CITY CLERK GETS AN "UP-TO-DATE" OFFICE

New Vault Being Built to Provide Safe Place for City's Records

City Clerk A. W. Freeman is on joying a rather blessed confusion in his office this week and refuses to wipe the smile off his face. His office has been in pretty much of a mess all week, since he tore up housekeeping in the rear room of the city hall and moved into the front room of the building, with all a records piled in a umble over the counter, tables and the floor.

Just as soon as the clerk had vacated his old room. Workmen started on the job of building a vault and rearranging the interior of the building.

The vault will occupy a space just back of the room housing the fire truck, with the opening into the clerk's office. The partition between the room in the rear of the building, which has been used by the clerk, and the large front room, will be removed, making a large L-shaped room.

"I will be out in front now where I will feel more cheerful and not so cooped-up," said Mr. Freeman. "I will be proud of that vault because in the past we have had no place of safety for the city records. In case of fire we would have had to depend upon the first person getting to the building to throw them out of doors, and that would have been almost as bad as to let them burn."

Farm Home at Dora Destroyed by Fire

Fire, the origin of which has not been fully determined, destroyed the farm home of J. A. Chapman of the Dora community, Monday evening of this week. Buddy, a son, suffered a badly burned hand in an attempt to save some of the household goods. One chair was rescued from the fire.

The house and the contents were a mass of ashes within fifteen minutes after the fire burst out and flashed through the rooms. Mr. Chapman, who was in the city Wednesday, stated. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

A son and his family were at the Chapman home and they were all engaged in making mattresses when the fire broke out. It spread so rapidly that, aside from being unable to save any of their furniture or personal effects, the family had a struggle to escape with their lives.

The flames, fanned by a rather brisk wind, threatened to spread to the barn and other buildings, but heroic work on the part of the neighbors saved everything but two stacks of feed, which were burned.

Mr. Chapman, speaking of the wonderful work of about seventy-five of his neighbors who came to his rescue within a few minutes after the fire broke out, said: "I can't tell you how much I thank them for what they have done for us. Their hard work was all that saved our barn and other buildings and a lot of feed from going the same way our home went. After the fire was out, they were so kind to us and assisted us in every way possible. We will never forget their kindness and want to see everyone of them just as soon as we can get around to them and personally express to them our thanks."

$10,000 Worth of Cream and Produce Shipped in One Week

More than 400 cans of cream were shipped from Portales last week. At approximately 100 pounds per can, this means 40,000 pounds or twenty tons of cream. At present prices for butter fat, estimated at between twelve and thirteen dollars per can, this product brought the sellers approximately $5,000 in real money.

While it is absolutely impossible to get at any sort of check on the produce shipments, a conservative estimate of several business men of the city who make more or less close study of this industry, places a valuation on this as about the same as for the cream.

Roosevelt county is a poultry and dairying county has long been recognized as a leader, but when the figures of the valuation of the two great industries are put down in black and show a total of $10,000 a week, it will open the eyes of many of the folks right here at home.

There is nothing special in the county at present to serve as an incentive to increase this business other than just the normal expansion, but with something in the way of a drive to increase the poultry and egg business and the dairying, there is no limit to the possibilities as an income producer. One would be perfectly safe in piling the cash returns under an intensive campaign of growth, at $25,000 per week, probably striking an average throughout the entire year of $20,000.

Although poultry raising and dairying are sufficiently potential as to paying results to encourage the exclusive attention of anyone, both today are being carried on by the farmers of Roosevelt county more as side lines, and are given a minimum of attention. Could they be more largely encouraged and receive, say ten per cent more attention than they are given today, it would mean a net increase in their valuation as revenue producers of more than fifty per cent.

One hundred and fifty-two cans of cream were shipped last Saturday and this coming Saturday's shipments are expected to reach around 250 cans.

TO DRILL OIL TEST NEAR CAUSEY, N. M.

Wildcaters Blocking 15,000
Ranch in Texas

Plans for an oil test well on the Figure 4 ranch, near Goodland, Texas, are being made by parties who are negotiating for a block of 15,000 acres. These leases will probably be secured within the next few days.

This wildcat will be of vital interest to Roosevelt county citizens, as it will be somewhere between five and ten miles from the Roosevelt county-Texas line, a few miles east of Causey, this county, and approximately thirty-five miles from Portales.

Interest in Roosevelt county and this particular section of eastern New Mexico continues to gain headway and is not confined to the residents of the county, as oil men and others from all over the southwest have expressed their opinion that here will be found a paying oil field and they predict that the strike will be made within the next twelve months.

Activity of the wildcaters is creeping closer to this county and with practically every section in the county under lease, a reasonable conclusion is that from three to more tests will be made here this year.

Men who have studied and followed the trend of the producing fields of the southwest, and geologists who have surveyed this part of the state declare that it stands today as one of the most promising unproven oil fields in the entire southwest.

IMPOSSIBLE FOR BOOSTER TRAIN TO VISIT PORTALES

It will be impossible for the trippers on board the special train to the South Plains the first week in May to visit Portales by automobile from Clovis, it was announced yesterday by the good-will committee of the Board of City Development.

A Portales delegation will be invited to meet the Amarillo trippers at Clovis, as guests of the Board of City Development, it was said. An informal dinner is being planned for the occasion.—Amarillo Daily News.

MAYOR AND CLERK ARE LEFT HOLDING THE SACK

Mayor Bryant and City Clerk Freeman enjoyed all the thrills, sensations and turmoil of the old-fashioned "snipe hunt" Tuesday night when the two city officials gathered themselves together in a bunch for a meeting of the city council.

Time for the meeting to open passed, but no alderman came. The minutes dragged slowly along and the only company the mayor and clerk had that night were a few visitors or those who had business they desired to take up with the council.

Finally, disgusted with the attempt to operate as a duet, the mayor proposed adjournment sine die and the clerk was outside locking the door before His Honor could declare the motion carried.

N. M. BOOSTERS PLAN TRIP TO CONVENTION

Special Train of 12 Pullmans
To Go to West Texas
C. of C.

A special train of from ten to a dozen pullman coaches will carry New Mexico delegates to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Wichita Falls in May, according to Sam Seay, president of the Portales Chamber of Commerce.

Practically every city in the eastern tier of counties in New Mexico will be represented at the convention, but at this date it is impossible to secure an estimate of the number of delegates who will make the trip.

Plans are being made for New Mexico's part on the entertaining program at the meeting, and according to present intentions the Sunshine State will carry off her share of the honors.

