Pampa May Get New $1 Million Hotel

Survey Underway To Determine Need

A new, million dollar hotel for Pampa, over ten years in the making, moved one step closer to realization yesterday afternoon when interested parties met with a consulting agency executive in the Cabot auditorium in the Hughes building.

City Commission In Short Meeting

At the regular weekly meeting of the City Commission this morning, the commissioners approved the monthly bills of the city.

30 Pampa business and professional people how his organization could help the community in the promotion of a new hotel.

Contacted at the Chamber of Commerce office this morning, Hockenbury said, "I have been in touch with Pampa since 1945 and have known of the need for a multi-room hotel here all this time. Pampa would probably have built a hotel in 1950 except for the Korean War and a shortage of critical building materials."

After firing questions at Hockenbury for two consecutive hours, the auditorium audience voted unanimously to authorize the Hockenbury Company to conduct a hotel survey in Pampa determining the need, if any, for a new, modern, up-to-date hotel, and what size and type would be most logical for the community.

Hockenbury's organization conducted a similar hotel survey in Pampa in 1950 at which time it was determined the Pampa area could support a 100 room hotel. The Korean War, however, crippled any building attempts at that time.

E. O. "Red" Wedgeworth, Manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, said, "The hotel need which existed in 1950 has been intensified since then by the tremendous population growth of Pampa."

In discussing the matter yesterday with the local group, Hockenbury insisted it would be necessary to bring his 1950 survey up-to-date before any sort of building program could be started.

COMMUNITY HOTELS
Hockenbury named ten Texas cities that have developed communities to be potentially a good hotel town.

Today, Hockenbury began scouring the city gathering information on Pampa and the surrounding area. Later, he plans to mail out a questionnaire to a cross-section of the local population to determine

Mrs. Branson To Head 'Seal Sale'

Mrs. G. F. Branson, 1009 Mary Ellen, was appointed "seal sale" chairman by President Sam Beget at the quarterly meeting of the Gray County Tuberculosis Association held in the Pine Room of the Pampa Hotel yesterday. Mrs. Paul Bowers was appointed to help Mrs. Branson.

Knox Kinard gave a report to the group about the state TB convention he attended in April.

Seventeen members of the board were present. Homer Craig served as secretary. The executive secretary was unable to attend.

the feelings, ideas and attitudes of the citizenry regarding the proposed hotel.

Hockenbury will then prepare a survey report which he will bring back for the inspection of community representatives. Armed with the survey report, the consulting agent will make his recommendations about what sort of a hotel should be built in Pampa.

STOCK-SELLING PLAN
Following Hockenbury's verbal report, interested Pampa business and professional people will then decide whether or not to conduct a campaign to raise a community hotel based upon a stock-selling plan.

George Cree Jr., chairman of the special hotel committee, presided at yesterday's meeting. Also present were George Scott, George Cree Sr., E. L. Greene, C. P. Buckler, M. K. Brown, Reno Stinson, John Frick, Bob Carmichael, Joe Tooley, Coy Palmer, Bill Smith, and Fred Neslage.

Paul Crouch, E. O. Wedgeworth, Clinton Evans, Paul West and Dr. M. C. Overton also attended.

Hospital Board To Take Furniture Gifts

The Board of Directors of Highland General Hospital announced at their monthly meeting Monday night that several donations have been received for furnishing rooms in the 40 room addition now under construction.

The directors stated that any person or group of persons desiring to furnish a room could contact Chet Lander, superintendent of the hospital, and make their donation.

The names of those providing the furnishings for each room will be inscribed on a bronze plaque and placed upon the door of the room, Lander stated.

The cost of the equipment for each room will be $500. Lander reported. The equipment will include an 80 inch hospital bed, bedside table, overbed table, arm chair, straight chair, drapes, mattress, IV rod, and floor lamp. The dressers, equipped with mirror, are being built into the wall.

Lander also stated that the rooms will be painted in various pastel colors and that pictures will be placed in each room.

The directors voted to ask the County Commissioners Court to advertise for bids on an elevator to be placed in the new addition. The elevator will be of the hydraulic lift type and provisions have been made in the construction of the new wing for the installation of the elevator.

It was announced at the meeting that construction work on the new addition is now approximately 80 per cent complete and that plans call for the completion of the work by the first of the year.

In other action approved by the board, it was decided to sign an agreement with Southwestern Public Service Company for the utility firm to furnish electricity to the hospital for the next year on a commercial rate. This will mean a large saving in electricity cost when the new addition is completed, Lander said.

The board adopted a list of procedures for the use of the operating room. The procedures included the rules that any person hav-

Voters Go To Polls Today In Bond Election

Voting this morning in the city bond election was light with only about 100 voters having cast their ballots at 10:30.

Approximately half of the votes cast this morning were in Ward 1. The election today is for the purpose of deciding whether or not the city will be authorized to sell $1,000,000 in tax bonds and $1,810,000 in water and sewer revenue bonds.

The bonds, if approved, will be used for part of the city's cost of construction on the Hobart Street underpass, improvements to streets and bridges, construction of new

Twining To Visit Academy

MOSCOW (UP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining visits today the Zhukovsky Air Engineering Academy where the Soviet Union turns out some of its top aeronautical engineers.

Twining, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, may get another look at the latest Soviet jet planes, but the schedule was easier today and included a visit to a soccer game.

The American legislation, including six Air Force generals, remains in Russia until Sunday when he leaves for the U.S. Air Force base in Wiesbaden, Germany.

Twining and his aides will coordinate their observations there for the Pentagon and for President Eisenhower. He indicated the President would pass on some of his findings to the American public.

The Russians have managed to unveil a new plane or planes on each day of Twining's visit. Sunday they displayed seven new jets. Monday they showed Twining three new planes including a supersonic ground attack jet bomber.

Burial At Annapolis

Adm. King Dies At 77

KITTERY, Me. (UP)—The body of Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King today makes the melancholy journey back to his beloved Annapolis. King, who led the largest and hardest hitting fleet the world has ever seen, died Monday at the Portsmouth Naval Hospital. He was 77.

The Navy announced in Washington that funeral services will be held in the Washington National Cathedral Friday, with burial at the Naval Academy Cemetery at Annapolis, Md.

The body of the former U. S. scheduled to be flown to the capital today and was to be met by representatives of the military services, the diplomatic corps and members of his family.

After a brief ceremony with the U. S. Navy Band participating, the casket was to be carried past a

The body will be moved to the National Cathedral Wednesday where it will lie in state with a 24-hour honor guard.

After the funeral services, King's body will be borne by caisson down historic Constitution Avenue to the front of the Capitol. Then it will be taken to Annapolis, Md., for burial.

The admiral was stricken with a heart seizure Sunday. He rallied briefly a few hours later and then fell into a coma. At his bedside when he died was his son, Lt. Com. Ernest J. King Jr., who flew here from Washington.

