4 Teachers Hired Faculty Complete

Four teachers were hired Monday night as the board met in final session prior to the beginning of a new school year. Bus bids, milk bids and gas bids were opened and the proposed budget and auditors for the upcoming year discussed, among other items on the agenda.

Mrs. Carol Dean Seaborn was employed as Home Economics teacher, replacing Mrs. Margetta Baumgardner, who resigned because of health. Mrs. Seaborn is a Muleshoe High graduate and just completed her work at Texas Tech, where she had the highest grade average in the homemaking class.

Mrs. Margaret Lacy of Hart was secured as Spanish teacher and part time counselor. She has taught in the Hart school system as high school English, Spanish and Bilingual teacher for several years and has a total of 59 months teaching experience.

Mrs. Jenny Manuel, wife of Larry Manuel, vocational agriculture instructor, was employed as a part time biology teacher. Mrs. Manuel received her B. A. degree from S.M.U. and is a graduate of Throckmorton High.

Vicki Carden of Fort Worth, graduate of Texas Wesleyan was hired to fill the position of choir director, all levels. She replaces Miss Ida May Powers.

In studying the budget, the board noted that there was an approximate $3000 jump, which they felt was very good, considering the teacher pay raises and the inflationary conditions that exist in the nation. They approved the budget as well as approving Merriman and Williams of Muleshoe as auditors for 1971-72 school year.

Opening of bids for used buses, milk and gasoline was the next order of business. Twelve bids were received on the two buses for sale by the school and the high bid offered by Victory Baptist Church of Lubbock was accepted. Bus number one sold for $1659.50 and bus number two for $1562.50.

USDA also requested that ICC extend to March 31, 1972, the eligibility for lower rates to the Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma counties.

Additionally, over 35,000 applications have been accepted for a newly initiated emergency conservation program in the Southwest drought area. The program permits the federal government to pay up to 80 percent of costs for such conservation practices as water development, deep plowing, pipeline installation and water storage facility construction.

The report notes a favorable reaction from livestock men to a recent authorization allowing Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county committees to reimburse approved livestock owners for transporting grains from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks where commercial transportation is not readily available.

In another program change, eligible livestock owners now are authorized to purchase supplies of hay, while available, to meet their needs through April 1, 1972, and to receive transportation assistance for eligible quantities at the time of purchase.

Cloverlake Dairy was the firm selected by the board for supplying milk for the school at 0775 cents for half pints, and Turner Oil Company got the okay for supplying gasoline at 20.7¢ per gallon.

Superintendent Joe Turner proposed a new system of grading to the members of the board, whereby 60-69 would be passing, 70-79 fair, 80-89 good, and 90-100 excellent.

Turner explained to the board that others in our inter-scholastic league district had this grading system and had been using it for a number of years, proving it to be very satisfactory. This would permit athletes to be eligible to participate in sports with a grade of 60-69, rather than the required 70 as it now stands.

Supt. Turner reminded the board that colleges would not accept a student that has graduated with a passing grade of 60, but he felt that students who were capable of making high grades would continue to do so, while those who were not able to reach a passing grade of 70, could reach the 60 mark, causing less to drop out of school.

The board, in the absence of three of the members, asked for more time to think about it and to give the other members an opportunity to vote on it since it would be changing the school policy.

Reporting on the lunchroom, Supt. Turner stated that Margie Slatten had asked that she be allowed to work only part time, training Norma Lively to take her place when she finds it necessary to retire. Board agreed.

Virginia Miller, who has been serving as secretary in elementary school, was given clerical duties in the Title I program. Eighteen years in the system, Mrs. Miller's salary had been paid with local funds, but with the change her salary will be paid in part by the government, saving the school about $550. In view of this savings, Supt. Turner asked that Jean Curtsinger and Mrs. Price also be given a raise, which would not exceed those savings. Mrs. Curtsinger serves as secretary to high school principal and Mrs. Price as Turner's secretary. Board approved raises.

In final action, the board approved the employment of a full time assistant in the tax office. Virginia Moss, tax assessor-collector, is the only employee in the tax office, following the retirement of Elmer Moore and the board felt that a qualified person should be trained in the event that Mrs. Moss had to be off the job for emergencies. The board instructed Turner to secure such help.

Lunchroom Personnel Ready, Lunch Prices Slightly Increased

School bells will ring out for Olton boys and girls Wednesday, Aug. 25 and a complete lunchroom staff will have a tasty meal prepared for a probable 950 persons.

