FROM LAND SALE

Did Nixon Net Huge Profit?

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — A Miami attorney representing President Nixon said today he "couldn't verify one way or the other" a report that Nixon made $100,000 profit on the sale of two canal-front lots near his Florida home.

Thomas H. Wakefield, a lawyer who has represented Nixon in previous land dealings on the booming tropical island, said the sale price was $150,000.

The Miami Herald reported in today's editions that Nixon bought the property in 1967 and 1971, paying $30,000 for one piece and $23,100 for a second.

Wagfield said he had "no way of knowing" if the Herald figures, based on calculations of documentary tax stamps, was accurate.

In Washington, there was no immediate comment from the White House.

Wagefield said the property was sold to Yonkers, N.Y., attorney William E. Griffin Jr., A personal acquaintance of the president's.

Griffin reportedly has been considering building a home on the land located near the entrance to Cape Florida State Park. Nixon's closely guarded villa is about 12 blocks to the northwest.

Griffin said he was undecided what to do with the property, adding, "We may build a permanent residence there."

Wakefield and Nixon's close friend, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, witnessed sale papers Wakefield said were signed by the President "sometime last week."

The attorney filed the sales document in Dade County Circuit Court Thursday making the transaction final.

Nixon bought the two parcels of land from a company headed by Donald Berg, a developer who built homes in the Cape Florida section of the island the Herald reported.

Wakefield said he represented Nixon when the President several years ago bought the bayfront compound which he often visits. Records show Nixon bought the home Dec. 19, 1968, for $100,000 on a 25-year mortgage.

The island has undergone a building boom in recent years with a number of large condominiums and new homes being constructed.

Suicide Rate Up: No One To Talk To

Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES — More teenagers than ever before are becoming convinced the only way they can solve their problems is by taking their own lives.

Suicide has become the fourth largest cause of death among teen-agers, according to a psychiatrist here, and has increased almost 100 per cent this last year.

Dr. Joseph Teicher, a psychiatrist at the los Angeles County-University of Southern California Medical Center, says no apparent reason can be offered for this huge increase.

Teicher and a three-man team have been working for nearly 10 years on the problem of teenage suicides. No real theory has developed from the years of study, although there has been much speculation, Teicher says.

Usual reasons for suicides which have been cited in the past are valid, he said. These include alienation from family, peer pressure and drugs.

LONERS

However, what has emerged most startingly among all cases he has studied, Teicher said, is that most teen-agers who attempt suicide are "loners."

They literally have no one they can talk to about their problems, he said, and, usually, they do realize they have problems.

"A first suicide attempt," he said, "can never be dismissed as an impulsive act, the result of a temporary upset independent of the attempter's usual life pattern or an insincere gesture."

Suicide has been well thought out in advance, he said, and is considered the only viable alternative to the continuation of their problems.

What type of problem can a teen-ager have to drive him to suicide?

"One of the cardinal features seems to be the loss of all meaningful relationships," Teicher said. "The family is first and then the peer group."

Usually, the suicide-prone will make one last "convulsive" attempt to develop an intense relationship with someone.

"They frantically latch on to somebody," he said, "and almost smother them with their need.

BLACK SEPTEMBER GROUP LEAVES

Thai Officials Avoid Repeat Of Massacre

CAIRO (AP) — Determined to avoid another Munich, Thai officials argued four Black September members into leaving the Israeli Embassy in Bangkok today, freeing their hostages and then flying to Cairo.

When the Thai plane touched down after a 4,800-mile flight, the four commandos emerged smiling. They were taken to a police car that drove off. They were not handcuffed.

Accompanying them on the flight, broken only by a refueling stop in Pakistan, were 10 Thai officials and the Egyptian ambassador to Thailand, Mustafa el Essaway. They came along to guarantee the four terrorists' safety.

"Munich was terrible so we tried our best to avoid another one," said Dawee Chutlasapya, the Thai air chief marshal. He was the highest-ranking official aboard the plane.

The Arabs had threatened Thursday to kill six Israeli hostages and blow up the embassy unless Israel freed 36 Palestinians held in prison.

The embassy siege lasted 19 hours.

"I had Munich in mind as I negotiated with them," Chutlasapya told reporters. "So I decided not to use violence."

He was referring to the Black September massacre of 11 Israeli sportsmen at the Olympics in Munich.

Chutlasapya had negotiated with the Arabs Thursday and early today before the commandos agreed to free their hostages and leave for Cairo.

The Thais will fly back to Bangkok Saturday.

A group of Egyptian officials and officers stood around the passenger ramp. A representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization said he did not know if Egyptian authorities would turn over the four commandos to him.

Egyptian newspapers hailed the Arabs' action. One columnist said their act proved their spirit "to fight has not faded away despite all attempts to liquidate the Palestinian movement."

The commandos began their attempt Thursday when they walked into the Israeli Embassy, some in formal attire.

The Arabs gave up after negotiating all night with the Egyptian ambassador to Thailand, high-ranking Thai officials and leaders of the million-strong Moslem community in Thailand.

Ruth Hadass, a hostage along with her husband, Nitzan, the embassy's first secretary, clutched a wine glass and danced as she shouted in Hebrew, "I didn't know it was so good to be alive."

Premier Golda Meir and the Israeli government expressed "deep admiration and gratitude to the government of Thailand" for its handling of the matter. A Cabinet statement praised the Thai government for "active vigilance and supreme responsibility."

The four Arabs and the 36 terrorists whose release they sought were all members of Black September, the Palestinian organization responsible for the slaying of 11 Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics and the massacre at Israel's international airport last May. It is financed by the oil-rich Libyan government.

The four Arabs invaded the Israeli embassy Thursday while the King of Thailand's only son, Prince Vajiralongkorn, was being invested as crown prince at a ceremony in Parliament House.

Ex-DPS Man Taken Following Robbery

AMARILLO (AP) — A former Department of Public Safety agent was held today under charges of robbing the North Side State Bank Thursday.

The man, Duane Thomas Osborne, 22, was arraigned late Thursday night before a federal magistrate and held under $50,000 bond.

Safety Department records at Austin show Osborne was assessed a 10-year probated sentence after holding up a finance company last January. The holdup netted $232.

A car in which the robber is believed to have escaped was found abandoned under strange circumstances. It had $1,000 in cash under the front seat and $170 and a .22-caliber pistol in the glove compartment.

The bank loss was estimated at about $2,000.

The robbery was at a drive-in window at which Mrs. Mary Williamson, 30, was the teller.

The robber who wore a ski mask, fled in a car with Ohio license tags which were stolen earlier officers said.

A security guard said he fired two shots at the getaway car and believed he hit the robber, but there was no blood in the car. Osborne was not wounded.

About $8,000 was taken in a robbery of the bank July 1, 1971.

Ratliff Antes Up $12,500 Payment

AUSTIN (AP) — Travis County probation officials said today that former state Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford has made a payment of $12,500, half the restitution he must make to the state for his Nov. 1 conviction of theft.

The second $12,500 payment is due before Feb. 1, said Jim Rust, the probation officer handling Ratliff's case.

Ratliff was given 90 days after his conviction to make restitution to the state of funds alleged taken from the state. He was convicted specifically of theft of a state warrant of $512 that had been issued to one of Ratliff's legislative employes but not cashed by that person. He also received a 10-year probated sentence.

Rust said Ratliff has been reporting to the adult probation officer for Taylor County at Abilene for supervision. Rust will receive a monthly report on Ratliff's activities as long as he is under probation.

Rust said the reports show that Ratliff is now employed. The probation officer said he could not disclose where Ratliff was now working.

Ratliff also must pay $10 monthly, a fee for his probation supervision.

Some Insist There's No Need To Relocate City

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Experts from the United States began a study today of the feasibility of rebuilding earthquake-shattered Managua on its present site.

Teams of geologists and seismologists arrived from the United States Thursday as specialists from Mexico and Venezuela announced preliminary findings.

Demolition crews were still dynamiting and bulldozing in the downtown area next to Lake Managua, clearing it of damaged structures and the rubble of buildings and homes that were flattened in seconds by the severe quake early Saturday. An estimated 2,000-5,000 persons were killed and 20,000 seriously injured.

Although Managua has been hit twice in 40 years by murderous earthquakes, a group of Mexican experts led by Dr. Cinna Lomnitz reported to Nicaraguan authorities that there was no need to relocate their capital city.

"Most of the city is located no hard volcanic tuff—solid stuff," said Lomitz, director of the Department of Seismology at the University of Mexico. "Its subsoil is sounder than that of Mexico City, for instance."

He said the damage was so great because the epicenter of the quake was right underneath the city.

"It was like a direct hit by a bomb," he explained.

The Mexican experts suggested that the damaged area be turned into a park or "greep zone."

An estimated 15,000 persons were still roaming the city center despite its designation as an "emergency" or "contaminated" area and orders to evacuate it. Shooting was heard Thursday as national guard patrols tried to drive off looters, but it appeared that mostly they were shooting over their heads. Unofficial reports said only 32 persons had been treated for bullet wounds since Saturday. There were rumors of looters being killed, but no confirmed reports.

Criticism Mounting Against Bombing

By The Associated Press

Worldwide protests mounted today against renewed U.S. bombing of North Vietnam ordered by President Nixon after secret peace talks collapsed in Paris.

In China, Premier Chou En-lai was reported to have said that the bombing "certainly" would have an adverse affect on relations with the United States.

"The United States government should stop the bombing," he told Washington Post reporter Marilyn Berger. "I hope you will convey my answer to the American people."

DEMOS PROTEST

Stirrings of protest were also evident in the U.S. Congress, where 18 House Democrats said they were seeking a special session of the Democratic National Committee to organize a national campaign of public opposition to the bombing, now in its 12th day.

And a Republican senator from Ohio said in an interview that he was dropping his support of Nixon's war policies because of the chief executive's "arrogance and irresponsibility."

Sen. William B. Saxbe told the Cleveland Plain Dealer, "I have followed President Nixon through all his convolutions and specious arguments, but he appears to have lost his senses on this."

A member of the Senate Armed Service Committee, Saxbe predicted, "He is going to have all kinds of trouble. He has asked no support, and he'll not get it."

In London, Roy Jenkins, former deputy leader of Britain's opposition Labor party, has appealed to Prime Minister Edward Heath to speak out against the bombing, saying it was "one of the most cold-blooded actions in recent history."

DEBATE LOOMS

At the United Nations, a Vietnam debate was being considered by a loose organization of 60 nonaligned nations. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim received an appeal from Sweden's five main political parties to seek an end to the bombing.

Elsewhere, about 40 Korean War veterans from western Canada said they would return their war service medals as a protest against the bombing and against what they described as Canada's failure to cease supplying the United States with war materials.

In Australia, the Seamens Union said it had told Nixon in a telegram of a decision to provide no tugs for U.S. ships seeking to berth in or depart from the country's ports.

About 80 demonstrators in Wellington, New Zealand, gathered outside the U.S. embassy today, lowered the American flag and burned it.

In Rome, Premier Giulio Andreotti's office, which had previously been silent on the matter, announced that Foreign Minister Giuseppe Medici had been instructed to ask that the bombing be stopped and that peace negotiations be resumed.

On the horizon were demonstrations in Washington on Inauguration Day Jan. 21. They were announced earlier by various peace groups.

Youth Undergoes Surgery After Attending Funeral

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Frank Estes undergoes surgery on his broken wrist today a few hours after funeral services for both his parents, who were killed when the bus that was taking them to a New Mexico religious retreat collided with a truck.

Estes, 19, sustained fractures of a hand and wrist in the collision that killed his father, Jerry Estes, 41, and mother, Gloria Estes, 42.

Jerry Estes was driver of the bus that hit a jackknifed cattle truck Tuesday night on a narrow bridge 11 miles east of Fort Sumner, N.M. Nineteen persons were killed. The group was en route to a religious retreat at Vadito, N.M.

Services were held at 10 a.m. in San Antonio, where the couple moved a month ago, for Mr. and Mrs. Estes. He was an employe of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Frank Estes' surgery was scheduled for 1 p.m. A hospital spokesman said he would not attend the funeral.

Young Estes, both arms in casts, arrived here with six other injured passengers of the bus Thursday night aboard a private plane from Clovis, N.M. He was able to walk off the plane and smilingly embraced several women who ran up to him.

He said he did not know how long he was unconscious after the collision.

"I woke up inside. I had been sitting in the back of the bus and when I woke up, I was lying up in the front," he said. "I remember getting out by myself. I really didn't know what was going on. I kept passing out."

Estes said he plans to enter the University of Texas at Austin and study sociology. He said he wants to remain in Austin and become a youth director for a church.

Not Everyone In Elite Billionaire Brigade Is A Recluse

LONDON (AP) — While Howard Hughes stayed locked in his London hotel fortress today, two fellow members of the Billionaire Brigade were pouring champagne to greet the New year.

"I believe in living as full a life as anybody else," said J. Paul Getty, reputedly richer than Hughes the recluse.

With Getty at Sutton Place south of London was another tycoon who leads the good life, shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, husband of the former Jacqueline Kennedy.

Onnassis arrived unannounced Thursday from Paris and went straight to Getty's mansion in Surrey. His visit, following quickly on Hughes' sudden arrival from Nicaragua, brought speculation that big deals might be in the making.

But aides insisted it was strictly a social call, Getty and Onassis are personal friends from way back.

Getty broke away from his house party to talk about his philosophy of living with riches at the age of 80.

"I'd have like you to come down and see me here but the house is full of guests and I haven't a minute to spare," he said. "So let's talk on the telephone."

Getty said his one big dislike is being photographed. Most of his pictures come out long-faced, giving rise to the widespread belief in London that despite his wealth he isn't really happy.

"I'm always told to pose," he said. "The result is that I come out looking sad on pictures."

"I'm not sad."

Another thing he doesn't like is being thought of as a big walking bundle of greenbacks.

"I've other interests," he said.

"Collecting works of art is one of my main hobbies. And I love going to the theater. As for television, I watch it like anyone else if the program is good."

Asked whether he was afraid in this violent age of anything happening to him, Getty replied:

"I take my chance like anyone else. I don't like to lock myself up and I like meeting people."

Getty conceded he was missing the open beaches and the sea of his native California.

"I love walking in the sand and swimming. I have a swimming pool right here," he said.

His parting words were: "I wish you a happy New Year."

EXPENSIVE BEEF — A Safeway store worker examines a few of the more than 4,000 quarters of beef in the huge Safeway distribution center in a Seattle, Wash., suburb (Bellevue). The center supplies supermarkets throughout the Puget Sound area. Beef prices rose for a few days recently as much as 50 cents per pound in the northwestern states.

Beef Prices Could Be Boosted Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail beef prices declined in November for the fourth straight month, but increased markups by middlemen kept prices from falling even more, the Agriculture Department reported today.

One analyst warned that beef prices could start increasing again because prices for live cattle jumped sharply late in the month.

The Agriculture Department's monthly "market basket" report showed that the average retail price for all beef was $1.12-3.10 per pound in November, a decline of one-half cent from October and five cents below the record high prices of July.

LOWEST POINT

The "farm value" of beef declined 11.9 cents since July to its lowest point in nearly two years and 5.1 per cent below the farm value a year earlier.

But the department said the middleman charges in the same period rose 5.9 cents and were up by 26.6 per cent from a year earlier.

