OKLAHOMAN NEAR DEATH FROM AVENGING SHOTS

Pipe Line Operators And Producers Gather For Hearing On Proration Charges

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

This home town talker has been advocating the elimination of grade crossings on the state highways and especially the grade crossings on the Colorado to the Gulf highway in Wichita county. But there are a good many underpasses and overpasses that are almost as dangerous, if not more so, than grade crossings and when we go to build them we want them to be as safe as possible.

Talker is reminded of this by the announcement that the state highway commission is planning a new underpass at Oklaunion, where two trainmen were killed and several persons injured after a truck going through the underpass had knocked the railroad tracks out of line. There is a dangerous overpass at Bowie, too, that ought to be replaced with one that is safe, at the earliest time practicable.

Away back yonder in the Wilson administration we had the impression that a federal officeholder could not be active in politics. Now come Republican leaders in Texas telling federal appointees that it is not against the law to work and make contributions to that party, and rather plainly intimating that they ought to do so.

And the collector of internal revenue says that by enough money, spent legitimately, a Republican could be elected governor in Texas next month. Economists tell us that what we need to end hard times is more spending, and if the Republicans want to start it, Talker is quite willing.

John Garner, fiery Texas congressman, several weeks ago called attention to the list of contributors to the Republican campaign fund in 1928 and the list of tax refunds made by the treasury department. Of course this has nothing to do with the statement of the collector of internal revenue mentioned above.

A booth that is attracting a great deal of attention at the Dallas fair is the exhibit of the Wichita Falls irrigated district. With a large number of products grown in the district in the foreground and a model of the dams and lakes and canals of the district in the background displayed in a favorable location, thousands of people have been attracted to make inquiries of those in charge of the booth.

Talker would say that now is the time to promote the irrigation district. It is proven that a wide variety of products can be grown in the district. It is true that profitable operation has not yet been discovered, but with the urge to experiment and to make repeated trials, profitable crops will be discovered.

G. D. Anderson and Judge C. B. Felder are attending a conference at San Antonio the object of which is to brong about a cotton reduction acreage. The menace of a big cotton crop is greater next year than ever before with the largest carryover known in the history of the country.

James Kerney, writing in the North American Review, predicts that Dwight Morrow will triumph in the New Jersey senatorial contest by half a million votes. He believes Morrow will get all the Republican votes and at least a third of the Democrats. Morrow, he points out, while advocating the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, is still hopeful that a better solution of the liquor problem will be found.

"It is the wholly unregulated liquor traffic that has grown up under prohibition that bothers Morrow," writes Kerney. "He regards the problem as governmental and frankly believes that the old system of state control is better than the existing system of federal control. That's all. He is not a miracle worker. He would like to see the churches and schools and social workers all engaged in an old-fashioned temperance movement to give battle to the world-old liquor problem. All over the state, among sane-thinking people, Morrow has aroused a realization of the governmental error and the evil effects of constitutional prohibition. His is the task of pointing a way to a wise and statesmanlike solution of the vexing problem, which, until it is settled rationally, will subordinate all other social, economic and governmental problems."

Talker believes there is more hope for a solution of the liquor traffic problem from men like Morrow than from those who cry their adherence to prohibition from the housetops and believe that the Volstead act is the furthest advance toward prohibition.

Talker has felt that the election of Hoover may have been a blow to prohibition. It would have been if there had not been men like Morrow who had the courage and the ability to rattle the dry bones of acceptance and satisfaction with the conditions that exist and are growing worse.

Army Bombs to Bombard Oklahoma Granite Hill

POST FIELD, LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 21. (UP)—What happens when airplanes drop bombs big enough to wreck an entire city will be revealed here when three giant United States army Condor planes soar aloft for a test. They await clear weather to go up with T.N.T. bombs weighing 2,000 pounds, which they will drop on Signal mountain, a granite hill on the artillery range here.

COMMISSION TO HEAR THREE DISTINCT CASES

North Texas Group Pushes Charges of Discrimination By Carriers

OIL CURB AT STAKE

Two West Texas Problems To Be Thrashed Out By Inquiry

AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP)—Pipe line operators from all parts of Texas were holding caucuses here tonight preliminary to a hearing before the state railroad commission tomorrow concerning alleged discriminations by the common carriers of oil under the state-wide proration schedule.

Three separate oil hearings were scheduled for the commission, Tomorrow morning two pipe line hearings were to be held—the general hearing and one on specific complaint of the North Texas Oil and Gas association against companies operating in that area—and tomorrow afternoon a hearing for Reagan county operators.

Several Charges

Several specific violations were alleged against the pipe line companies, including failure to make connections to new wells, failure to take oil ratably between wells and between fields, and discrimination.

Since the proration order presupposed that the pipe line companies would not discriminate, and would take their nominations ratably from all wells and fields, these alleged discriminations have an important bearing on the utlimate success of proration.

The Reagan county hearing has been hanging fire for several weeks—ever since the proration order was put into effect Aug. 27. At that time, the Big Lake field, in Reagan county, and the gulf coast district both were placed on "probation" to allow producers to work out problems peculiar to their fields.

Deep Well Problem

The Big Lake field's problem is concerned with the difficulty of cutting down production in the deep wells. The commission called the hearing after operators had made no apparent effort to cut production, in the face of a report, Dave Donoghue, technical expert for the operators' proration committe, that there was a great waste of gas in the field.

There was some doubt as to whether the commisison would complete its hearing of pipe line complaints in time to get to the Reagan county hearing tomorrow.

Girl Near Death in Vain Fight to Save Chum

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 21. (AP)—A 15-year-old girl was killed at a railroad crossing today and her 13-year-old chum was critically injured in trying to save her.

Marie Gantini and Frances Stavin started to cross the tracks on their way to school. Marie stumbled and her foot jammed against one of the rails. Then the gates went down and the warning bell announced an approaching train.

Frances refused to leave her friend behind, and they were still tugging at the trapped foot when the train rolled up to them. Marie was instantly killed and Frances, tossed by the engine to one side, suffered a fractured skull.

Detective O'Loughlin Quits Sickbed To Bury Child and Solve Her Murder

DENVER, Oct. 21. (AP)—Detective Leo O'Loughlin quit his hospital bed today determined to solve the mystery of the murder of his 10-year-old daughter, Leona, whose body was found in Berkeley lake here a week ago.

At almost the same hour O'Loughlin left for his home, his wife, Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, held by police for investigation, was denied bond after her attorneys applied for a writ of habeas corpus. She is the stepmother of the child.

"My first duty is to give Leona a proper burial," O'Loughlin said. "After that I am going to take an active part in the investigation of Leona's death. I want to see justice done regardless of whose toes are trampled upon."

His first act after reaching his home was to make arrangements for the burial of Leona. With his father, Dennis O'Loughlin, he went to the mortuary and sobbed as he saw his daughter's body.

The child is to be buried tomorrow at Fort Collins, Colo., by the side of her mother who died a year ago.

Police late today took Mrs. O'Loughlin to the mortuary to view the body of Leona. The woman fell to her knees and prayed. At the end of her prayer she arose and thrust both hands above her head and cried, "So help me God, I know nothing about this death."

Mrs. O'Loughlin was returned to her cell in the city jail.

Laboratory tests have indicated the child and her father, Detective O'Loughlin, were fed ground glass.

'Baering' Down On The News

With

ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

We sound our annual government warning against the stuff now being sold as holiday liquor.

Some years ago we wrote the rye would tip your hat with both hands in your pockets. Accept no substitutes.

The bourbon is much better. They spray trees with it in the summer. None genuine without an inquest.

Scotch is the best. One drink will turn your skin into a pie crust. Two drinks will simonize you. Money back if not ossified.

Take the dew from the poison ivy, the tears of a wildcat and condense the moisture on a shark's rosy cheeks. Shake them up well and take a sip. We will guarantee that you will swish through the skies like a comet with two tails.

Even the owners of speakeasies are afraid of the stuff. They don't slug patrons any more. The last time a bartender kicked a customer the man exploded.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF SUN VIEWED

Astronomers Get Pictures Of Phenomenon

NIUAFOU ISLAND, Oct. 22. (Wednesday) (AP)—Weeks of patient waiting and construction by American astronomers on this tiny island in the south Pacific were rewarded today when 41 photographs of a total eclipse of the sun were taken successfully.

The eclipse and weather were excellent.

The eclipse began at 7:55 a. m. (2:38 p. m. Tuesday, eastern standard time) became total at 9:09 a. m. (3:51 p. m., Tuesday, eastern standard time) and ended at 10:31 a. m. (5:14 p. m. Tuesday, eastern standard time) duration of the total eclipse was 93½ seconds.

The New Zealand expedition announced its observations of the eclipse also were entirely successful.

This island, commonly known as "tin can island" because the monthly mail is delivered to its inhabitants in sealed tin cans droped overboard by passing steamers, was one of the only two land spots in the world where the spectacle was visible.

BLAST OF TON OF DYNAMITE KILLS 131 MEN

Eighty Bodies Recovered In Wreckage of German Coal Mine

TOLL MAY INCREASE

10,000 Persons Saddened By Second Disaster In Four Months

BERLIN, Oct. 21. (AP)—The Wolff news agency said tonight the known dead totalled 131 so far in the dynamite blast of the Anna mine in Alsdorf early today. The agency added 35 bodies had not yet been brought to the surface and said 140 men still were down in the mine awaiting rescue.

ALSDORF, Germany, Oct. 21. (AP)—Explosion of a ton of dynamite in the No. 2 shaft of the Anna coal mine here this morning killed probably 100 men.

The number has not been definitely established immediately, with the Prussian government press bureau estimating 100 and mine officials calculating the total at less, but 60 bodies had been recovered by 9 o'clock tonight and 20 more were taken from a collapsed building on the surface.

In addition, 76 miners were in the hospital, with the likelihood of some of them dying, while about 150 others still were awaiting rescue from a gallery beneath the scene of the explosion. Relief experts believed part of these, who will be reached from neighboring galleries not damaged, will be found dead.

10,000 in Mourning

The explosion, which occurred 1,200 feet below the surface, dealt death and destruction for miles around and brought grief to the 10,000 inhabitants of this mining town. All day long weeping wives and children waited outside the pit mouth.

Apparently there were three ex-

Moody Bides Decision on Special Session After Hearing of Distress

AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP)—Two request for a special session of the legislature, for two separate forms of farm relief, were heard today by Gov. Dan Moody, without either delegation, from widely separated sections of the state, receiving appreciable encouragement.

This morning a committee of West Texas bankers asked for a drouth relief session. This afternoon a committee of farmers from central Texas asked for a cotton acreage reduction session. Governor Moody did not turn down either request but from his attitude indicated a special session for either purpose was a remote possibility.

The West Texas delegation met again this afternoon and decided to hold another mass meeting next Tuesday, at Colorado. Meanwhile, all members of the legislature—both the 41st and 42nd assemblies—will be polled as to their attitude, and Ross S. Sterling, Democratic nominee as Moody's successor, will be sounded out.

If he favors a special session, one of the obstacles advanced by Moody will be removed, since the governor pointed out the present legislature has only two more weeks of life and it would be doubtful whether a quorum could be obtained for a special session before the November election. The governor said he had the authority to convene the 42nd legislature into special session, but was reluctant to exercise that authority over a body with which he would be only remotely connected.

Baby Zep Disabled By Blast

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Oct. 21. (AP)—An explosion on Capt. Anton Heinen's baby Zeppelin Air Yacht today hurled three men 40 feet to the ground and wrecked the dirigible's engine and gondola.

The airship, recently completed by the widely known designer and pilot of dirigibles, was tied to a temporary mooring mast in preparation for a flight when the explosion occurred. Two members of the crew and a man who was going for a ride were seriously lacerated and bruised.

The gas bag was undamaged, however, and a few hours after the accident, Captain Heinen defiated it for transportation to the Heinen Air Yacht corporation's hangar at Cape May. Officials of the company said repairs would be completed soon.

Captain Heinen himself refused any comment on the explosion. He received wide recognition as an expert pilot when he guided the dirigible Los Angeles across the ocean from its builders in Germany for delivery to the United States navy, and later when he brought the Shenandoah back to her mooring mast at Lakehurst after a storm tore her from her moorings.

AGED MAN HELD AFTER BULLETS WOUND YOUTH

Roadside Query Revives Lawton Assault Trial

Special to The Record News.

MARLOW, Okla., Oct. 21.—Marion Walford, crippled youth of Sterling, Okla., lay at the point of death in a Marlow hospital Tuesday night, shot five times because he twitted some school boys about their 19-year-old aunt.

Comanche county officers held R. O. Lawson, 56, in jail in Lawton without bond. District Attorney John W. Tyree said the filing of charges was awaiting the outcome of the boy's wounds.

Walford was shot about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon on the road two miles north of Sterling and lay unassisted for more than two hours. Physicians at the hospital feared he would not recover.

The shooting followed the teasing question: "Is your sister married," addressed by Walford to two Sterling school boys in reference to their aunt, Henrietta Lawson, the prosecuting witness in a recent assault case. The boys, enraged, went into the house and told their grandfather, R. O. Lawson.

The shooting followed, the crippled youth being felled by the first shot which struck him in the leg. Two more bullets struck him in the hip while he was down. He rolled over and another struck him in the groin. A fifth pierced his hand.

For two hours the wounded man, unable to crawl, lay in the road. Later his assailant returned with the announcement that he would first finish the job and then take his own life, investigators were told. Walford dissuaded him, and a Lawson boy was sent to a neighbor for aid. The neighbor took Walford to the home of his parents and he was later removed to the Marlow hospital.

Rains Check Military Operations in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 21. (AP)—With the military situation along the Parana-Sao Paulo frontier inactive because of heavy rains, President Washington Luis is devoting particular attention to the organization of combat forces to take the field as soon as possible.

The aviation service has been particularly active during the past week conducting many reconnaisances and bombing insurgent forces whenever possible. The particular purpose of these activities has been to keep the rebel forces disorganized and prevent them from gathering in large numbers.

OIL PRORATION HEARING ENDS

Editor Says Operators Are Intimidated

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 21. (UP)—The hearing on application of Oklahoma operators to extend the oil curtailment order closed before the state corporation commission late today.

