15,871 Barrels Of Oil Produced Here Daily

Oil production in Mitchell County continued on an upward trend in 1978 in contrast to a downward spiral for the state as a whole.

According to figures released by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, there were 5,792,932 barrels of crude oil produced in the county last year which came out to an average of 15,871 barrels per day. This was a total increase of 390,962 barrels over 1977 figure of 5,401,970 and was a per day increase of about 1,071 barrels.

As stated, this continued an upward trend from the two preceding years. In 1976 Mitchell County produced 4,934,117 barrels and in 1975 the production was 4,729,397 barrels.

According to Bill Haden, production foreman at the Sun plant at Silver, drilling activity in the county at least as far as his company is concerned is still going strong.

Haden reported 12 new wells since Jan. 1 and 25 new wells since May, 1978 and he added that two months was lost because of the weather.

Since oil was first discovered in Mitchell County in 1920 there have been a total of 103,348,034 barrels produced.

A comparison of the 1978 production and 1977 production of the counties surrounding Mitchell County showed that most of them decreased in production last year from the year before:

Nolan: 1978-2,400,315

1977-2,886,091.

Fisher: 1978-5,692,560

1977-7,198,979.

Scurry: 1978-58,074,

266 1977-70,745,781.

Borden: 1978-10,228,

245 1977-10,338,254.

Howard: 1978-14,594,

540 1977-14,834,553.

Sterling: 1978-1,964,

792 1977-1,759,624.

Coke: 1978-2,604,789

1977-2,309,013.

The crude oil production of the entire state of Texas in 1978 totaled 1,068,968,252 barrels. This one billion barrel figure was a level which the state has reached annually since 1965. The 1978 figure itself however continued a downward trend.

ROADS became rivers Monday afternoon for several hours after some two to three inches of rain fell within an hour's time in the Buford area. Some small hail was reported with a number of terraces broken by the runoff. Rains Monday and Tuesday supplied needed moisture for cotton planting in most areas of the county but some areas are still dry, especially in the west and southwest portions of the county.

Sweetwater, in connection with two alleged forgery incidents in Colorado City in April.

Rabies Clinic Set For June 2

The City of Colorado City and Dr. Larry Helms, a local veterinarian, are sponsoring a rabies clinic from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. June 2 at the city barn of East Highway 80.

Residents may bring their animals, both dogs and cats, for the rabies shots which will cost $5 per animal. The owner may also buy a city tag for their animal at cost of $1. The owner's name and address will be engraved on the back of the tag.

Distemper shots will also be available at the clinic for $7.50 per vaccination.

Colorado City Manager Ray Mason emphasized that the clinic was being conducted as a public service and that the shots were being given at a reduced rate to encourage citizens to bring their animals.

Helms stated that the usual cost of the rabies shots was $8 but that he and the city officials had decided to cut the rate and hold the clinic because there appeared to be an epidemic of rabies which was spreading from the South at a fast clip and they hoped to spare Colorado City residents from this if possible.

The veterinarian also said that a number of local citizens were giving their free time to help out with the clinic.

He asked that when the owners bring their animals to the clinic, they should either have them on a leash or have them in their arms.

Congressional Comment

BY CHARLES W. STENHOLM

In "Wealth of Nations," Adam Smith argued that profits are the legitimate return for risk and effort and that the "Invisible Hand" of market forces would convert private greed into public benefits.

The economic theories of Adam Smith are as applicable to the marketplace of today as they were 200 years ago. The free enterprise system works because it allows a person to reap the benefits of his labor. Profits are the invisible hand that motivates individuals to make a product or perform a service that will benefit the community as a whole. The better an entrepreneur is able to perform this service, the bigger the reward (profits) he receives.

Profits are called by many names these days—obscene, exorbitant, and excessive. Granted, profits can be improper if they are exploitative or the result of price-fixing schemes or monopolies. But we must remember that in a capitalist economy the promise of monetary reward is a prime motivator. Without hope of a reasonable rate of return, no one would start a business, introduce a new product or service, or even continue producing an old one. And without the reality of profits, no business in the long run can keep itself alive—except by government subsidies.

Also we must remember that even if profits are excessive in the short run, the market will adjust and force prices downward. Pocket calculators are a good example. Today a good calculator can be bought for as little as $10 from a variety of companies. Just a few years ago only a limited number of firms made calculators at a price many times that of the present rate.

