Shrimpers get support from city council

By PAT BLAIR
Staffwriter

A resolution supporting proposed state legislation that would exempt commercial fishing boats and equipment from ad valorem taxation on a local option basis received 4-0 approval from Rockport's city council during its meeting Monday night, Feb. 28.

The resolution was placed on the agenda at the request of local commercial fishermen who are seeking abolition of ad valorem taxes on their boats and fishing equipment on the basis that they are "sea farmers" and should be taxed on the same basis as land farmers.

Rockport shrimper J.C. Harlan, present during Monday's council session, told city officials commercial fishermen are proposing that a productivity tax be substituted for the ad valorem tax on their equipment. A productivity tax would be assessed against the commercial fishermen's catch.

Two bills are currently pending in the Texas Senate, one introduced by John Sharp, whose 18th Senatorial District now includes Aransas County, and the other by James E. (Buster) Brown whose district included Aransas County until the redistricting that followed the 1980 Census.

Both bills, according to Rockport Alderman Richard Beck, would exempt commercial fishing vessels and equipment from ad valorem taxation on a local option basis. In response to a question from Alderman Murray McMillan, "What does 'local option' mean?", Beck replied, "I would assume it means an (local) election."

Legislative action on either bill has currently come to a halt after Attorney General Jim Mattox was asked to give an opinion on whether a tax exemption can be granted as a simple bill or if the Texas Constitution will have to be amended.

If a simple bill will be sufficient, Sharp's bill will be presented for consideration. If a constitutional amendment is required, Brown's bill will be presented.

Beck said he believes both bills would replace the ad valorem tax with a tax on productivity.

Rockport resident Ralph Winkelman asked, "Who will tell you what the productivity is?" to which Beck replied, "I [See Tax, page 12]

STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT crews cut a new roadway through the traffic island at the Broadway-Hwy. 35 intersection near downtown Rockport, part of a project aimed at improving traffic flow through the intersection while making the area safer. The project includes realignment of the streets, installation of additional stop signs and widening of Liberty (Hwy. 35) from one lane to two at the intersection. The city council authorized the work, being done by the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation, about a year ago but the project was delayed until recently.

City water rates increase

A 10-cent per 1,000 gallon increase in city water rates went into effect Tuesday, March 1, as a result of action by Rockport's city council Monday night, Feb. 28.

The rate hike — necessitated by an increase in the rates charged Rockport by the San Patricio Municipal Water District — came during the council's regular meeting which also saw two annexation hearings set for Monday, Feb. 14, and establishment of a new meeting night for the council following the April 2 city elections.

The city council called for an increase in water rates after being informed by the San Patricio district that the cost of water being sold to the city would be raised by eight cents per 1,000 gallons as of Tuesday.

Rockport Mayor Burt Mills noted that in 1981, the San Patricio district raised its rates by three cents per 1,000 gallons and the city absorbed that increase, rather than passing it on to Rockport customers, "but this (the eight-cent hike) is something we can't absorb," he said.

The council voted to pass on a 10-cent rate increase to Rockport customers to offset the costs of water that is lost to the city. Mills noted that the total increase of the San Patricio district to the city, counting the 1981 rate hike, amounts to 11 cents per 1,000 gallons so the city is still absorbing one cent per each 1,000 gallons.

Officials also noted the increase will not apply to the fee applied to the first 3,000 gallons used by city water customers but will apply only to water usage over the minimum amount.

The council scheduled the first annexation hearing for 7:15 p.m. March 14 on a request by the Retirement Corp. of America for annexation of 3.573 acres of land at the site of proposed Oak Villas Retirement Community.

Total site of the community is some 10.95 acres adjacent to Enterprise Clinic on Enterprise Street but approximately 7.38 acres of that is currently in the city. Purpose of the annexation request is to bring the entire tract inside Rockport city limits.

Already set for March 14, at 2 p.m., is the second public hearing on a request for annexation of the Harbor Oaks Shopping Village site — approximately 8.5 acres — and Hwy. 35 from the north boundary of Traylor to the north boundary of Henderson Street. The first annexation hearing was held at 7:15 p.m. Monday; two residents from Harbor Oaks Subdivision were present but no comments for or against the proposed annexation were

Country club asks Krueger to resign

Carl Krueger has been asked to resign as president and board of directors member from Rockport Country Club Estates because of "irregularities" in his handling of country club business, according to Gene Rogan, founder of the development.

As of Monday afternoon, Rogan said Krueger's resignation had not been submitted to the directors. Krueger could not be reached Monday for his comments on the matter.

Rogan said a group of stockholders headed by Richard H. Vollick of Rockport have requested Krueger's resignation in a letter written by Vollick.

The letter suggests "many improprieties," Rogan said, but proposes that if certain conditions are met and Krueger resigns immediately as president and director of Rockport Country Club Inc., the matter will be dropped.

Rogan said he understood Krueger has agreed to resign but as of Monday, no official word had been received.

Earlier this month, Krueger resigned from the board of directors of Allied Live Oak Bank, citing personal reasons for that decision.

In the past two or three months, Rogan said three other directors of Rockport Country Club Inc. have resigned but that these were unrelated to the current action involving Krueger.

Rogan said Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline, who suffered a heart attack last December, resigned citing health reasons. Also resigning earlier was George Taggart III who, according to Rogan, felt that his ownership of some property on which there were drainage problems might raise a conflict of interest question.

The third resignation in recent months was that of John Pittman who left the board in preparation for a move to Dallas.

Service pins awarded to Rockport volunteer firemen

Pins for service ranging from five to 25 years were awarded to 11 Rockport volunteer firemen during the department's annual dance and awards night Saturday, Feb. 26.

Coy Truelove received a pin for 25 years of service to the department. He joined the Rockport VFD in September, 1957.

A 20-year pin was awarded to Johnny Ray who will actually observe his 21st year with the Rockport department this month.

Ten-year pins were presented to Howard Black, a member of the department since Nov. 11, 1971; Ricky McLester, a fireman since Sept. 7, 1972; Tom McNutt, who joined Jan. 18, 1973; and Elmer Redden who observes his 11th year with the department on March 2.

Five-year pins were presented to Willard Cox, Dean Smith, Allen McLester, Grady McNutt and Buddy St. John.

'This man's life was saved'...

Telemetry equipment now in service at Enterprise Clinic

"Unit 65, we have a good copy on the telemetry. We are seeing a sinus rhythm with multi-focal PVCs and a depressed S-T segment. Do you concur?"

"Ten-four, Enterprise. We do see the same."

"Okay, 65. Start an IV of D5W TKO and administer 100 milligrams of lidocaine. Have you started oxygen on the patient?"

"That's affirmative, Enterprise, at 10 liters per minute."

"Okay, that's good. Are there any — 65, check your monitor. Are you seeing —"

"We see it, Enterprise."

"Sixty-five, the patient is now in ventricular fibrillation. Do you have a pulse?"

"Negative on the pulse. Patient in arrest."

The physician at Rockport's Enterprise Clinic, miles away from the suspected heart patient but monitoring his vital signs through use of the telemetry equipment recently installed at Enterprise, gives swift instructions to the paramedics working on the man: defibrillate, administer bicarb, continue the lidocaine drip...

"This man's life was saved," says Bill Aston, paramedic director of Aransas County's Emergency Medical Services (EMS), and he and Rockport physician Dr. Fred Warren both give a large share of the credit to the new telemetry equipment.

"Telemetry has proved its worth," says Dr. Warren.

Officially called a bio-medical telemetry system, the unit is similar to the telemetry used in the U.S. Space program to monitor the astronauts' heart rhythms during flight. During an emergency medical situation, a portable radio carried by the paramedic is attached to the patient.

The portable unit transmits a signal to a "repeater radio" mounted in the Aransas County modulates and this signal is transmitted on to a unit at the "base station" — a hospital or medical center.

Here, a physician receives the patient's electrocardiogram (EKG) exactly as the paramedics — who may be miles away, with the patient — see it on their units. Not only is the EKG carried by this radio signal; so are the paramedics' and doctors' voices, enabling the physician to give instructions, ask any questions he might have and answer any questions from the paramedic.

The telemetry system was purchased two years ago with a combination of local and government funds used for advanced life support systems, Aston said, and the equipment has been installed for some time in the county's modulates.

Until recently however, Enterprise Clinic has no telemetry equipment although

Allena Jones speaks to ACTA members

Aransas County Tax Assessor/Collector Allena Jones addressed the Tuesday, Feb. 22, meeting of the Aransas County Taxpayers Association. Jones outlined the duties and responsibilities in her office and fielded questions from ACTA members following her presentation.

Jones said that her biggest chore is the collection of both current and delinquent taxes, but that her office also handles auto licenses and transfers of title, liquor licenses, occupation taxes, tax certificates, weekly auto registration reports, bi-monthly auto title reports and monthly tax reports.

In addition, the tax assessor/collector's office has experienced a tremendous increase in workload in recent years. In 1977-78 the office issued 1,380 automobile titles and handled $199,969 in car registration fees. During 1980-81, those figures had jumped to 3,012 titles and $265,891 in registration fees. Of this revenue, the county receives the first $50,000 and then a certain amount per each mile of county-maintained roads.

