Republican Solon Blasts Handling Of News On Atrocities

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The "errors and contradictions" and the "botched handling" of the Korea atrocity charges demand a complete statement of facts from President Truman, Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass) declared Saturday.

"The President owes the parents of our servicemen a clear and unmistakable statement of the facts at the earliest moment," she said.

Mrs. Rogers' statement was prompted by the disclosure Friday night that General Ridgway had reported to the United Nations as early as November 12 that his headquarters had received and was investigating reports that 8,000 American prisoners of war had been done to death by their Communist captors.

On November 14, Col. James M. Hanley of the Eighth Army's war crimes section announced that 5,500 American prisoners had been slaughtered after capture.

Confirmed, Then Raised

Four days later, Hanley's announcement was confirmed in part by General Ridgway in a statement that gave no estimated number, however, and deplored the method Hanley used in making his figures public.

Still later—four days ago—Ridgway said there was considerable evidence that 6,000 American captives had been put to "death by atrocity" but "no conclusive evidence" as to the actual number.

"The appalling aspect of this sequence of events is the fact that

Officers Fail To Agree On Contact Line

MUNSAN, KOREA —(AP)— Map-charting Red and Allied officers still were up to five miles apart Saturday on a Korean cease-fire line —while soldiers afield fought fiercely to change it in the west.

Minor mapping differences in the mountainous east and major ones in the more important west were to be tackled again Sunday by Red and Allied staff officers in the tent at Panmunjom.

The task of mapping the line where the shooting might stop in 30 days may have to be taken over before the day's end by the joint subcommittees, who have more leeway.

Checked By Telephone

Once during Saturday's session, Red claims of a hill in the east promoted an Allied telephone call to the front. Americans on the hill were reported "highly insulted" by the Red claim.

Other Red claims of positions behind Allied outposts brought an offer by the Allies to fly them over the positions to look. The Reds said no.

There was near agreement on the eastern half of the 145-mile front, an Allied spokesman said. But he said there were "major" differences in the west. He described a major difference as one up to five miles.

Until the line is fixed there can be no further progress on an Allied proposal aimed at completing the full signing of an armistice within 30 days. The 30 days must date from the time the full truce committees approve the cease-fire line.

The beloved old gentleman from the North Pole has advised representatives of the Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce he plans to arrive here by plane, weather permitting, late Tuesday afternoon—in time to participate in the gala celebration officially opening Midland's Christmas shopping season that evening.

Santa Claus left his busy Toyland home and workshop Saturday noon, in order to have ample time in which to make the long and hazardous Wintertime flight to Midland. He telegraphed an invitation to all boys and girls of Midland and other Permian Basin Empire cities to be on hand in downtown Midland to greet and visit with him Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, preparations for the visit of the distinguished visitor continued at a feverish pace here. Silver garlands, colorful lights and lighted stars-in-wreath are being strung across downtown streets. The job will be completed by Texas Electric Service Company workmen this weekend. The decorations will be the most elaborate and most attractive in Midland's history.

Treasure Hunt Time

The Christmas street lights will be turned on at 6 p.m. Tuesday to officially open the shopping season celebration. At the same hour, retail stores will unveil their show windows, which will be especially decorated for the occasion.

The annual Treasure Hunt, in which scores of valuable prizes are being offered by merchants, will

Rising Food Prices Send Cost Of Living To New Record High

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Mounting food prices have sent living costs to a record high.

The consumers price index compiled by the government's Bureau of Labor Statistics edged to 187.4 per cent of the 1935-39 base. This figure for October 15 was four-tenths per cent above the September 15 record and 10.1 per cent over pre-Korean price levels.

The bureau said food price hikes, along with a 1.5 per cent boost in rents, were main reasons for the increase. The index measures retail prices paid by average city families. Food prices rose in 47 of the 56 cities surveyed.

Apparel prices remained virtually unchanged between September and October, house furnishings declined a bit, and miscellaneous goods and services rose somewhat.

Associated Press Survey Backs BLS

NEW YORK —(AP)— The general trend of wholesale commodity prices was upward last week for the fourth week in a row, The Associated Press commodity index showed Saturday.

At 195.62, the index compared with 194.47 the previous weekend and 195.63 a year ago. In this index of 35 important wholesale commodity prices, the base year of 1926 equals 100.

One of the six groups of commodities—food—reached a new 1951 high.

Also higher were the livestock, grains and cotton and nonferrous metals components. Only textiles were lower, while industrials held unchanged.

Texas Spending On Welfare Relief Far Under Average

AUSTIN—(AP)—Texas ranks way down the list of states in most public welfare relief, the 1951 annual report of the State Department of Public Welfare disclosed Saturday.

In old age assistance, Texas is twenty-second. It is forty-seventh in aid to dependent children, fourteenth in aid to the blind and forty-seventh in general relief.

The report went to Gov. Allan Shivers over the signature of the Public Welfare Board's three members, Mrs. Richard J. Turrentine of Denton, Hubert Johnson of Waco and J. Byron Saunders of Tyler.

In per capita expenditures for all public assistance programs, Texas ranks thirty-fifth, the report said. The national average is $9.07 per capita, compared to the Texas average of $4.75.

Heavy Fog Grounds Air Traffic Here

Midland was "socked in" by a heavy fog Saturday, as a cold drizzling rain fell, making traffic hazardous and cancelling airline flights here.

Visibility was cut as low as zero at the Midland Air Terminal. Flights of American, Continental and Pioneer Air Lines by-passed Midland.

By 8 p.m. Saturday, at least one major accident had been blamed on the fog. Sloan W. Roper, 50, of Muskegon, Mich., a pedestrian, was struck by an automobile as he crossed the Rankin Highway near the city limits.

He was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital, where his injuries were declared serious.

Minor Collisions

Investigating officers said Sloan was struck by an automobile driven by J. D. Sims, Route 1.

There was a round of minor collisions in the city during the day. And a car overturned on east Highway 80 but no injuries were reported.

U. S. Charges Reds Attacked Navy Plane Over Neutral Waters

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States Saturday charged that a missing Navy Neptune bomber was "attacked without warning" by Soviet fighter planes over the free international waters of the Sea of Japan on November 6. The plane, with 10 men aboard, is presumed to have been shot down.

In making this formal accusation to the United Nations, the U.S. rejected as untrue a Russian complaint that the American aircraft had "violated the Soviet state frontier" before it was approached by two Russian fighter planes. The Russians also alleged that the American plane opened fire first.

In the conflicting versions of the affair, about the only thing the U.S. and Russia agreed on was that apparently the incident had occurred in the general vicinity of Cape Ostrovnaya, about 80 miles east of the big Soviet Siberian port city of Vladivostok and across the Sea of Japan from the northern Japanese island of Hokkaido.

Reported to UN

The official United States report on the incident was made, not to the Soviet Government at Moscow, which had filed on November 7 a protest against the alleged border violation, but to the United Nations' secretary general, Trygve Lie, at the UN General Assembly meeting in Paris.

The State Department explained that this was the proper procedure because the plane was operating as part of Gen. Ridgway's UN-Korean Command. The U.S. already had refused because of this fact to accept the Russian protest note on any basis other than as a matter of information.

Jittery Vishinsky Gets Scare In UN

PARIS —(AP)— Suddenly, in the UN chamber Saturday, there were sounds like a succession of rifle bolts being thrown home.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, the speaker, froze in his chair and stopped talking. His bodyguards moved forward in their chairs to cover him. UN guards whirled toward the photographers' gallery, from which the sounds came.

It was only a stuck mechanism on a rapid sequence camera. As soon as it was fixed, the session went on.

Three Airmen Die In Bomber Crash

Dead were Second Lt. Billy K. Smith, 24, of Redondo Beach, Calif.; Second Lt. Robert Price Larkins, Jr., 24, of Oak Ridge, N. C., and S/Sgt. Johnny S. Teague, 22, of Tellicoe Plains, Tenn.

Cool Front Drops Fog Blanket Over Majority Of State

By The Associated Press

An almost stationary cool front blanketed the Northern two-thirds of the state in low clouds, fog and drizzle Saturday.

Austin had .33 inch of rain, Abilene .26, Fort Worth .28, Palestine .21, Texarkana .15, Tyler .11 and Wichita Falls .03.

Temperatures Saturday ranged from a high afternoon reading of 86 at Laredo to a low maximum of 33 at Dalhart.

Cloudy skies and scattered showers were forecast Sunday.

Angeloan Crushed To Death Under Car When Jack Collapses

A 30-year-old San Angelo man was killed here Friday afternoon when his chest was crushed beneath his own car when a bumper jack collapsed.

His legs protruding from beneath the car, Brown lay unnoticed three hours by hundreds of motorists on U.S. Highway 80 on the eastern edge of Midland.

Police said Brown apparently pulled his automobile on the shoulder of the highway around noon, jacked it up and crawled underneath.

When the jack collapsed, the automobile fell on Brown.

Police Officer Johnnie Davis said he noticed the man beneath the car on routine patrol but thought nothing of it, since he appeared merely to be working on the automobile.

Mrs. Joe Smith, who lives at the Har-Wil Motor Courts on the opposite side of the highway, said she finally became concerned when the man failed to change his position after a couple of hours.

She crossed the highway to investigate and found Brown was dead.

Upton County's Voters Approve Road Bond Issue

McCAMEY—Upton County voters, in a special election held Saturday, approved by a tremendous majority the issuing of $1,050,000 in bonds to finance a county-wide road building program.

The unofficial vote was 194 for the issuing of the bonds and 16 against, with only one box not reported.

The bond money will be used to build approximately 70 miles of roads which are designed to serve the county's fast expanding oil fields, including the Spraberry, Wilshire and Pegasus fields. A total of 119 drilling rigs were operating in Upton County on November 15.

Two Killed, Four Hurt In Railroad Accident

LOUISVILLE, KY. —(AP)— An eight-car Illinois Central passenger train was derailed near Fort Knox, Saturday, killing the engineer and fireman and injuring four of the 57 passengers.

The dead were identified as John L. Bullock, 71, and Shelby Yeates, about 60, both of Louisville.

Battle Rages For Two Vital Western Hills

SEOUL, KOREA —(AP)— Allied infantrymen Sunday grappled hand-to-hand with up to a division of Chinese Reds in an effort to keep their precarious hold on two vital, snow-swept peaks in Western Korea.

The battle for "Little Gibraltar" and another peak nearby was deep in its second day and still "50-50," in the words of an Eighth Army spokesman.

The ridge line dominates the strategically important area 35 miles north of Seoul. It appeared that staff officers at Panmunjom would not be able to draw their cease-fire line on the western front until the battle is decided.

Both armies, realizing that they were playing for keeps if an armistice line is drawn within 30 days, rushed fresh troops to the line.

The Chinese were using at least two regiments and possibly a division. The Allies kept the size of their force secret, but the importance of the battle might force them to match the Reds.

Fierce fighting raged on the eastern peak, a Gibralter-like conical crest that dominates the main defensive positions in the sensitive area west on Yonchon.

UN Troops Hold On

Less than a mile to the east, across a shallow saddle, another fight almost as savage lasted throughout the night. After a see-saw battle, the UN troops still were holding the peak at mid-morning.

The fighting, although on only medium-height hills, was of the same type and intensity as that on Heartbreak Ridge six weeks ago.

As dusk fell Saturday, the Reds threw in their biggest attack yet—probably a full division. The Communists were backed by the direct fire of high velocity rifles from tanks or self-propelled guns.

The battle rose to its greatest pitch yet, and during the night the issue was in doubt.

But the Allies held.

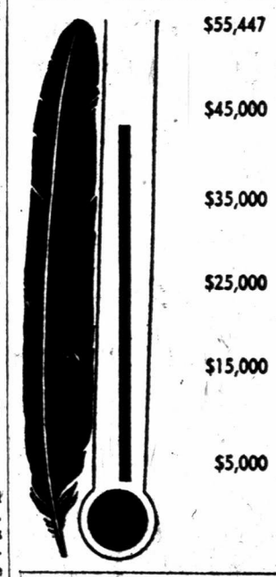

Heavy Allied artillery support helped the infantry. More than 15,000 rounds were fired Saturday night alone.

Both Allies and Communists want this hill to be in their final sector. Both were willing to pay a stiff price for it.

Only $11,000 More Needed To Complete Red Feather Drive

Midland's Community Chest clinked Saturday with $44,000 but still there was a void to be filled before the lid could be closed on the lagging 1951 campaign.

The goal to be met is $55,447.

Campaign headquarters reported that contributions to maintain seven Midland organizations dedicated for the most part to youth programs, have been coming in in spurts. Both mail and volunteer worker methods are being used.

"We need only $11,000 now to complete the task," said Pat Ruckman, campaign chairman. "Since this is a Midland obligation for the good of Midland we hope everyone will pitch in to make the drive successful."

Vishinsky Rejects Big Three Program For Disarmament

PARIS—(AP)—Andrei Y. Vishinsky Saturday rejected the Western Big Three disarmament plan and submitted a dozen amendments, intended to substitute Moscow's brand of arms limitation, with an immediate ban on the atomic bomb.

The Soviet foreign minister lambasted the formula sponsored by the United States, Britain and France in a speech before the 60-member United Nations Political Committee.

He complained the Western plan did not go far enough toward reducing the dangers of war. He said it "cannot, in the present form, serve its announced purpose." Then he presented his amendments, by which the plan would be rewritten almost completely to conform to Soviet ideas.

Two Midland Men Charged In Five-Hour Spree Of Burglary

Two Midland men faced charges of burglary Saturday after a five-hour crime spree during which they broke into four buildings here last Thursday morning.

The charges were filed against Leonard Lee Cunningham, 24, and Harold Eugene Porter, 20.

The two men now are being held in Big Spring for questioning in connection with a burglary there on Thursday night.

Cunningham was arrested Friday when he walked into police headquarters here to report the theft of his automobile. He had been sought by Big Spring authorities after a safe, stolen from a warehouse Thursday night, was found in his abandoned automobile.

He was returned to Big Spring, Midland police said, and subsequently signed a statement admitting the burglaries here. He named Porter, who, police said, also made a statement.

The two men said their burglary spree took them to King's Conoco Station, where they took $25 in cash; Lamb's Super Service Station, where they took $8 in cash and a new tire; Midland High School, where they took four candy bars and 15 cents in cash, and the Planters Gin, where they took only some cotton receipts.

Lubbock Deputy Dies In Four-Car Collision

Deputy Sheriff B. F. Forrester, about 63, was killed when the sheriff's department car in which he was riding was involved in the crash.

Deputy Sheriff John Barnett, riding in the same car, was injured seriously.

Three Texans Killed In Oklahoma Mishap

GUYMON, OKLA. —(AP)— Three members of a Brownwood, Texas, family were killed Saturday when their car skidded on an icy bridge five miles northeast of here.

Spot Checks Reveal Critical Traffic Congestion In Midland, On Highways

By COPE ROUTH

Midland has known for a long time it has a critical traffic situation.

No one denied the business district was congested with automobiles and trucks.

And anyone could see that all highways into Midland were filled with steady streams of traffic.

No one, however, knew just what the situation was or how critical was the traffic problem.

So the Texas Highway Department, in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Public Roads, undertook last August to get the detailed answers.

The department set up checking stations on the seven highways into the city, and official counters posted themselves at busy intersections and flowing traffic points.

Last week, the results of the survey were made public.

"Congestion on highway routes in the city is critical," bluntly stated the report. "Traffic volumes in the Midland area will, for some time, continue to increase at a rate which would exceed that in other areas of the state."

The figures, themselves, are indeed surprising.

They show, for instance, that once every three seconds—day and night—an automobile or truck is entering or leaving Midland.

They show that U. S. Highway 80 west of Midland is the busiest of the seven routes into the city, with the Garden City highway a surprising second.

In checking the highway traffic, the State Highway Department set

Continental Reports Record Operations

DENVER, COLO. — A third-quarter report issued to stockholders by Continental Air Lines revealed the company has a higher net income, flew more miles and carried more passengers than in any previous nine months' period.

The report was issued by Robert Six, Continental president.

The net income for the first nine months of this year reached $336,844, compared with 91,212 for the same period in 1950 and the comparative net incomes represent $1.06 a share in the 1951 period and 29 cents in the 1950 period.

And in that period this year the company flew 5,011,564 miles, a 15 per cent increase over the 1950 period. Biggest traffic increase affecting revenues was a 38.96 per cent increase in the number of passengers traveling in Continental planes. Continental flew 210,821 passengers in the first nine months of this year and 151,721 passengers in the same period last year.

But mail revenues fell off during the third quarter by 47 per cent or $177,999. Six said this was caused by, and offset by, an increase in passenger revenue of 49 per cent or $568,802. Charter revenue increased 151 per cent—$41,694.

Total operating revenues in the third quarter increased $448,108 (27 per cent) and total operating expenses increased $428,720 (29 per cent). After non-operating income and expense and provision for income taxes, final net income increased $27,196 (30 per cent) and amounted to $116,604, equivalent to 38 cents a share for the third quarter.

Red Tape To Be Cut For Smaller Metal-Using Plants

DALLAS —(AP)— Many small manufacturers in the Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas area using limited amounts of steel, copper and aluminum will be relieved of the necessity of filing applications for allotments of these metals beginning with the second quarter of 1952.

The announcement was made Saturday by Ernest L. Tutt, regional director, National Production Authority, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Affecting such Southwest area manufacturers as those making truck trailers, metal shipping containers, lighting fixtures, window and door screens, metal doors and sash, photographic equipment and optical goods, the NPA instructions state maximum amounts of the basic metals that can be used under the simplified system.

Post Office Digs In For Biggest Rush In Midland History

The Midland Post Office was as busy as Santa's toy shop Saturday, as employes prepared for the biggest Christmas rush of mail and parcels in the history of the city. And the big push is still to come.

Postmaster N. G. Oates issued an appeal for extra employes to help with the Yuletide volume. He will employ 25 or 30 extra workers for the peak rush period, which rapidly is approaching.

The big problem of the post office is space. There just isn't any place to put the mountains of parcels and mail which are sure to come. Postal facilities here, according to Oates, already are taxed to the utmost.

Space in the post office building normally used for reception of incoming letters may be utilized for Christmas packages with the incoming mechanism moved to the boiler room in the basement, Oates said.

Extra Vehicles Needed

Four or five extra delivery vehicles will be put into service for the Christmas season—if they can be obtained. Normally the post office borrows trucks or vehicles from the Army. This year, those vehicles are apt to be in use and this leaves the postmaster with another appeal—for vehicles.

Oates and the other employes wiped their brows Saturday as they reflected on last year's record Christmas mailing volume. More than 875,000 pieces of mail, exclusive of parcels, were handled in the rush period. This included first class mail and cards.

The Christmas mailing season hits its peak about December 15 or a few days thereafter, according to Oates. Last year, on December 18, the post office canceled 81,000 pieces of first class mail, including Christmas cards and not including packages.

Oates advises cards be mailed by December 15 for assured delivery. He also suggests December 10 as the latest for mailing parcels to go any distance.

The postal installation during the weekend began to receive its first volume of Christmas parcels. The familiar "Do not open until Christmas" was sealed on them to distinguish them from regular parcels.

"We will do our very best to see that every one gets his Christmas mail," Oates said. "For all of us it means extra work and long hours, but we are willing to do this."

"If you see anyone with an extra warehouse for rent, we need it for storing parcels out of the weather," the postmaster urged.

The postmaster expects to hire some extra help when college students arrive for the holidays. Men urgently are needed but there are some jobs women can do.

As an emergency, the post office may appeal for persons to work after hours from regular employment. This may not be necessary but again it might be, Oates reminded.

The postmaster has no doubt this will be a record year in handling Christmas mail here.

Substation A of the main post office is swamped and will be for days, just like the big office, Oates said.

Bing's Voice Has Changed Since '30's; Now It 'Sizzles'

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Victor Young, the Hollywood musical whiz who led the orchestra when Bing made his first record a decade and a half ago, slipped me the "sizzle" theory about Bing in discounting claims that the Groaner's voice isn't as good today as it was 20 years ago.

"It's a different voice—a third lower," Young said, "but it's a better voice. It sizzles."

"Sizzles?"

"Yes, it's a sound with a drive to it. It's a fat voice instead of the thin lyrical voice it used to be."

Frank Sinatra in the same league with Bing?

"He's a great pop singer," young let it fly, "but his voice doesn't sizzle. Ave's got the sizzle in that family."

TV Big Shot

Regis Toomey, who once held Clara Bow, Jean Arthur and Kay Francis in his arms as Paramount's No. 1 heart throb of the early 30's, is back on the Paramount lot holding a tray as Bing Crosby's butler-confidante in "Famous."

"It's a lot easier," Regis grinned, "The tray never upstages me."

Regis may not have a key to a plush suite on the stars' dressing room at Paramount, but he's a big shot on TV, where 14 of his pre-war films are making the rounds.

All were made for quickie producers after he left Paramount and he was reluctant to accept them for fear of losing prestige. But the producers were willing to pay him top salary and his agent finally talked him into the roles with the claim:

"Nobody will ever see 'em, anyway."

"Nobody ever did see 'em, either," Regis said, "until TV came along."

Zsa Zsa Garbo, the Hungarian firecracker who's aimed her sights at movie stardom now that she's a TVenus, confessed that every time a Garbo sister telephones their mother in New York, mama immediately asks:

"What's the trouble NOW?"

There are three mad Garbo sisters and as Zsa Zsa says:

"Three are PLENTY!"

Zsa Zsa's current trouble is a rift with her third hubby, George Sanders, but career-wise she's zooming to stardom in MGM's "Lovely To Look At," with other films in the talking stages.

Where had she ever acted before that?

She whispered it: "Honey, I've never acted on stage or screen but believe me I've acted in a lot of living rooms."

Still wailing about her clash with Tallulah Bankhead and George when they asked her to read lines on Tallulah's airshow kidding her marriage—that's when the marriage blew a fuse—she told me:

Eleanor Parker's chucked the "Miss Gunny Sack" title after a long procession of dowdy roles and is humming, "That's For Sure," about giving Hollywood's glamor babes a little competition in the pin-up department.

Her blonde hair covered with a flaming red wig and resplendent in a low-cut, 17th Century gown for her role of a fiery French spitfire in "Scaramouche," Eleanor beamed:

"This is the first time I've had a chance to be sexy and I'm having a ball. Really, I've never even worn an evening dress in a movie. I'm through with that 'Miss Gunny Sack' title forever."

They put Marilyn Monroe into a pair for a scene in "Clash By Night." She was supposed to look dowdy and unattractive as a cannery worker. They also gave her a dirty tee-shirt, mussed her blonde hair and took off all her makeup.

Then the shapely Marilyn wiggled—there's no other word to describe her walk—on stage. The whistles sounded like Saturday night at a strip palace.

"It's no use," groaned Director Fritz Lang. "Let's go to work. What can you do about nature?"

Freckled-Faced Boy To Receive $6,500 From Cruiser's Crew

HELENA, MONT. —(AP)— A seven-year-old, freckle-faced boy with a "terrific physical disability" will receive $6,500 from the men of the cruiser Helena. But first he wants to know if he'll "get to go for a ride with the sailors."

Terry Wayne Ellis of Helena won the hearts of the USS Helena's crew, who wanted to celebrate their return from Korean waters by giving money to a youngster "deprived of a proper start in life."

Terry, a ward of the state now being cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sampson of Helena, will receive the purse from Montana's Gov. John W. Bonner at Long Beach, Calif., December 8, after the Helena docks.

It all started when the Helena's skipper, Capt. L. H. Martin, wrote the Helena Chamber of Commerce and told of his men's offer to help an unfortunate child.

The chamber sent pictures and life stories of six children to the sailors and they in turn chose Terry.

Terry who was born without a rectum and anus, was abandoned by his parents "when he was just a few days old." He was operated on a few days after that. But he needs more operations, and he'll get them now, thanks to the men of the Helena.

Engineer Admits Train Crash Blame

NEW YORK—(AP)—The engineer of the New Haven Railroad express train involved in the Thanksgiving Day Park Avenue tunnel wreck has been quoted as saying he ran his locomotive through a stop signal.

The Express sideswiped a Stamford-bound local as the two eight-car trains carrying 1,100 holiday passengers moved north side by side in the narrow tunnel. Twenty-seven passengers were injured, one critically. Three coaches were derailed and parts of the two trains crashed into opposite sides of the tunnel.

After a closed hearing Friday, the engineer, James D. Taylor, 50, of East Haven, Conn., was quoted as admitting he failed to see a red light in time to avoid a collision.

Girl Moves Nearer Marriage To Priest

MILAN, ITALY —(AP)— Claire Young was one step closer Saturday on the long legal road toward marrying the former priest for whose love she gave up her American citizenship. The 21-year-old Chicago girl was declared a stateless person in a Milan court Friday.

There still are several more documents to get before Claire can wed Luciano Negrini, the former Roman Catholic missionary who was defrocked when he announced his love for the girl.

Claire automatically will become an Italian citizen when she marries Negrini.

THREATENS BRITISH—Sheik Mohamed Farghali, above, leader of the powerful Moslem brotherhood in the Suez Canal Zone, has threatened to wage underground war against the British if they don't get out of Suez. In Cairo, nearly one million Egyptians marched in protest against the British as demands for a "holy war" continued to be heard.

East Texas Cattle Reported Dying Of Drouth Conditions

TYLER—(AP)—Almost 900 head of cattle in 13 East Texas counties have died in the last two weeks because of the drouth and the lack of a proper diet, Smith County Agent Ben Browning said.

Browning said the cattle were dying from tannic poisoning, toxic poisoning and in some cases, "white muscle disease."

"In every instance, however, the lack of a proper diet brought on by the drouth has been the direct or indirect cause of death," the county agent said.

He said 100 head of cattle had died in the last 10 days in Smith County alone.

"They feed on acorns and leaves which results in tannic poisoning," Browning said.

Nacogdoches County Agent B. F. Gray said at least 500 head of cattle were dead in that county because of lack of a proper diet.

"The lack of rain since November 3 has left a high tannic acid content in the leaves and acorns which otherwise would have been washed away," he said.

Browning said the 13 counties hardest hit are Smith, Nacogdoches, Van Zandt, Henderson, Rush, Cherokee, Anderson, Shelby, Wood, Gregg, Canton, Upshur and Camp.

Midland Nears End Of Record Year In Major Construction

By TANNER LAINE

Nearing the end of a record year in construction, several large building projects in the city are at various stages on their completion schedules.

A new "home" for The Midland National Bank is at the beginning stage at the intersection of Texas and Big Spring Streets. Excavation for the three-floor structure is nearing completion.

This building, slated to be 90 by 100 feet in size with 35,000 square feet of floor space, will house the modern banking plant of Midland National and will have two floors of office space. Materials will be reinforced concrete, stone, granite and brick.

Ready for occupancy about the first of the year will be Midland's tallest building—the V&J Tower, fronting North Big Spring Street. Towering 14 floors with penthouse atop, the V&J Tower, a Jack Wilkinson office building, is about 95 per cent completed.

Workmen at present are putting in acoustic tile ceiling and are plastering. Wilkinson said Friday—"we will be in by the first of the year."

Largest Building

A six-floor addition, making it 12 floors high, virtually is 99 per cent complete for the McClintic Building. Finishing work on the elevators within a couple of weeks will complete Midland's largest office building. It is believed to be the largest office building between Los Angeles and Fort Worth. The added six floors are a more than $300,000 project.

Gene Brewer, general contractor, estimates the Hotel Scharbauer addition is 40 per cent complete. Workmen there Friday were pouring concrete on the second floor. The addition to the large hotel will contain six floors with basement. It is a $600,000-plus construction. Most of the tedious ground work at the project now is behind the workmen, Brewer said. "We will go faster from now on."

Some offices on the second floor of the four-story Humble Building at 615 West Missouri Street may be occupied as early as next month. The stage of construction on the $913,000-plus office building is at the inside completion point. Sidewalks in front of the building were laid Friday.

It is believed the Humble Building will be completed by floors and that the second floor office space will be finished first. The ground floor is scheduled to be completed last.

At the Gaylord-Bishop office building, located at the intersection of North Big Spring and Illinois Streets, construction on the three-floor structure is at the second floor level. Workmen Friday were installing partitions on the second floor. This $100,000 office structure will be brick-faced and most of the material is on the site.

Public School Projects

The Midland public schools have four large projects going—six-room addition to Carver School, eight-room addition to South Elementary, new million-dollar junior high, and new elementary school.

The school system bases its completion announcement on this factor—actual work done and strategic materials, purchased and on the grounds.

By this factor, the schools say the Carver addition is 98 per cent completed; the South Elementary addition, 20 per cent completed; the new junior high, 25 per cent; and the new elementary school, 10 per cent.

The new ultra-modern junior high structure will be located on Community Lane in the extreme north-northwest part of the city. The new elementary school will be located in the northwest sector in the area of Indian Park on West Dakota Street.

Actual permits of the structures were issued in the amounts of $607,000-plus for the junior high; $216,406 for the new elementary school; and $124,688 for the South Elementary addition.

