Bird Migration Speech Topic

Some of the mysteries of bird migration were discussed by L.D. Nuckles of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department at a luncheon meeting of Rotary Club February 20 at Ramada Inn.

He said many theories have been offered in explanation of how migrating birds find their way unerringly over thousands of miles of land and sea each spring and fall, yet none of these ideas appear to be very accurate.

One school of thought holds that birds navigate by the stars, yet many fly at night. Another theory is that magnetic forces control their flight, but experiments employing magnets attached to birds pretty well exploded this theory, according to Nuckles.

Birds raised in captivity for five generations have been known to take off in the correct direction when released at migration time.

Despite reports that some birds fly as fast as 400 to 500 miles an hour, the fastest flights timed by airplanes are at a speed of less than 200 miles an hour, Nuckles said. He added that 20 to 30 miles a day appears to be about average for most migrating birds. Hummingbirds take off across the Gulf from this coastal area each fall in the direction of the Yucatan peninsula. They are fat when they start but are quite thin when they reach Mexico after their long over-water flight, he said.

Most birds migrate in flights but some such as whooping cranes fly as individuals or families. Nuckles reported having seen exhausted warblers fall into the Gulf, on their flight north from South America. On another occasion Cowbirds landed on a fishing boat and remained aboard until the boat reached Port Aransas where the hitch hiking birds walked ashore completely ignoring persons who had gathered at the dock. Apparently they had had enough flying for one day, Nuckles said.

Nuckles pointed out that the only cranes native to this area are lesser and greater sandhill cranes and whooping cranes. These birds fly with their necks fully extended, while herons and ibis fly with their necks crooked.

Arctic tern follow a unique pattern of migration, making a round trip between the Arctic and the Antarctic each year. He said no one has been able to explain why they move from one frigid climate to another.

Someone in the audience suggested: "Perhaps one good tern deserves another."

Under the plan proposed by the city, property owners would be given five years to pay their share of the project. After City Engineer Urban prepares plans and specifications, contractors will be invited to bid on the project and then the Council will study the bids and make a final determination as to whether to proceed with the drainage work and the paving which will include curbs and gutters.

In another action the Council, again by a split vote, concurred with a recommendation by the Planning and Zoning Commission and approved an application of Martin Barrera for rezoning a lot at 317 N. Church Street from R-1 residential to B-2 business to enable Barrera to establish a paint and body shop.

Aldermen Garrett, Zambrano and McMillan voted in favor of the action and Alderman Jackson voted against it. Jackson said he thought it was a mistake to permit a business to be established across the street from Aransas County Public Library.

In another matter, Mayor Falk opened bids from six firms for a garage truck and packer and the Council voted to have Public Works Director Tom Shuld analyze the bids to make sure that they met specifications required by the city.

The final business matter on the agenda was discussion of various uses of Memorial Park. It was pointed out that several organizations had asked if the park, or a portion of it, could be reserved for special occasions such as an Easter egg hunt. The Council decided that the park is to remain open to everyone and area use is to be on a "first come, first served" basis.

CPL Increases Electric Bills

Central Power and Light Company customers in Rockport will find an increase in their electric bills this month due to the company's increased cost of fuel, according to CPL Manager Bill Janacek.

"The cost of natural gas we burn in our power plant boilers has almost doubled in the past year and this increased cost is now being reflected in customer bills," the CPL manager said. Increased costs for gas and oil are passed along to customers through a fuel adjustment clause which has been included in all CPL rates since 1964.

CPL paid a price of about 22 cents per million BTUs for its fuel supply in 1972, and the price in 1973 was slightly over 35 cents. This compares to an average price of about 55 cents paid in December of last year. "This means that if a customer used 500 kilowatt hours of electricity in January, the increase in fuel which shows up on his February electric bill would be an additional $2.33," Janacek explained.

"The higher fuel cost is adding about 47 cents to every 100 kilowatt hours a customer uses," the CPL Manager said.

Residential and commercial rates are designed and priced on a basis of 20 cent fuel, and anything above 20 cents is passed automatically on to CPL customers throughout South Texas on an even basis on each KWH used.

CPL used natural gas to generate almost all the electricity the company produced in 1972, but switched to oil for some of its fuel requirements in 1973 when its gas deliveries were curtailed.

"We have had several severe gas curtailments this winter, and have had to pay higher costs for the oil and gas," he pointed out.

CPL burns fuel oil when its natural gas suppliers curtail deliveries to meet residential customers' needs. Such curtailments have normally occurred during cold winter months.

"Natural gas is regulated by the Texas Railroad Commission which has allowed La Voca Gas Producing Company, CPL's major supplier, to raise its price," the CPL Manager said.