Jones said that the county maintains good records and has abstracts from the 1800s until 1974, when the office switched to geographic descriptions. Appraisal cards, which list such items as ownership, transfer of title, property description, size, price, square footage, any building drawings and value, are now kept at the central appraisal office. Jones said the county tax assessor/collector's office would like to have duplicates of these cards so that they may also maintain records.

The office collects taxes for all county entities except the City of Rockport, the Aransas County Municipal Utilities District and the Aransas County Independent School District, which collect their own taxes.

ACTA President Willis Pfeifer announced the appointment of three new members to the organization's board of directors. Pfeifer said several directors and Vice President George Deyo had been asked to step down since they don't attend meetings. The organization's executive committee nominated Robert Stranahan to serve as vice president, but he declined. Gilbert Whitcomb, Blas Ramirez, Dale Rolland and Harold Pinchin were all nominated to serve as directors, and all accepted except Rolland, who declined. A vice president and one additional director must still be named.

ACTA member Frank Riordan updated members on developments in the association's formal protest to the Army Corps of Engineers concerning the placement of posts and a walkway between land off Live Oak Point and a shell bar in the water off the point. Riordan said that H.E. Butt Inc., owner of the land, received a permit for a walkway on Feb. 7, but have not yet received a permit for the posts. He added that a Corps of Engineers spokesman said they would only take action if the posts were an area navigation hazard. The Corps further told Riordan that ACTA will receive notice of H.E. Butt Inc.'s request for permits for the posts and may file a formal protest at that time.

Pfeifer notified the membership that the directors will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 10, and will discuss the subject of industrial revenue bonds. The Palm Harbor Homeowners Association will attend the meeting and interested ACTA members are also welcome.

Candidates running for seats on the ACISD board of trustees, the Rockport City Council and the Fulton Town Council will be invited to address next month's meeting, Pfeifer said.

Several members reported on the meetings of various city and county entities. Pfeifer read a letter which he sent to Senators Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower as well as Congressman Bill Patman in which ACTA goes on record opposing the new federal interest withholding law. Pfeifer also told members that ACTA has been declared exempt from the state corporation franchise tax.

Light scanning aids in breast cancer detection

Transillumination light scanning, a new technique which permits doctors to view the inside of the human breast in a way never before possible, has an important role to play in detecting breast cancer and other breast diseases.

Reporting on a preliminary study of more than 500 patients at the Ochsner Medical Institutions, New Orleans, the light scanner edged out the mammogram in detecting cancer, says Dr. Christopher R.B. Merritt, head of the radiology department there.

In a paper presented last month at the 68th Scientific Assembly and Annual Meeting of the Radiological Society of North America in Chicago, Ill., Merritt stressed the fact that his was "a preliminary study and that definitive assessment of the two diagnostic tools requires more data."

Of the more than 500 patients examined at Ochsner, 104 patients underwent biopsy. Of the 104, cancer was found in 23 patients. The results of mammography, a technique which involves the use of x-ray, and the light scanner were similar, he explains. "Mammography detected all but five of the cancers and the light scanner detected all but four of them. By using both techniques we were able to find all the cancers, he points out.

A third investigative tool used was ultrasound which was "found to be not as valuable in detecting cancer, but more helpful in identifying benign breast masses or cysts," Merritt states.

All three techniques are used at the Ochsner Clinic's Breast Screening Center established last May.

Transillumination light scanning of the breast involves examination by shining a specially filtered light source through the breast. This light source is capable of illuminating the breast tissue, as well as the blood vessels and blood supply. The picture of the inside of the breast shows up clearly during the examination on a television system specially adapted for this purpose.

"With the light scanner, we have been able to identify cancers as small as five millimeters or one-fourth inch in size. It is especially helpful in women whose mammogram has failed to show the tumor or in instances where the breast tissue is, for various reasons, difficult to study with mammography," Merritt says.

"We do not feel in any way that our results warrant any departure from the current use of mammography. Combined with mammography, light scanning may improve our ability to detect breast cancer. Efforts are currently underway to see if in certain groups of patients, the light scanner can be an effective alternative to mammography," he points out.

Pet talks

By Dr. Hap Lutz

Most of us know that cats with white fur and blue eyes are usually deaf. But what about a white cat with one blue eye and one yellow eye?

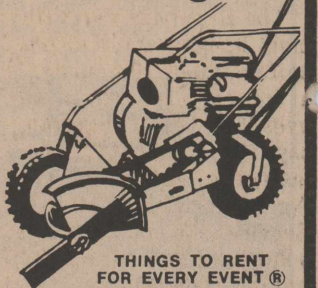

If you have guessed it is deaf in one ear, you're correct. This is a hereditary affliction referred to as Waardenburg's Syndrome. This genetic anomaly causes lack of development in the inner ear — and consequent deafness. It affects mature cats. A lot of kittens are blue-eyed, but the pigmentation changes as they mature. Cats with long hair are more likely to be deaf in both ears. Cats with short hair are usually deaf in only one ear.

Not all white cats are deaf, only 20 percent. If both parents are deaf, the chances are that about 80 percent of their kittens will be deaf, also.

If you have any questions concerning the health and care of your pets, send them in to the Pilot, 1002 Wharf St., Rockport, TX 78382, and Dr. Lutz will answer them in the weekend edition.

Jazz band, choir perform at CCSU

CORPUS CHRISTI — The Texas Southmost College Jazz Band and Concert Choir will present a music program at 10 a.m. Friday, March 4, in the Center for the Arts Warren Theatre on the Corpus Christi State University campus. The program is free and open to the public.

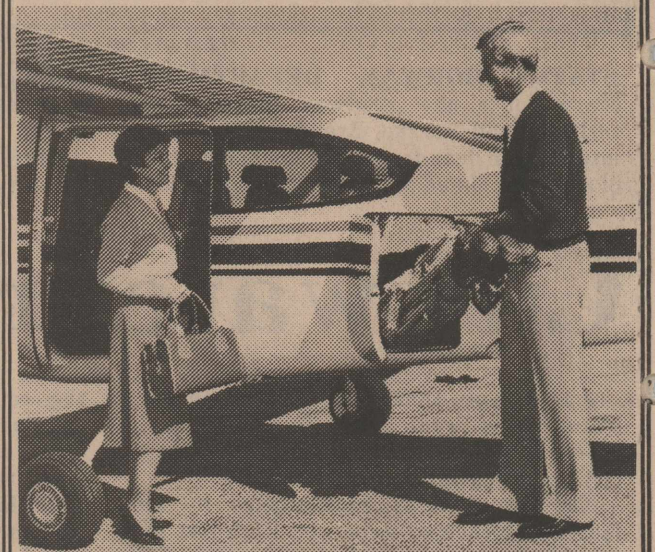

Approximately 40 students from Texas Southmost will participate in the program. Director of the jazz band is Terry Tomlin, and Director of the choir is Tony Briseno.

The jazz band's performance will include "Sweet Georgia Brown," "Mother Fingers," "Go With the Wind" and "Blues for Waldo."

The choir performance will include "Morning Has Broken," "Now is the Month of Maying" and "Gloria, In Excelsis Deo."

The program is scheduled as part of this year's Spring Arts Festival, March 2-10. The festival is sponsored by the College of Arts and Humanities.

Pirates end another year

While the Flour Bluff Hornets and the Tulo-so-Midway Warriors continue their basketball seasons, the Pirates of Rockport-Fulton have dropped the curtain on another year.

The Varsity Pirates went 9-19, led by sharp-shooter Tim Redden who scored a total of 483 points, good for an average of 17.3 per game. Following not too far behind was senior Aaron Commander who hit for 338 points during the season with a 12.1 average. Redden hit double figures in all but two games this season. Commander found the mark for 10 or more points on 20 occasions.

At the season's end, the varsity of 1982-83 had the following members in addition to Redden and Commander: Jay Turner, Jay Roberts, Rudy Soliz, Louis Solis, Tony Covarrubias, John Longino, Bill Mott and Bobby Dingenary.

The JV Pirates had a good year with a 12-8 record, and the record might have been better if three sophomores had not had to put in some time on the varsity. Steve Odom was the leading scorer for the JV averaging about 10 points a game. Randy Foote joined the team for the last 12 games and has a fine average of 13 points per game. Mott finished the season with the varsity, and before making the move had averaged 22.5 per game.

The Freshmen Pirates struggled uphill all season and then won enough games in the second half of the season to have a winning record of 11 wins and 10 losses. This record does not indicate how well the freshmen played as they went 8-4 in district to gain second place. Jesse Avila was top scorer for the freshmen with 176 points in 19 games played for an average of 9.3 per game. Jerry Longino was second in scoring with 141 points and Mark Garcia followed right behind with 138 points.

How big is a trophy bass?

The first bass caught by most people, whether one-half pound or 10 pounds, is a trophy. "It's all in the eyes of the fisherman," says Don Steinbach, fisheries specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. As in all sports, someone must be tops and anglers continually strive to be the one who catches the most fish or the biggest fish.

Several factors, including age, breeding genetics and available food affect the size of largemouth bass, Steinbach says. The concept of "put the small ones back" and they grow to be big ones does not always work. Neither does throwing the big ones back. The answer seems to be a slot limit where all the fish 12 to 18 inches in length are returned when caught. This allows these fish to grow older and larger in size. Part of the anglers quota should be taken from fish less than 12 inches. This provides more food for the potential trophy fish. Care should be taken with fish being returned to the water. Grasp the fish by the lower lip, remove the hook and immediately release.