Walls are being erected for the $75,000 St. Andrews Presbyterian Church plant near the David Crockett Elementary School in the north sector of the city. It will be a brick structure, built in units. The first unit is the church auditorium.

Other business buildings also are under construction.

Residential Construction

Certainly not all of Midland's construction this year has been commercial. A large percentage of the more than $13,000,000 in building permits has been for residences. A 70-residence project in the $7,100 to $8,100 class practically is completed in the Crestview Addition (northwest). Builder of these homes is Raymond Thomason, Sr. From six to eight of the houses are being completed and occupied daily.

Getting in before the November 1 deadline for certain materials, Midland had a flurry of building permits, running as high as one million dollars in a week, for residences of the $20,000 to $25,000 class.

Also, several large residence permits in multi-units have been issued during the year. These range in size from five to 30 residences and went to various builders. Many of these residence projects now are completed and in all sectors of Midland.

Veteran T&P Master Mechanic Will Retire

DALLAS—D. L. Ringler, veteran mechanical department officer of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, and master mechanic at Fort Worth since 1949, has elected to close his railroading career with his retirement December 1. Five shifts in supervisory personnel of the mechanical department will take place upon Ringler's retirement, it was announced by W. F. Kascal, mechanical superintendent.

E. E. Long, who has been serving as T&P's assistant superintendent of shops at Marshall, will take over Ringler's post of master mechanic at Fort Worth.

J. L. Perkins, currently general car inspector at Dallas, will replace Long at Marshall.

A. B. Bjork will become general car inspector at Dallas, and Wilbert Combs, assistant general car inspector at Dallas, has been appointed to succeed Bjork as general car foreman at Marshall. V. H. Jenkins, who has been serving as car foreman at Dallas, moves up to Combs' post as assistant general car inspector.

Brothers Come Home From War In Korea

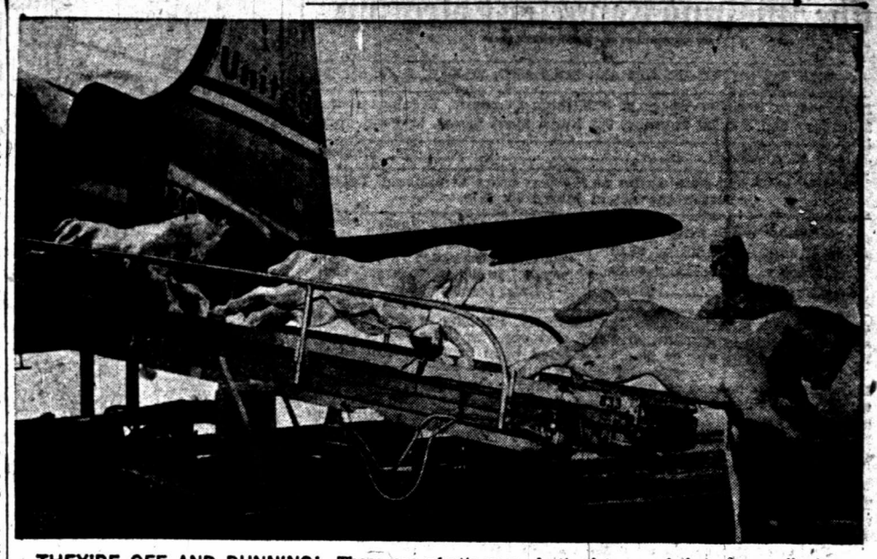

FORT WORTH —(AP)— The Plott brothers came home Friday to both tears and smiles from a host of relatives and friends.

The smiles were for Artillery Pvt. Jimmy Lee, 21. The tears were for Cpl. William Lee, Jr., 25, killed in action in the Korean war.

Midland's New Dial Telephone System Plans Four-Day Open House Ceremony

Midland's new $2,000,000 dial telephone system will be in the limelight for four days, December 4-7, when Midland telephone employes will entertain telephone users here at an open house at the telephone building.

Visitors will be shown through the building during the four days from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

"We feel that telephone users here will be extremely interested in the workings of their highly complex and intricate dial telephone system," Billy G. Yeatts, district manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company here, said.

"We also think they'll be interested in a behind-the-scenes look at the various places that telephone people here work, and the kind of work they do.

"Visitors will be taken on a complete tour of the building, from the large cable vault in the basement, where thousands of wires, in cable, enter the building, on up to the second floor, where long rows of operators, seated at the switchboards, handle Midland's long distance calls."

Telephone employes will guide visitors through the building and explain the equipment, he added. Many displays will be on exhibit, including one where visitors will be shown how the hundreds of tiny wires in a cable are "spliced" to one another, how the dial switches connect one telephone to another, how mobile radiotelephone works, Yeatts said.

Two of the special displays will allow visitors to hear and "see" their own telephone voices.

All telephone users here will receive an invitation through the mail, but everyone in Midland is invited to attend during the four days, the district manager said.

As a preview to the open house, telephone employes will have a "dress rehearsal" at the telephone building next Monday night, followed by a party and a dance.

The TB Christmas Seal

The 1951 Christmas Seal—brighter and more cheerful than ever before—has assumed its position of leadership, as have Christmas Seals of other years, to finance an all-out campaign for better health in the community, state and nation.

The Christmas Seal campaign here is sponsored by the Midland County Tuberculosis Association, which has mailed thousands of sheets of the attractive seals to residents of the community.

Proceeds from the seal sale campaign are used to fight tuberculosis, the most lethal killer among all infectious diseases, and surely the Christmas Seal appeal is one which deserves the wholehearted support and cooperation of the public.

The need is great and seems to be increasing each year. It is true that fewer deaths are caused by TB each year, but the number of patients in TB hospitals is growing. It is estimated that approximately 500,000 persons in the United States now have active tuberculosis and that one-half of this number are unknown to health authorities. In many instances, victims are unaware that they have the disease.

Tuberculosis is the first cause of death from disease in all persons between 15 and 35 years of age, and in the population as a whole it kills more persons than all other infectious diseases. TB kills 40,000 persons a year—100 a day. It strikes 100,000 new victims annually. TB can destroy health even when it does not kill. Patients may have to spend months or even years in a TB hospital before they are cured.

It is startling to discover that Texas currently has the tenth highest TB death rate among the states, and that one out of every 100 persons screened in X-ray surveys last year was found to have TB.

Yet, progress is being made, as the record reveals. The Midland County Tuberculosis Association, along with more than 3,000 other units affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Association, has played a major role in cutting the TB death rate by 85 per cent since 1900. Since that time it is estimated TB has been cheated of 5,000,000 American lives.

• • •

These accomplishments have been made possible, thanks largely to the efforts of TB associations like Midland's, which help to discover TB victims, support rehabilitation programs, and teach citizens how TB can be prevented and how to avoid spreading it among their families, friends and neighbors. They also help support valuable medical research.

The Midland County Tuberculosis Association long has been active in promoting such a program here, and its good work is well known to residents of this community.

The important thing to remember right now, however, is that this far-reaching, better health program is financed solely from the proceeds received from the sale of Christmas Seals.

The importance of the seal sale, then, becomes much more apparent, and surely everyone will be interested in having a part in making the 1951 campaign the most successful in Midland's history.

In the case of the Christmas Seal, we need only to consider its importance in the program it is financing and we will give gladly and generously. We also will use the Christmas Seals on all letters and packages.

Have YOU forwarded a check for YOUR Christmas Seals? If not, please do so TODAY!

A Most Vicious Enemy

Hunting for villains is a great American pastime these days. Some of the sleuthing looks about as sensible as the "Good Guys and Bad Guys" adventures of our boyhood fancy. But there is nothing fanciful about one villain among us today.

Most everyone now has heard that many relatives of men serving in combat on the Korean front are getting false reports that the men have been killed or are missing in action. In every case, these reports are thoroughly malicious in motivation.

Every mother, father, sister, brother and sweetheart of a man in combat ought to know that the only reliable word of his death or wounding or disappearance comes from the armed services by official telegram. All other reports may be completely discounted.

What kind of human beings are there among us who could stir such wicked mischief by playing upon the deepest feelings of a soldier's loved ones? This is the most despicable thing that has happened in America in many a day. All authorities should combine to track down and punish severely these vicious individuals. Their cause could only be the enemy's.

Looks Sort of Silly, Doesn't It?

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson says: Mobilizer Wilson finds housing bottleneck in his own office; Chief Counsel Correa responsible for red tape; Former American prisoner reports another massacre.

WASHINGTON — Mobilization Boss Charlie Wilson didn't have to look far the other day to find out who was holding up housing priorities and rent control for critical areas around army camps where some GIs are living in chicken coops. At a private meeting of all Defense Agency heads, Wilson bluntly demanded who was causing the bottleneck and was told just as bluntly that it was his own general counsel—Rudolfo A. Correa.

The question was brought by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston, who complained sharply that the Defense Department and Office of Defense Mobilization are moving "entirely too slowly" in certifying critical housing areas. Congress had given Defense Mobilization complete power to control housing around military bases and war plants, but the power scarcely has been exercised. In fact, Johnston charged that only 40 areas had been certified for housing priorities and rent control, although more than 200 areas were in urgent need of housing relief.

Johnston then turned to William Barr, assistant housing expeditor, and invited him to explain the urgency. Barr cited the appalling housing conditions around military camps and defense areas, and charged that excessive red tape was holding up action.

"Where is the bottleneck?" demanded Wilson.

Barr hesitated, but Johnston directed: "Go ahead and tell him."

So Barr blurted: "Correa," referring to Wilson's general counsel.

Correa wasn't present, but Arthur Flemming of Wilson's staff protested.

"The facts presented on the first class were inadequate, thus necessitating the collection of additional data," sputtered Flemming. "We had to be exhaustive to protect you, Mr. Wilson."

"Don't worry about me. Just take care of your job," snapped the mobilization czar.

Then Wilson turned to Johnston and ordered: "If there has been no progress on this by next staff meeting, you let me know."

Note — The big housing handicap is that contractors are building homes in luxury areas instead of overcrowded areas. The government has set a goal of one million new homes to be started next year, but only a small fraction will be built where they are most needed. The builders are more interested in making a quick profit on luxury houses than in relieving the housing shortage. Meanwhile, the Senate Preparedness Committee has started a quiet investigation of the housing bottleneck.

A special House committee, now probing the communist slaughter of 5,500 American prisoners in Korea, heard secret testimony recently on a similar shocking massacre during the last war. This was the brutal extermination of about 10,000 Poles by the Russians in the Katyn Forest in West Russia.

The testimony was given the committee secretly by Lt. Col. Donald B. Stewart, an American prisoner taken by the Germans in World War II. Some of the gruesome details he told almost turned the stomach of Congressman Ray Madden, Indiana Democrat, chairman of the investigating committee.

Colonel Stewart related he was an involuntary witness when the Germans disinterred the massacred Poles in May, 1943. He didn't want to take part in any "propaganda or publicity trick" by the Germans, who had plenty of blood on their own hands in mass killings. As a prisoner of war, however, he was forced to observe the ghastly spectacle. He even had to walk in one mass grave where long-decayed bodies were "packed very tightly, like cigars."

Most of the dead were former Polish army officers dressed in heavy overcoats, Stewart said. Practically all of the dead had been shot through the back of the head, as were the Americans in Korea, but a few had been bayoneted.

Since Russia was our ally in 1943, and also because Stewart at first couldn't be sure the Germans themselves weren't guilty of the massacre, he and other prisoner observers "tried to keep any expression from being shown on our faces," during the disinterment.

"For instance, in spite of the stench, we tried to keep from wrinkling up our faces that they (the Germans) could not take a picture of us expressing disapproval or distaste."

Russian Alibis

Russia since has denied any responsibility for the mass murder, claiming that the Germans had killed the Polish officers, after forcing them to work in "road camps" during the time the Nazi army occupied the Katyn Forest area in the "Summer of 1941."

However, the Soviets convicted themselves as liars by their own charges, Colonel Stewart testified, for the Nazis never forced officers to work as laborers. Also, road labor would have left telltale scars, and Colonel Stewart pointed out that the clothing and boots of the murdered victims were mostly new and showed almost no wear.

In addition, the victims would not have been wearing heavy overcoats if they were killed in the Summer. All the evidence, Stewart said, indicates they were killed by the Russians in the Winter, or possibly early Spring, of 1940, before the Germans captured that area.

"We did not like the Germans," Stewart reported bitterly. "Those who had been prisoners longer had a more intense dislike. The longer I was a prisoner, the more I hated the Germans; and yet in spite of (this) animosity and in spite of what we found out about their concentration camps, in spite of everything that I learned about the Germans while I was a prisoner, it did not change the conviction that I formed then, that in this case—I do not know about any others—in this one case the Germans were not responsible; that these men had been executed by the Russians.

Senator McCarthy filled the final edition of the Congressional Record, just published, with 18 last-minute statments. All but two tell what a great guy McCarthy is. (McCarthy used to get Senator Cain of Washington to praise him. It now looks as if there's no one left but McCarthy to pat himself on the back.) . . . Chief Counsel Adrian De Wind of the House committee investigating tax scandals, keeps an investigator on duty in the office at all times—since he caught a reporter snooping in an office brief case . . . Noble Travis, the Michigan GOP chairman, has prepared several anti-labor ads to be used during the election campaign. The ads will be unsigned, and carefully will refrain from showing any connection with the Republicans. (This is the same Noble Travis who was a director of the notorious Society of Sentinels, which fought against social security, foreign aid, minimum wages, price controls, and federal housing loans in 1946.) . . . Army Intelligence reports a sudden increase last week in the number of enemy tanks in North Korea.

Acheson Bored

It may bring a denial, but Secretary Acheson is so disgusted with the lack of progress at the Paris meeting of the United Nations that he almost came home the other day.

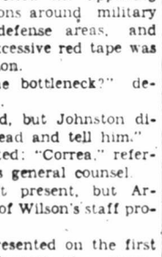

Immediately after giving his speech denouncing the Russians and Chinese Communists, Acheson told his assistants to make arrangements for him to fly back to Washington.

It was obvious, the secretary of State said, that this session of the assembly will yield nothing and that he was wasting his time in Paris.

However, Ambassador Jessup and French Foreign Minister Schuman begged him to change his mind for fear it would give a black eye to the United Nations. Acheson finally did so, but only after making it clear it was mainly because he would have to return to Europe anyway later to attend the meeting of the North Atlantic Pact Council.

By OSWALD JACOBY

When the national championships are played in Detroit during the first week of December, many bridge players all over the country will be wondering just how good the experts are! The answer is that they vary somewhat, just as some big league baseball players are better than others. All of the experts are pretty good, however, chiefly because they have trained themselves to think clearly and carefully at the bridge table.

Today's hand, played at a recent national championship, shows the sort of thinking that goes on when expert meets expert. The hand was played at many tables, and in most cases South got to six diamonds. This was a very reasonable contract, of course, depending only on "finding" the queen of diamonds.

At some tables the West player opened the ace of hearts. At these tables, the South player reasoned something like this: "Why did West open an ace against the slam contract? Did he have reason to believe that his ace would go to sleep if he failed to take it at once? Or did he have a possible trump trick, and was he therefore cashing a side ace to make sure of setting the slam?"

In each of these cases South felt fairly sure that West had no sound reason for felling nervous about his ace of hearts. Each of them therefore decided to finesse through West for the queen of diamonds. The finesse succeeded, and the slam was made.

At a few tables, West was sure that to open the ace of hearts would cause South to guess the location of the queen of diamonds. North's jump to five diamonds indicated that a high diamond would turn up in the dummy, so West could tell that declarer would be able to finesse in diamonds if he wanted to.

At these tables, therefore, the West player opened the nine of clubs. Dummy won with the king of clubs and returned the jack of hearts for a pretended finesse. West therefore got his ace of hearts and could exit safely with another club. In each of these cases the slam was set when South misguessed the trumps.

In short, some declarers made the slam by careful thought. And some defenders defeated the slam by giving the declarer nothing to think about.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
1 Heart	Pass	2 Clubs	Pass
2 Hearts	Pass	3 Hearts	Pass
4 Hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

You, South, hold: Spades Q-7-5-3, Hearts 6-5-4, Diamonds J-10-9, Clubs J-8-2. What do you lead?

A—Lead the jack of diamonds. The contract will be defeated only if your partner has a fine hand. He can probably lead spades just as effectively as you can, but the chances are that the diamonds are best attacked from your side of the table.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades J-8-2, Hearts J-5-4, Diamonds A-Q-7-3, Clubs 7-3-2. What do you lead?

Greece Has Long Way To Go To Become Self-Supporting

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

ATHENS—The question of how long it would be before the United States could end its aid to Greece was raised by a U. S. Senate subcommittee which came through here last Summer. It started a lot of soul searching by American officials in Greece.

Brice Mace, Jr., Tennesse farm expert who heads the U. S. agricultural mission, has come up with the answer that Greece might be made self-sufficient in foods in five years—if there are no drouths and if the United States can continue limited aid for that period to complete irrigation and reclamation projects now planned and under way.

Greece is 78 per cent mountainous. The arable 22 per cent consists of only 8,000,000 acres with a million farmers—eight acres per farm. There is some good, unused land on the river deltas, but it needs drainage.

Irrigation will bring in limited arid acreage in other areas. But the battle to raise enough food for Greece's 8,000,000 people means every acre must support one inhabitant in Greece and also produce tobacco, cotton, olives, fruits and other foodstuffs for export. Only this will enable Greece to earn enough foreign exchange to buy wheat and other foods she cannot raise herself and has to import.

Roger D. Lapham, now head of the Marshall Plan mission to Greece, says it will take twice as long, or 10 years, to make Greece more or less industrially self-supporting.

After hearing this size-up from American officials, the question of when United States aid to Greece might be tapered off was put to Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, new prime minister who has just formed a new government.

War Didn't End Till 1949

Greece cannot be treated like the other countries of Europe, he declared in an interview. The war in Greece did not end in 1945, but in 1949. American aid to Greece this year already has been reduced from $250,000,000 to an estimated $190,000,000. This will make it necessary for the Greeks to revise their budget.

More than 40 per cent of the Greek budget goes to support of its armed forces. Greece was not asking for luxuries but for the military equipment and necessities of life.

The American people should go out in the country and see how poor the Greek people were, Plastiras declared. Greek per capita income is only $128 a year. (This is double the Turkish average, but only half the Italian average.)

The program which Prime Minister Plastiras is presenting to Parliament calls for a new social and economic policy to improve the living conditions of the working classes. This program, however, still is pretty vague.

General Plastiras has called back to Greece from Washington, Kyriakos Varvaresses, an economist who has been on the staff of the World Bank. This move has been hailed by the Athens press as one of the most encouraging things that has happened to Greece in a long time, as Dr. Varvaresses is greatly respected. But he has yet to give his advice and his advice has yet to be accepted.

In the meantime, with American assistance, a Greek rationing and price-control system is being put into operation in an effort to stem the high cost of living and the terrific inflation. Wholesale commodity prices in Greece are 400 times higher than in 1939.

Marshall Plan Aid

Before the controls were put into effect, the Marshall Plan gave the Greeks $25,000,000 to build up their food reserves for the Winter. The controls are on wheat, rice, beans, sugar and coffee now. Controls soon will be put on bread, edible oils and codfish. This will give Greece one of the most tightly controlled economies in Europe.

But the inflationary threat still is here, and with the Greek drachma already selling at 15,000 to the dollar, the political threat is serious. It is hard for anyone in the United States to understand what one of these runaway inflations means. While the U. S. price index has advanced roughly 20 per cent since 1947, the Greek rise is 200 per cent.

The United States will have poured $3,000,000,000 into Greece by next June. More than $900,000,000 has been Marshall Plan aid, due to end in June. Military aid totals more than $550,000,000, UNRRA and other postwar relief grants and loans add up to another $550,000,000. Aid can't go on at this scale forever, no matter how deserving the Greeks may be.

U. S. Ambassador John E. Peurifoy is dedicated to the idea of getting the United States out of Greece, ultimately, and the sooner the better. But he will make no estimate of when that might be.

Prime Minister Plastiras says it is correct to say that his government will work towards further reduction of American aid, so that the Greek people can stand on their own feet in self-confidence.

But he won't commit himself whether that goal is five, 10 or 15 years away. And it is obvious that he is counting on continued aid from the United States, the United Nations, or somewhere, to see the Greeks through.

ELIZABETH, pedaling back to Black Firs on Anne Harwood's bicycle, could feel the moisture of the air clinging to her face and hair. It meant that the last vestage of curl would vanish, that she would appear at the dinner table with what Dr. Alexi used to call her "skinned look."

Thinking of him made her smile.

Severe and tightly closed, the iron gates of Black Firs loomed before her at last. The man whom Mr. Wilkie had assigned to the case emerged from the little sentry box and let her through. As she wheeled past him, she saw him take out a notebook and mark something in it. Probably her name and hour of return. It seemed pointless. Black Firs' imposing wall covered only the front and half sides of the estate. Anyone could enter from the back over the short-cut Lee had used.

The house seemed as silent as when she had left.

As she passed the library, she heard the slap of cards. Lucia and Alistair were at one of their endless games of canasta. Games which often were uncompleted because bickering over the score broke out and one of them in a fit of temper would fling down his hand. Yet they always went back for more. It was either boredom or an irresistable urge for argument.

They didn't look up from their cards and Elizabeth tiptoed past and up the stairs. Still on silent feet she opened the door to Mrs. Steinhart's room. The bed was empty!

Swiftly, he pulses quickening, she circled the room, the adjoining bath, her room and found nothing. But once more in the hall she heard a strange scraping noise coming from Ollie's room. She hurried to it.

• • •

MRS. STEINHART was standing by Ollie's chiffonier staring down at some object in the middle drawer. She turned with an air of disapproval.

"Oh, Beth! I thought you were Ollie."

"Mrs. Steinhart, what are you doing out of bed?"

She was so stunned that she almost forgot the woman was supposed to be unable to walk unaided. Mrs. Steinhart smiled.

"I'm snooping, my dear."

Elizabeth put a supporting arm around her waist. "Snooping?"

"Yes, and I've found something. Look."

"Yes. The bone-rimmed ones. They're quite intact. Yet in my own room with my own ears I heard him tell Aaron Riggs and Alistair that he had broken them the night of Courtney's death."

"You understand what this means, my dear?"

Elizabeth understood fully but said: "Perhaps we're attaching too much importance to it."

"No. My son knows who the murderer is. He is protecting himself and he is also protecting a criminal."

But everything except motive pointed to Ollie himself. Eccentric as he was, surely Ollie couldn't nurse a petty jealousy over so many years. These unbroken glasses must signify something else.

"Surely there's another explanation," she said soothingly. "I know Ollie must have a reason. Where is he now?"

"Durian?"

"An Indian tree. It's supposed to bear delicious custardy fruit but you have to hold your nose while eating it. Ollie's trying some sort of horticultural experiment to remove the odor. He shouldn't be there—he has a bad cold and that humid air aggravates it."

Her voice softened as though she were speaking of the little five-year-old boy she had adopted almost half a century before. Elizabeth's arm tightened about the fragile figure. "Let's go back to your room."

"Yes. I'm tired. The price of my curiosity." She chuckled. "You didn't know I could walk alone, did you?"

"No. You really gave me a scare."

"I'm sorry, Beth. You see, I've been playing possum. I'm not nearly as sick as I've pretended. Oh, I had a stroke but I've recovered much more rapidly than I've let on, even to Horace Appleby. Each day when you were all in the dining room, I practiced walking around my bed."

Elizabeth cringed inwardly, imagining what might have happened.

The woman went on. "Since Ollie had already sent for my grandchildren, I decided to pretend I was really sick and keep them here for a few weeks to observe them. It's been a disappointment. Lee may be a nice boy but I've hardly got to know him; he's so in love, so distraught."

• • •

AS they reached the door of Mrs. Steinhart's room a peal of harsh laughter echoed up the stairs.

"That's Lucia. What's she up to? I don't know whether to be more dismayed when she's laughing or crying, either presages unpleasantness."

"I'll tuck you in then find out."

As Elizabeth went down the broad stairs, Alistair was just disappearing through the front door. He slammed it violently behind him. Lucia watched him, still laughing, shifting a canasta deck from one hand to the other. She looked up at Elizabeth and for the first time there was sincere unadulterated welcome in her smile.

"Brownie, this is rich! I've simply got to tell you—Alistair's draft board sent him a telegram. He's to report for Army induction in two weeks!"

Elizabeth had to smile.

"Is he upset?"

"Upset? Why, he'd confess to being the Black Firs murderer if it would get him out of the Army!"

Texan Plans Fight For Drastic Changes In GI Bill Benefits

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Representative Teague (D-Texas) plans to start a fight for drastic changes in the schooling provision of the GI Bill of Rights at the next session of Congress.

"It was a wonderful dream," Teague said of the training and educational provisions of the bill, "but it just hasn't worked."

For the last 15 months, Teague has headed a special House committee which investigated abuses in the veterans' training program.

The nine-man committee, set up in September, 1950, will hold the last of its field hearings early in December, at San Diego, Calif. Then it will be ready to make its final report.

Afterward Teague will await a favorable political climate in which to begin pushing a bill to revise the program which so far has cost the taxpayers $14,000,000,000.

A Purple Heart veteran of World War II, Teague wants to see the Universal Military Training (UMT) program put into operation and the Korean war ended before Congress tackles the revision job.

Then the lawmakers will have a better line on the number of veterans who would qualify for the new program. And once UMT is in focus, they will have an idea about what the veteran load of the future will amount to.

Proposals For Future

1. Limit the benefits to funds for the payment of tuition, the purchase of books and supplies, and a minor amount for personal expenses, requiring the veteran, himself, to pay part of his way;

2. Eligible veterans would pay their bills personally, thus doing away with the need for the Veterans Administration to have contracts with schools;

3. The program would be reoriented from a subsidized educational program to an educational assistance program, giving a modest amount of help to a limited number of veterans;

4. Strict penalties would be set up for criminal acts; and veterans who abused their benefits would be deprived of them. VA and state officials would be barred from having financial interests in private schools, and such officials also would be prohibited from moving from government employment to the schools within a stipulated period of time;

5. Hobby courses would be prohibited and course changes would be restricted;

6. New schools would be required to operate for at least one year before being approved for veteran enrollment.

Truman Wipes Out Trade Concessions To Russia, Poland

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman has ordered an end to tariff agreements under which this country gives Russia and Poland trade concessions equal to those afforded any other nation.

And another presidential order Friday calls for an outright ban on bringing into the United States several types of furs from Russia and Red China. Furs are a major export from those countries.

The orders are effective January 5.

Crane News

CRANE—The Student Council of Crane High School is sponsoring the playing of carols over the public address system of the school during the Christmas season. Also a Christmas tree will be decorated and placed in the hall at the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dublin entertained recently at a dinner party in their home here. Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. James R. Dublin and son, Jimmy, of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Smith and children, Patricia Ann and Donna, of Midland.

The Crane News office has been moved to a larger building. It is now located in the Southern Union Gas Building on Gaston Street.

Ordinances have been passed which will result in an improvement of the negro section of Crane. Only one house per lot will be permitted. Alleys and streets will be better arranged.

Five-Year-Old Leslie Bartlett Will Learn True Meaning Of Santa Claus From Letter

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — Down through the years, five-year-old Leslie Bartlett's heritage from his mother will be the true meaning of Santa Claus.

Mrs. Virginia Bartlett, 36, of Indianapolis became concerned recently over her young son's growing skepticism about Santa.

She went to an artist-friend, Mrs. Leo Cassell, and together they hand-printed this letter to be given to the lad on Christmas Day:

"Dear Leslie,

"Oh, it feels so good to sit down for a minute. I've left presents for you and Vicki under the tree. I must visit the homes of many more good boys and girls before my work is finished.

"So-o-o many babies are being born all over the world it means that I have more chimneys to slide down than ever before. I simply cannot be everywhere at once. I need help at Christmas time, Leslie. Because you are almost six and getting to be quite a big boy, I have chosen you to be one of my helpers.

'You Can Help, Leslie'

"You can help me next year by choosing your own Christmas tree, and helping the grown-ups decorate it. By giving presents to others you can be Santa Claus. Your family and friends will play Santa to you.

"So now little man, let me tell you a secret. Santa Claus is the spirit of giving, and anyone who loves and gives is a real Santa Claus.

"Merry Christmas, Leslie,

"(Signed) Santa Claus."

Last Tuesday, a short time after this letter was composed, Leslie's mother was killed in the crash of a light plane near Bedford, Pa.

Bettenhausen Is Lap Winner In Pan-Am; Italians Lead Pack

CHIHUAHUA, MEXICO —(AP) — Tony Bettenhausen broke loose from the pack Saturday and snatched the first American lap record from European drivers in the Pan-American Auto Race.

But none of the 35 cars still in the gruelling race could overcome the lead already rolled up by the Italian veterans, Piero Taruffi and Alberto Ascar, in their Ferraris.

