Employment In Wellington Shows 20 Per Cent Increase Under NRA

143 Firms Sign

Blue Eagle Emblem Flies Over Majority Of Local Business Firms

One hundred and ten Blue Eagle firms in Wellington have increased employment approximately 20 per cent since the NRA began its program in this city. Increases in the payroll will add another 20 per cent to the buying power made possible by the NRA campaign.

It is contemplated that every business man, employer, workman, employee, and the head of each family in the Wellington trade territory will be present on THURSDAY NIGHT, August 31st, at the High School Auditorium. Time, 8:15.

Every phase of the NRA will be discussed, and especially by M. M. Kern, J. D. Wilson, and others, presided over by R. H. Cocke.

This is not only a meeting at which speeches will be made, but is one for organization of the nation's resources and man power to fight and win over the greatest enemy the American people have ever faced.

R. H. COCKE, Col. in Charge of Speakers' Division.

Figures compiled by C. C. Bishop and his man power committee show that 110 firms out of 136 canvasses are flying the Blue Eagle, and eight more have promised to sign up. These firms have employed 62 extra people and all of these are on full time with the exception of 8. The number now working under the NRA not counting managers and owners totals 322.

Urge Employment Of Local Men As Cotton Pickers

Ex-Service Men Will Be Given Preference On Highway Employment

Must Sign Up

All Persons Must Fill Out Applications Who Desire To Work On Road

Following the receipt of information from Austin indicating that the local re-employment office would in all probability be authorized to handle the placement of cotton pickers in Collingsworth County this fall, the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting this week issued a statement asking that all farmers of this county do not import cotton pickers this year.

J. M. Strong, in charge of the re-employment office, also stated that ex-service men with families would be given preference in employment on the highway project, in accordance with instructions received from Washington, and that all ex-service men who expected to gain employment through this source would have to fill out the proper blanks and register in his office before they would be eligible to work on the project.

In regard to the employment of cotton pickers here the Chamber of Commerce issued the following statement: "In view of the fact that the business men of Wellington are doing everything possible to hire local men and to keep down destitute conditions here this fall we feel that the farmers and the county would also be benefited by following this policy in the gathering of their cotton. "When pickers are imported the result is an increased number of unemployed persons as soon as the cotton crop is gathered—and since there are plenty of unemployed persons here in this county at the present time, it seems only plausible that every possible prevention be taken to help the local unemployed rather than increasing the number."

New Deal Store Opens Saturday

Announcement was made today that the Davis Brothers New Deal Dry Goods Store would open here on the south side of the square, next door to the City Bakery Saturday.

L. B. Childs will be manager of the store and M. G. Futor will serve as assistant.

Mr. Childs said that although the store would not hold its formal opening for several weeks that they would be open for business Saturday and extended the public an invitation to visit the store and inspect the new fall merchandise, whether they expected to purchase anything or not.

The store will carry a complete line of general dry goods merchandise including shoes, ready to wear and other items.

"The stock is an entirely new stock, recently purchased just before the advance in prices and will offer the public an opportunity to purchase new dry goods at old prices, which is part of our New Deal policy."

Thirty-Six Candidates Out For Skyrocket Eleven This Week As Training Is Started

The Wellington High School Skyrockets will this year enter the field with a comparatively new team—but as many of the neighboring teams are to discover, with a fighting team.

Wednesday morning 36 candidates had reported for the 1933 Skyrocket eleven and were going through light field practice under the leadership of Coach Billy Jarvis, who arrived in Wellington last week after attending the Northwestern University Coaching school.

Persons securing licenses still have to present health certificates from doctors, however, as in the past.

Schools To Open In Dodsonville On September 11

Sixteen Affiliated Units Granted To Schools During Past Terms

That the Dodsonville schools will officially open on Monday, September 11, was announced today by W. V. Swinburn, superintendent, who stated that an enrollment of 250 students was expected and that the schools were in a position to accomplish the greatest work ever done in their history.

"Students who enter the Dodsonville High School this year will be greatly encouraged with the announcement of the fact that the schools now have 16 affiliated credits and that work from the schools will be accepted on par with other schools over the state; students may enter college from here without taking entrance examinations."

Dodsonville schools received affiliation in four units during the past year, which gave them the required 16 affiliated credits. Outstanding on the list of new affiliations: third and fourth year English, while affiliation was also granted for one and one-half units of vocational agriculture, a new subject begun in 1932, and one-half unit in commercial arithmetic.

The staff of the Dodsonville schools now includes nine teachers most of which have their degrees at the present time.

Two Beer Raids Net 26 Bottles Of Home Brew

Texas may be "wet," but Collingsworth County is still "dry"—and evidence of the fact will be testified to by two local men from whom 26 bottles of beer were seized here Saturday.

One raid, led by Sheriff Corry, Deputy V. L. Williams and City Marshal Paul Hardy netted 19 bottles of home brew. Another raid conducted by Williams, Constable Ed Pryor and Deputy Ace Rainey resulted in the capture of seven bottles of home brew. The two men were charged with manufacture and possession and their case will come before the grand jury.

A negro was also seized by Sheriff Corry and Paul Hardy and five pints of liquor were taken from him.

"Live At Home" Program Is Urged By County Agent

Stresses Need Of More Feed And Hay In Farm Program Next Year

No Cotton Checks

Government Mailing Out Checks At Rate Of 25,000 Each Day

John O. Stovall, county agent, said here today that no definite reports had been yet received as to when the Collingsworth County cotton checks would be received. Reports from Washington, however, stated that the checks were being mailed out at the rate of 25,000 each day and that all of the checks would be placed in the mail as soon as possible.

