State Officers Take 542 Pints, 109 Fifths

Two Charged After Liquor Seizure Here

BY R. C. RANKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

Seizure of 542 pints and 109 fifths of whiskey and gin by officials of Texas Liquor Control board at 3502 Thirtieth was announced Monday afternoon by W. G. Poplin, deputy supervisor.

Two arrests were made Monday afternoon, and a pickup truck in which the liquor allegedly was loaded was held.

Charged in two cases each were D. C. Turner, 31, and E. E. Sparks, 26, both of Lubbock. Each, the county attorney's department said, had been convicted of liquor law violation charges before, and those convictions were alleged in complaints asking an enhanced penalty.

Both Turner and Sparks posted two $1,000 bonds each about 7:30 p.m. last night, the sheriff's department announced.

County Attorney Waggoner Carr said two prior convictions were alleged in a transportation complaint filed against Sparks. The other complaint against him charged possession for purpose of sale.

Carr said one former conviction was alleged in a possession complaint against Turner, who also was charged with transportation of spirituous liquors.

Another action asked that the liquor and the truck be forfeited to the state. It was filed in district court.

Ironically, the truck bore a "For Sale" sign on its windshield.

The seizure was made by Poplin and three inspectors of his district office here: C. D. Matthews, Fred Prestage, and Charles A. Talley.

They said the cache amounted to 22 cases of pints, plus 14 extra pints; and nine cases of fifths, plus one fifth extra.

It included, they said, scotch whisky, bonded bourbon, a small amount of gin and, in the main, blended whisky.

Haul Valued at $2,000

Value, based on "wet" territory retail value would be not less than $48 a case for the fifths, not less than $55 a case for the pints, inspector said. Some of the fifths would sell in wet territory at $65 a case, however.

The "bootleggage store" value of the haul would be approximately $2,000, he said.

What it would sell for here was more conjectural, but would be close to $3,000, he said.

The inspectors, while not disclosing their methods of operation, said they had been keeping up "almost continuous watch" in vicinity of the raided location.

Blockade Lifting Plans Completed

BERLIN, May 9. (AP)—The Russians and Western Powers announced tonight that two-way traffic to Berlin and across the Soviet zonal border will start at a minute past midnight Thursday morning.

The order to lift the Berlin blockade at that time was broadcast on the Russian radio tonight by Gen. V. I. Chuikov, Soviet commander in Germany.

Chuikov ordered restoration of "transport, trade and communications services" effective at 12:01 a.m., Berlin time, May 12, (4:01 p.m. CST Wednesday), the date agreed upon by the four occupation powers May 4 in New York.

16 Trains Permitted

Earlier, the Western Powers had said they would permit traffic into the Russian zone to begin moving at that minute.

The Soviet order specifically listed the Russian controls on the Soviet sector line dividing Berlin.

Chuikov's order permits 16 freight trains a day to move into Berlin, restores highway traffic, waives previous Soviet claims to search Allied baggage and demand Soviet travel permits at certain check-points, and restores mail service to Berlin. In short, it puts the situation back to where it was

New Talks Planned In Ford Plant Strike

DETROIT, May 9 (AP)—Walter Reuther appealed directly to Henry Ford II today to resume Ford strike peace talks tomorrow and Ford promptly accepted.

The young company president rejected, however, Reuther's invitation to attend the conference personally. He also turned down the CIO United Auto Workers challenge to a debate if the peace talks fail.

Ford said his company was going back into negotiations on the union's "speed-up" charge "on the assumption that they will be continued until this strike can be brought to a close."

Philippines Search Units Seek Plane With 13 Aboard

MANILA, May 9. (INS)—Air and ground search units intensified their efforts today to solve the "uncanny" disappearance three days ago of a Philippines airline plane with 13 persons aboard.

The plane, reported carrying American businessman Richard Parker and three Russians, was last heard from on its flight from Leyte to Manila Saturday.

Airline officials strongly discounted a theory that the plane had been kidnapped in midair by Hukbalahap rebels and airline Capt. Carl David called the idea "farfetched."

BOND ISSUE IS AUTHORIZED

Texas Tech Board Okays Plans For $2 Million In Construction

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Writer

TEXAS Tech's directors approved construction of approximately $2,000,000 in buildings of a projected $4,000,000 building program and authorized the issuance of $2,600,000 in bonds under provisions of the College Building amendment plan as highlights of a meeting at the college Monday.

They also authorized the Pantex committee to negotiate contracts for storage of grain in the sprawling 17,000-acre former ordnance plant near Amarillo.

Construction Approved

Approved for construction in the immediate future are two wings on the administration building, two wings on the engineering building and some sort of additional facilities for the home economics division. Further consideration of building plans, which include additional classroom and laboratory space for the sciences, the agriculture division, business administration and music will be made at the May 30 meeting of the board.

Preparations of plans and specifications for the building authorized Monday are pending concluding discussion of employing additional architects, decision on which was passed at Monday's meeting.

Further Discussion Set

Details of issuance of the college building amendment bonds will be discussed further at a breakfast of the board at the Hilton hotel this morning at 9 o'clock. The board voted to issue 9-year bonds based on 80 per cent tax collections under the amendment plan after conferring with bond men Monday. The bond men will also confer with directors at this morning's breakfast.

The bond men, Fred R. Deaton, representing the Central Investment company, Dallas, a combination of Texas bond firms; and Charles Wyatt, San Antonio, and Charles Smith, Plainview, representing Emerson, Roche & Co., and Garrett & Co., San Antonio, appeared before the board Monday morning to give information and counsel on proposed sale of the bonds under the amendment plan.

Other actions taken in Monday's meeting included approval of a plan for housing athletes in West hall, first men's dormitory built on the campus, and authorization of an appropriation of $12,184 to remodel the dining hall and provide kitchen facilities for a training table.

Negotiations Authorized

In moving to make Pantex buildings available for grain storage, the board provided an estimated storage for 15,000,000 bushels of wheat, one third of the predicted North Plains crop.

The Pantex committee, composed of Board Chairman Charles C. Thompson of Colorado City, Chanslor Weymouth of Amarillo and O. B. Ratliff of Lubbock, was authorized to start negotiations for contracts on storage of the wheat.

The committee, which will also study the plant maintenance problem, will meet at Pantex next Saturday. The plant was given Tech by the War Assets administration under a 20-year-lease plan recent-

Cut In Federal Taxes Urged

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 9—President Truman's economic advisers have suggested that some existing tax burdens be lightened and that the administration scale down its request for $4,000,000,000 in new levies, responsible officials said today.

The Council of Economic Advisers also reported to feel that current business trends justify a check rein on federal spending in order to bring the budget closer to balance.

The April report of the council, drafted in the light of current business trends, was delivered to the White House last week. It suggested the removal or lowering of some federal excise taxes.

Works Program Studied

Such levies as the tax on transportation of goods, in the council's opinion, add to business costs and consumer prices and impede an orderly withdrawal from the postwar business boom.

The council did not recommend at this time the launching of an expanded public works program, an authoritative source disclosed. The advisers have consistently urged that federal and local governments prepare "shelves" of public work blueprints for use when needed to bolster employment and public purchasing power.

But the present trend of the economy—which Council Chairman Edwin G. Nourse calls a "healthy disinflation" — does not warrant large-scale works spending now, the council feels.

Chinese Halt Red Drive On Shanghai

SHANGHAI, May 9. (Censored) (INS)—Counter-attacking Chinese government troops and planes halted a Communist drive today below Kashan, 42 miles southwest of Shanghai, but other Communist forces struck to within 15 miles northwest of the metropolis.

The Nationalists also claimed the Communist threat to Tsingtao, base of the U.S. Western Pacific fleet 350 miles north of Shanghai, was eliminated at least temporarily as the result of a four-day battle in which 8,000 Communists were killed. The battle was fought at Tsimo, north of Tsingtao.

The Shanghai garrison admitted Communist units infiltrated positions near Kaitang in their closest approach to the city.

Indications were the Communist units near Kaitang are small and not an immediate threat to the city.

UN Assembly Group Approves Israel's Bid For Membership

LAKE SUCCESS, May 9 (AP)—Israel's bid for UN membership today won the endorsement of the General Assembly special political committee by a vote of 33 to 11.

The Israeli application now goes to a plenary meeting of the assembly at Flushing Meadow park. Here a two-thirds majority of those present and voting is required for final approval. The vote is expected Wednesday or Thursday.

Barring a sudden reversal of several countries, Israel's admission as the 59th member of the UN appeared assured in view of the three to one vote today. Thirteen countries abstained and one was absent.

Measures To Protect City's Health Taken

LUBBOCK residents, working under sunny skies and warmer temperatures, continued what amounted to a mass "housecleaning" Monday and added still further to their losses from the unprecedented downpour and flood which hit the city Friday night and Saturday.

Both home owners and the city moved quickly to dig from under the tons of mud and in some instances debris which washed into homes, business firms and streets.

As residents, crestfallen over the sudden damage, continued to work on repairing homes, the City Health department took precautions against any possible threat to the city's health as a result of the heavy flooding.

To Combat Hazards

The City health department started one DDT fogging machine on rounds of the city Monday afternoon, and will put three in operation today to combat health hazards created by rain, according to Gerald E. Jarvis, director of the city-county public health and welfare program.

Hand sprays will be used where necessary on standing puddles which are likely to stagnate and become breeding places of flies, mosquitoes, and insects.

Jarvis has asked local residents to empty bottles, cans and other trash containers in which water has accumulated and thus dispose of other insect breeding places.

Delayed Damage Found

DDT spraying will include suburban areas, it was said.

Water that rose as high as two and a half and three feet in homes in Green Acres and Tech Terrace additions, as well as those on some streets opening off Ave. Q, caused inestimable damage to houses, furniture, clothing, yards, and personal belongings.

One thing appeared certain, however: that property which did not appear extensively damaged now might possibly begin to show ravages of water and mud and send within a few days or weeks damage figures spiraling once more.

Chief among such "delayed action" damages are floors which may later begin to buckle and warp, linoleum and other composition floor coverings which may curl and crack, and base-

Rev. Laing had been in ill health since suffering a heart attack last Feb. 22, and had been hospitalized for some time afterwards.

DON'T WORRY

Odds On Repeat Of Storms Low

By BILL HAMS
Avalanche Staff Writer

LAY that shovel down, mister!

Let's look this tornado situation over before you dig up that garden spot for a reinforced concrete and steel storm cellar.

Take it from the Lubbock Weather station your chances of getting blown away in a South Plains tornado the rest of this year, or next, for that matter, are mighty remote. Almost nonexistent in fact.

Tornadoes in this particular area are so infrequent that the weather station has no statistics to quote on them. Sure, there are some pretty hard blows now and then that push over a flimsy dwelling, a barn, or some other structure, but seldom does the whiplash, "dangling rope" type storm buzz the Plains.

Conditions Were Unusual

"It is very unusual to have a tornado in this part of the country," the weatherman said, "and it takes even more unusual conditions to set one off."

He pointed out that Friday's and Saturday's storm conditions were of the most unusual variety, especially for the South Plains.

"It was pretty much like working out the combination to an excellent safe. The chances of hitting the combination are almost beyond the ability of the mathematician to figure, yet that combination turned up and the South Plains had a tornado and a terrific downpour," the weather forecaster said.

Cold Front Moves In

"First off there was a massive cold front moving slowly into this section from the northwest. It stretched from Oklahoma City to Hobbs, New Mexico, and beyond. Secondly, conditions over the Plains were right for thunderstorms, usually brought about by convection (surface heating). These scattered storms are usual in this area most of the summer. Sometimes they grow into severe weather with hail, considerable lightning and heavy rain, however, usually they produce only light showers and fade out by midnight.

"Without the advancing cold front, it is probable that we would have received only scattered showers from a few thunderstorms. The cold front made the difference. The cold front moved in while the ground heating was near a maximum and the difference in temperatures caused a great air turbulence that generated the tornado over Sundown, and since the front was moving at a slow rate of speed the heavy rains developed here instead of further south as might have been the case otherwise.

Wind Velocity High

"Had the front moved faster it would have arrived before the surface heating was near its maximum, or had it arrived later the likelihood is

So many people wished to send the pictures and story to relatives and friends out of town that the supply of Sunday papers ran far short of demand.

Hence the special section—in the public service.

AREA TOWN'S NAME IS CHANGED

Monroe Will Become New Deal Under New Postoffice Ruling

EFFECTIVE June 1, Monroe, farming community 12 miles north of Lubbock, will be listed in the U. S. postal guide as New Deal, Texas.

The change in the town's name was revealed in an announcement by Postmaster General J. D. Donaldson from Washington that the community would have a fourth-class post office, effective June 1.

Confusion Feared

As there are two other cities in Texas with similar names, the department decided to adopt the name of New Deal for Monroe. The consolidated rural high school in the community now bears that name.

There is a Monroe, Texas, post office in Rusk county and a Monroe City, Texas, in Chambers county, so the department decided that a third post office bearing the name would be too confusing.

Consequently the name New Deal was adopted.

Whether the name of the town would be changed by the Santa Fe railroad, which named the town originally after Monroe Abernathy, pioneer South Plains resident, was a matter of con-

Legion Chief Hits Move By Texas House

AUSTIN, May 9—A bill to abolish all rent control in Texas was passed on second reading in the House today. The vote was 98-30.

Backers, however, failed to get enough votes to suspend the rules for final passage of the bill. It will remain on the House calendar.

The House action stirred up a strong protest by Bill McCraw, state American Legion commander, who demanded a public hearing on the bill.

McCraw Hits Action

McCraw rapped the "blitz" vote on the bill and declared that if it is passed without a public hearing, suspicions will be aroused "in everybody, especially veterans."

"Any matter so vital as housing should be given due and thoughtful consideration and not be blitzed through," McCraw declared.

The Senate slapped single-shot appropriation bills such as the medical college and soil conservation measures in the face by refusing to take them up for consideration This was a victory for the economy bloc.

House Ups Appropriation

On the other hand, the House kicked over the economy traces. By 76-59 vote, it passed on second reading a money bill giving junior colleges $4,200,000 for the next two years, nearly $1,250,000 more than the appropriations committee had recommended.

Rep. Ray Kirkpatrick, appropriations chairman, warned that the action enhanced the probable need for a new tax.

An attempt to amend the rent decontrol bill so as to leave decision of the problem to local governments was defeated.

Election Law Changes Urged

Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont argued that city councils knew more about their local situations than the legislature and wanted them to have the power to decontrol. The House killed his amendment, 87-50.

In the Senate, two bills were introduced calling for election law changes to do away with "suspicion and guilt" in vote counting and bring about honest re-

Two Sought After Man Beaten Here

A Lubbock county resident complained to police Monday night that two men had held him at gun point, and beaten him, near the intersection of Fourteenth and Ave. G.

The victim, Ed Forbs of Lubbock general delivery, told police patrolmen that he had been in ill health and under a doctor's care but gave no reason why the attack took place.

One of the two, he said, held the gun while the other beat him. The two assailants had not been located by police late last night. However, their names were reported to be known to officers. Forbs said he would appear today to sign a complaint.

Two Held Here

Two persons were arrested on felony complaints sworn out over the weekend, county and district officials said.

R. L. Watson, 38, a negro man, was charged with burglary of property of Gus Walker, another negro, the sheriff's department said. He had not asked bail, C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, said.

Guy Keels, 21, was charged with felony theft, and bond of $1,000 was set, Lynn said, in binding him over to await grand jury action. He was arrested in connection with $60 in money missed from the purse of an Odessa woman, the sheriff's office said.

Liquor Fines Assessed

In county court Bartlett Campbell was fined $250 and costs after pleading guilty of liquor law violation, officials said. Leroy Wallace, 34, $75 and costs on a drunk driving charge. Lewis Edward Green, 21, pleaded innocent of drunk driving and bond of $500

Leader Of Iran Warns Nation To Defend Independence Until Last

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George H. Pipal, United Press correspondent now touring the Middle East, has obtained an exclusive personal interview with the Shah of Iran. It is the first interview the Shah has granted to any reporter for a long time. In it the Shah expresses his aspirations for Iran. His country has been under intense pressure by Russia in a continuing war of nerves. Pipal had a 20-minute audience with the Shah.)

By GEORGE H. PIPAL
United Press Staff Writer

TEHRAN, May 2—The Shah of Iran, Mahammed Reza Pahlevi, declared today that "Iran is an independent nation, and we will defend our independence to the last."

"As long as present international tensions remain, security is the first necessity for my country," he told the United Press in an exclusive interview.

The vigorous young ruler of modern Persia, who will be 30 years old in October, received this correspondent in a private drawing room of his modernistic palace in the center of the Iranian capital.

Has Impressive History

In fluent, forceful English, the Shah expressed his hopes for the future of his nation of 15,000,000:

"Iran has an illustrious history of 6,000 years. This long history gives us the deep traditions and patriotism which today are our great strength.

"Because of our pivotal position, this history has often been a chaotic one, even in modern times.

"Our primary tasks today are to secure our independence, guarantee justice and liberty, and raise our standards of living and literacy.

"We wish to create a new life for our people by raising our economic standards with modern methods and techniques. We hope that the seven-year plan will give us this economic development."

Escaped Attempted Attack

The seven-year plan, recently approved by Parliament, incorporates the recommendations of a staff of American engineering, irrigation, health, sanitation, industrial, financial and administrative experts.

They were retained on a private basis by the Iranian government, as were two small training missions of American officers assigned to the Iranian army and gendarmerie.

The Shah was wearing a brown double breasted lounge suit. He appeared completely recovered from an assassination attempt on Feb. 4 when a news photographer, accused of Communist connections, fired five shots at a 10-foot range. Only a slight scar was noticeable where one bullet ripped through his upper lip and right cheek.

His majesty stressed the important role of a constituent assembly inaugurated in Tehran last week which will draft major decisions in the Iranian constitution.

"The new constitution," the Shah said, "will provide a balance of power between the three branches of government. It will create a second chamber, the Senate, and make the majlis (parliament) responsible to the will of the people."

Showing thorough knowledge of foreign political forms, the Shah pointed out the basic differences of the proposed Iranian system of parliamentary responsibility with the Swiss federal and American representative procedures.

"The Iranian system," he said, "will be most similar to the democratic monarchial system of Western Europe."

With quiet, confident optimism, the Shah concluded:

"Iran has survived the hardships of a turbulent history, and it faces the future with the spirit of its tradition."

