

Sparks Out As Deputy

Lamb County Sheriff Dick Dyer said Wednesday he has relieved Deputy Dave Sparks of Olton of his duties.

Dyer declined to go into reasons, but he did say he based his decision on what he believes to be "facts, not rumors."

Deputy Sparks, contacted Wednesday night, told the Enterprise: "I just got tired of lies that were being circulated against me and I resigned."

"Some people here don't want the law enforced," Sparks charged. "A lot of other officers have had trouble here before me and I think that any man who comes here and enforces the law is going to be criticized by those who don't want it enforced."

Sparks made it clear that he wasn't branding the whole community, "only a few." He added that he had met "some of the nicest people I've ever known here."

The officer, who came here seven months ago, said he had taken a job with the City of Hereford police department beginning Thursday.

Rumors popped up here in recent weeks that a petition had been circulated asking that Sparks be dismissed.

One Olton man told the Enterprise he had seen the petition presented by a Latin American woman.

Others said they had never seen such a petition.

"I can tell you this much," said Sheriff Dyer, "I didn't let him go because of a petition."

"I've heard of the petition, but it has not been presented to me, and I have not actually seen it."

The sheriff said he will employ a deputy to serve Olton as soon as possible.

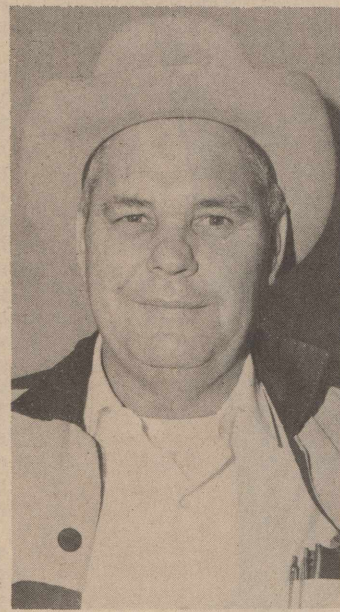

He said the county office and its deputies will serve Olton as needed until a new man can be employed.

Dyer said he had received complaints from Olton frequently, but that he discounted some of them because he felt they had no basis.

"But I do want the people of Olton to know that we will give their community the same consideration we give every other town in the county," he said.

"Our job is to protect the people," he said. "I would appreciate people working with me, not against me."

DAVE SPARKS

BASEBALL HEADS NAMED

New officers for the Little League Association were elected at a meeting here Monday night with Earl McClain named new president.

Another meeting is set Monday, Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of Plainview Production Credit Assn. building.

All baseball fans are urged to attend to hear estimates on lighting and finishing the new ball park in northwest Olton.

Others elected at the Monday night meet included Elmo Bryant, vice-president; Velma Kemp, secretary; Gene Trotter, treasurer; Bill Kelley, purchasing agent; and Bob Mills, Bill Wilson and Dale Chitwood, player agents.

Rain, Cool Weather Stall Grain Harvest

It was a long, hot summer --and dry, too. But with the approach of autumn, all that changed. The past week has been cool, cloudy and wet in the Olton area.

The moisture a week ago pretty well brought the area grain harvest to a standstill, and the continued wet weather through the week pretty well kept it that way.

Still, a couple of days of sunshine and the harvest should start moving at a rapid pace, according to Glenn Singleterry, manager of Olton Grain Co-op.

Basically the moisture merely delayed the harvest, doing no extended damage.

Olton elevators had received more than 5,000,000 pounds of grain before the moisture brought receipts to a sudden --though temporary--halt.

The outlook for the total area crop is good, though the total yield should be down as much as one-third from last year's total yield. The reasons for the drop in total yield appear to be two--an acreage yield down as much as 20 per cent in some areas and decreased acreage in grain.

Some of the area grain acreage has been planted in corn this year. And while the grain acreage is down, the corn acreage in the area is reported to be almost double what it was last year.

As far as recent rains are concerned, the hardest hit area in the Olton vicinity appeared to be about three miles north of town and to the west of the Hart highway. Rainfall in this area went up over three inches in some places.

There was some hail in some of the rain storms that moved through the area during the week, but for the most part there was no great damage from the hail.

The moisture helped wheat in the area, but slowed cotton harvest--which is just barely beginning in the area.

Though rainfall in some areas was quite heavy, some areas were almost missed.

Records kept by James Gallagher show that Olton proper received less than a half an inch of falling moisture during the week, but some farms just northwest of town got more than three inches.

The rain was rather scattered around the town, though. The J. S. Nicholas farm nine miles southeast got very little rain, it was reported. But the Sam Kendall farm five miles south and one mile east of town caught .90 inch of precipitation.

Elmer McGill said his farm three miles south and just over two miles west of town caught over two inches, but the farm near the golf course caught very little moisture. The main difficulty encountered as the result of the wet weather seemed to be a delay in harvesting the corn.

Five miles west and one mile north, the M. E. Haddad farm got only .20 inch of rain. But it was reported that it was enough to help grass and growing crops. The milo on the Haddad farm is still maturing, so it won't be affected much by the rain.

The Wilton Bodkin farm five miles north and one mile west of town got less than an inch of moisture during the week. But three miles north and a mile west of the Bodkin farm, H. R. Curtis reported that he got 1 1/2 inches of rain. Bodkin said the rain helped his wheat, but added that it didn't help the beans or cotton pulling any great extent.

The G. L. Peterson farm 1 1/2 miles north east of town received about three-quarters inch of precipitation. The report was that it helped the wheat and did some good. Crops in the area were reported looking fine in the middle of the week.

Four miles east of town the Ott Patterson place caught 1 1/4 inches of rain.

While the weather was turning wet, it was also turning cool. The temperature in the Olton area dropped to a low of 52 Saturday, and Sunday's high was only 65. Though it felt like the first freeze of winter was on its way during some of the area football games last Friday, the temperature never did drop low enough to have any major agricultural effect in the immediate area.

And though the weather was generally cloudy during the week, the clouds dissipated Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and let the sun shine through. The main effect of the sun on the wet area was to create a sticky uncomfortable atmosphere around Olton.

The weather forecast, however, called for the clouds to begin to scatter in the latter part of the week and for temperatures to begin to climb toward normal for the season.

Thieves Haul Off Gearhead

Olton area farmer Ershel Johnson doesn't particularly need his irrigation well these days, and it's a good thing. He couldn't make it work anyway.

Not without the 90-horse gearhead and drive shaft which was stolen from the well last week.

The missing parts, worth about $675 were taken during the night from a well on his place five miles east and two and three-quarters north of Olton.

Johnson notified Hale County officers of the theft and called the Enterprise to say he is offering a $300 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thieves.

Whoever pulled the job certainly had to have the right equipment, Johnson theorized. "That stuff is heavy and whoever did it had to use a hoist," he said.

Olton Tries Mules On New Field Here

New Stands Seat 2,400

The Olton Mustangs will tangle with last year's district champion Muleshoe Mules Friday at 8 p.m. in the first home game of the new season and in the first game ever to be played at the new Memorial Stadium.

Olton will be trying to recover the season's first loss--to Class AAA Tulia--as well as take a victory in the first home game on the new field.

The new stadium is located directly west of the old one. Several improvements have been enlarged, reserved seating has been increased, a new lighting system has been installed, the ticket office has been moved, a new press box has been built, and restrooms have been added at the new bus garage.

The new stadium will seat approximately 2400 fans, according to the school business office.

Elmer Moore, school business manager, said the new lighting system would provide more light on the playing field than was available in classrooms in the high school until new classroom lighting was installed in the building.

Weighing almost 20,000 pounds, the ticket office posed something of a moving problem for school officials. The lowest estimate on construction of a new ticket office was about $2,000.00; so the decision was made to move the existing 10x12 foot brick structure to the new stadium site.

Unable to find a professional mover willing to do the job, Moore rounded up local volunteers and equipment.

Olton fans will sit on the west side of the new field--a change from the arrangement at the old field.

The new facilities will get their first use in a big way this Friday. Last year's district champion Muleshoe defeated the Mustangs 21-13 in a contest for the district title.

Though the Mustangs theoretically are stronger this year than they were last, they will find that Muleshoe is no weaker than the team which defeated them last year.