Mr. Stovall did indicate that the government would again enforce its cotton control program next year and stated that farmers should take advantage of the situation by planting feed, alfalfa and enforcing the "live at home" policy to the best of their ability.

"We have been talking living at home to the farmers for the past few years and it seems that every farmer has been too busy growing cotton for a cheap cash crop," Mr. Stovall said. "Now that the Government has come to the rescue of the farmer and asked that he take a part of the land out of cotton it will be to his advantage in this county that he do something to defeat this high price feed that he has to buy to grow the cotton. This is the time that the farmer takes advantage of the opportunity and grow enough feed to carry on his farming program for two years. In traveling over the county I find that we have the best feed crop as a whole that we have had in several years. I would like to urge that every farmer that feels that he will have more feed than he can use in one year to construct a trench silo and put this supply down in the ground for future use. This job can be done at a very small cost. Anyone that would be interested in doing this, call at the county agent's office for information along this line. Feed put up this way will last about 30 per cent longer than if fed dry. Feed in the silo will keep for several years and still have the same feed value. Additional cost in putting up the feed in this manner will (Continued on Page Eight)

Second Theatre To Be Installed

John Bonner today definitely announced that the Griffith Amusement Company would open a second theatre in Wellington within the next few weeks.

"A location is now being selected for the theatre," Mr. Bonner said, "and as soon as the choice is made from several available locations, active work will be started on the theatre."

"The Ritz will continue to be the Class A show for Wellington, while the second theatre will be cheaper in price to meet the demand of fall business, which looks as if it will be better than in recent years."

The name of the new theatre has not been decided as yet, but Mr. Bonner said that it was definitely decided that it would be installed within a few weeks.

County Goes Dry As State Votes Wet August 26

Three Neighboring Counties Also Go Dry In Local Option Ballot

Bonds Passed

Home-Stead, Home Rule And Relief Bonds All Favored In This County

As Texas went wet by a large margin at the polls Saturday Collingsworth County, like their neighboring counties in this immediate section, voted dry on all of the beer and liquor questions.

Collingsworth citizens voted dry by a larger margin on repeal than any other liquor question, while local option gained the second largest dry vote and state-wide beer held third place.

The relief bonds carried almost two-to-one, while the home rule and homestead acts also passed by a large margin.

The county went dry on local option by a margin of 190 votes, the actual count being 637 to 447. On repeal, the county went dry 655 to 408 and on state-wide beer the county went dry by a margin of 576 to 472.

The relief bonds passed by a margin of 703 to 552. Home rule, 583 to 264; home-stead, 838 to 205. The home-stead amendment, which was simply a correction of the amendment passed last year also carried by the largest majority in the state.

All neighboring counties also voted dry on local option, although Wheeler County was reported at one time to be wet. A call to the Shamrock Texan Wednesday morning established the fact that Wheeler county is also dry. Hall, Childress and Donley are also dry. A tabulated list of the Collingsworth County vote will be found on page three of this issue.

Report General Rain Over This County Sunday

Collingsworth County received one of the most general rains of the season Sunday night as one and one-quarter inches fell in Wellington and the immediate vicinity and communities from every portion of the county reported a good rainfall.

In portions of the county the rain was considerably lighter than in Wellington. Most of the rain fell in a short time. A deluge of rain between here and Altus was also reported and three inches were said to have fallen Sunday night.

Farmers in scattered portions of the county stated that the rain was needed badly and that it will be of great benefit, especially to late crops. Most farmers also stated that the county now has plenty of moisture and that the yield per acre this year will be one of the highest in the history of the county.

OLD TIMER VISITS HERE

W. A. Hunter, accompanied by his wife and daughter, visited Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Arnn here Monday night, and had dinner with Frank Royal and family Tuesday before continuing their trip to their home at Hereford.

Elmer Goforth Sustains Burns

Elmer Goforth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Goforth, had practically recovered today from severe burns received Saturday night, while assisting in covering the top of a building with hot tar.

The tar was spilled on his shoulder and arm and left him in an extremely painful, but not critically condition Saturday night, Sunday and Monday. The burns turned his arm and shoulder black, but the flesh color will again be restored as soon as the poison from the tar is gone.

AN EMPLOYMENT FALLACY

Collingsworth County may have an army of unemployed—but they certainly do not want to join the army.

The county now has a National Re-Employment Office, located on the third floor of the courthouse, and under the supervision of J. M. Strong. The principal object of the office is to list the unemployed giving detailed information as to the ability and reliability of persons seeking jobs, as well as fitting the proper person into the right position.

The office is sponsored by the County Board of Welfare and Employment and will, among other things, handle all applications for persons seeking jobs afforded through the building of the highway north toward Shamrock. At the present time 250 persons have signed up for work.

Already, the office is faced by a severe criticism on the part of the unemployed. Persons seeking jobs declare that they have to answer entirely too many questions and a frequent protest is, "I don't aim to answer all them questions, because they ain't gonna get me in the army."

Mr. Strong states that he is faced by the answer daily and that many men are actually afraid to sign up for work because they are afraid that they will be drafted into the army. He further states that the applications in no way place the applicant in a position to be secured for army service more than any other American citizen and says that he fears many persons may deprive themselves of an opportunity to secure work because of such a belief.

The office has been merely created to serve as a clearing house between the employer and the unemployed; a clearing house which will give an employer a qualified man to fill the place which is vacant—the man in the community who is best trained for that post and who needs the work.

