STAMPEDE IN ELECTION FOR BOARD FAILS

Eleventh Hour Attempt Made to Carry Voting by Writing in Names of Candidate Not on Ballot.

Labor Calls Mass Meeting to Hear Contestants in City Election for Monday Night.

An eleventh hour attempt to carry the school board election against the ticket printed on the ballot through scratching these candidates and writing in the names of F. G. Swanson and F. M. Willis failed Saturday and W. T. Willis, W. W. Brown, W. R. Ferguson and W. M. Priddy were elected by majorities of more than 100.

News of the effort, current on the streets late in the afternoon, aroused considerable interest in the election, and friends of the candidates turned out in numbers. This resulted in a great many more votes being cast in the election after 4 o'clock than was the case during the entire day up to that hour.

Starts at Meeting.

The organized attempt to carry the election came following the mass meeting called at the Labor Temple for 4 p. m., where it was decided that those attending, as a unit, should visit the polls and write in the names of these candidates.

Another political mass meeting is to be held at the Labor Temple Monday evening, it was learned from an official of the Central Trades and Labor council, at which time all candidates for the city council will be invited to appear and speak. This meeting will be held at 8 p. m.

Expected to Caucus.

Following these talks, the body is expected to resolve itself in a caucus and make a choice of candidates for the places.

It is understood that the meeting will be open to the public during the speaking, but will be closed to all except members of local labor organizations while a caucus is being taken. The results of the caucus may, it is said, be published in the newspapers of election day.

Results in the school board election were:

W. T. Willis, 183; W. W. Brown, 183; W. R. Ferguson, 179; W. M. Priddy, 175; F. G. Swanson, 83, and F. M. Willis, 70. Scattering votes were also recorded in the name of R. E. Shepherd, whose name did not appear on the ticket.

Attempt Is Recognized.

This attempt to bring about an overturn of the candidates appearing on the ticket recalls the election of last year, when such an attempt was made, save that last year the attempt was successful.

On this occasion, no organized meeting was held preceding the attempt, however, a handful of business men getting together and deciding to put up the names of some women for the place, and urging their friends to write in their names on the ticket. The numbers interested were increased by steady work and the dark horse ticket won. The defeat of the same attempt in this instance was brought about largely by the application of the same measures which won before, the friends of the candidates on the ticket making a spurt when the drive against them became apparent.

Women at the polls provided quite a noticeable feature in the election. They came in ones, two, threes and in groups of fives and sixes.

PARRISH ANNOUNCES FOR SENATE

Proposed Line Will Extend Through Oil Fields of Stephens

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., April 2.—Charter for the Duncan, Oklahome and Texas railroad, a proposed line extending from Oklahoma City through Duncan and the Stephens county oil field to Wichita Falls was granted today by the state of Oklahoma, according to word received here from W. N. Hawley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Organizers are Col. Hawley, M. C. Houston, W. E. Reynolds, G. L. Wilson, Harry Baker and W. L. Brittain.

G. L. Wilson, president of the Duncan National Bank, one of the organizers, said this afternoon that surveyors would be in the field immediately and that work on the line would start with all possible dispatch.

The link through the Empire oil fields to Wichita Falls will be the first constructed, after which the link through the east side shallow fields to Oklahoma City will be built.

Financiers are understood to have pledged their co-operation, and the organizers, all of whom are Duncan men, are perfectly confident of the early completion of the line, which will afford direct connection from Wichita Falls, Oklahoma City and intermediate points.

CONGRESSMAN WILL RUN FOR UPPER HOUSE

LUCIAN W. PARRISH

Lucian W. Parrish of Henrietta, congressman for the 13th district of Texas, will be in the race for United States senator from Texas in 1922.

This announcement was authorized by Mr. Parrish just prior to his departure for Washington, and was made after a preliminary canvass of the Texas political situation which convinced him that his chances would be excellent. He will make a more formal declaration of his platform and views at a later date, he said, and will, if his congressional duties permit, make a vigorous campaign throughout the state.

Interest In Announcement Here

News of Mr. Parrish's decision to run was received with much gratification by his numerous friends in Wichita Falls, who had previously heard that he might enter the race and who had encouraged him to do so. Although Mr. Parrish is not a Wichitan, he has had this city's interests very deeply at heart, his friends here feel, and they consider their claim upon him to be scarcely less than that of his own home town.

Mr. Parrish is now serving his second term as congressman, being first elected in 1918, when this district was first created. Previous to making the race for congress, he was not in politics, being engaged in the practice of law at Henrietta, where he located following his graduation from the state university.

His university career, both as an athlete of exceptional prowess and as as a leader of his fellow-students, was notable in many respects, and his name is known and beloved in every community from which young men have gone to the university.

It is expected that organization of a "Wichita County For Parrish Club" will be undertaken here in the near future.

Four Possible Candidates

In connection with the intention of Mr. Parrish to make this race, which has been rumored for some time, the names of four men as possible candidates for the seat in congress from this district have been mentioned.

Two of them are Wichitans, Representative B. Frank Johnson, who has made a statewide reputation in his first term in the Texas legislature and Judge S. A. L. Morgan, a member of the law firm of Carrigan, Montgomery and Britain.

Two other possible candidates mentioned are from Denton county, Speaker Thomas, of the present legislature and Alvin M. Ousley, boss of Denton.

Kill Cousin to Avenge Death of Husband in August

Special to The Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., April 2.—When Mrs. Hobbs Conklin shot and immediately killed Roy Garvin at Marlow yesterday afternoon, she not only avenged the death of her husband last August but she killed her own first cousin.

Garvin was killed by Mrs. Conklin on Marlow's main street. He was under indictment for the alleged killing of Mrs. Conklin's husband, east of Marlow, last August. The woman had not seen him since the tragedy.

According to eye witnesses she fired the first shot into the back of his head as he was seated on the curb.

As he fell backwards, she stood over him and emptied the revolver into his face, six shots taking effect.

The woman then became hysterical. She was given medical aid and is now in the Duncan jail awaiting examining trial.

Her eight children are alone on the farm east of Marlow. The youngest is only two years old.

SWEETWATER CITIZENS DEMAND CREATION OF WESTERN STATE

By Associated Press.

SWEETWATER, Tex., April 2.—Division of the State of Texas and organization of a new state as a protest against "taxation without representation is the goal sought by an organization initiated here today as a result of the governor's veto on the West Texas A. & M., bill and rural school aid measure and failure of the legislature to redistrict the state according to population figures. Several surrounding counties are supporting the movement and have representatives.

Support of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be asked immediately, it was learned from leaders.

Governor Neff's veto of the small appropriatios for the purchase of a site for the West Texas A. & M. college is full notice to the people of the west that they are living under a "state government which denies them the chance to realize their hopes and aspirations," declared R. M. Chitwood, representative for the 121st district today.

CABINET DISCUSSES PEACE WITH GERMANY BY CONGRESS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Advisability of a congressional declaration of peace with Germany, with various other questions involved in the general problem of a peace settlement, came to the front of official discussion here again today as a result of a noted succession of White House conferences.

Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania; Colonel George Harvey of New York, probable ambassador to Great Britain; Myron T. Herrick, understood to be under consideration for ambassador to France, and Stephane Lauvanne, noted French journalist who came to this country with former Premier Viviani were among those with whom the president was closeted during the day. All of these who participated in the conferences declined to say what specific proposals were discussed or to indicate when decisions might be expected.

By inference the day's developments were coupled with the visit here of the M. Viviani, who has brought to American officials first hand report as to the present attitude of the European government toward the League of Nations and related subjects.

The impression given was that the administration was feeling its way in the light of the information and advice brought by M. Viviani and that a definite policy was yet to be framed.

RANGERS RAID HOUSE AFTER TWO ATTEMPTS

Following one attempt to raid the house, unsuccessfully due to the fact that it was guarded, state Rangers McCormick and Gonzanlos outwitted the guards late Friday night and made ten arrests of inmates of the house at Newtown. All the men were brought to this city.

In connection with the raid, a charge of operating a gambling house was filed against C. L. Brewer and he was placed under $1,000 bond Saturday. The remainder of the men plead guilty to gambling charges Saturday morning and paid fines.

The arrests were the first to be made in connection with a raid of a gambling house in the oil fields in several weeks. It is believed by the officers that the house had been in operation for several days.

Shorter Hours For Printers Is Protested

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO April 2.—Declarations of employers that the 44-hour week in the print industry meant business suicide and reiteration of union heads that failure to accede to the shorter week would precipitate the greatest fight in the trade's history marked today's conference of the international joint council of printing employers and employes.

The controversy hangs about a referendum vote, taken in 1919 by the five unions of the printing industry, favoring establishment of the 44-hour week on the present 48-hour wage scale and later agreed to by the United Typothetae of America. Many employers, however, contend they are not bound by the typothetae's action and representatives from various parts of the country appeared at an open session today to voice their objections.

Speaking for the closed shop division of the typothetae, Harris Hatch of Philadelphia, explained that the council had no power but had recommended the 44-hour week which was accepted in convention.

John W. Hasty of Chicago, another member, declared that the convention was not representative and that no organization of employers had the authority to represent the great body of employers over the country. He cited a typothetae meeting here yesterday at which six citys besides New York and Chicago were represented.

The unorganized group of employers does not feel bound by the recommendations of the council, nor the action of the typothetae, in the opinion of Edward A. Brewster, of Joliet, Ill. He explained that of the 35,000 employed printers in the country, 5,000 were members of typothetae and but 1,500 of that number had closed shops. He declared himself against the 44-hour week. A. A. Toulinson of Houston, Texas, and Lawrence B. Smith of Kansas City, Mo., added their protest to the shorter week, Mr. Smith asserting that business suicide was certain if such action was taken. Already, he said, large customers had notifid Kansas City printing plant that they would withdraw their business if the printers' employers acceded to the 44-hour week.

Vigorous talks in which the principle of the shorter week was upheld and declaration made that the 60,000 printers and the 10,000 women of the bookbinder union would fight against any opposition were made by various unions.

Vatican Victory Foreseen Thru Irish Governor

By Associated Press

DUBLIN, April 2.—The Freeman Journal, commenting today on the appointment of Lord Edmund Bernard Talbot as lord lieutenant and governor general of Ireland in succession to Viscount French, says it is to be claimed as recommendation that Lord Talbot is a Catholic. The newspaper adds:

"But it is an insult to Irish intelligence to think that fact will insure a welcome from the Irish people to this rabid tory partisan * * * for 15 years the new viceroy has been the principal organizer of the anti-Irish forces in England."

The Freeman's Journal says it thinks the motive of the appointment of Lord Talbot was the desire of Premier Lloyd George to keep the Vatican in good humor but officials declare a likelier explanation is that the viceroy is appointed for the whole of Ireland and, therefore, it was necessary to appoint a Catholic whose political record would render him agreeable to Ulster.

By Associated Press.

BERNE, April 2.—The Swiss federal council will inform former Emperor Charles on his arrival that he cannot remain in Prangins, as the Canton of Vaud, in which Pragins is located, does not desire his presence. He must choose a residence away from the frontier and not in a city.

The federal council after an investigation will decide whether the temporary permission granted Charles to remain in Switzerland shall be made permanent and under what conditions.

MEXICANS ARREST AMERICAN EDITOR

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, April 2.—Federal authorities last night arrested Linn A. Gale, American radical, who for more than three years has published a monthly magazine here which of late has been sharply critical of the Obregon administration. KANSAS OFFICER TO HEAD MILITIA

WASHINGTON, April 2.—It is expected that President Harding shortly will nominate Adjt. C. I. Martin of Kansas as head of the Militia Bureau of the War Department. President Wilson nominated Col. George C. Rickards of Pennsylvania, but he failed of confirmation and the office is again being filled by Major General Jesse McI. Carter, of the regular army.

General Martin has been endorsed by thirty-five state governors. Adjutant General Barton of Texas, who was recently here conferred with General Martin on Texas militia matters. The appointment of the Southwestern National Guard official would be pleasing to Texans, as he is especially familiar with the needs of the militia in that section.

Americans Get Few Wool Orders Out of Mexico

Record News Staff Bureau.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—American salesmen are able to secure only small orders for wool in Mexico, in view of the uncertainty as to the possible effect of the pending tariff revision on prices of wool in the United States, Commercial Attache Carlton Jackson at Mexico City, reports to the department of commerce.

The native raw wool does not nearly supply the demand created by a half dozen important woolen mills in Mexico, and there has been a fairly active trade for several years in wool imports. It has been a peculiar fact, Jackson said, that a very large part of the offerings have been of high grade "tops," somewhat better in fact, than the trade required.

The market is now strongly invaded by French and British shippers and "tops" of slightly inferior grade are offered at from 25 to 30 cents under questions by American houses. The French seem to be particularly active now, Jackson said, for the reason possibly that textile and wool markets in Mexico are very largely in the hands of local French houses.

CUSTOMS PENALTY TO BE ENFORCED IN OCCUPIED ZONE

By Associated Press.

COBLENZ, April 2.—French customs officials to the number of 350 and 50 Belgians arrived in Coblenz today and immediately departed for the limits of the zones of occupation. They will be ready to begin enforcement of the allied customs penalty on Germany as soon as the allied commission in the Rhineland receives official notice that the council of ambassadors in Paris has approved the system for collecting the duties.

British, French and Belgian representatives will handle the American zone, it is announced. The actual work will be done by German functionaries.

DALLAS MAN SUES FOR 5 CENT CLAIM

Alleges He Dropped Jitney In Street Car Collection Box Without Refund.

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, April 2.—Suit for five cents and court costs, the total of which would amount to $2.15, was filed in justice court here today against the Dallas Railway Company by C. K. Bullard, a local attorney.

In his petition Bullard says he boarded a street car this morning and inadvertently dropped a dime and a penny in the fare box—an excess of five cents. The car conductor refused to refund the nickel, Bullard alleges, and even declined to permit the next passenger to make the refund and square the box. Instead, Bullard said, he was handed a printed slip informing him to present "his claim at the company's office."

"I haven't time to walk all over town for a nickel" Bullard said today. "It'll be worth while just to see the car company revise that rule and make less trouble for passengers."

FREIGHT WRECK HINDERS TRAFFIC OVER DENVER LINES

A derailment of six loaded freight cars on the Denver road about 6:30 o'clock Saturday morning near Bellevue, caused passenger traffic to be routed over the Rock Island and Katy. Passenger train No. 3, due in Wihcita Falls at 12:55, arrived here three hours late.

No damage was done to the track. The wrecker which was dispatched as soon as the news of the accident had reached here and the wreck was cleared during the afternoon.

TEXHOMA OIL DONATES PARK TO CITIZENS

Unnamed Benefactor Also Presents City With Seven Acres to Be Used for Same Purposes.

Gifts Bring Total Number of Breathing Places in City Up to Eleven With 7 Under Improvement.

Donation of two additional parks to the city was announced Saturday by Walter S. Curlee, city commissioner—bringing the total number of city parks to 11. The number recently acquired by gifts from local citizens by Mr. Curlee and other members of the Chamber of Commerce parks and playgrounds bureau, which recently undertook the execution of the park program, which was lagging behind, to four.

One of the new parks is on the north side and the other at the end of Fourth street, on the near side of the river.

On North Side.

The first, which is four acres in extent, was given by the Texhoma Oil & Refining Co., and adjoins the paved road where Houston street joins the road. It is only two blocks removed from the school, and will be a valuable addition to the community center on the north side which had grown up around this location.

The second park, the donor of which requests his name withheld, consists of seven acres at the foot of Fourth street, in the Flood addition. All of the park sites will be improved as soon as the plans being drawn by George A. Kessler are perfected.

Undergoing Improvement.

Of the eleven parks now belonging to the city seven are improved or undergoing improvement and it will not be a matter of many months until all are undergoing improvements.

While some of the parks will naturally be held awaiting improvements longer than others, still the city as a whole will have access to parks and the present system is greatly enhanced by the addition of the two parks donated this week, the commissioner says.

CHARGE THEFT UNDER $50 TO EX-CONSTABLE

Charged with the embezzlement of less than $50 E. C. Austin, former deputy constable, was arrested Saturday by county officers. He was released during the afternoon on $300 bond.

The complaint against Austin was filed by a local mercantile establishment. It was alleged that Austin was given bad checks to collect for the store and that he had failed to make an accounting after cashing the checks. Austin's commission as deputy constable was cancelled the first of the week by Constable Morgan.

Cupid Plays Losing Game Against "God" of Divorce

Cupid is playing a losing game while his rival "divorce" is more than holding his own in Wichita county.

That is the verdict of comparative figures at the courthouse based on reports for the first quarter of 1920 and 1921.

In an article published in the Record News from Washington, D. C. last Sunday officials of the International Reform bureau, declared that the divorce figures for this and several other counties in the state for the year 1916 were "appalling." Granted that such was the case figures for the first quarter of the current year are "overpowering" as one courthouse official expressed it.

The reform bureau stated that in 1916 the county divorce rate was 585 for 100,000 population. If the county continues for the balance of the year as indicated by the first three months ending April 1, the rate based on the last federal census will be 667 for 100,000 population.

Three out of every seven marriages in the county are failures according to the first quarter report. County Clerk Harris states that 294 couples have been issued licenses to enter the state of matrimony during the first quarter of the current year, but District Clerk Kerr has figures to show that 127 have filed suit to get out during the same period.

These figures show a decrease of 57 over the same period of last year in the number of marriage licenses issued and an increase of 7 in the number of divorce suits.

Hard times are assigned as the reason for the situation by some. The breaking up of marriages resulting from short romances is also given.

Such opinions are met locally with the fact that "hard times" are not mentioned in any of the divorce petitions. It is also true that only a few exservice men or their wives are seeking divorces.

CABINET DISCUSSES PEACE WITH GERMANY BY CONGRESS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Advisability of a congressional declaration of peace with Germany, with various other questions involved in the general problem of a peace settlement, came to the front of official discussion here again today as a result of a noted succession of White House conferences.

He cited a typothetae meeting here yesterday at which six citys besides New York and Chicago were represented.

The unorganized group of employers does not feel bound by the recommendations of the council, nor the action of the typothetae, in the opinion of Edward A. Brewster, of Joliet, Ill. He explained that of the 35,000 employed printers in the country, 5,000 were members of typothetae and but 1,500 of that number had closed shops. He declared himself against the 44-hour week. A. A. Tomlinson of Houston, Texas, and Lawrence E. Smith of Kansas City, Mo., added their protest to the shorter week, Mr. Smith asserting that business suicide was certain if such action was taken. Already, he said, large customers had notifid Kansas City printing plant that they would withdraw their business if the printers' employers acceded to the 44-hour week.

Vigorous talks in which the principle of the shorter week was upheld and declaration made that the 60,000 printers and the 10,000 women of the bookbinder union would fight against any opposition were made by various unions.

CONGRESSMAN WILL RUN FOR UPPER HOUSE

LUCIAN W. PARRISH

Lucian W. Parrish of Henrietta, congressman for the 13th district of Texas, will be in the race for United States senator from Texas in 1922.

This announcement was authorized by Mr. Parrish just prior to his departure for Washington, and was made after a preliminary canvass of the Texas political situation which convinced him that his chances would be excellent. He will make a more formal declaration of his platform and views at a later date, he said, and will, if his congressional duties permit, make a vigorous campaign throughout the state.

Interest In Announcement Here

News of Mr. Parrish's decision to run was received with much gratification by his numerous friends in Wichita Falls, who had previously heard that he might enter the race and who had encouraged him to do so. Although Mr. Parrish is not a Wichitan, he has had this city's interests very deeply at heart, his friends here feel, and they consider their claim upon him to be scarcely less than that of his own home town.

Mr. Parrish is now serving his second term as congressman, being first elected in 1918, when this district was first created. Previous to making the race for congress, he was not in politics, being engaged in the practice of law at Henrietta, where he located following his graduation from the state university.

His university career, both as an athlete of exceptional prowess and as as a leader of his fellow-students, was notable in many respects, and his name is known and beloved in every community from which young men have gone to the university.

It is expected that organization of a "Wichita County For Parrish Club" will be undertaken here in the near future.

Four Possible Candidates

In connection with the intention of Mr. Parrish to make this race, which has been rumored for some time, the names of four men as possible candidates for the seat in congress from this district have been mentioned.

Two of them are Wichitans, Representative B. Frank Johnson, who has made a statewide reputation in his first term in the Texas legislature and Judge S. A. L. Morgan, a member of the law firm of Carrigan, Montgomery and Britain.

Two other possible candidates mentioned are from Denton county, Speaker Thomas, of the present legislature and Alvin M. Ousley, both of Denton.

KANSAS OFFICER TO HEAD MILITIA

WASHINGTON, April 2.—It is expected that President Harding shortly will nominate Adjt. C. I. Martin of Kansas as head of the Militia Bureau of the War Department. President Wilson nominated Col. George C. Rickards of Pennsylvania, but he failed of confirmation and the office is again being filled by Major General Jesse McI. Carter, of the regular army.

General Martin has been endorsed by thirty-five state governors. Adjutant General Barton of Texas, who was recently here conferred with General Martin on Texas militia matters. The appointment of the Southwestern National Guard official would be pleasing to Texans, as he is especially familiar with the needs of the militia in that section.

Kill Cousin to Avenge Death of Husband in August

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., April 2.—When Mrs. Hobbs Conklin shot and immediately killed Roy Garvin at Marlow yesterday afternoon, she not only avenged the death of her husband last August but she killed her own first cousin.

Garvin was killed by Mrs. Conklin on Marlow's main street. He was under indictment for the alleged killing of Mrs. Conklin's husband, east of Marlow, last August. The woman had not seen him since the tragedy.

According to eye witnesses she fired the first shot into the back of his head as he was seated on the curb.

As he fell backwards, she stood over him and emptied the revolver into his face, six shots taking effect.

The woman then became hysterical. She was given medical aid and is now in the Duncan jail awaiting examining trial.

Her eight children are alone on the farm east of Marlow. The youngest is only two years old.

SWEETWATER CITIZENS DEMAND CREATION OF WESTERN STATE

By Associated Press.

SWEETWATER, Tex., April 2.—Division of the State of Texas and organization of a new state as a protest against "taxation without representation is the goal sought by an organization initiated here today as a result of the governor's veto on the West Texas A. & M., bill and rural school aid measure and failure of the legislature to redistrict the state according to population figures. Several surrounding counties are supporting the movement and have representatives.

Support of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be asked immediately, it was learned from leaders.

Governor Neff's veto of the small appropriatios for the purchase of a site for the West Texas A. & M. college is full notice to the people of the west that they are living under a "state government which denies them the chance to realize their hopes and aspirations," declared R. M. Chitwood, representative for ehe 121st district today.

Vatican Victory Foreseen Thru Irish Governor

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, April 2.—The Freeman Journal, commenting today on the appointment of Lord Edmund Bernard Talbot as lord lieutenant and governor general of Ireland in succession to Viscount French, says it is to be claimed as recommendation that Lord Talbot is a Catholic. The newspaper adds:

"But it is an insult to Irish intelligence to think that fact will insure a welcome from the Irish people to this rabid tory partisan * * * for 15 years the new viceroy has been the principal organizer of the anti-Irish forces in England."

The Freeman's Journal says it thinks the motive of the appointment of Lord Talbot was the desire of Premier Lloyd George to keep the Vatican in good humor but officials declare a likelier explanation is that the viceroy is appointed for the whole of Ireland and, therefore, it was necessary to appoint a Catholic whose political record would render him agreeable to Ulster.

By Associated Press.

The federal council after an investigation will decide whether the temporary permission granted Charles to remain in Switzerland shall be made permanent and under what conditions.

Americans Get Few Wool Orders Out of Mexico

Record News Staff Bureau.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—American salesmen are able to secure only small orders for wool in Mexico, in view of the uncertainty as to the possible effect of the pending tariff revision on prices of wool in the United States, Commercial Attache Carlton Jackson at Mexico City, reports to the department of commerce.

The native raw wool does not nearly supply the demand created by a half dozen important woolen mills in Mexico, and there has been a fairly active trade for several years in wool imports. It has been a peculiar fact, Jackson said, that a very large part of the offerings have been of high grade "tops," somewhat better in fact, than the trade required.

The market is now strongly invaded by French and British shippers and "tops" of slightly inferior grade are offered at from 25 to 30 cents under questions by American houses. The French seem to be particularly active now, Jackson said, for the reason possibly that textile and wool markets in Mexico are very largely in the hands of local French houses.

DALLAS MAN SUES FOR 5 CENT CLAIM

Alleges He Dropped Jitney In Street Car Collection Box Without Refund.

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, April 2.—Suit for five cents and court costs, the total of which would amount to $2.15, was filed in justice court here today against the Dallas Railway Company by C. K. Bullard, a local attorney.

In his petition Bullard says he boarded a street car this morning and inadvertently dropped a dime and a penny in the fare box—an excess of five cents. The car conductor refused to refund the nickel, Bullard alleges, and even declined to permit the next passenger to make the refund and square the box. Instead, Bullard said, he was handed a printed slip informing him to present "his claim at the company's office."

"I haven't time to walk all over town for a nickel" Bullard said today. "It'll be worth while just to see the car company revise that rule and make less trouble for passengers."

FREIGHT WRECK HINDERS TRAFFIC OVER DENVER LINES

A derailment of six loaded freight cars on the Denver road about 6:30 o'clock Saturday morning near Bellevue, caused passenger traffic to be routed over the Rock Island and Katy. Passenger train No. 3, due in Wihcita Falls at 12:55, arrived here three hours late.

No damage was done to the track. The wrecker which was dispatched as soon as the news of the accident had reached here and the wreck was cleared during the afternoon.

TEXHOMA OIL DONATES PARK TO CITIZENS

Unnamed Benefactor Also Presents City With Seven Acres to Be Used for Same Purposes.

Gifts Bring Total Number of Breathing Places in City Up to Eleven With 7 Under Improvement.

Donation of two additional parks to the city was announced Saturday by Walter S. Curlee, city commissioner—bringing the total number of city parks to 11. The number recently acquired by gifts from local citizens by Mr. Curlee and other members of the Chamber of Commerce parks and playgrounds bureau, which recently undertook the execution of the park program, which was lagging behind, to four.

One of the new parks is on the north side and the other at the end of Fourth street, on the near side of the river.

On North Side.

The first, which is four acres in extent, was given by the Texhoma Oil & Refining Co., and adjoins the paved road where Houston street joins the road. It is only two blocks removed from the school, and will be a valuable addition to the community center on the north side which had grown up around this location.

The second park, the donor of which requests his name withheld, consists of seven acres at the foot of Fourth street, in the Flood addition. All of the park sites will be improved as soon as the plans being drawn by George A. Kessler are perfected.

Undergoing Improvement.

Of the eleven parks now belonging to the city seven are improved or undergoing improvement and it will not be a matter of many months until all are undergoing improvements.

While some of the parks will naturally be held awaiting improvements longer than others, still the city as a whole will have access to parks and the present system is greatly enhanced by the addition of the two parks donated this week, the commissioner says.

Austin's commission as deputy constable was cancelled the first of the week by Constable Morgan.

Cupid Plays Losing Game Against "God" of Divorce

Cupid is playing a losing game while his rival "divorce" is more than holding his own in Wichita county.

That is the verdict of comparative figures at the courthouse based on reports for the first quarter of 1920 and 1921.

In an article published in the Record News from Washington, D. C. last Sunday officials of the International Reform bureau, declared that the divorce figures for this and several other counties in the state for the year 1916 were "appalling." Granted that such was the case figures for the first quarter of the current year are "overpowering" as one courthouse official expressed it.

The reform bureau stated that in 1916 the county divorce rate was 585 for 100,000 population. If the county continues for the balance of the year as indicated by the first three months ending April 1, the rate based on the last federal census will be 667 for 100,000 population.

Three out of every seven marriages in the county are failures according to the first quarter report. County Clerk Harris states that 294 couples have been issued licenses to enter the state of matrimony during the first quarter of the current year, but District Clerk Kerr has figures to show that 127 have filed suit to get out during the same period.

These figures show a decrease of 57 over the same period of last year in the number of marriage licenses issued and an increase of 7 in the number of divorce suits.

Hard times are assigned as the reason for the situation by some. The breaking up of marriages resulting from short romances is also given.

Such opinions are met locally with the fact that "hard times" are not mentioned in any of the divorce petitions. It is also true that only a few exservice men or their wives are seeking divorces.

hich we had to come to. Prices were coming down, and the buying public for buildings, just as the buying public for everything else demands a reduction.

