Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Oct. 11.—The Iowa Park Free fair will open here Wednesday morning with a wealth of farm, livestock and women's club exhibits which are believed will make the most successful of the county's four annual expositions. Wednesday will be "Wichita Falls day."

Not only is the fair expected to be the greatest from the standpoint of the quality of exhibits, but indications on the eve of the opening also point to an attendance unsurpassed in previous years.

Open With Parade

A parade composed of fair officials, the Iowa Park Triangle band, a negro minstrel band, pipe organ, decorated cars, floats, and citizens will form on Cash street at the Park hotel at 9:30 o'clock, and pass through the business district to the fair grounds, where Troy Hagar, president of the fair committee, and president of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce, will welcome fair visitors and make official announcements.

The 4-H club exhibits, directed by Miss Ethel Luise Webb, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. C. C. Burrows, were judged in record time Tuesday. Misses Doris Leggett, home demonstration agent of Wilbarger county, and Genevieve Derryberry, home demonstration agent from Clay county, acted as judges, making their awards very interesting by explaining the points of excellence, and reasons for their selections. This department was formerly housed in the woman's building, but has nine clubs represented and was assigned a building for its use. Clubs represented were Pleasant Valley, Valley View, Bowie, City View, Friberg, Barwise, Sunshine Hill, and County Line.

Women's Department

Judging in the women's department will start Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. In this building are booths for pot plants and cut flowers, domestic art, decorative arts, aged ladies' work, antiques, juvenile work, and domestic science exhibits, including breads, cakes, candies, canned fruits and vegetables. This building is beautifully decorated and always attracts interested groups of visitors, both men and women. The antique department, under the supervision of Mrs. Mamie Dale, had on display Tuesday many entries, which included some very beautiful hand woven coverlets.

Judging in the dairy division will start Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Judge J. W. Ridgeway of Fort Worth, nationally approved

Texan Asks R. F. C. Heads To Make Farm Loans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (UP)—Representative Marvin Jones, Amarillo, chairman of the house agriculture committee, confegred today with Reconstruction Finance corporation officials, asking them to begin making production loans to farmers as the law authorizes.

Representative Jones pointed out winter wheat farmers in the Southwest are ready to plant their fields and that many sorely need the aid the law contemplated they should have. Agitation has been made for several months in the Texas Panhandle-South Plains section for federal aid to wheat farmers.

TERRELL, Texas, Oct. 11. (AP)—Supt. George F. Powell of the state hospital here, today received a telegram from T. C. Tankersley of Memphis, Tenn., stating he would come here to return his sister, Mrs. Aladie Downing, to her home in Memphis.

The woman was found in Dallas in July and was committed to the hospital here in September. For a time it was believed she might be Mrs. Blythe Long, missing Memphis society matron, but efforts to identify her as such failed.

I. C. C. ORDERS RATE INCREASE

Texas and Other States To Feel Ruling

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (AP)—Nine state railroad commissions which refused to increase freight rates within their states when interstate rates were raised last January, today were told by the Interstate Commerce commission to grant the increases by Nov. 1.

The commission announced that if the action is not taken, it will issue an order under section 13 of the interstate commerce act authorizing the carriers to apply surcharges to freight bills on shipments within the states. Shippers who send freight across state lines have been paying such surcharges since Jan. 4.

Affects Texas Rates

Today's decision affects rates in Arkansas, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Montana, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas and Utah. Complaints against Arizona were dismissed, as the railroads withdrew them. Similar complaints against Wisconsin, Minnesota and West Virginia are pending.

The commissions for Kentucky and Montana refused to grant any of the surcharge increases. The Texas tribunal permitted the increases on all except less than carload traffic and casing head gasoline. The other states excepted certain individual items.

The surcharges were authorized last December and put into effect by the interstate carriers Jan. 4 in an effort to raise money to help weak railroads pay interest on their debts and other fixed charges.

Move to Prevent Workers From Voting Under Probe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (AP)—The civil service commission today called upon John F. Costello, Democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia, to furnish any information he had of "intimidation and petty tyranny" to prevent government employes from voting.

In a statement on Saturday, Costello said "word is trickling down to prospective voters that they had better forego their voting privileges this year." He cited two cases, in one of which he said a woman was refused leave to go home to vote.

JOHN N. GARNER DENIES HE HAS BEEN MUZZLED

Speaker Snaps No One 'Can Keep Me From Talking' To Reporters

CONFERS WITH F. D.

Texan Says There Are No Reasons Why He Hasn't Campaigned Much

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 11. (UP)—Speaker John Nance Garner of Texas, Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, arriving in Albany tonight for a conference with Franklin D. Roosevelt, denied he had been "muzzled" by the national committee.

The speaker, who drove directly to the executive mansion after alighting from a train, was questioned regarding the "muzzling" by reporters.

"Did you ever hear of a man that could keep me from talking if I wanted to?" the speaker snapped.

Laughs Heartily

"Well, you know," a reporter ventured, "it has been customary for the vice presidential candidate to do most of the campaigning."

"Yeh, that is the reason most of them have been defeated lately," Garner said. He followed his remarks with a hearty laugh.

"Then, is there any reason why you haven't campaigned to a great extent?" he was asked.

"No," the speaker replied, "only my own personal ones."

Robert Jackson, secretary of the Democratic national committee, interrupted to declare that the body had prevailed upon Garner to make several speeches anywhere he chooses.

Jackson indicated that the speaker felt "the Democratic ticket's election was in the bag and that a strenuous campaign by him was unnecessary."

Expect Addresses

"We firmly expect the speaker to make a couple of addresses anyway," Jackson said.

Garner went into conference immediately with the governor. They discussed Roosevelt's ensuing campaign tour into the South and border states. The speaker's part in the campaign also was discussed.

Garner, who told the governor "that sentiment for the Democratic ticket is mounting throughout the country," reiterated a statement made in New York City earlier in the day that "there is a strong possibility there will be some form of modification of the Volstead act to bring beer back by March 4."

He Will Talk

The fiery Texan, who clashed with President Hoover during the past session of congress over legislation, planned to return to New York City either late tonight or early tomorrow.

Pressed further regarding reports that the committee had sought to keep him from "campaigning too much," Garner replied:

"Any one that knows me knows that you cannot keep me from talking if I have something to say and wish to say it. Anyway, I'd better talk to the governor now."

It was considered likely Garner and Roosevelt would decide where the speaker would mount speakers platforms in interest of the ticket.

Farley Commends Texas On Democratic Campaign

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, today sent the following telegram to Roy Miller, chairman of the national Democratic campaign in Texas:

"Splendid work of you and your organization has placed Texas in the foremost rank of states, giving full cooperation in handling the campaign and raising funds for the national campaign. Texas should be proud of this record made by the native state of the Democratic nominee for vice president.

"I expect all groups and individuals interested in the election of the Democratic ticket to work in complete harmony with and as directed by you and your organization at state headquarters, which is the only way Texas can maintain its present leading position."

American Bar Blames Crime Conditions In U. S. To Prohibition

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (US)—Entire responsibility for America's underworld menace and widely organized gang world today was placed on the sagging shoulders of national prohibition in a stinging report of the mercenary crime sub-section of the American Bar association.

The report, drafted after a year of exhaustive study of gang conditions and operations in Chicago and New York, will be presented upon the floor of the bar association's sessions tomorrow. Its passage, without important opposition, generally was conceded.

Little Risk for Gangster

Denying specifically that gangdom is an aftermath of the world war, the report declared gangs have existed since the beginning of civilization wherever "unwise laws have afforded an opportunity for great wealth with comparatively little risk." It added:

"Prohibition has brought about a condition of customs and law which made it easy for the gangster to obtain a large personal organization at a small risk, and also brought about a demand for the services of outlaws such as we never had in this or any other country prior to prohibition.

"Few people, if any, considered that violation of prohibition laws involved moral turpitude. The 18th amendment closed the doors of breweries, distilleries and and wineries, but it did not in any manner lessen the demand for the products thereof."

Regarding the contamination of law enforcement structure by the ever increasing toxin of underworld influence, the report says:

Seek Protection

"While these gangsters are outlaws they everywhere seek to secure protection by law enforcing officers from what they consider unfair competition, thefts, and from assault and murder at the hands of competitors. Most enforcing officials at times have traded protection for political influence and at times have shared in the profits of illicit occupations.

"Because of their large profits they are often even able to elect to judicial office their own attorneys and when charged with crime, waive the jury trial and place their case before their own judge who acts as both judge and jury.

"In a city where gangsters are unable to find a powerful law enforcing official who will accept bribes for fixing criminal cases, they are afraid to operate. There appear, however, to be few such cities in the United States."

Hoover to Speak

President Hoover heads the list of speakers who will address the 1,500 delegates from all over the country. They will hear him tomorrow night and will see him again Thursday morning when the cornerstone of the new $10,000,000 supreme court building is laid.

Proposals calling for modification of the federal antitrust laws, strengthening criminal law enforcement, and placing holding companies under government regulation were among the outstanding issues before the four-day meeting.

Two candidates to succeed Guy A. Thompson of St. Louis as president of the association have entered their names. They are Claudis Pogue of Cincinnati and Clarence E. Martin of Martinsburg, W. Va.

The Marquis of Reading, former lord chief justice in England, and war-time ambassador to the United States, arrived today to address the meeting Friday. Payl Reynaud, French statesman and Newton Wesley Rowell of Canadian bar are the other national speakers.

HOOVER SAVED THE COUNTRY, CAL DECLARES

Former President Warns Of 'Danger' Possible In Demo Victory

DEFENDS TARIFF LAW

25,000 Republicans Cheer Leader's First Speech In Four Years

By SEYMOUR BERKSON

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Oct. 11. (US)—Former President Calvin Coolidge declared tonight at one of the biggest political rallies in New York's history that economic recovery is beginning and that President Hoover's record in the crisis merits his re-election.

More than 25,000 men and women stormed a gaily bedecked Madison Square garden to hear Coolidge praise his presidential successor in an address that launched the Republicans' final drive to win the East from Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Attacks Demo Platform

His voice carried over a nationwide radio hookup in the first political speech he has made since he left the White House nearly four years ago, Coolidge began with an attack on the legislative record and economic platform of the Democratic party.

He ended with a eulogy of the accomplishments of the Republican party and President Hoover for maintaining the gold standard throughout the recent crisis and for preventing what he said may have been worse distress in America.

Speaking slowly with his characteristics Yankee accent, Coolidge declared that through Hoover's emergency measures the decline in trade was halted in June and he added:

"Confidence began to return until at the present time the country knows that its worst troubles are probably past and economic recovery is beginning."

Ignores Prohibition

The former president ignored the prohibition issue completely, making no mention whatever of the planks adopted by either party.

In line with the Republican party's recently inaugurated "campaign of fear," Coolidge sounded a note of alarm about changing presidents in almost the same breath that he sounded his note of optimism about the business outlook.

He said:

"A national election to determine the destinies of more than 120,000,-

Sterling Vetoes Last Measures

AUSTIN, Oct. 11. (AP)—Gov. R. S. Sterling tonight vetoed the last two bills remaining on his desk from the special session of the Texas legislature which adjourned several weeks ago.

One of the bills disapproved would have empowered the state railroad commission to make a survey for evaluating gas properties in towns of less than 5,000 population for rate-making purposes. The bill was sponsored by Senator J. J. Loy of Sherman. Gas utilities would have been taxed on their gross income to defray expenses of the inventories.

GREECE KEEPS EYE ON INSULL

Magnate Released Pending Hearing Today

(Copyr., 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.)

ATHENS, Oct. 11.—Samuel Insull was released from formal arrest late today by Athens police and tonight was watched by two government detectives guarding Insull's quarters in the Hotel Petit Palais.

Nicholas Ladas, former minister of communications engaged by Insull to fight extradition proceedings requested by the Washington state department, declared that a court hearing tomorrow should result in Insull's unconditional release unless a warrant for his formal re-arrest is issued.

Such a warrant could be based on the formal request by Washington for Insull's arrest and deportation as an undesirable alien. Deportation to Italy is preferable, since Italy has an operating extradition treaty with the United States.

The federal government, through the ministry of interior, took the case out of the hands of local police and granted the American legation's request to keep Insull under surveillance until further instructions are received from Washington.

STATE'S ATTORNEY DEFERS JOURNEY

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (US)—State's Attorney John A. Swanson, after planning a personal trip to Washington with two assistants for the purpose of expediting the return of Samuel Insull from Greece to Chicago, changed his plan tonight after a long distance telephone conversation with the state department.

"The result of my telephone conference," Swanson said, "obviates the immediate necessity of the journey I had planned to make. We may go later, however."

Told yesterday that Samuel Insull had been quoted as saying he would return to the United States after the election, Swanson said:

"I don't see why an election should bother him unless he feels that another state's attorney would not be quite as willing to prosecute him as I am."

Convict Admits 'Framing' 'Sweatbox' Suicide Story

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 11. (US)—A convict witness called for the defense in the trial of two former prison guards for the "sweatbox" murder of Arthur Maillefert, dealt a sturdy blow to the defense today when he testified that he had been asked to "frame" a suicide version of the New Jersey boy's death.

The unexpected statement of James Birmingham, convict, corroborated the testimony yesterday of Bob Blake, head trusty at the Sunbeam prison camp, that George W. Courson, co-defendant with Solomon Higginbotham in the murder trial, asked him to "get five or six men" to say young Maillefert committed suicide.

WICHITA AREA CRUDE POSTED AT $1.12 TOP

Sinlair, Barnsdall and Phillips Join Sun in Higher Schedules

OTHERS TO FOLLOW

D. J. Moran, Conoco Chief, Takes Plane to East For Conference

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 11. (AP)—The rise in crude oil prices scheduled for East Texas and the Gulf coast last night spread over the mid-continent area today when three other companies announced they would meet the increase throughout their purchasing territories.

As a result, at least four new price schedules will go into effect Saturday, Oct. 15, with a top price of $1.12 per barrel paid for East Texas crude and oil of 40 gravity from various areas of North Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Phillips Joins

The companies announcing advances today were the Sinclair-Prairie Oil Marketing company, Barnsdall Refineries, Inc., and Phil-Tex Pipe Line company, the latter a subsidiary of Phillips Petroleum company of Bartlesville, Okla.

Sun Oil company was the first to announce an increase, posting a 12-cent advance for East Texas, to $1.10 per barrel, and a 10-cent advance to a similar top for the Gulf coast.

