House Slashes Educational Appropriation Measure

SENATE APPROVES HOUSE BILL TO CHECK RECKLESS ISSUANCE COUNTY WARRANTS IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Each branch of the legislature worked a half day today, rounding out a week of hard labor. The house, after slashing the educational appropriations bill almost beyond recognition, passed it, and the senate approved a house bill to prevent the reckless issuance of county warrants.

This was the third of the four general appropriations bills to be passed by the house and the departmental money bill was expected to be taken up Monday. Only one of the bills, that for the judiciary, had become a law. The eleemosynary bill was in free conference and the senate had not acted on the education bill. The senate, however, had passed the departmental proposal.

Bill Calls for $14,300,000

As passed by the house, the educational bill called for $14,300,000 for the next biennium. The house cut the figure approximately $1,700,000 under the recommendation of the appropriations committee. All appropriations for new buildings except two were cut out and salaries reduced five and ten per cent. Salary reductions aggregated approximately $650,000 and building eliminations approximately $1,000,000.

Several senators expressed the belief the senate would substitute higher figures and that another free conference committee would be necessary. The elimination of buildings, without salary reductions, was suggested as a possible compromise.

The house economy bloc indicated similar pay cuts would be sought in the department bill. In that event still another free conference committee was ahead.

Proposed Adjournment

The adjournment date was expected to depend to a large extent on the progress of the appropriations bills. The 120-day period suggested by the constitution will end Tuesday, but the house had passed a resolution asking the legislature to stay in session until

(Copy't, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

BOLAMA, Portuguese Guinea, May 9.—The Doriner DO-X, 12-engined airplane monarch, is secured tightly at its anchorage in Bubaque bay, Bissagos islands, today, where favorable conditions will be awaited before an attempt is made to fly the South Atlantic to Fernando do Noronha is land off the Brazilian coast, or Natal.

Reports that the DO-X had hopped off yesterday and at 4 o'clock this morning on the transatlantic venture were denied by definite information from Capt. Freidrich Christainsen, who said that the craft was taken up for a two-hour trial flight merely to test the engines in the tropical climate.

Reported Damaged

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 9. (US)—An unconfirmed report that the DO-X was slightly damaged in its flight yesterday over Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, was published today by a Brazilian news agency.

The nature of the damage was not stated, but it was said that repairs would require about a week, delaying the projected take-off for South America.

SIX KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

Another Seriously Injured In Kansas Crash

PENDENNIS, Kan., May 9. (AP)—Six men were killed and one was seriously injured when 15 cars of Missouri Pacific freight No. 66 were derailed near the station here today. The bodies, all unidentified, were taken to Dighton by the county coroner. Of the six dead, one was a negro.

Those killed, with two others, one of whom escaped injury, were in one of the cars that overturned. It was believed the injured member of the group of trespassers would suffer the loss of one arm.

The wreck, the Missouri Pacific station agent believed, was caused by a broken journal on one of the cars.

None of the train's crew was injured.

DEATH OF AGED MOTHER SUPERINTENDENT MARRS EXPECTED AT ANY TIME

STEPHENVILLE, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Physicians said tonight that death might come to Mrs. F. M. Marrs at any time. Suffering with heart disease, she suffered a relapse early today, but rallied later. Her children, among them S. M. N. Marrs, state school superintendent, were at her bedside. Mrs. Marrs is 87 years old.

PASADENA BANK ROBBED BY TWO BANDITS POSING MEMBERS POLICE FORCE

PASADENA, Calif., May 9. (AP)—Two men posing as police officers gained entrance to a branch of the Pasadena National bank before banking hours here today, told the employes they had been sent on a tip that a bank robbery was about to be perpetrated and then drew guns, binding and gagging their victims. They fled with between $10,000 and $12,000.

GOVERNOR GRANTS DAY LEAVE THAT PRISONER MAY VISIT HIS MOTHER

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (UP)—Gov. W. H. Murray today granted a one-day leave of absence to Leroy Manwarren now serving a sentence in the state penitentiary at McAlester.

The governor granted the leave in that Manwarren might be with his mother on Mother's day tomorrow. The executive order provides that Manwarren must be under guard during his leave.

PORT ARTHUR WOMAN RECOVERING AFTER CRASH IN WHICH CHILD KILLED

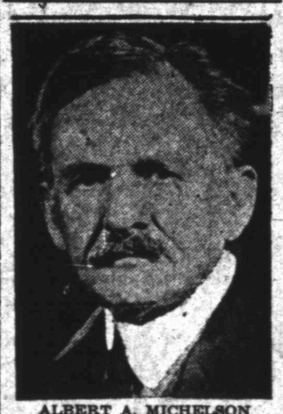

LUFKIN, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Mrs. W. W. Turner of Port Arthur was in a hospital here today, recovering from injuries received in an automobile wreck yesterday, in which her 9-year-old daughter, Iderdale, was killed.

They were on their way to Port Arthur to join Turner, who had been working in the oil field at Longview. A blowout caused the car to turn over several times. The owner and driver, Ed Carrier, escaped with minor injuries.

Turner came here from Longview to be with his wife.

? ? QUESTIONABLE ? ? BUT TRUE

CHILDREN PLAY MARBLES THE WORLD OVER

MARBLES, used in the popular boys' game, are named from the Latin word "marmor," meaning marble, probably because the first were really made of marble. Some are now made of potter's clay and oven-baked, but most are of a hard kind of stone found in Saxony where they are manufactured in great numbers and exported to countries all over the world. Glass marbles, usually called agates, are made of both clear and colored glass, while real agates are made mostly in Oberstein, Germany, of a stone called agate. Many hours of enjoyment can be had by your children in a back yard of their own, where they will be free and safe from harm and undesirable playmates. Springtime is marble time, and also the opening of real estate season. ### World Takes to Air 300 Planes Soon to Fly Over New York

By ALFRED E. SMITH

NEW YORK, May 9.—Transportation has been an important factor in human welfare and achievement since the very beginnings of history and its development is an index of civilization. Earliest history recalls the ass and the camel—the ship of the desert—as the first means of transportation. Time was, and not so many years ago, when all transportation was by water. The simple expedient of setting canvas against the wind brought forth in a natural and simple way our early means of water transportation. The early history of this country indicates that the parts of it first developed were those accessible to water routes and those parts not accessible to a water route remained longest wild and undeveloped.

The next complete development of travel will be through the air. While it is true that experimental flights made largely for the purpose of furthering the development of an aircraft took place prior to the war, the aeroplane as means of transportation was not then seriously considered. Even during the war it was regarded as an agency for destruction or protection, depending upon its use, but its efficiency in the time of war focussed attention on its possibilities and in a remarkably short period it has come into commercial use.

In a conversation with a lady in Syracuse celebrating her hundredth birthday, she told me that as a young girl she traveled from Chenango

THREE OFFICIALS HELD ON MURDER CHARGES IN COAL FIELD DISORDERS

HARLAN, Ky., May. (AP)—Twenty-nine indictments, including charges of murder and banding and confederating were returned here today by the special grand jury investigating disorders in the coal fields that led to the sending of troops into the county.

EVARTS, Ky., May 9. (AP)—Police Chief Asa Cusick, of Evarts, his assistant, A. L. Benson, and City Clerk Joe Cawood were arrested late today on murder indictments returned by the special grand jury investigating the Harlan county coal field disorders.

The indictments were returned in connection with the battle near here last Tuesday in which two deputies, a commissary clerk and a miner were slain when automobiles containing the officers and the commissary clerk were fired upon.

Arrested By Guardsmen

The three men were arrested by four national guardsmen and two Harlan county deputy sheriffs. The soldiers were armed with two submachine guns and rifles. The accused men, found together on a street here, were taken to headquarters of Col. Dan Carrell, commanding the troops. All three denied the charges. They offered no resistance.

"This is all funny to me," Cusick said when the warrant was served. "It doesn't mean a thing. I was in Evarts when the shooting took place. I have at least 50 witnesses to prove that."

Cawood defeated Sheriff J. H. Blair for election as sheriff of Harlan county at the last election but lost when Blair contested the election.

HEAD BAYLOR SOME BETTER LATE REPORT

WACO, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Condition of Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor university, became decidedly improved shortly before 6 o'clock this afternoon, Dean W. S. Allen, acting president of the university, said, giving physicians hope he would live through the night.

At 11:30 p. m. attending physicians reported that Dr. Brooks was resting comfortably after a rally in the early evening.

WEALTHY N. Y. WIDOW MISSING FROM VESSEL ARRIVING AT SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 9. (INS)—Madame Therese Goerke, wealthy widow of 21 Bennett avenue, New York City, was missing from her stateroom under mysterious circumstances today when the Panama-Pacific liner Pennsylvanix docked here after a cruise from New York.

According to ship's officers, Madame Goerke, a costume designer, was en route to Los Angeles to visit a sister.

She disappeared May 5.

AGED NORTH CAROLINA WOMAN AND DAUGHTER FOUND DEAD IN HOME

CONCORD, N. C., May 9. (AP)—Mrs. Criss Starnes, 75, was found beaten to death and her 40-year-old daughter, Ada, dead and hanging from a barn rafter today on their farm near here.

The daughter's head was crushed and she apparently had been slain and hung from the rafter.

Among other conveniences provided will be radio receiving sets and during the stay in Lubbock, a telephone will be installed on the train. The train itself, consisting of nine cars, will include the finest of equipment, it was declared.

AGED TEXAS COUPLE SERIOUSLY INJURED IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

GEORGETOWN, Texas, May 9. (AP)—A. A. Rutledge, 79, and his 60-year-old wife, were recovering in a hospital here today from injuries received yesterday in a runaway accident near Florence.

Frightened by a large truck, the team of mules Rutledge was driving became unmanageable and the aged couple was thrown from the wagon. They were taken by ambulance to the Martin hospital here, where Rutledge was treated for a broken collar bone and Mrs. Rutledge had 36 stitches taken in the scalp and about the face.

GOVERNOR MISSISSIPPI INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

JACKSON, Miss., May 9 (AP)—Gov. Theo G. Bilbo's automobile skidded off a high hill in a rain today, overturned in a ditch near Prentiss and injured him painfully, but he declined to break engagements and went to the capitol for conferences after receiving first aid treatment.

His physician, Dr. H. F. Garrison, said he received a fractured rib, abdominal injuries and numerous cuts and bruises. The physician reported he had been unable to determine the extent of the abdominal injuries, which he said might be serious since the governor was unable to breathe deeply without pain.

PILOT AND AIR STUDENT DEAD RESULT CRASH AT AIR CIRCUS AS TWO STUNTING OVER FIELD

SHERMAN, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Paul Woodall, 24, Dallas flying instructor, and Joe Garrett, 21, of Corpus Christi, senior student at Southern Methodist university, were killed today when the plane piloted by Woodall went into a spin and crashed at the municipal airport here.

Members of a flying service staging an air circus here said the crash was caused when the gasoline tank was torn loose and jammed the tail controls.

Garrett died a few minutes after being taken from the plane. Woodall died while being carried to a hospital in an ambulance.

Official Investigation

R. W. Delaney, aeronautical inspector for the department of commerce, flew here from Dallas soon after the accident to make an official investigation.

Several spectators, among them members of the flying service, said the gas tank was dislodged from its position above the wings, slid back over the top of the ship, and fouled the tail controls. Woodall was stunting, doing a single romm just before the tank was dislodged.

Woodall operated a flying school at Dallas and Garrett was a pupil. The youth was the son of J. E. Garrett, president of the Texas Bank and Trust company at Corpus Christi and author of the Garrett plan for cotton acreage reduction.

Operator Flying School

DALLAS, May 9. (AP)—Paul Woodall, killed in a plane crash at Sherman this afternoon, was operator of the Woodall flying school at Love field, Dallas, and was a brother of Howard Woodall, pilot for American airways.

Woodall's school operated a private flying field on Lover's lane, near Love field. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eunice Woodall.

JUDGE REFUSES TO FREE 'LEGS' DIAMOND ON BAIL

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 9. (INS)—Supreme Court Justice O. B. Brewster refused today to release Jack "Legs" Diamond, racketeer, on bail on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Diamond was arrested at Albany hospital early this week on bench warrant obtained by Atty. Gen. John J. Bennett, charging the gangster with carrying concealed weapons. Diamond was at liberty on $25,000 bail on charges of assault and kidnaping when he was ambushed two weeks ago in the Catskills.

As a result of Justice Brewster's ruling Diamond, when he can be rembved from Albany hospital, will be taken directly to Greene county jail at Catskill.

UNDERTAKER-CORONER ARKANSAS SHOOTS WIFE FATALLY WOUNDS SELF

MALVERN, Ark., May 9. (AP)—After shooting his wife, Phillip M. Smith, about 50, undertaker and coroner, fatally wounded himself last night.

Physicians said Mrs. Smith's condition was critical. She was shot, witnesses told police, after a quarrel with her husband, who met her in the street after she returned from a lodge meeting with some other women.

SIX MEN ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY AND KIDNAPING RUSHED ACROSS ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, May 9. (AP)—Linked with America's largest bank robbery, six men seized in a raid yesterday at East St. Louis, were hurried across Illinois today by a motor guard of state police.

They sped from Springfield, Ill., where they spent the night, to Sterling, Ill., during the day; then on toward the county jail at Morrison, Ill., there, authorities said, they would stay overnight.

TROOPS NOT TO COLLECT U. S. DEBTS ABROAD

Stimson Says American Armed Forces Not Collectors

PROTECTION PROMISED NICARAGUA RESIDENTS

Americans on Foreign Soil To Be Protected if Need Arises

WASHINGTON, May 9. (AP)—A basic foreign policy of the United States, touched on for the first time by the Hoover administration, was explained tonight by Secretary Stimson in a radio address in which he said American armed forces would not be employed for the collection of debts abroad.

At the same time the secretary of state, in referring to Nicaragua, said the United States had "no intention of removing from American citizens in Nicaragua the protection which American citizens in foreign lands are entitled and accustomed to receive under the law of nations."

The "law of nations," as now interpreted by the state department, imposes the duty of protection of Americans in foreign lands primarily upon the nation controlling the territory. When this protection, both of life and property, falls below a minimum recognized by international law, every other nation has the right to protect the lives and property of its nationals.

TWO PATHS TO OIL RECOVERY

Solution Awaits Investigation Says Opinion

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—Two paths lead to recovery and stabilization of the oil industry in the opinion of J. Edward Jones, oil royalty owner, and the proper one to follow can be chosen only after an investigation of existing conditions, with particular attention to the study of prices.

Mr. Jones' views were expressed in a letter to Gov. Harry Woodring, of Kansas, in answer to a request made by the governor on a recent visit to New York.

One of the paths he pointed out is the disintegrating of the large companies to a point where their operations are restricted either to the production of crude oil or its refining, two undertakings which he said are entirely out of harmony with each other.

The alternative, Mr. Jones said, is public regulation of both "price" and the allowable rate of production of both crude and refined oils.

YOUTH ADMITS HE PLACED REAL BULLET IN PISTOL

QUINCY, Ill., May 9. (UP)—Sixteen-year-old Arthur Weisenberger recalled today that he was the one who put the real bullet in the stage gun which killed Mildred Hughes last night during a rehearsal of the home talent play "The Jade God."

Weisenberger said he had been using the pistol for target practice between rehearsals of the church dramatic club and had left it loaded.

Mass Meeting East Texas Citizens Called for Tyler on Monday Night To Discuss Pending Proration Bill

TYLER, Texas, May 9. (AP)—A section-wide mass meeting of East Texas citizens, land and royalty owners, independent oil operators, and others interested in the oil industry has been called here Monday night, sponsored by the East Texas Lease, Land, Royalty and Producers association. Members said it promised to be the largest gathering of the kind ever held here.

Delegations were expected from Henderson, Longview, Gilmer, Marshall, Troup, Arp, Gladewater, Kilgore, Center, Carthage, and Overton, along with chamber of commerce representatives from other towns in this section.

Purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the Howsley proration bill, scheduled for a hearing by members of the state house of representatives at Austin Tuesday night. It is opposed by many independent operators.

Senator Tomas G. Pollard, representative E. H. Lasseter of Rusk county, and Secretary Carl Estes of the East Texas Lease, Land, Royalty and Producers association will be among the speakers. Proceedings will be broadcast over seven Texas radio stations, connected with station KGKB in Tyler.

NEGRO, 71, TO SPEND DAY WITH MOTHER IN AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Spencer Graves, 71, Clayton, N. M., negro, is in Amarillo to spend Mother's day with his 90-year-old mother. The mother is a former slave. The aged son visits her each year on this occasion.

FARMER CHARGED WITH ATTACK ON DAUGHTER

CRYSTAL CITY, May 9. (AP)—Crawford Trees, 43, farmer of near La Pryor, was placed in jail here today on a charge of assault sworn out by his 11-year-old daughter. The complaint charged that Trees threatened to kill his wife and children if the attack were revealed.

FIVE TEXANS AWARDED SCHOLARSHIPS AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 9. (AP)—Yale university awards announced today included the Cowles fellowship in government to August Oran Spain of Austin, Texas, and Cecil H. Tolbert of Sherman, Texas. University fellowships were awarded to William R. Bridgewater, Houston, Texas, in history; to Medford Evans, Waco, Texas, in English; and to Alfred G. Hill, Waco, in chemistry.

Temporary Receiver Appointed For Julian and His Oil Companies On Petition of Hollywood Shareholder

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (AP)—District Judge Sam Booker today appointed B. C. Housel of Oklahoma City as temporary receiver for C. C. Julian, Oklahoma City and Los Angeles oil man and his companies, on petition of Marjorie Bennett, Hollywood, a shareholder.

The order immediately drew a protest from O. A. Cargill, the oil man's attorney, who said "Miss Bennett only acquired her six shares of stock in the last few days and they are valued at only $20."

Judge Hooker ordered Julian placed under $10,000 bond.

Sister Countenance Bennett

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 9. (AP)—Miss Marjorie Bennett, who filed a suit in Oklahoma City today asking a receivership for C. C. Julian, oil promoter, is a former motion picture actress and sister of the film star, Enid Bennett. There is another sister living in Hollywood, Catherine Bennett. She is not an actress.

Accused Furnishes Bond

LAREDO, Texas, May 9. (AP)—R. D. Williams of Houston, who was arrested near Laredo Wednesday night when officers seized 80 gallons of alcohol and an automobile, furnished $2,000 bond on liquor law charges today before United States Commissioner Frank Y. Hill.

LAST SERVICES ARRANGED FOR WILLIAM HURST

Funeral services are to be held from the home, 2309 Roberts street, Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for William Andrew Hurst, 39, who died at a hospital here Saturday morning after an illness of about 10 days.

Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, is to be in charge of the services. Burial will be in Rosemont. Arrangements are being made by the Dalton-Powell Funeral home.

Active pallbearers are to be W. E. Karrenbrock, I. W. Karrenbrock, Homer H. Karrenbrock, John Andree, B. Finley and Carl Moore. Honorary pallbearers will be members of the American Legion of which Mr. Hurst was a member. Mr. Hurst, a veteran of the world war, had been manager of the Business Men's Idle Hour club at 723 Ohio avenue since his removal to Wichita Falls about eight years ago.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Maude Hurst, a nurse at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital for several years, and five sisters, Mrs. Harry Green and Mrs. John Swor of Hollywood, Calif., Mrs. Ed Mitchell of Honolulu, Mrs. Jack Mitchell of Brazoria, Texas, and Mrs. James Warwick of Fort Worth.

ARMED FORCES NOT TO ACT COLLECTORS

Acute Problems

Touching on recent political overturns throughout the world, the secretary said most of them were attributable to the economic depression during the major part of the past two years.

"During that period there have been no less than 45 sudden changes in the governments of the countries of the world," he said. "Most of these political disturbances were attributable directly or indirectly to the hard times through which we are passing.

"Many of them have furnished acute problems for the American state department. For us it has been a period of strain almost as serious as if we were engaged in war ourselves."

The secretary said where American investments or claims were imperiled by the widespread depression the state department was seeking to give all counsel and assistance to which Americans were entitled under "the law of nations."

Reiterating the foreign debt collection policy of Elihu Root as secretary of state nearly a quarter of a century ago, the secretary in quoting Root warned "that it is the established policy of the United States not to use its army and navy for the collection of debts."

To Protect Nationals

"The tribulations of our neighbors have not only produced diplomatic problems of governmental relations, but in view of the many Americans who now live, do business and make investments in many of those countries, the financial crisis which has produced the revolutions has also often brought American lives and property into jeopardy," he added.

"In all of this we have endeavored to act under recognized principles of justice and equity in dealing with the problems of our citizens with their neighbors. We have endeavored to carry out firmly and impartially the rules of recognition of revolutionary governments which have been attested as sound by the experience of history. . . .

"We have been and shall continue to be zealous in our concern for the lives of our nationals wherever they may be found. . . . We are not departing from American traditions. We are carefully avoiding entanglement in the affairs and policies of other nations . . . .

SPANISH REPUBLICANS AROUSED TO ACTION BY PASTORAL LETTER

MADRID, May 9. (UP)—The government aroused by the recent pastoral letter of Cardinal Segura, primate of Spain, acted today to enforce its policy of complete separation of church and state.

The cardinal was scheduled to proceed to Rome at once and probably will remain there as a member of the vatican congregation of rites.

The cabinet of Provisional President Nicsto Alcala Zamora made known that such actions as the recent pastoral letter of the cardinal, interpreted as advising all Catholics to vote for monarchists or Catholic candidates for the constitutional assembly, "cannot continue."

Simultaneously, the government approved a decree terminating obligatory religious instruction in the public schools.

SAN RAFEL, Calif., May 9. (AP)—Capt. Robert Dollar, veteran shipping magnate, who has been seriously ill, was "considerably better" today, it was reported at the Dollar home.

SENATE APPROVES BILL FROM HOUSE

The senate voted 20 to 3 to pass the Petsch bill prohibiting counties from issuing warrants without a vote of the people. Sponsors said its purpose was to prevent county commissioners from bankrupting counties by issuing large amounts of warrants. The bill was amended to provide that in cities where payable from the revenues of utilities, refunding bonds might be issued and extensions of bonds made without popular vote.

Highway Bond Issue

One of the outstanding events of the week was the vote in the house on the proposed $212,000,000 highway bond issue. Proponents were 11 votes short of the 100 necessary for submission. Indications were that another effort to submit it would be made next week. Proponents gained nine ballots between the first and second vote.

The house this week refused to concur in the many senate amendments to the truck bills and they were sent to free conference. The congressional redistricting bill had been in free conference for some time, but some of the conferees claimed they were making progress.

Conferees on the split tax payment bill reported a compromise proposal which the senate adopted. The house did not take action immediately, however, ordering it printed in the journal. The compromise bill would permit a person to let one-half of his taxes go until July 1, provided he paid the first half by the preceding Dec. 1.

The proposed two cents a thousand cubic feet tax on natural gas distributors was killed by a senate committee. The house had placed that levy in the peddlers tax bill which was reported favorably to the senate.

Home Rule Resolution

The senate voted 12 to 10 to engross the Beck county home rule resolution, which had been passed by the house. The resolution would require 21 votes for submission. The senate killed the Brooks bill, which would have refunded out of current gasoline tax revenues counties' indebtedness on state highways. Senator Pollard of Tyler stated he would endeavor to have his colleagues rescind their action. Public hearings in the house committee on the bill to give the railroad commission authority to prevent oil production above "reasonable market demand" and to speed up trials of proration injunction suits were set for next Tuesday and Wednesday night. The bill, sponsored by a group of independents, was introduced Wednesday.

Senator Pollard, Representative Lassiter of Henderson, Harry Pennington of San Antonio, vice president of the Texas Independent Petroleum association, and Carl Estes of Tyler, secretary of the East Texas Lease, Royalty and Producers association, today issued a statement urging "every independent who expects to escape the guillotine of economic execution" to appear here Tuesday and Wednesday nights in opposition to the bill.

COMPRESS MANAGER AT NAVASOTA SENTENCED TO THREE-YEAR TERM

HOUSTON, May 9. (AP)—G. S. Black, former manager of a compress at Navasota, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary today by Judge Langston King on conviction on two charges of embezzlement.

He was charged in connection with the disappearance of cotton bales from the compress.

As Black was sentenced, arrangements were being made by the governor's office in Austin to grant him a two weeks' furlough to go to the bedside of his wife. Mrs. Black became suddenly ill yesterday and was reported in a serious condition.

S. H. SMITH VICTIM OF BRIEF ILLNESS AT HOSPITAL HERE

S. H. Smith, 41, of 1613 Hayes street, died at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held from the residence at 3 p. m. Sunday with Rabbi S. J. Schwab officiating. Burial will be in Rosemont. The Merkle Undertaking company is in charge of arrangements.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Louisa Smith, and two children, Doris May and Leonard Ray.

Mr. Smith had been a resident of Wichita Falls about 12 years, during which he had been associated in the ownership and operation of the Northwestern Pipe and Supply company. He lived in Fort Worth before coming to Wichita Falls.

FAMOUS SCIENTIST CLAIMED BY DEATH

Michelson was resigned to his death, knowing he had staved off until his last great experiment had been completed. This was his third and most precise measurement of the speed of light. It was for completion of this task that for two years his tremendous will power held back the progress of creeping paralysis with which he was stricken in Chicago some 24 months ago.

Gives Instructions

Without parallel in the history of science was the scene enacted early this week at the bedside of the man who made it possible for astronomers to measure the distances of stars. Too feeble to move, his lower limbs completely paralyzed almost to the abdomen, he told Prof. Francis G. Pease to make some notes.

Pease, of the Carnegie institution of Washington staff, was carrying on the final work of the last Michelson experiment with the mile-long vacuum tube at Santa Ana. He had come in to tell the great scientist that all experimental work was completed, and all that remained was the recheck of instruments and recheck of measurements to derive the final figure of the speed of light.

To Be Kept Secret

The keen dark eyes of Michelson, and the weak voice, seemed all that was alive. His frail form otherwise was still. Then he ceased, and smiled. Thus was written the introduction to his formal report, the last word for the world of science from the man who has been in the vanguard more than 30 years.

This will not be published until all of the instrumental and geodetic measurements are completed by those who have been engaged with Michelson in the experiment, a matter of weeks or perhaps months.

Thus passed the man whom Doctor Albert Einstein recognized as master, and the thinker from whose experimental work the German professor gave to the world his theory of relativity.

Mrs. Michelson, who had nursed him two years, and their daughter, Mrs. Sheldon Dick, Provincetown, Mass., were at the bedside when death came. Two other daughters, Mrs. Phillip Maher, Chicago, and Mrs. F. S. Foster, Dahlgren, Va., are en route here. The time of last rites and cremation was undetermined tonight, although it was expected private services will be held at the Michelson home next Wednesday.

BUSINESS LEADERS SUPPORT SPECIAL

citizens or business leaders from cities of major size. That is not true. We of Wichita Falls are always pleased to have an opportunity to entertain business men from Oklahoma City, Dallas, Fort Worth, Chicago or New York.

Would Enjoy Visit

"The citizens of every town or community enjoy a visit from neighbors. The time has come when successful men realize that cooperation is necessary for the upbuilding or expansion of any city or town. What Wichita Falls can do to help the smaller places is equally as important as what we do to build our own city.

"Big business looks for a distributing center as soon as a certain area has sufficient buying power. There is no richer business area in America than that between Wichita Falls and the caprock country. We should lend our aid in the development of this area. If we can render assistance to Quanah, Chillicothe, Vernon, Childress, Estelline, Memphis, Paducah, Crowell, Turkey, Quitaque or any other town let us do so.

"For these reasons Wichita Falls should send to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention the business and professional leaders. Those who go will find the time far more profitable than by remaining at home. It is a golden opportunity to do good and at a most opportune moment."

Kelly Stresses Value

Albert E. Kelly, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the train, stressed the psychological value of sending a large representation to the convention.

"Not only will the actual seeing of the splendid crop prospects in Northwest Texas arouse the optimism of the Wichita Falls citizens who make the trip, but the sending of a large delegation is certain to make its impression on the residents of communities where the trippers will stop," he declared.

"I feel that if ever there was a time when Wichita Falls should put an undertaking over in the biggest possible way, that time is now. There have been few times in the history of Wichita Falls when the opportunity for the future has been bigger, and the special train is one step toward taking advantage of the opportunity."

Mr. Kelly expressed satisfaction with the progress thus far made in securing reservations for the special. Any doubt which may have existed that the required quota of 150 passengers for the train would be secured has been removed, it was added.

However, Mr. Kelly said, members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the train will continue their activities through next Thursday. Although names of members of the chamber of commerce have been distributed among the committeemen who plan to see prospective trippers individually, Mr. Kelly urged that any citizen who may have been overlooked for various causes telephone his reservation to the chamber of commerce, No. 4131, as early as possible.

Programs Planned

Fares for the trip are $18 for an upper berth, $22.50 for a lower berth and $30 per passenger for drawing room space. The amount includes railroad fare, Pullman registration fees at the West Texas meeting and use of the Pullmans during the overnight stay in Lubbock.

On the return trip from Lubbock Saturday afternoon, the trippers will make a number of stops, and where time permits, will parade through the host community led by Paul Seeds' Caballeros band. At all stops, programs will be presented. Arrangements are being made in each of the communities to be visited to extend a hearty welcome to the Wichita Falls delegation, the chamber of commerce has been advised.

The schedule for the train follows:

Pullman cars available for boarding after 9:30 p. m. May 14.
Leave Wichita Falls 11 p. m. May 14.
Arrive Lubbock 7 p. m. May 15.
Leave Lubbock 1 p. m. May 16.
Arrive Petersburg 1:45 p. m. May 16 for 15-minute stay.
Arrive Lockney 2:30 p. m. for 45-minute stay.
Arrive Sterling 3:30 p. m. for 10-minute stay.
Arrive Quitaque 4:20 p. m. for 30-minute stay.
Arrive Turkey 5:20 p. m. for 40-minute stay.
Arrive Childress 7 p. m.
Leave Childress 1 a. m. May 17.

CONTINUE HEARING PLEA FOR REMOVAL TRUSTEES MAY 28

The hearing on the petition for the removal of four members of the Fairview Independent School district board of trustees was continued until Thursday, May 28, when the second day of taking testimony closed before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court late Saturday afternoon.

Eighteen criminal cases are set for trial in the 89th court beginning Monday and there are heavy civil dockets set for the next two weeks. As this hearing is before the judge without a jury it was decided to continue it in order to permit the disposition of civil and criminal jury cases during the next three weeks.

The plaintiffs closed their case about 4 o'clock and the defendants had started the introduction of testimony when court adjourned Saturday.

The suit seeks the removal of the following four school trustees: M. A. Walker, John C. Wells, Will Teel and J. M. Morrison.

REV. H. T. WOOD—Host
Pastor First Christian Church

FIRST CHRISTIAN TO HOLD THREE MOTHER-SERVICES

Three services will be held in honor of Mother's day at the First Christian church Sunday. The first will be held at the Bible school hour at 9:30, when classes will meet at that hour and a general assembly will be held at 10 o'clock at which a Mother's day program will be given by the young people of the church. An effort is being made to break all Mother's day attendance in this church.

The second service will be the morning worship at 10:45. Dr. Howard T. Wood, the pastor, will speak on the theme, "Mary the Mother of Jesus," and the Inflammatus will be given by the choir. The third will be in the evening service at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Stratton and Mrs. Ward will sing a duet. R. E. Shepherd will sing "Tell Mother I'll be There," and the sermon will be the third of a series on Ideals, "The Ideal Home."

A meeting of the general committee for the state convention which convenes in this church from Tuesday until Friday will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

WILSON METHODIST TO OBSERVE MOTHER'S DAY

A specially prepared Mother's day program will be given at the Wilson Memorial Methodist church Sunday morning, according to the pastor, Rev. Ben Bell. Appropriate music, readings and lectures will be given. A feature of the service will be the presentation of flowers to the oldest and youngest mother in attendance, it was said. Flowers will also be given as favors to each person attending.

'SANCTITY OF THE HOME' VESPER HOUR SUBJECT

"The Sanctity of the Home" will be the subject of a 10-minute address by Dr. S. Stephen McKenney during the First Methodist vesper radio hour, over KGKO, from 5 to 5:30, Sunday afternoon. The following musical program will be given by high school students under the direction of Mrs. Hermione S. Vaughan:

Quartet, "Somebody Knows," Quinn Holder, Ray Martin, Edward Silk, Bob Carey.

TUESDAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE AS NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY

PRESIDENT HOOVER IN HIS MESSAGE REQUESTS PEOPLE TO REMEMBER INSTITUTIONS

By FRED L. HASKETT

Tuesday, May 12 is National Hospital day. The American Hospital association through its National Hospital day committee, has given widespread publicity to the observance of the day. It has grown each year since it was first observed and will materially help in bringing the people in hundreds of communities to a better understanding of the work which their hospitals perform and the many difficult problems which they constantly face.

Sectional Hospitals Aid

In the spreading of the publicity, by press and radio, the sectional and state associations are taking a very active part. In Wichita Falls every hospital organization is doing its part to inform the public of what this city possesses in the way of hospitals, and giving information that will prove of value to the people.

President Herbert Hoover in his message to hospitals says: "Hospitals are now carrying a heavy burden, being pressed by ever more patients and for more free service. They are meeting the demands upon them courageously, but this year particularly they need the cooperation and support of the public.

"It is particularly fitting to call the attention of people at this time to these conditions as May 12th is National Hospital Day, a day set apart for everyone to visit and become familiar with what their hospitals are doing and what they mean to their respective communities. This work has my hearty support."

Wichita Falls Medical Center

Just a few years ago, almost counted in months, the medical centers of Texas were downstate. Through untiring efforts of local physicians and surgeons modern hospitals were established in Wichita Falls. The buildings are of the best construction and every modern convenience for sick or injured people have been installed. Fortunately, too, in Wichita Falls is to be found some of the best professional talent in Texas, and as a result of the efforts of the many doctors Wichita Falls now stands out as the medical center of Northwest Texas.

There are five large institutions within the city. Three are privately owned, one belongs and is maintained by the state, and the other a city-county institution. Not counting the state institution there are about 250 beds in the other four hospitals.

The hospitals are managed well and the staff of physicians and surgeons ample to render the very best medical skill. There is not need today for people living in Northwest Texas or Southwestern Oklahoma to go any great distance when seeking attention or the service of skilled psysicians or surgeons.

Wichita Falls Institutions

The institutions in Wichita Falls are the Hargrave-Walker hospital, Wichita Falls Clinic hospital, White Sanitarium, General (City-County) Hospital and the Wichita Falls State hospital. There is also the Ledford Baby and Children clinic, Northwest Texas clinic and in addition to these other clinics for treatment of diseases and ailments of every kind.

The hospitals of Wichita Falls are very valuable in a commercial way. It is difficult to estimate the amount of money that comes to Wichita Falls annually from patients who live outside the city. It is not less than $500,000 and some estimate, counting the state institution, that over $1,000,000 comes into the city yearly because of its hospitals.

People who are interested in hospitals and the service rendered mankind through them will do well to listen to the radio programs that will be broadcasted Monday by the National Broadcasting company. Programs will go on the air at 3:30, 6 and 7 o'clock Monday afternoon and evening. These programs will prove valuable to those who will tune in.

Take Active Leadership

Wichita Falls hospitals are well represented in state organizations. R. H. Fuller, manager of the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital is president of the Northwest Texas district Hospital Managers association Miss Eva M. Wallace of the same institution is state chairman of the Red Cross nursing service.

Miss Wallace states that the Texas State Graduate Nurses association meets in Fort Worth this week, May 13-16, and she will attend the meeting to preside. Mrs. Earl Ryan has been chosen as a delegate from Wichita Falls.

Observance will be made by hospitals of Wichita Falls on Thursday, May 21 of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Red Cross, an organization that has done wonderful work and good in the relieving of human suffering.

Facts Worth Knowing

What the hospitals in America are doing and other information is briefly as follows:

There are over 7,000 hospitals in the United States.

Six thousand of them have been built in the last 50 years.

They have approximately 1,057,000 beds and bassinets.

They admitted 12,000,000 patients to their wards in 1930.

They are staffed by 98,800 physicians.

Of all hospital work 31.4 per cent is given to the care of charity patients.

There are 650,000 infants born in the hospitals each year.

They employ 54,000 graduate nurses.

They carry 635,000 other employes on their pay rolls.

In excess of $3,000,000,000 is invested in hospital buildings and properties.

The total amount of hospital endowment is estimated at $439,000,000.

Four-hundred and nineteen millions of this endowment belongs to non-profit hospitals.

Few Are Endowed

Only 1,000 hospitals control any endowment.

One hundred and twenty-five hospitals control 45 per cent of the total endowment.

Thirty-one hospitals have endowment of $2,000,000 or more each.

The government owned and operated hospitals are distributed as follows: 288 federal hospitals with 63,581 beds; 281 state hospitals with 405,309 beds; 505 county hospitals with 73,615 beds; 364 city hospitals with 63,064 beds; 74 city and county hospitals with 11,500 beds.

The non-government hospitals are distributed as follows: 1,017 church hospitals with 116,846 beds; 1,620 individually owned or partnership hospitals with 199,818 beds; 2,047 independent hospitals with 110,198 beds.

An average of 68,989 out of the total of 619,726 beds in government owned hospitals, or 11.5 per cent, were vacant in 1930.

An average of 121,49 out of the total 336,198 beds in non-government hospitals, or 39 per cent were vacant in 1930.

Well Known Wichitans Sing Sunday Evening in Stainer's 'Crucifixion'

WALTER ROBBINS

GROVER BULLINGTON

Walter Robbins, tenor, and Grover Bullington, bass, will sing the solo parts of the "Crucifixion" by Strainer, to be presented as a vesper service tonight at 7:45 at the First Methodist church.

This work is called a Meditation on the Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer and is written for tenor and bass soloists and chorus. The tenor solo, "King Ever Glorious," is one of the most beautiful numbers in sacred literature.

The words of Jesus are allotted to the bass and both singers will be heard in the duet, "So Thou Liftest Thy Divine Petition."

The regular choir, under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis, with Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., organist, will do the chorus numbers, the best known of which is "God So Loved the World."