Food is one of the most critical factors for a bass to grow. Bluegill, threadfin shad and other forage fish must be present in sufficient numbers and the right sizes to make the bass grow. This can be accomplished in private lakes and ponds by stocking the forage fish, but is usually not successful in public waters. Bass will also be heavier at certain times of the year due to egg buildup before the spawn.

Bass genetics has received much attention during the past few years. With the right food and age, bass easily grow to 8-10 pounds. If bigger bass are desired, Steinbach says the answer is probably the Northern and Florida cross — "Super bass." Recent preliminary results seem to indicate that the Northern male crossed with the Florida female has the best potential for producing the largest fish with the F1 hybrid.

Genetics can produce bigger fish, but food and age remain important factors, Steinbach concludes.

Popularity of crappie is widespread among all

The popularity of the crappie is widespread among people of all ages. One reason for the high popularity is the simplicity of equipment needed to catch this fish, says Billy Higginbotham, fisheries specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. More crappie fall victim to the cane pole and minnow than to all other angling methods combined. The schooling tendency of crappie provides the angler with almost non-stop action once a school is located. Many Texans proclaim that no other fish comes close to the crappie in eating quality.

Whether this panfish is called calico bass, white perch or sac-a-lait, the crappie is a member of the sunfish family and a first cousin to the largemouth bass and bluegill.

Two distinct species of crappie exist, and both the black and white are found in Texas. Their common names, indicating color, are not always a good key to distinguish between the species. This is especially true during the spawning season when males of both species become darker in color, Higginbotham says. For positive identification, count the hard spines on the dorsal fin. Black crappie have seven or eight dorsal spines while the white crappie have six spines.

Black crappie prefer the clear, slightly acidic waters found in many East Texas lakes. However, the range of this species has been expanded to the west and south. The white crappie originally ranged in the central and western portions of the state, but widespread stocking programs have resulted in large populations in the eastern portions of Texas as well.

Black crappie spawn slightly before white crappie in the spring. When water temperatures warm to about 60 degrees, the black crappie begins spawning activities. White crappie do not begin spawning until water temperatures reach 65 to 70 degrees. Although natural hybridization between the species has been documented, the difference in peak spawning periods probably serves to reduce the incidence of hybridization.

When the water temperatures warm in the spring, the spawning migration toward shallow water begins. Both species build nests in water from one to eight feet deep, usually in gravel or on hard bottom. If these types of bottoms are not readily available, tree roots and submerged vegetation may serve as spawning sites.

Fry normally hatch in about five days and after the yolk sac is absorbed, feed actively on microscopic animals called zooplankton. As growth continues, insects and small fish make up the bulk of the diet. During the summer, fall and winter months, crappie tend to school in the deeper, more open areas of lakes.

Growth rates of crappie vary due to water conditions and available food, but generally lengths of three to five inches are normal at one year of age and seven to eight inches the second year. The normal life expectancy for crappie is about six years, but individuals eight years old have been reported.

The best time to fish for crappie is during the spawning season. A feathered jig, tiny spinner or a well-placed minnow hooked lightly through the back are all successful angling methods in the spring.

During other times of the year, look for crappie concentrated and suspended over deep water structures. A depth finder can become a real asset in locating crappie under these conditions. If a depth finder is not available, drift fishing will often assist in finding schools of crappie.

Some anglers prefer to make the crappie come to them. They anchor cedar and willow tops in deep water to attract the crappie. By moving from one brush pile to the next, good catches are often possible, even during the dog days of summer.

Once the crappie are located, spinners, jigs and minnows fished in the day or by lantern at night are proven fishing methods. The current state record for white crappie is 4 pounds, 9 ounces. The category for black crappie is open, with a four-pounder or larger needed for entry.

Large female crappie of both species have been known to contain 100,000 or more eggs prior to spawning. Due to the prolific spawning ability of the crappie, stocking into small bodies of water is not recommended, Higginbotham says. In most situations, small ponds do not provide enough food for the abundant young crappie, thus stunting usually occurs and few young ever reach a desirable size.

Crappie fishing season is upon us. Plan to make a trip for these popular species and you may become hooked into proclaiming crappie as king of the freshwater fish.

Rockettes defeat Unicorns

Rockport's Rockettes squeaked past the Port Aransas Unicorns in a 2-1 victory in women's soccer league play Sunday afternoon, Feb. 27, in Portland.

The ladies from Rockport, arriving in Portland with a full complement of 18 players, got on the scoreboard with 1 point in the first half of the game when Irene Anderson made a penalty shot, according to Rockettes Coach Terry Cody.

But the match was fairly even through the first half.

Cody said. Although the Unicorns didn't get on the board, they kept the Rockettes from scoring again.

In the second half of play, Cody said, the Rockettes "started moving" — but it was the Unicorns who made the next point in the game. That got the Rockettes moving, though. "They toughened up after that," Cody said, and came back with Sandy True putting in the shot that gave the Rockettes the game.

Sunday's win was the second straight victory for the Rockettes, giving them a 2-0 record in the soccer league's infant spring season. "We feel like we're doing pretty good," was the comment of Team Captain Pam Roe.

The Rockettes, sponsored by Jimmy Woods Produce of Fulton, won't be playing this coming Sunday, March 6, but on March 13, they'll go against the Corpus Christi Seasideers on Shannon Field in Corpus Christi.

One Of Our Biggest Assets...

In Rockport are many energy related industries...ship yards, drilling rig builders, mud companies, pipe laying contractors, crew boat operators, aviation companies, supply houses, machine shops, welding contractors, painting contractors, towing companies, engine overhaul shops, oil field trucking operations, pipe yards and many more...all working together to produce more and more energy to help supply our nations ever increasing needs. Rockport and First National Bank are proud to have these companies as neighbors.

One of our biggest assets at First National Bank is our ability to grow with our local industry.

Karate trophies won

The first Annual Battle of the Alamo, U.M.A. Karate Tournament was held in San Antonio recently and two area boys, Roland and Jesse Rios III brought home third place trophies from the event.

The two boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Rios Jr. of Rockport.

Ernest Rios is the coach for the two karate students.

Bluebonnet trail is scheduled

The 22nd annual Highland Lakes Bluebonnet Trail is set for April 9-10 and April 16-17. The trail winds its way through the Hill Country communities of Marble Falls, Kingsland, Llano, Buchanan Dam, Burnet and Lampasas, where the bluebonnets are sure to be in full bloom. The map of the trail is provided by the Highland Lakes Tourist Association so the lover of bluebonnets will know where the best areas are for viewing. In each of the bluebonnet trail communities, a special local arts and crafts fair has been prepared as an added attraction to the natural beauty of the Texas State Flower.

A special bluebonnet trail bus tour has been planned for those who prefer to travel with a group. These tours will leave the Austin Chamber of Commerce at 9 a.m. each morning of the trail, April 9, 10, 16 & 17, and return at 5 p.m. The bus tour will include the best of the bluebonnet fields, stops for photos, stops at several arts and crafts fairs, and a luncheon.

For a free map and brochure of the bluebonnet trail, or for more information on the bus tour, write the highland lakes tourist association at: Bluebonnet Trail, P.O. Box 1967, Austin, Texas 78767.

Texas' first oil discovery recognized

In 1866, 28 years before the oil boom at Corsicana and 35 years before the spectacular oil gusher at Spindletop, Lyne Taliaferro "Tol" Barret brought in Texas' first oil well about 12 miles southeast of Nacogdoches.

Tol Barret tried to drill a well at the same site in early 1859, which would have been the first oil well in the U.S. (the first came in August 1859 in Pennsylvania), but lack of machinery and the start of the Civil War halted his plans.

When he bored the well in 1866, Barret used an eight-foot auger that was eight inches in diameter and steam driven. A mule with a rope tied to his harness was used to pull the auger to the surface. When the auger reached 106 feet, gas, water and oil came to the surface. Texas' first well produced about 10 barrels of oil a day.

Immediately Barret left for Pennsylvania to seek financial backing for his venture. Brown Brothers of Titusville sent a representative with $5,000 worth of machinery to develop the oil; however, on the day the machinery arrived, word came from the company to shut down the operation — unsettled conditions under reconstruction and low prices for oil prompted the decision.

Barret could not secure further backing, he had used a large portion of his wife's land as collateral for loans, and he gave up the venture. He spent the remainder of his life in the mercantile business and managing his wife's farm. In 1889 he saw successful drilling begin near the site of his well and then cease after a few years. He lived to see the oil booms at Corsicana and Spindletop, and died in 1913 with the sure knowledge that Texas had great oil resources as he had always claimed.

The Texas Historical Commission has placed an Official Texas Historical Marker commemorating Texas' first oil well on Farm Road 226 about 12 miles southeast of Nacogdoches.

Adults should beware of hypothermia

COLLEGE STATION — Older adults, beware of hypothermia — it doesn't have to be freezing for the disorder to occur.

Hypothermia occurs when the body cannot produce enough body heat and body temperature drops lower than it should, says Judith L. Warren, a family life education specialist in aging.

Persons with impaired circulation, specific diseases of veins and arteries, hypothyroidism or those taking phenothiazines (used to treat anxiety, depression and nausea) should be particularly cautious, the specialist warns.