President Eisenhower mourned the death of his "old friend," the tall, tough boss of America's greatest navy. Mr. Eisenhower said King had carried out his war responsibilities "with courage, brilliance and continued devotion to duty."

An Admitted "Sluggo"
King, who believed there was no way to win except "by going in there and slugging," began his career as an ensign after graduation from the Naval Academy.

His doctors report that the President's recovery from his intestinal operation "continues... very satisfactorily."

His recovery is going so well that Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, who has remained close by the chief executive since the June 9 operation, now plans to spend only half a day at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Hagerty will return to the White House for the remaining half of his working day to catch up on stacks of mail and other business untended for the past 18 days.

'Atmospheric Shocks' Are Detected In Observatory

By EARNST HOBRECHT
United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO —UP— The United States exploded another hydrogen bomb today, Japanese scientists reported. They called it part of a series of rival tests being carried out simultaneously with the Soviet Union.

The U. S. explosion was detected by the Central Meteorological Observatory here with recorded "unusual atmospheric shocks." It said the hydrogen bomb probably was exploded in the Bikini area, scene of other H-bomb tests.

The Russian hydrogen bomb blast was reported to have occurred June 19 or 20. Dr. Hironobu Watanabe of Niigata University said he detected the explosion through radioactivity tests made on "hot" rain which fell in Niigata. Niigata is on the coast facing Siberia.

AEC Refuses Comment
The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission in Washington refused to comment on the reports but a spokesman pointed out that the AEC announced in April there would be at least ten shots in the current series of tests.

"We are not commenting on specific reports of the progress of the series of tests out there," the AEC spokesman said.

Japanese scientists reported on May 21 and 28 that the United States had exploded a hydrogen bomb. The May 21 test was announced by the United States but Washington officials would not comment on the May 28 shot.

Last 49 Minutes
The scientists say such an explosion would have taken place at Bikini about three hours before the shock waves reached Tokyo at 6:20 a.m. (8:20 p.m. EDT Monday). The shocks occurred at 11:20 a.m. (See JAPANESE Page 3)

Jets Return From Bikini

HONOLULU (UP)—Two jet bombers from the Eniwetok-Bikini atomic proving grounds arrived at Hickam Field Monday en route to the mainland.

One was a giant Air Force B-52 Stratofortress and the other was a navy B-46 medium jet bomber. An Air Force spokesman said they probably will lay over at Hickam for several days before going to undisclosed bases on the mainland. The B-52 is the same type of plane that dropped the H-bomb on May 21.

The arrival of the bombers coupled with reports of improved weather conditions at the proving grounds indicated a nuclear test could have taken place within the past 24 hours.

After the May 21 explosion, similar nuclear bombers arrived at Hickam after about the same time lapse.

PRICE DANIEL ... sets informal meeting

Price Daniel To Visit Top O' Texas

Gubernatorial candidate Price Daniel will arrive in Pampa at 4 p.m. Thursday on a pre-election tour of the Panhandle. U. S. Sen. Daniel is scheduled to hold an informal political meeting with supporters as well as the general public in the Gray County courtroom.

The meeting, according to Fred Thompson, Daniel's Gray County campaign chairman, will be held on a strictly informal basis and without any major speeches.

Sen. Daniel was born in Dayton, Liberty County, October 10, 1910. His college training was at Baylor University where he received a degree in journalism in 1931 and a degree in law in 1932.

From Speaker of the Texas House at the age of 32 through four years as U. S. senator, he has sponsored legislation to promote local self-government, better schools, state conservation of natural resources and full payment

Pension Funds Are Mortgage Source

By ROBERT F. MORISON
WASHINGTON, June 23—UP—Attention of homebuilders and lenders is focusing more sharply on fast-growing pension funds as a possible source of mortgage money.

Pension funds have become more attractive as regular mortgage investors — like insurance companies — acquire just about as many mortgages as they want. The tightness of the money search for new sources of funds. But a basic change in American life is contributing to the interest in pension funds as the possible answer.

Before World War I Americans largely provided for their retirement and old age by saving their money and putting it in banks, savings and loan associations and other depositories. These in turn invested the savings to a large extent in mortgages.

Private Pensions Grow
After World War II privately administered pensions rapidly assumed large proportions. By 1950 their total assets were about $6.4 billion.

At the end of 1954 these assets had risen to $11.3 billion and are increasing by more than $1.5 billion a year. The funds are increasingly being invested in corporate bonds and common stock and only to a small extent in mortgages.

The reason for this preference, government experts say, is that buying stocks and bonds involves no detailed investigation of properties. Nor does it mean keeping complicated books to record monthly payments.

Builders and lenders, hopeful that pension funds may eventually be tapped on a large scale to relieve the strain on existing mortgage investment funds, generally feel the main task is to "sell" pension funds on the value of putting money in mortgages.

No Easy Job
Most do not think this will be an easy job but are willing to try. Two solutions have been advanced. One plans to locate good home mortgages, sell them to pension funds and handle the monthly servicing of the mortgages as well as the initial investigation.

The Democratic platform must contain a declaration of support for the Supreme Court decision outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

There was disagreement from Gov. George Bell Timmerman, Jr., of South Carolina, who is trying to promote a Southern unity movement. He denies he is trying to promote a third party.

Democratic Exploratory Session
Timmerman announced that some Democratic state chairmen from the South will hold an exploratory session soon, probably at Atlanta.

He told newsmen that letters containing the South Carolina proposal went to governors, party officials and members of Congress in 11 states. He said only Sen. W. Kerr Scott (D-N.C.) and Walter F. George (D-Ga.) and an unidentified House member objected.

It is known however that Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, has replied that he wants no part of the South Carolina plan.

It appeared that Timmerman had not seen the Johnson reply or that it was couched in such vague language as to be interpreted as a favorable response.

Tug-Of-War, But No Split Between Blue & Grey Demos

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—The usual tug-of-war between Northern and Southern Democrats kept a strain on the party today but there were no signs of real eagerness for a split in the ranks.

Pressure and counter-pressure was evident among Democratic governors on hand here for the 48th annual Conference of Governors. After weekend preliminaries, the "non-political" conference moved today into discussion of such mutual state problems as education and highways.

The conference actually gave Gov. Averell Harriman of New York a chance to court uncommitted Democratic governors in his challenge to Adlai E. Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nominations.

Invites Fellow Governors
He invited 24 of his fellow Democratic governors present to drop in to his hotel suite Tuesday evening.

But if Harriman had any tricks up his sleeve to pull a political coup this week, he was not yet ready to show them.

er Reames and family of Hometown, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Woods, Jerome and Chucky of Colorado Springs, Colo., visited his mother, Mrs. C. E. Woods last weekend.

The Democrats admitted freely they expected to talk some politics this week. Republican governors stuck to the party line that President Eisenhower will run and win again, whatever the Democrats did.