Lunch will be planned around the Type A pattern, which includes meat, fish or meat substitute, vegetables, fruits, bread, butter and milk in proper amounts set by the United States Department of Agriculture, a sponsoring agency.

Mrs. Margie Slatten, lunchroom supervisor, will be working this year on a part time basis and will train Mrs. Norma Lively as supervisor.

"Great effort is made to serve a lunch that is nutritious, attractive and appetizing," Mrs. Slatten says. She adds that hot breads, popular with the students, will be featured often. Desserts, not a requirement to meet the standard, will also be frequently served.

Milk breaks designed for students in grades one through three will again be offered, Mrs. Slatten says. Milk may be purchased at the lunch period for four cents per carton. Chocolate milk will be offered each Thursday noon.

Daily lunch prices are increased over last year's. Grades one through five will pay 40 cents; grades six through twelve, and teachers, 45 cents and visitors, 75 cents.

Five day lunch tickets, grades one through five, are $2.00; 20-day tickets for these grades are $8.00.

Five day lunch tickets for grades six through twelve are $2.25 and 20-day tickets, $9.00.

Mrs. Slatten states that patrons who wish to have drafts drawn for lunch tickets should come by during student registration and make these arrangements.

Cub Scouts May Register Aug. 23-24

Boys who would like to become Cub Scouts may register to do so on the same day they register for school, Monday or Tuesday, Aug. 23-24. Adult leaders will be at school to accept registrations.

To be eligible for Cub Scouting, a boy must be eight years old by September 1. All interested boys are invited to sign up.

Other than Mrs. Slatten and Mrs. Lively, lunchroom personnel includes Mmes. Lanora Dennis, Margaret Gallagher, Florence Frazier, Jewell Huggins, Mabel May, Pauline Jones, Jewell Long, Oleta Priest, Alice Sherry and Winnie Sweatt. J.D. Lively is also a member of the operating staff.

Part time workers include Mmes. Merle Sharrp, Maudie Stephens, Betty Hackler, Lois Hunt and Sandie Kersh.

The lunchroom staff invites all school patrons to come by at any time to visit or have lunch with the students.

City Residents To Face New Trash Regulations

Before December 31, 1971, all residents of Olton will be required to have 30-gallon covered trash cans instead of the 50 gallon barrels now in use by most residents.

City councilmen adopted the policy, in compliance with the law concerning burning trash inside city limits, which will soon be enforced in the smaller communities.

The council also appointed Benny Moore as building inspector, replacing David Maxey, who resigned. Moore is presently serving as electrical inspector for the city, too.

Only other action taken by the council in the short meeting Tuesday night was the approval of contacting a tax attorney about collecting delinquent taxes owed to the city.

A proposed sewer line was discussed which would serve four residents, but the cost of installing such a line would be so expensive for that limited number that the council decided to study the situation further before taking any action.

Drouth Aid Loans Disbursed By Farmers Home Administration

The Farmers Home Administration has disbursed $104 million in loan funds to 9,346 drought-affected farmers and ranchers in Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, according to a report to the President released today in Dallas by the Federal Interagency Drouth Committee.

The report has been sent to President Nixon by George A. Lincoln, chairman of the committee, established at the President's direction to accelerate and coordinate federal assistance to the four dry Southwestern states.

The FHA loans were made in three categories: emergency, operating and farm ownership. Emergency loans are being used to pay for production or living expenses and to replace livestock and equipment needed to restore operations affected by the drouth.

Operating loans are being used by farmers and ranchers to buy livestock, equipment, feed, seed, fertilizer, poultry and supplies for farm and home operations. They also may be used to refinance certain debts or to pay interest on them, pay depreciation on equipment, make minor real estate improvements, improve forest lands, or establish farm-based business enterprises to supplement farm incomes.

Ownership loans are being used to refinance drouth-related debts, buy lands, construct or improve buildings, improve farm land, develop water facilities, and establish farm-based business enterprises to supplement farm incomes.

The report noted that the Small Business Administration has approved its first economic injury loans for businesses in the Southwest area that have suffered losses because of the drouth. Three such loans were approved in Texas for $39,200 and two in Oklahoma for $120,000. Thirteen applications, totaling nearly $700,000, are pending in Texas.

The federal government also has been subsidizing the purchase of feed grains to assist drouth-affected stockmen in the four-state area. Thus far, 13,493 farmers and ranchers in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona have purchased 62,403 tons of the grains at about half the current market price.