In regard to the New Mexico delegation, the Roswell Daily Record says:

A delegation of members of the Portales Chamber of Commerce were in Roswell yesterday afternoon conferring with Claude Simpson, secretary of the Roswell Chamber of Commerce, relative to the excursion to the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Eastern New Mexico is planning to run a special train to Wichita Falls on May 15, to attend this convention, and Roswell is taking the lead in boosting the crowd, so that the tourist attractions particularly may be put before the people of West Texas in a most effective way. The attendance at the convention this year is estimated at 50,000.

Portales according to Sam Seay, secretary of the Portales Chamber of Commerce, is heart and soul to send 40 people from Portales, behind the movement and expects a number of Portales people have attended these conventions in the past and realize their value from a advertising standpoint. Twenty-five Roswell people attended this convention in Amarillo last year, and it is expected that this number will be increased to forty this year.

The Carlsbad, Artesia, Hagerman and Dexter delegation will leave the valley on Sunday afternoon, May 15. The special train will be made up at Clovis and arrive at Wichita Falls early on Monday morning. It will leave Wichita Falls late Tuesday night and get back to Roswell Wednesday night. The fare for the round trip including Pullman going and coming and while in Wichita Falls will be $30.

An effort is being made to take a band to head the eastern New Mexico delegation, and put this section of the state forcibly before the convention visitors.

Miss Beola McMinn has purchased a lot on Montana street between the J. J. Spires and C. L. Carter homes and will begin the erection of a modern bungalow in the near future.

The Frank Greer family are now located in a furnished apartment in the Hawk hotel.

SCOUTS TO JAMBOREE AT ROSWELL, FRIDAY

Thirty Portales Boys to Be Participants in Events;
Back Saturday

Portales Boy Scouts are all ready for an early start Friday morning for Roswell, scene of the Annual Scout Jamboree. About thirty of the boys are to make the trip, according to E. N. Wheeler, scoutmaster, and will leave Portales about 7 o'clock in the morning in order to reach Roswell in time to check in and get ready for the opening event on the program which is set for two o'clock in the afternoon.

From the opening of the program until the closing event "taps" is sounded at nine at night, the activities will move with precision and there will not be a spare minute.

he program, as tentatively outlined, will open at 2 o'clock with the archery contest, in which three scout from each troop will be permitted to participate. This will be followed by the hatchet throwing, wall scaling, first aid and the rescue race.

At 4 o'clock eight scouts from each troop will participate in the "surprise event," which is held out as the big event of the meet. Activities in this contest to include most anything in elementary scouting.

From the viewpoint of the spectators probably the most interesting and spectacular number of the day's program will be the big parade at 4:15 in the afternoon. Every troop at the meet will participate and something over 400 scouts and their leaders are expected to participate in this.

The parade will be followed by a council meeting, the swimming contest, a big barbecue and the opening of the campfire. A short report will be made by a scout from each troop, and this will precede the fire by friction contest. The final contest for the scouts will come with the demonstration, a competitive event, at about 8 o'clock. Short talks by council members will be followed by "taps."

The Portales scouts will make the trip to Roswell in a couple of passenger cars and a large truck. E. N. Wheeler, scoutmaster; S. M. Stroup, assistant scoutmaster; J. N. Smith, court of honor member; J. G. Cox and E. B. Siddall, will accompany the boys. They plan to spend the night in Roswell, reaching Portales about noon Saturday.

PECOS VALLEY FRUIT IS NOT HURT BY COLD

ROSSELL, N. M.—Fruit in all sections of the Pecos valley escaped damage as a result of the cold wave which recently swept over this section of the state. Many orchardists resorted to smudging, but in areas not smudged an examination of the blooms show that the damage has been very slight. Fruit growers here believe that the danger period is now over.

PORTALES WEATHER PROPHETS

You can depend upon the prognostications of the Portales weather prophets. They make their predictions with a definite and determined finality that leaves nothing to the imagination and neither are they subject to acts of providence, strikes, floods or cyclones. There is a concrete statement of fact about their readings of the future acts of the elements that causes their hearers to gaze.

Here's the low-down on the future in store for Portales and this county, as voiced by a couple of the fraternity on the street here Monday evening:

"Well," declared the first prophet, "I've been living here about as long as the next one, and I know that it is not going to rain until this wind stops blowing this way."

"Another thing I've noticed," said the second prophet, "as he stood in the midst of an interested audience a few yards down the street from the first prophet, "is that this wind will blow this way till it rains. I have lived here as long as the next one and it always does that."

"Now, when will it rain, and when will the wind stop?"

Rev. L. N. Lipscomb

Rev. N. L. Lipscomb of Plainview, Texas, who is assisting the pastor, Rev. L. L. Thurston, in a revival now in progress at the Methodist church, is delivering some splendid gospel sermons both morning and evening.

Rev. Lipscomb is a forceful speaker, and one who holds the attention of his audience throughout the entire service. He is not a sensational speaker but one who is sincere and sympathetic.

The service began on Monday evening and will continue until the first of May. The morning hour is 10:00 o'clock every day except Saturday and the evening hour is 7:45.

All denominations are cordially invited to take part in these services.

The attendance is increasing at each service, and you will miss a rare treat if you fail to hear him.

CITY COUNCIL ORDERS WALKS BUILT AT ONCE

Construction Ordered in the New District—Other Districts Are Planned

Creation of a special district and ordering construction of sidewalks therein, was the principal business transacted at a special session of the city council last Thursday afternoon.

The new district runs from Main street south to Arizona, and from State street east to Chestnut, covering approximately a dozen city blocks.

For the most part the walks to be built will fill in the gaps on the streets designated, as most of the property is thus already improved. On some of the streets walks were ordered on both sides, on others on but one side, the main idea of the council being to compel building of only such walks as are considered necessary for the convenience of the public.

This order by the council will result in the construction of approximately 3000 feet of concrete walks, and will give the southeastern section of the city an excellent system of walks.

Following are the streets included in the order:

(1) On Main street (both sides—2 blocks) from Chestnut street to Spring street.

(2) On Colorado street (N. E. side only, 1 block) from State street to Union street.

(3) On Nevada street (both sides—3 blocks), State street to Chestnut street and on S. W. side only 1 block from Chestnut street to Gramma street.

(4) On Montana street (both sides—2 blocks) from State St. to Pine St.

(5) On Utah street (both sides—2 blocks) from State Street to Pine Street.

(6) On Arizona street (both sides—2 blocks) from State Street to Pine Street.

SELLS CAR LOAD YAMS A WEEK TO ONE FIRM

Coe Howard reports that he continues to sell a car load of Portales Valley sweet potatoes to a certain wholesale grocery house in New Mexico, and according to their letters to him the quality of this famed fruit cannot be equaled, let alone surpassed.