"It is something that was necessary, and in taking the step we did, we were simply conforming with a demand by the public.

"These reductions will place building prices here on the basis prevailing at Dallas. Chamber of Commerce directors and the president, T. B. Noble, in a recent meeting with the contractors when this came up, expressed themselves as believing that a reduction to the Dallas levels would be considered a fair basis, and would do much to stimulate building here.

Dallas Basis Guide.

The officials indicated that the contractors, members of the association, would be governed in the case of further reductions by the course of events at Dallas, and at other competing cities.

Commenting on the statement of officials of the carpenters' local that the carpenters would not consent to the announced reduction to $8, the officials said that the members of the union did not anticipate any difficulty in obtaining competent carpenters to work at this scale.

Material men, as well as the subcontractors dealing with other crafts other than those coming directly under the general contractors, have been requested to bring about a further reduction in lines which are still higher than is deemed reasonable, the officials state.

The new association is composed exclusively of general contractors, operating in a manner similar to that of the Wichita Falls Building Exchange, in the past, except that the material men and sub-contractors are not included in the membership.

TEMPLARS TO CONFER ORDER ON INITIATES

Wichita Falls Commandery No. 39 Knights Templar will confer orders on 15 candidates Thursday, April 7.

On account of the large number of candidates the meeting will be held starting promptly at 3 p. m. instead of the usual hour of 5 p. m.

Special authority for the conferring of degrees on such a large number was made on account of the fact that it will be impossible to perform any commandery work during the week of the grand conclave. It is customary to limit the number on whom the orders are conferred to four each week.

Commandery degrees will be given five candidates on April 14, of the week following. This meeting will be held at 5 p. m. This will be the last meeting before the grand commandery conclave.

Commander C. R. Hartsook, of the Wichita Falls Commandery visited Vernon Commandery No. 33 last Tuesday and assisted in conferring degrees on seven candidates. The plans of the local Knights Templars for entertaining the visitors at the grand conclave in April were explained to the Vernonites.

Much interest in the conclave is being shown by members of the Vernon commandery especially because of the fact that it is probable that the name of L. G. Hawkins, of that place will be presented for Grand Commander of the state. Mr. Hawkins is an officer of Maskat temple here.

A special invitation has been extended local Shriners to attend the formal banquet of the Graham Shrine Club April 14. Morris U. Lively, alchemist of Maskat temple is president of the club there.

W. D. Cline, Frank Collier, W. Y. Hammack and R. O. Harvey will attend the annual meeting of the Shrine Directors of North America, April 7, 8 and 9, in Dallas. These local representatives are members of the entertainment committee of which Dr. H. W. Evans, of Dallas, is chairman.

At the conclusion of the convention a director's meeting will be held at which time the ceremonial of the Shrine will be exemplified.

Maskat temple has been invited to send several novices to be initiated during the convention. The names of those who have been selected for this honor have not been given out at this time.

A number of local Masons are expected to attend a banquet to be given by the Royal Arch Masons of Seymour, chapter, Tuesday evening, April 5 in Seymour. R. E. Shepherd is on the program for some vocal selections and other local celebrities are expected to add to the occasion with informal talks. Those who expect to make the trip are: J. D. Avis, Frank Collier, W. J. Webb, R. E. Shepherd, J. S. Pitman, C. R. Hartsook, E. V. Freiburg, W. D. Cline, R. O. Harvey and C. O. Frits.

BEBE DANIELS

Bebe Daniels, motion picture star who played the leading role in "She Couldn't Help It" and other films, has been sentenced to ten days in jail by Judge Cox of Los Angeles, Cal., on a charge of speeding. The judge denied her a retrial. Unless Bebe appeals the case she'll have to spend the days behind the bars. Bebe was accused of ambling along at about 50 miles an hour. "No such thing," declares the pretty star.

Auto Dealers Plan Fight on Tonnage Bill

"The Wichita Falls Automobile Dealers' association has assured me through their president that they intend entering vigorously the campaign to put over the amendments to the Truck Mileage bill which will come before the legislature at their special session expected soon," said B. F. Johnson, representative of this district, Saturday.

"I believe the matter is only one of explaining fairly the use of auto trucks in the state and do not believe that a great deal of difficulty will be encountered in having the bill amended if we can get the legislators to listen to the facts in the case.

"That is all the proposed campaign is for. To get the facts before the legislators, that they may not do irredeemable injury to the state through miscomprehensions."

"I know where we can buy a few real cocktails before dinner."

"Yes, but the way prices are now, if we buy the cocktails we won't be able to buy the dinner."

Material Lack And Break Down Halts Road Work

Due to lack of materials and a temporary break down of one mixer only 1,815 feet of the concrete road between this city and Iowa Park was completed during the last week. The report to date at the office of the county engineer shows that a little over two miles of the road has now been completed. Of this total 7,100 feet is located at this end of the road and 3,700 feet at a point midway between this city and Iowa Park.

Additional shipments of cement arrived Saturday and according to County Engineer Isbell, work will be resumed on the road Monday morning. Mr. Isbell stated that difficulty was being experienced in obtaining sufficient rock and it was possible that work would be delayed during the coming week for that reason.

The 20 per cent reduction in the common labor work on county roads announced Friday by Potts & Prentice, contractors, will not cause a shut down, according to officials. Following the announcement Friday several of the men employed on the Iowa Park road quit, but, according to officials, there were a large number of applications for work during the day Saturday.

Underwood Sues For Paving Pay

As a result of the action of County Auditor Pat Murphy in refusing to pay two monthly bills for road work in precinct 2 suit was filed Saturday in county court at law against the county by W. T. Underwood for $904. The suit is for road work during the months of December and January and five days in February.

Both bills have been ordered paid by the county commissioners' court, the January bill having been ordered paid Monday at the session of the commissioners' court.

According to Murphy, the rates charged for the work are excessive and not with rate charged for similar work in other precincts. Mr. Murphy has also indicated that he will not approve the bills pending the trial of Lee Prescott, recently indicted by the grand jury for alleged malfeasance in office.

It was alleged in the indictment that Prescott was the owner of the teams used in road work in his precinct and involved in the bills whose payment is now pending.

According to Prescott, the teams have belonged to Underwood since they were used in county road work.

MORAL RESPONSIBILITY OF IRISH DISORDERS PLACED ON ENGLAND BY COMMITTEE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Moral responsibility for the present disorders in Ireland is placed upon the British government by the Commission of the Committee of One Hundred investigating the Irish question in a 30,000 word report made public today and covering the examination of witnesses at public hearings held by the commission in Washington last November, December and January.

Declaring that the Commission was "under the disadvantage of lacking the official British side of the case," except as it was gathered from documents presented to it, the report declares that "the imperial British army in Ireland has been guilty of proved excesses, not incomparable in degree and kind with those alleged, by the Bryce report on Belgium Atrocities, to have been committed by the imperial German army." The Bryce Commission, it is pointed out, was similarly handicapped.

Thirty-eight witnesses of alleged atrocities including 18 Irish, 18 American and two English citizens, tetsified before the commission. The commission admits that its report is ex parte in spite of its efforts to hear all sides. The testimony available, the report says, gives the case therefore, almost wholly from the Irish republican or Sinn Fein viewpoint or "from sources not unsympathetic to the application of the principle of self-determination to Ireland." The Ulster Unionist viewpoint and that of the British authorities in Ireland, the report says, were not represented among the witnesses.

Summing up its conclusions after hearing all the testimony, the commission finds "that the Irish people are deprived of the protection of British law, to which they would be entitled as subjects of the British King. They likewise are deprived of the moral protection granted by international law, to which they would be entitled as belligerents. They are at the mercy of imperial British forces which, acting contrary both to all law and to standards of human conduct, have instituted in Ireland 'a terror,' the evidence regarding which seems to prove that:

"1. The Imperial British Government has created and introduced into Ireland a force of at least 78,000 men, many of them youthful and inexperienced, and some of them convicts; and has incited that force to unbridled violence.

"2. The Imperial British forces in Ireland have indiscriminately killed innocent men, women and children; have tortured and shot prisoners while in custody, adopting the subterfuges of 'refusal to halt' and 'attempting to escape;' and have attributed to alleged 'Sinn Fein Extremists' the British assassination of prominent Irish Republicans.

"3. House-burning ad wanton destruction of villages and cities by Imperial British forces under Imperial British officers have been countenanced, and ordered by officials of the British government; and elaborate provision by gasoline sprays and bombs has been made in a number of instances for systematic incendiarism as part of a plan of terrorism.

"4. A campaign for the destruction of the means of existence of the Irish people has been conducted by the burning of factories, creameries, crops and farm implements and the shooting of farm animals. This campaign is carried on regardless of the political views of their owners, and results in widespread and acute suffering among women and children.

"5. Acting under a series of proclamations issued by the competent military authorities of the Imperial British forces, hostages are carried by force exposed to the fire of the Republican army; fines are levied upon towns and villages as punishment for alleged offenses of individuals; private property is destroyed in reprisals for acts with which the owners have no connection; and the civilian population is subjected to an inquisition upon the theory that individuals are in possession of information valuable to the military forces of Great Britain. These acts of the Imperial British forces are contrary to the laws of peace or war among modern civilized nations.

"6. This 'terror' has failed to reestablish Imperial British civil government in Ireland. Throughout the greater part of Ireland British courts have ceased to function; local, county and city governments refuse to recognize British authority; and British civil officials fulfill no function of service to the Irish people.

"7. In spite of the British 'terror' the majority of the Irish people have sanctioned by ballot the Irish Republic, give their allegiance to it; pay taxes to it; and respect the decisions of its courts and of its civil officials."

The commission also declared that "the situation in Ireland was a proper subject of concern for all peoples claiming either humanity or civilization," saying that "it appealed particularly to Americans so closely bound by ties of blood and culture to the Irish and English people." Unless moral force could prevail to end the terror in Ireland, the commission pointed out, "physical force seemed bound to continue both to deny the possibility of peace in Ireland and to diminish the possibility of non-intervention of our government in the struggle."

"It seemed to us," says the commission, "that we could best serve the cause of peace by placing before the English, Irish and American public the facts of the situation, free from both agonized exaggeration and moral understatement; for a knowledge of the facts might reveal their cause and recognition of that cause might permit its cure, by those whose purpose was not to slay but to heal."

In touching upon the events leading to the present crisis, the report declares: "The central fact in the Irish situation is the presence of the British in Ireland. The British can point to 700 years of possession of Ireland, and to 700 years spent in trying to pacify Ireland, and the British naturally desire to continue to possess Ireland, for they are proud of their empire, jealous of its integrity and anxious about its security."

The report points out that the Irish, as a result of their resort to arms in 1783, 1798, 1803, 1848 and 1867, have won from the British Parliament the abolition of penal laws against Roman Catholics, Disestablishment of the Irish Church, Liberal Land Laws, and, finally, the Irish Home Rule Act which was passed by the House of Lords and Commons and signed by the King in 1914. "At the behest of the British Tories, under Sir Edward Carson," the report says, "that act was suspended for the duration of the war and was later rendered void by a superseding act which partitioned Ireland."

The commission in referring to the Ulster rebellion of 1914 which, it says, was started by the Torries to fight Home Rule, charged that Carson and others leaders who had imported arms from Germany and had set us a provisional government in Belfast were forgiven and promoted to high offices in the British government.

"After this," the report says, "in 1916, Irish poets, teachers and leaders, with less than 1,000 followers rose in rebellion and declared Ireland's independence. Confronted with the Irish declaration of independence, the Imperial British government poured additional troops into Ireland. The rebellion was crushed in April 1916. The Imperial British government then continued to pour troops into Ireland. The Irish to an increasing degree were deprived of civil and social liberty. Such British rule lasted until December 14, 1918, when, at the conclusion of a war avowedly fought for the rights of small nations, the Irish people in the general election held under British auspices, gave the endorsement of their suffrage to the Irish republic which was the election issue in Ireland. In fulfillment of their pledge the elected representatives of the Irish republic met in Congress (the Dail Eirann) at Dublin, organised as a government and nominated officers and proceeded to function (January 21, 1919) and an army known as the Irish Republican Army was created, equipped with distinctive uniforms and drilled openly."

How Great Britain met the insurrection and the Irish resisted it are emphasized in the finds as indicative of which side is to blame.

Two kinds of "killings" have characterized the Irish republican warfare, according to the report. First, the casualties resulted from the Sinn Feiners' attempts to obtain arms and ammunition in attacking motor lorriers and police barracks and, second, the secret "execution" of spies, traitors and enemies of the Irish republic who have been adjudged as "guilty" by its courts and sentenced to death. It is admitted that the accused never appear before these Sinn Fein tribunals. Minor offenses are punishable by sentencing the guilty to enforced absence from their home town and residence for a stated period in "an unknown locality." The commission condemns the so-called legalized killings.

Many instances of alleged atrocities and wanton destruction of property by the British troops are presented in the report but all of these were testified to and publicly reported at the time of the hearings last Winter. Denunciation of the methods of the Auxiliary Cadets and the Black and Tans, two forces of "irregulars" that supplement the Royal Irish Constabulary and the regular British troops is expressed in the findings. Evidence of witnesses and depositions from victims, according to the report, established the fact that these troops included in their ranks "burglars and highwaymen, gunmen and petty thieves."

Regarding casualties, the commission says that it is justified in concluding that "not more than 600 of the British have been killed in Ireland from May 1916 to December 1920. These 600 casualties would seem to have occurred in a force of 78,000 during a period of four and one-half years, it is pointed out, or at the rate of not more than .26 of one per cent per annum.

On the other hand, according to lists compiled by the Irish Republican government and submitted to the commission, more than 200 unarmed Irish civilians were killed by the military and police during 1920 alone. This number, it was said, included six women, 12 children, 10 old men and two priests but did not include persons killed in the fighting. The commission says it does not vouch for the exactness of the figures but "direct testimony," it says, showed the killing of civilians in 1920 ran into "many hundreds."

The testimony attributed to the British forces approximately 45,000 raids, entailing "wreckage of property, robbery, murder of citizens, brutality of priests and women and children, and indiscriminate flogging." Many of the raids, it was said, were made at night by "members of the British forces dressed in civilian clothing."

Stress is laid upon "the moral consequence to the Imperial British forces" of the British government's military policy in Ireland." License instead of discipline, the commission says, now prevails among the troops. "Citizens of the Irish Republic "are held blameless for "incidential accidental and disciplinary casualties in the British forces, and for casualties incurred under circumstances of general violence and disorder." Many of the excesses of the 78,000 British troops are attributed to the incitement of the fear of assassination in the soldiers' minds by their superiors.

"We would extend our sympathy to the great British people," says the commission in concluding its report. "The army which is the instrument of their government in Ireland would also seem to be the instrument of the destruction of that moral heritage which was their glory and which cast its lustre on each and all of them. The sun of that glory seems finally to have set over Ireland. British 'justice' has become a discredited thing. The official Black and Tans in Ireland compete for the dishonor of Anglo-Saxon civilization with our unofficial lynch mobs. We hope that the wrong done to Ireland may be righted and the agony of her people cease. When these things shall be the great British people will emerge from the darkness that now incompasses them into the glory of a new day.

Thirty-six states were represented in the committee which initiated the inquiry, the report says, including five governors, 11 United States Senators, 13 congressmen, the mayors of 15 large cities, Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Keane and four Roman Catholic bishops, seven Protestant Episcopal bishops, four Methodist bishops and numerous clergymen, educators, editors, business men and labor leaders. The parent committee elected the sub-committee or commission which conducted the inquiry. This commission was composed of L. Hollingsworth Wood, a New York Quaker lawyer, as chairman; Frederick C. Howe, former Commissioner of Immigration at New York, vice-chairman; Jane Adams, of Hull House, Chicago, James H. Maurer, President of the American Federation of Labor of Pennsylvania; Major Oliver P. Newman, former president of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia; United States Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska; the Rev. Norman Thomas, a New York Presbyterian clergyman and United States Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts.

TRADE IN GRAIN FUTURES SOON TO BE LEGAL

By Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 2.—Termed an "anti-futures" measure, after the bill for which it was substituted, the law enacted by the Minnesota legislature, effective next August 1, actually legalizes trading in grain futures instead of prohibiting such transactions.

The original "anti-futures" bill, drawn by the farmers' committee, aimed to prohibit dealing in futures though excepting "legitimate hedging," but the hedging amendment finally caused substitution of the measure that has received the governor's signature.

Only one qualification is placed on dealings in futures, and that is that the contract must be made "in good faith," and it is provided that such contracts may be settled after the manner customary on grain exchanges, by payment of the difference between the contract price and the market price of the commodity.

The bill was intended to regulate trading in grain futures, with a view to prohibiting "gambling," defined as the purchase and sale without actual intent to deliver the grain. In the law enacted, however, this "anti-gambling" feature merely provides that a gambling contract is one in which "actual delivery of the commodity sold is not, in good faith, contemplated by the contracting parties.

"This act," it is set forth, "shall not be construed to prohibit producers of, or dealers in grain or any grain product, or other farm product, from buying or selling any such grain or product in good faith for future delivery on any grain exchange, according to the customary method of making such contracts on such grain exchange."

The next paragraph, dealing with hedging, declares that "if either party to a contract of sale for future deliver enters into such contract in good faith as protection against loss on farm products, such future contract shall be lawful and may be fulfilled by a settlement upon the basis of the payment of the difference between the contract price and the market price of the commodity sold."

"A contract of sale for future delivery," it is further provided, "shall be legal even though one party in such contract enters into it for speculative purposes, even though he knows that the other party also entered into it for purely speculative purposes and not as a protection against loss."

A bill by Representative R. A. Wilkinson, now before the legislature, is designed by its author to put "teeth" in the future trading law. The Wilkinson measure would make it the duty of the state grain and warehouse department to detect gambling on the grain exchanges and to furnish the evidence for prosecution. The prosecution would be placed in the hands of the attorney general, instead of county attorneys.

THE HUMORS OF PLEBISCITES.

Silesia has determined herself, but the ra bouffe is not yet at an end. Having pared for this matter for some two rs, having relied implicity upon the ce of the people, and that voice at last ving declared itself six to four in favor Germany, there is already talk of upset- g the whole thing. Because the rural e was Polish, it is now suggested that sia be split into the rural and the indus- l sections. There is apparently no end the processes of disruption under the neficent workings of self-determination. hen there are as many nationalities in sia as there are voters, we may be ex- cted to have arrived at the final solu- n. In the meantime, the practical effect s been to create a "Poland unredeemed" hich the Poles would never have thought had it not been for the suggested plebis- te, and, at the expense of infinite time, oney and railroad fare, to come to the sult—in so far as there has been any nclusive result—which a consideration the economic facts of the case would ve shown in the beginning.

Great is self-determination! In a world mewhat lacking in comic relief it affords musement; exquisite international fool- ry. It remains to be seen wether in the d that sort of farce is not, perhaps, a tle costly. The passions and policies set ee by the Silesia plebiscite are not by any eans at an end, but rather only about to egin. Where the final working-out of e matter will bring us to is a problem eyond the powers of prophecy to solve.—altimore News (Ind.)

A BOYS' AND GIRLS' TOWN.

If any city in the United States with a opulation between 20,000 and 30,000 eeds financial aid to create ideal condi- ions for its children, the National Child- Health Council is willing, it announces, to ontribute $200,000 for the purpose. This s not the sort of offer that goes begging. The Child-Health Council is likely to be nowed under with applications.

Nevertheless, the council knows what it s about. Once a town has been chosen nd the five-year experiment tried out, the riends of the children will be furnished vith talking-points forever. They may even be able to set up a new concept of young people's rights. We have generally accepted that children should have access o schools and libraries and should be pro- ected from the grosser forms of exploita- ion. It is still to be demonstrated that the state—or municipality—owes them "as nearly as possible ideal conditions for de- velopment from babyhood to adolescence into sturdy, happy, useful citizens."

One instance of a community in which youngsters are encouraged in every con- structive activity, in which their surround- ings have been modelled under scientific and watchful care, may be enough to call for the formulation of a Magna Charta for those too young to speak for themselves. It may even influence New York city, where automobiles and trucks render the streets as dangerous for children as the railroad switch-yards, toward some des- perate effort to find playgrounds for the boys and girls who spend their youth dodg- ing traffic in the shadow of its brick walls. —New York World (Dem.)

Wouldn't it save a lot of work and bother if the pie counter in Washington could be run on the cafeteria plan with every fellow helping himself to what he wants?—Raleigh News and Observer.

A BECOMING INNOCENCE.

There is one thing we may be squarely said to have inherited, which is of indige- nous American origin. We do not need to thank Magna Charta, or the Pilgrim fath- ers and mothers, or the English common law or even the "twenty million" Ger- mans and the other "twenty million" Irish for the legacy. We got it honestly from Lo, the poor Indian, and it was his untu- tored mind. We like to be fooled. O. Henry divided the innocence, with fine im- partiality, between the city of New York and the rural districts. We can "fall for" the same thing over and over again. This time we have fallen for a German victory, reported from Berlin.

And we had four years' practical experi- ence of German victories reported from Berlin! They occurred at the Marne, Cha- teau Thierry, the Falkland Islands, Is- mailia and points east to Jerusalem. The latest German "victory" is in Silesia, where the plebiscite vote, with exact figures fur- nished, worked out at two to one in favor of Germany. Our untutored mind operat- ed according to schedule. Not one of the newspapers recording this somewhat start- ling event realized the extent of the as- sumption involved.

This election was held on Sunday all over Silesia, a country of urban and rural voting places, her industrial and sylvan voters balloting in a large number of dif- ferent centers, with poor means of com- munication. The German figures were available eight hours after the polls closed. It would have been a wonder if the com- plete returns of New York state, with all its voting facilities, had been available 24 hours after the closing of the polls last No- vember. But Silesia, with the disinterest- ed assistance of Berlin and the Hearst for- eign news service, achieved the miracle of completed ballot returns with many hours to spare.

But, with no thanks to our astuteness, the returns from the polling places are slowly coming out in the way that might have been expected. They record no two to one vote for Germany. We do not know what they record, except that the vital coal districts seem to be going Polish. All this is without prejudice to the enforcement of the result, whatever it may be. The state- ment of the facts is merely a distasteful helping of humble pie, at present much needed.

If Germany can hold Silesia, well and good. As Macaulay records of Frederick the Great's greatest and most shameless theft, "All Europe in arms failed to tear Silesia from that iron grasp." Europe may have failed again; but if so the Poles will have to face a fact and not a theory, or even a deflated "ideal." But we may as well postpone celebrating the German victory until all the returns are in.—Wall Street Journal. (Ind.)

INCOME TAXES.

The first installment on income taxes for 1920 has proved a very pleasant surprise, receipts aggregating about $675,000,000, which is fully $100,000,000 more than esti- mated. This means that a better showing can be made in reduction of the floating debt during the remainder of the present fiscal year and the necessary borrowing on treasury certificates to meet current ex- penses will be reduced.

It now appears certain to treasury of- ficials that the total receipts from income and profits taxes for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1921, will amount to $3,050,000,000. Collections made on Sept. 15 and Dec. 15 of last year, added to the $675,000,000 taken in on March 15, leave only about $631,000,000 to collect on the June 15 installment in order to reach this total, and that does not appear to be a dif- ficult task.

The heavy collections from the first in- stallment of income taxes for 1921 are very encouraging. They indicate that in spite of the large number of people who were unemployed a part of last year and of the general slump in business, earnings have kept up remarkably well and the people are able and willing to pay their tithes to the government.

Just at present the treasury is making payments to the railroads under the guar- anty provision of the law, which causes a severe drain upon the cash in hand. Conse- quently the exceptionally good collections are particularly acceptable.—Washington Post (Ind.)

A HAIR OF THE FEDERAL DOG

S. Davies Warfield's plan "to fur- ther economy" by pooling railroad interests under the direction of a series of committees with government supervision has stirred up vigorous opposition and for the most part only mild support from the newspaper critics. Many writers are disposed to handle the matter with gloves as a proposition whose value cannot be assessed in advance of application and one generally accepted as tending to- ward "nationalization" of the roads. By reason of the latter factor it is applauded or repudiated according to the opposing views of those who com- ment.

The Wall Street Journal (Ind.) sees little merit in the plan and ex- presses itself without hesitation:

"Mr. Warfield declares his detesta- tion of government ownership or oper- ation, offering as refuge therefrom a plan, which, if it resulted in anything more than a group of ingeniously ar- ticulated debating societies, would mean a perilous degree of railroad centralization and bureaucratic man- agement. It is as though one should say: 'In order to save ourselves from burning it is necessary to get as close to the fire as possible'."

It is the danger that this step "leads directly to that which it pur- ports to avoid" which makes the Richmond Times Dispatch (Dem.) feel that its defects are "fatal" for, it declares, what the roads need is less "control" from Washington and the forty-eight lesser capitals "to en- able them to cure their own ills." To the St. Joseph News Press (Ind.) the arguments in favor of the plan "sound strangely familiar, recalling those which were advanced when the government took over the roads dur- ing the war" and the scheme has the appearance "of jumping from the fry- ing pan into the fire." However, the paper concludes with apparent satis- faction, "Mr. Harding has promised less government in business" and "the railroads offer a fine opportun- ity for a beginning of government elimination from American business."

The Newark News (Ind.) finds "a curious anomaly" in an attempt on the part of the railroad security own- ers, for whom Mr. Warfield is the spokesman, to urge "a form of small scale government ownership to pre- vent a relapse into federal control." It objects to the "vaccine" or "like cure like" principle as applied to fi- nance. It further questions the prac- ticability of the scheme since it em- bodies the National Railway Service Corporation plan, organized for the purpose of creating economy in pur- chase of supplies, which it declares, broke down. "If a private corpora- tion cannot make the scheme work," it inquires, "can the government"? The Springfield Union (Rep.) is in- clined to answer this question in the negative. "All that can be now said," it remarks, "is that experience dur- ing the war shows pretty conclusive- ly that business is not likely to be more economically run when the gov- ernment is put into it any more than necessary." It is only those, indeed, in the opinion of the Philadelphia Bulletin (Ind Rep.) who support na- tionalization or "feel that it is inev- itable," who will be greatly enthused over the Warfield plan, for "experi- ence seems to have demonstrated" that "railroad operation in the far corners of the United States cannot be standardized" and that success can only be attained when "individual members of the system" can "exercise their normal powers of self-control and development."

Labor, the national weekly in Washington, a Plumb-plan organ, sees in the plan only "a confession that private ownership has broken down."

One point of weakness in Mr. War- field's proposed organization is seized upon by the Baltimore News (Ind.) which believes that insofar as it will "really effect economies it should be adopted" but "it is largely a technical matter of administration, to be left to railroad experts at any rate, and it is doubtful whether any economies which do not effect labor costs would be sufficient to solve the problem." Taking for granted that "the bulk of the American people are not enam- ored of the idea of government owner- ship of railroads" and declaring that the Warfield plan "would certainly put the government deeper into the railroad business than ever before" the Baltimore Sun (Ind. Dem.) con- cludes that "sensible men will neith- er be frightened by the proposal nor in too great a hurry to endorse it."

DINNER STORIES

"I suppose you marry a lot of eloping couples, squire. Quite source of income, eh?"

"Yes; I get $5 for marryin' each couple an' they come in such darned haste I allus fine 'em $10 more for speedin'."

"Helen, I really cannot permit you to read novels on the Sabbath."

"But, grandma, this one is all right; it tells about a girl who was engaged to three Episcopal clergy- men all at once."

"We had a weddin' out on Long Beach last night an' the bride got all flustered on account o' the de- lay," Sammy explained one morn- ing.

"What caused the delay?"

"We had to telephone clear down to a Main street pool room to find the minister," was the calm reply.

"I say," protested the talkative swain, interrupted in the midst of a tender conversation by the impa- tient voice of a third party, "you're on a busy wire."

"Is that all?" rasped the impa- tient voice. "I thought I'd landed in a vat of soft soap."

"By jove, Milly, you look topping tonight, but what a fearful lot your frocks cost me these days!"

"Gilbert, dearest, what does money matter when it's a case of making you happy?"

Oh, passing stranger, drop a tear
Upon the grave of Oswald Greer.
He took a drink of home-made beer—
That's why you find him planted here.

Here lie the bones of Gloomy Gus,
Who drank his "hootch" nor cared a cuss.
Its "kick" was guaranteed to stun;
It still has kick, but Gus has none.