In a companion program to the livestock feed grain aid, 67,778 tons of hay were transported by Southwest ranchers with two-thirds of transportation costs -- up to $20 per ton -- paid for by federal funds. To date, 2,363 farmers and ranchers in the four-state area have applied for and received this assistance.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, working with the Drouth Committee, has filed a request with the Interstate Commerce Commission that six additional Texas counties be eligible for lower freight rates on incoming hay. The counties are Bell, Bosque, Collin, Colorado, Freestone and Wise. The provision previously applied to 11 counties in Arizona, 28 in New Mexico, 13 in Oklahoma and 166 in Texas.

USDA also requested that ICC extend to March 31, 1972, the eligibility for lower rates to the Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma counties.

Additionally, over 35,000 applications have been accepted for a newly initiated emergency conservation program in the Southwest drought area. The program permits the federal government to pay up to 80 percent of costs for such conservation practices as water development, deep plowing, pipeline installation and water storage facility construction.

The report notes a favorable reaction from livestock men to a recent authorization allowing Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county committees to reimburse approved livestock owners for transporting grains from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks where commercial transportation is not readily available.

In another program change, eligible livestock owners now are authorized to purchase supplies of hay, while available, to meet their needs through April 1, 1972, and to receive transportation assistance for eligible quantities at the time of purchase.

Motorcycle-Car Collision Kills Former Resident

A motorcycle-automobile collision claimed the life of Jimmie Millsap, 38, of Houston, former resident of Olton Sunday night.

The head-on collision occurred as one car attempted to pass another and collided with Millsap who was traveling the opposite direction. Scene of the accident was on Crosby road to Huffman, just outside Houston. Time was approximately 8:45 p. m.

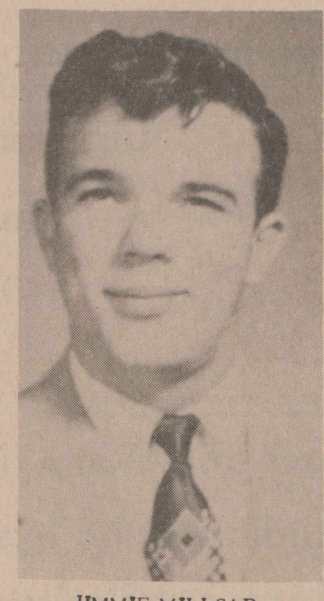

Millsap, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Millsap, born Sept. 11, 1933 was a 1951 graduate of Olton High School, where his father served as high school principal four years. He was a four year letterman on the Mustang football team, served as president of his class three years and attended Victoria Junior College at Victoria upon completion of his high school education at Olton.

A member of the Bloomington Baptist Church, Jimmie served his country as a member of the U. S. Airforce for four years, stationed at Randolph Air Base.

A pipe fitter by trade, Jimmie was a 32nd Degree Mason, a member of Scottish Rite, Victorian Shriners and Arabian Temple of Houston.

Paraphrased 'Living Bible' To Be On Market This Month

"The Living Bible" will be on the market in August. This is a paraphrased version of the Bible, understandable to "ordinary people" and to children. Clergymen, Bible teachers and students have also found helpful the single volumes of portions of the larger work already published.

Kenneth N. Taylor began paraphrasing the Bible rather casually about 14 years ago. Dr. and Mrs. Taylor had family devotions with their children each evening after supper. The children had difficulty understanding the meanings in the King James Version. In preparation for one of these devotional periods, Dr. Taylor paraphrased portions of II Timothy in a simple flowing way. The family could understand the paraphrased account and became excited about it. He continued his work through all the letters of Paul - simplifying the structure shortening the sentences, replacing colons and semi-colons with periods, substituting modern words for many obsolete words used in 1611.

Dr. and Mrs. Taylor have 10 children. The family encouraged him to continue his work. He worked on it each day while commuting on the Chicago & Northwestern line, between his Chicago office and his suburban home in Wheaton. After seven years and seven complete revisions, he had about half of the New Testament completed.

Publishers refused to publish his version of the Scripture. Undaunted, he had it privately printed on credit. From a timid first printing of 2,000 copies in 1962, his orders have grown to the point at which he routinely runs printings of 100,000 copies of various portions of the Bible. The first volume, "Living Letters," was first offered in 1962. This was followed by "Living Prophecies" (1965), "Living Gospels" (1966), "Living Psalms" (1967) "Living Lessons of Life and Love" (1968), and "Living Books of Moses" (1969). These volumes sold at $2.95 to $4.95 each, according to length.

