Louisiana "Kingfish" Placed In Tight Spot Tuesday When Brother Tells Of $10,000 Given By Utilities

Accuser Declares That He Saw $100 Bills Placed In Huey's Bathrobe; Says Senator Was Afraid To Cash Them

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 14.—Charged by his own brother with receiving $10,000 from a public utilities representative during his campaign for governor in 1927, Senator Huey P. Long, "The Kingfish," today arose before the senate committee investigating the election of John H. Overton to the senate and denounced it as "a lie."

But the younger brother, Earl, refused to retract his charge and under cross examination by his brother, the witness said Harry Abell, representative of power and utilities corporations, had placed ten thousand dollars in Huey Long's bathrobe pocket.

Afraid To Cash Them

"I saw it," said Earl. "It was one hundred brand new one hundred dollar bill that looked like they had run off the same press. He was afraid to cash them for fear they were marked."

He said Huey told him that at first he returned the money to Abell, telling him he "was not interested in small change." He said the senator told him Abell tried to make Huey take the money from Abell's pocket but he would not do it. Finally, Earl said Huey told Abell that he thought it should be more

Broker Is Facing Kidnaping Threat

DENVER, Feb. 14. (AP)—Police tonight said Oscar L. Malo, prominent Denver broker, who figured in a recent kidnaping threat case here, today, received a threatening letter through the mails. The note was reported to have referred to "what happened to Charles Boettcher II" and to have demanded a sum of money.

Police at the same time disclosed a new note, proposing that $50,000, a reduction of $10,000 ransom for Boettcher be paid, had been received by the captive's father, Claude Boettcher.

Police said a kidnaping always produces a flood of threatening letters but that similarity between the original Boettcher note and the one sent Malo indicated a close connection of the two cases.

Counties In West Texas Ask For RFC Allotments

All But Six Of 131 Counties Are Seeking March-April Funds For Relief Projects

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, Feb. 14.—All but six of the 131 counties of West Texas are asking March-April allotments from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for their relief and work relief programs, it was announced today by D. A. Bandeen, Stamford, and Harry Tom King, Abilene, on their return from Austin.

King and Bandeen are the West Texas members of Governor Ferguson's commission of six in charge of the relief program in Texas.

Counties not applying are Andrews, Archer, Borden, Glasscock, Sterling and Reagan.

The commission agreed to not make public the allotments to the various counties.

County R. F. C. committees have been, thus far, pioneering the way in the absence of a general set of regulations. At its organization meeting the commission decided to unify the relief set-up in Texas by issuing a manual, with regulations, to be followed by all committees. Bandeen and King were asked to write the manual and it is in preparation.

The West Texas commissioners took occasion Tuesday to pat their committees on the back for economical administration of the federal fund. They said, in joint statement.

"For the month of December all of the West Texas relief committees combined spent only $2,796.70 for administration, or less than one

Farmer Solves Loan Question

(By The Associated Press)

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Feb. 14 — Solving the problem of paying interest on 7 cents, E. P. H. Roberts, Muskogee county farmer, today sent the St. Louis seed loan office an ounce and a half of cotton, value on the basis of spot quotations at 4 1-3 mills, the amount of interest due.

Roberts got a letter from the office, informing him the 7 cents, plus 5 per cent interest, was due on a 1931 loan. He put it up to his banker, who computed the interest but Roberts still was stumped about the method of payment until a cotton man came to his rescue.

So Roberts neatly packed the seven cents in the proper amount of cotton and sent it along.

Moore Refuses To Confirm A Report That Gas Line Will Soon Be Started

JOHN W. MOORE, Lubbock gas line builder, last night refused to confirm a report carried in a Dallas newspaper that construction of a natural gas line from Lea county, N. M., to Lubbock would be started May 15.

"It's my line; I don't know who's giving that news out," Moore declared in a telephone conversation.

Moore is holder of a city franchise to supply natural gas here at a top price of 40 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Under the franchise, the grantee must begin construction of the main lines and distributing system by May 15, and the line must be completed and ready to serve gas customers on or before Nov. 1.

The story carried in the Dallas paper said the John W. Moore Construction company would build a $250,000 natural gas line to Lubbock from the Hobbs, N. M., pool, a distance of about 100 miles.

"I'll give you the story when I'm ready for it," the Lubbock man said last night.

Mr. Moore has refused to announce the source of the gas he proposed to bring here. After the franchise had been granted, a city official said commission members did not know the location of the field from which the gas would be piped.

Depositors In Michigan Are To Get Relief

Citizens And Business Heads Plan To Carry On As Bank Moratorium Is Declared By Governor Comstock

Depositors Are Not Allowed To Draw In Excess Of Five Per Cent Of Balance; Cash To Meet Payrolls

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Feb. 14.—Temporary relief for Michigan bank depositors, whose funds are tied up by the eight-day emergency banking holiday was arranged tonight by the Detroit Clearing House association, with the announcement that $25,000,000 would be released on Thursday.

The plan will permit depositors to withdraw not in excess of 5 per cent of their balances to tide them over until the lifting of the moratorium proclaimed before dawn today by Governor William A. Comstock.

To Meet Payrolls

While the Clearing House association's action applies specifically to Detroit, belief was expressed that most of the out state banks would adopt similar plans. The emergency made no reference to industrial payrolls, but most of the large corporations in the metropolitan area already have arranged to meet payrolls with cash brought from outside the state.

The clearing house announcement came a few hours after Governor Comstock had expressed the belief that relief for the state's 900,000 depositors, with $1,500,000,000 reposing in Michigan financial institutions, was on the way.

Corrects Impression

At the same time, the governor issued a statement in which he corrected an impression given in an earlier statement that a controversy between Henry Ford and competing automobile companies figured in the failure of efforts to avert the issuance of his proclamation.

He said he had been informed

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14. (AP)—National telegraph employes here walked out this afternoon, completely tying up the government telegraph and radio system. It was reported telegraph workers throughout Mexico also were engaged in a strike.

The move was in protest against the proposed combination of telegraph and postal systems which, the telegraphers maintain, would eliminate many telegraph employes.

The combination was planned as an economy move and would have brought the departments together under direction of Postmaster General Arturo Elias.

Twenty Thousand Fans Called Him Faker--Ernie Answered With His Life After Carnera's Victory

(By The Associated Press)

Ernie Schaaf

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. — Blonde Ernie Schaaf, the boy 20,000 howling fight fans called a faker, died early today in Polyclinic hospital from the affects of the beating Primo Carnera gave him in the Madison Square Garden prize ring last Friday night.

He died in the hour before dawn, at 4:26 a. m. without regaining consciousness, after an operation on his brain yesterday to remove a blood clot.

Thus with tragedy such as New York boxing has not known since a Sunday morning in 1924 when Little Jerome died as a result of the beating he took from Bud Taylor, died the tow-headed youngster who always wanted to be a priest answering with his life the critics who thought he "laid down" to Carnera so that his part-manager, champion Jack Sharkey, could have an outstanding title challenger in June.

For several hours last night it seemed that the desperate operation performed by Dr. Byron Stookey yesterday, when relief from an intra-cranial hemorrhage became imperative, would save Schaaf's life. At midnight his condition was excellent, though he had not regained consciousness.

But about 3 a. m. his condition took a sudden change for the worse. Hastily his mother, Mrs. Lucy Schaaf; a sister, Mrs. May Daley; his heart-broken manager, Johnny Buckley; and a nearby parish priest were called to the bedside in Polyclinic hospital.

As his life ebbed away they prayed. A house physician felt for the slowing pulse. A candle in one of Schaaf's hands burned low. As the doctor finally shook his head and loosed the other hand, wrapped in rosary beads, Mrs. Schaaf kissed her son's finger.

"He's gone," she whispered. "My darling boy."

Schaaf died only after a terrific fight in which eminent brain specialists were enrolled. The blond tar was knocked unconscious by a left jab to the face in the 13th round of a 15-round match Friday night.

He had but one lucid moment before the operation, when his mother, his constant companion managed to rouse him briefly from his coma.

"Honey, are you my sweetheart," she pleaded.

"Yes, mom," he whispered.

"How are you," she asked.

"I'm okey, mom."

Peru And Colombia Reopen Fighting In Row Over Leticia

New Outbreak Occurs After Aerial Attack

Colombian Gunboat Bombarded By Plane; Town Recaptured And Hostilities Are Fanned Into Open Flame

(By The Associated Press)

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 14. — The aerial bambardment of a Colombian gunboat in the Putumayo river and the recapture by Colombians of the town of Tarapaca today fanned into open warfare hostilities that had smouldered for months between Peru and Colombia over the border city of Leticia.

Alfredo Vasques Cobo, commander of the Colombian forces in the field, reported to his superiors in the capital here that Peruvian airplanes bombed the warship Cordoba and were driven off by a Colombian air squadron.

Troops Are Landed

It also was learned authoritively that after the engagement at Tarapaca, a village on the Putumayo just over the Brazilian boundary and about 80 miles north of Leticia, Colombian troops had landed in territory Colombia claims under treaty rights near the town.

No further clashes occurred at other garrisons in the vicinity, it was learned.

Since September, 1932, when Peruvian nationals seized the Leticia area from Colombia, to which it had been ceded in a treaty in 1922, Peru and Colombia have been assembling war materials.

Peruvians To Resist

General Cobo further revealed two Colombian officers had gone by boat recently to Tarapaca and had asked Peruvian forces to evacuate, but had been informed the Peruvians would resist.

The commander described as "magnificent" the action of Colombian airplanes in driving off Peruvian pilots from the engagement over the warship.

Former Concho Attorney Is Indicted On Assault Count

PAINT ROCK, Feb. 14. (AP) — James M. Simpson, former Concho county attorney, was indicted by a 119th district court grand jury here today on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

Denison Again Is To Be Voted On In The Senate

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—The Texas senate will vote again on confirmation or rejection of F. L. Denison of Temple as chairman of the highway commission. Edgar E. Witt, lieutenant governor, ruled today that Governor Miriam A. Ferguson had the legal authority to resubmit Denison's name even though he had been rejected once by the senate.

Opponents of Denison made no move to appeal from Witt's ruling.

Eleven senators blocked confirmation of Denison last Wednesday. A two-thirds vote is necessary for confirmation and Denison lacked one vote of obtaining that majority.

Witt said that "the wisdom or folly of permitting the governor to renominate a person, after a previous nomination has been rejected, is not involved in the question."

"The sole question," he continued, "is whether or not the governor has the legal right so to do. The question presented is neither one of policy, nor of politics, but is wholly a judicial one. Unless the governor is prohibited by the constitution or statutes from making such renomination he is, of course, entitled so to do."

Another Kelly field pilot, who also had been on a training cruise over the Big Bend country, flew over the scene and landed when he saw the wreckage.

