Pension Hike Bill Is Sent To Governor

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 22.—A bill increasing the state's monthly payment for old age assistance by $300,000 went to the governor's desk today with House concurrence in a Senate amendment.

The House and Senate both adjourned until Monday. The Senate virtually had cleaned its calendar of House-passed measures, and the House in a night session Wednesday completed action and sent to the Senate a total of 50 local and uncontested bills, marking some progress on its heavy calendar of business.

Over $2,000,000 Monthly

The old age assistance bill, if signed by the Governor, will increase the state's monthly appropriation for this purpose to $2,200,000. These funds are federally-matched. It would bring the yearly outlay of both state and federal funds for old age assistance in this state to $52,800,000.

The Senate amendment adopted by the House to complete the legislative cycle limited the public welfare department's administrative expenditures to three per cent of the total.

The 49th legislature thus far has seen more progress on bills appropriating money than on bills raising money. The House committee on revenue and taxation, however, today had a public hearing on an amusements tax measure, the first major tax bill to come up.

Full Payments Possible

The immediate effect of the old age assistance bill, if signed, would be to make possible full payments of individual grants based on the law's definition of need. It would not mean however, that all old age pensioners would receive the maximum of $30 monthly.

The House refused to re-refer from its state affairs committee to two other committees a bill making it unlawful for women to be employed in places that retail intoxicants. The House also spent a great deal of time arguing a Senate bill under which the board of regents of the University of Texas could levy a $1 tax per semester on students for support of the student union. The student union is a social and recreational center on the campus, and the question of the tax for it has been before the legislature frequently. The bill was passed to third reading and may be considered on final passage next week.

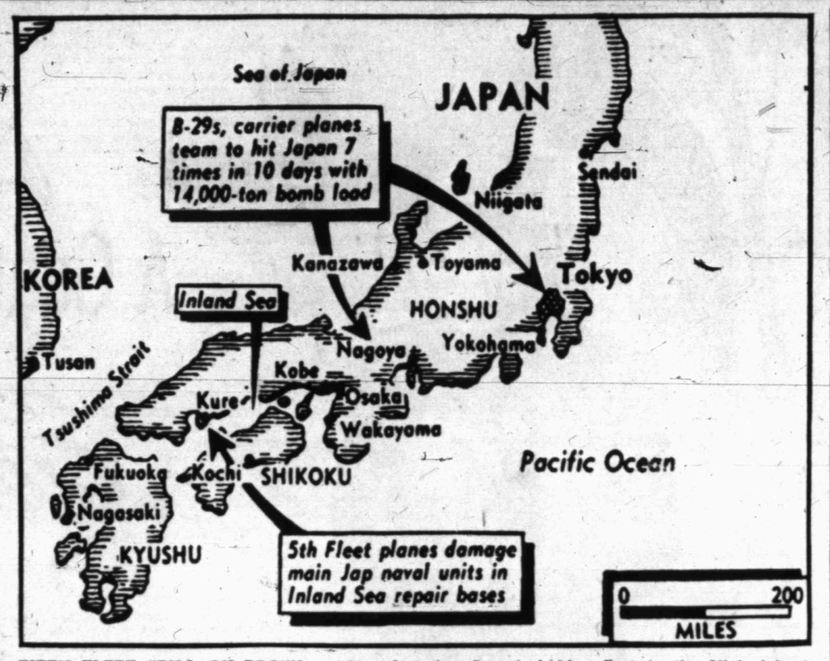

These House bills were passed in the Senate:

Exempting ice houses from the chain store tax.

Appropriating $14,919 to cover a deficiency in the state soil conservation board. The House must concur in an amendment before this bill goes to the Governor.

Appropriating $39,000 for maintenance and repair of motor ve-

FIFTH FLEET STILL ON PROWL—After plastering Japan's hidden fleet in the Nip's inland sea, damaging at least 17 warships as carrier planes shuttled from the giant U. S. naval armada standing an announced 60 miles offshore, Vice Adm. Marc Matcher's audacious task force was reported by Tokyo last night as probably planning assaults on the Ryukus and/or Formosa while "fleeing" from pursuing Nip planes.

Another Island Seized And Fifth Fleet Still On Prowl

American doughboys of the 40th division seized Guimaras island in the Philippines Wednesday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today, while Yank bombers heavily blasted Japanese installations on Cebu, one of the few remaining major Philippine islands in Nipponese hands.

The 40th division units hopped across the narrow strait from Iloilo, principal city on newly-won Panay island, without opposition, to capture Guimaras. It was the 27th Philippine island to be invaded by MacArthur's troops.

For three straight days American bombers hit Cebu island, to the east of Guimaras, with 214 tons of explosives, concentrating on Japanese bivouacs and supply dumps around Cebu city. Navy rocket planes sank an enemy midget submarine off Cebu city.

On Luzon island the 33rd division pressed closer to Baguio, Benguet mountain stronghold where the last main Japanese opposition on the island is reported centered. The 33rd reached the Naguilian river and airfield on the outskirts of Baguio.

Air bombers patrolling the China sea blockade routes sank or damaged 12 Japanese small freighters and four landing craft.

Radio silence continued to shield movements of the U. S. 5th fleet with its powerful carrier task force, which hit Japanese warships and shore targets in the Nipponese inland sea Monday.

Japs Fear New Blows

Japanese radio broadcasts indicated the American war fleet might be headed for the Ryukyu islands or Formosa and possibly future attacks on these southern Nipponese strongholds. The radio said the U. S. force was "fleeing" southward, with Japanese planes in pursuit.

Tokyo broadcasts of statements by Japanese government leaders told of disturbed conditions in the homeland.

Shigeo Odachi, home minister, said there probably were less than 4,000,000 persons remaining in bomb-burned Tokyo, indicating that around 3,000,000 have evacuated the city.

Plan Civilian Army

Gen. Kaneshiro Shibayam, vice minister of war, told a Diet committee the government was speeding the organization of a civilian Army, or "special attack corps", for defense duty in the event of an American invasion of Japan.

Premier Kuniaki Koiso explained to Diet members that the Japanese were preparing for possibility of their homeland being split apart by invaders, by setting up an "area-by-area defense structure."

Toshio Shimada, minister of agriculture and commerce, said rice, wheat and sweet potatoes had been distributed and stored in great quantities, and that there was nothing to worry about "at present" should invaders cleave the homeland.

Superforts From India

Superforts attacking in sizeable force from U. S. bases in India bombed Japanese-held Mingaladon airfield and nearby supply dumps in the vicinity of Rangoon, south Burma port.

The 20th U. S. Bomber command said the B-29s, making their fourth large raid on the Rangoon area achieved good to excellent results, suffering no loss.

A security blackout still prevailed on the drive of the 20th British division southward from recently-captured Mandalay in central Burma toward Meiktila, held by British and Indian troops.

Chungking said Liberators of the 14th U. S. Air force damaged a 7,500-ton Japanese transport off Hainan island Wednesday while Mustangs attacked an enemy airfield in French Indo-China.

OPA Policy Blamed For Meat Shortage

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) Congressional groups heard complaints from the range country and packing houses today that there is plenty of meat on the hoof but that government policies keep it off legitimate buyers' tables.

A retailer said "meateasies" are getting more and more of the steaks and roasts to sell on the sly.

The congressmen also got this rejoinder from the Office of Price administration: Prices and subsidies have been adjusted to costs and the trade generally is coming out pretty well.

Many Excess Cattle

Said Rep. Barrett (R-Wyo) at a meat inquiry called by Rep. Sundstrom (R-NJ), "we've got 10,000,000 excess cattle now out in the West and there's no reason at all why there should be a meat shortage. OPA is to blame."

In the same unofficial meeting with industry and government spokesmen, A. L. Erickson, chief of the OPA meat price branch, said all types of livestock ceilings have been adjusted to compensate for increased costs.

The more formal proceedings before the Senate Banking committee which is considering extension of the price control act beyond June 30, brought out these observations:

From Arthur L. Winn, counsel for the National Independent Meat Packers association, an or-

Survey Ordered On Civic Center

Lubbock's civic center project, only casually mentioned in the past few weeks, is by no means a dead issue.

Such was the statement of Mayor O. W. Ribble Thursday afternoon in a meeting of the City commission when he announced the appointment of a committee to make an exhaustive study of the project and report its findings to the commission; the committee, to quote the mayor, is "to serve until the center is either built or disposed of as a project."

Committee Personnel

Members of the committee are: J. D. Hassell, jr., representing the City Planning commission; W. C. Wood, president of the Kiwanis club, original sponsors of the project; James L. Quicksall, jr., representative of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce; Fred H. Childress, city commissioner; City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., C. W. Ratliff and Mayor Ribble, recommended as a member by the commission itself.

Appointment of the committee marks another step in progress toward the realization of such a project here. The committee was named after the Planning commission had suggested such a procedure in order that a comprehensive study could be made regarding the type of building, size, cost

Man Beaten, Robbed Of Car By Soldier

Sylvester Buck, about 45, of Amarillo, was severely beaten and robbed of his automobile at 11:30 o'clock Thursday by a soldier armed with a .45 caliber revolver, he told police.

Buck was shoved from his car at Tenth and Ave. Q after his scalp was laid open in two places from blows applied with the gun. He received emergency aid at Lubbock General hospital where several stitches were taken to close the wounds and was released.

His assailant is believed dangerous and Capt. Bill Bell urged in a police broadcast that officers use caution in approaching the suspect.

Although Buck was carrying a large amount of money, he said that no attempt was made to "shake" him down.

He told Capt. Bell and prowl car Patrolmen Mark McCurry and Woody Smith that he had met the soldier at Rochelle's cafe, 1218 Ave. H, and that they left in his car following a "friendly" conversation.

He said he was on his way to Seminole to visit a brother.

Buck's car is a blue Chevrolet club coupe with Texas license 963-104.

NEW TANKS IN USE

LONDON, March 22 (AP) — The German radio declared today that American forces on the Western front now are using the new General Pershing tank, equipped with guns of 90 millimeters—nearly four inches.

Plans For MacArthur Return Said Unknown

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) Undersecretary of War Patterson told his news conference today he knew of no plans for the return of General Douglas MacArthur to the United States.

The Army and Navy Journal, unofficial service publication, recently predicted the supreme allied commander in the Southwest Pacific would come to Washington for conferences.

Nazis Shift Kesselring To West Front

(By The Associated Press)

FIELD MARSHAL ALBERT KESSELRING, current Nazi darling among the German generals, has assumed command of all enemy forces on the Western front, it was stated yesterday at Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's headquarters.

This change removed from command Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt, foremost Prussian strategist.

Baldish, 57-year-old Kesselring, pal of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, has risen of late in the esteem of the Nazi heirarchy by his tenacious defense of northern Italy.

Pilot In Other War

Kesselring fought the first World war as a pilot, as did Goering, and shortly before the outbreak of the second World war he took command of air forces based in Berlin, the most important in the Reich.

The attack on Poland gave him his chance to put into effect his ideas on close teamwork between the air and ground forces—theories which had caused him previously to run afoul of the old guard and to resign from his position as first chief of the general staff of the luftwaffe.

Success At First

Kesselring directed operations between Danzig and Brest Litovsk with such success that his demands for close teamwork between air fleets, tanks, artillery and infantry were generally accepted.

Shifted to the west, Kesselring took command of Fleet 11 in the northern section of the Western front, where he led the air attacks on Holland and Belgium, for which he was made a field marshal in June of 1940.

He was responsible for the brutal air raid on undefended Rotterdam and later his name was made symbolic of aerial ruthlessness after the raids on Coventry.

The Tide Turns

But Kesselring was badly beaten in the battle of Britain, did little better as commander of German aviation on the central Russian sector in the winter of 1941 and 1942, then was shifted to chief of the luftwaffe in Italy, where he ran head-on into fresh disasters.

Once more he was badly beaten when he tried to stop Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's rout in North Africa, and he crawled into the Nazi doghouse when his air forces were trounced in Sicily and southern Italy.

Then he suddenly appeared out of the doghouse as the commander of all German forces in Italy in December of 1943, and since then has kept himself in high esteem by his skillful defense in the mountains of Italy.

Reports current on the Western front said von Rundstedt had drunk himself into a state of illness.

Von Rundstedt was deposed from command in the west once before, reportedly in a quarrel with Rommel over methods for attacking the Normandy beachhead.

Von Rundstedt was called back to command after the Normandy breakthrough had left Nazi generals discredited.

Nazis Report Mighty Offensive In North

Secrecy Screens Entire North End; Nazi Remnants In South Crushed

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Friday, March 23—The Germans reported last night that Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery had launched an offensive from the west along a 65-mile front from Arnhem to Duesseldorf. There was no Allied confirmation.

A censorship screen covered the whole British front but correspondents with the troops were allowed to say that the build-up there was the largest since Normandy. A "D-day" tenseness gripped Britain.

One German broadcast heard by the Paris radio said that Montgomery's forces already were across the Rhine. This might have been a distortion of a similar DNB broadcast recorded earlier in London saying the Allies were about to attack.

Nazi Reports Differ

The Germans gave varying reports ranging all the way from the assertion that the blow was about to be struck at any hour to others that the offensive already was underway. However, a Berlin broadcast early this morning to German soldiers at the front made no mention of the northern sector of the Western front.

Nazis Say Two New Drives Impending

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, March 22.—Two U. S. armies crushed all major resistance west of the Rhine today to win the last phase of a battle that cost the Germans 100,000 captives alone, and the enemy said the river barrier was about to be stormed both from the Palatinate and opposite the Rhur, which was blasted by thousands of Allied warplanes.

One German report said Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army had massed 300 regular and amphibious tanks and strong engineering and motorized units for a smash into the mountainous inner core of the Reich.

Great Barrage Reported

Another declared that Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery had opened a thunderous artillery barrage to screen a Rhine crossing west of Wesel, adding to destruction wrought by the thousands of warplanes which throughout the day sowed ruin through the Rhur valley.

Third Army strategists now were free to plan the crossing of the Rhine, for possibly no more than 4,000 German effectives remained in action west of the stream after one of the worst disasters ever visited on German arms.

Cities Written Off

Written off were the great Rhine cities of Mainz and Ludwigshafen, where resistance folded during the day and the few defenders were chased into corners from which there was no retreat, with the Rhine bridges blown.

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring has succeeded Field Marshal Karl von Rudstedt, foremost Russian strategist, as commander of all enemy forces on the Western front, it was stated at Montgomery's headquarters. Kesselring gained stature among the Nazis because of his stubborn defense of northern Italy.

The U. S. First Army moved into position to outflank the Ruhr from the south, increasing its hold on the Rhine's east bank to 31 miles and deepening its bridgehead to nine miles.

The First Army now held nine miles of the south bank of the Sieg river northeast of Bonn within a dozen miles of the Ruhr's

Mighty Armadas Pound Naziland

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Friday, March 23. — More than 8,000 American and British planes gave Germany its greatest dawn to dusk lashing yesterday, concentrating particularly on Nazi defenses east of the Rhine, and last night RAF Mosquitos maintained the terrific pressure by bombing Berlin for the 31st consecutive night.

The German radio declared that at least four other formations of night raiders were on the prowl over western Germany, the Hannover-Hildesheim area, Muenster and the province of Bavaria.

So widespread were the daylight operations that U. S. armadas from Britain and Italy criss-crossed each other and part of the fighter escort for the U.S. Eighth Air force bombers made a rendezvous with the 15th Air force's Flying Fortresses winging up from the south. Italy-based aircraft also smashed at targets in Austria and Czechoslovakia, and early reports indicated that 24 American heavy bombers were missing.

An Eighth Air force communique said figures were incomplete on the losses sustained by the Britain-based American bombing fleet.

Refineries within the range of U. S. heavy bombers in Italy were turning out 304,000 tons of fuel a month for the German Army a year ago, American officers said, and now are producing approximately 500 tons (175,000 gallons) a month.

Ruhr Centers Battered

More than 1,300 U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators mauled nine Nazi Army encampments and administrative and supply headquarters in the Ruhr and five airdromes from the vicinity of Bremen to the Munich area.

The 14 waves of British-based American heavy bombers were protected by 700 Mustangs. The Ruhr targets were near Essen, Gladbeck, Barmingholton, Dortmund, Esterholt, Mulheim, Hinsbeck, Rheydt-Odtingen and Gerresheim. The airfields ripped by American bombers were at Ahlhorn, southwest of Bremen; Kitsengen and Siebtlastadt, between Frankfurt and Nuernberg; Rhein-Main, south of Frankfurt, and Schwabisuhal, northeast of Stuttgart.

The RAF hurled three British-based fleets totalling upwards of 1,000 heavy bombers and fighters against German bases and supply links on the front facing the British Second and Canadian First armies.

Soviet Trap Takes Thousands Of Nazis

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Friday, March 23.—Russian troops, launching a powerful offensive to clear industrial upper Silesia, have captured the war production city of Neustadt, driven within one mile of Czechoslovakia and killed or captured 45,000 Nazi troops in a trap forged by twin Red Army advances of 25 miles, Moscow announced last night.

