Crawford Names High School Boy As Sweetheart Of Girl In Assault Case

EX-OFFICIAL ON STAND TO DENY CHARGE

Former Warden Quotes Child as Blaming Young Student

WIFE TESTIFIES

Scores Throng Courtroom To Hear Testimony Completed

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Feb. 4.—Testifying before a crowd that threatened the safety of the district courtroom, John Crawford, former deputy game warden and Lake Kemp caretaker, Wednesday afternoon denied immoral relations with a 14-year-old Baylor county girl and named a Mabelle high school boy as the girl's confessed sweetheart.

The middle-aged defendant in a statutory assault charge told the jury that the girl, an expectant mother, had named the youth as responsible for her condition, but had made him promise not to reveal his name to her father or investigating school officials.

Crawford made his statement, the first inkling of his defense, before hundreds of spectators who overflowed into the aisles and burdened the balcony of the courtroom. Many of the onlookers brought their lunches and remained through the lunch hour to retain their places, making a picnic scene of the room during the noon interval. Several times during the day Judge I. O. Newton was forced to warn the occupants of the balcony against too much moving about, fearing that the frail structure would collapse and crush scores beneath its weight.

Testimony Ends

Testimony in the case was completed shortly before 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and Judge Newton adjourned court until 10 o'clock Thursday morning, when he will read his charge. Arguments are expected to occupy most of the day Thursday and the case is expected to go to the jury in the late afternoon.

Crawford, whose testimony was later corroborated by his wife, said he first heard of the girl's trouble when he was approached in his official capacity by J. K. McLamore, Mabelle-Seymour school bus driver. The driver had been asked to investigate the case by school officials who had become suspicious of the girl's condition, the defendant said.

"Mrs. Crawford and I took the little girl in the car out on the Seymour road for questioning, Crawford said. "She admitted she was in trouble but at first refused to tell us who was responsible. We stopped a second time and then she named this high school boy, but begged us not to tell. She said the

Minnesota House Votes Against Suppression Law

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 4. (AP)—The Minnesota house of representatives late today voted to repeal the Minnesota newspaper suppression law. The vote was 68 to 58.

? ? QUESTIONABLE ? ? BUT TRUE

DETACHABLE VOCAL CORDS

THE laboratories of the Bell Telephone company recently made an announcement to the effect that vocal cords of metal alloys are successful. Through various experiments it is claimed these cords restore the speech of mutes. Science and public utilities are making rapid progress. George Washington in his day, used the popular type of Want-Ad to assist in making various personal real estate deals. If Washington had been told that a single inexpensive Want-Ad would dispose of thousands of dollars worth of real estate in our day, he would have gasped, as we do today over metallic vocal cords. Nevertheless, the Want-Ad section of our newspaper has grown tremendously and developed today into what is termed a Classified Advertising section, commonly referred to as a public utility.

Owen Young Would Aid Needy Vets

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. (AP)—Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric company, today urged the house ways and means committee to enact legislation for new loans to needy veterans at a cost of as much as $500,000,000.

However, he pronounced "unwarrantable" immediate redemption of $3,500,000,000 of world war adjusted compensation certificates payable in 1945.

Young drew frank praise from a Republican of the committee—Crowther of New York.

"You are the second witness before this committee to show a tinge of human sympathy," Crowther told him. "I congratulate you."

The other witness Crowther referred to was Rome C. Stephenson, of Indiana, president of the American Bankers association, who said one of two suggested plans for advancing cash on certificates could be carried out "without serious injury to business."

A group of other business leaders warned that "disastrous" re-

UTILITIES BILL GIVEN SENATE

Holbrook Introduces New Regulation Measure

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (AP)—Another public utilities regulation bill was introduced in the legislature today by Senator Holbrook of Galveston.

Holbrook described his bill as being neither biased in favor of, nor prejudiced against the utilities. He stated it was fair alike to both the utilities and the consumers. He said it met some of the objections the utilities companies raised to the bill considered by the last legislature.

Representative Petsch of Fredericksburg had introduced a bill backed by the city attorneys of the state.

Under the Holbrook bill a state public utilities commission would have all rate-fixing powers. The cities would be denied the right to dicker with the utilities for their rates.

The utilities would be permitted to raise their rates pending a decision on their request for an increase provided they posted a bond to guarantee a refund to consumers in case the increase should not be granted.

Representative Hubbard of New Boston said he had his proposed constitutional amendment calling for a $200,000,000 state highway bond issue ready for submission tomorrow. He said the resolution would have 26 signers.

Hubbard said all the advocates of a bond issue had centered on his resolution. Under its terms money refunded to the counties would have to be spent on lateral roads. One hundred million dollars or as much thereof as necessary would be refunded to the counties to re-

WICHITA MAN ARRESTED IN BANK HOLDUP

Posse Captures Two After Cashier's Fire Foils Bandit Pair

PAMPA GANG NABBED

Three Jailed for Part In Robbery of Bank At Alanreed

CENTERVILLE, Texas, Feb. 4. (UP)—Robbery charges were filed tonight against M. D. Jacks, 25, of Wichita Falls and Fred Grayson, 34, native of the Freestone and Buffalo community, in connection with the attempted holdup of the Oakwood State bank today.

Bandits Flee

The men were frightened from the bank before they obtained any money by shots fired by R. R. Wiley, vice president and cashier. A posse started in immediate pursuit and two cars of possemen never lost sight of the robbers.

PHARMACY ROBBED BY TWO BANDITS

Two unmasked men held up the Polk Street Pharmacy, Polk street and Avenue H, about 9 o'clock Wednesday night and escaped with about $15.

A clerk and a bookkeeper were the only employes present when the two men walked in. One of the hijackers stood at the door with a gun while the other ransacked the cash register, police were told. They escaped in an automobile at the curb.

The two men entered the bank shortly before noon and ordered L. L. Halle to "hand over the money." Wiley was seated at his desk. Halle asked the bandits to repeat the command in order to attract Wiley's attention.

Wiley then opened fire. Jacks carried a gun but Grayson was unarmed, the banker said. When Wiley fired Jacks fell to the floor, Grayson picked up the gun and bolted for the door. Jacks crawled to the door and then ran down the street. Grayson ran to the men's automobile and picked up Jacks a block from the bank.

Robbery Attempt Admitted

Wiley followed the pair into the street and fired against the fleeing automobile.

Officers tonight said the men admitted the robbery and County Attorney George Seale was en route to take a statement from them.

The city directory of Wichita Falls does not list an M. D. Jacks, reported arrested in connection with an attempted bank robbery at Oakwood. Officers here said they had no record of a man by that name.

Sheriff Blanscet said a third man, arrested earlier in the day, would

Burnett Aids Poor Indians

LAWTON, Okla., Feb. 4. (AP)—Will Rogers' drouth relief roll bulged tonight with a young fortune as he counted the harvest from two days and three nights of donated drollery.

Near the half way mark of his week's Oklahoma tour to gather money for the needy, the Sooner-born humorist had receipts past the $25,000 mark.

Whisked along the Red river country in the plane of Capt. Frank Hawks, speed flier, Rogers today spoke at Duncan and Lawton and tonight at Durant.

Twelve hundred Lawtonians tossed $2,700 into the platter this afternoon. From Col. Tom Burnett, wealthy Wichita Falls, Texas, rancher, came 300 of the cart wheels—with the request they be used for the relief of destitute Comanche Indians.

"That's because the Comanches didn't bear down so hard on Tom as some of the other tribes," retorted the irrepressible cowboy humorist.

GRAY UNIFORM LAW HELD VOID

Judge Lattimore Ridicules 'Clothes Legislation'

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (AP)—The court of criminal appeals, in an opinion given by Judge O. S. Lattimore today, held unconstitutional the law forcing persons making an arrest on a highway for a traffic law violation to wear a prescribed uniform.

Judge Lattimore ridiculed the law, enacted by the last legislature, asserting it was impracticable.

He pointed to the undesirability of a law forcing an officer to go home and don a garb of a certain color before he can arrest a law violator.

The opinion was written in affirming the case of J. C. Scoggin, sentenced to one year's imprisonment from McCulloch county on a charge of transporting whisky. Scoggin was arrested for speeding by an officer not in the prescribed uniform and the search for whisky ensued.

The law provided that a highway traffic officer must wear a diamond shaped badge, a cap, and a blue or dark gray coat and trousers.

Lattimore said the law was unconstitutional because it was an unwarranted interference of the legislative branch of government with the executive and deprived an officer of privileges without due course of law.

The purpose of the law was to prevent hijackers posing as officers from stopping a motorist. Senator W. A. Williamson of San Antonio, who sponsored the law, said he would endeavor to have a new law enacted which would be constitutional.

Straus Will Leaves Nothing to Charity

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. (AP)—The will of Nathan Straus, Jewish philanthropist, who gave away millions of dollars during his lifetime, was filed for probate today. It disposed of an estate estimated to be about $1,000,000, and not a cent went to charity.

The omission was explained in the document in this language:

"I have always been deeply impressed by an old Jewish proverb which said: 'What you give for the cause of charity in health is gold; what you give in sickness is silver; and what you give after death is lead.' Many of the rich do not even give lead."

The estate is divided among his three children, Nathan Straus Jr., Hugh Grant Straus and Mrs. Sisle S. Lehman, wife of Judge Irving Lehman of the court of appeals.

Allred Recalls Bishop From Hidalgo County

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (UP)—Attorney General Allred tonight recalled his assistant, H. D. Bishop, from conducting a financial probe in Hidalgo county before the grand jury there.

The action followed a letter from Bishop saying that he was performing the duties that should be performed by an assistant district attorney who is authorized but whom county commissioners fail to employ. By that means, Bishop said, the county is saving $480 a month and shifting the expense of the investigation onto the state.

Bill Would Alter Law On Confederate Pensions

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (AP)—Two bills affecting confederate pensions were introduced today by Representative Gilbert of Cisco.

Emmett Thompson Denies He Touched Slain Man Except to Wipe Off Blood

Defendant Takes Stand and Recounts Fatal Beating Given Gray County Man After Quarrel

VERNON, Texas, Feb. 4. (AP)—Emmett Thompson, charged with murder in connection with the beating to death of Homer Crabtree, near LeFors, testified today he did not place his hands on Crabtree except to wipe blood from his face and to lift him into his automobile after Crabtree had been knocked unconscious by Carl Hefner.

Hefner was given a 99-year penitentiary sentence at Pampa after conviction of participation of the slaying. The trial of Thompson was sent here from Pampa.

Explains Blood

Thompson said he left the scene of the affray at the request of Crabtree to get an officer. He explained the presence of blood on his automobile by saying that after Crabtree had been knocked unconscious he and Hefner lifted the injured man into the car. He said Crabtree regained consciousness presently and attempted to leave the automobile, when he was grabbed by Hefner, jerked from the car and "stamped."

Detailing events surrounding the fight, Thompson said Crabtree was riding Hefner's horse and was questioned by Hefner as to the ownership of the animal. Crabtree replied he didn't know, and Hefner said, "No one can ride my horse that talks about me like you." Crabtree repeated he knew nothing about the horse, and Hefner ordered him to alight and pull off the saddle. Crabtree replied that Hefner could unsaddle the horse himself if he wanted it done, whereupon

FARMER KILLED IN VINSON FIRE

Seven Stores Wiped Out In Big Blaze

VINSON, Okla., Feb. 4. (UP)—Flames that swept away more than half of the business district of Vinson early Wednesday morning cost the life of Grand Wooldridge, pioneer farmer, and seriously injured R. M. Hurst, feed store owner hurt in a futile effort to check the spread of the devastating flames.

Wooldridge's charred body was found in the debris of a ruined furniture store, whose stock he was attempting to save when he was trapped by a wall of fire.

Damages were estimated at between $100,000 and $300,000 and officials sought in vain to determine the origin of the fire. Practically every citizen of the town joined in forming a bucket brigade whose feeble efforts were destroyed by a brisk wind which fanned the flames. Only five business buildings were left standing when the fire at last subsided.

SECOND SPEECH TO LAWMAKERS IS CHALLENGE

Gaunt 'Alfalfa Bill' Throws Drouth Relief Squarely Up to Solons

DISPLAYS EMOTION

Teachers 'Dared' to Oppose Plan to Levy Taxes On Salaries

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 4. (AP)—Gov. William H. Murray late today capped his second message to the Oklahoma legislature with a dramatic offer to resign if it will pass his relief program.

Denouncing the trimming of $100,000 from each of the two drouth aid bills to provide food and clothing and to furnish free seed and scoring the defeat of a measure designed to raise relief revenue through tax levies on salaries of school teachers and other public employes, he shouted "I'm going to put this program through if I have to call a public meeting in every county of this state."

Decries Lobbyists

He pleaded for "suffering humanity" and decried lobbyists. Trembling, almost choking with emotion, the gaunt "Alfalfa Bill" from Oklahoma's cotton country told a joint session of the legislature "when you whip me you can brag about it, but wait until you do it!"

If teachers oppose his program he will move to reduce their salaries, he said.

Murray's outburst came at the conclusion of reading his prepared second message, in which he advocated doing away with 23 district judgeships, establishment of a district attorney system, changes in laws governing highway and fish and game commissions, free text books, alteration of election laws to facilitate recounts, abolishment of township government and the supreme court commission and other revolutionary changes.

Urges Economy

He urged that no public money be spent to promote or foster competitive games and advised the legislature to trim appropriation demands from $43,000,000 to $26,000,000. From sources now escaping taxation he said he hoped to provide free text books. He also urged a $2,000,000 text book appropriation.

Exhortations for economy and adherence to the constitution Murray helped write ran throughout the message.

The governor's extemporaneous remarks contained scathing indictments of lobbies, which he treated in detail. Naming David Stovall, former speaker of the house, he said "you should drive him from the capitol as a dirty lobbyist."

Speaking of tardy response in the state senate to the administration drouth aid bills, Murray challenged members to "justify that before your fellow citizens and God" and predicted the plight of the republic would be comparable to the fall of

'Harry, the Trapper' Fractures Skull When Mule Throws Him to Ground

A man, known only as "Harry, the Trapper," was in a critical condition at the Wichita General hospital Wednesday night after he had been brought here from Iowa Park for treatment of a fractured skull, sustained when he was thrown from the back of a mule he was riding about two miles south of Iowa Park on the short-cut road from Iowa Park to the Seymour road.

Members of the sheriff's department here were investigating the accident Wednesday night and learned from a woman who had witnessed the accident that the man had climbed on the bareback mule, let out a cowboy whoop and kicked the animal in the flanks, which caused the mule to throw him.

Men in a passing automobile rushed the man to an Iowa Park physician, who after conducting an examination, sent the man to the hospital here in an ambulance.

The injured man has had a camp on the Wichita river near Iowa Park for a number of months. Sheriff Perry Browning was unable to locate any one Wednesday night who knew the man by any other name than "Harry, the Trapper," but intends to locate the camp Thursday to see if any of the man's effects give his name. He is said to have two daughters who reside in Nebraska.

Police Guard Methodist Church In Secret Trial of Bishop Cannon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. (AP)—A cloud of witnesses descended on the Mount Vernon Place Methodist church here today to testify before an ecclesiastical investigating board regarding charges against Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

George P. Aadms, secretary and treasurer of the Blackstone female institute, at Blackstone, Va., of which Bishop Cannon was president for many years, was the first witness to enter the church.

The church again was locked and guarded. A uniformed policeman paraded around the edifice at regular intervals, and a sergeant of police rode around the block every 45 minutes. A plain clothesman guarded the door through which the witnesses entered.

Shortly after Adams entered the church Fred Morgan, a Richmond detective, accompanied by a Mr. Thomas, who claimed he was a lawyer from Richmond, went in. They left before Adams.

Dr. W. Asbury Christian, of Richmond, for many years secretary of the general conference of the church, was allowed to enter after being held up at the door by the guard. He sent his card in to Dr. Costen J. Harrell, of Richmond, one of the men who brought the

MANGUM WATER WORK STARTS

40 Get Jobs Constructing New System

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Feb. 4.—Pick and shovel began to upturn Greer county soil this week as Mangum's $108,000 water extension project was launched.

With the test well three miles southeast of the city having been completed, work has begun on the digging of a surface reservoir, digging to the plant, and the installation of a 200,000-gallon storage tank in the city.

When the bonds were voted last fall it was announced that $25,000 of the amount would be expended for local labor. City Manager H. T. Lawrence says this is being done, 40 unemployed men being paid at the rate of 30 cents an hour.

Mr. Lawrence took samples of the water to Oklahoma City for examination by the state chemist, who approved it, and also approval of the state health department on the location of the well was obtained.

A. G. Collins, engineer of the Airmade Well company of Kansas City, which has the contract for drilling the wells, described the present well as the best he has seen in Southwest Oklahoma. He says the test indicates that there is sufficient water in the site to supply Mangum for many years to come.

Capital Match Makers Seek Fistic Contest Between Caraway-Crampton

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. (INS)—A dozen amateur match makers were striving vigorously this afternoon to arrange a boxing contest between Thaddeus Caraway, "the Arkansas Battler" from the senate, and Louis Cramton, "the Michigan Wildcat" from the house.