The firm handling this product advertises it as "that Famous Portales Valley Sweet Potato."

The Frank Warnica family had as guests the first of the week Miss Janet Hammon and Robert Bost of Abilene, Texas. Miss Hammon is a sister of one of our popular grade teachers, Miss Janie V. Hammon.

ALLEGED WHOLESALE GAS PRICE DISCRIMINATION

Three to Four Cents Higher in Portales Than in Clovis; Roswell

A protest of what it alleges is unfair discrimination against this city by the big oil companies, is to be made by the Portales Chamber of Commerce, according to action taken by the board of directors at the regular weekly luncheon meeting held at the Portales Hotel Tuesday noon.

With gasoline selling at 22 cents wholesale in Portales, Clovis is given a price of 18 cents and Roswell 19 cents per gallon. Why this should be the case is not understood by Portales business men and they aim to secure an adjustment.

President Seay, acting secretary of the chamber, was instructed to take the matter up with the sales departments of the various companies doing business in Portales in an attempt to secure an adjustment.

Presence of independent gasoline companies in both the cities mentioned is presumed to be the cause of the differential, but this is not accepted as a valid excuse by the Portales chamber. "If an independent company is needed in Portales to secure a just equalization of the gasoline price, we aim to bring independent competition to this city," was the way one of the Chamber of Commerce succinctly stated the case.

Another action of some importance taken by the directors at the meeting Tuesday, was the appointment of a program committee to arrange for the part the Portales delegation will take at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Wichita Falls in May. Dave Isenberg, J. Rex Forrest, Coe Howard, Fred Luper and President Sam Seay are the members of the committee.

Ten of the directors were present at the meeting and this is considered an excellent attendance. Everyone participated in the discussions with much enthusiasm and this indicated that the men directing the destinies of the chamber are alive to their responsibilities.

Dave Isenberg and Asil Reynolds, well known farmer, were special guests at the luncheon.

To Close Gap In the Portales-Elida Road

Prospects for closing of the fifteen mile gap in the Portales-Elida highway are brighter today, than they have been for some time as the result of a conference of state highway officials and representatives of the Portales Chamber of Commerce at Roswell Monday.

President Sam Seay of the chamber of commerce, Ed J. Neer, Coe Howard, Fred Luper and A. F. Jones were the Portales men at the meeting and Mr. Seay expressed his confidence in the intentions of the highway department to attend to this road at an early date.

DRY WEATHER BUT NO DROUGHT IN VALLEY YET

Although the continued dry weather, enlivened only by occasional wind and sand storms, has reached a point when it is the subject of considerable discussion, nothing has suffered yet for lack of moisture, although some things would have done better with a little sprinkle.

If it does not rain by the first of May there may possibly be some slight damage in the dry land sections. In the shallow water belt of the county, the dry spell is simply an incentive to the land owners who have pumping plants to "pour the water" to the crops, and to cause those without plants to install them as soon as possible.

A History of Roosevelt County

THE OLD RANCHES OF ROOSEVELT COUNTY

(By Leonard Hart and Ted Bonner)

Probably the first white man in this country was Coronado. He came through here hunting gold, as he had been told that there was a city with streets made of gold and houses with window facings of gold and turquoise. In writing back to New Spain (Mexico), he said that all he could see was the blue skies and cows, having reference to the many buffaloes that roamed this country in those days.

The first cow man in Roosevelt County was A. A. Goode. But Mr. Goode did not stay long, probably because it was so far to market, or possibly the Indians were so numerous. One of the first big ranches of the county was the El-Ranch, which was established in the year 1888. This ranch covered a scope of country some thirty miles square. Some of this ranch was in what is now Curry, Chaves, Eddy and DeBaca Counties. The headquarters of this large ranch is some two or three miles from Portales. There is still a number of large cottonwood trees which mark the exact spot.

The DZ ranch was one of the largest in the county. This one was owned by the Curtis Brothers. Pat Wolford was the head boss of the outfit but some of the Curtis boys worked on the ranch. This ranch covered all of the southeast part of the county, even running their cattle from the present site of Dora to the other side of Elida, which was then nothing but a small tract of land with a sign post and a saloon or two marking the place. Later on the Curtis Brothers sold out to Jim Stone who built a large tank at the present Redlake, (this tank costing some fifteen or sixteen hundred dollars) trying to solve the problem of having water for his stock in that part of the country. This was a great success as the tank is still there and contains water the year around.

During the snow storms, the DZ cow boys would drive their cattle down in the sand hills around Delphos and Redlake so they could get some protection and could eat the tall blue stem and sage grasses. The ranch house of the DZ outfit was in the country eight or ten miles south of Dora.

The Yellowhouse or L. F. D. was owned by Uncle George Littlefield. Some of this ranch was in New Mexico, but some of it was in Texas. The part in New Mexico was in Arch and Nigger Hill. The ranch and the ranch itself extended from the Yellowhouse Canyon in Texas to Arch in New Mexico, their shipping point being Portales. The Jeff White Ranch was north of the DZ outfit and northwest of Elida. It was owned and run by Jeff White, the brand being a reversed L with a curve over it and a bar under it. This ranch is still one of the largest ranches left in the country today. Another of the large and well known ranches of Roosevelt County was the "Clubs" which was located this side of the Pecos river. Bob Ache was the main boss of this outfit. Horse Shoe Ranch, owned by Lee Bivens was located in the northwest part of Roosevelt County then being a part of Curry County. Mr. Johnson was the foreman of the ranch.

According to Mr. J. B. Priddy, there were more cattle shipped from Roosevelt County in 1903 than from any other shipping point in the United States. There were herds of cattle all over the country being rounded up by the many cowboys.

Sometimes these herds would have to be held up for as long as three weeks waiting their turn to be shipped.

During this time there were between eight and fourteen saloons and gambling houses in Portales which were doing a big business as most of the population was cow boys. At this time barbed wire fences were as scarce as preachers, the rancher's territory being laid out from the location of his water sources. Although there were no fences, each ranch had its boundary riders to push the cattle back.

These ranch days were the best; at least, that is what many of the old timers say. A certain old rancher is this part of the state refers to the farmers as the "Pinnacle Squatters" and "little tumble weed tollits" and declares that if they hadn't come to this country with their barbed wire entanglements he would not be broke at present.

SAMUEL M. BEEMAN

Samuel M. Beeman was born in Dallas county, Texas, July 5, 1841, and died April 8, at the home of his son George A. Beeman, Sweetwater, Texas, with whom he had made his home for the past few years.

