Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald Says

To Hell if We Must, But According to Law. The Oil Advance is Coming.

TEXAS has a court of criminal appeals of five members. On last opinion day thirteen cases were affirmed and twelve reversals were handsd down. Also some scorching opinions directed at district and county attorneys for their conduct in the trial courts of the state. District Attorney Shelby Cox of Dallas county was the recipient of a volley of sharp comment let loose by the criminal court of last resort. And the district court of Jefferson county was given a jolt and all because a man with a prejudiced mind had been accepted as a juror in a criminal assault case.

In the long ago when the old Alcalde was governor a critic told him that Texas was going to hell and all because of the technicalities employed by judges of higher courts in the reversal of cases. Of course, the old Alcalde had an answer ready. He said as far as he was concerned if Texas was going to hell it would go there according to law and this is the slogan of the court of criminal appeals as it now exists.

If prosecutors or trial judges go outside of the law and the rights of a person accused of crime are jeopardized, then the plain warning of the court of criminal appeals is that a reversal will follow and a retrial of the case must take place.

ONE of the big chiefs of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey predicts a heavy advance in crude oil prices in the Oklahoma and Texas fields in the near future. Incidentally, the Standard of New Jersey made more money for its stockholders this year than it did last. Incidentally again, the Standard Oil company of Indiana by its purchase of the Doheny interest in Mexico and South American countries has become the most important branch of the Standard family, and its ramifications are almost world wide.

It has large interests in the Wyoming fields; it has the majority interest in the Sinclair pipe lines; it draws from the Mid-Continent field refineries, and it has in operation the full strength of the pan-American pipe lines, refineries and tanker fleet, a tanker fleet second in size only to that of the Standard Oil of New Jersey.

In Mexico, Standard of Indiana, through control of the Pan-American, has between fifteen hundred thousand and two million acres of producing or prospective oil land, and the daily production is 150,000 barrels.

All powerful is the Standard and its subsidiary companies. It has one great rival in the world, the Dutch Shell companies and its allies, a foreign corporation which has billions at its command. Is there money in petroleum? Yes, if the investor gets in on the ground floor, but it is ever the wildcatter that blazes the trail and brings in new fields of production.

He gets most of the thrill in the early stages of the game and his life is a continuous gamble or a story of ups and downs.

Park Dalton Dies In Lubbock Friday

District Attorney Parks Dalton was the brother of Mrs. L. G. Stogner of Dichita Falls.

FRIDAY WEATHER FAIR.

Warm Day Not Sultry But Still Hot Enaugh.

"Fair and warmer" predictions of the weather man were practically correct Friday, for the day was one of unusual clearness and at least average warmth. It was not as hot nor uncomfortable as was Thursday, but at that it was bad enough.

A fairly stiff breeze throughout the day aided in keeping things passingly comfortable.

No letup is expected in the warmth, weather bureau reports indicate.

MANY SIGN ON TRAFFIC PLEA FOR AUTO AID

Merchants Ask Council To Restore 45 Degree Parking Angle

BACK ON THE RED

Speed Limit Would be Enforced Under The Lights In New Plan

Ranking of automobiles on Ohio, Indiana and Scott streets and to one hour parking law enforced on those thoroughfares fell into disfavor Friday when a resolution was passed by the chamber of commerce business council asking the city council to restore the 45 degree angle parking system and add 30 minutes to the time allowed for parking. A petition signed by between 85 and 90 merchants in the heart of the retail district is being signed and will later be turned over to the mayor and commissioners.

This action followed considerable agitation lately for a revision of the traffic rules as now applied in the business district. The rule requiring autos to be ranked parallel with the curb came under the most insisted fire, closely followed by that calling for a one-hour parking limit. Several business men were in favor of the two-hour limit and all voiced their disapproval of the ranking requirements.

Back on the Red

The resolution also asked that cars be allowed to back out from the curb only when red lights at either end of the block were burning, thus preventing cars from running along the path the backing car would cross. Marking of white parking lines on streets to conserve space in parking was also recommended.

One section of a report read to the council by R. D. Kennedy and calling for designation of Indiana avenue as a one-way street was promptly voted down. The committee suggested a 30-day trial of this, but the council did not concur in the idea that Wichita Falls was yet in need of one way streets. It did, however, adopt a revised report submitted by Mr. Kennedy which proposals as given above and also called for continued ranking of cars on the east-west streets — Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh.

Discussion of the various features of the report was lengthy and was participated in by Claude Miller, F. G. Swanson, A. Marks and Dr. Milo Atkinson. J. D. Bright of the Wichita Falls Safety Council also spoke briefly and defended the present traffic regulations.

A report from Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce, on the activities of the past week was about the only other item of business coming up. Mr. Harrison's report included information on reorganiaztion of the Vernon chamber of commerce, with which he assisted a few days ago.

Numerous Signers

The petition on traffic rules with those who have signed follows:

To the Honorable City Council:

We the undersigned citizens earnestly request that you speedily pass a traffic ordinance, with the request as outlined by the business council of the chamber of commerce at their noon luncheon today, viz:

Allowing cars to park at 45 degrees as before on Indiana, Ohio and

40 DEGREES UP IN FEW HOURS SIZZLES WEST

Heat Sweeps Off Nebraska Plains And Middle States

CHICAGO, May 22.—The middle west sizzled today in the grip of a sudden and unexpected hot wave that rushed the mercury to record-breaking levels for May in a score of cities within a few hours and held it near there until late tonight.

The heat which swept off the plains of Nebraska and attacked the middle west and northwest today with a change of the wind caused a jump of upward of 40 degrees in temperature within a few hours and thousands of people who went to work in top coats and spring apparel returned tonight with blossoming straw hats and all spare parts of attire carried over the arm.

One death from heat prostration was reported from Lincoln, Neb., and thundershowers tonight and early tomorrow promised to bring relief within a few hours.

In Chicago the mercury hit 94, a new record for any May day up to the 22nd of May and equaling the record set May 26, 1911. The temperature here rose 44 degrees since last midnight. At Milwaukee, a rise of 28 degrees ni 20 minutes was recorded and a new record of 91 degrees for the day was set. Two forest fires were reported in the upper peninsula of Michigan, and the hot wave checked immediate hope of rain there. Nebraska had tmperatures above 90, Cairo, Ill., reported 95, a new record. St. Paul and Minneapolis had 97 and 99 degrees, while other parts of the state suffered from a windstorm, and Kansas City, Mo., had a temperature of 92. While the middle west sweltered, people of the northwest border were hustling across the line to forget the heat and quench their thirst with the arrival of permits in the Canadian cities to sell 4.4 per cent beer.

Interpretation Of Law to Be Given

Upon an interpretation of the law will depend the results of answers returned Friday morning in the case of M. A. Marcus vs. R. H. Frizzel, a suit over $10,000 held in escrow and claimed as a debt payment arising out of the sale of an oil lease in the Red river valley lands several years ago. The case was submitted to the jury on special issues.

It was tried before Judge Guy Rogers in the Seventy-eighth district court.

TADLOCK NOT SUBPOENAED IN COLLIER TRIAL

Witness Who Figured Prominently in Ex-Mayor's Defense Omitted

CALLED FOR MONDAY

List of Witnesses Become Known as Date of Case Nears

An interesting fact in connection with the approaching trial of Mrs. Frank Collier on indictment charging murder in connection with the death of Elzie (Buster) Robertson, her son-in-law on the night of February 14, became known yesterday with the statement by Deputy Sheriff Summers that he had not subpoenaed W. T. Tadlock as a witness. Although Tadlock's name appears in the list of prospective witnesses for the trial which starts Monday at Haskell, there appears doubt whether or not he is to be used.

Prominent Witness.

Tadlock figured prominently as defense witness in the trial of former Mayor Frank Collier, giving testimony relative to events at the Robertson home. It was Tadlock who was referred to so often in state's arguments as the "Tadlock brigade."

Names that appeared in the trial last March of the former Wichita Falls mayor who was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to three years in prison for the death of Robertson, are destined to figure prominently again in the trial of Mrs. Collier. The case was sent from Wichita county to Haskell on a change of venue ordered by Judge H. R. Wilson of the 30th district court. A belief that a fair and impartial trial could not be obtained here prompted Judge Wilson to order the change.

Both Sides Ready.

It is believed that both sides will announce ready when Judge Bruce Bryan calls the case next Monday morning.

The witness list, sent here to Sheriff Fred K. Smith from Tom Davis, district attorney at Haskell, contains the names of all the principal witnesses in Mr. Collier's trial. It also has the names of several persons who Five Sentences Aggregate Total of 45 Years.

AUSTIN, May 22.—Two appeals from convictions of murder in which the sentences aggregated 45 years were filed today in the court of criminal appeals. A five-year sentence for arson are also appealed.

Wynne and given 20 years, each filed notice of appeal. R. I. Shackelford of Oldham county appealed to conviction of arson against him.

LOOT CASE INVESTIGATED.

CHICAGO, May 22.—(AP)—The federal grand jury was again hearing testimony against Thomas Poe and Wallace Davis, attorneys of Little Rock, Ark., in connection with the alleged concealment of $100,000 loot of the $2,000,000 Rondout, Ill., mail train robbery last June. The jury adjourned until tomorrow without taking action.

