The conference was held in Dallas and attended by members of the clergy from Tennessee to Arizona. Items on the agenda included pastoral phsycology, evangelism, church administration and other items of interest. Following the conference, the clergy met in formal session with the Diocesan Standing Committee.

While their building is being made ready, St. Paul's meets each Sunday at 5:00 p.m., at 3800 Bluebird (Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd). For information, call 684-5438.

Jones to present recital

Dr. Joyce Jones will present an organ recital at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the sanctuary of First United Methodist Church, Main Street at Ohio Avenue, downtown.

The recital, which is free and open to the public, is in celebration of the 20th anniversary of the dedication of First UMC's 51 rank Schantz pipe organ and the dedication of the new DeHart Memorial Trompette, given in memory of George DeHart, organist and choirmaster of First UMC from 1950 to 1980.

Ms. Jones, who has four degrees including a doctorate in organ performance, played a dedicatory recital on this same instrument 20 years ago.

Child care will be available for infants and toddlers. For more information call the music office at First UMC, 682-3701.

Church accepts pact

PRINCETON, N.J. — The United Methodist Church, meeting in its quadrennial General Conference in St. Louis, became the third church to accept the COCU Consensus, a theological agreement worked out over 25 years by the member churches of the Consultation on Church Union (COCU).

In its decision, the United Methodist Church stated that it recognizes in this consensus an expression of the apostolic faith, order, worship and witness of the Church. It further declared that it recognizes in the consensus a sufficient theological basis for the COCU covenanting acts that will be brought to the 1992 General Conference for discussion and action.

The Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, and the International Council of Community Churches had already claimed the consensus at their national assemblies.

Four other churches will vote on this agreement in the summer of 1988, with the final two member churches of COCU voting in 1989.

The covenanting document referred to above will be the center of attention at the December, 1988 Plenary meeting of COCU, to be held in New Orleans, La.

'New Day' Seminar set

"We are perhaps entering a period like the world has not seen before," says a news release from the Businesswomens Downtown Bible Study.

"It is a new day. Some of the urgent questions that must be addressed during this time are: How may I walk daily in the fullness of the holy spirit? How do I effectively fight in spiritual warfare? How may I appropriate the promises God has made in his covenant?"

The seminar will be conducted by Betty Isaacs, Linda Chaffin, Paula Ramsey and Eddie Lue Hunter. All are associated with the BDBS which meets at noon Wednesday at 312 E. Illinois Ave.

Charge for the seminar is $6 which includes a continental breakfast and a catered lunch Saturday. For reservations call 682-4780 or 683-5610 or mail check to New Day Seminar, 312 E. Illinois Ave., Midland, Texas 79701 by June 1.

The program, which is developed along a "Sesame Street" style using puppets and actors to teach Christian values, is designed to reach children ages 3 to 10.

"Caraway St." will be held at 11 a.m., immediately following Sunday School, in the church gym. Transportation is available by calling the church at 694-7586.

Orientation class planned

The class will be conducted by the Rev. Hawley Wolfe during the church school hour which begins at 9:30 a.m.

In other news at Grace Presbyterian, the Potluck Family Night Dinner will be held at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

A concert will be given after dinner by the Celebration Handbell Choir.

Choir to present concert

The Inspirational Choir of Macedonia Baptist Church will present its 1988 Gospel Workshop Choir in concert at 7:30 p.m. today.

The choir will be directed by Charles and Linda Mitchell, co-directors of music at the Mountain Pisgah Missionary Baptist Church in Dallas.

Mrs. Mitchell holds a bachelor of arts degree in music education from The University of Texas at Austin. Mitchell holds a bachelor of arts in pre-law and a master's in business from Southern Methodist University. Both are affiliated with the Dallas Chapter of the Gospel Music Workshop of America and the Texas Mass Choir.

Featured on the drums will be Keith Mitchell, 9-year-old son of the Mitchells, and on the organ will be Traci Mitchell, the couple's daughter.

The church's pastor, the Rev. O.J. Archie, invites the public to attend. Macedonia Baptist Church is located at 201 S. Carter St.