The matchmakers had the hearty cooperation of Caraway, who telephoned Cramton three times seeking a "personal engagement." On one of the telphone calls Caraway said he even called Cramton "a coward and a liar." Later Cramton admitted having spoken to the Arkansas senator, but would not discuss what had been said over the telephone.

The row was started by Caraway two days ago when he chided Cramton for seeking a $10,000 government job while voting against relief for staving people in Arkansas. Yesterday Cramton replied by identifying Caraway as an "unadulterated liar."

All the efforts of the match makers, plus Caraway, however, failed to arrange a meeting.

Lunches Ordered For Needy Pupils

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Feb. 4.—Lunches for undernourished school children throughout Stephens county will be provided next week by the national Red Cross under a program being worked out by County Superintendent Ray O. Sutherland.

The Red Cross lunches are intended to supplement lunches brought to school by the pupils. The plan is for teachers to buy necessary food to provide the lunches, the supplies to be paid for by the Red Cross.

The program is intended largely for relief in drouth stricken rural districts but will be available in city districts as well, Sutherland said. Only undernourished children will be provided lunches. The cost of the supplemental lunches will be from five to 10 cents per child a day.

School officials estimate that between 1,500 and 2,000 school children in the county will be benefited by the plan.

The lunches are in addition to the relief work among rural families of the county, who received $4,700 worth of groceries from the Red Cross last month.

Funds to provide the supplemental lunches will be available until March 15.

HALL SCHOOLS PLAN RELIEF

Trustees Organized For County Survey

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Feb. 4.—Approximately 40 school trustees of Hall county came together in the county courtroom in Memphis Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in a meeting called by J. Claude Wells, chairman of the Red Cross of Hall county.

Chairman Wells explained to the trustees that the work of caring for those applying for aid from the Red Cross had become entirely too heavy for him to handle without the work being more systematically organized, and that he was asking their assistance in the matter.

Survey Ordered

Questionnaires were distributed out to nine different schools of the county, and a chairman appointed for each, whose duty it was to either make the survey of those needing aid, and those anticipating help from the Red Cross, or to appoint others to help him in the survey. In other words, these trustees are to act as a committee in this work.

Wells explained that the situation was becoming serious in some communities, and cited to some cases in which children were being sent to school with nothing in their lunches but cornbread.

Schools Listed

Chairman Wells also pointed out that by the survey in advance, the Red Cross committee could better determine who really needed help, and by this method the work of helping those that really needed it, would be greatly expedited, and at the same time weed out those that did not come under the jurisdiction of the Red Cross.

The nine schools represented at the meeting were as follows: Leslie, Lakeview, Plaska, Ell, Deeplake, Newlin, Estelline, Parnell and Weatherly.

Asparagus was originally a wild sea coast plant and is a native of Great Britain.

Non-Taxpaying Voters Would Be Barred by Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (AP)—A bill to permit only taxpaying property owners to vote in elections on tax levies was introduced today by Representative Hanson of Tyler. Hanson said the bill would remedy a great evil, because property owners were the ones who paid the taxes and should be given the right to decide on tax levies.

Representative McGregor of Austin and Weinert of Seguin introduced a bill to establish a state art commission to pass on all pieces of statuary projected for state buildings and grounds.

A bill by Cox of Limestone would place all fire, tornado, marine, profit-sharing, mutual, reciprocal, Lloyds or insurance association under the supervision of the state insurance department.

Representative Graves of Georgetown introduced a bill to give the trial judge the right to impanel a jury to try a convict for insanity if it were believed the convict became insane after conviction.

A bill whereby title to minerals would revert to the land owner in fee in event no actual effort was made to drill or prospect within 10 years, was introduced by Representatives Grogan of Liberty and Lilly of Conroe.

HATCHITT ASKS MOVIE CENSOR

Wichitan's Bill Would Prevent 'Indecent' Films

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (INS)—The married man's other pair of pants would be protected under a bill introduced today by Representative R. G. Holland, bachelor representative from Houston, who would shield wearing apparel from attachment for debt.

The law now in effect exempts single men's clothing, but leaves the married man out in the cold. Holland's bill also would specifically exempt the family automobile from attachment for debt. The old law mentions the "carriage," but the courts have held that the automobile is included under this term.

Jail sentences of 48 hours to a year would be imposed for the exhibition of motion pictures showing prize fights or indecent acts, under a bill presented by Representative Joe Hatchitt, of Wichita Falls. The bill also would padlock the theater showing such objectionable films for a period of 30 days to two years.

MURRAY MAKES STIRRING PLEA

Governor Offers to Quit To Pass Relief

Rome if "such selfishness" continues.

"Dares" Teachers

He pleaded for reconsideration of the tax salaries bill and said he would "dare" teachers in convention here this week to go on record against it.

Shouting he was not afraid of impeachment—the fate of the last two duly elected state governors—Murray cried:

"Pass this relief for the people and I'll resign, if that's what you want!"

He said the senators "bowed to the behest of a few school teachers, overlooking the rights of humanity," and challenged them to visit Oklahoma City's soup lines.

During delivery of the message itself Murray departed frequently from his prepared text. He urged a change in the system of instruction at Oklahoma A. & M. college, and said the school was "a joke when it comes to agriculture and domestic art."

Lobby Assailed

"We have around the legislature the most corrupt and brazen lobby I ever knew," he said.

"We have a lobby for pipe lines. The oil lobby is not here now but threatens to bother. There is a lobby of fraternal organizations and building and loan associations.

"If the building and loan associations don't cease I'll order an investigation of their properties and see if they can stand it."

"In one county," said Murray "an association owes more than $17,000. Their attorney is a member of the senate.

"We have six other lobbies including the institutional lobbies."

STOVALL DENIES HE'S "DIRTY LOBBYIST"

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 4. (AP)—The scathing statement of Gov. W. H. Murray before the Oklahoma legislature today brought quick denial from Dave Stovall, former speaker of the house, that he is a "dirty lobbyist."

Stovall was in the gallery when Murray made his furious attack, charging Stovall was "selling himself for filthy lucre."

"I never had anything hurt me as much as that did," Stovall said. "Some one certainly has been pouring something to him about me."

Stovall was much agitated and said he wanted to confer with the governor.

ARE YOU A "GIM'ME"

Salesmen everywhere report that the days of the "gim'me shopper" are fast coming to an end. Many people used to buy in a lazy careless fashion. A man might say, "Gim' me some shaving cream" and would generally accept what was sold him. Now drug clerks everywhere report that the public has learned to ask for items by name. Many people used to go into a drug store and say "Gim'me some aspirin." Now thousands have learned to ask for a box of "St.Joseph's" Pure Aspirin because they have learned of its purity and know that it is neither sensible nor necessary to pay more than 10c for a box of one dozen pure aspirin tablets.

The tremendous public acceptance of "St.Joseph's" Pure Aspirin is due to its guaranteed purity and conformity to all government standards. Doctors and public alike have learned that in times of sickness and pain they can place full faith in aspirin bearing the "St. Joseph's" trade mark.

If You are Over-Fat
Take 2 Grains Gland Food Daily
Until Slenderness Returns

That is the method modern science has discovered. It is used by doctors the world over. It has changed the whole aspect of obesity. Very many of the slender figures that you envy are due to this new-day help. Single physicians, by its use, are making thousands thin.

The reason is this: A great cause of excess fat has been found to lie in a weakened gland. Its secretion largely controls nutrition. A scant secretion permits too much of our food to form fat. So modern doctors feed that lacking factor until conditions are set right.

Marmola prescription tablets embody that gland factor. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. Each box contains the formula and the reasons for results. So all may use this modern treatment at very little cost.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. All can everywhere see the enormous good it has done. Most folks have friends who can tell them. What folly then to starve or over-do. What folly to use treatments harmful or absurd. And what folly to carry an over-burden of fat—a blight to beauty, health and vim.

Don't wait longer while so many gain the joys of being slender. All druggists supply Marmola at $1. Go get it now, read the book to know what you are taking and why. Then tell the facts to others, as we tell you.

Talks to Father

"I talked to the girl's father. He said he had been suspicious, too. He told me he had had this sort of trouble in his family before. I didn't tell the boy's name and I had no idea. I was accused until the father brought a charge against me late in November."

Crawford produced witnesses in an attempt to corroborate his assertion that he was away from home visiting a house at the lake on June 30, 1930, and that he played miniature golf in Seymour until late on the afternoon of June 21, the day of the alleged assault.

He admitted that he and the child went from his Lake Kemp home to Mabelle after the mail on June 21, but denied that he had then, or at any other time, had improper relations with her.

Denies Charge

The Mabelle youth, a student in Seymour high school followed Crawford on the stand, called in state rebuttal. The boy denied that he and the girl had been sweethearts. They rode to and from school together on the bus, he said, had gone home from Sunday school together, and enjoyed one horseback ride. The girl had spent two nights in his home with his sisters, the youth added, but the two had not been alone together, he declared.

Called back to the stand, the complaining witness admitted that she had told Mr. and Mrs. Crawford that the Mabelle boy had been her sweetheart.

Earlier in the day, the girl's father, a laborer in a Baylor county construction camp, took the stand against Crawford. He denied that he was the author of two letters, introduced by the defense, anonymously offering to take the girl out of the county in return for $500.

tire bonds which the counties had issued to help build state roads and to reimburse the counties for money already spent. The remaining money would go for construction, with not more than $20,000,000 in bonds to be issued in any one year.

The senate went into executive session to confirm 15 governor's appointments, but the name of Frank Baldwin of Waco, appointed to the board of education, again was not brought up, senators said. Several outsiders had expressed opposition to Baldwin's appointment.

The house appropriations committee passed out favorably bills making emergency and deficiency appropriations of approximately $1,000,000. The senate passed a bill appropriating $385,206.19 to cover deficiencies in the judiciary, notwithstanding attacks on the bill by a few senators, who said that in some instances the state was paying sheriffs for summoning themselves as witnesses.

Senator Parrish of Lubbock introduced a bill which he hopes will be adopted in preference to a driver's license measure. Parrish would have those convicted of violating the highway laws barred from the roads.

Wichita Industries Pledge Aid To Junior C.-C. in 'Open House' Programs

A series of open house entertainments at industrial plants in Wichita Falls is to be one of the major undertakings of the Junior chamber of commerce industrial committee, which was recently appointed, T. J. Waggoner Jr., chairman, said Wednesday. In conection with inspection of industrial plants, a campaign to educate Wichitans to the various industries here and products manufactured in Wichita Falls is planned for the near future.

A survey of Wichita Falls industries is now under way by members of the committee, which has received pledges of cooperation from a number of manufacturing institutions here toward the program. The committee will hold its first meeting within the next few days.

The committee is composed of T. J. Waggoner Jr., chairman, Dick Dewey, C. I. Arnold, Milburn Nutt, Ralph Pond, L. T. Prothro, J. C. Regals, Joe Zihlman, George D. Bevel, Lowrey Crites, Al Flack, S. $500,000 Waved in Face of Crowd Checks Run on Building Company

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. (UP)—Seeking to stem a run on the Perpetual Building association here late today, President Robert V. Fleming of the Riggs National bank shook in the faces of a crowd in the lobby $500,000 in $100 and $1,000 bills.

The building association officers had $1,800,000 in cash on hand and this was augmented with a half million from the prominent Riggs bank.

Other bank presidents joined in the attempt to reassure the crowd, and one, John Poole of the Federal-American, stood precariously on a narrow ledge outside the building and declared to the crowd of more than 1,000 in the street that the institution was sound.

Inside the building, after Poole's speech and circulation of newspapers containing stories the bank was impregnable, about 75 persons walked out, but 100 others, unconvinced, remained. The excitement started about 3 p. m., and continued for more than three hours.

Fleming, throwing down on a table behind the bank's counter the half million in bills, yelled to the crowd:

"Come and get it if you're afraid. There's plenty more where that came from."

The association is a $24,000,000 institution with approximately 28,000 clients.

Poole brought from his bank another $300,000 in currency to be distributed.

Shortly after 6 p. m., it was estimated the crowd inside and out of the bank was reduced to about 300 from a maximum of perhaps 3,000. Money was still being paid on demand, the institution waiving its requirement for 30 days' notice for withdrawals.

Thompson Tells Of Fatal Fight

Hefner left his automobile and unsaddled the horse.

Crabtree then attacked Hefner with a stick, according to Thompson. Hefner knocked Crabtree down twice, and Crabtree got to his feet with a knife in his hand. Again he was knocked down, and, after a few words, Thompson testified, Hefner started beating Crabtree in the face and stamping him. Thompson swore he pulled Hefner off the prostrate man, and later used newspapers in the automobile to wipe blood off Crabtree.

Thompson said Hefner again stamped Crabtree after he had been pulled away, but finally was stopped, and both men placed Crabtree in the car. At one point in the fight, Crabtree appealed to Thompson to go for an officer.

The defendant testified that when he returned with the officers Crabtree's face was in much worse condition than when he left, indicating Crabtree had been attacked during Thompson's absence. He said he did not see the principal injuries until after his return.

Another eyewitness account of the fight was given by Mrs. W. Green of Houston. She said that while driving from Chickasha, Okla. to Pampa, she saw a small automobile driven rapidly from the scene, and then observed two men struggling about 50 years from the road. One of the men was striking and kicking the other, who clung to his antagonist's waist, and then one man dropped to the ground while the other continued to kick him. Mrs. Green also testified that before she reached the scene of the fight she met a truck being driven rapidly.

By her testimony the defense sought to show that Crabtree was able to stand after the automobile, driven by Thompson, and the truck, driven by Major Evans, a state's witness, had left. Evans previously had testified he saw two men drag Crabtree out of an automobile and stamp on him.

sults in national and private finance would follow any payments on the veterans' certificates.

Uniformed veterans were among the spectators, one placarded veteran in civilian garb was called to the stand after Young. He made a plea for assistance.

Then Jacob S. Coxey, who led an army of unemployed on the capitol back in the '90's, was heard, urging issuance of treasury notes to veterans in the full value of their war grants."

Young concurred with Secretary Mellon and an array of bankers and brokers in a warning that a $3,500,000,000 bond issue to cover the cost of full payment would disrupt financial conditions.

"There are perhaps 5,000,000 people out of work," he said, "and nearly 50,000,000 people gainfully employed in the United States. That means that 10 per cent are unemployed. In addition there are those whose purchasing power has been so diminished as to disable them from meeting their needs and there are those in the drouth areas who are suffering distress.

"It would seem on any reasonable calculation certainly that no more than one fourth, or at the most, one-third of the total number of veterans now need cash to relieve actual distress. If that be so, then the government might advance to those who are in need a substantial percentage of the face value of their certificates over and above any loans which may have been made on the certificates under existing law."

The amount of such payments, Young added, "would probably be not less than $300,000,000 and not more than $500,000,000."

BANK ROBBED AT ALANREED

Officers Jail Suspects In Gray County Holdup

not be connected with the case. The arrests came after officers and citizens had conducted an extensive search of the county. No charges had been prepared tonight.

The third suspect was arrested after he had overturned an automobile near here. Cashier Hedrick failed to identify him. The man denied complicity in the robbery but refused to say where he got the car, which bore license plates stolen from a Pampa automobile yesterday.

Bryant was shot in the abdomen when he failed to heed the demand of the robbers to halt and lie on the floor. He was the first customer to enter the bank after the holdup began and, being deaf, did not understand the order. He was taken to a hospital at Clarendon, where physicians said he probably would recover.

Within a few minutes after the bank opened, the bandits entered, and forced Hedrick and Miss Jennie Sherrod, assistant cashier, to lie on the floor. One of the robbers stood just inside the door, while the other, punctuating his commands with profanity, raked up money in the cage and the vault.

Just then Bryant entered and was greeted with the command, "Don't go any farther." Not hearing it, Bryant walked rapidly toward the cage. He was halted as a steel-jacketed pistol bullet pierced his lower abdomen. Despite the wound, he was made to lie down, and then was forced into the vault with Hedrick and Miss Sherrod. The vault was not locked, and the alarm was given immediately.

talk included in the two-day program, the main features brought out by the speakers will be visualized in motion pictures and by demonstrations.

First Grain Binder

Another feature of the short course which is expected to arouse considerable interest will be the presence on the streets of Iowa Park during the two days of the first grain binder ever manufactured. It was said that the International Harvester company is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year, and the ancient piece of farm machinery is being displayed in connection with that observance as pointing the progress made since its introduction.

All schools in the county have been invited to send their pupils to the opening session at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, Mr. McGown said, and added that a large number of such schools have made arrangements for their students to attend.

The program as announced for the two days is as follows:

Thursday

10:30 a. m.—"Educational Use of Knowledge," H. S. Mobley.
1:30 p. m.—"Feeding the Family," Miss Grace Smith.
"Soils," John M. Hannon.
7:30 p. m.—"Communities Are Made of Folks," Mr. Mobley.

Friday

10:00 a. m.—"Gardens," Mr. Hannon.
"Bringing the Kitchen up to Date," Miss Smith.
1:30 p. m.—"The Dairyman's Problem," Mr. Mobley.
7:30 p. m.—"Woman's Work in the Community," Miss Smith.
"Beautifying the Home Grounds," Mr. Hannon.