Temperatures can be as high as 60-65° F. for hypothermia to occur and anyone can be affected, she continues. Warren is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

If a family member possibly has stayed too long in the cold and has become sick, look for the following signs:

- Skin is pale and waxy, face may be puffy and swollen.
- Chills often occur or parts of the body tremble.
- Person may say he feels warm.

• He may speak and breathe slowly and have difficulty saying words.

• He may seem confused, forgetful and cannot understand what you ask him.

• He may become tired and cannot get up even after resting.

If a family member or friend shows any sign of hypothermia, do the following things:

- Put him in a warm bed and cover him with layers of blankets.
- Take off any heavy outer layer of clothes and lie close to the person to pass your body heat to him.

• Fill hot water bottles with warm water, wrap towels around them and place them on the victim's chest, ankles and feet.

• Electric blankets may be used, but be sure not to set them on high or they may cause burns.

• Elevate the person's feet higher than his head — this will help force blood to the head.

• Keep the person quiet.

• Give him warm water or warm milk.

• Do not allow him to drink any alcoholic drinks or take tranquilizers or sleeping pills.

• Call a doctor as soon as possible.

Researchers study acid rain effects

Although most acid rain problems in the United States occur in the Northeast, some southern and eastern parts of Texas are also experiencing high levels of acid deposition.

The increased concentrations of sulfuric acid and nitric acid in precipitation are derived primarily from the air pollutants sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen. Sources of pollutants are smelters, coal-fired electric power plants and other fossil fuel combustion.

Texas Christian University professors Dr. Leo Newland and Dr. Glen Kroh are studying the effects of acid deposition on the environment.

Using crawfish, Newland's environmental science laboratory research centers on the effects of acid deposition on aquatic animals. He and his research assistants have recently expanded the study to see how acid deposition affects minerals in the soil.

"Acid deposition dissolves aluminum out of the soil and rocks and drains into the lakes," said Newland. "We're testing the effect of the increased amounts of aluminum in the water. Acid rain not only leeches aluminum out of the soil, but also other minerals as well," he said.

John Stewart, a graduate student in biology, is working in Kroh's laboratory on effects of acid conditions on the aquatic plant Ceratophyllum (coontail), a common plant found in ponds and lakes throughout the United States. Many water fowl use this plant for food as do the moose, beaver and muskrat. Preliminary results indicate that coontail production decreases as acidity increases.

Further investigations by Kroh are being conducted to determine the effect on architecture because it is gradual," said Newland. However, acid rain is responsible for the extensive damage to the Acropolis and affects all buildings and statues of limestone and marble.

Other studies have shown that acid deposition can cause increased mortality from bronchitis, cancer and chronic lung disease.

One person injured in rear end collision

Tammie Marie Satsky of Rockport was treated for facial injuries at Enterprise Medical Clinic Friday, Feb. 25, following a rear end collision between her pickup and a car in Rockport.

Satsky was subsequently ticketed for following too closely. Police said the accident occurred about 2:06 p.m. when Satsky's pickup struck a car driven by Bruce Bryan McGlasson of Lamar as McGlasson stopped for another vehicle at the Broadway/Liberty (Hwy. 35) intersection.

In a later accident Friday, cars driven by Priscilda Garza and Laura Ann Fisher, both of Rockport, were in collision at the intersection of Liberty at North Live Oak about 3:55 p.m.

Garza was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way at controlled intersection and failure to show proof of liability insurance.

Liberty was again the scene of an accident Saturday morning when cars driven by Marcella Wilemon of Port Aransas and Gloria M. Jamieson of Rockport were in collision at the Liberty Magnolia intersection.

Police said that accident occurred about 10:26 a.m. Jamieson was reportedly stopped, attempting a left turn from Liberty onto Magnolia when Wilemon's car collided with the rear of Jamieson's vehicle. Wilemon was ticketed for following too closely.

A Rockport woman, Jeannie Mae Trowbridge, was ticketed for following too closely after her car was in collision with the rear of a car driven by Patricia Adam Nava of Rockport Wednesday, Feb. 23.

That accident occurred about 1:25 p.m. at the intersection of Broadway and Canine.

Riley given award

Air Force Tech. Sgt. Richard E. Riley, son of Wilma E. Logan and stepson of Ira Logan of Oregon, Ill., has been decorated with the Meritorious Service Medal at Offutt Air Force Base, Neb., for outstanding non-combat meritorious achievement or service to the United States.

Riley is a weather technician with Air Force Global Weather Central.

His wife, Jackie, is the daughter of Jerry Little of Star Route 1, Rockport.

Accident injures two

Two persons were injured in a three-vehicle accident on Hwy. 35 in front of the Wal-Mart store Friday, Feb. 25.

Patty Hill of Rockport and Hoang Nguyen, 19, of Fulton were taken to Coastal Bend Hospital in Aransas Pass following the accident at about 5:26 p.m.

Bill Aston, paramedic director of Aransas County's Emergency Medical Service, said Hill sustained head injuries and Nguyen injuries to the neck and back in the collision.

'Back in Anger' at CCSU

CORPUS CHRISTI — Corpus Christi State University Theatre will present the play, "Look Back in Anger," during the first and second weeks of March in the Center for the Arts Studio Theatre.

The play is one of several events being presented as part of CCSU's College of Arts and Humanities' Spring Arts Festival, March 2-10.

Written by John Osborne, the play will star graduate students Sandra Woolery as Helena Charles and O. Neal Smith as Colonel Redfern; and junior Tina Brooks as Alison Porter and Carl Yowell as Jimmy Porter; and junior Thomas Smith as Cliff Lewis. All performers are from Corpus Christi. All are majoring in communications and have performed in other CCSU productions.

The play, according to director Jim A. Spalding, associate professor of theatre and technical director of the University Theatre, deals with relationships and the problems people create from expectations.

"In one way or another," he says, "all the characters refuse to accept life as it is, but none of them can change it. Jimmy and Alison begin to realize that love requires work."

The action of the play, which occurs over a period of eight months, takes place in the Porters' one-room flat in the midlands.

The play's author was born and raised in a tenement district of London and left school to work at the age of 16. In terms of despair, frustration and suffering, his life was much like Jimmy Porter's.

"Look Back in Anger," written in 1956, was Osborne's first major work and got him started in a successful direction.

The play will run March 3, 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12 at 8 p.m. and March 6 and 13 at 2 p.m.

General admission is $3. Advance tickets may be obtained in the Center for the Arts Theatre Office (Room 106A) 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays; 8 a.m. - 7 p.m. Tuesdays, and 8 a.m. - 3 p.m. Fridays. Phone reservations will be accepted on the day of the performance only or on Fridays for weekend performances. Tickets go on sale Monday, Feb. 21.

For more information, call the University Theatre Office at 991-6931.

Aransas County Commissioner Pete Sanders was among those honored at a Marine Advisory Subcommittee at a conference at Texas A&M University Feb. 24 and 25. Each member was recognized for his or her contribution to the maritime industry and its development by participating in Texas Marine Advisory programs. This was the first such Appreciation Conference held by the Texas Marine Advisory Service and attendees were brought up to date on marine-related research, educational projects and programs supported by the Texas A&M University Sea Grant College Program.

The Marine Advisory Service (MAS) is jointly sponsored by Sea Grant, state appropriations to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the County's Commissioners Court. MAS is made up of seven marine agents serving nine coastal counties and specialists in the fields of marine business, fisheries recreation and seafood technology, marketing and consumer education.

According to Dr. O.D. Butler, associate deputy chancellor for agriculture, Texas A&M University, the MAS advisory committees have played a pivotal role in the development of marine advisory projects and have had an important influence on programs within the Texas A&M University System. Dr. Butler addressed the Awards Banquet, Thursday evening.

The two-day conference, sponsored by Sea Grant and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, featured talks by Texas A&M researchers. Feenan D. Jennings, director of the Texas A&M Sea Grant Program, explained the Marine Advisory Service's role as a component of Sea Grant and its contribution to the program's research objectives. Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, spoke on MAS's role as a part of TAEX and the role committees play in developing its programs.

MAS subcommittees in the state's coastal counties are charged with "promoting the wise use of marine resources through education," said Ranzell Nickelson II, MAS Project Supervisor. They meet regularly with their county marine agent to determine local marine-related problems and to develop programs to meet those needs. Programs include public marine education projects as well as meetings and workshops to benefit industry and coastal communities in general.

The commandments of firearm safety

Accidents with firearms don't just happen. They are caused by ignorance, carelessness or disregard for safety rules.

Experts advise following the "Ten Commandments of Firearm Safety" when handling a firearm:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.

2. Watch that muzzle!

green hedges. A clipping in the early spring seems to shape a hedge better than any other time of the year. There's something about the green growth after winter that is stimulated by a pruning.

2) Rejuvenate your old flower beds. Our rose bed is 11 years old now and we keep having good roses out of it. One reason is that we top off the bed with pine bark mulch and decomposed cow manure. This stimulates the biological activity in the soil and helps hold water. Leaf and grass clippings with the manure can do the same job.

So there's no reason to sit around any more. Spring is right around the corner.

Teachers' salaries take top priority

Teachers' salaries will be the primary focus of the Texas State Teachers Association's (TSTA) legislative program for this session, said the president of TSTA.

Other issues of vital concern are a group health insurance plan for Texas teachers as well as established procedures for professional negotiations between teachers and local boards of education, noted Dale Young, professor in the School of Education at Texas Christian University.

