Soviet Delegates Side With Sidney At Labor Meeting

By UPTON CLOSE

The international labor conference in London goes on. It was originally intended to prepare the ground for the official conference in Mexico City but seems to be getting the ground all broken up instead of smoothed down.

The British trades unions finally admitted the Soviet delegates, who had been opposed for the true reason that they did not represent free labor unions. The Soviet delegates then teamed right up with Mr. Sidney Hillman and the other United States CIO delegates in London, to run away with the conference. President Bill Green of the AP of L, which refused to send delegates where the Soviet officials were admitted, has condemned the conference proceedings.

Meanwhile, a British trades unionist, Sir Walter Citrine, chairman of the conference, is coming under strong fire from left-wing elements for backing Churchill's policy in Greece.

This conference of federations and unions is preparing for the official labor conference of governments set for Mexico City, later in the month. The dominant figure at this official conference would have been Russia's ambassador extraordinary to the American hemisphere, Oumanski.

The change that will come in the building of communism all over the western hemisphere by the disappearance of this sharp, active young man remains to be seen. Equally mysterious, in the absence of a Mexican official report on the plane accident, remains the manner of Oumanski's death. While President Roosevelt sends Oumanski's ashes by air plane to Marshal Stalin, rumors spread that Oumanski had incurred the envy and disfavor of his Russian dictator—perhaps for being too successful and independent and for having an eye on the succession. The American government—now returns Oumanski's ashes with condolences, but all who knew him remember how truly he disliked the American government—and it disliked him, for that matter!

Oumanski's disappearance from the scene might even prelude a

Sentences Meled Out in Connection Fire Last Year

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 21—(AP)—Judge William J. Shea today, in superior court, imposed heavy prison sentences on three officials of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus and sent three other circus men to jail, all for involuntary manslaughter in connection with the circus fire here last July which claimed 168 lives.

Those sentenced were George W. Smith, 51, of Sarasota, Fla., general manager, and Leonard S. Aylesworth, 32, chief tent man of Sarasota, two to seven years in state prison.

James A. Hales, 46-year-old vice president and director, Sarasota, one to five years in state prison.

Edward R. Versteeg, 44, chief electrician, Sarasota, and William Casey, 35, chief tentman, Sarasota, one year in the county jail.

David W. Blanchfield, 57, chief truckman, Hartford, six months in jail.

Judge Shea fined the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Combined Shows, Inc., the official name of the concern, $10,000.

The defendants and the corporation had pleaded no contest to involuntary manslaughter and before passing sentence Judge Shea remarked that this was "equivalent to a plea of guilty."

WAR IN BRIEF

By The Associated Press

THE WESTERN FRONT: Canadian First army offensive topped Goch, Siegfried bastion, drove on Calcar, strongly defended road hub; American troops headed five miles up Moselle valley, capturing 11 towns; pushed to within three miles of Saarbrücken; Saarland captured.

THE RUSSIAN FRONT: First Ukrainian, First White Russian armies linked solidly; red army drove steadily westward toward Guben and Forst, next strongholds; advanced in Polish corridor; opened new drive in Czechoslovakia; beat off heavy counterattacks in Danube valley.

THE ITALIAN FRONT: Americans captured Monte Belvedere in surprise attack, fought for dominant heights west of Fiesola-Bologna highway.

THE PACIFIC FRONT: Americans battled northward on Iwo Jima; last usable air field; artillery battered Japanese entrenchments; Motomura's field captured; Japanese in Manila trapped; Tsurumaru, shot dead; main Japanese on Corregidor blocked.

Bigger British Role in Pacific Believed Coming

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Evidence that Britain wants a greater role in the war against Japan is found here in the disclosure of new Roosevelt-Churchill discussions on Pacific fighting.

President Roosevelt, on his return journey from Yalta, met the British leader at Alexandria. He wanted to meet General Charles de Gaulle at Algiers immediately after, but the French president, having been left out at Yalta, snapped a curt "No thanks."

Mr. Roosevelt also conferred with three kings—Farouk of Egypt, Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia and Haile Selassie of Ethiopia—aboard a warship in the Suez Canal.

The Alexandria talk enabled Roosevelt and Churchill to hold "new and important" discussions on the Pacific. These were not possible during their meeting with Stalin at Yalta because where Japan is concerned Russia is still neutral.

"Mr. Churchill told the president in blunt words," the report said, "that his government was determined to throw everything it had at the Japs as soon as Germany had been defeated and, meanwhile, would do all it could to strengthen its forces already engaged in that conflict."

Basketball Game May Be Broadcast Tonight

The Pampa-Plainview basketball game will be broadcast by KPDN at 7:45 p.m. tonight providing special line arrangements can be completed before that time.

Wayne Phelps, radio station manager, said this afternoon.

"We are going to do our best to get the line arrangements made," Phelps said, "and we think we will be able to get on the air by game time."

So, keep tuned to KPDN beginning at 7:45 p.m. and the game will be brought to you if it is at all possible.

The game, if it goes on the air, will be sponsored by Your Laundry & Dry Cleaners as a special service to Pampa basketball fans who cannot possibly get into the Junior high gym because of the limited seating capacity.

STORY OF WARTIME NEED WILL GO TO EVERYONE

A red cross in every window. That will be the aim of Pampa's $28,500 Red Cross financial drive which opens March 1.

The red cross in the window of your home or place of business will tell the story that you have contributed your share to the 1945 Red Cross war fund.

The campaign planning committee and chairman of various committees met last night in the city commission rooms of city hall to discuss details of the drive.

Attending the meeting were Huey Laycock, general drive chairman; J. R. Posey, Lethman Langston, Aubrey Steele, Winston Savage,

Pampa-Plainview Cage Series Will Open in Local Gymnasium at 8

The Pampa Harvesters will meet the Plainview Bulldogs here tonight in the first of a playoff series for the District 1AA title.

Game time is 8:00 in the Junior high gym. Scene of the next game will be decided tonight.

Plainview won the right to represent the district southern half by beating Lubbock and Brownfield. Pampa took the second of a three-game playoff series from Amarillo last night, 39 to 38.

School officials have asked that all fans come out as early as possible. The gymnasium was filled by 7:30 last night and many were turned away. (More sports on Page 6.)

2 Controversial Issues Confront State Lawmakers

AUSTIN, Feb. 21—(AP)—Aviation control and chiropractic regulation, two issues that stimulated controversy at the last session of the legislature, today appeared to be headed for the same fate at the current session.

The senate committee on public health last night gave a favorable report to a bill by Sen. Pat Bullock of Colorado City to license and regulate chiropractors. The statute would bring the 48th legislature was declared unconstitutional.

The newly-created house committee on aero nautics, placing the issue of aviation control on a state's rights basis, voted unanimously to refer four general bills on aviation to a sub-committee for further study. While this could be taken as a move to shelve the issue, the committee's sentiment seemed to be that it was treading on new ground and wished only to proceed carefully.

Two bills designed to bring venereal disease under stricter control were considered at public hearings last night also, and referred to sub-committee for study. The first of these, by Rep. George Parkhouse of Dallas, provides that both men and women must have doctor's certificates showing they are free from syphilis before they may be married. The other provides for prenatal examinations of pregnant women for syphilis.

A proposal for submission of a constitutional amendment removing the ceiling on the amount the state may spend for aid to dependent children was passed on the house's favorable recommendation by its committee on constitutional amendments.

The house continues to be of an apparent mind to make some changes in the constitution. Yesterday it approved and sent to the senate three such proposals, including one to boost from $15 to $20 a month the state's maximum contribution (to be matched by federal funds) for individual old age assistance, and one to boost from $15 to $20 a month the amount that may be spent for blind assistance. It also approved a proposal under which legislators would be placed on an annual salary basis of $3,650 compared to the $10 a day salary now paid while the legislature is in session.

Under this change, the jury were authorized to predicate a conclusion of guilt upon any language of the statement which the state charged to be libelous," the opinion declared.