Man Nabbed For Theft After Dropping Durocher Charges

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—Fred Boysen was arrested in a Manhattan courtroom on a handbag theft charge today shortly after he withdrew a summons accusing manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants of simple assault.

The complainant identified herself as Mary Ryan, negro registered nurse.

Boysen, a Brooklyn baseball fan who accused Durocher of knocking him down after a Dodger-Giant game April 28, was ordered to remain in the courtroom while a complaint was drawn up against him.

Later, Boysen was taken before magistrate Doris I. Byrne. A warrant officer told the court that Miss Ryan believed Boysen was one of two men who assaulted her, then stole her purse on March 27.

Boysen denied the charge.

"I was never in that vicinity," he said. "I'm jobless, but I don't go around taking other people's money."

The woman related that she saw Boysen's picture in the paper after his alleged clash with Durocher. She said she communicated with Edgar Feeley, attorney for the Giants, and that Feeley advised her to be in court today.

Pennsylvania Pushes Drive Against Overloaded Trucks

IRWIN, Pa., May 9 (AP)—State police today reported weighing 204 trucks and arresting 76 drivers over the weekend in a continuing drive against overloaded trucks on Pennsylvania highways.

The number of big trailer-trucks parked along the Pennsylvania turnpike and nearby route 30, near Pittsburgh, dwindled to about 100 from a high of 200 reported yesterday. The drivers pulled off the road in parking lots or gasoline stations to protest the state's weight limitations.

Four Persons Injured In Bus Accident Remain In Hospital

COLORADO CITY, May 9. (U.P.)—Four persons remained under hospital treatment today for injuries suffered Saturday in the crash of a Greyhound bus at Loraine.

None of the four was in critical condition and hospital attendants said all were "improving." They were J. B. Bowman of Orange, Mrs. D. T. Blaylock of Murchison, Monroe Felts of Brownwood and Mrs. A. D. Letcher of El Paso.

A total of 16 of the 30-odd passengers on the bus were hospitalized here and at Roscoe. The others were given first aid treatment for minor cuts, bruises and shock.

The bus spun out of control, rolled over and landed upright in a roadside ditch during a heavy rain and hail storm before dawn. The driver was Alvin H. Logan, who was also at the wheel of the Greyhound bus which was involved in a collision with the automobile of pro golfer Ben Hogan near Van Horn, Tex., on Feb. 2.

Escaped Convict Returned To Florida Jail On Theft Charges

PENSACOLA, May 9. (U.P.)—A 32-year-old convict who walked away from a Moore Haven, Fla., road gang last September was back in jail today to face charges of car theft and looting automobiles in several Gulf Coast states.

Jerry T. Bradley, the escapee, Mrs. Dorothy Lou Johnson, 19, and Mrs. Betty Montell, sisters of Chickasha, Okla., were arrested here last night. Bradley, who was serving a sentence for car theft in Dade county, Fla., when he escaped, admitted the convertible he was driving had been stolen, police said.

Four diamond rings, two watches and $168 in cash which Bradley admitted looting were recovered in the car.

Mrs. Johnson said she and Mrs. Montell were hitchhiking in El Paso, when Bradley and another man picked them up. The other man left the car at Houston, she said.

Archaeologists Describe Tragedy On Ill-Fated Mexican Expedition

MEXICO CITY, May 9 (U.P.)—Survivors of the ill-fated archaeological expedition into Mexico's "lost paradise" of Chiapas today explained the tragic drownings of two members of the party.

Guide Carlos Frey, an American citizen, and artist Franco Gomez lost their lives when the canoe in which they were navigating the Lancaja river overturned.

Photographer Luis Morales, who saved himself when the craft capsized, said Gomez had tied several heavy bags to his wrist to keep from losing them.

Thrown suddenly into the water, Gomez was dragged to the river bottom. Frey dove down to rescue him but never came up.

When the bodies of the two men were found, Gomez' arms were still locked tightly around Frey.

Churches Of Christ Plan Huge Development Program For ACC

DALLAS, May 9 (AP)—An expected 4,000 members of Churches of Christ in Dallas and surrounding counties will hear a description tonight of an $8,380,000 development program projected for Abilene Christian college during the next 12 years.

Dr. Don H. Morris, president of the church-related college at Abilene, said it will be the largest meeting of Church of Christ members ever held in the southwest.

Constable Trades Ball Bat For Axe In Houston Gambling Raids

HOUSTON, May 9 (AP)—Cowboy Constable Dale Richardson of suburban La Porte fingered a beat-up double-edged axe today, which he announced would be his new weapon in new anti-gambling wars.

Re-organized crusades, he said, would be against bingo and dice games, which he claimed flourish on the outskirts of Houston.

His motive in using the new weapon instead of his tried and true baseball bat, Richardson admitted, was ulterior.

"That axe has a loose handle," the broad-shouldered officer noted. "It might accidentally fly off and hit one of those hoodlums."

Constable Goes Fishing

Richardson, whose wild forays all but closed Houston "back rooms," and incurred a grand jury investigation of the colorful constable himself, said he was "resting with satisfaction" at his home.

He spent Saturday fishing, while local bookie shops closed tight out of respect for the silver-booted officer.

His biggest victory to date, he explained, was the "voluntary" closing of those rooms on derby day, when they had greared for one of their biggest days of the

"I consider that a major victory," he said.

Investigation Continues

Constable Richardson said he knew of "a couple of big bingo games going on just outside the Houston city limits. I figure I'll help the sheriff get rid of 'em." The same applied to two "floating" dice games, he added.

His only comment about an offer from Waco to come "clean up McClennan county" by running for sheriff, was, "I'm mighty pleased."

The Harris county grand jury, meantime, summoned eight more witnesses today in its investigation of the constable, charged with allegedly maneuvering for a $100,000 pay-off to halt his smashing raids.

In the suit Riley seeks to recover certain properties and cash accruals that may have derived fron an estate left by his mother Mrs. Sally Howard who died in 1901.

Army May Replace Certain Civilian Workers In Japan

TOKYO, May 9 (AP)—Army officers may replace some middle bracket civilian occupation employes who are going home rather than accept cuts in their take home pay.

Col. E. M. Conner, chief of the civilian personnel section, said only a normal turnover in civilian employes was taking place.

Some employes decided to go home when their overseas pay was abolished. However, here, civilian employes get a 10 per cent post differential instead of the flat 25 per cent overseas pay.

Authorities said there was no plan to replace civilians with Army officers on a large scale.

Boy's Prayers For Return Of Mother Finally Answered

LATROBE, Pa., May 9 (AP)—If 10-year-old Andy Tompos, jr., day dreamed at his school desk today, no one could blame him much.

When a guy's prayers for the return of his mother are answered, readin' writin' and 'rithmetic just don't seem so important for the moment.

You see, Andy had a mother all along, but five years ago she disappeared, leaving the youngster to live with his grandparents. His father vanished before Andy was born.

Four weeks ago Andy thought of the Easter rabbit and—filled with the infinite faith of childhood—wrote a letter to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Mother Sees 'Letter'

Andy's letter was printed and miles away—in an unnamed city—the little boy's mother read that letter in a newspaper.

"I just went limp all over," she said later. "I've never forgotten the boy. I never could."

She sat down and wrote Andy a letter, telling him she had a new daddy and a baby brother for him. Arrangements were made for Andy to fly to a Mother's Day reunion with her.

He took with him the biggest Mother's Day card he could find and signed it—"I love you. Andy."

And now Andy is back at school in Latrobe. He'll stay here until the summer vacation, then he'll rejoin his mother, his new father and baby brother.

Brazos Electric Co-Op Signs Notes For $6,480,000 REA Loan

FORT WORTH, May 9 (AP)—Notes for a $6,480,000 REA loan for two additional 11,500-kilowatt generators at the Charter Oak steam plant between Temple and Belton on the Leon river were signed today by the Brazos River Transmission & Electric Co-Operative, Inc.

The two units will bring the power plant, now under construction, to a capacity of 34,500 kilowatts on final completion in 1952. First unit will begin generating power in January, 1950, and the second in 1951.

The co-op also signed a contract with the Southwest Power administration for 10,000 kilowatts from the Denison dam, to be transmitted over Texas Power & Light company lines at various points.

After losing $400 on two classical concerts, the town of Witham, England, decided to stage comedies.

There's a bit of good news for local people whose homes were flooded—cost of repairs can be deducted from income tax.

A call to the local internal revenue collector's office discloses that cost of repapering walls, refinishing or replacing floors and replacing major wardrobe items ruined by muddy water may be deducted, even though the ruined wall paper and other damaged goods may not have been new.

Deductions may also be made for losses on items not replaced, spokesmen said. For example, if a veneer coffee table is totally ruined, and you don't buy a new one, you can still deduct as loss an amount equal to what the coffee table would have been worth if you had sold it early last week.

SUSPENSE IN CANS

There's an element of suspense in meal preparation around our house these days.

We keep canned goods in a built-in cabinet under the kitchen drainboard. And, of course, when water poured through the house, it took labels with it.

We had considered preparing salmon croquettes for lunch today, but the flat can of supposed salmon turned out to be pineapple. So, we thought potted meat sandwiches would be good with pineapple salad—but the can that we supposed held potted meat turned out to be chopped carrots for the baby (a premature purchase we had been saving until the baby gets some more teeth).

Getting discouraged, we fished a few eggs out of the refrigerator and put them on to boil. And, thinking canned asparagus might go well, we made a final attempt with the cans—but this time we came up with English peas. They mixed reasonably well with the chopped carrots, and lunch wasn't a total failure after all. But the day that will be interesting is when we are seeking vegetables, just any vegetable, and open can after can of soup—it can happen, and probably will.

Palo Duro Park Appropriation Measure Is Tabled By House

AUSTIN, May 9 (AP) — The House today tabled a bill which would appropriate $300,000 for retirement of bonds for Palo Duro state park south of Amarillo.

The bill, by Rep. Blake Timmons of Amarillo, was placed on the table, subject to call, by a vote of 64-52. A majority vote will be needed to recall the measure for debate.

Timmons said the appropriation would allow the park to do away with a 35-cent admission charge and open the way for the highway department to construct and maintain park roads.

Rep. William S. Jameson of El Paso said the bill would take $300,000 out of the general fund "just when it looks like we are facing a deficit in that fund."

Over 500,000 Rent Boost Petitions Filed

WASHINGTON, May 9. (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of landlords are filling out forms needed to increase rents—but that doesn't necessarily mean a general lifting of rent ceilings.

This double announcement came over the weekend from federal rent officials. They said:

1. At least 500,000 landlords have already taken out official forms to petition for a rent increase, and the government is printing an additional 400,000 application sheets to meet the demand.

Increases Are Retroactive

2. The rush for such forms is due to the fact that, if an increase is granted to a landlord, it dates back to the time he filed his petition. However, each petition will be handled separately, for approval or rejection.

The new rent control law directs federal officials to set ceilings that will reflect a fair net operating income for landlords. Housing Expediter Tighe Woods released his formula for determining such a fair income one week ago.

Under Wood's formula, landlords operating one to four dwelling units will be allowed rent increases if their net operating income is less than 25 per cent of gross income; their rents would be raised to a 30 per cent level. Landlords operating more than four units will be permitted to bring operating income up to 25 per cent if the net figure is now below 20 per cent.

Garza County 4-H Boy Will Attend Washington Meeting

POST, May 9 (Special)—Carter Gene White, Garza county, will be among four of Texas' outstanding 4-H club members to represent the Lone Star state in Washington, D. C., June 15-22. Delegates will attend from every state, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. The theme of the national meet this year will be "Know Your Government."

Mary Lou Crimp, Lubbock county, has been named an alternate to the conference.

Carter White is 17, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. White, and is the president of his 4-H district. He has been a member for nine years. A senior in high school, Carter has been president of his local club four times and president of the county club three times. In 1948 he was awarded the Anderson-Clayton scholarship and was second in the State Crops contest.

An average farm will use about 2,000 board feet of lumber each year.

Hearing Set On Military Pay Bill

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 9—A bill to give the nation's military payroll its first general overhauling in over 40 years is up for approval by the House armed services committee this week.

A subcommittee headed by Rep. Kilday (D-Tex) okayed it last Friday, and Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) will call a full committee meeting late this week to follow up the subcommittee's action.

The aim of the bill, Kilday told reporters today, is to encourage high ranking officers, and enlisted men with valuable technical training and experience, to stay in uniform rather than head for better paying jobs in private industry.

The bill would raise military pay an average of about 14 per cent. The increases would be scaled from about three per cent for the next to lowest enlisted grades up to almost 50 per cent for brigadier generals and Navy officers of comparable rank.

The man at the bottom of the list—the Army's "recruit," and the Navy "boot"—would not get any boost at all.

The Kilday subcommittee defends this stoutly. Since 1908, the date of the last general pay revision, officers of the brigadier general rank have been hiked 10 per cent, committeemen said last week, while the enlisted men at the other end of the line have gone up about 40C per cent.

Military authorities have estimated the bill would increase the combined Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine corps payroll about $400,000,000 a year.

Gold Sox Trounce Hubbers, 8 To 1

Hubs Putty In Reynolds' Hands

Jim Reynolds, well-proportioned righthander, did an equally well-proportioned job of doling out hits to the Lubbock Hubbers last night at Rosenthal Field and the Amarillo Gold Sox romped to an easy 8 to 1 victory.

Reynolds had a whitewash job going into the eighth, when a double, an infield out and a single, spoiled that dream. Otherwise the Hubbers were so much putty in his hands as he won his second victory of the year.

Tonight at 8 the Abilene Blue Sox, another variety of stocking clubs, come to town to open a two-game series. The visiting Sox currently are riding a 10-game winning streak and are hotter than sunshine on a tin roof.

Over In First Frame

Last night's contest was all over in the first inning. Ed McKay opened with a double to left centerfield, Doug Lewis walked and Crawford Howard doubled to right centerfield to score both runners. That was all the Sox needed, but they picked up more as they went along.

Charley Willis, who hurled a fine six-hitter against Lamesa, didn't have it last night. He yielded four hits, three of them doubles, in the first inning and a third and they were good for four runs.

Cotton Russell, who relieved in the second, did a good job until the eighth, when an error gave the visitors an opening. And they were quick to take advantage of it, pushing three runs over the plate.

Reynolds Whole Show

But the whole show last night was Reynolds. He gave up only six hits, two of which came in the eighth inning when the Hubbers scored their only run. He fanned six batters, Mike Dooley three times, and waited until the ninth inning to walk anyone.

The Hubbers, outside of the one run, got only one man to third base and only two to second. They went down in order in five of the nine innings and played dead most of the time.

Another contributing factor in the Gold Sox triumph was the daring with which they ran the bases. They caught the Hubbers with their defenses down, scoring on hits which should have held runners to one less base. They also were hitting at the right times.

Lubbock's only run came on a double by Joe Wisniewski, an infield out by Russell and Nelson Davis' sharp single to center.

Loboes Trample Borger, 13 To 8

LAMESA, May 9 (Special)—Lamesa's Loboes won their third straight game and handed the Borger Gassers their second straight defeat here tonight with a six-run seventh inning that gave the home club a 13-8 victory.

Stan Grzywacz, leading hurler in the West Texas-New Mexico League, chalked up his fifth victory without defeat, although it was a rocky path. Each team made seven errors during the game, four of them in the seventh helping Lamesa to the victory.

Manager Eddie Carnett had tied the score in the top of the seventh with his fourth home run of the year with no one on the bases. It climaxed an uphill battle, which saw the Gassers spot the Loboes a 7-5 lead in the first three innings.

Then the Loboes exploded. Dan Pinto led off with a double to leftfield, Glenn Selbo walked and Eddie Mellilo was safe on the shortstop's error to load the sacks. Frank Calo singled to score Pinto and Selbo, Mellilo going to third. Walt Bucknel fanned, but Glenn Coats pumped a single that scored Mellilo. Grzywacz attempted to squeeze Calo home, but the catcher threw the ball into rightfield, Calo scoring and Coats going to third.

When the ball went through Bob Ferguson, Coats also scored. Henry Mellilo successfully squeezed Grzywacz home with the sixth run and the game was as good as over.

Cardinals Hammer Four Dodger Hurlers For 14 To 5 Triumph

Giants Roll On With 7 To 2 Win

BROOKLYN, May 9 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, who blew a big lead to Brooklyn yesterday, took no chances today as they hammered four of six Dodger pitchers for 15 hits and a 14-5 victory.

Rookie Eddie Kazak drove in five runs with a double and a homer with the bases loaded in a five-run eighth inning spree.

Tommy Glaviano sent in four runs with a homer, double and single. Tommy's three-run homer in the third knocked out Clarence Podbielan, rookie Dodger righthander making his first start of the year.

Al Brazle, St. Louis starter, was knocked out in the seventh inning after giving up seven hits and all Brooklyn runs. Howie Pollet stopped the Dodgers cold to safeguard Brazle's third victory. He has lost once.

Jackie Robinson, with a two-run homer and two singles, paced the 10-hit Dodger assault. Mike McCormick also homered for Brooklyn.

Tornadoes To Play Bobcats

LAMESA, May 9 (Special)—Lamesa High school's Golden Tornadoes, in first place in the District 3-AA baseball race, and the second-place San Angelo Bobcats clash at Lobo field at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon in a crucial contest for both clubs.

Several hundred fans are expected to turn out for the tilt which is being held later in the day than usual in order to lure a large attendance.

The Tornadoes, with seven wins and three losses can clinch the district championship with a victory over the Bobcats. San Angelo can move into a tie for first place with a win. Both clubs will have one more game left to play.

Either Bill Hart or Jerry Phillips, both right hand veterans, will start on the mound for Coach Jack Wetzel's Lamesans.

Bobby Clatterbuck or Rastus Schleyer will toe the rubber for the Bobcats. Lamesa defeated the Bobcats in the first meeting, 4-2.

Both teams muffed chances to strengthen their title bids Friday, Big Spring surprising Lamesa, 4-3, and Odessa upsetting the defending champions, 3-2. The Tornadoes, who took over first place while winning seven in a row, have dropped the last two starts.

Lamesa's merchants are urged to make it possible for as many workers to see the game as possible. Members of the high school "L" association are selling tickets and ducats are on sale at downtown stores. The team hopes to raise enough money from the game's gate to provide expenses for a possible bi-district playoff trip to El Paso.