Musical set for Sunday

"For Heaven's Sake!", a two-act musical, will be presented at 7 p.m. Sunday by the Grace Presbyterian Youth Fellowship in the Fellowship Hall, 2801 N. Garfield St.

"The revue communicates the meaning of the Gospel in a most contemporary light through satire, contradictions and paradoxes," says a news release from the church.

A discussion period following the production will allow interested parties to probe into the message being communicated.

All individuals and youth groups are invited.

Week-long revival set

The Ranchland Heights Baptist Church, County Road 1211 South, is holding a week-long revival Sunday through May 22.

The Rev. Bill Penland, pastor of Midland's Wilshire Park Baptist Church, will preach. Music will be led by John Mason.

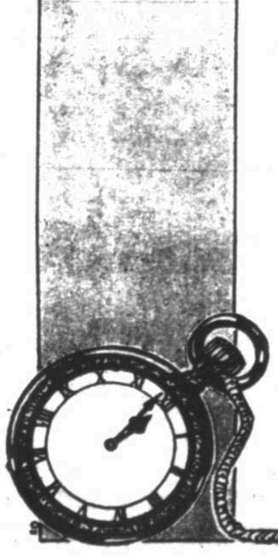
WATCHES



Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

In the late 1800's, Richard W. Sears had a pretty good business going selling watches and needed someone to handle his watch repairs. He placed a classified ad in the newspaper and Alvah C. Roebuck got the job. That's how the nation's biggest retailer got started... through a classified ad!

Ten-hour rock concert to mark Nelson Mandela's 70th birthday

LONDON (AP) — Whitney Houston, Phil Collins, Miriam Makeba, Dire Straits and the Eurythmics are among the musicians who will mark jailed black South African leader Nelson Mandela's 70th birthday with a 10-hour rock extravaganza.

The Anti-Apartheid Movement said the June 11 concert will be the high point of five months of birthday celebrations and rallies for Mandela. Proceeds will go to the AAM and South African charities.

The movement said the concert lineup also includes Simple Minds, the Bees Gees, the Fat Boys, Hugh Masekela, Ashford and Simpson, Joe Cocker, Roberta Flack, Natalie Cole, George Michael and Sade.

The hosts will include singer Harry Belafonte and comedian Whoopi Goldberg, said publicist Caroline Turner.

The concert will be broadcast live on British television and screened by satellite to more than a dozen countries, including the United States, she said. Six hours of the concert will be telecast in the United States by Fox Broadcasting.

DALLAS (AP) — Sarah Brady said she learned the invaluable role loved ones play in the care and curing of the critically ill in the wake of her husband's head injuries during an assassination attempt on President Reagan.

"It really can be a wonderful experience," she said Thursday at a gathering of the American Associaton of Critical Care Nurses.

Mrs. Brady said straight talk and compassion from the staff at George Washington University Hospital, where White House Press Secretary Jim Brady and Reagan were rushed after the shooting seven years ago, made her long days in the waiting room bearable.

Brady had been shot in the head by John W. Hinckley Jr., a deranged would-be assassin who also wounded Reagan.

Brady, once a garrulous, bearish man, is still fighting to recover from the attack. After three operations and two bouts of pneumonia, he relies on a cane or wheelchair and can work only a few hours a week. His doctors say he will never regan use of his left arm.

Mrs. Brady said that as soon as she arrived at the hospital after the shooting, Dr. Arthur I. Kobrine, the neurosurgeon who would operate on her husband, told her exactly what the situation was.

The staff kept her informed through surgery, and "getting the information, and knowing the people involved, is the key" to coping, she said.

She recommended that relatives of the critically ill adorn hospital rooms with family photographs to ease a hospital's stark setting and remind medical workers that patients are real people with real lives.

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — American jazz trumpeter Chet Baker, famed for his 1950s appearances with Gerry Mulligan, died Friday after falling from the second floor of a hotel.

Baker, 59, fell from the hotel window shortly after 3:10 a.m. and was found dead in the street by police, according to Amsterdam police spokesman Klaas Wilting.

No precise reason for Baker's fall was disclosed.

Baker was scheduled to make several appearances as part of a tour of the Netherlands.

