Portales Eulogy

By ETAOIN SHRDLU

My article which was published in this paped last week must have created quiet a bit of concern. To date there hasn't been anybody to speak of the contents. However, a few have called my attention to the by-line at the top of this column, principally, to have me pronounce the name.

I mentioned also, a friend was coming to visit me from Dallas. I was to have met him in Amarillo Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock. I was there on time, but as should have been expected, he arrived just 12 hours late. I did not, however, wait up for him.

While visiting in Amarillo Saturday afternoon, I did a little window shopping. (Characteristic to all men). One of the latest creations for fall window trimming was a sign on a hat in one of the down-town show windows which read something like this: "Wanted: The lady who left this hat to return and take it and leave the one she wore out." If our grand fathers should see this?

I visited the Amarillo Globe-News there also. Topic of conversation in and around there were concerning the possibilities of war with European countries. And especially were they lamenting the withdrawal of Germany from the League of Nations and the world disarmament program.

I would suggest that they give some thought to affairs in the home land. The National Farmers Holiday association doesn't seem to be in such a good humor themselves. Besides, I can't think of anything the League of Nations has done for the benefit of the country, except that it made room for a few more political jobs.

Several years ago when I was one of the "gang" down home, I held the championship in the watermelon stealing contest. And I had stiff competition, too. But, Sunday, over in Texas, we drove alongside a watermelon field, and to be sure my companion, which was none other than the friend from Dallas, taught me the art of stealing melons. I'd better not linger on this subject, however. But I brought back proof of this fact.

And incidentally, this friend's father lived in Portales 'way back when—when most of the dwellings were dugouts and antelopes were plentiful hereabouts. He used to ride across this plains country and shoot them from a buckboard. Wonder how many of you citizens can remember that far back?

In my early journalism, I was taught, as a columnist, to refrain from using personal names. But here's one about Earl Stratton. Earl, incidentally, is one of my fellow-sufferers here at the office. Word reached me recently that Earl had a dream the other night that he was floating around on the wings of an angel, and when he awoke he found a feather in his bed. Of course, I'm in no position to affirm this statement, but the information came from a very reliable source. If at first you don't succeed, try, try again, Earl.

Editor Greaves is a grandfather, as you probably know. Well, if one didn't know the cause of his gaiety, one probably would think this was Christmas, and Santa had just delivered a little red wagon.

A friend down on the Rio Grande in Texas, writes that the climate is ideal. "Come on down and take a dip in the Gulf," he says. Then we'll run over to Old Mexico and have a drink." Thanks an awful lot. The white-lined bath tub is all I demand, and the butter milk here is fine.

In reminiscing the other day, I discovered an example that was put to me when I was in junior high. Just wonder how many of the grads of '16 will remember this: "A grandfather and his grand son have a birthday on the same date. At their last anniversary, together, they were 94 years old. The grand father is exactly 50 years older than the son. How old is the grand father and how old is the son?" Mail your answer to Etaoin Shrdlu care this paper. We'll publish them next week.

Warn Public Against Giving Aid to Transients; Seek Welfare Board

REHABILITATION CAMPS FOR TRANSIENTS; RELIEF WORK FOR NEEDY

C. J. Sparks met with the state welfare board at Santa Fe the first of the week, at which Mr. Pierce Williams, federal director for four states was present.

Mr. Williams took up the topic of transients, and four camps have been provided in state for work for transients, camps located at Gallup, Albuquerque, Tucumcari and Las Cruces, under proper supervision.

Transients will be sent to these camps where they will be given relief work until such time as they can be returned to their homes and provided with employment.

Plans for the drouth relief work was a part of the program at the Santa Fe meeting.

Mr. Williams stated that in his opinion there would be adequate relief program throughout the winter, in providing work for all able bodied persons under the supervision of the local welfare boards.

He stressed the fact that the public should refrain from giving money or food to the roving transients, but send them to the local relief board.

Local police are asked to help stop the running around of transients as much as possible, and enforce the local laws against begging and vagrancy.

It is the wish of the federal government that all transients in search of work, be turned back to where they came from, that they may be cared for by their local relief boards.

ATTACK RATES TO CONSUMING TERRITORIES

CASE WILL BE HEARD IN CLOVIS NOV. 23; LARGE CROWD EXPECTED

The business interest of Portales and Elida have filed a case attacking the rates now in effect on certain commodities shipped from Roosevelt county to all consuming territory.

S. J. Cole, attorney of Amarillo, was employed to prosecute the case. W. F. Craddock received a letter from Mr. Cole saying the case will be heard in the Quivera hotel at Clovis, New Mexico, on November 23.

This complaint was filed in the name of the Portales Chamber of Commerce, The Farmers Elevator Company, the Portales Broom Corn association, the Portales Vallely Sweet Potato association, and the Elida Chamber of Commerce.

Money raised to prosecute the case was by subscriptions from the business men of Elida and Portales.

It is the opinion of some that there should be a fair representation of farmers and business men to attend the hearing. It is estimated also, that if this suit is successful the farmers of Roosevelt county will save several thousand dollars yearly on freight rates.

FARM HOLIDAY STRIKE ISSUED FOR TODAY

CLOVIS, N. M., Oct. 25—Formal call for a state farm strike, in which farmers will be asked to withhold their products from the market, was issued today by A. W. Cameron, state president of the National Farm Holiday association.

The call, Cameron announced, was issued in cooperation with the nation-wide movement launched last week unde rthe direction of Milo Reno, national president of the FHA association.

Cameron said the strike is to become effective over the state immediately. He said that the association expects cooperation from its 14,000 New Mexico members "and more farmers too."

The Farm Holiday has 100 units in the state and most of them have endorsed the strike movement, the state president said. Only a few units on the west side of the state have not responded and Cameron said he is leaving today to confer with leaders in that section.

Cameron said that strike cooperators are being asked to keep all commodities off the market, with the exception of such perishable products as are necessary to sell.

DUCK SEASON IN THIS AREA NOV. 16-JAN. 15

Hunters are warned against killing ducks or geese before November 16, when the federal season for this district opens.

Hunting season last until January 15.

This is a federal law and it will be enforced by the federal authorities, so it is well to bear these dates in mind.

Dr. N. F. Wollard made a business trip to Amarillo Wednesday.

INCREASE IN FARM PRICES, SOUND CURRENCY IS PROMISED

WASHINGTON, October 22.—President Roosevelt tonight announced the creation of a government market for gold and an easing of the gold embargo in telling the nation of his recovery policies with a firm assertion that "we are on our way."

Standing firmly by his recovery program, the President rapped the "chislers" of the national recovery administration; assured an increase in agriculture prices with the words "If we cannot do it one way, we will do it another;" promised a maintenance of government credit and "a sound currency;" and announced the dollar would be revalued after a restoration of the price level.

