

City Preparing Water Wells For Crisis

Workmen Friday began pulling pumps and lines in the city's water well field to prepare the wells for possible emergency use.

City Manager J. A. Sadler Jr. was on the scene as a crew from Dwayne Williams Pump Company began the work at two well sites.

From these two jobs the city will have an actual cost measurement for readying the city's entire 17-well system for service.

Critical level of Lake Colorado City and Lake Champion, source of the municipal water supply as well as the source for Texas Electric Service Company's giant Morgan Creek Power Plant, necessitates the action.

The city, thanks to a court action at the start of construction of the Colorado River reservoir in Coke County, also has specified water rights from that source through Colorado River Municipal Water Authority. But the CRMWA is now spending millions to develop additional well-field supply to supplement critical levels at Lake J. B. Thomas as well as the Coke County reservoir.

Colorado City now is pumping about 400,000 gallons of water per day to local homes and businesses. Water level at Lake Colorado City is at a low, low level of 2056.57.

Last summer the city pumped from 2 to 2 1/2 million gallons of water every 24 hours. Demands are sure to be high again in the months ahead, if the water is there.

But when the Lake Colorado City drops to 2052-foot level, then the city must provide supplementary water for its municipal system, according to Sadler.

"Lake level is not yet at its lowest point but if weather conditions continue (it rained only 12.91 inches here last year), then it will be at a record low next summer," Sadler said. "Engineering projections have warned TESCO of that."

That is why the work is under way now at the city's well field.

"By pulling pump and pipe at a well here in the south field (adjoining the city's low-rent housing area on 17th street) and another in the north field," Sadler said, "we should have a basic idea of overall cost."

The south field was the first wells put into municipal service and the north field was the last.

Six wells are in the area adjacent to the housing project, 8 are in the north field and 3 are north of Interstate 20 near Rogers Seed Delinting.