Famed for the thin, cool tone of his trumpet playing, Baker — born Chesney Baker in Yale, Okla., in December 1929 — set the the standard for what jazz buffs knew as the "cool school."

In 1952, he was working with Charlie Parker on the West Coast when he joined Mulligan, a baritone saxaphonist, and the rest of his piano-less quartet.

In 1953, Baker topped the Metronome trumpet poll and started his own quartet. His work became more assured and outgoing. In 1955 he took a group to Europe that showed high promise. Then his career started to suffer, from narcotics, arrests, headlines and a backlash against the fact he'd been overrated at the beginning.

He had a cult following in the 1950s, because of his good looks and youth and his fragile and introverted tone. He looked something like James Dean and sounded something like Bix Beiderbecke. As a player, Miles Davis was his main inspiration.

In recent years, Baker said he had stopped taking drugs and started making records again, appearing on an Elvis Costello album.

In San Francisco in 1988, Baker he was the victim of a beating by hoodlums and suffered severe injuries that included loss of his teeth, a terrible thing for a trumpet player. For two years he didn't play.

Whitehead-Gould

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — Mary Beth Whitehead-Gould is writing a book about the Baby M case, and the child's father and his wife want to know what the surrogate mother plans to say before the book comes out.

William and Elizabeth Stern filed a motion, released Thursday, asking for the right to final approval and to prohibit the use of any baby pictures of 2-year-old Melissa Stern, who lives with the Sterns.

Mrs. Whitehead-Gould has been working on the book for a year with a Pennsylvania writer, Loretta Schwartz-Nobel. St. Martin's Press has said it will publish it next year.

Attorney Harold J. Cassidy has written Superior Court Judge Birger M. Sween to say his client, the surrogate mother, feels the judge's order of April 6 that the parties cannot publicly discuss the case does not apply to her relationship with Baby M before the date of the order.

But the Sterns said in an April 28 motion that they should be allowed to review the manuscript and if necessary seek restraints on discussion of the child.

Mrs. Whitehead-Gould agreed in 1985 to bear a child for Stern for $10,000. She later sought to keep the baby, setting off a widely publicized court case. The child lives with the Sterns in Tenafly, and her mother sees her one day a week.

Duncan

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy Duncan says she fit into "Valerie's Family" so well, the producers are thinking of putting her name on the show that once starred Valerie Harper.

"People were wary at first," Ms. Duncan says in the May 15 issue of Parade magazine about her initiation as Sandy Hogan on the show Ms. Harper walked out on in a contract dispute.

"But the Valerie thing was not of global importance, and I said so, and now nobody asks me about it anymore."

She said the show was doing well and "will probably be renewed for next season, but they're thinking of calling it 'The Hogan Family.' We already got sweaters and jackets with Hogan labels."

Police officer escapes drug-impaired captors

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A police officer held hostage for eight hours by two robbery suspects escaped unharmed Friday when he grabbed a gun from one of his drug-impaired captors and opened fire, police said.

The two men were later found dead of gunshot wounds, but it was not immediately determined who had fired the fatal shots. Police had heard gunfire in the motel room after the officer, Larry Strayer, escaped.

"Please get me out of here," Strayer said at one point during his ordeal. "They indicated this is the last time I can talk on the radio. If anybody rushes the door, I'm dead."

Strayer, 43, a seven-year police department veteran, was unharmed in the incident, police said. At least one of the two suspects was wounded by Strayer as he escaped.

The dead men were identified as Michael Richard Ager, 37; and Albert Wesley Reinhart, 42, both of Tacoma, Wash.

The officer was taken hostage about 8 p.m. Thursday when he went to the Portland Rose Motel to question the men about the robbery of a nearby supermarket earlier in the evening. The men demanded Dilaudid, a form of morphine, and safe passage out of the motel.

At 4 a.m., Strayer seized a gun from his captors, firing about five times and wounding at least one of them before escaping, said police spokesman Henry Groepper.

The men's drug problems may have made it easier for Strayer to flee, Groepper said.

"The individuals...apparently had a strong need for drugs," he said, and were "very irritable."

