MISS LIBERTY CAPTURED — Demonstrators protesting the presence of the former Shah of Iran in the United States, lowered a banner from the crown of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor Sunday, and chained themselves inside the statue. The banner, flipped over by the wind, says: "Shah must be tried and punished."

Khomeini supporters hold Americans hostage in Iran

By The Associated Press
Student supporters of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini occupied S.S. consulates in two Iranian cities today, held the American Embassy in Tehran and more than 50 hostages for the second day and demanded that their government break relations with the United States, Radio Tehran reported.

The official Iranian radio said followers of the religious leader of the Iranian revolution took over the consulates in Tabriz and Shiraz. There was no word on the fate of the consular staffs.

The State Department said no attempt had been made yet to take over the third U.S. consulate in the country, at Isfahan.

The students who invaded the Tehran embassy Sunday demanded earlier that the U.S. government hand over the exiled shah for trial. They expanded that today, Radio Tehran said, with demands that their government "end the USA's oppressive relations with Iran and end military, political and economic dependence by expelling American consultants and tearing up contracts with the USA."

The students termed the embassy "the great nest of U.S. espionage in Iran" and invited the son of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the religious leader of the Iranian revolution, "to inspect this center of conspiracy." Later Radio Tehran announced that Ahmad Khomeini arrived in the capital to go to the embassy.

A spokesman for the students said Sunday they would hold the embassy and the hostages until the United States evicted the former ruler, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, from the New York hospital where he is being treated for cancer and sent him back to Tehran.

The State Department said the Iranian government had given assurances it would do its best "to resolve the matter satisfactorily."

Economy turns up, not down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever happened to the 1979 recession?

Well, it didn't happen in 1979, at least not yet. Evidence continues to accumulate that the economy is turning up, not down, as the year draws to a close.

The index of economic indicators that came out last week was up by 0.8 percent, the biggest advance in 14 months. Factory orders for September, also reported last week, rose 3.9 percent, the most in a year.

The growth in the economy has frustrated efforts to curb inflation. Wholesale prices increased another 1 percent in October, the government said Thursday.

Unemployment rose slightly last month, to 6 percent, but was still lower than anyone would have predicted a few months ago. And employment increased by 305,000, a business survey showed.

The economy, in fact, is looking downright robust.

"It's the case of the missing recession. It's out there somewhere, but nobody can find it," says Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

"The economy is simply not behaving in response to economic weakness as it used to," Lyle E. Gramley, a council member, said in an interview Friday.

Gramley said one reason for continued growth is that consumers are spending much more in relation to their income than they used to, the result of "being motivated by inflationary expectations."

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, who declared in September that the nation was in a recession, and that it was half over, says the economy is giving off "false signals." But he has retracted his half-over statement.

Miller wasn't the only one who was fooled. A sizable 2.4 percent increase in the nation's gross national product in the third quarter caught nearly everyone off guard, including most private forecasters.

George Perry, an economist at the Brookings Institution who also thought a recession was underway, said the most surprising economic statistics were the September home-building figures, which showed housing starts at an annual rate of 1.9 million during the month.

"Everybody underestimated housing and how strong it would be even with the high interest rates of summer," he said in an interview.

Liquor election scheduled Tuesday

GARDEN CITY — Two ballots will be handed to voters in Precinct 3 of Glasscock County when they go to the polls Tuesday.

Those voters will decide the fate of a proposal to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages for off-premise consumption in addition to voting on the three constitutional amendments.

A move to legalize the sale of liquor was defeated in the precinct in August by a margin of 34-25. A petition calling for the legalization was circulated by Peggy Coleman who operates Coleman's Cafe on US 87 on the precinct's outer perimeter.

Marguerite Phillips will serve as election judge. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Light vote likely Tuesday

Where to vote in Howard County

An amendment legislating a farm loan program, being put to a vote Tuesday, should be of special interest to many Howard County voters. However, county and state vote totals are expected to be light.

The Texas Legislative Council staff gave arguments for and against the program in a guide to the amendments election.

They said, on the pro side, young men and women are deterred from entering farming and ranching by the high cost of land and a 20 percent down payment. The loan would help them get land.

Risks to the state are small because of eligibility safeguards for private lenders. Increased land values would enable the state to resell at a profit in case of a default.

A similar program in Minnesota has proven successful.

On the other hand, the program would cause more state interference in the free market system. Opponents claim the program would involve an unreasonable assumption of risk without tangible benefit to the state as a whole.

The amendment would authorize $10 million to guarantee loans made by private lenders to individuals for the purchase of farm land.

Two other amendments are also up for a vote.

Proposed Amendment 1 would authorize the state to register notaries rather than the county, as it is currently.

Proposed Amendment 2 would authorize the legislature to enact procedures for legislative review of state agency rule making. This authority would allow the legislature to suspend, repeal, or expire of existing rules.

A total of 21 absentee ballots have been cast in Howard County.

Local construction up from last year

Construction in Big Spring during October topped that for the same month last year by nearly $130,000.

Total costs for the month came to $502,250, compared to $372,595.50 for October of 1978. This brings the total for the year-to-date to $3,953,796.50, compared to $6,760,569.75 for the same period last year.

The construction of new offices for the Texas Employment Commission at 310 Owens put October's total over the top. Estimated cost of that project is $289,700.

Other projects estimated at just under $50,000 also helped boost the month's total. These included two new homes to be built by Signal Mountain Home Builders at 2607 and 2609 Central. Estimated costs for the homes are $49,000 and $45,000 respectively.

Another new residence, to be built by the Reeder Agency at 2512 Ann, has an estimated cost of $48,500.

October now ranks as the second highest month for construction of the year. September is tops with projects totaling $638,368.50.

Another body found after ship explosions

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Rescue ships found another body floating in the water this morning about four hours after a series of three explosions rocked through a crippled tanker in the Gulf of Mexico, causing a large fire.

The explosions rocked the burning tanker Burmah Agate, which collided with the freighter Mimosa last week near the entrance to the Galveston Ship Channel.

The body found this morning raised the number of confirmed dead to 11, including one spotted in a stateroom aboard the Mimosa. A medical examiner's ruling was pending on that body.

Still missing and presumed dead are 21 crewmen from the Burmah Agate.

The new explosions might have disrupted plans by a Dutch fire fighting team to douse the fire aboard the tanker.

"It certainly means that there was more damage done... we don't have a good idea of the extent of that damage," said Coast Guard Chief Richard Griggs. "There was a very large fire that resulted. It died down and the last report we have is that the fire is again localized to the damaged section at the center of the vessel."

Since the collision, the tanker has burned steadily. The Burmah Agate was carrying 400,000 barrels of crude oil, and some of that oil has steadily seeped into the Gulf since the collision.

An overnight wind shift caused problems for pollution fighters. The winds shifted in such a manner that floating oil could be forced onto Texas beaches.

Computer predictions indicated that if the wind-driven oil overcame tidal action, it could begin washing ashore south of Freeport today.

A 612-containment barrier has been placed in the water by a Gulf Coast strike team to skim the oil off the surface water, and buoys have been dropped to monitor the direction of the Gulf currents, Griggs said.

Griggs said two commercial fireboats were spraying water on the tanker at the time of the first explosion, but there were no reports of injuries. He said the three explosions occurred during a 40-minute span, starting around 2 a.m. CST.

Griggs said a Dutch firefighting team arrived in Galveston Saturday and had planned to spray foam on the burning tanker today. He said it was not known if the new explosions would alter that plan.

Meanwhile, plans were being made to tow the freighter Mimosa into port. The Mimosa was the other ship involved in the collision, and it also has sustained fire damage.

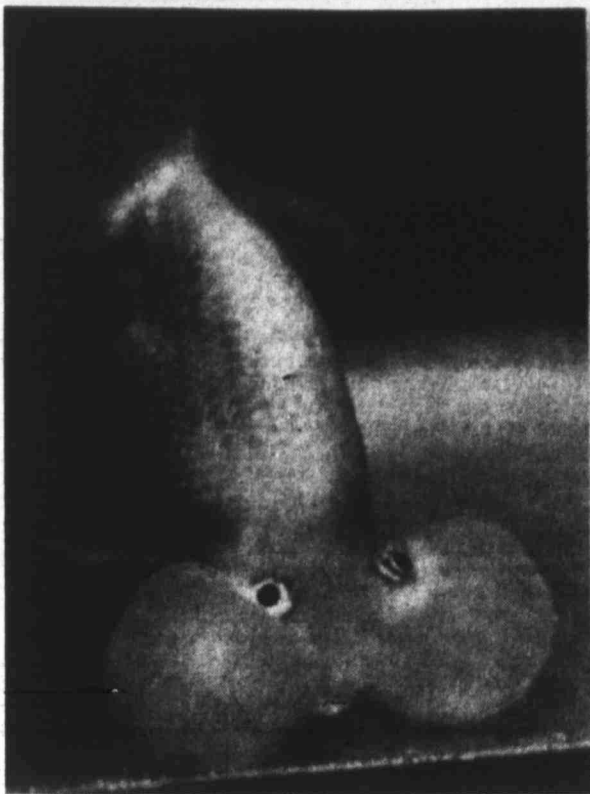

Both ships were of Liberian registry.