Foreseeing the short energy supply, CPL began study of nuclear power in 1971 and announced plans to build a nuclear powered electric generating station last summer. The plant, located in the Bay City/Palacios area, is expected to be completed in 1980. Also, CPL is expected to announce its first coal-fired power plant later this year.

presented by the Philadelphia College of Art

Perhaps Marcel Duchamp is the most difficult artist to understand in the entire history of art. This is because he was a true innovator who rebelled against every artistic tradition.

His early works were very acceptable realistic studies of his family and scenes of the town in which he lived. But when he adopted the new cubist style in the painting, Nude Descending A Staircase, he shocked even the art world and they refused to exhibit it with other cubist paintings at a show in Paris. Duchamp's nude, a moving body, is depicted as though it was a stroboscopic photograph. In the past, artists had painted the female form with softly flowing sensuous curves. In contrast, Duchamp's figure is described with strong diagonals and sharp angularities. When it was exhibited in the United States at the Armory Show in 1913 one critic described it as "an explosion in a shingle factory."

A few years later, Duchamp decided he did not need to paint, but could use other materials to express himself. Painting put him too much in the service of his hand, and Duchamp believed the most important aspect of the artist was his mind.

Once he actually selected an ordinary urinal, signed it, and named it The Fountain but this work was not permitted to be exhibited. The Fountain and other such works were known as "ready-mades". It was the first time ordinary objects from life were used to make a work of art.

Duchamp's interest in movement led him to create the first piece of kinetic art, or art that moves. It was a bicycle wheel attached to a stool which the spectator was invited to set into motion.

He worked upon his major piece, The Bride Stripped Bare by her Bachelors, Even, for many years. One must read a great many of Duchamp's notes which describe and explain the process of his mind and hand, in order to understand or appreciate this work. He uses new media for this work:

glass, lead wire, accumulated dust, mirror, and pigment and deals with very revolutionary subject matter. It depicts a mechanical means of making love which never comes to fruition, thereby symbolizing man's sense of alienation in contemporary society.

He gave up art altogether in 1923, and spent most of the rest of his life playing chess, a game which employed his mind as he thought an artist's mind should be employed.

He did have one last work which remained a secret to even his closest friends until after his death in 1968, at the age of 81. He felt that for a well-known artist such as himself to be truly expressive, he must work completely by himself, without the art world having any knowledge of his activities and his final piece, titled, "Etant Donnes: 1, la chute d'eau; 2, legaz d'eclairage", was not to be photographed for 15 years, according to Duchamp's own stipulation. It is permanently installed at the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

Today Duchamp's influence upon young artists is probably greater than any other artist in mankind's history. The best of art has always represented man's highest aspirations, and if, as in Duchamp's case, these aspirations are expressed in a highly intellectual manner, perhaps the best is yet to come.

Why the good neighbor made instant grandchildren.

In our time, in our world, the old get hidden away and forgotten much too often.

In a Connecticut city, The American Red Cross—America's Good Neighbor—did something about it.

There, Red Cross Youth each "adopted a grandparent." Strictly one to one. The purpose: regular visits—to make life just a little more worth living for older folks.

A small matter, you may think—especially if there just don't happen to be any older people in your neighborhood, or your life. But it represents just what Red Cross is all about.

Because The American Red Cross is a home town affair. That's why you find us doing different things in different home towns.

We're what you need us to be. Whoever you are. Wherever you are.

And isn't that what a Good Neighbor is all about?

Be a good neighbor. Help The Good Neighbor.

the good neighbor.

The Kindly Raps

It's good to be home after a two-week vacation in California. My wife and I spent the first week in Long Beach taking care of some business matters following my father's death in November, and the second week in San Ramon near Oakland visiting our son Dave, our daughter-in-law Diane, and our grandchildren, Scott and Lynda.

We had a fine vacation and enjoyed nice weather during both weeks. Our son took us on several interesting auto trips, including one through what is known as the Wine Country where you see countless acres of grape plants and numerous wineries. We went through the Sebastiani Winery and were fascinated to see and hear about how wines are made.

A couple of trips to San Francisco also were planned for us, and naturally we had one super meal at Fisherman's Wharf. The San Francisco-Oakland area is beautiful and you never get tired of just "drinking in" the views and all the interesting sights.

Of course, the highlight of the vacation for us was the time we spent with Dave, Diane, Scott and Lynda. Scott is almost six and he had grown a lot since we last saw him a year ago on Christmas. And this was the first time we had seen our only granddaughter who is now almost six months old.

Scott is handsome, Lynda is beautiful and both are adorable. If you want more information, stop in and I'll show you their pictures and tell you all about them.