The lecture on "Communities Are Made of Folks," to be given by Mr. Mobley Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, is one of the best addresses on community building which one may expect to hear, according to Mr. McGown. He also emphasized the importance of the talk on dairying, to be given Friday at 1:30 p. m. by the same speaker.

Many visitors from Wichita Falls are expected to attend the sessions of the short course both Thursday and Friday, it was said. Various individuals have volunteered space in their cars for those who may have made no arrangements for transportation to Iowa Park, and Mr. McGown asked anyone wishing a ride to the meetings to call his office at the courthouse, 2-2034, before 10 a. m. Thursday.

DON'T TRIFLE WITH A COLD

Break It Up In a Jiffy With Something You KNOW Does the Job

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back to the first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a new-fangled fancy idea, but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

MANGUM WATER WORK STARTS

40 Get Jobs Constructing New System

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Feb. 4.—Pick and shovel began to upturn Greer county soil this week as Mangum's $108,000 water extension project was launched.

With the test well three miles southeast of the city having been completed, work has begun on the digging of a surface reservoir, digging to the plant, and the installation of a 200,000-gallon storage tank in the city.

When the bonds were voted last fall it was announced that $25,000 of the amount would be expended for local labor. City Manager H. T. Lawrence says this is being done, 40 unemployed men being paid at the rate of 30 cents an hour.

Mr. Lawrence took samples of the water to Oklahoma City for examination by the state chemist, who approved it, and also approval of the state health department on the location of the well was obtained.

A. G. Collins, engineer of the Airmade Well company of Kansas City, which has the contract for drilling the wells, described the present well as the best he has seen in Southwest Oklahoma. He says the test indicates that there is sufficient water in the site to supply Mangum for many years to come.

Capital Match Makers Seek Fistic Contest Between Caraway-Crampton

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. (INS)—A dozen amateur match makers were striving vigorously this afternoon to arrange a boxing contest between Thaddeus Caraway, "the Arkansas Battler" from the senate and Louis Cramton, "the Michigan Wildcat" from the house.

The matchmakers had the hearty cooperation of Caraway, who telephoned Cramton three times seeking a "personal engagement." On one of the telphone calls Caraway said he even called Cramton "a coward and a liar." Later Cramton admitted having spoken to the Arkansas senator, but would not discuss what had been said over the telephone.

The row was started by Caraway two days ago when he chided Cramton for seeking a $10,000 government job while voting against relief for staving people in Arkansas. Yesterday Cramton replied by identifying Caraway as an "unadulterated liar."

All the efforts of the match makers, plus Caraway, however, failed to arrange a meeting.

Lunches Ordered For Needy Pupils

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Feb. 4.—Lunches for undernourished school children throughout Stephens county will be provided next week by the national Red Cross under a program being worked out by County Superintendent Ray O. Sutherland.

The Red Cross lunches are intended to supplement lupches brought to school by the pupils. The plan is for teachers to buy necessary food to provide the lunches, the supplies to be paid for by the Red Cross.

The program is intended largely for relief in drouth stricken rural districts but will be available in city districts as well, Sutherland said. Only undernourished children will be provided lunches. The cost of the supplemental lunches will be from five to 10 cents per child a day.

School officials estimate that between 1,500 and 2,000 school children in the county will be benefited by the plan.

The lunches are in addition to the relief work among rural families of the county, who received $4,700 worth of groceries from the Red Cross last month.

Funds to provide the supplemental lunches will be available until March 15.

HALL SCHOOLS PLAN RELIEF

Trustees Organized For County Survey

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Feb. 4.—Approximately 40 school trustees of Hall county came together in the county courtroom in Memphis Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in a meeting called by J. Claude Wells, chairman of the Red Cross of Hall county.

Chairman Wells explained to the trustees that the work of caring for those applying for aid from the Red Cross had become entirely too heavy for him to handle without the work being more systematically organized, and that he was asking their assistance in the matter.

Survey Ordered

Questionnaires were distributed out to nine different schools of the county, and a chairman appointed for each, whose duty it was to either make the survey of those needing aid, and those anticipating help from the Red Cross, or to appoint others to help him in the survey. In other words, these trustees are to act as a committee in this work.

Wells explained that the situation was becoming serious in some communities, and cited to some cases in which children were being sent to school with nothing in their lunches but cornbread.

Schools Listed

Chairman Wells also pointed out that by the survey in advance, the Red Cross committee could better determine who really needed help, and by this method the work of helping those that really needed it, would be greatly expedited, and at the same time weed out those that did not come under the jurisdiction of the Red Cross.

The nine schools represented at the meeting were as follows: Leslie, Lakeview, Plaska, Ell, Deeplake, Newlin, Estelline, Parnell and Weatherly.

Non-Taxpaying Voters Would Be Barred by Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (AP)—A bill to permit only taxpaying property owners to vote in elections on tax levies was introduced today by Representative Hanson of Tyler. Hanson said the bill would remedy a great evil, because property owners were the ones who paid the taxes and should be given the right to decide on tax levies.

Representative McGregor of Austin and Weinert of Seguin introduced a bill to establish a state art commission to pass on all pieces of statuary projected for state buildings and grounds.

A bill by Cox of Limestone would place all fire, tornado, marine, profit-sharing, mutual, reciprocal, Lloyds or insurance association under the supervision of the state insurance department.

Representative Graves of Georgetown introduced a bill to give the trial judge the right to impanel a jury to try a convict for insanity if it were believed the convict became insane after conviction.

A bill whereby title to minerals would revert to the land owner in fee in event no actual effort was made to drill or prospect within 10 years, was introduced by Representatives Grogan of Liberty and Lilly of Conroe.

HATCHITT ASKS MOVIE CENSOR

Wichitan's Bill Would Prevent 'Indecent' Films

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (INS)—The married man's other pair of pants would be protected under a bill introduced today by Representative R. G. Holland, bachelor representative from Houston, who would shield wearing apparel from attachment for debt.

The law now in effect exempts single men's clothing, but leaves the married man out in the cold. Holland's bill also would specifically exempt the family automobile from attachment for debt. The old law mentions the "carriage," but the courts have held that the automobile is included under this term.

Jail sentences of 48 hours to a year would be imposed for the exhibition of motion pictures showing prize fights or indecent acts, under a bill presented by Representative Joe Hatchitt of Wichita Falls. The bill also would padlock the theater showing such objectionable films for a period of 30 days to two years.

MURRAY MAKES STIRRING PLEA

Rome if "such selfishness" continues.

"Dares" Teachers

He pleaded for reconsideration of the tax salaries bill and said he would "dare" teachers in convention here this week to go on record against it.

Shouting he was not afraid of impeachment—the fate of the last two duly elected state governors—Murray cried:

"Pass this relief for the people and I'll resign, if that's what you want!"

He said the senators "bowed to the behest of a few school teachers, overlooking the rights of humanity," and challenged them to visit Oklahoma City's soup lines.

During delivery of the message itself Murray departed frequently from his prepared text. He urged a change in the system of instruction at Oklahoma A. & M. college, and said the school was "a joke when it comes to agriculture and domestic art."

Lobby Assailed

"We have around the legislature the most corrupt and brazen lobby I ever knew," he said.

"We have a lobby for pipe lines. The oil lobby is not here now but threatens to bother. There is a lobby of fraternal organizations and building and loan associations.

"If the building and loan associations don't cease I'll order an investigation of their properties and see if they can stand it."

"In one county," said Murray "an association owes more than $17,000. Their attorney is a member of the senate.

"We have six other lobbies including the institutional lobbies."

STOVALL DENIES HE'S "DIRTY LOBBYIST"

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 4. (AP)—The scathing statement of Gov. W. H. Murray before the Oklahoma legislature today brought quick denial from Dave Stovall, former speaker of the house, that he is a "dirty lobbyist."

Stovall was in the gallery when Murray made his furious attack, charging Stovall was "selling himself for filthy lucre."

"I never had anything hurt me as much as that did," Stovall said. "Some one certainly has been pouring something to him about me."

Stovall was much agitated and said he wanted to confer with the governor.

ARE YOU A "GIM'ME"

Salesmen everywhere report that the days of the "gim'me shopper" are fast coming to an end. Many people used to buy in a lazy careless fashion. A man might say, "Gim' me some shaving cream" and would generally accept what was sold him. Now drug clerks everywhere report that the public has learned to ask for items by name. Many people used to go into a drug store and say "Gim'me some aspirin." Now thousands have learned to ask for a box of "St.Joseph's" Pure Aspirin because they have learned of its purity and know that it is neither sensible nor necessary to pay more than 10c for a box of one dozen pure aspirin tablets.

The tremendous public acceptance of "St.Joseph's" Pure Aspirin is due to its guaranteed purity and conformity to all government standards. Doctors and public alike have learned that in times of sickness and pain they can place full faith in aspirin bearing the "St. Joseph's" trade mark.

If You are Over-Fat
Take 2 Grains Gland Food Daily
Until Slenderness Returns

That is the method modern science has discovered. It is used by doctors the world over. It has changed the whole aspect of obesity. Very many of the slender figures that you envy are due to this new-day help. Single physicians, by its use, are making thousands thin.

The reason is this: A great cause of excess fat has been found to lie in a weakened gland. Its secretion largely controls nutrition. A scant secretion permits too much of our food to form fat. So modern doctors feed that lacking factor until conditions are set right.

Marmola prescription tablets embody that gland factor. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. Each box contains the formula and the reasons for results. So all may use this modern treatment at very little cost.

Marmola has been used for 24 years —millions of boxes of it. All can everywhere see the enormous good it has done. Most folks have friends who can tell them. What folly then to starve or over-do. What folly to use treatments harmful or absurd. And what folly to carry an over-burden of fat—a blight to beauty, health and vim.

Don't wait longer while so many gain the joys of being slender. All druggists supply Marmola at $1. Go get it now, read the book to know what you are taking and why. Then tell the facts to others, as we tell you.

Talks to Father

"I talked to the girl's father. He said he had been suspicious, too. He told me he had had this sort of trouble in his family before. I didn't tell the boy's name and I had no idea I was accused until the father brought a charge against me late in November."

Crawford produced witnesses in an attempt to corroborate his assertion that he was away from home visiting a house at the lake on June 30, 1930, and that he played miniature golf in Seymour until late on the afternoon of June 21, the day of the alleged assault.

He admitted that he and the child went from his Lake Kemp home to Mabelle after the mail on June 21, but denied that he had then, or at any other time, had improper relations with her.

Denies Charge

The Mabelle youth, a student in Seymour high school followed Crawford on the stand, called in state rebuttal. The boy denied that he and the girl had been sweethearts. They rode to and from school together on the bus, he said, had gone home from Sunday school together, and enjoyed one horseback ride. The girl had spent two nights in his home with his sisters, the youth added, but the two had not been alone together, he declared.

Called back to the stand, the complaining witness admitted that she had told Mr. and Mrs. Crawford that the Mabelle boy had been her sweetheart.

Earlier in the day, the girl's father, a laborer in a Baylor county construction camp, took the stand against Crawford. He denied that he was the author of two letters, introduced by the defense, anonymously offering to take the girl out of the county in return for $500.

The senate went into executive session to confirm 15 governor's appointments, but the name of Frank Baldwin of Waco, appointed to the board of education, again was not brought up, senators said. Several outsiders had expressed opposition to Baldwin's appointment.

The house appropriations committee passed out favorably bills making emergency and deficiency appropriations of approximately $1,000,000. The senate passed a bill appropriating $385,206.19 to cover deficiencies in the judiciary, notwithstanding attacks on the bill by a few senators, who said that in some instances the state was paying sheriffs for summoning themselves as witnesses.

Senator Parrish of Lubbock introduced a bill which he hopes will be adopted in preference to a driver's license measure. Parrish would have those convicted of violating the highway laws barred from the roads.

Wichita Industries Pledge Aid To Junior C.-C. in 'Open House' Programs

A series of open house entertainments at industrial plants in Wichita Falls is to be one of the major undertakings of the Junior chamber of commerce industrial committee, which was recently appointed, T. J. Waggoner Jr., chairman, said Wednesday. In conection with inspection of industrial plants, a campaign to educate Wichitans to the various industries here and products manufactured in Wichita Falls is planned for the near future.

A survey of Wichita Falls industries is now under way by members of the committee, which has received pledges of cooperation from a number of manufacturing institutions here toward the program. The committee will hold its first meeting within the next few days.

The committee is composed of T. J. Waggoner Jr., chairman, Dick Dewey, C. I. Arnold, Milburn Nutt, Ralph Pond, L. T. Frothro, J. C. Regals, Joe Zihlman, George D. Bevel, Lowrey Crites, Al Flack, S. $500,000 Waved in Face of Crowd Checks Run on Building Company

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. (UP)—Seeking to stem a run on the Perpetual Building association here late today, President Robert V. Fleming of the Riggs National bank shook in the faces of a crowd in the lobby $500,000 in $100 and $1,000 bills.

The building association officers had $1,800,000 in cash on hand and this was augmented with a half million from the prominent Riggs bank.

Other bank presidents joined in the attempt to reassure the crowd, and one, John Poole of the Federal-American, stood precariously on a narrow ledge outside the building and declared to the crowd of more than 1,000 in the street that the institution was sound.

Inside the building, after Poole's speech and circulation of newspapers containing stories the bank was impregnable, about 75 persons walked out, but 100 others, unconvinced, remained. The excitement started about 3 p. m., and continued for more than three hours.

Fleming, throwing down on a table behind the bank's counter the half million in bills, yelled to the crowd:

"Come and get it if you're afraid. There's plenty more where that came from."

The association is a $24,000,000 institution with approximately 28,000 clients.

Poole brought from his bank another $300,000 in currency to be distributed.

Shortly after 6 p. m., it was estimated the crowd inside and out of the bank was reduced to about 300 from a maximum of perhaps 3,000. Money was still being paid on demand, the institution waiving its requirement for 30 days' notice for withdrawals.

Thompson Tells Of Fatal Fight

Hefner left his automobile and unsaddled the horse.

Crabtree then attacked Hefner with a stick, according to Thompson. Hefner knocked Crabtree down twice, and Crabtree got to his feet with a knife in his hand. Again he was knocked down, and, after a few words, Thompson testified, Hefner started beating Crabtree in the face and stamping him. Thompson swore he pulled Hefner off the prostrate man, and later used newspapers in the automobile to wipe blood off Crabtree.

Thompson said Hefner again stamped Crabtree after he had been pulled away, but finally was stopped, and both men placed Crabtree in the car. At one point in the fight, Crabtree appealed to Thompson to go for an officer.

The defendant testified that when he returned with the officers Crabtree's face was in much worse condition than when he left, indicating Crabtree had been attacked during Thompson's absence. He said he did not see the principal injuries until after his return.

Another eyewitness account of the fight was given by Mrs. W. Green of Houston. She said that while driving from Chickasha, Okla. to Pampa, she saw a small automobile driven rapidly from the scene, and then observed two men struggling about 50 years from the road. One of the men was striking and kicking the other, who clung to his antagonist's waist, and then one man dropped to the ground while the other continued to kick him. Mrs. Green also testified that before she reached the scene of the fight she met a truck being driven rapidly.

By her testimony the defense sought to show that Crabtree was able to stand after the automobile, driven by Thompson, and the truck, driven by Major Evans, a state's witness, had left. Evans previously had testified he saw two men drag Crabtree out of an automobile and stamp on him.

sults in national and private finance would follow any payments on the veterans' certificates.

Uniformed veterans were among the spectators, one placarded veteran in civilian garb was called to the stand after Young. He made a plea for assistance.

Then Jacob S. Coxey, who led an army of unemployed on the capitol back in the '90's, was heard, urging issuance of treasury notes to veterans in the full value of their war grants."

Young concurred with Secretary Mellon and an array of bankers and brokers in a warning that a $3,500,000,000 bond issue to cover the cost of full payment would disrupt financial conditions.

"There are perhaps 5,000,000 people out of work," he said, "and nearly 50,000,000 people gainfully employed in the United States. That means that 10 per cent are unemployed. In addition there are those whose purchasing power has been so diminished as to disable them from meeting their needs and there are those in the drouth areas who are suffering distress.

"It would seem on any reasonable calculation certainly that no more than one fourth, or at the most, one-third of the total number of veterans now need cash to relieve actual distress. If that be so, then the government might advance to those who are in need a substantial percentage of the face value of their certificates over and above any loans which may have been made on the certificates under existing law."

The amount of such payments, Young added, "would probably be not less than $300,000,000 and not more than $500,000,000."

BANK ROBBED AT ALANREED

not be connected with the case. The arrests came after officers and citizens had conducted an extensive search of the county. No charges had been prepared tonight.

The third suspect was arrested after he had overturned an automobile near here. Cashier Hedrick failed to identify him. The man denied complicity in the robbery but refused to say where he got the car, which bore license plates stolen from a Pampa automobile yesterday.

Bryant was shot in the abdomen when he failed to heed the demand of the robbers to halt and lie on the floor. He was the first customer to enter the bank after the holdup began and, being deaf, did not understand the order. He was taken to a hospital at Clarendon, where physicians said he probably would recover.