"There was no limitation. Such charge, then, authorized the jury to find appellant guilty upon the language relative to the collection of the funds due the student loan fund, which we hold was not libelous."

Envoy Prepares for Conference With De Gaulle

PARIS, Feb. 21—(AP)—U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery prepared today to confer with Gen. de Gaulle, who refused to meet with President Roosevelt, on the decisions made by the Big Three in the Crimea.

American embassy officials described the working of the President's invitation to De Gaulle for a meeting as unfortunate. They said Roosevelt had planned to hold a quick "business session" with De Gaulle to inform France of the details of the Crimean conference and to obviate lengthy diplomatic correspondence.

It was learned that De Gaulle either wrote or personally edited the statement issued by his office in which he turned down the invitation. The statement said that De Gaulle was "happy to learn that President Roosevelt intended to visit a French port" was cited as reflecting the general's bitterness at being "invited" to confer on French soil.

The American embassy explained that the proposal never mentioned Algiers as such but only a warship off the North African coast, presumably near Algiers. Caffery did meet the President off Algiers.

Roosevelt intended, embassy officials said, to return to Washington as soon as possible and then make a ceremonial state visit to France and England in the late spring after the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

TEXAS CRUDE OIL ALLOWABLE IS SET

AUSTIN, Feb. 21—(AP)—The railroad commission has approved a March production pattern calculated to result in a daily flow of 2,160,675 barrels of Texas crude oil.

This is 675 more barrels daily than certified by the petroleum administration for war to fill war and civilian demands.

Although the commission order permits production of 2,294,928 barrels of crude daily, actual production is estimated to be 5.85 percent less than allowable.

The March pattern includes 25 general producing days and 25 for East Texas. The Panhandle is exempt from closing days.

Overall allowable including 159,883 barrels daily of distillates and natural gasoline is 2,320,558 barrels or 4,584 more barrels daily than certified by PAW for all petroleum liquids.

6,350 Casualties Sustained in First 2 Days of Fighting Iwo Jima Japanese

Tank-led American marines, who suffered 3,650 casualties in the first two days of fighting on Iwo Jima, gained up to 1,000 yards in the third day of their invasion today as they began to envelop the island's central airfield.

Gains of 500 to 1,000 yards were made by two divisions climbing the mined, rocky slopes from the captured bomber field toward the central fighter strip. The Fifth division flanked the field on the left while the Fourth drove at the southern tip.

On the southern end of the volcanic island, within bomber range of Tokyo, Yanks climbed 100 yards up the heavily fortified slopes of Suribachi Yama, volcanic fortress.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz did not make a breakdown of marine casualties but indicated less than 600 were killed or missing. He said 3,653 wounded were evacuated.

American submarines have sunk 25 more Japanese ships in the Western Pacific, the navy announced today, running their wartime total to 1,045. Their latest bag included an escort carrier, a destroyer, a converted cruiser, 2 transports, three cargo transports and 17 freighters.

The converted cruiser was believed to be a pre-war 18,000-ton luxury liner.

Effects of the sea war and the Iwo Jima battle within Japan's inner defense line were felt in Tokyo where Premier Gen. Kuniaki Koso's unstable cabinet was reshuffled for the second time in 11 days.

Intensity of fighting on Iwo, now in its third day, surpassed the outstanding battles of the Philippines where Gen. Douglas MacArthur estimated 92,000 Japanese casualties have been inflicted in six weeks. There were 12,929 American casualties—2,675 killed, 10,008 wounded and 245 missing.

Surviving Japanese in Corregidor were being sealed into the tomb-like tunnels of the Manila bay island fortress. Japanese in Manila were squeezed into a half square mile of the Medieval Intramuros, where MacArthur said they were showing "the greatest savagery" toward 7,000 civilians trapped with them.

The Fifth marine corps firmly holds a third of Iwo Island, captured ahead of schedule with its big bomber field 750 miles from Tokyo. But every square yard of conquered territory is under the muzzles of hidden Japanese guns.

Marines are pushing northeastward and uphill over a cold, wet.

1,200 Bombers, 640 Fighters Pound Nuernberg Incessantly

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army "temporarily" cut the trunk railroad and the main highway connecting Frankfurt on the Oder with Berlin, the German high command announced today.

A German broadcast said Frankfurt, on the Oder's west bank 33 miles from the capital, was hammered constantly by red army artillery and bombs.

On the Western Front Scottish troops have captured Goch, a northern bastion of the Siegfried Line. Other Empire troops hampered Nazi defenses before besieged Calcar, and to the south, U. S. Third army troops in a broad sweep along a 50-mile front in the Eifel mountains, gained up to five miles and seized 11 German towns.

More than 1,200 American bombers, escorted by 650 fighters, smashed at rail and industrial targets in Nuernberg. It was the second straight day of American air attack on that great rail junction, once the scene of Nazi party spectacles, and it fit in with the pattern of a U. S. 12th air force attack from Italy yesterday on Hitler's mountain fortress retreat of Berchtesgaden. Rocket-firing Thunderbolts in that attack ripped rail and transportation targets in and near Hitler's private citadel, undergoing its first attack of the war.

These attacks, coupled with an overnight RAF blow by 1,200 planes of Dortmund, Dusseldorf, Mannheim, Berlin and other targets, brought into its ninth day the tremendous aerial offensive during which more than 11,000 heavy bombers were over the reich.

German reports of reverses on the Oder coincided with a Russian view which said the red army was

E. O. Wedgeworth officially was welcomed to Pampa as secretary-manager of the chamber of commerce and C. P. Purley was installed as president for 1945 at the annual luncheon of the chamber of commerce in Methodist church yesterday afternoon.

Col. Talma Inlay, commanding officer of PAAF, also honored at the luncheon, was unable because of military duties to attend the session. He was represented by Col. Rodney Wilder, who introduced Maj. Ray Casey, Maj. Wayne K. Wenger, and Lt. Morris Hearne, all of PAAF.

C. A. Huff, retiring president, presided at the meeting. Wedgeworth and Col. Wilder were introduced by W. B. Weathered. Near the conclusion of the luncheon, Huff introduced Purley, the new president, who spoke briefly and described the cooperation of members throughout 1945. Other new officers are D. V. Burton, first vice president; James McCune, second vice president; and Cecil Myatt, treasurer.

Committee reports on the past year's work were made by Clyde Carruth, agriculture; Joe Key, post-war; F. M. Culbertson, army hospital; Sherman White, highways; Jack Hanna, aviation and industry; and L. N. Atchison, finances.

Wedgeworth, the new manager, who took over his duties here last Thursday, addressed members briefly and said he would give his best to the job and that he believed with the cooperation of Pampans much could be accomplished for the city.

Wedgeworth came to Pampa from Stamford where he was secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Music for the luncheon was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Mott. Mr. Mott, who sang two numbers, is the new educational director of the First Baptist church. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mott.

Washington's Birthday Table

By NEA Service

Sprigs of artificial cherries tacked on to white place mats or doilies will strike the festive note for the party table that you set in commemoration of George Washington's birthday.

If you want to turn your talents loose on a color scheme which more emphatically pronounce the occasion, introduce something red and something blue into your table setting, as Carole Stupell has done in designing the festive setting above, using blue linen napkins and dishes banded in red and white.

For your centerpiece, you might copy or improvise upon Miss Stupell's idea of using a small wooden fence, intertwining twigs of artificial cherries and posing three china birds around it.

Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority Hears Address by Miss Julia B. Hubbell

Thirty-six members of Beta Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma sorority attended the buffet supper Saturday night in the homelike rooms at Senior high school.

Guest speaker was Miss Julia B. Hubbell, Texas state president of the professional educational sorority and dean of women from ETSTC, Commerce, Texas.

Based on why a member is proud of Delta Kappa Gamma key, Miss Hubbell's speech brought out past accomplishments and future plans for the organization.

Said the speaker, "Teacher tenure in Texas received part of its boost with the legislature from Delta Kappa Gamma. Our schools are projects of the educator's award which will be ready some time after the war will carry prestige that will make it one of the national attainments worthy of note."