This church is a perfect setting for such a service and the public is invited.

COMMISSIONERS TO OPEN BID ON COUNTY SUPPLIES

Bids on furnishing gasoline, oil, lumber and other supplies for all four precincts in Wichita county, will be opened by the commissioners court in regular session Monday.

The court will probably also discuss the problems of maintaining bread lines in two of the four precincts which have expended most of the $750 each allowed by the commissioners.

LIQUOR CACHE IS FOUND CONCEALED UNDER HOME HERE

Four persons were arrested and 17½ gallons of whisky were seized by Deputy Sheriffs Ben Smith and E. L. Kincaid in a raid on a North Third street residence early Saturday afternoon.

Sheriff Perry Browning said the deputies opened a hidden trap door in the floor and then crawled under the house for a distance of about 12 feet, probing the earth with an ice pick, before they found the cache.

The prisoners were three men and one woman. One of the men was fined $1 and costs on a charge of vagrancy. The other three defendants were being held in the Wichita county jail Saturday night.

Flier Unhurt in Forced Landing In Austin Yard

AUSTIN, May 9. (AP)—Lieutenant Gaffney of Kelley field, San Antonio, today made a forced landing in the back yard of the home of F. H. Terrell here and emerged from his plane unhurt.

Lieutenant Gaffney was forced to come down when his gas line became clogged. The plane dived through a set of telephone wires and the left wing struck a telephone pole, carrying it along. The pole served as a brace to keep the ship upright.

The yard was about 50 yards square and the pilot stopped his plane at the back door. He then got in another plane and flew back to San Antonio. Gaffney's ship had been maneuvering with 52 others.

The plane was considerably damaged. The fusilage was badly torn and the cockpit mashed in.

OKLAHOMA CITY WOMAN FILES HEART BALM SUIT AGAINST CALIFORNIAN

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (AP)—A breach of promise suit charging seduction was filed in district court today against Thomas L. Boone, Los Angeles bond salesman, by Sedalia Jourdan of Oklahoma City, former employe of Boone. Mrs. Jourdan, 29, asks $250,000 because Boone "took advantage of her love and confidence in him" after allegedly promising to marry her.

Boone, 60 years old, is associated with the Franklin Bond and Mortgage company here and makes periodical trips to Oklahoma City from the coast.

The suit estimated Boone's wealth at $2,000,000 in stocks and bonds. It described him as a "man of great wealth and a big land owner."

LONDON, May 9. (AP)—Sir Henri Deterding, chairman of the Royal Dutch Shell Oil company, today denied knowledge of reports from the United States that his group had agreed with the Standard Oil company to withdraw from the American field.

"That's news to me," he said, adding that the report from America was the first intimation he had had concerning any such agreement.

WORLD TAKES TO AIR SAYS SMITH

county to Albany as a member of a committee protesting against the move to change the name of the community in which she lived. I asked her how she got to Albany and she explained that she went by stage coach from Norwich in Chenango county to Syracuse and from Syracuse to Albany by canal boat. The day she told me that, I came from Albany to Syracuse in two hours and 50 minutes. It must certainly have taken her many times as long as that to get as far as Syracuse, not to speak of the canal boat trip from Syracuse to Albany, at the rate of five miles an hour which was the speed of canal boats in those days, to cover a distance of 150 miles and traveling by day only.

Swift boats now ply the rivers and the ocean greyhounds have cut the time from 30 days to four and a half between American and European ports on the Atlantic ocean.

Not so many years ago, for short travel, there was nothing but the horse and wagon. Today it has practically disappeared from the highways of the country and the automobile has taken its place.

From the time when the first railroad tracks were laid between Albany and Schenectady, a distance of 17 miles, railroad development came rapidly, and in 1888, when Senator Grady came from Chicago to the Grand Central terminal in 32 hour, in a special train provided for him by the Democratic national committee, the engineer said to him, "Senator, that's the fastest ride you will ever have in your life." Between that time and 1903, the time to Chicago by train was cut to 18 hours. Today, travelers fly between Chicago and Newark airport in 6½ hours.

Only 11 years ago I was calling aitention to the new uses of aeroplanes and the probable needs of the aviation industry in my own state. The report of the commission I appointed at that time was considered very advanced in its recommendations. It advised that the national guard should begin to develop its aviation division and recommended that the larger cities consider developing airports.

Reading the report in the light of 1931, it is almost elementary. In 1920, when the report was made, Lindbergh had not yet dreamed of his flight across the ocean. Only a few daring aviators were testing and trying out experiments and stunts. Aviation was something to see at a county fair or an amusement park and the tales of its use in the war and its growing use in European countries were just like early stories about automobiles or motion pictures or television at its present stage of development.

Aviation really is undergoing the same process as the automobile or even the railroad. Our amusement and enthusiasm over Lindbergh and Chamberlin and the other transatlantic flyers is giving place to a respectful acceptance of the statement recently made that transatlantic flights would soon be commercially profitable and that the time is probably in sight when such flights will be made with regularity, carrying passengers and even freight.

People who have business to transact in New York and California accept the aviation services of the two great transcontinental railroads as a matter of course, although they have only been established a little over two years. Thirty-one hours from east coast to west is still difficult to comprehend. Five and a half or six days of train travel, two or three of which were spent in the dust of the desert, was considered marvellous less than a quarter of a century ago. As a matter of fact, you can leave Washington now every hour on the hour in an aeroplane bound for New York.

My friend, Will Rogers, taxis around in aeroplanes very much as I would use an automobile. He flies to South America or Central America or out through the West or into Mexico with the same ease that I would go to Long Island or New Jersey by auto.

We are getting so accustomed to the number of aeroplanes busily flying about, attending to the affairs of the world, carrying mail, carrying passengers, making experimental flights, that we hardly ever look up when we hear them overhead.

Thus far we are largely projecting our aeroplane services eastward toward Europe. The time will not be long when we will be going in the other direction, too. Transpacific flights are coming next. Japan is already stimulating activity in this direction.

The world will soon have no secrets. It will be possible to look down on every part of it before long. The flight over the south pole, the search for lost explorers and the great availability of the plane in emergencies have proved its practicability. When floods had cut off the state of Vermont it was only through aeroplanes owned by the state of New York that it was possible to bring food and medicine to people affected by the situation.

Increased use of planes has stimulated many associated industries. The construction of planes themselves, the motors, the equipment, are only one phase of the industry. Cities and towns have developed airports and now we are planning for the great Zeppelins, the dirigible airships which travel across the ocean with ease and about the continent like huge birds. Great seadromes are being constructed which will bring the continents closer than ever. North and South America and the Central American countries will soon be tied by new airmail services. The first airmails from city to city and state to state were surprising in their time. We do not even use special mail boxes or special stamps any more. Just a written instruction "Air Mail" and we are assured a speedy delivery of our communications.

Very soon the great army aeroplane manouevers are to take place over the city of New York. Three hundred great planes will be flying day and night. This will be a demonstration such as has not yet taken place in the air, but far greater than any of its military uses are the commercial and transportation problems which the aeroplane is solving for us. This is an age of speed. The aeroplane is contributing toward it. It is to be hoped, too, that the speed and ease of communication and transportation across oceans and continents will promote the cause of better understanding among the peoples of the world. To know a country and to be familiar with its people are the beginnings of understanding which leads to peace and friendship.

I have often been asked if a Zeppelin airship will really be moored to the tower of the Empire State building. If it is true that architecture is a guide to the study of civilization, then Empire State is an index to our present day civilization and the possible future use of its mooring mast tower so that Zeppelin airships may land in the heart of the city, is no more impossible than that automobiles should attain a speed of 75 miles an hour with the ease with which they now do it. The mooring mast, as Commander Eckener himself said, offered a new challenge to those who are experimenting with the airship. The mast is equipped so that it can handle the problem and will have the new machinery available to deal safely and expeditiously with the landing of passengers.

It was no uncommon sight 10 years ago, or even five, to find automobiles broken down at all parts of the roads because tires or motors or some other part of their machinery was not able to stand the strain. Most of this has been overcome. It is unusual to see an automobile stranded because of some lack of perfection in its mechanical equipment. The history of aviation will be the same. With the progress we have made in the last 10 years, what is to be expected in the next 10 is beyond the present vision of all except the scientists who are dealing with the problem.

SPUDDERS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT AS BUC DEFENSE CRACKS

The Spudders' elder brothers up at Milwaukee are staying in the thick of the American association pennant race, despite more hard luck than one club possibly can deserve. Not since the start of the season has Manager Marty Berghammer been able to place his strongest forces in the field. Alex Metzler, George Gerken, Earl Caldwell, Jack Kloza, Johnny Buvid and Danny Bloxsom all were out at one time or another at the start of the race. Then when the cripples were about to get back in line, the great Shires turned up with an injury that has put him on the shelf for an indefinite period. But all of Milwaukee's luck hasn't been the reverse kind. When the outfield was crippled almost beyond recognition, Berghammer inserted a youngster named Tony Kubek. A product of the Milwaukee sandlots, Kubek had attracted little attention in spring training and figured not at all in the Brewers' pennant plans. But when given the chance the youngster proved to be a sensation. He was leading the league in batting at last accounts and was hitting homers, triples and doubles with frequency. The loss of the regulars that forced the Brewers to put Kubek in the lineup may prove the right sort of break after all.

The Spudders may have uncovered the same sort of outfield star by the same kind of break. When Herb Kelly failed to get going in a hitting way, Skipper Williams had to make a switch in the outfield and Bob Fuss went in mainly because none other was available. Fuss hasn't yet been in long enough to receive a thorough test, but the silent youngster has delivered in a big way since he was installed in right field and Ted Gullic moved to center. It is quite likely the team lost a bit of defensive strength by the move, but even that is no cinch. We'd hate to say that Gullic can't play the center pasture as well as Kelly without ever having seen him at it. One thing sure is that the outfield gained in throwing ability by the shift. In center field Gullic will get more chances to use his great arm than he could have in right, and before this season is far gone the league's baserunners will have learned to respect the Missourian's whip. Fuss is the possessor of an even stronger arm, but whether it is as accurate as it should be remains to be seen.

The Mail Box

The Lookout: We would like to know the rule for the following situation:

If a batsman in his box is hit by pitched ball, of which he makes an attempt to evade, and which passes over the plate, does he take his base, or is the ball called a strike?

—BILL CHILDS, Bluegrove.

The only possible way a batsman in his box could be hit by a strike would be leaning or falling into the ball. An umpire who would rule such action as an attempt to evade being hit certainly would be a trusting soul. If we were umpiring we would call it a strike and declare the ball dead. If a runner happened to be attempting to steal second, third or home at the time, we'd call the runner out on the batsman's interference. The play hinges entirely in umpire's judgment of whether the batsman made a real effort to avoid being hit. Otherwise the play is not covered in the rules.

The Lookout: Enclosed please find clippings from the Omaha-Herald World, giving account of another one of our sandlot boys, Johnnie McMahon, now playing regular shortstop for the Omaha Packers of the Western league.

In the first four games played away from home he got seven hits out of 17 times at bat, and handled 28 chances without a bobble, and featured in several flashy double plays. Another clipping which is herewith enclosed taken from the Wichita Kansas Eagle of May 4, where the Packers have been playing, has this to say:

"Barner Burch, president of the Omaha Packers, thinks he has a future star in this Kid McMahon whom he picked up from the sandlots of Wichita Falls, Texas. McMahon has looked particularly good in several games this year and is slated to go up the ladder."

It will be of interest to the sandlot boys here to know that Johnnie and Judd Waller, who used to play together here, oppose each other in Oklahoma City Saturday, Sunday and Monday, as the Packers play the Indians there then.

—DUFFY.

McMahon and Waller both are going far better this spring than they have previously in several trials in professional baseball. The former has had most of a season's experience in the old Rio Grande Valley league and has had brief trials with both the Spudders and Oklahoma City. Waller was the property at one time of the Philadelphia Athletics and was with the Beaumont Exporters a while one season.

McMahon's boss at Omaha is Doc Smith, veteran of many Texas league campaigns and a Spudder in 1928. Smith piloted a Western association team last season and advances this year to class A. On the Wichita club that is burning up the Western league are three regulars well known to Texas league fans. Dick Sullivan, who outfielded for the Spudders in 1929, is playing left field. The second baseman is Tony Piet of Waco last year and Felix Vigare, who served several seasons at Houston and Waco, is the third sacker.

NOBLE-LITTLE WINS FIRST LEAGUE GAME

Noble-Little Hardware company won its first victory in the Commercial league race by defeating Dixon Sign company, 8 to 7, Saturday in the play-off of a postponed game.

Ashley's single in the last half of the sixth with two out and two men on base broke a tie and won the game.

Two Ninth Inning Bobbles Help To Score Five Runs

Cooney Pitches Splendid Game; Double-Header Slated Sunday

GALVESTON, May 9.—With his job at stake, Lefty Martin Dumovich pitched a grand baseball game against Wichita Falls Saturday, but his mates had different ideas about winning and in the ninth inning presented the Spudders with five runs and the opening game of the series, 6 to 2. An idea of how well Dumovich pitched can be gleaned from the statistics which show that all of the Spudder runs were unearned and that but for the miserable fielding of his mates not a visitor would have passed second base.

Bob Cooney opposed Dumovich and though inclined to be a trifle wild, hurled well after the first stanza. What was more important, while the Buccaneers were booting the ball at every possible opportunity, Cooney was receiving errorless support from the Spudder infield.

The Spudder series will be concluded Sunday with a double-header, Monday's game having been moved up to make the bargain bill possible. Manager Derrill Pratt will start Ed Carroll in the first game and either Harris or Art Reinhart in the afterpiece, Harris getting the assignment if he feels that his arm has had sufficient rest after going 16 innings Thursday. Manager Carl Williams declined to name his pitchers, but Flinn and Hillin are most likely to work.

Support Gives Way

Dumovich dominated Saturday's contest until his support became porous in the ninth and when the Buccaneers surprised everyone by giving him a two-run lead in the first.

The ninth inning opened with Dumovich, who fielded his position like a shortstop, throwing out Badgro. Fuss hit a high pop to Stuvengen who dropped the ball. It was the first error of the year for the first baseman. Scharein singled past Ballew and Fuss stopped at second. Bradbury sent a sure double play ball to Ballew and the crowd got ready to leave but Molesworth, trying to throw the relay before he caught it, dropped the Chief's perfect peg. Everybody was safe and Fuss scored the tying run. Bryant hit for Cooney and walked, filling the bases. Garms took the full count and dropped a single into right, scoring Scharein and Bradbury. Geygan doubled past third, Bryant and Garms spiking the platter.

Pressnell pitched the ninth inning for Wichita Falls. He retired Speer, Molesworth and Holmes in order to get credit for the victory.

Bucs Score Two

After Dumovich had retired the Spudders in order in the first Ballew doubled over Fuss' head. Mullen walked. Stuvengen sacrificed. Ballew counted as Geygan tossed out Bratcher. Speer walked. Molesworth singled to center, Mullen scoring but Speer was thrown out at third by Gullic.

Manager Carl Williams became confused in the fifth and all of the Spudders batted out of turn, but nobody got to first. After the second the visitors went out in order until the seventh when Holmes presented them with a tally. Gullic started the inning by getting a life as Molesworth booted his grounder. Badgro singled to right and Gullic trotted to third. Dumovich tightened his belt and forced Fuss to pop to Mullen, whiffed Scharein for the second time and had Bradbury pop to short right. But Holmes after camping under the fly, dropped it, Gullic scoring. Mullen threw out Garms.

The final Buccaneer threat came in the sixth and with any punch they would have scored. Stuvengen singled to center, Bratcher walked, and Speer sacrificed both runners along. However Molesworth and Holmes were easy infield outs.

INDIANAPOLIS RACE TO NET WINNERS $100,000

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 9.—Purses and special prizes for the winners of the 500-mile motor speedway race May 30 have mounted to approximately $100,000, it was announced by officials Saturday. This includes cash prizes offered by numerous manufacturers of gas, oil and accessories to the successful contestants who use their products.

Cliff Durant, who returns to active competition this year, is to ride in a new car powered with a motor of rotary valve construction. Engineering experts describe the power plant as replete with innovations. For Durant the race will be a test of the mechanical possibilities of the new creation.

SPUDDERS IN MARKET FOR INFIELD HAND AS BREWERS KEEP EULLER

Walter Euller, third baseman sold conditionally by the Wichita Falls club to Milwaukee of the American association, will not be returned to the Spudders, it was announced Saturday by President William E. Huff.

The Spudder president received definite notice from the Milwaukee club Saturday that Euller would be retained and that the full amount of the purchase price would be paid to the Spudders. At present Euller is playing third base regularly for the Brewers.

Prexy Huff announced that the Spudder club probably would purchase at least one infielder as soon as the opportunity was presented.

Four Records Go As Rice Owls Win Conference Meet

Houser of T. C. U., Aided By Wind, Beats Bracey's Century Mark

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, May 9. (AP)—The Rice institute Owls of Houston dethroned the Texas A. & M. Aggies as Southwest conference track and field champions here Saturday, winning the 17th annual meet with 48½ points. Texas A. & M. with 37 points and University of Texas with 35½ points finished second and third, respectively.

Four new records were established. Harlan, Texas A. & M. smashed the 120-yard high hurdles mark when he leaped the bars in 14.6. Burk, Rice institute, installed a new shot put record of 48 feet, 1½ inches. Richard Houser, Texas Christian university, shattered the 100-yard dash record with the fast time of 9.6 beating Claud Bracey's record of 9.7.

Holloway High Scorer

Stiteler, Texas A. & M., pole vaulted 13 feet, ¾ inches. Sprinters had a wind to their backs. Claude Bracey's record in this event was established in 1930. Bracey was a spectator Saturday.

The seven conference institutions finished in this order: Rice 48½ points; Texas A. & M. 37 points; University of Texas, 35½ points; Southern Methodist university 24 points; Texas Christian university 17 points; Baylor university 12 points and Arkansas university 2 points.

Ed Holloway, Rice, took individual honors with 10 points. Rice won the 440-yard relay, a new conference event, in 42.8.

Holloway pushed Houser hard in the century dash, but the Texas Christian flash, was a step in front at the finish. The 440-yard relay, won by Rice, composed of Holloway, Discol, Coffee and Jamerson, was the hardest fought and the thrill of the day. The University of Texas led until the home stretch when Rice pulled in front to win by inches.

Harlan Repeats

In the preliminaries Friday, Harlan of Texas A. & M., smashed the conference record in the low hurdles with 14.6 and Saturday he repeated. He erased the record of 15 seconds established by Wright, University of Texas in 1926. Strickland, all-round Baylor star, gave Harlan a close chase for 100 yards but weakened on the final 20 yards to finish second.

Howard Sprague, Southern Methodist university, was the first to break the shot put record with a heave of 48 feet, one-half inch. But Sprague's record did not stand long, for Burk of Rice established a better record in his final effort, shoving the shot 48 feet, 1½ inches.

Howard Sprague, Southern Methodist, was expected to threaten the conference discus mark of 153 feet, 4 inches, but his best throw was 149 feet, 7½ inches.

Outside of the mild wind Saturday was an ideal one for the participants. The running lanes were dry and fast.

MATE RUNS GREAT RACE TO DEFEAT FAVORITES IN PIMLICO PREAKNESS

BALTIMORE, Md., May 9. (AP)—Answering the challenge of the East's greatest three-year-olds, A. C. Bostwick's Mate charged down the old hilltop stretch to win the 40th running of the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

Forty thousand fans, the largest number ever to pack their way into a Maryland race track cheered and groaned as the little chestnut son of Principal turned back the highly-favored Twenty Grand from the Greentree stable and Equipoise carrying the famous Eton blue and brown-topped silks of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney.

Twenty Grand finished second but Equipoise, could do no better than fourth, as Walter J. Salmon's Ladder, an outsider, showed staying ability for the first time and finished third. Although placing second, the Greentree ace was one and one-half lengths back of flying Mate as the Bostwick silk flashed past the judges. A neck back came Ladder while a full length to the rear trailed Equipoise a weary horse.

Mate was forced to equal the Preakness record of 1:59 for the mile and three-sixteenths but he accomplished the task like a real champion. Under George Ellis' well-planned ride, he laid back in third place to the top of the stretch then with a few quick bounds picked up Morton L. Schwartz's Clock Tower and Ladder, moved out in front and never was headed.

Twenty Grand went to the post the slight favorite over Equipoise, while Mate was the third choice. He paid $10.20, $3.60 and $2.80 across the boards. Twenty Grand returned $2.70 to place and $2.30 to show, and a $2 show ticket on Ladder was worth $3.80.

Estell Pitches Cats Into Submission, 2-1

SAN ANTONIO, May 9. (AP)—Tom Estell turned a solo performance when he drove in the winning run, held the Panthers to a lone tally on 10 hits and started a double play to stop a prospective rally. San Antonio beat Fort Worth, 2 to 1, in the opening game of the series. San Antonio played errorless ball and made four double plays.

The Tribe scored its runs off Roy Hansen, young southpaw, in the fourth inning. The Cats scored in the second inning on Perry's double and Engle's single. Score:

Buffs 3, Steers 2

HOUSTON, Texas, May 9. (AP)—The strong right arm and the big bat of Dizzy Dean tonight carried the Houston Buffs to the top of the Texas league standing. Taking over the hurling duties in the eighth with the score tied at 2-all, Dean set the Steers down in hitless and runless fashion for four innings and then delivered the winning base knock in the 11th to give the Buffs a 3 to 2 victory over Dallas. It was Houston's ninth straight win.

Bailey-Moline Leads

Only two games are scheduled Sunday in the City league, Bailey-Moline Hardware company and Modern Woodmen having moved up their scheduled game and disposed of it Friday. The hardware nine stepped into the lead by winning the Friday game, 12 to 3, but I-O Boosters and Star Transfer company get chances to even the race in their Sunday tussles. I-O Boosters are to play Sullivan Grocery company and the transfer men are matched with P. D. Q.

The Bailey-Moline crew won its Friday contest with the Woodmen in handy fashion behind the tight chunking of Red Nichols, who limited the foe to three hits. The winners used their seven hits to best advantage and made them count for an even dozen runs. Score:

Malone's vs. Thornberry

Malone's Beauty shop team of the Commercial league is to play the Thornberry nine at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon on Harrison field, it was announced Saturday by Manager Roberson. Two weeks ago Malone's crew defeated Thornberry at Thornberry.

Challenges Chillicothe

A formal challenge to the Chillicothe Cubs was issued Saturday by the Empire Paper company team, an independent Wichita Falls club. The Empire team has won eight out of ten games, the victims including a number of Wichita Falls league and out of town teams.

OKLAHOMA WALTON MEET SCHEDULED AT LAWTON

LAWTON, Okla., May 9.—The local chapter of the organization is completing arrangements for the entertainment of delegates who will attend the state convention of the Izaak Walton league here on June 7, 8 and 9.

Elaborate preparations are being made to entertain these sportsmen and the entertainment program is expected to attract many who would not otherwise attend.

On May 7, opening day, a bathing beauty contest will be staged at Medicine park through cooperation of the Medicine Park company. Tempting prizes will be hung up in order to assure a large assemblage of Oklahoma and Texas beauties.

Auto Racers to Open Season Next Sunday

The opening races for the 1931 season at the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds half-mile speedway are scheduled for next Sunday at 2:30 o'clock, and as a special inducement to revive interest in the auto racing sport the management has announced that no admission will be charged at the main gate.

The program will consist of six professional events open to all professional cars and drivers of the country. About a dozen entries from various parts of the Southwest already have signified their intentions of being at the speed plant. In addition to the professional events a special matched race between a new model A Ford and a Chevrolet six is expected to arouse much interest. The popular entries in this race will be required to be of strictly stock models.

A balloon ascension with a mile high parachute jump will be made during the afternoon by Milton Ellis of San Antonio, hailed as America's youngest shoot jumper. This will be Ellis' maiden jump, and he is looking forward with much enthusiasm to his novel experience.

A lease has been signed by the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association with the Bowen's Auto Racing association of San Antonio for the 1931 season, according to announcement Saturday. This is the fourth consecutive year this racing organization has conducted the speed events here, and according to its president, W. W. Bowen, a number of high class racing cards will be held at the fair grounds plant during the summer and fall. Bowen arrived in Wichita Falls several days ago and will personally supervise the opening speed card.

Cardinals Bounce Bucs for Eighth Straight Victory

Athletics Rally In Late Innings To Whip Browns

Shakeup in Lineup Fails To Function as Red Sox Win Again

CHICAGO, May 9. (AP)—Lyn Lary provided the big punch for the New York Yankees Saturday as they celebrated Joe McCarthy day with a 13 to 9 victory over the White Sox to give them the league lead. Lary hit a homer with the bases full and a triple that drove home two more runs. Roy Sherid pitched a fine game for the Yanks up to the ninth inning. Then he was driven from the mound as the Sox scored seven runs before the second man was retired. Charley Ruffing stopped the rally. Score:

Williamson of Coyotes Is Third in Hurdles; San Angelo Is Runnerup

AUSTIN, May 9. (AP)—Ed Wicker of Woodrow Wilson High school, Dallas, was a powerful influence Saturday in giving his school the highest number of track and field points in the State Interscholastic league meet. He won outright, in his own name, two events and helped in the one-mile relay victory.

Wicker got the largest number of individual points, 11⅓, and his school's score was 15.

Wicker won the 220-yard dash in 22.5 seconds, the 100-yard dash in 10.3 seconds and did his part on his school's winning one-mile relay team which made the distance in 3 minutes, 28.3 seconds. Woodrow Wilson barely nosed out San Angelo in the relay, with the speedy Brothers performing in that group. Abilene withdrew from the relay at the last minute on account of an injury to Green, the anchor man.

Record in Discus

San Angelo was second in total points, scoring 10; Main avenue of San Antonio and San Jacinto high of Houston tied for third with nine each; Eagle Lake was next with 8, and Hallettsville gathered in seven.

J. C. Petty of Kaufman threw the discus 154 feet, 6½ inches to beat his former record of 151 feet, two inches.

Brothers of San Angelo made a sensational 880-yard run in one minute, 59.5 seconds for a new state record and one state official said was likely to stand for some time.

Randow of Hallettesville won the 120-yard high hurdles with 15.7 seconds, and Wicker of Woodrow Wilson, Dallas, swept the 100-yard dash in 10.3 seconds.

W. Wallace of Eagle Lake won the 220-yard low hurdles with 24.7 seconds.

Atkinson of North Dallas high made 12 feet 3½ inches in the pole vault event, breaking the former record of 12 feet, 2¾ inches.

The summary:

Running Broad Jump—L. Scrimsher, Main Avenue, San Antonio, 24 feet ½ inch; Gibson, Main Avenue, San Antonio, 22 feet 1 inch; Gray, John H. Reagan, Houston, 22 feet; Lankford, Breckenridge, 22 feet 6½ inches.

12-Pound Shot Put—Baker, Nacogdoches, 48 feet 2½ inches; second, Reynolds, Sherman; third, Erwin, Groveton; fourth, White, Mineral Wells.

Discus—Petty, Kaufman, 154 feet 6½ inches; second, Wolfe, Smithville, 124 feet 7 inches; third, Eaton, Electra, 122 feet 5 inches; fourth, Skirpka, Rosenberg, 118 feet.

880-Yard Run—Brothers, San Angelo, 1 minute 59.5 seconds; second, Bush, Sunset, Dallas; third, Simpson, San Angelo; fourth, Wright, Olney.

120-Yard High Hurdles—Randow, Hallettsville, 15.7 seconds; second, W. Wallace, Eagle Lake; third, Nowell, Slayden; fourth, Mac, Taft.

ABILENE NETSTER BAGS HIGH SCHOOL CROWN IN WIN OVER AUSTIN

AUSTIN, May 9. (AP)—Austin, Abilene and Masonic Home (Fort Worth) High school netters Saturday night shared honors as rulers of Texas high school tennis circles.

The feature match of the 1931 interscholastic league tourney came when Leo Brady of Abilene and Jack Taylor of Austin hooked up in a duel for supremacy in the boys' singles division. Brady vanquished Taylor after falling victim to a spirited rally during which the Austin finalist slipped over his shots to take the third and fourth sets 6-1 and 7-5. Brady took the first two sets counting 6-2 in each, and slammed out a 6-3 win in the fifth set to take the title.

The Masonic home girls registered a clean sweep in their division. The Fort Worth doubles team, La Verne Stages and Alva Mae Craig, conquered Wilma Perry and Charlie McGraw of Breckenridge in straight sets, 6-3, 7-6.

Juanita Bills of Masonic Home copped the girls' singles crown in straight sets, turning back Louise Houston of Paint Rock high, 6-4, 6-3, in the final after winning from Mabel Givens of Petrolia, 6-2, 6-1.

The Oak Cliff High school boys' doubles team, Julius Truelson and Hugh Frasier, were victims of the "fire ball" service of Grady Gray and Bruce Baxter of Austin, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

HORSESHOE TOSSERS IN MATCHES MONDAY NIGHT

The weather man has been unkind to the tossers of the Wichita Falls Horseshoe Pitchers association and no matches have been played the past 10 days.

The league will swing into action again Monday evening, using the schedule that was to have been played last week.

The schedule follows:

Floral Heights Presbyterian church vs. Panhandle Steel Products company, Southland Life Insurance company vs. American Refining company, M-K-T railroad vs. First Presbyterian church, Floral Heights vs. Southern Life, Katy railroad vs. American Refining and Panhandle Steel vs. First Presbyterian.

Peel Maintains Pace At Head of Swatters

Homer Peel, Houston, continues to lead the Texas league batting regulars with an average of .440, topped only by a few players who have participated in much fewer games. The Buff slugger's closest rival is Buck Stanton, Wichita Falls, .386, with Selph, Houston, in third place with .375. The titular leader is Todd, Dallas, with .457, a batting figure that has put him in the lineup instead of Tobin. In other departments, competition for places is keen. The leads are: Runs, E. Moore, Fort Worth, Cox, Fort Worth, Gullic, Wichita Falls, 18; Cotter, Dallas, Radcliff, Shreveport, Stanton, Wichita Falls, 17; hits, Peel, Houston, 33; Stanton, Wichita Falls, 32; Radcliffe, Shreveport, Cotter Dallas, Sanguinet, Galveston, 28; doubles, Speer, Galveston 9; Sanguinet, Galveston, 8; triples, Stanton, Wichita Falls, White, Beaumont, 4; home runs, Radcliff, Shreveport, Gullic, Wichita Falls 6; runs batted in, Gullic, Wichita Falls, 21; Radcliff, Shreveport, 18; Brown, Fort Worth, 17; stolen bases, Nash, San Antonio, 6; Sanders, Houston, White, Beaumont, 5.

Although the offense of the league leading Panthers has slumped, Fort Worth holds the club leading in batting average, runs, hits and runs driven in. Dallas tops in doubles, Wichita Falls and Galveston tie in triples, Shreveport leads in homers and San Antonio in stolen bases.

Whitworth, Fort Worth, is undefeated with four victories to his credit and Carlton of Houston leads in strike-outs, with 24. Club batting, records of pitchers credited with either victory or defeat, and individual batting through Thursday's games (less the Houston-Shreveport night contest) follow:

Yankees' Famous Cripple League's Leading Swatter

Ruth Socks Lusty .450 for Top Position; Ferrell Wins Five Games

CHICAGO, May 9. (AP)—The annual brief reign of rookies in the American league batting race ended during the third week of the campaign, and at the top, with a lusty .450 average was none other than George Herman Ruth, the well known New York Yankee cripple.

Unofficial averages, which include Wednesday's games, revealed that most of the youngsters had slipped out of the leading 10 circle, and that veterans had assumed their places.

Back of the Babe, who celebrated his return to action by adding 50 points to his average, was Lew Fonseca, Cleveland Indian first baseman who won the individual title in 1929, and Al Simmons, the siege gun of the champion Athletics. Fonseca gained 72 points to give him an average of .432, while Simmons slammed the pitching for an additional 131 points and was third with .417.

Cronin Ranks High

Other regulars in the first 10 were Alexander, Detroit, .418; Berry, Boston, .405; Fothergill, Chicago, .400; Spencer, Washington, .384; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .383; Van Camp, Boston, .378; Stone, Detroit, .375.

While he failed to make the select leading group, Joe Cronin, Washington's shortstop, headed the field in three offensive departments. He shared the runs batted in honors with Earl Averill of Cleveland, with 22; had hit safely 33 times, and had total bases amounting to 53. Jonathan Stone of Detroit, retained the home run leadership with five, although he failed to hit one out of the park during the week. Harry Rice, Washington outfielder, led in triples with four, while the 11 doubles by Dale Alexander, Tiger first baseman, was a best mark for the period. Base-stealing honors were shared by Ben Chapman, New York; Roy Johnson, Detroit; Lou Gehrig, New York, and Bill Cissell of Chicago, each of whom had swiped five. Du Blue of Chicago had scored the most runs, 18.

Ferrell Leads Tossers

Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's great young right-hander, won another game and had the most impressive pitching record—five victories and one defeat. Clint Brown of Cleveland, and Herb Pennock, veteran Yankee, each had won two games without suffering defeat. Henry Johnson, another Yankee, led in strikeouts, with 29 in six games, while Vic Sorrell of Detroit, continued as the wild man of the league, having walked 20 batsmen in five games.

Cleveland's collective batting average fell off 14 points to .317, but the Indians still were the only outfit to hit .300 or better. Washington gained a point and was second with .293. The Athletics retained their .987 fielding average and continued to lead, with Detroit second at .973. The Tigers also had clipped off 21 double plays to lead.

WAGGONER APPOINTED OLYMPIC GAMES AGENT

T. J. Waggoner Jr., president of the Junior chamber of commerce here, has been named representative in the Wichita Falls district in the cooperation being given by the national junior with the American Olympic association which is making arrangements for the Olympic games to be held in Los Angeles in 1932.

Just what the duties of the district representative will be was uncertain, although presumably, it was said at the junior chamber that they will be to obtain names of prospective competitors for places on the American team.

MASKAT TEMPLE TO PRESENT PROGRAM HERE MONDAY NIGHT

A program of a nature similar to those offered by members of Maskat temple on their goodwill tours to various cities in this territory will be given at the Memorial auditorium Monday night in what has been designated by Potentate W. B. Hamilton as "a home goodwill trip."

The program, which is to be given at the Memorial auditorium, is to be preceded by a band concert at Eighth and Scott, with Gerald Pond directing the Maskat band, and a drill by the Maskat patrol, directed by Capt. Ray Wilhite and Lieuts. J. T. Yeargin and R. P. Brouthertin.

The program proper begins in the auditorium at 8:15 o'clock, and will include a one-act play by the Little theater, music by the Wichita Falls high school orchestra and high school male quartet, dances by pupils of the Knickerbocker school of fine arts, solos by Mrs. Wayne Holmes and Mrs. Ray Wilhite, numbers by Jesse Smith's orchestra and a Masonic talk by Ed Peterson.

WOMAN INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT RECOVERING

Mrs. Frank J. Northcutt, 906 Kemp, still was confined to her bed Saturday as the result of injuries received Friday night when the automobile she occupied struck another machine parked at the curb at Ninth and Holliday. She was forced to turn toward the curb to avoid a collision with a speeding machine, she reported to police.

The car at the curb belonged to Mrs. J. C. Philo, 1711 Collins, and was unoccupied. It was erroneously stated in Saturday's Times that Mrs. Philo was in the parked car.

Indoor Carnival And Circus to Be Held May 18 to 23

The indoor carnival and circus known as the Northwest Texas exposition which is being sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club, will be held at 1012 Scott from May 18 to 23, inclusive.

The booths are almost completed and no doubt the last of this week will find them in the order that will suit every one of the clubs that are going to operate them.

The following clubs have signed applications to operate booths: Austin P.-T. A., Barwise P.-T. A., the Wilson grove division of the W. O. W., Junior Business Girls club, the W. B. A.'s, the Ladies Auxiliary to Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Wichita Kennel club, and the Business and Professional Women's club. At this time numerous applications are expected to be mailed in the next few days, as the service, social, business and fraternal clubs are invited to participate in this affair, therefore any club without an application should apply to the exposition headquarters at 529 Waggoner building in order to make reservation for a booth.

"The cooperation extended so far by the progressive business and professional men of the city is certainly highly appreciated," said Mrs. Butler.

Panzuerita, the advance attraction on KGKO, is growing popular, as signified by the increase in the amount of her letters, and she predicts that there will be plenty of people at the carnival, not only from Wichita Falls, but from the surrounding territory.

Another Autogiro

DETROIT.—Plans are being developed for the construction of an autogiro by the Buhl Aircraft corporation. This is the first aircraft company in Detroit to undertake construction of this type of plane and one of the three in the United States.

STORAGE CAPACITY GREATLY INCREASED AT GRAIN CENTERS

WASHINGTON, May 8. (AP)—An increase of more than 40,000,000 bushels in storage capacity at 14 of the country's largest grain markets was reported today by the agriculture department.

Concern has been expressed that insufficient storage space would be available July 1 when this year's large crop moves into the market in view of the large grain stocks held by the grain stabilization corporation and other agencies.

The department said a survey showed a rated storage capacity of 343,595,000 bushels April 1 at these 14 markets as compared with 301,359,000 July 1. Despite this increase, however, the stocks of grain in store were said to have also increased with the result that the unfilled space available May 1 was approximately the same as that of a year ago. At southwestern markets less unfilled space was reported as compared with last year, but trade reports indicate the probability of a relatively heavy movement from them during the next two months.

The grain stabilization corporation announced a week ago that it had sold an amount estimated at 20,000,000 bushels held at some of these markets.

AERO CLUB IN SWEDEN AWARDS GOLD MEDAL TO CAPT. ALBIN AHRENBERG

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 9. (AP)—The Swedish Aero club today awarded Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish civilian pilot, its gold medal in recognition of his flight to Greenland to attempt rescue of Augustine Courtauld, missing British scientist who spent the winter on the Greenland ice cap.

New Method Of Hair Waving Is Introduced Here

Permanent waving without the overhanging machinery that resembles instruments of torture is effected through the newest development in waving, a new machine which is beginning to appear in Wichita Falls.

