Tax increase under study by ACND

By PAT BLAIR
Managing editor

After a motion to impose a users' fee on those using navigation district property for special events died for lack of a second, district commissioners voted to consider a tax increase at their next meeting, on Dec. 6.

The decision was made Tuesday night, Nov. 15, during the Aransas County Navigation District's (ACND) discussion of recommendations made by Commissioner Charlie Augustine on how to alleviate a deficit in the district's recreation fund that this year amounted to $26,000.

Following a special meeting last Thursday, Nov. 10, navigation district commissioners agreed not to designate a single location for special events, such as SeaFair, the Art Festival and Oysterfest, then opened a discussion of Augustine's proposal to charge a users' fee to help defray the expenses of maintaining the beach areas for which the ACND is responsible.

Augustine noted that SeaFair officials at Thursday's meeting said they were willing to pay "their fair share" and Cam Leonard, president of the Rockport Art Association which sponsors the Art Festival, had indicated the association would be willing to pay a flat fee for use of the Art Festival site.

"But the consensus (of those at Thursday's meeting)," Augustine said, "was that we raise the taxes."

Bob Kay, a SeaFair official present at Tuesday's meeting, said, "I think what (SeaFair president) Jack Guillett said was that SeaFair would be willing to make a contribution, taking into consideration — and I quote Jack Guillett — that we (SeaFair) are using the beach two days out of 365."

ACND Commissioner David Maguglin said, "In my opinion, we shouldn't charge them (the special events) anything. They help the entire community."

Augustine countered, "I don't feel the taxpayers of this county should pay the whole thing. SeaFair and the Art Festival can afford to pay." Augustine said he would not go with a tax increase "if we don't make some effort to get something" from these other sources.

Augustine later commented, in response to Maguglin's reference to these special events as "community projects," "they may be community projects but they make a profit and we ought to share in that profit.

"I'm sure the end result will be a tax increase," Augustine said, "but I feel we need to make some effort first to show that we're trying to increase our revenues."

He received support from a member of the audience, J. C. Harlan, who said, "I'm appalled that the business people of Rockport and Fulton are not willing to pay their share in support of this beach. The taxpayers won't stand still for a tax increase of any kind without those other people (the special events) paying their proportionate share."

In response to a question from Commissioner Hal McKnight, "What are you thinking of charging?", Augustine said, "Five percent" of the take.

At this point Maguglin said, "That's not the answer — it's simply not the answer." The commissioners appeared in agreement that a users' fee alone will not generate the funds needed for the recreation program.

Commission Chairman Hillis Dominguez observed, "We cannot continue spending money from the harbors on recreation," referring to the fact that the $26,000 recreation deficit will be covered by revenue funds received from operations in the district's three harbors.

Responding to a question from area resident Frank Riordan, Dominguez said the district's present tax rate of 2 cents per $100 valuation generated $126,000 this year.

This entire amount, according to commissioners, is allocated to the recreation fund. "The ACND wouldn't need any taxes if it weren't for parks and recreation," Maguglin said. "The harbors are paying their own way."

Dominguez said the navigation district would still need some tax money even if it did not have park and recreation facilities but pointed out that the 2-cent tax rate was originally passed "to maintain the harbors and navigable waters" in Aransas County.

Dominguez estimated if the navigation district did not have to maintain the recreational facilities, it would eliminate approximately $66,000 a year in expenses. "We would drop automatically three men, one truck, all material on the cabanas, road maintenance, security in the Ski Basin, garbage pickup costs and liability insurance," he said.

McKnight suggested the discussion be tabled and the matter of a tax increase be brought up at the district's next meeting. At that time, he said, the district could consider a 1 or 2-cent increase in the present tax rate. He proposed in the meantime ACND commissioners meet with organizations and groups to explain the district's need for additional tax monies.

Earlier, Dominguez said the district had not increased its tax rate in 13 or 14 years. Referring to this, Kay said, "If you haven't had a tax increase in 14 years, then another 2 cents is not out of line."

Speaking on behalf of SeaFair, Kay added, "We want to help within our limits, but you all are going to have to raise taxes."

Augustine moved to impose a users' fee and after that motion died for lack of a second, McKnight made the motion to table the matter until the next meeting at which time the district will consider a tax increase of 1 or 2 cents per $100 valuation.

McKnight said the district would have to call a public hearing on the proposal.

"This will be on the next agenda," Dominguez said.

McKnight said he would also like an attorney's opinion "as to whether we can put any money into recreation."

In other action during Tuesday's meeting, the navigation district commissioners approved a request by the Aransas County Woman's Club for permission to construct new steps at the rear of the Woman's Club Building.

Hearing called on revenue bond issue

A public hearing on the Aransas County Navigation District's proposal to issue $565,000 in revenue bonds for improvements to the district's three harbors has been called for Dec. 20.

The hearing was scheduled during Tuesday night's, Nov. 15, meeting of the navigation district (ACND) following discussion with representatives of First Southwest Company, the district's bond agent.

Proposed use of the bonds include rewiring of Rockport Harbor, an estimated $100,000 project, and for construction of additional piers in Rockport and Fulton harbors.