In a series of news conferences, Harriman and Govs. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey predicted the Democrats will write a party platform that the south will accept.

No Walkout Talk
None of the three "liberals" would admit the possibility of a Southern walkout from the national convention.

And none would make any rash forecasts about the chances of a Democrat to carry their own states against President Eisenhower next November.

Williams said the candidate is secondary to the platform and that he thinks Mr. Eisenhower can be beaten.

Harriman conceded that he is not the "candidate of the South" for the nomination, but he would not identify Stevenson, who has much Southern support, as that candidate.

Could Get Negro Vote
Freedom from Southern backing could mean the support of big northern states with a substantial Negro vote.

The three governors insisted that

Ochiltree County Places 2 On State 4-H Talent Club

PERRYTON — (Special) — Jimmy Latham and Bonita Kay Dunnahoo of Ochiltree County are among sixteen 4-H Club members throughout the state of Texas who have been named to become members of the Talent Club. This club is an exclusive organization for club members which is sponsored by the Producers Grain Corporation of Amarillo.

The purpose of club is to recognize the outstanding work being done by 4-H Club members and to interest them in cooperative activities. The members will be taken on a tour of successful cooperatives in northwest Texas, New Mexico, and Colorado, and during the tour they will also visit historic and scenic spots.

Both Latham and Miss Dunnahoo have been very active in 4-H work in the county. Latham, who will be a high school freshman, has consistently shown winning livestock at numerous shows. He has shown the grand champion calf of the Perryton show, and in 1955 he showed the grand champion calf of the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show. He has also raised sheep, and numerous field crops.

Bonita Dunnahoo, who lives near Waka, will be a sophomore in Perryton High School next year. She has been participating in 4-H Club activities for a number of years. At the 1955 North Plains Fair in Perryton she was named 4-H Club Bake Queen, and received the right to participate in the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo where she placed high. This past spring she won the Ochiltree County 4-H Club Dress Review, and she participated in this contest at College Station. She has also taken part in many other club activities. She also won numerous prizes for her sewing, cooking, canning and other activities.

First Session Of Water Safety Program To End

The first session of the Red Cross Water Safety Program will end Friday morning. All parents are invited to visit and observe the progress made by their children.

Beginning swimmers, who have passed the Red Cross swimming requirements, will receive certificates. To complete the requirements, the beginner must have taken the prescribed course under an authorized Red Cross instructor and have learned a series of beginning swimming skills that have enabled him to jump into deep water, level off, and swim 15 yards, then turn about and swim back to the starting point. He must also be able to dive into deep water, swim 15 yards, turn around, turn over on his back and rest in floating position for 15 seconds, and then turn again and swim back to the starting point.

Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, Red Cross executive secretary, said that the parents of the children who do not get a certificate should not be worried, for it usually takes three years for a beginner to become adept in swimming.

In teaching the beginners to swim, the instructors first teach them to not be afraid of the water; second, the breathing techniques; third, to float on their stomachs; fourth, to float on their back; fifth, add the kick with the front foot; and sixth, to add the arm stroke to the kick and floating position.

There is a need for aides to help in the next swimming session, Mrs. Shotwell said. The Red Cross would like to have an aide for every 10 children.

"The present aides have done a marvelous job," Mrs. Shotwell said, "but the next classes will be much larger, so we need more aides."

Anyone who has a Junior Life Saving Badge, or any mother who can swim, is asked to report to the Red Cross office if they are interested in becoming an aide, she added.

Capitol Hill Roundup

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate Democrats appeared today to have the votes to push through their controversial $1.16 billion increase in Air Force appropriations.

Both Republicans and Democrats conceded, however, that the showdown vote would be close. Aside from the Air Force squabble, the military appropriations bill follows closely the $34.1 billion recommended by the administration.

Some increase appeared certain in the $15.6 billion in appropriations recommended by the administration for the Air Force in the coming fiscal year. The only question was how big an increase.

Democrats, with the backing of the majority of the Senate Appropriations Committee, were pressing for a $1.16 billion increase. Republicans were attempting to hold the increase down to $500 million.

While the Senate headed for the crucial vote, a Senate Armed Services subcommittee continued to take evidence on whether this country is losing air supremacy to Russia. Scheduled to appear before the subcommittee was Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles. His subordinates have said Russia may wrest air superiority from the United States.

Other congressional news:

Information: The Senate investigating subcommittee invited White House Cabinet Secretary Maxwell Rabb to repeat under oath his statement that neither he nor his staff gave a newspaperman secret cabinet files which had been withheld from Congress. The information is alleged to have been given to Robert J. Donovan, White House reporter for the New York Herald-Tribune. Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerly declined comment on whether Rabb would appear.

Highways—House leaders called up the compromise $32.9 billion highway construction bill. They hoped to pass the bill and send it to the Senate for its approval before nightfall. The average motorist would be taxed an extra $4.50 a year under the bill.

Veterans Benefits: The House also called up for debate a bill to increase veterans' benefits. The measure, which is backed by the American Legion but opposed by other veterans groups, was given little chance of passing. The real fight was expected to center on two substitute proposals.

Flanders: Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) told the Senate in a prepared speech that the United States should drop its emphasis on rearming Germany. Instead, he called for efforts to negotiate with Russia for a unified, unarmed Germany.

Contributions: House Clerk Ralph Roberts accused the Justice Department of trying to make political capital out of its demand that Congress produce discarded records on 1952 election campaign contributions. The department said it wanted the records to investigate charges that certain government officials were "improperly influenced" by campaign contributions. Roberts said his office legally threw out the 1952 records.

Civil Rights: The House Rules Committee is expected to act on the administration's civil rights bill Wednesday, and a comfortable majority of the 12-man committee is reported favoring the bill. Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) delayed a vote last Thursday by adjourning the meeting for lack of a quorum.

Schools: Chairman Graham A. Barden (D-NC) was expected to make a final try to remove federal requirements governing distribution of school funds to states as his House Education Committee met in secret to put finishing touches on the school bill. The House is scheduled to begin debate on the $1.6 billion school construction bill Wednesday. Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D-WVa.) charged that Southern fears that funds would be denied to states maintaining segregated schools are "unfounded."

Soboloff: The Senate Judiciary Committee by a 5-4 margin agreed to vote Thursday on the long-stalled nomination of solicitor general Simon E. Soboloff to the U.S.

One Injured In Collision

Two collisions which occurred within the city limits since noon Monday resulted in one person being hospitalized as a result of injuries received.

Billy Joe Williams, 1209 W. Alcock, was taken to Worley Hospital following an accident at 12:32 a.m. today on Brown, 165 feet east of Gillespie. The accident occurred when Williams lost control of the '52 Mercury he was driving, according to the report of investigating officers.

The Mercury skidded on the pavement and jumped the curb, striking a '56 Chevrolet belonging to Charles R. Mills, 200 N. Ward. No report was available late this morning on Williams' condition.