"Pepper Bird" Flaps His Wings In City Awhile And Crows On Bristow

Roy C. Griffin, manager of radio Station KFRU at Bristow, Okla., was a Wichita Falls visitor Friday. Griffin is also announcer for the station and signs off as "Pepper Bird."

"Our station is the largest and best in Oklahoma," said Griffin. "The station cost $38,000 and expenses of operation is between $2,800 and $3,100 monthly. We have as good a broadcasting set as manufactured and we receive messages and letters about our concerts as far away as New Zealand and Australia. It perhaps sounds as if I am boasting but we employ 16 stenographers to answer these letters, messages and post cards.

"Our station was built by a young millionaire, whose hobby is radio. He pays all expenses and the city of Bristow is out nothing. We are doing a great piece of advertising for Oklahoma and the Southwestern area. We entertain every evening at the hotel in Bristow from 15 to 60 guests, who come from all parts of Oklahoma to render programs.

"We would be pleased to give Wichita Falls a program. It will not be necessary for the talent to leave the city. Myself and an operator will come down and install the instruments necessary to convey the program over long distance telephone wires to our station. On top of the City National bank would be an excellent place to render the program. The cost will not be much and our charge is gratis."

CITY NOW QUIET

All Sorts of Preparations Made by Officers For Negroes Trial

DALLAS, May 22.—Dwight Stewart, 23, who was shot early Thursday morning when a mob rushed the Dallas county jail in an attempt to reach two negroes, died tonight.

He was the son of A. C. Stewart.

Young Stewart and four other men were in the large crowd which engaged the peace officers in a gun fight after a long siege of the jail where Frank and Lorenzo Noel, negro brothers, charged with the killing of Ryan Adkins and W. L. Milstead and attacks on Mrs. Mary Steer and Mrs. Mabel Berry, are being held.

Forty-six soldiers, a detachment of Texas rangers, U. S. deputy marshals, county and city officers are on guard at the jail tonight, although no crowd, such as Wednesday's and Thursday's had gathered.

Appointment of two attorneys, J. H. Beall and H. A. Keller, to defend the negroes, was announced today by Judge Charles A. Pippen in criminal district court. Three hundred veniremen were ordered summoned.

Judge Pippen said that any demonstration against the negroes during their trials by anyone "will be tantamount to his suicide." All officers have been instructed to permit no molestation.

One of the negroes will go to trial Thursday and only about 75 citizens will be permitted in the court room, Judge Pippen said.

A check for $1,000 was received Adkins-Polk Grocery company by police officials as a reward for the capture of the negroes.

Dr. Splawn highly complimented the students for their offer to raise the $9,000 needed, but declared it would be impossible to accept because of the policy of the board of regents.

In announcing the innovation the Rev. W. M. Smackover Crude Gets Second Boost Within Week—80 Cents Now

STANDARD IS STARTER FOR 10-CENT BOOST

Field Declines From 366,000 to 328,000 Barrels A Day

PEAK PASSED, BELIEF

Scramble For Crude By Independent Given As Cause For Raise

D. H. Bancroft.

SHREVEPORT, La., May 22.—For the second time this week Standard Oil company of Louisiana has led in an advance of 10 cents in posted price of Smackover heavy oil, 24 gravity and below, all other purchasers in this territory following suit, posting the new price, 80 cents effective as of 7 o'clock this morning. It is an advance of 100 per cent in less than 30 days, the price on April 25 being 40 cents.

Apparently the gaining strength of fue oil and the continued scramble in Smackover to get crude on the part of independent buyers is the reason for this latest advance, but within the last week another influence has appeared on the horizon. Average daily production of deep sand producers and other heavy oil wells in Smackover has decreased from 366,00 barrels daily to 328,000, a new high of 401,690 barrels daily average pipeline runs was reached during the week ending May 21. These figures indicate increased withdrawals from storage. During the last three days that element among the fraternity which believes that Smackover has reached its peak has gained strength. However, one or two gushers of the Roxana, Imperial and Gulf type would change the situation again back to the up grade.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send 10 cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamhton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Views of Germist Trial and Principals in Case

(Upper) While the state is frankly endeavoring to send her husband, William Darling Shepherd to the gallows for the alleged murder of their fosterson, William McClintock, "orphan millionaire," Mrs. Shepherd, herself accused as an accessory, is remaining steadfastly at his side. She is confident of his innocence, she declares. In the photo she is seen parting from him tearfully as he is being taken back to jail during a court recess. (Lower) The lower picture shows curious Chicagoans attempting to get into the courtroom. While the state is making a bold effort to send her husband to the gallows on circumstantial evidence, Mrs. Julia Shepherd, wife of William D. Shepherd, on trial in Chicago on the charge of murdering their foster son, William McClintock, "orphan millionaire," with typhoid germs is at his side, offering him all the encouragement she can. She is seen leaving the courtroom after a trying day.

Right Now! Poet Comes Back When A Jester Attacks

DOUGLAS MALLOCH, noted American poet, who is to appear here May 28 at the Junior college auditorium under the auspices of the Musician's club is best known to the public for his poetry, but did not win the title of "the poet that makes living a joy" by his verses alone.

Attendants at the chamber of commerce dinner given January 9, 1925, where Malloch made a decided "hit," will testify that he is one of the quickest men on "the comeback" in the country. Most of us think of something to say in reply, next day. Malloch thinks of it right now.

At the White House in Washington one time Woodrow Wilson, then president, turned to Mr. Malloch and asked: "Oh, by the way, have you heard the last Ford story?" "No, Mr. President," replied the poet, "but I wish to heaven I had!" And everybody will agree to that, except perhaps Mr. Ford's advertising manager.

But Henry Ford himself once handed the poet a rather nifty "comeback." Mr. Malloch, Mr. Ford and William Livingston, the Detroit publisher, one night were talking together when Livingston turned to Ford and said, "Henry, do you know what you ought to do?" "What" asked the automobile manufacturer cautiously. "You ought to buy a newspaper," said Livingston, "and make Malloch managing editor of it." "Well," replied Ford, "you buy him one. You know you've got some money to lose, too."

Elbert Gary Names Business Diseases Affecting the Nation

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—Elbert H. Gray, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, today told more than a thousand leaders in that industry at their annual meeting htat, while business conditions in the United States are good, they are not entirely satisfactory.

Discussing the "diseases of business," he listed as most serious impediments, high taxation, war conditions, political interference, the timidity of manufactureres and selfishness.

"Possibly the worst disease that afflicts the business structure of the United States at least," he said, "is the abnormal, unnecessary, timid and ill-poised mental attitude of the managers themselves, including ourselves.

"High taxes have become a terribly heavy burden in the United States. Business generally sorely needs and therefore respectfully demands lower rates of taxation."

While business men are grateful for the relief already granted them, and for the vigorous approach of the problem by President Coolidge and his cabinet, there still is great need for additional relief to protect industry, he said. The steel business in the future should be good and reasonably profitable, he said, addition that the industry is not receiving as much return on capital investment as before the war.

COTTON PROTEST DROPPED.

MANCHESTER, England, May 22.—(AP)—The general committee of the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners resolved unanimously today to send a message to Dr. William E. Jardine the American secretary of agriculture, cancelling the notice previously given of the federation's intention to withdraw from the Universal Cotton Standards agreement. This agreement, providing universal cotton standards to be used during the crop year, was drawn up in Washington last March by cotton experts representing European and American associations and the American department of agriculture.

ONCE 'FRAMED' ON JURY, HE IS NOT ACCEPTED

Sensation Comes in Shepherd Trial When Henry J. Smith Appears

CHICAGO, May 22.—(AP)—Youth will be asked to judge age for the alleged slaying of youth in the Shepherd trial, according to the first panel of four jurors sworn in late today. Five days were necessary for the examination of 85 veniremen which produced the four men acceptable to both prosecution and defense.

The three youths now classed as jurors received the approval of 50-year-old foster son, William N. Mc- who is accused of feeding typhoid germs and subtle poisons to his 21-year-old faster son, William N. McClintock, the millionaire orphan, however, as readily as he nodded assent to the selection of one man of approximately his own age.

Move Faster.

In keeping with his expressed intention to accept the first twelve men tendered by the prosecution in order to stop talk of jury fixing, William Scott Stewart, defending Shepherd, asked only a few perfunctory questions of the veniremen before he briefly sought the defendant's approval.

In the few minutes left of the court session, one other venireman was passed as temporarily acceptable to the state and another was questioned briefly by Joseph P. Savage, assistant state's attorney.

Possibility of the panel being broken tomorrow loomed tonight however. Judge Thomas J. Lynch received a report that juror Sedgwick's wife had suffered a nervous breakdown and sent a physician to examine her. The judge said if the physician's report indicated the necessity of Sedgewick's presence at home, the juror would be released tomorrow morning.

N New Thrills.

Grand jury investigation of alleged jury tampering and the search for Robert White, missing witness, produced no thrills today, but the finding of the name of a man who confirmed he was "fixed" in a previous trial did. Suddenly Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney stood up and whispered to Judge Lynch who beckoned to Stewart of defense counsel, seized his judicial robes in his hands and hastened into chambers at the head of a line of attorneys and newspaper men. It developed that Henry J. Smith, who was fined $1,000 after he confessed he accepted a bribe of $1,000 several years ago, as a member of a jury which returned a verdict of acquittal in a labor conspiracy trial had been drawn in the special venire for the Shepherd trial. Smith readily admitted his identity to Judge Lynch and was dismissed immediately without having been called into the jury box.