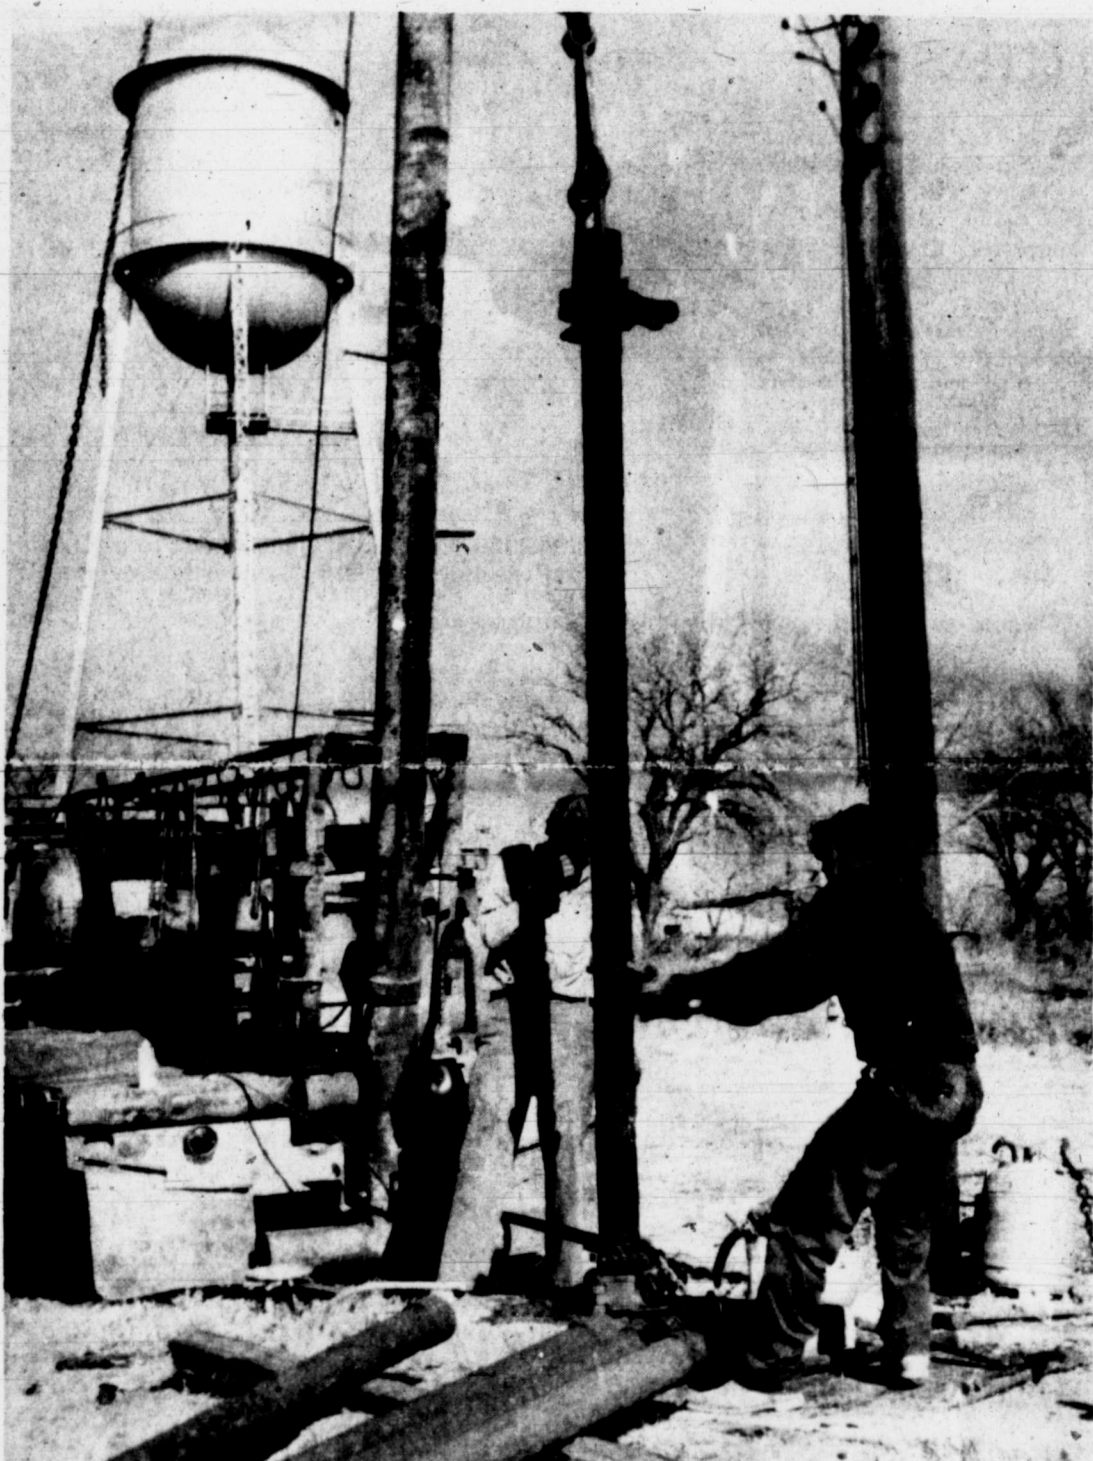

"The pipe is so old in the well fields," the city manager said, "we probably will lay new pipe above ground. The above ground system is being used more and more. San Angelo is piping water to its drying system in that manner from the Christoval area."

TESCO engineers have been known to be concerned over the lake levels here for a long time. Level of water in Lake Colorado City, which has pumped water from Lake Champion, is important to operation of Morgan Creek Power Plant, largest in the TESCO supply system in West Texas.

If there is not sufficient water for proper cooling of the plant generators, then operation of the plant can be affected.

Therefore, if rains do not put more water into Lake Colorado City and Lake Champion, water level can become critical to power generation as well as Colorado City's water supply.

Safeguard For Water

With the city's large overhead supply tank overlooking their work, a crew begins renovation of the city's water well field in preparation supplementing the city water supply if conditions require in months ahead. Lack of rain and critical low level of Lake Colorado City is causing city officials to look ahead to possible emergency.

Action Near On Taxes

City, County Schedule Meetings

City, county and schools appear to be nearing a concentrated effort to collect delinquent taxes.

All three have been conferring with attorneys who specialize in delinquent collections. This talking has been in progress for the last few months.

McCreary & Huey of Austin and Floyd A. Hunter of Greenville are the two law firms that are in consideration now.

City officials plan to meet with attorneys the afternoon of Feb. 1.

Mitchell County Commissioners Court have scheduled a 7:30 p.m. meeting with tax attorneys that night, Feb. 1.

Representatives from Westbrook and Loraine city governments and school boards also have indicated they will participate in the night session, making it practically an all-county meeting.