The Coast Guard had ceased active air and sea search operations for the crewmen aboard the Burmah Agate, saying there was little hope that any of them survived.

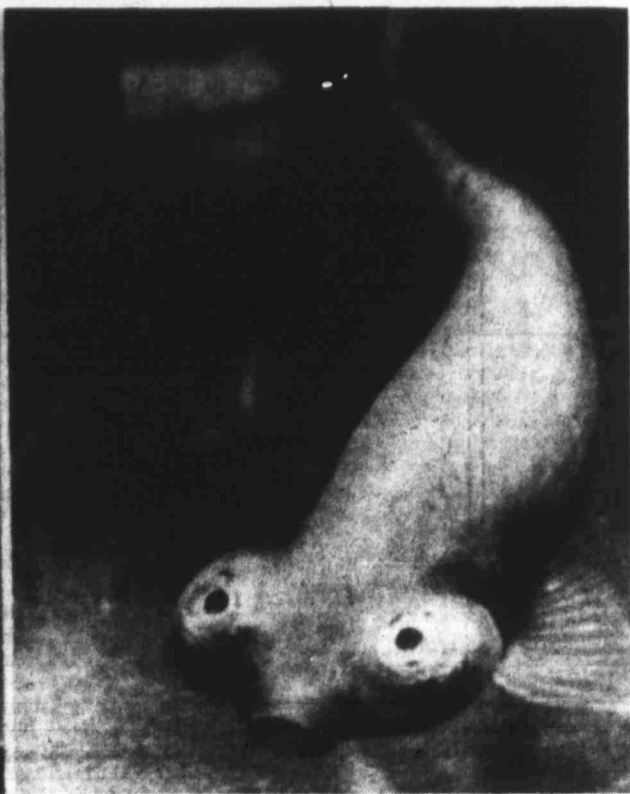

County Grand Jury in session

The Howard County Grand Jury reconvened today after a month of investigative work by District Attorney Rick Hamby. Hamby has been investigating a list of questions put to him by the Grand Jury Oct. 5 concerning Big Spring Police Department activities.

The grand jury reconvened at 9 a.m. Police Chief Stanley Bogard was to be one of the grand jury witnesses. Special Investigator for the District Attorney's Office Buster McCartney said he did not know when the grand jury hearing would end.

Davis retrial judge Gray to stay for end of arguments, deliberations

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Despite the fact that he is in "quite a bit" of pain, State District Judge Gordon Gray, says he will stay on the bench for final arguments and deliberations in the accident-plagued Cullen Davis murder solicitation trial.

Gray, who has presided over the 15-week long trial, fell off a horse and broke two ribs and a collarbone Sunday afternoon. He said he will wear a shoulder brace in the courtroom, but probably will take only aspirin to ease the pain of his injuries.

"If I feel in the morning like I do now, and I imagine I will, I'll be there," Gray said Sunday night. "I don't think I'll have to take pain killers. My doctor said aspirin should do it."

The jurist dismissed juror Kathryn Holman after only six weeks of testimony when she broke her leg. A short time later, a 26-year-old male juror slipped and broke his arm and has worn a cast throughout the trial.

The 11 remaining jurors are expected to begin deliberations on the case this week.

Gray allotted prosecutors and defense attorneys four hours each for final arguments today and Tuesday.

Prosecutors Jack Strickland and John

Bankston must convince all 11 jurors that Davis tried to hire the murder of his divorce judge and others on a "hit list" of 15.

The defense team, led by firebrand Houston attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, have only to convince one juror that Davis is innocent to hang the panel and, in effect, set their millionaire client free.

They convinced one-third of a Houston jury of their client's innocence at Davis' first trial on the charges. Four Houston jurors voted for acquittal and eight for conviction, hopelessly deadlocking the group and forcing Judge Pete Moore to declare a mistrial.

If this trial ends in a similar fashion, the Tarrant County District Attorney's office is likely to seek a third trial.

Since the Houston mistrial, Davis has been free on $30,000 bond. If convicted of either charge, conspiracy to commit murder or solicitation of murder, he could receive a sentence of five years to life in prison.

Although both sides streamlined their cases for the Fort Worth jury, testimony has often been complicated and tedious.

Prosecutors have attempted to prove Davis tried to hire the murder of his divorce judge, Joe Eidson, and 15 others on a purported "hit list."

Their case rests on the testimony of former Davis crony David McCrory, and secretly recorded tapes of meetings between the two pool-shooting buddies.

Davis, 46, however, contends he was framed by his ex-wife, Priscilla, McCrory and former Fort Worth karate instructor Pat Burleson.

Gray said he was not sure he would be able to continue in the trial if it still were in the midst of testimony.

"I'm not sure I could sit there that long," he said. "I'm not sure how long I can sit there now."

Korea's major opposition party meets to call for free elections

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea's major opposition party met today to call for democratic reforms and free elections as the government took a first step toward reconciliation with the foes of the late President Park Chung-hee.

Members of Park's Democratic Republican Party voted today, after reconvening the National Assembly, not to accept the resignations 69 opposition members submitted three weeks ago. There were indications the opposition legislators would return to the assembly to press for a return to democracy.

Leaders of the New Democratic Party, which topped Park's party in the popular vote in the 1978 election, met today to formulate a platform, and one member, Assemblyman Chung Dae-chul, told reporters:

"We don't have to stay out of the Assembly any longer since the political situation is completely changed by the death of President Park."

Park was assassinated by the head of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency on Oct. 26. The 66 New Democrats in the Assembly and three members from the Democratic Unification Party resigned Oct. 13 because Kim Young-sam, the leader of the New Democratic Party, was expelled from the assembly for criticizing Park.

Chung said the New Democrats "are in agreement that our strategy will be to amend the constitution before '90 days, through the Congress or by the acting president, then hold a national referendum. I'm sure we would win a new election without any serious difficulty."

Informed political sources said the government party wants the new president chosen in accordance with the present constitution which Park rewrote in 1972 to insure his continuance in office. It provides for the election by an electoral college which is now made up of Park supporters.

The Democratic Unification Party called on Acting President Choi Kyuhah to release former President Yun Po-sun and former presidential candidate Kim Dae-jung. Both were under house arrest for opposition to Park and for advocating democratic government.

Anti-smoking crusade having some success

Not even the cigarette industry will lay claims that smoking is good for your health. Instead, those public relations people assigned to promote the use of tobacco promote the idea that there's something sexy about being seen with a cigarette in one's hand and the habit, if adopted, is a time bomb that is a lot slower in detonating than a lot of other vices man (and woman) take up.

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION has, for a long time, been warning us that smoking constitutes a grave health hazard. The government forced tobacco companies not to advertise their products on television years ago, then ordered the industry to place certain labels cautioning smokers on their cigarette packs.

In spite of all that, or perhaps because of it, Americans still smoke millions on millions of cigarettes every year. The practice is abating, somewhat, though not as fast as it should.

A new study of life insurance customers has confirmed what physicians have been telling us all along — that the mortality rate of cigarette smokers is significantly higher than that of non-smokers.

The State Mutual Life Assurance Co., of America, a firm that pioneered discount insurance rates for non-smokers, says the differences are too large to be ignored.

The company followed up the U.S. Surgeon General's original report on smoking of 15 years ago by studying some 100,000 of its policy holders. It discovered that the death rate among smokers of all ages was more than twice as great as that of non-smokers and for certain causes such as respiratory cancer ran as much as 15 times higher.

The insurance company's revelation comes on the heels of a preliminary report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture that per-capita consumption of tobacco in 1979 will be the lowest since 1900. Last year's consumption was the lowest since 1933 (when Americans had great reasons for smoking, considering that they were struggling in the Great Depression).

THE USDA'S DATA covers all forms of tobacco use. As to cigarettes alone, consumption this year is expected to be the lowest since 1957.

This is highly encouraging, but the struggle to get Americans to quit smoking for their health's sake is far from over. Millions still prefer to continue the habit and take their chances on lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema and various other diseases linked to smoking.

Young people especially seem vulnerable to the urge for smoking. If it brings on disease and death with them, so be it. Anything beyond a year to them is a long way down the road and they can't be concerned with a problem that comes at the end of their lives.

It's going to take some selling job to convince them that smoking is not the thing to do with "hep" people.

Making money last

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

Here it is, a week since last payday and a week until my next one. And I still have money left. I don't have too many problems living on my salary, but paychecks aren't that high here, a fact I note when I try to borrow money and nobody in this building has any.

