New Deal Majority Assured In Court

Where In The World Did Those $$ Go?

Business Becomes Stagnant As Uncle Sam's Relief Billions Are Hoarded

By JOHN T. FLYNN
(Copyright, 1938, NEA, Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—The man in the street, who is always asking questions, is now asking this one:

John T. Flynn

Uncle Sam has borrowed and paid out on recovery around 18 or 20 billions of dollars in the last five years. These dollars went into the hands of all sorts of people. But they are still in existence, why aren't they spending them now?

That is a question. Let's follow one of those dollars.

Uncle Sam hands it to John Jones for relief. Jones spends it at the grocery. The grocer hands it to George, who works for him. George spends it at the drug store. The druggist buys cotton bandages with it. The cotton bandage man buys cotton cloth. The cotton textile man buys raw cotton. The cotton farmer pays it to his hired hand. The hired hand buys a shirt.

And so it goes, on and on, from worker to store, from store to factory, from factory to worker, to farmer. Obviously while this is going on the dollar is making business at every turn.

But one day that dollar comes into the hands of a workman who has a streak of thrift and he decides to save it. He puts it in a tin box and buries it behind the chimney and lets it remain there for the rest of his life. Now it's clear what happened to that dollar. It's done, so far as spending is concerned. And if every one of the relief dollars got into the hands of a fellow like this, it would be easy to answer the question and easy to see why there was business last year and not this year.

Now, of course, not many men put their money into tin boxes nowadays. But they do save them. Therefore, let us suppose this dollar finally gets into the hands of Brown, who is a saver. He does not want to spend the dollar, but he is willing to invest it. That is, he is willing to lend it to Mr. Smith who wants to put up a house. Now while he is looking around for a borrower the dollar is idle. But finally Mr. Smith comes along and borrows that dollar—along with others—to build a house. Now the dollar is back again at work, because Smith pays it to a carpenter who takes it to a store and so on—until it comes into the hands of another saver.

Savings Stagnate Business

BUT maybe Mr. Brown, this first saver of ours, puts his money in a bank—in a savings bank or a commercial bank. He does not want to risk it himself and he prefers to leave it in the bank. But the bank is willing to invest it or lend it. So the band lends the dollar to Mr. Smith to build a house. The result will be the same.

Now at this point you have to remember two things. One is that if Brown or the bank is unwilling for any reason to invest the dollar or lend it to Mr. Smith, then the dollar remains idle. Its spending career is ended as completely as if it had gone into a tin box. And this is what has happened to many of these dollars. They are in the hands of men and of banks who are unwilling or unable to lend them or invest them. Hence they are dead dollars—they are out of circulation—they are non-existent so far as spending is concerned.

The second thing you have to remember is that sooner or later every dollar comes into the hands of a saver. It may happen quickly. It may take months, or even years. But in the end every dollar heads into such ownership. And that is what is happening now. These relief and recovery dollars are slowly piling up into the hands of those who do not

Russia Suspends Commercial Payments To Italy

Disagreement Over Delivery Of Oil Cause

Soviet Charges Italian Navy Had Failed To Meet Bills; Italy Says Contract Short

(By The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—Russia today suspended all commercial payments to Italy in what diplomatic circles said was a disagreement over delivery of Soviet oil to the Italian navy.

The government charged the Italian navy had failed to meet fuel bills owed the Soviet, that Russian ships were being detained in Italian ports and Italian firms had suspended payments to Russia.

Less Than Promised

Diplomatic circles said the Italian navy ministry had declined to pay for oil supplied by Russia on the ground deliveries had been less than promised under a contract between the two governments.

(Italy, allied with Germany and Japan in an anti-Communist pact,

ANNOUNCEMENT CHEERED

MOSCOW, Jan. 15. (AP)—The supreme Soviet, Russia's new parliament, today cheered announcement of a broadened naval program and empowered its president, permanent presiding committee, to proclaim martial law or a state of war in national emergencies.

The war emergency measure and four other amendments to the soviet union's new constitution were adopted by a unanimous show of hands after Stanislas Kossior, a member of the political bureau of the communist party, warned:

"War is being prepared against us in the West and East."

officially denied defaulting "in any way" on payments due Russia and asserted news of Russia's action "came as a complete surprise."

Note Handed Government

(Russian sources in Rome said a note had been handed to the Italian government some time ago by the Russian embassy protesting Italy's non-payments but no answer was received.

(These sources said Russian war vessels being built in Italy have been paid for and cancellation of the payments did not involve them.)

The Soviet union also instructed its trade delegation to Italy and other trading organizations to hold up payments to Italian firms, including bills due third persons.

Refused To Pay

Pravda, official Communist party newspapers, declared the Italian navy ministry refused to pay for fuel and oil delivered to it in September.

The amount of money in dispute could not be learned.

One of the cars figuring in the collision carried students of the Winnsboro High school, en route to Mineola for a basketball game.

Ten Per Cent Reduction In All Government Expenditures Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—Senator Byrd (D-Va.) proposed to congress today that it compel the executive branch of the government to make a 10 per cent reduction in all regular expenditures.

Byrd made the proposal in a minority report on the administration's government reorganization bill, approved last year by a majority of a special senate committee. He said he would introduce an amendment requiring that the economies be made when the proposed reorganization is carried out.

Byrd declared there is "urgent need for reorganization of the federal government for both economy and efficiency." He criticized the administration bill as not promising substantial economies and as giving too much power to the president.

BILL NOT NECESSARY

AUSTIN, Jan. 15. (AP) — Governor James V. Allred contended today passage of a federal anti-lynching bill was unnecessary so far as Texas is concerned.

Chinese Said To Be Turning Tide Of Battle In Shantung

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Jan. 16. (Sunday)—Chinese reports today insisted the tide of battle in Shantung province had swung in favor of Chinese defending the fertile region.

Spurred to new activity by the presence of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, they declared the Chinese not only had stopped the Japanese advance but had recovered 10 miles.

The former Chinese commander of the "sacred province," General Han Fu-Chu, was reported to have been courtmartialed and executed, on Chiang's orders, for "dereliction

RECOGNITION IS WITHDRAWN

TOKYO, Jan. 16. (Sunday) (AP)—Japan today announced withdrawal of recognition of the Chinese government.

The announcement said Japan looked forward to the establishment and growth of a new Chinese regime with which, it declared, it would cooperate gladly.

The government's statement was issued as the result of decisions taken last Tuesday in the fifth imperial conference in Japanese history.

of duty," charged with having retired with his army of 150,000 men virtually intact before the Japanese advance.

The Kuomin (semi-official news agency) said Chinese forces again had taken startegic Tsining in southern Shantung, which has changed hands several times within the past week, and had advanced 10 miles toward Yenchow.

Japs Pouring In Troops

It said another Chinese column was moving northward along the Tientsin-Pukow railroad and the Japanese were pouring in troops to bolster their lines against an overpowering Chinese counter-offensive.

These advices were directly contrary to Japanese announcements and Chinese newspaper reports which indicated the Japanese slowly but steadily were advancing.

Aimed At Rail Line

Besides Suchow, in the center of China's bread basket, the Japanese aimed their attack at Chengchow where the Lunghai crosses the Peiping-Hanhow railroad, another vital line. Japanese control of the city would isolate Chiang's 400,000 troops from their supply bases in China's interior.

At Tsingtao, Shantung's seaport, Japan meanwhile was said to be planning to establish a "puppet" government tomorrow headed by

Legal Liquor Has Day Of Grace In Big Spring; Dry On Monday

BIG SPRING, Jan. 15. (AP)—Legal liquor had its day of grace here today, but officials announced that dry laws will be in force in Howard county Monday. Validity of an election under which the county went dry was upheld Friday and last midnight was the fixed deadline on legal sales of liquors and beverages; but liquor control board agents permitted package stores and beer vendors to operate today.

Rulings came from Austin that an appeal on the election contest does not affect the county's dry status, and agents said that dry status must begin Monday.

Jews Convinced Emigration Only Solution Of Plight In Germany; Restricted More

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—The purge of Jews from German economic and social life left them convinced today the only solution of their flight was emigration.

A resolution adopted at the annual meting of the German Jewish council urgently appealed to the Palestine government and countries overseas to assist with emigration plans.

Dr. Leo Baeck, president of the council, took occasion to note that Jewry's position throughout the world was becoming more difficult.

The council especially recommended sending young German Jews to Palestine, to cooperate in building up the national home there.

Thinly populated countries were asked to revise immigration laws to make possible the settlement of a greater number of Jews.

The council asked the German government to stop any further curtailment of Jewish economic privi-

Peace Is Sought For Business; New Deal Hit

Administration Peprimanded By USCC For 'Scolding And Name-Calling' Business

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States reprimanded the administration today for "the recent tendency to assail business and blame it for the recession."

This tendency "has not proved conducive to the co-operative spirit so essential to confidence and recovery," the chamber said.

"Scolding and name-calling do not make for team-play between business and government. They don't put men to work."

Has Shown Restraint

"Business, on its part, has shown a discreet restraint in not aggravating the situation by replying to the attacks in the same tenor," the organization of business men added.

The administration is "groping" for a way out of the business decline and is examining sugestions for a new type of planning legislation, patterned "somewhat after the NRA concept," the chamber said.

Business men will trek in increasing numbers to the White House next week to discuss recovery methods.

Expect 50 Wednesday

Wednesday 50 business leaders who belong to the president's business advisory council are scheduled to go to the executive mansion.

This conference is expected generally to cover such topics as industrial planning, installment ceiling, monopoly, utilities, housing and labor policies.

The president has indicated he is seeking a method of industrial planning which would enable business men to gear their activities closer to the nation's needs and thus minimize the economic cycle of boom and depression. Part of the proposal may be to limit high pressure salesmanship and restrict installment financing.

Would Permit Cooperation

One of the methods under consideration would permit business men to co-operate in studying markets and production needs without fear of prosecution under the anti-trust laws unless they fixed prices or eliminated competition.

The meeting Wednesday will bring to the White House one of the largest groups of business men ever to convene there at one time.

W. A. Harriman, chairman of the Union Pacific railroad, is chairman of the council. Other members include Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck and company, Chicago; S. Clay Williams, chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco

Bonnet Opposed By Socialists

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Jan. 15. — The people's front tonight split anew over Financier-diplomat Georges Bonnet's efforts to give France a new government.

The socialist group in the chamber of deputies voted unanimously to refuse to participate in or support a Bonnet cabinet after the radical socialist premier-designate offered socialists posts in his prospective ministry.

The premier designate, after receiving a formal letter on the socialist stand, said he would meet with radical socialist deputies tomorrow to ask their advice whether he should abandon efforts to form a government or try to create a cabinet without the socialists.

The former ambassador to Washington formally accepted President Albert Leburn's cabinet mandate as successor to Camille Chautemps.

Bonnet's own party, the radical-

Funds For Canal Between Corpus And Port O'Connor Allotted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — Roy Miller, vice president of the Intra-Coastal Canal association, announced today the secretary of war had approved a $970,000 allotment for the construction of a canal between Port O'Connor on Matagorda bay and Corpus Christi, Tex.

The money became available immediately, Miller said, and bids for dredging of a nine-foot depth channel with a 100-foot base width probably would be advertised within a month.

Tax Revisions Might Be Proposed Later

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — The treasury's tax expert told a congressional committee today further extensive tax law revisions might be proposed "at some later date."

Roswell Magill, treasury undersecretary, made that assertion to a house ways and means committee at initial public hearings on a subcommittee's recommendations for changing the tax system.

He said additional revision might touch on such matters as: Personal tax exemptions, repeal of all "temporary" manufacturers' excise taxes, tightening the relationship between federal and state taxes, and taxing interest on future issues of federal, state and municipal securities.

Magill endorsed the subcommittee's recommendations, which involve modification of the undistributed profits and capital gains levies, and many other charges.

If embodied in legislation, the proposals "will effect many important improvements in the existing revenue system" and "relieve some of the most serious inequities," Magill said.

Stanley Reed Is Named To Take Supreme Bench

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A clear majority of administration supporters of the Supreme court appeared assured today when President Roosevelt nominated Solicitor General Stanley Reed, veteran defender of New Deal enactments, to succeed Retiring Justice George Sutherland.

Senators, who must pass upon the nomination, generally applauded the selection of the Kentucky lawyer and dairyman, even some bitter foes of the president's defeated bill to reorganize the nigh tribunal joined in expressing approval.

But there were numerous demands that public hearings be conducted before the senate votes on the appointment, in view of the public furore caused by belated revelations that Justice Hugo L. Black, President Roosevelt's only other nominee to the court, once was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

It was apparent the nomination had a better chance of being confirmed quickly than if it had involved the name of someone whose known views were more radical than Reed's. Commending the chief executive's choice, Senator Burke (D-Neb), a leader of the fight against the court bill, told reporters:

"I would place Mr. Reed in the same class in which I place myself—a progressive-conservative. He has all the qualifications to make an outstanding judge."

Defending Administrative Acts

The 53-year-old nominee has defended administration measures forcefully before the Supreme court.

He has contended in public addresses that the flexibility of the constitution makes it "as adequate for the problems of today as time has shown it has been adequate to meet the difficulties of the past."

Administration men count on the nomination to assure Roosevelt measures generally the support of at least five of the courts nine members in the future. Four present members of the court—Justices Brandeis, Cardozo, Stone and Black—have favored most administration enactments in the past. Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Roberts also have upheld Roosevelt measures in a number of instances.

Sutherland Retires Tuesday

Justice Sutherland, a member of the court group which had voted most often against the New Deal, has announced his retirement, effective Tuesday. If confirmed, Reed therefore could take his place on

The average now is a shade over 69. If Reed takes office it will drop to 66 2-3.

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Jan. 15.—Judge Ralph Yarborough of the Austin district announced today he would be a candidate for attorney general.

Yarborough did not announce his platform but said "the best platform is performance rather than promise." He said he would issue later a statement "on every question of public interest."

Yarborough was born in Henderson county 35 years ago. He worked in the oil and wheat fields of the Panhandle, attended Sam Houston State Teachers college and the University of Texas law schools.

He taught for a while, practiced law in El Paso and has lived in Austin the past six years.

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.(AP)—Judge Harry N. Graves of the court of criminal appeals said today he would have refused an appointment to the court last fall if he had not been convinced he was eligible for the post.

Two motions seeking to unseat Graves have been set for hearing before the criminal appeals court February 16. They claimed he was ineligible because at the time of the appointment he was a member of the legislature which voted to raise salaries of the judges from $6,500 to $8,500 annually.

Church Dean Reiterates His Belief He Should Be Left Alone In 'New Life'

(By The Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 15.—Dean Israel Harding Noe reiterated today his belief he should be left alone to continue his search for a "new way of life."

The dean of St. Mary's Episcopal cathedral made these points clear:

1. He has made no public claims concerning his fasting and prayer in search of immortality. He is not thinking in terms of fasting but in terms of working out a philosophy of life.

2. He does not feel concerned about the opinions of others, either in the medical profession or the clergy, respecting his attempts to work out a program to which he has given many years of study, especially since he feels others have no real idea of what he is doing.

3. He does not intend to tell his story until he has worked it out and tested it.

4. He is working out his program from a purely personal standpoint. He is not asking any one to agree that he is right. He feels the knowledge he has of science, the human body, physics and bio-chemistry, together with his close communion with God and his knowledge of God's work entitle him, a man of faith, to go ahead without interruptions from those who do not understand.

Another Move To Enact Prohibition Forecast

Sheppard Gives Annual Speech

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Senator Sheppard (D-Tex), author of the Eighteenth amendment, forecast today that congress would soon be called upon again to enact prohibition legislation.

In his annual senate address on the anniversary of the Eighteenth amendment, Sheppard declared:

"It is my conviction that the American people will not tolerate this evil much longer, and that we shall be called upon as federal lawmakers once again to enact national legislation to eradicate the greatest social menace in the history of civilization—the traffic in beverage alcohol, a traffic that expends millions to keep the alcoholic lure alive."

Votes Striking Indications

Sheppard said recent majority votes in Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee against legal liquor sales were "striking indications that the people are becoming dissatisfied and convinced that repeal promises have not been kept."

The three elections, however, were "too few to be conclusive of the general state of public sentiment."

"It will not do to say that prohibition will not prohibit," Sheppard said. "It will prohibit if public opinion is sufficiently behind it."

Sheppard asserted that repeal had brought an increase in the number of criminal offenses for which liquor is responsible.

"In a struggle for material existence," he observed with reference to repeal, "we raised the dollar above the soul."

United Front Is Sought By ITU

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The 100,000-member International Typographical union was aligned today in support of a united labor front and an end to warfare between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The typographical union is affiliated with the AFL; its president, Charles P. Howard, is secretary of the CIO, but Howard last night called a halt to recurrent membership agitation for a swing of the entire union to the CIO camp.

To Stick With AFL

The typographers will stick with the AFL, he said in an article prepared for the January issue of the magazine, "Printing," adding that "our members desire that all national and international unions should be under one banner and work as a unit to improve conditions for the nation's wage workers."

Howard made clear that the CIO was not attempting to organize the printing industry on an industrial union basis and "neither is it attempting to influence the printing trade unions to change their form of organization."

The fundamental issue between the AFL and CIO has been that the AFL advocates organization on a craft basis while the CIO favors organization on an industry-wide basis.

New Wage And Hour Agreements For Steel Workers Are Talked

Mid-Term Graduate At Senior High Has Enviable Record

WINFRED PERRY FRANKS

Winfred Perry Franks, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Franks of 1943 Avenue N, graduated with the January class from Senior High school with a unique distinction of having spent all his schooldays in Lubbock schools and boasts an outstanding attendance record.

Franks started to Dupre school at the age of seven years. Since he has attended Central Ward, Junior High, and Senior High schools.

He was never tardy or absent during his elementary school days, members of the family said. Records at Senior High show he was absent a half day during the 1936-37 term, W. B. Matthews, principal, said. That was only blight on three years attendance there.

Afternoons after school and during summer vacations, Franks has worked in addition to compiling his enviable attendance record. He is employed by his grandfather, W. R. Perry, as a used car salesman.

Heavy Docket Is Facing County Court At Dickens, Judge Says

A heavy docket of both civil and criminal cases awaits the opening of January term of Dickens county court at Dickens Monday, according to information given here Saturday by County Judge Marshall Formby while in Lubbock on business.

Non-jury cases will be considered the first week, he said. Jury cases will come up the second week.

The heavy docket, he explained, results from the fact that farmers were so rushed by their crops last October that all of them were excused from jury service. Among the unusual criminal cases, he added, are those in which two Vernon men now at liberty under bond are charged with exceeding the limit during the quail season. L. D. Ratliff, jr., county attorney, will be in charge of prosecutions.

Judge Formby, now serving his first term as county judge, recently announced his candidacy for a second term.

Teachers Group Plans Council

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Jan. 15. — The executive committee of the Texas State Teachers association agreed here today to have an advisory council of representatives from eight different educational societies to help formulate its legislative program.

The plan, submitted by a committee headed by Miss Quata Woods of Dallas, was adopted as a means of co-ordinating the efforts of all educational agencies in Texas.

Other Agencies Represented

The council will consist of a representative each from the teachers association, the state department of education, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, Association of Texas Colleges, state board of education, Texas Association of Classroom Teachers, County Superintendents Association of Texas and Texas Association of Independent School Districts.

The committee also indorsed creation by the legislature of a public school land board charged with the duty of administering the public school lands and composed of three members, including the commissioner of the general land office.

The resolution was presented by Dr. A. W. Birdwell of Nacogdoches, as a member of a committee studying conservation of state school lands.

Committee To Be Named

A standing tenure committee will be appointed in the future by the president, R. H. Brister of Waco, to work for adequate laws to insure economic security for teachers.

The committee, concluding a two-day session, noon, selected Dallas for the annual association convention Nov. 24, 25 and 26. Houston entertained the teachers last year.

Fort Worth, San Antonio, Amarillo and Austin also extended invitations, and Austin made an early bid for the 1939 meeting. The body adopted the old plan to redistrict the state into 11, instead of 13, districts for the purpose of organizing district units of the state association. The goal is democratic representation at the association conventions.

No Trace Of Missing Soviet Transpolar Flier Is Found

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 15. (AP) After cruising by arctic moonlight to within 400 miles of the North Pole, Sir George Hubert Wilkins returned to Aklavik, N. W. T., at 3:35 a. m., (p.s.t) today without reporting sighting the missing Soviet transpolar fliers.