"I think the time just wore them out."

Gunshots were heard inside the motel room on two occasions after the officer escaped, but there was no exchange of gunfire with officers outside, Groepper said.

After lobbing tear gas into the room and getting no response, police sent a remote-controlled, camera-equipped robot device into the room and discovered the bodies at about 10:30 a.m.

Groepper said the two were arrested April 22 on a charge of first-degree robbery and again the very next day on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

In each case, they were cited and released because there wasn't enough room to house them at the chronically overcrowded Multnomah County Justice Center Jail.

During the 14½-hour standoff, authorities closed a two-mile stretch of Interstate 5 and nine blocks of Barbur Boulevard, a major roadway.

Strayer was checking a tip that two suspicious men were staying at the motel, located near a grocery store that was robbed about 7 p.m. He was admitted to the motel room by one man, Groepper said.

Woman who admitted taking baby sentenced to 10 years

BALTIMORE (AP) — A woman who admitted kidnapping a 2-day-old baby from his mother's hospital room was sentenced Friday to 10 years in prison.

Dorothy Jean Brown, 44, barely spoke above a whisper in telling U.S. District Court Judge Frederic N. Smalkin that she was unaware Kendol Kernes was not her child when she took him nearly a year ago but now accepts he is someone else's boy.

Smalkin said Ms. Brown exhibited "aberrant behavior" and recommended she receive continued psychiatric treatment.

"Somehow or other Ms. Brown has come to believe that she had a baby," Smalkin said. "We're not dealing here with somebody who acts out of typical criminal motivation."

Smalkin said he would not impose fines against Ms. Brown, a former Baltimore Museum of Art security guard, because she had not held a job since the kidnapping. He said time she already served will be included in her sentence. She has been in jail since her arrest in October.

Ms. Brown will become eligible for parole after serving at least one-third of her sentence. She could have received a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Ms. Brown, pleaded guilty March 25 to a kidnapping charge that accused her of taking the infant she abducted in Baltimore across state lines. She had fled to Philadelphia with the baby. While agreeing to a plea bargain, Assistant U.S. Attorney Carmina S. Hughes said she would recommend "substantial" incarceration for Ms. Brown.

Bald eagles' deaths concern officials

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — Ten bald eagles have died in the last two months, apparently because they ate illegally poisoned animal carcasses, federal officials said.

"While our national symbol is making a recovery, it cannot sustain this rate of loss month after month nor will we tolerate it," said Frank Dunkle, director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Penalties for harming or killing a bald eagle, protected under federal law, range from one to five years in jail and fines or $5,000 to $100,000.

State and federal officials are particularly concerned because Dorcheter County, where the eagles died, has the greatest concentration of eagles in the Chesapeake Bay area.

The most recent discovery, five dead eagles, was May 3. Five others were found in various locations from March 12 to May 1.

"The fact there has been a carcass near all of the eagles we have found leads us to think that they died as a result of eating poisoned animals," said Inez Connor, a spokeswoman for the Fish and Wildlife Service in Newton Corner, Mass.

Tissue from the dead eagles as well as the carcasses are being tested for chemicals. Results are expected in several weeks.

Of 94 active bald eagle nests in Maryland, 22 are in Dorchester County.

Sanitation workers ridiculed for good deed

NEW YORK (AP) — Two sanitation workers who found a stash of cash in a barrel of trash turned in the $48,900 and were rewarded with a thank you. That's all.

The garbage collectors are not entitled to a nickel of the loot — 410 $100 bills and 156 $50s neatly bound with rubber bands, which they found during regular pickup rounds Thursday in an alley in the borough of Queens.

Under state law, "if the finder is an officer of New York state or a public corporation, he or she is not entitled to money found in the performance of their duty," police Sgt. John Clifford said Friday.

...The do-gooders have been ridiculed by people who think they were chumps to turn in the money.

And instead of kind words, the do-gooders have been ridiculed by people who think they were chumps to turn in the money.

"We have been getting calls that have been derogatory," said Donald Koubek, their supervisor. "They've been called dummies, stupid, jerks."