Within a few minutes after the bank opened, the bandits entered, and forced Hedrick and Miss Jennie Sherrod, assistant cashier, to lie on the floor. One of the robbers stood just inside the door, while the other, punctuating his commands with profanity, raked up money in the cage and the vault.

Just then Bryant entered and was greeted with the command, "Don't go any farther." Not hearing it, Bryant walked rapidly toward the cage. He was halted as a steel-jacketed pistol bullet pierced his lower abdomen. Despite the wound, he was made to lie down, and then was forced into the vault with Hedrick and Miss Sherrod. The vault was not locked, and the alarm was given immediately.

talk included in the two-day program, the main features brought out by the speakers will be visualized in motion pictures and by demonstrations.

First Grain Binder

Another feature of the short course which is expected to arouse considerable interest will be the presence on the streets of Iowa Park during the two days of the first grain binder ever manufactured. It was said that the International Harvester company is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year, and the ancient piece of farm machinery is being displayed in connection with that observance as pointing the progress made since its introduction.

All schools in the county have been invited to send their pupils to the opening session at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, Mr. McGown said, and added that a large number of such schools have made arrangements for their students to attend.

The program as announced for the two days is as follows:

Thursday
10:30 a. m.—"Educational Use of Knowledge," H. S. Mobley.
1:30 p. m.—"Feeding the Family," Miss Grace Smith.
"Soils," John M. Hannon.
7:30 p. m.—"Communities Are Made of Folks," Mr. Mobley.
Friday
10:00 a. m.—"Gardens," Mr. Hannon.
"Bringing the Kitchen up to Date," Miss Smith.
1:30 p. m.—"The Dairyman's Problem," Mr. Mobley.
7:30 p. m.—"Woman's Work in the Community," Miss Smith.
"Beautifying the Home Grounds," Mr. Hannon.

The lecture on "Communities Are Made of Folks," to be given by Mr. Mobley Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, is one of the best addresses on community building which one may expect to hear, according to Mr. McGown. He also emphasized the importance of the talk on dairying, to be given Friday at 1:30 p. m. by the same speaker.

Many visitors from Wichita Falls are expected to attend the sessions of the short course both Thursday and Friday, it was said. Various individuals have volunteered space in their cars for those who may have made no arrangements for transportation to Iowa Park, and Mr. McGown asked anyone wishing a ride to the meetings to call his office at the courthouse, 2-2034, before 10 a. m. Thursday.

DON'T TRIFLE WITH A COLD

Break It Up In a Jiffy With Something You KNOW Does the Job

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back to the first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a new-fangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

How a second meeting ruined their romance

'B.O.' (Body Odor) lost her many an admirer until—

"I—I hope you'll come again," she said. But she knew he wouldn't. She could feel he had lost interest in her, just as other men had.

Yet last night, when they met for the first time, he had seemed instantly attracted—eager to call. Why had this evening been a failure? Why had he turned so cool and distant?

Now she knows the reason. Knows why she couldn't hold admirers—had no intimate girl friends. Let her tell you how she ended her fault—won popularity.

"It was a terrible shock to learn that I was guilty of 'B.O.'—body odor. But it's so easy to offend—and not know it! Pores are continually giving off odor-causing waste—as much as a quart daily. Our senses become deadened to an ever-present odor. We don't notice 'B.O.' in ourselves—only in others.

"Yet no one need ever offend. Just wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. You'll feel so gloriously clean—so fresh—so safe. For Lifebuoy deep-cleanses pores—ends all trace of 'B.O.'"

Europe and South America, art in many aspects, and manners and morals at home and abroad were topics of programs at study clubs meeting Wednesday. Miss Mary Hamilton was hostess in the morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. Leslie Humphrey, on Rose street to members of the Readers club when story-telling was the study. Ella Merle Mathis Bristol gave a splendid lecture on the art of story telling and Miss Catherine Sue Ralston, assistant, illustrated the principles given by telling the story "The Huffy Prince," by Oscar Wilde.

Members of the 1930 Study club and of the Twentieth Century Juniors were guests of the 1922 Study club Wednesday when Mrs. Phil Lesh was hostess at her handsome home on Avondale and "Italian Art" was the subjct of the day's lecture. A Valentine motif was noted in decoration and refreshments and crimson carnations added their gayety to the home.

Roll call was answered with names of famous Italian works of art and Mrs. Luther Hoffman, a recognized Texas artist of whom Wichita Falls speaks proudly gave an interesting and informative lecture on the subject "History of Italian Art." Beautiful prints were used to demonstrate the points of Mrs. Hoffman's talk.

Mrs. S. H. Rider presided in the illness of the president, Mrs. Clyde Gibson.

Members of the club enjoying the pretty party were Mesdames T. A. Bradley, Jack B. Dale, E. E. Fischer, Phil H. Lesh, R. A. Lincoln, W. H. Newell, George A. Patterson, S. H. Rider, J. M. Spoonts, H. T. Wood, Marshal Perry and R. P. Brouthertin.

Century Club

Mrs. Van Lesley was hostess to members of the Century club when Mrs. John Barnard gave a splendid review of "Portrait by Carolyn," the clever novel by Sylvia Thompson.

Strauss Jr., Warner Zimmer, Virgil Fisher, Pearce Langford, Eugene Guthrie, H. B. Dudley and Mrs. Dudley's mother, Mrs. Andrews of Kansas City.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

"This Syud Hossain is said to be a lineal descendant of Mohammed," we remarked meditatively in the privacy of our home. "Wonder if he is a—a—well if he has more than one wife."

"A moron," came an explana-tory word from the next room where our junior college daughter was dressing. We gave her the horse laugh and were duly squelched. "You think I'm thinking of Mormon," she said cooly—"but I'm not. Any man who has more than one wife at a time is a moron."

Now that's the way some of the younger set look at this long discussed problem while older more experienced men and women are publicly debating the question of whether or no a man and his wife should tell one another the truth.

There was a time when it seemed to our idealized sentiment that it would be heaven to just open up and tell the truth about everything. But we firmly believe that there are truths that were never meant to be told.

Being truthful and always telling truths are two such different things. But that husband and that wife who could always tell the absolute truth about everything should be put on exhibition.

Man has his pecadilloes — such little sins if sins, and woman is almost always a jealous creature. (We are not absolving man from this failing.) But when he takes another woman out to dine—alone—or sends her flowers or books—or realizes how much more she understands him than the wife of his bosom, he should save that wife such knowledge.

Man, provider for the family, has no idea how much hats and frocks and furniture cost; if telling him is going to raise a tempest it is better not to tell him. There is another thing we believe—for which we will doubtless be much criticized—if answering a question (one that is not morally important) honestly will precipitate a quarrel, it is more religious to answer it dishonestly. This we mean where there are children. A quarreling family is the saddest thing that any child may have to remember.

If a man drinks, he can't hide it. If he gambles—unless he is wealthy—he can't hide it and he might as well be noble and truthful.

We hold no brief for extrava-gance in woman. But she has her household to look after and her children to clothe and the day has almost gone when sweet Alices tremble with fear at a liege lord's frown. It is her children she wishes to save from trembling.

Never a lie that is not necessary to preserve happiness. To tell a truth sometimes is murder of an ideal. Then truth is sin.

Rose Grower Cannot Afford To Feel Sentimental About Pruning

Rigorous Cutting Down of Last Year's Growth Advised By Mrs. Dobie; Manure Best for Fertilizer

By BERTHA M'KEE DOBIE

As February comes in, gardeners, mindful of April glory, consider their rose beds. One question often asked is, "When is the best time to prune roses?" The exact answer depends upon the section in which the questioner resides, but the general answer is that the season is the time-gauge. More people prune too early than too late. After the first hard frost, faded, clinging leaves make a rose bed ugly, and the impulse is to lessen the unsightliness by a quick pruning. If the entire winter is open, as sometimes occurs, early pruning does no harm; but if a severe freeze comes, the cut tops will die back several inches. Moreover, pruning tends to induce new growth during a warm period, and the plant expends energy that is wasted. For Central Texas best time is usually the latter half of February, for South Texas a little earlier and for North Texas a little later.

How to Prune

The rose grower cannot afford to feel sentimental when he takes pruning shears and saw in hand. Rigorous cutting down of last year's is essential to the production of large flowers on long stems. By this means the bush is induced to put on new wood, and it is from new wood that the bloom of bush roses comes. All dead wood should be carefully cut away, both at the spring pruning and at other times. Weak stems should be eliminated. Strong canes of last year's growth may be pruned to within three or four eyes of the ground or of their junction with the older stem; as many as six or seven eyes may be left. A weak bush will profit most from a severe pruning. Some weak bushes that froze back last winter to within six or eight inches of the ground made better growth during the past summer than they had ever made before. Often when bushes are pruned too high, only the top eyes start new growth, and the lower part of the bush is left naked. If two stems grow so close together as to interfere with each other, one of them should be cut away. A stem should always be cut just above an eye, and that eye should be on the outside, in order that new growth will be away from the center. Blossoms cannot display themselves properly unless the plant is allowed to bush out.

Climbing roses should receive no pruning in the spring except for the elimination of dead and weak growth. After the blooming season they will profit by having long canes cut back about one-third, to induce lateral growth for next spring's flowers.

Sharp Shears

Pruning shears need to be sharp, so that there will be no splitting of the wood or tearing of the bark. Any wood left above the eye at which a cut is made dies back and possibly some of the wood below the eye dies with it. Hence it is

'Meanest Thief' Steals Boy's Shoes As He Sleeps in Railroad Sand House

Speaking of the meanest thief in the world—he is, or was Tuesday night in Wichita Falls after stealing the shoes from the feet of a McKinney, Texas, boy who had no better place to sleep than the sand house in the railroad yards here.

The youth, a gangling, overgrown boy of 16 and a typical product of the country, walked into police station at daybreak Wednesday morning in his bare feet.

After telling his story of how he had worked at odd jobs for money with which he had purchased a new pair of shoes Tuesday and then had them stolen from him the first night as he slept, Detective Fred Fountain and Arless Grady and Oscar McLain, traffic officers, bought the lad another pair of shoes, gave him enough money to buy a few meals and sent him on his way home to McKinney.

Come What May, 'Cimarron' Is Best Picture of 1931, Says Theater Critic

Oklahoma Land Rush and Development of Southwest Re-Enacted in Film of Edna Ferber's Novel

By ELEANOR FLEMING
Record News Theater Critic

"Cimarron" is probably 1931's best picture, no matter what else Hollywood may offer. A small audience that saw a private screening of the picture at Midnight Tuesday sympathized with the word-bereft theater manager who had used up all the adjectives in his vocabulary on pictures that were comparatively mediocre.

Adjectives Exhausted

Even one who has wasted no adjectives of praise is at a loss to adequately express the perfection with which the spirit of the Southwest has been reduced to a two-dimensional sight and sound presentation.

"Cimarron" is Enda Ferber at her best; it presents Richard Dix at his best; it is the offering of one of Hollywood's best directors, Wesley Ruggles. And yet it is not Ferberish, not Dix-ish, not Hoolywoodian. The work of Miss Ferber, Mr. Dix and Mr. Ruggles has been blended into the most realistic talkie ever made.

Probably the most amazing of all its miracles is the new Richard Dix. It is as if he had never been in any other picture; after seeing "Cimarron," it will be difficult to remember him as anything but Yancey Cravate. He is magnificently fitted to wear Yancey's boots and he enhances Edna Ferber's own eloquence in the presentation of the real Yancey.

Next to Dix in creating such a flesh-and-blood illusion that the persons seem to be actually present is Enda May Oliver, who must have known the original Mrs. Tracy Wyatt known by Miss Ferber. An honor roll for good acting, however, would of necessity include the lovely Miss Dunne, who has not been in pictures before, Estelle Taylor and those who took the parts of Ricky, the printer, and Sol Levy, the little Jew.

Spirit of Southwest

Excellent photography had its part in making "Cimarron" a milestone in the development of moving pictures. The races at the opening of the Indian territory, the mushroom like growth of Osage and the throbbing life of the oil communities are all terrifyingly real.

Credit can be given Miss Ferber for her story, Mr. Ruggles for his direction and the long list of actors for their portrayal of characters, but there is an undercurrent of reality that must have gotten there by accident. It is difficult to say who made the picture a success; it is easy to determine that something or someone did.

FENCE CATCHES FIRE

Slight damage was caused by fire to a fence at 1416 Thirteenth street late Wednesday afternoon, according to a report of fire officials.

Texas Boy is Strongest

"MY son, Billie, suffered from constipation until he was quite feverish and weak," says Mrs. Albert Reinle, 6943 Lindsley Ave., Dallas.

"Now it's a different story as you can see from his picture. He's strong and full of life. I gave him California Fig Syrup because mother always used it with me. It increased his appetite, helped him wonderfully. Billie loves the taste of California Fig Syrup, and it never fails to help his stomach and bowels."

To show how California Fig Syrup acts to build up and strengthen half-sick, headachy, constipated children through giving tone and strength to weak stomach and bowels, nothing could be more convincing than praise like this.

Your doctor will approve the use of this pure vegetable product—as often as an impure breath, coated tongue, listlessness, feverishness or lack of appetite warn of constipation—or to keep bowels from clogging during colds or children's diseases.

When buying, look for the word California on carton and bottle. That marks the genuine.

Health Better Than Riches

"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Our family doctor gave me medicine but no results. One day he told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pennsylvania.

Little Theater To Repeat Play Tuesday Night

In response to requests reported to have come from numerous persons who were unable to attend any of the five performances given last week, the Wichita Falls Little Theater will repeat its presentation of "Passing of the Third Floor Back" on next Tuesday night, Feb. 10, it was announced Wednesday.

Scrip books which contain tickets entitling holders to admission to any Little Theater play of the regular current season will not be accepted in this special showing of the Jerome play, it was said. Proceeds of the performance will go into the treasury of the organization to aid in the payment of its operating expenses, and for improvements which constantly are being made upon the playhouse.

Playing to five crowded houses during the past week, the "Passing of the Third Floor Back" appeared to create a lasting impression upon those who saw it, and it was generously applauded in subsequent comment throughout the city. F. C. McClung, director of the Little Theater, plays the leading role of the "mysterious stranger," and is supported by a cast which perfected a group of excellent characterizations. The return performance will be limited to one night, it was stated.

POLICE BLAME JOBLESS

Founders Day Program At Ben Franklin P.-T. A

Local school talent was demonstrated in the musical numbers and playlet given by Ben Franklin pupils at the regular P.-T. A. meeting at the school Wednesday and Mrs. Frank Creighton, 13th district president, gave a marvelous address "Fulfillment of a Dream" on the Founders day program.

Three pretty numbers by the school orchestra under the direction of Mrs. N. E. Young opened the meeting, and children of Miss Fay Rackley's high four room gave a patriotic pageant, "How We May Have Health," in a clever playlet.

Mrs. M. T. Clements, president, opened the business session and called for reports of officers. An interesting feature was a shoe donation for the thrift exchange and the silver free-will offering required in reaching the P.-T. A. standard of excellence was made.

Mrs. Clements introduced Mrs. Frank Creighton, speaker of the day, who talked in a vividly interesting manner. "All things worth while," the speaker said, "are results of visions and dreams." The vision of Mary was cited with the gift of Christ to the world as its beautiful fulfillment and dreams of history with their resulting achievements were told the association.

The organization of the National Congress of Mothers and P.-T. A. was the fulfillment of the dream of Mrs. Theodore Ward Birney, a young mother interested in child welfare and the best training and development for the child. This organization, Mrs. Creighton stated, has had its part in the development of parental education. The children of Texas will have an opportunity for better parental education in the future as the University of Texas has now in its curriculum a parental education course. A pretty poem, the wish for Mrs. Birney for the organization of which she had dreamed, closed Mrs. Creighton's talk.

Many Parents Present

Sponsors in the P.-T. A. were hostesses in the delightful social hour at the close of the address and it was announced that Miss Fay Rackley's room was winner of the attendance prize.

Members of the talented orchestra giving musical numbers under Mrs. Young's direction were Louise Voelcker, Bessie Bulkeley, Anna Lee Whitley, Dorothy Owens, Alton Fitz, and Fritz Held, violinists; Martha Akin, xylophone; Murray Fullerton, Russell McAfee and Bobbie Burns, saxophones; R. Lee Heck and George Shy, cornet; Charles Manoushagian, Linton Estes, clarinets, and Margaret Clements and Irvine Roberts, accompanists.

BUTTERFIELD ROUTE URGED

Perpetuation of Old Style Road Asked in Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (AP)—A bill to perpetuate the old Butterfield road, or the southern overland mail route, from Colbert's ferry on the Red river to El Paso was introduced today by Representative Boyd of Decatur. The road is reputed to be the oldest overland route in Texas and part of the oldest route across the United States.

The bill would authorize the highway commission to lay out a road perpetuating the old route, with side roads to various spots of historical interest.

