Two-Way Blows Sink 14 More Jap Ships

26 Planes Also Destroyed As Task Force Hits Palau

IN another disastrous day for the badly-mauled Japanese, a total of fourteen more ships have been sunk in the Pacific in a two-day strike by Nimitz and MacArthur forces.

Admiral Nimitz announced from his Pacific fleet headquarters at Pearl Harbor that ten Jap ships, one a destroyer, had been sunk and 26 planes destroyed in a two-day task force assault on Palau, gateway to the Philippines.

From his Southwest Pacific hearquarters, Gen. MacArthur announced the smashing of a five-ship Jap convoy, with probable sinking of four light vessels, in an aerial blow south of Truk.

TEN SHIPS SUNK IN ASSAULT ON PALAN

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, July 27. (AP)—Ten Japanese ships, one a destroyer, were sunk and 26 planes wiped out in a two-day American task force assault on Palau, gateway to the Philippines, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced tonight.

Confirming Tokyo radio reports Wednesday of the attack on that western Carolines naval base and adjacent islands, Nimitz said carrier planes routed Palau's airforce the first day, Monday. The raiders, who lost five planes but only one pilot, were not bothered by Nipponese planes Tuesday.

Blasted—Last April

Palau, less than 600 miles east of Mindanao and 900 miles southwest of invaded Guam, previously was blasted in a similar operation last April.

In addition to the destroyer, an oiler, a destroyer escort or minelayer and seven small cargo ships were sunk in the attacks which took in Yap and Ulithi islands.

General Dies In Normandy

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, one of the nation's most able and most fearless military leaders, has been killed on the Normandy front.

Enemy fire struck him down while he was with a leading element of the new Allied offensive in France, observing the work of the American ground Army which he organized and trained, the War department announced today.

Injured Once Before

McNair, commander of Army Ground forces until he received an unspecified but "important" overseas assignment a few weeks ago, had gone to the battlefront of this war twice. On his first visit, in March, 1943, to Tunisia, he was wounded by shell fragments. On his second visit he met death.

He was the highest ranking American officer to die in action in this war. Four other generals have been killed in battle, in plane crashes while traveling to or in war zones.

"Had he had the choice, he probably would have elected to die as he did, in the forefront of the attack, said General George C. Marshal, Army chief of staff.

Called Brains Of Army

The 61-year-old McNair was generally credited with bringing into being the vast and complex Army Ground force, that aggregation of millions of men, tens of thousands of guns, tanks and trucks and specialized weapons. Marshal had said he was "the brains of the Army."

His loss was mourned by those who had reason to know of his abilities. Undersecretary of War Patterson said:

"From the war's beginning, his soldierly skill had directed the development of our ground forces into a striking force of the greatest power. On the many trips of inspection which we undertook together in this country, I was impressed by his insight into every detail of training and by the emphasis which he placed on the battle preparations of the individual soldier as the basis of successful attack. He was quick to apply tactical lessons to the training ground."

Marshall declared "the American Army has sustained a great loss," and Gen. John J. Perishing, McNair's commander in the World war I American Expeditionary force, said "he was a great soldier and his untimely death will be a great loss to the Army and the nation."

Berlin Quietude Is Big Mystery

LONDON, Friday, July 28. (AP)—Berlin was cut off from the outside world last night under circumstances much the same as the night before announcement of the attempt to assassinate Adolf Hitler.

The Daily Mail in a dispatch from Stockholm said there was no immediate explanation of the shutdown in communications. During recent Mosquito bomber raids on the German capital there has been no such isolation of Berlin.

NAZIS PIN BLAME ON OBSCURE WAR VETS

LONDON, July 27. (AP) — The Germans named two comparatively obscure veterans of the Russian front today as central figures, along with the previously-identified Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, in the deep-laid conspiracy against Adolf Hitler which misfired a week ago.

They were Infantry General Friedrich Olbricht, 65, described as the leader, and Maj. Gen. Erich Hoepner, 57. Berlin said that Gen. Olbricht, the only one of the trio on active Army service last week, was executed in Berlin on the night of the assassination attempt last Thursday, and that Gen. Hoepner was awaiting sentence.

Beck No Longer Alive

Gen. Beck, 64, who was chief of the German general staff in 1938 described earlier as "no longer among the living," shot himself upon being found in a "sobbing fit" after the plot failed, Berlin said today.

Gen. Olbricht was identified as chief of a general Army department at German supreme headquarters and second in command of the German Army at home. He "held the ropes of the conspiracy" in his hands because he was in a position to give false orders, Berlin said.

This was the man, the German announcement said, who was referred to by Propaganda Minister Goebbels last night as a plotting general who had "distinguished

Preference List On Heavy Tires Given

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — Heavy truck and bus operations assigned top flight priority ratings are the only services likely to receive heavy duty tires until Oct. 1, a preference list prepared by the War Production board and the War Food administration disclosed tonight.

Developed as a result of the deep slash in the August quota of heavy tires for rationing to civilians, the list will be used by the Office of Price administration's newly-created emergency boards in deciding distribution of the tires available.

The August quota is 60,000 heavy duty tires, compared with 135,000 provided in July.

Five Classifications

The list includes all services requiring heavy tires, rated in the order of essentiality in classes, 1, 2B, 3, 4 and 5. In general, only classes 1 and 2 are expected to obtain tires, it was stated.

However, the list is constituted on a "flexible basis" and it was pointed out that exceptions may be made to provide tires to lower-ranking services.

Operators are classified in seven groups according to the nature of services performed. Each group is subdivided to designate ratings for (1) off-the-highway and over-the-road operations, (2) wholesale local commercial delivery and service operations, (3) retail local commercial delivery operations.

The list applies to tires sized 8.25x20 and up.

No. 1 Rating Class

Under the "government agencies" classification all services but one are given a No. 1 rating. These are fire fighting, policing, public health, garbage collection, sanitation and mail. Highway maintenance and repair is in class three but exceptions may be made for construction of access roads to military establishments and war industries.

Class 1 "public utility" ratings include city and suburban bus lines, intercity bus lines, city and intercity tank trucking, and telephone, telegraph and radio communication (except for retail service which is class 3). In 2A are intercity truck lines. Intercity and local carriers of household goods are in class 3.

Agricultural Lists

No class 1 ratings are assigned to "agricultural agencies," in which group will be included the applications of persons, firms or corporations engaged in farming, fairying, animal husbandry, fishery and forestry, excluding logging and timber operations.

In 2A under agricultural are: ice; perishable farm products (except at retail which is class 3); meat animals, work animals and bees; live poultry (except retail, 3); fresh fruits and vegetables (except retail, 3); animal and poultry feed (except retail, 3); dairy products (except ice cream and frozen desserts which are in class 4 and 5); perishable packing products (except retail, 3; bread and baking ingredients (except pastries, 4); and water and milk in tank trucks.

Among other services in class 4 and 5 under agriculture, and unlikely to receive tires, are: coffee, tea, alcoholic liquors, non-alcoholic beverages, confectioneries, manufactured tobacco, flowers and plants and ornamental shrubs.

North Texas To Call For New Demo Party

NOCONA, Tex., July 27. (AP)—A citizens committee headed by A. V. Grant, Saint Jo, Tex., has called a political rally in Montague Saturday to reorganize the Jefferson Democratic party.

The committee is expecting 5,000 North Texans and residents of southern Oklahoma to attend.

Local Democratic party leaders are calling the meeting a grass root revolt against the tactics and leadership developed at the Chicago party convention.

Several banners carrying the message "we want the Democratic party back" already have been unfurled on the streets here.

Grant said the rally will consider resolutions calling on every county in America to organize Jeffersonian Democrats.

Poles Lunge Out In Italy For 17 Miles

By GEORGE TUCKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, July 27. (AP)—Driving up the Adriatic coast of Italy against weakening German resistance, Polish troops have pushed 17 miles beyond the captured port of Ancona and seized Senigallia at the mouth of the Misa river only 22 miles from Pesaro, Allied headquarters announced tonight.

The German radio reported yesterday that the vengeful Poles had opened a full-scale offensive in the Adriatic sector as part of the general Allied push toward the enemy's "Gothic line" defenses, but there was no Allied confirmation until tonight's special announcement.

Outpost Of Gothic Line

Pesaro, next objective of the Poles, is believed to be an outpost of the "Gothic line," whose main fortifications are said to be anchored on Rimini, another 20 miles up the coast.

British, New Zealand and South African troops engaged in closing a steel clamp on Florence gained up to four miles at some points in bitter fighting, winning positions within six miles of the Arno river west of the historic city.

Battle-tried New Zealanders were meeting the brunt of fierce German counterattacks in their push directly north up highway No. 2 in the area of San Casciano, where they were within eight miles of the heart of Florence. In the past three days they had captured more than 100 Nazi parachute troopers, cream of the enemy's forces in Italy.

New Landings Feared

(A German broadcast declared, as on several previous occasions, that the Allies were preparing to make new seaborne landings near Genoa on the west coast of Italy, some 75 miles above the present battle line. It said that a large fleet of transports and landing craft and "several divisions" of troops had been massed for the attempt.)

In beating back one strong Nazi counterattack below Florence, South African troops destroyed two huge enemy "Tiger" tanks. British forces inflicted heavy casualties in driving four miles beyond Greve to a point about 10 miles from Florence. Other Eighth Army troops pushing up northwest of Poggibonsi were reported within six miles of Montelup, a communication center on the Arno 10 miles west of Florence.

Indications grew that American troops drawn up along the Arno from the west coast inland should be forced to take the ancient city of Pisa by storm and perhaps turn their artillery against the celebrated leaning tower, which the Nazis had converted into an observation post.

OPA Counters Order By WFA

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — Current point values on all rationed meats and dairy products will be continued until at least August 13, the Office of Price administration announced today.

The decision was in effect a postponement for two weeks of the War Food administration's recent directive ordering OPA to remove most beef steaks and roasts from rationing by August 1. The directive also "authorized" restoration of point values to pork loins and hams.

Disruption Feared

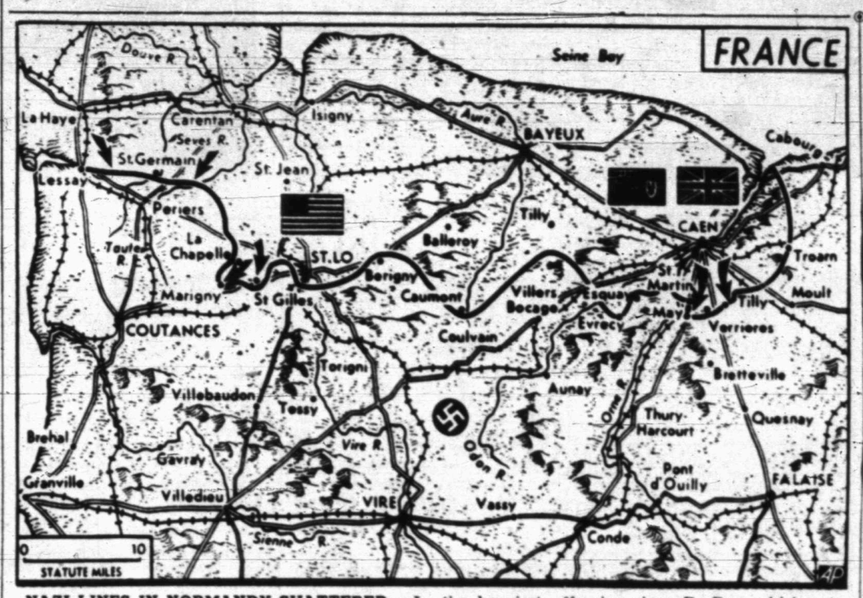

OPA protested that enforcement of the directive would disrupt cattle prices and flood the retail market with an excess of ration points.

The WFA order directed elimination of point values on commercial and utility grades of beef steaks and roasts, leaving only the two top grades—choice and good—under rationing. The supply of beef available to the public is made up mostly of the commercial and utility grades.

The controversy between the two agencies is now before Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson and War Mobilization Chief James F. Byrnes for settlement.

As a result of the dispute, the printing of August meat and processed food point charts for retail stores has been delayed.

Nazis In Chaotic Retreat Before Yanks In Normandy

NAZI LINES IN NORMANDY SHATTERED — In the heaviest offensive since D. Day which set flame to the entire American sector, U. S. tank columns yesterday shattered the Germans' western Normandy line, sending the Nazis into chaotic retreat, lunging within five miles of Coutances and threatening entrapment of seven battered Nazi divisions. British were not so successful on the eastern sector around Caen.

Centers Yielded Without Fight In Mighty U. S. Blow

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Friday, July 28.—Lightning U. S. tank columns shattered the Germans' western Normandy line yesterday in a sudden breakthrough that plunged the enemy into chaotic retreat and drove to within five miles of strategic Coutances, whose fall might trap the entire 84th corps of seven batered Nazi divisions.

Thundering lines of tanks, half-tracks and self-propelled artillery, revealed by supreme headquarters for the first time to be striking in divisional strength in the greatest armored blow since D-day, smashed all organized resistance, field commanders declared.

Nazis Give Up Lessay

Without a fight the enemy yielded the old seacoast strongpoint of Lessay, 12 miles north of Coutances, and Periers to the west, and fled south under a hail of bombs and shell fire to try to make a stand, possibly behind Coutances.

But the midnight communique disclosed that besides the column driving head-on toward Coutances from the east a second column fanned out four miles southwest of fallen Canisy in what may be an outflanking threat to that next stop on the American drive deeper into France.

Field dispatches said one armored finger had stabbed to Cerisy La Salle, seven miles southwest of Canisy and 7½ miles southeast of Coutances.

Several Columns Advance

The column heading straight down the road toward the city had enveloped Camprond, north of the highway and less than five miles from Coutances.

With a third column smashing the road 6½ miles south of St. Lo, and with two more columns crashing through the enemy's lines east of St. Lo, a front line broadcast declared jubilantly:

"Today the Americans have broken out of the beachhead. Today we are on our way into France proper."

This was the break-out, a break-through ten miles deep, the payoff of tremendous and painstaking building up of strength on the beachhead.

In three days with gathering speed, the offensive has turned the battle of Cherbourg peninsula into the fight for Normandy with no sign of where the enemy may next make a stand.

Reds Seize Six Centers In Disastrous Day For Nazis

By W. W. HERSCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Friday, July 28 — Russian troops, inflicting the war's most disastrous series of defeats on the Germans, yesterday plunged to within 30 miles of Warsaw, captured the great city of Lwow and five other enemy bastions, and crossed the San river in a wide sweep toward Germany itself.

Lwow, Bailystok, and Stanislawow, ancient Polish fortresses, fell to the Soviet tide pouring westward through broken German armies, along with 1,635 other cities, towns and villages. This was the greatest one-day bag yet announced by Moscow during the gigantic Soviety summer offensive.

In the north, Daugavpils and Rezekne in Latvia and Siauliai, strategic rail junction in Lithuania, also were seized, and the capture of Siauliai plugged the last main enemy escape route out of the Baltic states.

Routed German armies nearly everywhere appeared to be falling back in precipitate flight, and military men here now believe the Germans may retire to the Oder river in eastern Germany itself. They based this belief on the almost two-miles-an-hour pace of the Russians, and the lack of any sign that the Germans would attempt to hold on the Vistula river in Poland.

Berlin itself said the Vistula defenses had been pierced southeast of Warsaw, and that water barrier is the last natural defense line short of the Oder.

Lunging For Silesia

German Silesia is only 140 miles west of the Vistula, where the Germans said the Russians had crossed, and farther south other Soviet units were reported officially by Moscow to have crossed the San river on a 50-mile front and raced 17 miles beyond to a point only 128 miles from Silesia.

The capture of Garwolin by Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's First White Russian Army troops put the Soviets within 30 miles southeast of Warsaw, and the Russian communique also said that other Red Army shock troops had fought their way into Siedice, large rail city only 50 miles east of Warsaw.

The crash of Soviet artillery could be heard in the Polish capital which the Germans took in the first month of the war begun Sept. 1, 1939. By capturing Gar-

Compress Here Announces Heavy Expansion Program

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

Plans for a long range $500,000 expansion program in Lubbock by Texas Compress and Warehouse company were disclosed in the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission Thursday afternoon.

The plans, which may require several years in the development, were related by A. Dudley Repp, superintendent of the company. Arch S. Underwood, the company president, is out of the city.

1,000-Bale Daily Capacity

The program, he revealed, involves the installation of compressing machinery to be moved to Lubbock from Pecos. Hopes are that this will be ready for operation in time for the new cotton crop, he said. It will have a capacity of approximately 1,000 bales of cotton per day when the labor is available, which is rare under present conditions, Repp added.

Plans for the building program were revealed when Repp and Harry Roberts, the project engineer, appeared before the commission to seek a modification of building ordinances governing the area or a warehouse which may be enclosed under a single roof.

The new plant, they related, is planned for construction in the Santa Fe Railroad's industrial area which lies in Southeast Lubbock. The first building planned by Lubbock Compress and Warehouse company, they reported, is a frame and metal structure with a concrete floor measuring 200 by 200 feet on the east side of Avenue E at Twenty-third street, chiefly for housing of compressing machinery and a large boiler room enclosed in brick.

Present Regulations

Present city regulations, they continued, limit the size of a warehouse equipped with a sprinkler fire protection system to 24,000 square feet. The contemplated machinery building will occupy 40,000 square feet. Future building in the project of 75,000 square feet area are planned. They asked that the ordinance be amended to permit warehouse construction up to 80,000 square feet in area, contending that such structures have been proved by experiences in other cities to be satisfactory from

Texas Electors Claimed Freed

HOUSTON, July 27 (AP)—Former State Senator Roy Sanderford, a leader of the regular Texas Democrats, asserted tonight that the Democratic national convention, by seating the state's pro-Roosevelt delegation, freed the electors named by the regularly constituted state convention to vote for someone other than the nominees named at Chicago.

In an address prepared for delivery over three radio stations, Sanderford declared that the Chicago convention, which allocated the pro-Roosevelt group one-half of the state's representation at the national conclave, denied Texas "the right to select its delegates."

Not Wrongfully Selected

"The credentials committee did not find that the (regular) delegates were wrongfully selected but they did find that they were not controlled and dominated and because they could not dominate them, they denied the sovereign state of Texas its constitutional rights," Sanderford stated.

"By doing so they ran counter to the resolution of (regular) state convention which instructed its electors to vote for a Democrat other than the nominees of the convention in the event the delegates were denied seats in the convention.

"Thus, we see that the national convention and the rump delegates have brought about a condition that freed the electors and authorized them to vote for someone other than the nominee of the Chicago convention.

LONGER HOURS NIPPED

JULY 27. (AP)—Wales H. Madden, chairman of the regional War Labor board, said today the board has sent a telegram to John N. Nixon, vice president and general manager of the Continental Motors corporation plant at Garland, directing the company to refrain from putting into effect Monday an increase in employees' working hours. A hearing was set for Aug. 4.