The big gun for the Mules in last year's Mustang-Mule game was fullback Danny Smith. The 200-pounder is back this year, and he appears to be just as dangerous as ever.

Against Olton last year, Smith struck for two TD's--one of them an 85-yard gallop through the Olton squad--and gained 170 yards in 18 carries. Against Dimmitt in the season opener this year, Smith struck for two TD's on runs of 56 and 65 yards--and picked up 237 yards rushing.

That the Mules are still potent is aptly evidenced by the 407 yards total offensive gains in their season opener. That the Mules can be defeated is aptly evidenced by the 6-0 loss they suffered from Morton last week (Olton beat Morton 21-6 in the season opener).

But as a member of the Mustang coaching staff pointed out, the Muleshoe loss to Morton was an upset--and upsets don't rule a team from contention this early in the season.

The Mules have moved up to Class AAA this year; so the Ponies won't have to worry about them in district competition. But a Mustang loss would spoil their debut on the new field.

Preceding the game Friday--as on every Friday during the season--there will be a pep rally in the gym.

The probable starting lineup for the Mules includes Smith at fullback, John Thompson at quarterback, Joe Adams and Scott Oliver at the two half-back positions. The line should include Gary Edwards, 200 pounds, center; Stanley Black and Sandy Culbert, guards; Ron Swint and Bill Harbin, tackles; and Billy Darnell and Charles Elrod as ends.

Bryan plans to start the game with the same line used in the two past games. Backfield starters will be Priest, Costello, Richard Hall and Dale DeBerry.

O LET ME GO--Getting the lights put up on the new football field was no easy chore, but then unhooking the crane that lifted the large poles upright was no small job either. Southwestern Public Service serviceman Johnny Schenck got the honor of climbing the pole to disengage the line from the crane.

Neinast Winner Of Grid Contest

Three contestants battled it out for the top prize in the Enterprise football contest last week, with William Neinast coming out on top.

Neinast missed five games of the 19 in the contest and won out over Rev. J. W. Douglass, formerly of Olton and now of Fort Worth, and Dale Chitwood.

Neinast was 20 points off on the tie-breaker, while Rev. Douglass was 26 away and Chitwood was 27 off.

The Enterprise will mail the checks of $10 to Neinast, $6 to Rev. Douglass and $4 to Chitwood.

Besides the three top guessers who missed five games, nine other missed only six.

They were Danny Sides, Glen Exter, Gerald Nixon, Deryl Machen, Michael Trotter, A. A. Smith, Jerry McKay, Clyde Galloway, and Jerry LaFrance.

A new contest is under way and contestants have until Friday at 4 p.m. to enter.

It's easy to participate. All you do is pick up a copy of the Sept. 10 Enterprise, fill out the contest form and turn it in to one of the sponsoring merchants before the Friday afternoon deadline.

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK

"You load 16 tons and what a job?"

In this case, a re-located ticket office at the football field and some pretty tired men.

Although the ticket office weighed closer to 10 tons, according to Elmer Moore, school business manager, it was a job repeatedly declined by professional movers.

Bo Patten decided to tackle the task, however, and along with school, city and county workers moved the office to the other side of the new field Monday night.

"I would say it is a pretty good accomplishment when you get school, city and county working together to move anything," Moore dryly commented Tuesday.

You're Short Of Coins? So Is Everybody Else!

Where are the 6,930,000 pennies, nickels, dimes and other coins that should be in general circulation in Lamb County?

Large quantities of them have disappeared from sight. According to the Treasury Department, they have been swallowed up by coin collectors, coin speculators and others.

Because of the shortage, banks are getting only a fraction of their normal supply and vending machines are less active.

How much of a supply of coins should there be in Lamb County?

On a quota basis from the standpoint of population, there should be approximately 300 coins in circulation for every local resident.

There should be 193 pennies, 41 nickels, 37 dimes, 20 quarters and 6 half-dollars.

The number of silver dollars is limited.

These coins should be, at any given moment, in the purses and pockets of the citizenry, in vending machines, in cash registers, in local banks and the like.

For each person in Lamb County, there should be $16.69 in coins and, for the local population as a whole, a total of $386,000.

Far less than that is around, however. Much of it has gone into hiding, as it has in most parts of the country.

"Commercial hoarding" is the answer, the Treasury Department states. One form of it occurs when businessmen hold onto coins rather than returning them to banks for fear of not getting sufficient new supplies when they need them.

Then there are the coin brokers, who secure coins from vending machine companies and other sources and sell them at a premium because of the shortage.

In some areas of the country they are selling bags of dimes and 50-cent pieces at markups of 20 per cent or more, it is reported.

Other speculators are buying up coins and keeping them off the market in the hope of selling them later at a substantial profit.

The government has a crash program under way to relieve the shortage. The mints are working 24 hours a day. Even so, it will be well into next year before it can be ended.

Turkey Shoot Planned Here

A turkey shoot, sponsored by the Women's Golf Association is scheduled here Oct. 3 and 4.

The shoot will be in progress all day Saturday and during the afternoon Sunday on the Olton Co-op Grain yard. Ammunition will be furnished.

DIDN'T IT RAIN--Some areas northwest of Olton got more than three inches of rain during a shower this past week. And it goes without saying that three inches of rain means eight inches of mud in the roads and three feet of water beside them. This temporarily abandoned car illustrates the muddy, watery truth that rain does sometimes fall in West Texas after all.

The Way The Ball Bounces...

When a man built the first football, he made it round in the middle and tapered off toward each end. That peculiar design made it bounce funny then, and it has ever since.

Maybe that man wanted to add a certain air of mystery to the whole thing, so people wouldn't know in advance what to expect from it.

The game in which the odd-shaped ball is used has a whole lot of the same characteristics about it. If you don't know which way the ball will bounce, you surely don't know which way the ball will turn out.

We mention this since this is the start of football season. Olton found it bounced against them last week. This week both Olton and Muleshoe folks will have their eyes on the pignskin.

The local team deserves our wholehearted support at each game and all during the week. Good community backing can make a good team better and a great team greater.

Fans have a way of expecting more perfection from high school boys and coaches than they ever demonstrate themselves. And when they do, they take the fun out of the game.

There's no doubt about it—our local boys will be doing the best they can every game. We expect Olton to have a fair country football team this year, but as long as the games are played with an oblong ball, it will bounce crazily occasionally and won't go the way you expect it.

Neither will all the games. Remember that during the 1964 season.

Big Spending For Home Improvements

Residents of Lamb County spend tidy sums each year to keep their homes in good condition.

In the past year alone, they have invested approximately $1,405,000 in alterations, additions and repairs to their property.

That is an estimate based on a sampling of dwellings in the local area and in other parts of the United States. Such surveys are conducted each year by the Government.

The finding is that the average expenditure for such purposes in Lamb County's general region came of $217 per household unit.

That was an average figure. In individual cases, it varied widely from that amount, both up and down. The explanation is that a certain proportion of homeowners will undertake major improvements one year and then do nothing extensive for several years thereafter.

Details on how much is spent on residential upkeep and improvement come from reports issued by the Department of Commerce, from the National Association of Home Builders and from other agencies. They show that the outlay in this direction, for the nation as a whole, is close to $14 billion a year.

The new data has become available in time for National Home Week, which will be observed from Sept. 20 to 27.

How as the $1,405,000 outlay for upkeep and improvements spent in Lamb County? A breakdown, based on the national figures, indicates that some 41 percent of it went for alterations and additions to homes.

Painting accounted for another 17 percent; plumbing, 8 percent; roofing, 6 percent; and central heating and air conditioning, 5 percent.

Miscellaneous costs for repairs, replacements and extensions made up the balance. County merchants selling lumber, hardware, and other supplies, as well as service workers in the various building trades, got the bulk of this money.

It is found that more money is spent on homes that are occupied by tenants.

In Lamb County, the proportion of owner-occupied homes is large. The latest official figures released by the Census Bureau place home ownership locally at 56.9 percent.