The total amount of bonds needed, according to the First Southwest representative, was $565,000 according to original plans for the pier constructions.

During the meeting, the ACND commissioners approved a change in the proposed Fulton Harbor project that would have reduced the estimated bond requirements by $50,000. However, the commissioners voted to go with the full $565,000 bond issue and use any surplus monies for more improvements to Rockport, Fulton and Cove harbors.

A public hearing on the matter will be required, according to the First Southwest representative, because the bonds being considered by the navigation district will actually be industrial revenue bonds.

During a discussion of whether to issue the bonds for the full $565,000 or subtract the $50,000 that was not needed after the change in Fulton Harbor plans, Commissioner Dave Maguglin urged, "I wouldn't change the figure. We'll use the money." He subsequently made the motion to consider the full $565,000 bond issue at the Dec. 20 meeting.

The motion was seconded by Commissioner Roy Hicks who said, "There's no question in my mind that we can use the 50 grand in Cove Harbor" and was approved by unanimous

Wastewater treatment plant

Fulton proceeds with planning study

By LESLIE ABRAMS
Staff writer

FULTON — The second public hearing on the need for a comprehensive planning study on the feasibility of a wastewater treatment plant was held at Fulton town hall Tuesday evening, Nov. 15.

Garabed A. Harutunian of the Austin firm of Triad Engineering told council members that the grant application for the study is ready to be submitted to the 1983 Texas Community Development Program's Planning/Capacity Building Fund. Fulton is applying for a $22,500 grant for the study, which is to be done by Triad Engineering. The study will cover plans for wastewater, drainage, water and street improvements as the town grows.

A motion by Alderwoman Lynelle Hunt, seconded by Alderwoman Pat Loflin, to proceed with the comprehensive planning study was unanimously approved by the council.