The same will happen in our energy industry if only permitted. The profit incentive will attract new firms into the market and production of additional hydrocarbons and alternative sources of fuel will be come more feasible. In the long run excess profits will disappear as competition increases and the public will benefit.

The basic principles of free market economics are understood by people everywhere whether they admit it or not. In contrast, governments seldom recognize the advantages of individual initiative. The Russian people understand free market economics. The state takes 90 percent of the production of collective farms in the Soviet Union, but lets workers keep what they earn by farming their backyards. Soviet state agriculture is perpetually in poor condition and a third of farm output is backyard production. The Soviet leaders have tried everything but increasing the size of backyards.

The hostility towards profits largely rests on the myth that dividends flow mainly to the pockets of wealthy individuals. In terms of dollar value, nearly half of the corporate shares these days are owned by institutions such as pension funds, college endowments, and even churches. The assurance of a retirement income and the availability of a college scholarship, all depend heavily upon the profitability of U.S. corporations.

Chamber Of Commerce News

BY LARRY WINDERS

During this time of Energy shortages and unemployment there is much talk of needed belt tightening, but the only cry that has gone up so far is that the people should tighten their belts for the government.

In the past the American people have responded magnanimously with the sweat of their toil, but maybe the time has come when the Government should start doing some belt tightening for the people.

Average Federal pay exceeds that in the private sector by 46 percent. And the Federal Government for the last two years has over paid Federal Employees by over one billion dollars per year, according to its own much discredited "Federal Pay Comparability Survey."

In 1973 the Federal Government took $3.97 out of every $10 of income, leaving the one who worked for the income with $5.89.

There are approximately 15 million persons getting U.S. Food Stamps, 26 million students receiving subsidized lunches and roughly 4 million people living in federally subsidized housing. There hundreds more of like programs.

The only trouble with more people getting something for nothing the Federal Government will have to increase the supply of money. This they have done and the result is that your money is worth less than it ever has been leading to more inflation as less people engage in productive enterprise and more dollars chase fewer goods.

There are 73.5 million persons receiving some sort of pay or benefits from tax dollars, including nearly 6 million Federal and Military employees.

And how many people are working for enterprises in the private business sector? About 73 million.

Which leads to the question, "Who will pull the wagon when every one gets in to ride?"

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—While one conference committee was in the process of working out a state budget, another was trying to decide who will get what as far as tax relief goes, and yet another conference committee was about to begin negotiations over school finance.

Ironically, hardly anyone noticed. Not even the first House override of a gubernatorial veto since 1951, or tentative approval of initiative and referendum legislation, or passage by House members of changes to the consumer protection act, could hold the spotlight for long after the first of what would be two filibusters began in the Senate.

While conference committee members were quietly drawing up a compromise to pay state employees (except teachers) 5.1 percent more in 1980-81 and poor children an extra $100 a year, one-third of the senate was at odds with the other two-thirds over consumer issues and one purely political matter—a presidential primary.

Months ago, the whole question of a presidential primary appeared to be dead thanks to Sen. Ron Clower of Garland who rounded up the signatures of 13 of his colleagues who said they were against Sen. Jack Ogg's bill that would separate a presidential primary from state primaries. Thirteen senators is enough to block consideration of a bill in the senate.

But then Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby rolled out SB 1149, a bill Sen. Lloyd Doggett quickly tagged as a "Trojan Horse." Later though, Doggett, Sens. Babe Schwartz, Carl Parker, Clower and others, who combined in the first filibuster of the week against SB 1149, came to think of the bill more as a smokescreen.

What looked like a shrewd parliamentary maneuver by Hobby turned out to be even more. Simply stated, SB 1149 would have put the secretary of state (at the moment, a republican, George Strake) in charge of funds for running primaries instead of the county party chairman. The Democrats were a little nervous about that happening. But even more irritating for some Senators was the fact there was no guarantee SB 1149 would come back from the House unamended.

If the House sent back a substitute, it would take only a majority vote for the Senate to concur and that meant Clower's 13 votes wouldn't be enough to stop passage of a bill with some provision tacked on setting up a separate presidential primary.

That was the "Trojan Horse" Doggett described. But Hobby had more on his mind. A usury bill already passed by the House pegging interest rates to treasury bonds and proposed changes in the consumer protection law were coming up on the Senate calendar. Doggett and Sen. Bill Patman had already threatened to filibuster the measures.