$1.12 Top Price Here

Sinclair-Prairie, a Consolidated Oil corporation unit, followed the Sun advance as it applies to the two Texas areas, and announced a 12-cent advance, to $1.12 top, for crude purchased in North (Wichita Falls) Texas, North Central Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. Barnsdall and Phil-Tex met the Sinclair-Prairie increase, and the latter announced a new schedule for Panhandle Texas oil, making Gray county crude worth 11 cents more per barrel, and that from Carson, Moore and Hutchinson counties worth nine cents more.

Under the Sinclair-Prairie schedule, Oklahoma crude will range in price from 88 cents for oil of 29 gravity, to the top of $1.12 for best grades produced. Gray county crude will be worth from 87 to 90 cents a barrel and that from the other three Panhandle producing areas worth from 75 to 87 cents a barrel.

Others Bide Time

Other companies in the area said today they were not ready to make any announcement regarding prices. Dan J. Moran, president of Continental Oil company, Ponca City, said last night he would communicate with New York offices this morning, and left at noon by airplane for New York. Continental was the leader in the last two price increases.

Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company, Standard of Indiana unit, and Carter Oil company, New Jersey Standard subsidiary, commonly reported recently to have contemplated cutting the crude price, withheld comment.

W. S. Farish of Houston, president of Humble Oil and Refining company, another New Jersey Standard unit, was a leader in the movement seeking further curtailed output of crude as a market stabilizer.

The announcement of increases in the price structure followed by only a few hours' word from Austin that the Texas Railroad commission had cut the state's allowable to 747,896 barrels a day, more than 100,000 barrels daily, and the issuance of a statement by the Oklahoma Corporation commission saying this state's permissible flow will be held back 17,000 barrels to 375,790 barrels daily.

DECISION UPHOLDS OKLAHOMA PRORATION

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 11. (AP)—Authority of the corporation commission to make and enforce oil proration orders and validity of the state conservation laws were upheld by the state supreme court today.

Writs of prohibition were denied Frank Russell of the Russell Petroleum company in two cases in which he sought to prevent the commission from hearing charges of alleged overproduction in the Oklahoma City field and from closing his wells.

Simultaneously the court denied the motion of proration attorneys

'Rattlesnake Pete', Noted Expert On Reptile Bites, Dies Of Heart Attack

ROCHESTER, N. Y. Oct. 11. (AP)—Peter Gruber, whose snake lore and successful treatment of poisonous reptile bites and medical use of their venom made him internationally famous as "Rattlesnake Pete," died at his home here today.

The 78-year-old ex-saloonkeeper and museum proprietor, whose hands and arms were scarred with the marks of more than 500 snake bites, survived 23 attacks, to die in his bed of heart disease induced by rheumatism which had kept him confined for six months.

Several persons owed their lives to "Rattlesnake Pete's" knowledge of snake bite treatment. Tributes to his skill hung from his watch chain in the form of a lion's claw mounted in gold, inscribed "from the animal king to the snake king."

The charm was a gift from Frank Bostock of Bostock's animal show after Gruber had saved the life of Clyde Powers of New York, then an employe of the show and recently a stage manager for Claude Dillingham.

Powers was bitten by a rattlesnake when the show was playing at Coney Island 28 years ago. Gruber was sent for two days later when his death appeared imminent. For five days he administered his

COOLIDGE BACK AS CAMPAIGNER

Former President Praises Hoover Record

000 people for the next four years cannot be considered as anything less than a serious undertaking."

Introduced by Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of the board of Radio Corporation of America, Coolidge received a rousing ovation of cheers when he stepped to the rostrum.

Building Filled

Every one of the 21,000 seats in the hall was filled and at least an equal number of persons formed a human cordon around the building outside where Coolidge's address was broadcast through special amplifiers. Admission to the hall itself was restricted to holders of tickets issued by the Republican national and state committees.

Former President Coolidge, looking considerably younger than his 60 years, spoke with considerable vigor as he plunged into an oratorical attack on the Democratic party's national platform amid frequent cheering from the Republican cohorts surrounding him.

He declared that the recent economic crisis was world wide, that America fared much better than European nations, and added:

"No government has yet been devised that could make the people prosperous all the time. But a bad government will constantly keep the people in distress."

Coolidge openly recognized the charge that the Republican party is more interested in the promoting the welfare of big business instead of the welfare of the common run of people.

Denies Charge

Recalling the administration of Abraham Lincoln, he emphatically denied the charge and declared:

"The Republican party believes in encouraging business in order that the benefits from such business may minister to the welfare of the ordinary run of people.

"We have advocated strengthening the position of the employer in order that he might pay better wages to his employes, enlarge the consumptive capacity of the people and increase the market for the farm and factory."

Coolidge then assailed the proposed reciprocity rule in tariff relations which the Democratic party favors as a stimulus to American business.

He declared such a rule to be "not practical" and said a competitive tariff would place American industry and labor in competition with foreign industry and labor when "our producers are not suffering from any lack of competition."

Refers to Smith

The fformer president made an indirect reference to former Gov. Al Smith when he said that although the latter urged his party since 1928 to adopt a constructive legislative policy, none was presented at the last session of congress.

Coolidge charged the Democratic members of congress with failing to give President Hoover support in revenue legislation but acknowledged that "many times he had the assistance and support of individual Democrats."

He assailed Governor Roosevelt for not coming out against the soldiers' bonus which Coolidge said would have increased the national debt by $2,300,000,000.

Coolidge classed loans with doles and declared them to be no solution of the economic problem. Permanent relief, he said, must come through permanent employment.

He said that the first object in the recovery of business should be restoration of credit and declared that President Hoover had constantly advocated such a policy.

Praises R. F. C. Work

Coolidge said that the Reconstruction Finance corporation, sponsored by Hoover, "has already benefited indirectly more than 30,000,000 people."

Then the former president reviewed Hoover's career from his boyhood days as an Iowa Blacksmith's son until the present and concluded:

"If initiating proposals and securing their adoption constitutes leadership, President Hoover is a leader. If saving the country from one impending disaster after another provides any basis for gratitude, President Hoover is entitled to gratitude.

"I present my opinion of him to my fellow countrymen for such consideration as they may believe it merits. . . . I am convinced that public welfare requires that he should be re-elected."

The conclusion of Coolidge's speech brought a thunder of cheers from the audience.

Although a large number of persons, having heard Coolidge, made for the nearest exits, there were several other speeches by the Republican state candidates.

In fact after Coolidge had completed his address on the national campaign the meeting was turned into a state rally.

Donovan Speaks

Among those who spoke were:

Col. William J. Donovan, Republican nominee for governor; F. Trubee Davison, Republican nominee for lieutenant-governor; U. S. Attorney George Z. Medalie, the party's candidate for U. S. senator; and several others.

Madison Square garden was all dressed up for the occasion in a symphony of red white and blue, studded with campaign portraits of President Hoover and Vice President Curtis, his running mate.

But the mass meeting, arranged jointly by the Republican national and state committees, was assembled with two Democratic shadows cast in front of the political spotlight that shone on tonight's event.

One was the assurance expressed by Democratic leaders today that former Gov. Al Smith will begin a series of campaign speeches this week for the Democratic ticket.

The other was the arrival in New York this morning of Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee, with a prediction that the country will probably have real beer by next March.

Enthusiastic Republican leaders declared confidently tonight that the Coolidge might "turn the tide" to Hoover.

But Democratic chieftains viewed the event philosophically indicating that they did not fear the effect of what the former president said.

treatment, finally saving Powers' life.

In life, Gruber denied reports of his death 12 times. Bitten constantly by his dangerous "pets," he treated himself 32 times for the bites of poisonous snakes. Just once he was unable to treat himself, when a Texas rattler bit him in a large artery and he collapsed within 15 seconds. He was 10 days in the hospital and the effects of the venom bothered him for nine months.

William T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological garden, asked and received from Gruber a chapter of snake bits and their treatment for his "American natural history."

Gruber came here in 1892 from Oil City, Pa., his birthplace, and opened a saloon in which his museum and dens of live rattlers were features known over a wide area.

to vacate a $5,000 supersedeas bond order under which the H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company was given permission to produuce 10 wells in the Oklahoma City field pending a hearing on an appeal from a commission order.

When the supersedeas order was issued, Governor Murray told national guardsmen to keep the wells closed, despite the court's decision. When informed today the court had declined to vacate the order and that it remained in effect the governor laughed.

"Is the order effective?" he smiled, referring to the fact that guardsmen still keep the Wilcox wells shut in.

Wilcox attorneys are expected to ask that the court take steps immediately to enforce its decree.

COURT DROPS HOMICIDE CASE

Charge Against Warren Quashed by Judge

Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law Tuesday morning sustained the motion of Bernard Martin, defense counsel, to quash the indictment returned by the July grand jury charging Lynn Warren with negligent homicide in connection with the death of Jim Dillard several weeks ago.

Warren was at liberty Tuesday without further action in the case by authorities. Warren may be rearrested on filing of another complaint or action in the case may await consideration at the next session of the grand jury, County Attorney L. V. Abernathy said.

Mr. Martin's contention that the indictment was faulty was upheld by Judge Vogel, and the charge was nullified. Dillard allegedly died as the result of a fist fight in which he and the defendant were said to have engaged in this city.

Tuesday afternoon a jury before Judge Vogel imposed a fine of $25 and costs on a man charged with drunkenness.

In the case of a negro charged with carrying a pistol, the court instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Irish Police And Rioters In Bloody Battle After Jobless Demonstration

Disorders of 10,000 Unemployed Put Down by 2,000 Officers Using Guns and Clubs; One Dead, Scores Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 11. (AP)—A demonstration by 10,000 jobless men and women today turned into a series of bloody riots in which one man was killed and about 10 persons were injured.

Two thousand police were required to put down the disorders. Guns and truncheons were used by the policemen, who were mercilessly stoned by the demonstrators. It was announced the curfew law would be enforced from 11 o'clock tonight until 5 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Shops Looted

The public generally expressed concern about whether it would be advisable, in view of the day's strife for the Prince of Wales to carry out plans to come here next month to open the new parliament building.

The day's outbursts included such activities as the smashing of tramcar windows, the burning of watchmen's huts, the wrecking of road-making equipment, attempts to loot shops, the smashing of windows in the national bank and the new Northern Mills, and the seizure of a corporation bus which was driven off by the mob.

The trouble started in Falls road where the demonstrators erected barricades with large pipes.

The battleground in Falls road extended over an area of 300 yards, and soon the fighting spread to Albert street. A collection of watchman's huts were set afire.

One Man Dead

Here the police withstood a terrific bombardment. Shots were heard and the police guns responded. Numerous terrified women bystanders were trapped in the street for some time unable to get to their homes.

Armored cars brought reinforcements—men wearing bandoliers filled with cartridges and carrying rifles and other constables armed with revolvers.

Samuel J. Baxter was shot dead in Cullingtree road near the Falls road district. It was feared that two other victims, who were shot in the stomach, would die.

Among the wounded was a man hit by a bullet which pierced the door of his house, and another who was struck while taking his son to school. A police sergeant and a constable were painfully hurt when they were stoned by the demonstrators, and another man was shot in the arm.

O. U. Studes Face Suspension After Attending Dance

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 11. (AP)—What the piper's pay will be from nearly 300 University of Oklahoma fraternity and sorority pledges who danced at an Oklahoma City hotel roof last night, flouting rules, remained uncalculated today.

An investigation of the "revolt" rested with Dr. S. W. Reaves, chairman of the university discipline committee, but neither Dr. Reaves nor Dr. W. B. Bizzell, university president, had anything to say.

The group faces possible suspension for violating regulations forbidding co-eds to have dates on week nights and for attendance, by both boys and girls, at an unauthorized dance.

Corporations May Deduct Donations From Taxes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (INS)—Corporations may make deductions from gross income on their tax returns for charitable contributions provided at the time they made the contributions they expected to get a commensurate return therefrom, according to the internal revenue regulations.

These deductions by corporations are in the nature of those made under the heading of ordinary and necessary business expense. No chance in this feature of the law was made by the revenue act of 1932.

The law holds that if benefits are derived by the corporation from charitable contributions a deduction may be made. The bureau has interpreted this liberally to include an anticipated benefit at the time the contribution was made.

Legion Keeps Out Of Politics, Says New Commander

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (AP)—Louis Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, issued a statement today in which he said that neither the bonus nor prohibition will be "allowed to draw the legion into politics at this time."

"The mandates of the national convention held in Portland recently on both the immediate payment of adjusted compensation and the prohibition question are written in plain words. When the proper and effective time comes, these mandates will be carried out and every legion official, member and organization will be requested and expected to support the will of the majority as expressed by that convention.

"Neither is a political question, so far as the legion is concerned, and they will not be allowed to draw the legion into politics at this time."

Johnson today called on President Hoover.

Burlesque Party Given By Lovers Of Fine Arts

Lovers of fine arts put on a burlesque Monday night when they met in "tacky party" costumes at the Weeks park clubhouse; attics had been searched and had yielded a bountiful harvest. Costumes were both original and comical. A delightful dinner was served at a table that emphasized the theme of the evening in the decorations.

In a short business meeting, it was voted that through the winter season, the group would only meet every second Monday night. Emil Hermann awarded his September picture, the beautiful modernistic sunset scene being received by Mrs. Valeria Fisher.

A very real melodrama was put on in the original burlesque staged for production by Mrs. Fisher and Miss Marguerite Fisher, called "The Tragedy of the Unpaid Rent." Miss Mary Gerhardt starred in interpreted the part of "Tom," the hero, who saved the old homestead and the daughter "Nell" from the villain. Miss Mary Fitzgerald was "Nell" and Miss Marguerite Fisher the villain. Mrs. Fisher played the mother part.

Presentation of the skit took only 15 minutes and the first scene opened with the mother and her daughter, Nell, seated before the fireplace, bemoaning the facts that they had no fire and the villain might appear at any moment and either put them out or demand Nell's hand. Mrs. Fisher made a decided hit with her costume. In the first act, she was unknown to the audience, her stringy hair and sallow face completing her disguise.

Villain Enters

Miss Fisher, an old-time villain with long mustaches, entered and threatened to throw the renters out unless "Nell" became his, but just in time, "Tom" the hero galloped in on his broom-horse, hitched it by the fire and threw the money necessary at the villain's feet. He took his money and left the house, grumbling. His return in a few moments showed him exhilarated by some sort of spirits and with his large six-shooter, he shot Nell and Tom. The mother then shot the villain and herself; each corpse walked slowly to his chair and died gracefully, giving one last flop, to show the tenor of the play.

