Mutscher, Aides Convicted

The SDN Column

Another letter from Dayton L. Drachenberg of Arlington, Va., has been passed along, this time via Irene Hardy, deputy in the office of District Clerk Zada Drum Chapman.

A copy of this column in the issue of March 5 had been forwarded to Drachenberg. That was the column which related the recollections of two local citizens who were present on a summer night in 1917 when Julius Drachenberg and other members of an evangelistic team were arrested during a religious service at Fluvanna as suspected spies. Dayton Drachenberg had written the district clerk's office here seeking any information concerning any charges which may have been filed. In his latest letter, he discloses more information on the incident which has been handed down in his family, Julius Drachenberg having been his father.

He said that his father reported that some 1917 newspaper accounts of the arrest said that when officers searched the luggage of the evangelists, they found seditious literature and fancy silk underwear. This drew a laugh from Mrs. Drachenberg who said she had made her husband's underwear out of "Pioneer" and "American Maid" flour sacks. The seditious literature turned out to be religious tracts.

The evangelistic group, including Julius Drachenberg, the Rev. S.E. Waterbury and a woman pianist, was arrested as suspected espionage agents of Germany, the U.S. being on opposites sides with that nation in World War I at the time. Dayton Drachenberg says that apparently the arresting officers thought his father was a German citizen, but he wasn't. After his arrest, Julius Drachenberg reportedly produced a birth certificate showing that he was a Russian citizen, though of German descent.

The group was released after some long-time citizens of Fort Bend County came to Snyder to officially vouch for their character and reputation. However, they apparently were taken some place to a larger jail after remaining in Snyder for only a day or so. It is not known where this larger jail was, but Dayton Drachenberg says his father talked about the water boiling out of the radiator of the vehicle used by officers to transfer them and that the officers argued about which one would remain with the prisoners and which one would go for more water. Each was reluctant to remain alone with the "spies," and finally, Rev. Waterbury suggested that the prisoners go with both officers to get water and that solved the problem of the moment.

So far, we have not been able to pin down the exact date that this happened since some of the files of the local weekly newspaper for that year are missing.

Price Rule Tightened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission, concluding that it is not holding down inflation enough, today announced a significant tightening of one of its major price rules.

It reduced from 2 per cent to 1.8 per cent the maximum average price increase which it will allow companies to get under its Term Limit Pricing agreements.

A commission spokesman said this was done after in-depth economic studies prepared by commission staff members showed the commission's policies were not meeting President Nixon's goal of winding down inflation to a rate of 2.5 per cent by the end of this year.

The new, more stringent pricing rule will not apply to the 120 big firms that already have agreed to hold their prices to an average of 2 per cent or less, or to firms already in direct negotiation with the Price Commission for such an agreement.

Under Term Limit Pricing, or TLP as it is called, large firms agree to an average limit on all their products, rather than item-by-item ceilings that otherwise would apply.

In return for the price flexibility this gives them, they agreed to a lower over-all average than they might otherwise be able to win on the basis of their costs.

Previously, the over-all average ceiling for TLP agreements was 2 per cent. The new ceiling is 1.8 per cent, with a maximum 8 per cent lid on any single product line.

The surprise move was decided last week by unanimous vote of the full commission, a spokesman said.

It marks a significant turning point in Price Commission policy. Previously, Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayjon Jr. had insisted repeatedly that the commission was "on course" towards its goal of a two and five-tenths per cent inflation rate this year.

Man Treated For Gunshot Wound

Ricky Bob Morris, 24, 310½ Twenty-eighth Street, was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance Service for treatment of a gunshot wound in the head. His condition was described as serious, and he was later transferred to a hospital in Abilene for surgery.

City Police said Morris' wife told them he shot himself at about 2 a.m. today with a .22 caliber rifle. The slug went through his chin and tongue and lodged in the brain. The shooting occurred at Morris' residence.

Nixon Working On Busing

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Nixon is at Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains, reportedly working on a statement on busing.

Nixon left the White House by car Tuesday night, accompanied only by his personal physician, Dr. Walter Tkach, his valet and his dog.

Jury Out 140 Minutes

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher, 39-year-old farmers' son who rose to the third highest office in the state's government and married a former Miss America, was convicted today of conspiracy to accept a bribe.

Also convicted with Mutscher were his two chief lieutenants, state Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and administrative aide Rush McGinty.

Mutscher's head swayed slightly as the verdict was read. One of his lawyers, Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, dropped his head on his hands and grimaced as if he wanted to cry.

About 20 minutes after the verdict was read, Mutscher sat down on a front row bench in the spectators' section and cried openly. His wife, Donna, Miss America of 1964, stood beside him with her hand on his shoulder.

Mrs. Mutscher then sat down and sobbed. The speaker's father, Gus Mutscher Sr., and Mrs. Tommy Shannon also cried. McGinty left the courtroom. Tommy Shannon was dry-eyed.

The 8-woman, 4-man jury deliberated two hours and 20 minutes after a 13-day trial in which the defense put on no witnesses but used almost all its allotment of four hours in jury arguments in an effort to convince the jury that the state failed to meet its burden of proof.

Testimony will be taken Thursday at 9 a.m. on the sentence. Each of the defendants could get 2 to 5 years in the penitentiary.

The conviction unquestionably will have profound political repercussions in state government for years to come.

Foreman of the jury was Larry E. Yerger, 28, a McMurry College freshman and a Methodist.

The defense asked that the jury be polled and each juror confirmed that conviction was his verdict for each defendant.

Joe Shannon, lawyer for Rep. Shannon but no relation, told newsmen, "I don't have a God-

Court Upholds Death Penalty

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas' Court of Criminal Appeals today rejected arguments that convinced the California Supreme Court and upheld the constitutionality of the death penalty.

The court's 4-1 decision upheld the conviction of Ronnie Earl Tezeno, who was assessed death in the electric chair in the Dec. 8, 1969, slaying of Odie C. Wright in Houston.

Witnesses said Wright was shot in the chest by a man who robbed the automobile supply house where he worked.

Tezeno's lawyers sought reversal of his conviction on grounds the death penalty is cruel and unusual punishment, prohibited by the 8th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The California Supreme Court recently accepted that argument and outlawed capital punishment in that state, sparing the lives of such notorious death row inmates as Sirhan Sirhan and Charles Manson.

But the Texas Court, the highest to which a criminal case can go in the state, in an opinion by Judge Truman Roberts disagreed.

"An examination of the Constitution of the United States reveals through the amendments to the same that the death penalty for crime is recognized," Roberts wrote.

He said the 5th amendment provides safeguards for persons accused of capital crimes and the 14th amendment says no state "shall. . .deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law."

"Thus, it is evident that the Constitution foresees the death penalty as punishment for crime both in an amendment that was adopted at the same time as the 8th amendment and in the 14th amendment on which the appellant herein (Tezeno) relies," Roberts said.

"This court holds to the opinion that it has enunciated many times before, that under the Constitution of the Untited States or the State of Texas ... the death penalty is not cruel or unusual punishment."

Tezeno's lawyers also contended that jurors were excluded for opposition to the death penalty.

But the court majority found that jurors were exluded, in line with a U.S. Supreme Court decision, only after saying they could impose the penalty under no circumstances, no matter what facts about the case were revealed.

Presiding Judge John F. Onion Jr. dissented. He commented that the U.S. Supreme Court recently reversed four Texas cases in which that issue was raised.

The court, however, furnished no guidelines for future cases, Onion said, "and we are left to speculate just how we misinterpreted or misapplied these decisions, if in fact we did."

He said the court should reexamine some other recent Supreme Court cases on qualification of jurors in death cases before finally deciding Tezeno's case.

Wallace Wins Florida Primary By Landslide

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Democratic presidential campaign has been scrambled by a Florida primary in which Gov. George C. Wallace won by a landslide, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey claimed victory in second place and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie suffered a drubbing.

Humphrey said today that Wallace is now "a formidable opponent ... no doubt about that" but predicted the governor would never win the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I'll get it," Humphrey said in an interview on NBC's "Today" show.

Wallace, who rode to victory on his opposition to school busing and his pledges to bear down on crime and tax the wealthy, also appeared on the show and said he felt the small showing of his Democratic rivals in the primary was "a blow" to all of them.

School busing was the top issue of the campaign. The Florida voters, in a straw ballot which has no legal effect, overwhelmingly registered opposition to court-ordered school busing to achieve integration. They also voted strongly in support of quality education for all.

Wallace's victory of 42 per cent of the Democratic vote gave him 75 of the state's 81 delegates to the party's national convention; Humphrey won 6 with his 18 per cent.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington finished third with 13 per cent, ahead of Muskie with his 9 per cent, and vowed to win the April 4 Wisconsin primary.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay won 7 per cent—barely edging Sen. George S. McGovern for fifth place after a heavy investment here in time and money. McGovern took 6 per cent.