Other employers than the contractors are urged to take advantage of this employment office and it is felt that the farmers and business houses of Wellington can profit through an extensive use of the office.

EAT AND REDUCE

It isn't necessary to starve one's self in order to reduce weight, declares Dr. Kenyon, a leading woman specialist of New York, who prescribes a liberal diet for her too heavy patients. This is her recommendation for the day's meals:

For breakfast, a serving of fruit, one egg plus the white of another egg, coffee or tea without sugar. For lunch a large serving of lean meat, fish or fowl may be taken, or a small helping of either with a glass of buttermilk or skimmed milk, also any vegetable that grows above the ground. For dinner a liberal portion of lean meat again may be taken with vegetables and fruit, but no bread, using a bread substitute if desired. Before retiring a half cup of orange juice is permissible.

On such a diet Dr. Kenyon asserts that 13 of her women patients reduced about 30 pounds in 13 weeks, while one lost 72 and another lost 74 pounds in about nine months.

We do not guarantee this information, but simply pass it along as it was given to a women's medical society at a recent meeting.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE

No one has ever really circled the globe, because to literally do that would mean going around the world at its circumference, whether by following the equator or otherwise. But going around the world is generally understood to mean any passage around the earth between the two poles.

How the time required for this feat has been reduced is strikingly illustrated by the fact that Magellan's ship Victory, the first to circumnavigate the globe in the accepted sense, took three years, lacking 12 days, for this voyage, 1519 to 1522.

Drake made it in 1,052 days, something over a half century later. Cavendish in 1856 sailed from Plymouth, England, and returned in 781 days.

Then challenged by Jules Verne's book, "Around the World in 80 Days," Nellie Bly, a newspaper woman, went around the world by boat and train in 72 days in 1889. The next year George Francis Train did the stunt in 67 days. Other records ranging around 40 days were made in the succeeding years before the advent of the airplane.

In 1927 Linton and Wells, employing train, boat and airplane, completed the circuit in 28 days. In 1928 Mears and Collyer reduced the time to 24 days; the Graf Zeppelin in 1929 cut the record to 21 days.

Then came the real record-breakers. Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in 1931 made the trip by airplane in 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes. A few days ago the speediest world flight of all time was made by Wiley Post, one-eyed aviator, flying alone, in 7 days, 18 hours and 49 minutes. And that's something for other globe trotters to shoot at.

During the first quarter of 1933, 6,312 Jews and 515 non-Jews entered Palestine, says the Jewish statistical bureau.

One may shoot his neighbor and get away with it, but woe to the luckless gink who parks alongside a fire hydrant.

Some fear that the Macon may meet the fate of the Akron and most other dirigibles. Why not investigate this probable disaster before it happens?

Under present conditions those reforestation recruits are not the only ones who feel the urge to "take to the woods."

WELLINGTON People . . . Places . . . Philosophy

By Jimmie Gillentine

Now days one has to be careful what he says because some person is always standing around who is willing to take him up and make him prove the statement—and sometimes that can be unpleasant.

Best Story

Cicero Gulley recently took his car down to Mr. Weir's garage to have some kind of work done and Mr. Weir happened to be needing a shave. Cicero, after true barber-fashion, mentioned the fact and Mr. Weir replied, "Well, if you have your razor I would just let you shave me right now."

Sure enough, Cicero had his razor sticking in his pocket so all in fun he took it out—and Mr. Weir laid down in the running board of the car. There was nothing left for Cicero to do but give him a shave, which he did. He shaved one side of his face without even any water and for the other side he got some water.

All of which is going pretty far, but the worst thing about it all is that everyone says Mr. Weir was asleep when the shave was finished and had to be awakened.

You can believe that or not. I have to believe it, because I saw it one time before that I would believe all of these best stories. Some strange things sure do happen, though.

Yes Sir, I Have Some Pants!

It seems, also, that there is no longer any such thing as privacy. Several weeks ago I went fishing in Colorado and someone broke in the window to the car, stealing a suitcase which contained some clothes. The event was given considerable publicity through the efforts of Mayor Deskins Wells—and since my return it seems as if everyone comes by to see if I have any pants. I guess most people never saw a man without his pants, because they were all sure surprised to find that I had on a pair of pants when they saw me. And the funny part of it is that if the thieves had taken the other pair I just about wouldn't have had any pants when I got back.

Did you ever see a Half-Moon watermelon? Homer Ingram gave me one last week. They are fine melons, too, but they sure look funny on the outside—like they had the measles or something.

Habits!

Getting into the habit of doing certain things in certain ways is one of the easiest things in the world to do, it seems, and it doesn't make much difference whether the habits are good or bad, they are habits, anyhow. I have acquired the habit of coming by the post office every morning on my way to work at a certain time—and if I don't get by the office, I feel bad all day. There are a lot of other people who also come by the post office at the same time. Dr. Orr was one of them and since he has been away, I always felt just like I forgot something when I get to the office. Ollie Raburn is another, who is always at the office about the same time and so are G. R. Morgan, J. L. Burt and D. D. McDowell.

There are so many kinds of habits about little details that they sometimes cause people to seem unreasonable. I once knew a fellow who would almost fly into a rage when he saw a man smoking a cigar with the paper band on it. A lot of people have gotten into the habit of working, too, and this N. R. A. is going to leave them in a bad mental state, when they cannot work like they used to do.

Dodsonville Gets Ahead

Vance Swinburn, superintendent of the Dodsonville Schools, was here Monday getting things straightened out for the coming term, which begins September 11. Vance was all pepped up over the fact that the school now has 16 affiliated units—and that the students can enter college without taking entrance examinations. We sure have to take off our hats to the Dodsonville Schools. They have a real staff of workers down there and are really getting things done. An enrollment of 250 is expected this year and more than 60 persons are expected to enroll in the high school division.