THE SIGN OF DOMINANCE.

Europe has made many attempts to convert America to her ways, but with a conspicuous want of success. Her missionaries have come here in countless numbers, statesmen, educators, lecturers and critics. All have been more anxious to tell us what we should be than to find out what we were. But we have remained peculiarly set in our ways, and the visiting reformers have departed sad and disappointed, some frankly despairing, other expressing a faint hope that some day we would mend our ways. In recent years, the governments of Europe have taken up the task essayed in vain by individual missionaries and have sought to convert us en masse. They have offered to take us into their political conferences, combinations and alliances, but they too have failed. It seems that we are not to be conquered by Europe. Neither her political ideas, her educational systems nor her cultural criticism are acceptable to us.

Instead of America being Europeanized, Europe is becoming Americanized. Her surprise at this fact is no greater than our own. The fact exists in spite of her opposition and without our direct intention. Europeans believe themselves perfectly satisfied with their customs and Americans have no desire to force their ideas upon unwilling peoples. But the thing is happening just the same. Today American ways and American products are in fashion throughout western Europe. American movies are better liked than native movies. American automobiles are driving out their European competitors. American tobacco is growing in favor and "American" drinks—no longer known in America—are to be found wherever such things are sold. There is much copying of American styles in dress; great use of American expressions in conversation.

All this means something, and something very important. When the customs of one land spread into other lands without apparent reason it is because the former has gained an ascendency in the world's thought, and is looked to instinctively for leadership. Roman ways spread over the civilized world when Rome headed the world's political organization. During France's several periods of political and military dominance the world became French in manners and customs. When Britain rose to the height of her commercial greatness, her influence displaced that of France. Now America takes first rank among the great powers and American ways are as earnestly copied as were Roman ways two thousand years ago or British ways in the last century.

THIS COMMON SENSE.

What is the value of the so-called common sense in which we constantly hear oratorical persons expressing their belief?

If we inquire the purpose to which humanity puts it, we find:

Humanity is conditioned by content.

If they are not satisfied, men become impatient; and if they are, it seems not to affect them.

The normal man moves between these two states, and he applies his understanding—his so-called common sense—to the satisfaction of his needs.

When his needs are satisfied his task is to fill up the waste places of indifference.

Here, too, he is successful, if his needs are confined to what is nearest and most necessary.

But if they rise and pass beyond the sphere of ordinary wants, common sense is no longer sufficient. Then what is put forward as the genius of humanity is genius no more.

Blessed only with that "good hard common sense" we hear so much about, a man is ill-equipped mentally. He knows his way along the obvious main road of life, perhaps; but on it he is bewildered and lost.

Goethe averred that there is no piece of foolishness but can be corrected by intelligence or accident; no piece of wisdom but can miscarry by lack of intelligence or accident.

It was Goethe who opined—"Every great idea is a tyrant when it first appears; hence the advantages which it produces change quickly into disadvantages."

These are some of his observations concerning wisdom.

"Wisdom lies only in truth."

"The history of knowledge is a great fugue in which the voices of the nations one after the other emerge."

"An intelligent man finds almost anything ridiculous, a wise man hardly anything."

"Forethought is simple, after thought manifold."

"The really foolish thing in men who are otherwise intelligent is that they fail to understand what another person says, when he does not exactly hit upon the right way of saying it.'"

PLANT FEED STUFFS.

Plant feed stuffs is the advise of experts to the farmers of Texas. Colonel C. C. French of Fort Worth, long known as an authority is giving this advice to the tillers of the soil. He is telling them to plant grain sorghums. He admits there is a poor market when the yield is large, but nevertheless, the problem of drouth is ever with the farmer.

Colonel French says the farmers sell their grain at eight and nine dollars a ton, then a drouth comes and they have to buy them back at $20 a ton. He sees a way out of it. Farmers should be given sufficient capital to enable them to store a portion of the crops for their own needs. This reads well too, but where is the farmer going to get sufficient capital for the construction of storage building.

Colonel French is well supplied with statistics. In one year the county of Lubbock spent $600,000 to bring in grain sorghums after a bad crop. They produced a large crop the year before and failed to carry over a supply for their needs. Mayor Bayliss Harriss of Galveston, a member of a big cotton exporting ifrm and brother of the president of the New York Cotton Exchange, is telling the farmers of Texas to plant feed stuffs and food stuffs, and not to devote all their acreage to cotton merely because the season is late.

George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture is sending out the same advice to the farmers. All agree that regardless of the lateness of the season, Texas will come up this fall with a cotton yield ranging all the way from four to five million bales. And the farmer will do as he sees fit.

By Dr. Frank Crane

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

The other day a woman in New York killed herself and three children. She did it because she was tired of life and could see no hope for the proper education of her children.

The press reports every day tell us of people who for one reason or another throw away life and prefer to rush blindly into the unknown to staying and facing its problems.

An interesting sidelight on this may be gathered from the motion picture play called "Grass" which was recently exhibited in New York.

It is the story of a poverty stricken people who leave their native heath and travel over mountains and other obstacles to get a place where there will be grass enough for their herds in order that their people may be properly nourished.

It is an interesting epic and shows the human struggle in its rawest terms. Men and women, fifty thousand of them, trample through the snows of the mountains seeking for a bare subsistence.

One is tempted to think that life must be worth while to these people that fight so hard to sustain it.

Pastor Wagner said that the fundamental creed is a belief in life.

No one is ever justified in giving up the struggle to live, for reasons and prosperity may await him just around the corner.

Those get the most out of life who keep the element of hope and adventure. Pessimism and cynicism only come to those who are over-sophisticated.

Youth loves life because as yet it is all an unwritten page, an unknown quantity, and youth fares forth to find out what will happen.

When the elemept of wonder and the element of advanture have faded from life there is not much left to hold us to it.

In the normal life there is always enough mystery and illusion floating before us to encourage us to go on.

One cannot look at this picture called "Grass" without realizing what a strong element the love of life is in human beings. We may have gotten far away from the essentials of life, but we are still confronted with its difficulties and its problems.

That which renders life worth living is the disposition to go on, the determination to explore another day and see what it has in store for us.

A UNIQUE AMONG MODERN STATESMEN.

The resignation ofAdmiral Thaon di Revel as minister of marine in Italy gives Premier Mussolini an opportunity to tighten his grip on the country. His dictatorship will now be perfect, supported at every point where force becomes an element in government.

As premier, Mussolini is the nation's chief executive. As foreign minister he formulates its policies toward other countries. As secretary of war, navy and the air service, he controls its external and internal defenses. He can, if he chooses, throw the nation into war without the Italian people having anything to say about the matter. He can just as easily neglect its defenses and thus expose his people to danger without their knowledge. Again, he can use all the tremendous power in his grasp for internal oppression.

It is, perhaps, true that Mussolini would not anything intentionally sinister. Yet the fact of ...s being able to do everything he wills remains to be taken into account. He has not attempted to disguise his wish to dominate his country absolutely by concentrating all important official functions in himself. This is something that has never been done except by despots, and despots have rarely failed to abuse the powers entrusted to them. The teaching of history on this score makes Mussolini appear an ominous figure, however good his intentions may be. He stands alone among modern statesmen, alike in the extent of his powers and in the boldness with which he wields them.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.
Human Nature.

A man leaves a faithful wife and three or four small children and runs away with his stenographer.

"He was human," says the world.

Another man, all his life noted for meanness, suddenly gives a million to a hospital for sick babies.

Says the world: "He was human after all."

We are told in one breath that to err is human, to forgive divine.

In another breath we are informed that but for humanity the world would soon go to the devil.

So by and by we begin to be a little confused, and to wonder what sort of a composite internally conflicting sort of a thing human nature is.

But soon we find by observation that trying to make humanity or inhumanity a descriptive term, connoting one particular set of qualities, is impossible.

If all human beings were alike this would be a very dull sort of a place or an over lively one.

If humanity meant continually stepping aside and yielding to every temptation that presented itself life on this particular planet would be brief.

If it meant eternal and continuous goodness, we would soon begin to be bored.

We have to at least read about badness in others and now and then, in order to be happy in the consciousness of our own virtue.

Human nature is what some of our friends would call manifold and multiform.

Nobody born in the world is exactly like anybody else, either in face or body or in the character of blood corpuscles, or in the marks on the thumbs, or in the soul.

Human nature consists merely of people.

It is as varied as they are.

It is not necessarily weak and vacillating and easily influenced.

Neither is it necessarily subject to sudden fits of virtue.

It is variable according to the human creature who possesses it, and we must make allowances for it, and discount it, and try not to be surprised by its differing manifestations, if we are to live more and have our being very long in this vale of tears.

Even the lower animals differ in their physical and mental characteristics, as any zoo keeper, any lover of horses or dogs, or any cattle herder will tell you.

Yet lions and tigers are all savage, and rabbits are all timorous, while men can never be classed even in a general category.

Some are bold and brave, yet cruel, some are bold and brave, yet kind. Some are stingy, but sentimental. Some are sentimental and open handed. You simply cannot tell about 'em.