In the Republican primary, President Nixon swept to victory with 87 per cent of the vote and easily won all 40 delegates to the GOP National Convention.

The Democratic primary left the party's top contenders with these prospects:

—Muskie: The preprimary frontrunner, he suffered a second successive blow after last week's lackluster victory in New Hampshire. The primaries in Illinois next Tuesday and later in Wisconsin now loom as crucial.

—Humphrey: Fighting to overcome a "loser" image, the former vice president got the boost he sought when he bypassed New Hampshire to concentrate here. He appears to be Muskie's main rival in Wisconsin.

—Wallace: The Alabama governor got the heavy vote he sought and will now enter many other primaries, both in the South and in Northern states such as Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland.

School Calendar, Salaries Okayed

Snyder School Trustees last night approved a school calendar for 1972-73, voted to continue the salary formula now in effect and approved recommendations of its textbook committee.

The local school system will continue a salary scale for teachers of $1,000 per year above the state minimum. This schedule has been in effect here for several years.

The 1972-73 school calendar sets the pre-school in-service training for teachers for Aug. 11-14 and the opening day of school for Aug. 28. First semester holidays will include Labor Day on Sept. 4, Thanksgiving Nov. 23-24, Christmas Dec. 22-Jan. 2. Students will get another holiday on Oct. 16 when teachers attend the district meeting of the Texas State Teachers Association.

The first semester will end on Jan. 11 and the second semester will begin on Jan. 15. Students will get holidays on March 1-2 while teachers have in-service training. The Easter vacation is set for April 19 through April 23. The second semester will end on May 29, the date for graduation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Eades and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Roemisch conferred with the boad concerning punishment assessed in disciplining their children at West Elementary School. The board discussed the topic further in an executive session following the regular business meeting.

The board also approved plans for a summer recreation program for retarded persons. The same type of program was provided last year. Estimated cost to the school district this year is $1,900.

Gene Williams, counselor, presented a report on the Engelmann program in some elementary schools. Supt. Bill J. Hood said it would be next school term before this program, designed especially for pupils who have language problems, or are culturally deprived, can be properly evaluated.

Wallace In Austin Friday

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Employes of the House of Representatives said today that a local spokesman for George Wallace, a Democratic candidate for president, reserved the Texas House chamber for a Wallace appearance at 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Wallace's headquarters in Montgomery, Ala., said the candidate said on national television (the Today show) that he was going to Texas Friday and said he would be in Austin.

Wallace will probably use the House chamber for a news conference. The legislature is not in session.

In the 1968 presidential campaign when Wallace was a candidate of the American Party, he got a total of 584,269 votes in Texas.

A number of prominent Texas Republicans blamed Wallace's support for the defeat of Richard Nixon in Texas by Hubert Humphrey with a 39,000 vote margin.

112 Feared Dead In Jet Crash

DUBAI, Persian Gulf (AP) — A Danish airliner with 112 persons aboard crashed into a rain-swept mountainside and rescuers said today they found no sign of life.

Sterling Airways of Copenhagen reported its twin-jet Caravelle vanished Tuesday night as it was preparing to land at this locality on the Persian Gulf on a flight from Ceylon to Denmark.

The wreckage was located by helicopters and a search plane 12 miles inland from Qelba, a dependency of the Arab emirate of Sharjah.

Heavy rains prevented helicopters from landing at the crash scene, and it is almost inaccessible on foot.

"It appears there are no survivors," a Sharjah government spokesman said.

The Danish airline said the plane carried 106 passengers and 6 crewmen.

The wreckage was sighted 1,800 feet up a mountainside.

The Sterling airliner on a charter flight was returning from Colombo, Ceylon, to Copenhagen with 68 Danish, 20 Swedish, 12 Norwegian, 4 Finnish and 2 West German passengers, mostly tourists, plus the 6 crewmen, all Danish.

Snyderite Is Selected For Institute

Gary R. Terrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin D. Terrell of Snyder, has been selected to participate in the third annual Southwestern Life Youth Leadership Institute, scheduled Mar. 24-26 in Dallas.

Terrell is a sophomore pre-law major at Angelo State University, and is the only student from his school selected to attend the institute. His selection was based on academic standing and campus leadership experience.

The Snyder youth is president of the Men's High Rise Association at Angelo State, a representative in the Student Congress, co-editor of Pensador magazine, and vice-chairman of the Program Council speakers committee.

His parents live at 3000 El Paso St. in Snyder.

The Youth Leadership Institute is sponsored by Southwestern Life Insurance Compay, which will provide scholarships covering all expenses except transportation to and from Dallas. Its purpose is to provide promising campus leaders with first-hand knowledge and experience in such areas as developing teamwork, resolving conflict, making decisions, and communicating effectively.

Designed especially for the college level, the 15-hour course is intended to develop insight and skills that will be of value long after the participants have completed their formal schooling.

Fifty schools located in six states have been invited to send student representatives to the institute. A small number of faculty members also will take part, as will several junior officers from the host company.

Rev. Matthews lives in Colorado City where he has been pastor of the Plainview Baptist Church for 11 years. Crawford, formerly of Ira and who now lives in Lubbock, is song leader for the Antioch Baptist Church in Lubbock. Mrs. Van Kountz, will be the pianist for the revival.

Rev. Myron Crawford, pastor of Gail Baptist Church, said the public is invited to attend all services.

Patrick, Lucy Visit White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patrick Lyndon Nugent swiveled in the chair and pounded with the gavel in the White House office where his grandfather, Lyndon B. Johnson, once presided.

Patrick, almost 5 years old, came back to the White House on Tuesday with his mother, Luci Johnson Nugent, at the invitation of President Nixon's daughter, Tricia Cox.

When asked who used to work in the President's office, Lyn replied, "Poppa," an apparent reference to his grandfather.

damn word to say. Nothing."

None of the other lawyers for the defendants nor the defendants themselves said anything to newsmen immediately after the verdict.

This was the first major criminal prosecution growing out of the Texas stock-bank loan scandals that came first to light in January 1971.

The jury apparently was persuaded by chief prosecutor Bob Smith that the defendants were good men that got greedy.

"When you're talking in terms of $100,000 or $200,000, I think men get greedy," Smith said late Tuesday. "I think sometimes good men get greedy. I think the evidence in this case shows that good men get greedy."

For an hour and 24 minutes, Smith held the soundless attention of a courtroom that had already heard nearly six hours of arguments. He prowled slowly in front of the jury box like a big bear, softly but relentlessly pulling together the state's case in a powerful embrance.

The bribery conspiracy trial of Speaker Gus Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and Mutscher aide Rush McGinty went to the jury at 8:18 p.m.

Dist. Court Judge J. Neil Daniel instructed the jury to begin deliberations at 8:30 a.m. today.

The defendants are accused of conspiring to accept bribes from Houston promoter Frank Sharp in exchange for their influence in winning legislative approval in 1969 of two banking bills Sharp wanted.

"What was really happening was they were shaking down Mr. Sharp, who needed these bills. They saw a big, fat pigeon sitting over there in the form of Mr. Sharp," Smith said.

"These people are not victims of manipulation. This is pure smoke. Victims don't get rich," he said.

"He (Sharp) could not have manipulated these defendants if they hadn't had their hands stuck out a mile for that greedy dollar," he said.

The loans were "collateralized by the speaker of the House's office. And that office doesn't belong to Gus Mutscher. It belongs to you and the rest of the people of Texas," he said.

THE SOLO SMILE — Astronaut Donald K. (Deke) Slayton wears a smile as he checks out the cockpit of a T-38 as he prepared to make his first solo flight in about ten years. Back in 1962 it was learned he had an irregular heart beat. He was treated for the irregularity and Monday was pronounced fit for space flights and solo flying. The 48-year-old Slayton, one of the original Astronauts and who for the past 10 years has selected those of who made space history, said he was "just going up to rattle around some by myself." By rattle he means some acrobatics. (AP Wirephoto)

Jury Selected In Davis Trial

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — With surprising speed, a jury has been selected and sworn for the trial of black militant Angela Davis. She is charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in the 1970 San Rafael Courthouse shootout in which a judge and three others were killed.

Her attorneys say they accepted an all-white jury because there was no chance of getting a black juror on the panel.

Prosecutor Albert Harris Jr., noting that the panel of eight women and four men includes a Mexican-American, labeled totally untrue defense charges that the state would accept only an all-white jury.