The two, who joined the department in 1969 and 1970, have refused to talk to reporters and their names have been withheld, according to Vito Turso, a Sanitation Department spokesman.

"They have taken their fair share of ribbing from people who try to second guess what they did," Turso said. "But they did the right thing.

They followed department regulations and they are to be commended, but at this point they are being commended anonymously."

Koubek admitted it's tough to choose between kind words and cold cash.

"It's what I would call a sanitation worker's dream," he said. "Still, I think most people would turn it in after a little bit of thought. These guys had no other thought than to turn it in. They immediately called their garage and I was notified."

Koubek said that among co-workers, "they are getting more positive (reaction) than negative."

So far, no one has claimed the cash, Clifford said.

There is no indication that the money was ill-gotten: The bills were not marked, the serial numbers were not consecutive and they were not counterfeit.

Friday the 13th club tries to bring good luck

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Thirteen members of the Friday the 13th club sought to bring good luck to the Reading Terminal Market Friday by breaking seven mirrors and dancing under a ladder with raised black umbrellas.

"The idea is to spoof the whole idea of Friday the 13th bad luck," said club member Ed Wohlmuth, who teaches fashion merchandizing at the Art Institute of Philadelphia.

But the club, which began its celebration at the market at 12:13 p.m., has its own superstitions.

Max Buten did only two spins under the ladder with his umbrella. "Any more than that is bad luck," he said.

Friday's meeting, the club's second this year and 90th since its founding in 1936, was designed to aid the Reading market, which is located beneath a huge train barn last used as a commuter rail stop two years ago.

"We want this place to survive," Wohlmuth said of the Reading market, which has been mentioned as the possible site of a convention center. "Where else in America do you have a farmer's market in the middle of a city?"

Bob Boyle, executive vice president of the Reading Real Estate Co., which manages the market, joined in the anti-superstition ceremony. He said he wasn't sure whether the club's antics would save the market, but he added, "It can't hurt."

The club, founded in 1936 by Philadelphia ad man Harry Klein, is exclusive. Membership is by invitation only, and is limited to 13. "You have to wait for somebody to die to get in," Wohlmuth said.

He also said the club has set its own expiration date, Friday the 13th of October, 1988, "to give the world a break."

Club members conceded bad luck had struck occasionally. Wohlmuth said the club helped initiate an aquarium in South Philadelphia in the mid-1960s. The aquarium closed by the end of the year. Then there was the time they were invited to initiate a new subway station below the market. "That night they had stalled trains in the tunnel," recalled member Henry Klein, brother of the founder.

But who knows. On this Friday the 13th, a City Council committee recommended limiting city support for the costly convention center.

Dukakis criticized for lack of drug plan, knowledge of defense

Associated Press

Democratic presidential front-runner Michael Dukakis came under attack from his right and left Friday as Republican George Bush labeled him "naive at best" on defense and Jesse Jackson said the Massachusetts governor has failed to come up with an effective plan for fighting drugs.

Dukakis kept up his criticism of the administration's handling of negotiations aimed at persuading Panamanian Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega to relinquish power. Noriega is under indictment in the United States on drug charges.

The vice president told reporters when asked about the negotiations, "I said I would not comment on it." But he went on to say, "I want to see change. I want to see him brought to justice."

Bush told workers at a Hughes Aircraft Corp. plant in Fullerton, Calif., that "the Dukakis doctrine is the doctrine of wishful thinking." He said the Soviets respect only strength and "to think that they would agree to cuts in their strategic and conventional arsenals in the face of unilateral American abandonment of major weapons programs is the height of folly."

In an interview published Friday, Jackson said Dukakis' drug war plan is "a farce," and he described the Massachusetts governor as sounding little different from Bush on various issues.

All three presidential candidates were in California, the last big prize of the primary season and, more importantly, the biggest bloc of electoral votes at stake in the general election.

Strategists in both parties regard California, with 47 electoral votes, as crucial to the prospects of both Bush and Dukakis. The two likely rivals appeared to be campaigning with an eye to November rather than to the June 7 primary.

With more than enough delegates for the GOP presidential nomination, Bush was using his campaign appearances as to attack Dukakis, the all-but-certain Democratic presidential nominee.