We like to see the newspapers go into a matter thoroughly and to pic- ture a news story to the limit, but—.

In the Stillman case, one paper presented nine or ten pictures of the Stillman hunting estate in the Cana- dian woods, the lodge, the caretak- ers, etc., and wound up by giving a picture of the Stillman family cow. It is a fairly good looking cow, but then why show partiality? Why leave out the goldfish, the family cat, the carpet sweeper, the coffee perco- lator and the wire dishrag?

A lady out our way was very much incensed when she found her ten-year- old son smoking cigarets in the gar- age back of the house, and she took him in and gave him a good hiding. The trouble was that he was using up her own monogrammed, gold-tipped ones.

RENEWAL

Time keps its old accustomed round;
The year renews itself once more;
In yearning sky and quickening ground
Life throbs and burgeons as before.

The bluebird swells his throat with song,
And small wing'd creatures without name
Stir and mount upward, as along
The pastures cowslips run like flame.

The challenge of proud chanticleer,
The mellow lowing of the kine,
Make jocund music far and near,
While singing runlets glance and shine.

The keen, damp scent of fresh-turned mold,
The buds with vernal showers wet,
Still waken memories, as of old,
All poignant with a wild regret.
—Doris Kenyon.

A mass meeting of thieves, to de- mand a share in the new regime in Russia and a chance for a fresh start was recently held, it is reported, at Rosoff-on-the-Don. Speeches were made by leading thieves, outlining the difficulties and beseeching the help of the community.

This appears to us to be a particu- larly pathetic situation, and it is a distinctly sad commentary upon con- ditions in the Trotzky community. It proves more than ever the sad physical condition of the country. When the burglars, yeggs, porch- climbers, stick-ups, second-story workers and dips can't make a living, what chance has any one else?

EASTER RAIMENT CAUSES NEGRESS TO GET IN TOILS

Desire for Easter finery, some- what belated, all because of a "man," caused a rather small negro woman to be arrested on a charge of theft by the police department Saturday. It is alleged that she stole "frilly, frothy finery" from a local store. The police have recovered a portion of the stolen goods.

A burglary was reported Satur- day morning. This was at 1108 Bur- nett street and Robert Williams complains that his house was entered and a suitcase, $40 in cash and some other property stolen.

Co-operation of the churches and of the mothers' clubs is also asked, and it is hoped that the matter of homes for the visitors can be settled at least some time in advance of the Federation meeting.

Entertainment for two nights and a portion of three days is all that will be necessary of those who have club guests in their homes. This sweater suit, as it is called, is just the thing for early summer wear. It has already achieved great popularity for sports wear, and in the larger cities where indoor skating rinks are frequented many such frocks have been seen lately. White with Roman stripe border gives the smart effect here.

Wichita Falls Prominent Men Form Company

Formation of the Producers Petroleum Company, a partnership syndicate of 10 prominent local men, which will operate under the active management of John F. O'Donohoe, was announced here Saturday.

The syndicate will begin business with a cash capital of $250,000 which may be increased as developments warrant.

The new syndicate will enter the market in Wichita county and other oil fields in this district for producing properties, and will in addition to this, carry on some development work.

Its first operations will probably be in the Duncan field, where it is now negotiating for the purchase of several pieces of property, developed and undeveloped.

The operation of the syndicate will be along much the same plan as was followed by the United Producers in the Burkburnett development. This partnership, which was also under the management of Mr. O'Donohoe, developed a number of pieces of property in the Northwest Extension and other pools, which were later marketed at a profit for the members of the syndicate.

Mr. O'Donohoe's connection with this syndicate will be independent of his connection with the Cline Oil Co., in which he is a partner.

The members of the syndicate are: W. M. McGregor, C. E. McCutcheon, J. S. Bridwell, Lawrence Crowell, Frank Kell, R. H. Delaney, Orville Bullington, Fred M. Gates and W. M. Priddy.

BURKE WILL PROBE CUTS IN OIL PRICE

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2.—One of the first matters to be taken up by Commissioner of Indian Affairs Burke will be the reported price cut by the Standard Oil company in the Walters field.

Independent oil operators have been asking an investigation into the reported action of the Standard in that field making a cut, said to have been from $1.75 to $1 a barrel. The independents fear they will be driven from the field.

It is said today that more than 200 independent operators in Oklahoma intend to appeal to congress to protect the smaller operators by divorcing pipe line carriers from the business of producing oil.

They want the Harding administration to take a stand on the reported policy of the Standard Oil company in the matter.

This matter was called to the attention of the Indian bureau, and one of the last actions of Cato Sells before retiring, was to direct C. V. Stinchecum superintendent of the Kiowa reservation at Anadarko, to get the facts and send them to the bureau. It is expected that the report will arrive here Monday or Tuesday.

It is said that Indian holders of more than 20,000 acres of oil land in the Walters territory are losing thousands of dollars monthly in royalties.

DISTRICT COURTS BREAK RECORD IN NUMBER OF CASES

With 631 cases filed in the three district courts of the county for the first quarter of this year, the record of 586 cases filed for the same period of last year has been broken, according to figures from the office of District Clerk Kerr. A majority of the cases were filed in the 78th and 89th district courts.

The figures for the first three months are said to indicate a greater local legal business than any other county of similar size in the state.

THEATER OPENS FOR BUSINESS TOMORROW

The Plaza theater will again open its doors to the public tomorrow under the management of J. Wilkie.

Margaret Lillies Musical Comedy Company will play the entire opening week. "The Secret Cellar" is the name of the show presented tomorrow by this company. In addition to the vaudeville there will be a picture program, Ethel Clayton in "Souls Adrift" will be the feature picture of the program.

Pirates Make Spudders Walk Plank in Fast Contest Saturday

Visitors Pound Out Victory, Score 6--3

arrough Unable to Quell Batting Spree and Gives way to Marshall After Sixth Inning.

Playing the best baseball seen on e local lot this spring the Pitts-gh Pirates breezed to the wire in nine furlong dash three lengths in e lead yesterday afternoon, the final ore being 6 to 3. The Spudders ver had a chance getting off on the rong foot when the barrier was rung at 4 o'clock, although they owed a burst of speed in the sixth d finished strong in the last lap.

The Pirates jumped on Darrough the second inning putting across r first run with three hits and en bumped a couple more for good easure in the third with four wal-ps. Clarence worked like a Trojan d it was not his fault the Pirates d their batting clothes on for they ould have hit anyone in the world uring yesterday's matinee.

It was one ball game in which it ay be safely said everyone enjoyed emselves immensely for with the preponderence of hitting and brilliant elding, "Rube" Marshall and "Rab-it" Maranville put on bits of the'r mous comedy sketches which need o explanations. Rube and Rabbit ould make a good vaudeville team —the crowd estimated at 1500 enjoyed one of the best laughs of the season hen Rube caused Rabbit to pull ne of the stuff he is famous for in he National League.

Miller and Ruth drew the plaudits f the congregation when they came hrough with hits at times when runs ere needed. With two on in the ixth and two out, Jake banged out neat single to right that scored Darrough and Tanner. In the ninth Ruth was sent in to pinch hit for Marshall with Moore occupying first. The Babe rang out a double to deep left-centre and Moore completed the circuit.

The playing of Gross at second was a revelation to the fans for he occu-pied the keystone sack like a veteran, covering first on two plays when Comstock jumped in for infield knocks and gathering in a fly back of sec-ond that would have been a credit to Eddie Collins.

Darrough opened the contest by fanning Bigbee the first visiting run. Maranville popped an easy liner fly to Moore and Mokan was out Dar-rough to Comstock.

The Spudders threatened to score in their half of the opening frame, but didn't. McDonald, first up, singled through Maranville, the wallop being too hot for the Rabbit to grab. Tan-ner busted one still through second and Mac went to third. McElwee splashed a infield and was out at first, Tanner taking second. Miller reached first safely when he also hit to Barnhart but McDonald was out when the vis-iting thirdsacker threw to Wilson who ran Mac down to third. Tanner was occupying the bag and Mac was sent to the bench.

Ponder held the locals safe in the second, third and fourth stanzas sending them back one, two, three As was told before, the Pirates gra a trio of runs during the second and third frames.

Darrough allowed a hit an inning in the fourth and fifth but was roused on again in the sixth, four well placed hits counting for two earned runs. The Spudders came back in their half with the same number as scored by the visitors, the details told above.

Neither side scored until the ninth when the Pirates pushed over a coun-ter off Marshall, one hit, one base on balls and one error counting for the tally. The Spudders came back in their half Moore getting on when Maranville juggled his grounder to short and Ruth walloping the agate to left center for two bases.

Several brilliant and also "skull" fielding plays were pulled during the contest. The Pirates completed a clean, clever double play in the fifth. With Gross on first, Moore hit to Rabbit who threw to Tierney who whirled and tossed Moore out at first. In the eighth McElwee was safe at second when Eberhard threw Miller's bunt to Tierney. Tierney thought he stepped on the bag, but didn't. Bow-man calling McElwee safe. The Spud-ders pulled a double killing in the ninth when with first and second occupied Wilson hit a dinky fly to Marshall who tossed to McDonald who tagged Tierney as he came into the bag.

Miller, Bigbee and Moore shone brilliantly in the outfield as did Mo-kan. All four went after everything that came their way and generally snaked them for an out. In the seventh Maranville made a wonderful stop of Moore's hard hit grounder and retired the local boy at first.

Abe Bowman performed perfectly as the nineteenth man.

SPORT PICKUPS

Jack Smith, star outfielder, with the St. Louis Nationals, who has been holding out because of unsatisfactory terms offered him, intended to play semi-professional baseball here this season. He said tonight that several offers were under consideration. Smith is engaged in business here, but will play baseball week-ends.

Reynolds Kelly, younger brother of George, and a mighty good young player in his own right, has left the Giants to join the St. Paul club of the American Association at its train-ing camp in Dawson Springs, Ky. Kelly has been released to that club under an optional agreement and will be called back by John McGraw in the fall. The younger Kelly first joined the Giants a year ago and showed much promise. A season in the minor leagues did him a great deal of good and he returned this spring considerably improved. He is a big fellow, though not quite as big as George, and is a right handed pitcher of no little merit. Also he can hit the ball very much better than the average pitcher. On the whole he gives the impression that he will make a pretty good man for any ball club to have around in another year or so.

They do some things in Canada. There is a baseball nine at Moffke which is very successful against its neighbors. On this team there are six brothers. They play three in-field positions and all three outfield positions, can pitch hay, cut timber, are good milkers, and if the worst comes to that will go behind the bat and even pitch a game. The sta-tistics of the league do not say wheth-er there are three other brothers growing up.

It has been computed that Connie Mack has tried out over 300 players since he turned a monsoon into his own team. Three hundred? Yes, but who? A championship team was shattered because it did not pay, which indicates that championships are won for something more than glory and personal pleasure. Three hundred ball players since then have not been able to lift a team out of eighth place, and 300 more of the same class will hardly be more suc-cessful.

Another featherweight sensation is in the limelight. He is Joe Bishop known in the west as the Indian Flash. Bishop recently conceded many pounds to Sailor Friedman, conqueror of Charley White, and hand-ed the sailor a drubbing. He is now on the way east, bent on obtaining matches with Andy Chaney, Sammy Sieger and Billy De Foe. He already boasts of a victory over DeFoe and is anxious to show easterners how he did it. According to western critics he is a second Packey McFarland with a harder wallop.

Allrock, pitcher, clown, police-man, cobbler, and at last the hero of a triple play, first of 1921; Wash-ing was playing against the Phillies. Wrightstone and Miller were on first and second bases. Jack Miller of New Jersey and elsewhere lined the ball to Allrock. Nick, playing first, grabbed it with one hand, touched first and threw to second for the third out. All that the Phillies could say was that when Altrock began to make triple plays there was hope for "Cap" Anson to return.

George Whiteman, hero of the world series of 1918, when he was a member of the Red Sox, has been discovered by the Giants in Houston, Texas, where he is managing the ball team. George is a playing manager, holding down center field. He ought to be one of the stars of the league this year, for there still is a lot of baseball left in him despite his ad-vanced years, and the climate of Houston seems to be favorable to aged athletes. Dode Criss was but one of many former stars of the big show who, having dropped from that com-pany to Houston, flourished there for numerous reasons.

PINEHURST, S. C., April 2.—Jock Hutchison, Chicago, profession-al golfer, won the north and south open championship today by complet-ing his final round in 76 for a total score of 291. George Fotheringham of Bretton Woods and Fred McLeod of Columbia Country club, Washing-ton, tied for second place with a total of 295.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 2.—The American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders, promoters of the "Favorite" stake for 3-year-olds, has assigned that event to the Columbus Driving club again this year, it was announced today.

DETROIT, April 2.—Life mem-bership in the Elks has been award-ed Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit American club by Detroit Lodge No. 34. A gold membership card will be presented to the Tiger manager be-fore the opening game of the season here April 13.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 2.—Plans for a reorganization of the athletic system at the University of Minne-sota will be presented by students and alumni, at a combined meeting Tuesday of the senate and board of regents at the office of L. D. Coff-man, president, it was announced to-night.

SPEAKER GIVEN FIRST CONTRACT BY DOAK ROBERTS

HOUSTON, April 2.—Tris S. Speaker was presented with the first baseball contract he ever signed here today by J. Doak Roberts, president of the Texas league, in the first inning of the Cleveland-Houston game today. Speaker responded by making a hit later in the game which started a rally which won for the Indians.

Until the sixth inning the score stood 3 to 0, Houston. Speaker was the only Indian until that time to reach second and he was walked and went to the mid-station on a wild pitch. The Indians pounded Bolden in the last three innings and won by the score of 9 to 3.

TY COBB BRINGS REGULAR OUTFIT TO BATTLE HERE

When the Detroit Tigers appear here Monday and Tuesday, Tyrus Raymond Cobb will lead his outfit and all the regulars will be in-cluded. The Detroit club, unlike many other squads, does not travel in two sections; Cobb keeps his organiza-tion intact.

Detroit plays but few exhibition games this spring. In these games the Tigers will play just as hard as if they were championship contests. This play is part of Cobb's man-agerial doctrine. The Georgia Flyer, who has wrecked most of the prece-dents used in managing ball clubs, contends that to reach a high state of efficiency a ball club has to play just as hard in exhibition games as in regular championship affairs.

"Get a ball club to play its hard-est the first time it plays in spring and get it to play its hardest in every exhibition game and the habit will grow," says Cobb. "You can make a good habit grow just as fast as a bad habit. A club that starts fight-ing for everything will get used to that way of doing things. On the other hand, if your players loaf in exhibition games, thinking the result does not matter anyway, they will get into the habit of loafing and can-not break themselves of the fault after the season starts."

The result of this Cobbian policy is that the few cities that are priv-ileged to see the Tigers in action this spring get an exhibition of bang-up baseball. They see the Tigers, win or lose, play for every run and for every batter. Cobb drives his players just as hard right now as he will at any time this season.

Cobb himself is a brilliant example of this policy. One of the reasons for his fame is that he never loafed, that he always played at top speed, al-ways tried his hardest. Cobb could not slide when he started his phe-nomenal career, but he kept on slid-ing until he became the peer of all time at the trick of hitting the dirt and evading the fielder. He was a poor judge of fly balls, but he prac-ticed fielding them hour after hour each day until he became accustomed to judging them. He could not hit left-handers, but he induced south-paws on his own club to pitch to him until he was able to hit left-handed pitching with the same success that he enjoyed against right-handers.

In the outfield, besides Cobb, are Bobby Veach, left fielder, a good gardener and one of the best, pinch-batsmen in the game. Veach is gen-erally on top or near there in the matter of driving in runs each year. In right field is Harry Heilmann, probably the hardest hitter in the American league, next to "Babe" Ruth. Cobb, Veach and Heilmann are a formidable .300 combination. As to the infield: Luzerne Blue, the Pacific coast flash, who has be-longed to Detroit for several years and is finally pronounced ready for major league competition, is on first base. "Pep" Young, who is Eddie Col-lins' only American league rival, plays second. The veteran Donie Bush, weighing less than at any time in six years and faster, is in the shortfield, while on third base we find Bobby Jones, a sure fielder, owner of a great pair of hands, and a good batter. Behind the bat work Eddie Ainsmith, the American league veteran; Johnny Bassler, imported from the Pacific coast and looking very much like one of the finds of the year; Clyde Manion, an active giant with a great throwing arm, and Larry Woodall, a product of the Texas league.

When it comes to pitchers Cobb has 14 good flingers. Among them are the veterans Hubert Leonard, the left-hander who has cut into the big money at four world's series; Howard Ehmke, tall and slender, a master of the cross-fire delivery; "Doc" Ayers, the veteran who still carries plenty of stuff; "Red" Old-ham, another left-hander who appears due this year; Bert Cole and Walter Stewart, two most promising south-paws; Carl Holling and "Suds" Sutherland, a crack brace of right-handers, to say nothing of George Dauss, one of the best right-handers in the league.

Cobb will put his regular lineup in the field here, barring accidents. The batting order is: Young, second base; Bush shortstop; Cobb, center-field; Veach, left field; Heilman, right field; Jones, third base; Blue, first base; catcher and pitcher to be selected on the morning of the game.

FAMILY ALL PLAY; DAUGHTER WINS IN ALL-CITY CONTEST

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 2.—Three generations of the family of Miss Miriam Burns, 17 years old, who won last year's women's city championship here, are enthusiastic golf players. Miss Burns' mother, Mrs. C. S. Burns, spends much time on the links and her grand-mother, Mrs. A. F. Beery, is quite an active player. Mrs. Beery, indeed, fre-quently outplays her daughter.

Miss Burns had been entered in only one previous tournament when she won the city championship here last summer. Incidentally she es-tablished a new record for women for the eighteen-hole course at the Mission Hills club, where last year's tournament was played, making the course in 88. Miss Burns played in the national women's tournament at the Maybood club, Cleveland, Ohio, last October, but was elimin-ated before reaching the finals. She expects to enter several tournaments this year.

While Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Beery have not taken down any champion-ship honors, they are enthusiastic and constant players. Indeed during a rain storm last summer, when Mrs. Burns and her daughter had abandoned the links for the shelter of the club house, some one asked where Mrs. Beery was.

"Oh, she's still playing," Miss Burns explained, "grand-mother said she wouldn't stop for a little shower like this."

NOW THEY'RE GONNA HAVE A SCHOOL FOR POOR LITTLE CADDIES

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 2.—A school for caddies will be opened at the St. Louis Country Club this year, and failure to attend will mean new faces at the caddy shack.

The curriculum will consist of golf rules, golf ethics and golf morals. The boys will be divided into three groups—A, B, and C, and when one of the kit-carriers has proven his capability in one class, he will be graduated into the next higher one. Instruction periods will be held twice a week, under John A. Twiss, caddy-manager, recently brought to the local club from the Essex Country Club, Manchester, Mass.

Harry Wills of New Orleans, and Jack Thompson of Denver, will meet in an 8-round, no-decision bout here April 8. They are negroes. Wills is considered one of the contenders for the heavyweight champion-ship.

TAG DAY PROVES SUCCESSFUL FOR NURSERY FUND

More than thirteen hundred dollars was in the Day Nursery treasury Saturday night, as the result of the Tag Day committee's efforts, according to the report of Mrs. C. B. Jetter, chairman. The total will be brought to $1400 when all reports are made, Mrs. Jetter believes.

This result is gratifying far beyond the hopes of the Federated Missionary society, and Saturday night all those who had participated expressed themselves as pleased beyond measure with the splendid support that Wichita Falls has given to the Day Nursery.

Funds For Quarter

This fund means that the nursery has funds to operate it for approximately three and a half months. By the time this is exhausted, the society will have its maintenance fund through systematic donations in operation, it is pointed out.

Donations may be made at any time to the fund, it was announced Saturday by Mrs. R. J. Goodale, the chairman of the finance board for the nursery. Mrs. Goodale, Mrs. Frank Kell and Mrs. R. E. Shepherd constitute the finance committee and each of the three are ready to collect any donations that may be offered. If the giver can not make the donation in person or send it, these finance members will be glad to call for it, they say. Mrs. Goodale's address is 1105 Brook, Mrs. Kell's 900 Bluff, and Mrs. Shepherd's 1721 Huff.

Interest Is Aroused

It is believed that the interest aroused in the nursery through the canvass Saturday will result in lasting benefit to the institution. Girls and women who were out with tags and boxes report that many persons, both men and women, made close inquiry as to what the Day Nursery was, and said they had no idea that such an institution existed in Wichita Falls. All were much interested to hear of the work and many made very generous donations when they had the cause explained. Many also expressed their intention of visiting the nursery immediately.

To Hughie Duffy Must Go Credit If Ransacked Red Sox Shine

The Boston Red Sox will give the league leaders a pretty fair battle the coming season, but there doesn't seem to be a chance for the club to land up among the top berths. Hughie Duffy is a brainy baseball man and whatever added strength the team shows above that displayed last year can be credited to Duffy and not to the new material supplied him by Owner Frazee. And the new pilot of the wrecked Hub team has little green material with which he can hope to build up a machine within a couple of seasons.

If Duffy had any one or two of the flock of stars Frazee has disposed of since deciding to dabble in baseball as a side line to the theatrical business the team might be put into formidable shape. Who went?

Ruth, Shore, Hopper, Lewis are the main absentees. And those acquired to take their places? Schang, Joe Bush, McInnis, John Collins and Leibold. They're about the only ones. Of the bunch Bush is about through and McInnis can't be counted on to play great ball more than a year or two. The ex-White Sox players don't make his team a formidable one. Duffy also has Muddy Ruel, a first-class catcher; Pitcher Thormahlen and Second Baseman Del Pratt, acquired from the Yanks. Buel Ruel can't be counted in the first line of attack or defense as Schang will do the catching unless he suffers injury. Pratt says he's through with organized baseball. Thormahlen is a good pitcher only in streaks.

If Del Pratt fails to show up the one star Duffy will have to hold up his team is Everett Scott. This peppery shortstop could be used by most any club in the two big leagues. Duffy will have McInnis at first, Pratt at second and Oscar Vitt at third—if Pratt relents. Neither Scott nor Vitt can hit well—which weakens the infield from an attacking standpoint although it will stack up well in the defense. If Pratt doesn't join the club there will be a weak sister in the infield, as Duffy will have to use the aged Eddie Foster somehow to fill the gap.

The outfield is an average outfield crew, that's all. Mike Menoskey, Nemo Leibold, John Collins, Tim Henryx and Sam Vick are the gardeners. They're all good, but cant be compared to the outfield combination on the champion Red Sox teams.

And to carry the pitching of this outfit Duffy has mostly in and outers. Joe Bush is about done—as I remarked. Sam Jones failed to star last season; Russell and Thormahlen are easily affected by illness of most any kind. Herb Pennock is good in streaks. Elmer Myers has a chance to be the hero of the club if he keeps up the dazzling pace he set last year after the Indians canned him because he couldn't produce.

The team has one or two rookies of promise at Hot Springs. The best of this list is Talbot, a former Yale pitcher.

Fitts Denies Charge Made By Spencer

In the Friday issue of the morning paper, Judge C. F. Spencer is being quoted as saying that Commissioner Bralley is being opposed for re-election only by such people as do not want to see our laws enforced.

I am surprised at Judge Spencer and disappointed in him as well. I have known him many years, both in Montague county and since he came here to live live, and while I can appreciate the fact that he might have a warm friendship for Mr. Bralley, I am no less indignant that I should be referred to as one who does not want the laws enforced simply because I choose to support some other than Mr. Spencer's candidate for police commission. Charlie Spencer, three years ago when he was a candidate for congress did not refer to me, or to my friends, in any such language when he wanted our support, and if he thought we were that kind of citizens, I am surprised that he should have, at that time, shown such an apparent desire for our help.

I am coming to think that politicians are ungrateful, especially in defeat.

But are we opposed to law enforcement because we oppose Bralley?

Are we opposed to good government because we may be opposed to any or all of the present city government?

I think not. I think I can prove to the satisfaction of Mr. Spencer, or at least to the satisfaction of any fair minded citizen, that we are not.

In the first place I and a good many of my friends are supporting George Hodgins for police commissioner because we think he is eminently qualified for the place. He is no new comer to Wichita Falls. He has lived here something over six years, and is known to more than three times as many citizens as is Mr. Bralley. He has always occupied a good standing in the community, as a clean, upright citizen, and one very competent to handle the work of the office which he seeks.

I believe he can take the work of the police commissioner and reduce the cost of operating the work of the police department by an amount that will make an appreciable difference in the taxes, and that, after all, is one of the big items that appeal to our citizens at the present time. And he can do it, too, without detriment to the efficiency of the force.

The present city government has gone through a riot of spending that is making the owning of property a burden—especially to the small home owner. And the police department is no exception to the rest of the government. There are just about twice as many men on the police force as there ever were before, and twice as many as are needed. These officers, most of whom have only been in the city long enough to get their grips unpacked, must do something to make a showing—to make a bluff at earning their pay—and as a consequence they spend the bulk of their time badgering and nagging our citizens for alleged infractions of the traffic law.

It does not appear from the records that they have made any great success at catching thieves or putting a stop to hi-jacking, but oh, how busy they have been filling the police court with citizens for wrong parking, cutting corners, etc., and guilty or not guilty, a fine is always imposed in order to provide funds to pay this excess baggage on the force. Making a money-making proposition out of the city court—and calling it enforcing the laws!

Personally I have nothing against Mr. Bralley, or any other member of the present city government. But I do think that something must be done to curb them for the small property owner cannot stand the excessive taxation. It may be all right for some fellow who has made a lot of money in oil, but we little fellows just cannot keep on paying the cost of the fiddling, and we are going to vote for some one who will have a little consideration for our condition.

BABE RUTH'S HAVING TROUBLE GETTING DOWN TO WEIGHT

Babe Ruth heading for first after slamming hot grounder to Second Baseman Kilduff of Brooklyn Dodgers in exhibition game at Yankees' training camp at Shreveport, La., recently.

Big Babe Ruth is now making up for the life of leisure he led during the winter. He's still way over weight, according to reports from the Yankees' training quarters. But there isn't much danger of his not separating himself from the extra poundage. He is working harder than any rookie on the squad to reduce. The photo shows him on his way to first after smacking one in a recent game the Yanks and champion Dodgers played this spring.

The Man Who Laughed

—Henry Wentworth was as nice a fellow as you'd like to meet.
—He was mighty popular with the bunch at the office.
—You'd find Henry out in the bleachers on Saturday afternoon yelling for the home team. Folks liked to be with him. He had such a jolly laugh. Even his wife liked him.
—And, make no mistake, Henry loved his little family.
—Those three children were the salt of the earth and Henry's proudest moment was when he walked to church on Sunday morning with Mrs. Wentworth and the three little Wentworths.
—Heart trouble—or was it appendicitis?—carried Henry off one day, quite suddenly.
—After the funeral his wife began dimly to realize that she and the children must face the future alone.
—But how?
—The bank balance showed deposits to the amount of $182.98. That wouldn't go very far.

THERE WAS NO INSURANCE

—And—it was too late. Mrs. Wentworth had often thought of bringing up the insurance question—in fact she had done so on several occasions. But with a woman's natural hesitancy she had not pressed the matter.
—Henry had laughed and said: "Well, I'll attend to it one of these days." And the question was postponed in Henry's typical way.
—Put yourself in this story. Could this happen to YOUR family. Are you postponing your application for life insurance? Are you like Henry? Are you THE MAN WHO LAUGHS?

THINK:—Next month for you may never come.

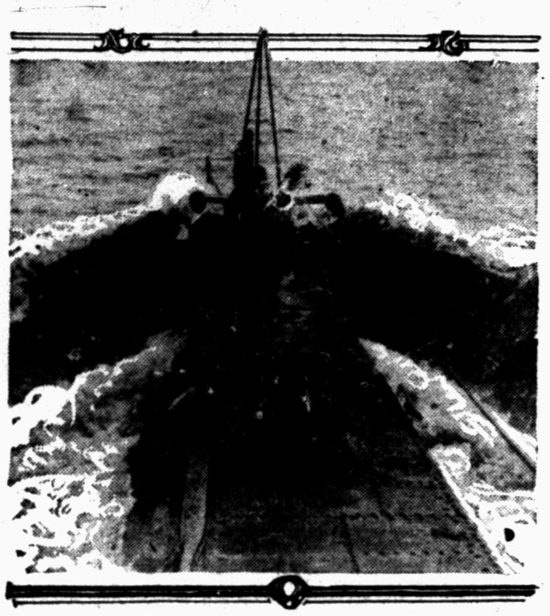
FOLLOWING THE CAMERAMAN HERE AND THERE

One always expects Paris to offer something different, something unusual and bizarre. The styles may not be pretty and need not be practical if they come from Paris—they are only expected to be Parisian, which may mean anything. A designer in Paris said recently to an American visitor, "Anything, no matter what it looks like, can be marketed if it is made in Paris. If Parisiennes will not buy it, English will; if English will not, Americans will. If they pass it up, there is still South America, China, Japan, Australia, Spain and as many other places."