Founder of the sorority for key women teachers is Miss Annie Webb Blanton, ex-superintendent of public instruction for Texas and a member of the faculty at the University of Texas for many years.

This fall Miss Blanton plans to retire from the office of executive secretary of the national organization which since 1929 has accepted 20,000 women into its fold from the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

This meeting of the president with the Panhandle chapter supplies the usual state meeting when the members from the far points of Texas usually meet in some Texas city. The last convention to be held for the duration of the war was in Fort Worth in April, 1944.

Miss Claudia Everly, president of Beta Delta chapter, attended this meeting where the guest of Saturday night, Miss Julia B. Hubbell, presided.

Members from the area embracing four counties were in attendance at the buffet supper Saturday: Miss Mary E. Ewing, Panhandle; Misses Claudia Everly and Odessa Howell, and Mrs. Chester Strickland and Mrs. Fred Mullings, White Deer; Mrs. Lulu B. Owens and Misses Geraldine Pratt and Zona May; LeFors; Mrs. Willie Boyette and Mrs. Pave Kennedy, McLean; Mrs. R. T. Foster and Mrs. S. J. Johnson, Groves; Meddames Roy Sullivan, Evelyn Staut, John Bradley, Lou Roberts, C. P. Buchler, J. D. Beach, Russell Owens, Icie Harrah, Elma Phillips, Sam Irwin, F. E. Lee, J. B. Austin, Robert Sarr, Josephine Thomas, Jill Jones, Louise Willis, Exa Fay Hutton, Jen Care, Lillian Mullinax, Bernice Larsh, Lorraine Bruce, Florence Jones and Katherine Simmons.

European War

34 miles from Berlin, the closest that Russian press yet has placed Soviet troops from the German capital.

Russian assault teams of infantry, tanks and mobile guns drove doggedly westward in the wooded hills of Berlin's Brandenburg province against strong German positions at Guben and Forst. The tempo of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's drive has slackened somewhat, but there was a general impression in Moscow that his present blows were building a springboard for a new push on the Nazi capital.

In Italy American troops attacking over forbidding mountain terrain captured Monte Belvedere and fought vicious German opposition for heights west of the Pistoia-Bologna highway. The Germans had held 3,500-foot Monte Belvedere since they recaptured it last Nov. 29.

In Yugoslavia Marshal Tito's liberation army captured Zvornik, important road center 75 miles southwest of Belgrade, and destroyed parts of the German 22nd division in several days of bitter fighting.

Scottish troops drove steadily toward Uedem, but Canadian troops, for the first time since their drive opened Feb. 8, were compelled to give ground slightly yesterday. Numerous anti-aircraft counterattacks were hurled at them west of Colcar, bitterly defended enemy road center seven miles northeast of Godes.

About 10,000 prisoners have been taken in the Canadian-British offensive since it opened.

On the U. S. Third Army's southern flank, American Seventh Army troops drove to within less than three miles of ruined Saarbrücken, Saarland capital. The plunged anew across the Saar river and struck into the outskirts of Forbach, French rail center which almost adjoins Saarbrücken.

Third Army armor rolled up the Moselle valley five miles to a point three miles from the junction of the Saar and the Moselle, taking a number of towns in an area generally seven miles southwest of Saarburg. Some 1,200 prisoners were caged in yesterday's fighting.

Marshal Konev's First Ukraine army, advancing 10 miles in his drive toward the Neisse river strongholds, beat off persistent counterattacks and captured Schegeln, eight miles from Guben and 57 of Berlin. His right flank to the north, after capturing Crossen, rolled toward the confluence of the Oder and the Neisse. The Russian victory has joined his northern flank firmly with the southern wing of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army.

Soviet troops have penetrated encircled Breslau and Glogau, and in the north, gained up to 13 miles in the drive against Danzig through the Polish corridor. In Czechoslovakia, red army troops in a new drive advanced northwest toward the miles of Banask Bystrica, and in the Danube valley route to Vienna, red army troops fought off vicious Nazi counterattacks.

Mexican Officials To Take Part in Fete

LAREDO, Feb. 21.—(AP)—A group of Mexican officials, headed by three state governors, will arrive here tomorrow to participate in Laredo's 48th annual Washington birthday celebration.

Pestivities will begin at daybreak tomorrow with a firing salute at Fort McIntosh.

Mexican visitors who will take part in the ceremonies honoring the North American patriot, will be met at the middle of the international bridge linking Texas and Mexico by a U. S. delegation.

A military parade with units from the Laredo army air field, Fort McIntosh, and the Southern land frontier will stage a parade beginning at 11 a. m. Thursday.

Gov. Coke Stevenson will officially welcome the three Mexican governors, Lic. Hugo Pedro Gonzalez of Tamaulipas, Lic. Arturo de la Garza of Nuevo Leon and Gonzalo N. Santos of San Luis Potosi.

Randall Services To Be Here Tomorrow
Funeral services for Jesse R. Randall will be held at the Calvary Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 with the Rev. E. M. Dunsforth officiating.

Randall was killed yesterday morning when two boilers exploded near the well on which he was working at Dumas.

Pallovers will be Floyd Arthur, Luther Long, Howard Dehon, C. M. Whitten, Frank Ware and O. E. Tidwell.

Burial will be in Fairview cemetery by Duennel-Carmichael funeral home.

new, spectacular shift of the "party line."

Labor is going through some interesting twists and turns in this country. The feeling of William Green and his AP of L associates, that the international labor line is being pushed too close to Moscow, is equalled by a feeling going through unions generally in the United States, to the effect that the Biddle line has cost labor very dearly in the matter of prestige.

Outsiders who know the Montgomery Ward situation very well tell me that 75 percent of Sewell Avery's employees are really with the management, in its stand and would, be so openly if they were absolved of fear. It is remarkable to note that not even the harshest communist factory union organ has undertaken to smear Judge Sullivan—which proves how effective a little Irish courage can be.

Sewell Avery has instructed his attorneys to do nothing to delay the appeal of Judge Sullivan's decision to the supreme court of the United States; in fact, he has instructed them to do everything "discreet" that they can to further the final test. Mr. Avery believes that even should the supreme court reverse Judge Sullivan, it will be only showing itself up before the entire country, and in that sense Mr. Avery would still regard himself as the victor. As to the future of his great merchandising company, Mr. Avery feels confident that the tide of government-backed union interference is about to turn. Perhaps he is correct, and if so he will go down in history as a key figure indeed. Another key figure, then, would be Cecil DeMille. It is interesting how often in history tides get to running, and sweeping everything before them until they suddenly crash against some rock-like human figure, and then spume away into nothing.

Now to add to the galaxy of nations, comes Music Czar James Caesar Petrillo, claiming that the Judge Sullivan decision in favor of Montgomery Ward lets his union out also, from regulations applying to organizations in war production.

Mr. Petrillo has answered Senator Vandenberg's bill in congress to exempt school children from union tyranny with what seems to be the final challenge. He has declared the annual July music festival, at Interocean, Michigan, to be unfair, which makes it impossible for the school children who go there to receive instruction from teachers or play under conductors without those teachers and conductors coming under this same sort of ban that Cecil DeMille is now under. Many of the members of the musicians union itself are highly indignant, and it looks as if some big name conductors were going to emulate DeMille and challenge their union. Senator Vandenberg's return compliment to Petrillo will also be worth watching for.

The boosters for a compulsory labor act have changed the basis of their drive from the reverses of our armies in Belgium to the fear that our workers will abandon war production when Germany quits; in other words, having played on the string of disaster, they now fiddle on the string of too much success—with Mr. Walter's Lippman acting as concert master.

need is greater now than ever." The campaign beginning March 1, Laycock said, will be of great importance not only because American forces overseas are reaching their peak, but because as we come another year nearer to the war's end men and women in the armed services need to know that Red Cross is staying with them up to and beyond the day of peace and victory.

"Increased needs," Laycock added, "demand that we contribute even more than last year."