THE LIVING BIBLE, to be available in bookstores in August, is a handsomely bound volume, published jointly by Tyndale House and Doubleday.

Taylor's work is especially appealing to the more conservative Bible student. As a paraphrase of the Scripture, it is interpretative without apology. Doubleday is basing its promotional campaign on the endorsement of Billy Graham. In 1963, the Billy Graham organization used a special edition of the work. This was the impetus needed to popularize Mr. Taylor's paraphrased version of the Scripture. Although conservative Christians have embraced its use, the text is also being widely used among the new wave of "Jesus People". The Hollywood Free Paper, the printed voice of the West Coast, "Jesus Freaks", uses THE LIVING BIBLE when Scripture is quoted in its pages.

Mr. Taylor supplies ample interpretive footnotes. For example, in John 1:1, where Mr. Taylor uses "Christ" instead of "Word", he adds this footnote, "Literally, THE WORD meaning Christ the wisdom and power of God and the first cause of all things; God's personal expression of Himself to men."

This modern paraphrase of the Bible makes use of the idiom of "dollars" instead of traditional "talents". The parable of the man going into the far country and entrusting his servants with varying amounts of money (Matthew 25:14-30) has one servant receive $5,000, another $2,000 and another $1,000.

The 54 year old Wheaton, Illinois, resident used the American Standard Version of 1901 for his paraphrasing. Most scholars recognize the ASV as being responsible to the older known texts.

Mr. Taylor receives no royalties from the sale of the Bible he publishes. Profits go to a foundation which supports translations in 51 languages, from Arabic to Zulu.

Why Get Married?

"Are you on the pill?"
 "Yes."
 "Well, Gary says it makes me look fat. I can't help that. Now he's started sleeping with Barbara. What can I do about it?"

"Do what I did. It works every time. I just told my boyfriend that if he wanted somebody else, go ahead and get her, but I loved him and I wanted to get in on the action, too."

"But I don't want him sleeping with anybody else!"

"That's the point! When he sees how understanding you are, he's going to feel like a fool to let you go. I tell you, it works for me every time."

Problem Widespread

Overlooking for now the individual problems of these two girls, who casually sandwiched this sequence of dialogue between complaints about working hours and hair-styles, let's look at their attitudes in the broader context of an international problem. That conversation, unavoidably overheard in a university library, illustrates some attitudes toward sexual and personal relationships that are, in part, responsible for the growing unpopularity of marriage.

Marriage has become a social failure, and the pill is a primary cause. When religious authorities began losing control over marriage, social ethics saved it, saying, "You must provide for the raising of the children." People still got married for the same reasons they always have, but they stayed married, in many cases, only "for the sake of the children." Then came effective contraceptives, especially the pill, and marriage began suddenly to look old-fashioned.

LUNCH WITH DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Huckabee had lunch Thursday in Plainview with their daughter Mrs. Harold Autry of Clarendon.

SUNDAY GUESTS

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Taylor were their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Taylor, Byron, Doniece and Loren of Earth.

Sex without children means marriage without families, so why bother to get married to have sex?

Although these girls were not married, their conversation also exhibits why so many couples that do choose marriage ultimately get divorced. Marriage is a spiritual failure. Not a religious failure - marriage is a spiritual failure, and the essential cause is deceit.

"Getting married" is not attending a social ceremony, it is a personal commitment to unity.

Ideal Can Be Realized

The essence of a spiritual marriage is a commitment of yourself to one person to become together an inseparable spiritual unity. The Bible describes this as becoming "one flesh" and sexual union is its symbol. In fact, the role of sex in the spiritual unity of marriage is so important that the Bible not only forbids sex without marriage, but warns against marriage without sex.

A girl once argued to me that the best spiritual marriage would not need artificial civil legalities to hold it together, so one should refuse to "get married." At the time I had no answer but now, having been married for three years, I know how difficult it is for the most conscientious of couples to achieve really workable marital unity. The marriage ceremony provides a solid public and personal commitment for the times when the attempt seems impossible and you are tempted to give up.

And if that marriage includes a sincere and continual commitment and appeal to God, the ideal of spiritual unity can become a practical reality.

The bridal bouquet, white carnations encircled with pink rosebuds, was carried atop a white Bible.

For "something old" the bride carried in her shoe an Indian head penny minted in the year 1875, property of Mrs. Aubrey Myers, sister of the groom, having been given to her by her great-grandmother, Mrs. Duck Rainey. "Something new", was symbolized by her shoes and wedding ring. She wore the traditional blue garter.