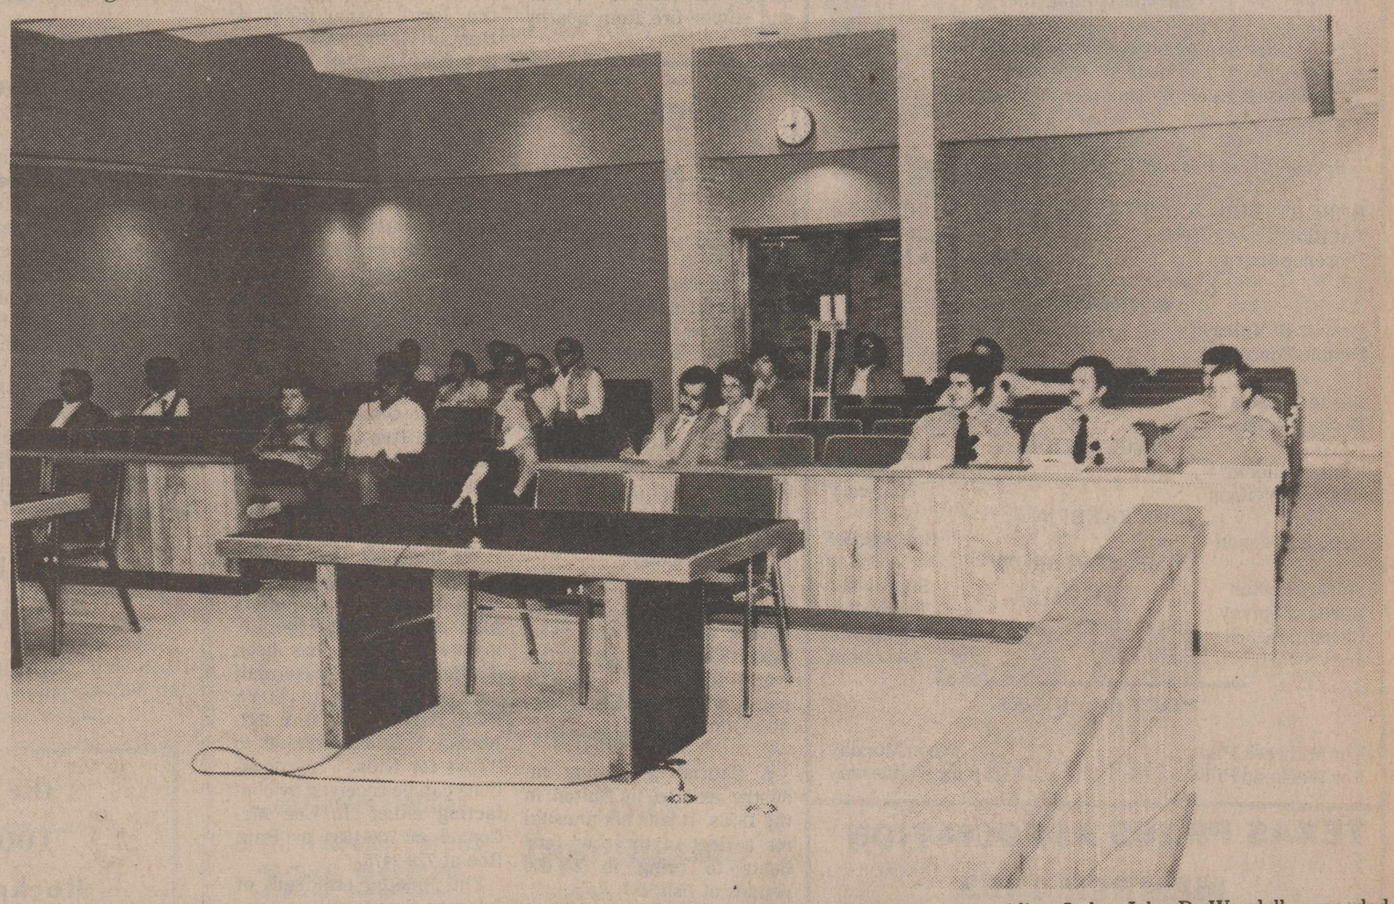

After the public hearing, discussion of the plans for the construction of a hike and bike path along Fulton Beach Road ensued. Fulton secured a $200,000 matching funds grant for the path from the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department earlier this year. Fulton was granted a 29-year easement by Aransas County and the Aransas County Navigation District to construct the path along the right-of-way on the east side of Fulton Beach Road.

Plans and specifications for the construction of the path must be submitted to TP&WD for approval before construction begins. A tentative starting date has been set for February. Triad Engineering has offered to do the engineering work on the project for a sum of $30,000.

Harutunian suggested that after the plans are approved by TP&WD, the city go out for bids on each item involved with the construction. He also suggested that the city hire someone on a temporary basis to look after the project and keep track of construction materials. In addition, he urged the council to make decisions step by step instead of all at once.

The decision to award the contract on the hike and bike path will be brought up at next Tuesday's meeting.

'Our nation's economy could only benefit'

By LLOYD BENTSEN
Senator

During 1982, the United States imported $42.6 billion more in goods and services than it exported. That is a huge trade deficit, and it could reach $70 billion this year.

One estimate shows that if we could boost our exports enough to bring our international trade account into balance, 1.7 million jobs could be created.

It doesn't seem like it should be too difficult to increase exports since so few U.S. companies sell their products abroad. In the late 1970s, for example, a scant 1 percent of U.S. firms accounted for 80 percent of the goods and services sold to other countries.

Watching Washington

That means that 99 percent of our nation's businesses are a vast untapped source for exports. And most of them are small businesses, which produce almost half of our Gross National Product and create 60 percent of the new jobs for American workers.

If small businesses could be persuaded to export, our trade deficit could easily be wiped out.

Congress has established several programs designed partially or entirely to promote exporting by small businesses. Operating through the Export-Import Bank, for example, are the Export Trading Company Loan Guarantee Program, the Small Manufacturer's Discount Loan Program, the Foreign Credit Insurance Program and the Commercial Bank Guarantee Program.

Yet for all their grand names, these programs have been a flop when it comes to encouraging small businesses to sell their products in other countries.

The Ex-Im Bank's export assistance programs continue to function as though small business has nothing to contribute to reducing our soaring trade deficit.

Under the Commercial Bank Guarantee Program, for instance, only 10 percent of all outstanding export credit obligations are to small businesses.

Less than 2 percent of the $23 billion in outstanding obligations under the giant Foreign Credit Insurance and Discount Loan Programs are to small business, even though the latter has been renamed the "Small Manufacturer Discount Loan Program."

The Export Trading Company Loan Guarantee Program, which is the only Ex-Im Bank program designed solely to aid medium and small business, had completed only two transactions thus far.

I have written to Comptroller General Charles A. Bowsher, who heads the General Accounting Office, asking him to audit and evaluate these programs, and to propose steps that Congress or the Ex-Im Bank should take to turn these programs around.

Small businesses are the backbone of the American economy. They are winners. These programs to help small businesses should have the same kind of track record.

Our nation's economy could only benefit.

Tracking the national debt

Controversy surrounding the Reagan administration's request to raise the national debt ceiling included questions about how the United States became so deeply entangled in economic difficulties.

Thus, the question, where does the national debt come from?

The truth is the federal government has never been debt-free. Even in fiscal 1790, there was a national debt totaling $75.5 million.

Deficit spending builds up the debt and its biggest growth has come during wars. It broke $1 billion during the Civil War, surged from $2.98 billion to $25.48 in World War I and passed $100 billion in World War II.

In November 1981, the debt passed $1 trillion. Interest payments alone on the debt, now $1.389 trillion, totaled a record $103.9 billion in fiscal 1983, surpassing the previous year's $117.4 billion.

The problem now is that huge peacetime deficits threaten to push the debt beyond $2 trillion by 1988. For the first time since WW II, the debt is consistently growing faster than the economy, so the debt-to-GNP (Gross National Product) ratio is rising.

Since 1917, Congress has attempted to control deficit spending by approving a series of debt ceiling increases — limits beyond which the Treasury cannot borrow. The restraint isn't effective because it leads to periodic debt ceiling crises.

Another question frequently heard is what economic difference does the national debt make?

In theory — none, economist agree. Debt is simply an alternative to taxes. But debt is more expensive than taxes. The government has to pay interest on the debt — $103.9 billion in fiscal 1983, the third largest item in the budget. There are predictions the interest will increase by some $56 billion a year by 1986.