Wilkins reported by radio to Fairbanks that at midnight, Pacific standard time, his Russian-chartered plane was at latitude 85:30 along the 140th meridian, more than 1,000 miles north of Aklavik. The plane's cruising radius is about 2,500 miles.

Wilkins handled the plane's radio while Air Commodore Herbert Hollick-Kenyon was at the controls.

Ther hunt was for Sigismund Levaneffsky and five companions, lost more than five months ago.

Eighth largest of the lakes of the world, Great Slave Lake has an area of 12,000 square miles.

Tax-Paying Rush Is In Prospect

A week of "slack" tax payments, coupled with only 13 more business days in which to pay state, county, city, rural high and city schools assessments, indicated Saturday to collectors the usual last-minute rush would come before the midnight of the January 31 deadline.

Most agencies agreed there was only a slight percentage increase in tax payments this year over last, in ratio to totals found on assessment rolls.

Increase Is Small

In the office of A. C. Jackson, tax collector for Lubbock independent school district, for instance, the proportion increase was one-half of one per cent. Forty-three per cent of the current roll of approximately $229,000 had been collected, he estimated. Eighty-three per cent of the total roll was paid on the deadline last year. Rate for each $100 valuation is 95 cents. A. D. Stanley is chief deputy, and there is a woman clerk to assist in office work there.

H. B. Bryan, county assessor-collector, said his December report showed county assessments ran $27,606.40, including current, delinquent and poll taxes, as compared with $22,986.22 for December, 1936. The county rate is 50 cents.

December Payments Lower

For state collections, Bryan's records showed $23,342.44 for December, as compared with $23,735.28 the year before. The rate had been reduced from 77 to 49 cents.

Rural high school districts revenue totaled $24,431.19 for last month, as compared with approximately $21,000 the year before. Maximum rate of $1 was collected.

Figures in the office of Ed C. Young, city tax collector, showed current assessments for December totaled $36,052.01, which was more than for December a year before. Percentage collection was not indicated in the total, however, the rate having been boosted from 55 to 75 cents on the $100 of valuation. For the last fiscal year, tax figures show that $97,554 was collected against an approximately total of $116,000 on the rolls.

In an effort to stem part of the tide of taxpaying dollars, Bryan said a sub office would be established Monday at Slaton, for convenience of those in the southeastern part of precinct 2. Property and poll taxes may be paid there the rest of the month. Harvey Austin, deputy in the Lubbock office, will be in charge.

Cotton Consumption Drops In November

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — The census bureau reported today cotton consumed during December totaled 433,058 bales of lint and 46,462 bales of linters, compared with 484,819 and 57,565 during November and 694,841 and 61,036 in December a year ago.

December imports totaled 8,638 bales, compared with 9,115 in November and 15,910 in December a year ago.

Exports for December totaled 751,001 bales, including linters, compared with 796,985 bales of lint and 30,959 of linters in November, and 593,860 and 19,668 in December a year ago.

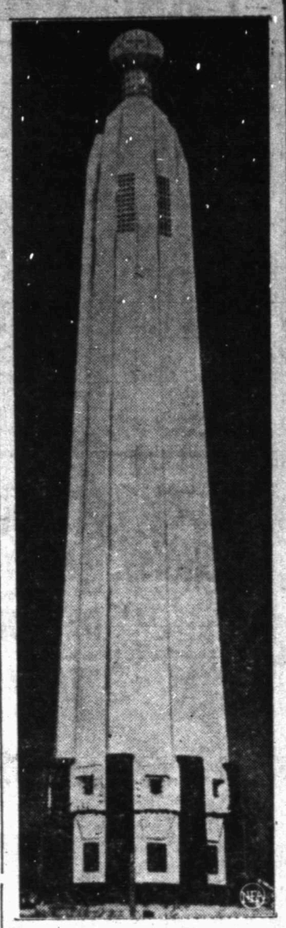

Cotton spindles active during December numbered 22,328,472 compared with 22,791,550 during November, and 24,083,306 during December a year ago.

Cotton consumed during December in cotton-growing states totaled 373,298 bales, compared with 418,395 during November, and 578,327 during December a year ago.

Honors Edison

The pear-shaped finial of the 131-foot black and buff concrete shaft above is the world's largest electric light bulb, recently unveiled on the site of Thomas Edison's original laboratory at Menlo Park, N. J., to commemorate his invention of the incandescent electric light. The monster bulb is 14 feet high, two inches thick, contains 6000 pounds of glass molded in 153 sections, and will be illuminated by interior light bulbs totalling 5,200 watts. It will be lighted by remote control from dedication exercises in New York next month.

Dates For Annual Convention Will Be Decided Wednesday

Dates for the annual convention of the Texas State Hospital association probably will be set at a meeting of the Houston arrangements committee Wednesday, according to word received by C. E. Hunt, state president, Saturday from Robert Jolly, administrator of Memorial hospital at Houston. Hunt is superintendent of Lubbock sanitarium.

Hunt authorized the Houston local committee to set the dates for the convention after discovering that the time set at a recent meeting of trustees and officers of the association in Houston conflicted with other Houston conventions.

Charity Costs In Lubbock Show Steady Increase During Past Three Years

Expenditures In 1937 Are Heavy

Operating cost of the City-County Welfare association since the organization was founded Oct. 1, 1931, has totaled $95,419.79, according to information contained in the annual report for 1937 made available at the city hall Saturday. Joseph W. Wilson is executive secretary of the organization.

The composite report further revealed that charity costs have steadily increased the last three years, and that expenses in 1937 were the heaviest since the association came into existence more than six years ago.

Expenditures Increase

Expenditures for 1937 were shown to have totaled $21,542.82, approximately $3,000 more than the $18,626.24 in 1936 and almost double the $11,814.61 in 1935. The all time low for any full year was 1933 when expenditures were $10,826.25.

The rapidly mounting cost of the last three years was attributed to the increased withdrawal of federal relief of various kinds which was available during depression years. That factor combined with the business "recession" and the steady growth of Lubbock likely will mean further increase in demands on charity this year, officials were informed.

Largest of the individual items of expense, according to the itemized report for 1937, was $3,440.39 for the hospitalization of 57 charity cases. That figure was described by city officials as being phenomenally low in comparison with cities of approximately the size of Lubbock. They have been advised, officials said, that operation of the Amarillo City-County hospital is approximately $80,000 a year.

Other Expense Items

Other items of expense last year, according to the report, included:

Association overhead	$2,187.82
Old folks' home	2,018.90
Salary, health officer	1,950.00
Burial (25 cases)	542.00
Drugs and sundries	518.09
Necessaries for indigents	283.93
Cash allowances	264.00
Transportation (69 cases)	251.15
Milam orphanage	121.78
Federal-state relief setups	9,972.10

Total expenditures by years since Oct. 1, 1931, were shown to have been:

1931	$ 2,548.00
1932	17,308.47
1933	10,826.25
1934	12,753.40
1935	11,814.61
1936	18,626.24
1937	21,542.82
Total	$95,419.79

Two Charged In Felony Complaints

Two men Saturday were named defendants in complaints charging felonies filed with Justice of Peace S. E. McMillan.

M. L. Wheeler, about 35, was charged with forgery of and passing a $14 check bearing the allegedly forged signature of M. T. Vindham. The check assertedly was passed to officials of Popular Price store.

Sam Koretzky, manager of the store, swore to the complaint. Bond of $1,000 was set by McMillan upon arraignment of Wheeler.

R. E. Edwards, about 40, was named defendant in complaint alleging driving on highway 24 in Lubbock county when intoxicated. Bond of $750 was set by McMillan. He posted bond.

B. Johnson, officer of the Texas Highway patrol, swore to the complaint which was prepared by Burton S. Burks, district attorney.

Bond of $250 was set by Judge J. J. Dillard for Charles Cecil Richardson, about 23, when he was arraigned on a charge of theft. Late Saturday he had not posted bond.

Richardson was transferred here from Abilene by Sheriff Tom Abel, said Jas. P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff.

Tech Department Of Geology Staff To Make Study Of Skeleton Found Near Portales

In an attempt to determine age of a gravel deposit in which the skeleton of what possibly may be identified as a prehistoric man was found last week, the entire staff of the geology department of Texas Technological college will leave early this morning for near Portales, N. M.

The announcement was made by Dr. William Curry Holden, head of the college department of history and director of archeological research.

Holden Makes Statement

Dr. Holden, conservative anent possibilities, made the following statement when asked whether the skeleton might be found to be the long-sought Folsom man:

"The skeleton found in a sand-pit near Portales Wednesday was discovered in the same locality and in similar formations that Dr. E. B. Howard of the University of Pennsylvania museum has worked the past three summers.

Projectile Points Found

"Dr. Howard mound a number of mastodon and mammouth fossils and several pieces of Folsom projectile points associated with them.

"The skeleton was in an apparently undisturbed sand and gravel deposit which appears to be an ancient river bed. As yet, no index fossils have been found in the strata immediately surrounding the skeleton."

Until such are found and the age of the deposit fixed with assurance, Dr. Holden and his colleagues have been inclined to withold their opinions as to the age of the skeleton.

REA Session Is Closed Saturday

First Rural Electrification conference at Texas Technological college closed Saturday afternoon with an attendance that was not quite up to expectations in number of farmers present. About 35 different farmers and more than half that many women, were in the two sessions Saturday.

Those in charge expressed the belief that all who attended were vitally interested in the program. Many questions were asked of speakers after the lectures. The demonstration of cooking by Miss Annabelle Hickman, Texas-New Mexico Utilities Co., attracted much attention as the audience sampled her handiwork.

Demonstration of small grinding equipment, for feed, interested many farmers and P. T. Montfort, expert, did considerable overtime talking to explain his work.

Luncheon Is Canceled

Luncheon set for noon was canceled because of the small attendance.

Besides Montfort, Saturday's speakers included: W. H. Crenshaw, Miss Hickman, Miss Clara E. Pratt, Miss M. Twyford, William Helwig and Ben Jenkins. O. B. Howell presided at the morning session and W. W. Yocum in the afternoon.

Besides farmers registered, many college students attended the lectures and demonstrations.

H. P. Clay, agricultural engineer of the college, who aided in promoting the conference, expressed appreciation of the attendance and the support given by local firms and by farmers. He said that the conference would be productive of much good in interesting farmers in rural electrification.

30 Years A King

Even greater cause for jubilation in Sweden than the recent 30th anniversary of his reign will be the 80th birthday next June 16 of King Gustaf V, who is almost as well-known to the world for his tennis as for his title. Although near the venerable age of four score years, he is revealed in this latest official portrait as a man of unusual vigor.

District Session Of VFW Is Set

Among the larger posts which will be represented will be Pampa, Amarillo, Tulia, Plainview, Abilene, Sweetwater, and Big Spring. More than 150 veterans are expected.

First meeting will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday night in the Hilton hotel ballroom, Allen announced. Arthur D. Dodds of Dallas, department commander, will preside. A degree team of 12 men from Amarillo will initiate new members.

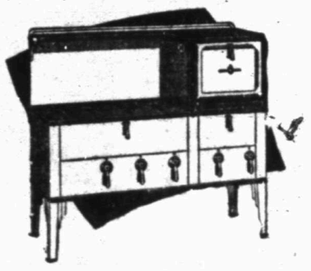

Scott P. Squyres of Oklahoma City, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, wired officials here he would be unable to attend but that he would visit the post here soon.

A meeting of district officials will be held Sunday, probably at 10 o'clock in the morning with Frank McPherson, district commander, in charge.

Favorites At Senior High School Are Announced; Will Appear In Yearbook

For the first time in three years the identity of All-Westerners and favorite students at Senior High school has been announced before the appearance of The Westerner, school yearbook. Pictures of the students chosen will make up "elect" section of the 1938 Westerner.

All-Westerner boy and girl are chosen each year by members of the faculty. This year Onita Bell Hufstedler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Hufstedler, 3008 Avenue H, was chosen the All-Westerner girl, and Bill Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clark, 2013 Fifteenth street, is the All-Westerner boy

President Of Society

Onita Bell is president of the National Honor society, president of the girl reserve council, vice-president of the senior class, and assistant editor of the yearbook. Sycily Roberts, business manager of the Westerner World, ran a close second in this election.

Bill is editor of the Westerner World, president of the Quill and Scroll society and was elected last year president of the Panhandle High School Press association. He has won several honors in Latin tournaments and writing contests since he has been in high school. Hunter Dupree was a close second for this honor.

Favorites Are Listed

Favorite seniors hold two of the most important student positions in Senior High. Jane Prickett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Prickett, 2422 Twentieth, is president of the student council, an office that eliminates her from being named for any other responsibilities. She is an honor student, and has the distinction of being the first girl to ever be student body president. Roger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Kuykendall, 2201 Sixteenth street, and is president of the senior class. He was also one of the school's six cheer leaders during the football season.

Betty Jean Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hub Jones, 2114 Thirteenth, is among the favorites for the second year. This year she was elected the favorite junior, and last year she was given the same honor for sophomores. She was a Westerner cheer leader, and she takes an active part in the musical organizations of the school.

Joyce Halsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Halsey, 2308 Seventeenth street, was elected the favorite sophomore. She is president of the sophomore class, and was a leader in Junior High school activities last year.

Students chosen to form the "elect" section of The Westerner, Senior High yearbook, have been made public before the book is issued for the first time in several years. Pictured above are the All Westerner boy and girl, and favorites selected from the classes.

Dead Week Will Be Started On Monday

"Dead" week—that period of suspended extra-curricular activities—will take over at Texas Technological college Monday.

Men students and coeds, alike, traditionally observe freedom of dress and coiffure; men give slight attention to razors, and lipstick and nail polish are used sparingly.

For students take time usually allotted to dating, dancing, shows and the like to study—at least, that is the theory underlying dead week. Instead, they pile up on beds, stretch on floors or find sunny corners and get ready for final examinations, which will be conducted Jan. 24 through 29.

Two such weeks are found on the college calendar—before "finals."

Doom Is Predicted For Cotton Industry In U. S. If Present Conditions Continue

Gloomy Picture Given Session

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Jan. 15.—If present conditions continue, cotton in the United States is doomed, E. R. Alexander, head of the department of agricultural education at Texas A. & M. college, told members of the Texas Agricultural Workers' association convention today. The two-day eleventh annual meeting ended at noon.

R. E. Manire, director of agricultural education of the state department of agriculture, Austin, presided.

Foreign Consumption Drops

Alexander said "more than 50 per cent of the consumption of American cotton has been by foreign nations until 1936-37 when it dropped to 40 per cent," and urged tariff reductions and increased purchasing power of cotton to solve the problem.

I. W. Duggan, acting director of the southern division of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, Washington, D. C., suggested the South produce a supply of cotton sufficient to meet requirements for domestic consumption and exports.

Duggan said he could see nothing but a breakdown of the so-called domestic allotment plan leaving behind it bankruptcy and ruin for the South.

Council Is Formed

The Texas Council of Agriculture was formed at a breakfast meeting. The council is composed of the Texas Agricultural association, the Texas Cooperative council, Texas Soil and Water Conservation association, Texas Farmer's union, and the Texas State Grange.

Eugene Butler, editor of the Progressive Farmer, of Dallas, was elected chairman.

The council voted to pass a resolution asking congress to take all the time necessary to write the farm bill, event if it becomes necessary to continue this year under the present law.

Chillicothe Man Honored

W. W. Cole of Chillicothe was awarded a silver plaque for distinguished service to Texas agriculture over a 50-year period for services in co-operative ginning over half a century.

Fort Worth was selected as the convention city. L. P. Merrill of Fort Worth was elected president of the association for the year. He replaces Sterling C. Evans of Houston.

Other officers elected were Eugene Butler, Dallas, vice president; Maurince Hearne, College Station, secretary; and W. O. Cox, Houston, treasurer. Directors elected were R. E. Manire, Austin; Sterling C. Evans, Houston; Mrs. Laura Neal Love, Dallas; Fred Hale, College Station; E. R. Eudaly, College Station, and K. M. Renner, Lubbock.

Flynn Finds Relief Billions Hoarded

wish for various perfectly good reasons to spend them. And hence they are becoming sterilized.

How Borrowings Get "Frozen"

THIS is but part of the story. The other part is almost too complicated to explain very quickly. All of these dollars paid out by Uncle Sam on relief were borrowed from the banks. Let's follow one:

Uncle Sam borrows a dollar from the bank. This is done by opening an account in the bank for Uncle Sam and lending him the dollar. The bank gives Uncle Sam a record of a deposit of a dollar, just in the same way as if you borrowed the dollar. Thus a deposit is created. The bank holds Uncle Sam's note. Then Uncle Sam gives the money to Smith on relief. Smith spends it at the store. The storekeeper deposits the dollar. The dollar moves around a great deal, but what really happens is that it moves from bank to bank.

Finally one day the bank decides to sell the note of Uncle Sam to a depositor. The depositor takes the note. He also hands the bank a check for the dollar. The bank withdraws the dollar from the man's account. But it doesn't actually take the dollar out of the bank. It merely cancels his deposit account to the extent of a dollar. In other words, one dollar of deposit money is cancelled.

The total deposits of the country are reduced by that cancelled dollar. In this case the dollar of deposit created by Uncle Sam and the bank when Uncle Sam borrowed the dollar is wiped out or destroyed when the bank sells the government's note to a depositor. In this way several billions of dollars of the money paid out on relief have been actually wiped out—do not in any way exist any more.

All Dollars Head For Jail

AND so this is what has become of the relief dollars.

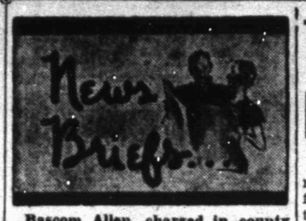

Doubtless several millions have gone into tin boxes.

Several billions have been wholly extinguished by the method described above—by the sale of government securities by the banks to depositors.

Several billions more are just sterilized in the accounts of savers and banks who are unable or unwilling to invest and the balance, very much reduced is still in circulation, but all heading for the savings jail.

CLAIMS SELF-DEFENSE

DETROIT, Jan. 15. (AP) — Three hours after Mrs. Edith Mae Cummings, 49-year-old Detroit real estate dealer, was shot to death in a rural ravine today, Mrs. Julia Barker, also a real estate dealer, surrendered and claimed, Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea said, that she shot Mrs. Cummings in self-defense.

Bascom Allen, charged in county court with violation of state liquor laws, was released from the county jail Saturday on approval by authorities at the office of Sheriff Tom Abel of a bond of $250.

According to police records, no persons suffered serious injuries in three minor automobile mishaps Saturday. Two of the mishaps were at noon, one in the 2400-block Fourteenth street and the other at the intersection of Fifteenth street and Avenue G. A child, whose name was not obtained by police, was reported to have suffered a slight head injury in an accident at the intersection of Fourteenth street and Texas avenue about 4:20 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Miss Billie Hilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hilton of Lubbock, was married to A. C. Bumpass, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bumpass, also of Lubbock, in a ceremony at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the home of Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor of Central Baptist church. Attending were the bride's parents, Mrs. Tom Hilton, Warren Hathaway, Verlie Bumpass, Glenice Hilton, Jack Trammell, Doris Bumpass and Max Hilton. Mrs. Bumpass is a graduate of Lubbock High school and the bridegroom was graduated from Shallowater High school. The couple will live at Plainview where he is associated with Corcorran's tailors.

Twenty-one men representing 10 towns attended the Rural Letter Carriers' convention Saturday night which met here in the county court room. Short talks were made by several members. Plans were discussed for the annual banquet to be held here April 2, and a committee to be in charge of arrangements was appointed. Officers for the new year were elected and installed. Officers elected were: L. H. Thomas of Ralls, president; C. G. Wollard of Muleshoe, vice-president; and J. R. Potts of Lubbock, secretary-treasurer.

Radio System Plans

Hoover, chief of the nation's G-men.

Most difficult of the problems of law enforcement officers today was described as being the ease and speed with which criminals can leave the scene of the crime. The short wave station was described as having been proved as the most effective weapon to cope with that advantage the criminal has enjoyed.

Detailed plans are, according to Allison, to establish a 500-watt station which will serve a minimum area of 200 miles radius of Clovis. Receiving sets will be placed in sheriff's offices and on official automobiles in that area. The station will be in operation 24 hours a day and tests will be made by operators at 15-minute intervals.

The plan calls for the designation of every road or lane, no matter how remote, every crossing and every bridge by a special symbol. Likewise, each automobile will be given its own designation. Thus, Allison said, the operator at Clovis will be in position to move designated cars to designated spots like checkers on a board in the effort to intercept the flight of a fugitive criminal. Experience in other states has demonstrated, the offical said, that "radio blockades" thus established have removed the advantages the criminal has had in the past.