BYRNES TO RESIGN

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 27. (AP) —The Columbia Record said today that James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, would quit his job as "assistant president" at the end of the year and enter private law practice.

Cottonseed Support Price Set At $55

DALLAS, July 27. (AP) — Minimum support prices of $55 a ton for 100-grade cottonseed in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico and $56 a ton in other producing states were announced today by L. J. Cappleman, regional director of the War Food administration distribution office here.

Cappleman said the prices are F. O. B. shipping points and reflect existing Office of Price administration ceilings for cottonseed products.

The program will operate through an open offer by the Commodity Credit corporation to cottonseed crushing mills to support the market for cottonseed products through July 31, 1945, he added.

Davidson Takes Over At Sheppard Field

WICHITA FALLS, July 27. (AP) —Col. Joseph H. Davidson, veteran army air forces officer, today assumed command of Sheppard field, succeeding Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney, who has been named commanding officer of the Army Air forces western technical training command with headquarters in Denver, Colo.

General Chaney has been acting commander of the Denver headquarters for several weeks.

Colonel Davidson has been commanding officer of the 32nd flying training wing at Perrin field. Entering the Army in World war 1, he transferred from the coast artillery to the air corps in 1918 and has served since in that branch of the service.

FUGITIVE "HONORED"

DENVER, July 27. (AP)—Randel Throneberry, 27-year-old fugitive sought for trial in connection with the torture murder of a Colorado sheepherder last August, achieved the doubly honor today of being classified by the FBI as the "most dangerous" criminal at large in the United States.

Bombers Batter Nazis At Front

LONDON, Friday, July 28. (AP)—American fighter bombers plastered enemy frontline troops, tanks, guns and strongpoints and canopied U. S. troops from enemy fighter planes yesterday in supporting the biggest break-through yet made on the western front while from Italy 500 American heavies bombed the Manfred Weiss works in Budapest, largest industrial plant in Hungary.

British and Canadians in Normandy also had strong support of Typhoons, Spitfires and Mustangs of the RAF.

Weather Interferes

Murky yeather stopped the medium bombers from the west and heavy operations were limited to 250 Liberator bombers smashing a German air force supply center and communications at the Belgian cities of Brussels and Gent.

At midnight the German radio reported "nuisance raiders" over the border territory of East Prussia while the Nazi-controlled Budapest radio said Budapest was undergoing a "nuisance raid" and that planes were over Serge, Maros and Kolozs. Earlier the Belgrade radio said enemy bombers were over Montenegro.

The Mediterranean squadrons, bearing the heaviest load of the day, had to fight through a surprisingly strong force of German planes which engaged them all over the attack route.

On the western front it was strictly a fighter bomber show. Up to late evening more than 750

Bomb Punctuates Shouts Of 'Yankees No' As Blood Of Latin Demonstrators Boils

By CHARLES L. GUPTILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

BUENOS AIRES, July 27. — A harmless noise bomb exploded in front of the newspaper La Nacion building tonight during an otherwise orderly demonstration in favor of the government's foreign policy by several thousand persons who first assembled in front of the United States embassy.

No one was hurt by the explosion although concussion shattered a shop window. At the time the main demonstration was moving toward the foreign ministry, several blocks distant.

The demonstration, sponsored by numerous organizations, came 24 hours after a radio address in which Foreign Minister Gen. Orlando Peluffo, outlining the country's foreign policy, asserted that Argentina was resolved to continue her present course, a course officially criticized by the United States as pro-Axis.

Carrying many banners, the crowd first assembled in front of the U. S. embassy where, as a precaution, women employes had been sent home early. The crowd, however, was orderly. From the embassy it paraded through the principal shopping street to the foreign ministry.

The crowd shouted nationalist slogans such as "Argentines yes, Yankees no," "sovereignty or death," and "Peluffo yes, Hull (pronounced hool) no."

In its wake the parade left thousands of leaflets containing many phrases from yesterday's address by Peluffo replying to the U. S. State department's charge that Argentine had "deserted" the cause of the United Nations.

At the foreign ministry President Gen. Edelmiro Farrell, accompanied by other members of the government, appeared on a balcony and acknowledged the cheers. He termed the demonstration a "formidable manifestation of what our country is" and asked the paraders to return to their homes as "new proof of your lofty conduct and calm."

He voiced Argentina's determination to continue on the road she had chosen and said "we hate nobody in the whole world but we insist on our right to live as our traditions bid us live."

Most of the crowd dispersed after his talk but several hundred returned to the Calle Florida and marched around the block where the U. S. embassy is located, shouting "patria si, colonia no" (nation yes, colony no.)

Stimson Says Six Divisions Of Nazis Diverted Into Italy

WASHINGTON, July 27. (U.P.) — Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said today that Allied successes in Italy have forced the Germans to divert six fresh divisions to that front from other theaters where the enemy is hard-pressed for combat manpower.

Recently returned from a tour of the European theater, Stimson told a news conference that the diversion of German troops to Italy started after the Allied drive on Rome.

Adolf To Clamp Down

Stimson said that Adolf Hitler, having ordered a blood purge of rebellious German generals, would clamp his iron rule tighter than ever on the German people and that the Allies still have a difficult job to do.

"The fact that a group of German generals dislike Hitler and that some of them rebelled against him" Stimson said, "is all grist for our mill, but the German general staff and the Junkers maid are no less antipathetic to us than Hitler.

"Having made his blood urge, Hitler is drafting all the resources and lives of his dominated people for a last stand. It will require a powerful Allied effort to overcome that last stand of desperation."

Beneficial To Russia

Stimson indicated that the Allied achievements in Italy, with the resultant necessity imposed on Germany to rush new units there, had been especially beneficial to Russia.

"One unit opposing American forces in Italy," Stimson said, "was formed in Bavaria and equipped with special winter clothing for Russia when suddenly in June it was dispatched to Italy to reinforce decimated divisions there.

"Another German division was forming in Poland and intended for the Russian front, but just before the opening of the Soviet offensive it was sent to Italy."

Tough In Normandy

Stimson said that while the Germans apparently had elected to make a decisive fight at the base of the Cherbourg peninsula in Normandy, where the stiffest sort of combat is in prospect, Russian armies in the east are carving up German armies, enveloping German strongpoints, threatening German forces in the Baltic and pressing the Nazis back so fast in Poland that the enemy is having extreme difficulty in reforming his broken ranks.

He said the speed of the Russian advance, which at one point has proceeded more than 300 miles, was a tribute to the supply and organization ability of the Soviet forces.

Survivors are his wife, two sons, Cecil of Slaton and Claude of San Antonio and one daughter, Mrs. Harry Wagner of Slaton.

Pallbearers will be G. B. Guinn, Jim Cherry, Herbert Gaither, L. B. Pinkston, E. A. Gentry, Lee Jones and Barney Wilson.

Burial will be in Slaton Englewood cemetery under direction of Williams Funeral home.

Port At Cherbourg Is Left In Ruins

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—The mystery of the limited Allied offensive in Normandy got its first real illumination today when Secretary of War Stimson disclosed that the port of Cherbourg, captured a month ago, was so completely wrecked by the enemy that it still is all but useless to the Allies.

In a discussion of beachhead operations at a news conference, the secretary, just returned from an inspection of the Normandy front, let it be known that virtually all men and supplies for the invasion forces still have to be landed on the D-day beaches.

Supply Troops Praised

It was while he was praising the supply troops under Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee that Stimson revealed the condition of the port through which Allied leaders had expected to pour masses of men and supplies for the big smash on the German armies in northern France.

"Most of the time," the secretary said, "they have been landing on the same open beaches they originally took, while the port of Cherbourg is being made ready for its full occupation."

In view of the staggering requirements in equipment and supply before a major offensive can be launched, the delay in getting this one major port in the beachhead area into operation would be enough to explain the apparently slow progress in Normandy.

Terrain Is Difficult

Stimson added another reason in a description of the difficulty of the terrain, which he said had made a strong impression on him.

Not only is the area cut up into small fields, each surrounded by tall hedges or stone fences which are themselves difficult obstructions but each hedge is paralleled by deep ditches which constitute a readymade trench system like that used in the first World war.

Thus, he said, the Germans had handed to them elaborate defensive positions and tank blocks, made more effective by their flooding of low areas.

Post-War Baloon On Aviation Is Punctured

DALLAS, July 27. (U.P.) — The colorful balloon of post-war aviation being blown up by the promotional elements in the industry is due to be punctured, David L. Behncke of Chicago, president of the Air Lines Pilots association, said today.

Berncke, who has been head of the pilots' group since 1931 and who is here to negotiate a contract between Braniff airlines and the association, admitted that there would be aerial expansion after the war, but that talk of bulky air passenger and freight traffic was misleading. He said rail and highway lines still would get their share.

The veteran flyer also debunked the picture of "an airplane on every roof" after the war and said that he did not believe more than a few thousand of the combat airmen would remain in the field when peace comes.

Nazi Talk Of Using Ten-Ton Robots Said Sheer Propaganda

ADVANCE COMMAND POST, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 27. (AP)—An Allied commentator said today that German talk of using ten-ton explosive rockets against England, in the manner of the robot bombs, may not be sheer propaganda talk.

He pointed to attacks by RAF Lancasters on possible V-2 (rocket) sites with 12,000-pound "quake-makers."

A new rocket is reported from certain unauthenticated sources inside France to weigh about 90 tons at launching. Its size is said to diminish as fuel is expended in flight through the stratosphere and the ten-ton warhead is designed as the part of this monster weapon to reach its destination.

The commentator said V-2 might be highly inaccurate or might fizzle out in flight, but that there should be no wishful thinking.

Condemned Man Has Crime Record Here

HUNTSVILLE, July 27. (AP) — When Clay Whittle, 36, goes to the electric chair after midnight July 30 for the fatal stabbing of a fellow inmate at the Eastham prison farm, he will become the first person to be given the death penalty from Houston county, and possibly the first Texas prison convict sentenced to the chair for killing another inmate.

Convicted in 1940 for robberies with firearms in Ector, Lubbock, Midland and Winkler counties, Whittle at the time of the slaying was serving a total of 106 years in prison.

WHITTLE ONE OF TWO WHO ROBBED LUBBOCK MAN

Clay Whittle and Jimmie Pierson, each with Oklahoma records, "blew into this section in early 1940."

On Jan. 10, they kidnaped and robbed Jack O. Stone, then South Plains executive for the Boy Scouts of America, it was charged, forced him to drive them to Tahoka and relieved him of his overcoat, hat, gloves and money.

Whittle was arrested at Plainview by Bill Shook, a policeman of Plainview, Pierson north of Plainview by then Dep. Sheriff Grady Harrist of Lubbock, records show, further revealing that both men, described in accounts of the time as "hardened," were given 20 years in the Texas penitentiary.

District Attorney Burton S. Burks elected to try them on robbery by assault, the second count of the kidnap-robbery indictment.

Prowler Being Sought After Woman Slain

SWEENY, July 27. (U.P.)—Aroused citizens of this small Brazoria county town assisted officers today in search for the prowler whose attack on a 30-year-old woman Tuesday night resulted in her death.

A lone negro suspect in the case was being held in the county jail at Angleton. No charges had been filed and no concrete evidence uncovered.

Victim of a shotgun blast, fired by her neighbor and intended for her attacker, was Mrs. Jack Andrew Felton, mother of two children. Her screams aroused a neighbor man, a Mr. Durbin, who fired his shotgun in the darkness at a figure he detected leaving the Felton house by a window. It was Mrs. Felton, apparently in a desperate attempt to escape the attacker. She was struck by the shotgun blast in the chest and abdomen and died within a few minutes.

It is estimated that some engines in use on the Canadian railways build up a mileage of 16,000 miles in 30 days.

Swimming in the Gulf out some distance from the beach, the brothers, Eugene A. and Wordell Smith, III, were caught by a strong undercurrent. When they tried to swim back, the undercurrent was too strong. Colombo swam out and brought both boys back safely to the beach.

WLB Orders Press Association To Set Up Union Maintenance

NEW YORK, July 27. (U.P.) — The United Press today received a directive order from the National War Labor board daily newspaper printing and publishing commission at Chicago instructing the news service to institute maintenance of union membership among its editorial employes in the United States.

The order followed a hearing before the commission in Chicago in which the United Press unsuccessfully defended its opposition "to any and all forms of enforced union membership for its editorial employees."

The U. P. has 14 days in which to petition the National War Labor board for a review.

Sought By Guild

The maintenance of membership order had been sought by the American Newspaper Guild (CIO), which represents United Press editorial employees in collective bargaining.

Under terms of the directive, the United Press is ordered to incorporate the maintenance of membership provision in a signed agreement.

The directive order contains the standard fifteen day "escape" provision in that it states "all employees who, fifteen days after the date of directive order, are members of the union in good standing in accordance with the constitution and by-laws and all employees who become members after the date, shall, as a condition of employment, maintain their membership in the union in good standing for the duration of the collective agreement in which this provision is incorporated, or until further order of the board.

Advice To Employes

An explanatory statement accompanying the order authorizes the employer or the union to advise the employees as follows:

"1. If you are a member of the union in good standing, you will be required as a condition of employment to maintain your good standing in the union for the duration of the contract, unless, before August 10, 1944, you notify the union in writing that you desire to withdraw from membership.

"2. If you join or reaffiliate with the union after August 10, 1944, you will be required as a condition of employment to maintain your good standing in the union for the duration of the contract.

"3. If you are not now a member in good standing, this order does not require that you join the union, but you are free to make application to join.

One Member Dissents

"4. If you have any question as to wether you are now a member of the union, or wish to be informed as to whether the union regards you as a member, inquire at the union office or of the departmental steward or other appropriate union official."

Attached to the directive was a dissenting opinion written by Frank Ahlgren, editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, who was the industry member on the commission in this case. Joining in the majority report were F. S. Deibler, public member and vice-chairman of the commission, and Sam Eubanks, labor member and executive vice-president of the American Newspaper Guild.

Hillsboro Labor Fuss Brought Before WLB

DALLAS, July 27. (AP) — The Hillsboro Cotton mills of Hillsboro, Tex., and the Textile Workers of America (CIO) were cited today to appear before the eighth Regional War Labor board at 2 p. m. Aug. 2 to show cause why they have not placed into effect grievance machinery to take care of differences that arose June 16 in a work stoppage, Clifford W. Potter, disputes director, announced today.

Two hundred and thirty employes were involved. They returned to work June 19, Potter said.

July 18 a dispute was certified to the War labor board with demands for establishment of grievance committee and grievance procedure for handling certain grievances now existing, he added.

June 16 when the work stoppage occurred, the United States conciliation service attempted to assist the parties and to establish grievance machinery, Potter said.

British Ace Cites Record Simply As Task To Be Done

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE, France, July 23. (Delayed)—Wing Commander James E. (Johnny) Johnson, wearing an American shirt and RAF trousers, sat in a trailer caravan today and explained with great simplicity why he is the Allied ace of aces with a bag of 35 enemy planes destroyed in combat.

"It's just because I have been on it longer, I think," he said. After all, I've been flying for four years, minus one six-month break."

Johnson, a compact, brown-eyed, pleasant man, but not at all distinguished looking, had just come from a horseback ride. The horse was sweating, and Johnson carefully unhaltered and unbridled it, then sat down to discuss, not himself, but the war in general.

A wing commander at 27, he is the equivalent of an American lieutenant colonel.

An Englishman, he leads an outfit that is practically all Canadian. He is a sort of unconscious symbol of Allied unity, having served with or in command of Poles, Czechs, Australians and Canadians.

"They are all pretty much a standard species," he said. "Young, keen shots, and physically fit."

Johnson looks at the war as simply a business. He has no maximum number of planes for his goal.

"It's just our job to knock 'em down," he explained. "It's no race at all. For example, Sailor Malan (previous record-holder) is off Ops (operations) now and I am on."

Ten-Ton Robot Bomb Feared

LONDON, July 27 (AP) — The Nazis' flying bomb barrage increased in ferocity tonight, spreading death through southern England, while Britons pondered the possibility of worse to come—perhaps huge explosive rockets.

The prospects that Germany's threatened new secret weapon might be a ten-ton explosive rocket—a robot bomb ten times the size of the V-1 now being used against England — "may not be sheer propaganda," a commentator at an Allied advance command post said today.

British Lancaster and Sterling bombers are using their big six-ton factory-busters to smash possible V-2 launching sites in Nazi territory and these big RAF craft struck again in daylight this evening against the flying bomb area of northern France. None of the planes was lost.

Nevertheless, the robots continued their deadly flights into southern England tonight. One smashed a row of houses sending a dozen persons to hospitals and trapping an entire family of six in a back-yard shelter. In one house a number of mothers and babies were among the casualties.

Fight For Peace Cited By Mahon

Cong. George Mahon, addressing the Kiwanis club's luncheon Thursday in Lubbock hotel, said:

"The people of this nation are standing face to face with the greatest moment before us than at any time in the nation's history," he said. "We may win the war, and yet lose the peace, thereby falling down on the greatest objective."

Mahon pointed out that people should urge congress to take steps to preserve peace. "Following the last war we turned our back on the responsibility of world leadership, but we must not make that mistake this time. If the dictator nations get the upper hand they will surely take advantage of that opportunity. It is up to the United States and others of the United Nations to see that this does not happen again."

No Destruction of Arms

He said that as a member of Congress he could assure the people of his district there would be no crashing of our air force into the trash heaps and no destruction of our Navy after this war. "It is necessary that we unite with other peace loving nations of the world and make it impossible for Germany, Japan or any other nation to start another world conflict such as the one in which we are now engaged."

He closed by saying that naturally we are primarily interested in winning the war, but we must be equally interested in the preservation of peace. "Let us place our hearts and minds on the real objective, the preservation of victory," he said.

The speaker was introduced by J. F. Moreau, program chairman. Clark M. Mullican inducted six new members into the club. They were: A. C. Lamp, Clinton Lackey, G. H. Keithley, W. E. Twitty, W. A. Corley and W. G. Clayton. T. E. Buckner, president of the club, presided.

Hour-Long Storm Hits Fort Smith

FORT SMITH, Ark., July 27. (AP) —A wind and electrical storm of about an hour's duration struck the Fort Smith area this afternoon, damaging about 30 small buildings in the south part of the town.

Windows in the downtown area were blown out and electrical service throughout the city was disrupted for about thirty minutes.

Tribute Paid To Air Evacuation

FORT WORTH, July 27. (U.P.) — Brig. Gen. Charles R. Glenn, returning here today after a globe-encircling observation and inspection flight, paid high tribute to the men and women involved in the speedy evacuation of wounded from the battle zones.