Special protestants, such as the three petitions filed to omit Stephens county from the proration order will be continued, the commission announced after Carl Magee, editor of the Oklahoma News, was dismissed as the last witness in the nine-day hearing.

No date was set for the decision.

Meanwhile all Oklahoma wells remained under the proration clamp pending the ruling.

Magee told the commission small producers were intimidated, until they will not tell what they know about proration.

Oil proration is holding the crude oil price at such a figure it is driving the small refiner out of business, H. H. Champlin, of the Champlin Refining company of Enid, testified.

Champlin was the first to open the fight against proration when the constitutionality of the oil curb was questioned in a federal suit.

Three federal judges upheld the constitutionality of the curb.

Hypnosis Will Prod Memory of Suspect

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—The memory of a man who, physicians say, has forgotten that he ran amuck with a hatchet and a pistol in his home, killing a son and wounding three other children, will be stimulated by hypnosis with the sanction of the court.

This was agreed today by District Attorney Brower of Brooklyn and counsel for the defendant after alienists decided the accused man, Vincenzo Calise, 61, of Brooklyn, is insane. Although the statements so obtained will have no legal value, Calise will be hypnotized sometime during the week in his jail cell and his replies to questions recorded.

Ministers and Laymen Assemble At Greenville for Methodist Conclave

GREENVILLE, Texas, Oct. 21. (AP)—Ministers and laymen began arriving here today for the North Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, which opens tomorrow.

Bishop H. A. Boaz will preside.

BUGS MORAN IN LAW'S CLUTCHES

Gangster Arrested After Long Pursuit

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. (AP)—The law caught up with George (Bugs) Moran today, harassing him with such charges as vagrancy and carrying concealed weapons, and questioning him about numerous slayings and other major crimes.

The search that started June 9, when Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, fell mortally wounded in a pedestrian tunnel, ended early today in a small roadhouse west of Waukegan, Ill. The Lake county (Waukegan), state's attorney and five private detectives made the raid, and Moran, after he saw who it was, made no resistance.

Lingle was a close friend of "Scarface Al" Capone, so when the reporter was shot down from behind, police inclined to the theory that the gang headed by Capone's arch-enemy, Moran, might have had something to do with it.

Moran had disappeared, however, and when Jack Zuta, Moran's lieutenant, was killed as a supposed sequel to the Lingle slaying the search for the gang leader was intensified.

There were numerous other things the police want to talk to Moran about, including the unsolved St. Valentine's day massacre of seven of his henchmen last year.

Moran was charged with vagrancy and carrying concealed weapons by Waukegan authorities and released on bonds of $10,000 into custody of Chicago officials, who brought him here on one of the "public enemy" warrants issued several weeks ago for major gangsters.

He was put through the identification bureau and kept carefully from the view of reporters and others.

JURY DECLARES ROSS INSANE

Wichitan Acquitted on Arson Charge

Joe M. Ross, 2613 Pennsylvania street, was adjudged insane by a jury before County Judge John P. Marrs Tuesday afternoon as the conclusion of a day spent by the defendant in two different courts here on separate charges.

Ross was acquitted about noon Monday on an instructed verdict on a charge of arson. Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district court having instructed the jury to find the defendant "not guilty by reason of insanity," in compliance with requests of the state's attorneys. He was immediately placed on trial before Judge Marrs on charges of being insane.

Requests for an instructed verdict followed the testimony of Dr. C. W. Stevenson to the effect that Ross could not possibly live more than two years, and has a blood pressure almost twice that normal for a man of his age.

Ross was indicted by the October grand jury in connection with the burning of his house early in the morning of Aug. 22 of this year. Raymond Skelton, a neighbor of the defendant, testified that shortly before the fire occurred, Ross told him that he was planning to have another man burn the Ross home so that the fire insurance might be collected. This witness also stated that Ross borrowed from him more than a gallon of gasoline, avowedly for cleaning some clothing.

Other testimony included that of Fire Chief J. L. McClure relative to finding kerosene-soaked papers and bed clothing in one of the front rooms of the house which burned.

James Byrne, assistant state fire marshal, described a statement given him by Ross detailing the defendant's agreement to pay J. R. Criswell $50 to burn the house, the money to be taken out of the insurance proceeds.

Testimony given by Clyde Gold, city fire inspector, revealed the fact that various personal effects and other articles had been stored in an outhouse at the Ross home.

Gloria Swanson's Fourth Marriage Fails, Suit Against Marquis Shows

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21. (AP)—Gloria Swanson, film actress, filed suit for divorce today against her titled husband, the Marquis Henri de la Falaise de la Coudrave. She charged wilful and malicious desertion.

In one paragraph the actress alleged her husband "wilfully and maliciously abandoned and deserted her and persisted in said desertion and abandonment against her will."

The complaint said the desertion occurred Sept. 18, 1929. It stated the couple was married in Paris Jan. 28, 1925, and lived together a little over four years and seven months. The document added there were no children and no community property.

Before leaving Hollywood on a motor trip last week, Miss Swanson admitted the matter of a divorce had been placed in the hands of her attorney. Her husband said he expected the suit to be filed.

"We have come to a parting of the ways," the marquis said, "and if she wants a divorce I will agree to her every wish. We still are the very best of friends. Everything moves too swiftly here in Hollywood for happy marriage."

This was the actress' third matrimonial venture.

The Daily Times-Record News Classified Ads DO bring good results. We know this to be a fact, because a little girl who lives at 1110 Ninth street confirms this statement for us. Her ad appeared in only one issue of The Daily Times and Record News of a recent date.

Her statement is as follows: Having my Classified Ad in your daily paper one time, helped me to find my little dog for me, whose name is Times Taley. A neighbor saw my ad, and calling me, told me she knew who had him. They had him locked in the barn. I went to investigate, and on discussing my dog, I also said he would come, by calling his name, but no sooner had I spoken, when we heard the most peculiar noise, and howling. She opened the door and when she did, Times Taley ran to me, as fast as he could. I picked him up, and went home happy and content, because I knew the Times Classified Ad had helped me to find my little dog.

Sincerely yours,

National Program to Relieve Jobless Takes Form Under Col. Arthur Woods

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—A national organization to deal with unemployment problems began to take definite shape today when President Hoover, after a conference with a special group of cabinet members, announced the designation of Colonel Arthur Woods, a former New York police commissioner, to head it.

An immediate muster of plans and personnel under his direction was forecast, though the president withheld for the time a specific statement of means to be adopted. It was indicated the administration hoped to bring into cooperation all the necessary units of local government and private industry to mitigate individual suffering.

While the president is said to regard the situation as serious, particularly as unemployment has a drouth problem running parallel to it which entails efforts both in city and agricultural zones, he also is anxious to prevent exaggeration in discussions of the subject.

From data now in the hands of the federal government, largely compiled by the census and labor branches, the number of unemployed workers was placed at 3,500,000 and it was pointed out 1,- plosions. The first, a gas blast, caused the dynamite stored in one of the shafts to explode.

The great force of this upheaval blew up gasoline tanks in a building on the surface and the administration building also collapsed, the latter inflicting a score of casualties.

Miners Lose Wits

Mine officials said part of the difficulty in estimating casualties lay in the fact many of hte 666 miners who went down on the day shift escaped safely but were so frightened they did not check out with the company.

The 150 imprisoned men were at a depth of 1,500 feet and ceaseless efforts were made to reach them. Damaged ventilation and pumping machinery was repaired to facilitate the work.

When the blast occurred the first thought of the countryside was of an earthquake. Panic stricken country folk for miles around fled into the open.

Second Recent Disaster

This was the second large German mine disaster within four months, the previous one being at Neurode, Silesia, with a death roll of more than 150.

Experts said the cause of today's explosion could not be stated with certainty until a complete investigation had been made. Rescue work was hindered by the fact the explosion made the main entrance of the mine impassable. This required that victims be carried to shafts of the Maria mine, several miles distant, by an underground route.

'Labor Cabinet' Maps Program

000,000 persons are always so unemployed.

The census inquiry was considered as demonstrating there was on the average in each family one and three quarters persons regularly employed and that in the present situation there are lesser number of families completely devoid of bread winners than has usually been so regarded.

There were the usual reports to the effect the next step in the federal employment program would be directed toward stimulating public work expenditure, probably upon a large scale, but there were no official statements outlining this and it was not believed definite proposals would come until Colonel Woods assumed his duties.

It was considered certain a gathering would be summoned soon, either by the president or by Colonel Woods, to assemble advisors of responsibility and knowledge whose opinion will guide the main direction of action.

Among plans already discussed by the cabinet committee, Secretary Hurley indicated today consideration had been given one under which employment would be divided among a larger number of individuals working a shorter time.

Governor Told Of Stark Want

were related to the governor. A possible outbreak of lawlessness as destitute farmers tried to obtain food for their families was predicted by more than one member of the committee.

T. E. Powell of Baird told of one farmer who, when refused credit for a sack of flour, gave the storekeeper his name and address, picked up the sack of flour and walked out with it. Police were sent to his home and found his wife mixing the flour with water—the only food in the house for several children and their parents. Officers themselves paid for the flour.

Others said farmers had sold their meager cotton crop and their poultry and now were selling their blooded Jersey cows. When these were gone, the bankers added, farmers had no further recourse than to the road and beg or steal.

O'LOUGHLIN TO AVENGE DEATH

Detective Quits Hospital To Solve Murder

The father became ill Tuesday night.

The child's disappearance was not discovered until Wednesday. Her body was found the next day in Berkeley lake.

A new angle of the case was given today through investigation of a story told by the detective's father, Dennis O'Loughlin, 74. He told police that six weeks ago he found ground glass in sugar at his home at Fort Collins. He said he made the discovery a short time after a dinner at which his son, Leo, and Leona, as well as Mrs. O'Loughlin's son by a first marriage, Douglas Millican, Mrs. O'Loughlin's sister, Mrs. Maybell Shannon and another son, Frank O'Loughlin, were guests. The sugar was not eaten by any members of the party.

Police believed from the father's story there may have been a plot to kill the entire O'Loughlin family.

Police said they questioned Frank O'Loughlin concerning his relations with his brother's wife. Frank was a boarder at the detective's home.

Englishman Relieved To Escape Chicago

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 21. (UP)—Chicago's mayor and its machine guns found disfavor in the eyes of Randolph Churchill, 19, son of Winston Churchill, formerly England's chancellor of the exchequer.

Young Churchill arrived here from Chicago breathing a sigh of relief. "I was very frightened while I was there," he said. "I certainly expected to get bumped off."

Other things American which depressed him included the 18th amendment and the proposal of Henry Ford to open a plant in England where the dry rule will be enforced.

"Ford won't get any workmen," Churchill said.

Tanlac Relieved Him of Stomach Troubles 10 Years Ago and Has Kept Him Well Ever Since

What he said in 1924

J. G. Gardner, 105 E. First Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., wrote us in 1924:

My suffering from stomach troubles were so constant for two years, I got no peace day or night. I couldn't sleep and was almost a nervous wreck. The way Tanlac brought me back seemed almost miraculous. After a few weeks, my stomach and nerves got right, I slept sound and grew strong. That was four years ago and with the occasional use of Tanlac, I've been fine ever since.

What he said in 1930

Six years later this same man wrote: I think Tanlac is the greatest remedy in the world. I have been in good health for the last nine or ten years but occasionally I do get a little attack of indigestion. Then I always take Tanlac and it fixes me up in fine shape. I'm a strong booster for Tanlac because it made a new man of me.

ALTUS HEARS IRA A. HILL

G. O. P. Candidate Outlines Campaign Platform

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 21.—Making a strong plea for "better government on less money," Ira A. Hill, Republican candidate for governor, Tuesday night addressed a large crowd in the district court room at Altus.

Mr. Hill pointed out what he termed the useless expenditures and extravagances of the four former administrations and urged a change in parties as the surest cure.

Among other changes he recommended the creation of new state departments, including a state architect to prevent disputes on building contracts, and a permanent board of pardons and paroles. A state gross production tax on oil was also a part of his program, which included a proposal to enforce the present state income tax rather than to create a gross income tax as urged by "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, his Democratic opponent.

The speaker recommended taking the schools out of politics and the clearing out of the capitol of all job-holders placed there for political reasons only.

Mr. Hill explained his $15,000,000 short note plans for road work to give employment to jobless workmen, declaring that Jackson county would gain $150,000 by the adoption of the scheme. The recent protest against the proposal comes from the Murray machine, the speaker charged.

Egypt is to have a $1,000,000 agricultural museum.

The suit is brought by the Big Spring Pipe Line company against Jos. Greenspons Sons Iron & Steel company, and asks damages of $50,975.98. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant contracted to complete a certain pipe line by Sept. 1 1928, but failed to have it ready for service until Sept. 29. "Time was the essence of the contract," the pleadings set forth.

World War Veteran Given Term in Jail

Ten days in jail was meted out by Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law Tuesday morning to a world war veteran who draws a small pension from the government because of having been gassed in France, following the man's plea of guilty to charges of theft.

The charges grew out of alleged stealing of sox and other articles from a local department store. Evidence given indicated that the defendant is addicted to the use of dope.

Assault charges against a negro man and woman from Electra were met by pleas of guilty, and they were fined $25 and $5 respectively, plus costs. Both were suffering from stab wounds.

LONE GOP IN STEPHENS RACE

Democrats Unopposed On County Ticket

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Oct. 21.—Democratic leaders here are bemoaning the fact that Republicans have only one candidate on the county ticket. As a result, candidates and voters are taking practically no interest in the fall campaign and one of the lightest votes in years is predicted.

This will enable the lone Republican candidate and the party's state ticket to make a better showing in the county. Democratic leaders would like to see a large vote here for the benefit of the state ticket.

Single Contest

The only contest on the county ticket is between E R Young of Duncan, Democrat, against Deputy Sheriff R. G. Logan, Comanche, Republican, for sheriff. This race may develop some heat before Nov. 4. Logan was named deputy by Sheriff W. A. Williams, who defeated Young two years ago.

Other Democratic nominees are unopposed. G. W. M. Purcell, Marlow, succeeds John W. Scott, Duncan, as county judge, while Scott goes in without opposition as justice of the peace here.