Ice Capades Opening

The all-new 1965 edition of Ice Capades opens its local engagement with a 3 p.m. Sunday Matinee, Sept. 27 at the Panhandle South Plains Fair Coliseum. The limited six-day run will close with the 5:30 p.m. performance Friday, Oct. 2.

Six rich production numbers grace the ice stage. "Masquerade," featuring the music of Aram Katchaturian, opens the show; there's a delightful "Kidie Circus," and a "Salute to Cole Porter," spotlighting many of his great hit songs. The "Annapolettes" honor the U. S. Naval Academy; "Viva Italia" presents a joyful Italian festival and the musical talents of Vincent Youmans afford a "Hallelujah" finale, combining twin-surprises in state setting and effects.

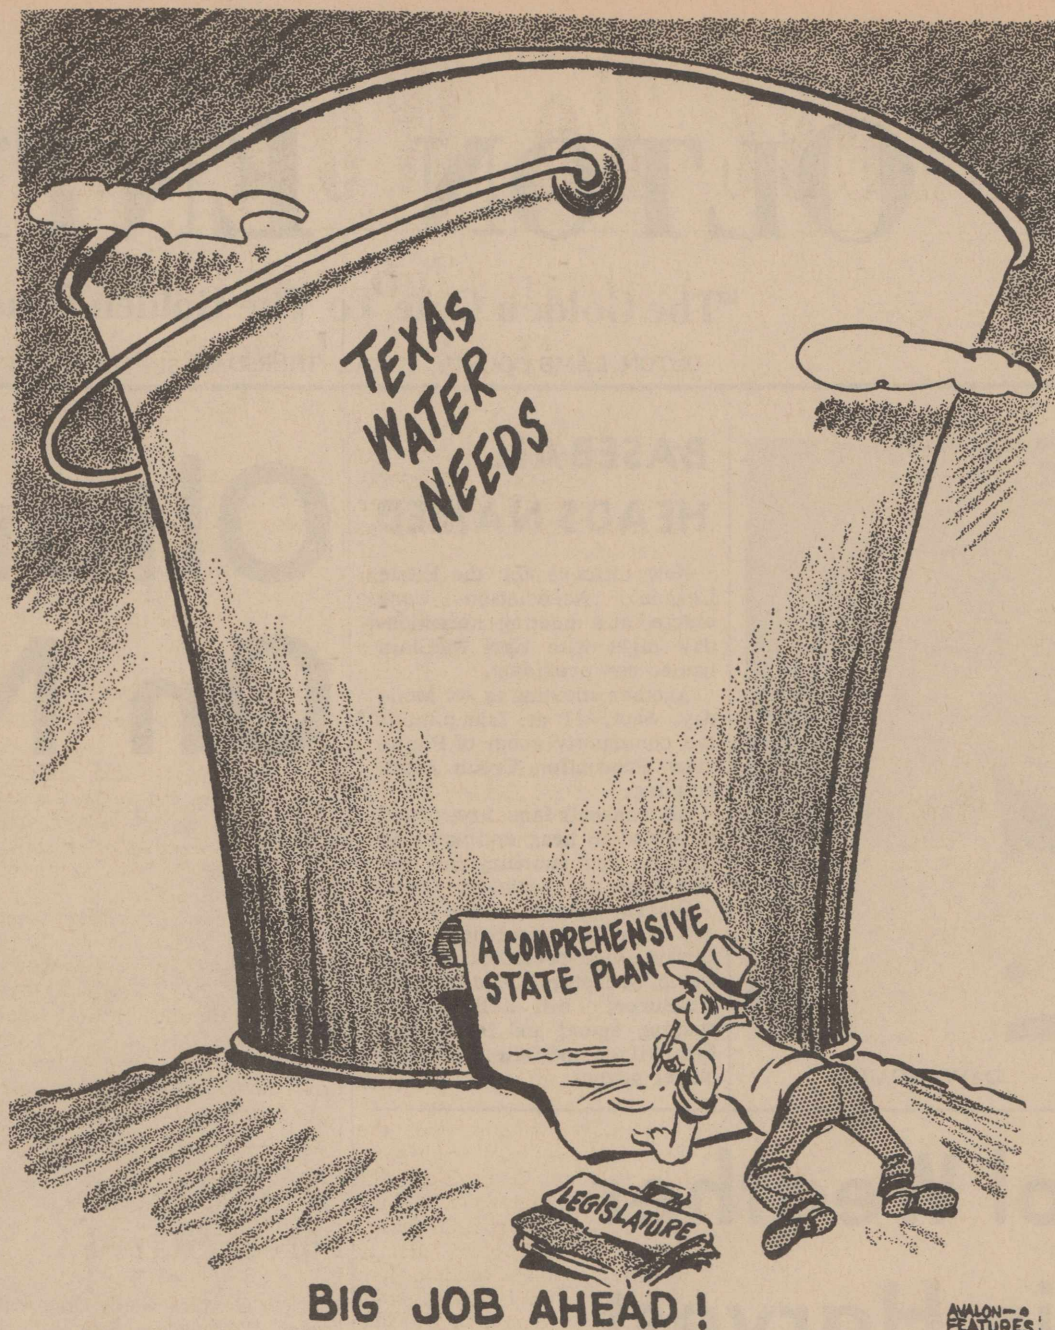

Headlining the productions, as well as the many specialty acts, are such superb skaters as Barbara Roles, 1962 U. S. Champion; the Canadian team of Revell and Desjardins; the exciting adagio team of Jeanne and Dick Maxfield; flashing Richard Garrett; plus Doug Austin and Tia and Martin; ice-comedians Belliveau and Mueller, Freddie Trenkler, Jan Tors and Terry Head; international skating stars Gisela and Ann Margret Frei from Sweden, Oslo's Per Larsen, and from Garmisch, Germany, lovely Gabriele.

The opulent costumes are the creations of Billy Livingston and Celine Faur; numbers are choreographed by Ron Fletcher. The fine musical score, arranged by James Peterson, is conducted by Hal Saunders. James Trittipio, designer for Hollywood's Academy Awards presentation, is responsible for the unique sets.

Showtime is 3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 27 and Monday, Sept. 28. Evening performances, Monday through Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and a late Friday matinee at 5:30 p.m. Oct. 2.

Tickets are $2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50. Children are half-price at every performance. Tickets can be purchased at the Pioneer Hotel.

RUNNING WATER PHILOSOPHER

Why Go To The Moon?

Editor's note: The Running Water Draw Philosopher on his careless weed farm on Running Water Draw Philosopher on his money-saving idea in his letter this week.

Dear editor: People are always talking about how the government ought to get its mind off a stack of bills due the next day and this idea hit me. I know how the government can save around a billion dollars, which I admit is a piddling sum but after all every little bit counts.

As I understand it, it'll cost at least a billion dollars to put a man on the moon, but there's a place in the state of Oregon called Bend which scientists claim is almost a duplicate of the surface of the moon, lava dusts, pot holes, extreme heat in the day time and cold at night. In fact, its wastelands resemble the moon's surface that they're going to put an astronaut in a space suit and let him wander around that area to see how he makes out. Scientists say it's the closest thing to the moon's surface the earth has.

Here's a place where the country can save a billion dollars. Instead of sending some astronauts to the moon, send them to Oregon. It's cheaper, it's safer, it can be done by jeep on home ground, and there's no re-entry problem. Just keep them out of bathtubs and they'll be all right.

I know that some people are going to say you shouldn't throw cold water on space exploration and that's not what I'm doing.

Sure, space ought to be explored but judging from those pictures the moon rocket sent back, it sure seems like going a long way out of the way just to walk around in lava dust, when we've got some just as good right here in our own country.

Now that I have saved the country a billion dollars, the next question is what to do with it or better still, where is it?

Faithfully yours,
J. A.

Ask Amy
BY AMY ADAMS

A TRUE CONFESSION

Dear Amy:

Would you please publish this letter? It is written in regard to my parents, me, and a lot of kids.

I have the most wonderful parents in the world and I love them. When I was little, I used to think they didn't love me when they got mad at me. Now I know they did love me and were trying to help me do the right thing instead of the wrong. Already they have helped me through a lot of rough spots, even though I am only 13 years old. Most kids, at one time or another, talk about how "they never let me do anything!" We should all stop and think before we repeat that well-worn phrase. They do let us do things! Not everything of course, but not because they are mean. It's because they are trying to show us what is right and what is wrong.