Control of the station, he said, will be in the hands of a board on which each county served will have one representative. That will mean, Allison said, that the more numerous Texas counties will have a majority of the board.

Officers of any place within the area which has been the scene of a crime will be expected, he continued, to report any violent crime as quickly as possible after it has occured. The report will be "on the air" within less than a minute thereafter. The Clovis station then will communicate by telephone with other stations at Denver, Dallas, Oklahoma City and others, and they in turn will broadcast alarms.

Sheriff Earl Booth of Parmer county is vice president of the association and the mayor of Clovis is secretary-treasurer.

Don Lash Wins 2-Mile Race But Falls Short Of Record

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP) — Don Lash, Indiana's durable track star, failed in his attempt to beat Paavo Nurmi's international record for 3,000 meters but turned in a remarkable performance over the flat boards to win the two-mile run at the 69th regiment indoor track and field meet today.

Running over a ten-lap and near circular track, Lash hit the 3,000 meter mark in 8:33.6 and then went on to cover the two miles in 9:11. While failing by several seconds in attempt to match Nurmi's 3,000 meter world mark of 8::26.4 and the American citizens performance of 8:27.4 :set by Archie San Romani last week, Lash's race was a great exhibition in view of the shape and size of the track.

Glenn Cunningham, world indoor mile and 1,000 yard record, easily won the 1,000 yard run although his time of 2:14.6 failed to threaten his international standard of 2:10.1

Tech Is Fifth In Denver Judging

Texas Technological college's junior livestock judging team placed fifth among six teams competing in the international livestock judging contests of the Western National Livestock show at Denver, according to information received Saturday night by W. L. Stangel of the animal husbandry department at Tech.

The Tech team, however, placed first in the sheep judging contests. It placed third in judging of hogs and horses, but dropped to sixth in cattle judging contest.

Henry Second In Contest

Allen Henry of Sterling City, junior at Tech, was first in individual contests in sheep judging and second in the entire contests.

Placing of the teams, according to Stangel's information, was: Wyoming, first; Kansas, second; Colorado, third; Utah, fourth, Texas Tech, fifth; and New Mexico, sixth.

This was the second time the Tech team had competed in the Denver contests. It won second before. The team, composed of Winston McInnis of Menard, Jim Wiaman of Roscoe, Henry Melvin Boyd of Mertzon, and Robert Marshall of Fort Sumner, N. M., left Wednesday and is expected to return Tuesday. Ray C. Mowery, coach and a member of the animal husbandry department, accompanied the boys.

Christie, 43, was tax assessor of Hardeman county for four years. He has been a leader in the state organization of Young Democrats.

Commissioner C. V. Terrell is expected to seek renomination. Other announced or prospective candidates include Highway Commissioner John Wood, Richard A. Tullis of San Antonio and Robert A. Stuart of Fort Worth, former state senator.

Longview Attorney To Be In Race For Senate

LONGVIEW, Jan. 15. (AP)—The News and Journal will say tomorrow that Judge E. M. Bramlette, Longview attorney, will be a candidate for state senator from the second district, composed of Gregg, Harrison, Panola, Rusk and Shelby counties.

Bramlete, who served four years as county judge of Gregg county and eleven years as city attorney of Longview, will issue a formal statement shortly, the News and Journal will say.

Allred Emphasizes He Is For Neither Candidate

AUSTIN, Jan. 15. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred emphasized at his press conference today he favored neither Sen. Allen Shivers of Port Arthur nor Rep. Harry L. McKee of Port Arthur in their race for the senate.

"That would be one 'thunderation' of a choice for me to make," the chief executive commended. Both Shivers and McKee have differed with the governor on important issues.

More Candidates Are Out For Offices In County

Three more aspirants to public office in Lubbock county added fuel to the political fire by pitching their hats into the ring late Saturday.

County Judge Alvin R. Allison of Levelland in Hockley county, announced he would be a candidate for representative to the state legislature from the 119th district.

Opposes Slaton Man

He will oppose W. P. Florence of Slaton who announced his intentions of being a candidate January 1. J. Doyle Settle, incumbent representative, has not issued a formal statement as to his political intentions this year.

Judge Allison is serving his second term as judge of Hockley county. He is a former Lubbock resident, having attended Texas Technological college.

Ellis For Re-Election

A. B. Ellis, incumbent county treasurer, Saturday said he formally was tossing his hat into the ring and that he would be a candidate to succeed himself. He is serving his first term.

Frank Bowles last week made a formal announcement to the effect he would be a candidate for the treasurer's office.

W. H. Meador, long-time Lubbock resident, will be a candidate for commissioner of precinct 4, according to his own announcement Saturday. Meador served several years as the county's tax assessor.

Candidates who previously had announced for that office were B. O. McWhorter, candidate for re-election, and J. W. Sampson.

A glass in the front of the building was crashed and entrance made. The money was taken from a cash register. It was believed no merchandise was taken.

Investigating were Sheriff J. L. Koonsman and other officers. Police Chief Don Reeder of Lubbock and Grady Harrist, Lubbock county deputy sheriff assisted. Pictures were taken in attempts to get fingerprints, but results had not been obtained tonight.

the press beyond one brief statment to the effect that I am sure that with the help of an all-sufficient and all-sustaining God, in whom I trust with an absolute faith, I can prove that man can, here and now, put on the fullness of the godhead bodily," the clergyman said.

"Since what I am doing is beyond the comprehension of so many, since my approach to what I am doing is an entirely new one, there is no occasion for me to defend or argue my faith and my program."

Those who know the dean well say that he subsisted all of last year on oranges alone—as far as "outer, artificial food is concerned,' but that his main food "came from the father's life within, the substance of life which he has taken and transmuted into creative strength." They say, too, that he has partaken of neither food nor water since January 2.

The dean looked thin and his face was drawn. But there was energy in his step, strength in his hand clasp and resonance in his voice. On his desks were notes respecting a radio sermon tonight and two sermons tomorrow.

Others may feel concerned for the dean's health, in fact, one doctor has said the churchman can live "only a few days." There is no hint of concern in either th dean's manner or his voice.

Jim Braddock Plots Comeback; Battles Farr On Tuesday

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—Jim Braddock, plotting another comeback over at Pompton Lakes, can't understand those who think he should hang up the gloves and live on the $150,000 he made from the heavyweight championship.

Just because Joe Louis knocked his noggin loose out at Chicago last summer is no reason, so far as the 32-year-old Jim can see, why he should retire. Jim thinks he's still much of a fighter, and he thinks he will lick the tar out of Tommy Farr next Friday night at the Garden.

"Why all this worry about my health?" he inquired after a strenuous eight-round training session. "If I remember correctly, both Louis and Schmeling have been knocked out in recent years, and nobody has said anything about their quitting."

Braddock is in earnest. He's been working hard for a month, and he looks in fighting trim. He's down to 197 pounds.

"I never felt better or was hitting sharper in my career," declared the ex-champ. "I think I can win from Farr. If he beats me, I'll know I'm through." Some of the boys who went out to the camp thought Jim looked a little old. At the same time, though, they admitted he showed a lot of zing when he chose to open now and then. His left hook is a beauty.

the court immediately after that date.

Since Justice Cardozo is gravely ill of a heart ailment, some persons in the capital believe he also will retire shortly and that the president thus will have an opportunity to make a third appointment. This would go a long way toward giving him the number of appointments he sought by his court reorganization bill. At the time that measure was proposed, it would have permitted the president to name six additional justices in event that incumbents past 70 years of age refused to retire.

Reed, a Democrat, never has held a judicial position. He has practiced law for many years, however, first privately in Kentucky and in the federal service since 1929, when Herbert Hoover appointed him counsel for the board.

Maurice C. Latta, executive clerk of the White House, arrived at the senate with the nomination shortly before noon.

Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz), of the senate judiciary committee, referred the nomination immediately to the following sub-committee for study: Senators Logan (D-Ky), chairman; King (D-Utah), Dietrich (D-Ill), McGill (D-Kan), Van Nuys (D-Ind), Borah (R-Idaho) and Norris (Ind-Neb).

Senator Minton (D-Ind) told reporters he understood the judiciary committee had intended to conduct public hearing on the nomination, regardless of the nominee's identity.

A demand that public hearings be conducted on all judicial nominations had been made recently by Senator Bridges (R-NH) as a result of the Black incident.

Expressions Of Approval Made On Choice Of Reed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — President Roosevelt's nomination of Solicitor General Stanley Reed to the Supreme court drew expressions of approval from many senators of both major parties today.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said the nomination was "a fitting climax to a distinguished career."

Republican Leader McNary of Oregon asserted that Reed is "qualified and his nomination is satisfactory to the senate."

From Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) came the comment that the nomination was excellent "in view of the circumstances." Vandenberg declined to elaborate on the word "circumstances."

Another Republican, Senator Townsend of Delaware said it was a "good nomination."

Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash) expressed the view the nomination was a more conservative one than that of Hugo L. Black.

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb), strong administration supporter and a member of the judiciary subcommittee appointed to study the nomination, said he "knew of no objection" to Reed.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho), another member of the subcommittee, expressed a similar view.

Senator Connally (D-Tex): "Mr. Reed is an able, accomplished lawyer of the conservative type."

Riggs To Meet Sabin In Finals Of Net Tourney At Biami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 15. (AP) Bobby Riggs of Chicago won to the finals of the Nautilus Tennis tournament today and will meet Wayne Sabin of Hollywood, Calif., tomorrow.

Young Riggs, the country's top-ranking player while Don Budge is abroad, crushed Elwood T. Cooke of Portland, Ore., ranked lowest at No. 28, in the semi-finals today, 6-3, 6-0, 6-3.

The doubles also reashed the final stage, Riggs and Sabin defeated the Miami university team of George Pero and Bill Hardie, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Wilmer Hines of Hollywood and Kovacs won a long duel with Cooke and Martin Buxy of Miami, 7-9, 7-5, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1. The doubles final also will be played tomorrow.

Two Miniature Criminals, "Tough As Boots And Not Much Higher," Are In County Jail

Guests of the county this week-end, but not of their own choice, were two miniature confessed law violators described as being "tough as boots and not much higher." Brothers, one is 9 years old, the other 6.

They were lodged in the county jail after officers nabbed them at a five-and-ten cent store late Friday when they assertedly took merchandise. They were found with two pencils a knife, and two tablets believed stolen from the store. Officers took charge of the little lawbreakers after a clerk grabbed them and they started screaming.

When questioned by Bill Mabray, police identifications officer, they told of taking two bicycles and other articles. One of the bicycles was taken from a residence and the other form a local hardware.

"I just got on it when it was in front of the store and rode it off," one of them told Mabray. "I rode it down the alley."

"Did you go straight down the alley?" Mabray asked.

"No I made several turns so they couldn't follow me."

The yougsters said they repainted the machine to avoid possible detection.

In the course of questinoing, the six-year-old suddenly remembered, jerked a ring off his finger, and said, "Here, I guess you want this. I got it at Kress'." Officers had not learned it was stolen.

The youngsters crawled into one bunk at the jail to spend the night. The next morning the first heard from them was crying and screams. The larger had been "picking on" the little one and his nose was bleeding. It had been skinned earlier.

When his cries brought Jailer "Big Jim" Robinson and other attaches of the office of Sheriff Tom Abel, they found the six-year-old, with a dampened towel massaging his "bloody nose."

Among the goods confessedly stolen were numerous toys, consisting of marbles, little banks, little cars, tops, and other miscellaneous attractions for small boys.

It was indicated by Chief Deputy Sheriff Jas. P. Posey the boys would go on trial before Juvenile Judge E. L. Pitts Monday.

The mother told officers the boys said the bicycles were given to them.

Filing Of Instruments Active Here During Past 15 Days

A survey made late Saturday showed that 452 instruments were filed in the first 15 days of the new year at the office of the county clerk. That compared with 278 for the same period of 1937, according to Ed D. Allen, clerk.

The increase of 174 amounted to approximately 64 per cent.

Other comparative figures from that office portray the increase in volume of business and a return of "better times," attaches of the office pointed out.

There was a decrease in filing of chattel mortgages from 699 in 1937 to 554 in 1938.

Of the 452 instruments filed in the first half of January, 141 were warranty deeds showing purchase of homes, farms, acreage, and other property.

His principal problem was to win support of socialists who demand a socialist premier since they have the largest single parliamentary representation.

Bonnet, finance minister in the retiring Chautemps government, earlier apparently was confident he could overcome the socialist opposition and weld a cabinet capable of dealing with France's labor and monetary troubles which contributed largely to resignation of the Chautemps government early Friday.

He declared he would press efforts for a code of social peace to pacify labor.

Texan Proposes That National Elections Be Held In October

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — Chairman Sumners (D-Tex) of the house judiciary committee advocated today that presidential elections be held in October instead of November.

October, he told the house in a speech "ought to be just as good a time to have an election and it would add 30 days to the period of time in which we could litigate any question which might arise in a contested election case."

Sumners favors an October election to permit more time to elapse between elections and presidential inaugurations, which was reduced two months when the inauguration date was switched from March 4 to Jan. 3.

Utilities Leader Urges Purchase

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth & Southern corp., proposed today the federal government purchase the corporation's utility operating companies in the Tennessee valley.

The power executive, in a prepared statment, said his suggestion was made "as a last resort in a desperate situation."

Recommends Aribtraters

He recommended the government acquire the properties at a price to be fixed by negotiation or to be determined by three arbitraters—one to be named by the president, one by the Supreme court and one by the utilities.

Willkie's proposal was in response to President Roosevelt's declaration of policy on utilities in his Friday press conference, in which the president said he would move for the elimination of holding companies from the nation's economic structure.

Would Destroy Investments

"If the municipalities should buy the distribution systems of operating utilities, as the president proposes, but not the generation and transmission facilities,' said Willkie, "the major portion of the American people's investment in these operating utilities will be destroyed.

"In view of the seriousness of this situation, those who are charged with a responsibility to the people who have invested money in their business must now consider what proposal can be offered in order to save as much of that investment as possible."

Wilkie contended the TVA development in conjunction with federal grants to municipalities in the TVA area for municipal power properties created conditions in which the investments which so many American people had placed in good faith in the operating utilities will be very seriously impaired."

High sources indicated the economic ministry, headed by Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, soon would have a special office charged with liquidating the Jew in economic life.

A decree is ready for promulgation whereby Jewish department stores must close or be taken over by aryans. Jews no longer could engage in realestat business or acquire property. What would be done about real estate now Jewish owned was not revealed.

A number of Jewish banks recently have closed, or are being sold.

FDR Followed Old Log Cabin Tradition On Modernized Lines In Picking Reed

New Justice Is Bear For Work

y NEA Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 15.—When President Roosevelt named Solicitor General Stanley Reed to the Supreme court he appointed a Kentucky lawyer who, like Lincoln, emerged from a sturdy, weather-beaten log cabin home. And like Lincoln's, Reed's cabin is in Kentucky. But there the resemblance ends.

Lincoln's cabin was an expedient of nature, Reed's is a case of taste for simplicity and early American surroundings. Reed's cabin is a several-roomed log and stone structure, sturdy and framed by trees, modernized and picturesque. It was erected before the Civil war and is reached by a corkscrew road up a mountain ovelooking Maysville and the Ohio river.

Portly, pince-nezzed Reed was runner-up on the president's appointee list when Justice Willis Van Devanter resigned.

A Staggering Job

The crisis of the banking emergency in 1933 first thrust Reed into the front in the Roosevelt counsels. For several years Reed was attorney for the old Hoover farm board and in 1932 he became general counsel for the RFC under Hoover. Few men were so intimately acquainted with the legal intricacies of federal banking and finance as was Reed. Mr. Roosevelt turned to him and Reed served the President ably as a legal expert during and after that historic bank holiday.

He was slated for a federal judgeship in Kentucky when the president decided he should be solicitor general. Reed accepted and thereby plunged himself into a staggering job—the defense of New Deal laws before the U. S. Supreme court.

No Gestures, No Show

His arguments have indicated definite liberalism along with a desire to fit New Deal laws into reasonable constitutional limitations. He has argued the gold clause case, the AAA, the Wagner Act and many other cases, recently with conspicuous success.

No man, except the president, perhaps, has borne a greater strain in the last two years. On the day, for instance, that he appeared before the U. S. Supreme court to defend the AAA, Reed also argued for the Bankhead cotton law.

At 2:30 p. m. Chief Justice Hughes called for the case of "U. S. vs. Hoosac Mills." Up rose Reed, colorless, competent, beginning in monotone a defense of the Agricultural Adjustment act. No flowers. No showy stuff. No gestures.

Next day, handsome, tremulous-voiced George Wharton Pepper answered, attacking the power of Congress to pass such an act. Vibrant, gesturing, he closed: "I am pleading the cause for the America I love, and I pray Almighty God that not in my time will the land of the regimented be substituting for the land of the free!"

But Not Emotionless

Reed rose again, pompous in aspect but not in manner. He said he was just as emotional as Pepper. He told about unfair disadvantage to "30,000,000 farm men, women and children."

Then his arms waved. He showed that emotion.

"General welfare . . . This is no regimentation!" he shouted, holding the Court's attention closely to the close of his argument.

Government lawyers, previously critical of Reed for his lack of force, were delighted.

Later that day, arguing for the Bankhead Cotton act, Reed collapsed. McReynolds and others had pressed him on a technical issue. The strain of it all, especially the AAA, burst suddenly on the solicitor general and he fainted.

Poor Politician

Stanley Reed is the poorest politician and the best lawyer ever to come out of Mason county, his Kentucky neighbors agree. They remember him when he first hung out his shingle in Maysville in 1910.

Reed was the only son of a country doctor and was born on December 31, 1884, in Maysville. He graduated with A. B. degrees both from Kentucky Wesleyan, 1902 and Yale, 1906, winning there the coveted Bennett prize. He studied law at the University of Virginia, at Columbia and spent a year at the Sorbonne, University of Paris.

Doesn't Toot Own Horn

Reed, a Democrat, served in the Kentucky legislature from 1912—16, was first lieutenant in the army in 1918, and in 1922 became counsel for the new Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Marketing Association. For five years under Reed's leadership the association sold five record crops at record prices.

In this work he had become associated with the Federal Farm board, becoming general counsel under Hoover and in 1932 general counsel for the newly-created RFC.

Mason county boasts of Reed as its best lawyer. He is a quiet public servant and not an agitating one, says J. N. Kehoe, president of the Bank of Maysville.

Reed married Winifred Elgin of Maysville in 1908. They have two grown sons.

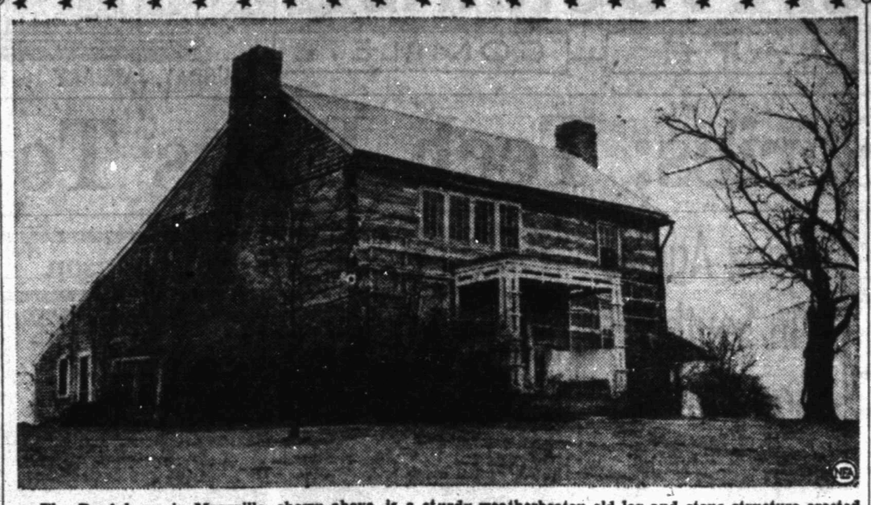

Bids To Be Opened Friday On Construction Of REA Project

Officers and directors of South Plains Electric Co-operative, Inc., will open bids Friday on construction of approximately 108 miles of high line. Opening will be in the office of the co-operative, in the basement of the court house.

W. M. Ross is president and Charles Fagg, superintendent, of the co-op. Present setup includes about 330 customers.

TO BUILD SPADE CHURCH

LITTLEFIELD. (Special) — Plans are being made by members of the Spade Methodist church to build a new structure. The present one will be torn down, in March.