"We are very concerned that in surveys we've done people are not going into the teaching profession because they can make more money in almost anything else," said Young. Good teachers are leaving the profession because they have families and can't support them, he continued.

Commenting on the group insurance plan, Young said: "We are the only set of public employees in this state that does not have some form of group health insurance taken care of by the employer. While some large school districts do this, every school district is different."

"All we are asking for is that it be required by law that the school board would have to sit down with teachers' organizations to decide on benefits, salary and other issues that pertain to the school district. This does not include a strike clause, so teachers still could not strike," he said. "We are hoping that it will pass, but it looks like that is going to be the most difficult one to get through because even our new governor, whom we support and really helped elect, couldn't agree with us on this item," he added.

Other TSTA priorities which will be among the issues in the 68th Legislative session are:

— Expansion of current laws providing sick leave for professional personnel and extension of those provisions to educational support personnel.

— Expansion of sick leave to cover illnesses in the immediate family.

— Improvement of funding of bilingual education programs.

— Strengthening laws and/or State Board of Education regulations on maximum class size.

Food stamp abuse becomes riskier

Beginning April 1, people who abuse the food stamp program will face stiffer penalties, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Mary C. Jarratt said.

"Under this new policy, individuals found guilty of a third food stamp offense will be permanently barred from the program," Jarratt said.

Those found guilty of two offenses will be barred from the program for one year and those who abuse the program a first time will not receive food stamps for six months.

Jarratt said, "We are determined to safeguard the food stamp program by going after the people who are abusing the program. States in the Southwest Region of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service have taken several measures to intensify enforcement of Food Stamp regulations, Jarratt said. These states, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, have beefed up investigative staffs, put the computer to work searching our cheaters and channeled increased federal funding to local jurisdictions to encourage enforcement.

The penalties will apply to all individuals regardless of whether they are determined guilty of food stamp abuse at state or local administrative disqualification hearings or in courts of law, Jarratt said. They also apply to individuals who make false or misleading statements, conceal or withhold facts, make other misrepresentations or commit any act that violates a state food stamp law.

The new rule will make it easier for states to collect overpayments from households. Currently, only the disqualified individual is responsible for repaying fraudulent overissuances. Under the new rule, the household will have the option of repaying the over-issuance in cash, with food stamp coupons or through a reduction in its monthly food stamp allotment.

States may keep 50 percent of the amount collected on recipient fraud claims and 25 percent of the amount collected on inadvertent recipient error claims. These provisions are part of the 1981 Omnibus Reconciliation Act and the 1982 Food Stamp Amendments.

Tips to reduce interview stress

Does the thought of a job interview throw you into a state of nervousness and anxiety?

Rather than worrying about those feelings passively, you should take an active role in handling interviewing stress, said Ron Randall, director of the Center for Career Planning and Placement at Texas Christian University.

The first step is to prepare thoroughly for the interview, he said. "I think the more you prepare, the more confident you will be and the more trust you will put in yourself." It is also helpful to know the interviewer's name so there won't be a gap when you are introduced.

Research the company and do your homework, said Randall.

Arrive early, but not too early, he continued. "If you have to wait, waiting often times makes a person anxious."

A second way of helping is simply to realize your own career goals, interests and personality. "Knowledge will reduce anxiety," he said. "The goal of the interviewee is to communicate information about him or herself and to obtain as much information about the organization and the position being interviewed for.

The goal of an employer is to assess qualifications, to judge if there is a match between the person's credentials and background and the needs of the organization and position. Basically, it is a two-way street — not only is the interviewer interviewing you, but you are interviewing him," Randall stressed.

An employer will want to know the answer to four basic questions. Why are you interviewing this particular organization? What can you do for us? What kind of person are you? What salary are you going to want?

One sure way to cope with interview anxiety is to practice, said Randall. Practice eye contact as well as answering questions with a friend, he said. "The best way is to talk to someone on videotape so you can critique yourself."

"Try to learn as much about yourself as you can so you will be more confident in the interview," he added.

Sheriff's office investigates burglaries

Recent burglaries in which thieves have made off with items from bedspreads to shotguns were under investigation this week by officials with the Aransas County Sheriff's Office.

A color television set, telescope, a pair of binoculars and a bedspread — total value in excess of $700 — were taken from an Aransas County house belonging to Mitchel Womack of Corpus Christi.

The burglary occurred between Feb. 5 and Feb. 18, while the house, located on Hwy. 35, was supposed to be unoccupied. Officers theorized someone may have stayed in the residence for a short time during this period.

Two shotguns, valued at $266 and $469, were taken in a burglary of the Rickey Hill residence between Feb. 11 and Feb. 16.

Also still under investigation is the burglary of a building on Matagorda Marine Drilling land in Cove Harbor. The building is owned by an employee of the company according to deputies who said a stereo and electric heater, valued at $100 each, were reported missing. The burglary occurred Feb. 7 or 8.

A boat, motor and trailer, valued at some $3,600, were reported taken from a Joelyn Road residence between Feb. 8-10. The missing items belong to John L. Hamilton of Seadrift.

Also taken were a pair of skis, life jackets and steering cable, according to deputies.

A battery, valued at $70, was taken Feb. 21 from a pickup truck belonging to Harold Fairfield.

Rule Blair told deputies someone threw an electric saw at the windshield of her vehicle about 7 p.m. Feb. 18, "causing considerable damage."

A ski jacket valued at $40 was taken from Robert Blackard's vehicle Feb. 18 while Blackard was parked in the lot of a convenience store.

Outboard gas cans and gas tanks were the targets of thieves recently with two outboard gas cans, valued at $50 each, taken from boats in residences on Speckled Trout Lane and a gas tank with hose, valued at $50, taken from a boat at a Key Allegro residence.

The old air base building at the county airport was reported vandalized sometime during the past several months, with a door damaged, four mattresses reported missing and trash scattered around the building.

Pamela Willett wins scholastic art award

Rockport-Fulton High School student Pamela Willett was named a winner of the Southern Texas Scholastic Art Awards and Exhibition, sponsored by Corpus Christi State University.

Willett received a gold achievement key and an Eastman Kodak Award nomination in addition to being named a Blue Ribbon finalist for a color photograph of a spiral staircase entitled, "Nautilus." Students were invited to enter works in any or all of 15 classifications in the fields of painting, drawing, printmaking, design sculpture, crafts and photography.

Her entry was one of 483 which were submitted for judging from a 24-county area. In accordance with a national schedule of quotas based on population of regions, 15 Blue Ribbon be forwarded to Scholastic Inc. in New York to be judged along with finalists from other regions for the 56th annual National Exhibition.

All 122 winning entries are now on display at the Center for the Arts Weil Gallery at CCSU. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays; 9 a.m. - 7 p.m.

Tuesdays: 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Fridays and 1 - 4 p.m. Sundays. The exhibit will close March 4.

Founders of Girl Scouting honored

Junior Girl Scout Troop 469, assisted by leaders Jenny Jones and Brenda Gribben, held a candlelight ceremony Tuesday evening, Feb. 22, in honor of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, founders of Girl Scouting.

Senior Girl Scout Teresa Tillison called out the color guard, which opened the program at the Girl Scout Hut with a traditional flag ceremony.

Girl Scouts Geneva Aguilar, Melissa Broinez, Martha Cantu, Teresa Castillo, Becky Davis, Gail Flatt, Angela Ramos and Sandra Stephens each lit a candle with a spoken wish of love, peace and international friendship among all Girl Scouts.

The third grade Brownie Troop and their leaders, Georgia Couch and Judy Thomas, attended the ceremony, as did the families of many of the girls.

Refreshments were served following the program.

RFHS hosts UIL practice meet

Rockport-Fulton High School hosted a University Interscholastic League practice meet Saturday, Feb. 26, with 15 schools participating.

The purpose of the meet was to prepare students for actual UIL competition later this spring.

RFHS students who placed in the practice competition included Donald Beard, who placed first in news writing, and Norman Smith, who placed third in science.

Crosby receives degree

WENDY ASTON AND Dr. Fred Warren demonstrate the new telemetry equipment installed recently at Rockport's Enterprise Clinic. The new system allows two-way contact between the physician at a hospital or clinic and the paramedic working on a patient in the field to improve treatment for emergency victims. [Photo by Pat Blair]

Telemetry

base stations have been in operation at Coastal Bend Hospital in Aransas Pass and Spohn and Memorial Medical Center in Corpus Christi.

Although the base station telemetry unit may be manned by a physician, it may also be staffed by a specially trained nurse or other paramedic, Aston said. Once the patient is hooked up to the equipment, the hospital monitors his or her heart rhythm non-stop until he or she is delivered to the emergency room or intensive care unit.

An advantage of the system that has been installed in Rockport, Aston continued, is that it is independent of telephone lines. This means the system will still function even if telephone lines are knocked out during a storm.

Aston said the new equipment is the "culmination of many years of work" on the part of Pam West of the Coastal Bend Council of Governments, the local EMS system, its board of directors and the women's committee.

The system design was by Motorola Communications, Aston and Dr. J. Martin Shaw of Rockport.

Aston said the EMS staff plans to demonstrate the new systems for various civic and other organizations in the community.

Fulton Oysterfest

starts Friday!

Three more file for elections

With only days remaining before the filing deadline, three more candidates filed for positions on Fulton's city council and the Aransas County Independent School District board of trustees.