Jerome Sullivan, Duncan, succeeds S. H. Singleton, Duncan, as county attorney. Ray O. Sutherland, Duncan succeeds himself as county superintendent. Opal Turner, Duncan, succeeds herself as court clerk. C. R. Bailey, Comanche, is also unopposed for re-election as county commissioner.

Clerk Unopposed

J. B. Hensley, Duncan, succeeds J. W. Jackson, Duncan, as county commissioner from the middle district. Delmer Raibourn, Duncan, succeeds Joe Tillerson, Duncan, as county clerk John D. Taliaferro, Duncan, succeeds Harry Brown, Duncan, as county treasurer, while Simeon Charleston, Duncan, succeeds W L. Fry, Duncan, as county assessor.

Knox L. Garvin, Duncan oil man, is opposed for the state senate by Berl E. Van Bebber, Waurika, Republican. Stephens, Cotton, Comanche and Jefferson counties elect the senator.

Cham Jones, Duncan attorney, is opposed for the legislature by Clyde Stanton, Marlow, Republican. Eugene Rice, Duncan attorney, is unopposed for district judge for Stephens and Jefferson counties

Jackson Drouth Relief Plan Goes Into Action With Seed Shipment

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 21.—Jackson county farmers will receive first definite drouth relief Wednesday.

Ten cars of seed wheat received in Jackson county Tuesday will be ready for delivery to farmers under terms of Jackson County Agricultural corporation loan plan Wednesday.

Under terms outlined by board of directors, the corporation will take notes for wheat at price of $1.10 per bushel, and mortgages to cover acres planted at a rate of three pecks planted per acre.

Farmers benefitting from the loan, according to the corporations announced regulations, must pay cash for crop insurance at a cost of $1 per acre.

Non-Profit Plan

This body, a non-profit organization formed to secure seed wheat to sell to drouth-stricken farmers of the area completed organization with W. B. Forrester, President J. A. Walker, vice president; Bruce Braddock, secretary-treasurer, and E. M. Francis of Eldorado; Joe Dyer of Olustee; Claud Brown of Duke; O. N. Rowe of Blair; Horace Doughty of Martha; C. M. Murphy of Elmer; James F. Hatcher of Chickasha, and John Nichols of Chickasha members.

Agents for handling legal papers relative to loans through the corporation are H. B. Bellenger of Altus; E. M. Francis of Eldorado; Brown of Duke, all bankers.

Joe Dyer of Olustee and Claude

Eligibility of a farmer to receive credit from the corporation will be placed entirely in hands of designated agents for issuing mortgages and notes. No delay in planting will result under the plan as the wheat will be ready for delivery to farmers as soon as mortgages and notes are signed and vouchers issued.

This wheat organization is in no way connected with the government wheat loan plans and is believed to be the first organization perfected in this manner to give immediate relief to farmers.

$5,000 Capital

The organization is incorporated with capitalized stock of $5,000, which will enable the body to obtain $25,000 worth of seed wheat credit from the federal farm body, it having been given the approval of the federal farm board and of President Hoover. Seed is expected to be sufficient to plant around 40,000 acres.

SOONER ROAD WORK OPENS

Jackson to Get Highway To North

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 21.—Construction work on a portion of state highway No. 24, north of Sayre, a portion of the highway which runs north and south through Blair, Altus and Elmer in Jackson county, is now under way.

A $45,000 improvement project has been started north of Sayre to the Roger Mills county line. Work on grading and drainage of the road was started this week.

Construction of a bridge over Spring creek, eight miles north of Sayre, was started last week. This, too, is a project on state highway No 24, which will give Jackson county citizens better connection to northern points

With completion of the improvements now under way on this highway the state is expected to take over the road from Sayre to the Kansas line and make it a state maintained road.

In Cheyenne hopes for the importance of the highway are even greater, according to word received here. Since the state has agreed to award a contract for construction of a bridge across Red river south of Altus highway enthusiasts in Cheyenne see possibilities of a gulf-to-Canada highway. The building of his bridge is looked to as opening the last gap in the highway across the continent.

The bridge a cross Red river south of Altus is considered the most important improvement of this this highway so far as Jackson county is concerned, since this makes a direct free connection between Texas and Oklahoma.

Detroit Realtors Oppose Padlock

DETROIT, Oct. 21. (AP)—Inauguration of a campaign to align real estate boards throughout the country in a movement seeking repeal of the padlock sections of the national prohibition act was announced today by officers of the Detroit real estate board.

The officers discussed the matter yesterday at a conference attended by Representative Clarence J. McLeod and by Leonard P. Reaume, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The discussion revealed that more than 300 pieces of property have been padlocked in Detroit since September, 1929.

Real estate men attacked the provisions on the grounds that innocent property owners suffer for the violation of their tenants.

Life Terms for Petty Thievery Proposed

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. (UP)—Many a man who commits a crime no worse than petty theft should be imprisoned for life, in the opinion of Dr. Edwin H. Sutherland, professor of criminology who recently joined the faculty of the University of Chicago.

On the other hand, he believes there are perpetrators of major felonies who should be kept in prison only a short time.

It is his conclusion, after 17 years of research on problems of crime, delinquency and prison administration, that the proper way to handle those charged with crime is on the basis of the individual instead of on the basis of the wrong done.

CO-OP HANDLES VALLEY COTTON

800 Bales Delivered For 1930 Season

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Oct. 21.—S. W. Wood of Valley View, receiving agent for the cotton cooperative association at Iowa Park, states that 400 bales have been received at Iowa Park and another 400 bales at K. M. A., making a total of 800 bales for this section of the valley.

That the cotton cooperative marketing movement is sweeping the state of Texas is indicated in deliveries already this year of more than 400,000 bales of cotton, according to Mr. Wood.

He stated that he had just received word from the state offices of Dallas that the 400,000-bale mark was passed with Monday's receipts, and at the rate deliveries continue to be made from all sections of the state, the half-million bale mark will be reached by Dec. 1. Mr. Wood also stated that similar reports of substantial progress were being received from other cotton cooperative marketing associations throughout the cotton belt.

"Most of deliveries are now being made to the seasonal pool," Mr. Wood said, "through which pooling plan the member receives a final return on the actual grade and staple of cotton delivered by him based on the seasons' average sale prices for each particular quality. In this manner, he does not receive either the season's high price or the season's low price, but rather the average price throughout the year."

The association's 90 per cent initial advance on the market value of classed cotton continues, it was said. Deliveries to the channels of cooperative marketing this season are already 150,000 bales greater than at any time during the past 10 years.

General Lawton was one of a herd of 15 buffaloes procured from the zoological gardens in 1907. From this nucleus the present herd of over 300 buffaloes was built.

WOMEN LEAD IN TALK CONTEST

Tongue Marathon Under Way in Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. (UP)—Three men who "admitted" they faced a difficult task in trying to out-talk three women in the Chicago radio show's talking marathon, showed less signs of weakening today, although the feminine speakers were saying the most words per minute.

Seated on a platform in full view of a large audience, the contestants talked about this, that and nothing at all.

After hearing 10 hours of furious tongue wagging, spectators were inclined at 6 a. m. to believe the women were ahead on points, that is, they were speaking 100 words a minute, where the men were averaging only about 90.

Gus Enberg, Carleton Switzer and Frank Lawrence were holding up the masculine talking honors against Irene McKenzie, Alice Larson and Florence Pollen.

The four men identified in the Garrison murder were arrested yesterday in the investigation of Phayer's death.

Hill believed Phayer may have been one of the men who killed Mrs. Garrison during an attempt to kidnap her husband. Garrison shot one of the kidnapers. Police here said Phayer may have been killed by his own friends to vaoid taking him to a hospital for treatment of his wounds.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 21. (AP)—Argument on a motion for new trial, filed yesterday by attorneys for George H. Robsion, under jury sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of Elmer Carter, Jackson county deputy sheriff, was deferred today by Judge Frank Mathews until briefs are filed by prosecution and defense attorneys.

Among 33 points listed by Guy P. Horton and P. Mounts, attorneys for Robsion, were charges of misconduct of jurors and irregularities in court proceedings.

J. E. Alexander and Raymond Kimberlin, jurors, denied in the hearing on the motion that they had formed opinions before the trial and discussed the case with other persons.

Formal sentencing of Robsion has been deferred until after the motion is passed on. No announcement has been made as to the date of trial of Vernon Robsion, George's brother, and Ernest Jackson, Vernon, Texas, man, also charged with the Carter murder, who were granted a severance from George Robsion, accused by the state of being the actual slayer.

POLICE FIND BANDITS' CAR

Fingerprints Taken From Abandoned Machine

DALLAS, Oct. 21. (AP)—The automobile used by four men yesterday to escape after they robbed a union terminal company messenger of approximately $16,000 was found by police late today.

It had been abandoned on Browder street in South Dallas. Bertillion experts took photographs of finger prints on the automobile.

Police still were without clues as to identity of the men, two of whom clubbed B. W. Moore, terminal company cashier, and Charles H. Murray, special policeman, and took from them a satchel containing the money. Two men remained in the automobile while the slugging was going on.

The robbery took place on a busy retail shopping district street.

Foolish Hitlerites
Death of John Jones
Pasteur's Service
Watch the Night Club

By EMILE GAUVREAU

The Ku Klux Klan has apparently moved to Berlin, where, under the banner of Fascism, it is wrecking stores owned and operated by Jews. Cries of "Down With the Jews" and "Germany Awaken" accompany the demolition.

If this is the way Germany is going to awaken, it would be much better for that country to continue asleep. The Jews have only to abandon Germany to ruin it. No nation today which restricts the activities of the Jews is a world power. That fact is too obvious not to penetrate even the thick skulls of the Hitlerites.

Unknown, unhonored and unsung, that is how John Jones died on the city college campus. Beyond the name of the man, who was about 40, nothing can be ascertained.

Hundreds of derelicts thus pass out of existence in New York, leaving nothing behind them, neither a symbol nor a memory. The world knows not whether to praise or blame. On such as John Jones the miracle of life seems thrown away. They slip through the years like a ghost or a shadow, affecting nobody, absorbing nothing. Sinners and saints make the world progress. John Jones and his kind are a clot in the stream.

An effective antidote for the "dope" habit has been found, it is reported. Addicts taking the rabies treatment in the Pasteur institute at Cairo are being discharged cured.

This is a novel application of the Pasteur serum for hydrophobia and makes the name of the distinguished French bacteriologist already a symbol of the great service to humanity in the prevention of disease, doubly illustrious as a symbol for the cure of it.

Observers watch with interest the sincere efforts of Commissioner Mulrooney to solve New York's latest gangland mystery, the shooting of Jack ("Legs") Diamond. Once again, the trail leads to a notorious night club, mentioned frequently in the investigation of Judge Crater's disappearance. The majority of these night clubs, flaunting degenerates as entertainers, owned by racketeers, the commissioner probably knows, are the stamping ground of the city's conspiring gangland. But when even judges hang around the "hostesses" in such joints, what can you expect?

The Brooklyn boy, Sydney Franklin, who went to Spain and became a famous toreador, is back on a visit. Besieged by reporters for stories of heroism, he modestly affirms that he has nothing spectacular to relate.

It takes more than mere courage to become a bull fighter, especially for an American to become one, and an eminent one. Senor Franklin depended first on his wit, then on his art to "arrive," just as all men of outstanding success do, whether it is in the prize ring or on the exchange, flying an airplane or directing an orchestra.

Talent alone is not sufficient. To capture the imagination of the world, one must also possess the power to astonish. Brains do not matter much in this kind of "success."

Mediterranean Storm Claims Lives of 14

BARCELONA, Spain, Oct. 21. (UP)—Storms in the province of Tarragona, bordering on the Mediterranean, have caused 14 deaths and extensive property damage, reports received here today said.

Numerous dwellings were reported destroyed and 20 ships sunk in the harbor of Tarragona.

What's become o' the ole-fashioned mother who used to catch her kids an' knock ther heads together when they were bad? "Oh, I wouldn' worry about a little thing like that," said Constable Plum, when Lile Kite complained that a pa'ade tramped down his pony pa'k.—3.

The stock market is in the doldrums this year, someone says, because the numerals in 1930 add up to 13. The only significance many will see in this explanation is the connection between their resources and the zero.

The catalog of a western college has been translated into Chinese for circulation in China. The Orient now views with alarm the prospects of an army of young Chinese selling magazines to work their way through.

A Contrast in Crooks

TWO notorious "bad men" were overtaken by the traditional fate of bad men recently; and a comparison of the men and their careers is exceedingly eloquent as a commentary on the trend of American civilization.

One of these men was Jake Fleagle, shot down in a small Missouri town after having been hunted for more than two years for a Colorado bank robbery. Three of Fleagle's buddies were hanged for the crime, and Fleagle himself escaped hanging only by dying from the effects of his wound.

The other man was Jack Diamond, known as "Legs," who was shot down in a New York hotel suite by some of his professional rivals, but who apparently will recover from his wounds. Diamond has one of the most extensive police records known to man. He has been suspected of too many crimes for any mortal to remember. He was supposed to be a sort of king in New York's underworld.

Fleagle was chased all over the country by officers of a half dozen states, aided by U. S. postal inspectors. He was hounded relentlessly by officers whose one idea was to get him and bring him to the gallows. In the end he was caught and killed.

Diamond is in a totally different situation. Although his record is long, he fears the police not at all. His comings and goings have been recorded in the daily papers. No one could pin anything on him. Any officer who chased him had to chase discreetly, lest he actually catch him.

Diamond is supposed to be the heir of Arnold Rothstein, who ruled New York's underworld in a fabulous manner. Rothstein was never bothered by the police, although it was open knowledge that he was a dope peddler, a rum runner, a gunman, a crooked gambler and half a dozen other things. When he was killed the police were positively embarrassed in their investigation of his murder and his passing. Right now they seem to be similarly embarrassed by their investigation of Diamond's shooting.

Thus we have an instructive contrast. Fleagle was an outlaw, in the literal sense of the word. He was outside the law. Every man's hand was against him. The police harried him until they caught him.

He was of the old type.

Diamond, like Rothstein and Capone and scores of other big city alley rats, was not an outlaw at all. He was inside the law. He had connections. He could laugh at the police.

He was of the new type—the type that flourishes today in every large American city.