The Mercury encountered damages estimated at $125 and the Chevrolet met with damages estimated at $175.

The other collision reported to the local police department occurred at 4:03 p.m. Monday on Foster, 40 feet west of Somerville. Goe Wah Yee, 155 S. Cuyler, driving a '49 Dodge, was in collision with William F. Collins, Kirbyville, driving a '50 Ford.

Damages to the Ford were estimated at $200 and the Dodge encountered damages estimated at $25.

Took A Little Persuasion "The hell with 'em," said King, but he finally was persuaded and within a fortnight a chilly meeting took place in Bull's Arlington County home. King was cold and unbending although he did have a can of beer. He talked a little, explained a bit and stiffly answered a few questions.

Perhaps to his surprise, news of the secret meeting on neutral grounds was not all over town within a single day, or even. Some weeks later Bull arranged a second, adding a couple of new faces and dropping one or two. King was warmer that time and the third meeting came at a shorter interval.

Early in 1943 the regular meetings were shifted to the more secluded rural home of Phelps H. Adams, then of the New York Sun and now public relations director for U. S. Steel. At the Adams home they continued throughout the war except for the last one which took place in a private dining room of the Statler Hotel. Present were all of the 25 or so newsmen who at one time or another during the

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

WHILE THE MAJORITY OF DRESSES for summer wear are full-skirted, and separate skirts are full, the town dress is mostly slim or retains a look of slimmness, say Women's Wear Daily editors. There are the real sheaths shown in dark opaque fabrics, cotton, linen or silk. Many of these are open necked and bare armed, taking a brief bolero or fitted, cropped jacket for coverup.

INCREASING THE SCOPE, there are full-skirted dark sheers such as dotted swiss that will do well for town wear. Again the shirtwaist type appears, particularly appropriate for city wear with long sleeves.

Sun or patio dresses, traditionally an important type, this year favor full skirts, necklines modest in front, bare in back. Halter cuts, plain draped and twisted; camisoles, round or square; and the neckline that is a combination of camisole and bateau are the most frequently seen.

While there are still some strapless sun dresses shown, the builtup dresses and swimsuits in cottons often repeat the same bodice for both, now that swimsuit necklines are getting the built-up too. Or, with the addition of a button-on skirt, several summer swimsuits become sun dresses in appearance.

Cotton fabrics have surged ahead in summer importance. While silk and linen fabrics figure in summer collections, they are mostly for town wear. Cottons, on the other hand, are used in every type of dress — town, morning, sun, spectator, even after five.

Cottons almost always have an expensive look, according to Women's Wear Daily's editors. A silk look results when cottons are printed in the silk manner, or have fine sheen-like surfaces, or are actually blended with silk.

Sheer cottons are in for another summer whirl in sportswear. Dotted swiss, solid, printed, even plaids lose some of their transparency in bright or dark colors. They also rate importantly for the all-white look, as do other sheers such as batiste, lawn, dimity, voile.

In sharp contrast to full-skirted dresses and separates that look like dresses, play and active sportswear follows the slim dictum for summer. Swimsuits, shorts and trousers are trim, tapered and spare.

Short shorts have gained in style importance, while Bermuda and Jamaica styles carry on in the classic sense. To illustrate how trim short shorts have become, many are cut without waistbands, darted at top instead of fit snugly. Occasionally they are cut with a fly front.

Tapered trousers are still tapered for summer, only they look more so in stripes that run on the vertical. Stripes for pants this year are less bold, finer in width, show less contrast in color combinations. New in tops for either shorts or long trousers is the brief, cropped, usually sleeveless box. Some reach to the waist; others are shorter, showing some midriff. They can button front or back, or not at all — just slip over the head.

Another gaining play style in summer separates is the one-piece playsuit with matching skirt. The playsuits are usually straight cut, button front, optionally belted.

TAKING A TRIP and want to really travel light and with the right clothes for all occasions? The Woman's Home Companion shows how you can make a complete travel wardrobe from just two pattern pieces which can be packed into one piece of luggage.

The wardrobe — a suit and a sheath dress — was designed by Paramount's Edith Head for Mrs. Robert Emmett Dolan, wife of the well-known movie producer. The secret of its versatility are accessories — extra jackets and blouses, a stole and a detachable lining.

For traveling, the box jacketed suit is worn with a black cashmere sweater. You could substitute blouses, if you like. For variety, a taffeta half lining may be buttoned into suit jacket. There's a matching taffeta blouse to complete this ensemble.

For afternoons the black wool jersey sheath dress is shown with a short white back-fastening bolero jacket in pout de sole. Black gloves are added. Remove the jacket and the sheath with its deep-cut neckline in back is perfect for evening. Add strands of beads for a festive look.

COOK'S NOOK

There's No Summer Treat Like Blueberry Pancakes

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Do you like fresh blueberry pancakes as much as our family does? We use a recipe our friend Susan Adams of Redding, Connecticut gave us. Susan is rated as one of the best cooks in the New York area, and she certainly knows how to treat fish blueberries.

BLUEBERRY PANCAKES
Sift together 1 cup flour and 5 tablespoons confectioner's sugar. Stir in 1 cup milk, stirring until perfectly smooth. In a deep bowl beat 3 eggs until light and foamy. Add 1/4 teaspoon salt and fold through eggs. Carefully fold the eggs through flour mixture. Don't beat. Add a little grated orange rind and 1 teaspoon lemon juice or orange juice.

Fry on hot lightly buttered griddle, pouring only about 2 tablespoons batter onto griddle. Cakes should be paper thin and spread all over surface of griddle. Fry gently until crisp and just soft enough to roll.

Mash 1 cup blueberries and add sugar to taste, then add whole berries. Brush pancakes with melted butter and fill with blueberries. Roll, fasten with picks. Dust with confectioner's sugar and serve hot.

BLUEBERRY CREAM PIE
Using a pastry mix or your own favorite pastry recipe, make a nine-inch pie shell, building it up to a high edge, with a nice even fluting. When it is cold fill half full with vanilla pudding mix. Place in refrigerator until set.

Mash 1 cup blueberries in 1 cup water and cook gently for 10 minutes. Run through a sieve and add 1 cup sugar to this liquid. Heat to dissolve and bring to boiling point. Stir into it 1 tablespoon gelatin, which has been soaked in 2 tablespoons cold water. Add 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice, and when juice is cold, add 2 cups big fresh blueberries.

Place in refrigerator until thick, only. Now pour over the pudding in the pie shell and top with the choicest big blueberries. Keep in refrigerator until ready to serve. This is a delicious pie which may be made the day before.

When making fruit punch, freeze some of the fruit juice into ice cubes. When added to punch, it does not dilute it as plain-water ice cubes do.

When repainting children's furniture or toys, be sure that the paint is nonpoisonous.