Pampa's house-to-house Red Cross solicitation will begin Thursday morning, March 1. Campaign officials hope to reach Pampa's goal within 10 days although the national campaign for $200,000,000 is scheduled to run throughout the entire month.

rocky mass of gun pits, tank traps, land mines and underground works from the bomber field toward a fighter strip known as Motoyama airfield No. 2. A Pacific fleet commandant last night announced the marines had made "slight gains" in covering the 700 yards separating the two fields.

Fiercest fighting appeared to be around a rock quarry, dominating the northern end of the original U. S. beachhead and approximately half a mile from the smaller airfield. A hundred U. S. tanks were reported engaged in the rock quarry battle.

Unconfirmed Tokyo broadcasts claimed 100 tanks have been knocked out and marines were "suffering huge casualties."

American losses were admittedly heavy at times as the island rocked under an incessant artillery battle. Masses of marine artillery joined U. S. warships and carrier planes in blasting Japanese-controlled heights in the north and Suribachi plumed with pillboxes.

That's one indication of what the marines are up against. Another is a reported order of the day of the defending commander yesterday that "not one Japanese ought to die before he has killed ten enemy soldiers."

Tokyo, throbbing with activity engendered by the impending loss of the fortress island, reported the Americans were "continuously landing fresh troops" on Iwo.

A Japanese legislator warned that if Iwo is lost American fighter planes would swarm over Japan so "we must not waste a single moment in complete fortification of the homeland."

The Japanese munitions ministry called for more wooden aircraft for defense "whether we like it or not."

Administrators told Emperor Hirohito that "despite air raids, earthquakes and a lack of foods," Japanese morale was high.

The U. S. navy yesterday announced a subchaser and two PT boats were lost in the Philippines. These small craft are operating in Manila bay.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui, many women say, has brought relief from the cramps and discomforts of functional periodic distress. Taken as a tonic, it should stimulate appetite and digestion. It is a true "your time" medicine for the "down" time. It should help relieve pain due to cramps, bloating, nervousness, etc.

WHY QUINTUPLETS
use this great rub for SORE THROAT COUGHS due to COLDS

Wonderful for Grown-Ups, Too! Ever since they were tiny tots, when ever the Quintuplets catch cold—their chests, throats and backs are immediately rubbed with Musterole.

Musterole gives such blessed prompt relief, because it's more than just an ordinary "salve." It's what so many Doctors and Nurses call a modern wonder-ment. It not only relieves coughs, sore throat, aching chest muscles due to colds, makes breathing easier—but it actually helps break up congestion in upper bronchial tract, nose and throat.

And Musterole is so much easier to apply than a mustard plaster. Write, Musterole, Just rub it on! "No fuss. No muss with Musterole!"

for you and your car!

WARNING! The traffic toll in winter regularly climbs to a peak fifty per cent higher than the summer accident rate.

And this winter, because tires and cars are older, both cars and lives will be wrecked at a rate far faster than ever, unless YOU do something about it!

So take every possible precaution . . . Drive slowly and alertly, because it requires from four to eleven times the usual braking distance to stop a car, without chains, on wet snow or ice . . . Don't close in on the car ahead . . . Slow down well before reaching crossings . . . And watch out for pedestrians picking their way in hazy twilight or darkness.

At any other time in our nation's history, there would have been something sacrilegious in discussing the saving of cars in the same breath with the saving of human life. To-

An English

Statesman Speaks

On this page we are reproducing an article from a book written by Sir Ernest Benn. "Truth," a magazine published in London for the past 137 years.

Sir Ernest Benn is a man 70 years old who employs a couple of thousand workers and who is one of the few industrialists and business men who understands economics and political economy and can write about it. His business and government experience gives him an insight into the causes of large production and of wars.

Who's Who of the world gives a long list of the corporations and associations of which he is president, including the Society of Individualists of England.

He has written many books. His "Confessions of a Capitalist" has had a very large sale with more than a dozen printings. His book, "Return to Laissez Faire," is a keen study of the causes of the decline of England. He has also written an essay on "Hard Times Ahead" for England which shows him to be a man of vision.

This article, headed "The Same Old Tale," concerns Roosevelt's 1945 inaugural address. Not being a citizen of the United States makes it possible for Sir Ernest to analyze the present government actions from an impartial viewpoint. He is at a distance from us so he can see the picture clearly. He understands the principles that promote progress and peace.

It is a pessimistic article but men should not be afraid to face the facts no matter how dark they may be. To have an understanding, to know the truth, is the only way to set us free from wars.

Sir Ernest Benn thinks the United States, England and the rest of the world are preparing for apocalyptic war.

Recognizing Veterans

We have been told of an honorably discharged and three-decorated soldier who, shortly after returning to civilian life, his home town, put on his uniform again. A friend met him on the street and asked him if he had been called back into the service.

"No," the soldier said, "I put my uniform back on because I got tired of having people ask me why a young man my age wasn't in the army."

That young soldier was issued an honorable discharge pin when he left the service. Presumably he wore it on the lapel of his civilian suit. And, presumably, the people who asked him why he wasn't in uniform had no idea of what the pin signified, if they saw it at all.

So perhaps it is time that all of us started taking notice. The discharge pin is a patriotic and the sustenance is a patriotic eagle with a circle, with the wings extending beyond the circle's edge.

These pins are given to all honorably discharged men and women when they leave the service. They should be worn by the thousands who have already returned to civilian life, and by the millions who will follow them. And they ought to be recognized by all who see them. They are proud distinctions, and they should earn their wearers special consideration and freedom from hard looks and tiresome questions.

WHAT IS CALLED PEACE IN EUROPE

(The Chicago Tribune)

Gen. de Gaulle, unsuccessful in his bid for invitation to the present conference of Stalin, Churchill, and Roosevelt, declared himself in from the outside. In a radio speech he was resentful. No arrangements, he said, would be valid without the consent of France and such arrangements would have to include the occupation and retention of the Rhineland and the Ruhr by the French military. Whatever other partitions were made of Germany he didn't care.

The Lublin provisional government of Poland, the one of Russian nurture, has proclaimed its jurisdiction in Silesia and Pomerania—the eastern areas of Germany in which the soviet armies have the upper hand. Mr. Churchill has not recognized the Lublin government. He may even now be getting a compromise out of Stalin. That we'll know when the conferees see fit to talk about it. He has, however, conceded Germany territory to Poland in compensation for what Russia has taken and will keep.

These, as the world knows, are the rankling things which create a long term sense of injury and a smoldering desire, easily aroused by agitators, for retaliation and recovery. To guarantee title to lands so possessed requires the use of force sufficient at all times to hold down the damaged country. The present theory of peace is that Germany must be deprived of the resources which could be used for war. That's Mr. Morgenthau's idea of making the land a country of nothing but family sized farms.

Gen. de Gaulle has an alliance with Russia. He expects to get one with Great Britain. Then if some world organization for peace wants to decorate this system of alliances and accept the map which has been drawn it may be admitted as a sustaining member. These ideas confess that Europe has insoluble problems. It can't make peace. It

Timely Quotes from an Old Masterpiece

With our government encroaching more and more upon man's inherent rights, some quotations from Henry D. Thoreau's essay, "The Duty of Civil Disobedience," are timely. This essay was first published 96 years ago.

It will be remembered that Thoreau refused to pay taxes because he did not want to be a party to supporting a government that enforced slavery. He wrote this essay during the time of our war with Mexico. Thoreau was opposed to both the war with Mexico and slavery.

Here is what he says about government interference: "It (the American government) is excellent, we must all allow. Yet this government never of itself furthered any enterprise, but by the slavery with which it got out of its way. It does not keep the country free. It does not settle the West. It does not educate. The character inherent in the American people has done all that has been accomplished; and it would have done somewhat more, had the government had not sometimes got in its way."