According to the analysis, if middlemen had passed along the entire decline in the farm value of beef, the price decline to the consumer would have more than doubled.

The department said total middleman charges in November averaged a record 45.7 cents per pound, which was the difference between the amount the consumer paid and the farmer's share of the supermarket price.

The so-called farm value last month was 26.6 cents, the lowest since January, 1971, when it was 60.4 cents. That is not the price farmers get for live cattle because it takes nearly 2.3 pounds of steer on the hoof to make one pound of supermarket beef. It is, however, the cattle producer's share of what housewives spend on a pound of beef.

The USDA report supplemented one issued last week by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which said retail beef prices for "selected cuts" rose slightly in November.

OVER MONTH

But the USDA statistics are gathered over the entire month while the BLS uses retail information collected during the first week of each month.

Neither report, however, took into consideration the increases in live cattle prices since mid-November because it takes several weeks before changes in the animal market are fully felt in the consumer pipeline.

At one time last month, according to USDA, live cattle prices at the important Midwest markets were averaging about $32 per 100 pounds liveweight.

Since the brief downturn, markets have climbed steadily. Choice-grade steers at Omaha, Neb., recently were bringing close to the $40 peaks of last summer.

A big question now is whether middlemen will use their record-wide margins to absorb the higher costs of cattle and carcass beef or increase their charges to maintain the spreads acording to one analyst.

Heating Oil Deliveries Are Cut By 30 Per Cent

HOUSTON (AP) — A 30 per cent across-the-board reduction in heating oil deliveries to jobbers in its northeast, Atlantic Coast and southeast marketing areas has been announced by Tenneco Inc.

The Houston-based firm also said that jobbers in about 20 states in the same areas have been notified that the firm will be unable to make any kerosine deliveries during the first quarter of 1973.

A spokesman said Thursday the cutback is effective until further notice.

The spokesman said the curtailments result from a shortage of crude oil supplies for Tenneco's only refinery at Chalmette, La.

He said the refinery has a capacity of 90,000 barrels a day and the January crude oil runs are expected to be about 70,000.

"We have had offers out everywhere for crude but have been unable to find additional supplies that are compatible with the refinery's facilities," he said.

"We have notified heating oil jobbers we are cutting them back 70 per cent of their normal take. We don't know how long the needed crude oil will be in short supply, so the cutback is effective until further notice."

Several factors in addition to the crude oil shortage were involved in the halting of kerosine deliveries, he said.

"Most jobbers have more than one source of supply and it appears some suppliers must have made cutbacks at an earlier date, thereby causing Tenneco's jobber customers to lean more heavily on us and deplete our stocks," the spokesman said.

He said Tenneco's October kerosine sales were about 40 per cent above what had been projected and November sales were 10 per cent above.

"What kerosine we can produce at this time is needed for blending into heating oil output to meet the low pollution standards now required for such fuel oils," he said.

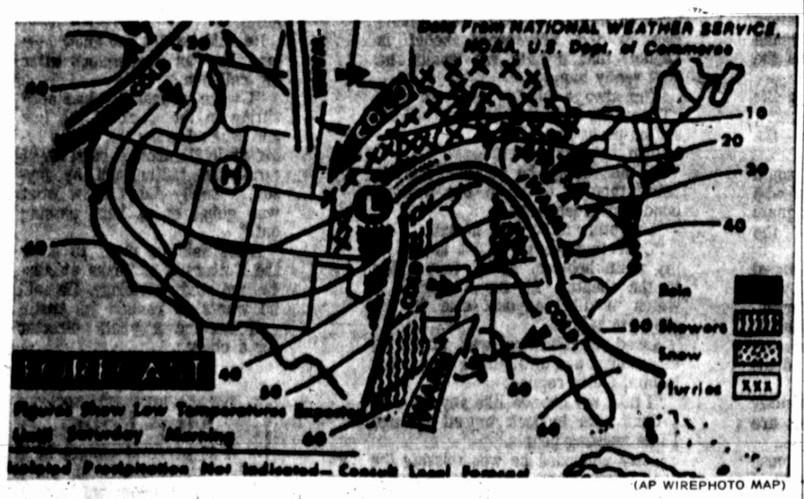

Efforts have been made without success to find other sources of supply for the jobbers, the spokesman said.

DEATHS

R. V. Middleton Dies Thursday

R. V. MIDDLETON

Robert V. Middleton, 76, retired senior vice president of the First National Bank, died in a hospital here at 5:00 p.m. Thursday after a long illness. He had been in banking for 54 years at the time of his retirement, when the bank honored him with the title of inactive vice president.

His funeral will be 10 a.m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian church with his pastor, the Rev. R. Earl Price, officiating. Burial will be in the Masonic section of Mount Olive Cemetery under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

He began his career as a cowboy but embarked on the wave of the future when he became a mechanical posting machine operator when most banks still depended on the old hand-written Boston ledger.

THROUGH RANKS

Mr. Middleton rose through the ranks from check-sorter to poster, to teller, cashier to assistant vice president and senior vice president. He had been active in civic affairs and was one of the founders of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. He also was a charter member of the local post of the American Legion and had a 50-year continuous membership pin.

Born May 5, 1896 in Haskell, he was a baby when his father, J. W. Middleton died. His mother, who was expecting her third child, took him and an older sister to Pecos, where relatives lived. It was there that he got work with ranchers to help his widowed mother. In 1914, however, he struck out on his own and came to Big Spring. After a couple of years as a cowboy, he decided he wanted to try for a different career. The late Will P. Edwards, head of the old West Texas National Bank, staked him to a course in the new-fangled Burroughs posting machine at a business college in Waco. But when he got back, he had out-foxed himself — the West Texas National had no posting machine. He worked for a month catching freight car numbers for the T&P, then took a temporary job operating a posting machine for a new bank in Lamesa, then returned here when there was an opening at the bank.

IN CAVALRY

When World War I came along, Mr. Middleton joined the cavalry, but when he was discharged, the bank positions were filled, so he worked for a month at the T&P until there was an opening Sept. 1, 1919. A few years later the bank got a posting machine, and suddenly, he was the bookkeeper. From there he was made teller, then cashier before the West Texas and the First National combined in 1933 as First National. Soon he was made a loan officer.

He was a founding director of the rodeo association, a charter member of the Big Spring Elks Club, a member and life-time elder of the First Presbyterian Church, a founder of the Big Spring Country Club, a director of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association. For 12 years he had been a director of the Howard County Farm Bureau chapter. He also was treasurer of the Howard County Fair Association.

Mr. Middleton was a member of Staked Plains Masonic lodge 598, of Chapter 178 RAM, Council 117 R&SM, Commandry 31 Knights Templar; Order of Eastern Star 68, Big Spring Shrine Club and Suez Shrine Temple.

He was married here to Louise Wheeldon June 16, 1922, and she survives him as do a son, Harry Middleton, and a daughter, Mrs. Charles Buckner, both of Big Spring, five grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mrs. Charles Read, Coahoma, is a niece.

Trash Haulers Get Holiday

Already one day behind from a day off Christmas, city trash truck crews also will forego their regular run New Year's Day for a holiday.

Employes at City Hall report that the telephone calls this week about trash have been many.

However, department officials point out that "Christmas is the trashiest time of year at local residences. "All of a sudden everybody throws away Christmas trees, wrappings, cartons, packages that the merchandise arrived in and more than usual the number of cans and bottles."

Trash departments traditionally play catch-up for a couple weeks after the holidays until they can get remnants of the holiday out of sight until next season.

Although there will be no trash runs Monday, the crews will attempt to double up to pick up all of the city's trash next week.

Friends Start Campaign To Cheer Soviet Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet leaders, marking today the 50th anniversary of the formation of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, are targets of another anniversary observance they hadn't looked for.

Today is also the 30th birthday of Vladimir Bukovsky, a writer dangerously ill in Vladimir Prison, where he is serving the first phase of a 12-year sentence for circulating material "aimed at undermining and weakening Soviet power." He is one of many intellectuals subjected to a harsh official crackdown.

GREETINGS

Sympathizers outside the Soviet Union organized a campaign to send birthday greetings to Bukovsky at the prison. Hundreds of cards have been sent from Amsterdam, where the campaign originated, and the idea has spread to other countries, including the United States.

Bukovsky's friends also have disclosed that the University of Leyden in the Netherlands has just offered him the opportunity to study there free of financial obligation—if he can get out of prison. A copy of the invitation has been sent to Leonid I. Brezhnev, head of the Soviet Communist party, and President Nikolai Podgorny.

"The University Council took their decision in the firm belief that you should be afforded this opportunity on humanitarian grounds," said the invitation to Bukovsky. "The financial implication as well as the necessary formalities of your entry into this country should in no way be the cause of worry on your part. Certain financial guarantees and a permit of stay are now being arranged."

But Bukovsky's chances of accepting are slim. Soviet officialdom is particularly angry with him for having used underground resources to circulate and publicize the Soviet practice of sending political dissenters to lunatic asylums. That happened to Bukovsky himself.

ONLY 19

Bukovsky was 19 when he first ran afoul of the regime. He was denounced by the Young Communist League and its press for what he had been writing. His first arrest came in 1965, when he was sent to an asylum. Two years later he was arrested again for circulating a typewritten journal called Phoenix to which many young writers contributed. He drew three years in prison that time. He was arrested again in March 1971, and last January he was tried and drew the maximum sentence: seven years in prison and five more in exile to a remote area.

Bukovsky's mother has just told a friend in the United States by telephone that he is suffering from rheumatism in all his joints and she fears the effect on his heart, since he has a history of heart ailment. He is scheduled to be transferred from Vladimir Prison in March to a concentration camp.

CBS Technicians Return To Work After Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Television and radio technicians were returning to work at the Columbia Broadcasting System today after voting narrowly to accept a new contract and end their eight-week-old strike.

Picket lines set up by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at CBS facilities here and in six other cities were taken down within an hour after the 561-509 vote was announced Thursday.

Details of the pact were not announced, but the union reportedly made concessions on several key negotiating issues involving jurisdiction over operation of new electronic devices and automation.

Arthur Korff, a spokesman for the union, said, "I'm unhappy with the company's inroad in this agreement into work that heretofore had been performed by IBEW technicians." He declined to elaborate.

Frank Stanton, CBS vice chairman, said in a statement that the agreement provides "a fair solution of the issues and makes possible the return of the good relationship with CBS and the union have had for many years."

Korff, who is business manager for IBEW's Local 1212 here, said the contract was for three years and provided a 5.5 per cent wage increase in each of the three years.

The strike, which began Nov. 3 when about 1,200 cameramen, technicians and engineers walked off the job, was fundamentally over the jurisdictional and automation issues.

Stanton said in his statement that the pact "provides for practical solutions to the issues which caused the strike, namely those dealing with new technologies and electronic news gathering for television."

The union reportedly agreed that under certain conditions personnel other than technicians may feed instructions and information to a computer involved in the operation of a broadcast facility.

In return, CBS agreed to disclose its automation plans at the earliest possible date and increased benefits for technicians who voluntarily retire or are laid off due to future automation.

Priority Plan Is Upcoming

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission probably will issue an order in the first two weeks of January setting priorities for natural gas use when supplies must be curtailed, an official of the agency said today.

Walter Wendlandt, head of the gas utilities division, said he and commission legal counsel Fred Young conferred with the commission last Thursday.

"I expect an order in the first two weeks of January," Wendlandt said.

He and Young conducted a day-long hearing on gas curtailments Nov. 30.

Wendlandt said he and Young made recommendations to the three-man commission on the matter but declined to say what they were.

"There's no use speculating what they might or might not do," Wendlandt said.

Some witnesses at the hearing opposed the idea of a single statewide standard that would dictate the order in which gas supplies would be cut back during curtailments.

Others said home users, schools and hospitals should be the last to lose their gas.

French Avalanche Fatal To Pair

NICE, France (AP) — Two French mountain soldiers were killed today and five seriously injured in an avalanche on an Alpine slope, authorities reported.

Fifteen soldiers were caught by the snow slide near the village of Isola. Eight managed to struggle free and five were pulled out by rescuers.

The avalanche was believed to have been caused by the relatively mild weather in the southern French Alps. The soldiers were on a patrol exercise when the avalanche occurred.

C-City Housing Unites Delayed

COLORADO CITY — Dennis Walding, executive director of the Colorado City Housing Authority, said Thursday that construction of 26 new units of low-cost housing will be postponed until sometime in January.

Earlier in December, Walding and Jake Merritt, head of the Housing Authority, appeared before the Colorado City Council to report that proposals were being studied and that a target date of Jan. 1 was set for beginning of construction.

Expected cost of the 26 units will be $444,000. Representatives of the Housing Authority plan to meet with Housing and Urban Development officials in Dallas in early January to complete plans for the development.

Roger Staubach Gets Call To Direct Cowboy Attack

DALLAS (AP) — Reckless Roger Staubach, Dallas scrambling quarterback, will be at the helm Sunday when the Cowboys collide with Washington for the National Football Conference championship.

Coach Tom Landry, citing Staubach's dazzling performance against San Francisco last week, tapped the former Heisman Trophy winner Thursday to start in place of Craig Morton.

"Our decision was made primarily on Roger's performance against the 49ers, Landry told a news conference after Thursday's practice session.

"We feel that even though Craig has done a tremendous job all year for us and put us in the playoffs, we just feel that Roger's great performance against the 49ers pulled us really out of defeat and made it possible for us to go into this game."

Staubach, out most of the season with a shoulder separation, hurled two touchdown passes within a span of 38 seconds in the final quarter to propel Dallas to a 30-28 victory.

He entered the contest late in the third period with the Cowboys trailing 28-13 and on the verge of apparent defeat.

"We want to win this game and we have to make a decision based on what we think is best for this moment," Landry said in explaining his decision.

The coach of the defending Super Bowl champions stressed that Morton was not being demoted to No. 2 status, that his decision to go with Staubach was made "only for this particular game."

Morton quarterbacked the Cowboys against the Redskins twice this season. Dallas lost the first game but won the second.

Staubach captured the hearts of Cowboy fans with his scrambling runs last year as he guided Dallas to the Super Bowl and a 24-3 triumph over Miami. He was voted the game's most valuable player.

"It's all whether you pick the fellow who put you in the playoffs (Morton) or whether you take the fellow responsible for you being in this game (the NFC title game).

"It's a big decision to make. I think either of them can win for us. I'll just pick the one I think is right for the situation for everybody concerned."

Staubach lost the starting berth during the exhibition season when he suffered a shoulder separation. Morton took over and led the Cowboys to a 10-4 record and into the playoffs.

Although heavily booed at times by Dallas fans, Morton defeated Staubach in balloting for the most popular Cowboy by the team's followers.

Morton, who sat out Super Bowl VI last year, said before Landry's decision that no matter which way it went, "I've been there before."

He added:

"I guess there will always be a controversy as long as Roger and I are on the same team. But I said before the season began it would take two quarterbacks to get us into the playoffs."

'We'll Beat Miami,' Says Steeler QB

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "We'll beat the Miami Dolphins," Terry Bradshaw said a glucose tube dangling from his left arm at Divine Providence Hospital.

"Miami's a heck of a team, but there's no reason they should beat the Pittsburgh Steelers."

That kind of confidence abounds in Pittsburgh and Steeler players already talk of their trip to the Super Bowl. The Dolphins 15-0 record seems to scare nobody.