The Reed home in Maysville, shown above, is a sturdy weatherbeaten old log and stone structure erected before the Civil War. It is reached by a corkscrew road up a mountain overlooking the town and the Ohio river.

Reed married Winifred Elgin of Maysville, in 1918. The two are shown above examining the pictures of their two sons on a mantel in their home. Reflections of Mr. and Mrs. Reed may be seen in the mirror.

Rufe Davis, Sound Effects Man Of Movies, Is Visitor In Lubbock Friday And Saturday

By MARY HOWELL

"DON'T look now, but that man in the brown suit by the counter is Rufe Davis, the imitator who played in 'Mountain Music' with Bob Burns," was a part of the conversations that took place Friday and Saturday when the sound effects man and imitator of Hollywood visited Lubbock and Texas Technological college campus.

Davis was visiting his brother, Bernie Davidson, sophomore engineering student at Tech. He appeared between halves Friday night at the Tech-New Mexico basketball game and again at a dance sponsored by the Men's dormitory association. He left late Saturday afternoon on his way to Hollywood where he will begin work on a new Paramount picture on Jan. 31.

In Picture At Palace

Curious students and townpeople gathered in a College avenue drug store, where Davis' brother is employed to see the movie star. Davis plays a comedian role in "This Way Please" that will be shown at the Palace Thursday.

At the basketball game Friday night Davis gave imitations of a stalled motor boat and an airplane crackup. The movie star was interrupted during the game by autograph seekers, mostly members of the Kiwanis Knot-Hole gang. Some of them requested as many as five signatures of the imitator.

The 29 years old, mimic has played in vaudeville for nine years and has appeared in "Blossoms on Broadway" and in "Dr. Rhythm," besides the show with Bob Burns and the one at the Palace this week. Several "shorts" have featured Davis in recent years.

Davis has appeared on two national hookup programs. He entertained for several weeks on the Magic Key program.

Texas Tech students "went wild" almost Friday night when they learned that Davis was to be featured during the floor show. He sang "Mama Don't Allow No Music In Here," gave imitations, and signed autographs for students at the dance.

Mangum, Okla., is the home town of Davis where he played football for three years.

Praises Bob Burns

Resembling a typical American business man, Davis discussed movie stars with almost everyone he met. He termed Martha Raye as a "pretty nice girl," and Bob Burns is "one of the swellest fellows that I have ever known," he said. He referred to the "real" stars of Hollywood as being "just regular fellows." Slightly bashful and laconic, Davis can talk in a bass voice and change promptly to a falsetto conversation. He still likes his motor boat imitation that he did in "Mountain Music" as well as anything that he can do and he goes into contortions when he does it.

Davis seemed interested in the welfare of his brother and told him "to quit studying and working so hard." He visited in Lubbock last summer for a few hours.

Crosby Farm Costing $4,000 Produces One Crop Worth $10,000

LORENZO, Jan. 15.—(Special)—Ten thousand dollars worth of cotton in one year from a quarter section of land that cost him about $4,000 is the record which Albert Lockwood has made on a farm in the Robertson community, south of here.

There were 150 acres planted to cotton, 75 on first-year sod land and 75 on second-year sod. No extra cultivation methods were used.

Lockwood has already ginned 106,242 pounds of lint cotton, or over 213 bales of 500 pounds each. He averaged around $40 a bale. There is said to be five or six bales left in the field, that may be picked.

Her Work A Real Pleasure Feeling As She Does Today

Gly-Cas Again Unfailing; Lady Now Eats and Sleeps Fine, Dizziness Gone, Neuritis Pains Ended

"Anyone who suffers as I did will be glad to learn of Gly-Cas," said Mrs. Lillian Smith, Monroe Hotel, Monroe, Louisiana. "After every meal I ate I was sure to suffer terribly with indigestion. I was badly constipated, often had dizzy spells until I could hardly get about and my entire system became clogged with poisons. Neuritis developed and settled in my shoulders and back and the sharp stabbing pains were almost more than I could endure at times. I was hindered greatly in my work, was very nervous and could not sleep at night. I actually gave up hope of getting well—but finally I began Gly-Cas and my health troubles were soon at an end.

MRS. LILLIAN SMITH

"Little did I realize a medicine as remarkable as this new Gly-Cas had been discovered," continued Mrs. Smith. "I had taken many remedies to get relief but met only with repeated failure until I began Gly-Cas. My stomach and bowels were regulated, the dizzy spells soon left me and soon the neuritis pains began to disappear. I can now eat and sleep fine, suffer no ill effects after eating and cannot say half enough for praising a medicine like this new Gly-Cas. It is the first medicine that I have ever taken which did not disappoint me."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Sawyer, who has operated the establishment several years, said that his own future plans are indefinite.

Reminder that a dog catcher has been assigned to duty this year earlier than usual and that dogs must be licensed and vaccinated against rabies was given Saturday by W. W. Stafford, city sanitation superintendent. He added that several dogs are being rounded up daily and most of them have been destroyed because they were unclaimed. Owners of those who claimed their pets were required to pay pound fees additional to license and vaccination costs. The drive has been started earlier than usual this year, Stafford explained, in an effort to forestall the several threatened rabies epidemics for which stray dogs were blamed last year.

Lubbock Sweeps Amarillo Series; Tech Bows To Loboes

Westerners Are Hard Pressed To Win 35-33

Lubbock ran into more trouble than was expected last night, but had enough energy and points in reserve to eke out a 35 to 33 victory over Amarillo in an exciting fracas at Senior High gymnasium. It swept a two-game series for Lubbock.

L. D. Venable was mainstay of the Westerner attack that overcame a 20-17 advantage the Sandies held at the halfway mark. He banged away at the net for 15 tallies on seven field goals and a free throw.

Starters Stay In Game

Winfield was big gun for the visitors with five field goals and a brace of gifts for 12 markers. Every man in the game scored at least one goal from the field, with Mauldin being only substitute for either team. Coach J. G. "Goober" Keyes left his starting five in the contest to the finish.

Never were more than eight points between scores of the two teams. That was an advantage the Westerners held early in the final period, but it dwindled to an anxious stage before the end.

Adds Climax Shot

Lubbock played a stalling game during the last three minutes to protect a four-point margin. The Sandies were somewhat bewildered by the Westerners' balking, but Winfield put a perfect climax to scoring activities by letting fly a two-pointer just as the final whistle blew. It fell short of tying the count by two points.

Moore drew first blood for the Sandies with a shot from the court. Ford duplicated it, then Rice and Winfield caged a field goal each after the former had missed a free throw.

Venable then knotted the count at 6-all with a righthander then a southpaw heave from each side of the basket. Martin dropped in a pair of two-pointers, Robert Allen bagged one and Kelly sank one for a first quarter lead of 12 to 8 for the visitors.

Venable made good another long one from the right side, then cashed in on a charity toss. Dutchy Cawthon put Lubbock in front with a field goal, but the Sandies made seven points before Allen dropped another through the hoop. A free throw by Winfield and a field goal by Henry Ford left the Sandies in with a 20-17 lead at the intermission.

Westerners Take Lead

Allen found the range for a brace of field goals to start the second half, but those were matched by Rice and Moore. Then Venable limbered up his good left hand to drop in three counters. The Westerners were never headed from there.

After Winfield's free throw, Cawthon and Venable registered crip shots in quick succession, with Parsons getting another to start fourth-quarter play. The eight-point lead looked good for the moment, but three points by Moore and two by Winfield narrowed the gap.

Two free throws by Ford ended Lubbock scoring, while Winfield sank a field goal in addition to his climax shot.

Coach Walker Nichols' Cowhands handed Fred Rich's Cooper High lads a 33-16 licking after the main attraction. Jerry Nash bagged 12 points to pace the locals. James Merriman had 8 and Clifton Hill six for the night's work.

Crowd Of 10,000 Is Expected For All-Star Tilt At Houston

HOUSTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—A crowd of 10,000 is expected tomorrow to see the Chicago Bears, western professional champions meet a group of all-star football players headed by Cecil Isbell, Purdue star.

Last year the Bears eked out a 10-7 victory over an All-Star team composed of Southwestern conference players who had completed their college careers.

Playing with the all-stars will be Gaynell Tinsley, Lon Evans, Bill Lee, Primo Miller, Pat Coffee, Joe Routt, All-American guard and a group of other athletes who distinguished themselves both in college and professional football.

TOURNEY AT SOUTHLAND

SOUTHLAND, Jan. 15. (Special) Junior high school basketball teams of this section will hold a tournament here Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Henry H. Mohrmann, jr., coach, is in charge.

Frenship, Post, Graham, Pleasant Valley, Slaton, Close City and Southland teams have entered.

Golden Gloves City Champs To Be Determined Monday

Wearers of Golden Gloves championship spangles will be determined tomorrow night at the Auditroum when sixteen finalists in the City Golden Gloves tournament battle it out for titles and trophies in eight weight classes.

The starting time is 8 o'clock, instead of 7:30.

Having "caught on" so nicely last Monday night when nearly 40 young amateurs battled through 19 preliminary bouts, Golden Gloves activity in the Lubbock district is expected to draw an even larger crowd than that which cheered at the Auditorium last week.

Ticket Sale Growing

The advance ticket sale, somewhat larger than at this time last week, is indicative that Golden Gloves "took," and that last Monday night's fans are coming back. The tickets may be purchased today at the Hilton Hotel desk and Hotel Lubbock drugstore, and up to noon tomorrow at these places and at Sam Rosenthal's Hub Clothiers. Ringside seats are priced at $1.10 each, with men's general admission going at 75 cents, women's and children's, 40 cents. All prices include taxes which Uncle Sam's T-men exact of all sports events.

In addition to the eight finals tomorrow night, Director Coffey has arranged several exhibition bouts, the exact number of which may not be known until boxers meet at the Auditorium Monday afternoon at 4:30 for weighing in and medical examinations.

All fighters entered in the City finals and those matched for the exhibitions, and those willing to compete in exhibitions, provided they are known to possess ability for this type of card, are to meet at the Auditorium at 4:30 Monday, as was the case last week. Dr. Steve Marshall, Lubbock Sanitarium attache, the official Golden Gloves physician, will be on hand to conduct medical examinations. Each boxer must pass a rigid physical test before he is allowed to fight.

The lineup for championship bouts tomorrow night:

112-pound class—Bennie Moore of Brownfield vs. Rudy Russell of Crowell and Texas Tech.

118-pound class—Fred Pendleton of Wilson vs. J. C. Followill of Lubbock.

126-pound class—Tommy Coats of Seagraves and Texas Tech vs. Wayne Penn of Lubbock.

135-pound class—Jack Lovin, Lubbock, vs. Pete Nachlinger, Hermleigh and Texas Tech.

147-pound class—Buck Gregory, Texas Tech, vs. Clarence Little, Lorenzo.

160-pound class—Ed Morrison, Colorado and Texas Tech, vs. Yeats Causey, Ballinger and Texas Tech.

175-pound class—Bob Ritchie, Lubbock, vs. Albert Wuensche, Wilson.

Heavyweight class—Bob Bryant, Olton and Texas Tech, vs. Babe Ritchie, Lubbock.

Monday night's finals will show scrappers in two divisions which were not demonstrated last week—the bantamweight and heavyweight. Lewis Terrell, who won the district and state bantam title last year, is not defending his title, and only two others were listed in the division. Only two heavyweights reported for the city tournament, Babe Ritchie, who won district and state titles last year, is expected to find tough competition in Bob Bryant, 220-pound footballer of Texas Tech.

Five exhibition bouts have been definitely arranged. The following cards are anticipated:

Darrell Carpenter, Lubbock, vs. Melvin Reed, Ralls, flyweights.

Slim Thetford, Texas Tech vs. Tom Copeland, Texas Tech, middleweights.

Charles Gardner, Texas Tech, vs. Odell Justice, Texas Tech, welters.

Cloys Mapes, Texas Tech, vs. Robert Parks, Lubbock, flyweights.

Pat Gary, O'Donnell, vs. Thomas Payne, Lubbock, flyweights.

Other exhibitions may be arranged Monday.

Gabby Hartnett Has That Old Feeling

CHICAGO, Jan. 15. (AP) — Gabby Hartnett has "that old feeling"—bad.

The Chicago Cub's star catcher, bubbling over with enthusiasm about the Cub's chances in the 1938 National league race, is fairly itching to head West to Catalina islands and spring training. He'll be starting his 17th season in the major leagues—all as a Cub—and he declares he has more pep now than when broke into organized baseball back in Worchester, Mass., of the Eastern league.

"After the 1937 season I went on a hunting trip to Montana," he said. "Then for the last couple months I've been bowling five days a week, most all afternoon. But shucks, I've got enough rest and I'm itching to start West and get that old glove on again."

There's only one thing worrying the ace backstop who has caught more than 100 games a season for 12 straight campaigns. He's afraid his boss, P. K. Wrigley, won't let him try to catch that many again in 1938. Wrigley has intimated that the loquacious receiver may be called on to do more "master minding" and less catching next summer.

Baseball Plans Continue

By Collier Parris

ATTENTION IS DIRECTED once more to Golden Gloves activity, second spasm of which is coming up for your entertainment and approval tomorrow night at the auditorium.

Starting time tomorrow night will be 8 o'clock, instead of 7:30.

Eight City championships are to be decided, and to fill out the program Director Milt Coffey has arranged several classy exhibition bouts. The show should be better than last week's, and that one was the best amateur boxing card ever conducted in this district.

Baseball Magnates To Meet Here

LUBBOCK GETS back into the baseball picture, temporarily at least, and perhaps permanently, when magnates, moguls and managers of West Texas-New Mexico league clubs and prospective members gather at the Hilton Hotel here on Sunday, January 30.

A letter comes from Milton Price, secretary of the Texas League and president of the West Texas-New Mexico League, announcing Lubbock has been selected as the site of the annual league meeting. All member clubs, and representatives of towns likely to enter, will be notified to have delegates here.

Lubbock will answer in the affirmative when called upon to state whether it is ready to become a member. Bob Tarleton, the Dallas Steer magnate, who also supervised the Chicago White Sox farm system, probably will be here to represent Lubbock and give the okay to Lubbock's entry. The Steers will operate the club in Lubbock this season, provided other plans go through.

In his letter, Mr. Price says:

"The 'state of the league' for 1938 is roughly:

"Wink is ready to go. They have a fine local organization, a good baseball plant, equipped for night play. As you know, they won the pennant last season, sold the contracts of five or six players to higher classification.

"The Hobbs franchise and players under Fincher Withers will move to Midland. The Monahans franchise and players will go into Big Spring, according to present plans. Roswell will resume operations where they left off last year.

I understand Clovis has made considerable preparation looking to entry this season. I have had inquiries from San Angelo and Odessa. You will recall Odessa, with only a few days in which to prepare, started last year. San Angelo was not contacted last year, as the center of the territory was considerably farther west.

"I believe it is the opinion of the present members that a six-club league composed of Wink, Midland, Big Spring, Roswell, Clovis and Lubbock would be an excellent setup. Naturally, if two other towns should apply and present formidable evidence of their ability to proceed as members, there is no barrier in mind or fact, that I know of, to prevent enlargement to eight members."

THE burden, then, seems to rest on Clovis, and from what Tarleton told Sam Rosenthal and your reporter last Sunday, Clovis is hot and ready to come in. Here's hoping the New Mexico city does come through. It would be a fine natural rival for Lubbock.

Interesting, too, is the indication from San Angelo. With that town in the league, the set-up would compare favorably with any Class D league in the country, from the standpoint of city population.

Red Ramsey Battles Pros Today

WITHOUT much ballyhoo reaching this section, Houston is throwing a football game today.

Southwestern All-Stars are playing the Chicago Bears of the professional league.

And on the All-Star squad is Texas Tech's Red Ramsey, captain and end of the Red Raiders and certainly one of the stand-out wingmen anywhere. Red has kept himself in shape by working out and playing with the Red Raider cagers.

So we'll have our eyes on Houston today, and hoping old Red shows 'em a thing or two about playing end.

Polo League For Texas And New Mexico Is Favored

Organization of a West Texas-New Mexico polo association sometime before March has elicited favorable comment from players of the two sections, said R. H. Hester, Lubbock banker and malleteer.

Hester said players had expressed favor of an elimination process whereby teams would play each other as many times as possible.

A meeting probably will be called for organization purposes here.

Lubbock's polo club proposes to play no games before March.

E-TEX LOOP MANAGER MOVES

PALESTINE, Jan. 15. (AP)—Bobby Goff, manager of the Palestine Pals of the East Texas League in 1934-36 and pilot of the Lafayette club of the Evangeline League last season, has signed a contract to manage the Johnstown, Pa., club of the Middle Atlantic league, it was learned here today.

Steers, Aggies Win Southwest Cage Battles

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Jan. 15. — The University of Texas Longhorns cut down the helpless TCU Horned Frogs 93-18 here tonight.

The Purple team put up a poor exhibition and was no match for the hustling Steers at any point in the proceedings.

Led by Willie Tate, the John Tarleton graduate, the Orange moved into an early lead at 12-6 after ten minutes. The score mounted steadily for the visitors and at the half was 19-11.

The Frogs played a very ladylike game in the first 20 minutes, getting only one foul just before the rest period. They came back a little tougher in the second half but Texas took advantage of the situation, caging six free buckets in a row.

Steers Whiz By

Playing a slow, deliberate game the Steers took advantage of their opportunities and dribbled in time after time for easy crips. It was just a question of how big the score would be as the befuddled Frogs watched the Steers whiz by.

Tate and Tommy Nelms, a soph guard, led the scoring, Tate with 12 points and Nelms 13. Woodrow Duckworth, a soph from Vernon, was the only Frog who could hit the side of the gym. He made eight points.

Texas Aggies Upset Owls In Exciting 45-39 Contest

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 15. (AP) The Aggies flashed a strong second half attack to upset Rice 45 to 39 tonight in a fast basketball game before a crowd of 3,300 persons.

Trailing 20-24 at the half, the Aggies tied the score within five minutes, built up a ten-point, 41-31 lead with five minutes to go and then stalled while the Owls generated a vain rally.

Until the Aggies' splurge, however, the score had been tied five times, the lead had switched seven times and neither team had led by more than four points.

Jimmy Clark's one-handed shots from the Aggie forward post brought him 16 points. However, the Aggies' winning rally was sparked by Capt. Buddy Harris and Louie Freiberger, they scored 15 of the Aggies' 25 second half markers.

Mike Seale, guard, led Rice with 12 points.

Both clubs started fast again in the second half, the score being tied 28-28 and 29-29 within the first five minutes before the Aggies, switching into a slow breaking attack, gradually began drawing ahead.

The Owls crawled within five points with one minute to go, but Sammy Dwyer goaled for the Aggies to more than offset Seale's free throw in the final ten seconds.

Sam Baugh Leads Washington In West Coast Game Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15. (AP)—Professional football invades this stronghold of collegiate pigskin rivalry tomorrow in a game bringing together the championship Washington Redskins and a picked team known as the Pacific Coast All-Stars.

Sammy Baugh, one of the greatest passers the game has known will spark the Redskins attack. His rifling shots helped his team win the national professional title and it will be an overwhelming favorite to take the measure of the all-star eleven.

New Mexico In Shooting Form To Split Even

Slumping almost into the form which they had become accustomed before the preceding two games, Texas Tech's Matador cagers allowed the out-hustling, but not so capable, Loboes of University of New Mexico to take a 41 to 31 victory last night and break even in the Border conference series at the Tech gym.

Whereas they battled bravely and shot valiantly the night before, ringing 23 field goals and four free shots for 50 points and a 50-40 victory over the Loboes, the Raiders last night elected to play their opponents instead of the ball, and shoot wildly at the backboard instead of the iron hoop.

Friday Speed Missing

The speed and color that marked Friday night's game a basketball spectacle like unto those seldom seen in these parts were missing last night. The New Mexicans settled down to a steady passing and shooting game, although mixing freely in the "bodily contact" department. They had eyes for the basket, and took few long chances. The Techs, starting fairly well, looked good for the first ten minutes, then seemed to be gripped with the big jitters.

A dozen personal fouls were called against the Loboes last night, eight against the Red Raiders, which compared with the total of 13 personals called Friday night, indicates to a certain extent the style of defense employed by both clubs. Officials Eddie Hambright and Jim Neely, however, kept things well under control, calling fouls when they needed most to be called. No play was banished. It was not an unusually rough game.