Other Numbers

Jane Fisher read an interesting Italian dialect number and as an encore gave "The Crooked Mouth Family." Charles Kiker gave two exquisitely interpreted piano numbers.

The delightful dinner was served to Messrs. and Mesdames H. H. Ferrell, E. A. Bebb, H. H. Gribble, J. W. Akin Jr., and F. N. Campbell; Mesdames Valeria Fisher, Maurice Adams, James P. Bowen, H. B. Van Emden, and Bowers; Misses Marguerite Gerhardt, Maurine Adams, Marguerite Fisher, Jane Fisher, Maurine Mount, Mary Fitzgerald; Messrs. Emil Herman, Baldwin Montgomery and Charles Kilker.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We are very appreciative of an article in the latest Pathfinder that gives us new ideas about the oil industry; an industry, by the way, that has caused much anguish of spirit in the past few years.

◇

The first oil well picture, it tells us, was published in a Latin book on natural history, printed by Dr. Cassius Felix at Maine, Germany, in 1491. The good doctor described petroleum as "Babylonian pitch," (quite a mild term compared with some we have heard of late).

◇

Dr. Felix left the impression it was first discoverer in Asia and divided it into two kinds, white and black, the latter being recommended for external application in case of rheumatism and for a drink combined in warm water, for tummy ache and indigestion. They've not used it that way in oil fields.

◇

Then one Franciscan missionary, Joseph de la Roche d'Allion, wrote a friend in France in 1627, telling about a spring of mineral oil near what is now the little town of Cuba, in southwest New York. The Indians gave it their name, calling it Seneca oil and used it as a general medicine, particularly fine for rheumatism. (We were surprised to know that Indians of that date had rheumatism.) The whites followed their example; they would spread blankets on the water, wring out the oily scum and use the residue for aches and pains.

◇

In 1819, a farmer named Martin Peary, digging for brine on the south fork of the Cumberland river in Kentucky, unintentionally sunk what has often been referred to as the first oil well in the United States.

◇

But around 1826, Dr. Samuel P. Hildred began to discover the real value of petroleum. "It affords a clear, brisk light," he wrote, and he prophesied it would be valuable to light the streets of the future Ohio cities. There were gas lights on a long pretty street where we lived in Memphis, Tenn.

◇

Even 20 years after that, petro-leum, usually obtained as a minor product of the salt wells, was used almost exclusively as a medicinal product. Samuel Kier, selling the oil at 50 cents a pint bottle, began to believe it would be more salable as a lubricant and liniment. So, after having a chemist study a few samples, he began, after five years, to refine crude oil.

◇

It remained for a wandering school teacher and journalist (depend on a journalist) seeing one of Bier's ads, to go him one better. He had an important Yale chemist analyze the oil, then organized a company who sent Edwin L. Drake to "drill in" the first real oil well, in 1850. Drake could only pump 1,000 gallons each day, we hear, from that first well—(they struck oil, by the way, at less than 75 feet)—but within the year oil production in the United States ran more than 4,000,000 barrels annually.

◇

Pipe lines of course (devised by Henry Hartley in 1861) have been an aid to a remarkable increase in the industry. Pipe lines have a powerful hand now. Oil men love them.

◇

But the story of "The Blood of the Earth" sounds like the nursery rhyme, "This is the house that Jack built."

This is the thing called Babylonian pitch.

This is the Seneca oil found by reds and whites that came from what was called Babylonian pitch. This is the man called Martin Peary, who stumbled in his salt well on the oil called Seneca oil that was once called Babylonian pitch—and so on ad infinitum.

Wedding Questions Answered by E. Post

By EMILY POST
Author of "Etiquette, the Blue Book of Social Usage"

(1) Are not the most formal weddings in the late afternoon and the more informal in the evening?

Answer: The hour of the day has no effect on "formality." The hour of any wedding is a question of denomination, personal choice, climate, and local custom. Catholic weddings in the morning, southern weddings in the cool of the evening, and so on.

(2) Recently a friend told me it was necessary to "pay for the use of their church." I have never heard of such a thing. Answer: The fee is for lighting (heating in winter) and dusting, as well as for organist and assistance of sexton. This is called "opening the church."

(3) Are not announcements sent to guests who attended the wedding as well as friends who were not present? Answer: Never. It would be an absurdity to tell people who were present at the wedding that Mary Smith is now Mrs. Henry Jones! That is all an announcement is!

(4) Is it not bad form to ask for reply on "at home" invitations? Is it not taken for granted that those invited will notify you? Answer: R. s. v. p. necessary if hostess wants to know how many to provide food for. No request for reply signifies that no answer is required.

(5) When announcements are sent to all members of a family, is it permissible to enclose "at home" cards to one member of the family and not to the others? I have in mind where the bride may know the daughter well and has only a slight acquaintanceship with her parents. Answer: Yes.

(6) I plan to have an informal evening church wedding and to invite only the immediate families for a wedding supper at my parents' home, and to entertain those of our relatives and friends, whom we should like to have had for a reception, at tea or "open house" upon our return. What do you think of this plan? Answer: You can do this if you choose, of course. But I think people would prefer to go from church to your house on the evening of the wedding. The preparations for a tea or a simple wedding reception are identical.

Rev. and Mrs. Corbin Honored at Social

Rev. and Mrs. Bruce Corbin were honorees at a pleasant social gathering at the Grace Methodist church Monday evening, when approximately 100 church members were present.

Mrs. I. W. Karrenbrock was in charge of the program and led in the opening singsong. A pretty duet was sung by Misses Thelma Simmons and Lena Smith, with Mrs. J. H. Simmons at the piano. An amusing costume song and skit was given as an encore.

Short talks were made by H. L. Hunter, Ward Lowe and Mrs. O. W. Ross and Miss Melba Miller gave a clever costume reading. Miss Thelma Simmons and Mrs. I. W. Karrenbrock each sang a group of lovely songs with Mrs. Bruce Corbin at the piano, and the program was closed by a sincere talk of appreciation by Rev. Bruce Corbin.

Carrigan P.-T. A. Has Child Health Program

Health was the subject of the program at the meeting of Carrigan P.-T. A. Tuesday afternoon, when the meeting was opened with the Parent-Teacher prayer said in unison. Mrs. J. Z. Steinkoenig gave a detailed explanation of the requirements for a five-point child, urging the Carrigan unit to secure at least five of the five-point children this season.

Dr. Maude L. Lindsey gave an especially interesting and educational lecture on the prevention of sickness, stressing the fact that environment is a great aid in controlling the health of children. In speaking of communicable diseases and controlling such ailments, Dr. Lindsey urged the people to demand stricter enforcement of quarantines. She particularly stressed the danger of neglected colds, the need of vaccinations and the necessity of having children immunized against diphtheria.

In the brief business meeting following the program, Mrs. Leon Cygon presided. Mrs. J. B. Hathorn, finance chairman, announced that the ticket sale for the play being sponsored by the P.-T. A. unit to secure funds for street graveling, would begin next week. The organization voted to give a small fund as usual to the endowment fund. Three "Child Welfare" magazine clubs were organized.

The membership chairman, Mrs. E. H. Dyer, announced that Carrigan P.-T. A. now had 93 paid members and needs only four more to attain the quota.

In the room count, Miss Oneida Rimmer's room won the prize for the primary grades and Miss Lallah Norman's in the elementary grades.

Jackson Jr., Dick Morris, chief of police, the traction company and many with private cars who carried the children to the Gentry Bros. dog and pony show.

A stirring appeal was made by Mr. Yount, director of the community chest drive, for the group to rally in the efforts to put charity organizations on a sound basis.

Mrs. F. T. Datson's report of summer work included thanks to those who had supported the nursery in that time. She told of domestic duties being taught older boys and girls of the school.

YOUNG PLEADS FOR RELIGION

Pastors of City Pay Honors To Presbyterians

Dr. L. D. Young, pastor of the Abbey Presbyterian church of Dallas and vice moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., concluded Tuesday's golden jubilee service at the First Presbyterian church with an eloquent plea for belief in Christianity not "on blind faith, but as a convincing demonstration."

Dr. Young's sermon was the climax of an inter-denominational service in which pastors and male singers from other churches here participated. Rev. Gaines B. Hall, Rev. O. L. Powers, Rev. S. S. McKenney, Rev. W. D. Bratton, Rev. Ben Bell, all local pastors and R. E. Shepherd, representing the First Christian church, spoke briefly in commendation of the 50-year record of the First Presbyterian church in Wichita Falls.

Choosing his subject from the seventh chapter of the gospel of John, Dr. Young announced his theme as "Make the Tree Good." The first conclusion to be reached, he said, is that Christianity is an exact science. In this scientific age, he continued, research has revealed that the minute divisions of material life still do not reach the beginning—that behind the atom, and the electron, and energy, is a vast and universal mind.

Exact in Details

"I ask you," continued Dr. Young, "to think of that mind as being the mind of a mathematician; for you have heard people charge that our religion is vague, and indefinite. The record of our religion is replete with exact and definite expressions. The number of days, the measure of the arc, the number of soldiers, always is given with explicit definiteness.

"The Bible reveals a great fondness for figures. The mathematical mind always is trying to work out a problem. The Bible is filled with numerical specifications, and is so framed as to convince one that God is a geometrician.

"Throughout the history of Christianity, its exactness has been proven. The gist of its teaching is 'whatsoever a man seweth, that shall he also reap.' The truth—the unvarying truth—of that declaration is revealed to you daily. We today are reaping just what we have sown throughout this land."

Finally, the speaker said, the Biblical conception of life is mathematical because it demands a demonstration.

"How many of us now are losing our faith in prayer?" he queried. "Do you shake the place where you pray, as your fathers did of old? The value of a good name above richness; the charm of true kindness; the beauty of real charity, all prove that the exactness of Christianity is demonstrable. If any man does not believe the Bible, let him take it and try it, and demonstrate it. It will work. The greatest men and women on earth today are those who pray. God does not ask us to accept anything on blind faith, but to witness a demonstration."

Musical Program

Dr. Young was introduced by Raymond Myers, who presided at the service. John L. Anderson of Burkburnett sang "God's Tomorrow," and Messrs. L. R. Thurman, J. S. Minton, Orville Medford and J. W. Akin Jr. sang "Sometime and Somewhere." Lee Irwin, organist for the evening, played their accompaniments. A male chorus of men from local churches comprised the choir for the service. Dr. Nat F. Grafton, former pastor of the church, pronounced the benediction.

Dr. Grafton and Dr. J. L. McKee of Kansas City will speak in Wednesday night's service, which is to be one of rededication and memorial observance. Dr. McKee was pastor here for six years prior to 1915, and Dr. Grafton filled a pastorate of about 14 years as successor to Dr. McKee.

The following program will be followed in the Wednesday night service:

Rededication and memorial service, Mrs. J. A. Kemp, presiding.
Hymn No. 500, "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord."
Prayer, Rev. John W. Wright, pastor, East Side Presbyterian church.
"Resume of the Pioneer Work of Our Church," Dr. J. L. McKee, Kansas City, Mo.
"Hymn of Peace" (Calliott), Mrs. J. Will Gray, Mrs. C. H. Evans, J. S. Minton, R. Mills Tittle.
"Fifteen Years Ministry in Wichita Falls," Dr. Nat F. Grafton, Floral Heights Presbyterian church.
Response, Dr. George P. Horst.
Memorial service, Mrs. E. T. Duff, presiding.
Violin solo, Mrs. Flora Greenwood.
Memories, Mrs. E. T. Duff.
Lowering of the Flag, Boy Scouts.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—in 4 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—your eyes sparkle with glorious health—you feel younger in body—keener in mind. Kruschen will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts—the cost is trifling and it lasts 4 weeks. If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the surest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money gladly returned.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at Allison's Drug store or any drug store in the world. —Adv.

Cancer Discussed At Medical Meet

Discussions of cancer and a review of early Texas history featured the regular meeting of the Wichita County Medical society Tuesday night at the Wichita club. Dr. Wallace J. Masters, vice president, presided in the absence of Dr. C. W. Stevenson, president. Forty members of the association and guests from Olney and Bomarton attended the meeting.

Dr. D. Meredith presented a paper on "Etilogy and Treatment of Cancer." The paper was discussed by Dr. D. R. Venable.

A study of the background of Texas history and important developments in the state formation down to the civil war period was offered in a paper by Dr. L. Mackechney on "Early Texas History." Dr. Mackechney is an authority on Texas history and presented an interesting paper.

Visitors at the meeting included Drs. Hamilton and Harold of Olney, Dr. J. W. Haynesworth of the Wichita General hospital and Dr. Barber of Bomarton.

Son Wealthy Financier Found Unconscious

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (UP)—A man tentatively identified by police as Sewell L. Avery Jr., son of the wealthy financier, was found unconscious in Avery's apartment on Lake Shore drive today and died despite efforts to resuscitate him.

Sergeant Patrick Broderick of the East Chicago avenue police station told newspaper men that the victim was Avery.

The man had died from the effects of inhaling illuminating gas, according to the police. It was not known how the gas had escaped.

Avery Jr., whose father is president of the United States Gypsum company, and president and chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward & Co., suffered a nervous breakdown some time ago, police were told. He also had been suffering from a heart depression.

Young Avery was manager of the United States Gypsum company. He was 31 years old.

Sleeping Man Injured In Fall From Platform

Elmer Goodwin of Bonita, Texas, told police Tuesday he would pick a resting place closer to the ground next time he felt sleepy. Godwin tumbled from a warehouse platform in the Wichita Falls railway yards during the morning. He had arrived by freight train and fell asleep while waiting to leave the city. He was given emergency treatment at the Wichita General hospital for cuts about his face suffered when he struck a rail in the fall. Officer V. V. Musick took the youth to the hospital.

HIGHWAY FIVE MEETING HELD

Nocona Host to Leaders In Road Movement

Representative citizens of North Central Texas gathered at Nocona Tuesday evening in a celebration marking plans for early completion of state highway No. 5 across Montague county. More than 150 people attended the banquet and program in charge of Toastmaster G. W. Humphreys, president of Justin Leather Goods company of Nocona. Montague county recently voted warrants for purchase of a 100-foot right of way across the county for No. 5 and for No. 2 north and south.

The meeting was a highway 5 celebration and opened with music by the senior girls of the Nocona High school. The Rev. C. E. Cogswell pronounced the invocation. True Strong, former Nocona mayor, offered the welcome address, declaring that the new road system means bringing together of all communities of Montague county and of neighboring counties.

