Correction

In Friday's Reporter-Telegram it was stated that a zoning change request by developer David Shea to allow a Best Buy consumer electronics store to be built at Ward Street and Whitmire Boulevard would be brought before the City Council again at its July 27 meeting. That was incorrect. The council rejected that request at its last meeting. Shea will not be allowed to seek the change again unless he significantly alters the request, city officials said. That process would take several months, and there has been no indication that Shea would reapproach the council. A request for a zoning change by Bill Mathis at Mockingbird and Garfield will appear on the July 27 agenda. The Reporter-Telegram regrets the error.

Exempt from TASP

AUSTIN — Students will be exempt from a state college skills test if they score high enough on other exams under action taken Friday by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board. The exemption means about one in 10 incoming freshmen at state public colleges and universities no longer will be required to take the Texas Academic Skills Program test beginning this fall. The previously mandatory reading, writing and math exam is used to determine whether students are prepared for college-level work./4A

Accidental death

HOUSTON — Police said Friday a 13-year-old boy has confessed to killing his 17-year-old girlfriend, claiming he accidentally shot her while the two were waiting to ambush and murder her parents. The girl apparently concocted the murder plot because she was "upset about her parents' rules and their attempts to make her behave," homicide Sgt. C.E. Elliott said. But the scheme went awry when a quarrel erupted between the two youths, and the girl was shot, he said./6A

Floods break major levee

River charges through city, closes key bridge

■ Break triggers explosion at gas station, flames spread across flowing water as volunteers worked to reinforce levees.

Associated Press

The surging Mississippi River charged through a levee Friday night at West Quincy, Mo., closing the only bridge across the river to Illinois for more than 200 miles. The city's residents were ordered to flee.

The break was a defeat for the hundreds of volunteers who had worked feverishly to reinforce the levees near the Bayview Bridge, which had been the last open link between St. Louis and Burlington.

The surging water apparently triggered an explosion and fire at a gas station, said Fire Chief Roy Hark. Flames spread across the flowing water.

The levee was the latest to give way along the rain-swollen Mississippi and Missouri rivers, which have pushed out of their banks for weeks, flooding towns and farmland throughout the Midwest.

Ken Garner of the Army Corps of Engineers was in a helicopter checking levees when it burst. He said they searched for workers that might have been stranded on the levees, but didn't spot any.

"It was just a tremendous, awesome, terrible event," he said.

Keith Moseley said he arrived shortly after the levee broke.

"When we got here there was one barge coming through and other another right along the levee end," Moseley told CNN. "You could hear the trees crashing and another barge coming through."

Italy retreats from its threat to pull troops

ROME (AP) — Seeking to save face in an embarrassing row with the U.N., Italy retreated Friday from its threat to withdraw its soldiers from Somalia, but insisted that it would not bow to U.N. pressure for the removal of its commander there.

At the same time, diplomats and officials here said, there were growing indications that Italian forces in Mogadishu had come to be regarded as partial in the conflict, favoring the fugitive warlord, Gen. Mohamed Farah Aidid, over his foes.

Italian forces received and returned fire Thursday night with gunmen in an area of the Mogadishu controlled by Ali Mahdi Mohamed, Aidid's chief opposition. Reporters in the Somali capital said the Italian forces had been accused in a letter from Ali Mahdi's supporters of being "secretly married" to Aidid.

The dispute blew into open crisis Thursday when Italy threatened to pull out of Somali operation altogether unless U.N. clarified its role there.

The 2,600-member Italian contingent is the third largest after the United States and Pakistan in the 23-nation U.N. force in Somalia, and tension has been building for weeks between the Italians and the force's other commanders, most of whom are American.

The dispute blew into an open crisis Thursday when Italy, angered by a U.N. official's statement that the Italian commander, Gen. Bruno Loi, would be sent home, threatened to pull out of the Somali operation altogether unless the U.N. clarified its role there.

WASHINGTON (NYT) — The White House said Friday that President Clinton had agreed with the Pentagon, the Justice Department and the Joint Chiefs of Staff on a plan to allow homosexuals to serve in the military as long as they do not aggressively display their homosexuality or engage in homosexual conduct.

Senior Pentagon and White House officials said the accord, which was denounced Friday by gay-rights advocates, came together in the past two days in a flurry of meetings between President Clinton, Defense Secretary Les Aspin, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and a bevy of lawyers from the Justice Department and Pentagon.

Police squelch race-war plot with arrests of 8 supremacists

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A white supremacist plot to start a race war by bombing a black church, spraying its members with machine-gun fire and killing Rodney King and other well-known blacks was smashed with the arrests of eight people, authorities said Thursday.

A federal and local task force made the arrests in four Southern California counties and seized a large arsenal of guns and pipe bombs, Nazi paraphernalia and pictures of Adolf Hitler.

One of the eight was arrested as he was preparing a letter bomb to be sent to a rabbi, authorities said.

FBI agent Charlie Parsons told a news conference the plotters wanted to "help start a race war. That was their motivation."

"We prevented despicable and violent acts from occurring," he said.

Besides King, others potential targets allegedly mentioned were leaders of the NAACP and the Ur-

200 hold town meeting to support two boys accused of killing abusive father

By Ellen Knickmeyer
Associated Press Writer

RUSH SPRINGS, Okla. — Two hundred people — one in six in this farm town — filled a school auditorium for an unusual town meeting. With some crying and others denouncing authorities, they gathered in support of two boys accused of killing their abusive father as he slept.

The brothers — ages 12 and 15 — were driven to shooting Lonnie Dutton because of his alleged sexual abuse of their 10-year-old sister, attorneys and relatives said.

At the meeting, residents said fear of Dutton kept them from helping his children almost as much as it kept the children from asking for help.

"I want the boys to know that we support them and understand they were in a situation where they thought that was the only way out," school principal Bill

WEATHER WATCH

Today, hot, chance of showers

Staff report

Today's forecast is partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms, a high in the mid-90s and southeast winds 10-20 mph, according to the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Tonight is predicted to be partly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms and a low near 70.

Sunday's forecast is partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms and a high in the low 90s.

Yesterday's high was 95, compared to the record high of 105, set in 1989. The record low for today's date is 60, set in 1936, the NWS said.

STATE

Scattered thunderstorms were reported over the Permian Basin and Big Bend regions Friday. Otherwise, mostly sunny skies prevailed in West Texas.

Temperatures ranged from 94 degrees in Wink to 79 degrees at Guadalupe Pass. Elsewhere, temperatures were in the mid-80s to lower 90s.

Today's forecast calls for partly to mostly cloudy skies with widely scattered thunderstorms over the entire region. Highs today will be in the 80s and 90s; lows will be in the 60s and 70s.

An upper-level, low-pressure system over the western Gulf of Mexico caused some showers over portions of South Texas Friday. Elsewhere, skies were partly cloudy. Southeast winds were 10 to 20 mph.

THREAT: Italy to leave troops in Somalia

(From 1A)

Three Italian soldiers were killed in an ambush in Mogadishu two weeks ago and after an American helicopter gunship attack in the capital Monday, Italy had urged a suspension of combat operations, expressing concern that Somalia was sliding back into a civil war that would draw in the Italian troops who were sent on what was intended to be a relief mission.

As strains widened between Italy and the United States and the U.N., the Italian government sent two envoys to Mogadishu on Thursday. One of them, Gen. Bruno Buscemi, the deputy chief of staff, said Friday that there was "no concrete possibility" at present of an Italian withdrawal from Somalia or redeployment of the Italian soldiers outside Mogadishu.

A pullout would mean a humiliating acknowledgment of failure in Italy's new policy of expanding its participation in joint security operations in the wake of the Cold War. At present, Italy has soldiers serving under U.N. auspices in Mozambique, and has sent troops to Albania to distribute relief supplies. Its air bases also play a central role in NATO monitoring operations over Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Buscemi said Italy would not heed the U.N. call for Loi's removal. "They asked for Loi's head at a moment of clear emotion," the Italian news agency, ANSA, quoted him as saying in Mogadishu.

The Italian role in Somalia has been particularly sensitive because of differences with what is depicted here as confrontational tactics employed by American forces to avenge the killing on June 5 of 24 Pakistani soldiers.

HELP: Town supports boys accused of murder

(From 1A)

Chambers said at Thursday night's town meeting held to organize support for the boys.

"But at the same time I want to send a strong message that we don't condone solving problems with violence," Chambers said. "We want the boys to know that, too."

As a show of support, many wore blue ribbons in the auditorium, where silent, tense boys the ages of Dutton's oldest sons sat apart from the parents and couples filling the room.

The townspeople applauded when Assistant District Attorney Robert Beal said the boys would not be charged as adults unless the known evidence changed drastically.

They were silent when Beal said prosecutors would seek to keep bond for the two at $25,000, and probably would charge them with first-degree murder.

Prosecutors say the boys shot Dutton, 39, with a deer rifle as he napped on the couch. One allegedly held the rifle at his father's head while the other pulled the trigger.

Dutton's other two children, the 10-year-old girl and an 8-year-old boy, have been turned over to an aunt.

Dutton's sister from Louisiana told the southwestern Oklahoma residents her brother had been abusing the children since they were babies — beating them if they did not respond to the commands signaled by his look or lifted eyebrow, beating them if she said "Hi" to them.

"They learned, 'If I cry, I get hurt,' " Linda Munn said. "They learned not to tell. They knew better then to say anything to anybody."

Adults — like her grown sons — feared Dutton as well, Ms. Munn said.

"I would get furious and say, 'Why don't you tell?' and they'd say, 'Mama, he'd kill us,' " she said.

"One of the things that need to be brought out is a lot of people were very afraid of my brother, including me," she said. People applauded in agreement.

Relatives and people in town said they did muster the courage to tell authorities, many times.

WATER: Flood breaks levee, closes bridge

(From 1A)

The flooding spread Friday as heavy rains sent a river through Fargo, N.D., where 75,000 people were told not to bathe or flush toilets because the city's sewage system was swamped. Much more rain was expected in the Dakotas and Minnesota in coming days.

Miles to the south, the Mississippi and Missouri rivers washed together 20 miles upstream from their normal junction after a levee broke on a thin peninsula north of St. Louis. Military trucks were used to rescue some residents who had defied evacuation orders.

"It's all over," said Jim Buescher, chief of the Marthasville Volunteer Fire Department. "We are prepared for the very, very worst. We are moving stuff to higher ground. We've got a few hours before we get major water here in town."

Months of above-average rainfall led to flooding that began in early June in Minnesota and Wisconsin and has been blamed for 26 deaths and at least $5 billion in damage throughout the Midwest.

The latest death came Friday. An Iowa National Guardsman in Des Moines was electrocuted when an antenna he was helping erect fell over and touched a high-voltage line, said Lt. Col. Robert King, a Guard spokesman. The antenna was for communications with water trucks.

The prolonged flooding was disrupting cargo shipments nationwide.

There was no sign the rain was letting up. On Friday, thunderstorms battered parts of North Dakota, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska. Locally heavy downpours were forecast.

And a shift Thursday in the jet stream, which had been stable for nearly two months, meant that the Dakotas and Minnesota could expect more intense thunderstorms throughout at least the next week.

Anyone with that bit of unusual talent is invited to audition.

Field producer Brady Connell is looking for family humor, father and son jokes, mother and daughter skits and funny costumed hijinks, in addition to the show's search for unique impressions, sound effects, lip-syncing, unusual physical comedy, novel singing and dance routines, original rap songs, fun with props and "just wacky stuff."

The producers hints for those planning to audition include: think visually; keep it short; don't imitate what's been on the show; when doing impressions try those that are out of character like President Bill Clinton doing the weather; and the show likes putting family members together on camera, such as, Dad tells the joke, child gives punch line and mother and daughter do a funny rap song.

Connell and his television crew are working with KMID TV, Channel 2, and KNFM.

LOCAL/AREA REPORTS

■ Possession

ANDREWS — An Andrews man was in jail Friday night after being charged with felony possession of marijauna, according to police.

Joe Anthony Gamboa, 33, was arrested following a search of a residence, police said. The search turned up about a half pound of marijuana with an estimated street value of $500, according to the report.

Bond was set at $35,000 for felony possession of marijuana and $35,000 for violation of the Texas Controlled Substances Stamp Act, records show.

Investigators of the Permian Basin Drug Task Force, along with the Andrews County Sheriff's Office, and the Andrews Police Department executed the search warrant at 502 North East 4th St.

The search was conducted about to 4 p.m. Wednesday.

■ Drug bust

The Permian Basin Drug Task Force, on a tip from Crimestoppers, searched an east Midland residence and found 20 pounds of marijuana Friday.

A house and three cars were seized following the search, executed on a warrant about 11 a.m., according to the police report.

Also seized were an automatic firearm and $1,300 in cash, police said.

According to Sgt. Terry Lowe of Crimestoppers, the crime is a more serious offense since the house is located within 1,000 feet of a school, Lee Freshman High School.

No arrests had been made at press time. Officers declined to identify the location of the house in order not to hamper further arrests.

■ Marijuana

A routine traffic violation stop Wednesday afternoon resulted in the arrest of two Mexican nationals and the confiscation of more than 62 pounds of marijuana, according to officials.

At about 1:15 p.m. Wednesday, Midland County Sheriff's Deputy Dale Burns stopped a 1979 Ford Thundbird bearing Oklahoma license plates.

The Ford, traveling eastbound on Interstate Highway 20, was stopped near mile marker 137. After the occupants consented to having the car searched, Burns — and other deputies of the patrol division — found 62.5 pounds of marijuana with an estimated street value of $100,800, according to the report.

Arrested and charged with aggravated possession of marijuana over 50 pounds were Valentine Gonzales Alvarado, 34, of Ojinaga, Mexico, and Zacarias Moya Leyva, 23, also of Ojinaga.

Alvarado's bond was set at $150,000 for possession of marijuana, records show. He was also wanted on a 1982 felony warrant out of Victoria for unauthorized use of a vehicle, according to the report.

Leyva's bond was set at $150,000 for possession of marijuana, according to the report.

MC to offer new technology degree

Reporter-Telegram Austin bureau

AUSTIN — Midland College soon will be able to offer a new degree in environmental technology.

The state Higher Education Coordinating Board gave final approval Friday for the Associate of Applied Science degree, which will prepare students for careers in the emerging field of environmental sciences.

Students will be able to choose between a one-year certification or two-year associate degree.

Currently, there are no other programs of this type in the state offered by a community college.

Midland College estimates an initial enrollment of 20-25 students in the fall of 1993, increasing to 30-40 in 1994.

The program will require the hiring of a program director/instructor. It also will use part-time instructors.

A report by the higher education board staff said the field is emerging as an important one for jobs in Texas, particularly in areas related to the oil and gas industry.

Possible 'Africanized' bee swarm kills elderly Texas rancher

WESLACO (AP) — An elderly rancher in Starr County died shortly after being swarmed by honeybees very likely of the aggressive "Africanized" variety, bee researchers said Friday.

"Preliminary results indicate a high probability of Africanized bees," said Stormy Sparks, said entomologist Stormy Sparks of the Texas A&M Agricultural Extension Service in Weslaco.

If confirmed, it would be the first person killed by Africanized bees, sometimes dubbed "killer bees," in the United States since the strain migrated into Texas in 1990.

"They were very aggressive, very aggressive," said Waylon Chandler, who killed the bees Friday and brought samples back to the Weslaco lab. "In other words, if you make the wrong move they will cover you in a matter of seconds."

The county sheriff's department said Lino Lopez, 82, was declared dead on arrival at Starr County Memorial Hospital on Thursday afternoon.

Autopsy results were not available Friday, the sheriff's department said.

Sparks said researchers at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Honeybee Lab in Weslaco measured the bees Friday afternoon to determine whether they were Africanized or the more common, less aggressive European variety.

"Most of them measured out African," Sparks said. "Some bees measured out purely European and some bees measured out purely African."

The hive appeared to have once been a European variety, but it apparently had been taken over by Africanized bees through crossbreeding during swarmings, he said.

"That's something that we have been trying to warn people about for three years now. Just because the bees have been there for a long time, don't assume that they are going to stay European," Sparks said.

The hive showed evidence of the transformation with larger, European-sized combs on older sections and smaller, African-sized combs on newer sections, Chandler said.

"This would be the first death attributed to Africanized bees in the United States if it turns out that these bees were Africanized," said Robert Norton, director of information at the Agricultural Research Service in Greenbelt, Md.

Chandler said the victim apparently had doused a burlap sack with diesel fuel, set it ablaze at the end of a stick and tried to burn the bees out of a wall in an abandoned home at his ranch in remote brush country, about 30 miles north of Rio Grande City.

Chandler estimated there were some 60,000 bees in the hive.

Africanized bees look much like European bees, though a little smaller, but they are much more likely to swarm invaders of their nests.

Norton said the bee samples also will be tested at the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service office in Harlingen on Saturday morning.

Lopez's son told the state health department that a hive had been in the building for two years, said Jesus Munoz of the agency's district office in Harlingen.

Governor appoints Odessan to board

Reporter-Telegram Austin bureau

AUSTIN — Gov. Ann Richards on Friday announced the appointment of Betsy Triplett-Hurt of Odessa to the state Board of Public Health.

She will serve a term ending Feb. 1, 1997. The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

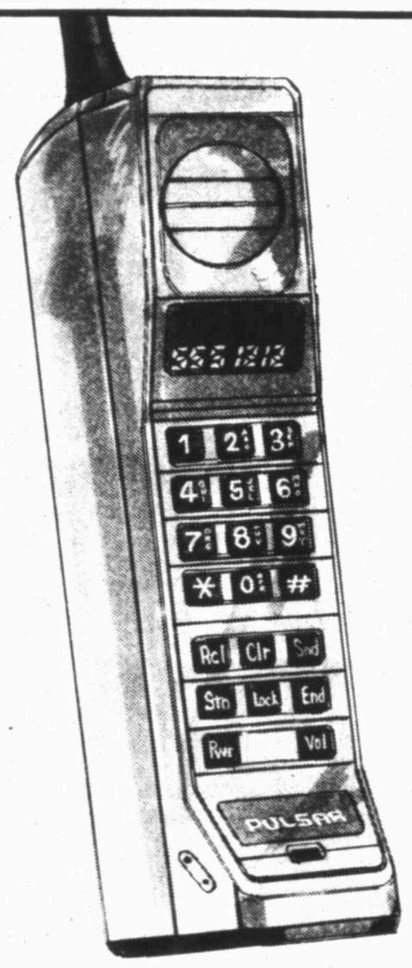

Ms. Triplett-Hurt, 42, is in the ranching and real estate business and holds a bachelor's degree from Texas Tech University. She is a former president of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce and former trustee of the Art Institute of the Permian Basin. She is a member of the Texas Lyceum Association, serves on the Odessa Zoning Board, Odessa Rape Crisis Center board of directors and Odessa Salvation Army Advisory Board.

The six-member board was created by the 72nd Legislature to oversee administration of the Department of Public Health.

Other appointments were Stephen L. Tatum of Fort Worth, William A. Scott of Houston, Ramiro R. Casso of McAllen, Ruth F. Stewart of San Antonio and David L. Collins of Missouri City.