Budgeting money is an art and everyone has to do it, with the exception of maybe a Rockefeller. Unlike Eileen, who told you how to write a bad check and then get it covered before it bounces, I'm going to give you tips so you never have to get to that point, three days before payday. Forget everything you have read. This is how it is done.

Some of this advice I use myself, some I don't.

First of all, invest in a very, very large wardrobe. This cuts the cost of doing your laundry. Instead of doing it once a week, you'll be able to do it less often.

ALSO, WHEN DOING laundry, stuff the washing machines, especially at the laundromat. Those quarters add up. Forget the laundering directions on your clothes and just throw them all together. If my calculations are correct, if following that advice, you can save $34.25 at the laundromat and $51.76 with the water company annually.

It won't make laundromat owners or the water company happy, but wait until you see bank employees faces beaming when your checks don't bounce.

Everyone knows it is cheaper to use the library than to go out and buy books. But what you probably don't realize is how much you can spend on library fines. Especially if you're a big reader. Even though you will probably spend a little more using gas to get to the library more often, the savings in getting your books in on time is quite substantial, $78.09 annually. It's worth it.

FOOD PRICES GIVE me the biggest ulcer, so here are some tips to save at the market. Forget what you read on coupons, money back offers and going to the market with a full stomach. The key is not to take a shopping cart. Whatever you can stuff in your arms will do just fine.

There are variations to this theme. Some people carry whatever they can in two hands, while some people load groceries in their arms until they reach the nose. Either way, you still walk out with less than you would with a cart. Doing this will save $698.84 a year.

The telephone bill doesn't do a lot for an ulcer. That little box that measures nine inches long by five inches wide and four inches high at its highest point, can give you your biggest bill if you don't watch out.

If your bills tend to run high, stop making the calls and spend the same money in stock on the company. At least you'll get dividends in return. The company is doing well. Also, get some sucker to give you a dime for every time one of their commercials air.

Last but not least, and this one is very important, never, but never put money into the Herald candy machine. You'll never see the candy or the money, ever again.

Even after repeated notes on the machine, no one has received their lost money yet, even though the notes have been removed.

I wonder who is pocketing the money? Maybe whoever it is, is using the money to cover a late check.

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter's belated threat to punish the oil companies for turning the worldwide oil "crisis" into unconscionably high profits may once again turn out to be a case of too little, too late. The sad truth is that if the president wanted to be fair about it, he'd have to march himself out to the woodshed along with the oil moguls.

A wealth of information was available to Carter and his advisers that showed Big Oil's excuse for the gas lines and price jumps — a worldwide oil shortage caused by the cutoff of Iranian production — was in fact a phony.

We recently disclosed a CIA analysis that exposed the Iranian scapegoat as a myth. Other oil-producing nations more than made up for the Iranian shortfall, and U.S. imports actually rose over 1978.

Both the oil industry and the Carter administration knew this. Yet then-energy czar James Schlesinger steadfastly insisted that our imports were down 2 million barrels a day because of the Iranian situation, and that, according to the administration, was what was causing the gas crunch.

WE HAVE UNCOVERED other reports, some still suppressed, which shot down the Big Lie about Big Oil. The way the reports were handled has convinced those who knew what was in them that there was indeed a conspiracy by the oil companies to extract huge profits from the American public's belief in a shortage that was in fact a phantom.

One vital piece of evidence which debunked the myth of the shortage was a study prepared for Rep. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., by the Congressional Research Service's top international oil analyst, Dario Scuka, last February. Gore made some of the conclusions public in March, including a prediction that world oil production would be the same in the first nine months of 1979 as it had been a year earlier, despite the Iranian cutback.

Gore drew denials and ridicule from the oil moguls, the administration and the media. The Scuka predictions though, turned out to be right on the money.

Meanwhile, Scuka assembled 60 pages of backup data. Sources told our associate Dale Van Atta the report, if released in April when it was completed, would have been devastating to Carter's and Schlesinger's credibility. But it was buried. According to a source close to the problem, the CRS analyst "was raked over the coals by higher-ups, and they stonewalled Gore," who never did get the full report.

Another report belying the administration-Big Oil line was a Treasury Department report in April. It too concluded that Iran had nothing to do with any U.S. oil shortage, and pointed the finger at the oil industry for "pre-emptive hoarding."

The report was suppressed until we obtained a bootleg copy five months later. We have also learned about two other reports that would, if not relegated to the "deep six" file, have helped tie the can to the oil companies — and the administration.

THE OIL INDUSTRY WAS following its traditional policy of bombast and deceit last spring, brazenly denying any responsibility for the gas lines and skyrocketing prices. Now, exposed by their own profit reports, they are changing their tune. And Jimmy Carter, who has given only lip service to tough measures against Big Oil so far, has finally threatened to punish them.

As for the man who told the truth, Dario Scuka is also being punished. His bosses are threatening to transfer him out of his field of expertise — international petroleum — to a job where his honesty will be less embarrassing.

HELICOPTER HEROES: Two Coast Guard helicopter crews who dipped and hovered over the volcanic inferno of a grain elevator explosion near New Orleans to save trapped workers deserve a place in this column's special Hall of Heroes. But for their courage and skill, the death toll in the Continental Grain Co. explosion Dec. 22, 1977, would have been even worse than the 36 lives lost.

Lt. Cmdr. David Scott was on a routine patrol that frosty morning when he and his co-pilot, Lt. J.G. Phillip Fallis, and two enlisted crewmen Mike Whitcomb and Terry Thompson, were ordered to the disaster scene. They quickly transported injured men to the hospital and then were told of a worker trapped atop a silo.

Three times their chopper plunged into updrafts, flames and turbulence trying to reach Flowers Wilson 150 feet above the ground. On the third approach, a new explosion ripped the elevator and the desperate Wilson leaped down a grain chute to a nearby ramp, where the helicopter was able to save him.

New Brzezinski

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Zbigniew Brzezinski's quiet recruitment of a tough-minded Air Force general as top defense strategist for his National Security Council (NSC) staff, far from being a routine staff addition, signals growing influence and new self-confidence for President Carter's often beleaguered national security adviser.

The new aide is Air Force Maj. Gen. Jasper Welch Jr., considered one of the Pentagon's top experts in the eerie science of U.S.-Soviet military balance — a balance now clearly tipping toward outright Soviet superiority.

Brzezinski's decision to hire Welch was urged by Dr. James R. Schlesinger, the one-time Nixon-Ford defense secretary and until recently Jimmy Carter's energy secretary. It raises important — and as yet unanswered — questions: As Carter moves toward his final first-term year, does he now begin to share Brzezinski's forebodings about the worldwide threat of growing Soviet power? Or does Brzezinski's new confidence, symbolized by the recruitment of Welch, simply reflect a Carter political tactic to look hawkish to get his new arms treaty (SALT II) through the Senate?

ALTHOUGH THERE IS NO answer yet, the new staff role now being readied for Welch is certain to produce a much sharper focus within the NSC on overall strategic policy — a focus long desired by Brzezinski. It will also give the NSC a more persuasive voice within the administration.

It is not generally understood even in Carter's Washington that Brzezinski's power to place experts of his own choice in NSC staff positions has been limited until recently. When he accepted the top NSC staff job, foreign policy was in the hands of the McGovernite staffers who controlled appointments to major second-level posts in the State and Defense Departments — and in Brzezinski's own NSC.

For example, Brzezinski had no say in the choice of his No. 2 man, David Aaron, a one-time NSC technician under Henry Kissinger who became foreign policy adviser for Sen. Walter F. Mondale. Vice President Mondale dictated his appointment to the NSC.

The Brzezinski-Aaron relationship has been cool during the whole Carter presidency. Recently, in another display of his rising self-confidence, Brzezinski quietly reduced Aaron's power within the NSC bureaucracy, stripping him of authority over several major functions: U.S. economic policies toward Europe and the Third World were handed over to Henry Owen.

Until recently, Aaron's political clout within the NSC had been profound, mainly thanks to Mondale's patronage. It was Aaron in cooperation with Mondale and the dovish transition team who installed a black law professor, Henry Richardson, as chief of Brzezinski's African policy section. Richardson espoused the hands-off, pro-Third World policy in black Africa preached by United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young and Assistant Secretaries of State Richard Moose and Anthony Lake, major Brzezinski adversaries. Brzezinski managed to ease Richardson out several months ago, after Brzezinski had gone public against Fidel Castro's blatant intervention in foreign countries as Soviet surrogate.

THAT PERIOD SEEMS now to have ended. Brzezinski's self-confidence is pushing him to bear down harder with his own more pessimistic views about the U.S. decline.

X-ray during pregnancy: When?

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Since reading about the dangers of X-rays to pregnant women I have been extremely worried and wonder if you could comment? I was X-rayed in the seventh month of pregnancy. I can rule out birth defects, except that my boy, now a young man in his 20s, is possibly somewhat shorter than he should be. What I am really worried about is cancer. I am living with a terrible guilt complex because of this.