Joe Boozer of Gainesville, president of the Highway 5 association responded to the welcome with an expression of pleasure at heading the largest delegation attending the banquet from Cooke county. Judge G. B. Webb of Sherman brought greetings from Grayson county.

J. S. Bridwell of Wichita Falls, chairman of the chamber of commerce highway committee, paid a tribute to Mr. Boozer and his work for the No. 5 construction. Mr. Bridwell declared that No. 5 hard surfacing can be a reality in the near future. Construction across Montague county depends upon how soon you arrange the right of way, he said. The Wichitan pictured the possibility of closing every gap on the route from Texline to Texarkana by July 1, 1933, if all counties work together rapidly.

County Judge H. N. Dearmore of Montague county reported that every member of the commissioners court was ready to go ahead with the project and that engineers were now ready to secure the land both on No. 5 and No. 2. Dr. Locke of Cooke county offered assistance in the work and declared the project an opportunity to aid unemployed.

County Judge T. K. Howard of Clay county announced that his county hopes to join in closing the No. 5 gap. Dr. Lawson of Bowie invited Nocona to send representatives to the Bowie Chamber of Commerce banquet on Oct. 25. W. L. Scott Sr., of Saint Jo, spoke for that community and J. H. Allison and Walter D. Cline of Wichita Falls spoke for this city.

Buel Thorp of Chipley, Fla., exhibited a pear grown on his farm which weighed more than two pounds.

Pep Squad Holds Rally At Theater

"King Football" ruled in Wichita Falls Tuesday night, when the high school pep squad presented a demonstration at the Majestic theater before a near-capacity house, preceding the opening of the football picture, "All American," showing at the Majestic this week.

This week, just prior to Wichita Falls' first conference game to be played on the home field against Quanah Saturday, is predicted to be one of the peppiest in the history of the school. Pep meetings are scheduled for every day during the week, reaching a climax Friday night with the presentation of the annual Wichita Falls rally, "Let's Go Athletic," at the Memorial auditorium.

Tuesday night was designated high school night at the Majestic by Manager C. H. Stewart, and members of the girls pep squad and Coach Ted Jefferies Coyotes were honor guests of the theater to see the 1931 All American football team stage one of the greatest of all football pictures in "All American."

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 11. (UP)—After two days of examination of prospective jurors to try Doye Arnold, ex-convict, on a murder bill, only six men were seated in the box and the panel of 62 special veniremen had been exhausted.

SHRINE FIESTA SET NOV. 11

Fall Ceremonial Program Adopted at Meeting

Maskat temple will stage an Armistice ceremonial on Nov. 11, 1932, according to plans arranged Tuesday night at a business meeting at the auditorium atop the City National building, Recorder Al Ellis said. A full day's program of activity in cooperation with high school authorities for the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm football game here and with the American Legion in observance of the close of the world war is planned for the ceremonial.

Tentative arrangements call for a parade on Friday morning, Nov. 11 of the uniformed bodies with the Shriners attending the Coyote-Sandstorm game in a body. Other features of the program offer a supper for Shriners at Maskat auditorium at 5:45 p. m., followed by the ceremonial proper at 6:30 o'clock and climaxed with a dance at the Wichita club at 9:30 o'clock.

Noble Emil Hermann of the entertainment committee presented Mrs. Maurice J. Adams in charge of the program following the business session. Miss Maurine Adams and Scott Griffis offered their intrepretation of the newest dance steps of Mexico. Tap dance numbers were offered by the Misses Mary Eleanor Clement, Margaret Holcomb and Margaret Griffis. Miss Viola Grace Doern was presented in violin selections, accompanied by Mrs. Wayne Barker, and the program closed with a tap dance by Truston Fox.

Child Escapes Injury In Auto Collision

Little Miss Wanda McCracken, 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. Vera McCracken, 1628 Collins, escaped injury at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night when she fell from her mother's coupe in a collision with a machine driven by Louis Martin of Windthorst at Thirteenth and Holliday. The child was taken to the Wichita General hospital for examination by a Dalton-Powell ambulance. The force of the collision knocked open the coupe door and the girl fell to the pavement. Mr. Martin reported the accident at police headquarters.

Plans for launching the Roosevelt-Garner medallion drive for campaign funds throughout the entire 13th congressional district were formulated Tuesday, according to Judge Harvey Harris, district chairman.

Organization of county and precinct workers throughout the district has been completed, it was announced, and the fund-raising medallions have been supplied to each unit in the organization.

It was announced that C. C. Hudson, chairman of the campaign in Iowa Park, has made arrangements for the medallions to be handled through a booth at the Wichita county fair at Iowa Park throughout the remainder of this week.

Thirty workers are to start out Wednesday morning on the honor roll drive, directed by E. C. DeMontel, soliciting campaign donations of from $5 to $500 each.

Don't Drive a COLD in!

Drive It OUT With a Remedy That Gets At It From The Inside!

Treat a cold quickly, but intelligently!

Remember, a cold is a germ attack—an internal infection—and, as such, calls for internal treatment. Don't attempt to knock a cold merely with local or outside applications. External treatments can't reach the seat of the trouble and can't prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

Don't attempt, either, to relieve a cold with a cure-all. A cold is a cold and calls for a COLD remedy. A preparation that's good for all kinds of ills and ailments besides colds can't be equally effective for colds. Many people take remedies that actually make a cold more difficult to relieve because these remedies are constipating and also make the system acid.

The thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine! As your doctor will undoubtedly tell you, he couldn't write a better prescription for a cold if he wanted to.

4 Important Effects!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is prompt and decisive relief for a cold because it does four important things.

First, it opens the bowels, gently but effectively—the first step in routing a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies it against further attack.

No Bad After-Effects

Grove's Bromo Quinine contains no narcotics and is absolutely safe to take. It produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate, or make the head ring or swim. Its safety, as well as effectiveness, has made it the standard cold tablet the world over.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine comes in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane wrapped and is sold by every drug store in America. A few of the tablets taken promptly on catching cold will usually expel the cold overnight and banish the danger of its settling in your system. Therefore, at the first sign of a cold, take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. A wise measure is to keep it within reach all winter. Be suspicious of any dealer who tries to sell you a substitute.—Adv.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Offhand it might appear a tough break for a former executive director of the Democratic national committee to have the first major duty of a new job turn out to be endorsing a Republican against a Democrat for the senate.

JOUETT SHOUSE

Yet that is what happened. As president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Jouett Shouse found it necessary to announce the unanimous approval by the association's executive committee of Tallant Tubbs, Republican, as against William Gibbs McAdoo, Democrat, in the California senatorial race.

Up From Chicago

There are those who, recalling the Chicago convention, look upon the association's decision to support Mr. McAdoo's opponent as something that might bring Shouse a certain satisfaction, if he were inclined to view it in that light.

For be it recalled that Mr. Shouse in convention and pre-convention days became the focal point of the stop-Roosevelt movement which suffered so complete a collapse finally at Mr. McAdoo's hands.

Not that Mr. Shouse openly opposed Roosevelt's nomination. He did not. He merely battled in his pre-convention capacity as national committee spokesman for an "open" and uninstructed convention.

Then Mr. Shouse's candidacy for permanent chairman of the convention against Senator Walsh of Montana, Roosevelt candidate, tended to make Shouse the personification of the stop-Roosevelt effort at an important stage.

Preparing the Way

Hindsight now makes it clear that the defeat of Shouse for the honor was highly significant. It spelled Roosevelt's ultimate nomination. In that test of strength, however, California's delegation, including McAdoo, was still out of the Roosevelt camp. It went solidly for Shouse.

Not until balloting on the presidential nominee came did McAdoo make his dramatic switch to Roosevelt, cutting the ground out utterly beneath the feet of the stop-Roosevelt group.

It's a queer vote tangle that is due to be unscrambled in the Golden state in November. In it an important factor is the amazing vote piled up in Republican, Democratic and prohibition primaries by Dr. Shuler, third man in the race.

Firestone Dreads Vote To Defeat President

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (INS)—America "will go a long way if Hoover is elected," Harvey Firestone Sr., Akron tire magnate, declared today following a call on the president.

But—"If he isn't elected I don't know what will happen."

Firestone said he thought this election should be based on more than prosperity.

"We must look into the future," he said.

He called at the White House to ask Mr. Hoover to make a rear platform appearance at Akron on his way to Cleveland Saturday.

Firestone said he was preparing for a 50 per cent increase in the output of tires this month as compared with September.

Admiral Byrd Urges Lower Taxes in Talk

DETROIT, Oct. 11. (INS)—"Prosperity cannot return until our enormous tax burden is reduced," said Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, famous explorer, in an address here last night.

Admiral Byrd is touring the country as an organizer for the National Economy league.

"Without tax relief our whole economic system will collapse and anarchy will prevail," he warned.

Broadway play critics who moan that there are no longer any great actors in the world ought to hear a few of the political campaigners when they turn on the tremolo attachments.

A writer says camels no larger than jack rabbits once roamed North America. And in those days our modern southwestern jack rabbits probably were no larger than horses.

The weather man no longer has the exclusive rights to wrong guessing. How about the football forecaster?

The Kansas boy who recently finished a five-year university course in three years is just the kind of fellow who would be able to find a job these days.

Eighty-six distilleries in England have been closed by the depression and high taxes. Perhaps the British ought to study our system.

Welcome Home—But Remember

JIMMY WALKER again is back in the shadow of Woolworth tower, dapper as usual, wise-cracking his way down the gangplank at the moment of arrival, and welcomed with a parade headed by Tammany chieftains. But that studied flare of gay nonchalance on Jimmy's part, and the salvo of public acclaim with which he was greeted, will not shake the general public's conviction that Jimmy has been properly spanked.

The erstwhile mayor has been an ardent practical joker, for his volatile quips were but practical jokes in verbal form. But the loaded cigar which the immaculate Jimmy prepared for Gov. Roosevelt obviously exploded in the donor's own face. The governor struck the match, but it was Jimmy who batted his eyes and choked with the fumes.

There are probably several old adages whose truths are revealed by the Walker incident. For instance, New York's ex-mayor evidently was given plenty of rope, and the proverbial hanging in a political sense seems to have managed itself quite neatly. Jimmy will receive little sympathy from the gallery. The crowd always enjoys seeing a joke backfire on the village cut-up.

Revelations in the Roosevelt investigation were sufficient to raise serious questions as to the sincerity and seriousness with which Mr. Walker had conducted himself in one of the country's highest offices. Assuming that the Seabury charges had material foundation, it becomes obvious also that Tammany hall was made to feel under no obligation to Jimmy by reason of his alleged irregularities. They dropped him summarily in choosing a new candidate for the mayoralty. Which in itself would suggest an oversight on the part of the ex-mayor. There's another old adage which discourages neglect of the ladder upon which one has risen.

Jimmy smiled blandly enough as Tammany gave him a welcome home. But the public generally knows that to a large extent it was "un beau geste," and that Jimmy's sails have been neatly reefed.

The Valiant '16th'

THE laurels of war usually land on the brow of the individual; the skillful general, the spectacular junior officer, the heroic common soldier. We don't often take the time to hand out wreaths to an entire group.

But the organization—the regiment, the battalion, the brigade—can win honors as a unit, and these group records can be well worth examining.

A short time ago some 700 men met on Governor's island, in New York harbor, to celebrate the "organization day" ceremonies of the 16th U. S. regular infantry. The day was the 14th anniversary of the regiment's capture of the scarred town of Pleville, in the Meuse-Argonne offensive; but that event is only one in the 16th amazingly long and honorable record.

The 16th infantry was organized in 1798. Since then it has participated in just about every war the country has had. It marched into Mexico in 1848, it went all through the Civil war, it took part in the Indian campaigns in the West, it went to Cuba in the Spanish war.

When the United States entered the world war the 16th was the first army detachment to go to France. It was also the first American regiment to suffer battle losses in France. And just to wind up its record, it was the last regiment to sail for home.

Here is a record of which any military organization could be proud; and a record of that kind is one of the most valuable assets any army can have.

Soldiers have ways that look strange, to the civilian; and one of the soldier's quirks is that he gives his chief loyalty to his own command. He has his patriotism, of course, and now and then a Washington, or a McClellan, or a Lee will win his fervent admiration; but mostly his first love is his own regiment or brigade.

That is why a long record like the 16th's is so priceless. It makes veterans out of all its men. It is the greatest of all builders of morale.

Safety On The Railroads

A STATISTICIAN has just made a detailed study of American railway accidents, and he told the National Safety Council congress the other day that the way things stand today the American citizen has exactly one chance in 37,500,000 of being killed in a train wreck.

In 1930, for instance, only seven passengers were killed on American railroads. This, incidentally, makes quite a sharp contrast with conditions 10 years ago, when 76 were killed in one year.

This magnificent record of safety is a thing that we have come to take for granted, and it is only when we stop to think of the enormous volume of railroad traffic, the stupendous number of passengers carried annually and the vast complexity of the constant movement of highspeed trains over a network of railway lines that we can realize what a really remarkable achievement the railroad men have to their credit.

SO THEY SAY!

You can always judge a man by his emotions in his moments of play.—John B. Kennedy, associate editor of Collier's.

From 10 to 15 per cent of the population of any prison at any time safely may be released on parole.—Oscar Lee, warden, Wisconsin state prison and president, American Prison association.

In these hard times, people need humor and song more than ever before.—Sir Harry Lauder, Scottish comedian.

People are really buying and trading property for the creation of breweries and we are doing the best business since prohibition was passed.—John F. Hunt, brewery equipment manufacturer.

Minister Resigns as Director of Hospital

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11. (INS)—Because he believed he was better fitted for the pulpit than for the superintendency of a hospital, the Rev. C. G. Smith, superintendent of the Methodist hospital here, tendered his resignation to the board of trustees today. The resignation is to be effective as soon as a successor can be appointed.