With Bradshaw, the Pittsburgh quarterback, there's nothing but victorious thoughts even though he was flattened temporarily Thursday by a 24-hour virus.

"I'll be ready by game time, you can bet on it," he said. "I'll rest and get stronger here in the hospital and will have a lot of time to think about Miami."

The Dolphins, champions of the Eastern Division, meet Central Division king Pittsburgh Sunday for the American Football Conference title at Three Rivers Stadium.

Miami's squad flies into town today for final preparations before the two National Football League powers fight it out for a spot in Super Bowl VII.

"I'll tell you about Miami's defense," said Bradshaw, adjusting his huge eyeglasses. "They're terribly quick. But, I'm sure we can move the ball . . . and put some points on the board.

Pretty, brown-haired Melissa Bradshaw was again beginning to share her quarterback husbands confidence. It had been a rough day, though.

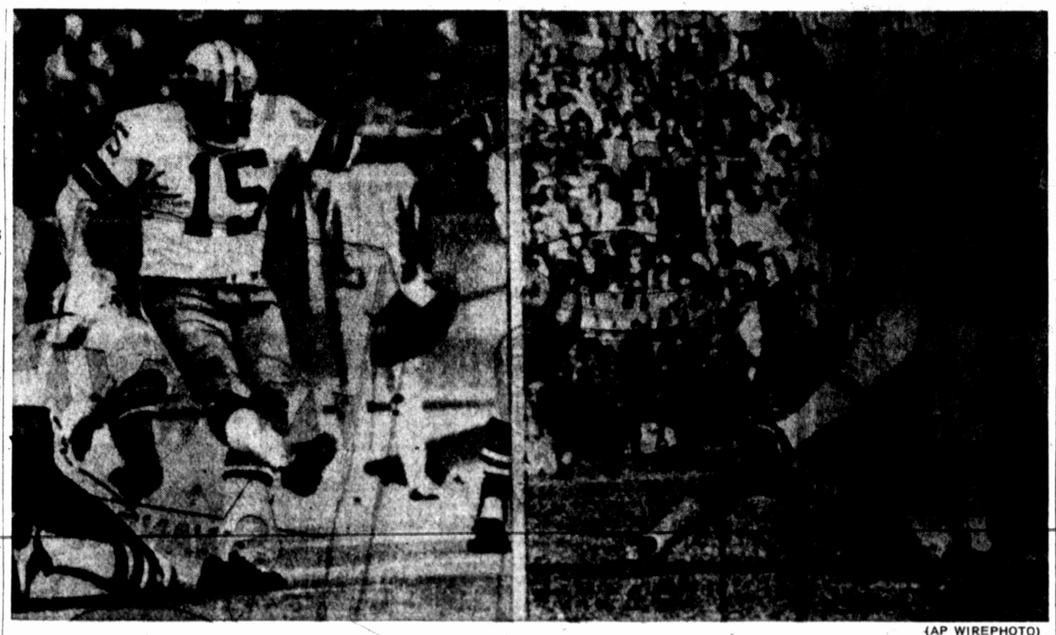

"I've never seen anybody as sick as Terry was at 3 o'clock in the morning," she said. "I was terrified.

Bradshaw said he "spent the whole night in the bathroom, sicker than a dog." Then, at a.m., Melissa called the Steelers' trainer.

Terry was in the hospital by noon.

"I'm not missing a thing," he said, adjusting the I.V. jug that swayed above his head. "Wednesday was O-Day (offense, and I got in all my work. Thursday is D-Day (defense), and they didn't need me, anyway.

Three years ago, Bradshaw was drafted No. 1 out of Louisiana Tech and received a bruising introduction to pro football on a 1-13 Steeler team.

Landry's Choice No Concern To Allen

WASHINGTON (AP) "If you do the right things on defense, anybody can be playing quarterback and it won't much matter, Washington coach George Allen said.

Allen said Thursday he believed his Redskins would be facing Craig Morton Sunday in the game to decide the National Conference's entry into Super Bowl VII—but he figured wrong.

A few hours after the Redskins finished their closed workout, the Dallas Cowboys announced they would go with quarterback Roger Staubach in the game at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

The fact that Staubach, more of a threat to run, would start in place of Morton, prone to stay in the pocket, didn't concern the Redskins' coach.

"We are not preparing differently for either of them," Allen said.

Allen, who sprung a five-man front line on Green Bay to negate the Packers running game, also said he didn't expect any surprises from the Dallas defense.

"We've plaed them twice this year and we pretty much know what they've got," he said. "It's just a matter of dealing with it."

Washington defensive tackle Bill Brundige didn't share his coach's lack of concern over Staubach's selection.

"I'd rather be facing Mor- Brundige said. "Staubach's more of a scrambler and I just don't like to run too much. We have to play more spread out to try and contain him. And we really can't use that five-man line as effectively against him.

Morton, who took over Dallas signal calling when Staubach suffered a preseason injury, directed the Cowboys to a 10-4 record, one game back of Washington in the East Division, and into the playoffs with the NFCs wildcard berth.

But it was Staubach who got Dallas past San Francisco and into Sunday's game. He replaced Morton in the fourth quarter last Saturday and, trailing by 16 points, brought the Cowboys within range of a Toni Fritsch field goal, then passed for two touchdowns to beat the 49ers, 30-28.

REDSKINS QUARTERBACK—Washington Redskins quarterback Billy Kilmer looks skyward as he takes a breather during a workout at the Redskins' training camp in Reston, Va. The Redskins are preparing for Sunday's clash with the Dallas Cowboys for the National Football Conference championship. The winner of Sunday's game will meet the winner of the Pittsburgh-Miami game in the Super Bowl Jan. 14.

'Skins, Miami Draw Nods In Title Tilts

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Feeling about as secure as an opposing quarterback wearing Mean Joe Greene as a necklace, it looks to me like a Washington vs. Miami matchup in Super Bowl VII.

Then, it could be Pittsburgh vs. Dallas. Or the Redskins against the Steelers. Maybe even the Cowboys and the Dolphins in a Super Bowl rematch.

Nope, I'm going ahead with it. Here are Sunday's uncertainties:

Miami 17, Pittsburgh 13—It stacks up as a defensive earthshaker with the Dolphins having a sliver of an edge in the running game.

Now don't go calling out Franco's Italian Army. Rookie Harris is sensational, probably equal to Miami strongboy runner Larry Csonka. But, the edge might be the wide stuff of Mercury Morris.

If it comes down to a war of field goals, the thing could go into overtime since the feet of Miami's Garo Yepremian and the Steelers' Roy Gerela seem perfectly matched.

Redskins 28, Cowboys 21: Dallas' defense isn't the Doomsday gang any more and Washington's over-the-hill troops know this may, for some, be the last shot at the big bonanza.

The quarterbacks, Bill Kilmer of Washington and the Cowboys' Roger Staubach, are dead even in passing ability and courage. Thus, the edge comes from the incredible running of Lawrence Brown.

COWBOYS-REDSKINS

Kickers Could Be Contest's Difference

DALLAS (AP) — National Football League coaches will tell you that it takes a good kicking game to get into the playoffs, which may be one reason the defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys are still "kicking."

Squat Toni Fritsch, a 5 for 7 187-pound former soccer star in Austria, could be the difference for Dallas Sunday in the National Conference title game against Washington if a field goal or onside kick decides it.

Fritsch kicked three field goals, three extra points and out-foxed San Francisco with a unique onside kick in Dallas' 30-28 victory last Saturday.

With the 49ers leading 28-23 and a little more than a minute remaining, Fritsch stepped across the ball with his left foot and kicked it with his right foot behind his left ankle. The 49ers couldn't corral the ball and Dallas' Mel Renfro recovered to set up the winning touchdown.

"I have worked on this for many years in soccer," Fritsch says. "I have used it in warm-up to help me relax. I showed it to Bobby Franklin (Cowboy kicking team (coach) and he said he would try it some time.

"I think it was important, no? I think it was the game."

Fritsch joined Dallas at training camp in 1971. He beat out Mike Clark then pulled a hamstring muscle.

This year he beat out Clark again.

Fritsch kicked a club record 21 field goals, including a 54-yarder against the New York Giants, longest in Dallas' history.

"Every time I am on the field," says Fritsch, "I say, 'I am the best.' You cannot make every kick, but you must believe you can. If you don't think so, better you should stay home."

With Fritsch's kicking, that's exactly what the Cowboys hope they do to the Redskins.

SAINTS' RECEIVER

Parks, Mecom Engage In Verbal Battle

ABILENE, Tex. (APz — Abilene resident Dave Parks, embroiled in a verbal battle with New Orleans Saints owner John Mecom Jr., said here Thursday that he had fulfilled his contract obligations with the Saints.

In the same breath Parks declared that it is the Saints that have not lived up to their end of the deal.

"Theres not really all that much to say, mused Parks of the present situation. "I have fulfilled my obligations and they haven't"

"Right now Ive got one 'new car with no title and the contract clearly states three new cars with the titles, Parks declared.

Parks added that he doesn't want to get into a running verbal battle with Mecom, "but when he (Mecom) starts coming out with all this other stuff it's something else."

The former high school All Stater and star at Texas Tech was referring to Mecoms saying Wednesday night that he got Parks "out of a $90,000 land deal and he didn't loose a dime in the deal.

"Theyve never helped me get in or out of any land deal, retorted Parks. "Ive nver been involved in any $90,000 land deal.

Mecom took a few other shorts at Parks in the Wednesday news release.

"...Parks back We are looking for me and football players, and he doesnt fill the bill. To which Parks replied; "Since Im not a man and not a football player, it shouldnt be hard to get away from the Saints.

QUAKER CITY CLASSIC

LaSalle Clips NM State, 76-70

By The Associated Press

The Skyman is the latest colorful personality to gain national prominence in college basketball.

The Skyman is the nickname for Jim Crawford, 6-foot-5 senior co-captain for the LaSalle College Explorers of Philadelphia.

Crawford, who gained his nickname because of extraordinary leaping ability, was LaSalle's most valuable player last season but his prowess was little noted because of LaSalle's dismal 6-19 won-lost record.

That picture was changed Thursday night as Crawford threw in a career high of 30 points to lead LaSalle to a 76-70 victory over New Mexico State in the semifinals of the Quaker City Classic. The victory, on the heels of LaSalle's 77-72 first round victory over Southern California Wednesday, was the Explorers' seventh against two defeats.

"That's as well as I've ever played," commented the usually taciturn Crawford who grabbed 10 rebounds and made 11 straight shots in getting his 30 points.

LaSalle now goes against its city rival, St. Joseph's, in the Quaker City final Saturday. The Hawks advanced by beating Duquesne 76-71.

St. John's of New York and South Carolina, on the comeback trail like LaSalle, gained the Saturday afternoon final of the Holiday Festival in New York. St. John's upset Michigan 85-83 on Bill Schaeffer's last second jump shot and the Gamecocks whipped Manhatan 79-69 as 7-foot Danny Traylor put on an awesome first half show of 21 points, 11 rebounds and five blocked shots.

None of the Top Ten in the Associated Press rankings saw action but No. 15 Indiana edged No. 13 Houston 75-72 in the Sun Bowl, No. 12 Florida State tripped Penn State 70-60 and No.14 Brigham Young shaded Texas A&M 83-81 in the All-College.

In the Big Eight, No. 16 Kansas State tripped Kansas 91-70 and No. 19 Oklahoma went overtime to down Oklahoma State 69-62.

Oklahoma State threw a scare into unbeaten Oklahoma, but went down as Tom Holland scored seven points in the overtime that erased a four-point lead by the Aggies.

"I think the 30-second clock definitely influenced the game," said Sooner Coach John MacLeod. "Otherwise I'm sure they would have gone to a delay game after they got the lead in the OT."

Elsewhere Nevada-Las Vegas won the Vegas Holiday by beating Arizona 65-64 on Bob Florence's last second basket and East Tennessee took the Tangerine Bowl, 80-58 over Stetson.

National champion UCLA goes for its 52nd straight victory tonight against Drake in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

Far West Classic

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State, turning in its top performance of the season, bombed Baylor 88-54 Thursday night and joined Wyoming, Oregon and fifth-ranked Minnesota in the semifinals of the 17th annual Far West Classic basketball tournament.

OSU collected its fifth straight victory by shooting better than 60 per cent from the floor until the closing minutes, when Coach Ralph Miller went to his bench.

The Beavers, now 6-2, wound up hitting 50 per cent in advancing to tonight's semifinals against a Wyoming team that held on in the final seconds to edge Texas Christian 54-53.

Minnesota, unbeaten in seven games, will go against Oregon (6-2) in the other evening clash. Both earned quarterfinal victories as the four-day holiday tourney opened Wednesday night.

Miller's Beavers shut out Baylor for almost 5½ minutes in one stretch as they built a 14-point halftime lead and then blew the game open after intermission.

Oregon State center Neal Jurgenson led all scorers with 22 points.

Wyoming had 27 turnovers in the first game. The Cowboys, now 5-2, built a 13-point lead early in the second half only to see TCU rally and tie the score 51-51 with 2:15 left.

Ron Crowell, a 6-foot-1 junior guard, gave the Cowboys the winning basket with 1:12 to go, stealing a TCU pass and driving in for a layup.

Crowell scored 15 of his game-high 21 points in the second half. For TCU, which shot only 29 per cent from the field, 6-7 freshman Lynn Royal scored 16 points. He had what would have been a game-winning basket in the final second but was whistled for a foul that nullified the score.

TCU and Baylor and Columbia and Washington State were matched in afternoon consolation games.

Joe Barnes Makes Tech Offense Tick

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — North Carolina's 16th-ranked Tar Heels rate a three-point favorite for Saturday's nationally televised Sun Bowl clash with unranked Texas Tech which hasn't won a bowl game in 19 years and lost six out of its last seven tries here.

Both Tech Coach Jim Carlen and Tar Heel Coach Bill Dooley have predicted a ground-oriented physical contest scheduled for an 11 a.m. MST kickoff before a sellout crowd of 30,000 fans.

The Atlantic Coast Conference champion Tar Heels got the favorite's nod in the 38th Sun Bowl because of a 10-1 season record marred only by a loss to Rose Bowl-bound Ohio State.

Tech finished with an 8-3 record good for a second-place tied behind Cotton Bowl-bound Texas in the Southwest Conference.

Joe Barnes, the gifted Tech quarterback, jelled the Red Raider offense this year with his scrambling runs, and accurate passes. Besides McCutchen and Hoskins, Barnes can call on James Mosley and George Smith to carry the ball.

Dooley says "Barnes is the key to their offense, an exceptional athlete."

Although the Sun Bowl has been something of a jinx to Tech, it hasn't bothered the Red Raider players.

"It doesn't bug me because I didn't play in any of them," Barnes says.

"Without injuries we could have won the Southwest Conference," Carlen says.

Tech defensive tackle Tim Schaffner has been sidelined with an injury and tailback Doug McCutchen is questionable. Backs Jim Garner and Cliff Hoskins are nursing injuries.

Slick junior quarterbacks are the key to both offenses.

Quarterback Nick Vidnovic is a triple threat star for the Tar Heels. He can run, pass and punt.

"Vidnovic doesn't look very good doing it but the guy really gets the job done, particularly with the play action passes," Carlen says.