Egg whites whip best if beaten after standing while at room temperature.

Cakes and pies go on picnics and parties with ease, if they're baked in pans that have sliding or snap-on tops. One pie tin on the market has another to snap on the top. Use it either way.

RUTH MILLETT

Memo to June brides:
Go out and buy yourself a notebook and on the first page write: WHY I THINK MY HUSBAND IS THE MOST WONDERFUL MAN IN THE WORLD.

Then start listing all of his good qualities and all the reasons why you fell in love with him. Don't put the book away and forget it. Keep it where you can glance at it once in awhile. As you live with this man you love day after day and discover new reasons for loving and admiring him, take time to stop and add them to your list.

See how the list grows as you look for and discover all the fine and good things about the man you married.

If you will keep this up through the years, chances are very good that you will be a happy wife and that you will have a happy marriage.

For one of the great mistakes many wives make is to take a husband's good qualities for granted. Instead, they all too often worry and fret and nag about his faults.

If you can begin your married life determined to think about why you love your husband instead of worrying about his faults or wishing you could change him in this way or that you'll be a happier wife.

And just because you are a happy, admiring wife instead of a critical fault-finder you'll have a better husband.

So don't put off buying that notebook and starting your list. And don't put it away and forget about it, either. For the good you saw in your husband when you married him isn't nearly so important as the good you continue to see in him through the years.

As the list grows so will your happiness and contentment.

BABY

By BETSY WADE
NWA Staff Writer
Many babies have slept quite happily during the early months, in a cradle. If space or money is limited, pick the carriage in stead of the bassinet so that Baby and mother will be mobile.

A youth bed is nice to have if the second Baby claims the crib. But a grown-up bed will do just as well, if it's impractical to buy the smaller one. A chair pushed against the side may reassure Baby when he first sleeps in the bed.

Many parents can't manage it, but it's wise to decide on a girl's name and a boy's name before the mother-to-be reaches term. Once in the hospital, opportunity for discussion is limited and the birth certificate may be issued to "Baby Smith" and have to be amended later.

Why hamburger? Because it prices per serving is low, there's no waste, it cooks quickly and has a variety of uses. All this according to home economists.

An average serving of lean beef provides one-quarter of the daily protein needs, one-fifth of the iron and one-tenth of the riboflavin.

To give prunes new flavor, soak them in pineapple or other fruit juice instead of plain water. Allow them to stand, as usual, until plump and soft.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend,
I have a problem and hope you can give me an advice right away. I depend so much on your advice because you help people every day with such wonderful advice.

While working on Dec. 8, 1955, in a factory, a material handler carrying a loaded hand truck hit me on my back throwing me and knocking me on the floor, he caught my left leg under the load, some men carried me to the first aid, they kept me there for an hour and finally they decided to take me to the company doctor. He found out my left ankle was broken on both sides, also, my tail bone. He put me in a cast and it was put wrong so I suffer horrible pain, finally he put on another one, and still I had a lot of pain. I wrote to the Insurance Company and asked them for another doctor and this other doctor, when he sent me to the hospital to have the cast off the foot had healed crooked. I have suffered severe pain ever since the accident. Also, since the day they took my cast off I had to go for therapy every single day including Saturday, now for a month I was going three times a week.

I went to see the doctor on the 19th and he released me from compensation.

Grace, I am not a bit well. I have severe pain on my knee also my back. And maybe it's because I limp terribly. Sometimes I cannot even move from one side to the other.

The doctor would not believe me. He thinks I am a baby. How can a person like me with a big family of nine be a baby. All our children are young. Since the accident we have been paying $30 a week for a housekeeper besides we are behind in all our bills because I only get $40 a week for disability, also, we have been paying taxi every single day for my seven children's transportation to school. I cannot drive and the school is three miles from where we live and we do not have a bus.

Grace I cannot realize how the doctor can release me and want me to go to work when I am not well at all and not even able to drive. I try driving when I step on the clutch there is a terrible pain I am afraid to have another accident, also, my back hurts.

Will you please give me an immediate advice I am puzzled. I don't see how I can work and how to get to work. I am not a baby besides being sick all I have been getting is deep in debt. It will be five months on May 8, since I have not worked.

I enjoy my work, but I cannot return in this condition besides it is heavy work and we have to work fast because we are on incentive.

May I hear from you soon.
Very gratefully yours,
E. O.

Dear E. O.
You should have the advice of a lawyer on such a case.

I suggest you see one immediately and explain the situation to him. He will tell you what you should do.

Man To Look Like A Sea Squirt Soon

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP)—TV dinners, contour chairs, labor-saving machinery, and air conditioning place the human race in danger of developing eventually into animals resembling Sea Squirts.

Prof. Laurence E. Morehead, of the University of California at Los Angeles, sees this danger. But he is only one of an increasing number of scientists who think that soft, effortless living is bound to make drastic changes in human beings in time.

Listen to Morehead describe the Sea Squirt and you'll get the idea. Said Morehead: "As a youth the Sea Squirt exercises a well-developed neuro-muscular system while swimming in search of choice morsels of food and favorable environments.

Sea Squirt Explained

(In middle age the Sea Squirt settles down and attaches himself to a rock or piling and develops a large gill system through which he allows food-rich water to pass. His well-muscled tail gradually sloughs away, and he remains a mass of flaccidity.

Consider the remotest origins of living things, said Morehead to a scientific lecture. When life could move about to get more and better food, animal life emerged from vegetable life. But these newly acquired "organs of locomotion" required bodies capable of supporting them.

So matters racked along until something really complicated resulted — human beings. Their bodies were intricate, co-ordinated muscular, nervous, and chemical systems each dependent on the others. And all depended upon use-exercise.

Soft-Living Blamed

The trouble with the soft-living to which American human beings have now fallen heir, is that it results in a "disharmony" of bodily function, Morehead said.

Minnie Gets 20 Years In Penitentiary

NORFOLK, Va. (UP)—Minnie Mangum, who learned how to do good things for people while teaching a Sunday school class, was sentenced to 20 years in prison Monday for embezzling almost $3 million so she could help friends and relatives.

Miss Mangum was working as head bookkeeper for a building and loan association when an argument she was having with an employee raised the suspicions of an examiner.

Corporation Court Judge H. Lawrence Bullock read the sentence, which included 10 years each on two indictments to run consecutively and two years each on 11 other indictments to run concurrently with the longer sentence.

Court observers indicated this procedure would affect Miss Mangum's chances for parole, but that she will be eligible for parole after serving five years.

Miss Minnie stood grim-faced in the crowded courtroom to hear the sentence read. She had slipped in the crowded courtroom to hear elude a swarm of waiting photographers.

After the sentence was read she was led away by three plainclothes officers to go to Richmond to begin serving the state prison sentence immediately. Until Monday she had been free on bond.