Mrs. Smith said his recommendation to the board for his successor would be for a physician rather than a pastor.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

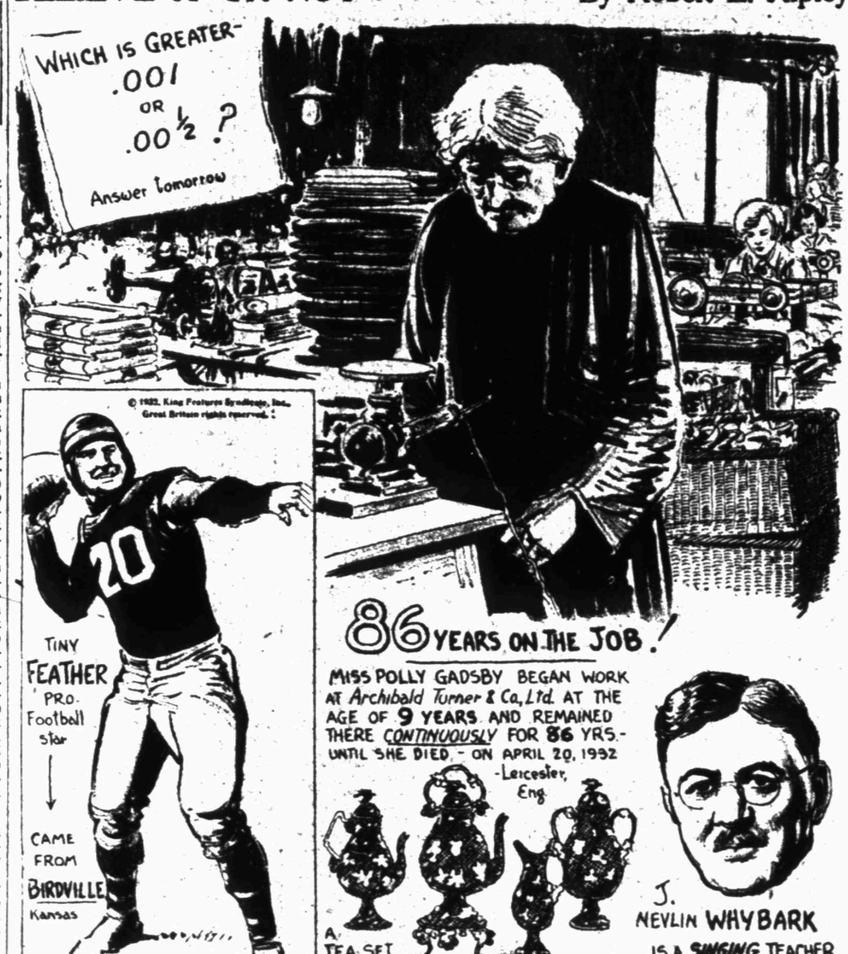

Shucks! A guy like me cannot afford to lose a friend like Donald Freeman!...He was one of the few fellers who liked me—and the second important magazine editor to hold out his hand and lift me into his heaven...When I was on a rag that the whole town belittled away back there in 1927—almost a million years ago!...Poor Don—he was motoring to see his mother and sister at Mt. Kisco and his car crashed, and now he's no more... I'll miss Donald Freeman...I'll miss that shrewd counsel he always gave me when I needed it...That comforting something that all men have to have when they're not sure of themselves...They talk about "highbrow" magazines and "highbrow" editors who are, to hear the legends, frigid to people who haven't made a name for themselves...What rot!...Freeman kept after me—as did Burton Rascoe—long before my luck changed, and made me sit down and write pieces for Vanity Fair—and when everybody else was calling him on the phone and saying: "Why do you encourage Walter Winchell? Let him stay in the tabloids—don't help him get anywhere!"—Donald Freeman, bless him, ordered extra articles from me (when money was a godsend!) and played me up as being a "somebody"....And to make sure I would be accepted and not ridiculed, Donald Freeman polished my pieces of drivel, embroidered them with big words, and gave them such tone that his class subscribers actually believed I could write!

Interesting item, that one about the Dupont people, the music publishers or whatever they are...They sent out 75,000 letters to locals and asked them to tell them what song they wanted to hear most on the radio...And the winner was an ageless ditty named "Silver Threads Among the Gold"...Wonder if there is a man or woman in town who would be interested in encouraging an etcher who certainly "belongs."...His tag is Edward Van Baerle, and his etchings are masterful... He drives a cab for a living in the Broadway area...And his manager, a little Joosh boy, who knew me when, peddles papers in front of that cafeteria at 725 Seventh Ave. ...The "manager" goes to high school and has rejection slips from Menckren and the better mag editors. But he's trying all the time —and you can't lick a guy like that ...I gotta help that etcher land... If Donald Freeman were only here, that's where I'd send him first... Wonder if Arthur Samuels would be interested?...Or Frank Crowninshield or Conde Nast?...Maybe George Jean Nathan could use a genius on his forthcoming newspaper?...Catherine Broody couldn't be stifled...She lost her job a year ago and then decided to write a book called "Nobody Starves"... She submitted it to 36 publishers, all turning it down, some with sarcastic notes begging Catherine to quit submitting trash...Finally Longmans Green printed it...So what happened?...Haw, haw, haw! ...Sinclair Lewis, Lincoln Steffens, Fannie Hurst and other biggies now claim it as the literary "find" of the year—the most promising book!...And the Book of the Month Club has accepted it! The first 36 rejections are the oddest!

Among my priceless inheritances, I think, is that army of readers who accept what I say as being the "gossipel" truth...When I founder or boner an item they put up with me, or they tell me that they believe me at least 50 per cent of the time—which is fair enough ...But that recent report here of the man and woman, who were willing to give their baby to any one who would nourish it until the breaks got better, was accepted without any to-do about it, and they responded nobly...Some of them were comfortably fixed. Some were only moderately well off, but most of the letters, hundreds of them, came from families who are poor, but who were willing to share what little they had with that baby...One man made an opening at his mid-town club for the father —so that they wouldn't have to part with the child, a noble deed, indeed...The mother's note of gratitude follows: "I haven't the power of expression to tell you how much we appreciate what you have done for us. We were bewildered and lost, weighted down by too heavy a burden of problems, and now we are at least assured of a roof over our heads and food for our baby. Please convey my heartfelt gratitude to your readers, who have made it possible, to your lovely Miss Cambridge, and to those who offered a home to our child...The human heart is kind."

All of which reminds me of Morris, the elevator boy at the Palace, who came to me with his problems several months ago...And told me how he was accused of a wrong back-stage, and how he was fired as a result...And so I used the column to ask the manager "What's the big idea?" and it got swift action...Morris was back at work shortly after, and I was happier... But now I'm not so happy about Morris, who went to actors and others during his trouble, and got financial assistance with his true story about his wife and baby, etc. ...And several actors, who were working then, gave Morris five and ten spots, and now these same actors are not working and broke, and they could use those fives and tenners...And Morris, who makes a small wage with tips, hasn't offered them any part of that dough, which is not so hot, and if I were Morris I would pay my debts or at least offer those people an ace or deuce spot until I had squarred myself...Wonder why people forget pain so quickly?...I've never met the guy yet who kept his word on a promise—and all but two of them intend to one day...Probably that's why I'd rather play the role of villain...It's better than being a phony hero any time.

BABES ON BROADWAY

By JANE DIXON (Copyright, 1932, Jane Dixon)

SYNOPSIS

Tony Brookes was 18 when her father and mother were killed in an automobile accident at Centerville, her home town. She had intended to study art but her capital had dwindled to $12 before she got a job in Madame Simone's dress shop in New York. Her frankness in telling women what they should not wear soon brought her dismissal on the same day that Leslie (Lee) Moran, a model, was discharged. Lee had no money and Tony shared her third floor back room at Mrs. Higgins' with her. Before Tony got a job at an art gallery, Lee became a taxi dancer at El Tango where she met Adam Leonard, whom she called Uncle Lenny. He was a kindly looking man between 50 and 60. Tom Stewart, a young engineer in love with Lee, missed her at Mrs. Higgins'. Tony fell in love with him at once and tried to bring herself to tell Lee. Lee had insisted that Tony go out for an evening with Leonard and an out-of-town friend, Donald Kemp. As they were leaving a night club, Leonard's wife saw them and made a scene. Leonard had been unhappily married and Kemp, a lawyer, arranged for Mrs. Leonard to get a divorce. Lee astonished Tony later announcing that she was going to pose as the correspondent and expected to receive $5,000. She moved to an apartment. M. Monsieu, a client of Kemp's, gave Tony a chance at dress designing in his studio and she attended art school at night. Tony finally confessed her love of Tom to Lee. Shortly after that Tony found Tom waiting for her at Mrs. Higgins'. I've got to tell you about Lee—and myself . . . He said.

INSTALLMENT XII

"You want me to look after Lee," Tony volunteered. Emotion receded. Desire numbed. Her words were sharp pebbles dropped on a pavement.

"You want me to look after Lee," suddenly, so swiftly that she would have had no time to offer resistance even though she possessed the strength or the will to do so, Tom Stewart's arm was about her, drawing her into deep shadow. His lips on hers, gently, hungrily. Against her eyes, murmuring endearments. Against the soft curve of her cheek where it met her hair. Back to her lips again . . . "Tom you must not! I promised Lee—Oh, my dear one . . ."

She would surrender! She had surrendered. Then, as suddenly as they had gathered her in, Tom's arms relaxed. He still supported her, his hand under her elbow. She was giddy, confused. A car had drawn up to the curb near where they were standing. Voices, muffled staccato. The door of the car opened.

A bundle tumbled out onto the sidewalk. A loose terrifying bundle that sprawled. The car slithered away from the curb, gathered speed, was already disappearing into the darkness before the bundle had come to a full stop. Tony wanted to scream. She could not. Tom's hand was across her mouth.

"Quiet, dear," he warned. "Don't move. Lean against the ledge, I'll see what's happened."

Tom left her there. He was bending over the terrifying bundle. In a second he was back. Somewhere near at hand a whistle cut the stillness. A siren sounded.

"Dead!" Tom was racing her toward Mrs. Higgins! "Get in to the house and up to your room quickly. There's nothing we can do. If we're found here in the street when the police come we may be held as witnesses. I've got to leave on the job tomorrow morning. I can't have you facing this alone. I don't like running away but we didn't see who was in that car, didn't even get the license number or a description of it. Tony, I wanted to—"

The siren shrieked again, closer. Tom opened the door at the top of the chipped stone stoop, thrust Tony inside. The latch clicked behind her. She could hear his scudding feet, down the steps. Why hadn't he remained inside the door, with her? She must get to her room unseen, unheard. If they found Tom she would go out into the street again, take her place beside him. The window a tiny one in the front hall. It faced the street. Off with hat and coat first. If she met any one in the hall they would think she had been attracted from her room by the siren.

Up the street lights were flashing. Figures moving. Windows glowed yellow, framing leaning half-bodies. Other sirens had taken up the clamor. Tony scanned the figures in the circle of flashing lights intently. Tom was not one of them.

She fled to her room, closed and bolted the door. She was gasping for breath. Terror drove the blood in icy rivulets down her spine. A man, dead! Sprawled on the cold stone while Tom murmured passionate endearments against her lips, living burning words that sung of life and of love.

Tom loved her. He had told her so—not in words—there hadn't been time for words—but his lips—. She went to the mirror. Strange she couldn't see where Tom's lips had pressed her face, tenderly, passionately. Her lips trembled into a smile, there at the corner where his lips had lingered. The dear lean brownness of him . . .

Tony said aloud to lend conviction to her thoughts:

"Lee will have to know. Tom will tell her the truth. She'll hate me. I am sorry for that, but there is no other way. It would be wrong, wretchedly wrong to sacrifice love to her whim. She does not love Tom. She is using him. He's an anchor to windward in case her other plans fail. She would spoil his life and mine with her selfishness. He belongs to me, just as I belong to him, have always belonged to him, since my creation. Tomorrow Tom will tell her . . ."

Tomorrow! Tom was going away tomorrow. No, today. She would not see him again for weeks, months maybe. He couldn't go, leave her like this. She must find him. Where? In the city? No, she would have to wait for him. He would come or there would be word from him. She would wait, with this new, this priceless secret warm in her heart.

A day passed. A bright glimmering day shot with gold and blue. Tony read the papers. A man had been "taken for a ride." Rival gangsters had "rubbed him out" and dumped his lifeless body into West Forty-sixth street. He had been dead at least six hours when found. The policeman picked up a suspicious looking car, but it had escaped them in traffic. A patrolman saw the car swing into a side street but thought nothing of the matter until an alarm was broadcast. Too late. No trace of the car. Only the sprawled body on the sidewalk. So far as was known, no witnesses.

In the morning there would be a letter from Tom. Tony would have to leave for the studio early, so the letter must wait until her return at the end of the day. She would be reckless and indulge in a taxi from the studio to Mrs. Higgins'. That would bring her 15 minutes nearer to Tom's dearness. She finished her work half an hour earlier than she was accustomed to leave the studio and asked if she might be excused for the day. She told the taxi driver she was in a great hurry. She laughed aloud when the taxi scraped a curb turning into her street. Life was glorious, even on the third floor back of drab houses in side streets . . .

A half hour before Tony ran up the steps, skipping every other one, the doorbell had jangled, and Mrs. Higgins answered, to find Lee Moran preening in the entrance.

"Lo Higgins." Lately Lee had adopted an air of careless tolerance toward persons she considered her social inferiors. "It's too early for Miss Brookes, but I'm tired of shopping so I'll run up and wait for her."

Mrs. Higgins was impressed. Lee wore a glittery bracelet which had slipped down over the top of her glove. An expensive perfume assailed Mrs. Higgins' nostrils provokingly.

"Yes, Miss Lee," Mrs. Higgins stepped back with a gesture of offering the complete hospitality of her house. Lee entered. And whether from habit or with intent, she began to rifle through the letters placed conveniently on the hall table where roomers could find their mail. "Quite like old times," she said and hesitated, staring at a white envelope, square and thick, under her hand. "I feel sort of queer, like I was going to faint. Get me a glass of water, will you Higgins, please? I'll sit down till you come with it."

Mrs. Higgins was off into the musky well backstairs to return with a flurry of "Now, dearies" and "There dearies," and with a pudgy dripping hand holding a glass of water to the girl's tight lips.

"I'm better now," Lee's heavily shaded lids fluttered open. She sipped the water. "Here's a scarf I just bought. It's kind of giddy but you don't mind being giddy do you, Mrs. Higgins? Take it and wear it for your best beau. And thanks for the buggy ride."

Mrs. Higgins simpered, "Now you needn't be doin' that dearie, though it's me as says a nice present never comes amiss. Maybe a sniff at the ammonia bottle, or a nip o' gin . . ."

"Don't bother. I'll go up to the room and stretch out for a while. Tony—Miss Brookes will be here any minute now."

Mrs. Higgins thought that for one who had just been threatened with a seizure the Lee girl made surprising speed getting up the stairs.