Here are three styles snapped on the Paris boulevards which are not too bizarre for English or American buyers. At the left is a coat which shows the ever-growing penchant for black satin as a coat fabric. A hooded collar, a beaded girdle and slashed skirt are new features shown on this coat.

In the center is one of the new two-fabric gowns. It is made of duvetyn combined with embroidered satin. The coat is of the duvetyn and makes a three-piece suit of the whole.

At the right is seen one of the most striking capes which Paris has offered this season. It is a cream colored velour with a splashing applique of block velvet trimming the bottom edge. Black velvet also faces the arm slits and the ruffled collar.



Bow planes or "fins" of submersible partly opened before diving.

Uncle Sam's newest submarines have bow planes or metal "fins," just like fish have. These fins are opened when the craft is under water and help in directing the sub. When the boat is on the surface the fins fold tightly to the sides of the sub.

Miss Dorothy Timmerman and one of her geography classes being aided by the phonograph, at extreme left of picture.

A short while ago we heard of the phonograph as first aid to stenography pupils in learning to operate the typewriter. Now is has been introduced in other branches of school work. In some of the rural schools of Illinois records of native folk songs and dances are played while the children are learning the principal facts about Spain, France, Holland and other countries in their geography classes. The photo shows Miss Dorothy Timmerman, teacher in the Kitty Corner school, near Palatine, Ill., giving her pupils a geography lesson aided by the phonograph.

Betty Blythe as "The Queen of Sheba."

The pretty Betty Blythe, popular actress, is soon to appear in a new staging of "The Queen of Sheba." Could the original queen get a glimpse of Betty on her throne there no doubt would be trouble.

John J. Esch.

John J. Esch, former congressman from Wisconsin, has been appointed a member of the interstate commerce commission by President Harding. Esch, while serving in congress, helped to frame the Esch-Cummins law.

Rene Viviani, left, and Stephone Lausanne, editor of Paris paper, Le Matin, on revenue cutter which conveyed French statesman from liner to dock in New York on arrival.

The recent arrival in the U. S. of Rene Viviani, former premier of France, has given rise to the belief that a new "conference of Versailles" will sit in Washington in the near future and attempt to straighten out the peace situation. Viviani comes as envoy extraordinary officially to convey the good wishes of the French government to President Harding, but it is believed that he will meet with the president, Secretary of State Hughes, members of the senate foreign relations commitee and other American leaders in an attempt to work out President Harding's ideas of an association of nations and discuss European problems that vitally affect America.

Sen. Ralph Henry Cameron.

A "ridiculous suit," based on "plain blackmail," is the manner in which Senator Ralph Cameron of Arizona refers to the alienation suit recently filed against him in New York. Edward T. McFarlin of that city demands $100,000 for the alleged alienation of Mrs. McFarlin's affections by the senator.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glenn. The pictures were taken on the occasion of their seventieth anniversary.

An event said to be very rare, if not the first of its kind in the country, is to be celebrated March 25 at Portersville, Pa., sixteen miles from Butler. Robert Glenn and his wife, Margaret Campbell Glenn, will then celebrate the seventieth anniversary of their wedding. The entire village is planning a celebration in honor of the aged couple.

Five of the Cambridge hurdlers going over the hurdles together. Note that not one of the five men has a foot on the ground.

There's nothing prettier in athletics than the graceful form of a crack high hurdler "taking" the hurdles in a nip and tuck race. This photo, taken recently at the Cambridge varsity sports game in Fenners, England, shows L. F. Partridge (the leader) winning one of the hurdle events in record time.

Fred E. Scobey.

Fred E. Scobey of San Antonio, Tex., is understood to have been selected by President Harding as director of the U. S. mint.

Hilda Moreno, charming Spanish dancer, arrived in New York recently from Mexico en route to her native city, Madrid. Mexican papers say of her that she taught that country how to do the shimmy. She also was guest of honor at a bull fight, which was made doubly thrilling for her when an angry bull tossed a matador almost at her feet.

EXCHANGE IS NARROW AND PRICES FALL

NEW YORK, April 2.—Business on the stock exchange today was dull and narrow, but these conditions offered no serious obstacles to professional traders intent upon further depression of quoted values.

Tobaccos and sugars, as represented more particularly by American Sumatre tobacco and American beet sugar were weak from the outset, losing 1 to 4 points on reports of adverse trade conditions and possible dividend revision.

Loss among representative industrials were relatively moderate until toward the close, when a drive against Baldwin locomotive, Crucible steel and Studebaker at net declines of 1½ to 3 points unsettled the general list.

Pennsylvania distinguished among the rails for another fractional decline to the new minimum price of 34, but other transportations, were inactive and only slightly changed.

Aside from an increase of $93,235,000 in actual demand deposits the clearing house statement failed to reflect the heavy transfer of funds incident to the close of the year's first quarter.

Trading in bonds was nominal with a steady tone for Liberty issues and most other prominent features.

WHEAT PROSPECTS IN EUROPE GOOD, BUREAU REPORTS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Prospects for the 1921 wheat crop in Europe and Africa are good, according to statements received today by the United States bureau of crop estimates from the International Institute of Agriculture.

Rumania's winter wheat is placed at 4,464,000 acres, 5.3 percent over acreage planted last year, while the growing crop in Belgium, Bulgar a, France, Great Britain and North Africa is classified as in favorable condition; in Italy average, and in Hungry, excellent.

LOWER PRICES ATTEND TRADE AT NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—Active trading and lower prices attended the session in cotton today. The market opened lower and fell off until it stood 20 to 22 points under the close of yesterday. The close was steady at net decline of 14 to 18 points.

What appeared to be accumulation over night of selling orders based on an unfavorable opinion of the British labor troubles, caused the early declines, but in the late trading there was selling pressure from Texas interests accompanied by reports from that state that the crop was making splendid progress in the southern part of the state. Less selling resulted from the better weather map, and the rather unfavorable tone of week-end reviews of trade in general.

There were times during the session when shorts took profits in a moderately large way and this buying always produced steadiness. Partial recoveries on the close seemed due mainly to buying of this sort.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Action of the cotton market today was regarded as indicating a continued disposition to even up accounts pending an improvement in foreign labor or political news. There was covering as well as liquidation, but the latter determined the trend of prices. The general market closed barely steady at a net decline of 13 to 20 points.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of 8 to 20 points under Wall street and local selling which was promoted by less favorable weekend reviews and reports of an easier tone in some southwestern spot markets late yesterday.

After the demand from scattering shorts had been supplied the market showed an absence of support and most of the active months made new low prices for the day in the late trading. The close was a few points up from the lowest. Sales of print cloths at Fall River, for week were estimated at only 70,000 pieces and curtailment of production at 125,000 pieces.

However, that Corvallis college woman must know that, if women's dress showed nothing more than individuality, there would be little cause for comment.—Portland Telegram.

SHARP RALLY COMES TO PIT NEAR CLOSING

CHICAGO, April 2.—General covering by shorts and development of an active export demand for both old and new wheat caused a sharp rally near the close of today which carried prices upward after the lowest figures of the season had been reached on all deliveries of grains and provisions. At the finish, wheat was 1-4 to 1-2 cent net higher with July 1.16 to 1.16 1-4; corn was unchanged to 5-8c higher, while oats ranged 1-8c down to 3-4c up, and provisions were off 22 to 75 points.

There was a sharp bulge in wheat prices during the last fifteen minutes of trading and most of this held up to the close.

Reports of as high as four million bushels of wheat being worked for export and a St. Louis report that wheat had been worked for export based on the July delivery, tended also to unnerve shorts.

Coarse grains rallied with wheat, but offerings were light.

Provisions were weaker and lower early with grains and on scattered selling, but rallied toward the finish.

He Smiles Because He Heeded a Simple Lesson in Economics

This man realized that the foundation of genuine contentment and true happiness centered in his home.

Are you using up your vitality during that period of your greatest earning capacity that another may profit by your efforts? That's exactly what you are doing when you pay rent for the place you call home.

Did you ever stop to consider that you might as well be applying that rent money as payments on YOUR OWN HOME.

Think of the comfort of realizing that some day you will OWN YOUR OWN HOME. The minute you start paying on your home, life will take on a new interest—it will no longer be a dull daily routine—or worse, a too easy care free existence, sooner or later certain to collapse, leaving nothing but "the empty dreggs" of remorse to haunt you in the evening of your life.

Think it over, then drop in and let us explain how simple it is to start you on the road of permanent prosperity.

FREIGHT RATES JUMP AFFECTS TEXAS FARMER

STAMFORD, Texas, April 2.—The increase in freight rates have affected the cattle and agricultural interests of West Texas to a very marked degree. It has been the custom of feeders in the middle west to purchase great numbers of range cattle in Texas for fattening before shipping to market but the rapid advance in transportation charges is largely preventing this. The grain sorghum producers have heretofore found a market in the southeast and far west but owing to conditions at this time freight rates are in many instances higher than the market price of the products.

If these economic changes will bring about a condition whereby the farmer of West Texas will feed out the grain he produces instead of depending upon a foreign market, then such a change will have proved a blessing in disguise, say many cattlemen and progressive farmers, while some disagree. During the past year experiments have been carried out at the State Agricultural Experiment Station at Spur which have proven conclusively that sorghum fed cattle will fatten as rapidly as corn fed cattle. It is the opinion of all that with an annual production of almost 60,000,000 bushels of grain sorghum in West Texas there is an opportunity for this section to become not only a large cattle producing country but a cattle finishing country and that our beef cattle should be shipped in its highly finished stage to the markets of the country.

Bureau Makes Effort

The Livestock Bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce are putting forth efforts to show the farmer how he may increase his revenue by feeding stock, raising hogs and owning one or more dairy cows of good breed, and thus get away from depending on cotton or the uncertainty of marketing one of our greatest crops the grain sorghum, in a distant market.

C. O. French of the Fort Worth Stock Yards is co-operating with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in this work and through his efforts numerous "baby beef" clubs have been formed among the boys and girls of the rural sections. This idea of the organization in this campaign is to point out to the farmer how he may profitably dispose of his grain products through feeding for, due to the large corn crop and that fact that the grain sorghum market is limited because of lack of knowledge concerning its value, the present crop now on hand is almost as great a drug on the market as cotton.

Since the development of the grain sorghum in West Texas, the opportunity for marketing this crop on foot has been known. Some farmers have been very successful in feeding cattle but it has taken a complete change in our economic conditions to make us see the opportunity we have in the development of this industry, according to the opinion of many farmers and cowmen who are interested in this campaign.

Can Secure Credit

Farmers who make it a rule to diversify are always able to secure needed credit. Bankers are more than ever ready to aid the farmer in a line of endeavor that is certain and profitable for the cotton crop of the past year has been an expensive lesson and with almost ten million bales still awaiting a market, the probability of even a reasonable price for the 1921 crop is remote.

Along this line, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce are working for increased dairy herds and more hogs. It is the aim of the bureau to have every farmer feeding from two to ten or more head of cattle and raising a few pigs. Through co-operative marketing it will be possible for every farmer, even though his resources prevent him from branching out rapidly, to increase his revenue and to be able to market his product satisfactorily.

A dollar in your pocket earns no interest. Put every dollar you can possibly spare into a Savings Account with the City National Bank of Commerce where it will work for you at 4% compound interest and will be absolutely safeguarded against loss.—Adv.

LOCAL FIRMS ORDER LARGE GAS SHIPMENT

Two orders for April delivery of 11 trains of kerosene and gasoline representing 2,750,000 gallons or 325 tank cars was announced Saturday from the office of Rinehart & Co., local marketers. The orders feature the week's development in the local refined oil markets. The gasoline of the order was sold at 16 cents, indicating the further strengthening of the gasoline market.

The one order of 250 cars, all of which is gasoline, with the exception of 25 cars of kerosene, was from two well known oil companies, which are producers and refiners, but which recently have made extensive purchases of refined oils from the refiners of this section. The second order was for 75 tank cars from the Midland Oil of Chicago.

The products for the two orders will be purchased by refiners of this section. A large part of the gasoline order has been placed with the Burk-Tex Refining and Pipe Line company of Burkburnett, the latest plant to start operation in this section. The initial shipment of 25 cars will leave the plant April 5 for Detroit, Mich.

Local refiners report a strong gasoline market during the last week. The quotation in buyers cars is 16 cents, the same price at which the above sale was made. Kerosene is still weak the sale of 25 cars by Rinehart being probably the largest order that has been placed with local refiners in several weeks.

The product is quoted around 3 1-2 cents. The fuel oil market is the same as last week, with sales at 75 and 80 cents. Gas oil is quoted at 2 1-2 cents. Naptha like gasoline is strong with sales at 15 cents.

Round Up Plans Going Ahead as Date Draws Near

Preparations for the round up which will be staged at the ball park here the April 28, 29 and 30, are going ahead at a merry clip according to Tom L. Burnett, manager, and Bryan Roach assistant manager who are arranging the details of the big contest in which it is expected there will be a greater number of expert riders, ropers and bulldoggers than entered the competition here last May.

Col. Zack Mulhall of Mulhall, Okla., has arrived and will also assist in the preparations for the big show.

There will be many new features at the round up this year, according to Mr. Burnett, one of which will be "Appollo" a high jumping horse which holds the record as a high jumper and performs the stunt of leaping over a large size auto filled with passengers.

Among the entries of contestants now being received at round up headquarters there are several names of contestants entered who have never before performed in the local arena among them Yakima Canutt, Canadian champion bronc rider, Frank McCarroll of Boise, Idaho, one of the fastest steer bulldoggers of the west, Bonnie McCarroll of Boise, Idaho, cowgirl bronc and steer rider, Rene Hafley of Ridgeway, Colo., champion cowgirl trick and fancy rider of Colorado and many others who will perform in the local arena for the first time.

When asked about the proposed roping contest between Senorita Villa of Mexico and Mrs. Burnett, Mr. Burnett stated that he had indirectly received such a challenge and had accepted but the parties handling the other end of the deal had not come across as yet with the forfeit and he was not sure whether the match would take place or not, he stated however, that he is confident that Mrs. Burnett is the most expert lady roper in the world and that he is willing to back her against any woman roper in the United States or Mexico.

Luck Saves Life Of Marshal Allen

For the third time in a year Deputy United States Marshal Allen narrowly escaped death Sunday morning when he was fired on by two unmasked men at the entrance of his home at 906 Fillmore street.

The officer had driven his car home and was at the doorway of the house when he noticed two men approaching him from his garage. He commanded them to halt, but they came on and he fired. The shot was returned, his gun flying from his hand as a well directed bullet narrowly missed his heart.

Running to his home he got his rifle and gave chase in his automobile. The men made good their escape near the city cemetery.

A posse of police officers made an exhaustive search for the men, but did not make any arrests.

During the last 21 months the marshal has had his hat shot from his head, has had his car riddled with bullets and his clothing set afire from shots aimed at him.

"I believe it was nothing but a deliberate attempt on my life," he stated.

Don't risk your valuables at home when a Safe Deposit Box in the fireproof vault of the City National Bank of Commerce may be rented for as low as $1.00 for 3 months. Storage room for silverware, furs, and other valuable articles is also provided at moderate rates.—Adv.

CHICAGO CANDY MAN ARRESTED FOR BIG FRAUD

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 2. — Everett Harding, a candy store owner, arrested today on charges of impersonating a federal official, tonight was declared by the police to have defrauded the Pennsylvania railroad out of nearly $2,000, and to have imposed on leading Chicago club and business men.

Harding, according to the police, found Chicago's leading citizens gullible. He took 22 of them to the inauguration in a private car, it was said, and paid the Pennsylvania railroad with a check for $1,918.44 which was returned, according to railroad officials, marked "no funds."

While on this trip, Harding became acquainted with a delegation from the Hamilton club, the chief republican organization of Chicago. He posed as a cousin of the president, and was promised a life membership in the club, the police said. In return Harding was said to have promised his friends political appointments, telling them that he was to be assistant secretary to the president.

Harding was held in bonds of $5,000 for hearing before United States Commissioner Lewis.

Harding, the police said, after becoming acquainted with prominent business men through posing as the president's cousin, confidentially promised to "let them" in several business ventures which would be backed by the president. One of them was a "Harding hotel" to be erected in the fashionable shore residence section, another was a chain of "Harding" candy stores and a third was a monthly magazine. This magazine was to be known as the "Un-look" and according to Harding's story as related by the police, was to contain an article in each issue by the president.

Dear Harding, his Evangeline sister, acquired considerable fame through the posing of her brother. She became known as the "White House babe" and it was said she was to go to Washington and live with the president.

Harding has been one of the most difficult of Chicago men to interview. He was extremely busy on "government business" three or four times a week, the police said, he would be called out of town, and his friends were informed he had gone to Washington to conference with Senator so-and-so.

Mr. Daugherty says the meeting will prove of exceptional interest to members and states that Mr. Patterson is a most forceful and interesting talker who has a thorough knowledge of the advertising business.

The meeting will be held at the usual time and place.

FAIR WARNNG

—To all who have purchased or contemplate purchasing stock in the Florida Oil Company. This is to advise that you only have 6 MORE DAYS in which to get in on this remrakable proposition as the money must be in my hands by Saturday of this week. We have cemented the well in which we struck oil at 770 feet in Walton county Florida, and same will be tested out as soon as I arrive there, which will be about April 12th. If this is a paying well all stock will be off the market as it would be worth 100 for 1. The amount of stock purchased and paid for will constitute the Capital Stock of our Company at that time as our holdings would be so valuable it would not be necessary to have any more capital.

—If we fail to get a well at this depth we will continue on drilling and all money derived from stock and acreage will go into the treasury of the company and be paid back to the stoc kholders in dividends except what is necessary to operate the company.

The Fairest Proposition Ever Offered

—Is what they all say. We are selling thousands of dollars worth of this stock to the biggest people in this city and rarely fail to sell anyone who has the money and gives us three minutes of their time to explain same —WHY? Simply because we have practically eliminated the gamble by having such an enormous acreage and drilling three wells.

—The biggest brokers in the country will be selling acreage for the company while wells are going down.

—Can you begin to figure in millions what it would mean to hit an oil gusher on 260,000 acres of leases practically in a solid body?

—If a few days from now you read a huge headline in your daily newspaper "Great Oil Well Gushing in Florida" how will you feel? Will you glow with joy over a fortune earned by a 'lucky' investment or will you sigh over an opportunity lost, never to return?

—If I did not think that I had one of the fairest and best propositions ever placed on the market in the oil business I would not come and insist on my friends buying at this time. I know you have no money to lose and furthermore I don't want to see you lose any. My purpose is to make you money, not to skin you out of any. I don't need your money. We can sell every dollar's worth of this stock in Florida and Alabama. Conscientiously believing that I have something good I naturally come to my friends first to let them in on it.

—The bank account of the Florida Oil Company will be carried in this city except enough to pay our operating expenses in Florida. We want to keep the money here at home. We want to make every stockholder money.

—We have such a wonderful proposition that it has already attracted Wall Street brokers who want to handle our acreage while we drill these wells. We have attracted other companies and geologists to Florida and since we begun operations some eight or ten other companies have made locations and spudded in in adjoining counties; two within the last week. Florida is going to have a thorough test and we believe will be the next new oil field.

—While we have not put out any literature in Florida, yet the Chamber of Commerce of Jacksonville has been attracted and have advised our Mr. Logan that they will send their secretary and the editor of the Times-Union paper to inspect our proposition and if it is what we claim they will take every dollar's worth of stock we want to offer. They are anxious to see an oil field in Florida and say they are willing to co-operate with us in every way possible.

Oil the Millionaire Maker

Come, let us reason together. Few people are born rich. The vast majority of us have to work and work hard for every dollar we make. Yet thousands and tens of thousands achieve riches. How do they do it?

Ben Franklin said, "Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy, WEALTHY and wise." With all due deference to Ben, it DOES NOT. The plugger who works faithfully day by day and saves his money carefully, sometimes acquires enough to live on in his old age, but rarely more. Check up on all the really wealthy men you know. Did any single one of them make their fortune that way? The chances are 1,000 to 1 against it. They made their fortunes by TAKING A CHANCE and generally a long chance at that. Think that over.

How did American millionaires of today make their money? Here's one way. It is said that over FOUR THOUSAND millionaires and multi-millionaires made their money in oil. GET THAT? What a vast number then must have made thousands, a competence enough for all their needs, in oil. Future generations will look back on the money-making opportunities of today with astonishment and envy.

Oh, the Romance of Oil

$100	invested in Farmers Petroleum Company made	$10,000
$100	invested in Paraffin Oil Company made	4,000
$100	invested in Luelle Oil Company made	10,000

$100	invested in Marine Oil Company made	1,700
$100	invested in Burk Waggoner made	3,333
$100	invested in Trapshooter Oil Company made	92,000

Remember, not one man alone made this in each company, but practically all the shareholders who held their stock in these companies made the same.

If you want to make money, study how others made theirs. With one good oil well on our holdings it would not be at all unreasonable to say that we might sell out our company for ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS, in which event every $100 invested would bring our shareholders $20,000.

On the Ground Floor

Most people do not realize that the chances of failure in a new field of this sort, well located geologically, are no greater than in "wildcat" territory adjoining a proven field; yet in such wildcat territory, owing to the high lease value, it is not unusual for a company having leases from 10 to 80 acres to have a capitalization as large as that of the Florida Oil Company with 260,000 acres. Our chances of vast earnings are just about one thousand times greater. The development of an oil field is necessarily speculative as to whether you are going to get oil or not. We do not want to mislead anyone on this point. No one knows what is down there half a mile or more in the earth. There is only one way to find out. We must send down the drill. It costs money and lots of it to do this. If we bring in a good well and a new field, you will gain enormous profits. Our advice is invest in oil, but be conservative as to when and how you invest it. We know that we have started out on the right track to make money for our Company and that our shareholders are going to get a big run for their money. This is evidenced by the fact that we have NOT RESERVED A SINGLE ACRE OF LEASES for ourselves out of the 260,000 acres of the Florida Oil Company holdings. One hundred dollars invested now may make you many thousands within a few weeks. Do you know of any other entreprise in which you can invest a small sum of money and hope to receive a fortune in return?

It takes action to win—action and the willingness to take a chance. Will you hoard every dollar—keeping it can only earn moderate interest at best, or will you set aside a part of your money, the part you can spare without suffering and give it a chance to win a fortune for you.

Are you content to sit back and never have an opportunity to make big money? Surely not.

—EVERY IDLE DOLLAR IS AN USUCCESSFUL DOLLAR. Give them a chance to grow. They will grow faster than you imagine if you will give them the chance by investing in a safe and sane proposition like ours.

—YOU MAY GROW TOO OLD TO EARN MONEY BUT YOU'LL NEVER BE TOO OLD TO SPEND IT. Our proposition has been explained in detail in previous issues of this paper, but if you have not had it explained to you call 6478 or come to our office 306 Morgan Building, and we will explain in detail just what this GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY means to you.

SOCIETY

MRS. HAMILTON'S PARTY DELIGHTFULLY ORIGINAL.

If some one had asked Peter Pan's famous question, "Do you believe in fairies?" of the two hundred guests of Mrs. W. B. Hamilton at the Kemp Hotel on Thursday afternoon, just after Dr. Cosette Faust-Newton had finished her story of Irish folks and Irish literature, the answer would have been unanimously in the affirmative, for the speaker, sparkling eyed and girlishly lovely and attractive with all her honors and dignified degrees, and particularly her Phd. from Harvard, made the little Irish fairies, which live among the pages of all Irish literature, very real to her listeners.

Dr. Faust-Newton's subject was "Echoes of Irish Politics in Irish Literature," and her discussion showed the whimsicalities of the Irish race as so truly reflected in the literature of the country.

Her introductory paragraph, a borrowing from Tennyson's description of the passing of King Arthur, fancifully, but appropriately compared the coming of the distinct Irish literature fifty years ago, to the appearance of a gleaming arm, grasping a shining sword, emerging from the murky waters that are to represent Ireland. And as her talk progressed this simile was found more and more appropriate.

The verses of Pearce, soldier-poet, whom England held a traitor, of other Irish versifiers and prose writers, were repeated in snatches, to show on the one hand the childlike, fairy believers that the Irish are, and on the other the spirit of battle that has come through the centuries as the Irish birthright. The love of the Irish for the fens and bogs, dank and ugly though they may seem to those of other countries, was pointed out by Dr. Faust-Newton, this love of what is really their own characterising their very life, as well as their literature.

Concerning the much discussed "Irish question" Dr. Faust-Newton spoke but little, expressing the opinion that the solution must come from within Ireland herself. Ireland has never been subjugated, she pointed out, though she has been battling constantly for centuries. But Ireland has never really progressed, she added, in a material way, for all her battling.

"Irish writers and poets are the figures" she told her audience, "but why not? As a country is, so is its literature, and those who make its literature must be representative of the country."

Dr. Faust-Newton pointed out the dearth of literature that was really Irish from the first tumultous days of the Island's settling, until the last half of the nineteenth century, when the birth of a real Irish literature took place. The various factors which made these conditions were brought out, the clans, the geography of the country, the warfare, and, greatest of all, the natural temperament of the people, were brought out by the speaker.

Her conclusion was the reading of an original arrangement of one of Lady Gregory's plays, the setting in an Irish workhouse, or poor house, the characters two old men, paupers, and a woman, the sister of one of them.

The querulous wrangling between the two, their expressions of mutual hatred, and their physical complainings, were faithfully reproduced by the clever reader, so that her audience seemed to be with her in the workhouse ward. When the well to do sister comes to take her brother away, and he, forgetting his quarreling of the minute before desires to take his companion, is refused, both join in railing at the sister. And as she leaves, the two go back again to grumbling and growling. The admixture of humor and pathos of this story and the futile ending is only symbolical of the Irish peoples, and of their present day situation. This was the conclusion which the listeners could draw.

A program such as this is something of an innovation in Wichita Falls society circles, and is one that has already marked Mrs. Hamilton as an unusual hostess, for it will be remembered that last spring she and Mrs. Norris Martin introduced these lecture-recitals when they presented Mrs. A. A. Cooke, reader, in an elaborate reception at the Martin home.

Dr. Faust-Newton's appearance was possessed of unusual interest by reason of her having been a schoolmate of Mrs. Hamilton's. Her achievements in the world of study and literature have been unusual for one of her youth, and she is regarded as one of the real treasures of the South's womanhood in the realm of worth while people and accomplishments. She is the youngest "Who's Who in America" to date, and one of the youngest who have had a doctor of philosophy degree conferred by Harvard. Those who met her Thursday were doubly charmed, by her magnetism on the lecture platform, her perfect, scholarly presentation of her subject, and by her gracious, radiant personality when the social side was reverted to.

Mrs. Hamilton honored two out of town visitors with this Thursday afternoon entertainment, her sister, Mrs. James Walker of Dallas, and Mrs. W. J. Potts of Clarinda, Iowa, mother of Mrs. N. H. Martin. In receiving the guests she was assisted by a number of friends, forming a receiving line in the mezzanine parlor, and extending into the ball-room, where the seats were arranged for the program. Mrs. N. H. Martin welcomed the guests, and Master Bland Hill, received the cards in a silver basket. Mrs. Hamilton and her house guests were at the head of the line, in which were Mesdames J. D. Bright, J. J. Perkins, J. A. Kemp, Clint Wood, C. B. McCutchen, W. W. Silk, B. O. Harvey, C. W. Snider, W. P. Bolding, T. P. Adams, E. P. Greenwood of Dallas, Q B. Lee, Preston J. Lea, C. F. Spencer, R. P. Evans, C. R. Hartsook, Mack Thomas, W. A. Freear, Walter Priddy, J. C. A. Guest, W. J. Grisham, A. H. Britain and C. Y. Tully.