In the contrast between these two gunmen there is a world of comment on the sort of civilization we have in America today.

October and the Auto

OCTOBER is a peculiar month for the motorist. It is, of all the months in the year, the best for driving out through the open country; yet there is something in the air that makes one feel out of place behind a steering wheel. In October the automobile is an anachronism.

October, in fact, is by way of being an old-fashioned month. It calls back the flavor of forgotten days and outworn customs. Its forests turn to flame on the hills, and a thin blue haze drifts over farmlands and river bottom valleys; and the old days send out ghosts, to come back and cock amused and satiric eyes at the ways of the moderns. A dreamy peace takes possession of things—and the speedy, active automobile does not fit the scene at all.

In October staid city dwellers, who would be lost if you took them half a mile away from the pavement, recall their childhood days in the country. Shocks of corn, regimented on rolling fields like the wigwams of Indian summer, bring back to mind the times when, as a youngster, one played hide and seek among them, burrowed inside of the rustling stacks or furtively made fearful cigarets of cornsilk. One can remember driving in a buggy through the autumn woods, with the wheels sinking quietly into the sandy ruts and the horse amiably plodding along at a three-mile-an-hour gait.

There isn't any place in a month like that for the automobile. For the hallmark of October is its sense of leisure, of indolent and unhurried peace; and the automobile is the chosen emblem of an age which has left leisure and indolence far behind it.

Perhaps that is why the American of 1930, taking a drive through the October countryside, feels the time-honored melancholy of autumn so strongly. The brief calm of Indian summer bespeaks a day when people had more time to live than they have now; a day when there were fewer mechanical distractions and less need for them, a day when simplicity had not yet given way to complexity and human life developed closer to the earth and its old mysteries.

It is not pleasant to be reminded of this; for such a reminder inevitably awakens, in the mind of a city man of 1930, the dreadful suspicion that he has been bilked somewhere. It puts into his head the notion that all of this progress which he admires so greatly has possibly cost more than it has been worth. He begins to understand how Esau felt after he sold his heritage for a mess of pottage.

The remedy, of course, is clear. Avoid the country highways in October, if you would keep your peace of mind. October, seemingly drowsy and idle, is really deceptive and mocking.

Time-Clocks for Co-Eds

THE dean of women at the University of Minnesota proposes that a sort of time clock be installed at sorority houses and rooming houses for all co-eds who go out on parties. Each girl would be obliged, before going out, to mark down on a card the hour, the place she was going and the name of her escort. On her return the hour would be marked down as well.

The problems of a dean of women in a big state university are knotty ones, heaven knows; yet it is a little hard to work up any great amount of admiration for this particular scheme. Offhand, one would say that if a girl of college age must be card-indexed as closely as all that, she belongs at home with her mother instead of at college.

HEARTBREAK GIRL

By ROB EDEN

Gail Stuart, picked up by Nick Walther while she was hiking to Hollywood, fails when he arranges movie test for her and finally lands a job with Carla Cross, famous movie star from her home town in Kansas. Gail has fallen in love with Ross Hardy, handsome movie extra, and they became engaged, pledging themselves to help each other get a "break" in pictures. Gail hears Max Brackett, Carla's director, is looking for a new leading man. She tries unsuccessfully to interest Carla, and then phones Brackett that Miss Cross wants him to see Hardy.

CHAPTER XIII

Gail couldn't concentrate on anything that afternoon. She was too worried, too upset, at what she had done. Ross phoned and said he had made the test. He was jubilant, but did not know the outcome yet. Max Brackett had been fine to him. He thanked Gail a thousand times. They were running off the test later he said. If she heard anything would she call him? She promised.

Three o'clock and Carla was not home. She had said she was coming in right after lunch, as she had an appointment with her masseuse. The masseuse came and had to leave after waiting some time. Four o'clock and Carla was still missing. Gail wanted her to come, yet dreaded it. She was afraid Mr. Brackett would call about Ross' test, and Carla would know what she had done.

In desperation at last, because she didn't want to think of it, she went to see Mrs. Cross, and listened to her chatter for half an hour. The time wasted, when there was work to be done. What would Carla say when she arrived?

Desperate Hope

If only he would get the part! He was handsome—everything Carla needed for a leading man. A fine foil for her. She could see the sign boards already. "Carla Cross in "Crossroads with Ross Hardy." The Ross Hardy in much smaller letters than Carla's, because Carla was the star and Ross just the leading man.

But Carla Cross, with Ross Hardy—

Grand if she were the one who gave Ross his chance. A break was all one needed in Hollywood. A break. She had heard the term so many times now. Everybody in Hollywood used it.

Mrs. Cross had told how Carla got her "break." A girl with a small part had been taken sick.

Carla, being a blond, and much like the girl in question, was chosen from the extra ranks to take her place. From there she rose to be the star she was.

Ross had charm, Ross and Carla. At 6 Carla breezed in, smiling. Gail was relieved. She knew from the way she greeted Martin that she was in a good humor. When she wasn't, she merely nodded, and hurried upstairs. Tonight, she paused and asked him how everything was. She was humming when she came up the stairs. Theer was a smile for Gail, one for Mary. Drawing off her gloves, she sank into a chair, as if she had had a hard day.

There was the usual fluttering around when Carla came home. Changing her clothes, getting her into her negligee.

"Well, it's done," she announced finally, smiling again at Mary.

"What's done?" Gail asked shakily.

"I've got a leading man. The best looking mortal you ever saw. Perfectly grand. Max Brackett is tickled to death with him."

Gail's heart sank. Then it wasn't Ross. A shame. For if it had been Carla would be furious at her. She tried to show some interest.

"I never saw Max so enthusiastic. He's usually just the opposite. But this new man is a marvel. Photographs beautifully, and is a fine actor. Much better than Norman Frame. Better for me, Max says. Suppose you run down stairs, Gail, and see how the new puppy is. I'm dying to know." Carla had purchased a chow puppy the day before.

There was the usual fluttering about when Carla got home, changing her clothes, and getting her in her negligee.

Ross had lost his chance after all. He would be disappointed when she called him and told him. She would have to comfort him, as he had comforted her.

She came up presently with the news that the puppy was fine, and nothing would do but that she should go back again and bring it upstairs. Carla wanted to see it. She came back bearing the puppy in her arms, and Carla played with it for some time. When she was tired of it, Gail took it downstairs to its kennel.

Carla was in her dressing room when she spoke again of her new leading man.

"This man is new, Gail. That's the joy of it. Brackett is going to put him under contract. Says he'll make a fine actor. Young, too. You don't act a bit glad!" Carla pouted, for she expected everyone to enter into her enthusiasm.

Gail protested that she was.

"I was having lunch when Max called me. Thought it was a horrible nuisance having to run down to the studio in a hurry. But he insisted. You know how he is. Funny thing. Max thought the boy was a friend of mine. But I explained that he wasn't. Why, I'd never seen him before!"

Gail nearly dropped the mirror she was handing to Carla. Could it be Ross after all?

"What's his name?" She spoke so softly, Carla had to ask her to repeat her question.

"Ross Hardy."

The girl turned so Carla wouldn't see her face. Wouldn't know how she felt. Ross after all! And Max Brackett was going to sign him to a contract!

"He was an extra, Max said. Nobody knows anything about him. He's new in Hollywood. Don't let me forget, Gail, I'll have him to dinner tomorrow night, to talk over the part. You can call him this evening. Max, too. Better call him tonight, too. I forgot to ask him this afternoon."

"Does he know—know about the part, I mean?"

"Who? The boy? Max was trying to get him when I left. He photographs like a god. Max says he has more screen personality than any leading man in Hollywood. Two for dinner tomorrow night. Oh call Sarah Morton, too. She's taking the second lead."

"Queer Mr. Brackett thought he was a friend of yours," Gail ventured. She wanted to find out if Mr. Brackett had told Carla of her call.

Ecstasy!

"Yes, isn't it. Max seemed surprised when I said I didn't know him. Oh, for the dinner tomorrow include Tod Janson. We'll want some publicity right away about this new man. Got it right? Max," Carla was counting on her fingers, "Ross Hardy, Sarah Morton and Tod. That's all."

Gail got away as soon as she could. She had to phone Ross—right away. What if he didn't know yet? And he probably didn't, as he wasn't in his room very much. Mrs. Green, the landlady, took his calls and relayed them to him. When she couldn't get him at home, she gave the message to Mrs. Green. This was Miss Stuart, and she wanted Ross to meet her tonight at the usual place. He would know.

The usual place was at the edge of Carla's garden. They loved the stillness of it. The privacy, and treated it as if it were theirs.

Next she called Max Brackett to invite him to the dinner party the next evening. He said nothing of her earlier call about Ross, and she didn't mention it either. Perhaps he had forgotten.

Carla had some guests in that evening, so it was nearly 11 before Gail managed to leave and steal into the garden. Ross was waiting for her.

"You darling!" he cried as he caught her in his arms.

"I've only a mjute tonight," she explained. "Carla is home, and is probably calling for me now."

"To do this for me—you've kept your part of the pact, Gail. Now it's up to me. Did you know—" his

In the construction a new processed steel wire heat-treated was used and found defective. In both cases it had to be removed and replaced by the cold drawn wire. The defects were not discovered until the cables were completed and considerable progress had been made in the erection of the steel work, but in time to save a collapse.

Q.—Please explain how our paper money is made.—E. H.

A.—The paper used in making paper money is of the toughest linen and is made by a secret process. Supplies of blank paper are guarded as carefully as the finished money, for if a counterfeiter can obtain this distinctive paper, he has made a good start toward producing spurious currency. The plates from which money is printed are made with the most exacting care. The public is not permitted to see the engravers at work, nor does any one engraver prepare an entire plate. It usually takes about a year of continuous work to complete one of the original plates. The money never is printed from these originals, but from duplicates made by a mechanical process. The fine lines on paper money are made upon the original plates by a geometric machine which has as many combinations as the best safe lock, each combination producing a different design. Each bill contains many symbols which tell the initiated from what plate it was printed, who engraved the plate, and who printed the bill. It requires about 20 days to complete the intricate process of getting a piece of paper money ready for circulation, during which period it is counted about 50 times. The average life of paper money in the United States is less than two years.

Walter D. Cline Addresses Altrusans On Patriotism

W. D. Cline was the speaker at the regular monthly luncheon of the Altrusa club held at the Wichita club Tuesday at noon when Mrs. C. W. Nelms presided in the absence of the president. "Patriotism" was the theme of the luncheon and it was on this subject Mr. Cline addressed the members.

Stating that patriotism was defined by Webster as "love of one's country," Mr. Cline said that patriotism was not confined by latitude or longitude and not restricted to any area, kind or class of people. With a humorous reminiscence of his boyhood when he felt that a patriot must be a man who fought in the Civil war, Mr. Cline stressed the real civic patriotism, the ultimate object of which is service to the home and neighborhood in which one lives. Patriotism, according to his definition, is a practical application of love of one's country. "After all," he said, "the measure of success in this country or nation is not by the the number of automobiles in a community but by the character found in that community." This government, Mr. Cline said, is representative of the hopes and determinations of our forefathers together with the disappointments they encountered. "You do not know the real fibre of a people," he stated, "until they are tested financially, economically and spiritually." Telling of Andrew Jackson's old carriage in the stables at the Hermitage and of the weeks or months which it took to make the journey to Washington, Mr. Cline said that in comparing the speed with which trips can be made now, it becomes increasingly imperative that we recognize we are our brothers' keeper.

Experience and responsibility were urged to make conservatives of all, but educational and cultural ideals were urged to make the nation better.

The criminal tendencies shown in cities, Mr. Cline charged directly to the good people who do not participate in the affairs of those cities, and bringing it down to the home town, he stated that because business men in the city did not wish to serve on juries, most of the cases tried in our courts are tried by professional jurors—men who wished to make $2 per day, and the lawyers know it. "Bad results," Mr. Cline said, "are caused from lack of interest and of assumption of the responsibility of good citizenship."

Mr. Cline closed his talk with a quotation from a friend abroad who said, "When you find a man who has lost all idealism, all desire for the beautiful and everything but the practical, hit that fellow on the head." He charged Altrusans that, with all other women, they are largely responsible for the creation of the finer ideals that will keep love of country a fine, wholesome and idealistic thing.

Miss Frances Brooks talked on the Altrusan project for the year, "Vocational Guidance," and told of addresses on the subject that had been made by different members.

Those present were Walter D. Cline, Miss Mineola Harding, Mesdames C. W. Nelms, Harry Fuller, Leslie Huffhines, W. M. Cason, H. F. Weldon, Mayme Holmes, Misses Anna Bell Farquarhar, Maud Thomas, Dr. Maud Lindsey, Misses Ruth Downing, Catherine Walker, Olive Olson, Lucia Powell, Juanita Kinsey, Frances Brooks and Mrs. Elwyn Lomax.

Camp Fire Girls Open Leadership Training Course

The 1930 Leadership training course for the Camp Fire Girls program, opened with a great deal of enthusiasm Monday night at the local headquarters. The class promises to be one of the most enthusiastic and beneficial for several years. Mrs. Florence Frazer, who will have charge of the teaching of songs for the course, opened the meeting with singing of the Neidlinger group of songs.

The organization of the class was effected with the registration of members and election of officers as follows: chairman, Mrs. W. J. Willis; vice chairman, Edith McClure; secretary, Thelma Bridges and treasurer, Leska Howard. The members voted to hold the outdoor meeting of the course on Saturday, Nov. 8th. Mrs. Willis and Mrs. Frazer were put on committee to plan and cook the meal in order to fulfill one of their requirements for the fire makers rank. Edith McClure was appointed on location committee, and Miss McIlheran agreed to handle transportation.

Edith McClure, torch bearer of Adi-Iwah group, made an inspiring and instructive talk on the first chapter of the "Handbook for Leaders of Camp Fire Girls," which is the textbook of the course. Her talk was on "The Theory of Camp Fire." She told briefly the history of Camp Fire from its beginnings before 1912, when it was incorporated as a national organization. She said in part: "There is something different about the Camp Fire Girls program from anything else in the world. After working through the several years that it takes to earn the highest rank, the day of days comes when the girl is ready to take the rank of torch bearer. That is the crowning point in the Camp Fire Girl's life. She then wants to go on and carry the torch of leadership to her Camp Fire sisters through guardianship."