Tony mounted the steps with the lagging reluctance that bespeaks no joy in the goal. Tom had not written. If he left yesterday morning, and wrote on the train mailing the letter in the afternoon from a roadside station, it should reach her today. Or would it? Suppose he had stopped to think things out, to decide on what would be best to do about Lee? Then he might not write until afternoon, or evening, and the letter would be mailed in the night. She could not receive it until tomorrow. Patience. Be sensible. This love of yours and of his is for all time. Don't prod it. Don't hurry. Allow it to unfold, a petal at a time.

"Surprise!" Lee heard Tony coming up the stairs and stood by the door to greet her. "Wasn't expecting company, what? Well, I'm not company. I'm a beggar, come to beg you to do something for me. Promise me you'll say yes, my dear?"

Tony said, "That depends. I'll try." She hated herself for being such a poor dissembler.

"Then it's good as done. You're to move up to the apartment with me for a few days. I get the willies being there alone so much. Tom's gone on another of his engineering busts and the lawyers have ordered Uncle Lenny to give my nest the go by for this once. We can have a swell time keeping bachelor girl's hall."

"I'm afraid I can't—that is I can't possibly do it, Lee. You see I have to be at work every morning, early, before you think of taking your first stretch. And I have cleanser now every evening."

"Excuse overruled. The maid will have your breakfast—on a tray in bed, imagine—and I won't mind being alone evenings if I know you're coming in. You've got to do it, Tony. I can't stand it alone. I think of all kinds of things. I get the horrors. I'm afraid. With all this mess Clara Leonard's stirring up, for instance. I get thinking about how some people get everything for nothing and how I have to pay, six times over, just for a few of the things I've always wanted."

"You're not the only one who pays," Tony said gently. "I believe most of us do, in one way or another."

"No, it's not that way at all. If you're born to a certain place and you try to step out of it, the devil or whoever it is gets busy to spoil all your fun. Sometimes I think I'd be better off ending it, myself—a nice fall out of a 16-story window." Lee's face was buried in the crook of her arm. Her shoulders moved convulsively.

"Lee!" Tony's arm encircled the twitching shoulders. "What's come over you? I thought you were happy with your nice apartment, lots of beautiful clothes, plenty of money to spend, everything just as you'd planned it. Only cowards talk of ending it all, at their own convenience."

Lee raised her head. Her eyes were swollen. "Oh Tony! I'm scared, and lonely. I can't go on like this."

Tony pressed Lee's bright head to her breast. "Don't worry, dear," she soothed. "I'll go with you for the night. Maybe you'll feel better tomorrow." She owed something to Lee. She had taken Tom. Lee did not know Tom was lost to her. Perhaps Lee was psychic and already felt the chill of parting that would surely wrench her pride and unsettle the security of her future. Tony thought: I must help Lee as much as she will allow me to help her. I can stop by here in the morning for Tom's letter. If I refused to go and Lee did anything tragic, I couldn't bear it. Aloud she said: Come on, old grumblebug. Let's go some place spiffy for dinner. Let us be gay."

COYOTES BEAR DOWN ON THOSE PASSES IN SECRET WORKOUT

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

We came out pretty well in predicting who would win last week, but one of our statements was a boomerang. It was to the effect that Olney would beat Crowell, but that if Crowell could hold Olney to two touchdowns, the Wildcats could return to Foard county and say they won.

Well, the Crowell lads held Olney to exactly two touchdowns, the score being 14 to 0 in favor of Olney.

So according to our calculations, both teams won the game. And there's something wrong about that.

Although all our choices won their games, the margins by which we thought they would win were subject to correction. The Coyotes, for instance, were not three touchdowns better than Electra, but one. Except for this little discrepancy, our reputation is perfect as concerns the prediction of who would win.

We came close enough to the Vernon score to claim an outright bull's-eye hit. We figured the Lions to beat Grandfield 27 to 6. They won 39 to 0. That's close enough for Grantland Rice, himself.

The Quanah boys, however, apparently have no regard for this department's predictions. We still believe they were good enough to win 6 to 0 from Memphis, as we predicted they would. But it looked as if they bottled up and held the score to 18 to 0 just to spite us. We hope to have the opportunity to get even some day. Maybe there will come a time when we cannot conscientiously predict that Quanah will win by even 18 to 0. O destiny, hasten that day!

We claim an outright victory in the Childress-Wellington prediction, which was Childress 18, Wellington 7. The actual score was Childress 12, Wellington 6. Just a matter of being one touchdown off.

The State Champion

Now that Abilene has looked relatively weak in two contests, being defeated by Sweetwater in the first and nosing out a measly 9 to 7 victory over San Angelo last week, it becomes apparent that Dewey Mayhew's Elephants have only a slim chance of repeating as the state champ this year.

The crown may not even be worn by a West Texas team. Sweetwater has the best chance of any team out there, but the Mustangs, if they get into the late stages of the race, are likely to be outclassed either by Corsicana or Masonic Home. The latter, a class B outfit last year, graduated into class A this year. They not only have Scott McCall back, but apparently they have just as strong a team in other respects as they had last year.

A sports scribe on the Foard County News, which we believe is located somewhere within the confines of Crowell, points out in his column that the boys had better remember that Scott McCall is still playing high school football. A number of fans thought McCall graduated last year and that he was enrolled at S. M. U. this year.

The Foard county scribbler, who signs his column "Seeg Nalls," a pretty clever take-off, at that, brings up the McCall reminder in connection with talk up his way that "Rat" Ramsey of Chillicothe is the best backfielder in the state, bar none, class A or B.

Mr. Signals, or "Seeg Nalls," has this comment to make:

"Crowell football fans who saw Chillicothe wallop Childress 26 to 7 at Childress returned with reports of the outstanding power of the Chilli outfit and are still searching for adjectives to describe the all-around ability of one "Rat" Ramsey, quarterback for the Eagles.

"Floyd Thomas, one of the Crowell witnesses, even goes so far as to claim that Ramsey is the best high school backfield man in Texas and is ready to argue his belief in this respect with all comers, as many have already found out. 'Just give Ramsey the support that some of these other high school stars of the state have and you can't equal him,' says Floyd.

"We will admit that Ramsey is the greatest backfield man in this section, class A or B, but—Floyd goes too far, according to our opinion when he ranks "Rat" above McCall of Masonic Home and possibly a few others."

Depression Hits at S. W. Conference Official

DALLAS, Oct. 11. (AP)—The depression has finally struck at football officials.

Bennie Lee Boynton, one of the Southwest's best officials, is the first victim.

Bennie Lee was scheduled to accompany the Southern Methodist Mustangs to Syracuse, N. Y., this week to officiate in the S. M. U. and Syracuse university game. Tonight, he was packed and ready to leave tomorrow at noon.

He packed too soon, for no sooner had he locked his gladstone bag than a telegram was handed him which read:

"Consider it a kind and economy consideration if you will agree to cancellation of your contract to referee here Saturday."

Southern Methodist hasn't scored this season. Syracuse lost Saturday. Crowds go see winners only. So for "economy consideration" Bennie Lee agreed to stay home.

Baylor Cubs Meet Hillsboro Team Today

WACO, Texas, Oct. 11. (AP)—The Baylor university Cubs scrimmaged with the Varsity today in preparation for their game tomorrow with Hillsboro Junior college on the Baylor gridiron. It will be the Cubs' first game of the season.

The Bears may have a light scrimmage tomorrow, leaving afterward for Little Rock, Ark., where they will clash Saturday with the University of Arkansas Razorbacks.

Recruiting Officer to Report to Ship Soon

Thomas Hall, naval recruiting officer here during the past several months, will report to the U. S. S. Augusta, flagship of the Atlantic fleet, late in October, according to word received by him Tuesday from Dallas.

William L. Reynolds, Hall's successor in the post here, arrived in this city last week.

AIR ATTACK GETS BETTER

Quanah C-C Head Accepts Invitation to Game

The chief threat of the Coyotes, a high-powered aerial attack, is receiving considerable attention these days as the Coyotes get ready for the heap big Injuns of Quanah here next Saturday.

The Coyotes may be expected to fill the air with passes against the big Bruising Braves. Coach Jefferies has some of the best heavers and receivers in the district. In case you don't already know, this boy Charlie Hurd has not only cinched a berth on the regular Coyote team, but is no less than a candidate for all-district end. He may be beat out by some of the boys up Quanah and Vernon way, but it will take a mighty good fighter to do it.

Beats Brandon Out

Hurd has already disposed of the veteran Bob Brandon, who in practice sessions Monday and yesterday was moved over to a tackle position. Brandon will be ready to step right back to his old end position if Charlie gives signs of weakening, but so far Hurd is going just as strong as he was in the Electra and Ardmore games.

Hurd is not the only pass receiver of ability. There is Captain Greenwood, a ball snatcher if there ever was one.

On the heaving end, the Coyotes could ask for nothing better than Burns McKinney and Jasper McBride. When Hawthorne is in there he can throw them, too. A number of other backfielders are good both at tossing and getting under passes, but McKinney and Jasper are about the cream of the lot.

The Big Show

Coach Jefferies could not ask for better material with which to bear out his declaration that he would bring a more sensational and more scrapping football team to Wichita Falls this year, and from all indications the Quanah game is going to afford Jefferies and the Coyotes an opportunity to put on perhaps the biggest show of the year.

Jefferies, at the beginning of yesterday's secret workout at Athletic park, announced that he intended selecting a first string team to start against Quanah, and drill that one aggregation extensively. This program, Jefferies said, would be followed the remainder of the week. This should result in a smoother-working Coyote team than was seen against either Ardmore or Electra.

Jefferies did not announce the personnel of the team. It was known that many shifts had been made, but Jefferies was undecided whether the new order of things would prevail long. All of the changes concerned the forward wall, which was nothing to brag about in the Electra debacle.

The workout yesterday, according to Jefferies, opened with a brisk passing attack, included the usual rough stuff in tackling and blocking and finally wound up with a scrimmage.

Quanah'll Be Here

That the boys up Hardeman county way are just as excited about the coming Indian game as Wichitans was indicated yesterday by a telegram received by A. E. Kelly, president of the local chamber of commerce. It was from A. F. Sommer, president of the Quanah Chamber of Commerce, and was an acceptance of Kelly's official invitation to all of Quanah to attend the Coyote-Indian battle.

Mr. Sommer's telegram of acceptance follows:

"A. E. Kelly, president
"Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce

"Your most cordial invitation to enjoy the hospitality of your city and citizenship next Saturday, the day of our most important football game of the season, is accepted with our warmest thanks. We have already packed and are impatiently waiting the time to entrain Saturday morning. Having experienced your warm welcome previously we anticipate with great pleasure another visit and win or lose we know our stay will be a pleasant one.

"A. F. Sommer, president, chamber of commerce."

Reno and Curtis on Mat Card This Week

The junior middleweight wrestling championship tournament will get under way again this week with an all-tournament card scheduled for Govro arena Friday night. Three matches have been carded with all matches to be counted in on the wrestlers' standings for the tournament competition which is now led by Silent Ratan. The card this week will bring together Joe Reno of Italy and Jack Curtis of San Antonio on the main event.

Reno is making the jump all the way from Portland, Ore., for his initial match in the tournament. Reno will be long remembered in Wichita Falls for his sensational matches with Sailor Moran here some time ago when the two battled the full two hours to a draw. Curtis has been stopping all opposition h. recent weeks here and is one of the main favorites with the local fans.

The ancient art of beard pulling should be revived during the 45-minute semifinal with a bang. Sheik Marvalah of Persia and Henry Clausen of the House of David, both proud possessors of beards, tangle in this match.

A special event will bring together Benny Wilson of Tulsa and Otis Hendrick of Shreveport.

Jefferson University Beats Aviators, 37-6

DALLAS, Oct. 11. (AP)—The Jefferson university Rangers retained their undefeated and untied record today with a 37 to 6 victory over the Kelly field fliers of San Antonio. It was the fourth consecutive win for the Rangers. A feature of the game was a 100-yard run by Hammitt of Jefferson in the fourth quarter when he intercepted a Kelly field pass smack on the goal line and raced the entire length of the field for a touchdown in front of a six-man interference.

Jodie White, sensational Jefferson halfback, was checked the first two periods, but broke loose in the fourth quarter for 28 and 21-yard runs for touchdowns. Malone, former Denton High school flash, scored the other two touchdowns for Jefferson.

Kelly field scored in the fourth period when Estes caught a pass from Timberlake and galloped 23 yards for the touchdown, shaking off several Jefferson tacklers. An estimated crowd of 4,000 saw the game.

GRAHAM BEATS ELIASVILLE

Steer B Squad Chalks Up 12 to 6 Victory

GRAHAM, Texas, Oct. 11.—Graham's "B" squad downed the Eliasville regulars 12 to 6 here this afternoon in a game marked with two breath-taking thrills.

In the second period Eliasville abandoned a successful line attack to resort, disastrously, to the air. Stephens of Graham intercepted a pass on his own 20-yard line and behind 10 men forming perfect interference he dashed 80 yards down the field for the first touchdown of the game.

In the fourth quarter Jack Wheeler, Graham back, took the ball in scrimmage on his own 30-yard line and circled right end and galloped for another touchdown.

Eliasville's lone tally was made in the third quarter after a steady march down the field.

Clarendon 'B' Squad Loses, 7-6, To Pamp

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, Oct. 11.—Providing an upset in interscholastic league football circles the Clarendon class B high school eleven held the Pampa Harvesters to a 7-to-6 victory over the local team at Pampa Tuesday afternoon. Both teams were scoreless in the first half.

The Harvesters ran up a total of 16 first downs as compared with 13 firsts amassed by Clarendon. Both elevens completed three out of six forward passes attempted. The Harvesters scored in the third quarter and kicked goal to win the ball game. Clarendon scored in the fourth period with Quarterback Andis crossing the goal line for the six-point score.

Electra Lions Name E. E. Rogers President

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 11.—E. E. Rogers has been selected president of the Electra Lions club to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of C. W. Scheurer, president for several months. Mr. Scheurer and family moved last week to Tulsa, Okla., where he has accepted a position as manager of a hardware store.

Mr. Rogers was the first vice president of the club. He has served as the principal of the Electra High school since 1926-27 and has always taken an active part in civic affairs.

Widow Files Suit for $10,000 War Insurance

Suit for $10,000 war risk insurance allegedly issued by the federal government on the life of Erban Zelotus McKinney, deceased, was filed in federal court here Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Hazel McKinney Black, joined by her husband.

The petition alleges that McKinney contracted a disease while engaged in military service at Camp Pike, Arkansas, and was permanently and wholly disabled from the date of his discharge to the time of his death, July 21, 1919.

The New York Yankees, in winning the American league pennant, gained only one and one-half games on Philadelphia and two on Washington in the period from July 18 to beyond mid-September.

