Pope Pius XII, who suffered a stroke at Castel Gandolfo, his summer residence outside Rome, waves from a balcony to pilgrims gathered in the palace courtyard last Oct. 1.

Local Farm Bureau Endorses Sales Tax

The Howard County Farm Bureau favors what it calls a "minimum" consumer sales tax for educational purposes in Texas.

Resolution endorsing such a tax was adopted last night at the annual convention of the local bureau.

The group also voted resolutions which would:

1. Oppose any legislation intended to combine county, city and school governing agencies;
2. Favor continuation of the federal school lunch program; and
3. Require oil companies drilling wells to return all salt water to the formations from which it comes.

Only opposition expressed was to the sales tax proposal. Several "noes" were heard when the resolution was offered for a vote by Ellis Iden, chairman of the resolutions committee.

Farm Bureau members also elected one new director and re-elected seven holdover members of the board. The new director is J. H. Fryar of Precinct No. 1.

DIAMOND ANNIVERSARY AWARDS

Herald, HCJC Cited For Support Of Merit System

Two local institutions, the Big Spring Herald and Howard County Junior College, were cited today for outstanding contributions to the federal merit system.

The presentations to R. W. Whipple, Herald publisher, and Dr. W. A. Hunt, HCJC president, highlighted activities arranged by the local 75th Anniversary Committee of the 8th U. S. Civil Service Region.

"Never in my 17 years of federal service, said Warren Farrow, civilian personnel officer at Webb AFB, have I seen such examples of cooperation as displayed by these two institutions.

The handsome Diamond Anniversary awards, signed by members of the U. S. Civil Service Commission, were delivered before the

Pope's Condition Worsens Following Second Stroke

Heart, Breath Are Giving In

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—The life of Pius XII, Pope for 15 years of war and ideological strife, is slipping away tonight.

He suffered a second stroke during the day, after his physicians reported he was suffering "a grave cardiac and cerebral collapse."

This meant both his breathing was giving in and the strain of illness intensifying the weight of his 82 years.

One of the physicians, who is declining use of his name, said the pulse was symptoms of decline.

A Vatican radio speaker, broadcasting from the Pope's antechamber, told of an air of resignation about the sick room.

All in the antechamber—relatives and high church authorities—prayed, some of them aloud.

The second stroke came this morning, two days after the first. "The Pope is going fast," was the word in this town where the 82-year-old spiritual leader of the Roman Catholic Church was stricken.

A member of the papal household was reported by a Castel Gandolfo police official to have sent that message to the Italian government.

FALSE REPORTS

Heightening the emotional tension were false reports that the Pope had died this morning. The Italian news agency Italia issued one such report. The Vatican officially denied it.

It was reliably reported that the Pope had been given Extreme Unction—the last rite for the dying or those in danger of death—for the second time. It had been given for the first time as he lay in a coma Monday after his first stroke.

The second attack was of the same type as that which felled the pontiff Monday, a cerebral circulatory attack which produced coma and partial paralysis.

It came on him at 7:30 a.m. (1:30 a.m. EST), just 47 hours after the first stroke.

It was learned unofficially at the Vatican press office that the Pope's heart was weakening and

Yanks, Braves Tied Up In First Inning

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The pitching of starters Warren Spahn and Whitey Ford in the first inning of the sixth game of the World Series left the two teams tied up, 1-1.

Spahn went 10 innings in an opening day duel with Ford. The Yankee starter was taken out and relief man Ryne Duren was charged with the defeat 4-3. Spahn shut out the Yanks with two hits in the fourth game 3-0. Ford was a victim.

PROJECT MAN HIGH

Jet Pilot Begins Balloon Flight Into The Stratosphere

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—A huge helium-filled plastic balloon rose majestically from the New Mexico desert at 6:50 a.m. today carrying a young military scientist on a flight aimed at the stratosphere.

Lt. Clifton McClure, 25-year-old jet pilot, was sealed into the gondola of the balloon again Tuesday night.

A launching attempt failed Tuesday morning when a ground wind whipped the big three-million-cubic-foot Project Man High balloon as it was being filled with gas. It finally was destroyed. A substitute balloon was used today.

Officials estimated it would take two to three hours for him to reach the altitude goal of 100,000 feet where he hopes to remain for 24 hours.

He will serve as the eyes and hands of a panel of scientists on the ground who will question him about his observations during the long flight.

Weather conditions were such that officials figured he would drift eastward from Alamogordo when back over the missile range about sunset.

McClure is the third pilot for the Project Man High. He would ride up about 20 miles above the clouds, stay there 24 hours while a panel of scientists question him about his observations.

Scientists are experts in meteorology, physiology, medicine, astronomy, space psychology and psychiatry, geophysics, photography, radiation physics and space capsule technology.

McClure's flight, the third of the Project Man High, was scheduled to begin Tuesday night, but was postponed because of weather conditions.

The Project Man High is a joint project of the U. S. Air Force and the U. S. Navy.

Clure went home and hit the hay. He was up about 9 p.m. last night, back at the Air Force's missile ranges aeromedical laboratory to take a physical checkup.

At 1:30 a.m., he squeezed back in the 9x3-foot aluminum capsule to get used to its artificial atmosphere.

That atmosphere is almost all oxygen, with almost no nitrogen. The pressure has been reduced to that of 24,000 feet altitude. The pilot has to acclimatize himself to less pressure, and thereby avoid the "bends" deep-sea divers suffer if they surface too soon.

The 24,000-foot pressure is a safety factor in case the sealed gondola leaks.

As Tuesday's balloon was intentionally ripped apart to prevent it from floating off, one of the ground crew hollered to McClure: "Guess we've had it!"

But the pilot yelled back: "Don't get discouraged, buddy!"

McClure, a native of Anderson, S.C., is an assistant at the aeromedical laboratory.

'Big Foot' Tracks Believed Those Of Indian Gone Wild

SEATTLE (AP)—A taxidermist says Big Foot, the creature whose huge, human-like footprints have the people of the Weitchie area of northern California guessing, is an Indian gone wild.

Al Corbett said he and another Seattle taxidermist, Bob Titmus, inspected the tracks 25 miles north of Weitchie last Saturday and found the prints to be "very large, definitely human, tracks."

Corbett said the clearest print was 16 inches long, 5 inches across at the heel and 7 inches across at the ball of the foot.

A logger in the area, Gerald Crew, last week brought out a plaster cast of a clear footprint.

"The story behind this is that there was a mentally deficient Indian boy who was kept chained by his parents," Corbett said.

"When this boy was 17 years old, 28 years ago, he broke the chains and disappeared. The Indians found his clothes but never saw him again. They said he had extremely large feet."

"We talked it over a great deal and figured this man now must be 6 feet 7 inches to 7 feet 6 inches tall. We thought he might weigh as much as 400 pounds. He made firm footprints in hard ground.

"Measuring the footprints for a distance of more than 60 feet, we found the average stride was 50 inches. We checked this against the stride of a man 6 feet 4 inches tall, with long legs, and his stride was 30 inches.

"We were told by people who saw footprints made when this unknown man was running that they were 10 feet apart."

"I know positively this is a human being."

"It seems logical that it is this Indian who disappeared and is living wild. He does his traveling at night. He has not molested anyone. We learned these tracks have been appearing for the past 10 years."

Corbett said Titmus is preparing to set up camera traps in an effort to obtain a photo of Big Foot.

UNITED FUND AGENCY

Recreation Center Has Big Program

West Side Recreation Center, an activity of the Council of Church Women in which seven Big Spring churches participate, gets less money from the United Fund treasury than any of its sister affiliates.

However, the small budget does not in any way reflect the big program which is carried out by the sponsoring churches.

The West Side Recreation Center comprises a park-playground and a community building located in the heart of the area south of U. S. 80 and west of Lancaster.

It is in the area of low income families and its chief purpose is to provide recreation and entertainment for these people and their children.

The Council receives $1,200 a year from the United Fund, all of which is used to pay the salary of a full time woman supervisor who operates the community building and sees to the maintenance and utilization of the park and building facilities.

Each month, a different church is made responsible for the programs at the center and these cover a wide field. Movies are screened, musical programs offered, talks are provided. It is not uncommon for as many as 80 to 100 men, women and children to be on hand for these entertainments.

In the summer time, the programs are out of doors. In the colder months, the community house, which has a piano, television, chairs, tables and other equipment, is utilized.

The park was originally provided by the American Business Club but it is now owned by the city.

The Council of Church Women works in close cooperation with Bobo Hardy of the YMCA who sponsors summer activities for the children of the neighborhood at the park. The Big Spring Kiwanis Club stages a big Christmas party annually at the Community Center for the kids of the neighborhood. Activities are almost continuous the year around.

Mrs. M. F. Talbott, long time active in the program, will be in charge of all programs in the year ahead.

Tickets On Sale For 331st Welcome Barbecue Oct. 20

Tickets went on sale today for the barbecue to honor 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron personnel and members of their families. The barbecue is planned for Oct. 20. Big Springers who purchase tickets will serve as hosts.

The tickets are being offered through the Chamber of Commerce and members of the C-C Military Affairs Committee at $5 each. One ticket will admit the purchaser and his wife plus three representatives of the 331st Squadron.

The barbecue will be served at the Cosden Country Club by W. E. Ramsey, Cosden caretaker. No formalities are planned, but Big Springers and their guests will gather at 5:30 p.m. for a get-acquainted period prior to the meal.

Water Consumption Is Under Estimates

Water consumption has leveled off at slightly above three million gallons per day for the first week of October.

Consumption for the seven days of the month amounted to 22,674,000 gallons or an average of 3,237,000 gallons per day Tuesday's usage was 3,507,000 gallons, and it was 4,088,000 on Monday, the highest total of the month.

Estimated usage this month is 150 million gallons.

Judges Meeting

Charlie Sullivan, 118th District Court, and Ed Carpenter, county judge-elect of Howard County left this morning for Laredo to attend the annual Texas District Judges Conference which is to be held in that city. They will not be back until next week, it was said.

Teen-Age Slouch Called Healthful

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—When a teen-ager slouches into a room and collapses into a chair like a big hunk of liver he is doing something good for his back, a bone specialist said today.