Ascari, free of the tire troubles which plagued his first laps, roared past the only American ahead of him to take the second place in the general standings. Taruffi retained the first place he has held two days.

Troy Ruttman of Lynwood, Calif., apparently nursing his car for the final crucial lap Sunday, fell behind Ascari. Taruffi has a 15-minute lead over Ruttman's second-hand, souped-up 1948 Mercury.

Bill Sterling, who is racing to his home in El Paso, Texas, in Sunday's last lap to Ciudad Juarez on the border, is fourth. Sterling already has said his race strategy is to "push" the Italians and hope their highly-tuned engines break down under the stress.

Record-Smashing Day

Jean Trevoux of France, in a Packard, held on to fifth.

It was another record-smashing day. Eighteen drivers beat Sterling's last year record of two hours, 55 minutes, eight seconds for the 251-mile (404-kilometer) leg from Durango to Parral. At least that many beat the record of 1:56:38 for the 186-mile (300-kilometer) Parral-Chihauhua leg set last year by George Lynch of Detroit, Mich.

Four of the 39 cars which started Saturday were out of the race when the rest left Parral. Rex G. Easton of Springfield, Ill., arrived in Parral too late to qualify for the next lap.

Three other cars had engine troubles and did not arrive in Parral in time to be classified. All three were Mexican entries.

Abdullah, Samia Tour Night Spots

CAIRO—(AP)— Sheppard (Abdullah) King and his Egyptian dancer bride-to-be, Samia Gamal, toured Cairo hot spots Saturday night while awaiting government permission to wed.

They cooled their heels two hours Saturday awaiting the permit required for Egyptians and foreigners to marry. But the official who handles such things was out on urgent business.

Samia said she and the red-haired Texan expected to get the permit in time for the wedding to go through on schedule Monday at Moslem Court.

"At most," she said, "we might have to make it on Tuesday."

Honeymoon plans, she added, have not been completed.

Automobile Dealers To Hear Explanation Of Price Regulation

A meeting of both new and used car dealers of Midland, Upton and Martin counties has been called for 8 p.m. Wednesday in the district courtroom of the Midland County Courthouse to hear an explanation of the ceiling price regulation covering sales of new cars.

W. C. Pratt, automobile price specialist with the Lubbock district Office of Price Stabilization, will preside at the meeting and will discuss not only the regulation covering the wholesale and retail sales of automobiles, but other regulations as they apply to the sellers of new automobiles. Specifically included will be Ceiling Price Regulations 67 and 34 which cover sales of automobile parts and services handled by automobile dealers, according to Hoyle Bowles, chief of the Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Section of the district OPS office.

Must Post Notice

The new regulation covering the sales of passenger cars became effective October 15 and requires every dealer to post in "a conspicuous place on his premises a notice not less than 18 inches by 24 inches in size, stating the make, bod; style, line or series and model of each new automobile offered for sale, and an itemized ceiling price." This requirement must be met by December 10.

The ceiling price must be itemized to show the basic price for each particular body style in each line or series; the charge for transportation; the charge for federal excise tax; the charge for state or local taxes; the charge for handling and delivery; and the total ceiling price.

Every dealer in the three counties, as well as other counties, is invited to attend the meeting in order to learn how to bring his operations into compliance with the new regulations.

A. findings, shows how our eating habits have changed over the pre-World War II years, with greater per capita consumption of every type of food except potatoes and grain products.

Check Points Reveal Traffic Congestions—

No. 1—North Big Spring Street (SH 349).

No. 2—East Highway 80.

No. 3—East Florida (Street and SH 158).

No. 4—Rankin Highway (SH 349).

No. 5—County Road Southwest of Midland (south of T&P Railway tracks).

No. 6—West Highway 80.

No. 7—Andrews Highway (SH 158).

Of these points, No. 6 recorded the heaviest volume of traffic with 9,400 vehicles flowing past during a 24-hour period—7,140 passenger vehicles and 2,260 commercial vehicles.

Most of this traffic had Midland as its point of origin and Odessa as its destination or vice versa. Making this trip, one way or the other, were 2,278 passenger cars and 573 commercial vehicles.

Garden City Highway

This figure included 5,067 passenger vehicles and 1,993 commercial vehicles. Of the passenger vehicles, 2,193 had their origin or destination near Midland while 853 were going to or coming from the oil fields southeast of the city. Nine hundred ten of the trucks were going to or coming from points near Midland, while 292 had the oil fields in Southeast Midland County as their origin or destination.

Running third as the busiest thoroughfare was East Highway 80, over which 6,900 vehicles—5,262 passenger cars and 1,638 commercial vehicles—passed every 24 hours.

Hour Variation Constant

The report by the Highway Department breaks down the traffic volumes by hours of the day and the variations were fairly constant with all seven stations.

The day's traffic on West Highway 80, for instance, began building up rapidly after 5 a.m. During the following hour, 135 vehicles passed by the check point, but during the hour after that the volume jumped sharply to 329 vehicles.

And during the hours between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m., when everyone presumably is scurrying to work, 585 vehicles whizzed by.

For the next 13 hours, it remained fairly close to that figure although it dropped to 424 during the hours between noon and 1 p.m., when sensible people take time out to eat lunch.

It reached a peak of 737, however, between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. and thereafter began declining rapidly to the hour between 3 a.m. and 4 a.m., when only 78 vehicles crawled sleepily past the check station.

While the Highway Department team was in Midland, it conducted a traffic count inside the city limits to determine the points of heaviest traffic flow.

Nine persons out of 10 would have guessed the heaviest traffic was on Wall Street. And nine out of 10 would have been wrong.

For the traffic across the railroad tracks on South Main Street was far and away the heaviest, with 19,527 vehicles honking their way past during the 24-hour period.

The only point that could come close was West Wall Street, between Pecos and Carrizo Streets, where 15,878 vehicles were reported for the period.

The experts counted traffic both ways on West Wall Street between Main and Loraine Street, and found 7,762 vehicles were headed East and 7,518 were headed West.

West Wall Street, at a point just west of the Andrews highway intersection, had 14,211 vehicles, only 700 less than the number which cruised on the same street between A and B Streets.

From all its figures, the State Highway Department was able to make some deductions and recommendations.

The report noted, for instance, that 25 per cent of all the traffic record was commercial vehicular traffic, although 32 per cent of the 4,438 vehicles which whizzed through the city without stopping were in this category.

"This indicates," said the report, "that a larger proportion of trucks are involved in the through movement than are passenger cars . . .

"A considerable amount of relief from traffic congestion would be afforded Wall Street if adequate alternate facilities were provided to handle this traffic movement.

"The diversion of trucks hauling heavy oil field equipment to alternate routes would greatly facilitate travel on existing city streets."

TCU's Slashing Frogs Blast Rice Owls, 22-6

FORT WORTH —(AP)— Texas Christian's slashing Horned Frogs used two blocked kicks, a recovered fumble and an intercepted pass to beat Rice, 22-6, Saturday and move into first place in the frantic Southwest Conference football race.

It was a rough and tumble game that probably set an all-time record for penalties in this region. Twenty-three were called for 247 yards, 15 of those yards being stuck on Rice Coach Jess Neely, who rushed onto the field at one time to protest a decision.

It was bitter cold and a misting rain fell throughout the game. But the cold was no more bitter than the play as Rice saw its dreams of a championship with "the team that is going to finish last" so rudely shattered.

That Man McKown

Ray McKown, the jack-in-the-box Horned Frog quarterback, passed for one touchdown and ran for another. A blocked kick brought a safety and a pass interception by the TCU demon linebacker, Keith Flowers, set up a third touchdown.

The game was finished in semi-darkness.

The bitterness of play subsided when the last gun fired and the players of both teams shook hands, slapped each other on the back and said it was quite a day.

Wild, Offensive Game

It was a wild, offensive game with the Frogs outplaying the Owls rather decisively, not only on the field but in the statistics. The Frogs' Meyer spread brought 245 yards rushing and passing to 212 for Rice.

Scoring TCU touchdowns were McKown, on a 15-yard run; Bob Lair, on a 43-yard gaining pass from McKown, and Bobby Jack Floyd, on a one-yard plunge. The safety came when Hal Lambert blocked Kosse Johnson's kick. Doug Conaway tried to pick up the ball but pushed it across the goal line and Dan Drake recovered for Rice.

The Owls' lone score was on a pass from Drake to Sonny McCurry that gained eight yards.

Flowers kicked two extra points.

California's Bears Smash Out 20 To 7 Win Over Stanford

PALO ALTO, CALIF. — (AP) — Spearheaded by Johnny Pappa, a sub halfback, California's Bears smashed and powered their way to a 20-7 upset victory over Stanford's Indians Saturday to hand the prospective Rose Bowl team its first defeat of the season.

But there was no doubt that Stanford, the Pacific Coast Conference champion, would be chosen to meet Illinois in Pasadena on New Year's Day. The fighting Illini won the Big Ten title and clinched a Rose Bowl berth by beating Northwestern, 3-0 Saturday. The official selection of both teams by the PCC and Big Ten committees was expected within a few hours.

A crowd of 90,000 saw Pappa race 21 yards in the second period for one California touchdown and crack the Stanford line for the last three yards in the final quarter for another.

Bears Score Early

Stanford's 66-yard touchdown rally late in the game saw Gary Kerkorian finally able to put together an aerial combination. Seven of the eleven plays were passes. With the ball on the three-yard line, he faded back on a fake run and lofted the oval to Left End Sam Morley in the end zone.

Irish Get Tie With Iowa, 20-20

SOUTH BEND, IND.—(AP)— An end zone pass interference ruling in the last 55 seconds enabled Notre Dame's desperate Irish, trailing all the way, to tie underdog Iowa, 20-20, Saturday.

The Irish lagged 20-6 entering the final period, but then got two touchdowns on short smashes by Johnny Lattner in a wild aerial circus.

A ruling that an Iowa defender interfered with End Chet Ostrowski on Johnny Mazur's pass into the end zone gave Notre Dame the ball on Iowa's one. On the next play, Lattner smashed through for a touchdown.

Georgia Tech Tops Davidson, 34 To 7

The victory was Tech's ninth of the year and its easiest milestone on the road to the Orange Bowl in Miami January 1. Only Duke has stood Tech off this Fall and that game ended 14-14.

Tennessee Rips Kentucky, Babe In 28-0 Shutout

LEXINGTON, KY. —(AP)— Hank Lauricella, a halfback with a naughty wiggle to his hips, and awesome blocking made a Tennessee waltz of the game with Kentucky Saturday, 28 to 0.

The Tennessee star ran, passed and kicked as the nation's No. 1 team, already designated to play in the Sugar Bowl game against Maryland, kept alive its domination over the Kentuckians, who are booked for the Cotton Bowl January 1. The blue grass team now has tried in vain since 1935 for a victory over its arch rival.

Lauricella and his backfield mates starred but they could have played in rocking chairs, so violent was the blocking and tackling of the Tennessee forwards.

The combination made it possible for Gen. Bob Neyland, coach of Tennessee, to continue his record of never having lost to Kentucky in 20 contests. During this long period the Wildcats have counted but 24 points.

The defeat was the fourth this season for Kentucky and its great quarterback, Babe Parilli, ended his scheduled varsity career without ever having completed a touchdown pass against Tennessee although the young man has thrown more scoring flips than any player in history.

Tennessee, brilliantly methodical, pounded to touchdowns in each period while Kentucky mounted only two serious threats. One died on the 14-yard line and the other on the one-foot line.

LSU Bengals Rip Villanova 'Cats In 45-7 Muddy Battle

SHREVEPORT, LA.—(AP)—Louisiana State University turned Villanova every way but loose here Saturday, bashing the Wildcats, 45-7, in a muddy football game.

LSU's Bengals cleared the bench of all but the lame and halt. Co-captain Chet Freeman, who saw last week's game with Mississippi State from a wheel chair, even got in a few licks.

Villanova, a slight underdog, showed no running power against LSU. Except for the passing of Bill Brannau, Villanova never was a threat.

Quakers Rock To 7-0 Win Over Big Red

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Unpredictable Pennsylvania rocked Cornell with a 90-yard scoring burst in the opening minutes Saturday and then never let the enemy come up for air to upset the favored Big Red, 7-0.

DUKE DEFEATS TARHEELS, 19-7

DURHAM, N. C. —(AP)— Favored Duke slammed back from a 7-6 third period deficit and routed arch rival North Carolina, 19-7, Saturday.

It was North Carolina's eighth loss of the season—the worst record since football began at the university in 1888.

KERMIT TD—Billy Mitchell (28) romps back 43 yards with an intercepted pass to score Kermit's final touchdown in the 31-6 romp over Littlefield Friday. The bi-district game was played in Kermit.

Sooners Wham Nebraska To Sack Up Loop Crown

LINCOLN, NEB. —(AP)— Oklahoma made it four straight Big Seven conference football championships and 26 straight league wins Saturday by licking Nebraska, 27 to 0.

Never in the five years that Coach Bud Wilkinson has been at Oklahoma have the Sooners been beaten by a conference foe, and they started towards Saturday's victory with a brilliant 72-yard punt return by Larry Grigg.

As fierce as the Nebraska linemen fought, the Oklahoma defensive giants were even more staunch. For instance, in the first half they held Nebraska to a minus 11 yards from scrimmage.

In the second half the Sooners, with All-America Jim Weatherall anchoring the line, were just as staunch, Nebraska winding up with a net loss of 17 yards.

The two teams played with their respective ball carrying aces—all-America Bob Reynolds of Nebraska and Billy Vessels of Oklahoma—sidelined by injury. A year ago both of these boys had scored three touchdowns in a wild battle, which ended 49-35 for Oklahoma.

Florida Upsets Alabama, 30 To 21

TUSCALOOSA, ALA.—(AP)— Rick Casares' fourth-period field goal was the chief blow Saturday as Florida rallied for a 30-21 victory over favored Alabama here.

'Bama took a 21-13 halftime lead and was leading, 21-20, when Casares booted the ball through for the three points which put Florida in the lead.

3-0 Verdict Puts Illini In Rose Bowl

EVANSTON, ILL.—(AP)— Illinois, choking up completely deep in touchdown territory, won the Big Ten football title and the Rose Bowl gratuity Saturday by squeezing past Northwestern, 3-0, on Sam Rebecca's 16-yard field goal.

In the 25-degree temperature, Illinois froze up after rampaging beyond the Northwestern eight-yard line four times.

Late the final period, Bob Burson began a desperate Northwestern passing assault that carried the Wildcats 50 yards and across midfield for the first time in the game.

He hit Dick Alban for 24 yards, then Norm Kragseth for 22. Finally, from the Illinois 34, Burson hurled to Kragseth, who was running a step from the goal line. Kragseth stretched for it. Then, in bolted Al Brosky to snap it up for a touchdown-saving interception one foot from the playoff zone.

Illinois, ranked sixth nationally, now goes to the Rose Bowl for the second time. Stanford appears to be the likely Illini foe New Year's Day.

Dick Kazmaier Hurt As Princeton Clips Dartmouth, 13 To 0

PRINCETON, N.J.—(AP)—Dazzling Dick Kazmaier played his last football game for Princeton Saturday and his Tigers defeated Dartmouth, 13 to 0, for their twenty-second straight victory—but Kazmaier suffered a mild concussion that benched him.

The Princeton All-America back was injured in the second period after throwing a 14-yard pass that put the ball two and one-half yards from the Dartmouth goal and set up the first touchdown.

Roughing penalties were numerous but none was called on this play, as Kazmaier was pounced on legitimately as he threw the ball.

In the brief time he was on the field, the 171-pound triple-threat star gained 47 yards on 12 rushes and made 73 yards by completing six out of 12 passes. This brought his grand total for three years of college play to 4,357 yards. His season's total was 1,827. He led the nation in total offense before the game.

Baylor Bears Outslug SMU In 14-13 Win

WACO—(AP)—Baylor's title-hungry Bears staved off Southern Methodist's razzle-dazzle passing and running attack, 14-13, Saturday in one of the roughest games ever seen in the Southwest Conference.

Tempers flared from early in the game until the final gun as Baylor grimly and viciously hung on to its Cotton Bowl hopes.

SMU scored first on an 80-yard drive that got its inspiration when Flinging Freddie Benners was injured and removed from the game in the first quarter.

Baylor, sluggish in the opening period, scored the tying touchdown after zooming 63 yards to the two on a pass from Larry Isbell to Harold Rifey, with Riley running most of the distance.

Bill Forester, last week's national lineman of the week, scored SMU's second touchdown, but Sam Stollenwerck's try for point was wide.

Baylor helped SMU to its second score when Bear Tackle Luke Welch was charged with a personal foul that gave SMU the ball on Baylor's one. Forester had set the tally up with an interception, at Baylor's 33.

The victory, Baylor's first home-ground conquest of SMU since 1936, kept the Bears in contention for the conference title, one-half game behind TCU.

Baylor must beat Rice this week and rely on SMU to beat TCU in order to become Cotton Bowl host.

The Isbell-Riley pass play looked like a small gainer when Riley was tackled as he caught the ball, but he jerked loose from an ankle-hold and streaked 63 yards on Baylor's longest play from scrimmage this season.

With Benners on the bench most of the game after his first-period injury, the passing duel between Isbell and Benners offered no fair comparison.

Norton Is Threat

However, Halfback Jerry Norton did a good job of scaring Baylor fans, both with his passing and running.

He completed six of 12 for 62 yards and had two intercepted. But often he used the threat of a pass to suck in Baylor defenders before taking off like a cannonball express through the line.

Isbell shafted the air 16 times for seven completions and 144 yards to give him a season total of 1,239 yards on 93 of 189 passes.

Benners, with three completions on seven throws, picked up 55 yards to run his season total to 1,167 yards on 94 of 177 passes.

Norton punted four times for a phenomenal average of 52.8, including two 60-yard quick-kicks.

Isbell, who trails Norton for the punting leadership, had a 40.7 average on six boots.

Virginia Astounds W&M Indians, 46-0

The Cavaliers, held scoreless in the first quarter, started to roll the moment the 18-year-old sensation trotted out onto the field.

Master Mel crashed over for one touchdown, heaved a 28-yard pass to End Ray Quillen for another, and booted four extra points. Junior Bobby Pate collected three touchdowns, scoring on five and one-yard drives and grabbing Rufus Barkley's 24-yard pitch for the other.

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED—

Bulldogs Prepare For Invasion Of Breck Buckaroos

The undisputed District 1-AAA champions, the Midland Bulldogs, settle down to work this week in preparation for the battle with the Breckenridge Buckaroos here next Saturday. The contest, a quarter-final AAA playoff game—will get underway at 2 p.m. and a more-than-capacity crowd in excess of 12,000 is expected, weather permitting.

Additional bleachers will be constructed at Memorial Stadium to take care of the crowd.

The Bulldogs were to work at 4 p.m. Sunday in a light workout, following a two-day "vacation" after their 24 to 6 triumph over Plainview last Thursday.

Bumps and bruises of one sort or another will hamper End Dan Ratliff, Back Larry Friday, Center Loren Roberts, End Jimmy Linebarger and Back Jimmy Adams.

Friday, Roberts and Linebarger are regulars.

All expect to come around by kickoff time Saturday, however, thus both teams embroiled in the clash expect to go at full strength.

Midland will have an advantage of approximately seven pounds to the man in the line, and even more in the backfield, but going strictly on the record Breckenridge has a 40-point advantage. That's to say Brownwood defeated Midland, 19-13, and Breckenridge Thursday wracked Brownwood, 40 to 6.

To Work On Defense

Coach Tugboat Jones has hopes of stopping the highly-rated Breckenridge T formation which has been unchecked in nine of 10 games. He hasn't, of course, indicated just what he will use to stop it, other than hard tackling, but is expected to go all out on defensive work this week.

Meanwhile, the Midland single-wing offense will get some work this week in all phases of the game.

Breckenridge holds wins over Riverside (FW) 39-7; Wichita Falls, 12-7; San Angelo, 46-6; North Dallas, 34-0; Weatherford, 26-0; Stephenville, 33-7; Cleburne, 55-0, and Graham, 47-7. Abilene handed the Buckies their only loss, a 19-0 trimming in the first month of the grid year.

Midland's victories have been over San Angelo, 21-6; Ysleta, 7-0; Crozier Tech (D), 28-9; Lamesa, 34-7; Vernon, 14-13; Big Spring, 46-0; Sweetwater, 39-0, and Plainview, 24-6.

Midland lost the 19-13 game to Brownwood and was tied by Poly (FW), 13-13.

UCLA Subdues USC In 21-7 Contest

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Led by two sophomore halfbacks and a brilliant display of defense, UCLA subdued Southern California, 21-7, Saturday for its juiciest victory plum of the season.

Sophomores Paul Cameron and Don Stalwick were the big guns, while the outweighed UCLA defensive line held the vaunted Trojans well in check until late in the final quarter.

USC went to the air in the fourth quarter to retrieve some glory and managed to cover 65 yards for a touchdown in a dozen plays.

In the latter part of August, when Tugboat Jones was faced with forging a 1951 MHS grid team from a squad which had graduated 17 seniors, he naturally had several problems.

He seemed fairly well set in the backfield with Ralph Brooks, Larry Friday and Roy Kimsey on hand and had three good linemen in Dalton Byerley, Stan Coker and Pete English, although English had been injured and didn't see much action in 1950. At one end, he had Jimmy Linebarger.

"But who," asked Jones, "will I use at center and at the other end?"

Loren Roberts, a 170-pound squadman and Robert Keisling, a junior end who saw little if any action last year, were nominated to fill the gaps.

There were skeptics who said the two boys didn't have the necessary experience and football know-how to fill the bill.

Even as late as the opening game it was felt Roberts wasn't too secure at the snapper-back post and Keisling was unproven at the terminal post.

Now, as the Bulldogs own their first district crown since 1936, two of the standouts on the team are—that's right—Roberts and Keisling.

Roberts has recovered from some early difficulty passing the ball back on Jones' single-wing attack and has been Johnny-on-the-spot both offensively and defensively. Several times this year he's recovered quickly to pounce on fumbles by opposing backs.

As for Keisling, his record speaks for itself.

At the beginning of the year, the kid did have a tough time hanging on to passes.

Came the Poly game, and Keisling latched on to a pass which he lugged across for the tying touchdown with the minutes ticking away.

The following Monday morning, a fan downtown asked Jones: "Whatta ya think of my boy now?"

"He's been my boy all the time," deadpanned Jones, "Now everybody wants to claim him."

The youngster has scored nine TD's, eight on passes and one on a 60-yard end around play against Vernon. His broken-field running once he gets the ball is as good as any man of the MHS team.

Johnny Kennedy, Bill Mims, Bill Leonard, Terry Fuglaar, Red Cast and M. A. Rose are other inexperienced boys who came through in style to make Coaches Jones, Audrey Gill and Red Rutledge look like prophets.

And in the process, they gained valuable experience which most of them will use next year.

• • •

"Cooper Robbins, head coach at Breckenridge, has one of the best teams ever. He can and does substitute freely without reducing the efficiency of his ball club. He has 22 boys of equal ability."

Breckenridge plays Midland here next Saturday in a Class AAA first-round playoff.

Season ticket holders may get their ducats at the MHS building from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday. Others may obtain tickets from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

Burris Scores As Texas Western Gets 13-6 Loop Victory

AMARILLO —(AP)— Texas Western got rolling in the late stages Saturday and nipped West Texas State, 13-6, in a Border Conference football game.

Bobby Clark put West Texas ahead in the second period, plunging nine yards for the score. But Gerald Campbell returned a punt 70 yards for a touchdown and Ed Ammonds converted to give Western a 7-6 halftime edge.

Jack Burris, freshman from Midland, crashed through center from six inches out to cap a long drive and ice the decision late in the final period.

HIXSON RAMBLES—Little Don Hixson, Kermit's 125-pound freshman back, runs into trouble in the form of several Littlefield defenders, but not before he had gained nine yards. Kermit won the bi-district clash, 31 to 6.

Arkansan Brands College Football Big-Scale Phony

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) Saturday said college football is "phony" on a big scale because "it pretends to be amateur but really is not."

Fulbright deplored what he termed "very widespread professionalism" and "subsidies" to players in the college game, and he urged school authorities to de-emphasis football.

Such a program is necessary, he added, because the present situation is "seriously hurting" American education and is twisting the ethics of many boys who play the game.

Fulbright played football at the University of Arkansas in the early 1920's. Later he served as president of the university.

Saturday, Fulbright said, a great many of the college squads are "really professional teams," built under a system of high pressure recruiting of high school players.

"The system is a phony," Fulbright declared.

The senator said that as a result, the players get a distorted sense of values which, he added, they often carry over into later life.

Fulbright said college administrators have a clear duty "to see that kids grow up with some idea of what is right and what is wrong."

In calling for de-emphasis of football, Fulbright suggested that officials of organizations such as the Association of American Universities study the situation.

Fulbright said he does not favor abolition of intercollegiate football.

"The way the game is being conducted is the problem, not the game itself," he said.

Spartans Rout Colorado, 45-7, To End Unbeaten Year

EAST LANSING, MICH.—(AP) — Michigan State's backfield ran rings around Colorado Saturday for a 45-7 win to cap an undefeated season.

The walloping windup made Michigan State, currently rated second in the Associated Press poll, a strong contender for the mythical national football championship.

It was the first undefeated season for Michigan State since 1913.

TEXAS YEARLINGS WIN

AUSTIN—(AP)— Texas' Yearlings uncovered a brilliant last-half passing attack here Saturday to beat the Texas A&M freshmen, 27-13, in the annual Ben Hur benefit game.

Red Raiders Wham Lobos

ALBUQUERQUE —(AP)— The Red Raiders of Texas Tech struck for nine touchdowns Saturday to crush the New Mexico Lobos, 60-14, in a Border Conference football game.

The Raiders clicked three times for touchdowns in the first period, two in the third and four in the fourth.

Fullback Sandy Welton and Halfback Elmer Wilson each accounted for two Tech touchdowns. Single tallies were scored by Halfbacks Bobb Close, Frank Graves, Jim Turner and Bobby Cacazos, and End Lou Crossley. Punk Whitaker made good on six of seven conversion efforts.

A four-yard pass from Halfback Chuck Hill to Dick Brett accounted for the first New Mexico score. The other came on a 78-yard ramble by Hill.

Houston U Scores Early To Roll Over Aggies Of Oklahoma

HOUSTON—(AP)—The University of Houston exploded for 17 points in the first two minutes and 37 seconds of play Saturday, then coasted to a 31-7 victory over woebegone Oklahoma A&M.

Two of the first three plays Oklahoma A&M tried backfired into Houston touchdowns as Jim Van Haverbeke grabbed one of Don Babers' passes and Marvin Lackey another. In between, Randy Owens booted a 34-yard field goal.

The Aggies rallied to drive 44 yards for their own score in the second period, but Houston promptly matched this, scored another touchdown that was called back, then nailed down the one-sided contest with a third-quarter tally.

Owens kicked four extra points and Skip Warren made good his conversion after John Grabko went over from inside the one for Oklahoma A&M.

Fausett Signs As Albuquerque Pilot

ALBUQUERQUE — (AP) — Buck Fausett Saturday signed a contract to manage the Albuquerque Dukes in the Class C West Texas-New Mexico League next year.

He succeeds Hershel Martin, who guided the Dukes through the last four seasons to two pennants. Martin resigned at the end of the season to try for a post in a higher league.

Razorbacks Upset Tulsa's Hurricane

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—(AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks stopped the nation's number one offense in the mud here Saturday and overpowered Tulsa, 24-7, with a brilliant attack of their own.

Arkansas, upsetter of Texas and Texas A&M earlier this season, ran up 10 points in the first quarter and boosted its lead to 24-0 before the heretofore high-scoring Hurricane tallied in the fourth period.

All three of the Razorback touchdowns came on passes by sophomore Quarterback Lamar McHan, but they, like a field goal by Pat Summerall, were set up by a strong, deliberate rushing attack.

It probably was the big Arkansas line, more than anything else, that enabled the Razorbacks to close their season with five wins and as many loses.

Tulsa, which had averaged more than 482 yards in each of eight previous games was held to 164 on the ground and 99 by passing—69 of the latter on one play.

Pound Tulsa Defense

Arkansas, meanwhile, pounded a Hurricane defense, which had yielded only 106 yards a game until this damp and dreary day, for 267 yards on the ground and added 107 through the air. Fullback Lewis Carpenter accounted for 129 Arkansas yards on 20 rushes.

And the Razorback secondary, which had fallen apart in a 47-7 licking by the Southern Methodist aerial circus a week ago, let Tulsa complete only seven of 19 passes, while intercepting four.

Arkansas' choice to kick off proved wise as Tulsa fumbled on its own 12 on the first scrimmage play. The Razorbacks recovered and moved to the six, from where Summerall booted his field goal.

Later in the first quarter, Arkansas drove 32 yards on the ground to Tulsa's 24 and then McHan shot a bullet pass to Halfback Murry Elton for a touchdown.