Some Americans may also be wondering why Congress from time to time refuses to lift the debt ceiling. Conservatives in both houses sometimes stall action on the debt issue to force deficit cutting. This doesn't always happen.

In the latest dispute, however, senators faced the possibility Reagan would veto any debt ceiling bill that called for new taxes. The House acted first on raising the debt ceiling, approving it by a lopsided margin.

War and peace: we need a closer look at the issues

Bill Patman reports

When does the United States go to war? Why do we go to war? How is "war" defined? What's the legal ground for declaring war?

These questions have been vigorously debated since the explosion killing our Marines in Beirut on Oct. 25, followed two days later by announcement of our surprise invasion of Grenada.

I don't suggest there are simple answers to those questions on which all would agree. But, whatever the difference of opinion, the tragedy of Beirut and the surprise of Grenada have forced us to sharpen our thinking about war and about peace.

Every American wants peace.

A central issue raised by Lebanon and Grenada is this: when may war be necessary in order to bring or preserve peace? And who should decide?

Lebanon and Grenada have brought two different Congressional answers. Congress voted to let the president keep troops in Labanon 18 more months. In Grenada, we limited the time troops could stay to 60 days.

It's significant that, in each case, debate and decision have centered around the War Powers Act. After both the Beirut explosion that killed at least 230 Marines, and after our mission into Grenada, Congress rallied behind the flag.

A majority in Congress was unwilling to dispute administration policy.

However, Congress said it does have a role to play because Article I, Section 8 of our Constitution give to Congress the power and responsibility to declare war.

Both the Senate and House have passed resolutions invoking the War Powers Act of 1973 in Lebanon and Grenada. The act was the basis for the resolution that authorized the president to keep Marines in Lebanon another year and a half.

After the Grenada invasion, Congress quickly approved a resolution giving the president two months to keep our Marines there. That time provision may be extended by Congress later.

That action was based on two key provisions of the War Powers Act which require the president to stop the use of U.S. armed forces 60 days after troops have been involved in "hostilities," unless Congress declares war or specifically authorizes our sending troops abroad.

The resolution on Grenada was passed by both the Democratic House and the Republican Senate. I supported it because, if American students were in danger, I assumed the president acted rightly to rescue them.

President Reagan has accepted the time limits for troops in Lebanon and Grenada, but he does not concede that the War Powers Act applies.

His position is that he has acted under his authority as commander in chief and that he could send troops to both locales, whether Congress approved or not.

Despite disagreement on who has war-making power, Congress turned down an amendment to cut off funds for forces in Lebanon after next March 1 unless Congress itself set forth clear goals for our being there.

I supported that amendment because when people ask me, "Why are we in Lebanon?" and "What is our future there?", I have no good answer. As you know, our military leaders opposed sending troops into Lebanon.

Our Marines are a fighting force, not international diplomats. They shouldn't be turned into sitting ducks in an 11-acre compound, easy targets for terrorist attacks and sniper fire from nearby hills.

A peek at the past

A salt industry was centered in Lamar prior to the Civil War. Salt was produced by running sea water into pits or vats and permitting it to evaporate naturally.

The Connie Hagar Wildlife Sanctuary was officially designated in 1967, named for a Rockport ornithologist who was known worldwide for her expertise.

Several turtle packing plants existed in the area during the 1890s and early 1900s. The large sea turtles were towed into "turtle pens" where they were kept alive until needed.

A flourishing fishing industry existed in Fulton in the 1890s. It was not unusual for a fleet of three or four boats to bring in 2-3,000 pounds of fish.

Toys for Kids needs your help

Dear editor:

Once again, the time is upon us for kicking off the annual Toys for Kids drive in Aransas County. This has historically been a county-wide effort to assist in providing under-privileged and needy families with small children the opportunity to receive free toys at Christmas.

This project is sponsored and administered by the Rockport Lions Club with the help of countless donations of cash and toys from various individuals, merchants, churches and civic organizations. As you recall, in its earlier years, the program depended primarily on the redemption of Texas Gold Stamps which were collected from drop boxes in area stores year-round.

When the stamp program was discontinued last year, we were forced to resort to solicitation of cash donations in order for the toy giveaway to continue. Citizens responded well and last year's drive succeeded in helping 209 area children have a Merry Christmas.

The toy recipients (which are determined primarily from criteria provided by the local Department of Human Resources) will be greater in number this year as a result of the economy and unemployment, as well as the population growth in the county. Therefore, we must make a special effort in order to maintain and improve on the level of success achieved in previous years.

Accordingly, we are asking all interested persons in the county to make a contribution to this year's Toys for Kids campaign. In the past, some organizations have elected to donate toys in lieu of cash. This is welcomed. However, we ask that only new toys be donated and that they be for children ranging from infant to 12 years.

We have set Dec. 2 as a deadline for receiving donations in order to adequately plan and organize the toy giveaway, which has been set for Dec. 17. Please mail your contribution to TOYS FOR KIDS, P.O. Box 222, Rockport 78382, payable to "Toys for Kids." Toy donations can be received by contacting either Jo Lee McConnel at 729-1684 or Pam Roe at 729-2475.