Grandpa Beeman, as he was affectionately known, was married December 8, 1886, to Susan Catherine Brannon who died September 29, 1921, at Richland, N. M. He is survived by five children: George A. of Sweetwater; S. F. and F. M. of Richland; T. L. of Tucuman; and Mrs. I. E. Boyce of Hegeman, N. M., all of whom were at the funeral which was held April 10, at Richland. One daughter, Rebecca, died several years ago. A sister, Mrs. John Weller of Snyder, Texas, also attended the funeral.

Mr. Beeman is survived by thirty grandchildren and twenty-one great grandchildren. During the war between the states he served in the Confederate 11th cavalry under General Buford.

that it traveled on the pavement instead of on rails. One of the outstanding features of the convention was the display of beautiful Easter millinery, which bedecked the heads of the fair spinners. This display met with the hearty approval of the husbands of the town, who are adopting resolutions that their wives wear it instead of buying a new spring bonnet. This is met with a counter resolution, however, from the milliners and designers of America, who contend that it will work a hardship on the dealers who have stocked from the fashion markets.

It would be proper to say that even "Solomon in all of his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

While the convention was strictly for the old maids, the public was allowed to attend as spectators at so much per, the per being used to defray the traveling expenses of the delegation.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Johnson have returned from California, where they have been for several years, and are now located on their ranch near Redlake.

Carolina and California Meat Recipes which Satisfy

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of cooking articles by 6 famous cooks.)

"Almost everyone enjoys meat," says Miss Rosa Michaelis, the New Orleans cooking authority. "It's highly nutritious, because of its high protein content. It contains valuable fats, mineral salts, and important vitamins."

Carolina Broiled Steak

"Steak is especially good when prepared Carolina broiled." Be sure to select a tender steak, preferably 1 1/2 inches thick.

"Have the skillet piping hot, and sear the steak, searing it quickly. Turn often. Use two forks, and try not to puncture the steak. Keep all the juices in."

"Steak should be cooked rare in 10 minutes. We'll done in 15. When done as you prefer it, place on a heated platter. Season with pepper and butter, and serve piping hot."

For frying steak you need a very hot fire. If you use an oil stove with long chimney burners, you will get most satisfactory results by turning the flame until yellow tips appear, about 1 1/2 inches high above the blue area.

California Peppers

Mrs. Belle DeGraf, San Francisco home economics counselor, is very fond of California stuffed peppers and West Coast pot roast.

For the former, select short, plump peppers; cut off tops and remove seeds. Put in a saucepan and cover with boiling water to which has been added a bit of soda the size of a pea. Let peppers stand in water about 15 minutes. Drain and place each pepper in a greased muffin pan. Then fill with the following mixture:

Mix 1 1/2 cups boiled rice with 1 cup of minced ham and 1 cup of savory sauce. Add 2 tablespoons of melted butter 1/4 cup of dry fine bread crumbs and place on top of filling. Serve with sauce.

West Coast Pot Roast

Select not less than 4 pounds of beef from the round. With a sharp-pointed knife make deep incisions and force in stuffed olives. Make about 15 incisions. Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper then dredge with flour.

Heat 2 or 3 tablespoons of beef drippings and brown meat on all sides. Then add 2 cups of boiling water, 1/2 teaspoon salt and one onion for each person. Stick 2 whole cloves in each onion and add to meat.

Cover closely and cook over a low flame under boiling point until meat is tender, about 2 1/2 hours for each pound of meat. Keep about the same amount of water in the kettle, adding more as it cooks away. When cooked, remove meat and onions and thicken gravy.

HEAVY SNOW IN LINCOLN FOREST HURT THE FRUIT

ROSWELL, N. M.—Heavy snows in the Lincoln national forest and at various points in the Capitan mountains west of the city occurred during the past storm, according to reports brought here. Much of the fruit in the Ruidoso and Bonito valleys and other mountain districts west of this city was seriously damaged by the cold wave which recently swept over eastern New Mexico.

THANKS!

To our friends in Floyd and Portales:

Words cannot express my feelings to you for your kindness and help to my family during my absence when our home and all was burned. Inside of twenty-four hours Mr. Hatcher arranged a house for them, our friends of Floyd and Portales had given them clothes, household goods and over $100 in money. There comes a time in every man's life when it seems there is no use to play a losing game any longer, and then he wakes up to the fact that he still has a job in life, and that is to try and repay in some way such acts of kindness as has been shown our family.

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

A School Bank

They were back at school again on all days but the Saturdays and Sundays and holidays, though they often had adventures after school was out in the afternoon and often in school, too.

It was bright and early in the morning—just before school opened—that Douglas saw a great many of the other children hurrying.

"We must get to the bank," they said.

"What bank?" asked Douglas, and added:

"You won't have time to go to a bank before school opens. The banks are way, way down town. At least the one I went to was—and the others—well, I don't know just where they are, but they are not around here."

"Indeed, one bank is," said the boy, who seemed more eager than any of the others.

"Which one would like to come, and tell us another boy?"

"Which is this bank?" asked Douglas. He was so much puzzled. The children looked so surprised that he only knew of down-town banks or banks far away, and they seemed to say by the expressions of their faces:

"Well, we have a surprise for you! And to think you didn't know about ours before."

Indeed they had a surprise. For to the great surprise of Douglas and of Dorothy, too, when she heard about it, the children in this school had a real school bank which was run by some of the old er pupils with the help of two teachers. The children put in their cards, which were then marked with the amount of money they were saving.

The Other Children Hurrying.

There was another section for the children who were drawing out their money. Some of them wanted to get birthday presents, while others had saved up enough for roller skates and different things that they had wanted for some time.

"Isn't it a fine scheme?" asked one of the children.

Watch Elimination

Good Health Depends Upon Good Elimination.

RETENTION of bodily waste in the blood is called a "toxic condition." This often gives rise to a dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. Thousands have learned to assist their kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of a stimulant diuretic. 50,000 users give Doan's signed endorsement. Ask your neighbor!

"Could I belong to it, too?" asked Douglas of one of the children. "I am in this school. I've not been here long enough to know all about this school, though."

"Yes," said the children, "of course you can belong. We all are members in our class—and you are allowed to belong, no matter which class you are in."

"But I only have ten cents," said Douglas.

"And I only have five," added Dorothy, who was with them now.

"You can begin with five cents in this bank," explained one of the boys.

So Douglas and Dorothy each got cards and put their money in the bank.

"What a wonderful idea," said Dorothy. "When birthdays come we won't have to ask for money every time."

"And when we really want something we can save up for it this way," said Douglas. "I'm going to save toward a tool chest," he added.