Cutting through seven major enemy strongholds and more than 400 other towns and villages south and southeast of besieged Breslau, troops of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army were advancing on an 80-mile front and threatened the key towns of Strehlen, Munsterberg, Niesse, Loebschuetz and Ratibor.

Smash Near Port

Simultaneously, Soviet forces battled to within three and one half miles of the Baltic port of Gdynia and tightened their siege around the former free city of Danzig. Deep in Czechoslovakia's Tatra mountains, other Russian shock troops forced the Hron river within five miles of Banska Bystrica.

Konev's new offensive dovetailed with a thunderous assault which the Germans said the Russians had launched against the prize German naval base of Stettin, and with a fast-driving Red

Lone Star Flag Flies In Germany

SCHWEIGEN, Germany, March 22 (AP)—The Red, White and Blue, Lone Star flag of Texas, presented the 36th (Texas) division by Gov. Coke Stevenson, was raised on German soil today.

The standard was presented the division at Camp Blanding, Fla., May 13, 1942, and since then the flag has gone ashore at Salerno, been given a symbolic dedication on the southern coast of France at Dines and at L'Xeuil.

The flag-raising ceremony today was held in a sinister symphony of two air raids, the constant rumble of big guns at the front—little more than a mile away—and the whine of Nebel-Werfer (screaming meemies) with a handful of GIs from the 243rd regiment forming the honor guard.

The scene was the customs house arch here, several hundred feet inside the German border.

Maj. Gen. John W. Dahlquist of Minneapolis, Minn., division commander, was scheduled to officiate but he was busy directing a two-pronged attack on Duerrenbach and Bergzabern, and a native Texan took over the ceremony.

He was Maj. Armin Puck, San Antonio, provost marshal who has been in the division since 1932 and was captain of the color guard when Stevenson presented the flag.

Man Wants Hospital To Care For Debtor

DALLAS, March 22 (AP)—A man called a Dallas hospital today to inquire about a patient. An attendant replied he was in a "critical" condition.

"Does that mean he's going to die?" asked the caller.

"That means he is very seriously ill," the attendant said.

"Tell the doctors to take good care of him," the man said. "He owes me $33."

V-Bomb Brings Death To Many

LONDON, March 22. (AP) — A German V-bomb scored a direct hit on a southern England factory recently, exploding inside and turning the building into a blazing inferno, it was announced tonight.

Rescue workers, including American soldiers, toiled for hours amid the smoke and debris in an effort to save those trapped in the wreckage as a crowd, many of whom had relatives killed, gathered anxiously around the main gate. Watchers collapsed when they learned relatives had been killed or injured.

Gas Main Blazes

The fire sent huge smoke clouds rolling through an adjoining street and the U. S. troops and firemen were handicapped by a gas main that blazed for six hours in one section of the factory. Alsatian dogs were used to help locate those buried in the debris.

Another V-bomb exploded in the gardens behind a row of cottages in a southern England community, killing six persons, demolishing three houses and strewing wreckage over a wide area. Dazed survivors were pulled from those ruins, too.

Thirteen other persons were killed and six injured when two V-bombs struck other localities, including the grounds of a hospital. Part of the hospital was so badly damaged that 120 patients had to be evacuated.

Two children escaped virtually unhurt when a V-bomb explosion sent the roofs of their homes crashing down. Roof beams shunted heavy pieces of concrete that fell toward six-year-old Peter Mosely, and Mrs. Dorothy Weber's 10-months-old daughter was tossed across a room but uninjured.

Once-Congested Abilene Feels Letdown When Army Camp Vacated, Turns To Plans For Industrial Development

By WENDELL BEDICHEK
Managing Editor, Abilene Reporter-News

ABILENE, March 22—This is the first telling of a story that many Texas cities presently will find to be their story.

It is the story of how it feels for a city that has been jam-packed four years with soldiers and their families to find itself, earlier than expected, faced with the problem of returning to normal conditions after loss of an abnormal population.

Abilene's military population was considerably larger for more than two years than the city's civilian population of 27,000.

Today there are approximately 2,500 men in Camp Barkeley and 1,500 at the Second Air Force fighter training base here.

Abilene people have decided that what has happened to their city can be transformed into a head start toward their post war planning.

Action is resulting.

A year ago the Abilene Chamber of Commerce hired an engineer and paid him $3,000 to make an exhaustive industrial survey of the city and surrounding territory. Business men were saying that if the city were to develop after the war it must have more payrolls.

When the announcement of deactivation of the Army training forces center at Camp Barkley was made a month ago, Robert T. Fielder, president of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce, translated that thinking into action.

The Chamber of Commerce had records showing the city had missed adding a number of industries because there was no room here for their employes.

"This is a break if we're big enough to take advantage of it," decided Fielder and members of the industrial committee.

He announced formation of Abilene, Inc.

Out of a series of conferences has come a statement of objectives of Abilene, Inc. First is the raising of at least $50,000 to finance its work.

It will make a thorough study of the industrial survey to determine opportunities for healthy, stable growth; aid and assist in further development of present industries and natural resources; interest local capital in establishing manufacturing plants; promote advantages of Abilene to attract outside industries and concentrate upon acquisition of smaller industries in a small city.

There are outward signs of Abilene's changing population.

"For rent" signs are appearing all over town. A few landlords are lowering rents and inviting families with small children to move into their places of rental. Hundreds of families have moved from improvised quarters to better dwellings.

Abilene residents no longer are forced to stand in line before once-crowded theaters, cafes and hotel desks.

Some families who found places to live in outlying towns are moving into Abilene nearer their jobs.

Emptying of Camp Barkeley has been progressing six months. The last Army division to train

Peter, Foreign Agent In Germany Not Too Discreet And Meets Death

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The writer of the following article, for seventeen years Berlin correspondent of the Swedish newspaper, Stockholms Tidingen, has just returned to Stockholm. He left Berlin because he found it no longer possible to work there.)

By CHRISTER JAEDERLUND
For The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, March 22.—He came to me one evening anxious to escape notice by my neighbors. Nobody saw him.

I never knew his name but that wasn't necessary. It wasn't even desirable. I simply called him Peter. It wasn't until later that I heard he had come down by parachute.

When last I saw him he said that no matter what happened he would find me. It was a promise, but I thought, "poor Peter."

Candidate For Death

I regarded him as a candidate for death and I was right. He was caught together with four companions and executed. His wireless transmitter which he had carried with him fell into the hands of the Gestapo. A fifth comrade escaped and told us.

Peter had no address. He lived everywhere and nowhere—wherever he could find a roof over his head. If he was lucky it would be with a kind and lonely woman, if unlucky with rats in ruins. He had often been searched but Peter said it was merely a matter of putting up a confident front.

Until then he had not met any police who questioned his papers. Maybe police did not trap him after all. From the beginning I suspected that women were much more dangerous. Any woman's eye must have reacted strongly to his brand new English underwear of excellent quality.

Underwear Was Mistake

Underwear was a mistake. One can't travel like a lord through bombed Germany in the sixth year of war. It would have been better to have sewed false labels on the underwear than to remove the identification so carefully.

Peter is dead, but in an article about underground Germany, he serves as a suitable introduction. He knew the country well. I interviewed him in his small hideout one long night, and it paid to study his faults and advantages for his mysterious assignment.

He never breathed a word of what he was doing, but he disclosed enough of the more unromantic and trivial side of the foreign agents' lives to give an idea of their difficulties.

Work With All Sides

They obtain information readily from all sides whether they get together with soldiers or workers in railway restaurants or make acquaintances of factory girls, female flak soldiers or so-called blitz girls.

The job is not too difficult if you consider the great number of foreign workers in Germany and the animosity among the broad masses toward the Nazi leadership. But the foreign agent must have as well as work, and shelter is very hard to get if he doesn't like the idea of hiding out in ruins where he can't shave, keep his clothes laundered or eat.

Rural Shelter Easier

It is easier to keep a roof over your head among the peasants than in cities. Farmers seldom inquire about one's movements and usually are glad if someone offers to help in the field, especially where a farmwife with halfgrown children is running the farm.

German authorities, therefore, have sternly warned the farm population against sheltering strangers. But in the potato fields, comparatively safe from the long arm of the German security service, the foreign agent can relax.

They said the South Plains had more than justified hopes of Ralston-Purina officials and that the Lubbock plant had doubled its output in 1944. Postwar development, Tolin said, will call for expansion of facilities for this area.

The Engineering Science Management War Training program at Texas Tech is sponsoring two sections of an advanced B-32 radar engineering course for employes of the Consolidated aircraft factory at Fort Worth. The course, which began March 4 and continues five weeks, is being taught by Consolidated instructors. Four sections in primary B-32 radar engineering courses have been sponsored by the ESMWT at Consolidated.

Avalanche Auctioned For Red Cross Aid

News in the Lubbock Morning Avalanche was worth a lot, in fact $17.50, to one person at Whitharrel this week.

The above amount was paid for a single copy of Tuesday's paper when it was auctioned off at a Whitharrel pie supper later in the day.

Proceeds from the auction were turned over to the Red Cross, according to Mrs. H. L. Slover. Approximately $300 was collected which put Whitharrel well over its Red Cross quota.

More Tax Costs

Much Is Paid For Help In Fixing Forms

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Mar. 22—With members of an estimated 28,000,000 civilian families filing income tax returns this year a new and thriving industry has sprung into being.

GALLUP

Thousands of "experts" turned their hands to helping people fill out their income tax forms — and collected sums ranging from 25 cents to $100 or more from individuals for the service.

On the basis of a survey across the country by field reporters for the Institute, it is estimated that about nine million families paid out close to $70,000,000 to the income tax experts who lent their aid and counsel in making out returns.

Clerks Would Help

Either the families who paid were not aware that Uncle Sam provides gratuitous aid in filling out the income tax forms, or else they felt they could do better if they went to an outside expert.

Although the government last year put into operation extensive devices to simplify the making out of returns, more than half if the families who filed returns nevertheless said they had had help.

About eight million of them had said they had to pay nothing for the help they got, having turned to the Department of Internal Revenue or to relatives or friends. The other nine million said they paid for the service.

Average Was $7.50

On the basis of their own estimates, families who said they paid someone to help them fill their tax forms paid on the average of $7.50.

This survey of course deals only with families and partnerships and does not measure the cost of corporations of filing income tax returns. Many corporations have whole batteries of auditors working on their tax forms.

Moreover, the present survey does not necessarily cover the amounts which people may have paid for aid in filing their declaration of estimated tax or later revisions of estimates.

Another Average Crop Year Indicated

A "tiny - bit - south - of - east" zephyr was wafted at Thursday's sunup out of the Red Man's tradition, and there are those, including former Judge Clark M. Mullican, who believe that South Plains farmers will have another "average" crop year.

Mullican, on whom fell 14 years ago the unofficial mantle of observing the wind directions each March 22 sunrise, said the interpretation lies far back in Indian lore and does not of necessity mean there will be any determinate amount of rainfall — "rain alone throughout the year does not make the crop; sometimes a very little rain at the right time . . ."

Had the wind been east of northeast, a bumper crop year would have been assured. That is some more of the tradition.

Traffic Regulation System Here Faces Revision After Long Study

Lubbock's traffic regulations and system of control are headed for revision.

Such was the announcement Thursday afternoon in City commission meeting by Mayor O. W. Ribble after revealing that an extended study had been under way for several weeks and that a special meeting of the commission will be called possibly within the next ten days to announce proposed changes. Some of the changes, City Manager Marlin R. Smith said, would of necessity have to wait, but others will be made immediately after approval by the commission.

Some Changes Involved

The changes involve regulations of left and right turns on various downtown streets, marking of certain traffic lanes, instituting parallel parking on several streets, changing the time for parking meters in several zones, marking loading zones, not only for buses but for merchandise and the change in timing of lights at several intersections.

Ultimate change of the city's traffic light system is also planned. New type caution lights which warn on the green, allowing the vehicle to slow down or come to a complete stop before the light changes to red will be installed, but they will have to wait until victory.

Commissioner J. Ray Dickey has been working with the city manager, Chief of Police Don Reeder and Traffic Sergeant Lewis Kittrell in the traffic study. Reeder and Kittrell have been visiting other cities and conferring with officials regarding various traffic problems.

It was also revealed in the meeting that a study is being made of the police department setup in order to provide alternating shifts for officers and thereby increasing the force during peak hours without having to add fifty per cent more men.

The commission also discussed passage of a proposed ordinance to regulate routing, parking, storage and other regulations covering transport trucks for petroleum products and liquified petroleum gas (butane) within certain zones in Lubbock. Storage of butane within the city limits would be prohibited under the ordinance. The ordinance is to undergo slight revision before being passed at first reading.

Commissioners paid tribute to local operators for their cooperation in drawing up of the ordinance and their voluntary efforts toward some sort of regulation.

Rat-Proofing Ordinance

Ordinance No. 706, providing for the rat-proofing of business buildings in Lubbock and making violations a misdemeanor subject to a fine of not more than $100 was passed at first reading. The ordinance on typhus fever control is the first step in a city health expansion program recently inaugurated.

Plans and specifications were approved for a sanitary sewer interceptor line starting in the alley between Main and Broadway on Ave. M, running south to Fourteenth and thence east on Fourteenth under the Santa Fe tracks and connecting with a line east of the Lubbock Compress company plant. The line, 21 and 19-inches along the route, will cost an estimated $40,000 and bids will be opened at 2 p. m. on April 23.

The commissioners re-appointed Dr. Marshall Harvey and Vernice Ford to the Recreation council and accepted the resignation of Mrs. J. H. Stiles, naming Mrs. M. C. Butler in her place. All appointments were for four years.

Other Commission Action

Other action by the commission included:

Approval of the purchase of 3950 feet of 14-inch Transite pipe from the Johns-Manville Sales Corp., Amarillo, at a cost of $9,851.69; the material to be used in extending a supply line to a new city water well;

Purchase of a well pump for the well from the Peerless Pump company, Plainview, at a cost of $1,856.57;

Approval of the settlement of an injury claim payment to Juanita Long for $175;

Cancellation of various tax items from delinquent tax rolls totaling $90.96 as recommended by the city tax collector;

Instructing Smith to purchase a blanket position idemnity bond bonding all city employes and officials from the St. Paul Mercury Indemnity company through Brock-Hess company;

Service Resolution

Approval of a resolution authorizing Smith to prepare and present resolutions expressing appreciation and gratitude to employes of the city who have served in the armed forces;

Approving general contractors' bonds for South Plains Construction Co., H. R. Bundock, F. H. Bolen and V. W. Walkup, and Elmer Terry and bond for moving a building for J. H. Bellomy; and Rejection of a request for a zone change in the vicinity of the Dunbar NeNgro high school.

Besides Mayor Ribble, Commissioner Dickey and Manager Smith, others present at the meeting included Commissioners W. B. Price, Fred H. Childress and Hub Jones, City Secretary Lavenia Williams, City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley and City Engineer Arch L. King.

JAPS USE WOODEN TANKS

WITH THE 41ST DIVISION, On Zamboanga, P. I., March 22. (AP)—Mobile wooden tanks were employed by the Japanese in their defense of Zamboanga in an effort to throw the American tanks off balance. Infantrymen discovered the ruse and quickly cleaned up the Japanese camouflage artists.

PHILADELPHIA, March 22. (AP)—Samuel Margo, 32-year-old father of nine children, will be called in the April draft quota, his local selective service board said today.

Glider Evacuates Wounded Soldiers

EAST OF THE RHINE, March 22 (AP)—A low flying troop carrier plane towed a casualty-filled glider from the First Army's Remagen bridgehead today, inaugurating a spectacular new shuttle service for evacuating wounded from areas near the cross-Rhine battlefront.

It was a dramatic moment on the little landing strip in a cabbage patch near the Rhine when the transport swooped low, caught a towrope and swept the glider off the ground.

Glider evacuation of wounded men has been carried out in India and Burma, but this was the first time it had been tried in the European theater of operations. It was a success.

Capt. Donald Haug, Wenatchee, Wash., of the Troop Carrier command, said plans were to shuttle ten large gliders to the bridgehead daily, each making three trips to carry out 12 litter cases or 19 walking wounded per trip.

This would be average of about 450 evacuees daily. Five minutes after the wounded leave the bridgehead, they arrive at a hospital airstrip west of the Rhine.

India Press Objects To Committee Vote

BOMBAY, March 22 (AP) — A committee vote in the U. S. House of Representatives to postpone consideration of the Indian immigration bill aroused a bitter press reaction in India today.

The postponement "comes as a tragic anti-climax to reports which flooded India giving the impression that American opinion was overwhelmingly pro-Indian in this matter," the Free Press Journal declared.

"For this, American news agencies and the U. S. OWI have to thank themselves," the newspaper asserted. "By cabling lengthy reports of individual opinions they had created a false atmosphere of misplaced faith in American intentions."