The plump, 52-year-old spinster pleaded guilty to 22 charges of embezzling. She was sentenced in the same courtroom where she admitted the fantastic juggling of the books of Commonwealth Building and Loan Association over nearly a score of years to cover up for much of the shortages which amounted to more than $2,844,000.

Long Shadow Of Steel Strike Recalls Last Walkout In 1952

By CHARLOTTE G. MOULTON

WASHINGTON, June 23—UP—The long shadow of a steel strike stretching across the nation Saturday recalled the last big walkout in 1952 which President Truman tried to prevent by seizing the steel mills.

His action evoked one of the most tempestuous legal debates of modern times and ended in a Supreme Court decision that made constitutional history.

The strike itself was settled by negotiation some weeks later with a wage increase for the workers. In return the industry got a price increase from government price stabilizers.

In 1952, as now, the United Steel Workers and leading steel producers had engaged in months of fruitless negotiating. Now the nation is at peace. In that spring four years ago it was fighting the Korean War. And steel was the lifeblood of military supply lines.

Truman Gives Order

The union announced its members would strike April 8. On the eve of the strike President Truman instructed Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer to seize the mills on grounds a steel strike would be a national catastrophe.

Immediately seven major companies took the matter to court. The issue: "How much has the President in time of emergency?"

The parties eventually found themselves in the court-room of Federal District Judge David A. Pine, a jurist with mild manners and iron principles.

"Inherent" Powers?

The industry argued that their property had been seized without any authority whatsoever under law or the constitution.

The government argued that the President had "inherent" power to save the nation from the threatened strike.

After a few days of tense waiting Pine ruled the seizure unconstitutional. Union leaders called a strike within minutes.

Then the effect of Pine's decision was stayed pending an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Tension Mounts

Again the tension mounted. The late John W. Davis, eminent constitutional lawyer, represented the industry. The government backed off its "inherent power" argument and found constitutional and legal authority for the seizure.

The decision was rendered June 2, 1952, a succinct eight pages written by Justice Hugo L. Black.

Every member of the six-man majority expressed himself in separate opinions. Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, joined by Justices Stanley F. Reed and Sherman Minton dissented.

Said Black: "The founders of this nation entrusted the lawmaking power to Congress alone in both good and bad times. It would do no good to recall the historical events, the fears of power and the hopes for freedom that lay behind their choice. Such a review would but confirm our holding that this seizure order cannot stand."

OU Bound

ARDMORE, Okla., June 23—UP—Jackie Holt, 175-pound star half-back on last year's Gainesville, Tex., high school football team, said Saturday he will enroll this autumn at the University of Oklahoma.

Holt said he had decided to go to Oklahoma despite the fact he had previously signed a letter of intent to attend Texas Christian University. He is working here this summer for an oil company.

Knuckler Biggest Defense Against Lively Horsehide

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UP)—Major league pitchers are throwing the knuckler ball more than ever this season as a defense against the strangely live horsehide pellet with which batters increasingly threaten mound prestige.

And pitching coach Dutch Leonard of the Chicago Cubs recommends that any hurler who does not know how to throw the knuckler should learn — "the sooner the better."

Murray Dickson of the Cardinals, one of the smartest flingers in the majors, has regarded the knuckler ball as an important weapon in his big armory for a long time. But this season, he is concentrating on the flutter pill and using it more than any other pitch.

Russ Meyer of the Cubs, noted previously for his screwball or reverse curve, has picked up the knuckler under Leonard's coaching this season and expects to use it considerably when he recovers from a siege of tendinitis that has kept him on the sidelines.

Even Mickey Mantle, the Yankees' slugging centerfielder, has gone gaga over the knuckler. He has spent hours throwing it because of its fascination for him. And his mates say Mickey's pitch now is a dilly. Mantle has asked Skipper Casey Stengel to let him start a game on the mound if and when the Yanks clinch the pennant.

Stengel says, "If we do, I'll let Mickey start one. His knuckler ball is the best in the American League."

Coach Leonard of the Cubs is an expert on the knuckler because he used to throw one of the best dumpy-do's in the business. His campaign for its wider use is soft-pedaled only when he grieves for the catchers who have to handle the unpredictable pitch.

"It's tough on the catchers," he says, "but it's got to be used more and more. It's not only a difficult pitch to hit, but it hasn't got enough speed to add to the batter's power. In other words the batter has to supply all the power to get distance with it. It deadens the lively ball."

The knuckler, which is gripped by the pitcher's fingernails in most cases, is a "silly pitch" that approaches the plate without any spinning of the seams. And it's thrown without any great effort or without any wrist snap as in the case of a curve, slider or screwball.

"You just sort of release the ball off the finger tip without a spin," Leonard explains. "And it's the way the air catches the stitching that causes it to do such creaky things. It certainly kept me in the majors a long time after I would have been through otherwise."

Leonard credits the knuckler for some of the success of the Pirates pitchers this season. He says every man on the Pirate staff throws the "crazy knuck."

Dickson threw knucklers about 75 per cent of the time last week in his three-hit shutout against the Dodgers. PeeWee Rees was the only player to get a solid smash at the ball. The Dodgers power-hitters were practically helpless against the tantalizing pitch that fools even the catchers.

Final Balloting Due Friday On All-Stars

NEW YORK (UP)—Mail by the bale swamped the All-Star vote tabulators today and estimates ranged that as many as 60,000 to 75,000 ballots still were to be counted which could bring drastic revisions in the personnel of both teams.

There were more than 25,000 votes counted over the weekend and the office of Commissioner Ford C. Frick said there probably would be two more announcements with the final official release of the 16 players who will be in the starting lineups of the game at Washington on July 10 to be made on Friday.

The balloting ended last Friday, but the more than 400 agencies throughout the nation, mainly newspapers, radio and TV stations, were given until Tuesday to get their final totals to the commissioner's office.

A large staff of tabulators, using International Business Machine electronic brain equipment, is getting the totals out as fast as they arrive. The votes are being counted at the Elias Baseball Statistical Bureau and personnel from both Elias and the commissioner's office are working on them.

Because of the heavy influx of late ballots, many coming from the more distant points—in the Midwest and Far West, it was conceivable that five out of the eight positions in the National League and two of those in the American could come up with new leaders before the final count.

The closest races in the National with the leaders named first involved Red Schoendienst of the Giants and Johnny Temple of the Redlegs at second base, Ernie Banks of the Cubs and Roy McMillan of the Redlegs at shortstop; Rip Repulski of the Cardinals at left field, Gus Bell of the Redlegs and Duke Snider of the Dodgers at center, and Roy Campanella of the Dodgers and Ed Bailey of the Redlegs at catcher.