Believe it or Don't, but Ross Wilkerson declares that he has never been inside Collingsworth County's new courthouse.

Taking cognizance of a rumor that he had dropped dead, Alderman John J. Coughlin of Chicago, sometimes called "Bath House," said: "It must have been a horse by that name."

Among other reasons offered for divorce, Mrs. Lula Gooch of Kansas City, Mo., alleged she paid with her own money for three sets of false teeth for her husband.

Mrs. Adelaide Sayre of Chicago could love her husband, she said, but when he included 28 chickens, the family cat, and 10 relatives, all living in the same house, romance took a back seat.

Forestry Boys May Enlist For Six Months More

Things Still Lively For Local Boys In Oklahoma C. C. C. Units

By JOHN HOLT

Everything is as lively as usual in the C. C. C. Camp. Work is going on about the usual rate of speed. We have finished a few projects but there are still quite a few to be started yet. We are also working on some projects that will last several months.

A number of men are still working around the camp and they are getting it in tip-top shape. In fact it will be a real modern home if they continue to make improvements. We received news from President Roosevelt this week stating that the reforestation work would continue at full force for another six months, after this term is over. We are sure that a lot of the boys will re-enlist for another six months as soon as this term ends.

We had quite a bit of excitement Saturday afternoon. There was a terrific thunder storm and lightning struck a tree about six feet from one of the tents. One of the boys was knocked unconscious. He was rushed to the hospital at Sulphur and no report as to his condition has been given. Everyone in camp felt the shock to some extent.

Alvis Hudson went home for a few days vacation and came back a day late and a dollar short. He will probably have to go on K. P. next Sunday. He said he had car trouble (trouble catching a car).

A large number of boys engaged in a terrible battle Tuesday night. They armed themselves with pillows and attacked one tent, and a most terrific battle was fought (for about 30 minutes.) F. E. Moore happened to be in the most dangerous part of the battle. He held his own for quite a while, but so many gathered around him he had to retreat. He went to his bunk to rest, but the crowd followed, and the fight continued longer. F. E. finally won but when the fight was over his cot was a total wreck. Since then, he has had an enjoyable time sleeping the floor. He will see the price of a cot galloping across his pay check, but it will all come out in the wash.

Roy C. Hardin has gone back to the old fishing habit again. He always catches a lot of nice fish but he never brings any back to camp. He throws them back in the creek (he just fishes for the sport, anyway.)

Oran Lemley has been visiting in Sulphur every week end for the past several weeks. We do not know why he goes so often, but we do know there are several pretty girls there, and we think he is interested in one of them.

The C. C. C. is not so bad after all.

THIRTEEN STARS AND HUNDREDS OF "GOLD DIGGERS OF 1933" PLAYERS IN MUSICAL EXTRAVAGANZA

According to the Ritz management, the biggest show of the year is scheduled to be the highlight of the week's attractions.

"Gold Diggers of 1933" Is the Big Attraction

It is claimed that no picture since the advent of Sound and Talking picture has created the sensation accorded "Gold Diggers of 1933." This dazzling musical extravaganza surpasses all records for elaborateness and scenic achievement in settings. Thirteen stars appear in the cast of hundreds of players. Three hundred beautiful girls, selected from five thousand applicants appear in the dazzling chorus ensembles. Many stars and players from the cast of "42nd Street" will be seen in "Gold Diggers." And many new faces will surround them. The picture is scheduled for opening with Saturday night's preview, running through Sunday and Monday.

Saturday Is Another Bargain Day—10c To All

On Saturday preceding the run of "Gold Diggers of 1933," is another big treat. It is in the way of another bargain day. The price both matinee and night through Saturday will be 10c. Such a bargain was extended on Saturday of last week, and it was such a tremendous success than Manager Bonner announced another special 10c day for next Saturday. The feature picture is "Some Where In Sonora," featuring John Wayne and his famous horse, Duke. The second chapter of "Phantom of the Air" and a cartoon comedy completes the bill.

Thursday and Friday Dubbed Laugh Days

The picture which opens at the Ritz today and runs through Friday, is "The Nuisance," starring that laugh provoking comedian, Lee Tracy. The picture contains many thrills, since part of Lee's main duties are to arrange accidents or other acts of misdemeanor to keep his business collecting fees moving along swiftly. His side-line however, is love, and while he is right in the midst of his racket of accidents made to order, a lovely blond makes him over. Through it all laugh after laugh predominates.

USE OF TRENCH SILOS

Years ago above-ground silos were tried extensively in Texas and for the most part failed, or at least, ceased to be used. In the last two years county agents have been showing farmers how to dig and fill trench silos with feed at a ridiculously low cost. Now they are spreading rapidly all over the State. Last year 393 new ones were dug and a total of 523 filled.

Morris Flatz and Robert White of Desplaines, Ill., were arrested for fighting after an argument over the merits of their respective cat and dog.

Texans! Heed this 1933 War Call from the Economic Front

A historic Texas institution is in a fight and invites you to pitch in!

The history of Texas is a romantic story of courage and thrilling adventure. The early settlers had first to make Texas a free land for free men. Then came the prolonged struggle against the virgin wilderness, to convert Texas into the modern and glorious state she is today. But the path of progress was not always strewn with roses. Economic reactions of the past interrupted but could not retard the determined advance of a determined people.