Ray Schalk's Buffalo club of the International league was awarded the official $1,000 prize for being the "best hustling" team in the league.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 11.—The Quanah Indians entered into intensive secret drill Monday for their encounter with the Wichita Falls Coyotes Saturday in Wichita Falls. The coaches found several faults in last Friday's game, and want to test the shifts that have been made in the lineup.

Page, who played end last year, but was started at half this season, has been sent back to end, along with Buddy Mitchell, fullback understudy. This shift, it is thought, will materially strengthen the ends, which up to now have had indications of weakness. The Indians played their first two games this season in lack-luster fashion.

It is expected that Coaches Stallworth and Washam will turn their Indians loose with everything they have Saturday. Every one that survives this week's hard scrimmage will be in fine shape.

The team that takes the field Saturday will be as heavy as any in the district. Following are men and weights:

Estelline Gridder Stars With S. M. U.

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Oct. 11.—A new star burst into the Southwest football firmament Saturday as the Southern Methodist university Mustangs went down to defeat before the sweeping runs of Rice institute's galaxy of great running backs.

Forrest "Whitey" Baccus, sophomore halfback, starting his first college call game, stamped himself as one of the greatest scoring threats ever to wear the Mustang spangles as he passed, punted and ran with the ball to keep his team in the game.

Baccus entered Southern Methodist last fall with a brilliant high school and junior college basket ball record behind him, but was practically unknown on the gridiron until last spring when he asked Coach Ray Morrison for permission to go out for spring training. After watching the former Estelline High school performer for a couple of days Morrison declared the cotton-topped sophomore speed merchant was one of the greatest backfield prospects he had ever seen.

Carefully kept under cover in preconference warmups, Baccus was turned loose against the Owls and kept the Rice defense on its toes all afternoon as he did everything with the ball except make it talk.

The Mustangs' new bid for all-Southwest honors weighs 170 pounds and stands 5 feet 10½ inches in his woolen football sox.

TIGERS GET BACK TO GRIND

Electrans Meet Henrietta, And Then Quanah

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 11.—Coach W. W. Gibson and his staff began Monday putting the Tigers through their paces. The Tigers have a practice game scheduled with Henrietta for Friday night under the arc lights at the Tiger Athletic park. Next week, however, the Tigers will meet the Quanah Indians at Quanah. The other two conference games will be played next month, one with Childress there on Nov. 12 and the final with Vernon on Turkey day.

The Tigers have a lot of fight which certainly came to their aid last Friday night when the Coyotes downed them 7-0. The coaches are ironing out the flaws, improving plays and doing everything possible to have the Tigers ready to scalp the Indians.

Meagher Cuts Rice Squad to 44 Players

HOUSTON, Oct. 11. (AP)—The Rice institute football squad was cut to 44 players under Coach Jack Meagher's orders today, as he sent the Owls through a strenuous workout in preparation for Saturday's game here against Coach Clark Shaukhnessy's Loyola Wolves of New Orleans.

Meigher expressed a belief that Loyola's defeat by Baylor was caused in large measure by Loyola's reported failure to scout Baylor, which won the game with forward passes.

The Rice squad originally numbered 55.

Sooners Drill With Texas Longhorn Plays

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 11. (AP)—Simms and Walker ran at halfback places usually filled by Art and Bill Pansze today as the University of Oklahoma Sooners scrimmaged freshmen using Texas Longhorn plays.

Drill centered principally around the varsity offense with emphasis on new plays for the Texas game Saturday at Dallas.

Stacey, 220-pound tackle and fullback, is expected to be the key man in the Sooner defense.

Dibrell Williams, then a first-year shortstop for the Philadelphia Athletics, set a strikeout record for American league players when he whiffed nine times in the 1931 world's series.

Jack Burnett, "Ole Miss" sprint star and football player, joined Indiana university university this fall.

LIONS PREPARE FOR BOBCATS

Childress Ace Ousted By Eligibility Ruling

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 11.—Testing of the Lion offense against the style of defense Childress is expected to use in the opening district No. 5, class A, interscholastic league football contest between the two teams Friday night at Childress featured the lengthy practice sessions in the Lion camp early this week. The Vernon attack is being prepared for any defense which the Bobcats intend to place on the field Friday night, and drills in tackling and fundamentals are also on the schedule.

Jones May Be Out

Possibility that Tarleton "Too-Tall" Jones, all-district tackle of 1931, may not see service against the Bobcats has cast gloom over the Vernon camp and is a source of worry to the Lion mentors. Jones sustained a wrenched knee, a sprained ankle, and other leg injuries in the fray with Grandfield, Okla., here last Friday which Vernon won 39 to 0, and was not in uniform at the two workouts following the clash with the Oklahomans. It is not known, however, if he will definitely be out of the Vernon lineup when the Weirmen plunge into their initial conference game Friday night.

Only one player was caught in the ineligibility net for the Childress contest. Kermit Ammons, reserve end, will not play this week-end but may be eligible for competition hereafter. These losses are partially offset, however, by the seeming recovery of Jim Caldwell, 209-pound reserve tackle, and R. S. Parr, reserve end. Both have been on the shelf since the week of practice preceding the Duke, Okla., contest, with nose injuries, but have seen a little service in the two games played by the Lions to date this season.

Childress Star Ineligible

However, Childress is having its share of troubles and may be harder hit than the Lions for the nocturnal fray. Vernon Johnson, ace passer and ball-carrier of the Bobcats, has been declared ineligible for further competition in class A football in Texas and will not play Friday night. Overby, possibly the outstanding guard on the Childress eleven, has been out since an arm injury suffered in the Chillicothe tilt, Sept. 30, and may not play against the Lions.

Johnson was declared ineligible by Supt. A. W. Adams of Childress because of participation in a basket ball game last season. Johnson played football in 1928, 29, and 30, but did not play in 1931, and would have been eligible for football this season had he not played basket ball with the Bobcats the 1932 season. Coach Dan Stallworth of Quanah requested the insight on Johnson's records, and Supt. W. T. Lofland, chairman of the executive committee of this football district, at the request, asked a ruling from Roy Henderson, state chairman, at Austin. Henderson's reply was forwarded by Lofland to Adams who then declared Johnson ineligible.

Team Still Powerful

The loss of Johnson is a severe blow to the Bobcat title hopes, but while possibly not as effective now with a passing attack, the Childress aggregation still boasts a powerful running attack featuring off-tackle thrusts by Ratican, Raney, Bradshaw, and Kimbrough. A new kind of defense introduced by H. S. Griffin, head mentor of the Bobcats, is also proving highly effective since the Chillicothe test. The Bobcats are being primed especially for this opening splash of the 1932 season in conference play, not forgetting the 20 to 6 defeat tacked on them by Vernon here last year which blasted the Childress record of being one of the outstanding defensive units in the district, having held Quanah and Wichita Falls each to six points, and Electra to eight.

Neither are the Lion mentors forgetting 1930 when an over-confident Lion eleven, favored by several touchdowns, invaded Childress only to be roundly outplayed and suffer a 13 to 6 setback that started the Vernon team on a not too successful season.

Lion Backs Shifted

An outstanding shift yesterday sent Edwin Garner, diminutive reserve quarterback, to the left halfback position on the regular eleven, although the shift may be only temporary. Garner is the fastest back on the squad in a 50-yard dash, and his teaming with Capt. H. A. Thompson at the right halfback post, district 100 and 220-yard dash champion in 1932, gives the Lions the fleetest combination of halfbacks in the district. In the drills Monday, T. M. Watson at quarterback and Paris Grogan at fullback rounded out the backfield.

The regular line, at the present time, with the exception of the elongated Jones, was in order yesterday with Maney at center; Reed and Taylor at guards; Roy Jones at right tackle; and Hopson and Galloway at ends. Liles, 156-pound reserve, was drilled at left tackle yesterday, but Head Coach W. C. Weir is undecided as yet as to who will be at the position Friday night if Jones is unable to play.

The Lion mentors, Head Coach Weir and Assistants Ralph Binnion, Curtis Beaty, and Bob Dickenson, will take their charges to Childress Wednesday night for a secret workout under the lights in that city.

Roars For Lions

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Columbia university is finding that Ralph Hewitt is not indispensable after all.

When the great Hewitt wound up his football career last year, many supporters of the big New York institution were not certain that the Lions could keep the football renaissance in flower which started to bloom under Coach Lou Little.

In early season games the Lions, however, have disproved this theory, and most active in the work has been Cliff Montgomery, elusive little quarterback who hails from Natrona Heights, Pa.

Cliff last year as a sophomore was overshadowed by Hewitt, but he has shown this year he is enough back for any man's team. In early season games against Middlebury and Lehigh he was a sensation both as a ball-carrier and passer.

Montgomery revealed great ball-carrying possibilities last year, but his passing this season has been a very pleasant surprise indeed to the Lions.

Duane Purvis, Purdue sophomore halfback, was a javelin thrower on the United States Olympic team last summer. He is a younger brother of Jim Purvis, 1931 Boilermaker back.

Besides football, Mike Koken, candidate for Marchmont Schwartz's shoes at Notre Dame, goes in for basket ball, swimming, skating, golf and freight handling.

VERNON BOY STARS ON COLLEGE TEAM

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 11.—Bob Cox, star fullback and captain of the 1928 Vernon High school football team, is making an impressive record with Coach Wallace Wade's Duke university Blue Devils, according to word received here. In the opening game which Duke won 13-0 from Davidson university, Cox was described as the outstanding player of the game by the Durham, N. C., Herald-Sun.

Playing less than a quarter against the Wildcats, Cox scored one of Duke's two touchdowns, accounted for three of the Blue Devils' eight first downs and gained on every play in which he carried the ball. He is at present understudy of Captain Mason at fullback for the Blue Devils.

Cox was an outstanding performer here for two years before going to Wichita Falls and Amarillo Junior colleges. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cox of Vernon.

COACHES LIKE NEW GRID CODE

But 'Dead Ball' Rule Is Criticized

By EDWARD J. NEIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—From the Far West and the South, the Middle West and the East, came the voices of outstanding coaches today, raised in a long cheer for the new rules and the manner in which they have added safeguards to college football against injuries.

Only a few months ago, the master minds shook their heads collectively over amendments to the playing code that bar forceful use of hands on an opponent's head, double the number of substitutions permitted, and stop play automatically when a ball carrier touches a knee to the ground, whether or not he is in contact with the enemy.

Howard Jones' Comment

Only the first of the three came in for any fire today, in response to inquiries by the Associated Press.

"I haven't seen the rule against illegal use of hands enforced yet, but I don't know that there have been any violations," said Howard Jones, head coach at Southern California.

"The new rules are all right. I have no complaint to make. We've lost little ground on the 'dead ball' rule but what of it, if it saves possible injuries?"

Lou Little, director of Columbia's eleven, regards failure of officials to "call" penalties for use of hands on the head and neck as the sole fault which has developed. Little points out many advantages of the rules.

"The new substitute rule, allowing a player to appear in each quarter instead of each half, probably accounts somewhat for the fine showing of small college teams against big ones so far this year," he said.

"Dead" Rule Defended

"The 'dead' rule sometimes works out unfortunately if a runner slips in the clear, but the harm is offset many times by the saving in injuries. Few people realize how many injuries were caused by 'piling on.' Similarly the rule against flying blocks and tackles has done away with a lot of wild diving that cost many injuries. I can't say enough for the new rules."

Other opinions gathered by the Associated Press follow:

Bob Zuppke, Illinois, "The rules look good but I can't say yet about the 'dead ball.' The players are confused some on that, as the defense can't tell exactly if a player has touched his knee to the ground on a fast play."

Dick Hanley, Northwestern: "It seems that officials aren't calling the rule on use of hands. Blockers aren't as effective. They seem afraid to take chances. The substitution rule is fine, and no time is lost."

Players Catching On

Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech: "There is no doubt now when a referee should blow his whistle. The players are catching on quickly. The game is better for player and spectators."

Clyde Littlefield, Texas: "The new rules have proved very successful. So far I have had no injuries."

Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh: "They have worked to the advantage of players and the game itself, but there is plenty of whistle-blowing, and I believe officials themselves are not straightened out yet."

Jackson Cannell, Dartmouth: "The remarkable thing to me is the way the players are helping work out the new rules. In our game Saturday, a Lafayette back slipped as he took a pass from center. He stayed down and not a Dartmouth man touched him."

Frank Cavanaugh, Fordham: "While I don't know how it will last, so far the new rules are splendid."

The magic sweater, No. 34, worn by Frank Carideo, is out of circulation at Notre Dame university.

WOMAN BURNS AS ATONEMENT

Divorcee Who Scarred Her Lover Is Near Death

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11. (INS)—To atone for mutilating her sweetheart's face pretty Eva Mae Powell, 23-year-old divorcee, turned herself into a human torch.

On the verge of death she lay in City hospital here today, burned from her knees to her shoulders. Her body is permanently scarred.

She set herself afire at her home here after saturating her clothing with kerosene. She was saved from death by her mother who smothered the flames with blankets.

Swathed in bandages she declared today she was glad she burned herself—that at last she had done penance for slashing off an ear of Earl Herrington, 25, with a pocket knife in a moment of fury last July.

"I'm paying back," she moaned. "I did this to myself to make up for what I did to Earl's face. Now I'm scarred, too. I had to do something to make him know I was sorry. I've done it. And I'm not sorry."

Herrington already had forgiven her. She appeared in police court Aug. 20 charged with malicious cutting. He asked that prosecution be dropped.

Senate Aspirant Advocates Rolling Dice For Office

GIRARD, Kan., Oct. 11. (UP)—E. Haldeman-Julius, Girard publisher, would like to see the Kansas senatorial race decided by a roll of the dice.

The publisher issued the following statement:

"As Socialist candidate for U. S senator, I want to make the following offer to my opponents, Senator George McGill, Democrat, incumbent, and Ben Paulen, Republican:

"Instead of letting the stupid voters decide on one of the two wrong candidates, let's agree to throw dice, with the winner to be entitled to the seat in the senate.

"The dice are to be thrown according to the latest, approved rules of the Afro-American school of crapshooting.

"By this economical and sensible throw of the dice the nitwit voters stand a chance of getting a real statesman like myself in Washington."

Frank Putnam Assails Teachers' Tax Stand

HOUSTON, Oct. 11. (AP)—Frank Putnam of Houston, who described himself as originator of the homestead tax exemption amendment movement, issued a statement today criticizing the reported action of the executive committee of the Texas State Teachers association in opposing the amendment.