Literature Owes Much to Early Troubadours

The troubadour was a knight and a poet. A restless knight, ever on the go, with a musical instrument slung over his shoulder and a sword at his side. Early each spring he sallied forth, whim and fancy directing his stretches from northern Spain to Provence in southern France, and Italy. Provence, carpeted with wild flowers, where thousands of tiny rivulets wind like silver lacings, where the birds sing sweetly and skies are ever smiling.

To the troubadour were indebted for a vast knowledge of the thought and customs of the time. His songs, the first lyrical poetry written in Medieval Europe, form a valuable supplement to history; 2,500 of them, comprising drama, romances and fables, have been preserved. The language used, Langue d'Oc, now spoken only by a few French shepherds and back-country folk, is incontestably the richest and most harmonious that ever graced the literature of a people.—Mentor Magazine.

Brain Work and Sugar

Brain workers lose more sugar from the blood during their toll than do manual workers, according to recent experiments in Czechoslovakia. It is not known just why this happens, but it is thought it may be through some process of the liver. Brain workers are particularly liable to colds, and the Czechoslovakian physicians suspect this may be due to the reduction of their blood sugar.

President May Spend Vacation in N. Mex.

Raton, N. M., April 19.—(AP)—President Coolidge is seriously considering the Bartlett ranch, 24 miles west of Raton, as the summer White House, according to Harry Chandler, Los Angeles publisher, who passed through here today after two days spent at the ranch. The Bartlett ranch is now known as the Vermejo club of which Chandler was the organizer and leading stock holder.

Chandler was accompanied by a motion picture man who has taken pictures of the ranch which will be taken to Washington and displayed for the benefit of the President. Chandler reports that the representative of the president will arrive here in about two weeks to look over the ranch which, while isolated from a railroad, can be reached by a good highway. It is excellently equipped even to the extent of having private leased telegraph wires.

Whoever has not felt the affection of a dog has missed the truest flattery in human experience. On the contrary, the cat keeps us in our place by mixing her demands for tribute with supreme disdain. We like them both; they add to the richness of life. Any animal pet helps develop our character. The childhood that has been devoid of pets has been cheated of what is almost a birthright. Horses or donkeys or goats or geese or marmosets or horned toads, they all help. Any one is better than none at all. Your goldfish doesn't have to sing to be interesting, and the ragged mutt that ever left muddy tracks on a counterpane may be as lovable as the most highly trained poodle.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The party met at the Christian church and motored to the H— ranch and enjoyed a delicious camp fire breakfast just as the sun made its appearance on the eastern horizon.

All returned to town in time for Bible school.

EASTER CELEBRATIONS

The younger generation of Portales celebrated Easter with the time honored custom of egg hunting. Several teachers and pupils of the grade school began activities Friday after school by an egg hunt on some vacant lots south of the school building. Saturday at 1:30 the junior department of the Christian Bible school enjoyed a hunt on the church lawn, and at 3:00 o'clock the Baptist juniors met for the same purpose on vacant lots near the church, while the primary department of the M. E. Sunday school enjoyed their hunt in sections.

On Sunday afternoon Misses Al-dene, Christine, and Ibara Rhine, Vivian Case, and Lois McCall and Messrs. Rhea Crow, Bennie Comp-ton, James Harold, and Billy Bob Case held a hunt on the Pyeatt lawn.

How to be Bouffant and Still Slim.

Suppose you admire the robe de style type of frock, as many fashionable young women do. But suppose you do not look your best in a straight, tight bodice, as many young women don't. Then the style above is the answer, combining with the piquant charm of the period frock the latter of a surplice closing and the comfort of a short skirt. Moreover it achieves its bouffant grace with only 3½ yards of 39-inch material, in size 36. Either affeta or a softer silk may be used, while or summer dotted swiss, organdy and cotton prints are charming. (Copyright, 1927, by Butterick)

PRESBYTERIAN MEETING

TO BE HELD MAY 29TH

The El Paso Presbytery, of which Portales church is a member, met in Ft. Stockton, Texas, last week and the Portales church was represented by Rev. W. K. Johnson, of Lubbock, field man for the presbytery.

The presbytery is very much encouraged with the development of this section and has plans to assist the Portales church in going forward with the work here.

Reverend Johnson, who came here to hold a meeting this week, postponed his services owing to the revival now being held at the Methodist church. He will return Sunday, May 29, at which time he will hold services at the First Baptist church. All Presbyterians and others interested are especially invited to attend this service.

ASSEMBLY OF GOD NOTES

Large crowds are attending the night services. Bro. Shields is preaching under the anointing of the Holy Spirit. Several souls have been saved and baptised with the Holy Ghost.

We are enjoying the afternoon meetings. Very helpful messages have been given.

FACT & FICTION

Evil of Drink

There was a young fellow from Wheeling,
Who drank till he had a queer feeling
He said as he veered,
"I'm feeling quite weird,
The floor looks the same as the ceiling."

She Knows 'Em

As the doctor entered the sick room and approached the bedside of the woman, she said with a sigh, "Well, doctor, have you decided to operate or just let me get well?"

"Dad, what part of speech is woman?" "She isn't part of speech, son, she is all of it."

Bill: "Yes, John, father will soon have another wife to support."

John: "What! You don't mean to tell me that he is turning bigamist?"

Bill: "Oh, no. I'm going to get married."

A Portales girl got on the east-bound passenger here the other night. She was somewhere around eighteen or fifteen years of age and was starting on her first railroad journey. The conductor came through the car pretty soon and yelled, "tickets, please," and after some embarrassment, Miss Portales handed him her ticket. Soon afterwards the "News-butcher" came through and yelled, "chewing gum!" Turning to a lady in the seat behind her, the girl asked, "Goodness, me! Do I have to give him my gum?"

A certain Portales lady inducted her husband, who was not a regular church-goer, to accompany her to the service one evening not long ago when they were spending the week-end in a neighboring city. During the sermon friend husband fell asleep, snoring softly at first, but at length so loudly that the god lady was constrained to give him a sharp nudge in the ribs, in the hope of rousing him. To her consternation, he slowly awakened, exclaiming in a loud and sleepy tone: "Let me alone! Get up and build the fire yourself, it's your turn!"

Various Staffings

THIS is the season when we are looking over old recipes for the stuffing of all kinds of birds:

Danish Stuffing for Turkey.—Soak one and one-half dozen prunes over night and boil them twenty minutes. Drain them from their juice and stuff the breast of the turkey with the prunes and three or four apples pared and quartered. Stuff the rest of the turkey with bread crumbs, carefully seasoned with salt, sweet marjoram, pepper, and finely chopped onion, moistened with melted butter and thick cream. Bake often while roasting.