Gen. Glenn, surgeon on Lt. Barton K. Yount's training command headquarters staff here, covered more than 40,000 miles by air visiting U. S. combat forces in all sections of the world.

Talked With MacArthur

He spent an hour with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Australia, and conferred with Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill and Brig. Gen. Haydon C. Boafner of the famed Merrill's Marauders, under Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's command in the China-Burma-India theater.

While with Gen. Stilwell's forces in Burma, Gen. Glenn said he witnessed the most dramatic and amazing demonstration of the work of the air evacuation units.

Wounded Flown Out Quickly

He said that he rode into the area south of Myitkyina as a passenger on an air evacuation plane which landed on an advance air strip close to the jungle battle fields on which Merrill's Marauders are savagely attacking far behind the Jap lines.

"None of the wounded remain in there over 48 hours," Gen. Glenn said, "due to the highly efficient air evacuation system. Most of them are brought out within 24 hours after being wounded, and often in less time. Over 15,000 patients have been flown out in seven and one half months—most of them Chinese."

Studied Operations

Gen. Glenn studied the operations of air evacuation units in almost every theater visited. His primary objectives were to gather information which could be used as a basis for the further coordination of medical supply between the Army Ground forces, Army Service forces and Army Air forces; visit medical installations in the various theaters of operation; report on medical operations and training in tactical organizations and observe methods used for the delivery of medical supplies.

Which is:

GO WITH OWI

GRANTED a leave of absence in order to try her hand at war work, Mrs. Sherrill Boyd, accompanied her husband Thursday as they left Amarillo for New York City and points East, probably for the duration.

Mrs. Boyd, who as Evelyn Babb and later as Mrs. Boyd, was assistant society editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal for six years, has been woman's editor and staff photographer for the Amarillo Globe-News for the last five and one-half years. She is going to try for an assignment as photographer and writer for the Office of War Information and if she fails present plans are to stay in New York for about four months, studying news photography.

Mr. Boyd has received an assignment with OWI as a photographer assigned to the Foreign Personnel office. He will spend several months in New York before going overseas. A foreman at Pantex Ordnance plant since it opened, Mr. Boyd formerly was a commercial photographer and engraver in Lubbock.

The couple resigned jobs which they liked because they want to add more adventure to living they explained when they came through Lubbock en route to Post recently, where they took the household stuff they didn't sell and stored it with Mrs. Boyd's sister, Mrs. Dezzie Power.

They both have such a zest for living, for learning and are so thoroughly compatible, we fell sure they will enjoy this new chapter opening in their careers. If they can, they are going to work as a writer-photographer team since they have done so much work together they work as one.

Their many friends here will join the Woman's Angle we are sure in wishing them all the success in the world in this venture.

Russians And Poles Are In Agreement

MOSCOW, July 27. (U.P.) — The Russian foreign office announced today that an agreement regulating the administration of all Polish territories liberated by the Red Army was signed by the Soviet union and the Polish committee of National Liberation last night.

Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov and Obka Morawski, chairman of the Polish committee, signed the pact in the Kremlin and it was announced that it would go into effect immediately.

Under its terms, the Soviet armies will retain jurisdiction over all liberated territory in Poland while the affected areas are within the zone of military operations, passing to the committee as soon as those operations have been completed. The committee also will be empowered to raise an army in liberated zones, which would be under direction of the Soviet high command but subject to Polish military law.

U. S. To Take Over Japanese Mandated Islands, Paper Says

LONDON, July 27. (U.P.) — The Daily Mail quoted its New York correspondent today that "sources close to the State department have hinted that the United States probably will expand her overseas empire after the war to include all territories previously mandated to Japan."

"Plans for this transaction based on the Cairo agreement which said Japan was to be stripped of all her mandates, are believed to have been already worked out with the governments of Britain, Australia and Holland," the correspondent said.

"It is understood that they call for annexation by the United States of the Caroline, Marshall and Mariana groups which were Japanese springboards for attacks."

STATE DEPARTMENT DECLINES COMMENT

WASHINGTON, July 26. (U.P.) — The State department today declined comment on a London Daily Mail dispatch about Japanese mandated islands.

A department spokesman pointed out that the islands are now occupied by American forces, but that eventual disposition of the islands has not yet been considered.

Dallas Dry Worker Inactivated By Army

DALLAS, July 27. (AP) — The Eighth Service command said Capt. Norman N. Campbell, assigned to the adjutant general's department with headquarters at San Antonio, reverted to inactive status with the expiration of his terminal leave today.

The date of his inactive staus was set prior to any participation by Capt. Campbell in political activities of the United Dallas County drys, the command added in a statement.

By terminal leave, the command explained it meant accumulated leave which most men changing status would have. It said Capt. Campbell had been on such leave for several weeks.

The command added, however, that it did not approve of political activities of the captain in connection with a campaign of the drys, and that participation of military personnel in political activities was prohibited by army regulations.

Dallas county will hold a local option election Aug. 5. The News says Capt. Campbell, who presided over a meeting of drys, had been placed in charge of the dry organization of the Women's Christian temperance union workers.

Texas dairymen hope to produce 4,659,000,000 pounds of milk this year from 1,441,000 cows, an average of 3,233 pounds each.

Argentine Forfeits Right To Sit In On Coming Conference

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Argentine government, by its continuing support of the Axis, is considered in official quarters here to have forfeited its right to sit down with the United Nations in important war and postwar conferences, including whatver peace ferences, including whatever peace

This exclusion policy, already invoked at the Bretton Woods monetary conference, has been given a new and more permanent base by last night's official United States declaration denouncing Argentina as a "deserter" of the Allied cause.

Not In Conference

One immediate result will be that the Argentine government will have no part in the talks this fall between the United States and the other American republics on creation of a postwar security agency. Secretary of State Hull has promised the representatives of other western hemisphere governments, exclusive of Argentina, that they will have ample opportunity to study and make suggestions in their own interest on the postwar plan worked out at the big four conference here next month.

Plans for the Big Four talks are nearly complete. Secretary Hull announced today that Edward R. Stettinius, undersecretary of state, would head the American delegation and that Hull himself, as official host, will keep in closest touch with its progress.

Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary of foreign affairs, will lead the British delegation and it is expected that a Russian official of comparable rank, probably either Vice Commissar of Foreign Affairs Litvinov or Vice Commissar Vishinski, will head the Soviet group. The Chinese delegation remains to be named.

Brazil Among Leaders

In the western hemisphere the political developments of the war indicate that Brazil will play a leading roll because of her important part in the hemisphere defense system. Argentina, however, because of her "pro-Axis" course, as charged in the official policy statement of the United States government, is considered to have no claim to consideration with the rest of the American nations.

Therefore, Argentina is approaching the end of the war without being associates. Since these countries do not speak to the Argentine government they automatically will be unable to invite it to join in whatever international talks are held from now on.

Schools To Share In $6,000,000 Fund

AUSTIN, July 27 (AP)—A $6,000,000 balance in the available school fund after payment of this year's full scholastic per capita apportionment of $25 may be paid to the schools as of August 31, Attorney General Grover Sellers said in an opinion today.

This means that although the $6,000,000 supplemental apportionment will be paid on the last day of the current fiscal year, the money can be applied to teacher salary increases and other expenses for the next school year.

It will be in addition to the $25 per capita apportionment authorized by the board of education for payment next school year.

The board in its last meeting voted to pay the supplemental apportionment subject to approval of the attorney general and recommended that it be applied to teacher salary increases.

Comptroller George H. Sheppard asked for the opinion from Sellers.

A $25 maximum apportionment is established by law.

This maximum, said Sellers opinion, is "simply the maximum estimate of the legislature that is deemed necessary to maintain and support the public schools for a period of not less than six months each year.

WOMAN FLIER KILLED

DALLAS, July 27 (AP) — The body of a woman student pilot, whose name was withheld pending notification of her family in Virginia, was found today in the wreckage of a small plane in which she started from Dallas to Sherman on her first solo cross-country flight. The plane crashed on a farm four and a half miles west of Lewisville, Denton county.

Nazi Woman Pilot Flies In Robot In Tests During 1942

LONDON, July 27 (U.P) — Anna Reisch, a German woman pilot, flew inside a robot bomb during experiments in 1942, radio Berlin said today as the Nazis continued, though on a comparatively light scale, their mechanical aerial attack on southern England, including London.

During the early trials, Berlin said, the bombs tended to lose their wings after a short flight, and it was therefore decided to clear the explosives compartment and let a test pilot fly with one.

"Frau Reisch was chosen," the broadcast said, "because she had extraordinary physiological characteristics. She is insensible to pressure. She is a biological phenomen and has reached over 500 miles an hour when diving gliders."

The broadcast said she flew in a specially built robot, without instruments but with emergency landing gears.

"She made the flight in a nearly horizontal position, gazing through a periscope," the radio continued. "After four days, the trouble was found, but Frau Reisch was seriously injured."

It added she received the iron cross, first class.

The robot bomb attack on southern England early today, coming after a lull lasting since Wednesday afternoon, caused some damage and casualties. When dawn came, rescuers still were searching in debris of homes for victims trapped beneath.

Courtmartial Of Pilot Who Struck Texas Bus Approved By President

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 27. (U.P)—President Roosevelt has approved the punishment prescribed by a court martial for 2nd Lt. Rex A. Stage, a bomber pilot who flew so low over a Texas highway that the landing gear on his plane struck the roof of a bus in which 28 persons were riding, it was announced today by the Second Air force.

Lt. Stage was ordered dismissed from the Army, with total forfeiture of all pay.

Stage was stationed at the Pyote, Tex., Army Air field at the time of the offense, March 20.

At his trial at Biggs Field, El Paso, he offered no excuse for his stunting except that he was "prompted by an irrepressible desire to experience the behavior of a B-17 at an extremely low altitude," the Army announced.

He denied that he deliberately struck the bus, which was traveling from Pecos to San Antonio when the bomber struck it, damaging the top. No one, either in the plane or bus, was injured.

The air force did not reveal Stage's home address.

Opinions Of Mrs. Dewey And Mrs. Bricker Differ On Compulsory Military Training

ALBANY, N. Y., July 27. (AP) — Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey and Mrs. John W. Bricker have divergent opinions on compulsory military training for American youth, but appear, nonetheless, well-teamed as wives of the GOP presidential nominee and his running mate.

Their first joint press conference, held yesterday on the veranda of New York state's executive mansion, had the atmosphere of a casual tea. The Ohio governor's wife and her hostess, Mrs. Dewey, responded with equal poise to a barrage of questions.

Mrs. Dewey Surprised

Mrs. Bricker, mother off a 13-year-old boy, John, stated flatly, in answer to a question, she "would dislike awfully to see compulsory military training."

The New York governor's wife appeared surprised. She said, at first, she had formulated no opinion on the subject, but later decided she had "no objections" to such training as might be required.

Appeals To Dewey Boys

"The military very much appeals to my boys," she said, adding that "boys do love to march." (Her sons are Thomas, jr., 11, and John, 8, who, incidentally, have not met the Bricker boy.)

Mrs. Bricker countered with an objection to "such strict control," and said, "I think the year's training proposed would do little or no good."

But this short-lived exchange seemed without rancor. As if by mutual understanding, the newly-acquainted mothers shied quickly from further discussion bordering on politics.

Made Pleasant Picture

Mrs. Bricker, a native of Columbus, Ohio, wore an aquamarine crepe print. The Texas-born Mrs. Dewey wore a pale green silk print.

Seated on a wicker divan, they made a pleasant, summer picture, eagerly discovering many common interests other than their expressed intention to travel with their campaigning husbands without actually becoming politically active.

Both play the piano, both like to cook, both trace their ancestry to early English settlers in Virginia, both "love to travel and meet people," and neither has been abroad.

The two women said they hoped to try some piano duets—a good test of teamwork.

EARNINGS SLIGHTLY UP

NEW YORK, July 27. (AP)—Bethlehem Steel Corp. reported today its profit for the quarter ended June 30 was $6,733,843, equal after preferred dividends to $1.71 a share on the common stock. This compared with $6,432,538 or $1.61 a share in the March quarter and $6,614,210 or $1.67 a share for the second quarter last year.

Surplus Planes Are To Be Sold

WASHINGTON, July 27. (U.P) — The Reconstruction Finance corporation has started the job of selling approximately $60,168,000 worth of surplus Army and Navy aircraft, including trainers, cargo carriers, transports, bombers and gliders.

The availability of cargo carriers and transport types is not expected to relieve the pressure on commercial carriers because the planes are too small for regular airline operations. The largest transport type is a 10-place ship.

Transport Brings $25,000

One transport, damaged, was sold to an oil company for $25,000. It cost the Army $130,500.

The smaller craft will be sold on bid, and many of the larger ships through negotiations or at a ceiling price yet to be established. Although many of the larger ships are air-worthy, many are damaged to varying degrees. Some can be repaired but have been declared surplus to make room for more modern types by the services.

To Sell 5,129 Planes

The RFC has on hand 5,129 Army and Navy planes which it intends to sell as soon as possible. Their original cost was $60,167,997. The agency has already disposed of 2,843 planes for the Defense Plant corporation, an RFC subsidiary. Their value when new was $7,850,749. They brought in $4,686,295.

The RFC has an additional 2,139 of its subsidiary's planes to sell. Most are of the smaller training variety and have been bringing prices considered good. They are Piper Cubs and Taylor-Crafts for the most part.

The transfer of surplus aircraft to the RFC for disposal brought the total of RFC-owned surplus property to $181,442,667. Of this amount, according to Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, property which cost the government $59,004,006 has been sold for $52,562,554.

CLEVELAND, July 17 (AP) — Ailie Reynolds pitched the Cleveland Indians to an 8-1 victory today, over the New York Yankees, as the Tribe battered young Walter Dubiel for 13 hits, to take a 2-1 edge in their series.

Reynolds was hit freely, giving up 11 hits, but stopped the Yankees with men on bases. It was Reynolds' 11th win against seven lost, while for Dubiel, it was his third straight loss and his ninth against six won.

Myril Hoag led the Tribal attack with four hits including two doubles. He batted in three runs and scored three others himself.

George Stirnweiss continued his prolific hitting with three safeties, one a double, and stole his 29th base to increase his league lead.

As a result of their loss, the Yankees dropped into a virtual tie for third place with the Boston Red Sox.

Reds Nip Braves In Private Game

BOSTON, July 27 (AP)—In comparative privacy — paid attendance was 785—the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Boston Braves 4 to 2 tonight in a twilight game which was finished in a rainstorm.

As usual, Nate Andrews got poor support and was lifted for a pinch batter in the seventh.

The Reds' two runs in the fourth resulted from an error with one out, catcher Ray Mueller singled and went to third on Eric Tipton's single.

Mesner hit a double play grounder to second baseman Warren Huston. But the former school teacher let it roll through his legs allowing Mueller to score and Tipton to go to third.

Miller's fly to right field scored Tipton.

The Braves got back one in the sixth on Buck Etchison's homer and tied it in the seventh. Kluttz singled and Masi ran for him. Dee Phillips lined out but Max Macon, batting for Huston, doubled to center to send Masi to third whence he scored on a long fly out to left by Chet Ross who batted for Andrews.

The winning runs were driven in by Mueller's double in the seventh. His poke to right center scored Johnny Cricsola who had doubled and Frank McCormick who received an intentional walk.

All-Stars Romp On Milwaukee Brewers

MILWAUKEE, July 27. (AP) — Those loyal Milwaukee baseball fans were still wondering today if it was their beloved Brewers who absorbed that 18 to 0 pasting last night in the American Association's 10th All-Star feature before a crowd of 12,000.

The Brewers have dominated the league since the start of the season, and one at a time the other seven clubs have been able to do so little with them that Casey Stengel's team leads the circuit by 10½ games over second-place Louisville.

Vince DiMaggio of the Pirates belted 97 home runs in his first seven years in the majors. His brother Joe hit 219 for the Yankees during the same period.

Optimist Golf Nears Finish

Truman Hutson "pocketed" the $50 war bond prize as champion of the 72-hole Flight A bracket in the Optimist Club Inter-Civic Club golf tournament Thursday afternoon at the Meadowbrook Golf club course as he maintained his wide early lead through the last 36 holes of the match.

Hutson turned in a 315 stroke card for the 72 holes, and finished 26 strokes up on H. M. Chick, who toured the 72 holes in 341 strokes to pick off the $25 war bond for runnerup honors.

McWhirter Takes Lead

The only change is leaderships in the other three brackets came as Powell McWhirter took a six stroke lead in the Flight C division as he turned in a card for the 36 holes of 175, to replace L. O. Neill at the top of the list.

Both shot 88's early in the week to offer the final real threat, and in the final 18 holes, McWhirter shaved another stroke off his earlier score, and came in Thursday with an 87.

Bill Meade moved into the third place slot in Flight C, shooting 182 for the 36 holes, one stroke behind Neill, who retained his runnerup position.

Eight Have Finished

Eight of the 13 men in Flight C have finished their 36 holes. Other final scores in this bracket include: A. A. Marchant 186, Cliff Widner and Louis Kerr, 189, Jack Diamond 190 and Bert Pinson 201.

Guy Wheatley, with a 162 score, is the only man to finish in Flight B to date.

Sloan Fortenberry retained his leadership in Flight D with a 198 score for the 36 holes, trailed by Harry Delaney with 201 and Cliff Cummings with 208.

Golfers who have not finished have until tonight to complete their 36 hole rounds and all scores have to be in by tonight.

Medics, LAAF WACs Win Softball Tilts

South Plains Army Air Field's Medics romped on the Junior Chamber of Commerce ten to the tune of 14-3 Thursday night at the Twenty-third street and Avenue W softball diamond.

Norton pitched the victory for the Medics, allowing three hits, and Artlip caught. Kirby, on the mound for the Jaycees, yielded ten hits to his opponents while Granlee did the catching.

In the second game of Thursday's double header, Lubbock Army Air Field's Wacs rolled over the South Plains Army Air Field Civilianettes 15-6. Belgan belted a four bagger in the third frame for the Wacs with one aboard.

Flanders hurled eight hit ball for the Wacs and Waddicar was catcher. Battery for the Civilianettes was Douglas, issuing 12 hits, and Hall.

George Case Retains League Speed Record

CHICAGO, July 27. (U.P.) — George Case of the Washington Senators still retained his title as the fastest man in the American League today.

Case defeated Thurman Tucker, Chicago White Sox outfielder, last night in a 75-yard dash which was a feature of the Sox' annual national war relief fund and red cross benefit, presented before 30,000 spectators.

Lubbock Legion Nine Nosed Out In Opening Game, 6-5

AUSTIN, July 27. (AP) — Tom Bamford's Forest Avenue High school team of Dallas nosed out H. J. McCabe's Lubbock team, 6 to 5, in the opening game of the state American Legion junior baseball championship tournament here tonight.