Board changes testing requirements

AUSTIN (AP) — Students will be exempt from a state college skills test if they score high enough on other exams under action taken Friday by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

The exemption means about one in 10 incoming freshmen at state public colleges and universities no longer will be required to take the Texas Academic Skills Program test beginning this fall.

The previously mandatory reading, writing and math exam is used to determine whether students are prepared for college-level work. Those who fail any test section must take remedial courses to improve their skills.

The TASP was created after college officials complained about students who could not do college-level work. It has been given since 1989. Students could not enroll in junior- or senior-level courses before passing it.

But the Legislature this year ordered the Coordinating Board and State Board of Education to set standards exempting top students. Lawmakers said those students were being tested excessively.

So the Coordinating Board voted Friday to exempt students who score:

— 1,200 or higher on the Scholastic Aptitude Test and have scores of least 550 on both the verbal and math sections of the exam;

— 29 or higher on the American College Test, with minimum scores on the English and math sections of 27 required; or

— 1,800 or better on each part of the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills.

"These are very, very conservative standards," said Joan Matthews, Coordinating Board director of special projects. She said that was to ensure students who need extra help aren't exempt.

The exemptions are based on a study by Paul Kelley, director of the Measurement and Evaluation Center at the University of Texas.

Methodist women attend conference

Staff report

United Methodist Women from St. Paul United Methodist Church in Midland recently attended the Northwest Texas Conference Mission Education Events held at South Plains College in Levelland.

A workshop was included in this year's school led by Freddie Nixon and Sandy Ruby.

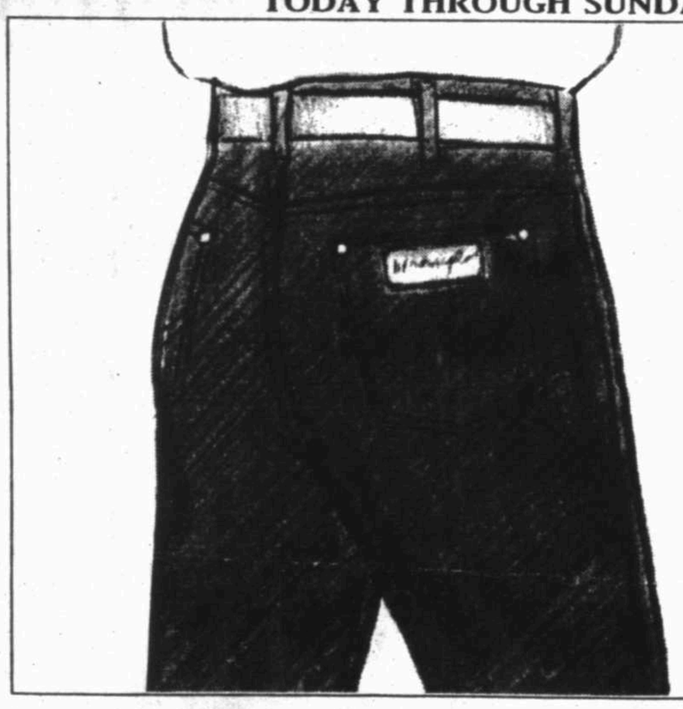

The studies for 1993-94 are "Matthew," "The Caribbean," and "Global Economics." The leaders for "Matthew" were Mary Lou Blakeman and Leta Gorham. Connie Takamine led the study on "Global Economics." The leaders on "The Caribbean" were Rev. Hector Grant and Mary Weathers.

A special children's study on "The Caribbean" and activities were provided with Madeline Boadle and Jacque Mauch as leaders.

PLAN: Clinton agrees on gays in military policy, officials say

(From 1A)

However, Rep. Barney Frank, a gay congressman who had once accepted the idea of a compromise, appealed to Clinton to stick to his pledge to lift the ban outright, even if it means defeat in Congress.

But, faced with strong congressional opposition to the idea of simply lifting the ban, Clinton has moved toward a compromise drawn up by Defense Secretary Les Aspin after consulting chiefs of the military services, officials said.

Rep. Gerry E. Studds, D-Mass., wrote Clinton that Defense Secretary Les Aspin's draft "is at odds with the fundamental premise of our shared commitment to change this unjust policy."

Studds, along with Frank, has been working with the administration in an effort to come up with a compromise policy.

Clinton is expected to announce the new policy — which will consist of a two-page executive order and an appendix of guidelines for implementation — on Monday or Tuesday, as soon as the Justice Department gives him its final assurances that the policy is defensible in court and some last-minute refinements are completed.

White House officials acknowledged that the plan fell short of Clinton's campaign pledge to unconditionally lift the ban on homosexuals serving in the military, but they said it was the best they could produce given the resistance of the military chiefs and congressional conservatives. And they said it was an important start toward futher relaxation of the 50-year-old ban.

But the officials also said that even under the new policy, any homosexual who does not want to be discreet would be better off not entering the armed services.

The Clinton plan is dubbed by officials, "Don't ask, don't tell and don't pursue." "Don't ask" means that recruits will no longer be asked about their sexual orientation. But "Don't tell" is much more complicated, and the agreement finally resolves that question of what it means to identify oneself as a homosexual, a question that had bedeviled Clinton and his advisers for months.

Formally, the plan says homosexual servicemen and servicewomen may not "tell" about their sexual orientation or conduct. But gay soldiers and sailors will be given limited room to express their sexual identity by the "Don't pursue" policy, which sets strict guidelines that make it difficult for officers to pursue accusations of homosexuality without strong evidence of repeated homosexual conduct or ostentatious display.

The net effect of this loose form of pursuit is to create an implicit "private zone" for homosexuals to live discreetly, an aide to the president said.

For instance, a mere private declaration of homosexuality would not trigger an investigation, nor would drinking in a gay bar or marching in a gay parade. Only a pattern of "credible information" about the open expression of homosexual identity or open homosexual conduct by a serviceman or servicewoman would be allowed to trigger such an investigation, officials said.

Even then, commanders will be urged to use common sense, discretion and keep in mind the limited resources for such investigations, officials said.

Nevertheless, Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., one of the first open homosexuals willing to accept a compromise, announced Friday that he could not approve of this draft plan, saying: "The victims of the prejudice would rather lose with the president on their side than win a small gain with him being perceived as having moved away."

In addition, several major gay-rights groups said they have given up on influencing the policy through the president and will instead fight it through the courts as soon as it is implemented, most likely Oct. 1.

"We intend to bring a lawsuit immediately after it is announced on grounds that it violates both the constitutional provision for equal protection under the law and the First Amendment right of free speech," William Rubenstein, director of the American Civil Liberties Union's lesbian and gay rights project said Thursday.

STOP: Police smash race-war effort

ban League; Nation of Islam Minister Louis Farrakhan; the Rev. Al Sharpton, a New York activist; Danny Bakewell of the Brotherhood Crusade of Los Angeles; and rap music stars.

The arrests resulted from a 1½-year investigation in which agents infiltrated several white supremacist groups, including the Fourth Reich Skin Heads, the White Aryan Resistance and the Florida-based Church of the Creator.

Authorities said the agent who infiltrated the Fourth Reich Skin Heads was introduced to the group by an informant posing as a clergyman for a white supremacist church.

Of the eight people arrested, only one — Christopher David Fisher, 20, of Long Beach — was charged specifically with conspiring to attack and destroy the First African Methodist Episcopal Church, a major religious hub for blacks in South Central Los Angeles.

Fisher was identified as the leader of the Fourth Reich Skin Heads, whose members included at least 18 minors, authorities said.

Five other adults were charged with weapons offenses: Geremy Rineman, 22, and Jill Scarborough, 22, both of Orange County; Josh Lee, 23, of Costa Mesa; and Chris Nadal, 35, and his wife, Doris Nadal, 42, of Los Angeles.

Two unidentified minors also were arrested, but the charges weren't disclosed.

Fisher, Lee and the Nadals appeared in court in handcuffs Thursday for a hearing before Magistrate Judge R.J. Groh Jr.

The three men were ordered held without bail and told to return to court July 29 for another hearing and Aug. 2 for arraignment.

Mrs. Nadal, who was freed on $25,000 bail, was ordered to appear in court for an Aug. 4 hearing and an Aug. 9 arraignment.

Court appearances weren't immediately scheduled for Rineman and Scarborough.

U.S. Attorney Terree Bowers said prosecutors were reviewing the evidence and may charge others with plotting to blow up the church and kill King, the black motorist who was beaten by white police officers in 1991. The acquittals of four officers in a state trial triggered last year's riots.

Boy, 13, says he killed girlfriend while waiting to ambush parents

HOUSTON (AP) — Police said Friday a 13-year-old boy has confessed to killing his 17-year-old girlfriend, claiming he accidentally shot her while the two were waiting to ambush and murder her parents.

The girl apparently concocted the murder plot because she was "upset about her parents' rules and their attempts to make her behave," homicide Sgt. C.E. Elliott said.

But the scheme went awry when a quarrel erupted between the two youths, and the girl was shot, he said.

"This is definitely strange," Elliott said.

When Raymond Hughes found his daughter's body in the family's back yard Wednesday afternoon and discovered that some items were missing, police thought Mary Hughes was killed after surprising a burglar.

But Elliott said the investigation soon led detectives to the boy, who was arrested Thursday on charges of murder and conspiracy to commit capital murder and turned over to the Harris County Juvenile Probation Department.

Harvey Hetzel, the department's deputy director, said Friday he could not discuss the boy's case, but he noted that the District Attorney's office will decide what "course of action to take." The boy's name was not released because he is a juvenile.

Elliott said the boy told police that he and Miss Hughes were armed and waiting in the back yard for her father and adopted mother to return home when they began to argue.

The boy said his rifle accidentally discharged.

Rollover accident sends 2 to hospital

Staff report

ODESSA — Two Midland men were transported to the hospital following a rollover accident at 5:30 p.m. Thursday afternoon, police said.

Brian George Matschull, 20, was driving a white 1986 GMC pickup and towing a trailer with a forklift on it. He was headed eastbound on 2600 E. Interstate 20 when the trailer began swerving left to right, causing the pickup to roll over once, according to the report.

Police said Matschull and his passenger, Alfredo Madrid, 21, were both transported to Medical Center Hospital, where they were treated and released.

They were wearing seatbelts, according to the report.

Comptroller plans taxation workshop

Reporter-Telegram Austin bureau

AUSTIN — The state comptroller's office will hold a "truth-in-taxation" workshop on property taxes in Midland Aug. 4, Comptroller John Sharp announced Friday.

The meeting, one of 15 regional workshops planned around the state, will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Chaparral Hall at Midland College, 3600 N. Garfield.

Sharp siad the meeting will help explain Texas' tax laws and the impact of recent legislation.

"The state's truth-in-tax laws are designed to ensure that taxpayers know about proposed property tax increases and how they may register their views," Sharp said. "Texas' taxing units must follow specific steps when adopting local property tax rates."

Sharp said the laws are complicated, and approval of the new school finance plan changed some requirements.

He said staff members will explain the steps to calculate effective and rollback tax rates, publish newspaper ads, conduct public hearings, adopt 1993 tax rates and procedures to roll back or limit a tax rate.

Interested parties also can contact the comptroller's property tax division technical assistance hotline at 1-800-252-9121.

Some Germans worry about their U.N. troops in Somalia

BONN, Germany (AP) — Two months after the first German soldiers donned their U.N. blue berets in Somalia, calls are growing for their withdrawal before they get mixed up in fighting.

Germany, plagued by its military past, launched its first overseas deployment since World War II only because of the humanitarian nature of the U.N. mission in Somalia.

But the country was shocked by the murder of German photographer Hansi Krauss and three other foreign journalists by a Somali mob on Monday, and by a rebel rocket attack on Mogadishu airport two days later that sent nine German soldiers scrambling for cover.

Krauss, a Berlin-based photographer with The Associated Press, has become a national symbol for the chaos afflicting Somalia. German newspapers have run many stories about his grisly murder.

Newspapers are filled with bitter debate over whether the United Nations is acting more like a pistol-toting sheriff than an organization come to save lives.

Many Germans are appalled by reports of civilians dying in attacks by U.S. helicopters against Somali rebels. Italy, which has had three soldiers killed in Somalia, has criticized military operations in its former African colony and at one point hinted it might pull out its 2,400 soldiers.

Dieter Vogel, chief spokesman for Chancellor Helmut Kohl, said Friday the government has no plans to stop deploying 1,700 troops for the U.N. peacekeeping operation.

Cuba to remain socialist, push free enterprise

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Cuba's chief economic planner told foreign businessmen Friday that this communist nation is pursuing a wider economic opening to the West, but not at the expense of socialism.

Carlos Lage, speaking to a conference on foreign investment, said Cuba remains a socialist and central-run economy. But he pointed out that the country has a small private sector, which it will continue to nurture.

The private sector is growing faster than the centrally run system, he said. "Up to what point it will grow, up to what size, I cannot say."

The comments were widely interpreted by the visitors as a signal that Cuba would pursue an increasingly pragmatic economic policy in a bid to revive its battered economy.

Lage, the Communist Party's economic chief, said the country would continue with economic reforms like those announced Thursday, when Cuba said it would welcome foreign banks and allow Cuban citizens to hold foreign currency.

Economists say the moves could tempt Cuban exiles in the United States into sending hundreds of millions of dollars to relatives in Cuba despite U.S. restrictions on such transfers.

Some 80 businessmen and consultants, many from the United States, were drawn to Havana for the meeting, sponsored by the London-based magazine Euromoney.

"Like it or not, Cuba simply must come to terms with the West," Sir Lynden Pindling, former prime minister of the Bahamas, told the conference of mostly U.S. businessmen a day before participants flew here from Mexico.

Ethnic Russians vote on Estonian secession ballot

NARVA, Estonia (AP) — Estonia's two main ethnic Russian communities, angered by new Estonian laws that limit their political and civil rights, voted Friday on whether to break away from the Baltic country.

The autonomy ballots are the latest stage in the dispute between the government and Estonia's large Russian minority over the future of ethnic Russians in the former Soviet republic.

The balloting does not, however, seem to foreshadow a threat to Estonia's integrity. The goal of the referendums seemed less to achieve autonomy than to force changes in despised laws.

Balloting was held in the border city of Narva and the nearby city of Sillamae, which is 98 percent Russian. First results are not expected before Sunday.

"This referendum will give us a foundation for finally getting equal rights in Estonia," said Vladimir Chuikin, the chairman of the Narva City Council, a former Communist and the driving force behind the referendum.

Ethnic Russians make up about one-third of Estonia's 1.6 million people. Most came during Soviet rule, which ended with Estonia's 1991 declaration of independence, and did not get automatic citizenship.

"I voted 'yes' because I feel humiliated in this country," said Nina Kurova, a 61-year-old Russian pensioner. "We need to have life like it used to be under the Soviet Union. Autonomy will help us."

A law adopted three weeks ago classifies most ethnic Russians as foreigners

MOSCOW (AP) — Ukraine is opening a nuclear "Pandora's box" by claiming possession of the atomic weapons on its soil, a Russian Foreign Ministry spokesman said Friday.

Spokesman Sergei Yastrzhembsky said Russia viewed with "alarm" a formal declaration by Ukraine claiming control of the nuclear arms on its territory.

He said Russia "threatens no country" and stands ready to guarantee Ukraine's security. Russia is also ready to take care of destroying or dismantling the weapons.

Yastrzhembsky called Ukraine's declaration "tantamount to opening a Pandora's box. It will give a green light to the emergence of other nuclear states."

While saying it wants to be a nuclear-free nation eventually, Ukraine has yet to ratify accords on nuclear disarmament or nonproliferation. It demands security guarantees and huge sums from the West to pay for dismantling its weapons.

Ukraine inherited enough missiles, warheads and bombers when the Soviet Union folded to make it the world's third largest nuclear power.

But it did not get the codes and controls that would enable it to use them.

Parliament's formal declaration of ownership of the weapons this month came against a background of rising friction with Russia over the fate of the Black Sea fleet, the price of oil and gas Russia sells to Ukraine and other thorny issues.

"Where is this leading?" Yastrzhembsky asked. "Maybe Ukraine is threatened by somebody and is preparing for nuclear war."

Ukraine has 46 SS-24 long-range missiles capable of carrying 10 warheads each and 130 SS-19s capable of carrying six each. It also has 21 Bear-H and 16 Blackjack bombers, which carry long-range cruise missiles.

Mexico arranges transportation for stranded Chinese boat people

ENSENADA, Mexico (AP) — Police, the navy and buses stood ready in this port city Friday as Mexico's government agreed to handle 658 weary Chinese who have been adrift in the Pacific for more than three months.

Mexican officials made elaborate arrangements in the hopes of getting the Chinese in and out of Mexico quickly, said Jorge Medina Viedas, chief spokesman for the Mexican Interior Ministry.

Mexico, pressured to take the Chinese by the United States, was trying to avoid a repeat of an incident in May when desperate Chinese aliens who had been captured in Ensenada later broke free at a Mexicali airport and sprinted toward the U.S. border.

A State Department official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said anyone determined to be a genuine political refugee "will be brought to the United States to pursue that claim."

The latest Chinese boat people seeking to enter the United States have been in international waters off the coast of Mexico since the U.S. Coast Guard intercepted their three rusty, dilapidated ships July 6.

Mexican officials made elaborate arrangements in hopes of getting Chinese in and out of Mexico quickly.

Five Mexican navy boats were waiting in the country's territorial waters, which extend 12 miles off the Baja California coast, Medina said.

Plans called for escorting the Chinese into the Ensenada port for examination by doctors and immediately placing them on 28 buses bound for Tijuana's international airport. About 250 federal, state, and local Mexican police were brought in to line the 60-mile route in 50 vehicles to prevent escapes, Medina said.

Mexican officials were scrambling to find enough airplanes to immediately fly the Chinese back to their homeland from Tijuana, Medina said.

U.S. immigration officials had interviewed the Chinese aliens on Thursday, but it was not clear if any had been given the opportunity to apply for political asylum in the United States.

Mexico will not give any of the Chinese political asylum, Medina said.

Chinese officials in Mexico have agreed to take back all of the passengers on the boats, Medina said. Mexico has said it will confiscate the boats, arrest the crew and prosecute them on smuggling charges.

The United States had asked Mexico to take in the Chinese because allowing them to reach U.S. soil would qualify them to apply for political asylum.

Peace talks: Jerusalem is key question

JERUSALEM (NYT) — The head of the Palestinian delegation to the Middle East peace talks warned Friday that negotiations would go nowhere unless Israel gives up the eastern half of Jerusalem, which it captured in the 1967 war and has since annexed.

If Israel's position does not change, "it will kill the peace process," Dr. Haidar Abdel-Shafi, a physician from Gaza, said at a conference in East Jerusalem. "The important thing is that Israel should concede the Palestinian right in Jerusalem."

Palestinians want to make East Jerusalem the capital of a hoped-for future state, a goal that runs headlong into Israel's insistence that the city will remain its unified capital forever and that the subject is not open for discussion.

Officials from Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin on down have warned that a sure way to scuttle the peace talks is to demand that Jerusalem's status be put on the bargaining table, a position supported by the United States in regard to the present negotiations over an interim form of Palestinian self-rule in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

While Abdel-Shafi's remarks were not new, they cast a somber note over the negotiations at a time when new ideas have begun to surface for breaking an Israeli-Palestinian impasse that is serious enough to have persuaded Secretary of State Warren Christopher to come to the region this month on a rescue mission.