All you can do is to study the general run, pick your friends from your own sort, be on your guard against rascals, nad trust to your own resourcefulness to tell the good from the bad.

It is a puzzling study, but an interesting one. Nothing is interesting that has an eternal sameness, and certainly human nature never has that.

Irrigation

Valuation for Taxation in the Two Irrigation Districts.

There are many methods of taxation any many things are taxed in many different ways. Taxes get us at every turn and affect us every day. We pay taxes on everything we have and everything we buy. So taxes ought to interest us. Especially the taxes on the two irrigation districts which are based on two entirely different principles.

To illustrate this difference let us take an example from district No. 1. If you owned a lot 50x150 on Indiana between Seventh and Tenth you would pay a large amount of taxes on it because the land would be very high priced, easily worth hundreds of dollars a front foot. Now suppose you owned the same sized tract out in the factory district which is still within the district boundaries. The taxes on this lot would be very low compared to the Indiana lot because the lot would not be worth nearly so much.

Taxes in district No. 1 are on an ad valórem basis. You pay according to the value of the property. The greater the value the greater the taxes.

In district No. 2 some of the land along the Iowa Park road has sold for five or six hundred dollars an acre, but you can buy an acre of mesquite land out at the western end of the project for $50 per acre. One acre is worth ten times as much on the Iowa Park road as in some other parts of the project, yet you pay taxes to the district as though they had exactly the same value.

Taxation in district No. 1 is said to be on a benefit basis This is not exactly correct as true benefit taxation is different.

The reason for this method of taxation came about in this way. At the same time that the bonds were voted the people voted that these bonds should be paid off on a benefit basis and that each acre of land regardless of where it was located would be benefited to exactly the samed egree by the irrigation system. Tomorrow we will discuss taxation on a real benefit basis.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.
Gemini.

You will, in all probability, awaken today with a feeling of optimism and a great faith in your own ability to accomplish something worth while. The planetary aspects indicate an atmosphere of self-reliance which will neither brook delay nor admit defeat: Full opportunity should be taken of this propitious occasion for the aggressive prosecution of the immediate task in hand. A certain amount of deliberative caution should be exercised to avoid excessive optimism closing your eyes to real dangers and difficulties. Speculation and hazardous undertakings must be eliminated. It is exceptionally favorable day for setting sail on the seas of matrimony, as continued fair weather is assured.

A very happy and contented life, although not a preeminently successful one, from the standpoint of dollars and cents, is practically assured the child born today. It will enjoy robust health and serious sickness will not trouble it. All its minor ailments will readily yield to treatment. Its disposition will be unaffected, simple and sincere. In character, it will, in its unselfishness, often lose sight of the main chance, and will sacrifice prospects or possibilities from those whom it loves. It will be very human, possessed of many valuable traits, but often at a loss to capitalize these assets. It will, with all be very happy, as it will always have a contented mind.

If May 23rd is your birthday, you have a keen mind, and are a good judge of character. You are ambitious, but often allow the success of your plans to be marred by lack of diplomacy and disregard of conventionality. Frankness and candor are qualities that always elicit approval, but tactfulness also has its woes, and there is no need to emphasize an unpleasant truth, when silence would be just as effective and a thousand times more expedient. Nether s t polte to gnore the ittle amenties of life, even though they, in your mind may appear silly and unnecessary. You may sometimes derive a wonderful amount of self satisfaction from an act that, socially judged, would be deemed uncouth. It will not, however, enhance your value in the minds of your associates, and may contribute to the creation of adverse opinions on the part of others, which your general "make-up" does not warrant, and which your innate good qualities do not justify.

HOW IT STARTED

"Humor."

In the common use of the word to express a state of mind, as bad or good humor, we find an interesting story of a bygone medical theory which has been outlived by its terminolgy.

At the time when the barber was the surgeon, the medical profession had a theory that man, mentally and physically, was controlled by four physical factors, four humors in the body, certain combinations of which gave specific humors to temperers to one's health and disposition. Physicians' bulletins of that time would, imagine, make interesting reading. They might run something like this:

More Truth Than Poetry

REVENGE AT LAST

A European entomologist has discovered a worm which makes a regular syncopated sound

I often have longed, as I harked to the band
While the dancers hopped 'round to their rhythm,
To yank the musicians right down from the stand
And break a few window panes with 'em.
But a longing like this is far better suppressed
If one hasn't the muscle to back it,
And I knew if my prowess were put to the test
I would get much the worst of the racket.

I often have thought, when a soloist roared
His fervent devotion to Mammy,
Or sang of the soot-colored dame he adored
In some village in old Alabamy,
That I would assault him before he was done
If my physical strength would permit me,
And that e'en though I did for the son of a gun
A jury would surely acquit me.

When I sit of a night at my radio set
And, passing from station to station,
I haply tune in to a throaty quartette
Indulging in hoarse syncopation,
I would mix with all four in a hideous fray
Could I do it by mental suggestion,
But fighting with folks who are ten miles away
Of course, is quite out of the question.

But lately I've learned that a scientist has
Through some up-to-date apparatus,
Discovered a worm which is partial to jass
And is constantly singing it at us.
And if ever I meet with this species of worms
It will be my intensive endeavor
To walk upon him with a step strong and firm—
And quiet his music forever!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

HOW CAN SHE CURE HER HUSBAND OF THE READING HABIT?—WHAT GIRLS DON'T LIKE IN A MAN—WHAT ARE THE INTENTIONS OF A "STEADY" OF THREE YEARS' STANDING?

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been married a year and my husband and I are very happy together. He treats me with the utmost consideration, is very affectionate and I am sure is the most unselfish man in the world.

But he has one fault which irritates me very much, and that is his fondness for reading. He gets so absorbed in a book that he doesn't even hear what I say to him, and when I speak to him sharply about it he says that he was right in the midst of a chapter and couldn't stop. If you could suggest a way to break him of this most annoying habit it would make our evenings very pleasant. HOPEFUL.

Answer—It might make your evenings pleasant, Hopeful, to spend it in silly chit chat about the neighbors, and whether the Browns could afford the new car they have bought, or in scandalizing your friends, but how about your husband?

Have you anything as interesting to say to him as he is finding in the books he is reading? Can you give him as great an inspiration as some great writer does? Can you fill his mind with knowledge as does the printed page? If you can, then break him of the reading habit. But if you can't, then consider how selfish you are to ask him to give up his books for mere twaddle.

It is a great mistake for people who have such different tastes as you and your husband have to get married, and one wonders why a man and a woman wait until after they are married to find out that they have so little in common and that the things that one likes to do bore the other to extinction.

You should have married a nice, gabby chap, who loved the sound of his own voice, and who never read anything more than the sporting page and the headlines in the daily papers. If you had, you would have had a lovely time gossiping together and going out to the neighborhood movies in the evening. Your husband should have married some woman who loved to read as he does and who would have asked nothing better than to sit across the drop light with her own book and her own fascinating world of letters.

Since, however, you have made the mistake of getting out of your own class, the only sensible thing to do is to effect a compromise. Let your husband talk to you for an hour after dinner, and after that you leave him in peace with his book. As for breaking a man of the reading habit, that is a practical impossibility. You could just as easily break him of the dope habit.

He craves his favorite brand of literature as an addict does drugs. In it he finds stimulus, dreams that lift him out of himself, a nepenthe for every ill. His craving for reading is never satisfied. He hungers and thirsts for it and he seizes instinctively on every printed thing and devours it as a starving man would food.

It is so hopeless to cure your husband of the reading habit that I would urge you to acquire it yourself, so that you might be companionable, and he would cease to grate on your nerves. You can learn to like to read if you want to. And once you acquire the book habit you will find out that it has opened up to you the greatest joys and pleasures in life. Try it. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I would certainly like to be able to make a hit with the weaker sex, which is apparenty too strong for me. I am a college student, who goes in for athletics, dances, am ready for a good time, can talk fluently and I own a car. I have plenty of dates, but there is always some fellow that the girls like better. What is it that girls want and look for in a man? RALPH.

Answer—It seems to me that your accomplishments quite fill the bill of the requirements of the modern flapper. Especially the car, as most girls consider that a motor car is like the mantle of charity that covers very nearly any disability a man might have.

You speak of girls as belonging to the weaker sex. Perhaps therein lies the reason for your failure to win one. There is nothing that women resent so much as being patronized, and having a man pose before them as a superior just because he wears trousers instead of skirts.

Chivalry and reverence for womanhood is a line that never fails to make a hit with women, and it is particularly effective in college, where girls who have given the boys a close run for the honors don't take very kindly to the tin-god stuff.

Girls don't like boys who are fresh and familiar, who are such cheap skates that they have to be paid with a kiss after they take them to a thirty-cent movie or who make love to them the first time they see them. That's too sudden, and it isn't convincing.

Girls don't like boys who are egotists and whose conversational reportoire consists of a monologue about themselves and their belongings. Nor do they like boys who brag about their conquests with other girls. They know that their own scalps will be Exhibit No. 526 the next time the youth parades his virtues for the entertainment of another girl.

Girls don't like sissy boys, nor do they like boys who pretend to be bad men. Common decency demands that those who can't be good shall at least keep quiet about their sins.

Girls don't like boys who are hard to get along with and who have to always be flattered and jollied to be kept in a good humor. Perhaps among these things that girls don't like you will find some explanation of your lack of popularity.