So, the history of Texas is also a tale of strife against odds, dogged persistence and rigid self-discipline. Her people have always clung together in a community of spirit, so the world acknowledges a loose-knit fraternity among Texans—without formal membership, but irresistible when aroused.

Today, though the strife has been transferred from military to economic fronts, the spirit of Texas citizenship will rise again in defense of an institution which is as much a part of Texas history as Sam Houston, Davy Crockett or James Bowie. That institution is the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Lines.

The same independence and freedom from outside domination that is born in the blood of every Texan is also an inheritance of the Katy. That independence and that freedom is now threatened by pressure from without and the pioneering Katy, which played so rich a part in the conquering of the wilderness and making Texas the home land it is, comes directly to her people for support.

The Katy has been self-sustaining and self-supporting throughout the last four disheartening years. With heroic determination and supreme effort, the Katy has fought to avoid seeking help from any quarter. Now, with victory in sight—the economic skies clearing—one final effort must be put forth.

One course would be to appeal to the Government of the United States for money from the public treasury, and so increase the national burden. The other way is to appeal to the men and women of Texas. This is done here, directly and straightforwardly, without hesitation, apology or sacrifice of pride. For, has not the Katy contributed its full share to the pioneering and developing of this great land, and does it not stand today a Texas institution devoted to the service and welfare of Texas people?

Texans! Only a little cooperation is asked. Route every available shipment via Katy Lines—patronize Katy trains when you travel. The resulting increase in revenue will enable the Katy to remain self-supporting— independent, free from the need for outside capital which charges as its price the sacrifice of identity and freedom, which this generation of Texans holds as near and dear as their fathers before them.

Never in the past has Texas refused to rise in defense of her native and traditional institutions. She will not refuse now!

Plans For School Opening Given By Supt. G. L. Farrar

Important Changes Called To Attention Of Teachers

Complete plans for the opening of the Wellington public schools on September 4 have been announced by G. L. Farrar, superintendent. A list of thirty one teachers for the current year has also been issued, which will include two new teachers in the High School.

Following are the details pertaining to the opening of the Wellington Public Schools, September 4, 1933:

1. All seniors and all 7th grade pupils will enroll Thursday, August 31, from 8:00 to 12:00 a. m.
2. All Junior (10th grade) and all 6th grade pupils will enroll Thursday, August 31, from 1:00 to 4:00 p. m.
3. All Sophomores (9th grade) and all 5th grade pupils will enroll Friday, September 1 from 8:00 to 12:00 a. m.
4. All Freshmen (8th grade) and all 4th grade pupils will enroll Friday, September 1 from 1:00 to 4:00 p. m.

Note: all senior high pupils will enroll in the senior high building and all junior high pupils will enroll in the junior high building.

All 1st, 2nd and 3rd grade pupils will enroll at their respective buildings on Monday morning, September 4 at 9:00 a. m.

All pupils from and including the 4th grade and to including the 11th grade (seniors) will be housed this year in the senior and junior high buildings.

7. Important Change Plan—Take Notice: There will be only two teachers in the West Side Schools this year—a first grade teacher and a second grade teacher. All pupils who live west of or on the west side of Childress street (This street runs in front of the First Christian Church, or one block west of the First Methodist Church) and who belongs in the first and second grades will first enroll at the West Side school on Monday morning, September 4, at 9:00 o'clock. But we wish distinctly understood that Childress street is only a temporarily line for this purpose and may have to be changed. Our one objective will be to balance the teaching load for first and second grade pupils and if we have to make transfers from one building to the other in order to give these teachers about the same number of pupils, and we reserve the right to do so. We intend to balance the teaching load for those teachers, and if transfers are necessary to do so, then we shall proceed to make transfers. This point must be distinctly understood by all. We shall try to transfer those pupils who live on or near Childress street and who belong in the first and second grades.

8. All first and second grade pupils who live East of or on the East Side of Childress street, and all third grade pupils will enroll at the East Side School on Monday morning, September 4, at 9:00 o'clock.

9. Combination Locks: all pupils who belong in the junior and senior high buildings must have some kind of lock to go on their lockers. This is very necessary, so please help us on this item.

10. Ink Money: All pupils in the junior and senior high buildings should contribute 10c each semester (four and one-half months) to pay his or her part of the ink bill. This is by far the most economical and safest way to solve the ink problem, and we ask that you help us in this matter also.

11. Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Lewis the past few weeks.

12. Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Henry and daughter, Martha Jeanne and son, Silas Jr., spent last week visiting in Gallup, New Mexico with Mrs. Henry's sister, Mrs. Oscar Pfaff, and family. This is the first time they have been together in fifteen years. While they were there they attended the Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial.

13. P. E. Starr and Walter Watson attended the Ginners Convention held in Dallas the first of the week.

14. Gordon Rogers of Childress is transacting business in Wellington this week.

15. Miss Mary Lewis visited with relatives in Amarillo, Wednesday.

16. A. Y. Bell and Elzie White transacted business in Oklahoma City, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

17. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hunter of Hereford are guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Arnn this week. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter lived in this county sixteen years ago.

18. R. W. Miller returned this week from Corsicana where he has been transacting business and visiting relatives and friends.

19. Misses Margaret and Argen Hix returned this week from Lubbock where they have been attending school.

20. Mrs. J. H. Weatherby of Cary spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Richardson.

21. Mrs. Frank Thomas of Fresno, California is here this week visiting her sister, Mrs. W. S. Deatherage, and family.

22. Dr. E. W. Jones returned from Mineral Wells bringing me kind words pronounced by J. J. Taylor, who is better known as State Press of the Dallas News. Dr. Jones found Mr. Taylor to be a pleasant and instructive conversationalist. I have known this for several years but it was cheering to find my estimate verified. Joe Taylor, who is known and loved by every newspaper man in Texas, has spent a few weeks in Mineral Wells each summer for the past several years. This year he was drinking the water and playing the corn game. And lest I damage the reputation of a staunch prohibitionist, I had better explain that the corn game is played with grains of corn and not with a bottle.