The Raiders, toward the finish, were suckers for the court-length passes which found Chief Saenz, short, chunky spearhead of the Lobo attack and one of the smoothest players seen here, on the receiving end. Four times in the last half Loboes would take the ball off the Tech backboard, fling it the distance of the court to Saenz, who was usually guarded under his own goal. It was a simple matter for him to lay in "crip" shots.

Seery Shoots 'Em

Godding, the other Lobo forward, and Seery, a guard, were other leading scorers for the invaders. Seery's long shots in the first half accounted for eight points. He was not scoreless in the second half, playing less than half of it. Saenz, with six field goals, led individual scorers, with Godding next with eleven points.

The Tech scoring aces, John Henderson and Thel Garrison, failed to get going. They were well covered by the Lobo defense. Henderson with three field goals and a couple of gratis shots, led Tech's scoring. Captain Paul Morris, industrious guard, made three field goals and one free shot, two of his field goals long ones, adding to the color of the game. Rex Williams, rangy guard, again turned in a nice defensive game, although well covered in the last half.

The Loboes scored first when Godding dropped in a free shot. Henderson fouling shortly after the tip-off. Seery followed with a field goal, before Garrison looped a long goal for Tech. Saenz duplicated Garrison's long shot, and New Mexico led 5-2.

Tech Takes Lead

Tech went ahead then with Henderson making two field goals and Tarbox one. Seery scored again for the Loboes, but Rex Williams made it 10 to 7 for Tech with a nice field goal. Godding made two shots then to tie the score, a field goal and a free shot, after which the Loboes drew ahead with field goals by Seery and Lopez. The latter made a free shot, fellowed by field goals by Truman Neal and Garrison, and New Mexico led at the half, 17 to 14.

The score shot to 22-14 soon after the second half opened, Henley and Godding scoring. Morris made the first of his long shots then, but Godding made another for New Mexico. Henderson and Neal added three points, and the scoring see-sawed for a few minutes, ending 32-25 for the Loboes before Saenz made the first of four successive field goals on "sucker plays."

Tech tried to rally toward the last but scored but six points, which left ten short.

King Carl Hubbell Again First To Sign Contract

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The signed contract of Carl Owen Hubbell arrived in the New York Giants' office today from Oklahoma.

Even the fact that this year, with a salary estimated at $24,000, he will be the highest-paid pitcher in baseball made no difference to the mild man from Meeker. He just looked at the contract, which gives him an increase of about $1,500, nodded his head and scrawled his name wherever an "X" indicated "sign here."

This is the third time in a row that King Carl has been the first of Bill Terry's hirelings to accept terms.

On his record he deserves to be the big leagues' top-salaried pitcher. His 22 victories and eight defeats for .733 led the National League last season.

Easy The Top Man

In addition, at the start of the year he won eight straight to run his consecutive-victory streak, begun with his last sixteen games in 1936, to 24. That topped by four Rube Marquard's performance in 1911-1912. Marquard's string of nineteen straight triumphs in 1912 still is the record for one season.

Hub's showing—he pitched a beautiful six-hitter to give the Giants their lone World Series victory over the Yankees—combined with the activities of two of baseball's stormier petrels to make him top man among the pitchers this season.

Dizzy Dean, after an indifferent year, already has gone on record as refusing to be cut from $25,000, highest 1937 pitching pay, to $10,000 by the St. Louis Cardinals. The Yanks' Lefty Gomez, his wages sliced after a poor year in 1936, probably will return to the $20,000 class after a fine comeback that helped the American Leaguers to the world championship. But his salary figure isn't expected to match Hubbell's.

Opposite To Holdout

Hubbell signs contracts with the same free-and-easy motion with which he baffles opposing hitters—and at least once his signing was equally baffling.

That was the year the late Charles A. Stoneham sent him a blank contract and told him to write his own ticket. Hubbell filled in what he thought was a proper figure.

Stonham was shocked—but only by Hub's modesty. He tore up the contract and made out another himself for $1,500 more than King Carlos had deemed sufficient.

SEXTETS TO LAMESA

LAMESA, Jan. 15. (Special) — Eleventh annual girl's basketball tournament will be held in the high school gymnasium Saturday.

Nine teams have entered: Post, Seagraves, O'Donnell, Klondike, Courtney, Fairview, Ackerly, Union and Lamesa. Seven more are expected.

F. T. McCollum, principal and coach and J. H. Norris, girl's coach, are in charge.

Decision Is Expected Today On Franchise

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 15. (AP) —Henry A. O'Neal, chairman of a citizens committee appointed to raise funds for the purchase of the Galveston, Texas league, baseball franchise for Shreveport, said he will announce a decision tomorrow on the verbal option this city holds to buy the Buccaneers.

O'Neal, president of the chamber of commerce, said there will be no meeting of the committee but individual members will report to him on the sale of stock. If a sum sufficient to purchase the franchise, erect a grand stand and install lights, is subscribed, O'Neal will notify J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league, that Shreveport is ready to close the deal.

The committee was handicapped today in its stock solicitations due to business interest enjoying a half-holiday and many persons known to be interested in the purchase of the Texas league franchise being out of the city.

Hunting Season Closes Today

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—The setting of tomorrow's sun will end the last of Texas' big fall and winter hunting seasons, that on quail.

Will J. Tucker, executice secretary of the state game department, said today hunting generally was the best in many years. From the business man's viewpoint it was equally successful, he said, with an estimated 500,000 nimrods spending around $25,000,000 on purchases incident to their excursions in search of game.

Hunt Since Sept.

Since September 1, Texans have banged away at mourning and white-winged doves, white-tail and mule deer, wild turkeys, ducks, geese and the bobwhite in succession.

After tomorrow sportsmen will turn to the rod and reel for a few weeks more of recreation before the general closed season on bass and crappie becomes effective March 1. In many counties special laws differing from the general laws govern fishing.

During the state's best deer season in five years or more, Tucker estimated about 30,000 bucks were killed legally. Turkey gobbler shooting also was splendid over most of the turkey range, but in some parts drouth conditions had considerably reduced the supply. The deer and turkey seasons closed Dec. 31.

Meanwhile, the migratory waterfowl season had opened Nov. 27. Thousands of ducks and geese, more abundant than in several years because of stringent federal restrictions, flocked over Texas lakes and streams and concentrated along the Gulf coast.

Jap And Moran Don Jackets On Wednesday Night Rassle Card

Jackets!

Tetsura Higami, professor of the sleep hold in these parts, claims Sailor Moran can not repeat his victory of last week when they meet with jackets Wednesday night on the main event at the Auditorium.

Add to that, the strangle hold is not barred and contestants are allowed to use their closed fists. All in all it may get pretty rough. Jackets, it might be added, in case you are getting hazy on mat terms, are midthigh-length canvas affairs that fasten around the body.

A fall under the system ends when a combatant concedes victory, or the referee decides he is unable to concede or compete further. It is hard to foul under such circumstances as those.

Otis Clingman makes his second appearance here after an absence of more than two years, meeting the Teuton, Otto Ludwig, in the semi-final engagement. Clingman showed signs of his old-time form here last week.

Alabama Bill Venable takes on Cy Mackey in the opener. He also looked good enough Wednesday night, but the Clovis Cyclone may give him plenty to think about.

HESTER TO PLAY

R. H. Hester, Lubbock banker, will go to Lamesa today to play in an all-Lamesa polo game in which will be pitted the A and B clubs. He will take three horses.

Ask The Master Psychologist

How to obtain Love, Happiness, Success, being loved and admired for yourself alone, capturing the hearts and friendship of all about you, can bring you more happiness than all the jewels and fine clothes you could wear . . than all the wealth you could spend in a lifetime. Without friendship and love, life would not be worth living, for admiration and affection are the breath and heart beat of all human happiness. Within you is a power that controls your destiny. It is in every woman and man, but few discover it. Those who do are blessed with the key to Life's Happiness. With all my heart I urge you to bring forth this innate charm that is yours. Develop it, and you will attract to yourself those things that make life worth while. You are helpless in the hands of women who have learned how to use their hidden powers of attraction. You have these powers. You can discover and develop them and swiftly make yourself irresistible to men . . even in competition with women far more attractive-looking. You can win and hold the love of the one you want. So if in doubt, ask the man who knows.

ARMAMENT SHARES IN RALLY

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—Revived demand for armament shares touched off a rally in today's brief stock market that lifted selected industrials 1 to more than 4 points at the best. Profit realizing cut extreme gains near the close.

Spurring the upturn, brokers said, was considerable short covering by speculators who desired to adjourn to neutral territory pending the delivery to congress next week of President Roosevelt's message on national defenses which is expected to stress substantial army and navy expansion.

It was the second week in which the list scored net gains. For the six days the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 1.3 points. For the two-hour proceedings the gain was .9 of a point at 47.9.

Transfers amounted to 737,810 shares compared with 779,010 last Saturday.

Dickens Highway Work Is Pushed

(Special To Avalanche-Journal)

DICKENS, Jan. 15.—Two important factors are being realized in conjunction with highway construction in this section.

Letting of a drainage contract in the scenic Croton brakes to improve 9.1 miles east of Dickens on highway 24 will assure an all-weather road over the unpaved sector in Dickens and King counties and allow much faster and more comfortable traffic over the shortest South Plains to Fort Worth route.

At the same time, proposed paving of the 20 miles untopped in Dickens county, possibly in 1939, at which time it is hoped to pave the 30 miles on that road in King county would give Dickens a "fan" system of roads, all paved, a north-south and an east-west road. Highway 18 leads north to Matador and south to Spur, Jayton, Aspermont, and Stamford. The west path of highway 24 goes to Lubbock, the east route to Guthrie, Seymour and on to Fort Worth.

Further significance had been seen recently when it was announced 13 miles of paved construction had been assured in Hockley county, west of Levelland and joining the paved road in Cochran county to the New Mexico line. New Mexico had indicated plans to pave the road from the juncture with Cochran county into Elida, N. M., which then would assure traffic from Fort Worth, Dallas and intermediate points to the South Plains and westeward a paved route to Carlsbad caverns.

To Build 26 Bridges

The 9.1 miles in Dickens county contracted and on which work has begun begins at the courthouse. So steep are the grades, so numerous the curves, and necessity for building approximately five major bridges and 21 smaller ones, the project was awarded for $177,000.

Culverts and bridges are being put in, completion of which will allow of faster dirt work.

County Judge Marshall Formby said the work order was dated Dec. 17 and allowed 200 working days for completion.

Approximately $300,000 has been spent in Dickens county for such construction within the past 12 months, said Judge Formby.

Warm Weather Is Causing Concern; Moisture Needed

"June in January" temperatures of the past week have caused "concern" to some fruit growers lest trees bud and bearing prospects be nipped by frost, said Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment sub-station east of Lubbock.

"January seasonally is expected to bring cold weather," said Jones.

When he was speaking persons on the streets were moving about without coats, many having collars loosened and sleeves rolled.

Moisture is needed in some areas of the county, as well, said Jones, explaining that "recent snow, where it fell, did much good, but the north, northeast and west portions received much less than the southwest."

Saturday's high was 75 degrees and the minimum mean for the three days beginning with Thursday was 68 degrees, figures from main line station of West Texas Gas company showed.

County Interscholastic League Officials Plan For Contest

Marked Improvement Is Noted In Injured Man's Condition

Marked improvement was reported Saturday in the condition of Joe Burch, 28, itinerant oil field worker of Lusk, Ore., who was injured early Thursday night when struck, according to the report of police, by a motor vehicle operated by Merle Brown, CCC camp enrollee.

Commanding officer of the CCC camp here refused all information concerning the accident Saturday, declining to say what, if any, official actions may have been taken or any investigations made in connection. Brown was quoted by police as having reported, however, that the man was struck when he suddenly stepped into the path of his car.

Burch, taken to Lubbock sanitarium, originally was reported not to have been seriously injured. Later reports at the hospital were that he had suffered a fractured skull, that his condition was serious though apparently not critical, but that he was much improved Saturday.

His mother, Mrs. Josephine Burch of Maude, Okla., was notified of the accident and arrived Saturday morning to be with him.

Cotton Control Is In Dispute

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Congressional leaders, after two weeks of trying to agree on the "all-weather farm program" asked by President Roosevelt, took a week-end recess today in the hope cotton belt spokesmen could compromise on control provisions for that crop.

Members of the senate-house group appointed to adjust differences between separate "ever-normal granary" bills said a tenacious contest was underway between Senator Bankhead (D-Ala), author of the senate cotton plan, and Chairman Jones (D-Tex) of the house agriculture committee.

Bankhead advocated a rigid compulsory control program effective this year with penalties as high as $30 a bale at present cotton prices.

Jones is backing the more voluntary house cotton provisions which would delay marketing controls until 1939 and limit penalties to $10 a bale.

Once these differences have been composed, conferees expected quick disposition of other details, including provisions for corn.

Compromise Tentatively Made

Bankhead said the group tentatively had compromised on differences concerning acreage allotments.

"The house bill called for allotments of cotton production on acreage basis," Bankhead sa "These acres would be apportion among states, counties and farm

The senate bill called for cot production on basis of bales, explained, with these to be divid among states and counties, a then transferred to acres "when gets down to individual farmers

"Our theory was that acres not move in interstate commerc Bankhead said. "Bales do."

The Alabaman said the tentat compromise would allot the nation cotton quota on a bale basis states, and then shift this to ac age in allotments to counties a farms.

Agreement also was reported how to determine the "normal su ply of cotton," Bankhead said. T would be average annual domes consumption and exports for t past 10 years, plus 35 per cent this for a reserve.

CHAMPION AMERICAN IDEALS

NO longer content only with their traditional role of indirect influence, and awake to the dangers which threaten the American way of life, 2,500,000 American women will send more than 1,000 accredited delegates to the thirteenth Women's Conference on National Defense for an Enduring America, to be held at the Mayflower hotel in Washington, D. C., Tuesday through Thursday, January 25 to 27.

"Conceiving defense to mean much more than mere physical protection of the country's borders from armed invasion, the conference will stress the importance to the entire nation of national defense along the broadest lines, including defense of American traditions, social, ethical and governmental," Mrs. Gladys Mooney of Detroit, chairman, has announced.

Speakers of international reputation will be heard on subjects such as our safeguards at home, prevention of juvenile delinquency, freedom of speech and religion, preservation of our national health. Our bulwarks of defense, the army, navy, marine corps and air force also will be discussed.

HONORING EDDIE NEIL

OF the many tributes respecting the late Edward J. Neil, jr., foreign correspondent of the Associated Press who died as the result of wounds he suffered while reporting the encounter on the Teruel front, none seemed more fitting than the resolutions adopted by the board of directors of the Associated Press.

They read, in part, "Edward J. Neil's death was not in vain. He undertook a perilous assignment at our behest and he carried it out gloriously.

"As chroniclers of the day's events, we are proud to pay tribute to his memory. In him we find a justification of our faith. He accepted and fulfilled that ultimate measure of devotion which is so rarely found, but which when we find it helps us all to go on."

Mackenzie Trail Marker Dedicated By D. A. R. In Saturday Ceremony

MRS. W. L. BAUGH

IN a public service conducted Saturday afternoon on the courthouse lawn, the Nancy Anderson chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, dedicated a marker erected March 2, 1936 to perpetuate the memory of one route of the Mackenzie Scout trail, which extended from Camp Supply, Crosby county to Fort Sumner, N. M. The trail was used by the army 1872-75, by buffalo hunters 1876-78 and by cattlemen from 1878 until the fencing of the range.

Mrs. W. L. Baugh, past regent of the chapter, told of the history of the trail and of the marker. Long before the establishment of Mackenzie State park east of town, the chapter had begun work toward placing a slab to mark the early trail. The rock is from Crosby county and the granite came from a wall surrounding the cemetery at Chester, S. C., where is buried Nancy Anderson, who was a revolutionary ancestor of Mrs. Gus L. Ford, out-of-town member, and for whom the local chapter was named.

Mrs. Roscoe Wilson, chaplain, read a prayer.

Mrs. Bradford Knapp, regent, gave the dedicatory address and Judge J. J. Dillard, county judge, accepted the marker on behalf of the county.

Special invitations were extended to county commissioners.

BY EVELYN BOYD
Of The Women's Staff

FOR the beginning of a new year in St. Paul's Episcopal auxiliary of which Mrs. Roscoe Wilson is president, an outline of objectives has been arranged for each member, that she may have a clearer understanding of the purpose of the organization. The objectives include:

"To strive to know our saviour, Jesus Christ, better and to follow His teachings in all relationships of life.

"To give of ourselves and substance in serving our local church and community.

"To cooperate with the National Branch of the Woman's auxiliary in all of its endeavors in furthering the work of the church."

The general auxiliary includes every woman of the church. Officers are nominated by a committee appointed by the president. Elected in December, the officers assume duties in January. Auxiliary meetings, second Mondays, follow an order of business which includes reports from the units and standing committees and a program prepared by the Woman's Auxiliary in North Texas, supplemented by additions of the local program chairman. This year's subjects are "Rural America," "Fellowship In Faith and Work" and "The Moslem World."

Units meet third Mondays. They were organized for the purpose of promoting closer fellowship, developing stronger leadership and more effective work than is possible in a large group, the president said. Leaders and definite projects for their units are appointed by the president and rector, following election of officers. Members are placed in the units at the first general meeting in January. Lisle Stockings Are Presented As New Note In Sports Apparel

RIBBED SUN-TAN

The latest word on the hosiery question has been said with mercerized cotton lisle. This is it—a new ribbed stocking in a warm sun-tan shade, intended for wear with spectator sports and street clothes. The shoes are brown alligator.

Ribbed Hose In Sun-Tan Shades Will Be Countrywide In Distribution

BY ADELAIDE KERR

Cotton lisle hose, American-made in full-fashioned lacy and striped knits, have been launched in New York as the latest development in street and sports footwear fashions.

Their advent is in keeping with the interest in stocking styles, which has grown with the continuance of short skirts.

Boycott Link Disclaimed

Although the new hose have made their debut simultaneously with the boycott of Japanese silk stockings by students in some leading girls' colleges, manufacturers of cotton yarn insist there is no connection between the two happenings. They say production of the lisle hosiery was begun last March.

To the students themselves, however, and to women in general the lisle hose mean something new in stockings to wear with spectator sports and street clothes. They come in sheer mesh and striped knits of very fine lustrous mercerized yarn; in warm sun-tan and light coppery tones and are said to be durable. Their cost will be about the same as that of silk stockings.

Come In Warm Shades

Cotton thread manufacturers said that distribution of the hose would be countrywide in the spring and would mark first extensive American production of a medium-priced, high-style lisle stocking. Their warm sun-tan and coppery hues reflect the general spring color trend in silk stockings, which, their designers insist, they are intended to supplement, not supplant.

The rest of the resort and spring foot fashion news is confined to shoes. Sports and street models are taking on some new quirks and are designed with the sturdy out-of-doors girl in view. Among outstanding innovations is the welt decoration—a smooth leather piping edge of contrasting leather or color inserted just above the sole.

There is novelty in both the fabrics and colors of advance spring shoes. Some of the smartest sports and street shoes are made of tweed—monotone or flecked with color. Calf, both smooth and reversed to give a suede-like finish, is also smart.

The news in hues lies in a new scale of rich reddish browns called "the chow colors." These run from rust to a deep brown and are forecast for popularity this spring. Blues, shading toward violet, rather than green, also are expected to be smart.

Son Of Joan Blondell Has A New Name And New Father

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15 (AP)—Four-year-old Norman Scott Barnes has a new name and a new papa today.

He's Norman Scott Powell now, and Dick Powell, who married his mama, Joan Blondell, is his legal father.

Adoption papers were filed in juvenile court yesterday.

Miss Blondell obtained a final decree of divorce from Cameraman George Barnes in September, 1936, and married Powell, her movie hero, 11 days later.

A good fall dessert may be made of ice cream and chocolate sauce on top of baked chocolate waffles. Ice cream also may be used as a filling for two baked waffles and the combination covered with sauce.

Artichokes should be soaked, heads down, for thirty minutes in two quarts of cold water to which two teaspoons of salt have been added. They are then ready for cooking.

Movie Star Appears At Student Dance

Amid Japanees lanterns and cherry blossoms in the Oriental Gardens, 108 couples and 75 stags danced Friday night to the music of Ned Bradley and his orchestra at the Men's Dormitory semi-formal dance.

Transforming the dining room into an eastern garden, the ceiling was decorated with lanterns, and in one corner was a typical oriental fountain with palms and ferns to complete the atmosphere.