On the school board, Trustee William

Buckley filed for re-election to place 4, and Durene H. McCain filed for place 7 — the post now held by Gene Gregory. As of Monday afternoon, Gregory had not filed for re-election.

In the Fulton city elections, another race developed, this one in place 3 with the filing Monday of Lynelle Hunt for that post. Hunt, operator of Trailer Inn by the Bay, is challenging Isabel Gutierrez who filed for re-election earlier.

A race developed earlier in place 2 when Gary LaBerge filed against incumbent Katherine McLester. Also running in Fulton's April 2 elections is Pat Loflin, seeking re-election to place 5.

In the Rockport city elections, W.B. Allen, incumbent in Ward 1, and Richard Beck, incumbent in Ward 2, were unopposed as of Monday in their bids for re-election.

Filing for posts in the upcoming elections remains open through Wednesday, March 2. Absentee voting for all elections will begin March 15 and will be held at the Rockport and Fulton city halls for those elections, at the ACISD administration office for the school board.

Tax

would imagine it would be based on income."

Winkelman persisted, "Who reports the actual catch? I bought oysters off a boat yesterday," he told council members, "and paid $10. Who gets that?"

"That never gets reported," Harlan responded, to which Winkelman replied, "I'm tired of tax loopholes."

Alderman W.B. Allen asked, "How about people selling shrimp off the backs of trucks?"

Said Harlan, "I imagine that's all going south."

Beck commented that he had heard it said a productivity tax would actually mean more money paid in taxes to governing bodies that substitute a productivity tax for ad valorem taxation.

made during the meeting.

The March 14 hearing on the Harbor Oaks Village request will be on-site. On-site hearing on the Oak Villas annexation request is set for 5 p.m. Monday, April 4.

In other action Monday, the council voted to change the date of its city council meetings from the second and fourth Mondays of each month to the second and fourth Tuesdays. The first Tuesday night meeting will be on April 12, following the April 2 city elections.

Two zoning requests were heard in a joint hearing of the city council and city planning and zoning commission at 7 p.m. Monday, but both were tabled — at the recommendation of the P&Z board — during the regular council session that followed.

Requests were by Philip F. Snow Sr. and Connie Snow for R-3 duplex zoning on one lot and a portion of another at 1109 Lady Clare, and by Bracht Lumber Co. for industrial zoning on a portion of a lot. P&Z board members said not enough information was available on either request and the council concurred.

The council approved payment of $2,900 to Griffith and Brundrett for completion of Phase I of the new city map and authorized the survey firm to add Phase II, which includes the newly-annexed areas of Rockport Country Club Estates and Wal-Mart, proposed annexation of Harbor Oaks Village and "any future additions to the city limits of Rockport." Estimated cost of Phase II is $2,600.

A request from property owners on Harbor Court for installation of a street light — tabled from the Feb. 14 meeting pending cost figures — was approved at Monday's session. The city's cost of the installation will be about $250.

Following a discussion with Little League officials of maintenance problems of the ball fields in Memorial Park, the council voted to contact other organized sports leagues using the fields and ask them to come before the city to work out an agreement for use of the facilities.

A resolution supporting enactment of Texas House Bill 194, allowing a city to contract for relocation or replacement of sanitary sewer lateral lines on private property and to assess the cost of the work against the property owner, was approved 4-0.

In action relating to the upcoming city elections, the council approved the list of ballots assigned for absentee and regular voting and authorized expenditure for lunches for the election judges and clerks on election day.

March

March 6-13 — Stock Show and Rodeo, San Angelo. For more information and schedule contact: Tourist and Convention Bureau, 500T Rio Concho Ave., San Angelo 76903 (915/653-3162).

March 11-13 — RioFest '83, Harlingen. An international arts celebration held in the city renowned for its glorious weather, as well as for its proximity to the Gulf and Old Mexico. The entire community gets involved in broad-based entertainment for all ages that includes films, art shows, vaudeville acts, armadillo races and jalapeno-eating contests. Fee to enter grounds. For complete schedule: Kathy Bauer, RioFest, Box 1105T, Harlingen 78551 (512/425-2705).

March 12, 13, 19, 20 — 48th Annual Azalea Trail, Houston. Drawing visitors from many states to enjoy beautiful spring blossoms, on view will be the River Oaks Garden Club building and gardens, Bayou Bend House and Gardens and several private homes and gardens. For tickets and more information: River Oaks Garden Club, 2503T Westheimer, Houston 77098 (713/523-2483).

March 15-20 — "Experience Ireland," St. Patrick's Day Celebration, Dublin. For it's a time of celebration and the wearin' o' the green, in the little town of Dublin, where such events you've never seen. Irish Stew Cook-Off, Leprechaun Contest (for the wee ones) and a 10-km Irish Canter are a bit of the schedule. There'll be an internationally sanctioned Pre-Olympic Bike Marathon of 120 riders who will race 83 miles to Fort Worth and end up at the "Cowtown Goes Green" celebration. Featured libation will be a non-tipple green champagne concocted by local bottlers (the oldest working Dr. Pepper plant in the world). Highlight will be the unveiling of a portion of the famed Blarney Stone by a representative of the Mayor of Dublin (Ireland). For dates and times: Joann Glenn, Chamber of Commerce, 213T E. Blackjack, Dublin 76446 (817/445-3422).

March 17-27 — The Houston Festival 1983. A non-stop celebration focusing on the arts and set in the streets, museums, theatres, parks and plazas of dynamic, downtown Houston. For complete schedule: The Houston Festival, 1950T W. Gray, Suite 2, Houston 77019 (713/521-9329).

March 18-20 — St. Patrick's Celebration, Shamrock. When George Nichols, sheep rancher, settled in the area he nostalgically recalled his native Erin by naming the post office in his dugout home after the Irish floral emblem. For the 37th time the town pays tribute to its name with plans for a full weekend of entertainment. There'll be a banquet of Irish fare, parade, carnival, old settlers' reunion, Miss Irish Rose pageant and plenty more. On Saturday night, things Irish wind down and C&W takes over at the dance in the National Guard Armory. For a program contact the Chamber of Commerce, Box 588T, Shamrock 79079 (806/256-2501).

March 19 and 26 — Spring Film Festival and Homes Tour, Von Minden Hotel, Schulenberg. Sign up before Feb. 25 for a trip back in time to the 1920s when the Von Minden and the Cozy Theatre were built, and moving pictures were becoming everybody's favorite pastime. Completely restored, the charming hotel has 30 rooms of varying accommodation. The program for each weekend: On Saturday, a bus trip from Houston to Columbus for a historical home tour and lunch, then on to the Von Minden for check in. At 3:30 p.m., "Captain Blood," a 1935 swashbuckler with Errol Flynn, Olivia DeHaviland and Basil Rathbone. Following a wine party, dinner at 7:30 p.m. At 9 p.m., "Dark Victory," a real 30s tear-jerker with Bette Davis, George Brent and Humphrey Bogart. On Sunday, a return trip by bus to Houston at noon. Cost of $60-75 (per person double occupancy) includes everything — wheels, meals and reels! Reservations and advance payment to Von Minden Hotel, 607T Lyons, Schulenberg 78956 (713/743-3493).

March 19-May 29 [Saturday and Sunday] — Spring Schedule, Texas State Railroad, Rusk and Palestine. Fifty-mile trips in antique trains depart from Victorian depots at 11 a.m. All runs: Adult $6 round trip and $4 one way; Child (3-12) $4 round trip and $2.50 one way. For schedule and reservations, Texas State Railroad, Box 39T, Rusk 75785 (Toll free 1-800-442-8951 or 214/683-2561).

March 24-26 — County Fair, Goliad. The third oldest town in Texas, Goliad was the site, at the Presidio La Bahia, where Colonel James W. Fannin Jr. and 342 of his men were massacred on March 27 during the 1836 Texas revolution. Events are varied and frequent all year in this historic town and the annual County Fair provides plenty of entertainment for everybody. On March 25 and 26, there's a rodeo at 7:30 p.m. On March 26, the contests and fun begin; starting at 11:30 a.m. with the parade, there'll be a chili cook-off, pet show and cow-chip throwing. A C&W dance winds up events. For schedule: Mary Jayne Plumb, Chamber of Commerce, Box 606T, Goliad 77963 (512/645-3563).

March 24-26 — The Texas Literary Tradition, LBJ Auditorium, The University of Texas at Austin. In a state known for its triumphs in cattle ranching, oil exploration, football and self-promotion, literature deserves more recognition than it has received. The purpose of this conference, convened to celebrate the Centennial of the University of Texas, is to evaluate the dimensions of the Texas literary tradition in folklore, history and fiction. The creation of imaginative works of literature is usually indebted to pioneers, some of whom in Texas were folklorist J. Frank Dobie and fiction writer George Sessions Perry, the latter a winner of the National Book Award in 1941. By the mid-1960s Texas had produced writers whose work constituted something like a renaissance in Texas letters; a partial list includes Tom Lea, Larry McMurtry and William Humphrey. The conference will explore three major influences: the Southern, the Western and the Texas Mexican. Also to be explored will be the present literary scene, Texas' impact on the national stage and possible future directions in Texas writing. Following an opening welcome by President Peter T. Flawn, various sessions will include participants John Graves, Larry McMurtry, Americo Parades and others. For complete schedule, costs and tickets: Melissa Hield, College of Liberal Arts, UT at Austin, Box 7075T, Austin 78712.