We have a home and a family. We love them and they love us. But too often we won't admit it. We refuse to admit, even though we know it is true, that, without our parents, we wouldn't even be here in the first place. We wouldn't be nearly as happy or have nearly what we do.

Well, I have admitted it in this letter and I think a lot of boys and girls should admit it, too. I wish all kids had a family as wonderful as mine... a family that can talk over problems, share ideas, opinions and love instead of acting like distant friends like a lot of families I know.

Part of a Family
Kathy Dale
(Warrenton, Oregon)

Dear Kathy:

I was flabbergasted and delighted to receive your unusual letter and even happier to print it. You are a sweet, considerate young lady with common sense way beyond your young years. Your parents have good reason to be very proud. Good luck and happiness always!

Dear Amy:

I would like to know what is right? My son's wife is not well and lives with me. I help take care of her. Her sister (an instigator who is disliked by my daughter-in-law) comes over at 6:30 am and stays till 11 pm. She drinks coffee all day and I have to serve her meals. Not once does she help out, but instead, causes trouble between me, my son, and his wife. The doctors say that my daughter-in-law needs rest but she can't get it when her sister is around. What can I do?

A Pal

Dear Pal:

You are a pal! Everyone should have a mother-in-law like you. Tell this visitor her visits must be kept short, sweet, and silent. If she doesn't comply, and your daughter-in-law is too ill to show her the door, do so yourself.

Dear Amy:

An argument has developed between my future in-laws and myself. I am having a big wedding and my family is paying for everything except the flowers and the drinks (whiskey, beer and pop) because we have always held that the groom or his family should pay for that.

I find that many people agree with the thoughts of my family on this matter, but my fiancée's mother is giving him a hard time by saying he is a sucker if he does pay for this part of the wedding. He, in turn, not wanting to argue any further with me (after all he is going to spend the rest of his life with me) is willing to supply the flowers and drinks.

Amy, at this point I am only interested in doing what is right. Please help!

Mixed Up

Dear Mixed Up:

What you have always held is wrong. The bride's family assumes the entire cost of the wedding reception or dinner, whichever it may be, including the beverages. The only flowers the groom is responsible for are those for his bride, his mother, boutonnières for himself, his father, the best man and the ushers—the bride's family supplying all other flowers where needed.

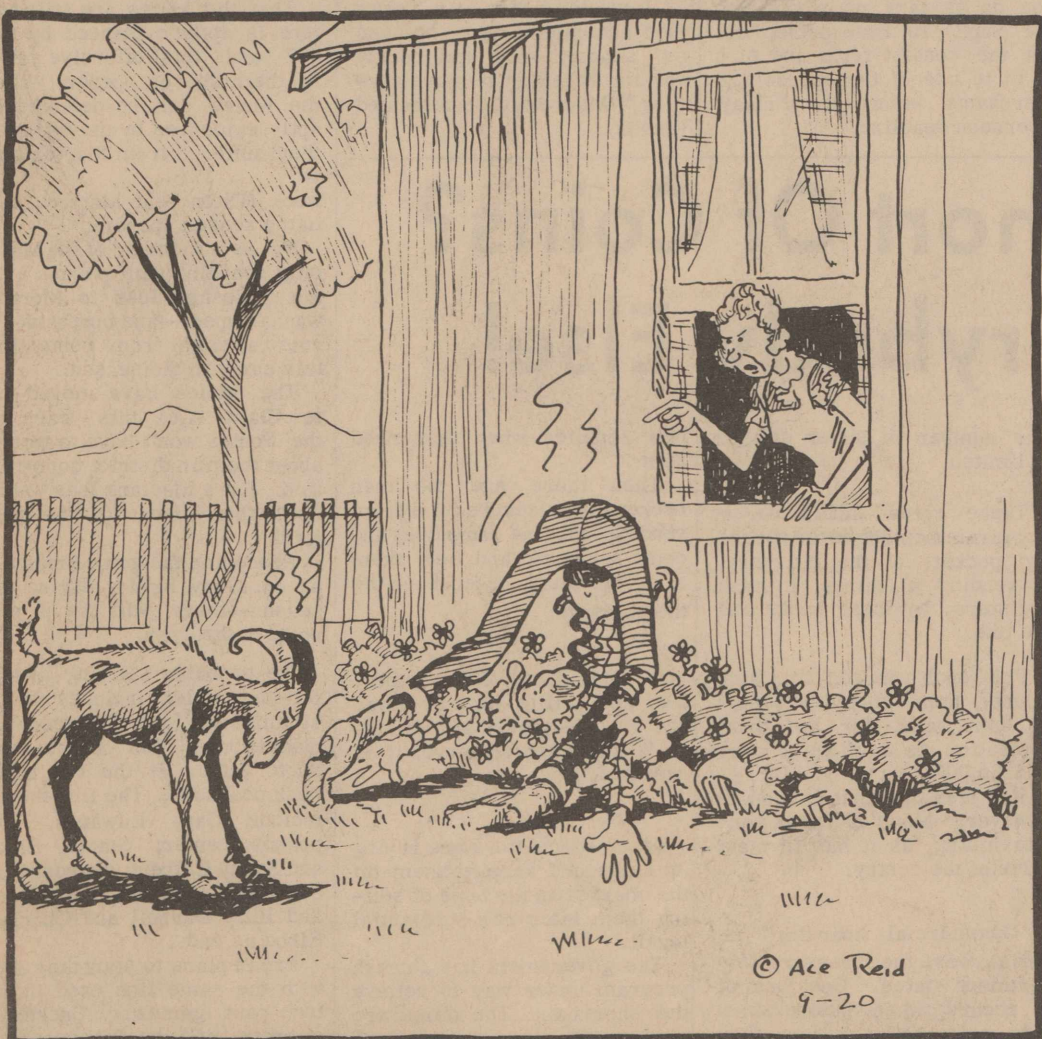

PERSONAL to What Am I?:

You are perfectly normal! There IS something awry with your partner. It could be mental, physical or extra-curricular. Find out quickly and start with the last symptom first.

MR. AND MRS. CARLOS GUTIERREZ

Alcorta, Gutierrez Vows Are Exchanged August 29

Wedding vows were read for Miss Martha Alcorta and Carlos Gutierrez Saturday Aug. 29 at 3 p.m. in the Mexican Baptist Mission with the Rev. Glenn Godsey of Plainview officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Alcorta of Olton and Mr. and Mrs. Victorino Gutierrez of Sweetwater.

Nuptial music was provided by Harold Dean Carson with Daniel Rey as soloist.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length dress of candlelight satin, enhanced with a scalloped neckline and petal point full-length sleeves. A crown of pearls held her bridal veil of silk illusion bordered with Italian lace. Her bridal bouquet of feathered carnations and stephanitis was mounted on her white Bible which she carried.

The altar was centered with an archway flanked with baskets of white and blue carnations. White tapered candles were placed behind each basket of flowers.

Miss Sarah Alcorta attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Angelite Rey, Miss San Juana Costillo and Miss Francis Hernandez.

The bride's attendants wore identical dresses of chiffon and taffeta with white accessories. The maid-of-honor's dress was white with the other attendants dresses in blue.

The groom's brother, Ector Gutierrez, served as best man. Groomsmen were Sammy Alcorta, Joe Costillo, and Daniel Rey.

Flower girl was Alice Alcorta with Lupe Hernandez and Louis Rey as candlelighters.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the Mission.

The table decorations were blue and white, colors which were also carried out in the four-tiered wedding cake.

The bride chose for her wedding trip a green cotton ensemble.

Mrs. Gutierrez attended Olton schools and is a graduate of Merkel High School. She also attended Hardin Simmons University in Abilene.

The groom attended school in Sweetwater and is now in the armed forces. He is now stationed in Anchorage, Alaska, where they will make their home.