The Massachusetts governor expects the final round of Democratic primaries on June 7, including New Jersey, New Mexico and Montana as well as California, to give him the delegate majority he needs for the nomination.

Dukakis said he has not begun to consider the selection of a running mate.

Asked if he would consider someone who had supported aid to the Contra rebels in Central America, Dukakis replied that no single issue would be a disqualification.

"There's no way under the sun I could possibly pick a running mate who agreed with me on every single issue," he said. "I'm not going to be looking for a clone of Michael Dukakis."

Jackson refused to let up on his criticism of the party front-runner.

In an interview with The New York Times, Jackson compared Dukakis to Bush:

"Both of them brag about being vague. Both of them are trying to make bland beautiful... Like Bush, Dukakis almost brags about putting forth no plans. Like Bush, Dukakis says I have not said anything concrete to anybody about anything."

In an appearance at a drug treatment center in Los Angeles, Jackson said Dukakis "has not put forth a comprehensive plan and the president's plan is limited."

Dukakis was in Daly City, a San Francisco suburb, and he responded to Jackson's statements by saying, "It will come as a surprise to the White House and Mr. Bush if my views on the world and my style of political leadership has any similarity to his."

Dukakis said the Massachusetts program of drug prevention and education had brought a significant reduction in drug use among students.

He used a speech to high school students about drug abuse to renew his attack on reports the administration was considering dropping drug charges against Noriega if he agrees to relinquish power.

"We are not talking about stealing hubcaps," he said.

Flood insurance to be expanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal flood insurance program has been expanded, but coastal residents who want full protection may need to act before June 1.

Under the new regulations, insurance coverage will be extended to coastal buildings subject to "imminent collapse or subsidence" as a result of erosion.

Coverage would provide funds to either relocate or demolish the structure in imminent danger. Previously, insurance coverage extended only after damage had occurred.

However, to obtain this protection the insurance must be in place by June 1, according to the Federal Emergency Management Agency, which oversees the flood insurance programs.

After that date protection for "imminent" collapse will be available only after insurance has been in place for two years, or for the full time of ownership if that is less than two years, FEMA said.

While FEMA supervises the program, the actual insurance policies are sold through private local insurance brokers.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram makes co-op advertising as easy as one, two, three Newspaper advertising is a practical, cost-effective way to bring customers into your store and sell more products. That's why manufacturers set up co-op programs. They know that a small investment in advertising can lead to bigger sales and profits for everyone.

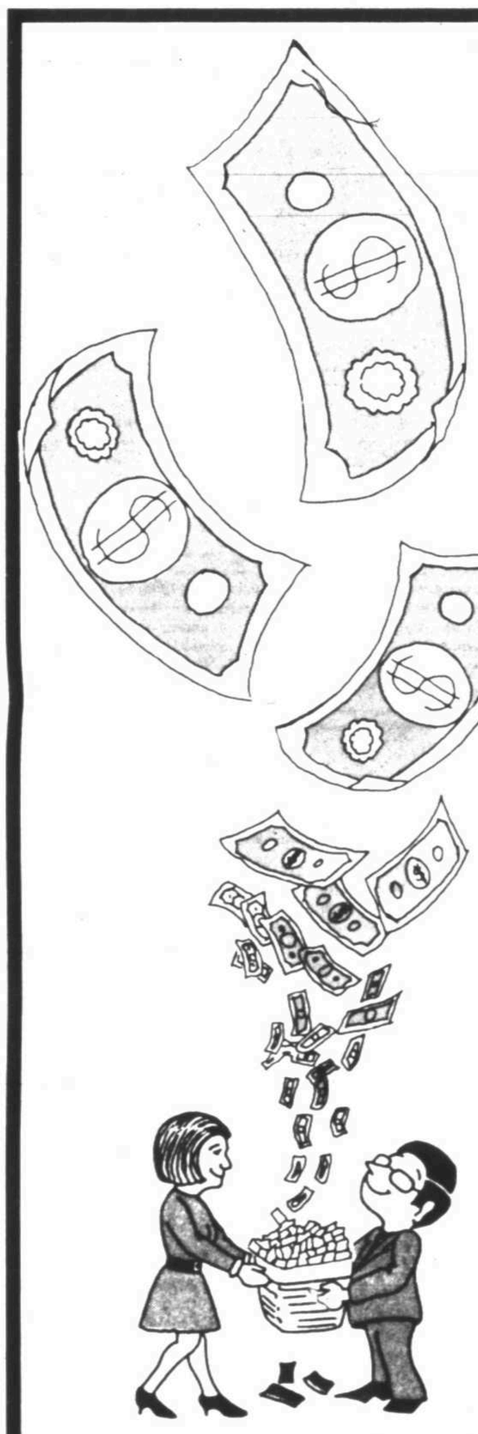
Still, many retailers don't make use of funds available to them because they don't know how easy it is to take advantage of this source of revenue. The Midland Reporter-Telegram offers a simple, 3-step way to profit from co-op advertising.