North Carolina also can unveil three excellent tailbacks headed by Ike Oglesby. The others are Sammy Johnson and Billy Hite.

Each team boasts a player with All-American credentials.

Ron Rusnak of North Carolina was a first team Associated Press pick at offensive guard while Texas Tech noseguard Donald Rives, who has overcome a knee injury, was on the second team.

Both clubs are grind-it-out clubs which causes both coaches to predict a violent war in the trenches.

"It will be physical," Carlen says. "But I can tell you this. We've got a better team than the one which lost to Georgia here in 1970."

Tech lost 7-6 to the Bulldogs to add to the Red Raider reputation of being big losers in the Sun Bowl. That's something they'll try to cure Saturday morning.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

WATCHING HIS LINE WORK—Oklahoma coach Chuck Fairbanks watches his offensive line mix it up during a practice session for the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans. His second ranked Sooners will take on fifth-ranked Penn State New Years Evt.

Red Raiders Try To Snap Sun Jinx

EL PASO (AP) — When it comes to showdowns in El Paso, probably only country and western singer Marty Robbins has fared worse than Texas Tech. And even that isn't immune to debate.

Robbins got his in Rosa's Cantina, but he only was shot once, in his song "El Paso."

The Raiders, on the other hand, have been in Sun Bowl shootouts seven times and were punctured six. Whatever advantage Tech holds seems to stem from the fact they keep getting to go back.

Saturday, against North Carolina's ninth-ranked Tar Heels, the Raiders will be attempting to pull on the second slipper of what already has been something of a Cinderella season.

Ranked well into the second division by post season seers, Tech rode the wings of a powerful running game and an improved aerial attack to an 8-3 ledger that lists among its bounty the bowl bid, a second-place Southwest Conference finish and the league's total offensive championship. And the surprise of the entire picture focuses on that last element.

A year ago, Tech's offense went totally impotent and a team pegged for contender's heights toppled with it.

This year, with a nifty-footed junior from Big Lake at the throttle and an entire stable of hard-running backs, the Raiders sipped past Utah and New Mexico in their first two outings, were slowed only momentarily by a 25-20 loss to Texas—which they outgained in yardage — and then reeled off five straight wins before injuries began taking a toll both in the starting lineup and at the scoreboard.

In addition to Joe Barnes, whose passing and running gave a new dimension to Tech's multiple offense, veteran Doug McCutchen, junior college transfer George Smith and sophomore Cliff Hoskins all had exceptional seasons at the tailback spot.

McCutchen was injured needing only 59 yards to equal Donny Anderson's all-time Tech career rushing mark of 2,280 yards. And, despite going out midway through the first quarter of the Baylor game, the Bronte Bruiser clicked off 606 yards in 138 carries for the season.

Smith, a junior, paced the Raider rushers with 740 yards and Hoskins, who replaced McCutchen in the Baylor game and responded with a 204-yard output for the afternoon, gained 435 yards for the season. Smith averaged a dazzling 6.90 per carry and Hoskins — who launched his varsity career by zipping 79 yards for a touchdown on his first carry of the season — wound up with a 6.7 mean.

All told, Tech's tailback position accounted for 1,881 yards during the season. With McCutchen still hobbled by his knee injury, Smith and Hoskins will be carrying most of the load against North Carolina.

Injuries could remain the same factor against the Tar Heels as they were during the latter stages of the season, when the Raiders lost to TCU and Arkansas, two of their last three opponents.

Tim Schaffner, a 235-pound tackle, went out against the Horned Frogs, McCutchen wound up his regular season against Baylor and Donald Rives — Tech's second-team all-American noseguard — and linebacker Tom Ryan both were slowed drastically by battered legs.

Rivers has not worked out since the Raiders began bowl preparations, but is expected to play against North Carolina. Ryan has been determined fully recovered.

Schaffner, however, won't likely see any action and McCutchen, if he plays, will be restricted to limited duty.

"The thing that concerns me most," says Raider grid boss Jim Carlen, "is the size and strength North Carolina has.

BORGER TOURNAMENT

Steers Shade Dumas Demons

BORGER — Orlando Olaque came off the bench and scored 13 points as the Big Spring Steers held off a fourth quarter rally by the Dumas Demons to claim a 76-71 win in the opening round of the sixth annual Borger Invitational Basketball Tournament here Thursday night.

Big Spring led most of the way in the tight, hard-fought contest; however, the Demons, sparked by the 18-point effort of Johnny Parker, rallied in the final period in an attempt to salvage a win.

The Steers, now 10-7 for the season, were led in the scoring column by Kevin Miller's 16 points; however, the performance of Olaque in the second half ensured the victory.

In other first-round games, Hereford blasted Spearman 88-40, Perryton shaded Duncan, Okla., 62-56 and host Borger crushed Venon 89-59.

In the semifinal contests tonight, Hereford will clash with Perryton at 7 p.m. and the Steers collide with Borger at 8:30 p.m. The finals are set for 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

In the losers' bracket, Spearman will face Duncan, Okla., at 2:30 p.m. today and Vernon will meet Dumas at 4 p.m.

Alabama Looking For First Win Over Royal, Longhorns

DALLAS (AP) — Alabama coach Paul "Bear" Bryant says he's "kind of ashamed" that he's never beaten Darrell Royal in the three times their football teams have met.

But he chuckled, he expects little change when the Crimson Tide tackles Texas New Year's Day in the Cotton Bowl.

"I know who's going to win," quipped Bryant. "He is." Royal's response was the equivalent of "horse feathers."

"I tell you what—hell—we haven't played but three times, and we had one tie. That's nothing. You make it sound like it's a one-sided deal," said Royal.

"There's nothing one-sided about that thing."

The light hearted sparring match came via telephone Thursday on the eve of their departure for Dallas. Both teams are to arrive here tonight.

"Actually," said Bryant, "we've had good games."

"We've had hellacious ball games," replied Royal. "It's just been a matter of inches the three times we've played. The balance between winning and losing has been tissue paper thin."

The fourt-ranked Alabamans rule as seven-point favorites over No. 7 Texas in a contest billed as the battle of the Wishbone offenses.

The most celebrated Texas triumph came in the 1965 Orange Bowl game when the Longhorns trimmed Alabama and Joe Namath 21-17. The teams battled to a 3-3 ties in the 1960 Bluebonnet Bowl.

In the only other meeting between the two coaches, Royal's Longhorns whipped Bryant's 1957 Texas A&M club 9-7.

"I think he ought to let up on me," drawled Bryant.

Royal disclosed that his Steers, who normally view the pass as an unnecessary evil, may make more liberal use of the airways against Alabama.

"I don't think we've got enough muscle to go out there and stay on the ground all the time," he said, then added: "But I don't think we've got enough passing to go out there and make that a major part of our offense.

"We're just going to have to sprinkle a few in there," he decided.

On the other hand, Royal called the Crimson Tide "the best passing Wishbone team I've ever seen."

The two swapped quips in a pyschological duel in which both suggested that the other's team was virtually invincible.

"I don't think they have a weakness," Royal concluded.

Bryant countered: "I don't think Texas has a weakness . . . their secondary will know your head off . . . and that quarterback, Alan Lowry, all he can do is win."

Three Set For Shrine Induction

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP — M.A. "Catfish Smith of Waco, Randall Clay of San Antonio and John Munn of Amarillo will be installed Jan. 7 inthe 15th annual Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame.

The ceremony will be held at 2 p.m. in the Amarillo College gymnasium.

Smith coached Carey to the state basketball championship in 1937 when all schools competed under one class. Carey, seven miles northwest of Childress, had less than 100 pupils then.

His feat is ranked as the greatest coaching achievement in the history of the Amarillo area.

Smith also had great coaching records at Mount Vernon High School, Longview High School and East Texas State College.

Smith is now executive vice president of the Baylor Bear Club and head of the promotion department of the Baylor University Athletic Department.

Clay gained all-state honors in football and basketball at Pampa High School and won the state discus throw in 1945-46. He was an important member of the University of Texas football team in 1947-48-49.

Clay played with the New York Giants. He is now an official in the Southwest Conference.

Munn, ranked as the greatest golfer ever raised in the Amarillo area, shot a 14-under-par 58 at the Wolflin Course in Amarillo. He won more than 100 tournaments and went from 1942 through 1950 without losing a match.

ASTRO-BLUEBONNET BOWL

Good Workouts Scare Coach

HOUSTON (AP) — Tenth ranked Louisiana State has had excellent workouts throughout its preparations for Saturday's 14th Astro-Bluiebonnet Bowl matchup against 11th ranked Tennessee—all of which scares LSU Coach Charlie McClendon to death.

"Things are just going too good, fellas," McClendon said after Thursday's next-to-last workout before Saturday's 6:30 p.m. kickoff in the Astrodome. "And that scares me."

"The thing I want to make sure of is that we don't play it (the game) too early. We don't want to get ready too soon. We want to play at 6:30 Saturday night."

The Tigers are preparing for this bowl game just like all the others, McClendon said, with one possible exception.

"I think maybe the players are trying to prove something," McClendon said. "I hope they are."

The Bengals, ranked No. 1 in the nation in one pre-season poll, completed a 9-1-1 season but lost to Alabama 35-21 and tailed off in their last three games.

The Tigers' high-octane offense, engineered by quarterback Bert Jones, didn't score touchdown in the last two games, winning one and tying the other on field goals.

"You bet I'm concerned about not scoring any touchdowns in the last two games, but let's give our opponents some of the credit," McClendon said.

McClendon didn't promise a high scoring game against the Volunteers. "I think you're going to see two of the quickest defensive clubs you've seen in a long time," he said.

The Volunteers are rated a slight favorite in the battle of the Southeastern Conference powers partly on their outstanding defensive unit, led by linebacker Jamie Rotella.

McClendon said he'd be watching very closely the first five minutes of the game.

"I'm always concerned with the first five minutes of a game and the first five minutes after the half," McClendon said. "That usually tells you what to expect. If we can hold our own until then, I feel we've settled down."

Tennessee Coach Bill Battle said his offense would do what the situation called for when asked if he planned more passing against the Tivers.

"I'd like to think we can be reasonably balanced," Battle said.

"That No. 79 (defensive tackle John Wood) is one guy we'll have to overcome," Battle said. "They have a sound defense."

Battle said that LSU quarterback Bert Jones, a likely first round draft pick in the pro draft, would be the man they'd have to stop to win.

"You'd have to say Bert Jones is the man to stop," Battle said. "They don't have just one running back though. They've got both (Chris Dantin and Brad Davis)."

LSUs offense is geared around Jones, who holds 20 LSU passing records and tied another. Dantin and Davis, a sophomore, are the leading rushers.

Tennessee is led by sophomore quarterback Coldredge Holloway and junior tailback Haskel Stanback.

Both teams planned final brief workouts in the Dome today.

Tough Going For Indiana

It's tough going for the champion Indiana Pacers in the American Basketball Association these nights.

They suffered their fifth straight loss Thursday night as they fell before the Carolina Cougars 120-106 and dropped three games behind the first place Utah Stars in the ABA West.

The Stars enjoyed a 128-9 romp over the New York Nets as Glen Combs and Willie Wise combined for 50 points. The Virginia Squires beat the Dallas Chaparrals 124-117 in the other ABA game scheduled.

Lamesa In Finals Of Tournament

LAMESA — The Golden Tornadoes won two games and moved into the finals of their own tournament here Thursday.

Lamesa clipped Pecos 62-55 in the first round of tournament play and then came back later in the evening to whip Kermit 59-42 in the semifinals.

Lamesa will face the winner of the Levelland-Fort Stockton clash in the finals at 8 p.m. tonight.

Harry McCurley ledd the Tors with 19 points against Pecos and his brother Kent led against Kermit with 24. In another first round game, Kermit downed Colorado City 79-69 with Pat Stidham connecting for 26 points.

Levelland racked Brownfield 75-49 and Fort Stockton defeated San Angelo Lake View 71-44.

In a consolation game Thursday night, Pecos ripped Colorado City 92-82.

The consolation finals are set for 3:30 p.m. today and the third-place game begins at 6:30 p.m.

PEACH, TANGERINE BOWLS

Bowl Weekend Gets Underway

By The Associated Press

A wild weekend of bowling—football style—gets underway tonight with two post-season college classics.

The Peach Bowl at Atlanta, Ga., matches 18th-ranked West Virginia against North Carolina State. Meanwhile, at the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla., Kent State faces Tampa.

There are four games Saturday, including the East-West Shrine Game at San Francisco. North Carolina, ranked No. 16, plays Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. In the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., No. 6 Auburn goes up against Colorado, ranked 13th, and the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston has No. 11 Tennessee facing No. 10 Louisiana State.

The weekend winds up with the Big Four bowls—the best-known of the post-season action. That starts Sunday night with second-ranked Oklahoma meeting No .5 Penn State in the New Year's Eve Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans. On New Year's Day, Monday, the Cotton Bowl at Dallas matches No. 4 Alabam a and seventh-rated Texas, while top-ranked Southern California collides with No. 3 Ohio State in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., and Nebraska, No. 9, meets No. 12 Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

Defense was the item that most concerned the four coaches as they completed preparations for tonight's two games.

"Whoever does the best job of stopping the other will be the winner," said Lou Holtz, coach of North Carolina State, as the Wolfpack, 7-3-1, readied to meet West Virginia in the Peach Bowl.

Both teams compiled impressive offensive records during the regular season with West Virginia slightly ahead statisically. The Mountaineers, 8-3, averaged 36.5 points per game and gained an average of 411 yards with quarterback Bernie Galiffa at the controls. Galiffa passed for 16 touchdowns and 2,312 yards during the regular season and ranked fifth in the nation in total offense with 227.8 yards per game.

North Carolina State averaged 432 yards and 32.7 points per game but two of the Wolfpack's key performers, quarterback Bruce Shaw and running back Stan Fritts, were nursing injuries and were listed as doubtful starters. Shaw passed for 1,708 yards and nine touchdowns while Fritts ran for 689 yards and 17 TDs.

Don James, Kent State's coach, figured his 6-4-1 team would need a superior effort to knock off 9-2 Tampa in the Tangerine Bowl. "Flawless football," was what James thought Kent State would require.

Texas Tech, readying for Saturday's Sun Bowl clash with 16th ranked North Carolina, figures there will be some heavy hitting in that encounter.

Tech, unranked in the last Associated Press poll, could crack the Top Twenty by knocking off the Tar Heels. Another game that should have a direct bearing on the rankings is the Astro-Bluebonnet showdown Saturday night. Tennessee, ranked 11th with a 9-2 record going in, faces the team directly ahead of it in the poll, No. 10 Louisiana State with a 9-1-1 season log.

Mexico Prefers Family Planning To Controls

Copley News Service

MEXICO CITY — Mexico is going to try to defuse its population explosion with a play on words.

There will be no "birth control," states Dr. Jorge Jimenex Cantu, minister of public health.

Instead, there will be "family planning."

The difference in terminology seems important to government officials. In fact, it could determine the success or failure of the campaign.

Learning family planning will not be easy. The high level of illiteracy and the lack of modern communications, even though both have been much improved in the last five years or so, will make it difficult to get the message over to millions of persons in rural areas or on the bottom rungs of the urban masses.