Independence Ironstone

..By Castleton

Truly a reflection of America's heritage, INDEPENDENCE restores the spirit of 1776 with bold character. Octagonal in shape, INDEPENDENCE boasts fluted shoulders, dramatic handles, and a whiter-than-white body. The original patterns and sparkling white not only retain the purity of early Americana, but blend into every style and interior of Modern America.

And exactly what is Ironstone? To its manufacturer, it is a hard, dense, ovenproof dinnerware with one of the whitest of all ceramic bodies. There's no iron in Ironstone--the name was created by Miles Mason in the 1700's and points up Ironstone's great strength. Dishwasher-proof Ironstone retains the durability of its earlier form with the added advantages of lighter weight, more delicate detail, and whiter body. It is a fitting addition to the collector's shelf as well as a lastingly beautiful ware for today's homes.

Oltonite's Son Is In Germany

Army Specialist Four Jodie D. Pool, 19, son of Mrs. Zula F. Davis, Olton, Tex., and other members of the 35th Quartermaster Battalion are participating in two months of testing and evaluating the Goer, a new transportation vehicle, at Ludwigsburg, Germany, beginning Aug. 17.

The Goer, an amphibious cargo vehicle, based on the principles of high-speed construction equipment, can traverse the roughest terrain and climb steep ridges in any weather.

Specialist Pool, an orderly room clerk in the battalion's Company A, entered the Army in February 1962 and arrived overseas the following July.

Tough Tulia Team Tops Mustangs By Two TD's

A sharp Tulia team led by a pile-driving fullback punched for two touchdowns and stifled Olton's offense at Tulia Friday night for a 14-0 victory over the Ponies.

The Hornets, now a Class AAA power, used a 15-play drive of 54 yards in the first quarter to get out front 8-0.

They tacked on another 54-yard drive in the fourth period, this one in 10 plays, for their other score.

Hard-driving James Miller, a 190-pound Negro fullback, was the key man in both drives, gaining 41 yards in the first effort and picking up 33 in the other.

In all, the stocky Tulia back chugged for 137 yards in 30 carries, scored the points-after on the first touchdown, and got the second TD himself.

Meanwhile, the Mustangs were never able to get their offense going. Fumbles and key Tulia defensive plays broke the back of every Olton attempt to get a scoring march going.

The Ponies picked up 133 gross yards on the ground, but they lost 86 of that, mostly from Tulia's line downing Quarterback Joe Priest behind

Future Mustangs Tasting Battle

Going into this week's games the Olton Mustang "B" team is keeping pace with the varsity gridgers--both standing at 500 on their percentage totals.

But the "B" team does have one credit denied the varsity crew--they're undefeated--but they haven't won a game yet.

The "B" team season opener resulted in a 12-12 tie with Farwell Sept. 10.

Aaron Robertson picked up the first six points for the "B" team on a 53-yard gallop up the middle of the field, and Jimmy Huckabee added the remaining six points on a quarter-back sneak.

The "B" team travels to Friona this Thursday for a chance to raise or lower their percentage total for the season. Kickoff is at 6 p.m.

While the "B" team is stuck with a 1/2-1/2 season record, the 8th grade boys are tooling along with 1-1. The 8th grade game with Farwell preceded the "B" team's contest, and the 8th graders walked from the field with a 30-14 win and a temporary 1,000 total in the percentage column.

Both 8th and 7th grade gridgers traveled to Muleshoe this past Tuesday for games. The reception there left something to be desired as both Olton teams were thoroughly defeated. The 8th graders came away on the short end of an 18-0 score, and the 7th graders were downed 26-0.

Thursday the "B" team travels to Friona for their second game of the season.

September 22 the 7th and 8th grade teams will tackle their counterparts from Estacado here. The 7th grade game is slated to get underway at 5:30 p.m., with 8th grade action an hour later.

September 24 the "B" team and freshman gridgers travel to Floydada to do battle. The season opener for the freshman is set for 6 p.m., and "B" team action is scheduled for 7 p.m.

the line when he attempted to pass.

Priest had one of the hardest nights of his career. He connected on two of eight passes, but most of the time he was busy trying to dodge Tulia tacklers when his pass protection broke down.

Olton's plus 47 yards rushing came on 30 yards in six carries by Joe Costello, 23 in seven by Richard Hall and 28 in four by Dale DeBerry. Priest wound up with a minus 34.

The Mustangs' best advance was to the Tulia 29 early in the second quarter, but the Hornets broke that up when Priest back to pass on third down, was dropped for a 14-yard loss.

Tulia began its first scoring drive the first time the Hornets got the ball.

The 54-yard march consumed most of the first period as the Tulia team used 15 plays, all on the ground.

Fullback Miller got eight on the first Tulia play, then QB Mike Northcutt got the first down at Olton's 44.

Key play in the next series was a nine-yard pickup by Halfback Jeff Tucker.

Things got tougher for the Hornets when they reached the Olton 24. The Mustang's Leon Kendall nailed Northcutt for an eight-yard loss to nullify an eight yard pickup by Miller. Richard Hall showed up well defensively for the Ponies as he stopped the third down play.

But on fourth down at the Olton 27, with Tulia needing five, the Hornets again called on Miller and he responded with another eight yard gain.

The Hornet got the benefit of a five-yard penalty against Olton to move to the 15.

From there the Tulia team made it to paydirt in six plays, despite some fierce defensive play by Kendall, Hall, Jerry LaFrance and Dennis Givens.

Northcutt got the touchdown on a fourth-and-one situation, taking the ball from center and diving into the line. Miller ran the points to make it 8-0 with 2:24 left in the first quarter.

The Mustangs came right back with their best offensive move of the night.

Hall raced 12 yards for Olton's initial first down, getting to the Mustang 29.

Then Priest passed to End Charles Church for a 26-yard gain, putting the Mustangs in business at the Tulia 47.

On third down after that, Hall raced to the right and pitched to End Darrell Glover for 17 yards to the Tulia 29.

Costello was stopped for no gain on first down and Priest's second down pass intended for Church went incomplete.

On third down, Tulia's Ken Cansler, a 175-pound tackle, dropped the Olton passer for a 14-yard loss and Olton's best threat had been killed.

Tulia moved the ball back to the Olton 46, but there had to be a punt. The kick sliced off the side of the punter's foot and bounded only seven yards to the Olton 39.

But Olton's good fortune turned to bad when, on first down, Priest fumbled after picking up seven yards. Tulia recovered, with guard Donald Denison landing on the ball.

Five plays later Tulia fumbled right back, when Miller was creamed by Glover at the Olton 32.

The Mustangs began to move again, with Costello getting five, Hall four and a five-yard penalty giving the Ponies a first down at the Olton 46.

But there Tulia again came up with the key defensive play. Again it was Cansler who blitzed in on Priest, back to pass, and got the Mustang passer for a 15 yard loss.

After the Mustangs punted, La France put the Hornets deep in their own territory when he solved a Tulia hand-off and nailed Halfback Tucker at the Tulia 22. Key defensive plays by Hall and tackle Don Mitchell kept the Tulia offense quelled until the half.

Opening the second half, Tulia took over at its own 37 after the kick-off.

On first down, Miller got loose around the left side and dashed the distance for an apparent Hornet touchdown. But the play was called back for offside.

After that, the Hornets couldn't gain, thanks to some fine defensive play from Hall and LaFrance.

Olton took over at the Mustang 26 after Tulia punted, and the Ponies were forced to punt.

On Tulia's next series, the Mustangs put a stop to that when Priest intercepted Northcutt's pass at the Olton 31.

Then again it appeared the Mustang's, behind 8-0, might start something.

A five yard penalty against Tulia and then a 12-yard run by Priest got the Ponies a first down at the Olton 48.

DeBerry shook loose for 11 yards and the Ponies had another first down at the Tulia 41.

But again the Mustangs were stopped, this time on a fumbled snapback. Tulia's Jack Brooks recovered at the Hornet 38.

Tulia marched to the Olton 28 and fumbled right back to the Ponies, with Mitchell recovering at the Olton 35.

The Mustangs got off two plays before the fourth period started, with Hall getting three yards and Costello four.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, however, that old bugaboo, the fumble, again ruined Olton's chances. The trouble again was a fumbled snapback, this time on a third and three situation.