Why a Conscience? "After all, the practical reason why, when the power is once in the hands of the people, a majority are permitted, and for a long period continue, to rule is not because they are most likely to be right, but because they seem to be the fairest to the minority, but because they are physically the strongest. But a government in which the majority rule in all cases cannot be based on justice, even as far as men understand it. Can there be a government in which majorities do not virtually decide right and wrong, but conscience?—in which majorities decide only those questions to which the rule of expediency is applicable? Must the citizen ever for a moment, or in the least degree, resign his conscience to the legislator? Why has every man a conscience, then?"

"I think we should be men first, and subjects afterward. It is not desirable to cultivate a respect for the law, so much as for the right. The only obligation which I have a right to assume is to do at any time what I think right."

Lack of Wisdom of the Leader. "We are accustomed to say, that the mass of men are unprepared; but improvement is slow, because the few are not materially wiser or better than the many. It is not so important that many should be good, as that there be some absolute goodness somewhere; for that will lighten the whole lump."

On Voting. "All voting is a sort of gaming, like checkers or backgammon, with a slight moral tinge to it, a playing with right and wrong, with moral questions, and being naturally unaccompanied by the character of the voters is not staked. I cast my vote, perchance, as I think right; but I am not vitally concerned that right should prevail. I am willing to leave it to the majority. Its obligation, therefore, never exceeds that of expediency. Even voting for the right is doing nothing for it. It is only expressing to men feebly your desire that it should prevail. A wise man will not leave the right to the mercy of chance, nor wish it to prevail through the power of the majority. There is a virtue in the action of masses of men. When the majority shall at length vote for the abolition of slavery, it will be because they are indifferent to slavery, or because there is but little slavery left to be abolished by their vote."

The Pure Secrecy of Truth. "They who know of no purer sources of truth, who have traced up its stream no higher, stand, and wisely stand, by the Bible and the Constitution, and drink at it there with reverence and humility; but they who behold where it comes trickling into this lake or that pool, stir up their lakes once more, and continue their pilgrimage toward its fountainhead."

I will quote further from this masterpiece. "Difficulties are permanent. It can't put the sword back and hang up the gun. It conceives of peace as a permanent alert maintained around a concentration camp. American relations to this situation are not good now and they are bound to get worse."

Mr. Roosevelt may be the last to admit that no one in Europe has paid any attention to his sermons except as they happened to fit other purposes for the moment. What the present conference will bring forth to improve the situation, or make it worse, is awaited. The conferees will have to be good, they'll need genius, to put a better face on what is to be called peace in Europe.

So They Say

Boy, they parted our hair in the middle! There were four of us in the foxhole and a shell scored a direct hit. But it banged a wooden box just over our heads and for some reason we pulled out all right.

Our winter offensive from Dec. 16 is now concluded. It is too bad that no other results have been gained from it but to reach our original jump-off positions—nothing more, that a short plunging expedition into Belgium.—Unmailed letter on German newspaper.

The Same Old Tale

As a perfect sample of the best of Left Wing political propaganda, President Roosevelt's message to the joint session of the United States Congress delivered on January 6. Students of politics could do better than take it as a sentence by sentence, analyzing each one, pondering its meaning and, in some cases, the double meaning properly used in the manner of twentieth-century statesmanship.

The large numbers of British Left Wing thinkers who have strained Atlantic transport, swarmed into Washington and infiltrated the whole place with our Collectivist misconceptions, have not worked in vain.

The President's main theme was the League of Nations, although he was careful to refrain from the use of that exact title. Wilson, he said in effect, was right; America's refusing to ratify the League's undertakings at Paris, was wrong. "In our disillusionment after the last war we preferred international anarchy to international co-operation with nations which did not see and think exactly as we did. We gave up the hope of gradually achieving a better peace because we had not the courage to fulfill our responsibilities in an admitted imperfect world. We must not let that happen again, or we shall follow the same tragic road again—the road to a third world war."

Believing, as I do, that the second world war would never have occurred but for the first League of Nations, I shudder to think that the President of the United States should make a third world war inevitable by setting up a second League of Nations, which would be a fruitful of dissension than the last by reason, not only of the presence of the greater multiplicity of problems, but because of the League of Nations, dominated by France, goaded Germany into Hitler. A second League of Nations, dominated, say, by Russia, cannot fail to produce more Hitler.

The President harped throughout his address on "permanent machinery for the maintenance of peace." That is, of course, the prevailing obsession. But peace is a matter of mind and is not made by machinery. The establishment of permanent machinery for the maintenance of peace simply means the multiplication of opportunities for malcontents everywhere to air their grievances, real or supposed, and an unending succession of demands for, or threats of, warfare.

His faith, rising above this plain, simple statement of experience and fact, Mr. Roosevelt naively explains, "We must be on our guard not to exploit and exaggerate the differences between us." Such hopeless aspirations of the private enterprise, the political or the military, Hitler, a Mussolini or even a Stalin, for these persons were and are in a position to control the minds of the peoples and keep them in ignorance either of the existence of a difficulty at all or of more than one side of the question. How is it possible in a democracy to prevent the exaggeration of differences? Any single column of the standard makes utter nonsense of the suggestion.

Or take this sentence, "They must now join together to make secure the independence and freedom of all." Such a phrase is worthy of our own Herbert Hoover. It conveys to the half-witted and Carlisle's dictum it not yet out of date—a sense of peace and security which is dispelled at once if the sentence is analyzed or the simple meaning of its words examined. You do not join together to secure independence and freedom. Whether in a business partnership, a marriage contract, or the trade union or the treaty between nations, in joining together there is a definite, deliberate, conscious surrender of independence and freedom. Unless that surrender is genuine, all joinings together tumble apart sooner or later. The dictator argues logically and rightly that advantages of a kind are sometimes to be secured by the deliberate surrender or suppression of independence and freedom and the same sentiment in the mouth of Mr. Roosevelt constitutes a flat denial of all that the ordinary man imagines to be the purpose of this war.

"The extraordinary advances in the means of inter-communication between peoples over the past generation offer a practical method of advancing the mutual understanding upon which peace and the institutions of peace must rest, and it is our policy and purpose to use

Peter Edson's Column:

MUSHROOM GOVERNMENT CORPORATIONS

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 21.—Tracing the development of the maze of "government corporations"—the fourth arm of government, which Senators Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Hugh Butler of Nebraska now seek to bring under control with new legislation—shows exactly how one innocent little seed of an idea for a new federal bureau can mushroom all over the place until it becomes the biggest financial aspidochelone in the world.

Back in Teddy Roosevelt's time the government took over the Panama railroad, and ran it. It was the first, and for a long time the only government corporation.

Prior to World War I all government activities were carried on in the regular departments headed by cabinet officers. But in 1916 the first federal land banks were chartered. They were privately owned, but government controlled, which seemed innocent enough.

When the United States got dragged into the first European fracas, the government corporation idea really took hold. First came the emergency fleet corporation, U. S. housing corporation, Spruce production corporation and a few others.

FEW SUCH BUREAUS IN THE 20's
All were liquidated after the war except the federal land banks and the fleet corporation, which later became the maritime commission. The 1920's were relatively free from this sort of stuff, until Herbert Hoover came along and started the inland waterways corporation while he was secretary of commerce, and the reconstruction finance corporation while he was president.

The depression really saw the government idea take hold. The national industrial recovery act gave President Roosevelt powers to create new businesses. Among his first was the commodity credit corporation, set up to borrow money from RFC and loan it to farmers. Then congress expanded CCC, gave it powers it didn't realize it was bestowing—and the next thing congress knew, here was CCC paying subsidies and making congressional farm bloc red.

Today there are 44 of these government and credit agencies doing business at pretty fancy stands. Sixteen are in the credit and banking business, nine deal in war supplies, four in insurance, four in transportation, four in construction, four in economic rehabilitation, one in power, one in retail distribution and one in publicity. This last—Pencinnadro, Inc., is a honey. Set up in the Rockefeller office, it is authorized to investigate, investigate, it can think of in the fields of communications and public relations.

LITTLE INFORMATION AVAILABLE
Granting that all these big businesses have been ably and honestly run, they still present an inherent danger because they are definitely not run in gold fish bowls and information about their operations is hard to get because they don't have to report back to congress on what they have done, what their assets are, how much they have lost or where they're going.