"We will have mobile units," explains Dr. Jimenex Cantu, "and there will be a coordinated effort between the Social Security hospitals and clinics, the ISSTE (a hospital system for government workers), and the health department."

TO TAKE TIME

Yet reaching down in the social scale to the least prepared and most needing masses will take time. Still, as Mexicans say, "corre la voz," the word will fly.

Mexico has been long resistant to any government-sponsored program to limit family size. If it has now found an acceptable formula, there is hope. The population now stands at about 50 million, and is expected to reach 100 million people by the end of the century.

Much of this country's present problems — insufficient money for schools, jobs, hospitals, for example — directly relate to the throat-grabbing weight of a 3.5 per cent increase in population.

Public and private health facilities pour in new births. The same improvements in health have extended life.

"Birth control" may be acceptable to North Americans, Canadians, the French, or Indians of India. Not so in Mexico. The word "control" meant interference with private decision to most Mexicans.

Various groups, including one subsidized by funds of the Rockefeller Foundation, have operated birth control or family planning clinics in Mexico in the last five to 10 years. Many times they have been under attack by the local press and some politicians. And there has never been any official government recognition of the problem.

As far back as the early 1960s, a small group of eminent medical specialists boiled down population statistics and presented them along with some suggestions to then president, Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

"GO AHEAD"

Lopez Mateos quickly said, "Go ahead on your own, gentlemen — but I cannot give you any direct support nor publicily discuss the problem."

Gynecologists, educators, sociologists and economists have been grappling with the facts of life here without official backing ever since.

It is ironic that in the prestigious Hospital de la Mujer (women's hospital), courses in advanced methods of inhibiting conception are being taught to doctors who come on scholarships from all over the world.

At this same hospital, part of the Social Security system, some instruction is offered to women who patently need help. Some women from the lowest economic and cultural strata have as many as a dozen live children. And have aborted more than once.

The bidding:

2 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠ South could have salvaged his four heart contract by employing an unorthodox, yet nevertheless simple safety play in today's hand.

West opened the jack of spades, the queen was played from dummy and East won the trick with the ace. The latter shifted to a trump thru the declarer and West proceeded to play three rounds of hearts, cashing the queen and ace and then exiting with the eight. The defensive book was in.

South was able to discard his losing club on the king of spades, however, in the end he was obliged to rely on the diamond finesse to make his contract, and when it failed—he went down to defeat.

Declarer overlooked the play that would have assured him of 10 tricks. By ducking the opening lead, he can prevent East from getting in to make the heart shift. Observe that West cannot lead hearts profitably himself, and declarer, therefore, has time to ruff out his losing club. A diamond discard on dummy's spades can be developed at declarer's own choosing.

Suppose that after winning the first trick with the jack of spades, West shifts to a club. North puts up the ace and leads the king of spades. East covers with the ace and South ruffs. The king of clubs is cashed and the nine is ruffed with the five of hearts. A trump is led and West is given his two heart tricks. When trumps are finally drawn, declarer crosses over to the king of diamonds and discards his diamond loser on the queen of spades.

His losses on the deal consist of one spade trick and two hearts. Observe that it does not avail East to overtake the jack of spades at trick one if South does not cover from dummy, for by so doing East will establish two discards in that suit for his opponent.

Cottonseed Is Good Sub

COLLEGE STATION — Recent cold weather has boosted livestock feeding across Texas, and producers are now faced with paying a high price for a major protein supplement, cottonseed meal.

What are the alternatives?

Dr. Dennis Herd, beef cattle specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, suggests that cattlemen consider whole cottonseed as a substitute along with guar meal, castor meal, alfalfa hay, dehydrated alfalfa pellets and commercial dry supplements.

Herd cautions, however, that the price of whole cottonseed may increase due to pressure from the high-priced cottonseed meal which is now more than $150 a ton.

In determining whether to feed whole cottonseed or the 41 per cent cottonseed meal, consider the cost of each as well as handling and hauling costs, suggests the specialist. Feed the whole cottonseed if 100 pounds of it can be fed cheaper than a mixture of 35 pounds of cottonseed meal and 65 pounds of milo.

In feeding whole cottonseed or any of the other alternative protein supplements, the main concern is to provide the minimal amount of protein for livestock, points out the Texas A&M University specialist.

He recommends feeding no more than five pounds of whole cottonseed per cow per day since it contains 22 per cent fat which is laxative to cattle. The five pounds is usually more than enough to meet the protein needs of the beef cow.

He also suggested having forage tested for protein content so as to cut down on supplement costs.

MoPac Has Good Year, But Economics Cloud New Year

The Missouri Pacific System continued to grow and renew itself during 1972, recording gains in traffic while both expanding and modernizing its physical facilities. Texas & Pacific is Part of the MoPoc system.

Expansion of MoPac's equipment fleet had priority. New acquisitions, including orders placed late in 1971 and during 1972, totaled 4,800 freight cars and 114 diesel locomotives.

MoPac also continued to expand its facilities for handling intermodal traffic by opening large new intermodal terminals at St. Louis, Memphis and Fort Worth as well as making smaller additions at several other cities around its 12,000-mile, 12-state system.

Growth in import-export traffic, particularly containerization, prompted MoPac to open service offices in Seoul, South Korea, and in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. MoPac also has offices in Mexico and Japan.

Newest venture for MoPac was the recent entry into the air freight forwarding field through a subsidiary of its truck lines, Missouri Pacific Air-freight Inc.

Missouri Pacific is expected to show an increase of more than 4 per cent in carloadings for 1972. Among commodities showing significant growth were: coal, chemicals, forest products and paper products MoPac is also a major participant in the movement of wheat to Russia.

Intermodal traffic rose during the year with piggyback traffic, Plans I-V, recording an increase of about 29 per cent and container traffic climbing about 20 per cent.

"Modern Railroads" magazine selected MoPac as "Railroad of the Year" in 1972, in part because of the modernization program started in 1961 and continued in 1972. MoPac laid 327 miles of rail — mostly continuous welded rail — applied 1,666,000 cubic yards of ballast, inserted more than 1,000,000 crossties and constructed more than 8,600 lineal feet of bridgework. In addition, numerous improvements were made to shops, signal and communications facilities.

Missouri Pacific continued gradual implementation of its Transportation Control System, believed to be the most complex management information system yet undertaken by private industry.

Final financial results for the year are not yet available. Consolidated net income for the first three quarters of 1972 totaled $19,878,000 compared to $18,917,000 for the comparable period in 1971. MoPac experienced heavy car loadings during the fourth quarter.

It is difficult to make any predictions about the coming year, because MoPac's economic fortunes are tied closely to the major industries it serves. Expenses will rise sharply in 1973 as a result of $54,000,000 in wage increases granted in the past two years and a further increase of $24,000,000 in 1973. It is now known whether the railroads will be allowed needed freight rate increases during 1973. Finally, labor agreements covering most railroad employes come due for renewal at mid-year and we have no idea what will be the results of the negotiations.

Not Professional

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My home is on the verge of breaking up and there seems little I can do about it. If I leave my husband, there will be three teen-aged children without a father, but I see no other solution.

My husband is a professional man with a valuable career. He has admitted to having had sexual relations with a young woman patient 10 years his junior, and now he says he's in love with her, but he claims he is also still in love with me. Can this be?

We were married when we were both in college 23 year ago and I still love him. Our sex life has been tremendous, yet he tells me that "in the line of duty" he helped this woman to find her "ego identity" by teaching her how to love.

I can't stay married to a man who would have relations with other women in the line of duty or for any other reason.

Is this something new in psychotherapy? I can't believe psychologists really believe this will help their patients. What of their own emotional involvements and that of their families? HEARTBROKEN

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: No professional man in his right mind would have sexual relations with a patient. Your husband needs treatment himself and should not be allowed to continue practicing until he has been rehabilitated.

If you love him, don't leave him, but DO insist he see a psychiatrist about his problem. If he continues as he is, he will not only lose his family but his practice as well.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I finally found one answer to the age old "I never received a 'thank you' for my gift" problem.

A few months ago, the son of a very close relative was married. Prior to the wedding, the bride-to-be had more showers, lunches and dinners than most young girls. The gifts she received were very lovely — more like wedding gifts.

Many people were invited to the showers and, of course, to the wedding, so many, many gifts were given to this young couple. To date, not one person has received a "thank you" note.

Rather than bother the bride's mother (or mother-in-law) I called the bride. I figured that if she's old enough to get married, she is old enough to explain why she didn't bother to thank people for their gifts. Also, I wanted to know if mine was received.

Her answer was, "Oh, yes, I got everything, but if I only thank some of the people, the others will get mad."

How would you have responded to that? E.K.

DEAR E. K.: I'd have told her that since she thanked nobody, EVERYBODY was mad!

* * *

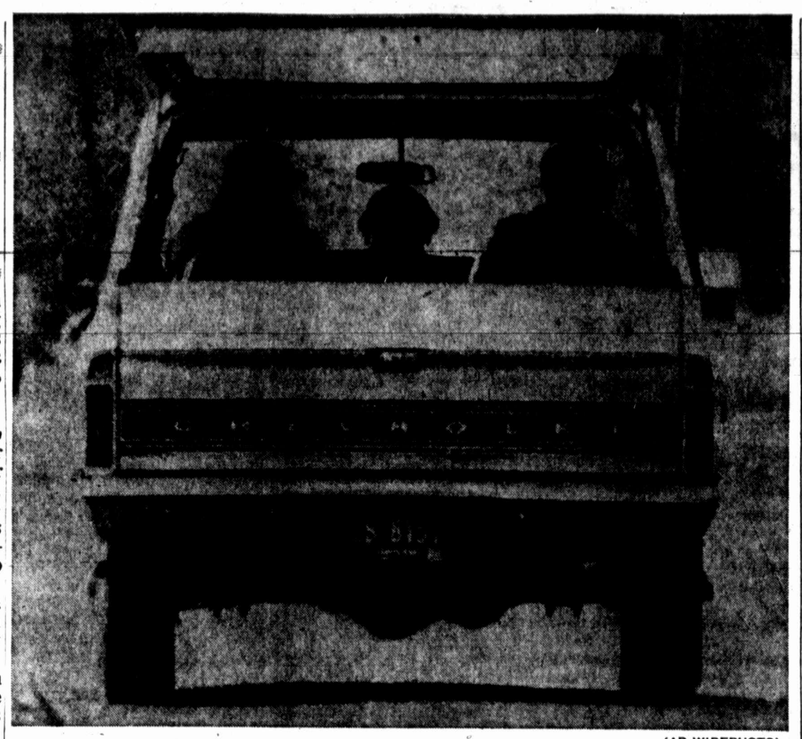

DEAR ABBY: You once gave a definition for "maturity" before a high school audience in St. Louis six years ago. What was it? LOREN D.

DEAR LOREN: To be able to stick with a job until it's finished, to do one's job without being supervised, to be able to carry money without spending it, and be able to bear an injustice without wanting to get even.

More Nations Ban Cigarette Ads

Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The U.S. public Health Service says it can see light at the end of the tunnel in the worldwide war against cigarette smoking.

Nobody is predicting that the world's millions of cigarette smokers are suddenly going to kick the habit. But progress is claimed in enactment of new legislation against cigarette advertisng and in anti-smoking education.

These developments are noted from reports of 94 nations for the annual survey of smoking and health programs prepared by the U.S. Public Health Service's National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health.

The reports indicate that several counties which had taken some first steps toward curbing or lessening the hazards of smoking, moved ahead during 1972 to add new teeth to existing laws or enacted new regulations.

The most notable step was the banning of cigarette advertising on radio and television in several countries, following action in the United States which became effective Jan. 1, 1971.

TAKE NOTE

The American experience was that when advertising for cigarettes was banned on radio and television, cigarette advertising expenditures increased in other media. Other countries noted the same pattern.

Canada ended cigarette ads on radio and television in January, 1972, and Austria and West Germany will enforce similar bans in January, 1973.

In Belgium, where cigarettes were never advertised on radio or television, a law was passed during the year making sure it will not happen in the future.

Also during the year, Afghanistan banned cigarette advertising on radio and draft laws were prepared to limit or eliminate broadcast advertising in Brazil, Israel, Malaysia, Mexico and Peru.

Italy and New Zealand had banned cigarette advertising from the broadcast media in 1962 and Finland, Singapore and Ireland enforced such restrictions in 1971, along with the United States.

Some countries have also extended the ban on cigarette advertising to print media.

A total ban on cigarette advertising exists in Afphanistan, Iceland, Poland, Romania, Singapore and the Soviet Union.

All-media bans are being considered in Finland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and New Zealand.

In two instances the advertising ban has been judged ineffective. The Canadian province of British Columbia is expected to repeal its 1971 law banning cigarettes and liquor advertising in print media. Publishers there have protested that the ban caused them to lose $1.5 million while outside publications circulating in the province carry liquor and cigarette advertisements without restriction.

PROGRESS NOTED

The movement to label cigarette packages with health warnings also showed some progress during 1972.

Warnings now appear on packages sold in the United States, Britain, Canada, Iceland, Japan and Peru. Legislation has been introduced for similar requirements in Australia, Brazil, Costa Rica, the Philippines and Panama.

He's Too Fat

Jean Adams'
TEEN FORUM

HEAVYWEIGHT: (Q.) I have trouble getting dates. I have never dated a girl, even though I talk to them all the time. I am too timid to ask because of my physical features. I am five-feet - four and weigh 212 pounds.

When I go out I go by myself and do nothing but drink too much and eat too much. Please tell me how to stop this and start dating girls. 18 and Too Big in Texas.

(A.) No preaching, just instructions.

Go to your doctor. Tell him you want to lose 80 or 90 pounds as fast as you safely can. Ask him to put you on a diet.

Stick to the diet. Do not vary from it even one time. When you have lost 10 pounds ask a girl for a date. If she says yes, fine. If not do not give up.

When you have lost 20 pounds, ask another girl for a date. Each 10 pounds you lose, ask a girl for a date. It will be easier for you to ask as you get slimmer and better looking, and sooner or later a girl will say yes.

But do not quit dieting even then. Keep on till you get down to 125 or 135 and look and feel your best. Then keep your weight there.

Oh, yes. Your diet will not permit you to have alcoholic drinks. They are fattening.

BRIGHTENING UP THE WAITING ROOM—It looks like this in the boarding lounge of an airline at San Francisco's airport when Bugs Bunny shows up to take the dullness out of waiting for a flight. Using the Warner Brothers cartoon characters to cheer up people waiting at the airport is the brainchild of Bob Claus of San Jose. He rents his cast of 13 cartoon characters to airlines.

"You don't need electricity," said 75-year-old Charles Peterson in telling why his home is not wired for electricity. "Nobody does."

Peterson and his wife, Eva, 77, live in a neat, cozy two-story house with much of the simpleness that characterized homes around the turn of the century.

They used to farm the land that had been in Mrs. Peterson's family since 1864, but they sold it several years ago. Now they keep busy with the daily chores their simple life demands.

USE LAMPS

Four kerosene lamps provide light for reading and two wood-burning stoves—one large and the other small—warm the small home.

"We just light the little one when it's not too cold," Mrs. Peterson said. "It's called a bachelor's stove."

The Petersons have yielded to the modern era, however, placing a new bathtub in what appears to be a small hall off the kitchen.

"Sure we've got a bathtub. You think we run dirty?" Peterson said laughing.