Dupont Plant To Be Built Near Orange

ORANGE, March 22 (UP)—Construction of a $22,000,000 E. I. DuPont nylon salt plant will get underway near Orange about April 1, B. B. Lewis, district superintendent from DuPont's Wilmington, Del., headquarters office, announced today.

Lewis disclosed that transactions for 1,015 acres of land for the plant site had been completed at a total investment of $44,894.

Temporary DuPont offices already have been established at Orange.

Treasury Withholds Maturities On Bonds

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) —The Treasury announced today that maturities on the seventh war loan bonds will be withheld until the last minute to prevent speculative trading by corporations and insurance companies.

Maturities on the "E" bonds—those purchased by ordinary individuals—will be the same ten years at the same interest rates as heretofore.

The next drive starts May 14.

British Cadets Are Pleased With Visit To Slaton Ranch

Visiting a ranch for the first time, two British cadets froze ice cream, gathered eggs, ate a bountiful dinner and enjoyed other events of their stay Wednesday at the ranch operated by Mr. and Mrs. John Hardy Morgan near Slaton.

They were taken to the ranch by members of the Lubbock Red Cross Motor corps.

After they returned to Lubbock Wednesday night, they described the day to Miss Leona Gelin, director of the USO, as "one of the outstanding" of their stay in America.

They were especially pleased with the abundance they found, and when asked if they would like something sent to their parents made the request that boxes of food be mailed. Individuals of the Red Cross and USO and others wishing to help will prepare boxes.

The two cadets, H. Dennis Jones of Cardiff, South Wales, and H. Winston Cusworth of near Shirebrook, left Lubbock Thursday afternoon, continuing on their "seven day tour of Texas" which they are making during a furlough from training at Terrell.

The ranch visit was arranged after they arrived Tuesday night at the USO, after coming here from Big Spring.

Mrs. Oscar Slaton, jr., and Mrs. Charles Files, members of the Red Cross Motor corps, drove the party, including the two Britishers, Miss Gelin, and five soldiers from eastern states who are stationed at Lubbock Army Air field, to the Morgan ranch.

Had Never Ridden Horse

Jones had never ridden a horse and he rode a short distance to the barn.

The two were taken in a pick-up over the ranch.

Returning to the ranch house, they turned the freezer crank and later each ate two large dishes of ice cream. It was "twice as good" as any ice cream he had eaten, one said.

Gathering eggs was a treat, they said, because in England they saw few eggs.

"Their eyes seemed to get big at sight of cream and eggs," said Mrs. Slaton.

The meal including fried chicken, was a highlight of their ranch visit.

One asked if their hostess minded their using their forks with their left hands. They commented on another difference, that of their drinking hot tea and others present drinking iced tea.

They showed pictures of their girlfriends. "English girls don't wear quite as much make-up," one said when discussion of girls of the two countries arose.

They were free in compliments of this country and showed pride in their own, said Mrs. Slaton. For instance, one commented on size of Texas ranches and reminded that he lived near the largest coal exporting city in the wofld.

"On the way back, they said they would have a lot to write home," said Mrs. Slaton.

They said they hoped to go to Carlsbad Caverns, but had found seven days not long enough to see what they wished in Texas.

The visitors went to Lubbock Army Air field Thursday. They left that afternoon for Fort Worth. They left Terrell with two other British cadets, but parted when they found it easier to get rides for only two.

Homes For England To Be Constructed

HOUSTON, March 22 (UP) — Two-bedroom pre-fabricated houses for war-torn England will be in production in Houston within the next three weeks, officials of the Senbele Corp., of Los Angeles announced today.

Senbele officials said the Houston plant will supply the British government with 1,000 of the modern homes during the first three months of operation. The structures, to be packed here and shipped out through the Gulf of Mexico, will cost $1;300 each.

Contracts for additional prefabricated houses will be signed in the near future, the company representatives said.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Pallbearers will be J. C. Helms, Bill Sasser, Roy Killingsworth, J. C. Reynolds, Arthur Yaggy, Harry Strosnider, Jimmy W. Simpson and Howard Hughes.

Burial will be in a Lubbock cemetery, Rix Funeral home announced.

Packers Scramble For Hog Shipment

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 22 (UP)—Major packing companies scrambled today for one of the largest single consignment of hogs to reach any stockyard in years, and came out with a gentleman's agreement to divide the rich strike.

For months the packers have operated on a voluntary allotment schedule, with each concern taking the receipts of one company on a given day of the week.

Today that company received 395 head of 400-pound hogs from Chauncey E. Famuliner of Garden City, Mo. Each Thursday is Cudahy's day, so the Cudahy company technically was entitled to the hogs.

The other packers, chargined at the luck of a competitor in taking such a haul in these days of pork famine, pleaded for a cut.

Cudahy ultimately took 250 of the animals, agreeing to divide the remainder between the Armour and Wilson companies.

More than 2,000,000 people suffer from hay fever annually in the United States.

DOG IS LOST

A little boy knows no greater heartache than to lose his dog and little Jimmy Debs Farmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Farmer, is terribly unhappy these days because that is what has happened to him. However, it's possible that his pet, a registered, grown collie, will be returned.

The Farmers recently moved and during the process they took the dog, a sable and white animal named Sandy, to the home of Mrs. Farmer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fortenberry, on the Levelland highway and it was from there he disappeared. Whether he was stolen or strayed from home isn't known and Jimmy Debs isn't interested; all he wants is to have his pet again. The Farmer's telephone number is 5285, in case anyone sees Sandy.

FRESH AIR

THE theory that fresh air aplenty must blow through an open bedroom window during the night is the cause of some of severe head colds and subsequent earaches and sore throats, some doctors believe. It seems that in cold weather, closed windows have never killed anyone.

The body's demand for oxygen is less during the sleeping hours than during the day because you are not walking around and keeping your circulation rapid and certainly one wears less clothing to bed than when he is dressed for the day.

This free advice is perhaps a little late since winter is almost over but in case we have that usual Easter freeze, remember you may be able to afford enough fresh air for the night through a closed window.

CLUB CONVENTION

THE American Association of University Women, The National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Business and Professional Women's Federation are foregoing national conventions this year, complying with a governmental request to stay at home and let those with more urgent business use available transportation and hotel facilities. Moreover, they are discovering that business may be transacted by mail, even such important matters as electing officers.

We have no one in mind when we present this clever little article from the Detroit Free Press, but if you see yourself, or better, someone else in it, perhaps you'll get a chuckle.

BEDROOM SCIENCE . . . after any convention...shades are drawn . . . bedside table looks like an emergency hospital tray. A half-opened luggage case bars the path to the door and clothes are strewn about.

Her husband enters the room with a glass of water in one hand and a couple of sedative tablets in the other. He stumbles over the luggage. His wife murmurs weakly from the bed, "Oh, darling, must you say such things when my head is fairly splitting from temple to temple?"

Elrod-Watts Vows Are Read In Home

Miss Helen Watts and Charles Elrod both of Palestine were married in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Holly, 1910 Ave. J, Wednesday night. Rev. R. C. Hallman read the ceremony.

The bride wore a dusty rose crepe frock with blue accessories.

Branches of peach blossoms and forsythia decked the rooms.

At a reception that followed the service, a two-tiered wedding cake was served with punch from a table covered with a lace cloth.

Twenty friends and a relative, Miss Jean Moser of Palestine, were in attendance.

The couple is to be at home at 614 Ave. N.

Russian Newspaper Deplores Reports

MOSCOW, March 22. (AP)—The newspaper Izvestia today deplored reports of friendly relations between Allied troops and the German population in the west and coupled this with an assertion that "Germans known to be Hitlerites are at the same time serving in administrative posts created under Allied control."

(Dispatches from the western front have said Allied military government officials were using extreme care in establishing local governments, but in some cases had been forced to use Nazi personnel temporarily because of inability to obtain qualified workers otherwise. Severe penalties have been imposed in cases where Allied soldiers have been caught fraternizing with the Germans).

LONDON, March 22 (AP)—Formation of an international counterpart of the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation to seek out and arrest war criminals and Nazis regarded as dangerous to the future peace was reported under consideration in responsible quarters today.

FINNISH TREND CITED

MOSCOW, March 22. (AP)—The government paper Izvestia declared today that while the leftwing Democratic Peoples union had won 25 per cent of the seats in the Finnish parliament, last weekend's election shows "those elements which stand in opposition to the progressive development of the Finnish state are still strong."

Germany Said Due To Starve In 1946 Unless Country Surrenders

LONDON, March 22. (U.R) — A spokesman for the ministry of economic warfare said today that only immediate surrender to the Allies can save the German people from starvation in 1946.

His statement, made to the United Press, followed an admission over the Berlin radio by Reich agricultural minister Dr. Josef Stock that plans for feeding the German people had collapsed as the result of Allied advances and the arrival of refugee hordes.

Bankrupts Agriculture

The British spokesman said that Germany, never self-sufficient, had bankrupted its agriculture to aid total war. Unless immediate steps are taken to rebuild food production "not even a kindly enemy can save them," he said.

"The Allies cannot feed them," he said. "The world food shortage is such that we will have all we can do to feed liberated areas. The only thing for Germany to do is stop fighting and look after her agriculture.

"They cannot longer continue to use nitrogen for explosives and not for fertilizer, nor take workers off the land and make volkssturm troops of them."

German Diet Slim

He added that the average German diet today provided 1,650 calories—"about enough for a man in a hospital bed" and about 1,000 below the meager wartime, British diet.

"The Germans are getting less bread and potatoes than at the end of World war I," he said. "Right now they are getting more meat and fats but that is due to large scale slaughtering to prevent stock from falling into the hands of advancing Allied and Russian troops or because there is insufficient food for them (the stock)."

The spokesman pointed out that the Germans lost vital foodstuffs after the invasion of France.

Russian occupation of agricultural areas aggravated her plight, he said. His remarks bore out Stock's admission that "drastic cuts in food supplies have already been announced by recent decrees and more stringent measures are doubtless to follow presently."

Certificates Given For Sales Course

Certificates granted by the University of Texas upon successful completion of an extension sales training course were presented to 15 departmental heads of Levine's Department store Thursday night at the final discussion meeting of a two-weeks course, "Employee Training Methods," instructed by Mrs. Lucy Bray, district coordinator of distributive education fro mthe extension division at the University.

Presented by A. I. Glassman, store manager, certificates were awarded Mrs. Mary Ann Sanders, Myrtie Ellen Son, Ethel Mae Terrell, Mrs. Estelle Turner, Mrs. Gladys Waldrip, Mrs. Grace Williams, Mrs. J. H. Farmer, Joe V. Turner, Mrs. C. W. Medlock, J. D. Henley, Dave Aiker, Oran Staples, A. R. Label, C. W. Medlock, and Glassman.

These sales training courses, developed to increase employe efficiency and create better understanding between employers and workers, are being conducted in local department stores in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, and Retail Merchants association. The work is related to the distributive education program conducted in Lubbock Senior High school under the direction of O. R. Bantz.

Sowell To Assist In Area Office

J. L. Sowell, formerly area supervisor of vocational agriculture education at Texas A. and M. college, who has just been released from the Army after serving more than two years, has arrived in Lubbock to take up his duties as assistant supervisor of this area, it was announced Thursday by O. T. Ryan, area supervisor.

Sowell will assist with vocational agriculture work, Future Farmers of America and the food production war training program, Ryan said.

Ryan formerly had two assistants but for the past several months has been doing all the work himself since T. L. Leach entered the armed services and W. A. King accepted a position with the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce.

He also announced that J. B. Rutland of Austin, state supervisor of vocational agriculture education, is here this week visiting with FFA chapter members who are coming up for American Farmer degrees this year.

R. D. Ralls, shop specialist of the state office in Austin, will be in this area for a six weeks check on government equipment in vocational agriculture shops, beginning April 1, Ryan said.

Instructions Given On License Records

For those who have purchased 1945 license plates for their cars, instructions in changing license numbers on gasoline ration coupon books were announced Thursday by Ely Fonville, district rationing executive of the Office of Price administration.

"On the back of your gasoline ration book cover, draw a line through the old license number and write in the new license number above it," Fonville said. "The same procedure should be followed on the mileage ration record. But do not change the license number on the face of the coupons already endorsed."

When new coupons are received they should be endorsed with the new license number and the state of registration, he added.

"When you receive your new license plate, take out your gasoline ration books and draw a line through the number of the old plates where it is written on the cover. Write the new number above it. Be careful not to cross out the old number completely and do not change the old number written on the face of the coupons," Fonville explained.

Sabotage Blamed In Chilean Ship Sinkings

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 22 (AP) Chilean newspapers said today Axis sabotage was responsible for fires which recently have broken out aboard three Chilean ships, taking possibly 101 lives.

The newspaper Hora referred to the fire yesterday which sank the nitrates-loaded passenger-cargoship Ampocho after she had left the port of Iquique, to another aboard the navy training ship Lautaro in which 19 persons died, and to another blaze discovered aboard the merchant ship Naguilan.

The fort of Iquique long has been a center of Japanese activity. Chile recently declared a state of belligerency with Japan.

Sixty-four persons have been rescued from the Ampocho, 19 bodies recovered and 63 are listed as missing.

Recovery Figures Are Given By Forrestal

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP) — Ninety-eight of every 100 Navy men and Marines wounded in the first three years of war have recovered.

Navy Secretary Forrestal, reporting this today in a talk prepared for a Red Cross luncheon, said that among the Marines, about 75 out of every 100 wounded have been able to return to active combat duties.

"We will do everything in our power to keep that record good," the cabinet officer declared. "I mention it here because of a tendency to regard all casualties as fatalities.

"It is easy, for example to speak of our 'losses' at Iwo Jima as 19,900 men, forgetting that of this total 15,300 were wounded. Our reports indicate that between 6,000 and 7,000 of the wounded had returned to their divisions before the fall of Iwo, and on the basis of our past experience, we have reason to hope . . . that between 11,000 and 12,000 of the men wounded on Iwo will be so completely restored to health as to be capable of complete activity."

Browns Nose Out Toledo Farm Club

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., March 22. (AP) — The St. Louis Browns beat their Toledo farm club of the American Association, 6 to 5, today in the second exhibition game of the season.

The minor leaguers collected 11 hits off two Browns' rookie hurlers in the seven-inning affair while the American League champions made only seven off three Toledo pitchers.

Pete Gray, Browns' one-armed centerfielder rapped out three of the Browns hits, all singles, and drove in three runs.

TO USE VETERANS IN SUNDAY GAME

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP) Manager Ossie Bluege will trot out three veteran Washington pitchers Sunday in a Red Cross benefit game with the Boston Braves at College Park, Md. He plans to use Dutch Leonard, John Niggeling and Roger Wolff three innings each.

TWO MORE REPORT TO BOSTON BRAVES

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP) Outfielder Tommy Holmes, who batted .309 last season, and Frank Drews, infielder, joined the Boston Braves today, making 21 men in camp at Georgetown university. Cold, wet weather drove the Braves indoors for a light workout.

PECK EXPECTS FOUR MORE TO REPORT

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 22. (AP)—Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh counted noses among his Cleveland Indians today and arrived at a deficit of 15 players, Peck said he expected only four of these — Outfielder Roy Cullenbine, First Baseman Mickey Rocco and Pitchers Joe Heving and Charles (Red) Embree—to arrive before the Tribe breaks camp April 6.

GIANTS FIND FIELD COVERED WITH SNOW

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 22. (AP) — With about two inches of snow on the Giants' practice field today, Manager Mel Ott still planned to leave tomorrow for Bainbridge, Md., where the club is scheduled to play a series of three exhibition games with the U. S. Naval Training center, beginning Saturday. The Giants will be transported in military vehicles.

BILL NICHOLSON TO REPORT NEXT WEEK

FRENCH LICK, Ind., March 22. (AP)—Manager Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs received word today that Outfielder Bill Nicholson, leading home run hitter and scorer of the National League, would report early next week. Nicholson, 29, had delayed signing pending clearance of the manpower situation.

SKEETER WEBB TAKES OVER AT SHORTSTOP

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 22 (AP)—Jimmy (Skeeter) Webb, Chicago White Sox shortstop for five years, moved into the Detroit Tigers' infield today, pushing Joe Hoover over to third as the Tigers took their first fielding workout of the training season.

Eddie Mayo was on second for the "varsity" infield and Catcher Paul Richards filled in at first for Rudy York, two days overdue.

RED SOX PLAYERS FIND BOSTON COOL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 22 (AP)—Getting a taste of Boston's early spring weather, the Red Sox were unable to work outdoors today when the temperature dropped to below 40 degrees. So the club accepted the invitation of the Army Air force and worked out in mammoth Convention hall.

BOROWY REPORTS TO NEW YORK YANKEES

ATLANTIC CITY, March 22. (AP)—Hank Borowy, highest ranking pitcher for the New York Yankees last year, joined his teammates today, but the entire squad was forced indoors for the second straight day because of rain.

BATTING CHAMP IS AN OFFICIAL HOLDOUT

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., March 22—Dixie Walker, National League batting champion, has definitely become a holdout, it was announced by Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today.

