Brazil Cancels Mutual Defense Pact With US

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Brazil today canceled its 25-year-old mutual defense agreement with the United States following a dispute over human rights.

The Brazilian Foreign Ministry handed a note to U.S. Ambassador John Crimmins advising him of the action.

The U.S. Embassy said "the decision was one made by the Brazilian government acting within the terms of the mutual defense agreement." The agreement was signed in Rio de Janeiro in 1952.

The diplomatic crisis surfaced last Saturday in an exchange of notes in which the Brazilians rejected more than $50 million in U.S. military assistance because it was linked to observance of human rights.

Brazil is traditionally the stanchest U.S. ally in South America and was the only nation on the continent to support publicly the 1965 U.S. military action in the Dominican Republic.

The Foreign Ministry said Brazil objected to changes in the U.S. Military Assistance Act which it said made further military cooperation unacceptable.

A 1976 provision of the law requires the State Department to prepare a report for Congress on human rights in countries earmarked for U.S. military aid.

The State Department said it gave the Foreign Ministry a copy of the report on Brazil last Saturday as a "diplomatic courtesy" in case it were made public by Congress. Later that day, Brazil formally rejected the aid, which was primarily in the form of credits.

The report has not been made public, but sources said it detailed a number of human rights violations, including torture of political prisoners and conflicts with the Roman Catholic church.

Friday update

Zaire Retakes Towns

KINSHASHA, Zaire (AP) — Zaire said today its forces recaptured two towns from an "army of mercenaries" that invaded the country from neighboring Angola.

At least seven Americans were being held under house arrest at a United Methodist mission, but there were no reports of any injuries or damage, church officials said.

Officials said a battalion of Zaire troops had retaken the small towns of Divuma and Kasaji and were moving toward the captured towns of Kapanga, Kisengi and Dilolo, all in southern Zaire several hundred miles from Kinshasa.

Diplomats in Kinshasha said they had no reports of actual fighting between the two sides.

Chavez Hails Pact

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Cesar Chavez says a truce between his United Farm Workers of America and the huge Teamsters Union should be good news to California's farmers.

"The more enlightened growers will welcome it as the beginning of a new era," Chavez said Thursday after signing a five-year agreement ending bitter years of strife with the rival Teamsters.

Replay In Court

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Instant replay made its debut to mixed reviews in a Texas criminal court.

The nine-man, three-woman jury in a capital murder trial asked to review the testimony of four witnesses Thursday and 197th District Court Judge Darrell Hester asked them to switch on their TV set in the jury room.

Vaccine Top Tragedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — HEW Secretary Joseph Califano today referred to the national swine flue vaccination program as "the tragedy of the past year" and called on a panel of experts to advise him what to do about flu next year.

BECKY REID
...Miss Teenage America

GUEST OF FIRST BAPTIST

Miss Teenage America To Visit Here Sunday

Rebecca Ann Reid, Miss Teenage America, 1977, will be in Snyder this Sunday as a special guest of First Baptist Church.

She will share her Christian testimony at the 7 p.m. worship service Sunday at First Baptist.

Following the service, there will be a reception for her in the fellowship hall of the church where she will be available to answer questions and to sign autographs. The public is invited to attend.

Making the good things happen comes easy for Miss Reid, who believes strongly in the importance of each individual and the need to "strive for meaningful and purposeful achievement."

Miss Reid said, "Helping people to become aware of their full potential is very important." Through unity and communication she tries to "encourage others to step out and take the initiative and really care for their fellow man."

She says teenagers can be effective by "striving to remove the generation gap and in preparing to be leaders of our nation."

Born in Tulsa, Okla., Becky is a straight A student in the senior class at W.T. White High School in Dallas. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Reid, she has one sister, Lori, 16.

She is enrolled in the "Talented and Gifted Students Program," and is a member of the National Honor Society and the senior executive board Student Council.

She plans to use her $12,000 Miss Teenage America Scholarship to attend either Baylor University or Southern Methodist University where she will study for a career in piano pedagogy, a combination of performance and teaching.

She will complete her visit to Snyder on Monday morning at a press conference set for 8:45 to 9:15 a.m. at the Chamber of Commerce.

W. M. Procter Service Set

Funeral service has been set for 10 a.m. Saturday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for William Miles Proctor, 84, who died Thursday morning in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Sam Kitching, minister of East Side Church of Christ, will officiate, and burial will be in the Wilmeth Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Callahan County, Mr. Procter had lived here for the past six years. He was married in 1926 in Coleman to Miss Birdie Mae Frances. She preceded him in death in 1944.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Foy of Austin and Mrs. Barney Johnas of Coppell; four sons, Jimmie Lee Procter of Midland, Horace and William Procter, both of Snyder and Robbie Lynn of Big Lake; four sisters, Mrs. Leroy Beard of Cross Cut, Mrs. J. M. Beard of Odessa, Mrs. Sally Cushion of Mesquite and Mrs. Hoyt Futrell of Yaca Valley, Calif.; two brothers, Jack Procter of Fort Worth and Ernest Procter of San Angelo; 27 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

High Winds, No Rain Over Area

The Snyder area got in on the high winds and blowing sand, but not the moisture as a fast-moving weather front pranced across the state Thursday.

Blowing dust here reduced visibility and during the night northwest winds pushed the temperatures down to 38 degrees. Brisk winds were continuing over the area this morning, although the velocity was somewhat lower than the peak of Thursday afternoon.

Some areas of the state got rainfall from the front, but forecasts of severe weather never materialized. There was some thunderstorm activity in North Texas, but a tornado watch in that area expired at 2 a.m. with no reports of twisters sighted.

Hurricane force winds raked the El Paso and Guadalupe Pass area late Thursday, and high wind warnings were in effect today for the northern portion of the Panhandle.

Early morning temperatures were in the 30s in the Panhandle and Plains and ranged down to the 60s along the Gulf Coast. Snyder had an official low of 38 degrees this morning.

Forecasts called for shower activity over most of East and South Texas today, and cooler temperatures state-wide.

Hostages And Leader Freed

By DONALD ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A band of 12 Hanafi Moslem gunmen surrendered early today and ended a two-day reign of terror in the nation's capital. As part of the agreement, which freed their 134 hostages without further harm, the terrorist leader was released without bail.

Before Khalifa Hamaas Abdul Khaalis and his followers surrendered, the terrorist leader threatened repeatedly during the confrontation to cut off the heads of his hostages if his demands for revenge against Black Muslim leaders were not met.

The speed with which Abdul Khaalis was brought to court for arraignment and subsequently set free enabled the terrorist to reach his home in northwest Washington at about the same time many of his captives reached theirs.

"See you later," he said to newsmen as he was escorted up the walk toward the stone house with barred windows. Two men carrying long curved swords stood guard in the front yard.

The gunmen freed their hostages after a three-hour negotiating session with police officials and ambassadors from three Islamic nations who read them poetry and passages from the Koran, the Moslem holy book.

The Egyptian ambassador said he and his diplomatic colleagues set the stage for surrender by reading from the Koran "songs of compassion, forgiveness, understanding - the things our Lord orders us to do."

Superior Court Chief Judge Harold Greene, in ordering Abdual Khaalis freed on his own recognizance, said, "The court is mindful of the events in this city of the last three days. Nevertheless, the safety and release of the hostages depended on the release of the defendant."