Marathon is in Brewster county, about 200 miles southeast of El Paso.

Abilene Crash Is A Mystery

Driver Of Bakery Truck Found Unconscious On A Highway With Car In Flames; Death Likely To Result

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, Feb. 14.—The cause of his accident still a mystery, R. H. McDuff, driver for a bakery company here, who was found unconscious on the roadside five miles north of Abilene early this morning, with his truck, in flames, 100 yards away, remained in a critical condition tonight at a hospital. Attendants said his skull was fractured, and that physicians regarded his condition as very grave. He had not regained consciousness at midnight.

McDuff was picked up on highway 4-30 at 6:45, less than a half hour after he had left the bakery for a trip to Anson, Hamlin and Stamford. The burning truck was against a tree in a shinnery field 100 yards off the highway. The machine had crashed through a fence on the right-of-way, and was still burning nearly an hour later when the manager of the bakery arrived after being notified of the mishap.

John Bingham, bakery manager, and officers who investigated the mishap, discounted a theory of foul play. It was supposed that McDuff was thrown, or jumped from the truck as it caught fire or got out of control and left the highway.

AUSTIN, Feb. 14 (AP)—Few opponents of a sales tax as a source of revenue to support the Texas state government appeared tonight before the house committee on revenue and taxation, considering bills that would authorize that sort of levy.

Five Narrowly Escape Injury After Car Overturns And Catches On Fire

FIVE PERSONS in a Chevrolet coach narrowly escaped serious injuries about 10:30 o'clock last night when the coach, after turning upside down at the south end of the Avenue H underpass, caught fire.

The Chevrolet, which officers said was driven by Frank Porter of Hale Center, was in collision with a Buick sedan driven by T. E. Kirksey, 1924 Fourteenth street. Kirksey and his companion, Kenneth Griffin, were uninjured.

Besides Porter, police said that Ross Pollard, James Duncan, Sue Horton and Wm. A. Gravel, all of Hale Center, were in the Chevrolet. All except Gravel went to West Texas hospital. None was injured, save for minor bruises and scratches.

The flames which spread over the overturned automobile were extinguished by fire department members. Police said they understood occupants of the machine escaped before the fire spread.

Both automobiles were being driven south, officers said. The left fender of the Buick was brushed off. The Chevrolet was badly damaged. Bynum-Stahler and Rix ambulances were called to the accident scene.

Opponents Are Planning Long Debate Battle

Senate Uncoils From Grip Of Filibuster Tuesday Night And Reaches Agreement For Vote Wednesday

Texan Takes Up Time Reading Minutes Of League Of Nations; Cloture Rule Being Threatened

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. — The senate uncoiled itself with startling suddenness tonight from the grip of a filibuster and before even some of the members knew it, was set to vote tomorrow on whether to take up prohibition repeal next.

After that vote is out of the way, however — and all concede it will mean immediate consideration of the question—the group which held up the session today is prepared to renew its dogged fight against submitting repeal to the states.

Will Vote Today

Through eight hours of tiring debate during which only a few members straggled in and out of the chamber, opponents of the resolution blocked a ballot to consider it, but they finally yielded and agreed to vote at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

They announced, however, their fight was not over, and would be continued after the senate votes to consider the resolution.

To meet this threat leaders gave out the word that any signs of a renewed filibuster would be promptly met with night sessions and a cloture petition to limit debate.

Motion Is Rejected

The climax came late tonight, after a series of rapid breaking developments during which the senate rejected 39 to 28 a motion to lay the repeal question aside for the session in order to consider relief legislation.

A rambling speech by Senator Sheppard, slight, mild mannered sponsor of the eighteenth amendment, had blocked action on the Blaine resolution throughout the day.

Sheppard (D., Tex.), took up time by reading slowly from minutes of the League of Nations' sessions, with watch in hand to see that he did not talk too fast.

Cloture Suggested

As his speech ran into the night, Senator Bingham (R., Conn.), brought forward a drastic cloture petition to cut off debate, but this later proved unnecessary when the agreement was reached for a vote tomorrow.

Sheppard finally took his seat about 10 o'clock, and Senator McNary (R., Ore.), unexpectedly pro-

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE R. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

HAVE you noticed the new patterns? If not, look the one over this morning and watch for them every day. There probably will be styles that you will want to duplicate in your spring wardrobe.

* * *

These patterns are to appear every day in the Avalanche and in the Sunday Avalanche-Journal. If you are interested in sewing or if you find it convenient to have your dresses made rather than buy them these patterns should be useful because they are simple and timely.

* * *

We hope you like the service and like the patterns. With many features offered it is sometimes difficult to know just which one is going to appeal to the most readers. Our judgment is swayed by the response that we get. If you like the patterns let us know—or if you don't like what we offer, let us know.

* * *

LET'S NOT FORGET

THESE are days when we should not forget to be sympathetic to people who are less fortunate. There is the matter of jobs.

* * *

Today a college graduate came by. She has an education better than that of the average person, judging by the institutions from which she holds degrees. Apparently she is prepared for a place in the business world. Yet there is no demand for her services. So, she is forced to idle her time away and she grows terribly restless.

* * *

She is one of many who has graduated during the last few years. There was a day when a college graduate was assured of a job. One decided which place he would take and always had some choice in the matter. Today a degree is worth little when it comes to insuring any sort of a job. This June there will be many more young men and women completing their college work and looking for a place to teach or work. Some of them will have places but many more will not be able to find a place.

* * *

There probably is a solution to the present situation. However, I do not know what it is. All I know is that we should not forget that those who have been unable to find work are not having a very easy time waiting for a job to turn up and in the meantime looking to their families for financial support.

* * *

AS THEY WILL SEE

IF we could have the advantage of seeing ourselves as some future generations are going to view us, it would be a great thing.

* * *

I would like, for instance, to be able to pick up a history some six or seven hundred years from now and read of this time—see the writer's placid paragraphs concerning the panic of 1929 and the subsequent period. Most of us, you know, can read of the dark ages in European history without much real feeling, we hardly shudder over the Black Hole of Calcutta or the gory period of the French Revolution. I have a feeling that it would be interesting to turn through some history four or five centuries hence and read the calm account of our troubles.

* * *

I would like to know, too, how our political heroes would be considered by people then—just who would be great in the opinion of the people who are to be. We might be considerably surprised at some of the names that will be omitted from that hall of fame.

* * *

IN case your mail bag never looks crowded, you should get on the mailing list of a few national concerns. After that you will be plenty busy throwing circular letters in the waste basket.

* * *

At the rate letters are sent out the postoffice department should have no trouble making financial ends meet.

* * *

As an example, there is Miss Margaret Turner and her theater mail. Someone sent her name in to some theater clearing house as theater editor several years ago. Since then, she hardly misses a day receiving mail from some of the theatrical and motion picture companies over the country. She even hears from London occasionally.

* * *

I think that the mail that comes to this desk from several federated club general offices would easily fill an ordinary tub in a few months. And most of the material is absolutely useless. Truly, this circular letter business is a great thing, if you merely want mail.

Arrange Transportation For Women

BY LILIAN CAMPBELL

Women who went to the Chicago World's fair in 1893 traveled in wooden railroad cars attached to engines which at best could make but 60 miles an hour.

Clubwomen of 1933 will ride to the Century of Progress exposition in all-steel coaches annexed to modern flyers; in palatial lake steamers, and commodious passenger airplanes.

An aviatrix, a woman steamship official and a woman railroad executive will plan the transportation of the members of the National Council of Women. The trio is Mrs. Marie K. Brown, head of the women's department of a large railroad; Mrs. Julius Freeman, director of the travel bureau of a transportation company, and Ruth Nichols, famous flyer and relief pilot for an airway company, and first woman in the United States to pilot a scheduled passenger plane.

As transportation chairman for the council Mrs. Brown must plan travel accommodations for thousands of women who will journey to Chicago to attend the international congress of women July 11-22, under the auspices of the council. Mrs. Freeman and Miss Nichols are her associates.

"I appointed them because I want every phase of transportation represented, and because each has to her credit outstanding achievements in her field," Mrs. Brown says of her associates.

Conference Is To Be Reported Here

Representatives of county, civic educational and welfare clubs are to meet at Seaman hall Thursday afternoon to hear a report on the recent Texas conference on child health and protection to be made by Mrs. Joe H. Smith. The meeting is to begin at 2 o'clock and will continue for one hour.

In addition to those within the city of Lubbock, it is hoped that there will be delegates from clubs in Slaton, Idalou and all communities within the county, Mrs. H. F. Godeke said. The ultimate purpose of this meeting is to be the organization of a child health and protection council in Lubbock county.

Policy Of Chamber On State Financial Matters Now In Process Of Being Determined By Committee

ABILENE, Feb. 14 (AP)—Policy of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce on state financial matters, with emphasis on budget fixing, is in process of being determined, it was revealed today by C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, chairman of the regional chamber's sub-committee on state budget.

Caldwell's committee is recommending a three-point policy to the central taxation and public expenditure committee headed by Van Zandt Jarvis, Fort Worth. If that committee approves it, the recommendation will go out in referendum form, to the 109 affiliated local committees in the West Texas Chamber's membership. If they approve by majority vote, the policy will be construed as being that of the entire organization, and it will be laid before the state legislature.

Recommendations from the Caldwell committee are:

1. That, in harmony with the board of control recommendation, a state budget be adopted to not exceed $32,000,000, chargeable to the general revenue fund. This is a reduction from about $49,000,000.

2. That all new schemes of taxation be opposed, unless such taxes are designed to replace other taxes which are to be definitely abolished.

3. That instead of attempting reorganization of the state through statutory processes, in line with the Graves report, the problem be tackled through constitutional processes. This would call for a greatly changed constitution.

Escape Car Is Found Tuesday

Auto In Which Jack Sullivan Drove Away Following His Escape Here Is Located In Amarillo Garage

The car in which Jack Sullivan, 25-year-old convicted bank robber, drove away in following his escape Nov. 17 from Lubbock county jail, has been located in a private garage in Amarillo, Sheriff Tom Abel said yesterday.

The automobile, owned by Joe W. Harris, was placed in the garage probably the next day after the escape, according to the sheriff. The garage, at a residence, had been rented. When Sullivan did not return for the machine, the owner of the garage informed police.

Sullivan has been indicted for armed robbery in connection with the holdup of Harris and the theft of his car. The machine, a 1931 model Dodge sedan, painted red was undamaged, according to Amarillo officials.

Well, that's something about cigarettes I never knew before

I'd never thought much about what's inside a Chesterfield cigarette. But I have just been reading something that made me think about it.

Just think of this, some of the tobacco in Chesterfield —the Turkish—comes from 4000 miles away! And before it is shipped every single leaf is packed by hand. All because Turkish tobacco is so small and delicate.