With the new type machine, the person whose hair is being waved looks as if she had her hair rolled up on kid curlers, and there is only one wire connected to the machine, which looks like a radio. There is a heat regulator similar to those on gas ovens, and the amount of heat can be determined by the type of hair and the kind of wave. The person being waved may walk around during the process.

Mrs. J. E. Caraway, 1203 Broad, has recently installed a new model of this type and is using it exclusively in preference to the overhead models. Croquignole waves may be given and yet the wave may be kept closer to the part, according to Mrs. Caraway, and there is more wave for less heat.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE ELECTION CONTEST SET FOR MONDAY

The petition seeking to set aside the election of three school trustees in Iowa Park has been set for trial before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Monday.

The suit asks that the election be declared void on the grounds that certain election officials had not paid their 1930 poll taxes.

The plaintiff is Brady McKenzie and the three trustees named as defendants are John C. Murphree, M. B. Cain and R. C. Acuff.

W. E. George is attorney for the plaintiff and Thelbert Martin, Harvey Harris and Mr. Murphree are defense counsel.

GEORGE J. TAFT HEIRS SUE INSURANCE COMPANY

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (UP)—Heirs of George J. Taft, Garber, filed suit in district court here today for $50,000 against the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York.

Taft died Oct. 15, 1930, from gunshot wounds mysteriously inflicted. He was found the previous night on a highway clad only in pajamas and fatally wounded.

The suit claimed Taft had a $25,000 policy in the New York Insurance company with a provision for a $50,000 payment in case of accidental death. The suit was brought by the widow and the surviving children.

COTTON CARNIVAL WEEK WILL BE OBSERVED BY LOCAL STORES

SPECIAL DISPLAYS TO SHOW BUYERS ITEMS MADE FROM COTTON WEEK OF MAY 18-23

By FRED L. HASKETT

Merchants of Wichita Falls will celebrate the week beginning Monday, May 18 with a cotton carnival. The purpose of the carnival is to acquaint the public of the many items of merchandise that is manufactured from cotton, a staple crop of Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma, and to increase consumption of the products. In doing this it is for the purpose of stimulating better prices for raw cotton that will be grown and marketed by the farmers this season.

Many Uses for Cotton

Few realize the many and varied items of commerce into which cotton goes. Cotton enters into the manufacture of automobile paints, house paints and interior finishing. Cotton is used in the making of many fabrics, and is fast displacing silk in the form of rayon.

Cotton seed enter into the making of many kinds of oils for cooking and salads. Its use is becoming so widespread that chemists are continually working to devise substitutes for products manufactured from cotton seed.

As the use of cotton products expands just that much better market is created for the West Texas farmer. The farmers can become heavy consumers of the cotton they produce, if they will only demand products made from cotton.

The making of automobile tires consumes many thousands of bales of cotton annually. The paint manufacturers are using more cotton each year. Rayon, made from low grade cotton, is having an effect upon the value of linters and low grades that once were almost like the mountains of sawdust about a sawmill. Thanks to the American chemists—the waste products of cotton are being made of value.

Paper Made of Cotton

Paper, that is the better grades, is made of cotton. Cotton enters largely into the making of shoes. The demand for cotton fabric during the spring of 1931 has been the heaviest for many season. Women who love to dress in a charming fashion are chosing cotton goods this season.

Cotton consumption can be greatly increased if the farmers will demand ginners to use cotton for wrapping bales of cotton. On a basis of a 12,000,000-bale crop, if 20-ounce cotton bagging would be used it would require 192,000 bales of raw cotton to make the bagging. If 16-ounce bagging would be used it would mean the consumption of 144,000 bales.

Farmers should endeavor to learn what oils are used in the making of soap that is used in the farm home. Likewise, every citizen of Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma should make an effort to know. Thousands of tons of cocoanut and bean oil is imported into the United States to manufacture soap. Soap that is made from cottonseed oil should be demanded.

The same is true in cooking oils. If the oil is made from imported oils then demand a product that is manufactured of the product, cotton, which is grown in this country.

An Educational Event

Cotton Carnival week in Wichita Falls is going to be educational. The merchants are going to display products manufactured from cotton. There will be special displays that will be not only interesting but educational. The effort the merchants are making is not to sell cotton goods for just one week, or products made of cotton, but to educate the public to use products that come from cotton each week in the year, and from year to year.

During Cotton Carnival week bales of cotton will be displayed on every prominent business corner in the downtown section of the city. Merchants will advertise the things made of cotton. Bargain prices will be made so as to encourage the public to buy and learn for themselves the value of products that are derived from cotton.

Wholesalers, jobbers, bankers and retail merchants in every line of endeavor, are entering into the Cotton Carnival week. There will be special musical attractions. Local hotels will offer free rooms to out of town visitors during the daytime hours. The theaters will have special attractions.

Cotton Carnival week is being sponsored by the retail merchants division of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce. The organization, states its president, J. L. Jackson Jr., hopes that every neighboring city and every town and city in Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma will conduct Cotton Carnival weeks within the next few weeks. Special courtesies will be extended visiting merchants or trade committees who may come to Wichita Falls next week to study the scheme that has been devised here to increase consumption of cotton.

GRANDFIELD FIRM IS GIVEN BRIDGE JOBS IN WHEELER COUNTY

Witt, Williams and Tatum, contractors at Grandfield, Okla., were awarded the construction of three concrete and steel bridges to be built in Wheeler county. The awards were made by the Texas Highway commission.

The bridges are to be built in the vicinity of Mobeetie, and will cost $17,000. The work order is expected within a few days and three crews will be placed at work on the jobs.

Wheeler county is one of the richest counties in the Eastern Panhandle. The Rock Island runs along the south line of the county and the Santa Fe follows the north line. The new railroad, the Denver and Northern will touch the county at Shamrock, thence northwest to Gray county.

The citizens of Wheeler, county seat, have fought hard for 40 years to secure a railroad. The richest section of the county from an agricultural standpoint is the central and northern portions. Wheeler citizens hope that the time is near when the railroad will be secured, and have confidence that the Burlington will build into the county seat.

CONFESSED SLAYER OF OFFICER READY TO PLEAD GUILTY

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—Francis Crowley, confessed slayer of a policeman, raised his head from a hospital pillow today and signified to a black-robed judge that he wanted to die quickly.

"How do you plead?" demanded County Judge Smith, who had gone to Nassau county hospital for the arraignment for the first degree murder.

"Guilty," murmured the wounded youth after a look at detectives standing grimly about his bed.

The judge said he could not accept the plea and evidence must be presented in court. He appointed Charles R. Weeks to defend Crowley and set the trial for Monday.

Salvatore Russo, 19, informed District Attorney Edwards that Crowley and Duringer were paid $150 each to take Virginia Brannen, taxi dancer, "for a ride" because the vice syndicate feared she might testify at the Seabury vice inquiry. Duringer insists he killed the girl because she was leaving him to marry "a nice boy in the bronx."

WILD GUSHER TO BE BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL SUNDAY

GLADEWATER, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Sinclair officials said tonight that the wild Cole well near Gladewater probably would be shut in with about three hours' work tomorrow. It was brought partially under control today with a control head and valve on nine-inch brass pipe.

Tonight the big well had been spouting for 13 days, during eight of which it was on fire. Nine men were killed when the spark set it off. Sinclair officials estimated that it was still making 40,000 barrels daily. Some estimates were a bit lower, but J. M. Clevenger, Sinclair farm boss, said he believed 40,000 a reasonable figure. At that rate the flow so far would have amounted to 520,000 barrels—enough to load a tank car train more than 14 miles long.

MEXICO CITY SPECIAL FROM AMARILLO ASSURED

AMARILLO, May 9. (AP)—Enough reservations had been received today to assure the special train to Mexico City, which is being sponsored by the News-Globe, it was announced by Wilbur C. Hawk, general manager of the newspapers and president of the Tri-State fair.

Hawk said the train, which is being run to invite President Ortiz Rubio to attend the Tri-State fair this fall, would carry 136 passengers, every berth being taken.

CITY NATIONAL BANK EMPLOYES' GRADUATION EXERCISES CONDUCTED

A view of those who attended the graduation exercises of the City National bank employes held Thursday evening in the directors room in the bank. The class was awarded diplomas by the American Institute of Banking. The course consumed five years of study and of the original class of 33 members, 23 of the number finished. The diplomas were presented by J. T. Harrell, president of the bank. Members of the class were W. S. Abbott, Robert E. Basham, Ray F. Bowmer, Chas. P. Brandon, Hoyse H. Carson, Bonnie Carter, Ethel Covington, Frank A. Foster, E. J. Goodlett, Paul E. Harrell, J. Hobart Hicks, Jack M. Jeffus, Oral A. Jones, C. E. McWhirter, James S. Minton, J. L. Randel, C. V. Reynolds, Allen T. Rowan, T. A. Smith, H. P. Thomas, Richard W. Thomason, L. R. Thurman and R. H. Wilhite. The president of the class was Ray F. Bowmer and E. J. Goodlett, secretary.

BRIDGE IS OFFERED WICHITA COUNTY BY GRANDFIELD OWNERS

J. E. Bryant has given information to the Burkburnett Star that the stockholders of the Grandfield bridge are willing to give the bridge to Tillman county, Oklahoma, and Wichita county, Texas, in event the county officials will agree to maintain the structure.

This bridge was one of the most important across the Red river a few years ago but due to construction of free bridges much of the income has been lost.

Business leaders of Burkburnett, and no doubt Frederick is equally interested, are anxious for some action to be taken by the officials of the two counties.

HEADLIGHTS

F. L. H.

There is a determination upon the part of a number of retail merchants of Wichita Falls to create a stronger and better market for farm products in Wichita Falls. This has been brought about through work to create better conditions for the farmers, and the further fact that the concensus of opinion that Wichita Falls merchants must look more to rural business as a future basis of growth and prosperity.

As the idea grows into the minds of retail merchants just that soon will steps be taken to create a greater market center in Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls has not found it necessary for many years to cater to the farm trade. The business that was offered was taken care of in a manner that may not have always brought the farmer back. The farmer has his pecularities, the same as all of us, and to win his friendship he must be given attention.

The farmer is by nature a producer. He has never been very successful in marketing. He looks to the merchant to see that he is given a good market, and in event such is not given at home he will travel out of the way to reach a better market.

That can be proven in the older sections of the state. In the old days, and still in effect a town that buys cotton for less than buyers in a neighboring town pay falls to get much cotton. In the old days a farmer would haul cotton, a bale or two on a wagon, from 20 to 30 miles greater distance just to get a dollar a bale extra.

The modern business man would not think that profitable. To the farmer it was not whether he made money or lost in hauling the longer distance but it was loyalty to the buyer who would pay the top price.

Today farm marketing is done differently. Most farmers use cars and trucks to market their products. The difference in 5, 10 or 15 miles is just a matter of a few minutes and maybe a dime's worth more gas. For that reason the modern merchant must look with appreciation that the farmer comes to his store, and also must see that the farmer is given a strong local market.

The retail merchants of Wichita Falls who neglect the interest of the farmer are also neglecting their own interest. It costs the farmer nothing, in fact he made profit more by going elsewhere, but the merchant stands a small chance to gain the lost trade from another source.

Paramount to the future of Wichita Falls is a strong farm product market. The time to start building that kind of a market is now—not next year.

KATY'S NET INCOME SHOWS LOSS IN 1930

ST. LOUIS, Ma. 9. (UP)—Net income of Missouri-Kansas-Texas totaled $7,082,547 for 1930, a decrease of $1,443,693 from the net income for 1929, according to a report issued today by M. H. Cahill, president and chairman of the board.

SAN ANTONIO WOMAN MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Mrs. Melton L. Tampke, 26, was taken to the Robert B. Green Memorial hospital late Saturday afternoon shot through the body with a .45 caliber revolver.

The shooting apparently took place in a rear bedroom of the house. At the hospital it was said the bullet had entered her left breast and passed through the body emerging under the left shoulder blade. Her condition is said to be critical.

Questioned on the way to the hospital she said someone had come into the room, shot her, then fled before she saw who it was.

Bugs Baer Weds Louise Andrews Ziegfeld Beauty

NEW YORK, May 9. (US)—Slipping casually from the midst of his male friends, Arthur "Bugs" Baer, famous humorous commentator of Universal Service, sped to New Jersey today and married Louise Andrews, a Ziegfeld beauty.

They were united by a justice of the peace in Union Hill, N. J., with only the girl's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Andrews, 215 W. Ninety-second street as witnesses.

"Bugs" and his bride returned to New York and were en route to Chicago on the Twentieth Century limited before Broadway became cognizant of the event. Then it developed that the humorist had been sitting with a few friends in a Times square tavern, as though idling, when suddenly he arose and said:

"Excuse me while I telephone."

It was some time before the friends went to look for Baer, deciding it was a pretty long telephone conversation. Two hours later, they learned of the ceremony.

His bride is 23 and was born in Lafayette, Ind. Her uncle owns the Vanderbilt theater. Baer's first wife, Margery Casaidy Baer, died two years ago, leaving a daughter, now 3, whom Baer affectionately calls "Bugleta."

CLARA BOW RESPONDS TO SANITARIUM TREATMENT

GLENDALE, Calif., May 9. (US)—Clara Bow, "it girl" of the films, was today reported as rapidly responding to treatment in a sanitarium here where she was brought several days ago suffering from a nervous breakdown. Paramount officials continued to deny that Miss Bow will retire from moving pictures.

Burkburnett Newspaper Under New Management and Effort Started to Build Up Dairy Center for Farmers

The Burkburnett Star has been leased by Ben L. McDonald to W. F. Billingslea and N. B. Hatcher. Mr. Hatcher is a practical printer and former editor of the Daily Valley Review, Edinburg, Texas.

The new management is starting off to take a constructive part in the upbuilding of Burkburnett and the farming area served by that splendid town, once famous in history as the world's greatest oil town.

The first announcement made by the editor is that Burkburnett is to be built into a marketing place for dairy products. Editor Hatcher stated that on April 15 he left Falfurrias, down the Rio Grande section, and on that day the creameries were paying 28 cents per pound for sweet butterfat and taking every pound that the farmers could deliver.

Commenting further on what is being done in the Falfurrias section the editorial said:

"Farmers in that section all have a dairy herd and are doing well. They raise their own feed, give the skimmed milk to hogs and chickens, sell butterfat, do general farming and consequently when they grow a crop for market they do not owe for a year's living, as they have been getting money all along. County agents and business men there have gotten behind the farmer and urged him to put in high grade and registered Jerseys—another item which goes far in making the industry a success. The Ed Lassiter herd of Jerseys, near Falfurrias, consists of 2,250 head of cows, 1,850 of which are registered. The King ranch also has many prize-winning Jerseys, as well as many of the lesser lights in that vicinity."

IOWA PARK PASTOR TO PREACH BACCALAUREATE SERMON AT BYERS SUNDAY

BYERS, Texas, May 9.—Events incident to the closing of the Byers public school commenced with the school fair. The exhibits were examined and commended by a large number of patrons and friends. County Attorney Will Glasgow of Henrietta was the principal speaker, and complimented highly the work accomplished in the Byers school.

Thursday evening the senior play was enjoyed by a large crowd in the school auditorium. "A Little Clodhopper" was presented Saturday night May 9 by the sophomores and freshmen. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached Sunday, May 10, by the Rev. Clark Russell, a former pastor of Byers, but now pastor of the First Methodist church of Iowa Park. Commencement exercises are to be held Friday, May 15, with the Rev. O. C. Broach, pastor of the local Baptist church delivering the commencement address.

Superintendent Richardson and patrons are well pleased with the achievements the pupils have attained the past school season and are proud of the graduating class of nine girls and 11 boys. Honor graduates among the girls are Lorena Hopkins, and Dorothy Householder; boys, Willie Jones and Boyner Cummings.

"Hornet Stings," the school paper published by the pupils has been acclaimed as one of the best high school papers in the state and commended by the department of journalism at Austin as being "lively, splendid and interesting."

As evidence of the satisfactory work completed the past year by the faculty, at a recent meeting of the school board, all were re-elected.

KLAN HOODS MAY BE PUT ON BLOCK

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (UP)—Hoods and equipment of the Ku Klux Klan may have to be sold to satisfy an alleged debt of $1,500.

Court Clerk Cliff Myers today issued an attachment on C. E. Hoffman to "hold all funds and properties owned by the Ku Klux Klan, realm of Oklahoma."

The attachment was issued after a suit had been filed by Ira Shurtz, who contended he held a $1,500 note, dated Aug. 16, 1929, and signed by Hoffman as grand dragon.

Hoffman said today he had no connection with the klan at this time and had not since 1926.

LAST RAILS LAID OVER NEW BRIDGE ACROSS CANADIAN

AMARILLO, Texas, May 9. (AP)—The last spike was driven today in rails over the Santa Fe's million dollar bridge across the Canadian river, on the new line between Amarillo and Las Animas, Colo.

The laying of rails across the Canadian marked the completion of the line as far as Boise City, Okla., 124 miles northwest of Amarillo.

Light traffic over the new line will be inaugurated May 15, and the first trains will be run over the Spearman-Morse branch of 30 miles on the same date. Completion of the lines will be celebrated at the new town of Morse, about 80 miles north of Amarillo, where the new Spearman branch ties up with the joint Santa Fe and Rock Island track between Morse and Dumas. Morse is making preparations to entertain thousands of Panhandle people at the celebration.

Formal opening of the Amarillo-Boise City line will not be held until some time in June, Santa Fe officials said.

Construction began early last fall. The line represents an expenditure of more than $5,000,000. The new Canadian bridge is considered one of the greatest engineering feats in the Southwest.

GOLDEN TO SUCCEED WOFFORD AS HEAD OF VALLEY VIEW SCHOOL

VALLEY VIEW SCHOOL, May 9.—J. B. Golden has been elected superintendent of the Valley View school to succeed C. R. Wofford, who has accepted appointment as superintendent of the King High school in Hardeman county. New members of the teaching staff of the school next term will include Bob Stowe, principal from the Iowa Park schools; Miss Watson, third grade, from the Newcastle schools; Miss Margie Moore, English, from the County Line school, and Miss Jewell Thompson of Iowa Park, art and music.

Other teachers will include Misses Clara Smith and Loree Redding, first grade; Irene Rollan and Hazel Jones, second grade; Juanita Chapin, third; Zella Thompson and Helen Van Deventer, Spanish and English; Camelia Kirkland, home economics. Two vacancies are yet to be filled.

Coach L. T. Schroeder has resigned to become principal of the King High school under Superintendent Wofford. Miss Zola Miller also goes to the King High school as science teacher.

Hawks in France

PARIS, May 9. (AP)—Capt. Frank Hawks flew from Le Bourget to Doual, about 125 miles, in 34 minutes today without even trying for a speed record. He made the trip for pleasure, joining some other fliers at Doual for an air tour of France.

Divorce Mill at Reno Grinds Out 122 Decrees First Week New Law Total of 275 Cases Filed to Date

RENO, Nev., May 9. (AP)—Reno's divorce mill ground out 122 decrees and a total of 275 cases were filed in the first week under the new 42-day residence law, figures compiled tonight showed.

Many of the cases awaiting trial will be disposed of next week in the two district courts. Forty-seven are set for hearing Monday.

The heaviest trial day on record was last Monday, 85 Couples being divorced. The opening rush when the law became effective last Saturday saw the filing of 184 cases.

Viewing the results, officials, business men, attorneys—and gambling house proprietors who help the visitors while away their time—declared business was good and justified their expectations of what the new legislation would produce in the way of revenue, as well as protect Reno's position as a divorce center against bids of cities in Idaho and Arkansas where 90-day residence laws have been enacted.

In court filing fees alone, more than $6,000 was taken in the first week, to be applied to county salary funds.

Lady June Inverclyde, English musical comedy star, and Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion are leading members of the present divorce colony.

In addition to divorce business, County Clerk Biemer was busy yesterday issuing 37 marriage licenses, virtually all of which went to Californians.

The brides and grooms, many of them taking advantage of low fare train rates, mostly came from the San Francisco bay region. Reno was thronged with more than 1,000 visitors yesterday and last night, and gambling casinos and night clubs did a rushing business.

President Gives Approval to Plans For Mobilization Last of May Of Greatest Aerial Armada in History

WASHINGTON, May 9. (US)—President Hoover himself has personally approved the plans for the mobilization of the greatest air armada in world history the latter part of this month, it was learned today.

From his camp at the headwaters of the Rapidan river in Virginia, where he is in conference with Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, he issued orders today to Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, assistant chief of the army air service, who is in charge of the maneuvers, to carry them on as planned.

The president took the position, it was stated, that the two or three million dollars which would be required for fuel, transportation, spare parts and extra pay for the aviation corps for this demonstration, would be expanded ordinarily in the various flying corps units by the end of the fiscal year. It has been appropriated for the purpose of training and in the view of the president the maneuvers on such a large scale will prove to be the most practical the army has ever had.

The president takes the view, it was stated, that airplanes as well as ships should always be ready for service. This, he says, disposes of the item of expense involved.

Believes in Planes

He has taken the position, it was stated, that in any future war the nation which can mobilize the largest number of planes at any strategic point will be the victor.

With some 700 planes in various formations flying from Dayton to New York, Philadelphia and Boston, corps commanders will get their first experience in commanding a large number of ships and the training will be invaluable, the president believes.

Army air corps stations from coast to coast were bustling today in preparation for the departure of the planes which are to concentrate at Dayton on May 15, when the first air division, under command of Brigadier General Foulois, will be formed.

The 95th pursuit squadron left San Diego today for Sacremento to join other pursuit organizations which will take off tomorrow morning for the East, with overnight stops at Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, Omaha, Denver and Rantoul, Ill.

Two pursuit organizations will come from Texas and Michigan. The former will take off on Wednesday, with overnight stops at Post field and St. Louis. The latter will fly non-stop from Detroit to Dayton.

To Fly Over Texas

Pacific coast bombardment will mobilize at San Diego tomorrow and start East Monday, with overnight stops at El Paso, Dallas, Memphis and Louisville. East coast bombardment will leave Langley field, Virginia, on Thursday, with an overnight stop at Cleveland, while Texas bombardment takes off on Wednesday, with overnight stops at Maxwell field and Louisville.

Three hundred observation planes will wing their way from all parts of the country toward Dayton during the next few days. California observation goes by way of Riverside, Albuquerque, Kansas City and St. Louis, starting tomorrow. Texas and Oklahoma observation squadrons will take off on Wednesday by way of Post field, St. Louis, Jackson, Chattanooga and Little Rock. Observation units from New York, New England and Alabama will start on Wednesday, with overnight stops at Columbia and Chattanooga.

The third attack group will be augmented at Galveston on Tuesday by the 204th attack squadron from San Antonio and start for Dayton on Wednesday, by way of Montgomery and Nashville, where overnight stops will be made.

The 95 national guard planes, representing 19 states, will arrive at Dayton on Wednesday, where they will be organized into the 22nd observation wing.

The entire division will have maneuvers over Chicago on May 20 and over New York May 22 and 23.

HONORARY MEDAL FOR MELLON BROTHERS BY INSTITUTE OF CHEMISTS

WASHINGTON, May 9. (AP)—An honorary medal for aid given scientific research over the past 20 years was presented today to Andrew W. and Richard B. Mellon by the American Institute of Chemists.

The secretary of the treasury, who is 76, and his brother, a 73-year-old Pittsburgh banker, have donated millions to scientific research. Announcement of the award was made last March 24 on the secretary's birthday.

The secretary replied briefly to the presentation speech, thanking the institute and saying he and his brother felt privileged to have been able to play the part they did in advancing the research work.

The largest telephone booth ever built was in the White House during the administration of President Taft.

BRAZOS BRIDGE TO BE ERECTED SOON IN YOUNG COUNTY

The commissioners' court of Young county has authorized the issuance of $75,000 in warrants for the construction of a new bridge over the Brazos river west of Newcastle.

The bridge was lost a few months past when the structure collapsed after heavy rainfalls. The bridge served a large area of the western portion of Young county and was also an important crossing of the river for tourists going from West Texas downstate.

The state highway commission is expected to supplement the county funds sufficiently to construct one of the finest bridges ever built over the Brazos river.

Work on the bridge is expected to start soon and employment will be given to many of the unemployed of Young county. The construction of this bridge and the new courthouse at Graham gives Young county one of the largest public construction programs of any county in Western Texas.

BUCHAREST POLICE UNCOVER PLOT TO KILL KING CAROL

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 9. (AP)—The police were reported today to have uncovered a plot to assassinate King Carol tomorrow on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the enthronement of Carol I.

Although the police issued an unqualified denial, the report was to the effect that authorities had arrested an individual who lay concealed under the stands from which King Carol and the royal family planned to watch the military parade. He was reported to have been armed with a loaded revolver.

CONVICTED BANK ROBBER IN PRISON AFTER EFFORT TO ESCAPE IN NEBRASKA

HASTINGS, Neb., May 9. (AP)—James Thomas, 33, convicted bank robber, today escaped from jail here was recaptured, sentenced to 25 years in prison and placed in the state penitentiary at Lincoln.

Within 12 hours after Thomas of Amarillo, Texas, sawed his way to freedom, he was in prison. His escape was discovered at 3:15 a. m., by Night Jailer Charles Sherman. Sheriff Crosson immediately spread the alarm. Radio stations broadcast the news and Nebraska and Kansas officers were requested to join the search.

When the courthouse was opened this morning Deputy County Treasurer found Thomas hiding behind some boxes on a shelf eight feet above the floor in his office. Officers rushed to the room and commanded the fugitive to surrender.

SIMMONS COWBOY BAND PLAYS AT IOWA PARK

IOWA PARK, Texas, May 9.—Iowa Park school children and citizens filled the W. F. George High school auditorium to capacity Friday morning from 11 till 12 o'clock to hear a concert by the famous Cowboy band of Simmons university.

Tom L. Burnett, a specially invited guest, was honored by the director, D. O. Wiley, who announced that two of Mr. Burnett's favorite pieces, "Dixie" and "The Old Gray Mare" were played for him. "The Stars and Stripes Forever" was played by the Triangle band of Iowa Park, directed by Karl Goetze and founded by Mr. Burnett.

Music was supplemented by roping and cowboy stage tricks and it was made known that the band's visit to Iowa Park was made possible through the chamber of commerce and cooperation of Karl Goetze.

Claim Bread Prices Fair

The Texas Bakers' association is to conduct a survey of the conditions in Texas and endeavor to recover from the deplorable condition that now exists in the industry. The bakers will also endeavor to convince the public that bread prices are not unreasonable.

LOCATIONS IN COOKE AND YOUNG FEATURE INACTIVE WEEK

Test of Deep Oil Development Firm Near Kemp City Continues to Hold Center of Interest in Local Area

By JIMMIE MAXWELL.

Operations throughout the Wichita Falls district and other North Texas fields in the past week failed to bring to light anything of an interesting nature. A few completions were reported, dry holes and producers. New locations were staked, Cooke and Young counties furnishing the major portion, but as a whole the oil situation remained the same as in the several previous weeks.

Among the deep tests watched with interest is the Deep Oil Development No. 1 Munger north of Kemp City, which is cleaning out after setting seven-inch pipe preparatory to setting a liner. The well, which is caving badly from 300 feet of open hole, continues to flow by heads at each run of the swab. New tankage is being erected, a battery of four 200-barrel steel tanks having reached the location.

The same company's No. 1 Hirschi in the north part of the county is nearing the contract depth of 6,000 feet and is drilling in hard lime at 5870 feet.

A checkup of wells in actual drilling in the different fields registered a total of 43, with approximately 90 tests shut down in various stages of completion.

Pipe line runs for the week ending showed an average of 60,938 barrels per day for the entire district.

East Texas Oil

LONGVIEW, Texas, May 9. (AP)—The Sinclair Oil and Gas company today had four new locations in the Lathrop pool and crews were busy rigging them up in preparation for spudding in tests.

The four locations were in a line extending north and south and were within a few hundred feet of each other. They are on the highway seven miles west of Longview in the Castleberry survey. The tests offset tests being drilled by the Pennworth Drilling company and the F. & M. Drilling company. The Pennworth test is being put down by the Primrose Oil company on a tract owned by K. C. Moser of Oklahoma City.

KILGORE, Texas, May 9. (AP)—The National Securities company's No. 1 J. A. Knowles, one block from the heart of the business section of Kilgore, was completed early today and the flow turned into tanks without the well being cleaned. It extended the production area half a mile northeastward.

No gauging was to be taken until the well had been cleaned. Drillers had difficulty in completing the well because they could not swab it and clean it out by turning the flow into a slush pit. Such procedure, it was feared, would have resulted in a fire because automobile traffic was passing on a road 50 feet away.

Extra precautions were taken to prevent a fire, the Kilgore fire department being present with chemicals. Fires in all nearby buildings were ordered extinguished. Police prevented smoking among hundreds of spectators.

Oil was found at a depth of 3586 feet, 44 feet in the sand. Gas production was estimated at 1,000,000 cubic feet daily. Mud was poured in to hold it back until connections could be made.

LONGVIEW, Texas, May 9. (AP)—J. L. Martin, deputy supervisor of the oil and gas division of the Texas Railroad commission, today requested that drilling companies and individuals observe more closely rules of the oil and gas conservation law dealing with identification of oil wells.

"We are having a great deal of trouble with violators of the rule," Martin said. "It makes our work much more difficult when we arrive at a location and find no sign of identification on the derrick. Thus far we have not seen fit to fine any drillers for this offense but shall have to do so if the situation is not soon remedied."

FORT STOCKTON, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Work of laying the main line of the Big Bend Pipe Line company from its wells 22 miles north of Fort Stockton to the city limits has started and today officials predicted Fort Stockton would have natural fuel gas for domestic use by July 4. A high pressure line will be connected with the Pecos valley wells, with a total volume of 50,000,000 cubic feet daily. The line will be extended to Alpine and Marfa, supplying the distributing system to be installed in those towns.

BUSINESS LEADERS SUGGEST PANACEA FOR WORLD'S ILLS

Rules Designed to Solve Economic Problems Are Adopted at Meet

WAY OPENED FOR NEW STUDY OF WAR DEBTS

Resolutions Adopted Favoring Reduction of World Armaments

WASHINGTON, May 9. (AP)—The International Chamber of Commerce adopted a set of rules today at the conclusion of its sixth biennial congress designed to aid in solving most of the world's economic problems, including war debts.

The chamber went on record as believing the integrity of international obligations would not be impaired by a re-examination of them if warranted by changed economic conditions, but called attention to its previous position that ability to pay, including military expenditures, should be considered.

Resolution also were adopted favoring reduction of world armaments, as stressed by President Hoover in his opening address to the congress; removal of tariff discriminations and inequalities, and a world conference on silver.

Russia Ignored

The chamber adopted 43 resolutions, many of them compromises of the conflicting views of the various national delegations, but made no mention of one of the undersurface subjects of conversation at the congress—trade with Soviet Russia.

The chief resolution dealing with the controversial war debt and tariff questions, while opening the way to a re-examination of war debts if changed economic conditions warranted it, said "such examination should be based on the principles laid down by the International Chamber of Commerce at its congresses."

The American delegates pointed out this would require consideration of the debtor nations' "ability to pay" and their military expenditures would be taken into account.

The tariff section, while urging removal of obstacles to international trade, suggested use of machinery already set up by some countries for eliminating inequalities, such as the American flexible tariff system.

One of the chamber's declarations was that private initiative and private operation of business enterprise "constitute the most effective instrument" to insure progress and prosperity.

Budget Systems

Another was that sound governmental budget systems should be maintained to prevent imposition of undue taxation.

With reference to the unemployment problem, the chamber suggested the bank of international settlements and similar institutions aid in increasing the mobility of accumulated capital.

The chamber recommended international conferences to study agricultural problems and to consider the extent, direction and distribution of production; financing of crops, appropriation of credits for agricultural purposes, reduction of import difficulties and suppression of export premiums.

One resolution characterized war as "the greatest barrier to the social and economic progress" and said present conditions are intensified by the past conflict.

In addition to adopting the resolutions, the chamber listened to speeches by Georges Theunis of Belgium, its retiring president, and Franz Von Mendelssohn of Germany, its new president, both pointing to the economic interdependence of the world.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (UP)—Two peaks were reached in production and sales in the Oklahoma City field yesterday.

The 131 wells on flow line produced 261,254 barrels of oil. Pipe lines took 210,976 barrels. Both figures are high marks for the pool since the field has been under proration.

Cellars were being dug in three new locations, Hall-Briscoe and Champlin Refining company, block 22, SW NW SE 3-11-3w, J. C. Shaffer No. 1 Deterring test, SW NW 10-11-3w, and Wilcox Oil and Gas company No. 1 Chapin, NW SE NW 10-11-3w.

The next producer probably will be the No. 1 McGinnis test of Simon-McGinnis in SE NW 10-11-3w.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (UP)—Fourteen new locations were staked in Oklahoma last week in 10 counties. Muskogee county led with three. Creek and Oklahoma counties had two each. Grady, Lefiore, Okfuskee, Pittsburgh, Pontotoc, Seminole and Wagoner counties had one each.

TECUMSEH, Okla., May 9. (UP)—Droppleman Drilling company No. 1 Jones, SE NW 21-6n-3e, is regarded here as the most promising wildcat test in the Greater Seminole area. The test was nearing pay sand at 4775 feet in the Hunton lime. Casing was being set above the lime formation.

Arms Drilling company has completed its No. 1 Duff, NE NW SW 16-7-4, in the Pearson sector of the St. Louis area for 100 barrels a day from the lime.

Humble Notifies I. C. C. of Cut in Pipe Line Rates

WASHINGTON, May 9. (AP)—The Humble Pipe Line company has notified the Interstate Commerce commission that on June 6 it will reduce rates 20 per cent from 20 Texas oil fields and one New Mexico field to various destinations in Texas.

The company two weeks ago sought to reduce rates under the emergency clause of the interstate commerce act. The commission refused to permit this and the action which became known today was started under the section of the act permitting reduction of rates on 30 days' notice.

The reduction is being made, the pipe line company says, to enable producers in the western Texas and eastern New Mexico fields to meet the competition of flush production in the new East Texas oil fields.

BASTROP FARMER HELD FOR SHOOTING NEGRO

BASTROP, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Sy Simmons, about 40, was under $2,500 bond today after the fatal shooting of Tom Jones, 45-year-old negro, at Simmons' home yesterday after the negro assertedly insulted Simmons' wife.

Immediately after the shooting, immons drove to Bastrop and surrendered. He waived examining trial and his bond was immediately executed.

WHY DEVELOP EAST TEXAS?

Picture shows Wayne Hammon's No. 1 Jeffery in section 42, T. E. & L. survey in the Orth-Newcastle "wonder pool" in Young county, flowing natural 500 barrels from a shallow sand at 714 feet. This section furnished two other unusually good producers in the past 10 days. South of the Hammon well Lee, Brashear and others' No. 1 Jeffery came in flowing 600 barrels, and the Texas company, No. A-2 Jeffery, is rated at 400 barrels. All wells finished in the usual 700-foot pay. Spudder machines used almost exclusively in this field reduce the expense of drilling operations to the minimum, the approximate cost being $1,900 from grass root to sand to pump.

Jacobs Oil and Gas company's No. C-1 Finch estate, located 150 feet from the north and east lines of the north half of the southeast quarter of section 32, T. E. & L. survey, Young county, is spudding in.

W. H. Frasier and others' No. 2 Wm. Coleman, located 150 feet from the north and 150 feet from the east lines of the south 54 acres of lot 1, section 61, A. T. N. C. L. survey, Archer county, has erected derrick for a 2500-foot test.

Fair & McGaha's No. 1 A. J. Ikard, located 150 feet from the south and east lines of the Ikard land in Jos. Levins survey, abstract 260, in Archer county, is drilling at 1700 feet.

Ascot Oil company's No. A-1 Maxey estate, located in S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 568, section 1, in the west 60 acres of the south half of the northwest quarter in Jack county, is drilling at 1100 feet.

T. F. Hunter Oil corporation's No. 1 Hausler, located in the S. G. Hardaway survey, abstract 167, in south Archer county, is drilling at 800 feet.

Perkins & Cullum's No. D-1 Falls county school lands, located in block 3, F. C. S. L. subdivision in Archer county, shot the saturated lime at 1150 to 1164 feet with 80 quarts and is shut down.

Putman Oil and Gas company's No. 2 Jeffery, located in the north half of section 52, T. E. & L. survey, in north Young county, is spudded in and drilling at 200 feet.

Flynn and associates encountered the sand at 865 feet in their No. 2 G. L. Woodward, located in section 248, Waggoner colony lands north of Electra in Wichita county.

Lee & Brashear's No. A-2 Jeffery estate, located 300 feet west of A-1 producer in section 42, T. E. & L. survey, south of Orth, has spudded in.

Deep Oil Development company's No. 1 John Hirschi, located in the David Cowan survey, north of Clara in Wichita county, is drilling in the Ellenberger lime at a depth of 5850 feet. Contract depth of this hole is 6000 feet.

Wayne Hammon's No. 3 J. H. Bradley, located in S. Holloway survey, abstract 497, west of the Munger deep test one mile, and in the Beaver Creek district of Wichita county, is drilling at 2800 feet.

Krahenbehl and associates made location for their No. 2 E. Hildebrand, in section 145, J. W. Harris subdivision, and 600 feet west and 300 feet north of their No. 1 location, in the Archer City sector of Archer county.

Ruhsam, Golding and others abandoned their No. 1 E. A. Hausler test in the T. McCoy survey, abstract 269, in south Archer county, as a dry hole at a total depth of 1178 feet.

Jack Martin and associates' No. 1 Kemp townsite, located in the northwest corner of block 35, W. V. F. L., south of the Munger well one mile, in Wichita county, is drilling at 2250 feet.

Wiley Bennett and others' No. 1 J. Hawley, located in the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 29, block 2, H. & T. C. R. R. survey in Wilbarger county, set 10-inch pipe at a depth of 1372 feet.

Shappell Oil company's No. 1 W. P. Ferguson, a 4000-foot rotary test located in E. Patterson survey, abstract 1179, two miles southeast of Kemp City, but located in north Archer county, is drilling at 2860 feet.