Little Misses Lida Lea and Virgie Mae Adams, flower girls, presented the favors, clusters of sweet peas and forgetmenots, tied with orchid ribbons. Misses Mildred Martin and Helen Snider, daintily gowned in taffeta frocks in the spring tints, were the ushers. They carried arm baskets filled with sweet peas and wore picture hats. The little flower girls wore organdy frocks.

The ball room was decorated in flowers for the occasion, and a canopied dias formed the stage for the speaker forming a pretty setting.

Two soloists assisted in the program, Mrs. C. Y. Tully singing two Irish numbers, "An Irish Lullaby," and "The Four Leaved Clover." Miss Bernice Jackson played for her program number "Romance," by Weiniawski, and gave as an encore a sparkling little number by her teacher, Tirindelli, this being "The Jest."

Mrs. A. H. Britain was the accompanist for both soloists.

At the program's close refreshments of strawberry ice cream with individual cakes and punch was served.

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY FOR MISS GUSSIE KEIL

In an unusually pretty luncheon Saturday at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. T. R. Boone, 2510 Ninth street, the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Gussie Keil, sister of the hostess to Mrs. William Chapman, was announced. The most intimate friends of the bride-elect were chosen as the first to hear this interesting announcement, and the method of the telling was charming in every detail.

The guests took their places at the beautifully appointed table, centered with a huge silver basket, the handle tied with tulle, filled to overflowing with sweet peas in pink, blue and lavender shades. Dainty place cards hand decorated in the chosen colors marked the covers and from each an orchid tinted ribbon led to the basket centerpiece, the ribbon tracery lending additional color and charm. When the guests were asked to pull the ribbons, after the salad course was served, miniature envelopes, also hand tinted, were found at the hidden end, and these contained a card which told the secret in this manner: "Gus-Chappie, Tuesday April 19". These dainty place cards and announcements were the thoughtful remembrance from an artist friend, Mrs. Luther Hoffman, to the bride-elect on this happy occasion.

The conversation for the remainder of the luncheon was of course on the delightful news, the girls being busy with their congratulations, and interested discussions of wedding plans, trousseau, bridesmaids and such like, and the time passed very quickly.

The house decorations were of sweet peas in the pink, blue and lavendar tints, forget-me-nots and lilies, and the guest favors were corsages of sweet peas and forget-me-nots, presented to each girl by Little Miss Mary C. Boone, who carried the flowers in a silver basket.

Mrs. Boone was assisted in entertaining by her sisters, Mrs. Mark Moore, Mrs. George Eamich and Miss Lila Boone.

The guests were: Misses Mary Colquitt, Katherine Brothers, Florence Brown, Violet Davis, Florence Jackson, Winnie Davis, Florence Davis, Mrs. R. B. Randolph, Mrs. George Henderson, Mrs. Julian McFall and Mrs. Bruce Winkworth.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Keil, pioneer residents of Wichita county, and is the sister of Mrs. Mark Moore and Mrs. T. R. Boone and of Dr. O. B. Keil of this city. She taught for several years in the local public schools and has been more recently in the law office of her brother in-law, Mr. Boone.

The groom is in the automobile accessories business, having made Wichita Falls his home since his discharge from the service, about a year and a half ago. He came to Wichita Falls from New York. The many friends of both young people will be much interested in Saturday's announcement.

Netherlands To Celebrate Alva's Defeat

By Associated Press.

BRIELLE, England, April 2.—Queen Wilhelmina is expected to participate in the celebration a year hence of the 350th anniversary of the capture of Brielle from the Duke of Alva's forces, one of the most important historical events in the reformation period.

Brielle was the first town captured by the Dutch protestants and this event paved the way ultimately for the downfall of the great Spanish empire in Europe. The town was taken by surprise on April 1, 1572.

Plans for the celebration, which is to be one of the most spectacular in Dutch history, are already under way.

Herring Trust Is Framed by Two Nations

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 2.—A joint committee, representing the Scotch and English herring industry, has drafted a plan under which this season's cure is not to exceed 900,000 barrels of which Scotland will furnish about 500,000 barrels and England the remainder.

The catch will be restricted. When a Scotch steam drafter has earned $5,000 it will cease fishing. Scotch motor drifters will stop when their earnings reach $4,150. At Yarmouth and Lowestoft steam drifters will discontinue fishing after earning $3,-150, and motor craft on earning $3,000.

The project is dependent on a grant of $2,875,000, being made by the government, failing which, it is declared by those who have devised it, "the industry must come to an end and ruin and unemployment follow in the coast ports dependent on the herring fishery."

Share of Big Etsate Asked By Blind Woman

FORT COLLINS, Colo., April 2.—Three Coloradoans have speared as claimants to the $800,000,000 estate of Colonel Jacob Baker, Revolutionary warrior and member of George Washington's military staff.

George Lesher and his sister, Mrs. Ben Blanchard, of this city, announce that they have received information that they are to share with 300 odd other descendants in the immense estate, which, under the terms of the will of its founder, is to be distributed during the current year.

Mrs. Lucy Feltham, of Loveland, near here, is also an heir to the estate.

The estate which has grown to such tremendous proportions is said to have been established by Colonel Baker shortly after the close of the Revolutionary War. It includes a 500-acre plot in the heart of Philadelphia and a large tract upon which the City of Chillicothe, Ohio, now stands.

The Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia, is said to have control of the distribution of the Baker estate.

Mrs. Blanchard, who is blind, declares that she has known of her right to a share of the state for some time, but had given it little thought, as she understood the terms of the will would not be carried out for many years.

A great many claimants to a share in the estate have appeared in various sections of the country during the past few months.

Mr. Hawkins, who was salesmanager of the Ford Motor Company, until after the close of the war, is to assume his new post April 1. His headquarters will be in Detroit. FITTING EULOGY DELIVERED AT BIER OF LATE PRELATE BY ARCHBISHOP GLENNON

BALTIMORE, Md., March 31.—Quoting Ecclesiasticus 44: 1-3-4-14, in beginning, Archbishop John J. Glennon, of St. Louis delivered the funeral sermon at the bier of the late James Cardinal Gibbons here Thursday.

"Let us now praise men of renown, and our fathers in their generation. Such as have borne rule in their dominions, men of great power, and imbued with their wisdom, showing forth in the prophets the dignity of prophets. And ruling over his present people and by the strength of wisdom, instructing the people in most holy words. Their bodies are buried in peace, and their name liveth unto generation and generation."

(Ecclesiasticus 44:1-3-4-14)

"I knew not what thoughts to express, or words to clothe them in on this solemn occasion, as we group around this mound of sorrow, to bid a last farewell to our father, and our friend," said Archbishop Glennon.

"Words of protest, some may say, since it is nature's way to protest against death, to treat it as any enemy of our race and us, yet we who are believers in a merciful Providence, that wisely, justly disposeth all things, the Master, of Life and Death, holding the living and the dead equally in His keeping, we who would also be his children, can only bow in lowliest reverence to His supreme decree.

"Though modest man, he knows not why
He thinks he was not made to die
And thou hast made him—Thou art just."

"But if we may not protest, may we not at least voice our regrets? Ought we not to sorrow and speak that sorrow so deep and widespread today, for the prophet also is silent—for the prince who has fallen—for the man who is gone?

"Beyond our own hearts' promptings we have for it as examples the noblest names in history. 'Jacob mourned for his son many days, the congregation mourned for Aaron: and Samuel for Saul; while David's plaints and tears were his daily offering to the memory of his son Ab-alom. And of the Blessed Master, too, when they brought him news that Lazarus, His Friend, was dead, St. John records the love and the tears of Christ—'And Jesus wept.'

"With these examples before us, of friend sorrowing for friend, and if again sorrow is to be measured by the merits of the dead and the extent of loss, then difficult must it be for us to suppress our emotions as we ponder over the life, the love, the service and the sacrifice of James Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore. These are high sounding titles you will say, meaning much of dignity and power; but just now our thoughts do rather turn to the kindly gentle old man, whose coming was a joy—whose presence was a benediction.

"Let those tell us what manner man he was who daily broke bread with him. Let them tell us of that uniform kindness, courtesy, thoughtfulness, that marked all his dealings with them. Let them attest his patience in adversity, his sympathy in sorrow, his anxiety for his friends and his charity toward all. For his life was an open book and on its every golden page are inscribed the friendships, the kindly deeds and far-reaching charities of a noble heart. Nor to them, nor to Baltimore alone are these things known, for as he with hurrying feet travelled from city to city in this broad land, everywhere the bearer of blessed tidings, so everywhere today the fond memories remain of the kindly man whose visitation was to them a lasting benediction.

"No wonder, then, that when the sad announcement of death was made, a wave of sorrow should sweep the land—the voiceless sorrow of a nation in mourning. Voiceless! did I say? No! for here on his casket are laid the multiplied tributes of respect and regret from the peoples, and their representatives, Senators, and judges; and crowning these, a glowing tribute from the illustrious President of our Nation. Add to this, or preceding it, this concourse of people—the numberless priests of the Church—the mitred heads of more than a hundred dioceses, all bowed in sorrow. And cause have we of the Episcopates, most of all, to regret his departure. He was our leader, guide and father. We cannot forget his unfailing kindness—his prudent counsel. We fear and feel we shall not look on his like again. The Holy Father Himself must have sensed our loss, as well as his own, since from the throne of the fisherman he voices at once the sorrow of his own troubled heart and the sympathy of the Catholic world.

"Sorrow so universal deserves recording; and yet I feel that more pressing even than tears is our duty today to express our gratitude to the Almighty—to thank God for Cardinal Gibbons, and first of all we must thank God for his length of years. Great and small, rich and poor, whatever else they do are certainly fated to die. Some are called in infancy; others in adult years, others in ripe old age. The blessed Master favored this, His servant, with many many years to work in His vineyard. Born in this city eighty-six years ago, baptised in this venerable edifice, he was here consecrated bishop in the year 1868. Of all the bishops then consecrated not one is left. In 1884 the then Archbishop Gibbons convoked and presided over the Third Plenary Council, there were present seventy-five prelates. Their presiding officer saw them fall one by one until of that great assemblage he alone remained. In 1886 he was elevated to the Sacred College as Cardinal Priest. Sixty members or more were then wearers of the sacred purple. All have preceded Cardinal Gibbons to the grave. Surely if length of years is a blessing, Cardinal Gibbons was specially blessed; and for that blessing we are grateful. Especially should we praise the Giver, that not only were the years of the Cardinal many, but so abundantly fruitful—so rich in achievement, as to mark him for his age, his Church and his country as vestly a providential man.

"It appears to be true that for every great crisis in history Providence, as Balmes says, holds in reserve a remarkable man. Now fifty years ago there was such a crisis. The crosses were taken from courthouse and school room, and the living Church was everywhere combatted, made to feel that its days were numbered. For now the world was told by the scientists that it was complete without God; and that there was no God, unless, indeed, such divinity as man could himself attain. It was an age of invention—of discovery—of material progress. So achence in its triumph thought it could despise and reject the diety. It would take His place in ruling the world. It would train the child how to be scientific; but at the same time Godless. It would hold out to the laboring man the promise of power by the lure of gold, but at the loss of his soul. It would substitute philanthrophy for charity; and consecrate the title to wealth on the sole plea of its possessions. It was the philosophy of omnipotent evolution and hopeless fatalism. It was a philosophy that culminated in the last sad war, were millions of our best and bravest were driven to death, their dying efforts spent in tearing from the bodies of their brothers the image and likeness of God; while science, then triumphant, crowned their brows with dust, consigning them and their hope to endless sleep.

"The war is over, and perhaps that philosophy too, since above their graves another and better philosophy has set the cross of Christ.

"But I digress. Fifty years ago this philosophy appealed to the multitude as the new revelation. It was enthroned in the Universities. It was encouraged by the statesmen; for well these latter knew that the more the people sink in materialism, scientific or otherwise, the more autocratic may the civil power become. When the deadly miasma was spreading over the land attracting the multitude by the phosphorescence of its own decay, there appeared on the horizon three men, who, though separated by the waters of the sea, were one in purpose, one in faith, one in consecration. And the first in these, and the greatest, was that great Pontiff, who then guided and guarded the destiny of Christendom. The immortal Leo the 13th, flung down the challenge to the schools and the scoffers, to the University and the statesmen. He takes his stand to the Blessed Christ whose vicar He is. He proclaimed the great truth that human science counts for little unless it seeks it complements in the science that is of God Divine. He preaches the true philosophy of which St. Thomas was the great exponent, that philosophy which proclaims that man has an immortal spiritual soul, that it is thereby he attains his true dignity. He organizes the Christian universities; and gives to them the mandate and the inspiration. He brings back the light of faith to the soul of the child; and in the face of opposition from the civil governments proclaims the inalienable right of imparting Catholic truth to the children of the faith.

"Lastly, in his great encyclical on labor he asserts and defines to a world still, in spite of all its science, half feudalistic, the dignity, rights and duties of labor. He teaches that the workman has the right to combine, but not to conspire—that he has duty to work honestly (as we all have) and the right to such remuneration as will make it possible for him to live a man among his fellows, with a home wherein his children may grow as befits the children of God. So taught Leo fifty years ago. While here in America down in the southland the Blessed Master found the third great champion of his cause, Leo X LLI, Manning of Westminister and Gibbons of Baltimore. These three and these the causes they served:—first, to win the world back from the false philosophy of the scientists to the true philosophy of the cross;—hence the encyclicals of Leo—second, to establish universities and schools where that true philosophy would find a home and an exposition;—hence the Catholic University of which Cardinal Gibbons was founder, patron and chancellor;—third, to establish the rights of labor on the sound principles of the moral law, taking into account the value of labor, but more than that the character and the dignity of the worker;—hence the encyclical on labor—hence the action of Cardinal Gibbons in behalf of the Knights of Labor.

"History, no doubt, will in due time, give place proportion and setting to the life work of the cardinal. And while it may pay but scant courtesy to our emotions of tears, it can be more convincingly inscribed the wonderous story of his life—how that in his vicariate of the south, while attending to a scattered flock, he had time to bring the fulness of the ancient faith into the emptiness of modern thought and write The Faith of Our Fathers'—our best apologies in the English language—the best when written 50 years ago—the best now and we have reason to believe that even latest history will not record a better.

"Turn we to his other work, the Catholic university. While under papal charter, the cardinal was in effect its head, its heart and its inspiration. He gave to it his best thought, his warmest affection and his unfailing support. He looked to it to carry out his life work, to bring the mind of the church to all the questions of the age and stand as a light perennial to the nation and the world.

"Here, then, are the salient traits of the illustrious dead—he was a great leader and soldier, whose sword was ever ready to defend the Christ and His Kingdom. He was the great legislator, wise in counsel, prudent in action, just in his decisions. He was the far-visioned educator, who would have the world know Christ was the truth and the life. Lastly he was the great patriot. He cared not for the ways, or weaknesses of party; but they whom the people chose as president and as legislators, were his president and his government. And how bravely he spoke his admiration for, his love of his country and its institutions! Always eloquent; he was never more so than when with the vision before his mind of the great dome at Washington and what it meant, he spoke of this land as the home of justice and liberty. How often he would recount its glories. 'A land' he would exclaim, 'where we have authority without despotism—liberty without license.'

"My brothers of the Hierarch will easily recall that scene when at our last September meeting at Washington, a plea was presented from some European nations in regard to the composition of the American Hierarchy. After some discussion one of the prelates requested the opinions of the cardinal, who was presiding. The bent figure was suddenly erect and in a voice vibrant with emotion, he addressed us: 'We are bound in the unity of faith and obedience to the vicar of Christ; but our church knows nothing of European politicians; and we must never allow them to lay hands on its fair structure.'

"He was ever the priest true to his church, the patriot proud of his country. It was to many a mystery how Cardinal Gibbons could accomplish so much and exert so great and beneficient an influence. For his was not the physique we associate with the great tribunes of the people, nor had he the towering intellect that overawes and conquers.

"Yet the mystery may be solved by remembering that his was the Celtic temperament, restless, creative, spiritual, that it was a temperament, subdued and chastened by his varied experiences and great responsibilities. He studied deeply—he prayed without ceasing. Often must he have repeated Christmas anthem, 'Oh wisdom divine, that proceedeth from the mouth of the Most High. Wisely, sweetly, disposing all things, teach us the ways of prudence.' There before the alter of God he learned that lesson of the Divine heart, to be meek and humble; and looking at that cross he came to realize the sacrifice supreme that cross symbolized and the love which prompted it.

"As we stand in the shadows, listening to that voice that speaks to our souls, ours is the solemn duty to take up the work he has left us to do—to promote peace, to teach the truth, to serve God, to build up anew the falling walls of Christendom.

"Soon we will find how much we need him who is gone,. 'Mane nobiscum quoniam adversperascit.' For we are still far from the reign of peace and justice that humanity yearns for. Nature, it is true, has long since blotted out the blood which crimsoned her breast during these last years. The greening springtime, starlit by primrose and daffodil now mantles the fields of Flanders and Picardy, and wavelets of the sea ripple the golden sands of Gallipoli; but about us and within us still surge the old hatreds, while all around us stalks abroad among the ruins, the starving children of Europe, lift their pleading hands asking for bread. 'You promised us,' 'You bade us hope.' 'What have we done that we must die?'

"Across the seas their wail comes to us, and back of it the throats of revolt and wild cries of dispair. The world is sick and broken. State craft has failed to help it; and they who would be its masters appalled at its misery, largely of their own creation, have lapsed to silence and intrigues. Our only hope is that good men and true shall rise with a new consecreation to help their sorrowing brothers where ever these may be. Of such, there are not a few. The dead cardinal because of these, and in the hope he cherished of what they would accomplish, began to see the light breaking. His last message was spoken preparatory to the great Feast of Peace and Good Will—the advent of the Christ King and these were his words:

"'Let us repoice that the great war's terrible aftermath of private sorrows and public calamity shows signs of being lessened, and that the light of hope may be discerned through the darkness of the age. Particularly in our own dear land do we perceive this light; and if we are true to its inspirations we may extend its blessings to other nations, less favored by Almighty God, I face our future not only without apprehension, but with unshaken faith in our American institutions, because these are based upon the message of Christianity.'

"It may be that his words were prophetic and prophetic, too, not only of his country here, but of his home in eternity—'I face the future,' (was it his eternity?) 'with unshaken faith'— 'Paratus sum et non sum turbatus.'

"Let us hope, now that he has gone to his judgment and to his reward, that the angel song of which he spoke at the Christmas time will greet him also on his way. This is our hope, let it also be our prayer.

"Our departed friend, whatever his titles, achievements, fidelities, was after all but human; and wherever humanity is there is frailty, error and sin. Let us unite our suffrage with the Saints beseeching the Almighty, so long his father, and now his judge, that He will look with mercy and kindness upon the one before Him. Let us pray that his will be a short delay until he shall enter into the joy of the Lord. For eighty years and more, in much striving and great fidelity has he walked in the way of his Lord and master. So faithful was he to the cross which, with and for the blessed Christ he carried, that we fain would beslieve that Master permitted that his servant's last agony would synchronize with his own. So also let us hope that in the white light of the ressurection, we are still commemorating, the Saviour triumphant, meeting His servant in the garden there, may greet him with the words of eternal life: 'I am the resurrection and the life, he that believeth in me, though he be dead, shall live,' and crown him with blissful immortality.

REVIEW OF OIL DEVELOPMENT IN ADJACENT TERRITORY

TERRITORY AROUND TEXHOMA STRIKE HAS APPEARANCE OF REAL FIELD DURING WEEK

The country around the Texhoma Oil and Refining Company's latest discovery, the No. 1 Goss, in Archer County, took on the appearance of a real new oil pool this past week, five new tests, to the northwest, north, northeast and east being started during that time.

The new locations, range from a thousand feet to a mile in distance from the discovery well.

The Texhoma made its second new location this week, on the W. H. Taylor, about 1250 feet east, and the same distance north of the discovery well. The derrick was up for its No. 1 Goss, a thousand feet east of the discovery well in less than two weeks after the No. 1 hit the sand.

Drilling On Henderson.

Bland, Thomas and Waggoner are preparing to drill on the Nat Henderson, about 1200 feet due north of the Texhoma well. A mile to the north Roberts and Hill are preparing to drill on the Parkey ranch. To the northwest of he well, a little more than half a mile, Couch and Winfrey are putting down a test.

Each of these five tests are so located that for any one of them to pick up the sand would mean the opening up of a real oil pool. The Texhoma well is reported continuing to flow, maintaining its 200 barrel production splendidly, and this circumstance strengthens the belief that a real pool will be opened up. While none of the larger companies have made locations, it is understood that some have purchased acreage since the strike. All are of course watching the forthcoming tests with great interest.

Electra Extension Possible.

The possibility of the extension of the Electra 1900 foot sand several miles to the southeast, in the Gulf's Burnett B. lease, is next to the developments around the Texhoma's new strike in interest.

The Gulf test on the 1900 foot sand will not be drilled in before the middle of next week, according to latest information. The casing has been set and cemented, and time must be allowed for the cement to set. our feet of good looking oil sand was drilled, according to reports, with the appearance of being identical with the original deep Electra sand, on the west side of the deep Electra pool. Failing so far to get production in the semi deep sand, around 970 feet, after some fair producers were secured at the 300, 700 and 9709 foot sand, this new district is again attracting interest, because of the 1900 foot possibilities.

On the west side of Section 1, T. and N. O. survey, where the Gulf's discovery 970 foot well was drilled, the Larkin No. 2 Burnett, and the Hobbs et al No. 2 Burnett are drilling for the 700 foot sand. Hobbs et al No. 1 was the first well in the 700 foot sand, completed a couple of weeks ago with a settled production around 50 barrels.

Gladiolus Operations.

With one three hundred barrel well, in the 1430 foot sand, and a hundred barreler in the 1020 foot sand, the Gladiolus Burnett lease, South Electra Shallow pool provided the feature completions of the week. The Gladiolus No. 21 Burnett, drilling with a star, is reported down around 1428 feet, due for completion next week. No. 22 is a location. The two new wells are Nos. 20 and 23. The No. 24 is on the 1020 foot sand, due for completion the early part of the week. The rig is moving onto No. 25.

The Barr Davis No. 11 Burnett, offsetting the Gladiolus No. 20 is reported on the 1430 foot sand, and moving in a star to complete. Nos. 12 and 13 on this lease are reported new locations.

On the Planet Petroleum Company's Burnett lease, the No. 15 offsetting the Gladolius No. 5 to the west, is reported on the 1400 foot sand.

North of Electra.

Reports that the test of the Sangame Oil Company on the M. Reis, about a mile north of the famous Stringer lease, had an oil sand around the 1600 foot depth are of interest. The test is at present reported waiting on casing, to make a test.

Scattered Electra Tests.

The W. R. Harris No. 2 Burnett is reported drilling around 1800 feet. The Holton and Hart No. 4 Burnett is reported drilling around 1400 feet.

The No. 1 Burnett of Hammond and Holder, in the new Gulf pool, made a small showing of oil at 1610 feet, according to reports, but is now preparing to drill deeper.

The testing of the 1600-foot sand in the W. R. Larkin No. 1 Parker, this same section, has so far failed, because of casing troubles, and this test is reported to be waiting on the outcome of the Gulf's new 1900 foot sand testing.

The Madison Oil and Gas Company's No. 4 Burnett is reported drilling around 1400 feet.

The Pure Oil and Gas Company's No. 1 Holmes is reported drilling around 1600 feet.

On the T. J. and J. L. Waggoner Ranch, the No. 1 of Nelson Brothers is reported drilling around 900 feet.

Autrey and Peters, drilling on the Go-Tex Oil Company's lease, reported down around 1600 feet.

The No. 2 Burnett of Guy L. Carter is reported testing oil and gas appearing and around 1600 feet. The 900 foot sand was a showing in this hole, and was promising.

The No. 2 of Bridwell, Donovan and Heydrick, on the Waggoner, offsetting the Planet Petroleum producers, is reported rigging up for a test t othe 1400 foot sand.

The No. 1 on this lease was reported a completion on Sunday, good for 75 barrels, in the 940 foot sand. The shallower sand, around 360 feet is to be tested later, it is understood. This sand made a good showing in the No. 1.

The Oil Issues Company's No. 1 Throckmorton is reported drilling around 700 feet.

The Hereford Oil and Gas Company's No. 1 C. H. Allingham is reported drilling around 600 feet.

The Cable tool test of the Humble Oil and Refining Company on the reported rilling around 600 feet.

George B. Ancell, southwest of Electra, is reported drilling around 1080 feet.

The Mentex Oil Company's No. 2 Ward and Todd, Sunshine Hill, is reported drilling around 1400 feet.

The Griswold Oil Company's No. 5 Ward and Todd, also in the Sunshine Hill section, is reported preparing to complete in the 900 foot sand.

On the K. T. Goetze, east of Sunshine Hill, the Texas Producers and Shippers, Ltd., is reported drilling around 400 feet in its No. 4.

Iowa Park Drilling.

In Block 20 the Universal Oil and Development Company is preparing to drill No. 6. In the same block the No. 2 Logan of Smith and McAuliff is reported drilling around 400 feet. The No. 3 is reported drilling in with a star, on the sand at 1650 feet. The regular producing sand depth for this block is 1500 feet, though there is a producer or two in the K. M. A. 1750 foot sand in this block.

The Jones and Vaughan, No. 1 Kemp and Kempner, Block 40, is reported temporarily shut down around 1730 feet.

The No. 6 Kemp and Kempner of Maer and Shappell is reported drilling below 1950 feet.

Panther Test on Sand.

The Panther Petroleum Company's No. 1 Luke Wilson in Archer county is reported on an oil sand at 1640 feet, and now testing. This test is outside the old Panther pool, to the west.

Old Burkburnett Pools.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company's No. 17 W. A. Martin, offsetting the 300 barrel well brought in a few weeks ago on the Martin, is reported rigging up a star to drill in. The sand here is the 1700 foot depth.

The Magnolia's No. 65 Reilly is reported cleaning out after a nitro shot, and the No. 62 Reilly is reported under reaming at 2270 feet. Nos. 69 and 70, this lease, are reported still derricks, and No. 71 is rigging up a star, and No. 72 reported drilling around 650 feet. The No. 33 W. F. Ramming is reported under reaming at 1560 feet. The No. 18 W. W. Viles is reported drilling around 800 feet, the No. 7 Holcomb A is reported drilling around 1050 feet, and the No. 10 B. F. DEVELOPMENTS BREAK FAST IN DUNCAN FIELDS

DUNCAN, April 2.—Development broke thick and fast in the last week in several sections of the Duncan fields, making important extensions on the east side as well as on the west side.

The most important occurrences since the Dalton Brothers brought in the discovery well for the new 2,000-foot sand 60 days ago, was the reported reaching of a deeper horison, at 2,826 feet, by the Parsons & Gant test on the Shavin farm, in section 29, one north, eight west, now reaming down and intending to set casing 2,626 feet.

If this hole makes a well, it will mean the opening up of a deepet sand, in all probability, a more prolific sand than any hitherto discovered in Stephens county, Oklahoma.

Danciger Preserve Secrecy.

Joseph and M. O. Danciger are keeping developments at their deep test in section 36, one north, nine west, very quiet, but it is rumored that they have discovered the same sand which the Daltons found a few days ago for Parsons & Gant on the Shavin.

If this is true, it means that the field will be torn wide open for intensive drilling operations during the coming summer on the northwest.

Stimulates East Side.

"Jack" Kilgore's famous east side wildcat has started big drilling campaigns by independents in the country around section eleven, one north, five west, in which that well is located. There now appears to be no question that the Kilgore is bound to make a well, and it may make a good one. It flowed 35 barrels last Wednesday morning, and the owning syndicate believes that it will be good for at least 250 barrels. They put a small bailer into the hole Thursday, and are still far from the bottom of the 1,096-foot hole, but she is making lots of gas and plenty of oil all the time.

Boone Well Now Flowing.

The Boone, which topped the sand the middle of last week, at 1,953 feet, is now flowing into the tanks, but no official estimate as to daily production has yet been given out by "Jack" Boone, head of the owning syndicate. This well is in the east half of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 20, one south, eight west. It was standing full of oil a week ago last Thursday until last Monday. It looks like a good well.

Shut Down at 2,200.

"Slim," Hobson's well in section 26, one south, eight west, has been shut down at 2,200 feet, where it topped the sand a week ago. They are reported to be setting casing at that level and are expected to drill in soon. All indications point to the probable getting of a big well here.