4H Bridge

Mrs. M. H. McKinsey was hostess to the 4H Bridge Club at her home last week. Members playing were Mrs. Wm. Denny, Miss Lillian Fahr, Mrs. Ed Hall, Mrs. R. E. House, Mrs. Fred Hunt, Mrs. L. G. Wood, and one guest, Mrs. R. L. Eckman. High score was won by Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. Eckman was second high and the hostess was third high.

HAPPINESS IS: Getting it off your chest. If it's a cold, see your doctor -- otherwise, let's talk it over at the Concern Center.

Something Crabby

AUSTIN -- Crabgrass and crabapples, both have a season of the year when they grow and flourish, but crabby people seem to crop up all year around. You may just grin and bear it when you run into someone who thinks it is the season for human crabs, but according to Rodille Campbell, seafood home economist, there is a better solution.

The blue crab, a native of the Texas coast, is available year round, though it is most abundant in the warmer months. This delicacy is sold in several different grades. Lump meat is top-grade crabmeat taken from the body of the crab. It is large pieces of white meat. Flake meat is small pieces of white meat taken from inside the shell, around the outside edge. "Special" grade is a combination of the two types of body meat. One other grade of crabmeat, claw meat, is darker in color. All of these grades of crabmeat are equally flavorful, and the type you purchase depends on the recipe you have selected.

To "uncrab" any human crabs you meet, try the real thing, Texas blue crab, in the following recipe. The "crabs" are guaranteed to finish up smiling. Additional seafood recipes are available by sending a postcard to Seafood, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

CRABMEAT AND RICE

1 1/2 c. rice
1 c. cooked green peas
1/2 c. finely chopped parsley
2 finely chopped pimientos
pepper
1 lb. crabmeat
6 Tbs. butter
3 Tbs. grated onion
salt
grated Parmesan cheese

Cook rice in your usual way. When it is drained and fluffy add the crabmeat, the cooked green peas, the butter and the flavoring. Season to taste and toss lightly until it is well mixed. Place in a casserole or copper baking dish, sprinkle liberally with grated cheese, dot with butter and heat in a 425 degree oven for 10 minutes or until it is thoroughly heated through. Serve with a tomato sauce, if desired.

High School Library Club

The R.F.H.S. Library Club has indeed kept its members busy by having them make posters listing their favorite books. These posters now entirely cover one of the bulletin boards at school. The caption of the board reads, "Books Which Have Meant the Most to Us".

At an earlier meeting a copy of the "Guinness Book of World Records" was presented to each of the six mid-term graduating seniors in the club in appreciation of their service.

During an officers meeting, a Library Club pin was selected for the Library Club, which later received the approval of the members at the last meeting on February 15, 1974. Also at this meeting, a small quiz was given to the members on the skills of the library. This test proved to be a great success and lots of fun.

The Annual Book Fair sponsored by the Club will be held in the Library March 19 and 20. Membership in this active club in the high school numbers 53 members.

TV COMMENTARY

By John Smiley

RECENTLY Dr. Ronald Drabman and Dr. Margaret Thomas of Florida Technological University did studies to try to determine whether TV violence might cause youngsters to accept violence as a simple, routine fact of life.

A CONCLUSION of the research is that TV violence does establish a tendency for youngsters to accept violence as a mere part of a normal everyday existence. If youngsters are to be taught that violence is to be accepted only as the unusual rather than the usual, what they see must be controlled in some measure. It is logical that what a youngster sees is what he learns.

THUS, Dr. Drabman says that at the very least we owe it to children to provide some sort of labeling system for TV shows so parents can exert intelligent control over what their children see on TV.

IT MUST BE ADMITTED, also, that no system of identifying the violence level of a TV show will work unless parents do their part of the job; which is, of course, controlling the television set.

IN THE SAME VEIN: With the bitter often comes some sweet. The sourpills of viewing reruns of old TV shows is sometimes flavored with the realization of the pleasing truth of how much less violent and less cynical were earlier TV plots and characterizations--yet in reviewing them, seeing that they were still quite powerful and quite good.

IN THIS particular instance regression to earlier ways of doing things would be in good taste and good sense. One does not wish to cling to the past, especially when the future holds such promise, but the wise heart will hold to those values that are most healthy and better than the present way of doing things.

OUTDOORS 'n things

by

There has been a lot of discussion in the last few months, about oysters. The recent outbreak of infectious hepatitis in the Houston area, caused by restaurants inadvertently serving polluted oysters, has been the cause of much of this discussion, and many people have come to realize that they know next to nothing about these succulent bi-valves.