Paul Traham and others' No. 1 W. M. Coleman is a location for a 2500-foot rotary test to be drilled 300 feet from the south and west lines of the southeast quarter of block 74, A. T. N. C. L. survey, three miles east of the Deep Oil Development No. 1 Wilson, deep producer in Archer county.

Bowman Drilling company's No. 1 L. Johnson, located in the southeast quarter of section 11, block 10, H. & T. C. R. R. survey in Wilbarger county, and one mile west of Odell, is shut down at a depth of 1750 feet.

Bo Minnich and others' No. 1 Baker brothers, 2750 feet from the south and 450 feet from the east lines of B. B. B. & C. R. R. survey, abstract 184 in Cooke county, has spudded in and is shut down.

George W. Shaner and others' No. 1 W. T. Waggoner estate, in section 32, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, Wilbarger county, had the casing to collapse at a depth of 1850 feet and is shut down.

J. H. Wilson and others' No. 1 H. White, located in section 40, block 14, the north half of the block, in the A. T. N. C. L. survey, Archer county, is shut down at 1600 feet.

Douglass Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Mrs. A. F. Robertson, located 2700 feet from the north and 288 feet from the east lines of block 45, section 268, in Baylor county, a deep test, is cleaning out at a depth of 2365 feet after setting 6⅝ pipe at a depth of 2335 feet.

Faith Oil corporation's No. 2 J. F. Bugg is located 600 feet from the north and 1650 feet from the west lines of Harriett Nail survey, abstract 790, Cooke county.

Isham & Tilson's No. 1 Durham, in the Ben Jones survey, in Wise county, is shut down at a depth of 900 feet.

N. B. Dobbins and others' No. 1 J. D. Carpenter, located in the south half of the northwest quarter of section 164, T. E. & L. survey, is dry at 915 feet. A sand estimated at two barrels was tested at 891-902 feet.

Wayne Hammon's No. B-1 Jeffery, located in section 42, T. E. & L. survey, southwest of Orth townsite in Young county, is completed in the sand at 824-30 feet as a 450 barrel producer.

King Royalty company has shut down six recently completed producers on its J. Larrimore lease north of Newcastle in Young county. The wells are rated from 100 to 450 barrels per day initial production, and all are producing from the 690-foot wonder sand. The lease, which is one of the most productive in the Orth-Newcastle pool is located in section 2346, T. E. & L. survey.

Lee & Brashear's No. A-2 Jeffery estate, 300 feet west of A-1 producer in section 42, T. E. & L. survey, Young county, is on the top of a gas sand at 708 feet with 6⅝ pipe set and cemented.

Hughes & Quinlivan's No. 1 T. E. Humphries, 200 feet from the north and 250 feet from the west lines of Graves survey, abstract 232, Jack county, spudded in and is drilling at 400 feet.

L. Luray and others set 6⅝ pipe at 995 feet and are cleaning out their No. 1 Eddleman test in Wm. Bryerly survey, abstract 22, south Young county.

Ray Dawson completed his No. 1 W. C. Kelly test in block 65, Parker county school lands in Clay county, as a 3,000,000-foot gasser from the pay at 1567 feet.

Premier Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Thornberry, located in block 6, Thornberry subdivision, northeast of Wichita Falls eight miles in Clay county, is preparing to start operation within the next week to 10 days.

DALLAS MAN FACES CHARGE OF MURDER IN WIFE'S DEATH

DALLAS, May 9. (AP)—Gilmer B. Tucker, 24, filling station operator, today was formally charged with murder after the death in a hospital of his wife, Lada Belle Tucker, 18, who was shot and wounded Feb. 7.

Tucker voluntarily went to the district attorney's office after the shooting and said he had been drinking, that his wife had come to the station to beg him to go home and a pistol in his hand was discharged, accidentally. Mrs. Tucker was expecting to become a mother. Tucker claimed he did not remember what had happened while his wife was at the filling station and when released on bail, hurried to the hospital to be at his wife's bedside. She had appeared to be improving several days ago.

SPUR CITY MARSHAL DROPS DEAD ON DUTY

SPUR, Texas, May 9.—C. W. Denson, 59, recently reappointed city marshal of Spur for the sixth time, dropped dead of a heart attack on the streets while on duty. He is survived by Carl Denson of Panhandle, Elmer Denson of Floydada, Mrs. Hall Pendleton of Borger, Pat, Flora and Silva Denson of Spur.

Pipe Line Runs for District Drop 1,034 Barrels Daily in Past Week

Pipe line runs from the various pools of the Wichita Falls district and other North Texas fields for the week ended May 9, 1931, averaged 60,938 barrels daily, a loss of approximately 1,034 barrels per day as compared with the previous week's run. Nine counties under the supervision of L. V. Hull, proration umpire, the Wichita Falls district proper, produced 56,076 barrels. Haskell, Jack, Throckmorton and south Young county, designated as the North Texas division, registered 4,862 barrels. This area does not come under the jurisdiction of Mr. Hull. Following is the movement of crude by pools:

NEGLIGENT HOMICIDE CHARGE FILED AGAINST UNIVERSITY STUDENT

AUSTIN, May 9. (AP)—A charge of negligent homicide was filed in justice court here today against Paul McGlothing, University of Texas student from San Angelo, in connection with the death late last night of Mrs. Fannie E. Stanford, 64, of Austin. Mrs. Stanford was injured fatally when hit by an automobile driven by McGlothing. The youth was released under $500 bail.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEW REFINERY AT OLNEY PROGRESSES

Work on the erection of the Norgold Refining company's plant a short distance west of Olney in Young county is going along in a satisfactory manner and with any degree of luck the new plant should be making its initial run of crude within the next 30 days.

The plant when completed will have a capacity of 800 barrels daily, the crude being supplied from the wells on the several producing leases in the vicinity.

The name of the refinery was derived from that of one of Olney's prominent citizens, Norman Goldsmith, who is also principal owner of the new plant.

TIDAL REDUCES PRICE EAST TEXAS CRUDE TO FORTY CENTS A BARREL

TULSA, Okla., May 9.—The Tidal Refining company this morning announced that it was now paying but 40 cents a barrel for East Texas field crude. Until now it has paid 43 to 67 cents per barrel, as have other purchasers there. C. R. Barton, vice president and general manager o fthe Tidal, reports his firm is buying 15,000 barrels of oil there a day.

Mr. Independent Operator:-
Mr. Royalty Owner:-

"The Oil Bootlegger"

is doing all he can to RUIN you and me!

When he contracts to pay you less than posted price, or to run more oil from your well than is allowed under proration, he is trying to undermine and break down the only protective plan we have to insure fair dealing.

He knows that the idea of taking more oil from your well than your allowable share is a polite form of STEALING YOUR NEIGHBORS' OIL . . . and both parties to such a contract are equally guilty.

"Bootleg Price Cutting"

Creates a Vicious Circle:

First: DISTRESS CRUDE.

Second: DISTRESS GASOLINE.

Third: OIL AND OIL PRODUCTS going to market at less than cost of production. BUT, the Producer and Royalty Owner ultimately paying this bill . . . bearing this loss!

Let's Pull Together!

and pull ourselves out of the MIRE of FINANCIAL DISTRESS . . . let's refuse to sell to the bootlegger, whether it be an individual buyer or a Major Company, let's demand and receive a fair price for our oil! Let's support the Railroad Commission in its efforts to enforce the RATABLE TAKING of oil from all fields! Let's obey the law; play fair with our neighbors, and thus do our part in helping the oil industry along the road to recovery.

THREE DRY AGENTS HELD IN SHOOTING OF YOUNG FARMER

COLUMBUS, Miss., May 9. (INS) —Three federal dry agents who allegedly shot and killed J. Wales Land, 27, a farmer, were in government custody here today.

Intense feeling over the killing was prevalent in the community. A coroner's jury which investigated yesterday placed no responsibility. The agents involved are J. G. Hendricks, Wiley Wright and Henry Furr.

It was said Land, approached by the agents in a field, ignored an order to give up his revolver. He had never before been accused of prohibition violation.

STERLING GRANTS CLEMENCIES TO 23 ON MOTHER'S DAY

AUSTIN, May 9. (AP)—Governor Sterling today granted 23 Mother's day paroles and two furloughs. Most of the clemencies went to first offenders, 18 to 25 years old, who had good prison records.

The following convicts received paroles:

Frank Turner of Collin county; Plumer Solley of Sabine; Jimmie Smith of Van Zandt; H. B. Coffey of Harris; Edgar Oliver of Coryell; Willie McPherson of Jefferson; Bobby Smith of Wilbarger; Jess Routon of Wilson; Willie Ratley of Bowie; Sidney Price of McLennan; W. M. Johnson of Bowie; Herman Freitag of Williamson; G. H. Hubert of Tarrant; Harry Brunsman, Dallas; Calloway Waren of Rains; Mitchell Franklin and Roy Wilson, Jones and Donley; Thomas Mata of Caldwell; B. L. Lovell of Ellis; Arley Barker of Collin; Wallace Caldwell of Collin; Renfro Harrison of Polk; Clyde Tanner of Jefferson.

A 60-day furlough was issued B. O. Hardin of Jefferson county and a 30-day furlough to Bunk Harris of Howard county.

Gang Terror Of Decade Ago Dead New York City

NEW YORK, May 9. (INS)—Vincent Gaffney, gang terror of a decade ago, was found dead today, his head and face mashed—lying in West Fifty-fourth street. The police said he was a victim of a hit-and-run motorist but it was reported there was a wound across his throat that might have been made with a knife.

Gaffney was a notorious character in his day. In his youth his escapades shook the police department to its foundations and caused a rift between the police commissioner and the district attorney.

He served 11 years in Sing Sing, Auburn and Clinton prisons for manslaughter, the result of slaying Chuck Tucker in Hell's Kitchen on March 31, 1918.

Gaffney was released in October, 1929, and a few weeks later married his childhood sweetheart. The prison term sobered his errant ways and he reformed and settled down to a respectable life with his wife. Six months ago he became father of a child.

WILD WEST RAID STAGED MINNESOTA NIGHT CLUB SIX BANDITS GET $1,000

HUGO, Minn., May 9. (UP)—In a typical wild West raid, six bandits, their faces masked with bandana handkerchiefs and armed with sawed-off shotguns today held up the Cabin, night club near here and escaped with $1,000.

Patrons were interrupted in their dance and forced to line up along the wall by four of the men while their two confederates searched the night club habitues and employes.

PICTURE AUSTIN CENTER ART LONE STAR STATE

AUSTIN, May 9. (AP)—A picture of Austin as the art center of Texas, with the Elizabeth Ney museum serving as nucleus of a central state art unit for a greatly increased membership throughout the state, was the underlying theme of discussions and reports at today's session of the Texas Fine Arts association.

Delegates attending the 20th annual meeting entered the morning business session at the Ney museum to sum up the past year's work and lay plans for the future, with emphasis on increased membership, establishment of an art commission for Texas and advantages of an art institute for the state.

Mrs. Ben Powell of Austin, reporting on the proposed state art commission, appealed to members to urge passage of a bill before the legislature establishing such a commission.

Mrs. A. H. Bailey of Dallas presided.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE IN CASE LIEUTENANT BERRY

SAN ANTONIO, May 9. (AP)—A verdict of suicide was returned this morning in the death of Lieut. John C. Berry, who was found with a bullet through his heart a week ago in his parked coupe on a lane leading to the Bexar county home for boys.

The verdict was returned after a week-long investigation by civil and military authorities, in which a theory of murder was probed.

TIMES' MARKET REPORT

CORN TAKES LEAD IN GRAIN ADVANCE TRADING IS ACTIVE

CHICAGO, May 9. (AP)—Led by corn, all grains rose to higher price levels today and displayed notable activity. Corn buying was the most aggressive in a long while, and was largely ascribed to scantiness of receipts and to operations of a leading speculator. Wheat derived independent strength from reports of increased European purchasing and from indications that Russian seeding of spring wheat had fallen far behind schedule.

Corn closed nervous, ⅝@2c advanced, wheat unchanged to 1¼c up, oats a shade to ⅜c higher, and provisions showing 2 to 5c gain.

Producers were reported unwilling to part with their small reserve supplies until it was definitely known that the new corn crop gave promise of an average yield.

Unwelcome rains were general over the corn belt, and temperatures low for this season, retarding germination and hindering field work, especially planting. Traders who were short of corn needed to meet future delivery contracts were among the most active purchasers.

European continental countries were reported by Liverpool as buying wheat freely, and some advices said Germany had taken 2,000,000 bushels of hard winter wheat. Another bullish factor was talk that rains during the last week in domestic spring wheat territory and in Canada had been too light to give adequate relief from drouth, and that moisture would have to be heavy and frequent hereafter to make a good crop.

Oats were firmer as a result of corn strength.

Boston Wool Market

BOSTON, May 9. (AP)—Volume of business in the wool market the past week has shown a slight increase over the previous week. Of more importance than the increase in business, however, was the willingness of buyers to consider the purchase of offerings in which previously they had not been interested. Members of the wool trade were encouraged by the interest of manufacturers and as a result stiffened their resistance to bearish pressure. Limited amount of business on wool was closed mostly within price ranges quoted during the previous week.

NET ADVANCES FOR COTTON AT CLOSING EARLY GAINS LOST

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—A further advance in cotton at the opening today was followed by reactions owing to favorable weather prospects and the later weakness of the stock market. July sold off from 10.19 to 10.07 or 2 points net lower but stiffened several points in late trading on covering and closed at 10.12. The general market closed steady at net advances of 1 to 3 points.

The opening was steady 6 to 10 points higher. May sold up to 9.98 and Dec. to 10.79 on the initial demand but the buying, mostly in small lots, was supplied by realizing. Prices worked lower with offerings increasing as the stock market turned easier. May declined to 9.85 and Dec. to 10.65, making net losses of 1 to 5 points on the active months, but there was a final spurt of covering and closing quotations were 2 to 5 points up from the lowest on the more active positions.

Liverpool cables said there had been continental and Bombay buying also covering and trade calling that market. Sales of 10,000 bales of cotton of all growths was reported in the Liverpool spot market today which were said to include 7,000 bales of Russian cotton. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 23 to 25 points higher and the Indian spot quotation in Liverpool showed an advance of 10 points.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, May 9. (AP)—Liverpool came in 1 to 4 points better than due and showed spot sales of 10,000 bales, the largest in some time. Week-end liquidation, followed early advances, however. The market closed steady, showing net losses for the day of 2 to 3 points. Private cables stated that Bombay bought absorbing local realizing. There was also trade calling and short covering. The spot sales included 7,000 bales of Russian cotton. Manchester cabled that the cloth trade was unimportant. July closed at 10.09 and October at 10.44.

LUTHER BERWICK NOT TO APPEAL FROM SENTENCE

HOUSTON, May 9. (AP)—Luther Berwick formally was sentenced to three years today for the murder of William Byrd in Port Arthur Oct. 30, 1929. There will be no appeal, his counsel had announced.

The rodeo performer, who also faces trial for the killing Miss Belle Crowe, slain with Byrd, made no comment as the sentence was passed. He likely will be tried for the slaying of Miss Crowe some time during the May term of court.

A previous trial for the Byrd case had brought a death sentence which was reversed by the criminal appeals court.

REACTION FOLLOWS SCANT HALF HOUR RALLY IN STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—The Friday rally followed through for a scant half hour in the stock market today. Prices then became reactionary and closed with small but general net losses in a turnover of 1,300,000 shares. Other financial markets were firm.

J. I. Case and Johns Manville were sold heavily, especially the former, which broke 10⅛ points to 66⅞, the lowest since 1923. Johns Manville, whose first quarter earnings amounted to 13 cents a share on the common stock, dipped more than 3 to a new low.

Steels weakened toward the close in expectation that the U. S. Steel corporation's backlog had been reduced rather sharply in April. The figures, published at noon, showed a decrease of 97,601 tons, or virtually the maximum mentioned in estimates. The industry's seasonal peak came much earlier than usual this year and operations were tapering off during the entire month. Nevertheless, the corporation's new business was insufficient to offset deliveries. Apparently no specifications against large structural contracts in March have yet been placed.

Bonds ignored the erratic stock market and forged ahead, with gains especially notable in the rails.

EARLY GAINS LOST IN TRADE ON CURB AS TRADING LIGHT

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—Small gains in the first hour, as the market maintained the Friday rally, were sufficient to attract profit taking on the curb market today. The close was irregularly lower. Most of the easiness was in utilities and oils. Industrials and specialties were steady. It was the quietest Saturday in a month, the turnover being 180,000 shares.

Utilities offered fair leadership during the early upturn, but sagged in the last hour. Electric Bond & Share held temporarily around yesterday's close in moderately active trading, but gave up ⅝ net. American Gas and Electric lost 1¼.

Cord showed early strength in reflection of yesterday's jump in Auburn Auto, but sagged before the close.

Livestock

Mid-Western Livestock Review

KANSAS CITY, May 9. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit this week was marked by a continued liberal movement of fed steers and yearlings. Trade on killing cattle was further depressed by a weakening in prices at eastern dressed beef markets. Steers, yearlings and fat she stock were steady to unevenly lower than a week ago, most points reporting losses of 25@50c on better steers. Demand was especially narrow for the in-between grades of steers scaling upward from 1,200 pounds. Chicago had top of $9.75 on heavy steers and long yearlings while bulk of fed steers at most points sold from $6.50@8.35. Stocker and feeder trade was rather quiet. Receipts 197,000, compared with 196,680 last week and 175,325 the corresponding period a year ago.

Fat lambs advanced 50c@1.00 the forepart of the week but late trade was slow with practically all the gain erased on wooled skins and springers and clippers steady to 25c lower with last week's close. Mature killing classes of sheep unchanged for the week. The supply of around 408,000 was 45,000 short of last week but 122,000 heavier than a year ago.

Offerings of hogs were 427,000 against 423,125 last week and 480,567 a year ago. After fluctuating, values finished the week unevenly 10@35c lower than last Saturday with a top of $7.25 at both Chicago and St. Louis.

KANSAS CITY, May 9. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Hogs—Receipts 1,000; steady to strong; 180-240 pounds $6.25@6.75; 260-310 pounds $6.15@6.50; sows $5.50 down.

Cattle—Receipts 200; calves 30; for the week: Fed steers, yearlings and fed heifers 25@50c lower; cows steady to 25c lower; bulls weak; vealers 50c lower; wighty calves steady to weak; stockers and feeders steady to 25c lower; week's tops: Yearling steers $9.00; medium steers 8.25; heavy steers 8.15; yearling heifers and vealers $8.00.

Sheep—Receipts 4,000; for the week: sheep, spring lambs and wooled lambs steady to 15c higher; shorn lambs weak to 15c lower; fed lambs and springers closing 60@85c under the high time at midweek; sheep steady to 15c lower than the high time; week's top: Arizona spring lambs 11.35; wooled lambs $9.85; shorn lambs $8.40; shorn Texas wethers $3.50; shorn ewes $3.00.

CHICAGO, May 9. (AP)—(USDA)—Cattle—Receipts 1,000; compared week ago, all grades medium weight and weighty steers and good and choice light steers and long yearlings mostly 50c lower; yearling heifers about 25c lower on better grades; butcher heifers and heiferettes about steady; very little change in fat cows; bulls 10@15c lower and vealers strong; stockers and feeders steady; top on heavy steers and long yearlings $9.75, but $9.25 top on downturn; fat weighty steers $7.25@7.75; bulk all representative weights $7.00@8.50; most stockers and feeders $6.00@7.25.

Sheep—Receipts 5,000; nominal; compared week ago, mostly steady; spots 25c higher on inbetween grade lambs; wooled lambs reached $10.35 early; week's top, clippers $9.10; closing bulk better grade wooled lambs $9.00@9.25; best $9.60; clippers $8.00@8.25; native springers $11.00@11.50; wooled ewes $3.00@3.50; shorn kinds $2.00@3.00; shearing lambs $8.50.

Hogs—Receipts 7,500; steady to strong; top $7.24; bulk 180 to 220 pounds $7.00@7.10; packing sows $5.60@5.90; compared week ago 25@35c lower; shippers took 500; estimated holdovers 1,000.

Cattle—Receipts 400. Calves—Receipts 100. Today's trade nominal. For week: Slaughter steers and yearlings steady to 25c higher; she stock and bulls unchanged; slaughter calves and vealers 50 to 75c lower; heavies about steady; stock yearlings around 25c higher. Week's tops: Slaughter steers $7.60; slaughter yearlings $8.75; practical top fat cows $4.50; early week top vealers $10.00; closing top $8.50; fat calves up to $7.00; stock steer yearlings $7.90. Bulk prices: Slaughter steers $4.25@5.75; fat yearlings $7.25@8.25; butcher cows $3.25@3.65; fat calves $5.75 down; better stock yearlings $6.75@7.50.

Sheep—Receipts 5,000 trade nominal. For week: Spring lambs steady; good shorn fat lambs and yearlings 25c lower; feeders and half fat shorn lambs and yearlings 50c lower; fat wethers 25 to 50c lower; aged fat wethers 15 to 25c lower. Week's tops: Spring lambs $8.25; shorn fat lambs and yearlings $7.15; fat wethers $4.75 and aged fat wethers $2.75. Closing bulk prices: Spring lambs $7.50@7.75; shorn fat lambs and yearlings $6.25@6.50; fat wethers $4.25 and aged fat wethers $2.50; shorn feeder lambs $4@4.75.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., May 9. (AP) (U. S.D.A.)—Hogs—Receipts 3,500; active at 10 to 15c advance; top $7.25; hogs 220 pounds down, $7.10@7.25; 280 to 270 pounds, $6.80; sows unchanged at $5.50@5.85; hogs closed the week 10 to 15c lower; sows about steady.

Cattle—Receipts 550. Calves—Receipts 50. Compared with last week: Steers 25c lower; mixed yearlings and heifers under $8.50, steady; cows 25c lower; stocker and feeder cattle steady; vealers 25c higher. Top for week: 821-pound yearling steers $8.65; matured steers $8.25; 622-pound heifers $8.75; 880-pound mixed yearlings $8.50; cows $6.00; bulls $4.75; vealers $8.75; stocker steers $7.50. Bulks for week: Steers $6.35@8.00; fat mixed yearlings and heifers $7@8.25; medium fleshed kinds $6.50@7.00; cows $4.50@5.25; stocker steers $5.75@6.75.

Sheep—Receipts 50; spring lambs closing steady for week; Clipped lambs steady to lower; sheep steady; top springers $11.50; bulk $10.75@11.25; top clipped lambs $8.75; most sales $7@8.00; bulk of run Texans; decks wooled Colorado lambs $9@9.50; Texas clipped ewes $3.25.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (AP)—Cattle—Receipts 100. Calves—Receipts 40. For week: Better fat butcher cattle and bulk steers and yearlings lower during first part of week but some recovery was made with windup barely steady; yearlings up to $7.50; fed steers of medium weight bulked $5.75@6.25; receipts too limited in butcher division to test values; better fat butcher and beef cows nominally 25 to 50c lower; beef and sausage bulls $3@3.50; lightweight veals reached $7.00 after recovering early loss; stockers and feeders steady; white faced yearlings and calves up to $7.00; red and roan offerings up to $4.50@5.75.

Hogs—Receipts 300; closed steady. For week: New low top $6.40 for season and since 1923; most sales $6.25 and up; sows and stags steady at $5.00.

GAINS IRREGULAR AS BONDS CONTINUE TO CLIMB UPWARD

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—The bond market continued to advance today but the gains were irregular.

The changed tenor of the market was apparent in the greater activity as well as the rising prices. Sales $6,061,000 par value.

The average prices for railroad and industrial issues and the composite average of these groups and of utilities all showed gains over Friday.

Railroad bonds made the broadest advance. Net gains of one point or more were made by Boston & Maine 5s of 1967, Rock Island series A 4½s, Colorado and Southern 4½s of 1980, Rio Grande Western first 4s, New York, Westchester and Boston 4½s, Missouri Pacific series F and G 5s and Nickel Plate series A 5½s.

Trading in most foreign bonds consisted of a few small sales.

Higher prices appeared among industrial and public utility obligations also but the net gains in both groups were narrower than in the rails. Stock privilege bonds fluctuated with the corresponding stocks.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN EARLY TEXAS SETTLER DIES AT MARSHALL HOME

MARSHALL, Texas, May 9. (AP)—Capt. John S. M. Record, 90, civil war veteran and early Texas settler, died at his home here last night.

He had been a resident of Marshall for the last 50 years.

When 20 years old, Record joined Good's battery of Hood's Texas brigade. Wounded and taken prisoner, he was paroled through the efforts of a kinsman in congress and later joined Shannon's scouts. After the war he entered the employ of the Texas and Pacific railroad at Marshall.

Survivors are his widow, a daughter, one son and a sister. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today.

PLEDGE OF CONFIDENCE INDIAN COMMISSIONER

SANTA FE, N. M., May 9. (AP)—A pledge of confidence in Herbert J. Hagerman, special commissioner on Indian affairs, who has been the object of many charges by John Collier, secretary of the Indian Defense association, was entered in the record of the United States senate subcommittee on Indian affairs here today by Charles J. Rhoades, commissioner on Indian affairs.

The Hagerman issue in all its ramifications, from charges of perjury made in Washington to attacks on the $1,000 lease of the Rattlesnake dome on the Navajo reservation, was received before the committee yesterday.

SUMMER CLASSES FOR ELEMENTARY PUPILS ARRANGED

A summer school for pupils in elementary grades will be opened at the Alamo school on the morning of May 25 with R. A. Jarrott of the San Jacinto school as principal, according to the announcement Saturday of Mr. Jarrott. The school will continue through six weeks.

Opportunity will be given to pupils from the first to the sixth grades to make up work. Those with exceptional scholastic records during the regular term will be permitted to take advanced work, it was said.

Members of the faculty, in addition to Mr. Jarrott, will include Misses Lilah Norman and Norma Rollins and Mrs. R. E. Vigus. Classes will be held from 8 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. each day.

Memorial Auditorium to Be Scene Spring Music Festival Wednesday in Joint Presentation by All Schools

The Memorial auditorium will be the scene of a pretty spring music festival Wednesday night, when the schools of the city will send kings and queens or dukes and duchesses to sit in the court assembly and watch the music and dancing, which represents all foreign countries.

The kings and queens of Reagan and the high school have not yet been announced, but Zundelowitz Junior high will be represented by Theodore Bratton as king and Betty Hargett as queen.

Elementary schools will send dukes and duchesses, as follows: Ben Franklin, Ikard Smith and Irvine Roberts; San Jacinto, Joe Beard and Marjorie Gibson; Sam Houston, Jack Meer and Faun Watson; Travis, Hilton Booker and Ara D. Hearne; Bowie, Joseph Squier and Juanita Collins; Barwise, Jack Prather and Pearl Williams; Fannin, W. C. Barnes and Mary Fore. Other schools have not yet made their selections.

Charles Parker will be the court herald and Robert Burch and Beris McCown will be pages. Billy Qwen and Glen Vague will be trainbearers.

Miss Rachel Davis, head of the Reagan music department, is the director general of the pageant. Arthur Davis is the court musical director of the school orchestra, to be known as the court musicians, and will also play a violin solo.

Other Countries

Jack Holstein is another soloist on the program, singing in that part which represents England. Other countries depicted include Ireland, Norway, Scotland, Sweden, Germany, Denmark, Russia, France, Italy, Holland, Japan, Spain, Mexico and the United States, the last named being divided into Indian, Colonial, Southern, Texas and military numbers.

Emmie Taylor, Margaret Staniforth and Ruth Ferguson are solo dancers, and Agnes Gonzales will sing "La Paloma" in the Spanish group. Loudell Bridges and Frances Burns will sing a duet for the Indian division, with Arthur Davis playing the violin obligato. Finley Walker will sing one of the negro spirituals.

County Red Cross News

Fifty pounds of dried yeast has been received by the chapter this week to distribute to the pellagra cases in the county. The representatives from Electra and Iowa Park will distribute the yeast to the families in their communities.

May 15 is the closing date for the relief work in Wichita county. Many of the farmers have been able to make agricultural loans and some have promise of work that begins within the next few days. The national organization does not wish to carry on any relief work until it develops into an injurious factor in any community.

A preschool and school health conference was held at Clara Thursday forenoon. Dr. C. J. Morrison made the dental examination with a total of 64 children being examined. Dr. Ruel Slaughter had charge of the physical examinations. Miss Foster and Mrs. Good of the Clara P.-T. A. arranged for the clinic. Dental and throat defects made up the most of the defects. Very few of the children had had smallpox and diphtheria immunization but are planning to be included in the county health program which is sponsoring this work.

Austin School—Miss Ewing's third grade have correlated their health and music very well this month. Five songs that they have recently learned are "The Health Fairies, Vegetables, the Fresh Air Brownies, the Breakfast Song, and Water." The children sang these for the nutritionist at her last visit to the room.

Austin cafeteria oberved Child Health day by having a special table in the cafeteria decorated with a large milk bottle forming the center with fruits and vegetables around it. The teachers were assisted by Mrs. Allen in arranging the decorations.

Carrigan School—Miss Roberts' second grade gave a new play. The Cinderella in the play wins the prince by learning the health rules and being found after the ball by Prince Good Health, while her sisters, Langour and Fidgets are left unable to wear the little slipper.

Ben Franklin School—The posters made under the supervision of the art teachers with subjects of health are hanging in the cafeteria. A greater variety of subjects and all types of mediums have been used this year to develop the posters.

Mother's day has for the past several years been observed in a rather romantic and lovely way. This year the same observation will carry on. The nation will use it as a time to stop for remembrance and also in many instances for resolutions. The health department of the National Federation of Women's Clubs has plans for observance somewhat different from the gift or the flower. Some facts and figures have brought to them an avenue for observance that nothing else can. The United States ranks away down the list in maternal mortality. There are 20 some countries ahead of us. New Zealand, a country that we are prone to feel belongs to the far away sea leads in the figures of maternal mortality. For every 1,000 babies born in our country seven mothers give up their lives. Following a program that medical science and health work have outlined this mortality can be lowered. A nation-wide maternity program wherein education and supervision is uppermost will be the means of solving this high mortality. When carried forward through the sponsorship of the Women's Club Federation Mother's day may be observed in a way that makes today's observation seem small indeed.

SUMMER SESSION OF LOCAL SCHOOLS TO BE IMPORTANT ONE

Vacation for 1931 in the Wichita Falls public schools will be the longest in a number of years and should therefore make summer school attendance a doubly important item for students of the city, according to Registrar A. K. Presson, director. School closes May 22 and opens in fall Sept. 14. Allowing for the nine-week summer school, there will still be practically eight weeks before the fall term opens.

Summer school attendance in both high school and college has been increasingly popular for some years because of the desirability of keeping young people interested in some activity during long vacations, for making possible earlier completion of school work, for making up work failed, or for study of fewer courses intensively, according to Director Presson.

All regular courses in three divisions, college, high school, and junior high school are to be offered this summer, with courses specially suited to teachers given in the college. Tuition in the college is somewhat less in summer than the long session charges. Inquiries should be directed to Director Presson at Junior college. Catalogs are now available.

NEW SPEED RECORD SET BY AIR MAIL PILOT ON TEXAS-OKLAHOMA RUN

DALLAS, May 9. (AP)—Pilot Emery Martin of the National Air Transport's regular night mail schedule today set a new speed record for tri-motor ships between Oklahoma City and Dallas, making the journey in 1 hour and 18 minutes. The ship had the advantage of a strong tail wind and having an estimated velocity of 60 miles an hour. Martin flew 180 air miles in one hour and three minutes actual flying time. He took off from Oklahoma City at 5:20 a. m., reached Fort Worth at 6:24 a. m. and 10 minutes later took off for Dallas, arriving here at 6:49 a. m.

MILITARY FUNERAL TO BE GIVEN NURSE WHO SERVED IN WORLD WAR

SAN ANTONIO, May 9. (AP)—Because of the distinction with which she served as a Red Cross nurse in France throughout the world war, full military honors will be accorded at the funeral services Monday for Mrs. Mary Veneman Ford, 37, wife of Capt. C. W. Ford, Brooks field officer.

Mrs. Ford died Thursday night. She was one of the first nurses to go to France and served at and near the front. The military honors in addition to those to be given at the services will include a formation of five Brooks field ships which will fly over the grave while services are in progress.

Maskat Temple Announces Its Spring Ceremonial to Be Held Here Tuesday Also a Civic Day for Wichita Falls

Tuesday, May 12, has been set aside for the spring ceremonial of Maskat temple. Potentate W. B. Hamilton and his divan thought that it would be well to make this, in addition to ceremonial day, a civic day for which Wichita Falls and the surrounding territory. With this in mind, an elaborate program has been worked out.

Activities for the day will begin with the registration of novices in Maskat temple at 9:00 a. m., with M. E. Wallace in charge. A business meeting at 11 a. m., will be followed by the regular Tuesday luncheon at 12:00 noon at the Wichita club, under direction of Bill Ruggles, president of the Maskat Service Luncheon club, who announces that an interesting program has been prepared. Potentate Hamilton has invited all potentates aides to be his guests at this luncheon. All nobles are urged to attend the luncheon and to see that the visiting nobles are also in attendance. Elaborate plans have been made for the first and third sections at 2:30 p. m. in Maskat temple auditorium, top floor of the City National bank building. The cast appointed for this ceremonial is as follows:

I. W. B. Hamilton, potentate of Maskat temple, issue a proclamation that on ceremonial day, beginning early in the morning and continuing until night, each noble must wear his fez, and, furthermore, each noble must be in the parade.

Guy Rogers, potentate; W. H. Caldwell, chief rabban; Sydney A. Gaines, assistant rabban; Ed Peterson, high priest and prophet; Dr. J. H. Fletcher, oriental guide; J. M. Spoonts, first ceremonial master; P. B. Curd, second ceremonial master; Kindel Paulk, director; J. W. Akin, marshal; C. E. McCutchen, captain of the guard; Woodward L. Bass, orator; Wayne Somerville, orator; O. F. Marchman, alchemist; Henry Ford, alchemist; Neely R. Vaught, alchemist; T. D. Wilson, alchemist; G. W. L. Spencer, inner guard; C. C. Randle.

Parade

The parade will form promptly at 4 p. m. at Tenth and Scott, under the direction of J. M. Williams, past captain of the patrol, assisted by Horrace Robbins, J. T. Fletcher, Ray Wilhite, L. R. Stringer, W. R. Creamer, C. C. Randle, Eugene Liepold and D. L. Fritz, with the following lineup:

Division One—Motor cycle brigade, colors escorted by armed guard, mounted past captains of the patrol, Maskat temple band, Maskat temple Arabic patrol.

Division Two—Divan, mounted; distinguished visitors, past potentates, degree team, De Molay patrol, nobles marching.

The line of march will be as follows: East on Tenth street to Indiana; north on Indiana to Seventh street; west on Seventh to Scott; south on Scott to Tenth.

The novices will be in charge of the class committee, W. M. Wolfe, B. B. Bacon and C. C. Connor.

Second Section

The second section of the ceremonial will be held in the Memorial auditorium at 6:45 p. m., and will begin with a concert by Maskat temple band, under the direction of Gerald Pond. Potentate Hamilton will be in charge of this section, assisted by all the divan officers. Rev. S. Stephen McKenney will officiate at the memorial service.

Interesting work will be under the control of Kindel Paulk, director of Maskat temple, O. N. Mann and C. G. Williamson, assistant directors, assisted by Maskat temple degree team. This work will include the usual rites—such as crossing the hot sands, etc. A program has been arranged that will please the novices and the nobility as well.

A dance will be given for nobles and their ladies at 9:30 p. m., in Maskat temple auditorium under the direction of J. M. Spoonts, chairman of the dance committee, and his assistants, Sydney A. Gaines, C. A. Rogers, Dr. J. H. Fletcher, Gerald Pond, Eli Morgan and W. H. Ruggles. For admission to this dance, nobles must have their 1931 cards and the ladies their 1931 courtesy cards. The recorder will be present to be of whatever assistance he can.

Theodore Marken and George E. Johnson, nobles of Maskat temple and owners of the Oriental cafe, 704 Tenth street, have followed their usual generous custom of giving all of the day's proceeds to the crippled children's hospital. Members of the patrol will be in charge of the cash register at this place on that day. All nobles are requested to patronize the Oriental cafe.

Ladies

The program for the visiting ladies will be under the supervision of Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, assisted by the wives of divan officers, past potentates and heads of the uniformed bodies, also by Emil Hermann and O. F. Marchman. There will be a registration booth in the lobby of the Holt hotel, where visiting ladies are requested to register. Entertainment has been provided in form of automobile rides, theater parties, etc., and a full program has been arranged for them from the time they arrive until after the dance. Out of town nobles are particularly requested to bring their wives to the ceremonial.

FUNERAL RITES FOR MRS. JOHN A. LOMAX WILL BE IN AUSTIN

DALLAS, May 9. (AP)—The body of Mrs. John A. Lomax, 50, who died last night at her home here, was sent to Austin today for funeral rites and burial.

Mrs. Lomax was a native of Bryan, Texas, and had resided at Austin and College Station prior to moving to Dallas six years ago. She was active in the Dallas College club and was an ex-student of the University of Texas.

Survivors are her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Shirley Mansell, Lubbock; Bess Brown Lomax, Dallas; two sons, John A. Lomax Jr., Corpus Christi; Alan Lomax, University of Texas student; and a brother, J. A. Brown, St. Louis.

Arson Theory Abandoned

SAN ANTONIO, May 9. (AP)—An investigation by police and fire authorities into a fire which caused the death of 6-year-old Felipe Villareal at the home of Mrs. Anita Sence, has led officers to believe that defective wiring was responsible. A theory of arson was abandoned.

CAMPAIGN TO HELP NATIONAL JEWISH HOSPITAL CLOSES

Conceived by Jews and supported almost entirely by Jewish philanthropy, the National Jewish hospital at Denver has been, from the very first day of its history, wholly non-sectarian in its service, it was asserted here Saturday by Mrs. Paul Green, chairman of the local committee of "NJH" bond sales.