City and Colorado Independent School District have taken the lead toward contracting for delinquent collections.

They first considered local legal assistance, then the interest turned to out-of-town specialists when Colorado City school officials met with representatives of the Greenville law firm.

Since then Jack McCreary of the Austin firm, one of the most experienced in school tax collections within the state, has met with school board members. In addition, W. T. Hartline of the Greenville firm has been back in town for conference.

Colorado City school board instructed Schools Business Manager J. S. (Jay) Craddock Jr. to study proposed contracts with both of the firms and to be ready with recommendations at the board's February meeting.

That means the schools are ready to hire a collector and get on with the job.

Now, with the city and county meetings scheduled for the first Monday in February, it appears that City Council and Commissioners Court are nearing the decision point.

If school and municipal officials at Loraine and Westbrook show an interest, too, then the delinquent collections may become a blanket program for the entire county.

Representatives from city, county and schools are emphasizing throughout that they want a policy hand in the delinquent collections as well as assurances that a collector will not "skim off the cream" for sizeable commission without a thorough collection effort.

Mothers March Tuesday

Colorado City volunteers will begin knocking on doors Tuesday at 5 p.m. in the annual mothers' march for crippled children.

The march will be one of the major fund-raising projects for the community's March of Dimes.

Cause of the march is to provide funds seeking prevention of significant birth defects in 250,000 babies every year within the United States.

National Foundation-March of Dimes funds also are applied locally to aid polio victims and others struck by birth defects and crippling diseases.

Approximately 90 per cent of Colorado City school children have received rubella (German measles) vaccines, one of the modern advancements in protection against crippling diseases.

Local March of Dimes funds also have purchased a wheelchair for local use assisting three polio victims and a baby with a major birth defect—all in recent years here in Mitchell County.

Mrs. J. B. Bodine is chairman for the Tuesday evening Mothers March, a project of Jayceettes in cooperation with Mitchell County March of Dimes Chairman Bill Erwin.

He was elected third vice president at the SPAG's annual directors meeting Tuesday in Amarillo.

Raymond Fuller, owner of Fuller Foods, has been named vice president of South Plains Associated Grocers, wholesale organization of 409 stores doing an annual business of more than 66 million dollars.

Fuller joins an officer group which includes W. B. (Bill) Sears of Odessa, president; R. C. Fisher of Spearman and Wilford Taylor of Canyon, first and second vice presidents.

The South Plains association, which also is affiliated with a similar nationwide organization, services 409 independent stores in West Texas, Texas

Area captains for the March include Mrs. Juan Molina, Mrs. Charlie Dominguez, Mrs. Manuel Molina, Mrs. Willis Taylor, Mrs. Kent Womack, Mrs. Eli Rivera, Mrs. Bill Martin and Mrs. Don Schollenbarger.

"We are still in need of volunteers to call at homes in their residential areas," according to Mrs. Bodine.

Mrs. Tiny Stephens of Big Spring, executive secretary of Caprock Chapter, National MOD, was principal speaker at a March of Dimes meeting Thursday evening in Civic House hosted by Jayceettes.

The South Plains association, which also is affiliated with a similar nationwide organization, services 409 independent stores in West Texas, Texas

Panhandle, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

The association's 1970 gross sales to member stores exceeded $66,000,000.

Fuller's Colorado City food store ranked 25th among the 409 member stores in total business last year with the association.

Thieves Go For Stereo Equipment

A burglary attempt failed Wednesday night at a local store, but petty thieves were more successful.

Assistant Police Chief Jim Latham and Patrolman Larry Tittsworth discovered the unsuccessful burglary attempt at Marshall's at 9:15 p.m.

Stereo music equipment continued to be a favorite target for petty thieves.

Cary May, 1445 Walnut, reported a stereo and tapes taken from his car parked at home Thursday night.

Another stereo tape player and several tapes were taken also, according to a report to police by Mrs. B. H. Bell, 305 East 16th Street.

Joe Vincent reported 10 stereo tapes were taken from his car Friday afternoon.

Capacity Crowd Due At Banquet

Chamber of Commerce officials added more tables hurriedly at the weekend as ticket sales moved toward the 300 mark for Monday night's annual banquet.

A count at noon Friday put pre-banquet sales at 250.

"With usual late-comers it looks like the crowd will be full capacity near the 300 mark," said Executive Vice President Sefton Pickens.