The road would start at the Red river and pass through Denison, Sherman, Gainesville, Hood, Rosston, Decatur, Chico, Cundiff, Jacksboro, Graham, Breckenridge, Albany, Abilene, Caps, View, Shep, Fort Chadbourne, Bronte, Robert Lee, Sterling City, Rankin, McCamey, Fort Stockton, Pecos, Patrole, Arno, Dixieland, Riverton and Orla.

Another route would be authorized from Bronte to El Paso through San Angelo, Barnhart, Big Lake, Texon, Rankin, McCamey, Fort Stockton, Fort Davis and Valentine.

During the first year under prohibition there were 29,000 cases instituted, while, during the last fiscal year there were close to 70,000.

Radio Announcers to Receive Course In Correct English Pronunciations

By SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. (UP)—Bad little radio announcers who affect a mushy Oxford accent, and good—but mistaken—little announcers who say "pray-loud" for "prelude" and "Noo York" for "Nieu York," must go to school a-gen (not a-gane) and learn to speak English as it is spoken by dictionary makers, the Columbia Broadcasting company announced today.

To the end that there shall be uniformity of language and that to-may-toes shall not be "to-mah-toes," even in Boston, and also to the end that announcers shall say "we have bin pleased" rather than we have "bean" pleased, Columbia broadcasters—yes, even the famous ones such as John Mayo, Ted Husing, David Ross and Frank Knight—will line up twice a month before a schoolmaster to receive instruction in pronunciation and grammar.

Master Is Vexed

The master is Frank H. Vizetelly, the lexicographer, who is fond of words and dislikes to see them abused.

The tendency to "Noo York" particularly irks Dr. Vizetelly. A cat, as he points out, mews, and rarely—unless she be a freak—can be heard to "moo." Why, therefore, he asks, should radio announcers "noo" into the microphone when the word is "niu?"

"To-mah-to," as heard over the radio upon occasion, also receives a loud razzbery from Dr. Vizetelly, who shows that no one, not even a radio announcer, would dare say "baked po-tah-to," even in the solitude (not solitood, by the way) of his own home.

The announcers' schoolmaster also makes a point that, however disputed it may be, should interest writers on criminal topics—execution in many of our penitentiaries is by "electricution," rather than "electrocution."

"Guv-ment" Doomed

Within six months, Dr. Vizetelly hopes, announcers will say "the gov-ern-ment of the United States" instead of the "gover'ment," or, more simply, "the guv'ment." And that rule will apply, even if the red second hand on the big clock tells them they have only three seconds to introduce the guv-nor of the state.

The Oxford accent, in particular, is a matter of great distaste to the coming czar of radio announcing. He dislikes being invited to "dinnah," and gnashes his teeth when a lady of affected culture, meaning to say, "oh, no," blurbs "ow, now!"

Twice a month, the class in announcing will line up before the doctor. Each of them will have a textbook in his pocket, telling him to put the accent on the last syllable of "address" and "research." "Gentlemen," the doctor will say, "I cawl your attention to the fact that such words as appreciate, associate, negotiate, and kindred words have been repeatedly mispronounced before the microphone during the past six months. The 'cia' or 'tia' in these words is correctly pronounced 'she,' not 'see.'"

There will be questions from the students, who may have been stumped during the week attempting to introduce a Spanish singer, giving a French song written by a Russian composer. The questions will be answered and as the students file out, mumbling in their collars, the doctor will say:

"The word is 'exit'—'eksit'—not 'eggzit.'"

Iowa Park Lions See Demonstration

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Feb. 4.—Miss Ethel Luise Webb, county home demonstration agent, gave an interesting practical demonstration of meat and vegetable canning at the Lions club weekly meeting Tuesday noon. Interspersed with canning was an explanation of saving made possible by caring for surplus home products each in their season. Within a remarkably short time Miss Webb had on display a neat array of carrots, turnips, steak, roast and hamburger meat. The club was asked to sponsor the live at home campaign now being planned by the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, which they heartily agreed to do.

Other out-of-town visitors were Messrs. Jim King, O. E. Kolb, S. O. Vague, S. R. Featherston, Jim Lyle, and Miss W. L. Goodwin of Wichita Falls and Mrs. M. Harland of Fort Worth.

On behalf of the club, C. C. Hudson, presented Curtis Sewell, secretary of the club for the past two years, with a beautiful fountain pen and pencil.

CHILDRESS GAS BILLS FOUGHT

Citizens Protest Amount Of Charge

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Feb. 4.—Childress residents have launched a concerted protest against charges made for natural gas in the month of January. Statements sent to gas company customers in many instances have shown sharp increases over the amounts charged in December, according to statements made at a meeting of the city council.

More than 200 citizens attended the council meeting. A representative of the gas company was present and explained the increased charges but the protestants said they would appeal to the general offices of the concern. No increase in rates has been made here but the higher charges were for increased consumption of fuel, it was explained.

Go after your cold HARD . . . and end it in a hurry. Rub Mentholatum vigorously on your chest. Cover it with flannel to speed its action. Then drink plenty of water to carry the poisons from the cold out of your system.

To Find Coffees Unlike Any You've Tasted Before

Read How Folger Experts Secure The Rare Mountain Coffees of Central America... Coffees With Twice The Richness ...Twice The Flavor

LAST YEAR one Folger expert traveled over 8,000 miles—to give you a new thrill in coffee.

By ship, by motor, and finally over miles of perilous mountain trails that only burros can travel. Back and up to tiny fincas in the heart of the Central American wilderness. To regions where we secure rare coffees that experts concede are not duplicated anywhere else in the world. Coffees that anyone can drink without anxiety, because Nature leaves out the "rough" offensive oils.

Coffees so rare that not one person in 20 ever has a chance to taste their superlative flavor.

If you want something really different—not just another commercial "brand"—but an altogether different and richer tasting coffee—try it. Drink it 3 days and you'll never go back to less flavory kinds.

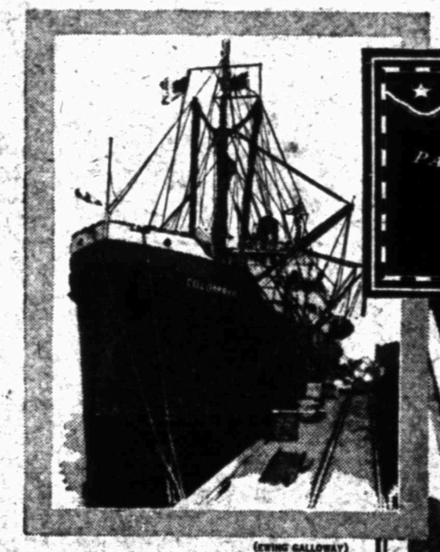

Introduced By Folger

Years ago this coffee was first served in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco, where it was introduced by Folger. Travelers tasting it there were captivated by its unusual flavor. Flavor produced by a peculiar combination of rich volcanic soil, altitude, sun's rays and tropic rainfall—that is found nowhere else in the world.

Connoisseurs among the European nobility, it is said, even went to Central America to purchase private plantations, first to supply their own tables and later to exploit commercially. Thus the fame of this rare coffee spread around the world.

The Folger Test

Would you like to see for yourself just how different these coffees are—in richness and in flavor? Here's a test that is as simple as it is fair.

Tomorrow morning drink Folger's. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. In a morning or two you will decidedly favor one or the other; the best coffee wins. That's fair, isn't it?

Some Good Night Clubs They Have a Purpose Kicking Out a Sculptor Death of a Clown

By EMILE GAUVREAU

The 1 a. m. curfew proposed for all New York night clubs and cabarets appears an all-advised and ineffectual remedy for gun-play. People are shot at in stores, in hotel rooms, on the sidewalks and by-walks of New York, anywhere, in fact, the gunmen think opportune. We are all reconciled to that. "Chink" Sherman and "Dutch" Schultz were marked men, men listed in the underworld's index, and they might have been more perfectly "plugged" had they been taken for a ride, rather than sipping rum at the Club Abbey.

To penalize all night clubs for an unfortunate incident that occurred in one of them would be equivalent to shutting down all theaters because such a play as "Pleasure Man" gets to the boards occasionally. The police should discern between a conscientious effort to reduce crime and the ill-considered haste in clamping the lid down on legitimate pleasure resorts. Night clubs help rich men put their excess profits back into circulation. They give needy two-timers a chance to survive the cold blasts of depression and keep columnists employed. Close night clubs at 1 a. m. and you close them down entirely.

Serious men must have a place where they can play the fool once in a while. Relaxation of this sort is a brain tonic. In these days of nerve strain, during our going-to-hell civilization, the ability to be silly is a saving grace. Night clubs and cabarets offer us the opportunity. La Rochefoucauld said somewhere in his Maximes that "he who lives without committing any folly is not so wise as he thinks." Dying by a good clean bullet is better than going blind on poisoned liquor.

Spite work seems to be operating behind the scenes in the ouster of George Gray Barnard, famous American sculptor, from his New York stable studio on Washington Heights. The Rockefeller interests, which have donated to New York City the land on which the studio stands, have made no provision to take care of Mr. Barnard, who is in the midst of his life-work, an heroic-sized war memorial, which he intends to donate upon its completion to the city, state and nation.

At one time John D. Rockefeller, Jr., appeared to be a patron of the sculptor. Barnard's marble "Rising Woman" is the property of Rockefeller. "The Hewer" is the property of John D. Sr. It is plausible that the Rockefellers could have imposed a condition on the city in its acceptance of the land gift by assuring Barnard a continuance of tenure.

The death of a clown may be as sad as the death of a king. We all love the man who makes us laugh. Such a one was Jules Turnour, who has just passed away at the ripe age of 80 at his home in Valley Stream.

Turnour was the last of the white-faced pantomimists of the one-ring circus era. He is to be mentioned along with the greatest clowns of history, from Falstaff down to Dan Rice and the Grimaldi. He made an art of his profession, serious and dignified, though his labors aimed to excite anything but dignity or seriousness. "Clowns," he said, "like humorists, have always taken their profession seriously, for clowning has traditions of greatness. We must produce laughter, which is one of the few eternal things."

Turnour died practically in harness. His last appearance in New York was two years ago, with the Ringling Brothers circus, of which he was also postmaster. He was born in a circus wagon; never left it. The virtues and allegiances which he poked fun at he himself adhered to with devout fidelity. He was a prince among men, playing the clown to fools.

Hambone's Meditations

Furniture makers are said to be coming out with a new "French cabinet." You know, the kind that collapses easily.

When Selling Regains Its Courage

MERLE THORPE, writing in a recent issue of Nation's Business, discusses business conditions and assigns a new cause for "depression." Mr. Thorpe sharply criticises American Selling for its failure in the face of adverse circumstances, declaring that Selling has been "too fat to fight." His analysis of conditions should prove interesting to Wichitans, who have started in the last year their battle to improve conditions in Wichita Falls.

Here's what Merle Thorpe says about business:

Is our vaunted American selling only a fair-weather phenomenon? Has it no stamina? Does it cave in, crumple up and take the count on the first blow?

It would seem so.

For years the world has watched with amazement, not unmixed with envy, the selling forces of American action. We have modestly acknowledged the applause. We knew we were good.

And we were. American selling was hard-hitting, tireless, resourceful, enthusiastic. It not only created demands but it helped buyers to find the means to satisfy those demands. It raised standards of living overnight, and in the joy of accomplishment it sang as it worked.

Came the stock-market squall of last October. Hesitation. Overcaution. Pessimism. Fear. Rumors of failures and panic. The spirit of Buying depressed.

Did Selling roll up its sleeves and eagerly welcome a trial of its strength and resourcefulness? It did not. It joined the mulligrubbers. It crowded the wailers at the wailing wall. It acted like a tired old man after a long walk on a sultry day.

What a pitiable spectacle of America's strong man lugubriously repeating hackneyed alibis. "Overproduction," was a favorite one. But overproduction became a fact only as underconsumption out-generalled Selling. And on its own field, for it had cracked the hard nut of underconsumption many a time. But Selling gave up. Too fat to fight. It said, "Nobody to buy; nothing to buy it with."

Shortly before, millions were eager for more and better food, warmer clothing, more comfortable shelter; millions desired greater conveniences; millions yearned for the luxuries of travel, art, music, books. They were willing to work hard and exchange their labor and services for those things.

Yet selling accepted the strange story that overnight millions lost these desires, that a miracle had happened and human nature had undergone a remarkable change. Nor were "the consumers broke." The record since then belies that assumption.

No; "selling" false rumors and calamity put us in the hospital. The real selling forces of the nation lost heart and nerve. Some openly joined the enemy. Others lent aid and comfort by disloyal inactivity.

"It's a great time to call upon sales and advertising managers," said a business man to me the other day. "They'll sit back and listen to you for two hours. A year ago you got a five-minute appointment for three weeks from Thursday. Too busy, selling. But today, nothing doing, and nothing to do. All the time in the world."

There probably was never a time in recent history when selling was at such a low ebb in the United States.

To the everlasting credit of American Selling there are a few who have kept the faith, who have relished a stout fight and who are coming through as victors. Such has always been the case. Calamity, war, depression, flood or fire disturbs the settled order. The churning process brings up from the bottom strange faces and strange names.

When the fair-weather sun shines again, there are new faces in an industry's picture—new leaders at the helm. Never doubt, you will see their names in the business headlines of tomorrow. They have come up from behind, energizing new ideas with a fine courage while old leaders were proving to themselves that it couldn't be done.

But the pity of it is that a glorious march toward greater comfort for greater numbers halts because the motive power of American business—our selling forces—lost vision and courage.

When American Selling regains its old-time courage, then get ready for better times.

A Lost Paradise

THERE is one paradise which small boys of today may never know. A paradise more wonderful than all the educational movies and radios and automobiles that another age has brought. The livery stable, that mecca of freedom where mothers never ventured, has gone away.

There isn't any place where a sporting fraternity can gather to tell queer tales while boys' eyes grow bigger and their legs grow weaker as the yellow lamps flicker and the democratic and sulky and prim little gig cast wobbly shadows up and down the walls. There isn't any place where cockfighters bring their birds to try them out in preparation for a grander event, and loafers spit at cracks and never miss.

Livery stables always held strange magic for a boy. Gay beneath the red and yellow signs that flaunted the dazzling charms of a coming circus the old barns nestled securely. Within there were more charms than Aladdin's lamp could ever conjure. There were horseshoe nails to be slipped surreptitiously into pockets. There were horsehairs that were useful in the snake-making experiment which was tried in mud puddles after rain.

Sometimes a boy was allowed to help feed and water the horses, or to accompany the stableman as he went through the stalls, his lantern making queer shadows on the warm, dark walls, as he looked to see if the horses were properly blanketed for the night. And to be asked to do an errand at the livery stable . . . ah, that was a passport into heaven in the long ago!

Sometimes the little boys dreamed dreams of the day when they would rent a rig and whip and go riding through the lilacs of a spring night.

There was usually a fire engine house or a police station somewhere around the corner which supplied diversion now and then. And when the street grew quiet there was always a voice calling a small boy's name somewhere down the street.

Mothers don't look toward the garages now when evenings are growing late. There is nothing human about their machinery. The honk of a horn has no challenge. But the long, low neigh of a passing horse. . . . That was different.

Exit

I fear that you are apt to find me
tired,
Wearied in ways I cannot long conceal;
Effortless, too, and dully uninspired,
And, probably, to your surprise,
unreal.
It is the woman's privilege to feel
Such things as these, such cruel
qualms and fears,
And placidly and thoroughly to steel
Herself against the faintest trace of tears.

If memories assail you, be as grim
As I propose to be, and understand
That he should be to her as she to him,
And feel this final pressure of her hand.
And if you cannot fathom what I say dear,
Let me be briefer still: Be on your way, dear. —ROBERTA B.

Haw!

George Mayo, who succeeded Lou Holtz in the touring "Manhattan Mary" show, reports that Sam, the Delicatessen man, of Cleveland, is that city's funniest dialectician. Not that Sam is intentionally comical, you understand—he is merely the type who says things that slay you. Mayo, for example, dined at the kosher place one sundown. He ordered tea to complete his meal.

"So how do you want it," queried Sam, "in a glass hor wit' lemon?"

"What kind of English do you call that?" kidded Mayo, in a glass or wit lemon?"

"Stop making fun!" snapped Sam, "som pipple like tea in a cup hor wit' crimm!!!"

In Fewer Words

And Fred ("Three's a Crowd") Allen reports that the depression is so bad in the concert field—soloists are singing duets!

Description

At the Paramount party for Maurice Chevalier the other day, Kelcey Allen introduced Robert Garland to some femme as "the well known drama critic."

"What," asked the Young Person, "is a dramatic critic?"

"The little Jewish guy," flipped Allen, "who sits on the aisle."

Hehehch

Then there's the silly about the German comedians who were pediculous with a capital "L." They were famous for the amount of times their act was canned after the opening matinee on tour. In one month they were canceled five times. One of them wired the booking agent: "Canned again. Where do we go from here?" To which the agent replied: "To hell!"

"Okay," they telegraphed: "Send tickets."