A surprise feature on the program was the unexpected appearance of Rufe Davis, screen impersonator, who performed facial miracles. A burlesque by Clifton Babb and a dance specialty by Claudia Sue Moseley were included in the floor show. During the dance, Ned Bradley and his orchestra recorded two musical numbers, "Lullaby Baby" and "Once in a While."

Special guests were Dean and Mrs. J. G. Allen, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Qualia, Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Stanley, and Miss Ruth Pirtle.

Reeves Henly Is Candidate For Post Of Tech Toreador Editor

Reeves Henly, Toreador sports editor and junior journalism major from Lubbock, has announced his candidacy for editor of the Toreador at Texas Technological college.

Henly, the first candidate for a publications post, has served on the Toreador under present editor Burgess Dixon and former editor, Jim Lindsey. He was employed for three years on the editorial staff of the Greenville Morning Herald before coming to Tech.

Hints have been made that Johnny Wells, journalism minor from White Deer and member of the Toreador advertising staff, may become a candidate for business manager of the Toreador.

Petitions of candidates for publications offices must be filed with the secretary-treasurer of the student association at least 14 days and not more than 30 days preceding the election, according to the student constitution. Petitions must bear signatures of 15 per cent of the association's qualified voters.

Collection Of Indian Relics Will Be On Display In City

A collection of approximately 100 Indian artifacts, belonging to Penrod Pearson, freshman at Texas Technological college, is being catalogued in the Plains museum this week.

The group includes spear heads, fishing sinkers, varicolored knives and arrowheads, which Pearson discovered in Indian camping sites and a burial cave near Waco.

They will be displayed at the museum as soon as the cataloguing is completed.

Rulers of Egypt before 1914 were known as khedives.

from Lou to Louella . . .

DEAR Louella: Woe is me. Always when I try to help people along with their pre-matrimonial difficulties, I get in trouble.

The young man who I said last week was the only person to kick about my 1938 predictions now says he wasn't kicking, he was just letting me know I got him in trouble. He says I got him in still more trouble last week because I predicted something about a couple of friends of his and the friends think he told me the lowdown.

Here's The Truth

Well, I didn't get my lowdown from the young man and, in this particular instance, there was no special source. What I said about the couple is obvious to anyone who knows the couple by sight.

By the way, I'm often bothered with people who want to know WHERE I got a certain piece of news or WHAT I meant by it. I, after the fashion of newspaper people everywhere, never reveal a source regardless of the charge. It's just an old Fourth Estate custom to protect tipsters.

I read recently and was impressed by Cholly Knickerbocker's answer to the age-old question of gossip-column victims: "Just WHAT did you mean when you said what you did about me?" Cholly, New York dean of society columnists, says "Just WHAT did you think I meant" always shuts them up.

Back to my romantic troubles: I suppose I'll never hear the last of those New Year predictions I made two weeks ago. At least one of the couples has since set the date, February 5. They will not be married in Lubbock, although both live here, and there will be no announcement party as the bride-elect's parents do not live here. I'm thinking there will be parties after it is all over.

Only Half Wrong!

At least another couple will not wed in 1938. That is the man in question isn't likely to wed. I made a mistake and coupled the young lady with the wrong suitor. Neither registered a kick, although I'm sure both must have been embarrassed. That is why I'm not using their names today.

At least 20 people have asked me why I'm not spreading the news that George Simmons, jr., son of George Simmons, and Miss Justine James, daughter of Mrs. George Simmons, are about to wed. I haven't said anything yet because I'm not sure that they will. I seem to be the only doubtful person in town, though, so I guess I may as well include them in my predictions.

THE Tech newspaper came forth last week with some interesting revelations. One was that James Stallings, a tall blond from Post, and Linda Treadwell, a lovely senior from Ménard, have set the date. It didn't say what date, and so I will predict Easter.

I haven't been out yet to the remodeled basement play room in the George Kuykendall home but I hear it lacks a pool table. (Eh, Mister Kuykendall?)

If you remember, I mentioned once or twice before the histrionic strides of Elizabeth Arnett of Lamesa, former Tech student who is related to the Lubbock Arnetts, in the Dallas Little Theater. She was selected to provide part of the atmosphere in the famous Ballet Russe which opened in Dallas last week.

Tops In Dallas

By the way, my friend wrote that the Ballet Russe is sharing with the plays, Tovarich and Idiot's Delight, and the performance of Fritz Kreisler the honor of being tops in Dallas' 1937-38 entertainment schedule.

Having a yen, particularly in the most recent letter, for cultural things, my friend wants to know whether or not a Toscanini concert is broadcast every Saturday night. I can't say, since I'm not much of a Saturday night radio fan; but I have heard the concert since Christmas.

SHE said also the Harley Sadlers were in town a week ago Saturday night greeting old friends in booths at a local drug store. Their daughter, Gloria, was escorted by Billy Mitchell, a Tech sophomore of Sweetwater.

My friend also wrote that the W. D. O'Briens have returned from New Orleans where they spent a wonderful Christmas. Neither had been there before, she said.

Pats For Youngsters

Another item of interest in the friend's letter was her prediction that Harold "Buddy" Jones and Bill Clark, outstanding high school students in scholastic accomplishment and personality, are "bound to grow up to be fine citizens and successful men. I know them both and they are very bright and well-mannered young men."

Just now, I've heard that some young people of the city are extremely irked with me and making no bones about voicing their opinions where I can't hear, of course. Notoriety is the inevitable outcome of effective gossip dispensing. Maybe someone will offer me a radio contract!

Yours, Lou.

Pender Will Speak At Quanah Affair

H. C. Pender, acting head of the department of government at Texas Technological college, has accepted an invitation to deliver the principal address at the annual banquet of the Quanah Chamber of Commerce next Friday night, according to information given at the chamber here Saturday.

Invitations to other Lubbock chamber officials to attend the banquet at Quanah as well as those at Wichita Falls and Midland also were received.

Wilburn Page, manager of the Wichita Falls organization, advised that the annual dinner there will be held Thursday night at Senior High school. Bill Collins, manager of the Midland organization, said that their meeting will be held Friday night.

Probabilities are that Lubbock will be represented at each of the affairs, local officials said.

Officer For Junior Class At Tech To Be Named Tuesday

A vice-president will be elected at a meeting of the junior class at Texas Technological college called for Tuesday night at 7:15 to 8 o'clock, by Rufus Ryan, class president.

The vice-president will fill the vacancy left by Ryan when the former president recently failed to meet constitutional qualifications.

Plans for the junior-senior prom this spring will also be discussed.

Brownfield Site Of Scout Meet

Annual southwestern district banquet at Wines hotel in Brownfield at 7:30 o'clock Monday night will be the high spot of several major activities in South Plains Boy Scout council this week, according to information given Saturday by Earl M. McClure, executive.

B. G. Hackney, program director, will be toastmaster; Emmett Smith will sing a song; Rev. J. O. Gilham of Brownfield will ask the invocation; Miss Althea Lundstrom, music instructor in Brownfield schools, will lead pep songs; Rev. A. L. Halcy of Colorado City will give a sleight of hand exhibition; Burle Williams will play a trumpet solo; George W. Dupree of Lubbock will be principal speaker; and McClure will talk briefly. Present district officers are C. C. Coleman, chairman; M. L. H. Baze, commissioner; Hackney, program chairman; James Harley Dallas, finance chairman; R. A. Simms, court of honor chairman; and Herman Heath, promotion chairman.

TO PLAN COUNCIL DINNER

Several meetings during the week, the first today, will continue preparations for the annual council-wide banquet—the biggest event of the year in council scouting—to be held the night of Jan. 25 at Lubbock hotel.

District and neighborhood commissioners are to meet at Hilton hotel from 2:30 to 4 o'clock this afternoon. The council finance committee of which Dallas is chairman, will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, also at the Hilton, to adopt a budget. Minor Huffman, deputy regional executive from Dallas, will be here Tuesday and Wednesday and will meet with several committees to assist in planning.

Program Of Dinner

The program for the annual dinner will include the call to order by Dr. J. M. Gordon, dean of arts and sciences at Texas Technological college, who will be toastmaster; announcement of the "beaver award" by K. N. Clapp; a skit entitled, "How Much Is A Boy Worth?" of which Joseph R. Griggs, county school superintendent, will have charge; and an address by a speaker from national headquarters at New York City.

The "beaver award," which is an engraved silver trophy, is the highest honor which can be paid to a volunteer scout leader, McClure explained. It is given annually to the scouter in South Plains council who is deemed to have rendered most meritorious service during the year. Identity of the winner will not be announced until the dinner.

The executive board of the council will meet from 4 to 5 p. m. the same day and separate sessions of cub leaders, scout leaders and administrative officers from 5 to 6 p. m.

COMPLETE ORGANIZATION

Organization of a Boy Scout troop at Abernathy will be completed at a meeting to be held at the chamber of commerce there at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, according to Lyndon T. Grant, assistant executive. The troop, designated as No. 81, is the 67th in the council area and has an initial enrollment of 25 boys. The chamber of commerce, official sponsor, was assisted by the Parent-Teacher association in the organization. Officers are K. C. Medlin, scoutmaster; Hugo E. Richter, assistant; J. D. Norman, troop committee chairman; and M. O. Hood, M. C. Davidson, Ray Pinson, Arthur Crow, Q. D. Hallmark and Dr. G. H. Girdner, chairmen of other committees.

Methodist Session Is Set For Feb. 1

District Methodist leaders are to have a Lubbock district meeting of laymen and ministers in the First Methodist church here Feb. 1 as a part of the nation-wide observance of John Wesley's "Aldersgate Heart Warming Experience", Dr. O. P. Clark, presiding elder, announced.

Rev. Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, pastor of the church, who has been in Savannah, Ga., the past week attending a denominational meeting to arrange for district observances, will be in charge. He is expected to announce his program soon.

The observance was arranged here recently at a meeting of the cabinet of the Northwest Texas conference with Bishop H. A. Boaz. Each of the nine districts in the conference will hold a program for both lay and clerical leaders, Dr. Clark said.

Tech President Is Chosen To Serve On State Committee

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college, has been appointed by the statewide committee on cotton as chairman of the sub-committee on better ginning.

The appointment was made after a meeting of the state agricultural committee in Waco. Burris C. Jackson of Hillsboro is chairman of the committee.

The statewide committee is composed of more than 200 business men and agricultural leaders. It is to be concerned especially with new uses for cotton, a research laboratory, cotton quality improvement, and better ginning.

The better ginning committee will place concerted effort on promoting better ginning throughout Texas, and the establishment of a federal cotton ginning laboratory in Texas.

Four Dancers To Appear In "Dance In Old Vienna"

Four dancers in "A Ball In Old Vienna," one of the four ballets to be presented by the Jooss European Ballet Monday night at Senior High school auditorium under the auspices of the Tech Artists course. Other numbers will be "The Green Table," "Ballade" and "The Big City."

Company Of Thirty-Two Dancers Will Perform Here Monday Night; To Present Prize-Winning Number

The Jooss European Ballet, on third tour of the United States from a successful season on the Continent, will be brought to Lubbock for a single appearance at Senior High school auditorium at 8 o'clock Monday night under the auspices of the Tech Artists course.

The numbers will be presented against an elaborate background with unusual lighting effects.

Tickets will continue on sale at Bowen's drug store on Broadway Monday at $1.50 and $1.25. A few reserved seats are to be available, said R. A. Mills, chairman of the artists course committee.

For The Classes

Although the ballet is popularly believed to be "high hat, high brow and ultra artistic," entertainment, it is greeted in America by the masses as well as the classes, maintains Kurt Jooss, director and creator of the ballets. "Our entire basis is psychological," he states. "By that I mean that the outward expression is guided by the idea behind the gesture. In short, the ballet is an expression in pantomimic language of the dramatic conflicts of human life."

This company of 32 young dancers —Noelle de Mosa, a Dutch lass of 20 is the youngest—is the only one in which all the dancers are soloists. They represent seven nationalities—Dutch, Hungarian, Swiss, Swedish, German, Hungarian and English.

Ballets Are Listed

Four ballets will be presented here:

"The Big City," which portrays modern European life danced to the jazz-like music by Alexandre Tansman.

"A Ball in Old Vienna," which recreates the gay and gallant life of the 40's enlivened by the sentimental intrigues of women in beautiful costumes and their ardent swains danced to the waltz strains of Joseph Lanner, rival of Johann Strauss.

"Ballade," a thrilling and spectacular tale of medieval lore.

"The Green Table," is the feature ballet. It is a satire on war in the making with secret conferences around the green baize table of diplomacy. A remarkable musical setting has been arranged by Fritz Cohen. This number won first prize in competition at the International Congress of the Dance held in Paris in 1932.

Hubby Has Gone

ANN COOPER HEWITT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15 (AP)—In a copyrighted story the Chronicle said today Ann Cooper Hewitt, 23-year-old sterilized heiress, had separated for the second time within a month from her bridegroom of three months.

Her husband, Ronald Gay, 30-year-old garage foreman, has returned to his mother's home in Oakland across San Francisco bay while the young heiress remained in her fashionable Nob Hill apartment.

BEGIN BREAKING LAND

WHITEFACE, (Special)—Farmers here are beginning to break out sod land for spring planting. There will be a considerable acreage of new land put into cultivation.

During summer months, husky steel workers are supplied with quantities of gumdrops and salt tablets: the salt is cooling and the sugar supplies extra energy.

Actual weighings show that about 20,000 bee-loads are necessary to being in a pound of nectar, which will make about one-fourth of a pound of honey.

Lubbock Seeks Safety Awards

Lubbock is now competing for the first time for safety awards of the National Safety council, according to information given Saturday at the chamber of commerce.

The City Safety council, it was explained, recently became affiliated with the national council for the first time. When membership was obtained, it was intended to compete for 1938 awards but not for those of 1937. However, an invitation subsequently was received to submit the Lubbock safety record for 1937 and the chamber of commerce has undertaken to supply the information.

Records Incomplete

It will be done, according to O. B. Conley, president of the local council, without any real expectation of winning anything because records necessarily will not be complete and because there was no sustained safety movement here through the year.

He added that activities through 1938 will be continuous and on an extended scale, including school children, drivers of commercial vehicles of all kinds and the promotion of safety regulations in the downtown district.

Conley said also he was advised Saturday that cities competing for safety awards will have an added incentive this year because of a recent gift of $25,000 to the national organization by Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of the board of General Motors corporation. The fund will be used to create 20 scholarships to be distributed among the prize-winning cities. From each of those cities, an officer will be selected for a year's course either at Northwestern or Harvard university in traffic safety. Each officer selected will be given $1,000 plus the full cost of the tuition, according to the announcement.

Court Sessions Set For Week

County court takes the spotlight in legal activity in Lubbock this week.

Judge J. J. Dillard Monday morning will open an eight-weeks term with calling of his dockets at 10 o'clock that morning. He asked that all lawyers with legal matters pending in that court attend the calling of the docket.

A jury will report at 9 o'clock Monday morning in this court. Civil jury actions are scheduled for trial this week. The November term was closed Saturday at the end of two weeks' hearing of criminal matters.

Judge E. L. Pitts of 99th district court will spend the week with non-jury civil actions, mostly non-contested, he said.

Jury civil actions are set for hearing this week in the 72nd district court of Judge Daniel A. Blair in session at Crosbyton in Crosby county.

Both the district courts are in the second week of their first terms of the new year. Both were opened Monday of last week with impaneling of grand juries. The week of Jan. 4 has been designated criminal week in the 72nd district court, said District Attorney Burton S. Burks.

Girls At West Texas State Rely On The Mystic Powers To Aid In Problems

CANYON, Jan. 15 (Special)—You thought the craze was dead—that of the sooth-saying Ouija board.

But two of the things which Santa Claus mischievously left at Cousins hall, the largest dormitory for girls at West Texas State, have created no little excitement lately. All the girls are "crazy" about them.

Have Their Troubles

The reason is, of course, that most co-eds are troubled by several dilemmas and unanswered questions. For instance:

"Does he really love me?"
"Will he like me in this dress?"
"Whom will I marry?"
"Will I pass that math. exam.?"
"Is the boy friend back home triflin' on me?"

That the Ouija is something of a jokester is indicated by the fact that it would marry about half the girls to Robert Taylor and the rest to Robin Hood. But some of the Ouija's replies have been amazingly accurate, or at least pleasing. So much so was it, in fact, that even Mrs. Agnes Smith, matron of the hall, became a bit puzzled.

Great Possibilities

Could it be possible that Ouija, with some help of course, could become a tattle-tale? Well, hardly, but Ouija might be guilty of some "catty" suggestions. Nothing serious, but you can see the possibilities in hall politics.

It does seem like a flare-back of something or other—maybe it's normalcy—when girls who usually spend two hours a day before their mirrors stand in line to ask a dumb gadget like Ouija to spell out the name of a young man who rides a horse called Destiny, Or a chariot named Romance.

They Meant Well But Oscar Appeared Doomed To Fall; Both Ankles Are Broken

BOSTON, Jan. 15 (AP)—Fellow workers thought Oscar Mathison's ladder might slip on the icy street while he worked on a top rung erecting a sign.

Then the motorist stepped in and drove off. Down came the ladder, and Oscar with it.

Hollywood On The Loose..

Director Who Lets Potential Stars Get Away Is Receiving Awful Ribbing In Filmland

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15—All over the lot: All studios have made dozens of million-dollar blunders by failing to recognize talent and allowing potential stars to slip away from them. In fact, a majority of players on the Hollywood star list took some buffeting about between companies before they finally clicked.

There's one casting director, however, who recently has taken unmerciful ribbings about the number of promising players he has allowed to be signed by other studios. Other day he was walking across the lot with a Great Dane on leash.

A producer hailed him: "For gosh sakes, don't let that one slip through your fingers. You may have another Victor McLaglen there!"

Touche!

FOR the past two weeks Errol Flynn, as Robin Hood, has been trying to kill Basil Rathbone, as Sir Guy of Gisbourne, in a duel.

They're doing their own fencing, which has required innumerable retakes from all angles. Toward the end of the battle the competition got pretty hot, and Rathbone, who's the best swordsman west of the Brown Derby, hauled off and delivered a terrific and unrehearsed slash.

"Well," I thought, "that's surely the end of the adventurous Mr. Flynn." It wasn't though. Instead of heavy steel broadswords, they were using light aluminum ones. Robin Hood was only bruised.

Look Out Below!

OVER at RKO, on the "Joy of Loving" set, Irene Dunne sat talking to Director Tay Garnett between shots, when a light filter fell from an overhead lamp and landed in her lap.

Her composure was unruffled, and only her feelings seemed hurt. She said, "So things are beginning to fall on me. I guess I'm not as well liked as I thought I was."

(In Hollywood, and especially in the theater, stagehands have a knack for dropping sandbag weights and other heavy objects very near—and sometimes on—unpopular players. Miss Dunne needn't worry, though.)

Inscrutable Fate

NINETEEN years ago Tay Garnett, fresh out of the Marine Corps, arrived in Hollywood with his first script. He took the story to the Lyons and Moran Studio and asked Ralph Ceder, then story editor, to read it. Ceder refused, saying, "If it's any good the studio will probably steal it, and if isn't we don't want it anyway."

But the author pleaded, so Ceder read the yarn, made some changes, and gave it back. Garnett then sold the story to another company. Some time later Ceder began directing for Hal Roach and hired Garnett to write gags for him.

Today Garnett is a popular director. His gag writer is Ralph Ceder.

Home Movies

THEY say the demand for home movie films of the newsreel pictures of the Panay bombing has set an all-time record. One New York company is working 24 hours a day to put out a single order for 12,000,000 feet of 8 mm. and 16 mm. film to be distributed for sale in department stores and camera shops.

Gallows Claims Life Of Slayer

COLUMBUS, Mont., Jan. 15 (AP)—Frank Robideau, 47, who murdered Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kuntz of Wheat Basin, Mont., Nov. 26, and brutally beat their five-year-old son, died today thinking of his own family.

At the temporary gallows erected in a machinery shed here, Robideau stepped on the scaffold and said:

"About all I wish to say is if you have any sympathy to show, don't show it to me but show it to my wife and family as they need it. I don't. That's all I have to say."

Robideau confessed, after long questioning, he killed the couple in their automobile between Columbus and Wheat Basin. He said he shot Kuntz because Kuntz backed down on an agreement to "shoot it out" to settle an argument over ownership of some grain at the Kuntz elevator. He said he was obliged to shoot Mrs. Kuntz when she grabbed his gun.

Robideau said he parked the Kuntz automobile in the elevator and left young Larry Kuntz, beaten unconscious, with the bodies of his parents.