The slump, when it results in a forward curvature of the lower backbone, causes a distribution of weight burden and lessens the pressure on the discs between the vertebrae, said Dr. Loren L. Stephens of Arcadia, Calif.

Bad for the back, Dr. Stephens told the California Academy of General Practice, is the ramrod-straight sitting position, in which the lower part of the spine is made to bow rearward. This Dr. Stephens called the West Point position. He termed it a malignant posture, meaning that it tended to lead from bad to worse.

Crossing the legs at the knees can be beneficial for the spine, Dr. Stephens said, because it tends to produce the restful forward curving of the bottom end of the backbone.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Says Society Dies When Law, Order Break Down

To The Editor:
How long can this continue?
For a society to survive, there must be law and order, but if law and order dies, then it must also be reckoned that society itself will die.

We citizens of Big Spring and Howard County, pride ourselves in our law enforcement agencies, local as well as our famed Texas Rangers. But, from this corner, it appears that somewhere in this growing community, we have, so to speak, "missed the boat." I am referring to the situation that exists in the Northwest section of Big Spring.

I wonder if a little more effort on our part could be made in an effort to clean out dopesters, degenerates, pervers, and prostitutes that have made their homes among the Latin and Colored quarters of our city. Innocent people have been addicted to dope or shot to death while we sit back and say to ourselves, "let them kill each other and save the state the money of trying them in court. Anyway, we can't get a conviction, so to h... with it." But I say to you, "Who can tell the family of an innocent man killed while sitting all alone that justice was done?"

There are many God fearing people who live on the North side of our town. Most of them live there because of circumstance and not by choice. Most of them pay taxes, and therefore, they are entitled to a fair share of law enforcement. But are they getting their share?

It is a known fact that the very presence of an officer of the law, is a deterrent to crime, so why can't we put some officers on the North side with the same color of skin as the people who live there? The worst probable cause of trouble among people is the dislike for the color of a man's skin, therefore one's own people are generally more acceptable to the rank and file of a settlement within a community.

Just how long can this continue before this filthy disease creeps into our own homes and stagnates our very existence? Will our own children accept this lawlessness with indifference? If so — just where are we headed?

Very truly yours,
H. BOYCE HALE

Wealthy Political Rivals Must Have Learned Arts Of Fighting

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's fabulously wealthy rivals for governor must have learned somewhere in their Social Register backgrounds the knack of fighting.

The issues are a bit murky at times, but Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman and his Republican challenger, Nelson A. Rockefeller, are failing away with gusto.

The two millionaire Ivy Leaguers (Harriman, Yale; Rockefeller, Dartmouth) are firing charges over such matters as bossism, crime and unemployment without letting their personal friendship stand in their way.

The stakes are high, for the New York governorship often has led to a try for the presidency. Harriman twice has sought the Democratic presidential nomination and reputedly still has his eye on it in 1960.

A triumph for Rockefeller would cast him into the 1960 GOP presidential picture, now dominated by Vice President Nixon.

Harriman, 66, seeking re-election Nov. 4, is a liberal of the New Deal-Fair Deal tradition. Rockefeller, 50, is regarded as a liberal to moderate of the Eisenhower wing of the Republicans.

To the average voter, their views do not seem far apart. For instance, union-opposed right-to-work laws, a hot issue in the California campaign, scarcely have been mentioned here. Both candidates are against such legislation.

Also, both are strong civil rights advocates.

The preliminary sparring over the New York campaign is picking up steam.

Rockefeller charged the Democrats with bossism and hidden government. He accused Harriman of being a puppet of Carmine G. DeSapio, chief of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization.

Rockefeller is just "flapping his wings" in an effort to "cover up for the Eisenhower administration and the Eisenhower recession," Harriman retorted.

Rockefeller's puppet charge stemmed from the Democratic nomination of Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan to oppose Republican Rep. Kenneth B. Keating for the U. S. Senate.

DeSapio succeeded in engineering Hogan's nomination although Harriman openly favored Thomas

K. Finletter, former secretary of the Air Force, or Thomas E. Murray, former atomic energy commissioner.

Firing back DeSapio said he had reliable information that Rockefeller was nominated by Wall Street bankers.

"The decision as to who should run for governor was not made at the Republican convention but in the board of directors room of the Chase National Bank," DeSapio said.

"Bunk," retorted Rockefeller.

"Just straight bunk."

The fantastic underworld convention of more than 60 mobsters in the upstate village of Appalachin last November is a favorite Republican campaign issue.

Nobody charges that the Democrats had any connection whatever with the convention, but the fact the hoodlums were bold enough to meet in a Democratic-administered state was all the GOP needed to talk it up.

"As governor, I would not allow gangsters to look upon our state as an ideal place in which to meet and lay their plans," Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller's running mate, Keating, contended the recession had "been shot out from under the Democrats" as a campaign issue.

"I have heard that every three months since the thing started," Truman said. He added that five million men unemployed in the nation did not think the recession was over.

Rockefeller said industry was moving from New York to other states because of "complacency and drift" by the Harriman administration.

Said Harriman: "My opponent is a well-meaning fellow, but he's in bad hands. He's in the hands of Madison Avenue pitchmen, tricky statisticians and reactionary politicians."

Rock Slows Sewer Work

Work is progressing very slowly in the City Park as R. B. Hodgson is blasting out a route for a sewer line to the Capehart addition.

With the exception of a small segment in the City Park, Hodgson has completed work on the sewer line. On this small part, the city engineer, Clifton Bellamy, said that the contractor was able to make only 40 to 50 feet per day through the heavy rock.

Hodgson will probably wait until the sewer line is completed before going to work on the water line.

Seems Practical To Swap Houses

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—William T. Holloway and A. Morris Underwood swapped living quarters upon their return from Las Vegas, Nev., last weekend.

It seemed practical, they said, because Mrs. Holloway had become Mrs. Underwood, and vice versa, in Nevada.

Neither couple wanted to discuss the swap.

"There are too many children involved and we don't want any notoriety," said the new Mrs. Underwood. Each woman has three. Mental cruelty was charged in both divorce actions. The women retained custody of their children and each was granted $30 a week child support.

Holloway and Underwood are machinists. They work the same shift in the same factory.

HOME OF MR. AND MRS. W. M. JOHNSON
Lend put into cultivation by Johnson in 1920-21

MYSTERY FARM

Present Owner Broke Sod On Half Section 38 Years Ago

After living a half century in this area, W. M. Johnson figures the sandstorms are going to get a lot worse in the years ahead. He recalls that the dust wasn't bad during the droughty period around 1910. Not much land was in cultivation at that time. Subsequent drought periods, with more and more of the area's sod being plowed up, have been progressively worse from the soil blowing standpoint, he points out. "And you know it'll get worse," he adds.

Pakistan Chief Ousts Government

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — President Iskander Mirza ruled Pakistan under martial law today after abolishing the government to clear the way for writing a new constitution. Mirza pledged Pakistan to honor all international commitments. The nation has a mutual defense treaty with the United States and belongs to two anti-Communist alliances, the Baghdad Pact and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

from their brother-in-law, Jim Winslow, who had filed on the land. The place, last week's Mystery Farm, is situated a mile east and a half north of the Brown community. Johnson produced his first crop on the land in 1921, and now virtually all of the half section is in cultivation, along with another quarter section acquired later. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson still live on the farm, although the cultivated acreage is now rented to Olen Haddock and J. H. Burrow. Mrs. Johnson said they keep about 100 white Leghorn hens and a few head of milk cows and calves. The homestead has been improved steadily through the years. Johnson hauled water for several years before finally locating a well about three quarters of a mile from the house in 1934. The household water supply is now piped in. The home also is equipped with a cistern and windmill as a reserve water supply. Another important asset is the concrete cellar under the wash house.

The Johnsons also have a peach orchard of about 20 trees and a boysenberry patch in their garden tract. The level farm land is "good as any in West Texas," but like all the rest it can't produce without water. The place produced a bale of cotton to the acre in 1949 and 1950, best years Johnson has seen. In contrast, 1953 was such a failure that Johnson received only $20 in rent off the entire three quarters of a section. That was the worst year the owner remembers. Since coming here from Alabama in 1908, Johnson has seen four "complete" crop failures. His first crop on his present place, in 1921, turned out a half bale to the acre, "and I never got a bloom wet." It rained all the previous winter and just before the cotton started blooming, however. Cotton allotment this year is 180 acres and Johnson believes the farm will average a quarter of a bale per acre. Much of the remainder of the place was planted in dwarf maize and made about 700 pounds to the acre—hardly enough to pay expenses of the crop, Johnson said.

The farm home was built in 1925 and numerous other improvements have been made since then.

Foreign Policy Looms As Big Campaign Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign policy ballooned into a major campaign issue today with Democrats and Republicans trading stinging criticisms of each other's approach to handling international communism.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler lashed out Tuesday night at what they called the Eisenhower administration's attempt to impose political censorship on critics of its foreign policies.

The twin blasts indicated the Democrats intend to keep on discussing the issue until election day.

Republicans in turn attacked the Democratic criticisms. Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn said the Democrats "seem politically willing to undermine American diplomacy during this most serious challenge."

He accused them of favoring appeasement of Red China in the Quemoy crisis.

GOP National Committee spokesmen said they expect Eisenhower to "stifle public discussion of the Quemoy crisis."

The senator, in a speech to the International Chemical Workers Union, said: "Such political censorship can only lead to one conclusion: that administration policies can't stand public examination."

In a similar vein, Butler said the administration is "trying to make it appear that criticism of its foreign policy is 'somehow treasonable'."

Butler, speaking to a Democratic dinner in Wichita, Kan., called this a "despicable tendency of this desperate administration."

DEAR ABBY A POTENT REMEDY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A while back a lady wrote to your column complaining about her husband's loud snoring. I used to snore so bad my husband said I sounded like a threshing machine. A neighbor of mine told me about an old Italian remedy and I tried it and now my husband has to touch me at night to see if I'm still breathing. Chew a whole clove of garlic before going to bed. That's all.