The Morning Mail

"Dear Mr. Winchell: I have been thinking over your sharp comment about the marriage of Elizabeth Munn—how the N. Y. Times and other newspapers in reporting the wedding ignored any mention of her mother, Margaret Lawrence. They teach us in prayer, song and literature to worship Mother, but the Times encourages the social-crazed and bows low to please one of the very rich. Thank you for having noticed this cheap insult to a 'mother'.—Mrs. Anna Clayburgh."

The Gallant James

Another engaging tale about Jimmy Durante, star of "The New Yorkers" troupe deals with his chivalry and his good manners. During one number the trio of Clayton, Jackson and Durante hurl dozens of old and battered hats at each other with great force.

The other performance one of the hats flew into the audience and struck a woman. Jimmy felt terrible about it. But the asbestos had fallen on the first act and the comedian went to his dressing room and pouted.

An idea struck him. He sent a friend out to purchase a five-pound box of candy. When the curtain lifted on the second act, Jimmy leaped from the stage to hand the gift to the lady, and he solemnly told her how sorry he was for the accident.

The audience responded in roof-lifting fashion, cheering the actor for fully a half minute for his gesture.

So does this dep't.

Hardly

It is supposed to have happened when Peggy Joyce was having her appendix trouble at a private hospital here.

A male patient across the hall was about to be discharged. He received a stiff bill. "Here, here," he complained to the doctor, "this is outrageous! It is too expensive."

"You have a cheek to complain about the price," snapped the physician. "Do you realize we placed you practically next door to Peggy Joyce?"

"Hell!" groaned the fellow, "for that much money I should have been in the same room with her!"

Good Old Gangdom

One of the physicians to the local banditti was saying last night that a good many of his gangster patients are not victims of gun duels over rackets or "Big Business." Often, he said, he has to treat a gangster who is shot by one of his own crowd over a trifle.

One night recently, for instance, a gorilla called on another toughie at his home and they started a drinking bout. "What's the idea of having gold fishes here?" he said as he lifted the bowl and emptied it out of the window in the clown manner.

"Only a rat like you would do such a thing to those poor little things!" cried the other as he shot his pal four times.

The Retort Proper

Hy Heath was reminiscing about the late Frank Bacon and his long struggle for success. On the opening night of "Lightnin'" at the Gaiety theater here the house was jammed to the doors. When 9 p. m. arrived and the asbestos had not lifted, John Golden, the producer, hastened back stage into Bacon's dressing room.

"Good heavens, man!" growled Golden, "do you realize you have kept a Broadway audience waiting for 30 minutes?"

"That's nothing," softly answered Bacon. "They've kept me waiting 30 years."

THE LOVELY LIAR : BY ROB EDEN

"Millions . . ." and she laughed. She was getting into the spirit of the thing. Kidding Ted.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Because Ted Allison deserts her on the eve of their elopement Poppy Prior flees to New York to escape her domineering mother. She is arrested for the theft of Celia Nixson's bracelet, which she found on the train and considered of little value. Poppy lies to conceal her real story, fearful that her mother may hear of her arrest. Kevin Wallace, friend of Celia, believes the girl innocent and asks her to call upon him if she should need help. Poppy escapes from the girls' detention home to which she is committed and goes to Wallace. Jane Rochester, art student whom Wallace has helped, takes Poppy in and gets her a job as model in Randolph's department store at $25 a week. Poppy goes to Wallace's apartment to return some money borrowed from him, and sees Celia and Wallace drive away in a car. Realizing that she loves Wallace, Poppy dispiritedly returns to Jane's apartment. Jane persuades her to go on a party with her.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XX

In the haze of blue smoke, and the crowd of people in the big room, Poppy didn't see Ted at first. It was only after her eyes had become accustomed to the light that she saw him sitting on a lounge talking to a girl. She gasped, and pulled at Jane's sleeve, but Jane paid no attention, only swung farther away into the smoke.

Then Ted saw her as she tried to make her way to the door. Saw her and came running across the room.

"Poppy! Who ever—how did you happen to come to New York?" He had both of her hands in his, and was pumping them up and down. The same Ted, gazing at her as if she were the only girl in the world. His gray eyes gleaming, his lips laughing. Before she knew it he had dragged her to a chair in the corner, found a footstool somewhere and was sitting at her feet.

"I've been going to write, Poppy—but I didn't get around to it. I never get around to writing. But I've been thinking about you a lot. You ought to know that, Poppy! You're still the most beautiful person in the world. Do you know it?"

The same line, Poppy, closed her eyes. The same line, but it didn't mean now what it had to her in Ashland. Ted was one of those men who took you off your feet, left you spinning in the air with his compliments, his praise. In Ashland she had believed all he had said. She was glad she was wiser now. She ought to hate him. Really, but somehow she didn't. You couldn't hate Ted. You had to like him.

"A gorgeous week in Ashland," Ted was saying. "I'll always remember it."

Poppy nodded mechanically. She would, too. It had changed her whole, eventful life.

"Don't you like me any more, Poppy?"

Once Poppy had thought if she ever saw Ted again that she would cut him dead. Indeed, she had rehearsed the meeting. Now she smiled wanly, and said nothing to his question. Talking to the man whom all Ashland thought was her husband. What would Ted say if she told him? She couldn't tell him, of course. He never could know.

"It was all so much fun, you and me, Poppy," Ted went on, looking into her eyes. "Riding and planning and all that. Funny now to think about it, isn't it?"

Not So Funny

Not so funny, Poppy thought. Funny to Ted because he didn't know that she had believed him.

"Then meeting you here so suddenly, and finding you lovelier than ever, Poppy, if you're not careful I'll fall in love with you all over again. So be careful. Just one of those summer love affairs we had. Sweet while it lasted. Too sweet."

Why did he have to go on and on like this? Reminding her what a fool she'd been? It was bad enough to know without being told about it.

"Really, Poppy, I meant to write when I got to New York, but I didn't."

Probably he did, Poppy thought wearily.

"What about dinner tomorrow night?"

All the glamor gone out of him. He seemed ordinary here. Or perhaps it was because he was ordinary after Kevin. "No, Ted." She tried to speak lightly.

"Can you give me any good reason why?"

"Millions—" and she laughed. She was getting into the spirit of the thing. Kidding Ted.

"But you were in love with me this summer?" he persisted.

"I doubt it. A diversion, that's all." Hard to say that, when it had meant so much to her then. Caused her so much trouble.

"Why, Poppy, I thought we were both madly in love. I was, I know. I get that way, quite often. Until you came in tonight I thought I was madly in love with the girl in the red dress. Been thinking so for a week. Then you came and I forgot all about her. Like that!" He snapped his fingers, and Poppy glanced over at the girl in the red dress. She was glaring at Poppy.

"Do you always fall in and out of love so easily?" she asked, more to say something than anything else.

"Always, don't you?"

"I suppose so." But Poppy knew she wasn't telling the truth. She didn't fall in and out of love easily. She had never been in love with anyone but Kevin in her life, and she never would be. Some people were made that way, she reflected, and some people were made like Ted Allison. Fancy free.

"Let's dance." And then she was in Ted's arms, and she was guiding her over the floor, past other couples who were talking and dancing. The murmur of conversation rose and sank like waves, sometimes entirely drowning out the radio.

"Poppy Prior, you—"

He mustn't call her Poppy Prior! She took alarm, and glanced around but no one seemed to have heard.

"I'm Poppy Rochester, Ted. Remember, will you? I'm staying with my cousin Jane." Ted wouldn't know that Jane wasn't her cousin. He probably didn't know Jane.

"Jane Rochester? I know her. So you're her cousin, are you? And what's the idea of changing your name?"

"Can't we do what we want?" She couldn't tell him, and she hoped he wouldn't ask any more questioning. They were getting embarrassing. Ted didn't. They danced in silence for awhile.

"You'd better go back to your girl in the red dress," Poppy said, a little worried. The girl was still glaring, and still sitting where Ted left her.

"I don't want to. Poppy, won't you go to dinner with me tomorrow?"

Poppy said she wouldn't and that was that.

"I know where to find you, though," Ted gloated. "I know where Jane's apartment is. I'll bother the life out of you. See if I don't? I just find you again, and you don't want me to find you. That's it, isn't it?"

She broke away from him, finally, and found Jane. Jane was quite ready to leave.

When they were in a cab, the older girl looked anxiously at Poppy.

"You look like you've seen a ghost."

"I have. Remember my telling you about a man in Ashland I was going to elope with? Well, Ted Allison is the man."

Jane laughed. She couldn't help it. "And you believed him?"

"I didn't know him then. I know him better now. He said he knew you—"

"Yes, I know him. A nice boy. Great with the girls. Charming, in fact."

"I was so young—I feel years older now. I believed him," Poppy spoke bitterly. "He joked about it tonight, and I joked back."

"Did you ever love him?"

"No, but Jane—I didn't hate him tonight. I rather liked him in fact. I don't understand myself. I thought I'd abhor him. I ought to."

"I understand. You didn't tell him?"

Poppy lay awake for a long time that night. The shock of seeing Ted again, the memory of Kevin's face in Celia's car. So much had happened.

Ted, arrogant, sure of himself. Ted, whom all Ashland thought her husband. Ted was good looking. His hair light brown and curly, his eyes grey and smiling, his face tanned by the sun.

Kevin paler, more seriously. Kevin seldom smiling, although he had smiled at her sometimes. Kevin seemed older, wiser than Ted. Ted was just a boy for all his six feet, his 28 years.

Poppy arose and snapped on the light. She went to the sketch of Kevin which Jane had made and hung on the wall above the bookcase. She looked at it a long time before she went back to bed.

LEGION POST BACKS BONUS

'No Glory in Conflict,' Says Pastor-Veteran

More than 400 members of the Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion Wednesday night unanimously supported a resolution petitioning congress for the immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates to veterans of the world war. The resolution, already passed by the executive committee of the post, will be forwarded to Washington through the state legion headquarters and copies will be sent to representatives in the senate and house.

Unanimous Vote

The petition, read by F. W. Fischer, chairman of the resolutions committee, passed the main body of the membership without discussion or dissent.

Plans for a membership drive here Friday, in a whirlwind campaign to bring the enrollment up from 820 to 1,000 were outlined at the meeting. The goal would bring the local post the largest loving cup in the gift department, offered by Department Adjutant Robert O. Whittaker at Austin. The Wichita Falls post already leads the state in proportionate membership and the canvass Friday will aim at bringing every ex-service man in the city into the organization.

Rev. W. S. Fletcher of Stamford, principal speaker Wednesday night, an American citizen who served as a captain in the British army, talked of "Tommy Atkins at the Gate of the Garden of Eden." Rev. Mr. Fletcher, a veteran of the Spanish American and the world wars, declared there is no glory in conflict.

"Who wants war?" he demanded. "If the officials want war, let them go fight the next one—with can openers and nut crackers."

B. D. Sartin addressed the group on facts about the American Legion.

Plains Farm Leaders Discuss Irrigation at Plainview Parley

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Feb. 4.—Approximately 300 persons attended the opening conference on irrigation held at the county courtroom today. County Agent Roy Davis presided. Representatives were present from Swisher, Deaf Smith, Floyd, Castro, Bailey, Lamb, Lubbock, Crosby and Hale counties in Texas and from Colorado, New Mexico and Missouri.

Artie Baker, banker, Lockney, opened the meeting by discussing the needs of irrigation. His keynote idea was the farmer who tries to make money makes neither money nor a living, but he who tries to make a living makes both a living and money.

J. D. Tinsley, agricultural agent of the Santa Fe railroad company, discussed the possibilities of irrigation. Experiences of farmers in the Portales, N. M. territory were related. In their irrigation efforts, today they are in a prosperous condition as a result of irrigation. He predicted that sooner or later irrigation will be carried on extensively in this territory. No fear need be felt over water supply here, Mr. Tinsley stated. A farmer should not attempt to irrigate more acreage than he can handle properly. The importance of smaller farms and more farmers was stressed by the speaker.

R. M. Berger, American Sugar Beet company, Rocky Ford, Colo., outlined plans of applying the water to various crops. He advocated applying water in unlimited quantities before crops are planted.

Prof. R. C. Mowery of Texas Technological college, Lubbock, discussed the feeding of farm animals, using alfalfa as the main part of the ration. He said alfalfa makes money for the farmer out of his other feed crops.

The sessions will continue Thursday, closing with trips to the irrigation wells near Plainview.

Bishop Seeks Speedy Trial

Methodist Board Hears Case In Secret Session

charges against Cannon, and Dr. W. A. Shelton, pastor of the church came out and vouched for him.

The same veil of secrecy which surrounded the hearings covered also the nature of the charges.

Echoes of the proceedings were heard in the senate chamber during the day. Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, said Cannon was being "persecuted" and that "the Raskob and Al Smith machine is back of the effort to destroy him."

"I had a letter the other day," Heflin said, "reporting that John Roach Stratton had gone, that Bishop Cannon was on his way and that I was due for a sudden illness.

"I wonder what kind of pill they will ship me?" he asked amid laughter.

Bishop Cannon again came to the hearing on crutches after spending the night in Sibley hospital. Members of his family said. He was "extremely weak." They expressed belief he might collapse at any time.

Although strict secrecy has enshrouded the entire proceedings it was said tonight the charges cover alleged incidents in the life of the bishop for the last 20 years or more.

Accusations of gambling on the stock market were said to comprise only a small part. Most of the charges, it was said, deal more closely with the bishop's personal life, some in the past year.

At the close of the afternoon session Bishop Cannon requested the hearings be speeded up and that night sessions be held.

Bishop Ainsworth asked his fellow bishop if he thought he was physically able to stand the strain of a night session and upon receiving an affirmative reply called one for tonight.

MYATT CALLS AREA LEADERS

Business and Professional Men Testify in Trial

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, Feb. 4.—An array of character witnesses, including bankers, physicians, and stockmen of Abilene, Stamford, Anson and Nugent, were called to the stand here Wednesday afternoon in defense of W. H. Myatt, charged with the fatal shooting of J. E. Saunders, prominent Jones county rancher, two years ago.

Among them were C. B. Manley, Jack Claremore, Dr. W. A. V. Cash, Dr. Esters, Dr. J. M. Alexander, Abilene; T. C. King, Stamford; Sol Foster, Nugent; and Ed Roberts, Jones county. The Abilene physicians testified that Myatt was suffering from leakage of the heart and was in a generally nervous condition at the time of the shooting.

When the case opened Wednesday morning, witnesses for the state testified to ill-feeling between Myatt and Saunders, and declared that Saunders was forced to go past Myatt's house on his way to Nugent from his Jones county ranch.

Tom Hudson, Jones county sheriff, testified that Saunders was unarmed when his body was found. Otta Roberts and Dr. Otis Bowyer described the bullet wounds in the body of the slain man. Other testimony tended to describe Saunders as a quarrelsome man and asserted that he had shot a hog and a mule belonging to Myatt.

The Jones county rancher was slain in April, 1928. The present trial is the third in which Myatt has been charged. A 10-year verdict returned after the first trial was reversed. The second resulted in a hung jury and the case was transferred to Haskell county.

Testimony is expected to be completed Thursday.

Finding of Human Skeleton Stirs Old Mystery in Hall County

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Feb. 4.—Sheriff J. H. Alexander was confronted today with a 50-year-old mystery—a collection of human bones.

A workman cutting a spillway for an earthen tank five miles southeast of Memphis discovered some of the bones yesterday. Sheriff Alexander and Dr. O. R. Goodall were called and finished unearthing the skeleton, found to be complete with the exception of the lower part of the skull.

The sheriff said the position of the bones indicated the right hand had been beside the head and the left arm across the body when it was buried. Estimates on the length of time the skeleton had been buried ranged for 5 to 50 years.

Dr. Goodall said the skeleton appeared to be that of a white man about 40 or 50 years old. Dr. Goodall will send the bones to an institution in an effort to learn how long they had been buried and any other facts which may help solve the mystery.

Possibility that an old crime has been detected for the first time was seen by Sheriff Alexander in the fact the skull was badly crushed on one side. The skeleton was found in a shallow grave and from the position of the bones the sheriff believed the body had been buried hurriedly.

The discovery was made on a tract known as the Nuhn half section and at a spot which is poorly drained.

Man Averts Panic When Smoke Fills Theater

Smoke from a film which caught fire as it jammed in the projector caused a near panic at the Folly theater on Seventh street shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday night.

As the smoke from the film filtered from the projection room into the theater, spectators jumped to their feet and started to rush out. The presence of mind of a man who called out that there was no danger averted possible injury to persons in the audience.

A fire alarm was turned in but no damage was caused to the theater or its fixtures.

A Desirable Mental Outlook

Have you ever envied a person who is popular, happy, with not a worry in the world? Most people have. They consider such a mental state the result of luck and fail to see that it is simply the result of good mental habits. The same people are willing to admit that to have clean teeth it is important to form the habit of brushing them; since once the habit of cleaning the teeth is formed, one has clean teeth without worrying much about it. It is the same with our mental habits. If we wish to have the emotions which make us hopeful and happy it is important that we form the habit of cultivating them.