So The People May Know

PLAN of the City commission to have Lubbock's new traffic ordinance briefed and printed for general distribution will meet with the approval of the overwhelming proportion of the citizenship.

Few persons have more than a vague idea as to what the ordinance contains. Few could wade through the extended document in its legally phrased form with a clear understanding of its provisions. Nearly all motorists would like to know just what the law is and most of them would strive to abide by its provisions.

However, the ordinance must be made available to them in understandable form. The reading of a comprehensive digest of the document should not be too much of a task. Otherwise, it likely will not be read at all.

The City commission obviously is making the effort to overcome all those objections. The printing, of course, will entail some expense, but it is the type of expense it would be folly not to incur.

Mr. Dodd On Adolf Hitler

GERMANY seemingly suffers once more from an acute attack of chronic "protestitis" as evidenced by the latest complaint from Hitler henchmen because of remarks by former Ambassador William E. Dodd at a recent testimonial dinner.

Dodd, who gave up the post of envoy to Germany recently, was quoted as remarking that Hitler has more absolute power than any medieval emperor of that nation; and further, that almost as many personal opponents of Hitler have been slain in five years as during the entire 25 years of the reign of Charles II of England.

Charles' father lost his head on the chopping block so when the son finally came into power after many ups and downs, he set about head collecting with a vengeance which kept executioners busy throughout his reign. Son Charles easily was "tops" among the blood purgers of the last three or four centuries until the era of Hitler, Stalin, et al, came along.

Germany's formal protest of Dodd's remarks was not unexpected. Hitler's yes men invariably have taken pen in hand when any American citizen, exercising his right of free speech, has made remarks uncomplimentary to Der Fuehrer. The Teuton mind simply cannot conceive freedom of speech as we know it in the United States, and apparently assumes that our government can clamp a gag as effectively as would be possible in Germany.

Secretary of State Hull's reply to the protest was the only one possible under our system of government. He explained, as he had explained before in similar cases, that the remarks made by Dodd did not represent the sentiment of the American government.

With that statement of our distinguished secretary of state all will agree. Undoubtedly, Dodd as a private citizen was not voicing the views of official Washington. But he came pretty close to putting into words the overwhelming convictions of the American people toward Hitler and his kind.

With Our Contemporaries

"We don't know when we ever said, or even intimated, that the soil adjoining Terry county in Yoakum, Gaines, Dawson, Lynn, Hockley or Cochran was not just as good and fertile as in Terry," Andy Jack Stricklin, the Lone Wolf prodder defends in the Terry County Herald. "What we did say was that they, with the exception of Yoakum, were ginning a lot of Terry county cotton and we still stay with what we say." (Perhaps, Jack, what hurts, is the fact that they also lost cotton to Terry and other counties by the same route!)

The One-Minute Sermon

Ye offer polluted bread upon mine altar; and ye say. Wherein have we polluted thee? In that ye say, The table of the Lord is contemptible.

And if ye offer the blind for sacrifice, is it not evil? and if ye offer the lame and sick, is it not evil? offer it now unto thy governor; will he be pleased with thee, or accept thy person? saith the Lord of hosts.

And now, I pray you, beseech God that he will be gracious unto us: this hath been by your means: will he regard your persons? saith the Lord of hosts.—Malachi 1, 7 through 9.

Negley Farson Writes Story Of The Other Side Of The Railway Tracks In South America In His New Book, "Transgressor In The Tropics"; Gertrude Stein Writes Lucidly In "Everybody's Biography"

NEGLEY FARSON is one man who has written a travel book which tells what's under the crust. He calls his book "Transgressor in the Tropics" and it's about South America, especially the parts close to the equator on the west side. All those casinos and gay promenades are contrasted with verminous dungeons and thieving politicians; we learn almost for the first time from a writing traveler that even the cruise-lands are in some parts full of bugs, heat, dirt and haunted by a dreadfully careless spectre called Death.

"TRANSGRESSOR IN THE TROPICS," by Negley Farson; (Harcourt, Brace, New York).

NEGLEY Farson's "Transgressor in the Tropics" is likely to be misunderstood for two reasons, and it would be a shame if it were.

One is the second use of "transgressor." The word fitted the title of Farson's autobiography ("The Way of a Transgressor") neatly in spite of the taint of exhibitionism it implied. But the Farson of the new book is no more a transgressor than the writer of this is a transgressor.

The second odd point is the beginning, which might be the beginning of a typical haw-haw British travel book. Mr. Farson actually starts with a cup of coffee in bed, a quick bawth and a taxi rush to Victoria station. This department inspected good old Victoria station carefully, one day, and still can't see why every resident of London drags it into every line he or she writes. It's an exceedingly dull place.

Goes Beyond Travel Book

But please don't be offended by either of these breaks. The truth is that this bad bad man is writing a travel book about parts of South America, chiefly Colombia, although Venezuela, Ecuador, Peru, Panama and Chile get some attention. There have been such books as Hudson Strode's excellent "South By Thunderbird" recently; these of standard travel book model. Farson goes far beyond these.

He writes the story of the other side of the South America railway tracks, the side the tourists almost never see unless they get lost. He tells why Colombians hate us so royally; they think we stole the Canal Zone from them. He tells about the repulsive architecture of some romantically named spots, and about the more repulsive politics as well.

He describes the means by which certain bankers forced unneeded loans on South American nations, and then sold the bonds to innocent North Americans. He tells what the jungle is like, and what it does to the natives as well as to the whites. He calls a desert a desert, not a reservoir of "romance." When he sees a rusty tin roof—he calls it a rusty tin roof. Read this before sailing on that cruise. Paradoxically, you'll enjoy the cruise much more.

Answers All Questions

"FIRST PERSON PLURAL," by Angna Enters; (Stackpole, Philadelphia).

ANGNA Enters has submitted, as it were, to a mass interview. In her book, "First Person Plural," she has answered nearly every conceivable question the public which has been so interested in her curious department of the dance might wish to ask.

She talks with frankness, but without exhibitionism, of her poverty-ridden student days in New York, when she worked all day at lettering in a commercial art place, studied Japanese dancing with Itow when she should have been eating a warm supper, and then studied painting in the evening. She was even then interested in some form of expression which should put her own comment on life into the theater—the difficulty was that she didn't know (as yet) where to look for it.

Developed Combination

She found where. By small steps she developed a combination of mime, the dance, and the theater of the people which was at the beginning unique, and has remained so. Her art has nothing to do with the whoops-ing of the ballet boys and girls with their bunchy leg muscles; nor is it more than casually related to the compositions of the "plastic" school, which so frequently are neither plastic nor dancing.

On her path Miss Enters has seen a lot. Europe, America, particularly Spain she writes about with tolerance and knowledge. We only wish she had not used so many foreign words whose meaning can perfectly well be expressed in English—whipped cream is not more central European for being called schlagsahne.

American Has Charms

"EVERYBODY'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY," by Gertrude Stein; (Random House, N. Y.).

WHEN the publishers announced that Gertrude Stein's new book was written in her most lucid vein, your reviewer stirred restlessly in his sleep and mumbled that he didn't know she had one.

However, this world is full of surprises. The new book—"Everybody's Autobiography"—proves to be relatively clear. You may not like it very much, to be sure, but you can at least understand it. Which, after all, is something.

Had A Good Time

In this book Miss Stein tells about her trip to and through America. She had a good time. She admits as much—

"It is very nice being a celebrity a real celebrity who can decide who they want to meet and say so and they come or do not come as you want them. I never imagined that would happen to me to be a celebrity like that but it did and when it did I liked it."

So, in the process of enjoying a celebrity's privileges, Miss Stein decided that she would like to meet Dashiell Hammett, Thornton Wilder, Saroyan, Charlie Chaplin, Harry Leon Wilson—there is a collection for you—and she did meet them and liked them all.

Liked Whole Trip

She seems, in fact, to have liked the whole trip. She liked American foods, the University of Wisconsin, drive-yourself-cars, airplane rides, Ohio farmhouses, wooden houses by the railroad depot in small towns, riding around Chicago in a police squad car, newspaper reporters, those rhymed roadside shaving cream ads, nut shops, and all sorts of other things.

You'll probably find her book more interesting than you expect. She reverts to type occasionally, but for the most part the thing is chatty, interesting, and—well, lucid.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

JUSTICE Sutherland's resignation from the Supreme Court produced varied emotions among the eight remaining members—both liberals and conservatives.

"The court is gone," screamed a reactionary member famous for his violence of temper and vehemence of language on and off the bench. Not even the more philosophical attitude of a like-minded colleague could console him, and he will probably resign at the close of the present term. Justices Hughes and Roberts, who long ago agreed to submerge personal feelings in an attempt to save the tribunal against presidential attack, apparently felt no pain other than regret at a friend's departure.

Messrs. Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo indulged in quiet chuckles. If the new appointee sides with Mr. Black on the extreme left, the trio of erstwhile liberals will be listed as middle-of-the-roaders. The two Roosevelt youngsters may catch some of the bricks from conservatives which these oldsters have been receiving.

BIDDERS: The ways of an office-seeker at Washington are dark and devious. The latest exhibition of resourcefulness puzzles even that expert producer of patronage rabbits—the honorable James A. Farley.

For months a liberal contributor has been loitering around important Democratic doorsteps as a supplicant for a diplomatic post. He has made his pile, and would like to emblazon his career by serving Uncle Sam without pay—for the honor and glory of it. As proof of his sincerity, he will plunk $50,000 on the party treasurer's desk as soon as his nomination to somewhere, even Siam, is confirmed by the Senate.

It was no dice, however. He wasn't the type for the foreign service in these critical days. Nevertheless, he persisted, and he may have got one foot up the ladder at the $100-a-plate Jackson Day dinner. Nobody knows how he slid in there, but he was seated at the same table with Cordull Hull. It may have been an accident, of course.

PANTS: Serious-minded Henry Wallace doesn't know whether somebody is spoofing him or not, but he was recently asked to sacrifice a pair of pants by an old lady in the Interior department who is making the craziest rug in history. When and if finished, it will be woven from the pants of cabinet members.

Mr. Wallace's representative abruptly declined to contribute from the secretarial wardrobe when the request was first delivered. When assured that other cabineteers had graciously proffered their pants, Mr. W's spokesman became interested. But his checkup at the State department brought only negative results. "Why, of course not," said a shocked voice over the phone, "Mr. Hull has not given away a pair of his pants." Nor did an aide of the humorless Mr. Morgenthau see the point—he, too, had all his pants at the last taking of inventory.

Not even then did the Wallacer, who has a bizarre sense of humor, reject the proposition. He agreed to turn over the pants when the old lady had obtained promise of a pair from the other members of the cabinet—all nine of them. He doesn't expect that he'll have to make good.

NIPPON: Referring to the recent scrape with Japan, President Roosevelt has told friends that "We were lucky to get out of that the way we did." His handling of the Panay crisis has provoked praise even from partisan hostiles.

But another bout with Tokyo may be staged on his own doorstep. It consists of an iron-clad boycott of Japanese products that is inspired chiefly by the wives of prominent and humble New Dealers. Some of the ladies of his sub-cabinet members are included in the group which will soon dramatize their international prejudices by staging a cotton style show at the home of Gov. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot. They will parade as models in an effort to prove that cotton furnishes as stylish a costume as silks.

It was not the Panay bombing so much as the Japanese atrocities after the fall of Nanking that aroused these unofficial but significant emotions. Despite the diplomatic poise in White House and State department circles, Nippon has few friends at Washington.

CONTROL: A politically minded cabinet member who entertains ambitions for 1940 recently discussed future prospects—his own and F. D. R.'s—with utter frankness. His remarks reveal how the political winds are shifting at Washington.

"I'd like to make a try for the nomination," said this hopeful with a White House gleam in his eyes, "and I probably will. But I'm not kidding myself. I know my name is at the bottom of the White House list, if it's there at all. But I know this, too, and don't you forget it—it will be a shock to the White House crowd when they find that they can't control the 1940 convention."

The undercover drive for a third term for the President seems to have stopped—or been stopped. Even his idolators shrug their shoulders indifferently when the subject is mentioned, and first family friends insist that F. D. R. is out of the picture." Now the impression grows that unless he manages his political heir more wisely than he has handled Robert H. Jackson, he won't be able to handpick the party nominee.

LESSONS: Justice Hugo L. Black finds it hard to shift from a slashing senatorial style to the more restrained language expected of a Supreme court justice in writing majority opinions. It's a real hardship to the fiery Alabaman.

Under the court's system the writing of an opinion is assigned to some member of the majority especially versed in the particular subject, or who feels strongly on the subject. Three times has the ball been handed to Mr. Black, and three times he juggled it so violently that his majority colleagues refused to approve his opinion until it had been toned down. They also questioned the preciseness of his statements insofar as they set forth the court's line of reasoning.

The new jurist's closest friend and most tolerant tutor during these freshman days is the patient, good-natured Owen Roberts of Pennsylvania. Fatherly Mr. Hughes has also lent a helping hand to the court's baby. Like his fellow-Alabaman—Speaker Bankhead—Mr. Black is learning that a Republican can be a pretty good fellow "after he's licked or quits public office."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

HENRY FORD has hired an outstanding legal ace to represent him in his legal battle with the National Labor Relations board. Frederick H. Wood of the famous New York firm of Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood is recognized by fellow attorneys as one of the topmost flight of trial lawyers in the country.

Mr. Wood is not a New Yorker by training. He made quite a reputation in midwestern practice before he was invited to bring his talents to the metropolis. His most famous victory was in the Schechter "sick chicken" case which knocked N. R. A. into the ash heap. Unlike some other "big names" in his profession, he never deputes his job to underlings. He handles the courtroom assignment himself.

Tall, hard-boiled, vigorous, he looks much younger than his 60 years. A master at sharp cross-examination, he will give Labor board witnesses many unhappy moments. The public has never heard of him because he has no interests outside the law, but he is likely to become a national figure before his legal duel is over. Mr. Ford can rest assured that he will get a lively run for his money.

GASTON: Captain Edward Page Gaston — founder and national commander of the "Patriot Guard of America, Inc."—is ambitious. He proposes to set up a National Economy commission composed of selected officials of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, National Association of Manufacturers, American Federation of Labor, National Federation of Women's clubs and other "outstanding Americans" to "control the public expenditure, suppress graft, etc." Aiming high, he has invited Henry Ford to head this body.

Armaments Race Feared War's Forerunner

Chasm Between Democracy And Fascism Widens

(By Special Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—America's billion dollar defense bill for 1938—with more to come—is the most eloquent indication of the staggering growth of the chasm between democracy and fascism. It is a realistic reminder of a probably imminent clash of arms resulting from militaristic policies of the fascist states.

Mussolini has just announced a huge increase in his naval program. Britannia still rules the waves from Gibraltar to Haifa. But Mussolini's pronouncement is a challenge which England cannot allow to pass by.

Match Close To Fuse

That the match can't be far from the fuse is evidenced further by England's vigorous reorganization of her general staff, the rushing of current naval construction and her seven and a half billion dollar navy appropriation. In addition, the entire British air force is being reorganized and more planes are being constructed at top speed.

Furthermore, despite repeated truce-calling, the radio propaganda battle in the Near East between Italy and England is at this moment running in high heat. Mussolini has been working considerably on the Arabs and Moslems ever since he started the Ethiopian war. It is all part of the game. But his main purpose is to make things uncomfortable for both England and France.

FRANCE has been aware of Il Duce's game longer than she pretends. Recently the accusation has been made in plain language that Mussolini is systematically inciting disaffection among the natives in French North Africa.

And while the natives are being stirred up by the Italian agents, England is busily engaged in strengthening her air defenses of the Suez canal. That is still the vital connection with her Far Eastern possessions. It must be protected because it is absolutely essential for the defense of the Empire.

Japan Raising Hob

Meanwhile in the Far East Japan, another member of the fascist combination, not only is at war with China but continues to trespass on the interests of other powers—the United States, Great Britain and France.

These are just a few of the indications of how near a clash may be.

True enough, President Roosevelt in his message to Congress predicted that the non-democratic governments would not last and that democracy would ultimately prevail in those countries which had abandoned it or had never experienced it. Unfortunately, the President did not develop that point. But obviously the fascist nations can do a lot of damage while they last.

THE fascist setup has changed materially during the past year. Democracies no longer find the menace to their security coming from individual states. They now confront a bloc jelled into consolidation for mutual support. Call it the Nazi-tern if you like. It is no less zealous than its Red brother, the Comintern, in the propagation of the "faith" but at least the foreign disciples of Lenin have neither tanks nor bombers. The birth of the Rome-Berlin axis and the adherence of Japan to the fascist brotherhood have stiffened the necks of the three fascist powers immeasurably.

Prior to the new lineup the trio of sabre rattlers not only were not working together but there was actual hostility between Mussolini and Hitler. While the two leaders, in spite of public manifestations of fervent friendship, have no love for each other personally, they have formed a close entente for the fascist crusade.

Hitler Backs Up Mussolini

Mussolini's present challenge to Great Britain for control of the Mediterranean has the blessings of Adolph Hitler. Il Duce also takes a heavy hand in the Spanish civil war and expects to receive from Franco, in exchange for this assistance, concessions which will be of substantial value in the campaign for domination of the Mediterranean, probably in the form of naval bases in Spanish possessions for submarines and airplanes. The island of Minorca and the port of Ceuta, within a stone's throw of The Rock, are probably at the top of the list. Above all, it is vitally important for Il Duce to have an ally at the gate of Gibraltar.

In exchange for Hitler's support of the Mediterranean campaign, Mussolini has made a clear switch in his determination to help Der Fuehrer in carrying out his program for the ultimate dominaton of Central and Eastern Europe.

Old Lineup Changes

The facts are plain enough: Hitler has made tremendous strides in Central and Eastern Europe. Only two years ago he had on his eastern border a solid-anti-Nazi barrier—the Little Entente, created after the World war out of Jugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia as a defense against German aggression. Poland, too, pledged its friendship to France. And it can be stated here that Poland has one of the crack armies in Europe and therefore is a factor to be reckoned with.

Recently there has been a decided change in the old lineup. It is difficult to predict what Poland would do if France were to call on her for military aid today. Polonia Restituta lately has developed totalitarian tendencies of her own which do not presage too well for continued com-

Texas Congressional Delegation Is Busy

Connally, Thomason In Spotlight; Jones Keeps Active

BY L. T. EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — The Texas congressional delegation found its stride soon after the regular session opened.

Senator Connally, although not saying definitely that Southern statesmen would filibuster again against the anti-lynch bill, marshaled forces to fight the bill on the senate floor.

TOM CONNALLY

He spent hours in his office preparing arguments against the measure and calling other opponents to make sure some of them were on the floor at all times to carry on the attack, which he said might turn into a filibuster if "the turn of events" so determined.

Just before the debate opened, Connally issued a statement expressing the opinion that the bill was a "political gesture" and would not prevent lynching, which he and all other opponents deplored. Scores of letters came in from the north as well as the south commenting favorably on his contention the bill might actually wipe out entirely the policing and other rights of individual states.

Thomason's Boost Helpful

The elevation of Rep. Thomason of El Paso to second place on the House Military Affairs committee as soon as Rep. Hill of Alabama takes his seat in the Senate means much to Texas, with its numerous military posts.

With Senator Sheppard chairman of the Senate Military Affairs committee, army interests in the state will be amply represented in congress.

Scores of congratulatory telegrams from all sections of the nation poured into the office of Rep. Sumners of Dallas after the House Judiciary committee endorsed him for the Supreme court vacancy to occur Jan. 18 when Justice Sutherland retires.

Secretary Is Honored

Sam Johnson, secretary to Rep. Kleberg of Corpus Christi, has been elected chairman of the entertainment committee of the "Little Congress," organization of congressional secretaries and employes.

JESSE H. Jones, Houston financier and chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, is the man who decides finally whether corporations may borrow government money.

Into his office—a ninth floor corner room overlooking Pennsylvania avenue 19 blocks from the capitol—come executives of banks, railroads and industrial concerns seeking loans from Uncle Sam.

At irregular times, seldom more than two weeks apart, Jones' secretaries call all newspapermen in Washington who might be interested in RFC activities to summon them to a press conference.

Many Attend Sessions

At the appointed hour the reporters, who have gathered in an anteroom, file into the chairman's office and seat themselves in rows in front of his desk. Anywhere from 10 to 30 may be present.

"Well, fire away, boys," says the tall, dignified white-haired Texan, and the questioning begins—about this or that railroad, bank or other company which has been in financial straits and has sought RFC aid.