— Mrs. H.J.

Exposure of the pregnant female to X-ray is always of concern to everybody. However, there are circumstances that call for it. Then, whatever risks there are have to be weighed against benefits to be gained. It might be more injurious to the mother and baby for her to have undiagnosed pneumonia, for example. The risk from a chest X-ray would be small in comparison to not making the diagnosis a chest X-ray would permit.

You do not say what type of radiation you received. The guideline for radiation exposure in pregnancy states that the woman should not have more than 500 millirads during the entire nine months. A chest X-ray gives only one millirad. So, you see, there's a wide margin of safety.

Finally, you had your X-ray in the seventh month. While X-rays are seldom taken at any time during pregnancy, doctors particularly avoid them during the first three months, when much of the delicate fetal structures are being formed.

Your son's height should not be related to X-rays you had. His chances of developing cancer should be no greater than for anyone else his age.

Please dismiss your guilt feelings. Twenty years of them is quite enough.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 79 and have suffered from ichthyosis since infancy. Has there been any cure found for it? — G.J.H.

This skin problem occurs with a variety of disorders. The word "ichthyosis" is Greek for "fish." The skin is dry and scaly.

Sometimes the condition is inherited, in which case 75 percent of the children of the affected parent may have it. In others it is inherited only by male offspring. In still other cases inheritance is not involved at all.

You can readily see why, in a condition with such varying backgrounds, an effective cure remains elusive. I know of no new treatments for this. The idea is to keep the skin as soft as possible. Bath oils help. Lanolin-containing lotions are effective, too. The creams and lotions seem to do more good when applied after a bath. This helps keep water in the skin. Drying lotions with alcohol should be avoided.

If an underlying disease associated with ichthyosis can be found, then treatment of that usually relieves the skin problem.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Two months ago I marked my third anniversary as a jogger. I regularly jogged four miles a day. Then I became quite tired and depressed. The doctor diagnosed mononucleosis. After a month I tried to get back into an exercise program, but even after two months I find it hard to cut it.

How long will it be before I'll be able to begin jogging again? I am a female, 39, and have always been in excellent health. — M.H.

It does take some people a very long time to feel 100 percent after a bout with mononucleosis, sometimes as long as six months to a year. During this time, it is not harmful to jog, but not to the point of exhaustion.

Don't be discouraged because you haven't the same endurance you had before your "mono." Patience, with moderate and slowly increasing amounts of exercise, will bring you back to your former good health.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I read in a magazine about this new drug called "Amrinone" for people with heart problems. What does it do, and is it available to the public? — S.P.

Amrinone is still an experimental drug. It increases the force of the heart muscle as it pumps blood. This is the same effect that the more familiar drug, digitalis, has. Amrinone is not available to the public. More tests need to be done with it before that happens.

Mononucleosis is primarily a disease that hits young people. To learn more about it, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Mononucleosis: What It Is; What To Do." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a teenager and secretly think about death quite a bit. It worries me because I don't think I can live up to the standard God has for us, and I won't make it to heaven. Should this worry me? — G.D.

DEAR G.D.: The worst thing you could do is act as if death were not important, and never think about it. As I have said in this column before, I constantly marvel at the way people will spend years and years preparing for a career or work diligently for success in business, and never take even a few minutes to think about preparing themselves for eternity. Yet eternity is real, and every person alive today will live on in eternity. Death is not the end of conscious existence.

Although you are worried about death, you do not need to be if you will give your life to Jesus Christ. The Bible says that you are very valuable in the eyes of God, and He does not want you to spend eternity separated from Him — what the Bible calls hell. What is it that keeps you from going to heaven? I think you have already sensed the problem — it is your sins. God is perfect and holy, and He cannot allow sin to go unpunished, as if it were of no importance. The Bible says, "Thou art of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on iniquity" (Habakkuk 1:13).

But God loves you, in spite of your sin. That is why Jesus Christ, God's Son, came into the world. He did not come simply to give us an example of how we ought to live. He came to make forgiveness possible. How did He do that? He took your sins and my sins and endured the punishment on the cross that you and I deserved. Christ "gave himself for our sins to rescue us from the present evil age, according to the will of our God and Father" (Galatians 1:4).

How can you be saved? Not by your own goodness, since (as you have already confessed) you cannot live up to God's standard — which is perfection. But ask Christ to come into your life and He will forgive you completely by His grace. By trusting Him alone, you can know there is no more of no importance. The Bible belongs to Him.

Dear Editor,

Following is an open letter to Mrs. Ora Burson I have written to show my appreciation to her. I wanted it run in the paper to show the people of Big Spring what a talented teacher we have in our midst.

Dear Mrs. Ora Burson, The music you used in my children's recital, May, 1979, for the Cat Costume Routine was a special on the Lawrence Welk Program, Sunday, Oct. 28, 1979.

The professional dancers used the couple dance routine but I saw the same dance steps that you miraculously taught your young students with only a few months training in tap, ballet and acrobatics for mind and body coordination.

The costumes were the same basic costumes you showed the mothers of your students how to make from the hood with ears down to the attached tail. These details were emphasized in my mind because I had to remember the difference between a male closure and a female closure on those hoods when sewing one of each type.

Mrs. Burson, thank you for sharing your professional knowledge and skill so expertly with the young people in the area at the Big Spring YMCA Building.

Anti-Klan activity stirs probes

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The FBI looked for possible civil rights violations and the mayor promised an internal inquiry on police handling of an anti-Klan rally that ended with four dead and 10 wounded. But civil rights groups have demanded an outside investigation of police actions.

Two more suspects were arrested Sunday and charged with conspiracy to commit murder in connection with the shooting at a "Death to the Klan" rally Saturday.

Twelve persons were arrested shortly after the shooting and were each charged with four counts of first degree murder and one count of conspiracy to commit murder. First degree murder carries a possible death sentence in North Carolina.

The 14 men, all from nearby communities, were being held without bail pending a preliminary hearing today.

Police said some of the suspects had declared they were members of the Ku Klux Klan, but local Klan leaders denied their factions had anything to do with the shootings. At least one suspect said he was a leader of the National Socialist Party of America, the Nazis.

The agent in charge of the FBI's Greensboro office, Andrew Pelczar, said the bureau was trying to determine whether there were any civil rights violations. FBI Director William Webster "has taken a very personal interest in this case," he said.

The most seriously injured among the wounded was Paul Carl Bermanzohn, leader of the anti-Klan communist Workers Viewpoint Organization. Bermanzohn, 30, was in critical condition after undergoing brain surgery. Three others remained hospitalized.

Bermanzohn's group confronted Klansmen in August at a Klan rally in China Grove, south of Greensboro. There was shouting and a brandishing of weapons on both sides but no shots were fired and no one was injured.

Greensboro Mayor Jim Melvin and City Manager Tom Osborne defended police actions at a news conference, but said questions about a police response must await an internal investigation.

Police Chief William Swing said his men did all they could to handle the situation when carloads of whites, some armed with automatic weapons, drove into the rally site at a predominantly black public housing project. Gunfire broke out after words were exchanged between the two groups. All the victims were from among the 100 participants at the rally, authorities said.

Swing conceded that police knew suspicious vehicles were heading toward the crowd. He said at the time of the shootings the nearest officers were a block away.

Police arrested the 12 men who are facing murder charges about a block from the scene of the shooting, and officers confiscated a yellow Ford van which contained an array of weapons.

But officials were unable to explain how two other cars believed to have been carrying gunmen slipped out of the area.

Farm

Japan still largest buyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan continues to be the largest buyer of U.S. farm commodities, accounting for about 16 percent of the record $32 billion worth of grain and other items shipped to other countries last fiscal year.

According to Agriculture Department figures expected to be released today, about $5.06 billion worth of farm exports went to Japan in the year that ended on Sept. 30.

The tentative figures, provided at the request of a reporter, showed exports to Japan rose by more than 20 percent from the $4.2 billion shipped in 1977-78.

Japan for years has been the leading overseas market for American farmers, including large purchases of wheat, feedgrains, soybeans and other products.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland announced last week that farm exports rose $32 billion last year, the tenth consecutive record year. A breakdown by country or region, however, was not available at the time.

The exports of $5.06 billion to Japan was up from an earlier forecast of $4.9 billion made by USDA on Aug. 17. At that time, however, total exports were predicted at the $32 billion level finally reported last week.

But, as in the case of Japan, the tentative final figures show some differences from those projected three months ago for individual countries or regions.

For example, farm exports to Western Europe totaled about $9.4 billion last year. That was up from $8.74 billion in 1977-78, but fell short of the $9.8 billion projected for 1978-79 in the August report.

Exports to Eastern Europe, excluding the Soviet Union, were valued at about $1.44 billion last year, compared with shipments of less than $1.1 billion in 1977-78. The earlier projection called for shipments to be about $1.5 billion.