Palestinians and Israelis have both raised the possibility of forming a confederation between the Palestinians and Jordan, and Foreign Minister Shimon Peres reportedly urged the proposal this week on a visiting State Department delegation.

China apologizes for recent attacks on foreign ships

BEIJING (NYT) — The government apologized Friday for two recent incidents in which Chinese patrol boats seized Russian vessels in international waters, and it pledged to take steps to avoid further such confrontations.

The authorities still have not explained the attack this week on a North Korean cargo ship that had left Hong Kong and was steaming toward its home port. The North Korean ship was reportedly raked with machine-gun fire and boarded, but it is unclear whether those responsible were pirates or Chinese naval officials — or if they were one and the same.

In a growing number of episodes in the last couple of years, local Chinese police and naval patrols, particularly in southern China, have attacked or detained foreign ships on the high seas or in Hong Kong waters. Vietnamese ships have been particularly vulnerable to being seized while returning from Hong Kong to Vietnam, and they are often detained and forced to pay fines or forfeit their cargoes.

Chinese government patrol boats are often involved, and frequently the reason appears to be genuine suspicion that the ships are smuggling cars or other goods into China. Such smuggling is widespread, although the Chinese navy and border police themselves seem to play a significant role in it.

On other occasions, the motivation for seizing the ships reportedly is simply the hope of extracting a ransom.

Questions arise that concern trade center bomb suspect's testimony

WASHINGTON (NYT) — American officials said Friday that they have been unable to corroborate much of what a suspect in the World Trade Center bombing told Egyptians under interrogation, including suggestions of Iranian involvement.

The officials stressed that there was no credible evidence of any foreign government's involvement in the attack. They also expressed considerable skepticism about what they described as contradictory assertions made in Egypt by Mahmoud Abouhalima, a central suspect in the case.

The officials gave varying assessments of the accuracy of the Egyptian rendition of Abouhalima's confession of his involvement in the bombing and description of the events that led to it. Some described the version that Dr. Osama al-Baz, the chief foreign policy adviser to President Hosni Mubarak, gave to reporters Thursday as entirely accurate, while others suggested that he had overstated the specificity of some of Abouhalima's statements.

An administration official confirmed that Abouhalima told Egyptian officials that the bombing plan had been approved by Persian-speaking men who described themselves as Iranian intelligence agents. But the official and others said the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Central Intelligence Agency had found no evidence to substantiate those claims.

The officials also said that Abouhalima had not been explicit in claiming an Iranian link and that his confession had included statements that conflicted with known facts. They said he had told Egyptian authorities nothing that would lead the United States to conclude that the bombing had been sponsored either by Iran or by Iraq, some of whose nationals have been implicated in the attack.

One administration official described himself as "completely befuddled and confused and puzzled" by Dr. al-Baz's account, which emphasized an Iranian link to the attack.

Al-Baz, one of Egypt's most influential government officials, told reporters that many points in the confession had been confirmed by Egyptian intelligence sources and passed on to the United States. But officials from the Clinton administration and federal law-enforcement agencies said they had seen no independent evidence of involvement by Iranian agents.

Citizens nationwide rush donations to flood victims

By Bill Vogrin
Associated Press writer

It may sound odd, but the hottest commodity being donated to water-weary Midwest flood victims is water.

The donated version is clear, comes in bottles and is fit to drink, unlike the levee-bursting, muddy torrents consuming towns and farmland along the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

Donated water gushed Friday from Maine to Texas, in containers ranging from 2-liter bottles to 5,000-gallon tanker trucks.

Also flowing to flooding victims were tons of food, clothing, plastic snow shovels, tarps, plastic trash bags, rain gear, snake bite kits and mosquito spray for the thousands of volunteers and National Guard troops helping with sandbagging and cleanup efforts.

Donations have come from Hurricane Andrew victims, eager to repay the kindness they received 11 months ago.

And gifts are coming from places like Quincy, Mass., where residents feel a kinship for flood victims in Quincy, Ill.

Much attention is being focused on Des Moines, Iowa, where the water treatment plant was knocked out by flooding Sunday, leaving 250,000 people without clean drinking water.

Good Samaritans from Texas send water tanker trucks, grapefruit juice.

On Thursday night five truckloads of water and two truckloads of tea rolled into downtown Des Moines. Painted on the side of the lead truck's trailer: "Florida Jaycees Disaster Relief Team — On to Iowa — Returning the Favor."

Water poured in from the Chicago area; Hot Springs, Ark.; Louisville, Ky.; Cincinnati; Duluth, Minn.; Texas; Vermont; Michigan; Indiana; and dozens of other places.

A half dozen 5,000 gallon tanker trucks came from Texas.

Other towns also received help.

Homestead, Fla., devastated when Hurricane Andrew struck southern Florida on Aug. 24, adopted Valley Junction, a business district near Des Moines, and established a bank account for donations.

Grapefruit juice was sent from Texas' Rio Grande Valley, and Indiana provided infant formula, juice and soft drinks.

The generosity won't be forgotten.

Police search national park after shooting

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — Teams of heavily armed officers combed the high Sierra on Friday, seeking a gunman whose unprovoked attack on a park ranger raised fears he could take an unsuspecting hiker hostage.

Hikers were barred from the back country as roughly 180 state, federal and county officers using search dogs and a helicopter hunted for a man who ambushed ranger Kim Aufhauser and then fled into the wilderness.

"There's armed SWAT teams up there," said ranger Steve Weinstock, motioning down the road.

On Thursday, about 1,200 people were evacuated from the Tuolumne Meadows area. Granite-walled Yosemite Valley and the rest of the park remained open.

Aufhauser, a 37-year-old seasonal ranger, was released from Mammoth Centinela Hospital in Mono County on Thursday following treatment for a bullet wound in the leg. He was hit by two other shots that would have killed him if not for his bulletproof vest, the CHP said.

Aufhauser was believed to be the first Yosemite ranger shot in the line of duty since patrols started in the park in 1914.

Authorities feared the assailant might abduct hikers unaware of the manhunt, said park spokeswoman Kris Fister.

House set to vote on Clinton national service legislation

WASHINGTON (NYT) — To supporters, it's a chance to rekindle America's volunteer spirit and open the doors to college for thousands of teenagers. To opponents, it's yet another scheme to expand government by squandering tax dollars on make-work jobs.

Ten months after President Clinton outlined his vision of a "season of service" in return for a college education, the House is scheduled to vote Tuesday on a new national service plan.

Although the proposal before Congress is considerably less ambitious than the plan outlined by Clinton during the fall campaign, even critics concede that it is a dramatic departure from previous efforts to make college more affordable.

Sponsors expect the program to enroll 25,000 students next year, with the number increasing gradually to 150,000 by 1997. Participants could earn as much as $10,000 toward their education by working on community service projects ranging from aiding police to planting trees.

But the payoff for students comes at a steep price for taxpayers — an estimated $15,000 to $20,000 per participant. In addition to financial aid for college, the program would give community service workers a minimum wage, health care benefits and child care assistance.

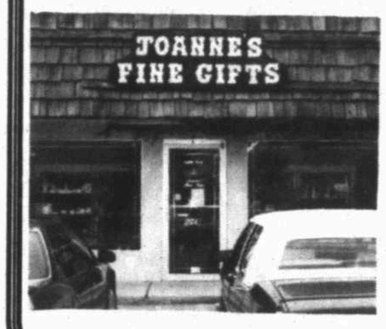

By the end of four years, the program is expected to cost taxpayers about $7.4 billion.

Rumors abound that Sessions could lose FBI this weekend

WASHINGTON (NYT) — William S. Sessions, the FBI director, abruptly canceled a Chicago appearance and returned to the capital Friday amid strong indications that the Clinton administration was preparing to dismiss him, possibly as soon as Saturday.

White House officials said President Clinton, concluding that Sessions should be replaced, planned to meet Friday night with Judge Louis J. Freeh of U.S. District Court in New York, who has emerged as the leading candidate to succeed Sessions.

Sessions has steadfastly ignored signals from Clinton administration officials urging him to step aside voluntarily in the wake of a scathing Justice Department report accusing him of misusing government airplanes and office perquisites. His unwillingness to resign has left the administration officials exasperated and with little choice but to demand his departure.

On Saturday, Sessions is scheduled to meet with Attorney General Janet Reno, who some Justice Department officials say is prepared to order him to leave. Other officials, however, cautioned that Ms. Reno had appeared to be ready to let Sessions go only to back away at the last minute.

Still, the Justice Department and FBI seethed with speculation that Sessions' long and lonely battle keep his job had neared an end, as he cut short a two-day trip to Chicago, where he was attending a meeting of the FBI Agents Association, a rank-and-file group.

Officials said his meeting with the group Friday was emotional, laden with farewell sentiments, despite the fact that the group had often been critical of him for refusing to acknowledge the organization officially and for his efforts to increase opportunities for women and minority agents.

Some FBI officials said Sessions attended Friday agents' meeting that was emotional, laden with farewell sentiments.

Although Clinton appeared to be nearing a choice for a replacement, officials said the White House seemed to be giving up hopes of simultaneously announcing Sessions' departure and Clinton's choice to head the FBI. The president now appears to be likely to withhold naming his own director, possibly until early next week.

In recent weeks, Sessions had seemed to cling desperately to his job, challenging Clinton to oust him and negotiating with Ms. Reno to stay in his job until the Senate confirmed his successor, a process that would leave him in place for months.

Sessions, who was appointed by President Ronald Reagan, is more than five years into his 10-year term, but as a presidential appointee he can be dismissed by the president at any time.

The single 10-year term for FBI Director was adopted after the death of J. Edgar Hoover in 1972 to insulate the head of the FBI from political pressure and limit the length of service in the wake of Hoover's nearly 50-year reign.

Some Justice Department officials who have followed the negotiations said that the administration, which has appeared indecisive in the face of Sessions' demands, had finally decided not to give in to his attempt to stage-manage his departure.

For months, the administration deferred action, preoccupied by the tortuous search for an attorney general, and then after Ms. Reno's confirmation, by outside events, like the FBI's siege of the Branch Davidian compound in Waco, Texas.

Sessions' support in his agency has drained away and his former boosters in Congress have deserted him.

Cities foot more for clean water, group contends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government isn't contributing enough money to clean-water projects, placing a heavy burden on cities struggling to pay for improvements required to meet federal standards, a watchdog group says.

Federal clean-water laws require communities around the country to spend up to $500 billion on water system improvements, but the Clinton administration proposes to spend less than $4 billion a year in grants and loans for those projects through 1997, according to the National Water Education Council.

That help will "barely make a dent in the country's overall clean-water infrastructure needs," the council said in a report .

Gonzalez rips

ARLINGTON — Juan Gonzalez became the 11th-youngest player in major-league history to reach 100 home runs with a pair of two-run shots Friday night against the Detroit Tigers.

Gonzalez hit his major league-leading 25th of the season in the third inning to give the Rangers a 6-2 lead. He also had a two-run home in the first.

Gonzalez reached 100 career homers at 23 years and nine months, tying him with Joe DiMaggio for No. 11 on the career list.

Mel Ott reached 100 homers at age 22 years, four months, fastest in baseball history.

Gonzalez was playing in his 423rd game Friday. Among active players, only Oakland's Mark McGwire reached 100 homers quicker, in his 393rd game.

Altercation

CINCINNATI — Outfielder Kevin Mitchell got into an altercation with Cincinnati Reds manager Davey Johnson before a game Friday night and was suspended for two games.

Mitchell missed the Reds' game against Florida on Thursday, their first after the All-Star break, and was docked a day's pay. Johnson told him of the fine when he arrived at the clubhouse Friday.

Their private meeting became volatile. Reporters were kept out of the clubhouse for a half hour while they met, but could hear shouting inside.

The ballclub wouldn't release details of the altercation, and Mitchell stayed in the trainer's room until the clubhouse was closed before the game. But one player, speaking on condition of anonymity, said, "If I punched the manager, I'd be out of here right now."

General manager Jim Bowden referred to it as an altercation, and said Johnson decided on the suspension and an undisclosed fine — Mitchell's third fine in three days.

The Reds gave Mitchell permission to return home to San Diego last Thursday, four days before the All-Star break, for personal reasons. Mitchell's grandmother is ill.

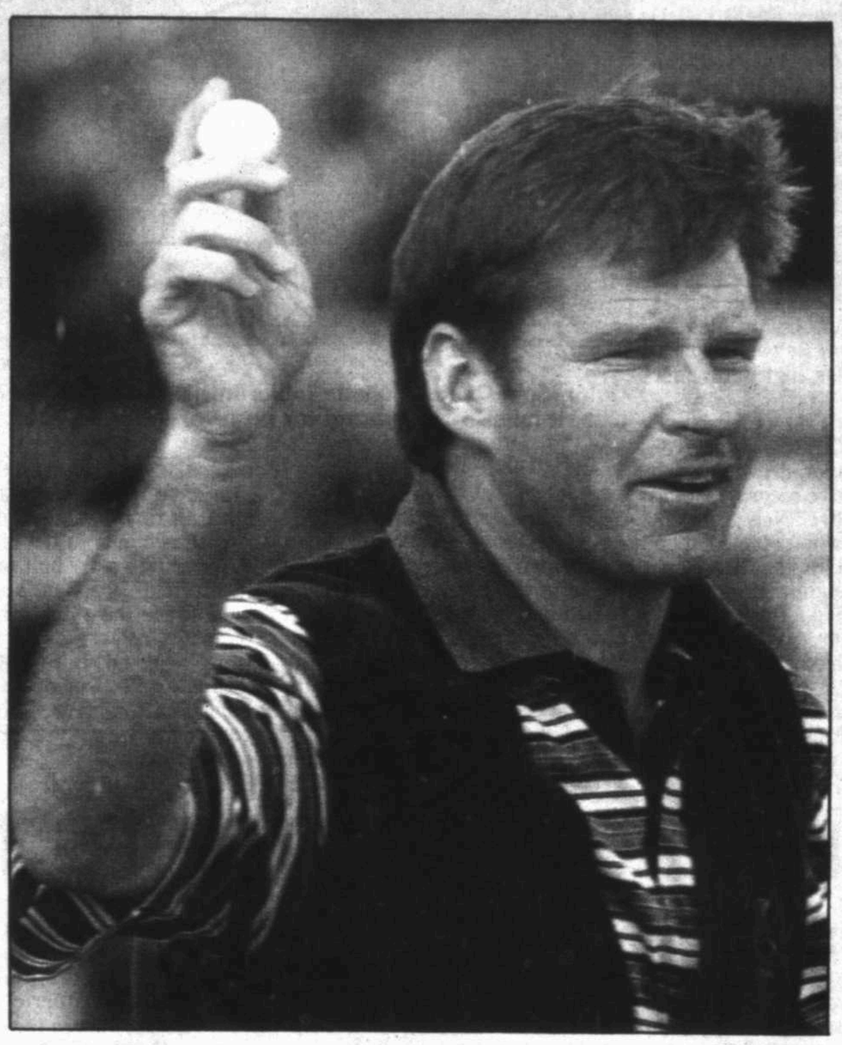

The outfielder couldn't play anyway because he has a pulled hamstring.

Faldo's 63 takes lead

Nick Faldo holds up game ball after recording a course record 63 Friday to take the lead in the British Open golf tournament.

■ Nick Faldo fires a course record 63 to edge out Bernhard Langer for the British Open lead.

By Steve Wilstein
AP Sports Writer

SANDWICH, England — 63.

Nick Faldo's record round Friday in the British Open resounded around Royal St. George's, the number spoken in awe even by fans who had seen him hole a 50-yard pitch and play about as perfectly as possible.

They didn't worry that Bernhard Langer stood only a stroke behind Faldo's two-round total of 132 — 8 under par. Or that Fred Couples, Greg Norman and Corey Pavin were just another stroke back.

Champions of majors were all over the leader board as the damp and pliant course was whipped again despite confounding winds. Five players scorched the normally unyielding Royal St. George's in 66 after four had carded that score on Thursday.

But only one name had a 63 next to it.

Faldo's round of seven birdies and no bogeys put him on a loftier level and into golf history. It was one of the best rounds ever, three strokes better than anyone else could manage on this course in this tournament.

The best round in a dozen British Opens at Royal St. George's since the first one 99 years ago, Faldo's 63 also matched the lowest round at any British Open anywhere — a figure reached only five other times. Christy O'Connor Jr. set the previous course record of 64 in the last Open here in 1985, in turn breaking a 51-year-old record of 65 by Henry Cotton.

"When I got to the golf course this morning and saw everybody else was steaming along, I think that really sort of sets your mind into gear," Faldo said. "And then to come out and birdie the first, that was a big step."

Huckabees team for Jamboree lead

■ Father-son team fires a 62 for a one-shot lead over three teams in the first round of the Green Tree Country Club Jamboree.

By Amy Wolfenbarger
Staff Writer

Since Jeff Moses lost his usual golfing partner to the professional ranks, he's finding that another long-time partnership could stand in his way of defending his title after Friday's first round in the Championship Flight of the Green Tree Country Club Jamboree golf tournament.

The father-son team of Ron and Dub Huckabee, both of Midland, shot a 62 to take the first day lead over a group of three teams that are tied for second with 63. One of them is Moses, who won the title last year with Larry Bryan Jr., now a club professional at Ranchland Hills Country Club.

Moses of Midland and current partner David Garcia of El Paso, along with the team of Michael Guss and Steve Whiteside and the team of Fred Stallings and Bobby Carroll are all two strokes ahead of the rest of the Championship Flight, which tees off today starting at 7:30 a.m. for the second of three rounds.

The President's Flight through the Sixth Flight will tee off in order until 2 p.m. The annual tournament wraps up Sunday.

"My partner went pro on me," as Moses joked about having to find a new partner. He and Bryan Jr. teamed up to win two previous Jamboree titles, including last year's.

But Moses and Ron Huckabee both agreed that strong competition would make winning the flight harder than most years.

"This is a real strong championship flight, don't you agree?" Moses asked Ron Huckabee.

"Yeah, this is better than we've had — maybe ever," said Huckabee, a long-time participant in the tournament.

Two shots back at 65 are the teams of Larry Nunez and Merle Spence, David Holloway and Carl Townsend, Buddy Gieb and Kirk Branum and Doug Noah and Jay Isaccs. All are in good shape going into today's round.

Lon Kile and Reggie Howell shot a 67 and are tied for ninth with Bob Beck and Phil Baker and Pat Weaver and Mickey Wilson.