The judge said he was following the recommendation of U.S. Atty. Earl Silbert in releasing Abdul Khaalis.

Abdul Khaalis and his 11 followers, who held the hostages in three buildings were charged with kidnaping while armed.

Greene set the following conditions for Abdul Khaalis' release: He may not keep or possess firearms; he must remain in Washington and he is barred from discussing the case before trial.

The judge asked the terrorist leader if he understood the conditions of his release.

"Yes, I do," Abdul Khaalis replied in a barely audible voice. In his court appearance, the terrorist's meek demeanor contrasted sharply with the fear he had generated while holding hostages and issuing threats in a deep, booming voice.

The 12 heavily armed terrorists struck at midday Wednesday and occupied three buildings, including city hall.

Deadline Faced By Legislators

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators had until 6 p.m. today to add to the more than 2,600 measures already filed in the Senate and House.

For the remainder of the session, lawmakers must have a four-fifths vote of their respective chambers to introduce general measures. Only local bills can be introduced freely.

Before adjourning until 2 p.m. Monday, the House challenged Gov Dolph Briscoe Thursday to decide whether an increase in city hotel taxes violates his no-new-taxes policy.

The House voted 84-49 to send Briscoe a Senate bill allowing city councils to raise their hotel occupancy taxes from three to four per cent.

Half the increase would have to be spent on promoting tourism and conventions. The rest could go for general city expenses.

It could mean an additional $1.16 million to Houston in 1978, $857,179 to Dallas, $439,702 to San Antonio, $193,190 to Austin, $150,761 apiece to Amarillo and El Paso and $131,379 to Corpus Christi.

The subject of Briscoe's no-new-taxes policy permeated the debate on the measure.

"This is a tax bill...He is going to have the opportunity to stand by a promise he made to the people four years ago and he probably will make again," Rep. Mike Ezzell, D-Snyder, said.

"You are not passing a tax bill when you pass this particular bill. It is a permissive bill," defended Rep. Fred Agnich, R-Dallas.

The Senate, which also adjourned until Monday, spent Thursday morning considering gubernatorial appointments and arguing a bill that would allow county park guards bill finally passed 26-2.

House members tentatively approved a Senate bill providing fines and jail sentences for buying or selling children and sent the governor a bill allowing the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission to charge a fee for stocking fish in private lakes.

Another bill sent to Briscoe would allow the prison system to furlough inmates for medical treatment, visits to critically ill relatives and funerals of family members.

Present law requires approval of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles and the governors before a furlough can be granted.

Cowboy Artists In Session Here Today

Members of the Texas Cowboy Artists Association were due to arrive in Snyder this afternoon for a meeting to discuss future plans of the organization.

The artists, headed by Mark Storm, TCA president, were expected to make an early decision on the site of a permanent home for the organization.

Snyder has invited the TCA to establish its headquarters here and is planning to host the fall show and sale of the organization next fall. Several other cities also have expressed interest in becoming the site of TCA's permanent home and some of them were expected to have delegations on hand when the artists began their meeting this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce-BCD building.

The TCA held a show and sale here four years ago. Snyder Chamber of Commerce officials said that a site for a permanent headquarters had been offered here, and that a local delegation hoped to make a presentation citing other advantages a site here would offer.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

The Odessa American deplores the trend of local government agencies employing professional "hunters" to find the pork barrel.

"The fight for so-called federal funds has reached the state where community is pitted against community, with more time and effort being spent on application strategy than in planning and working for worthy projects.

"Cities increasingly are hiring people at great expense whose sole job is to hunt down federal funds and pit their wits against those of their neighbors in securing them. The situation is comparable to bureaucrats jockeying for forward positions in a bureaucracy."

Snyder has had very little federal money at its disposal, and perhaps one of the reasons is we haven't had us a "hunter." Local city officials learned a few things when they applied for a "block grant" some months ago. Snyder just barely failed to make it, but was encouraged to try again. It did, but this time the rules had been changed and the red tape had been multiplied. It seems that you need not only a hunter, but also a red tape expert to live from the pork barrel.

James Roberts of the Andrews News has come up with a suggestion on that proposed $50 the administration wants to "give" us.

"It's just a suggestion and probably far too simple for it to appeal to Congress. But $50 placed in Social Security for immediate distribution makes more sense than $50 in the hands of those better able to cope with rising prices and inflation than those on fixed income."

He's right. It undoubtedly is too simple.

"People who haven't tried them simply don't know," writes Brewer. "On some models of automobiles, they're called 'cruise control. They cost about $75 as optional equipment, or can be added—well below the price of a good CB, especially when a whopping fine or two have been added onto the purchase price, plus increased insurance costs for moving traffic violations.—WACIL McNAIR.

patience is required

If this nation stands for anything other than the selfish interests of its citizens, it stands for freedom, self-government, human rights for all mankind.

But our selfish interests and our moral values often come in conflict in a sinful world.

When such conflicts occur, we face difficult and dangerous choices. Prudence must temper our idealism. There are no easy answers.

President Carter is right to reemphasize morality in our foreign policy. Many people became disillusioned with the real-politik of Henry Kissinger. They had had enough of pragmatism.

So now Alexander Solzhenitsyn will be welcome if he comes to call at the White House. And we are putting the Soviet Union on notice that we will protest obvious violations of the Helsinki treaty, whether the Russians like it or not.

Well and good.

But we must be careful. The Russian rulers are insecure. They resent outside interference. They are inclined to overreaction.

President Carter may declare that there is no linkage between human rights and detente. But the Russian leaders may disagree.

It is obvious that the issue of peace between the two nuclear superpowers transcends all other issues in importance to the human race.

Practical considerations must at all times modify our commitment to moral values. That doesn't mean we must lose sight of moral values. It just means that we are aware that they are not easy of attainment in the real world.

We must never embrace dictators or praise injustice. But we must be patient. We must realize that no nation, no matter how powerful, can right every wrong and remake the world in its own image. There are practical limits.

services duplicated

Tuesday night the Snyder city council authorized the purchase of an up-dated version of a communications system in cooperation with other governmental bodies of the regional planning commission.

The radio communication setup places the police department in almost instant touch with needed information that aids in law enforcement. It's a good system and Snyder is fortunate to have it.

A similar system is located in the sheriff's department at the courthouse. The police system is in operation around the clock and the sheriff's department closes down its communication system at the end of the work day and then switches to the police department.

While we are in complete favor of separate and distinct law enforcement agencies—there seems to be some merit in considering a joint dispatcher and communication system for the police department, sheriff's department and Department of Public Safety.

It appears that there could be an elimination of duplication of costly equipment and personnel with increased efficiency as callers would have only one number to remember in order to secure any emergency assistance.

It's something to think about.

"Suppose he does keep growing and gets out of his pen?"

will carter have secrets?

All the world now knows that the Central Intelligence Agency made secret cash payments to eight, 10 or maybe a dozen foreign heads of states or national leaders. In the case of King Hussein of Jordan the "financial relationship" extended over a period of 20 years.

The Republic has not fallen. Soviet tanks are not rumbling in the streets of Washington.

The same information would have been available to Americans several years ago in a book called "The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence," written by Victor Marchetti, a former CIA official, and John D. Marks, a former State Department officer. Would have been, that is, had it not, along with dozens of other still suppressed passages, been censored by a federal judge as a result of a civil suit brought against the authors by the CIA.