The Ponies recovered, but again were forced to punt. Tulia ran it back to the Hornet 46 and there began the second touchdown drive of the night.

One big play came when Miller picked up 12 to Olton's 30 another came when Northcutt raced 12 more to Olton's 10. From there Miller took the ball three straight times, crashing in from the five for the touchdown.

The Mustang line rose up to stop the burly fullback on the extra points try and it was 14-0, Tulia, with 6:25 left in the game.

After the kick-off, the Mustangs were stopped, but they got a break when Priest's punt was fumbled and Glover recovered for Olton at the Olton 46.

But Tulia again rose to the occasion and got Priest for a 10-yard loss when he attempted to pass.

The Mustang quarterback got that back, however, on third down when he slipped away from the Tulia forwards and churned for 11 yards.

A 15-yard penalty against Tulia got the Ponies another first down, this time at the Tulia 43.

Two passes went incomplete and a running play lost three, so the Mustangs faced long yardage on fourth down.

Once again Tulia broke through to nail Priest for a loss back to the Olton 40.

The Ponies stopped the last Tulia offensive move, with Mitchell, Hall and Don Sopher coming up with some fine defensive play.

Olton took over at its 20 with a minute and a half remaining. DeBerry ran for seven and Priest passed to Glover for 17 for a first down at the 44.

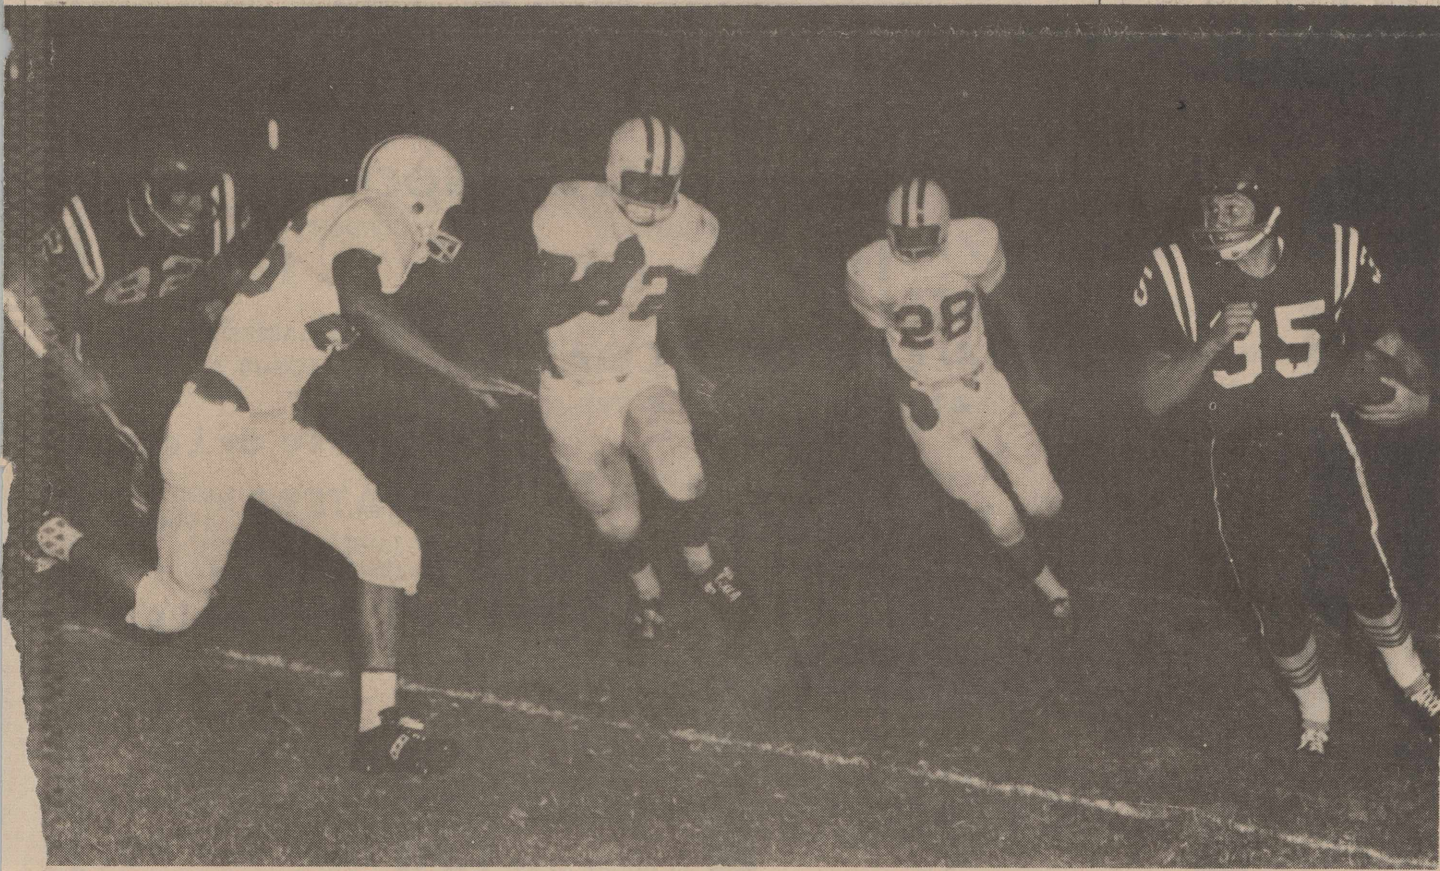

Priest was dropped for a seven-yard loss, but then Costello raced for 15 yards to the Tulia 48. On the final play of the game, the Tulia line again broke through to get the Olton signal caller for an eight-yard loss.

THE TURBINE ROOM--at Southwestern Public Service Company's Plant X, in Lamb County near Earth, now houses four giant electric generators, with a capability of 487,500 kilowatts. The turbo-generator in the foreground, with a capability of 210,000 kilowatts, is the largest single generating unit now in service on the electric company's system. The length of the turbine room floor is 522 feet, nearly the length of two football fields.

Plant X Open House Set This Saturday And Sunday

Southwestern Public Service Company's Plant X, largest of the electric company's 11 generating stations, will be the scene of an open house, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 19 and 20. Plant X is located in Lamb County, four miles south of Earth on Farm Road 1055.

Visiting hours at the $43,000,000 plant will be from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. each day, and area residents are invited to tour the ultra-modern facility during those hours. Refreshments will be served to visitors during those hours. The largest single generating unit in service on Southwestern Public Service Company's system, a 210,000 kilowatt machine, has just been put in service at Plant X. The fourth unit at the plant increases the capability of the station to 487,500 kilowatts.

The turbine room at Plant X which houses the four generating units is more than 522 feet long. Plant operators on the early morning shifts insist that the plant is now so large that the sun rises on the east side of the building five minutes earlier than it does on the west. Plant X features a number of installations of electronic equipment which are used to make possible the most efficient and economical generation of electric power.

The plant has a central information system which provides the control room with 400 different readings from various equipment every two minutes. This information is constantly studied in order that the most efficient results can be obtained at all times.

An automatic load dispatching system is also used, which takes into account both the cost of transporting it to the point of ultimate use, in order that, once again, maximum economy can be obtained.

Three times the distinction of housing what was then the largest single generating unit on Southwestern Public Service Plant X.

The original unit at the station, which went into service in 1952, was the first 50,000 kilowatt generator that the electric company installed. However, while it was still in the construction stage itself, work began on a 100,000 kilowatt unit which has just gone into service makes the third "largest unit" distinction for Plant X.

Perhaps no statistic more significantly records the growth and progress of an area than the increase in the generating capability of the electric company serving a region. Certainly, only as the area it serves grows, can an electric company grow.

Plant X and Southwestern Public Service Company's 10 other major generating stations provide dramatic evidence of the growth of the 45,000 square mile area that the electric company serves. Plant X, itself, has a generating capability that is more than four times greater than the entire company had when it took its present form in 1942, while the system capability has increased more than 11 times.

Plant X was designed and engineered and its construction supervised by Southwestern Public Service Company engineers and its construction supervised by Southwestern Public Service Company engineering personnel, under the direction of E. W. Robinson of Amarillo, the company's chief engineer, generating station design.