MILWAUKEE ACE JOINS PHILADELPHIA CLUB

WILMINGTON, Del., March 22 (AP)—Pitcher Charley Sproull, who won 16 decisions out of 23 games for the Milwaukee Brewers, joined the Philadelphia Phillies today. Rain, for the second straight day, halted all practice.

DYKES TO TRY TO CHANGE TROSKY'S MIND

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 22 (AP)—Spurred by the WMC announcement on baseball players and their employment Manager Jimmie Dykes of the Chicago White Sox said today he would renew attempts to bring First Baseman Hal Trosky out of retirement.

RIP SEWELL WORKS OUT BLOOPER BALL

MUNCIE, Ind., March 22 (AP)—Rip Sewell uncorked his famed "blooper" ball for the Pittsburgh Pirates today and was credited with his first win of the season. The regulars beat the Yanigans 6-4 in an eight-inning intra-squad tilt.

Mikan Hangs Up New Garden Scoring Mark

NEW YORK, March 22. (AP)—George Mikan, De Paul's 6-foot 9-inch center towered today as one of the giants of basketball after an amazing scoring exhibition in leading his team into the final of the National Invitation tournament at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 18,253 saw Mikan pour in 53 points last night to set an all-time Garden record as De Paul trounced Rhode Island State, 97 to 53.

In setting a new Garden team scoring record, De Paul broke eight marks, with six being credited to Mikan who hung up the following standards:

Most points in a game, 53; most points in two games, 86; most field goals in one game, 21 and two games, 34; most points in one half, 32, and most foul goals in one game, 11. The team's 39 field goals topped Toledo's 1942 tournament mark of 36.

Ten former high school captains are playing college basketball for the first time at Penn State.

Tigers Loom As Flag Contender

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 22 (AP)—Detroit pitching, sounder today than last season when it was the best in the American League, is the Tigers' big item in plans to corral the pennant that eluded them on the last day of the 1944 baseball campaign.

Hal Newhouser and Paul (Dizzy) Trout, the Tigers' left-right mound "kick" that toiled a total of 664 innings and contributed 56 victories last year, are the backbone of a pitching staff strengthened by service discharge of big Al Benton, ace relief chucker of the 1940 season, and a pair of standout recruits from the minors.

Less Mueller, Army dischargee who copped 18 games for Beaumont in his last full year before his induction, and Walter Wilson, 29-year-old winner of 18 games last season with Buffalo, are the top newcomers. Both are husky righthanders.

Lefthander Frank (Stubby) Overmire (11-11) and Rufe Gentry (12-14) again are figured to take their regular starting turns.

Manager Steve O'Neill's choice of other pitchers will be made from among Forrest Orrell and Bob Gillespie, each an eight-game winner with Buffalo; Lefthander Bill Pierce and fast-baller Art Houtteman, up from the Detroit sandlots, and Zeb Eaton, who shuttled between the Tigers and Buffalo in 1944.

O'Neill couldn't be happier with his catching staff, which again counts the veterans Paul Richards and Bob Swift as turnabout receivers.

The big gap, of course, is in the outfield, where sweet-swinging Dick Wakefield deployed for the last half of 1944 before his reinduction into the Navy.

The infield appears capable, even without "Pinky" Higgins, clutch-hitting third baseman who was inducted in Detroit this week. Rudy York will be back on first with Eddie Mayo, Joe Hoover and ex-White Socker Jimmy (Skeeter) Webb filling out a veteran combination.

Golf Caravan Heads For Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 22. (AP)—With Byron Nelson and Sammy Snead, rated as odds-on favorites, the touring pros converged on Greensboro today with their sights leveled on the greater Greensboro Open starting tomorrow and which pays the par-busters $7,500 in war bonds.

The golfing caravan plays 18 holes Friday, a second round Saturday and 36 holes Sunday over the rugged 6,630-yard starmount course.

Cards Find Diamond Too Wet To Play On

CAIRO, Ill., March 22. (AP) — The World Champion St. Louis Cardinals were squarely up against the decision today of moving their spring training camp or facing the prospect of having to go into the season's schedule without batting and fielding practice.

Long-time residents here say club officials are fighting a losing battle in attempts by pumps and ditches to dry out Cotter field sufficiently for use as a training park.

The outfield was under about four feet of water when the club arrived Sunday. Most of this has been drained by the ditches and pumps, but seepage continues.

The Cards are ready for a diamond. Coaches Mike Gonzales and Buzzy Wares agree that four days of conditioning exercises have advanced the squad of 17 to the batting practice stage.

Handicapped Cagers Win Over McCloskey

TEMPLE, Tex., March 22 (U.P.)—A basketball team composed of World War II veterans who have lost either a hand or an arm in military service has advanced further proof at McCloskey General hospital here that major physical handicaps can be overcome.

The team defeated an opposing McCloskey team 25 to 15.

High point man was Pfc. Ben H. Haster, Hopkinsville, Ky., who lost his right hand by a grenade at St. Lo, France. Pvt. Ray Davis was second highest scorer, working the hardwood court without the benefit of his right hand, which he lost at Camp Blanding, Fla., while training. T/Sgt. Thomas (Ted) Sills, also of Hopkinsville, Ky., also starred in the game, without benefit of his right arm.

Other members of the team were Pfc. Arnold Brooker, Portland, Me., and Pfc. Robert Brooks, Ashland, Ky., both of whom lost their left arms after being riddled by machine gun fire in France; Pfc. George Hall, Thomasville, N. C., who lost his right arm as result of artillery shell fragments near Dinard, France; and T/Sgt. Howard Wilkins, Clarksville, Tex., whose left hand was amputated after being wounded by a sniper's bullet near Brest, France.

The team, playing a fast-paced game and not at all self-conscious about their handicaps, were coached by Lt. Arnold Atkinson, one of the officers in charge of the physical reconditioning of warwounded at McCloskey.

Lubbock Netters To Play At Amarillo

The addition of tennis to the Amarillo Relays, scheduled at Amarillo Saturday, will likely carry the Lubbock boys tennis team to Amarillo to compete against the other teams of District 1-AA.

The boys doubles team of Fred McDonald and Herbert Hawkins, and the boys singles will be represented by David Hester.

If transportation can be arranged for the Lubbock netters, they will enter the Amarillo meet. The girls tennis team will not go to the meet.

Shorty Loses His Relay Team, Now Milk Supply Gone

Coach Marlin R. "Shorty" Hayhurst wonders if there is an omen in his present run of luck, and if so, what does is signify.

The popular Lubbock Westerner track coach has stood patiently on the sidelines and watched a very promising sprint relay team crumble before his eyes, and fall apart to where there is just one fourth of the team left in the running for the Amarillo Relays Saturday at Butler field.

But now Shorty is moaning another loss, but not one that has anything to do with the track team.

Bossy, the Hayhurst milk market, has mysteriously vanished from her stake, and no trace has been found of her. She disappeared Wednesday evening. "If this keeps up, I'll give up," moaned Shorty. "I can't figure where Bossy went, the Fat Stock show in Fort Worth was last week."

Famous Woman Golfer Said Killed By Train

NEW YORK, March 22. (AP)—Dorothy Campbell Hurd Howe, 62, one of the most famous woman golfers of all time, was killed when struck by a train in Yemassee, S. C., Tuesday, it was revealed tonight by Mrs. Wilson Seymour.

Mrs. Seymour is the mother of Mrs. Sigourney Hurd, daughter-in-law of the famed golfer.

Utah Opens Defense Of NCAA Cage Title

KANSAS CITY, March 22. (AP) Utah—the name is familiar but no one quite places the faces—is back to open defense of its NCAA basketball title in the Western Regional playoffs tomorrow night but Coach Vadal Peterson is among those professing pessimism at the Utes' chances.

Utah, which won the Western playoffs here a year ago and went on to New York and won the National championship, meets Oklahoma A. & M. Friday night after Oregon and Arkansas play in the opener.

Not one of Utah's regulars from 1944 is with the team this year although two of them, high scoring guard Arnold Ferrin and Fred Sheffield, helped the Utes win the Big Seven title. Ferren, conference leading scorer, recently was inducted and Sheffield, a Navy trainee, was unable to make the Kansas City trip.

"We've been dishing it out, now we'll have to prove we can take it," said Peterson. "We really haven't much of a chance against Oklahoma A. & M. I believe Hank Iba's team will win the Western trials."

There was some inclination to believe Saturday night's final might be an All-Southwestern affair—Oklahoma Aggies vs Arkansas.

Aggies Pound Bucs For 9 To 2 Victory

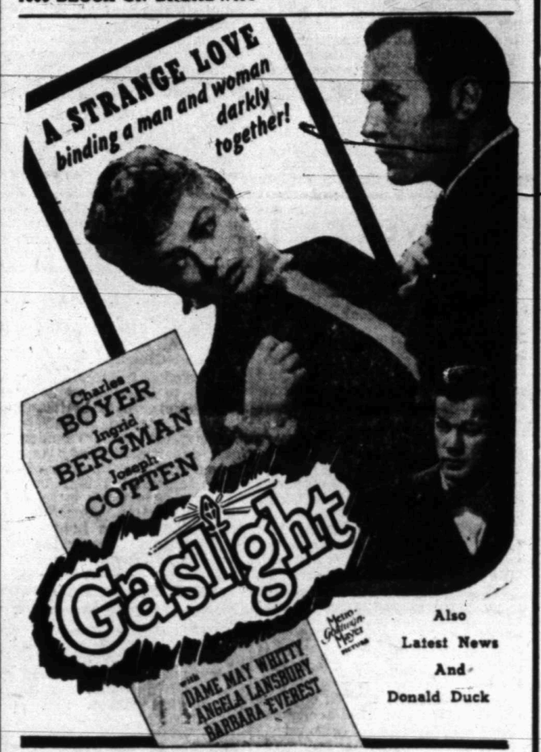

GEORGETOWN, March 22. (AP) —Texas A. and M. took the first game of a two-game baseball series here today, beating Southwestern, 9-2.

The tilt was a free-hitting affair, A. and M. collecting ten and the Pirates nine.

KERRVILLE NAMES COACH

KERRVILLE, March 21. (AP)—Champ Callihan, who was assistant football coach of Tivy High school here before entering the armed services from which he recently received a medical discharge, has been named head coach. He succeeds Paul Snow, who resigned to become head coach at Fort Worth's North Side High school.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

A Dangerous Practice

Let's Refrain From Comparison

AS brought out in the Washington dispatch of Ray Tucker, appearing on this page today, a currently favorite national pastime is comparing American field commanders, one with another, and attempting to show where one commander is more, or less, efficient than another.

This is a dangerous practice, at best.

In the first place, most of the citizens doing the "comparing" have no idea of the problems which confront a general in the field.

In the second place, only a handful of our military experts are fully aware of the differences in running a campaign in the Pacific, for instance, and one on the European mainland. For plain, ordinary citizens, like most of us, to make a comparison between Gen. Douglas MacArthur, for instance, and Gen. George S. Patton, jr., is impossible. We simply do not have the knowledge and the experience upon which to base a statement.

We have no idea of the identity of the unnamed observer Mr. Tucker quotes in his National Whirligig column as saying "there is enough glory for all" the generals serving their country in the current war.

We'll go even further:

We'll say there's enough glory not only for the generals, but for the admirals and all the men and women serving under all the generals and admirals.

There is nothing to be gained by saying, for instance, that "General MacArthur is better than General Eisenhower, because he has gone farther and lost fewer men." Maybe he is better. Maybe he isn't. Maybe had their spheres of operations been reversed, General Eisenhower would have looked better than General MacArthur.

Historians and military experts of the future eventually may be able to say some day—and with finality—that some generals were better than others; even that some were inefficient and slovenly.

But that time hasn't come yet—and until it does we here at home will be contributing to national unity by refraining from making comparisons we haven't the ability to sustain.

A Break For The Milker!

PRELIMINARY experimentation with D.D.T., the wonder insecticide developed for the armed forces in jungle warfare, is now under way on the farm, results of which can be disclosed.

It is disclosed that there is no reason why a bucket of milk should be kicked over by a fly-pestered cow or why the milker of the cow should wax irate because of a switched eye. Dairy barns sprayed inside and out by D.D.T. are fly-proof for at least two months. Flies entering the barn are killed by paralyzing action of the chemical.

There are a few minor handicaps in using the insecticide. Sheep, feeding on D.D.T. sprayed forage, become temporarily paralyzed. The chemical kills all the pests on a tree, but it also kills the friendly bugs that fight the pests, so that after a period of time the situation may be worse than ever. It eliminates insects on plants such as tomatoes but also damages the vines.

D.D.T. will therefore not be an unmixed blessing on the farm. But if it takes the flies out of the barn, the strain on the emotional equipment of a farmer will be so greatly eased that the wonder insecticide will be rated in rural precincts as one of the great boons of man.

In short, the new insecticide, as anyone who has ever tried to milk a cow with flies around will understand, really is "sumpin'!"

Fifty Million Stockholders

COMMENTING on the fact 50,000,000 American citizens paid income taxes last year, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau drew an interesting conclusion. Insisting this is a healthy condition for the nation, the Secretary declares it will continue throughout postwar years. As he puts it, the war is being paid for democratically, as will be the expenses of peace, which he says will be considerable. Before the war, government bonds were held by comparatively few persons. Now Uncle Sam's securities are in the hands of two-thirds of the population.

With the average citizen having what might be termed a financial interest in his government, the question has been asked whether he will be more alert to the manner in which it is administered. Because he is helping to pay for government directly as well as by payment of a thousand hidden taxes, it might be assumed he would expect to receive more for his money.

At any rate, he is a definite stockholder in his country, with a voice in election of the board of directors.

The One Minute Sermon

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.

For by it the elders obtained a good report.

Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which do appear.—Hebrews 11: 1-3.

Believe It Or Not --- By Robert Ripley

A Song To Remember

By Willard Wiener

(Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE STORY: In 1832 Poland is still under the Russian yoke, her peasants are chained to a vicious feudal system and any demonstration for freedom is immediately put down by the soldiers of the Czar. Frederic Chopin is 22, has gained distinction as a pianist in his home village of Zelazowa Wola and some celebrity as a composer, even in Warsaw. His mother chides him with being in love, and he admits only to being in love with her.

• • •

THE INWARD VOICE

Frederic was in love nevertheless. The object of his passion, for it was nothing less, was Mlle. Konstancja Gladkowska, a student of singing, whom he had met at the Warsaw Conservatorium. To win her approval, her admiration, he attempted what he considered beyond his powers. Yet his affection for her was his own secret. He shared it with none and hid it even from the young woman herself. He dared to speak in his music only. He expressed in composition what he could not bring his lips to utter. He poured his heart into sound. He made love to her in the language of lovers everywhere but his lips were silent. It was she who inspired the Adagio in his Concerto in F minor, and the Waltz in D flat.

One day in the Conservatorium she said to him: "Frederic, I think of you as the creator of great Polish music—"

"—Some day perhaps."

"Oh, not little melodies to be played in the salons by every hack who thinks himself a pianist. I think of the Polish people and how they have never had a voice. They have a voice, Frederic. They are like the mountains and the rivers; they have an inward voice, and once you have heard it—"

"The inward voice?"

"—Yes, the inward voice."

"I hear it all the time."

"I know it, Frederic. I feel you do."

He was silent. His lips quivered then parted into a melancholy smile.

• • •

How little she knew of the inward tumult that gave him neither peace nor quiet for a solitary moment of his waking life. What could she know of his aspirations or of the torment that robbed him of sleep and kept him tossing fitfully night after night, a torment from which his music was a release, but only in part? How could she know? And yet—? That was the strange thing. She had touched the truth.

—Never would he be a hack. He would swear to that and may heaven be his witness. Nor would the melodies torn from his heart be the meat of those who lived off salon patronage. "Konstancja, my beautiful, my good Konstancja," he would have said, "you are right, you have divined it." Some day he, Chopin — "Just as you have said, Konstancja" — would speak for the locked soul of Poland. He had heard the voice, the first whisper. He had heard it in the groans of the wounded, in the tread of naked feet slogging through the mud, in the grunts of the inarticulate, in the curses of the oppressed, in the cries of hungry children.

—Deeper, deeper, deeper. He would go deeper yet, and ever deeper, until he touched the very nerve and fiber, until he came up finally with the sounds of the earth and of the children of that same Polish earth. All this he would do until he had fashioned absolutely the voice of Poland, free and without chains.

Then he said: "The inward voice. You think, Konstancja, I never hear it?"

"Oh, no, Frederic. You hear it. I know you do."

Izabela, now a gawky young lady, was being fitted into a new dress. She stood in the middle of the kitchen, her arms akimbo, while Mamma Chopin, on her knees, pinned a little here, a little there.

"Very nice," Jozef Elsner said, looking over the rim of his spectacles.

"Me, Professor—or the dress?"

"—Tch, tch."

"Izabela! How do you expect me to fix anything if you don't stand still?"

"But I am, Mamma; I'm only moving my mouth."