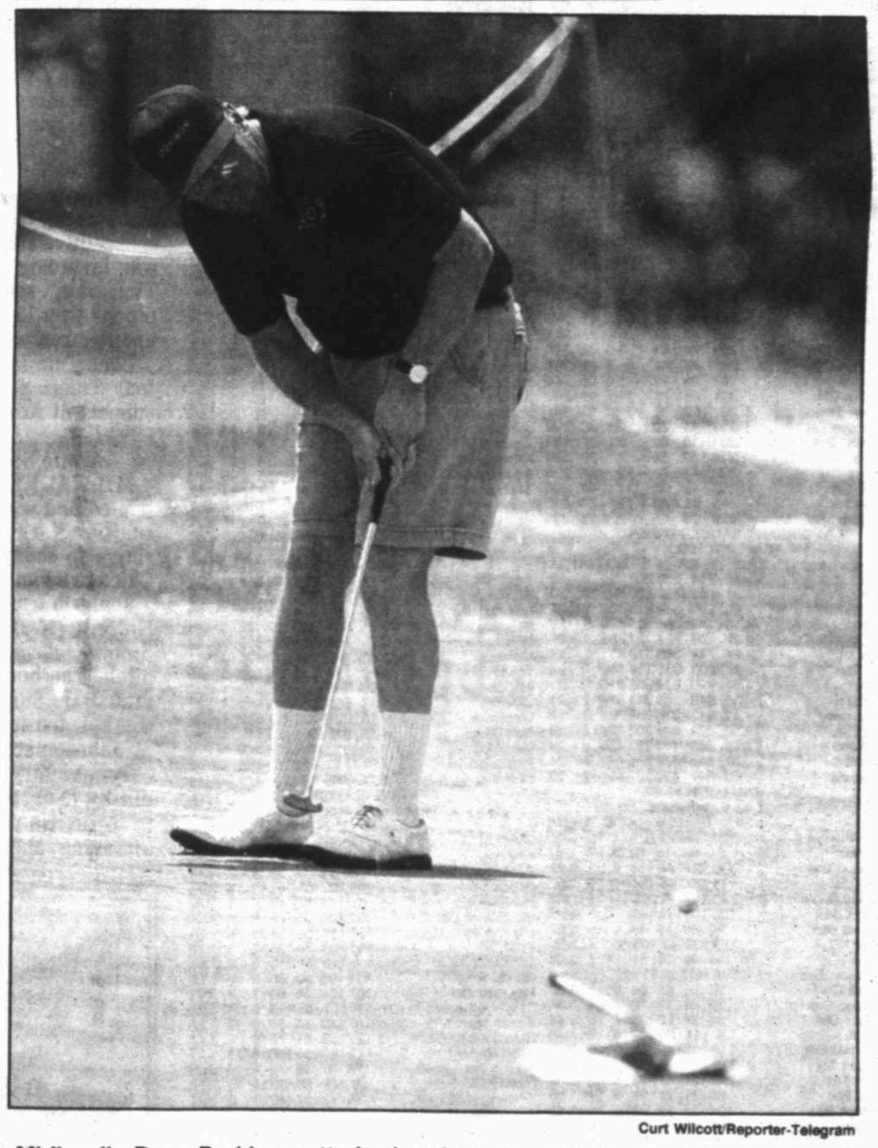

Familiarity, however, might be Huckabee and Huckabee's key to staying on top of the flight.

"We play together quite a bit," Ron Huckabee said. "We usually play in four or five tournaments a year and we have been for years."

Huckabee and Huckabee will attempt to win their second Jamboree title. They won together a few years ago but neither could remember the exact year.

The pin placements on the last two days could also break up the group of

Finley agrees with Padres' fire sale

By Hal Bock
AP Sports Writer

Former Oakland A's owner Charley Finley sees nothing wrong with the fire sale of name players going on in San Diego, especially since he was the originator of the idea.

"This is the beginning of the future of baseball," Finley said Friday of the Padres' jettisoning of big salaries. "Clubs will be unloading these unjustified, astronomical salaries and building with young players. You'll see more of it. I don't blame the owners one iota."

The Padres have dumped a fistful of fat contracts, including Gary Sheffield, Tony Fernandez, Benito Santiago, Darrin Jackson and Craig Lefferts, and have been widely criticized for the strategy. Not by Finley, though.

"I see nothing wrong with what San Diego is doing," he said. "Houston did the same thing. Nobody criticized the Astros when they did it. Other teams will be doing it, too."

Finley, in a midnight selling spree of monumental proportions, tried to unload Vida Blue, Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers on June 15, 1976, raising $3.5 million in operating capital for the A's.

'Clubs will be unloading these unjustified, astronomical salaries and building with young players. You'll see more of it. I don't blame the owners one iota.'

— Charley Finley, Former owner of the Oakland A's

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was outraged at the sales, claiming they gutted the A's franchise and he blocked the transactions. Seventeen years later, Finley remains bitter over the affair.

"Free agency was coming in," he said. "I wanted to get a head start. I thought it was a smart thing and I think what San Diego is doing is a smart thing. If they think those are good deals, they should go ahead and make them."

With no commissioner in place, the Padres did not encounter the kind of interference Finley did. "I doubt if there were a commissioner, he'd stop these deals," Finley said. "He'd be aware of what happened to me."

Finley said he knew Blue, Rudi and Fingers would walk at the end of the 1976 season under terms of baseball's then new free agent system. "I knew I would get nothing in return, so I thought I'd beat them to the punch," he said.

Blue was sold for $1.5 million to the New York Yankees and Rudi and Fingers fetched $1 million each from the Boston Red Sox. "At the time," Finley said wistfully, "that was quite a bit of money."

The idea, Finley said, was to rebuild the A's with the fresh cash. "My scouts had lined up 21 good prospects," he said. "We worked three months lining them up. I was going to use those 21 to stock the farm system. Had Kuhn not negated the deals, I was sure I'd have a strong farm system to rebuild my team."

When Kuhn blocked the sales, Finley sued the commissioner for $10 million. Federal judge Frank McGarr, employing the often hazy "best interests of baseball" clause of the commissioner's powers, ruled Kuhn was within his rights in blocking the deals. To this day, Finley disputes that.

"I told him what I was doing and about the prospects we had lined up," Finley said. "He had no use for me because I knew him inside and out.

Anthony homer saves Astros

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Eric Anthony hit a tie-breaking home run in the eighth inning to help the Houston Astros beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6 Friday night.

Anthony hit reliever Lee Guetterman's (1-1) first pitch over the right-field wall for his eighth home run, snapping a 4-all tie. Guetterman's throwing error on a pickoff attempt setup two more runs in the inning.

Reliever Tom Edens (1-1) pitched two scoreless innings for the victory. Al Osuna worked two-thirds of an inning and Doug Jones got the last two outs for his 14th save in 20 opportunities.

The Astros chased starter Joe Magrane with four runs in the third in the 94-degree heat.

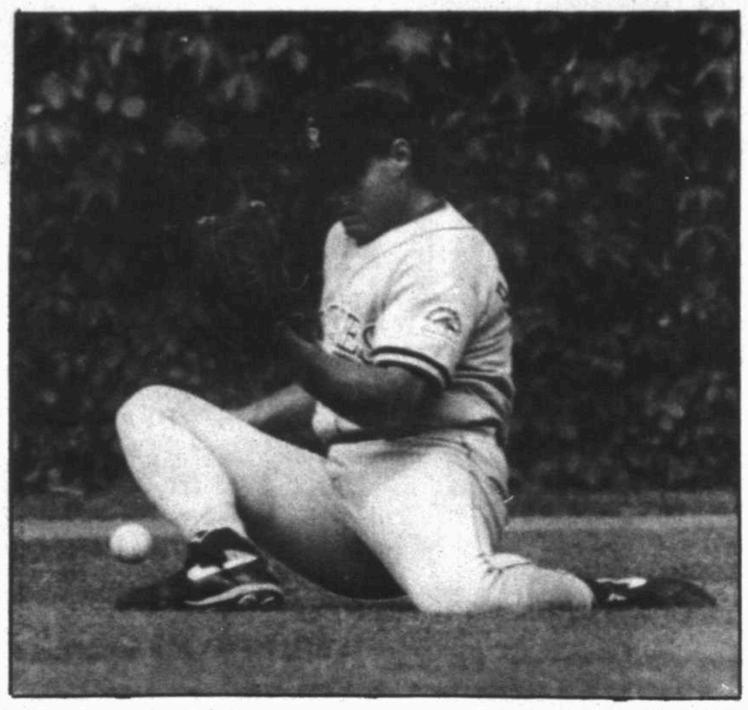

Chris Donnels led off with a walk and went to third on a single by Steve Finley. He scored on a single by Craig Biggio and the Astros added three runs on doubles by Gonzalez and Jeff Bagwell. Gonzalez tied a career high with four hits.

Giants 4, Mets 2

SAN FRANCISCO — Darren Lewis had two hits, drove in a run and set a defensive record, leading San Francisco over New York.

The Giants, who retained their nine-game lead in the NL West, won for the eighth time in 10 games and spoiled a fine outing by Dwight Gooden as the Mets dropped their third straight.

Lewis played in his 267th consecutive game in the outfield without an error, breaking the record of Don Demeter with Philadelphia and Detroit (1962-1965).

Colorado's Dante Bichette looks in his glove for the ball, but alas, it falls to the ground for an error in an 8-3 loss.

Braves 3, Pirates 2

ATLANTA — Otis Nixon hit a rare home run and Mark Lemke drove in the go-ahead run with a fourth-inning single as Atlanta edged Pittsburgh.

Winner Greg Maddux (9-8) allowed two runs and seven hits with one walk and seven strikeouts before leaving for a pinch hitter after seven innings. Mike Stanton pitched a scoreless ninth for his 24th save as the Braves won for the fifth time in six games.

With two outs in the ninth, Tom Prince lifted a fly ball to the wall in left field. Ron Gant appeared to have made the catch and the customary celebratory fireworks were launched. But Gant dropped the ball and Prince advanced to second on the error. Stanton then got Carlos Garcia to ground out to end the game.

■ NL Roundup

Padres 5, Phillies 3

SAN DIEGO — Tony Gwynn hit a two-run homer to cap a five-run seventh inning night as San Diego beat Philadelphia, sending the slumping Phillies to their sixth loss in eight games.

Cubs 8, Rockies 2

CHICAGO — Derrick May had a homer and four RBIs, and Jose Guzman struck out a season-high 11 as Chicago beat Colorado.

May had an RBI single in the first inning and a three-run homer in the fifth to break open a 3-1 game. He now has a career-high nine homers.

The Cubs, held to four runs in their previous four games, also got homers from Sammy Sosa and Ryne Sandberg.

Colorado, which came into the game fourth in the National league in batting at .271, was shut down for the second time is as many games. Mike Morgan pitched a three-hitter in a 1-0 victory Thursday night.

Reds 4, Marlins 0

CINCINNATI — Jose Rijo won for the first time since May 22 and Cincinnati moved two games above .500 for the first time this season by beating Florida.

Rijo (7-5), the Reds' hard-luck pitcher, ended a 10-game winless streak by scattering eight hits in eight innings.

Gonzalez boomers rip Tigers

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Juan Gonzalez hit a pair of two-run homers Friday night to become the 11th-youngest player to reach 100 home runs, and Texas stretched its winning streak to six games with a 9-6 decision over Detroit.

Gonzalez hit a two-run shot in the first inning and added his major league-leading 25th homer of the season in the third, giving the Rangers a 6-2 lead. He reached 100 career homers at 23 years and nine months, tying him with Joe DiMaggio for No. 11 on the major-league list.

Detroit rallied for two runs in the eighth, closing to 7-6. Three consecutive singles off Bob Patterson, including an RBI hit by Gary Thurman, made it 7-5 before pinch-hitter Lou Whitaker drove in another run with a grounder.

Then Tom Henke retired the last four Tigers for his 19th save, in support of Kenny Rogers (7-6).

White Sox 4, Brewers 3

MILWAUKEE — Lance Johnson tripled and scored the winning run on Ron Karkovice's suicide bunt single in the ninth inning, giving Chicago a victory over Milwaukee.

Johnson tripled to center off Cal Eldred (10-9) before Karkovice dropped down the bunt on a 1-0 pitch. The bunt got by third baseman B.J. Surhoff, who retrieved the ball too late to get Karkovice as Johnson scored easily.

The victory went to Scott Radinsky (3-0), the second White Sox reliever. He pitched two-thirds of an inning, and Roberto Hernandez got his 18th save with a spotless ninth.

■ AL Roundup

Angels 2, Indians 1

CLEVELAND — Chad Curtis and Tim Salmon homered within a span of three pitches in the sixth inning, and Chuck Finley won for the sixth time in seven decisions as California beat Cleveland.

Finley (11-6) lasted seven innings, allowing one first-inning run and six hits, walking two and striking out four. He stopped Cleveland's seven-game home winning streak and California's five-game road losing streak.

Mike Butcher struck out Paul Sorrento to strand the tying run at third in the eighth inning, then worked a scoreless ninth for his first career save.

Royals 7, Blue Jays 3

TORONTO — Wally Joyner homered, scored four runs and drove in two in support of Chris Haney as Kansas City beat slumping Toronto.

Haney (6-2) took a no-hitter into the fifth inning before the Blue Jays got to him for three straight singles. The left-hander allowed six hits, struck out six and walked three in 7⅓ innings.

Jeff Mongomery pitched out of an eight-inning jam, getting Tony Fernandez on a grounder to strand two Toronto baserunners. Montgomery retired the Blue Jays in the ninth for his American League-leading 26th save.

Jack Morris (5-10) gave up six runs on 10 hits over seven innings. He struck out nine and walked two as the Blue Jays lost for the 11th time in their last 13 games.

Mike Macfarlane followed a two-out walk to Joyner in the first inning with his 12th homer. Joyner reached on a one-out walk in the third, stole second and scored on Chris Gwynn's two-out single to make it 3-0.

Brian McRae, who later homered, led off the fifth with a triple and scored on Joyner's single. After Macfarlane singled, Joyner scored from second on Paul Molitor's error for a 5-0 lead.

Yankees 10, Athletics 3

NEW YORK — Jimmy Key tied a career high by winning his eighth straight decision, and Danny Tartabull and Paul O'Neill homered as New York awakened to beat Oakland.

Key (12-2) allowed only five hits in seven innings, but two of them were solo homers. Rickey Henderson hit his 13th in the third and Dave Henderson his 11th in the sixth.

The left-hander walked Rickey Henderson leading off the game, but allowed no other walks and struck out three before being relieved by John Habyan. The victory was only the third in 12 games for New York, ended a three-game losing streak and moved the Yankees within a game of first-place Toronto in the American League East.

Red Sox 5, Mariners 3

BOSTON — Roger Clemens struck out six and held Seattle to four hits in six innings in his return from a groin injury as Boston ended the Mariners' six-game winning streak.

Bob Zupcic and Mike Greenwell had two-run doubles and Andre Dawson doubled in another run as the Red Sox had 10 hits — half of them doubles. Boston scored two runs in the third inning and three in the fourth.

Clemens (8-6), in his first appearance since June 18, worked out of two jams. He struck out Rich Amaral with the bases loaded to end the second, and allowed just one run after Seattle loaded the bases with one out in the fourth. Amaral drove in the run with a groundout.

Orioles 9, Twins 7

BALTIMORE — Mike Devereaux, Harold Baines and David Segui homered in a four-run fifth inning that carried Baltimore past reeling Minnesota.

Devereaux went 4-for-4 with three RBIs as the Orioles moved a season-high eight games over .500 and creeped within a half-game of league-leading Toronto in the AL East. Baltimore has won six of eight.

Kent Hrbek homered and drove in four runs

63: Norman sets sights in line for Faldo's chest

(From 1B)

Royal St. George's was ripe for plucking again, the greens still soft from two days of rain, and 78 players would make the cut at 143 — the lowest cut ever on this course and five below the 1981 mark when Bill Rogers became the only subpar winner at 276.

Australian Peter Senior, tied for the lead at 66 after the first round with Norman, Fuzzy Zoeller and Mark Calcavecchia, followed with a 69 for 135. Zoeller shot 70 for 136 along with Larry Mize.

Knotted at 137, five strokes back, were Ernie Els, Peter Baker and John Daly, who shot 66. Calcavecchia slipped to 73 and 139.

Not everyone thrived. Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson, Lanny Wadkins, John Cook, Davis Love and Ben Crenshaw all will sit out the weekend.

Maybe they should watch Faldo.

A 5-iron to within four feet of the pin on the first hole got Faldo going and set up the challenge for Norman in the group behind him. Faldo sank a 10-foot birdie putt on No. 5, a hole Norman would follow with a bogey, but still wasn't impressed with himself.

"When I walked down the sixth, the whole of the hill was filled with people and they were cheering like mad," Faldo said. "And I was saying, 'Heck, they've really created an atmosphere before you've done anything.' You think, 'Right, give the people something to show for it.' And I did."

He gave them a 20-foot putt on No. 6 and a third consecutive birdie on No. 7 after a superb 6-iron to the green. Making the turn in 31, he hadn't played a bad shot yet and was 5-under for the tournament. But Norman was stalking behind, also at 5-under, and Langer was already in the clubhouse at 7-under. If a ball Langer hit on the 18th hadn't bounced off a woman's shoulder, he might have gotten home 8-under.

Norman went to 6-under with a birdie at 12, and Faldo immediately matched that with a 4-foot birdie putt at 13. The duel was heating up and the crowd roared for Faldo, the betting favorite.

Then in his worst predicament of the day, he produced the masterpiece of his round and one of the finest shots of his life.

Faldo sent a 2-iron from the 14th tee into the hay on the left, then whacked a 5-iron into more hay on the left. A 7-iron across the fairway into the right rough, 50 yards from the pin, didn't exactly thrill him.

"I thought, 'OK, this is going to be my hack hole and I'll take a six, just keep it to one mistake and then move on,'" Faldo said.

He didn't realize just how fast he'd move on.

He grabbed his pitching wedge, lofted the ball onto the green and watched it, amazed as anyone, roll into the cup.

Faldo, so composed all day, flung his arms wildly left and right to show how far his shots had gone astray. Then turning his palms up and shrugging his shoulders in a gesture that meant he couldn't figure it out, he said to his caddy: "And now it's in the hole."

Faldo's manager, John Simpson, had visited him in the morning at his house and told him how Norman had birdied the 14th in the first round.

"He was left-right, left-right in the hole," Faldo said. "And I'm hacking it up the fairway and I thought of the same thing and I hit the shot and it went in the hole clean as a whistle."

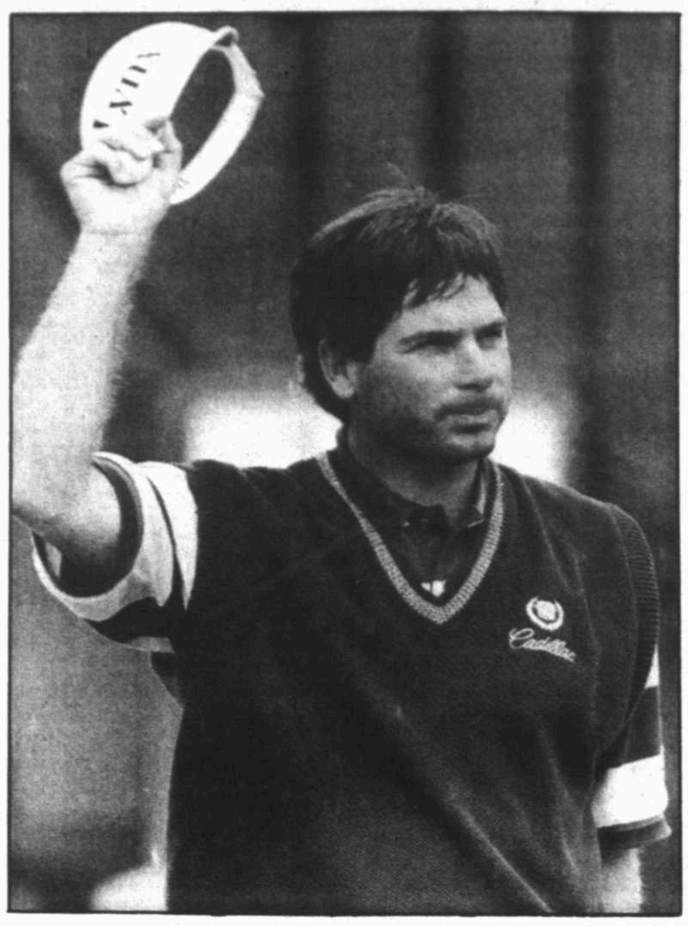

The roar that went up at the shot was unsurpassed — until the 18th when Faldo tapped a 12-footer with just enough speed that it died in the hole. The 18th had been the demon hole of the day with 60 bogeys and 10 double bogeys, and Faldo's birdie was one of only four it yielded.