McHan connected with Elton again on a 13-yard scoring toss just before half time and threw eight yards to Summerall for another tally in the third quarter.

Gamecocks Upend Wake Forest, 21-6

COLUMBIA, S. C. —(AP)— South Carolina capitalized on brilliant defensive play to upset Wake Forest, 21-6, in a Southern Conference football game here Saturday.

South Carolina Left Half Steve Wadiak dashed across the visitors' goal line for three yards in the third period, and for six yards in the fourth to give its team its heavy margin of victory.

Bowl Bound Terps Rip Mountaineers

COLLEGE PARK, MD. —(AP)— Maryland gave the lumps to West Virginia 54 to 7 Saturday before leaving for the Sugar Bowl with its first undefeated football team in 57 years.

Coach Jim Tatum took it easy on the Mountaineers in the second half by playing substitutes after his regulars had run up a 35-7 halftime lead.

Fullback Ed (Mighty Mo) Modzelewski trampled the opposition by steamrollering 14 times for 131 yards and two touchdowns. He individually outgained the enemy team. West Virginia ran the ball only eight times for a net loss of 21 yards.

Crime Probers Put Up Friendly 'Forfeit' On Sugar Bowl Tilt

NASHVILLE, TENN. —(AP)— Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn) Saturday accepted the challenge of Senator O'Conor (D-Md) to put up a friendly "forfeit" on the outcome of the Sugar Bowl game New Year's Day.

Maryland and Tennessee will meet in the annual classic. Kefauver wrote the Maryland senator that if "the impossible should happen"—a Maryland victory—he will not only give O'Conor a coonskin cap but will also catch a coon and present it to him.

In a letter to Kefauver earlier this week, O'Conor had proposed that he would put up a barrel of "the world's most succulent oysters" from Maryland.

Both agreed, however, that their colleague on the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, Senator Tobey (R-NH), must approve the "forfeits."

Kefauver wrote O'Conor:

"Of course, as you suggest, we can hardly engage in a wager, but I am so certain of the outcome that this would really be a forfeit and not a wager."

Both teams are undefeated and untied.

Wolverines Smash Ohio State, 7 To O

ANN ARBOR, MICH. —(AP)— Don Peterson, Michigan's stocky fullback, smashed six yards for a second period touchdown that ruined Ohio State, 7 to 0.

The winning drive carried 49 yards in eight plays. Halfback Bill Putich got things under way with a short pass to Quarterback Ted Topor.

Peterson and Halfback Tom Witherspoon filled in with short runs and Peterson smashed off tackle and slanted into the end zone for the only touchdown of the day. Russ Rescorla converted.

STILL GOING—That's Dale Dodd, the 190-pound Wink fullback, crashing for more yardage in Wink's 47-6 romp over Eden for the bi-district Class A title of Districts 5-A and 6-A.

Playoff Games In Top Divisions Set

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The top divisions—Classes AAAA and AAA—squared off Sunday for the state championship fight while Classes AA and A moved into the second round in the tumultous Texas schoolboy football race.

Arlington Heights became champion of the Fort Worth district Friday night to complete the play-off bracket in Class AAAA. Arlington Heights smashed Poly 41-0 to move into the state title battle and will play Woodrow Wilson of Dallas in the first round next week.

Thus, in the bi-district round Lubbock will meet Ysleta, Arlington Heights plays Woodrow Wilson, Waco engages Ray of Corpus Christi and Lamar of Houston takes on Baytown.

Only three teams survived the district campaign with undefeated, untied records—Lubbock, Ray and Lamar and those will be three of the favorites to win first round games. Woodrow Wilson probably will be picked to beat Arlington Heights.

Brownsville strapped McAllen, 27-6, to win the District Eight championship and finish up the play-off field in Class AAA.

In next week's first round Midland plays Breckenridge, Grand Prairie clashes with Marshall, Temple engages Conroe and Edison (San Antonio) will be Brownsville's foe. Breckenridge, Grand Prairie, Temple and Brownsville will be favored to win their games. Grand Prairies is the last undefeated, untied team in Class AAA.

Kermit beat Littlefield, 31-6; Pleasant Grove trimmed Terrell, 25-21; LaVega crushed Lampasas, 43-6; Cameron slammed Gonzales, 40-12; Lamar (Rosenberg) beat Brenham, 21-12; French (Beaumont) licked La Porte, 12-0, and Cuero downed Uvalde, 14-7, in Class AA.

In the second round next week, Shamrock plays Childress, Anson takes on Kermit, Winters plays Arlington, Pleasant Grove meets Pittsburgh, Jacksonville engages Huntsville, LaVega meets Cameron, Lamar tackles French and Cuero plays Donna.

Three undefeated, untied teams are left in Class AA—Anson, LaVega and Cuero. Shamrock and Pittsburgh are unbeaten but have been tied.

In Class A Albany beat Wylie (Abilene), 27-13; Whitney nosed out Wilmer Hutchins, 13-12; White Oak licked Newton, 25-14; Franklin beat Fairfield, 27-7; Giddings swamped Burnet, 52-13, Angleton outlasted Tomball, 13-12; Pearsall whipped Taft, 53-19, and Benavides skunked Rio Hondo, 18-0.

Wink-Albany

In this week's second round Dimmitt plays Abernathy, Wink engages Albany, Newcastle plays Whitney, Farmersville takes on Hawkins, White Oak plays Cedar Bayou, Franklin tackles Giddings, Angleton plays Industrial (Vanderbilt) and Pearsall plays Benavides. Six Class A teams are undefeated and untied. They are Dimmitt, Abernathy, Wink, Newcastle, Giddings and Hawkins. Whitney is unbeaten but has been tied.

A number of sites and dates for play-off games have been arranged. In Class AAAA Lubbock and Ysleta meet at El Paso December 1, Arlington Heights and Woodrow Wilson at Fort Worth November 30 and Lamar and Baytown at Houston November 30. Waco and Ray of Corpus Christi in Memorial Stadium at Austin December 1. In Class AAA Midland and Breckenridge clash at Midland December 1 and Temple and Conroe at Temple November 30.

In Class AA Shamrock and Childress play at Shamrock November 30, Anson and Kermit at Odessa November 30, Winters and Arlington at Stephenville November 30 and LaVega and Cameron at LaVega November 30.

Wink Sets Pace On 5-A Dream Team

The Wink Wildcats, champion of District 5-A, placed five men on The Reporter-Telegram's 5-A all-district team.

The backs are: Wink's Dale Dodd, a crashing fullback; Crane's Malcom Garrett, who played good ball in spite of being on a weak team; Billy Pete Huddleston, the Iraan speedster who tallied 21 touchdowns; his running mate, Roy Robicheaux, and Danny Villarreal, Wink's break-away back.

Two extra point-kicking specialists who are fine hands defensively were named to the guard slots: Bill Madden of Iraan and Rusty Wallace of Wink.

Tackles are Wayne Nobles, Wink and Bobby Joyce, McCamey.

A former Midland boy—Bill Grey—was named as the center. He now performs for Crane High School.

Other backs who were outstanding in a district which produced them by the score are: Sam Jimirez, Marfa; Donald Barber, Big Lake; Billy Stokes, McCamey; Mack Patterson, McCamey, and Fuzz Herring, Wink.

The Reporter-Telegram's coach of the year in the 5-A loop is Wink's Glenn Frazier. The record speaks for Frazier. His eleven hasn't been slowed in 11 games this year and only once was held to less than 40 points in district competition. Also, the Wink team defeated Pecos of AA and Kermit—8-AA champion—by convincing margins.

Six Teams Ready For JayCee Cage Loop This Winter

Six teams Saturday indicated they will compete in a JayCee-sponsored City Basketball League here this Winter, according to Ed Dillon, JayCee sports director.

A meeting is to be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Chamber of Commerce office to adopt rules and appoint a schedule committee.

A rules committee now is at work. The committee consists of Pat McMullen, Jack Bliss, J. M. White and John Lomax.

Henry Gets KO Win Over Bob Baker

What next?

"I want to keep on going up the ladder," said Henry. "This guy was ahead of me. Now I'm No. 4. I want Rocky Marciano, Ezzy Charles and Joe Walcott."

Instead of one of the "big three," Henry probably will be offered a garden date with Archie Moore, the perennial "uncrowned light heavy champ."

It was a fine victory for Henry who weighed only 185 to Baker's 209. Apparently beaten by the hulking Pittsburgh lad who was undefeated in 26 previous fights, Henry dropped Baker with a devastating left. Sliding through the ropes, Baker landed on his backside with his legs up in the air while Referee Ruby Goldstein counted 10.

The sudden ending came as a shock to the small crowd of 3,515 that paid $11,236.

Kermit Pushes By Littlefield For 31 To 6 Victory

By LARRY KING
Reporter-Telegram Sports Editor

WALTON FIELD, KERMIT—The Yellowjackets of Kermit High School pushed past the Littlefield Wildcats here Friday afternoon, 31 to 6, to win the bi-district title of Districts 7-AA and 8-AA.

Kermit, the 8-AA winner, combined a steady ground game, a good pass offense and a rugged defense which stymied the Wildcats both on the ground and in the air.

Little Don Hixson, a 125-pound freshman back, stole the show for Kermit offensively. The stubby, piano-legged little fellow, who recently was promoted from the B team scooted for important yardage and scored one touchdown.

The Kermit team found its passing attack for this important clash, witnessed by 5,000 fans, with Bobby Almond throwing two touchdown strikes. His favorite receiver was End Jack Krodell.

Defensively, it was Guard Keith Wharton who sparked the Yellowjackets. Time after time he broke through at crucial moments to throw the Littlefield eleven's dangerous backs for negative yardage.

GAME AT A GLANCE

KERMIT		LITTLEFIELD
15	First Downs	11
223	Gained Rushing	171
4	Lost Rushing	66
219	Net Rushing	105
124	Gained Passing	54

5	Intercepted By	1
343	Net Offense	159
6 for 30 avg.	Punts, Avg.	6 for 23
14 for 100	Penalties	6 for 60
4	Fumbles Lost	4

Kermit's sterling line play earned two safeties to go with the four touchdowns and three extra points the Yellowjackets compiled.

Kermit drove from its own 42 to the Littlefield 36 immediately after the game opened, then a punt by Chuck Williams gave Littlefield the ball on its own 20.

Two plays later, the Wildcats were backed to the one when a fumble finally was recaptured near their goal line.

An attempted punt by John Rhoten was blocked by Guard Bill Burns and the Kermit team went ahead, 2-0.

Littlefield, with Joe Walden and M. C. Northam carrying, forged back to the Kermit 19 only to lose the ball on downs, midway in the first quarter.

'Jackets Move

Billy Mitchell sped 35 yards to the Littlefield 41 early in the second quarter, then Benny Carr lugged nine to the 41-YL. Little Hixson got four to the 28, then sped out right, cut away from several defenders and romped 24 yards to the Wildcat four. Fullback Carr leaped to the one, and Hixson bowled over. Almond's toe made it 9-0 at 3:30 of the second quarter.

Kermit moved 65 yards to get its next tally, with Almond hitting Krodell for 12 and 10 yards on key plays and Hixson rambling for gains of nine and four. An Almond-to-Krodell pass covering 23 yards was the payoff. Almond converted, 16-0, Kermit.

With seconds left in the half, Kermit got the ball on Littlefield's 27. Almond hit Harmon for a touchdown from the 15 after Hixson had gained 12, but the play was nullified by a penalty. From the 35-yard line with six seconds left until the half, Almond found Williams in the end zone for a TD to boast the halftime margin to 22-0.

Early in the second half, it looked as if the Yellowjackets were headed for pay dirt again as they pounded from their own 45 toward the Littlefield goal, after Jimmy Schlosser had intercepted the first of four Wildcat aerials he stole.

But Littlefield did some intercepting of its own, Northam grabbing a toss by Almond at the Wildcat 25, cutting to his own right and ripping 75 yards for the only Littlefield score of the game. That made it 22-6.

Kermit added another safety late in the third quarter with Krodell downing Bill Jones behind the goal line to raise the Kermit margin to 24-6.

In the last quarter, Mitchell intercepted a toss by Jones and romped 43 yards to pay dirt, Almond converting for the final 31-6 tally.

To Meet Anson

Kermit will meet Anson in a quarter-final AA playoff game. The tilt is set for 2:30 p.m. November 30 in Odessa.

The Yellowjackets played most of the game Friday without the services of ace Back Don Handlin, who was injured early in the contest. A knee injury kept him on the bench after the opening moments.

Billy Stokes and Gary Davidson were elected co-captains of the team for the past year in balloting by members of the club.

Jackets will be awarded to the lettermen, reserve lettermen and managers during the second semester of the school year.

Andrews High Cage Team In Workouts

ANDREWS — Basketball Coach Vernon Payne started practice recently with 37 boys. The group will be cut to 25 within the next two weeks.

With only two lettermen returning, Billy Spears and Tommy Singleton, positions for playing have not been assigned. There will be a squad of 10 boys on both the A and B teams.

Last year's B string players reporting for practice are Billy Watts, Sonny Earle, Donald Ragsdale, Aubrey Mobley, Don Huestis, Donell Hitch, Raby Hamilton, J. Frank Davis.

Britain's Top Auto Manufacturers Merge

LONDON—(AP)—Britain's top two automobile manufacturers — Austin and Morris—announced Friday they would merge forces under a single company to fight for a bigger share of the world's markets.

The merger would give the new organization combined assets of $184,800,000 and would leave it the fourth largest auto manufacturer in the world, outstripped only by the American big three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Kermit Dominates All-District Team In 8-AA Choices

Kermit High School dominated The Reporter-Telegram's all-district football team for 8-AA, landing five men on the first string team. Seminole had three, Pecos two and Andrews one.

Monahans was the only team which failed to land a starter, but the Lobos had three on the second team—an outfit which might defeat the first team if it were possible for the two elevens to meet.

The selections were made by Bob Adams, Cope Routh, Tanner Laine, Dick Venator and Larry King who reported the 8-AA games for The Reporter-Telegram.

Backs are Orlando Gutierrez and Sonny Langham, both of Pecos, Don Handlin of Kermit and Jackie Sparks, Seminole.

Honorable Mention

Honorable mention went to the following: center—Curbow, Pecos; guards—W. Mueller, Pecos; tackles—Graham, Andrews and McReynolds, Seminole; ends — Livingston, Seminole, Spears, Andrews, and Williams, Kermit; backs—Earle, Andrews; Mitchell, Kermit; Jenkins, Monahans; Schlosser, Kermit; Wilson, Seminole; Crawford, Seminole; Sims, Seminole; Randolph, Andrews; Grey, Pecos; Nelms, Monahans; Jobe, Andrews.

Kermit's Neil Dillman was named the "coach of the year" in the district. His Yellowjackets, after going to the Class A finals last season, were wrecked by graduation, especially in the backfield. But he built a team which started as average into a fine eleven, having them sky-high for the crucial tilt with Seminole.

At that, Dillman just nudged Seminole's George Zoller for the loop coaching honors. Zoller, in his first year as a head coach, delivered a year ahead of schedule and ended in second place in the district. His team lost but two games over the full season.

Gorgeous George To Appear At VFW Hall Wednesday Night

Gorgeous George, the grunt and groan specialist who made his trade an honorable one, comes to West Texas Wednesday night.

George — who bills himself as "The Human Orchid," "The Gorgeous One" and "The world's most glamorous sports figure" — will tangle with Alex (The Mad Russian) Kasoboski in the feature attraction of a program presented by Pat O'Dowdy, colorful promoter. The card begins at 8 p.m.

The first bout will be between Vic Weber, the San Angelo grappler and Joe Perez of Amarillo.

Gorgeous George

But most interest will center on the antics of Gorgeous George, who is attended by his personal valet, Jeffries. Jeffries' mission in life is to spray the ring and ringside with perfume before George enters, and to smooth his curls and dignity which unruly opponents have ruffled.

George will go into the ring with the latest hair-do and creations from Paris, then will try for approximately one hour to keep the burley Kasoboski from roughing him up.

Advance tickets to the event—to be held at the VFW Hall, West Highway 80, may be obtained at the Crawford Coffee Shop.

Wink, Albany To Decide Site; Get Offer From Midland

WINK — Officials of Wink and Albany High Schools are to meet at noon Sunday in Colorado City to determine a site for their quarter-final Class A contest.

TCU Becomes Top Dog In Southwest Conference Race

It will require another week before the title can be decided and the team to represent the conference in the Cotton Bowl determined.

TCU beat Rice, 22-6, Saturday to ruin the latter's chances of an unshared championship. Rice still could tie for it, however.

Baylor edged Southern Methodist, 14-13, to move into second place, just a half-game behind the Horned Frogs.

Thursday, Texas closes the season against Texas A&M at College Station. If Texas wins, it might wind up in a tie for the championship—but TCU would have to lose its final game next Saturday with Southern Methodist in Fort Worth. Baylor plays Rice at Waco.

The standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
TCU	4	1	0	.800
Baylor	3	1	1	.700
Rice	3	2	0	.600
Texas	3	2	0	.600
Arkansas	2	4	0	.333
SMU	1	3	1	.300
Texas A&M	0	3	2	.200

More Southwest Gridders Named To All-America Squad

NEW YORK —(AP)— Four players —two offensive and two defensive— Saturday were re-nominated to the Associated Press All-America squad from which the first and second teams will be picked on December 7.

These four, selected for the second time by AP's board of experts, are from the far West and Southwest. They are:

Bill McColl, Stanford's brilliant end, who was instrumental in Stanford's 35 to 14 victory over Oregon State last week.

Jim Weatherall, Oklahoma's rugged defensive tackle who kicked five extra points and personally set Iowa State back 21 yards in the Sooners' 35-6 romp.

Tulsa Fullback

Howard Waught, Tulsa's line-busting fullback, who now is sixth in the nation in rushing. He was vital in team's 21-14 win over Texas Tech.

In addition to these players, 14 new names were added to the list of those eligible for the first and second defensive and offensive teams. The new nominations include the following Southwesterners:

Offense:

Southwest — Tom Stolhandske, Texas end who caught three passes as Texas Christian was routed.

Border — Jim Donarski, Arizona guard who plays defense as well as offense, and did outstanding linebacking job in defeat of Idaho.

Defense:

Rocky Mountain — Larry White, New Mexico center.

Yale, Harvard In 21-21 Deadlock Game

NEW HAVEN, CONN. —(AP)— Yale and Harvard, once mighty football powers, turned in a thrilling battle Saturday which ended in a 21-21 tie.

Yale, which had led until the final five minutes, rallied to knot the game with only 61 seconds to go.

Wade Passes Vandy By Memphis State

NASHVILLE, TENN. —(AP)— Bill Wade heaved a game-winning 42-yard pass in the fading minutes of the final quarter to give Vanderbilt a 13-7 victory over Memphis State Saturday in a mud-spattered game.

With the score deadlocked 7-7, Wade spiraled a pass from his own 24-yard line to End Ben Roderick who took the ball on the State 34-yard line and loped the rest of the way for the score.

The blue-clad Staters, who had been looked upon as a breather for favored Vanderbilt, had held the Commodores on fairly even terms until then.

Alert Boilermakers Dump Hoosiers, 21-13

BLOOMINGTON, IND. — (AP) — Purdue turned two pass interceptions and a recovered fumble into touchdowns Saturday for a 21-13 victory over Indiana. It gave the winners second place in the Western Conference.

It was the last game for Indiana under resigned Coach Clyde Smith and it rebounded twice with touchdowns after Purdue scores.

Goode Sets New Records In H-SU Win

ABILENE — Dunny Goode, a former Midland High School star who now rambles with the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys, assaulted the rushing records here Saturday night as the Cowboys edged Arizona, 14-13, in a Border Conference game.

Goode rushed 24 times for a total of 158 yards—44 more than any other H-SU back ever has gained, including Doe Mobley, who led the nation rushing in 1942 and 1946.

With one game to go—against Texas Tech December 1—Goode has compiled a total of 1,326 yards to be the second rusher in the nation. San Francisco's Ollie Matson is the leader.

Goode scored the final H-SU touchdown with a one-yard lunge here Saturday night to run his total to 84 points for the year and 186 in his career at Hardin-Simmons. He is a senior. He performed at Midland from 1945 thru 1947.

Shortly after the game got underway, Goode flashed 59 yards on a brilliant run to the Wildcat 10-yard line, but no score resulted as the Cowboy attack bogged down.

H-SU tallied in the late second quarter on a 16-yard romp by Quarterback Bob Hart. Gene Offield converted.

In the third stanza, Arizona tied it up with a short gainer by Dave Richards and a placekick by Danowsky.

Late in the third, Goode rambled 18 yards to the Arizona 14-yard line and three plays later punched over for the tally. Offield kicked what proved to be the winning point.

Troutman Blocks Kick

The Wildcats scored in the final 45 seconds of the tilt, a pass from Stanton to Keul covering 11 yards. Big Burl Troutman broke through to block Danowski's try for point.

PLAYOFF TILT SET

LONGVIEW —(AP)— Arrangements were completed Saturday for the regional Class A football playoff game between White Oak and Cedar Bayou here Friday at 7:30 p.m.

OREGON STATE TRAMPLES OREGON

EUGENE, ORE. —(AP)— Oregon State bulled to a 14-7 victory over traditional rival Oregon Saturday.

Fullback Sam Baker was the battering ram for the Staters, who had to come from behind with two touchdowns in the final quarter to win.

PASSES DOWN HUSKIES, 27-25

SEATTLE—(AP)— Sophomore Bob Burkhart pitched three touchdown passes Saturday as Washington State rallied to nose out Washington, 27 to 25.

State scored its first victory in Seattle since 1930.

Heavy Fog—

crossed as darkness and the fog settled.

The accompanying rainfall was little more than a heavy mist. It amounted to only .04 inch of precipitation between midnight Friday and 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

It did make paving slippery but had not affected the drought-dry ground to any degree during the day.

The fog that shrouded Midland extended north as far as Amarillo; east to Fort Worth; past Garden City south; and to Monahans west. San Angelo reported bright sunshine Saturday afternoon. Reports to pipe line companies here Saturday afternoon indicated the fog was breaking at Crane and Goldsmith.

Visibility Limited

Rail and bus transportation was on time from the west and about on schedule from the east. The afternoon westbound Eagle passenger train was slightly behind schedule but this was not attributed to the weather.

The fog moved in on Midland at 4:30 a.m. Saturday. It hung on all day. By late afternoon, it sifted even lower. You couldn't see the Petroleum Building from City Hall at 5 p.m. Motorists in the city were driving with car lights on at 4:30 p.m.

Midland's downtown streets looked like canyons filled with fog mush at dusk. A busy shopping crowd scurried on the sidewalks. The tall office buildings disappeared into the mists.

Then when dark came, lights blurred through the fog and pedestrians suddenly loomed up large after being nothing only a block away.

the American people are under the impression that they are being hoodwinked and deceived," Mrs Rogers said.

She noted that the latest casualty reports from the Defense Department show 16,972 Americans killed in action or dead of wounds and 10,871 missing. She specifically asked that the President relate the death and missing figures to the figures made public by General Ridgway so that the mothers and fathers of this country may know whether General Ridgway's figures are included in the report of the Defense Department.

UN Report Unnoticed

General Ridgway's report that 8,000 alleged cases of murdering prisoners were under investigation also mentioned that 126 suspects in the cases were in custody. The report was put on the documents table of the UN General Assembly in Paris a week ago, but it went unnoticed by the 1,800 correspondents there.

Only Friday night did it come to light, when a New York Herald Tribune reporter found it at UN headquarters in New York.

The Pentagon, which hadn't seemed aware of the report either, then confirmed that it had been received in Washington.

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa), member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told a reporter Saturday it was "unfortunate" that the United Nations had not taken any action to protest the massacres. He said:

"The number of our boys tortured and slain is immaterial except as it emphasizes the horror. Even if just one of the American prisoners has been so mistreated it would justify the most vigorous and searching demands and protests. Our forces in Korea have been operating under the flag of the United Nations. It is certainly incumbent upon the UN to make an immediate and effective protest. I can't understand why the UN hasn't acted."

Representative Madden (D-Ind) has proposed that a House group he heads be empowered to collect evidence on Korean atrocities that would be available for post-Korean war trials.

15 Persons Charged In Wichita Falls High School Dope Peddling

WICHITA FALLS — (AP)— Three more men arrested Friday in Dallas and Waco have been brought here to face charges in connection with the sale of marihuana to Wichita Falls High School students.

Their arrests bring to 15 the number of persons charged after raids were staged this week in Wichita Falls on information furnished by a 23-year-old narcotics agent who posed as a high school student.

The MATURE PARENT

Protect Adopted Child By Telling Him Yourself

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Kate was nine years old when her father died. After the funeral, her Aunt Essie stayed on to help Kate's mother "rearrange her affairs."

Kate learned what Aunt Essie meant by "rearranging" those affairs when she came home from school one afternoon to hear Aunt Essie's loud voice arguing with her mother in the kitchen.

Aunt Essie was saying, "Of course, sell the house. Why should you go on cooking and cleaning for her? Put her in a boarding school—and start remaking your own life. You're a young woman still. It's not as if Kate were your real child . . ."

We should take care to protect adopted children against learning of their circumstances through this kind of clumsy accident. We should protect them by telling them about these circumstances ourselves, as soon as possible.

If we postpone this loving duty, we take chances on a family emergency forcing knowledge upon them at a time when they are struggling to adjust to the emergency.

Kate, the experts tell us, is an unusual adopted child; she really didn't know. Usually, adopted youngsters have discovered our carefully hoarded secret and live their lives with us, struggling heroically to justify our silence.

More sensitive than we are, they bear the bewilderment and wonder alone to spare us the shock of learning that they know. Our reserve frightens them.

They ask themselves, "What shameful thing is connected with my birth? What dreadful secret can it be that these people whom I love cannot take me into their confidence?"

These are questions no child should have to ask.

To adopt a child for one's own is a proud and triumphant act for any human record. But to allow such a strong and loving act to become associated with shame in the mind of the child we love is unsound feeling and thinking.

Fear Is The Enemy

Fear, of course, is the enemy that is depriving us of the closeness and freedom that shared truth always brings to us.

We are afraid to tell the truth to our adopted child because we are jealous of his natural parents.

If we give some thought to this jealousy, we usually discover that it's based on an over-sentimental, unrealistic respect for physical parenthood.

True motherhood is quite independent of the sexual or birth experience and is the product of three qualities: self-knowledge, humility and love. We do not achieve these by being wheeled into a delivery room and bearing a baby.

Since true motherhood is a spiritual, rather than physical experience, giving bodily birth is no guarantee whatever of the real McCoy. The woman who deliberately seeks out a child to adopt and love is, however, a promising candidate for the finest kind of motherhood. Her very decision implies that she is a human being who has achieved some self-knowledge, some humility and some love.

If she has a problem at all, it is that she is still deficient in self-knowledge. Otherwise, she would be able to appreciate her act of adoption as an example of unusual control over circumstances.

Instead of passively accepting a situation which denies her an experience she wants, she takes the situation over and changes it. She should be so pleased with her human quality that she has no reservations at all in sharing her delight with the child who has inspired her triumph over circumstances.

Once the adoptive parent gets the right evaluation of his own action, he is almost set. Respect for his creative action is basic to his ability to explain adoption to the child. That's a subject I will discuss in my next column.

Search Continues For Missing Plane

TREVISO, ITALY. —(AP)— The United States Air Force Saturday continued its search over the North Adriatic Sea and mountains and valleys of the Alps for an American C-47 transport missing since Monday.

The missing aircraft had left Erding Air Base, Germany, with a crew of four to carry supplies to American officials at Belgrade. It reportedly was fired on by border guards when it crossed over the Hungarian and Romanian frontier.

Mossadegh To Seek Immediate Elections In Strife-Torn Iran

TEHRAN, IRAN —(AP)— The government of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh—rich in oil potential but hard up for cash—Saturday said it would demand national elections immediately for a bold test of its popular strength.

The announcement came after the frail premier returned to a whopping welcome home from 47 days spent abroad in efforts to get money and in defending his national oil policies.

The move to hold elections "at the first opportunity" was looked upon as a maneuver to capitalize on a wave of popular enthusiasm for Mossadegh's resistance to efforts in the United States to loosen up on his all-Iranian oil plans.

The crucial issue, however, is the low state of Iran's treasury, which misses the oil royalties paid for years by the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The demand for elections soon apparently was designed to give the opposition less time to consolidate forces to unseat Mossadegh and to deprive the opposition of added time in the worsening financial crisis.

Badman Bill Cook, Found Sane, Will Hear Fate Tuesday

EL CENTRO, CALIF. —(AP)— It took less than an hour for a jury to decide Friday that desperado William E. Cook, slayer of six persons, was sane when he killed Seattle Salesman Robert Hilton Dewey near here last January 6.

In 50 minutes the jury of eight women and four men resolved an issue upon which five alienists couldn't agree. The verdict was one of the speediest ever returned in an Imperial County superior court.