The Lubbock nine came from behind in the third inning with a three run scoring spree after Tuttle, hurler for the Dallas favorites, leaned into one of Bob Galey's pitches for a homer in the second inning to give Dallas an early lead.

Dallas regained the lead in the last of the fourth inning when four runs trickled across the plate, and were never headed off again. Galey then settled down to finish strong, but the damage had been done.

Galey went the route for Lubbock, being nicked for nine hits. Tuttle pitched the first four innings, fanning five and walking two, then took over first base while Camp took over the pitching duties.

Lubbock started a comeback drive in the seventh inning, and threw a scare into the coasting Dallas nine, and Tuttle was rushed back to the mound in time to choke off the threatening rally by the scrapping Lubbock lads.

Scarbrough Ten Wins Over Keiths, 7 To 2

The Scarborough Grocermen coasted to an easy win Thursday night over Keith's Wizzers 7-2 at Mackenzie State Park. C. R. Burleson, second baseman for the Grocery ten, hit the only home run of the game in the sixth frame.

Lt. Culver, hurling no hit ball until the seventh inning, struck out three of the Wizzers while giving only one hit, with Higgins catching. Hutledge, on the mound for the Wizzers, whiffed three but allowed ten hits while Rollins caught.

Score:

Scarborough	300 031	0	7 10
Wizzers	000 010	1	2 0

Optimist Club Wins Over Rotary, 14-2

With Davidson and Lindsey dividing the pitching honors, and Sandlin doing the catching and leading the attack with the bat, the Optimist Club junior baseball nine pounded out a 14 to 2 victory over the Rotary Club nine Thursday evening at Chapman field.

Higginbotham pitched for the Rotary Club, and turned in a much better mound performance than the score of the game indicates.

Explosion Puts Cub Star Back In Game

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—Roy Hughes literally was blown back into baseball and today is largely responsible for the Chicago Cubs rise out of the National League cellar into a contending position for a first division berth.

Hughes' diamond career virtually was ended in 1940 when he emerged from a collision with Frank Crespi with torn ligaments in his right shoulder. Hughes was with the Montreal Royals in the International League at the time.

Arm Went Dead

"Crespi, then with Rochester, came down on my right shoulder and something popped," Roy revealed. "I couldn't even raise my arm the rest of the season and the doctors told me I was through. Something wrong with the muscles, they told me."

Hughes went home to Cincinnati and while trying to thaw out some tar in the basement of his home, the tar exploded and severely burned him on his arms and shoulders. Hughes was in a hospital for weeks but when he came out there was new life in his dead arm.

"That explosion blew me right back into shape. The doctor who examined me told me that the heat of the explosion sealed those damaged muscles and welded them together again," the ball player explained.

Roy returned to Montreal in 1941 and then played for Los Angeles in '42 and last year. He was brought up by the Cubs this season and his outstanding work both at bat and in the field won him the regular third base job. When Stan Hack returned, Hughes, whose stickwork was the best on the club, was transferred to shortstop.

Having Best Year

And today, Hughes is playing the best baseball of his career. His .321 batting average is tops for the club and fourth highest in the league.

Despite his 33 years, he still is fast, his 10 stolen bases being topped by only two players.

Manager Charlie Grimm regards Hughes as the most valuable man on the club.

"Roy is one of the smartest players in the league," he says, "he is always thinking ahead and is the best steadier of pitchers on the team."

Abb Curtis Put On School Staff

WICHIA FALLS, ex., July 27 (AP)—Abb Curtis, Southwest Conference official, will appear on the program at the annual Texas High School Coaching school here Aug. 7-11, discussing football rules and officiating, W. C. O. Harris, association president, announced today.

The faculty of the school will be headed by Jeff Cravath of Southern California and Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, who also will coach opposing all-star high school squads appearing in a football game the night of Aug. 11.

Others on the lecture program will be Dell Morgan of Texas Tech, Blair Cherry of Texas, Sam Baugh of the Washington professional team, Stanley Thomas, basketball coach of Sunset High (Dallas), and Jewell Wallace, football coach of San Angelo High school.

Two more players have been added to the North Texas squad for the annual All-Star game of the coaching school.

Harold Hill, center, from Arlington Heights, Fort Worth, and Homer Lawson, guard, from Lubbock, have accepted invitations from Howard Lynch, Amarillo, assistant coach for the North Texas squad.

COE NAMED COACH

NACOGDOCHES, Tex., July 27. (AP)—Doyle Coe, former star athlete at Sam Houston State college, has been named head coach of Nacogdoches High school, succeeding Wilson McKewen, who resigned to accept a position with the Daily Sentinel, Nacogdoches newspaper.

Hagberg Looks Over Navy Grid Prospect

ANNAPOLIS, Md. July 27. (AP)—The mercury was in the 90's with humidity so heavy the middie crew could have rowed through it, but Commander Oscar Emil Hagberg, appearing cool and comfortable in starched summer whites, said it never got too hot to talk about Navy football.

And, he let it be known right away, that he figured his backs may be as hot this fall as the current weather. Frankly, he has so many backfield men running around they're cluttering the premises—and they've got class too.

Line Is Problem

But, the line is another thing. Midshipman Den Chase, team captain and guard, is the only 1943 regular on deck. The other six first stringers who helped pace Navy's fine eleven last year—climaxing with a 13-0 win over Army after only one loss—are gone. Replacements don't stack up with the calibre linemen usually seen at Annapolis.

"That is a real job" for Lieut. Commdr. E. E. (Rip) Miller, top line coach, who, said Hagberg, "is over around Pittsburgh. (Rip isn't on vacation and he isn't checking steel production.)

"Our linemen will have to come from what was left over last fall, but maybe a star or two among the plebes will turn up—we hope," said Hagberg.

Two Good Backfields

But the backs' hang on' indicating Navy's six-week spring practice produced results, Hagberg listed two veteran backfield units as current No. 1 and 2 combinations:

Triple threat Bobby Jenkins, Bill Barron, Tom Dwyer and Joe Sullivan; and speedy Jim Pettit, Dick Duden, Vic Finos, and Bruce Smith, another fine triple-threater.

Smith, who comes from Miami, Fla., "will be something to watch," the commander declared.

He also has quite a few Plebes, especially Fred Early from Notre Dame; Ralph Ellsworth, ace Texas University halfback last year; and Richard Ambrogi, of Pennsylvania's 1943 varsity squad; among others.

The squad will be called about August 10. Navy's schedule hasn't been announced officially, but Purdue, Notre Dame, Cornell, Duke and Georgia Tech already have named the Middies among their opponents, and other rivals will include Army and Pennsylvania.

Oil Price Hike To Be Sought

FORT WORTH, July 27. (U.P.)—The Independent Petroleum Association of America planned today to continue an unrelenting fight for an overall crude oil price increase.

State vice presidents and the IPAA executive committee committed the organization to the renewed demand for higher crude prices in the closing session of a two-day meeting yesterday at which the IPAA's 15th annual convention scheduled in Dallas Oct. 23-25 was cancelled in view of transportation problems.

IPAA President Ralph Zook, commenting that the meeting was a "most constructive" one, outlined the association's backing for the price increase on the grounds that although the stripper well subsidy will aid many marginal well operators, it does not solve the problem of need for more oil.

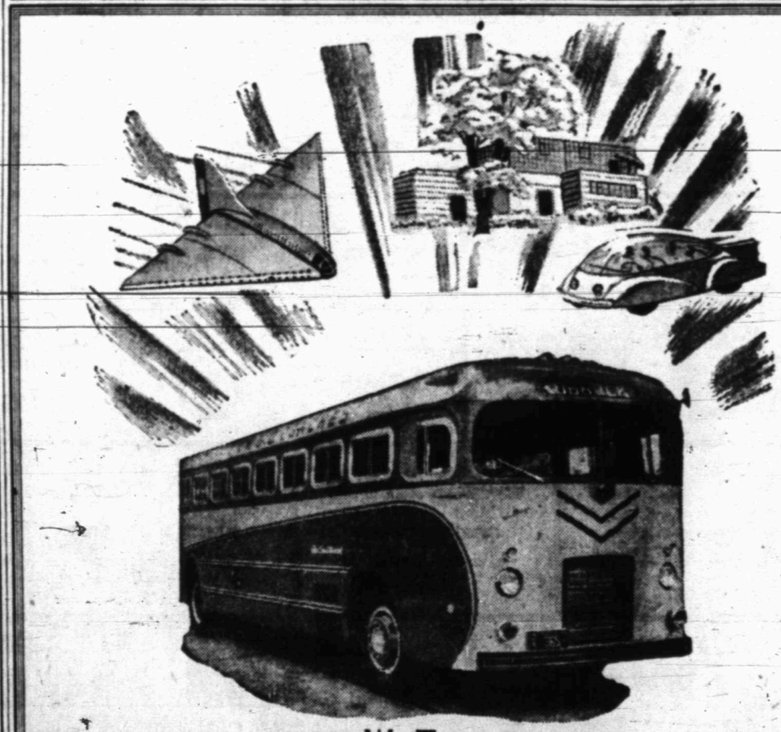

"The independents prediction that under a depressed price the flow of produceable oil would reach its maximum capacity is now a reality," Zook added.

The IPAA executives reiterated their contention that regulation of oil imports should be continued and emphasized the importance of the depletion allowance to the industry.

Committees were authorized to work on cooperation between producers and drilling contractors and to study the feasibility and application of permanent differentials for wells of scant production.

An enlarged membership program was scheduled to get under way soon, with Kansas designated as the scene of the opening drive.

Significant Events Promised By Break-Through In Normandy

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Nazi admission that Russian spearheads had punched across the Vistula southeast of Warsaw headlined the war news from Europe although sustained second day progress of a closely knit American air-tank advance in Normandy holds promise of significent events to come in the west.

SIMPSON

As the air-escorted tank columns mushroomed out to east and west from the deep penetration of enemy lines below St. Lo there seemed no question that the desperate Nazi effort to contain the Allied invasion had failed. Front line dispatches told of American infantry swarming through the air-and-tank cut gaps to consolidate the ground, disrupt German rear echelon services and outflank his battle lines in both directions.

Prisoner Toll Mounts

Long range heavy guns were falling into American hands unspiked by their fleeing Nazi crews. The toll of German prisoners was mounting hourly to indicate that an Allied break-through that must force a general German retreat across the whole Normandy front had been achieved.

West of the St. Lo dent, American troops had taken Lessay and passed the Periers Nazi roadhub block to threaten Coutances from the north while tank columns rolling down the St. Lo-Coutances highway pressed upon it at even closer range from the east. There was little doubt that German hasty retreat from the Coutances-Lessay coastal triangle of the Cherbourg peninsula was in progress to escape a closing Allied trap.

Blitz Tactics Turn

The massive air-tank blow gives evidence of near perfection in assault teamwork by Army ground and air forces. Nazi-invented blitzkrieg tactics are being American improved and turned against their authors.

There are glittering possibilities in the developing situation. While it is as yet doubtful that the Allied immediate purpose goes farther than to widen and deepen the Normandy bridgehead to accommodate larger forces in preparation for more decisive action, the means for immediate exploitation of enemy confusion appears to be at hand. The situation in German ranks as well as in Germany itself invites bold action.

Reds On Vistula

Russian crossing of the Vistula on the 30-mile span where they had reached the river southeast of Warsaw had not been confirmed by Moscow but seemed highly probable. Red forces had seized east bank towns, Deblin and Pulawy, guarding the important rail and road crossings west of Lublin. Nazi evacuation of Brest Litovsk was clearly impending since the breach in the Vistula line meant Warsaw was due for flanking, not frontal attack, and the Brest Litovsk garrison was in growing danger of being cut off and annihilated.

Once beyond the river in the Beblin-Pulawy sector in any force, the Russians could swing northwestward to take the old Polish capital from the rear, its vulnerable side, or cut its communication lines. Whatever the Russian plan, however, the battle is rolling back upon Warsaw again just two months short of five years from the day it fell to German arms, Sept. 27, 1939, and launched the world into the greatest war it has ever known.

Aerial Assaults

planes strafed enemy troops, guns and tanks in hedgerows and woods. They crumpled four buildings which were enemy strong points.

During the evening RAF bombers with fighter cover attacked German robot bomb launching ramps.

Liberator and Fortress crewmen returning from the assault said the Weiss works, a large producer of aircraft engines, guns, ammunition and machine tools for the enemy, was left enveloped in smoke from many direct hits.

Good Hunting On Trip

Twenty of yesterday's 78 Allied victories in southern Europe were scored by American fighter pilots in the Ploestri-Bucharest area on their return flight from a three-day "hunting trip" to Russia, during which they joined Soviet Airmen Tuesday in a series of smashes at German air forces in Poland.

In all, the three-day operation netted the Yank "hunting party" a total of 64 enemy planes shot down and many more destroyed on the ground. Two American fighters were lost on the round-trip of perhaps 1,500 miles. The biggest individual score was credited to Lt. James L. Brooks of Roanoke, Va., with four victories.

An official report called the operation a "successful demonstration of the flexibility of Allied air power over the entire European continent."

SOLDIER DIES OF WOUNDS

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—The War department said today that Pvt. Gustaco Zamora of Runge, Tex., previously reported wounded in action in the Mediterranean area, now was reported to have died of his wounds.

News Briefs

Mrs. G. W. Blair, 2407 Tenth street, is recovering from a fall she received at her home Wednesday morning.

Percy Herod, 45-year-old negro, and John Pettit, 41, were fined $100 and $15, respectively, in city court Thursday afternoon after they pleaded guilty to charges that they worked in a public eating place without health certificates. Glynn Hudgens, city health officer, who, with city health officer S. O. Boyd, arrested the men, said a complaint had been filed against John Zournas, manager of the Bus Terminal cafe, where the men were employed. Zournas, it was alleged, allowed persons to work in his cafe without proper health credentials.

The woman living in 2200-block Twenty-fifth street thought her house was on fire. She called firemen, pulled the garden hose in the house, thinking she might bring the "blaze" under control. By the time firemen arrived she had realized her mistake—but not until the bathroom, kitchen and dining room were flooded with water. The woman said she had glanced up at the ceiling ventilator, saw the swiftly-revolving fan mixing glints from the sun, directly overhead and acted on what she thought she saw.

Revival services opened Thursday evening at the Foursquare chapel, Avenue G and Seventeenth street, with a special showing of the movie, "Life of Paul," by Rev. H. E. Musgrove of Los Angeles. Rev. Daisy Wilbanks is in charge of the services which begin each evening at 8:30.

Normandy Front

ting a flash by flash report of the swift penetration and the broadening fan-out of armor past midnight with unconcealed satisfaction.

The American armor that fashioned the sensational break-through was not identified. (German broadcasts recently said that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton and his armored corps was in Normandy ready for action.)

Elite Troops Involved

The Germans are known to have the Second SS (Elite) Panzer division, one of the finest divisions in France, and one other armored or armored Grenadier division on the front, but if these have been committed they have proved unequal to meet the weight of Bradley's blow.

Coutances already was within artillery range and it appeared it could not hold out for long with the sporadic resistance the bewildered enemy is offering on this sector of the flaming 40-mile front. Prisoners up to noon totaled 2,600 and tank crews did not bother to corral them.

Yet another tank column, pouring through a gap in the German lines around Canisy, in a gain of up to six miles captured Le Mesnil-Herman, six miles southwest of St. Lo.

Drawing Steel Ring

This thrust, drawing a steel ring about the Germans who from the strategic heights south of St. Lo have been holding up the American advance, severed the road from St. Lo to Avrances, 30 miles south, which is the side door to the Brittany peninsula and its naval base of Brest.

Supreme headquarters said that on the east flank positions were unchanged, and had no comment on German broadcast claims that the British and Canadian offensive south of Caen had been resumed.

All day long the Germans reported powerful Allied reinforcements had been landed at the mouths of both the Vire river, on the American front, and the Orne river, on the British front, and the Nazis predicted even mightier offenses.

Not Without Costs

The American triumphs were not without their costs, for it was announced that Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, 61, until recently commanding general of the Army Ground forces and once called "the brains of the Army," had been killed in Normandy.

The highest ranking U. S. officer killed in the present war, McNair fell under enemy fire while observing action on front line units. He held an important assignment the nature of which has not been disclosed.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's doughboys kept up the pressure all along the 40-mile front.

Then on the east of St. Lo, the Americans knocked off Berigny, seven miles up the road to Bayeux, overran Montrabot, eight miles east of St. Lo, and drove on two miles south of Mouffet.

In all, the Americans have captured 20 communities in 48 hours, advanced up to nine miles, and now have thrust from the coast 30 miles into France for their greatest penetration since D-day, and are knocking out tanks trying to stop them at the rate of 30 a day.

himself in warfare only by sabotaging every great decision." Although today's announcement did not specify the respective roles of the trio, Goebbels had said this man was "the leader" of the conspirators.

Gen. Hoepner commanded a tank corps in the Polish campaign and an Army corps in the drive through France. He was said to have been thrown out of the Army because of a "cowardly retreat" on the Russian front at the end of 1941. This is the man Goebbels said had been chosen to lead the German Army after Hitler's asssasination.

TRADING IS QUIET

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—Quiet and selective demand remained in the stock market today although many leaders failed to attract worthwhile bids.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was unchanged at 54.8 for the second consecutive session. Transfers of 693,730 shares compared with 828,995 yesterday and were the smallest for a 5-hour stretch since May 22.

Hudson Motors posted a peak for 1944. Modest plus signs were attached to Willys-Overland and Graham-Paige. Recent liveliness of medium and low-priced automotive stocks was attributed partly to rumors of merger discussions between independent motor car producers.

In front were Great Northern, North American, Public Service of N. J., U. S. Steel, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Douglas Aircraft and du Pont. On the declining side were General Motors, N. Y. Central, U. S. Rubber, Eastman Kodak and Allied Chemical.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—The cotton market moved through another dull session today, closing 20 to 50 cents a bale higher. A lack of offerings rather than new developments accounted for the steady tone as small mill buying and local covering met only scale-up liquidation and hedge selling.

Prices at one time showed gains of as much as 70 cents a bale although the advance as partly erased when locals turned to the selling side.

Futures closed 20 to 50 cents a bale higher.

the standpoint of community fire hazards.

Members of the city commission deferred immediate action on the request, but promised an early decision. Meanwhile, the commission asked City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., to make inquiries in other cities and to ascertain what steps need to be taken if the decision should be favorable to amending the ordinance.

Officials Favorable

Mayor O. W. Ribble and the entire membership of the commission expressed themselves as being favorable to granting the request, if this can be done without sacrifice to community fire safety.

They pointed out that the plant would amount to an important new industry for Lubbock and would enhance further the city's prestige as an important cotton center. Sharing the mayor's views were Commissioners W. B. Price, Hub Jones and Fred Childress. Commissioner J. Ray Dickey was unable to attend the meeting.