Would the Republic have fallen then, or Soviet tanks have rumbled in the streets of Washington?

Evidently the court believed the danger to the national security was great enough to warrant one of the rare instances of press censorship in our history. No doubt the CIA would still be preventing disclosure of the information if it could.

But the truth will out, as they say, and although the named recipients have to a man denied the allegations, such has been the recent experience of Americans with regard to official deception, lying and subterfuge that they are willing to believe anything about the cloak-and-dagger boys.

We will probably never know what, if any, benefits accrued to the United States from these secret transfers of millions of taxpayer dollars to friends or informants overseas. If the CIA never admits it blunders, neither does it publicize its successes.

All we know is that the revelations restate one of the most difficult questions that can face a democracy: How far can a free nation go in defending itself against its enemies before it risks destroying the very bedrock principle on which it is founded, the principle that government ultimately rests upon the informed consent of the governed?

For reasons best known to himself, former President Ford did not act on the information which all the world now knows. President Carter has acted, at least to the extent of ending the payments to King Hussein, and has announced an "intensive and comprehensive" review of foreign intelligence operations.

But would he have done so if the stories about the payments had not first appeared in the press? Will he do so in the future in other matters which neither the press nor the public is yet aware of?

An affirmative answer to these questions can only be made on faith.

drought increases worries

NEW YORK (AP) — It would be charitable to pardon the economic and business analysts for getting a bit depressed during the long hard winter, but now that winter is ebbing, shouldn't the mood also?

The snow and ice have almost disappeared from much of the area that was frozen since last December. But what happens? Worries intensify about the big drought.

The drought is serious, to be sure, encompassing huge areas of the Plains and the West, threatening the profitability and even the existence of agricultural and other businesses in those areas.

But, the weather pattern that dried the West and deluged the East has broken down. Rain has fallen along the Pacific Coast. Snow has fallen in the Cascades and Rockies and Sierras. Ski resorts are back in business.

Of equal significance, the floods didn't come to the East, even though temperatures over much of the area have been above normal during the past two weeks by about the same number of degrees they were below normal for two months.

There were a lot of layoffs during the big freeze, but now we recognize that most of them were for brief duration and that industry actually continued to add to its payrolls.

Employment counts are always difficult to interpret. Is the water glass half full or half empty, is the sky partly clear or partly cloudy? Do we emphasize the number of people without jobs or the number with them? We might note that the government found in its January and early February survey that capital spending plans of business failed to grow. But, considering the weather, we can also note they failed to decline much.

There are some remarkable and partially unexplainable phenomena to be noted when one puts away the midwinter blinders and looks through the rosey glasses of spring. How do you explain the boom in single-family housing?

You've heard the warnings: the price of housing has risen too fast for young people to afford; interest rates are too high; values are poor because of scrimping by financially pressed builders.

Even though the price of a new single-family dwelling is expected to reach $50,000 by the end of the year, the industry expects to build 1.3 million of them, a record, or at least close to it.

In addition, the National Association of Realtors expects about 3.4 million existing houses to change hands, another record, exceeding the previous record of 3 million units sold in 1976.

Where is the money coming from? Working wives. Parents, equity in previously owned houses. Relatively easy lending terms-except for the interest rates. Savings.

Watch out for the rest of the year, we are warned. Interest rates and inflation are heating up again. Fair warning. These are the two demons that have caused us so much trouble in the immediate past.

However, those are forecasts-they haven't happened yet, and they might not. A goodly portion of the financial community here, while recognizing the danger, is putting its chips on only moderate increases.

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Republican Party, which has indulged in a great deal of talk lately about the importance of luring black voters back to the party of Lincoln, has finally started putting its money where its mouth is.

In a move not yet publicly announced, GOP National Chairman Bill Brock has set aside $225,000 this year to launch a massive long-term effort to recruit them with the kind of political training and financial support they will need to get elected.

That may not sound like a very big slice of the Republican National Committee's total budget of $6.9 million, but it is almost 10 times more than the party has ever devoted to black political programs in the past.

And it marks the first time the GOP has put money into the recruitment of black candidates rather than simplistic and singularly unsuccessful public relations efforts aimed at black voters.

Brock, a Southern conservative who was defeated last fall in his bid for a second Senate term from Tennessee, harbors no illusions about the difficulty the Republicans face in breaking the near-solid black allegiance to the Democratic Party.

"We're not going to get the black vote until we have some black Republicans in office," he said bluntly in a recent interview.

The place to begin building a pool of elected black officeholders, he said, is at the local and state level — where candidates can run on issues of concern to their home communties.

Without exactly saying so, Brock all but conceded that the Republican Party's national image is a liability, not an asset, in black communities. Few blacks with standing and credibility in their own neighborhoods would have much chance today of winning election to Congress as Republicans; the GOP label carries too much negative emotional freight.

Why, then, should blacks who are successful community leaders succumb to entreaties from the GOP to run for local office as Republicans?

Simple enough, Brock replied. "We're the party of opportunity for blacks. We don't have any. The first ones in are really going to have a say. They acquire a voice with us, and we acquire ears with which to hear the concerns of those they represent."

Such pragmatism may indeed have its appeal. In an appearance last month on "America's Black Forum," the first nationally syndicated black news television interview program, a former director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), said it was time blacks started seeking leverage in both political parties.

James Farmer, who served briefly in the Nixon administration although he is not a registered Republican, said blacks "ought to try to be in both parties," adding that Republicans "haven't helped us in this" in the past.

It remains to be seen how much help the GOP can and will extend to blacks in the future, notwithstanding Brock's avowed concern and financial commitment.

The new GOP chairman admitted not everyone in the party, or even on the Republican National Committee, shares his convictions about the value of drawing in more blacks.

"There are still those who want to write off the black vote," he conceded. "But I don't really think we'll get much flak initially."

He's probably right. Until and unless more blacks are elected on the Republican line, they will have little influence in the continuing rancorous debate about the direction the party ought to take in the future. And even with a $225,000 commitment, the GOP is not going to lose its lily-white cast overnight.

"We don't have any illusions about a quick fix," Brock said. "This program is the largest single initiative we are going to undertake this year, but it's no more than the beginning of a longterm commitment to give the black community representation and a voice within the Republican Party."

UP WITH PEOPLE

Tuesday night's performance of Up With People will certainly become one of the 1977 highlights in Snyder. The family show, packed with two hours of original music and song, will leave no one in the audience without words of praise for the extravaganza.

Tickets are available at the chamber, West Texas State Bank and Snyder National Bank at $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Having seen the show in Big Spring earlier this week, I can honestly say you'll be missing a great show if you're not on hand at the Coliseum Thursday night for the 7:30 p.m. opening number.

BIG WEEK

Besides the Up With People Concert, Snyder is in for an exciting week. Miss Teenage America, Becky Reid of Dallas, will be featured at the First Baptist Church's evening services Sunday and be hosted for a press conference by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Gold Coaters at the Chamber Office Monday morning about 8:30.

If you're not able to meet her at Sunday services, feel free to drop by the Chamber and meet her Monday morning.

VARSITY SQUARE

Groundbreaking for the Varsity Square shopping Center will be held Friday at 10 a.m. at the site. Officials of Safeway and TG&Y from California will be on hand as will a number of the other new prospective tenants. The Gold Coaters and other community leaders will be on hand and everyone's invited to attend.