COOPERATIVE ADVERTISING

...GETTING THE MOST FOR YOUR BUSINESS...

1 WE'LL HELP YOU FIND AVAILABLE CO-OP FUNDS

You're the expert in your business. We're the experts in co-op. We'll work with you to match you list of supplies with our computer printout of manufacturers offering co-op money. We'll contact the manufacturer and find out how many co-op dollars you have earned.

2 WE'LL PUT THE AD TOGETHER FOR YOU

Our staff artist and advertising professionals take care of everything from layout to typesetting. Our co-op specialist will make sure your ad meets the conditions to quality for the co-op money available. All you have to do is approve the finished ad.

3 WE'LL HELP YOU COLLECT THE MONEY YOU HAVE COMING

We supply everything you need to receive your full share of co-op funds; tear sheet of the ad ,memo bill or claim-form. We'll even mail out the paperwork for you.

Military recommends hijackers be prosecuted

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — The Taiwan Garrison Command recommended that two Chinese hijackers, already granted political asylum here, be prosecuted for forcing a Chinese jetliner to Taiwan, officials reported today .

Military officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the command recommended Friday that the Taipei District Court charge Zhang Qingguo, 27, and Long Guiyun, 26, with endangering flight safety.

Lawmakers of the governing Nationalist Party said in a statement issued Friday, "They (the hijackers) had noble goals, but their methods were mean."

The two young workers commandeered the Boing 737 shortly after it took off Thursday evening with 118 people aboard from communist China's coastal city of Xiamen in Fujian province. The two men made the pilot fly to a military air base in central Taiwan.

After more than five hours in Taiwan, authorities allowed the plane to return to Xiamen early Friday morning with everyone aboard except the two hijackers, who were quickly granted asylum. No one was hurt.

Government spokesman Shaw Yuming said Friday the two hijackers were allowed to stay because they would have faced "their doom" if sent back home. While denouncing hijacking, he called their motives "simple and noble."

The Nationalist government, which fled to Taiwan from the Chinese mainland after losing a civil war to the communists in 1949, still claims to be the rightful ruler of all China and remains technically at war with Beijing.

A group of nine legislators, however, condemned the two hijackers for threatening the lives of passengers aboard the plane and urged the government to treat them as criminals and put them on trial.

It was reported earlier that authorities and lawmakers here were concerned that the quick granting of asylum would tarnish Taiwan's image.

The incident was the first hijacking of a Chinese commercial airliner to Taiwan.

"We would have been sending them to their doom if we turned them back to the communists," Shaw said.

"They have risked their lives to seek freedom and democracy. We must respect their wishes and offer them protection."

In a television interview, the air pirates triumphantly detailed their do-or-die mission.

Zhang, a worker at an arsenal in south China's Yunnan province, told the official Chinese Television Service he and his companion, Long, a steelworker from neighboring Guizhou province, used a toy pistol and a bottle of fake explosives to force the plane to Taiwan late Thursday.

"We would have committed suicide if we failed," Zhang said in the televised interview. "We never planned to return (to China)."

In 1983, six Chinese hijacked a Chinese airliner to South Korea and spent less than a year in jail there before resettling in Taiwan, where they received a hero's welcome and financial support.