STOPPED SNORING

DEAR STOPPED: I'm afraid if I tried that remedy I would have to touch my HUSBAND at night to see if HE were still breathing!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 12 years and it's been no picnic for the past two years. We fought all the time so rather than let the children hear the language he used at me, I moved his clothes down to the basement and he's been living down there. He has a hot plate and refuses to come upstairs for meals. The basement has an outside exit and I think he's been having company down there as I hear laughing and the radio going. He keeps changing the locks on me so I can't get down there. How can I make up with him so we can start living like human beings?

DEAR FERN: If he refuses to "rise" to the occasion—I suggest you go underground. Peace at any price.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would put this in your column to let folks know that there are some pretty nice people in the world. Last week a new family moved into our building. Instead of waiting for everyone to call on them, they put up a bushel of apples into little bags and knocked on all the neighbors' doors and gave us the apples. The lady of the house asked, "What time do you retire at night because we want to keep our TV low so you won't be disturbed? Also, have you any invalids or babies who like to nap in the afternoons so we will keep extra quiet?" Now, that's what I call nice people! DELIGHTED

DEAR DELIGHTED: (And you should be): Neighbors like you just drew would be welcome anywhere. How lucky can you get?

DEAR ABBY: Boy, I take my hat off to anyone who has a green thumb. I am one of those poor souls who is just the opposite and I wonder if maybe there isn't some mysterious reason for it? My little boy gave me a plant for Mother's Day and at first they watered it and it came along fine, but they got tired of the job, so after I watered it twice it died! My Grandmother had a rose bush for years. She asked me to loosen the dirt around the roots. I warned her but she said I was silly. Sure enough, the day after I touched it, it died. Can you tell me what's wrong? I am getting afraid of myself the way I hex things.

NO GREEN THUMB

DEAR NO: I don't believe in "hexing." Just for the fun of it, buy a little plant. Some plants need sun, others need shade. Some need lots of water, others require very little. Go to your nearest florist and ASK him how to care

Completely New Design For Pontiac

A complete new takeoff in chassis and body design brings sweeping innovations to the 1959 Pontiac line, which will be seen at Marvin Wood Pontiac, 504 E. 3rd, beginning Thursday. This is the Star Chief four-door sedan, one of 14 models in three series—the Bonneville, the Star Chief and the Catalina. The new styling has resulted in a lower, wider car, and Pontiac sets a pace this year by increasing wheel tread by five inches.

ON DISPLAY HERE THURSDAY

1959 Pontiac Brings Biggest Change In Division's History

Most progressive change in the division's 51-year history is claimed for the Pontiac cars for 1959, which go on display Thursday. They will be seen at Marvin Wood Pontiac, 504 E. 3rd.

There are unprecedented styling innovations, with a lower, wider car resulting. An all-new body, a trend nearly five inches wider to increase handling ease and safety, a new high-performance 389 Tempest 420 V-8 engine, new, heavier, true-contour brakes and a completely redesigned chassis frame are among the 65 brand new features.

The low, cleanly styled body, topped by a slim-line roof, gives up to 37 per cent greater glass area. Beautifully contoured Vista-Panoramic windshields in all models provide added driving safety with up to 60 per cent greater visibility.

Exemplifying its departure from conventional design is Pontiac's twin "air scoop" grille, housing dual headlamps and capped by a low hood with a contoured "V" extending rearward from the grille and terminating at the cowl. Each model features a long, sweeping side molding that extends the full length of the car to end in a down swept curve behind the rear wheel.

opening. Sculptured front and rear bumpers blend into the body.

Of outstanding significance among the many innovations engineered into Pontiac for 1959 is the wider tread, an exclusive feature with Pontiac this year. Wheel tread, the distance between right and left wheels, has been increased nearly five inches. In addition to creating a low, wide silhouette, the wider tread improves stability, riding comfort and road hugging ability.

As a result of widening the tread, Pontiac owners will enjoy more comfortable riding and a more stable car. Also, less steering effort is required on sharp turns because a lower center of gravity and a wider tread decreases the shift of weight from inside to outside. Of further importance is the new, true-contour brakes which have been moved inboard and away from the wheel itself for more effective cooling and safer, surer braking.

With operation economy becoming increasingly important Pontiac now offers a new Tempest 420-E V-8 engine with 287.1 axle ratio for greater gas mileage. The customer who desires Pontiac V-8 performance with more economy can order any Hydra-Matic equipped Pontiac with this economical engine as a no additional cost option.

Pontiac offers 14 models in three series: four Bonneville, three Star Chiefs and seven in the new Catalina series. Brilliant and durable Magic-Mirror acrylic lacquer paint finishes, introduced by Pontiac as standard on some models of 1956, will be standard on all models.

Overall height has been reduced on all models and the lowest are the two-door hardtop sport coupes and convertibles at 54 inches. All models feature increased roominess with seat width up to 19 inches greater than the average sofa.

BOYD, Tex. (AP)—The Boyd police chief who was shot in a gun battle in August returned to duty last night and ran into a mass protest by residents.

A crowd estimated at up to 150 persons gathered at the City Hall of this small Wise County farming community to protest Lee Cockrell's return to duty.

Cockrell was wounded in a gun battle Aug. 13.

Oil Men Warned Of Encroachment

DALLAS (AP)—Oil and gas producers must wage an effective fight against propaganda or face the certainty of the Federal Power Commission taking over every detail of their business, the general attorney for Sun Oil South-west Division warned today.

"The general trend is toward complete control by the federal regulatory bureaus and away from interference by the courts," said Martin Row in reviewing natural gas regulation at the annual meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Assn.

"As for the future in the FPC itself, the situation is very fluid," he said. "There are no standards applicable to all. Each case and each producer appear to be handled differently."

"The only normal thing about FPC decisions and orders is that they are consistently inconsistent," he predicted that in the next session of Congress, producers will be on the defensive and that the FPC will seek legislation so that it can more easily regulate the oil and gas business.

"Since FPC has, to date, only scratched the surface on regulation of producers, most of us do not yet realize what is happening to us, and do not realize what is in the minds of the FPC staff for future regulation or producers if that staff can obtain sufficient appropriations and personnel to do what they want to do," Row said.

He said many producers have appealed to the federal courts from orders of the FPC but that the decisions have been almost without exception against the producers. "I anticipate many more years of extended and expensive litigation by producers before there is any settling down in litigation," he said.

At its closing session the association named three new vice presidents to head district activities. They were E. J. Dunigan Jr., Pampa, Panhandle; Radcliffe Killam, Laredo, Lower Gulf Coast; and John Mecom, Houston, Middle Gulf Coast.

Charles Alcorn of Houston was re-elected to a second term as president.

New members elected to the Board of directors were J. E. Connally, Abilene; George Cree Jr., Pampa; Earl Hankamer, Houston; H. T. Hilliard, Midland; H. B. Keck, Los Angeles, Calif.; Eugene Locke, Dallas; Marvin McCullough, Wichita Falls; Ed Parks, Shreveport; F. O. Penn, Tyler; and J. U. Teague, Houston.

Re-elected district vice presidents were Clyde Tomlinson, Longview, East Texas; Wayne Watts, Wichita Falls, North Texas; Joseph O'Neill Jr., Midland, Permian Basin; Waldo Wilson, Beaumont, Upper Gulf Coast; Joseph Morris, San Antonio, Southwest Texas; P. W. Pitzer Jr., Breckenridge, West Central Texas; and W. A. Landreth, Fort Worth, North Central Texas.

Girl, 12, Sees Family Buried

INDIANA, Pa. (AP) — Little Elizabeth Kinter in a sense is all alone in this world. And she's only 12.

They buried her family Tuesday — her father, mother, and five sisters and a brother ranging in age from 5 to 14.

The family perished Saturday in a fire touched off by exploding kerosene in their home. Elizabeth escaped through a coal chute. Her maternal grandparents are caring for her.

Elizabeth sobbed and tugged at the white handkerchief she held in her lap during the service for which some 500 people turned out. Men and women cried openly.

The Rev. Glenn Miles, the family pastor, spoke: "For our light afflictions, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

Then the caskets were lowered.

The organization urged all interested parents to attend.

Butterfield Stage Mail Late - Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Butterfield overland mail pulled into town from Missouri and points west Tuesday.

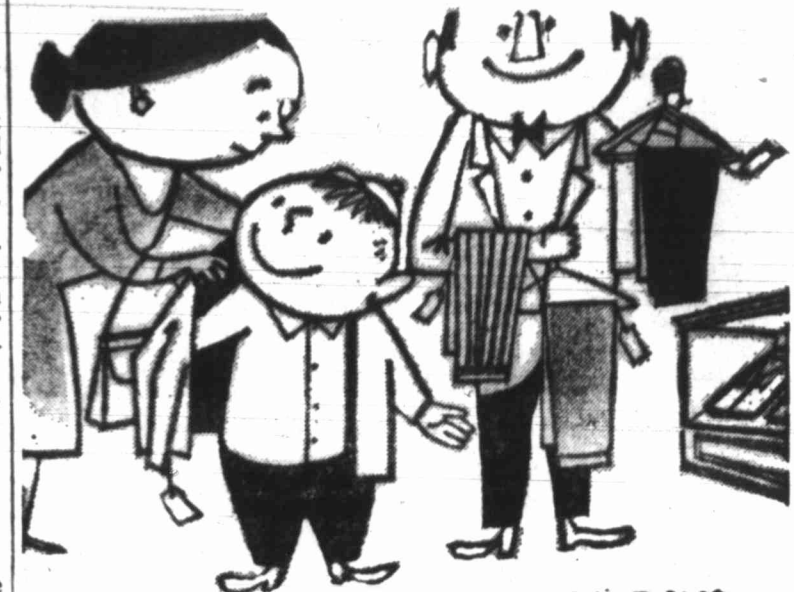

It was late, just as it was 100 years ago, but the reasons weren't the same. Indians and badmen slowed down the mail back in 1858, but this run, which started at Tipton, Mo., 21 days ago, was held up by speeches and curiosity seekers, eager to see the replica of the first Butterfield stage.