Norman backed off his putt on 17 when the crowd's cheer erupted, then he stepped up and missed a 30-footer he needed to save par. But the bogey and two-shot deficit behind Faldo didn't dissuade Norman from believing Faldo "is not infallible."

Norman is very much in the hunt, following his opening round 66 with a 68 on Friday.

"I think we'd all like to knock him off," Norman said of the man who sent him into a two-year tailspin after their head-to-head confrontation at St. Andrews three years ago. "He's the best, no question about that.

"When you're on top, that's the medal you wear on your chest to be shot at."

Couples counts wrong

Defying his pre-tournament predictions, Couples moved into contention at the British Open Friday with a 4-under-par 66 that left him at 6-under 134 and two shots off the lead after two rounds.

"I'm thrilled to death," he said. "I feel a lot better than I did 36 holes ago."

Earlier in the week, the 1992 Masters champion virtually wrote himself off as a threat to the favorites. He stood by that statement Friday.

"You've got to be honest with yourself," he said. "I didn't really think I could beat Nick Price or Nick Faldo or Greg Norman head-to-head right now. I still feel like I might not be good enough right now, but we're going to find out tomorrow."

Faldo led at 132 after shooting a course-record 63.

"There is no pressure," Couples said. "I'm not picked to win. I'm not playing as well as I would like. But if I do things well, I have the chance to win."

That's quite a change from a year ago at Muirfield, when Couples shot a 78 on the second day, missed the cut and stormed off the green into a waiting car without speaking to reporters.

"It was personally not a fun week," he said Friday.

It was the week his 11-year marriage began to unravel. As Couples stayed in his hotel room after missing the cut, his wife, Deborah, was dancing on a table top at a Muirfield pub.

Albus heats up putter

■ Ameritech Seniors

AURORA, Ill. (AP) — Jim Albus, playing well and putting better, shot a 7-under-par 65 Friday to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of the $600,000 Ameritech Senior Open.

Albus, seeking his second tour win of the year and the top prize of $90,000, attributed his outstanding round to a new putter that he used for the first time Thursday in the pro-am.

"Whatever works," Albus said. "It sets my hands in a different way and sits nicely with me. My putting had been shabby and not acceptable."

Albus birdied two of the first four holes and then had eight pars before nailing birdies on five of the last six holes of the 6,840-yard Stonebridge Country Club course.

"I didn't miss anything close and made all the ones you want to make," said Albus, who won the Suncoast Classic in February.

Albus led Chi Chi Rodriguez, George Archer and Bill McDonough, all with 67s.

The group at 68 included Bob Charles, Al Geiberger, Dick Hendrickon, Dave Hill, Dick Lotz, J.C. Snead and DeWitt Weaver.

Rodriguez said he had a "could have been" round.

"I really played well," he said. "I only missed two greens and used a putter both times so I never had to chip. I missed only one fairway so I was putting for a birdie on every hole. It could have been a 63 or a 64."

Archer, like Rodriguez, had a bogey-free round. In the last three years he has finished third, fourth and second in this tournament, and needs only a first to complete a cycle of sorts.

"A lot of things can happen in golf. You just have to go out and play," Archer said.

McDonough, a former carpet salesman who spent last winter in Thailand as a club pro, had to play seven holes before getting a par.

Albers finds lead again

■ LPGA Big Apple

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — Kristi Albers, who registered her lone victory in eight years on the LPGA tour 10 weeks ago, shot a 4-under-par 67 on Friday to vault into the 36-hole lead of the $600,000 JAL Big Apple Classic.

Albers completed two rounds over the par-71, 6,095-yard Wykagyl Country Club course in 139, one shot better than Betsy King, who has won this tournament twice, and Japan's Hiromi Kobayashi. King shot a 69 and Koabyashi a 71.

At 141 were Julie Larsen, who shot a 68, while the group at 142 included LPGA Hall of Famer Jo-Anne Carner, who matched Albers with a 67 on Friday. Also even par after two days were Danielle Ammaccapane, who shot 70; Australian Karen Lunn, who had a 74, and Tammie Green, who shot 73.

"It's been a long time since I had a score as good as this," said Albers, who has missed the cut three times in the seven tournaments she has played since winning at Tallahassee, Fla., in May.

"To have a round like this makes me feel a lot better. I've been struggling since my victory. Finally I am hitting the ball better and making some good putts."

ARLINGTON — Since going through a spring training-like workout three weeks ago, the Texas Rangers are drawing walks, moving runners over and hitting the cutoff man.

By doing those fundamental things, the Rangers have climbed from the brink of a lost summer to the thick of the American League West pennant chase.

Rookie manager Kevin Kennedy called the practice for June 25 after his team had lost six straight and 12 of 15. Players had become selfish and the team concept Kennedy was striving for appeared lost.

By having big leaguers go through the drills they've done since Little League, Kennedy snapped the Rangers out of the doldrums.

Entering Friday night's game against Detroit, the Rangers, playing with renewed confidence in themselves and Kennedy,had won five straight and 14 of 17 since the workout, and were only one game out of first place.

"I think that practice was like a wakeup call for us," said first baseman Rafael Palmeiro, who has hit .405 since moving to the No. 3 spot in the lineup, replacing injured Jose Canseco. "People's minds were wandering every which way. It made us come together as a team."

Kennedy cites rookie center fielder David Hulse as the prime example of a player who needed to get back to basics.

Hulse has since made it difficult for pitchers to get him out, getting on base regularly via a walk or a bunt every game. The result is a batting average near .300 and 18 runs scored in the 14 games before Friday.

Also on June 25, Kennedy gave an ultimatum to pouting stars Julio Franco and Canseco: either play through injuries or go on the disabled list.

"We were going with basically 23 guys against 25. You can't do that," Kennedy said.

Franco responded by going on a tear and even playing through new injuries. Canseco has had elbow surgery and is out for the season.

There are plenty of reasons, theories and excuses why the Rangers played so poorly until late June, but Kennedy said that part of the problem may have been the team adjusting to him, its third manager in two years.

He first tried taking charge by showing rage, but instead may have alienated himself by yelling at a rookie on the mound, flipping over a postgame dinner and calling several dreaded team meetings.

For whatever reason, the extra workout worked. "A cloud was lifted in the clubhouse," Kennedy said.

The Rangers finished the first half of the season with a 9-2 road trip, the first time in franchise history that Texas had won more than eight games on a trip. And they did it against the top tier of the AL East, including sweeping a four-game series at Toronto's Skydome.

The Rangers will get a further boost Monday, when strikeout king Nolan Ryan returns for the final three months of his legendary career.

"We need the presence of a veteran starter like a Nolan Ryan," Kennedy said.

As much hope as the recent hot streak has inspired around Arlington Stadium, longtime followers still fear second-half collapses that have been as predictable each year as the oppressive Texas summer heat.

Fans have been teased many times by near-first place standings around the All-Star break, but Kennedy insists his team could give Arlington Stadium its first meaningful postseason game this year, the ballpark's last.

"Winning the pennant is a realistic goal," he said, adding that 90 victories may be all it takes to win in the mediocre AL West. "We know why we lost before and we know why we're winning now. The experience of it is enough."

■ Molson Indy-car

The 24-year-old Team Penske driver, competing on his home track, set a lap record of 109.545 mph to take the provisional pole for Sunday's race.

Tracy, fifth in the driver standings after winning last week's race at Cleveland, maneuvered his Penske-Chevy around the 11-turn, 1.78-mile temporary street circuit in 58.497 seconds, .60 seconds faster than Bobby Rahal did in setting the record of 108.505 last year.

Also under Rahal's old mark were Stefan Johansson of Sweden (108.973) and Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil (108.690), both in Penske-Chevys. Johansson finished fourth at Cleveland and Fittipaldi, Tracy's Penske teammate, was second.

Fourth position on Friday was Teo Fabi in the Midland Hall/VDS entry at 107.950, followed by Bobby Rahal's Lola at 107.713. Rahal's speed came on his second lap and his car then lost a fuel pump, keeping him from improving on that speed.

Tracy was elated but cautious after the run. "It's only Friday and the competition is going to be even tougher tomorrow in final qualifying. Johansson has been very quick the past few races and you can never rule out Nigel Mansell."

Nigel Mansell, the defending Formula One champion who leads the driver standings by 14 points over Fittipaldi, had a dreadful qualifying session, placing only 11th at 106.459. His previous worst qualifying position was eighth in the Indianapolis 500, in which he finished third.

Biggest surprise was the performance of Italian Andrea Montermini, competing in only his third Indy-car race. Driving a year-old Lola Chevy, the test driver for Benneton's Formula One team lapped at 107.430 mph, sixth-best for the day.

If Tracy can hold onto the pole (Saturday, it would be his second in as many weeks. At Cleveland, he earned a $100,000 bonus for winning the race from the pole.

Tracy has led more laps than any driver in the series, and has victories at Long Beach and Cleveland as well as a competent third at Portland. But crashes at Phoenix and Indianapolis, the former when he held a two-lap lead, hurt his bid to contend for the driver championship.

Johansson has been a hot runner with bad luck in the last month, finally getting a bit of return with his fourth at Cleveland last weekend. The 36-year-old former Formula One driver is yet to win an Indy-car race.

Sloan moves to Cent. Florida

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — University of North Texas athletic director Steve Sloan was named to the same job Friday at Central Florida, where he will oversee a reorganization of the athletic program.

Central Florida, an independent, plans to switch from NCAA Division I-AA to I-A in football in 1996.

The 48-year-old Sloan has been athletic director at UNT in Denton the past three years. He signed a two-year contract with Central Florida at an annual salary of $85,000.

49ers lose two, but have Young

By Timothy W. Smith
N.Y. Times News Service

■ More Sports/8B

NEW YORK — On a day when two former 49ers — safety Ronnie Lott and quarterback Joe Montana — were talking about their past glories and their new beginnings with different teams, a present 49er, quarterback Steve Young, was cementing his future in San Francisco by agreeing to a five-year, $26.5 million contract.

According to Leigh Steinberg, Young's agent, the contract will make him the highest paid player in the National Football League. Young will earn an average of $5.3 million a year, surpassing Denver quarterback John Elway, who signed a four-year deal this spring that will pay him an average of $4.8 million a year. Young agreed to terms on Wednesday and was expected to sign when he arrived at the 49ers' training camp in Rocklin, Calif.

Last week, Young expressed confidence that he would sign a new deal with the team before the start of training camp, which opened on Wednesday. The deal was concluded after nine and a half hours of negotiating between Steinberg and Carmen Policy, the 49ers' president.

Young, 31, the league's most valuable player and highest rated quarterback last season, supplanted Joe Montana as the 49ers' starter in 1991, after Montana had surgery to repair a torn tendon in his right elbow. Montana, 37, eventually returned at the end of last season, but Young was playing too well to be pulled from the lineup, even to make room for a player of Montana's stature.

Montana was subsequently traded to Kansas City this spring, clearing the way for Young to take complete control of the starting quarterback job.

During a telephone interview on Thursday, Montana said his departure from San Francisco was a good situation for everyone concerned.

"It would have been very chaotic if both of us had stayed," Montana said. "It would have been a very difficult situation. Everybody would have wanted to know who's going to start this game or that."

Montana is looking forward to returning to the starting-quarterback role for the first time in three years. But he is confronting considerable skepticism concerning the soundness of his elbow.

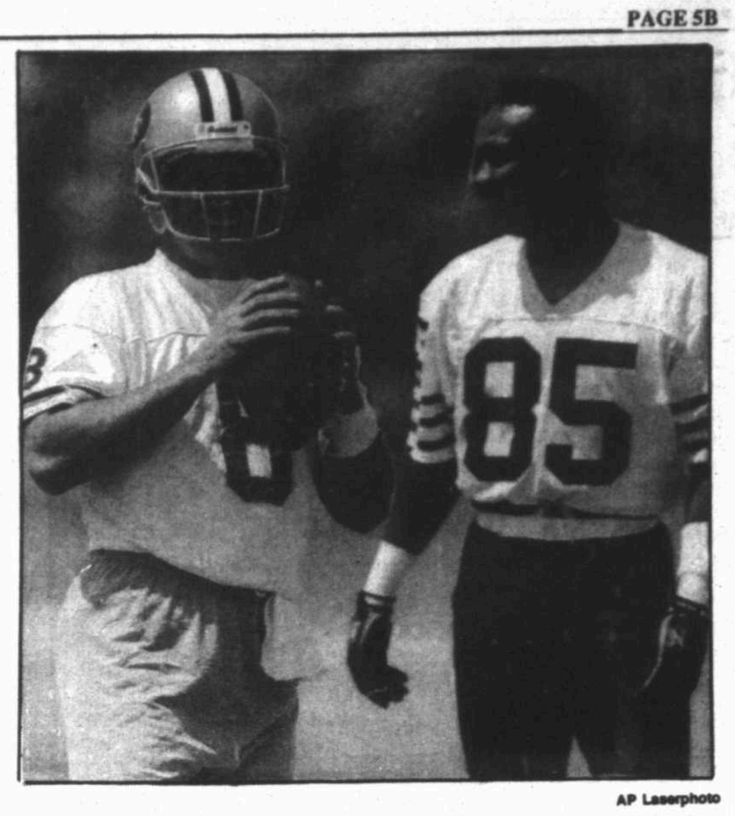

Montana said there was a misunderstanding about the nature of his elbow problems. Originally, he said, the surgery to repair a torn tendon in his right elbow in 1991 was thought to be a complete success, and it was thought that he would make a rapid recovery. But a few days after the surgery, he said, he experienced numbness in a finger on his right hand as a result of a damaged nerve in his elbow. The problem with the nerve lengthened his recovery and planted seeds of doubt about his ability to continue playing.

He said that with little information about the exact nature of his elbow problem being made public, more and more people began comparing his injury to the one that ended the career of Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw.

"People who have seen me throw know that I'm no different than before, just a little older," Montana said. "Bradshaw had a ligament injury, which was quite different from my injury."

The Chiefs reported to training camp at River Falls, Wis., on Thursday, will have meetings on Friday, and will work out for the first time on Saturday. Montana said there will be limits placed on the number of throws he makes during practice.

Lott and Montana are kindred spirits as football players. Both won four Super Bowl championships as members of the 49ers. Both are moving toward the end of brilliant careers. Both are with new teams, with Lott having signed with the Jets as a free agent.

Millen does Aikman impression

Associated Press

Hugh Millen, the ultimate journeyman, looked every bit like Super Bowl MVP Troy Aikman Friday, throwing bullets in Aikman's place on the opening day of the Dallas Cowboys' training camp.

Millen, signed as a free agent to replace the departed Steve Beuerlein as Aikman's backup, was thrown into action immediately as the No. 1 quarterback recovers from back surgery.

"I guess you always look for a silver lining, but Hugh Millen has been very impressive in our offense," coach Jimmy Johnson said of the player who was 0-7 as a starter last year for New England. "He's a tall quarterback (6-foot-5) and has a good arm."

Millen understands his starting role is temporary.

"I've had some unfortunate things happen to me in football," said Millen, who also has played for the Los Angeles Rams and Atlanta Falcons in a seven-year career. "It's good to get back into a winning type environment."

Beuerlein, who left to compete for a starting job with Phoenix, was 5-1 as a starter for Dallas. Johnson said Millen might even be better.

"As much as I loved Steve Beuerlein, who had a good feel for our offense and the game, Hugh throws the ball better," Johnson said. "He knows our offense. Hugh ran much the same offense when he was with the Los Angeles Rams."

Gov. Ann Richards was among a crowd estimated at 5,000 at St. Edward's University for the opening of camp.

Indianapolis Colts

Quarterback Jeff George remained out of training camp Friday without giving his teammates or his puzzled coach a clue to what's bothering him.

"I don't know that much," said coach Ted Marchibroda, who was surprised when George failed to report to training camp Thursday night. He still had not shown up on Friday for the first workouts and faced another $4,000 daily fine.

"I anticipated he would be here," Marchibroda said.

General manager Jimmy Irsay did not say whether George had contacted him since Thursday night's deadline for quarterbacks, rookies, free agents and players who were injured at the end of last season.

George reportedly has asked to be traded or to have his contract renegotiated. He has three more years on his original six-year contract and is due to earn $2 million this season.

But if the Colts were to increase his salary, they also would probably have to give tackle Will Wolford a pay hike. Wolford, a two-time Pro Bowler with the Buffalo Bills, was signed to a three-year, $7.65 million contract that guarantees he will be the Colts' highest-paid offensive player in 1993 and 1994.

Miami Dolphins

Guard Keith Sims signed a three-year contract Friday. Terms weren't disclosed, but the Dolphins had offered him $1.4 million per season.

Coach Don Shula has chastized the 310-pound Sims for not staying in shape. And when Miami's offense scored only six touchdowns in last year's final six regular-season games, the line, including Sims, received considerable criticism.

"I'm never satisfied with how well I play, because we didn't reach our goal," Sims said. Miami fell one game shy of the Super Bowl.

Seattle Seahawks

Bryan Millard, a starter at tackle for Seattle since 1985, was placed on waivers Friday after failing a physical.

"He had a good career," coach Tom Flores said after Millard's back didn't hold up. "I'm sorry it had to end this way."

The Seahawks had moved Bill Hitchcock from right tackle to right guard, Millard's position.

Millard spent all of last season on injured reserve after injuring his back during training camp. At the Seahawks' minicamp in May he had asked permission to seek a trade.

Green Bay Packers

Alan Pinkett has been given a second chance by the Green Bay Packers, who hope he can provide their offense with the clutch running they've been missing for years.