Shipments of farm products, mostly grain, to the Soviet Union last fiscal year were valued at about $2.07 billion, up from exports of $1.88 billion in 1977-78. The earlier projection called for them to be about $2.3 billion last year.

China received about $884 million in U.S. farm exports, up from $368 million in 1977-78. That was about on target with the earlier projection.

As a region, Asia — which was dominated by the big Japanese market — bought about $11.6 billion worth of U.S. farm products last year, up from about $9.48 billion in 1977-78. The August projection was for $11.8 billion.

Exports to Canada were worth $1.68 billion, compared with $1.58 billion in 1977-78 and the projection three months ago of $1.7 billion.

Shipments to Latin American countries were valued at more than $3.37 billion last year, up from $2.56 billion in 1977-78.

Landry: "The Giants deserved to win"

Septien plays Giant-killer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Broken dreams meant broken hearts for the New York Giants, who barely missed knocking off the Dallas Cowboys in their biggest game in seven years.

"I used to cry a lot when I was a little kid when we lost. This is the first time I feel like crying in 15 years," said a disconsolate Brad Van Pelt after Rafael Septien's third field goal of the game, a 22-yarder with three seconds remaining, gave the Cowboys a 16-14 victory Sunday.

"The Giants deserved to win," observed Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

New York parlayed incredible emotion, a record crowd and two touchdown passes by quarterback Phil Simms into a 14-6 lead with 8:43 remaining in the game.

"Not until the final gun can you count a victory, we learned that last year against Philadelphia," said New York defensive tackle Gary Jeter, referring to the "fumble" that cost the Giants a game and former head coach John McVay his job.

Jeter was right, but it certainly looked as if the Giants would notch their fifth consecutive National Football League victory and move back into playoff contention after dropping their first five games this season. It also looked as if they would defeat the Cowboys for the first time in 10 meetings.

Dallas, which had not scored a touchdown in more than nine quarters, earlier had to settle for Rafael Septien field goals when they could not crack the New York defense. The Giants even stopped the Cowboys on a tremendous first down line stand after Dallas had a first down at the 2-yard line.

Quarterback Roger Staubach, however, began to take advantage of all the time the Giants' 3-4 defense was allowing and hit Drew Pearson for a 32-yard score with 2:24 remaining to draw within one point.

Dallas got the ball back on its own 9 with 1:49 to go after the defense shut down Simms and the Giants. Staubach hit Pearson for 27 yards and Tony Dorsett on a 32-yard screen pass helping them to get to the New York 12, leading to Septien's game-winning.

"They gave me a chip shot to work with," Septien said. "I just did my job."

The Giants played with an intensity rarely seen in the NFL. The club record crowd of 76,490 — only 320 no shows — was a big factor. Ultimately, it was the experience of the playoff-hardened Cowboys that burst the bubble.

"We have the poise to execute the big plays when we need to," Pearson said.

"We finally made some big plays at the end," said Staubach.

Giants safety Beasley Reece was proud of his team, which was the laughing stock of the league a month ago. "We did our best today and came up a little bit short,"

Reece said. "It was just total deflation when they got the field goal. I was so built up, so hyped, playing with so much emotion. I could feel all the air coming out of my body. We knew it wasn't for nothing, but that's what it feels like."

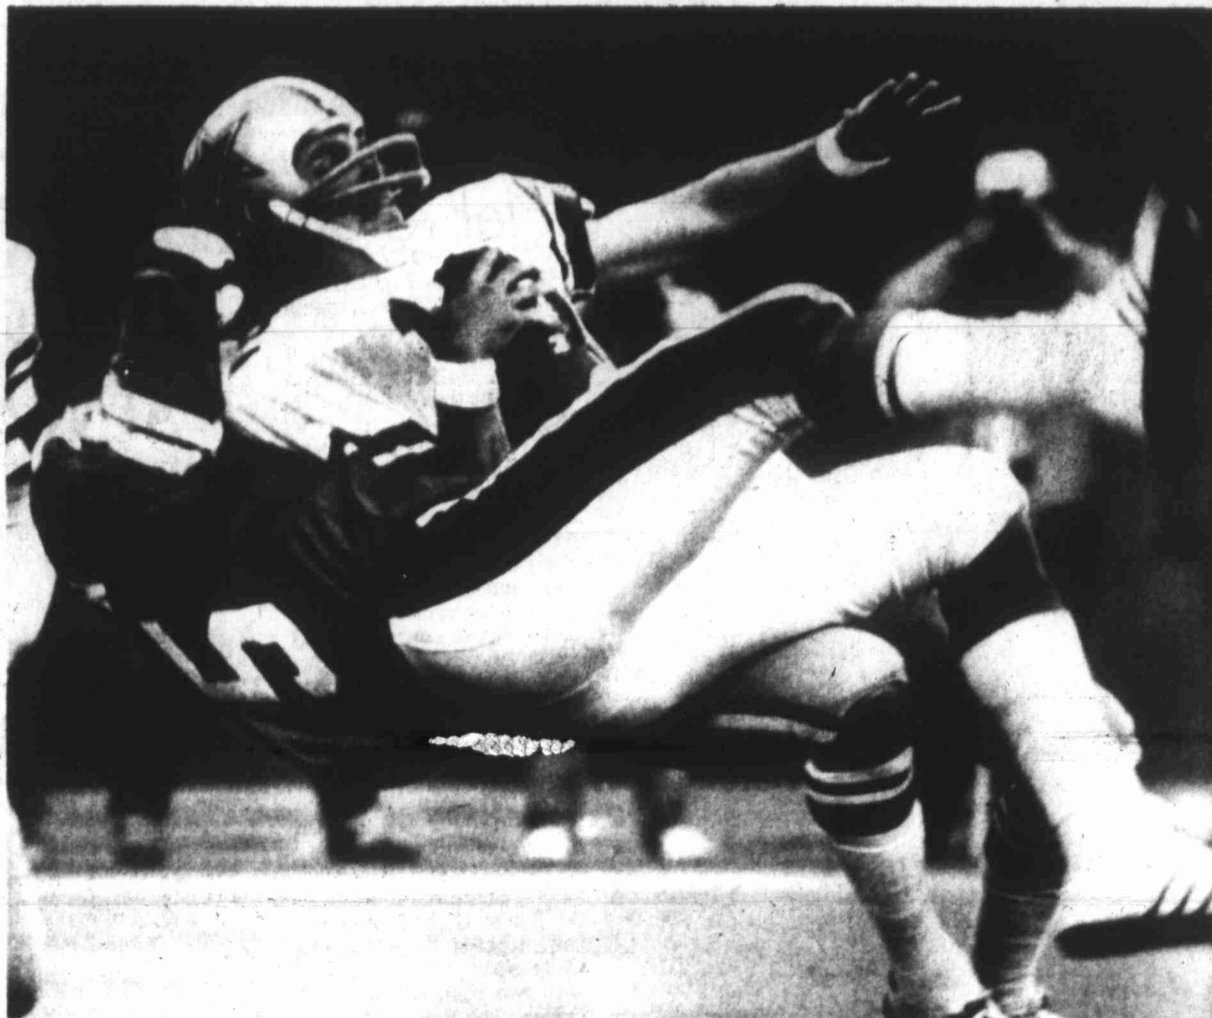

The Giants' defense held Dallas to 106 yards rushing and bottled up Staubach until the end. In victory, Landry felt for the team he once played for.

"This may help them mature," he said. "They have a good young quarterback and a good young coach."

That coach also was emotionally drained after the game.

"It would be very wrong for us as a football team to let one game — and I don't think it will — destroy what we have built up," said Ray Perkins. "It's after a defeat like this that all of us find out what we're made of."

New York found out there's no qu t in the 8-2 Cowboys.

STAUBACH UPSET — New York Giants defensive end George Martin flips Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach for a loss in the fourth quarter of Sunday's game at Giants Stadium. Tough pressure by the Giants almost gave them a victory, but the Cowboys won 16-14 on a last minute field goal.

Weekend NFL Action

Steelers massacre Redskins

By The Associated Press

"You don't design a day like this. You just go out there and it happens," Terry Bradshaw said of the Pittsburgh Steelers' offense.

He could have been talking about the Los Angeles Rams' defense, too.

Bradshaw, the Steelers' quarterback, virtually duplicated his Super Bowl performance (318 yards, four touchdowns) of last January when he ripped Washington for 311 yards and four TDs in a 38-7 victory over the Redskins.

The Steelers amassed 545 yards in total offense. That must have left the Seattle Seahawks shaking, their heads. They managed 552 fewer yards.

Yes, you read it right. They finished with a minus seven yards in total offense against the aroused Los Angeles defense, surpassing the National Football League futility record previously held by Denver. The Broncos came out of a Sept. 10, 1967, game against Oakland with minus five.