Just about everybody now knows that the oyster feeds by straining food from the water, and that in doing so it strains out and retains many kinds of disease germs. Some of these germs, and even virus, do no harm to the oyster, but can be dangerous to the humans who consume him. The most common diseases that are transmitted to man in this way are some rather mild ones that cause upset stomach, diarrhea, and vomiting, and, of course, infectious hepatitis. Normal cooking temperatures will destroy the organisms that cause all these diseases except those associated with hepatitis. Infectious hepatitis, although not often fatal, is serious, and the bacteria which cause it are NOT destroyed by cooking.

I don't know if it could be called typical, but I have found out what at least one ladies bridge club talks about. I was astonished. I didn't realize that such a group of ladies would be interested in the sex life of an oyster. The reproductive process of the oyster is, to us at least, not a very exciting thing, but there's no question about it being interesting.

In three or four months after the young, free-swimming oysters settle down, start growing their shell, and become immobile for life, studies show that each individual has sexual characteristics of both male and female. By the time their first spawning season rolls around, about 80 to 95 percent, depending on environmental conditions, will function as males. The better the food supply and growing conditions for the young oysters, the lower the percent that function as males. Some will first function as males then turn right around and function as females. As each new spawning season comes up more and more of the oysters will become females until they outnumber the males. This process is accelerated by good environmental conditions. During all this changing about, some one to three percent remain completely bisexual and capable of self-fertilization.

This is a complicated, and not completely understood, process, and water temperature, food supply, length of growing season, and perhaps many other factors that we're not aware of have their effects on it. Scientists are still at work trying to find out all the factors involved in order to be able more efficiently to manage this type of delicious, high protein food.

In any event, the oyster goes on about his, or her (or its) business of producing about 500,000 fertile eggs each year. Of course, very few of these half million eggs will survive to reach usable size, 12 to 18 months in Texas, but with each individual producing this many, the percent that survive can be very small and still leave lots of oysters.

Those people engaged in the business of gathering oysters, or those more energetic types who like to gather and shuck their own, can get a map to guide in their search for clean oysters. Produced by the State Health Department and available at Parks and Wildlife offices, the map shows what waters are condemned as polluted. Oysters from these waters should NEVER be eaten.

Live Oak Third

Graders 'Tour' Alaska

The Live Oak third graders had just finished a study on the most northern state, Alaska. They were given a surprise "tour" by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sbrusch of Ingleside who had moved to these parts in the past year after spending several years in Alaska. From their own personal collection of pictures they "took" the children to see the Eskimo and Indian villages with their picturesque totem poles.

They "visited" the salmon fisheries and canning plants, "saw" giant crabs that weigh over thirty pounds that they catch in the Arctic. Even with the short growing season they saw gardens of flowers of many kinds and colors. Some of the garden produce was very surprising. Cabbage heads that weighed over forty pounds.

The pupils were also shown some of the herds of reindeer and caribou that abound in this region. Caribou meat takes much of the place of beef and is very tasty. They saw the native bears but gave them a wide berth. The stories that they heard concerning the big grizzly made them keep their distance.

The children also saw some of the other products of Alaska. Mr. Sbrusch had a watch case

W.M.S. Meets

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church met Tuesday morning, Feb. 19, in the lovely home of Mrs. Larry Stewart for Bible study. Mrs. Stewart, the president, conducted the meeting.

A call to prayer for the missionaries whose birthday appeared on the calendar of Prayer was given by Mrs. Stewart. Mrs. Rada West led in prayer for these and for some of the local members who were ill.

Mrs. Edith Bradley gave the Bible study, taken from the 5th Chapter, Matthew, which was very interesting.

A letter was read from the Mexican Baptist Academy at Harlingen thanking members for articles of clothing sent them.

Leslies Entertain

On February 15th, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Buchholz and children, Sandy and Wesley, of Houston, arrived to spend the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Leslie. Bill is leaving next week to take a Civil Service job in Bremerton, Washington, where he will work on nuclear submarines. While here they spent one evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wix. Marvin and Marilyn have been friends since they were in grade school. Frank just returned from North Dakota after finishing his hitch in the Air Force and they plan to locate here.

The Buchholz family returned to Houston on Monday morning.

On Monday afternoon Mrs. John D. Leslie (daughter-in-law--Gall) and her friend Mrs. Mary Girfield of Lexington, Kentucky arrived to spend the week. The Leslies spent several days showing them the sights of this area. The weather did not permit them to go out fishing--but they did take back several "Texas goodies" when they returned home on Friday morning. On Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leslie (John's brother) came over to enjoy dinner and visit.

We're Moving Right Along With Our New Building

It may not look it from the outside, but a lot is going on inside our new building. The exterior was completed several weeks ago, but much remains to be done to finish the interior.

All wiring, air conditioning and heating ducts and most of the plumbing have been installed. Almost all the interior plaster walls are in place but they must be finished and painted, papered or paneled. All this is painstaking hand work, and it takes time.