Joe Kirkwood At Country Club

Trick Shot Golfer Will Perform Here Today

A special exhibition of golf will be given today at Lubbock Country club by Joe Kirkwood, nationally famous as a trick shot golf artist and tournament player.

The Australian golfer, who estimates his travels on exhibition at one million miles, will play a nine-hole match at 3 p. m. and demonstrate his trick shots and conduct a golf clinic at approximately 5 p. m.

Kirkwood began playing golf on a sheep ranch in Australia, winning his first tournament about 40 years ago after riding 25 miles to the course on a horse. Since that time he has competed in 70 countries and on approximately 4,000 golf courses.

Entertained Wounded

Shortly after winning the Australian championship during World War One, he begin entertaining wounded patients at the hospitals with golf demonstrations. As the demonstrations continued he began inserting more and more trick shots into his exhibitions and finally realized how entertaining his antics were to other people. Now his bag of tricks includes everything that can be done with a golf ball and a club.

He can call hooks and slices around trees; hit balls blindfolded straight down the middle; line up seven or eight balls and without looking at them knock them one by one down the fairway; hit two balls with one stroke and make their lines of flight cross in midair; and do many other tricks with various clubs.

Local Golfers Play Too

Three local golfers will make the round with Kirkwood. They are Herb Schroeder, club pro, Raymond Marshall, and Chick Trout. After the trick shots Kirkwood will explain the correct swing, demonstrate various shots, answer questions, and assist persons with golf problems.

Tickets for the golf match, trick shot demonstration, and golf clinic will sell for $1.50 and may be obtained at the Lubbock Country club or from club members. All golfers in the area are urged to attend, whether amateur or professional.

Seagraves Wins Oil Belt Games

Two games were postponed in the Oil Belt Baseball league Sunday, but in the other two contests Post defeated Sundown, 2-1, and Seagraves won both ends of a doubleheader from Brownfield, 5-0, and 6-4.

Seagraves took over the lead in the league, having won three games and lost one, and Sundown and Post are tied for second with two victories and one defeat each.

In the first game Faulkner won a 5-0 victory, allowing only five hits as he went the distance. Russell was the loser allowing 10 hits and striking out 12.

Faulkner was called upon in the second game as a reliefer and took the second victory of the day. Strand getting charged with the loss. Gentry led hitting in the first game with three hits in four trips, including two doubles, and Faulkner had two for three. Burnett, first base, led Brownfield hitting with two for three.

Cope, Seagraves first baseman, had three for three in the second tilt, and Gentry had two for three. McMillan, right field, helped the Brownfield cause with two hits in three trips to the plate.

Post collected nine hits but was only able to score twice in defeating Sundown. Greer was the winning pitcher and Wright was charged with the loss. Pitching steady ball, Greer gave up only three hits.

Toten hit a two-two pitch over the right field fence for the only run Sundown scored in the second inning. Altman paced Post hitting with a single, two doubles, and a home run in four times at bat. M. Shepard had two for three.

Albuquerque Trims Pampa Nine, 8 To 6

PAMPA, May 9. (AP)—The Albuquerque Dukes came up with six runs in the eighth inning here tonight, on only three hits, to hand the Pampa Oilers their eighth straight defeat, 8-6. The Oilers jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first five innings, but couldn't hold it as Roy Parker lost his control and forced a run in the sixth and walked three straight men in the eighth before being relieved by Charles Bodine.

Marvin Christenson, who relieved Tom Breisinger in the fifth with the bases loaded and nobody out, set the Oilers down with only one run in the five innings to earn the victory.

ABILENE'S BLUE SOX DOWN CLOVIS PIONEERS, 4 TO 1

ABILENE, May 9. (AP)—Two vigorous lefthanders collided in a pitching duel here tonight and Abilene's Danny Parra won with a four-hitter to give the Blue Sox a 4-1 victory over Clovis.

It was Abilene's tenth straight victory.

Parra, who joined the club about a week ago, had a lot of "something" on a slow pitch that had the Pioneers wondering what was happening. He had a clear cut shutout, and was never in trouble, until the ninth when he allowed his first free pass. Jesse Rogerson was safe on the only Blue Sox error, by manager Stubby Greer, and Ray Bauer scratched an infield hit to score Moore.

Up to then, Parra and the Blue Sox had retired the Pioneers in order except for three innings. Nearest scoring threat by Clovis was in the second when Sinovich singled and Hal Jackson doubled, but Sinovich was picked off first before the two-bagger.

Bengals Curb Yankees, 4-1

DETROIT, May 9 (AP)—Young Ted Gray of the Detroit Tigers outpitched the veteran Vic Raschi of the New York Yankees today to give the Tigers a 4-1 decision and second place in the American league race.

Gray held the league-leading New Yorkers to five hits while winning his second straight decision. Raschi, who had won four straight before today, gave up only five hits but yielded four costly walks.

The victory moved the Tigers ahead of Cleveland, which dropped to third place as it had an open date today.

Gray kept working smoothly and was aided by a couple of nifty catches by outfielder Vic Wertz.

Raschi was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth and Fred Sanford finished up for the Yankees.

Minnesota 'Bear Hunt' Leads To Farm Boy's Crippled Pony

STORDEN, Minn., (U.P.)—Nine-year-old Gerry Thompson snickered when an armed band of 16 men set out to scour the countryside for a "bear" whose tracks had been spotted near the village.

He knew the "bear" tracks had been made in the snow by his crippled pony. The animal's peculiar walk left tracks that looked like a bear's.

The small army of men followed the tracks into the Thompson farmyard until they came upon the pony.

"Looking for a bear?" asked Gerry.

Giants' Pitching Best In Majors

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP)—Maybe it won't last too long, but right now the New York Giants are enjoying about the best pitching in the major leagues.

In the last nine games not one starter has been knocked out of the box. Two pitchers were taken out for pinch-hitters, five of the last six have gone the distance, and the Giants wo nall six of those games against western clubs. The relievers have thrown only three innings since April 29.

The terrific mound work has been paced by the "Big Four" of Clint Hartung (4-0), Sheldon (available) Jones (2-3), Montia Kennedy (2-1), and Larry Jansen (2-2).

Jansen, righthanded ace of the staff, won his last two games, going the route both times, and lost a shutout yesterday to Frankie Gustine's last inning homer.

Backing this gilt-edged pitching is an awesome batting lineup with five regulars hitting over .300 and one other close to that mark.

Heart Attack Fatal To Ex-Gridder Saxon

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Mack Saxon, 47, Texas football great of the 1920's, died of a heart attack yesterday.

Saxon was civilian assistant to the head of the navy's aviation physical training program. He died at his home in Arlington, Va.

Saxon lettered at the University of Texas in 1925 and was captain of the Longhorn squad and All-Conference quarterback in 1926.

From Austin Saxon went to El Paso, where he was head football coach at the College of Mines from 1928 to 1940. A native of Palestine, Tex., he had played high school football at Palestine and Temple, and two years at Austin college, Sherman, before playing for the Longhorns.

Publinx Golf Course Closed

Meadowbrook golf course will be closed several days for repair of damages inflicted by weekend storms, Chester Elliott, business manager for W. G. McMillan, said Monday.

"We're going to do our best to have the course open by Saturday," Elliott said. "Some golfers wanted to play on it today, but for the good of everyone concerned we prefer to close the course until it is suited for play."

Total damage to the course from weekend rains came to at least $2,000, Elliott estimated.

"Five wooden bridges and one concrete bridge were destroyed," he said. "As a result, there is now no way for golfers to cross the creek which runs through the course. We plan to replace the bridges as soon as the soil in the creek bottom becomes dry enough to enable us to work there."

Elliott added that most of the course, particularly the back nine, is strewn with debris washed onto the fairways.

He expressed the hope that all necessary repairs will be made during the week, and that because of the rains fairways should be in better shape than before the storm.

Local Keglers Place High In Pin Tourney

The West Texas-New Mexico Bowling tournament is all over except the splitting of the pot, a $3 300 golden pot of prize money to be divided among winners in the three divisions of the tourney.

Lubbock keglers placed high in both team, doubles, singles, and all-events in Class A, and several representatives of the Hub City were money winners in Class B and C.

Pimlico's Preakness To Be Run Saturday

BALTIMORE, May 9 (AP)—Palestinian and Old Rockport, a couple of speedsters who missed the jackpot in the Kentucky Derby, arrived here today for Pimlico's Preakness—second stop on the gold-and-glory trail for three-year-olds.

The Maryland Jockey Club, which stages the $75,000 performance at Pimlico, expects eight or ten starters for the classic. Calumet's Ponder, the "sleeper" who won in the Derby is due tomorrow.

But Fred W. Hooper's Olympia, odds-on choice who ran sixth in the Derby, apparently has had enough for the time being and won't be back this Saturday.

WIDER on the inside . . . NARROWER outside! There's extra value in the spread-out elbow room of the wide, wide seats. Yet the new Dodge is smaller on the outside . . . easy to park, easy to garage, easy to thread through crowded traffic.

LONGER on the inside . . . SHORTER outside! The new leg room in Dodge gives extra value in stretch-out comfort. Doors open wide, too . . . let you get in and out easily without squirming or twisting—and without knocking your hat off, either.

HIGHER on the inside . . . LOWER outside! More head room is another Dodge extra value you'll appreciate. Instead of low, slanting seats that force a cramped position, Dodge knee-level seats are actually higher for relaxing comfort, better vision.

If you want extra value, you'll want DODGE!

There's extra value in Dodge beauty that flows from true functional styling . . . in the design that provides more head room, more leg room, more elbow room, greater vision for all passengers.

Inauguration Of Dr. Wiggins Is Slated At Texas Tech Tonight

will play for the processional. A total of 117 colleges and universities in the nation will be represented in the procession. Also in the processional will be representatives of the ex-students association, student associations, members of the board of directors and the presidential party.

The presidential party will be made up of Dr. Clifford Jones, Thompson, Dr. Wiggins, Dr. E. N. Jones, vice-president of Tech, Rev. J. Ralph Grant, pastor of the First Baptist church, Rev. Travis White, pastor of First Christian church, Dean James Allen and Dr. Campbell.

Rev. Grant will give the invocation following the processional. Dean Allen will then welcome the guests on behalf of the college. His address will be followed by Dr. Jones who will introduce the principal speaker, Dr. Campbell.

Outstanding Educator

Dr. Campbell has long been one of the leading educators of this country. A native of Arkansas, he has spent the past 40 years in the profession of education.

Dr. Wiggins To Speak

Immediately following Dr. Campbell's address, Thompson will install Dr. Wiggins as president. Dr. Wiggins will then deliver the inaugural address.

The new president of Texas Tech, also a well known educator, was born in Crowley, La., Dec. 9, 1895. At an early age he moved with his parents to Canadian where he completed both grade school and high school.

Following his graduation from Goodnight college in 1917, Dr. Wiggins was married to Miss Winnie Kinard of Memphis, Texas. Later that year he enlisted in the U. S. Army and served at the Central Officers School at Waco. After he was discharged from the service, Dr. Wiggins continued his education. In 1919, he was graduated from Simmons university, Abilene.

Attended Yale

In 1920 he returned to his home in Canadian as principal and head coach. He served in that capacity for two years and then was named superintendent, a position he held for three years.

He returned to college in 1925 and received a master's degree from Yale in 1925 and a Ph.D from the same school in 1930. In June of 1943 an LL.D. was conferred on Dr. Wiggins by Hardin-Simmons.

Dr. Wiggins served as dean of students and professor of education at Hardin-Simmons for 10 years before he became president of the Texas School of Mines and Metallurgy in El Paso. He came to Texas Tech in August of 1948 from that school.

Dr. Wiggins is a member of the Baptist church, and the Rotary club and holds membership in the National Education association, Texas State Teachers association, Phi Delta Kappa, Kappa Delta Pi, Texas Curriculum Revision committee, and is listed in "Who's Who in America."

Other Events Slated

Rev. Travis White will pronounce the benediction following the inaugural address. The band will then play for the recessional.

Earlier in the day, delegates and board members will attend a luncheon at the Lubbock Country club. The main speaker at the luncheon will be Dr. W. M. Cayley of Stanford university. Thompson will act as toastmaster. A quartet from the Tech Male Glee club will provide entertainment.

The reception in Drane Hall will honor Dr. and Mrs. Wiggins and Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Jones. Also in the receiving line will be Dr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Jones, college registrar, Dean Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Junell will greet guests. Junell is assistant to Dr. Wiggins.

Goodwin, dean of arts and science, Margaret Weeks, dean of women, W. L. Stangel, dean of agriculture, Haskell Taylor, dean of business administration, W. C. Holden, dean of graduate studies, W. P. Clement, registrar, W. T. Gaston, business manager and Dean Allen, dean of men.

Dean Allen said Gov. Beauford Jester had been extended an invitation but it was not known late Monday if he would be able to attend. Rep. Preston Smith and Sen. Kilmer Corbin will both be on hand for the ceremony.

Tech Board Meets

ly and transferred to the college on April 1.

Regarding maintenance, both Weymouth and President D. M. Wiggins told the board that additional personnel was needed to keep the buildings and equipment in usable condition.

Must Spend Some Money

"We've got to spend some money up there and we can't be niggardly about it," Weymouth said, explaining that the Santa Fe railroad had already established transit rates for grain to and from the project and that the 30 miles of railroad track within the plant would probably have to be repaired before railroad equipment could be moved in.

"The problem extends into maintenance of a huge physical plant," Dr. Wiggins told the board.

The board then voted to supplement $5,000 from the college's unappropriated balance to add to the $5,600 free funds now in the Pantex accounting to provide for temporary maintenance work and employment of additional personnel.

Discussion on the plant revealed that the project is now known as "Pan-Tech Farms," but board members favored merely calling it "Tech Farms."

Leasing Is Favored

In discussion of the possibility of grain storage on the project, board members expressed themselves as favoring leasing of the numerous concrete "igloos" on the project to individual farmers but that larger storage space be contracted with the Commodity Credit corporation or co-ops groups.

Both bond men, who talked to the board Monday morning expressed opinions that the college could market the bonds at an interest rate of between 1.50 and 1.75 and 2 per cent. Deaton recommended issuance of between $2,500,000 and $2,650,000 in bonds, while Wyatt said the college could issue from $3,000,000 to $3,500,000 in bonds.

The bonds can be marketed within 20 days, Deaton said and total interest cost on the bonds over the ten-year period should not be in excess of $195.000.

Both men recommended marketing of the bonds in Texas, instead of in the East.

There would be no advantage in joining with other schools in marketing the bonds, both men declared.

Attending the meeting were: Chairman Thompson, Weymouth, Ratliff, Chas. Wooldridge, Dallas; Leon Ince, Houston; A. G. (Pat) Mayse, Paris; Mark McGee, Fort Worth; Robt. B. Price, El Paso; Dr. Wiggins, W. T Gaston, board secretary, Frank Junnell, assistant secretary; and Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president of the college.

Board members were guests at a luncheon at Drane hall at noon. They are to remain through today for the inauguration of Dr. Wiggins as president.

An American atomic clock will supersede the timekeeping apparatus at England's famed Greenwich Observatory.

Damaged Cars Are Insurance Covered

Spokesmen for the Lubbock Insurance Exchange Monday night issued a statement explaining that reports to the effect than an estimated 300 cars in Lubbock which suffered water and mud damage in the weekend storm were "not covered by insurance" might easily be misinterpreted by local automobile owners.

The exchange called attention to the fact that owners of vehicles suffering direct or accidental loss on which there were policies providing either "comprehensive" or "combined additional coverage" should file notice of loss with their insurance agent in order that adjustment and payment of these claims might be effected with the least possible delay.

NEWS BRIEFS

Clifford B. Jones, of 3501 Nineteenth street, was elected third vice president Monday of the Texas society of the Sons of the American Revolution, it was announced by the Associated Press from Fort Worth where the society was in session.

Mr. and Mrs. Trent C. Root of Dallas are here for the inauguration of Dr. D. M Wiggins tonight. Root, who is assistant to the president at Southern Methodist university, was formerly a member of the faculty at Texas Tech. He will represent SMU in the inaugural procession.

Three civil actions that were called Monday by 99th District Judge G. V. Pardue were passed until May 23 after counsel had announced that none of the cases was ready fr trial. In one, witnesses for both sides were absent. In another, a member of counsel was not well. In the other, a member of counsel was in court in another district. The jury was dismissed for the week.

Two Men Sought

was set, it was announced.

Glenn Reynolds, address not listed, told police a radio and clothing packed in a bag were stolen from his car. His loss, he said, totaled $62.50.

W. A. Garland of Graford, said $21 worth of property was taken from the glove compartment of his car, parked at a tourist court here.

Stabbings Reported

Midway Barber shop, at 1934 Ave. H, was broken and entered through a window, but nothing was believed removed, Homer Harrison and N. H. Lassiter, investigating patrolmen, were informed.

Two stabbing reports were made to law enforcement agencies, but no charges had been filed Monday. Thelma Taylor, described as a negro woman, told police a negro man had hit her with a stick. She said she stabbed him, "but didn't hurt him, and he ran off."

J. V. Darthard, a negro of 107 Seventeenth, said another negro man stabbed him early Sunday. He said he would file a charge Monday—that he was "too tired and sleepy" to do so Sunday. No court record of the filing could be found yesterday, however.

Two Thefts Reported

Two theft reports had been made to police before midnight last night.

Fred Self of Lubbock route 7 said that a tool box and tools valued at about $15 had been stolen from his car.

The manager of Texas Tire company at 1801 Texas Ave. reported three and one-fourth boxes of spark plugs missing from the place of business. Three negro boys, who had attempted to leave the place without paying for soft drinks they had consumed, were listed as suspects, reports showed.

Blockade Plans

March 1, 1948.

The technical arrangement for lifting the 10-month blockade was made still without restoration of direct four-power contact in Berlin, however.

The Western Powers communicated their plans to West German railway executives who informed their German counterparts in the Soviet zone.

The first train into Berlin will be a British military passenger train, the British announced. It will carry many correspondents. It is expected to reach the border at 1:04 a.m. Thursday and, after an hour's stopover at Helmstedt, reach Berlin at 6 a.m. It will pick up two coaches from the American zone center of Frankfurt at Hannover.