Oh, yes, the Rams' offense woke up, too, with Pat Haden throwing two touchdown passes in Los Angeles' 24-0 laugher.

Rams 24, Seahawks 0

For the past few games, the "What's wrong with the Rams?" That talk had been accentuated by disconcerting sounds from the stands — booing, then the shuffling of feet as people headed toward the exits long before the final gun.

"It was nice to hear the crowd boo somebody else for a change," guard Dennis Herrah said after the Rams had demolished the Seahawks in the Kingdom. "I'd like to have seen people walk out in the fourth quarter," added defensive end Fred Dryer.

The victory put the Rams at 5-5, tied with New Orleans atop the National Conference West.

"It's been a miserable three weeks," Haden said. "Everybody's been on our backs." He'll be on the bench next Sunday in Chicago. After hitting 17 of 21 passes for 172 yards and two touchdowns against Seattle, he broke a finger on his passing hand in the second period.

Browns 24, Eagles 19

So did the Eagles, despite Wilbert Montgomery's 197 yards rushing and Harold Carmichael's record reception in a 106th consecutive game.

The Browns, trailing 19-10 late in the fourth period, cut the margin to two points on Brian Sipe's 5-yard pass to Ozzie Newsome, then got the winning TD with 55 seconds left on Mike Pruitt's 24-yard sprint.

Colts 38, Bengals 28

Bert Jones threw a TD pass, then reinjured his right shoulder, so Greg Landry took over and threw two second half scoring strikes to carry the Colts past Cincinnati.

"This is a real step forward for us, to be able to win the game without Bert," said Coach Ted Marchibroda. Without Jones calling the signals the past two years, Baltimore has staggered from contention.

Raiders 23, 49ers 10

Ken Stabler hooked up with Cliff Branch on scoring passes of 8 and 9 yards to keep Oakland within one game of the AFC West lead and hand the 49ers their eighth loss in nine games, matched only by the Lions.

Falcons 17, Bucs 14

Steve Bartkowski hitched 4-yard TD pass to Jim Mitchell early in the fourth quarter and Bubba Bean raced 60 yards for a score with 1:22 to go to beat Tampa Bay. The Bucs, with the loss, lead Chicago in the NFC Central by two games.

Cardinals 37, Vikings 7

Ottis Anderson rushed for 164 yards and two TDs to lead the Cardinals past Minnesota. Anderson thus became the first St. Louis rookie to reach 1,000 yards. He ran 34 yards for one score and caught an 8-yard Jim Hart pass for the other one.

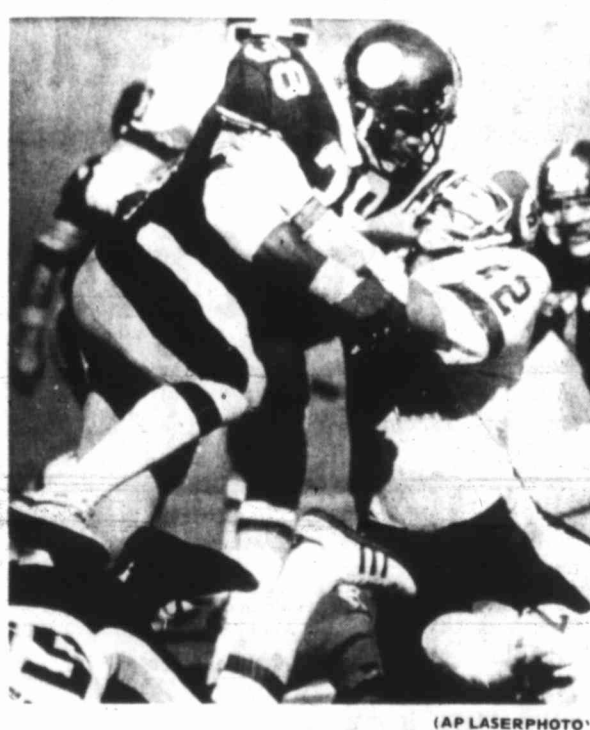

Patriots 26, Bills 6

Steve Grogan passed for 350 yards and three touchdowns — including bombs of 63 and 34 yards to Stanley Morgan — while New England sacked Joe Ferguson seven times in the shellacking of the Bills.

The victory gave New England, 7-3, a temporary one-half game lead over Miami.

Jets 27, Packers 22

Richard Todd's TD passes of 6 yards to Bruce Harper and 32 yards to Jerome Barkum, Toni Linhart's two field goals and Greg Buttle's interception of a David Whitehurst pass at the Jets' 24-yard line in the final minute carried New York past Green Bay.

NEAL GRABS SYDNEY — The Washington Redskins' Neal Olkewicz hauls Sydney Thornton of the Steelers to the ground in first half action Sunday in Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh smothered the Skins 38-7.

Hawks fly Tuesday

The Howard College Men's and Women's basketball teams will begin regular season play Tuesday night as they journey to Altus, Okla. to take on the Western Oklahoma Junior College Pioneers.

The Hawks will play a formidable opponent, as Western Oklahoma has won the Oklahoma Conference Championship for the past two years.

Head coach of the Pioneers Robert McPherson said that he will have only two returnees, but that one of those returnees is All-Conference Honorable Mention Craig Thomas, a 6'8" forward, who averaged 9 points per game with 10 rebounds per game.

And according to Hawk's head coach, Harold Wilder, height will be the main problem against Oklahoma. "Our main concerns are rebounding against such a tall team and how our freshmen will react in their first college game," said Wilder. Oklahoma's starters are 6'9", 6'7", 6'7", 6'5" and 6'1". Our size 6'7", 6'5", 6'4" and 5'11".

"If we can control the tempo of the game by pressing, we can negate their height advantage," said Wilder.

The Hawks will have only two returnees this year, Rocky Rawls, a 5'11" guard and Mike Wallace a 6'7" forward, and 13 freshman.

Under the direction of head coach Harold Wilder, the Hawks have won their last nine openers.

Wilder has coached the Hawks for nine seasons with a 208-105 career record at Howard College. Last year the Hawks' season record was 11-20.

The Hawks' first home game will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 12, in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum against Cisco Junior College. It will be a double header, as the Hawk Queens will also take on the Cisco women's team at 6 p.m.

The Queens will play their first home game Thursday, Nov. 8, at 7 p.m. in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum against McMurry College.

The Queens will have six returnees this season, said Queens' coach, Don Stevens.

Wild game predicted

MIAMI (AP) — A possible repeat of last year's shootout against the Houston Oilers had Miami Dolphins center, Jim Langer tossing and turning in his hospital bed.

Last year, Houston outlasted Miami 35-30 in one of the wildest Monday night games ever played. It isn't likely to happen again, but that didn't calm Langer, who just had surgery to replace bone chips in his leg.

"You can ask our defensive people," Langer said. "Whenever they play against a rookie or someone new at a position, they try to do everything they can to confuse and intimidate him."

Mark Dennard will make his first start tonight against the Oilers. He spent most of the week getting a taste of what to expect from the Dolphins' nose tackle, Bob Baumhower.

"I'm not so nervous that I can't go out and play, but it's exciting," said Dennard, a 10th-round draft choice last year from Texas A&M. Just in case, Langer will be on crutches along the sideline to give advice.

Last year, Earl Campbell erupted for four Houston touchdowns and 199 yards while Miami quarterback Bob Griese had the best statistical game of his career with 23 completions in 33 attempts for 349 yards.

But several factors make another shootout unlikely: —Campbell's bruised thigh has slowed him to just 41 yards on 14 carries in the Oilers' last two games.

—The steadily improving Dolphins' defense is now the second-best in the National Football League against the run. Five teams have managed fewer than 100 yards rushing in Miami's nine games this year, and no individual runner has broken 100 yards.

—Both quarterbacks, Griese and Houston's Dan Pastorini, have struggled this year. Griese had his first second-best in the National Football League against Green Bay. Pastorini has been intercepted 14 times and has hit just 46.4 percent of his passes.

—Last week, the Dolphins lost halfback Delvin Williams, Langer, and reserve fullback Norm Bulaich to injuries. Promising fourth-year pro Gary Davis will start in Williams' place and Bob Torrey, a New York Giants reject, will spell Larry Csonka at fullback.

In other games this week, Tarleton State is at McMurry and Colorado College hosts Trinity.

In conference play, Trinity University upset Tarleton

State 33-24 for the Tigers' first league victory.

McMurry rolled to a 43-14 win over Sul Ross in Alpine. With Sul Ross 2-5 in the conference race, Austin College is heavily favored Saturday.

Austin College has allowed an average of only 97 yards per game on the ground an average of 86 yards in the air. The Kangaroos have intercepted 26 passes.

In other games this week, Tarleton State is at McMurry and Colorado College hosts Trinity.

McMurry College is the only team that can tie Austin College, and Sul Ross must upset the Kangaroos in Sherman this week for that to happen.

The Roos took a week off from the conference battle and whipped Millsaps (Miss.) College 27-6 on the road.