And there is much more to be done, including hanging the suspended acoustical tile ceiling and laying floor tile and carpet. Doors must be hung and built-in cabinets installed. Also, there are many types of specialized banking equipment to be installed, such as tellers stations and customer counters.

It is very much like building a house. The last part of the job seems to go on endlessly. However, the end is in sight and soon we will have a complete and very modern banking plant, one that is convenient and efficient, as well as a credit to our community.

We at First National will be proud of it and we think you will too.

Keep knives sharp to carve meat or poultry into thin, even slices, get all meat off bones, and prevent shreds of meat that go to waste. Thin slices seem more tender, look like more when spread out on the plate.

Stretch meat, fish or poultry an extra serving or two by serving them creamed in casseroles or topped with a milk and / or cheese sauce. For example, a pound of ground beef that normally makes 4 servings can make 6 as meat loaf, if sliced thin and topped with 1/2 cup of cheese sauce.

The Lieutenant Governor's Report

By BILL HOBBY

AUSTIN -- It is readily apparent, in view of increasing demands on our diminishing oil supplies, that new sources of energy must be discovered and developed.

One such new source is geothermal energy--highly pressurized pockets of hot water capable of generating electricity.

We have underneath the Coastal Zone in Texas and Louisiana what may be very substantial sources of geothermal power.

The geological process from which these energy sources developed took millions of years. As the Rio Grande and Mississippi Rivers flowed into the Gulf of Mexico, they deposited tons of sediments in a valley-like formation.

Frequently, this occurred so fast that water was trapped. As sedimentation continued, the pressure exerted on these water pockets increased, resulting in a rise in the water temperature.

In many areas it has been determined that the water temperature exceeds 350 degrees. The sedimentation serves as a vast thermal blanket, maintaining an insulation of the water pockets and holding the pressure in.

Research indicated that water this hot is sufficient to generate large amounts of electricity. In addition, scientists have found large quantities of methane in some of these pockets.

Obviously, a tremendous investment will be required to determine whether or not these geothermal resources can be developed economically enough.

To date, only a few areas of Southern California are using geothermal energy. Geologists tell me the potential of the geothermal power underlying Texas and Louisiana is much more promising than it is in California.

We should begin now the research necessary to determine the technology necessary to harness this energy source.

Of course, before development is begun, we must insure that these initial predictions of vast geothermal reserves are accurate.

In addition, scientists must experiment with various applications of this energy source to our growing needs.

At best, it will be many years before development of geothermal sources can have any appreciable effect on energy consumption.

But long-range planning such as this is vital if we are to protect ourselves in the future against an energy crisis such as we are experiencing now.

Juan Benavidez Receives Honor

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Benavidez received the following letter from the Air Force regarding an honor bestowed on their son, Airman First Class Juan G. Benavidez, who is home on leave:

"It is indeed my pleasure to inform you that your son, Airman First Class Juan G. Benavidez has achieved an academic standing in his class worthy of his name being placed on our Honor Roll. He attained Honor Roll status for his work in a phase of the Space Communications Systems Equipment Operator/Specialist Course conducted by the Radio Relay Branch. His accomplishment is noteworthy in that less than ten percent of our students are placed on the Honor Roll, and I thought you would be pleased to learn of his academic achievement.

Double Four Club Met on Wednesday

Mrs. J. V. Ferguson was hostess to the Double Four Bridge Club at her home last Wednesday. Members playing were Mrs. A. L. Bachman, Mrs. Phyllis McBride, Mrs. Ellen Davidson, Mrs. W. M. Denny, Mrs. Eva Lutz, Mrs. Art Cox and one guest Mrs. Harold D. Fields. Mrs. Cox won high score and the hostess was second high.

"While attending this course, the academic progression and scholastic accomplishment demonstrated by your son has been commendable. In addition, he has displayed the initiative and leadership qualities that are so vital to the modern Air Force. I am pleased to have an individual of his caliber as a member of the Air Force Team."

High School Tennis Results

Rockport - Fulton fell one victory short of winning both first and second place at Refugio's Freshman-Sophomore Tennis Tournament. Todd Caspary lost a hard fought 3 set decision to Beeville's number one single player in the semifinals. The Pirates got revenge when Chris Wideman defeated the Beeville player 6-4, 6-4 to capture the singles championship.

Rockport's doubles team of Jeff Crosby and Chris Oliver lost to Gregory-Portland 3-6, 3-6 in the second round.

There were 11 schools represented at the tournament. Coach Hatfield felt all Rockport-Fulton players made a strong showing for so early in the year. This was Chris Wideman's second championship as he won District 15 AAA Junior Division singles last year.