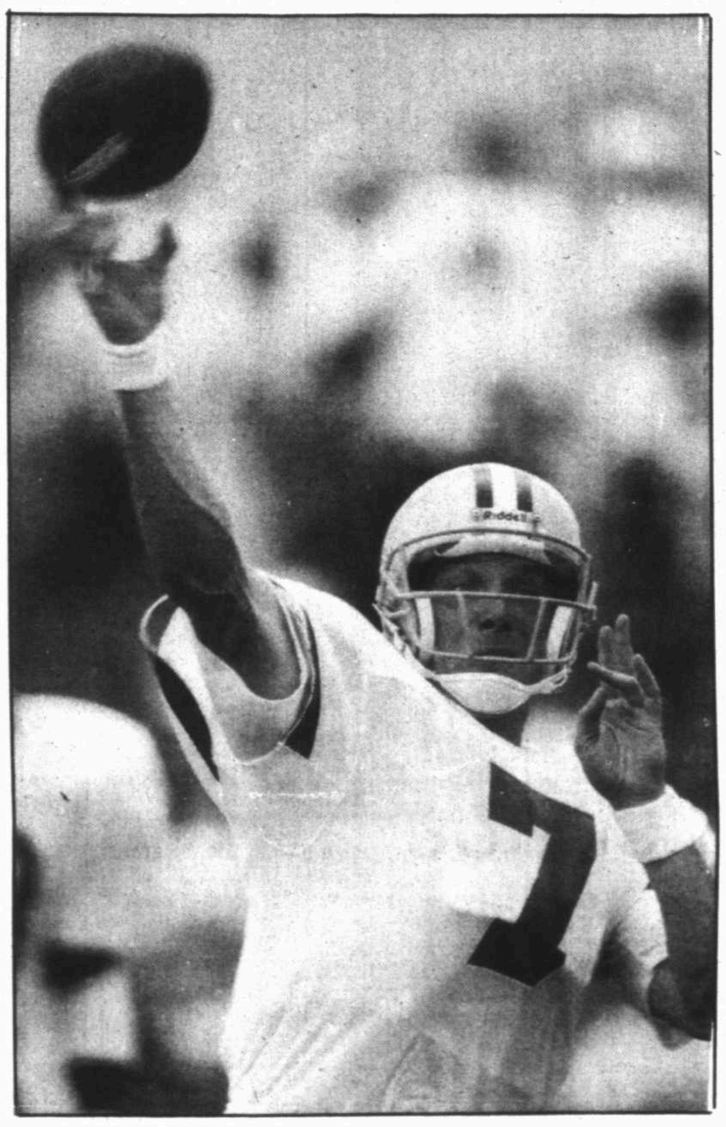

Pinkett, who had reconstructive knee surgery following a season-ending injury Aug. 1, 1992, was signed as an unrestricted free agent last week.

"He's coming off serious knee surgery," coach Mike Holmgren said. "He's a very bright guy, a hard-working guy. Right now we are looking at him as being an every-down back."

Pinkett spent all of last season on injured reserve after being traded from Houston to New Orleans.

Saints

Blowouts slow Cowboy rookie

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rookie Kevin Williams knew training camp with the world champion Dallas Cowboys was going to be a grind.

He just didn't know how tough it was going to be just getting to St. Edward's University from Dallas.

Wide receiver Williams, the Cowboys' top draft pick out of the University of Miami, was speeding down Interstate 35 Thursday when his car suffered a blowout. He put on the spare.

Miles later he got another blowout.

"They were new tires and I couldn't believe it," Williams said.

With the 3 p.m. reporting deadline looming, Williams was afraid he would catch the full-blown anger of coach Jimmy Johnson.

The desperate Williams abandoned his car and started hitchhiking.

Eventually two men stopped. But they weren't on the way to Austin.

"I'll pay you $200 to take me to Austin," Williams told the men.

They did, and he did.

"I was only three minutes late," Williams said. "I didn't get a fine. I was afraid coach Johnson would be unhappy with me."

The car? Williams said he'll worry about that later.

Steelers, Foster battle moves into high gear

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — All-Pro running back Barry Foster, trying to renegotiate the contract he signed only 10 months ago, began what could become the Pittsburgh Steelers' messiest holdout in five years by not reporting to training camp Friday.

The Steelers haven't had an extended training camp contract impasse with a star-caliber player like Foster since linebacker Mike Merriweather sat out the 1988 season.

The Steelers will fine Foster $4,000 per day — the maximum permissible under the NFL's labor agreement — until he reports. They also said they won't even begin talks on a contract extension until Foster shows up.

Foster, the NFL's second-leading rusher to Dallas' Emmitt Smith last season with 1,690 yards, was earlier fined $2,000 for missing the last two days of minicamp.

Coach Bill Cowher, who was upset that Foster reneged on the promise to attend part of minicamp, took a philosophical approach to the absence of his 1992 most valuable player.

"I'm not going to react or overreact," Cowher said. "When players aren't here, they'll be dealt with accordingly. (Contract disputes) are something that's part of this time of the year, and we'll prepare with the players we have."

Foster also held out last July before agreeing to a two-year contract worth about $850,000, plus an option year. Foster was coming off an injury-filled 1991 season in which he gained only 488 yards, so the contract called for a relatively low 1993 base salary of $480,000, with incentives that could push the total worth to more than $1 million.

Foster reached nearly every possible contract incentive in 1992 — his single-season yardage was the 13th highest in NFL history — and made more than $1 million. Still, his base pay is about one-fourth the $1.7 million that Eric Metcalf will earn with Cleveland.

Spurred by quarterback Neil O'Donnell's team record three-year, $8.3 million contract, agent Jordan Woy wants Foster's salary pushed to $3 million a year. If the deal isn't reworked — and the Steelers have a longstanding policy of not renegotiating contracts — Foster's base pay will be about one-sixth O'Donnell's.

"It's not a good situation," Woy said.

Schrader nails record

■ Miller Draft 500

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — Ken Schrader broke his own track record for the second straight time at Pocono International Raceway as NASCAR drivers tried Friday to put Davey Allison's death behind them.

Schrader's 162.934-mph lap in a Chevrolet gave him his 15th career pole and circuit-leading fourth this season when he beat his month-old record of 162.816. Bill Elliott will start next to him in a Ford on the front row Sunday in the Miller Genuine Draft 500.

"When you're in the car you think about racing," Schrader said as the Winston Cup series dealt with the death of a star driver for the second time in less than four months.

Allison's fatal helicopter accident earlier this week was preceded by NASCAR champion Alan Kulwicki's death in an airplane crash April 1.

Reminders of Allison were everywhere Friday. His former competitors had small decals with Allison's No. 28 on their door-posts. A space for the team's rig was left open with No. 28 written in chalk on the pavement. Driver Morgan Shepherd walked around the garage area wearing a black No. 28 hat with "Allison" stitched across the back.

"You see an empty spot," Schrader noted. "It's not something you're going to forget about. Davey was with us when Alan was killed. It hit him a ton too, but he did what he had to do."

Schrader went after the pole with his usual abandon.

Elliott averaged 162.637 on the 2.5-mile track to earn a front-row spot for the first time since he won the pole at Charlotte, N.C., in May 1992.

"Hey, this year, we'll take anything. So this is great," said Elliott, the 1988 NASCAR champion who has finished no better than sixth this season.

Ricky Rudd and Ernie Irvan will have Chevrolets in the second row, with Mark Martin and Jimmy Hensley in Fords in the third. Winston Cup leader Dale Earnhardt, who has a 171-point edge on Dale Jarrett, will start 11th in a Chevy. Jarrett did not qualify his Chevy in the top 20 and will try again Saturday.

Allison's death was part of a tough week for another famous racing family, the Pettys. Allison's accident Monday came hours before NASCAR great Richard Petty's father-in-law and driver Kyle Petty's grandfather, Leonard Owens, died in Randleman, N.C., at age 75.

Tales from the front lines of the Bass War

By Bill Baab

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — George W. Perry didn't know what he started when he caught the world record largemouth bass of 22 pounds, 4 ounces in Georgia's Montgomery Lake more than 61 years ago.

For instance, he didn't know:

— The Florida subspecies of the bass, which scientists suspect is the same Perry caught, would be shipped to Mississippi, Texas, California and other states;

— Certain lakes in California would become hotbeds for hot-tempered fishermen who want to live the American dream of fame and fortune by breaking Perry's record;

— A national fishing magazine has a standing offer valued at more than $250,000 for anyone breaking Perry's mark;

— Whoever catches the next world record largemouth stands a chance of making more than $1 million if it's taken on brand-name equipment and he or she is outgoing, personable and can tell a good fish story.

— A California painting contractor painter would design a plug of giant proportions and later announce the next world record bass would be caught on the rainbow trout-colored lure;

— The plug would retail for $35 (by comparison, the yellow perch finish Creek Chub Wiggle Fish that Perry fished cost $1.25).

Allan S. Cole, a 51-year-old Milwaukee native who's been living in California since 1952, got his start fishing in Wisconsin at an early age "by tying a fishing line on my big toe, treading water around docks and catching bluegills and crappies."

He got the idea for the rainbow trout-colored lure "when I saw striped bass boil at trout stocked by the California Department of Fish and Game. I knew I had to have a plug that would mimic the trout, run fairly shallow and have a wonderful wiggle. I've been able to accomplish all those things."

The A.C. Plug weighs under a half-ounce, its size of nearly a foot making fishermen think it's much heavier. The wood from which its 1½-inch in diameter body is made is a "trade secret," said Cole, whose lure patent is pending. A rubber tail is attached. Another secret is the shape of the head of the lipless lure. It will submerge to 10 feet trolled at 2½ miles per hour on a flat (17-pound-test) line about 30 feet behind the boat.

Cole caught a Castaic record striper of 40 pounds on his plug, but was delighted to learn that striped bass aren't the only fish in the California lakes which feed on the trout. Florida-strain largemouth bass love them, too.

Castaic was made famous by Los Angeles policeman Bob Crupi, who caught a 22-pound, 1-ounce bass there two years ago — the second largest largemouth in history.

Cole later landed another bass over 11 pounds while trolling on Lake Casitas, the lake made famous by Raymond Easley's 21-pound-plus bass caught in 1980.

He purchased one of the lures and had to fend off smart-aleck questions by unbelievers like, "Going fishing for sharks?"

Bledsoe and his son, Jacob, used the plug on a Father's Day of fishing on Lake Casitas, hoping to make his dream of catching at least a 10-pound bass come true.

Plano rider withdraws from Tour

MARSEILLE, France (AP) — Lance Armstrong, the youngest rider to win a Tour de France stage, withdrew from this year's race Friday, while Miguel Indurain of Spain retained the overall lead.

Armstrong, 21, of Plano, Texas, pulled out before the 12th stage, a 179-mile leg from Isola 2000 to Marseille, the longest stage in this year's event.

Fabio Roscioli of Italy won the stage as the riders came down from two days in the Alps.

During the two days in the mountains, Armstrong fell 55 minutes behind. Aftereard, he and the Motorola coaches decided not to continue.

"He was tired," Jim Ochowitz, the Motorola team manager, said. "We met all our goals and we have to think about the future. He has a super future. He had 12 hard days in the Tour de France."

Ochowitz said that Armstrong's next race will be in Spain, in the Tour of Burgos, July 31-Aug. 5.

"He won in true classic style," Ochowitz said. "He took it with a major attack on the final hill with a group of seasoned professionals."

Meanwhile, Indurain easily retained the leader's yellow jersey as the Tour began three days across southern France.

Roscioli took the stage lead with more than 112 miles to go and finished more than seven minutes ahead of Italy's Massimo Ghirotto and Ukraine's Vladimir Poulnikov.

Indurain and many of the other favorites were in the main pack, more than 20 minutes behind.

Roscioli was no threat to Indurain overall, being more than an hour behind in the standings.

The Tour ends July 25 at Paris.

Dallas bidsfor soccer match

ATLANTA (AP) — Dallas and 13 other cities have bid for the right to host preliminary soccer matches for the 1996 Olympic Games, Atlanta Olympic officials said Friday.

Up to four cities will be selected for preliminary matches, with each getting from four to eight teams and from six to 16 matches. The site for the final matches has not been selected.

Bids from cities wanting to hose the preliminary matches were cut off Thursday. The field will be narrowed to no more than six cities by July 23, the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games said. The final selection will be made by mid-September.

Sites under consideration, in addition to Dallas, are: Charlotte, N.C.; Memphis, Tenn.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Boston; Washington, D.C.; Orlando, Fla.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Miami; Winston-Salem, N.C.; Columbus, Ohio; Birmingham, Ala.; and Kansas City, Mo.

Agreement made in Title IX case

AUSTIN (AP) — A lawyer for seven female University of Texas students said today that an agreement has been reached in their lawsuit that alleged sexual discrimination in UT athletics.

"The parties have agreed to a settlement in this matter," said a statement from lawyer Diane Henson.

University officials declined to comment on the lawsuit, which had alleged that Texas was in violation of Title IX requirements on gender equity.

The Austin American-Statesman reported that details of the settlement weren't immediately available because of a gag order issued by U.S. District Judge Sam Sparks.

Caught in the Crossfire

Eastwood's latest called 'uproariously entertaining'

By Vincent Canby
New York Times Film Critic

Clint Eastwood's timing is uncanny. After all the noise and hot air attending the releases of the somewhat less than perfect "Jurassic Park," "Last Action Hero" and "The Firm," he slips into town, almost modestly, giving the "True Grit" performance of his career in the most uproariously entertaining movie of the summer so far.

"In the Line of Fire" is not exactly "Potemkin." It's movie-making of the high, smooth, commercial order that Hollywood prides itself on but achieves with singular infrequency.

Eastwood's charcoal-mellowed persona lends "In the Line of Fire" its tone and class. He is the movie's spine. At the same time, note should also be made of those who gave the film its shape: Jeff Maguire, who wrote the original screenplay based on an idea by Jeff Apple, the producer, and Wolfgang Petersen, the German-born director of "Das Boot," who has finally found an American property to equal his earlier international success.

"In the Line of Fire" is the kind of movie that gives teamwork a good name. Taking the remnants of a dozen other movies, this team has concocted a suspense melodrama so satisfying that its cliches, which keep it zipping forward, become epiphanies: by the time you reach the end and look back, everything makes sense. There are very few movies this summer about which that can be said with a straight face.

Eastwood's role would appear to have been made to order, although he has a way of inhabiting his roles so completely that it's never easy to tell where the writing leaves off and he begins. He plays Frank Horrigan, self-described as "a white, piano-playing male over the age of 50," while he may be over 60 in fact.

Abracadabra

Zany Bette Midler, who stars as Winifred Sanderson, returns as a powerful witch from the 17th century whose restless spirit is accidentally conjured up on Halloween night in present-day Salem, Mass., in Walt Disney Pictures new live-action comedy/adventure "Hocus Pocus." Midler co-stars with her on-screen trouble-making sisters Sara Jessica Parker and Kathy Najimy. Review/2C.

Boy meets orca, boy frees orca

LOS ANGELES — The class act of the summer family films has arrived in "Free Willy," a movie that actually is about family — specifically, the quest for it by two adolescent loners.

Jesse (Jason James Richter), a troubled young boy, develops a friendship with Willy (Keiko), an orca whale, in Warner Bros.' drama, "Free Willy."

The first is the title character, an orca whale introduced, under opening credits, with his pod in stunning wildlife footage that makes his subsequent isolation and capture all the more heart-rending.

On the streets of Portland, Ore., meanwhile, another capture is in progress. Abandoned years ago by his mother, 12-year-old Jesse (Jason James Richter), who has been scavenging off the streets with a like-minded group of homeless youngsters, is pursued by police but manages to fire off a few rounds of spray paint before being hauled downtown.

It turns out that the paint has defaced the underground windows of a huge amusement park aquarium where a sullen Willy is refusing to cooperate with the park's trainer (Lori Petty), much to the disgust of the greedy owner (Michael Ironside).

Jesse's last-chance assignment to prospective adoptive parents (Michael Madsen, Jayne Atkinson) carries with it the proviso that he must clean up the mess at the aquarium. But a funny thing happens during the forced labor: The truculent youngster, suspicious of the kindly couple giving him the best home he's ever had, bonds with the lonely whale.

Soon, with the support and encouragement of Petty and the park's mystical-minded handyman (August Schellenberg), Jesse and Willy are working up an act that should save Willy from being sold off or worse. Ultimately, of course, more drastic action is required to save this particular whale.

"Free Willy" doesn't score high marks for subtlety as it deftly unspools its messages about the values and obligations of love, responsibility, trust and friendship. But director Simon Wincer doesn't allow the sentiment to get out of hand, primarily by balancing it with an (Condensed movie reviews by Los Angeles Daily News film critics. The rating system for the film list is: ★★★★ — Don't miss it; ★★★ — worth your while; ★★ — Has it moments; ★ — if you must).

N.Y. Times News Service

CLIFFHANGER: Truly spectacular stunts, camerawork and special effects are nearly wasted on this stone dumb, Alpine adventure. Sylvester Stallone battles John Lithgow's murderous thieves at 12,000 feet. Director Renny Harlin ("Die Hard 2") piles on the virtuoso, ridiculous action, but the effects of oxygen deprivation are only apparent when somebody tries to speak coherently. R. Rating: ★★½

DENNIS THE MENACE: Cartoonist Hank Ketcham's durable 6-year-old is a lot funnier in newspapers than in this latest John Hughes production. Walter Matthau provides a few laughs as the irascible Mr. Wilson, the unwilling object of Dennis' attention, but newcomer Mason Gamble is just so-so and the movie is too sticky sweet to be the social satire it could have been. PG. Rating: ★½

DRAGON: THE BRUCE LEE STORY: Sometimes silly, overridingly creepy tribute to the evidently cursed, martial arts superstar. Jason Scott Lee (no relation) is astonishing as the late kung fu master — he has Bruce's mesmerizing energy, facial contortions and slide-whistle caterwaul down pat. There's drippy romance, triumphal melodrama and some nonsense with a Chinese demon warrior, too — but, as with Lee's life, the main attraction here is the fighting. PG-13 Rating: ★★½

THE FIRM: Sydney Pollack's gripping, intelligent film version of John Grisham's legal thriller improves on the book. Tom Cruise is the only weak link — and he's never less than adequate — in this cerebral suspenser about a young lawyer enmeshed in a mob-connected law firm. He must use all of his legal skills to avoid getting squashed by the government or mafia or both, and his ingenious strategy is the film's real star. Jeanne Tripplehorn ("Basic Instinct"), Gene Hackman, Ed Harris and Holly Hunter provide invaluable support. R. Rating: ★★★½

HOT SHOTS! PART DEUX: A pumped-up Charlie Sheen, a now-presidential Lloyd Bridges and Saddam Hussein are back in this latest action-movie parody. Instead of "Top Gun," they're mostly sending up "Rambo" this time, and the results are arguably funnier than the pretty witty first flight. It's also a good-looking movie — better than most of the allegedly serious "Rambo" knockoffs — if limited, as all these things are, by its barrage of jokes' variable humor. PG-13. Rating: ★★★

JURASSIC PARK: Steven Spielberg's dino-spectacular is not the religious experience many expected, but it's a pretty good, sci-fi chase movie. Something goes wrong at an island amusement park whose main attraction is genetically engineered, live dinosaurs. The big lizards, realized by a superb combination of full-sized robots and computer-generated graphics, have infinitely more charisma than their underwritten human prey, played by Sam Neill, Laura Dern, Jeff Goldblum and Richard Attenborough. PG-13. Rating: ★★★

LAST ACTION HERO: Of all things, an intellectually ambitious satire of Arnold Schwarzenegger action movies — starring Arnold Schwarzenengger. For the most part, it's too loud and, well, action packed to work, though a few scenes are marvels of self-reflexive humor. Austin O'Brien is the 11-year-old

FIRE: Performance is best of Clint Eastwood's career

(From 1C)

His age makes no difference to the audience (he looks agelessly great), but it's a major factor in the film.