Girls don't demand much of boys, goodness knows. If they are even reasonably well mannered, and intelligent, and pleasant, girls will put up with their shortcomings for the sake of having a beau. It is a great graft to be born of the masculine persuasion! DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been keeping company with a young man for three years. We have very good times together and are together four evenings a week, yet he has never told me he loves me. What do you think his intentions are? JUST TWENTY-FOUR.

Answer—None, my dear. Absolutely none. A man who sees a girl four times a week for three years and never tells her he loves her is never going to pop the question. He isn't in love with her. She is just a good pal, nothing more. And some day he will come along and tell her that she has been the best friend a fellow ever had, and so she is the very first he is going to tell the good news to, and that is that he is going to be married to the dearest, sweetest, most wonderful little girl in the world. And he just knows they will be such good friends.

CAL'S DOG MUZZLED.

White House Animal Snaps At Attendants.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—Paul Fry, the White House airdale is sporting a muzzle because of a growing tendency to take his position at the executive mansion a little too seriously.

Enlarging his self imposed duty of looking out for things about the grounds the pup has found the bearing even of a couple of White House messengers not to his liking and from the trousers of one of them he extracted a large piece of cloth.

Mrs. Coolidge accepted the gift of a muzzle from Senator Underwood of Alabama.

The airdale is fond of President and Mrs. Coolidge and never snaps at them.

were subpoenaed but not called to the witness staad when Mr. Collier was tried. Mary Frances Collier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Collier and wife of Buster Robertson is one of those so named. She has been called by both state and defense.

That the defense will seek to introduce a large number of character witnesses in behalf of Mrs. Collier is indicated by the presence on the defendant's witness list of a dozen or more of the city's most prominent business, civic and social leaders.

List Announced.

Men who formed the principal links in the defenes chain of eivdence in the trial of Mr. Collier are also listed on the defense witness list for Mrs. Collier. Not all of them have been subpoenaed, it is understood, through inability of officers find them.

The list, as received here from Haskell, was turned over by Sheriff Fred Smith to Deputy Sheriff Summers, who has put in practically his entire time the last week searching for those named and serving the papers.

But little change is contemplated in the legal conduct of this second Collier trial. District Attorney James V. Allred and Attorney Davis of Haskell will head the prosecution. Mrs. Collier will be represented by Francis and Hankerson with Fred Weeks as leading counsel. Judge B. Y. Cummings, who appeared as co-counsel for Mr. Collier, may also assist in Mrs. Collier's trial.

OLD COMPLAINT IS FILED WITH PRESBYTERIANS

Stir Created When California Woman Brings Up Old Affair

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 22.—A stair was created in the general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church today over the filing of an old complaint of Mrs. Emma Means of Los Angeles, Cal., against Rev. W. L. Williams, formerly of the Los Angeles presbytery, involving a disagreement over some church property in California.

Though general assembly action was requested, it was referred to the judicial committee.

The overture was made in the form of a complaint signed by Mrs. Means against action of the Texas synod last October, Rev. V. E. Bowmer of Marshall, Texas, explaining that after the disagreement between Mrs. Means and the Rev. Mr. Williams the name of the latter was omitted from the church roll as a minister.

When the California synod was dissolved Dr. Williams, according to Mr. Bowmer, left the Los Angeles presbytery and went to the San Francisco presbytery, where he was accepted.

Upon appeal of Mrs. Means to the Texas synod, of which the California presbyteries are a part to uphold her contention that Mr. Williams not be permitted to become a member of the San Francisco presbytery, the Texas synod voted to request the California presbyteries to call a meeting to decide the question, whereupon Mrs. Means renewed her appeal to the general assembly.

Relatives Refuse Children Shipped To Them by Mother

WICHITA, Kan., May 22.—Shipped from Tulsa, Okla., like so much livestock by a mother who did noot want them, only to find when they reached Wichita that the relatives to whom they had been consigned had even less of a welcome for them, four tiny homeless tots sit in the Wichita Childrens' home, the innocent victims of fortune's buffeting.

The children are Robert, 6; Beulah, 5; Paul, 3, and George, 2, all belonging to Mrs. Francis Barnhart of Tulsa. Robert says his mother turned them from her home so she could go to Texas to get married. Their father deserted them several years ago.

The tots rode all day on the train without food or attention. The mother placed them on the train at Tulsa with the following note pinned to Robert:

"Please take the children to Wichita, Kan., in care of Mr. Francis Barnhart's sister, Mrs. Rutkowski."

The conductor of the train telegraphed to the Wichita family, but they refused to meet the train or have anything to do with the children.

"We have three children of our own, and that's enough," declared Rutkowski. These children are grown.

Police have not told the Barnhart tots their mother is under arrest in Tulsa.

The younger pair think mummy will be coming for them soon, and they are anxiously awaiting her. Robert is less hopeful.

MOVIELAND IS AFTER SCALPS OF "BIG THREE"

War is Raging Over The Control of Power In Hollywood

NEW YORK, May 22.—War is raging in filmdom. Independent producers (Warner, United Artists, Universal) are battling to break the control of the "Big Three" (Paramount, First National Metro-Goldwyn) has on the motion picture theatres of the nation.

The "Big Three" either directly or through subsidiaries control about 65 per cent of the motion picture theatres of the country, including in most cases, the "first run" houses in the largest cities. A producer outside of this group, therefore, faces a steadily diminishing outlet for his films, while the small, independent exhibitor faces absolute extinction. This is the story the independents tell.

On the other hand, the "Big Three" holds their control of theatres, eliminates middleman, makes for efficiency and insures the film fan greater value for his money.

The Opposing Leaders.

Which the independents answer this way: This control does not give the film fan greater value for his money—rather, it enables the film companies to make more than they should and, since they control most of the theatres, they can give the public what they, and not the public, want.

The opposing leaders in this war are Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount, and H. M. Warner, president of Warner Brothers, an independent concern, although these are not the most powerful figures in their respective forces. Marcus Loew, through personal ownership of hundreds of vaudeville and film houses, and the presidency of Metro-Goldwyn, looms quite as large as Mr. Zukor, and in the independent ranks are Joseph Schenck, head of United Artists, and Carl Laemmle, president of Universal.

The "Big Three" has the advantage in power and in theatres, the independents have some little advantage in big names, for the productions of Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Chaplin, William S. Hart, Norma Talmadge and Buster Keaton are among those made by the independents. Cecil B. DeMille has joined them.

Hayes Accused.

The independents accuse Will H. Hays, ex-postmaster-general and movie czar, of being partial to the "Big Three" and are seeking a leader of their own. Charles E. Hughes, former secretary of state, can have the post if he wants it.

The independents are also preparing to build theatres of their own in the larger cities. But it will be some months before they can have enough theatres to assure them a steady market for their product, and in the meantime, they must accept the dictates of exhibition chains largely in the control of the "Big Three."

PISTOL FOUND ON DEFENDANT IN OKLA. TRIAL

Wewoka Judge Orders The Sheriff to Search Man On Trial

WEWOKA, Okla., May 22.—(AP) A sensation was created in the court room here today where Wiley Lynn, federal enforcement officer, is on trial for murder, when Judge Frank Matthews ordered Lynn searched for weapons and Lynn laid on the counsel table a pearl handled silver plated automatic pistol.

Just as the noon recess was taken Judge Matthews called sharply to Sheriff J. A. Doyle and ordered him to search the defendant. Lynn's 17-year-old son was examined first and nothing was found. When Doyle approached Lynn the latter rose and laid the gun on the table. Judge Matthews instructed the sheriff to search Lynn each morning as he brought him into the court room hereafter.

W. W. Pryor, chief of defense counsel, interposed to tell the court that he had instructed Lynn to bring the gun with him as it might be needed as evidence. The court replied that the defendant had no right to carry a gun under any circumstances.

Sheriff Takes Gun.

Sheriff Doyle took the gun into custody and did not reveal whether it was loaded.

Whether Lynn shot in self defense when he killed William Tilghman, veteran peace officer, at Cromwell last November 1, was held up as the issue in his trial in the opening statements of the state and defense today.

Tilghman, one of the last of Oklahoma's early day officers, was pictured alternately as an upright enforcement officer of the law and as a bootlegger who offered to divide the proceeds of a sale when apprehended.

Opening for the state, S. P. Freeling, a former attorney general of Oklahoma, declared that when Lynn approached Tilghman on the steps in the boom oil village he had his pistol in his hand, still smoking from a shot fired into the street "to see if it would work." Freeling said the state would show that Tilghman called on Lynn to stop and with his own gun in his upraised hand ordered an attendant at the dance hall to disarm the federal officer.

Fired Two Shots.

The attendant took the gun Lynn had in his right hand, Freeling said, but as he did so Lynn drew with his left hand and fired two shots into Tilghman's body, killing him instantly.

Mr. Pryor in his opening declaration assailed Tilghman as having been sent to Cromwell by Governor M. E. Trapp, contrary to the wishes of Seminole county authorities. He said that when Lynn alighted from a motor car in front of the dance hall and walked up to Tilghman he had replaced his pistol which was discharged accidentally, but that Tilghman drew his gun and leveled it at the federal officer.

"Don't, Uncle Bill, this is Lynn," the defendant was quoted as saying.