Tuesday, Judge Luray Mouser will determine the degree of guilt. If he decides Dewey's death was first degree murder he can sentence the 23-year-old Joplin, Mo., dishwasher to the San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

Judge Mouser could give Cook life imprisonment if he feels there are extenuating circumstances, even though the slaying were to be fixed as first degree murder.

The youthful slayer, who killed the five members of the Carl Mosser family of Atwood, Ill., last December and threw their bodies down an abandoned mine shaft near Joplin, still is the prisoner of FBI agents and a guard of Alcatraz Federal Prison, where he is under sentence of 300 years for the Mosser kidnapings. He was given 60 years on each of five counts, the sentences to be served consecutively.

themselves called it "Little Gibralter" after the famed guardian of the Mediterranean. The savage battle began at 4 p.m., Friday with a heavy Chinese attack.

At midnight Saturday it had passed its thirty-second hour of continuous action, with no end in sight.

UN troops, identified only as a crack outfit, held three of the four peaks on the crest about 35 miles north of Seoul. Chinese held the fourth peak and were attacking the others.

Saturday night, an Allied spokesman said his troops had counted almost 800 Chinese dead hanging on the barbed wire entanglements against which they had charged again and again in "human sea" tactics.

Oscar The Pheasant Is Battered, Broken By 200 Poor Sports

MAROA, ILL. —(AP)— Oscar, a stuffed pheasant, Saturday was a battered and broken bird because some 200 hunters were trigger-happy poor sports and law violators.

Herbert O. Marlow, a farmer and amateur taxidermist who lives beside U.S. Highway 51 just north of Maroa, put Oscar in his fenced bean field about 100 feet from the paved road when the hunting season opened.

Marlow reported almost all of them violated three Illinois laws. They shot from the highway, which is prohibited; failed to request permission required by law for hunting on private property, and carried their guns loaded in their cars.

Shot Where He Stood

And, says Marlow, few of the hunters followed the basic rule of sportsmanship in hunting gamebirds—flushing the quarry into flight.

They shot poor Oscar where he stood. Some banged four or five times. Usually they climbed the barbed wire fence after shooting, walked up and poked the pheasant with their gun muzzles, ready to give him another blast if he so much as twitched a feather.

Mrs. Marlow said she insited that her husband bring the target back into the house after one hunter almost bagged his companion as they closed in from north and south.

Reactions of the duped hunters after noting Oscar's shattered condition were varied, Marlow said. Some of them laughed uproariously. But others stomped back to their cars and slammed the doors.

Santa Claus will make his first appearance in downtown Midland at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in a parade arranged and sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. St. Nick will ride in the parade atop a specially decorated float.

The parade will end at the courthouse where Santa Clause will leave his float to visit with the West Texas youngsters who will be on hand to greet him. He plans to spend several hours here, affording him plenty of time to shake hands with everyone in attendance.

Children of different age groups will march through designated doors of the courthouse to receive candy, which Santa Claus will bring with him from the North Pole. He will be assisted by JayCees in distributing the frozen sweets.

The Tuesday night celebration is arranged and sponsored by the Retailers Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which Gerome Grayum is chairman. The committee also is in charge of the street decorations and the Treasure Hunt.

The largest crowd ever assembled in downtown Midland is expected to be on hand for the opening of the Christmas Shopping season and the Santa Claus parade.

Texas Teachers Fire Blast At NEA For Stand On Tidelands

HOUSTON —(AP)— The National Education Association was criticized roundly by the Texas State Teachers Association Saturday for its "unjustified, unethical and ill-advised" action in opposing state ownership of the Tidelands.

The policy-forming House of Delegates of the Texas organization criticized the NEA after quashing a move to withdraw from the national organization.

He deplored the action of NEA in fighting pending national legislation that would retain Tidelands ownership to the state for use by Texas schools.

Proffer asked that the group strike out a paragraph in a resolution for increased membership in the national organization.

By voice vote, delegates decided to retain the paragraph but approved another criticizing the NEA for its Tidelands stand.

Ruth Hillyer, a San Angelo teacher, was elected president of the Texas State Teachers Association without opposition at Saturday's session.

15 Killed, 70 Hurt As Blasts Demolish Danish Naval Arsenal

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK —(AP)— A series of violent explosions at the Danish Navy's Copenhagen Harbor Arsenal killed at least 15 persons and injured 70 others Friday night. Most of the dead were firemen.

Five building collapsed, burying several dead and injured firemen. Then the flames caught amid the wreckage, making the arsenal area a horrifying scene of fire and death as dynamite charges exploded.

Panic broke out in the nearby quarters of 1,100 Danish Marines, who were asleep when the roof over the dormitories collapsed. The yelling Marines fought to get out, knocking their buddies down.

Ambulance sirens wailed through the streets hours after the blasts, taking the dying and injured firemen, Marines and bystanders to three hospitals. Doctors were called in from all over the city to perform operations.

Only a few firemen were available at the spot after the explosions to tell what actually had occurred. The others who saw it were injured or dying in hospitals.

Only One Eyewitness

"We were first on the spot," Poulsen said. "There was a Marine guard on the premises when we arrived, but nobody told us there was any danger. The inspector detached two groups of 10 men each to enter the mineyard quintus, which had just caught fire. The other group was deploying toward the building when the blast came.

"I was behind a ladder van unrolling a hose when an explosion blew me 10 yards through the air onto a wharf. I was knocked almost unconscious, but I remember I saw at least four of my comrades blown right out of their uniforms.

"The poor men who went into the mine depot, did not have a chance. They were blown skywards, and we have not been able to find all of them. Some we will never find. They just vanished.

"I will never forget this night. Cries of agony of the dying boys I have worked with for 10 years will give me nightmares for the rest of my days."

ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Ruth Whitmire, 1108 North Big Spring Street, was admitted to Midland Memorial Hospital as a medical patient.

RECEIVES MINOR SURGERY

Mrs. Lois Farris, 809 South Big Spring Street, was admitted to Midland Memorial Hospital for minor surgery.

OBJECT IN EYE

Skelly Gets Flowing Discovery From Lower Permian Lime In Lovington District Of C-E Lea

Skelly Oil Company has discovered prolific flowing oil in a lower Permian lime at its No. 9-0 State, slated 12,500-foot wildcat in Central-East Lea County, New Mexico.

This prospector, located six miles southeast of the town of Lovington, is 815 feet from west and 660 feet from the south lines of section 31-16s-37e.

Flows 196 Barrels

It flowed 196 barrels of clean, 39.2 gravity pipe line oil in four hours and 16 minutes in a drillstem test at 8,140-8,320 feet.

The flow was through a five-eighth inch bottom hole choke and a one-inch top opening on the drill pipe.

The tool was open for five hours and 10 minutes. Gas surfaced in 25 minutes. Mud started flowing out in 29 minutes, and oil and gas cut mud came to the top in 32 minutes.

Starts In 54 Minutes

The section started flowing clean oil at the surface in 54 minutes and 196-barrel flow in four hours and 16 minutes followed.

The fluid left in the drill pipe when the tester was closed was reversed out. There were no signs of water. The gas volume during the test averaged 1,250,000 cubic feet per day.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was between 1,850 pounds and 2,775 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure after 15 minutes was 3,050 pounds.

To Drill Deeper

Operator is preparing to drill deeper. If more shows develop in the current formation another drillstem test will be run.

Operator representatives say the pay is in the lower Permian lime—either lower Clear Fork or upper Wolfcamp. Exact age of the section has not yet been determined.

No Such Productions Near

There is no lower Permian production anywhere in the areas adjacent to the Skelly No. 9-0 State.

It has already shown as a possible discovery from the Glorieta at 6,065-6,220 feet.

A good show of gas and of free oil was developed in a drillstem test of that interval. No water was found in that pay section.

Skelly No. 9-0 State is one and three-quarter miles west of Tide Water Associated Oil Company No. 1-PD State, a recently completed discovery from the Strawn lime of the Pennsylvanian.

Albaugh Of Midland To Dig Deep Project In NW Childress Area

Ray A. Albaugh of Midland plans to start operations by December 10 at a 10,000-foot wildcat in Northwest Childress County.

ABILENE—West Texas—the territory served by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce—produced 399,006,735 barrels of 820,029,648 barrels of Texas' 1950 crude oil output, according to a report published in the current issue of the WTCC magazine, West Texas Today.

Eighty-three of the 132 counties are oil producers and five produce natural gas, the magazine declared, basing its statements on statistics provided by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

Texas' all time oil production to the end of 1950 had totaled 13,700,204,172 barrels, of which 5,207,365,306 barrels had been produced within the WTCC territory.

Eleven WTCC counties have joined the ranks of the "oil" counties since World War II. Commercial production was discovered in Lamb, Martin and Midland in 1945; in Hall, Kent and Knox in 1946; in Sterling in 1947; in Sutton in 1948; in Borden and Roberts in 1949 and in Lynn in 1950. Ten of the 11 produced in 1950 a total of 8,708,985 barrels. Sutton County, where 382 barrels were produced in 1949, had no production last year.

West Texas' oldest oil counties are Clay, Coleman, McLennan and Palo Pinto where first commercial production was recorded in 1902. Other counties where first production was obtained 30 years ago or longer and the discovery years are: 1910 — Shackelford and Wichita; 1911 — Archer; 1915 — Wilbarger; 1916—Stephens; 1917—Brown, Eastland, Erath and Young; 1918—Comanche; 1920 — Mitchell; 1921—Wheeler.

Ector County's 1950 production topped all West Texas counties. It totaled 50,597,905. In second place was Scurry with 38,806,211 and Andrews was third with 34,972,150 barrels. Other counties that produced more than 10,000,000 barrels were Hockley, Pecos, Winkler, Crane, Gray, Gaines and Hutchinson.

Although Wichita County produced only 9,908,900 barrels in 1950 as compared with 50,597,905 barrels in Ector County, it still is tops in West Texas for all-time recovery. Wichita's total to 1951 was 467,051,099 barrels while Ector had produced 453,301,798 barrels. Pecos County ranks third for all-time production with 412,267,052 barrels of which 17,593,962 barrels were produced in 1950.

Ranking next are Winkler with 398,804,297 barrels and Gray with 312,480,563 barrels. Archer, Gray and Hutchinson Counties have produced 200,000,000 to 300,000,000 barrels. Production of 100,000,000 to 200,000,000 barrels is shown by the counties of Andrews, Eastland, Gaines, Hockley, Howard, Reagan, Stephens, Upton, Ward, Wilbarger, Yoakum and Young.

WTGS Will Hear Bartram Speak At Tuesday Meeting

The West Texas Geological Society will meet in the Junior High School auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday to hear an address on "Regional Geology of the Pennsylvanian" by John G. Bartram.

He will show maps for the different series during Pennsylvanian time. These maps will have isopach contours where the control is good enough to draw them and will show the location of the various land masses and deep troughs and shallow seas where sediments accumulated.

Bartram will discuss the periods of orogeny and the effect of the mountain building on the amount and character of the sediments deposited. The area to be discussed will be the entire central part of the United States as far west as the Great Basin country of Nevada.

Wolfcamp Flows Oil From Forest, Et Al Wildcat In NE Lea

HOBBS, N. M.—Forest Oil Corporation, Houston Oil Company of Texas and Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1 H. L. Lowe, wildcat in Northeast Lea County, developed flowing production from the Wolfcamp on a drillstem test through perforations and on a swabbing run through a different set of perforations.

Operator perforated from 10,145 to 10,149 and took a two-hour and five-minute drillstem test with packer set at 10,118 feet. Plugged back total depth is 10,408 feet.

Gas was at the surface in 15 minutes and died at the end of one hour. Recovery was 180 feet of oil and gas-cut mud, 900 feet of clean oil and 2,070 feet of salty sulphur water-cut oil and gas. The water was estimated to be between 20 and 50 per cent.

After that test operator swabbed on the above perforations. Amount of recovery was not reported. The perforations were then squeezed off and the casing re-perforated at 10,126-136 feet. That set was washed with 500 gallons of acid.

Operator ran the swab long enough to recovery 48 barrels of fluid. The well then kicked off and in five hours flower 83.90 barrels of fluid through a one-quarter-inch tubing choke. The fluid was two per cent basic sediment and two and eight-tenths per cent water. During the last two hours of the above five-hour gauge no water was recovered. After that five-hour gauge the well was gauged for one hour through a one-quarter-inch choke. It made 16 barrels of oil during that hour and was still flowing at last report.

Midland Sales Hit $102,381 Mark In Defense Bond Drive

Midland County's sales totaled $102,381.25 during the first U. S. Defense Bond drive, Nathan Adams of Dallas, state chairman, has informed John P. Butler, Midland County chairman. The drive was held from September 3 through November 13.

Final sales figures showed that Series E bonds accounted for $94,141.25 and Series F and G for $8,240 of this county's total.

Sales of $27,778,543.25 in Texas during the drive were almost 50 per cent more than normal, Adams said.

"Normally sales for this period would have been about $18,000,000 or $19,000,000," he said, "and the fact that sales were so much higher is definite proof that the people of Texas are responding, as they always do, to the nation's need in national emergencies."

No County Quotas

The sales total for the state included $22,459,665.25 in Series E bonds and $5,318,788 in Series F and G. There were no state or county quotas, the goal being the "largest possible" volume of sales.

Butler expressed appreciation to all Midlanders who assisted in the drive here.

"The need for buying Defense Bonds still exists," said. "With our nation engaged in a gigantic preparedness program, these bonds form an important economic link in our defense."

Phillips Gets First Producer In Canada

Phillips Petroleum Company has announced its first important producing well in Canada, following a test on its No. 1 Movold.

It is 30 miles southeast of Edmonton, Alberta and is on a 160-acre tract. This tract is one of the first leases obtained by Phillips in Canada.

The well flowed 36 barrels of 38-gravity oil in one hour, through perforations from 3,258 feet to 3,270 feet. The well has been shutin for a brief period, and further tests are now being made.

The production is from a Viking sand of lower Cretaceous age. This is the same sand that is producing in the Joseph Lake field.

Phillips and associates recently completed an 18,000,000 cubic feet gas well on the Kindersley prospect in Saskatchewan at a depth of 2,300 feet. Phillips is conducting major exploratory operations in Canada, and is currently drilling in Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia provinces.

McCarthy Signs Oil Contract With Egypt

PARIS —(AP)— Texas Oil Man Glenn McCarthy Saturday said he had signed a multi-million dollar deal to take control of a company which would exploit more than 7,000 square miles of Egyptian territory for oil.

Exact terms of the deal were not disclosed, except that under the agreement McCarthy would have a 51 per cent interest in the Egyptian National Petroleum Company. The remaining 49 per cent is owned by varied interests, mostly Egyptians.

Some sources said previously the deal would involve "between six and ten million dollars," but one of McCarthy's aides said Saturday "the exact amount can't be known until we see just how much and what type of exploitation will be necessary."

The oil lands of Egypt range over most of the northern sections of the country, from the Sinai Desert westward to an area on the Mediterranean, some 300 miles west of Cairo.

Very little of the territory, which is made up of 121 lots of 60 square miles each, has been exploited previously.

Although the deal giving McCarthy control was signed Saturday by the Texan and representatives of the National Petroleum Company, actual exploitation depends upon whether the Egyptian Parliament changes laws restricting the control of Egyptian companies by foreigners and the export of profits from the undertaking.

STORY OF CITY'S GROWTH—

Humble Station Here Sets New High In Company Sales

HOUSTON—The story behind Humble Oil & Refining Company's Service Station No. 36 at Midland is the story of the growth of Midland through more than 20 years, from a small town on the far-stretched plains of West Texas to a city with new buildings rising every day to add to the skyline.

The station, located in a triangle at Wall and Carrizo Streets and Avenue A, set an all-time monthly high in gasoline sales in October for a Humble retail outlet. Agent W. W. (Woody) Ascue and Humble are shooting for a million-gallon total by the end of the year.

W. W. (Woody) Ascue

When the company first acquired the property in 1928, an old-style metal station was erected, one of Humble's first outlets in West Texas. It was in use until February, 1951, when a new structure, the "super station" type, was opened.

A two-way communication system from the office to the pump islands; three bays for washing, lubrication, and service; and eight gasoline pumps are only a few of the features that make the new station streamlined, efficient, and able to handle a tremendous volume.

Ever-Increasing Volume

Sales volume has been consistently good ever since the station's earliest days, even during the early '30's. When first built, the structure was on the edge of town, but the business section since has surrounded it.

Before Ascue became agent, the station was managed by Harold Cothern, who is well known to Midlanders. Cothern, an army captain in the reserve, was recalled to active duty in the Fall of 1950. At about the same time, his seven-year-old daughter, Ileen, became dangerously ill with poliomyelitis.

Cothern resigned as agent, devoted full time to his family for as many weeks as possible, and then went into the army in December. He recently has been released and is back in Midland as local sales manager for Humble. Besides Ileen, whose condition has improved, the Cothern family includes Mrs. Cothern and Robert, age five.

Agent Ascue took over the station in October, 1950, and saw it through the February "opening." His sales have been on the increase almost every month since.

Ascue has lived in West Texas most of his life. He and his wife, the former Myrtle Willis, live at 1404 North Keith Street in Midland and are the parents of a daughter, Saundra.

PAD And OPS Personnel Shifts May Remove Price Ceiling Increase Hurdles

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A shift in top personnel at both the Petroleum Administration for Defense and the Office of Price Stabilization may remove a few of the big hurdles in the path of a crude oil price ceiling rise.

The forthcoming departure of Orville D. Judd as head of the petroleum price section of OPS, takes away a man who tentatively has ruled in favor of hold the line. Judd joins the Washington staff of Sinclair next month.

A successor is yet to be chosen, but the rumors have been flying about certain persons known to favor higher crude oil prices. While top officials, and possibly the White House are sure to make any major decision on crude prices, the opinions of OPS petroleum specialists carry weight.

Some individual producers and associations of producers have been urging higher ceilings. The figures 25, 35 and 50 cents a barrel more have been mentioned. The present crude price is about $2.65 a barrel. The best method of approaching OPS is being determined. One or more producers might file for relief and, if successful, break the ice for the rest. One or more associations might be able to file for their members.

Decision In Making

Under what section of the price control law to seek relief is a question. A decision on whether the Capehart amendment applies to crude oil is in the making. If it applies, producers could add post-Korean cost increases to their prices and refiners could pass them along. While OPS is divided, the Independent Petroleum Association of America points to a legislative history as evidence the Capehart formula applies. Further, the OPS is directed to set prices that encourage defense production, and that are fair and equitable. These sections may offer the answer.

Crude oil prices are frozen, in a separate regulation, as of the levels of Jan. 25, 1951, the same levels they have held the last four years. In one relief action, the OPS provided adjustment for some 40 fields frozen below prevailing prices, partly because pipe lines were not into the fields where the freeze came. Some relief has been given under this action, and applications for relief affecting five Spraberry fields are being processed.

At the PAD, certain changes may add to the support for a crude hike. Robert L. Foree, who takes over as head of PAD's production division on January 1, is one of the most outspoken advocates of a crude price ceiling hike. He is president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association. He replaces Richard Lawton an Arkansas independent producer, who has had his hands full with production problems.

Midland's Ed Warren

J. Ed Warren of Midland, who has been identified with the problems of producers, joins the PAD staff April 1 as an assistant, and becomes deputy director June 1. He is the immediate past president of the IPAA, a group in the forefront of those demanding price ceiling relief, although it is not recalled that he personally has taken a stand on crude prices.

Some in government believe he may be more inclined to favor a boost in the crude ceilings, to encourage domestic production, than Bruce K. Brown whom he succeeds. Brown, of Pan-Am Southern Corporation, is a refining specialist.

In other PAD changes, C. E. Davis, refining director, becomes assistant deputy director in charge of domestic operations on April 1. He will succeed Al Frame, who is returning to Cities Service Oil Company. Davis is from Shell. Also, George Wilson, director of supply and transportation leaves February 1 to return to his company, Interstate Gas, with a successor to be chosen.

Indications are when Warren comes to Washington, he will take over problems of foreign oil, steel supply, imports, as well as crude prices.

The opinions of PAD on how much domestic drilling is needed, and whether the incentive is adequate, are expected to be influential when OPS actually gets down to considering crude price ceiling hikes. Brown has volunteered little information of this sort, although another director may be in the thick of the issue.

Plea For Price Hike

Meanwhile, a plea for higher crude prices has just come from Walter S. Hallanan, chairman of the National Petroleum Council, composed of the nation's top oil executives.

The present "unsound economic situation" cannot go on if the nation is to have the oil it needs, he told the Rocky Mountain Oil and Gas Association. He spoke in his capacity as president of the Plymouth Oil Company.

The "only way" to assure enough crude is "an immediate increase in the price of crude equal to the increased drilling and operating costs of the last four years," he says.

He warned the oil industry is on the "crest" with profits, production and earnings high. But part of this is due to Iran, he said.

"Now the facts are that the greater portion of the lost production from Iran has been made up by a tremendous increase in the output of Kuwait and Saudi Arabia. Does anyone believe for a moment that when Iran gets back into production, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia are going to cut back by any substantial amount?

"In the light of experience, we can expect the output of those two countries to be maintained around present levels. We do not have to lift the curtain of the future in order to know where the major portion of any surplus from Iran is going to find a market.

"One does not have to be a crystal gazer in order to realize that this will seriously affect our rate of domestic production and the export-import ratio."

TEXAS OIL ROUNDUP—

Recent Discoveries Hike Reserves To New Record

By TOM LESTER

HOUSTON—(AP)—Something more than a half century ago one of the nation's top financial and industrial tycoons boasted he would "drink all the oil west of the Mississippi River."

He didn't drink that oil but he had to eat his words.

It was only a short time later that Spindletop came in; then rich fields were found in the mid-continent, the Rocky Mountains and California.

They're still coming in.

Recent discoveries have boosted the known—absolutely measurable—reserves to a new record of over 30,000,000,000 barrels of oil.

And 95 per cent of all those known reserves lie west of the Mississippi.

When discoveries of the last two or three years have been fully developed known reserves will be even greater in this area.

California, the second largest oil producing state in the nation, has been among the leaders for half a century.

Until 1948, however, there had been no important new discovery for more than a decade.

Then Richfield Oil Corporation brought in its first big producer on Russell Ranch in the Cuyama Valley Basin. It first blew 4,000 barrels of 33 gravity oil daily, and settled down to a regular production of 600 barrels.

Five Fields In Valley

Today there are five fields in the valley with 393 producing wells and production runs better than 60,000 barrels daily.

With its half-billion barrels estimated reserves, it already accounts for 15 per cent of the state's total known reserves.

Small, shallow production had been known in the Cuyama Basin since 1922, but when Richfield brought in its big well in 1948, it started a typical oil field boom.

Cuyama Valley Basin is approximately 15 miles wide and 50 miles long. Its two big fields are Russell Ranch and Cuyama south. Other fields are Cuyama Central, Taylor Canyon and Morales. Wildcatting is active with 10 to 12 tests constantly underway.

Across mountains and deserts, and far north to the Canadian Border, lies another recent major oil find which almost literally stood the oil world on its ears earlier this year.

This is the Williston Basin, covering two-thirds of North Dakota, overlapping into South Dakota, Eastern Montana and extending into the Canadian provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

This area of close to 100,000 square miles still is an unknown factor, although conservative petroleum geologists quietly call it "the hottest oil territory in the nation," and one of the most promising.

Established Last April

Amerada Petroleum Corporation established the basin last April with its 200-barrel-a-day discovery in the Mississippian at 11,600 feet, later plugged back to 8,400 feet for best production.

Shell Oil Company was reported to have struck pay in its No. 1 Northern Pacific Railroad, in the western end of the basin in Montana, between 7,183 and 8,252 feet, last July.

Unofficial reports were that it produced at the rate of about 1,000 barrels daily of high gravity oil.

This month The Texas Company was reported to have made a good oiler in the Montana end of the basin at 8,830 to 8,930 feet. Other Shell tests are reported to have found oil. Continental Oil Company, with leases on almost 1,000,000 acres in the basin, Stanolind Oil and Gas Company and others are in the pay for this potentially rich area.

One thing which interests oil people is the enormous thickness of marine deposits considered possible pay zones. In North Dakota about 14,000 feet of sediment have been deposited in the deepest part of the sedimentary basin, and at least 10,000 feet of the rocks are considered to contain potential oil-bearing strata.

Pay is from two horizons of the Devonian rocks and one from the younger Mississippian. Definite information of potentiality is meager since but seven wells have been completed, with some 27 now drilling.

Half-way down the U.S. map is another new hot spot known as the Anadarko Basin. It lies north of the Amarillo uplift which runs a little north of Amarillo. It covers a good part of Western Oklahoma, part of the Texas Panhandle and a smaller area of Southern Kansas.

It is estimated to contain about 89,000 cubic miles of sediment of which 26,000 cubic miles are marine in origin. Approximately 6,000 cubic miles of sediments are below 20,000 feet deep. The sedimentary rocks are mainly paleozoic and range from Cambrain to Permian.

The Pennsylvanian appears the most promising, and producting wells go down as much as 15,000 feet to pay.

No Funds Allocated To Make Surveys In Galveston District

GALVESTON—(AP)—No funds for conducting examinations and surveys for civil works in the Galveston district of the Corps of Engineers were in the Congressional appropriations this year.

However, Col. J. D. Lang, district engineer, said approximately $9,200 was available to the district from residual funds for investigation of navigation projects and approximately $8,300 for investigation of flood control and drainage projects during the remainder of the fiscal year.

With the funds allotted the Galveston District, plans have been made to undertake work on the following reports of flood control improvements: Completion of the interim report on Buffalo Bayou for flood protection to the City of Houston; preparation of preliminary examination report on drainage improvements in the Calhoun-Victoria Soils Conservation District located in Calhoun and Victoria Counties; completion of a survey report related to drainage on Taylor's Bayou watershed in Jefferson County; and completion of preliminary examination on drainage improvements in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Report On Channel

Work on investigations proposed for the navigation improvements under the jurisdiction of the Galveston District includes completion of a survey report for improvement of the navigation channel in the San Bernard River; report on a branch channel of the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway extending to the City of Aransas Pass which considered improvement of the channel and turning basins at Aransas Pass, and a report to determine the advisability of improving the channel from Pass Cavallo to Port Lavaca and to the Aluminum Company of America plant at Point Comfort.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Cotton futures were firm aturday. Earlier during the session the market acted nervous, but slight declines from the day's best levels attracted trade covering increase in hedging sales, this pressure was readily absorbed by trade price fixing. Former Troop Entertainer, Inez Dudley Rogers, Leads Busy Existence At Barstow

PECOS—From troop entertainer overseas, to playwright, to school teacher, to newspaper correspondent—those are a few of the widely varied experiences of versatile Inez Dudley Rogers, tabbed as one of Barstow's busiest women.

The jovial widow is a "stringer," or news correspondent, for The Pecos Enterprise, gathering and writing current events in Barstow.

But her news work is a minor task compared to her other activities. Mrs. Rogers spends 10 hours a day in her school work, more than 60 hours a week publishing a hectographed newspaper for Barstow men in service, and countless other hours participating in Barstow civic and social functions.

In her spare time, she sleeps — about four hours each night.

She is a younger daughter of the late William Cogswell Rogers and Sarah (Laing) Rogers, whose families were original New England settlers. The Barstow woman descends from Governor Dudley, second governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1632, and for whom she was named.

Mrs. Rogers' father built the first water reservoir for New York City. His name still is inscribed on the pillars of the present reservoir.

With Two Sons

She came to Barstow in 1945 with her two adopted sons, Dudley and Harry, both now 16, after the deaths in California of her father, mother and her only sister within a three-week period.

A former Red Cross nurse, Mrs. Rogers first earned a livelihood by working in a Pecos hospital. She later accepted her teaching position, although she had completed only her sophomore year in college.

While holding down a full-time job, and caring for two teen-age boys, she has earned a bachelor of science and a master of arts degree at Sul Ross State College in Alpine, where she was named to Alphi Chi, national honorary society, and won a Kappa Delta Pi fraternity key as a graduate.

For her master's thesis, she wrote in play form for future use the historic and authentic story of the First Bloys Camp meeting, held on the frontier in 1890. It is entitled, "A Monument Not Made With Hands."

"Barstow folks opened their hearts to us when we came here in 1945," she confided. "And despite attractive offers elsewhere, I prefer to make Barstow my home."

On Football Squad

Dudley is a high school Junior, a quarterback on the football team, plays basketball and tennis. Last year he lettered in these three sports and in declamation.

The other son, Harry, lives with Mr. and Mrs. V. Gohmert of Iraan.

During World War I, Mrs. Rogers entertained thousands of troops overseas. She was widely known as "Buddy," a nickname given her by the grateful servicemen.

When Uncle Sam recently began calling up Barstow boys for active duty, she attempted to write each of them each week. As the number grew, it became impossible to keep up with her correspondence.

"So I conceived the plan of writing one letter to all of them, copied on a hectograph," Mrs. Rogers explained.