The President's speech was broadcast and was carried over the National and Columbia systems.

Mr. Roosevelt put the operation of the government market for newly mined gold under the administration of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

POOR ANDY!

The aluminum trust, headed by "the greatest secretary of the treasury since, etc.," avers that 25 cents per hour is enough wages for any laborer. The vice president of the company openly states that the 25-cents-an-hour rate proposed by the code "is high for us."

Speaking of the wonderful conditions under which the Mellon Aluminum company works, this same official, asked to enumerate some of these advantages, said, "We furnish the workers excellent drinking water absolutely free of charge all day."

Such generosity! Poor Andy Mellon! Giving away drinking water!—Grand Junction Sentinel.

SHORT CROP INSURES A FAIR PRICE

MANY BROOMCORN FARMERS WILL RECEIVE PROFIT FROM OPERATIONS

The broomcorn crop and price situation this year furnishes an illustration of the beneficial effects of production control to producers.

This year there is a very low production of broomcorn. The acreage production for five years 1926-1930, was 49,200 tons, for 1932: 37,100 tons and the September 1 estimate for 1933 was 27,400 tons. The acreage for 1932 was 310,000 and for 1933 the estimate is 266,000 acres.

The result of this decrease in production has been relatively good prices. Many broomcorn farmers this year will receive a profit on their operations.

A year ago prices were at an extremely low level and farmers were losing money on their operations.

There is demand for a certain amount of all agricultural commodities at a fair price. To produce a surplus beyond this demand is economic suicide for the farmer. It is producing for a market that does not exist, and the result is low prices and bankruptcy for the producers and those who depend upon his efforts. A short crop will bring more total money to the producers than a large crop.

Broomcorn growers should remember this year in planning for the 1934 crop. A reasonable acreage will insure a profit. Overproduction will mean ruin.

Dean Condron of W. T. S. T. C. Speaks at Woman's Club

More than 100 persons listened to Dean Stewart Condron speak on the gold standard at the Portalles Woman's Club building Wednesday afternoon.

His idea was that the United States was not suffering so much from over-production as from under consumption. There may be over-production in some lines, said Mr. Condron; there has never been over-production of staple products; it is under distribution. The granaries are bursting with food and people are starving.

There are about five standards by which we could carry on the world's business. We are getting back to the old idea of barter—our property depends on the prosperity of the nations across the sea. As an example, recently Austria had an over supply of wool, the United States had a supply of trucks, another nation had a supply of dye and a three-way trade was made.

Monometalism is the second standard; then comes the paper standard, the index number, the bi-metalism. The pure gold standard merely means that the government will redeem in gold any obligation they have. It means that the mint will accept any and all gold and pay you for it.

Until 1914 the United States was in debt to foreign countries, and we paid not in gold, but in goods. Now the United States is a creditor nation and we will not accept goods, but are demanding payment in gold.

Dean Condron avdocates a world monetary system. It must be done internationally. There must be a world monetary conference. The money must be on a world basis.

Mr. Condron does not believe in a high tariff wall, nor in inflation beyond a reasonable point. He stated that over inflation was more injurious to the laboring man than to any other class.

Mrs. Ray Bonner, a former pupil of W. T. S. T. C., introduced the dean. Mrs. Lacy Armstrong was in charge of the program. Mrs. Taylor McCasland sang an Irish love song with Mrs. Paque at the piano.

The hostesses, Mrs. E. L. Wright, Mrs. C. J. Sparks, Mrs. H. H. Buchanan and Mrs. I. D. Johnson, assisted by Mrs. Sam Batton, Mrs. Edwin Neer, and Mrs. A. D. Ribble served tea and wafers.

The county treasurers office is now being remodeled in order that records may be preserved. Shelves are being built to keep the books in better order. A vault is being made so that one set of books may be kept there.

TODAY NEWS' THIRTY-SECOND BIRTHDAY

Today the Portalles Valley News begins its thirty-second year in Portales. The present editor came to Portales on October 20, 1920, and has served continuously since that time—13 years.

In fact 13 is his lucky number—(knocks wood).

This is ten years more than any other editor has seen continuous service in Portales. The thirteenth may be his last. Who knows?

But conditions being favorable he intends to round out at least 25 years continuous service. In the last 13 years he has seen the population of Portales over double, the population of the county double, and has had a small part in the development of both Portales and Roosevelt county.

Among the improvements that have taken place in the last 13 years are the high school building, the junior high school building, the Baptist Orphans home building, the Normal school building, the new Methodist church building, the many miles of paved streets, the hard surfaced highways, the building of the canning factory, the coming of two modern creamery plants to Portales, the gin, ice plant, bottling works, Broom factory, and many other business buildings and ware houses.

The last 13 years have been busy ones, and the editor has had little time for vacation or rest.

The forecast for the next five years are that Portales will be the center of a great oil field, that the Eastern New Mexico Normal school will be running full blast, that modern county hospital will be in operation, that the county will be dotted with better farm homes, that Portales will have a pickle factory, a cheese factory, that she will have a population of over 5,000 people, that her markets will have no superior in the state, that she will have a new court house, a city hall, and many other civic improvements.

His faith in Portales and New Mexico has not been misplaced, and he still has confidence in her future.

The News will always be found in the front line of battle for that which is worthwhile for the citizens of the county.

BOOZE ADVERTISING

As a newspaper, The Kansas City Star naturally is interested in advertising and the revenue to be had from it. But The Star is opposed to the newspaper advertising or any other advertising of hard liquors that obviously are intoxicating. It is opposed to such advertising, no matter what the profits to be had from it.

The Star knows the value of advertising in promotion of sales. It therefore recognizes the evils of such liquor advertising as is legally permitted and practiced in the Canadian province of Quebec, where expectant mothers are told that liquor will be helpful to them and to the children to be born, where liquor is held up alluringly to young boys and girls as a health and body builder, where it is flaunted as a panacea for almost every known disease and where newspapers, for the sake of profits, are tempted into accepting all sorts of liquor advertising calculated only to promote sales and consumption by the people.

The one central purpose of a new system of dealing with liquor in Missouri and the United States should be to discourage sales and use, rather than to promote both. The governor's advisory commission in Missouri has recognized the danger of the latter and has indicated that it favors prohibition of liquor advertising by radio, by means of billboards and motion pictures. But the restriction should apply to newspapers, as well. It would serve but a limited purpose to apply it only to the other forms of advertising. The newspapers of this state have been getting along without liquor advertising and they can and should continue to do it. No one of them can afford to become an agency of the liquor interests. —Kansas City Star.

ROOSEVELT COUNTY'S RESOURCES

In no section of the west are the natural resources as great as that of Roosevelt county.

There is no wider range in diversity of crops than that found in this county, and it only needs fuller development to bring comfort and prosperity to the farmers and merchants alike.