"I don't care who it is; I have you where I want you and I am going to kill you," Pryor declared Tilghman responded.

Pryor asserted that Tilghman fired the first shot and that Lynn did not use his gun until Tilghman backed him against the wall and started to throttle him. He said Lynn drew the second gun then and fired in self defense.

AMUNDSEN ON WAY TO POLE IN SEAPLANES

Total Time of Flight Is Probably to Be 24 Hours

OSLO, Norway, May 22.—(AP)—Given favorable conditions the two seaplanes of the Amundsen-Erickson expedition which started from King's Bay Spitzbergen, at 5:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an attempted flight to the North Pole, should be back at Spitzbergen in about 24 hours from the time of the take-off.

The plans for the flight as laid down long in advance of the start placed Captain Roald Amundsen in plane Noo. 25, acting as observer, with Rieser Larsen as pilot. Plane 24 with Lincoln Ellsworth, the American engineer and explorer, as observer, had Lieutenant Dietrichson assigned to it as pilot and Oskar Omdal as mechanician.

The distance to the pole, about 680 miles, is expected to require about uine hours flying time.

If a favorable landing place is not found at the pole the journey from King's Bay to the pole and return should occupy about 18 hours and the planes should be back at King's Bay by this afternoon.

If trouble develops and the planes must be abandoned the party will try to reach Cape Columbia, Greenland, where the Peary expedition had a base.

The planes were to maintain a height of about 700 yards on the outward journey and expected to fly at a height of about 2000 yards on the return trip, being then lightened by the consumption of gasoline.

Both planes were equipped with sleighs and with skiis and were fully supplied with emergency provisions sufficient for one month. They also carried sufficient guns and ammunition for killing game in Greenland.

The Norwegian government has empowered Amundsen to occupy any land he may discover as Norwegian territory.

Lindsey Holds Tannermen To Sextet of Base Blows

SAN ANTONIO, May 22. Normalcy was restored on Bear field Friday when the Bruins defeated the Spudders in the opening game of the series 8 to 2 after a stormy series during which they were run through a threshing machine by the Fort Worth Panthers climaxed with a riot Thursday afternoon. Umpire Weir, who was the center of attack, was back on the job, but not behind the bat. He officiated on the bases and his work was highly satisfactory, not a kick being registered against him. In fact he was applauded. Harry Kane behind the plate also was pleased. It was a pleasant social gathering and everybody was happy, mainly because the Bears won. Shortstop Brovold, who was out of the game during the Fort Worth series with an injured foot was back in the lineup Friday, limping, but playing a great game. Fitzgerald made a sensational one-hand catch in the seventh, robbing Gonzales of a two bagger that brought fans to their feet. Jim Lindsey held the Spudders to six hits.

Floral Heights Jumps on First Baptists, 11 to 5

Jimmy Parker Saves His Club From Quick Defeat

Floral Heights Methodists slapped First Baptists for a 11 to 5 verdict Friday afternoon in Sunday School league play on the Twilight diamond.

Jimmy Parker, husky young right hander who relieved Thurman in the second frame with the score 5 to 0 against the Floral Heights crew, is the lad who causes the Billingsly outfit to be one game richer today and involved in a triple tie for the league leadership.

Thurman, an infielder, essayed to pack the mound burden because Jimmy was handicapped with a sore thumb. The Baptists got to him for the sum and total of two base bingles which abetted by errors a field and a trio of walks sent five counters scrambling over the scoring station.

Jeems came to the rescue in the second with one away and a runner languishing on third. He whiffed a batter, walked another, and then struck out the next.

First Baptists failed to indicate the rest of the way. Jeems was too masterful with the strong-arm stuff, and he threw em by 'em so fast that but one safe blow was clouted out and that a fluke by Lesley, the ball taking a bad hop at short.

Lefty Lesley was in fair form, but a galaxy of miscues supplemented by timely base knocks upset him in the third for five scoring nuggets, and he came in for a bit of rough treatment in the fifth and sixth, albeit had his mates waged a clean brand of ball behind him the score would have been far smaller.

The boys with the big sticks were Ellis, Vernon Bullard, Thurman and Parker. Ellis tripled in the second with a runner on. Bullard came through with a three-ply swat far over the center fielder's head in the third with the sacks saturated. Thurman poked a couple of doubles. Timmons hit one, and Parker belted a trio of one-basers. Crites got a double, too.

PIRATES MOB GIANTS

NEW YORK, May 22.—A brilliant battle failed to save New York from a defeat at the hands of Pittsburgh today, 6 to 5. A freak double by Traynor, which bounded from Terry's shine to the outfield, and a single by Grantham, gave the Pirates their winning run in the 10th. LANDIS HOLDS DECISION ON SHREVEPORT CASE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 22. — Decision was reserved by Commissioner Landis after hearing the differences between the Shreveport club of the South Atlantic league here today. They arose over the payment for two players sold by Shreveport to Charlotte.

Contention was made by the owners of the Shreveport club that while the purchase price for the players was $3,000 they received only $1,000. Depositions from several witnesses were read.

Paavo Fails to Break Mile Record in Harvard Stadium.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 22.—Paavo Nurmi failed this evening to break the record for the mile in a race here in which he led James J. Connolly, Washington star, to the tape by 20 yards. The race was staged in Harvard stadium.

Nurmi's time for the mile was 4:15 1-5, 4 4-5 seconds slower than his own world's record and 2 3-5 seconds slower than Norman Taber's American record also set in the stadium.

Grace Methodist Outfit Climbs To Tie for Lead

First Methodists go Down 10-6, Before Slugging Attack

The Grace Methodist club of the Sunday school loop batted its way into a tie for first place with the First Methodist and Floral Heights Methodist nines by taking the long side of 10 to 6 victory over the First Presbyterians Friday afternoon on the high school diamond back of the Junior college. The game was play-off of a postponement.

Although both Dick Gordon and Raymond Windham collected three hits in four times at the bat the real credit goes to the latter. Windham slapped out a home run, double and triple. He was safe the fourth time on an infield error. All of Gordon's hits were singles and on his first trip he hit into a double killing.

Riley turned in the feature play of game from center field with a nice running catch of Glidewell's long fly in the fourth inning. Frits Taylor also put up a mighty good performance for the losers at first. Red Hicks caught a nice game for the Methodists.

Coyal Francis' homer in the sixth inning sailed through a window in the basement of the Junior college, avers Skipper Brooks who made an effort to retrieve the ball.

COCHRAN AND HUBBY TANGLE IN TITLE PLAY

Defending Champion And Wacoans Sweep To Finals

WACO, May 22.—The Texas Golf association will hold its 1926 championship on the River Oaks course at Houston, it was announced tonight by Charles Boynton Jr., secretary of the association. President Womack of the River Oaks club was elected president of the association. It was voted to hold the 1927 tournament in San Antonio.

WACO, May 22.—Tommy Cochran of Wichita Falls, title holder, will meet Clarence Hubby, Jr., of Waco Saturday for the amateur golf championship of Texas.

Both won their way to the finals Friday by decisive victories in the third and fourth rounds of the tournament being played on the Spring Lake course. Cochran took the measure of the tournament's dark horse, Jack Spear of Houston, by a score of 5 and 4 in the third round. The Houstonian, who has been playing golf only 18 months, was nervous and outclassed from the jump. In the afternoon Cochran had his hardest match, against Ossie Carlton of Houston. The latter was wearied by a nerve racking contest with Happy Massingill of Fort Worth in the morning in which the Houstonian nosed out by sinking a birdie three after the contest had gone to the third extra hole.

Thomas Leads All Way.

Carlton was playing uphill all the way when he met Cochran in the afternoon, but prolonged the match to the seventeenth hole, where Cochran won, 2 and 1. The champion had a score of six above par.

Clarence Hubby had easy victories over C. B. Buxton of Dallas and Louis Jacoby of Dallas. In the last round of his match against Jacoby he was one under par and was smashing his drives down the center of the fairway time after time for over 300 yards. He made a number of spectacular shots to come out of trouble and win or tie holes with par.

The feature match of the day was that in which Happy Massingill of Fort Worth went down before Ossie Carlton in 21 holes. After being two down in the match Massingill won the last four holes of the first nine and was two up at the turn. Carlton rallied on the second nine to square the match, but Massingill's brilliant shots out of of the rough on 14 and 15 put the Fort Worth player one up again and they halved the 17th with perfect pars.

Happy Had Match in Grasp.

It was only necessary for Massingill to halve the eighteenth to end the match, but he hooked his tee shot into the gullies at the left edge of the green. Carlton's shot took the same line, but was longer and carried over the gullies by a hair. Carlton took the hole with a four, when Massingill's long putt to halve hit the back of the cup and bounced out. That bounce saved Carlton from being eliminated and the match went over to number 1 tee to start the extra holes.

They halved the first in par fours, both playing airtight golf. But Carlton pushed his drive out of bounds on number two and Massingill had a clear shot to win. The Fort Worth man again let victory slip from him, his approach slicing into a shallow ravine and they halved the 410-yard hole in 5's. Both lined their drives 300 yards down the fairway to within a short pitch of the third green. Massingill's approach stopped 20 feet from the pin, Carlton's 10 feet. Massingill was dead to the hole for a par four. Carlton took a long time studying the green. He flicked half a dozen invisible wisps of dry grass from the path. Then he sank the putt for his birdie three and the tournament's closest match was over.