Thus, the "Barstow Bear Tracks," a weekly news sheet, was born.

Today, she has 72 persons on her mailing list. Not all are boys in uniform, but all have requested that their names be placed among her subscribers.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"The discard pile was frozen," relates a New Jersey correspondent, "and contained wealth beyond the dreams of avarice—including a coudeuces. I held two more fours in my melds was three fours and two deuces. I held two more four in my hand. My opponent (friend wife) felt safe in riscarding a four to me.

"When I took the discarded four, she claimed that my play was illegal. She said that I could have made the canasta with the cards that I held and that I was therefore guilty of misrepresentation. She was sure that you would agree with her.

"What about it?"

I have to rule against friend wife. A player doesn't have to make a canasta simply because he happens to have the required cards in his hand. If he keeps the cards in his hand, he is taking the risk that the opponents will meld out suddenly, in which case he will never make his canasta. In return for taking that risk, he is entitled to the big bonanza when he wins the discard pile.

This may be called misrepresentation or deception or low cunning, if you like. It is nevertheless clever play and as legal as a policeman's whistle.

My experience is that women can play just as craftily as men, once they put their minds to it. So beware of friend wife when she takes this lesson to heart and starts to play tricks of her own.

Q—My opponents melded out and caught me with all four black threes in my hand. Is there a special penalty for that?

A—No. Each black three counts only 5 points. All four together count only 20 points. There is no special penalty of any kind for black threes.

Q—I forgot to put a red three down at my first turn. At my next turn I put it down. Was I entitled to draw another card from the stock to replace it?

A—Yes. The usual procedure is to make your normal draw from the stock, put the red three down, and then draw another card to replace it. You are not permitted to take the discard pile at that turn.

Sidewalk Can Set 'Tone Of Greeting'

COLLEGE STATION — A walk can set a tone of greeting to the passerby or it can present an unwelcome, haughty glare, says Sadie Hatfield, homestead improvement specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Here are a few rules she suggests for placement of walks:

For small cottages, walks should be about three and one-half feet wide. This width permits two people to walk side by side without crowding.

Avoid cutting the front lawn half into with a straight walk. Lawns should appear smooth and unbroken. Natural curves or stepping stones may be used for informality. Shrubs and trees sometimes tend to justify curves, the specialist explains.

Other Suggestions

Avoid ornamental or "S" shape walks. They usually result in failures, both as ornaments and in regard to practical use.

Very short or very long walks should be straight.

Where two walks lead up to two entrances, the walk intended for visitors should be wider than the other. This will discourage guests knocking at side entrances rather than the main entrance.

Do not enter a walk from the corner of the lawn. Miss Hatfield says that is not considered good taste in design.

"THE LAST SUPPER" RE-CREATED—New York artist Lumen Winter puts the finishing touches on an immense painting to which he devoted many years' research — an exact-scale re-creation of Leonardo DaVinci's masterpiece, "The Last Supper." Winter's work, only one in the world painted to the full scale of the original, about 14½ by 28 feet, was done on commission for the Holton Museum of Miami, Fla. Much of the preliminary work was done in Milan, Italy, birthplace of DaVinci, where Winter talked about the work with leading Italian artists and church dignitaries, including an audience with Pope Pius XII.

I am an "ad." You see hundreds of me every day.

You may think my only job is to sell you goods.

Look more carefully. See the bigger part of me BELOW the water. For the biggest thing I do is make your job more secure. Yes, YOUR job.

What kind of job do you have? Farmer? Truck-driver? Office worker? Housewife? Almost every blessed penny that goes into your pocket depends on somebody selling something to somebody else.

In fact—all the jobs and all the paychecks in America depend ultimately on people buying and selling.

And "ads" just like me—in the papers and magazines, on posters and on the air—are the fastest, most powerful and the cheapest way yet devised of selling goods.

Suppose somebody should stop you from reading the ads. Should shut off radio advertising.

But far away, businesses would begin to fail. Pretty soon failures would start striking around you.

It isn't healthy for a nation to stop buying and selling.

Next time you see me, think of that. Think how I make your job more secure.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

The cattle market was strong and active on a light run of 422 head at the Midland Livestock Auction Company sale Thanksgiving Day. Most classes were $1 to $2 a hundred higher than the previous week. Top stocker price went to Red Montgomery of Fort Stockton for two groups of Hereford calves. Twenty-nine of his steer calves that averaged 325 pounds brought $37.30 while 30 of his heifer calves that weighed 270 pounds drew $35.80.

No choice butcher calves or yearlings were offered. Good to medium calves and yearlings sold for $29 to $32, commons and culls $20 to $29. Medium cows cleared at $19 to $22, canners and cutters $14 to $19.

Stocker steer calves auctioned for 34 to $37.30 and heifer calves for $32 to $35.80.

Midland can look with a little bit of envy toward Pecos, which now is in the midst of a "water boom."

The boom is described in the current issues of "Harvest World," monthly publication of the International Harvester Company.

"In five years," said the article, accompanied by numerous photographs, "its population has doubled. Prosperity mushroomed with the increase in agricultural wealth and the number of supporting industries thus attracted.

"The year 1950 was the biggest business year in the history of Pecos.

Undermined River

"The cause of the boom was a narrow stretch of land, 40 miles long and 10 miles wide, which lies directly south and west of Pecos.

"There seems to be the basin of a mysterious underground river. Where it comes from and where it goes, nobody knows. But everyone can see how it has made the cotton and alfalfa fields grow lush and luxuriant where no crop ever existed before."

The article also pays tribute to J. C. Wilson, described as the father of the Pecos irrigation development.

San Antonio's 1952 Livestock Exposition appears headed for another record entry list, judging by the heavy demand for entry cards which flowed into exposition headquarters within two weeks after premium lists were distributed.

Show officials said that requests for entry cards were running far ahead of previous years.

Texas farmers will produce close to three million hogs and pigs this year, according to projected estimates of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, constituting an income of about $82 million.

Texas produces about 2.7 per cent of the nation's swine crop, which is expected to top 106 million head this year. Hogs bring in 2.9 per cent of the state's total farm income.

The years' huge hog crop is expected to be the nation's second largest on record. Probably an important factor in the current rise in hog production is the use of the antibiotic feed supplements.

Texas' 1940 hog crop was 3.3 per cent of the state's total farm income, while the 1930 crop brought 2.8 per cent of the total.

"The Story of Texas A&M," an informal biography of one of Texas' most colorful institutions, by George Sessions Perry, will be published November 28, the college has been informed by McGraw-Hill, publishers. The first full-length book about the college will arrive the day before the annual Thanksgiving football classic between A&M and the University of Texas.

All Texans well may be expected to find interest in George Perry's story of the college. It opened its doors as the states' first venture in the field of higher education, Oct. 4, 1876. Like the majority of Texans, Perry has had no direct connection with the college, but has had many indirect contacts with its services, its students and former students.

Perhaps the most widely-coveted award of the boys' show of Fort Worth's Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show is the boys' grand champion steer which then has an opportunity to become the grand champion steer of the exposition in competition with the breed winners in the open steer show, declares President-Manager W. R. Watt.

Frequently during the history of the Fort Worth show the grand champion steer of th entire exposition has been shown by a boy and, in addition to the premiums, he has reaped a rich harvest when his steer was sold in the auction of champions.

Premiums Listed

Premiums in the boys' steer show amount to $3,187. Of this amount, $620 is offered by the American Hereford Association! $141 by the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association and $250 by the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association, with the Stock Show matching these amounts, W. A. (Bill) King, assistant manager of the exposition and livestock superintendent, points out.

In order to compete in the boys' show, the boy must be a member of a 4-H Club or Future Farmer in Texas. Boys of other states are eligible to compete in the open show, which—as the name implies—is "open to the world."

No More Cribbage Pegs Are Needed

DES MOINES, IOWA — (AP) — Louis Peterson, 29, who got tired of losing the pegs of his cribbage board, has invented one without pegs.

Peterson has obtained a patent on the pegless board. It consists of two transparent plastic dials. One dial revolves under the other against a clock-like face.

Use of two dials permits the setting of each dial alternately so the players can tell not only how far they've gone, but where they started the last count.

Century Of Photography Exhibit To Open Monday

By JERRY WALLACE

The High School Art Department Monday will open an exhibition entitled A Century of Photography. This exhibition was prepared by the Museum of Modern Art in New York, and now is circulated by the American Association of University Women.

Photography is such a common form of communication that it is hard to remember that it did not exist until a little more than a century ago. Early technical hazards discouraged all but the most hardy. In the 1880's however, as equipment became easier to handle and the amateur came on the scene, cameras became common household tools and the family album was on every drawing room table. Only after the turn of the century, with the perfection of the rotogravure process, did photography emerge into newsprint and begin to be available to the tremendous public that it reaches today.

This exhibition describes the invention of photography, illustrates it with some of the first daguerrotypes and calotypes, traces the development of the photograph as a record, Civil War scenes, travel pictures of the sixties and seventies, Atget's views of a Paris that no longer exist—up to the social documents and news photographs of our time. Photography's important role as a tool of science is shown from Muybridge's early experiments in arresting action to Edgeton's millionth of a second exposure which can even stop the flight of a bullet. Microphotography, tele-photography, aerial photograpy all illustrated, are fields which we are just beginning to explore.

The exhibit concludes with the much debated question "Is Photography Art?" Prevalent attitudes of the 19th century towards this subject are represented in contrast to the point of view of such modern pioneers as Emerson and Stieglitz, both revolutionaries of that era. The influence of these men is pointed out and certain modern points of views toward photography as an expression medium are illustrated. The last two panels show pictures by such outstanding American and European photographers as Adams, Lynes, Evans, Sheeler, Cartier-Bressono, and others, all of which speak for themselves as "art" is concerned.

Just as the basic form of the simplest and earliest camera is still in use today in the form of the ubiquitous Brownie, so the quality of some of the early photographs still is unsurpassed. The portraits by Brady, Hill and Cameron take their place beside those of Model, Engel and Roge-Andre. It is not quality that has changed throughout the last 100 years in photography with the development of technical improvements, so much as attitude and interest of the photographers and the public.

Most of the pictures in this exhibtion are not original prints, for originals were in many cases impossible to obtain. The emphasis is therefore on the significance of different kinds of pictures as pictures rather than on print alone.

By GAIL BAKER

Now that we are District Champs in football; we are pretty proud of our team, aren't we? But if we had not had such a successful season, would we actually be just as proud to say, "We're from Midland!"

Anyone can be proud of his school as long as that school is on top, but it really takes a great school spirit to stick up for your hometown when they are DOWN!

Most of the Midland High students are loyal to their school, and that is good.

Did you know that in one of Texas' military schools that if any one of the boys returns to school from a football game, and he can speak above a whisper, he is sent through a "belt line? They are expected to really yell for their school. Why go to the game if you really are not particularly interested in whether or not your team wins?

Now Midland holds the title of District Champs for the 1-AAA district. But we can go farther, the Bulldogs say they are surely going to try.

Why not, at the following pep rallies and at the game Saturday with Breckenridge, get out there and yell and show some spirit—show those Bulldogs we want to win as badly as they do and that we think they can do it!

Many Members Of Faculty Take Trips During Weekend

The weekend plans of many of the teachers could be summed up by Mary Philippus statement that she planned to go to Plainview to "see the Bulldogs win again." Also attending the game were Jack Mashburn, Eugenia Wilson, Don Mitchell, Faye Massey, Louis Grevelle, and many others.

Verna Harris, Inez Parker, and Minnie Jackson attended the meeting of the Texas State Teachers Association held in Houston.

Others who took trips within the state were Coach B. M. Patteson, who went to Longview; Helene Miley, Bastrop; Bess Thurman, Carbon; Fannie Reeves, Gainesville; Sarah Ward Conally, Dallas; John Armstrong, Sunset; F. D. Rutledge, Weatherford; Dorothy Perkins, Eastland and Fort Worth; Gwen Gordon, Coleman; Jane Moore, Levelland.

Others who tooks trips in the state were Evelyn Cox who went to Plainview and Amarillo; Lucy Valentino, El Paso; Lucy Moore, Seymour; Louise Boyd, Oklaunion; Keith Bobo, Wichita Falls; Audrey Gill, Breckenridge; Ruth Donnell, Fort Worth; Wanda Myrick, Abilene; R. H. Stroch, Rule, and C. E. King, Abilene.

Elsie Magee journey to Stanford to attend a wedding, and Louis Bohn stated that he planned to stay home and "played with the baby."

Remember When?

Faculty made out-of-town trips to various places over Thanksgiving.

Last pep rally was held in the gym and Auld Lang was sung.

Twenty students attended ACC parley.

Judge Keith spoke to family relations class about wills, divorces, marriages and laws related to the family.

Christmas Pageant was being planned.

Exchange assemblies were scheduled for the week.

Thought for week—"Prisons were filled with those who thought doing right was sissy stuff.

The band has a new tape recorder.

Opera cast was selected.

Citizenship Is Blessing

(An Editorial)

Each Thanksgiving we pause to give thanks for the numerous blessings which have been bestowed upon us. One of the greatest blessings we have to be thankful for is our privilege of American citizenship. For those who have met ill fortune, there is a chance to start over. If one has ability he has a chance to exercise it.

A citizen may vote, worship, and think as he pleases.

Take time, not just during the Thanksgiving season, but during the whole year to give thanks for the good things of life which are waiting for those who assume the responsibility of American citizenship.

How Cash Was Spent

Some persons have asked "What does the Student Council do with its money?" Here is that question answered with last year's figures:

State and national dues, $11; Library book for Akin memorial shelf, $5; Filing cabinet for meeting room, $10.95; Picture for dean's office, $18; Christmas decorations for cafeteria, $13.43; District meetings, $15.00; White Christmas basket, $3.50; Christmas record for PA system, $2.58; Frames for pictures in sponsors' rooms, $10.15; Refreshments for Lamesa exchange assembly, $3.20, and Dallas state meet, $113.40.

Thru The Upwights

By TOMMY VANNAMAN

District Champions! The first time in 16 years!

It was a happy, happy night about 10:30 p.m., November 16. People were shouting with glee, some were quite in the amazement of a dream come true. Others were just plain thankful. District champs!

But that title means something a little more important than a litle patch on a letter jacket. It means that Midland will be representing itself and all the other teams in district 1-AAA. There are those who say, "Oh, we'll win over Breckenridge easily." They may have been thinking how the Bulldogs smothered Lamesa, Sweetwater and Big Spring. They may have forgotten how Midland let down at Vernon and almost was beaten. They may have forgotten Poly and Brownwood. They had better start remembering.

Midland will be playing Breckenridge December 1, not Big Spring or San Angelo or Crozier Tech. Breckenridge knows what they want and how to get it. So do we. The Buckaroos lost only to tough Abilene in their regular season. They are going to be looking for Midland next Saturday and for a bi-district win. So will we.

All these things are to be considered. But let us look elsewhere at the bright side. After a mid-season, slump the powerpacked Bulldogs really made a comeback. They can win over Breckenridge if they want to bad enough, if they'll all pull together. They can—and we think they will!

The B Bulldogs closed out their 1951 grid campaign with a 20-12 loss to the Big Spring B in Memorial Stadium November 17. That meant a final record of four wins and three losses. They conquered the Lamesa, Snyder, Kermit and Grand Falls teams and lost to Lamesa, Big Lake, and Big Spring. Congratulations to Coaches Higdon and Bobo and all the boys for a successful season.

• • •

The C Bulldogs also closed with a loss to Big Spring November 17 at Big Spring. The Frosh's final record is three wins and four losses. They trampled over Stanton and took Lamesa twice while falling before Bowie twice and Crockett and Big Spring once. Congratulations to Coaches Patteson and Williams and all the C squad for a job well done.

Coach Rutledge informs us that the basketball squads will start working Monday afternoon. Here is schedule through December 31.

December 7, Odessa there.
December 11, San Angelo there.
December 14, Odessa here.
December 18, San Angelo here.
December 21, Monahans there.

We'll give you the remaining schedule at a later date.

The girls in Mrs. Blair's P. E. classes are playing ten pens. This is one of Mrs. Blair's made up games.

Here is the way it is played: Begin with two teams, one on each side of the gym. You guard the pen, which is set up in front of you, with your hands; the opposite team tries to knock down the other team's pens, and you try to knock theirs down; three basketballs are used.

The girls seem to enjoy playing this game very much.

The Junior Classical League was called to order by the president, Madelon Schabarum. The roll was called and the members answered in Latin. The minutes were read and names were taken for state directories. The officers that had not been elected were then elected. The song leader is Sally Breez; reporter, Emily Studdert, and the sergeant-at-arms is Billy Mims.

• • •

The Slide Rule Club had a lecture on "Locating Numbers," by Fred Meissner. Members also sent their names in for their slide rules.

• • •

In the Bible club the roll was called and as each student answered to his name, he gave his favorite Bible character. Mrs. Dunagan, sponsor, also listed the points needed to receive a merit award at the end of the year.

• • •

The Altrusa club and its sponsor, Miss Josephine Weaver, heard very interesting talks by Mrs. Marion Nobles and Mrs. Williams. Mrs. Nobles spoke on the history of the typewriter and Mrs. Williams discussed the road construction business.

• • •

The National Honor Society held its formal initiation for all new members. It also had a business meeting and discussed the selling of Christmas cards. New members have to wear cards stating they are pledges for two weeks.

C. E. King Is New Teacher At MHS

If you have seen a new teacher in the halls of Midland High School it's C. E. King.

King is the new math teacher, he is a graduate of Abilene Christian College. This is Mr. King's first year to teach.

Dan Black Has Rugged Schedule

Dan Preston Black's friendly, likeable manner and the fact that he is an all-around boy can be accredited partly to his recently being elected "friendlies boy of MHS."

This tall, good-looking senior, in addition to taking English, physics, solid geometry and algebra, can be seen working hard at football practice, sporting number 11 on his jersey, this being his second year on the varsity. Ironically, his favorite sport is football, and he claims he doesn't even have a favorite pastime during football season.

Dan Black

As well as being outstanding in sports, Dan also does a good job as a leader. He was president of his sophomore class, and was voted favorite boy of his class the same year. He has held many and varied club and homeroom offices all through high school.

This friendly boy will listen extra hard to the tune, "Slow Poke," eat an extra lot of fried chicken and look twice at the color blue. Mrs. Philippus receives his vote for favorite teacher.

Rambling Rows

By Marion Sevier

I guess everyone knows by now that we are the AAA District champions for the first time in 15 years and the quarter finals with Breckenridge will be played here December 1. Since it sounds so good we will just print it again. At the end of the football game with Sweetwater the football boys carried all the coaches into the field house on their shoulders.

Homecoming was celebrated last weekend. Invitations were sent to all last year's exes and after the Sweetwater-Midland game, a dance was held in the Youth Center in honor of the graduates.

Six weeks' tests were given last week for the second time this year, Monday and Tuesday and school was dismissed Wednesday at 4 p.m. for the Thanksgiving holidays.

The Student Council in its aim to associate students with the activities of its council will broadcast the minutes of the meetings over the PA system at homeroom period.

Congratulations to Melba Bender, Chris Heidelberg and Harold Atkinson who won first, second and third respective honors in a recent contest on an essay titled "What the Bill of Rights Means to Me."

A large group of MHS'ers attended the Thanksgiving Day game in Plainview, and a big pep rally was held on Plainview's courthouse lawn.

Dan Black and Maxine Hill were elected "friendliest boy and girl by MHS students. Next week the "most representative" will be elected.

School was dismissed at 2:30 Tuesday for In-service Training for the teachers.

Dear Ed:

Howzabout writing up that long, tall, blond and good-looking senior on the Bulldog page for me next Sunday? You must know I mean no other than Terry Bradley.

Thankin' You,
A Lonely Junior.

Looks like you may have an admirer, Terry!

The foreman of the jury in 5th period civics found Jerald Brown innocent in the murder of Martha Forest in assembly November 14 and Judge Jimmy Hardin dismissed the case.

Mrs. Massey's fifth period home ec class seems to have changed to a garage. Barbara Bailey, Jimmie Dale, Eleanor Smith, and Sue Walker spent fifth period on Wednesday fixing a flat on Mrs. Massey's car.

Squad Gets Victory Apples

The football team got another sweet taste of victory when it received victory apples for the Midland-Sweetwater game. The pep rally was to cheer on another victory at the Midland-Plainview game and tags of "Pulverize Plainview" could be seen on most everyone. The school spirit was high as the cheerleaders, Corky Moss, Maxine Hill, Larry Mayfield, Pat Boles, and Sadie Nugent led the yells and everyone had their hopes up for an undefeated conference season.

The Midland High School cheerleaders held a pep rally on the Plainview Court House lawn before the final game of the conference season. Many fans, including the band and the Halftimers were there to back the Midland Bulldogs in another victory.

Game, Wild Fruits Comprised Menu On First Thanksgiving

By DIANA DAUGHERTY

In October of 1621 the Pilgrims, with the Indians as their guests, gathered to give thanks to God for the blessings of their first year in a new land. This was the first Thanksgiving.

Game, fish, wild fruits from the forest, cornbread, and vegetables from the gardens supplied the food for this first Thanksgiving Day dinner.

The early part of the day was spent in Psalm-singing, in prayer and a lengthy sermon. After this there was merry-making as the poor were guests of the rich. So, the early days of Thanksgiving were spent.

For years Thanksgiving was exclusively a New England tradition of religious services and a time when all members of the family would again gather at home. The traditions gradually made its way into the Western and Southern parts of the United States with each state appointing its own day in which to celebrate.

Date Not Stable

The date on which this day was to be celebrated never has been stable. At the close of the Revolutionary War, the Continental Congress designated Dec. 18, 1777, as Thanksgiving Day. In 1789, President Washington proclaimed November 26 as the day of Thanksgiving. The last Thursday in November was appointed and set aside as Thanksgiving by Abraham Lincoln in 1864. Desiring to lengthen the interval between Thanksgiving and Christmas, President Roosevelt in 1939 designated as Thanksgiving the next to last Thursday in November as a holiday. Congress, in December 1941, passed a resolution designating the fourth Thursday of November as a legal holiday.

The governor of each state would then make a proclamation as to which day would be observed in that state.

Thanksgiving also is observed in the possessions and territories of the United States.

An American Institution

In England and elsewhere it was customary to hold special days of "fasting and prayer" in times of peril and disaster and equally to celebrate with "thanksgiving" and feasting nature's annual bounty and marks of God's favor.

This is how Thanksgiving has come to us with its Autumn leaves, the turkey, pumpkin pies and cranberries as its traditions.

We, the people of America, with our freedoms of speech, the right to worship God as we please and freedom from want and fear, truly have many things for which we should celebrate a day of Thanksgiving.

Murder Defendant Ruled Not Guilty

As Judge Jimmy Hardin pronounced the defendant not guilty, James Weatherred and Bill Robitsek, the defense attorneys, shook hands. The prosecuting attorney sat in his chair calmly thumbing through a law book.

Gerald Brown, defendant in the murder case, was freed after a lack of evidence proved him not guilty.

'Friendliest Girl' Deserving Of Title

No doubt you have noticed the little cheerleader faithfully leading yells at every pep rally and football game. This pert senior claims the name of Agnes Maxine Hill, and will answer to "Aggie Mac." Merely by seeing her charming smile and noticing her warm blue eyes, one can readily guess why she was recently elected "friendliest girl of Midland High School." Born Jan. 25, 1935, "Aggie Mac" hails from Oklahoma City.

Agnes Maxine Hill

Miss Hill says all her teachers are her favorites, and her favorite color is blue. Her pet peeve is unfriendly people.

In addition to holding several club offices throughout her three previous years, she has been a cheerleader for two years, and this year is an attendent to the Catoico queen.

Question Box

While strolling through the pages of Webster's Home Dictionary we came upon a word that puzzled us. Therefore, we made our way through the halls of MHS asking students what or who thought an Ornithologist was. Here are some of the answers:

James Weatherred—A mathematical genius.

Bobby Hudson—Stan Coker.

Civics Class Gives Assembly Program

The program opened with the saying of the pledge of allegiance and the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Master of ceremonies was James Weatherred. Martha Forest presented a reading "What a Foreigner Thinks of the United States," by Mrs. G. Swift, accompanied by Lavon Clark.

Alan Harris and his student swing band played a series of popular tunes. Numbers presented were "When or Where," "Take It Easy," "Dancing in the Dark," "Tennessee Waltz" and "I'm in the Mood for Love." Members of the band are Larry Mayfield, Horace Greenstreet, Alan Harris, Jimmy Smith, Jimmy McClatchy, Larry Watts and Pat Douglas.

Thanksgiving Theme Carried Out By Band At Plainview Clash

The Midland High School Band kept in theme with Thanksgiving at the last district game with Plainview. The band presented a Thanksgiving pageant by representing three formations symbolic of the first Thanksgiving and the pilgrims. The band first represented one of the greatest hardships of the pilgrims as well as their abundant source of knowledge by forming a teepee and playing an "Indian Dance" to which the Half-Timers performed a special dance routine.

Next, the band represented one of the main reasons the pilgrims came to the new world in the outline of a church while it played "God of Our Fathers." The majorettes swung flags. Last the band symbolized Thanksgiving of the past, present, and the future by forming a cross and playing the "Crusaders Hymn." To complete the pageant the band marched off the field playing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Set Up Toy Train On Permanent Platform

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Probably the most popular single Christmas present for youngsters is the toy electric train. On Christmas morning it usually is set up underneath the tree, with the train weaving around through the other presents when Junior comes down to see what Santa has brought him.

Junior, if he is normal, swoops down on all the packaged presents, grabs them up, rips off all the pretty wrappings and usually in the process manages to bang against the track, disconnecting it and generally messing it up.

This headache can be avoided by building a plywood platform on a wooden frame large enough to hold the track, transformer and control panel and secure them all permanently to the plywood with small bolts or screws.

Many Christmas tree holders are so small the whole works is always in danger of being knocked over. The train platform overcomes this danger, too. Simply mounting the holder in the center of the track platform and fastening it securely gives the tree a broad base and great stability.

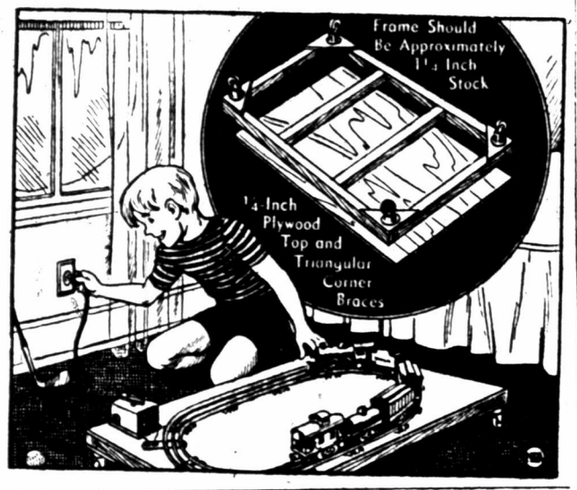

But the platform is the biggest boon to Mother after Christmas. Because the tracks are mounted permanently on it, Junior can't play with the train a while and then get up and leave the track pieces scattered about for older folk to step on and break, to say nothing of the eternal "picking up after Johnny" it saves.

Mount small castors on the corners and it can be stored easily by simply sliding it under Junior's bed. Or, if that isn't practical, it can be stood on edge in a closet. Tunnels, bridges, stations and other scenic effects also can be mounted on the board, eliminating the usual breakage from handling and tossing into a closet or toy chest for storage.

Other Methods Cited

In addition to the platform on castors, there are other ways of mounting a toy railroad. For instance, you can build a shelf around the play-room wall. Or you can mount it on a board hinged against the wall so that it lies flat when not in use. In this case, you'll have to put folding legs on the bottom of the platform—either one in the center of the front edge or one in each corner of the unhinged side.

Generally speaking, the platform with castors is the most practical, since youngsters are apt to run the train with throttle wide open, just for the fun of seeing it jump the track on the curves. So the closer it is to the floor, the less damage will be done to the train.

Midland Lumberman Predicts Continued Building In '52

There can be a lot of construction work done in Midland during the next year, but it will consist mostly of smaller buildings, according to Paul McHargue, manager of the A&L Housing & Lumber Company and a member of the Public Affairs Committee of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"Larger homes and commercial and industrial buildings cannot be put up without obtaining permission in Washington unless they are designed to require a minimum of steel and copper, and few permits are being approved," McHargue said.

"On the other hand, no permit is needed to build a single-family home if it uses no structural steel and not more than 1,800 pounds of other steel and 35 pounds of copper or 1,450 pounds of other steel and 160 pounds of copper, not counting fabricated building products, such as heating and plumbing fixtures, whose weights need not be considered.

Commercial Structures

"In the case of stores, garages, warehouses, and other commercial and institutional buildings, construction can go ahead without a permit if no more than 4,000 pounds of steel and 200 pounds of copper are to be used in any calendar quarter. The same provision applies in the case of farm buildings.