The new shopping center is just the beginning of increased commercial development in Snyder. The $1.7 million investment these people are making here certainly shows the faith others have in our economy and future.

COMMITTEE MEETING

The majority of our new committee chairpersons were in attendance at their initial orientation meeting this week, learning about chamber activity and the responsibilities of committee leaders. They will all meet with Chamber president Henry F. Clark individually to outline future programs and prospective committee members.

All members will be called to determine their committee preference in the near future. The total effort will culminate later this year when chairpersons, board members and officers hold a retreat to set up the Snyder Chamber's first Program of Work.

John Cameron, SACROC superintendent and Chamber President-Elect, is in charge of setting up the program on which the Chamber will operate in the future. The goals for Snyder survey, which are almost completely tabulated, will be used to give committee chairpersons specific programs on which to act.

DON'T FORGET

Please make arrangements now to attend the Up With People Concert on Tuesday at the Coliseum beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available at Snyder National Bank, West Texas State bank and the Chamber.

Jaycee-ettes Donate Equipment

The Snyder Jaycee-ettes in an effort to help the community, try to fill its needs as they are realized. Jaycee-ettes feel there is a lack of things to keep patients occupied during their stay in the hospital.

The greatest need seems to be with small children. Jaycee-ettes are donating a cassette recorder and sets of children's books with the cassette recording to follow each book. Also, there will be other tapes with recordings that will be of interest to all ages.

The club is doing this in the hopes that a cassette library may be started. To accomplish this, the Jaycee-ettes are challenging other clubs and organizations to contribute cassette tapes, or to donate a cassette recorder.

This project will be handled through the Hospital Auxiliary where questions concerning this project may be answered.

Club Finalize Projects

Amitie Junior Study Club is an affiliate of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. They are concluding this years projects by distributing the money they have made to chosen Snyder organizations.

Americans Flags were sold last year and during the summer, some of this money was left over for this year. Also, at the Pioneer Skills Festival July 3, the club members made and sold home made bread. In the fall, a garage sale brought in more money for their community projects. The main ways and means project was held during the holiday season in connection with the West Texas Rehibilitation Center where the club members made and sold Thumbkins.

Opening lead — J ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Since this is a week for mistakes, we made a rather unusual one when we referred to the town of Bath in England as being a seaside resort. It is a resort, but far from the sea.

South complained about his bad luck. He had won the heart lead in dummy, led the eight of trumps and lost a finesse to West's king. Back came a second heart. South won, entered dummy with the jack of trumps and lost a diamond finesse.

West led another heart for the third defensive trick and there was no way for South to shut out the ace of clubs. Down one!

North kept silent for awhile, but when South preceeded to berate North for not having bid three notrump, North finally exploded.

He pointed out that with stoppers in all suits South might well have bid three notrump instead of three spades and that bad play, not bad luck had cost the spade game.

North was right. South should win the first heart in his own hand and play the ace and queen of diamonds. Then he would get in dummy with the ace of hearts and discard his losing heart on the diamond jack.

Pot Is Third Popular Habit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite its illegality, marijuana may be following alcohol and tobacco into the nation's catalogue of popular habits, says the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

Marijuana "is more than a fad and may well prove to be an enduring cultural pattern in the United States," the institute reported.

Some 36 million Americans have tried marijuana, Director Robert L. Dupont said Thursday.

Dupont, who stressed that marijuana is "an intoxicating drug," fears that its widespread use may drive up the rate of serious automobile accidents, just like drunk driving.

He said marijuana reduces physical coordination and longterm use causes possible lung damage that may resemble the harm done by heavy cigarette smoking.

The loss of physical coordination is what worries Dupont most.

"As marijuana becomes more acceptable to society, more users are likely to drive cars while under its influence," he said.

A recent study of 300 drivers responsible for fatal auto accidents in Boston found 39 per cent were intoxicated on alcohol and 16 per cent had used marijuana, the institute said.

Dupont said he is trying to develop a simple test to detect at the scene of an accident whether a driver was high on marijuana.

The institute, in its annual report to Congress, noted that a survey showed 53 per cent of the high school seniors who graduated last spring had smoked marijuana, compared with 47 per cent in the class of 1975.

The report's statistics indicate that the American marijuana user is most likely to be a young man in a big city of the West or the Northeast. More men than women use marijuana; more young adults than any other age group; and more big city residents than small town dwellers.

One out of every 10 men between the ages of 20 and 24 uses marijuana daily, the report said. Excluding those who never smoked marijuana, the ratio is one out of every five.

Dupont had good news and bad news for marijuana smokers.

He reported that new experiments last year contradicted a 1971 British study that suggested heavy use of marijuana would shrink the user's brain.

But Dupont declared, "marijuana is not safe. The idea that it is safe, although accepted by some of the public, is clearly not endorsed by the research community."

Dupont also said marijuana could change personality, metabolism and heartbeat rates.

Hot-Boned Steaks Not As Good

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than half of a 77-member taste panel said Robert L. Henrickson's "hot-boned" steaks didn't taste as good as the regular kind.

But Henrickson, who is a professor of animal science at Oklahoma State University, says the advantages of hot-boning beef far outweigh any complaints of the panel.

Besides that, he said, the chef didn't do a first rate job of following instructions when the steaks were prepared.

The steak-tasting was at a dinner in the Rayburn Office Building of the House of Representatives on Wednesday night. Half the steaks were from hot-boned beef, and the other half from regular beef.

Hot-boning involves removing the bone from a beef carcass while it is still warm from the killed animal's body heat. In regular slaughter, an animal is killed, dressed out and the carcass cooled before it is cut up and boned.

Henrickson and a university colleague, Earl Ferguson, have been studying hot-boning as a way to conserve energy. They say that hot-boned beef can save enough space and refrigeration costs to reduce meat packing energy requirements at least 30 per cent and possibly much more. The saving would be generated by the fact that there would be no bone or excess fat to cool.

Everyone at the dinner, attended by Oklahoma's congressional delegation, government officials, reporters and others, was served a strip steak in two sections. Half of the steak was hot boned and the other half boned regularly. The two pieces, not identified as to process, came from the same animal.

Of the 77 who graded the steak for flavor, 42 said they preferred the traditional kind; 19 chose the hot-boned, and 16 said there was no difference.

"I don't think it proves anything," Henrickson said Thursday in a telephone interview from his home in Stillwater, Okla. "I sure wouldn't want to rest on this as being conclusive."

Three Cases Are Heard In County Court

A guilty plea, a probation revocation and a jury trial were handled this week in county court.

Dessie Louise Bennett pleaded guilty to a charge of theft. She was assessed a 60-day jail term, probated for one year, and ordered to make restitution. She was charged with the Feb. 2 theft of $195 from the manager's apartment of the College Park Apartments.

Dewey Allen Lee had his probation revoked yesterday in court proceedings. Lee was on probation for a charge of possession of less than two ounces of marijuana and had his probation revoked after he pleaded guilty to an identical charge on a subsequent arrest. He was fined $250 and assessed a 180-day jail term.

A three-man, three-woman jury found John B. Tarlton guilty Wednesday of driving while intoxicated. Tarlton was fined $50 and assessed a six-month jail term. He had been arrested for the offense Oct. 31, 1976. It was Tarlton's second conviction in two weeks on DWI charges.