Mrs. Willis gave a resume of chapter two, "On Being a Guardian." Her talk brought out the essential points of Camp Fire guardianship and elements of good leadership. "The place of the true leader is always in the background to guide and lead the girls into "learning by doing" the things themselves," she said in part.

Miss McIlheran covered the third chapter on "Organization," briefly stating the various duties of the different units, including the national council, national headquarters with its various departments and personnel, the local council, with the local headquarters and executive, Guardians association, and finally, the group of girls, without which the above units would be unnecessary. She spoke highly of the various members of the national council and staff who have given so much of themselves to keep the standards of the organization high and to keep the welfare of the individual girl herself before all the workers.

On Thursday evening, the second class will meet. The subject will be "Program Planning." Mrs. R. E. Davis, member of local council and former guardian of Adi-Iwah group, will give a talk on interesting girls in earning rank and keeping the program interesting to girls as they grow older.

A number of members who did not get to the Monday evening class still intend to enroll on Thursday evening, as it is not too late to enroll for certificate work, as the certificate requires attendance of at least eight of 10 classes. An interesting members' certificate will be issued to those who attend 50 per cent of classes but do not wish to work for guardian certificates.

"For nine years I was troubled with acne. I tried everything I could think of and everything people told me but it didn't do any good. Last winter a nurse where I was working told me to take Lydia E. I kept on and now I haven't a single pimple on my face, chest or back."—Mary L. Heinitz, Carrington, North Dakota.

Mrs. Otis Nelson reported the last City Council P.-T. A. meeting and Mrs. R. R. Recommendations of the executive board were voted on and passed as follows: first that a Halloween carnival should be held on the grounds Friday, Oct. 24, at 5:30 o'clock; second that the association send a joint delegate with Zundy to the state convention in November; third that Crockett P.-T. A. donate $10 to the City Council lunch fund. The P.-T. A. also voted to give $5 to the city council to apply on their pledge to the endowment fund, and to send $5 direct from Crockett P.-T. A. to the endowment fund.

Mrs. Frank Creighton talked on "How a P.-T. A. Can Best Serve a School," stating that one of the best things a school can have is a preschool study circle so that child life may be studied and teachers become acquainted with. She read a beautiful prayer asking for calm, poise and self-control on a mother's part.

Mrs. Austin Leach, who was to talk on cooperation, postponed her address another week on account of the lateness of the hour.

The meeting was adjourned after a get-together meeting.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Leading Hospitals throughout America make it a point to specify KOTEX

WHY do you suppose our outstanding hospitals, staffed by world-famous surgeons, make it a point to specify Kotex? There's more than one reason!

In the first place, it is hygienically safe. In the second place, it is amazingly absorbent—and that is vital for all surgical purposes. Actually—think of this—Kotex is five times as absorbent as the finest surgical cotton! The material of which it is made (Cellucotton—not cotton—absorbent wadding) is laid layer upon air-cooled layer. And each one of these delicate layers is a quick, complete absorbent in itself.

Because it is so absorbent and because it absorbs scientifically (not just in one concentrated area but all over) Kotex naturally stays soft. It is guaranteed to stay soft longer than any other sanitary pad.

13,000,000 pads to hospitals alone

To give you an idea of the great weight of hospital approval in back of this first of all sanitary pads, the hospitals of America bought 13,000,000 Kotex pads during the first nine months of this year. Then added to this number, they bought 2,500,000 pounds of Kotex absorbent—which is enough to make 80,000,000 more pads. Hospitals need the best. So do you. Safety, security, good health demand it. Why should you be content with anything else when you can buy Kotex everywhere—at all drug, dry goods and department stores?

You ask for it by name. Simply specify: Kotex.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Kotex filler is fat lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

The NEW KOTEX BELT brings new ideals of sanitary comfort! Woven to fit, on an entirely new patented principle. Firm yet light; will not curl; perfect-fitting.

EGGS GOOD EVERY DAY

Men have eaten the eggs of turkeys, geese, ducks, ostriches and even reptiles and from a standpoint of nourishment there is very little difference between the eggs of different birds. However, because of economic condtions, the eggs of hens are most commonly used.

It is estimated that every man, woman and child on this continent eats an average of two hundred eggs per year. Eggs are undoubtedly one of the most valuable forms of food from which protein or muscle building material can be obtained, and they may be prepared in such a variety of ways that they do not become tiresome. Even those who are attempting to use a vegetable fare usually include eggs and in this way are able to keep up sufficient protein intake to remain well.

Most people will find they are able to use somewhere between one and two eggs daily, and a good average for a week is probably 10 to 12 eggs. A very large amount of the white of the egg my be used by anyone. A few people find the yolk of the egg contains such a large amount of sulphur and fat that it gives to digestive disturbances if used to excess. However, one or two eggs should not inconvenience anyone in good health.

In buying eggs, try to get them as fresh as possible, as the fresher they are the better the flavor. Eggs may be kept in cold storage in a fresh condition for a long time so that a properly prepared cold storage egg may almost be termed a fresh egg. The color of the shell is immaterial, as it has nothing to do with the nutritive value of the egg.

In choosing eggs it is well to pay some attention to their size for two good sized eggs often weigh more than three pullet eggs. The white of the egg is almost pure albumen dissolved, of course, in water. The yolk contains a large amount of fat, phosphorous, sulphur and also lecithin, which is beneficial in promoting growth and building a strong nervous system. Eggs contain vitamins A and B, and also iron. They are an acid-forming food, and therefore must be balanced with large quantities af alkaline-forming foods and vegetables which, however, need not be taken at the same meal, but should be used sometime during the day. Some patients with a tendency to billousness believe that eggs are bad for the liver. I find that this is true only when too many other nourishing foods are used at the same meal or when too many kinds of protein are used at the same meal or on the same day that eggs are used.

When cooking eggs, remember that they are more easily digested when partially cooked, and are hard to digest when used raw or cooked very hard. The poorest way to prepare eggs is by frying, as this makes them hard to digest.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Jerking of Muscles

Question—A. H. writes: "I am 70 years old and am bothered with a twitching or jerking in my legs when retiring, sometimes keeping me awake for an hour or more. Will you please let me know the cause, also if there is a remedy?"

Answer—The jerking in your legs is doubtlessly caused by a poor circulation of the blood. I would advise you to take some exercises about an hour before retiring. After the exercises, sit in a tub of warm water, immersing the legs in the water for about two or three minutes. This will help the circulation and should prevent the jerking.

Grapes

Question—J. M. asks: "What is the best method of keeping grapes?"

Answer—Sound grapes may be kept in good condition for a long time by wrapping each bunch in waxed paper. After tying the ends they should be placed on some soft material, such as cotton batting, and kept in a cool place. They may also be packed in California redwood sawdust and stored in a cool place. Another method, frequently used in Europe, is to place the stalk of each bunch of grapes in a small bottle of water containing a piece of charcoal. If a temperature of about 38 degrees is maintained, they will keep in good condition for a long time.

Tubercular Hip

Question—C. G. asks: "Will you kindly explain the best course to follow for a tubercular hip?"

Answer—The treatment for a tubercular hip would depend upon the exact condition of the tubercular change which has taken place. A diet treatment is always essential to a cure, though sometimes various physio-therapy treatments will prove effective in bringing about a cure. Complete rest is sometimes necessary, but only in advanced cases.

Beer Burglary Case Puzzles Nebraska Jury

MINDEN, Neb., Oct. 21. (AP)—A district court jury was deliberating today whether Orville Moon, 23, had stolen two cases of beer and was guilty, thereby, of burglary. The jury took the case at 6 p. m., yesterday and had failed to reach an agreement.

The complaint against Moon was made by John W. Conyers, a farmer. County Attorney J. L. McPheely filed the burglary charge and also filed a charge for possession of liquor against Conyers. The latter case is still pending in county court.

One defense set up by Moon's attorneys was that under the prohibition laws, beer was not property and therefore could not be stolen. District Judge J. W. James ruled, however, that although possession of beer was prohibited, it still was subject to larceny.

Moon contended, moreover, that he had no part in the theft and was elsewhere when someone took the beer from a cave on Conyers' farm Sept. 18.

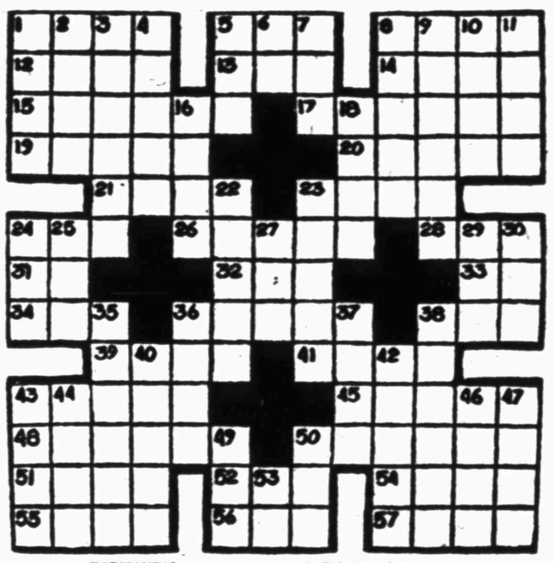

In the complaint against Moon, the value of the property stolen was placed at only $3. McPheely said that merely covered the cost of the containers as he had made no attempt to value the beer.

Picks and Shovels For Unemployed Planned

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 21. (AP)—Picks and shovels instead of machinery will be used in undertaking a proposed program of winter work if plans of the joint public welfare committee of the city council to alleviate the unemployment situation are carried out.

The committee hopes to assemble a list of $1,000,000 worth of needed public improvements from city department heads and rotate jobs among the unemployed giving part time work to an estimated 10,000 or 15,000 men.

Odds and Ends

Chas. Gelbert of the Cards, the star shortstopper, and Miss Mabel Hafey of Chambersburg, Pa., were wedded last week in Valley Forge, Pa., where George Washington also went through one of the worst trials in his life. . . . The Cubs (of Chicago) have bought J. P. Mays, veteran pitcher of the Reds. . . . People who participate in the miniature golf tournament now in progress at Chattanooga will forfeit their amateur standing as golfers if they accept cash prizes, according to a rule by the U. S. G. A. . . . Coach Bill Roper condemns night football as brutal and outrageous, and Earl R. Yoemans, graduate manager of Temple university, says Roper is all wet. On the other hand, Yoemans was probably in the dark about the whole matter. . . . All sports writers of importance will soon begin picking the intercollegiate championship football team for the Albert Russell Erskine award. . . . Which leaves me out, I guess, since I take the exit as an expert. . . . But I'd nominate Bennett Withrow as a halfback on that team, and now is my judgment so bad? . . . The only thing that would keep him off is that he's not a college lad, but those little matters of scholastic eligibility can be fixed up all right. Why, were we to follow the example of the Southern Methodists, we'd have Bennett a college senior overnight. . . . I thought Ross Edgemon, our First Methodist church athletic director, was some good when he told us about playing 72 holes of golf a day, but Brian Bell, the A. P. expert, writes of a guy named Ralph A. Kennedy, who intends to play 1,000 courses before his earthly span is ended. . . . He has already played on 776 courses. . . . Knoxville is a new member of the Southern association, having succeeded Mobile, after the latter dropped out. It graduated from the ranks of the Bally league. The South Atlantic loop is getting good, according to Bell. Chattanooga used to be a member of the South Atlantic, and now it has risen to the point where it could be beaten by the Dallas Steers. . . . The great game of football snuffed out at least three lives last week, and probably more. . . . Three is all I read about. . . . Two students were killed up East when, en route to a big college game, their car crashed into a truck. . . . An Abilene youth died as the result of an injury sustained in a game. . . . Players get killed in the game by accident, deplorable accidents occur which cannot be blamed on anyone. . . . The players must take the risk if they are to play the game. . . . But rattle-headedness more than likely was the cause of the crash of the students. . . . Why can't people assume a little dignity in their darned automobiles? . . . Instead of belting through traffic in order to get to a game, and reaching oblivion instead. . . . When I die I want it to be for a darned good reason, not because I was in a hurry to get anywhere or to get anything. . . . Texas Guinan is now writing a syndicated colum for newspapers, commercializing on the jeering words that drop from her tongue. . . . So at last a use has been found for the jabbering of females. . . . Maybe, she'll write more, now, and talk less. . . . If this turns out to be the case, in the interest of all sanity and civilization, newspapers o'er the land should single out the most obnoxious women chatterers and give 'em a column to write. . . . Last Wednesday, Oct. 15, was the occasion for the celebration of the birthday of the famous Roman poet, Vergil, the boy who sang the glories of the cow, the sow and the hen. . . . He was the originator of the "back to the farm" movement, according to a biography in a current magazine. Rome had finished a big war, and Vergil was trying to get the boys to return to the sod. . . . Well, the birthday of the poet was a big event in intellectual circles, it seemed. I found out about the event four days after it had been celebrated, on Oct. 19, and deciding I ought to read a little of the pioneer's work tried to get a translation of his pomes at the library and lo, the volume was not on its shelves. . . . How about that, Mr. Kemp? . . . Hunters, armed as if they were going to slaughter a dragon, fare forth to hunt the lowly duck, which is in season. A certain clever woman in this town wrote a parody on these brave and noble he-men, the first line of which reads something like this: "I go to hunt the crafty and dangerous pecan." . . . Which also, remember, is in season. Or are you nutty enough on the subject to care about it? . . . Song for those who also have bad colds:

Gently as you scream:
Merrily, merrily, merrily—maybe!
Life is but a stream.

Leopards Get Ready For Chickasha Game

Coach Daniels is putting his Leopards through hard practices this week getting his men in shape for the game with Chickasha Friday at 3 o'clock in the Washington school athletic park. This game promises to be a thriller as the teams appear to be evenly matched this year. The Leopards registered two defeats against the plucky Oklahomans last season by small margins, the first here, 14 to 12, and the second played at Chickasha, 8 to 6. Each of the four games played previous to that ended in a tie. Chickasha lost to the Oklahoma City champions last week 7 to 0 while the Leopards were winning an easy victory over the Fort Worth Hi Y's here.