The Portales merchants should be wide awake to their opportunities and go after this business before it is captured by neighboring cities.

Good markets for the farm products is the greatest drawing card for any town.

Broom corn and cotton are turning much money into the channels of trade in this county, and much of this business is being lost to the Portales merchants for the simple reason that they are not whole heartedly going after this business.

BUSINESS THRIVING IN COTTON SECTIONS

A drive to Slaton Saturday afternoon, demonstrated what cotton does for business.

Passing through the towns of Muleshoe, Soudan, Littlefield, Lubbock and Slaton, showed each town packed with farmers.

Gins all along the line were busy and business was thriving in each of these towns.

Lubbock showed more activity than any of the other towns. The streets were packed with cars and it was difficult for traffic to get through.

Saturday night at Slaton the streets were packed and jammed with farm cars, and all stores were doing a good business.

The cotton crop in this section of the Panhandle was good this year, and the farmers and merchants are all in good spirits. In Lubbock county one and a quarter million dollars was paid to farmers plowing up cotton, and near Slaton one farmer received $5,000 from this fund.

While cotton is hard on the schools, yet a good cotton community does a thriving business each fall.

BIG STICK NEEDED

To put the nation back on its feet, President Roosevelt should use the "Big Stick" on the big financial boys, and make them get into the collar and help with the reconstruction. It is estimated that the wealth of the nation is controlled by seven men.

These seven hold billions of government bonds, tax free. By the issuing of currency and paying off these bonds, these big boys would have to put their money to work.

This would result in much industrial activities and put many people back to work.

As long as they hold the wealth of the nation in their hands just so long will the recovery be delayed.

NEW DEAL"S DECALOGUE

One of the new assistant secretaries of state is Harry F. Payer, of Cleveland, who, in a recent speech, laid down the Ten Commandments of the New Deal, partly as follows:

"First—Thou shalt not live, my dear country, beyond thy means.

"Second—Thou shalt not lose confidence in thyself or thy great strength.

"Third—Thou shalt not make Mammon thy god but neither shalt thou be unmindful of thy monetary system, lest it destroy thee.

"Fifth—Thou shalt not permit the unemployment of thy people, well beloved; this is the first and greatest commandment.

"Seventh—Thou shalt not fail to manage well and rationalize thy industry.

"Eighth—Thou shalt not suffer the paradox of poverty amidst plenty else thou sinnest grievously."—Events, Enid, Oklahoma.

THE BLUE EAGLE'S HISTORY

How does it happen that the eagle was ever selected to be the emblem of the American nation, and that now the blue eagles in our store windows have become the symbol for the mightiest industrial effort that the Americans ever made? The eagle has figured in the poetry and patriotic feeling of many nations. The Roman armies 2,000 years ago marched under this symbol to the conquests that created the greatest empire of ancient days. The eagle seems to have been adopted as an American symbol, as the result of its amazing powers of vision, and the height to which it can soar in the sky. The eagle sees everything and rises above everything. So may the marching army of industry under the blue eagle rise far above all our encumbering difficulties, and spy out the sure and safe path to a better economic life.—Chroniele, Milford, Deleware.

Buy Cotton Seed Now for Spring Planting Season

Farmers should avail themselves now of some of the large supply of pure and high class certified Acala cotton seed that is being offered for sale by growers at a reasonable price, says G. R. Quesneberry of the New Mexico State college. It is certain to be higher next spring.

Last season very little seed was bought by the farmers in the fall and, as a result, a large quantity of good seed went to the oil mills. This, together with the extremely bad growing weather at planting time, caused many poor stands. Inferior seed was brought into the state for emergency planting and farmers are now reaping the harvest.

The recent grade and staple estimate by the department of agriculture shows New Mexico producing the poorest staple for many years, largely due to carelessness in the selection of planting seed Instead of leading southwestern states as we have in the past, we are trailing behind. We used the poorest seed available.

This condition may be avoided this season if farmers will lay in a good supply of planting seed now. It is cheap at present and will probably cost less than ordinary gin run seed will next spring. Names of growers of certified seed may be gotten by consulting your local county agent or writing to the New Mexico Crop Improvement association at State College, New Mexico.

Latest Ideas In Winter Fashions

With the approach of cooler weather, Milady's eyes are seeking out the newer things decreed by Dame Fashion, says Miss Dee Maier of the New Mexico State College. Even tho you may not feel that you can purchase many new clothes, nevertheless you want those new garments to be quite smart—and you may find many interesting ways to bring last season's dresses up to date.

Buttons, buttons—everyone is talking about buttons. The Paris dressmakers are using buttons in many novel ways and indications are that buttons will be an important trimming detail of the fall and winter costumes. Buttons are even noticeable on a great number of hats, especially on felts, and many new handbags are fastened with regular composition buttons in place of a clasp or motif.

Wide shoulder lines seem to be passing. A correspondent at a recent Paris style show reports that "not one exaggerated shoulder line, not even a mildly bumpy one" appeared. If you wish to remain in style through the winter months, you will select that new dress or coat with care, therefore, and will not choose a style that has unusual shoulder adornments.

It is predicted that the Victorian period will influence jewels, and fancy jewels in particular. Smart women will wear Victorian brooches in gold or kilded metal in the double knot or medallion shape as shown in your grandmother's pictures. These brooches are trimmed with rhinestones and composition beads, and are placed high at the ruffled throat of the faille or taffeta dresses. And, speaking of materials, ribbed and corded materials have come into their own once again—failles, bengalines, marocains and flat ottomans are the most popular.

As for hats, the helmet type prevails for toques, turbans and even fro cloches. All the crowns are high, irregular, most unexpected in their drapery, and sometimes knotted on the top or else with the fullness gathered and disposed either in a ridge or knot. It looks as if one would never hear the last of berets, they have been in style for so many seasons. But this year you can hardly recognize them, they have been pulled forward and extended so far.

Rec. R. C. Marshall occupied the pulpit at the Methodist church Sunday morning, rendering a very beneficial sermon to the people of the church.

TO A LITTLE GIRL WHO HELPED ME OVER A SLIPPERY WALK

By DR. THOMAS C. CLAYTON

I

"May I help you Mister for I can still see?
And there's no one else here but just you and me.
I am sorry Dear Sir, that you are so blind;
And I want to help you the very best kind."

II

"Oh! No Sir! Not that way. You cannot walk there;
For that is all icy, and you must take care.
This way is all right, for there is no ice here;
You can walk here safely, without any fear."

III

"Are you going to school, My Dear Little One?"
"Oh yes Sir I am and, Oh! don't we have fun?
We play on the ice and make balls of the sonw,
And everything's just fun where ever we go."

IV

"There this walk is so clean, there is no ice here;
You'll have no more trouble and nothing to fear.
Well, I must run on now. On this walk so fine;
For I must be there just exactly at nine."