March 25-27 — April 1-3 — Tyler County Dogwood Festival, Woodville. In addition to the natural beauty of the countryside, visitors to the festival will enjoy two weekends of Western entertainment and Dogwood Queen ceremonies. For information and tickets: Tyler Co. Chamber of Commerce, 507T No. Pine, Woodville 75979.

March 27, 28 & April 3, 4 — Highland Lakes Bluebonnet Trail at Llano, Burnet, Marble Falls, Buchanan Dam, Kingsland, Lago Vista and Austin. Spot-lighting some of the finest fields of our State flower in bloom, the trail goes through communities hosting arts and crafts shows and special activities. Historical sites can be visited along the route. For free brochure and map, write Highland Lakes Tourist Association at Bluebonnets, Box 1967T, Austin, 78767.

March 28-April 3 — Derrick Days, Corsicana. Celebration of Corsicana's heritage as the site of the first oilfield west of the Mississippi. Entertainment for all ages includes water events, bed race, family relays, 15-km minithon and a chili cook-off. For schedule contact Derrick Days, Box 426T, Corsicana 75110.

Six films scheduled in CCSU Cinema series

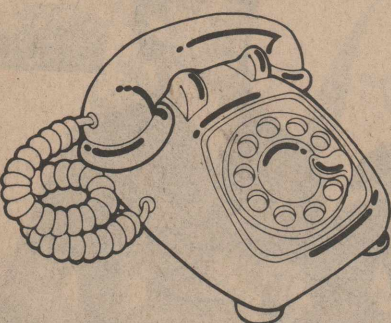

CORPUS CHRISTI — The remaining schedule for the Corpus Christi State University Cinema series this spring will include six films, as well as a showing of experimental films and student films.

The films in the University Cinema series, which will include some of the best ever made, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays. Admission is free. All films will be shown in the Center for the Arts Warren Theatre except for the March 2 and 9 films which will be shown in Corpus Christi Hall Auditorium (room 117).

Anyone interested in studying these films in depth should consider enrolling in the course entitled Film Criticism, which will be offered in two sections during the spring semester.

Betty Walters

A Dream Come True

Rockport Art Supply is a dream come true for owner Betty Walters. Ever since she began painting 13 years ago, she has had a dream of owning an art supply store and gallery. After moving to Rockport several years ago from Corpus Christi, Walters has realized her dream.

"We carry a full line of fine art supplies," says Walters. In addition, the store carries ready-made frames and does custom matting and framing. "I like to think that I have everything that an artist would need," she says. In addition to supplies, Walters teaches art classes four days a week. Paint Along Classes, where everyone paints the same subject, are held Tuesday and Thursdays. On Monday and Friday afternoons, her students are urged to paint whatever they have an interest in. Walters also gives private lessons for those who want a one-on-one session. She has taken lessons herself from a variety of South Texas artists and passes what she learns along to her students. Walters, who paints realistically, doesn't like to stick to one subject for too long, nor does she like to paint at a hurried pace. "We take our time and we have a good time, and we do get something accomplished." Many of her students have never painted before and she says that many are surprised at their ability. Many people are unaware that Rockport Art Supply also houses Betty Walters Gallery. Although the economy has hurt the way that gallery paintings have been selling, Walters exhibits "anyone's paintings that I have room for." She is an active member of the Rockport Art Association is in the process of organizing Sunday afternoon Paint Along Classes on the waterfront which would be attended by all area artists and interested students.

Rockport Art Supply is located at 705 Liberty Street, facing Hwy. 35. The phone number is 729-9033.

A & I presents faculty art exhibit

KINGSVILLE — The Texas A&I University faculty art exhibit, featuring works in sculpture, painting, printmaking and copper enamelware, is on display through March 18 in the Art Gallery of the Ben P. Bailey Fine Art Building.

The opening on Monday, Feb. 28, featured a recital by internationally acclaimed pianist Jan Drath, a member of the Texas A&I music faculty.

Gallery hours are from 8 a.m. until noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Anyone wanting more information is asked to call 595-2619.

Included in the show are the lithographs and monographs of assistant professor Mark W. Anderson. Associate professor Clark Magruder is exhibiting various sculptures of fabricated works in wood, bone and metal. His work highlights refined shapes and unusual abstract forms that suggest living things.

Instructor Jose Martinez is displaying abstract linear patterns in metallic silver and acrylic. Richard C. Mever, vice president for Academic Affairs and dean of the University, is showing his copper enamelware.

Catamaran boat races are featured at Mustang Island

MUSTANG ISLAND — Sundial Beach Resort at Mustang Towers is sponsoring catamaran class sailboat races this Saturday and Sunday, March 5 & 6, in the first Sundial Regatta.

Races will start from the Mustang Island Beach at Sundial and cover a triangular course in the Gulf ending back at the starting point. The entire race will be visible from the beach. Visitors will also have a panoramic, birds-eye view of the race from race headquarters on the 15th floor of Sundial, the highest point on the island.

At least 40 entrants from the local area and around the state are expected to compete. Three races are scheduled for Saturday starting at 10 a.m. through the afternoon with the final two on Sunday again kicking off at 10 a.m.

Other sponsors include Prindle Fleet 87, Marine Recreational Sports Unlimited and Bradshaws Athletic Club.

Other grand opening attractions include ultralight demonstrations, free soft drinks and three-wheel motor bikes. Sundial is the first interval ownership condominium on the Gulf Beach near Corpus Christi, where full furnished condominiums can be purchased with fee simple title and warranty deed for specific weeks forever.

Texoma Stripers are found healthy

POTTSBORO — Despite rumors to the contrary, Lake Texoma's striped bass are in excellent condition.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Bruce Hysmith said the appearance of some "skinny" stripers at the lake last summer caused some anglers to conclude that the fish were dying.

Hysmith said there indeed had been some undernourished fish in the 14- to 20-inch length class in the lake. "This was caused by a crash in populations of threadfin shad after last winter's extremely cold water temperatures," Hysmith said. "However, the threadfins bounced back with a good spawn in 1982 and the stripers are also in good condition."

A recent gill net survey in the upper reaches of the Red River arm of the reservoir near the Willis Bridge yielded 71 stripers ranging in size from 1 1/2 to 10 pounds. "Normally we will expect to catch this many stripers in 15 net sets, but these were taken with only five," Hysmith noted. "All the fish were in excellent condition and virtually all had threadfin shad in their stomachs."

Helpful hints on how to do it yourself brought to you by Paul's Hardware

MAKING A PLYWOOD MAGAZINE RACK

Are you tired of looking for that certain magazine that was mislaid? Or are you tired of picking up magazines that have been distributed throughout the house? You can help avoid these nuisances if you have a good magazine rack. You can easily make a good serviceable rack from 1/4" or 1/2" plywood, by following the design pictured and following instructions.

You will need at least 5 1/2 square feet of either 1/4" or 1/2" plywood. The pieces needed to be cut are as follows: two pieces 10" x 10"; two pieces 8" x 12"; one piece 10" x 12"; and one piece 12" x 15". On each of the two 10" x 10" pieces mark a center-point on one side and mark a point on each of the adjacent sides two inches down from the corner. Draw a line from the center point to each of the other two points. Then cut along these lines to produce peaked side pieces as shown in the illustration. On the 12" x 15" piece a hole for a handle is cut. The hole should be about 1 1/2" x 5" and located 1" from the top of the piece. Use a jigsaw or a coping saw to cut the handle hole.

Assemble all pieces with small brads and glue. (The 10" x 12" piece is the bottom.) Stain, apply two coats of shellac and, when dry, wax.

Volunteer groups help attain goals

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Governments

"Park People" is a part of a volunteer concept creating interest among those looking for ways for local governments to be innovative in attaining goals.

The concept is embodied in "Park People Inc." in Houston. It is being carried out in smaller ways in communities that can scale the approach down the size of their population and resources.

Members of Park People Inc., are a cross section of the community who serve as advocates of the amount and types of parkland and green space that are wanted and needed in each neighborhood. They help to see that long-range planning assures land for the future which might no longer be available when needed, and that the efforts of everyone interested in parks is coordinated.

Glenda Barrett, president of the Houston Parks People, spoke at a COG committee meeting, describing how any community in the Coastal Bend can adapt the approach to its own development.

Parks People need to incorporate and obtain tax exempt status from the Internal Revenue Service so that they can accept donations and the donors can gain tax benefits.

The members serve as liaison between city and county governments, civic groups, individuals and businesses. They also create awareness in the community of the importance of open space and parkland. Since they began in Houston in 1978, the acreage of parkland in Harris County has increased by 138 percent.

They assist the city and county staffs in any ways that they can. When there is city bond money available, they find all possible means of augmenting it, calling upon foundations, industry and individuals and keeping an eye open for possible government funds. Members themselves pay $15 a year which goes toward their operations. They receive many small and large donations of cash, land or in-kind services. In smaller communities where Park People are beginning to function under whatever name, the donations will often start in amount of one or only a few hundred dollars.

These volunteer groups, wherever they are starting, find one commandment. Before anything is done, they must go into the neighborhood where a park is being considered, find out what the people want and design the park to meet the desires in that part of the community. Where this is not done, they find there is little use of the park and there is vandalism. The volunteers again help city or county staff in making their neighborhood surveys.