We like to think that our emotions are born in us, and we may accept any undesirable emotions or traits of mind, even though they cause us the keenest suffering because we think they cannot be changed. It is possible to change undesirable mental habits by training our minds away from dwelling on unpleasant things. We should learn how to substitute desirable emotions for those which we realize are not so desirable. If we do this we will have done a great deal toward being more cheerful, kind, tolerant and happy.

There are people who always remain contented and emotionally stable. You can be the same if you will train your mind to more positive ways of thinking. Every psychologist realizes that there are good mental habits and bad mental habits. In the last group are such things as temper tantrums, having the blues, self consciousness, anxiety, worry, inferiority and superiority complexes and other mental attitudes which make the person who has them profoundly unhappy at times. In an attempt to compensate for such inner turmoil a person with poor mental habits attributes his emotional state to the behavior of some person around him, and in many cases homes, marriages, friendships and businesses are wrecked because one does not know the simplest rules of mental hygiene.

I have prepared a number of free articles on mental hygiene which I will be glad to send to readers of this newspaper. Simply write to me in care of this paper and send two cents for each article desired. This will assist in paying the postage and sending of the articles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Nerve Exhaustion

Question—A. D. K. asks: "How long does it take to overcome nerve exhaustion, and what is the treatment? Do you think chiropractic treatments help?"

Answer—Nerve exhaustion may occur with one who uses up a great deal of mental energy through work, worry, or any of the destructive emotions. I do not believe, however, that complete exhaustion ever develops except with one who is in a highly toxic state, and the cure would depend upon the removal of the underlying toxins. This, of course, varies, according to the case. Chiropractic treatments would certainly be of great help in the patient's recovery of proper nerve tone.

Flaxseed

Question—R. F. asks: "Would the eating of whole flaxseed with cereals at breakfast have the tendency to cure constipation?"

Answer—The use of flaxseed with cereals has a tendency to produce more bowel movements, but this would not necessarily permanently cure constipation, as the cause of chronic constipation may be paralysis or kinking of the bowels, improper diet, lack of exercise, or neglect in regularity of going to the toilet. Flaxseed is a good temporary remedy to be used until the causes are corrected.

Migraine

Question—X. Y. Z. asks, "Will you kindly explain in what way migraine headache differs from any other?"

Answer—A periodic headache usually occurring on one side of the head is what is called by physicians a migraine headache. Such headaches will sometimes occur at exactly the same time each week and are thought to be due in a large measure to nervous disturbances. Some psychologists believe that the cause is entirely mental, but my opinion is that the patient must first be in a highly toxic state before mental disturbances will produce these periodical headaches.

FRANCO-AMERICAN NET DUEL FORECAST AFTER DRAWING

TENNIS TEAMS BEGIN WARFARE

Davis Cup Competition Lures Thirty Nations

PARIS, Feb. 4. (AP)—The annual forecast of another Franco-American duel in the final round of the historic Davis cup play was made again on all sides today as President Doumergue of France and the diplomats of more than a score of nations gathered around the famous silver tennis trophy for the 1931 draw.

President Doumergue presided over the function, staged with all the ceremony of great affairs of state, in the presence of the representatives of most of the 30 nations entered for the international play. The luck of the draw pitted the United States against Mexico to start the North American zone series with the winner meeting Canada in the zone finals.

Ambassador Walter Edge, representing the United States, drew the first name from the cup in pairing the rivals of the European zone. Great Britain and Monaco clash in the first round while Switzerland is paired with Ireland, Austria with Greece, Czecho-Slovakia with Spain and Hungary with Italy.

Second round pairings bring Japan into action against Jugo-Slavia, Egypt against Finland, while Belgium opposes the winner of the Great Britain-Monaco preliminary. Holland's bye in the first round pits the Dutchmen against the winner of the Hungary-Italy match. Denmark meets Rumania, and Norway battles Poland. The zone finalists meet for the right to challenge France for the cup and once more the United States, which first engages the winner of the South American zone previously drawn, is an outstanding favorite to challenge the French defenders again in the final.

Dates for the inter-zone finals and challenge rounds alone have been fixed although first round play must be completed by May 5, second round by May 17, third by June 8, fourth by June 19, and zone finals by July 12. Inter-zone matches are scheduled for July 17, 18, and 19, with the challenge round at Paris July 24, 25, and 26.

British Racer Delays Speed Record Attempt

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 4. (AP)—Captain Malcolm Campbell, ace of the world's fastest racing car drivers, again was prevented from making an attempt to raise the land speed record today because of a high wind that swept the beach speedway here.

Whistling out of the north at a velocity estimated by the driver at between 35 and 40 miles an hour, the wind blew a steady stream of white sand across the nine-mile course from the nearby dunes, which would have made steering difficult at high speed.

Given a good beach and ideal weather, Campbell hopes to be able to make his assault on the record of 231 miles an hour tomorrow afternoon.

Texas Boxers Battle Oklahomans at Hollis

DODSONVILLE, Texas, Feb. 4.—Considerable interest is being shown in the boxing bouts that will be sponsored by the local Athletic club, the matches being carded for Hollis, Okla., on Feb. 9. The leading fighters of Southwest Oklahoma and the Panhandle of Texas are on the program.

In the main event of the night the fans are promised eight rounds of heated argument when Rip Blake of Shamrock, Texas, and Donald Greer of Tipton, Okla., tangle up. Both fighters weigh 126 pounds. Another fight on the program that is likely to provide the customers with plenty of thrills is the battle between Windy Woody Windham and Kid Murdock.

Minor Leagues Accept Majors' Draft Compact

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. (AP)—The National Association of Professional baseball leagues today voted to accept the proposition of the major leagues in regard to the draft and to players sent out on optional agreement. The vote was 18 to 1 in favor of acceptance with the Southern association as the only dissenter.

The vote was something of a formality as the leagues which had fought the draft propositions advanced by the majors already had come to terms.

The prices to be paid according to the agreement are $7,500 for men drafted from class AA leagues, $6,000 for class A; $4,000 for class B; $2,500 for class C, and $2,000 for class D.

ALLEN AVERS

By JACK (RED) ALLEN

A rejuvenated Coyote machine showed wonderful possibilities in the game Tuesday night with the Waurika Eagles. With a little more work on defense and continued practice on goal shooting the Pack should develop a powerful aggregation by the time of the district meet which will be held in the Coyote gymnasium Feb. 20-21.

S. M. U. established themselves as the favorites to win the Southwest conference title by nosing out the Frogs of Texas Christian university 35-32. The Ponies are still undefeated and bid fair to complete the season at the head of the list. Five letter men grace the red and blue squad. Captain Skeeters has a s marked himself as an all-conference guard by his stellar work against all opponents.

In the T. I. A. A. conference the Buffaloes from Canyon seem to have placed their mark on the championship. The Teachers won the title last season and are in a class by themselves again this year. Two giants that tower quite a few inches over six feet are the main reason for the success of the Buffs. Howard Payne is the only quintet that offered serious opposition to the Canyonites, but the winners eked out a victory after a great battle.

Football rules are subject to many changes each year, but basket ball rules are seldom changed. Not long ago the movement to eliminate the dribble in the hardwood game resulted in a complete failure. Maybe sometime in the future the rule will be passed. It would improve the game considerably.

A series that will draw plenty of attention will be played between the Arkansas Razorbacks and the Southern Methodist five. These two aggregations meet in Dallas the latter part of the month, and the Mustangs stand a good chance to go out like a lamp and succumb to the powerful offense of the Hogs.

The Texas Aggies celebrated the renewal of the Baylor and A. & M. teams' strife by winning from the Bears Tuesday night 31-12. Ever since the fall of 1926 when the representative football teams of the two schools met in mortal combat, differences were unsettled. During the game, at the half, the students of the two schools clashed, and one was killed and several injured. As a result of the fight, athletic relations between the two schools were severed.

Some will remember the quick-thinking band leader who stopped the free-for-all that threatened to resolve into a pitched battle. The band leader called on his musicians to play the "Star Spangled Banner." The cadets of the A. & M. school heard the strains of the national anthem and snapped to attention and faced the flag. The Baylor students found their opponents suddenly turned to statues and departed from the field.

Not many years ago the basket ball teams of Baylor traveled to the scenes of their games by bus. While en route to one of the foreign courts one night, the loaded bus was struck by a train. Several of the athletes were killed and the rest were maimed and broken. As a result the custom of traveling in buses has all but been abandoned by the universities. The athletes ride the trains.

Pimlott, ace bowler of the Mahanay's quintet, was high in a single game with a total of 214 pins. Jim Galloway of the same team as the high scorer led the field to the tape in the three game total with 621 pins in the three battles. The Jewelers were high for the team total with 2730 points.

Crowell Basketeers Defeat Collegians

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, Feb. 4.—The Crowell High school basket ball team, playing its premier contest of the season, downed the Wayland college quintet here Wednesday night by the score of 47 to 8. The Wayland outfit was thoroughly outplayed and could make only two field goals, one in the first half and another in the final half.

Todd rolled up 14 points for the home team to carry the laurels and Kendrick, Wayland center, starred for the visitors with a commendable defense. Wednesday's victory is the 22nd win for Crowell out of 23 starts.

Thursday Thalia will be met to determine the Foard county championship.

Committee to Pass On Clara Protest

A meeting of the Wichita county executive committee of the interscholastic league will be called Saturday morning at the Iowa Park High school to discuss the protest filed by Clara against Cashion, stating that the latter team played an ineligible man. Clyde Wofford, superintendent of Valley View schools, called the meeting.

In the course of the round robin tournament to determine the winner of the county championship Cashion defeated Clara on Dec. 12. The argument arose over the eligibility of R. D. Woodall, a Cashion player. The Clara authorities contend that Woodall had attended school five years, which if true would make the athlete ineligible. The Clara officials request that the game be forfeited to them. If the game is given to the Greyhounds, the Clara team would be declared winner of the round robin tournament. The tourney resulted in a three-way tie and the playoff may be averted if Clara is awarded its demands.

A college baseball league composed of Mercer, Georgia, Oglethorpe, Georgia Tech, Florida and Auburn, has been formed in Atlanta.

COYOTES MEET QUANAH TODAY

Grid Rivalry Shifted To Cage Court

Quanah High school will be the foes of the Coyotes tonight at 7:30 o'clock when the Pack entertains the Indians on the Coyote court. This is the first meeting of the two cage teams this year, but an old rivalry begun on the gridiron will be continued.

After a short drill on fundamentals Wednesday afternoon, the Coyotes went through a long session of fast scrimmage. The Basketeers, local independent organization, furnished the opposition for the red and black squad. The prep team conquered its smaller opponents, 29 to 19 only after a terrific struggle.

Coach Barry Holton pronounced his charges ready for action and holds high hopes of a victory over the Indians.

The first five of Janeway, Scarbrough, Decker, Brandon, and Allen showed remarkable power in the scrimmage and much is expected of this quintet in the battle with the wearers of the gold and black. The athletes mentioned above will probably draw the opening assignment in tonight's game. Reserves who may break into the fray include Reeves, Withrow, Estes, and Holton.

VOLLEY BALL PLANS DRAWN

Schedule Made for Iowa Park Tournament

Drawings for the girls' volley ball tournament were completed Wednesday night at Iowa Park when representatives of the six teams entered met for that purpose. An elimination bracket was drawn up and the officials agreed to start the first games Saturday morning.

The winner of the elimination play will play the Clara girls winner of the round robin tourney, for the championship of the county. The Cashion and Weeth lassies will open the tournament Saturday morning with Burk meeting Clara in the second game, and Iowa Park tangling with Fairview in the third and last game of the first round. Valley View drew a bye through the first round, but will play the first game in the second round, battling the winner of the Clara and Weeth contest. The winners of the upper part of the bracket will meet in the second round or the semi-finals. Clara is favored to win the tourney and therefore win the title of the county, as the Greyhound girls have conquered everything to win the round robin play.

Pairing for the junior boys basket ball boys will be finished Saturday morning, Superintendent Wofford announced. Saturday night Valley View will meet the Clara senior boys cagers on the Hawk court in Iowa Park in continuance of the playoff for the championship of the round robin tourney. Friday week the elimination tournament will be played on the Hawk court, the winner meeting the victor of the round robin playoff matches the following night for the championship of the county.

Texas House Takes Step To Have Music In Dull Hours

AUSTIN, Feb. 4. (AP)—Monotony will not prove monotonous to the house of representatives of the Texas legislature.

The house adopted a resolution today to install a piano and authorized Representative Alsup of Carthage to train a group of representatives in the art of singing to while away the hours when the business of the house hit the low spots and there was nothing to do.

Alsup is blind and is a favorite among the legislators for his ability on the piano.

Galveston Ball Club Names Shearn Moody

GALVECTON, Feb. 4. (AP)—Shearn Moody, was elected president of the Galveston Baseball association at the first meeting by the board of directors today. The association, incorporated for $100,000, purchased the Waco Texas league baseball franchise recently.

Alvin F. Myers was elected vice president; J. B. Mills, treasurer, and J. H. Yeargan Jr., secretary.

While the association directors were holding their first meeting, work on the new baseball diamond and stadium was progressing rapidly and is expected to be ready well before the season opens. The Galveston Buccaneers will use a school baseball park for pre-season practice workouts.

Municipal golfers of Atlanta played 179,271 nine-hole rounds on the four city-owned courses in 1930, for which they paid $44,817.75.

JESS HAINES AWAITS START

Veteran of 11 Campaigns To Try Again

PHILLIPSBURG, Ohio, Feb. 4. (AP)—With 16 years of organized baseball behind him, Jess Haines, veteran St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, is preparing to report to the Cardinal training camp at Bradenton, Fla., within the next few days.

It was just 11 years ago this month that Haines was bought from the Kansas City club of the American association by the Cards and every year since he has received his contract as an anniversary present from the management of the Red Birds.

Haines first started in organized baseball in 1915 when he was picked off the sandlots of Dayton, Ohio, by Springfield of the old Central league. He has seen service in the Michigan-Ontario league, Western league, American league and National league.

He is the only man shown on present day records who has a no-hit, no run game to his credit in both the minors and the majors. Haines performed the trick against Flint in the M-O league and then repeated July 27, 1925, when the Cardinals defeated Boston, 5 to 0.

Haines admits he is getting older and may not be able to take his regular turn in the box this year, although it will be remembered that it was Haines who held the slugging Philadelphia Athletics to one run in the third game of the world series last year to even the count against Connie Mack's team.

ALLSTATE has consistently sold about a fourth below any other tire of comparable quality—now it sells even lower. The new reductions average 11%—some sizes are reduced 19%. And you save even more than that when you buy a pair. Raw rubber and cotton have come down. And new economies in manufacturing and distributing have been effected as a result of the fact that one out of every ten tires sold for replacement in 1930 was an ALLSTATE. So Sears passed these savings along to motorists by making the ALLSTATE a better tire than ever—and offering it for less than ever.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. (AP)—Cotton was generally higher today on trade buying, covering and some commission house buying which was accompanied by talk of unfavorable preliminary conditions for the coming crop movement. May contracts sold up to 10.85 or 16 points net higher and the highest price touched since they sold at 9:80 during the middle of December. They closed at 10.82 with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 13 to 18 points.

More or less talk of a substantial reduction in acreage also was heard, and some observers thought they saw indications these features were leading to a broadening demand. The early Liverpool buying of March here, had a tendency to offset the influence of the indifferent cables.

Liverpool reported hedging and liquidation in that market had been absorbed by trade calling and continental buying and said British home trade in cotton cloths was improving. Exports today 26,887, making 4,603,596 so far this season. Port receipts 26,626. U. S. port stocks 4,040,667.

Futures closed very steady, 13 to 17 points higher. Spot, steady; middling, 10.65.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4. (AP)—Trading in cotton was somewhat more active today and despite unfavorable cables prices showed an upward trend. Although Liverpool came in lower than due prices here opened 2 to 3 points higher and although most of this initial gain was lost on realizing, prices soon started upward and a good trade demand developed. There was also more or less price fixing by the mills and ring shorts covered. Prices advanced steadily and around noon showed gains over yesterday's close of 10 to 12 points, and one month, July, gained 14 points. The market turned very active again around the middle of the afternoon and prices made new highs 15 to 17 points above the lows with active trade buying and covering and the close was steady and near the top, the general market showing net advances for the day of 12 to 17 points.

Liverpool came in 1 penny point worse than due and private cables stated that buying by the continent absorbed hedging and long liquidation. First trades here showed gains of 2 to 3 points but a part of this initial advance was promptly lost on realizing but prices soon firmed up again and at the end of the first hour May traded at 10.75 and October at 11.19 or 4 to 5 points above the previous close.

As the morning advanced trading became quite active and prices advanced on trade buying and shorts covering until May traded as high as 10.82 and October at 11.25 up 10 to 12 points from yesterday's close.

In the early afternoon prices eased off 3 to 4 points on some realizing. May later traded up to 10.85 and October to 11.31 up 15 to 17 points above the lows, all active months making new highs. May closed at 10.83 and October at 11.30 or 13 and 15 points net gain for the day, on those active months.