Wichita Falls subscribed generously toward the bonds during the campaign, Mrs. Green said. Members of the committee, however, are to continue work during the next few days.

Among patients in the hospital are three from Wichita Falls, including two Gentiles and one Jew. One of the patients from here is a 7-year-old child, whose health and life have been saved because the hospital attention has been made possible for her, it was declared.

Thirty-one years ago this hospital started its nation-wide, free, non-sectarian service for men, women and children suffering from tuberculosis, with the motto "None may enter who can pay—none can pay who enter," Mrs. Green said. Those who are familiar with the work of the institution, state that this motto has not been merely a conglomeration of words, but has been carried out in every respect in connection with the patients treated at the institution, she added.

The "NJH" bonds, Mrs. Green explained, are for the benefit of the hospital in Denver. The annual distribution of the bonds closed Saturday.

Chief Police Arrested

CLEARWATER, Fla., May 9. (AP)—Webb Hill, chief of police at Tarpon Springs, was arrested today on three indictments charging extortion which the Pinellas county grand jury returned late yesterday. He was held in the sheriff's office here pending the posting of $5,000 bond on each of the indictments.

GO TO CHURCH TODAY FOR MOTHER

Today Is Mother's Day

If you are with her note the expression of gladness on her face. Why? Simply because you are with her.

And if she is miles away can't you just see that same look when she received your remembrance? No matter what the cost—but just the thought that brings joy to her heart.

Today we do honor in spirit and reality to Mother.

He thinks a great deal of her

To be sure, he occasionally forgets to send home flowers on her birthday, and as the years go by, even the wedding anniversary is apt to slip his mind.

But when it comes to thinking ahead for her—that is where he shines. What has he done?

First, he has taken care to have enough of this world's goods to yield an income for her to live on.

Then, with equal forethought, he has made a will placing his entire fortune in trust for her benefit. The trustee will invest the property in good securities, collect the income and pay it to her as long as she lives.

Furthermore, this thoughtful man has given his wife the right to dispose of the principal under her own will.

Let us show you and your wife how an admirable plan of this kind can be made to meet your wishes, her requirements and your plans for the children.

President's Breakfast Tuesday To Be Brilliant Spring Event Closing Woman's Forum Season

Members and guests from many cities will be present Tuesday for the annual home coming social feature of the Woman's Forum season when the president's breakfast will take place at 10 o'clock. Texas, more beautiful this spring with wildflowers than in many years of her history will be featured in the program and decorations. The stage will be arranged as a Texas spring garden and tables will be centered with green garden hats tied with golden ribbon and filled with flowers in yellow as the predominating color.

One lovely musical number will be given on the program which is sponsored altogether by Junior Forum members. The prison song from Verdi's "Il Trovatore," which was sung by Miss Harriett Bradley and Baldwin Montgomery in an operetta arranged for the Junior Forum, will be repeated by the same artists. Miss Bradley's rich contralto and Mr. Montgomery's vibrant tenor make a beautiful duet of the song.

Legends of Texas wild flowers will be given as follows: Dandelion, Miss Mary Tancred; wine-cup, Mrs. Thomas Korn; water lily or wild lotus, Miss Mary Virginia Barron; morning glory, Miss Mary Hamilton; Indian blanket or gallardia, Miss Marguerite Peery; bluebonnet, Miss Jeannette Moore.

Mrs. Luther Hoffman will be toastmistress and will toast incoming officers each of whom will respond.

Unusual Plans

Mrs. T. T. T. Reese is in charge of general arrangements and has appointed chairmen for each department of hospitality. Mrs. Walter K. Campbell is in charge of publicity; Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, chairman of menu has as her assistants Mesdames Frank van Wormer and Mark Walker; Mrs. T. M. Conrey is chairman of decorations.

The standing committee includes Mesdames Luther Hoffman, R. E. Hilburn, Ralph deShong, W. P. Ferguson, J. L. Jackson Jr., W. J. Grisham, E. P. Bass, Orville Carrico, C. W. ### FATHERS' NIGHT TO BE OBSERVED FRIDAY

The play to be given by Carrigan school mothers at the fathers' night program of the Carrigan Parent-Teacher association Friday is a deep and dark mystery, announced Mrs. A. J. Catlin, first vice president of the organization, to some inquisitive members of the executive board Friday.

Mrs. J. C. Russell of the Zundelowitz Parent-Teacher association, who will direct the play, promises it will be unusual and interesting, but the nature of the play, its title and the cast is unknown to all but those taking part in the presentation.

Carrigan school fathers will likely be unable to recognize their own wives Friday night. All members who take part are pledged to secrecy. Costumes and scenery are being prepared by the cast and dress rehearsal will be held Thursday, according to Mrs. Russell.

Picnic Luncheon Honors Officers Of P.-T. A. Group

While the members and guests gathered, the tables on the lawn were loaded with silver pitchers of coffee and tea, bowls of delightful salads, mountains of olives, pickles, sandwiches and potato chips with ice cream and cake waiting to complete the luncheon. The meal was served cafeteria style and plates were handled on laps and on the lawn indiscriminately. A large amount of food left, was placed in boxes to be sent to city organizations.

Mrs. ten Brink, acting as toastmistress was placed at a distinct disadvantage by the unruliness of some retiring officers whom she intended to toast, but from the time she took her place to talk until she had finished, she kept everyone in a gale of laughter. She in turn called on Mrs. Paul Barnett who gave a charming toast in rhyme and introduced the new officers as follows: Mrs. Harry ten Brink, president; Mrs. Fred Sehmann, first vice president; Mrs. Ed Peterson, second vice president; Mrs. Albert Owen, third vice president; Mrs. Eleanor D. Pace, secretary; Mrs. Paul Barnett, treasurer and Mrs. C. E. Basham, city council representative. Mrs. Basham gave a tribute in verse to the sponsors.

Mrs. Barnett, in behalf of the P.-T. A. board made a lovely speech of appreciation to Mrs. Patrick Henry for the help she had been in the organization, expressing their regret at her departure and at the appropriate moment, Mrs. J. W. Napier presented her with a beautiful bouquet of handkerchiefs arranged by the group.

Mrs. Peterson was thanked prettily by Mrs. ten Brink for her generous hospitality and responded graciously.

Frank Creighton completed the festivities of the day, when he organized the guests into two bands and led them in a series of amusing games.

BRIDE-ELECT HONOREE AT PRETTY SHOWER

HENRIETTA, Texas, May 9.—Miss Louise Fryar, whose engagement to W. J. Glascow was announced May 6, was complimented with an unusual shower Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Rob Brown and Mrs. Maud Goodman entertained the ward school teachers with a picnic on the spacious lawn of Mrs. Brown's home.

The guests were invited to pick strawberries in a big patch off the lawn and in doing so the honoree made the pleasant discovery of an array of gifts among the berries.

A delightful picnic supper was served on the lawn against a background of red poppies. Those present were the ward school teachers and Mr. and Mrs. Rob Brown.

Twelve cotton contestants in Lexington county, South Carolina, averaged 537 pounds of one-inch lint per acre and made a profit of $30.05 per acre.

Combo Ringlette

Our new "Ringlette" method of permanent waving is not ordinary. It is quite as simple, easy and comfortable as a mere marcel. With it there is not the slightest discomfort, pull or pain. There is no pedestal—no chandelier—no heavy mass of metal to take away the pleasure of having a beautiful wave.

The—how soon one is ready—that amazes you all freedom of movement throughout the operation—you can swim, walk, or sunbathe! It produces a beautiful, natural wave—and dust with one-tenth of the usual amount of heat. This naturally tends to prevent the hair-strain that robs the life out of it. The "Ringlette" marks a new freedom and new beauty in permanents—in giving the first to enjoy its comfort.

WICHITA COUNTY MOTHER

MRS. S. M. DANIEL

The above picture of one of Wichita county's pioneer women was chosen as a perfect reminder of "Mother's Day." Mr. and Mrs. Daniel live on the Burkburnett road and have been citizens of this county for 45 years. Mrs. Daniel celebrated her 70th birthday a few days ago, and Mr. Daniel is 80 years of age. The couple have a beautiful old fashioned white two-story home near Burkburnett. Their sons, Charles R. and S. B. Daniel, and their families live in Wichita Falls.

BRIDE-ELECT HONOREE AT BRIDGE SHOWER

Honoring Miss Artie McDuffey whose marriage to Ralph Peterson takes place at high noon today, Mrs. C. P. Brandon entertained Thursday evening at her home on Joline street with a pretty bridge and surprise linen shower. Pink and blue were noted in the decorations and lovely spring flowers filled the rooms.

Bridge was played at tables stressing the dainty motif with pink tallies and scores. The high prize, a handsome Chinese linen luncheon set, was won by Mrs. Barney Morgan and the low, a pretty buffet set of the same material, was presented to Mrs. Henry Vernon. Both winners gave their lovely gifts to the honoree.

A message delivered to the bride-elect, notified her how to start on a treasure hunt and at its close she was confronted with a little negro boy with a huge red wagon filled with lovely linens.

The dainty refreshment plate noting the pink and blue in colors and carrying dainty silver shoes for nut cups were served to Miss McDuffey, the honoree, Mesdames Henry Vernon, Barney Morgan, W. W. Nelms, Stewart, Barry Seaton, Fred Hemsteadt, Nicholson, Misses Eva Chambers, Belva Lee Chambers, Louise Ramey, Dorothy Jameson, Marion Finch, Ruth White and the hostess, Mrs. Brandon.

Amusing Comedy Given by Huey P.-T. A. Friday

Fifteen mother players of the Huey P.-T. A. presented, "What Husbands Don't Know," at the school Friday evening. The small auditorium was packed to capacity and the play was well received. A neat sum was added to the treasury.

The costumes were of a period long gone by and each player depicted her character in an unusually realistic manner.

Mrs. R. Hightower, as Mrs. Peterkins, the retiring president, presided over a meeting of the "Mystery Club," when a new president was to have been elected. Mrs. J. E. Ezell, as Mrs. Jasper, who always takes her children to meeting; Mrs. F. A. Bidelspacher, as Mrs. Hartshorn, who enjoys poor health; Mrs. R. L. Lancaster, as Mrs. Wilbur, the village seamstress, who brings wedding clothes to sew; Mrs. W. S. Martin, as Mrs. Frost, the haughty member with the lorgnette; Mrs. John Harrington, as Aunt Sally Watts, who is as "deaf" as a post, but knows all the news; Mrs. F. Tillman as Mrs. Meredith, the bride who thinks "Harold is beautiful"; Mrs. J. Schiller, as Miss Spaulding, the village school teacher and a spinister of other days; Miss Spurloch, as Mrs. Uppinngton, important on account of her wealth; Mrs. W. I. Stephens, as Jane Barlow, engaged at last; Mrs. J. O. Hall, as Mrs. Pryer, the efficient gossip, and Mrs. J. T. Carr, as Mrs. Sweetman, a good woman, even though she doesn't have a car, composed the membership. Mrs. J. H. Long as Tootsie, and Mrs. W. L. Garner as Jakie, the Jasper twins, in their blue checked apron and rompers, brought their little chairs to the meeting and behaved as only twins can. Mrs. W. L. Goodson, as Portulaca, the colored maid, hid behind the screen and "took in" the proceedings. After all the members had been considered for the presidency, the business of the day was entirely forgotten, in the excitement of the discovery of Jane's engagement. It was Portulaca that made the discovery that "dem ladies forget to 'lect a prezzydent," and brought down the house by attiring herself in the lost white dustcloth for a bridal veil, snatched up the feather duster for the bouquet and paraded across the stage singing, "Heah comes re bride."

A player, "David's Health Helpers," given by the children of the third grade under the direction of Miss Ruth Cullis, preceded the mother's play. Miss Kathryn Martin gave piano numbers between acts.

PLEASANT VALLEY P.-T. A. OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

Installation of officers for the coming year marked the final meeting of the Pleasant Valley Parent-Teacher association of the spring, held Friday afternoon at the schoolhouse.

Mrs. G. C. Hathaway presided over the ceremony when the following officers were installed: Mrs. R. H. Thurston, re-elected president; Mrs. C. E. Russell, first vice president; Mrs. J. A. Reynolds, second vice president to succeed Mrs. Luther Abet; Mrs. Robert Thor-Frank Davis, recording secretary man, third vice president; Mrs. J. Frank Davis, recording secretary to succeed Mics Della Beeler; Mrs. M. E. Henry, re-elected treasurer; Mrs. Jim Cowden, corresponding secretary; Miss Della Beeler, historian and publicity, to succeed Miss Mae Mauldin; Mrs. G. C. Hathaway, elected parliamentarian.

"Contagious Diseases" was the theme of a talk made by Dr. H. P. Ledford when he stressed vaccination and preparation for diseases; also elimination of diseases through proper exposition of the child.

During the social hour group songs were sung and readings including "The Old White Church," Paula Bill Thurston; "Out to Old Aunt Marys," Billie Carroll Cameron.

Mrs. R. H. Thurston, president presided over the business session when the meeting opened with reading of the minutes of the April meeting read by Miss Della Beeler.

Splendid reports from various committees were heard.

Plans are about complete for the "summer roundup."

After refreshments were served to the following people the meeting adjourned to meet next September, date to be announced later: Mesdames R. H. Thurston, H. Lange, J. Frank Davis, T. J. Davis, J. A. Reynolds, N. E. Guthrie, C. E. Russell, M. E. Henry, H. Blackwell, F. L. Parkinson, G. C. Hathaway, J. F. Davis, Jim Cowden, L. L. Cox, C. Hulcy and Misses Mattie Beeler, Della Beeler and Mae Mauldin.

Local Altrusans Plan Twilight Program May 19

Sponsored by the local branch of Altrusa, a beautiful twilight program will be given May 19 on the J. T. Harrell terrace gardens in Morningside Heights. The pageant, which will carry the audience through a day in Texas will begin with the dawn in spring, will include all Texas flowers and end with a beautiful fire fly number. There will be 45 dancers interpreting these scenes from the school of Mrs. Anna May Catb Davis assisted by Mrs. Harry Gross. Elaborate costumes will represent the flowers in all their colors.

Camp Fire Girls, who are sponsored by Miss Mary McIlheran and Girl Reserves with sponsors from each of the schools will open with a grand march led by Miss Davita Olinger. There will be 300 girls in this assembly.

R. E. Shepherd will sing "The City of Wichita Falls," and Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes will direct the chorus numbers. The Lion's club and Faith City bands, directed by Leo Underwood, will furnish music for all the numbers. Margaret Davis, Camp Fire girl and cornet soloist, will play the reveille and taps and Marion Beesly, talented whistler, will whistle mockingbird numbers with the orchestral accompaniment.

Posters are being made by art departments of the various schools to be placed in adjacent towns. Girl reserves sponsors assisting in different schools include Miss Juanita Kinsey, high school and junior college; Misses Corinne Moore and Blanche Dean, Alamo; Miss Zoe Lyle, Austin; Misses Adeena Kouri and Gorman, Barwise; Mrs. Florence Frazer and Miss Elizabeth Wright, Bowie; Miss Lailah Norman Carrigan, Miss Lillie Carney, Ben Franklin; Miss Margaret Lewis, Huey; Miss Fannie Vaughn, San Jacinto and Miss Maude Latham, Travis.

The program will begin at 6:30 p. m. unless it rains. In that case, it will be postponed one week. Girl reserves will be waiting at Ninth and Grant and at other points to direct strangers.

STUDY CLUBS ANNOUNCE FINAL MEETINGS

Members of various study clubs met Friday for interesting programs and to plan the closing meetings of the season. Mrs. Jack Rankin was hostess to members of the Twentieth Century junior and roll call was answered with assigned topics.

In the short business session, Mrs. J. E. Hay presided and the program following was a "Review of Romantic Poetry." Mrs. True Cauble gave a review of "The Vicar of Wakefield." Announcement was made of the final meeting of the season in a luncheon at the home of Mrs. James E. Hay.

A delightful refreshment plate was served to Mesdames A. A. Werlin, Franklin Henderson, Robert K. French, James E. Hay, Loyd J. Taylor, True Cauble, and the hostess, Mrs. Jack H. Rankin.

Wichita Falls Story Telling

Mrs. R. E. Benson was hostess to members of the Wichita Falls Story Telling club when, with Mrs. George Thorburn, president presiding, the roll call was answered with interesting facts about local wild flowers.

Mrs. J. B. McDowell read the report of the nominating committee and the slate as named was unanimously elected. The new officers who will take their places in the autumn include Mrs. George Truitt, president; Mrs. O. R. Key, vice president; Mrs. R. E. Benson, recording secretary; Mrs. W. J. Stuckler, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. L. Proctor, treasurer and Mrs. J. A. James, critic.

When the program committee took charge, Mrs. Jack Ralston read chapters six and seven of Bailey's "For the Story Teller," and the following stories were given: "The Little Pine Tree That Wished for New Leaves," Mrs. Richey Abernathy; "How the Camel Got His Hump," George Truitt; "The Selfish Giant," Mrs. J. B. McDowell.

Mrs. Jack Ralston gave the critic's report and in the social hour, a delightful salad course was served to Mesdames, Richey Abernathy, Omar Barker, J. A. James, O. R. Key, J. B. McDowell, Jack Ralston, W. J. Stuckler, George Thorburn, L. E. Ruth, the hostess and Mr. and Mrs. George Truitt.

Alpha Story Tellers

Mrs. H. E. Kurtz was hostess to members of the Alpha Story Telling club in the last meeting of the spring season. Mrs. P. B. Curd, leader, reviewed the 10th chapter of "Story Telling" by Cather, and a parliamentary drill was led by Mrs. Jack B. Dale.

The answers to the roll call made the program for the afternoon. Each member was assigned a flower and brought a legend or a flower of the specie given her. Mrs. Kurtz, who was assigned the bluebonnet had her home filled with a mass of the Texas flowers and many other pretty blossoms were shown. Mrs. Patrick Henry, with the rose as her flower, presented each member of the club with a rose as her parting gift.

A delightful salad plate was served to Mesdames P. B. Curd, Jack B. Dale, R. L. Daugherty, T. E. Durrett, H. A. Glass, Godfrey Engel, J. A. Curtis, Mont Groves, Patrick Henry, W. A. Scarborough, J. OPEN SEASON on ELBOWS

SLEEVES are slipping shoulderwards. Three-quarter length . . . half way up . . . mere shoulder caps! The elbow is emerging into a daytime existence. Alas, that most elbows should be so unlovely, so rough and wrinkly, so dingy! Their dire situation demands immediate attention. Elizabeth Arden, from her rich experience, tells you exactly what to do. You should attack the roughened surfaces with Anti-Brown Spot and Special Bleach Cream. After this whitening treatment, use quantities of Orange Skin Food to enrich the skin and soothe it. Apply Muscle Oil liberally to the arms, using a rotary motion to stimulate circulation.

Wash your hands and arms only with the finest soap. Acquaint them with the supreme luxury of Elizabeth Arden's Bath Mits, rich with almond-scented lather. Afterwards, out of simple courtesy, accord them a delicate application of Hand Cream or Velva Liquid, to maintain their softness.

Make your hands and arms and elbows an asset to your newest short-sleeved frock . . . not a menace!

● VENETIAN ANTI-BROWN SPOT OINTMENT—A creamy, tingling ointment to stimulate circulation and whiten the skin. . . . . $2.50, $5.00
● ORANGE SKIN FOOD—Keeps the skin full and firm, helps round out lines and hollows. . . . . $1, $1.75, $2.75, $4.25, $8
● VENETIAN VELVA BATH MITS—Fabric bags filled with cleansing and fragrant cosmetic preparations for the bath and shower. . . . . Box of 6, $3
● VENETIAN HAND CREAM—A smooth lotion, fragrant and healing, to be rubbed into the hands after washing. It soothes chapping and prevents roughness. . $1
● VENETIAN VELVA LIQUID—An exquisite lotion containing delicate oils. It keeps the hands soft, smooth and white. . . . . $1, $2.50

● VENETIAN MUSCLE OIL—A penetrating oil rich in the elements which stimulate flabby muscles. . . . . $1, $2.50, $4

Mother's Day Isn't Grandmother's Day After All -:- By Kathleen Norris

MRS. NORRIS

In ten thousand small apartments in noisy, colossal, mechanical New York City, and in thousands of small apartments in other big cities everywhere, there are mothers with young children.

We take them for granted; banging out their washings upon high clothes-lines, wheeling those baby carriages through every park in the country.

And yet these young women are leading the hardest lives, and performing the greatest service in the world. No minister, scientist, doctor, leader, teacher does for the commonwealth what they do, day in and day out, and night in and night out.

And what do they get out of it? Who helps them, who understands, who cares?

We are too much inclined to think of Mother's day as grandmothers' day. We think of the old mothers, the dear, gray-headed, gentle old women who made our childhood so sweet.

But why not recognize the younger ones, too.

The mother of small babies—I mean the moderately-well-to-do mother of small babies, the woman whose income runs from $200 to $500 a month—doesn't get much sympathy from any one. Perhaps her own mother is impatient with her; "great heavens, Barbara, another!" the grandmother exclaims, exasperated. Helen's friends laugh, and shake their heads, and raise their eyebrows. Even Tom, extraordinary as it seems, is not always comforting.

Tom comes home dead tired at 6—so they can't live in the country. Junior was a hard baby to raise, and Helen's nerves were still all jangled when Betsey came along. And now—all the business of cribs and bottles, baths and weighing and croup and worrying again? No, Tom doesn't throw his hat in the air and yell for joy when Helen tells him about it.

Helen could manage so much better if they weren't in town. The rent is staggering, the rooms are dark and crowded, and the babies always underfoot. The rain falls, and the clock ticks, and the babies whimper and stumble about, breaking toys, fretting, wanting to get up into laps. Helen "tries to get a woman, mornings," Helen "has a nice girl coming afternoons"—nothing works long, and it is always Helen who is responsible, Helen who has to do what nobody else will do.

If it would always be summer, if they could always be out in the grass, the sand-box. But the winter is endless, little sniffles and colds are endless, airings, naps, meals, all but Helen's back, in the long cold, dark months.

Tom, in 10 business years in the quiet bank, never knows one instant of such exhausting fright as is Helen's when she shrieks "What have you in your mouth, Baby? What did she eat, Brother!"

The voice of the world is loud against the wife who will not have children. But how little the world does for the woman who does have them.

Helen has this sort of thing all day.

The voice of the world is loud against the wife who will not have children. But how little the world does for the woman who does have them!

She ought to have big clubs, like the hospitals, athletic clubs, Y. W. C. A. buildings, schools, big baby clubs, where all mothers would bring their babies every morning, all mothers take turns about running them, where spinach and whole wheat toast and milk and apple sauce should be eternally on tap, where older women would be available, or nurses and advisers, where French classes, embroidery classes, bridge classes would break the monotony of the long days.

With such clubs everywhere, the mothers of small babies could be sure of two or three days a week of complete freedom—and that would be all they wanted. They would have company—that amused, older, experienced advice that dismisses all the terrors of little throats and rashes and sneezes so comfortingly.

Every woman who has ever taken care of small children knows the magical effect that the company of other children has upon them. They are like different beings, they create a world of their own, and live happily and busily in it, when they have companionship. Every cook knows that it is as easy to bake 50 potatoes as one, to soak five prounds of prunes as one prune, to wash 50 mugs, with two chattering younger girls to help, as to wash one mug in a silent kitchen, alone.

We have so much—all we other, freer women. We have so much leisure, so much money for sodas and movies and lipsticks. We see so many plays, make so many trips, buy so many books. Why it it that it is only the young mother who remains back in the middle ages, isolated, unadvised, over-burdened, generation after generation after generation?

Is it partly, do you suppose?—because men have had so much to do with the management of things, and men have always regarded children as so unimportant? Money, wars, science, even diamonds excite men; the thought of children, as a general class, rarely does. Is is perhaps for us, as women, to try to educate the other sex to the comparative value of what is living, and what is dead?

Whether it is or not, and whether women might or might not have had the power to do anything about it in the years gone by, the fact remains that women could do it now. Today women have independance, power, money—not but what this combining of nurseries would save money.

And whether they do it soon, or whether they blunder along in the old way for another few years, on this Mother's day I send my warmest greetings and good wishes, not to the older mothers who have borne the burden and the heat of the day, and are resting on their laurels, but to the young, lonely, weary, bewildered mothers of little 6, and 4, and 3, and the baby.

You are building great happiness into your own futures, you mothers. You may be tired and blue and discouraged now. But in 10 years yours will be the victory, and the glory, and the content.

CARRIGAN P.-T. A. HAS BUSINESS MEETING

Pessimism has no place in the Carrigan Parent-Teacher association," declared J. T. Rundell, principal of the school, at the regular monthly business session of the officers and sponsors of the unit held at the school Friday afternoon. Mr. Rundell gave a sketch of the growth of the association in the past eight years, saying it had progressed from a paid membership of four and attendance of 15 to a paid membership of 45 and an average attendance of more than 100.

Carrigan P.-T. A. was adjudged foremost in welfare work and furnishing equipment for playground and school, membership considered, stated Mrs. J. M. Farrell, representative of the association on the city council of P.-T. A., in her report from the city council.

Mrs. R. M. Hurst, second vice president, reported 1,734 visits had been made in homes this year by sponsors. Finances will be in good shape after all bills are paid, said Mrs. J. B. Hubbard, treasurer.

Reports were also heard from Mrs. G. Galmiche, third vice president, and Mrs. W. R. McKinney, publicity chairman.

Miss Mary Williams' room in the grade school and Miss Birtie Lee Porter's room in the primary school was awarded recognition as having had the largest percentage of mothers present at regular meeting of the organization during this semester by Mrs. A. J. Catlin, first vice president, who presided at the meeting. Mrs. Catlin appointed as a committee to entertain the children of these rooms Mrs. C. B. Clement, Mrs. J. M. Farrell, Mrs. Leon Cygon, Mrs. R. E. DeWoody.

Other committees appointed were fathers' night reception, Mrs. R. R. Ferrell, Mrs. J. M. Farrell, Mrs. R. E. DeWoody, Mrs. L. H. Gilbreath; refreshment, Mrs. J. W. Tallent, Mrs. John Yates, Mrs. V. M. Horten, Mrs. C. E. Kepley, Mrs. J. H. Douglass; teachers luncheon, Mrs. L. H. Gilbreath, Mrs. J. W. Tallant, Mrs. Leon Cygon, Mrs. J. B. Hubbard, Mrs. A. J. Catlin.

Those present were Mesdames A. J. Catlin, J. M. Farrell, J. B. Hathorn, John Yates, Leon Cygon, F. E. Warfield, L. H. Gilbreath, J. B. Hubbard, R. E. DeWoody, R. M. Hurst, R. R. Ferrell, G. Galmiche, W. R. McKinney, E. L. Raney, Miss Mamie Swenson and Mr. J. T. Rundell.

GIRL RESERVES GIVEN RECOGNITION CEREMONIAL

A beautiful recognition ceremonial for 24 girls of the Carrigan school Girl Reserves was held in the parlor of the Young Women's Christian association Friday afternoon.

The American, Christian and Girl Reserve flags on tall standards formed the background for the impressive candle lighting service when each girl lighted her small white taper at the tall red, white and blue candles which represented spirit, health and knowledge in the ceremony.

Miss Catherine Walker, secretary of the Y. W. C. A., gave a short talk inviting the girls to use the association's clubrooms and library during the summer.

Songs, "Follow the Gleam," and "I Would Be True," given by the girls, were enjoyed by the visitors.

Miss Lois Baggett, president of the Carrigan Girl Reserves, presided at the ceremonial, assisted by Miss Edna Irene Johnston, Miss Elizabeth Wright, who with Miss Lallah Norman, both of the Carrigan faculty, is sponsor of the unit, was accompanist.

Following the ceremonial punch was served to those present by the Girl Reserves.

Transportation was furnished to the Y. W. C. A. clubrooms by the Carrigan Parent-Teacher association.

Visitors present were Miss Catharine Walker of the Y. W. C. A., Mesdames G. W. Anderson, Estelle Chandler, J. W. Harper, J. T. Rundell, J. Harbes, W. C. McMurry, J. T. Baggett, E. N. Hibbs, W. R. McKinney and Mr. J. T. Rundell.

ABE MARTIN — On th' Nose an' Its Relation t' Character

Close Range Study o' Th' Nose

As th' month o' June draws nigh th' prospective bride should take a few moments each day from her talcum powder an' devote 'em t' sober reflection. Th' step she is plannin' t' take is th' real big headliner act of her life. Let her consider it well. Let her study th' teachin's o' th' world's greatest physiognomists, whose theories are interwoven with th' findin's o' ever known science, before she leaves th' ole home, or resigns her downtown job. Let her take up nose readin' durin' th' few golden weeks that remain.

I wonder how many girls o' t'-day who are filled with rose-tinted visions o' happy married life know that th' septum o' th' nose is th' partition between th' nostrils? I wonder how many girls o' t'day who are countin' th' minutes till th' month o' roses know that ther whole future happiness depends on th' thickness o' her fiance's septum an' its inclination t' droop or not droop? If his septum is thin an' not disposed t' droop let her take warnin' ere it is too late, fer it is a never failin' sign of a retired liver. Tho' th' breakin' o' her engagement may embitter her fiance's life an' cause her many a heartache, it will be better fer both, as her alliance with an inactive liver would mean nothin' better than a life filled with misery an' regret.

Th' nose is nature's most humble organ next t' th' big toe. Th' whole human character is boldly written thereon so that even she who runs may read. There's no reason fer anybuddy but a blind girl gettin' stung. Whether th' nose is pale, red or veined, it is now regarded as th' only reliable index to character.

Ideality, veneration, constructiveness, cautiousness, mental imitation, sublimity, an' especially acquisitiveness (a disposition t' acquire property, money, etc.) are all factors in th' success o' life which may be easily read in th' nose, an' which should be carefully considered by ever' girl before she signs away her happiness.

Th' upper lip may be a perfect cupid's bow an' full o' amativeness, or th' lower lip may be thick with a desire t' promote happiness, but neither indicate anything in th' way o' makin' a livin'.

Th' eyes, long regarded as th' windows o' th' soul an' th' true index o' character, are worthless without a gilt edge nose. A fullness o' th' upper an' soft part o' th' cheek o'er th' malar bone is another overworked sign that counts fer nothin' when appearin' in conjunction with a thin septum. A square nose indicates a well developed conscience, which is all well an' good if th' accompanyin' septum is th' thing whether th' nose is concave or convex.

Fullness an' breadth o' th' nose above th' nostrils indicates a capacity fer gittin' th' goods—a quality too rarely considered before wedlock, but later regarded as bein' of inestimable value in th' pursuit o' happiness. Such a quality, too, avails but little, however, if th' septum is thin.

O' course, it's purty hard t' associate any sentiment with th' nose no matter how close we occasionally git t' it, but jest the same if th' prospective bride while holdin' hands, 'll jest make a careful analysis o' her fiance's nose while ther' is yit time it may be th' means o' savin' her th' embarrassmer o' th' pale hungry expression that is t' be found all too often on th' faces o' those who have sought happiness at th' altar o' love.

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Here is a quick and easy way to take off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—with never a hungry moment. A way any doctor will tell you is safe and sure.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses your system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on butter, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clean your system of toxins. The diet takes off fat with food that turns to energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work—Adv.

Mrs. F. R. Collard Will Appear on Organ Program

Mrs. F. R. Collard was one of the outstanding musicians of Wichita Falls who recently appeared on the state convention program of the Texas Federation of Musicians' clubs, playing a joint recital with Carl Weiseman of Dallas and the Southwestern university choir. Her performance won highest praise and she has since been asked to appear in numerous sections of the state.

Wednesday evening, May 6, Mrs. Collard gave a recital in Navasota, Texas, which was a special music week event, sponsored by the three music clubs of Navasota, and headed by Miss Julia Owen, who is the founder of music week in Texas. This recital was held at the First Methodist church in Navasota.

This evening she is appearing in recital at Bryan, Texas, as the guest of Mrs. Webb Howell, one of the donors of the beautiful new organ in the First Baptist church of that city.

On May 13, Mrs. Collard will appear in Fort Worth on the state convention program of the Texas chapter, American Guild of Organists, of which she is a member. For the past 10 years, she has been an officer in both the state and first district, Texas Federation of Music Clubs. She has studied with a number of America's finest organists in Boulder, Denver, Chicago and New York City.

PERSONAL MENTION

Oawakiya Group Entertain With Banquet Friday

Members of the Oawakiya group exhibited in vivid fashion the policy of the Camp Fire Girls of "learning by doing" on Friday night when they entertained their parents in the basement of the Highland Heights Christian church, with a banquet prepared and served by the members themselves.

Dorthea Whitehead, Ina Jo Ogle, Lois Schram, and Margaret Hutchinson, four of the wood gatherers of the group, planned the menu, purchased the food, keeping accounts of all expenditures, cooked and served the meal at the nominal cost of 25 cents per plate. Price lists were scanned, and very careful shopping was necessary to serve the splendid meal of fruit cocktail, meat loaf with tomato sauce, mashed potatoes, creamed peas, vegetable salad, jell-o and cake, and ice tea and hot rolls. Ruth Van Wormer, Lorita Tanner, Bernice Cyr and Evelyn Howard were in charge of the decorations. Annette Adair was in charge of arrangements, securing the use of the church, song sheets for singsong and registering guests as they arrived. The tables were very attractive, bearing out the color scheme of French blue, red and white, in keeping with the international friendship theme of 1931. Table decorations included strips of red and blue paper, pretty May baskets made by disguising tin cans with bits of bright envelope linings, filled with red poppies, daisies and corn flowers, and tiny French flags made of paper, toothpicks, and red gum drops for pedestals.

Beverly Nan Witherspoon proved to be a charming and capable toastmistress, explaining that the Oawakiya group had chosen France for special study during the international friendship year, and had enjoyed learning about many other countries as well. Toasts were given to mothers, fathers, Camp Fire sisters, the guardian, and the school principal. Mrs. F. E. Van Wormer responded to the mother's toast, Mrs. Frank Schram, guardian of the group, to the guardian's toast and Mr. J. E. Park, superintendent of Alamo school, to that of the principal. Mr. Park expressed his approval of the Camp Fire program which is giving to its girls such splendid experience in taking up the responsibilities and complimented the girls who had prepared the meal which did credit to much older and more experienced girls. Mr. Parks was awarded a tiny world with four Camp Fire Girl paper dolls holding hands around it, for making the cleverest rhyme about Camp Fire in a contest.

Miss Mary McIlheran, executive, made a talk telling of the history of the Oawakiya group and some of the accomplishments of the year's work. She praised the fine work of the girls and especially the banquet as their latest accomplishment. Evelyn Howard was given special mention for the fine cakes she bakes to earn her money for dues and equipment in Camp Fire.

Some 25 guests attended. After the banquet the girls sang songs and the entire group enjoyed an old-fashioned singsong around the piano.

Members of the group are planning to have the next fire makers dinner an outdoor meal with families invited when the meal will be prepared and served by candidates for the fire makers rank. Food will be cooked over the open fire next time.

Locate War "Aces"

WASHINGTON—The war department has succeeded in locating 55 of the "aces" who won their spurs in the air service of the government during the world war. Only 22 of these 55 are still connected with military service, and only seven of this number are engaged in active service with the air corps. At the end of the war there were 72 pilots credited with five or more victories in aerial combat.

Junior College Entertainers to Present Minstrel

Junior college entertainers are to present for public approval an evening of blackface comedy and minstrelsy Tuesday night at the college auditorium, according to Prof. A. F. Edwards, sponsor of the three clubs giving the entertainment. the performance, the proceeds of which are to go to the Wal-Kun, is given under the auspices of the college tennis, outdoor, and senate clubs, assisted by three high school players.

"Coontown Justice," a short play that has proved popular for many years, according to sponsors of the performance, is to be presented by a group of students from the college clubs, with Bob Trevathan, Bryant Creighton, and Frits McDonald, former senator and college student, as leading characters. All leading actors have had considerable experience in public appearances.

A blackface minstrel, presenting Fred Schmann, Bill Donnell, and Pat Henry, is the second major feature of the evening's entertainment. All three actors are leaders in high school activities.

Times' Program for Wichita Falls

1. OIL—Place the Wichita Falls district on a parity with other centers in the marketing of both crude oil and refined products.
2. THE VALLEY—Systematic, vigorous development of the irrigated valley in keeping with its possibilities as Wichita Falls' greatest physical asset.
3. WATER—An ample, assured supply of soft water.
4. EDUCATION—Maintenance of a junior college in Wichita Falls to give opportunity for higher education to our youth—the highest standards in elementary schools.
5. THE LAKES—Full development of the recreational opportunities offered by the three lakes.
6. HIGHWAYS—Early consummation of a highway program covering all the main routes radiating from this city and all the local roads that serve its agricultural community.
7. DRAINAGE—Solution of the drainage problem in all three phases; first in the irrigated valley; second, with regard to Holliday creek. Third, in those portions of the city now inadequately drained.
8. GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY—The adoption of such means as may be found most feasible to reduce the cost of local government by elimination of unnecessary offices and consolidation of others.

OVERDRAFTS AND CITY MANAGERS

Dallas' newly-installed city manager, John N. Edy, faces the dispiriting task of dealing with a seven-figure overdraft, $1,060,314. Dallas is $368,229 further in the red ink than it was a year ago.

Mr. Edy has the sympathy, no doubt, of George N. Fairtrace, Wichita Falls' city manager, who found a similarly proportioned overdraft staring him in the face when he assumed office.

Well, that is what city managers are for, and they have to make the best of it. If other methods of city government were efficient enough to avoid spending more than the municipal income, there wouldn't be much need of city managers, anywhere.

MR. MORROW LAUGHED

Senator Morrow of New Jersey laughed heartily, dispatches said, when he returned from a European trip and was questioned by reporters as to the possibility of his being a candidate for the Republican vice presidential nomination. It was the best answer for him to give. There is nothing committal about laughter. It does not mean that he would not accept the nomination, nor does it mean that he is seeking it. It leaves the way open.