Of course I don't know much about making cigarettes, but I do know this—that Chesterfields are milder and have a very pleasing aroma and taste. They satisfy—and that's what counts with me!

New York Boxing Body To Bar Sharkey-Carnera Fight

Tech And High School Teams Busy Here This Weekend

"Dreadnaught" Class Frowned Upon By Body

As Result Of Schaaf's Death Drastic Measures Taken In Commission To Forbid Contests With Carnera

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP) — The tragedy of Ernie Schaaf's death not only deals professional pugilism a severe blow, at a time when it can ill afford any setbacks, but prompted New York's boxing powers today to bar the man who helped carry the unconscious fighter from the ring, Jack Sharkey, from defending his title, at least in this state, against the giant who landed the final blow, Primo Carnera.

The establishment of a "dreadnaught class," to prevent such oversized warriors as Carnera from mingling with the more normal sized heavies, has been considered before but never actually made effective in any country where the Marquis of Queensberry rules prevail. Its adoption by the New York State Athletic commission automatically bars the return title bout between Sharkey and Carnera, for which Madison Square Garden holds the contracts and which its promoter, Jimmy Johnston, said today he had intended to go ahead with.

Jack Won Once

Sharkey, weighing 202 to Carnera's 261, was not handicapped when they last fought in October, 1931, at Ebbets Field. The Boston boxer scored a decisive 15-round victory and floored Carnera in the fourth round with a vicious left hook.

It was because of a feeling the Schaaf-Carnera fight was strictly a "build-up" for the forthcoming championship bout that a majority of metropolitan boxing writers suspected the outcome was "fixed." The "tip" was out that Schaaf, a protege of Sharkey, could not win. But none can say who started it. This, the critics felt, was confirmed by events within the ring, slowly and ponderously leading up to the one and only knockdown of Schaaf, in the 13th round, by a left jab to the nose.

No Man-Killing Punch

There was no ferocity, no "man killing punch" displayed by Carnera at any time, although the bigger man steadily piled up a margin on points over the foe he outweighed nearly 60 pounds. Most of the crowd not only booed throughout the latter half of the bout but remained standing around the ringside, to jeer and shout "fake" while Schaaf first was given emergency treatment by his handler, then carried to his dressing room by Sharkey and two policemen before being removed to the hospital. Dozens crowded into the place where Schaaf stretched out and came away skeptical.

The grim irony of it all is that while the shouting was at its height and the argument still rang in the boxing columns, Schaaf, never completely conscious again, was slowly dying, that what seemed strangely suspicious to those around the ringside turned to tragedy outside, that the lethal powers which it has been sought to associate with Carnera's punches over a carefully-managed period stood suddenly emphasized, at least in the public mind.

How About Sharkey

If there was no calculation at any single stage of events, the outcome stands as one of the strangest climaxes to any major event in the history of pugilism. Strangest of all is the position in which it leaves Sharkey, his career already studded with baffling episodes. The champion was on his way to Boston tonight, returning from Florida to attend Schaaf's funeral and, perhaps, reconsider his own future in the ring.

Even the medical findings were a bit mysterious and conflicting. Those seeking the exact history of the case appeared baffled. It was recalled that Harry Greb, one-time middle-weight and light heavyweight champion, died suddenly some years ago when under an anesthetic for a relatively slight operation on his nose. Greb had engaged in many terrific fights but the nose injury which prompted the operation was acquired in an auto accident. Until then it was not known that Greb had fought top-notchers for years with the sight gone from one eye and impaired in the other.

Despite legislative rumblings in Albany, those identified with boxing here and elsewhere shared the expressed views of Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey that Schaaf's death, while a severe blow, does not justify drastic action. They pointed out other sports, notably football, had a much higher death toll than pugilism.

Orcutt And Fishwick Easy Winners In Florida Play

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP)—Maureen Orcutt, Haworth, N. J., and Diana Fishwick, leader of the British sextette participating in the winter tournaments, easily won their opening round matches here today, in the Florida golf championship for women.

Miss Orcutt defeated Kathryn Bragaw, Orange, N. J., 4 and 2, after winning the medal yesterday in the qualifying round with a 79 four strokes better than Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, who was second.

Miss Fishwick, the present English closed champion, and the French champion, won decisively over Mrs. H. C. Kersten, Richmond, Va., 8 and 7.

Sport Show Is Scheduled For Tuesday Night

Boxing And Wrestling Show Is To Be Held At Dance Palace Next Week; Tickets On Sale Now By Matador Club

Tickets are on sale for the A. B. C.-Matador club athletic carnival, scheduled for Tuesday evening, February 21, at the Uptown Dance Palace.

Clarence "Dutch" Wigington, chairman in charge of the carnival, yesterday announced the program, consisting chiefly of boxing and wrestling matches, and said that prospects were good for "one of the most interesting fight programs ever staged in Lubbock."

Negro Battle Royal

Five boxing bouts and four wrestling matches, including a negro battle royal and a "finish" set-to between two Lubbock business men, are included on the program.

To "feature" the program, Wigington said, Jimmy Kennedy and J. A. "Judge" Raley would engage in a fifteen-round fistic encounter.

Texas Tech athletes will provide the major part of the boxing and wrestling matches.

Slaton Boys Box

"Dynamite" Alford of Slaton is slated to meet "Lefty" Austin of St. Louis in a lightweight boxing go. Dempsey Cannon of Slaton will tangle with his brother, "Speedy" Cannon, in one of the main events. Marian Harris and "Frenchy" Cortier are matched in the 165-pound weight class and Toby Greer of Comanche will meet D. M. McElroy of Dallas in a heavyweight go.

Four interesting wrestling matches, lineups of which will be announced later, have been arranged.

Juniors Win High School Grid Game

The Juniors, led by Waymond Newton, turned back the Sophomores yesterday afternoon, 24 to 2, and won the inter-class football championship of Lubbock High school.

A previous win over the Seniors and a tied game with the sophs counted in the championship rating.

Newton, fullback, starred on both offense and defense, tossing two passes to Jack Williamson for touchdowns, and driving for two himself.

College Wrestlers To Meet In Pennsylvania Or Virginia

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 14 (AP)—Dr. R. G. Clapp, University of Nebraska physical education director, today said ballots had been mailed to colleges which usually participate in the national collegiate wrestling meet asking them to vote on the time and place of this year's meet.

He said the meet probably would be held under the auspices of Lehigh university at Bethlehem, Pa., or would be sponsored by a group of southern institutions and held at Roanoke, Va. He expected to have a decision from the voting by the end of the week.

Dr. Clapp also said the University of Nebraska would have to engage a new wrestling coach for the remainder of the season as Harold Ecklund, who has been coaching the squad, will leave soon for Randolph Field, Texas, to enter the air corps.

Joel Hunt Going Back To Coaching, He Tells Dallas

HOUSTON, Feb. 14 (AP) — Joel Hunt, former Texas A. and M. college backfield star, is going back to coaching football, he told friends here.

Hunt, property of Columbus of the American Association, was sold to Dallas of the Texas League, but said he had not signed the contract with Dallas. The terms were not satisfactory, but that fact wasn't what prompted him to give up baseball, he was quoted as saying.

"I want to continue coaching," said Hunt, "and I have the chance. So I have signed a contract to join the coaching staff of a certain well known college." Sports editors here said Hunt would not identify the college with which he will be connected, but they believed it was a Louisiana institution.

DALLAS, Feb. 14 (AP) — Manager Happ Morse of the Dallas Steers, on being told that Joel Hunt had turned down a chance to play outfield for Dallas this year, said he was not surprised.

"I understood that Joel was seeking a coaching job and that if he was successful in getting it that he would not sign with the Steers. He is a fine ball player—one that would have helped us. I regret he will not be with Dallas but am glad he has succeeded in landing a good all-year job," commented Morse.

District Two Tournament To Start Friday

Six Teams To Compete At Tech Gymnasium For Cage Title Of This District; Games To Start At 1 O'Clock

Lubbock will be the center of high school basketball activity this Friday and Saturday when six teams meet here to joust for the District 2 interscholastic league championship.

Contrary to the rule governing district tournaments in the past—when every county champion entered the meet—the entry this year will consist of a half dozen teams who have played county and quadrant schedules before coming here.

According to special legislation passed by officials of the district, four quadrants were organized at the outset of the season, each quadrant comprised of several counties. County champions were to play for the quadrant title, the ultimate winner to enter the district play off.

Two City Units

In addition to the four quadrant winners, two city-county units, or schools of Class A classification, will compete in the district tourney. Lubbock and Plainview are the city-county units. These teams were not required to play in county tournaments and quadrant schedules.

J. O. Morgan, chairman of the District 2 executive committee, said last night that four district tournament entries had been determined, with two yet to settle quadrant championships. Lamesa, Lubbock, Plainview and Ropesville are ready. Ropesville and Lamesa won their quadrant championships.

Ropes Defends Title

A pre-turnament favorite is the Ropesville team, which won the district title last year, added a bi-district championship and advanced to the semi-final round in the state tournament at Austin.

First round games will start at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Texas Tech gymnasium.

Representatives of all six teams are to meet at the Hilton hotel here Saturday morning for a special breakfast and to draw for first round opponents. Two brackets of three clubs each will be arranged.

Second round games will be played Saturday and the district championship contest is slated for Saturday night. All games are to be played at the Tech gymnasium.

Owls Give Texas Scare But Lose By 33-34 Score

HOUSTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—Jimmy Kitts' Rice Owls tonight stopped Jack Gray cold, but another University of Texas sophomore forward, lanky Jean Francis of El Paso, came through in grand style to pass Coach Ed Olle's Texas Longhorns to a 33 to 24 triumph. The undefeated Longhorns have won eight Southwest conference engagements, and are overwhelming favorites to annex the 1933 championship.

Cheered on by a large crowd, the Owls put up a brave fight and led 17 to 16 at half time. But the Longhorns carried too much "kick" in the last five minutes, when the Owls wilted before the bid of the determined orange and white aggregation. Captain Ed Price, a crackerjack guard, and Bill Kubricht, center, teamed with Francis in splendid fashion.

Baylor Wins First Game; Beats Mustangs

DALLAS, Feb. 14. (AP)—Southern Methodist university cagers tonight dropped a thrilling 29 to 27 decision to Ralph Wolf's Baylor university bears, the loss pushing the Mustangs back from their third-place tie with the Texas Aggies into a fourth-place deadlock with the University of Arkansas. The half-time score was Baylor 21, Southern Methodist 9.

Babe In The Bullrushes But Manages Win In Golf Joust

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP) — Babe Ruth was in the bulrushes, the palms and the sand bunkers today but he managed to wiggle out a 2 to 1 victory over W. R. Harper, Philadelphia, in the first round of the Belleair amateur golf championship.