Betty Ford Inks NBC Pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former First Lady Betty Ford has signed an agreement to do daytime specials and other programs for NBC television, columnist Rona Barrett said today on ABC television's "Good Morning, America."

Mrs. Ford will be paid "in excess of $1 million," Miss Barrett said, adding that the agreement would be announced formally on Monday.

There was no immediate comment from NBC.

NBC announced at the end of January that former President Gerald R. Ford had agreed to appear in a number of NBC News television programs relating to the presidency.

No money figure has been disclosed for that agreement.

The Ford's eldest son, Jack, will join Rolling Stone magazine to work with a new outdoors publication, the magazine announced last month.

Another son, Steve, has been reported heading for a television acting job.

Earlier this week, Mr. and Mrs. Ford announced they had signed an agreement with Harper & Row publishers and Reader's Digest to publish their memoirs.

Naked Escapee Captured

VEGA, Tex. (AP) — The residents of this Texas Panhandle community must have thought the streak phenomenom had finally arrived.

But the naked man running through the town's streets Thursday was no laughing matter for the police.

The man had escaped from the Oldham County jail.

Vega Police Chief Dave Thompson said the 30-year-old California native set fire to the mattress in his cell and hid in the shower when police and fire officials entered to battle the blaze.

"While we were in fighting the fire, he just bolted from the shower and ran down the street stark naked," Thompson said. Officers found the man hiding in a building only a few blocks from the jail, Thompson said.

"At least he wasn't hard to spot," one deputy sheriff said.

Six Students From WTC To Convention

Six students from Western Texas College will attend the 10th annual State Leadership Conference of the Junior Collegiate Distributive Education Clubs (DECCA) in Fort Worth this week end.

Students at the convention will be George Milliken, Rodney Speck, Elva Gomez, Shirley Glasscock, Laurel Clement and Jerry Jones. Faculty sponsors for the WTC chapter are R.D. Lewis and Charles Henderson.

DECCA members are Mid-Management students, and more than 40 junior colleges in Texas now offer Mid-Management programs. WTC has 96 Mid-Management students.

At the Leadership Conference, students will be participating in contests based on management decision-merchandising, human relations, salesmanship, fashion merchandising, advertising, public speaking, public relations and good marketing programs.

New officers for the state association will be elected at the Conference. Candidates for national offices will be named in anticipation of the national convention later.

Woo At Ease Despite Woes

REDMOND, Wash. (AP) — Forty years ago You Woo took his savings and sent for the bride he had left in China.

"I'm still waiting for her," the 70-year-old Woo says with a wry smile. "If she doesn't come soon, I'll look around for a U.S. bride."

The young woman never even acknowledged Woo's money order, for every cent he had. Maybe she knew the problems his life would hold. She was only the start.

Take, for instance, his attempts at raising livestock.

His goats easily hop over his jury-rigged fence and wander away, often getting shot by irate neighbors who don't appreciate them nibbling trees.

One of the goats didn't think too much of his master. The animal would stand outside the front door, and whenever Woo walked out, the goat would lunge at him.

This caused problems, because the outhouse was about 300 feet away, and Woo knew he couldn't outsprint the critter.

A friend took away the unruly beast.

Fortunately his sheep can't climb the fences, but coyotes often jump in and make mince meat of the fold.

"I thought I'd get them and set out traps," Woo says. "But I ended up trapping my own sheep."

His geese also step too frequently into the coyote taps, or disappear into the maws of coyotes and raccoons. The 'coons eat the eggs.

Woo survives on a small Social Security check and a smaller veteran's disability check. After immigrating to this country in the mid-1930s and working in a Seattle laundry, he fought in Europe in World War II and was sent to the Pacific after the shooting stopped.

Living expenses are minimal - his home, which he built in 1936, cost all of $2.

Sweeping a hand at the cluttered one-room abode, Woo laughs, "It's all a bunch of junk but that's the way I keep house. I don't have a television - don't have room for one. I do, however, have a small 4-by-6-inch radio."

Missing wife, rebellious animals and all, Woo says he's at ease with the world, and he wouldn't have it any other way.

Westerners Set Sunday Departure

Coach Mike Mitchell's Western Texas College Westerners will head for Hutchinson, Kan., early Sunday to participate in the National Junior College Athletic Association's annual tournament, and Mitchell hopes they get over their bruises and "regional hangover" by the time their first game rolls around.

The Westerners are scheduled to depart at 6 a.m. Sunday. Mitchell said they will drive through to Hutchinson and that he hoped to get in a workout session on Monday. WTC's first game in the national tournament is set for Tuesday afternoon.

"We haven't looked too sharp in workouts this week," the WTC coach said. "We have a few injuries and so far we just haven't been able to shake off the effects of the regional tournament."

The Westerners had three tough games in a row in the Region V meet at Abilene last week.

However, Mitchell said he expected all of his front line troops to be ready for battle by Tuesday, with the possible exception of Butch Person. He suffered a fractured hand in the regional tournament and his status for the national tournament was uncertain this morning.

"If Butch can't play, I'll start John Moorehead," said Mitchell. Moorehead saw considerable action in the regional tournament and Mitchell was pleased with his over-all performance.

"John hasn't had the experience that Butch has, but he has a lot of potential," Mitchell said. "Of course Butch is very valuable to us because he does so many little things that get the ball for us. We'll be handicapped if he can't play, but Moorehead is coming along."

Mitchell said he had not heard who might be favored in the national tournament, which the Westerners won two years ago.

Seven of the top 10 teams in the latest national rankings were defeated in their regions and will not even be in Hutchinson for the national finals.

Eastern Idaho, ranked No. 1 in the last national poll, will be there, however, and the next highest ranked team at Hutchinson will be the Westerners, who were in the No. 4 slot. Casper, Wyoming, No. 2, and Westchester, N.Y., No. 3, both were beaten at the regional level.

The same was true of No. 5 Henry Ford JC of Dearborn, Mich; No. 7 Waukesha Tech of Wisconsin; No. 8, East Central College of Missouri; No. 9 Jamestown of New York and No. 10 Palmer College of Iowa.

The only ranked team besides Eastern Idaho and WTC to make it to Hutchinson is Independence, Kan.

Teams In Meet

HOUSTON (AP) — Tracksters from five Texas universities will be gathering Saturday at Rice University's annual Rice Invitational meet. This year's event features an appearance by Olympian Johnny "Lam" Jones.

The Rice Owls will be competing with the University of Houston, the University of Texas, Lamar University and Houston Baptist University.

JV TRIUMPHS

Tigers, Odessa To Play Twice

Snyder High School's varsity baseballers will entertain Odessa High in a doubleheader Saturday afternoon at Moffett Field.

The first game will get under at 1 p.m.

The junior varsity baseball team edged Abilene High's JV nine, 3-2, Thursday afternoon in Abilene.

The Snyder JV scored a pair of runs in the first inning, and then pushed across another run in the third to seal the victory after Abilene had scored twice in the second.

Kyle Short led off the game with a two-bagger, which was followed by a base on balls to Toby Neves, a single by Walter Banks and bases on balls to Bobby Degrate and William Robinson.

Two errors, a base on balls and one of two hits Abilene was able to get the entire afternoon enabled the hosts to score twice in the second inning. But Degrate led off the third for Snyder with a double to right and came in a moment later on Robinson's one-base knock.