"Well, don't even move that."

Professor Elsner removed his spectacles and wiped the thick lenses with his red kerchief. "A new dress? Hm."

"And why not?" Mamma Chopin said. "It's for tonight—for Frederic's concert—at Count Wodzinski's." She said the Count's name with emphasis, for this night was to be an occasion, a most important one. "Don't tell me you have forgotten it?"

"Please, Madame, certainly not—certainly not." Jozef Elsner sniffed. "Forgotten it? That's a fine thing to say." Then he put his fingers to his head as though to recall it. "I remember exactly. Why, it's tonight!"

Mamma Chopin looked out of the corner of her eye. "Yes," she said. "Tonight!"

"I suppose the Count honors Frederic?"

"Yes, indeed."

"—Humph. It is Frederic who honors the Count. How else? He will play for the Count and his guests while they eat and Frederic will have to stuff his ears if he is not to hear the clatter of knives and forks. There will be no silence—none—and his beautiful tones will have to pierce their small talk, and even then, Madame, I doubt they will listen—unless it be with half-cocked ears!"

"—And where will you be? I will tell you, Madame; I will make the prediction you will get no farther than the pantry. Fine! Then, if you have the stomach for it, you may stand there and put your ear to a crack."

Although his spectacles were perfectly clear Jozef Elsner took them off anyway, and wiped them.

"—All this trouble"—Izabela's new dress—"for such a privilege."

Total Of 1,716,000 Separated From Army

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—The War department reported today that 1,716,000 men have been separated from the Army since the start of the war through Dec. 31, 1944.

Separations covered all causes, including deaths in battle and otherwise, honorable discharges, prisoners of war and missing, and other reasons such as retirements and assignments of men to inactive status.

The figures in round numbers include: deaths, 29,000 officers and 143,000 enlisted men, a total of 172,000; honorable discharges, 26,000 officers and 1,195,000 enlisted men, a total of 1,221,000; prisoners of war and missing, 25,000 officers and 107,000 enlisted men, a total of 132,000; other separations, 4,000 officers and 187,000 enlisted men, a total of 191,000.

New Polish National Council Is Planned

LONDON, March 22 (AP)—President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz of the London Polish government dissolved the Polish National council (parliament in exile) tonight in order to form a "more representative body" including Poles from the homeland, France and the United States.

The decree said the new Polish National council would be summoned in the near future. The old council, consisting of 24 members, was formed in 1942.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

TOY KUYKENDAL was peacefully washing ice cream cans in the basement of the Denver drug store where he worked. He happened to glance over his shoulder and saw a big man starting at him from a dark corner.

Toy dashed upstairs and called the police, after slamming the cellar door shut. Pretty soon the patrol arrived and a platoon of cops rushed downstairs, revolvers in their hands.

"Come out of there before we kill you" shouted the sergeant.

The man didn't move. Cautiously, pistol pointed at the intruder, the officers surrounded their prey, only to discover that it was a life-sized cardboard man advertising a patent medicine, who had been put down there for storage by the proprietor.

BRANDEIS

The reason I like this little story is because there are so many cardboard men of whom we are afraid.

Most of our worries are cardboard men.

Most of our fears are cardboard men.

Most of our inhibitions and prejudices are cardboard men.

Right now, maybe the basement—or may be the attic—of your brain has a cardboard man or two in it.

• • •

I read an article the other day about the terrible cruelty of the Japs, written by one of the recently freed prisoners at Santo Tomas prison camp.

He tried to analyze these Japs who were so anxious to impress their captives with their bravery and might. They punished them at the slightest provation. They slapped them and starved them and insulted them.

And do you know to what the author attributes the brutality of the Japs?

Fear.

Fear of being recognized for what they are—inferior human beings who think they must show their superiority by cruelty and brutality to those who, for the moment, are weaker than they are.

• • •

YET I have seen it so often. The weaker a man, the more he is obsessed by fear and the more overbearing he becomes when he gets someone else in his power.

That kind of person is cruel to animals. He is cruel to his employees. He mistreats servants, if he has them and he hounds his debtors.

It is the same with prejudices. People who are afraid to be known in their true light become intolerant and narrow-minded. They set themselves up as the epitome of all that is good and righteous and exemplary just to hide their weaknesses and their fears.

You have them in every community and the smaller the community the more there are of these people who are afraid of their shadows.

If those people could only turn on the light and see that the bugaboo of which they are afraid is nothing but a cardboard man.

It's difficult, of course, to recognize a cardboard man if you are one yourself.

Glory Enough For All

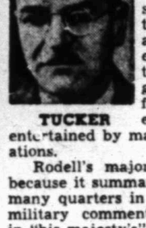

U. S. Field Generals Compared

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

ARMY circles are buzzing angrily at a fresh outburst of invidious comparisons affecting the top leaders of our European and Far Eastern campaigns. While the enthusiasm of Marshall, Eisenhower and MacArthur partisans has kept alive an undercover feud ever since Pearl Harbor, the clash has become especially acute on forecasts of sweepings shifts of command after the fall of Germany.

There have been suggestions that "Ike" Eisenhower would become Chief of Staff in Washington, and that Gen. George Marshall would direct the grand assault against Japan. The recent promotion of 11 officers to four-star generals has given support to this belief, inasmuch as most of the beneficiaries are serving in Europe at the moment.

The latest article to provoke sharp reaction at the Pentagon building and on Capitol Hill appeared in The Progressive, the La Follettes' weekly magazine, under the by-line of Fred Rodell, brilliant Yale professor. He gave an Army colonel as the source of his criticism, also adding that his informant had studied with, taught or served under almost all the generals at the head of the U. S. Army today.

TUCKER

Although written before the seizure of the Remagen bridge and the excellent exploitation of that achievement, the Rodell report embraces the over-all strategy and tactics employed by the various group of commanders. It also reflects viewpoints frequently voiced in the capital, although not entertained by many men in close touch with operations.

Rodell's major indictment is worth quotation because it summarizes one-sided comment heard in many quarters in Washington and London. British military commentators, including former officers in "his majesty's" service, have been equally caustic.

"In the first place," says the La Follette piece, "no man with half a mind can have helped contrasting our campaigns in Europe with two other campaigns. One is the Russian attack on Germany from the east, which was advancing 20 or 30 miles a day in the teeth of the bulk of the German armies while we in the west were making a headlined 100 yards.

"The other is General MacArthur's amphibious march back to the Philippines against an enemy just as 'fanatical' and just as entrenched as the Germans—a march made on schedule, with no setbacks and with a minimum of casualties—a march which, without in the least discounting the tremendous and indispensable contribution of the Navy, involved a miracle of Army logistics, strategy and tactics such as even an ignorant citizen can sense in his bones."

• • •

CRITICS: The article also raises another provocative question. The unidentified colonel declares that "with very few exceptions, the Army's best soldiers, its wisest leaders, its keenest practitioners of the art of war, have been clustered in the Pacific.

"He named MacArthur, Krueger, Eichelberger, 'Skinny' Wainwright. What he said of the ability of some of the generals who head our armies in Europe, I will not repeat."

Other critics here have made the same invidious comparison in relation to the head of our air forces. With the exception of Lt. Gen. Ira Eaker, who was shifted to the Mediterranean theater after building up the Eighth Air Force in England, they maintain that our European fliers do not match such airmen as Gen. George Kenney, MacArthur's aerial aide, or Gen. Claire Chennault in China.

• • •

DIFFICULTIES: Neutral experts maintain that these comments are based on utter misunderstanding of the problems and personalities involved in global warfare. For a long time, although aware of this muttering, competent judges have refused to discuss the situation publicly. But now they believe that the propoganda, as they regard it, should be answered.

No one else, they hold, could have equaled the performance of Chief of Staff Marshall, and they declare that he should be assigned to the most important post for speedy and successful conclusion of the conflict, whether it be here or abroad.

A spokesman of this impartial group argues that no other American commander, except Robert E. Lee, has shown Marshall's all-around ability. Like Lee, General Marshall had to mobilize an unprepared nation that believed its military reputation would suffice for overnight victory. He had to build a fighting force from almost nothing. He had to deal with a temperamental Chief Executive and a political-minded Congress. The results, they say, speak eloquently.

"Ike" Eisenhower faced difficulties which were absent in the Pacific area. A major setback in his theater at any time after his D-day embarkation might have proved disastrous. He had to proceed cautiously. Both in England and in Europe he was beset by problems of high diplomacy in dealing with several governments and the heads of a polyglot Army. He had to think of the sensitivities of the British, Canadians, French, Italians, Dutch, Belgians etc. He also had a civilian population on his hands. It took a slow, patient, smiling Kansan to keep his head in such a labyrinth of pitfalls and blind alleys.

This authority gave equal praise to our Pacific leaders. In view of the Roosevelt-Churchill strategy—merely to hold off Japan while we smashed Germany—they were ideal men for that job. They had to be daring, resourceful, imaginative, romantic even, in conception and execution. They can best be compared to the Jacksons, Stuarts and Earlys of Lee's force and to Phil Sheridan on the Union side.

"In short," concluded this calm, dispassionate spokesman, "there is glory enough for all."

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

DIPLOMATS with an ear to the keyhole expect an upheaval in Spain in the immediate future. They hear that Franco will resign, the monarchy will be restored with a democratic prime minister and that London will recognize the new regime.

Rumors of such a turnover were rampant in European foreign offices last fall but the time was not ripe for it; now it is.

With Hitler and Mussolini on the run, El Caudillo is like the boy left on the burning deck. Some Spaniards whisper that the 40,000 Maquisards now in France will surge across the border and settle accounts with the Falange.

LEMAN

But war-weary France, although grateful for the aid given by the exiles in the days of resistance, does not want her territory used as a springboard for another Spanish revolution.

The bulk of the people on the Iberian Peninsula is sick of bloodshed. It would welcome a change provided that it does not mean civil war.

The truth is that the anti-Fascist factions are hopelessly split. By nature every Spaniard is a stubborn individualist—willing to die for his beliefs but often intolerant of others' opinions. Each petty boss is conniving to get more power and is double-crossing his rivals.

Martinez Barrio recently convoked the Spanish Cortes in Mexico City from the ex-deputies who had fled to this New World haven. But when friends of former Premier Juan Negrin discovered that Barrio intended to use the assembly to bar their hero from future leadership, they adjourned the meeting.

Indalecio Prieto, ambitious head of the Junta de Liberacion, was hand in glove with Barrio but his plots were balked also. These incidents are merely samples of the feuds that weaken the anti-dictatorship parties and dishearten true democrats.

The paperhanger who tried to be Napoleon will be pasted in the end.

Stokes Bumps Into Former Tech Student . . .

Normandy's Beaches Are Quiet Now

EDITOR'S NOTE: The former Tech student mentioned in the article below is Capt. William C. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Thompson of Artesia, N. M. He attended Texas Tech from 1938 to 1942, leaving his engineering studies to join the Army.

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

ISIGNY, France—There was a muddy and impassable stretch of road ahead. So we got out of the car and walked down the hill toward "Omaha" beach.

It was quiet here, where once there had been so much noice. A restless crow flounced about from one bare tree to another, carping at our intrusion. His sharp complaint was the only sound.

STOKES

We walked down into a little valley, with a row of low hills behind us. Ahead of us was the bluff, on which the Germans were waiting that June 6 when the American armies poured on to the shores of Franse. It seems so long ago now. So much has happened since, and the big guns are far from here, and the planes and the hordes of American soldiers, clear across France, beyond the Rhine.

• • •

Talked With Tech Grad

The young soldier who accompanied me, Capt. William C. Thompson of the Engineers, walked along silently, a short, compact figure. He had the quick but sure footing of the trained soldier, and the solid, somewhat bow-legged walk of the Southwesterner. His home is in New Mexico, whence he came by stages from Tampa, Fla., where he was born, to Georgia, to Mississippi, to Artesia, N. M. He was in Texas Tech at Lubbock, finishing his engineering course when he joined the Army. He spoke now, swinging his arm to the right. "I am familiar with all that—that's where my battalion was." He smiled, timidly, depreciatingly. He pointed to a dirt road which came through a break in the bluff and wound through the valley and over the hill.

"My men built that."

• • •

IT was one of those outlets from the beach beyond over which for many weeks and months rolled the procession of trucks moving up to the armies the supplies which were dumped on the beach from an endless parade of "ducks"—those amphibious trucks—which went back and forth from the boats to the beach, day and night. It was those "ducks," incidentally, to which a German officer captured here, once pointed and said: "There is America's secret weapon."

We climbed to the top of the bluff and walked about among the concrete pill boxes, the various sorts of gun emplacements, which the Germans had trained upon the beach and the channel beyond. Through a deep trench head high, we entered one of the concrete structures.

There was a small room, a staff room, and down a flight of stairs another room where the Germans had slept, and beyond that around a curve, a kitchen. Capt. Thompson stuck his head into the kitchen, which had concrete fire boxes at one end.

"That's where I slept—for six weeks."

• • •

Big Guns Rusty

Outside, about the bluff, there were remnants of barbed wire entanglements. Here and there was an anti-aircraft gun, its now rusty barrel pointing at an empty sky, and dug-outs also for the big guns, sturdy concrete squares, with slits for the barrel to sweep the beach. The gaunt skeletons of a number of houses stood here and there on the bluff. This once had been a summer resort. Some of the people who owned these houses had been there on D-day.

In a small house hidden behind the bluff an old French couple still were living. On the hillside was their garden, freshly worked and planted.

• • •

THE beach now looked like no place to enjoy oneself on a summer day. The sand had disappeared. The ground was churned up into mud. Roads criss-crossed it, roads quickly built by troops of the Fifth and Sixth Engineer brigades under German fire. Some of these roads were no longer usable.

They are needed no longer. But once they were the avenues of victory. This beach was one of the two supply bases, the other being "Utah" beach, from which everything used by the Army was shuttled from boat to beach to truck and to the army advancing ahead, first slowly across the flooded lowlands and through the hedgerows, then more swiftly.

• • •

Once Very Busy Place

This was once a very busy place. Night and day, across this beach, nearly two million tons of supplies were moved to the armies. "Utah" beach, around the bend, where the other American army landed on France, handled nearly a million tons. This was the tiny break in the German dam across France, no bigger figuratively than a child's hand, through which broke the flood of supplies, to spread out and sweep all before it. Nearly two million soldiers were landed across these beaches.

Later, Cherbourg was captured and rehabilitated, and the burden of supply moved there. Then other ports were captured, and they shared as they do now. But that was some time later.

• • •

THIS was the beginning. Here began the saga of supply, the saga of the Army service forces. It makes you very proud to stand on "Omaha" beach.

RECOVERY IS ERRATIC

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—Led by rails and aircrafts, stocks recovered selectively, but unimpressively, in today's market.

Top gains, running to 2 or more points, were reduced at the close and minus signs were plentiful. Turnover of 830,000 shares compared with 1,340,000 Wednesday.

Buying was based partly on hopes of dividends in addition to belief the three-session reaction entitled the list to a technical comeback.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .1 of a point at 60.3. Of 891 issues registering, 378 were up, 291 down and 222 unchanged.

Better performers included Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Grumman Aircraft (buoyed by a revival of splitup reports), Sperry, Eastern Air Lines, U. S. Rubber, Laclede Gas preferred, Hudson Motors and U. S. Industrial Chemicals.

Lower were Chrysler, American Can, Westinghouse, Radio Corp., Texas Co., Dow Chemical, Montgomery Ward, Kennecott, Goodrich, Southern Railway, Allied Chemical and United Aircraft.

Bonds were narrow.

In the curb Transwestern oil jumped 3 points.

here left last fall. The training center was down to 10,000 men at the end of 1944. Its de-activation is to be complete by April 1. Remaining in Camp Barkeley, which is being fully manned by the headquarters detachment, are the regional hospital and a small German prisoner of war stockade.

The change has not been abrupt. Utilities companies' records show numbers of customers have fallen off only one to two per cent this year. There were 6,921 gas customers March 1, 1940, and 8,969 on March 1, 1945.

There were 6,106 electric service meters five years ago. On March 1, 1945, there were 8,310. The electric service company has had as many as 120 orders a day from families moving within the city.

Department stores report sales still running ahead of 1944.

This necessity for post-war adjustment is beginning to feel good to Abilene. It is giving her a new interest in her future.

Meanwhile, Abilene this week had four pages in a national picture magazine in which it was described as the city of plenty, where there is comparatively little hoarding and where thick steaks are common.

Food shortages have been minor thus far.

The Senate also adopted a House resolution suggesting to the department of public welfare that its rules be amended to permit old age pensioners to possess $300 cash and still be eligible to remain on the rolls. Under the present rules, pensioners are eligible if they have $150 cash and a burial policy of $150.

A proposed constitutional amendment originating in the House, setting the pay of legislators at $3,650 annually was passed by the Senate to final reading. Necessary to submission is a two-thirds vote in both houses.

south rim and was ready to hurdle that minor river barrier and strike northward.