Cards on Friday Best Matches.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband, is a brillian, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother.

Florence Ridgeway, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chcose the easiest way out. Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with

Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying

Stevie Van Vorst, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Landis in her selfish way. She is in Paris when she hears of Landis' marriage, and immediately returns to the United States. With her goes

Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to join them for dinner. She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an apparent misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together all evening, while she will be with her beloved Landis. Thus happens that Landis is amazed to find her waiting for him in the lobby of Claridge's.

Landis phones to find out why his wife has not joined them, and learns that she left the hotel with Briscoe —leaving word that they will join Lydia and Landis in a few minutes. Left alone with Lydia, Landis finds himself swept off his feet by her beauty.

Meanwhile Rosilyn is being escorted to the Clarendon by Briscoe, who tells her that he is doing his best to get in touch with Landis and Lydia.

Had he caught at tonight's opportunity to slip away from her?

At the night club, Rosilyn under the influence of some wine begins to sparkle and jest.

In Paris Stephen Van Vorst is lonely for Lydia. He is on the way to see Marietta, a dancer, a one-time sweetheart of Briscoe's, who, he hopes will be able to help him.

Van Vorst finds Marietta weeping over Briscoe's desertion. He tells her to buck up and come along for a ride with him—he wants to talk over a plan for him.

Long after Rosily's return home Lydia, by a clever ruse persuades Landis to take her for a taxi ride to Jersey. There in the early dawn speeding through the country side his old infatuation asserts itself and he gathers the girl in his arms. Landis returns from Jersey, leaves Lydia and upon finding his wife's door locked decides to put up at his club. Early the next morning he receives a phone call from Lydia. At about the same time Rosilyn awakes, finds that Landis is missing, and greets his mother who has come for a chat. . The latter intimates that the girl had better not allow her son too much rope.

* * * * *

"You'll do, Rosilyn! You'll find your feet among our set! When I spoke of not giving Landis too much rope, I didn't mean that he would necessarily hang himself! I only wanted to convey a hint that the young men with whom he has mixed are not demi-gods. But, with the right woman's influence Landis could become something rather fine."

CHAPTER XI.
Grooming for the Fray

With a quick change of subject, Mrs. Ridgeway continued:—

"I haven't thanked you enough for your wonderful generosity in the matter of the decorations. The town house is going to look a perfect dream.

The girl in the bed flushed shyly "Naturally it will ,since you're in charge."

"Ah! Prettily said!" Landis' mother was pleasurably flattered.

Really the child had possibilities, and wasn't half so gauche as easily she might have been, considering the stock she'd sprung from.

Rosilyn continued:—

"I do envy you the artistic sense. It's marvelous, the way you can order beauty all about you. Like a fairy godmother waving her wand!"

It was the older woman's turn to flush. In the circumstances, spending this childs money by the hundreds—even thousands, since the country place was to be entirely renovated—wasn't the above remark ironically meant?

But no! Rosilyn's young face held only a respectful admiration and a kind of awe.

"It's you, my dear, who's acting fairy godmother. Or I ought to say —a little fairy princess. The old story reversed. And that reminds me —"—the good lady rose to her feet— "I must get in touch with Prince Charming this morning, on a matter of business. That's what I really came for."

"Then won't you stay and lunch with us? Landis spoke of taking me to the Ritz Carlton today—unless he's forgotten—"

"Forgotten?" Mrs. Ridgeway's voice held a surprised reproach. "My dear, do credit me with having brought my son up as a gentleman!"

Rosilyn lacked the courage to inform her mother-in-law that in four-and-twenty hours she had not once seen her bridgroom!

"I think the idea was that he and I were going down to Royal Cliff this afternoon, to meet the man from the decorating firm on Fifth Avenue and choose wall papers. It's a two hours' run from town I believe, and we were to catch the 2:15."

Royal Cliff was the Ridgeway country mansion.

"An excellent idea! How I wish that I could go with you, but I promised Mrs. Harringford I would help her at her bazaar this afternoon, and I have an early dinner party tonight, and couldn't possibly get out of it. You'll bring me samples of the wall papers to morrow won't you, Rosilyn? And you'll see that my own special suite in the right wing is repeated in the same coloring? Jefferson's have the patterns. The bedroom's grey and lavender, while the sitting room in cream and hyacinth blue. And a new bath in the bathroom. I wrote them my instructions."

"I'll see they're carried out." The bride nodded. "And won't you let me get whatever's necessary in the way of furniture? Won't you need new cretonnes for your little sitting room?"

"Such a generous child!" Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, stooped and kissed her. Then she straightened. "I must be off now. I'll drive around by Landis' club, and see if I can find him. If not I'll telephone again, and you can let me know his whereabouts."

Away she went.

Rosilyn rose, had her bath, and then—before she chose which frock to wear—telephoned the hotel hair dressing department and asked that a manicurist and a "waver" be sent immediately to the suite.

The pain and anger and bumiliation over Landis' defection of last night had vanished now. In its place had come a grim determination to do her very best to seem good in his eyes—to be as beautiful as possible—as well-groomed, anyhow, as Lydia Harbrook, even though she never could aspire to the latter's loveliness and fascination.

While the manicure girl worked at her fingers, and the hair dresser marcelle waved and brilliantined her dusky locks, the bride's mind was obsessed with the idea of winning Landis for her very own.

As for Mr. Briscoe, why! His proffered friendship would be mighty useful. He could show her all the "ropes." He could set her right on many little social matters when pride forbade her displaying her ignorance to her husband.

He had flirted with her last night, hadn't he? But that was usual in this "set." She must not be surprised or shocked at anything. She must take her cue, and sharpen her wits, and outdo these "charming" women at their own game of fascination, if she could.

MARKETS

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, May 22.—Realizing sales by professional traders imparted considerable irregularity to the price movement in today's stock market, although the main trend continued upward with the motors giving another remarkable demonstration of group strength. Rails shares gathered strength as the session advanced and several of the carriers scored substantial gains. Sales ran above and three-fourth million shares.

Contined ease of the credit situation as reflected in the establishment of the highest reserve ratio of the year by the New York federal reserve bank, an increase of 10 cents a barrel in Smackover crude oil and high lead and zinc prices all had a bullish effect on sentiment.

Revival of activity in the rails was in anticipation of a favorable April earnings statement by several carriers next week. Net gains of 1 to 2½ points were recorded by Atchison and Chicago and Northwestern, Rock Island, Great Northern preferred, Missouri-Pacific preferred and Union Pacific.

Nash Motors jumped 14 points to 120 duplicating its record high, and Mack Trucks moved up over 4 points to within a very small fraction of its record top, but cancelled nearly half of its gain on profit taking. Pierce Arrow preferred soared 7⅝ points to a new top at 70⅞ and the prior preferred closed 4⅛ points higher at 114⅛ after touching a new maximum at 115. The Maxwell issues, Packard common and Willys Overland preferred also broke through to new peak prices, the last named touching 111 and then easing to 109⅛, up 5⅛.

Buying of the oils was of a selectvie character, California Petroleum preferred advancing more than 3 points to a new high at 123, while Marland, Texas company, Union Oil of California, Sinclair preferred and Atlantic Refining climbed a point or so. Pacific Oil closed fractionally lower at 59¼.

International Paper company jumped 6⅝ points to 69, the highest price in sevreal years, and Simmons company climbed more than 2 points to a new top at 42¼.

Call money opened at 3¾ per cent but advanced to 4 in the late afternoon. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Reactionary tendencies characterized the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling dropped nearly half a cent to 4.85⅝ while French francs fell 3 points to 5.12 cents, the lowest figures since the middle of last month.

expected crop report by a New York authority would prove very bearish. This was up to the full expectations of the bears, reporting a condition average of 77.5 and an increase of 5.5 per cent in acreage and indicating a crop of 14,900,000 bales.

The impression of this report was that it was entirely too bearish and appeared to be largely disregarded and as weekly statistics were bullish and stocks at ports and in the interior began to look very light prices rallied and the day's highs were reached on the bulge which followed. Hester made mill takings 242,000 bales against 179,000 last year. The visible supply of American lost 183,938 bales for the week against 82,909 last year.

During the afternoon the market eased off on releasing and week-end liquidation and final results showed no change for the day.

Good trade reports were more favorable. Worth street (New York) reporting sales of over 100,000 pieces of print cloths and sheetings in the last three days and Fall River estimated sales of print cloths for the week at 25,000 pieces.

Exports today, 9,756 bales and for the week 86,615 bales.

BRADSTREETS

NEW YORK, May 22.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Warmer weather slightly more cheerful crop reports, and considerable strength in wheat and cotton prices early made for a slightly more cheerful tone in distributive trade and in some industries, notably building and automobile and kindred trades. Distinct gains over recent weeks or months do not appear notable and it is probable that some of the better feeling has its rise in the increasingly better comparisons which present approximately steady trade seems to make with a year ago when crop outlook was rather poor and trade and industry were receding rather swiftly toward the intense depression characterizing mid-year of 1924. There is a good deal of irregular movement still visible in different branches of trade and industry and while crop reports as a whole are far better than a year ago, there is also something to be wished even in this latter direction.

CHILD DESERTER SENTENCED

Fine of $100 and Year in Jail to Be Appealed.