V

"Thank you My Dear Child. You have been very kind.
When you become old may you never be blind."
"Oh I love to help Sir; but why do you sigh?
Well, I must run on and so now Sir, good bye."

VI

Then came back the patter of dear little feet,
As she ran on before away down the street.
And I said softly by her sweetness beguiled,
"Love sure fills the heart of that Dear Little Child."

BEAN INTEREST URGE GOVERNMENTAL ACTION

New Mexico and Colorado bean growers and dealers meeting at Pueblo, Colo., October 18, passed resolutions urging immediate action by the government to relieve the present emergency regarding the bean market. The meeting was called by Director Anderson of the Colorado Extension Service and those taking part in the discussion which led up to the resolutions included representatives of the Colorado Department of Markets and of the Colorado and New Mexico agricultural colleges.

The resolutions urge immediate relief by the purchase of 2,000 cars of beans by the Federal Relief Administration and by liberalization of government lending facilities to make is possible for growers to hold ther beans until marketing conditions improve. For a longer-time program the resolutions recommend that the agricultural adjustment administration include beans in its adjustment and market stabilizing porgram. The resolutions in full, which are addressed to Secretary Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture, follows:

"As a result of drouth and other unfavorable climatic conditions existing for the past three years throughout Colorado and New Mexico, combined with an extended period of low prices, bean growers are being compelled to dispose of their current crops on depressed markets at figures which leave them little or no money to apply on their debts and taxes or to carry them through the winter.

"In order to remedy this situation and relieve a desperate emergency affecting some 12,000 farmers, we, the undersigned, representing the bean industry of the two states named, urge the immediate adoption by the agricultural adjustment administration of the following policies:

1. Purchase, by the federal relief administration of 2,000 cars of pintos and other bean varieties in the same distressed condition. In support of this suggestion, we refer you to the reports of the department of agriculture which class beans as the most economical food for nutrition value.

2. Immediate liberalization of federal commodity loan provisions to enable growers to store beans in public or farm warehouses, to the end that they may be able to meet current obligations without forced sale of their crops.

3. We commend the policy of the federa lcredit administration in not forcing the actual sale of commodities on low markets, and we furthermore urge the postponement of federal seed loan payments in all instances where such payments will result in placing growers on relief rolls.

4. The approval by the agricultural adjustment administration, of a national bean marketing agreement developed from the Michigan and New York bean code, already under consideration, to the end that in future years prices, production control and fair trade practices will be governed by the industry under the provisions of the agricultural adjustment act."

QUIET MIND: CAREFREE STOMACH

"Better is a dry morsel and quietness therewith than a house full of feasting with strife."

Many people blame the food they have eaten when they should really blame the state of mind they were in when they ate it.

Physiologists have proved that the digestive organs are easily and seriously disturbed by emotional states, such as worry, fear, anger and grief. The digestive juices are not secreted, the normal movements of the stomach and intestines cease or are changed into spastic contractions that give us the "cramps."

In many cases quietness with our meals and after them would be more effective than potions or pills.

It is a notable fact that the number of deaths from gastric ulcer has increased by 23 per cent since the beginning of the depression.

For some men a meal in company is a good thing because it diverts their minds from the cares of business. Others find solitude a relief. The important thing is that the mind should be at rest. This is of special importance in diseases, such as tuberculosis, which affect nutrition. Worry kills appetite as well as spoiling the digestion.

Children should not be allowed to get excited at meal times, nor should they be badgered or browbeaten. Neither child nor adult should eat while he is emotionally upset. It is far better to get over the disturbance and join in happily in the next meal.

Horace Echols made a business trip to Clovis Friday.

S. M. Finney returned from Dallas Friday, where he has been buying goods for the Finney Dry Goods company the last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lyons moved from their apartment at the city hall to the J. F. Norris residence, 504 Ohio Street, Thursday.

Mrs. J. C. Hayes and daughter, Miss Maynor, drove Miss Leola Hayes to Santa Fe Thursday where she has a position with the R.F.C. bank.

Mr. Ernest Pogue, Portales bandmaster, drove to Lubbock Thursday and brought the Portales band members, Melvin and Leon Schumpert, Graham Beebe, Jack Carr, and Woodrow Davidson who are attending Tech, back to Portales so that they could go with the band to Roswell Friday. They returned to Lubbock Friday night.

Rev. and Mrs. Joe M. Tyson, and daughter, Ida Laura, and Mrs. Livingston, returned Saturday from a visit to relatives in Waco and Dallas, Texas.

RED CROSS CLOTHES THE NATION'S NEEDY

Flour, Bread, Clothing Reach Into More Than Five Million Homes

The greatest task ever undertaken by a relief agency in the history of private charity is drawing to a close with the final distribution of cotton clothing to more than five million families by the American Red Cross.

At the direction of the Congress, beginning eighteen months ago, the Red Cross undertook to convert the wheat and cotton surpluses of the Farm Board into food and clothing for the unemployed and needy. In the consequent operation, this relief agency entered upon a commercial enterprise greater than any single commercial firm has ever undertaken in the same period of time.

In the ensuing months the Red Cross converted 85,000,000 bushels of wheat into flour and bread and gave it to 5,803,000 families. The distribution was through 3,700 Red Cross chapters and hundreds of other charitable agencies. During the severe northwestern drought of 1931 the Red Cross also gave wheat in the form of food for livestock to 184,188 families.

The clothing—dresses, underwear, overalls, jumpers, sweaters and stockings for men, women and children, and even blankets and comforters—was distributed to 5,465,410 families. More than 54,000,000 ready-made garments and 92,000,000 yards of cotton cloth were given to the needy. This clothing came from 844,000 bales of cotton.

The wheat distribution was concluded in June, 1933, and final distribution of cotton clothing is occurring in the fall months.

In handling these tasks voted to it by Congress, the Red Cross will expend from its own treasury $735,000. At the same time the organization carried on its regular program of disaster relief; of service to the veterans of all our wars; of educational and welfare work through the Junior Red Cross; of health education and public health nursing and of life saving and first aid. Funds for this work come from the membership roll call the Red Cross chapters conduct from Amistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, when every one is invited to join the Red Cross and aid in this vital relief work.

Seven hundred thousand women volunteers under the Red Cross banner sewed for the needy last year and many thousands still are making cotton garments for their Red Cross chapters.

Tornado Is Most Frequent Disaster; Causes Heavy Loss of Lives

What type of disaster occurs most frequently in the United States?

This question is answered from the relief annals of the American Red Cross, which show over a period of years that the tornado, or cyclone as it is called in some sections, is the most frequent and claims a heavy toll of life. It swoops almost without warning, and in the terrific whirlpool of its fierce winds it destroys all in its path.