Cook Of The Week

Busy people find time to do the things they enjoy and our Cook of the Week, Mrs. Elza Miller, is certainly no exception to the rule.

A native of Childress, Sandi met Elza at a Greenbelt Bowl football game which Elza had been coaxed into attending by his parents and sister, Terri. The young Millers returned to the farm this year. They had farmed following their marriage until Elza entered the service about a year and a half later.

Lively little three and a half year old Stephanie was born while her father was in Vietnam. She was four months old when she and Sandi joined Elza on R & R leave in Hawaii.

Sandi finds from the busy schedule of a farmer's wife and young mother to do oil painting and decoupage. She created a special birthday present for Elza, mounting color candid of Stephanie and her dad on a series of thin, polished cuts of a small log.

In addition to her talent in art, Sandi loves to play the piano. She is also trying to teach herself to play the guitar. At present, she is working on a daisy afghan.

Active members of Hope-well Baptist Church, Sandi works with the Sunbeams - a very busy task of leading young-sters two to nine years of age.

Before moving back in January, the Millers lived in Amarillo and Sandi worked last year at one of the radio stations. Serving as receptionist, secretary and general office em- ployee, she helped with commercials and with surveys and contests the station sponsored. She found her work fascinating and describes it as "not a job - but fun".

The recipes Sandi shares are some of their favorites. Elza considers the Snow Bis-cuits "very special".

'Insurance is going up?'

Yes, increased losses force insurance premiums higher. One way to keep them down is to accept a 'deductible clause', as the cost of handling small claims is a big insurance expense. Also, a 'padded' or false claim has the effect of forcing everyone's insurance costs up - such abuses of insurance should be discouraged.

WHY GROWERS NEED BETTER COTTON YIELDS IN 1971...

Bolster net income, increase payment yield, and preserve markets

- * Demand for cotton is strong—domestic and foreign.
- * Failure to meet demand could jeopardize markets and the farmer's investment in land, equipment, and other production resources.
- * Higher yields spread overhead cost and reduce cost per pound.
- * Cutting harvesting losses can mean up to 10 per cent more cotton, or $15 more per acre.
- * Better yields in 1971 can increase cotton farmers' yield for payment purposes in 1972 and 1973.
- * If sufficient cotton can be made available to meet demand, the way would be open to greater markets in the future.
- * Mill use of cotton depends heavily on its availability and price stability.
- * Strong demand for cotton corduroys, print cloths, denims, and knits has led some mills to shift to all-cotton. Prospects of a low carryover and uncertainty about supply and price could quickly drive these customers back to blends.
- * When the supply of cotton falls short, prices become non-competitive and mills turn to other fibers.

For greater profits and markets, harvest all you grow.

Southwestern Public Service Celebrates 'Golden Year'

How does a company decide when it is going to celebrate its 50th anniversary year?

In the case of Southwestern Public Service Company, the decision was made late last year by the simple expedient of impressing the corporate seal on a piece of plain white paper.

When the resulting impression read, "Incorporated, 1921", 1971 became the electric company's golden anniversary year.

Up until that decision making moment, five different years could make some kind of a case for being the birth year, with one of them going all the way back to 1894. The others were 1904, 1925 and 1942, and the winner, 1921.

1921 won the battle because, in addition to being the year that came up on the seal, it was also the year of organization of the company which, four years later, took on the name of Southwestern Public Service Company.

The 1921 company which became today's Southwestern, was the Roswell Public Service Company. Among its incorporators was Hi Dow, well-known New Mexico pioneer and a director and general counsel for Southwestern Public Service Company until his death in 1969.

The name change to Southwestern Public Service Company came in 1925, which was also the year that expansion began with the purchase of electric systems in Artesia and Carlsbad.

1925 was also the year the company first began operations in Texas, with the purchase of the electric systems in Amarillo, Pampa and Panhandle. The 1920's are the most interesting years in the electrical development of this region.

The region was then, basically, a cluster of small towns, each of which had its own inadequate, and usually antiquated, electric supply. There were few, if any interconnections, with other communities or electric systems. Most of the towns were only large enough to be served by a single circuit, and if something happened the whole town was out of power until it was repaired.

This was an era which also brought some communities electric service for the first time. In late 1926, for example, Southwestern built a transmission line from Amarillo to Pampa and brought electric service to White Deer, for the first time - on Christmas Eve.