Mobile Inn News

The Mobile Inn Creative Arts Club met at the hall, Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 19th with 24 present.

A sociable and very busy afternoon was enjoyed by all. Several activities were in session, making of burlap flowers, instructed by Hazel Castor, and the making of Indian jewelry of safety pins and beads instructed by Lois Wunderwall.

Delicious refreshments were served by hostesses Helen Webster and Sylvia Mabus, assisted by Ada Horgan.

SUBSIDIES IMPOUNDED

The White House has impounded nearly half of the $175 million voted by Congress for 1974 farm conservation subsidies. The $90 million actually revives the subsidy program, cancelled last December.

THE HOME TEAM

"Before I had my own ball I was rotten. Now, at least I'm staying in my own alley!"

Brownie Troop 431

Brownie Troop 431 presented a Thinking Day program for their parents on February 22. February 22 is the day set aside for the purpose of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts around the world to have thoughts of their sister scouts in other lands.

February 22 was picked because it is the birthday of Lord Baden-Powell, the founder of Boy Scouting and his wife, Lady Baden-Powell, the World Chief Guide.

Each girl was given a paper doll and a dress representing the uniform of scouts around the world. The girls showed their paper doll to the parents and told what country their doll came from and what she was called and a picture of her Brownie Pin.

The Girl Guides and Girl Scouts all have the same World Association Pin and at this meeting the girls were presented their World Association Pin.

The Brownie Troop dues for this meeting will be turned over to the Juliet Low World Friendship Fund for the purpose of helping other Scouts around the world.

Refreshments were served to the parents by the girls.

ON PROPANE GAS

The Federal Energy Office has ordered propane gas suppliers to reduce prices "promptly and sharply" for the gas that heats many low-income rural homes.

If you haven't remarried and your ex-husband had worked long enough under social security, you and the children can get monthly social security checks on his wage record. The children can get payments even if you've remarried. Q. I'm a 19-year-old student getting social security benefits. Since I'm not sure whether I'll stay in school after this year, how should I complete the student reporting card I get in the mail? A. Indicate on the report that you will not attend school next year. This will prevent any possible overpayment to you. If you decide to return to school, get in touch with any social security office as soon as you know you will start attending full time again. Q. I will graduate from high school this June and I won't be going back to school in the fall. My 18th birthday is in August. Will my monthly social security checks stop when I graduate in June? A. No. You will get your last social security check on August 3 for the month of July. You do not have to be a full-time student to receive checks if you are under 18. However, for your checks to continue after 18, you would have to be enrolled as a full-time student. Q. I get monthly retirement benefits from social security, and my wife also draws benefits on my work record. My wife is planning to start working at a part-time job. Will her earnings affect my monthly benefits? A. No. If she earns enough, your wife may have part or all of her own monthly cash benefits withheld, but this will not affect your retirement payments. Questions and Answers

Q. My daughter is now 29, and she's been totally disabled from a diving accident since she was 20. As soon as she became disabled, I asked about monthly social security benefits for her based on my work record since I'm getting social security retirement checks. I was told she couldn't get payments because her disability hadn't started before 18. Has this recently been changed?

A. Yes. People who became severely disabled before 22 and remain so can get monthly checks if a parent is eligible for benefits or has died after having worked long enough under social security.

You should contact any social security office to apply for benefits for your daughter.

Library News

"The Empresario Don Martin De Leon", by A.B.J. Hammett was presented to the Aransas County Public Library recently through the generosity of the First National Bank of Rockport. The book is an informative, historical account of the De Leon family who braved the wilds of Texas and built a new colony and a new city, "Victoria". The story tells of progress and success in their new colony, the sad and joyous times, and last but not least, the terrible injustice that was inflicted on the family at the end of the war.

The library is pleased to add "The Empresario Don Martin De Leon", to the Texas collection.

The library acknowledges donations from the following: Mrs. Robert J. Hicklin, L. J. Naper, Mrs. George Harris, Col. von Pein, Mr. Leland Fisher and Mrs. F. S. Dobkins.

DON'T STORE GAS TOO LONG

Some people may try to beat the energy shortage by storing large amounts of gasoline. But this may create other problems, says Dan Pawlik, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Gasoline stored on a farm or around a house becomes an expensive convenience if the storage period is longer than six months, points out Pawlik.

First, the fuel contains a blend of several parts, one of which is extremely volatile and provides engines with easy starting. It evaporates rapidly. When the storage tank is exposed to the sun or high temperatures, most of this ingredient is lost in about 60 days.

Secondly, gas becomes gummy-similar to shellac--after it "ages". This gum may stop up the carburetor and cause engine deposits. It also may cause damage when mixed in small amounts with fresh gasoline.