An approximate score of 88 is the best that can be given the home run king for the Texas leaguers and fouls he hit over the Belleair links today. Tomorrow he meets stern opposition in D. N. Tallman, Minneapolis.

Campbell Runs His Racer 240 MPH

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell of England, sent his trim Bluebird racing car roaring over the ocean beach course here late today at a speed well in excess of 200 miles an hour on a test run made preliminary to an official assault on his own world land speed record of 253 miles an hour.

Although the 48-year-old British driver was clocked at a speed of 212.63 miles an hour over two kilometer route, he said afterward his instruments showed he attained a peak of between 230 and 240 miles an hour on his only run of the day.

Whether he will make an official trial for a new world record tomorrow, Campbell said, will be contingent upon ability of mechanics to make certain adjustments to the 2,500 horsepower car. He said the machine performed "wonderfully well" under the conditions, but that several alterations would be necessary.

Southern California's 1932 football team was not behind for a moment in any game.

Matadors Engage Southeastern Oklahoma Teachers Friday In "Homecoming Day" Celebration

Dell Morgan Has Team Back Home After Winning Border Conference Tilt And Half-Dozen Games On Road

Playing at home for the first time since February 2, the Texas Tech Matadors are hosts to the Southeastern State Teachers college Savages of Durant, Okla., Friday night.

The teams will play a one night stand. The game will begin at 8 o'clock at the Tech gymnasium Friday night.

Champions of the Border States conference, winners in fourteen of eighteen games played, the Matadors will be toasted in what has been designated as "homecoming night" for the basketball team.

Whip New Mexico

Coach Morgan and his Red Devils returned early this week from Albuquerque where they climaxed a week's road trip with a series victory over the University of New Mexico Lobos. The victories cinched the Border conference championship and broke a perfect winning streak for New Mexico. University of Arizona, other leader in the basketball race, has suffered one defeat.

Coach "Runt" Ramsay's Savages come here recommended as one of the standout teams of the Oklahoma Collegiate conference. They are allegedly stronger than last year when they divided a series with Tech at Durant.

Ralls Wins From Lockney; To Enter District Tourney

RALLS, Feb. 14.—Ralls Jackrabbits won the quadrant title and the right to enter the district tournament at Lubbock this week when they defeated the Lockney Longhorns 33 to 28 here tonight.

The Longhorns jumped to an early lead, and at one time paced the Ralls cagers 8 to 2. At the half Ralls was leading 15 to 10. Carthell of Lockney was high point player, with 11 markers. Jenkins and Walker of Ralls each tallied 8 points.

"Don't break the speed laws—but use an oil that can"

"TAKE my advice and stay under the speed limit. Take it easy. Don't try to be a mile-a-minute man . . .

"But use the oil that can do 100-miles-an-hour—Gulf Supreme! Why? That's simple...

"For the oil that is good at 100-miles-an-hour is doubly good at lower speeds! It's a better, safer oil. It has extra resistance . . . extra richness . . . extra ability to halt wear and keep repair bills down!"

Why do we call Gulf Supreme the "100-mile-an-hour motor oil?" Here's why . . .

Tests in Gulf laboratories showed that Gulf Supreme could stand almost twice the heat of the normal speeding motor.

So on August 8, 1932, Supreme was put to a stiffer test than it could get in any car on the roads! Under Official AAA supervision, it successfully lubricated a roaring Duesenberg racer—flashing around the Indianapolis Speedway at speeds which reached almost two miles a minute! An average for the one-hour, non-stop run of more than 100-miles-an-hour!

Switch to Gulf Supreme now. There's a grade for every climate. It can take super-punishment. Give better lubrication. Cut oil costs. And minimize repairs!

Jones Case Is Nearing Close

Young Son Of Capitalist May Know His Fate Today; Case Expected To Go To The Jury This Afternoon

ABILENE, Feb. 14 (AP) — Tom Jones, young son of Morgan Jones, West Texas capitalist, may know his fate by mid-afternoon tomorrow. Testimony in his trial on a charge of murder without malice in connection with an automobile collision here January 7, in which Eli Perkins was killed, closed at mid-afternoon in 42nd district court here, and arguments are scheduled for Wednesday morning.

Jones, 20, sat calmly, but interestedly, while witnesses related various incidents before and after the fatal crash. Testimony centered around the state's contention that the youth was under the influence of intoxicants at the time. The young defendant did not take the stand.

Stanley Smith, who testified he was with Jones at 7 p. m. the night of the wreck, said the two bought a pint of whiskey and drank it as they drove about town. He left Jones about midnight, he said.

Dr. Stewart Cooper, prosecution witness, who signed Perkins' death certificate, and who examined young Jones, said in his opinion the youth was drunk, contending that a wound on his forehead did not cause his assertedly hilarious condition.

Doctors J. M. Estes and A. V. Cash, testifying for the defense, said a wound such as young Jones sustained on the forehead could cause such actions as other witnesses had described. Dr. Cash said he believed the wound did cause such actions.

Closing testimony brought out the condition; and position, of the two automobiles after the collision, with both sides offering pictures of the cars tending to establish the point of impact and direction. Defense claimed the youth had cut out to the center of the street, called a little narrow, to avoid going off a culvert assertedly narrower than the street.

He couldn't be roused again.

Conceptions Revised

Scarcely had the boxing world absorbed the news that the youngster was dead before a swift succession of developments revised almost every previous conception of the happenings of the past three days.

Dr. Charles W. Norris, chief medical examiner of New York City announced an autopsy revealed "absolutely no evidence that Schaaf died as a result of injuries received in that bout" although Dr. Stookey declared flatly to the contrary.

Yet Dr. Benjamin Vance, assistant to Dr. Norris, and the surgeon who performed the autopsy, signed the certificate giving as the causes of death "cerebral hemorrhage and cerebral compression," sustaining Dr. Stookey's diagnosis.

First orders were issued for Carnera's arrest to answer homicide charges but this quickly changed to interrogation at the district attorney's office. No evidence of any "criminal negligence" was found, according to Assistant District Attorney James P. Daly, after an examination of all concerned, but he added a final decision was reserved until receipt of the medical examiner's full report. In addition to Carnera, his and Schaaf's managers and handlers, the referee and boxing commission officials all were questioned but contributed no new developments.

than ten thousand "but that he was such a good customer he would come back again."

Badger Each Other

At the afternoon session, the two brothers, who had slept together as boys and had been bosom friends until two years ago, badgered each other one as witness and the other as cross examiner.

Senator Long drew admissions from his brother that the 1928 legislature passed bills, written by Gov. Long, to tax carbon black and natural gas, furnished by companies represented by Abell. Earl also admitted the 1932 legislature passed a tax on electricity and that assessments had been increased against public utilities companies.

Described As Wolf

"Yet you say these people gave me $10,000?" asked Huey.

"Yes, you're a wolf in sheep's clothing. You pretend to be fighting them when you're patting them on the back. You started off with a high rate on electricity and then lowered it. Did the assessments stick?"

"You know they did," said Huey.

Senator Long declared he did not even own a bathrobe in 1927 and never had one until the banking department gave him one.

"Did you ever see me in a bathrobe prior to the time the banking department gave me one?"

"I have seen you in all kinds of robes," answered Earl. "It might have been wide flowing pajamas but it looked like a bathrobe."

"Oh, then you don't know the difference between a bathrobe and pajamas?"

NEWS BRIEFS

Club members also named an official quartet, composed of Dr. V. O. Marshall, Dan Blair, Brownie Akers, and H. W. Moore, to sing in a state contest. A blackface skit by Dr. O. H. Ater and H. W. Moore also was presented; and the club voted to stage a benefit musical revue sometime soon. Proceeds of the play will be used to pay expenses of the state convention here in May. posed the agreement. It was snapped up without a word of debate by the weary senate.

After the agreement was reached, Senator Brookhart (R., Iowa), who is one of the leaders of the movement to prevent a vote on the Blaine resolution, announced he was ready to speak tomorrow "as long as Sheppard and longer, if I can hold out."

Support Is Given

Brookhart was known to have the support of at least half a dozen senators in his determined fight to prevent a vote on the resolution, and a number of other friends of prohibition were ready to discuss the measure at some length if not actually to join in a filibuster.

Nevertheless the day's developments had seemed to strengthen the determination of leaders on both sides of the party aisle to force a vote on the prohibition issue at this session.

Senator Bingham was ready to produce another cloture petition on the resolution itself tomorrow if a filibuster should developed.

He was supported by Senators Robinson, Democratic leader, and McNary, assistant Republican leader, in his determination to prevent a filibuster from tying up the senate.

that "I misunderstood the facts in the Union Guardian trust situation," the condition of which precipitated the financial difficulties. In an earlier statement, the governor had said he was informed that Mr. Ford had refused to join other large depositors, including Chrysler and General Motors corporations, in an agreement to subordinate their claims to those of smaller depositors and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Had No Agreement

"Chrysler and General Motors are not depositors," the governor's statement read. "Mr. Ford had no agreement with the trust company or with Chrysler or General Motors." He said that when it was suggested the Ford company put up "a substantial part" of necessary funds, the company decided they could make no further investment, having already put approximately $20,000,000 into the trust company.

The Clearing House association's plan was announced after an all-day meeting of its officers and members. The measures announced by the association provided, in addition to the 5 percent withdrawals—which are to be made only by counter receipts — that arrangements also would be made with the larger life insurance companies to accept checks for premiums in order that policies may not lapse.

Deposit Vaults Open

Other phases of the plan included the maintenance at all banks and branches of facilities for making change, and the opening during regular hours of safe deposit departments.

Among the industrial concerns which announced plans for meeting payrolls in cash were the General Motors Corp., the Ford Motor Co., and the Chrysler Corp.

Pickett Faces Slaying Count

Attorney Says Man Will Plead Guilty To Murder Charge In Killing Of Student; Already Has Life Term

AUSTIN, Feb. 14 (AP)—J. M. Pickett will be arraigned in district court here tomorrow on an indictment charging him with murder in the slaying of Edgar C. Arledge, University of Texas student, here on September last year.

Hardy Hollers, assistant district attorney, said Pickett would plead guilty. Pickett last October admitted the slaying of Arledge in a written confession after Henry H. Brooks, then district attorney, agreed with Pickett's attorney he would not recommend the death penalty.

Although the district attorney's office feels bound under this agreement, Hollers said today, "it will be entirely up to the jury as to the penalty assessed."

Pickett was convicted a week ago at San Antonio and sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary on a charge or criminally attacking a woman at her home in that city.