The needy children of Aransas County will certainly appreciate your support.

Sincerely,
John P. Jackson
Chairman, Toys for Kids

'Alcoholic epidemic'

Dear editor:

Rockport, does the decision in the Willie Rice case surprise you? What kind of statement does it make to the policeman who enforce our laws? What about citizens who make the decision whether or not to drive after a few drinks?

How many of our family and friends will have to die as the result of drunk drivers because our laws are not strict enough and punishment isn't strong enough to deter people from driving while intoxicated? There is an old saying that is most appropriate, "When you drive don't drink and when you drink don't drive."

If you must drink, please let a sober friend do your driving because no matter what a jury may decide, a life is too precious to waste. When are we going to wake up to the alcoholic epidemic that is sweeping our country?

In sorrow,
s/Stephen C. Shenk

Thanks, from Lamar

Dear editor:

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Lamar Volunteer Fire Department wishes to thank everyone who made any kind of contribution or worked for the overwhelming success of our Market Days which was held on Nov. 11 and 12.

Chances sold on the three prizes were won by C.P. Ernster, Jessie James and Jean Kramer.

We especially thank Jan McGlasson, who was chairman of the Market Days. Her enthusiam and organization contributed to the accomplishment of our goals. The president of the Ladie's Auxiliary is Polly Moss, and the fire chief is Bob Parke.

Searching for ancestors

Dear editor:

I am searching for ancestors. I am hoping some of your readers can help me. My great great great grandmother emigrated to Texas from Illinois in the 1850s. She died in Texas in 1864. Her name was Christina Driscoll.

She had children in Texas, a John and William on the 1860, 1870 and 1880 census. I think part of the Driscolls or Driskills were in the Rockport area.

I will appreciate any information and will return all postage. This is for medical research.

Correction

An error appeared in a letter to the editor last week regarding the "pray-in" at the Paws & Taws Building.

Some names were omitted from a paragraph which should have read:

Martha Luigi directed the singing and did a marvelous solo accompanied by Barbara Carter who also provided all the music for the general singing. Mrs. Pearcy Lewis accompanied the trio from the Church of God, Susie Odoms, Rachel Luddington and Pauline Dillworth.

The Pilot regrets the error and offers our apologies to those whose names were omitted and to Center of Positive Thought members Edwina Stranahan, Mary Hearn and Jean Glowka who wrote the letter.

The Pilot welcomes mail from our readers.

IN THE COURSE OF the past two weeks I have been reading a couple of the "New Yorker" magazine's "Reporter at Large" pieces by John McPhee. They are about Switzerland's citizen army to which "everyone belongs," at least for a month and more each year from early manhood to senior years — 30 years.

Switzerland is about twice the size of the state of New Jersey but with half the population. Although the Swiss have not been in a war for nearly 500 years their 650,000-man army is determined to know how to fight in order to not have to.

True enough, the United States or any other major power could conquer Switzerland, but the cost would be so staggering as to beggar the imagination, even with use of nuclear weapons. Here I have merely glossed over an almost book-length article, but with good purpose.

Suppose our own country were to be militarily organized with means of defense at every crossroads, with men trained and ready? My own thinking is that other countries, those forever eager to tweek Uncle Sam's nose, would be more cautious. More, I believe that patriotism and the morale of our citizenry would be higher because everyone would be more aware of the meaning of our democracy and what it represents.

The world has and will no doubt continue to condemn Richard Nixon for the immorality of Watergate. For one I have long since been able to gloss that over as "politics." Nixon's crime, and it was purely political, was to end the draft. There are perhaps many among you who will condemn and ridicule me for those statements. I can only hope however faint-heartedly, that your condemnation and ridicule will be able to last forever.

FORGET THE CUTIE-PIE mug shot. Georgie Anne Geyer is the latest of the syndicated columnists who appear in the Corpus Christi Caller. She is one of the most astute political observers in the country. A few days ago she was discussing our problems along our southern border and ended her column with these words: "At worst, if these ominous new problems are not met with rationally and creatively — while Washington focuses on the Middle East instead of our own borders and while our own Southwest becomes more fragmented and incoherent — we could and will have our very own Lebanon right here." To be so succinctly analytical Geyer must be clairvoyant.

IN HIS "OMINOUS PARALELES, The End of Freedom in America," Leonard Piekoff describes the ideal socialism system as it existed in Nazi Germany. "Socialism for the Nazis denotes the principle of collectivism and as such its corollary, statism — in every field of human action." In other words, the state must rule supreme, individualism not become just secondary but instead cease to exist.

It is in that direction that our country has been moving for almost four decades, a circumstance marked and demonstrated by increasing control from Washington, increasingly accepted and approved by the people. Most frighteningly demonstrated was the recent denial of the right of the press to access to Grenada, a circumstance generally approved and very frequently gleefully cheered by the public at large. The condition is the same as so readily accepted in Nazi Germany and recognized today in Russia and many other countries in varying degree.

Heaven knows the press has its faults, they are even legion, but it is to be doubted that even the most vocal supporter of press denial in Grenada would soberly approve of news that amounted only to the propaganda that it would certainly be if it came only in the form of handouts from the national and state capitals.