Both sides surprised newsmen and court spectators Tuesday by accepting a jury after only nine days of jury selection. The attorneys had predicted earlier that the job would take five or six weeks—and the defense had questioned whether it would ever find 12 people to determine Miss Davis' guilt or innocence.

Miss Davis, a Communist party member, faced the men and women who will judge her and announced the defense's acceptance of the panel. She said:

"Although I cannot say that this is a jury of my peers, after much discussion we have reached the conclusion that the women and men sitting on this jury will put forth their best efforts to give me a fair trial."

Harris then announced the prosecution's acceptance of the panel. He said later that both sides had agreed to accept the jury during a private 45-minute session in the chambers of Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason.

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

We were reading your article on the Scurry County Commissioners Court ruling on the use of community centers and the rule of "Dancing or drinking of intoxicating drinks are prohibited on these premises."

I feel that one who dances or drinks pays the same taxes as one who does not. Seems to me that if a community center is built it should be for the community to use. Take us dancers and drinkers out of the community and I would guess only one tenth of Snyder would be left to use a very useful center.

NASA Approves Solid Propellant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics Space Administration decided today that the booster stage of the Space Shuttle will be powered by solid-propellant rocket motors rather than by liquid propellants.

The agency announced also that the booster stage will be recoverable, and that the chosen design will have engines of both the booster and the orbiter stage firing at launch, rather than in sequence.

Dr. James C. Fletcher, NASA administrator, said the decision means that the shuttle will cost less to develop than was forecast in January.

He said the development cost now is estimated at $5.15 billion, compared to the earlier estimate of $5.5 billion.

The booster decision settled the principal remaining question left open for further study when President Nixon announced in January a decision to proceed with development of the shuttle.

"The decision was based on the lower cost and lower technical risks shown in the studies for the solid rocket system." Fletcher said.

NASA said it will issue invitations to industry later this week to submit proposals for design and development of the space shuttle.

The decision also probably means that the Cape Kennedy, Fla., launch complex will be chosen over other contenders for space shuttle launchings.

NASA previously had decided on the design for the upper stage of the Space Shuttle, called the orbiter, and had awarded a contract for the engines.

However, a company passed over on the engine decision has challenged NASA's choice and the government's General Accounting Office is conducting an investigation.

The Space Shuttle booster will launch the huge vehicle through the earth's atmosphere, after which the booster stage will separate and possibly be lowered to Earth by parachute for use again on other missions.

The orbiter stage, fitted with a delta wing, and about the size of the twin-engine DC9 jet, will carry its two-man crew and two passengers into orbit, deliver personnel and supplies to sky laboratories or other satellites, and return to earth for an airplane-type landing. The shuttle development will take about six years.

Horizontal test flights are to start in 1976, and manned orbital test flights in 1978.

The complete shuttle system is to be operational before 1980.

The shuttle, the first reusable space vehicle, will be boosted into space through simultaneous operation of the booster's solid propellant engines and the orbiter's high-pressure liquid-oxygen, liquid-hydrogen main engines.

The booster will detach about 25 miles above the Earth and descend into the ocean for recovery and re-use.

Texas Has Turbulent Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scattered light showers moistened portions of the state today in the wake of turbulent weather that sent tornadoes spinning in Northwest Texas.

A cold front cleared skies over western areas and parts of North Central Texas but low clouds overhung most eastern and southern sections.

Rain fell from Oklahoma into West Central Texas and other showers dotted central and lower coastal regions.

A tornado destroyed several horse stalls, small out buildings and part of a fence Tuesday night at a ranch east of Quanah. No injuries were reported.

Earlier in the evening, a barn on Quanah's southeast side was damaged by a twister that followed a thundershower.

The National Weather Service placed the northern areas of Hardeman and Wilbarger counties under a tornado warning after a funnel cloud was spotted aloft east of Quanah.

The warning was preceded by a severe thunderstorm watch for much of northwest and North Central Texas. Thunderstorms rumbled over an area from near Childress to near Midland.

Temperatures near dawn today varied from the 40s and 50s in the Panhandle to the 60s in most other sections. Low readings ranged from 44 degrees at Dalhart up to 68 at Corpus Christi.

Forecasters said thundershowers would develop along the front page of the cold air mass as it moved across the state.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

Minor damage resulted in a two-car collision in the 2800 block of Avenue Y at 5:50 p.m. Tuesday.,

Involved were the 1967 Model Pontiac of Sheila Mason Stokes, 2306 Twenty-ninth Street, and the parked 1964 Model Ford of Betty Standley, 2803 Avenue Y.

Mechanical Failure In SACROC Heater

A mechanical failure occurred in a heater at the carbon dioxide injection station of SACROC at about 10 p.m. Tuesday.

The Snyder Fire Department was called to extinguish a small grass fire that ignited as a result of a leak in a heater fuel line. It was quickly brought under control by fire department personnel. Carbon dioxide was vented into the atmosphere for a short time prior to closing the main line block valve. were no injuries to personnel and only minor damage to equipment, SACROC officials said.

Marketing Report

COLLEGE STATION — "Meats take a large share of our food money, so it pays to be economical when shopping for meat," said Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Watch newspaper ads for money-saving prices on cuts of shoulder roasts and steaks, quarter loin, loin roasts, liver, smoked picnics and ham portions.

"If you're thinking in terms of beef, best choices this week will be rib roasts, round steaks, chuck roasts and ground beef," the specialist said. "Liver is a good choice for both economy and food value. Try a liver casserole with onions."

Frying chickens cost about the same as last week and continue to be a good value. Some stores will feature whole chickens this weekend. That's a good chance to buy and freeze for future use, according to Mrs. Clyatt. She reminded that when shopping for poultry, remember the label of inspection is a guide to whholesomeness. The USDA grade shield assures standardized quality.

Oranges and grapefruit — two of the best natural sources of vitamin C — remain in abundant supply. Apples arre still a good buy, either by the pound or by the bag. Add a special treat to menus by using fresh strawberries now available at local markets. Bananas and pears are also good buys.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are important items in diets for persons of all ages. Choices in most plentiful supply include potatoes, green cabbage, hard shell squash, dry yellow onions, carrots and sweet potatoes. Moderately priced broccoli, eggplant, cauliflower and bell peppers lend variety to menus.

Lady Professor Devises A New Method For Study

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Increasing your learning power, according to Lata Hanau, is as easy as pie.

An assistant professor of study techniques at the University of Kentucky, Mrs. Hanau has proved her point nearly 1,000 times since she devised a study technique that is astonishingly simple.

It all began about 10 years ago when Mrs. Hanau, wife of a physics professor at the university, was about to begin practice teaching at a high school.

"It occurred to me that these kids had measles of the brain. They were just sitting there while a lot of facts were running around the room and they weren't absorbing them," she recalls.

"I told my husband that night that it wasn't the kids' fault or the teachers' fault; it was just that they didn't know how to absorb the things that were being told them or that they were reading.

"My husband isn't very emotional—physics professors never are—so he told me not to get upset. He said I should do something about it—and I did.

"About two in the morning, I just woke up and I had it," she said.

What she had was the first step in her technique, which she has copyrighted under the title, Statement-Pie. It makes it simple to categorize everything one reads or hears in the classroom.

Every lesson, Mrs. Hanau said, can be divided into statements that the teacher or book makes and Pie—or proof, information and examples about the statement.

Using this division, a student can arrange his notes to show the separate categories. And since only a certain amount of Pie is needed for each statement, he can eliminate considerable note taking.

"It also helps students to know what they are lacking in a particular lecture or study assignment," Mrs. Hanau said.

"For example, a student might end a class, look over his notes and say that he has plenty of Pie on a particular subject, but no statement. He didn't recognize the point the professor was trying to make," she said.

When the technique is mastered, step two in Mrs. Hanau's course involves spotting key words and definitions that are used by particular teachers. She calls these go-betweens.

Step three, involving the other two, is called over-all organization of content, or OAO, which Mrs. Hanau describes as a process to statement-Pie the Go-betweens.

This method, she said, pinpoints immediately for the student what he knows, what he does not know and what is "fuzzy" to him.

To learn all of this, Mrs. Hanau has made up her own set of text books, which one reads starting at what normally would be the back and works toward the front.

The books are a series of clear plastic overlays that give the student just one thought at a time and are laced with Mrs. Hanau's own brand of humor and a number of drawings.

At the start of each one is a note that tells the reader to relax, not to take notes and not to try to memorize anything in the book. That's part of Mrs. Hanau's philosophy.

"Learning in the classroom is a game, nothing but a game, and it ought to be fun," she said with a wink.

The course in her techniques is voluntary at the university medical school here. She also has introduced it at the universities of Michigan and Maryland.

"We can teach the course to professional students in 8-10 individual conference hours, to undergraduate students in about 20 conference hours, and to high school students in one year at about three hours per week," she said.