From his party's standpoint, it may be well to leave it open. Senator Morrow may prove to be just the man the Republicans need for second place on the ticket. If, as is considered most probable, Mr. Hoover is renominated, political strategy would dictate that an eastern man be his running mate, as Mr. Hoover is a westerner; it likewise would dictate that someone friendly to the wet cause be on the ticket with him, as Mr. Hoover is ostensibly a dry. As a further consideration, someone in whom the business men have full confidence might be desirable. Mr. Morrow meets each of these requirements. He is, in addition, a widely popular individual.

The Republicans might fare further and do a great deal worse. From their angle, there is nothing in the possibility to occasion laughter, scornful or otherwise.

THE HOME RULE AMENDMENT

In the course of debate over the county home rule amendment in the senate, Senator Parrish of Lubbock raised the objection that the measure means "good-bye to legislative control of counties."

That is just exactly what it means. It proposes to give counties the say-so about their own affairs. It would remove the necessity of waiting two years, or of running down to Austin, for the special legislation that counties now require. It would put county government on the same footing as municipal government. It would give counties the same opportunity to modernize their official affairs that cities now enjoy and under which municipal government has made so much healthy progress, Senator Parrish unwittingly gave an argument for the measure.

If the resolution is finally submitted in the form engrossed by the senate, Wichita county will be excluded from its provisions. The senate measure limits the home rule plan to counties of 75,000 or over, and Wichita county's population in 1930 was 74,416. The former figure was 60,000. Counties as populous as our own should have the privilege of adopting the plan, even though, as is quite likely, they would ignore it.

ELECTION RETURNS

A measure still pending in the legislature would facilitate the counting and announcing of votes in primary and general elections. It has the emphatic indorsement of the press of the state and no valid objection can be offered to it.

If members of the legislature would "sit in" on newspaper desks on the night of primary election days and witness the difficulties under which returns are assembled, they would readily recognize the need of this legislation. Votes quickly counted and promptly announced constitute a safeguard against fraud and chicanery. The public, of course, is eager for the figures. Its eagerness adds no little to the trouble of newspapers when the returns are coming in.

In all save the smallest boxes, counting of the vote should start soon after the polls open. As soon as the polls close, announcement of the vote as counted up to that time should be made. Subsequent announcements should be made at intervals of not less than one hour until the counting is completed. Even under the happiest conditions, election night is a time of terrific strain and arduous toil for newspapers. But the legislature can do something to help. Passage of the pending bill will accomplish that.

THE 120-DAY SESSION

A good many observers are expressing disappointment at the workings of the new constitutional amendment which was designed to systematize things in the legislature. The only results of that amendment, it is declared, are that the regular session lasts 120 days instead of 60 and that the members get $10 a day instead of $5.

There is much that seems to justify these complaints. The 41st legislature does not seem to have caught the spirit of that part of the amendment which, we were told, would make for thoughtful study of pending measures, for orderly procedure and for deliberate action.

The new system gives the legislators a chance to think. Apparently that is too much of an innovation. Many of its members had seen previous legislative service and found themselves unable to change their habits. New members seemed to drift into the habits of the older ones. Perhaps it is in order to elect legislators to whom thinking is not so much of a novelty.

After all, the new system is better than the old. The plan of trying to get through in 60 days, always failing to do so, and then trying to complete the legislative program in another 30 days, and failing again, made confusion and ill-considered action inevitable. The new plan at least gives the legislators a chance to study and investigate. If they have ignored that chance, the fault is in them rather than in the amendment.

No set of rules is going to offset public indifference in the election of legislators. Eventually, perhaps, the public will realize that it is useless to give the opportunity of thinking to men who lack the capacity for it. The failures of the 41st legislature are due to its composition, not to the rules under which it worked.

WHAT IS ICE CREAM?

The Ohio legislature passed a bill giving a legal definition to ice cream, ices, sherbets and other frozen desserts. Ice cream was defined as a product containing a minimum amount of dairy products of prescribed butterfat content, and as having been manufactured by certain specified processes, and so on.

Gov. George White vetoed the bill when it reached his desk. It is refreshing to encounter an executive who recognizes the limits beyond which regulatory measures should not go. Ohio's health laws already govern the healthfulness of food products sold. There was no occasion for going further.

The public should be protected from impure products and unsanitary methods of manufacture. But if it wants to buy and eat ice cream that is made largely of gelatine or corn starch, it is none of the state's business. When regulatory measures go beyond common sense, it is a good thing for a state to have a governor who recognizes it.

The Educational Focus

By GLENN FRANK
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

From time to time during the next few months I want to try to interpret, in simple and understandable terms, what the men and women standing on the frontiers of educational experimentation are thinking.

Today I want to indicate the point upon which all of this mass of experimentation is brought to focus.

For generations we spent most of our time thinking about what we should or should not put into the curriculum.

We were the abject slaves of subject-matter.

Wherever educators met, the question was: What shall we teach?

Later our concern shifted.

We began to think that maybe the most important thing was not what we were teaching but how we were teaching it.

Interest shifted from the content of the curriculum to the methods of teaching, and a new era of educational experimentation was ushered in.

We found all sorts of new ways of teaching reading, spelling, arithmetic, and so on.

The methodizers had stolen the field from the curriculum-carpenters.

The old-timers, as the methodizers thought, were but retail merchants of canned information.

But before long the methodizers found a new group treading on their heels.

The methodizers were ardent reformers, but the new group had set out to reform the reformers.

The new group was not interested in simply improving the merchandizing methods of the old education.

The real shift of concern, this new group said, should not be from subject matter to method, but from subject matter to student.

Education, this new group said, should not follow the logical lines of the teacher's organization of subject matter, but should follow the psychological lines of the student's intellectual adventures.

Curriculum-centered schools!

Student-centered schools!

These three successive points of focus are about to be followed, I think, by a correlation of the best in each.

Forgetful

She's acting downright rotten,
With this way she has of coming back
For something she'd forgotten.

If she doesn't cut it out, folks will begin to think she's a plumber.

We weren't surprised to read that a woman's speech was retored when she was stung by a bumble bee. To have a full-size bumble bee back up to you and push is calculated to make you articulate, if anything can.

Veracity

The question of whether all fishermen are liars or only liars go fishing has never been satisfactorily answered. It is a question on which we are somewhat sensitive, because we like to go fishing, and we like to tell, after we get home, of our experiences. It distresses us beyond measure to encounter people who seem skeptical and who are not readily convinced of the accuracy of our statements.

Our feelings in this matter hark back to something that happened to us down in South Texas, where we were, roughly speaking, raised. We were just a slip of a lad at the time, and it made a profound impression on us, so that even today, when we start in to tell about a fishing trip, we are careful to choose a listener who is broad-minded and of a trustful disposition. We do not mean to say that we deliberately seek out persons known to be gullible; but if we can discover someone of the type that orders strawberry shortcake in restaurants, we prefer such a one as our audience.

It is much more satisfying to have a listener who at least has the outward aspect of believing.

Our Youthful Experience

The youthful experience to which we refer was one that might happen to anybody. There was nothing phenomenal or unreasonable about it. Here is what took place. We were out walking one spring day, along a creek near our home when we came to a small pool of water that had been formed when the creek overflowed and then subsided. We waded into this pool and presently became aware that it was teaming with fish. They were so thick that they bumped against our feet and ankles. We could see them by the hundreds in the shallow water.

Our first thought was to run home and get some fishing tackle. But we noticed that some dark clouds were coming up, threatening rain, and we were afraid that if we delayed, the downpour would cause the pool to overflow and let all the fish out. It was a situation that demanded immediate action and that also constituted a challenge to our resourcefulness.

About that time we saw a sizable blacksnake in the weeds nearby, and an idea came to us. With the aid of a stick and a piece of string we captured the snake, and then, holding him by the tail, we immersed him in the pool. In a moment we pulled him out, and, as we had hoped, he was holding a big fat fish in his mouth. We took the fish away and lowered the snake's head into the water again. In just a few seconds he had another fish for us.

The Unbelievers

We kept that up, with the able cooperation of the snake, until we had as fine a string of fish as anybody could hope for. By that time it was raining, so we released the snake, giving him a small fish as a reward, and went home with our catch.

We still recall the chagrin and discomfiture that we experienced when, on telling relatives and friends what had happened, we found that no one would believe us Vainly and earnestly we protested that our story was true. We exhibited the fish to prove it. But one after another of those who listened manifested their doubts. Some intimated that we were exaggerating, others were so crass as to accuse us of downright falsehood. Our nature was much more sensitive then than it now is, that being before we had either entered newspaper work or gotten married, and the attitude of folks toward our story pained us deeply.

The worst part of it was that our reputation was affected. It got so that no one would believe us at all, regardless of what we told.

Aftermath

That experience colored our whole life. To this day when we are relating our experiences after a fishing trip, we exercise care in choosing our audience. Time has healed the wounds that were made then, but the scars remain.

Something that happened to us at that same pool a little later deserves to be recorded. We went back there, with pole and line, and found the water almost as full of fish as before. But they would not bite. They ignored every kind of bait we offered.

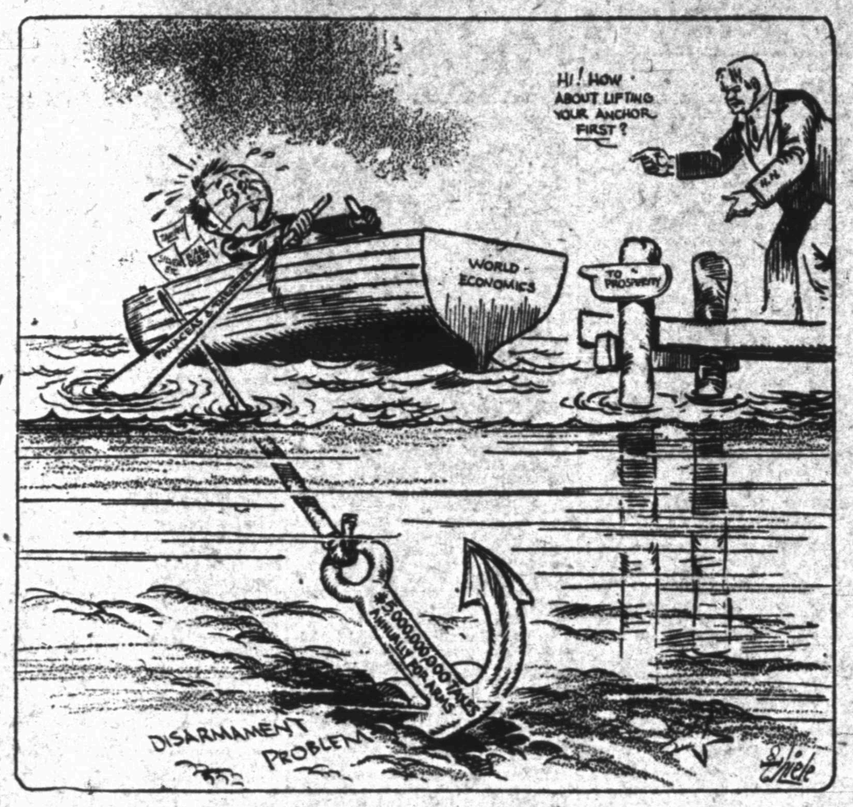

We were about to give us when we felt something touching our foot and looked down to see that same blacksnake. He was holding up his tail for us to catch hold of. It seemed to us that there was an alert, expectant look on his face, but that may have been just our imagination. Even as a lad we had exceptional powers of imagination, though that, of course, has nothing to do with this story.

We used him as before and caught another nice mess of fish, but we told everybody that we had caught them with a hook and line. We had learned our lesson.

Speaking of fishing, we find it interesting to study the Sunday school attendance figures on the first Sunday in May of each year. We have done this for several years and there is always the same result. That is, that the churches whose articles of faith indicate a predilection for deep water show a falling-off in Sunday school attendance, while those which use the sprinkler system show appreciable, or at least normal, increases. It has happened that way for several years, including this year. Of course, such figures are without any special significance; just a coincidence, we are sure.

The lady numerologist has figured it out that the Spudders have a chance. In view of what has been happening to 'em down in South Texas, it probably required no self-restraint to refrain from saying they have a cinch.

Breathing in Asthma

Most people understand that diaphragmatic breathing is superior to chest breathing, but do not know how to go about it in making the change. When one is asked to take a deep breath, he invariably raises the chest and attempts to expand the ribs which apparently fills the upper chest with air. This may be called chest breathing, and is wholly unnatural and really harmful in certain ways.

If you will watch an animal, such as the horse, when he breaths you will see that the breathing is done in the upper part of the abdomen, and there is practically no movement of the chest or of the lower abdomen. Every successful athlete either unconsciously breathes this way or has developed the diaphragmatic breathing through practice.

If you will stand sidewise before a mirror you can watch your faulty breathing, and practice how to correct it. Remove all of your clothing and stand so you can watch the entire torso, from the plevis to the chin. When you inhale you will probably notice that the chest gets larger in the upper part, the upper abdomen smaller, and the lower down the belly will protrude. This gives you a sort of hour-glass appearance, which is all wrong.

Now try, when you inhale, to make your abdomen larger just below the ribs. Imagine you are drawing the air into the upper abdomen, swelling it out and keeping the lower part from protruding. The position of the ribs should change but slightly, and no movement should be noticed in the upper chest. After you have inhaled, exhale slowly, contracting the upper abdomen, and holding the entire abdomen rigid, not allowing the lower part to protrude.

Keep on practicing until you can do all of your breathing with the supper part of the abdomen, just below the sternum and ribs. In this way you will learn to develop the diaphragmatic muscle which you must do in order to be healthy and to completely overcome asthma.

If you do not seem to get the idea at first, go outdoors and take a short run up and down the yard, then rest and place your hands on various portions of your chest and abdomen and you will notice that you are naturally breathing hardest in the diaphragmatic section. For practice, just keep up this same breathing, and if you again forget how, take another run and again make a careful examination to see where the most contraction and expansion occur.

After the asthmatic has properly trained the diaphragm, he will find that the practice of singing will be a pleasing way to keep the diaphragmatic muscle properly exercised. Any good singing teacher understands the necessity for breath control, and will give the pupil exercises through the practice of singing. A strong, resonant speaking voice can be thus developed.

The tone of the asthmatic or tubercular voice is always very poor, due to the tight diaphragm which always exists. The cure of either one of these disorders cannot be accomplished without the development of a normal diaphragm.

I have prepared a special chart of exercises that I will be glad to send to any one who will send a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Alkaline Urine

Question—R. K. L. asks: "What is the cause of an alkaline urine, and what would you advise?"

Answer—An alkaline urine although not as frequent as an acid reacting urine is not rare. It may be brought on by the excessive use of alkaline drugs or by a vegetable diet in which not enough proteins are used; by decomposition of the bacteria fermentation of the urine, and by excessive deep breathing. Of course, I could not determine just which is the cause of this condition in your case without examining you. I would suggest, however, that you use my cleansing diet course, which I shall be glad to send you if you will send me a large self-addressed stamped envelope. Have the urine tested again after following the instructions for one month.

Diet in Pellagra

Answer—The best diet for pellagra seems to be an occasional short four or five day fruit fast, at intervals of about one month apart, followed by a well balanced diet, such as I outline in this column each Friday. It is especially important that plenty of the protein foods is obtained, also plenty of the foods containing vitamin B, which is present in nearly all fresh foods, but absent in sugar fats, oils and highly milled starchy products.

Rubber Heels

Question—M. T. asks: "Are metal heels and toe protectors injurious to sight and hearing? Do you recommend rubber heels?"

Answer—Metal heel and toe protectors would have no effect on the sight or hearing. Rubber heels are useful because they absorb some of the jar of walking.

IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK.—Julian Duguid, the young Irish writer, adventurer, explorer, told me this strange tale.

He was on his way back to the jungles of South America. His friend, "Tiger Man," fascinating character of Duguid's current best seller, "Green Hell" had cabled him to return for another expedition to the Bolivian and Paraguayan wilds. Some movie people and scientific men were down there, it seemed; and "Tiger Man" was busy at his task of guilding them into a country where he is something of a white god.

It was one of those "drop-in" teas . . . mid-afternoon . . . and outside a soft spring wind was shaking green and white clusters from the trees and bushes of Gramercy park. The parkway paths were cluttered with romping children, with nursemaids and with governesses.

It would have been impossible to get further from the jungle. Yet a quiet-voiced, socially-timid young man sat on a window ledge, tapping a pipe against the palm of his hand.

"I think that this time 'Tiger Man' will kill his enemy," the voice was saying. "He is closing in. I shall probably be there for the finish of the story. This time—yes not so far away—there will be violent death . . . somewhere in the neighborhood of Matagrasso."

There was no effort at melodrama, just a calm recitation of some inevitability. The words possessed that particular quality of unreality attached to strange tales told against a metropolitan background.

"You see, 'Tiger Man' is going to have his revenge sooner or later. Yes, on our little advanture out in the jungles. I got to know this strange fellow very well.

"His name is Allesandro Siemel. He is a Russian. He ran away from home when a boy, and made his way to America. He didn't even have a passport. That's something I've got to find out about him when we meet soon—how he ever slipped in without a passport! He landed in New York and for years did every sort of work, from shoe shining to selling papers.

"He drifted out to South America and became a mechanic in Buenos Aires. How did he happen to go into the wilds? Well, he found himself in love with the wife of his best friend. The situation was critical, for she was falling in love with him. There was nothing to do, but go away and forget. He took quite a library of books with him—most of them philosophical writings. He wanted to grow mellow and philosophical about things. Today he is a jungle philosopher.

"The natives gave him the name of 'Tiger Man' because of his prowess in running down and shooting the jungle beasts. They came to have a tremendous respect for him—they still have. He can get in where no other white man might go and he will be certain of help.

"Well, he wrote to a brother to come out and join him. They would kill their game and sell the skins. The brother came out. But there were tales of a diamond country, and his brother grew restless and went out in search of riches. Up in the diamond country something happened between the brother and a German who had come in, also on the hunt for treasure. The brother was shot through the back—and killed. The 'Tiger Man's' greatest hunt is for the man who did the shooting. He's still in there somewhere, 'Tiger Man' has tracked him here and there. Now he's getting close. When they meet 'Tiger Man' will shoot—and revenge his brother.

"It's something like the old West—someone gets a temporary deputization as a police officer. He meets the man he is looking for. The man is killed and the report reads, 'The prisoner resisted arrest and tried to escape.' That's all!"

The story ended abruptly. The sounds of children playing in the park mingled with the sounds of passing traffic. . . .

"Yes, I wouldn't be surprised if I got there just in time for the last chapter. . . ."

DAILY HEALTH TALK

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Proteins are probably the most important food substances. From the proteins the body builds tissue and takes care of damage and repair.

Before modern organic chemistry entered the situation, it was taken for granted that there were not many kinds of protein. It is now realized that there are numerous proteins, that no two are alike, and that because of their differences they vary greatly in their ability to provide the body with nutrition.

Gelatin is a protein, but is incomplete in that it does not provide certain important constituents. Thus if one eats gelatin and supplements it with other protein substances which provide three other protein constituents, he will not suffer from nutritional disturbances which he does suffer when eating gelatin alone.

The protein of milk, which is called casein, supplies most of the constituents called amino acids, and therefore life can be maintained satisfactorily far longer on a diet consisting largely of milk than it could on a diet of gelatin.

Because of the relationships of these proteins to the maintenance of life, they have been listed by the biochemists according to their biologic value. Thus the proteins of milk are at the top and those of meat follow immediately thereafter. The eminent biochemist McCollum of Johns Hopkins found that the proteins of kidney rank first, those of liver second, and those of the muscle meats third in supplying the body's needs.

After these proteins come the plant proteins, such as the cereal grains, including wheat, corn, oats, rice, peas and beans. These substances contain the necessary amino acids, but not in quantities sufficient to make them compare favorably with milk or meat.

It is obviously important to have this knowledge in attempting to evaluate diets. Such knowledge explains why a purely vegetarian diet is not as suitable as a mixed diet for the vast majority of people. A diet of meat alone, of milk alone, or of cereal grains alone is thus not as satisfactory as a diet containing some of all of these important substances.

There are certain diseases in which it has been urged that a high protein diet is dangerous, and undoubtedly under some circumstances it may be. However, in the vast majority of cases, the human being can hardly eat a sufficient amount of protein to throw too great a burden on his heart, his liver or his kidneys. If the diet is a mixed diet and contains some of all of the important food, the amount of protein will probably not be excessive.

McLester, in a recent consideration of nutrition and diet, concludes that man must eat a liberal quantity of good protein in order to take care of his body's needs. By a liberal quantity he means at least 100 grams daily, which is approximately one-fifth of a pound. It must be borne in mind that few food substances are pure protein. Of this nature is egg white. Thus an ordinary glass of milk would weigh 220 grams, of which 191 would be water and only seven grams protein. These seven grams would represent in the total daily demand approximately one-fourteenth.

More Women Pilots

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—One thing about Hoover commissions is that they don't get out of hand. They remain Hoover commissions to the end.

The history of the Woods unemployment committee, appointed in connection with the great problem of joblessness, has been somewhat analogous to that of the Wickersham commission, created primarily as a means of dealing with the troublesome prohibition issue.

Mr. Hoover's enemies are found charging that both were established only as political smokescreens and that the president subsequently undertook to manipulate them for political purposes.

Mr. Hoover's friends reply that only a man's enemies would say things like that.

But it's a fact that both committees did some good work and that the president's choice of personnel is conceded to have been admirable. In each case, however, a chairman was picked who could be depended upon not to embarrass the administration.

Chairman George W. Wickersham, in constant contact with the White House, managed to bring out a "dry" set of recommendations from his commission despite the decision of seven of 11 members that prohibition was a flop.

Woods, Dissatisfied, Quits

Chairman Arthur Woods of the unemployment committee kept on doing his best without a murmur until he felt forced to resign because, with his powers restricted at the outset, his data was suppressed and his recommendations ignored. Six other officers of the committee stepped out at the same time, indicating the more or less general dissatisfaction which existed. But it was all very quiet and orderly and no one accompanied his withdrawal with any cracks at the administration.

Nevertheless, the bitterness which seethed within the Wickersham commission at what was termed White House interference was duplicated in the ranks of the unemployment committee and its staff. The unemployment group consisted mainly of experts in their line who insisted that something ought to be done about unemployment by the federal government besides exhorting every one else to do something about it. It is understood that Woods, who takes the unemployment problem quite seriously, was anxious to resign last December, oppressed by a feeling of futility.

Early this year a member of the committee attacked the administration's inaction before a small, select group at a private dinner in a Washington club. Woods himself is said to have assured members of the committee that although courtesy to the president demanded that they hold their tongues while still serving, there was no reason why they shouldn't speak their minds after retirement, using any information they had acquired here.

In the last few weeks all that was heard from Woods was occasional announcements of large sums being devoted to construction in the country. These were conspicuously unaccompanied by comparative figures for similar periods last year. The department of commerce's bureau of public construction had surveyed new government construction a few months ago and, despite all the ballyhoo there had been about that sort of thing as a federal effort to reduce unemployment, the result was withheld by White House order. The building permit figures for 297 cities for March showed an actual decrease of 11.2 per cent in construction as compared with March, 1930.

Woods is said to have recommended to the president a large federal appropriation for highway construction, the Wagner employment exchange bill which the president vetoed, a $40,000,000 army barracks repair program, bringing up to date the agriculture department's reforestration program and distribution of garden seed to miners and other unemployed persons. He also believed that the country should be permitted to know the seriousness of its unemployment situation.

Thus far the only member of the committee to squawk openly at President Hoover's attitude has been Frank Bane, who was vice chairman until he resigned with Woods and others. Bane, commissioner of public welfare in Virginia, was talking not to the country, but to his own sort of folks at the Maryland State Conference of Social Work and he attacked Hoover's theory that drouth and unemployment relief should be left to charitable agencies.

Public Held Responsible

"Next winter is going to be just as difficult as the winter past," Bane predicted, "and the load of relief is going to drop heavier than ever on public and private agencies. There is now a general swing of opinion almost everywhere that the public as a whole is itself responsible for the care of people not able to make a living for themselves."

A thousand county boards operating almshouses wrote the committee protesting the president's contention that relief through tax-supported agencies was "un-American," Bane said. As for the administration's efforts to reduce unemployment by pushing public construction, Bane reported:

"If our experience this past year has demonstrated any thing at all it has exploded the old theory that we can offset unemployment with public works. We have learned it is impossible to put enough public works in the hole to offset the drop."

Twenty Years Ago Today

From Files Wichita Times

May 10, 1911

The Elks parade, which has been looked forward to with much interest by many of our people, was held today just before noon and attracted quite a little attention. The parade was a feature of the minstrels to be given tonight and tomorrow night at the Wichita theater and if the performance classes up with the public demonstration it will be the event of the season.

In the parade were about 30 of the local lodge, dressed in appropriate attire, including the customary coat and high hat, together with the Wichita band, which furnished music for the event. The parade started at the theater, traversing Indiana to Seventh, thence down Seventh to Ohio, along Ohio to Eighth and over Eighth to Indiana, returning to the place of beginning.

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern

The Literary Lantern burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writing around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

The fact that last week was National Music Week leads us to devote this column today to a review of several books about American music and American composers. Such designated "weeks" and their attendant ceremonies arouse interest even in the most reluctant minds. And this year all Southerners whose radios could be tuned on Charlottesville, Va., must have been inspired with a new zeal for music by hearing the great chorus festival, April 14-17, participated in by a thousand members of Virginia's Federation of Music clubs. Church choirs, women's clubs, high school choruses and country quartets assembled on the lawn of the amphitheater at the University of Virginia, sang Schubert's Mass in E flat. Concerts of special interest to the student of American music on this occasion were the artist and composer program and the opening concert, "Folk Music As It Has Come Down to Us." The program was begun with a talk by John Powell, noted pianist, composer, native citizen of Virginia, whose efforts were largely responsible for the festival. He illustrated his remarks on folk music with the playing of fiddle tunes such as "Flop-Eared Mule" and "Cacklin' Hen," and with banjo tunes like "Hop Light Ladies" and "Cripple Creek." Then followed the singing of various old ballads, with folk-music settings from Cecil Sharp and others. The third division of this concert was devoted to the playing and singing of compositions based on folk music or composed in the folk style. The Southerners represented were John Powell and Hilton Rufty of Virginia and David Guion of Texas. To conclude the program a group of square-dance musicians played songs, jigs, Virginia reels and other dances.

There are several different groups into which to classify American folk music, according to John Tasker Howard, whose book, "Our American Music" (Crowell, $6.00) has a great deal to say in the way of defining American music. That genuinely national music has been made from folk themes he does not deny, and he seems to agree with Carl Sandburg that only a few tunes, like "Turkey in the Straw" are as American as corn-on-the-cob. But all are not native. He says, "we have many groups of folk-songs in this country, yet few of them belong to the United States as whole. The negro songs are a characteristic utterance of those who were our slaves. The cowboy songs bleong to the West; mountain ballads to the mountaineers; hillbilly songs come from the Ozarks; and the music of the American Indian is a primitive expression which has little to do with the art forms of a civilized people. There is folk-music in America, but the over-worked melting pot has much to do before any part of our folk-song literature becomes a characteristic utterance of the entire nation." Indian music is dismissed by Mr. Howard as interesting but American only geographically. Negro music has left a deeper mark, probably the deepest impression made by any class of songs on American life itself. Through the minstrel song, rag-time, and later blues and jazz, the negroid manner has shaped and permeated our popular music until now serious composers half it as the idiom of modernity. The author endeavors not to take sides, for or against jazz, yet a little scorn creeps into his designation of this form as "now the sport of the musically polite." We know that in America we have the songs of the negro, some of them his own, and some of them his version of what he has learned from us. "If the negro is American, his songs are American. If we like his songs we are welcome to use them, even though we may be borrowing them from a tenant who is none of our relation."

Interprets Negro

The attitude of John Powell seems to be more to Mr. Howard's liking, and certainly it is less extreme than that of the jazz enthusiast. When Powell uses negro themes, as he does in his well-known Rhapsody negro, he endeavors to interpret the negro, his tragedies and joys, and not America as influenced by the negro. When Powell interprets American nationalism, he turns to the old folk-tunes handed down by our Anglo-Saxon ancestors, from whom he says we inherit our culture and with whom we have a blood kinship which he believes exists strongly in musicians of like race in the present day. Mr. Howard sees John Powell as a prophet of the white South. He discusses many other composers who have found material in various forms of folk music, dating the beginning of interest from the visit of Dvorak in 1892. He gives especial attention to the use of Indian themes by Arthur Farwell, Charles Wakefield Cadman, Arthur Nevin and others. He lists John Powell, David Guion and William J. Reddick among the American composers who have used Southern mountain folk music as well as negro themes, and the author also makes not of the growing number of negro musicians who have arranged and developed their own own music, among them Harry T. Burleigh, R. Nathaniel Dett, J. Rosamond Johnson, and William Grant Still.

Informative Book

We have spent the major portion of this review on a consideration of Folk Music—one chapter out of 15 in Mr. Howard's book—because the South has furnished so many folk tunes and therefore should be interested in their utilization. Information on this branch of musical study, however, is only a small part of what may be learned from "Our American Music." The book is divided into three parts in which the fortunes of the Muse of Music are traced under the headings, "Euterpe in the Wilderness" (1620-1800), "Euterpe Clears the Forest" (1800-1860), and "Euterpe Builds Her American Home" (1860 to the present). One chapter, "Our Lighter Musical Moments," discusses popular songs of yesterday and today. A concluding chapter has several practical suggestions to make about providing a laboratory for the experiments of young American composers, at the same time warning that too much propaganda for the native musician may cause the audience to yawn, and our artists to become more than ever self-conscious, as they are already in danger of becoming. Mr. Howard sees our music developing naturally like the American short story and the American novel. He thinks it will be marked by no distinct racial individuality, like that of the Russians or the Spaniards, but will represent a fusion of our many heritages, our cosmopolitanism. But the future, he says, is hard to prophesy. As summing up the history and present accomplishment of American music, this book is invaluable for amateur and professional alike . . .

A book distinctly for the scholar is Siguard Bernhard Hustvedt's "Ballad Books and Ballad Men" (Harvard University Press, $4.00) which studies and compares the work of ballad collectors from Sir Walter Scott to Francis James Child. Most of the chapters are given to the collectors of Scotch ballads, with a short comparison of their work and that of the Scandinavian school which influenced English scholars. A short mention is made of the collaborations of Cecil Sharp and Mrs. Campbell in collecting "English Folk Songs From the Southern Appalachians." There is also a notice of the work of John A. Lomax with cowboy songs, of Reed Smith with South Carolina ballads, and of the collectors of negro folk songs, among them Dorothy Scarborough, Howard W. Odum, and Guy B. Johnson.

Ballad Anthology

In time for music week this year the publishers have got out a new and revised edition of C. A. Browne's "The Story of Our National Ballads" (Crowell, $2.50) which gives a popularized account of the author and traditions surrounding our most widely known songs, such as "Yankee Doodle," "Home, Sweet Home," "Dixie," "Maryland, My Maryland," and "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground."

Dodd, Mead & company has announced the publication of a new collection of negro songs by R. Emmet Kennedy, author of "Mellows," "Red Bean Row," and "Gritny People." The new book is called "More Mellows."

Lamar Stringfield, North Carolina composer and musician, has prepared an outline study course, "America and Her Music" (University of North Carolina Press, 50c). He has appended bibliographies, lists of music with publishing houses and lists of phonograph records. The outline is highly recommended to anyone interested in the study and enjoyment of music.

LITERARY KNOT-HOLE

By LORENA DRUMMOND

Puritan's Virtues and Vices

At what point did the Puritan cease to be a puritan, and just how much of the Puritan is in us all? Or better, which has really got more out of life, your great grandfather or you—he with his church and you with your radio and high-powered car? These questions Arthur Train proposes to answer in this "Puritan's Progress," by "casting a hard-boiled eye in the direction of the probable truth" to determine what the so-called progress has meant to him and you.

After scolding historians for their fear of being considered light-minded, Mr. Train launches into an informal account of the American people from the revolution to the present, their manners and customs their virtues and vices. Evidently he believes that to understand history ti is more important to know what people ate and what diseases they had than what generals they cheered for. He has gleaned a vast store of details rich in human interest and significant in social-economic development, from such sources as magazine and newspaper files, almanacs, etiquette books (150 of them, from Miss Leslie to Mrs. Post!), diaries and letters, court and patent records.

The account begins soon after the revolution, with the birth of Grandfather Train (the book has a delightful background of family history) when gunpowder was the most highly recommended detrifice and strong perfumes were a social necessity, when bath tubs were taxed $30 a year, and when "bundling bees" took the place of modern petting parties.

Then the good old days began to pass away. Old South Church in Boston put up a stove for its comfort-loving membership, and Sunday schools were born (at first denounced as "profanation of the Sabbath"). A little later quilting bees and singing schools, as well as railroads, got well under way. Yet in most communities the bill for the minister's rum was still a recognized item of expense.

On the arrival of the fabulous 40's, according to Mr. Train, six methods of destroying bedbugs had already been patented, as well as collapsible hoop-skirts and fans in hat crowns (the dawn of the industrial era!). All statues were modestly draped, and "ladies" did not visit art galleries except in pairs. Yet during the same decade Fanny Elssler, the English ballerina, brought her own table napkins to New York lest she might have to lick her fingers, and many of the better houses kept footmen on duty to assist intoxicated guests to their feet after morning prayers.

In the days of Boss Tweed America flooded itself with tobacco juice, named its coach horses Moody and Sankey, and was properly interested in the doings of Anthony Comstock, that valiant "roundsman of the Lord." The naughty 90's brought typewriters and girls to use them, boy-operated telephone exchanges and—most important of all—the bicycle, which smashed chaperonage and the Puritan Sabbath. Mr. Train makes no attempt to picture the era of chewing gum and automobiles.

The details which constitute the book, though tending at times toward the sensational, are most humanly interesting. Yet the reader will occasionally feel, in spite of the frequent comparisons with the present, that there is too little continuity in this mass of facts. The author himself admits that he is rather at a loss to defend his pattern and title. There is just a possibility, you know, that some of these things happened without any Puritan influence at all.

At the beginning of the book Mr. Train is evidently determined to convince us that we have paid too much spiritually for our bath tubs and radios. During his study he gardually becomes less certain of his position, until at the end he is an optimistic and avowed champion of the doctrine of laughter, sure of only one thing—that the world needs "pessimists, muckrakers, and active minorities to prevent the crooks from stealing the courthouse."—By Dr. Philip Graham, adjunct professor of English, University of Texas.

Latin-American Charm

The title of this book prepares one for an Oriental romanticism, rather than a story principally of Latin-American travel. The title, however, is a striking one and the trip the next thing to a real romance, which in a large measure justifies the seeming incongruity of the title as regards the subject.

The first three chapters are interesting, and show a deep insight into the life and customs of Latin lands and peoples. These chapters, however, are not the most interesting part of this story of travel. Evidently the writer's chief interest was not in the mother countries of Latin America, but in Latin American countries themselves.

One gets the impression on reading the first two pages of chapter three that the writer and her party are hurriedly and abruptly leaving Spain for Venezuela without seeing the most interesting places of that delightful land. They seem to be on their journey out of the country, but we suddenly realize on page 42 that they are still in Spain. She then gives a fascinating account of her visit in Andaluzia with its irresistable charm, a land of a thousand and one Arabian tales of the past, and still carrying an indelible impress of Arable blood and traits in its people and traces of Arabic culture in the remains of its civilization. All this the writer deftly makes one feel in her descriptions of Granada, Seville, and Cordova. Her description of the cosmopolitan port of Barcelona and its surroundings is vivid, brief, and accurate.

The author's characterizations of persons have a personal warmth of human element and of interest that make one seem to see and know them as she sees them. They reveal an unusual amount of experience in travel and an extraordinary faculty of observing, selecting, and depicting the most interesting features, places and people she describes.

Her characterizations of Alphonso XIII of Spain, and of General Gomez of Venezuela, the quarter of a century president of the country are worth rereading. The description of the unsurpassed charm and natural beauty of the city of Rio de Janeiro is equal to any of the scores of such descriptions the reviewer has read of that place.

Her familiarity with Latin peoples, their life, their customs, and real feelings enables the author to put the reader into the most intimate contact and sympathy with the best side of the people and their culture.

This indeed is the chief merit of the book. It is a contribution toward a better insight, on the part of the American people, into the real and better side of Latin Americans in their home, and social, and cultural life.

To one who has visited the greater part of the places of interest (and lived in a number of them), mentioned in the work, it was the next thing to revisiting these countries and these places to read Mrs. Keyes' descriptions of Lisbon, Madrid, Barcelona, Monserrat, Valencia, Granada, Seville, Cordova, Rio de Janeiro, Montevideo, Santiago, Valparaiso, Puerto Montt, the Central Valley of Chile, the Andes, the Chuquicamati mines in Northern Chile, Callao, Lima, and other places along the western coast of South America. The descriptions are true to facts and to life. The historical references are on the whole quite accurate, and well fitted into the story of travel. The date of the Battle of Carabobo is erroneously placed as taking place in 1824 instead of June 24, 1821.

The reviewer unhesitatingly recommends this as a most delightful book to read, and considers it a valuable and popular contribution to the current literature of the day on Latin countries and the life of Latin people.—By W. E. HANCOCK, graduate student in history, University of Texas.

THE BOOK SURVEY

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

Lincoln Steffens, famous "muckraker" of a generation ago, has written his autobiography—a fat, two-volume affair published by Harcourt, Brace and company, and selling at $7.50. The price may seem high, but it is worth it. Not in years have I seen as interesting a book as this.

For Mr. Steffens is a disillusioned reformer; and from such men come, usually, words of wisdom. He looked behind the scenes in American life for more than two decades and here he tells what he saw—forthright, candid and tolerant. He gives the "inside" on everything from the McNamara trial to the Mexican revolution, from the Versailles peace conference to the rise of Boss Cox in Cincinnati.

But his book is a great deal more than a mere description of his part in big newspaper sensations. It is a profoundly moving account of the change that has come over America during the past quarter of a century. It is a national history. It is deeply pessimistic and amazingly hopeful.