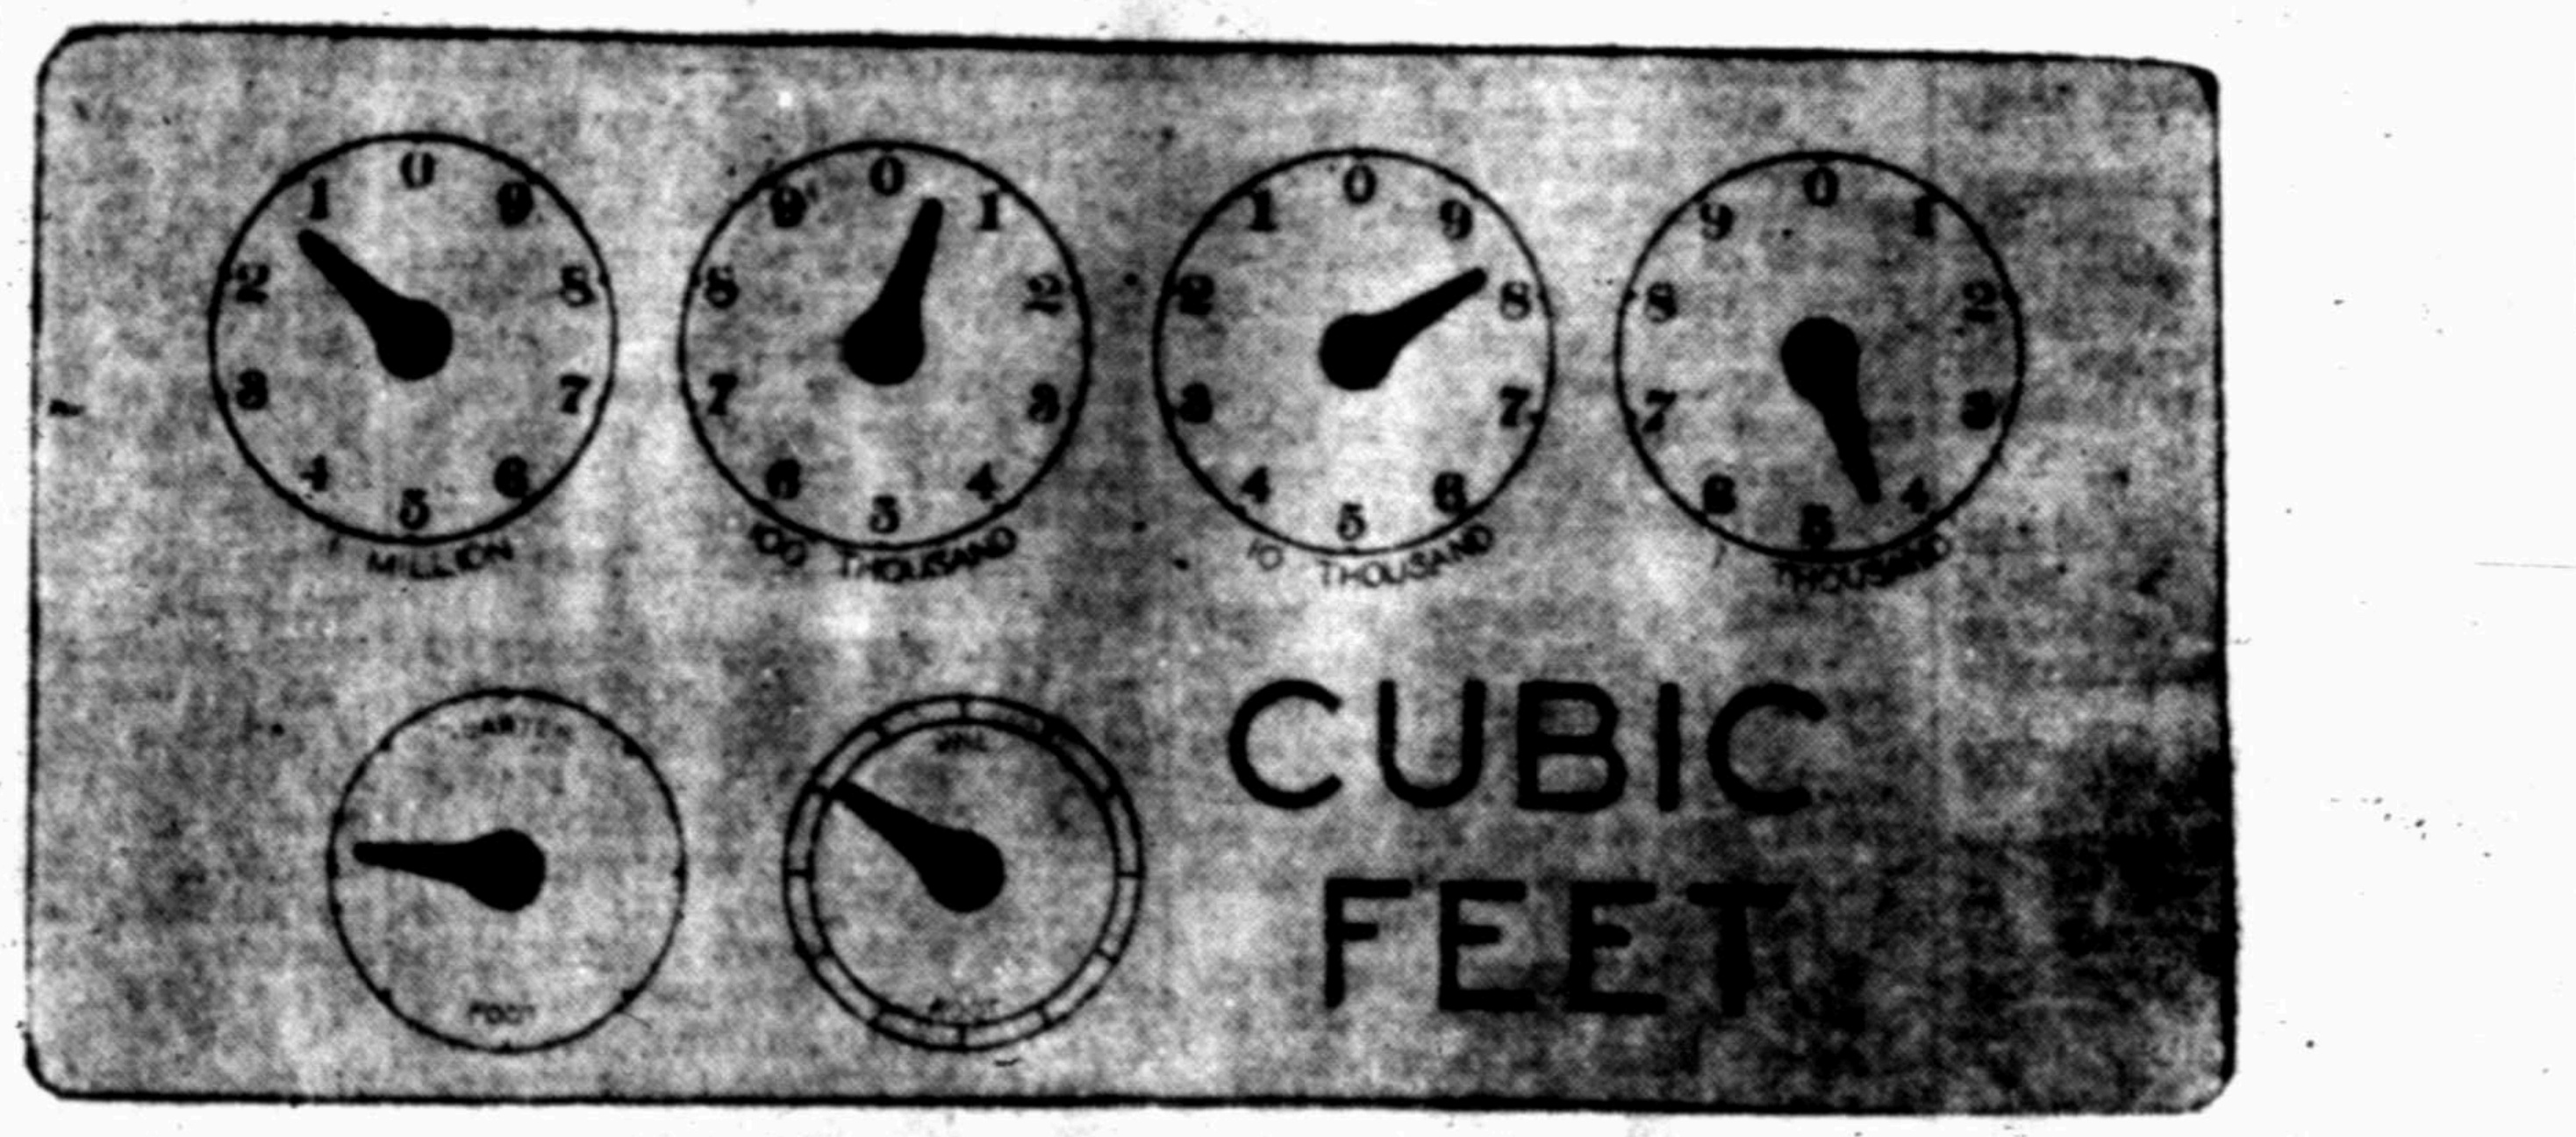
HOW TO READ Your Gas Meter



There is nothing mysterious about the reading of a gas meter. The ability to read a meter will acquaint patrons with the rate with which gas is being consumed on their premises. A meter also is valuable in detecting leaks.

The accompanying illustration shows what is known as a four dial meter, such as is in common use. The small dials at the bottom are disregarded in reading meters.

EASY TO READ A METER

To read the above meter, first take the dial at the left marked "1 million". It is divided into 10 parts of 100,000 each. Look at the pointer. It is between the numbers "1" and "2". So put down the number "1" which the pointer has just passed.

The second dial is marked "100 Thousand", having 10,000 to each division. The pointer is just past the cipher, so put down the cipher after the "1" from the first dial, and you have "10".

The third circle is marked "10 Thousand," each division representing 1,000 cubic feet. Put down the number the pointer has just passed, which is "8" and you will have the number of thousand feet consumed, 108.

The last dial to the right is divided into 10 sections of 100 each. The pointer has just passed "4", so the complete reading is 108,400.

The West Texas Gas Company, however, reads the meters for billing purposes in even thousands, so you would be billed for the month for the difference between 108,000 and the previous month's reading. You can check your gas consumption at any time during the month by comparing the previous month's reading given on your gas card with the present state of meter.

LOWER DIALS ARE USEFUL

The lower dials will help you determine whether there are leaks in your gas pipes, or in finding the rate at which any of your gas appliances are consuming gas.

To find leaks, turn off all gas outlets tightly and then note whether the hand on one of the lower dials moves. If it does there is a leak somewhere. But DON'T LOOK FOR THE LEAK WITH MATCHES. Use a heavy soap suds on the connections, and see whether the gas bubbles through. Then, if you don't know how to mend the leak yourself, call a plumber—for gas leaks are dangerous and expensive.