There was still considerable fragmentation insofar as electric service was concerned and parts of seven companies, each of them a subsidiary of at least one holding company - were serving throughout the area.

It was apparent, then, that the electric service needs of the area could be met even more efficiently and economically if it were served by a single, independent, operating company, devoid of holding company ties, locally managed and immediately responsive to area needs.

In short, the region, which had fairly common agricultural and business bonds, lent itself to integration, in the electrical sense of that word.

The Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and co-operation between government and business made this integration possible.

The holding company subsidiaries which had been serving the region were merged into a single entity, Southwestern Public Service Company, an independent, integrated operating company. It was the first such company, incidentally, to result from the application of the Holding Company Act.

Thus it was, as the area embarked on the most rapid period of its growth - immediately following World War II, it was served by a single electric supplier prepared to meet the electric service needs that growth brought on.

Southwestern serves a 45,000 square mile area which starts in the southwest corner of Kansas, crosses the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles, moves down onto the South Plains of the Lone Star state and then moves westward to include the Pecos Valley and Clovis-Portales regions of New Mexico.

There haven't been any power shortages in this area in the past and the folks at Southwestern don't envision any in the future. To make their visions become reality, the company is adding to its investment at an average annual rate of $20 million. The total investment will pass the 500-million dollar mark in the early 70's. Incidentally, it was 39-million dollars, the total investment, that is, when the company took its present form in 1942.

The ecological and environmental problems that have haunted some utilities have not yet interfered with Southwestern's progress, and, assuming a reasonable approach to the environment and ecology, they shouldn't in the future, either.

Insofar as air pollution is concerned, sulfur dioxide, in particular, the least efficient plant on Southwestern's system is discharging into the atmosphere only one-tenth of the sulfur dioxide that is accepted as o. k.

Southwestern doesn't make much of a contribution to thermal pollution of water, either, inasmuch as it uses cooling towers rather than discharging hot water into rivers or streams. There's one exception to that broad statement at the Carlsbad, N. M., power plant where the condensing water is discharged into the Pecos River, but the temperature increase is within the limits of the state law. The Carlsbad residents who use the beach or fish close to the plant location seem to feel that the warmer water improves rather than hurts their recreational activities.

At the other plants, with their cooling towers, the discharge that you see in the air on a cold day is nothing more than water vapor, and isn't polluting the air one bit.

Actually, with a tongue-in-cheek approach, you could say that the air which flows over the cooling towers is better because it gets a little moisture added and also gets washed. But, it's not really a large percentage of the atmosphere in the region.

Southwestern is working to retain the fresh water resources of the region, and at two of its power plants, Nichols Station, near Amarillo, and Jones Station, Southeast of Lubbock, uses reclaimed sewage effluent as cooling water. This conservation practice saves 6,000,000 gallons of fresh water a day and that's enough to meet the needs of a city in the 20,000 range population bracket.

The oceans of the world will provide the fuel source for electric generation in the future, if research in which Southwestern is participating comes to fruition.

This would be thermonuclear fusion, the fusion of light atoms into heavier elements, and a child's pail of seawater would provide enough fuel to generate the electricity for the average home for a year.

There is, incidentally, more energy available from the hydrogen atoms in 7 1/2 square miles of seawater than from all of the fossil fuel reserves in the world, and that, in itself, makes the research exciting.

But the excitement of thermonuclear research goes far beyond its potential as a source of electric power.

The fusion process for making electricity will require ionized gases at temperatures of millions of degrees. These ionized gases - they're known as plasma - may be used as a fusion torch to vaporize waste materials of all kinds, turning them into electrified particles of their constituent elements, and making possible the recovery of basic raw materials for recycle into new products.

In other words, instead of letting our waste materials rust or rot away, we'll reclaim them. What's more, we'll separate the elements. Figuratively speaking, we'll put all the iron in one little neat pile - all the aluminum in another - and so on and so on. We may even be able to make new combinations with the protons and neutrons and electrons and make the old alchemist's dream come true and turn a base metal into gold.

Meanwhile, getting back down to earth and the electric power business - for today and tomorrow. The crystal ball gazers are saying that the American people are going to demand as much electric energy in the next ten years as they have used in the last 90. That would be 18-trillion kilowatt-hours, and it looks like this when you put all the zeros on it - 18,000,000,000,000.

Southwestern's share of that load is still an unknown quantity but on their record in the past, we can be confident they'll meet it - with power in reserve.