Shultz Causes Speculation.

The Schultz is being closely watched. If it makes a well, it will take the Parsons-Gant sand two and one-half miles to the northwest from the Parsons & Gant well in the southwest corner of section 25, one north, nine west. The Schultz is located in section thirteen, one north, nine west. They have been bailing the well to test the 2,200-foot sand. The well began to show considerable gas after bailing down 750 feet. They are reported to be having a lot of pipe trouble. It is not known whether there has been a break in the pipe, or whether the casing has actually collapsed. She is making gas right along through heavy mud, and some oil. The pipe trouble probably will force a long delay in completion of the test of this 2,200-foot sand.

The Nance-McPhail, which attracted so much attention last week, when she filled the slush-pit with oil, after topping the sand at exactly 2,222 feet, is causing its owners a lot of trouble. Forty feet of open hole below the casing has been caving badly, and she bridged. The crew has been fighting to get through this bridge. But she is still shooting up lots of oil, backed by terrible gas pressure at the bottom of a hole filled with mud.

P-G. On Young, a Well.

The Parsons & Gant on the Young farm, on the south edge of section 29, one north, eight west, got a well, and she looks good for big production. The sand was topped at 2,079 feet. She made one flow Saturday a week ago, and another flow last Sunday. They were into the sand three feet on Monday. Then she started flowing steadily, and last reports were to the effect that they are hooking up with the Prairie pipe line.

The Best Of All Oil company's No. 3, in southwest of section 24, one south, nine west, topped the sand at 2,200, was drilled in Saturday a week ago, and is said to be a better well than that concern's No. 1 and No. 2, which have been making 300 barrels each at 2,200. Field experts think the No. 3 may reach 750 barrels.

The Old Colony Petroleum company, in section six, one south, eight west, is reported to have a well good for 500 or over.

The Hivick, in northeast corner of section 36, one north, nine west, which made a flow Friday night a week ago, ran the bailer the next morning and she flowed and shot 160 feet into the air. The only reason the oil did not go over the Hivick crownblock was because a high wind was blowing and carried the plume of oil onto a neighboring derrick to the north.

The state inspector for the conservation commission stepped in and ordered operations discontinued until the cement should set better, as she was making about one barrel at each flow. However, the Hivick is a well, and a big one, and may go to 2,000 barrels or better. It proves a continuation of the Parsons & Gant sand directly south from the P. & G. discovery well in 25, one north, nine west.

The Gypsy is making a deep test in section 15, two south, five west, two miles northwest of Loco. This is the first deep test in the shallow field, located about 20 miles east of Duncan. Drilling started two weeks ago, and she is down around 900 feet.

The average grade plow land in the United States is valued at $61.78 per acre, as compared with $90.61 an acre a year ago.

Seaboard and Mid-Tex Wells Drilled Deeper From 2100-Ft. Is Week's Feature From Graham

The Seaboard Oil & Gas Co.'s 2,400-barrel well drilled into the 2,500-foot sand on Thursday, provides the feature of the week in the South Bend pool and is now the biggest producer in the pool.

This new well is a short distance south of the Mid-Tex No. 1 Graham, which was drilled deeper in the 2,500-foot sand the first of the week, increasing it's flow to 2,000 barrels daily. The Seaboard well has been drilled only a short distance into the top sand, according to the reports telling of its completion and its production at this depth is considered remarkable. The other big producers have gotten their greatest production only after the second sand has been drilled into.

A new completion of the week is the Godley Oil company's No. 1 Graham 50 acres, reported a 1,400-barrel well in the 2,500-foot sand.

The Godley Oil company's No. 4 Graham, lease 1, was drilled down to 2,500 feet from the 2,100-foot sand on Saturday, with an increase in production to 1,200 barrels daily.

Go Deeper from 2,100.

This drilling deeper of the 2,100 foot producers provides the greater part of the operations on the west side of the river at the present time, the Panhandle's 2,500-foot producers on the McCluskey are at present the only deep producers on the east side of the river, the other wells stopping in the 2,100-foot sand, where good wells, flowing from 200 to 700 barrels have been brought in. There have been no failures in either the 2,100 or 2,500-foot sand on the east side of the river north of the Gulf's Keller lease, at present, though the outlook for the Oklahoma Petroleum & Gasoline Co.'s No. 1 Keller is not appearing so promising this week-end as last.

According to latest reports the 2,100-foot sand, found a little deeper here than in the producers on the McCluskey, developed water after a rather promising appearance when first drilled and the plan now is to plug the hole back to the 1,980-foot sand, which gave promise of a small well.

Drilling Operations.

The Panhandle Refining company No. 7 McCluskey, just across the bend of the river from the W. E. Conner No. 1 Graham, producing from the 2,500 foot sand, is reported drilling around 1,600 feet.

The Oklahoma Petroleum & Gasoline Co.'s No. 2 McCluskey is reported drilling around 800 feet.

The No. 1 McCluskey of W. E. Conner is reported drilling around 600 feet.

Offsetting the Hall & Rutherford to the east and on the north side of the river, the Jake Hamon Estate No. 1 Stovall is reported drilling around 1,000 feet.

Drilling has also started on the Panhandle's No. 8 and No. 9 McCluskey, across the river, southern offsets of the Hall & Rutherford and Jake Hamon estate.

New Location Southeast.

A new location to the southeast of these drilling operations, is reported by the Roxana on their Ford lease which joins the McCluskey on the east. This test will be valuable as it is so located as to practically be the key in proving or disproving the entire E. W. McCluskey tract in the bend of the river. The Hall & Rutherford is about a mile from the producers in the corner of the bend, but it gives every indication, operators say, of being in the sand of the 2,100-foot wells on the McCluskey and Graham tracts.

The auto illustration shows one of the six Wichita trucks, manufactured by the Wichita Motors Company, hauling brick for Mackintosh Burn, Ltd., builders and contractors of Calcutta, India. To the left are the cars drawn by Indian buffalo (which these trucks have since replaced, while above the truck are seen the natives with their baskets, which previously had been replaced by the ox carts. This illustration is extremely interesting because it shows three eras of transportation in India.

Mackintosh Burn, Ltd., have been in the building and contracting business at Calcutta for fifteen years, and first relied upon man power to carry their building material. Each man would carry one hundred pounds of brick upon his head in the baskets shown laying at their feet in the picture, and when these men were replaced by the ox carts it was considered that great progress had been made toward more efficient and economical transportation. For a long time the oxen held sway, for it only took one driver and four men to load and unload the carts which did the same work that previously required fifteen or twenty men.

It was when this builder and contractor placed the first Wichita trucks in service that he realized a still greater advance had been made in his transportation facilities and greater economy and efficiency had been affected. Because of the extremely slow speed of the buffalo team and the time required for unloading, it was found one Wichita dump truck could do the work of twenty carts. Because of the dumping feature of the truck body, no labor was required to unload the brick, and the only time the brick were handled was in the loading.

Each of the six 3½-ton trucks which Mackintosh Burn, Ltd., operate replaced twenty buffalo carts and 100 men, each of which in its day of supremacy had taken the jobs of fifteen or twenty men. Today each truck is accomplishing the same results that were accomplished fifteen years ago by three hundred men.

A common laborer in India is paid one rupee per day, which would amount to about forty cents of our money. A daily pay roll of $120.00 would be required to maintain a crew necessary to do the work of one truck, even at the extreme low wage of forty cents per man. The daily operating cost of each 3 1-2-ton truck is approximately thirty-seven and one-half rupees ($15.00) and the large saving which the trucks affect accounts for Wichita trucks being used in eighty-three foreign countries.

Shriners plan For Ceremonial Here During May

Discussion of plans for the Shrine ceremonial to be held May 9, occupied most of the time taken up by business at the weekly luncheon of the Shriners Saturday noon at the Kemp. Nobles, present entered into the informal discusion, with reference to making the May ceremonial the largest and most enjoyable affair held by the Maskat temple. It is hoped to initiate a class of several hundred novices at this time. The auditorium at Call Field recently acquired by the Shriners, will be used for the ceremonial.

The program for the day consisted of songs by George Austin Moore, playing at the Palace the last part of the week. His offerings were enjoyed very much and heartily applauded.

Dr. J. H. Fletcher acted as toastmaster. About 70 Shriners were present.

Next weeks' program committee will consist of Otto Stehlik, J. M. Baber and H. O. Cravens.

It costs something these days for a man to work up enough courage to go home and smash the furniture.—Portsmouth (O.) Times.

W. G. BRALLEY

W. G. Bralley FOR Police Commissioner

JUDGE C. F. SPENCER In the Record News, of Friday

To have the opportunity and privilege of giving such impressions of Mr. Bralley as have been gained during a period of 20 years of intimate and personal acquaintance, is to me a distinct pleasure and in so doing, I hope it may be understood that it is written without so much as a single suggestion from him.

Mr. Bralley's boyhood life was typical of the early life of most of those of our country's best, bravest and truest men—reared on a farm—a widowed mother and dependent brothers and sisters to help, but determined to obtain an education, and to be something in life worth while. Procuring sufficient education to obtain a first grade certificate, he began his public career in the public schools of Montague county. After several years in the school work, he entered politics at the solicitation of a host or friends, who urged him to become a candidate for tax collector of Montague county. Up to this time the politics of the county had been handled largely by a few men. County offices were parceled out, distributed by a dozen or so leaders of the county.

Makes First Fight.

Mr. Bralley, believing in the right of the masses to rule, took his campaign over the heads of the politicians to the people. The result was that he was elected by a handsome majority, to the astonishment and bewilderment of the people who had formerly dictated the political affairs of the county. It may be said here that after this campaign Mr. Bralley was elected each of the few times that he offered for public office in that county; the reason being that in each capacity of service he lived religiously up to the duties of his respective positions as laid down and prescribed by law.

When he entered the tax collector's office he found the tax rolls burdened with delinquent taxes. He examined the law and found that it was his duty to see that the tax burdens were distributed as the law provides, and with no other purpose in view, except the full performance of his public duty to the people, he required non-residents and residents alike to pay their obligations to the state and to the county. No man could complain of this as it was because everybody knew that to would be derelict in duty if he did otherwise. This particular characteristic of the man impressed him upon the minds and affections of the people of Montague county. Serving four years in this capacity, he retired to private life.

Bank Robbers Foiled.

The little town of Montague has no railroad. The county seat is there and a few hundred fine people. It also has a bank. In the early days it was the wintering place and the home of many of the country's leading cow men. The county borders on Red river, and for many years was the victim of unlawful raids by outlaws from the Indian territory. In those days the sheriff of the county had to be a man who was not afraid, as very often a fight between officers and outlaws took place. The idea that Montague county was easy prey for outlaws seemed to run through the minds of many of this class until just a few years back. Likewise, the idea was always prevalent in the minds of the law-abiding citizens of the county that they should have for their sheriff a man who was bold, brave, honest and dependable. These conditions alone would have justified the election of W. G. Bralley as sheriff any time he would have offered for the place after his sterling worth became known.

An incident happened in the county and at the county seat during January, 1907, which created a general demand for Mr. Bralley to assume the responsibilities of the important office of sheriff. It was on one of the coldest, blackest nights I can remember. The town was aroused with information that the bank had been robbed. I dressed and went to the bank building. The sleet was beating hard and fast and the wind was howling as only one of the north winds can in this country. The bank building was situated on the southwest corner of the square and was an old building which had housed a bank in the early days of the cattlemen. On the ground floor of the building was a room in the back; a hallway led from this room around the vault and out to the front door. Likewise, the hallway led to the back door of the building.

Commissioner Bralley, then a single man, had occupied this room as his private sleeping room for several years. About 1 o'clock in the morning he was awakened by an explosion in the building. A second explosion followed the first, which convinced Mr. Bralley that safe-crackers were at work. Most men would have followed the hallway leading out to the back door, or would have remained safely snug under the covers of the bed. But not so with Mr. Bralley. He arose from the bed, quickly opened the door, walked up the dark passageway leading to the front, where he could have full view of the safe-crakers at work. He found two men with burglar tools and flashlights at work. Two shots were fired—one by the burglar, who discovered the presence of Mr. Bralley, and the other by Mr. Bralley. The shots fired by the burglar could not have missed Mr. Bralley but a few inches, as shown by the bullet mark on the wire cage.

Pistol Battle

A pistol battle in the darkness of the room followed and the result was that one of the yeggmen was found dead, in the hallway leading from the work room of the bank to the back door. The other had escaped through the rear. Perhaps there were three or four burglars engaged in this attempted hold-up, as a horse and buggy were immediately stolen from the village doctor, hitched and driven to Bowie, the nearby railroad town. The dead man proved to be a noted professional safe-cracker. Much could be said about the personal courage and bravery of W. G. Bralley, but the above incident, related just as it occurred, illustrates this phase of the man's life.

The following election, after the attempted robbery above referred to, Mr. Bralley was literally dragged into the race for sheriff. He voluntarily withdrew, however, from this race, because the people of the county invariably said to him that they were going to vote for him because he had killed a bank robber. Mr. Bralley's idea of the incident, however, was that he did not wish to be elected simply because he had killed a bank robber, and thought of being sheriff because of the opportunity for service. Two years later he was elected sheriff of the county, which position he held until a short while before his removal to Wichita Falls.

When he became sheriff of the county, there was a great deal of lawlessness, due largely to the fact that "Frosty joints" were in operation. The law at that time was not sufficient to prevent the sale of this non-intoxicating malt drink, but as usual with such places, there were screenes for the hiding of real law violations. When Mr. Bralley took the oath of office some of his ardent friends asked him to come out in a public statement in the newspapers of the county, stating that he would close the "frosty joints" and suppress bootlegging in the county. This Mr. Bralley would not do, and this incident is likewise illustrative of another phase of the man's character. After he had thus refused he said to me (I was county attorney at the time) that he never believed in public statements and wild promises; that he simply intended to enforce the law against all violators, and let the chips fall where they would. However, Mr. Bralley began in his quiet, conservative and cautious way to survey the situation as it was. He went to one of these places; procured some of the articles being sold; tested it and determined it was a violation of the law to sell the same; filed many complaints against proprietors of these places, and in the meantime the legislature, then in session, passed injunction laws to prohibit such places, which remedies were fully used, with the result that before long the open places were closed. Mr. Bralley made it clear in the meantime to the managers of these places that it was nothing personal with him, though this element had bitterly fought him in the election, but it was simply the performance of a duty, well defined and enjoined upon him as sheriff of the county, as he saw it.

Many people thought Mr. Bralley would be shot from ambush or waylaid by some of the lawless element, so rigid was his campaign against lawlessness, but he served through it, and when he retired again to private life he left a clean, enduring and enviable record behind him as sheriff.

Judgment of Men

Mr. Bralley's judgment of men and affairs has always been keen and penetrating and he never could be decoyed as a peace officer into rainbow chases. One night about 1 o'clock we were sitting in the office and news came that one of our tenant farmers has been robbed at the bridge three miles out of town. All of us were aroused and a posse was formed to scour the woods. Mr. Bralley got from the man who claimed to have been robbed a detailed report of his misfortune. He quickly said to me that the man had not been robbed. It had not so occurred to any of the members of the posse except him, but a complete investigation of the whole affair showed that the man had been away to sell cotton, on which there was a mortgage, and this was a plan to prevent his having to pay the proceeds from a sale of his cotton to the man who held the mortgage.

Unending space could be taken with incidents and details reflecting the real character of Commissioner Bralley, but space will not permit. It may be said of him that no man in my acquaintance, who ever held a public office was more conscientious, self sacrificing, or devoted to duty than he. He was vigorous, determined and rigid in the performance of his duties, and yet he was always kind, generous and just. No enemy of Mr. Bralley's, whether political or personal ever received at his hands unjust treatment. No man was ever close enough to him in the point of friendship or affection to influence him to do wrong. He has always been one of those who has heard the clarion call of duty and heeded it, whether it affected friend or foe. Mr. Bralley is one of the few men of whom I might say, if I had a knowledge of the fact that I were going to pass over, I could leave in his hands the affairs of my wife and baby, knowing full well that so sacred a trust would be administered by him with integrity, honesty and intelligence. I served with him as county attorney, and he was sheriff while I was district judge, and I believe that I know the man.

Few men there are of his sterling worth and character.

HISTORY OF MISSISSIPPI IS RECALLED

MADISON, Wis., April 3.—The history of the Mississippi Valley running back about 300 years will be told to the annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association at its annual meeting here on April 14, 16 and 16.

"From the time when De Soto with his handful of Spanish soldiers explored the unknown regions of the southern valley and left his body in the waters of the great river, down to the present day when industries and farms and commerce produce the wealth that De Soto sought, is a story of development that has been insufficiently known and incompletely told," says Dr. George N. Fuller, secretary of the association. "It is a tale abounding in romance.

"Back in the days when Cabeza de Vaca and his three companions marched across country from Florida to Mexico and Friar Marcos with Little Steve, his negro scout, discovered the cities of Cibola and the ir fabled tressures and paved the way for expedition of Coronado, the valley of the Mississippi was a land that loomed big in the dreams of the Spaniard. A century later Indian tales of a great river flowing down to the sea, came to the ears of the French Jesuits, preaching in the wilderness and along the rivers and lakes of Canada. Priest and fur trader listened to the tales and from the north there came down into the valley Radisson and Groseilliers, Marquette and Joliet, Father Hennepin and the fur hunter, Duluth, LaSalle and his trusty lieutenant, Henry de Tonti.

"These men found that instead of flowing into the Vermillion sea which we know now as the Gulf of California, the river emptied its waters into the Gulf of Mexico. Following the explorations came settlements, at the mouth and here and there on the banks of the river. Forts grew into villages. The jealous Indian protested, waged the only kind of warfare he knew, and lost; French, Spanish and Americans struggled for possession, and international treaties tossed the right of ownership of the western valley back and forth like a shuttlecock.

"New Orleans and Natchez, Kaskaskia and St. Louis became known in the east. Ioods of migrations began to find their way down the westward flowing rivers. Political institutions grew up, industries took root and thrived, towns grew to cities and the Mississippi Valley took a place in the nation, the importance of which politically, commercially and industrially, is just beginning to be realized.

"Who shall search out and keep the record of this growth? The eastern historian cannot tell the tale for he does not realize what has been done. The task belongs to the Valley and for this end the Mississippi Valley Historical Association has come into being."

PULLEN NOW FAVORITE ON RACE COURSE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 2.—Bashful, blushing, Eddie Pullen has become an overnight favorite to snatch the sprint laurels, recently won by Ralph De Palma, when the speed kings tangle on the Los Angeles Speedway April 10 in a series of five races. Eddie is known to the public as a young man with the old Bunker Hill pep surging in his bosom and one who can be guaranteed to get out on the track with a sprinkling cart and let all competitors know they have been in a race.

Pin Their Hopes.

On Eddie's willingness to shove the throttle right through the floor boards rather than let anybody stay in front of him the race fans are pinning their hopes of his dethroning De Palma. On this and on two other facts. First, that Eddie will have a car fully as fast as Ralph's streaking French Ballot. Second, that there will be at least seven other drivers also on the big timber tureen each with his mouth drooling in anticipation of revenge.

There are a flock of folks who would rather be in anybody else's car but De Palma's on April 10. The king of 'em all is always a target for the other fellows and the bunch who were so badly distanced by the Ballot pilot at the February race will risk anything to see the Ballot defeated. Eddie Pullen drove De Palma's car into the pits by his desperate driving in the first sprint races just a year ago and the race fans believe that Eddie can do it again.

Pepping Them Up.

Meanwhile Fred Deusenberg, designer of the famous racers which bear his name, has gone to Berkeley accompanied by a flock of mechanics and Ernest Longchamps, one of the best motor men in the world, with the avowed purpose of adding ten miles an hour to the speed of his Deusenbergs. Just what "Deusie" proposes to do, he doesn't say, but when he returns the fastest car of his quartet is to be given to Pullen and Deusenberg says that none of his racers will have to cruise in anybody's wake through lack of speed.

Barney Oldfield, master driver of 'em all, who is to referee the affair, is among those who believes that Pullen can give Ralph a terrible run for his money. "I've raced with Eddie on many a track and I've yet to see the day when he didn't get several miles an hour more speed out of his car than anybody else ever could get. Pullen is a wonderful mechanic and a daring, skillful driver and Ralph will have no such runaway in April as he had in February."

The reason for the races, which are to be an exact repetition of the February program, is the announcement by De Palma that he would not compete at Fresno in the latter part of February. The other drivers, who had hoped to get revenge at the Rain City, immediately let out a terrible howl and this, coupled with thousands of requests from racing fans for a reptition of the five sprint races held in February, made the Speedway management reconsider and schedule the five-race program for April 10.

Fred Deusenberg is not the only one who believes that he can get as much speed out of his car as De Palma can get out of the Ballot. Eddie Hearne and Harry Harts have been experimenting with the speedy little Revere and claim to be faster than ever. Harry Miller is working on Tommy Milton's Durant Special and says that Thomas won't have to be content with second place next time.

It is rumored that three other cars, specially built for the Indianapolis 500-mile race, will be on deck next month. Just what these cars are, and who will drive them, has not been divulged, and will not be until their entry becomes a certainty. These cars are the result of the past year's experience on the speedways and are expected to be faster than any 183-inch racing cars now in existence.

AUTO SHOW ON AT SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA

SAN DIEGO, April 2.—Attended by all the foremost officials and factory men of America and with a representative gathering of automotive distributers from all Pacific Coast points here, the 1921 San Diego Auto Show—first annual show of the Motor Car Dealers' Association—opened here today.

Featured by the arrival of Eddie Rickenbacker in a sport plane and by the dropping of bombs and of dodgers by the famed ace as a show opener feature, indications at an early hour pointed to a huge crowd. Today was San Diego County day and the attendance from the environ towns and city of San Diego was especially strong.

Signorina Lina Cavalieri and a troupe of singers from the Boston Opera Company, two contraltos and a soprano soloist, a jazz band, symphony orchestra, interpretative dancers of the Ratliff School, and Prof. H. A. Lelani's Hawaiian entertainers comprise the entertainment that will be provided afternoon and night for the show's eight days in high gear.

Located in one of the huge exposition structures in beautiful Balboa Park, the show is a striking one as to appearance. A motif of spring was carried out in the decoration scheme and the brilliance of lighting, of decorations and the originality of the car booths is declared superior to many of America's largest auto shows. A total of about fifty makes of cars is represented with a large showing of trucks and accessories.

BLOW-OUTS FROM AUTO ROW

BY FLAT TIRE

Who said the automobile business in Wichita Falls was bad? Take a look at the auto registrations on another page of this section and see for yourself just how many cars changed hands the last seven days. This list includes both new and used cars, with the used car class predominating, but even at that, the automobile dealer in Wichita Falls is far better off than dealers most places in the southwest, if we are to believe all the reports we hear.

C. C. Randle of the Randle Auto Supply reports good business these days, and, according to Randle, if the warm weather increases these tires that have lasted very well in cold weather will not amount to much when the sun beats down upon them. The familiar pop will be more frequent up and down the streets, says Randle, so folks had better not forget that "spare."

J. M. McFall of McFall Brothers returned home last week from Fort Worth, where he went to attend the Texas Automobile Dealers' annual gathering. Mr. McFall is brim full of enthusiasm after hearing many educational and interesting talks made by some of the most representative men of the automotive business, which included George C. Hubbs, vice president and general manager of the Grant Motor Car company; A. R. Kroah of Chicago, who is connected with the department of agriculture in Washington; David E. Beecroft of New York city, president of the American Society of Automotive Engineers, and Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor company. Mr. McFall says that the meeting was a wonderful affair and one that any automobile man could well profit by attending.

Charles Nolen of the Nolen-Stringer, spent a few days out in the territory last week running down a few hot ones. Now when it comes to getting the name on the dotted line, Nolen is the man to send out.

It is not a frequent thing to have a fire in your own place and not know it until you get a long distance phone call telling you about it, but this is what happened to Hugh Weaver of King & Weaver Company last week. It seems that Hugh was busy in the front end and the blaze, which was small, started in the rear. One of his boys ran out and turned in the alarm and before the fire department responded, Hugh got a phone call from Electra and the party on the other end of the line, having been informed by central that the King & Weaver Company's place was on fire asked Hugh all about it. Now we don't intend to leave the impression that these fellows over there are asleep, for besides all this excitement they had the thrill of selling three new cars in the same week.

Sid Gaines, of the Gaines Motor Sales Company, left last week for Dallas and some place in Arkansas. We understand his stay of a few days in Dallas will be one of a business nature, but in Arkansas it is a young lady. Wonder what Sid is going to do? Suppose he has any kind of a surprise in mind for the boys when he returns.

Walter Daugherty spent a few days in Dallas last week where he attended a meeting of Overland dealers and distributors from all over the state. The occasion was the presence in Dallas of John F. Willys of the Willys-Overland Company and, according to Daugherty, the meeting was instructive and entertaining.

E. V. Lesley of the Auto Tire Company, seems to be getting things over in good shape. Lesley says it won't be long before folk will be thinking about that camping outfit and he is getting ready to take care of them.

The Excelsior Motor company was without a head last week for our friend Keim was detained at the court house most of the time. Now we don't mean he had been in jail; just serving on a jury and making some of that easy money that they have over there.

The Motor Supply company says that the reported car shortage has arrived. Wouldn't some of the other dealers like to say that? But, according to W. S. Langford, this is a fact in regard to Fords. The demand is exceeded by the supply for this popular make car and we are not surprised if we are to judge all Ford dealers by the representatives in Wichita Falls. Mr. Langford says that business so far this spring has been very good and although they had quite a stock of cars at the first of the year, they have sold completely out in some models, with no prospects of getting cars before another 30 or 60 days. Our solution of the situation would be to let those two high-powered right hand men of his go fishing for awhile where they can get under the shade of a tree and enjoy a good game of Omaha.

Perry Hancock of the Paige Wichita company says this is national demonstration week all over the country on Paige cars, but, according to Perry, it has been demonstration week in Wichita Falls every week since they saw that Paige up at the show.

D. H. Rubsam of the Marshall Huff Motor company seems to be in a good humor these days owing to good business, or the prospects of spring weather so he can get out and play golf, we don't know which. Rubsam reports the sale of a Jordan play boy this week, which was taken to Graham and his only regret is that it won't be seen on the streets of Wichita Falls.

Earl Thompson of Packard fame, says he has a couple of hot ones that he expects to get on the dotted line this week. Better watch him, men, for he has already added a bookkeeper to his office force this week to keep things straight.

Flocking to Detroit Show

DETROIT, April 2.—Coupled with an indorsement by a visiting member of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce as the "best show he had ever witnessed anywhere," Detroit's twentieth annual exposition of motor cars and allied products rolled up another attendance record running into five figures, Wednesday. The praise for the Detroit exhibition came from George M. Graham, vice-president of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company, Buffalo.

Mr. Graham, who is noted among the big figures in the automobile industry was unhesitating in his commendation of the Detroit display, its arrangement and the method of handling huge crowds. Fourteen thousand, two hundred crowded the aisles of the Morgan & Wright Building Tuesday afternoon and evening. Compared with last year, which recorded 12,226 at the turnstiles, this year betters 1920 by 1794.

Sales at the show are being watched carefully by factory executives, who are looking to the stimulus of the exhibition to warrant increased production schedules. Wednesday was practically the third day of real selling since the show opened. Five exhibitors reported that every car on display in their booths had been booked at a rapid rate. Wholesale orders from dealers in the State also are reported to have taken a spurt since the show opened.

Short Circuits.

There is frequently danger of short circuits in the battery because of the fact that one of the terminals is located near the metal handle used for lifting the battery. To obviate this danger, it is only necessary to slip a short length of rubber tubing over the wire at the point where the contact might be made. To do this the tubing should be slit lengthwise, slipping over the wire and taped firmly in place. It is a good plan to follow this practice wherever there is danger of the wires rubbing off their insulation and so establishing a short circuit.

Shock Absorber Stands Up Under Heated Argument

Until this week there didn't appear to be any mysteries about the shock absorber business, according to Frank Queisser of the Motor Supply Company, local Hassler distributors. Robert H. Hassler, Inc., the world's largest manufacturers of shock absorbers, were running along smoothly, content with life in general, fully believing that within its own organization it had practically all of the available information regarding shock absorbers, their application and use.