The Red Cross gave relief in 44 tornadoes in eighteen states last year. The tornadoes killed 326 persons, injured 2,755 and the Red Cross gave aid to 21,738 who were homeless, injured or otherwise victims of the storms.

Toll of the Earthquake

When a severe earthquake killed 95 persons; injured 4,911 and destroyed several thousand homes in Southern California last March, the Red Cross was first upon the ground with emergency relief. It required more than three months for the Red Cross to restore the needy to a self-sustaining basis. The organization expended a relief fund of $411,000.

RED CROSS RELIEF AIDS DISTRESSED IN 120 DISASTERS

Help in Floods, Earthquake, Fires and Tornadoes in Year's Record

The American Red Cross has reached into the homes of six million families in the past year with unemployment and disaster relief, Chairman John Barton Payne announced.

"As the year closed the organization continued in readiness to serve in the forthcoming winter at the point of greatest need and to adjust its service to meet the calls of the emergency of unemployment and disaster," Chairman Payne stated.

In a year of greatest economic distress in the nation's history, in which the Red Cross ably discharged a relief task in distributing flour and clothing to distressed families in all but six of the nation's 3,098 counties, the organization also was called into action in 120 disasters, of which 96 were within the borders of the United States.

Earthquake, floods, hurricanes, fires and other cataclysms visited death and destruction upon the lives and homes of thousands of people. Red Cross statistics showed that in the 120 disasters almost a thousand lives were lost, 148,340 homes were destroyed or damaged, 13,275 persons were injured, and Red Cross relief was given to 452,879 individuals.

In giving aid in these disasters, in its unemployment relief and in handling the distribution of government wheat and cotton, the Red Cross expended from its national treasury the sum of $1,070,284.

During one period of twelve weeks, 46 disasters occurred in 22 states. Red Cross disaster workers were hard pressed in meeting all of these needs occurring at once, but everywhere misery was promptly relieved.

Support of the Red Cross work is through its annual roll call, conducted by chapters in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to November 30. Every citizen who joins the Red Cross as a member aids in carrying relief to disaster victims and in other Red Cross services, such as preservation of life, child welfare through the Junior Red Cross, and direct service for the public health.

An Army of Children

The membership in the Junior Red Cross last year was 6,629,866 boys and girls in schools, private, public and parochial. They enjoyed volunteer work in hospitals and for orphans, the aged and crippled, and also aided their schoolfellows by providing attention for their eyes, purchasing their glasses, and giving many other types of service to them. The Juniors aid their school work by carrying on correspondence and the exchange of portfolios with school children in other nations.

The Red Cross enrolled 3,701,866 members in its roll call a year ago. Join in the 1933 roll call—Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Safeguarding Public Health

The Red Cross reports that 693 nurses are employed by 428 of its chapters in public health nursing. During the past year Red Cross nurses made 1,234,000 nursing visits, other than to schools, and also inspected 633,000 children in schools. Nursing at the bedside of the sick, unemployed, or other needy is a major part of their work. The Public Health Nursing Service of the Red Cross also directs the teaching of classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. This course was taught to 53,000 persons during last year.

ADVERTISING CODE ISSUED AIDS BUYERS

HANDLING OF ADS UNDER NRA RETAILERS AND PUBLISHERS INTERLOCKED

Among the first of the interlocking functions of NRA codes for consumer protection under the Blue Eagle went into effect last week with regard to the handling of advertising copy under the NRA retailers code and the NRA newspaper publishers code.

The code of fair competition of the retail code interlocking with the newspaper code places mutual responsibility upon these two trade organizations to protect the buying public from fradulent and misrepresented advertising.

Article 9, Section 1 of the retail trade code reads as follows:

"No retailer shall use advertising whether printed, radio, display or of any other nature which is inaccurate in any material particular, which misrepresent merchandise (including its use, trade mark, grade, quality, quantity, size, origin, material, content, preparation or curative or therapeutic effect) or credit terms, values, policies or services; and no retailer shall use advertising or selling methods which tend to deceive or mislead the customer."

This provision agreed upon in the temporary retailers code is expected to be included verbatim in the signed code and will have the full force of law.

It means that advertising must not misrepresent. It must not, for instance, show a picture of a certain specific article, and infer that the customer can buy that particular article exactly as illustrated in the store when the advertiser does not have that article for sale.

"We believe this provision to be a sound one," writes Oscar Meyer, president of the Meyer Both Advertising Service company, "and we believe it will be welcomed by all thinking and ethical advertisers."

"The unethical advertiser and merchandiser who deliberately uses misleading statements and illustrations with intent to deceive has always been in a small minority," Mr. Meyer wrote, "but he has proved a thorn in the flesh of legitimate business.

"Every fair-minded advertiser will be grateful that the unfair practices of some competitors are to be squelched henceforth by the NRA. It will help his business. It will safeguard believability and the pulling power of ertail advertiser."

RICHLAND HOMEMAKERS CLUB MET THURSDAY

The Richland Homemakers club met Thursday, October 19, in an all-day meeting, with nine members present.

During the business meeting, a social was planned for Thanksgiving week, the exact date to be announced later.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Boyd Rice the third Thursday in November in an all-day meeting.

Prepared to Save Lives

One of the most valuable services given to the American public by the Red Cross is through its Life Saving and First Aid courses. Virtually all of the life guards at beaches and pools in the nation are Red Cross life savers. Nearly every industry in America supports the First Aid work of the Red Cross because it annually saves lives of thousands of injured persons. These courses are taught by Red Cross experts in both lines. Last year 66,354 certificates were issued to persons completing the First Aid course and 78,795 certificates for completing Life Saving instruction.

INCREASE OF 2 PER CENT IN INDEX FOR SEPTEMBER IS ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Wholesale commodity prices colletced by the labor department showed an increase of nearly two per cent during September, bringing the increase over a year ago to nearly 8 1-2 per cent.

The largest price advance was shown by the fuel and lighting group which increased almost one-half per cent over the previous month, coal, coke and petroleum products rising while electricity and gas decreased slightly.

Governor Able To Keep Up To Tasks, Though He Was Ill

SANTA FE, Oct. 22.—Governor A. W. Hockenhull said at his office Monday afternoon he had been able to keep fairly well abreast of his tasks, even though he has been confined to the executive mansion almost a week with what was diagnosed at first as a cold, but later was found to be influenza.

He said he had not heard from Brigadier General Osborne C. Wood, now in Washington, about the Gallup coal strike situation. He said also he contemplated going to Albuquerque next week to attend the educators' convention there, if his health permitted. He has cancelled all engagements and declined all invitations for this week.

"If I take it easy, I expect I'll be all right by the end of this week," he said.

CHARLIE KYLE PRICE

Charlie Kyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Price of Red Lake, N. M., died at the Baptist hospital of Clovis, October 18, 1933 at 1:40 p. m. He suffered 18 days from a serious injury, which caused his death. All was done for him that loving friends could do, but the All Wise Father saw fit to call him home where there will be no more suffering or heart aches.