All-Star Tilt Is Scheduled Tonight Between East-West

The Little League East-West All Star rosters were released this morning by Gerald Sims, president of the Optima Club which sponsors the Little League. The rosters are as follows:

WEST ALL STARS
Bulch Cropeand, Keith Dodd, Dale Coffin, Randy Siesler, and Jimmy Hazler, of the C. M. Jeffries team; Randy Haralson, Byron Puzmore, Irvin Brunton, Jim Champagne and Harold Reed, all of Utility Oil; Walter Rogers, Sammy Young, Gerald Owens, Dale Cox and James Tucker, of Harvester Mobilgas; Tony Braly, W. G. Poole, Keith Gregory, Gerald Wright and Marvin Long, of One Bull Ranch.

The West team manager will be Newt Secret of Jeffries.

EAST ALL STARS
Harold Burgess, Allen Payne and Mickey Clark, all of the Sportsman's Store team; Robert Gannet, E. B. Burton, Dick Batson, and Jim Crinken, all of Hoffman Oil; Bill Lagley, Bobby Howard, Bob McCain, Daniel Wagner and Robert Woodward, all of the Tom Rose team; James Miller, Jim Stephenson, Danny Dungan and Danny Mathis, all of Cabot.

The East team will be coached by Bill Stephens, manager of the Tom Rose team. The East and West All Stars tangle today in the Otter ball park at 5:30.

STEPPING STONES

Mantle Helps Yanks Take A's; Braves Win Again; Bucs Lose

By CARL LUNDQUIST

United Press Sports Writer
The middle letters in his name spell K-E-Y M-A-N and make no mistake about it. Mickey E-Y M-A-N-tle is just that in the New York Yankee pennant picture right now.

Never was his value more clearly demonstrated than Monday night when he collected four hits in a 9-3 victory over the Athletics at Kansas City that put the Yankees a game and a half ahead of the idle, pesky Chicago White Sox.

Mantle hit no homers, even though the Yankees collected four, two by rookie Norm Siebern and one each by Hank Bauer and Joe Collins. He remained 14 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record pace of 60 homers for 1927 with a total of 27, but that right now is immaterial.

What Mantle did was to upset the entire Kansas City lineup, pitchers, infielders, hitters.

A's Shift Foiled
In the third inning, when the Athletics were stacked heavily around the right side of the diamond, Mantle foiled the shift by bunting safely down third. In the fifth he again capitalized on the maneuvers by beating out a hit to the man in short center field, a ball normally handled by the shortstop. In the sixth he got a normal single when the shift was not on. It is used only when Mantle's bats lefty.

Beyond the significance of Mantle's four hits was the victory. In Chicago Mantle was stopped with four scattered hits for four games and the Yankees lost all of them. Time and again it has developed that the Yankees lose when Mantle is stopped. That isn't too often.

In the National League, the bumptious Braves who may have established a pact with their new Manager Fred Haney, never to lose another game, won their 11th in a row since he took over, 8-5 against the Phillies and they had to offset a three-run eighth inning homer by Willie Jones to do it.

In the ninth a squeeze bunt by Del Crandall brought in one run, a sacrifice fly by Hank Aaron delivered another and a single by Ernie Banks since it came into the league and significantly—perhaps—all of the wins have been on the road.

Pirates Lose Another
Cincinnati stayed two games back in second place with a 2-1 triumph over the skidding Pirates. Ted Kluszewski hit his 14th homer in the seventh and Ray Jablonski delivered another run on a sacrifice fly as the Reds came from behind to gain the triumph on Art Fowler's five-hit.

Brooklyn's "displaced persons," the Dodgers, who have distressed their home fans with recent ineptness, went to their Jersey City haven and scored a 3-2 victory over the Cubs, coming from behind with two runs in the eighth on an error, Junior Gilliam's triple and a scoring fly by PeeWee Rease. It was Carl Erskine's first victory since his no-hitter over the Giants on May 12.

In the only other American League game, the Senators defeated the Tigers at Detroit, 5-3 when Clint Courtney hit a two-run homer in the eighth, Billy Hoeltz had struck out 10 and blanked Washington until the seventh when he tied.

There were no other major league games scheduled.

'Rabbit Ball' Is Debunked

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UP)—National League officials, a bit annoyed by all this talk about a "rabbit ball," rallied to the horsehide's defense today and declared that beeper players are the real reason for this year's home run rampage.

"There has been no change in the baseball for a great number of years," League officials insisted.

Series Finale Slated Tonight

The Pampa Oilers got back on the winning side after losing two straight contests as they shelled the El Paso Texans, 9-5, Monday night in Otter Park.

Both teams were deadlocked at 5-5, till the Oilers sent across four runs in the bottom of the eighth frame to ice the game.

El Paso scratched the first score of the game in the second inning as Ervin Ford singled and later crossed home when teammate Juan Armenteros filed out to Otter center fielder Lynn Tucker.

Frank Kempa laced a homer over the center field wall with two outs to tie up the game. The Texans' Ford blasted a four bagger this being over the left field fence to put the visitors out in front.

Then the Oilers shoved home four runs in the fourth. Lynn Tucker connected for his 20th homer of the season over the center field wall with no mates aboard. John Bruza lined a solo single into left center, Jim Martin singled to short right field, and Joltin Joe Fortin singled bringing in Bruza. Otter hurler Ernie Bartolomei filed out to right field sending Martin home.

Texans' starter Rufus McNeill was plagued with wildness in the sixth as he was relieved by Bob Tucker. In the top of the eighth El Paso sent home three runs. Doug Lewis singled and later crossed home when John Warren filed out to right fielder A. B. Cross. Don Hunter plastered a four master over the left field wall with Ford on base. Ford has previously singled.

In the eighth, the Oilers picked up four big tallies, and the Texans' had to call on a third hurler Bob Smith to put out the Otter fire. Fortin injured his leg in the eighth while at field and was replaced by Bob Flores.

Ernie Bartolomei went all the way on the hill for the Oilers as he struck out two batters and issued only two free passes. Bartolomei had only allowed two runs on three hits in the initial four innings and scattered nine hits over the entire game.

Pampa entertains the El Paso Texans in the series finale tonight at Otter Park with game time set for 7:30 p.m.

Lefty Bob Jureck struck out nine men and gave up only four hits as Clovis defeated Roswell in the Southwest League Monday night, 5-1.

Jureck allowed one extra base hit—a double by Bobby Fernandez in the sixth. Despite the victory, however, Clovis still remained at the bottom of the standings.

In other league games, Pampa beat El Paso, 9-5; Ballinger defeated Carlsbad, 8-5; Midland edged San Angelo, 12-11; and Hobbs trimmed Plainview, 9-3.

Ernie Bartolomei effectively scattered nine hits to give Pampa its victory over El Paso. He was backed by a pair of homers by Pampa batters.

Hugh Wise, Ballinger left fielder, was one of the big guns in the win over Carlsbad. He got four for four, scored twice and drove in one run. Joe Giel homered in the second with two on for Ballinger.

League-leading Hobbs had little trouble with second-place Plainview. Frosty Kennedy of Plainview got two solo home runs—one in the second and one in the fourth.