The commission approved the recommendation by the city department of recreation that week-night dancing be permitted at the concession building north of the swimming pool in Mackenzie state park.

Juke Box Installed

Mrs. Grace Dyess, recreation superintendent, announced that a juke box has been installed in the building, and that dancing will be from 7 until 10:30 o'clock Monday through Friday nights, and from 7 until 11 o'clock Saturday nights. A supervisor will be in attendance at all times, she said. There will be no dancing Sundays. Many other games and activities also are regularly scheduled in and near the building, Mrs. Dyess said.

Sanders Tire company was granted a 12½ foot loading zone at its location, 1315 Avenue H.

The following contractor's bonds were approved: J. E. Waller and W. L. Taylor, general; and D. R. Parker, electrician.

Soviet Juggernaut

wolin the Russians were within 340 airline miles of Berlin itself.

Premier-Marshal Joseph Stalin in an unprecedented issuance of five orders of the day announced the fall of the six major German strongholds, on this "black Thursday" for Germany.

Stalin's fifth order of the day told of the capture of the strategic rail junction of Siauliai, 73 miles southwest of Riga and 83 miles east of Memel in East Prussia.

The fall of this "large communications center linking the Baltic with East Prussia" to Gen. Ivan Bagramian's First Baltic Army effectively boxed up 30 German divisions of perhaps 300,000 men under Nazi Col. General Lindemann retreating toward Prussia from Estonia and Latvia, with other Russian armies in hot pursuit.

A small railway running from Riga to Liepaja (Libau) on the Latvian west coast, thence down to Memel, is all that is left to these disaster-ridden German forces, and is considered ineffective for mass movement. The Nazi alternative is escape by sea, and it was believed the German Navy was incapable of handling the fleeing troops.

It was a big night in Moscow as 224 of the Soviet capital's victory guns fired a total of 200 salvos in celebration of the great victories—announced within a few hours after Berlin's admission that the Germans were in a general retreat.

Two Others Toppling

The fall of two other big German bastions, Brest Litovsk, 115 miles east of Warsaw, and Kaunas, former Lithuanian capital, appeared to be near. Red Army shock troops were reported fighting in Brest Litovsk's streets, and all adequate German escape routes already had been cut by other Soviet units attacking about 50 miles east of Warsaw. In the north, Russian troops were only a few miles from Kaunas.

Lwow, nine-way rail junction which is one of the largest in Europe, fell after a two-day storm by Soviet shock troops. Stanislawow, another important rail junction 55 miles to the southeast in the Carpathian foothills on the road to Czechlovakia, was taken by other units of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine Army.

90th Division's Work Is Praised

WITH THE 90TH DIVISION In Normandy, July 27. (AP)—This is a story of the guts and know-how shown by the 90th division since it hit the beaches on D-day.

A typical example was the case of the buck private and a division platoon. The private was John E. Heffernan, Portland, Maine.

Taking over at the insistence of his commanding officer, who was knocked out of action, Pvt. Heffernan, led a platoon on a four-day rampage of fighting through Normandy which won a lot of ground from the Germans and high praise from Allied commanders.

Encountered Minefields

It was probably the first case of its kind here in Normandy.

At Courbesville the division encountered its first great minefields. Lt. Col. Tom Kilday, San Antonio, Texas, former West Point football player, led a battalion into the town.

"After taking our objective during the night," Kilday related, "we set up operations headquarters in a field and discovered at dawn that we had been kicking anti-personnel mines around like footballs. But, luckily, these particular ones weer unactivated—the Germans had to get away in too big a hurry."

Like Movies Script

During the division's northward push Lt. Ralph Miller, San Antonio, Texas, and Cpl. Raymond Lustic, Detroit, figured in an episode which sounded like something out of a script writer's mind.

They slipped behind the German line for a rendezvous with a French cement manufacturer who gave them detailed information on Nazi fortifications around an important Norman town.

The artillery gunners digested the information and were able to pinpoint targets.

Chaplain's Feats Legendary

A team headed by Lt. Parney Talor, one-time employe of the Washington Post; Sgt. Abe Jamail, of Houston, Texas, and Heffernan, stole behind enemy lines on a number of subsequent occasions and came back with similar information.

Feats of the 90th's chaplains are legend. One, James M. Hamilton, Fort Worth, Texas, of the Disciples of Christ, went into no man's land under fire from both sides to pick up wounded.

The 90th, a reserve outfit and veteran of World war 1, was reactivated at Camp Barkeley, Texas, in March, 1942. Originally it was made up of men from Texas and Oklahoma.

5,000 Germans Killed By Tito's Partisans

LONDON, Friday, July 28. (AP)—In a special communique, one of the few ever broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, Marshal Tito announced early today that 5,000 Germans had been wiped out in the Berame area.

Partisan forces led by Lt. Gen. Peko Dapsevic routed the force of Germans making an attempt to cut Tito's communications in the Lim valley preparatory to a drive on Bosnia. The communique said.

Two hundred Germans were taken prisoner, it was stated.

Children Aid In Airmen's Rescue

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27. (U.P.)—Two teen age children were credited today with assisting in the rescue of two of the three airmen who survived the crash of a B-24 Liberator bomber which yesterday afternoon plowed through a row of five homes in a suburban area near Merriam, Kan., 10 miles southwest of Kansas City.

They were Everette Cates, 15, and Beverly Cates, 14. They assisted two of the injured men from the wreckage of the plane after it had thundered into a neighboring house, spraying it with oil and gasoline and setting it afire in a matter of seconds.

Board Studies Crash

A military board of inquiry was to begin a study of the crash, which took the lives of three of the six men aboard the ship and sent the remaining trio to a hospital, one of them in a critical condition.

Witnesses who had watched the low-circling plane for several minutes before the crash said the airmen, from the Lincoln, Neb., base, had been waving to people on the ground a few feet below them as they flew just above the roof tops.

Wing Strikes Tree

The pilot, 2nd Lt. K. H. Keech, lived at nearby Shawnee and his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Skeen, lived within a few feet of the houses struck by the plane. Witnesses said the ship apparently had been circling the Skeen home when one wing struck a rooftop across the street, then flipped against a tree.

Five civilians were reported injured, most of them because they were struck by flying pieces of wreckage. Only two of them required hospitalization.

Children Escape Death

Several children playing in the yards of their homes narrowly missed death when the big plane plowed through an area almost one half mile long. Mrs. Thomas Gray, caught in the kitchen of her burning home, escaped with burns by climbing out a window.

M. Frank Turner, a witness, said the plane seemed to be flying "awfully low but in control until it struck a tree." He said it then seemed "to explode in the air." Pieces of the plane were scattered over a wide area as the main assembly, breaking up, roared through the line of homes.

Conflicting reports from the scene for hours after the crash made it difficult to determine the actual number of casualties.

Area Tire Quota Is Severely Cut

Only 416 large truck tires will be available for the entire 71 counties in the Lubbock district during the month of August, Howard R. Gholson, district director of the Office of Price administration, announced Thursday. The June quota was 1,473 and the July quota was 1,472 making the quota for next month less than 30 per cent of the previous quotas.

The number of truck tires of size 8.25 and larger available for rationing in August is the smallest since rationing began. The national quota, certified to the OPA by the Office of the rubber director, will be only 60,000 tires.

Reasons Assigned

Reasons given by the office of the rubber director for the drastic cut in heavy truck tire quota are demands of military services, diversion of military and manpower from production of truck tires for civilian use to production to large size airplane tires, and a shortage of manpower skilled in the manufacture of these large size heavy duty tires.

Gholson stated since the August quota is too low to permit setting a quota for all rationing boards as in the past, a temporary expedient has been adopted.

Special Panel Set Up

Under the temporary plan, truck and bus operations are to continue to apply for tires to the local boards. Instead of the board passing finally on the applicant's needs, the application will be routed to a special truck tire rationing panel being set up in the district for approval. This panel will issue the certificates and return them to the local board fo rdelivery to the applicant.

Since it is inevitable that some trucks must go off the road because of lack of tires the panel must make certain such trucks are not those essential to the war effort and the civilian economy.

Jury Frees Negro In San Antonio Slaying

SAN ANTONIO, July 27. (AP)—Mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Mary Lou Lowery, whose battered body was found in an elevator in the Hicks building shortly after midnight May 21, remained unsolved today when a jury in criminal district court reported to Judge H. D. Barrow of Jourdanton that they were unable to agree upon a verdict.

The jury was discharged.

Sedrick "Honey Boy" Horton, a negro formerly employed as an elevator operator at the Hicks building, was charged by indictment with the murder of Mrs. Lowery on two counts, murder by stomping with feet and murder by an unknown instrument.

The jury took the case Wednesday.

The death of Mrs. Lowery was the aftermath of a drinking party in the downtown office building. It was brought out in court testimony that she suffered five broken ribs and that her lungs were punctured.

Horton contended she fell on the floor of the elevator which he was operating and that he called for help immediately following her fall.

U.S. Casualties Set At 257,779

WASHINGTON, July 27 (U.P.)—Casualties among the U. S. armed forces announced in Washington total 257,779, it was revealed today.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson told a news conference that Army casualties through July 6 totalled 207,283, while a Navy casualty list released today showed 50,496. The combined totals for both services showed 58,670 dead, 104,888 wounded, 45,255 prisoners of war and 48,966 missing.

Stimson said Fifth Army casualties in Italy since the Salerno landing through July 18 total 74,496, including 13,382 killed, 51,194 wounded, and 10,920 missing or prisoners of war. Army Air force losses in Italy through July 18 total 11,665, he said, including 1,383 killed, 1,741 wounded and 8,541 missing or prisoners of war.

Japs Suffer Heavily

Stimson also estimated that 35,000 Japanese have been killed since Nov. 1, 1943, in the Pacific, including the South, Southwest and Central Pacific theaters. He emphasized that this figure did not include thousands of enemy troops killed aboard warships and thousands of others killed in bombing attacks or who died of diseases.

He said Army infantry forces suffered 3,498 casualties on Saipan, including 901 killed, 2,485 wounded and 112 missing or prisoners of war. These figures, however, apparently were included by Secretary of Navy James Forrestal recently when he said total American casualties on Saipan were 15,643, and that of this number 5,000 wounded men have recovered and are back in action in the Tinian campaign.

Mercury Rises Well Past 100

Lubbock residents perspired Thursday in temperatures several degrees above the 100-mark, as the second day of the current heat wave established new temperature highs in some towns in Texas.

They had a choice—the 103 degrees reported by the farm experiment station and the 107 degrees reported by West Texas Gas company's station south of the city.

Heat Is Tenacious

The heat was tenacious. It was 101 at 6 p. m. at the experiment station, while the mercury hung above 100 by the gas company's thermometer until 8 o'clock, when it dropped to 98.

The gas company reported its high reading was barely short of the 108 high set June 27.

The weatherman said "hot" weather would continue Friday and Saturday on the South Plains.

Coleman in central Texas reported the state's high reading of 113 degrees. Odessa and Wichita Falls had 110, the hottest for Wichita Falls since August, 1943. Scattered late afternoon clouds failed to bring any relief in the North Texas town and a hot wind added to the discomfort.

Others Report 106

High temperatures over the state were at Fort Worth, Midland, Big Spring, Del Rio and Pyote, where the U. S. weather bureau reported 106 degrees was the weather fashion.

The bureau reported 105 at San Angelo, and 104 at Wink and Dallas, the season's highest there.

Austin, Bryan, and Alice had 102 degree weather and San Antonio and Yoakum were one above the century mark.

Report On CIO Activity Ready

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—The House committee on un-American activities, headed by Rep. Dies (D-Tex), was disclosed today to have prepared a report on the CIO Political Action committee, probably for submission to the Justice department.

Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ), ranking Republican of the Dies committee, wired the chairman today, proposing that the CIO-PAC material gathered by the Dies committee be turned over to the attorney general. He called for further "diligent" inquiry by the House committee.

Must Have Protection

The people, the New Jersey congressman said, must have protection from a "political buccaneer."

Thomas wired Dies in response to an inquiry understood to have been made by the chairman as to whether information already gathered on the PAC should be turned over to Attorney General Biddle or the committee should pursue its inquiry independently.

Thomas told Dies:

"While I have absolutely no confidence in attorney general taking action in PAC violations of law developed in your letter to me of July 25 nevertheless I think it our solemn duty to refer all the facts to Mr. Biddle.

Should Continue Work

"In addition we should diligently continue our own investigation after which we must hold hearings.

"Likewise give thought to referring all the facts to President Roosevelt who in the last analysis is responsible for acts by or failure to act of attorney general. After all, the people of this nation must be protected by some government official or by some government agency against political buccaneer. You are free to make my answer public."

Pacific Blows

Many smaller craft also were destroyed.

The sinkings increased to 52 the total of enemy ships in all categories from carriers down to destroyers sent to the bottom since the beginning of the Marianas drive June 10. Four other ships probably have been sunk and 17 plus damaged.

Nimitz' communique tonight reported that Second and Fourth division Marines had spread out on invaded Tinian in the Marianas over one third of the island's north portion, while killing Japs at a rate of better than 19 for each Leatherneck slain.

2,089 Nips Known Dead

Enemy dead total 2,089 and 62 other troops have been captured. American casualties through July 25 were 159 killed, 441 wounded and 32 missing.

The Marines, who previously helped conquer nearby Saipan, pushed south along Tinian's west coast below Faibus San Hilo and on the east coast from Asiga point to the vicinity of Masalog point. These represent gains of roughly up to three miles.

Thunderbolt planes from Saipan, in 124 sorties, tore into Jap troops, ammunition and guns.

Already Navy construction battalions are rushing repairs on the 4,500 foot Ushi point airfield whose capture was announced last night.

FIVE-SHIP CONVOY SMASHED OFF TRUK

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Friday, July 28. (AP)—The smashing of a five-ship Japanese convoy south of Truk and comprehensive bombing of objectives in the strategic Manokwari area of Dutch New Guinea were among widespread aerial strikes reported today by headquarters.

One small freighter and three lugger-type vessels were set afire or probably sunk when Ventura bombers intercepted the convoy Wednesday 160 miles south of Truk in the Caroline islands. One ship escaped by fleeing northward.

Three Dromes Blasted

Three important airdromes around Manokwari were blasted with a total of 59 tons of explosives Wednesday, as Allied planes continued their comprehensive bombing pattern in this region. Large fuel fires were started.

(Manokwari, 50 miles west of American-held Noemfoor island, has been considered a possible invasion point for Allied forces along New Guinea's hump.)

Aerial strikes included a mid-day thrust Wednesday at Woleai, in the Caroline islands. Liberators dropped 30 tons of bombs.

Trapped Nips Still Fight

Japanese forces in the Aitape area of British New Guinea, several hundred miles eastward, continued their attempts to envelope the right flank of American lines along the Driniumor river.

One Japanese attack was repulsed Tuesday on this jungle battlefield, 21 miles east of Aitape. The Nipponese, encircled by strong Allied forces, repeatedly have attempted both to smash and outflank the Driniumor line. They have lost hundreds of men in their fruitless efforts thus far.

A Man Worth Knowing

PEOPLE probably are few here and elsewhere who ever heard of Joseph Lee. He is worth knowing something about because, contrary to Shakespeare, his career offers proof that, as a rule, it is the good that men do that lives after them.

Joseph Lee did a great deal of good during a lifetime of more than 75 years which ended seven years ago today on July 28, 1937. However, it was only his life which came to a close on that day. The good he did lives and grows, and probably will continue to grow with the passage of time.

Lee was a Massachusetts Yankee, who was born, spent most of his life and died in the vicinity of Boston. The absence of places where children—and adults—could play in the crowded cities of the East made a deep impression upon him early in life. So he set about trying to remedy the condition. His efforts took more and more of his time until he devoted most of the last 30 years of his life to urging the provision of playgrounds where people of all ages, especially children, could get together and have fun.

The idea did not go over so well at first. Many critics ridiculed suggestions that anyone should go to any expense to provide places where people might play. They thought it even more absurb that money should be spent for the supervision of play. But Lee persisted. Today he is acclaimed widely as the founder and father of the public playground movement in America.

Playgrounds and organized recreation in every large city and in hundreds of the smaller ones like Lubbock are monuments to his memory. The movement had begun to take hold, and to spread, even before he died, and this meant a great deal more to him, than the Distinguished Service Medal awarded to him for his services as president of the War Camp Community Service which provided recreation for men in the Armed Forces in World War I.

Today, Lubbock is following the example of scores of other city in its observance of "Joseph Lee day." Special programs are planned in various city parks under sponsorship of the City Department of Recreation.

People in Lubbock, and in many parts of the nation, will be better acquainted with Joseph Lee because of today. That is all to the good. Joseph Lee was, and is, a man worth knowing.

Sharing The Burden

ALTHOUGH they lack the facts bearing upon specific cases, most people will endorse the principle of a War Department order a few days ago which required six clothing manufacturers to accept a share of Army contracts to manufacture 4,600,000 new type field jackets for American soldiers.

Just why the particular manufacturers refused to accept the contracts voluntarily has not been made clear. Perhaps their reasons were good. Doubtless the performance of the new contracts will impose hardships upon them.

But the presumption must be that officials in the War Department investigated thoroughly before the recent orders were issued. Presumably, it was their conclusion that the particular manufacturers did not have reasons that were good enough, conditions considered, to escape an equitable share of responsibility for the performance of the proposed contracts. The fact that the order was issued assuredly has done no less than to place the six manufacturers in a most unfavorable light. They stand accused—even convicted in the eyes of the War Department—of refusing to do a patriotic duty except under compulsion.

Anyone can perceive some of the reasons why civilian manufacturers might be reluctant to accept additional war contracts now. Many of those reasons would not reflect any credit upon those guilty or refusal. One reason is that war contracts are being let with greater care, and with a background of specific experience, than was possible earlier in the war. Consequently, they are less profitable than they were. Production for civilian manufacture probably would be more profitable in the clothing business, as a rule.