"We probably will have a few tickets available Monday morning," he said, "but persons wanting these last tickets will have to hurry."

There are a score of major events for the Chamber's 62nd annual banquet at 7 p.m. in Civic House.

Foremost, of course, will be the hometown appearance of Charles R. Haines, the 1953 Colorado High graduate who is now Program Manager for Lunar Landing Training Vehicle, NASA Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston.

Haines, principal speaker for the banquet, heads the staff of 100 experts who trained Astronauts Alan Shepard and Ed Mitchell for their Moon landing next month.

The banquet will formally install officers and directors for the Chamber's 1971 work year.

Postmaster Arlene Morris heads the officer slate which includes Vernon Lewis and Rick Perkin, vice presidents; George Witten, treasurer and Mrs. E. B. Carlock, secretary.

Four service awards will be presented as other banquet highlights:

Outstanding agricultural family, outstanding Chamber member, Jaycee Distinguished Service Award, and Woman of the Year.

Presenting the service winners--always secret until the banquet--will be Travis Turner, J. C. Britton, Dr. Bill S. Bridgford and Miss Nelda Garrett.

County Judge Bill Carter will be master of ceremonies and Thomas Franklin, minister of Northside Church of Christ, will speak the invocation.

Youth Choir of First Baptist Church, directed by Frank Prewitt, will provide entertainment. Dinner music will be by Glenn Crosthwaite, decorations by Garden Club.

164 More Phones In Year

The number of telephones in Colorado City increased to 3,847 during 1970, according to Bill Gilliland, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

He said this compares with 3,683 telephones in Colorado City at the end of 1969.

A total of 164 telephones were added here during 1970, an increase of 4.5 per cent. A three-year forecast indicates there will be 4,300 telephones here at the end of 1974.

"Colorado City residents were more talkative last year, too," Gilliland noted. "They dialed 12,981 calls on an average business day during November."

Last year, Gilliland said a two-year central office equipment project was completed with added Automatic Number Identification apparatus in the telephone office. Called "ANI," the equipment records the caller's number on Direct Distance Dialed calls.

Gilliland said a record $14.1 million construction budget has been set by Southwestern Bell for its San Antonio Area, of which Colorado City is a part. The area covers roughly the western half of Texas.

They Plan Tuesday March

Plans for the Jaycee-ette Mothers March Tuesday night were discussed when this trio conferred at the Thursday educational meeting for March of Dimes. From left to right, are Mrs. Jerry Grissom, co-chairman of the Tuesday Mothers March; Mrs. Tiny Stephens, executive secretary of Caprock Chapter, National MOD, and Mrs. J. B. Bodine, march chairman.

Mrs. Fincher directed club members in exercises designed for adults by health teachers.

Mrs. Hargrove and Mrs. Hock discussed how to control weight explaining that doctors say the main cause for overweight is "too much food coupled with too little exercise."

They spoke of proper diet saying, "Personality and disposition are direct results of proper eating."

"Re-educate your appetite," they advised. "Whether you are fat, slim or just right. Eating correctly for beauty and health is simply a matter of habit."

Mrs. Fincher presented devotional thoughts.

Posture may be a guide to the way a person feels, looks, personality and gives an impression to others, the group was told. "Good posture ables the body to function at its best."

For overweight persons they made these suggestions: "Know your rest weight, see your doctor, educate your appetite, eat a variety of foods, set yourself a goal and plan to be more active."

Club prayer was said by Mrs. Hock. Roll call was answered by club members telling a plea-

CONVERSATION CORNER

SHOW me somebody who can not recall ever having made a mistake and I'll show you somebody who has a very poor memory.

A poor memory, of course, is not necessarily a handicap always. It can be a real blessing if your memory is so bad you can not for the life of you recall anything bad you ever did or said or anything wrong other people did to you either.

A good memory can make you miserable if it makes you remember in vivid detail every mean thing you ever did or had done to you. . . every foolish mistake.

A good memory should be one that comforts a person by recalling the good times, the sweet things . . . and to heck with the multiplication table.

A good memory should be well trained to remember what you like and choose to remember.

And to remember things, maybe, better than they really were!

NOT everybody can completely train a memory. The memory has ways of its own and can cut you down at the most unexpected moments.

For instance, never hear the name Paderewski or any of his music without remembering those high-heeled new black patent pumps worn for the first time to hear his concert. Ever try walking three blocks with one shoe off and one shoe on?