Coach Alexander of the Oklahoma visitors feels confident of a decisive victory over his old rivals this week, considering the close scores in all previous games, and the fine condition of the toughest offensive squad he has ever produced.

McLarnin-Suarez Bout Is Cancelled

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (INS)—The state boxing commission today denied the application of Madison Square garden for a bout between Jimmy McLarnin and Justo Suarez, a South American boxer, scheduled for Nov. 21.

Suarez was suspended until Dec. 7, and the commission refused to lift it.

SHORTAGE OF GUARDS LOOMS

Team Fights Feeling Of Over-Confidence

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 21.—Coaches W. C. Weir and Ralph Binnion drove the Vernon Lions through a hard three-hour workout Monday, starting a week of intensive practice in preparation for the invasion of the Wichita Falls Coyotes here Saturday. The afternoon was spent in practice against Coyote plays and ironing out the various Lion ailments as a result of Friday's contest against the Grandfield, Okla., eleven. The Lions appeared in a jovial mood during the practice session, but they do not intend to take the coming Wichita Falls clash with as light a spirit as they did in 1929, when the Coyotes slipped up and handed them a 14-0 licking.

It does appear, however, that Coaches Binnion and Weir will have trouble combatting over-confidence, mainly due to the Coyotes' defeat at the hands of the Quanah Indians. The team fails to take into consideration that the Indians have a pretty fair team this year and that the outcome of the Lion-Indian tilt might have been different should the two teams have met on a dry field instead of a gridiron which was so muddy that the Quanah spin was useless.

Watson Shifted

T. M. Watson, Lion half-back, was shifted to guard in Monday's practice, as there seems to be a wholesale shortage on guards, especially since Anderson and Parker may not play. Brock and Mason, who filled the guard posts in Friday's contest, are improving but if Parker is unable to play Saturday, reserves will be practically nil. Anderson worked out Monday and should be in fair shape by Saturday following a three weeks illness. Parker may come out either Tuesday or Wednesday. The Lion mainstay at the guard position was injured in the Plainview tilt and has not reported for practice since.

Woody Weir, Lion end, is definitely out of the Coyote game. Weir played a stellar game at the wing post in early season games, but suffered an injury in the Plainview game, and has been unable to play since. Love is improving steadily at Weir's old post and the wingmen may do their share of the work Saturday.

Passing Stressed

Pass defense was again stressed Monday as well as passing on offense. It is a well known fact that the Lions have had trouble with their defense against passes the entire season and have been drilled steadily on this phase of the game for the past few weeks. With Lawrence, Williams, and Christian doing the heaving in Monday's practice session the Lions' displayed no better aerial attack than in previous practice sessions.

It looks as though Coach Weir is schooling a new kicker in Thompson. Thompson showed only fair ability in practice yesterday booting the ball between 30 and 40 yards. It is doubtful if he will improve enough to take the burden off Lawrence or Williams, but as the Lion half-backs seem to be the only backs that can punt with any consistency, it may pay to groom another Lion in the art of kicking.

Aggies Meet Hogs Saturday

Bell's Men Still Feel Sting Of Frogs

Special to The Record News

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 21.—Smarting under the 3-0 defeat administered on Kyle field by the T. C. U. Horned Frogs, champions of the Southwest conference last year and favorites of many to repeat this fall, Madison Bell's Texas Aggies this week are pointing with a fierce determination to their tilt with the Arkansas Razorbacks at Little Rock, Ark., next Saturday.

The game will be the second conference clash of the season for the Aggies and the third of the year for Arkansas. Last week while the Aggies were holding the Frogs to a three-point victory, the Porkers were breaking into the win column in the conference percentage table, nosing out the Rice Owls, 7-6, at Fayetteville, Ark. In their first conference game, the Razorbacks were overwhelmed, 40-0, by the Horned Frogs.

Aggies Not Favorites

Despite the fact that the Aggies held the Frogs to a mere three-point win, it is not likely that the Aggies will go into the Porker tilt favorites to win, for the long journey to Little Rock and the fact that the Porkers were in a crippled condition when they met the Frogs places the Aggies and the Porkers on a more level basis. The Hogs were also handicapped against T. C. U. in that they were playing at the dedication of the new T. C. U. stadium.

Orah Dawson, 220-pound tackle who has been on the injured list since the start of the season, received another setback in the contest with the Frogs Saturday when he again injured his ankle. It is not likely that he will get into action during the next two weeks, but with that single exception Coach Bell expects to have his entire squad in readiness for the Porkers. Jack Christian, veteran guard who also injured his ankle against the Frogs, reported for practice at the start of the week and will likely be fully recovered in time to make the trip to Little Rock.

Secret Practices

A new program for training is being inaugurated by Coach Bell this week in that all future practices, with the exception of scrimmages with the freshmen on Monday, will be secret. On Monday visitors will be allowed to watch the weekly scrimmage with Coach Roswell Higginbotham's freshman charges, but on all other days the gates to the training field will be locked and no one admitted.

Citizens of the town of Goose Creek, Texas, plan to change the name to Southport, believing the latter more dignified.

Matched Play To Start In Iowa Park Tourney Sunday

Booth Looms as East's Leading Back

By LOREN DISNEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Will another back crash his way into the ranks of the super-stars this season?

And if he does, will he capture the nation's imagination as Red Grange and Chris Cagle did?

Only the "tough" games later in the season are apt to determine what performers, if any, will scale the heights of super-stardom.

And in the East it is little Albie Booth of Yale, who looms perhaps most formidably as an ace of aces.

Though he achieved wide acclaim last year, particularly after the Yale-Army game, curiously enough it was Red Cagle, pacing the momentum of an earlier fame, who held most of the spotlight.

Yet it was Booth who, almost alone, defeated Cagle and the Army. Entering the game with the Army ahead, 13-0, he scored three touchdowns, drop-kicked for the extra points, and one of his scores came after a 70-yard return of a kick-off—through the entire Army team.

Even as Yale expected big things of Booth last year, it expects bigger things this fall.

In his first year at Yale, Pat Osborne, freshman coach, called him the "greatest back since Ted Coy." And even before then Yale had watched him as a high school star in New Haven, and later with Milford prep school.

This 144-pound quarterback looks like anything but a football player. He is only five feet six, and has no bulge to his shoulders or legs, but he's always been able to hold his own with the biggest of them.

He's not a fast runner, and a speedy man can overhaul him from behind. But from the front all the boys have trouble laying hands on him. His is the "stop-go" system of running—with many variations of pace.

Like Red Grange, he takes short steps. Seldom is he hit solidly, even on line plunges. In the Dartmouth game last year when big men took a terrific battering, Booth was unhurt.

Only once was he injured. That was seven years ago, in his kid days, when he was smacked down and got a cauliflower ear.

Frequently his punts net 60 yards, and he also does a lot of passing. Booth's chief weakness is in defensive play and blocking—but so long as he gets off those long runs that won't matter to the headlines.

This year Booth took things easy in Yale's first game against Maine. Half a dozen times he carried the ball for gains, and casually made one touchdown and got off a 64-yard punt.

Holton to Remain at End While Mauldin Shifts to Backfield

Coach Barry Holton, the warhorse from Notre Dame, continued with Rockne-like precision to work his Coyotes Tuesday, and at the end of the day took his men to the Majestic theater so that they could see exactly how Knute taught Holton to do it.

The menter took advantage of Manager Vic Lowry's invitation and the whole bunch saw the first of a series of six films devoted to football instruction. The film proved instructive, and there was an old familiarity about the Rockmemen's backfield shift, which Holton, who once snapped the ball to the shifting Notre Dame backfield, has taught his Coyotes.

Mauldin in Backfield

But before the excursion to the movies, the team worked long and hard in their preparations to stop Vernon next Saturday, and the end of the workout found Coach Holton with a few conclusions formed as to what players will fill certain positions in the coming batle. J. R. Holton, he has decided, looks too good at right end, and will be left there. Malcolm Mauldin, an end, will be used at left half, with Withrow and Ray both being available at right half.

The coach worked hard on the tackle positions, and discovered that Earl Harbes, a substitute right tackle, is showing more promise every day, with the result that he might replace Lester Daniels at that position next Saturday. Daniels has played a creditable game, but the last few tilts have been a strain of no mean proportions on that part of the line. Daniels took a rest Tuesday as Harbes worked out in his place.

The coach took time out Tuesday to comment on the splendid playing being done by a number of youths who are in their first year of the game. Brandon, an end; Sepkovitch, right guard; and Johnny White, fullback, were the ones he mentioned specifically. Neither was out for the team last year, but this year they have been among the mainstays of the eleven.

Squad Pictures Taken

The A, B and C squads posed before the cameraman Tuesday afternoon, when the pictures for the school annual were taken.

The scheduled battle between the B squad and the Burkburnett B team did not come off because the Burk team failed to arrive. So two teams were formed from the reserves and a portion of a game was staged.

LEAGUE PLANNED

Church Basket Ball Loop To Be Discussed At Meeting Tonight

A great deal of interest has been aroused by the proposed organization of a city church basket ball league. Representatives of several teams will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the basement of the old First Methodist church building. Ross Edgemon, new athletic director of the church, will take charge of the league until a permanent organization can be perfected. Persons interested in entering a team or who desire to play on one of the teams are urged to be present at the organization meeting.

REAGAN GETS NEW PLAYERS

15 Men Answer Call For Volunteers

The recent drubbing the team sustained at the hands of Denton persuaded Coach A. D. Beck and school officials that the Reagan team needed more reserves and more talent, with the result that a call for volunteers was issued Tuesday.

The results, said Coach Beck, were more than gratifying, some 15 men answering the call, swelling the squad to about 35 players.

Of the new players out at work Tuesday, three, said the coach, showed so much promise that they gave hopes of becoming first string members. The three mentioned were Walter Tally, an end; Ed Barrett, guard; and Weldon White, a tackle.

Coach Beck put his charges through a brisk drill, and will continue the scrimmages with regularity until its next game, which occurs Oct. 30 when Vernon invades the Reagan pasture. He is seeking speed in his backfield, and to this end has made several shifts among his players. The recent changes include the moving of Ray Ballard from right end to right half; moving of J. L. Creecy from tackle to center; and the shifting of J. Z. Powell from center to quarterback.

Woman Asks $25,000 For Injuries in Fall

Lakeside Park Inc., and the Wichita Falls Traction company, were named as defendants in a suit for $25,500 damages filed in district court here Tuesday by Mrs. Cynthia Stewart.

Permanent injuries suffered when she fell while descending the steps at the main entrance of Lakeside park in June of this year are alleged by the plaintiff in her petition.

Negro Sentenced For Robbery of Store

H. L. Reynolds, alias Black Rabbit, negro, was given a two-year prison term by a jury before Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court Tuesday afternoon following his plea of guilty to three charges of burglary.

Indictments against Reynolds resulted from his alleged connection with a series of burglaries of the Nathan Lynch store in this city.

GRID PROTEST AWAITS RULING

10-Semester Rule Causes Forfeit

HOUSTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—The executive committee of district seven of the interscholastic league this afternoon deferred action on the protest of Ball high school, Galveston, lodged in connection with forfeiture of the Ball-Milby (Houston) football game to Milby, until after a meeting of the state committee Thursday at Austin. Subsequent to that meeting the local committee will review the case and act.

The Galveston school won the game, but the committee awarded it to Milby because of the alleged intelligibility of two Ball players under the state ten semester rule.

Frog Officials Irate at Report That Aggies 'Stopped' Leland

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 21.—There has arisen a fine difference of opinion as to whether Cyrus Leland, the well-known Frog flier, was "stopped" by the Texas Aggies in last Saturday's conference bout at College Station.

Dispatches from Kyle field said he was, pointing out that the conference champs finally had to resort to a field goal to win. The writer, who was occupied at the time in watching something closely akin to a football game at Waco, took the dispatches at face value and commented, subsequently, that the illustrious Cy had been "stopped."

Now come some facts, figures and comment from Mr. J. Willard Ridings, head of the department of journalism at Texas Christian university. Says Mr. Ridings, in part:

"I am sending you herewith, some interesting figures compiled after Saturday's game. They tend to prove what I have contended since the opening of the season—that unless Leland gains some 25 or 50 yards every time he gets the ball he is looked upon by the fans as a failure, which, of course, from one standpoint he is, for they have been taught to expect the spectacular from him. Nevertheless, for T. C. U. he seems to be doing his share, even when he is "stopped."

The figures given by Mr. Ridings, in whose department, incidentally, Leland is majoring, reveal that Cy gained a total of 39 yards from scrimmage, as compared to 23 yards gained by the entire Aggie team. He carried the oval 10 times. They show he gained 11 yards on passes and returned punts for a total of 45, bringing his total yardage to 95 for the game, compared to 99 for "Grassy" Hinton, his teammate, and 60 gained for the Aggies.

Strictly speaking, then, Leland was not "stopped" by the Farmers. Ninety-five yards is important groundage in anybody's ball game. But, comparatively speaking, it was not unfair to say that Cy was pretty well collared up by the Bellmen. Anytime his flying feet are held to less than the length of a gridiron for an entire afternoon it is an item for the papers.

Last year, before opposing coaches learned to play their wings 'way wide and force the Frog speedster inside where the tackles and halfbacks could get a shot at him, 95 yards was just a breeze for Cy. Why, he ran that far against both Texas and Baylor in one lick. He must have picked up around 300 yards in several games. Against the Aggies, for instance, he ran 45 yards on one play from scrimmage to score the touchdown that won the game. More than he gained in 10 attempts Saturday against the same team.

An optimistic note comes from the Ozark hills, where Fred Thomsen, the Southwest conference's most youthful mentor, is whipping his University of Arkansas Eleven into shape for Saturday's bout with the Texas Aggies at Little Rock. Having upset the dope to beat Rice, 7-6, last week, the Porkers now are hopeful of getting right up into the thick of things.

"With Holmes back in the lineup, we will be able to send our strongest combination against the Aggies," said Thomsen. "His shoulder should be well by Saturday. If it is, he will show the Aggies something in the way of throwing passes."

RAIN DELAYS TITLE MATCH

President's Cup to Be At Stake in Finals

Special to The Record News

IOWA PARK, Texas, Oct. 21.—Iowa Park golfers, who have been trying to qualify for matched playing in the fall club tournament for the past three or four weeks, but have been unable to do so due to severe rains, hope to complete preliminary playing and start matched plays Sunday, Oct. 26, the weather permitting.