To deny this would be to accept as inevitable a statement made nearly half a century ago by Lenin — to the effect that Russia would eventually overcome the United States without force of arms. Still, who would deny that we are not moving in that direction? Thomas Jefferson, harassed as much as any man before or since, was still able to write: "Our liberty depends upon the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost."

NEWSPAPER PEOPLE, LIKE THOSE of other crafts, are banded into national, state and regional organizations, all of which have written codes of ethics, codes that are sometimes — yet seldom — ignored.

Now because I do not believe in censorship for any reason, nor in any circumstance, I would not suggest that the press censor its own. Yet I do believe that those segments of the press which feature sensationalism, those which report news that is not news and in general fail in their duty to inform the public should be denied membership in organizations whose codes they flaunt.

And yet here I am obliged to observe that thousands, perhaps millions, of Americans derive their knowledge of events from the yellow press, including many of those who endorse and advocate censorship of the media.

Here I must ruefully observe that one city in Texas, a major city in the nation is served only — mark only — by lurid printed media. One is caused to wonder, especially a writer who has for long contended that the local newspaper, big city or small town, is the community's show window.

Construction totals hit $2 million mark for two-month period

Construction in Rockport Country Club Estates sent the city's building totals over the $2 million mark for September and October with the start of eight residences and a four-building condominium in the development.

Building totals for those two months mean that more than $8 million in construction has been started in Rockport so far this year.

Largest single project started in the country club development is The Gardens, a four-building $1.25 million condominium development. Motorcraft Homes of Texas in Corpus Christi is owner and contractor for the project.

Permits for all four of the two-story buildings, to be located in RCC Estates Unit 1A, were taken out Sept. 19.

Permits for eight residences to be located in RCC Estates Unit 1 were taken out in September and October and totaled $719,370 in value. Pencon Inc. of Houston is contractor for four of the residences.

The largest value for a single residence started in the development was $122,210 for a 3,055-square-foot structure for which permit was applied Sept. 1. One residence valued at $100,000 was started in October.

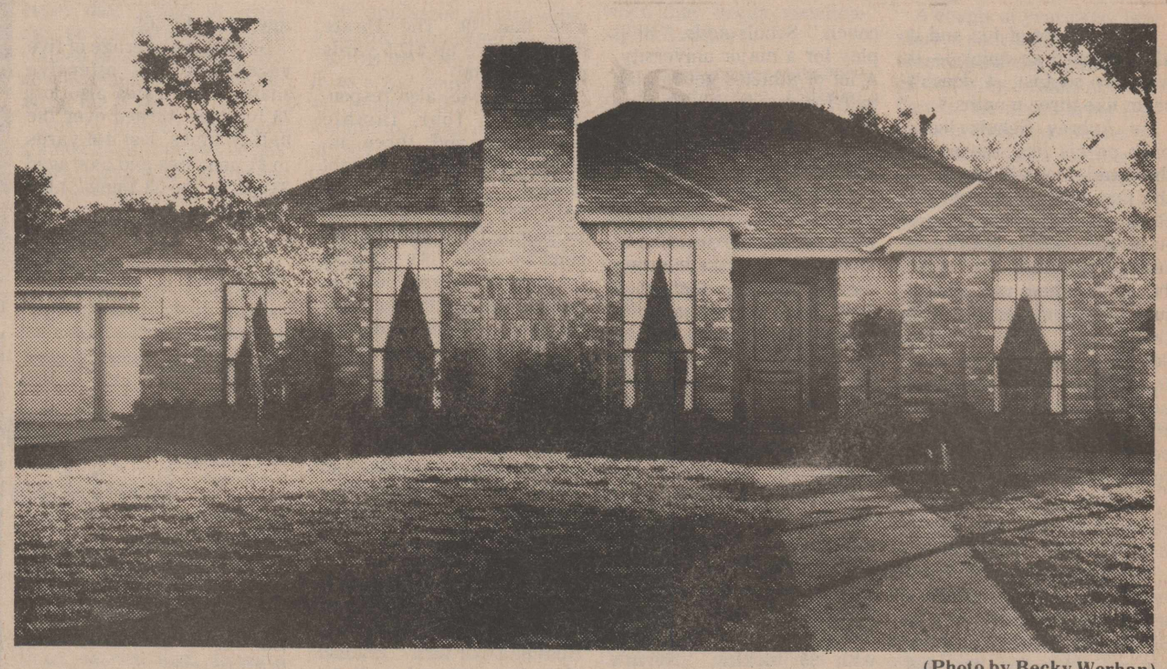

Three other residences were started in Rockport during the two-month period at a total valuation of $114,000.

Remodeling, additions to residences or businesses and construction of storage facilities added another $55,558 to building totals during the two months, including $5,000 in renovations to the former Monroe building at 501 Liberty to convert the structure to a business and printing office.

Another remodeling project was the addition of a 240-square-foot extension, new porch and steps to the Aransas County Council on Aging's Adult Activity Center on South Church. Cost of the project was $2,500.

Signs totaling an estimated $24,200 in value were installed during the two months, with three of the sign permits issued to the Harbor Oaks Shopping Village for signs amounting to an estimated $21,300 in value.