Doggett, Patman, Schwartz and others had joined forces earlier in the session to filibuster a bill on the State Bar and proposed changes in the consumer protection law. Three filibusters had been mounted in the Legislature thus far until this week and all had little success. But with the final days of the session facing the legislature major legislation still waiting to be finalized, a filibuster appeared to be more effective tool than it had been earlier.

Any hope of that being true faded quickly as it became clear that Hobby had put SB 1149 on the line merely to tire and wear down the opposition. At first glance it would appear that Hobby's tactic failed because a group-effort filibuster against SB 1149 did manage to all but kill the bill. But Hobby rolled out HB 409—interest rate legislation. Patman had vowed all along to fight such a bill and a fight meant a filibuster—the second of the week.

Earlier, in the first filibuster of the next to last week of the session, a number of senators had filibustered SB 1149 and won themselves the nickname "The Killer Bees" from Hobby, but Patman carried the load alone against HB 409 talking for 17 hours and 21 minutes—the longest filibuster this session.

When Patman could go no longer, the Senate quickly passed HB 409 raising the maximum interest rates that can be charged on home mortgages and senators also approved legislation (SB 357) weakening the consumer protection act. The usury bill headed back to the House for concurrence in Senate amendments and SB 357 was sent to the governor.

A second filibuster

Doggett against changes in the consumer law was avoided after certain amendments the Austin senator had called for were added in the House.

The House reattached to the bill class action suits that had been removed in the senate. And the House also eliminated the definition of "Actual damages"—a clause in the senate version that would have prevented consumers from collecting for mental anguish. Both the House and Senate did away with triple damages in consumer suits but the House did provide for treble damages in some cases and left that decision to juries hearing consumer cases.

THE GOVERNOR. Gov. Bill Clements scolded the House this week for overriding his veto of a minor bill that would have exempted a single county from state game laws. Clements told the House it should "stop playing games. It's a sad waste of time to spend more than an hour wrangling over a matter of this magnitude during the final crucial weeks of the legislative session."

Clements was a bit happier over the progress of a wiretap bill he has called for. The measure would allow wiretaps only in narcotics cases. Sen. Carl Parker called the legislation the "Richard Nixon Wiretap Bill," but senators must not have been listening as they passed the measure on second reading 20-11. The bill must still survive a third and final reading in the Senate and a trip through the House before getting to the governor's desk.

Clements didn't get his way when it came to extending his budgetary powers. The Senate refused to even consider a bill that would have beefed-up a governor's ability to control state expenditures. The Senate did approve a constitutional amendment allowing governors to remove appointees from boards and commissions with the consent of the Senate. Currently, the governor has no such powers. And finally, the Legislature approved a constitutional amendment with a "Local option" provision legalizing bingo for non-profit and charitable organizations.

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

Inflation Fighting Ideas Based On Information Provided By The U.S. Government Office Of Consumer Affairs.

Our stores will continue to have an adequate selection of beef to meet your needs. Beef supplies are down and will continue to be short while the cattle producers are rebuilding their herds. Other meats, such as poultry and pork, are in more plentiful supply.

Now is a good time to buy chickens, turkeys and pork, all of which freeze well. Remember, too, that it is always less expensive to buy chickens and turkeys whole and cut them to the needs of your family.

May begins the seasonal peak for milk production as supplies of cheese, butter and nonfat dry milk should be on the increase. You can help save money by using reconstituted nonfat dry milk in any recipe calling for regular milk.

Since fruits and vegetables are seasonal in nature, buy them during the peak of their season. Freeze fruit such as apricot, sweet cherry and peach harvests are just beginning. Good buys on these fruits should become more common as the harvest continues.

Apples and grapefruit seasons are ending and this may cause prices to rise a bit. Bananas should be a good buy during the summer months as supplies increase. Rainfall will stay high all year because of rain damage to the 1978 crop.

Potatoes are abundant and prices reasonable. Nutritious, low in calories, potatoes go so well with so many dishes and are easy to prepare.

Dry beans are a great buy due to recent years' bumper crops. Though a high protein food, many beans are slightly deficient in one amino acid, methionine. This is overcome when they are served or combined with small amounts of meat, dairy products, or certain cereal grains. Rice, corn and pork, in combination with dry beans, do create a balance of protein, and at this time, all are inflation fighting buys. An idea: have meat on your next meal or smoked picnic bone and put it in your pot of beans for additional flavor and nutrition.

May is a good time to buy pork, poultry, milk products, potatoes and dry beans.

together, we can be INFLATION FIGHTERS!