Up to now, her techniques have been limited mostly to the professional level, since she is one of very few who know how to teach them.

But next summer a course will be conducted at the University of Michigan to train personnel to teach Mrs. Hanau's techniques. So far, about 1,000 have learned them; it can multiply rapidly.

"Wouldn't it be wonderful some day if we could teach them to children in the fourth grade? Just think of the knowledge they could acquire during the rest of their education," she said.

Money Policy Change Reopens Old Argument

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some interest rates are beginning to move up again and speculation is spreading that the Federal Reserve may be subtly changing its aggressively easy money policy to one of more moderation.

The trend so far is not conclusive, but money is costlier in those esoteric areas in which big business deals and could be reflected at the consumer level in coming months.

If the tendency develops into a trend, it quite likely will reopen an old argument about which comes first: the American economy or the demands of the European central banks.

The American first group argues that low rates are needed to fuel the expansion that is now under way and has a long way to go before idle plant capacity and jobless workers are fully employed.

The Europeans say that low American rates threaten to disrupt world monetary order because the billions of American dollars abroad are not being drawn back home because of unattractive yields.

In this context, therefore, the assurance given to European central bankers this week by Arthur F. Burns, Fed chairman, is being viewed with some suspicion. He told the bankers that the low point in American rates has been reached.

In the view of some American businessmen and investors, the problem really isn't so much low American rates as it is the failure of European bankers to reduce their rates sufficiently to discourage the dollar flow.

As one big investor notes, current U.S. rates are in some instances higher than their averages over the 1955-1969 period. The prime rate, for example, is 4.75 per cent compared with a 4 per cent average for the period.

Moreover, corporate bonds at better than 7.5 per cent compare with a 5.1 per cent average in 1955-1969. And home mortgages at 7.5 per cent have a long way to go before reaching traditional 5 or 6 per cent levels.

American interest rates therefore are low only in relation to foreign rates.

Some interpretors of American history go so far as to say that the difference in rates between the two areas is precisely the reason the American economy has grown more swiftly and vigorously.

They argue that high rates are like a regressive tax, preventing the ascendancy of vigorous new competition to established enterprises and so encouraging stagnation.

Low rates, they say, promote competition by putting money into the hands of competent have-nots who then can challenge the older, established enterprises and add to competition.

Queen On State Visit To Male

MALE, Maldive Islands (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II started a state visit to this coral speck in the Indian Ocean Monday by watching the home team defeat her yacht crew at football 2-0.

The queen and Prince Philip then drove to the fish market where they chatted with residents and brushed away flies.

She is the first head of state to visit this republic, independent since 1965 after 40 years as a British protectorate.

Male has 12,000 of the republic's 110,000 inhabitants, who live on a string of atolls 700 miles off Ceylon.

Junior Editors Quiz on TOTEM POLES

QUESTION: What is a totem pole for?

ANSWER: Many American Indians selected a totem for their tribe. The totem was a badge or symbol related to the origin of the clan or tribe. The totem was considered the symbol of the ancestor of the tribe or something closely related to the ancestor. The totem may be a bird, fish, animal, plant or some other natural object. The Chippewa Indians first used the term for the animals or birds associated with their clans.

The totem is held sacred and sometimes prayers are offered to it. Many American Indian tribes, particularly in the Northwest, carved elaborate poles with carvings in color, showing the history of the tribe and usually placed the totem or symbol of the tribe on top. There was a great ceremony connected with the raising of the pole. Totemism exacted certain rules. Usually people of the same totem were not allowed to marry.

In British Columbia and Alaska, also in Australia and some Pacific Islands, totemism exists among some people.

Invitations That Lead To Trouble

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One never begins to grow up until he learns how to say no—and stick to it.

Until then he merely is a chance-buffeted chip riding the waves of mindless change in life. He matures only when he achieves a sense of self-direction.

You achieve that only by rejecting other directions that lead you the wrong way.

Here are a few invitations which, if accepted, lead usually to nothing but trouble:

"Let's play hooky today. I'll write a note to the teacher to excuse you, and you write one for me."

"Why make a big debate out of it? Why don't we just go ahead and get married—and see for ourselves whether we can get along?"

"If you think there's a robber hiding under the bed, why don't you just look there and see."

"Yes, this is our old family album. Do you want me to tell you what each of my relatives was like?"

"Shall I tell you what I really think of you, Gerald?"

"So this is what a cocktail lounge looks like! You look like a man a girl can trust. Do you want to buy me just a teentsy-weentsy drink?"

"This joker must think he can bully you, Bob. Shall I hold your coat while you show him a thing or two?"

"Do you want me to help you do the dishes?"

"Here's an opportunity to show the whole regiment what kind of a man you are, private. Are you ready?"

"Let's just sit here in this grassy spot and look at the clouds sail by, Charlotte. We can rejoin the picnic later."

"Well, then, do you want me to pull all your teeth and get the whole business over with once and for all?"

"I don't see any rocks. Go ahead and dive in."

"I just put in a tiny smidgen of garlic, so eat all you want."

"Would you rather put your money where your mouth is?"

"They say it's good for people like us to talk over their marriage now and then, John. If I tell you why I married you, will you tell me why you married me—truthfully?"

Italians Love Their Cars

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Massimo Astolfi earns $60 a week as a bank clerk. He drives a $3,000 Alfa Romeo, spending more on the car than for his rent. He has no regrets. Nor do many others. This is a nation of enthusiasts about wheels.

"I love that car," says Astolfi. "It's a part of me." He dishes out half of his salary for payments and the car's upkeep. Gasoline costs about $1 a gallon.

This nation of 55 million has 10 million cars—about one for every fifth citizen. Ten years ago it was a car for every 17th Italian.

Every third Roman has a car. Traffic in historic center of the capital crawls an inch at a time. To ease bumper-to-bumper frustration the city recently offered free bus rides to Romans, hoping that they would leave cars at home. Only a few did.

Across the nation industrial production fell 3 per cent last year but cars and imports held their own. Giovanni Agnelli, president of Fiat, said auto production could hardly keep up with demand.

Agnelli's firm pioneered the car that put most Italians behind the wheel. That was the Fiat 500, a half-pint that sells for just over $1,000 but looks almost like a scooter with a body.

An Italian who owns a car he can hardly afford becomes a dogged devotee of the manufacturer, upholding the car's virtues and ignoring shortcomings.

Pool To Reduce Number Of Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Cars carrying more than one person will have space reserved for them under a plan to go into effect April 3 at a Wayne State University parking structure.

The computerized car-pool system—Eco Parking—is designed to reduce the number of cars coming to the urban campus daily.

Drivers with passengers in their cars will be allowed to enter two of five gates at the structure. Cars with drivers only will be directed to other entrances, and spaces for cars with more than one passenger will be reserved "as long as practicable."

Wayne State estimates 99 percent of its 36,765 students commute.

Duane Thomas Talks!

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

DALLAS (AP) — "I'm going to be my own man," Duane Thomas said. "I'm not going to beg for something I worked for. I am optimistic. But if they don't dig me, well, the hell with 'em."

The normally mysterious, tight-lipped running star of the champion Dallas Cowboys took a long, hard look at his controversial role in professional football today—and talked about it.

He talked freely.

"I almost reached the point of putting an end to my career," he said.

The man who has been uncommunicative for months and became known as "The Sphinx" unburdened himself of the frustrations, misunderstandings and disillusionments that can beset a naive black athlete coming out of the ghetto into the wheeling and dealing world of big time sports.

It was an exclusive interview with The Associated Press—the first such interview since well before this 6-1, 220-pound powerhouse—from Dallas' tough South Side had helped carry the Cowboys through a championship season and to a 24-3 victory over the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl.

"Football's not the only job in the world," he added. "If I have to go back from scratch and build over again and go into something else, okay, then it has to be that."

The interview took place in the neat, suburban home of Thomas' former coach at Dallas' Lincoln High School, Floyd Iglehart, one of the few people he trusts. Also on hand was Al Tabor, Iglehart's coach at Wiley College. Duane insisted that his two friends be present.

Thomas talked in a low, subdued voice. He proved not only articulate but even eloquent at times. Yet his words carried the ring of disillusionment. Obviously, he felt he was a man who had been discriminated against, lied to and cheated to the point that he had little trust left for anyone.

Thomas said his months of silence were self-imposed and not traceable to any outside source, such as former Cleveland great Jim Brown, as had been reported.

"It's not that I have anything against reporters," he explained. "I just don't like people because of their being narrow-minded on things."

The powerfully built halfback, still speaking in a low key, said he felt he received unfair criticism because of his long silence.