Charlie Kyle was born April 26, 1913, at the home where he had lived with his parents for 20 years. He leaves his father, mother, Eldridge Price of Tyler, Texas, Houston Price of Wichita, Kan., Mrs. Neva Walfroif of Borger, Texas, three sisters at home, Mae, Beatrice, and Jewel, and baby brother, Keith, to mourn his going. But bereaved ones, don't grieve for him, for he is just waiting for you over in that glory land.

Charlie Kyle graduated from P. H. S. in the 1931 class, and was planning on entering school to prepare himself for his life work which was minister of the gospel. He consecreated his life to the Lord as a minister in August, 1932, and preached his first sermon on the fourth Sunday of that month.

Charlie Kyle was of a sunny, cheerful disposition and was a natural born leader. The going has left a vacancy in the home and community that can never be filled but we have that sweet assurance that we can meet him yonder in the beautiful city of God.

REVIVAL OF WESTERN MINING ON LARGE SCALE, PREDICTED IN ROCKY MOUNTAIN REGION

SUPERINTENDENT OF DENVER MINT SAYS PRESIDENT'S ACTION WILL SET FLOW

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 22.—Mark A. Skinner, superintendent of the Denver mint, commented enthusiastically Sunday night on the announcement by President Roosevelt, that the government will buy and sell gold in the world market.

Skinner declared that mining in Colorado and other sections of the Rocky mountain region, already stimulated by recent moves, will be spurred to even greater activity.

"In fact, I'll predict that we will see the geratest revival of mining in this region in 20 to 25 years," Skinner said.

He said the president's recent proclamation, permitting miners to sell newly-mined gold on consignment at the world price, came as a godsend to the producers. The world price, although fluctuating daily, averages about $31 an ounce, while the domestic market price is $20.67 an ounce.

"The action of the federal government in creating a market for gold," Skinner said, "will be however, of even greater benefit to the producers than selling on consignment.

"It means they will get their money quicker. They will be paid in five to seven days, at the outside. This will facilitate movement of capital and increase employment."

Expects Improvement

President Roosevelt's announcement that the gold embargo will be eased and of a government market for gold "probably will help the western mining industry" said Jesse F. McDonald, president of the Colorado Metal Mining association, Sunday night, in Leadville.

"If the government establishes a price above the present London price of about $29 an ounce, of course it will greatly help the western mines. That is what should be done. Easing the present embargo will not aid a great deal. What we need is a substantial market in this country."

CAN PORK NOW FOR LATER USE

Can pork now for later use in addition to the pork that is cured. It will give variety to the weekly menus and can be satisfactorily and easily canned, says the Extension Service.

Roast Fresh Ham

Wipe the hame with a damp cloth, and leave the rind on. The ham will cook more quickly and shrink less when the rind is not removed. Sprinkle the surface of the meat with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Place the ham, rind side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan, without water. Place the pan containing the ham in a hot oven and sear for about 20 minutes, or brown in a skillet before the ham is placed in the oven. Then reduce the oven temperature rapidly to very moderate heat and continue the cooking at this temperature. Do not add water and do not cover meat during orasting.

When the ham is half done, remove it from the oven and carefully take off the rind. To remove the rind easily, break thru it on the fleshy side at the hock, then turn the ham over, and lift the rind off in one piece. With a sharp knife score the fat covering in squares. Stick long-stemmed cloves into the intersections and sprinkle brown sugar over the fat surface. Return to a moderately hot oven to brown over the top. Cook for about an hour longer.

Pack hot into jars or plain tin cans. Add some drippings. Process quart jars and No. 3 tin cans for 60 minutes, pint jars and No. 2 cans for 55 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

Pork Sausage

The pork trimmings should consist of approximately two parts lean and one part fat. To 50 pounds of meat use one pound salt 2 ounces black pepper, 2 ounces finely ground sage and 6 ounces sugar. Other seasoning may be added to taste, and the sage included above can be left out. If you have a particular liking for mace, allspice, cloves, nutmeg or red pepper you can add them in the amounts desired.

Grind the meat through a half-inch plate or cut uniformly into small pieces. Sprinkle the seasoning over it, mix well and regrind through a medium plate (3-16 or 1-4 inch holes). Some folks prefer it ground more finely but then it loses its "chewy" texture.

If the sausage is to be kept over a longer period of time it must be canned. Shape into thick cakes and brown. Pack the hot sausage into jars or cans and pour the hot grease over it. Process quart jars and No. 3 tin cans at 15 pounds pressure for 60 minutes, and pint jars and No. 2 tin cans for 55 minutes.

Pork Chops

Pork chops shring considerable while cooking, and it is better to have them cut fairly thick. Three-quarters to one inch is not too much. Chops of this thickness will be more juicy when done.

Wipe pork chops with a damp cloth. Sprinkle them with salt and pepper and dust them lightly with flour. Place the chops in a heavy hot skillet with the fat edge down, so as to brown the fat and at the same time grease the skillet. Turn the chops and brown them lightly on both sides. Remove the bones. Pack in glass jars or plain tin cans. Add some of the drippings. Process quart jars and No. 3 cans for 60 minutes, and pint jars and No. 2 tin cans for 55 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

For further information on curing and canning pork, see or write the Extension Service, State College, N. M.

CANNED PORK MAKESS DELICIOUS PRODUCTS

Canned pork is delicious and all parts of the hog which are prepared for immediate use san be canned. Those that contain a good deal of starchy products, such as cornmeal, may not keep as satisfactorily. Can some of the more unusual pork products and add variety to your canning shelf, suggests Extension Service.

SPARE RIBS

Roast the spare ribs in the usual way, seasoning to taste. Cook until half done, browning them nicely with a sharp knife cut down the inside of each rib, remove the rib bone, and meat into pieces. If the meat is canned with the bones, a longer processing time is needed. Make gravy by adding water to the pan grease but do not add flour. Pack meat in cans and add boiling hot pan gravy. Process quart jars and No. 3 tin cans at 15 pounds pressure for 60 minutes, pint jars and No. 2 tin cans for 55 minutes.

Pork Chop Suey

Brown 1 1-2 to 2 cups shredded cooked lean pork lightly in 1 tablespoon of fat and remove from the skillet. Cook one green shredded pepper and 2 cups shredded onion in another tablespoon of fat a few minutes. Add 2 cups of shredded celery, the meat, 2 cups meat broth or thin gravy, cover and simmer for five minutes. Add 2 cups sliced raw radishes or substitute for them, 1 cup of sliced Brazil nuts or toasted almonds. Fill the cans with the hot mixture and process quart jars and No. 3 cans at 15 pounds pressure for 60 minutes, and pint jars and No. 2 tin cans for 55 minutes. When ready to serve, thicken slightly. Add, if desired, soy sauce in sufficient quantity to give the desired flavor and then salt to taste. Serve with hot flaky rice.