The rate of any gas appliance may be determined by shutting off all other outlets and then noting how long it takes the appliance to consume a certain number of cubic feet of gas.

The West Texas Gas Company Service Department always is glad to cooperate with consumers to the end that they may obtain the greatest possible heat return from the gas which they purchase.

Why Discard The Patrol?

POWERFUL forces—forces one suspects may have been forced to obey the law by the road riders—are at work in an effort to abolish the State Highway patrol. Regardless of facts and figures, regardless of efficiency and economy (don't we hear a lot about that?) these enemies of the patrol would wipe it out..

Amarillo Daily News, in a recent comment, sums the matter up fairly well by declaring that the fight against the patrol is entirely unwarranted. We agree, en toto, with The News as it continues:

"Sponsors of the bill can give no logical or sane reason why this efficient and self-sustaining unit of state highway police should be discontinued or discarded. There can be no argument from the standpoint of economy. The patrol's annual statement, filed a few days back with the comptroller, shows it was responsible during 1932 for the collection of $547,933 in 'additional registration fees'.

"This represents extra fees due by owners of heavy vehicles who had not paid the proper amount at the time their license tags were issued by the tax collector. The entire cost of the highway patrol for the year was $320,843.95, showing an excess of $227,095.27 in the fund it alone had been responsible for collecting..

"Members of the patrol are not allowed to claim any witness or arresting fees, but the report shows that fines collected in cases where charges had been filed by the patrol amounted to $121,630.70. This was paid into the respective county treasuries by law violators using state highways.

"So much for the cost side of the proposition. There is another angle just as important. It is the matter of policing our highways. Remove the highway patrol and you not only take away a protection badly needed by the traveling public but you throw the roads open to abuse by operators of heavy vehicles who have no respect for the law and no regard for the safety of the automobile driver. Without the restraint of a police force the traveling public can expect no protection.

"The State Highway patrol has three chief duties to perform: It protects the public, it protects the roads themselves, and it renders aid to travelers in distress. Again referring to the report, we find that 16,959 drivers were arrested in 1932, that 'warnings' were given 209,512 others and that aid was given 75,256 persons who had encountered trouble in some form or other while driving on the public highways.

"It is a record to be proud of and one warranting opposition to any attempt to abolish the patrol."

FACT-FINDERS

Do the diplomats and politicians and "administrations" and "governments" think they are fooling the public with the current superfluity of fact-finding and fact-finders? Doesn't it ever occur to them that the little fellow is not swallowing this show of doing something?

Another surplus to which the prolongation of the economic sleeping sickness may be attibuted is the surplus of studying, consulting, surveying, interviewing, conferring, feeling-out and sounding.

These should be prosperous times for the railroads, steamship companies, taxicabs and hotels so multitudinous are the liaison officers, contact men, unofficial observers, personal representatives, semi-official agents and special keepers of private consciences actively engaged in doing nothing about everything.

One reads of people breakfasting diplomatically, luncheoning tactically and dining for a serious purpose, but never accomplishing anything. Much is made of openings explored, approaches prepared, difficulties smoothed out and obstacles removed, but nothing ever comes of it.

All this fact-finding and all these fact-finders can leave but one impression on the popular mind and that is that the people who ought to know all about the issues of the day seem to know less about them than the man on the street. Don't kings and presidents and dictators and secretaries and legislators read the newspapers? Everything that is known about the vital issues of the day has been published repeatedly.

Yes, fact-finding and fact-finders effect a beautiful stall.

An Ohio sheriff has requested his deputies to wear spats all the time they're on duty. The addition of boutonniere and a gay feather in the fedora should make rent evictions practically painless.

John D. Rockefeller's grandson lost a $5 wage and $1.40 mileage allotment for failing to attend a county health board meeting. He'll hear from his grandpappy about that!

Prosperity Is Visualized

(This is the second of two dispatches discussing Mr. Roosevelt's huge development project.)

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

White House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—"How far hydro-electric power, at its fullest development throughout the country, would go toward supplying all of America's power requirements, is an impossible question to answer, because no one can say what the damand for power would be, were it available inexpensively."

Judson King, director of the National Popular Government league, and one of the foremost power specialists in the United States, who spoke, was considering President-elect Roosevelt's plan for speedy Muscle Shoals development, as a preliminary to the launching of similar projects in the Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, Arkansas, Columbia and other great river valleys.

"A stream can be dammed again and again, increasing its potentialities almost indefinitely," agreed the expert, "but it also is hard to place limits upon the uses to which power can be put if it is inexpensive enough.

Ontario Far Ahead

"For example, in Ontario, where governmentalization prevails (though not exclusively), the use of power per family exceeds the average in the United States fourfold.

"Here, if a practically unlimited supply were available, at a cost of not to exceed $2 to $2.50 monthly per home, every household soon would be virtually run by electricity—lighting, heating, cooking, refrigerating, sweeping, washing. And heaven knows what new conveniences would be added.

"Of course every farm would be electrically equipped throughout.

"The decentralization of industry would quickly result in calls for power to operate small plants by the dozen in each hamlet.

"Our streams assuredly would be kept working overtime.

"I doubt that they would be fully equal to the emergency. In all probability supplementary sources would be needed."

To What Distances?

The hydro-electric output could be transmitted, however, considerable distances? That is, would proximity to streams be essential to guarantee cheap power?

"Three hundred and fifty miles," said Director King, "is considered the present maximum, but that certainly will be extended. Indeed, transmission is effective in Germany now up to 500 miles. There are few places in the United States where that would be insufficient.

"Oh, the economical supplying of the whole country's necessity is perfectly feasible.

"The effect, naturally, would be to make life comparatively easy for our entire population. And the task of accomplishing it, while employing millions of men during the construction period, would pay for itself in flood control and fertile land reclamation, not to mention the opening of an incalculably valuable system of inland navigation.

Reason For Delay

"Nothing but the existing financial set-up of our power-producing corporations—a set-up which compels them to charge all and more than the public can bear—has delayed great progress in this direction already.

"Handled by the government, it should mark the beginning of a period of unprecedented prosperity.

"But it will be fought to the last extremity by profiteers under the system we now have with us. It also undoubtedly will be fought, as socialistic, by millions of folk who would profit by it enormously."

President-elect Roosevelt is quoted as confident that bankers' backing will be readily forthcoming, for initial funds to swing the project. On this issue I find numerous skeptics, who surmise that large financial houses, deeply interested in the private power industry, will be the last concerns to encourage its overthrow.

MacDONALD'S VISIT

PREMIER RAMSAY MacDONALD, if he comes to Washington next month to discuss war debts with President Roosevelt, will be less welcome to organized labor than at the time of his visit early in President Hoover's term. He was head then of the labor government in England. Now he is head of a mixed ministry, in which the reactionary element, much disliked by labor in this country, predominates. Labor publications in the United States refer to him as a "labor renegade", and by other uncomplimentary designations.

THE NEXT CABINET

PRESIDENT-ELECT ROOSEVELT is at least no slower in announcing his cabinet list than was President-elect Hoover four years ago. Until the last day or two, prior to March 4, 1929, most of the new appointments remained in doubt—though the holdovers, like Secretaries Mellon and Davis, were recognized as due to continue at the head of their respective departments for a while longer. Robert P. Lamont's selection for the commerce portfolio did not become definitely known until the final evening before inauguration.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

LIVING QUARTERS OF THE LORD

The sect of the Jezreelites was founded by an English private, James White, who changed his name to James Jershom Jezreel. His headquarters were at Gillingham, Kent, England, where an ambitious building scheme was effected at a cost of over $500,00. Contributions flowed in from every part of the world, and the sect was also greatly inriched by donationh of its members. They believed that they would live forever, on the basis of certain passages in the Revelation of St. John. At the second coming of Christ in the year 2000 a mystic number of 14,000 members twice told expected to be present. At Chatham Hill, New Brompton they began the construction of a temple 120 feet high and 120 feet wide, which was to serve as the earthly abode of the Lord. Jezreel died in 1885 and his wife who assumed the name of Queen Esther of Israel died 3 years later. Thereafter the sect disintegrated and the temple was torn down during the World War.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SHEILA SHAYNE, 18, whose parents were well known vaudeville actors, is in New York looking for work. Sheila is a dancer. She has spent almost her entire life on the stage, first traveling with her parents, now dead, and later in vaudeville and road shows. Sheila lives at MA LOWELL'S theatrical rooming house.

MYRT, a vaudeville performer also out of work, lives there, too. Over the breakfast table one morning Sheila confides to Myrt that her great ambition is to marry and have a home like those she has seen in small towns in which she has played.

Ma Lowell interrupts them to announce that a telephone call has come for Sheila. It is an offer for her to fill in for DAISY GLEASON, another dancer, who has sprained her ankle. Sheila agrees eagerly and sets off for JOE PARIS' office to rehearse.

At about the same time two wealthy young men, TREVOR LANE and DICK STANLEY, are discussing plans for the party Lane is to give that night. They decide to go to Paris' office to hire some entertainers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

Sheila walked across 49th street to Broadway and ran lightly up the stairs to Joe Paris' place. There was an elevator—if one cared to wait for it. Sheila could delay to buy flowers from a street peddler but now a minute was too much to waste on the likes of breath-savers such as elevators.

To be sure the job in prospect wasn't much—filling in for Daisy. But it was a job nevertheless Daisy couldn't dance but, being married to Roscoe, leader of his own band and crazy about her, it had been easy for her to win a place in the show. Sheila could fill the part far better than Daisy and knew it. She wondered— not unkindly — if Daisy's sprain was serious, if it would lay her up for some time. Sheila devoutly hoped that it would.

She was a little excited about coming to Joe Paris' place. Joe was the "King of Tin Pan Alley." He was the singing waiter from the Bowery, married now to a society girl. Joe Paris' name on a song was like sterling on silver. His praise meant instant success!

Joe of course had not hired Sheila for the part with Roscoe. Roscoe must have telephoned to Bill Brady and asked for suggestions. Bill had remembered that Sheila was not working. Frequently Joe loaned his practice rooms to dancers learning a routine—especially when they plugged his songs.

Sheila was sure Joe Paris had never even heard her name. She was right in thinking Bill had suggested her but wrong in thinking Joe Paris did not know her. He had heard her sing and when the time came that she could be useful he would know where to find her. Until then there was no use getting her hopes up, as a call from Paris himself would have been sure to do.

Upstairs in Joe's shop everyone was busy. There was a long counter behind which a girl answered incessant calls from the telephone and took care of visitors. Pianos jangling. Jazz throbbing. Someone crooning. Down the corridor were little practice rooms, a piano in each. Dance producers shouted to overworked, perspiring performers. Someone was trying out Joe's latest song.