"You know, it takes different people to make up the world," he added. "There are some guys on the team who enjoy meeting the press, who get a kick out of being before a television camera. But not me. Because of my background, I don't particularly dig it.

"I didn't feel like talking. So I didn't talk. If I read the Constitution right, it gives me freedom to do as I please. There's no stipulation that says if you play football you have to talk. I don't get paid for talking. I get paid to play football."

For this reason, Thomas said he was disturbed by a statement attributed to Dallas coach Tom Landry after the Super Bowl that Thomas would have to change his attitude if he hoped to play with the Cowboys.

"If he said that, I think it is unfair—dishonest," Thomas said. "There is nothing wrong with my attitude. My attitude is a winning attitude.

"I never go around and complain about him (Landry) not talking."

One of Thomas' problems with the Dallas administration has concerned his contract, which is well below that of other super stars in the National Football League—and none in the Dallas football hierarchy denies super star status.

Yet, according to a source close to Thomas (he declines to elaborate on money matters), Duane signed a three-year contract with base pay of only $20,000 to be raised only to $22,000 next season, the third year of the agreement.

According to friends, Thomas not only was committed to an inferior contract but was persuaded to sign over power of attorney to his agent, who later was dismissed. Thomas, whose mother and father had died while he was in college and whose two brothers suffered accidents and costly ailments, found himself entrenched in debt and with a restricted source of income.

Although he blames the agent rather than the Dallas front office for this financial plight, it was undoubtedly this pressure which provoked Duane's unusual press conference last July in which he called Gil Brandt, the Cowboys player personnel director a "lair" and Coach Landry "a plastic man."

"When I signed with the Cowboys, Brandt put his arm around my shoulder and said, 'Don't worry, we'll take care of you,'" Thomas related.

"It was the middle of last season that I found out I had a poor contract. I went to Brandt and asked him to renegotiate. I knew they had torn up contracts before. But he had lost all memory.

"I went to Schramm (Tex Schramm, General manager). He said, 'Sorry, boy, you're stuck.' I figured they didn't dig me. I wasn't the stereotype passing type of nigger who comes in and says, 'Please, Mr. White Man, do this for me.'"

Then came the mid-summer trade to the New England Patriots.

"I wish you had been with me just to see the expression on their faces," Thomas said. "It was as if they had been pre-conditioned for me.

"They didn't even send all my records up there. The coach (John Mazur) told me to take a three-point stance. That was just a little tribute they wanted.

"It didn't make any difference. I was a running back. It made no difference if I had done the job on my eyebrows. Three days later they came to me and told me to leave."

Thomas came home a more embittered man. That's when he entered into his shell.

"They're trying to brainwash and castrate a person's life," he said. "I said, 'If this is happening to me, whom they consider a super star, can you image what those other guys are going through?'"

Laredo Has New Coaches

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — The Laredo Independent School District has started a reorganization of its athletic program by naming a new athletic director and head football coaches at Martin and Nixon High Schools.

Arturo Volpe, 28, is the new AD. Volpe coached basketball teams for three years at Laredo United and two at Laredo St. Joseph's Academy. He had a 114-51 record and four district championships.

Volpe, executive director of the Laredo Boys' Clubs for the last two years, is a graduate of St. Edward's University and Texas A&I.

Raul Trevino, 28, is the new head football coach at Nixon. Trevino is a former four-year starting guard for Texas A&I (1963-66). He was named to the All-Texas team as a senior and to the NAIA All-American honorable mention list.

Trevino, a native Laredoan, was an assistant four years at Nixon. He replaces Danny Villarreal, who resigned. Villarreal had a 22-28 record in five seasons.

Pat Bailey, 46, is the Martin High head coach. Bailey has been in the football coaching ranks 23 years—the last 14 as head coach.

In the last three years, Bailey has coached three straight district title winners at San Antonio Edgewood, including a 10-0 regular season record this past year. Edgewood lost to state champ San Antonio Lee in the playoffs.

Previously, Bailey held head jobs at Victoria St. Joseph's, San Antonio Central Catholic, San Antonio Antonian and San Antonio LaSalle.

Bailey replaces Simon Luna, who also resigned. Luna had a 13-27 record in four years as head coach.

Tyler To Meet Robert Morris

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — The first round of the National Junior College Basketball Tournament—marked by a couple of upsets Monday—will be completed this afternoon with two games.

Seminole, Okla., will meet Burlington, Iowa, and Tyler, Tex., is matched against Robert Morris of Carthage, Ill., in their first action in the tourney.

In Monday's action, Vincennes, Ind., top-seeded and unbeaten, had a fight on its hands before pulling away from Erie, N.Y., for a 107-83 victory, while second-seeded Dalton, Ga., and third-seeded Arizona Western suffered surprising defeats.

Dalton fell victim to Gulf Coast of Florida, 78-69, and Western dropped an 86-78 decision to Paducah, Ky.

In Monday's other games, it was Casper, Wyo., over State Fair of Sedalia, Mo., 79-65; Southern Idaho beating Ulster County, N.Y., 85-75, and Ferrum, Va., over Hutchinson, Kan., 82-71.

Local Snake Hunters 3rd

Pete Rasco, Tony Hayley, Leonard Klopperslanger Koening and I. E. Ham placed third in the Sweetwater snake hunt.

They missed second place by 20 pounds, which would have made four successive years for second. A lot of the snakes were found by Klopperslanger Koening when he accidently stepped on them. They buzzed and the other hunters would pick them up.

Grant Scores 60 Points

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lucius Mitchell, the nattily dressed coach of Kentucky State's defending champions, served notice today the Thorobreds have their sights set on a third National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball championship.

"We believe we can win it again if we play like we have been lately," Mitchell said. "We're not as big and physical on the boards as we were last year but we're much quicker and we shoot a lot better."

The Thorobreds are 24-5 and have a 14-game winning streak, including Tuesday night's 118-68 rout of Minot, N.D., State in a first-round game. Travis "The Machine" Grant poked in a record-breaking 60 points.

Kentucky state's second round foe tonight is West Georgia, which needed an overtime period to defeat Northwestern of Iowa 73-69. Pittsburg, Kan., State advanced with a 98-75 triumph over Western Carolina in Tuesday night's other first round contest.

Earlier Tuesday, Belhaven of Mississippi whipped Quinnipiac, Conn., 75-64; Augustana, Ill., outscored Kearney, Neb., State 103-96; Adams, Colo., State defeated Willamette, Ore., 78-65; Western Washington nipped Findlay of Ohio 66-63.

Tigers Rip 'Dogs For 7th Straight

MIDLAND — Snyder's Tigers pounded four different Midland pitchers for 16 hits enroute to a 12-4 triumph here yesterday afternoon. It was the Tigers seventh straight victory without a loss.

The hosts took a 1-0 lead in the first. Merworth reached first on an error and scored on a double by Perez.

Midland boosted the count to 3-0 in the 2nd. Back-to-back singles by Terry and Smith combined with an error accounted for the runs.

Snyder took command, 4-3, in the top of the fourth, getting four tallies on singles by Albert Hernandez, James Hood, Jackie Murray and Charles Anderson, combined with a walk, a stolen base and a fielder's choice.

The Bulldogs tied it up, 4-4, in the 4th. Terry walked and came in as the result of two successive errors.

Snyder wrapped it up with a six-run uprising in the 5th. With one away, Albert Hernandez knocked a home run over the left field fence. Singles by Scotty Sullivan and Louis Loyd and a walk to Tim Holder loaded the sacks. Then Charles Anderson cracked a line single, driving in Sullivan and Loyd. An Annie Oakley to Butch Buchanan loaded the bases again, and Tommy Washington drilled a single to left, scoring Holder and Anderson. A single to center by David Thompson brought in Buchanan.

The Tigers added two more runs in the 7th. Holder and Anderson singled and advanced on a wild pitch. Both scored on a single by Thompson.

Marvin McClanahan opened on the hill for the Tigers and gave way in relief to Holder in the 4th after giving up three hits. Holder worked the last four innings, giving up just one hit.

Smith started for Midland and was relieved in the 4th by McClesky, in the 5th by Wiley and in the 6th by Shaeffer. Wiley was tagged with the loss.

Snyder will meet Pecos at 6 p.m. Thursday in the first round of the Monahans tournament. Other first round pairings pit Monahans against Eunice, Odessa against Kermit and Fort Stockton against Crane. If Snyder wins its first game, then they play at 6 p.m. Friday. If they lose, then they play at 1 p.m. Friday.

Longhorns Win Twinbill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Texas Longhorns hope their winning ways in non-conference games carry over to the league baseball season which opens Friday.

The Longhorns upped their record to 17-1 Tuesday with 4-1 and 5-1 victories over Texas Lutheran.