Head Cheese or "Souse"

Trim all meat from the head and soak meat overnight in water containing a little salt. Then cookk with hearts, tails, tongues and feet, or any of the other trimmings for which you do not seem to have other use. Cook until the meat can easily be separated from the bones. Dip off the liquid and chop meat fine. Return meat to kettle, season to taste with sale and pepper and cover with liquid and boil about 15 minutes longer. Pour the mixture into a shallow pan, cover with checsecloth, and weight down. When cool, slice and serve without further preparation. To can it, pour boiling hot into jars or plain tin cans. Process at 15 pounds pressure for 60 minutes.

Information on the curing of pork and other information on the canning of pork can be secured from the Extension Service, State College, N. M.

NRA IS GIVEN SUPPORT BY ROOSEVELT

also buy or sell gold in the world market.

"This is a policy and not an expedient.

"It is not to be used merely to offset a temporary fall in prices. We are thus continuing to move toward a managed currency.

"My aim in taking this step is to establish and maintain continuous control.

"Government credit will be maintained and a sound currency will accompany a rise in the American commodity price level."

Mr. Roosevelt authorized the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy gold newly mined in the United States "at prices to be determined from time to time after consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury and the President.

"Our troubles will not be over tomorrow," the President said after an exhaustive review of his program; "but we are on our way and we are headed in the right direction.

Time Indefinite.

"Obviouslyy, and because hundreds of different kinds of crops and industrial occupations in the huge territory that makes up this nation are involved, we cannot reach the goal in a few months. We may take one year or two years or even three years."

Citing accomplishments, the President told the people that unemployment has been reduced by 40 per cent with the re-employment of 4,000,000 idle; that the average farmer will receive one-third more money for his crops this year than in 1932.

He made no direct reference to the situation in the farm area, but he did say:

"I do not hesitate to say in the simplest, clearest language of which I am capable, that although the prices of products of the farm have gone up and although many farm families are better off than they were last year, I am not satisfied either with the amount or the extent of the rise, and that it is definitely a part of our policy to increase the rise and to extend it to those products which have as yet felt no benefit.

"'If we cannot do this one way we will do it another. Do it, we will.'"

Talks Money Problem

Going into the complex monetary problem, he asserted that when the price level has been restored, "we shall seek to establish and maintain a dollar which will not change its purchasing and debt paying power during the succeeding generation."

Complaining of the susceptibility of the American dollar to international influences, Mr. Roosevelt in his address from the White House emphasized that "the United States must take firmly into its own hands the control of the gold value of the dollar—this is necessary in order to prevent dollar disturbances from swinging us away from our ultimate goal, namely the continued recovery of our commodity prices."

The government controlled plan for purchase of newly mined gold and sale or purchase of gold in the world market were named as moves in this direction.

Strongly backing the National Recovery Administration, the president declared "in the vast majority of cases, in the vast majority of localities—the NRA has been given support in unstinted measure.

Chislers Scored

"We know that there are chislers," he said. "At the bottom of every case of criticism and obstruction we have found some selfish interest, some private axe to grind."

He lashed out also at the "petty chislers who seek to make undue profit on untrue statements" and reminded his hearers, further, that "even in the field of business and industry, NRA does not apply to the rural communities or to town of under 25 hundred population except insofar as those towns contain factories or chain stores which come under a specific code."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke at 10 p. m., from the ground floor study in the White House where he has made his other talks to the nation.

He spent the day in a last minute review with his recovery chieftains and then wrote his lengthy address which he concluded with:

"I have told you tonight the story of our steady but sure work in building our common recovery. In my promises to you both before and after March 4, I made two things plain: First, that I pledged no miracles and, second, that I would do my best.

"'I thank you for your patience and your faith."

At the outset of his talk, Mr. Roosevelt observed that it had been three months since he had made a similar exposition of national problems and added that "during this period many things have happened, and I am glad to say that the major part of them have greatly helped the well-being of the average citizen."

"Greatest Good"

In every administration undertaking to fight the depression, the President said, "we are thinking of the average of you—in the old words 'the greatest good to the greatest number'—we, as reasonable people cannot expect to bring definite benefits to every person or to every occupation or business, or industry or agriculture.

"In the same way no reasonable person can expect that in this short space of time, during which new machinery had to be not only put to work, but first set up, that every locality in every one of the 48 states of the country, could share equally and simultaneously in the trend to better times."

"The whole picture, however—the average of the whole territory from coast to coast—the average of the whole population of 120,000,000 people—show to any person willing to look—facts and action of which you and I can be proud."

The President detailed the steps under way to construct "the edifice of recovery—the temple which, when completed, will no longer be a temple of money changers or of beggars, but rather a temple dedicated to and maintained for a greater social justice, a greater welfare for America—the habitation of a sound economic life."

Explains Cerdit Plan

Next he explained the new machinery which has been created for farm and home credit. He repeated that if there is any family about to lose its home, it should "telegraph at once either to the farm credit administration or the Home Owners Loan Corporation requesting their help."

The Presdent told of the Reconstruction Corporation's loans to industry and banks and noted the progress of the public works administration.

Turning to the NRA, Mr. Roosevelt said of it:

"It has abolished child labor, it has eliminated the sweat-shop, it has ended 60 cents a week paid in some mills and 80 cents a week paid in some mines. The measure of the growth of this pillar (of industry) lies in the total figures of re-employment and in the fact that re-employment is continuing and not stopping. The secret of NRA is cooperation. That cooperation has been voluntarily given through the signing of the blanket codes and through the signing of specific codes which already include all of the greater industries of the nation."

Discussing efforts to increase commodity prices, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Some people are putting the cart before the horse. They want a permanent revaluation of the dollar first. It is the government's policy to restore the price level first. I would not know, and no one else could tell, just what the permanent valuation of the dollar will be. To guess at a permanent gold valuation now would certainly require later changes caused by later facts."

FHA STRIKE ORDERED BY MILO RENO

NEW MEXICO ORGANIZATION ANNOUNCED THEY'D JOIN MOVEMENT

holiday associations.

Demand Is "Fundamental"

He termed the strike a "non buying, non paying program."

We have been patient and long suffering," Reno said. "Our demands, petitions and prayers have been made a political football for jingo politicians controlled by the money lords of Wall Street.

"The strike agreed upon in the May 3rd meeting, to go into effect on May 13, was postponed until the administartion could have an opportunity to demonstrate its program for agriculture. This program is neither economically sound nor is it corrective."

Reno asserted the association's demand for cost of reduction for farm products "is fundamental in solving our problems."

He urged state association presidents to seek support of civic, religious and labor groups.