In conference play, Trinity University upset Tarleton

Founder's birthday celebrated

Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 200, Elbow School, met in the cafeteria, Oct. 30 to celebrate the founder of Girl Scouts, Juliette Gordon Low's birthday, Oct. 31, 1860.

The scouts assembled their cups, plates, napkins and forks buffet style to accompany their individual daisy-shaped placemats. The placemats had been constructed in a previous meeting by each Scout. The daisy design was achieved by cutting petals from two white paper plates; cutting roughly textured yellow circles and gluing the circle to the bottom of the glued paper plates.

The birthday party to honor "Daisy" began with the Scouts singing "Happy Birthday Daisy" as Mrs. Shirley Summers brought in the Junior Girl Scout Beret cake topped with yellow and white sheet cake decorated with two bouquets of small daisies. The Beret cake was transferred to a large yellow cake mat containing each Scout's name and her dime from dues contribution to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. The Beret cake and "Dimes for Daisy" was presented to Jackie Hancock, West Texas Girl Scout Field Director.

Teen girls spent billions last Fall says Seventeen

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Teen-age girls in high school and college spent over $6.5 billion on their back-to-school wardrobes and miscellaneous items and August and September, according to a Seventeen Magazine research study. Outerwear is at the head of the class, as teen girls purchased nearly $3.8 billion worth of coats, jackets, suits, dresses, skirts, shirts-blouses, sweaters and pants. It seems more and more girls are wearing the pants in the family.

Expenditures on pants last fall represented the largest ready-to-wear clothing purchase ($715 million), followed by shirts-blouses ($665 million), and sweaters ($627 million). Teen girls also kicked up their heels in almost $663 million worth of new shoes. And along with their books, teens toted $454 million worth of accessories, such as handbags, wallets, sunglasses, umbrellas and gloves.

Innerwear (hosiery, lingerie, sleepwear) accounted for about 1 out of every ten dollars spent by teen-age girls in preparation for going back to school. And if you look into a teen girl's bedroom, you will spot $154 million worth of cameras and $38 million in portable televisions.

Where did girls shop for their back-to-school wardrobes and accessories? Most of them headed for department stores, followed by boutiques and specialty stores. When teens reach for a new outfit, the first thing on their mind is style, followed by comfort and size. The "Back-to-School Study 1979" was compiled from a total of 2,679 responses to questionnaires sent out by Seventeen to several of its Consumer Panels, consisting of teen-agers currently attending high school or college. Copies of the survey are available from the Research Department, Seventeen Magazine, 850 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

Gay teen seeks help

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 17-year-old guy and I'm gay. My boyfriend is also 17 and we have known each other for three years but we fell in love with each other about three months ago. We never felt we were doing anything wrong. It just seemed natural to us.

A few weeks ago, our families were together and we decided to tell our parents mainly because our parents were hassling us about getting girlfriends.

Telling them was a mistake. My father beat me for "trying to be a woman." My mom threatens me with psychiatric help.

I have been forbidden to see my boyfriend but I managed to meet with him secretly three times. What can I do about my parents' attitude? I realize this is a most difficult question.—A.M., San Rafael, Calif.

A.M. Encourage your mother and father to seek professional family guidance with you. Most parents deplore the thought that their child is gay and none is thrilled when he or she hears it for the first time.

If outside guidance is not sought, the relationship between your parents and you will steadily deteriorate.

Dear Abby

Second Chance At Virginity?

DEAR ABBY: I lost my virginity twice. Once when I was 15, and again when I was 18.

I am getting married next month, and the guy I'm marrying doesn't know anything about Guy No. 1 and Guy No. 2. But I suppose after we're married I will have some explaining to do.

I hate to lie, but if he asks me who the other guys were, should I tell him?

WORRIED IN GRIFFIN, GA.

DEAR WORRIED: I didn't know there was a lost-and-found department for virginity. But if he hasn't found that you lost it, twice, why tell him?

DEAR ABBY: I've often seen letters in your column from people who have suffered "the silent treatment." This is something I know a lot about because my father used to pull this on my mother and me. It went on for years.

Finally, when I was in my late teens, it happened again. I didn't have any idea what I had done to displease him. This time, instead of my usual begging, "Please, Daddy, tell me what you're angry about," I decided not to go along with this kind of blackmail.

If he chose not to talk to me, that was his privilege. I made absolutely no effort to re-establish communication. He sulked for about two weeks, then finally broke the ice by starting a conversation.

After that, he never used this "silent treatment" device on me again. But he continued to use it on my mother because she would practically get down on her knees and beg him to tell her what she did wrong. (That was HER choice.)

The silent treatment is an adult version of a child's temper tantrum, and the only way to deal with it is to ignore it.

BEEN THERE IN GALVESTON

DEAR BEEN THERE: Where there is total silence, no progress can be made in righting wrongs or settling disputes.

Appropos of prolonged silence: it has been my observation that it's the more mature party who breaks the silence.

DEAR ABBY: You wrote, concerning men who talk about sex all the time, that "Those who CAN do, and those who CANT, talk about it."

That sure didn't apply to my late husband. He was a morning, noon and night man—seven days a week! He always came home for the noon hour, then again at 5 p.m. on the dot, so I never suspected a thing when he talked about his "other girls," which he did constantly.

Not until he was 60 did I learn that he'd been known at the office as a chaser for 30 years! At 65 I caught him with another woman who boldly said, "If you took care of your husband's needs at home, he wouldn't have to go elsewhere." (He had told her I was frigid!) I couldn't believe it. I started laughing, and haven't stopped yet. Meanwhile I was exhausted trying to keep up with him!

No, I didn't divorce him. After that, I just told him to stay downtown for lunch. Abby, I loved that man until the day he died. He was 76. He never slowed up, and never stopped chasing, and never stopped talking about sex, either. I just had to tell you that not all men who talk about sex are only talkers. Some are doers. At least mine was.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: If you've ever lost someone you loved to cancer, you will find the autobiography of Marvella Bayh both an inspiration and a consolation. Read "Marvella—A Personal Journey." I promise you an unforgettable experience. It's available at all good bookstores.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 6, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A change in attitude would be good for you now and give more breadth and scope to your activities. You can be successful now in whatever is of primary importance to you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be alert to whatever is happening around you and take advantage of opportunities to advance. Use caution in dealing with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) State your position accurately to financial advisers for best results. Take no risks with your health at this time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be candid in going after a personal wish so that others will not misunderstand your motives. Strive for increased happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Listening to the suggestions of associates is wiser than having private conferences with intimates. Be more outgoing.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to be of assistance to friends who need your help. The evening is ideal for the type of recreation you most enjoy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You must be tactful in dealing with higher-ups today if you wish to gain your goals. Be careful in spending your money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) New projects are fascinating to you but look at them in a factual way for best results. Avoid extravagance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study how to become more proficient at your work and gain the respect of associates. Show more affection for your mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 22) Friends from all walks of life can give you excellent ideas at this time. Obtain information you need from the right sources.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) You have much work to attend to but be sure you follow orthodox methods for best results. Perseverance pays off now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in new activities that will help you advance in your line of endeavor. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make plans to have your surroundings more ideal and increase happiness. The planets are most favorable for you now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one with the capability to advance in whatever field of endeavor is chosen, so be sure to give the best education you can afford. A good all-around sport in this chart and a person who likes other people.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Muayyed Kilani is a 16-year-old Palestinian "guerrilla cub" who wants to die for a country he has never seen.

"My father met his martyrdom for the sake of Palestine and, Allah willing, I shall die for the same cause," the lean, wiry schoolboy said during a break in combat training at the Palestine Liberation Organization's Chatilla camp here.

With sweat pouring from his face, Kilani spoke with determination of the mission of the "cubs," aged 14 to 19, who will graduate and join one of eight guerrilla groups

Farmers, here's how to get SBA loan

LUBBOCK — The SBA has always been in the business of administering disaster programs to businesses and about three years ago it was determined that farmers were small businessmen and therefore came under the SBA program. 45 counties in the Texas Panhandle were declared eligible for disaster loans because of bad weather in June and July, 1979.

that make up the PLO. They average four hours of training a day.

"We are the sons of the Palestinian revolution, and we want to be revolutionaries," he said. "Our mothers fed us the love of Palestine with the milk of their breasts. The Palestine of our dreams is indeed more sacred to us than the reality of Palestine was to our fathers."

Trainer Abu Khaled roared a command, and the cubs jumped and cried out in unison, "Revolution until victory!"

"A drop of sweat in training saves a drop of blood in combat," Abu Khaled reminded them. "Let your triumphant cry ring in enemy ears like a toxin of bloodletting and utter death."

Holding Soviet-made Kalashnikov rifles, the boys thrust and zigzagged through their drills in a sprawling compound of tents and tumble-down, sun-bleached shacks.