Sheila, ever entranced though it was all so familiar, loved the blare of melody, the jangling discordant sounds. She loved the raucous voices, the sight of sleek-hipped, busy dance arrangers moving briskly here and there, the swarthy pianists, thick cigars hanging from the corners of their mouths, whose pudgy hands, lingering over the keys, could squeeze out unguessed melody.

Sheila had often been at Joe's to see Blind Timmy. Timmy worked there and drew a fair salary, though whether from the kindness of Joe's heart or from actual worth Sheila did not know.

She had seen Joe himself, slim, dapper, sleek of hair, abstract of expression, wandering about the place, his hat on the back of his well-groomed head, hands in his pockets. Or walking briskly toward his private office, deep in conversation with an assistant. She had seen him pause by Blind Timmy's piano, pat the bent shoulders, whisper words which seemed to bring happiness to the patient old face. Sheila loved to see Blind Timmy's face glow at these scant words of praise. Joe was a big shot now but he remembered when he had been obscure, struggling. Unlike many others who had risen to success he was constantly on the lookout for talent to match his own.

At the counter the blond, smartly groomed girl looked up from the telephone long enough to inquire of Sheila what business had brought her hither, to nod absently and shuffle a handful of cards, abstractedly murmuring "Shayne" as she did so.

A look of understanding spread over her bland countenance as she held a card separate from its fellows and studied it. Sheila wondered what secrets it held.

"Brady's waiting for you. Third door to the left," the girl assured her amiably.

* * *

Sheila hesitated. "Will—can—Blind Timmy play for me?" she asked. She knew that it did Timmy no harm to be asked for particularly. More than that, Timmy would be helpful at such a time. Brady could scowl and rant but the nodding of Timmy's head as he listened for the click of her tiny feet was Sheila's barometer. Timmy could detect the slightest off step, could indicate that a step had been well done.

"Timmy knows me—" she went on timidly. The girl nodded. "Brady's asked for him already. They're both in there waiting. Better hustle."

Sheila breathed more easily. She had one day, hardly that, in which to memorize the routine. Brady would be sure to make it more intricate when he saw her in the offing. She could dance all around Daisy.

In the practice room she found Timmy, his hands wandering over the keyboard, blind eyes fastened on the ceiling, ears cocked for Sheila's footsteps. Brady, a slim-waisted, sophisticated youth, paced the floor impatiently. She knew Brady—a slave driver but an excellent teacher. He'd work you unmercifully but you'd have a routine when he finished with you.

"'Lo, kid," he vouchsafed in her direction and broke into a fox trot, clumsy for all his slimness. Running his eye over her figure in reluctant approval, he grunted, "You are taller than Gleason."

"Sure. But my feet are just as near the floor."

"An' Gleason is Roscoe's wife. Remember that. Don't try to walk away with the act because you can't do it."

"I'm only planning to fill in, Bill. Daisy'll be laid up several weeks, won't she?"

"Can't tell. Sometimes those sprained ankles—"

Blind Timmy turned from the piano sharply. "Shayne here is a real dancer. She'll show up Gleason."

Once more Brady grunted. "Well we aren't running any marathons. All we have to do is teach her the routine. No matter how good she is—or how bad—she fills in for Gleason. And no matter how bad she is—or how good—when Gleason is able to dance again Shayne is through."

"It's a job, Bill. That's something."

Bill sighed as though he himself were jobless. "You said it, kid. These days. Listen, this is your first step. The kick off. One two, one two, three and four!" He ceased abrutly.

"When'd you dance last?"

"Five weeks ago," Sheila answered ruefully. "I'm due to be lame, Bill, I know that."

* * *

Sheila stood on the floor waiting. It was fine to be back at work again, even though her dream had been Big Time or a specialty in a musical show. Here she was, delighted to be filling in for Daisy Gleason whose only claim to the "profession" was that she had married Roscoe.

There was a happy couple for you in the stage world! Roscoe and Daisy. One said Roscoe and Daisy as if the names had grown together, were syllables of the same name. Never a quarrel, never a cross word between them, as far as anyone knew — which was pretty far in the show business!

Sheila had tossed off her coat and stood in the little suit skirt and frilly white blouse, hardly a practice costume but donned to impress the managers who would not have lifted an eyebrow had she arrived in plaid pajamas, so hardened were they to unusual costumes and feminine charms.

"Listen." Bill stopped scowling long enough to say. "Hop out to the desk and ask Mabel to give you a suit of rompers. I've got some lively kicks coming and there's no use ruining a decent skirt.

Mabel was none too cordial. She was being interrupted for the third time that morning in a confidential telephone chat with her young man. She had ridden to work with him that morning on the Bronx subway and would see him at lunch, but love is love!

"Oh, honey," Sheila wailed, handing back a size 40 suit of practice clothes. "I can't wear that; Give me a break, will you? What on earth do you think I've reduced 10 pounds for?"

"I'll ask the Prince of Wales," replied Mabel haughtily but presently she flung a suit of blue, Sheila's size, at her from the [illegible]lection in the lower desk drawe[illegible]

Dressed for work, Sheila watc[illegible] Bill move through graceless gy[illegible]tions with elephantine skill. S[illegible] did not dream of smiling, even inwardly. These steps, shorn of Bill's quaint, earnest interpretation, were suave, fascinating. His routines were known—and copied—up and down Broadway.

"You take a coupla slides here see?" said Bill between scowls. Unexpectedly he stopped, one foot suspended in midair.

"Now you try, sister," Bill Brady ordered.

Cotton Cotton Recovers Following Dip

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 14. (AP) — With trading brisk all day, cotton partially recovered a severe early dip which followed a general wave of selling apparently inspired by the Michigan bank holiday and resultant weakness in other markets. Futures broke 32 to 33 points before the late rally on short covering and the close was steady at net declines for the day of 17 to 18 points. A sustaining factor at the start was the census bureau's report on January domestic mill consumption, the 471,202-bale total comparing with 440,062 in December and 434,326 in January last year.

The opening was steady although cables were a shade worse than due. Private cables reported the market steady with light hedge and continental selling offset by local buying. Manchester cabled a moderate cloth inquiry from China and India, but small sales and yarn dull. First trades here showed losses of only 1 to 3 points but prices soon turned easier and continued to ease off all morning with rather liberal liquidation and general selling influenced by the downward course of stocks. By the time this selling had run its course, March was trading as low as 5.83, May at 5.96, July at 6.08 and October at 6.28, down 23 to 24 points from the close of yesterday. At noon the market was a little steadier and had recovered 3 to 4 points from the lows.

The market weakened again in the afternoon, however, and March dropped to 5.74, May to 5.87, July to 5.99 and October to 6.18, or 32 to 33 points below the previous close. In the late trading prices rallied 15 points on shorts covering helped by some recovery in stocks. March closed at 5.89, down 17 points net, May at 6.02 and July at 6.14, down 18 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 4 penny points down.

Port receipts 24,081, for week 52,941, for season 6,962,893, last season 8,130,992. Exports 51,535, for week 75,058, for season 5,288,634, last season 5,344,746. Port stock 4,633,995, last year 4,858,568. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 112,761, last year 169,837. Spot sales at southern markets 11,193, last year 22,001.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP)—Cotton reacted to nearly the low levels of last week today, but firmed toward the close. Selling was attributed largely to liquidation influenced by the bank holiday in Michigan and the action of the grain and stock markets. After showing net losses of 22 to 29 points, with May selling off to 5.90, the market rallied on covering and May closed at 6.02, the general market finished 7 to 14 points net lower.

The opening was 1 to 7 points higher on further trade and commission house buying which was evidently encouraged by steady Liverpool cables. Houses with Liverpool and continental connections were early buyers, but demand was supplied by realizing and selling through brokers who some times operate for the cooperative interests. Offerings increased after the call, as if influenced by the early action of the stock market, and while trade demand increased around the 6 cent level for May, the decline was only momentarily checked. The market later sold off another ten points, or back to about last week's point of resistance. March broke to 5.77 and July to 6.00 but offerings were then absorbed and more than half the losses were recovered during the last half hour. March closed at 5.91 and July at 6.15.

The census report showing 471,202 bales consumed in this country in January compared with 434,726 last year, was about in line with expectations and without apparent effect on the market. Brokers who sometimes act for the cooperative interests were credited with selling quite persistently, some estimates placing the amount at around 30,000 bales. Otherwise, little southern selling was reported and except for covering toward the close, buying was attributed largely to the trade. Reports published over the week-end that the senate agricultural committee had voted to exclude all commodities except wheat and cotton from the domestic allotment bill received little comment in connection with the day's market.

Increased estimates of last week's sales of cotton goods which some authorities now place at about 70,000,000 yards may have helped the opening market. Liverpool cables said hedging and continental selling, had been offset by local buying.

Financial Markets Weaker On Tuesday As Banking Holiday Holds Spotlight

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP) — Returning from their holiday to learn a banking moratorium had been declared in Michigan, financial markets generally weakened today, but tended to regain their composure before closing time.

For stocks, selling was concentrated in the first couple of hours when fairly heavy offerings appeared. By noon, however, the market again was dull and in the late trading prices firmed sufficiently to cut down extreme declines from fractions to about a point. As it was, net losses of one to around 3 points were numerous and the average recession of 2.8 points was the largest since last October. Volume reached 1,543,650 shares, heaviest in nearly two months.

The Michigan holiday was the most extensive "banking vacation" so far experienced and presumably led to selling of securities by holders in the area affected. Wall street bankers, familiar with the situation, said it should be viewed as a local difficulty, pointing out it was basically due to real estate troubles, aftermath of a spectacular boom concident with expansion of automotive manufacturing.

Rail shares, on the eve of the transportation committee's report, slumped rather sharply, but utilities and industrials bore them company. Gold mining issues resisted for a time, though some of them eventually sold off. Bonds softened, especially in the rail division. Cotton, after dropping more than a dollar a bale, reduced its losses to 35 to 70 cents. Wheat yield around a cent a bushel.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 14. (AP)—Fed steers and yearlings were listed unevenly steady to 25 lower with receipts only moderate at various points around the circuit. Choice lighter weight steers and long yearlings sold around 6.00@6.75 and the majority of weighty steers of good to choice quality were quoted at 4.00@5.00. Choice 1,400 lb. beeves in Chicago scored up to 5.50. Mixed yearlings and fed heifers cleared chiefly in a spread of 4.00@5.25 with a few consignments of mixed offerings up to 5.50. Receipts to date this week at eleven markets totaled 70,500 as compared with 70,577 last week and 79,972 the same period a year ago.

Hog trade was considered mostly steady to 10 lower as compared with Monday's average business. Chicago secured up to 3.85 on best light weight butchers while high selling prices elsewhere ranged downward to 3.30.