Dutch Stuffing.—Soak three cupsful of bread crumbs in milk to cover, squeeze dry, add three beaten eggs, a teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of sage and three sour apples, chopped. Slice one-fourth of a pound of bacon thin, fry with a medium sized chopped onion, and when the onion is cooked, combine the two mixtures, mix well and it is ready to use.

Piquant Stuffing.—Pour one-half cupful of vinegar over three cupfuls of crumbs, squeeze dry, add one-half cupful of melted butter, one cupful of chopped olives, three chopped pickles, one small green pepper and curry powder to taste. Raisin Stuffing.—This is especially good for game birds: Soak and squeeze dry one quart of bread crumbs, add two well beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one cupful of chopped raisins and one-half cupful of celery.

Sausage Stuffing for Goose.—Mix together four cupfuls of bread soaked and squeezed dry, one egg, one-half cupful of chopped celery, one-half pound of sausage, one teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper. (Copyright, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

MILNESAND ITEMS

Sunday was a glad day at Milnesand and the attendance at Sunday school was fine and the spirit of good will and fellowship seemed to be in days of old, when each one tried to remember the grand old text, "Let there be no strife between us for we be brethren."

Jack Frost, true to his greedy nature, did his last piece of work Wednesday night when he cleaned up on the last bit of fruit left.

Mr. Albright returned to his home yesterday after spending the last ten days with his daughter, Mrs. John User, of Richland, N. M.

Mrs. Riley Pate spent the week end visiting her mother, Mrs. V. A. Mauldin, of Jenkins, N. M.

Quite a bit of improvement going on on the W. N. Parkinson place.

The singing at L. J. Pate's was fine. Some of the best singing we have heard in a long time was done.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Parkinson motored to Clovis Sunday afternoon.

We are having some wind and rain the last few days, but more wind than rain.

C. F. Dunaways were guests in the J. A. Betts home Sunday.

The proprietor of the Milnesand store failed to appear at Sunday school Sunday morning. We wonder where he could have been.

J. C. Easters was a guest in Mrs. Baker's home Sunday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jennings, a 10 pound girl on the 21st inst. Mother and baby doing nicely and Daddy Josh just smiles.

L. J. Pates took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Tallafarros Sunday.

RICHLAND REVIEWS

The farmers of this community are busy breaking their land and all hope it will receive a good rain soon.

The party last Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Hodges was well attended and enjoyed by everyone. We all hope they will give another one soon.

Miss Evelyn Hodges, Irene Gardner and Bertram Smith were guests of Miss Mabel Short at dinner Sunday.

Dell Askew of Tipton, Okla., visited Richland friends over the week-end.

Brother Lamson of Clovis, preached here Sunday morning and night to good sized congregations.

Miss Mabel Short was an overnight guest of Miss Martha Evelyn Hodges, Monday.

Our boys and girls are busy practicing for the forensic meet, in both the A and B classes. We expect to be represented at the county meet and to bring home some of the honors.

Mrs. Dee Broyles has returned from Oklahoma where she visited her mother. We are glad to learn that she is feeling much better.

PERRY PICK UPS

The people of this community met at the school house Sunday morning and re-organized the Sunday school. There was a good attendance at the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sparks and children of Gorman Texas are visiting Mr. Sparks' brother and family, Edgar Sparks.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason Henry and children visited their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Russell.

Mrs. Chiles Prescott of Bradford, Kansas, mother of Mrs. McEndree, of Dora, who has been ill for some time, died April 12, according to word received here. Mr. and Mrs. McEndree, who attended the funeral, are expected home this week.

The Dora people are looking forward to the forensic meet to be held at Rogers Friday night, and expect Dora to come out a winner.

EAST VALLEY VIEW

Having plenty of sand storms here, mingled with a few small showers. Farmers are advised to be patient, there will be a rain in about three weeks and that will be soon enough for the crops.

Mrs. Newberry was very pleasantly surprised last Sunday by a visit from her mother and brother, George, of Roswell. Her mother has just returned from California. They say they are going to make their home in Portales.

The young folks enjoyed an Easter egg hunt at the home of Mrs. Usrey, Sunday afternoon.

Lulu Moore has returned home last week and we are expecting her to become one of the active club workers here.

Mr. and Mrs. Spill spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Depriest.

We believe that Mr. Marr has come to stay with us as he has gathered a nice bunch of milk cows.

Mr. and Mrs. Drinkard are visiting in Texas.

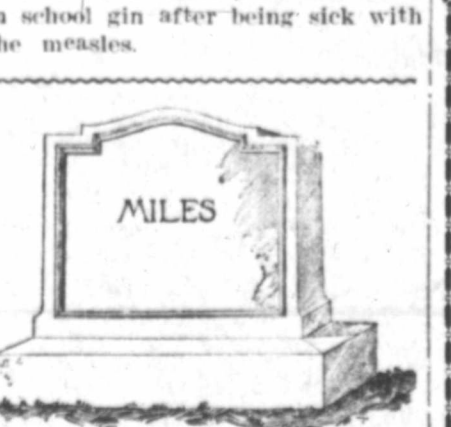

Grandma and Grandpa Heckman spent Easter with their son and family.

W. A. Norton is sick with typhoid fever, but with the good care he is receiving he will soon recover. His sister, Nona, has also been ill for over a week with a nervous breakdown. Little Nila still has a very bad cough as a result of an attack of measles.

Little Dorothy Heckman celebrated her tenth birthday on Easter Sunday.

The East Valley View Club is rejoicing with Ellen Turner McDunn over her fine baby girl. Hurrah, for another club worker.

Miss Bessie Hatley is able to be in school again after being sick with the measles.

Richland, N. M.

FIRST WEEK IN MAY NATIONAL EGG WEEK

Biddy's tuneless cackle announcing that she has laid an egg, has expanded into a national song of praise for the good old-fashioned egg, which will be sung in various ways throughout the nation during the week of May first to seventh.

The National Poultry Council has proclaimed this period National Egg Week, and has appointed state and national committees to take care of the occasion.

Announcement is made by E. E. Anderson of the New Mexico A. & M. College, who is New Mexico's state chairman for National Egg Week, that celebrations will be held in various forms such as egg shows, parades, and picnics where the bill of fare consists largely of eggs.

Eggs are a protective food, rich in the necessary vitamins.

Eggs are a balanced diet, rich in protein, fats and minerals.

Eggs are easily digested; hence, a most wholesome food.

Eggs are an economical food and should be more widely used in the daily diet.

Eggs are especially valuable in the diet of adults who are suffering from tuberculosis or other wasting disease, or who are convalescing from an infectious disease.

Eggs are among the first foods to be fed to little children, because they are so rich in iron, and because the proteins, fats and mineral substances are especially well suited to building body tissues.