"In other words, the size of a new building, except one intended for amusement or recreational purposes, is limited only by the quantity of critical materials it requires.

"Any type of repair and modernization work also can go ahead without special authorization from Washington, provided the necessary materials are available."

Mate Selection Aided By Movies

MUNICH, GERMANY —(AP)— A Munich marriage agency makes talking movies of persons seeking a mate. These films are shown to applicants of the opposite sex, instead of the usual still photographs.

The films are much more persuasive, the agency finds. They also help to avoid the disappointments which often result from artistically re-touched photographs.

The agency plans to promote exchanges of such films with lonely heart services in America.

Poor Memories Are Costly For State

COLUMBUS, OHIO —(AP)— State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson claims the state of Ohio is losing $400,000 a year because drivers have poor memories.

That's because new Ohio drivers' licenses are good for three years and expire every three birthdays. Previously all licenses had to be renewed during the same period every year.

Ferguson claims thousands of drivers have failed to get driving permits because they can't remember when the old ones run out. Before, they were reminded daily by newspapers and radio stations during the regular renewal period.

Home Owner's Check Of Kitchen Seen As Accident Prevention

More than 10 per cent of all home accidents originate in the kitchen, and probably 90 per cent of the average homemaker's discontent is fomented there. Such is the toll of bad working conditions and poorly organized working areas that, for one reason or another, are tolerated year after year by many housewives.

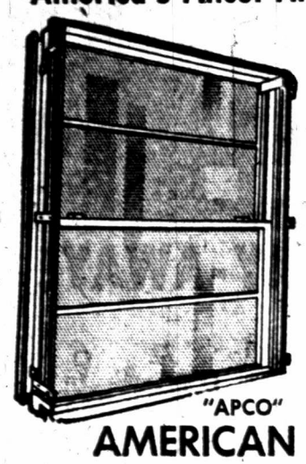

To reduce accidents and lighten his wife's work, every home owner should take time to appraise these nine elements in the kitchen and to make needed improvements:

1. Storage space. Clutter usually means lack of storage. Both wall and cabinets are needed at all centers—sink, range and refrigerator.
2. Working heights. Hunching over the sink or a counter wears anyone down. See that counters, sink and tables are a comfortable working height.
3. Lighting. All work surfaces need good light. A central fixture is insufficient in all except the smallest kitchens.

Counter Tops And Walls

4. Easily maintained surfaces. Counter tops and walls of easily cleaned materials such as clay tile lighten work and consequently reduce fatigue.
5. Low wall cabinets. A 15-inch space is sufficient between counter tops and wall cabinets. Cabinets that "begin at the ceiling and go up" waste space.
6. Step ladder. Improper climbing equipment causes thousands of painful falls each year in the kitchen. Get a step ladder and store it handy for kitchen use.
7. Color. All-white kitchens belong in institutions, not the home. Use color in tile, paint and woodwork to make the kitchen a cheerful work spot.
8. Repair of equipment. Dull knives and equipment in bad repair are a cause of accidents and a major source of annoyance and irritation.
9. Work stool. Many kitchen jobs should be done sitting down, to save energy. A work stool or chair should therefore be standard equipment in the kitchen.

Daddy Ringtail

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And Fire At Will

Did I ever tell you how it happened that now the ducks will fly away South when the Winter comes? Well, one fine day a mother duck was swimming about on the Whispering River, and her three little ducklets were right behind.

I said they were "little" ducklets. Really, they were almost as big as their mother, because they had been growing fast all Summer long, and now it was Winter time. The air and the water were cold, cold, and why didn't the ducks fly away south where the air and water were warm?

Well, no one had ever told them about the warm South, and besides, they were waiting now for All the King's Men to come marching along by the river to practice their soldier-marching. The mother duck and her ducklets liked to watch the marching soldiers, and sure enough, soon the soldiers came marching along.

When the soldiers had finished their marching practice, it was time next for the shooting practice. "Ready!" called out the captain, and the soldiers made ready with their rifles. "Aim!" shouted the captain, and the soldiers aimed their rifles out over the water. "Fire!" shouted the captain, and the soldiers fired their rifles together with one big noise of "boom!"

The mother duck and her ducklets three just might have been hurt by the shooting, but all the ducks had ducked down under the water at the very moment the captain had shouted: "Fire!" The bullets didn't find them.

But next the captain shouted the soldier-words for all the soldiers to fire their rifles not together, but anyone fire whenever he wanted. "Fire at will!" shouted the captain, because "fire at will" is soldier-talk for everyone to shoot however he wishes.

Well, the mother duck heard the captain shout "Fire at will!" Esmerelda, the first little ducklet heard it too, and so did Hortense, the second ducklet, and so did Will, the last ducklet of all.

Said Will to himself, "Fire at Will?" Did the captain say to fire at Will? Ooooh! because Will is who I am!" And Will flew away in a great fright until he came to the far away land of the warm South and he saw how nice it was. And ever since that time, ducks have flown away South for Winter, because Will went back and asked them. Happy day!

CANADIAN WOLVES

DRYDEN, ONTARIO —(AP)— Robert Bunney and John McArthur, paper company employes, came face to face with a pack of 12 wolves in the Kekekwa Lake area. The pack, however, scattered quickly when McArthur opened fire on the lead wolf.

Because of the influx of money and equipment into oil-rich Saudi Arabia, this primitive nomadic country is making a jump of centuries of technical progress in a few years.

Aprons For Personal Gift Touch

By GAILE DUGAS

Aprons, as Christmas gifts, are so popular with women as to be almost traditional by now. The ones that are made for the wearer are best, because they combine the personal touch with practicality.

When they're made from cotton feed bags, according to patterns, gift aprons have another asset: they're thrifty. But thrift doesn't mean dullness. Vary the patterns that you use with the needs of your friends and make everyone happy.

For a friend who likes to entertain, a party-time apron will be a welcome gift. A 100-pound feed bag in a soft blue, maroon and white ballet print was chosen for the apron we made. It's easy to do, pretty when it's finished. A white cotton organdy sash and big pocket provide contrast and trim.

The coverall is a handy apron and one that many women pick as the backbone of an apron wardrobe. We made a coverall apron in an apple print, gave it an appliqued pocket in red, shaped like an apple. A woman wants a real cover-up for kitchen work but she doesn't want it to shout out its practicality.

Another coverall apron, which we did in a green-and-white check overprinted with a rose-and-navy floral design, has princess lines. It's dart-fitted, with buttons in back at the upper edge and tie strings for the waistline.

Increase In Lower Price Building Seen

MIAMI BEACH, FLA. —(AP)— Houses in lower price ranges will comprise a higher percentage of homes built in 1952 than in 1951, the Committee on Economic Trends reported to the United States Savings and Loan League in its 59th annual convention.

William E. Taylor, president of the Security Federal Savings and Loan Association of Cleveland, Ohio, who is chairman of the committee, predicted an increase in lower-priced building "because of the much more favorable terms provided under revised credit regulations for houses priced at $12,000 or less."

CONGRESSMEN TOUR

SINGAPORE —(AP)— Two American congressmen passed through Singapore from Bangkok enroute to Australia. They were Rep. Monroe Redden of North Carolina and Rep. Fred L. Crawford of Michigan. They are members of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs. With them was Irwin Silverman, chief counsel, Office of Territories, Department of Interior.

BUY, DON'T GOODBYE, DEFENSE BONDS—Though immature defense bonds are being cashed faster than new bonds can be sold, only about 25 per cent of the bonds that have matured to date have been turned in. Newschart above shows that the big test will come in December, when $398 millon worth of "E" series bonds will fall due. Owners are asked to hang on to them; they'll draw interest for another 10 years.

Pecos Couple Has Profitable Hobby—

Old Indian Camps Source Of Semi-Precious Stones

By OLIN ASHLEY
Special Correspondent

PECOS — Apache Indians now roaming their happy hunting grounds probably never dreamed that fragments of their arrows scores of years later would inspire a Pecos man to become a lapidary—more commonly known as a "rock hound," one who collects, cuts and polishes semi-precious stones.

John Doll and his wife sought relaxation after working many long hours at their service station here in 1930.

They had heard of the old Indian camps nearby, and decided it would be an interesting diversion to hunt and collect arrow heads. So in their spare time they would ride out to the Monahans Sands, Toyah Creek, or to Michigan Draw about 20 miles east of Van Horn, and spend hours searching for fragments of weapons that had played no small part in the making of Indian history.

If the Indians, Doll figured, had access to so many truly fascinating stones of widely-varied possibilities as finished products, there must be numerous rich sources in which many other rocks might be found.

To Produce Weapons

Each time the Dolls went out they discovered beautiful semi-precious stones, some of which had been broken up by the Indians to produce their weapons. Gradually, without being aware of it, the Dolls became seized with "rock fever." They became trained to look for and to retrieve every rough gem that caught their fancy.

In the process, they collected a unique array of 2,000 arrow heads, ranging from grey flint to those made from quartz varieties of red, yellow, brown, green and some spotted.

Today, after more than 20 years of work, close study and the purchase of expensive processing machinery, the Dolls are planning to open the Pecos Gem Shop in their home soon after the first of the year.

Doll came to Barstow with his family at the age of 12 in 1906, and the following year he moved to Pecos. From 1938 to 1946 he operated a soft-drink bottling business here. But after the war he retired, and now devotes full time to his avocation which once was merely an escape from strenuous business pressures.

Specialize In Agates

Working largely with rocks of the quartz family, Mr. and Mrs. Doll specialize in agates, both smokey and banded, jaspers and chalcedony. Some turquoise has been found in the old Indian camps.

The Indians, fortunately, didn't care for the hard, semi-precious agates, Mrs. Doll observed. Otherwise, they might have destroyed many of the beautiful stones being discovered by the two lapidaries.

"We find where they tried to use banded agates to make arrow heads, but they very rarely made a good arrow," she added. The Indians seemed to prefer flint and quartz varieties slightly harder than flint.

The Dolls were eager to explain the details of their unusual hobby. And obviously they are familiar with the history of every rock—there are hundreds of them—in their comfortable home. Enthusiasm in the project is shared equally by husband and wife.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

Seven Texans Registered As Washington Lobbyists

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Congressional Record has published a list of individuals registered as lobbyists during the third quarter of 1951. Among several score named are seven Texans.

The Registration Act requires that all persons who attempt to influence, directly or indirectly, the passage or defeat of legislation must file a statement with the clerk of the House of Representatives. They must show their business connections and salaries or fees received.

The constitutionality of the act has been challenged by the National Association of Manufacturers. A special three-judge federal court panel is expected soon to rule on the issue; their decision undoubtedly will be appealed to the Supreme Court, so it may be many months yet before the question is settled.

The Texans who filed statements with the House clerk for the July, August and September period are:

David G. Gray, Humble Oil Company, Houston, received $1,500 during the quarter; Harold L. Kennedy, formerly of Palestine, Ohio Oil Company, $500 during the quarter; Fritz G. Lanham, former Fort Worth congressman, $1,000 from American Fair Trade Council, $1,500 from the National Patent Council, $2,500 from the State Tax Association (Houston), and $900 from the Trinity Improvement Association (Fort Worth).

Formerly Of Dallas

Dale Miller, formerly of Dallas, received $1,500 from the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, $1,500 from the Louisiana and Texas Intracoastal Canal Association, and $1,500 from Texas Gulf Sulphur; J. E. Sturrock, Austin, received $2,375 from Texas Water Conservation Association; Claude C. Wild, Jr., formerly of Austin, received $2,500 from Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association; Walter F. Woodul, former Texas lieutenant governor and a resident of Houston, $6,133 for representing more than a score of southwestern railroads, and $2,105 for representing the Imperial Sugar Company, Sugarland, Texas.

Many lobbyists devote only a part of their time watching a particular bill or subject matter under consideration in Washington. They may have other sources of income. In some instances they are allowed generous expense accounts to supplement their salaries.

Some who are registered as lobbyists are recognized authorities on subjects in which they are interested. In many cases they are men of such high regard that their views have considerable influence on congressional committees.

Among those on hand at the New York piers to welcome to America the one millionth person brought in by the International Refugee Organization was Mrs. Glenna Taylor Loughran.

There as the representative of Rep. Ken Regan of Midland, on whose secretarial staff she works, Mrs. Loughran delivered a special Texas welcome to the Czechoslovakian family of Alexander Ranezay. He and his wife and two daughters went on to Midland to make their home.

Formerly of Pecos and El Paso, Mrs. Loughran participated in the welcoming ceremony alongside such notables as New York's Mayor Impellitteri. Mrs. Loughran's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Taylor of El Paso.

When the Ranezays came through Washington enroute to Texas they were shown about the capitol by Mrs. Marita Fanning, formerly of Dallas and El Paso, also a member of Regan's staff.

TO NEAR EAST JOB—Edwin A. Locke, Jr., above, New York bank executive, has been named by President Truman to coordinate a program of U. S. aid aimed at increasing the industrial and agricultural productivity of Israel and the Arab countries of the Near East. Under the Mutual Security Act of 1951, $160,000,000 has been allocated for economic and technical assistance to the Near East and Africa.

Retired Navy Chief, 69, Is Versatile

NEWPORT, R. I. —(AP)— "Versatile" describes Retired Navy Chief Walter C. Johnston. He conducts Newport community classes on the musical saw. And he holds two patents on the use of shark teeth in jewelry.

Johnston, now 69, can't understand why shark meat isn't generally sold. He says it tastes good and has high food value. He claims a world's record catch of 10,000 pounds of shark in four hours off Fernandino, Fla., in 1923.

Before joining the Navy in 1903 he trekked about the country and now figures he has worked at 65 occupations in 46 states. He says he's pretty good at 37 different jobs. He has collected 500,000 stamps.

TURKEY SUPPORT

DES MOINES, IOWA —(AP)— The Department of Agriculture has indicated, in view of the record large turkey crop U. S. farmers are raising this year, that it intends to buy turkeys, if necessary, to keep the market from being overloaded. The department has what it calls a "standby" program under which it would buy large size birds, and distribute them to schools, for lunches, and to some non-profit institutions.

Many Eskimo igloos have animal-skin linings in them to provide air space for insulation and to prevent drip on the occupants.

Corporal Says He's Army's Shortest

DENVER —(AP)— A 25-year-old Denver corporal has laid claim to the title of the shortest man in the U. S. Army.

"I guess I talked my way in," he told a reporter. "I tried to enlist back in 1944 when I was 18 but they wouldn't have me because I was too short," he said.

The next year he went back to the enlistment station wearing a lot of hair piled up on his head. He measured four feet, 11 1/2 inches and somehow persuaded the examining doctor to split the difference by calling it five feet.

Corporal Barcelona served in Japan for a year and has been stationed at the arsenal for almost five. He's married. His wife? She's four feet, seven.

MONEY HIDEOUT

WATERLOO, ILL. — (AP) — A moldy cache of money—$1,335—tumbled out of an old stove at an estate's auction recently. The $5's, $10's and $20's were the large bills the Treasury quit printing years ago. The money was added to the estate of Andrew Stewart Hecker, III, bachelor whose property was being auctioned.

The area of continental United States is 3,022,387 square miles.

CHAT TOO SHORT

VANCOUVER, B. C. —(AP)— Just a few minutes after the policeman on the beat had stopped for his nightly chat and departed, the night attendant at a garage here was confronted by an armed holdup man who robbed the till of $35.

Battle Of Flowers Rages At Harlingen

HARLINGEN —(AP)— Harlingen has a battle of the flowers, but it's not like San Antonio's Fiesta de San Jacinto, brother.

Everybody had a different idea—the Harlingen Garden Club, the Stuart Place Garden Club, the Flower Lovers' Club, the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club, City Manager Larry Crow and City Parks Director Don Parsons.

The architect's plans called for "low plantings." So the city planted grass.

Mrs. Gerald McKenna, librarian, thought "low planting" meant plants, not grass, so she coaxed the city to remove the grass and prepare a flower bed which garden club members planted.

The clubs then decided to allot each other areas outside the building to plant to their own tastes, at the request of Mayor Gee McCullough, according to a member of the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club.

"The city park director called me and said he didn't like what we planted. It looked terrible, he said. He especially didn't like the periwinkles.

"So we planted it over and if he doesn't like it, he can lump it. We're through. Nobody even said 'Thank you'."

The easiest way to keep the copper bottoms of skillets bright is to use a special powder that quickly removes tarnish.

Vows Are Solemnized For Midland Couple

In a double-ring ceremony Saturday in the First Methodist Church, Norma Grace Baker became the bride of John Guy McMillian, Jr. The Rev. R. L. Kirk, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland I. Baker of Midland. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Guy McMillian, also of Midland.

George L. DeHart, organist, played "I Love Thee," Grieg; "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte, and the traditional wedding music and Mrs. David Googins, Jr. was the soloist.

Vows were read before a background of tropical foliage and white candelabra highlighted by arrangements of white chrysanthemums and pompons. Smilax and woodwardia with white chrysanthemums adorned the chancel rail.

Mrs. Richard Ragsdale of Sherman, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Perkins of Bryan and Jean McMillian of Midland, sisters of the bridegroom, and Diana Neissl and Shirley Lones, also of Midland. Caro. Story of Midland was the flower girl.

The matron of honor and the bridesmaids were identically attired in dresses of pink nylon net over taffeta. The dresses were designed with pleated off-the-shoulder capes worn over strapless dresses with full, gathered skirts. Their headdresses were of matching taffeta with shadow veils. They carried pink antherium lilies with garlands of English ivy and satin streamers.

The flower girl wore a similarly fashioned dress and carried a net basket of rose petals in the bride's chosen colors.

James A. Davidson of Midland was the best man. Ushers were David Googins, Jr. and Wilbur Yeager of Midland, Jesse Heath of Colorado City, Capt. John Perkins of Bryan, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Dr. Richard Ragsdale of Sherman, brother-in-law of the bride.

Ragsdale and Perkins also served as candlelighters.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original gown of French imported lace over satin. The molded bodice, sprinkled with bugle beads and iridscent sequins, was intrically beaded around the neckline and sleeve tips. Long, tightly fitted sleeves tapered to petal points over the bride's hands and the extremely full pleated skirt extended to form a wide fan-shaped train. Her fingertip length veil of ivory nylon tulle fell from a beaded calliotte of matching lace. For "something old" the bride wore her great - grandmother's engagement ring. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias, bouvardia and white orchids, topping a Bible which

A reception was held in the First Methodist Church parlor. Members of the house party were Mrs. C. W. Chancellor, Mrs. E. H. Davidson, Mrs. John Perkins, Mrs. George Shelton, Jr., Mrs. W. A. Yeager, Mrs. Anton Theis, Mrs. Selman Lones, Mrs. James C. Watson, Mrs. Eleanor Wheeler, Mrs. Verner P. Neissl, Mrs. Allen Wemple, Mrs. Jim McLaughlin, Mrs. Nelson Puett, Mrs. Bernold Hanson, Mrs. David Googins, Jr. Vangie Theis and Patricia Ruckman. They wore orchid corsages.

For a wedding trip to New Orleans, the bride chose a Pietro suit of carlton blue with navy and white accessories. After December 1 the couple will be at home at 3215 Marianna Street in Midland.

Out-of-city wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hamel and Mrs. W. P. Sterling of Bay City, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McMillian and son of Corpus Christi, Mrs. Ed Kirschner and son of Galveston, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Payne of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Heath and Mrs. Max Thomas of Colorado City, Dr. and Mrs. Jake Labeaux and Dr. and Mrs. L. B. Peterson of Austin, Mrs. Lee Green and R. W. Ragsdale of Slaton, Mr. and Mrs. Earl DeClaspel of Chicago, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Cole and son of Fort Worth and Mrs. Charles L. Baker of Tulsa, Okla.

The bride is a graduate of Midland High School and the University of Texas where she received her B.S. degree in Fine Arts. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta Sorority. At present she is employed in Midland by Ralph Lowe.

McMillian also was graduated from Midland High School and the University of Texas where he received a B.S. degree in petroleum engineering. He is employed in Midland by Rotary Engineering Company.

Mrs. E. H. Davidson and Mrs. David Googins, Jr., honored the bride with a party Friday in the Googins home.

Here's How It Works

Ask for your FREE Treasure Hunt Tickets by close of business Tuesday, November 27. At that time all ticket stubs will be picked up, mixed together, and one ticket will be drawn for each treasure that is to be given.

The participating merchants will place these tickets on the treasures within their windows. At 6 o'clock Tuesday, Nov. 27, the windows will be unveiled--and then your job is to check each window to see if you can match the number with a ticket. When you do, the treasure is yours. Call for it by Saturday night, December 1.

It's Not A Contest For Speed—No Hurry

Take your time. There are no duplicate tickets; but you must check each window of the 51 participating merchants by closing time, December 1.

John Morley Will Address K&F Club Here December 4

John Morley, director of a U. S. military intelligence campaign against foreign spies during World War II, will be the guest speaker at the December meeting of the Midland Knife and Fork Club, President Carroll L. Thomas announced Saturday.

The dinner-meeting is scheduled at 7 p.m., Tuesday, December 4, in the high school cafeteria.

Thomas said three directors for three-year terms also will be elected at a brief business session preceding the program.

"A Correspondent's Uncensored Report on World Crisis" will be the subject of Morley's address. He recently returned from an around-the-world reporting assignment.

Report On World Affairs

Club officials said Morley's address will be a first-hand account of things seen and heard from the coast of Ireland to the northern islands of Japan. They said his message will be a comprehensive report on global conditions.

The author of "I Believe" and other books, Morley also is a regular contributor to several of the nation's leading magazines.

Reservations for the meeting must be made not later than December 1, Thomas stated.

Young Korean Asked To Attend YMCA Camp

Jai-Hoon (Bill) Yang of Seoul, son of Mr. and Mrs. In-Ai Yang, has been chosen to attend the International Older Boys' Camp sponsored by the Young Men's Christian Association in Australia, it was reported in a letter to the Midland Altrusa Club.

Mrs. Yang, who spent three days while enroute to Tokyo as a guest of the Midland club, formerly studied at Vanderbilt on a scholarship awarded by the Seventh District of which the Midland club is a part. Mrs. Yang, now serving with the Korean Diplomatic Mission, is a member of the Seoul, South Korean, Altrusa Club.

A scholarship sponsored by Willie Walker of Texarkana, immediate past Governor of Seventh District, has been set up to educate Jai-Hoon in the United States when he is graduated from the American school which he now is attending in Tokyo.

Camp Buxton in Victoria, Australia, is the site for the camp, which will be conducted from December 18-27. The young Korean plans to travel by way of Manila in the Philippines and to return the first week of January.

Have you tried cooking an oven roast in aluminum foil? Just season the roast as usual, then wrap it carein the foil, sealing all edges by pinching together, before putting it in the roasting pan. This method seals in all the juices and makes basting unnecessary. The same procedure may be used for broiling a steak over charcoal or under the oven broiler.

Perfume That Clings

Q. — Dear Peany: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W

A. — A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Mrs. Gene Brice Hays

Yvonne Shuffield Weds Gene B. Hays

Joyce Yvonne Shuffield and Gene Brice Hays, both of Midland, exchanged vows Saturday in a single-ring ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church. Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Hensley of Fort Worth and formerly of Stephenville. Hays' parents are Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Hays of Midland.

Mrs. Frank Miller, organist, played a program of nuptial music including "Ave Verum," Mozart; "Dies Irae," Purvis; "Pastorale," Vierne; "Autumn Song," Elmore; "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" and "Wedding March," Mendelssohn.

Wanda Slocum, soloist, sang "I Love Thee," Grieg; "God Touched a Rose," Mary Helen Brow, and "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte.

The ceremony was read before an altar banked with woodwardia fern and smilax. Baskets of bronze chrysanthemums with pompons, and candelabra holding old ivory candles, completed the church decorations.

Bridal Gown Described

Given in marriage by her brother, C. B. Shuffield of San Antonio, the bride wore a demi-tasse length gown of light ivory velveray net, sprinkled with gold. It was fashioned with a wide sweetheart neckline and short cap sleeves, complemented by a moulded, shirred bodice. The extremely full gathered skirt was styled of velveray net over plain net, forming a tunic effect across the front of the bouffant skirt.

The bride's shoulder length veil, fashioned of layered circles of ivory French illusion, was worn over a tiny tiara of ivory satin and seed pearls. She wore matching ivory satin pumps and carried a cascade bouquet of brown orchids and garlands of English ivy, tied with ivory satin ribbon.

Mrs. Lawson Beatty of Stephenville was the matron of honor. She wore a champagne-colored dress of demi-tasse length, designed with a sweetheart neckline. Her matching half hat had a cupped veil.

Betty Hays of Midland, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor. She wore a copper-colored dress, styled identically to the dress of the matron of honor. Both attendants carried bouquets of talisman roses with English ivy garlands.

O. L. York of Midland was the best man. Ushers were Winn Murchison of McCamey, Earl Perkins of Midland and Felton Henry of Odessa. W. H. Lohman of Dallas was the groomsman.

Reception Held

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The bridal attendants and the mothers of the bride and bridegroom assisted the couple in receiving the guests.

Other members of the house party were Mrs. M. J. Rodgers, Mrs. Carl Nance, Mrs. O. L. York, Betty McWhorter, Jo Ann Russell, Mary Phillips, Carolyn Jones and Mrs. Bill Taylor and Mrs. Carl Ward, sisters of the bridegroom.

The bride's table was decorated with arrangements of bronze chrysanthemums and pompons and ivory tapers. The wedding cake was topped with yellow roses and the punch bowl was hung with garlands of yellow pompons and English ivy.

For the wedding trip to Colorado, the bride chose a grey wool dress with a mustard-colored duster and hat and matching trim. Her accessories were of black.

Out-of-city wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Kliepers, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stone and Mrs. O. G. Wacker of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller of Monahans; Wynemia Pirkle and Thala Roberts of Duncan, Okla., and Mrs. Lottie Goddard of Brownwood.

The bride is employed in Midland by the Shell Oil Company. Hays attended North Texas Agriculture College and the University of Wichita in Wichita, Kan. He now is associated in business here with his father.

After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Hays will be at home in Midland.

Tips For Teen Gift Hunters

By ANNE LARSEN

They can't be the same old thing, or you'll be branded as unimaginative, or worse, be regarded as lagging behind the times. They can't be too ostentatious; it just isn't done in circles where allowances are apt to be pretty stringent.

But they also mustn't look like remnants from a rummage sale, even if you do score a goal on price.

It's quite a problem, but not an insoluable one, particularly if you shop around carefully, and if, before setting out laden with lists, you consider carefully what sort of person you're aiming to please.

You're in luck if you're dealing with hobbyists or people with decided, well-developed interests. For the camera bug there is this season a gift that's sure to please—a printing kit which supplies, for an attractively-small price, all the materials needed to print his own pictures.

Best of all, there's no darkroom needed. The particular printing paper included in the kit permits handling under ordinary kitchen or bathroom lighting.

For bird-watchers, hunters or sportsmen in general, a pocket telescope is a handy gift. About the size of a fountain pen, it clips to the pocket in the same way for carrying. When the telescope is in use there's an outer barrel to pull out for optical adjustment by means of a special screw-focusing adjustment.

For the girl on your list who's meticulous about her make-up, who thinks it's important to vary her lipstick to match her clothes, a case containing two new shades should be a welcome gift. The small kit itself is an eye-catcher. A bright red carton, shaped like a saddle-stitched, midget-sized handbag, it hints gaily of the latent charm contained within.

A leather album with six compartments for various type stamps, has address book handily attached, folds down and snaps for carrying in pocket or for tucking in purse.

If handsome clothes, strikingly accessorized, rank high among her interest in life, an unusual, youthful-looking handbag may be the answer. The mood for Christmas itself is caught for the rest of the year in a high-spirited purse of green suede, accented with glossy red cowhide trim and stocking-top of red woolen knit.

Two shades of lipstick, in package that resembles miniature, saddle-stitched handbag, are designed to please beauty-conscious teen-ager.

To jingle merrily on her wrist, a bracelet from which dangles a miniature harmonica that really plays, or one featuring an hour-glass timer that truly marks the minutes with shifting sand.

She'll think of you with gratitude each rainy day if you choose for her this Christmas a brightly-colored, ingeniously-designed umbrella to ward off the wet and chase away gloom. Paper-pleated ones, coated with vinylite for rain-proofing, are especially attractive, especially interesting in point of price.

Week-ending males, particularly those who are continually jaunting home from college, should welcome a travel kit which contains, in its easily-accessible plastic case, almost any grooming aid he might require.

This gay and handsome handbag of green suede, trimmed with polished red leather and closed with red stocking-knit top, prolongs the Christmas spirit for months to come. Dangle bracelets are conversation pieces: tiny harmonica really plays; hour-glass, set in heart, measures minutes.

A razor, blades, styptic pencil, comb, after-shave lotion, deodorant, shampoo, hair-dressing, talc, brushless shaving cream and tooth powder are all fitted compactly together to take a minimum of space in his traveling bag.