Ken Poppy was the big noise for the Longhorns with a three-run homer in the eighth inning of the opener and a two-run double in the nightcap.

Texas A&M stretched its record to 8-4 with 2-1 and 6-1 victories over Lamar University. The Aggies unleashed a 15-hit attack in the nightcap after R. J. Englert drove in the winning run with a triple in the opener.

Southern Methodist split with the University of Dallas, running its record to 8-4. The Mustangs dropped the opener 5-2 but rallied for a 10-1 win in the second game. The Mustangs struck for 16 hits in the nightcap.

Celtics Take Step Closer To Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quick! How many National Basketball Association divisional championships have the Boston Celtics won in the past six seasons.

None.

That's right. Incredible as it may seem, the Celts, who have won three NBA titles in that same stretch, have had to do it in come-from-behind fashion, so to speak, after finishing less than best in the regular season.

But that drought, extending back to 1964-65, which ended a string of nine successive divisional titles, is about to end, thanks in part to John Havlicek.

The 6-foot-5 forward, who became Boston's all-time leading scorer just last Sunday pumped in 38 points Tuesday night to power the Celtics to a 124-110 victory over the Golden State Warriors.

That kept them 5½ games ahead of second-place New York in the Atlantic Division and within two victories—or two Knicks defeats—of locking up the division crown.

In Tuesday night's other NBA games, the Knicks defeated Atlanta 115-107, Los Angeles beat Detroit 129-116, Buffalo held off Philadelphia 108-105, Cleveland whipped Baltimore 127-118 in overtime, Seattle edged Chicago 115-111 and Milwaukee downed Portland 109-98.

The Celtics trailed until Havlicek's basket gave them a 59-57 halftime lead.

NCAA Names All-District

HOUSTON (AP) — Larry Robinson and Scooter Lenox of Southwest Conference champion Texas have been named to the first and second units of the NCAA All-Dist. VI basketball team.

Joining Robinson on the first team were Dwight Davis of University of Houston, SWC scoring champion Greg Lowrey of Texas Tech, Jeff Overhouse of Texas A&M, and Simpson Degrate of Texas Christian.

The second team includes Lenox, Steve Davidson of West Texas State, Dwight Jones of Houston, Ruben Triplett of Southern Methodist, and Ricky Hall of TCU.

Steve Brooks and John Belcher of Arkansas State head the third team followed by Martin Terry of Arkansas, Richie Little of Texas Tech and Jim Ferguson of TCU.

Howard Still Holds Out

POMPANO BEACH, Fla., (AP) — The Texas Rangers and holdout slugger Frank Howard have apparently reached an impasse.

Howard returned his unsigned contract to the Rangers Tuesday. It called for one-year at $100,000. Howard made $125,000 in 1971 and wants a multi-year pact.

Ranger owner Bob Short said "That's it as far as the Rangers are concerned. If Howard shows up he will be welcome, but he will have to work himself into shape."

CAMPAIGNING INCREASES

Christie Blasts Hobby

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Campaign activity increased Tuesday in the race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor while gubernatorial hopefuls spoke of salary increases and public confidence.

State Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso, campaigning for the lieutenant governor's spot, singled out opponent Bill Hobby of Houston for criticism.

Christie told a Houston news conference that Hobby had sent him a telegram favoring an immediate special legislative session.

"I think Texans want a calm, deliberate and sensible approach to government, not feverish shouts and telegrams in the night that the legislature should rush into session to deal piecemeal with the issues of state government," Christie said.

Hobby mailed out campaign brochures accompanied by a letter which said, in part, "I have nothing personally to gain from the office of lieutenant governor. My motive for seeking this office is service."

Bill Jones of Odessa, another Democratic primary candidate for lieutenant governor, opened his Bexar County headquarters at San Antonio. He stressed a need to change the educational system to prepare students better for careers.

Sen. Wayne Connally of Floresville, another Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, scheduled a fish fry in Austin for today and said he would talk "informally" about his campaign.

Albert Fay of Houston, Republican candidate for governor, told party workers at McKinney that Democrats "have all but destroyed the public's confidence in state government."

State Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi, a Democratic candidate for governor, told a news conference at Baylor University that legislators should get a high enough salary to live on.

Coupled with the salary proposal would be a requirement that legislators have no outside employment.

"They should be there strictly on public business," she said.

In the Democratic attorney general's race, challenger John Hill told Dallas precinct workers that Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin "has created a do-nothing dynasty which he hopes to perpetuate for an unprecedented fourth term."

Martin told the Garland Chamber of Commerce "the question is no longer one of whether we have organized crime. The question is how we move to stop it before it gets a firm foothold."

Black History In Curriculum

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — "A survey of black history and culture" has been introduced into the curriculum of the history department at the U.S. Naval Academy this semester.

Prof. John Huston, acting director of the history department, said that "with the increasing number of black students at the academy and a corresponding increase of black enlisted Navy personnel with whom academy graduate officers will deal, it is important midshipmen be exposed to the black culture and its historical significance."

Pat Not Enthused About 60th

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pat Nixon is approaching her 60th birthday Thursday with a lack of enthusiasm.

It may be "really a milestone," as daughter Tricia Cox described it this week. But Mrs. Nixon has been changing the subject when asked how she feels about it.

The White House says the celebration will be low-keyed.

An intimate family party is scheduled for Friday—St. Patrick's Day—either at the White House or Camp David. It has always been a quiet celebration for Mrs. Nixon, born Thelma Catherine Ryan March 16, 1912, in the little mining town of Ely, Nev.

A birthday cake has been ordered from the White House chef. The President and daughters Julie and Tricia have been buying special gifts for the occasion.

Mrs. Nixon has been getting early birthday greetings in the mail and from visitors at the White House. Among compliments for the President's wife were the oft-heard comments that "she doesn't look her age."

Cary Grant Sues Esquire

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Cary Grant has sued Esquire magazine and a clothing manufacturer for $3 million damages, claiming that a full page advertisement in Esquire last August used his picture and name without his consent.

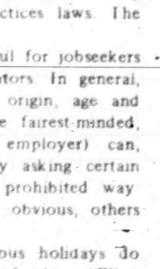
The lawsuit, filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court against Esquire and Forum Sportswear, Inc., of New York, claimed the advertisement "wrongfully and fraudulently" used the actor's likeness, giving the impression that he endorsed the men's clothing shown.

Think Twice About Agency

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?



Dear Joyce: I would like to find out about opening an employment agency. In addition to business practices, I need information about the various antidiscrimination laws to which agencies as well as employers are subject. In honesty, I have to admit this question may be a waste of your time because I probably don't have enough of the right kind of background or capital to start an agency. But I'd like to pursue it until I'm sure. Thank you. — V. L., New Orleans

Your cautious approach is intelligent. Although it is a relatively easy business to enter, employment agency operation is not a license to print money. It is a hard task demanding substantial experience and adequate funds. If you lack the know-how and moola, it's far better to think twice now than think bankruptcy later.

Too many unqualified people have opened employment agencies only to hit the nail squarely on the thumb, instances of which reflect unfairly on skilled agency operators who do know how to construct effective, ethical placements.

IF YOU HAVE a reasonable basis on which to proceed, the National Employment Association (2000 K St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20006) can be of help (enclose stamped, return envelope). Also, most states have employment agency associations – many of which are affiliated with the national organization, which can supply addresses.

A NEW PAPERBACK has just been published by the U.S. Small Business Administration – "Starting and Managing an Employment Agency, Vol. 22." (A copy costs 70 cents; order from Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402.) This 118-page primer covers the mechanics of operating an employment agency, including a good section on fair employment practices laws. The data on ANTIDISCRIMINATION LAWS is useful for jobseekers as well as for employment agency operators. In general, these laws cover race, religion, national origin, age and sex. The book points out that even the fairest-minded, well-meaning placement counselor (or employer) can, without intending to, violate the law by asking certain questions, or by stating questions in a prohibited way. Some illegal pre-employment inquiries are obvious, others are not so apparent.

FOR INSTANCE, asking "What religious holidays do you observe?" is clearly an indirect way of asking "What is your religion?" In the same category is "If you have changed your name (except by marriage), what was your original name?"; this is a sneaky way of asking an applicant's national origin.

A MORE SUBTLE situation occurs in asking about club memberships. It is not okay to ask an applicant to "list all clubs, societies and lodges to which you belong." But it is okay to rephrase the question by asking about "the organizations of which an applicant is a member, excluding organizations which by name or character indicate the race, creed, color or national origin of its members." A placement counselor may ask what languages the applicant reads-writes-speaks fluently, but not how the applicant acquired the language ability.