In one neighborhood, a need was found for a setting in which handicapped children and children without handicaps could play together. Much of the equipment was designed for such use and there was planned access for wheelchairs.

For example, children in wheelchairs can't get down into a sand pile to play. So a sand table was built. Leaves of the table reached out in such a way that wheelchairs could fit in between the stools on which other children sat and everyone was equally comfortable.

Sometimes the owner of a vacant building can gain a tax advantage by giving it to the community and it can provide a needed center. The owners of a business may consider it enhances the value of their property for a small park to be landscaped near the approach to their offices and be willing to make a contribution toward it.

In some communities, the residents have been asked to nominate sites for parks. These sites are then considered by standards the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department sets. The people who take part in suggesting and evaluating the sites then take an interest in the development of the area chosen.

Where there is a small amount of money, that usually goes toward materials. The land can often be obtained by donation from an owner who can be shown that this can be a tax advantage. Then the people of the neighborhood who have said what they want in the park volunteer the development work. Some of it is done by family work parties on weekend.

Much is done in cooperation with school classes. The possibility of park development relating to school properties is always considered and frequently proves an advantage.

Product safety lawsuits increase in recent years

The safety of products sold in America's market-places continue to grow in importance and attention, according to Dr. Gary Nelson, a safety specialist with the Texas A&M University System. The terms "unreasonably dangerous" and "failure to warn of product hazards" are becoming more commonplace.

Injured parties are increasingly turning to the courts with their complaints about product safety. According to Nelson, a reflection of the tendency for Americans to sue has been noted in the number of product liability lawsuits filed in federal courts. Although the number remained about the same in 1982, there have been increases of 17 percent in 1981, 27 percent in 1980, 40 percent in 1979, 7 percent in 1978, 10 percent in 1977 and 28 percent in 1976.

Nelson points out that the number of product liability lawsuits commenced in Texas federal district courts in 1982 increased 39 percent from 745 cases in 1981 to 1,039 cases in 1982.

Product safety hazards can be prevented according to the engineer. Hazards can be identified during product design and manufacture and either eliminated or controlled through the use of safety engineering and safety management techniques.

"Manufacturers should learn all they can about product liability law, how to identify product hazards before they cause injuries, new safety engineering techniques to eliminate product hazards and recommended techniques for preparing safety warnings and operator's manuals," says Nelson.

To teach these techniques to product designers and manufacturers, Nelson is conducting a Product Safety and Liability Engineering Conference in Austin, March 22-23. Those interested should write P.O. Box 866, Austin, Texas 78767 or call 713/845-9793.

Boiling can be dangerous

"Preparing caramel custard by placing the can of sweetened condensed milk in a pan of boiling water is dangerous," says Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. According to Sweeten, several popular cookbooks recently published by clubs and organizations in Texas contain recipes that recommend heating condensed milk in the can. This method may cause the can to overheat and explode, explains Sweeten.

Save money with a heat pump for heating and air conditioning

You can lower your utility bills substantially by using an electric heat pump to provide the heating and cooling that account for as much as 65 to 70 percent of the electricity consumed in your home. It's a super-efficient device that should be included in any new house you build or buy. Or maybe you'll want to consider adding a heat pump to your present home to increase the efficiency of your heating/cooling system.

Although its name is somewhat misleading, the heat pump actually is designed to keep you comfortable all year long. It warms your house during the winter and air conditions it during the summer - and does both more efficiently than any other combination unit now available.

What makes it so efficient? The heat pump simply moves heat - a less expensive process than making heat, as gas and other conventional systems must do.

CPL

CENTRAL POWER AND LIGHT COMPANY
A Member of the Central and South West System

In cold weather, the heat pump absorbs the heat always present in outside air and transfers it inside. In hot weather, it removes heat from the interior to air condition and dehumidify your home.

The heat pump is an especially good choice for South Texas because it performs most economically in places with a relatively mild climate. In the area served by Central Power and Light Company, a properly installed heat pump can produce at least 2 1/2 units of heat for every unit of energy needed to run it.

If you'd like more details, just inquire at your CPL office. We'll be happy to give you information about heat pumps and other devices that help you use energy wisely.

Guns, stereo taken

Three revolvers and an automotive stereo were taken from display cases in a Rockport store this past Friday, Feb. 25, according to city police reports.

The items were taken between 1 and 4:30 p.m. Store officials said the display cases were locked at the time of the thefts.

A maintenance shed at the Little Bay Club was burglarized between 12:30 a.m. and 9 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26, and a door was damaged. Police reported someone had apparently stuffed paper inside a soft drink bottle and set it on fire but no damage resulted.

Another incident of criminal mischief was reported at a lounge in downtown Rockport where someone broke out a window to gain entry. Nothing was reported missing and no further damage was reported. The incident occurred between 1-11 a.m. Sunday.

A pickup truck was vandalized between 9:30 and 9:45 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 24, while it was parked behind a Rockport restaurant. Paint was reported spattered on the truck and two tires were cut, apparently with a knife. Damage was estimated at about $200.

Police made one arrest on charges of driving while intoxicated and disorderly conduct and one arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct by language this past week.

Three arrests were made on charges of public intoxication and one on combined charges of public intoxication and theft after the suspect reportedly shoplifted a magazine from a local convenience store. Another suspect arrested for public intoxication was found to be wanted on outstanding warrants issued by the Bexar County Sheriff's Office and the Texas Highway Patrol.

Stolen truck recovered

A stake bed truck valued at $1,800, reported stolen on Feb. 18 was recovered later the same day, according to officials of the Aransas County Sheriff's Department.

The truck, belonging to John Bailey of Mobile Inn Trailer Park, was reported taken sometime after 2 p.m. Feb. 18. Officials later observed the vehicle on Rockport Beach and took two juveniles into custody.

The case was subsequently referred to the Aransas County juvenile officer.

Oil and gas training class scheduled

VICTORIA — Four classes in oil and gas technology will begin in March as part of the Petroleum Training Institute of the University of Houston at Victoria.

A one-day school in hydrogen sulfide (sour gas) safety will be held Friday, March 11. Instructors Dave Taylor and Bob Hardy, both experienced safety seminar leaders, will demonstrate protective equipment and guide the students in using it in a smoky environment. They will also demonstrate some hydrogen sulfide detection equipment.

The course, designed to benefit both supervisory and field personnel, will meet from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"Law of Oil and Gas Leases," a course for landowners and for people in the petroleum industry, will begin Wednesday, March 16.

Attorney Robert P. Houston will discuss the rights of the owner and of the oil and gas company representatives. He will outline the provisions included in a lease and the pitfalls encountered in complying with such a contract.

The class will meet for six consecutive Wednesdays, March 16 - April 20, from 7 - 9:30 p.m.

A four-week course in "Fundamentals of Petroleum" will be taught beginning Thursday, March 17.

The class is intended for new employees, lawyers, accountants, secretaries and others who need an overview for working in the petroleum industry.

Petroleum engineer George Bagnall will review the basics of petroleum geology and reservoirs, leasing, drilling, production, pipelines, processing and regulations. He will also use the computerized Derrick Floor Simulator to demonstrate drilling and blowout prevention.

The class will be held on four consecutive Thursdays, March 17 - April 7, 7-10 p.m.

"Production Logging" will be discussed in a two-day school, March 18 and 19.

Kent Gerhardt, instructor at the Petroleum Training Institute, will cover applications and interpretation of wireline production logging in well diagnosis and mechanical problem definition. According to Gerhardt,

"Emphasis will be placed on practical interpretation techniques."

The course is designed to be basic enough for less experienced personnel and detailed enough for engineers, geologists, technical managers, field supervisors and service company personnel.

"Production Logging" will meet Friday, March 18, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday, March 19, from 9 a.m. to noon.

All four classes will be held at the Petroleum Training Institute building, 3302 N. Ben Wilson.

Fiber optic endoscopy gives a new view

Fiber optic endoscopy has become an important medical procedure for looking deep within an ailing person to identify problems, says the Texas Medical Association.

Treatment sometimes can take place simultaneously — while avoiding an incision or an x-ray. Because there is little pain or discomfort, only a mild sedative is used. The doctor might release the patient immediately after the procedure if all goes well, avoiding a hospital stay and extra cost.

Fiber optic endoscopy involves inserting a flexible tube about a half inch in diameter into a natural or surgical opening in the body. The procedure is particularly effective for checking the digestive tract. To do this, the tube often is inserted through the mouth or rectum, avoiding surgery.

The tube includes bundles of thousands of fine, flexible, glass-coated rods or strands called fiber optics. These strands are important because they transmit light by internal reflections within each fiber along its entire length, producing an image in the doctor's eyepiece.

With the endoscope's hand controls, the doctor guides the tube through the innards by negotiation sharp angles. The fiber optic endoscope (which literally means "to examine within") also can take pictures. Through the tube, liquid can be injected and suction applied to flush and clean the endoscope lens for clear viewing. Suction can remove mucus, blood, food particles and other soft materials, including bits of tissue for biopsy.

The doctor also can insert a small, thin wire noose through the tube to remove non-cancerous tumors of the digestive tract called polyps. This is done with a high-frequency electric current that helps sever the polyp and minimizes bleeding.

The advantage of fiber optic endoscopy over the x-ray, the primary means of looking inside the body without an incision, is the lack of low levels of radiation.