Parade Marks Lamesa Cleanup Campaign; Drive To Continue

LAMESA, May 9 (Special)—Lamesa's annual clean-up campaign, which officially opened Sunday, was keynoted this afternoon by a parade through the business section.

The parade was led by the Lamesa High School band, followed by a city fire truck, trash truck, spraying equipment and street sweeper, members of civic clubs, the "Slumtown Symfunny" band of the Lions club, and school children carrying banners and an assortment of clean-up equipment.

Featured attraction of the parade was "Miss Trash," riding a float on which was inscribed a warning that she get out of town before the end of the clean-up drive, May 15.

The campaign will cover 311 blocks of the city, which has been divided into four zones. Daily radio broadcasts will publicize the progress of the 7-day campaign.

J. R. Earnest heads the campaign, which is sponsored by the Civic Improvement committee of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce and other civic clubs.

Fight Looms On Rent Decontrol

porting of campaign spending.

The changes were recommended by a committee named jointly by the House, Senate and the governor this session.

Also in the Senate a resolution urging Texas members of Congress not to compromise on the tidelands fight was introduced. It was sent to a committee for study.

G-A Bill Moves Up

The Senate agreed to House amendments on a bill creating a state real estate commission to administer real estate laws. The bill now goes to the governor.

The last of the three Gilmer-Aikin school reorganization bills moved up a notch toward final passage. The House voted 93-36 to grant a Senate request for a conference committee to work out the differences between the two houses on the bill. The measure sets up a minimum foundation program designed to give each child nine months of improved schooling.

"I don't think a city has the right to control rentals," replied Rep. S. J. Isaaks of El Paso, on the rent decontrol proposal.

"Does the legislature have that right?" Walker insisted.

"No," Isaacks replied. "But this isn't a rental control bill. It's decontrol, and Congress has given the states the right to take a burden off the people."

McCRAW DEMANDS PUBLIC HEARIN GON RENT BILL

AUSTIN, May 9 (AP)—A public hearing on the state rent decontrol bill was demanded today by state American Legion Commander Bill McCraw.

"It may or may not be the finest bill in the world, but if it is passed without a public hearing, it will arouse suspicions in everybody, especially veterans," said McCraw, a former state attorney general.

The bill was passed on second reading by the House today after Rep. Jerry Stockard, acting speaker, overruled an objection by Rep. Otis Lee of Port Arthur that no public hearing had been held by the committee which approved the measure.

More Study Urged

Stockard said previous rulings have sustained the right of a committee to use its own discretion in deciding whether a bill should have a public hearing.

"Any matter so vital as housing should be given due and thoughtful consideration and not be blitzed through," McCraw said in a prepared statement.

"Many nearly a million, Texas men and women have fought in two world wars for the principles of democracy. The action of the House in passing so important a piece of legislation without a hearing would shake the confidence of those who elected its members.

Street Naming

commission, and former City Manager M. R. Smith.

The proposed system includes:

Numerous short streets which occur between numeral streets will be given "½" designations. For example, Ellwood street, which lies between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, would become "22½ street."

Alphabet streets (Avenues A, B, C, etc.,) would remain unchanged. Main and Broadway, which lie between Tenth and Thirteenth streets, would retain their present names, as would Texas and College avenues.

Changes Are Outlined

Avenues west of College Ave., which at present are named for former Presidents, would be renamed in alphabetical order for cities east of the Mississippi river. (Members of the committee at first had favored use of cities west of the Mississippi until it was learned that there were not enough of them.)

Streets north of First street, now bearing an assortment of names, would be renamed alphabetically for colleges.

Streets east of Ave. A, which now are designated as East Ave. A, East Ave. B, etc., would be renamed alphabetically for trees.

The new highway now known as Northwest Ave. Q, would be named Clovis road. Northeast Ave. Q would be named Amarillo road.

It has been emphasized that the system would not require any changes in numbers of individual addresses. Places would retain the numbers they now have even if the street name should be changed.

Mayor W. H. Rodgers has emphasized that the hearing will be open to everyone, and has expressed the hope that a large number of citizens will appear to participate in the discussion.

Crosbyton Jaycees Presented Charter At Banquet Program

CROSBYTON, May 9 (Special)—Crosbyton Junior Chamber of Commerce received its charter tonight at a banquet in the First Methodist church here.

Melvin Evans, Texas Jaycee president, was guest of honor and main speaker who presented the charter.

boards and other woodwork exposed to mud and water for long hours, from which the paint may eventually flake. In addition, fear has been expressed by homeowners in the flooded sections of the city that walls, and brick and stone veneers may be damaged much more than is now apparent.

Gas Service Restored

West Texas Gas company reported that its maintenance crews had cleared up most of the service interruptions in homes in southwest Lubbock by last night.

Numerous residences in the flooded sections of the city had been without gas since Friday night or early Saturday morning, due, in most cases, to entrance of water into gas lines. The gas company had machines in use Monday blowing air into the lines and forcing the water out.

Southwestern Public Service company reported that electrical service which was interrupted in downtown Lubbock and some residential areas was cleared up Monday morning. Crews in the Sundown area, stricked by a tornado Friday, restored service to the Hockley oil field area by 5 p. m. Monday, said George R. Bunton, division superintendent.

Southwestern Public Service company estimated damages to its lines and transformers in the Sundown area at between $8,000 and $10,000, while damage in the Lubbock area came to another $4,000 or $5,000.

Bunton said his company expected to be back on normal operations today.

Homeowners in southwest Lubbock and in the Ave. Q area had only tentative estimates of what their storm damage will be, and most preferred not to commit themselves until they had investigated extent of damages further. One of the hardest hit apparently was the Kenneth Cox residence at 3015 Twenty-fourth, where water flooded a basement containing central heating and air conditioning equipment and resulted in an estimated $20,000 damage.

Carpet cleaning firms in Lubbock, have been swamped with work, since homeowners attempted to remove soaked and mudded rugs and carpet from floors with the least possible delay. At least one of the cleaning establishments has been working night and day since Saturday.

The water in Tech Terrace lake had receded well beyond the circular drive surrounding the lake by Monday night as waters drained slowly through a 24-inch storm sewer line, the lake's only outlet.

City Manager Steve Matthews had issued an urgent plea to parents to keep children away from the lake, where there was a possibility swimmers or waders might be drawn into drains.

Both Matthews and R. L. Oldham, city engineer, said there had been no rush of complaints regarding storm drainage in the southwest Lubbock area.

They explained that the drainage facilities in Tech Terrace were constructed in the early 1940's when that area was outside the city limits.

Designed As Catch Basin

The lake was designed as a "catch basin" with a number of 12-inch lines leading into it from various points, with only one outlet, which Oldham said is a 24-inch outlet.

Since it was built, the area has become one of the most fashionable Lubbock residential areas, with homes in the $50,000 to $100,000 cost range bordering the lake on all sides.

Oldham and Matthews estimated that constructing "proper" drainage facilities for the Tech Terrace and Green Acres area probably would cost from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

Pumps manned by city crews, by private business firms, and by gas company employes, remained busy from late Friday night until Monday, when demand began to taper off. City crews manned two pumps, and by midnight Sunday had pumped out water from between 75 and 100 basements and sub-floor areas.

The crews Sunday pumped 35 basements up to midnight, when they quit because families had retired.

Damage in the thousands of dollars will probably result from a flooded basement at Luther Transfer and Storage company.

The company was the first to request city pumps Friday night when water flooded the basement to a depth of a foot and a half. Later they obtained pumps for their own use, releasing the city-owned pumps for other uses.

Tom Loyd, manager of the company, said furniture and furnishings stored in the basement were still being removed Monday to a dry building and owners were being notified to come and inspect their belongings.

The city engineer made a rough estimate Monday that the flood will cost the City of Lubbock $5,000 in damage to streets and storm sewer lines, power lines and in extra labor costs. He said many of the streets in the area will be re-sealed, but that the city had planned to resurface most of them anyway.

The Green Acres and Tech Terrace areas were congested with traffic Sunday as hundreds of motorists sought to drive through the damaged neighborhoods. The roads to Buffalo Lakes also were crowded with motorists wishing to see the water racing through the broken upper dam.

Lubbock garages reported they were swamped with flood-damaged automobiles.

Billy Davis, service manager of Lubbock Auto company, said "we're overrun with a shop full of them. Some require a complete motor overhaul, some have an oil pan full of mud, and we are still receiving calls to haul in damaged cars."

H. L. Graves, service manager of Kuykendall Chevrolet company, said that firm was also overrun with major repair jobs. Some of the cars required complete overhauls, transmissions and rear axles as well as motors, upholstery and interiors having been damaged.

Graves issued a word of warning: "Some motorists are simply changing oil and driving off," he said. "If there is any dirt or mud in the crankcase those cars will give serious trouble after a few thousand miles. The only way to prevent it is to take the pan off and clean it thoroughly. Also, the rear axle and transmission are not water-proof and are likely to sustain damage if not thoroughly overhauled."

No further casualties were reported Monday as result of the storm. Mrs. Evelyn Modene Duke, 31-year-old mother of four children, was electrocuted while moving furniture during the flood at her home at 2621 Twenty-eighth street early Saturday morning.

HST Asks Action On Reorganization Bill

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—President Truman today warned Congress that it must hustle if it wants the executive branches of the government reorganized this year.

The reason:

If Congress passes a bill now before it, Mr. Truman would have the power to reorganize the executive offices. Yet any plans he makes must lie before Congress 60 days before they can become effective. This is to give legislators a chance to nullify them by voting disapproval if they wish.

Since Congress is supposed to go home by July 31, it's obvious, Mr. Truman says, that the time is growing short.

The house has passed a bill giving Mr. Truman the power he wants. But it has made several departments exempt. These are the so-called quasi-judicial departments—the Interstate Commerce commission, the Federal Trade commission, etc.

The Senate proper hasn't got around to the reorganization bill yet. But its Executive Expenditures committee has approved a bill that would:

(A) Exempt none of the departments the House exempts.

(B) Give either the House or the Senate the right to say no, within 60 days, to any plan the President might suggest.

Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill), has said he'll try to get the Senate working on the bill soon.

Buffalo Lakes Flood Damage To Run High

Flood damage at Buffalo Lakes probably will come to, or perhaps exceed, $20,000, Mayor W. H. Rodgers, co-owner with George Etz said last night.

Mayor Rodgers, who spent most of Monday at Buffalo Lakes checking damage, said it is too early yet to determine what course of action will be taken to repair the damage, since inspection has thus far been limited by water and deep mud. Repair costs also were not determined.

He said that the second dam there will hold satisfactorily, and that it had not been seriously damaged.

Damage to the McClung road in the canyon near Buffalo Lakes will probably exceed $5,000, George G. Green, county commissioner of precinct two, said Monday.

Federal Tax Cut

erling, and Dr. John D. Clark—were reported to be in substantial agreement on the April size-up of the economy.

Apparently there was no such outright split as occurred early in the year when Kyserling and Clark outvoted Nourse in advocating the passage of stand-by anti-inflation controls.

After a White House visit last Tuesday, Nourse informed newsmen that the council expects "some further easing of living costs."

He did not divulge the council's advice to Mr. Truman. As now reported, that advice was:

It would be unwise to plunge into red-ink financing.

On the question, the council reportedly suggested that study be given these policies:

1. Reducing those wartime excise taxes which basically affect business operations and which produce only a comparatively small amount of revenue.

2. Delaying the date of the proposed increase in the social security payroll tax from July 1—as proposed by administration leaders—to the presently scheduled date, next Jan. 1.

3. Accepting a "lesser goal" than the $4,000,000,000 tax increase which Mr. Truman asked in January. Some officials hold that such a tax boost now might eat up private capital needed for industrial expansion, or cause business to retrench so severely that the "healthy disinflation" might skid into a serious recession.

Santa Fe officials said the change would "have to go through channels," if made and would probably require several months.

Plains Storms Rare

that we would have had no such storm. But just this once conditions were right and the South Plains had a tornado and torrential rains," the weatherman pointed out.

Most tornadoes are carried along by the winds blowing between the 6,000 and 20,000 foot levels. Their progress along the ground varies from about 17 to 25 miles an hour. But the winds within the tornado have extreme velocities ranging from the relatively slow speeds of 50 to 100 miles an hour on the outer edges to 100 miles an hour and upward near the center. No one has been able to measure accurately velocities near the centers for the blasts are usually so destructive instruments are ripped up and destroyed. Estimates have run as high as 500 miles an hour in some "big ones."

The weatherman pointed out that one major cause of destruction in a tornado is the vacuum generated in the center of the funnel. This vacuum literally "explodes" a closed house. The air pressure inside the structure slams against the walls, roof and floor when the vacuum passes over the structure. The walls and roof are blown off as though by a dynamite blast, the floor is left on the foundation generally with much furniture in place.

One precaution against the "explosion" danger is to open several windows on the downwind side. Thus air inside a house is able to equalize with any outside change of pressure without ripping down the building.

The weather station classified the Sundown tornado as a "little one," and declared, "the chances of a tornado striking any particular spot on the South Plains, or any place in the nation are so remote as to make the danger almost negligible."

Another point brought out by the weatherman is that the infrequent tornadoes on the Plains apparently strike only once and are gone. No record is available of a tornado that has struck the ground and "trailed along" over the countryside striking town after town as in the case of the great Woodward storm of several years ago.

The bureau can predict the possibility of tornadoes, but cannot be sure within several hundred miles of where they might hit if they did actually develop. Therefore such forecasts are omitted because of the possibility of creating needless panic far from where a windstorm may finally develop.

Therefore be assured, the weather station says, when you see thunderstorms moving about this summer there isn't likely to be a tornado hiding in the clouds. It nearly always takes a cold front to trigger off the violent winds, and when they are set off they nearly always come in the late afternoon.

Sundown Returns To Near Normal

SUNDOWN, May 9 (Special)—This oil field town, fiercely hammered late Friday by tornadoes, wind, rain and hail, today had returned to near normalcy.

The situation here seemed to be well under control, as an emergency Red Cross field kitchen suspended operation after supplying storm relief workers with food during the two days and nights following the storm.

The casualty toll of the storm remained unchanged at two dead, two seriously injured and three slightly injured.

At Levelland, Mrs. Wanda Scott, 22, and her 7-months-old son, Randy, late tonight remained in critical condition in Phillips-Dupre hospital. Both were unconscious most of the day, with Mrs. Scott returning to consciousness for several brief periods.

Mrs. Scott suffered extensive bruises and internal injuries during the tornado, and the baby received a broken right arm and right leg and severe bruises. Both are receiving blood, plasma and glucose injections intraveinously, hospital attendants said.

It appeared that the total financial loss might climb higher than the $100,000 originally estimated unofficially.

In all, 15 residences, a church, two office buildings and a number of smaller buildings either were destroyed or badly damaged in the storm. Window panes from many downtown buildings also were broken by the heavy hail which accompanied the two tornadoes that ripped through a narrow strip of the northern part of town.

The Red Cross field kitchen, established Friday night in the local Masonic building, suspended operations late Sunday. During the emergency period, it had supplied sandwiches, doughnuts, milk and coffee to all relief workers in the area.

A Red Cross clothing distribution center also was set up here, but organization officials said the immediate demand for clothing was light.

Red Cross case workers arrived today to determine the needs of families left homeless by the storm.

The central Red Cross emergency headquarters here, in the City hall, handled more than 100 outgoing telegrams in the hours immediately following the storm, officials reported today.

Some instances of looting, chiefly the taking of tires from damaged automobiles, were reported by Sundown residents. Otherwise, all relief operations appeared to be progressing satisfactorily.

Electra Child Suffers Fatal Injuries In Fall In Bathtub

ELECTRA, May 9 (AP)—A bathtub fall was fatal today to William Thomas Dance, 30 months old.

The child was holding a water glass, it shattered, pierced his chest and cut two deep gashes in his leg when he fell. Dr. J. G. Thompson said the chest wound was fatal.

Mrs. James O. Dance, the mother, had left the child momentarily. She said he apparently reached for the glass during her absence. The child died 30 minutes after the accident.

EVENTS MAKE LASTING IMPRESSION

Sundown Residents Relate Tense Moments During Savage Storm

(Special To The Avalanche)

SUNDOWN, May 9—Two Sundown mothers who survived the worst of Friday's twin tornadoes have told stories of the fear and terror which enveloped their homes as they struggled to protect their children and themselves from the devastating twisters.

The two women were Mrs. Bruce Burney and Mrs. R. L. Simpson, next-door neighbors in the north section of Sundown which was almost completely flattened by the storm.

Both were in the very heart of the tornado-stricken area, where tornadic winds twisted steel and battered buildings. Miraculously, the two women and their children escaped serious injury.

And from their harrowing half-hour ordeal, they brought arresting stories—stories of ear-rending crashes, hysterical children, chocolate pies and wind-blown pigs.

Noise Was Deafening

Mrs. Simpson was one of five persons injured in the storm, but her injury—a five-stitch gash of the right knee—was not serious. She narrowly missed possibly fatal harm when flying debris sheared a mass of hair from the back of her head without scratching her scalp. Her three children, who were with her throughout the storm, were not hurt.

Mrs. Burney and her three children also escaped injury as they weathered the twisters inside a five-room, frame-stucco home which was almost totally demolished by battering winds.

Had Been Cooking

While friends searched through scattered wreckage of her home to salvage as much as possible of the family's possessions, Mrs. Burney told this story:

"Friday afternoon I had just finished baking three chocolate pies when I first noticed dark clouds gathering in the West. After finishing the pies, and that was the last I ever saw of them, I went with my three children, Beverly, Gerald and Bruce, jr., (ages 14, 10 and 5, respectively) to the west kitchen window to watch the clouds. They seemed to be moving in opposite directions, some toward the north and some toward the south.

"Then it started to rain and hail, and the wind became stronger. We propped a divan and three chairs against the back door, and went into the living room, on the east side of the house. We moved the piano against the front door, and I remember that the water was blowing right through the door just as though there wasn't any door. So we moved into the front bedroom.

Worst Of Storm Hit

"Then the worst of the storm hit. We could hear parts of the house tearing loose, and things hitting the walls outside. There was just one loud crash after another. I lost all sense of time, so I'm not sure exactly how long this continued. Probably not more than a few minutes.

"By this time I had put Bruce, jr., under the bed. He was hysterical, and almost in convulsions. When the storm first came up, his temperature had soared, and he became nauseated. Beverly laid under the bed with him, while Gerald and I pushed the door closed.

"Finally the wind died. We pushed a chest of drawers against the bedroom door, and fell into a corner against the wall.

"All of a sudden, strong winds hit again. But the second time wasn't as bad as the first. It lasted only a short while, and then things calmed down again.

"The next thing I remember, Beverly and I were helping Mrs. Simpson and her three young boys through our bedroom window. They had come across from their house next door when it ripped apart. Mrs. Simpson and the smallest boy had been blown across the road, but she crawled back with him and finally we got them inside.

Men Escaped Injury

"A few minutes later, a man came to the window, looked in, and asked if we were all right. We told him we were, but that we didn't know about some men who were in the office building next door. He told us there wasn't any office building any more. (Later, Mrs. Burney learned that the three men in the office had escaped injury when the building blew away.)

"Then Jack Williams, another neighbor, came and took us to his storm cellar. By this time, the winds weren't nearly so strong. We stayed in the cellar for about half an hour, until the end of the storm."

During the early stages of Mrs. Burney's efforts to barricade the doors of her home, Mrs. Simpson and her three sons, Doyle, 9, Bobby, 7, and Dwight, 4, were huddled against a wall of their house, just south of the larger Burney residence.

Hail Made Terrific Noise

Here is Mrs. Simpson's version of what happened to her family during the peak of the storm:

"We were sitting in the northeast corner room at first. The sound of hail hitting the tin roof was so loud that we didn't hear the tornadoes approaching. There was so much noise, the boys were becoming frightened, and I was telling stories to keep them calm.

"All of a sudden the whole back part of the roof blew off. We moved into the front bedroom, and crouched against a wall in the center of the house. Things were flying all through the air, and the noise was terrible. And right in the middle of it all, three pigs came right through the room where we were. They were half running, and half blowing, I think. I remembered that the pigs had been in a pen about a hundred yards west of the house.

"When the wind finally calmed down a little, we tried to get across to the Burney house. The two oldest boys made it OK, but the baby (Dwight) and I were blown all the way across the highway—about 50 yards in all. I don't remember just how it happened, whether I was lifted completely off the ground or not. I just remember finding myself and Dwight on our hands and knees on the other side of the road. He was screaming wildly. I held hold of him, and crawled back toward the Burney house. We reached the window, and Mrs. Burney helped us in.

"Later all of us went to Jack Williams' storm cellar, until the storm was over."

When the tornadoes struck, the husbands of the two women were in Levelland together. Simpson is truck foreman for Burney's oil hauling concern. The men returned shortly after the main force of the storm subsided.

Railroad's Request For 'Whistle Stop' Schedule Approved

AUSTIN, May 9 (AP)—The Fort Worth and Denver City railroad got a highball from the Railroad commission today for the Texas Zephyr to make only "whistle stops" at eight small cities between Fort Worth and Amarillo.

The commission split 2-1 on the action.

In answer to the decision, City Attorney John McKelvey of Electra—a proposed "whistle stop"—said his city council would pass an ordinance tonight to "make 'em stop."

Railroad officials in Fort Worth said they planned to initiate the streamlined schedule on Wednesday.

Injured Tech Students Remain In Hospital

Two Texas Tech students from Iraan, injured about 12:15 p. m. Monday when their motorcycle skidded and overturned eight miles southwest of Lubbock on the Brownfield highway, remained under observation last night in West Texas hospital.

Derrell M. Bryant, sophomore engineering student, and Edward L. Cooney, freshman arts and sciences student, were carried to the hospital by a Rix ambulance and a private car. Both were described as about 22.

Bryant suffered possible internal injuries and Cooney was treated for deep lacerations of the face and arms. Both had recovered from shock Monday night, and were not considered in serious condition, the hospital reported.

The students were apparently returning to Lubbock from Iraan when the motorcycle skidded on the highway or shoulder. No collision with another vehicle was indicated, investigating highway patrolmen said.

ON VACATION FOR LIFE!

How A. G. Blair of North Scituate, R. I. retired from a salesman's job...

No more alarm clocks! No more long days on the road and only weekends to call their own! These are things of the past for Arthur Blair, former wholesale grocery salesman. For the Blairs are taking life easy now . . . a goal they worked towards for 43 years.

Today they're living in their newly built cottage in the country, 10 miles from Providence, R. I., with their son and his family nearby.

How did Arthur and Annie Blair do it? How were they able to make a small weekly paycheck eventually add up to a vacation for life . . . ?

Gay times with his grandchildren, Joan and Norman Blair, Jr., is a full-time hobby, now, for Arthur G. Blair.

"From the time we were married," Annie Blair tells Granddaughter Joan, "Grandad and I put something aside every month for retirement. It wasn't easy on what we made. But what we have now is worth far more than the fancy clothes and shows we passed up then!"

There'll be more than loafing in Mr. Blair's new life! With his son Norman he'll raise some chickens to help out Mrs. Blair's food budget of $18 a week.

Spring planting time will find the Blairs starting a family vegetable patch, too. Mr. Blair, 69, helped to landscape and paint new house. Even then it cost more than he'd expected. He got $8,500 from sale of the city house; savings paid for the rest.

Plenty of time for puttering now! Workbench projects with Grandson Norman, Jr., provide inexpensive fun for both. Grandfather and Grandmother Blair spend $23 a month for recreation and car upkeep.

"This is the life!" say the Blairs. Time at last to read, relax, enjoy life. Plenty of peace of mind from here on. "We're proud of Mother and Dad," Norman says, "They stuck to their guns and did it all by themselves.

"Now that I've seen what it means to them, I've been talking with my life insurance agent about a retirement program for Lee and me."

'Faith Healer' Draws Large Crowds After Houston Legal Tangle

HOUSTON, May 9. (U.P.)—"Bishop" Elder A. Bonds, self-designated "divine healer of the world," gathered new followers today at his ramshackle tabernacle. Hundreds of negroes, including patients loaded in 15 ambulances, saw him make the rain stop.

That feat, said the dapper, mustached Bonds, was "just ordinary."

A flip of the hands, a plea heavenward, "and now let the sun shine . . ." That's all there is to it.

While the crowd jumped up and down and shouted approval, the negro "Bishop" yelled in his staccato voice, "the Lord never rained out one of my meetings."

Released On Bond

Today's fired-up gathering followed Bonds' appearance in Corporation court, where he momentarily came to earth. He was released on $25 bond on charges of collecting and assembling on a sidewalk and "alleging to be a faith healer."

The meeting at his dilapidated tabernacle was similar to crowds that followed him downtown to court, creating a traffic jam that took police an hour to untangle.

Bonds called upon the Lord while ambulances pulled up to the rear of a nearby establishment called "angel's chicken shack." That was where the "healer" was going to set the stage for miracles.

He calmly announced that as "a bishop in the church of God's holy tabernacle," his powers had wrought other miracles, such as bringing sight to 41 blind persons, and liberating at least three other persons from death itself.

And while the jamboree raged, complete with fancy ground-rolling maneuvers, Bonds shouted, "it's the doctors who are causing me this trouble . . . always the doctors."

30,000 Persons Expected For Annual Bandera 'Stompede'

BANDERA, May 9 (U.P.)—Spurs will jingle and skirts will rustle this weekend when "the free state of Bandera" stages its second annual "stompede."

About 30,000 lovers of the old west are expected to don chaps and calico Friday and Saturday for a series of dances, jamborees and parades. "It's okay if it's western" is the theme of the celebration and Bandera cowboys are determined to keep things that way.

The "stompede" got started last year when Bandera "seceded" from the union because President Truman refused to establish a national cowboy day. Local cowhands set about remedying the situation. They proclaimed the holiday without presidential sanction.

Today, they roamed through the Hill country making sure that all juke boxes, automobiles and other such modern-day gadgets would be hidden from view by Friday.

"Don't believe in 'em," drawled an old rancher.

NAVY CRAFT PLUSHY, ROOMY

World's Biggest Transport Plane Placed On Show Tour

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

If you get tired sitting in the world's biggest transport plane—just get up and take a long, long walk.

Stroll upstairs and downstairs.

Take a hike far back to the tail.

It's the Navy's Lockheed Constitution—on show tour. The Air Force's giant B-36 was built for bombs.

Plane Is Plushy, Roomy

One hundred and eighty people rode in it Monday from Denver to Dallas and got a load of the commercial airliner of the future.

It's plushy and roomy. Two complete decks with two connecting stairwells. Stow a pullman car, freight car and flat car in the vast fuselage and you'd have enough room left over for a passenger bus.

Stand the 92-ton silver ship on a wing and its other wing tip would rise 189 feet—18 stories—into the air. Its four mighty engines whip up three times the power of a diesel locomotive. And it'll fly 5,000 miles—at better than 300 miles per hour.

Has Crew Of 12

"The air's thin here at Denver," Com. William H. Collins, the plane's boss says. "We'll use jet assistance on the takeoff. We don't really have to—it's just additional insurance. After all, it cost $15,000,000 to develop and build the Constitution."

The propellors whip up a hurricane out there on the end of the runway. Collins—tall, handsome Navy ace who bagged nine Jap fighters in the war—stands around supervising on the flight deck. Pilot and co-pilot sit at the top of the nose. Ten feet behind them are two flight engineers who man two big panels of instruments; a radio navigator and a navigator. Collins has a regular crew of 12.

The jet assistance—called Jato—consists of three metal cylinders of chemicals, snuggled together out on each wing. Every time they are used, it costs the Navy $2,000.

"Takeoff power," the pilot, Lt. Com. Lou Burnett, of Oklahoma City calls by interphone to flight engineer Henry Gettle of Santa Fe, N. M.

"Aye, aye, sir, takeoff power," Gettle replies, and thrusts the four throttles forward.

Jato Used On Takeoff

Burnett releases the brakes. The Constitution rolls down the 8,000-foot runway.

Seventy, eighty, ninety - five miles per hour and Burnett feels the wheels leave the ground.

"Jato," he calls, and co-pilot, Lt. Com. Don Shay of Albuquerque flicks an overhead switch.

Instantly streams of white, steamlike vapor stew from the metal wing cylinders and the great ship is caught in a tremendous burst of added power.

Burnett hauls back on the stick and the Constitution noses breathtakingly into the sky. And Shay, on command, hits another switch, bringing up the landing gear. Jato power lasts 15 seconds, covering the 14 seconds it takes to swallow the wheels.

"Those are the 14 crucial seconds of flying," Collins says.

Now you are really flying—reclining in a fine, soft, chair, admiring the soft grey and blue decor of the enormous top deck cabin and the pretty Wave, Peggy Tubb of York, Pa., who operates a telephone switchboard at the front of the cabin.

Another, Wave, green-eyed Kay Langdon of Salem, Ore., brews coffee in the compact, well-ordered galley with facilities for turning out 300 hot meals at a time, in flight.

Down on the lower deck, D. L. Tolleson, aviation metalsmith chief, tends the hydraulic systems of the sky monarch. The plane has three hydraulic systems—if one goes out, the others can take over. It's the same with electrical systems.

Rains Fill Dry Water Reservoir At Coleman

COLEMAN, May 8. (U.P.)—Coleman residents today looked forward to using water from their own reservoir for the first time in 20 months, as a result of recent rains.

As the result of a four-year drouth which depleted the water supply in Lake Scarborough, the city began importing 400,000 gallons of water daily from Lake Brownwood 20 months ago.

It cost about $500 a day to have the water hauled in by the Santa Fe railway, and the average monthly water bill went up from $2 to $7, as rates were increased to $2 per 1,000 gallons.

Rains Fill Lake

The rate hike was in spite of the fact that Coleman residents did everything possible to conserve every drop.

But yesterday, Mayor R. E. Murphey predicted that the water import business could be discontinued immediately.

Rains in the area since April 19 had brought the level of Hords creek reservoir—a federal flood control project completed one year ago this week—to 14 feet above the emergency line.

It was expected to take six weeks to finish putting pipelines between Coleman and the reservoir, eight miles west, but Lake Scarborough, which furnished the city's water supply before the prolonged drouth, today stood four feet above the emergency line.

Murphey said the water now in Lake Scarborough would be enough to last five months. And by the time the supply is exhausted, the pipelines to Hords creek reservoir would be completed and the year's supply of water there will be ready for use.

The mayor estimated that the four-year drouth cost the people of Coleman about $250,000 in water-hauling levies.

Last year only 14.62 inches of rain fell in Coleman. But this year, the city already has measured 16 inches of rainfall.

Economy Forces Block Spending

AUSTIN, May 9 (AP)—Single-purpose appropriation bills were handed a crushing blow by economy forces in the Senate today while House economy forces lost a round to advocates of freer spending.

The Senate five times refused to suspend rules to take up that same number of measures that would cost the state nine and a half million dollars during the next two years on single-purpose projects.

They include $5,000,000 for a statewide soil conservation program, $2,000,000 for a medical school at Dallas, $1,000,000 for a medical school at San Antonio, $500,000 for a medical school at Temple and $1,000,000 to raise Lamar Junior college at Beaumont to full-college status.

Economy Pleas Ignored

Cries of "let's cut down on spending" were ignored in the House when the junior college appropriation bill was passed on second reading.

The Appropriation committee had recommended $125 per year for each student in the state's public junior colleges. Rep. Jerry T. Stockard of Frost asked the House to make that $175.

The House chose the larger figure by a vote of 76-59.

The House also finally passed and sent to the Senate a bill to appropriate $4,015,614 for the next biennium for vocational education. It was $394,702 more than is being spent during the current two-year period.

As it now stands, funds for junior colleges would total $2,100,000 per year. The bill was approved on second reading 89-43 but failed to get the required votes for final passage.

'Must' Bills Get Priority

Representatives who wanted more funds for junior colleges argued that it was money well spent, that the junior colleges deserved it.

"Why pick on this bill?" asked Rep. Abraham Kazen jr., of Laredo. "The anlysis of financial conditions should have been brought out two months ago."

The Senate action did not necessarily shelve the single-purpose bills. Their authors all intend to continue pushing them. But the Senate showed by its consistent vote that it at least prefers to provide first for the state's "must" money bills to operate the state's business ahead of these measures. The major money bills are still pending floor action.

This was the way the Senate voted on suspending rules to consider the measures:

Lamar Junior college—14 for, 16 against.

San Antonio medical school—17

1,000 Persons Attend Musical Program

College Officials Honored At Tech Band, Glee Club Concert

The president's concert, by Texas Tech band and glee club, attracted approximately 1,000 persons to Senior High school auditorium Monday night.

The concert, honoring Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Tech, and Dr. E. N. Jones vice-president, opened with the band's full bodied playing of Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 4 in F Minor, directed by D. O. Wiley.

The first movement of the symphony was especially arranged by George Rhoads, first trombone in Tech band, and fully reflected the poignant sorrow that sometimes is lost in transcribing Tschaikowsky's orchestral works for band.

Other numbers by the band varied from music-hall specialties by Victor Herbert to the lilting melodies of Percy Grainger. All received enthusiastic applause.

The Tech Men's glee club sang a Yugoslavian folksong, and a spiritual, "Dry Bones," then brought forth Mrs. Stuart Shafter, soprano, who gave unusually beautiful depth of feeling to the leading role of "Romany Life" by Victor Herbert, conducted by Richard Richards, glee club director.

Joe L. Haddon, assistant director of the band, brought the program to a close with his spirited conducting of the Tech school songs.

Revised Voting Statute Proposed

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 9—Laws hitting at delayed vote counts and dishonest reporting of campaign expenditures were proposed in the legislature today.

They furnished a new red-hot last-minute issue for the waning 51st session, still bogged down in money troubles.

A committee named jointly by the House, Senate and the governor recommended seven emergency changes in the election laws and urged the legislature to hire three lawyers to completely rewrite the election code between this and the next session. There isn't time now to do the job completely, the committee said.

Election Bill Introduced

Raising the limit on campaign expenditures in races for governor and U. S. senator from the present $10,000 to $40,000 and requiring reporting of every contribution was proposed in a bill introduced in the Senate by Keith Kelly of Fort Worth, W. R. Cousins jr. of Beaumont and Carlos Ashley of Llano.

Another bill provides for reporting of election or primary returns by precinct officials as soon as vote-counting is completed, along with immediate relinquishment of the ballot boxes with the ballots.

The committee's report and the proposed law changes are a result of agitation for these and other revisions following the U. S. senatorial campaign and the second Democratic primary last summer.

'Realistic' Approach Urged

An aftermath of the close, heated race between Lyndon M. Johnson, now serving as junior U. S. senator from Texas and former Governor Coke R. Stevenson were charges and counter-charges of delayed returns and late revisions of the count.

There has long been agitation for a more realistic approach to campaign spending in view of conditions that have changed since the present law was written in 1919. Practical politicians have argued that the $10,000 limit was reasonable then, but can not be complied with now.

The attorney general would be given power under one of the bills introduced today to investigate and prosecute election law violation charges if local, county and district attorneys fail or refuse to do so. The law governing the time of meeting of presidential electors would also be changed to conform with the federal statutes.

The committee urged passage of a pending secret ballot bill and another clarifying the loyalty affidavit statute.

Another drillstem test was underway in the Silurian at Magnolia Petroleum company No. 18-B Cowden, southwest Andrews county wildcat which has recovered clean oil in that horizon on higher drillstem tests.

Total depth was 11,121 feet, with packer set at 11,085 feet. No results of the test were available at the time this report was prepared.

This prospector has already shown for flowing production from the Devonian and from the lower Permian.

Visiting European Farmers Are Studying U.S. Farm Techniques

WASHINGTON, May 9 (U.P.)—Europe is learning from the American farmer how mechanization and research help make the United States tops in agricultural production, an American food expert said today.

Dr. Dennis A. Fitzgerald, director of the food and agriculture division of the Economic Cooperation administration, has the job of imparting the American techniques to visiting farmers from a number of Marshall plan nations. These European farmers have come, or are coming, to spend from one to six months on American farms to study domestic production methods.

"We have got the 'know-how' on mechanization, on improved seed, and in crop production research," Fitzgerald said in an interview.

"All these things keep us ahead. Now, we have an adult rural agricultural service which is the basic mechanism for helping the individual farmer. He profits thereby.

"In Europe," the average farmer is pretty much on his own, while over here he gets the benefit of government research and advice."

For those reasons, Fitzgerald said, the tours of European farmers will enable them to go back home with new ideas. At present, 33 Dutch farmers are here living on American farms in 14 states. They are here for six months which will give them a chance to study American planting and harvesting methods.

Studying All Problems

These farmers are studying animal husbandry, farm mechanization, crop disease control, pest and weed control, and general farm practices. Some will specialize on such subjects as onion growing.

In addition, under ECA's technical assistance program — which benefits both industry and agriculture—there are now in the United States to help general agricultural understanding two Norwegian forestry experts, and one veterinarian.

The Netherlands also has a wood research expert in this country to study all phases of wood and paper manufacture. A livestock breeding expert from the United Kingdom is here to check into American methods of artificial insemination, and ways and means to increase the production and money value of herds.

On the other side of this two way bridge, the United States has an agronomist and a forestry expert in Italy to continue their efforts toward improving the agricultural economy. To help Britain, the ECA will send a scientist and an insecticide expert to Africa on May 10 to survey conditions with an eye to development of that colonial area.

Fitzgerald pointed out that almost all of the new insecticides that are being used now by American farmers were a war development. Such as DDT and 2XD are not generally available in Europe, he said. In addition, he said, Europe is not so up to date as this country on the use of hybrid seed corn, which increases production tremendously.

Fitzgerald said that European farmers seed their corn more heavily than is done in the United States. They do not have available the germination tests that are made available to American farmers by the U. S. seed companies.

"These European farmers," he said, "can learn from us, and at the same time, we can learn from them."

Four New Cases Of Polio Are Reported in Rio Grande Valley

EDINBURG, May 9. (U.P.)—The lower Rio Grande valley, scene of the nation's first polio epidemic last year, has counted four new cases in the last three days.

Latest was a two-year-old girl from Brownsville, admitted to the Edinburg polio clinic yesterday. On Saturday a couple of McAllen brothers, one four years old and the other five months, were admitted and Friday a 14-year-old Brownsville girl was admitted the same day.

All have been confirmed by clinic doctors as polio victims.

Boat Drifting In Gulf With Nine Aboard Rescued Near Texas City

TEXAS CITY, May 9. (U.P.)—A 38-foot cabin cruiser with nine persons aboard was towed into port here today after 24 hours adrift in the Gulf of Mexico.

The craft was owned and skippered by City Commissioner Bert E. Conely, who organized a fishing party that left Galveston yesterday.

A defective fuel gauge that showed the tank half-full when the boat gave out of gas forced the party to spend the night 19 miles out in the Gulf, where pilot Archie Donahue, Texas City, spotted the craft this morning.

Donahue notified the Galveston Coast Guard, which sped a picket boat to the rescue.

Conely's cruiser was well-stocked with food and water, and no treatment was required by any member of the party. The boat was undamaged since the Gulf has been unusually calm the past 24 hours, Conely said.

Aboard besides Conely were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Knappenberber, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Goyne, Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Bradley, G. W. Dickey and Aubrey Lloyd, all of Texas City.

Water Pumped From Flooded Residences

Three gasoline-operated water pumps were used to pump many thousands of gallons of water from under 13 homes in Tech Terrace Sunday and Monday.

W. R. (Bud) Nichols, partner in Conley-Lott-Nichols Co., took three pumps from stock of the heavy machinery company and he and W. D. Rogers, who lives in Tech Terrace, and two workers from the company, Willard Day and Jerry Shelby, began pumping water from underneath homes Sunday. Day and Shelby returned to the area Monday morning and pumped additional water from underneath homes into the lake, which had lowered until it was no longer at floor level of homes of the area. The Rogers home at 3215 Twenty-fifth was at the edge of the area covered and water lapped around the porch but did not go into the house.

Water was pumped Sunday from underneath homes of C. M. Trout, D. R. Hopkins, W. C. McCray, C. D. Haney, Jimmie Kerr, L. R. Weinke, J. G. Samson, Charles L. Cobb, from the pump house of the Carl Maxey home, and from the basement of the Frank Hudgins home being built. Monday morning, water was pumped from underneath the home of Dr. J. Ralph Grant and two other nearby homes. The water did not damage the interior of the Grant home but stood underneath it.

Jonathan Daniels Turns Down Offer Of Navy Secretary Post

WASHINGTON, May 9. (AP)—Friends of Jonathan Daniels said today he has declined the post of secretary of the Navy.

They said Daniels, editor of The Raleigh (N. C) News and Observer, reached that decision after a weekend conference with Secretary of Defense Johnson.

President Truman previously had said Daniels was under consideration to succeed John L. Sullivan, who resigned in a huff after Johnson ordered work halted on the Navy's projected super-carrier.

GOP Voters Claim Leaders, Not Policies Party's Main Weakness

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., May 9—In Republican circles throughout the country a constant debate has gone on since last November as to what is wrong with the Republican party—whether from the vote-getting point of view the chief weakness of the party is its leaders or its program.

While Republican strategists will continue to debate this question for the next three years, the American Institute of Public Opinion has taken the problem to the rank and file of the party's voters in a cross-section survey.

The Republican voters are more inclined to say that the main trouble is the leadership of the party—that the policies are all right but that the party lacks good "salesmen" to put the program across.

However, independent voters throughout the nation—a vitally important group of some 12,000,000 who have held the balance of power in recent elections—take the opposite point of view. They blame the G.O.P.'s troubles on overall policies rather than leadership.

Here is the way the issue was posed to all voters in the poll:

"There are two different points of view as to why the Republican party has not won the last five presidential elections. Which of these two views do you, yourself, think is more nearly right?

"One group holds that the Republican party is too conservative—that it needs a program concerned more directly with the welfare of the people, particularly those in the lower and middle income levels.

"The other group says that the policies of the Republican party are good—but the party needs better leaders to explain these policies to voters and win support for them."

The vote of Republicans follows:

Republican Voters
Better policies needed	27%
Better leaders needed	42
Both	12
No opinion	19

Persons who classify themselves as neither Republicans nor Democrats but as Independents take this view of the Republican party situation:

Independent Voters
Better policies needed	39%
Better leaders needed	25
Both	13
No opinion	23

Independent voters tipped the scales in favor of the Democrats in 1940 and 1944 by supporting Franklin D. Roosevelt and in 1948 by supporting Harry S. Truman.

A call to Republican party leaders in Congress to develop and promote a social welfare program of their own was sounded recently by the most influential Republican in Congress, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. He himself has helped to promote housing legislation and legislation for Federal aid to education.

Former Texas College Of Mines Coach Mack Saxon Death Victim

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Mack Saxon, 47, civilian assistant to the head of the Navy's aviation physical training program, died of a heart attack at his home yesterday in Arlington, Va., near here.

Saxon, born in Palestine, Tex., was an outstanding quarterback at the University of Texas in the early 1920's. He was head football coach for the Texas College of Mines, El Paso, from 1928 to 1940, when he joined the Navy.

Oil, Refining Firm To Increase Capital Expenditures In 1949

HOUSTON, May 9 (AP)—Although profits of the Humble Oil and Refining company will be lower in 1949 than they were last year, plans call for larger capital expenditures this year than 1948's record of $138,302,000, stockholders were told today. Mines W. Baker told the annual stockholders meeting that for the first quarter this year, Humble's crude oil production was down 12 per cent from the same period in 1948.

Refinery runs were down nine per cent to 227,300 barrels daily, and pipe line deliveries decreased 17 per cent to 630,000 barrels daily, he said.

The company's investment in off-shore drilling is now more than $25,000,000, Baker told the stockholders, and the company is spending about $15,000,000 a year in this development of oil pools.

Stockholders re-elected all directors, and at a directors' meeting which followed, all officers of the company were re-elected.

Texas Slaying Trial Delayed By Death Of Defendant's Son

QUITMAN, Tex., May 9 (AP)—The drowning of her three-year-old son resulted today in a continuance of the murder trial of Mrs. Hewel Rogers. The trial had been set for today.

District Judge Otis Dunagan, agreeing to a defense request for the continuance, said Mrs. Rogers was "not mentally or physically able to undergo trial or confer with her attorneys."

The Quitman woman is charged in the death of Mrs. Viola Gilbreath. The state charges Mrs. Rogers forced Mrs. Gilbreath to take strychnine at the point of a gun after the two women fought on a Mineola street Jan. 8. Mrs. Gilbreath died in a Mineola hospital.

Mrs. Rogers' son, Billy Rogers, 3, drowned in a small pond near the Rogers home last Tuesday.

On March 2 the trial was postponed because of the illness of the defendant.

Tourists Make Annual Spring Appearance In Guided Tours Of Capitol At Washington

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 9—It happens every spring, as if the birds were coming back.

Flocks of people are moving through Washington in this season of the year when the city is most beautiful.

And those lighting here now are luckier than the ones fluttering in late in the summer when Congress may be gone.

Every morning the plaza at the Capitol is jammed with the cars of senators, congressmen and sightseers.

The newcomers climb the high Capitol steps, although it would be easier to enter through the street level doors.

Pose For Pictures

They like climbing, it seems, and posing on the steps, wtih the Capitol behind them, whlie their friends snap their pictures.

And then they go on the grand tour of the place with the professional guides who sing-song the wonders of history.

They pop into the House or Senate galleries, listen a while, never understand much because they're always coming in in the middle of something and leaving before it's over, get up at a signal from the guide, file out quietly, look at the paintings or the statues in the halls.

Congress is in full swing now, whether it's in the House or Senate chambers, or in the nearby office buildings where congressional committees are holding hearings every day.

You'd like to see the Senate Foreign Relations committee holding hearings on the Atlantic pact? Walk right in and sit down. There are plenty of seats.

In the past week or so you could have seen for the asking Secretary of State Acheson talking on the pact, and former Undersecretary of State Lovett, and former Vice President Henry Wallace who wanted to be president.

When you've seen enough of Congress, walk a block to the two great buildings of the congressional library, or down the street to the majestic white home of the Supreme court.

The crowds spin around, trying to cram in recollections that will have to do them for a lifetime, if they don't see Washington again; the Lincoln and Jefferson memorials, the Washington monument, the White House.

This isn't the liveliest year the Capitol has seen. The doings in Congress have been slow, and newsmen are complaining that this is a dull Congress, for they don't look for big events.

But the trees are green, flowers are in bloom, girls are coming out in their summer dresses, and it's still too early to get fried by the Washington summer sun.

DALLAS, May 9 (AP)—A new era in postal service for several North Texas communities was inaugurated today.

A big red, white and blue bus, which will give the towns daily service, pulled out of the Dallas post office terminal at 9:40 a. m.—ten minutes behind schedule.

"We are moving into a new era," said A. C. Hahn, director of transportation of the Post Office department in Washington.

The bus serves Richardson, Plano, Allen, McKinney, Melissa, Anna, Van Alstyne, Howe, Sherman and Denison.

Three Children Die When Stove Explodes

MUSCATINE, Ia., May 9 (INS)—An exploding kerosene stove killed three Muscatine children today and burned their mother severely.

The three youngsters were showered with blazing oil by the blast in their home. They were Neil Ottis Haynes, jr., 2; Debra Diane, 4, and Dixie Kay, 1.

Their mother, Mrs. Neil Haynes, was taken to a hospital suffering from shock and burns. She was rescued from the burning house by firemen.

The bodies of the children were found near the stove in the charred ruins.

The husband and father was not at home at the time of the tragedy. He is a truck driver.

INDIANAPOLIS (U.P.)—Claude Freed thought himself fortunate to be one of the recipients of Street Commissioner Tony Maio's offer of free "fertile" silt taken from the city sewers. However, when the load of dirt arrived, Freed said, it contained bottles, bricks, boards, wire and other such stuff in addition to the silt.

Jaycees Complete Nominations For Offices, Annual Honor Award

Nominations for the printed ballot for next Monday's annual election of officers were completed Monday at the weekly Jaycee luncheon in the Hilton hotel.

Also nominated were six candidates for the annual "Jaycee of the Year" award.

Melvin Evans, state Jaycee president from Wichita Falls, was guest speaker at the luncheon. Evans commended the Lubbock club for its active participation in Jaycee affairs during the past year.

The state president outlined a tentative project for helping boost membership of the Boy Scouts of America. Under the proposed plan, local Jaycee units would actively urge boys who have attained the age of 12 years to join the Boy Scouts. He asked the Lubbock club to consider the project.

Evans also urged Lubbock Jaycees to attend the national convention June 7-11 in Colorado Springs. He said a recent trip to the site of the approaching convention indicated that preparations are being made for one of the finest national meetings in Junior Chamber of Commerce history.

Evans was introduced by L. D. Whiteley, who also reported briefly on a recent meeting of area Jaycee officers at Abilene. Whiteley told local members that two Lubbock men, Arvol Hays and Horace Gearhart, had been chosen as state committee chairmen. Hays will be chairman of the agriculture committee, while Gearhart will head the cleanup and fire prevention committee.

Nominations Are Made

Nominations for club offices for the coming year were made from the floor at today's meeting. Last week, two candidates for each office had been listed by the nominating committee. Additional nominations may be made from the floor next Monday, immediately prior to the election, but the printed ballot will include only the names of these candidates:

President — Harold Chapman, Barney Stagner and R. S. Wilkinson. Gordon Sanders also was nominated from the floor, but asked that his name be withdrawn.

First vice-president — Weldon Gibbs and Homer Hensley.

Second vice-president — Joe Baldridge, Clifton Haynie and Orville Stewart.

Secretary—Rufus Rush and Pat Wiman.

Treasurer—Preston Baumgardner and Harry Frank Woody.

"Jaycee of the Year"—Clifton Haynie, Gene Quest, Gordon Sanders, Asher Thompson, L. D. Whiteley and Pat Wiman. These nominations were made by popular ballot of all club members present.

Board of directors—Waggoner Carr, N. A. Cox, Arless Graham, Jimmy Gunn, Arvol Hays, J. C. Hughes, Bill Linn, Linley Millsap, Jimmy Morris, C. A. Rodgers, Gordon Sanders, Rolan Simpson, Asher Thompson, Bill Tinney, Allen Todd, A. C. White and Jimmie Williamson.

Announcement was made that they May 23 luncheon would be in the Cactus inn.

One out-of-town guest, James Renfro of Corpus Christi, and one new member, Jeff Lewis, were introduced.

Horace Gearhart presided at the luncheon, with invocation by Asher Thompson. Approximately 100 members and guests attended.

FRANCHOT TONE, CHEF—Franchot Tone whips up a confection at La Calavados restaurant, Paris, where once a week a well-known actor is invited to preside over the kitchen.

Cain Terrace Area In City Not Affected

In survey of Lubbock's rain and flood damage Saturday and Sunday, Cain Terrace, a residential district on the Levelland highway was erroneously included in areas where homes were flooded.

Through haste and interrupted communications, reporters gathering storm data were unable to check thoroughly and verify the reports.

Since then, however, the Avalanche-Journal has learned that not a home in Cain Terrace was flooded and at no time did the water get high enough to enter any home.

The Cain Terrace addition, approximately 350 yards by 450 yards, on the south side of the highway, has approximately 8 homes and none of them had water in them at any time during the flood.

Boy Scout Group Lays Plans For Annual Camp Post Outing

Troop 3 of the Lubbock Boy Scouts held a regular bi-monthly meeting last night in the annex of First Baptist church to make plans for their annual outing at Camp Post from May 29 through June 4.

Seventy-five persons were present at the meeting which was under the direction of S. C. McCarty, troop chairman, and a chicken pie supper was served to the group by the Bat patrol of the troop.

Roy West, camping chairman of the troop, discussed plans for the outing at Camp Post, and a report was given by Bates Witt, advancement chairman.

Members of the troop are financing the trip by selling house numbers which shine in the dark when illuminated by automobile headlights, and by selling tickets to a movie version of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Kidnapped." The movie plays at the State theater on May 17, 18 and 19.

Two physicians were present at last night's meeting to give physical examinations to those members of the troop planning to attend the Camp Post outing.

The Belgian Congo reports that all-metal aircraft have been found most suitable there because of the effect of tropical heat and moisture on wood and canvas.

POLITICAL FIGHT ROCKS VOTERS

Young Roosevelt Opens All-Out Campaign To Win Congress Seat

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP)—Manhattan's crowded west side was being treated to an old-fashioned rip-roaring political fight over Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr.'s bid for a place in Congress.

Street corner rallies, sound truck salvos, house-to-house canvasses, campaign buttons, placards by the thousands—all the trappings of a full-fledged campaign—are present, although the special election May 17 involves only the 20th congressional district seat.

Target Of Three Foes

Young Roosevelt, first of the late president's five children to seek elective office, seems by common consent of his three opponents to be their target.

The petitions filed for him bearing 25,630 signatures, probably would have won him this position aside from his name and background. Some observers think 25,000 votes will win the election. They realize, of course, that all who signed may not vote for Roosevelt or even vote at all.

There were 124,412 votes in the 20th district in the 1948 general election. But expesience in past special elections indicates that 60,000 ballots would be a high figure next week.

At any rate, the three other candidates have taken out after Roosevelt.

Sharp Thursts Made

Dr. Annette Rubinstein, the American Labor party nominee, refers to the 35-year-old lawyer as "junior" and describes him as of the DuPont family—"or should I say, late of DuPont?"

Roosevelt's wife, the former Ethel DuPont, now is in Reno to seek a divorce.

Municipal court Justice Benjamin Shalleck, who got the Democratic nomination after Tammany hall had denied it to Roosevelt, uses an Al Smith story to thrust at his opponent.

He quotes Smith as saying in the 1924 campaign, when Smith was running for governor:

"I am being opposed by a name, a glorious name in American history. However, the individual who bears that name has no record of achievememnt, no record of accomplishment. He is simply a name."

GOP Sees Chance

Shalleck then says: "Al Smith was opposed in that campaign by Teddy Roosevelt, jr. We have the same situation in this congressional district."

William H. McIntyre, the Republican choice, calls Roosevelt a "semi-Democrat," but adds he is going to let his opponents "keep you informed on why they think themselves disqualified."

The GOP is making a hard fight in the normally Democratic district, believing it has a good chance with the opposition vote thoroughly split. The special election is to fill a seat left vacant by the death of Sol Bloom, veteran Democratic congressman.

Roosevelt, who is running under the banners of the Liberal and Four Freedoms parties, has allowed his campaign manager to answer what the latter calls "gutter" attacks.

Slight Earthquake Tremor Is Recorded On Tech Seismograph

Added to the area's weather woes Saturday was a "slight earthquake."

Recordings of light tremors within less than 200 miles of Lubbock on the Texas Tech seismographs were reported Monday by Dr. D. T. Patton, professor of geology, who has charge of the instruments.

Dr. Patton said he could not determine definitely the direction of the center of the shock from Lubbock. Earth faults, however, are said by geologists to cross Panhandle along the Canadian river.

The instruments also recorded another shock, apparently of severe intensity, at 3:34 p. m. Sunday, Dr. Patton reported. Vibrations continued more than 30 minutes. He computed the center as being along the Pacific coast of southern South America.

Funds Raised To Aid Rebuilding Of Church Destroyed At Sundown

The Broadway Church of Christ, Lubbock, reported that a collection was taken up Sunday to rebuild the church at Sundown and to aid the family of Bill Scott, minister, who was killed in the tornado. Out of a total of $815, $725 was earmarked for the new church and $90 was to be given to the widow and surviving 7-months-old son.

Farm workers now can knock off at noon, in the Surrey district of England, to attend Saturday football matches.

Post Businessmen Plan Visit Here To Boost Rodeo, Stampede

Approximately 75 Post business men and Post Stampede and Rodeo boosters in two chartered busses, will arrive in Lubbock at about 3 p. m. Friday to present musical entertainment and invite residents to the Post Stampede and Rodeo, the nights of May 18, 19, 20 and 21. They will be here about 30 minutes.

With Joe Moss, Post attorney, acting as master of ceremonies, the Melody Maids and a string band will present a fast moving western musical program. The band will play for the five big rodeo dances, beginning May 17, on the Post Stampede pavilion.

BLOWN TO SAFETY

HARRINGTON, Me. (U.P.) — Young Carleton Frye blew a party of eight fishermen to safety when they became lost in a fog. When searching boats could find no trace of the fishing party, Frye took his trumpet and began blowing. The lost fishermen heard the trumpet and followed its sound to safety on the shore.

Although there is some debate on the origin of meteorites, they are probably remains of masses circulating about the sun.

Seven Hurt In Blast At Hamilton Theater

HAMILTON, May 9. (U.P.)—An explosion in a theater building yesterday injured seven persons and touched off a fire that raged for 2 hours and 20 minutes.

In the rubble of the Texan, theater owned by H. H. Stroud, investigators sought the cause of the blast. One theory was that escaping gas ignited in an insurance office, housed in the theater building.

Fire Marshal George Chambless said the definite cause, however, was undetermined.

Customer Hospitalized

Six of the injured were released after first aid treatment. The seventh, Milford Zschiesche, 22, was hospitalized for possible head injuries.

Damage was estimated at $100,000 to $150,000 in the block where the Texan was situated. A cafe, a boot shop and a tailor's shop were badly damaged by the blast and fire.

Chambless attributed the relatively low number of injuries to the fact that the Texan's Sunday afternoon matinee, scheduled to begin at 2:15 p. m., was delayed. The movie film was late in arriving.

Six of the seven injured were lined up at the Texan box office when the explosion occurred.

Texas Youth Seriously Hurt As Old Navy Smoke Bomb Explodes

RIVIERA, Tex., May 9 (AP)—A smoke bomb which Deputy Sheriff Maxcy Runnels said was found in a Navy practice field near here brought serious injury to Nard Williamson, 17.

When he fired at the bomb it exploded. His left cheek was ripped open.

Runnels said the youth placed the bomb on a post and was using it for rifle practice. Two other youths were not hurt.

The deputy said "300 to 400" unexploded bombs had been found on the field, which has been in disuse since the war.

Runnels said the bombs were "not ordinarily dangerous and hard to make explode." The bombs are about an inch wide and ten inches long.

Freak Blaze At Dallas Service Station 'Smothered' By Firemen

DALLAS, May 9. (AP)—A hose on a gasoline pump caught on an automobile bumper at a service station and caused all this trouble.

The car, driven by a station attendant, jerked the hose, the hose pulled the pump from its base and the pump pulled electric wires loose, causing sparks which set fire to the gasoline.

Firemen used a wet tarpaulin to put out the fire.

RECOVERY DEPENDENT ON 'IFS'

'Recession Timetables' Shape Up As Industry Plans Readjustment

By SAM DAWSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 9.—The recession timetable industry by industry, is beginning to take shape. In each industry spokesmen are beginning to talk of the dates, however tentative, when their business will be re-adjusted and ready to step out in the hoped-for recovery parade.

However, there are three big "ifs": the strike threats, the Russian enigma, and the final die of the rearmament and foreign aid programs.

With these possible boat-rockers in mind, here are the time schedules for various industries as their leaders have revealed them in the last few days:

Strike May Alter Picture

Steel: by July the pattern should become clear, but it may be the first quarter of 1950 before the readjustment is made.

Automobiles: the Ford strike may change the picture for the industry, by bringing on the labor decision quicker than expected. By June the industry should know how real its backlog order list is, how many cars it can hope to sell at present prices.

Oil: before July the industry should know how much gasoline it can sell this year—how much that will offset its losses in fuel oil sales—whether it can maintain or raise prices, or must cut them, all the way back to the well.

Metal Prices Decline

Coal: already out beating the bushes for customers, coal men in June will face their chief annual headache, the wage and welfare fight with John L. Lewis. By July they should have that out of the way, or know the worst at least.

Metals: the price battle should be over soon. Copper has come down five cents a pound, lead seven and a half cents. Buyers and sellers should reach a common understanding shortly.

Wool clothing: spokesmen now think the tug-of-war between the woolen mills and the men's suit makers may be settled by July. Perhaps more than any other, this industry—from the sheep to the suit—has been thrown out of balance by war shortages and demands, soaring prices and costs, and finally, consumer strikes.

Industries which have already gone through their recession ordeal and are waiting for the others to step into line include; aviation, cotton textiles, machine tools and leather. About ready, but with a few more readjustments to make, are the electrical equipment and paper and pulp industries. Retail trade, in general, has pared inventories and many now realize that mark-ups must be fitted into the pattern of what the customer will pay.

Ingrid's Hollywood Story Backgrounds Romantic Problem

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, May 9 — Now that the storm over Stromboli has calmed, we have time to analyze the romantic and career problems of Ingrid Bergman.

I have no lowdown on the Bergman-Rossellini-Lindstrom tangle. But I can supply some facts which may help you understand the situation.

Here are two points to remember about Ingrid Bergman: 1. She is a European; 2. She is extremely serious about her work as an actress.

Bergman was one of the quickest successes Hollywood has seen. Within a few years after she arrived here in 1936, she dethroned Greer Garson as the top actress in films.

Tide Turned

She became the highest-paid, most-sought female star. She won an academy award for "Gaslight" in 1944. Of the top 25 money-making films of all time, four are hers:

"Bells of St. Mary's," $8,000,000; "For Whom the Bell Tolls," $6,300,000, "Spellbound," $5,000,000; "Notorious," $4,800,000.

She had never known anything but the greatest of success.

In 1948, the tide turned. She made the mistake of miscasting herself in "Arch of Triumph."

It was a sordid, sorry mess, one of the costliest flops in film history.

Again Disappointed

She wrapped herself up in a project she had long dreamed of: playing Joan of Arc in a film epic.

Again she was disappointed. She went to New York for the opening, expecting to be hailed. But critics generally frowned on the film.

Her Swedish calm couldn't hide her bitterness.

Now enters Roberto Rossellini. Hollywood has formed a Rossellini cult, made up of worshipers of the Italian director's realism. Perhaps Bergman thought that his down-to-earth touch would air her career, where the glossy Hollywood product had lately failed.

And if there had been a romance between her and Rossellini, it wouldn't be the first time an actress had fallen in love with her director.

The rest of the story is up to husband, wife and friend.

'EAR-RY' — Five-year-old Frank Murray is all ears during his visit to the Denver, Colo., Zoo. The effect of a big wingspread was obtained by posing Frank directly in front of a long-eared zoo inhabitant.

Promotion Of Leroy Land Announced By Radio Station

Appointment of Leroy Land as commercial manager of radio station KCBD, effective Monday, was announced by Joe H. Bryant, general manager of the station.

Land replaced George T. Dale, who has resigned to accept another position.

Land joined KCBD in October, 1947, as a salesman and later was named promotion manager. He was former owner-manager of the Crystal theatre in Ralls and published a weekly newspaper in Pampa before entering the Air Corps in 1942, where he attained the rank of major.

Two-Man Force Keeps Law And Order In City Of Kerrville

KERRVILLE, May 9. (U.P.)—A two-man police force preserved law and order in Kerrville today following the resignation of the Chief of Police and his entire crew of patrolmen in the wake of a parking violation incident.

Pierce Hoggett, prominent Kerrville cattleman, was at liberty under bond with an abusive language charge against him pending in Justice of the Peace Virgil Storm's court.

The City council requested the resignation of Chief of Police W. M. Hobbs and his four patrolmen at a special session Friday night. The five men submitted their resignations Saturday morning, leaving this hill country town of 8,000 people without any law enforcement officers for three hours.

"Scuffle" Was Result

Grady Thompson, a former parking meter patrolman, was appointed new Chief of Police Saturday afternoon.

The departmental upheaval followed the arrest Thursday of Hoggett for illegal parking in front of a fire station, according to Patrolman Steven Forrest.

Forrest said he asked the cattleman to move his car. A "scuffle" resulted, the policeman said. Joining in the fray was M. D. Brown, a state liquor control board inspector for this area.

Forrest said he "subdued" Hoggett and took him to jail with the assistance of Brown. The charge was filed against Hoggett, who was later released under bond.

At its special meeting, the city council voted to request the transfer of inspector Brown to another district.

Chief Thompson said today that he hopes to fill the vacancies in the police department later this week.

Mexican Communists To Enter Candidates In July Elections

MEXICO CITY, May 9 (U.P.)—The Communist party today served notice it will enter some candidates in July's congressional elections, despite the fact the Mexican government refuses to recognize it as a political party.

Party Secretary Dionisio Encina said, however, that in most cases the party will throw its support to candidates of the government party of revolutionary institutions or Lombardo Toledano's Popular party.

The Communists will concentrate on defeat of the conservative National Action party's candidates.

Navy Bomber Makes Flight To Lisbon

LISBON, May 9 (U.P.)—The U. S. Navy's record-breaking patrol bomber Truculent Turtle arrived from the United States today on a flight commemorating the first Atlantic air crossing just 30 years ago.

Sixteen hours and 50 minutes out of Floyd Bennett field, New York, the twin-engine Lockheed Neptune landed at 10:30 a. m. (6:30 a. m. EDT).

Aboard the Turtle as a passenger was Admiral Albert G. Read, retired. Thirty years ago he flew the same route aboard the trail blazing NC-4, a four-engine seaplane. It took 19 days to go from the Rockaway naval air station to Lisbon.

The next month Captain John Alcock and Arthur Whitten Brown made the first non-stop Atlantic flight. Both were knighted for the flight. They left St. John's, Newfoundland, June 14, and landed at Clifden, Ireland, 16 hours and 28 minutes later.

The Truculent Turtle was piloted for today's flight by Cmdr. Thomas D. Davies. Chevy Chase, Md., who flew the big Navy bomber on its record non-stop hop of 11,236 miles from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, O., in the fall of 1946.

The Turtle flew 3,100 miles and used 2,641 gallons of gasoline.

U. S. Ambassador Lincoln McVeagh, his wife, members of the embassy staff and a group of Portuguese air and naval officers welcomed the Turtle.

HEARING TODAY

Our Street Naming

CITY officials have been unusually diligent in their efforts to publicize the public hearing scheduled to be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the council chamber of the City Hall on an ordinance proposing to change the name of many Lubbock streets.

If attendance at the hearing should not be large, it won't be because the great majority of residents don't know about it. A light attendance merely will be evidence that the absentees recognize the need for a systematic plan of street naming to simplify the locating of individual addresses and that they regard the changes proposed in the ordinance as being the most practical suggested.

No one pretends—least of all those who drafted it—that the proposed plan represents perfection. If adopted, "bugs" doubtless will be discovered from time to time which will require amendment. And, initially, some confusion will be inevitable while residents of the City are becoming familiarized with it.

But the statement can be made without qualification, based upon extended observations in many cities, that the plan would give Lubbock one of the simplest and most easily understandable street naming systems to be found in the United States.

Streets and avenues everywhere in the City, under the new plan, would follow either a numeral (First, Second, Third, etc.) or an alphabetical sequence, using either letters of the alphabet or names of cities, colleges or trees in alphabetical order. Anyone who can count, or knows the alphabet, quickly could learn exactly how to proceed to reach any street. Many old-timers can't do that now.

The proposed plan also offers two other highly important advantages. It would not require changes in the numbers of individual addresses. Street names might be changed. Numbers would not be. And the system would operate automatically, retaining the numeral or alphabetical sequence, to take care of the naming of new streets, regardless of how far the City might grow in any direction.

THE ONLY criticisms we have heard of the plan have been of the proposal to designate some of the short east-west thoroughfares as "½" streets. Thus, Edna street, lying between First and Second, would be named "1½ street." The designation would be unusual, we admit.

But, if the name of Edna should be changed to second street, the names of all streets south of it would have to be changed too. That would require name changes for 55 east-west numeral streets instead of seven as now proposed. Second would become Third; Third would become Fifth; Twenty-fifth would become Thirty-first, etc. And all address numbers on all those streets would have to be changed also. The "½" plan of naming seven streets is by far the simpler. It has been found to work well in many cities.

The Morning-Avalanche believes the proposed system should be adopted in general, as the most practical suggested, or likely to be devised.

We hope the adoption will take place without avoidable delays—that the City commission then will order promptly the new street signs it has promised to get after names are settled upon.

What To Tell The Home Folks—

Island Of Escape

By HUGH LAWRENCE NELSON
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: Four lonely women, selected through a matrimonial club, are candidates for bride of Henry Gough Harding, wealthy, middle-aged, eccentric master of Spoare Island. On arrival, Bea Cosgrove, one of the women, finds the place far from being a paradise. There is trouble with some fishermen who come to the island for water, which Harding gives them in rationed amounts. Finally, Agnes Firth, while tending sheep, discovers four fresh graves, which Harding says are those of workmen accidentally killed on the island. When Mabel Jones offers to turn on the valve each day to supply water to the fishermen, Harding says: "The water is mine to give as I see fit."

VI

TOWARD the end of the week when Bea was finishing up her afternoon cleaning of the main room, she noticed the door of the tower room ajar for the first time. She did not hesitate. She pushed the door open and started inside.

Henry Harding sat at a small desk writing in a large, leather-bound notebook. Bea had time to notice the neat white cot, the case of rifles, the single hard chair, before the man whirled to face her.

"Spying?" he demanded.

"You left the door open," Bea said flatly.

Harding got her outside by the simple process of walking toward her until she had to retreat. He managed a smile. "You startled me. For the time being I must ask you—and the others—to consider this tower room as exclusively my own."

"Certainly. But wouldn't it be simpler if you told us where we can and cannot go?"

"It's simpler than that," Harding said: "In the future I'll be more careful of locks."

* * *

THE week ended with Bea Cosgrove unable to find a safer hiding place for her automatic. She knew from the rate of sugar consumption it would be weeks before it would be found by chance, and the spot was accessible.

Mrs. Warren started her week of cooking with an elaborate well-cooked breakfast. Afterwards Bea went out on the veranda where Harding was tapping the barometer gently with a lead pencil.

"Storm on the way," he said. "Perhaps the rains. It is time. The water is lower than I like. Let's see. You haven't been around the island much, have you?"

"I've barely been out of the house."

"Before we start getting ready for the wind, we'll walk down to the fishermen's camp. That's a bad shore in a blow."

They followed the trail the fishermen had taken, west and north. Scarcely out of sight of the house, Harding stopped, turned aside to the four graves with their neat crosses.

He walked directly to the flowering plant on the grave bearing the name, A. Roble, and stuck his finger in the dirt at its roots.

Bea knew the plant, she had seen it receiving such loving care from the master of the Simpatico. She had lived in California long enough to know "roble" was the Spanish for oak. Harding stood up and she could see moist dirt clinging to his finger.

"Watered again," he said. "Tell me. Did you bring water to this plant?"

"I didn't even know where it was. You know I haven't been away from the house long enough to explore."

He started down the trail again. Bea felt some of the freshness had left the morning breeze.

THE well-defined path led across the flat rolling back of one hill, cut sharply downward past a curiously colored cliff with alternate patches of dark and vivid rock, toward the hidden beach. Bea could see the pipeline now. Its inch diameter left the shelter of its shallow ditch, swung downward toward the beach and the shallow, saucer-shaped, eroded basin of stone.

There was a ramshackle lean-to of driftwood with tatters of canvas flapping in the strengthening wind. There was a smell of fish, and a more penetrating odor of human habitation.

Bea turned away from the water when she heard Harding swearing viciously. She joined him at the natural basin which held the daily allotment of water for the fishermen.

"The devils!" Harding sputtered. "They were supposed to let me know when they left. They've let me waste days of water."

The strong fish odor was explained as she reached his side. Four dark brown fish about 15 inches long lay side by side, half-in and half out of the water. They were pegged through the laminae on the top of their heads to the scant sand. Pegged with wooden stakes with a crossbar lashed with fishline into the form of a crude cross.

Harding kicked the crosses into the pool. "The devils!" he repeated.

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

NO mere man will be able to explain this, but I am sure every woman knows exactly what I mean.

You will notice it in restaurants and hotels. You will see it in stores, in resorts or in your own or a friend's home when a party is going on.

BRANDEIS

Let us say there are several women present.

They are all well dressed, well-mannered, fair-looking.

One woman will stand out among the crowd.

She is not prettier than the rest.

She isn't wearing costlier clothes.

Her husband is no more prosperous than any of the others, or, if she is single, her folks aren't any particular somebodies.

But somehow she attracts attention.

Men flock around her. The other women take an instinctive dislike to her, but admit that this woman has—PERSONALITY.

What is personality?

It is one of the most indefinable characteristics in the human make-up.

But when it is there you sense it just as you sense Spring when it is in the air.

* * *

There is another word for personality, although you may call it one of personality's ingredients.

That word is POISE.

Poise, in the dictionary, is defined as balance. It is also defined as equilibrium, stability. A third definition is "the bearing of the body or head; carriage."

All these make up poise, and without poise there can be no personality, as the word is used in its best sense.