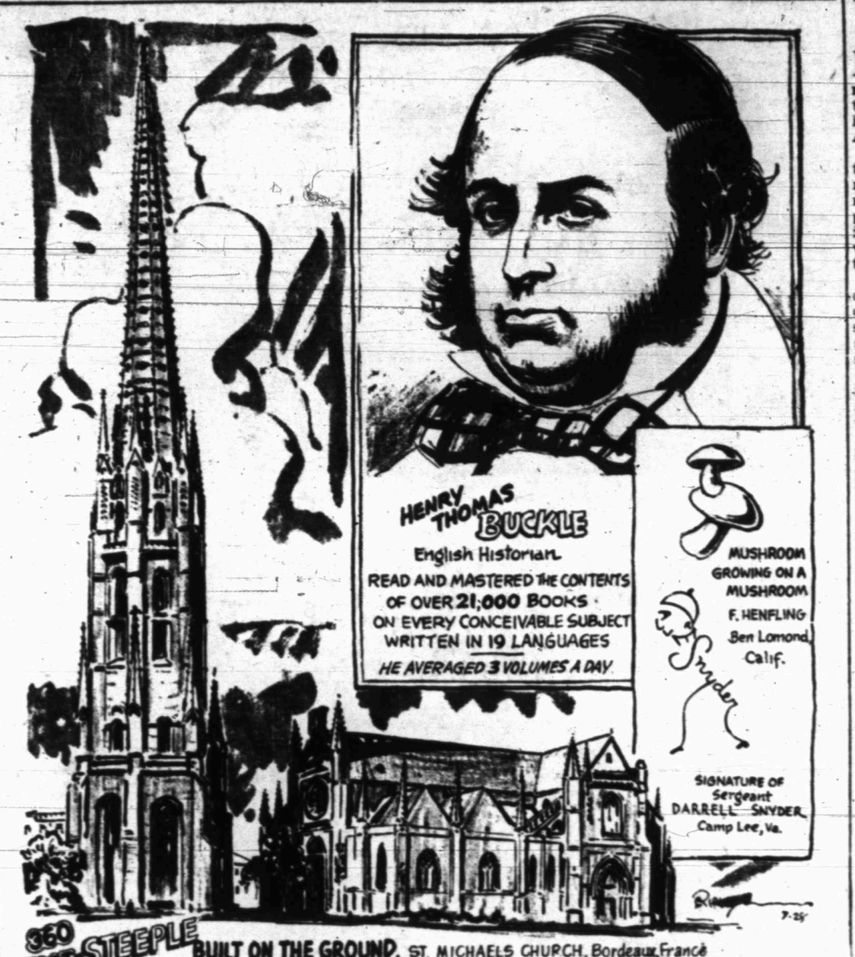

An even more important consideration is that such manufacturers might be anxious to prepare for the post-war period. Obviously, the firms without war contracts will be able to get a considerable head start on those that still have them. Then, of course, there might be legitimate reasons—like manpower shortages.

Few people can pretend to know the reasons that apply to the six manufacturers affected by the War Department order. But, because the order was issued and in the absence of additional information, the inferences are something less than flattering to those who appear to have waited for compulsion before undertaking a job in behalf of America's fighting men.

The One Minute Sermon

FINAL EXAMS

III

THE WAR news is not so bright, but that is not the only excuse for my absent-mindness. I try to pull myself together and I succeed as soon as a task is set before me; but I am a failure at leisure.

On the Saturday night that the nurses have their monthly party, I run away from the fun. Peggy, in her dapper manner, catches me on my way to our room and I stutter a vague excuse which she doesn't believe.

"We'll have to talk that over soon," she says, and her eyes tell me that she understands.

I nod because there is no other answer to friendliness. But what shall we talk over? I can't tell her that I feel like a woman who has looked for the first time into her old age.

It is again a letter which does that to me. Not "UNCLAIMED. RETURN TO SENDER," but a letter Howard wrote three months ago, postmarked Panama. He mentioned this letter while he was here but it hadn't arrived then.

"Probably lost in the shuffle, but don't mind it, darling. I can write you thousands of new ones."

And now the lost letter has arrived but he can't write me new ones any more.

I gather my courage together and open the envelope.

"My darling:

I find that loneliness and separation are like physical pain . . ."

I read it over and over till my head knows it as well as my heart. His spirit is in me forever. The love was always mine. But now his love for his country and his sense of duty have to be mine, too.

PEGGY was not impatient or intolerant and she didn't lose her disarming charm for a moment, but she was very determined when she said: "I hope you won't misunderstand me, Charlotte, if I speak frankly. I like you, and I think you have the makings of a good nurse—a good wartime nurse. But I don't know how you would do in peacetime; or, let me say, civilian life."

"What's on your mind, Peggy?"

"Can't you guess?"

"I'm never good at guessing."

"Have you forgotten the scene with Miss Hamilton already?"

"There was no scene with Miss Hamilton. She complained that her breakfast eggs were boiled too soft, and I told her that millions of people all over the world would be happy if they could only see an egg. That's all."

"That's just it. She wrote a letter to Dr. McCormick about you. She said she wants to be treated with consideration and doesn't need lessons on behavior into the bargain. And Mrs. Bradley's letter had the same slant."

"Mrs. Bradley? She criticized her hard bed and heavy blankets, and I told her that in Russia patients lie on cots and are covered with nothing but their coats — provided they possess any—and that in Leningrad during the siege, people kept the corpses of their starved relatives under the beds in order not to lose their bread rations."

"That's exactly what she mentioned. She is here to get medical care and not lectures about Russia, she said. Do you see now what I mean by wartime and peacetime nurse?"

"I see."

"Dr. McCormick appreciates your work, Charlotte. He knows that you are reliable and devoted, and that's why he won't mention those letters to you himself. Maybe he has the same ideas about petty complaints as you, but after all we are at the home front among civilians; our job isn't to educate them, but to heal their ailments."

I smiled. "Do you feel better now, Peggy?"

"Indeed I do!"

"Well, I'll keep my mouth shut from now on for your sake," I promised, "but sometimes it's a hard job."

ELIZABETH and I are ordered to assist at the Blood Bank this week. We like the work immensely. It is heart-warming to see how thousands and thousands of ordinary people, stenographers, clerks, housewives, are eager to do their bit.

They come with their knitting bags and their newspapers. Patiently they sit in waiting rooms and corridors and await their turn. They bare their arms and watch the red fluid course through the needles and tubes into the bottles. And when they go away they ask when they might come back and once more give their blood for our boys.

Millions of cubic centimeters of blood are collected in all the Blood Banks of the country. Millions of dollars worth of plasma is produced. Yet, not one of these donors asks for money.

THE final examinations are in full swing. We are all nervous and irritable.

Mali is the calmest of the 57 varieties of nervous wrecks. Elizabeth, the oddest one, declares that she prefers artillery fire to the morbid stillness of an examination class room. Juanna and Yvonna are constantly bickering with each other.

"Why don't you keep your strong language till you are in uniform?" asks Peggy. "Swearing goes much better with a lieutenant's rank."

Course On Foods Is Offered At Roosevelt

A six-weeks food production and conservation school is being conducted at Roosevelt school and will continue until Aug. 30, according to Dwight Lindsey, teacher of vocational agriculture at the school. Mrs. Comer of the community is serving as instructor.

The school is held four days a week, Tuesday through Friday, from 8 a. m. to 12 noon and 2 p. m. to 6 p. m. daily. Purpose of the course is to instruct people of community in the proper methods of canning and preserving with modern equipment.

All equipment used is government owned and was sent to the community to be used by anyone having food to can. All expenses are paid by the government.

City Starts Vacant Lot Weed Cutting

Vacant lots will be cropped of weeds in a program commenced Thursday under direction of the city commission.

Work was started on Thirty-fourth street west of Avenue G, according to the report. From that point, the mower will progress on the streets and vacant lots west of Q until First is reached. It then will be shifted to other parts of the city. About six weeks will be required to complete the work, officials estimated.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

I HAVE been doing a lot of thinking about this little item from France:

"Acting on German orders, the Vichy Government is using criminals for the detection of time bombs."

In other words, if there is a bomb around, the thief or embezzler or murderer is blown to smitherines. A cheap, convenient, easy way to get rid of him.

I don't know just why that little story gave the the shudders among all this daily death and destruction of which we read every day. But it did.

It isn't so much the completely perverted mentality of the enemy that is so apalling.

It is the primitive statue of all human values that impressed me.

What do we in our own country do about our criminals?

What have we ever done about eradicating crime rather than punishing it?

We stick our criminals into prisons. Let them rot away for a given number of years and turn them loose again upon society.

Our penal institutions, our whole criminal system, with few exceptions, are inefficient, outmoded, graft-ridden, and entirely inadequate to cure crime.

They remind me of a zoo, where the animals are fed, kept in cages and left to their own devices.

CRIMINOLOGY has tried to explore the criminal's mind and makeup, but it has not succeeded.

Many books have been written about him, and much research has been made. But crime is increasing, not decreasing.

At present, of course, we attribute everything to the war. But there was crime in peace times, and there will be crime when peace comes again.

Picture the murderer who has just been executed. Wasn't he a baby once? Wasn't he loved by a mother and a father? Didn't he have the innocent, inquisitive, wide-open mind of a child?

Couldn't proper guidance and a sympathetic society have made a useful citizen out of him rather than a wastrel and a pervert?

Unfortunately, we live in a civilization which is much more concerned with the strong than with the weak.

It is good that we look up, but we should also look down. It is good that we push ahead, but we must also give a pull to those who stay behind.

I don't believe in coddling criminals. But I do not think that it is right to put a criminal into prison and leave him rot there than I believe in taking a sick person to a hospital and then leave him without medical and nursing care.

Crime is a disease for which a cure must be found, just the same as we will eventually find a cure for cancer.

Making mine detectors out of criminals may be the Nazi way of curing crime, but it should not be ours.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

HARRY S. TRUMAN is probably the most modest man to run for high national office in many, many years. Indeed, the Democrats' vice presidential candidate is painfully humble. In that respect he resembles the rival whom he displaced, Henry Agard Wallace.

The man from Missouri sincerely did not desire the second-place nomination. He is that strange rarity in American politics—an individual who does not consider himself qualified for the number two post, especially as he may be called upon to move into the White House if the administration forces win next November. He has never had any executive experience.

Private, personal reasons led the senator to overcome his diffidence. The honor gives him another chance to live down the fact that his original sponsor was Boss Tom Pendergast, whose reign ended when he was sentenced to Federal prison some years ago.

Most people in Washington feel that Mr. Truman wiped out that accidental heritage by his fair and efficient conduct of his Senate investigation of war contracts.

DOUBTS: Henry A. Wallace was sidetracked because, as a practical politico explains in an after-convention statement, "He puts a period where there ought to be a comma."

The meaning of that seemingly cryptic remark is that the shy and philosophical Iowan does not talk the language of the district clubhouse. He is uncomfortable in the presence of the ward heelers, and they are in his. Henry was just too saintly for the rough and tumble.

Preconvention preliminaries cast new light on FDR's two letters indicating plainly that he would not be offended if the delegates decided to dump Mr. Wallace.

A careful survey taken before the President wrote his epistles to the Democrats disclosed that renaming of the V.P. might lose approximately five million votes in key spots. His selection, according to this canvass, might have driven such states as Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and possibly Illinois into the Dewey column.

Even now these areas are listed as doubtful battlegrounds. But administration confidents, like the Flynns, Hagues and Kellys, figure they have a better chance than if the CIO's favorite had been chosen again.

PEACE: FDR will shift the emphasis of his re-election appeal as a result of a conceivable pre-November crack-up of the Reich and further American triumphs over Japan. The final edition of the Chicago platform, as well as postconvention comment, hint at the changed strategy.

Mr. Roosevelt may drop his "commander-in-chief" role, in vew of the conflict's becoming a secondary issue by early fall. His advisers fear that the war will lose its political potency.

A Nazi collapse may give the GOP-ers the opportunity they have been praying for. Then they will make the assertion that they can be better trusted with the problem of prudent management of postwar America.

The President, however, will be hard to outsmart. He will counter with the argument that his experience and foreign friendships qualify him to help reorganize the world in the interest of a prosperous United States. In short, he will run, not so much as the prophet and director of Allied victory, as the only man who can advance and uphold our aims at the peace table.

RESENTMENT: White House snubbing of Alben W. Barkley dispelled the widely-held suspicion that his tax bill rebellion was a "phony war." It was the real thing.

Probably no distinguished Democrat is more disgruntled or disappointed than the Senate majority leader. FDR never mentioned him as a possible substitute for Henry A. Wallace. Consequently, the Kentucky senator receiver only a few complimentary nods from the assemblage. He suffered severe loss of prestige.

"Dear Alben's" resentment is understandable. He is up for re-election next fall. And in the gubernatorial and a special congressional contest last year the bluegrass country showed unmistakable Republican symptons.

His friends wonder whether, like Mr. Wallace, he was dealt the "kiss of death."

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

WHERE will the next leak develop in the German dike? The split between Prussian professionals and Nazi usurpers had long been anticipated by news writers—and by gimlet-eyed Himmler. But there are other weak spots in the Reich that are not known to the outside world, especially in farm, student and labor circles.

From reports received by the underground headquarters in New York, the following new facts about the German revolution are uncovered:

At the time of the first reversals on the Russian front, Hitler gave secret instructions to the Waffen SS to keep a weather eye on the junkers. During the retreat the watchdogs turned their machine guns on commissioned officers whom they accused of running away.

Unrest seeped down to the ranks of the Wehrmacht. Shortly before the Anglo-American invasion, Berlin installed political commisars in every division. The function of this NSFO corps, as it is called, is to indoctrinate Nazism and—to quote Goering—make "unshakable, politically schooled fighters."

WEAKNESS: The putsch did not make as much headway as the conspirators had expected because many officers had been tipped off that their wives, children and other relatives were under observation by the Gestapo and that, at the first sign of disloyalty, their families would be thrown into concentration camps. Innocent victims such as these are among the condemned being purged by Hangman Himmler.

The major weakness of the junkers is that none of the generals has a popular following, a factor usually vital in any successful uprising. The two soldiers who at the moment enjoy the favor of the masses are Goering and Rommel; both are Nazis.

The Allied governments are stumped by a problem arising from the current disorders. There appears to be no group from which we could accept surrender. There is not a single faction powerful enough to hand over the sword.

BETRAYAL: Statesmen hope for a cleavage within the inner circle of the Nazis—like the one among Mussolini's side partners—but there are few signs as yet.

Last year Gauleiter Wagner, Count Reischach and other fanatics urged Hitler to "cleanse the hierarchy of lukewarm and defeatist elements." But as all of the Brownshirt leaders now realize that there will be no mercy shown by the United Nations, they have closed their ranks.

No opposition political party exists to which we could grant an armistice. In the last war the Kaiser called members of the Reichstag "Lousy clowns in that dirt shop." But he allowed the body to sit for he had sworn to respect the constitution.

President Wilson was thus able to offer his proposals to its agents. But the officials who accepted the harsh terms, and later as the republican government tried to carry them out, were driven from power. Hitler and persons of his ilk branded these democrats as the men who betrayed the Fatherland.

So far as future history is concerned, it may be a good thing that the Prussian military clique tried and failed to murder the Fuehrer.

German school children of tomorrow may be taught that, in the hour of their nation's peril from the advancing Communists, the generals stabbed the state in the back. This may blot out the halo which the Germans have always seen surrounding every brass hat.

And if the destruction of their property by the Allies makes the Germans realize that a war policy is no longer profitable, their worship of the mailed fist may never be revived.

Texans In Washington

Everywhere You Go In U. S. Capital You'll Find Texans

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 27 — Around the Capital: Down at the Justice Department, paying their respects to Assistant U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark of Dallas were Percy Rice, Dallas lawyer, and Warren Moore, former federal attorney in Beaumont, now a naval lieutenant commander stationed at New Orleans.

Speaking of courtesy calls, former Governor James V. Allred was asked while waiting to see Senator Tom Connally whether he was going to drop by W. Lee O'Daniel's office to pay his respects to the other Texas Senator. Flashed back Jimmie, "I don't pay what I don't owe."

Didn't Have Agreement

Publisher Gene Howe of the Amarillo News Globe, by chance in Connally's reception room at the same time, got to reviewing Texas politics with Allred. The latter, referring to his resignation as a federal judge to enter the senate race against O'Daniel, said he honestly had never been motivated by a "more lofty, sincere" urge to render public service than when he stepped down from the life-time position on the bench.

Notwithstanding a lot of public opinion to the contrary, he not only didn't have any agreement with the President for reappointment to the bench, but talked only with one person about giving up the judgeship, Allred added. That individual was Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson of Austin, who then was enroute to the Southwest Pacific as a naval lieutenant commander.

Lieut. Pat Hardage, Wichita Falls postmaster on leave, has recently returned here after several months duty with the Army postal service in various South American countries.

Inquires About Hospital

R. H. Nichols, publisher of the Vernon Daily Record, was there inquiring into the recently announced plan of the Veterans Administration to locate a new hospital in Texas. Veterans officially say there won't be any further consideration of the matter before next October.

THERE are plenty of Texans in uniform as well as many others who are giving long hours of war service in government jobs. There are others from the Lone Star State here in Washington who have distinguished themselves in private, professional and business fields in the national capital.

Among these are Robert Simmons, 49, born near San Antonio and graduated from the University of Texas where he and his brother, Paul, formed a stellar backfield pair for the Longhorns back about 1915. Bob is a top executive with Johns-Manville. A golfer and bowler of some repute, Bob also is a "joiner" and is currently president of Washington's famed Touchdown Club. He is married and has two sons in the armed forces and a daughter.

Former Grid Star

Ralph Pittman, 42, practices law here and has a beautiful home near Rock Creek Park. An all-Southwest Conference backfield man at Baylor U. in '23 and '24, he maintains his legal residence at De-Leon and is connected with a law firm in Wichita Falls. He's active in politics; helped manage John Nance Garner's presidential bid in 1932 and was selected at the May convention in Austin as a member of the pro-Roosevelt delegation to Chicago. He is married and has a daughter.

Marshall Digs, formerly of Dallas, also practices law here. He was acting comptroller of the currency in 1937 and 1938.

Raleigh Dawson, 41, comes from San Antonio and is in the motor accessories business. He was a cheer leader at Baylor when he finished there in 1942. He's now district manager of the Cushman Motor Company, with four eastern states under his supervision.

Corpus Men Active

Ralph Bradford, general manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce, hails from Corpus Christi. He got his start in chamber of commerce work in Texas soon after the last war.

Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, is executive vice president and legislative representative of the Louisiana-Texas Intra-Coastal Canal association. Once known as the "Boy Mayor of Corpus Christi," a former newspaper man and long active in Texas Democratic circles—he is of the Garner school of conservatives — the distinguished looking white-haired Texan is one of the foremost authorities in the nation on inland waterways.

In Dad's Footsteps

Dale Miller, following in the footsteps of his father, Roy, formerly worked on the editorial staff of a Texas magazine. Now he is the Washington representative of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. It's his business to take up with various federal agencies, or congressional committees, problems that arise affecting Dallas business concerns.

Hope Ridings Miller, formerly of Sherman and Paris, is society editor of the Washington Post.

Committee Sets Plan On Sale Of Vast Surplus War Stocks

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—Placing at $103,000,000,000 the probably value of surplus war goods, a Senate subcommittee tonight recommended disposal through "regular trade channels" wherever possible, assuring small business a substantial share.