Why take a chance on being improperly and under-nourished? Eat more eggs for your health's sake.

T. O. Irwin of Redlake was a pleasant caller at the News office Tuesday of this week.

CAUSEY ACTORY WILL PRODUCE GOOD COMEDY

"The Deacon Slips," a three act comedy, will be given at Causey, Saturday, April 3, according to an announcement received by the News this week.

The unsigned announcement gave no details as to the producers, but stated that a small admission charge could be made, but "we want everyone to see the play, so if you haven't the money come anyway."

PARENTS' OPINIONS OF MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

From hundreds of unsolicited letters from parents of boys who attended last summer's C. M. T.
Camps, a line selected here and there at random shows their general opinion:

(1) "I am pleased to state that the month spent in the C. M. T.
Camp as he making of my boy,
physically."

(2) "I visited my boy while in camp and had good opportunities of observing his associates, both Regulars and Civilians. The whole atmosphere of the camp was clean, wholesome and ennobling. No parent need have any fear in sending his boy there."

(3) "The training which my boy received gave him a better idea of taking care of himself physicaly and morally."

(4) "Although only seventeen years old, it has removed my son's flighty ideas of life, made him more manly, given him a good idea of system, organization and discipline and broadened his views of American ideals and life."

(5) "Always of a retiring, shy disposition, my boy has overcome that difficulty in a large measure, due to the association with the many splendid lads who made up the camp."

(6) "I cannot properly voice my appreciation of the efforts of all connected with the C. M. T.
Camps. My expectations as to my boy's welfare and the benefits to be derived from his training have been more than realized."

(7) "Thank you for the splend time my son had, for the benefits he received and for sending him back to me physically, morally and spiritually in a perfect state of health."

THEY THINK SO! DO YOU?

PORTALES

25 Years Ago

The following extract taken from the city ordinance book will give readers of the Portales Valley News an insight into the difficulties which the city dads faced twenty-five years ago, and will recall to those who lived in the city in that year some of the events of that period.

Doesn't this sound funny today:

"Any person who shall race horses, or who shall ride or drive any horse, team or other animal through the streets within the limits of the town at a speed or gait to exceed eight miles per hour, or any person who shall leave any horse or horses or other animal attached to any conveyance in the street, alley or public place within the limits of the town, without making such animal fast with a good and sufficient halter, or without leaving them with some suitable person to prevent their running away and any person who shall tie any horse, mule or other animal to any living tree upon any of the highways or commons of the town, or to any awning, post or column, shall be punished for each offense by a fine of not less than one nor more than ten dollars or by imprisonment in the town or county jail for not less than one nor more than ten days, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court." Sec. 7; Ordinance 18, 1900.

Moving ahead three years it is seen that Portales is just beginning to be pestered with an infestation of automobiles, and so numerous were the machines and so reckless were the speed at which the drivers propelled them through the streets, that something had to be done about it, and the following was the step taken by the city council:

"No person shall drive or propel an automobile or other motor vehicle within the Town of Portales, New Mexico, at a rate of speed to exceed eight miles per hour, nor shall any person or persons drive or propel any automobile or motor vehicle upon any street or public place in said town in a careless, reckless or negligent manner."—Sec. 1; Ordinance 45, Sept. 17, 1912.

There was the good old days, but they are gone forever!

Done this Fourth day of April, 1927.

Modern Improved Liquid Fuel Stoves are Clean and Odorless

Stoves Using Kerosene, the Safe Household Fuel, Improved in Efficiency and Appearance

USERS of liquid fuel stoves, especially in communities where it is more or less common practice to refer to any liquid fuel stove as an oil stove, should be mindful of the fact that the more volatile the fuel the greater the care that should be exercised in handling it.

The use of liquid fuel stoves is almost universal where gas is unavailable, at least during the summer months, and many housewives now use them throughout the entire year, because of their efficiency and cleanliness. The fuel most extensively used is kerosene, which has become known as the safe household fuel. Gasoline is also used to some extent.

Kerosene is commonly known as "coal oil," and kerosene stoves are correctly called oil stoves. Gasoline stoves, however, should not be confused with them for gasoline requires more careful handling.

The wide use of automobiles has somewhat allayed the fears of housewives who formerly were prejudiced against using gasoline for cooking, but this very fact is fraught with danger unless the fact that gasoline vaporizes at ordinary temperatures is constantly kept in mind, for this vapor is extremely explosive.

It is a significant fact that at least one of the large institutes devoted to the testing of household devices will not approve any such device that uses gasoline as a fuel. Users of gasoline for any purpose whether it be as a fuel, as a cleaning fluid, or what not, should remember that if it is allowed to stand in an uncovered vessel it will vaporize quickly, and unless there is plenty of ventilation to diffuse this vapor or carry it away into the open air, the striking of a match is likely to prove extremely hazardous.

Kerosene, on the other hand, does not vaporize at ordinary temperatures and is not inflammable unless first vaporized by intense heat, or by a wick which "breaks up" the kerosene into small particles so that vaporization can be started by holding a lighted match to the wick. A lighted match thrown into a vessel of kerosene will not ignite the kerosene, but the match will be put out when it is immersed in the liquid.