Frank is a Secret Service agent who probably should have retired some time ago but can't. His job has become his life since it caused his split from his wife and family. He's the sort of guy who winds up each day in a favorite cocktail bar, noodling on the piano, drinking too much Jack Daniels. (Jack Daniels isn't mentioned in the film, but Frank would be a brand-name drinker.) He also has a secret.

On one of his first assignments 30 years ago, Frank was a member of the Secret Service detail that did not prevent the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas. Frank is haunted by the memory of that failure and by the question he keeps asking himself: Would he have had the courage or instinct to throw himself between the president and the bullet if he had had that split-second opportunity?

In the Line of Fire

Frank Horrigan ..... CLINT EASTWOOD
Mitch Leary ..... JOHN MALKOVICH
Lilly Raines ..... RENE RUSSO
Al D'Andrea ..... DYLAN McDERMOTT

In the Line of Fire Directed by Wolfgang Petersen; Written by Jeff Maguire; Director of photography, John Bailey; Edited by Anne V. Coates; Music by Ennio Morricone; Production designer, Lilly Kilvert; Produced by Jeff Apple.

Running time: 126 minutes.
Rated R: (language, violence).
Venue: UA Cine 4.

When first met, Frank and his young partner, Al D'Andrea (Dylan McDermott), are working on routine if dangerous assignments relating to counterfeiters and such. During an investigation of a man who seems obsessed by presidential assassinations, Frank suspects that the fellow is not a crackpot but someone with a seriously deranged mind.

This suspicion is confirmed when the man begins to telephone Frank at all hours to chat about his plans to kill the president, and to make sarcastic comments about Frank's behavior as part of the Dallas motorcade. He either knows Frank, has studied him or has access to his agency files. Frank alerts his superiors and asks that he and Al be assigned to the presidential security team.

"In the Line of Fire" is the story of Frank's efforts to identify and stop the would-be killer, who stalks him with malicious joy as he stalks the president in earnest. It's also the story of Frank's need to prove himself. Finally, though not least, it's the story of his hilarious September-May affair with Lilly Raines (Rene Russo), a beautiful, much younger agent also assigned to the president's security.

Lilly is as odd as Frank. She knows she must be nuts to fall for this dinosaur. When she tells him, "Let's face it, Frank, you're too old," it's as much to convince herself as it is to persuade him that he ought to retire gracefully and not mess up other people's lives, including hers.

"In the Line of Fire" also has a first-rate villain in Mitch Leary, played by John Malkovich with the same insinuating mixture of wit and malevolence that the actor brought to his New York stage performance in Sam Shepard's "True West." Malkovich eases into the film in a kind of slither. First he's a voice on the telephone, then an eye, a nose, a face seen in a pore-tight close-up. When finally seen in full figure, he appears to be both maniacal and utterly ordinary.

The screenplay does well by both Eastwood and Malkovich, especially in their telephone exchanges in which Mitch delights in sending up the Secret Service man while the rest of the agency is frantically trying to trace the call. Mitch constantly questions Frank's sincerity about being willing to give his life to protect the president's. Mitch acknowledges that his will be a suicide mission.

"I have a rendezvous with death," he tells Frank, dramatizing himself with the self-consciousness of a first-year English major. When Frank indicates that he recognizes the Alan Seeger lines, Mitch can't resist setting Frank straight about literature: "It's really not a good poem, Frank."

Commanding the film but never getting in the way of it is Eastwood. His Frank is as obsessed as Malkovich's assassin, but also easy and self-aware, cool and amused. This is the richest performance yet by an actor who, among other things, keeps getting better and better.

(Photos, Page 1C: Clockwise, from upper left, Clint Eastwood, as Secret Service agent Frank Horrigan; John Malkovich, as potential assassin Mitch Leary, aka Booth; Malkovich in one of his many disguises; Eastwood and co-star Rene Russo, as Lilly Raines, share a relaxed moment).

REVIEWS: 'Son-In-Law' not as dumb as ad suggests fan who enters a movie supercop's fictional world, then brings him back into something like our real dimension. John McTiernan ("The Hunt for Red October") directs with little evident sensitivity to the scenario's comic potential. PG-13. Rating: ★★

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR: A sweet and funny fable about a clumsy 12-year-old who is drafted by the Chicago Cubs when his broken arm heals into a 100-mph pitching machine. Rookie director Daniel Stern in a not-so-shabby performance himself milks the situation for all its comic potential without ever losing sight of the warmth that gives the film its "Big"-ish charm. PG. Rating: ★★★

THE SANDLOT: Slackly written and poorly directed reverie over how baseball brings a group of disparate boys together in the summer of '62. Kids may enjoy some of the high jinks, but parents will have to really love their progeny to sit through this. PG. Rating: ★★

SLEEPLESS IN SEATTLE: Tom Hanks and Meg Ryan star in Nora Ephron's contrived, self-mocking and deliriously wonderful romantic comedy. He's a widowed single father; she's a passion rattled journalist on the other side of the continent. They don't meet until the last scene. In the meantime, Ephron (who wrote Ryan's hit "When Harry Met Sally...") hilariously implores us to bury our fake, movie fed romantic notions — then makes us fall for them all over again. PG-13. Rating: ★★★½

SNOW WHITE AND THE SEVEN DWARFS: The latest reissue of Disney's first cartoon feature, now 56 years old, has been digitally cleaned up and had its sound remixed. Despite that, it's still a little creaky, but the Dwarfs' comic mayhem and the artists' still-startling design ingenuity more than compensate for a few drippy songs and some regressive, gender-role assumptions. G. Rating: ★★★

SON-IN-LAW: Pauly Shore stars in this fish-out-of-water comedy about a wacky Southern Californian naif posing as the fiance of a farmer's daughter (Carla Gugino) from the Dakotas. It's actually not as dumb as the ads suggest, but not particularly funny either. PG-13. Rating: ★½

WEEKEND AT BERNIE'S II: Everybody's favorite party zombie is back. But the party's over in this altogether lamer, broader and less funny sequel, in which a bungled voodoo spell resurrects Bernie, but only when he hears reggae music. Terry Kiser brings the only life to the proceedings as the abused, amusing corpse. Andrew McCarthy and Jonathan Silverman are once again the losers who haul him around, this time through the Virgin Islands. PG. Rating: ★

Malcolm X arrives on home video

Associated Press

When he was assassinated Feb. 21, 1965, Malcolm X was given an eloquent eulogy by actor Ossie Davis in which he calls the slain leader, "our manhood, our living black manhood! This was his meaning to his people. And in honoring him, we honor the best in ourselves."

Spike Lee uses Davis' eulogy to cap his three-hour, 21-minute epic, "Malcolm X."

Davis' voiceover, combined with real footage, could have provided a powerful end to Lee's theatrical interpretation. Instead, Lee tacks on a segment with South African leader Nelson Mandela and a grade-school lesson, and thrusts us into a rally on Malcolm X Boulevard in Harlem where hired extras in Malcolm X T-shirts converge with arms raised.

The result is that we walk away from this film with little emotion. Certainly, the dramatization of Malcolm's life should evoke some feeling — rage, sympathy, hope, anger, frustration, pride, sorrow. Snippets of the film should remain burned in our minds or our hearts.

But Lee's movie, despite good intentions, does not inspire any visceral realities. It simply is too superficial, too theatrically poised without the hard edge that could have made it a masterpiece.

A better bet is "Malcolm X: The Documentary," a compelling film by Arnold Perl and Marvin Worth, who produced Lee's film. Here, we're given real footage of Malcolm X with none of Lee's silly flourishes. The documentary was made in 1972 and re-released earlier this year.

Others happily cash in on Jurassic tails

N.Y. Times News Service

LOS ANGELES — Dinosaurs, dinosaurs everywhere — and some of them aren't even making money for Steven Spielberg and Michael Crichton.

While "Jurassic Park" licensees are, for the most part, doing blockbuster business, dinosaur merchandise unrelated to the Universal Pictures film — toys, books, and even a made-for-video movie — also appears to be benefiting from its phenomenal popularity.

Paramount Home Video recently shipped 30,000 copies of a PG-rated straight-to-video dinosaur movie, "Prehysteria," about a family that discovers and cares for a brood of newly hatched pygmy dinosaurs. Its cast includes Austin O'Brien, Arnold Schwarzenegger's youthful sidekick in "Last Action Hero."

"Prehysteria" is the first release of Moonbeam Entertainment, the family-entertainment arm of the Paramount-distributed straight-to-video fantasy-science-fiction label Full Moon Entertainment.

Full Moon founder Charles Band, who produced and co-directed "Prehysteria," said it was one of several movies being considered to launch Moonbeam when the idea for a label for G- and PG-rated fantasy and sci-fi videos came up two years ago.

"As 'Jurassic Park' began to loom on the horizon, the timing began to look real good," Band said. "We've got a nice story and there will be a lot of kids underage who can't see 'Jurassic Park.'"

Other dinosaur videos currently in the stores include several titles from the "Land of the Lost" and "Dinosaur" TV series.

"We find that when something comes out that's big like 'Jurassic Park,' the older (related) titles always enjoy extra business," said Wally Knief, corporate communications manager for Blockbuster Entertainment Corp., parent of the Blockbuster Video chain.

While Universal Pictures and Spielberg's Amblin Entertainment can do nothing about others who trade in dinosaurmania, they can and are going after people perceived as attempting to profit from "Jurassic Park."

Federico's, a Manhattan restaurant next door to a movie theater where "Jurassic Park" was playing, was asked by the theater manager to remove signs from its windows offering such items as dinosaur burgers and Jurassic cheesecake.

"Supposedly, (producer) Kathleen Kennedy saw the signs and said it was copyright infringement," said Norman Leighton, whose wife owns the restaurant. Not only are the signs still up, but so is a New York magazine item on the incident.

"It isn't benefitting us very much, but I don't think it's hurting 'Jurassic Park,'" Leighton added.

Universal, at one point, ran ads asking the public to report suspected pirated "Jurassic Park" merchandise to an 800 number.

'Hocus Pocus': Moe, Curly and Bette

Latest offering from Disney Studios all trick, no treat

By Patricia Bibby
Associated Press Writer

In "Hocus Pocus," there's a point when a witch called Winifred threatens to snatch up and kill an intensely adorable little apple-cheeked girl named Dani. "You die first!" screeches the witch, played by Bette Midler.

It's a moment that was intended to have you shivering with fear — sort of like when Dorothy was seized by the Wicked Witch.

Walt Disney Studios

But instead, it's a moment that had a screening audience — presumably packed with friends of the studio, Walt Disney Pictures, no less — cheering with delight at the suggestion that an end was in sight to the film's unrelieved treacle and high hokum.

This dreary little waste of celluloid is set in Salem, Mass., on Halloween 300 years after a trio of witches — the Sanderson sisters, Winifred, Mary (Kathy Najimy) and Sarah (Sarah Jessica Parker) — were hanged for the deaths of two children. The witches sucked the life out of one girl, which apparently works as a tonic to keep the old hags young, and turned a boy into a black cat that never can be killed.

The witches return from their three centuries of limbo after Dani's brother, Max (Omri Katz), incredulously lights a black-flamed candle that has the power to summon back the women, but only if it is lit on full moon by a virgin.

Got that?

The witches reappear all bluster and bumble in a fashion that seems more a bad Three Stooges imitation than any sort of mystical farce. Midler is the crafty one with bad teeth; Najimy the supplicant sibling with a nose like a bloodhound when it comes to sniffing out children; and Parker is the daffy one who says "ahhhhh" more times than a person with bad tonsils. Perhaps she's just trying to master monosyllables before working up to actual lines.

The witches are back with a mission — to capture as many children as possible in order to stay young forever. Of course, they start with the ruby-lipped little Dani (Thora Birch), who is cursed with so many smug, smart-aleck lines that killing her off probably would be as rewarding for the viewer as it would be for the witches. It doesn't help that Birch's acting ability is as overdone as the witches' makeup.

Dani, Max and their friend, Allison (the stunning Vinessa Shaw, who looks to be 16-going-on-25), set out to thwart the witches with the help of Binx, the immortal cat who talks, and a 300-year-old corpse whose mouth has been stitched shut.

Got that?

It's apropos that "Hocus Pocus" centers on a Halloween caper — this movie is all trick, no treat. The special effects, well, they aren't. The dialogue is dreadful. Here's Dani talking to her brother, Max: "You saved my life." Max: "I had to, I'm your brother." "I love you." "I love you."

The plot is so contrived, it makes your skin crawl.

There also are several scenes involving the cat being run over by a car and tortured in other ways that most young children probably would find very disturbing.

When it comes to "Hocus Pocus," the only real curses in this film will be yours as you walk up the aisle to leave.

WILLY: Movie's opening, closing adds majestic touch

Newcomer Richter, on screen practically the entire time, turns in an impressive performance as a young boy forced to confront some painful realities. On the supporting side, it's nice to see Madsen playing something besides a nut case; he does a fine job as a decent guy who's not sure the fatherhood gig is worth the struggle.

Credit must also go to veteran marine wildlife filmmaker Bob Talbot for the stirring opening and closing sequences, which lend majesty to an essentially small film; and to Keiko the whale, whose performance as Willy lives up to his species' nickname: It's a killer.

Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you, bless then that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you.
Luke 6:27-28

For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life.
John 3:16

I Can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.
Phillippians 4:13

Hebrews 11:1

I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger: and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.
John 6:35

ON HOLY GROUND

MANY OF THE IMPORTANT MEN IN THE BIBLE WERE VISITED BY THE SPIRIT OF GOD. MOSES, JOSHUA, ELISHA, ETC. WHEN THE PRESENCE OF GOD WAS FELT THE PARTICIPANTS WERE WARNED THAT THEY WERE TREADING ON HOLY GROUND AND WERE CAUTIONED TO TAKE OFF THEIR SHOES AS AN ACT OF REVERENCE, HUMILITY, AND OBEDIENCE. MOSES, WHEN HE VISITED THE BURNING BUSH, WAS TOLD BY THE VOICE OF GOD TO TAKE OFF HIS SANDALS. (EXODUS 3:5) JOSHUA, OUTSIDE OF JERICHO, WAS INSTRUCTED ALSO TO LAY ASIDE HIS WAR BOOTS AS HE LISTENED TO THE VOICE OF THE ANGEL. (JOSHUA 5:15) THE ESSENCE OF THIS PHYSICAL ACT CAN BE OBSERVED TODAY BY THE PETITIONER IN PRAYER TO GOD.

Mathew 21:22

Trust in the Lord with all thine heart: and lean not unto thine own understanding.
Proverbs 3:5

Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.
Ephesians 5:20

For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind.
II Timothy 1:7

A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but sorrow of the heart the spirit is broken.

Church official: U.S. should have trusted judicial process in Kuwait

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States should have trusted the judicial process in Kuwait, rather than bomb Iraq in retaliation for the plot against the life of former President Bush, according to the general secretary of the National Council of Churches.

"It is our observation that violence in the Middle East, however rationalized, tends to be cumulative rather than purgative. Each military action plants the seeds for the next," the Rev. Joan B. Campbell said in a letter to President Clinton.

Assuming Iraqi leaders were found guilty of plotting to murder Bush, Campbell said, the United Sstates could have taken its case to the United Nations or to an international tribunal.

Laverne Tripp Family

Laverne Tripp Family to perform

ODESSA — The Laverne Tripp Family is to perform at Faith Tabernacle Assembly of God, 1420 E. 42nd St., at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The LaVerne Tripp Family's 30 minute television program, winner of the Angel Award, is seen weekly. Tripp and his wife, Edith, also are guest hosts of the "Praise the Lord Program" on the Trinity Broadcasting Network.

Current songs by Tripp include "We've Got the Power," "My Shepherd" and "We'll Not Be Defeated."

The public is invited to attend.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Minister to leave

The Rev. Gary Grooves will be leaving Memorial Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, 1001 Andrews Highway, as of Sunday to become minister at First Christian Church in Big Spring.

He will be preaching Sunday at the 8:30 and 10:50 a.m. services.

In addition, he and his wife, Judy, will be honored at a fellowship dinner at the church Sunday evening.

■ Meetings in Midland

The Reformed Presbyterian Church is now meeting in Midland.

"The Reformed Presbyterian Church of North America traces its origin back to the 16th century Scottish Reformation and believes that the Reformed faith is the most consistent system and practical application of understanding the Bible," according to a release from the church.

Services for the Midland Reformed Presbyterian Church are at 11 a.m. Sundays with Sabbath School at 9:30 a.m. For more information or the location of services call 699-7656.

■ Church plans outing

Grace Presbyterian Church, 2801 N. Garfield St., will hold its annual "Night Out at the Ballpark" Wednesday at Angel Stadium.

Each summer the membership at Grace participates in a hot dog or hamburger dinner at the ballpark. All are invited.

■ Musical scheduled

St. Paul C.M.E. Church, 409 S. Lee St., is presenting a musical at 7:30 p.m. Monday and conducting a revival and Bible seminar Tuesday through Friday.

Bible class begins at 6:30 p.m.

The revival begins at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. The Rev. Rayfield Medcalf will be the teacher. Medcalf is a graduate of Samuel Houston College and Southern Methodist University.

Fellowship and refreshments are planned for 7:30 p.m. today at Kerr Center, 409 S. Lee St. Service time Sunday is 3 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

For more information call 682-0010.

■ Founder to speak

George Otis, founder of High Adventure Ministries, will be speaking at the Midland Hilton, Wall Avenue at Loraine Street, at 6 p.m. today.

Otis

Otis is a frequent lecturer and author of nine books including "Like a Roaring Lion," "High Adventure" and "Voice of Hope."

He travels more than 200,000 miles a year on behalf of High Adventure's Voice of Hope Worldwide radio network.

The public is invited to hear him speak. For more information call Kelly Coleman, 699-5149.

■ Church plans concert

Crestview Baptist Church, 3300 Thomas St., is holding its annual choir favorites concert at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The concert will include such selections as "Behold the Lamb," "It Is Well with My Soul," "I Bowed on My Knees and Cried Holy" and "Step into the Water."

The public is invited to attend.

■ Family to perform

ODESSA — The LaVerne Tripp Family is to perform at Faith Tabernacle Assembly of God, 1420 E. 42nd St., at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The LaVerne Tripp Family's 30 minute television program, winner of the Angel Award, is seen weekly. Tripp and his wife, Edith, also are guest hosts of the "Praise the Lord Program" on the Trinity Broadcasting Network.

Current songs by Tripp include "We've Got the Power," "My Shepherd" and "We'll Not Be Defeated."

The public is invited to attend.

■ Camp plans session

The 73rd consecutive session of the historic Paisano Baptist Encampment will be held July 25-30 at the encampment grounds midway between Alpine and Marfa on Highway 90, near Paisano Peak.

Preachers for this year, who alternate services, will be the Rev. Dr. James Denison, pastor of Midland's First Baptist Church; and the Rev. Dr. Milton Cunningham, director of Pastor and Church Relations for Baylor University.

A day camp is offered for first- through sixth-graders each morning under the direction of Charles Elliott, minister of activities, Midland's First Baptist Church.

Classes for pre-schoolers and a nursery also are available each morning. The nursery is open for all services.