Texans Notified.

As the strike went into effect, no reports were immediately available as to the degree of cooperation forthcoming from farmers.

Reno's notifiaction went to state association leaders, including:

A. W. Cameron, Clovis, N. M.; R. L. Rickerd, Oklahoma City; George W. Armstrong, Fort Worth, Texas, C. W. Smiley, Littlefield, Texas.

To Industrial Labor

Reno carried his plea for support to the doors of industrial labor.

Announcing his departure to Chicago for a conference Monday with A. F. Whitney of Cleveland, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Reno said that "every effort would be made to enlist the moral support of all other grounds of society."

To the cause of the non-buying, non-selling strike, the fiery holiday leader summoned the nation's 30,000,000 farm population from New York to California and from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada.

Calls for Co-Operation

Meanwhile President Roosevelt called for the "spirit of co-operation" of colonial days in accepting an honorary degree from Washington College at Chestertown, Md., Cognizant of the strike movement, the President indicated he might have an important statement in an address tomorrow night.

Appealing for support from members and non-members of the holiday association alike, Reno asserted that the strike was a battle to determine "whether the farmer shall become a peasant, the menial slave of the usurers and the industrialists," or retain the independence "inherited from his fathers."

Business To Suffer

In a letter to state association president, Reno advised that "schools, churches, civic institutions, labor groups can be informed, not only as to the justness of the farmer's cause, but also that every business will suffer if the farmer' purchasng power is not restored, and that the life of the republic is, at this time, hanging in the balance."

Nebraska's holiday president, H. C. Parmenter, conferred with associates at Omaha to plan a curtailment of that city's milk supply.

Picketing would be used, he said, "unless we have the proper cooperation."

Although Gov. William Langer's wheat embargo in North Dakota remained nominally in effect, railroads continued to transport wheat from the state. Sheriffs, ordered to enforce the ban on grain shipping, awaited formal instfuctions.

Seeks Assurance

From Nebraska came Gov. Chas. Bryan's prediction that the strike might obtain higher produce prices in shhorter time than the Federal government's program. He sought assurance, however, from holiday leaders that the movement would not tolerate violence.

Ohio holiday officials indicated their intention to meet within the next wto weeks to determine a course of action. New York dairy farmers planned to meet Sunday to consider a strike, asserting that, if called, it would be in cooperation with the holiday association.

Senator Norris of Nebraska was reported authoritatively today to have telegraphed Washington that he was back of the President's program, but that he favored currency inflation.

Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Brasell, and Vernon Rich left Tuesday on a hunting trip to Mora, New Mexico. They expect to be gone about three or four days.

FLB Giving New Mexico Farmers A Raw Deal

Could Woodrow Wilson return today and see the workings of the Federal Land Bank, he would be bowed down in shame.

The Federal Land Banks were created to give aid to home owners, but under the manipulations of these institutions they have become money-making institutions, and the purpose for which they were created has been lost sight of.

Many farmers of New Mexico will lose their homes unless there is a radical change in the policy of the Wichita bank.

No thought is being given to the productiveness of the New Mexico farms.

It has been ruled that loans will not be made on less than 320 acres in this county.

The limit of loans are around three dollars per acre.

During the last few weeks agricultural exhibits from New Mexico have won first place at the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo, and at the Dallas state fair the same exhibit was pronounced the best at that fair in 30 years.

Over in Texas the same lands only separated by a wire fence are valued at several times that of New Mexico lands. Is there any justice in this?

The Portales Chamber of Commerce is taking the matter up with the Wichita bank, the department heads at Washington, and every effort will be made to secure a fair valuation on these lands.

Here in Roosevelt county were it possible to obtain a fair valuation on the lands, there would be hundreds of farms that would be better improved, better machinery used and better farming conditions in general used.

With a square deal from the federal land bank, New Mexico would continue to develop and become one of the banner states of the Union.

Tuesday the Chamber of Commerce took this matter up and appointed the following committee to go into this matter in detail and see if farmers of New Mexico could be secured a fair deal.

The commitee is Lewis A. Little, Coe Howard, Attorney E. T. Hensley, John Plummer and J. G. Greaves.

RETAIL STORE CODE IN FORCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—President Roosevelt today proclaimed a master code for the nation's retail store forbidding sales of goods at less than cost.

The provision forbidding sales at less than cost replaces an original section which would have banned sales at less than cost plus 10 per cent.

The latter was opposed bitterly by farm relief officials who feared it would work a hardship on farmers who are protesting against increased prices of things they buy.

Under the provision of the code as signed an exemption was granted little store keepers in business for themselves and those employing five persons or less.

Towns of 2,500 or less population are exempt under the code evcept in the cases of chain stores and factories.

Details of the code, which the White House said would be disclosed at NRA headquarters, were delayed by slowness in sending the code back from the executive mansion to the recovery administration.

On the basis of the 1930 census of retail distribution, exemption of all stores in towns of less than 2,500 would leave almost one-third of the nation's retail stores outside the code. In 1930 there were 1,543,000 stores of all kinds, of which 491,000 were in towns of less than 2,500. Food stores are to be covered in a separate code.

Minimum wages for employes in cities from 25,000 to 100,000 are $12 for 40 hours, $12.50 for 44 hours and $13 for 48 hours.

The code also includes drug stores.

The code becomes effective Oct. 30, 1933.

SOCIAL ANNEX

By THE BOSS

See where President Roosevelt is going to buy cows to feed the poor. Also hogs to fatten 'em.

Butter for the pancakes which the Red Cross flour makes.

Eggs to encourage the hens. Wheat for stock and human feed.

It looks as if everyone was going to get relief but the newspapers.

Why wouldn't it be a good idea to buy up a few million column inches of newspaper space each week to help the editor?

More forest workers for the winter; inflation to help thaw out the banks; home loan program to save the homes—Who has got one?

Several million of the unemployed could be used to cut governmental red tape, it would relieve the unemployment.

It looks as if January 1 will arrive before the codes are completed.

The writer has been criticised for not mentioning that the Mrs. is a grandmother.

Well, she should have tooted her own horn.

The weather man was kind to the farmers of this county is staving off an early frost.

Big hearted Andy Mellon gives free drinking water to his employees. If he would move his factory to New Mexico he could also add free mountain air.

Andy Mellon, Morgan and a few others are responsible for the condition the nation is in today.

Would the young sprouts who drive up to the curb, swing the car door open to any young miss that may be passing, be classed as deer hunters?

Jack Frost has been kind to the farmers this fall, and his absence so long has been greatly appreciated.

Last Sunday was a great day at the church. Attendance was above the average at all the services. There were six added to the church at the evening service. Invite some one to church this week. Ask some one to become a Christian. You may be able to lead a friend to Christ and save a soul from death. That would be the greatest thing you could do for any one. It is worth trying at least.