Even to outline the major points Mr. Steffins has touched would take far more space than we have available here. His study of political corruption, for example, is an encyclopedia in itself. His account of the Russian revolution is better than a dozen of the ordinary volumes on that great event. His description of the Versailles peace conference is an education in itself. His story of the McNamara trial is as thrilling as anything you will read all year.

Best of all, however, is the spirit that finds expression on almost every page. Mr. Steffens has been disillusioned as few men are disillusioned. He has discovered that there is more hope for progress in the political boss and in the hard-boiled industrialist than in all the reformers that ever lived. He has discovered that the "best people" almost always stand squarely in the way of reform. He has discovered that corruption is the inevitable accompaniment of politics.

But he is not discouraged. He can look ahead as well as backward. And he sees, through all the welter of confused currents and contending forces that make up our time, a transfiguration for democracy, a transfiguration that is to be a triumph more profound and all-inclusive than we have dared to dream.

By all means, read this book.

How Success Brought Tragedy

Any book by Philip Gibbs is fairly sure to be intelligent and well planned, peopled by living characters and including, somehow, a thoughtful study of the things that the war and its changes have brought to the modern world, especially to England.

This is eminently true of "The Winding Lane," Mr. Gibbs' newest novel, published by Doubleday, Doran and Co. at $2.50.

"The Winding Lane" tells of a young English novelist, painfully shy and unassuming, who seeks seclusion in an isolated country cottage, where he writes a book that becomes, to his amazement, a best-seller. And its success brings about his own downfall.

He had been happy in his cottage, scrimping along on a few hundred pounds a year; but fortune brings problems with which he cannot cope. It enables him to marry the one woman on earth whom he should not have married—a selfish, luxury-loving member of the decaying aristocracy—and she remakes his life in short order.

From his country cottage he has to move to an expensive house in London. He has to support his wife's genteel but moneyless relatives. He has to mingle in a social round that appalls him. Worst of all, he has to write, not to express what is in him, but to make more money for his wife and his new scale of living.

This, of course, leads to tragedy; and I think the author has sidestepped a bit by having the luxury-loving wife die, at last, in an airplane accident. I think, too, he has failed to make quite believable the fascination which she is supposed to possess. The girl the novelist should have married—a quiet youngster named Audrey—is so much more attractive that one is never quite able to understand how the young man chose the other one.

In other respects, however, "The Winding Lane" succeeds admirably Philips Gibbs is a talented writer, and this is well up to his standard.

The Russian Revolution

To tell the story of the Russian revolution from the viewpoint of three or four assorted dogs may sound like utter nonsense; but that is precisely what Ivan Nazhivin does in "The Dogs," and he makes a very fine novel of it.

The dogs through whose eyes the revolution is seen come from various stations in life. There are the aristocratic dogs of an old prince. There is the homeless wanderer who lives in a Moscow lumber yard. There are the half-savage dogs owned by the peasants in a Russian village. There is the pampered lap-dog owned by a Petrograd courtesan. They are cut adrift by the upheaval and they meet many adventures; and the sum total of their adventures, somehow, gives a very good picture of the downfall of the old Russia.

Let me add that this is not an "animal story." The dogs are not really the principal characters, nor is there any sentimental slobber about man's dumb friends. "The Dogs" is a sincere and intelligent fictional study of life in Russia before, during and after the revolution; and it is lit by a ready humor that makes the reading of it a pleasure.

"The Dogs" is published by the J. B. Lippincott Co., and costs $2.50.

Lew Ayres and Jean Harlow Head Cast for 'Iron Man' at Majestic 'Dude Ranch' Comes Wednesday

"Iron Man" offers Ayres an opportunity for a characterization that is entirely different from those in which he has appeared before, but one that is certain to win him additional admirers. He is seen as a "baby face" young prize fighter who sports a self given title "Iron Man," but who does not look the part. He interests a clever prize fight manager portrayed by Robert Armstrong, who takes him under his supervision just at the time that his faithless young wife, played by Jean Harlow, is leaving him for a more interesting companion. Under Armstrong's guidance Ayres develops into a great fighter. He finally wins the coveted title, "World's Champion." Upon learning of her husband's fame and fortune his wife returns to the scene and patches up their differences for her personal gain instead of love. Armstrong, the manager, easily sees through her posing and fake affection. Ayres, blindly in love with his wife does not heed his manager and friend's advice. Soon the fighter is obeying his wife's advices on training rather than his manager's. A split results. His former manager develops a contender for the title and the champion is forced to meet him in the ring. The climax is unusual and thrilling.

The featurettes include one of those side splitting comedies in which Marjorie Beebe, Vernon Dent and Kenneth Thompson appear. Henry Santry and his "Soldiers of Fortune" appear in a musical number. The program is completed with the personal appearance on the stage of Otto Strid & Co.

"Dude Ranch"

What makes the wild west wild? Jack Oakie and his pals and playmates attempt to give the answer in the highly amusing "Dude Ranch" which comes to the Majestic on Wednesday next for a three-day run.

"Dude Ranch" is a rousing comedy, based on the humorous novel, "The Lone Rider of the Mojave" by Milton Krims.

The setting is the familiar "wide open spaces"—where men are men and women also chaw terbaccy. In this rough-shod environment Stuart Erwin is the owner of a ranch hotel where gullible folks from the East come to get a load of the local color.

The business outlook brightens for Erwin what with much shooting going on and with Eugene Pallette doubling as Chief Bad Medicine, a Cherokee brave, until a gang of real outlaws arrive at the hotel after robbing a bank in the neighborhood.

The outlaws shift the blame for the robbery to Oakie and there is then some real shooting on the scene. It all ends up in a typical laugh-and-tumble melee, with the Oakie contingent winning out.

With this feature will be a musical comedy number "Angel Cake" featuring the Albertina Rasch girls, Cy Landry, Jenny Ray, the Paige sisters and the Foursome.

"Daybreak"

Endeavoring to present the very finest entertainment possible for "Cotton Carnival Week" in Wichita Falls, the Majestic has obtained for the screen Ramon Novarro in his latest picture "Daybreak" and on the stage a New York stage presentation, "The Georgia Crackers."

Novarro has always been a popular star in Wichita Falls and with the added stage show, the management of the Majestic is expecting records to be broken.

Noted Wizard of Accordion Makes Hit at Majestic

A pleasant surprise awaits theater fans of this city at the Majestic this week. Otto Strid & Co., a clever vaudeville act direct from the Publix stage show circuit, is in command of music and mirth on the stage. Strid is known not only in America but in Sweden as the wizard of the accordion. His interpretation of "The Peanut Vender" is gaining for him a reputation that is bound to cause him to rise to the utmost heights of his profession. He absolutely "stopped" the show Saturday and was unable to leave until he responded with several encores.

With Strid are two very charming and accomplished dancers, the Norman sisters. These young dancers present some very "peppy" numbers and from the way they were received Saturday, theirs is a very rosy future. Buford Gamble is the comedian of the company and not only does he score with his wise cracks but his saxophone playing gained for him much applause. Bobby Martin, a young star who has already appeared in several New York productions and has gained quite a reputation as a "Blues Singer" and dancer came in for her part of the applause with her catchy numbers. This young lady is very pleasing to look at and certainly knows what to do with the "Blues." Thus she is known as the "Blues Singing Favorite."

MOVIE GOSSIP

Constance Bennett, currently being seen in "Born to Love," is now before the cameras for "Common Law."

Benny Rubin, noted comic, was the first star to make a two-reeler for RKO-Pathe's new array of ribticklers.

Eddie Quillan has returned to the studios from Agua Caliente where racing scenes were made for "The Whoop-Te-Do Kid."

Marion Shilling's work in "Beyond Victory" won her a leading role with Constance Bennett in "Common Law."

LEE TO TEACH TANGO TO PLAYERS FOR PARAMOUNT

Kendall Lee, whose graceful dancing has been seen on the floors of many exclusive night clubs has been brought to New York studio by the director of "Secrets of a Secretary," to teach Claudette Colbert and Georges Metaxa a tango. Abbott, seeing signs that the rumba is fading from popularity, found renewed vitality in the tango after a recent visit to Latin America. While both Miss Colbert and Metaxa are excellent dancers, neither is sufficiently well versed in the Argentine dance to carry it off as if to the manner born. During the course of her past three pictures Miss Colbert has been taught to play a violin, lead an orchestra, shoot straight, roller skate and dance the rumba and now the tango.

Wool Lace for Sports

For more formal wear, June Collyer wears an evening gown in cloud blue souffle. Displaying the new Vionnet backless mode, the frock is caught at the waistline with a belt of turquoise beads and falls into a moulded skirt that terminates in sudden fullness.

Tulle Regains Favor

Clouds of tulle will submerge our smartest debutantes this spring, according to rumors emanating from Paris. Carole Lombard, appearing in "Up Pops the Devil," is prepared for the new mode with a frock of poudre blue tulle, deftly trimmed with clusters of crystal beads.

Plaids Important

The flare for plaids increases with each passing week in Hollywood. The chic of the plaid has not escaped Clara Bow, who uses two frocks trimmed with scarves and blouses of these gay color combinations for her starring role in "Kick In."

CHIEF U. S. FORESTER TO VISIT IN LAWTON

LAWTON, Okla., May 9.—According to information received here by M. Koehler, president of the local chapter of the Izaak Walton league, Major Stuart, chief forester for the department of agriculture, will visit Lawton and the forest reserve the latter part of this month. He will be accompanied by his assistant, C. E. Rachford.

It is expected an informal discussion of forest matters with local members and officials of the league will be held while the officials are here.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Sue was washing the cups and saucers and plates just after breakfast on the day that Sarah had decided to take a walk and pack. The sunlight made a yellow rug over the brown linoleum of the kitchen floor, and the soapsuds danced with all the blues and greens and corals of a tropical sea as the golden light spilled into the white dishpan.

It would be time to take up the trial again soon. A new trial, rather. For Sybil would be accused. Her attorneys would attempt to place the blame on Redding and free her. She would be pictured as an innocent victim of an unscrupulous man.

And maybe she would be freed! She was home from the hospital convalescing now.

"And if she goes free, after she tried to frame my father and tried to kill a man, just to get even with me, then . . . then . . ." Sue would not finish the statement. She was afraid of Sybil Lester.

Mabelline Smith was staying on at Harry Becker's, as a maid. She seemed perfectly happy to wear a soft black dress and a frilly white apron. But Sue knew that there was a loyal sort of friendship between Corrinne and Mabel, and the maid costume was more or less of a disguise.

Sue glanced around the shabby old kitchen. It was friendly, homelike, sheltering. And shelter meant much sometimes. She let her hands stay in the soft foam of the suds while her mind ran on. She would have a different kind of a kitchen. One with yellow curtains at the windows and yellow bowls on the shelves, and blue linoleum on the floor. Small and efficient, for the wide spaces that had room for friendly nooks had passed away.

She and Jack would be getting married some day. She wondered just when. Not for a while, they had decided. Jack didn't have much of a practice. Since he had left his father's firm his source of income was sadly low.

The doorbell rang as though someone pushed it who wanted in in a hurry. It rang again, more impatiently. Then the front door swung open. Sue could hear, and started through the dining room to the living room. She stopped in the doorway.

For a girl was rushing forward. A girl with a brown hat that was impish and daring with a single beige rose nestling under its brim, and a soft brown dressmaker suit which had loads of fluffy fur at the neck and wrists. A wisp of an orange and brown scarf fluttered carelessly.

"Grace! Oh, Grace!"

Sue was on the brown clad figure the next instant. "Oh, when did you come? Why didn't you let me know? Oh, I'm so glad to see you . . . so awfully glad!"

Sue's own blue eyes were dancing merrily and her black curls were tumbled around her flushed face. The blue smock she wore was more becoming than she realized as she turned to watch the door opening again. It was Jimmy this time . . . browned from the sea wind, a little heavier, with a new assurance in his manner. Jimmy looking so happy and friendly and . . . she had almost said desirable.

Somehow, with such an interval of time between the going away of Grace and Jimmy and their return, Sue had forgotten that it was the old Jimmy who had been the boy-next-door who had married Grace. She had thought of him as someone a little more strange. But he was himself again. Good old Jimmy, whom she could never, never love, but whom she would always like. But when it came to loving someone forever . . . Jack's laughing gray eyes, tender and protecting, floated before her and hid Jimmy's face.

Strand Features 'Trader Horn' as Special Attraction for This Week With John Boles in 'Seed' Friday

Most motion pictures fall naturally into one of several classifications, but "Trader Horn," now playing at the Strand, fits into none of the card catalog divisions. It is a picture as distinctively in a class by itself as was the story written by Ethelreda Lewis from the graphic recitals of Aloysius Horn, who in the twilight of his life exchanged the daring traffic of the ivory buyer for the prosaic peddling of gridirons and other kitchen hardware to the back doors of Johannesburg, Africa.

"Trader Horn" is, above all other things, a fascinating animal picture; perhaps the greatest ever produced in those gloomy jungles where Horn and his native crew of Kaffirs faced death at every hand to barter glass beads for elephants' tusks. And yet these animal studies are merely background for the vital and engrossing story of the White Goddess who ruled with cruel despotism the savage tribe of the Isorgi. It was manifestly impossible to transfer the entire volume to the screen. Instead a sound and engrossing drama has been built from the single incident of "The Cruelest Woman in All Africa," and into this the lions and elephants, the giraffes and the hippopotami fit as naturally as do the pintos of the more familiar western type of story. They are merely "atmosphere," but such atmosphere as is rarely to be found even in screen epics.

Harry Carey, Edwin Booth, Olive Golden and Duncan Renaldo contribute excellent performances, but it is the picture rather than the acting of the players, that makes "Trader Horn" one of the pictures not to be missed.

John Boles in "Seed"

"Seed" from the pen of Charles G. Norris, starring John Boles, Genevieve Tobin, Lois Wilson, Raymond Hackett and Zasu Pitts, comes to the Strand for a week's engagement starting next Friday.

Critics have placed "Seed" right alongside of "All Quiet on the Western Front." If the latter deserved the proud title to "the best picture of 1930," then "Seed" will get many votes for this same honor in 1931. "All Quet" was truth and humanness, an intelligent transcription from the printed page to the talking screen. "Seed" is this same truth, humanness and intelligence.

A mighty task was faced when it was sought to transfer the Charles G. Norris novel to the screen in a talking picture because, frankly, "Seed" was a treatise, either for or against, depending upon how you read it—birth control. The novel started its story in 1890 and then, carrying on the fortunes and hardships of the Carter family, ran through 10-year episodes to 1930. The producers picked its story from the 1930 episode, sensibly omitting hair nets and bustles and the tiresome history of the preceding chapters.

Genevieve Tobin is the surprise of the picture. And if you have ever doubted that John Boles could not act, then scratch that out of your memory, for in "Seed" he does act, and he does not sing. He will hold your interest and sympathy throughout the entire picture. Lois Wilson as Peggy gives a splendid performance. Zasu Pitts, as usual, give fin account of herself. And there is a new juvenile "find," little Dickie Moore. You'll love this youngster.

FOUR MARX BROTHERS AND WILL ROGERS FORM TICKET

The end of national depression was indicated today with the start of a transcontinental campaign for the presidency of Will Rogers and the vice presidency of the Four Marx brothers, which Wilbur Morse is now instigating during a political motor tour from California to New York City.

The brothers state they feel qualified to be true politicians, being willing to end anything or start something as soon as "Monkey Business," their new Paramount picture, is completed.

PAT O'BRIEN OPPOSITE NANCY IN "PERSONAL MAID"

Pat O'Brien, who has just won high praise as the reporter, Hildy Johnson, in Howard Hughes' screen version of "The Front Page," will play a role opposite Nancy Carroll in "Personal Maid."

"Women Love Once"

Florence Enright, stage actress, has been signed to play her first screen role in "Women Love Once." This is the screen version of Zoe Akin's play "Daddy's Gone a Hunting." The cast is headed by Paul Lukas, Eleanor Boardman, Juliette Compton, Helen Johnson, Geoffrey Kerr and Marilyn Knowlden.

'The Sea Wolf' by Late Jack London Gem Three Days

"I could write a better yarn than that," he mused, but he also realized that his scanty schooling was not adequate to the job. So he approach a friend, an Oakland saloonkeeper, and boldly told him what he wanted, asking for financial aid towards getting an education. According to the story of Mayor John L. Davie of Oakland, an old friend of London's, the bartender roared at the youth. "You're tough enough now. If you ever got educated, you'd spend your life in the penitentiary!"

However, the boys' pleadings won the other's attention, and he financed London through school. Later the youngster made a trip to Japan on a sealing schooner, getting the material which he later embodied in the famous "Sea Wolf."

The first all talking version of the famous story, with Milton Sills in the title role, comes to the Gem Sunday for three days. Jane Keith and Raymond Hackett are featured with Sills. The supporting roles are enacted by Mitchell Harris, Nat Pendleton, John Rogers, Harry Tenbrook, Sam Allen and Harold Tinney.

With its nautical sequences actually filmed at sea aboard an old-time sealing schooner, the picture attains a high degree of realism. Through the efforts of May Davie, the famous old revenue cutter Bear was loaned to Fox Movietone by the city of Oakland to "play the role" of Death Larsen's steam sealer, adding further to the realism and interest of the picture.

PARAMOUNT STUDIO BUSY FEATURES IN PRODUCTION

Three feature photoplays, three reels of short films and the usual foreign language versions are in production at the Paramount New York studio. This marks a peak of activity at the eastern plant. Features now in production are "Secrets of a Secretary," starring Claudette Colbert, with Georges Metaxa, Mary Boland and Herbert Marshall; "The Girl Habit," with Charlie Ruggles, Tamara Geva, Donald Meek, Douglas Gilmore and Margaret Dumont; and "The Night Angel" with Nancy Carroll and Frederic March.

RUTH CHATTERTON'S NEXT "LAURELS AND THE LADY"

YOU CAN'T BEAT NATURE —By James J. Montague

"You gotta let nature take its course," said the old pioneer.

"You gotta let nature take its course," said the old pioneer. "You see this place I got here. You'd never think it used to be a real pretty little clearin', with trees an' flowers into it. I spent five years makin' it what it was. An' then I was licked. Not because I didn't use my brains, but because I tried to buck nature, an' I went up agin' somethin' that was too much for me. I'll git out when I can—back to some city where I can learn the garage business, or something that nature don't butt into. But first I've got to make somebody think this is an ideel campin' ground or game preserve or somethin' like that so I can git enough money for it to buy me a ticket out.

"I thought I was pretty smart when I come here. Bought the property for little or nothin', an' went right to work on improvements. First off the mosquitos was so thick that you couldn't stick a head out of the cabin without them lightin' on you like a fog, an' pretty near bitin' you to death. But I figgered out a way to beat them. I went over to the fish commission an' got me about a million little bass an' planted them in all the lakes and bogs, an' the bass follerin' their native instincts et away at the wrigglers, that is baby mosquitoes, till pretty soon, when the old ones died off you could walk around all day without gittin' a bite.

"The next thing was to get them scrawny trees down that growed all over the place. Everything is pretty flat around here, so I built me a dam that backed the water from the creek around the trees, an' then went up north apiece an' trapped me about a hundred beavers an' let 'em loose. The beavers got to work right away cuttin' down trees to make theirselves dams, an' soon they was nothin' but stumps every where—stumps growin in loose mud, but still stumps that you couldn't get up with no plow, an' would take you too long to cut down with an ax. So I went into a farm about 10 miles away an' borrowed me a flock of goats. You know goats'll eat anything, an' one of their favorite foods is stumps. That's the way the farmers used to clear land back in Oregon, where I come from. They'd turn goats into the slashin's, which is what they call places the trees has been cut down on, an' eat what was left. My goats got busy right away. They et the bark around the roots of the stumps till they was easy to pull out, an' pretty soon I had my land all cleared off nice.

"But when I begun settin' out fruit trees along come the ground squirrels by the thousand, an' chawed at the young roots till hardly a saplin' was left standin'. But I was ready for that. Already I'd been collectin' rattlesnakes on the places around, and inside a couple of weeks about a hundred of 'em was at work on them ground squirrels. They'd sneak up to the mouth of a burrow, an' when Mr. Squirrel would stick up a head, before he could look around, zip he was travellin' down into the insides of a big rattler. No, the snakes didn't bother me none. They're quiet enough when they're huntin' but let one of 'em see somethin' that he's afraid of, like a man, an' he'll quile up an' begin to sing a war song with his tail that you can hear a hundred yards or so away. All you got to do is back off, an' pretty soon they'll git over their grouch an' go about their business.

"With the ground squirrels out of the way the trees begun to grow an' by the fourth year they was full of blossoms, an' in the summer the fruit begun to set. An' then in come the blackbirds, an' settled down to wait till it got ripe, feedin' on bugs while they waited. I knew right off that as soon as the fruit got soft enough for them to stick a beak into they'd have it off the trees, so I went over the the farm of a friend of mine who was breedin' hawks for them city places where they show them off in cages. I knew all I had to do was to turn them hawks out in the trees where they could see the blackbirds, an' nature would take it's course—which it done.

"It was wonderful to watch them hawks work. The pore little blackbirds didn't stand no chance whatever. If a hawk didn't nab one on the set he'd chase him into the air, an' make quick work of him on the fly. The news about the hawks got around the neighborhood, an' pretty soon there wasn't a fruit eatin' bird to be seen, an' I begun to figure I was goin' to win out big. But I was wrong. As soon as the hawks didn't have no more blackbirds to eat, instead of movin' back to where they come from, they went to work on the rattlesnakes. Their system was to shoot down from the sky an' grab a snake behind the place where his ears would be, if he had any, an' just bit them half in two. Then they would drop him to the ground an' take their time eatin' him. Of course, after a little of that there wasn't a rattlesnake left in sight, an' it wasn't any use gettin' more. But the snakes hadn't went. They had just shifted from the orchard, where the ground squirrels was workin', to the clearin' the goats was busy enlargin', an' by the time they got their job done there I didn't have no more goats. They was all bit an' dead that stayed around, an' the rest of them lit out for the lands where the beavers was still gnawin' down trees, an' by trompin around in the underbrush scared the beavers off. And what did the beavers do but take to the water, an' eat up all the fish that had been killin' the mosquitoes, so every time you went out a flock of them would light on you an' nearly bite the nose an' ears off of you.

"When I was a young feller I was told by my old man to use my wits an' keep up a stiddy thinkin' about what was around me. I done it too. They wasn't never a better system for livin' without too much work ever invented than that one I used. But you see I was tryin' to make nature work for me—tryin' to make it do the whole job. An' to do that a feller has got to think further ahead than I could. I get a fair livin' here in the summer time, when folks like you come up to hunt or just to look around, like you're doin', but I'm a disappointed man, just the same. Now an' then I think I'll go to the city an' begin again. I see a lot of folks up here who have made their money in cities, an' if they can do it, with the brains they got, I sure ought to be able to. I always say that now they got Nature shet out of cities, the biggest numbskulls in the world have got a chance to make money there. But let 'em come up here an' try it an' they'll learn different.

W. L. Herblin Is Transferred To Dallas Position

W. L. Herblin, for the past several years local manager of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company, 1400 Scott avenue, will leave within the next few days for Dallas to assume his new position as assistant manager of the Dallas group, which is composed of Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco and Wichita Falls. His family will join him in Dallas after the present school term is finished.

Mr. Herblin has been in Wichita Falls since 1912. His place here will be occupied by W. H. Blair, of Dallas, who will move his family here in the near future.

New Diesel Plane

DETROIT.—Another Diesel-powered airplane has entered the aviation field. It is a Waco which recently flew here from Texas. It covered 1,150 miles in 11 hours and 20 minutes, and consumed 89 gallons of oil and 14 pints of lubricating oil on the trip. Cost of the fuel was $5.90 and the lubricating oil $2.40.

NO MORE LUXURIOUS TYPE OF TRANSPORTATION THAN TRAVEL IN CADILLAC V-16

There is no mode of transportation, whether on land or sea or in the air, more luxurious than travel in the Cadillac V-16, according to D. L. Fritz, local dealer, who cites the following facts:

"This may sound like an extravagant statement, at first," said Mr. Fritz, "but when you compare the various kinds of transportation, and familiarize yourself with the comfort features of the V-16, its truth becomes apparent.

"A train provides a jerking, jolting ride with a certain amount of dirt; a ship pitches and rolls, to the discomfort of its passengers; a plane offers a bump ride over air pockets; the V-16, because it is designed to overcome the obstacles to comfort, glides so smoothly that there is scarcely a sense of motion at ordinary driving speeds.

"One of its greatest comfort features is its size. With a wheelbase of 148 inches and weight in proportion, it is the longest and one of the biggest cars made. This has a pronounced effect on the riding qualities.

"In the cushions (five-passenger sedan) there are 354 springs comprising 2,398 feet of wire, approximating a half mile in length. They are scientifically constructed to provide a stable seat which assures the proper softness without loss of firmness.

"The body and engine literally sit on rubber, there being 32 points of rubber-contact with the frame. The engine is actually suspended at six points, although two of the rubber bushings close together are generally regarded as one, and reference is usually to a five-point suspension. At 14 places the body is bolted in rubber to the frame. At 12 other points the double exhaust system is connected by means of rubber."

EVEN BANQUETS ARE GETTING GOOD

By WILL ROGERS

Roy has gone Chinese.

Well all I know is just what I read in the Papers, or what I see as I prowl hither and thither, mostly thither. Was in Washington about ten days ago, and saw quite a few of the Boys that was still staying there that wasent up for re-election this year. You can tell the ones that are going to run. They have to rush home and start fixing things up. But the ones that are set for a year or so more they can kinder lay around and sorter mix with the Lobbyists, and have a good time without getting blamed for it.

Was up to New York and spoke for the Newspaper Publishers Association, thats a Gang that gathers in from all over the Country once a year, and belong to an Association to help better each others conditions, then go home and write Editorials against Unionism. Not all of em, but some do. But we did have a fine dinner.

You know even the food at Dinners are getting better, they dont cook the chicken at these banquets in the afternoon like they used to. We had tender Squab. Its mighty rare for a banquet to get tender Squab. This was at the Pennsylvania Hotel. Its the eating house for that line. I want to tell you that Mr. Attebury has done a mighty good job with his Hotel.

Amon G. Carter from Ft. Worth, Owner of the Star Telegram, was the Toast Master and he made a mighty good one too. He always was a good talker. But this was the first time they had ever had to asked him to talk, and they couldent have picked a better one. He knew the Newspapers and he knew the shape they were in, and he knew the shape the Guests were in, and he just shaped his remarks accordingly.

Pretty near every big Publisher in America was there, they had just had a convention, but like most conventions they had done nothing but "Resolve." If you take "Resolve" out of Conventions you are just about naked.

At this Convention there was some little animosity against the advertising on the radio, that is it had been a direct confliction with Newspaper advertising, and dident have the investment and pay the taxes that the papers are compelled too. So they naturally took that phase up, and come right down to it there is no reason why they should give the radio programmes all the free advertising. It should be paid for the same as a Theatre does. But some of them spoke of the Investments they had, and what right did some other thing have to come in and destroy the worth of their investments. Well they was kinder forgetting when the Prohibition amendment come in and put all the Brewery's and Distillery's out of business with no recourse to the courts or any claim. Even if you are in favor of the Amendment, it was legitimate up to them, and if it was noted out they should have had some claim. So some of these yells kinder made you think what those fellows had to stand for.

But its all a lot of "Hoey." The radio wont put the Papers out of Business. We got to have something besides toothpaste, so we will always read the papers, besides if it wasent for the Peanut Vendor Song there wouldent be any radio.

Good papers will always last, and Tabloids will continue to do a big business for those that can read. But have learned to know every character in America by their Picture alone. They have to read little papers in New York and big Cities, they cant unfold a big paper, they havent got room. They like pictures of their favorite murderers just like some others like their Movie Stars. Its getting so a murderer to draw well in the papers must be good looking. Its getting so there is no use of an ugly man committing a crime, no one will look at him. He just cant get in the papers.

Charley Schwab was the principal Speaker at the dinner. He had a prepared speech to deliver on "Business Management," but after he saw the shape the crowd was in he switched and told jokes instead, and he told good jokes too He said some of them were old, but they were sure new to me, and the way he tells em, they sound new anyhow.

Did you ever hear the one he told about the Cow? Well he owns a fine farm up near Bethlehem, Pa., a little city in Judea, and he raises fine stock. Every rich man has some mild form of insanity and being a Farmer is Charley's. He has his own fair up there so he takes all the prizes. Somebody give him a cow, and he asked if it was a fine Cow? They said no just a cow, "Is it a milk Cow"? The old Farmer that was giving her to him said, "I dont know if she's got any milk or not, but she is a good old soul, and if she's got any she certainly will give it to you."

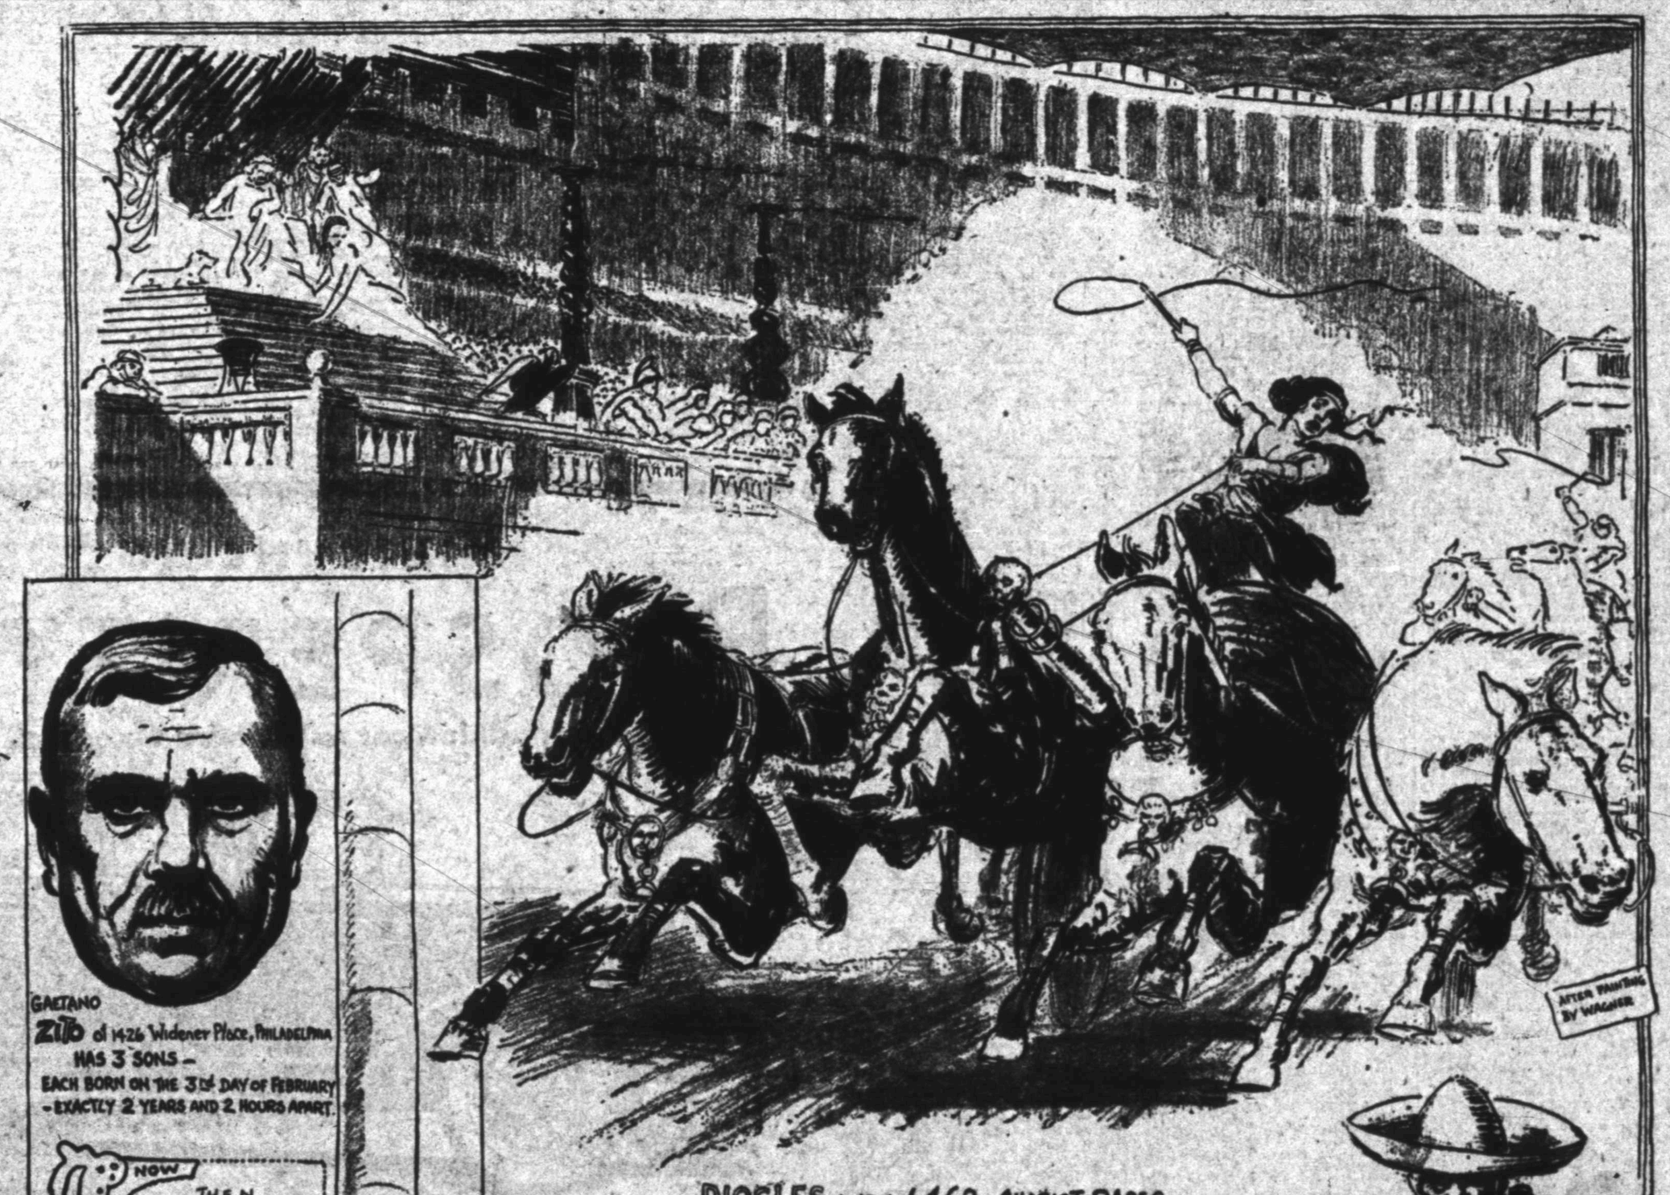

Then he went on to tell that he (Schwab) was a good old soul, and if he had had anything they wanted he would give it to em. He sure did clean up with the Gang. You can easily see how he gets work out of his men, he has a great personality, and is terribly likable.

Carnegie gave some of his old time Steel mill friends some fine Xmas presents one time, most of them works of art. One old fellow that had risen from foreman and retired, he gave a large statue. The old fellow called Schwab up. "Charley, the old man, (meaning Carnegie) sent me a rock woman, what will I do with her?"

He says he is an Optimist even now, and that we are not so bad off. Well maby we aint. This hunger may only be an illusion. Met at the Dinner this fellow Roy Howard, of Scripps Howard, that buys all the Newspapers. They bought the New York World, and combined it with the Evening Telegram. Well he and Scripps are mighty keen Birds. I also met Scripps. He has whiskers, and that with Roy's full dress evening cape, makes a mighty hard combination to beat. They are young, full of progress, and good credit, and it looks like the only way to keep from selling your paper to em is to just disband it. Howard took me to his fine office. He asked me what I would have. I told him Chop Suey. Its furnished like a joss house. He is growing a Queue, and signs his name with two pens at once like Chop sticks.

The Boys were really mighty sober at the dinner, another and mighty good indication of hard times. Some of em just had to get what little they could from the others breath. Some small town Editors had to just act soused in order to impress. But it was a fine affair; one of the best I ever attended, made so by Schwab and Carter and a good audience.

JOHN FOGARTY LEARNED SING AMATEUR SHOW

BORN AND RAISED ON RANCH IN OLD WEST

Served With American Army in France During World War

Wherever race horses gather at a barrier John Fogarty, NBC tenor, is at home. He was born in Sioux Falls, S. D., and spent his boyhood on ranches in Montana, often running away from home to follow strings of horses to county and state fairs.

His carefree boyhood days were interrupted, however, when at 16 years of age he enlisted in the second Montana, 163rd infantry, and served three months in the trenches in France. He saw action at Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel and Argonne, serving as a sergeant. At the time of the signing of the armistice he was a second lieutenant in an officers' training camp.

After his three months of experience in the three major engagements, Fogarty often assisted in training commissioned officers—those who gained such positions through education or position in the United States—in how to take platoons over the top.

In the summer of 1919, before returning to the United States, he wore the colors of Uncle Sam in the Olympics, running the mile against seasoned stars. In the semifinals at the Colombe stadium, Paris, he was accidentally spiked in the heel when coming down the final stretch in the lead. Larry Shields, University of Pennsylvania star, won the race.

After being discharged from the service in the United States, Fogarty returned to Great Falls, Mont., and worked for eight months in the wholesale fruit business with a brother. But the call of a musical career inspired him to go to New York to study.

In his boyhood days, aside from his interest in race horses, Fogarty appeared at many amateur theatricals as a dancer. His father, he contends, was the greatest soft shoe, buck and wing and clog dancer in the United States. The buck and wing dance of the West is now known as taps.

At the age of 9 years he made his debut in an Elks' minstrel show as a singer, and for many years thereafter he sought to emulate Frank Fogarty, famous minstrel and vaudeville actor of 15 years ago. They are cousins.

Fogarty first began his musical education in New York in 1920, and for a year and a half studied under a tutor whom he contends "nearly ruined" his voice. His voice was immature and the teacher trained him in singing arias.