Live Better Electrically With Wiring By Davis Electric

You will live better electrically with better wiring by Davis Electric Co., 119 W. Foster, 4-6211. It causes good wiring doesn't cost. It pays.

It pays to have your appliances working well, to have your electric lights burning brightly as they do when your home is wired well.

It's a fact that when wiring is not adequate appliances work sluggishly or not at all, lights seem dim and yellow, fuses blow, breakers trip, TV pictures shrink.

Even though appliances are the very best they will not work well unless they have electricity to feed on.

Electricity comes into your home in a never-ending stream. From the big stream that enters your house, the electricity is drawn off to your various outlets, some feeding appliances, some feeding lights.

Storm Windows that Do What Others Attempt to Do

Demos Moulding Civil Rights Plank

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Master Democratic strategists already are hard at work on a safety first civil rights plank for this year's presidential campaign.

They seek a safety first plank in the sense that they don't want it to explode among the party notables assembled in Chicago August 13 at the Democratic national convention. The Democrats barely avoided a convention explosion in 1952. It would have blown the Virginia, South Carolina and, possibly, the Louisiana delegations right out of the hall.

They don't want another experience like that. The hazard could be more easily avoided if some of the major elements comprising the Democratic party would ease off on their bitter dispute over racial integration in the public schools.

The civil rights plank in the 1952 Democratic platform was in general terms. It had little, if anything, to do with the fact that the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket carried Florida, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia in 1952. The substance of that plank was:

"The Democratic party is committed to support and advance the individual rights and liberties of all Americans."

"Our country is founded on the proposition that all men are created equal. This means that all citizens are equal before the law and should enjoy equal political rights. They should have equal opportunities for education, for economic advancement and for decent living conditions."

"We will continue our efforts to eradicate discrimination based on race, religion or national origin."

But for the angry discussion of school integration, such language probably would cover the situation again. Both parties, however, will have to make some platform reference, however, it may be angled to the Supreme Court's integration decision. That is one to create the browns of Democratic platform writers. The Republicans can meet the issue directly, having not much to lose and a great deal to gain by a platform pledge which might entice millions of Negro voters back into that party.

The Democratic problem is aggravated by strong pressures from both sides of the civil rights dispute. The whole civil rights question is embittered by the fact that integration in the schools has become a legal requirement for the operation of the public schools system in the United States.

Most Southern politicians and several Southern states are publicly committed to resistance.

BALLARD AT BROWNING

From northern states such as Wisconsin, Michigan, New York, party men are pressing for a commitment on civil rights and integration which would hold the 1956 minorities vote for the Democrats in national and local tickets.

Northern Democratic state conventions in series are resolving in favor of strong language, a pledge for a national fair employment practices commission or act, aggressive action to implement supreme court decisions in all civil rights areas, a civil rights division in the Justice Department.

The Republicans probably will not go that far in their bid for the minorities votes. They easily can go a long way, however, whereas from start to finish the path is a deadly Democratic obstacle course.

QUOTES IN THE NEWS

Quotes From The News
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By UNITED PRESS

MOSCOW — Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining, to Russian leaders, after witnessing a display of Soviet air might:

"The United States won't disarm again until we are certain there is world-wide arms control."

TOKYO — A village official of a town at the foot of Mt. Omine, which has been banned to women for 1,300 years, on Miss Toshiko Ishida's announcement she will climb the mountain:

"There have been men who have climbed the mountain more than 100 times because it gives them the feeling they have experienced a world unknown to women. Why shatter his dream world?"

WASHINGTON — House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack, on why he disagrees with fellow Democrats who demand the resignation of Defense Secretary Charles Wilson:

"He's too good a political asset to the Democratic party."

HOLLYWOOD — Veteran band leader Ina Ray Hutton, on her age, a frequent subject of arguments among TV fans:

"I was 18 when I led my first all-girl orchestra in 1935, and that's that."

CHARTWELL, England — Former President Truman, after having lunch with Sir Winston Churchill:

"He's as keen as a briar. He is a little feeble physically, but mentally he is just as sharp as ever."

Supt. Woodie Beene announced Rowntree's resignation Tuesday morning. Rowntree's resignation leaves two vacancies to be filled on the local school faculty. Supt. Beene is looking for a speech teacher to succeed Scottie Hecht, who resigned after the close of school; and a new high school principal.

Barring further resignations, which are not expected, the faculty for the 1954-55 school term is complete except for those two vacancies.

Rowntree came to Canadian two years ago from Lampasas High School.

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED
IN THE PERSONS AND ESTATES OF SANDRA LYNN BURCH, JOE
BURNETT, DONNA KAY BURCH,
MARTHA LEE BURCH, MINORS,
No. 1414, County Court of Gray
County, Texas.

Mary Katherine Burch Ellis,
Guardian of the persons and estates of said minors, do hereby certify that on the third day of June, 1966, an application was made to the County Court of said twelfth (11-12) interest which each of said minors owns (the combined interest of said minors being one-half undivided one-half (50%) interest in the said property and the said described real estate situated in Gray
County, Texas;

Section 55, Block 50 feet of Lot No.
1, and the North 70 feet of Lot No.
2, in Block No. 2, of the SEEDS SUB-DIVISION, a part of the 1000 acre
the Suburbs of Pampa, Gray County, Texas, according to the map or plat of said subdivision as shown in Volume
68, Page 428, of the Deed Rec-ORDS OF GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS, RE-FLECT to the prior preservation and sale by former owners of three-fourths (75%) undivided interest in the said property and the said minerals in and under such property.

Said application, any objection thereto, and the evidence in support thereof (if other land, together with the evidence pertaining thereto, will be received by the County Court of said County at 10 o'clock a.m. on the first Monday next after the expiration of ten days after the date of the application, the same being the 9th day of July, 1966, at the County Courthouse in Pampa, Texas.

All persons interested in said property are hereby cited to appear before the Honorable County Court and have mentioned time and place by this citation to show cause why the application should they desire to do so, and to show cause why the sale of said property should be set aside.
The Officer executing this writ shall promptly serve the same according to the provisions of the law and the mandates hereof, and make due return hereon.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE SEAL OF SAID COURT at office of the County Clerk of Gray

Shamrock Personals

By MERITA BUMPERS
Pampa News Correspondent

Mrs. Sterling Parrish and daughter, Carol, Vicky and Jan visited their grandmother, Mrs. England of Erick, Okla., to celebrate Carol Jo's eleventh birthday.

The Shamrock Voluntary Fire Dept. answered a call Tuesday evening to the Alec Brooks home where a chicken house was on fire.

Earnest Henderson was trying to get his tractor out of a mud hole so he could continue wheat harvesting. Earnest reported his wheat was averaging about 11 bushels per acre and was testing 60. He received one and one-fourth inches of rain Sunday night.