"We just pump water from our well, put it on the stove in three large kettles and in no time the water is nice and hot."

Out past the old hand pump by the back door is a small, well-built square structure.

"Nothing fancy," Peterson said. "Frills ain't no good for an old man. It's good and tight; no snow can get in."

"But it's up to date," the former farmer said. "That's the way an outhouse ought to be."

The kitchen is dominated by a large wood-burning Atlanta stove and a long table. The small room is filled with steam from the three kettles bubbling briskly on the stove.

Off the kitchen is the woodshed, filled with neatly stacked split wood.

CUTS OWN WOOD

"I like to get my exercise," he noted. "I pump water outside and bring it in. When I need wood, I cut it by hand."

The Petersons pay scant attention to their famous neighbor—the Consumers Power-Detroit Edison plant perched above Lake Michigan south of Ludington.

The $340 million plant sprawling across 1,400 acres, including its 840-acre man-made lake, is scheduled to open within a week. Officials say it is the world's largest facility which uses a turbine to both pump water to a lake and then generate electricity when the water is run back through.

But, Peterson said, electricity is expensive and he and his wife would not be able to stretch their budget on the money they got from selling their farm.

"I like to pay my bills, you know," he said. "And that's just one bill I don't have to pay."

But the Petersons haven't always shunned modern conveniencies.

"I used to drive," he said, "but things started getting fuzzy once in a while, so I figured it was time to get off the road."

And there is their battery-powered radio.

"Sure that's modern stuff," Peterson said.

Chomping Rabbit Source Of Delight At Airport

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An airline passenger, sitting blank-faced and bored between flights, turns suddenly to stare into the smiling face of a tall carrot champing rabbit towering above him.

"Eh, what's up, doc"? the rabbit asked.

"Look, theres Bugs Bunny! a little boy nearby yells.

Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck and Yosemite Sam have just deplaned from a Pacific Southwest Airlines flight. Instantly, the boarding lounge is merry bedlam.

Yosemite Sam holds up a grinning grandmother with his mock cannon. Another youngster tugs at Bugs Bunnys cotton tail.

This is the kind of scene that can be found at San Francisco International Airport almost any day—and which an enterprising young man hopes will soon be a common sight at airports everywhere.

The characters, hired by PSA to entertain its passengers, are the brainchildren of Bob Claus, president of Cartoon Characters, Inc., of San Jose, Calif. He rents his cast of 13 Warner Brothers cartoon characters to airlines, claiming they relieve boredom and nervousness of airport waits and "unwrap people from all their problems."

"Isn't it beautiful"? Claus asked, surveying the pandemonium in the lounge. "Happiness is dying at a very rapid pace. We want to get people smiling again."

Claus, 26, also said he is happy with the in-flight antics of the cartoon characters.

He said he struck upon the idea while sitting depressed one day at the San Jose Airport, wondering why nobody smiled.

Since their first PSA flight Dec. 15, Claus said the comic figures have logged more than 20,000 miles.

National Bank Sues Duncan Over Loan

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)— The National Bank of Washington is suing Walter T. Duncan, one of the 1972's biggest political campaign contributors, for nonpayment of a $200,000 loan he took out two days before donating an identical amount to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey.

Duncan, a land developer from San Antonio and Bryan, Tex., donated a total of $300,000 to Humphreys bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, then gave $305,000 to President Nixon's $305,000 to the time of his contributions, Duncan faced an array of legal, financial and governmental difficulties.

NO PAYMENT

The bank filed suit Dec. 21 in Bexar County, Texas, District Court three weeks after the due date on the six-month note had passed with, the complaint said, no payment from Duncan.

Duncan could not be reached for comment and his answer to the complaint is not yet due in court.

A copy of the note submitted in the court suit showed that 10,000 shares of common stock in the Archer Daniels Midland Co. was put up as security for the loan.

Bank representatives would not say whether the stock was registered in Duncan's name or in some other name. The bank, through its attorney, also refused to say if it knew why Duncan took out the loan.

The chief executive officer of Archer Daniels Midland is soybean magnate Dwayne O. Andreas, a major Humphrey contributor and fund-raiser who later switched to Nixon.

Andreas made a once-secret $25,000 contribution to Nixon last April. It later came to light during the investigation of the Watergate bugging case.

Duncan got his $200,000 interest loan at 5 per cent interest from the National Bank of Washington on May 31. Two days later he wrote a $200,000 check to the Humphrey campaign which a fund-raiser picked up personally at Duncan's residence at that time at Bryan.

CONTRIBUTES

Duncan gave $305,000 to the Nixon campaign in August in the form of a note which the Committee for the Re-election of the President sold to another Washington bank at a slight discount. The bank has not said whether it has collected on the loan yet.

Duncan was the largest contributor listed for Humphrey and the third largest listed for Nixon.

At about the time of the Nixon contribution, Duncan was being sued for $2.27 million in State Court at Dallas. That suit grew out of his failure to make payments on a land mortgage which was involved in a major Texas financial scandal of 1971—the collapse of the Sharpstown State Bank and National Bankers Life Insurance Co.

More than $1.1 million of the amount sought from Duncan is owed ultimately to depositors of the defunct bank whose interests are represented by the government's Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The land involved in the deal was sold in foreclosure proceedings at virtually the same time Duncan was obtaining his $200,000 bank loan in Washington and giving a like amount to Humphrey.

Jury trial in the $2.27-million suit is set for July 16. Duncan denies the allegations of the suit in his formal answer.

His attorney in that case would not say whether any out-of-court settlement is being discussed.

Trucker Says He Thought Bus Was Going To Stop

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — State police said Thursday a cattle truck driver told them he thought a bus was going to stop and let the truck pass before it entered a narrow bridge.

Nineteen members of Woodlawn Baptist Church in Austin, Tex., aboard that bus were killed Tuesday night when the bus and truck collided on the bridge. Fifteen others aboard the bus were injured, along with the truck driver, Erby G. Wilmeth of Clovis.

State Police Capt. A. C. Jones of Clovis said Wilmeth told officers his tractor-trailer rig already was on the 20-foot-wide bridge when he realized the bus wasn't stopping.

The bridge itself has come in for major criticism as a cause of the tragedy. Declared inadequate recently, it had been scheduled since 1965 for replacement and was listed by the Highway Department as among the 10 most dangerous bridges in the state.

A four-county organization was formed in Clovis Thursday to fight the problem of deficient highways in eastern New Mexico. Mayors, state legislators and county officials criticized state highway officials.

State Rep. Hoyt Pattison, a Republican from Clovis, said he would ask for a legislative investigation of why the narrow bridge 11 miles east of Fort Sumner on U.S. 60-84 hasn't been modernized.

Capt. Jones said Thursday that Wilmeth's truck apparently followed the bridge railing until it hit a support post, causing the trailer to swing in front of the bus.

Jones said he didn't hit the brakes because of his load of live cattle, and the cattle shifting their weight would have "certainly caused the truck to jackknife."

A full report on the state police investigation of the tragedy isn't expected to be available until next week. The bus driver was among those killed.

Jones said the injured survivors weren't able to disclose much about the cause of the accident.

Wilmeth, on advice of his lawyer, declined to talk to reporters.

Mrs. Wilmeth said her husband has been driving big trucks for "20 or 30 years—he's not a new driver."

In Austin, meanwhile, plans were made for a joint funeral at 2 p.m. Saturday for 14 of the 19 dead.

Private services were set for today for twin brothers Johnny and James Reeves, 15, and Saturday morning for Sharon Sellars, 24.

A San Antonio, Tex., funeral was planned for Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Estes, both in their early 40s. Estes was the bus driver.

Live Prayer Is Offered Caller

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Calgarians who phone a dial-a-prayer service don't end up with a recording. A secretary answers the telephone, asks the caller about the problem and offers to help. If the caller asks for a prayer, the call is put through to a minister.

Worth Hearing Anyhow

Gordon W. Rule probably has made his last appearance before a congressional committee, in an official capacity He has been demoted and denied access to the Navy secretary except through channels. None expects these channels to do anything but clog.

Rule is the Navy Materiel Command's cost-cutter. His mission, he said, is to challenge, question and, when necessary, to disapprove procurement contracts. He said President Nixon made a mistake in appointing Roy L. Ash as head of the Office of Management and Budget, and that Ash made a worse mistake by taking it.

Ash quit his post as chief executive officer of Litton Industries to take the OMB job. Litton has "more than a half-billion dollars" in disputed claims pending against the Navy. Ash's appointment isn't subject to Senate action.

Focus of the Rule testimony is on the government's position in bailing out of financial straits companies whose bids have turned out to be too low. Rule opposes the practice, saying the concept of risk-taking free-enterprise is threatened. He disagrees that inflation and other unexpected costs have victimized Grumman Aircraft's government contracts.

"Absolutely not," said Rule, "They're not kids. They know how to bid on a contract."

The public interest viewpoint in the dispute is whether the Navy, or any other executive department, will put up with such outspoken testimony in public. Procurement policies have changed in recent years in the wake of scandalous cost overruns. The Congress will have to decide whether to pay more to Grumman. A part of the consideration will be to decide whether government procurement improperly encouraged low-bid contract-grabbing with the implied guarantee to absorb losses.

That would be wrong, of course, because that would be an unfair practice. Rule claims the government, through the President, lacks "the guts to tell the taxpayer free enterprise is out and socialism is in."

Possibly Rule has let himself become locked into wrong position, but his testimony should be given full weight in congressional consideration of absorbing contract losses.

The Football Blackout

President Nixon was throwing his weight around the other day with ultimatums to North and South Vietnam and a threat to the National Football League.

The NFL peeved the President by refusing to lift local TV blackouts on playoff games. This so incensed the nation's No. 1 sports fan that he had his attorney general issue a glowering threat about revising pro football's exemption from antitrust laws.

Television blackouts and antitrust laws are two entirely different things. Pro football officials contend they are trying to protect their investment by enforcing TV blackouts, even though the games are sold out — else there would never be a sell out.

If pro football's exemption from antritrust laws is wrong, the Congress should change it. But the President ought to have weightier matters to claim his attention.

The Texas and Pacific Railway Co. established Big Spring and still accounts for a major share of its economy.

Gross revenue for operations here run $6 million and the payroll around $2.5 million yearly. Employed by the T and P here are 350 persons.

LIQUID PETROLEUM gas and chemicals for the Cosden refinery are the largest inbound goods traveling by rail. Around 95 per cent of all cotton produced in Howard County is shipped by train, Gordon Hughes, secretary to the division superintendent, estimated.

A. W. Rees, as superintendent for the Rio Grande Division, is responsible for the line from, but not including, Fort Worth and to and including El Paso. He also supervises the line between Fort Worth and Houston, excluding these two cities, and the Texas-New Mexico Railroad branch line from Monahans to Lovington.

On an average day, four trains leave Big Spring westbound and four leave Fort Worth eastbound for Big Spring and elsewhere. A total of six trips are made between Big Spring and El Paso in an average day, three in each direction.

Working out of the Big Spring terminal are eight five-men crews working to the west and nine working to the east.

ALSO WORKING out of Big Spring are four switching engine crews working in Big Spring, four working in Odessa, one in Monahans and one in Sweetwater.

B. A. Bradley, with a local force of five men, is signal and communications supervisor for the division. His subordinates maintain telephone lines owned and used by the railroad, radios and block signals.

J. A. Wright, general roadmaster, and C. C. Nichols, roadmaster, supervise maintenance of roadbeds, tracks and other things. Under them, are about 40 men here.

B. C. Barbee, terminal manager, manages shipments R. C. Hill, general yard master, supervises an eight-man office and 20 switch engine crewmen.

Mechanic facilities are under the direction of H. Latta and D. D. Dyer.

GORDON HUGHES, secretary to the division superintendent, remembered 500 were employed here in 1936. But diesel engines require less maintenance than steam and passenger service was discontinued in 1967.

Filled to capacity during World War II here, passenger trains saw their paying customers drop to an average of 10-12 per trip before the service was stopped in 1967.

Passengers had been carried by railroad here since rail service began May 28, 1881.

Railway business, after World War II, declined considerably, Rees said, until 1961. Since then, it has grown steadily.

He related this growth to the nation's economy and ability of railroads to move goods faster and safer. Use of diesel engines, new type cars, new types of rails and better roadbeds has helped.

T&P, WHICH is owned by Missouri Pacific Railroad Co., recently began computerization and is in the second phase of a six-phase program to be completed in 1976.

By contacting headquarters in St. Louis they can learn in a few minutes, everything about a car, including where it is and when it will be in Big Spring.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

My stomach turns over when I hear the rich say, "How the Lord has blessed us." Actually, some inherited greater brain power, and had better educational opportunities. It's not a question of the Lord's blessing at all. What about His faithful servants who don't have it in the "smarts department?" W.J.

I like the statement — "the ground is level at the foot of the cross." It's a happy indication that in matters of faith in Christ, we all have equal opportunity. Nobody in God's kingdom has special advantage. The disciples were rebuked, you remember, when they were bargaining for special position.

Now, whether you have it or not in the "smarts department" is quite unrelated to whether you get the true blessings of God. They are such things as peace, the friendship of Chris, hope beyond the grave, etc. When the Bible uses the term "blessing", it represents the benefits coming to a believer from God the Father, through faith in Christ His Son. All qualify for this, and what's more, God loves to give His children good gifts.

I'm glad that the successful and intelligent people you know did give God the credit for their blessings. They should have.

The dictionary definition of "blessing" says it is "approval", or a thing "conducive to happiness." Whatever a person's finances, he can be happy spiritually, and that's where blessings are born.

Since the Lord said His kingdom was not of this world, we do wrong to see God's blessing only in terms of cash, clothing, and country houses. From the level ground of Calvary, we all see mountains of blessings. Look for them; you'll find more than you can count.

About Acupunture

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — One of the great events of 1972, with consequences far into the future, was the opening to China. Out of that opening benefits are only just beginning to flow. Some, such as the sale of American planes, are obvious. With a continuing exchange we could in the long run learn much from the practice and philosophy of an ancient people.

THE NATIONAL Institutes of Health are about to authorize a serious study of the pros and cons of acupuncture, the medical practice used throughout China for many centuries. Those at NIH who have taken a preliminary look are convinced that acupuncture, the use of needles as nerve blocks, deserves thorough and impartial examination, since it could become an asset in the American medicine chest.

VISITORS TO China during the new year now ending have brought back reports of the seemingly miraculous results of acupuncture. American physicians have observed abdominal operations in which acupuncturists provided the only anaesthetic. The patients were not only conscious but apparently in good humor, joking and laughing with the surgeon as the operation proceeded.

ACUPUNCTURE is only one part of the approach to medicine in China. Herbs used in accord with formulae centuries old have an equally important place.

THE NEW YORK acupuncture clinic was closed down because of the state's licensing requirements. Many letters of protest to the White House and NIH followed this action. In the city's Chinatown the folk practice of acupuncture has long been winked at. Inspectors who put on old clothes would drop in for a treatment to make sure the needles were sterile. Only a licensed physician may now practice acupuncture in the state and, since few, if any, physicians are trained for a procedure more complex than it appears, the treatment is all but precluded. As standardized following its introduction into Russia from China, there are between 800 and 1,000 points of insertion classified as primary, secondary and tertiary. California says it is a medical treatment to be used only by a licensed physician.