Correction To Gasoline Story

In the May 13 edition of the Record, a spokesman at The Blassingame Exxon Service station on Interstate 20 is reported saying that independent gasoline dealers could buy as much gasoline as they could afford.

later that he did not mean that the independent dealers were unable to afford the gasoline, only that they were not on a percentage allotment as the dealers with the major oil companies were. The independent dealers are free to buy as much as they want.

Council OK's Ordinance

The City Council of Colorado City, meeting in called session Tuesday afternoon, adopted a fair housing ordinance and also a resolution designating Mayor Marion Bassham and City manager Ray Mason as representatives in its application for an Urban Development Action Grant.

Mason advised the council that the ordinance and the resolution were necessary for the city in its application for the grant to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The fair housing ordinance contained six articles which stated that to discriminate against any person because of his race, color, religion or national origin in denying him a place to live would be a violation of his constitutional rights and would be punishable with a fine of not more than $200.

The resolution concerning the Urban Development Action Grant also authorized that an application for the grant be filed on behalf of the city with HUD.

Mason had previously stated that if the city received the grant, it would provide funds for any facilities the city didn't already have for any industry which were to locate here in the future.

In other action, the councilmembers voted to keep the same insurance coverage for its city employees when the policy with Blue Cross and Blue Shield comes up for renewal in June.

The council also voted to self-insure and assume the liability for any pregnancies by its female employees.

Mason reported to the council that an application which the city had made to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for a boat ramp at Fisher Park was due to go before that board tomorrow.

He said that if the city received the grant, it would mean that the parks and wildlife department would pay $23,000 toward the ramp and the city itself would have come up with 30 percent of that figure or $6,900. He added that this $6,900 could come in the form of work provided by city employees.

Finally, Mason reported to the council that the city's landfill permit was up for renewal by the Texas Health Department in August and that before a new permit could be issued, the city would have to spend some money on an engineering study for the landfill and also take some core samples.

The seminar was presented by Colorado City Chamber of Commerce and sponsored by the Colorado City Business and Professional Women's Club, Community Action Program and Wallace Community Education Center-Colorado I.S.D.

The residents that go to workshop are enjoying their new van. For all of those who worked to make the new van possible they say, Thank you.

Our residents are most appreciative to the Mitchell County Library for bringing us a movie every first and third Thursday. This is certainly a delightful addition to our many activities.

Morgan Presents Program

The North Loraine Extension Homemakers Club met in the home of Mrs. Jack Linam at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 2 for a program given by Agent, Adele Morgan on process of drying fruits and vegetables.

Mrs. Bud Shepherd called the business by having the Club Creed repeated in unison. Members answered the roll call with "Food Superstitutions."

During the business session, the club voted to give ten dollars to the cancer fund and nominated Mrs. Raymond Wheeler as a prospective delegate for the state meeting. Announcement was repeated of the book review to be on May 9, and a County recreational workshop to be conducted June 20 with each club bringing some type of recreation to the meeting. The Concho County Club has been invited as guest. Each member is to bring a covered dish.

Mrs. Morgan began her program by showing interesting slides of fresh fruits and vegetables and methods of preparation and drying, followed by a question and answer session. An unusual dried fruit she showed was strawberries.

Those attending were Mmes. Rosie Hamrick, Shepherd, Wheeler, J. M. Topleton, Hubert Meadows, H. C. Taylor, guests, Mrs. Morgan and the hostess.

Matthews Speaks At LHS Banquet

The annual Junior-Senior banquet for Loraine High School was in the school cafeteria Thursday evening, May 10. Theme of the evening was "Disco Dream".

The hall was decorated with stars and other mod decor. Scrolls noiding the program was at each plate.

The Rev. Caddo Matthews of Colorado City was guest speaker.

The menu consisted of roast beef and the trimmings. Lupe Vallejo gave the invocation and Jill Linam, gave the welcome to the senior class and guests. Vallejo and Linam gave the prophesy to the seniors and Gay Jones read the will the seniors were leaving.

Rev. Matthews told the young people "keeping their heads on straight" was very important as they go out into the world on their own. He gave them some sound advice and quoted proverbs that had important lessons for them to remember and follow.

Supt. L.R. Dunn gave the Benediction.

Present were members of the two classes, Rev. and Mrs. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Moore, Supt. and Mrs. Dunn and high school principal, Joe Pharis.