Other permits issued during the period included one for construction of boat barns on Magnolia Street, an estimated $12,500 value, a $9,000 pier on Water Street, a $7,000 swimming pool and fences valued at a total $4,380.

THE FIRST MODEL HOME in Rockport Country Club Estates was opened with a formal ribbon-cutting at 3 p.m. Thursday. Eight new residences were started in Rockport Country Club Estates Unit 1 in September and October, adding more than $700,000 to the $2.2 million construction totals for the two-month period.

Business & finance

Security comes through action

Scott Burns

Q: I need some advice about investments and my personal finances. I'm 26 years old and have been with my company for four years . . . but I still find it very difficult to manage with a monthly paycheck.

My assets include a money market fund which totals $300, a job retirement program which totals $1,800 and my monthly salary which is $900, net. My liabilities include rent, utilities, car payments, credit union, etc. After all of my liabilities are paid, there is nothing left in my bank account. My bank charges me a $10 service fee each month because my balance falls below the $300 minimum.

I have no savings account or other investments of any type. Would you advise me on the following questions:

1. What is the first thing I should do about this situation?
2. What type of savings program should I start first?
3. What kind of investments do you think would really get me off to a good start?
4. What advice can you give about managing a monthly paycheck?
5. How can I become financially independent in the next few years?
6. If I go into business for myself, what type of investments should I have that will keep me going strong, even when business is very slow?
7. What can I do to totally change my situation?

D.J., Dallas.

A: Just starting to ask questions puts you way ahead of most people. If you take steps to answer them and then act on the answers, you are almost certain to be in a better position almost immediately. Here are the answers to your questions:

1. The first thing you should do is learn the vocabulary of money by reading a book on personal finance and elementary accounting.

Just as you can't fix some problems without the proper wrench or screwdriver, you can't think about some problems without the proper words. Your personal balance sheet consists of things you own (assets) and debts you have (liabilities). Your goal is to have your assets expand faster than your liabilities. This is separate from your personal income and expense statement. If your income exceeds your expenses, you will have savings which are then added to the assets on your personal balance sheet.

This is not an academic distinction. For many people, particularly young people, their assets and net worth are increasing even though they are strapped for cash. This happens because they have acquired assets by taking on debt. Your car, for instance, is an asset. Your car loan is a debt. If your car is still worth something when the loan is paid off, you have, in effect, been an enforced saver and have increased your net worth.

If you want to increase your cash savings, you might consider selling your car, paying off the debt and buying a less expensive car with lower monthly payments.

2. As attractive as IRA plans are, your first savings program should be a cash savings account. If having an extra $100 in your checking account will save you $120 a year in service charges, your effective return on that $100 is 120 percent!

Beyond that, you need cash savings for another reason. If you don't have enough money to leave a job, you are a prisoner and can't negotiate effectively. With $300 in available cash, you must be very careful about keeping your job. With $1,800 in the bank you can afford to be more daring. The $1,500 difference could mean a $1,000 or $1,500 annual raise at review time, a nice "return" on your savings in addition to bank interest.

As any compensation manager will tell you, a given job isn't worth a fixed amount. It will pay in a "band" — say $13,000 to $16,000 or $20,000 to $25,000 — and your position in that range is a function of your ability as a negotiator. Negotiate from strength.

3. The best investment you can make, at 26, is in yourself, your education, your experience, anything that will expand your capacity to solve problems. This includes making sure you work with people who help you grow.

4. The simplest solution for managing a monthly paycheck is to start with less money to spend. Have 5 or 10 percent of your net automatically deducted before you receive your check. It's harder to spend what you never see.

5. You can't become financially independent in a few years by working for someone else. It's hard enough working for yourself, as thousands of self-employed people will testify. You gain financial independence by devoting yourself, night and day, to a high-risk, all-consuming project. Then, if you are lucky, you might "make it."

6. If you go into business for yourself the best investment you can make is in cash. It may or may not earn much interest but it will be there when you need it most. Cash is the difference between life and death. Not inventory. Not product. Not office, or showroom, or store. Greenbacks.

7. People "totally change" their situations when they want to or must. Otherwise they are merely waiting to become victims. Decide, right now, not to be a victim, and everything will change.

Brown & Root awarded contract

HOUSTON — ARAMCO has awarded Brown & Root-Alireza a two-year contract to provide hydrographic surveying services. Brown & Root-Alireza W.L.L., a joint venture in Saudi Arabia, began the work this summer.

Brown & Root, a Halliburton company, is one of the world's most diversified engineering and construction firms.

To conduct hydrographic surveying in ARAMCO's operating area of the Arabian Gulf, Brown & Root will install a medium range multiple user electromagnetic positions system to continually fix the location of survey vessels within an accuracy of plus or minus 5 meters.

The contract calls for site surveys, pipeline routes, navigational routes, pre and post-dreding surveys, surveys of installed work and shallow water surveys.

Brown & Root has been in the hydrographic surveying business for 16 years and a leader in the use of computers for marine surveys since the 1960s.

1983 Pirates

A team to remember . . .

"It was a lot of fun and it all happened so quick — it went by so fast, it doesn't seem like three months."