A fine of $100 and a sentence of a year in jail was assessed Friday afternoon against Jack Ellis following his conviction in the county court at law on a charge of child desertion.

It was alleged that he had left his wife with three small children to support and gone to Oklahoma where he remained for some time.

The case will be appealed, it is understood.

NEW ORLEANS, May 22.—The cotton market today was a two-sided affair and fairly active. Prices fluctuated frequently but the range was not as wide as on preceding days. After opening 1 to 7 points up and gaining a little right after the opening call, prices eased to 23.04 for July and 21.62 for October, or 9 to 15 points below the previous close. These proved to be the day's lows. January later advanced to 23.42 and October to 21.95 on good trade buying, but lost a good portion of advance during the afternoon and finally closed unchanged on all months but July which was 3 points net lower.

Steady cables and rather unfavorable Texas crop news were responsible for the initial advance. The subsequent decline in early morning was due to fears that the

HULL GIVEN A DECISION OVER RILEY, FRIDAY

Vernon Fight Results In Classy Mixup Between Boys

VERNON, May 22. — Clyde Hull, the St. Paul flash, won a referee's decision over Sammy Riley, welterweight of Altus, Okla., in a classy 10-round go here tonight. Hull's abiltiy to keep his left bouncing on Riley's chin and nose almost constantly, brought the decision. He seemed to be nursing his right, striking only three or four times with it during the fight.

Riley was fighting wild, strking at random, and seldom connecting. Seven or eight rights to the body constituted his contribution to the slugfest.

Hull took the fight by a wide margin after the third round. The fighters seemed to have a high respect for each other, taking the first two rounds to feel each other out. Riley took the third round by his aggressiveness alone, landing fewer blows than did Hull.

Blas Rodriguez of Mexico City, won a referee's decision over Young Murdock of Sulphur, Okla., in a six-round semi-final. Rodriguez fought the cleverest fight that has been staged in the local arena this year, hitting Murdock with everything known at most any time during the bout.

Tommy Rowan of Vernon, gleaned a decision over Battling Norfolk of Wichita Falls, in a four-round curtain raiser.

Woman Is Slightly Injured When Cars Smash on Ninth St.

Three badly scared children and one woman slightly hurt was the result of a traffic smash late Friday afternoon at the corner of Ninth and Austin streets.

A car driven by Mrs. G. Woodruff, 1305 Fifteenth street, was struck by another machine at the intersection and the youngsters hurled from the rear seat. It was feared for a moment they had been seriously hurt and an ambulance was called to take them to the hospital. There, however, it was found they were only bruised.

Mrs. Woodruff sustained slight cuts and bruises about the arms.

MRS. E. A. HAUSLER DIES

Wichita Woman Succumbs to Brief Illness.

Mrs. E. A. Hausler, 44, died at the general hospital yesterday morning at 3:45 a. m. following a brief illness. Mrs. Hausler had moved to Wichita Falls recently to put her children in school, residing at 1208 Polk street. She was the wife of E. A. Hausler, who died a few weeks ago, one of the most prominent of South Archer county farmers and royalty owners.

Funeral services will be held from the residence today and the body shipped to Olney for interment.

Gun Goes Off—So Does Youth's Toe

When Charles Shields, a 16-year-old Byers youth, rested the muzzle of a loaded shotgun on the big toe of his left foot late Friday afternoon he din't think the weapon would go off. —But it did.

Surgeons at the general hospital last night shaved off the rough edges of where the toe had been, dressed the wound and said he'd be all right in a few days.

Blow, bugles, blow, soft and sweet and low,
Sing a good-night song for them who bravely faced the foe;
Sing a song of true to pain,
Where they sleep nor wake again,
'Neath the sunshine or the rain
Blow, bugle, blow.

BLOW TO VETS OF U. C. V. WHO LEAVE DALLAS

Tattered Flags, Aged Warriors And a Few Slaves In Tearful Parade

DALLAS, May 22—Withered hands folded, tattered battle flags and weary feet turned homeward old men in gray tonight said adieu to Dallas, which has been host to the United Confederate Veterans since last Monday.

The thirty-fifth reunion was over. The hands that carried the muskets for the South's cause 65 years ago, touched those of the present generation, as through the streets of Dallas today there wended the remnants of the Confederate army on what probably will be its last journey west of the Mississippi. From the cushioned seats of limousines, the veterans reached out their hands or threw kisses to the throng, while a vast crowd touched them or kissed them as they passed by in the annual parade. The hands that left a heritage of valor if not of victory were patted and caressed as neer before.

Touhing Good-Bye.

With touching good-byes, the veterans said their farewells. Their final journey here was given a setting accorded only to heroes. The colors of the flags, the blue of a fair Texas sky, the smiles and flowers of beautiful women, the acclaim of the multitude was theirs for a fleeting hour.

And then they were gone.

Living soldiers of all the wars of America since that conflict between the states were in the parade; and the boys of the army that may be in the future, the reserve officers training corps lads, were there rank on rank.

Only two or three of the old fighters walked on foot and a handful of Forrest's cavalry rode horseback. One veteran, with his musket and knapsack, led a snappy body of national guardsmen. Another rode with his wife in an old buggy drawn by an aged horse—like the veterans, representative of a depleted race. Another old man in a general's gray uniform walked sprightly between the columns escorted by two young women. A few old slaves were there too, with remnants of uniforms.

Champ Chicken Thief.

The champion chicken thief of the south was one of them. He wore chicken feathers in his hat and carried a rooster under each arm.

For three hours this procession crept along Dallas' streets, and then the reunion was over, and the veterans began to disperse to meet next year in Birmingham, Ala., under the leadership of General W. B. Freeman of Richmond, Va.

The veterans stood the strain of travel and excitement well. No serious illness and not one death during the five days was reported. This establishes what is believed a new record. Close to 5,000 men, averaging 80 years, were gathered in temporary quarters devoid of their accustomed surroundings, with change of water and food, but during the gathering only 65 veterans were treated and those for minor ailments. The last of the old men checked out of the emergency hospital this morning to be in the parade.

Brilliant Ladies And Gentlemen In Function of Court

LONDON, May 22.—(AP)—Another brilliant assemblage gathered at Buckingham Palace tonight for the second royal court of the season. The weather, like that of last night, when the first royal court was held, was ideal, and again large crowds of the pageant-loving gathered in the environs of the palace to catch a glimpse of the guests as they arrived.

In its main features, tonight's court was the same as that of last night. The number of guests was approximately one thousand, but the official circle was smaller than that attending the first court, and the general circle was correspondingly larger.

The Earl of Ypres

FROMDEAL, England, May 22. (AP)—The death here today of the Earl of Ypres, who as Field Marshal French, was a brave war figure, came at a time when his great reputation was somewhat under a cloud, while controversy raged over his military strategy in France. The earl, 73, had been ill since March 19, when he underwent an operation for appendicitis in a private hospital in London.

The controversy concerning the Earl of Ypres has been before the British public practically since he published his book on the war entitled "1914," which contained much outspoken and adverse criticism of his subordinates and some French generals and which did not except Lord Kitchener. The argument has been especially bitter concerning the battle of Lecateu and General Smith-Dorrien's part in that battle.

Just at the time of the operation on the earl, Smith-Dorrien had published a book making a spirited defense against the Earl of Ypres' attacks on him in connection with the battle.

The Earl of Ypres' command of "Old Contemptibles" as Britain's first small expeditionary force to France became known, will always be remembered with gratitude by his countrymen. There is also the memory of his long and great services in many fields of public endeavor, including his service as lord lieutenant of Ireland during the trouble some times after the end of the war until the creation of the Irish Free State. It was during this period that an attempt was made to assassinate him. His death occurred very soon after that of another British world war figure, Lord Rawlingson, who died while serving as commander-in-chief of the British forces in India.

The Earl of Ypres never fully recovered from the operation for appendicitis he underwent in a London nursing home in March. His condition had improved by the end of April, but about a fortnight ago he had a relapse and he was taken to his home in Deal last Sunday. He was said to have stood the journey well, and this gave rise to renewed hope of recovery, but as it now appears, the doctor concealed his real condition and he was only taken home to die.

Smith and were remanded to jail in default of $500 bond each.

12 DENVER COPS FOUND GUILTY IN GRAFT CASES

Police Get Discharge From Manager of Safety Department

DENVER, Colo., May 22.—Twelve Denver policemen, members of the bootleg squad, were found guilty of charges of bribery and graft and were discharged toda yby Manager of Safety Reuben W. Hershey. One police officer was fully exonerated and a sergeant was ordered back to duty, though his suspension was sustained. The charges came as an aftermath to the Good Friday vice and liquor raids in which 200 arrests were made.

Plenty of Oil Still In Ground, He Says

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP) Plenty of oil remains in the ground in the United States to meet the demand for a long time, A. C. Beford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, testified today at a war department hearing to build a bridge across the Mississippi at New Orleans. Reports of a shortage in the next 10 years he said, were unfounded.

Much oil, he asserted, remains in oilfields, in some cases a rather high per cent which will be available when the demand warrants its capture at the price that will be required to obtain it.

"I don't agree," he said in reply to a question "that the oil supply will be exhausted in the United States in ten years."

If America should be required to import much oil, he said, large quantities probably would be obtained from South America.