The stage brought 200,000 pieces of mail to the post office. Accompanying it were Highway Post Office No. 1, a covered wagon, a mobile blacksmith shop and museum and several floats provided by historical societies. The whole works was transported on trucks and trailers.

The caravan leaves today for its western terminus, San Francisco. It arrives Friday.

Headed For State School, Two Girls Escape Briefly

Two girls, one 15 and the other 16, regular visitors to the Howard County Juvenile Court, heard themselves summarily committed to the Gainesville State Training School Wednesday morning.

However, they had other plans. They had been before the court on that date for theft of two bicycles and a parrot. Weeping copiously, both told the judge they would mend their ways and there would be no more trouble.

Saturday night they beat up a motorist, robbed him of his money and car keys in Martin County. Brought back to Howard County, they were taken before the court.

Judge Weaver summarily ordered their removal to the state school. He instructed Long to carry out the order as quickly as possible.

Garza

EAT AND GROW YOUNGER

Don't Eat Too Much Carbohydrate Food

By LELORD KORDLE
Installation Four

Let me turn clairvoyant for a moment, and "project" thoughts with you through an average day's eating.

Your breakfast consisted of a fruit — perhaps a canned juice (sweetened with white sugar), or half a grapefruit liberally sprinkled with sugar. Your cereal bowl was filled with a dry, wholly-artificial pile of something whose resemblance to a grain long since ceased to exist. And, of course, you reached again for the sugar bowl to flavor this already too-starchy cereal.

Toast? Of course, and more likely made with white bread; or perhaps a roll or two, well coated with sugar frosting, eaten with your generous sugar coffee.

"Please pass the jelly." More sweet. Some morning you do get around to eating an egg, but usually you're too full after downing your starchy cereal and toast to want anything more.

So off you go to work. You feel quite a bit less than up to par; but by now you're probably belching as all the breakfast starches, plus those left undigested from previous meals, begin fermenting in your digestive system.

By mid-morning you're feeling pretty peepless. So what do you do? If you're at work, you take time out for a candy bar, or a soft drink, or maybe more coffee and another sweet roll.

Then comes lunch. You're hungry — and yet you're not. How about a sandwich, a cup of coffee and a piece of pie?

That holds you until about 3:30, when you begin to feel so worn out and dispirited that you realize you'd better get something to eat if you want to keep going until dinner time. More pie, or maybe a piece of cake, a candy bar, or a soft drink.

By the time you drag yourself home and get through a dinner that is a repetition of all your day's dietary sins (white bread, sugared coffee, perhaps a dish with rice or spaghetti or macaroni, and a starchy heavy dessert) you are more convinced than ever that you're getting old.

CAN'T THINK STRAIGHT You can't think straight any more; your job seems to take more and more out of you every day; there's no energy left in you for leisure hour activities; and you are sleeping poorly.

I could go on being "clairvoyant" and trace your footsteps to the kitchen before bedtime for that piece of pie which was left, or for a sandwich, but you're entitled to some privacy in your dietary indiscretions, so I'll leave you for the day, with your intestinal tract full of fermenting, half digested starches.

If you are the average person, of sedentary habits or occupation, the chances are that you eat about 75 per cent more devitalized carbohydrate foods than are compatible with your good health and your desire to feel and look younger.

"But we must have carbohydrates for energy," you say.

You are only half correct. While it's true that the sole function of carbohydrates is to provide heat and energy, what about the Eskimos who eat nothing except meat and fish—protein foods? Merely because they do not stuff themselves with artificial sugars and starches, must they be shivering lethargic beings?

CONSIDER THE ESKIMO

The Eskimo, far from being a slothful fellow who huddles into his skins with his teeth chattering like castanets, is robust, energetic and warm-blooded. In fact, it's only where "white" civilization has brought in its so-called refinements that the Eskimo ever falls victim to our respiratory and intestinal diseases. Colds and constipation were the "benefits" of civilization which we bestowed upon the poor Eskimo.

How then, if the Eskimos in remote areas never eat anything except protein foods, can their bodies receive the fuel and energy which carbohydrates provide?

Every human body has been given the power to convert amino acids into either body proteins or energy sugars. Actually, the type of carbohydrate mostly produced in the body from food protein yields more heat and energy than any of the carbohydrate foods you eat.

Any textbook on physiology will tell you that protein burns with a hotter flame, and produces more heat and energy than either carbohydrates or fats in this proportion: 30 for protein, 6 for carbohydrates and 4 for fats.

You get natural sugars in every food you eat. Even the all-meat diet of the Eskimo and the Gauchos—neither of whom ever tasted refined sugar—contains about 15 per cent natural sugars. Plants are nature's sugar manufacturers, and these energy sugars are passed on to the animals, fowl and sea life that feed upon them.

When you get enough proteins you need never worry about getting enough carbohydrates. Your big worry should be not to eat too much carbohydrates.

PROTEIN COMPLETE FOOD

Protein is a complete food: That is, you could live long and vigorously on an exclusive diet of protein foods. This is not true of carbohydrates. A great number of war prisoners who died in oriental prison camps during World War 2 perished because they starved to death on an all-carbohydrate diet.

Not only do high-starch meals overload the stomach and place an unnecessary strain on the heart, they are also predisposing factors in many ailments and serious diseases that appear in later years.

There is good scientific cause for believing that too much starch in the diet helps build up those unwanted deposits of cholesterol in the arteries, causing them to harden and become brittle to the point where a rupture brings on a fatal heart attack or a brain hemorrhage.

Heavy starch-eaters are also more susceptible to sinus and respiratory infections than are those who limit their carbohydrate intake to the sugars and starches found in natural foods (fruits, vegetables, milk and whole grains) and their meals around high proteins.

Many persons who attend my lectures have told me that all symptoms of their asthma disappeared after they had eliminated white sugar from their diets, substituting honey and fruit juices as sweeteners.

Constipation, a common symptom of digestive disorders, is another universal ailment that can be traced directly to high-starch food habits. The same holds true for gas in the intestines and belching, which are uncomfortable manifestations of undigested starches fermenting in the digestive tract.

Tomorrow: Gorging on cake, pie and candy can cut your energy and alertness. Warning for motorists.

Bushman Jailed For Rum-Running

ALICE SPRINGS, Australia (AP)—Australia's best known aborigine, Albert Namatjira, was sentenced to six months at hard labor today for supplying liquor to fellow tribesmen who aren't allowed it.

Namatjira, 56, was granted full Australian citizenship rights two years ago in recognition of his artistic ability. That gave him the right to buy liquor. But Australian citizens are also liable to jail if they supply liquor to an aborigine who is a ward of the state, which most aborigines are.

Mrs. Roger Elected To Lodge Position

Mrs. Henry Roger, 100 Mesquite, was elected first vice president of District 2, West Texas IOOF-Rebekah Assn., Saturday in Kermit. Twelve from Big Spring attended.

Elected president was W. R. King, McCarney; second vice president, W. K. McEntyre, Odessa; Mrs. Minor King, Andrews, was chosen secretary; and Mrs. Carl Andus Goldsmith, treasurer. Mrs. Avis Smith of Kermit, was named chaplain. The next meeting is slated for McCarney in April, 1959.

Consolidation Proposal Will Get Airings

ABILENE—Consolidation of certain functions of county and city governments to eliminate duplication and excessive costs will be discussed in three public meetings in West Texas next week, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has announced.

A proposed amendment to the State Constitution will be discussed at the three meetings by Attorneys Burke Holman of Houston and Burton G. Hackney of Brownfield. The amendment would provide for county home-rule government.

Arranged by the regional chamber's State Affairs Committee, the meetings will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Oct. 14 in Lubbock at the Chamber of Commerce Building; at 1:30 p.m. on Oct. 15 in Graham at the Municipal Auditorium; and at 1:30 p.m. on Oct. 16 in San Angelo at the Cactus Hotel ballroom.

"Legislation in this field could be one of the most progressive steps for better local government that it is possible to undertake," said Don Wooten, state affairs chairman. Wooten said that some of the larger cities of the state have worked on the draft of the proposed amendment for the past two or three years.

Because cities and counties in lower population brackets—many of whom need this legislation as badly as the larger cities and counties—may want to be included legislation, we have arranged in the coverage of this proposed these meetings in the public interest," Wooten said.

Wives Dislike Bomb Shelters

WASHINGTON (AP)—Basement bomb shelters are not a big hit with the housewives.

In fact, basements themselves got something of a setback in a poll of 102 women delegates here for a three-day Congress on Better Living.

Huddling over what they want in their homes, the women made it known they're not much interested in building a basement bomb shelter.

And those who considered it at all said they wouldn't build it to the recently suggested government specifications if it cost money.

The government's civil defense experts only recently appealed to homeowners to get busy on do-it-yourself bomb shelters.

As for what they women delegates do want in the homes of America:

Picture windows that look out on a view, not on eyesores.

More space and bigger rooms. Eight of the 10 roundtables at which they conferred voted for a large house with less equipment over a small house with more equipment.

The one-story house and Colonial design got the most votes. And white is the favorite outside color.

More storage space was the general cry, and 2½ baths were suggested as the minimum requirement — with both showers and tubs.

'The Music Man' Slated For Film

DALLAS (AP)—Meredith Willson said yesterday the three-man team responsible for bringing his musical, "The Music Man," to Broadway will make a movie of the play.

Willson said the group would be himself, Kermit Bloomgarden and Morton Da Costa.

Here for an appearance in Dallas during the State Fair, Willson said the production will be filmed in Iowa, at a site to be chosen later.

He said an authentic reproduction of a midwestern town in the 1912 era would be built.

A Bible Thought For Today

"Yes, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution." (2 Timothy 3:12)

Those Propagandizing Russians

The Soviet Union, on authoritative estimates, spends more money jamming foreign newscasts to keep its people and its subject peoples from hearing the free world side of the news than the U. S. government spends trying to present our side to them.

So, the only side to current and past world events the Soviet peoples hear or read without harassment is the Kremlin side.

Does this system of shutting out free world news and feeding the Soviet people nothing but Communist propaganda really work? Yes, according to many Western observers who have visited Russia. They say that while individual Russians may criticize some aspects of Soviet life and even some of the Communist leaders, most Russians are sold on the Communist system.