For a few years after this experience he studied with Louis Chartiere, who now resides in Montreal, Canada, and whom Fogarty considers the "greatest living baritone." Fogarty began playing vaudeville in 1925 and has since toured the United States and Canada doing single acts, double acts and "flash" acts.

Fogarty began broadcasting over NBC networks in March, 1930, and during the year since his popularity has steadily increased. In the spring of 1931 he was receiving an average of approximately 500 fan letters a week.

HERMAN WASSERMAN TO GIVE PIANO BROADCAST OVER COLUMBIA CHAIN

Herman Wasserman, pianist, will make his radio debut on WABC and 34 stations of the Columbia network, at 5:15 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, May 17.

Wasserman was born of a Polish musical family. His ability was discovered soon after his immigration to the United States and society, headed by Otto H. Kahn, Henry Seligman and Edward T. Stotesbury, patronized his musical education abroad. He soon became an outstanding pupil of Leopold Godowsky and won the distinction of being the only American to receive a scholarship at the Imperial Academy of Music of Vienna.

BIBLICAL DRAMAS WILL RETURN TO AIR SUNDAY OVER NATIONAL NETWORK

Biblical dramas, for years a favorite NBC Sunday feature, will return to the air May 10. Each Sunday between 10:30 and 11 p. m., central standard time, a story from the Bible will be dramatized over an NBC-WEAF network.

"The Unkown God" will inaugurate the new series. It is based on an incident in the life of Paul at the time he visited the Athenians and his followers suffered from the Roman persecutions. Into the drama is woven the romance of Leocrates, an aristocrat of Athens, and Damaris, a convert. The impelling force of the story, however, is the strength of Paul, whose preaching wins to the faith Roman soldiers and Athenian citizens alike.

NOTED CATHOLIC WILL ADDRESS RADIO WORLD

Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, noted Catholic authority in the field of economics, professor of moral theology at the Catholic university at Washington and director of the department of social action of the national Catholic welfare conference, will be the speaker during the Catholic hour to be broadcast over an NBC-WEAF network Sunday, May 10, from 4 to 5 p. m., central standard time.

Dr. Ryan's address will have for its subject Pope Leo XIII's encyclical on the condition of labor. The 40th anniversary of the issuance of this papal pronouncement on the moral relations of employers and workers will be commemorated throughout the Catholic world during the week of May 10-17.

BILLIE BURKE TO MAKE RADIO DEBUT MAY 13

Noted Comedienne Will Sing as Guest Artist For Columbia

PREVIOUS APPEARANCES IN DRAMATIC PROGRAMS

Star Noted Performer on Musical Comedy Stage Of England

Billie Burke, noted comedienne, will sing over the radio for the first time when she appears before the microphone as guest artist with the broadcast of Vitality Personalities over the WABC-Columbia network, Wednesday, May 13, at 8 p. m., central standard time.

Although Miss Burke has not sung in public for a number of years, ever since her musical comedy days in England, she has selected this medium of entertainment for her contribution to this program. She will sing "Mind the Paint Girl" by Jerome Kern and "Hold on to Love." The second number was composed by Ivor Novello, the British actor-playwright who co-starred with her recently in his play, "The Truth Game." Her previous microphone appearances were confined to dramatic work.

Miss Burke, who in private life is Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld, is a native of Washington, but made her professional debut in London in a slight role in a musical comedy starring Edna May. Her beauty and versatility brought her to the foreground in a comparatively short time. She scored an outstanding hit with the song "My Little Canoe." Charles Frohman induced her to come to New York as leading lady for John Drew. Subsequently, she became a member of that producer's repertory company, and soon after was made a star, appearing in plays by Maugham, Pinero, Tarkington and other eminent playwrights. After an extended career in motion pictures, she returned to the New York stage.

The orchestral portion of the Vitality Personalities presentation will be under the direction of Freddie Rich who will feature a medley from Al Jolson's current starring vehicle, "The Wonder Bar," in which the vocal choruses will be sung by the Roundtowners quartet. Ted Husing will announce the broadcast.

BOBBY JONES IS COMPLIMENTED ON MICROPHONE EASE

Bobby Jones has a simple and direct system of preparing his weekly golf talks broadcast each Wednesday night over an NBC network in the Listerine program. Studio attaches in Los Angeles, where the Emperor Jones is making movie shorts and from where his golf talks are picked up, declare that the golfing king is a total stranger to the sort of temperament that some screen and microphone celebrities display.

Jones, accompanied by O. B. Keeler, his interlocutor in radio, shows up at the KFI-KECA studios promptly every Wednesday night half an hour before their broadcast begins.

They take their copy and retire to a corner of the reception room. There they clip the pages to pieces of cardboard so they won't rustle before the microphone. Then, when each page is neatly and firmly clipped, they begin to rehearse.

They are through in 20 minutes, and then stroll out on the roof garden for a cigaret and a chat. Two minutes before their program is scheduled to begin, they enter the studio, perfectly prepared.

"Bobby and Keeler have their broadcasting routine so perfected, that their broadcast runs itself," says Don Wilson, their announcer. "You wouldn't know they were in the place five minutes before or one minute after their program. And when they step before the microphone, everything is timed to the second, and it goes off so smoothly that listeners might think it had been rehearsed for months. No wonder he's golfing champion."

Hoover and Coolidge Will Assist in Dedication of Memorial to Harding At Elaborate Exercises in Marion

President Hoover and former President Coolidge will be heard over the radio together Tuesday, June 16, when they will take leading parts in dedicating a memorial to their predecessor, Warren G. Harding, at Marion, Ohio.

The exercises dedicating the Harding memorial will be broadcast over a coast-to-coast Columbia network from 1 to 2:15 p. m., central standard time.

The ceremonies will be opened with a brief address by former Senator Joseph T. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, president of the Harding Memorial association. He will give a synopsis of the association's history and a short description of the memorial.

Former President Coolidge will then take over the exercises, acting as a sort of master of ceremonies. He will introduce Gov. George White of Ohio, who will accept the memorial from the association on behalf of the state. In turn, he will turn the magnificent $750,000 temple over to Mr. Hoover, honorary president of the Harding Memorial association, who will accept the gift in the name of the nation.

The president at this time will make the principal address of the occasion.

Music is expected to be furnished by either the army, navy or marine band, while Ohio's foremost choirs, the Maschke Glee club of Cleveland and the Republican Glee club of Columbus, will sing. These details are not as yet complete, however, and there may be some change before the date of the dedication ceremonies.

Accompanying President Hoover from Washington probably will be Vice President Charles Curtis and Seantor James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, formerly a member of the Harding cabinet. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Secretary of Treasury Adrew W. Mellon, two other members of the original Harding cabinet who are in Washington, are not expected to attend.

FIRST TRANSATLANTIC OPERA BROADCAST WILL BE MADE FROM ROYAL OPERA HOUSE IN LONDON

Opera will be broadcast across the Atlantic for the first time Wednesday, May 13, from 2:45 to 3:30 p. m. central standard time, when the first four scenes in the second act of "The Magic Flute" are heard from the Royal Opera house, Covent Garden, London, on the WABC-Columbia network.

The opera series at Covent Garden coincides with the height of the London social season, and the beau mode generally is present in force, with members of King George's family in the royal box.

Noted operatic singers of Britain, continental Europe and the United States are engaged for the season. The cast for the scenes from Mozart's masterpiece which will be heard over the air consists of Noel Eadie, as queen of the night; Marcel Wittrisch, Tamino; Margareta Teschemacher, Pamina; Ivar Andresen, of the New York Metropolitan, Sarastro; Herbert Janssen, orator; Gerhardt Huesch, Papageno; Sofie Schoenning, Papagena. Bruno Walter will be the conductor.

CLASSIC RECITALS TO BE OPENED BY FAMOUS ORGANIST

Archer Gibson, one of the foremost American organists, will inaugurate a series of classical recitals over an NBC network from his New York studio, Monday night, May 11, between 5:30 and 6 o'clock, central standard time. His series will be listed as "Archer Gibson, concert organist" and will be heard in the New York area through WEAF.

A second series, featuring Gibson at the console of his home studio organ, will begin over an NBC-WJZ network on Tuesday night, May 12, between 9:30 and 10 o'clock, and will be known as "Dream Pictures, with Archer Gibson."

The Monday night series will be of a distinctly classical nature, with Milton J. Cross, NBC announcer, introducing program selections from a comfortable fireside chair in Gibson's living room. Gibson's organ is especially constructed for radio broadcasting purposes and is considered one of the finest in the country.

PLAN BROADCASTS MANY SPEECHES OF PRESIDENT HOOVER

President Hoover will speak to the nation over the Columbia Broadcasting system Thursday evening, May 21, when he addresses a gathering at the 50th anniversary dinner of the American Red Cross at the Willard hotel, Washington. Mr. Hoover's remarks will be broadcast over a coast-to-coast network from 8:30 to 9 p. m., central standard time.

Other addresses of the president scheduled for the next few weeks, and which Columbia will broadcast, include:

International Chamber of Commerce, Constitution hall, Washington, 9:45 to 10 a. m., central standard time, Monday, May 4.

Harding memorial dedication, Marion, Ohio, 1 to 2:15 p. m., central standard time, Tuesday, June 16.

Arrangements are now being made by Columbia officials looking to the broadcast of the following presidential speeches:

Memorial day exercises, Valley Forge, Pa., at 9:30 a. m., central standard time, Saturday, May 30.

Indiana State Editorial association convention, Indianapolis, evening of June 15.

G. A. R. review, annual encampment, Columbus, Ohio, 4 to 4:30 p. m., central standard time, Tuesday, June 16, following Harding memorial dedication.

Lincoln memorial dedication, Springfield, Ill., afternoon of June 17.

LUCILLE CLEMONS TO BE NETWORK GUEST ARTIST

Lucille Clemons, popular pianist who has been heard over NBC networks at various times during the past seven years, will be guest artists of the works of great composers program Tuesday, May 12, between 8 and 8:30 p. m., central standard time, over an NBC-WJZ network.

Miss Clemons will play the allegro con brio, or first movement and the Carl Reinecke cadenzo to the Beethoven Concerto in C Minor. She will be assisted by a full concert orchestra directed by Hugo Mariani.

Chief of Staff Will Broadcast Attack Orders

Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the U. S. army, opening the great army air attack upon New York City, will be heard over the combined coast-to-coast networks of the National Broadcasting company, Saturday afternoon, May 23.

The chief of staff, speaking into an NBC microphone at headquarters at Mitchell field, will inaugurate probably the most extensive broadcast ever presented by the NBC. It will be heard between 1 and 2:15 p. m. central standard time.

A corps of NBC announcers, engineers and army observers located at field vantage points, atop skyscrapers and in airplanes, will pick up and describe the maneuvers of 672 planes as they mass above Manhattan island and engage in mimic battle while traveling 250 miles an hour.

The man directing the broadcast will not even see it. He is William Burke Miller, NBC director of special broadcast events.

Miller will be stationed at a special control board where 40 lines from "mike" stations will terminate in the NBC building at 711 Fifth avenue, and will issue orders to announcers over a special inter-communicating system. He'll have to see the show in newsreels.

CONTEST WILL DECIDE FAVORITE MOTHER SONG OF AMERICAN PEOPLE

What is America's best-loved "mother" songs?

This question will be answered by Morton Downey in a special Mother's day song recital to be broadcast by him from WABC over the Columbia network, Sunday, May 10, at 6:45 p. m., cenral standard time.

At that time the popular tenor will sing the first and second choruses as expressed by radio listeners. In addition, he will introduce for the first time over the radio a new ballad entitled "The Best Sweetheart of All."

A program of this nature was suggested in several fan letters received by Downey who immediately conferred with Columbia officials on the possibility of having a 15-minute period on Mother's day alotted to him. It was arranged, and although the singer is heard on the radio six days weekly, this marks the first time he has been scheduled for a Sunday broadcast. His own mother will be present in the studio.

FRANCES SHELLEY HAS LEADING ROLE IN RADIO ROUNDUP

Stanley Smith, leading man of stage and screen, and Frances Shelley, musical comedy actress, will be the principals in the "radio roundup" broadcast over the WABC-Columbia network, Thursday, May 14, at 9:30 p. m., central standard time. Also appearing on the program will be L. Wolfe Gilbert, writer of numerous song successes; Ann Roxanne, contralto, and Keenan and Costello, a piano duo.

Smith, who has appeared in motion pictures opposite Nancy Carroll, Clara Bow, Ginger Rogers and other stars, is now featured in the Broadway musical comedy, "You Said It." He will sing two of the song hits from that production—"You Said It" and "Learn to Croon," in which he will be accompanied by Freddie Rich's orchestra.

A Canadian girl who first attracted considerable attention for her rendition of "What Is This Thing Called Love?" in the English revue, "Wake Up and Dream," Frances Shelley subsequently toured the United States in vaudeville. Now back in New York, she will make her first nation-wide radio appearance since her debut last year, singing "You Don't Know What You're Doing" and Morton Downey's composition, "Now You're in My Arms."

CARSON ROBINSON WILL BE GOLD MEDAL ARTIST

Carson Robinson will entertain the Gold Medal express audience with his famous whistling, harmonica and guitar specialty act Monday night from 6:30 to 7 o'clock central standard time over station WFAA.

The Gold Medal fast freight will carry a surprise package for its broadcast Wednesday evening over KMOX from 7 to 7:30 o'clock.

SPECIAL MOTHER'S DAY RECITATION PROGRAM

A special Mothers day program, presenting recitations by Edgar White Burrill, originator of "Literary Vespers," and a string ensemble directed by Robert Armbruster, will be broadcast Sunday, May 10, between 8 and 9:30 a. m., central standard time over an NBC-WEAF network.

Burrill will offer a series of readings including the poem, "Mother," by Margaret E. Sangster. Armbruster, conducting an NBC ensemble, will present a concert of old songs including "Mother O' Mine" by Kipling-Tours.

Community Exhibits Expected to Be Prominent Feature of County Fair; Rules Are Announced by Committee

A community exhibit contest has been announced as a feature of the county fair at Iowa Park this summer, and is expected to be one of the most interesting phases of the fair. It is hoped to have 12 to 20 different communities competing.

1. Exhibits must be in place not later than 9 a. m., on date to be announced. Exhibits not in place and completed by 9 a. m. will be penalized.

2. The display and decorations will be confined to products actually grown in the community, and the person in charge of the exhibit must be prepared to make an affidavit that products exhibited were grown in the community in 1931. This does not prevent the use of wall board, paper or bunting on the floor or wall of booth.

3. Exhibitors will be assigned space in the agricultural building by the superintendent.

4. Exhibits or decorations showing other than agricultural products will not be permitted.

5. All bundles exhibited under score card must not be less than three inches nor more than five inches at middle of tie. All exhibits of preserved fruit and canned vegetables must be in quart glass top uniform jars, and in edible form. Samples of cotton will consist of 20 bolls arranged neatly in cardboard boxes of uniform size. A penalty of five points shall be charged against any exhibit for each discrepancy in size of bundle or measurement of grain or seed.

6. Every exhibit should be carefully and tastefully arranged by the exhibitor.

7. Products grown on government or state experiment farms will not be shown.

8. All exhibits and products used in filling score cards will be placed on platform of booth and any agricultural products grown in community may be placed on background or wall at back of booth.

9. Exhibitors are requested to read carefully the score card, for it will be rigidly adhered to by the judges. An excess or shortage in the number of samples required will be penalized.

10. No crop included in any classification shall be shown elsewhere except as provided for under "other crops."

Cotton—Two exhibits of 20 open bolls each, one exhibit of three stalks, 150 points.

Corn—Four exhibits of 10 ears each not less than two nor more than four varieties, 25 points.

Grain Sorghum—Ten exhibits of 10 heads each, not less than two nor more than four varieties, 125 points.

Small Grain—Four exhibits of one gallon of any of the following grains or combinations of grains: Wheat, barley, oats, rye, 100 points.

Four bundles of any kind or kinds of bundles to be three inches at center band (must be same bundle grain as gallon exhibit).

Legumes—(Alfalfa, clover, peanuts, cowpeas). Four bundles each of not less than two nor more than four different kinds, bundles to be three inches at center band, 100 points.

Forage—Two bundles each of not less than two nor more than four varieties of any of the following: Red top cane, sudan grass, darso, black amber cane, Johnson grass, millet, 60 points.

Other Crops—Five exhibits of one exhibit each of any other crop grown not shown in any other classification (example, pop corn, pecans, etc), 15 points.

Canned Meat in Tin—Four cans of beef, different kinds (roast, chile, steak, soup, stew); three cans of pork, different kinds (roast, ham, sausage, liver paste); three cans of chicken, different kinds (fried, baker, stew, soup), 50 points.

CATTLE DEMONSTRATE VALUE OF SOWED PASTURE

WILLS POINT, Texas, May 9.—A four-acre pasture sowed last September to oats, barley and hairy winter vetch has furnished grazing for eight head of dairy cattle all winter on the farm of Roy Curtis, Van Zandt county farmer. One hundred pounds of small grain and 15 pounds of vetch were drilled between the cotton rows and grazing started in October. In mid-February 15 pounds of sweet clover were broadcast and harrowed in at the suggestion of W. D. Seals, county agent, who is cooperating in the demonstration, and during March the field pastured 10 head of cattle and one horse. The grain is now being allowed to mature and it is expected that the clover will furnish a summer grazing or hay crop to supplement sudan grass. Next fall Mr. Curtis aims to add black medic or bur clover, and white Dutch clover and lespedeza to the mixture.

Since last December Mrs. R. L. Cruitt of Seney, Potter county, has cleared $52.60 from the sale of hooked rugs which she learned to make in her home demonstration club.

STATION EXPERIMENTS WITH HEAD LETTUCE

Unwilling to accept the generally held belief that head lettuce cannot be grown in this section, Supt. C. H. McDowell of the state experiment station has been putting that belief to a working test. The above picture shows him with some of the results. The results were not fully satisfactory, for although nice heads were developed, their tendency to go to seed too promptly makes it necessary to do some further experimenting. Mr. McDowell plans a more extensive test later.

ANNOUNCE WINNERS IN HASKELL COUNTY LIVING ROOM EVENT

HASKELL, Texas, May 9.—Winners in Haskell county improved living room contest have been announced to the county council by the judges, Mrs. Hugh Smith and Mrs. Paul Kuenstler of Haskell. Mrs. Ike Simpson of Blue Bonnet home demonstration club was declared winner of first place having made the greatest amount of improvement with the least expenditure. Mrs. Jake Holcomb of Cottonwood home demonstration club will be awarded second prize and Miss Nora Walters of Blue Bonnet home demonstration club third. The Spencer Lumber company, H. H. Hardin Lumber company and Brazelton Lumber company are giving the prizes in paints and varnishes to the three winning contestants.

With the realization that the desire for better homes means much more than the amount of money one has to spend eight club women improved their living rooms at a total cost of $70.67 or an average of $8.83 per room. All these rooms were re-arranged for convenience and improved appearance with the refinishing of 55 pieces of furniture and addition of 23 pieces, most of these being made or remodeled from discarded pieces. Both the natural and artificial light was improved in some cases by the addition of light walls, woodwork, thin curtains and draperies, and improved by use of paint, varnish, hot oil or stain. Each contestant made a braided rug of hemp or cotton material. Among other things accomplished base boards were added, door and window facings, screens and window boxes.

Total of Over $20,000 Involved In Local Applications for Federal Loans; 113 Farmers Participate in Aid Given

A total of 113 Wichita county farmers applied for government aid loans up to May 1, records of County Agent G. C. McGown reveal.

The total amount asked was $20,-232.75, an average of $179.23.

Favorable action has already been taken on 80 applications, the loans totaling $14,251.43, an average of $181.52. The 43 applications not yet acted upon involve a total of $5,731.52, an average of $133.29.

Most of the loans were for purchase of seed, feed or fertilizer. Comparatively few were what is known as rehabilitation loans.

Borrowers are expected to use the money solely for the purpose for which it was loaned and pay it back at the first opportunity.

Every Day Life of the Farmer's Wife

Well, folks! Today is the day this great nation of ours has set aside for us to pay tribute to that wonderful person, our mother. Of course all of us who possibly can will be with our mothers today.

I have noticed all my life that farm folks show their affection for each other less than any other people. I guess it is because our lives are so full of work and the thoughts of making a living that we don't have time for the finer things of life. We also pay less attention to holidays than other people do, but Mother's day should be dear to the heart of every one whether he be farmer or king.

Because of financial conditions only a few of us farmers will be able to remember our mothers with presents or flowers this year, but that doesn't mean that we love them any less. There are a thousand ways throughout the year by which we can show love for our mothers. Mothers are our most priceless gift. Mothers are wise as well as the most understanding, sympathetic, generous persons in the world, and because of their great love for us are the most forgiving of every fault. Can you understand our ever neglecting a person like that for a single day? Let the nation honor them one day but let us honor them every day.

I hope if any of those neglectful people who have not been to see their mothers or written to them in three or four years happen to read this, that they will immediately write that dear old mother a long letter and apologize for such neglect. We, who are fortunate enough to still have our parents, should not wait until Mother's day to think of them. We should think of them every day, and should always be kind and considerate of them. I know of one woman who went home to see her parents this spring for the first time in 23 years. Think of all that neglect. Yet they forgave her and their hearts bubbled over with joy at the very sight of her. Such neglect to me seemed impossible and uncalled for. They all live in this state and with all our modern ways of travel it seems to me as if she as well as all of us could go to see our parents once a year. Of course, we all grow neglectful to some extent when we go out into the world and start a home and family of our own. We always intend to write that letter or make that visit, but each day we put it off until tomorrow. We never realize, until we are in a like position, how disappointing these postponements are. They seem such trivial things to us. We who are so busy with life forget that our parents are looking backward and the greatest interest life holds for them is in us.

Probably we think our parents did not give us the advantages that we intend to give our children, but remember, things are quite different today to what they were 30 or 40 years ago. Our parents did not have the advantages of the daily press, the radio, automobiles, airplanes and thousands of other advantages that parents of today have. The mother of 40 years ago could not pick up a dozen different magazines that would tell her exactly how to care for her baby. But she did not love you any the less even though she did not know you needed orange juice, cod liver oil, spinach and beef liver. She worked under a far greater handicap than mothers of today will ever know.

While I am talking about Mother I want to put in a word for dear old Dad. Let us pat him on the back today and tell him he is an honest-to-goodness wonderful daddy. He worked for us in the cold and the rain and through the sweltering heat when we could not work for ourselves. His path has not been strewn with roses either.

And now I am going to mention something that is a sore spot to a lot of folks, and that is the mother-in-law. I wonder why so few people really love their mother-in-law. Did you ever think about it this way: She must be a pretty good woman in spite of all her faults or she could not have reared the man or woman who is all the world to you.

A profit of $2.20 was returned for each $1 worth of feed Dr. E. T. Tidd of Staples, Guadalupe county, fed his demonstration flock of 845 hens during March. They averaged nearly 20 eggs per hen and produced eggs at the rate of 6.3 cents per dozen feed cost.

HOME MADE RUG PAYS FOR NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS

MIDLAND, Texas, May 9.—A home-made rug has brought a new kitchen sink and a yard full of shrubs to Mrs. S. H. Gwyn, Midland county home demonstration club woman. Selling a hooked rug in February for $20 she bought a good second-hand 18x30 sink with lead trap and brackets for $5. A neighbor furnished some discarded pipe, and Mr. Gwyn and son did the work. The total cost was $5.75, and with the balance more shrubs were bought for the yard.

Selling Feed on Hoof Proves Quite Profitable to Baylor County Youth Who Clears $90.40 on Two Herefords

SEYMOUR, Texas, May 9.—A Baylor County club boy has set an example of the advantages of marketing home grown feeds through livestock, to get the largest profit, when feed prices are low.

Last September, Deryl Jeter of the Jeter community purchased two junior Hereford calves and placed them on feed. The ration was prepared by County Agent P. C. Colgin and was fed under his direction. It consisted of ground corn and cob meal, oats, cotton seed meal, Hegari forage, and a small amount of cottonseed hulls. The calves were also allowed to remain with their mothers for 73 days after they were put on feed.

The initial weights were 400 pounds and 450 pounds, after being on feed for 151 days the final weights were 985 pounds and 955 pounds. The average gain per day was 3.25 pounds and 2.79 pounds respectively.

Deryl won a number of prizes at various shows. At the Albany Beef show held at Albany, Texas, March 3-5 his two calves won fourth and fifth places in a class of seven. The prize money amounted to $55. At the Baylor County 4H club beef calf show held in Seymour on March 25, he took first and second place, winning $12.50 in prizes. In the recent Baby Beef, Swine and Cured Meat show held at Lubbock, Texas, Deryl stood fourth and fifth in a class of 45 calves, winning $34.50. His total prize money for the three shows amounted to $112.

The most interesting fact revealed in the demonstration was the price obtained for the feed, fed to the calves. The price paid for the calves was $70, cost of feed $78.80. The calves were sold at the Lubbock show for 13c per pound, bringing a total of $239.20 or a profit of $90.40. The long trip to Lubbock caused a shrinkage in weight of 105 pounds for the two calves. On a percentage basis these calves returned Jeter 114 per cent on the feed marketed through them.

Deryl Jeter and His 155-Pound Hereford Calf

| Feed used— | Cost | Profit | Total | Price Rec'd. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2,430 lbs. ground corn | $35.02 | $40.18 | $ 75.20 | $ 2.17 per bu. |
| 1,025 lbs. cottonseed meal | 14.82 | 17.00 | 31.82 | 3.10 100 lbs. |
| 803 lbs. oats | 12.32 | 14.13 | 26.45 | 1.05 per bu. |
| 720 lbs. hulls | 3.45 | 4.06 | 7.40 | 1.00 100-lbs. |
| 2,124 lbs. forage | 7.10 | 8.15 | 15.25 | 14.40 per ton |
| 75 days nursed | 6.00 | 6.88 | 12.88 | |
| Total | $78.80 | $90.40 | $169.20 | |

Deryl now has a bank account of $202.40 including his prize money, and is planning to feed out 10 calves this fall. Had he received the current market price for his stock at the time of the sale he still would have made a profit.

The prices of the feeds used in the demonstration are given to clarify the above figures. Corn at $28.80 per ton, Cottonseed meal at $1.45 per 100 pounds, Oats at 50c per bushel, Hulls at $9 per ton, Hegari less heads, 2c per bundle, average weight per bundle, six pounds. The cows were not fed but the calves were charged pasturage of the cow.

TELLS OF WAYS TO MAKE PLEASANT USE OF STRAWBERRIES

By ETHEL LOUISE WEBB
County Home Demonstration Agent

Strawberry season is here and no doubt, women who desire home preserved food, will be interested in strawberry preserves. Berries should be graded and washed in a large colander before removing the stems. Removing the stems before washing allows the berries to soak up the water and thus making them "mushy." The colander allows the water to pour through the berries, washing and removing grit, it also prevents bruising.

An extra heavy aluminum kettle is better for making preserves. This gives an even heat, and allows rapid cooking without scorching. Stir the berries while cooking as gently as possible to prevent breaking fruit. Skim the berries before removing from the fire, using a silver spoon. If the berries contain enough pectin to jell, it will be impossible for them to plump over night as most recipes require. Watch product carefully after removing from the fire and pack before the jelly stage is reached. Pack berries carefully, filling the jar. Avoid too much syrup, but fill jar to the brim. Remove all air bubbles with a wooden spoon.

Pack berries in jar just before jelly stage is reached or when syrup is thick enough to hold fruit in place. If the fruit is packed in the jar while the syrup is hot, the fruit will rise to the top. If packed too cold when the jelly stage has been reached, the jelly will break and it is impossible to remove all air bubbles.

Cook small quantities of berries to prevent crushing and darkening of the fruit. Hot paraffin should be poured over top of fruit one-sixteenth inch in thickness before sealing and while fruit is still hot.

Strawberry preserves No. 1—One quart sugar; one and one-half quarts strawberries. (Never double this recipe). Use only firm berries, place layers of berries and sugar alternately in an enameled lined or heavy aluminum kettle. Heat slowly and stir gently until the sugar melts. Cook very rapidly from 15 to 20 minutes or until the syrup sheets from the spoon. Remove any skim with a silver spoon. Allow to cool; when cool and before jelly stage is reached, pack the fruit in jairs, seal. Allow to stand over night and process for 15 minutes in hot water keeping water just below the boiling point—remove lid at once and pour hot paraffin over surface—seal at once.

Strawberry preserves No. 2—Two pounds of berries; one-half cup berry juice; one and one-half pounds of sugar. Wash, grade and stem the berries. Make a syrup of the sugar and juice and add the berries. Cook to 222 degrees farenheit or 105½ degrees centigrade, or until the syrup is very thick. Cook quickly, pack into sterilized jars and seal. The packing and sealing is the same as recipe No. 1.

HYDRAULIC BRAKES

ACCEPT NO LESS IN THE CAR YOU BUY

Every time you press the brake pedal you get the same result—sure, even, easy, positive.

For Dodge brakes operate according to a scientific truth . . . the unchangeable law of hydraulics that pressure applied to a liquid is transmitted equally in all directions. Pressure at every brake drum is always the same.

With Dodge Brakes, Dodge Mono-Piece Steel Bodies and Dodge low center of gravity, you get in Dodge cars the three greatest safety factors.

Drive the new Dodge Six or Eight. See what these safety factors mean to you, what Dodge beauty means to you . . . Dodge performance, Dodge comfort and Dodge dependability.

An Experiment in Marriage

JOHN WARRINGTON entered what he called his studio in his usual jaunty way. More jauntily than usual because he was cold with fright and horror at something that he had done. He was trying to hide that fact even from himself.

He went immediately to his desk and picked up a sheet of paper. On this his secretary had pasted a cutting of an advertisement which had appeared in his favorite morning paper. With a crinkle up his spine and a feeling that his hair was rising on his head, he read the words of his own composition for the hundredth time.

> WANTED. A charming, alluring, but extremely sensible girl, with a keen sense of humor, the gift of keeping a secret, a deep sympathy, to act as a week-end companion to a man of rectitude; must provide proofs that she is eighteen years of age, of an unblemished character and high morality. Salary generous, dresses provided, all expenses paid. Must not sing or recite. Intelligence not wholly necessary. Applicant should apply at 2-A East 52nd Street, on Friday between ten and one.

Warrington was a playwright, who saw himself in terms of comedy and farce, who looked at life from the point of view of a manipulator of scenes. A delightful person, though, kind, considerate, loyal, supremely decent, deeply in love with his wife and very proud of his home. A combination of Don Quixote and Savanorola, who played an excellent game of tennis, persistent but erratic golf and whose principles were as straight as his eye. This rash and peculiar advertisement was the outcome of a desperate and tragic desire to prevent his marriage from running on the rocks. A playwright even in his domestic troubles, he had devised this scheme of a week-end girl in order to show his wife, the beautiful Lallah, the gross disloyalty of running a gigolo. Acting on the assumption that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery and also of ridicule, he had devised a plan of taking home a girl who would be even more attentive, sweet, sympathetic and snuggly than the Orlando Lulworth, commonly known as "Dodo," who followed his wife about. You see he had arrived at that state of matrimonial irritability, jealousy and outrage which makes such an experiment the alternative to a lamentable break.

His secretary's name was Pilgrim and her eyes were extremely cold as she greeted him. "There are twenty-two girls in the apartment," she said. "There would be sixty-two if I hadn't put a notice on the door which runs as follows: 'House full—standing room only now.'"

"Will you explain just what you mean by a week-end companion, please?"

WARRINGTON was aghast. What had he brought on himself? Feeling extremely frightened he studied a large sheet of paper on which the exemplary Miss Pilgrim had typed the names, ages, occupations and outward characteristics of all the applicants. The first entry ran like this: "Carlotta Potthast, eighteen (?), temporary blonde, plucked eyebrows, Angora eyes, large hands, muscular calves, resonant voice, frequent laughter. Remarks—P. L. B. E. N."

"I'm afraid I don't quite under . . ."

"A person likely to be an extreme nuisance." Miss Pilgrim explained these mythical letters in a cold and level voice.

"So I should think," said John. With considerable concentration and a rapidly increasing fright he read the rest of the entries, hot and cold by turns. He guessed N. D. E. stood for "No darned earthly," of course, and he felt the nasty sensation which comes to men in air raids and when they stand on altar steps during marriage ceremonies. He looked at the list, shut his eyes and blindly stabbed a name. It was Betty Bickel, twenty, mediator, A. C. O. F. I.

IN answer to his elevated eyebrows Miss Pilgrim translated these letters as "A conveyor of false impressions," and added, "I think she ought to do. I'll send her in at once." And almost before our worried friend could adopt an attitude the room was filled with a drenching whiff of most disturbing scent. Behind this entered a typical giggler with a permanent blush on both sides of a little nose which might have come out of a box of somewhat Turkish Delight. Such teeth! Such ruddy lips! She said immediately, "Well, what's the great idea?"

John didn't answer her question. He asked her one instead. "What made you answer this advertisement?"

"Anything once," said she.

Which proved beyond all question that she wouldn't do. "On your way out be kind enough to leave your telephone number with my secretary," he said.

With a blinding flash of understanding she allowed a cloud of cigaette smoke to issue from her nose. "Scratched," she said. "Well, you're making a mistake. As a week-end companion I should be quite unique." She gave a skip and was gone.

Miss Pilgrim's voice was deep. "I suggest that you see the girl idiotically called Percy Piercy," she said. "She seems to possess every requisite for the—shall I say position?"

Although stung by her sarcasm John took it like a man. You see he was all against divorce and until the advent of Orlando would have sworn in any Court that he and the lovely Lallah were the happiest couple on earth. . . . "You have her down as 'Actress, experienced, possessed with what is Glynnishly known as It.' Well, as I have got to do it I may as well do it well. I will see Miss Piercy, please."

IN came one of the prettiest creatures he had ever seen in his life. A skin like that of a child into which came little rushes of color from time to time with the most astounding ease; eyes friendly and unsuspicious, filled with a simplicity which, though utterly convincing, was almost beyond belief. It was only when one looked at her mouth that one fell with a crash from confidence to a queer uncertainty. "How-do-you-do?" she said. "I answer in every particular to the requirements set forth. Will you explain just what you mean by week-end companion, please?"

"Yes I will," said John, "in the strictest confidence. Five years ago I fell in love and won the girl of my choice. She was and is the most charming, beautiful and sterling girl in the world. I'm an idealist, a fanatic, in fact an old-fashioned man. That is, I detest divorce and regard marriage as the most beautiful thing in life. I have invented this scheme because my wife has been bitten by a microbe which is doing more to undermine marriage than any of the other bugs which attack the modern home. She has taken up the latest craze of adopting a young man who dances to perfection, utters words of fatuous flattery at all times of day, carries little parcels and takes the dog for a run. It is the new profession for every man with curly hair who simply refuses to work. I detest the little beast. I stumble over his well-shod feet in every room of my house. It's Dodo, Dodo, Dodo, all the blessed time. I simply hate to go home."

"Why don't you kick him out?"

"I can only do that if I go in for a frightful row with my wife and I'm far too much in love with her to do anything like that."

"I see," said Percy Piercy. "Everything's quite clear. I'm to be the female Dodo and shock your wife into the realization that the poor old worm has turned. The role of the week-end girl is right down my street."

JOHN clasped her outstretched hand. "Yes," he said. "You are to do for me, only twice as well and twice as horribly, what this wretched Dodo does for my demented wife. You are to drive home with me today and commence proceedings at once, be wholly at my disposal, follow me about, treat me as your pet whenever my wife is present, snuggle and adore and say all the sweetly idiotic things that will make even Lallah squirm."

It would be too rash to report exactly what happened during those dreadful days. It must be stated simply and carefully that John and Percy ran about hand in hand, allowed themselves to be caught in petting postures, and cooed all over the house; sat cheek to cheek in public places and sighed when the moon came out. It was a desperate and horrible business played to perfection by both. It almost went to prove that John was a better actor than he was a dramatist. By twelve o'clock on Sunday John was "Sqoosalums" to Percy and Percy was "Woozy" to John. Oh, lady, think of that!

BUT when on Monday morning John's car was brought to the door and Lallah stood framed in the archway, there to say good-bye, where was "Woozy"—where? Echo answered the word . . . Did it matter in any case? The experiment had failed. John had worked for nothing. He had provided his wife with a week-end of ceaseless laughter and fun. She had said at the end of breakfast, "Do it again, dear boy. Repeat it all next Friday. It's all too gorgeous for words. Percy, you little wonder, you have the run of the house."

"Smithson, where's Miss Piercy?" Failure or not it was John's job to drive that lady back.

"You must be wrong," said Lallah, showing her beautiful teeth.

"No, Madam. Mr. Lulworth 'phoned for the taxi before going in to breakfast and then drove off with Miss Piercy, sir. I put all his baggage in. Miss Piercy left a note for Madam. Would you like me to fetch it, sir?"

LALLAH took the letter from Simpson's soft, plump hand. "Your little companion tells me," she said, "briefly and rather well, that she and dear old Dodo had a conference last night. He has a friend, it appears, who's been trying to cast a play, and Dodo came to the conclusion, having watched her work with you, that she was born for the part and he's going to take her to the manager and ask for the part of the boy. I'll read these lines to you. 'Dodo and I are soul-mates and this engagement will lead to wedding-bells.'" There was a ripple of laughter as the letter fluttered down.

"Camouflage," thought John. "Poor Lallah's deeply hurt." With indescribable gallantry he went to her at once. "I'm awfully sorry," he said. "But it's as easy to find a Dodo as it is to buy a dog. I swear I never supposed that Percy would take him away from you. What do you intend to do?"

Lallah continued to laugh, and as it went on it grew warmer and more like the laughter of the Lallah of those once good days, the sensible, wifely, Lallah to whom John went home with joy.

"I intend to be unfashionable, John," she said, "and drop a gigolo,—or start a newer fashion and take up with my husband again. You know, this may be a wonderful day for husbands and bring back joy to homes! Imitation is the sincerest—but of course you know the rest."

Poor dear old choking John! If he never had a success in the theatre he was to have a long run in his house.