Incidentally, 37 of these corporations were created by congress itself, so you can see whose fault the present condition of these government really is.

The best approximate balance anybody has been able to strike on all these operations is that 35 of the government corporations show total deficits of over 15 billion dollars. It really isn't quite that bad, because about 10 billions of this will have to be charged up to the debt of the war. And the other government corporations show a total profit of 684 million dollars. Out of the Byrd-Butler bill, the George bill to separate the loan agencies from department of commerce, the second Wallace-Jones fracas, Wallace's statement that RFC should be investigated, Jones' statement that as federal loan administrator he had powers that actually scared him—there should come some healthy reforms, and that it, about high time?

WAR TODAY
By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
Little Joe Goebbels, Hitler's bull-headed propaganda minister, has been complaining that the Allies have ganged up on the Reich, and says Germany could win hands down if it could take on its enemies singly.

The last time I saw Joe he was spell-binding 50,000 people in an outdoor meeting in Berlin, just before Munich. I wasn't much impressed with his line of double-talk at the time—though he put on a good show—but it must be admitted he has something now. The Allies not only have ganged, but as I see it they're giving a remarkable display of military inferiority.

Allied activities on both Eastern and Western Fronts point to early intensification of the big squeeze on Hitlerdom. One of the most satisfactory aspects of this is that it represents a full partnership and concerted action. The Big Three are going in for the kill together.

Now barring a great emergency the Allies wouldn't be attempting an all-out offensive at this time. As I pointed out yesterday, this is the season when the Rhineland weather is at its worst—and that's mighty bad. The vital work of the tactical air-force frequently is suspended for days because of dense fog or rain—it is largely halted to day, for instance. The terrain either is a sea of mud or is under water. The Allied troops—Canadians, Klitted Scotsmen, Britons, French, Yanks—have had to fight in mud and water to their waists at times, and actually have had to use amphibious equipment in some places, which normally are not amphibious.

Despite all the General Eisenhower has kept on attacking and improving his positions in preparation for the big push, instead of waiting for decent weather with the beginning of April, only a few weeks away. The full weight of our armies is needed on the Western Front to complement the red drive.

Rundstedt may try to withdraw across the Rhine rather than make a stand on the Cologne plain. Transference of the main battle to the east side of the Rhine might prove some senseless German developments. The great Allied airborne army likely would be brought into action, for instance. Then there's another possibility, if the Germans are able to stand off the Allied advance and hang on to the Rhine, the practice some senseless German developments. Railway Planning Postwar Airline
PORT WORTH, Feb. 21.—(P)—The Texas and Pacific and the Missouri Pacific lines would sprout a five and a half million dollar pair of postwar wings for air carrier service augmenting and largely paralleling their systems. It was disclosed Monday.

The proposed Eagle Airlines Inc., was presented at the Texas-Oklahoma feeder airline hearing of the civil aeronautics board at Port Worth.

It certified by the CAB the Eagle system would serve approximately 70 towns in Texas and adjacent to the state which presently are served by the MP or the T&P.

W. H. Schaeffer of St. Louis, M-P general traffic manager, described the Eagle system as "strictly a local service," pointing out that the 15 planes which would be used in Texas would stop on an average of every 47 miles.

The session of the hearing started with windup of testimony in the Spartan airline case, which would serve Texas and Oklahoma, and was followed by the brief case of Texas bus lines, which proposes to augment its present bus routes between Houston and Galveston with air routes.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD—We're still spinning today after a taste of the Hollywood social whirl. Lana Turner's birthday party in the afternoon and a party at Deanna Durbin's house in the evening. Both eligible bachelor girls, too. And Johnson an old married guy with two kids.

So we had to be content with making passes at our notebook. The sensation of Lana Turner's birthday party was her boy friend, Turhan Bey. Turhan has taken a lot of ribbing in the press for never appearing in public without his pipe. He brought the pipe to Lana's birthday party and ate a piece of cake with his fork and pipe in the same hand without dropping a crumb.

It was Lana's 24th birthday and she cried when she saw the cake with 16 candles. But then I guess all actresses cry when they become a year older.

The cast and crew of Lana's new movie, "Weekend at the Waldorf," Turhan, and Lana's 18-month-old baby, Cheryl Christine, were all there. In her excitement, Lana kissed Turhan almost as many times as she kissed Cheryl Christine.

GYPSED
Director Robert Z. Leonard announced that he and Lana are neighbors, separated only by a couple of fairways on the Bel-Air golf course. "When she moved in," Leonard said, "I bought a pair of night glasses and trained them on her bedroom. Later I learned it was the baby's bedroom. It was a great disappointment. When I bought the house the real estate man whispered to me, 'You can see Lana Turner's bedroom.'"

It was our first visit to Deanna Durbin's home, which is one of the loveliest in Hollywood. It is so beautiful, in fact, that one of the guests commented, "Everything goes back to the studio prop department in the morning."

The festivities centered in the playroom which has the largest fireplace we've ever seen outside of Cecil B. DeMille's pictures. It covers the entire length of one wall and the fireplace itself is six feet high. (We stood in it to prove it to somebody, and darned near burned off our coatsails.)

Deanna was proudest, though, of some hand-painted Chinese wall paper in the dining room. It is removable. When you move you just peel it off, roll it up and rehang it in the new house.

ODD LIGHTS
The light fixtures in her bedroom were made of plates of an odd design and Deanna chuckled while showing them to us. "I went to a dinner party the other night," she said, "and we ate off plates with the identical design. I had a funny feeling that all of a sudden the steaks would light up."

The party broke up early—midnight—which is practically mid-afternoon in the Hollywood social whirl—because Deanna had a 7 a. m. studio call.

We were glad somebody would have had to chop down another one of those giant California redwood trees to keep that fireplace going.

Germans Trying To Destroy Evidence

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(P)—Both the Paris and Moscow radios reported that Heinrich Himmler had ordered the Gestapo to destroy all lists of party members and payrolls.

The order—presumably issued to mark the identity of party leaders after the fall of Germany—first was applied only to Eastern front towns but now has been extended to cover the whole Reich, the broadcasts said.

A SONG TO REMEMBER
Copyright, 1945, Willard Wiener. Distributed by MCA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Louis Pleyel is not interested in Frederic. He is already too much musical genius in his own right. He has just ordered Frederic and the irrepressible Josef Elsner out of his office when Franz Liszt is heard playing a piano in the salon. Frederic recognizes one of his own compositions.

XV
Henri Dupont looked at Louis Pleyel and Louis Pleyel looked at Henri Dupont. Henri Dupont shook his head. Louis Pleyel moved his shoulders. Henri Dupont, not to be outdone, moved his shoulders also.

Frederic had taken a step closer, then another until, one step and another, he was very close. "Josef Elsner's head wagged in rhythm to the music. He removed his spectacles from his nose and wiped them, although they did not require wiping."

FRANZ LISZT
The renown of Franz Liszt, that "touchy Hungarian," who as a child had been kissed by Beethoven, was spread over the world. As composer and pianist, he was a vigorous innovator. He had even dared, it was said, to play the keys with his nose! Whatever the truth of that, he had indeed explored the possibilities of the pianoforte beyond anything ever before attempted.

But his renown was not limited either to his dexterity as a pianist nor to his genius as a composer. Paris was at his feet. No woman of glamor enjoyed greater popularity. There was not a Duchess in all the France of Louis Philippe who would not have been proud to say, "Franz Liszt is mine."

The noblest, most beautiful women of Europe had sought his attention. The most talented men in music, literature and art called him friend. There was not a salon in Paris to which this bon vivant would be played.

Frederic's heart pounded. His mouth was agape. His eyes feasted from afar on Franz Liszt. It was his, Chopin's music, that was guiding the fingers of this immortal! It was the Polonaise in A-flat being played, yes, exactly as it must be played, as Frederic himself had dreamed it would be played.