Holly Dedication, Open House Set

Dedication and public tours of the first beet sugar refinery in Texas, the Holly Sugar Corporation facility in Hereford, have been set for the week-end of Sept. 19-20, it has been announced by Holly President Dennis O'Rourke.

Highlight of the week-end will be the principal dedicatory address by Texas Governor John Connally at public ceremonies scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 19, at the refinery.

Immediately following the dedication program, conducted tours of the plant will start and continue through Saturday afternoon and again on Sunday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Actual sugar-making operations at Hereford are not scheduled to begin until harvest of the region's promising sugar beet crop begins on Oct. 1, but the public will get a view of the tremendous array of specialized machinery and equipment necessary in the processing of sugar beets and production of finished sugar.

Ladies planning to tour the big new Holly Sugar Corporation refinery here are urged to be prepared with low-heel of flat-sole shoes for their trip through the plant.

"There are some open gratings and metal stairways on the tour route," plant officials announced, "and ladies will be much more comfortable in walking shoes than in high heels."

In addition to Governor Connally, many national, state and local officials and dignitaries, including several members of Congress, have indicated they will attend the dedication.

Opening of the plant complex will mark the culmination of several years of planning and effort to bring this new agricultural-industrial enterprise to Texas. The big plant has been named the Merrill E. Shoup Plant in honor of the late chairman of the board of Holly Sugar Corporation.

JOIN THE BATTLE OF THE BOLL WEEVIL!

We urge every person, directly or indirectly connected with the cotton industry, to help wage war on the boll weevil. Widespread infestation of the area would produce an economic disaster that is frightening . . . yes, FRIGHTENING! The economic base of our High Plains area could be eaten away by the boll weevil.

- THE ENEMY — BOLL WEEVILS . . . Invading the High Plains . . . If they succeed will cost about $30.00 per acre, every year, for control. . . . Millions more in lost yields and quality, plus reduced value of investments.
- BATTLE PLAN — ATTACK AND KILL WEEVILS IN FALL, before they hibernate (Diapause Control) . . . Spray every acre of infested cotton . . .
- WAR CHEST — 50c A BALE FROM PRODUCERS, collected 100% at every compress . . . Supplemented by matching Federal funds.
PRODUCER'S CHOICE: 50c now or $50.00 later. For complete information, see your County Agent, ASC office, Vocational Agriculture teacher, or contact Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

BATS ALIVE!!!—It's hard to say who was the more shocked, Mrs. D. B. Adair when she went out to pick grapes or the small silver bat she discovered catching a bat nap in the cool shade of the grape arbor. The situation finally resolved itself when the bat, disturbed by all the commotion he was causing, left for a more peaceful place to sleep.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

The Boll Weevil Battle

As of this writing (Sept. 11) we are only a couple of days away from seeing the first spray plane take the air in the High Plains boll weevil control program. The first plane will be the forerunner of 12 others on hand to spray some 200,000 acres of area cotton from three to four times between now and frost with technical malathion—a chemical deadly to the boll weevil and offering practically no danger to people, pets or livestock.

The beginning of the actual spray program will bring a great easement to the minds of the hundreds and hundreds of High Plains residents who have toiled so long and so faithfully to lay the plans and gather up the loose ends that, when tied together, would make the program possible. The entire Plains Cotton Growers staff has been so caught up in the feverish activity necessary to thwart a terrible fate for the Plains that it is possible we have failed in our duty to give full credit to the many, many individuals and groups that have given so unstintingly of their time for the program. If so, such failure has been entirely unintentional.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service, through its county agents, has certainly done yeoman service in helping tell the general public what the program was all about and why it is so vital to our cotton industry. District Agent W. O. (Bud) Jones, did a fine job of coordinating the county agents work until his retirement Aug. 31, and was vigorously succeeded by Billy C. Gunter.

Teachers of vocational agriculture, often working hand in glove with Young Farmer Organizations, have also been a great help in carrying the boll weevil story to the people.

Without a full understanding on the part of the public concerning such phases of the program as the 50 cent compress deduction; the safety of the chemical to be used; the seriousness of the weevil problem to farmer and businessman alike, and the necessity for obtaining spray permits from farmers in the control zone—without this—that first plane might never have left the ground. Walter LaBay as area supervisor of vocational agriculture teachers, has earned our profound respect.

And speaking of the 50 cent compress deduction, the High Plains compress industry, by agreeing to accept this unpleasant but vital chore, has earned the appreciation of all on the Plains who have a stake in cotton's future—and who on the Plains hasn't such a stake.

The job of actually getting signatures of farmers in the seven-county control zone—some 3,500 of them—was assigned to the Texas Department of Agriculture and responsibly carried through under the direction of Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White, his assistant Charlie Chapman, Fred Roy of the Lubbock office, and others.

The very base on which the whole program is founded begins with the research work carried out by Texas A&M and the South Plains Research and Extension Center. Charles Fisher, superintendent, and W. L. Owen, entomologist at the Center, along with their associates, are the names that stand out here. From A&M the Plains is indebted to Dr. J. C. Gaines, head of that school's entomology department, Dr. Perry L. Adkisson of the same department, and Dr. R. E. Patterson, A&M's dean of agriculture.