Furthermore, seasonal changes in grades of gasoline spell trouble if fuel blended for one season is carried over in storage tanks until another season.

For example, winter-grade fuel should not be used during late spring. This gas may cause the engine to skip because of vapor lock. The condition occurs when gasoline boils in the fuel lines, fuel pump or carburetor.

Vapor lock may even cause an engine to cut off. When this happens, the engine must be allowed to cool. Water may

Bread Price Rise Questionable

COLLEGE STATION - A dollar for a loaf of bread was the prediction a few weeks ago, but closer study proves this statement somewhat unbelievable.

The inconsistency in the price climb tale is pointed out by Roland Smith, grain marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"About 10 cents worth of wheat--1.2 pounds--is baked into the average one-and-a-half pound loaf," says Smith. "For that 47-cent loaf to reach a dollar, the cost of a bushel of wheat would have to go to about $30, almost six times the current price to the farmer."

Bakers, of course, have suffered a reduction in profits due to price controls and increased competition with the milling industry, notes Smith. Many are caught in a price squeeze partly because they failed to buy wheat during the months that the price rose from $2.30 to $5 a bushel.

According to Smith, many bakers have blamed the millers for the failure to buy, rather than take the blame. The millers, in reply, have claimed they can't purchase wheat far in advance because bakers are unwilling to book flour in advance.

The bakers could be assisted by the government trying to maintain a 200 million bushel reserve, notes Smith. They have asked for export controls to keep the reserve intact and have recently convinced President Nixon to remove import quotas on wheat. The President has suspended for five months the annual quota limiting imports to 800,000 bushels of wheat and milled wheat products.

What about controls on wheat exports?

"Such controls would be an economic mistake because they would ruin the U.S. reputation as a dependable world source for wheat and other agricultural products," believes the specialist. "Texas farmers could be especially affected, since 80 per cent of the state's crop goes into export channels."

The forthcoming Texas crop will be about 78 million bushels, 20 million less than last year's due to sparse rainfall. However, the national harvest will adequately take up the Texas slack, since the U.S. crop is expected to be up 17 per cent over last year, Smith points out.

be poured on the fuel lines or fuel pump to speed the cooling process.

Summer grade fuel may cause hard starting during cold weather, adds Pawlik.

Happy Homemaking

Line lunch boxes with pretty adhesive-backed washable paper to get rid of the rusty, unappetizing look.

One way of removing the odor from jars and bottles is to fill them with a solution of water and dry mustard and let stand for several hours.

Housewives who use rubber gloves and have a hard time getting them off, can hold their hands under cold water for a few seconds and the gloves will slip off without any trouble.

To keep paste from drying out, add a dampened cotton cloth inside the jar. Rinse the cloth out periodically to prevent its turning sour.

PUBLIC NOTICES
BECAUSE THE PEOPLE MUST KNOW

(Editor's Note: Public Notice advertising plays a unique role both in American history and in the process by which this country's democracy is preserved. Its one promise is that people must be informed if they are to govern themselves, competently. Public Notice advertising first came into being with the Congress of 1792. That body, recognizing its responsibility to the people, required the Postmaster General to advertise for bids for the construction of new post offices. From that inauspicious beginning to the complex publication requirements in federal, state and local laws today, government officials have come more and more to understand their obligations to inform the public through Public Notice advertising. Newspapers over the years have been the vehicle by which these obligations have been fulfilled. They will continue to be as long as the public demands that it be informed frequently and by the best means possible.)

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. — Home insurance rates are going up for most Texans.

New rates to be effective June 1 or July 1 will take into consideration expected rising costs of replacing and repairing damaged buildings.

The rates were adjusted a year ago (Jan. 1, 1973), with reductions in most lines.

Indications are fire coverage for homes will go up this year, but commercial building protection will cost less.

Multi-purpose homeowners policies will increase in price for Seacoast and North-Northwest territories. Although the loss record of the last decade indicates a 5.5 per cent reduction for the Central Inland area, G. L. Jones, State Insurance Board chief property actuary, said inflation may negate the saving.

All three territories are due for an increase on extended coverage, including windstorm and vandalism coverage.

State Board statistics hold promise of a saving on commercial building coverage for the Central Inland territory.

Following past board practices of figuring inflation on price increases over the last six years, an industry representative said the statewide boost for all lines of building insurance would be more than 20 per cent.

However, Texas Insurance Advisory Association suggested a revised inflation factor projected to save $43.7 million for Texas property owners this year below the board estimates.

CONVENTION PROGRESSES — Debate grew increasingly tedious as the first round of Constitutional Convention floor debate opened — on the education article of the proposed new state constitution.

Convention President Price Daniel Jr. maintained delegates were sticking with their 90-day completion schedule, however, as they neared completion of action on the article in three half-day working periods.