23. J. E. Admire is not the sort of man who tells whoppers. If he promised me that he would do something on a definite date I would wager my last dime on that promise being fulfilled. He is honest and he can be depended upon, but my oh my, listen to this chicken story he told me. He set an old hen with ordinary eggs, and when they hatched one of the baby chicks crowed when it was three days old. Furthermore the chick didn't crow once, but it crowed on several occasions over a period of several days, and J. E. wasn't the only person who heard it. He has a number of witnesses, I told him if he would get a picture and a few affidavits that the chicken with down on it instead of feathers actually crowed that Ripley would probably run it in his feature. If that chicken feels like that when he is less than a week old, how will he do—oh well, I guess I had better start writing about something else.

24. Sam Kennedy, the colored man who lives back of my house stopped me after the circus the other day and said: "I sure wish I could have gone to that circus, I used to be with that circus." Thinking that perhaps he helped put up tents or something, I told him I didn't believe he ever traveled with the Al G. Barnes circus. With that he tore around the corner and came back dragging a whole suitcase full of posters and clippings that he had saved from his circus days. His picture was on a poster of a negro band, and there were many others. Besides that there were clippings of newspapers reciting his work with a minstrel team. He had been a member of six different shows and circuses, and he has traveled throughout the south, the middle west and in Canada. It made me a little sad to think of this man who once drew a nice salary and who earned it by merit, for it takes real ability for a negro to rise in this country. Sam shines shoes and is quite cheerful about it. He had to quit no account of his health, but he doesn't complain about it. He goes right ahead and makes the best of what life has to offer.

25. Just to give you an idea of what some of the notices were like that Sam showed me, I want to reproduce one by Bob Emmet published less than 2 years ago: Here's a Minstrel Fan writing of color minstrel stars of days gone by when Rusco and Holland's famous Georgia minstrel and several other troupes of like importance were in flower. He recalls Billy Kersands of the cavernous mouth whose singing of "I'm going to live and how, until I die, 'Go back and sit down,'" and "Preacher and the Bear" and other songs of that time, won him popularity: Clarence Powell, Billy King, Tom McIntosh, John Ruckler, John Larkens, Harrison Stewart, S. H. Dudley and Skinner Harris. These men he writes were as funny as ever were seen on the minstrel stage. Then for real singers and dancers there were no sweeter voices or nimble legs than those of Benny Jones, Slow Kid Thompson, Bud Shaw, Cuba Austin, Sam Kennedy, Harrison Blackburn, Kid Owens, Kid Clark and others of that type. The show world seems to have forgotten those old colored boys, but the minstrel show will go on because the public wants it.

26. Collingsworth County went dry. There were quite a few who were disappointed about it, but there were very much surprised up at Dalhart. John McCarty staged an ardent dry campaign, and his county voted wet. John McCarty has been called the Carey Nation of Panhandle newspapermen, but that didn't keep his people from voting wet. However, it wasn't John's fault, the weather has been such in Dalhart for the past year that the word dry makes a Dallam County resident positively sick.

27. It remained for a Republican to demonstrate a real belief in the success of the new deal. I went by to get Ernest Lewis' ad and he had C. H. Elliott busy remodeling shelving. I asked what the mess was all about and he said he was just demonstrating his belief in President Roosevelt. The first thing you know he will be issuing a statement saying that he thinks Roosevelt is a better president than Hoover.

28. Robbie Wells Entertains Thursday Evening. Friends of Miss Robbie Wells were guests at her home Thursday evening, August 24, for a supper and bridge party. The guests found their places at the card tables where they were served supper before the bridge games.

Vacant Land May Be Used To Increase Yield On Local Farms

Extension Head Discusses Uses Of Vacant Land

Live At Home Policy Advocated In Line With Plow-Up Program

COLLEGE STATION.—A great boost for the continuation of living at home practices in Texas is seen in the cotton acreage reduction already accomplished and the wheat acreage control now up for consideration, in the opinion of O. B. Martin, director of the Texas A and M College Extension Service.

"Acres retired from cotton and wheat production can be planted only to soil enrichment or soil erosion prevention crops, or to food for home use or to feed to be fed to livestock to be consumed at home," he explains. "Farmers who have signed cotton contracts or who may sign wheat contracts are not to be allowed to plant crops to be sold on the market either directly or through livestock. This simply means that retired acres are in for cover crops to protect the land from washing, for legumes or green crops to be turned under for building the land, or for live at home crops."

"The Extension Service live at home demonstration known as 'Filling the Farm-Storehouse' requires on the average 25 acres of land for producing food for a family of five and feed for the necessary animals," he says. "Both owners and tenants who have had a hard time to find that much land to devote to living at home should now have plenty for this purpose. 'The homely diet of living at home brought the majority of Texas farmers safely through the ailments of the depression,' Mr. Martin points out. 'With the cotton and wheat fever abated through acreage reduction, this same living at home system ought to make for added prosperity in the better years ahead.'"

"Detailed yet simple plans for producing on the farm most of the food required by a farm family, and for storing and preserving it for year 'round use are outlined in demonstration plans now in use by thousands of Texas farm families. County farm and home demonstration agents are prepared to help others begin this demonstration," Mr. Martin states.