Sieg Reported Crossed

(The American broadcasting station in Europe said in a broadcast heard by NBC that the Yanks had crossed the Sieg and captured Siegburg, city of 20,000).

Southward, the First Army bridgehead extended to within seven and a half miles of Coblenz, on the west bank, where the Third Army sits in firm control.

German broadcasts admitted that the bridgehead had been mushroomed until now it had achieved "tactical importance" and might well form the south jaw to Montgomery's northern pincer. The enemy said Montgomery had tremendous forces poised ready to strike.

Third Army banners floated over 100 miles to the Rhine's west bank from Ludwigshafen to Coblenz, and racing armor was five miles from Speyer and 19 from Karlsruhe, the two main roads back for the battered German band—all that remains of two German armies once more than 100,000 strong.

Nazi Roads Smashed

Even as Third Army strategists turned to bolder plans, thousands of Allied bombers began smashing transport bottlenecks for the coming battle of the Ruhr to the north, where Germans said the Allies are massed in terrific strength for a Rhine crossing that might come at any hour.

The German defense lines crumpled early today in Mainz, which fanatic SS troops had tried to turn into an island of resistance in a sea of almost unsurpassed destruction.

They had impressed police and firemen and unlimbered anti-tank and self-propelled guns and held out for two days, but the 90th division shattered their lines with an early morning barrage of great ferocity and then broke through.

By mid-afternoon Mainz was more than 75 per cent cleared and the Germans had been driven back into the old town, which covers only a small area in the heart of the city.

Annihilation Battle

The battle west of the Rhine, which will carry out Gen. Eisenhower's orders to destroy every German short of the big river barrier, was being carried to a swift conclusion by the U. S. Third and Seventh armies.

The Tenth Armored division of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army was fanning out, one column spearing six miles southeast to near Gommersheim, seven miles west of Speyer and only 19 miles northwest of Karlsruhe, industrial city of 200,000 on the Rhine's east bank.

The pincers was being clamped on Speyer. The Tenth, after capturing the steel city of Neustadt, pushed on into Bohl, six miles northwest of Speyer, over whose bridge the German radio was calling to the beaten troops to escape before it was too late.

Patton's mystery tank division which first penetrated Ludwigshafen left the mop-up of that city to the 94th Infantry division and speared on south to within five miles of Speyer to the north.

Westward other armored columns drove south to the vicinity of Muncheweiler, only five miles north of Seventh Army forces battling against the Germans doggedly holding a 35-mile stretch of the Siegfried line from near Pirmasens eastward to the Rhine.

Near Seventh Army

After capturing Annweiler, the Tenth drove two miles east to near Albersweiler, three miles west of Landau. There the Third Army was seven miles north of the Seventh Army fighting in the Siegfried line at Dorrenbach, 17 miles west of Karlsruhe.

West of Pirmasens, Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's seventh and Patton's Third armies were meshing together, crisscrossing each other's path in total disregard for Army boundaries in a mop-up that was netting more prisoners in large numbers.

Fighter-bombers speeded the cleanup by catching a concentration of enemy vehicles trying to pull out beyond the Rhine and destroyed 200 of them.

It was this kind of beating from air and ground that had destroyed 350 tanks, 200 heavy guns and more than 5,000 vehicles on the Third Army front alone since Patton broke across the Moselle river into the rear of the Saarland and the Palatinate.

Rites Set Saturday For Mrs. Pruitt

Funeral services for Mrs. R. G. Pruitt, about 63, formerly of Lubbock, who died Tuesday at her home in Eunice, N. M., will be conducted at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Bryan McDonald and Son Funeral home chapel.

The pastor of the First Baptist church at Eunice will officiate, and burial will be in Lubbock cemetery, it was reported.

Survivors are her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Ray Shuler of Bonham, Mrs. Cecil Robinson of Oklahoma; seven sons, Cpl. Earl D. Pruitt, stationed in the Pacific theater, T-Sgt. Floyd W. Pruitt, stationed in England, Cpl. J. W. Pruitt of Longview, Pvt. Henry D. Pruitt of Florida, Elva M., W. Hubert and Herman L. Pruitt, all of Lubbock; three brothers, Floyd Conwell of Eunice, Lloyd N. Conwell of Tahoka, Arthur L. Conwell of Port Royal, S. C.; 21 grandchildren.

Man Given Life In Rape Of Young Girl

DALLAS, March 22 (AP)—James Johnson Neely, 34, was convicted today of raping a 13-year-old Dallas girl and the jury set his punishment at life imprisonment.

Neely already was under life sentence on a similar case.

The jury returned its verdict an hour and fifty minutes after beginning deliberations.

Neely showed no signs of emotion when the verdict was read.

1941, he was inducted into the Army in March, 1944, and went across in Septebmer of the same year. He had a two-weeks furlough in August that he spent with his family. A sister, Nell, and a brother, Billy, live at Loop and another sister, Mrs. Raymond Miller, lives at Odessa.

Claunch Is Prisoner

S/Sgt. Oscar Allen Claunch, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Claunch, 1308 Thirty-third, who was reported missing in action Nov. 24, is now a prisoner of the Germans and writes his family that he is being treated well and is in good health. He is in Stalag 3-B. Sgt. Claunch, who had only been in action a little more than a month when he was captured, was with the 84th division of the Ninth Army. He went into the Army in December, 1942, and in civilian life was manager of the Leger Milling company here. His wife and two-year-old child live in Orange, with her parents.

Snyder Man Wounded

1st Lt. Renal B. Rosson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Rosson of Snyder, was seriously wounded in action over Germany, February 28, friends here have learned. He was on his 47th mission as a bombardier when his plane was crippled by flak and made a forced landing on an emergency field. Lt. Rosson, who left Texas Tech a month or two before he was to graduate in the spring of 1942 to enter the Air corps, was first stationed at Lubbock Army Air field. He was graduated from Officers Candidate school at Miami Beach, Fla., in December, 1942 and saw six months foreign service in the Carribean area. He returned to the United States for re-assignment to bombardier school and received his wings at Big Spring in December, 1943. Returning to foreign service the following July, he was sent to the European theater, where he was awarded the Air Medal, with Oak Leaf Clusters and a citation for meritorious service.

Pfc. Upton Wounded

Pfc. Othie W. Upton, son of Mrs. M. B. Dresser, jr., 2607 Ave. L, was slightly wounded in action with the Rainbow division of the Seventh Army in France March 10, the War department has informed his wife. A letter from Pfc. Upton described his wounds as deep shrapnel cuts behind his left ear and on his left hand. A Lubbock High school graduate, Pfc. Upton was a member of the Westerner football team while in school and later was a civilian employee in the machine shop at Lubbock Army Air field. His wife, the former Rue Nell Keelin, and their two small children live at 712 Hub homes.

The Sundstorm hearing wound up with the New Jersey Republican announcing that he still is hunting an adequate answer to his question, "What has been done by OPA to increase supplies of meat to retailers?"

Some banking committeemen indicated equal dissatisfaction. Senator Murdock (D-Ariz) called the situation "muddled" and Senator Tobey (R-NH) asked Winn and Bowles, "How can we senators determine the facts?"

Russian Advances

Army offensive in Hungary which Berlin said was hammering west of Budapest within 95 miles of Vienna.

Southeast Of Breslau

Konev's mighty Army went over to the offensive in areas west and south of the Oder river town of Oppeln, 47 miles southeast of Breslau, in extreme southeastern Germany.

Striking south from Grottkau, 23 miles west of Oppeln, one arm of a giant pincer plunged 25 miles toward Neustadt, 58 miles southeast of Breslau, while the second struck 25 miles west from bridgeheads across the Oder between Krappitz, 13 miles south of Oppeln, and Ratibor, 40 miles southeast of Oppeln.

Nearing Baltic Ports

Moscow's war bulletin announced that meanwhile Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army was hammering closer to the twin Baltic ports of Danzig and Gdynia. Advancing through the canal-webbed Vistula delta south of Danzig, the Russians seized nine places, including Russoczin, seven miles below the former free city.

In East Prussia, Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsk's Third White Russian Army struck from three sides against the last German outpost of Heiligenbeil, while Red Army dive bombers lashed the battered remnants of enemy troops being thrown back into the sea.

Other Soviet troops in Czechoslovakia carved out new gains in the Carpathian mountains north and northwest of Zvolen in Czechoslovakia, while Moscow announced Russian, Yugoslav and Bulgarian troops had smashed a German bridgehead thrown across the Drava river mid-way between Budapest and Belgrade.

Thousands Trapped

Smashing through German defenses in 25-mile advances both west and south of the Oder river city of Oppeln, 46 miles southeast of Breslau, Marshal Konev's men encircled and routed an enemy group southwest of Oppeln. More than 30,000 were killed and 15,000 captured, Moscow said, while there were indications thousands of others still were trapped and were being wiped out.

It was the 11th major Red Army encirclement since Russia's great winter offensive started in January.

German reports said that Konev's scythe-like offensive already was slashing across the remaining German-held areas of upper Silesia on the southern flank of the central front to win the entire area bordering Czechoslovakia.

Cross In 12-Mile Sector

Stalin revealed that Konev's troops, striking from a bridgehead across the Oder south of Oppeln, apparently crossed the winter barrier in a 12-mile sector between the east bank towns of Krappitz, 13 miles south of Oppeln, and Cosel, 24 miles southeast.

Winning Krappitz and Cosel, the southern arm of Konev's Army swept west through Ober-Glogau, 12 miles west of Cosel, and Zuelz, 21 miles west. Simultaneously, the northern arm dashed south from the area of Grottkau and won Flakenberg, 18 miles west of Oppeln, and Steinau, eight miles north of Neustadt.

Linking in this area, the Russians trapped thousands of enemy troops in the Tillowitz forest area southwest of Oppeln, and together smashed into the city of Neustadt.

Neustadt, three miles from Czechoslovakia, lies within four miles of the vital trans-Sudeten mountain railroad linking the Czechoslovak industrial city of Moravska Ostrava with Dresden and central Germany.

Battle For Stettin

Berlin said that Russian spearheads, battering eight miles west of Neustadt, were hammering at the gates of Ziegenhals, vital punction astride the important railroad, which if cut would force the Germans to route supplies and industrial goods through Prague.

Meanwhile, enemy broadcasts reported that Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov had hurled an estimated 300,000 men and at least 800 tanks into the battle for Stettin in a massive assault which may be the prelude to a breakout into Germany's northern plain and a sweep to cut off all Baltic ports and link with Anglo-American armies in the west.

The DNB agency said that 25 Russian divisions plus four Red Army armored corps with 800 tanks were making an all-out assault on blazing, shell-torn Stettin and one enemy broadcast hinted Soviet assault units might already have crossed the Oder river and be fighting in Stettin's streets.

Hungarian Front

Far to the south in Hungary, the enemy reported that Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army had stepped up break-through attempts on a 47-mile front west of Budapest between the Danube river and Lake Balaton.

Berlin also said that Russian troops had launched an all-out defensive in Latvia in a sixth attempt to clear the 6,000-square mile enemy pocket in the Courland peninsula. The offensive, the enemy said, was resumed on both sides of Saldus, 54 miles east of the Baltic port of Liepaja (Libau).

Russia's Baltic armies were described as deploying a "maximum" amount of ammunition but the enemy claimed the Red Army had meen checked.

News Briefs

John Boydston, 59, of Tahoka, was in a serious condition late Thursday night in Lubbock General hospital after being run over by a truck Thursday afternoon. Hospital attendants said that the full extent of Boydston's injuries was not known.

Theft of a City cab sometime between midnight and Thursday afternoon was reported to police. The black and white vehicle is a 1942 Plymouth, Texas license Y23-156, with the number "76" painted on the rear.

Congratulations To:

Heavy Damage Done Screen At Theater

Vandals inflicted heavy damage to a $375 screen at Llanos theater, 1419 Ave. G, police investigation revealed Thursday afternoon.

A hole approximately three feet in diameter was torn in the screen. Small change was taken from a popcorn machine in the lobby, the owner, Herane Parks, told police.

The padlock on a back door was found sawed off.

Three other Wednesday night burglaries occupied attention of officers. Fourteen dollars in money and from $6 to $7 in stamps were taken from a safe in Claude B. Hurlbut's office on the second floor of Citizens National bank building. Arlene Beauty school, at 1408 Texas Ave., was burglarized of $20 in money; about $2 in nickels was taken from a magazine stand operated by H. B. Alley of 1710 Ave. H.

Two Mexican youths, 16 and 19, were jailed last night for investigation into the burglarly Saturday night of Rafel Rios' residence at 305 Ave. O, when $190 in money was taken from a hiding place under a bed.

Tax Bills On Snuff, Movies Kicked Back

AUSTIN, March 22 (AP)—Two House measures designed to levy a tax on snuff and moving picture theater admissions were passed back today to a sub-committee with instructions for the sub-committee to report back at its discretion by the House committee on revenue and taxation.

Both measures were drawn by Rep. F. H. Leslie of Hillsboro. Under the snuff measure the state would collect one cent on each five cent sale while one cent would be collected on each ten cents of theater admission.

Leslie estimated the theater tax would produce about $11,550,000 in state revenue with the snuff sales tax producing between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

Former Justice Of Supreme Court Dies

SAN DIEGO, March 22 (AP) — John Hessin Clarke, 87, former justice of the U. S. Supreme court who sacrificed a seat on the nation's highest tribunal to battle for the principle of the League of Nations, died today.

His body was found in bed in his hotel suite he occupied for the last 14 years. His physician reported that he died from a heart attack.

Born in Lisbon, O., Sept. 18, 1857, Clarke was appointed to the Supreme court in 1916 by President Wilson. A bachelor, Clarke is believed to have no living relatives. Funeral services are being arranged.

Search Continuing For Nacona Officer

SANTA MARIA, Cal., March 22. (UP)—Search continued in the Pacific just off San Luis Obispo, Cal., for 2nd Lt. Robert C. Shropshire, 20, of Nocona, Tex., who was listed as missing.

His twin engine pursuit plane collided with another on a combat training mission. Shropshire jumped from his plane in a parachute and fell into the ocean, but search planes and boats have not located him.

Chandler W. Shropshire of 2221 Dunston rd., Houston, Tex., an uncle, was listed as the next of kin.

Tyree Isolated For Assault On Woman

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., March 22 (AP)—Walter A. Hunter, warden of the federal prison at Leavenworth, said today Ernest Tyree, a life termer, had been put in isolation for the assault of a woman stenographer-clerk at the prison.

Tyree was received at the prison on March 14, 1943, from the state of Texas where he was convicted of the raping of the wife of an Army officer.

Warden Hunter has asked transfer of Tyree to Alcatraz.

'Marrying Conductor' Convicted Of Bigamy

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22 (AP)—Francis Van Wie, 58, the marrying conductor, was convicted on three counts of bigamy today by a jury which deliberated only 15 minutes.

The roly-poly, tiny former municipal railway employe showed no emotion as the verdict was read except for a twitching of the face.

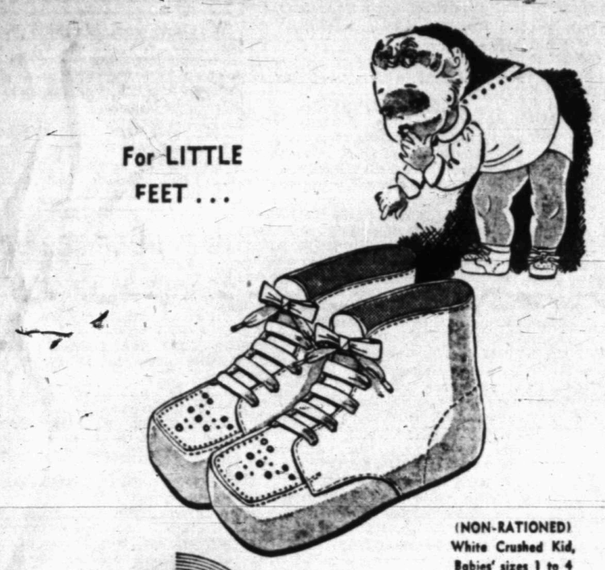

Van Wie will be tried again by the same jury beginning Tuesday morning on his second plea of innocent by reason of insanity. The prosecution has declared he was married twelve times.

Four of his wives were in court to hear the verdict. They testified against him.

Jittery Nazis Order Danes From Coast

STOCKHOLM, March 22 (AP)—The German high command, jittery over the prospects of an Allied invasion of Denmark, has ordered Danish authorities to evacuate a number of cities on the east coast of Jutland by April 15, the Free Danish press reported today.

Events Leave Japs As Confused As Mauled And Crumbling Nazis

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Pending further evolution of Allied-Russian concerted operations in Germany to disclose where the battle of inner Germany will begin, events beyond the Pacific leave Japan hardly less confused and uncertain than her crumbling Nazi accomplice.

SIMPSON

Within the last 48 hours Allied air power has run the gamut of Nipponese defensive deployments from western Burma to the hideouts of Japan's sorely battered fleet in the inland sea. The swooping planes, land or carrier based, were obviously paving the way for something, but for just what Tokyo could not certainly tell. Powerful naval task forces were reported at one stage no more than 60 miles offshore from Japan's home islands.