Sid Everton, who worked on the mound for Snyder JV, gave up a harmless single in the third and then handcuffed the Abilenians the remainder of the way.

Wildcats Hope To Meet SOC

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The top-seeded Fort Worth Dunbar Wildcats play a semi-final game this afternoon and hope to meet the only team that beat them in Saturday's Class 4A title game in the State Schoolboy Basketball tournament.

Dunbar, 40-1, goes against Houston Westchester, 32-9, at 4 p.m.

The only team to defeat Dunbar this year, Dallas South Oak Cliff, plays the other semi-final match against San Antonio Burbank at 8 p.m.

Before the season, Westchester was picked to finish third or fourth in its district, and Houston Wheatley coach Jackie Carr, whose team played both, says, "Dunbar has the edge over everybody in the state. That includes Westchester."

South Oak Cliff, 33-8, edged Dunbar, 80-78, at mid-season. The Bears take on Burbank's 6-11 Gilbert Salinas, reportedly sought by 200 colleges, in the night game.

The 4A title game begins at 2:05 p.m. Saturday.

In Class B, Leggett, 36-4, plays Avinger, 32-7, in an 8:30 a.m. semi-final game Saturday. Krum, 38-5, face Hedley, 35-4, at 10 a.m., and the winners clash for the championship at 8 p.m.

South Oak Cliff is led by 6-2 forward David Burns, averaging 22 points a game, and 5-7 guard Cullen Mayfield, averaging 20.

Salinas tops Burbank scorers with a 20-point average, but is equally valuable moving without the ball and as a passer and rebounder. The next tallest player on Burbank's team is Ernest Puente, 6-3.

Eric Buescher, 6-3 post-forward, and Joe Costello, 6-6 post who played guard and helped bring the ball down court against the press at the last half of the season, lead Westchester with 14-and 13-point averages, respectively.

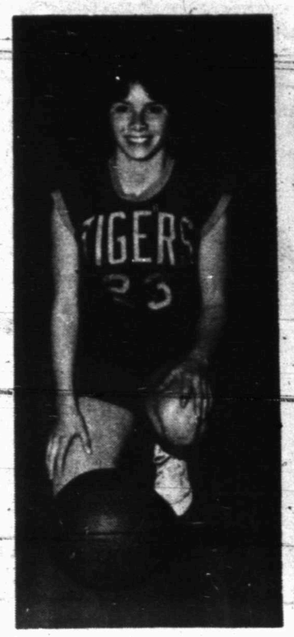

Dunbar failed to turn in its scoring averages to the University Interscholastic League.

TCU Netters Face Arkansas

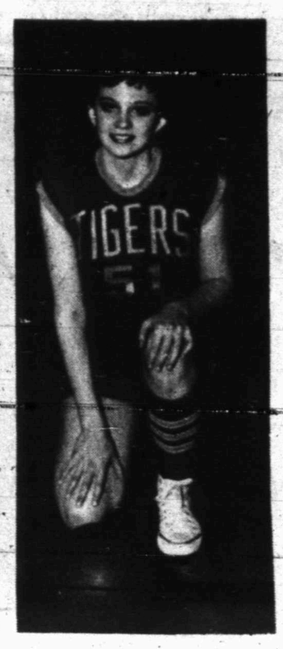

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian University's nationally-ranked tennis team will begin Southwest Conference action Saturday by hosting the University of Arkansas.

TCU has met three SWC teams so far this season, but none in league play.

Last season, TCU topped Arkansas 6-3 enroute to a 41-31 SWC record.

JAMIE HATAWAY

MARCA PARHAM

Two Tigerettes On All-District

Two members of the Snyder High School Girls Basketball team have been named to the All-District 3-AAA team and both will be back next year.

In fact, one of the local All-District players, Jamie Hataway, is only a freshman and has three more years left to perform for the black and gold.

She was named one of the All-District forwards.

Marca Parham, a junior, was named as an All-District guard.

Other forwards on the All-District team are San Angelo Lake Views' star performers, Pattie George and Charlotte Dehnel.

The other two guards are Lake View's Lori Gordon and Shelly Simpson. All four of the Lake View All-District selections are seniors.

Porkers To Face Tough Challenge

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Arkansas, noted more for its football than basketball, takes its No. 7 national ranking into Saturday night's NCAA Midwest subregional against Wake Forest, noted more for its basketball than football.

Kansas State, Big Eight champion, meets Providence in the other game.

It'll be only the third time the Razorbacks have met a team from the Atlantic Coast conference, generally considered the toughest basketball conference in the country. Arkansas, Southwest Conference champ, has met Clemson twice, winning both.

"We certainly have to respect a team like Wake Forest," says Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "They come from one of the strongest conferences in the country. We know Skip Brown is a great guard and Rod Griffin is one of the top percentage shooters in the nation. They led the ACC into the final week of the season so we know they have an outstanding team."

The Deacons, picked to finish sixth in the seven-member ACC this year, led the ACC most of January and February before dropping four straight to end the season in a tie for second with Clemson. Deacon publicist Pat Gainey blamed fatigue for the late slump.

Gainey also credited the 6-6 Griffin with much of the Deacons' glory this season.

"We'd always been an outside shooting team," says Gainey. "But with Griffin we developed an inside power game." Griffin is the first team scoring leader in over a decade who was "someone other than a guard," added Gainey.

However, Griffin probably will be matched against Razorback forward Jim Counce, a 6-7 defensive specialist.

Sutton says Counce "is one of the best defensive players in the country. It's a shame great defensive players don't get the recognition in basketball they get in football because Counce and Steve Stroud would be defensive all-America players."

Stroud, 6-10, will be matched against Deacon center Larry Harrison, 6-11.

For Kansas State, the subregional, and regional perhaps, will be quite literally an uphill battle. KSU does not start a man over 6-5, but makes up for the lack of height with quickness and determination. Needless to say, they also rely heavily on Mike Evans, considered one of the best guards in the Big Eight.

Providence, on the other hand, averages 6-6 per man. They are led by Joe Hassett, 18.8 per game, who has a chance to overtake Marvin Barnes, now of the NBA's Detroit Pistons, on the team's career scoring list.

The two winners of the games here will meet Mar. 17-19 in Oklahoma City against the winners of the subregional games at Omaha, Neb., pitting Cincinnati vs. Marquette and Southern Illinois vs. Arizona.

DICK ALLEN AND CHARLES FINLEY

Famous Phantoms Join Forces

By The Associated Press

Baseball fans who don't like controversy must have an eerie feeling today. The phantoms have joined forces.... Dick Allen has agreed to play for Charles O. Finley.

"He's kind of like me, a great phantom," Allen said after agreeing in Mesa, Ariz., Thursday to a one-year-contract with the Oakland A's. He hasn't shown yet."

The 35-year-old Allen was alluding to frequent disappearances during his playing career and to the fact that equally controversial Finley has not yet presented a contract for signing.

There was no mention of how much Finley will pay Allen.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., the New York Mets let it be known what they will NOT play slugger Dave Kingman.

Kingman said he was demanding a bonus and definitely wanted more money than the three-year, $700,000 contract given last year to ace pitcher Tom Seaver.

It looks like flesh has won out over wood, with General Manager Joe McDonald saying the Mets would not pay Kingham more for his bat than they paid Seaver for his arm, and that it is against club policy to give a bonus.