Battle Of Adobe Walls Recalled

It was only a little more than 59 years ago—June 27, 1974—that marauding tribes of Indians made their last attempt to wrest the rich buffalo hunting grounds of the Texas plains from the hands of white men—and lost.

The battle of Adobe Wells, fought in the beautiful Canadian Valley in Hutchinson county, although not the last Indian battle in the Panhandle, brought on the government campaign which led to the subjugation of the unruly tribes and their confinement to reservations within the Indian Territory.

Skermishes which followed the Adobe Wells fight were defensive gestures—fight with supply trains or scouting parties—as United States troops sought to drive the outlaw bands from the territory.

Adobe Wells is the San Jacinto of the Panhandle. Twenty-eight white men, under the leadership of the famous Indian fighter and Scout, Billy Dixon, routed several hundred Indians—no one knows how many—who were led by such chiefs as Quanah Parker, Lone Wolf and Little Robe. There was color in the setting and heroism in the fight. And most of those who survived the fight believed an act of Providence prevented their being massacred in their sleep.

It was the cracking of a cotton-wood ridge pole in Hanrahan's saloon, one of the adobe buildings in the little trading post, which saved the men's lives. Awakened by the noise, those sleeping in the saloon aroused their companions to help brace the ridgepole for fear that the earthen roof might be dumped into their faces if repairs were delayed. Some of the men were still awake when at daybreak—the Indians' favorite time to attack—the horde of red warriors swept down the Canadian Valley like a "gigantic wave."

Two men sleeping in their wagon near the buildings were killed before they could reach the protection of the adobe houses. A third died early in the fighting. It was never known how many Indians were killed. The battle raged from daylight until late afternoon, with the well-directed shots of the buffalo hunters taking toll with each volley.

The final shot of the battle was fired on the morning of the second day when Dixon shot an Indian from his saddle as a small group looked down from the summit of a hill 1,538 yards away. Dixon's companions, as well as the Indians, marveled at the marksmanship.

Those at the trading post were left without horses following the battle. As soon as transportation could be obtained, the hunters were returned to Dodge City, Kansas. Gen. Nelson A. Miles and his troops reached the battle site in August. The post was abandoned in 1878.

Kiowas, Comanches and Cheyennes participated in the fight.

Mrs. Hannah Cotton of Kingsport, Eng., was ordered to slow down her speech to 90 words a minute.

Miss Edith Bursot of Turin, Italy, was sentenced to 46 days in jail for throwing a pillow at a railroad official on a train.

Words underscored by Mrs. Emily Punched of London in a poem resulted in her husband being granted a divorce.

Wheat Plan Terms Listed By Agent

Payments And Other Phases Similar To Cotton Retirement Plan

COLLEGE STATION.—Just how the individual Texas farmer may figure for himself on what terms he may cooperate with the Government in the domestic allotment plan for wheat is described in material just received by the Extension Service from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington.

Suppose you live in a county where the county five-year average of wheat production just equals the county three-year average production, that you raised 1000 bushels from 60 acres in 1930, 1500 bushels from 65 acres in 1931, and 800 bushels from 55 acres in 1932. Your average production for these years was 1100 bushels and your average acres 60. Your domestic allotment would be 54 per cent of the 1100 bushels or 594 bushels, and this would be your allotment for this year and 1934 and 1935 without change. On this 594 bushels you would be paid by the Government in the form of an extra premium not less than 28 cents per bushel nor more than 30 cents per bushel, less the expense of local administration. You would receive from $166.32 to $178.20, less local administration cost, $118.80 soon after September 15th and the balance about June 1, 1934. The cost of local administration by county wheat production control association is estimated at 2 cents per bushel or $11.98.

You would be free to sell your wheat crop when, where and to whom you pleased. If you have already sold your 1933 crop that would not matter. Your 1933 crop, however, must have totalled at least your allotment or 594 bushels or the amount seeded in the fall of 1932 must have been enough at average yields to have produced at least this amount.

In return for these payments and similar ones which may be authorized by the Secretary of Agriculture for 1934 and 1935 you would sign a three-year contract by which you would agree to reduce acreage as directed by the Secretary not to exceed 20 per cent. Your three-year average acreage was 60 acres, therefore you would be asked to reduce your acres this fall by not more than 12, leaving you 48 acres. You would not be compelled to sow as much as 48 acres but you would have to sow enough to produce your allotment of 594 bushels, assuming average yields. Your three-year average yield was 18.3 bushels per acre, and at this rate you would have to sow at least 32.4 acres to comply with your contract.

To fulfill your contract you would have to sow and farm your wheat acreage in a workmanlike manner, and replace the retired wheat crops with no crops other than those for soil enrichment, prevention of soil erosion, food for home use, or feed for livestock to be used at home.

If you perform your part of the contract the Government will pay you the extra benefits described whether you make a crop or not. The payments this fall and next spring will be made regardless of whether your 1933 crop failed or made. In this respect the plan furnishes crop insurance.

To cooperate in the plan you must sign a contract in the coming campaign and cannot join, as late as next year. You must abide by the contract the full three-year period (1933-34-35), and failure to live up to the contract will cause the Government to collect back any advances paid.

The contract attaches to the farm and not the farmer. If you move to another farm the tenant who follows you must abide by the contract. If you move to a farm where a contract is in force you must abide by it. Landlords and tenants share in benefits in exact proportion to their rental agreements.