HANDLED IN an orderly way and cutting through the jealous prerogatives of the medical profession and the complexities of state licensing laws, this could be a valuable addition to American medicine. It is but one element of the wealth of learning that can come from the opening to China. Surely, we are now mature enough to show that we can learn from a people so long closed away.

Breaks With Tradition

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — On this, the final business day of the year, many shareholders of Fuqua Industries already have in hand the company's preliminary annual report, together with a forecast of sales and earnings for 1973.

Both sets of figures represent breaks with tradition. Annual reports usually aren't available for weeks or months after the year's end. And public dissemination of forecasts is viewed as a practice whose product is trouble.

But J. B. Fuqua, chairman of the Atlanta-based leisure products company, is either fearless or wise or realistic — maybe even foolish. Last February he attracted comment for his attempts to do away with annual meetings. Now this. Why, J.B.?

First, the reasons for such prompt release of the annual report, which incidentally will be finalized, made more attractive and permanent and given the imprimatur of the public auditors in a later edition.

The data, said J.B., is available to company officials, so why hold it up until the auditors pore over the books.

"In a well managed company the auditors don't make the figures. They have nothing to do with producing them. They only verify them."

While many corporate officials will agree with this view, considerably fewer will join J.B. in his attitude toward forecasting what shareholders might expect in the year to come.

"It won't make me any friends in the corporate world," he agreed. "In older companies this scares the hell out of them." At companies dependent upon volatile raw material prices, he said his moved will be cussed.

Even J.B. is not totally convinced of the merits in forecasting but, being realistic, he foresees the day coming shortly when the Securities and Exchange Commission will require them.

"If this is the kind of music we will have to march to, we are willing to lead the band," he said in a letter to stockholders.

The SEC is indeed considering the merits of requiring forecasts, but it has made no final decision and conceivably could settle for making the matter optional. But this is how J.B. reasoned:

"A company like ours should have an internal budget which covers at least a year ahead. We've had it for many years, as have other responsible companies, for internal use," But not, he noted, for the eyes of outsiders.

"Financial analysts come to my office, talk to me and then write a report that might include figures far above or below what we really feel we'll do. That leaves the public with the guesstimates of outsiders."

J. B. conceded there are problems with forecasting. "One of the negatives is that management forecasts tend to be low. No management wants to be caught in the position of forecasting more than it can attain."

Hard Decision

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The passing of former President Harry S. Truman has stirred up reminiscences about his significant part in American history. It is important to recall the dates of his service and to mention another person who participated in that era.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, for instance, was chief executive when the United States entered World War II. After the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. Though he had been re-elected in 1944, Roosevelt died and Vice President Truman became President.

Less than a month after Mr. Truman moved into the White House on April 12, 1945, the surrender of Germany was proclaimed. Then on Aug. 6, 1945, the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan. This was followed 10 days later by the announcement that Japan had agreed to surrender, and thus World War II was ended.

So President Truman's early days in office were involved in the culmination of World War II. Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected four times to the presidency but did not live to complete his task — defending the interests of the United States and its allies in the biggest war in which this country has ever been engaged.

THOSE YEARS of war had penetrating effects on the American economy and on the life of the country. Not only were there a large number of troops directly affected, but the life of the nation felt the economic restrictions made necessary by the war.

Mr. Truman was quick to approve of the idea of the United Nations, and its first meeting was generally accepted as the start of an important instrument of peace. Unfortunately, it has not since proved as helpful as it had been expected to be. But the organization still is capable of being utilized to improve international relations and prevent wars.

SO MR. TRUMAN has the credit for being President when a world war ended and of helping to start the United Nations, which was designed to bring about peace in the world.

As one looks back to the years of World War II, there is debate as to the part the atomic bomb played in the surrender of Japan. Some military men claim that the Japanese would have surrendered within a few days anyway. The dropping of the atomic bomb, which caused the death of many civilians in Japan, is still discussed from time to time on the theory that the war could have been won quickly without using the bomb. Mr. Truman faced a hard decision, but he was the kind of man who took no chances and no risks.

ALL THIS happened more than 27 years ago. Today public interest is focused on a relatively small war in Vietnam. But the principles are the same and human beings are being destroyed day after day and ways and means of stopping the war have proved ineffective thus far.

Obviously, adversaries can be pressured into the signing of a peace agreemnt bby being bombed so heavily that they would have to yield. But these days it is preferred instead to bomb steadily the ports and supply lines and to wait patiently for the enemy to see that the time has come to sit down at the peace table and arrive at a satisfactory arrangement.

Too Much Paper?

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Paper . . . paper . . . paper!

One fears we may be strangled by paper.

Napoleon Bonaparte said an army marches on its stomach. But the modern U.S. business world marches on paper. The American economy produces an estimated one million pages of new documents every minute, of which some 250 billion pages a year must be stored, temporarily at least.

Business firms alone — leaving out the work of government paper shufflers — now store and maintain more than a trillion pieces of paper in 200 million file drawers. Each year they are adding 175 billion new pieces of paper to this enormous trove. Storage costs alone now run into billions of dollars annually.

The problem of handling all this material has given rise to a new profession — records management — says Dr. Maxwell Pollack, president of Van Dyk Research Corp., of Whippany, N.J., a firm active in communications technology.

Dr. Pollack predicts that in the future this paper blizzard will intensify rather than lessen and have far-reaching effects on the economy.

"More paperwork is inevitable in a fast-paced and increasingly computerized world," he said. "The profusion of electronic machines in offices will not cut employe levels but add to them, thus creating a need for new legions of Girl Fridays.

"The clerical work force is growing five times faster than the general population, and now receives about $80 billion a year in salaries.

"The 10 million clerical employes now on the job is almost double the 1940 total."

Dr. Pollack noted that despite the current recession there is still a shortage of stenographers and trained secretaries. Other studies have shown that business managements often are more reluctant to cut their office clerical staffs than their factory employes.

The job future is also brighter today for office workers. The government has predicted there will be a need for at least 200,000 new secretaries a year for some time to come.

The paper storm is heightened by the increasing output of educational institutions. It is estimated that more than a majority of all the scientists ever born on earth are still alive. They are producing fresh paper mountains of documents, graphs, research reports and learned journals. One of the biggest problems of science is how to digest its own output.

It won't be long, some experts figure, before America will be using 500 pounds of paper a year for each man, woman, and child in the population.

So what can we do about all this? I don't know about you, but I know what I'm going to do. I'm going to clean out a couple of file drawers — and I'm also going to plant a few trees in my back yard. I don't want my descendants to run out of paper.

Big Changes Due

Garth Jones

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators, who will meet Jan. 9 in their 63rd biennial session, indicate they will make major changes in state election laws.

Answers to an Associated Press questionnaire sent all 181 state senators and representatives indicate the lawmakers want:

—A better way to finance party primaries.

—New dates for party primaries.

The primary financing problem is easily the most pressing.

A 1970 federal court ruling said the Texas Democratic and Republic parties could no longer finance their separate elections by assessments on their candidates. After this ruling, legislators were forced, in a special session, to allocate $2,150,000 in state money to pay for the dual set of primary elections. But that was not enough. The 1972 primaries actually cost $2.8 million and $650,000 more and to be appropriated in still another special session.

"This year's primaries were the most chaotic and costly of any in this state's history," said Secretary of State Bob Bullock, chief elections officer. He noted that costs ranged from $4.83 per vote for El Paso County Republicans to a mere 36 cents a vote for Travis County Democrats.

Bullock recommended, as had his predecessor, Martin Dies Jr., that the 1973 legislature make Texas Democrats and Republicans vote in the same place, using different colored ballots or similar means.

The unitary primary system would be financed from three resources of funds — "reasonable filing fees" from candidates, state funds and county revenues. The percentage each contributes would have to be determined by the legislature, and approved by federal courts.

The financing will be the big source of argument in the 1973 legislature, as indicated by the AP survey.

"Full state funding for the primaries," said new Sen. elect Nelson Wolff, San Antonio.

"Before I came here, I felt like I had been thrown away for good," said Minnie Smith. "Now I feel like a person again. I think people really do still care for me."

The 76-year-old widow, her hands wrapped around a cane, was talking about her attendance at an Atlanta day care center for the elderly, one of a growing number throughout the country.

About 50 such centers, many of them in operation less than a year, are located in 20 states and several more are in the planning stages, according to a study being prepared for the federal government's Office of Long-Term Care Services.

The day care centers are part of an intensified effort to keep physically and mentally limited senior citizens in the community and out of nursing homes.

Participants include stroke and heart patients, amputees and people with such diseases as arteriosclerosis and Parkinson's disease. Some centers also accept mildly senile persons.

Most of those attending the centers live with family members who work and can't give their elderly relatives the constant care they need. Others live alone.

President Nixon, in a report to the White House Conference on Aging last December, recommended that alternatives be found to placing the elderly in institutions.

The U.S. Administration on Aging recently provided grants to three day care centers, "in order to stimulate and guide the development and expansion of other day care centers."

One of the three facilities is run by Levindale Hebrew Geriatric Center and Hospital, a Baltimore nursing home.

Abraham Kostick, executive director of Levindale, said he started the day care program in July 1970 because of a strong belief that elderly persons should not automatically be shunted into nursing homes when they become disabled.

"You lose your individuality in a home like this," he said. "Here we control so much of these people's lives. In the day care center, people can choose what they want to do and can retain their own identifies.

"Psychologically, you age very fast in a nursing home," Kostick added. "It's my belief that a day care program can help retard both physical and mental deterioration."

Several of the 34 participants in the center program spend time in the activities workshop, earning money by performing small repetitive chores.

One stout, elderly man was placing large black rubber flies in plastic capsules which would be sold in vending machines.

"I had a cataract operation last year and could hardly see," he said. "All I did for the next eight months was sit in a chair.

"But now I'm working and working hard.

"The work isn't that interesting, but I get money for it. It's enough to buy my grandchildren birthday and Christmas presents."

In the arts and crafts room, a dozen women, several in wheelchairs, were making afghans, plastic flowers and cloth dolls.

Those who don't want to be active at the center can sit in the day care lounge, listening to records, playing checkers, talking or just dozing.

Special activities are often planned, such as picnics, parties, shopping excursions and group discussions. Two hot meals are provided each day.

Adapting to the center isn't always easy for the elderly. "When they first come, there's resistance," said Marjery Cohen, the center's social worker. "It's something new and frightening. It takes them about four weeks to feel at home."

The families are generally very appreciative," she added. "It's a godsend for them, a great weight lifted.

"They want to keep their relative at home but at the same time they want to be allowed to lead their own lives without having to worry constantly about him. In many cases, it's lessened resentment toward the older person and relieved tension in the home."

The cost for the day care program per person is $12 a day; compared to $26 a day for nursing home care at Levindale. Participants are asked to pay as much as they can.

The Levindale program is funded by participant fees, the government grant and a contribution from the nursing home, Kostick said.

Other day care centers receive federal money from state agencies under Title Three of the Older Americans Act; some get funds from the federal model cities program; and some are funded totally by local contributions.

Only one state — Hawaii — funds and licenses day care centers for the elderly.

"I FEEL LIKE A PERSON AGAIN"—Gnarled hands of a senior citizen paint glaze on a piece of pottery at an Atlanta, Ga. day care center for the elderly, one of a growing group of such centers throughout the nation. Part of an intensified effort to keep physically and mentally limited senior citizens in the community and out of nursing homes, the centers often cause dramatic changes in attitudes of the elderly.

Altrusa Club Gives To Rehabilitation Center

Members of Altrusa Club agreed Thursday to contribute $10 to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center after hearing a letter sent to the club by Paul D. Meek, chairman of the center's sustaining fund drive.

Mrs. W. H. Kay, presiding at the luncheon meeting at Coker's Restaurant, expressed appreciation to Mrs. Norman Read, Mrs. G. C. Broughton and Mrs. Loyd Wooten who assisted at a Christmas party at Big Spring State Hospital.

Mrs. Faye Stratton was honored for her upcoming retirement from First National Bank. The next meeting will be Jan. 11 at Coker's, and Mrs. Ruby Billings, parliamentarian, will present the program.

Forsan Families Hold Reunions

FORSAN (SC) — The T. T. Henrys are in Rising Star visiting his brother and sister and their families, the Glen Henrys and the Frank Jacobs'.

Mrs. Jim Craig has returned from Monahans where she spent Christmas with her daughter and family, the Bobby Bakers. Craig is in Manhattan Beach, Calif., where he attended funeral services for his son. Another son, James Craig of Robert Lee, and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Kelley of Odessa, accompanied him.

Drops From 337 Pounds To 180 In Eight Months

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Joanna Shaw is tying her own shoes these days, which would hardly be news unless you know she once weighed 337 pounds but now is 180 pounds slimmer.

Eight and one-half months ago Mrs. Shaw didn't get too far from home. Getting in and out of public transportation was extremely difficult. Sitting behind the wheel of a car was impossible.

It wasn't until her bathroom scales broke under her 300 pounds that she entered St. Elizabeth's Hospital for endocrine tests. They showed her problem wasn't glandular. So Mrs. Shaw began dieting.

She tried a grapefruit diet, a high protein diet with meat and cheese only, a water diet, a low carbohydrates diet. Nothing worked.

She said she finally turned to the Diet Workshop in Waltham "because it was only a block away and I could walk there." With the help of diet counselors and a controlled, balanced diet, her weight began to come down—13 pounds in the first week.

"When the weight started going, I got hooked and had to keep with it," she said.

Now she's doing many things this summer she never did before—like wearing shorts, roller skating and, of course, tying her own shoes. Now she can join her three children in enjoying life.

Before she started dieting, Mrs. Shaw said, a "normal" breakfast would consist of six eggs, a half pound of bacon and a dozen biscuits.

Guests In Area For Christmas

FORSAN (SC) — Kay Woodley, student at Angelo State University, is spending the holidays with her parents, the Jack Woodleys. The family spent Christmas with Woodley's parents, the H. B. Woodleys of Brookesmith.

The J. W. Snellings and her sister, Audrey May, spent Christmas day in Snyder with the Gaither Bells. Mrs. Bell is a sister of the other women.

Mrs. L. B. McElrath is in Austin with her daughter, Mrs. Al White, a patient at St. David's Hospital. Mrs. McElrath spent Christmas in Odessa with Mrs. Clyde Bennett and the H. D. James'.

A LOVELIER YOU

Accent The Positive In Christmas Photos

By MARY SUE MILLER

The holiday shatterbugs begin to swarm. Do you dread it? You just never take a good picture?

Well, be comforted. Cameras for the amateur photographer have good pictures built in. The subject is not quite as reliable. She must know how to present her best self to the camera. Learning to pose is really easy.

Where your figure's concerned, the main thing to remember is to turn the hips and knees at a slight angle — slightly away, very slightly — to the lens. Do square your shoulders and pull up in the waist, keep your feet close together and relegate your hands to an inconspicuous position. All those little gambits are slimming and grace-making.

What about your face? The unbreakable rule insists on tidy hair and tidy lipline. Most every face looks prettier to the camer's eye when the head turns and tilts a fraction away from it.

When the nose is overlong, simply tip the head back and it will appear shorter. A button nose takes on length when the head tips down a bit. To reduce a broad nose, pose the head in profile.

The eyes look larger and brighter if you blink just before the session starts. At the same moment, wet the lips to relax the mouth — the better to smile.