And why not? A whole generation of Russians know nothing else, have heard nothing else, are not interested in anything else. They have been brain-washed. They would have to be re-educated from scratch ever to embrace wholeheartedly anything but communism.

So, while individuals or groups of leaders might be kicked out now and then, the system would remain.

This frightening thought is unfortunately based on hard-headed reality, a fact too many Americans have been reluctant to grasp.

While Russia does its effective best to keep the truth from reaching its people, we ourselves are wide-open to various forms of Communist penetration. In the last few months the Soviet Union has been using the U. S. mails to spread its propaganda amongst our people. Propaganda releases are carried at the same mail rate as any of our familiar tracts, throw-aways and direct by mail advertising—carried at a loss to the taxpayers. Hence the American taxpayer is being made to carry the cost of his own attempted seduction.

The latest release from the U.S.S.R. embassy is a "summary" of a speech by the Soviet minister of foreign affairs, Andrei Gromyko, before the General Assembly of the United Nations on Sept. 18. From beginning to end it paints the U. S. and its allies, particularly Great Britain, in the most lurid of false colors and presents the Soviet Union and its pals in the noblest and most favorable light.

We warm a viper in our bosom.

The Unused Miracle

The incidence of polio in Detroit has alarmed that city, as well it may, for almost five hundred cases of paralytic polio have been reported and there seems no immediate prospect of abatement.

Tens of thousands of parents are leading their children into emergency clinics, where Salk shots may be had for one dollar each. Many of the parents under 40 are taking the shots themselves.

As of this writing, there have been 16 deaths. Not one of the children mortally stricken had received Salk shots.

That simple fact is a commentary no parent can afford to ignore. The dramatic demonstration of Salk vaccine to ward off the crippling effects of paralytic polio, already pretty firmly established in other outbreaks, has convinced Detroit parents that wisdom and experience dictate its acceptance without question.

But it took grave emergency to convince them.

No figures are available as to the number of Salk-protected children who have contracted the disease, but it has been clearly shown that protection does afford a large measure of safety. The significant thing is that none of the 16 who died had received immunization.

Millions upon millions of Americans, children as well as adults under 40 who are rated as susceptible to infection, are still unprotected, in spite of frequent campaigns to induce compliance.

In Detroit, where the folly of procrastination is all too apparent, panic-stricken parents are rushing their children to the clinics pell mell. Parents in infection-free areas should not be complacent, for there is no earthly way to pre-determine just where and when such epidemics will break out.

The country has a surplus of the serum. Let us hope the experience of Detroit will result in quickly reducing the surplus to a near-shortage. But knowing the human frailty of procrastination as we do, we doubt it.

People take anti-diphtheria and anti-smallpox and anti-typhoid shots for granted. How many times will they have to be shaken over the pit of fear and panic before they will start talking Salk shots for granted?

After an epidemic breaks out, it is too late to get started. Time, taken by the forelock, could save thousands from death or crippling. Public indifference could postpone the conquest of this disease as a majorcrippler and killer indefinitely.

Appeal For Unity In Far East Crisis

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has challenged the leaders of the Democratic party to tell the nation whether they favor appeasement and surrender to the Communists. He has, in effect, asked them to speak out and say whether they really believe the United States is going to be deserted by its allies and hence faces military defeat if it stands up for its principles.

The President's views were expressed in a letter to Senator Theodore F. Green, of Rhode Island, the sturdy 91-year-old chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who holds his post by reason of his seniority of service and the Democratic party's control of Congress.

The issue before the American people in the November elections is whether Democrats or Republicans shall control the Congress and the selection of committee chairmen. If the Democrats retain control, will the Communists take this as a signal that the American people repudiate the position taken by the President in the Far East and endorse the defeatist and surrenderist ideas which the administration attributes to the chief Democratic spokesman on foreign policy in the United States Senate?

The President points specifically to Senator Green's statement that, if the United States should become engaged in hostilities, there would not be "that support of the American people essential to successful military action." This is an extraordinary statement for the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to make in the middle of an international crisis.

"You say," wrote the President to Senator Green, "that in the event of hostilities we would be without allies 'in fact or in heart.' . . . Not only do I believe that our friends and allies would support the United States faithfully and bravely, but against our will, they would be forced upon us, but I believe that most of them would be appalled if the United States were spinelessly to retreat before the threat of Sino-Soviet armed aggression. . . . I deeply deplore the effect upon hostile forces of a statement that if we became engaged in battle, the United States would be defeated because of disunity at home. If that were believed, it would embolden our enemies and make almost inevitable the conflict which, I am sure, we both seek to avoid provided it can be avoided consistently with the honor and security of our country."

Senator Green's letter was couched in polite phrases. He didn't give out the full text of his communication originally, but extracts from it appeared nevertheless in the press and were seized upon by the Communist radio stations throughout the world as proof of American disunity.

What is at the bottom of this episode? Politics—petty partisanship—and the temptation to make an issue out of the war talk in the newspaper headlines. It was too much for some of the politicians to resist.

While former President Truman by his statements has been supporting Mr. Eisenhower's policy in the Far East, various Democrats in Congress have been assiduously cultivating the impression by their public statements that the President is trying to drag the nation into war because of a couple of unpatriotic islands off the coast of Red China. The Democratic leaders in Congress know better, because the resolution passed in 1955 by both houses with the overwhelming support of the two political parties specifically gave the President the right to use American military forces to defend Formosa and to protect the offshore islands only if they were likely to be used as a base in an attack on Formosa itself.

Is the Democratic party now going back on its word, and, for the sake of politics, is it willing to withdraw what it authorized in the resolution? Evidently ten Democrats in the House, who have just petitioned the President to summon a special session of Congress to discuss the Far Eastern problem, want both houses to reconsider the vote. This kind of vacillation and retreat could drag America into war just as vacillation in the 1930's in the part of the West encouraged Hitler to attack.

The heroic answer to present-day appeasement has been given by the President. In his letter to Senator Green, Mr. Eisenhower declares that "firmness in supporting principle makes war less, rather than more, likely of occurrence." The President adds:

"I feel certain, beyond the shadow of doubt, that if the United States became engaged in hostilities on account of the evil and aggressive assaults of the forces of Communism, the American people would unite as one to assure the success and triumph of our effort."

But it's not enough to achieve unity within a country only after war has broken out. The losses in life and treasure must then be incurred anyway. The important thing is, by a manifestation of unity and resoluteness, to prevent war from breaking out in the first place.

The opposition politicians in the Labor-Socialist party in Great Britain are today playing the same game as the Democrats here in the United States. Yet there are two conspicuous reminders in history of how weakness from within and disunity have led the potential enemy to decide it was an opportune time to make war. Will history repeat itself now, and will a third world war come from the same misguided counsels of the overzealous politicians inside the democracies?

Soviets May Be Blackballing China

WASHINGTON (AP)—Much of the Soviet Union's talk about wanting a high-level agreement on prohibiting nuclear weapons tests has been dismissed here as propaganda. Some of it may not be.

There's more than a little suspicion the Soviets are looking for a valid excuse to blackball Red China from nuclear club membership.

Perhaps the Soviets should get a little encouragement. It is possible Peiping already nurses some resentment against Moscow on this score.

Moscow seems worried by Red China, now transforming herself into a major world military power.

Five months ago Foreign Minister Chen Yi, a rising Peiping star, spelled out Red China's intention of bidding eventually for membership in the nuclear bomb club. The club now has three members: the U.S.S.R., Britain and the United States.

Unless there is a world ban on testing, it will be difficult to keep out these aspiring members.

There seems to be a connection between this issue and the rise of Foreign Minister Chen's political fortunes in Peiping.

When Moscow last spring announced a suspension of nuclear weapons tests, it sent a direct communication to Peiping, pointedly referring to a rising danger of contamination for all populations. With China in the nuclear bomb club, there would be all the more peril to the Soviet population.

Premier Chou En-lai seemed to agree with the Soviets. But Chou's influence is waning. Chen Yi, apparently made of sterner stuff, has Chou's former job as foreign minister. And Chou seems to have been overruled. Obviously Red China still wants in, and wants the whereabouts from the Soviet Union to make the bid.

But if a high-level agreement should be reached on test suspensions, the application could be pigeonholed.

There are other points of Peiping-Moscow friction. It has just been demonstrated that Moscow is worried that the Formosa crisis may get out of hand. Peiping has been warned it may have to go it alone if it gets into serious trouble.

Long before that, however, it seemed significant that in all their talk of summit meetings prospects this year, the Soviets omitted Red China, even while including the heretic Yugoslavs. This could hardly have pleased Peiping.

Some of the trouble may be ideological. Red China has become entirely too orthodox. In fact, it is well ahead of the Soviets in denouncing the Yugoslav variety of heresy and in restoring Stalin to Red sainthood.

One reason: Red China's system needs a form of Stalinism, as the Soviet dictatorship needed it in a similar stage of development. An agrarian country is being transformed into an industrial power with amazing speed.

Also, Peiping needed the chronic Formosa crisis, the picture of an outside enemy armed to the teeth, the specters of enemies within, just as Stalin needed these things. The Communists need them to enforce the harsh discipline necessary for swift internal transformation.

Many an observer testifies to the Soviet awe of China's 650 millions, a population growing at a frightening rate.

There will be a real contest someday between the two. China as a nuclear power would be much harder to contain than China outside the club. That's one reason the Soviet Union may really want a high-level decision to ban bomb tests: it could provide the Soviets with an excuse to brake Red Chinese ambitions.

They might even be willing to pay a significant price for that.

Something Different

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood found something missing on the ballot in the recent West Virginia primary election: His name. Underwood, 35, was elected to the House of Delegates when 22, and he served successive terms there until he ran for governor two years ago.

The primary marked the first time since he came of voting age that he didn't have an opportunity to vote for himself. He's not a candidate in this election.

Around The Rim

Let's Keep Ad Writers Out Of This

I note where some entomologists have come up with what may be the ultimate in insecticides. All they have to do, we are told, is to synthesize a hormone combine and we're on the way to a world without bugs we don't like.