In the example given above it was assumed that you live in a county where the three-year average wheat production was the same as the average county five-year production. If you happen to live in a county where wheat acreage has been increasing and the three-year average for 1930-31-32 is higher than the county five-year average, your allotment would be reduced in proportion. On the other hand if wheat acreage has been decreasing in your county and the three-year average is lower than the five year average your allotment would be increased in proportion.

More detailed explanation of the workings of the plan, especially on how county wheat production control associations are to be organized and how they will adjust individual farm allotments, may be obtained from local county agents.

LETTERS From the PEOPLE

(Editor's Note: The Leader will gladly publish any acceptable article which is submitted by readers, provided that the articles are signed by the readers and are free from libelous or malicious contents.)

I want, personally, to take this method of expressing my gratitude and appreciation to my collaborators and friends who have contributed to the campaign in behalf of the United Forces For Prohibition. I am especially grateful to Rev. Dameron and Rev. King whose work is in the rural sections. They have contacted more people and more other preachers who have helped to carry on the work than any one else. The results of their labors have been gratifying. We would in no way detract from the valuable services rendered by the other ministers and officers, their service was invaluable.

Gratefully yours,
D. W. Simpson, Chairman,
United Forces For Prohibition, Collingsworth County.

Miss Emma Fay of Buffalo wore her employer's trousers to a masquerade and was sent to jail.

In his farewell sermon to his congregation in Bath, Eng., Rev. W. C. Glengle said, "I am glad to leave the stingiest parish I ever served."

Cotton Raising Cost Is Lowest

Cost of producing cotton in Texas averaged 7.8c pound in 1932 or $13.23 per acre, rent included, or 6.1c a pound and $10.28 per acre without including rent, the United States Department of Agriculture states in a preliminary estimate. This compares with the United States average of 9c a pound or $16.23 per acre (rent included); Texas costs per pound and per acre were lower than in any other state.

Average cost per pound for other states, with rent included, was: North Carolina 8.5c, South Carolina 8.6c, Georgia 10.5c, Alabama 10.8c, Tennessee 8.6c, Mississippi 11.6c, Louisiana 10.8c, Arkansas 9.3c, Oklahoma 7.9c, and other states 8.4c per pound.

Average selling price of Texas cotton last season, however, was about 5c a pound, slightly lower than the estimated production cost without allowing for rentals. Texas as yield average 169 pounds per acre, against the United States average of 181 pounds.

Found guilty of disorderly conduct by a Philadelphia court, Mrs. Carolina Day called the judge "a disreputable villain," and he doubled her sentence.

A crime ring probably surpassing any other organization in the annals of Texas crime history has been unearthed at Fort Worth in the search for the bodies of three missing men, Jack Sturdivant, Harry Rutherford and J. B. Rutherford. The finding of three sets of blood-stained clothing and later the horribly mutilated bodies of the three men, enmeshed in only a hog wire net for a shroud, eventually led to the arrest of four men charged with the murder. Investigations also solved the mystery of the $71,000.00 mail truck robbery at Fort Worth last February, the same four men and one other being arrested and charged with the crime. Thousands of dollars worth of narcotics were found in the home of O. D. Stevens near Handley, which has been headquarters of a big drug ring, and headquarters of the men murdered and other men indicate. Police say Stevens was head of this ring and "Master Mind" of the mail robbery.

cost very little more than the usual way of handling the feed. This plan has proven most satisfactory to some of the ranchers that have cattle to winter. This plan has been tried in the northwest part of this county and proved a success.

"Work stock on the farms need more roughage and now is the time to plant alfalfa on some of the cotton land that has been taken out of production. There is no question about alfalfa doing well in this county since our counties on the east have grown this crop for cash and made good money. Fall planting of alfalfa gives the best results. This gives the crop a chance to get rooted and started before the weeds come on in the spring. With the season that we have in this county at this time we should get a large acreage of alfalfa planted. I would be glad to assist anyone in this matter, and send word or call at the office of the county agent."

Miss Ruth Boarman, history instructor, holds her A. B. Degree from Southern Methodist University and her Master's Degree from the University of Oklahoma. Miss Boarman is beginning her third year as instructor in the Dodsonville schools and has done much toward the upbuilding of the schools.

His department bids to be one of the most popular in the school.

Fans reported the game to be one of the best that has been played here this season, despite the fact that it was won by such a large margin and the victory gave Dodsonville a decision over the Quail nine, each of the teams having taken one game in the tournament here last week.

Immunization From Diphtheria In This State Is Motive

Austin, Texas.—Dr. H. N. Barnett, Director, Bureau of Child Hygiene, State Department of Health, in a statement today, urged all parents to have their children immunized against diphtheria. Each child six months old or over should have this preventive treatment now as it takes some time for immunity to develop after the last inoculation.

In the use of toxoid we have an agent that will give passive immunity to this disease; still 812 persons died last year in Texas from diphtheria. Two-thirds of all cases occur before the tenth year and approximately eighty per cent of the death from this disease occur between the ages one to five years. Our young children are therefore in danger of contracting the disease and dying from it.

It is treacherous disease. The first symptom are so indefinite that the mother can easily overlook closely for the sign of diphtheria in order to discover them as the child does not necessarily complain of pain in the throat. Take your children to your family physician and have them protected against diphtheria.

This is a special appeal to the parents of Texas. If you have children between the ages of six months and twelve years, who have not been immunized against this dreadful disease, have them protected by the injection of toxoid. Parents who know that it is now possible to prevent diphtheria and nevertheless fail to have their children immunized, take a great responsibility on their shoulders. The immunization consists of two to three injections three to six weeks apart. When prevention is so simple, do not take chances on illness and possible death from diphtheria.