A little practice and you'll never feel camera shy again. What's most important, you will relax and enjoy the clicking cameras. And look it in the snaps.

REDUCING ROUTINES

You can diet until you become feather-light and still be hip-heavy. Reduction in the hipline is assured only by exercise. For a set of quick and effective ones, send for my leaflet, "Hip Reducing Routines." write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed enveope and 10 cents in coin.

Knott Baptists, Evangel Temple Slate Watch Night Services

By MARJ CARPENTER

The First Baptist Church at Knott will hold an old-fashioned Watch Night Service Sunday night lasting from 9 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

The service will include games, refreshments, singing, showing of travel slides and "good fellowship for all who want to watch for the new year together," according to the Rev. Milton Haas.

* * *

EVANGEL TEMPLE ASSEMBLY OF GOD CHURCH at 2205 Goliad will also hold a special Watch Night Service Sunday starting at 8:30 p.m. and lasting past the midnight hour.

The Rev. J. C. Lewis of Midland will be the main speaker and Bro. and Sis Wesley Pearces from Canada will lead a song service.

A special new year's message will be brought by Pastor Calvin with short messages by church leaders. The service will conclude with Communion, served at the midnight hour.

THEY DID NOT GO HOME FOR CHIRSTMAS — The nostalgic strains of "I'll Be Home For Christmas" did not apply for two young missionares of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, who spent this Christmas season away from their families, that they might deliver their message to residents of Big Spring.

Elder Kenneth Taylor and Elder Dee Garn who presently reside in Big Spring, said "We feel it is a privilege to be here and to share a message that will help people believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, that he was born nearly two thousand years ago, that He lived then and was resurrected and that he lives today."

Elder Taylor whose home is Salt Lake City, Utah and Elder Garn whose home is Fielding, Utah, said they spent Christmas Day visiting friends and members of their congregation. A Church leader has said, added Elder Taylor, "Christmas is a fitting time to renew our desires and to strengthen our determination to do all that lies within our power to make real among men the message heralded by the angels when the Savior was born. Let us glorify God by seeking the good, the true, the beautiful! Let us strive to establish peace on earth by exercising that same good will toward one another which God has shown toward us!"

The rapid growth of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints can be attributed in part to its vast missionary program. Elders Taylor and Garn are two of 17,500 young men and women scattered throughout 104 missions including nearly all of the free world. These young people have voluntarily accepted calls to serve as missionaries at their own time and expense for periods of 18 months to two years. Education and training for future occupations is set aside until the completion of their missions.

The Texas North Mission which includes, Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Fort Worth and all towns north of Fort Hood has within its boundaries 200 young missionaries.

Two Texans holding both the top posts in the United Methodist Church is an indication of "openness" within the denomination said the pair in a recent interview.

Dr. John T. King of Austin and Bishop O. Eugene Slater of San Antonio both emphatically denied their being from Texas represents a swing in importance, from the East to the Southwest, by the United Methodist Church.

Dr King, president of Houston-Tillotson College, is the new president of his denomination's Council of Ministries, a top-level policy making unit for the 10.6 million-member church group.

Bishop Slater is the president of the Council of Bishops.

Dr. King, a nationally recognized black educator, said he views his election and the choice of Bishop Slater as evidence of "openness on the part of the two groups."

"They were willing to select on a basis other than sectionalism or other identifications," he explained in an interview.

Both men were elected by their respective groups.

Bishop Slater was present at Dr. King's election recently in Chicago, Ill., and commented, "With Dr. King, it was a case of looking for the best man."

The Council on Ministries is part of a restructuring by the denomination, begun last spring.

The 120 members include a representative from each annual conference, representatives from each program board and agency of the church, at-large members, bishops and overseas representatives.

FAITH IN ACTION — The official launch television special of the Key 73 continent-wide cooperative evangelism thrust focuses on the lives of several lay persons — like these shown here — from the more than 150 participating denominations and groups.

Mass Communication Program Set In Area

On Saturday evening, January 6, a unique experiment in mass communications will take place in Bigi Spring. Many of the Christians in the community from a wide variety of denominations will be gathered together to watch a television special entitled "Faith In Action." This is the official lauch telecast of a cooperative continent-wide Christian evangelism thrust known as Key 73.

Key 73 is a voluntary movement of more than 150 Christian denominations and evangelistic groups in the United States and Canada who have voted to cooperate together in a massive campaign during the year 1973. Following the joint theme, "Calling Our Continent to Christ," the participating denominations have planned a number of high-visibility events tieing together every denomination and every community. These events range from network television specials supported by millions of persons watching in small home groups to a massive Bible distribution that aims at placing a portion of scripture in every home in North America.

The Launch Television Special, "Faith In Action," is a news-magazine style relatively recent converts to active Christian involvement. They come from a wide variety of backgrounds and cultural situations in the United States and Canada. While these Christians from various denominational affiliations see the living out of their Christian lives in different ways, they are unified in their commitment that the universal mandate of the Christian faith is to express God's love to other persons. Much of the interest in the documentary film is the variety of ways in which this universal mandate is applied in their daily lives.

Coupled with the telecast will be an event of growing interest to both participating churches and to the broadcast industry as a mass communications first. Nearly a million Christians across the continent are expected to be gathered together in home groups — with specially prepared implementation and study guides — to watch the special, discuss it, pray for the success of the Key 73 evangelism thrust, and commit to their own Christian outreach during 1973. Many such groups have already been organized here in Big Spring.

The Key 73 movement is the broadest cooperative program in the history of North American Christianity. Continent-wide participation includes most Protestant denominations in the United States and Canada plus many ajudicatories of the Roman Catholic Church and many evangelistic associations such as The Billy Graham Association, Campus Crusade for Christ, and The American Bible Society. Nearly 95 per cent of all Christians are related to Key 73 through their denominations.

The Launch Television Special, "Faith In Action," has been preceded by a continent-wide Noon Prayer Call in which 100,000 million Christians across North America have been urged and organized to pray daily at noon that many will be led to Christ through the Key 73 evangelism movement.

Hot Tamales

The women of St. Thomas Catholic Church will be selling hot tamales in the church basement beginning at 11 a.m. Saturday. Everyone is invited to come get some tamales for $1.25 per dozen. All proceeds will be used to help pay for a new church hall.

THEN AND NOW—Charles Boyer and Greta Garbo (left) co-starred in MGM's movie, "Conquest," back in the days when the popular star was noted for his romantic roles. Now 72, he portrays the high lama in Ross Hunter's remake of "Lost Horizon" in the picture at right.

Farm Groups Critical Of Federal Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers, who were advised by a Republican political slogan last fall to "Re-elect Nixon or Lose Your Butz," have been the Agriculture Department slice nearly $1.5 billion a year off rural programs the past three weeks.

The cutbacks, ordered by White House budget planners, have drawn sharp criticism from farm organizations and are sure to stir debate when Congress reconvenes next week.

STARTED DEC. 11

Although heightened more recently by cuts in conservation and loan programs, the string of budget actions actually began Dec. 11, when Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz announced a 1973 feed grain program aimed at boosting corn and soybean production at less cost to taxpayers.

Payments to feed producers under the plan are expected to be down about $800 million from 1972 levels. Another $100 million or so is expected to be trimmed from cotton payments.

The latest decision, announced Wednesday, will turn off further emergency loans made by the Farmers Home Administration to farmers who may need help because of crop and livestock losses from storms, floods and severe harvest weather this fall.

No firm estimate has been made of savings as a result of the FHA decision, but some officials believe the turnoff could mean farmers will be deprived of several hundreds of millions of dollars in potential emergency aid.

Official estimates had put the FHA emergency loan volume at $140 million for the year ending next June 30, but sources said privately the potential might have been as high as $600 million.

Earlier this week, the department announced cancellation of further aid under the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) and the new Water Bank Program. Congress had authorized a combined total of $235.5 billion for those programs in 1973.

Still another December cutback was a notice that farm grain storage and drying loans by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service would be trimmed 75 per cent beginning next July 1. Estimated savings was put at about $100 million.

Not all of the cutbacks will mean savings to the government this fiscal year, the period ending next June 30. Crop program payments, for example, begin after July 1 and usually are completed by the end of the calendar year.

But the thrust of the decision is to save money and to hold down on the federal budget. Nixon has set a $250 billion maximum for all federal spending in the 1972-73 fiscal year, and the decisions to curb REAP and FHA, particularly, were made by the White Houst with that goal in mind.

Sun Bowl Is Star Feature

El Paso's gala Sun Bowl and Carnival festivities are highlighted in the New Year's edition of the Texas Star.

Outlining the history of the nation's third oldest football classic, the Star also describes plans for present activities marking the Sun Bowl's 38th year. Mary Faulk features food fare for the El Paso festivities.

In this week's humor column, "Cacti's Corner," Cactus Pryor issues a patriarchal ultimatum that calls for his family to "eat supper together in the dining room with the TV set off." Pryor recalls the results of his order in his famous light satirical style.

Also this week, Star Light columnist Wanda J. Campbell talks about the history of the "Sunken Gardens" in San Antonio and the organization of the "gin 'em Aggies" gesture.

Lamesa's 'Big Voice' To Sound Tests Today

LAMESA — Annually, one day each December, the "big voice" booms out in this West Texas town. Today is the day for the 1972 test.

It's official name is the Lamesa Voice Warning System and it has been installed there now for almost a decade.

Once a year it is tested to be sure all is working right. The speakers are installed high on poles at nine different locations spaced throughout the city.

A master control unit is operated from the police station. Over it may be broadcast a siren tone or announced warnings.

Since its installation, it has only been used upon one actual emergency occasion. This was back in 1961 when a tornado cloud formed west of town.

Ben Allen, city manager, said that at that time, warnings were broadcast and panic resulted. Almost everybody gt into cars and started somewhere to see about somebody's safety, or get out of town.

Traffic pandemeum followed. Nobody paid much attention to the broadcast warnings after the word "tornado."

"The system is not perfect, Allen noted. "Under severe storm conditions, such as hail, heavy rain, or high wind, the words become jarbled. They are also difficult to hear inside buildings."

Small cities and towns that blow their siren for a volunteer fire department each time there is a fire, cannot count on a siren as a warning system. No matter how the sounds are coded, at least half of the population will believe it's a fire, said Allen.

Many cities with local television stations have gone to that for an alert system, but this is worthless after program hours.

So, for the time being, Lamesa will stick to the "big voice," tornadoes no withstanding. Because Lamesans have a fondness for one kind of Tornadoes — the high school athletic teams.

NLRB Ruling On Gooch Is Upheld

ABILENE — The NLRB ruling of unfair labor practices against Gooch Packing Company has been upheld by the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Gooch appealed the findings of Examiner Melvin Pollock, which was sustained by NLRB, on the charge that the company had refused to bargain in good faith with The Almagated Meat Cutters and Butchers Union.

Editor Of Prize-Winning Paper, 100, Succumbs

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — John Netherland Heiskell, aged 100, editor of the Pulitzer Prize-winning Arkansas Gazette since 1902, died Thursday.

Heiskell entered a hospital Wednesday for the second time in a month because of increasing difficulty in breathing. He had returned to his home Dec. 10 after a week long hospital stay and had spent Christmas with his family.

He was alert Thursday morning and asked that the morning edition of the Gazette be read to him. Suddenly, there was a loss of pulse rate, and he died about 12:15 p.m. at St. Vincent Infirmary.

The official cause of death was congestive heart failure caused by a general degeneration of the circulatory system in advanced age.

The funeral service will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Trinity Episcopal Cathedral.

Survivors are the widow; two daughters, Mrs. George Whitfield Cook of Los Angeles and Mrs. Hugh B. Patterson Jr. of Little Rock, whose husband is publisher of the Gazette; a sister, Mrs. Powell Smith of Knoxville, Tenn; three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The Gazette won a Pulitzer Prize for its editorial position and another for public service after its stand for law and order in face of the Little Rock Central High School desegregation crisis in 1957.

Heiskell, the oldest active newspaper editor in the United States, was noted for his wry wit during his later years. In October, he was asked to what he attributed his longevity and he replied, "I was careful to choose the right sort of ancestors."

He also had cracked, "I'm sure that the only reason I'm still around is because of an oversight on the part of the Lord. I'm sure that He is going to correct that oversight some day. I'm glad He can't make it retroactive."

Heiskell worked for the Commercial Appeal in Memphis, Tenn., The Associated Press in Chicago and then joined with his father and brother in buying the Gazette, which was founded in 1819. It is the oldest newspaper west of the Mississippi.

Woman Gets Long Prison Sentence

ODESSA — Mrs. Doris Jean Cephus, 20-year-old Midland resident, entered a plea of guilty Thursday in 70th District Court to a felony theft charge and was handed a 10-year prison term.

The woman, charged with the Nov. 9 theft of $180 from David Kirby at an Odessa motel, is facing an assortment of charges in Odessa, Midland and Fort Worth. She also has been questioned by Albuquerque, N.M. lawmen since being arrested here on a shoplifting charge.

Midland officials Wednesday filed robbery by assault charges. Mrs. Cephus also is charged with murder in Fort Worth.

Hughes Rattled, Somoza Recalls

MANAGUA (AP) — The earthquake that devastated Nicaragua's capital early last Saturday morning caught Howard Hughes in his tightly guarded half of the seventh floor of the Intercontinental Hotel, where the billionaire recluse had been holed up since August.

The pyramid-shaped hotel cracked, and the ninth floor moved to one side and tilted. The power went out throughut the city and Hughes, who reportedly has a fear of death by natural disaster, had to decend to a darkened stairway to leave the building.

His aides put him in a rented car and drove him about a mile to the home of Gen. Anastasio Somoza, Nicaragua's strong man and a close friend.

Somoza said Hughes' prime concern was to leave the country; that he offered no assistance in the earthquake emergency.

"He was fairly disturbed," said the general. "He's used to living in places where they don't have earthquakes."

Somoza checked with the airport and was told the runway appeared undamaged. So Hughes left and apparently was driven directly to his Lear jet parked there, but the plane did not leave immediately.

The speculation is that Hughes waited until he saw other aircraft take off safely.

About 9:30 a.m., Maurice Parga, the rental car agent, drove to his office near the Intercontinental to check on his vehicles. He went on to the hotel and ffered to take guests standing outside to his home.

When Parga said he was a ham radio operator and had a station, one of Hughes' men asked to accompany him in order to send a radio message to the United States.

Parga said he tried to broadcast, but his equipment broke down. He mentioned that another ham operator, William Criswell, lived three blocks away.

It was 10:30 a.m. when Hughes' employe went to Criswell's home and asked if he could send a message to the States. Criswell already had been on the air making appeals for help.

"I don't recall his name," said Criswell," and I just couldn't keep a log, but I remember a cryptic message I sent to a Florida Ham.

"The message more or less went like this:

"We're okay, leaving on Lear jet. Destroy all records and X-ray. Proceed immediately to Miami. When arrive in Miami, call 31 Los Angeles for ultimate destination."

No one knew Hughes' destination, but it was said his jet left early Saturday afternoon. The Miami Herald reported he landed at Fort Lauderdale, and early Wednesday he arrived in London.

"Hughes still hasn't sent a damn thing here," said one friend of Somoza who asked not to be identified. "I doubt if he will ever come back, and besides I don't think Somoza will let him back in now."