It all started with one of the gentlemen tying a string around the middle Lymantria Despair. This specimen did a crazy thing—half of it turned to crustacean of a pupa, whereas the bottom half stayed caterpillar. The scientist deduced that the brain, or whatever this creature has, was producing a hormone which dictated this change in the caterpillar, moth or what have you.

Subsequent experiments by other scientists on other insects, including the blue-bottle maggots (ugh), indicated that two tiny glands in the prothorax (chest to you, Chester) of the creatures—was the trigger for this great stimulation. Still other experiments notably upon the bloodsucker, Rhodinus, uncovered a "juvenile" hormone coming from minute glands behind the brain. This substance was what made the insect grow and grow and grow through its stages.

At any rate, by sheeling a cool million silk worms, extracting their juice and boiling the substance down again and again, scientists emerged with a pittance of what they consider a potion that will be selective as to insects; from which they will not be able to develop an immunity; and which will make them grow themselves to death, or not grow at all.

So much as to the scientific background of this new miracle. Shall we be content to use this simply to turn the tide in our never ending battle against the insect world? Doesn't this suggest other possibilities to us? If the principle will work for insects, why not on homo sapiens?

For instance, football coaches would be in Utopia if they could concoct a secret juice from the glands of a gazelle and a mountain ram. Think how a fullback could run or plunge with that in his veins!

The poor flat-chested wallflower need not be consigned to an inferiority complex—not if she took a shot of extract from the broad-breasted turkey.

The track star would never be headed if he trained on the elixir of greyhound.

The spend-thrift could be righted with a simple hypodermic from a scientific reduction of the pack rat.

The lazy could be stimulated to feats of great industry by consuming concentrated bee juice.

Instead of resorting to tranquilizers, those with worries and tensions could rely on the contented cow—the extract from her placid glands, that is.

The thing has got limitless possibilities, but I'd just as soon forget the whole deal. I can't bear the thought of what the ad copy writers would say about these magic potions. I'll take mankind as he is rather than afflict upon him a staggering plague of such superlatives.

Nasty Villains In Eyes Of Tipsters

Of all the problems that beset Americans, none is more acute or perennial than the nagging uncertainty of "how much should I tip this guy?" Somehow, the H. C. of L., juvenile capers and even the Quemoys solve themselves. There's no end to tipping, and that's for sure, and its uncertainties. It's bigger than both of us.

I shouldn't be the least surprised if my fellow citizens on Judgment Day don't cast a querulous look at St. Peter and mutter one last worldly plaint, to wit: "how much do I give the doorman?" And then grudgingly hand the saint their last earthly coin.

And why "grudgingly"? Because 51 per cent of Americans resent having to tip the doorman, that's why. They may do a Diamond Jim Brady with the table waiter or the cigarette girl. But they are full of bile and fishhook pockets with the fellow who whistles up the taxis.

There is even more bile and fishhooks toward cloak-room attendants, with 56.4 per cent resenting the necessity to part with change for the man or woman who languidly keeps one's wraps under control in a public place. Men just naturally hate to buy back their hats 20 times a year, which probably explains why so many of 'em go bareheaded today.

But the real pent-up resentment, so widespread and bitter it could lead to ulcers or mayhem, is directed against two groups obviously regarded as warts on the body politic. Or, maybe, on the body social. More than 79 per cent of restaurant patrons, at least in New York, are burned up over tipping rest-room attendants who languidly hand one a towel and the back of their hands.

But the real villain, in the eyes of tipsters, is the headwaiter. Some 88 per cent of diner-outers must repress murderous instincts every time they drop a gratuity into the hand of a headwaiter who has done nothing to earn it, beyond an aloof bow.

Now, if the headwaiter has done something besides being supercilious, the liver-uppers don't mind graciously his palm. For services rendered, they're willing to pay and pay and pay. Otherwise, they ber!

All of this fascinating stuff about the foibles of men and women who prop up the restaurant biz in New York is contained in a survey made by Cue Magazine. Restaurant and hotel managers, please copy.

But if there are certain categories of so-called public service personnel to whom diners grudgingly give their all, their spirit is broken with reference to the waiter. It is surely no secret that inflation long ago hit the tipping trade. Only Grandpa really remembers the days of General Custer and the 10 per cent tip.

It is my observation that if you want the waiter to keep his thumb out of the soup and the soup out of your lap, only a 20 per cent gratuity (and how I love that gussied-up euphemism for tip) will achieve these worthy goals.

Well, sir, 58.5 per cent of the pollees agree with me that "the usual 15 per cent tip" won't get you any place in a restaurant except next to the swinging door into the kitchen or the Gentlemen's Retiring Room. I guess the other 41.5 per cent who tip 15 per cent or less either have the presence and courage of lions or else dine in the Automat. I'm a coward.

Though the majority of us shoot the works and give the waiter more than a 15 per cent tip, we prefer the table d'hôte dinner to the a la carte menu. We figure if we save pennies on the food, the dollars for the waiter will take care of themselves.

The Gallup Poll

Record Election Turnout Is Forecast

PRINCETON, N. J.—More citizens will vote on Nov. 4 than in any previous off-year, or non-Presidential, national election in U. S. history.

These are the indications one month before the election in the Gallup Poll's semi-final check on voter turnout.

Survey data collected up to the first of October indicate a total vote in the coming election of about 48 million voters for Congress. A final estimate of turnout will be made just before the election.

It is estimated that about another two million adults will vote for governor and senator in their states, but will not take the trouble to vote for a Congressional candidate.

In the last off-year election in 1954, a total of 42,600,000—or 43 per cent—of the 99,000,000 civilian citizens of voting age at that time cast their ballots for Congress.

Interest in off-year elections falls far below the interest in presidential elections. In 1958, a total of 62,000,000 people went to the polls—500,000 more than the record number of 51,500,000 who voted in 1952.

To measure the amount of interest in the coming elections, voters across the country—except those in Maine who have already cast their ballots—were asked this question by Gallup Poll interviewers: "How much thought have you given to the coming November elections—quite a lot, or only a little?"

The one factor most responsible for the anticipated increase in the number who vote in 1958 over 1954 is that the estimated number of civilian citizens of voting age has increased from 99 million to 103 million.

(There are 105 million civilian adults in the U. S. today, including aliens. Excluding aliens, the civilian voting population is 103 million.)

Compared to approximately the same time in 1954, voters this year are displaying about the same interest as voters did at this time prior to the election four years ago, but more of them are today saying they are planning to vote.

Very much in the minds of voters this year are the possible war situations in the Near East and the Far East. Other factors which could well affect the voting are the economic situation and the integration struggle.

As in every projection made from survey samples, new factors between the time the samples were taken and the election can affect the accuracy of the estimate.

Survey evidence indicates that Democrats are somewhat more interested in the coming election than are GOP voters. Here is today's vote by party affiliation:

Mrs. Sammy Meador Is Recipient Of P-TA Council's Scholarship

The P-TA City Council, meeting Tuesday morning for its first session of the new year, announced the winner of the H.C.J.C. scholarship which it sponsors annually.

Mrs. Sammy Meador, the former Denise Honey, is the recipient for the second consecutive year.

The group voted to change their meeting place from the administration building to the cafeteria at Goliad Junior High School. This change will be in effect with the next session, slated for 9:30 a.m. Nov. 4.

Mrs. H. H. Stephens, program chairman, read as the meditation a letter from the president of the State P-TA organization, in which she stressed the year's theme, "Education is life in the making."

The invocation was worded by Floyd Parsons, superintendent.

As presiding officer, Mrs. Harold Homan recognized the presidents of the two newly created junior high P-TA units, Mrs. Kyle Riddle of Goliad and Mrs. Stephens, Rannels. The council leader also reported on the Sept. 26 visit of Mrs. T. A. Swenson of Tyler, state vice president, who directed 25 unit members in a procedure course.

Future dates of interest to P-TA leaders were listed. These include a school of instruction for new unit officers Monday at Airport School; the district P-TA workshop at Lamesa on Oct. 21, following the theme "Steppingstones to maturity"; the state P-TA convention in El Paso, Nov. 12-14, for which reservations for 16 Big Spring delegates have been made.

As newly appointed citizenship chairman of the council, Parsons spoke briefly about All-Citizens Day in Texas. He urged that the American flag be displayed more frequently. He also pointed out that we are approaching an important period, legislatively speaking, with elections to be scheduled, and the P-TA women can be of great help in getting people to the polls.

Parsons reminded the group that the finalized Hale-Aikin report will be due Oct. 15 and should be given careful study by the group.

The session drew an attendance of 35. Members of the council include Parsons; S. M. Anderson, assistant superintendent; the principals of all ward schools; and the president and one representative from each P-TA unit.

Milkglass accessories were used on the table covered with a white gingham cloth over blue. A full, gathered skirt hung to the floor, and tiny nosegays of lily of the valley enhanced the table's edge.

The centerpiece was made of pink roses surrounded by pink and blue forget-me-nots in a milkglass bowl.

lips, daffodils and pansies should be acquired now for planting, and flower beds should be mulched. They alerted the club, too, that new plants should be adequately watered.

In her list of seasonal reminders, Mrs. Fred Lurting warned that this is the proper time to plant iris and Joseph's coat.

Stars Are Today's Film-Making Giants

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The men who hold the balance of power in the movie industry are no longer the big studio bosses but a dozen top stars.

How did this revolution happen? Let the stars themselves explain. Some modestly deny they are the new rulers of Hollywood. But all admit the power of box office favorites has grown immeasurably in the past decade.

Frank Sinatra: "I saw this trend coming five years ago. I knew the time would come when the major studios no longer existed as such, but would offer their facilities in partnership with the actors and creators of film properties."

Sinatra, dropped from his MGM contract as a singer on the skids six years ago, is now back at the studio—as partner in "Some Came Running" and two more films.

James Stewart: "After the glamor and glitter is stripped away, you've got to realize that movies are pretty much like any other business. We exist on supply and demand too. The demand now is for solid, reliable performers who can get people out of their homes and into the theaters."