The education article as approved by the delegates tentatively insures "equal educational opportunities" for all, but permits special local district program enrichment. It also retains for The University of Texas and Texas A&M income from the $680 million Permanent University Fund.

Permanent and Available school funds are left intact, and the legislature is charged with providing for "first-class" higher education.

LAW "DISCOVERED" — The Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles only last November discovered a law requiring it to recommend to the governor whether prisoners should have full citizenship rights restored on completion of sentence.

"Until our present board membership was made aware of this provision recently, it has been ignored," said Charles G. Shandera, a member of the Board, in a letter to Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston. Schwartz is chairman of the Constitutional Convention Rights and Suffrage Committee.

Shandera said he does not think the oversight has worked any great hardship on ex-convicts deprived of civil rights, because they can make requests for full pardon.

Rights include voting, running for public office, jury service, entry into licensed professions and eligibility for bonding.

ALLOWABLE AT 100 PER CENT AGAIN — The Railroad Commission set the statewide oil allowable at 100 per cent for March — the 24th straight month of such production.

Commissioner Ben Ramsey said crude oil stocks, estimated at 85.8 million barrels, are 3.4 million less than the 1973 level. He said crude stocks for the nation are 24 million barrels below preferred levels and gasoline 50 million barrels below.

Exceptions to the 100 per cent allowable are Kelly-Snyder and East Texas Fields (86 per cent) and a dozen others set at 80 per cent.

COURTS SPEAK — The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned a marijuana conviction by a Greenville jury following a search without warrant.

The Court also reversed another marijuana conviction in Dallas on similar grounds. It ordered a new trial for a Wichita County man on incest charges after finding his 13 year-old daughter "participated willingly."

A Rockwall County man won a second reversal on robbery-by-assault sentence of 40 years.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals ordered Hays County commissioners to pay $22,800 as the county's share of adult probation costs in a district shared with Caldwell and Comal counties.

AG OPINIONS — A strong anti-discrimination provision in a new state constitution may prevent minority recruitment and bilingual educational programs, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

Hill also concluded in other recent opinions:

- Children may be placed for adoption by a natural parent, by a relative with other relatives, or by a licensed agency.
- Minors over 14, and under 17 can be prosecuted for driving while intoxicated, although the law is not constitutionally enforceable against those 17 to 18.
- The open records act and its exceptions have no bearing on scope of testimony of a witness taken in a civil proceeding pursuant to a notice and subpoena issued under rules of civil procedure.
- Whether or not the property of a fraternal lodge is exempt from taxation depends on a determination of whether the lodge is a purely public charity and its property is used for purely public charitable purposes.
- If courts and not juries grant probation in felony cases, problem drinkers-drivers involved may be required to pay for the expense of treatment. Ability to pay expenses of treatment may not be a grounds for denying probation and failure to pay the expense of treatment because of financial inability may not be a ground for revocation of probation.
- A Texas Youth Council member is entitled to reimbursement for reasonable expenses incurred in meetings in city where he resides.

APPOINTMENTS — Governor Briscoe appointed Dr. Robert Gordon of Dallas and reappointed Dr. John I. Wheeler Jr. of Houston to the State Board of Examiners of Psychologists.

Briscoe named to Red

Reduction In Maximum G.I. Home Loan Interest Rate

A one-quarter percent reduction in the maximum G. I. home loan interest rate became effective January 22, according to A. A. Hunter, VA Regional Office Director.

In ordering a drop from 8.5 to 8.25 percent on Veterans Administration loans, Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson noted that the new lower rate has been established for FHA loans by the Secretary for Housing and Urban Development.

A law enacted last July authorizes the VA Administrator to set interest rates on G. I. loans in line with market conditions following consultation with the HUD Secretary.

The new maximum rate was set after a series of market indicators had demonstrated the old 8.5 percent figure, in effect since August 25, 1973, was very near the par for commercial home loans.

The reduction effective January 22 is the first decline in interest rates since February 18, 1971. Interest rates were reduced three times between December 2, 1970, and February 18, 1971. Rate increases marked the program from its founding in June 1944 until December 1970.

G. I. loan applications last month were well below the normal seasonal dip for that period. During the first half of F. Y. 1974, 155,700 loan applications were received—22 percent below the total for the first half of F. Y. 1973. Appraisal requests also were down 22 percent.

Noting that the lowered interest rate can save as much

TELL YOU WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

Our new meat identification program takes the guesswork out of selecting meat and how to prepare it... helps you be a "smarter" meat shopper and a better cook. Our improved meat label tells you at a glance the type of meat (Beef, Pork, Lamb or Veal), where it comes from, and the specific portion or common retail name.