CONCERNING AGE, no maximum age may be stated in an ad, but it is legal to state a minimum age ("Wanted – secretary OVER 35" is okay but not "Secretary UNDER 35"). Among the laws about sex is a stipulation that fees charged to men and women for the same type of job must not differ. It's permissible to have one fee schedule for clerical and secretarial personnel and another for managerial and professional – but an agency must not charge a male bookkeeper and a female bookkeeper at different rates.

Design Your Own Check New Craze

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Alimony checks a Sausalito, Calif. man sends to his ex-wife show a photograph of him kissing his new wife.

The man is one of hundreds cashing in on a new craze—design your own check.

Since the Bank of Marin began the design-a-check service four months ago, it has been swamped with new accounts, new check orders and inquiries from banks in Missouri, New York, Florida and other states, assistant cashier Kitty Jones said Tuesday.

Advertising executive H. Samm Coombs plugs his agency with checks that bear a photograph of him sitting on a soapbox.

Elf Shelfo, a bookkeeper, has checks illustrated with an elf drawing.

Gary and Lynn Imm's checks were designed by their young son, who drew a portrait of the Imm family.

Customers may bring in a drawing or photograph of whatever they want on their checks, as long as it's not in questionable taste, Mrs. Jones said. The checks cost $4.95 for 200.

Designs may be superimposed across the entire check or put in a corner so the name isn't crowded. Two colors are allowed on each check.

"People are phoning and writing from all over the countryside," Mrs. Jones said. "People are asking to open accounts by mail from Chicago."

Some people go for photographs of themselves, which give both the personal touch and insurance against someone else trying to cash the check illegally.

Others prefer drawings of their homes, pets and families. One man's checks show a picture of his favorite whisky.

Mrs. Jones said the man paying alimony with the photograph of his new wife refuses to let it be seen by the public.

Report Hughes Flies To LA

By MICHAEL SHORT
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After a month in a hotel hideaway in Nicaragua and a purported surprise meeting with the Nicaraguan president and the U.S. ambassador there, Howard Hughes is reported to have flown to Los Angeles.

An unidentified spokesman for the Nicaraguan air force told newsmen that Hughes had flown in a private plane early Tuesday to Los Angeles, where he has lived as both a celebrity and a recluse.

A spokesman for the 66-year-old billionaire confirmed Tuesday night that Hughes had left Nicaragua and arrived at an undisclosed destination. However, the spokesman, Richard Hannah, refused to confirm that Hughes was in Los Angeles and said that his whereabouts may not be disclosed for a time.

Before leaving Managua, where he had lived on the seventh floor of the Intercontinental Hotel, Hughes met with President Anastasio Somoza and U.S. Ambassador Turner B. Shelton, the ambassador said.

This would be the first reported time Hughes has met with persons outside his staff since he went into seclusion more than a decade ago. Hannah refused comment on the report.

Shelton said Hughes "met with the president and I was there at the meeting before he left. Just the president, Mr. Hughes, and myself."

Somoza said Hughes told him he was "looking forward with keen anticipation to having the opportunity to return to Nicaragua soon."

Somoza said he had invited Hughes to "visit with me in the near future." But he declined, as did Shelton, to say what had been discussed.

Other sources said the three might have discussed a possible business deal involving Hughes' airline, Hughes Airwest, and Somoza's Lanica airline.

Neither Somoza nor Shelton would confirm or deny Hughes had left by private plane nor would they speculate on Hughes' destination.

Chaplin Asked To Unveiling

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Far into the night the hands work over the clay, molding it into the too-tight coat, the derby, the cane and the brush moustache.

The form of Charlie Chaplin, the Little Tramp, is for a relief bronze plaque that will be placed outside the Taft Building at Hollywood and Vine.

Chaplin, 83, who is returning to the United States after a 20-year absence, is invited to the unveiling of the 4-by-6-foot plaque April 11.

He will be awarded an honorary Oscar by the Motion Picture Academy on April 3. The Hollywood Chamber of Commerce has voted to add Chaplin's name and star to Hollywood Boulevard's "Walk of Fame."

Disease Control Program Urged

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite the fact tuberculosis is a totally curable disease, it killed 5,516 Americans in 1970, New York City's director of tuberculosis control told a public health conference here Tuesday.

Dr. Lee B. Reichman said that TB is still "a grave health, economic and social problem" despite the fact it is the only one of the top 20 causes of death in the United States that is completely understood.

Reichman spoke at a national conference for state and local public health workers.

The paradox of deaths from TB is an illustration of what's wrong with so much of the nation's health care delivery, Reichman said.

It's not a question of what can be done to eliminate the disease, he said, but rather a problem of what is not done.

In New York City, where 386 persons died of TB in 1970, the heart of the problem lies in the poor socio-economic conditions found in heavily-populated and non-white areas, he said.

"The rate in Central Harlem is seven times the national rate and 11 times the upstate New York rate," he said.

Some TB control programs operated by city health departments will be cut back as a result of Congress' withdrawal of federal funds for such programs, Reichman said.

"Unfortunately, the members of Congress seem not to value good public health practice and don't accept the fact that a disease exemplifying the glaring deficiencies of health care delivery can be controlled and eradicated with continued support."

At another session of the disease control conference, Dr. John Witte, chief of the immunization branch of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said the polio situation in South Texas is as bad as it was in the United States before an effective vaccine was found.

Witte said the immunization levels in preschool children along the Texas-Mexico border are so low a serious polio outbreak could occur this year.

A sustained program of routine vaccination of babies and preschool children is necessary if the outbreaks are ever to be controlled, he said.

Charges Against Priest Dropped

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marijuana possession charges against an activist Roman Catholic priest and a companion have been dropped.

Superior Court Judge William E. Caldecott granted a defense motion Tuesday to drop the charges against the Rev. Louis D. Jaramillo, 40, and Richard V. Sawtelle, 21, both of Albuquerque, N.M., for lack of evidence.

They were arrested last Jan. 5 by police who said they found a box that appeared to contain marijuana after stopping a car driven by Sawtelle. He had been driving eratically, officers said.

Officials in New Mexico said the priest had been a leader in the Black Beret activist organization and took part in sit-ins at the governor's office in Santa Fe protesting investigation of riots in Albuquerque last summer.

Longview Is Under Injunction

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — A temporary injunction was in force today against the City of Longview enjoining officers from holding absentee balloting for city commission races.

The injunction was issued by U.S. District Court Judge William Wayne Justice Tuesday.

Absentee balloting for the races had been scheduled to begin today.

A Longview youth, Richard Lee, 18, had attempted to file for a place on the ballot and was refused by city officials because he was not "real property owners"—one of the city requirements for making the race.

Lee's attorney argued that the requirement was unconstitutional.

Justice issued the order until a full bearing could be held on the matter in Tyler federal district court Friday.

8 California Counties Are Quarantined

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Poultry and birds are under quarantine in eight Southern California counties to prevent the spread of a highly infectious disease.

The counties had been under a federal quarantine since the first of the week because of the outbreak of Asiatic Newcastle disease. About 40 per cent of the state's poultry and half its eggs come from the counties among the nation's top 10 poultry producing areas.

However, state agricultural officials said the quarantine does not imply that fowl sold in local markets is unsafe for consumption. They stressed that all poultry put on sale for consumption had passed inspection and was disease free.

Si Nathensen, department information officer, said minor outbreaks of the sickness have also been reported in Florida, New Mexico and Texas. The disease is spread not only by shipments of poultry but also by wild birds.

The counties quarantined are Santa Barbara, Ventura, San Bernadino, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Diego and Imperial.

The movement of poultry and birds has been restricted, and clocks will have to be immunized, Nathensen said.

"If it is not checked and eliminated here, it could spread throughout the United States," he said.

NRECA Critical Of Advertising Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Rural Electric Cooperative Association has taken a swipe at an advertising campaign by "investor-owned" power companies focusing on taxpayer dollars used to finance the Rural Electrification Administration.

The advertising says "four out of five Americans pay an additional federal tax" through their electric bills. Those who do not, the ads say, "get their electricity from government-owned or government-financed" power systems.

Robert D. Partridge, NRECA general manager, says in a current newsletter that the advertising is a "misleading and unwarranted" attack.

"Neither our rural relectric systems, nor the nation, will stand still for these underhanded tactics, which seek to revive acrimonious battles of the past," Partridge said.

Another NRECA official told a reporter the advertising by "investor-owned" companies has been timed in recent years to attract public notice about the time Americans are struggling with federal and state income tax forms.

The federal government has been lending money to rural electric cooperatives through the REA since the mid-1930s. The agency, part of the Agriculture Department, also has been making telephone loans since 1949.

Because REA electric borrowers are organized as nonprofit cooperatives, they do not have direct federal income taxes to worry about. That is one sore point with the commercial companies, the NRECA official said.