"Texas teachers have no right to assume that the fathers and mothers of Texas are less concerned than themselves for the welfare of Texas children," Putnam said.

"Exemption of $3,000 of the assessed value of homesteads from all ad valorem taxes will make 80 to 90 per cent of all Texas farm and town homes forever safe from confiscation and will lighten the tax burden on the other 10 to 20 per cent.

"Teachers may for a time have to share the general reduction of income, and should be glad to do it, if necessary."

Rio Grande Flood Peril Passes for Valley Area

BROWNSWOOD, Texas, Oct. 11. (AP)—The peak of the Rio Grande flood apparently had passed today and Willacy and Cameron counties settled down to waiting for the overflow to drain off into lowlands.

The river, which started flooding this section two weeks ago, was reported falling at Rio Grande City and was expected to start dropping tomorrow at Hidalgo. The high stage was expected to change little in this vicinity for a week.

Willacy county's situation was improving today as the flood level in Lyford and Sebastian continued to fall and Raymondville, near which the water approached Sunday night, appeared to be out of danger.

The county will continue to have the problem of caring for farmers who were marooned for some time to come, however.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Trade and foreign buying along with short covering lifted cotton prices moderately today. The general market closing barely steady at net advances of 13 to 16 points.

Active months worked about 13 to 18 points above the previous finals but fell back on profit taking. Trade buying continued, however, and after selling off some 8 or 9 points from the best, prices turned firmer.

March sold up to 6.89, with the general list showing net advances of about 18 to 22 points, but closing quotations were a few points off from the best under realizing and southern selling.

Trade buying appeared to be for both domestic and foreign account particularly the latter, and was accompanied by reports of a continued tight spot situation in the South.

The official weather details showed minimum temperatures of 32 degrees or lower, ranging down to 26, at 15 stations in Oklahoma, and light frosts were reported in Northwest Texas.

The New York cotton exchange service estimated consumption of all growths in this country for September at 467,000 bales against 403,000 in August and 464,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11. (AP)—Cotton was comparatively quiet today on the eve of the Columbus day holiday tomorrow, but prices showed an upward tendency from the start on good cables, freezing weather in the western belt and firmness in stocks, and futures closed 13 to 15 points higher.

A private estimate on September domestic mills consumption of 467,000 bales was bullishly construed as it compared with 402,611 the previous month and 464,335 in September last year.

The market opened steady with Liverpool cables coming in 5 to 7 penny points better than due. Private cables said there was trade calling and local buying on strength of British securities and hedging was light. Manchester cabled the home trade was improving and that a fair business with India was pending. First trades here showed gains of 2 to 6 points and prices continued to improve after the start on shorts covering in advance of tomorrow's holiday and on the freezing weather in the West. Before the end of the first hour December traded up to 6.65 and March to 6.78 up 9 to 11 points compared with yesterday's close.

Later in the morning the market again rallied in sympathy with a firmer tone in stocks to show net gains of 13 to 14 points.

The market eased 4 to 5 points in early afternoon but made new highs for the day in the last hour with December at 6.72 and March at 6.88 or 18 to 19 points above the previous close. Prices reacted 3 to 4 points at the end on realizing and December closed at 6.69 and March at 6.84 both months showing net gains for the day of 15 points.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 1 to 2 penny points up.

Port receipts 72,257, for week 152,504, for season 1,942,525, last season 2,158,361. Exports 56,485, for week 125,176, for season 1,464,691, last season 954,117. With cables 8 penny points better than due, the market opened 8@10 points net higher. Trade buying lifted values slightly further in early business with December selling up to 6.76 or 16 points net higher. A slow reaction followed with all three American markets experiencing unusually dull trading. After a 10-point setback, prices turned upward in the afternoon. Light frost occurred over Oklahoma, Western Arkansas and Northwest Texas. The forecast is for rain east of the Mississippi, but clear and cool west of the river.

Cheering Financial News Aids Stocks And Bonds To Reach Better Positions

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (US)—Security prices firmed today. In stocks it appeared that the recent weakness had cleared the market of considerable overhanging weak positions, at least for the time being. This improved technical position coincided with the continued thin market, permitting rallies of one to four points in the majority of issues.

There were several items of cheer from the industrial world and in finance. The net effect of the recovery was to cancel the greatest part of the preceding session's loss.

It was reported, and unofficially confirmed, that the bankers' bond pool had reentered the bond market on a modest scale, and was reaccumulating issues disposed of at higher levels.

Several railroads reported better than expected operating results.

Commercial loans of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in September were reported at $61,-909,000, the smallest monthly total since the corporation's inception; nothing was said of financial loans.

Wheat enjoyed a recovery almost of a full cent and this naturally helped sentiment.

Transactions totaled 1,700,000 shares, against 2,300,000 the previous day.

A good deal of evening-up took place in speculative ranks prior to tomorrow's holiday. The market being extremely thin, even a modest buying wave had immediate reflection in the price level.

Hopes still were entertained of some cheering news to come out of Europe, but the anticipated item apparently had to do with an intra-European arms agreement rather than any momentous financial development.

The bulls were rather hopeful that the speech of the ex-president scheduled for tonight would prove more stimulating marketwise than last week's address of the president. It was evident, however, that no grand hopes were being entertained this time.

Stockholders' approval of the St. Louis-San Francisco railway capital readjustment plan was an encouraging item in the day's news, even though bondholders' assent to the proposed scaling down of capital is more essential. Somewhat over 60 per cent of the bonds have been deposited in approval of the plan.

Various other railroads now being supported mainly by Reconstruction Finance corporation aid presumably will have to pass through capital reorganization. If accomplished by voluntary action among security-holders, such reorganizations need not be greatly disturbing; in fact, properly accomplished they represent the only certain solution of many specific railway company problems.

The Nickel Plate receivership application was rejected, it is stated, in the hope that just such a voluntary plan may be proposed. It is a legal question whether receivership can be forcibly prevented despite default of a maturing obligation, but the Washington authorities are reported working feverishly on some sort of a plan to stay receivership for the railways at least until after election. Eventually, the problem must be faced squarely.

It was officially stated that American Telephone and Telegraph company had lost 90,000 phones during September, but this was much smaller than recent monthly losses. In August more than 200,000 phones were canceled.

Estimates were made that New York Central just about broke even during September, after a long period of monthly deficits. The St. Paul statement was encouraging.

The market rallied from a level representing, roughly, the half-way mark from the summer bottom to the peak of the recently bull rush. There was considerable speculative buying attracted around these levels purely on the theory that from technical considerations alone a rally was "due."

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11. (AP)—Demand was good for wheat, fair for sorghums and light for other offerings on the cash grain market here Tuesday.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to destination.

Delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat; No. 1 hard, according to protein and billing, 55@57c.

Barley—No. 3 nominally 33@33c; No. 3 nominal 31@32c.

Sorghums—No. 2 bright milo per 100 pounds 65@67c; No. 2 bright kaffir 63@65c, both prices nominal.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: Corn No. 2 mixed 39@40c; No. 2 white 42@43c; No. 2 yellow 40@41c, all nominal.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—Stimulated by New York stock market upturns that preceded grain trading, cereals today developed strength after wheat had again outdone low-price records.

Rallies in wheat came after the market went momentarily to more than 6 cents a bushel under the recent higher point. Indications that Winnipeg prices were pegged, and that the rural marketing of spring wheat both north and south of the Canadian boundary was diminishing were effective as bullish factors.

Wheat closed firm at almost the day's top, ⅝@1c above yesterday's finish, corn @⅝c up, oats ⅛@¼c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents lower.

Unfavorable crop reports from Argentina were a contributory influence toward higher wheat prices. Dispatches at hand said locusts were spreading in Santa Fe and Cordoba provinces, and that the visitation was the worst in years. There were also complaints of dry weather in the northern zone, where no rain has fallen since Oct. 5.

Evening-up of accounts so as to prepare for tomorrow's holiday assisted the upward trend.

Confirmation of 150,000 bushels of corn sold for export late yesterday helped to lift corn and oats prices.

Provisions reflected weakness of hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, Dec. 48⅝@⅝c, 50⅝@⅝c; May 53⅝@⅝c, 55⅝@⅝c; July 55⅝c, 57⅝c. Corn: Dec. 26⅝@⅝c, 27⅝@⅝c, May 31⅝c, 32⅝c.

Advice To Investors

By Charles W. Storm—Editor of the "News Service of Wall Street"

D. C. F.—Do you consider Virginia Power Co. first and collateral 5s of 1942 an attractive investment?

Answer—These bonds have been selling recently at 97¼ to yield 5.36 per cent. They are an assumed underlying obligation of the Appalachian Electric Power company, a subsidiary of American Gas & Electric company. Outstanding in the amount of $5,393,000 and secured by a first mortgage on property of former Virginia Power company, including power plant and substation, transmission and distribution lines, water rights and the entire capital stock of Dominion Power Co. underlie $62,525,000 Appalachian Electric Power first and refunding 5s 1956 and appear well secured. Earnings of operating company have been downward recently but coverage for all interest requirements still about 1.9 times. Capitalization and working capital have recently been strengthened and position of funded debt is satisfactory. First collateral 5s, 1942 qualify for conservative investment requirements and appear relatively attractive.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11. (AP)(USDA)—Beef steers and yearlings found a rather slow outlet in the day's trade at steady to 25c lower levels as compared with Monday. Chicago sold best weighty steers up to $9.65 and only a few consignments at various points were of quality to sell at $8.50@9.25. The general bulk of steers and yearlings had to go in a spread of $5.25@8.75. Market offerings of strictly good and choice fed steers continue scarce with the bulk of supply running to short fed kinds. QUANAH PLANS SPECIAL TRAIN

500 to Ride Coaches To Football Game

New features of a busy week-end in a city "gone athletic" were scheduled Tuesday with the announcement that a special train, expected to carry some 500 Quanah fans, will arrive in Wichita Falls at noon Saturday for the homecoming football game between the Coyotes and Quanah Indians.

The 1932 clash of the Indians and Coyotes was scheduled for Quanah but was changed to Wichita Falls at request of Quanah authorities following the 1931 game here when Wichitans joined in a community-wide effort to entertain the visitors.

Quanah Invited to Attend

A telegram signed by President A. E. Kelly of the chamber of commerce, Dr. O. T. Kimbrough of the sports and recreation committee of the chamber, and Supt. H. D. Fillers of the public schools was dispatched to the Quanah Chamber of Commerce and citizenship Tuesday.

The message follows: "All Wichita Falls joins us in extending to you a most hearty and cordial invitation to visit us on Saturday, the day of the big Quanah-Wichita Falls football game. Everything is in readiness to make your visit here one of pleasure and we hope to see the entire city pack up and move down here on this great day."

Chairman H. J. Hughey of the Junior chamber of commerce reception committee and Vice Chairman Kindel Paulk announced Tuesday that plans were under way to provide rest rooms at local hotels for the visiting delegation. Mr. Hughey and Mr. Paulk will meet the special train from Quanah at Iowa Park and welcome the visitors to Wichita Falls.

A supply of 500 stickers reading, "Hop in Quanah," will be distributed at the high school Friday morning for placing on student cars and other Wichitans may obtain the stickers Thursday afternoon at the chamber of commerce offices.

Band to Meet Train

Tom McCarty's high school band will meet the special train from Quanah as will the pep squad of 100 high school girls for a short parade in the business district. A Quanah band will accompany the team and fans for the occasion.

The home-coming game will start at 3 o'clock preceded by dedication ceremonies for the new stadium at 2:15 o'clock in charge of the Kiwanis club. Former high school students will meet at the Junior college cafeteria at noon Saturday for a home-coming gathering.

The Athletic week-end will be launched Friday night with the 1932 edition of "Let's Go Athletic" for which a dress rehearsal has been called for Wednesday night. The show will be a fast-moving review of singing, dancing and comedy as a vehicle for the new school song, "Wichita Forever," and will serve as a city-wide pep rally for a 45-minute period. Following the show high school students will rally at a bonfire at the college practice field.

THEFT TRIAL NEARS CLOSE

Charge Against Merchant Goes to Jury Today

Examination of witnesses in the trial of John Butler of Bridgeport, charged with theft, and receiving and concealing stolen property, was completed before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court late Tuesday afternoon. Attorneys' arguments to the jury will be heard soon after the opening of court at 9 a. m. Wednesday.

Trial of the defendant was extended over almost two complete days. Numerous objections to the state's testimony have been offered by defense attorneys.

The indictment of Butler resulted from his alleged acquisition of 22 sacks of sugar on May 26 out of 33 sacks stolen from a box car in the local railroad yards on the night of May 25, 1932. Capt. W. E. Wyatt, former state ranger, for several years a police captain at Fort Worth, and now special agent for the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company, testified for the state Tuesday morning.

Captain Wyatt told of recovering a number of empty sugar sacks at a site near the Windthorst road south of this city, where prior witnesses had said the stolen sugar was cached immediately after the burglary took place. He told of having gone to Bridgeport, and of arresting the defendant.

Roddie Smith, under indictment along with Lee Byram for boxcar burglary in the case, took the stand to tell of their having gotten the sugar, and of hiding it near the Windthorst road. Butler arrived at the scene about 9 o'clock the next night, Smith said, driving a light commercial car. The defendant loaded 2,200 pounds of sugar into his car and drove away, the witness said.

Under cross-examination, Smith stated that state's attorneys had indicated that a suspended sentence might be obtained for him in consideration of his testimony in the present case.

Butler is represented by M. W. Burch and Grady Woodruff of Decatur, and by J. M. Donald of Bowie.

DATES FIXED FOR CONCERTS

Civic Music Association To Present Artists

Nov. 28, Jan. 10 and Feb. 10 have been selected as the dates for presentation of three concerts to be given here during the ensuing winter season under the auspices of the North Texas Civic Music association, according to information obtained Tuesday from Mrs. Walter Robbins, secretary.

Selection of the artists to be heard on the Wichita Falls concerts is now being made by a secret committee, and will be announced within a short time, Mrs. Robbins said. Programs brought to this city by the association will be presented in the auditorium of the Wichita Falls Junior college building.

The campaign by which this district qualified for membership in the Civic Music association, a national organization, was staged last spring under the direction of Harry Hines and Mrs. Robbins. Membership cards which entitle the owners to admission to all association concerts here or elsewhere were sold at that time. Such cards are sold only once during the year, that during the few days designated for the annual campaign.

Amarillo, Dallas, Fort Worth and Tyler already have booked imposing series of concerts for the winter through the Civic Music association.