Louis Pleyel, his coat-ends flying, reached the handsome virtuoso. "Maestro!" He bent low. "Pleyel," Liszt said without looking up, "who wrote this?"

Louis Pleyel turned to his secretary, "Dupont! Who wrote this?"

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

DISPUTE—Although President Roosevelt's selection of the American delegation to the San Francisco conference of United Nations was generally approved on the first announcement, second-thought democrats and republicans here now beg to differ. They doubt whether the personnel will stack up against the diplomatic bigwigs who will speak for Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Always quick to attribute political motives to F. D. R. from their twelve years' experience with him, republican leaders on Capitol Hill, especially provoked, they grumble particularly about the choice of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan and Lieutenant Commander Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota as their representatives, although for different reasons in each instance.

They point out that Mr. Vandenberg has more than three hundred thousand voters of Polish descent in his state. Should he become involved in the dispute over the partition of Poland at the San Francisco deliberations, it might cost him next year.

G. O. P.-ers also note that the man from Michigan has emerged as their party's leading spokesman on foreign questions since he proposed an immediate agreement by the Big Three for the demilitarization of Germany. At the moment he is frequently mentioned as a prospective presidential nominee in 1948. Naturally, they do not want to see their "white hope" knocked out of the running while serving under White House colors.

STASSEN—But it is the choice of Commander Stassen which really irks the gentlemen of the "loyal opposition." They regard the dragging of the former governor of Minnesota, an attempt to keep alive the republicans' family fight over the controversial question of nationalism versus internationalism.

The navy officer is looked on as the direct political heir of the late Wendell Willkie. His close friends and original supporters, Senator Joseph H. Ball, repudiated Thomas E. Dewey and supported Mr. Roosevelt in the 1944 campaign. So the G. O. P.-ers consider the Stassen selection as the "payoff."

Republicans want to hush-hush all factional disputes concerning the role the G. O. P. will assume in forthcoming battles over American participation in world affairs. In their opinion Messrs. Dewey, Vandenberg, and Saltonstall, to name a few, have embraced the major theses of the administration's foreign policy, and have cooperated fairly well. But they don't want their hand forced or old bitterness reopened. They think the presence of Mr. Stassen at San Francisco will have this effect.

Nor do they like the picking of Representative Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey. The late John D. Rockefeller's former pastor has been more of an internationalist than President Roosevelt himself. They believe he will make a commitment on these questions which go far beyond any position the party can or will take. Minority leaders dare not voice their criticisms openly. It would place them in the position of playing petty politics regarding international problems. But a stronger and more popular representation from their side of the aisle would make it easier to get congressional approval of any agreements negotiated in the city on the Golden Gate.

Peg's Plans Radio For Cab Service

C. M. (Peg) Whittle, owner of Peg's Cab, 104 W. Foster, said that he plans to feature many new services to the public as soon as war conditions permit.

Besides the replacement of most of his rolling equipment, "Peg" plans a two-way radio which will speed up the service immeasurably. Peg's Cab has been in operation in Pampa since October, 1932, "Peg" having been connected with the bus and taxicab business for 28 years. Eight taxicabs are in operation by the firm at the present time. These cabs make an average of 360 trips daily with about 100 additional calls when no cab is available. Also included in the many services offered are "wake-up" calls and information on street locations and bus schedules.

"Peg" is a member of the Knights of Pythias and is active in various city bowling leagues.

The firm's slogan—"Call 94 and Peg's Cab will be at your door."

Six's Caters to All Type Events

Catering to individuals, parties, lodges, clubs, family groups and conventions is the business of Six's Pig Stand, 830 S. Cuyler.

Mrs. Dee M. Coe assumed ownership of the business last August when the firm was 11 years old. Mrs. Coe, in the eight months she has been owner, has had the entire establishment redecorated and air conditioned and the service throughout generally improved.

The smartly uniformed waitresses employed at the firm are willing to serve the public the best in steaks, biscuits, and all kinds of delicious foods that would please the most fastidious people.

Mrs. Coe invites everyone to come down and try the delicious foods and drinks served under the clearest of conditions. Or if it is inconvenient to drop by to inquire about reservations for parties and other such functions, just telephone 1356.

Pre-Termination Planning Is Asked

Eric A. Johnston, secretary of the U. S. chamber of commerce, in the following message appeals for pre-termination planning in business.

The trend of war since last had led government and industry to reemphasize prompt and efficient production, with less attention to reconversion.

But, war contracts are being terminated daily. Quick settlements are needed to help the production desired now and later. The day of widespread termination steadily approaches and industry must be clear-headed. Prompt payments will be needed. New goods must be produced. Men must be kept employed.

Under existing conditions government agencies may not readily take the initiative in urging pre-termination planning. Prime contractors and subcontractors must approach the government officials. We are assured that government procurement and settlement officers are ready to respond.

Immense aid to victory and eventual reconversion can be given by war contractors. They should move now, everywhere, to pre-plan for termination. Let us press the government, not wait for the government to press us. Obtain from procurement agencies the necessary instructions on pre-planning, including information upon advance payments or guaranteed loans. If in doubt how to proceed, ask the National chamber.

Lend-Lease Training French Naval Forces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Lend-lease is equipping and training French naval forces policing Allied sealanes in the Mediterranean.

Asst. Navy Sec. H. Struve Hensel, reporting this to a congressional committee Tuesday, added that not only have escort vessels gone to the French through lend-lease "but their remaining combatant vessels have been repaired and refitted in our yards."

Hensel appeared before the house foreign affairs committee considering a one-year extension of the lend-lease act which expires June 30.

The French now, he said in a statement, are assuming the operation of bases established by us in the Mediterranean area.

More Care in International Lending May Be Result of Bretton Woods

The attitude of major banking groups seems to assure that more careful attention will be given to possible safeguards in international lending, and to costs to the United States under the proposed Bretton Woods program for monetary stabilization and world credits.

In effect, three banking organizations have pledged cooperation with a program assuring proper safeguards and avoidance of needless waste; but they have served notice they will oppose schemes which they consider dangerous and extravagant.

CANADIAN CHAMBER: The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has canceled its annual meeting scheduled for March 5, 6 and 7 at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec City. This action is understood to have been taken because of the prohibition by Canadian transportation authorities of gatherings of more than 50 persons where transportation was required. The Canadian section of the United States committee also canceled a meeting to have been held at Quebec City on March 2 and 3.

FOREIGN TRADE DATA: Including lend-lease exports, total exports broke all previous records and imports reached a 15-year high during 1944. Exports, not including shipments to the armed forces, were valued at slightly more than $14 billion; of this amount, lend-lease exports amounted to $11.3 billion, or 80 percent. Commerce department has just released these statistics. Total exports for the year 1943 were valued at $12.7 billion and lend-lease exports, $10.1 billion.

Non-lease or direct commercial exports in 1944 were valued at $2.8 billion and in 1943 at $2.6 billion. Lend-lease exports constituted 80 percent of total exports in 1943 and 1944; in 1942 lend-lease exports were 61 percent of the total and in 1941, 14 percent of the total exports.

By weight, out of a total of 85,300,000,000 pounds of exports, lend-lease comprised 42 percent or 35,900,000,000 pounds. Non-lease exports comprised a higher proportion of coal and bulky commodities of low value.

Wartime Service Is Shop's Goal

"Flowers of distinction" are available at almost any time for the most discriminating buyer at Parker's Blossom Shop, 406 N. Cuyler.

D. L. Parker opened his business in March, 1937, and has done his utmost to supply the citizens of Pampa with everything in cut flowers, potted plants, funeral flowers, pottery, seeds and bulbs, and miscellaneous merchandise.

Mr. Parker wishes to state that he has tried to render the best service possible under wartime restrictions. Shortages of merchandise and flowers has made this harder than in pre-war days but the shop is still able to carry a large stock of all flowers that are available.

Specialties include corsages and decorations of all kinds.

Mr. Parker is active in civic affairs, being a member of the Lions club and the Junior chamber of commerce.