In another salary battle, five Cincinnati Reds remained unsigned but the world champions did not invoke the optional renewal clause. The players are third baseman Pete Rose, shortstop Dave Concepcion and pitchers Gary Nolan, Rawley Eastwick and Pat Darcy.

The Reds also announced that catcher Johnny Bench had strained a knee and was told to restrict his physical workouts at the Tampa, Fla., training camp.

Everybody apparently was happy on the Los Angeles Dodgers, but the sun refused to shine on them. The Dodgers took a two-hour bus ride from Vero Beach, Fla., to Winter Haven for a game against Boston, which was rained out. Then they rode back to Vero Beach for a planned intrasquad game. It also was rained out.

"That's the first time I've ever been rained out twice in one day," said rookie Manager Tom LaSorda.

There were several other rainouts, but five games were played.

The brand new Seattle Mariners of the American League pounded out 20 hits and scored 10 runs. But before the Mariners scored their first run, Oakland already had 12. And the A's won 16-10 at Mesa. Rookie Dennis Walling hit a two-run homer and Larry Lintz clouted a two-run triple in a seven-run Oakland third inning.

At Yuma, Ariz., the San Diego Padres and the California Angels had much more success getting their bats on the ball than they did their gloves, committing a total of 12 errors in a game won by the Padres 14-13. Bobby Valentine tripled home the winning run in the eighth inning.

Elsewhere, Ivan DeJesus singled twice and doubled, stole two bases and doubled, stole two bases and scored the winning run as the Chicago Cubs beat Milwaukee 2-1 at Scottsdale, Ariz.; Larvell Blanks broke a 7-7 tie with a pinch single in Cleveland's 8-7 win over San Francisco at Tucson, Ariz., and Ralph Garr sparked a 3-2 Atlanta victory over Pittsburgh at Sarasota, Fla., with three hits.

Track Teams In San Angelo

Snyder High school track teams were headed for San Angelo this weekend for competition.

The freshman girls track team left this morning and was scheduled compete in a meet this afternoon.

The varsity boys and girls teams are entered in a meet at Lake View tomorrow.

Life insurance can help your family cope with a fate worse than fire.... YOUR DEATH

The plain truth is, dying before your mortgage is paid off is much more likely to happen than a severe home fire.

Most homeowners do have some kind of fire insurance for their property. But too few families are really prepared for the death of the homeowner.

HE LEADETH ME

The rich possibilities of the future stand side by side with the glorious achievements of the past. A generation in revolution, such as ours, has a choice to make, a free comparison and choice of values which not every generation is so fortunate to be able to enjoy. For usually, entire generations stand helplessly mired in tradition from which they cannot, or will not, break loose.

But the affairs of men do, from time to time, move toward a cresting. So it is now. We believe deep within these special movements of time and events, some will discover and catch hold of the hand of God. When that wise choice is made, the past becomes understandable and the future's richest possibilities will be realized.

No wonder we sing, "He leadeth me, He leadeth me; by His own hand He leadeth me."

—Paul M. Stevens

DEDICATION SET—The Victory Baptist Church congregation will dedicate this new building in special services set for 2:30 p.m. Sunday. The new building, located at 3303 Apple st., was opened for first services on March 6. (SDN Staff Photo)

Building Dedication Is Set By Victory Baptist

Victory Baptist Church will dedicate its new building at 3303 Apple Street in special services set for 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Dr. Claude Craven, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church in Big Spring, will be the guest speaker for the dedicatory service.

Victory Baptist Church was organized on Nov. 7, 1974, and called Pat Githens to be its pastor. The church met for two months in the pastor's home, and in January, 1975, the congregation moved its services to the East Elementary School building.

The church purchased land in the 3300 block of Apple Street in the spring of 1976 and began preparing for the construction of a church building. Construction began in the summer of 1976 with members of the church providing most of the labor. The congregation held its first services in the new building on March 6 this year.

The new building seats 200 persons for worship services and has been designed so that it may be easily expanded to seat 300.

Rev. Githens said the Victory Baptist Church members are "extremely grateful for the many friends who have assisted the church during the building program and for those who donated their labor on the building."

All are invited to attend the dedication service Sunday afternoon and tour the new building.

Stress bulk for diet

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Each time I read an article on the bran treatment for diverticulosis I applaud heartily, for it has made a new life for me. In May 1975 I was having constant pain and had reached the point where I was about to climb the walls. The doctor found I had diverticulosis. My X rays showed those pockets of the colon. He put me on a bran diet and it certainly has worked for me. All Bran and Bran Buds work better for me. Morning and evening.

The doctor cautioned me about two enemies of diverticulosis patients, spices and fats. It is true in my case. You might tell your readers who are on a bran diet and have occasional flare-ups and pain that they should avoid fats and spices.

I eat anything else I want, tossed salads, mmmmm! I had been without them for so long. However, I have to be very careful of the dressings I use on them. Others may not respond as I have, but I thought you might be interested to know of one other who responded well to the treatment.

DEAR READER — Bowel disorders are among the most common problems in our population. Diverticulosis, those little pockets of the colon occur in more than half of the people over 50 years of age. There is a good deal of evidence that the pockets develop because of a spastic colon problem which in turn is often related to a diet poor in bulk, specifically cereal fiber.

I am sending you two issues of The Health Letter on these problems, number 2-1, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation, and 5-6, Diverticulosis. Good bowel habits help to prevent Diverticulosis. And often the pain attributed to diverticulosis is really caused by the spasms in an irritable colon. Both can be benefitted by a sensible bowel program that provides cereal fiber in the diet and avoids harmful laxatives.

There is more to managing colon problems than just eating bran as you have suggested. Others who want the information in the two Health Letters can send 50 cents for either or each issue with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Bowel training that takes advantage of natural reflexes is helpful.

You get good results from All-Bran and Bran Buds because both of these contain reasonable amounts of bran. A cup of these a day along with whole wheat bread (not half whole wheat flour and half white flour or bread colored to look like whole wheat bread) will usually provide adequate amounts of cereal fiber for most people.

If you prefer Bran Flakes or Raisin Bran you will need two teacups of either a day to provide a similar amount of cereal fiber.

Vegetable fiber and fruit fiber are found in raw fruits and vegetables, including those salads you like so much. But vegetable or fruit fiber is not nearly as effective as cereal fiber in providing needed bulk for the colon.

Fats and spices are hard on the colon — whether or not you have diverticulosis. Coffee, particularly natural coffee, but also decaffeinated brands may be irritating to the colon of some sensitive people. The flavor oils as well as the caffeine may be too much for an irritable colon. I am delighted you have done so well, and hope millions more will be able to move from a bland tasteless diet to one that not only tastes better but is better for them.

Ford Memoirs To Include Nixon

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Former president Gerald R. Ford says his memoirs will include a prominent mention of former president Richard M. Nixon.

But when asked to elaborate, Ford turned salesman and said, "that can best be explained in the book itself."

Looking tanned, fit and relaxed, Ford and his wife Betty held a poolside news conference Wednesday to announce that they will each publish memoirs of their days in the White House.

Kiss Turns Computer On

WASHINGTON (AP) — A kiss is one of the latest methods developed for turning on a computer. A Japanese company has produced a computer that only registers lip prints, reports National Geographic. The computer won't work until the operator presses his lips against it and only if the kiss stirs something in its memory bank.

Most computers are more easily turned on, and the electronic marvels have aided and abetted fraud, theft, embezzlement and military and industrial espionage, Geographic notes.