ANNOUNCING
FAY STEEL, formerly with Damie's House of Beauty, as a new member of our staff of beauty specialists.

PROSPECTIVE BRIDE—Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Collings, 511 West Louisiana Street, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patsy Ann, to Ben Edward Taylor, Seaman First Class, USN. The bridegroom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Taylor of Oklahoma City, Okla. The wedding will take place soon after Christmas in San Diego, Calif. Taylor is stationed aboard the USS Nereus.

Couple Slates December Vows

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brannen of Abilene announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Derah Frances, to Miles P. Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Stanley of Midland, at an announcement tea Saturday.

The wedding will take place December 29 in the Baptist Church Chapel in Abilene. The Rev. P. W. Davis of Phoenix, Ariz., will officiate.

Those in the receiving line were Mrs. Brannen, Miss Brannen and Mrs. Stanley.

Mrs. E. L. McKenzie of Midland, sister of the bride-elect, and Joan Stanley, sister of the prospective bridegroom, served. Mrs. Fred Bennett of Spur registered the guests, and Mrs. D. L. Dodd of Dallas, sister of the bride-elect, was house hostess.

When shopping for curtain fabrics, it is wise to figure on yardage twice the width of the space to be covered, so that attractive fullness may be obtained in draping. Curtain-buyers also should make an allowance for lengthwise shrinking, especially if the fabrice bears no label showing that it is pre-shrunk. The buyer also will do well to examine labels indicating color fastness.

Clothiers Feature Nylon Items For Men For Christmas Gifts

When Christmas time tolls around every year the age old question arises in your mind, "What am I going to give HIM for Christmas?"

Highly featured this year for the man in the family, regardless of age, are items made of nylon. With nylon pajamas, underwear and socks coming into fashion for men, he can no longer fuss about wading through his wife's things to get to the mirror to shave.

More than likely he will have to push through his own personal things.

The all nylon napper's, probably known as muckalucks or slippers, are greatly in demand, especially for the fraternity house or dormitory man during the cold Winter studying sessions.

Robes Are Economical

Patterned after the popular wool jersey blouses the women have been wearing for two years, the shirt companies have come out with wool jersey shirts for the man.

Featured in the imported line are suede jackets, cashmere sweaters and wool socks from Austria and hand made handkerchiefs of Irish linen made in China.

Clever and yet inexpensive for the man are the cuff links and tie clasps designed for his favorite hobby or profession. For the first time sterling silver cuff links and tie clasps are being shown.

Especially nice for the smoker in the family is the new butane lighter that is guaranteed to last six months. Keeping in line with smoking are the corduroy smoker jackets.

Newly out for the traveling man are the leather zipper cases especially designed to hold neckties so they will not wrinkle.

Certificates Are Popular

There are always the gift certificates for those who cannot decide what to buy. They are available at every store.

Every year the suggestions run along the same line. However, not in keeping with the suggestions are the prices. In many cases, such as the hats, shoes and most of the nylon featured items, the prices are down.

Some of the jackets and imported items are up a little. As an average though most of the merchandise is staying on a par with last year's prices, but with a larger selection.

In case you are still wondering what you might give him here is a list for you to choose from. Billfold, brief case, pen and pencil set, watch, shaving kit, wallet, picture frame, luggage, neckties, traveling clocks, suits, jackets, topcoats, sport shirts, hat, watch band and always a belt or suspenders.

If he has an electric train there are all kinds of attachments for him this year, such as, stations, stop lights, billboards and loading platforms. Clever items are small figures of cattle and sheep for his box cars and soldiers and horses for his troop train.

With a larger choice of items, the only problem is, which one does he want?

Star Study Plans Christmas Party

The Star Study Club made plans Wednesday for a Christmas party at a luncheon meeting in the home of Mrs. E. B. Ray.

The group decided to cancel its December study meeting. It was announced that a school of instruction would be held here March 31. Mrs. Fred Wycoff gave the closing prayer.

Others attending were Mrs. Tom Nipp and Dickey, Mrs. J. H. Shelton and Susan Jean, Mrs. Floyd Shirley, Mrs. Pat Barber, Mrs. Ronald Frantz, Becky and Susie, and Mrs. Grace Sowersby, a guest.

Midland Stores Offer Christmas Gifts For The Whole Family

The Christmas season is family time. And Midland stores are ready with plenty of gifts which the whole family will enjoy.

Early-bird shoppers will find a variety of holiday presents available for as much or as little as they care to spend.

Household appliances generally are considered gifts for the woman of the house, but many of them could pass for family gifts as well. For instance there is the case of a home freezer. Admittedly, it would be a boon for the cook in the house, but father also could use it for storing game from his latest hunting trip and Junior would find it a handy place for stowing away popsickles and ice cream bars.

Makes Nice Gift

Hobbies often furnish the shopper with a clue for family buying. Photographic equipment makes a nice gift for the family that takes a camera's eye view of things. Midland stores have such equipment, ranging from the simplest to the most intricate. And even a family unpracticed in the photographic arts can learn to handle and enjoy a movie camera.

For sports fans, a pair of binoculars might take the gloom out of those end-zone seats. And globe-trotters always can use an extra piece of luggage.

Records, record cabinets and radio-phonograph combinations are a few of the items available for music lovers and an encyclopedia set is a happy choice for a family that enjoys cultural pursuits.

Along general lines, boxes of candy make ever-welcome gifts, particularly when the boxes are decked out in holiday trimmings. Other family gift suggestions include electric blankets and sheets, waffle irons, furniture of all kinds, pictures and games.

Yes, Christmas is only 25 shopping days away, but shoppers can be certain that Midland stores will lend Santa a helping hand.

WSCS Schedules Quarterly Meeting

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church will hold the second of its quarterly officers' report meetings at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Sam Preston.

Mrs. George P. Bradbury, promotion secretary, will preside, and Mrs. R. S. Watkins, spiritual life chairman, will give the devotional. Members of the hostess committee for the meeting will be Mrs. W. E. Chapman, Mrs. Preston, Mrs. W. F. Schafer, Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Ray Gwyn, Mrs. Noel Oates and Mrs. Robert Stripling. All officers, circle and committee chairmen and the president of the Wesleyan Service Guild are asked to be present.

Cook cauliflowerets in a small amount of boiling salted water only until they are tender-crisp. Meanwhile make a cheese sauce. Pour the sauce over the drained cooked cauliflower, sprinkle with pretty slices of pimiento-stuffed olives, and serve for a company meal.

Fringe Makes a Gift You Can Make Yourself

By GAILE DUGAS

Not every woman who must pull Christmas present out of a budget is a needle woman, handy at whipping up gifts from a half yard of fabric and lots of intricate sewing directions. For the woman who can't sew but must make some presents, there's a simple solution.

Evening bags, stoles, place mats, gift towels, smart gloves can all be made by a woman who owns no real knowledge of sewing. There's an added attraction in the fact that each gift can be made on a sewing machine or by hand.

The simplest plan for a pretty evening bag begins with a twenty-five cent cosmetic bag from the neighborhood five-and-ten cent store. Get the envelope kind with a zipper top.

Then, at the trimming counter in the drapery department of your local department store, you'll find satin fringe looped into gold, silver or cream. You'll need about three and one-half yards.

Begin at the bottom of the cosmetic bag and sew the fringe on in even rows so that each row overlaps the one below. When you're finished, the bag will be completely covered with fringe and you'll have a gift fit for a glamor girl.

A second evening bag can be made drawstring style from heavy gold upholstery brocade. You'll want a quarter of a yard in the 54-inch width. At one end of the fabric, cut two perfect circles, each 5 1/2 inches in diameter.

From heavy cardboard, cut another circle five inches in diameter and insert it between the two fabric circles, basting to hold the cardboard intact. This is the bottom of the bag.

Now, cut a strip of material nine inches wide and thirty inches long. Baste a lining to this strip, using satin cotton thread. Along one length of the fabric, sew a conso shirring tape. This has a cord running through the center which, when pulled, creates an even shirring.

Close the two sides of the fabric strip together by hand hemming. Hem the top of the bag, insert two gold-colored cords, each cut twelve inches in length. When you've pulled them through, knot each end. That's the drawstring.

For trim, buy two yards of gold rayon bouillon fringe in a one-inch width. At the bottom of the bag, sew around four rows so that each overlaps the one below. Stuff the bag with tissue paper, wrap it and that's all there is to it.

Simplest gift to make is a pair of fringe-trimmed gloves. You buy the gloves, in a beige cotton and a plain style. Then, at the cuff, you sew on chocolate-colored fringe in gauntlet fashion. Quick easy way to a handsome gift.

A stole will make any girl, from teen-age on up, happy on Christmas Day. Try one cut from a yard and a half of black cotton satin. Line it with white cotton satin and edge it with a border of satin-scalloped trimming in black or white. The stole may be an oblong or a triangle.

Another stole, this one for practical daytime wear, can be done in beige monk's cloth and a triangular shape. Edge it with an all-wool fringe in dark gray. You'll need four yards of the fringe and a yard and a half of monk's cloth. This stole needs no lining, takes minutes to make.

Household gifts appear on almost everyone's list becaues they're useful. A set of six table mats and center mat are all made of burlap, have an expensive look because of their trim.

Try gull-gray burlap bordered with bushy brown cotton fringe. One-half inch in from the edge of the mat, sew another border of the brown rope trim. These mats, by the way, will launder readily. You'll want two yards of the burlap and 13 of the bushy cotton fringe plus 11 yards of the cord rope.

Lots of people will get guest towels as gifts this year. But if you want your towel gifts to have originality, buy them in a vivid, glowing color and edge them in cotton-knotted cream bedspread fringe. You'll need a yard.

If you can embroider, you might do initials on each in a heavy, cream-colored yarn. Or, try something like "The King" on one towel "And Me" on the other.

Reeves County's Agricultural Scene Becomes Brighter

PECOS—Reeves County is gaining stature as an agricultural county.

At least, that is the impression gained in a quick survey of prospects for the future.

By now, of course, it is getting to be an old story as to how thousands of acres of land have been planted to cotton in the "triangle" located southwest of Pecos. That triangle includes, generally, the land between the Pecos-El Paso, Pecos-Balmorhea and Balmorhea-Toyah roads. Some new angles on the agricultural story in this county include: the cultivation of more land in the "triangle," the cultivation of land north of Pecos, and the fact some of the farmers are going in for diversification.

No definite survey has been made as to the new land that is being put in south and southwest of Pecos, but indications are there will be several thousand more acres producing crops in that area in 1952.

An "eye-opener" to those who have not kept up with the agricultural progress of the county is the development north of Pecos. Sheriff Charlie Fitzgerald, Jr., has put in 200 acres of the section he recently purchased about five miles north of the city on the Carlsbad highway. John Rush has cultivated 320 acres about two miles west of the Fitzgerald place and John Hernandez has placed about 200 acres in cultivation.

Midland Stores Display Wide Variety Of Gifts For Women

The holiday season is just around the corner and everyone is getting into the spirit and gaiety of the Yuletide season. Midlander's heads are full of plans for Christmas parties, but also they are thinking—"only 25 more shopping days until Christmas. What can I get the women on my shopping list?"

A tour through the Midland stores would make this question easy to answer. Stores are loaded and plenty of everything is available according to store managers.

Midland stores are featuring a variety of novelties in blouses, sweaters and accessories. Any woman would cherish a novelty blouse or sweater to spice up her wardrobe. One store also is featuring a new assortment of cotton blouses.

If the budget stretches to the more expensive line, many stores are featuring a handsome assortment of fur coats and fur pieces.

The little luxuries that a woman will never buy for herself also are a good choice. A varied assortment of cosmetics with different shades of lipstick to blend with the various colors in her wardrobe will bring a cry of joy from any woman.

Beautify Dresser

Another gift that few women buy for themselves but would please them very much to find under the Christmas tree is lounging pajamas. Midland stores offer a wide variety in all price ranges. Heavy satin loungirig pajamas with a brocaded Chinese design jacket will add to the joy of Christmas for any woman.

Gifts for the home always are a practical choice. New automatic appliances for the kitchen will make her day easier.

Other suggestions include lingerie (nylon preferred by most women), jewelry and all type of accessories, nylon hose, dresser sets, evening wraps and bags, cigarette lighters and cases, jeweled lipstick cases and perfume flasks, miniature photo albums, jewelry cases and all types of wearing apparel.

Employment Office Stresses Jobs, Not Pay For Jobless

Many have the wrong conception of the function and purpose of the Texas State Employment office, says John Bechtol, office manager of the Midland branch of that service.

"Many people have the idea that we are here to pay unemployment compensation to people who don't want to work," Bechtol said "But the very people who seem to have that idea forget that a person must have worked to be eligible to draw compensation."

The real job of the Texas Employment Service, according to Bechtol, is to help unemployed persons find work for which their education and skill have suited them.

Here is the way it works: a man who is unemployed registers at the office for work. On a regular form, all pertinent information about him is recorded. This consists of his type of work, experience, appearance, age, etc. This information is filed.

From the other end, an employer is looking for a man to fill a vacant position. He contacts the employment office and tells the type man he wants, what he will be required to do, and what the pay is.

The office then arranges interviews for the employer with all of the men on the list who meet the particular requirements at hand.

"From then on, it's a matter between employer and the men he interviews," Bechtol said.

In the last 30 days, Bechtol's office here has placed approximately 850 persons in a two-county area (Midland and Glasscock).

"The idea that our office is loaded down with people drawing unemployment compensation is completely wrong," Bechtol pointed out.

The office here serves Midland and Glasscock Counties which have approximately 15,000 persons employed in them. It has 550 persons registered with it for work and only nine of them are making application for compensation because of unemployment.

Because of its state-wide activities, the Texas State Employment Service also serves a number of other functions. It is a clearing house for labor information throughout the state. It serves as a source of information on local labor and working conditions. And third, it issues a weekly bulletin of job opportunities in the state.

Experiment In Birth Control Is Planned

SAN FRANCISCO—India's poverty-stricken millions are to be the subject of history's first nation-wide experiment in birth control.

Dr. Brock Chisholm, director-general of the World Health Organization, said recently an educational program under the auspices of the Indian government will start soon.

The technique to be taught, he said, will be the rhythm m thod.

"No religious objections have been expressed," Chisholm reported, indicating the rhythm method does not conflict with Moslem or Hindu doctrine.

He said the program will be started in India's great industrial areas and then spread to rural districts.

Combinations Used By Tobacco Farmers

LEXINGTON, KY. — (AP) — A number of combination of grasses and legumes can be used by farmers following a three-year rotation in growing tobacco, according to tests made at the University of Kentucky experiment station.

The experimenters grew tobacco one year and grasses and legumes for two years to determine the effect of these crops in maintaining nitrogen for tobacco.

The yield and market value of the tobacco from the various sods tested was virtually the same. It averaged 1,656 pounds an acre and had a value of $857 an acre.

Santa's No One-Night Show

By ANNE LARSEN

Many an American child, settling down in bed on Christmas Eve, will wonder anxiously—like generations of small fry before him—how Santa Claus and his reindeer can possibly circle the globe in one short night, and how he can manage to slide down the chimney of every child in the world in the few hours between stocking hanging and wake-up time.

Junior America, as well as answerless parents, can relax. Santa's task isn't quite so formidable as it seems. This jolly old saint who gladdens the hear of children at the Yule season is a creature of many guises, and his is not a one-night show. He has, in fact, from December 6 to January 6 to make his benevolent rounds.

Among the first children visited by the gift-giver are the youngsters of Holland and Belgium. They reach their peak of excitement in the first few days of December, in anticipation of the feast day of St. Nicholas.

The saint himself arrives on the eve of the day, and showing himself in his red bishop's robe and miter, checks in person the conduct of each child during the fore-going year.

His arrival is announced by a shower of sweets on a clean sheet that has previously been spread in readiness upon the floor. The children scramble for the treats, he enters, accompanied by his little servant, Black Pete, who holds a sack and a rod for the naughty.

After delivering warnings or praises, according to the individual, Santa takes his leave, promising to return when infant eyes are closed fast in sleep.

This he does, leaving gifts in the wooden shoes that have been set out carefully on window sill or hearthstone, and taking care to remove the straw and carrots that thoughtful citizens have left in their footwear for St. Nick's hungry white horse.

In France, too, gifts are left in shoes, except in this country it is Petit Noel (the Christ Child, or Bonhomme Noel (Father Christmas), who rewards deserving little ones. In the small villages, children carry little candle-lighted creches through the streets, singing carols and collecting pennies.

Children's processions are an important feature of the Christmas celebration in Romania, too. From December 24 through December 31 they march in the daytime bearing on a high pole a six-pointed star and tinkling bells, and in the evening go about singing greetings, carrying long bags with which to receive gifts.

In Italy, pre-Christmas activities include much reciting of small poems or little speeches by youngsters. They join with their elders in the observance of the Holy Festival, which begins with the booming of a cannon at sunset on Christmas Eve.

After prayers, their fast is broken with a banquet, following which presents are drawn from an Urn of Fate. This is a time for joshing and suspense; many blanks may be drawn before a satisfactory package is fished from the urn.

These, however, are gifts of secondary importance. Forr their hearts' desires, Italian children set out their shoes on the evening of January 5 for the convenience of La Befana, an old woman dressed in rags and riding a broom-stick who comes with ashes for the bad, gifts for the good.

Shoes are put out in Spain, too, but it's the Three Kings or the Three Wise Men who arrive in the dark hours of January 5 to distribute toys and goodies after small fry, weary of dancing to tambourines and singing Nativity songs, are sound asleep.

Jacoby On Canasta

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

I've been saving a batch of questions on "time limits" for a rainy day, and this seems like a good time to answer them. All of the questions have to do with irregularities and with how long the non-offending side can wait before claiming a penalty for the error.

The general answer is that you must call attention to an error at once if you intend to exact a penalty. You can't let the play continue and decide later on that you want to start waving the rule book around.

For example, one of my letters came from a rather desperate-sounding man. In a two-handed game of Canasta with his wife, he made an insufficient meld. She said nothing at the time, but wanted to enforce a penalty four plays later. Apparently the argument got a bit warm on both sides, and the upshot was a letter to me.

The rule is that you must call attention at once to your opponent's insufficient meld if you intend to apply the penalty. The moment the next player acts—by drawing a card or by putting cards down on the table to take the discard pile—that insufficient meld is condoned. That is, it is considered a perfectly legal meld.

Another question had to do with a deal out of turn. Somebody dealt when it wasn't his turn to deal; and the player at the left of this mistaken dealer took the first card from the top of the stock. Then the player who should have dealt spoke up. Does the deal stand, or should there be a new deal?

The deal stands. As soon as the first play begins, the deal becomes condoned. You just forget all about the player who should have dealt. If John Doe is the culprit who grabbed the cards out of turn, his deal stands; and the next dealer is the player at Doe's left.

Several questions have been asked on mistakes in the discarding. Sometimes a player discards without drawing; and sometimes a player discards more than one card. These are errors, of course, but they are condoned as soon as the next player draws (or as soon as he puts cards down on the table to take the discard pile).

The time limit for replacing a red three follows the same principle. For example, you put a red three on the table and forget to draw a card to replace it. You're allowed to correct that error until the next player begins his play. After that, you have to get along without the replacement.

Midland's Toyland Centers Set For 'Santa Claus' Rush

But there's no reason to get unduly alarmed. Women still rule the household and little Miss Junior Midland still leans toward dolls, so she can keep house "like Mama does."

Store owners and managers say there is a larger variety of toys this year than ever before for those youngsters whose wishes don't conform to the usual patterns.

Heavily-Stocked Shelves

One look at the heavily stocked shelves quickly will dispel any fear that the Korean war has put a crimp in materials needed in Toyland by Santa.

Toys of every description are available in quantity and in quality —up to a certain point.

The point is this—Toys made of critical materials are available now, but when the present stock is gone —there can be no re-ordering.

However, in spots where there is a threatened shortage, substitute materials such as plastic, have been used successfully by manufacturers to fill the gap.

A good example of a substitute material is a little kit called "Plastic Ville, U. S. A.," which contains enough miniature plastic models to construct an entire community. And it can be constructed or torn down with ease by the youngsters.

The fact that the above kit is such a big seller leads toy sellers to believe the modern day kid is inclined to want mechanical toys.

'When I Was A Kid'

"Games and books just don't sell like they did when I was a kid," one store manager confided. "Youngsters now want something they can tear down or put together."

"That is," he speculated, "unless parents are buying toys that attract the adult fancy rather than junior's."

"It must be a deisel engine because that's just what by husband ordered," she said.

Other than the fact there are sufficient toys to keep Dad and Junior occupied, the best news to come out of toyland is that prices are about the same as last year.

And while there hasn't been any revolutionary changes in toys, the introduction of a new one—a goofus ball—is sure to become a hit with the kids.

About the size of a basketball, the goofus ball is apt to do some weird things when thrown or rolled toward a playmate.

Generally speaking, youngsters should have the merriest Christmas ever—if toyland centers are any indication.

For a quick supper dish mix cooked noodles, chunks of canned salmon, and white sauce together. Turn into a baking dish and reheat in the oven; sprinkle with minced parsley before serving.

DREW PEARSON ON The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

(Copyright, 1951, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: House Committee investigates its chairman; Congressman King's conduct should be scrutinized by public; Lamar Caudle demanded investigation of Long Beach cases.

WASHINGTON — The same House committee that has been proving tax scandals lately, tried to disprove one the other day. However, the public and press were barred as the committee began a ticklish investigation of its own chairman—Congressman Cecil King, California Democrat.

The purpose was to spike rumors that King had intervened in a tax investigation of four Long Beach, Calif., business associates — Thomas A. Gregory, John D. Wilhoit, Clifton S. Jones and Charles J. Jones. Under sharp, often heated questioning, the witnesses agreed they knew of no pressure from King to block the tax cases. However, at least one witness charged that King had used his congressional influence on Gregory's side in a $30,000,000 lawsuit.

Believing that Congressman King's conduct should be as open to public scrutiny as the tax collectors he is investigating, this column has obtained a play-by-play account of the closed-door hearing.

Sharpest clash was between Adrian De Wind, King's chief counsel, and Philip H. Angell, former president of the California State Bar Association. Angell testified he had reported his suspicions about the Long Beach tax cases to the Republican members of the committee.

"I hoped there would be a full and impartial investigation . . . ." he explained. "I hoped there would be absolutely independent investigators and counsel because of Mr. King's close association with Mr. Gregory and his activities in the Long Beach case. I was sure with his feeling as to anything connected with Mr. Gregory, he would be very partial to Mr. Gregory's side of the picture."

Angell identified himself as an attorney for the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, which has charged Gregory with mismanagement of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. Among other things, Gregory is charged with making "utterly fantastic" loans to Wilhoit and the Jones Brothers, which has resulted in both the tax investigation and the $30,000,000 lawsuit.

Caudle Was Suspicious

Although the tax probe was started in 1946, it was stimulated again last March by Theron Lamar Caudle, then assistant attorney general in charge of prosecuting tax cases. Although Caudle was fired by President Truman last week, the fact is that, on March 3, he asked the Internal Revenue Bureau to investigate "allegations of influence" in the Long Beach tax cases, including charges that Congressman King of California had exerted political pressure in behalf of Gregory.

Under withering cross-examination, Angell admitted he had helped write a memo sent to the Justice Department which aroused Caudle's suspicion. It was forwarded to the Justice Department by Senator Lester Hunt, Wyoming Democrat.

"There is a paragraph in the memorandum which says that almost continuously from the time that this dispute arose, Congressman Cecil King and, within the last year, Congressman Holifield, have exerted political pressure to compel the Department of Justice, the Home Loan Bank Board and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board of San Francisco, to settle pending litigation wherein Long Beach seeks in excess of $30,000,000 damages from the United States," observed committee counsel De Wind.

"That is correct," nodded Angell.

"Did you intend to create any implication that the tax-liability matter might be associated with Congressman King's or Congressman Holifield's pressure?" demanded De Wind.

"Oh, not at all," Angell disclaimed.

"As to tax matters?" asked Angell cautiously.

"Oh, very definitely," admitted Angell. "I don't know that Congressman King even knew that the taxes weren't paid."

Shoe On Other Foot

De Wind's own line of questioning, however, at times seemed to defend the Long Beach tax cases.

"Did it occur to you as a lawyer that if taxes are in dispute and litigation may be involved, it often takes years to get it settled, particularly if the amounts are large?" demanded De Wind. Oddly enough, this is the same reasoning De Wind has received from alibiing tax officials for holding up cases—when the shoe is on the other foot.

"I understand these taxes are . . . 1942 to 1946. That is a long time," retorted Angell.

"Yes, but didn't you also know that the investigation of this thing had started in late 1946 or early 1947?" hammered De Wind.

"That is why I thought by 1950 they ought to be to the end of it," shot back the San Francisco lawyer.

"Have you had any experience in tax matters involving major tax litigation?" snapped De Wind.

"No," shrugged Angell.

"So that you really had no way of telling whether four years would be a long time or a short time for the development of major tax disputes," pressed De Wind.

"No," Angell again agreed.

"So this was just an off-the-cuff action; a long time had passed, and that was cause for sufficient concern to get some members of Congress interested in this matter. That is what it comes down to," snorted the man who usually takes the opposite side in getting to the bottom of tax delays.

An Interested Party

De Wind fired questions at machine-gun clip, until he became heated. At one point, De Wind blurted angrily: "I think people derive inferences from talking to you that you apparently do not intend, but they derive them quite frequently."

"I don't know what basis you have to make that statement on Mr. De Wind, but for the purposes of the record, I wish to state that I resent the statement," bristled Angell.

"All right, sir," barked De Wind.

"Why didn't you take it up with the chairman of the committee?" snorted De Wind.

"I do not know Mr. King, number one. Number two, I feel that Mr. King has a personal feeling against me," replied Angell.

He told how he had been called to the Justice Department in Washington once, and found King sitting in on a private meeting of attorneys over the Long Beach case.

"When I got there," Angell recalled, "I found that Mr. King was there, as was Mr. Linden, his secretary . . . and I stated by objections to holding a meeting of counsel to discuss settlement, with a congressman present who was interested in forcing or compelling a settlment of that litigation."

The hearing wound up with De Wind apologizing for being so heated.

Two Soldiers In Korea Ask 'Folks' In Midland To Write Them Letters

A couple of soldiers "somewhere in Korea" want to hear from some of the "folks" in Midland.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram last week received this letter:

" I am asking you with all sincerity that you render some way of us getting a letter from the folks back home. We have been over here for more than seven months and received only eight letters. We appreciate it very much if there would be a chance of you placing our names in your news column in order that the folks back home would get a chance to read or glance over our names.

"We'll then feel sure of some mail within the next few weeks. Have them write to this address:

"2nd Signal Co., 2nd Inf. Division. Message Center Section, APO 248, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

"Any consideration will be highly appreciated as you know yourself that a letter is quite a builder of a soldier's morale. Hope to not trouble you much, but we would like to receive some mail. We are yours truly."

The letter was signed by Cpl. C. B. Shepard, US 54032219, and Pvt. William E. Jollimore, RA 11193037.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram likes to keep all its subscribers happy—and some of them do complain occasionally about not getting a paper.

So the paper will do its best to take care of Pfc. Marion D. Bizzell, a Midland boy now in Korea.

He wrote last week:

"Dear Sir. Since I got to a place called Korea, I have not received my paper. I sure miss that good old Midland paper. You may not have the right address. Here it is:

"Pfc. Marion D. Bizzell,
"US 54026948
"S. V. Co., 9th Inf. Regt.
"APO 248, c/o Postmaster,
"San Francisco, Calif."

Chief John F. Sessions, Navy recruiter from San Angelo, will be in Midland Monday and will be stationed in the Post Office basement from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

This will be the last chance for young men, who have already received their pre-induction and physical examinations, to volunteer for the navy.

Pfc. Donald B. Stringer, coach at North Elementary school in Midland last year, is serving with the 7th Military Police Company in Korea.

Major Patrick E. Fletcher has been appointed commanding officer of the 9816 Volunteer Air Reserve Training Squadron in Midland, replacing Maj. Wilbur H. Overstreet, who resigned.

The regular meeting of the squadron will be held Tuesday in the District Court Room in the Midland County Courthouse. Lt. John T. Miller, plans and training officers, will continue the Air Force training course.

WOUNDED—Cpl. Charlie B. Garvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Garvin 1207 South Big Spring, was wounded November 4 in Korea for the second time. He had suffered wounds in October and had just returned to duty when he was hit again.

Restrictions On Japs In Malaya Proposed

SINGAPORE — (AP) — Entry of Japanese into Malaya should be restricted in the opinion of P. F. de Souse, Singapore legislative councilor, just back from Japan. De Souze stated on arrival that the Japanese were anxious to return to Malaya.

The consensus in Malaya is unfavorable to admission of Japanese. But he said their entry could be restricted by new immigration rules. Only essential Japanese institutions such as banks and shipping companies should be allowed re-establishment, while Japanese permitted entry should be key men.