In a preliminary report, the special small business subcommittee headed by Senator Stewart (D-Tenn) also proposed that Congress pass upon the disposition of government-owned war plants costing $5,000,000 or more. Such plants would be leased for two years by the surplus property administrator, but final sale or disposition would require the lawmakers' approval.

Far Over Other War

The volume of surplus war materials, facilitates and equipment contemplated in the report is roughly 17 times that which remained — about $6,000,000,000 worth—at the end of World war I.

To discourage speculators, the subcommittee composed of Stewart and Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Murray (D-Mont) said Congress should direct that surplus property suitable for civilian use be sold in small lots, through regional offices, and that credit terms be made available to established business concerns.

The report asked that the Smaller War Plants corporation be authorized to buy surplus supplies and resell to small business as a curb on monopolistic trends.

Preference To Veterans

The report suggested preference to veterans who need equipment or supplies for postwar civilian business. Post exchanges and ship's stores for their benefit after the war could be operated, the group added.

Submitted with the report was a proposed bill to set up a surplus war property administration within the office of war mobilization. Such an office already exists, directed by W. L. Clayton. It was set up within OWM by executive order of President Roosevelt, Feb. 21, 1944. The bill proposes it as a policy control agency, with actual property disposal to be handled by the Army, Navy and other war agencies.

Policy On Large Sales

In proposing that disposition of industrial facilities costing above $5,000,000 be left to Congress, the report said this policy should apply especially to aircraft, aircraft parts, synthetic rubber, high octane gasoline, aluminum, magnesium, steel, ships or shipyards, and pipelines.

As a further safeguard the subcommittee said the attorney general's office also should review all property sales of more than $5,000,000.

Officers' Chat Was Heard In Other Cars

FORT WORTH, July 27. (AP)—The Red glow still hadn't entirely disappeared today from the faces of City Patrolmen J. B. Davis and J. A. Davis.

Talking as men will as they ride together hour after hour, the patrolmen discussed politics, the war—and their fellow officers.

After an hour of gabbing, two other patrol cars drew alongside and informed the Davises that the mike on their two-way radio was "alive" and that their sometimes intimate talk was audible to all other patrol cars in the city.

WOMEN TO MEET

AUSTIN, July 27. (AP)—Members of the Home Demonstration association, composed of women belonging to Texas Home demonstration clubs, will hold their annual meeting here Aug. 1, it was announced today. Mrs. Leon Sullivan of Red Oak, Ellis county, is president of the association.

Used Car Dealers Given OPA Warning

A warning to used car dealers that their refusal to sell automobiles unless the purchaser trades in another car is in direct violation of a ceiling price regulation, was sounded Thursday by Howard R. Gholson of the OPA district office in Lubbock.

In order to clear up other possible misunderstanding of the used car ceiling price regulation, which went into effect July 10, the director said it specifically prohibits a dealer from forcing a purchaser of a used automobile to make payment for it over a period of time or to require the purchaser to finance through any particular lending agency. The dealer further must not require a purchaser of a used car to buy any accessories, repairs, parts or services so as to increase the total amount paid to more than the legal maximum price for the vehicle.

The regulation, Gholson said, provides dollars-and-cents prices for certain designated extra equipment. A dealer is not permitted, however, to make an extra charge for any accessories or extra equipment not specifically listed and priced in the regulation. A dealer may not charge extra for seat covers, fog lights or other unlisted extra equipment or accessories irrespective of whether the accessories are sold, attached to the vehicle or separately.

A program starting at 9:30 o'clock this morning and culminating with a street dance between Sixth and Seventh on Avenue T from 9:30 until 11 o'clock tonight has been arranged for today's observance of Joseph Lee day in Lubbock, according to announcement Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Grace Dyess, superintendent of the city recreation department.

George Bernard Shaw Gives His Views On Lasting Peace

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Bernard Shaw, known variously as one of the world's great literary figures, as leader of a cult who disdains cults, called the "literary bad boy" and "professional Irishman;" who is accused of taking an entirely orthodox delight in unorthdoxy, is 88 years old today. Asked for is views on certain post-war problems, the reply which follows verifies that time dulls neither the edge of his tongue nor his ideas, which brought bitter condemnation upon him in World war I. The manuscript of the following was delivered to the Associated Press in shorthand, with a note saying he had no time to transcribe it.)

By GEORGE BERNARD SHAW
(Written for the Associated Press)

LONDON—Do I believe a lasting peace can be assured by a close-working and vigorous post-war alliance of the "Big Four"—Great Britain, the United States, Russia and China?

No. A lasting peace cannot be assured by any measures at present possible. Even a post-war alliance of the big four cannot be assured. The people who clamor for assurances and security are public nuisances.

Whatever arrangements follow the war we must still live dangerously, whether we like it or not.

Replies To Questions

(To a series of questions, Mr. Shaw wrote the following replies):

Question: Should Germany be totally disarmed and split into small, separate states such as existed before they were united under Bismark?

Shaw: No. If disarmament and disintegration are desirable for Germany they are desirable for all the big powers as well. None of them will consent to it.

Question: Should the German people be permitted to choose and elect their own form of government immediately after the war? Or should there be an interim government of Great Britain, the United States and Russia? For how long a period?

Shaw: If the German people are not permitted to choose and elect their own form of government, the government must be imposed on them by the Allies, in which case it will not be their own form of government. It will be like out (British) Indian civil service. This would end as the Indian service is ending . . .

Like Wounded Prisoner

Question: What should be Germany's post-war relationship to the rest of the world? Should she be treated as a criminal, brought to book, and taught a lesson she will never forget? Or should she be forgiven, once Nazism has been cast out, and freely accepted into the family of nations?

Shaw: If Germany is defeated, her relationship to her conquerors will be that of a wounded prisoner of war to his captors. When we take such a prisoner we give him every care and attention until he is cured, exactly as if he were one of our own soldiers.

That is how we shall treat Germany if we have any sense. She cannot be treated as a criminal—at least not lawfully—because war is not a crime by the law of nations.

Can't Rebuild Cities

Question: Should Germany be made to help rebuild the cities she destroyed?

Shaw: Germany will hardly be able, without our help, to rebuild German cities we have destroyed.

Question: Do you favor a prolonged armistice, rather than an immediate formal peace, and how long should Allied troops occupy Germany?

Shaw: This is a mug's alternative. As long as war lasts as an institution, no peace can be anything but an armistice.

Anglos More Conceited

Question: Should German schools, films, radios, books, etc., be prohibited from teaching racialism, as a bar to recurrence of Hitler's credo of "German supermen?"

Shaw: No. Such a prohibition would stimulate the teaching and intensify the following instead of suppressing them. All nations and races regard themselves as herrenvolk. The English and Americans are more conceited in this respect than even my countrymen, the Irish.

Question: Do you believe that the Germans— under whatever guise—will always produce an imperial Kaiser or dictator to lead them in plunging the world into war?

Treat Germans Decently

Shaw: All unhappy and suppressed nations will run after any able adventurer who promises to deliver them. Our business therefore is not to make any nation unhappy or suppress it. If we had not suppressed Germany after 1918 there would have been no Hitler . . .

Question: How do you think Germany can best be prevented from springing again at the throat of Europe?

Shaw: Treat Germany decently. Then she will not want to spring at our throats.

Do not forget that Hitler, even if he be defeated and slaughtered, has made us pay a dreadful price for the cowardice that moved us to kick Germany when she was down after 1918 instead of helping to her feet again.

Chef Gives Tips On Salad Making

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Crisp greens, shreds of meat and a good dressing—that's the secret of some of the famous salads restaurants feature in summer. Mario Sorre, maitre at the Cafe DuBois in New York, says:

"The first prerequisite for a successful salad is to shred the greens just before serving. This assures crispness and flavor. The simplest salad dressing consists of oil, vinegar, salt and pepper, but many variations are possible.

"Unfortunately, Americans have no access to the most delicious base for salad dressing—the sprakling, ruby-red wine vinegar made before the war in Europe from 'pedigreed' grapes," he adds. "The best grades of Burgundy or claret wines were used for this. It is my hope that after the war, this type of vinegar whose mild yet tangy flavor is so different from dometsic brands, will be a stock item on every American pantry shelf."

Cafe DuBois Chef's Salad
(Serves 2)

One half cup shredded breast of chicken, cooked; ½ cup shredded ham, cooked; ½ cup shredded tongue, cooked. Enough freshly shredded lettuce, romaine and chicory for two.

Dressing

Juice of 1 lemon, ½ teaspoon English mustard, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon A-1 sauce, salt, pepper, 4 tablespoons olive oil, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

First mix all ingerdients except oil and mayonnaise. Then stir olive oil into the mixture. Add mayonnaise last.

Pour over the shredded greens and meat and blend thoroughly. Arrange on plate and garnish with quartered tomatoes and hard-cooked eggs. (Add the juice of another half lemon if extra tartness is desired).

If olive oil is not available, select the best oil substitute you can find.

It's not necessary to mould fat for salvage into shells, Mrs. Jones!"

Beef And Pot Roasts Can Be Glorified

Your point-free chuck or rump roast of beef can be glorified in a pot roast, carefully made.

Pot Roast Supreme

Four pounds of chuck or rump roast, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, 3 tablespoons enriched all-purpose flour, ½ cup water, 5 potatoes, 5 carrots, 5 onions, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon chopped celery leaves, 3 tablespoons shortening.

Mix salt, pepper and flour. Dredge meat in flour and brown on all sides in hot shortening. Place meat and water in a large covered pan and roast in 325 degrees F. oven 45 minutes per pound of meat. During the last 45 minutes, add the vegetables. When meat and vegetables are done, remove to a hot platter. Garnish with carrot tops. Total roasting time 3 hours.

To make the gravy, place the pan on the stove and add 1½ cups water. Bring to a boil and gradually stir in a thickening made of 3 tablespoons of flour and 1/3 cup water. Season with 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

KITCHEN KORNER

Never put cold water in enamel pans while the pot or pan is hot.

Salmon was named "salmo" by the Romans who took it from the Latin word meaning "to leap."

Use moderate heat when cooking eggs so as not to toughen the protein.

Tough cuts of meat should be cooked by moist heat. Stew these cuts, pot roast or braise in covered utensils with liquid added.

During summer try to include one hot offering in the menu, the cool foods will seem even more refreshing by contrast.

Parsley and celery leaves add interest and color to many dishes when the leaves are finely minced and used in small amounts.

Corn is good scrambled with eggs, creamed, scalloped with white sauce or mixed in with hashed browned potatoes.

Peel onions under running cold water and you won't shed a tear. A little salt rubbed on your hands will absorb any remaining odor.

Chilled canned tomatoes with a dash of salt, pepper and tarragon vinegar can substitute for a salad in a pinch.

Never keep tomatoes, melons and other products subject to mold in a tightly closed damp place.

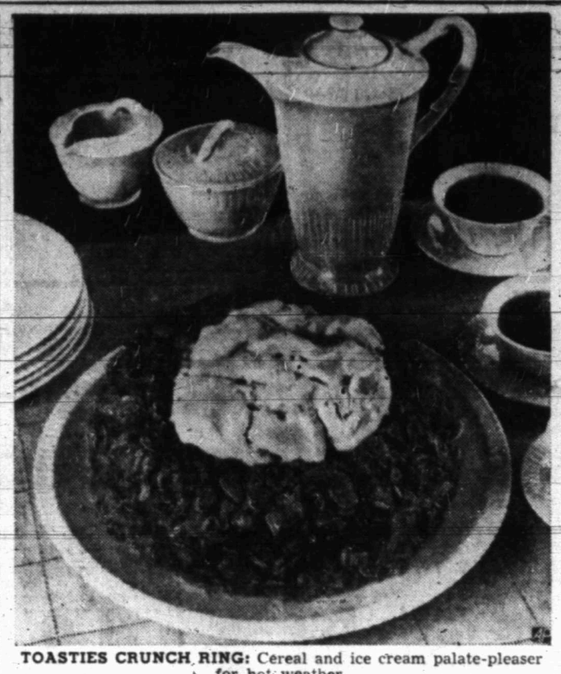

Leafy vegetables, broccoli, asparagus and snap beans keep best in a covered container in the refrigerator.

To freshen slightly wilted leafy vegetables like celery, lettuce, spinach, soak in cool rather than ice water.

A temperature between 40 and 50 degrees F. is best for the temporary storage of most fruits and vegetables.

Pre-war production of dried eggs in the United States jumped from about 5 million pounds a year to 262 million pounds in 1943.

Bananas, avocadoes and other tropical fruits suffer from chilling at temperatures of 40 degrees F. or below so should be kept this cold only briefly.

TOASTIES CRUNCH RING: Cereal and ice cream palate-pleaser for hot weather.

Crisp Summer Sweets Perk Up Heat-Wilted Appetites

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
AP Food Editor

The word "crisp" in summer makes you think of dresses and suits that are starched and immaculate—not wilted and bedraggled by the heat.

It should make you think, too, of food that looks alive, that gives you something to crunch upon without being too hearty. Perhaps your mind turns instantly to broilers or fried chicken—crisp and brown. They are good food for summer.

Another food that should be crisp and all too often isn't is salad. Wash your greens the minute you get them home from market or in from the garden. Drain them completely. Then put them into a covered refrigerator dish and chill them thoroughly. They'll be crisp and inviting when you take them out at the very last minute and toss them quickly with your best French dressing.

But in particular, let's see what can be done about making crisp desserts for summer. First, we want them to involve as little trouble as possible, so we will keep them simple. Illustrated is one which will bring cheers from young and old. It's absolutely delectable as to texture and flavor.

Toasties Crunch Ring

½ cup honey
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ tablespoon butter or margarine
6 cups corn flakes
1 pint peach ice cream

Combine honey, sugar and salt and cook 10 minutes, or until a small amount of syrup forms a firm ball in cold water (246°). Add shortening. Add cornflakes, stirring lightly to coat flakes. Press into greased ring mold. When cool, unmold and fill center with ice cream. Mixed, cut up fruits may be substituted for the ice cream. This serves six to eight.

NOTE: 1-3 cup chopped meats may be added, if desired. Molasses may be substituted for honey.

Here's a way to achieve crispness with fruit.

Peach Crunch

3 pounds peaches
1 cup flour
½ cup margarine
½ cup sugar
Nutmeg

Fill greased baking dish with peeled, sliced peaches. Mix flour and sugar well. Make a paste by mixing them with the margarine. Spread this mixture over the top of the peaches. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake at 375° 35 minutes. This is best served hot, but may be cooled if you prefer.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Peas, asparagus and sweet corn keep their sweetness three times as long in a refrigerator as in a warm room.

Brown or white eggs are equally good in flavor. Freshness rather than color is of far greater importance when selecting eggs.

Nimitz Plans To Attack Without Hesitation; Weather Is Still Key

EDITOR'S NOTE: William F. Tyree and Russell Annabel, United Press war correspondents in the Pacific area, met at San Francisco. Annabell was on the mainland for the first time in 28 months after covering major stories in the Alaska-Aleutians territory from the initial Dutch Harbor attack to the recent bombardment of the Kurile chain. He is a veteran of Attu, Amchitka and Kiska. Tyree, on leave from his post as manager of the Honolulu bureau, covered the Pearl Harbor attack, the battles of the Coral sea and Midway, as well as actions in the Marshalls, the Gilberts and the Marianas. After conferring on the situation in their respective areas Tyree and Annabel wrote the following stories which present an up-to-date minute panorama of the war in the Central and North Pacific.

By RUSSELL ANNABEL
United Press War Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26. — Weather is still the key to military developments in the North Pacific and now, for the first time in his sub-Arctic war, the shroud-like fogs, the screaming winds and the blinding sea blizzards which characterize the northern ocean are weapons which we can use against the enemy at will.

Weather is a weapon which very probably will decide the outcome of the final great sea battle of the war when the Japanese send out their hidden fleet in an effort to break the ring of steel which is being drawn around them.

Weather Favored Japs

During the early months of the war the North Pacific weather favored the Japanese because they were on the offensive and could use the fogs and blizzards to screen their movements. But when they lost the offensive, the weather became their enemy. Our surface task forces now follow the fog banks across the ocean, to lie off the Kurile beaches and shoot up hangars, supply dumps and gun positions.

Despite the fact that a large percentage of the Japanese bomber and fighter strength is based on Matsuwa, Paramushiro and Shumushu, the enemy has been powerless to prevent shelling of his installations. The thick, low lying Kurile fog pins the Jap planes to the ground as effectively as a thousand Hellcats could.

When the time comes for an American landing in these islands, the enemy commanders will be as helpless as during the naval shellings—they will be caught with useless air strength to combat amphibious landing teams. There will be enemy infantry, of course, and enemy artillery, but primarily the Kurile outposts are airbases.

An important result of our freedom of movement in the North Pacific is that Siberian bases are no longer requisite to an American strike against Japan from the north. In fact, the bases probably would serve no useful purpose, as they would be too far from the main jap islands to be valuable as bomber bases even if the conquest of the northern route were to be a contest of air strength, which it will not be.

Such islands as Matsuwa and Etorofu, for example, would give us aerial striking bases within fighter range of the main Jap islands, whereas the best Siberian sites are so far north that only our longest-range bombers could be operated from them.

The location of the Kurlie islands along the entrance to the sea of Okhotsk, and the fact that they provide a series of stepping stones down the rim of Asia to the Japanese homeland, may inspire the enemy to make a last desperate effort to regain the offensive in this area. An important additional reason for this is that the enemy admirals have suffered devastating reverses whenever they have gone in against American carrier-based airpower—and consequently they may decide that their best chance in a final battle would be here in the fog-blanketed North Pacific where weather wouled cancel our airpower and the warships could close and slug it out for complete victory or defeat.

By WILLIAM F. TRYEE
United Press War Correspondent

SAN FRANCISO, July 26.—In slightly less than a year the Pacific offensive has surged from the shores of tropical New Georgia island to the very fringes of the Japanese empire at Saipan and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz intends ot strike on without hesitation.

'We have breached the Japanese line of inner defense and we will capitalize on it with all the means available," the Pacific fleet commander says confidently.

Has Warships Armada

He means it, too. He has more than words to put into the battle.

His armada of warships—capable of hurling thousands of fast carried-based aircraft at any chosen target or matching gunnery with any combination of surface vessels the enemy can operate—is the most powerful the world has ever known. It has driven the Japanese fleet into an ever-shrinking pocket and, now threatens every remaining enemy base in the pacific, including Japan itself.

Only supplies limit a more rapid spread of the offensive.

Keep Carrying The Ball

"When you've got the ball, you must keep carrying it," Admiral Nimitz said recently. "I imagine the Japanese would like to know where we will strike next, but that one of our secret weapons. As our supplies and opportunities mount, we will hit the enemy ever harder."