That mistake was one of pure and undiluted feminine vanity. Lots of mistakes remembered now and then were the result of plain vanity. Never did care to wear those patent pumps again. That's the beauty of some mistakes. They can sometimes make a more honest woman of you.

IT IS only human nature to want to blame somebody else or conditions beyond our control for any mistakes we may have made. Could have blamed the shoe clerk--and most likely did. But he is not to blame for the acute remembering of that concert here several decades later. The untrained memory is.

People with a little dangerous knowledge of psychology go around blaming their parents for mistakes mostly behind those parents' back. That isn't usually fair but it's so.

Wives blame husbands. Husbands blame wives.

Parents blame the neighbors' kids. Kids blame the teacher. Show me somebody who sometimes takes the blame himself and I'll show you somebody with a strong character.

NO MATTER how much times and environment change people and human nature stay pretty much the same.

It was nice to read somewhere the other day that people do not love other people in spite of their mistakes and faults. They love each other BECAUSE of the faults and mistakes which make them mortal enough to endure them to other mortals around them.

That must make some of us pretty loveable!

One good thing which can be said for this era is that even computers make mistakes. Soon we can all blame everything on some computer. Until we all live in a totally computerized world, though, Flip Wilson's Geraldine has the best solution.

When Geraldine makes the mistake of over-indulging her feminine vanity she says "The devil made me do it." And she keeps that devil of hers fairly busy.

Show me somebody who can not bear to admit being wrong on occasion and I'll show you a stubborn soul. . . if not a downright prevaricator.

SEEN LATELYS included Ruth (Mrs. Boyd) Dozier, librarian who is aglow with joy over arrival Wednesday of her sister Callie (Mrs. Howard) Rank of Chester, West Virginia.

Mrs. Rank drove with friends from her hometown who were going to Phoenix, Arizona, for a visit. The out-of-state travelers encountered marvelous weather all the way, leaving Monday morning, and spending Tuesday night in Eastland, Callie's friends, the Langs, spent several days in the Dozier home here before leaving for Phoenix.

Saw Bill Holbert whose daughter Jennifer and her husband Mike Hart spent most of December and the whole holiday season here. They live in Anchorage, Alaska, while Mike is on military duty.

Met for the second time attractive Sandy Grissom, Chamber of Commerce office secretary.

FAMILIAR FACES round about town places belonged to Charles (Buster) Stevens. . . Woody Crabtree. . . Bill Bloomer. . . Charla Warren Mann . . . Vivacious Mary Lou (Mrs. Carl) Bell. . . Addie Ruth (Mrs. Fred) McKay. . . Faye (Mrs. Albert) Spivey.

Project Party

Party Marks End of National Project For Brownie Troop

A party for Brownie Troop 333 and their guests Tuesday afternoon culminated a national Girl Scout project called "Try-It".

In the project, directed by troop leaders, Mrs. Trevlyn Kelley and Mrs. Jackie Corbell, Brownies acted as big sisters for smaller children either in their family or for friends.

They worked in the project at home assisting mothers by reading to younger children, feeding them and helping them dress.

Smaller children were their "big sisters" guest for the afternoon fete in Parish House of All Saints' Episcopal Church.

Games and songs were directed before cookies, made by Brownies, and punch were served from a table decorated in Brownie colors, orange and brown.

Guests were Mark Walker, Jeff Neff, Timmie Nowell, Donald Ridge, Carla Morris, Mike Griffith, Mickey Palmer, Mark Lewis, Bessie Lewis, Jesse Bodine and one mother, Mrs. Tom Neff.

Brownies and their leaders present were Becky Corbell, Laurie Kelley, Holly Neff, Debbie Nowell, Karalie McMillan, Janice Ridge, Gay Tarter, Dee

Ann Griffith, Genia Guelker. Also, Laurie Kay Wilkinson, Tracie Hammond, Carolyn Lewis, Laurie Ann Englert, Mrs. Corbell and Mrs. Kelley.

FLOWER ART

The finest flower arrangers in the world are said to be the Japanese. To them flower arranging is an art—equal to music and painting.

The word they have for the art is "ikebana," and it means "Living Flowers." Ikebana is taught in that country by private masters, and also in their schools—and is said to date back to the 15th century.

We have been trained in the art of flower arranging, and we take great pride in the lovely arrangements we send from our shop. For that special occasion, call us at 728-5254.