However, says Queisser, a few days ago, there came a letter to the Hassler offices which had created quite a stir, and has caused a mystery to appear on the scene to worry the enterprising executives of that great concern. This letter was from an owner.

"I would like to have you answer a question for me," the owner wrote. "I haven't been able to answer it for myself and so thought I would write to you.

"Who pays for Hassler Shock Absorbers?

"You people make them, and, of course, you realize a profit on every set you sell. You don't pay for them.

"Your dealers simply handle them and also realize a profit. It is just as obvious that your dealers don't pay for them.

"And the car owners find that Hasslers makes us a profit, saving far more than they cost us. In fact, I saved more than the price of my Hassler shock absorbers the first six months I used them.

"So I write to ask you, who pays for Hassler Shock Absorbers. You don't; your dealers don't; and we owners don't! Yet they must be paid for by someone, for your business continues to grow, your dealer here is making money, and we owners continue to buy them. Won't you bring this mysterious question up before your board of directors and see whether you can solve it for me?"

The letter caused much amusement about the Hassler offices. In fact, Robert H. Hassler, president of the concern, seemed to enjoy it most.

"My answer to the proposition put up by this car owner is that the only paying done is by Hassler Shock Absorbers themselves," he said.

Optimistic in Motor Circles

DETROIT, Mich., April 1.—Output in the Ford factory has now passed the 3000-cars-a-day mark and the plant at Highland Park has resumed its six-day week. This condition is reflected in all other automobile manufacturing concerns in the city and is extended to the various firms engaged in the making of accessories for automobiles.

While there has been no great spasmodic increase in the volume of business in the automobile industry, conditions have gradually improved until now what is thought to be a normal level, with better prospects has been reached.

More Healthy Now.

Present conditions are interpreted by those in close touch with this situation to mean that industrial conditions are far more healthy at the present time than they were in the height of prosperity during the war period.

Manufacturers, while only making cars as they are ordered, report a strengthening demand from buyers and the present betterment is regarded as permanent. Many organizations are reported to be adding to their working force every week.

The Ford plant is now on a six-day week for the first time since it was closed in December. In February the plant was reopened on four-day shifts, which alternated, each shift working two weeks at a time.

Resumes Work.

The Dodge factory has announced its intention of resuming work on a one-third production basis and many of its former employees are regaining their old positions with the firm.

Packard, Chalmers, Maxwell, Hupp and Columbia have reported a steadily increasing volume of business. More than fifty cars a day are being finished by the Cadillac firm. Forty trucks and eighty passenger cars is the report of Reo production. Two hundred cars a day are being completed by Buick. Olds reports 100 cars a day. It is estimated that the total production is more than 5000 cars a day.

Back In Line.

Gradual resumption of operations is under way at the Willys-Overland Toledo plant. Employees are being added to the pay roll constantly and the plant's schedule is reported at between twenty-five and forty-five daily, the output varying with demand.

For the past several weeks much of the work at the big plant has been inspired by a desire to better the quality of Overland products, parts in stock have been closely inspected and more attention to the details of all processes has been officially ordered. The entire production system is being reorganized also with the thought of centralizing control and developing quality in all departments. In charge of the new production plant is J. A. Sheldon, manager, and Ernest Smith, who is responsible for the executive work.

Too Conservative.

Production programs in Cleveland automobile plants are exceeding expectations. With a February schedule of 250 cars the Grant Motor Car Company announced before the expiration of the month that its "optimistic" attitude ha proved too conservative and in order to meet the demand it was found necessary to increase production. With a March schedule of 300 cars orders already on the books at the termination of the first week called for more than 200 deliveries during this month.

Templar Motor Car Company reports that February sales tripled those of January. The number in the latter month was greatly surpassed before the end of the first wee kin March.

The Winton company launched an increased production campaign on March 15, when many of its workers returned to duty. The company with more business booked for March than for January, believes April will be an even better month.

Revival On.

Peerless Motor Car Company officials say sales totals for March prove that the genuine business revival is on.

Chandler company reports conditions much better in February than in January and even larger sales totals are looked for in March.

The United States is rapidly returning to prosperity. Its eyes are fixed on Detroit, home of the motor car, as the center of the greatest of all industries, says Roy D. Chapin, president of the Hudson Motor Car Company.

"The depression in industry no fortunately passing," said Mr. Chapin, "has done more to impress upon the people of the country and upon the manufacturers of motor cars that the automobile is a permanent necessity than did many years of high-speed production.

"Millions of people who [illegible] upon the industry as catering only to the pleasure of motorists or health began to find, when factories shut down temporarily, that the motor car was no longer a luxury but to their business life. Transportation facilities are a greater necessity today needs than they ever have been realized.

"And Detroit, the center of the motor industry, has become the world-wide index of what is termed anxiously by those formerly worried.

"The motor car industry forms a backbone of prosperity throughout the country. Its affecting every line of business comes in contact with everyone, not only the manufacturer but has a far reaching effect throughout the country."

LOS ANGELES—PHEONIX

13 Hours, 16 Minutes—422 Miles

Pounding over chuck holes, ploughing through sand, twisting around countless turns, climbing long grades, sliding into gullies and ever running ahead, the Studebaker Light Six smashed the record from Los Angeles, California to Phoenix, Arizona.

—The 422 miles of road were covered in 2 hours, 28 minutes less than any motor car ever traveled the road before.

—The old record of 15 hours and 44 minutes has stood undisturbed since 1910.

—What more convincing demonstration of Studebaker Light Six stamina could be asked than the Los Angeles-Phoenix record and all of the road records between Los Angeles and San Francisco?

Like Oakland New Feature In '21 Model

As a result of traffic congestion in most large cities, many manufacturers are stressing, this season, the ease with which their particular car is to be handled in such "crushes," so says D. H. Rubsam, of the Marshall Huff Motor Company, the local Oakland distributors.

Observant readers of automotive literature will find numerous references to "Smooth, even riding at slow speeds in high gear" and "Six to Sixty miles an hour in high."

President Fred W. Warner of the Oakland Motor Car company of Pontiac, Mich., points out other qualities of motor car construction and behavior that increasing traffic congestion make desirable.

"We frequently are told by Oakland owners that they appreciate the 115-inch wheelbase that permits parking within small space yet, by means of efficient body designing, does not sacrifice comfort.

"City motorists, of course, have most reason for appreciation of this Oakland feature. Yet many country drivers, who travel mostly over rural roads, find that the short wheelbase permits turning around on narrow highways with extreme ease. This 115-inch wheelbase is standard in all Oakland models—sedan, coupe, five-passenger open and roadster.

TO 10C STORE FORE BUYING CAR

you go out shopping for a motor car, go around to a 10-cent store and invest in a 10-cent magnet. If you are anxious for exact knowledge as to what the body surfaces of the car you inspect are composed of, the magnet will tell you unfailingly whether they are sheet steel or aluminum, according to W. K. Thompson of the Williams-Thompson Company, local Packard distributors.

"Aluminum is decidedly the more expensive material of the two, but has many obvious advantages," declares Thompson. "In the first place it has just one-half the weight of steel, and thus contributes very appreciably toward lightening the car of unnecessary weight.

"In case of denting from accident, the aluminum is far easier to repair than is steel, and it is not subject to trouble from rust. Then, too, aluminum takes the paint finish more effectively than does steel.

"In the Packard single six body, aluminum is used wherever it is possible. In fact the only places that a magnet finds attractive about the Packard single six body consist of the wheel housings, which are made of sheet steel, because of its greater resistance to the action of loose tire chains and the instrument board, which is likewise made of sheet steel to give it greater strength to carry the weight of the instruments.

Some folks prefer to find out for themselves all that they can about the construction and performance of the cars they buy. The 10-cent magnet will give you accurate information about the material under the paint and varnish that you can get in no other way."

NOW'S TIME TO BUY YOUR ACCESSORIES

"About this time every year we have many customers come into the store who frankly tell the salesman that they will need a great many accessories for their summer camping trips. For the most part they do not know exactly what is advisable to take along, and ask both the privilege of looking over our complete stock, as well as having some salesman who is familiar with the necessary accessories for such a trip, suggest the many different items that will come in handy, without loading up their car unnecessarily or spending an undue amount of money. This is a mighty good plan to follow before you start on your trip, wherever your vacation trip is planned for," says E. V. Leely, of the Auto Tire Co., Inc.

"There are many ingenious articles now on the market and continually being invented, which add to the convenience and comfort of camp life or on the road and it is a splendid idea to at least examine them before starting your trip. Through our large facilities for buying, we keep in constant touch with all the latest devices and immediately secure those which seem to us to be of decided practical value for the motorist.

"It is better to be safe than sorry, for once you start on your trip it will not always be an easy matter to find stores where you can purchase forgotten items. Check up on everything you are taking or will need on the road. You will ordinarily have to pay more when you purchase from small stores and it is often the case that the merchandise so purchased is of inferior quality."

It is only a question of time until all generals have to beat a strategic retreat. This applies to General Depression.—Wilmington (Del.) Journal.

HAYNES PRODUCTION NEAR NORMAL NOW

Under the impetus of increased selling activity among its dealers, the Haynes Automobile company, Kokomo, Indiana, is gradually returning to its normal production schedule. This was the report made last week by L. R. Stringer of the Nolen-Stringer Company, local Haynes distributors.

With the addition of a large number of employees, the factory is now producing automobiles at more than 60 per cent of its capacity output.

According to Alton G. Seiberling, vice-president and general manager, April will see this figure raised to 75 per cent, says Stringer, and by the early part of May the full 100 per cent of production will be an actual fact.

Reports from all sections of the country, especially at the more important points where automobile shows are in progress or have already been held, indicate that the "turn" in business conditions has already come and that automobile buyers are coming into the market in force. The orders for immediate shipments of cars are increasing daily.

GETTING BACK TO NORMAL

DETROIT, Mich., April 2.—Prosperity, now struggling up out of the depths of depression has its relief from the Federal income tax in the belief of Alvan Macauley, president and general manager of the Packard Motor Car Company.

"The income tax has done more to set the country back industrially and financially than anything else, I believe," says Mr. Macauley. "Mr. Macauley expressed the belief that the automobile industry has shown itself probably the most important in the United States in view of its rapid improvements despite taxation and other unfavorable conditions.

"The motor industry is going ahead and seems to have been the first of the large industries that have felt the return of general buying," he said.

"Our own latest product is over sold but this may not be a sure indication and while no man can undertake to predict conditions a year ahead it is certain that the worst has passed some time ago and business has a good start back to normal."

PAIGE

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA

ANNOUNCING The PAIGE NATIONAL DEMONSTRATION WEEK

For one week—commencing Monday, April 4th.—our Dealers in every section of the nation will conduct a special series of demonstrations with the complete line of Paige cars.

Our "Daytona 6-66" model now holds the world's stock car record for speed. It will be the purpose of Demonstration Week to prove that any Paige car—in the hands of an unprofessional driver—is indeed Master of the Highway.

No other stock car has ever equalled our own speed record of 102.8 miles per hour. No other car, we are confident, can defeat a Paige in the milder tests of general demonstration work.

By proving itself the fastest car, the Paige 6-66 has revealed qualities of endurance and strength that are beyond dispute. World's championship form is a guarantee of all 'round efficiency—the best guarantee that the sporting world affords.

But these are facts that we want you to establish for yourself, and Demonstration Week offers an unrivaled opportunity. You have but to get in touch with our Dealer and he will book you for a ride that will prove finally convincing.

Then, with an actual record of the tests, you will be in position to compare the Paige 6-66 with any other motor car—at any price—on the American market.

You will also be able to determine whether the New Series "Glenbrook Six-44" is or is not the greatest dollar for dollar value in the light six field.

Surely no man could ask for a fairer or more sportsmanlike proposition.

Whether you contemplate buying a motor car or not, we very cordially invite you to ride with Paige during the coming week. It will prove a revelation, we believe—and a liberal education in strictly modern engineering.

Another Scalp Added to List

An interesting communication received this week by F. D. Keim, local Studebaker distributor, from the Los Angeles dealer, tells of another record broken last week by the Studebaker, showing the remarkable stamina and ability for performance of this car.

For ten years the road record between Los Angeles and Phoenix has rested comfortably on ice, but last Wednesday saw it melt and sink to 13 hours and 16 minutes for the 422 miles. Hart L. Weaver and Jack Burns, driving a Studebaker light six, tore 2 hours and 7 minutes off the best previous time ever made between the two points. They traveled the same route, via Mecca and Blythe.

At 4 a. m. Wednesday morning the crew checked out from the Los Angeles postoffice with a sack of special delivery mail. They carried a card stamped with the time by an official of the postoffice department. At 10 minutes past 6 p. m., Phoenix time, they delivered the mail to the officials of the Phoenix office.

Terrible Roads.

The Mecca-Blythe route to Phoenix is considered the worst road of several that connect the two cities and the average motorist puts in three days of hard travel to make the trip.

For seventy miles out of Los Angeles the Studebaker sped over the highways, then struck the dirt road through the Santimeteo Canyon between Redlands and Beaumont. The breakfast call had not sounded when the flying crew in white overalls flashed past Banning like ghosts. At Palm Springs the headlights were turned off and a few minutes later the sun rose in blazing glory and poured its rays directly into the eyes of the crew.

Good Roads End.

Mecca, 150 miles out, and the end of all semblance of good roads, was reached at 7:2 a. m. Then the car plunged into the desert trails that "ete" for ninety-three miles to Yuma. Up through Box Canyon the Studebaker plowed through deep sand in second gear. It then raced and crept by turns acros sthe mesa. A smooth stretch would permit forty-five miles an hour, only to be checked by a series of dangerous chuckholes that slowed the car down to ten miles an hour or less. A stop for fuel and a tire repair at Blythe required sixteen minutes. This was the fourth stop for tires, two tire changes and two for garage service on the tubes.

Rushing out of Blythe, the car reached the Colorado River to find the ferry barge in mid-stream with the crew removing a sandbar. At 10 minutes past 12, Phoenix time, the car rushed from the ferry and disappeared in a cloud of dust into Arizona. All trace of the car was lost to the waiting crowds in Los Angeles and Phoenix until it reached the railway at the little station of Vicksburg. It had covered sixty-nine miles in less than two hours. Salome came next and then the Studebaker was lost trace of again, for the Buckeye route was taken and for thirty miles the car, twisting and turning, jumped and jolted its way from one group of chuckholes to another, until it reached the Hassayampa Garage.

Danger Spots.

From there into Phoenix is a forty-four miles stretch of improved dirt road, but with danger spots hidden along the route. One instant the car would be rolling along at sixty miles per hour to hit a little rise in the roadway and leap for twenty feet before the wheels came back to the road. At other times the front end of the car tilted up in the air over some obstruction to land with a thud. Eyes glued to the road ahead the drivers urged the car on and as the flying mail approached the city of Phoenix, interested watchers lined the roadway. Special police kept them from the path of danger.

With siren screaming for the right of way, the Studebaker neared the postoffice where Assistant Postmaster Callahan waited with the official time stamp to imprint the card with a record that showed the distance covered one hour and four minutes faster than the fast mail train, which operates direct between Los Angeles and Phoenix. Four tire changes east of the Colorado River were made. One hour and forty-six minutes were lost by such stops. None of these was counted out nor was the time consumed in crossing the river deducted.

The actual running time of the car is estimated to be about eleven and a half hours. It is a remarkable tribute to the car that the mechanics pronounced it in fit condition at the finish to make a return trip immediately if it was desired. But the crew was in sad need of a general overhauling.

HUPP PLANS A BIG PRODUCTION BOOST

CHICAGO, Ill., April 1.—Hupp Motor Car Corporation expects to get on a 100 per cent production basis within a month, according to company officials. Substantial increase in the volume of orders is the factor which has prompted this prediction.

February sales totaled more than 35 per cent over those of January and indications are that March will exceed last month in point of orders.

At present the company is producing about 50 per cent and is fortunate in having few unsold cars on hand. This situation is due to the insight of Hupp executives. When sales began to fall away last fall, the dealer and distribution situation was carefully surveyed. As a result production was pared down and when the production for an average month, expansion came, Hupp had in stock only 2100 unsold cars, or less than

MORE PRODUCTION POLICY ADVOCATED BY L. M. SHAW

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Advocating a policy of producing more than one consumes, Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury, today addressed the National Lumber Manufacturers association in session here.

"To illustrate a fundamental truth please assume two communities, equal in population, natural resources and possibilities," said Mr. Shaw, "the one believe they will best conserve their happiness by conserving their toil. They seek to ascertain and practice the least essential hours of labor necessary to supply their requirements. The other know their happiness will be enhanced by producing their maximum and consuming their minimum. These cheerfully toil, as did our forefathers, from 12 to 16 hours per day. What will be the result?

"The one will continue to live as they begin, while the other will find their surplus so invested that it will itself produce and continually increase more and more. Very soon they will have more food than they can eat, more clothes than they can wear, houses abundant and the proceeds of their surplus, whether sold abroad or to each other, will evidence itself in good roads, schools, churches and eleemosynary institutions. Production in excess of consumption always reveals itself. It cannot be concealed. While consumption equal to production is equally manifest, not only in localities in highly civilized countries, but more apparent still barbarous and semi-civilized portions of the world.

"At the end of six thousand years of human history the industrious and thrifty—those who produced more than they consumed—had transmitted their surplus from father to son, so that when the world war began the wealth of the world, consisting of this surplus and the advance in market value of real estate, ore deposits, timber and other natural resources was estimated at about $750,000,000,000, or $500 per capita for the human race.

"The nations emerged from the war with an aggregate debt of about one-third of this pre-war wealth. The fact that the book value of the property not destroyed has been inflated so that an equally favorable trial balance appears, disguises the truth to the thoughtless only. An astounding portion of the pre-war wealth of the world is gone and gone forever.

"Everyone concedes that we are facing a period of reconstruction but many seem not to realize that there is only one way to restore what has been destroyed, and that is by producing more than we consume. Nations may be economical but individuals only can be thrifty.

"Charles M. Schwab recently returned from Europe and reported that Germany is recovering at a pace that will astonish the world. The reason is simple. The German people are both industrious and thrifty. This will enable them to discharge any reparation demand that the conscience of the world will impose, provided only that does not reach the breaking point of their courage. Industry and thrift will solve any social or economic problem.

"Mr. Schwab, you will observe, did not comment on conditions in England, but many equally observing business men believe England is on the verge of collapse. No people can survive the consumption of their surplus, and the people of England seem bent upon commandeering wealth and using it in gratuities — improperly called wages—to the unemployed, pensions to the aged and in other socialistic ways. We seem inclined to follow the lead of England rather than Germany. If we do Germany will ultimately rule the world industrially and financially, which is all she ever sought to do. The attempt to dictate with the iron hand was for no other purpose than to rule industrially.

"Few would recommend selling the power-plant in case of unemployed, but taking the profits of business for bonuses and welfare work is, economically speaking, on an exact par. Not many men of means are foolish enough to invest their fortunes in industries, where only 5 per cent succeed, knowing that if successful they will have to pay to the government 60 per cent of their net profits, and 15 per cent of the remainder in personal surtaxes.

"The effect is already evident. Industries languish and unemployment multiplies. Unless we again consent that even the wealthy may increase their wealth, and be encouraged to invest it in wealth producing enterprises, wage-earners and all others of modest incomes, now largely exempted from taxation, must practice thrift or the republic has already reached the zenith of her greatness."

Smallest Bible Ever Printed Is Discovered

By Associated Press.

GREEN BAY, Wis., April 2.—Probably one of the smallest Bibles ever printed is in the possession of George J. Minor, of this city. The Bible was presented to Mr. Minor by an old Scottish woodsman, who spent years in the north woods, in exchange for a meal.

The miniature book contains 875 pages and is one eighth inches wide, one quarter of an inch thick and three quarters of an inch long. The Bible contains both the Old and the New Testaments, aside from a wood cut and two or three pages devoted to introductory matter and a facsimile of the original grant of both house of Bryce, printed over the signature of King James and Queen Elizabeth.

A small gold case houses the Bible. The case is in fair condition, though worn from its constant use. A small space on the front of the case once held a magnifying glass through which could be seen the front cover of the Bible bearing the words "Holy Bible." The scripture can be read with the naked eye provided the eyesight is good.

SEEK TO BUY FAMOUS SPOT IN KENTUCKY

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 2.—Governor Edwin P. Morrow today issued a proclamation calling upon "fond expatriates from the Kentucky soil that gave them birth" to contribute to a fund for the purchase and preservation of Federal Hill, the ante-bellum Kentucky mansion where Stephen C. Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home, Good-night."

Federal Hill lies about a mile from Bardstown, which is thirty-nine miles south of Louisville.

The Governor's proclamation was said to be unique among state documents, both because of its subject, now almost a national anthem and its extra-territorial character.

To Every Expatriate from Kentucky in all the World:

"At Federal Hill, a homestead and estate, near Bardstown, Kentucky, Stephen C. Foster wrote and composed that most loved and famous of all American songs, "My Old Kentucky Home, Good-night." The homstead and suroundings still remain essentially as they were in that Summer Time of 1852, when "The corntops were ripe and the meadows were in bloom," and as they were in 1795, when the mansion was built.

"The place is under option to be purchased by popular subscription in Kentucky, to be converted into a historic shrine to perpetuate the glory of the song, the memory of the great American composer and the universal desire to honor its consecrated associations. It is to be maintained and protected, when acquired, under the authority and control of the State.

"Now, therefore, I, Edwin P. Morrow, Governor of the Commonwealth, do make and send this proclamation, with greetings, to all fond expatriates from the Kentucky soil, that gave them birth; to the children of such as have passed on and left behind the heritage of pride in their origin; and to those who have listened to that song of home under the shadow of other hills, the sunlight of other plains or beneath the quite stars of alien skies, and who have felt the thrill of its deathless beauty and pathos.

"You also are privileged and invited to join with the sons and daughters of Kentucky in a contribution to this fund, which shall be used alone to preserve the home of the song that is your song and our song.

"Given under my hand as Governor of the Commonwealth, this 2nd day of April, 1921."

Royal Russian Court Officials Living in Squalor Among Unkempt Camps and Hovels in Dalmatia

By Associated Press.

RAGUSA, JUGO SLAVIA, April 2.—Friends of the late Czar Nicholas, members of the upper crust of society of imperial Russia, princes, dukes, generals, and barons are living in squalor in camps infested with the typhus and typhoid here at Cattaro Bay, on the Dalmatian coast.

Altogether they constitute a group of about 1,500 of the refugees that were brought out from the Crimea when General Wrangell's anti-Bolshevik army collapsed and who have since been scattered about the Balkans.

Vestiges of their former imperial grandeur peep out from their rags when costly jewels saved in their flight from the Bolshevists are brought out from the recesses of the old bundles composing their dirty, unkept baggage. Princes, princesses and generals sleep on hard cement floors and barely manage to exist on the meager allowance of food doled out to them. Their costly furs, once exuberant but now scant and worn almost hairless show the former riches of their owners.

The Associated Press correspondent visited several barracks of old forts and airplane hangars where the Russians are quartered. Generals could be seen in tatters waiting their turns for rations and eating soup and stew out of mess tins and then filling up on black bread. Their uniforms carried the insignia of imperial Russia with strings of medals across their breasts. Cossacks stood around in threadbare regalia of the old regime, wearing dilapidated astrakhan hats and tunics intended for British soldiers, while their riding boots were torn and ragged from long use.

The clothing of the women consisted of relics of better days. Some wore riding boots, the last foot wear left from what once had been an extensive wardrobe. Some carried in their baggage Persian rugs which they had been able to save on their long pilgrimage. Once they become well enough acquainted with a visitor, they offer for sale such jewelry as they still possess, so as to take themselves over this period of distress. Some of the women had linen bearing the imperial arms.

Prince Tchachkofsky, formerly the owner of several immense estates in Russia considers himself the most lucky of the refugees, for he has managed to obtain a job tending bees for which he receives the equivalent of 40c a day. The only clothing he owns is a convalescent's suit, shoes and underwear issued by the American Red Cross.

Baron von Goersten, who says he was General Wrangell's adjutant in the Crimean campaign, has at Cattaro $2,000,000 worth of regimental silver weighing several tons but can do nothing with it as the Jugoslav government refuses to admit silver without paying a large duty which the Baron is not able to do. So the silver remains at the custom house.

Baroness Nina Von Setachelberg, insists upon keeping up appearances and sews and knits for the American Red Cross for which she receives 50 cents a day, enabling her to rent a small room in a hotel.

Maria Homiakoff, daughter of the former President of the Russian Duma, has an executive position with the American Red Cross at 60 cents a day, as she speaks English. Colonel Beylavenetsi, formerly Commandant of the Czar's Artillery school and wearer of 20 decorations is an office man for the American Red Cross at 60 cents a day. He shows real enterprise, for he is saving money and buying tools to make doll's furniture and says that within two months he will have a factory employing 20 persons.

In the majority of cases, however, the former noblemen are unfitted for much except unskilled work. The women are well fitted to become teachers and nurses, but the present status of Jugoslavia is not such as to allow so large a number to be absorbed. Many of the Russian officers have succeeded in joining the Jugoslav army.

Widows among the refugees are fighting to save the lives of the children. Mme. Ruchloff, daughter of a fone of the Czar's ministers and wife of a Colonel of the Imperial Guards who was murdered by the Bolsheviats, is making buttonholes in an effort to keep up appearances and save herself and children from starvation. The American Red Cross is aiding her by giving an allowance of milk, shoes, etc., to her children.

Many of the Russians who are artists or dancers have organized an opera ballet to travel in Jugoslavia. The correspondent saw one performance and it was well done, the work of real artists. Some of the opera singers among the refugees are making a living by touring the small towns hereabouts.

To the correspondent, who was riding in a small automobile, one of the Russians said:

"Your machine is not worth riding in. I once owned four cars and yours was not in their class, but now the Bolsheviats have got them all."

None of the 1,500 refugees seemed to mind the typhus although there were 100 cases among them and another 300 ill in hospitals. American destroyers have brought to the Russians such instruments and machines as United States naval vessels in these waters could spare and the American Red Cross has generously supplied them with drugs.

Chinese Make Great Efforts Toward Relief

Special to The Record News.

PEKIN, April 2.—Never have the Chinese people and their government made greater efforts to meet a national disaster than they are now making to feed the hungry of the famine-stricken districts, say observers here.

When relief measures began, President Hsu Shih-chang gave the first big impetus to Chinese relief measures with a contribution of $100,000 and he has given $30,000 to the national relief drive which has raised several hundred thousand dollars. The President's wife is a contributor to many funds.

Chinese students and numerous organizations of farmers, business men or workers in various industries have contributed their efforts to aid this drive.

Chinese civil employes are giving 20 per cent of their salaries. Taxes on railway tickets yield a large sum monthly, all devoted to famine relief. The government is now collecting $750,000 monthly by means of a surtax.

Chinese provincial and city governments in the region south of the famine area are providing work for the starving.

The Central government is building a highway 80 miles in Shantung and all victims in that district are given employment.

Towns and villages in every part of Manchuria have organized relief committees, and a fund of $200,000 has been raised by the residents. An entire district in the famine area has been taken over by the Manchurians for care until the next harvest.

A loan of $4,000,000 for relief work has been floated by four Chinese banks. Merchants in Shanghai raised nearly $3,000,000 and Chinese outside of the country have sent thousands of contributions. One rich Chinese merchant in the Straits Settlements has sent more than $1,000,000. The Sheng family of Shanghai has already given $500,000. A large landowner in the famine district has mortgaged his entire property and borrowed all he can on notes, thus keeping alive a whole township.

The Chinese government is guaranteeing free transportation of supplies and relief workers, with priority for all grain shipments for the famine sufferers.

"Tag Days" in this city, Hankow, Shanghai, Canton, Tientsin and Fuchow have produced funds. In Peking 4,000 volunteers tagged more than 400,000 persons.

Efforts have not stopped at organized movements. Personal sacrifice is general. Young girls have banded in many cities under an agreement to deny themselves certain food. Students at one of the large universities asked that all meat be taken from their meals and the money saved and devoted to relief work. New Year feasts were abandoned in many parts of the republic. Vegetables and cotton are planted, even in the presidential palace grounds instead of the usual rare flowers and plants.

Harvest Worker Will Be Treated As State Guest

By Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 2.—Realizing the need of looking after the welfare of the army of harvest workers who invade the wheat regions for a short season, agriculturists and sociologists in Kansas are devising means for making the lot of the harvest hand easier.