Port receipts 21,551; for week 81,782; for season 7,594,852; last season 7,559,429. Exports 26,587; for week 118,699. For season 4,471,711; last season 4,917,312. Market Makes Another Scattered Show of Strength in Specialties

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. (US)—Another generally firm market was witnessed on the stock exchange today, but there was a display of heaviness in various directions. The railroad stocks as a group were lower on the average, but specialties continued to dominate the industrial section and give it an appearance of strength.

It was quite as evident as on previous recent days that pool work explained the greater part of the strength in many active issues, but so long as pool managers feel content in their marking-up process the market will maintain its show of strength.

In a few issues there was greater nibbling by the public, but on the whole the session continued highly professional. Volume increased somewhat, to around the million-and-a-half-share total. News of the day was inclined to the bearish view, including a lowering of copper prices to 9½ cents, further dividend reductions, and additional unsatisfactory earnings statements.

Radio assumed leadership for the day, from standpoint of activity, and achieved a gain of over half a point net. Buying of this stock, which necessarily is speculative in character, was attributed to a leading stock exchange operator who is reported accumulating a sizeable position on the theory that any improvement in public attitude toward the general market must find Radio again a speculative favorite.

Worthington Pump declined several points on profit-taking and less aggressive sponsorship by its former friends, who had originally taken a sizeable position more than 20 points lower than the current price. Case Threshing Machine was brought forward as a possible leader, a bullish tip on this issue being broadcast throughout the street.

It was also reported that the market in Case was being handled by one of the best-known veteran bears, but this report lacked confirmation. Increased offerings were met as the stock advanced, until finally it lost all but a point of its earlier three-point gain. Although a short interest may permit the Case sponsors to achieve higher price levels in their current operation, the advance seems almost certain to invite sizeable liquidation. Annual report of Case may show $9 a share for 1930, but possibility of new financing is the prime influence in its current affairs marketwise.

American Can was heavily bought by interests desirous of stimulating the entire list and this stock assumed a strong tone, but the advance attracted good-sized offerings. It is likely that Can may again be employed for possible influence on the general list, although it is noticeable that its sponsorship is not of the usual strong banking type.

Just before the close a sizeable block of United corporation changed hands at the best price in recent weeks and up almost a point on the day. This stock is still selling under its liquidating value, but those best acquainted with the corporation's affairs show no haste in adding to their holdings.

The motion picture group, which had shown general strength the previous day, quieted down somewhat, although the sponsors of Radio-Keith, Paramount and Warner Bros. continued highly aggressive. The Radio-Keith activity forecast here achieved a net gain of one-fourth point, while the Paramount sponsors were able to advance their favorite 1½ points. Fox was helped by reports that the financing arrangements had been completed.

Eastman Kodak achieved the best price in weeks on buying induced by knowledge that the company's new film, details of which were published here over a fortnight ago, will be publicly announced in a few days. The new film, which Eastman is said to have developed may be revolutionary in character, is credited with a speed several times faster than the present film.

Although a good deal of buying of the stock came from Rochester, home of the company's plants, it is quite likely that a good deal of investment buying will not take place unless the stock has a reaction from current levels.

The stock has recovered over 20 points from its low. A low-priced issue in which more aggressive sponsorship is promised is Blaw-Knox, representing a special steel manufacturing enterprise. The stock at current prices yields just little under 6 per cent on the dividends of $1.50, which was easily covered last year by earnings which are estimated in excess of $2. Incidentally, such earnings are within 12 cents a share of the 1929 net.

Railroad stocks were affected by decision of the St. Louis-San Francisco directors to defer action on its dividend until the March meeting. Estimate of little over $7 per share earnings for New York Central in 1930 also influenced some selling among the Rails, since these earnings were below the $8 dividend requirements.

General Motors held about unchanged awaiting issuance of its annual report, after the close of the market. This disclosed profits for the full year equalling $3.25 a common share, against $5.49 in 1929. The 1930 earnings included 21 cents a share non-recurring profits, indicating the $3 dividend was barely earned from operations. The per-share net compared also with an average of $4.74 a share earned in the five years ended 1929.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Feb. 4. (AP)—Fair demand continued today on the cash grain market with prices about unchanged and dealers readily disposing of the light offerings. No. 1 hard wheat of any protein probably was worth 77½@80c delivered Texas common points. Estimated receipts: Wheat, 21 cars; corn, 16; oats, 3; and sorghums, 7 cars.

Quotations on coarse grains as follows basis carloads delivered T. C. P., freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 73@73½c; No. 2 white 75@76c; No. 2 yellow 75@75½c.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 43½@44½c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.23@1.24; No. 2 kaffir $1.21@1.22.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 4. (AP)—An abatement of buying fever in grains late today accompanied likelihood of moisture relief tonight for drouth territory southwest. Reports said foreign buyers of wheat refused to follow price advances. Slackness of eastern demand for corn was also a drag on values.

Wheat closed irregular at ½c decline to ¼c advance, corn ⅛@⅜c down, oats unchanged to ⅜c up, and provisions 10 to 20 cents off.

At first all grains showed decided upward momentum and increased activity. Widespread need of moisture, especially throughout the winter wheat belt, had been officially confirmed, and reports suggested that a sudden drop in temperatures would cause crop damage.

Prospects of a break of drouth conditions tended to illustrate anew how fickle a weather market could be, and early price gains both of wheat and corn were more than wiped out as the day drew to an end. Oats were upheld by scantiness of receipts.

Provisions went lower with hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 67@67⅛c, 68⅛c; Sept. 66⅜c, 67⅜c. Corn—May 64⅜c, 66⅜c; July 65⅜@65⅝c, 67⅜@67½c; Sept. (bids) 65⅜c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Feg. 4. (US)—While possibility of rain in Southwest Kansas were looked upon as bearish on wheat, the high pressure area change was a debatable factor. A change from the present mild weather to severely cold temperatures would be bullish or bearish dependent upon the accompanying conditions. Snow cover would be bearish while lack of it would be extremely bullish.

There were several features of interest in the weekly weather and crop report. Although moisture is generally needed over the winter belt, the crop is holding up well in view of this need.

Winter wheat is nearly all bare in the Pacific Northwest and is making rapid growth with a consequent fear that a sharp drop in temperature will injure the tender plants, the report says.

Further it points out that the past week of warm weather has encouraged spring plowing with some soil preparation as far north as Montana. (The report covers the last week of January.) Preparation of soil advanced rapidly in the Southwest and some spring oats have already been sown.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 4. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—A sluggish and lower eastern beef trade served to offset the stimulating influence of curtailed cattle supplies. Shipping demands at some centers was sufficient to boost prices on the better grades of steers and long yearlings to a moderate extent but the general run of short fed met an indifferent outlet at steady to 25c lower rate. Some markets also reported further weakness on fed heifers. Chicago had a top of $11.50 on long yearlings and realized $11.40 on best weighty steers. Receipts were estimated at 24,200.

Opening trade on hogs was slow at steady to 15c lower rates but the close at some markets was very slow on medium weight butchers with declines of 20@35c. The top of $8.05 was paid at St. Louis. Offerings were around 103,000.

The supply of sheep approximated 41,500. Fat lambs found a slow outlet at steady to 25c lower prices and aged stock ruled steady to weak. Outsiders in Chicago purchased choice lambs up to $9.00 while at Kansas City the top to shippers was $8.40.

COMMITTEES OF C-C ANNOUNCED

Directors Plan Big Fourth Of July Celebration

Committees to serve the chamber of commerce here during 1931 were announced by J. L. Jackson Jr., president, at a directors' meeting held Wednesday morning at the chamber of commerce offices. Mr. Jackson had been preparing the list of names to serve on the 21 committees since his election of a month ago. The various committees are composed of about 150 members of the chapter here.

July Fourth Celebration

At the board meeting Wednesday, directors of the organization transacted other items of business which included plans for a great Fourth of July celebration, and voted to recommend to the city council that an inspector of weights and measures be provided for Wichita Falls. The recommendation was made following a recent suggestion by the state department of weights and measures that an appointment be made here. It was further recommended that a present city employe be assigned as an assistant, providing that a weights and measures inspector for Wichita Falls is appointed. The state department, it was said, will send a man here to help in getting a system started if the suggestion is adopted.

The decision to hold what is hoped to be the biggest celebration ever staged in Wichita Falls is the result of suggestions made when the 1931 program of work was under preparation. Committees to arrange for the entertainment, which is expected to draw spectators from the entire territory surrounding Wichita Falls, are to be appointed in the near future, Mr. Jackson said.

The appointment of Walter D. Cline as the Wichita Falls representative of the Texas world fair commission was announced. The Texas commission is to make arrangements for a Texas exhibit at the world fair to be held in Chicago in 1933.

ROSES DEMAND SHARP PRUNING

Mrs. Dobie Advises Against Too Early Cutting

important not to make the cut too high; on the other hand, it must clear the eye to prevent damage to the source of new growth. The cut should be slightly slanting for best healing of the wound, and should slope down from the eye. Stubs of branches should no more be left on a rose bush than on an oak tree; in both instances they are an invitation to decay. These directions may seem to be rather detailed, but, after all, the practice of them is very simple.

Cutting off faded blossoms constitutes summer and fall pruning. The practise, less general than it was a few years ago, of pinching out faded flowers with the fingers is responsible for weak, short stems and small roses. A bud on a slender stem produces a yet more slender stem. A stem that has flowered should be cut back to within two or three eyes of its length; from each of these eyes will come a stiff, long stem tipped by a large rose. The writer's experience indicates that bushes set out last fall and this spring should not have their blossom stems cut back so far.

Late winter is also time to fertilize roses, though the work can also be done earlier. The question of what fertilizer to use arises. The joint authors, authorities in their field, of a useful little book entitled "How to Grow Roses" wax eloquent upon the subject:

Oration on Fertilizer

"Roses like cow manure . . . Rich, black, unctuous cow manure which has lain two years or more stewing in its own juice in a good, old-fashioned, unsanitary barnyard is their ideal repast. But cow manure of all ages is acceptable to them, and it may even be used fresh in the bottom of the rose bed below the immediate reach of the roots. . . . It pays to go to some trouble to secure cow manure in any form. Some enthusiastic rosarians have started dairies for that very purpose. But the small rosarian will have to rely upon what he can buy, beg, borrow or steal. A scouting trip in the family flivver by day and a raid by night upon sundry pasture fields, may provide much precious loot. The need for manure transcends ethics."

Here in Texas all most of us have to do in order to secure the precious substance is to say, "Yes, I'll take it," to one of a dozen haulers who come around between November and March. Manure may be spread on the ground as top dressing about two inches deep. Some growers whose soil is already sufficiently porous succeed well with inorganic commercial fertilizers. Others find bone meal, which is rich in phosphorous, and sheep manure good. A trowelful of bone meal and another of sheep manure worked in twice a year around each bush is about the right quantity. Some gardeners attribute their fine blooms to a liberal use of wood ashes, which contain potash, lime and a small quantity of phosphorus. It is said that a liberal use of wood ashes in the soil tends to prevent mildew of plants. Ashes are especially good to use in a soil that does not contain enough lime for roses. Where there is already much lime in the soil, ashes should be used with discretion. No fertilizer should touch the stem. Both ashes and bone meal should be applied on a still day to keep them from blowing.

Liquid manure, made by pouring water on manure and allowing time for diffusion is a good stimulant during the blooming season. After the buds appear, a gallon, the color of weak tea, may be poured around each bush every 10 days.

Cultivation of Bushes

Bushes having yellow foliage may need more water or better drainage or copperas. In a strongly lime soil the chances are that they need copperas, or sulphate of iron. This compound is almost a "sine qua non" to gardening in such a soil. An application once a year is sufficient.

As the season advances, cultivation and watering claim attention. In late winter the soil should be turned to a depth of five or six inches and left rough for the admission of air and water. The soil should be shallowly cultivated about once in 10 days throughout the season unless a mulch is used. The proper time is as soon after a rain or a watering as condition of soil will permit. By this means moisture is conserved and air admitted to the roots.

The labors of watering and cultivation may be lightened during the summer by a mulch. Grass clippings are good for this purpose. Peat moss, though not yet well known in Texas, has been found beneficial. Ground tobacco stems scattered thinly, make a good mulch, destroy larvae and contribute a little plant food. It is sold in bales, as is peat moss.

Almost any time now the ground should be drenched with a strong solution of bordeaux mixture or sprinkled with dusting sulphur to kill black-spot pores living over the winter in the soil. Burning old leaves and pruned stems will assist in checking the dread disease. Of course some fortunate gardens are without black spot.

For finest fall roses, bushes should be kept nearly dormant during midsummer.

So much attention is given to the culture of roses not because they are difficult to grow, for they are not, but because extra attention is repaid by superior blooms.

Funds for Duncan Postoffice to Be Voted This Week

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Feb. 4.—Duncan citizens have been assured by United States Senator Elmer Thomas and Congressman Jed Johnson that an appropriation of $125,000 for a federal building here will be included in the deficiency appropriation bill to be introduced in congress this week.

The appropriation item was approved by the bureau of the budget this week and will be included in the omnibus bill for buildings outside the District of Columbia, Representative Johnson said. Young Husband Takes Four Lives

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 4. (INS)—Four lives were snuffed out here today when a youthful husband, apparently driven insane over marital difficulties, ran amuck in an apartment house, killing his wife, a small daughter and his brother-in-law before fatally wounding himself.

Mrs. Helen Clark, 24, her 3-year-old daughter, Gloria, and her brother Jack Anthony, 27, were dead when authorities reached the scene of the shooting.

The husband, Laverne Clark, 25, died a few hours later at a local hospital.

W. E. George, past post commander, was in charge of services with the Rev. W. D. Bratton, chaplain, assisting. A firing squad composed of J. F. Friberg, V. V. Music, Ellis McCain, R. C. Man, R. W. Thompson, Jesse T. Ryle, J. R. Julison and H. A. Carter fired the salute volley. Leo Underwood, bugler, played "Taps." Other legionnaires to participate in the services were Sergeant A. J. Warren and J. H. Simmons, color bearers; W. J. Kellog and Thurston Harvick, color guards, and Victor Nobles, Dr. L. I. Lucey, Joe G. Steele, A. A. Vermillion, V. N. Armstrong and Milton J. Surviving, in additio nto the parents, are the widow; a daughter, Erma Lou; three sisters, Mrs. A. J. Broyles of Tulsa, Mrs. H. E. Pope of Bartlesville, Okla., and Miss Bernice Whiteside of Muskogee, and a brother, Joe Whiteside of Altus, Okla.

At the Theaters

By ELEANOR FLEMING

STRAND: "The Bat Whispers" with Chester Morris. Sound news and short subjects. Midnight preview of "Cimarron" at 11 p. m. Thursday.

MAJESTIC: Jack Oakie in "The Gang Buster." Screen song, comedy and sound news.

STATE: "The Painted Desert" with William Boyd and Helen Twelvetrees. Short subjects and sound news.

GEM: The Four Marx brothers in "Animal Crackers." Comedy.

For peace and quietude, see "the wonder picture of the west," for so is described "The Painted Desert" which opens at the State Thursday. It sounds like something tranquil.

For something not quite so peaceful—something with machine gun accompaniment and typical Jack Oakie humor—see "The Gang Buster" at the Majestic, which opened Wednesday. The old Oakie confidence and naivete makes it one of his funniest, and the gangster background is at least different.

And if your heart stands that and there is no difference in blood pressure, it will be safe to take in "The Bat Whispers" at the Strand. It is less difficult to pick out the Bat than it was to find the Cat in "The Cat Creeps," but it is plenty horrible.

A midnight preview of "Cimarron" Thursday night will usher in what is probably the greatest talkie yet made. Wichita Falls is one of the 300 cities in the United States offering it on the national release date, and it will be here for a week's run.

Greathouse Artists Entertain Optimists

Members of the Optimist club in their weekly meeting at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon enjoyed an art program presented by the Greathouse conservatory.

Readings by Mrs. Harry Fuller, piano solos by Miss Thelma Adams, and a vocal number by Miss Dorothy Greathouse comprised the program, which was arranged and directed by J. W. Pyland.

Referring to a prediction voiced here last week by a speaker before a convention of osteopaths, Solon R. Featherston urged members of the Optimist club to vote down the flu epidemic which the convention speaker had declared is near at hand. A unanimous vote of those present dissipated immediately the impending wave of flu.

"It won't be long now." Friday, Feb. 13.—Adv.

Lions Club Plans 'Tacky Party' at Camp Noble

Experiences and observations gleaned from a trip through Europe last summer were recounted to members of the Lions club Wednesday noon at the Kemp hotel by Fred L. Haskett.

Old time dancing and a barbecue dinner will feature the next meeting of the club, it was announced, which will take the form of a tacky party at Camp Noble next Wednesday evening, Feb. 11.

Miss Dorothy Greathouse, soprano, accompanied by Miss Thelma Adams, sang three solos.

Rotary Public Speaking Class Completes Course

A class in public speaking, recruited from the membership of the Rotary club, has completed its course, it was announced Wednesday by E. M. Avery, director. The class numbered 24 persons, and Mr. Avery has three other classes now taking instruction. A new course will be started next Tuesday. The meetings are held at the Memorial auditorium and instruction ranges through platform technique and delivery, preparation, parliamentary law, table technique and similar subjects.