Generally, Jones answers instantly, but sometimes he must pick up one of the two phones on his desk and call another official of the corporation to check a detail.

When the scribes run out of questions, they pocket their notes and file out.

Farmers Who Stick To One-Variety Idea Making Their Cotton Pay Extra Profits

BY PAUL SIMMONS
Associated Press Feature Service Writer

ATLANTA, Jan. 15—By getting together and using their heads, farmers in communities all over the Cotton Belt are dealing a knock-out blow to "rag tags," "dog-tail," "buzz fuzz" and other mongrel cotton that drags down their staple grades.

That is not all. They are putting over a proposition which paid $10,000,000 in extra dividends last season—no mean achievement with the price of cotton as low as it is.

For Sale At A Premium

What turns the trick for them is called the "one-variety community plan of cotton production." Advocated by government specialists for 25 years, it finally took root in a big way in 1931.

Before then, only 27 communities in Arizona, California and New Mexico had adopted it. In 1936, it had a foothold in 508 gin territories and last season, in more than 600.

By next season, cotton experts expect to see it become standard procedure in many more sections with a further rise in the profits.

Cotton authorities say it will solve one of the industry's most aggravating problems—production of a uniform staple of high quality, the kind mills are keen to buy and pay a premium for. It gives the American growers an advantage in competition with foreign staples.

Team Work Essential

The way the plan works is simple. The farmers of a community, with the advice of their county agent or some other local leader, just settle on a cotton variety suited to their soil, climate, market demand and other conditions. That's all there is to it.

It cannot be a one-man proposition. If a single farmer did get the right kind of seed, bees and other insects carrying pollen from blooms in his neighbors' fields and the mixing of seed at gins eventually would turn his choice variety into mongrel cotton. He soon would be producing about as much "dog-tail" scrap cotton and mixed staple lengths as ever.

When the community tackles the problem, there is little chance of improved strain mixing and "running out." All the farmers get better production and a standard, even high grade staple.

This is what most mills want and for which they are willing to pay a premium ranging up to a cent a pound or more. Many communities sell their entire output to nearby mills, which otherwise would buy their cotton from faraway points.

$5 An Acre More

About a fourth of the farmer's extra profit is calculated to come from the staple premium; the rest, from higher yields per acre, ease in picking, better ginning, warehousing and selling practices—things that do not cost any extra money.

The additional cash return is put at from $5 to $8 an acre. By actual calculation, it was $6.93 an acre in Georgia in 1936. With cotton prices lower, the average probably was nearer $5 an acre last year.

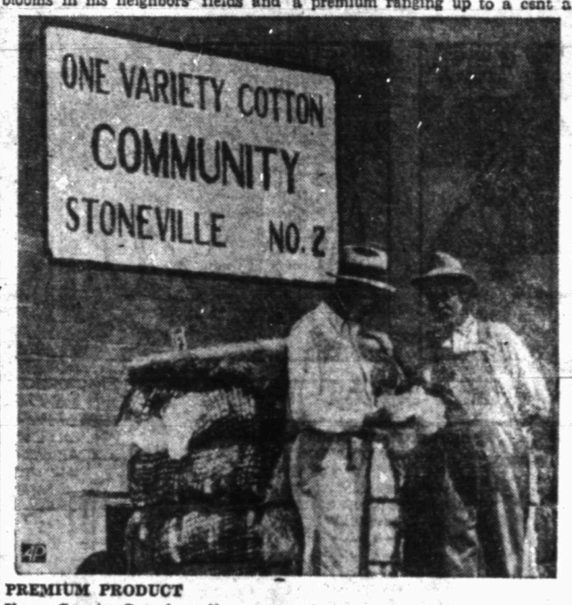

The big total dividend comes from the fact that one-variety communities last season produced 1,400,000 bales on 1,950,000 acres, not for from a tenth of the nation's yield.

State and federal agriculture departments, extension services, experiment stations, agriculture teachers, seed breeders, manufacturers, bankers and newspapers all support the movement.

One-variety communities are scattered throughout King Cotton's domain—in the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, California and other states.

THE PAY-OFF
Cotton produced by the one-variety plan (left on chart) measures an inch in length of fiber, C. A. McLendon, government cotton improvement specialist points out, while the ordinary mixed-variety yield produces a hodgepodge of fibers, some running as short as five-eighths of an inch.

PREMIUM PRODUCT
Upson County, Georgia, cotton growers inspect some of their one-variety product at the community warehouse.

Reorganization Of U. S. Produce Markets Asked By Department

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP)—The agriculture department called today for a reorganization of the nation's produce markets, criticizing them as inefficient and the cause of unnecessarily high retail prices.

It said a recent survey showed the annual cost of distributing fruits and vegetables from the farm to the consumer exceeded $1,500,000, the bulk of which was incurred after produce reached the cities.

"As a result," it said, "the consumer pays more and the farmer gets less."

MAIZE PRICES GOOD

MEADOW, (Special)—Grain buyers here are reported paying $11 a ton for maize heads. Bundles bring $5 a ton. Farmers are selling a considerable amount of maize and bundles.

MAIZE AT BLEDSOE

BLEDSOE, (Special)—Maize here is reported selling for about $11 a ton. Considerable has been brought here for sale to buyers. Farmers will sell most of their surplus crop.

Payments Being Made Under Act

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 15 (Special)—Payments under the terms of the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program are being made in considerable volume, according to Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation committee.

The conservation program terminated two months later than was the case in 1936 when the final date for compliance was October 31. Farmers had until December 31 to carry out conservation practices in 1937.

A. and M. Office Busy

First payments went to farmers in Brazos, Morris, and Jasper counties, Slaughter said. The state AAA office on the campus of Texas A. and M. college is auditing 2,000 applications for grants a day, and is equipped to handle as many as 3,000 a day if the volume received from the field justifies.

In spite of the fact that the compliance date fell two months later, the program as a whole is further along than in 1936, according to Slaughter. He pointed out that 167 counties had been approved for final adjustment as compared with 52 on the same date in 1937, and that some 99,000 applications for grant have been typed and returned to the counties. On the same date in 1937, this figure stood at 36,000.

The fact that the expenses of administering the program within the counties must be deducted from the payments going to farmers makes it impossible to make payments to any one county until at least 75 per cent of the applications from that county have been received by the state office, Slaughter said.

Around 36 million dollars will be distributed among approximately 200,000 Texas farmers under the 1937 agricultural program, Slaughter estimated.

The bagpipe is an instrument of great antiquity.

New Dairy World Queen Has Been Crowned

The new queen of the dairy world is Femco Alma, above, registered Holstein cow of royal breeding. She has just completed a new all-time record in production of butter for junior two-year-old cows of all breeds. The record was made at Femco farms, the agricultural demonstration farm of the Minneapolis Tribune, at Breckenridge, Minn.

Branch State Seed Laboratory Is Busy At Tech Making Tests; Early Peltier Manager

A branch state seed laboratory for determining germination of seed for planting, is now set up at Texas Technological college and so far more than 100 samples have been received, Early Peltier, in charge for the state seed laboratory division of the department of agriculture, said.

Equipment for the laboratory, located in the west end of the temporary "shack" of the division of agriculture, has been received except the "cold control" germinator. The other type is now in use. It has a control of 30 degrees centigrade, while the cold type has from 18 to 20 degrees.

All seed sold in packages of 10 pounds or more, in Texas, must carry a state certificate as to germination, purity, etc., Peltier said. The state tests the seed and furnishes the label.

Grain sorghums are now being tested, the assistant said. State certified seed is running high, from 93 to 98 per cent germination. Other sorghums are running higher than for several years, although not quite as high in percentage as the certified seed. Sorghums are averaging about 88 to 90 per cent.

Cotton seed have been tested but

Meeting Called On Irrigation

Lubbock county irrigation farmers have been called to meet in the district court room Monday night by Robert H. Bean, head of the county irrigation board, to discuss a local crop situation for the coming season. It will be the first of a series to work out problems facing the farmers.

One of the subjects to be discussed, said a letter to all irrigation farmers, mailed last week, is truck gardening. It is pointed out that vegetables do well in this entire area, but that the local market is poor. Present crops are too large for local consumption and not large enough for shipment to other points.

No Facilities Here

There are no facilities here, such as storage sheds, curing sheds, canning plants, packing plants, etc. New crops should be developed and a marketing system established.

Irrigation of grain sorghums and cotton are becoming more common. There are indications of a limit to cotton production, it is pointed out, while grain sorghum irrigation is not always profitable.

Tomatoes are pointed out as a possible crop, provided marketing of the crop could be had. Ripening in September and October, and with but little competition, the crop could be made to show good returns if marketing can be accomplished.

Peltier said he was quite satisfied as there appeared to be an excess of mould on some seed he had received.

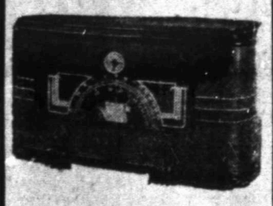

J. B. McClung, chief of the seed laboratory, was here from Austin last week, checking over the work and seeing what needed to be done. He was accompanied by Chief Inspector Young. The germinator was ordered last September, but its arrival has been delayed, due to strike troubles in industrial plants in the east.

RUMANIA has broken away from the Little Entente, and the Nazi element is in control. Jugoslavia, too, has cooled off considerably. She still maintains her friendship with Paris but is more receptive to the enticing voice of Mussolini.

By far the most acute picture is found in Czechoslovakia. Some 25 per cent of the population of that country has German blood in its veins and regards Hitler as its spiritual leader. The people have combined to demand autonomy and are supported vigorously by the Berlin government. So powerful are these Czech Nazis that in the Chamber of Deputies they are second in strength.

Hitler Eyes Czechoslovakia

Neither Berlin nor any other European capital has the slightest doubt that Adolph Hitler intends to take over Czechoslovakia and, having achieved this, plans to carry out his campaign of expansion eastward towards the Ukraine, using Czechoslovakia as a gateway. Such talk is a common—and frank—topic of conversation these days in the Reich.

Meanwhile Japan, with the moral support of Germany and Italy, is going ahead with its conquest of China.

THE chasm between fascist and democratic states has grown to its present tremendous proportions because all totalitarian countries have designs on other peoples' property and propose to take it by force if it cannot be taken any other way.

What can be done about it?

There are many people today—by no means idealistic dreamers but sound statesmen—who are convinced that it is not too late. A notable representative of this group is Secretary of State Cordell Hull. His every endeavor is directed towards one main point—a spiritual reform. But before that can be accomplished the fascists would have to abandon their militaristic program and return to the respect of treaties.

Rearmament Is Essential

Until something concrete in this direction is accomplished, the greatest immediate safeguard for peace are England's and America's rearmament program. These are being carried out on such a vast scale that no nation on earth can compete with them.

It is a fortuitous omen that along with the publication of armament plans coming from abroad Secretary Hull announces a trade pact with Great Britain. This news has a greater political than commercial significance: Mr. Hull proposes to achieve world peace by removing trade barriers. Thus the opening of trade negotiations between America and England may be looked upon as a definite step towards world peace.

Perhaps the dictatorships will be impressed with its implications.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT No. 1 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Through the dark, mysterious jungle of Africa, a long safari wound its way like a great, sluggish serpent. The travelers believed they were far from the eyes and haunts of men; but through the trees above them glided a silent human figure, watching alertly.

"Now in country of Tarzan of the Apes," the native guide declared proudly. "Huh! Looking for Tarzan in this endless wilderness is worse than hunting for a needle in a haystack," Stanley Wood remarked wearily to his sole white companion, Robert van Eyk.

Suddenly, as if there were some magic in his words to conjure up the object of his search, the figure of a bronzed white man flashed before his eyes, plummeting from the trees directly into the trail. "I am Tarzan," the figure announced; "what do you want?"

The black carriers stood gazing with awe at the Jungle Lord, who was the subject of a thousand heroic tales. Even Stanley Wood was too startled to make an immediate reply. "What do you want of me?" Tarzan repeated. "Perhaps your life!" Wood answered slowly.

Several Developments Are Reported In West Texas Oil Circles Last Week

Pipe Line To Hockley Section From Crane Area Is Planned

BY JOHN B. BREWER
Special Oil Writer

Promised development of production at a point 140 feet in the Delaware sand by Barnett Petroleum Corp. No. 1-A Johnson in west central Loving county 2 1-2 miles northwest of the Kyle field, where pay is obtained at and slightly below the contact of the Delaware lime and sand, was this week's outstanding West Texas oil development.

Next in interest was the coring of slightly saturated sand and lime between 7,075-83 feet, probably above the Ordovician, in Stanley A. Thompson's No. 1 Elsinore Cattle Co., south central Pecos county wildcat. Texas-Pacific No. 3 Bennett, after a shot, indicated the heaviest production yet obtained in the Bennett pool in southeastern Yoakum county, and two locations were staked by Honolulu, in southwestern Hockley county, each offsetting a producer in the Slaughter pool, which early in January gained its third and largest well, the Texas Co. No. 2 Slaughter.

Pipe Line Being Planned

The Slaughter field and the Duggan pool in southeastern Cochran county will gain their first outlets under plans, said not yet mature, for the building of a pipe line by the Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line Co. from its Crane station in the Church & Fields pool in Crane county northward through Ector, Andrews, Gaines and Yoakum counties to the Texas Co.'s Slaughter block in Hockley, possibly with a 6-inch branch to the Duggan pool. The system would be 175 miles long and would serve much productive intervening territory.

Locations staged a comeback this week, 45 for field tests and three for wildcats being staked in 10 counties compared with only 19 for field tests and five for wildcats in 10 counties during the preceding week. The three wildcats listed this week were in Ward county. Completions increased to 43 producers and six failures in 11 counties from 35 producers and two failures in 13 counties the week before. The dusters were one each in Andrews, Borden, Crane, Howard, Martin and Ward counties.

Barnett No. 1-A Johnson in Loving county filled with 44 gravity oil in 24 hours after drilling sand from 3,844 to 3,846 feet, the total depth. Gas was estimated at 100,000 cubic feet daily and the oil slopped over in a series of small heads. Cleaning out of an estimated 100 feet of cavings, then swabbing, was planned, with shooting likely to follow. No water was reported.

Tops Delaware Lime

No. 1-A Johnson has an elevation of 3,044 feet, topped the Delaware lime at 3,675 feet and entered the Delaware sand at 3,704. It showed only one barrel of free oil with no water in 50 hours after being shot with 170 quarts when bottomed at 3,728 feet, and drilled ahead. Location is 2,200 from the north, 440 feet from the east line of section 12-56-1-T&P.

Five wells in the Kyle pool produce oil averaging 39 gravity. An outlet is provided by a 4-inch line built by the Michigan Gas & Oil Co., pool discoverer, 10 miles southwest to a connection with the Paso-Tex pipe line that leads to El Paso.

The core from 7,075-81 feet in Thompson No. 1 Elsinore in Pecos county showed enough gas to cut the rotary drilling mud. There was no reported change as drilling progressed at 7,098 feet. 3,160 feet below sea level. The test was believed to be still in the Pennsylvanian or in an uncomformity between that series and the Ordovician. Location is 3,978 from the north, 1,200 feet from the east line of section 53-D-GC&SF, 20 miles south of Ft. Stockton.

Oil Sand Is Cored

Magnolia No. 1-A McKee, northern Pecos county wildcat which drilled and cored oil saturated Simpson sand from 5,271-80 feet, cemented 9 5-8 inch casing at 5,192 feet preparatory to testing, bottomed at 5,294 feet. It is in the northwest corner of the south half of section 24-9-H&GN, one mile northeast of Imperial.

Texas-Pacific No. 3 Bennett on the west side of the Bennett pool in Yoakum county flowed 277 barrels of oil in three hours after being shut in 12 hours, bottomed at 5,260 feet. It was shot with 620 quarts and showed 2 3-4 million cubic feet of gas daily. Tubing was being run for a test. The well is 2,200 from the north, 440 feet from the west line of section 678-D-John H. Gibson.

Shell No. 1 J. H. Lynn, north offset to Denver No. 1 J. A. Whittenberg, opener of Yoakum's most southerly field, flowed 222 barrels of oil in 24 hours for completion at 4,999 feet after treatment with 4,000 gallons of acid. It is 660 feet out of the southwest corner of section 698.

Cochran Test Ready

J. R. Meeker and others' No. 1 Wright, eastern Cochran county wildcat, bottomed at 4,934 feet, cemented 7-inch casing at 4,505 preliminary to testing saturated lime between 4,883 and 4,910. It is in the southeast corner of labor 26, league 96, Mills county school land.

The two locations staked in Hockley county by Honolulu were for No. 1-51 Slaughter 483 from the south, 440 feet from the west line of labor 51, league 37, Zavala county school land, an east offset to Texas No. 2 Slaughter; and No. 1-77 Slaughter 1,450 from the south, 440 feet from the east line of labor 77, league 37, an indirect east offset to Stanolind No. 1 Slaughter, most southeasterly well in the field.

Humble No. 1 Lewis & Wardlaw, scheduled Ordovician wildcat in western Tom Green county, finished a month's fishing job at 3,811 feet in lime and drilled ahead.

The week's failures included Honolulu No. 1-6 Parker in section 6-A44-psl, in southern Andrews county, at 4,806 feet; Harris-Anderson No. 1 Robinson in section 33-36-psl, Martin county, at 4,189 feet, and Wilcox No. 1 McKnight in section 9-46-G&MMB&A, Crane county, at 7,221 feet in lime above the Ordovician. Jack D. Bodkins' No. 1 Edwards, Ector wildcat in section 37-43-3s-T&P, shut down for orders at 4,529 feet in anhydrite and redrock.

First Of Mounted Trophies Received

First of the mounted trophies from a hunt in the Canadian Rockies of British Columbia last September have been received by W. G. McMillan, city commissioner, he said Saturday.

McMillan and W. E. Humphries, Lubbock wholesale grocer, made the trip, spending several weeks in a mountainous region with a guide whose cabin was 45 miles from the nearest habitation.

Big Horn Sheep

First of the mounted trophies is the head of a Rocky Mountain big horn sheep killed by McMillan. Its horns measure 16 1-4 inches in circumference at the base and is described as the fifth largest among the recorded kills of that kind on the American continent.

McMillan and Humphries brought 11 heads back with them for mounting, including a moose, elk, black bear and goat.

The hunters also sought a grizzly bear without success. However, one of the occasional letters they receive from the guide advised them that their expedition enabled a German who had come from Berlin to hunt in the region to get two grizzlies of immense size.

The grizzlies, according to the letter, were feeding on the carcass of one of the kills by McMillan and Humphries when the German came upon them. He shot them both and then discovered beside their carcasses the body of a large black bear which they had killed.

Beaumont Ranks High In Safety

BEAUMONT, Jan. 15. (AP)—Citizens of Beaumont stopped killing and maiming each other in 1937.

Of course, the police backed them, but the safety campaign which projected the city into the position of first in the nation in reduction of traffic accidents, originated with the citizenry.

Are Reduced To Six

Traffic deaths in 1936 numbered 22. Traffic deaths in 1937 numbered six, or a reduction of 72.7 per cent. (Census bureau figures put the percentage of reduction at 63.6, but they included a man as a traffic victim who was killed when his truck fell on him as he worked on it in his back yard).

Last January when the citizens of Beaumont were reminded that they had killed 22 persons with their cars in 1936, they decided to stop. Representatives from every civic, patriotic, fraternal and religious organization in the city joined in a safty league. This league told Chief of Police L. B. Maddox that citizens wanted the law enforced and that they would cease trying to get out of paying stop sign and speeding violation fines.

Fines Were Paid

They paid. In 1936, $2,661 was paid on 1,455 stop sign fines. In 1937, $7,018 was paid on 2,410 fines. In 1936, 141 speeders paid $627 while in 1937, 958 paid $5,288 in speeding fines.

The safety league, working with the police department, marked the site of each 1936 traffic death with a large yellow cross that had its psychological effect in slowing down potential speeders.

The safety league maintained a daily chart, prominently displayed on the city hall lawn on the main street, tabulating the number of accidents to date, the number injured and the number killed.

Eliminate Bad Corners

An engineering committee of the league took a hand in the campaign by eliminating bad corners and by the use of signal lights at strategic intersections.

But the safety league is not satisfied. Six people were killed by automobiles in 1937. The league has arranged to continue its program of rigid law enforcement and expand its activities to include an educational campaign for pedestrians in 1938.

The league does feel it has made progress. In 1936, Beaumont ranked among the five most dangerous cities in the nation from the standpoint of traffic accident possibilities. Now it has a fine record and will make every effort to improve.