Somewhere west of Saipan, the admiral expects to smoke out the Japanese fleet. He provoked a sizeable chunk of the enemy's naval strength by attacking the Marianas. His far-ranging search planes are still looking for the remainder. Giant B-29 Superfortresses from China and Liberators and Venturas in the Aleutians have completed the tightening noose.

Attack Is Only Plan

The only plan is attack.

Before the American forces are the Philippines, the Japanese homeland, Formosa and the China coast.

Estimates of the amount of time it will take us to clean up these strongholds of enemy power vary from one to three years. Many experts think 18 months will do the trick. But cagey veterans like Admiral Nimitz refuse to gaze into crystal balls. They say simply that the Americans will triumph and refuse to give victory a time limit.

The annual value of coal mined in the United States is greater than that of all other metals combined.

Sweeping Program To Bring "Order Out Of Chaos" Planned By Dewey

ALBANY, N. Y., July 27 (U.P.) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, said today he would place a sweeping program before the St. Louis GOP governors' conference next week in an effort to "bring out of chaos which has existed between the federal government and the states for 12 years."

Dewey's program, which was approved by his running mate, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, includes 15 major issues:

Public Expenditures First

1. Public expenditures.
2. Public health.
3. Administration of unemployment insurance.
4. Administration of employment services.
5. Relationship between unemployment insurance and employment services.

Public Works Included

6. Labor—the sphere of influence of the national government as contrasted to local government.
7. Public works, the extent to be financed and supervised by the various units of government.
8. Highways.
9. Regulation of insurance.

Conservation Is Plank

10. Ownership of national lands.
11. Water and flood control and the conservation of national resources.
12. The National Guard, whether it shall be returned to the states in the post-war era or remain federalized.
13. The whole problem of federal and state tax coordination.
14. Agriculture, the extent to which agriculture, soil conservation and controls, if any, should be administered by the national government or the states regionally.
15. Veterans affairs.

Capt. Lucey Not To Be GOP Candidate

DALLAS, July 27. (AP) — Capt. J. F. Lucey, Dallas Republican leader, announced today that he would not be a candidate for governor on the Republican ticket this year.

The announcement followed a recent statement by H. K. McDowell of San Angelo, member of the Republican state executive committee, that a number of Republicans was urging Captain Lucey to make the race and that his name would be presented to that party's state convention when it meets in Dallas next month.

"I appreciate the honor, very much, but under the circumstances I could not accept it even if it were offered me,' said Captain Lucey, who added that he would be out of the state and unable to attend the convention.

Glover New District Attorney At Seymour

AUSTIN, July 27. (AP)—Thomas F. Glover of Seymour today was appointed district attorney for the 50th judicial district in succession to Charles Blount of Paducah, who resigned.

Governor Coke R. Stevenson, who announced the appointment, said Glover was nominated in Saturday's primary election for district attorney for the full term beginning next January and Blount, who was a candidate for re-nomination, withdrew his candidacy and also resigned the office.

"El Diablo," Flying Jeep Is Doughboys' Best Friend In Air

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS In Normandy, July 13. (Delayed)—The doughboys' best aerial pal in France is "El Diablo," the little "flying jeep" which once saved an American company from being trapped and which on another occasion called down fire location to them so accurately that 150 Germans were wiped out.

"Diablo" is a small observation plane that acts as a spotter for an artillery battalion. Front line German gunners hate it worse than they do a dozen fighters.

Piloted by Lt. John Holloman, Livingston, Tex., it circles over the battle area while Lt. Fred (Luke) Madden, Hazard, Ky., directs the artillery fire on the targets behind the German lines.

Once they caught four Nazi trucks trying to sneak supplies forward and with the first volley they called down two were destroyed. The others wheeled to the safety of the rear.

Madden on another occasion called in three battalions to fire on German troops, concentrated in a ravine. The doughboys later found 150 dead Germans there.

"It's fun to direct fire on enemy trucks or tanks because you can see the results," said Madden, "but we help our own doughboys more by searching out enemy gun positions for our artillery to destroy.

"Diablo" or any one of the other planes in the group commanded by Maj. J. Elmore Swenson, Salt Lake City, can call down a whole corps of artillery on a German battery or any other important target.

The work of this group won the personal congratulations of General Eisenhower on July 3, during his Normandy tour. Swenson received the bronze star for his planning and leadership. The men thought it was swell to be praised by the supreme commander, but even a prouder tribute came from the infantrymen who said:

"Those Cubs are our best friends. At the front we'd rather see a Cub than a Thunderbolt any time."

BOWLES EXPLAINS ACT

The Editor
The Morning Avalanche
Lubbock, Texas

Dear Sir:

My attention has been called to an editorial in the Morning Avalanche of July 7. It refers to an OPA increase in certain cotton textile prices following enactment of the new Stabilization Extension act of 1944. You ask: "Has the step been one of necessity, or was it taken in an attempt to vindicate an advance prediction by OPA officials?" A series of questions then infers that "OPA is trying to make itself look good as a prophet." You add that the Morning Avalanche "does not pretend to know what the answer to these questions might be."

I should appreciate an opportunity to comment in your columns on these questions.

First, there has been widespread confusion between the original Bankhead Amendment on textile prices and the modified version finally incorporated in the statute. There were great differences between these two versions. We estimated that the original version of the Bankhead amendement would have increased textile prices by a minimum of 150 million dollars. This would mean an average increase in textile ceilings at the mill level of only 2½ per cent or less.

Nevertheless, a widely publicized report commenting on the textile amendment in its final form said that the increase in textile ceiling prices at the mill level would amount to 150 million dollars. This figure is wrong. It applies to the Bankhead Amendment in its original form—not in its final version. Your observation that OPA announced an increase of 7½ per cent in textile price ceiling after the passage of the Act was, heretofore, based on a misunderstanding which is, unfortunately, still current and which I feel sure you will wish to correct.

I am somewhat more disturbed, however, by your inference that "OPA is trying to make itself look good as a prophet." During the hearings, the members of my staff and I who appeared before the Congressional committees made every effort to provide all the information at our disposal necessary to a careful examination of the proposed amendments to the Act. We repeatedly made it clear, however, that after the bill became law, we would carry out the directives of Congress in good faith and to the very best of our abality. Our principal responsibility under the act is to stabilize prices and rents. At the same time, we are required by statute to make price adjustments under certain conditions. The textile amendment established certain conditions under which additional price adjustments in the textile field were required. We made these adjustments as promtly as possible.

As a matter of fact, the new standards for pricing of textiles require that "on and after the date of the enactment of this paragraph, it shall be unlawful" to establish any maximum price for a major cotton textile item which fails to reflect parity to the cotton grower. The OPA, therefore, had no option but to adjust prices immediately on any of its textile ceilings that failed to permit cotton mills to pay parity for cotton going into these major items. The law became effective on June 30. Consequently, the OPA had to make the necessary price adjustments by that date. You are correct in your statement that "OPA didn't lose any time in putting new ceilings into effect." But in doing so, we were merely carrying out the Congressional directive.

It should be clear from what I have said above that we are not using the law as a "pretext for price boosts out of all proportion to those which can be justified under the Bankhead amendment." The fact that under the modified amendment we expect to be able to hold price increases to from 25 million dollars to 50 million dollars—a third or less of what the original Bankhead proposal would have called for—speaks for itself. This is in contrast to representations made by cotton textile mills to OPA that the modified amendment called for an increase of 200 million dollars. Because it is our duty to hold the line on the cost of living, we in OPA are making every effort to see that a substantial part of the increase we must allow at the mill level is absorbed at other levels so that there will be little or no change in the cost of living.

You observed that "perhaps" the increases were "necessary," and that "if so, no complaint is justified." I hope that the explanation I have given will provide you and your readers with additional information on which to base your judgment.

Sincerely,
Chester Bowles
Administrator.

DOMINOES AND POLITICS

Editor, The Avalanche: If you like a brainteaser that will equal any crossword puzle you have ever tried—try this with a set of double six dominoes. Turn them face up on the table. Select one to "down," and play them so as to use all the dominoes in the set. If you can make 400 you are fairly good. It is possible to make well over 400. For example, I have made 450. This game of solitaire is or should be of interest to shutins and invalids. Being an invalid and often forced to stay home, I find it very entertaining. As I have only the use of one hand, I often tire of reading and writing. So I find the solitaire game of dominoes very interesting.

Thinking there are some folks who may chance to read this on the South Plains, I am asking the Editor to please publish this believing it will interest some shutins and invalids, who like myself must carry on as best as they can. Another primary election has passed into history in this state. All the candidates could not win. I began voting 53 years ago, and this summer campaign has been the dullest in my memory. A man or woman who enter a race should be a good loser, and the voter should be the same. Be a sport, win or lose. Take it all good-naturedly, and hope for the best. When you vote your sentiments, you have done your duty as a citizen.

Good luck,
J. L. Lane,
Lubbock.

Brazilian Litter Bearers In Italy Do Not Fear Mountains

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH BRAZILIAN FORCES IN ITALY, July 26. (Delayed)—The prospect of carrying wounded over Italy's rugged and mountainous terrain poses no particular new terrors for the husky litter bearers of Brazilian medical units.

Many of them were born and raised in mountain country, and all of them had intensive training in Brazil's towering mountain crags.

"These look about the same as Brazilian mountains," said Pvt. Sebastian Fernandez De Farias, a 22-year old farm boy from the state of Rio Santa Isabel De Rio Preto. "Carrying wounded through hill country never is an easy job but at least it is not new to us. We had a good many months at it back in Brazil."

Not Used To Battles

"That's right," agreed Pvt. Braz Fontes, 20, another farm boy from Valenca. "However, doing it under fire will be something else again. We're used to mountains, but we won't be used to battle."

The two stocky litter-bearers were sitting around the AMP Speculating with other medics on an old question most intriguing to all green troops—what combat would be like.

Cpl. Santos Roche of Rio De Janeiro, serving as interpreter, hastened to explain that the litter-bearers' attitude was not one of cockiness but simply "these mountains are so much like Brazil's the men are not worried about the phase of the work."

Like American Units

All the Brazilian medical troops are extremely anxious to learn as much as possible about battle conditions. This units is similar to American companies operating just behind the combat lines. It has two officers, more than 100 men and serves at the first point at which wounded are brought by battalion aid workers.

"We are not sure yet whether we get combat experience before our troops," said Sgt. Paulo Canton, medical assistant from Sao Paulo city. "Right now, I am just taking care of minor ailments and accidents.

"They might send us to operate with American medical units to get some experience before our own troops get into combat."

Would Be Good Thing

"That would be a good thing," said Sgt. Edylson Souto Siqueira of Niteroy, Rio state, who is the chief non-com of this unit. "Then we'd be better prepared to take care of the wounded when our troops go into the line."

Both sergeants were medical students before the war; Edylson would have been a doctor in a few more months when he entered the Army. They visited American medical units nearby and both were much pleased to find the equipment identical with their own.

"V For Victory" Sunset Is Seen Over Dallas

DALLAS, July 27. (U.P.)—It was a "V for victory" sunset in Dallas yesterday.

Two multi-hued near perfect "V's" hung in the sky—first in the east and then in the west after sundown, causing much attention and many phone calls to newspapers.

A weather bureau observer said the phenomenon was caused by a reflection of the sunset against two banks of thunder clouds which hung uniformly to the north and south.

Investigation Of Rayon Situation To Be Conducted By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — Rayon, chief challenger for the throne of King Cotton, will have its claims scrutinized during the next Congressional session by a Senate investigating committee headed by a longtime cotton champion, Senator Bankhead (D-Ala).

Racks of rayon dresses, side by side with cotton clothes in department stores, rayon stockings, rayon underwear, rayon cord fabrics inside rubber tires — these invasions have progressed deeper than ever during the war years into fields once served by cotton.

To Probe Phases

Disturbed cotton interests, therefore, will have a keen eye on the inquiry into the rayon-cotton rivalry.

As approved by the Senate in the crowded day before adjournment, a resolution by Bankhead calls for a $5,000 investigation into these phases of the rayon threat: extent of rayon use and its effect upon the national economy, cost of producing rayon, materials and manpower used, and "extent to which government agencies have encouraged and financed rayon production."

Stocks Piling Up

Raw cotton, estimated by an Agriculture department expert at approximately 10,000,000 bales, lies stored in the nation's warehouses awaiting a slack period in the whirring pace of cotton mills as they fill record-high orders for the Army, Navy and home front. How did this stockpile develop? In former years, explains the agriculture expert, this country's fields average approximately 12,000,000 bales, about half of which was used domestically and the remainder exported.

Since U. S. entrance into the war, however, cotton exporting has been almost entirely cut off. Though heavy war orders have consumed some of this excess, a big portion of the former export cotton must be stocked on warehouse floods for lack of mills and manpower to process it.

Surplus Grows Steadily

With each new planting season the surplus grows and the rayon threat looms larger. Recent, widespread use of rayon for the corn fabrics in rubber tires in a step into probably the largest, industrial field, once dominated by cotton. The rayon industry claims its product now has almost a 15 per cent wedge into the total textile fiber consumption of this country.

At the Agriculture department, specialties are busy seeking new uses for cotton to avert cut-throat competition between the two fibers, one planted and picked by the tedious, tenant farmer methods of the South, the other, processed from wood pulp. A sharp decline in cotton usage, Senator Bankhead fears, may leave thousands of Southern farm families without their traditional means of livelihood.

Can Challenge Be Met?

Can cotton meet the rayon challenge with cheaper, mechanical production methods? Should rayon, a comparatively new industry, be held in check to preserve the established cotton dynasty? What is the chance for southern cotton, in competition with the cheap labor fields spreading in Brazil, China, India, Egypt?

The Bankhead committee will concern itself with these and many other aspects of the cotton future, as it prepares for a possible upheaval in the long-established, cotton economy of the south.

The accident frequency rate in Navy-operated manufacturing plants dropped from 18.46 in 1942 to 15.75 in 1943.

New Guinea Papas Direct Rearing Of Tots By V-Mail

U. S. FIFTH AIRFORCE HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, July 14 (Delayed) (AP)—The society of Goldbrick Papas has been organized here at Brig. Gen. Warren R. Carter's troop carrier command. Its members are long-distance soldier-fathers who are participating in the rearing of their children by V-mail.

Here are some of the by-laws:

Members must be overseas;

They must never have seen their progeny;

They must be authorities on diaper washing, treating measles; quieting midnight howls (how otherwise is the little wife to realize fully the benefits of objective advice by V-mail?)

The society's membership, now approaching a hundred representing half the states, includes these from Texas:

Pfc. John S. Vaeth (Mrs. Mary A. Vaeth), Austin; daughter, Mary E., born Jan. 18, 1944.

Lt. Woodrow Harrelson (Mrs. Dorothy Harrelson), Austin; daughter, Nancy Ann, born Feb. 18, 1944.

Lt. Byron A. Mapes, (Mrs. Nell Dear Mapes), Austin; daughter, Elizabeth, born Dec. 10, 1943.

Lt. John P. McNew (Mrs. Norraine McNew), Austin; daughter, Daralyn, born Jan. 10, 1944.

Much Of Texas Still In Need Of Moisture

AUSTIN, July 27 (AP)—Much of the state needed rain for crop development although good rains fell in the week ended July 24 in the high plains, low rolling plains and numerous North Texas countries.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture said the rest of the state would benefit from rain except some northwest Panhandle counties where the wheat harvest was incomplete and in extreme South Texas where cotton picking and feed and grain sorghum harvest were under way.

Livesock remained in good condition in the Panhandle, high plains, low rolling plains, many North Texas counties and parts of the trans-Pecos area but shrinkage of cattle was noted elsewhere.

Cotton generally made good progress and was fruiting in most areas. Grain sorghum made fair to excellent progress. Corn remained in a spotty condition but good yields were reported in parts of South Texas. Harvests of cantaloupes and watermelons continued and supplies were available in volume. Transplanting of fall vegetables, eggplants, peppers and tomatoes, made headway in the Laredo and winter garden districts.

Rocks Tossed Through Austin Windows Laid To Youthful Vandals

AUSTIN, July 27 (AP)—Police developed their first clues to the activities of a group of youths who have been hurling rocks through private and commercial windows since last January, in the arrest today of an 18-year-old boy, who disclosed the names of six companions, all under 17 years of age.

The boy questioned by police confessed to having lead the rock-throwing attacks on the home of Standard Lambert, Austin High school athletic director, said Police Chief R. D. Thorp.

After five such attacks, which broke windows and once frightened his wife and child into hysterics, Lambert laid in wait for the molesters and last Friday night succeeded in marking an automobile and its occupants for identification with bird-shot. Police were able to trail the youths, and arrest one, an 18-year-old, who is a freshman at the University of Texas. He goes before the corporation court Friday on a charge of destroying property under the value of $50, punishable by a fine.

Lambert's policy of excluding from the high school football team boys belonging to social clubs, which have been banned by school trustees, was the reason given for molesting the coach's home, Thorp declared.

However, said Thorp, one youth confessed throwing rocks at other residences without stated cause.

Thorp said that since January citizens have besieged police to find out who tossed rocks through home and store windows, but not until Lambert marked the car and helped trail the boys did officers succeed in identifying the youths.

Temperatures Range Widely In Past Week

AUSTIN, July 27. (U.P.)—A temperature range within Texas from 111 degrees to 52 degrees was noted in the weekly crop-weather report of the USDA here today.

The 111 degrees was recorded at Brady on July 18 and 52 degrees at Dalhart on July 24. Much of the state experienced another week of dry weather.

Navy Is Enlarging Hospital Facilities

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 27 (AP)—The Navy is enlarging its facilities to care for 20,000 more patients as the battle presses closer to Japan during the fiscal year, vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, the Navy's surgeon general, reported during an inspection of the U. S. Naval hospital.

The admiral balanced the Navy's casualty expectancy with word that throughout the war 97.5 per cent of the wounded treated by Navy doctors have lived.

D-day casualties of the Navy, Marine corps and Coast Guard personnel in France were 63 per cent less than expected, McIntire disclosed. He said 98.7 per cent of the wounded there were saved by the skillful attention of navy doctors and hospital attendants.

The officer said Navy casualties in the Pacific were heavy, but not heavier than expected.

Texas Retail Sales 7 Per Cent Up In June

AUSTIN, July 27 (U.P.)—Sales of 877 independent Texas retail stores in June were seven per cent more than June, 1943, but six per cent less than in May, the University of Texas bureau of Business Research announced today.

Dollar volume gains over June, 1943, for non-durable trades included florists, 14 per cent; women's ready-to-wear, 12; food stores, 11; and drug stores, 10.

Hardware stores with a 21 per cent gain lead durable goods trades, which also included advances of implement dealers, 15 per cent; motor vehicles, 12; and furniture stores, five.

Dallas led cities with a 12 per cent rise, followed by San Antonio and Corpus Christi, five each; Fort Worth and Houston, three, and Waco, two.