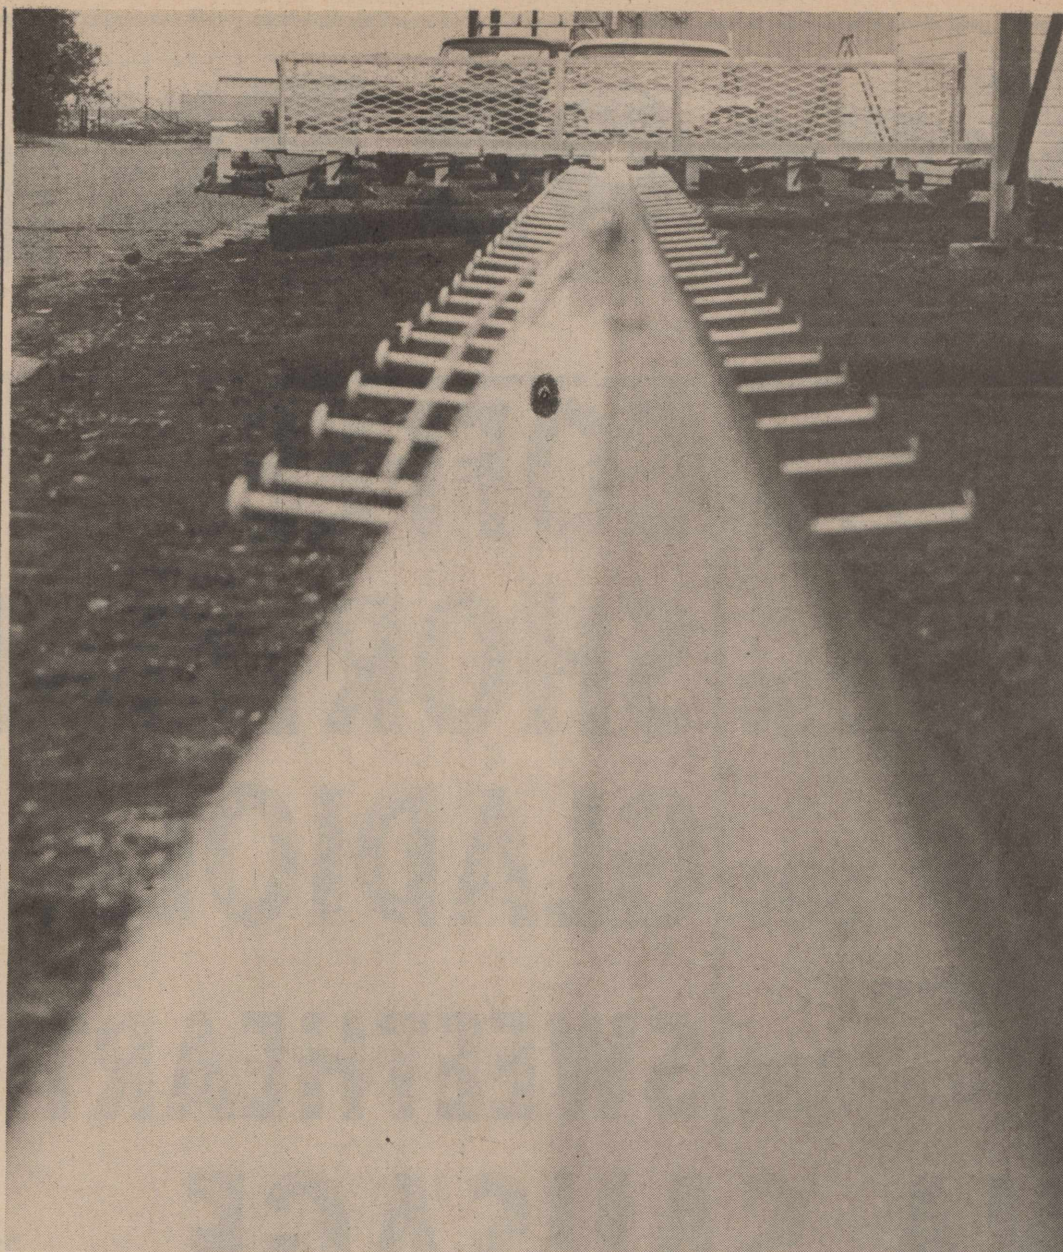

Helping to determine what research was needed and lending other valuable advice to the program has been Dr. James Brazel of Mississippi State College who is the virtual "father" of the diapause method on which the program depends for success; Dr. Johnny Johnston, entomologist for the National Cotton Council; Dr. Ellis Huddleston, assistant professor of Entomology at Texas Tech, and Dr. Gerald Thomas, dean of agriculture at that school; Joe Ramsey, president of Texas Aerial Applicators and many others who served on Plains Cotton Growers technical advisory committee.

The plant pest control division of USDA, headed by Dr. E. D. Burgess has lent invaluable aid in support of our request for Federal matching funds and in addition has assumed the actual operation of the program. In that division of USDA and deeply involved in the details of the program are D. M. McEachern, state supervisor; D. H. Russell, Lubbock supervisor, and Dr. Sloan E. Jones, director of cotton insects research branch at Beltsville, Maryland. Besides these advisory and supervisory personnel, plant pest control has assigned some 30 men to this area for putting on the program.

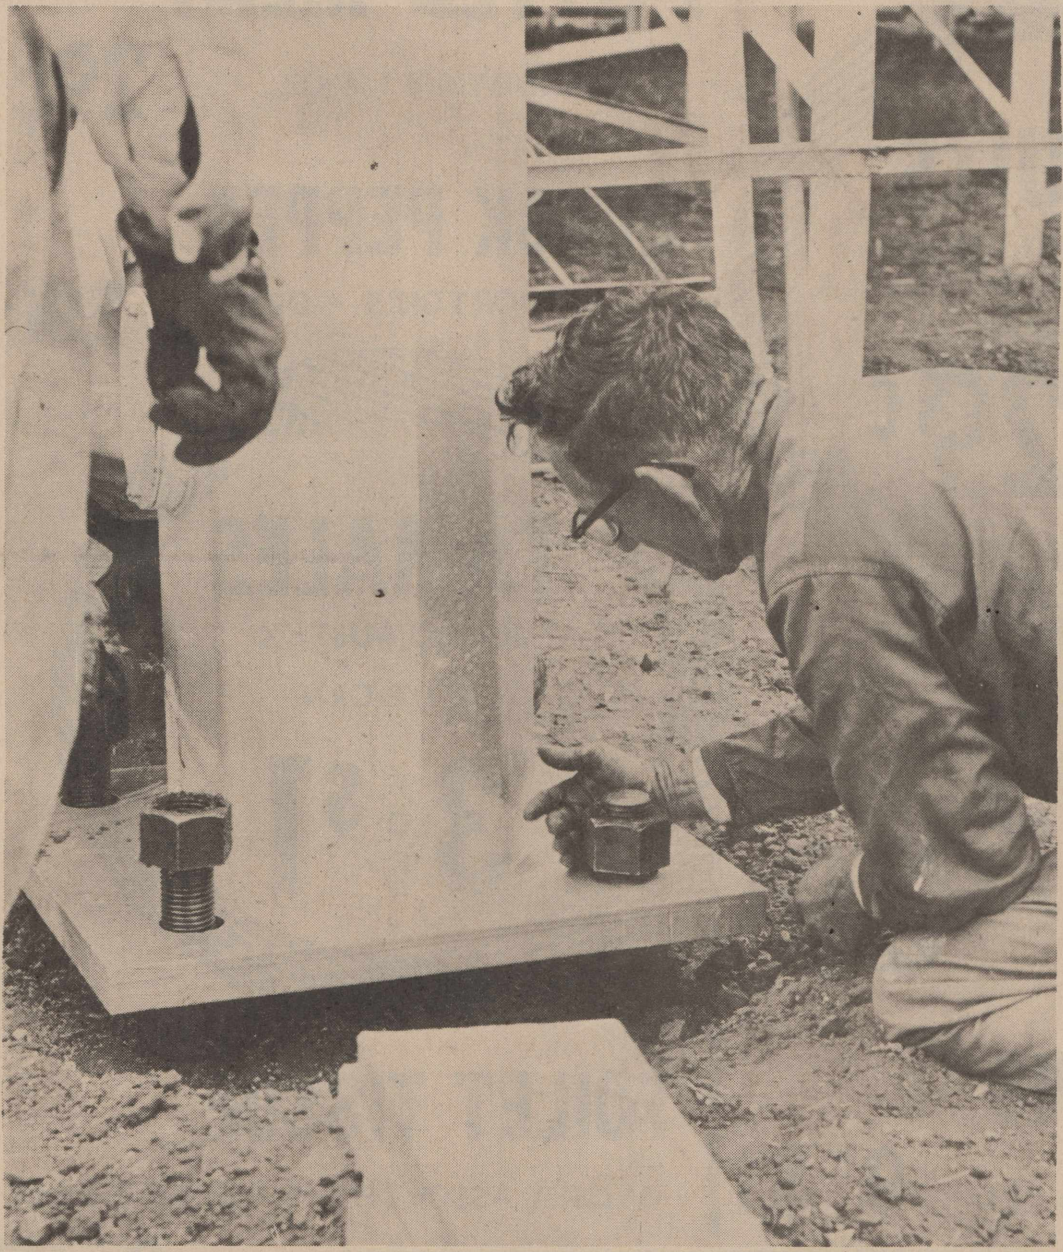

Ralph E. Griffiths, superintendent of the Farmers Home Administration has had a hand in pushing the program forward; Gordon Treadaway, Lubbock attorney has lent valuable legal assistance; Byron W. Frierson, farm manager for the Texas Prison System made his experiment with diapause control available; officers, directors and personnel of area ginners associations, oil mills, compresses, chambers of commerce, even women's clubs, all have made their contribution to the cause and all are greatly appreciated.

Then there are the various Plains Cotton Growers committees—steering, advisory, county, and community committees all serving without pay or even expense money—that have done such a marvelous job of making crucial decisions, removing obstacles to the program and bolstering the program throughout.

You Get A Line, And I'll Get A Pole

LET THERE BE LIGHT—The long light pole pictured above was raised by a crane and maneuvered into place where it was bolted in place below. The four large nuts and bolts at the base provide the only attachment for the lights, and power lines for the lights are enclosed in the steel column of the pole.

Fair Plans Are Underway

South Plains Fair representatives visited Olton Schools this week delivering free tickets to the fair, to be held in Lubbock Sept. 28 through Oct. 3.

The free school tickets are good at the Fair Monday, Sept. 28, area school day. Lubbock school days will be Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 29-30. Olton schools will not be closed Monday, Sept. 28, according to school officials.

Main entertainment feature, Ice Capades of 1965, will feature half price admission every performance to all students under 13 years of age.

A new kiddieland, wide variety of ride exclusively for young children and their parents, has been arranged near the annually popular Children's barnyard. This area, strictly for youngsters, will not admit adults "unless accompanied by a child."