"People don't have the movie habit any more. They won't go to the theater unless they're pretty sure of getting their money's worth. When they know that Duke Wayne or Gary Cooper is in the picture, they can judge from past performance that it ought to be pretty good."

Cary Grant: "We've gotten to be like a well-advertised brand of tea. Housewives buy that brand of tea rather than take a chance on a brand they're not familiar with."

"The moviegoer is the same way. He'll see one of our pictures because he knows he's pretty sure of getting a certain quality, while he might not take a chance on a new fellow across the street."

Why are there only a dozen stars who fit this category? William Holden: "The studios are to blame for that. Right after the war, there were 750 to 800 actors under exclusive contract to the studios. Today there are 175, and virtually none of them are big names."

"As soon as the picture business started getting tough, the studios dropped the actors. The producers argued why should they pay an actor $2,500 or $5,000 a week when they can let him go and hire him back at $100,000 per picture."

Of the golden dozen stars, all but Marlon Brando were under studio contracts at one time. But now they are free agents and get as much as $750,000 in salary and perhaps half the profits.

What happened to the pioneers who built the movie industry and once held complete power over it? Holden: "There is no second generation in the picture business. The Mayers and the Cohns and the Warners and the rest of them created the industry and ruled it with iron hands. But then they go older and lost some of their drive."

"The pioneers are dying off, and they left no one to take their places."

So the top-drawer names ascended to power. Television was their unwitting aid. The flood of free home entertainment knocked out the B picture. Unable to sustain high overheads, the major studios became hives of independent producers.

The banks insisted that the in-

Gomez Liquor Is Confiscated

An order was issued by Judge Charlie Sullivan in 118th District Court Tuesday afternoon confiscating 4,949 bottles of whiskey and wine seized in a raid by Liquor Control Board officers and other authorities on last March 30.

The liquor will be turned to the LCB and will be sold at auction at some later date.

The whisky was taken in the North Side Drug Store—an establishment owned by V. A. Gomez, who has been a fugitive from justice for more than a year.

The confiscation order came on the heels of a motion by George Thomas, attorney, who has been representing Gomez, that he be allowed to withdraw from the case and that he also be permitted to withdraw all answers he had filed in the matter. This was granted by the court.

Thomas' motion, in substance, asserted that he had formerly represented Gomez in law suits but that since his client fled the country on the heels of a grand jury indictment for embezzlement, he has lost contact with him. Certain other parties, Thomas said, have claimed to be agents for the missing man. Lacking what he called proper authority to proceed, he asked to drop his connection with the case entirely.

Judge Sullivan granted the motion of Gil Jones, district attorney, and John R. Coffee, county attorney, for a summary judgment.

Under ordinary conditions confiscated liquor forfeited by the state is sold to legitimate dealers at an auction conducted by the LCB. Any money derived goes to the fund for old age benefit in this state.

This case may terminate differently. Three wholesale dealers have intervened in the case and contend they supplied the liquor to the North Side Drug but that they have not been paid for it. They ask that their claims be allowed from the sale of the forfeited liquor.

The intervenors are Glazer's Wholesale Drug Co., Inc.; Penland Distribution Co., Inc.; and Lone Star Co. They contend they have more than $620 interest in the 3,503 bottles of assorted hard liquors and the 1,436 bottles of wine.

No decision of this phase of the case was reached Tuesday. The liquor was seized in the drugstore last March 30, when officers alleged that sales of liquor had been made in the establishment on Sunday in violation of state law. The place had a liquor license but this does not permit sale of liquor on Sunday.

C. B. Arnold, Liquor Control Board officer, testified Tuesday as to the reasons for the raid and the seizure of the contraband.

Jobless Pay Claims Continue To Drop

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Employment Commission says unemployment compensation payments and claims continued to drop the week ending Oct. 2.

Total individuals filing were 69,748 with action taken on 61,917 claims. A week earlier 61,453 filed for jobless pay checks with claim actions totaling 62,738.

Some $1,152,598 was paid in state benefits compared to $1,157,203 for the week ending Sept. 25. The TEC said yesterday September's total unemployment compensation benefits was $5,119,280, about one half million dollars below the August total and more than one and one third million dollars below July's total payments.

HANEY SURE HIS ACE LEFTY CAN END SET

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Although the World Series could end today, both managers—Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves and Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees—were thinking of Thursday and a possible seventh and deciding game.

After giving two-time winner Warren Spahn the job of clinching the series in the sixth game today, Haney told reporters: "I'd like to clear it out as quickly as possible, but if we don't do it today, then we got another chance tomorrow."

Haney, naturally, expressed faith in Spahn's ability to register his third straight victory over the Yankees and declined to speculate on his seventh game pitcher, if necessary. There was no doubt, however, that Lew Burdette, winner of the second game and loser of the fifth, would be his man.

Stengel was undecided but strongly indicated that he probably would settle upon Whitey Ford today, with Bob Turley his seventh game choice, should the Yankees win.

Ford has started twice and the Yankees have lost both games. The 29-year-old southpaw was charged with one of the defeats and relief ace Ryne Duren the other.

"Ford tells me his arm is all right, and he's my best," said Stengel. "Spahn showed us he's a great pitcher. You've just got to go with your best against a guy like that."

Turley also would be going with two days rest should he pitch the seventh game, if one is necessary. He turned in the best performance of his career Monday, shutting out the Braves 7-0 with a five-hitter to trim the Braves' lead in games to 3-2.

Spahn will have had a bit more than two days rest when he faces the Yankees today. The 37-year-old left-hander said his arm felt fine.

The two lineups depended upon the pitchers. Haney said he would use his right-handed platoon, with Andy Pafko in center field and Joe Adcock at first base, if Ford were to pitch. With a right-hander going for the Yankees, Billy Bruton would be in center and Frank Torre at first.

The Yankee lineup was all set except for third base. Stengel said he will stick with Elston Howard in left field and Yogi Berra behind the plate.

"If Ford pitches for me," he said, "I may play the kid (Bobby Richardson) at third base. Those right-handers of theirs hit it down that way with a left-hander on the mound. And the kid's the best glove man I've got. If a right-hander pitches for me, it might be (Jerry) Lumpe. I seem to remember that he got a hit as a pinch hitter against Spahn in the last series. Now, if I want the long ball, I might play (Andy) Carey."

The Yankees went all out Monday and didn't let up much yesterday. The B teamers ran Lamesa plays at the regulars yesterday, then wound up the afternoon by engaging the A team reserves in a scrimmage drill.

Another hard workout is in prospect this afternoon.

Yankee Sweep Would Equal 1925 Success

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP)—If the New York Yankees fight back to make this a seven-game World Series and then win it, they will match the comeback of the 1925 Pittsburgh Pirates.

The 25 Pirates, managed by "Doc" McKenchie, were the only team to overcome a 3-1 deficit to beat the Washington Senators in a best of seven series. In the very first series in 1903 when it was a best of nine competition, The Boston Red Sox, trailing 3-1, bounced back to win the next four and defeat the Pirates. Deacon Phillippe pitched five complete games for Pittsburgh in that series.

Walter Johnson was the victim of the Pirates' comeback on a rain-soaked, muddy field at Pittsburgh 33 years ago. Johnson had won the opener 4-1 from Leo Meadows and shut out Pittsburgh 4-0 in the fourth game. Alex Ferguson also had won a game, the third, 4-3 after Vic Aldridge had given the Pirates their lone victory at the expense of Stan Coveleskie in the second, 3-2.

Aldridge came back in the fifth game to beat Coveleskie for the second time 6-3 and Ray Kremer took the measure of Ferguson to square the series after six games.

With Johnson going for Washington, Manager Bucky Harris figured he had things under control after his club scored four in the first inning in the rain, knocking out Aldridge.

Pittsburgh came up with three in the third but Washington got two in the fourth. After six innings Johnson, although being hit hard, had a 6-4 edge.

The Pirates tied the score in the seventh only to have Washington come back with another in the top of the eighth on Roger Peckinpaugh's home run. That was the setting when Johnson went out for the eighth.

Pittsburgh started to rally. Soon the bases were full. In the gloom of a rainy late October afternoon, Kiki Cuyler came through with a homer for the tying and winning runs.

Joe Gerald, Sweetwater's 135-pound sophomore back, is a brother to Pat Gerald Jr., the Ponies' all-state guard last year, and the son of Pat Gerald Sr., the former Sweetwater head coach.

Parker, the bruising all-state fullback for the Ponies, is a good classroom student. His coaches say he averages B plus in most of his work.

The Steers are going to have their hands full this weekend. Lamesa, which used to hold the whip hand over the locals, hasn't beaten the local club since 1952. It won't take much for Coach O. W. Follis to get his boys 'up' for Big Spring. Follis has an experienced ball club, too, featuring the nifty quarterbacking of Kirk Wiggins and the bull-like rushes of Howard Westmoreland.

The defensive play of Lamesan Eddie Peterson, a back, is supposed to be something to see, too.

There doesn't appear to be an easy touch for Big Spring, from here on down to the end of the season.

El Paso Austin, which comes here Friday, Oct. 17, for a game, had to score in the final three minutes to tie the Panthers a good clutch team.

Estimates of the crowd at the Big Spring-Sweetwater game last week ranged up to 6,000 but the official figure was much less than that.

Only 4,032 paying customers turned out for the engagement. It was apparent that a number of Sweetwater fans drove over to Abilene to see the Abilene-Breck go and more than a few local followers didn't stop at Sweetwater but drove on to Abilene, instead.

The receipts for the game totaled $4,075.50. After expenses, each school was paid $1,928.55.

According to scribe Spec Gammon of Odessa, Paul Jorgensen's fee for his recent Odessa fight with Ruben Munoz amounted to $600, plus his expenses.

Munoz was paid $200.

Charley Johnson Still Leads Border League In Offense

ABILENE — Arizona State's supremacy in Border Conference team and individual statistics has been threatened with the tightening of the conference race, figures released here today show.

The Sun Devils, who had a tough time in winning their initial conference game against West Texas, continues to head team rushing and total offense and have moved into the forward passing defense lead. But Hardin-Simmons took over defensively in rushing and total while remaining in front in the passing offense department.