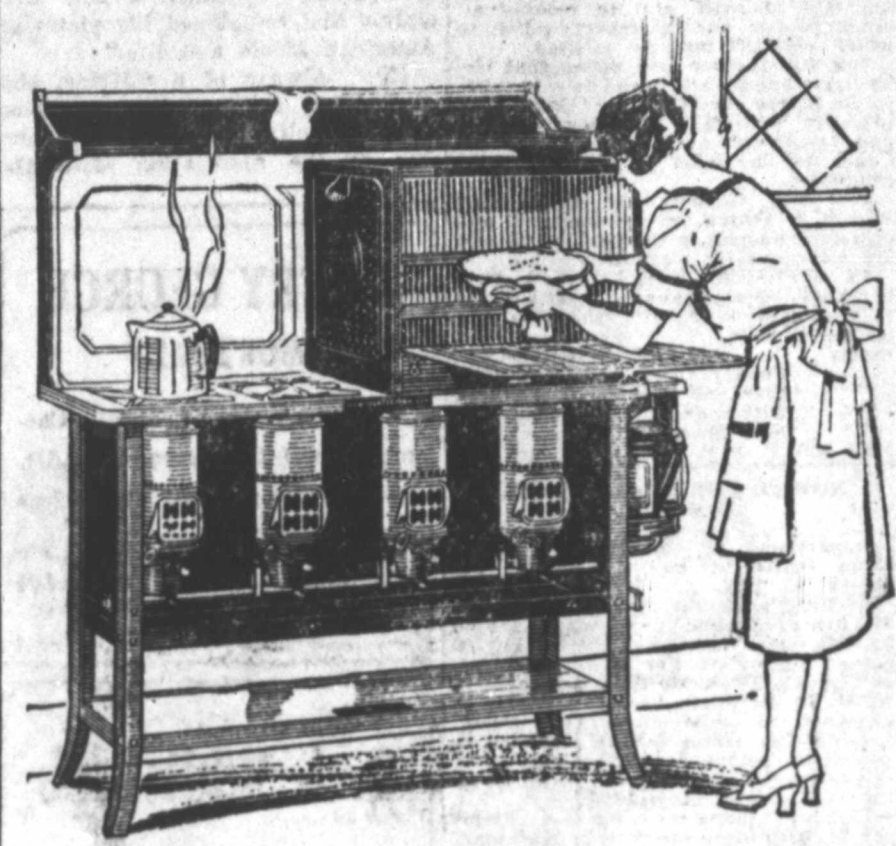

The modern oil stove bears little resemblance to the smoky, smelly stove of early years; in fact, the improvements in oil stoves in the first 27 years of this century are almost as remarkable as the improvements in automobiles. Quarter of a century ago both the automobile and the oil stove were more or less inclined to be "cranky" or at least to sputter or sputter and hesitate as if reluctant to start and keep going. Today the motor car that does not keep going is the exception instead of the rule, and this is equally true of modern oil stoves.

Correctly operated, there is comparatively little difference between the cooking ability of the better oil stoves and gas stoves; in fact, it is claimed for some of the most advanced designs in oil stove burners that they are as fast as gas, and it is demonstrable that steaks can be fried as quickly and as perfectly on a good oil stove as on a gas stove. As to smoke and soot—it should be remembered that cooking utensils are not entirely free from soot even when cooking with gas. This soot is due to cold utensils being placed directly in the flame before combustion has been completed. The cooling effect of the utensil prevents some of the fuel from burning completely, and carbon deposits itself on the utensil.

Instead of smoke and soot being "necessary evils" as some users of old-fashioned oil stoves may think, it is a fact that a certain type of burner now used on oil stoves produces cleaner heat than any other heat used in cook stoves except electricity. The only positive and absolute guarantee against smoky and sooty pots and pans is to keep them out of the flame, no matter what

The long chimney type of burner referred to before is of the wick type. Many years of experience and experimenting have proved that kerosene can be best vaporized with a cotton wick which absorbs the kerosene readily and carries it to the top of the wick where it is "broken up" by the wick into minute particles which vaporize and burn instantly at the touch of a lighted match. The cotton wick is economical of oil and under ordinary conditions will last a year or longer. The life of a burner using a wick is always much longer because it is not necessary to heat the burner to so high a temperature to vaporize the oil. In addition, the wick burner is the type of kerosene burner from which it is easiest to remove the char which always forms to some extent when kerosene is burned. This char remains on the top of the wick from which it can be

Kind of a flame it may be—coal, wood, gas, gasoline or kerosene. This has been done by some manufacturers of oil stoves by using the long chimney type of burners which are so designed that no flame touches the cooking utensils. With the long chimney burner, combustion is entirely completed within the chimney and the flame itself does not come within several inches of cooking utensils, but in spite of this fact the cooking heat produced is even greater than with other types of oil stoves.

There are many types of efficient oil stoves, some using wicks, some so-called wickless types that use asbestos collars or lighting rings which function as wicks, and others that use no wick but require special priming with a second fuel, usually gasoline, to preheat the burner so that it will vaporize the kerosene.

quickly removed with either a cloth or a patented wick cleaner.

In respect to color, also, there is little resemblance between the old-fashioned black oil stove and some of the modern gay colored stoves. The housewife of today has learned that cheerful colors brighten her "work shop" and drive out gloom just as surely as the modern convenience of the oil stove has banished a good deal of the drudgery of the old-fashioned way of cooking with coal and wood. The most recent preference seems to be for gray stoves which fit in harmoniously with the popular modern light-colored kitchen decorations. Keeping the stove clean and bright has been made easier in some cases by finishing the top with porcelain enamel instead of the ordinary paint enamel. The porcelain cooking tops are easily cleaned with a damp cloth.

and women, who aided him whenever opportunity offered.

It was out of this "War" and the subsequent outlawry that finally came peace and order and the history of the events, with their battles and sieges and wild deeds, all center about Lincoln.

The people of Lincoln have learned to realize the interest the outside world is taking in their little town and now that one of the great touring companies has placed Lincoln on its itinerary and will take tourists there, Lincoln is brushing up on its knowledge of its local points of interest and is going to restore some of them, mark others and see that tourists who come there are able to get what they come for—a first-hand view of the interesting points of one of the notable events of the wild days of the old West.

Tourists will be shown where Billy the Kid was besieged by an opposing faction, before The Kid went on his final rampage, the old ruins, the places where so many men were killed, where Billy was imprisoned, where he escaped, bullet holes in walls, the spots of desperate and bloody encounters—and a score more of places intertwined in those raw days of old. These things are interesting, because out of them came the land as we have it today—quiet, peaceful, orderful and prosperous and all the adjuncts.

Historic Old Lincoln

From the Roswell Daily Record

The little mountain town of Lincoln is the most historic place in eastern New Mexico. Its history is not what might be counted as worthy of a place in a great history of world events, but it is the history of this section of the state and has received mention in many histories and books. Lincoln was the center of the Lincoln County War, an episode of more than forty years ago, remembered by a few who were either actors or observers of those events and sought after and read by many who wish to better know the outstanding event of eastern New Mexico.

The Lincoln county war was a contest between factions growing out of livestock and commercial rivalries and it gradually enlisted most of the people of this region, then all embraced in Lincoln county. No matter which side one believes to have been right, or whether one is able to form a definite opinion, or whether, even, there was any right on either side, one cannot help but admire some of the heroic qualities of some of the deeds of blood and cruelty.

Those were days when the country was raw and primeval. Wild Indians roamed the mountains and fights with them were frequent. Indian raids and conflicts with other men almost as wild and more dangerous, made up the life of the people, together with their contests with nature in conquering a great and stark land. Out of this turmoil came William Bonney, better known as Billie the Kid. He was a killer. Said to have taken the lives of a score of men, and whether he did or not, he is known to have killed a large number. A good shot, active and quick and without fear, he made his name a terror to many and was admired by others. Some today hate him, others still admire him. There must have been some great qualities to the man, for with all his outlawry, his killings and his desperate deeds, he made friends all over the country, men