The president's cup is at stake in this tournament. If the present holder, C. F. Johnson, wins, he will become the permanent owner, having won this cup in two previous contests.

Among the ladies who have qualified are Mesdames Dovie Dahl, Kathleen Murphree, Harriet Coppock, Wynnie O'Donohoe, Evelyn Kidwell and Miss Francis Cheatham.

Men who have qualified to date, are Messrs. V. R. Munden, J. A. Griffin, C. F. Johnson, J. G. O'Donohoe, L. E. McKinney, I. W. Austin, G. G. Clark, Earl Denny, and L. C. Denn Jr. Several more players, both men and women, are expected to qualify during the week, and some of the new members in the club are expected to prove themselves a real dark horse.

Big Seven to Meet Strong Rivals On Field This Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—Several of the great football teams that went through last season without defeat have fallen already in the course of a strenuous campaign, but a handful headed by Notre Dame go marching on as though possessed of charmed lives.

Several leading colleges have not lost a game in more than a year—Notre Dame, Utah, Western Maryland, Duquesne, Ohio university, Texas Christian and Fordham. In fact the first three named have not been so much as tied.

Virtually all of these seven are to defend their records against formidable foes this Saturday. Notre Dame plays Pittsburgh, Utah meets Denver, Duquesne opposes Catholic university in a Friday night affair, and Fordham comes to grips with its metropolitan rival, New York university, in a game that has the big town stirred up.

Somewhat easier assignments are anticipated by Western Maryland in meeting Loyola of Baltimore and by Ohio and Texas Christian in playing Miami and Texas Tech, respectively.

Knute Rockne's men will carry a string of 12 straight victories into battle with Pittsburgh's powerful eleven at the huge Pitt stadium this Saturday. Not since Southern California tossed them for a 27-14 loss in the final game of the drab 1928 campaign have the Irish been beaten or held to a draw.

Selection of Net Champions Begins

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—The problem of making up the American tennis ranking list for 1930, with the scrambled results of the season's tournament play to work on, has prompted the ranking committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association to start its work earlier than usual.

The task has not been lessened by a change in the chairmanship of the ranking committee, placing responsibility upon Dr. Philip B. Hawk, already chairman of the men's national championship committee of the U. S. L. T. A., and chairman of the tournament's committee of the West Side club, Forest Hills.

If Dr. Hawk's present plans work out, he will hold a meeting of the national committee on or about Nov. 17, in New York, two months in advance of the annual meeting of the association, in order to whip the rankings into shape. Meanwhile he has called for the ranking of the 14 sectional associations of the U. S. L. T. A. as a basis for the main job.

For the first time since his suspension nearly pushed him from the top of the list a few years ago, Big Tilden is in danger of being deposed from the number one position he has occupied for 10 successive years. Taking into consideration his play abroad, where he won the Wimbledon crown and scored America's only Davis cup triump, Tilden well might be kept at the top, but he slumped on home courts, losing to Frank Shields at Southampton, defaulting to Cliff Sutter at Rye and losing to Johnny Doeg, new national champion, in the semi-finals of the national championship.

Football Needs More Pep And Fewer Huddles, Thinks Mr. Runyon

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Pursuing my lectures to the footballers, I would now suggest that they do something to put a little speed into their pastime, though I am free to confess at the moment I can think of nothing that would serve as a prod.

It is well known to scientists that American football is the slowest of all games, with the possible exception of snail racing. Some master mind once sat down and figured out that while it takes all of two hours to play a game of football, the instrument of amusement, otherwise the football, is in motion just about 12 minutes.

The proposition is all wrong. It would be better if the game took 12 minutes, with the ball in play two hours. Don't ask me how that would be possible. I haven't doped it out myself.

Once the football is snapped, there is speed enough in the pastime for a few seconds, but the maneuvering, and the time wasting up to the snap is prodigious. I have often wondered why so many football players are lazy in after years, and I think it must be the habit acquired on the gridiron.

Squatting in the lofty press nest of the Harvard stadium last Saturday, 'mid the cooling autumnal breezes, it seemed to me that I never saw a longer drawn out game in my life than the struggle between the army and Harvard, and it passed for a right good game of football, at that.

I hope and trust that when the young gentlemen of the Army become officers, and we get tangled up in another war, they do not waste the same amount of time on the field of battle, or we are apt to run second, and maybe third. I have always thought baseball was about as slow as any game could possibly be made, bar the few minutes the ball is actually in movement, but football has it licked.

The Army and Harvard players spent most of a bright, snappy afternoon in huddles. Each team would get together off to one side before a play, and squat there with their helmeted noodles drawn to a peak so long that I have a sneaking suspicion the boys were shooting craps.

Still, it couldn't have been craps, because no game could have lasted so long as they squatted there without some guy making enough passes to clean up the mob. Maybe they were playing stud poker. The rumor that they were huddling for the purpose of devising new strategy seems untenable in view of the fact that no strategy came out of any huddle of the afternoon. At least none worth mentioning.

This huddle business came in several years ago, I believe, and among the explanations I have heard as to its purpose, was that the boys wanted to do a little thinking together, because a football player cannot think successfully alone.

Anyway, huddling is now an established practice among the college football teams, and since they seem to continue it, I would respectfully suggest that they employ the huddle to help each other catch up in their mathematics, or whatever it is they study at college. It would certainly be better than wasting the time in discussing plays that never seem to amount to much.

It is always quite vexing to me for a team to engage in an extra long huddle which steams me up to the belief that the lads are planning something unexpected and thrilling, only to see 'em try an old fashioned line plunge that gets 'em heaved for a loss. Why on earth is it necessary to go into conference on a proposition of that sort?

Aside from the huddling, an incredible amount of time is wasted by the footballers in taking light catnaps on the grass between the plays. After almost every tussle, one or more noble athletes are generally seen stretched out on the turf, and I judge they must be taking catnaps, because they almost invariably get up by and by, and go on playing again.

But not before several blokes have ambled out from the sidelines, and eyed the prostrate forms at the cost of valuable minutes. Sometimes the athletes stretch out because they are injured, but I cannot be made to believe that the proportion of real injury is anything like the number of stretches. If it is, football should be abolished forthwith as inhuman.

Then there is the guy who runs the lily cups to be considered. He is a first rate little time waster himself, if anybody asks you. I have no doubt that he travels as speedily as possible, hampered as he is by his tray of cups, but why do they need him so often? If a camel can go nine days without water, a first class football player ought to be able to go 10 minutes without a drink, I am assuming, you understand, that it's water that is in those lily cups. Or am I too assuming?

The football plays are too slow in getting away, and too much time is consumed in debates by the officials. The whole game needs a little pep.

Speaking of the Army-Harvard football game, I thought I saw a great back in the person of one Crickard of Harvard, who comes from out California way. If the Harvard interference had been worth a nickel, this young fellow might have done a lot better. As it was I thought he played a corking game.

But I was sorely disappointed in Harvard. After hearing about all that trickery that Harvard was going to employ on the Army, I expected to see a sleight-o'-hand performance that would make any magician jealous. But all I saw was a lot of bad judgment by those football players of Cambridgetown.

They seemed to be trying to hold down the score against them more than anything else, apparently not realizing that it is just as bad to be licked 6 to 0 as 40 to 6. When they ought to have been trying all the jokes they ever heard of on the Soldiers, the Harvard lads were just going along. That's all—just going along.

They made me tired. Yes, sir, between the Harvard style of play and the time wasted in huddles, and what not, I was one weary feller at the end of the day. But between the two, the Harvard style made me tiredest.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—Cotton was quiet again today, and prices held steady within a range of 5 or 6 points. An early advance promoted by steadiness of Liverpool was followed by slight reactions under hedging and local selling which may have been influenced by declines in the stock market, but offerings were absorbed by trade buying and prices firmed up again in the late trading. December ranged from 10.47 to 10.51 for the new contract and closed at 10.50 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 6 to 10 points.

Continued cold weather was reported in the South, but temperatures were not quite as low as recently, and while they have been down to freezing point at scattering stations in the northern part of the belt during the past few days, the weather news does not appear to be attracting much attention.

Liverpool cables reported covering and continental buying in that market and reported a fair inquiry for cotton cloth from India and China. Exports today 62,791, making 1,930,036 so far this season. Port receipts 84,309. U. S. port stocks 3,268,373.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21. After opening a little higher in sympathy with better cables than due, the market advances on fair trade buying, although stocks were lower, ultimately gaining 7 to 9 points on hedge selling, but improved again in late trading, advancing almost to the earlier highs and closing steady at net gains for the day of 4 to 6 points.

Monday's Artificial Advances Wiped Out by New Selling Pressure

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (US)—Artificial character of Monday's sharp rise in prices on the stock exchange was demonstrated today when quotations moved in directly opposite fashion. The net result was virtually to cancel the entire previous day's gains. On only slightly larger volume the pressure of offerings was too great for demand and throughout the session the tendency was toward lower price levels, with the close only fractionally from the lowest levels of the day.

It was a most disappointing experience for speculators for the rise, especially after the surprising stability of prices the day before, with the many concurrent rumors of banking buying, intensive support, bear fright.

Obviously, the market lacks sufficient buying power to support advancing prices, as evidence primarily perhaps of a continued distrust on the part of investors, since investment buying is necessary to absorb the persistent offerings, rather than speculative demand which soon disappears at the first sign of temporary relapse in prices.

Considering the immediate prospects for the market in the light of the supposed "support line" of Saturday's low levels, the market actually has yet to be tested. Today's decline stopped just short of these lows and should these prices fail to hold, it will be concrete evidence of the falsity of the widespread claims of extensive support in the market. However, the market had to contend with immediate profit-taking on fortunate speculators who recognized that Monday's advance was too abrupt to be lasting under prevailing conditions. Then, too, such overnight helpful news to the bear element as the Westinghouse Electric report kas too important to be ignored.

Westinghouse proved a vulnerable issue, breaking to a new low for the year on its third quarter report showing the dividend not earned in that period. With this fine stock yielding sharply, others were unable to resist pressure and the entire list entered into a decline.

General Electric likewise established a new low at 50 but rallied a point. Short covering has been noted on an increasing scale in General Electric, although sizeable investment demand seemingly awaits even more favorable yield than that accorded at 50, which is 3.2 per cent.

As a group, the oil shares turned exceptionally weak with many of the leaders entering new low ground, Standard of New Jersey going to the lowest price since the famous "million-share bid" by the Rockefeller interests last year at 50. It sold as low as 53⅛. Texas corporation sold under 40 to a yield basis of over 7½ per cent, and the more speculative oils sold down to the lowest levels in years.

There was considerable selling of the oil stocks from foreign quarters, which was considered rather significant, in view of the power wielded by certain large foreign-controlled oil enterprises, notably Royal Dutch. The real basis for the persistent selling of the oils, a good deal of which is outright liquidation, is the fear often expressed here, of the vicious cycle of deflation which has been so evident in other commodities extending to oil. The industry, with its huge supplies, is naturally in vulnerable position.

The market acted in so disappointing a fashion that the suspicion arose its performance may be part of a maneuvre to attract an increasing short interest, but the suggestion met with derision. The fact is that prevailing prices are bringing in considerable long-pull investment buying which is in no way concerned with the possibilities for the next few months, but rather is looking to the next year or two. Such buying is rarely concentrated, but is content to be accomplished on a scale down.

Thus, the exceedingly bearish viewpoint of the speculative markets towards the highest-grade Rails, for example is not entirely shared by discriminating investors, who recognize that in many instances prevailing prices for various rails are already discounting considerably in the future.

New York Central's yield of close to 6 per cent is the best provided by this premier rail for several years and the yield of over 6 per cent on Pennsylvania likewise takes into account a good deal of the potential bearishness, according to discriminating observers.

Union Pacific's showing for September, with net operating income actually above the same month last year despite smaller gross revenues, indicates that the pessimism on the best-grade Rails may be overdone unless unforeseen adverse developments occur.

In the great majority of stocks their fluctuations are dictated principally by technical considerations, such a short interest, perhaps overhanging blocks of stock in no way related to actual intrinsic values, and other factors which become dominant in a bear market. Some sudden development of great cheer is needed to stir the optimism which is now lacking.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 21. (AP)—Slow demand marked trading on the cash grain market here today. Prices held fairly well on the reported sales but the market was more nominal than otherwise. Heavy offerings would produce bad results, according to dealers. Mills were bidding 87@88c for No. 1 hard wheat delivered Texas common points.

Estimated receipts: Wheat, 9 cars; corn 5; oats 2; barley 7.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carload delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 91@92c; No. 2 white 94@95c; No. 2 yellow 93@94c.

Oats—No. 2 red, according to desirability for seed, 50@52c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.65@1.70; No. 2 kaffir $1.42@1.44.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. (AP)—Unsettled by a new drop in prices of securities all grain today underwent a late setback that more than erased an early advance. Increased selling of wheat, corn and other cereals, however, appeared to be largely in the nature of profit taking, wheat at the top point touched today showing about 5⅛c a bushel gain from recent low figures. Statements credited to Chairman Legge of the federal farm board that agricultural commodities had reached their bottom level attracted much notice, but for at least the present, were without lasting effect as a market influence.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅝c a bushel decline. Corn closed ⅛@1⅛c down, oats ⅛@⅜c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

Corn and oats duplicated the action of wheat. Besides, the feed grains were weakened by reports indicating favorable conditions for field work and for the movement of corn.

Provisions followed the course of grain fluctuations, and ignored a downturn of hog values.

Closing indemnities—wheat: Dec. 77⅝@⅜c, 80⅛@⅜c; March 81⅝c, 83½c; May 82⅝@83c, 85⅛@⅝c. Corn—Dec. 76¼@⅜c, 78⅝c; March, bids, 78⅝c; May 81c, 83¼c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. (US)—Wheat traders were inclined to discouragement over the reaction in stocks which had its influence on the trend of the wheat market. Many are turning to the view, however, that the strong fundamentals in the grain situation which are slowly making themselves felt and which may become of sufficient influence to divorce wheat action from securities trend.