New Trial Date For Patty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst has a new trial date of May 18 and a new judge who says, "This case is long past the time it should go to trial."

Miss Hearst, 23, already convicted of bank robbery, was indicted in October 1975 for kidnaping, robbery and assault in a case stemming from a sporting goods store shooting.

She had been scheduled to stand trial here April 4, but the attorneys had made no pre-trial motions as the date approached.

Dieters Facing Drastic Change In Eating Habits

By LOUISE COOK

If you're one of the millions of Americans who cuts calories by using artificial sweeteners, you face a drastic change in your eating habits.
The proposed Food and Drug Administration ban on saccharin leaves you without any artificial sugar substitute to turn to, and the so-called natural sugars such as corn syrup or honey generally have just as many calories as the refined product.
"There aren't any alternatives. Now you have no choice," said Bob Gelardi of the Calorie Control Council, an Atlanta-based trade association of manufacturers of diet foods.
Diet foods are a $2-billion-a-year business, according to Gelardi, who says that an estimated 70 per cent of American families use some sort of dietetic product, either because family members are trying to lose weight or are diabetic.
Note: The FDA said it would consider allowing diabetics and others who cannot eat sugar to buy saccharin as a prescription drug, but no final decision has been made.
A spokesman for the American Dietetic Association said that learning to live without saccharin "will take some changes in food habits." But she added: "I don't think that it's going to be any major health crisis."
Most of the five million pounds of saccharin consumed in the United states each year went into soft drinks. Manufacturers say they will have reformulated, low-calorie products ready for market by the time the saccharin ban goes into effect.
The soda makers aren't saying what they will put into their products, but nutrition experts agree that if you want a sweet taste, you'll have to have some form of sugar.
This does not mean that diabetics and dieters will have to eliminate all soft drinks or other products with sugar. Dr. Alan Forbes of the FDA said that most experts in treating diabetes agree that the "controlled and moderate use" of sugar is allowed, but he added, "The words controlled and moderate must be underlined."
The same is true for dieters, Forbes said. "The fundamental approach to weight loss is reduction of total calories." Just remember: If you substitute sugar for an artificial sweetener, you will have to cut back on something else.
Not all diet foods have saccharin in them. A spokesman for the Chicago Dietetic Supply House said only 35 items out of several hundred in the company's line contained saccharin.
There are two basic kinds of low-calorie diet foods: Those that are artifically sweetened with saccharin and those that are not sweet at all. Dietetic canned fruit, for example, may be packed in its natural juice instead of a sweet syrup. A good tip-off to this type of produce is the word "unsweetened" on the label.

Mort Sahl Giving Up Lawsuit Idea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — He's not exactly burying the hatchet, but comedian Mort Sahl says he's giving up the idea of a lawsuit against entertainer Frank Sinatra.
"I'm trying to give the courts a better press," Sahl said in a telephone interview Wednesday.
Sinatra sued Sahl in Los Angeles Superior Court in 1974, claiming Sahl had only paid off half of a $20,000 loan made 10 years earlier.
The suit was filed a month after Sahl had commented on Sinatra's attacks on a Hollywood gossip columnist.
Sahl's attorney, Ronald H. Rouda, said then that Sahl was considering a countersuit. But Sinatra's case was dismissed when he refused to give a deposition last January.
Asked on wednesday if he plans to try to reactivate his friendship with Sinatra, Sahl said, "Not especially."

Letter Answered 13 Years Later

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (AP) — When she was a teenager, Diana Carrigan Rardin tossed a bottle containing a note into the Rainy River near International Falls, hoping that someday someone would answer it.
It turns out that an elderly fisherman found the bottle the same year near lake of the Woods, about 100 miles down river. But it took him 13 years to send a response.
"I meant to answer it," explained Fred Clark, 81, of Flint, Mich., in a letter to Mrs. Rardin, 27, now now lives in Motley.
He sent his letter to Mrs. Rardin's childhood address, and her parents forwarded it.
"It got set aside," Clark wrote of the bottle and note, "and I lost track of it and forgot about it until the other day when I found it."

Fingerprint files are not only used in police work. After disasters such as a flood, plane crash or auto accident, they often provide the only way to check the identity of the dead.

Fanzines Stories To Be Indexed

FAIR LAWN, N.J. (AP) — The first index of Star Trek stories, written by fans in the 10 years the show has been put off the air, is being put together by a Fair Lawn librarian.
Roberta Rogow has purchased 20,000 index cards on which she hopes to compile the "Treindex," a guide to finding all the works.
The stories are the work of amateur writers who dream up new plots, serialize them and send them to fellow fans in what Mrs. Rogow calls "fanzines."
Mrs. Rogow said she undertook the project because she found that she could obtain one part of a series, then not be able to find subsequent episodes.
"It drove me insane," she said. "In a library there are always indexes to periodicals for help in finding this sort of thing."
So far Mrs. Rogow's Treindex lists the fanzines and 3,000 separate stories. It also crossindexes by subject and character.
She said she hoped to have the list published in spring and expected it to sell for about $6 in bookstores.

Adoption Info Needs Dual Consent

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You stated that you thought an adult adoptee had the right to information about his/her biological parenting. And at the same time you expressed the opinion that the biological parents also have the right to confidentiality.
This issue of who has the "right" to what information is one that is currently plaguing those who are in some way involved in adoption, the dilemma being that if you take a stand for the "rights" of one party—the adoptee or the biological parents—you automatically take a stand against the other. You can't have it both ways.

C.

DEAR C.: I think an adult adoptee has the right to know as much about his biological parents' MEDICAL HISTORY as possible. But he (or she) should not be told who (and where) his biological parents are UNLESS they want their identities and whereabouts known.
Also, biological parents should not be given information about their child's identity and whereabouts (even when the child is an adult) unless the adoptee wants to be "found."

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old college girl who recently started dating a 28-year-old successfully attorney.
On our first two dates, I prepared dinner for him at my apartment and we sat home and watched television. On our third date "Cheapo" invited me "out" for dinner.
I spent hours sprucing up, only to be taken to a shabby, smoke-filled diner! I felt a bit uneasy sitting beside a table of noisy truck drivers while my date seemed perfectly content eating his greasy french fries.
After dinner he scrutinized the bill and asked me to leave the tip.
On the way out, he filled his pockets with after dinner mints and later informed me that next time it would be my turn to "treat."
Abby, I do like him, but if this keeps up I don't think there will be a next time. What should I do?

CHEAP LUCK

DEAR CHEAP: If you continue dating him, you are bound to find out whether he's conservative, hurting for money or just plain cheap. And when you find out, you'll know what to do.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for nine years, and I still feel like a servant in my own home.
I am not allowed to invite more than two people over at a time because "crowds" make my husband nervous.
Every time I use the sink or the tub, he asks me if I dried the chrome.
When I use the sweeper he keeps telling me [illegible] not to bump the walls.
He won't let me have anyone with a small child over because he's afraid something might get broken or dirty.
I love children, but he tells me I'm too old to start a family of my own. Am I?

THIRTY AND NO FUTURE

DEAR THIRTY: You are not too "old" to start a family, but I would have reservations about starting a family with a husband who offers me no future. And may I remind you, the longer you tolerate his tyranny, the more difficult it will be to demand your rights as an equal partner in marriage.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.