Another criticism is REA lending itself. As of Jan. 1 this year, the agency had loaned $7.8 billion to electric co-ops. The co-ops had made payments totaling $3.8 billion as of Jan. 1, the REA said.

That included $1.3 billion in interest charges, which have been pegged by Congress at two per cent since 1945. The loans run up to a maximum of 35 years.

Commercial power companies serve more people, by far, than REA borrowers who, for the most part, provide service to more sparsely settled areas.

A report based on 1969 surveys shows commercial power companies that year had more than 49.3 million meter users for an average of 35.5 per mile of line, compared with less than 5.6 million and an average oof 3.7 per mile for REA borrowers.

Antipollution Costs To Close Small Plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many small operations in the paper and fruit-and-vegetable industries will be driven out of business by the high costs of antipolution, according to a report prepared for the federal government.

One study estimated that of the nation's 752 paper and pulp mills, between 60 and 65 will go out of business before 1976 because of antipollution costs. Some 16,000 jobs will be lost directly and about 32,000 more persons in affected communities will lose their incomes.

Another study said an estimated 120 million in expenses would be required for antipollution in the fruit-and vegetable-canning and freezing industry, forcing the closing of about 100 small plants. Some 7,000 workers will lose their jobs, it said.

The reports were part of a general study of the economic impact of antipollution measures issued Sunday by the Environmental Protection Agency, the Council on Environmental Quality and the Department of Commerce.

Center Established At Baylor

HOUSTON (AP) — A center to study human genetics was established Tuesday at Baylor College of Medicine.

The Robert J. Kleberg Jr. Center of Human Genetics was made possible by a gift from the Robert J. Kleberg Jr. and Helen C. Kleberg Foundation at Kingsville.

Research at the center will be directed toward correction of genetic defects of metabolism, detection of carriers of certain inherited disease and isolation of drug-resistant animmal cells.

"No single area of medicine has resisted the probing of skilled researchers more than that of genetics," said Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, Baylor president.

Baylor has several genetic studies aimed at a better understanding of why cancer develops in humans.

"Within the past decade the science of creation has come to be the central and unifying theme of biomedical sciences," DeBakey said. "Research in genetics probes the mystery of the cell and spans the entire spectrum of biology and medicine."

The Kleberg family is the owner of the King Ranch in South Texas.

ON OBSCURE SIDING

Boxcar Of Old Mail Is Found

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A boxcar full of parcel post packages has been found on an obscure Maryland siding and sent to Birmingham—where the mail was supposed to arrive more than two years ago.

The U.S. Postal Service and the Penn Central Railroad are blaming each other for the mixup.

When the boxcar left Philadelphia in 1970 it was headed for the postal distribution center here with packages and third-class mail for Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

It was found on a seldom-used siding in Perryville, Md., with 319 mail sacks, 207 of which were filled with parcel post, including numerous shippings from three Philadelphia mail order houses.

And that's about all the Penn Central and the postal service agree on.

Le Roy Greene, director of communications for the Southern region of the postal service, said postal inspectors found the boxcar after a two-year car-by-car search in the Washington area.

He said Tuesday that Penn Central was unable to locate the car, although the railroad was notified within minutes of its disappearance.

Tom Hoppin, a spokesman for the railroad in Philadelphia, said it was Penn Central inspectors who found the car and reported it to postal officials. He said that happened after New Castle, Del., police arrested an individual transporting mail bags.

Furthermore, Hoppin said, the postal service never told Penn Central the car was missing and the railroad thought it had reached its destination.

He said records show that the railroad delivered the car to the Washington Terminal Co. in February 1970 for connection to Southern Railway routes.

The Washington firm noted the boxcar had a wheel defect and, according to postal records, the contents were transferred to another boxcar.

In September 1970, Hoppin said, the Washington firm returned the first boxcar and 58 similar ones to Penn Central for storage since that type of car was being phased out for postal work.

Greene said that when the loaded boxcar was found on the siding, its contents were taken to Baltimore where many of the parcels were rewrapped due to their deteriorated condition.

Each was then stamped:

"Delayed due to circumstances beyond the control of the U.S. Postal Service."

They arrived here Monday.

Senate Candidate Campaigns Here

Thomas M. Cartlidge, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate who says he will walk across Texas in his campaign, was in Snyder yesterday afternoon.

A captain in the U.S. Marines and a Vietnam veteran, Cartlidge said he believes the main issues of the campaign are honesty and integrity in government, a shortage of jobs, high taxes, the continuing war in Indochina and the increasing centralization of government.

"I consider myself a Christian, a human being, an American and a Democrat in that order," Cartlidge said.

A native of Dallas, Cartlidge is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin State University where he received a degree in political science and history. He has completed work on his masters degree in political science at Midwestern University. A longtime Methodist Youth leader in Texas, he worked his way through college as a pipestringer in Michigan and Wisconsin and worked one summer as a doorkeeper in the U.S. Senate.

Cartlidge had plannnd to run

for Congress in the 4th District in the line-up decreed by a three-judge federal court, but became a candidate for the U.S. Senate when that redistricting order did not remain in effect due to a stay order by Justice Powell of the U.S. Supreme Court. He charged that neither of his two Democratic opponents, Ralph Yarborough and Barefoot Sanders, represent the views of most Democrats in Texas and that neither could win over Republican Incumbent John Tower.

If elected, Cartlidge promised to vote as a U.S. Senator to end involvement in the Vietnam War immediately and to withdraw all troops as soon as possible. He charged that the Nixon administration is trying to end the American involvement in Indochina just before the election "so they can be re-elected, but it should have been done three years ago."

Center To Host Forum

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Arizona Medical Center will host a forum next Monday on the violent deaths of prominent persons.

Officials said "assassinations in our time" will be discussed by pathologists who performed autopsies on the victims, by psychiatrists who were expert witnesses during subsequent trials and defense attorneys.

Chase Halted

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP) — A city policeman spotted a speeding car north of here Tuesday and gave chase.

When the speed neared 100 miles per hour, Patrolman Mike Walters radioed back that he didn't think he could catch the car.

He was told to give up the chase; he was pursuing a state policeman in an unmarked car summoned to a reported holdup.

Driven to the edge, he pleads for help!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 41-year-old man, and I feel like a jerk writing to you, but I have no one else to talk to, and I need some advice before I just drive my car off a cliff.

Over a year ago, my wife had an affair with a married man she works with. It was not her first, and I'm sure it won't be her last. I got fed up with her and her running around, and I finally got a divorce. [We have two kids who are living with me for good reasons.]

I really tried to work things out before divorcing her. That's how I met Lois. [She's the wife of the last guy my wife was fooling around with.] Well, to make a long story short, I dug Lois and Lois dug me. She has three kids, but she won't divorce her husband because she says it was his first offense, and he deserves another chance for the sake of their children.

I'll be honest with you. Lois and I have been having an affair. She says she loves me, but she can't divorce her husband.

Abby, I am crazy about Lois, and can't make it without her. Please tell me what to do. GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: Quit seeing Lois unless y-u want to wind up with another wife who cheats on her husband.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married only two months. We were very happy until yesterday when his ex-wife called to tell him she was pregnant and is naming him as the baby's father!

Abby, my husband is not the baby's father! He divorced her for running around with other men and leaving their two children alone.

If this goes to court, can't a blood test prove for sure that my husband is not the father of her child? Please tell us the facts about blood tests. My husband is "O negative." We are frantic, but we are determined to fight this in court if it takes everything we have. WEST COAST CASE

DEAR CASE: A blood test can only prove who the baby's father is not! If your husband is in fact not the baby's father, but the baby's father just happens to have had "O negative" blood type, nothing is proved.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to tell you what she thought was a "cute" saying: "The neurotic builds dream castles. The psychotic lives in them, and the psychiatrist collects the rent."

Your reply was great! You said, "A competent psychiatrist doesn't collect the rent; instead he helps his patient find a dwelling he can live in. And his fee is more appropriately the cost of moving."

You couldn't have given her a better answer. I was in a psychiatric hospital for a short time recently, and am still under a psychiatrist's care. He has put me on the right track, and I now see a completely different side of life. The right side! I don't know what would have happened to me and my family had I not found him.

If more people who had serious problems would seek the help of a psychiatrist instead of hanging onto that almighty dollar, this would be a better world. I could never pay my doctor enough for what he has done for me.

Please, Abby, print this. It may help someone who needs psychiatric help, but hesitates to go because it's too "expensive." A NEW PERSON

DEAR NEW: The person who admits he needs help is halfway cured. Thanks for writing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ON THE SIDELINES IN JERSEY": He's not your husband. You are only guessing. You have a business? Mind it!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.