There was nothing bearish in the cash corn situation. With around 20 cars of new stuff on the market, the basis advanced 1@2c for new and ¼@½c for the old. Country offerings remain very light and most of the arrivals are consignment.

There have been light rains in the Argentine wheat sections and weather is now clear and warmer, favoring growth of the new crop.

Disappointing husking returns continue to be reported from over the corn belt.

Canadian country deliveries of wheat Monday were only 1,636,000 bushels, compared with 1,743,000 bushels of wheat the corresponding day a year ago.

Heartbreak Girl

By Rob Eden

voice trembled with excitement, "that Max Brackett signed me to a three year contract. Three years, Gail! Two hundred a week. A fortune! I never thought I'd earn as much. Every six months, my salary goes up $50. And all because of you! Brackett was very enthusiastic when I talked to him. He sent for me after the test—about an hour after, but I didn't get the message until five."

"Carla wants you to come to dinner tomorrow, Ross."

"Fine. You'll be there?"

"That's what I wanted to talk to you about, dear. You see, I don't want Carla to know what I did. Calling Mr. Brackett and saying I was talking for her. She doesn't know, and I don't think Mr. Brackett will tell her. She's sort—of peculiar about things, and I think you'll get a better break with everything if she doesn't know what I did. You'd better not know me at all. She'll introduce us tomorrow night, and you pretend you don't know me. See?"

"I think that's silly."

Ross Agrees

"It isn't Ross. You don't know Carla. She's funny about some things. I don't want her to suspect I had anything to do with this. You understand now, don't you?"

"Yes, but she'll have to know some time that we're engaged."

"Not yet, I'll tell her eventually, when she gets to know you better." For Gail in her few days of acquaintance with Carla knew her quite well.

"Then we'll be formally introduced tomorrow night?" Ross laughed.

"Yes."

"Fine. That'll be a good joke anyway. You know we never have been introduced."

"And I'll see you tomorrow."

Ross whispered his thanks again. His face was beaming with happiness, as he kissed Gail.

"Remember tomorrow, and be careful about me," Gail warned again. "Remember I'm just Carla's secretary!"

Carla was looking for her when she came in. "Gail, I just remembered. I want Nick tomorrow, too, of course. You'll call him? And where have you been?"

Gail went to the telephone, wondering how she would feel tomorrow evening at dinner, she, Carla's secretary, and Ross, Carla's leading man. Ross had his chance. She had helped him. She was glad of that. Now he would help her—

Tomorrow—Ross gives Gail a present.

Depositions by Wichitans Read In Wilbarger County Oil Lease Suit

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 21.—Evidence tending to show lack of development of a valuable lease held by the Atlantic Oil Producing company was presented in depositions read before the court by Leslie Humphries of Wichita Falls, attorney for the plaintiff, in the case of the Lido Oil company vs. the Atlantic Oil Producing company which got under way in the 46th district court here this afternoon. The case is being tried before Special Judge E. E. Diggs of Childress, Judge W. N. Stokes being disqualified.

The Lido company is attempting to break a lease in the Zacaquiesta field 12 miles south of Vernon, and the principal allegation by the plaintiffs is lack of development of the lease.

The evidence this afternoon showed the Atlantic company to be the discoverer of the Landreth lime in that area in 1927, and attempted to show that the Atlantic company undertook no further development after the Smith-Brady, Cosden and Davis companies opened the Zacaquiesta pool with a number of large producers.

Depositions of I. R. Sheldon of Wichita Falls, district manager of the Atlantic company, and of John Merrick, Wichita Falls oil operator, were presented by Attorney Humphries. Depositions will be presented most of Wednesday, according to Lido attorneys.

AUTO STRIKES WICHITA BOY

Frank Bettes, 10, Suffers Fractured Leg

Frank Bettes, 10-year-old son of T. E. Bettes who resides on Huntington road, received a double fracture and a severe cut on the left leg when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. J. V. McCasland, 1417 Sixteenth street, five miles out on the Iowa Park road, shortly after 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The boy was taken by a passer-by to Iowa Park where he was attended by a private physician.

The accident occurred, as told to Howard Peters, city motorcycle officer, while Mrs. McCasland was driving west on the Iowa Park road with the boy walking just off the pavement in the same direction. As the car approached, the boy stepped onto the pavement in front of the car. Mrs. McCasland swerved in an attempt to avoid the child, but too late to keep the rear of the automobile from striking him.

WOMAN JAILED FOR SLAYING

Dying Man Refuses To Name Assailant

DALLAS, Oct. 21. (AP)—Mrs. Billie Douglas, 35, was charged with murder today in connection with the fatal shooting of C. A. Tiller, 35, of Fort Worth.

Tiller was found last night in a residence here with a bullet wound in his abdomen when police went to investigate a report of a shooting.

They said they found Mrs. Douglas in a room with Tiller, holding a pistol in her hand. One discharged cartridge was found in the pistol.

When first questioned, Tiller told officers his name was "C. A. Arnold." He refused to discuss the shooting and after being told he was dying, refused to make a statement to District Attorney William McCraw. He died in a hospital and his body was sent to Fort Worth.

Mrs. Douglas also refused to discuss the shooting, other than to say to a policeman, "I didn't do any shooting." To other questioners she maintained silence or replied that there was no use in talking. She was held in jail.

Musicians Club Hears Colorful Opening Program

Members of the Musicians club were entertained Tuesday night at the Episcopal parish house in the opening program of the year by an elaborate wedding party, planned and directed by Mrs. Fred B. Sharp, and utilizing male members of the organization in a wide variety of female roles.

The nuptial ceremonies centered around a bridal pair composed of Samuel B. Lamb, impersonated by Stanley M. Raub, and Daisy Ketchum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Will Ketchum, charmingly portrayed by Henry Barton. Prominent among the "guests of honor" were such personages as Madame Galli-Curci, Mary Garden, Gloria Swanson, John Boles and the Denishawn dancers. J. S. Pitman enacted the role of O. B. Doleful, who tied the knot after the groom had been forcibly led to the altar by Jack Dempsey, who in private life is Jess McLarry.

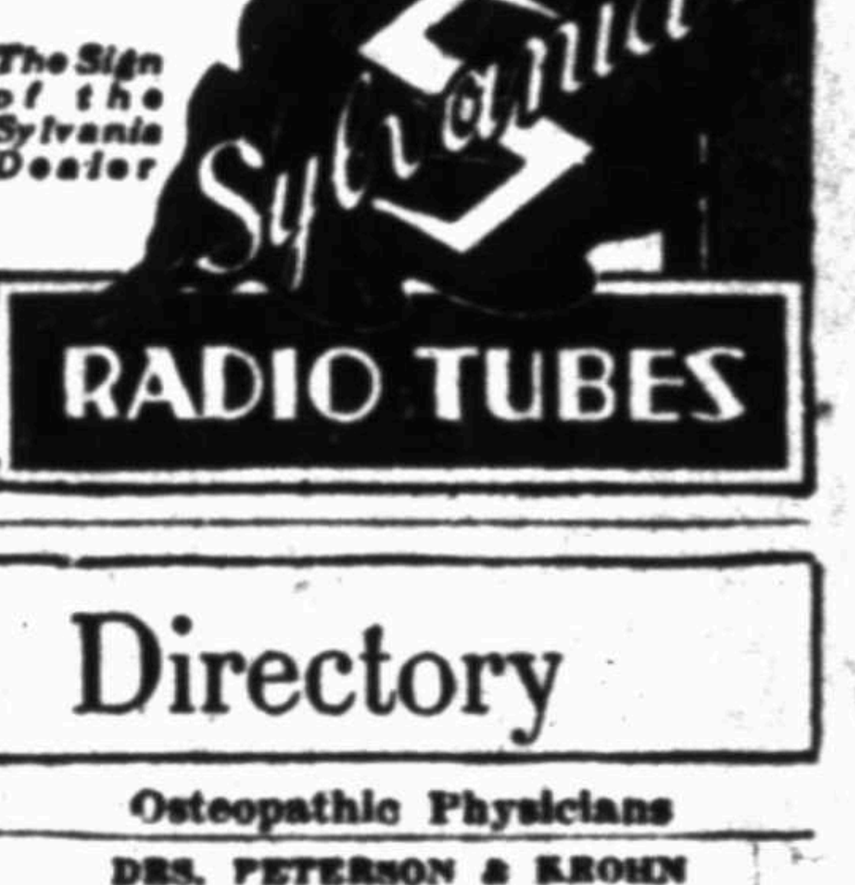

A supporting orchestra, headed by Mrs. Phillip Oviatt, pianist provided fitting musical accompaniments throughout the ceremony. A group of specialty numbers preceded the wedding party. Emil Hermann acted as director of ceremonies.

Mrs. Wade H. Walker, a charter member of the Musicians club who is now visiting in the city, made a short talk commending the work of the organization. She was introduced by Mrs. J. E. Hall, president. A large audience was present.

AD CLUB TOLD OF FIRE COSTS

Premiums Higher Because Of Poor Water System

Figures showing how expenditures in fire insurance in Wichita Falls during the past five years have varied according to the fire credit percentages were given before members of the Ad club Tuesday noon by H. L. Bond of the Nation Fire Protective association.

More men, more equipment and more water with better pressure are needed in Wichita Falls, Mr. Bond said, in discussing local hazards and possible corrections.

"In 1925, with no fire credit," he stated, "this city paid $90,000 as fire insurance premiums which with better rating could have been put to other uses; with a credit of 9 per cent in 1926, the wasted expenditures totalled only $41,000; increasing your credit to 12 per cent in 1927, you lowered your surplus premium payments to $20,500; in 1928, this credit rose to its maximum, 15 per cent, and wasted no money in premiums; in 1929, however, the credit slipped back to 12 per cent, and the cost was $20,500; in 1930, with a credit of only 6 per cent, we shall spend $55,000 more than we should if our credit was 15 per cent."

Overton Abernathy, member of the fire chief's cabinet, introduced the speaker. Musical numbers were given by Miss Catherine Sue Ralston of Iowa Park, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Baker, also of Iowa Park.

City to Retire $34,000 Worth of Muny Bonds

Preparations are now being made in the office of City Clerk W. E. McBroom to redeem on Nov. 1 $34,000 worth of bonds issued in 1920 for the purpose of making various civic improvements. This payment will reduce the city's bonded debt to $3,575,500, Mr. McBroom said.

A payment of $5,000 on the water and sewer warrants will also be made at this time. This payment will reduce the warrant debt to $119,000 which draws interest at the rate of 5 per cent. These warrants were issued in 1924.

MAJESTIC: "Good News" with Bessie Love. Short subjects and news.

STRAND: Charles Ruggles, Ralph Forbes and Skeets Gallagher in "Her Wedding Night." Our Gang comedy, color novelty and sound news.

STATE: "Puttin' On the Ritz" with Harry Richman and Joan Bennett. Mickey Mouse comedy, short subjects and news.

P. G. Wodehouse, wisecracker supreme, surpassed all former efforts with this recent one, reported in Photoplay magazine:

Approached by a producer and asked to wirte a scenario, Mr. Wodehouse replied: "Why, I thought the motion pictures already had a scenario."

Amos 'n' Andy's "Check and Double Check" is to begin at the Strand theater Friday, following the rollicking burlesque, "Her Wedding Night," which is still drawing the crowds.

In the meantime, "With Byrd at the South Pole" will start at the State Thursday, following Harry Richman's "Puttin' on the Ritz."

"Her Wedding Night" and "Puttin' on the Ritz" are excellent examples of the type of picture which is above the average and yet not on the top shelf. But for a brief sequence in which there is too much Clara Bow, "Her Wedding Night" is unusually delightful and amusing. Flowers for Charlie Ruggles.

"Puttin' on the Ritz" is the best of the series of Broadway backstage shows, profiting from many of the glaring mistakes made in the earlier ones of that type. Harry Richman is better than Al Jolson or Nick Lucas or Rudy Vallee or Eddie Dowling, and no technicolor scene was ever more beautiful than the "Alice in Wonderland" number. It's only fault is that it lasts just 10 minutes.

JUDGE'S LIFE

Perhaps This Man Is A Republican

Following the receipt of a telegram from Fort Worth Tuesday afternoon, County Judge John P. Marrs was uncertain as to whether a political joke was being attempted or whether just another lunacy case was promised.

The wire message was a peremptory demand which read:

"I am a candidate for the United States senate. Print my name on the Democratic ballot."

TWO HURT IN GASOLINE FIRE

Auto Burns When Match Starts Blaze

An explosion of gasoline which had collected in an automobile caused painful burns to Paul Meyer, 1504 Seventh street, and Fred Powell, Adams street, early Tuesday morning near Dodge and Carrigan streets, according to a report to J. L. McClure, fire chief.

The accident occurred when the automobile, which belonged to Meyer, developed trouble in the motor. Meyer got out of the car to attempt repairs while Powell remained inside, striking a match to light a cigaret, which caused the explosion, it was said. Meyer suffered burns on the face and hands while Powell was burned on the face, hands and body. Both men were attended at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital, where it was said their condition was not serious.

Fire started by the explosion destroyed the automobile.

Bank Failure in '98 Basis of Suit Here

Failure of a bank in Kansas City, Mo., in 1898 is cited as the original basis for a suit filed in the United States district court here Tuesday purposed to clear title to land located in Knox county.

Stating that the National Bank of Kansas City was declared bankrupt by the United States comptroller of currency 32 years ago, and that eventually certain Texas lands belonging to the defunct banking house were sold to antecedents of the plaintiffs, the pleadings point out that title to their lands has been clouded by doubt as to the full legality of the sale. The suit is styled W. R. Moore et al. vs. the National Bank of Kansas City et al.

Junior C.-C. to Urge Changes in Arson Law

Steps to bring about a more effective arson law in Texas will be taken at a meeting Wednesday night of the board of directors of the Junior chamber of commerce, according to an announcement Tuesday by Jerry Vinson, president.

The move to secure an adequate arson law or to secure an adoption of the model law sponsored by the National Fire Protection association comes as a result of a talk given Monday night by Horatio Bond, field engineer of the association, before the fire chief's cabinet and members of the senior and junior chambers of commerce. Mr. Bond deplored Texas' lax prosecution of incendiarism.