"Some of us cursed our fathers because they failed to fight, but our sons will not curse us," said Kilani, brandishing his rifle and patting its butt.

His guerrilla father was killed in southern Lebanon two years ago, leaving a widow and three boys "refuel the revolution" against Israel, he said.

"My mother has always been proud of my father's martyrdom, and we never felt like orphans," he said. "The Palestinian revolution is our eternal father."

Kilani, his mother and two brothers have since been living on the dole, a meagre 300 Lebanese pounds — $93 — a month, from Yasser Arafat's PLO.

Raising a portrait of Arafat and a four-color Palestinian flag, the boys marched under a group of pine trees at the head of a "cub formation."

"The white portion (of the flag) symbolizes our intentions, the green our land, the black our battles and the red our swords," he said.

Kilani said "there's nothing illusory about us wanting to die." He said his leaders have taught him, and others, that "every martyr kindles a new torch for the revolution."

Nodding sadly, he admitted that "death to us is a far happier thing than our sad reality."

"True, we have nothing to care about — no home, no past, no identity and probably no future," he said. "But we still have one supreme hope — the revolution."

Maximum limit for loans is generally $500,000, but even that amount can be stretched in extreme cases.

To get a loan, a farmer must first be located in a disaster declared county or an adjacent county. Then he must submit to the SBA office a form declaring the number of acres that he planted. Finally, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office must establish the average yield. The SBA will then determine, by formula, the extent of the eligible loss.

If a farmer is unable to obtain credit from conventional sources, loans will be made available at five percent interest. Those farmers and businessmen who are eligible for conventional credit will receive their disaster loans at seven and three-eighths percent interest, and $8\frac{1}{4}$ percent respectively.

Each individual farmer's terms will depend on his individual ability to repay the loan. Most loans are on terms from five to ten years duration but some could be stretched out to fifteen or twenty years. Best available collateral lien is required.

The loan money can be used for 100 percent crop production or as much as 50 percent can be used to pay back debts and living expenses, but under no circumstances can the money be used for capital improvements: Capital improvements can be tractors, equipment or livestock.

SBA Centers will be set up in the near future on a weekly basis at locations and times that will be announced at a later date. Evening meetings are being organized.

A black and white photograph of three students, two boys and one girl, smiling and holding a large, ornate trophy. The trophy has a wide, flared top and a narrow base. The students are dressed in casual attire, including button-down shirts and jeans. The background is slightly out of focus, showing what appears to be an indoor setting with some structural elements.

Two hundred people in Boone, Iowa, remembered Mamie Eisenhower as the meatpacker's daughter who didn't turn her back on her hometown when she became first lady.

"She came back, which is a reaffirmation of rural life," the Rev. David Crow said at memorial services Sunday for Mrs. Eisenhower, who died in her sleep Thursday.

Mrs. Eisenhower, widow of the former President Dwight Eisenhower, was to be honored today in memorial services in a suburb of Washington, D.C., and in a day of mourning in Pennsylvania, where she spent the last ten years of her life on a Gettysburg farm.

First Lady Rosalynn Carter was to be among the dignitaries at a memorial service at the military post chapel in Ft. Meyer, Va.

Flags were to be flown at half staff throughout Pennsylvania.

On Sunday, friends and admirers gathered at the First Presbyterian Church in Boone. Mrs. Eisenhower attended the church when she came to visit Boone, and relatives asked that a memorial service be held there.

Stanley Moffitt, co-chairman for the memorial service, said the mood of the ceremony was "cheerful" and "upbeat" and that he saw no tears shed during the ceremony.

"It was a time for happy reflection on Mamie and her Iowa roots," said Moffitt.

Mrs. Eisenhower was born in Boone 83 years ago Nov. 14. She died of heart failure at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington and was buried Saturday in Abilene, Kan., beside her husband of 53 years.

She had been undergoing physical therapy at the medical center since she suffered a stroke Sept. 25 at her Gettysburg farm.

A White House plane flew her body to Abilene, where a military honor guard carried her bronze coffin into the Place of Meditation, a chapel at the Eisenhower Center.

She was buried following a 45-minute service attended by about 35 family members and invited friends, including former President Richard Nixon and his wife, Pat.

'The law doesn't fit' Kaufman County inmate

KAUFMAN, Texas (AP) — Christopher Nalley celebrated his 18th birthday earlier this year in the Kaufman County jail. He has spent the last 2½ years of his life in an institution of some kind, waiting someone to define his fate within the confines of laws that so far have provided no answers.

Nalley was first admitted to Terrell State Hospital in 1977 after he was found unfit to stand trial for sexually abusing a 6-year-old girl. While in the hospital, he became a suspect in the sexual mutilation and strangulation death of a 7-year-old Dallas girl.

On Nov. 4, 1978, fellow Terrell inmate Gary Van Adams was sexually abused and brutally choked to death with a chain. His body was discovered under the bed in Nalley's room.

A short time later, the husky older boy was apprehended on a roadway west of Terrell. He was apferred the next day to the Rusk Hospital for criminally insane adults in Cherokee County.

Indicted for murder in January, Nalley was diagnosed by a Rusk psychiatrist as mentally fit to stand trial. He was transferred to the Kaufman County jail in February.

A mistrial was declared May 18 when a Kaufman County jury could not decide whether he was competent to stand trial.

Nalley has been in jail since then, waiting for another competency hearing set for Nov. 12.

"The law doesn't fit Nalley," said Kaufman County District Attorney Glen Ashworth. "He's an exception and a special case. Damn it, I don't know about that boy. We've never really struck upon a solution to the Nalley case."

"Chris should never be released to the public," he continued. "My main concern always has been the in-stitutionalization of Nalley. Right now, the only solution is the Texas Department of Corrections."

"I don't know how he would survive in that type of environment."

Adams was a frail boy, five feet tall and only 80 pounds. He was sent to Terrell after he repeatedly ran away from home and refused to attend school but was never been diagnosed as violent.

His death turned an emotional spotlight on the state hospital where officials now say they have made changes to cut down on the chances of another similar tragedy.

"This is the type of person (Nalley) who should not have been committed here," Terrell Superintendent Luis Cowley said at the time. "We don't have the facilities to deal with this type of patient."

And some administrators say quietly that Nalley would not be admitted to the hospital today.

"We don't say they are too dangerous," said one who asked not to be named. "We just don't accept them."

The slaying has prompted concrete changes at Terrell. But for Nalley, the last year has meant virtually nothing.

"He's been a model prisoner," said Kaufman County Sheriff Roy Brockway. "He never done a thing in the world to cause us a problem."

"We go back there and talk to him a lot. We feel sorry for him."

Nalley's attorney, Tom McCorkle of Dallas, is looking for solutions outside the system in Texas.

"The prosecution and the defense are attempting to find alternate solutions in the case ... something to take the matter out of the criminal justice system and put it in the hands of the medical system where it belongs."

Catholic Church will be mediator in Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church says it is trying to mediate between Bolivia's new military president and representatives of Congress as opposition to Col. Alberto Natusch's coup continues.

"The theme of the mediation is that power should be turned over to the Congress and that it should be that body that elects a new president," said Auxiliary Bishop Genaro Prata after meeting Sunday with representatives of both sides.

Congress, which was elected in July after 10 years of military rule, was dissolved by Natusch after he ousted President Walter Guevara on Thursday. None of the major political parties has indicated support for the new strong man, and a crippling general strike, now in its fifth day, has been joined by the national businessmen's group.

Informed sources said opposition to the coup had spread to Cochabamba, Bolivia's third largest city, where the police declared themselves opposed to Natusch.

While the church was trying to bring peace, the new government declared martial law, ordered press censorship and sent two air force jets screaming over San Francisco Plaza in downtown La Paz with guns blazing, scattering students and workers protesting the coup.

No casualties were reported, and witnesses said it appeared the jets were firing into the air rather than into the crowd. But shortly after fighting broke out in the downtown area between troops and demonstrators, and shooting was heard into the night.

Red Cross officials said two persons were treated for gunshot wounds. The Red Cross reported at least 20 persons killed and 40 wounded Saturday night when troops for five hours attacked opponents of the coup building barricades in the streets of La Paz.

In a television address, Natusch, a 47-year-old rightist, accused "anti-democratic and anti-social sectors" of trying to "change our way of life for a totalitarian and anti-national version."

Another broadcast attacked former Presidents Victor Paz Estenssoro and Hernan Siles Zuazo, the leaders of the country's two biggest political parties, and the union leaders who called the general strike.

The broadcast said Paz Estenssoro first supported the new military regime, then withdrew his support, thinking it would fail.

"The historical cycle of these executioners of the Bolivian people has ended," the broadcast said.

Paz Estenssoro and Siles Zuazo alternated in the presidency from 1952 to 1964 and were the leading candidates in the presidential election last summer. When neither one could command a majority at the polls or in Congress, Congress elected Guevara for a year as a compromise.