Aircraft Company To Build 'Feederliner'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—An 18-passenger feeder airliner with a radically low stalling speed—57.5 mph.—will be Hughes Aircraft Co.'s first offering as a builder of commercial air transports and executive aircraft. Aviation News, McGraw-Hill publication, discloses.

"The prototype is expected to begin as soon as military production, now occupying the plant's entire facilities, is eased. The design has been identified tentatively as the 'Hughes' Feederliner," and within the Hughes organization as 'Project 16.'

"A high-wing two-engine monoplane, it is designed to a gross weight of 18,500 pounds with a 6000 horsepower load.

Performance specifications call for a top speed of 257 mph. (10,000 feet); a cruising speed of 186 mph. with 60 percent power at 5000 feet, and 57.5 mph. stalling speed that will permit safe landing at an altitude of from 500 to 1000 feet above the surrounding terrain with the airplane under full maneuvering control at a speed of 80 mph. or under.

"An unusual aspect of the Hughes design is the width of the fuselage, permitting the installation of seats four abreast with an aisle between.

"A quick-servicing feature proposed for the airplane is the underwing landing of fuel tanks by attachment of the fuel hose nozzle to a check valve installed flush with the under surface of the wing. Small-field operations, and low-speed maneuvering will be facilitated by the combined use of flaps, spoilers and allersons."

First Resting GI's Reach French Resort

By RUTH COWAN

NICE, FRANCE, Feb. 19.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Seventy-one American infantrymen blinked in the bright sunshine of this Mediterranean resort today in a general attitude of puzzlement and disbelief.

They were the first arrivals in the U. S. army's Riviera recreation area. Eventually tens of thousands of American troops will spend seven-day rest leaves in the international playground of millions. The officers' rest area is at Cannes.

French porters helped them with their barracks bags when they filed from the coaches.

"If this is the army's latest idea, it's O. K.," said Sgt. Gerald Finch of Cleveland, the first to alight.

With him was Pfc. Edward William Thompson of Brady, Texas.

After a week's rest the men will go to a training center for refresher courses as combat troops. Some with four bars on their sleeves were veterans of the North African and Mediterranean campaigns. Recently they had jobs at the headquarters of the Southern lines of communications, now disbanded.

Harvesters Win From Sandies in Overtime Game 39-38

No Evidence of Corrupt Deals Found in Report

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP)—No evidence of dishonesty or corrupt dealings has been found in college basketball games played at Madison Square garden, the department of investigation reported yesterday.

Commissioner Edgar Bromberger, who began a probe after the Brooklyn college gambling scandal broke on Jan. 29, asserted "although there have been vague rumors and intimations (of corruption) during each season that intercollegiate basketball has been established at Madison Square garden x x x there is no evidence of any dishonesty, culpable irregularity or corrupt dealings in the negotiations between the garden corporation and City college of New York and Brooklyn college, or in the conduct of the games themselves or in the financial transactions resulting therefrom."

In addition, the 40-page interim report to Mayor Fiorello La Guardia declared that the "officials in charge of the games are, according to unanimous opinion, of high character and incorruptible conduct."

Bromberger said "Two instances of apparent attempted corruption of players" were disclosed in the testimony.

William Levine, CCNY captain, testified, the report asserted, that about a week prior to the CCNY-

Pampa Will Meet Plainview in Series for District Crown

By SCOTT RAFFERTY
News Sports Writer

In an overtime contest that kept a huge crowd on its feet most of the last half, the Pampa Harvesters won the northern half championship of District 1AA by beating the Amarillo Sandies 39 to 38 last night in the Junior-high symposium.

The Harvesters will meet Plainview, winner of the southern bracket, in a series of games to decide the district title. The winner of the Pampa-Plainview series will represent 1AA in the clash with the winner of District 2AA.

The two teams were tied 37-all when the final whistle blew. Shortly after the overtime period began, Waghorn of the Sandies sank a free throw to put Amarillo ahead 38 to 37. Davis then moved in for a difficult shot a few feet from the basket and after that, the Harvesters effectively "froze" the ball.

Leroy Foster, tall Sandie forward and the district's leading scorer, increased his seven-game total to 86 points as he sparked the Sandies scoring with 18 points. Johnny Campbell combined an outstanding defensive game with a 12 point total to take top scoring laurels for Pampa.

Although Foster was clearly the Sandie star, it would be difficult to pick out a star in the Harvesters line-up. Campbell scored the most points but the scoring otherwise was evenly divided all the way around. Joe Cree kept his eye on the basket to get six with, together with his fine aggressive style of play was invaluable to the team as a whole.

Eugene Turner, also hitting the basket now, played his usual fine defensive game under the basket. Turner was up there trying all the time to knock Foster's tip-ins away but he wasn't quite tall enough.

Randall Clay played his most aggressive game of the season when he constantly went after the ball to tie it up and keep the Sandies from scoring. Randall scored his six points when they were most needed by the Harvesters.

Naturally, the hero of the game is the one that scores the winning points but when Earl Davis scored the tying, and the winning points that is something else. Davis hasn't been able to get going as far as scoring goes, against Amarillo. Two men, both taller than Davis, are kept between Davis and the basket to cut off his scoring. But last night, Davis got out from under the two men covering him for eight points.

First Quarter

Waghorn took the tip-off but Turner got the ball and was fouled by Seale. Turner missed the free throw and Foster went down to score for Amarillo, 0-2. Davis fouled Foster who made the free toss, 0-3. Turner scored from the corner, 2-3. Campbell scored from the free throw line, 4-3. Waghorn put Amarillo ahead 4-5. Campbell scored two long shots in a row, 8-5. Foster came back for the Sandies, 8-7. Davis and Williams, double foul. Davis missed his free toss but Williams was good, 8-8. Campbell fouled Foster who made it 8-9. Campbell put Pampa out in front 10-9. Cree sank one to make the score 12-9. Williams brought it up to 12-11 but Turner missed two free throws after being fouled by Williams and field goal, 27-26. Davis made it 29-26 with a field goal and Williams scored two points for the Sandies just before the quarter ended with Pampa in front 29-28.

Fourth Quarter

Foster fouled Turner whose try for free throw was good, 30-28. Carroll of the Sandies left the court on fouls. On Campbell's try for free throw, Davis inadvertently stepped over the line and it did not count. Cree fouled Seale who made the free throw, 30-29. Foster attempted two free shots but missed both. Seale scored a field goal, 30-31. Foster made a field goal and Amarillo was ahead 33 to 30 with five minutes to play. Cree scored a field goal, 32-33. Foster came back with one to make it 32-35. Seale fouled Cree who made it 33-35 with a free toss. Foster made another field goal and Amarillo was ahead 37 to 33 with less than two minutes to go. Clay got a field goal, 35-37. Baucum fouled Davis who made both free tosses, 37-37. Williams fouled Campbell but the free throw was missed. Game ended 37-37.

Overtime

Dixon of the Sandies took the tip-off. Waghorn shot and missed; Seale shot and missed and Waghorn shot again. Davis fouled Waghorn who put Amarillo ahead 38 to 37 with a free throw. Shortly after, Davis loped one in from the side and the game was on ice. The final score, Pampa 39, Amarillo 38.

Baseball Looks Into Travel Problem Today

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Baseball's representative look into the transportation situation today following an apparently satisfactory conference on manpower with War Mobilizer Byrnes.

Ford Frick and Will Harridge, major league's presidents, will end their official business here in a talk with Col. J. Monroe Johnson, office of defense transportation director.

With spring training starting early next month, the two problems—manpower and transportation—are considered the sports most pressing.

Frick and Harridge had little to say after a discussion with Byrnes. They told reporters that "we merely laid our problems before him" in facts and figures.

Frick later added that "we talked manpower on a broad scale."

Byrnes was "very friendly and courteous," Frick said, and he and Harridge looked as if the interview had been encouraging.

Byrnes had no comment.

The ODT has said that the burden on transportation will be heavier in 1945 than ever before and that restrictions must be made all along the line.