Fat lambs carried a generally steady to weak trend with a few markets reporting a sizeable supply unsold at a late hour. Completed sales for desirable fed kinds were included in a spread of 5.25@6.10 while a few sold up to 6.15.

Grain Wheat Suffers Fall Tuesday

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Feb. 14. (AP)—Fair demand for cash grain here was reported after the Monday holiday in that market.

Prices ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to destination, delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat, No. 1 hard according to protein and billing 51 1-4@52 1-4. Barley, No. 2 nominally 33@34; No. 3 nominally 32@33. Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 63@67; No. 3 milo 59@63. No. 2 kaffir per 100 pounds 53@54; No. 3 kaffir 51@52.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: Corn, No. 2 mixed 39@40; No. 2 white 40@41; No. 2 yellow 40 1-2@41 1-2.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats, No. 2 red 23 1-2@24 1-2; No. 3 red 22 1-2@23 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (AP) — Liquidating sales by holders of grain resulted today from weakness of securities and from disturbance in Michigan banking circles.

Wheat suffered a fall of 1 3-8 cents a bushel, and finished at the lowest point reached. Near-record big shipments of wheat from Argentina and Australia had a contributing bearish effect.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady, 7-8 to 1 3-8 under yesterday's finish, corn 1-2 to 3-4 down, oats 3-8 to 1-2 off, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents lower.

Westminster Kennel Club Show Opens In New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP)—With barks, whines, and plenty of material for fights, 2,339 dogs, every one a thoroughbred, settled down today in Madison Square Garden for the fifty-seventh Westminister kennel club show.

The Westminister show is the largest in America and the second largest in the world. The selection of the best animal in the show will be made Wednesday night by Mrs. Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge, a niece of John D. Rockefeller and the first woman ever invited to pick the grand champion at a Westminister show. Mrs. Dodge is a fancier of renown.

Positive Relief For Itchy Skin

Cooling and soothing Blue Star Ointment melts on the skin, sending tested medicines deeply into pores where it quickly kills itch, tetter, rash, eczema, foot itch, ringworm, etc. Money back if it fails.—Adv.

ILLUSION:
The stage is all set for target practice. The magician lifts his bow and aims an arrow at the bull's-eye. His lovely assistant then steps in front of the target and he shoots the arrow—apparently through her—and it fixes itself in the very center of the bull's-eye! And she smiles through it all while the audience gasps.

EXPLANATION:
The arrow which the marksman "shoots through" his assistant simply folds up into the crossbow! The arrow which is actually embedded in the target is shot by the girl herself from a belt concealed under her dress. She releases a little spring, the arrow unfolds, and shoots straight into the bull's-eye! It is all done in a flash! So quickly the eye cannot detect the girl's movements! To heighten the impression that the arrow has gone right through, the girl releases a ribbon from the front of her dress—the continuation, apparently, of the ribbon attached to the arrow in the target.

It's fun to be fooled —
... it's more fun to KNOW

Like to see through tricks? Then let's look at another... the illusion in cigarette advertising called "Cigarettes and Your Throat."

The audience is told that by certain magic processes tobacco can be made as soothing as cough medicine.

EXPLANATION: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest ripe tobaccos. Cheap, raw tobaccos are, as you would naturally expect, harsh in their effects upon the throat.

If you have to consider your throat, the quality of the tobacco in your cigarette is important.

☛ It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Camels are as non-irritating as a cigarette can be because Camels use choice, ripe, tobaccos.

And because of the matchless blending of these costlier tobaccos Camels have a rich bouquet and aroma... a cool, delicious flavor.

Keep the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack on your Camels ...to assure yourself and your companions a fresh, cool smoke.

Lamb Prices Given Boost

Buyers Continue To Scramble For Animals Over Western Texas; Individual Sales In Area Are Small

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 14. (AP)—The price on the best range mutton lambs rose to 4 1-2 cents a pound as buyers continue to scramble for the animals over the ranch country of West Texas.

Individual sales continue to be small, but a great many have been made.

O. W. Culp of Scottsville, Kansas, whose family is among the largest handlers of sheep in the country has been buying bred ewes and lambs and shipping them to Kansas. Culp said feeders in Kansas are doing better with sheep than with cattle and hogs.

Hal Martin has finished buying about 9,000 lambs in the Comstock country and has moved them in on the Continental Ranch company range.

Russel Menzies bought about 2,000 feeder lambs from Prosser and Martin of Del Rio on northern orders. The lambs were fall shorn and brought 4 cents a pound, weighing from 70 to 75 pounds.

February is the big lambing month in West Texas. One of the biggest operators Sol Kelly, who has eighty sections of ranch land in Sutton, Schleicher, Tom Green and Crockett counties, will lamb out 16,500 ewes shortly. He will shear about 20,000 head of sheep this spring. He carried over his lamb crop, refusing $3 for ewe lambs and 4 1-2 cents a pound for his muttons.

The first bale of cotton exported from the United States to Europe was shipped from Charleston, S. C. in 1784.

Lubbock County Receives $48 From American Red Cross For Every Dollar In Fees It Has Sent To Organization

For every dollar of fees Lubbock county chapter of the American Red cross has sent to the national organization the local unit has received $48 K. L. Riggs, roll call chairman, has announced. Riggs said that $20,000 had been sent here in the past three years while memberships to Washington have been only $419.

"Two years ago (1931) the American Red Cross began by sending in $7,000 in cash and $2,000 worth of food supplies and seed," Mr. Riggs said. "This was during the drouth and meant the saving from starvation of many dozens of Lubbock county farm families. Through the Red Cross they became self supporting.

Flour, Cotton Sent

"Beginning last August they began shipping government flour and cotton from the federal farm board to the needy here. All distribution costs borne by them.

"Three car loads of flour, representing 5,000 sacks, has made over a million biscuits for the needy.

"Bolts of Red Cross-cotton cloth has been made up at the Red Cross sewing room into 2,030 gowns and slips for women and children; 1,000 diapers for babies; 600 shirts for men and boys; 1,500 dresses for women and girls.

"Then came over 4,000 ready made garments; 2,262 pairs of hose for men, women and children; 1,152 suits of underwear; 540 pairs of overalls and trousers; 168 jumpers and 840 sweaters."

Out of the one dollar memberships, 50 cents goes to the national headquarters at Washington and the remainder stays in Lubbock for local relief. The national disaster fund is used to meet emergencies, such as the drouth in Texas in 1931, the Mississippi floods, cyclones, tornadoes etc.

Plantation Scenes Described As Hog-Killing Time Arrives

RUSK, Tex., Feb. 14 (AP)—Hog-killing weather recently recalled to Mrs. John Wade, a great-grandmother residing at Mt. Selman, similar scenes, especially the preparation of home made sausage, during her childhood on a Cherokee county plantation.

"You have seen present-day sausage mills and relished the peppery, herb-seasoned meat," Mrs. Wade said, "but in the perfection of its preparation you have lacked a long way of tasting the sausage made in my childhood when mills were unknown.

"Blocks of convenient height were sawed from the trunks of the largest trees. In the smooth upper end of each block was hollowed a deep rounding hole, a mortar, into which the meat was thrown.

"Armed with heavy wooden pestles, a strong negro man on either side would beat and pound it into a pulp. When the seasoning was carefully worked into the lumpless mass, you had, indeed, a dish fit for the most epicurean taste, stimulating, satisfying, delightful, nothing lacking."

Cantaloupes were named for Cantaloupe, Italy, where the melons were first grown in Europe.

Pair Fail In Crude Holdup

Two Youths Out On Probation At Tahoka; Attempted Robbery Near Dance Hall; Man Grabs Pistol

TAHOKA, Feb. 14—(Special)—Two youths, 15 and 16 years of age respectively, failed in a crude attempt at hi-jacking near a dance hall here and as a result are on probation following a trial in juvenile court.

A stranger passing the dance hall found himself confronted by a youth at the other end of a business-like looking .38 calibre revolver. "Stick-'em up," ordered the youth as he poked the gun into the belt of the stranger. Instead of complying the man grabbed the pistol and prevented the youth from firing it.

The second youth rushed up with an old car spring and as he did so a companion of the man wrenched it from his hands. The first youth then tossed his revolver on top of the dance hall where it was later found. It was found to have been without a trigger, but the hammer was in good shape.

Judge W. E. Smith, county judge, held a hearing and remanded one youth to the custody of his brother and the other to his father. They were told any further trouble would mean a trip to the state reformatory.

Farmers Pool Eighteen Hogs

Demonstration Is Held At The Experiment Station In Spur For Three Days; Methods Of Procedure Shown

SPUR, Feb. 14—(Special)—Eighteen hogs for killing at a demonstration at the state experiment farm were pooled by farmers and merchants. The A. and M. college method of killing, butchering, and curing was used by Grady I. Lane, county agent, and R. E. Dickson, station superintendent, while Miss Clara Pratt, home demonstration agent, handled the supervision.

Butchering was done the first of the three day demonstration. The hogs averaged 190 pounds when dressed, this work being completed the first day. Cutting, trimming and curing came the second day.

On the third day the scraps, including hearts, livers, heads, loins, feet, etc., were taken to town and conserved in the Spur community kitchen. Headcheese, mince meat, pickled pig's feet, liver paste, sausage, loin roast, rib roast, sausage and scrapple were some of the products.

Celophane bags were used for sausage containers. It was explained that by wetting the outside of these bags the sausage may be given a smoke process in a few hours, with the sausage retaining a fresh, sweet flavor.

Days for curing hams and bacons have been reduced to two days for hams and one for bacon. This gives a milder cure.

Grading And Drainage Will Be Complete In Two Weeks

Grading and drainage work on highway 24 between Lubbock and Idalou is expected to be finished within two weeks, unless weather conditions delay, it was said Tuesday. Work is being done by the Panhandle Construction company of Lubbock.

All of the culverts have been finished. Finishing touches remain, including the smoothing up of shoulders and other light work. No date has been set for the opening of the new highway to traffic.

Distance between Lubbock and Idalou is said to be ten feet less than 11 miles. More than a mile is saved by the new route over the former routing.

Longest water crossing is a slab in Yellowhouse canyon, east of Lubbock, about 80 or 90 feet long.

Historical Society Material Will Be Moved In On Feb. 2

CANYON, Feb. 14. (AP)—Material accumulated by the Panhandle-Plains Historical society over a period of several years will be classified and moved into the new museum, nearing completion, about February 20.

The date of the formal opening has not been set, but those in charge say the museum will be opened to the public about March 16.

For several years the mass of material gathered by field men and contributed by interested persons has been stored in the basement of the administration building of the West Texas State Teachers college or displayed in the corridors and offices of the college building. The work of classification and restrictions will be tedious, according to L. F. Sheffy, secretary of the society, under whose supervision the task will be done.