Tokyo broadcasts give certain evidence of the invasion fears running high in Japan. The same fear is dominating Japanese Army commanders in French Indo-China. It was redoubled by the Nipponese reported heavy air attack on Hainan island, the big Chinese southern appendix dominating the Gulf of Tonkin and the northeast coast of the French colony. Through it runs the slender and vulnerable Nipponese communications life line linking her armies in China with Burma, Malaya and the Dutch Indies.

Task Force Still At It

Formosa, the Japanese china sea gibraltar, got another blasting, Tokyo said. There was Japanese word for it, too, that the great task force from which Navy bombers caught nearly a score of war craft at moorings in inland sea harbors was moving southwestward again, perhaps to strike into the center of the Ryukyu chain of islands that runs from the southern tip of Kyushu in the home islands all the way to Formosa.

These Ryukyu islands certainly figure in American naval plans for the early if not immediate future. They form a screen across the wide mouth of the East China sea.

The Ryukyus cover like a blanket all approaches from the south to sea traffic that flows between Nagasaki and other parts in southern Japan and Shanghai.

CRACK SHOT ON JAP

A TASK FORCE BASE IN BURMA, March 22 (AP) — T/Sgt. Robert E. Fiske, a former South Chicago bartender, said today he had shot a Japanese sniper from a tree with a single bullet from his pistol after the sniper fired on his ambulance plane flying a wounded man to a rear hospital.

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration said today it is asking the United States for one pound of food for war victims to every 60 pound consumed in this country.

Oil Workers Favor Ratifying Treaty

FORT WORTH, March 22. (U.P.)—The Oil Workers International union (CIO) stood today in favor of prompt ratification of the U. S.-Mexico water treaty.

President O. A. Knight of the union telegraphed Chairman Tom Connally of the Senate foreign relations committee, yesterday that affirmative action on the treaty is needed to solidify friendly relations between the two countries.

Negotiated by the state department, the treaty allocates the distribution of water in streams common to the two countries.

A "willingness to meet our neighbors halfway" is needed at this time, after the inter-American conference placed the good neighbor policy on a solid foundation, Knight said.

"High-sounding sentiments on international cooperation will mean nothing if we maintain a dog-in-the-manger attitude on matters of mutual concern . . .," he added.

Success of the San Francisco conference of the United Nations depends upon a friendly attitude, Knight said, and ratification of the treaty "will speak volumes on that score."

Knight has just returned from the Latin-American Federation of Labor convention in Colombia, where he was one of two CIO fraternal delegates. He is a member of the CIO committee on Latin-American affairs.

GENERAL'S WIFE DIES

BROWNSVILLE, March 22. (AP)—Mrs. S. D. Rockenbach, wife of Brig. Gen. S. D. Rockenbach, U. S. Army, retired, died at her home here today. Burial will be in Arlington National cemetery.

Congress Would Pry Secrecy Lid From War Crimes Group Operation

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—A demand that Congress pry the lid of secrecy from operations of the Allied War Crimes commission was made today before the House Foreign Affairs committee.

Rep. Celler (D-NY) called for a "full time debate" in the House after Herbert A. Pell testified that he doesn't know whether he still is this government's representative on the commission charged with fixing the war guilt of enemy leaders.

Cannot Remain Secret

"The work of the commission cannot remain secret," Celler declared. "Let the pitiless light of publicity reveal the places where ineptitude and indecision are crippling its efforts."

Pell was called before the committee to review the work of the War Crimes commission until early this year when he was dropped by the State department which said the action was necessary because Congress failed to appropriate money for U. S. participation in the deliberations.

Until the time he left the commission, he said, 2,000 war crime cases had been presented and indictments made in half of them. Formal charges against Adolf Hitler were not preferred until last winter—and then they were presented by the Czech government.

Delay In Hitler Case

Asked about the delay in Hitler's case, Pell replied:

"Simply because no government had reported him." The commission, he explained, could not use its own initiative in such cases.

Pell also testified that the commissioners, for the most part, have no instructions from their government on whether the persecution of minorities in Germany should be regarded as a war crime. The commission unanimously recommended that such acts be listed as war guilt last year.

Celler declared Pell "has been shelved" by this government and asked: "What's behind this cloak of secrecy?"

An appropriation to finance U. S. participation in the War Crimes commission is now pending in Congress.

Germans Pull Out SS Troops, Gestapo

WITH CANADIANS ON THE RHINE, March 22 (AP)—The Germans are withdrawing elite SS troops and Gestapo men — the Nazi party's military backbone—from the western front to organize a last-ditch stand in the interior of Germany, probably in Bavaria, Allied officers said today.

The withdrawal first was noted two months ago.

Enemy troops being captured are devoid of SS men and Gestapo units which formerly forced the German soldier to keep up the battle under the threat of a bullet in his back.

Fire Destroys Club At Pyote Air Field

PYOTE, March 22 (UP)—Fire of undetermined origin last night destroyed the enlisted men's service club at Pyote Army Air field.

The fire was brought under control about an hour after it started. Men stationed at the field managed to save part of the furnishings. The club was undergoing repairs and redecoration when the fire destroyed most of the main building and damaged part of another wing. It was reputed to be one of the finest Army service clubs in the country.

RECIPE for WASHING BABY CLOTHES

1. Sprinkle gentle Rain Drops, and a small dash of soap, into tub or washing machine. Add hot water. Use enough Rain Drops to make water sky-blue.

2. Wash baby garments as usual but do not use bluing as Rain Drops blues while washing. (Soak soiled diapers before washing in sky-blue Rain Drops solution without adding soap.)

3. Baby's clothes dry to fluffy softness... snowy white and colors bright! Rain Drops saves work, time and soap... leaves hands soft and silky smooth!

Rain Drops softens water, dissolves rough, gray soap curd. Leaves washing machine or tub ringless

Leftovers May Be Nutritious

NOWADAYS, a wise homemaker doesn't hesitate to make a meal out of leftovers. Of course, she doesn't let on that they're leftovers; she's discovered that with a little ingenuity, a slight twist here or there, a new dish is created.

For instance, consider the many fascinating dishes which a resourceful cook can prepare from left-over pot-roast.

First, she might slice the meat, and change the flavor of the gravy by adding spices, tomato or mushroom soup, or chili sauce. Then she might (1) put the meat slices and gravy in a casserole, add dry bread crumbs, and brown in the oven; or (2) make a savory bread dressing, lay the sliced meat on top, and pour gravy over it.

Many Possibilities

Secondly, she might cut the meat in cubes. Then she could choose any one of these alternatives: (1) combine the meat with cooked vegetables and gravy, put in baking dish, and top with biscuit or pastry crust; (2) line a casserole with cooked rice or mashed potatoes, fill the center with meat and gravy, and heat in the oven; (3) make fresh hot biscuits (large ones) and serve the meat in these as a shortcake, with gravy over the top; (4) make a meat and vegetable stew and add dumplings; (5) add the diced meat to a cream sauce, and serve on crisp waffles or in individual pastry shells.

In the third place, she might chop or grind the cooked meat. She can then use it in one or more of the following ways: (1) combine meat with a thick white sauce and seasonings, and make meat croquettes; (2) combine meat with chopped cooked potatoes for tasty hash; (3) fold the meat, seasoned, into an omelet; (4) season and moisten the meat, spread on biscuit dough, roll up and slice into pinwheels, which are baked in a hot oven; (5) mix the meat with relishes, seasonings, or mayonnaise to make a hearty filling for lunch box sandwiches.

Brown Gravy

2 tablespoons drippings, 2 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups stock or 3 ¼ teaspoon bouillon cubes in boiling water, 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet, tarragon

Put flour in baking pan and brown in slow oven. Melt butter or drippings in saucepan, add browned flour, stirring to make a smoothe paste. Gradually pour in stock, stirring constantly until gravy has thickened. Add seasonings.

BROILED BACON CHEESE SANDWICHES

½ pound sliced bacon
½ pound American cheese
1 egg
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
8 slices bread

Select thinly sliced bacon and cut in half. Grate cheese. Add beaten egg and seasonings and blend. Toast bread on one side. Cover second side with cheese mixture. Place sliced bacon over surface. Arrange on broiler pan and place in oven with the surface of the meat 3 inches from the heat. Broil about 10 minutes or until bacon is crisp. Serve hot. Serves 8.

In case you prefer closed sandwiches grill-style, try making them in a very hot oven. The trick is to butter the outer side of each slice of bread, and put the sandwiches on a cookie sheet. They may be turned once, although this is not always necessary.

Baked stuffed trout for meatless days.

Serve Fish During Lenten Days

Tasty Sauces Improve Baked And Planked Fish Dishes

BUTTER for use on Lenten fish is scarce. Better try a recipe using mayonnaise:

Stuffed Baker Fish
(Serves 6)

One trout (about 3 pounds), mayonnaise, salt, pepper, 1 cup grated carrot, 3 tablespoons dry bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons grated onion, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, ¼ teaspoon lemon juice, 1 egg, parsley sprigs or chicory, lemon, radishes.

Have trout (or other fish suitable for stuffing) cleaned and boned at market. Spread inside of fish with real mayonnaise and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Mix carrot, bread crumbs, onion, parsley, lemon juice, eggs, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon mayonnaise, together. Stuff fish and truss securely. Spread outside of fish with mayonnaise. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) one hour. Garnish with parsley or chicory, lemon and radishes.

Here are other good Lenten novelties:

Corn flakes may be used as na especially attractive finish for fish and croquette mixtures which are friend in deep fat. Prepare the foods as directed below; then roll in corn flakes (slightly crushed), dip in egg mixture (1 egg, beaten with 3 tablespoons milk and dash of salt), and roll again in corn flakes. Fry in deep fat (325 deg. to 350 deg. F.) 2 to 3 minutes, or until browned. Drain.

Fish (fillet of sole, cod, haddock, small fish). Use serving-size pieces of fish, cleaned, wiped dry, and seasoned.

Southern Croquettes. Use mashed sweet potatoes, well-seasoned, shaped into croquettes with dash of nutmeg and 1 teaspoon butter, or 1 teaspoon butter and ½ teaspoon brown sugar in center.

PLANKED FISH

3 to 3½ lbs. fish (whole and drawn) or 2 to 2½ lbs. dressed fish (with or without tail).
Salt, pepper.
¼ cup chopped onion.
Cooking oil or other fat.
Lemon juice.
Seasoned mashed potatoes.
Seasoned cooked vegetables (use 2 or more).
Peas, carrots, mushrooms.
String beans, onions, beets.
Cauliflowerets, baked tomatoes.
Parsley or other greens.
Lemons or tomatoes.

1. If special hardwood fish plank is used, soak in cold water 6 to 8 hours or longer, rub with oil, put in cold oven and heat thoroughly as oven is preheated.

2. Clean and wash fish; if small and whole or round (drawn) fleece or scale and bone, but do not remove head and tail; if dressed (with or without tail), bone, leaving enough of lower backbone to hold fish together; or split and bone dressed fish. Dry and sprinkle all sides with salt and pepper.

3. Fry onion in 2 tablespoons fat until light yellow, stirring to brown evenly; scatter on inside of whole fish or over split fish. Brush with ½ of mixture of 3 tablespoons fat or oil and 1 tablespoon lemon juice, or with French dressing. Place fish in center of hot oiled plank, or on greased oven-glass or metal platter; whole fish on side; split fish flat with skin-side down.

4. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 deg.-400 deg. F.) allowing 40 to 50 minutes for whole fish, 20 to 30 minutes for split fish. Place under broiler if necessary to brown fish, but do not permit flame to touch glass platter.

5. Remove from oven and arrange border or rosettes of potatoes around fish. Place under broiler to brown potatoes. Remove and quickly arrange two or more hot well-seasoned vegetables around fish. Place in plank holder or on small tray; garnish with parsley or other greens, and with lemon or tomato wedges or slices.

6. Serve hot, plain or with Lemon Butter. Allow 1/3 to ½ pound dressed fish per portion.

* * *

Tartar Sauce

One cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon minced chives or green onion tops or onion, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, 1 teaspoon capers, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle, dash cayenne pepper, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 3 ripe olives, minced, 1 teaspoon paprika.

Mix together and serve.

Lemon Herb Butter

One-half cup fortified margarine, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind, ½ teaspoon dried basil, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, dash cayenne pepper.

Mix together and serve.

Pepper Sauce

One cup tomatoes, ½ teaspoon pickling spices, ⅛ teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon garlic salt, ¼ cup horseradish sauce, ⅛ teaspoon rosemary, 2 tablespoons fortified margarine.

Simmer together the tomatoes, mixed picking spices, sugar, garlic salt. Rub through a strainer. Add remaining ingredients. Serve hot with delicately baked or grilled fish.

Hot Cross Bun Recipe Given

IT'S traditional to eat Hot Cross buns on Good Friday, which falls on March 30 this year, Here's a recipe in case you don't have one in your files. We asked Mrs. F. R. Friend for her favorite recipe but in the process of preparing to move she had mislaid it. However, she dictated this one from Fanny Farmer's cook book:

One cup scalded milk, one-fourth cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, 1 yeast cake dissolved in one-fourth cup lukewarm water, three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon, three cups flour, one egg well beaten, one-fourth cup quartered raisins, or one-fourth cup currants.

Add butter, sugar and salt to milk and when lukewarm add dissolved yeast cake, cinnamon, flour and egg. When thoroughly mixed add raisins or currants, cover and let rise until light.

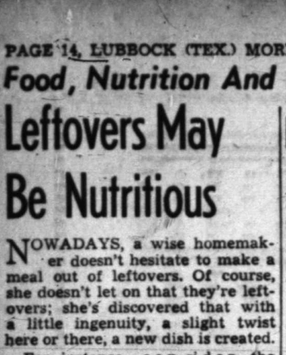

Shape in large biscuits, place in greased pan one inch apart and brush over with beaten egg, bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven 375 degrees, Fahrenheit. Garnish each bun with cross made of frosting consisting of beaten egg white, powdered sugar and touch of lemon juice.

When night falls, the fragrance of most growing flowers increases immeasurably.

Fifth Engineers Score Powerful 'Assist' In Suribachi Seizure

By Sergeant Henry A. Weaver III
Marine Corps Combat Correspondent
(Distributed by the Associated Press)

IWO JIMA, (Delayed)—To Company "C" of the Fifth Engineer battalion goes a major "assist" in the seizure of Mount Suribachi.

Marines who battled against the height of "Mount Plasma" will tell of almost unbelievable deeds credited to the "bang happy" engineers under the command of First Lt. Kenneth L. Caskey, 30, whose father, Merritt P. Caskey, lives at Weatherford, Tex.

Smash Hard At Japs

The "bang happy boys" smashed away at pillboxes, blockhouses, mine fields, tank traps, and emplacements, burning avenues for troops and supplies to advance against the Japs.

Credited with killing over 600 Japs—three times their number—the engineers who stormed Suribachi and its base exploded over a ton and a half of demolitions a day in uprooting the enemy. During the early phases when demolitions were short they used enemy mines and munitions against Jap emplacements.

Knock Out Pillboxes

With explosives lashed to their back and dangling from their belts, the engineers knocked out more than 165 concrete pillboxes and blockhouses. They blasted 15 strong bunkers and naval gun positions, dug up or exploded 1,000 land mines and booby traps. Crawling up the sheer sides of the volcano, they blew up or filled in with bulldozers over 200 caves. More than 100 Japs were recorded in one cave.

Fighting their way into the volcano, Lieut. Caskey's engineers burned and blasted their way through huge caves, some three stories high and blocked by heavy reinforced steel doors.

The enemy weapons they kayoed ranged from light machine guns and mortars to heavy naval guns. They captured or destroyed shells and grenades by the thousands.

Evacuate Wounded

The men of "C" Company evacuated hundreds of wounded Marines, buried 200 Japs, built over 1500 yards of roads and tank paths around the crater, saved six tanks trapped in one day's fighting. They built retreat roads for the tanks with broken ammunition cases, and at night strung barbed wire, kept illuminating flares soaring over the enemy, and patterned protective mine fields about Marine positions. All this was accompanied by a force of less than 200 men working night and day under constant fire.

Lieut. Caskey is the husband of Mrs. Virginia Robertson Caskey, Shreveport, La.

Seven New Scholarships Posted At Tech; One In Spanish Renewed

Seven new scholarships will be available to Texas Tech students for the 1945-46 school semesters and one Spanish scholarship will be offered again next year, it was announced by college officials.

The Elsie M. Adams Memorial scholarship, a $200 award to be given to a sophomore textile engineering student, has been accepted by the textile engineering scholarship committee, L. E. Parsons, head of the department, said.

Offered By Adams

Offered by O. V. Adams, dean of the division of engineering in memory of his late wife, Mrs. Adams, the scholarship will be awarded to the student in textile engineering with the highest standing in the entire work of his first year.