The first meal will be July 25. No pre-registration is required, but each family will need to make arrangements for housing. Women may contact Nita Dempsey, Marfa, 1-729-4292, for a bed in the Woman's Missionary Union Dormitory.

For more information call Lloyd Conner, publicity vice president, 1-762-2019 during morning office hours, or contact the encampment at 1-837-3074.

■ Meeting scheduled

Speakers include Ron McIntosh of Tulsa, Okla., David Patterson,

■ Church plans VBS

Northwestern Baptist Church is planning its "Summershine" Vacation Bible School July 26-30.

The school, which will meet from 9 a.m. to noon, is for children kindergarten through sixth grade. For more information call the church.

■ VBS scheduled

Hours are 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. The school offers a class for every age, including adult. The church's pastor, the Rev. Leon Greene, invites the public to attend.

■ Church hosts program

The Unitarian-Universalist Church, Neely Avenue at Midkiff Street, will host a program entitled "The Peruvian Jungle: A Personal Odessy," at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Chidlaw

Carol Chidlaw will discuss her travel with the National Wildlife Federation to the rain forest of the Amazon River.

"I shared Thanksgiving dinner with a Toucan and a Macaw, and almost slept with a tarantula," Ms. Chidlaw said. "I thought I might find Mr. Right down there, and he jumped out of my water pitcher one night, his little frog suction feet plopping up my arm. Who knows what he'd have become if he'd stuck around long enough for me to kiss him."

The public is invited to attend. Child care will be provided.

■ Video series shown

Crossroads Christian Fellowship, 410 S. Pecos St., is showing Gary Smalley's video "Hidden Keys to Loving Relationships" Sundays through Aug. 15.

The series will be shown at 7 p.m. For more information call 682-2190.

■ Church plans VBS

"Our Vacation Bible School features animals this summer," said Evelyn Dixon, director. "Like Noah, we'll be surrounded by God's wonderful creatures and everyone of them has a story to tell about their creator."

The sanctuary will be transformed into a park, complete with a giant ark. VBS hours are 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The free daily program is for children 3 through teens and adults and includes games, crafts, songs, snacks and Bible information.

All are welcome to attend. For more information on VBS call 682-5159 or 683-1743.

■ VBS to be held in July

Grace Presbyterian Church is holding Vacation Bible School July 26-29.

This year's theme is "Living in God's Creation." Hours are 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The school is open to children 2 years old through sixth grade.

For more information call Carole Strange, 697-2807.

■ Program to be offered

Hospice of Midland is offering a Grief Recovery Program in August.

The program is open to interested parties. The four sessions will be held on Tuesdays at Hospice House, 911 W. Texas Ave.

For more information call Thelma or Mark, 682-2974.

■ Seminary offers class

The West Texas Extension Program of Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary will be offering the class "Introduction to World Religions" in Odessa Sept. 12 through Dec. 5.

Registration has started and will continue through Sept. 7. The Rev. Terry C. Muck, associate professor of comparative religion at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, will teach the course.

The course is a six-hour credit course for the master of divinity program at Austin Seminary.

The class will meet at Westminister Presbyterian Church, 4901 Maple, from 3:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays.

For more information call or write to Dr. A.J. Moreau, director of the program, 682-2514, Trinity Presbyterian Church, 2800 W. Louisiana Ave., Midland, 79701.

■ Church plans worship

First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave., is offering weekday worship opportunities from 12:30 p.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesdays and 5:30 to 6:25 p.m. Thursdays in the chapel.

The focus of the Thursday worship during the summer will be Deuteronomy 30:19. Themes of worship include "Are You Living By Creative Risk?," July 22; "Are You Excited About Your Future?," July 29; "Do People Feel Important Around You?," Aug. 5; "Do You Have the Courage to be Happy?," Aug. 12; and "Conclusions About Wellness," Aug. 19.

■ Church camp planned

The camp, led by Beth and Ed Bull, is a five-day camping trip for 20 disadvantaged junior-high-aged youth. The campers will spend three nights at Camp Chimney Spring, near Cloudcroft, N.M., and one night at the Davis Mountain State Park, near Fort Davis. During these five days, youth will hike lava flows; collect rock, mineral and fossil specimens.

In Good Hands
Child Care You Can Count On.....

We're rounding the corner to summer's end and it's time to start making arrangements for child care for the school year. Child care is a vital concern for today's children by today's parents and for this reason the Midland Reporter-Telegram is publishing our annual Child Care Directory on Sunday, August 8th.

The Child Care Directory is a method used to reach parents with information about the services that are available in the Midland area and who provides them. The parents of children in the Midland area have come to rely on this directory as a guide to quality child care. This section focuses on the basic "who, what, where and when" of quality child care in our area and the section includes a map so that your facility can easily be located.

You will probably want your facility represented with an ad in this special Child Care Directory, a story about your facility, a photo of your facility and a dot on the map to show your location. Special ad packages, ranging from an 8" ad to an 18" ad, are available. There are also rates for regular ads of any size.

Deadline for this special Child Care Directory is Thursday, July 29, 1993. For more information, and to reserve your ad space in the Child Care Directory, please call:

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1993

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A change of environment leads to greater happiness. Make a break with the past. Tension drains away when you truly enjoy the work you do. New financial benefits will enhance a close relationship in November. If business concerns become less important in December, go ahead and travel for pleasure. Children will be easier to take along than expected. Innovative ideas can be a gold mine if marketed correctly. See what an expert thinks as 1994 gets under way.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor James Cagney, TV host Art Linkletter, actress Diahann Carroll, author Erle Stanley Gardner.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Avoid pointless arguments today or you could jeopardize your leadership role. A member of the opposite sex is more attached to you than you think. Travel provides valuable insights.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A day when it is fun to be on the go. Double-check reservations by calling ahead. Talking about recent problems may sound dull but could pay surprising benefits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You win important points by providing service, answers, even a ride. VIPs are impressed by your business savvy. Friends may urge you to enter an athletic competition.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Banish work worries and have fun. Activities that include relatives of all ages prove especially rewarding. Check the newspaper for free entertainment options.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A favor may be asked of you; your on-the-spot assistance saves the day. Spend money on good health or a favorite hobby. Let your heart express what your mind denies.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Romance is perplexing. Trust the tried-and-true, not luck, to achieve your goals. Hurts felt deep inside are healed by people who truly understand what you are going through.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Welcome new experiences with an open mind. The sights of travel and sound of music prove especially stimulating. Accentuate good will and laughter to ward off the blues tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Another's difficulties might be an opportunity for you to prosper now. Doing good on behalf of other people puts you in a prized position. Do not get bogged down by a neighbor's problems.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Call or visit your friends today; a fun time awaits you. Go slow if you meet an attractive stranger at a social event. Moving too quickly would be a mistake. Guard savings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Purchases or projects you feel strongly about are likely to turn out just right. Comparison shopping yields some fine bargains. Ask a friend to accompany you to a public event.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A friend's lucky secret may become yours. A special circle of acquaintances can supply much-needed funds or favors. Learn more about business cycles and trends.

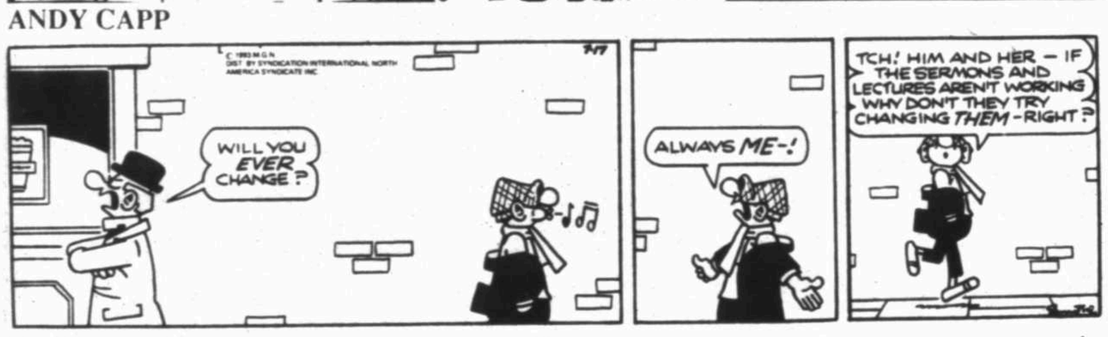

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Domestic repairs may require immediate expenditures. Try not to take on too many projects at one time. Romance on the rebound could prove surprisingly fulfilling. Do not repeat an earlier mistake.

Clinton maintains fitness, runs with Olympic winners

WASHINGTON — President Clinton survived a morning jog Friday with three former Olympic athletes, including multiple gold medalist Florence Griffith Joyner, who was barely breathing hard after a 35-minute jaunt.

Griffith Joyner

Clinton appeared winded and tired, but at least he finished. Griffith Joyner's husband pooped out early.

Griffith Joyner paced the president along with former Olympian and National Basketball Association star Tom McMillen, also a former Democratic congressman from Maryland.

Clinton recently appointed Griffith Joyner and McMillen to co-chair the President's Council on Physical Fitness, which encourages Americans to get more active in sports.

"They're in pretty good shape," Joyner said as he emerged from the president's motorcade at the White House.

Griffith Joyner won three gold medals and a silver at the 1988 Olympics in Seoul, and is now in training for the 1996 Olympics. McMillen played in the NBA for nine years and was a member of the 1972 Olympic basketball team.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. — Pop singer Mariah Carey invited Albany Police Athletic League band members to join her on stage for the taping of an NBC television special.

"Mariah has had some experience with the PAL organization in New York City, so she offered us the opportunity to come up," said Police Lt. Robert Wolfgang.

About 40 children, ages 8 to 15, sat onstage Wednesday in Schenectady while Carey sang "I'll Be There." The special is scheduled for broadcast in the fall.

* * *

FONTANA, Wis. — The heat's off Axl Rose.

Such as it was.

Walworth County officials said last month they'd foreclose on the Guns N' Roses singer if he didn't pay $7,095 in delinquent property taxes on lot he owns near the resort area of Geneva Lake.

Rose has paid up, said Carol Burgess, a clerk in the county treasurer's office.

No taxes had been paid on the 10-acre property for four years, according to county records. Rose has made no improvements to the lot, Burgess said Friday.

LYON, France — Singer Bob Dylan canceled a Friday night concert because of an undisclosed illness, tour organizers said.

Dylan

The Lyon stop, following appearances in Portugal, was among the last of his shows before he concludes the tour in Bern, Switzerland.

Dylan, 52, had planned to perform in the old Fourviere Theater before 3,000 people in this city in central France.

OMAHA, Neb. — Robert Redford's son James has received a second liver transplant.

The liver is functioning "pretty darned well," said Dr. Byers Shaw, who performed the surgery.

Shaw said Thursday the 31-year-old screenwriter who lives in Denver has a good chance of recovering fully. The second transplant was performed last week at the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

He underwent a liver transplant in March, but that organ failed because of clotting, Shaw said.

Redford's own liver was damaged by primary sclerosing cholangitis, a disease in which the body's immune system attacks the liver's bile ducts.

KING'S LYNN, England — Prince Charles and Princess Diana made a rare public appearance as a couple when they attended the funeral Thursday of her grandmother, the Dowager Lady Fermoy.

The estranged pair walked side-by-side behind his grandmother, the 92-year-old Queen Mother, into the 12th century St. Margaret's Anglican church in this town in the east of England.

They also sat together during the 30-minute service attended by 400 mourners, and walked to their limousine when it was over, chatting while Charles held up an umbrella against the rain.

Lady Fermoy, who died July 6 at age 84, was said to have been close to Diana. She also was a close friend to the Queen Mother, becoming her lady-in-waiting in 1957, after both were widowed, and in 1960 received the title of Woman of the Bedchamber.

Prison board considers fate of director

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The state prison board took a U-turn Friday and set aside a motion to fire James Lynaugh, executive director of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

The prisons chief emerged tight-lipped after a two-hour executive session with the board and silently took a seat beside chairman Carol Vance, who announced the panel's decision to table a motion regarding Lynaugh's employment.

"The board had some concerns," said Vance after the board's monthly meeting at Sam Houston State University. "But it (the board) was unanimous in its agreement that James Lynaugh can carry out the policies of this board."

Just days before, Vance said he had enough votes on the eight-member panel to oust the 53-year-old Lynaugh and confirmed that a demotion offer had been made to him so he could retain his retirement benefits.

"Well, I was pleased with the board," said Lynaugh, head of the Texas prisons system since 1987. "I think the board had some concerns and I addressed them."

Neither Vance nor Lynaugh would elaborate on what those concerns were. Lynaugh has been criticized for his lackluster support of further privatization of the state prison system.

Also, Lynaugh has suffered from disclosures late last year that former department internal affairs chief Jim Gant had ordered investigations of Gov. Ann Richards and two board members.

Vance said the board's change of heart had nothing to do with possible influence from a team of legislators, including state Rep. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville — chief of the House Corrections Committee — who attended the meeting.

"I think there was a legitimate lack of communication," said Hightower, who said the possibility of Lynaugh's removal shocked lawmakers.

Hightower suggested a possible reason for the discord may be the state's jail overcrowding issue which has overshadowed the prison system for years. State prisoners were clogging up county jails and a federal court had demanded overcrowding be eased or the state would face hefty fines.

"Perhaps one or two members have a greater interest in pardons or parole," Hightower said. "They're probably right because the legislature had demanded we put out the fire before we rebuild the house."

Because state prisoner limits have taken much of the department's focus, some on the board have felt not enough attention has been paid to the system's parole and pardons issues.

In recent years, there have been several celebrated cases of prisoners have slipped through loopholes in the parole system to return to a life of crime.

But Hightower is uncertain whether that was the catalyst for the campaign to remove Lynaugh.

"I don't know what pushed it over the edge," Hightower said.

The board reportedly had six votes, one more than necessary, to remove Lynaugh, but key legislators had attempted to persuade at least two board members to reconsider.

Vance said earlier this week Lynaugh has been asked to stay with the agency in another job even if he were fired.

The demotion also would allow allowed Lynaugh to remain on the payroll until 1995, when he becomes vested in his retirement.

Other sources said Lynaugh had not agreed to step aside.

Rookie police officer dies in gunfight with spouse

EL PASO (AP) — A rookie police officer was killed Friday morning in a gunfight with her husband, who is a reserve Sheriff's Department officer, a police spokesman said.

Jacqueline Avila, 24, an April graduate of the police academy, was shot at least once in the chest with a 9mm handgun at about 2:45 a.m., said El Paso Police Department spokesman Sgt. Bill Pfeil.

Her husband, Gilbert Avila, 23, was shot once in the shoulder, Pfeil said. He was listed in stable condition at Thomason Hospital.

"Apparently, they became involved in a marital dispute earlier this morning at midnight. That ceased, then picked up again at 2:45 and ended in gunfire," Pfeil said.

Ms. Avila died at the scene.

Pfeil said Ms. Avila apparently used her service handgun. Avila also used a handgun, but it was unclear whether it was his service weapon.

Police are investigating the shooting. No charges had been filed Friday.

Pfeil said the couple, who lived with Gilbert Avila's parents, had a history of marital disputes. But there were no known incidents of prior violence, he said.

The couple had a 20-month-old daughter, who was in the house at the time of the shooting. She was turned over to relatives who live a few doors away.

"It took me forever to get her to go to sleep," said a woman who would only identify herself as Gilbert Avila's sister-in-law.

"I guess she is OK for right now. We'll take care of her," the woman said, biting her lip and blinking back tears as he looked at the house where the shooting occurred.

Another woman, who identified herself as Gilbert Avila's aunt, said the couple was planning to move out of the house. Gilbert Avila was looking for a second job, she said.

"He was a good kid to me," she said. "I used to baby-sit him all the time. If he had a temper, I never saw it."

Gilbert Avila had formerly worked as a Police Department juvenile probation officer and at an auto parts store, Pfeil said. As a reserve sheriff's officer, he is an unpaid patrolman used to supplement the department's standing force.

Ms. Avila had been working as a police officer for three months out of the Police Department's Central Substation in downtown El Paso.

"She was real smart and had a good mind," said Capt. Carlos Subia, the substation commander. "She was small, but she made it up with a lot of self. This was a terrible loss, because although she was new, she was shaping up to be real good real quick."

Store video camera captures fatal stabbing of clerk

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A store surveillance camera captured the fatal stabbing of a clerk and helped police and prosecutors obtain two indictments less than 14 hours after the killing.

One suspect turned himself in early Thursday, about 20 minutes after 20-year-old Clay Peterson of Portland was killed. But officials said the main reason behind the speedy indictments was the graphic video account of the attack at Corpus Christi Beach 7-Eleven store.

Johnny J. Martinez, 20, of Kingsville, and Ernest Joseph Wortmann, 23, of Corpus Christi, were held without bond at the Nueces County Jail.

A man called from a hotel to say he had been involved in the stabbing, police said.

Officers said they found Martinez in the hotel lobby. According to the police report, Martinez asked on his way to the police station: "Is the guy I stabbed dead?"

District Attorney Carlos Valdez said the video shows a man robbing Peterson, then stabbing him in the neck, back and shoulders.

"He left the picture, then walked back into the picture and stabbed the victim again," Valdez said. "He did it after the robbery — the victim was cooperating."

Valdez said his office will seek the death penalty in the case.

"This one isn't negotiable," Valdez said.

PARTY ANIMALS

These popular animal figures will add color to your front or back yard even if you're not throwing a party...and they don't require any care or clean-up! The foursome includes a flamingo (29" tall), goose (18" x 11"), pig (21" x 9½"), and duck (15" x 10"), all made from ¾" exterior grade plywood. Just trace the full-size traceable patterns onto wood, cut out, sand, paint, and attach stakes to the figures so they can be displayed in your lawn.

DISTRIBUTORSHIPS

LOOKING FOR PART TIME JOB? HAVE WE GOT A DEAL FOR YOU

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which are available now.

Often Asked ?????
Is it worthwhile for adults also?
Yes! Our current distributor force is already 90% adult and 10% youth.

Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
- ADULTS who have F/T jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a distributor, you do not need daycare!
- STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors and friends.

How much money can I make as a distributor?
Some make even more!

How long does it take?
The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday-Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subsribers'papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?
6 a.m. Monday-Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Do I ever get a day off?
The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, distributors do take days off by finding a friend or a family member to substitute a for them!

RESERVE YOUR DISTRIBUTORSHIP NOW!

In Good Hands

Child Care You Can Count On.....

We're rounding the corner to summer's end and it's time to start making arrangements for child care for the school year. Child care is a vital concern for today's children by today's parents and for this reason the Midland Reporter-Telegram is publishing our annual Child Care Directory on Sunday, August 8th.

The Child Care Directory is a method used to reach parents with information about the services that are available in the Midland area and who provides them. The parents of children in the Midland area have come to rely on this directory as a guide to quality child care. This section focuses on the basic "who, what, where and when" of quality child care in our area and the section includes a map so that your facility can easily be located.

You will probably want your facility represented with an ad in this special Child Care Directory, a story about your facility, a photo of your facility and a dot on the map to show your location. Special ad packages, ranging from an 8" ad to an 18" ad, are available. There are also rates for regular ads of any size.

Deadline for this special Child Care Directory is Thursday, July 29, 1993. For more information, and to reserve your ad space in the Child Care Directory, please call:
