British Troops On Island Of Corfu

Greeks Hold Lines Along Border, May Repulse Italians

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP)—Germany has concentrated about 70 army divisions in southeastern Europe, a British military expert declared today.

ATHENS, Oct. 29 (AP)—British troops were reported today to have landed on the island of Corfu, in the Ionian sea just off the Greek-Albanian border, as crack Greek killed troops were hurled into action against attacking Italians along the border.

The reported British landing brought a surge of confidence that real aid was at hand.

It was said the British planned to establish an air base on Corfu from which British planes could help guard Greek cities from attack and, at the same time, be within striking distance for counter attacks against important Italian objectives, just across the Ionian sea.

Reports of the landing on Corfu followed unconfirmed accounts yesterday that British naval units beat back Italian warships approaching the island, and that British Bluejackets landed at another Greek-defended island nearby.

The killed troops rushed in to hold the Metakos defense line known as "Evson"—special units of mountaineers recruited from the district they are now defending.

Increasing confidence was expressed in government circles that the Greek army, rapidly being reinforced by reservists, would be able to hold out defensively and perhaps even have strength to launch a counter offensive into Albania against the Italians.

The reservists rallied to the colors under the old Balkan war slogan of Greek armies: "We will throw them into the sea."

Athens was blacked out overnight, and other Greek cities which had their first bombings yesterday worked feverishly to expand hospital facilities and air raid shelters.

The capital passed a quiet night, and no air raid alarms had been sounded up to 9 a. m. today (1 a. m. CST) since 3 p. m. yesterday.

Reports indicated more than 50 were killed and more than 100 injured in the first bombing of the Greek port of Patras.

In the capital itself, anti-aircraft guns on Mt. Lycabettus, 900 feet above the city, fired at raiders seen repeatedly over the ancient city once guarded by the walls of Themistocles. No bombs fell on Athens yesterday, but the city's airport was bombed, and other raiders dropped explosives on Piraeus, port city for Athens.

Italian bombers also were said to have attempted to damage the important Corinth canal, short-cut waterway across the narrow land link between northern Greece and the Peloponnese.

ROME, Oct. 29 (AP)—Italian troops driving in the direction of Florina in northern Greece, on a line toward Salonika, were reported in diplomatic circles to have reached a point ten miles beyond the Greek-Albanian frontier.

The diplomatic reports came as the Italian high command announced the invasion of Greece by Italian troops from Albania at dawn yesterday with the word that "the advance is continuing" and that strategic Greek bases were bombed.

ULTIMATUM REJECTED. ITALY ATTACKS GREEK BORDER—Italy timed a naval blow at Corfu (1) with a land invasion of Greece at the Albanian border (2), shortly after a state of war was declared. Anti-aircraft guns went into action at Athens (3). The British promised fulfillment of their pact with Greece and it was believed that British naval units were enroute from Malta (4) and Alexandria (5), the eastern Mediterranean bases. Yugoslav quarters said the Italian move on Greece violated a 1937 Yugoslav-Italian pact because Belgrade (6) had not been informed in advance of the move, but the nation said that it would remain neutral. London sources said that air raid precautions had been ordered throughout Bulgaria (7) for the first time since the war. What Turkey would do (8) was a question. Turkey has said that the invasion of Greece would be interpreted as a threat against the Dardanelles. At Florence, Italy (4), Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Premier Mussolini of Italy, gathered with their aides to discuss the war.

British Bag 11 Nazi Planes, Breaking Up Raids On Cities

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP)—Large British fighter squadrons bagged 11 Nazi fighters today, intercepting four raids on London and breaking up an attempt to attack Portsmouth, the government reported.

A large number of British fighter squadrons permitted only a few enemy planes to penetrate the London area, the official statement said, asserting that few casualties and little damage had been reported.

It said that two British planes were downed, but that the pilot of one was safe and that later information raised the number of German bombers destroyed overnight to two.

The Germans returned to the attack on Britain after a night in which Germany apparently was the heavier sufferer.

Anti-aircraft guns shot down one German daylight raider in Hyde Park, in the center of the city. This was during the fourth alarm which, like the others today, lasted less than an hour.

Numerous bombs fell in the London area in rapid succession of short-lived daylight alarms and several persons were known to have been killed.

German ships were the chief targets of "heavy and successful" night air raids on Germany's biggest ports, including Kiel, Wilhelmshaven, Bremen, Hamburg, Emden and Cuxhaven, the air ministry reported.

Besides, it said, 19 air bases in Germany and in Nazi-occupied territory, "numerous anti-aircraft batteries," shipping in the "invasion port" of Boulogne, oil plants, railroad and industrial centers were attacked.

One British bomber was admitted to have been lost.

WHEAT STOCKS IN TEXAS ARE HEAVY

AUSTIN, Oct. 29 (AP)—Texas interior mills, elevators and warehouses are bulging with a record 12,000,000 bushels of wheat stocks. The agricultural marketing service of the U. S. department of agriculture reported today the storage compared with 7,600,000 bushels on Oct. 1, 1939, and 7,500,000 bushels on Oct. 1, 1938, the previous high storage.

Current stocks combined with those on Texas farms aggregate 16,750,000 bushels, compared with 9,620,000 in similar positions on Oct. 1, 1939.

B. H. Mayer Is This County's 'First' Man

25-Year-Old Mechanic Is Father Of Three Young Children

"Kind of a sick feeling in the pit of my stomach," was a Big Spring man's description of his reaction when he was told that his was the first number drawn for the first in the greatest lottery in the United States since 1917.

Babe Houston Mayer, 25, married and the father of three children, has, with one man in every draft board district throughout the forty-eight states, the distinction of being one of the estimated 6,175 men who came out first in a $800 to 1 shot. This means that he heads the list of Howard county prospective draftees when the call for men to enter army training camps is sent out.

Mayer is a mechanic by trade and with his partner, J. B. Myrick, owns a garage at 1906 W. 3rd. He may be pushed over when the actual call is made because his youngest child was born just 12 days ago. Also dependent on him are his wife, a 4-year-old son and a 2-year-old daughter.

"It's a little rough to think about going right now, but if I have to go anyhow, I might as well go now as later," was Mayer's philosophical acceptance of the prospect of going into camp. He added, "I should be able to learn something about fighting if I have to and the way things look now we'll have to know how to take care of ourselves in a war."

He is one of four brothers registered in this first peacetime draft. Although born in Haskell county, he has lived most of his life in Big Spring.

When asked if he was ready and willing to take the year's training, he said emphatically he was ready if his country needed him and he thought it only right that every man should be willing to give Uncle Sam a hand. He figured he didn't know much about the needs of the United States but he was certainly anxious to help with what he had—his worth as a fighting man.

And this man, not one of the great statesmen nor one of the wealthy, but just a mechanic in a little town, rolled out from under a greasy car and let it be known that win, lose or draw and right or wrong, he was ready to lend a hand when the call was made, along with the rest of the sixteen million.

In addition to revising the practices of the five signatory companies, the department said the arbitration of disputes between exhibitors and distributors to be administered by the American Arbitration Association.

"In order to give this arbitration system a fair trial, the government agrees not to seek divorce and dissolution of production and distribution in the industry for a period of three years."

"During this period the signatory companies agree not to engage in any general program of expansion of theater holdings and to maintain the status quo so far as is practicable."

British Navy Is Helping Greece

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP)—A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, assured "our friends in Greece and America" today that the British navy would give Greece the greatest help possible in her war with Italy, and declared that help "has already begun."

Military circles at the same time said Britain was giving the beleaguered little nation "military assistance x x x in the widest sense of the term," although these same sources denied reports that the British had landed on the island of Crete.

Alexander said the British Mediterranean fleet's greatest difficulty "has been caused by the Italian navy's 'long periods of rest in harbors.'"

OVER 6,000 DUE TO BE CALLED ON ORDER 158

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—An estimated 6,175 men holding draft serial number 158 will be the first called up for military service in the nation's unprecedented peacetime conscription.

That number was the first drawn in today's historic draft lottery. Secretary of War Stimson drew it from a big glass bowl at 11:16 a. m. Central Standard Time, a minute or so after President Roosevelt said in an opening speech that the purpose of raising a draft army is "the defense of our freedom."

Standing on a platform in the large government auditorium which was the scene of the lottery, Mr. Roosevelt told an audience exceeding a seating capacity of 1,300 that "only the strong may continue to live in freedom and in peace."

In quick succession other numbers were drawn by high officials who, like Stimson, were blindfolded before their hands dipped into the glass bowl filled, at the start, with numbers put separately into cobalt blue capsules.

Order No. 2, drawn by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, was announced by Mr. Roosevelt as Serial Number 193.

Order No. 3, drawn by Attorney General Jackson was announced by Mr. Roosevelt as Serial Number 8,239.

Order No. 4, drawn by Secretary of the Navy Knox, was 6,030.

Order No. 5, drawn by Secretary of Commerce Jones, was 6,085.

Jones lifted the fifth capsule from the bowl at 12:31 a. m. (C.S.T.) five minutes after the first one was drawn. At this point President Roosevelt left the auditorium and the task of announcing the numbers fell to Major Edward S. Shattuck of the legal division of the selective service system.

The next five order numbers drawn were:

Order No. 6, was 4,779, drawn by Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) of the senate military committee.

Order No. 7, was 8,848 drawn, by Rep. Thomason (D-Tex) of the house military committee.

Order No. 8, was 6,262 drawn by Rep. Kluday (D-Tex) of the house military committee.

Order No. 9, was 8,130 drawn by Rep. Smith (D-Conn.).

Order No. 10, was 5,892, drawn by Col. Harry C. Runner.

Each of the serial numbers drawn which was less than 2,827 represented 6,175 men. There are 6,175 draft areas in the nation, none with a registration, officials said, of less than 2,827. The highest area was one in Maryland, with a registration of 1,000. All numbers above that were "blanks" although registrants may be assigned to them as draft hours find necessary.

The first number drawn today—158—was exactly 100 less than the first number drawn in the world war draft.

The parents of one Washington registrant who held No. 158 were present in the auditorium.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Bell. He is a city fireman. Their 2-year-old unmarried son, Robert, held the number, when it was read Mrs. Bell screamed.

"I'm both proud and saddened," she said later, after she had gone up to the platform and shaken hands with Clarence A. Aykara, the nation's draft director. "We said we never had expected that our son would be among the first called."

Bell, senior, also went up to the platform and joined with notables in drawing a number. He pulled the 48th number out of the bowl. It was 4,933.

Robert Bell, and all the other 6,174 holders of 158, will be in the army's first call for 30,000 men to report Nov. 18. Only those deferred because of dependents, essential employment or physical handicaps will not be put in uniform.

On a national average, the first 30,000 will be drawn from the men holding the first 25 numbers pulled out today.

President Roosevelt spoke before the lottery began, saying that America's young men "are ready, as all of our country must be, to play their part" in the nation's defense.

He spoke in a government auditorium beside a huge bowl full of draft numbers. The order of their drawing will determine the order of service of a possible 17,000,000 men in the nation's first peacetime conscription.

Mr. Roosevelt said "that in the present world the survival of liberty and justice is dependent on strength to defend against attack."

"We are mustering all our resources, manhood and industry and

DOWNTOWN STROLLER

After the Concert

Mrs. W. H. Summerlin was driving a cream colored job that is a spiffy affair. She had on a black ensemble with a black turban draped with a veil.

Glynn Jordan, recently from Fort Worth, was downtown and sat and talked for a while. One of the nicest of the new gals at Coston, she always is amusing company with her stock of experiences in West Texas.

Helen Duley and Edith Gay had been to hear Ann Jamison and were carried away with the singer. Their opinion was that she was the prettiest thing and had the best voice of anyone they had heard in a long while.

Mrs. Anne Gibson Houser and Mrs. Harry Staleup arrived downtown together. Mrs. Staleup was wearing a gold colored coat with hat to match over a dark dress and Mrs. Houser had on a blue crepe dress with white lace collar. Both looked extra nice.

Bob Schermerhorn and H. W. Smith and a bunch of men we didn't know were hanging a stag meeting in the cafe. Don't think they had been to the concert but they arrived with the crowd from the affair.

Bob Ward was circulating downtown. He is another of the new Costonites who seem to have found a jillion friends here already.

We ate our breakfast so we wouldn't have to get up early the next morning and so to bed.

Don't Be A "SQUINTER"

He neglects to put the right size of globe in his reading lamp and wonders why his eyes grow tired.

Lamp bulbs are cheap. A 100-watt bulb costs only 15 cents.

Electricity is cheap, too. A few pennies a night is what it costs the average family to have ALL the light it needs for easy seeing.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER
Nearly every store sells lamp bulbs. Phone for a supply or buy them the next time you go to the store.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used Pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combining with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gut. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distress, even when you take it after a full meal.

Urge Purchase Of Tickets To Goodwill Event

With the number of tickets reserved below par, the chamber of commerce Tuesday afternoon issued a frantic appeal to business and professional men to make reservations at once for the goodwill dinner scheduled at 7:30 p. m. today at the Midway school.

J. H. Green, chamber of commerce manager, said that at least 25 to 40 more reservations were needed urgently. He asked everyone who can possibly go to call the office as early as possible and speak for tickets to the affair.

"Big Spring men never have fallen down on this," said Green, "and Midway people are depending on us to have a good crowd out there this evening. They have taken the added responsibility of furnishing the program as well as the dinner, and it behooves us to meet them by doing more than our part."

"Ma, every time I've got a heavy date, do ya hafta cook cabbage?"

wealth to make our nation strong in defense," Mr. Roosevelt said after telling the audience of more than 1,500 that "this is a most solemn ceremony."

"For recent history proves all too clearly, I am sorry to say," the president continued, "that only the strong may continue to live in freedom and in peace."

"In the considered opinion of the congress of the United States," he said, "this selective service provides the most democratic as well as the most efficient means for the mustering of our man-power."

To the men who will be called for service under the draft, the president said: "You have the confidence, and the gratitude, and the love of your countrymen. We are all with you in the task which enlists the services of all Americans—the task of keeping the peace in this new world."

When the ceremonies are finished sometime after midnight each one of the 17,000,000 men who registered for compulsory military training October 16 will have been assigned his order of service.

Of the total, about 8,000,000, officials estimated, actually will go into uniform, eventually. The rest will be deferred for various reasons.

Audience Takes Ann Jamison To Its Heart, Decides She's Best Yet In Civic Music Series

Anne Jamison, a pretty young woman with a grand voice, did more to popularize Civic Music in Big Spring than any other artist who has preceded her when she appeared here in concert Monday evening to formally open the second season for music lovers.

None had anything but praise for the quality of her work, and she added fuel to a fire of admiration by her constant good humor and vivacious personality. She was—if Miss Jamison doesn't mind—a honey.

Admirers took advantage of her graciousness almost to the point of imposition, for she sang enough encores to make two concerts. Still, she was smiling at the last, and took on the added chore of leading the audience in Irving Berlin's "God Bless America."

Perhaps everyone in the audience suffered with her through the tortures of a flickering spotlight that virtually heckled her at times; but Miss Jamison took it in good nature, drawing prolonged applause when she got even with that light by singing, with appropriate gesticulations, "The Naggin' Woman."

As a young lyric soprano, she brought a voice sweet and clear, pure in tone, and the ability to use it as though it were a delicate instrument. The audience was conscious from the beginning that here was the best they had heard.

Besides arising from works of the masters and romantic songs, Miss Jamison endeavored herself with well-chosen substitutions, including "On Wings of Song," "Lass With the Delicate Air," and a little ditty by Marie Antoinette.

For encores, she sang Herbert's "Sweethearts," "Alice Blue Gown," "Hoisie Guest," "Villia," and "Daddy Boy," a favorite of her own since she sang it as an Irish lass of four and determined to make singing her career. An early age to make such a choice so undeniably wise.

Miss Jamison was expertly accompanied by Mr. Arthur Carr, a young American composer and artist at the piano. He created a perfect background for Miss Jamison's vocal artistry.—J.P.

Kiwanis Turn Into Carpenters, Build Jubilusca Booths

If you were handed your package by a couple of scratchy hands, marked by a throbbing left thumb, as you shopped today, then that salesman was a Kiwanian. This year's Jubilusca, to be held Wednesday and Thursday night on the parking lot immediately behind Crawford hotel, will consist of 11 different concessions,

Looking 'em Over

With Jack Douglas

Big Spring is due to find it pretty rough sledding up in the plains country Friday when the Steers carry out an attempted invasion against Plainview. Thus far in the season, Plainview has not lost a game and that is quite a record in that rough-and-ready circuit.

Cowboy Pat Murphy is figuring on letting this set-to pass as a breather before the Longhorns step back into the middle of the district 3-AA scramble, which, if you haven't been told, is being led by these same Bovines at the present reading. It was a battered herd that stumbled off Midland's field last Friday night, and the let-up from the conference strain should do them a lot of good, provided they are not too badly chewed up.

Sweetwater is still getting the nod in the Steer camp as being the hardest test of the three loop battles left. It seems to be the general opinion among the gridsters that, since they are leading now, every crew in the field will have a sharp axe ready for them. Even a weak Abilene crowd, stumbling along toward one of the cellar positions—maybe has shown evidence that it can knock the socks off opposition at times. San Angelo, the first team taken on by Big Spring after the return from Plainview, is smarting under a humiliating whipping by Lamson and is going to be mean-tempered with the enemy during the rest of the season. A team beaten by a top-heavy favorite is going to be able to soothe its hurt feelings, but a beat in a favorite is going to be after blood. In this case, we are of the opinion that it will be ex blood. As things are stacked up now, Big Spring is the strongest aggregation of gridiron material in the circuit and should finish the same way, but even the best team can be soundly whipped by an inspired one—witness Rice and Tulsa.

Dog, Wounded, Is Hero In Chasing Burglar Away

ATLANTA, Oct. 29 (AP)—The household of J. W. Jenkins gave Pal, plucky German police dog, a hero's acclaim today.

Returning home from school yesterday, Bill Jenkins, the dog's young master, and Pal whimpering and trying to crawl across the floor to meet him.

Two pistol bullets had torn through the dog's leg, one had ripped into his breast. A bridge table and a heavy chair were overturned. Two bullets had shattered several keys of a piano.

A dime bank and a new 32-caliber pistol were missing from the home, where Pal had been alone.

Neighbors told police they had seen a young negro run from the house.

Doctors at an animal hospital said Pal was doing "as well as could be expected."

Cornell Keeps Ranking In National Grid Poll

Mich., Irish Next In Place, Aggies Fifth

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—It still is Cornell, Notre Dame and Michigan, in that order, when the country's sports editors get down to appraising the top-flight college football teams.

For the second straight week of the Associated Press ranking poll, these three head the list—Cornell, apparently already "over the hump" enroute to its second straight all-winning season, and Notre Dame and Michigan, with their toughest assignments to come.

This Saturday all three should be safe. Cornell isn't likely to have much trouble with Columbia. Notre Dame probably will spend most of its Saturday afternoon trying to hold down the score against Army, and Michigan will rest for a week in preparation for Minnesota, Northwestern and Ohio State.

For the rest of the first eleven, actually, with Clemson and Georgetown tying for last place—this Saturday's schedule holds considerably more danger.

The A-1 attraction of the day will be played at Evanston, Ill., between Minnesota, ranked fourth, and Northwestern, eighth on the list. The fifth-place Texas Aggies will battle Arkansas, surprise conqueror of Mississippi last Saturday; Stanford will meet UCLA, beaten five straight by a total margin of 22 points; Tennessee, which was unimpressive against Florida, will have to do better to whip Louisiana State; Boston College, after two straight soft touches, will have a little tougher going against Manhattan; Clemson will have its hands full and possibly more with Tulane, and Georgetown will stack its record of 21 games without defeat against comebacking Syracuse.

The rankings (points based on 10-9-8-7, etc., basis, first place votes in parentheses):

1. Cornell (146.5)
2. Notre Dame (140.5)
3. Michigan (138)
4. Minnesota (134)
5. Texas A-M (129)
6. Stanford (128)
7. Tennessee (126)
8. Northwestern (121)
9. Boston College (120)
10. Clemson and Manhattan (119)

Second tier: 12. Nebraska, 42; 13. Washington, 35; 14. Navy, 23; tie for 15. Pennsylvania and Southern Methodist, 17 each; 17. Detroit, 11; tie for 18. Penn State and Duke, 10 each; tie for 20. Mississippi State and Santa Clara, 9 each.

Also near: Mississippi and Ohio State, 8 each; Fordham, 7; Auburn and Texas Tech, 6 each; Colorado and California, 3 each; Rice, Lafayette and North Carolina, 1 each.

In his five years as head mentor at S. M. U., Coach Bell holds five consecutive victories over Longhorn conference opponents.

Coach Bell warned his charges this week that last Saturday's exhibition which saw Rice Institute trounce the Longhorns, 13 to 0, did not mean the Texas team is not one of the vital factors in the current conference race. Coach Bell reminded that the Longhorns will be on the rebound this week.

Injured Mustang malnatas showed improvement over the past period offered the team last week. But Coach Bell and Charlie Trigg sent the squad through strenuous blocking and tackling assignments in preparation for the scramble with the Texas squad.

Dandy Dick Miller, one of the seat Mustang backs, got a baptism of fire this week when he played the role of Cowboy Jack Crain, Texas sensation, in an intra-squad meeting. Coaches clothed Miller in solid white uniform and sent him against the varsity candidates.

The Mustang traveling squad, approximately three full teams, will arrive in Austin the night before the Texas game. Definite losses to the Mustang traveling squad are End Roland Goss and Back Bill Thomas. E. L. Keeton has been filling in alternately with Bob Maddox at the vacant post.

Probable Pony starters in the backfield against Texas are Will Mullemweg, Bobby Brown, Johnnie Clement and Preston Johnston.

Cowboys Out For 9th Win In Row

Southwest Squads To Be In Trim

Some On Ailing List Are Recuperating And Will Be Ready

By The Associated Press

Southwest conference football squads will be nearer full strength this weekend than any time this season.

Few injuries were reported from last week's games and in several cases players who had been on the ailing list were ready to return to the line-ups.

Three conference games are scheduled by Baylor meeting Texas Christian at Fort Worth, A. & M. engaging Arkansas at College Station and Texas playing S.M.U. at Austin.

The other conference member, Rice, plays Texas A&I of the All-American conference.

T.C.U. juggled its lineup and was cheered with the prospects of passing Kyle Gillespie (returning to regular action. His injured knee was not bothering him anymore. Baylor had Tackle Rex Gandy out with a twisted ankle and Rice lost the services of Tackle Billy Heard this week. He received a sprained knee in the Texas game.

Other teams escaped injury. Southern Methodist did not play last week but still had several ailing squad members on the list from the Auburn game.

Locals Make Good At Tenn.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The hometown boys are doing all right with the Tennessee Volunteers.

In fact, seven of Major Bob Neyland's brightest stars—three linemen and four backs—are home-grown products who didn't have to leave home to have their talent recognized.

You may find one or more of them in the All-America lineup at the close of the season if they play the same sparkling brand of football which crushed Duke 13-0.

Here they are:

Robert (the ripper) Fox, a big blond kid who is making Tennessee fans forget about George Cato in the important tailback spot. Bob was the hero of the Duke conquest, passing to Sub-stitute End Al Hunt for the first touchdown, kicking the extra point and then scoring the second marker himself through the line.

He played for two years at the wingback position with little chance to show as a ball carrier.

And now he has his chance for football glory for Tennessee's tailback does most of the passing, kicking, and running.

Ed Phillips, Rebel, an up-lifted little fellow who spells Fox at the tailback spot and can run, pass and kick with the best of them. It was Johnny who broke loose in the Alabama game last year with a sensational 67-yard broken field run to spark the Tide.

He came through with 67- and 50-yard runs against Alabama again this year.

Bob Saffridge, one of the finest guards in the nation and a defensive wheel-hoss. Bob's admirers thought he would have beat out his teammate, Ed Molinski, for All-America honors last fall if he hadn't been injured in mid-season and forced to the sideline during the last half of the campaign.

Bob had knee appears to be coming along in good shape this year.

Bob Andridge, understudy to Fox last year, has been shifted to the wingback post on the starting lineup and is one of the most improved players on the squad.

He's fast, does the 100 in better than 16 seconds, and is the hardest blocker among the Vols.

ABILENE, Oct. 29—After a mid-season breathing spell, the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, undefeated in eight starts and only once beaten and once tied in their last twenty games, buckled down today to tackle the heaviest November schedule in years.

Five November games, three of them with ranking Catholic schools, Loyola of Los Angeles, Catholic Cardinals in Washington, and the University of San Francisco, begin Saturday with a tussle with the West Texas Buffaloes at Canyon. The Catholic lites for the Baptist Cowhands then follow in order.

The Cowboys hold a marked edge in the West Texas State series, with 12 wins in 14 meetings since 1921. Last Buffalo victory was in 1924, and Hardin-Simmons has annexed all 10 games played since.

A year ago, in the rain here, the Cowboys came from behind to snatch an 18 to 13 win, with 72 passes tossed and all five touchdowns coming by the aerial route.

L. B. Russell and co-captain Owen Goodnight, as last year, again will lead the Rancher offensive, sparking an air-minded attack that has the linemen leading the backfield in scoring.

As last year, H. C. Burrus, the high scoring end from Lubbock, is leading the scorers, with 18 points. He is chased by Russell with 12, and Murray (Room Town) Evans, Burk Burnett, reserve center, has 10, all accounted for with his kicking toe.

After a layoff, Coach Frank Kimbrough said today his starting combination will be the same as in the latest win over Texas Mines. Russell, Nig (Student Proxy) Outman and Dean Walsh, half-backs, and Moon Mullins, at full, make up the opening backfield, with Goodnight as fifth man, who plays quarter, full or wingback.

Burrus and D. A. Parker, ends, Truett Rattan and Long John Treadaway, tackles, co-captain Wilford Moore and Winston Tucker, guards, and Red Lewis, center, will start in the forward wall.

Falsch: "Why don't you mind that the coach is only indulging in a little psychology?"

Guard: "That's psychology? Why should he give me a hard time? Psychology is listed as a minor subject in the catalog, and I'm only a freshman!"

REPORT FINDING A TIME BOMB ON TROOP TRANSPORT

PANAMA, Panama, Oct. 29 (AP)—An official source aboard the U. S. Army transport Republic refused to confirm or deny today a sensational story that a deadly "time bomb" had been found aboard the ship shortly after she sailed from San Francisco with 3,000 troops and passengers.

According to the seaman's story, H. F. Dodd, the ship's master of arms, discovered in the after hold a box containing "a mechanical contraption" and enough nitroglycerine to blow the vessel "clear out of the water."

Dodd was said to have carried the box on deck, "praying all the way," and dumped it overboard.

The Republic was expected to sail from Cristobal for New York tonight after making the eastward passage through the canal.

Steer Roster Riddled With Siege Of Hurts

Steer Coach Pat Murphy is giving his charges a chance to lick their wounds after a grueling engagement at Midland last Friday night.

Ailing lists are well stocked with battered Longhorns, and a skeleton first-string might be used in the non-conference game with Plainview this weekend.

Lemuel Nations, Steer flankman, is nursing a shoulder injury received Friday evening and will not be very likely to carry Big Spring's colors against Plainview. Frank Barton, guardman, is taking it easy with a bruised hip bone and side, although he is out in uniform. Another member of the sick bay roster is Horace Bostick, slipping on a trick foot. Well scattered throughout is a long list of various and sundry sprains, bruises, aches and scratches.

Taken as a whole, the herd is looking rather riddled as far as physical condition is concerned, but the spirit is sky-high.

In view of the number of hurts on the lineup, Murphy is intending to make use of a good many of his substitutes in the starting crew against Plainview. Yesterday, he was making use of the reserves entirely, but it is very probable that this will not exactly be the case when game-time arrives.

While Minnesota has romped through Washington, Nebraska, Ohio State, and Iowa so far this season, they have not yet reached a peak in performance. Coach Bierman believes. The Gopher coach said today "there is still room for improvement," in pointing out his squad has been getting better from game to game.

"We're going to have to be better against Northwestern at Evanston Saturday night," Bierman said, "and whether we can get that added improvement this week remains to be seen."

Gophers' Peak Not Reached Says Coach

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 29 (AP)—Minnesota's football giants of the north are a healthy lot but not as healthy as they could be as far as gridiron ability is concerned.

That's exactly the way Coach Bernie Bierman wants it too, and that if anything will be the reason why Minnesota may push itself back to the top of the football powers of the nation again this fall.

While Minnesota has romped through Washington, Nebraska, Ohio State, and Iowa so far this season, they have not yet reached a peak in performance. Coach Bierman believes. The Gopher coach said today "there is still room for improvement," in pointing out his squad has been getting better from game to game.

SMU Basketeers Will Answer Call Monday

DALLAS, Oct. 29—Although King Football still commands the thoughts of Southern Methodist University athletes and students, Mustang basketeers will answer the call for the initial workout of the 1941 season next Monday.

Coach Forrest (Whitey) Bureau will begin drills with the most promising collection of lettermen, squaddies and sophomores since the 1937 campaign when S.M.U. took top laurels.

Virgil "Country" Wilkerson, senior center who made the all-conference team and was high scorer for the conference last season, carries a major portion of the Ponies' hopes for a successful campaign. Other returning lettermen are Johnny Scheck, Grover Keeton, Wilbur Keith, and Johnnie Clement.

Bryan Lloyd, spark of the freshman squad last year, is one sophomore who is given a good chance to break into the varsity lineup. Lloyd, an outstanding man who is expected to give the lettermen trouble include Troy Baccus, Karlene, R. T. Sparks, Telly, Kelly Simpson, Dallas, Clarence Leach, Chidress, Jimmy Tate, San Antonio, Fred Higginbotham, Dallas, Billy Waters, Dallas, Hugh Welch, junior college transfer from San Angelo, is another addition to the squad.

The Mustangs open their season against the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon with two games Dec. 6 and 7. The feature tilt of the pre-conference season will be an encounter with the Trojans of the University of Southern California at Dallas in mid-December. A home and home series with Oklahoma University has been arranged among the pre-money games.

HOUSTON, Oct. 29—If bitter experience teaches a lesson, and it usually does, Rice Institute's Owl should be ready for next Saturday night's gridiron engagement with the Texas A. and I. Javelinas.

The Owls didn't take very seriously their game with the Sam Houston Teachers last season. Sam Houston dealt out a 9 to 8 setback in one of the most humiliating defeats in the modern era of Rice athletics. Sam Houston richly deserved to win.

Now come the Javelinas, one of the best of the smaller college teams in Texas, and one that has already ended a victory streak for San Jose State college of California. San Jose hadn't lost a game since 1938. A. and I.'s only loss has been to Texas A. and M.'s national champions.

The Owls know that they will face one of the best fullbacks in the state in Francis (Bucks) Mattingly, the battering 200-pounder who rolled up many touchdowns. Further, the speed of Tuger Hall and Gilbert Steinke and J. B. Hilliard figures to give them trouble.

Head Coach Jess Neely is certain to remind his players often of the strength of the Javelinas.

The Owls will be playing their last out-of-conference game against the Javelinas, for, after Saturday night, it's Arkansas, Texas A. and M., T.C.U., Baylor and S.M.U.

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—They held a "Harland Cliff" day in St. Louis late this summer in honor of the Browns' third baseman, and presented him with a brand new rifle.

Cliff brought the new rifle home with him to Yakima, and decided to put it to the test.

Ninety minutes after the opening of the deer hunting season he bagged a 190-pound buck.

DALLAS, Oct. 29 (AP)—

With four unbeaten teams the noisy bellwethers, Texas colleges and universities have carved out a stunning record in football dueling with outsiders from 20 states.

Strung out behind the mighty Texas Aggies, winners of 16 straight and monotonously crunching along behind All-America John Kimbrough and an icy senior team, the Texans and their lone adopted Southwest conference member, Arkansas, have won 39 games, lost only 14 and tied two.

Figured in decimals, that is an amazing .736 per cent.

Unsuited records belong to the Texas Aggies and Hardin-Simmons. Southern Methodist and Texas Tech are unbeaten, but tied. Pitt Panthers drew with S. M. U., 7-7 while Tech and Oklahoma Aggies finished in a 6-6 standoff.

The Southwest conference has a brilliant record, one that probably can't be touched the nation over. It boasts 16 victories, three losses and one tie against outside competition. Included in the victors are UCLA, Indiana, Colorado, Mississippi, Louisiana State, Oklahoma and Tulsa.

Once beaten University of Texas, topped by Rice in the little game of out-throat that goes on inside the conference, has probably the nearest string of intersectional scalp, Colorado, Indiana and Oklahoma in its three jousts with foreigners.

The Aggies topped UCLA, (and Southern Methodist) Tulsa and Texas A. & I.

The minor colleges have a record of 23 victories, 11 losses and one tie.

Only a few more top intersectional games remain. Arkansas has dates with Fordham and Tulsa; Texas meets Florida and Texas Christian plays Detroit.

The Texas Aggies are rather openly dicker for another game against some "furriner" in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

Tech Engages Miami U. Fri.

LUBBOCK, Oct. 29 (SpI)—Coach Pete Cawthon of the undefeated Texas Tech Red Raiders will send his new-arrived crew against the University of Miami here Friday night bent upon avenging the 19-0 defeat handed his boys last year in the Orange Bowl. It may blossom into the greatest offensive game yet played in the Tech field because both teams are loaded with versatile power and are daring enough to use any kind of a play that would not be a touchdown.

The undefeated Red Raiders are on the march by virtue of having stopped Loyola of the coast, the University of Montana, the Marquette Hilltoppers and a strong Brigham Young university team in winning four games and one tie since the muddy Red Raiders have stacked up 98 to their opponents 55 points. E. J. McKnight, a senior end from Mexico, is leading the Tech scoring parade with three touchdowns and three conversions for 21 points. Big Charlie Dvoracek, ramming full-back from West, is second with three touchdowns for 18 points.

The Miami Hurricanes are not doing bad so far this season. The boys are going to win three and lost one to collect 35 against their opponents 27 points. Miami's attack will be featured by the running of Bill Steiner, junior half-back, who continues to be the high spot for the Hurricanes and Bill, with four touchdowns in four games, may be a big package of trouble for the Red Raiders.

Miami hasn't met a defense which has bothered it greatly this fall and has tallied at least three touchdowns in each game. Last week the Hurricanes stopped East university of Florida, 31 to 7.

Kaplan Decisions Chicago Welter

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29 (AP)—Young Mike Kaplan bounced into a leading role in the welterweight title chase with a clean-cut decision last night over Chicago's Milt Aro and the assertion that he's ready to fight champion Fritz Zivic "at any time."

Big Spring Keglers Tops At Amarillo

Teams playing under the colors of the Douglass hotel and Blats competed in the third annual Panhandle open bowling tournament at Amarillo over the weekend and are in the lead in several events.

Harry Hoeckendorf took high honors lead in the meet with 1933 in all events. His 611 took the top spot in singles with teammate Jake Douglass second and second in the entire field with 1741 in all events and 601 in singles.

In Class B, Ramsey and Leo Hays came in with 1605 to lead their division. Hall and Hoeckendorf are tops in A division with 1152. Loper and Douglass are second with 1109.

Highlights of the tourney so far include Hoeckendorf's 235-649 in doubles, Ramsey's 536 series without a game over 300, and Douglass' 187 game without a double and having one open frame a 4-7-10 split of which he picked up the 7-10 and left the 4 pin standing.

Editorial

With all the surprise and indignation of a cat with cream on its whiskers, the Berlin press has been griping about the latest British air raids over that capital, calling them "an outright terror act against the Berlin population." Such dastardly acts will be repaid a thousandfold, the Nazi press promises.

Well, if the Nazis didn't want their capital bombed, they shouldn't have started it. The RAF is simply returning the compliment, with interest.

Events of the past days indicate that Britain is beginning a new phase of aerial warfare over a wide front. From Norway to Northern Italy Britain-based warplanes gave enemy strongholds something to think about. This is doubly significant, for it shows Britain's air arm is growing in strength and it likewise indicates an increase in number, efficiency and determination of the RAF.

Since the aerial siege of Britain began Germany has discarded or withdrawn from bombing raids some of the types of planes she used in Poland, Norway and France. She is now using a fast light bomber of the hit and run type. Britain is about to put into service a fighting ship faster and deadlier than the Hurricane and Spitfire to counteract the new Nazi models.

Thus in the laboratory of war the science of aviation is finding out many new things about aerial warfare. In a sense this neutralizes Germany's vast superiority in numbers of planes, for many of her older ships are unfit for the new demands of service in red-hot combat. The Nazis may be forced to retool their huge aircraft industry, whereas Britain enjoys the advantage of having a spanking-new industry which sprang up in the last 18 months. This is an advantage that is already beginning to tell, and will tell more and more as the weeks pass.

It is not unlikely that Britain will beat Germany at her own game.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—The writer of defense activity is not without its chuckles. For example—A friend had gone to the airport the other night to see his sister-in-law off. The plane taxied down the runway, turned, rushed back up the field and skidded into the air.

My friend had started to leave when a hulking fellow stepped out of the shadows and stopped him.

"Where was that plane headed for?" he asked.

The friend explained but asked why the question. The big man said: "Oh I don't know. I just wondered. It was a good take-off. One of the best."

"Do you mean to tell me," asked my friend, "that you haven't anything better to do than stand around here and watch the planes take off and land?"

The man said: "I don't see anything wrong with that." And dropping into a conversational tone, he talked for minutes on the beauty of planes winging into the airport and off into the night. Finally he started to leave.

My friend said: "Well, goodnight Mr. Knudsen."

And it was, too—William S.—who may be defense production chief when he's keeping those long hours at headquarters in the Federal Reserve building, but is just another landing-take-off kibitzer at the airport when he's relaxing.

WRITERS MUST WRITE?

He came in to his typewriter. He may have been 30. He looked husky enough. We talked of selective service.

"Funny thing," he said. "I did my stretch in the navy—six years of it—and then stuck on in the naval reserve. When they called up the reserve the other day, I thought I'd better go down to headquarters and find out what it was all about."

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—A few weeks ago we congratulated Buddy DeSylva, via this space, for elevating Betty Allen to the role vacated by Ethel Merman in "Du Barry Was a Lady." Miss Allen is a young woman who had, until that moment, always served as an understudy, but had never starred. The Merman vacancy gave her a chance.

But it wasn't but a handful of days after this that she announced still a new addition to the cast. The tall, well-known figure of Gypsy Rose Lee, ex-burlesque strip-tease dancer, was brought to the company, and the Merman role was divided into two parts. Miss Allen was to remain and sing all but two of the songs, but Miss Lee was to play the role of "Du Barry" and speak the lines.

Buddy DeSylva knows his business, I suppose. He must: he's made a lot of money on Broadway, and you don't make money on Broadway unless your judgment is sound. Nevertheless, we can't see Miss Gypsy Rose Lee as an improvement in any way over Miss Allen. We think she is a swell person but mediocre as a singer and talker.

We were wondering how the two girls were making out, whether there was any hair-pulling back stage as a result of this shift, but one of our colleagues, who chatted with them both, says no.

"Of course," Betty told him, "I was disappointed that I couldn't keep the part as long as the show stayed on Broadway, but you couldn't expect Gypsy Rose to remain idle until they took the show on the road—that might be December or after. . . . So I don't have any hard feelings on that account. I'm glad to stay in the show. I'm young and can afford to wait. Now you take Gypsy. She's a natural for the role. She's more the Du Barry type than I am, and on the road she's known; her name will mean more at the box office."

So that's the new set-up, as of today, with "Du Barry Was a Lady," which has proved itself one of Broadway's happiest events in a long while. The show must be almost a year old now, and still coining money.

As for Betty Allen—she's 24, a brunette with flashing eyes and a husky voice, a native of San Diego, Calif., who has lived most of her life in New York.

She's been on the stage nine years, "often an understudy but never a lead," she grins. "Funny thing," she recalls, "the first job I ever had was understudying Ethel Merman in the 'Scandals,' and now I was hired to understudy her again."

Betty lives with her mother and likes to paint in her spare time.

She's never exhibited any of her work in a gallery, but some of her stuff is hanging in a little hamburger stand around the corner from where she lives.

She thinks that's funny.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—When the old-timers got over the shock of losing Tom Mix and talked about the things he'd done for the screen, they mentioned two in particular.

One was Tony.

The other was putting the "western formula" back where it had begun and where, with slight modern improvements, it has remained ever since.

Mix was the first cowboy star to make his horse as famous as himself. Tony, and old fellow now, is the ideological daddy of all the Silvers and Champs and Flashies who have galloped the screen since, carrying their masters to nick-of-time rescues. The billing used to be "Tom Mix and Tony" and the two were a team. Every cowboy since has had his Tony by another name, though none pranced so well at the box-office nor gained the fame that was Tony's in his heyday.

It's a long time the way movie time is reckoned, since Tom Mix took the throne as king of the westerns. It has been twenty years. In the preceding decade, there had been two kings—Broncho Billy Anderson and William S. Hart.

Broncho Billy made his name (and it was a name) when few if any other movie actors got billing) by headin' them off at Eagle Pass in wild and woolly fashion. He'd head 'em off and chase 'em back again and it was action all the way. The customers ate it up until a lean, keen-eyed huncher from the East introduced Drama to the Western.

Like Broncho Billy, who came from New York's east side, William S. Hart was a movie-made cowboy. But Hart had been on the stage and knew a thing or two. His strong silent men, with their two guns, worked their way through plots. The chase was not forgotten but there usually was a big dramatic stake. William S. Hart was an actor who incidentally was a cowboy.

Tom Mix then became the screen's highest paid actor by minimizing plot and reverting to the Broncho Billy formula of quick-galloping action. At one time he drew down $140,000 a year. At one time he drew down $140,000 a year. The old Fox company, it was said, sold its entire product by using Mix pictures, eight a year, as a bait to exhibitors. "Tom Mix and Tony" was a golden combination on the marquee.

You'll find the Broncho Billy-Tom Mix formula still in use, with slight variations, by most of the non-singing cowboys today. They may dish out a little more plot but they hide it with action and shooting, and they're just as girl-shy as Mix heroes used to be. (It's fairly suicidal for a cowboy star to kiss the heroine.)

But not even Tom Mix could buck the coming of sound to pictures. Along with other westerners, Tom and Tony took to the circus and the Number One hero of the talkies had to be a chap who could sing first and ride afterward. It turned out, as you know, to be Gene Autry, who plays in a modern west of airplanes, radio stations, and ranches which are as likely as not to be dudes.

Chapter IV

DREAM TRAVEL

The next day the trek across the stony desert of bitter water began, to continue day after day in forced marches over bearing heat by south. The caravan started at dawn, plodded steadily through icy mists or rains or biting winds, with occasional days of spring mildness. Sometimes the camels grazed the sparse desert growth; at other times not a weed nor a thorn could be found, and the animals ate a double portion of dried peas and barley, while the horses drank limited amounts of water carried in goat skins.

Nothing of moment happened. There was no brush with brigands or unusual struggle against the elements. Lynn lived like a person in a dream, finding an odd, passive pleasure in following the ever-receding horizon and in talking to Temu and Sherdock and Gersing during the morning and evening meals. She knew they would eventually pass into the mountain country where the Hoang-ho steamboats owned by white men plied the waters.

Leaving the bleakest part of the desert, they entered a rolling country of better grass where sheep replaced goats in the nomad flocks. They camped one night at a pleasant spot called Watch Tower Wells, at the edge of a wide plain where spring had touched the sod, bringing out the grass and flowers.

The next morning after breakfast the four travelers sat a while in the dining tent. Temu had interviewed a local nomad chieftain, as well as Chin Pak and Bula and the head camel-puller. Little Bambo brought in the kitten which jumped from its basket and came forward moving for attention like a child that has been left alone for a while. It arched its neck, half rising to meet Lynn's caressing hand.

"How it has grown," she remarked, lifting it to her lap as Temu watched her.

"That we see beings such as that kitten with our limited vision, is always evidence to me that there are other beings we do not see," he said.

Sherdock put away his long-stemmed pipe. "Some people," he declared, "do not even see the spirits of the earth."

"I don't," said Lynn. "I'm not even convinced there are such things."

"You will be some day. Let Temu take you into the mountains back of Delun."

Her eyes twinkling, she turned to the younger man. "Will you take me if I should happen to go to Delun some day of my own free will?"

"What's this," he bantered. "Are you still believing that you can escape?"

"Luck won't be with you always." "Oh, I don't know. You will love the mountains back of Delun. I am told there are gnomes and pixies in every glen."

"You are told? Haven't you seen them?"

"I lack the magic that opens a man's eyes," he answered gravely. "They tell me that if I would see the fairies, I must walk hand in hand with an incarnate goddess."

He might be mocking her, but the words and timbre of his voice stirred her pulses. She reached over and gave the kitten a stroke over two and then desisted.

"Its bones are too frail for me. I prefer a husky pet, something my hands won't crush."

He picked up one of Lynn's firm, white hands. "Something like this—strong and splendid." He tipped her chin with a gentle, nudging fist and spoke to the Duchess.

"Gersing, see this Tara chin with a threat of a dimple in it."

Lynn thought it was an odd mood for him, for ordinarily he was rather careful not to touch her. He jumped to his feet impatiently.

"Will we ever reach the end of this journey?" He strode out of the tent, the three of them following him with their eyes.

Lynn turned in time to see Sherdock smiling to himself. "We have done well," he said. "Never before has a caravan of this size crossed the desert with such speed."

"I've got to get away from them!" Lynn thought, in a sudden state of panic. "They're weaving a net around me."

She went out to Temu who was talking to Bula about a sick camel.

"May I go for a horseback ride?" she asked abruptly.

Dressed in Mongol trousers and a full-sleeved Mongol shirt of brightest blue beneath a fawnskin vest, and with a gay, red beret on her head, she made a pretty picture for Mongol eyes.

He looked at her sharply for a moment. "Sorry. You're in the wrong frame of mind. I don't want to be bothered with having to follow and bring you back. Walk about the camp if you need exercise."

Lynn laughed out in a sudden flare of anger. "Bandid! Stealer of women! You'll pay for this!"

He usually laughed at her rages. This time they were both on edge and he answered her in kind. "I'm paying now if you only knew."

Lynn turned again to Bula. "Lynn went straight up the hill back of the camp. It was the foot of a series of ridges that rose eventually to a divide and then sloped down to the Great Wall and the Yellow River."

"If only I could fly!" she cried aloud. She felt almost angry and desperate enough to flap her arms and try should she find a suitable cliff from which to take off.

"Why," she asked herself, "why should fledgling birds have powers that I do not?"

She went along the crest of the hill for a distance, always keeping in sight of the camp. She neither wanted Temu Darin following her nor thinking her so stupid as to try to escape on foot. Finally, she stood still to view a distant snow-capped mountain that rising mists revealed beyond the western plain.

It reminded her of her own Sierras at home; yet not, she noticed, with a feeling of longing and homesickness. That life seemed the dream now and this the reality. Her hand caressed the chimney box at her throat. Surely, something bigger than any of the visible powers around her was leading her—but where?

Presently on her ears fell a sound that she took at first for the beat of drums. Then it changed to a slightly dissonant roar that soon became more regular.

"A motor!" she cried. "An automobile!" An instant later she spied the car in the canyon beyond the ridge on which she stood.

She turned and looked back at the camp. The sound, she suspected, would not be heard from there. If only she could intercept the car as it tolled up the trackless gorge!

She began to run, waving her beret. The driver apparently saw her for he stopped the motor. She fairly coasted down a sandy slip to meet him. He had stepped out of the car, a tall man in khaki and a Stetson hat—a white man.

"I'm an American. Are you?" she demanded breathlessly.

He stared at her for a moment in unbelieving silence. "An American! And what on earth are you doing here?" His accent answered her question; he, too, was American.

"I was carried off by a band of natives," she explained. "They let me take a walk alone this morning and I saw you. Take me away quickly. Their camp is in the plain beyond this hill."

"Just a minute. I don't want to get in trouble with the local tent-dwellers. I must work this region all summer. What—"

"My captors aren't local people," she interrupted. "They're a caravan of heavily armed men from across the desert. If you would save me, we must go at once. They are ruthless; they will stop at nothing."

He turned decisively and opened the car door. "Jump in."

It was an ancient touring car with camp equipment in the tonneau. The engine started reluctantly. The driver backed to a spot where he could turn around and follow the road he had come.

Lynn's last glimpse of the place from which she had first seen her rescuer revealed the fact that she had not yet been followed. She settled down in her seat.

"This is miraculous," she said. "I've thought of all kinds of schemes for escaping. And, here without any scheming at all, you come along and rescue me."

Her companion gave her a quick, sidelong glance. "I am Frederick Wallace, a plant hunter. I have headquarters and a wife in Lan-fou on the Yellow River, where we will arrive some time before dark—if we don't break an axle," he stammered, as they bounded over an outcrop of rock in a narrow curve of the draw that soon widened eventually to the top of the divide.

His eyes, she noticed, had that look of innocence seen in the eyes of little babies or scholarly men. Such a characteristic seemed hardly compatible with his adventurous occupation. "Now tell me your story," he said.

"I hardly know how to begin," Lynn faltered. She found in herself a strange loyalty and a strong reluctance to say anything that would harm Sherdock and Temu Darin, as if, in truth, they were her people as they claimed to be.

"Too, the facts were so incredible! Perhaps not too incredible for Asia where anything can happen. But what was to be gained by the telling? If the story were believed, it would cause Temu more trouble than anybody else. The Prince, she surmised, would slip out of the responsibility in some way."

She determined to say as little as she could, and that nothing she might say would later trouble Temu. She looked back as the car jolted along—they would follow her, of course. But could camels and horses overtake a motor car?

American automobile factories have produced 79 million motor vehicles valued at $3 billion dollars in forty years.