Parsons accepted the scholarship on behalf of the scholarships committee which is composed of Karl Hoblitzelle of Dallas, member of the Tech board of directors, Dean Adams and Parsons.

Agriculture Division

Students of the agriculture division who have had two or more dairy subjects will be eligible for the Borden Agricultural Scholarship award, which is to be offered yearly for five consecutive years. The student having the highest average grade of all eligible students will receive the $300 award.

Only one of these scholarships will be available yearly and in the event the award is not made one year because of small registration of seniors, it will be deferred to a later year, according to A. H. Leidigh, dean of the division of agriculture.

Spanish Fraternity

Sigma Delta Pi, national honorary Spanish fraternity, is sponsoring one scholarship of $100 for a member of the sorority for 1945-46. Members of the local chapter who wish to attend a summer school in any Spanish-speaking country may win this fraternity scholarship by writing an essay in Spanish about his appreciation of the country he desires to visit.

Middlebury college, Vt., is offering again their $100 scholarship to any undergraduate student of Spanish at Tech. Entrants are required to write an essay in Spanish on the value of the study of the language. National award entries must be in May 1 and other applications must be submitted submitted before April 7. Further information concerning this scholarship may be obtained by contacting Dr. T. Earle Hamilton, Spanish instructor at Tech.

Sorrell Ignores WLB Mandate On Strike

HOLLYWOOD, March 22 (AP) — Ignoring a mandate from the War Labor board, Herbert K. Sorrell, president of the Conference of Studio Unions said today the strike of 14,000 workers would continue "until we win a clean-cut victory."

WLB Chairman George W. Taylor telegraphed Sorrell from Washington that the strike constituted a "flagrant disregard of labor's no strike pledge" and directed him to terminate it immediately.

Regulations Given For Vet Preference In Government Jobs

WASHINGTON, March 22 (U.P.) —The Civil Service commission today announced regulations under which veterans are to receive preference in getting government jobs not requiring civil service examinations.

Congress passed legislation last year requiring preferential treatment for veterans in federal hiring. The Civil Service commission has already announced rules for granting such preference in jobs requiring civil service certification.

Several Agencies Excluded

The commission said all jobs in the Tennessee Valley authority, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the board of governors of the Federal Reserve system and the Inland Waterways corporation were outside the civil service act. Small numbers of jobs in other agencies are similarly unclassified.

The new regulations, conforming with the veterans' preference law, provide that no non-veteran shall be hired as elevator operator, messenger, guard or custodian as long as a qualified veteran is available.

Whenever experience is counted in consideration for a job, the length of time spent in service will be counted if the applicant just before entering the service held a job similar to the one for which he is applying.

First choice for all jobs will be applicants with "10-point preference" who were formerly employed by the agency concerned. Ten-point preference ratings are given disabled veterans, widows of veterans who served in active duty during a war or in a campaign for which a campaign badge was authorized, and wives of disabled veterans who are not themselves qualified for civil service appointment.

Next in line come 10-point preference job-seekers who were not employed by the agency previously. The requirement that 10-point preference candidates get first crack at jobs does not apply to professional and scientific positions for which the basic salary is more than $3,000 a year.

The rules also provide for cancellation of age, height and weight requirements for appointment and promotion of veterans, and for waiving other physical requirements on recommendation of a physician.

Meanwhile, the American Legion complained that the Office of Price administration was barring veterans by its price and rationing regulations from entering a business other than that of "potato chip fryer" or "pop-corn stand concessionnaire."

Legion National Commander Edward N. Scheiberling made public a letter to OPA Chief Chester Bowles in which he attacked price regulations limiting business and economic opportunity to those in business on a certain date in the past.

Bridge Is Built In Record Time

ACROSS THE RHINE, March 22. (AP) — First Army engineers threw one of "several" bridges across the Rhine in the Remagen-Bonn bridgehead in the record time of ten hours, it may be disclosed today.

A corps commander bet one engineering unit it could not span the 1,200-foot river within 15 hours. The engineers promtly cut five hours off that estimate and won themselves time for a beer party while infantry and armored units crossed the span.

TO SALVAGE EQUIPMENT

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)— Under Secretary of War Patterson said today the Army expects to salvage in Europe as much Army equipment as possible for use in the war against Japan. Service forces will be maintained in Europe after Germany's collapse, Patterson said, to "recover all equipment possible."

Statute Is Extended To Several Cities

AUSTIN, March 22 (AP)—House approval of a Senate bill today sent to the governor's desk a bill bringing Beaumont, Port Arthur, Waco, Wichita Falls, Corpus Christi and El Paso within the state statute governing wages and hours of firemen and policemen.

The bill reduced application of the statute to cities of 21,000 or more population. The present law applies to cities of 60,000 or more population.

Tabled by overwhelming vote was an amendment by Rep. I. P. Hydrick of Marshall reducing the application to cities of 17,500 or more population.

The bill fixes hours of firemen and policemen at not more than 12 a day, 72 a week, or 144 in two weeks excepting in emergencies when they receive pay and a half for overtime hours, based on a minimum wage of $150 a month.

NEW SPEED INDICATOR

DAYTON, O., March 22 (AP) — To make extremely high speed fighter planes safer, the Army Air forces has standardized a new speed indicator which shows both the safe airspeed for a plane as well as the actual flying rate, the air technical service command reported today.

Fewer "Hands" Make Heavier Work!

BUY WAR BONDS

SPRING brings a new lamb crop to the western ranges—and a new crop of wartime problems. For instance, experienced lambing crews are increasingly hard to find. But in spite of fewer hands and other difficulties, millions of lambs are being dropped and raised to provide the nation's wool and meat.

Beyond the "romance" of sheep ranching lies a great deal of hard work. When early lambs arrive in wintry weather, there's no time to be lost in moving them from the "drop corrals" to the lambing shed. Chilled lambs often must be revived in heated incubators. It's not unusual for a good "night man" to "lamb out" 125 ewes in a night—and that is work. There's the feeding and, later on, trimming, docking, bunch herding, shearing, and finally the trailing of the bands to the summer ranges in the high mountain country. And always herders must be on the alert to protect their bands from coyotes and other predatory animals.

Yanks are the best-fed, best-clothed fighting force in the world. They know the comfort of warm wool uniforms. And nutritious lamb has helped prevent meat shortages at home. Sheep ranchers, like other livestock producers of the nation, deserve the thanks of a grateful America.

What do you know!

1. Which is the "best-fed, best-clothed" fighting force in the world?
2. What share of the average Swift sales dollar did producers get in '44?
3. How are chilled lambs revived on a modern sheep ranch?

Answers to these questions may be found in articles on this page.

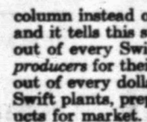

Martha Logan's Recipe for

BARBECUED SPARERIBS

(Yields about 6 servings)

3 lbs. spareribs	¼ cup homemade catsup
1 onion	1 tsp. dry mustard
¼ cup vinegar	½ cup water
1 cup tomato juice	1 tbs. paprika
2 tbs. brown sugar	¼ tsp. chili powder
1 tsp. salt	⅛ tsp. cayenne pepper

Cut spareribs in pieces. Brown lightly about 10 minutes. Dice onion and combine with all other ingredients and simmer 15 minutes. Pour over browned spareribs. Cover. Simmer or bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 1½ hours. Remove cover. Baste ribs. Cook about 15 minutes uncovered.

HOW THE DOLLAR IS DIVIDED

There's an old proverb, "One picture is worth a thousand words." So I decided to draw this month's column instead of writing it. The picture is below, and it tells this story ... 75 cents (on the average) out of every Swift sales dollar goes to agricultural producers for their cattle, lambs, hogs, etc. And 11c out of every dollar goes to the people who work in Swift plants, preparing those farm and ranch products for market. Transporting meat, etc., an average of 1,100 miles from producer to consumer takes another 2c. But, after all, the picture tells the story better than words of mine. Few businesses operate on such a narrow margin—few return such a large slice of their sales dollar to the suppliers of raw materials.

WHAT'S HAPPENING TO THE MEAT SUPPLY

WE are faced with a serious shortage of meat for the civilian population. The current meat situation is not peculiar to any local area. The problem is national in scope.

LARGE DECREASE COMPARED WITH LAST YEAR

Government figures indicate a decrease of 38% of civilian meat supplies is expected during this quarter (January to March, inclusive), as compared with a year ago. The decrease will vary on the different types of meats.

It is also estimated that during the second quarter of this year (April to June, inclusive) a decrease of 35% is expected.

GOVERNMENT REQUIREMENTS

Few people realize how much beef, pork, lamb and veal must be set aside by meat packers operating under federal inspection to be purchased by the Government for the Armed Forces and for Lend-Lease. As of February 20, 1945, we are required to set aside:

BEEF: 60% of choice, good, and commercial steers and heifers, except extremely light weights.
70% of all utility steers, heifers and cows.
80% of all cutters and canners.

PORK: 50%, approximately, of dressed weight.

LARD: 75%, approximately, of production in accordance with recent order.

The Government is also taking a large proportion of Swift & Company's lamb and veal production:

LAMB: 40 to 50% of choice and good lambs.

VEAL: 50%, approximately, of choice, good and commercial veal produced within specifications.

Whether these percentages will continue at the same level throughout the year cannot be foretold. The above percentages are as of February 20, 1945.

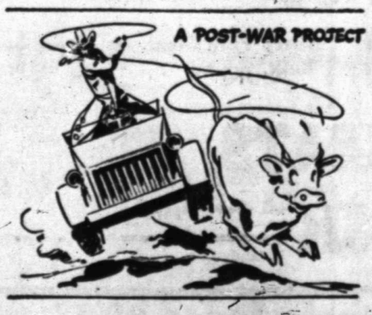

Consumer misunderstanding and dissatisfaction also arises from another important factor that does not show up in these figures. The civilian population has more money now than in 1939 and fewer goods on which to spend it. Also, more people are working longer hours and need more food ... particularly meat. The demand for meat has, therefore, increased tremendously. The Government in a recent statement said that the average American, at present income levels, would consume 170 pounds of meat this year, if it were available. In contrast, the Government estimates that there will be available during 1945 only about 127 pounds per capita.

NON-FEDERALLY INSPECTED SUPPLIES

The Government takes only federally-inspected meats. Therefore, the shortage of meat available for civilians is not so acute in the case of local packers who do not operate under federal inspection. Non-federally inspected processing plants have been able to supply a larger percentage of the product they produce during normal times as compared with federally inspected plants.

FDR Discloses Draft Calls May Drop Nearly Third After July 1

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 22. — Draft calls may drop an average of 31 per cent after July 1, the White House disclosed today coincident with a House Military committee vote to extend the draft law without change.

President Roosevelt, sending up a request to Congress for $54,500,000—to finance Selective Service another fiscal year, said this contemplated an average draft call of 93,000 a month.

Drops From 135,000

This compares with a figure of 135,000 which Maj. Gen. Stephen Henry told the House committee is the expected average from now until June.

The White House spoke of the after-July need as being merely one of replacements. It said that by then "mobilization of the largest armed force by far in the nation's history" will be complete.

After hearing only two witnesses—Army generals who emphasized the necessity of furnishing fighting replacements until the last enemy has quit—the committee sent the bill to the House floor for a vote probably early next week.

Extended For One Year

Without the legislation, the Selective Service act under which millions of men have been inducted would become inoperative on May 15. The bill approved extends it for another year, or until the end of hostilities, whichever is first.

The committee heeded, though reluctantly, the Army's request that no restriction be placed on the present policy of putting inductees into combat five months after donning the uniform, if necessary.

Many members had talked of keeping teen-age draftees out of combat until they had been trained a year in this country. They still may seek to write such a provision into the bill on the House floor.

Such a restriction, said Major General Idwal Edwards, assistant chief of staff in charfe of training, "very definitely would be harmful" to the orderly system of furnishing fighting men.

General Edwards disclosed to the committee the present training program by which a man can reach a fighting front five months after induction. He told of one man who was a combat casualty "five months and nine days" after entering the service.

The average training for a green recruit, he added, is about six months for a man going into the European theater and seven months for a man who will fight the Japanese. That time includes a furlough before embarkation and a short waiting period abroad prior to assignment to a combat unit.

Edwards told the committee the Army never intended to give 12 months of home training to its combat troops. Any impression Congress had received to that effect during discussion of the teen-age draft bill, he said, was based on a misconception of the testimony.

While an earlier policy restricted the use of 18-year-old inductees, Edwards testified, war developments, including the German winter offensive of 1944, "upset a good many plans."

Major General Stephen G. Henry, assistant chief of staff in charge of personnel, testified that to meet the needs for replacements, draft calls up to June would approximate 100,000 monthly for the Army and 35,000 monthly for the Navy, with "substantial" replacements thereafter.

Following the defeat of Germany, Henry said, the Army plans to release the men who have served the longest, who have been abroad the longest, and who have been subjected to "the severest hardships."

A point system to govern discharges now is being developed and will be placed in the hands of theater commanders soon. A "top secret," the plan will consider length of service here and abroad, the number of battle engagements, the number of citations and wounds, and the number of dependents.

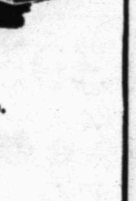

Kesselring Transfer From Italy Rumored

WITH U. S. NINTH ARMY, March 22 (AP)—Speculation rose in Allied lines on the western front today that Field Marshal Albert Kesselring might have been transferred from northern Italy to take command of German armies in the west, succeeding Field Marshal Van Rundstedt.

Kesselring is reported now to be high in Hitler's graces as a result of his long delaying campaign in Italy and his prompt declaration of allegiance to Hitler after last July's bomb plot.

URGES BILL APPROVAL

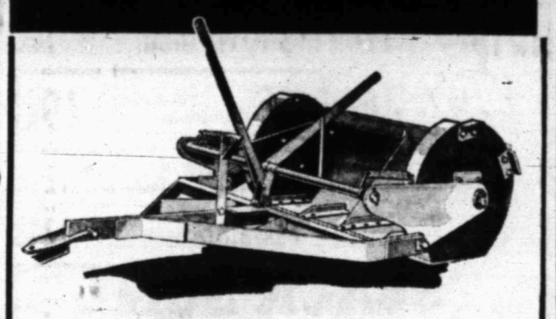

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Senator McCarran (D-Nev) said today the United States must set up a powerful agency to handle all the nation's foreign aviation or face "air commerce anarchy" after the war. The senator urged a Senate commerce subcommittee to approve his bill establishing an American flag line in which all domestic lines would participate.

Germans Seemingly Welcome Relief As Americans Advance

By ROBERT RICHARDS
United Press War Writer

WITH THE FOURTH ARMORED DIVISION, Inside Worms, March 22 — The German soldier lay on the sidewalk, rolled into a blanket, with a bullet wound through his shoulder and tears in his eyes.

A German civilian stood next to me with his back to the soldier, ignoring his misery.

"Thanks," the German civilian said, "we are glad you have come."

It was the same way every mile from Alzey into Worms.

Same All Along Roads

All along the road there were German dead and dying and knocked out German tanks. Yet when we entered a village the people would come out with their white flags and large grins.

It seemed almost as though the women, old men and children of Germany have turned their backs on the German soldiers, saying: "Let happen what may to them —we must save ourselves."

Just outside Worms I saw three buxom country lasses standing at a crossroads waving to the Americans. The grins on their faces made their happiness evident.

Only One Interferes

Only one German of the thousands between the Fourth Armored and Worms really tried to slow us down. He blew up a bridge across a creek not two minutes before American tanks rolled up to it.

At Worms itself only one German company took very long to make up its mind about surrendering. The town took our entry with almost a gala air.

One tall, blond youth rushed up to our group of correspondents, calling: "Are you journalists? I am a German journalist. I am so happy to see you."

"Why?" we asked him.

No More Bombers

"Now your bombers will come no more we hope. Now we may get some rest."

The Fourth Armored was not too happy about the capture of Worms, although in a two-day drive they covered more than 40 miles, captured or killed several thousand Germans and knocked out at least 20 tanks. Maj. Andrew P. Pickard, Norman, Okla., expressed their sentiments: "We won't be satisfied until we find a bridge or some other way to bang across the Rhine."

More Foreign Farm Workers Expected

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — Approximately 107,000 foreign farm workers will be brought into the United States this year, Rep. Horan (R-Wash) has been informed.

Horan said Maj. Gen. Philip S. Bruton, labor officer of the Agriculture department, told him on his return from Mexico that he is "quite sure" that 75,000 Mexican nationals will be available. In addition, 25,000 Jamaicans and 7,000 Bahamans are expected for the crop season. This would represent an increase of 16,000 to 20,000 over last year.

Convictions Of War Crimes Involves 87

HELSINKI, March 24 (AP)—Finland's first war crimes trial has brought convictions of 87 persons, with sentences ranging from life terms to a few months imprisonment or fines, it was announced today.

Included in the sentences were life terms for six soldiers accused of murdering Russian prisoners of war. Twenty of the accused were cleared by the Finnish civil and military court.