Leon Burton, the Sun Devils' leading ground gainer in the nation last year, relinquished his rushing lead this week to West Texas State's Bob Ratliff who now has 242 yards on 51 carries. Burton, held to 58 yards against the Buffaloes, is second with 229 yards on 40 carries.

New Mexico A&M's workhorse, Charlie Johnson from Big Spring, continues to lead in forward passing and total offense and is third in punting. Johnson has completed 33 of 66 passes for 461 yards in four games. His total offense is 431 yards on 105 plays. A battle for second place in passing is brewing between Hardin-Simmons' Jim Tom Butler and John Hangartner of Arizona State. Butler has 299 yards on 26 of 60 attempts while Hangartner has completed 15 of 32 for 292 yards.

A new pass receiving leader emerged to replace A&M's Bob Kelly. Allen Hibbert of Arizona has snagged 16 passes in three games for 170 yards. Kelly has caught 11 for 150 yards while two Hardin-Simmons players, Earl

Notre Dame Choice Over West Point

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP)—There's nothing like a crisp, audible tackle to make one forget quickly and completely about baseball.

Why couldn't it have happened a week ago when double plays and sacrifice flies interferred to the extent that 12 of 52 choices were incorrect for a record of .769.

Here are this weekend's undisturbed picks:
Ohio State over Illinois: The Buckeyes start playing in earnest now that their Big Ten title is at stake. It is an Illinois home game but you can see it on your TV screen.

Oklahoma over Texas: The lean raw Oklahomans meet the lean, raw Texans. But the Sooners have more of them and that should decide.

Notre Dame over Army: This could be the game of the day. The Cadets have, with statistics, one of the most devastating machines in the nation when on the attack in Dawkins, Anderson and Lonesome Bob, the isolated end. The Irish have Nick Pietrosante and a tougher defense than Army has encountered before.

Auburn over Kentucky: The Plainsmen are rated No. 1. There is no reason to disagree.

Wisconsin over Purdue: Two unbeaten, unscored-on powers of the Big Ten collide. Loss of Purdue's Wayne Farmer, a 240-pound tackle via an injury will hurt the Boiler-makers.

Mississippi over Tulane: The Rebels have it again this year.

Michigan State over Pittsburgh: The Spartans will be mean after that tie with Michigan a week ago but those Panthers have claws.

Michigan over Navy: Navy will be protecting a 10-game winning streak but the loss of tackle Bob Reifsnnyder wrecks the Midies chances of adding to the list.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:
FRIDAY
LSU over Miami, Denver over Montana, Wofford over The Citadel.

SATURDAY
EAST: Colgate over Bucknell, Connecticut over Massachusetts, Yale over Columbia, Delaware over Lafayette, Lehigh over Harvard, Penn State over Marquette, Princeton over Penn, Rutgers over Richmond, Syracuse over Cornell, Detroit over Villanova, West Virginia over Boston University, Dartmouth over Brown.

SOUTH: Alabama over Furman, Duke over Baylor, Florida State over Georgia, Georgia Tech over Tennessee, Maryland over Texas A&M, Mississippi State over Memphis, North Carolina over South Carolina, Virginia Military over William & Mary, Virginia Tech, North Carolina State over Wake Forest, Clemson over Vanderbilt.

MIDWEST: Cincinnati over Xavier, North Texas State over Drake, Houston over Wichita, Iowa over Indiana, Iowa State over Kansas, Minnesota over Northwestern, Southern Methodist over Missouri, Nebraska over Kansas State, Oklahoma State over Tulsa.

SOUTHWEST: Rice over Arkansas, Texas Christian over Texas Tech.

FAR WEST: Air Force over Colorado State University, Arizona State over Hardin-Simmons, Colorado over Arizona, California over Utah, Washington State over Idaho, Utah State over New Mexico, College of Pacific over Brigham Young.

Spartan Center Is Named AP's Star Lineman

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
A vital pass interception that saved Michigan State from a surprise defeat at the hands of Michigan brought Lineman of the Week honors today to Jim Chastain.

This is how the MSU junior center, from Weynesburg, Pa., saved the day for the Spartans in the game last Saturday. At the time, early in the last period, Michigan led 12-6 and was threatening again. The Wolverines had the ball on the MSU 7 third down and goal to go.

Michigan quarterback Bob Plack faded back and threw a forward pass. Chastain intercepted the pass on the goal line. He downed on the three and from there Michigan State started a 97-yard drive for a touchdown and a 12-12 tie, the final score.

Two other centers, Bob Harrison of Oklahoma and E. J. Holub of Texas Tech, also received high praise in the weekly Associated Press poll of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Harrison intercepted an Oregon pass and ran 24 yards to the Oregon 20. The play led to the only touchdown of the game as the Sooners nipped Oregon 6-0. In addition, Harrison made eight tackles and shared in seven others.

Holub's great defensive work against Texas held the Longhorns to a 12-7 victory. He made six unassisted tackles and was credited with nine assists. In addition he broke up one pass and recovered a fumble.

Pete Wasilewski, George Washington tackle, and Murray Armstrong, Tennessee end, were prominent, too. Wasilewski kicked a 23-yard field goal with less than two minutes to play and brought GW an 11-8 victory over Furman.

Armstrong figured in Tennessee's surprise victory over Miss State with a 55-yard pass interception.

Other linemen nominated:
Tackles — Wayne Harris, Arkansas, Opie Bandy, Tulsa, Hogan Wharton, Houston.

Guards — John Bodkin, South Carolina, Al Euyero, Notre Dame, Tom Koenig, Southern Methodist, John Wooten, Colorado, Ends — Buddy Dial, Rice, Wahoo McDaniel, Oklahoma.

Crappie Biting At Lake Thomas

Crappie have begun to bite with greater frequency at Lake J. B. Thomas.

Hiram Reid, patrolman, reported some good catches of larger sized crappie during the weekend. Smaller crappie have been biting fairly well during the late summer, but larger ones seem to have taken to the minnow bait now, said Reid.

A Little Bit Of Everything

Odd bits from all over: The latest news from the tape-platter stereo war front is that the quality of the new tapes may eventually knock the discs off the market... observers claim that the platters themselves will draw people into stereo, but that those people will ultimately turn to tapes...

And speaking of discs, the new classical catalog, Capitol-EMI, has dredged up artists from out of the past whose works were not available until now... the artists include such people as Rudolf Kempe, Robert Irving and Efraim Kurtz, with the repertoire going back to 1898...

The new stereo discs emphasize the depth or bigness of stereo performance instead of only promoting the novelty of the separate sounds coming from separate directions... more attention is being paid

Worth's Casa Manana Oct. 30 thru Nov. 1... Edie is best known as the wife of cigar-smoking Ernie Kovacs, and has appeared most recently in the summer TV Chevy Show... she's also famous for her role in the Broadway hit, "Li'l Abner."

Don't forget the Odessa Oil Show... there will be quite a few entertainment attractions, of which more in this column later...

Dallas is going British Oct. 13-27, with the sponsorship of Neiman-Marcus... there'll be such things as displays of British goods and arts, all male fashion shows, printing and other industrial techniques, films and Shakespearean plays by the famed Old Vic, a street fair, a wine and cheese-tasting party...

the list is endless... the Old Vic will present "Henry V," "Twelfth Night," and "Hamlet," Oct. 21-26... those interested may contact the publicity director of Neiman-Marcus...

Book Demand Falls Sharply In September

September, as was anticipated in advance, was a much duller month for the Howard County Free Library than August which was definitely a "boom" month. Mrs. Opal McDaniel, librarian, said that 4,015 books were handled by the library in September. This compares with the more than 7,000 in August.

The September books by categories: Adult fiction, 1,941; adult non-fiction, 814; juvenile fiction 536; juvenile non-fiction 185; preschool books 499.

Fines collected during the month were $116.18. One hundred and 36 books were donated by friends of the library in September.

Mrs. McDaniel said that new shipments of books are arriving weekly. A large stack of new books is now being catalogued and will be put in the stacks in a few days.

Recent titles added to the shelves include: Science Fiction: Jack Vance, "Big Planet"; Murray Leinster, "City on the Moon"; David Orson, "Invisible Barriers"; George O. Smith, "Fire in the Heavens"; and Charles Maine, "Spaceways Satellite."

Small Cars Hope Of Auto Maker

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Studebaker-Packard's hopes will ride in 1959 on a new series of smaller automobiles.

The new cars, the Lark series, were put on display today. Passenger cars are on a 109½-inch wheelbase with an over-all length of 175 inches. A station wagon line is on a 113-inch wheelbase with over-all length of 184½ inches.

Only the Sabre Hawk in the Studebaker series will be produced in addition to the Lark line. The Packard series has been discontinued.

Simplicity marks the Lark. Its front end is a single stamping. It has bolt-on fenders to simplify repairs. Its rear lights are interchangeable; so, too, are the large single headlights.

An air intake is positioned between the headlights and the center grille. Turn signal lights are placed immediately above the air intake. The car uses 15-inch wheels.

Studebaker-Packard had a 13-million-dollar loss in the first half of 1958. Its executives say additional losses will be shown for the year's third quarter.

Daily Average Oil Production Drops

TULSA (AP)—A big decline in Texas dropped daily crude production 77,250 barrels to 7,002,150 the week ended Oct. 4, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Texas' output fell 89,025 barrels to 2,801,475 to account for well over the net loss. Oklahoma was down 7,900 barrels to 561,300. Louisiana advanced 6,625 barrels to 891,275.

The Journal estimated 1958 production at 1,821,973,000 barrels compared to 2,013,050,701 a year ago. Colorado fell 400 barrels to 130,900. Mexico rose 2,225 barrels to 281,325, and Arkansas, 1,125 to 74,725.

Yes, He Watched

CHICAGO (AP) — Francis, a cocker spaniel, was a watch dog, his master believed.

So when Russell Kepple, 40, and his wife Agnes went out to look for a new home, they left Francis to keep watch in their apartment.

When they got home, Kepple told police, their apartment was in a mess. Missing was a coin collection, jewelry and appliances, which Kepple valued at $1,655.

Francis, he said, was asleep in the kitchen.