I have seen the same thing in men.

Such a man comes into a room, and suddenly that room has life, radiance, color.

Whatever it is that makes up personality, it is contagious. It glows and spreads and shines into the hearts and minds of everyone within its reach.

* * *

CAN personality be acquired?

I don't know, but I doubt it.

Personality, I think, comes with birth, just like the eyes, the nose, the ears.

Can inherent personality be developed?

Definitely.

Background, environment, example are the bases of personality.

Education, culture, security develop it.

Real personality is never phony. Sham and personality don't go together. Fear is a killer of personality. Character is its best nourishment.

Excuse me. I have to go downstairs.

Somebody is at the door, raising Cain.

He is scratching and yelping. And he is going to get what he is after, a succulent steak bone.

It's Sandy, our next door neighbor's terrier.

He, too, has personality.

AID BUYING CHANGED

Food Prices Affected

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The agile Secretary of Agriculture, Charles F. Brannan, has just negotiated a foreign food deal under which American taxpayers' own money will be used to keep high the prices they pay for food at home. Maintaining the present level of living costs appears to have become basic Administration policy.

As both President Truman and Mr. Brannan have revealed in recent public statements, they are concerned over the threats of a sharp drop in the price of hogs and of all pork products. They have proposed immediate legislation permitting them to apply the two-price Brannan program to these commodities.

TUCKER

But there is almost no chance of action on this measure or the general farm program proposed by Mr. Truman until late in the session, and the heavy run of hogs to market will begin within a few weeks. That movement, of course, will mean a further decline.

DARK: Facing this dark prospect — dark, that is, from the standpoint of Administration policy — Mr. Brannan proposed to Marshall Plan Administrator Paul Hoffman that he include pork among the commodities which he buys for foreign account.

Mr. Hoffman flatly refused, explaining that his legal and economic assignment, as set forth by Congress, was to ship only constructive and recovery stuff. He recalled that he had turned down a similar request from American manufacturers, when they sought to market surplus goods through his agency. He would not permit ECA to become a "dumping ground."

Mr. Brannan, however, had better luck when he recited his troubles to President Truman. The head man ordered Administrator Hoffman to fix up the deal. As a result, he has bought about 100,000 pounds of pork, beef and beef gravy for half a dozen foreign nations, with the bulk of it going to Britain and other members of the commonwealth.

DISRUPTION: President Truman's recent political decrees have caused a lifting of important eyebrows among his enemies and friends on Capitol Hill. His apparent disregard of amenities may mean eventual death or disruption of almost his whole legislative program.

When Republican Senators protested against the appointment of John Carson to the Federal Trade Commission as a G.O.P. member, declaring that Mr. Carson was more radical than Republican, Mr. Truman explained that he had named the former Secretary of the late Senator James O. Couzens as an "Independent." In that way the President obeyed the Congressional mandate that this agency should be a "non-partisan" or "bi-partisan body," with no more than three commissioners from one political organization.

Now Mr. Truman has shifted Philip Fleming, an admittedly capable man, from Federal Works to the chairmanship of the Maritime Commission with the same explanation. He also retains Nelson Lee Smith of New Hampshire on the Federal Power Commission as an "Independent."

CIRCLES: Together with his ruling that patronage will be denied to Congressmen who do not support his legislative proposals, a dictate which even National Chairman J. Howard McGrath does not approve, the President has lessened his influence among party members on and off Capitol Hill.

Recalling how Franklin D. Roosevelt helped to smash their state and local organizations by strengthening "Independents," laborites and liberals, the Democrats want no return to such political high-jinks.

They could understand F.D.R.'s partiality to guerilla movements, for both the Oyster Bay and Hyde Park branches of this family had a maverick steak. But such a break from tradition by Harry S. Truman, the product and protege of Tom Pendergast's machine, has them going around in circles and talking out of the sore side of their mouths.

SYMPOSIUM: "Uncle Joe" Stalin may send another nasty letter to Marshal Tito, the "Iron Curtain's" bad boy, when the Kremlin hears of the religious symposium the Yugoslavian Ambassador, Mr. Sava N. Kosanovic, recently staged at Washington.

Tito's diplomatic representative entertained a group of Methodist ministers in order to discuss with them their foreign missionary establishment. The clergymen came from all sections of the United States under sponsorship of the Methodist Commission on Ministerial Training and American University.

MISTAKE: While Ambassador Kosanovic made no promises on opening his country to missionaries, this gesture to the cause of religious freedom and tolerance has created a small sensation in diplomatic and religious circles here. Coming in the same week that Moscow indicated a willingness to end the Berlin blockade, it suggested that the famous curtain may be falling down.

Note: Amusing feature of the Kosanovic party was that he provided an excellent buffet supper and had equipped a bar with all varieties of diplomatic liquor. But a few whispered words explained his mistake, and he sent out for a dozen cases of gingerale.

* * *

BANKS: D.A.S. of Austin, S. C., asks if it was not Senator Vandenberg who first proposed closing of the banks in 1933, with Franklin D. Roosevelt opposing the move.

Answer: No. Mr. Vandenberg sponsored insurance of bank deposits in the face of administration opposition. When it became a great success, however, the Democrats took credit for it.

D.A.S. also wants to know about F.D.R.'s efforts to prepare for World War II, and and whether Congress "ever refused his requests for national defense appropriations.

Answer: President Roosevelt did build up the Navy, but there was little attempt to expand or modernize the army or air force. In fact, in the years leading up to Hitler's attack on Poland, Congress appropriated larger sums for defense than the Budget Bureau requested.

Congress did, however, enact extension of the draft law by only a single vote in the House. When the Hitler menace became threatening, the legislators cooperated fully with the White House in all things.

We can remember when a person could live comfortably on $1 a day; now it's scarcely enough to starve to death on.

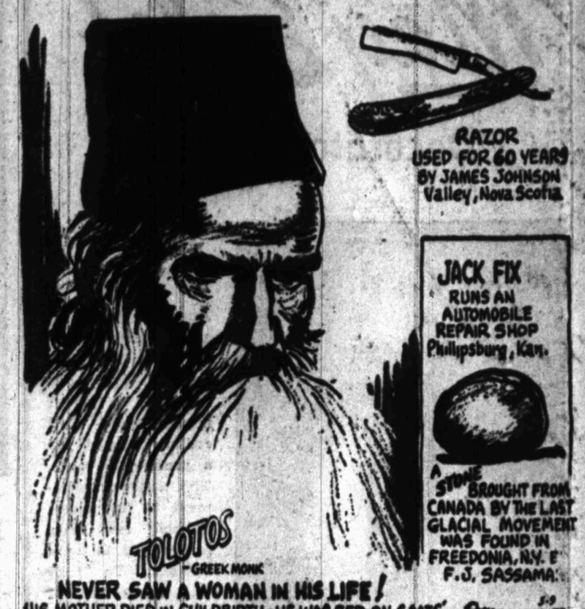

We confine to daytime hours our worrying about the world. We aren't going to lose any sleep sitting up with a sick world.

Tax collectors are everywhere. Everybody you buy something from is a tax collector.

"Look into the future!"—Catchline of a fortune-teller's ad. No, thanks. Looking into the present is all we can take just now.

"The world is about to finish 5,000 years of civilization," asserts a college professor. To us it seems more like vice versa.

Believe It Or Not -- By Robert Ripley

GEORGIAN DEFENDS VOTE

Solon Reasons Out Labor Tangle

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON—During debate in the House on labor legislation a Georgia congressman told the truth, in a devastating way, about the Taft-Hartley law and its very slick counterfeit by his fellow Georgian, John S. Wood, known as the Wood bill, which the House had the good sense to reject.

Rep. Henderson Lovelace Lanham explained to his colleagues that he voted against the Taft-Hartley bill two years ago. It was, he explained, an unpopular thing to do in his district, the Fourth district in western Georgia along the Alabama border, as only four of the 14 counties in his district have labor unions, and under the antique county unit system in Georgia "labor organizations in these four counties are not able to elect one representative."

STOKES

Both Bills Opposed

"So," he said, "I voted against the Taft-Hartley act, not for any political reasons, but because I was convinced that whatever its purpose, its effect would be just what it's effect has been, and that it is to hamper and discourage union organization, especially in the South."

He was, likewise, against the Wood bill this time "because it is too much like the Taft-Hartley bill."

In his diagnosis he put his finger on the motives of a number of southerners who voted previously for the Taft-Hartley act and voted this week in the coalition with Republicans for the Wood bill, which was to cripple the labor movement in the South. These southerners follow the wishes of the industrial and financial interests, some of them with roots in the East, which are so powerful under the rotten borough system in some parts of the South where so many voters are disfranchised by one means or another, including the mill workers.

Now that the House, by a narrow margin, has dismissed the Wood bill by sending it back to committee, it would seem wise for those who write another bill to consider Mr. Lanham's penetrating analysis. He is no radical—far from it, as will be seen from some other things that he told the House, but—he has a keen perception of what is back of the fight against a decent and fair labor law that will permit unions to survive.

"There are many factories and mills in my district," he said "where union organization is not needed; where there is such an enlightened attitude on the part of management and such cordial relations between management and labor that union organization is not necessary."

Attitude Shift Noted

Some workers in the South, he said, do not take to unions.

"But," he added, "There are conditions in the South that only union organization can remedy. I foresaw what has actually happened—that the enactment of the Taft-Hartley act would discourage union organization in the South.

"When I was at home a young man who worked in a textile mill came to my office. He was not an educated man. He said 'Mr. Lanham, I do not know anything about law, but I do know the effect the Taft-Hartley act had upon conditions in the mill in which I work. We knew it the next morning. There was a different attitude on the part of management.' And he said further, 'the restrictions on union security have reduced our union membership from 170 to 27."

Mr. Lanham said of the Taft-Hartley law that "there is no question but that in the South it has had the effect of restricting union organization and actually destroying unions that were in existence."

It might be well if some other members of Congress talked to workers about this "union-busting" effect of the law.

Union organization means better wages for the worker, and better wages to keep our economy an essential to keep our economy in balance, particularly in the South, where low standards put a drag on the whole national economy. Mr. Lanham and a number of other southerners who refused to join the Wood bill parade recognize that.

Boy Scout Camp To Open May 29

Camp Post, the summer camp for South Plains Boy Scouts, will open May 29 for the six-week summer session.

Dr. C. C. Schmidt, council camping chairman, announced Monday that the camp will have six one-week sessions. The first five weeks will be for Scout troops accompanied by their own adult leaders. while the final week, July 3-9, will be provisional camp for all Scouts whose leaders are unable to be with them.

New Waterfront Program

Highlighting this year's Camp Post activity will be the new Waterfront program. The council recently completed construction of a modern concrete swimming pool, which this summer will be used for the first time.

The program also will include instruction in metal works merit badge, pioneering, camping merit badge, markmanship, archery, craftstrip work, tin can craft, bowmaking, nature lore, leathercraft, and cooking without utensils. The Grand Coue program will be offered again this year.

Individual camp fee for the troop camps will be $11 per week. The fee for the provisional camp July 3-9 will be $12.50. All Scouts and Scout troops in the South Plains council are eligible to attend Camp Post. Reservations may be made by contacting the council headquarters office at 2109 Ave. X in Lubbock. Each weeklong camping period will begin at 4 p. m. Sunday and close at 1 p. m. the following Saturday.

Parents Are Invited

All parents and friends of Scouting have been invited by council officials to visit Camp Post during special Friday evening visiting periods during the summer sessions.

Raymond Lupfer, Field Scout executive, will be camp director. Ray L. Howard, Field Scout executive, will be Waterfront director, assisted by Lifeguard Bob Schmidt. Emmett Adair will be rifle range instructor, and Scout Phil Johnston again will be in charge of the camp trading post. Scouts Ludlow Adams, Jimmy Lamb and Jamie Gage will be cook's helpers, and Scout Essey Beckner will be camp engineer. Troop leaders will be assisted with their program by Jack Johnston, Frank Atkinson and Tom George, Field Scout executives.

Scout officials have said that all Scouts attending Camp Post will have excellent food during their stay there. All food will be the best obtainable, and each Scout is to get all the food he wants.

First shipments of "Gablonz" (Jablonec) glassware, made by skilled artisans (Sudeten Germans) expelled by Czechoslovakia after the war, recently were made to America, Switzerland and Italy from Austria, where these workers are now starting a new industry.

Former Football Player Denies Slaying New Mexico Waitress

LAS CRUCES, N. M., May 9 (AP) —Jerry Nuzum today asserted his innocence in the slaying of Ovida Coogler.

"I didn't kill Miss Coogler," he declared in an interview. "Lots of people are angry about the killing. The sheriff had to arrest someone . . . looks like he selected me to be the fall guy."

The body of the brunette 18-year-old waitress was found in a shallow grave southeast of Las Cruces 17 days after she disappeared March 31.

Authorities said the 23-year-old Nuzum, former New Mexico A&M and Pittsburgh Steelers football player, was the last person seen with her.

Nuzum expressed confidence that the inquiry into her death will clear him. He returned voluntarily from Littlefield, Tex., to submit to questioning after once establishing an alibi

He has been held without charge for several days.

HST May Have To Set Priority On Labor Bill Or Atlantic Pact

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 9.—President Truman may have to choose between early Senate action on the North Atlantic security treaty or on the administration's labor bill.

Legislative leaders were reported planning to ask the President at their weekly White House conference today which he wants first. If a decision is forthcoming, it may affect House timing on the controversial labor measure.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee told reporters he plans to ask Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, to schedule the treaty for the earliest possible Senate action.

Domestic Program Hanging

Lucas, just returning to his post after an illness, had indicated previously that he wanted to get some of President Truman's domestic program cleared before taking on what promises to be lengthy Senate debate over the treaty.

With Robert Patterson, former secretary of war, as the first witness, the foreign relations group resumed hearings today. On a speed-up basis. Connally said he will ask later witnesses to limit their oral testimony and file statements in an effort to conclude the hearings this week.

The treaty thus may be ready for Senate action within 10 days or two weeks.

The next major piece of legislation to be brought before the Senate — the administration's trade agreements program which already has been approved by the House — is expected to consume two weeks in debate. It may be called up by midweek.

Labor Bill Pondered

If the treaty then is placed before the Senate, arguments over that issue probably would carry over well into June, leaving a stack of appropriations bills which ordinarily require action before July 1.

Because of the stalemate which resulted when the House shelved all of its labor bills, some representatives have been arguing that the Senate ought to take a whack at this problem before the House again is called upon to act.

Administration leaders in the Senate say privately they don't know what to do about revising their version of the labor bill, which parallels the Lesinski measure which the House defeated.

They concede that the bill, voted out of the labor committee weeks ago wtihout consideration of Republican amendments, stands almost no chance of Senate passage.

Coalition Causes Worry

Some members of the committee think it might be better for the administration to offer some amendments of its own. They feel that by standing pat they will give added force to a coalition attempt by Republicans and some southern Democrats to preserve most of the present Taft-Hartley law.

If the President asks for early Senate action, there may be a decision on that point this week. If he wants the treaty acted upon first, senators may wait to see what the House labor committee brings out.

The Senate, meanwhile, had before it a District of Columbia sales tax bill expected to provoke lengthy debate.

REACTION DELAYED

LYNN, Mass. (AP) — Anthony Daigle, 55, toppled 10 feet into a boatyard ditch. He was unhurt. Recounting his mishap to a friend several hours later, Daigle fainted, striking his head on the floor. It took six stitches to close the wound.

Krug, Jester Plan To Attend Houston Conservation Dinner

HOUSTON, May 9 (AP)—The "Save the Soil and Save Texas" dinner here May 26 will have as guests Gov. Beauford Jester, State Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald, and all three members of the state railroad commission, it was announced today.

Jim Carroll, soil conservation director of the Houston Press, said the dignitaries had accepted invitations. U. S. Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug will also make his first Texas address at the dinner.

The event is co-sponsored by the Houston Press and the Houston Farm and Ranch club, which has some 1,000 members.

Removal Of HST, Connally From Society's Membership Urged

FORT WORTH, May 9 (AP)—A suggestion that President Truman and Sen. Tom Connally of Texas should be "kicked out" of the Sons of the American Revolution was made by a retired Army officer at the convention here today of the Texas society of the organization.

The retired Army colonel, Homer E. Carrico of Dallas, declared that "we fuss about President Truman and Senator Connally for betraying the rights we believe in, yet we hold them in high esteem as members when we ought to kick them out."

He added that if Senator Connally walked into the room, "we probably would invite him to speak."

Carrico said the SAR "has a nice collection of flags, but we won't get young people into it until we have an objective."

Another speaker declared that "dictator Stalin could do no worse" than Mr. Truman. He was E. E. Townes, Houston, who said the administration sought to turn congressmen into "rubber stamps" by withholding patronage if they do not vote for administration measures.

DEAD END STUFF

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Mrs. H. C. Briffin sees a lot of freak accidents because she lives at the end of a dead end street. One of the oddest came when a passenger car which had swerved into a ditch was hauled out by a wrecker and then had to tow the wrecker back to town when it broke down.

Consolidation Of Lawton Newspapers Is Announced

LAWTON, Okla., May 9. (AP)—Ned Shepler, publisher of the Lawton Constitution, announced today he had purchased the Lawton Morning Press.

Effective Saturday, both the Constitution, an afternoon newspaper, and the Press will be published in the Constitution's plant.

The Sunday editions of the two papers will be combined.

The sale of the Morning Press was made by Lawton Newspapers, Inc., of which J. L. Jennings was business manager. Bob Kniseley resigned recently as editor and publisher. Kniseley headed a group which bought control of the company from Carl J. Bergman in February, 1948.

Shepler said his purchase included the name, circulation and certain other assets of the Press, but not its Lawton plant.

The Press is in its 16th year as a morning paper in Lawton. The Constitution has been published for 48 years. Both will continue as members of the Associated Press.

Shepler said: "This merger has been brought about by constantly mounting costs of newspaper publication."

UTOPIA FOR MOTORISTS

DOVER, N. H. (AP)—Motorists who bought gasoline in Dover filling stations had almost an even chance of getting more motor fuel than they paid for. That was until the city sealer of weights and measures, Arthur J. Mayo, made a check-up. He discovered half of the gasoline pumps were measuring fuel incorrectly. Of the inaccurate pumps, 85 per cent were delivering king-size gallons.