Harvest laborers who come to the Kansas wheat fields next summer will be accorded treatment due a guest of the state, according to announcement of the Kansas State Agricultural College cooperating with the Methodist church.

Harvest labor centers, where harvest hands, strange to the community may secure the ordinary comforts any transient requires, will be established in every important town and city in the Kansas wheat belt under the announced plan.

Stations were opened in several communities last year and it was reported they resulted in a better satisfied class of laborers and less petty crime than in former years.

In one town the first floor of the county court house was fitted up as a rest room and at another a tent was erected for the purpose. A church basement was used in another.

DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE ARE SELECTED

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Seventeen state meetings held in the principal grain growing states of the middle and far west for the election of official delegates to a national ratification conference on the proposed grain marketing plan of the Farmers' Grain marketing committee of seventeen, evinced an unexcelled degree of co-operation between farmers' organizations, according to J. H. Gustafson, chairman of the committee of seventeen.

"State meetings were successful over all expectations," said Mr. Gustafson. "Although the state meetings were primarily called to lay the proposed grain marketing plan before representatives of different farmers' organizations, the interest of many individual farmers was so great that it could not be denied and the result was that many of the state meetings swelled beyond an expected attendance of 30 or 40 to a mass meeting of from three to five hundred. Several state meetings insisted upon instructing their delegates to the national convention, although the committee of seventeen had made no suggestion of that character."

The delegates selected at the state meetings represent a wide range of farmers' organizations, namely: state granges, state farm bureaus, state associations of the farmers' National grain dealers association, equity unions, state associations of the national wheat growers' associations, state organizations of the farm clubs, gleaners, groups of co-operating elevators, farmers' elevator exchanges, American society of equity and several representatives at large who will represent the interest of farmers not connected with organizations.

Against Using Theaters for Dining Rooms

By Associated Press.

VIENNA, April 2.—Theater managers complain that the upholstery of their houses is being ruined by the new habit of playgoers bringing their suppers and eating them during the entire acts.

Because of the lighting and transport restrictions performances here begin at from six to seven o'clock. The result is that persons cannot go home from business and after the theater the restaurants have closed.

It is said that dozens of sardine boxes and other meat cases, crumbs of bread and cheese and meat scraps are swept up after each performance while all the filth and dirt is trodden into carpets and rubbed in the seats.

It is not unusual to see a family open up the supper, produce wine and glasses and calmly dine between the acts.

American people are consuming meat at the rate of 54,400,000 pounds daily.

Skirts Coming Down Is Shine Boys' Forecast

"Look 'em in the face lad, you can't judge by knees any more," remarked a cynical young man with a propensity for the opposite sex.

"Yep, at one time bare, dimpled—and sometimes bony knees might have been an indication to the age of the girl and cradle robbing charges could be indulged in with comparative safety, but now, go around and take a sure enough squint at them.

But the styles are changing, so says a girl that knows, and the latest fashion hints bear this out for it is predicted that skirts will be longer and while petticoats are not expected to play a very important part this summer, still west corners where the wind whips 'round them will be less popular than heretofore.

This is a late tip. It came from a shine boy. He's in a position to speak with authority, because, well—they're no longer rolling them. Several reasons. One is that the negro women have taken up the style and when that happens in Texas, they go the way of the Poppy hats.

Of course, this will be indulged in to some extent until everyone has quit—then maybe they'll roll them again.

But the time has not yet come when a day nursery can be wished on a man by a father, who charges his son with walking with small girls with skirts to the knees, "in socks," for the skirts are not so very long yet and while they're supposed to lengthen, still west spans st. and Indiana and Seventh, will still bring a fair price on a windy day.

Darn the dust, anyway!

South Dakota Will Enforce All Blue Laws

By Associated Press.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., April 2.—Rigid enforcement of all the "blue laws" on the statute books of South Dakota was scheduled to begin tomorrow.

In the state-wide campaign which Attorney General Byron S. Payne has announced will start today, provided there are any violations, Sunday baseball seemed doomed, along with any other sports which ordinarily take place on the Sabbath. The lid also will be clamped on Sunday movies and theatrical performances, and stores which sell food must be closed at 9 a. m. on the Sabbath.

An ancient "blue law" which has been upon the statutes for a number of years, and which has never been enforced, affecting the type of motion picture films may be displayed on any day of the week also is to be resurrected and enforced to the letter, according to the edict laid down by the attorney general. Motion picture exhibitors throughout the state have declared that it is absurd to even think of enforcing that provision of the code, because they point out, it would bar practically all the recent movie productions which violate the provision in some manner or other. The code says, "it shall be a misdemeanor to exhibit any indecent or vile motion pictures; any pictures portraying illicit love or infidility to marriage promises; crime, or in any way suggesting the showing of crime or other immorality."

At a conference of the state's attorneys held at Huron, S. D., on March 28, called at Mr. Payne's invitation, the official declared that inasmuch as the last General Assembly had not seen fit to repeal the old "blue laws" after many requests had been made for it to do so, it was the duty of the state's attorneys to enforce every "blue law" on the statute books.

Pipe Smokers Are Coming to Front Again

Pipe smoking is coming more and more into vogue and it is believed that all good men will come to the aid of their country when the present high priced cigars drop and the cigarets will be less popular, for the tobacco on sale in cigars now is said to be of an inferior grade and it is also said that the popular brands of pipe and cigarete tobacco have held up well.

True cigarets lead in the consumption of tobacco in Wichita Falls, but pipe tobacco is pushing cigars a close run in the favor of the devotees of Lady Nicotine, dealers say.

And here's another spring style, this time in drinks. Curtiss flavored drinks are losing some ground, soda fountain artists say, and the fruit juice drinks are gaining in popularity as the warmth of the weather increases.

During the winter a fair rum on all drinks is had, but with the coming of summer, grape and orange juice, as well as lemons and limes, form the basis of considerable trade.

Apparently there is to be no reduction in prices though at some of the fountains, a nickle or two has been lopped off the price of some of the drinks and ice cream concoctions, but last year's prices in the main prevail.

Peasants Set New Fashinos For Solons

By Associated Press.

WARSAW, April 2.—Peasants of Western Galicia have set a new fashion of using the cat-o-nine tails to rebuke a legislator who failed to carry out the wishes of the voters of his district.

Michael Marck, a peasant member of the Polish diet, went home to Galicia recently to report progress of his work. A special meeting was called by his constituents to hear all that their leader had accomplished.

Incidentally, Marck informed those assembled that he had voted in favor of an upper house, or senate, for Poland's next diet which virtually all peasants of the state opposed, considering it the future stronghold of social reactions.

Marck was permitted to finish his speech—then he was taken out into the yard and given 25 strokes with a home-made cat-o-nine tails for voting against the judgment of his constituents.

Irish Press Subjected to Censorship

By Associated Press.

CORK, April 2.—The Cork Examiner has notified its readers that everything appearing in its editorial and news columns is liable to military censorship. Announcement has been made also at Wexford, which like Cork is in the martial law area, that the proprietors of the Free Press and The People have been notified by the military authorities that before going to press the contents of the papers must be submitted for censorship and passed for publication.

Before martial law was instituted a more or less unofficial censorship was imposed by the military or police in several towns in the East and West.

Make Progress On Drive for Irish Relief

The local committee for the relief of the Irish is continuing to make progress in the raising of Wichita Falls' quota of five thousand dollars though the entire amount has not yet been subscribed, Mr. J. L. McMahon, chairman of this committee, says.

In commenting on the worth and necessity of the cause he said:

"It should be a real pleasure and a duty for every loyal American citizen and every other citizen of what nationality to give what he or she can to relieve the suffering among the women and children of Ireland.

"The following should be of interest to those whose sole thought would be to relieve suffering humanity, leaving the thought of politics or anything else entirely at sea.

"The chief sufferer from the industrial distress prevalent in Ireland is Belfast. Since last July 6000 men have been out of work. With their dependents these total some 30,000 individuals, who for eight months have been relying absolutely on charity for subsistence.

"Already $750,000 contributed by the rest of Ireland, Scotland and England, has been spent among them on relief. Yet when the American unit now investigating conditions on behalf of the American Committee for Relief in Ireland visited Belfast homes, they found the conditions among the workers appalling. A pound a week ($3.90) was all the Macrory Relief Committee could allow families of from five to nine. Ten shillings of this had to go for rent and coal. The other half bought the family food, bread and tea or sometimes, a bowl of soup. Nothing left for clothing, hence young children, fathers and mothers are forced to go barefooted. Belfast workers are facing eviction and starvation unless America comes to their aid.

"The American Committee for Relief in Ireland is non-partisan and it aims to raise $10,240,000 for the starving people. It is estimated that $10 per month per person will ward off the effects of malnutrition.

"Captain John L. Lucey, Herbert Hoover's first Belgian Aid is asking that money be sent quickly. Contributions can be sent to the Treasurer of the local committee of the American Committee for Relief in Ireland, or to Frank Russell, State Treasurer, First National Bank, at Houston, Texas.

"When 200,000 people in Ireland are homeless at present and some 150,000 men and women out of work and thousands of children living on a cup of cocoa and a slice of bread a day, it would seem that a wonderful opportunity for service is offered to those who are more fortunate.

"President Warren G. Harding makes the following statement as his endorsement: "I wish you the fullest measure of success."

For rapid healing there is nothing like Liquid Borosone. It mends torn flesh, heals cuts, burns or sores so quickly no time is lost from work. Price 30c, 60c and $1.20. Sold by your druggist.—Adv.

Good Money Floats Out Of Jail Door

DUNCAN, April 2.—Fifteen hundred dollars of perfectly good American money floated out the jail door with Howard Hale, who was released under bond here last Saturday on a high-jacking charge at Empire City. At least the money floated out so far as Sheriff Rhyne is concerned.

A reward of $1,500 had been offered for the slayer of Special Officer Cornelius in Oklahoma City in January. When Hale reached his home at Sulphur after his release here he was arrested on the charge and has confessed.

Hale is under bond to apepar at the April term of district court here on the high-jacking charge.

Advanced engineering and finer manufacturing

Four years ago the Marmon 34 introduced the light weight scientific construction which has since been a distinctive Marmon feature. The remarkable easy riding qualities of the New Series Marmon 34 are in large measure due to this basic superiority of design.

Having thus successfully stabilized design, Marmon engineers turned their attention to motor refinements. And in this they benefited enormously by their war-time experience in building aircraft engines.

The results are instantly apparent in the exceptional smoothness of performance which distinguishes the High Efficiency Motor of the New Series Marmon 34.

And this advanced engineering and fineness of workmanship have not only set new standards of performance, but also of long life.

We shall consider it a privilege to give you a demonstration.

BESSIE HAS ROLE OF MOTHER IN NEW MOTION PICTURE

Bessie Barriscale appearing at the Strand Monday and Tuesday is seen in a role of world-wide appeal—that of a sweet and devoted mother. The mother theme is one that always strikes home. Never was there given a more powerful illustration of mother love and all that it can mean than in this wonderful photodrama.

It has often happened that a star has been given a splendid role, only to disappoint director, producer and public in failing to live up to it, but in the case of the role of "Aurora Lane, the best-known woman in Spring Valley and the woman with the least reputation," the delineation given to it by Miss Barriscale is so remarkably sympathetic that even the severest critic could not suggest improvement.

Emerson Hough wrote the story. That means that the picture possesses what thousands of readers have enjoyed in this eminent novelist's writings — romance, humor, youth, the conquering of right over wrong. Besides the star, there is an excellent cast, including Joseph Kilgour, Sam De Grasse, Marguerite De La Motte, and Arnold Gregg.

DRAMATIC SUSPENSE AND ROMANCE FURNISHED BY CLARA K. YOUNG

Dramatic suspense, alluring romance and red-blooded action to set the pulses throbbing and tug at the heart strings are some of the promises made for "Hush," Clara Kimball Young's latest photo-drama, which comes to the Olympic Theater on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Add to these a wealth of scenic investiture and lavishness such as characterizes all of Harry Garson's productions, and the incomparable histrionic ability of Miss Young, and you have all the elements that go to make the super-production. Newspaper critics in Los Angeles who were given a pre-release peep at the picture unqualifiedly and unanimously proclaim this to be Miss Young's greatest screen achievement.

"Hush," was written by Sada Cowan and is a fascinating story of American romance. Vera is the wife of Jack Stanford, an adoring lover who has not permitted the convention of matrimony to lessen his unbounded affection for her. On the night of their first wedding anniversary Vera seems troubled. Jack importunes her to tell him what it is, and imploringly assures her that no matter what might have happened before their marriage nothing could dampen his ardor. And then she confesses that there had been another man. "Anything but that I could forgive," he tells her. And from that moment on things occur which make this one of the most intensely dramatic and absorbing stories ever produced.

You ask: "Is the end is there a reconciliation?" It would spoil the play to reveal more of its plot.

Miss Young has endeared herself to millions of photoplay patrons by her splendid acting in scores of big productions, most recent of which were "The Eyes of Youth," "The Forbidden Woman" and "The Soul of Rafael." She has added another glittering gem to her diadem of motion picture success in "Hush."

Supporting Miss Young is a cast of unusual excellence, which includes J. Frank Glendon, Kathlyn Williams, Jack Pratt, Bertram Grassby, Gerard Alexander, Beatrice Le Plante and John Underhill.

Postoffice at At Duncan Is Intolerable

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, April 2.—Because of intolerable conditions in the Duncan postoffice, G. L. Wilson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has wired Congressman Gensman to make an effort to secure immediate relief from the department.

There is a long line throughout the day at the general delivery window, and people have been forced to wait for as long as forty-five minutes to get their mail.

The telegram points out that inspectors have refused to recommend any relief, and that not only is the general delivery window congested, but it applies to all departments, citizens having serious delays in getting their mail even through lock boxes or by city carriers.

As an example, Hughes B. Davis, secretary of the Rotary Club, mailed notices of the weekly meeting to all members Tuesday, and none of them had been received by the weekly luncheon Wednesday noon.

More clerks and more room is demanded.

JUSTINE JOHNSTONE COMES TO EMPRESS MONDAY AND TUESDAY

The Empress Theater is offering as its feature attraction for Monday and Tuesday, Justine Johnstone, the new Realart star, in her latest release, "The Plaything of Broadway." Miss Johnstone has the role of Lola, the pet and protegee of the dissipative Thirty Club. She is flattered one night after she has given a particularly daring dance, when her friends say that no living man could resist her charms, but piqued when one man says that he knows a doctor who is so indifferent to women that even Lola could not interest him. To decide the wager, Lola sets about the task of winning and tempting the busy doctor. She has to carry her campaign into his territory, however, which happens to be the slums of New York. She volunteers as a nurse to the poor, and wins his interest by her apparent devotion to the poor and suffering. Soon, however, she realizes that she loves him, and that she is actually really in the work that he loves best. Many complications arise, due to the interference of friends, who tell her that on account of her past she would ruin his career, but after much suffering and many misunderstandings, the doctor and Lola are married, pledging their lives to helping the poor.

Ex-Russ Royalty Serve as Cooks To Warsaw Poor

WARSAW, March 30.—Forming every day in front of the Orthodox Church on Podwal street, in this city is the most remarkable bread line in the world, and the persons in the line are fed from a soup kitchen operated by perhaps the most unusual personnel in the world.

Both bread and personnel are drawn from 1,000 Russian refugees of the upper classes, including nobles, diplomats, high officials of the former Russian Court, generals, land owners and professors.

Speaking of this pathetic bread line Ludmilla Lublinoff, head of the Russian relief work in Poland says: "All of these refugees belong to the 'intelligentsia,' or intellectual class, which was such a force under the old regime in Russia. Professional men constitute a large percentage of the refugees, and they stand in a long queue in the yard at noon regardless of the weather, awaiting their turn for their meal at the public kitchen.

"They not only take their dinners at the public kitchen, but many of them find occupation there. People who a few years ago were very rich and powerful in Russian court circles are today serving in the dining room and kitchen as cooks and dishwashers and waiters.

"The kitchen and dining room are under the direction of members of the refugee colony, assisted by the American Red Cross. The manager of the public kitchen is a former colonel of the Russian Imperial Guard. The manager of the branch kitchen in Ostrow is a celebrated professor; the controller is a count, former master of ceremony of the Imperial Court. As assistants he has a former Cabinet Minister and a former Governor.

"Among the waitresses, two bear the title of Princess, one of Countess, one is the wife of an admiral, another the wife of a general. Coffee is poured by the wife of a famous general, assisted by a baroness and by the sister of a former Governor-General.

"Meal tickets are handed out by a general, the woodshed is in charge of a former Judge of the Supreme Court; the errand boy was once the Lord Mayor of a south Russian city; the pantry manager is a famous architect. Two army officers, one lawyer and one professor comprise the fuel brigade which cuts the wood for the kitchen."

"GODLESS MEN" STRONG PICTURE OF FILM PARSON

Alec B. Francis, who plays the "parson" in Reginald Barker's wonderful film portrayal "Godless Men," has a role far more difficult than that of the usual motion picture parson who comes in to marry the lovers in the final scene.

He has instead to deal wit hthe soul of a great man in anguish. He has to hear from his lips a story which would condemn that man to eternal torment in the eyes of the ordinary preacher of fiction.

But Samuel Poor, as the missionary parson is named, is not an ordinary man or preacher. With his great wisdom of life and its ways with men he guides the racked soul of Black Pawl back to the home harbor, but the way is fraught with misgivings and many trials before it reaches its destination.

"Godless Men" is an entirely different story of the high seas. There has never been a picture containing the same unexpected happenings and absorbing plot, which will be recognized by motion picture fans when they see it at the Gem Theatre, where it will be presented Monday.

CHARTERS ENGINE FOR DATE WITH MISSING TRAIN

CHICAGO, March 30.—Sunday papers come high in Chicago. A Tulsa, Okla., oil operator recently paid a little over $200 for his.

He was on a limited train ready to start for Kansas City when just before starting time he discovered he had neglected to purchase a Sunday paper.

He made a wild dash down the platform, bought the paper and returned—but the train was gone.

"I'd give $1,000 to catch that train," he exclaimed, and the gateman overheard him.

Robins said a special engine might be chartered, and things began to hum around the station.

D. H. Campbell, passenger agent, communicated with the general manager.

"Hold the 'flier' at Brighton, near Joliet," he was told; "give him an engine for $100 and charge him $2 a minute for the flier's delay."

He caught a local train to Canal and Sixteenth streets, where the "live" engine waited. The track was cleared to Joliet and the race was on.

He arrived at Brighton just thirty-four minutes late, at $2 a minute, boarded the train and was on his way. He paid cash for everything—about $168 to the railroad and more than $50 in tips for everyone concerned.

"I've a big deal on in Tulsa," he explained. "I had to make it."

No one thought to ask his name.

Minneapolis, Minn., has the nickname, "City of Flour," while Rochester, N. Y., is similarly designated "Flour City."

DIPLOMATS OF NEW NATIONS IN GAY PARIS

PARIS, April 2.—Since the end of the war prominent men of new states which have sprung up in Europe have visited Paris or have been sent here as the accredited representatives of those States. Most of these men were unknown but a few months ago, and before 1914 no one in Paris ever expected to meet here either M. Stephen Osusky, accredited Minister from Czecho-Slovakia, or Marshal Pilsudsky, President of Poland. Today both men are well known in France and their "histories" are familiar to all the Frenchmen.

Born in Lithuania in 1867 Marshal Pilsudsky early in his youth marked his hatred for the oppressors of his country. In 1817 he was arrested and deported for five years in Siberia. Upon his return he joined the Polish Socialist party and began publishing, editing and printing a clandestine newspaper called l'Ouvrier (The Workman). In this sheet he continued his fight against his oppressors till one day he was discovered and again exiled in Siberia. After one year he escaped and made his way to England and then came back to Cracow in Austria. There surrounded and helped by young students, he organized his famous sharpshooters who shortly afterward began the insurrectional movement which finally led to the liberation of their country. They fought firstly against the Austrian, then against the Russians and finally against Germany. Unable to decide the group to fight against, the Allies ordered the arrests of the leaders of the movement and Pilsudsky again found himself under arrest and imprisoned in a fortress at Magdeburg and remained there until November 1918, when he returned to Poland. He was made a marshal and later elected President of the Polish Republic.

Was American Editor.

Monsieur Osusky is perhaps better known in America than he is in France, for he studied at Springfield, Milwaukee, Harvard and Chicago. At the outbreak of the war he was still in America, where he had an attorney's office and ran a Slovakian newspaper in Illinois.

Thirty years ago Osusky was running around his native village barefooted and often hungry. He left his country when seventeen anxious to see the world. He went to America and there worked for the welfare of his folk at home, organizing among other things the Slovak League of America, of which he became vice-president. This league fought the evil influence of Count Bernstorff. In 1916 he went to London and there worked with President Masaryk. In Paris, later, he collaborated with Minister Benes.

Youthful Lives Are Ruined by Parent Battles

NEW YORK, April 2. — "The Woman Pays," according to the tear-soaked dramas and novels which tell us that "she pays and pays and pays."

But does she? Apparently "the woman" in many of the stories in real life, which we read in the columns of our dailies, gets off scott free and never "pays."

Perusal of divorce cases in which innocent children are involved cannot but impress upon any thinking person that it is more often the children "who pay."

True, the parents who are divorced have their share of suffering, the breaking up of their family life and old memories. But in cases where married life has been a reptition of wranglings and unpleasantness generally freedom is a blessing to them. They feel relieved as from a fearful burden.

At least these guilty ones may say to themselves that they have had the pleasure of their attachments, and that their suffering has not been without its compensations.

But there is none of this for the children, innocent bystanders who are hit when the marital collision occurs.

Some Compensation For Parents.

For a woman who has divorced an unfaithful husband, a man of whom she has tired and with whom she is disgusted, a large money settlement will go a long way toward healing the spiritual wounds of her life. She can forget and live anew.

The man whose wife has divorced him for unseemly conduct may, by reason of our prevalent "double standard" of morals, go his way unmolested, be well received in society and business and easily wed a very charming woman who likes him just as much as though he were not morally soiled.

Those adults who have married and in the early years of their marriage lived happily, at least have known some measure of domestic felicity, no matter how the union has turned out later.

The wounds that come after youth is well gone on its way are easier to bear than the blows that smite youth before it flowers into adult understanding.

Fortitude, self-reliance, resourcefulness, financial independence, travel, and the opportunities to forget afforded by new scenes and new acquaintances. All these create recompense for the grown-up.

But none of these are at the disposal of that most sensitive of all humans, the child upon whom rests a stigma, the innocent bystander who was crushed in the martial collision.

When Children Can't Understand.

In divorce decisions the custody of little children frequently is awarded to one or the other parent. These little ones, too young to reason why, must accept their fate without questioning the decree that shuts them off from the daily companionship of a beloved father or mother in whom they could see no wrong.

It is hard to understand why father can be seen only at intervals; why mother goes into her room when he calls, shuts the door and will not come out to greet the pleasant man who has brought them presents and embraces.

What has father done? Mother shakes her head; won't tell them. The queer shadow that hangs over childhood grows into a storm cloud. Later, in school days, other children, more precocious perhaps, having picked up gossip from their parents concerning the neighboring "divorced woman," may enlighten their little schoolmates as to the truth.

Jibes may be hurled, horrid names called at a little boy or girl who has always been good and always minded mother. What does it mean? Mother must tell at last.

And the next visit of the father; then doubt shows in their young eyes. Sides are taken. One for father, one against.

Years later. The children are older. Young men and women. Then they understand the gravity of charges their mother made years ago against their father. They may see their father some day with another woman, perhaps a new wife. Unconciously they compare her with their mother.

Bound to Cause Distrust.

They notice that father and this woman seem to be received everywhere. Could he then have been wrong. People pity mother, unless she married well again. Then their opinion of her is better. Why is this so? the children wonder.

What girl or young man, children of a couple set asunder by divorce can approach marriage with any degree of trust and security? The girl will have distrust of men in general and fear that she cannot hold her husband.

Consider the pitiful plight of a lovely girl, daughter of a couple fighting each other in a divorce case, the scandalous details of which are spread over pages and pages of newsprint.

Imagine the situation of such a girl if she is a student at a fashionable boarding school, every member of which is familiar with the unpleasant accusations concerning her mother. Gossip hisses its wriggly tongue all about her. Every time any other girl mentions going home to mother and "dad" she feels a sharp pang to think that her home is different from those of the other girls.

Friends will be loyal. If they are really friends. But even in a girls' school, where students pair off and become devoted chums, there will be, for each girl, a large number who are neither friends nor foes, but pleasantly impartial acquaintances. What will they think?

What shall a girl say of the father who makes her mother's good name a mockery? Of the man who, while supposedly a true and loving husband to her mother, has been secretly maintaining another woman in luxury?

Cynics Bred By Bitterness.

What can she think of a man who wants to deny his tiny son, her baby brother, his right to inherit wealth, while he showers foolish extravagances on a woman who might not love him but for his money?

And when baby talk falls from baby lips, it is seeking no other reward than a father's smile. Can any one say as much for the baby talk that falls from the "other woman's" lips?

Worldly wisdom in a normal life comes slowly to most people. Cynicism comes only to those in some way embittered by cruel experience.

Beginning life, every one of us needs a faith in something we believe to be impeccable. Most children believe their parents represent as nearly as possible earthly perfection.

But parents and their precepts lose force when flaws are discovered. Some sage has said that children begin by worshipping their parents and end by sitting in judgment upon them.

Every child has a right to start life without stigma on his name, with a certainty that whatever of evil befalls him in life will, for the most part, be of his own making, and that by his own uprightness he can divert nearly all evil from himself.

No parent has, through divorce or in any other way, the right to secure his or her own happiness and freedom at such a frightful loss to the innocent children who bear their name.

THINNED RANKS OF VETERANS MEET IN ST. LOUIS REUNION

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—Veterans of the Battle of Shiloh are to assemble here tomorrow for their annual pilgrimage of the battlefield at Pittsburg Landing, Tenn.

The Grim Reaper has thinned the ranks of the survivors until this year only about 80 of the several thousand who fought in the battle, are expected to make the trip.

Committees from the Chamber of Commerce, the American Legion, and the Ladies' auxiliary of the American Legion will entertain the veterans with a luncheon and an automobile ride.

The warriors will depart on the steamer Kentucky in the afternoon and return about April 16. Ceremonies will be held on the battleground April 6 and 7. Camp fires will be built on board the boat every night.

Most of the veterans are past 80 years of age, but according to Charles Fawcett, adjutant of the South Dakota division, the majority of them still can do the "he down" remarkably well.

If you belch up a bitter-tasting liquid, suffer from heartburn and sour stomach, you need the tonic properties of Herbine. It is a purifying and strengthening medicine for the stomach, liver and bowels. Price 60c. Sold by your druggist.—Adv.

Dutch Cities Showing Up Profiteers

By Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, April 2.—A number of Dutch municipalities including Amsterdam, are going into the importing business themselves in an effort to force down the cost of living and expose profiteering.

A year ago, some of the municipalities bought American shoes and put them on sale at a price umch below that charged by the Dutch merchants.

Some months later, they importeu beef from the Argentine and put it on the market at about half the price charged for Dutch meat.

The latest move of the Amsterdam city council is to import into Holland one of the greatest dairying countries in the world, butter from Denmark, which is to be sold at a price of 50 Dutch cents a kilogram below the quotations for Dutch butter of the same grade.

These municipal bodies, in which there are many socialists, believe that this habit can only be broken when the people find they can buy imported commodities much cheaper than domestic even after freight and duty charges have been paid.

Dutch manufacturers have demanded of parliament a protective tariff, in addition to the ordinary 5 per cent duty charged on most commodities, but the government has declined to adopt a general policy along this line.

ANOTHER ENGLISH WRITER GIVES HIS VERSION OF U. S.

"An English writer recently said "the middle west is the true America. The way Orientalism of New York, the rapid dignities of Boston, the laughter and languors of the south—these things are not essentially American. The true America is in the middle west—the far west is still to great an extent a pioneer country, just as the east is still to too great an extent a traditional country. The true American spirit is a blend of traditionalism and pioneering, and that is what is found in the middle west.

"Again, the same writer says: says 'the middle west can afford to trust a future of which the present is merely the vestibule. I like to think of the time to come when the ledges between the lakes have been dredged out and when the fleets of the world will come sailing up the St. Lawrence, through the lakes, and moor at Chicago, there to unload the spices of India and the caviar of the Black sea. Mass and space; that defines the middle west."