As Aubrey Schulz looks back on his first season as the head football coach — the first winning season for Rockport-Fulton in 13 years — he has nothing but praise for the 1983 Pirates. "Coaching them was a lot of fun. I enjoyed working with this bunch. They started something in Rockport — in football, in the high school and in the whole community. People are going to remember this team for a long time.

"They're going to remember them and try to live up to their example."

The core of the 1983 Pirate team is the group of 18 senior lettermen; athletes who, in Shulz' words "had all odds against them for the past four years" but carved out the Pirates' surprising 6-4 record — the team's best ever in 4A ball.

"I don't know that I will ever have the opportunity to coach a group of players like that again," says Schulz. "They stuck together, enjoyed each other, enjoyed practice, enjoyed playing. They encouraged each other and played as a team.

"They were definitely the core of the entire ball club."

Of the best-known Pirate, Dwayne Walls, Schulz says, "There will be other athletes that will gain attention but there may never be another Dwayne Walls. He's a once-in-a-lifetime player to coach." Schulz adds, "He'll play for a major university. A lot of athletes get to play ball for major schools, but Dwayne will be a good one. He'll be one of the better ones."

Walls gained 1249 yards in his last season, averaging 6.7 yards for 186 carries. One of the keys to the Pirate back's success was the support of Scott Russ. Second in Pirate rushing stats, Russ gained 591 yards for the season in 125 carries. "Scott blocked for Dwayne all season. He was a big part of the success of the whole team," states Schulz.

Russ began his high school ball career at RFHS, moved in his junior year, then returned for the 1983 season. In an identical situation was Pirate tackle Kevin Billeiter, leading the team with 95 tackles. "Kevin's stats speak for themselves," says his coach.

Schulz cites senior tackle Darren Gurley as the most improved player of the season. "He's really improved a lot from what I saw last year on films," states Schulz. "As far as wanting to and effort put in, he's turned out to be a pretty good football player. He put in a lot of extra effort and he's improved a bunch." Gurley had 20 tackles for the season.

Second behind Billeiter in the tackle tally, Doyle Parr had 84 for the season. Number 80 Bill Mott had 82, David Cochran had 56, Tom Weaver had 50, Robert Dominguez had 49 and Chris Hill also had 49. The Pirate defense gave up 242.5 yards per ball game.

Cochran was also responsible for four fumble recoveries and three interceptions. Receiving eight passes, Cochran led the receivers with 101 yards, averaging 12.5 each time. Second to Walls' 143 yards in six kick off returns, Cochran gained 68 yards on five returns. He scored one Pirate touchdown, 12 extra points and two field goals.

Walls was the Pirate scoring leader, taking the ball across the goal line nine times this season, ahead of Russ, who had three TD's and Parr with two. Mott, Trinelle Walls, Rudy Solis and Steve Arkell had one touchdown each for the year.

Trinelle Walls had 14 punt returns for 46 yards and Russ had four for 17. Trinelle also gained 56 yards on three receptions for the season. Parr gained 53 on three; Mott, 55 on two, averaging higher than anyone, with 27.5 yards per carry. Steve Arkell had 24 on two, Leon Thomas had nine yards for one reception and Billeiter had three for one. Receivers averaged 12 yards per catch.

Midseason replacement quarterback Rudy Solis attempted 49 passes, completing 48 percent, or 20 of them. Bobby Dingenary completed 19 percent, seven out of 37.

The Pirates had 138 first downs for the season, 2,235 yards rushing, 326 yards passing and offensive yardage total of 2,561.

Gaining an average of five yards per 425 offensive snaps, the Pirates also lost 23 fumbles, turned over the ball 27 times, lost 446 yards in 61 penalties and averaged 33 yards for 33 punts, 1,033 yards total.

Coastal Bend's energy discussed

State of the region

By JULIET K. WENGER
Coastal Bend Council of Goverments

Some of the possibilities that lie in the future of the Coastal Bend in the energy industry were discussed at a meeting of the Council of Governments Environmental Quality Committee.

The committee heard from two speakers from Texas A&I University's Department of Natural Gas Engineering. One is Dr. Charles McGuffey who occupies the Dr. Frank Dotterweich Chair. The other is a graduate student, John Ping Lu, doing research supported by the King Ranch Family Turst. He is from Taiwan.

McGuffey was looking to the more immediate future when the surplus of natural gas will end, and Ping Lu to the more distant future, when other natural sources of energy will be depleted and hydrogen might become an economically feasible energy source.

McGuffey discussed some of the factors that can influence the length of time before the imbalance will end. Since 1964, more gas has been found each year than used. There have been four warm winters, increasing the surplus.

If cold winters occur and gas use increases, the situation could reverse itself within a short period of time. Deregulation could come, influencing both the price and use of gas. McGuffey quoted studies showing that within five years a new emphasis can be expected in drilling both offshore and on shore. This would have a tremendous influence on the economy of the Coastal Bend.

Ping Lu, who is a graduate of the National University of Taiwan, presented information he has worked up in a study for his graduate degree. Hydrogen has an advantage in that it can be used as a fuel without any pollutant. It is separated from water and produces water, so water could be recirculated in the process. The supply would be as inexaustable as the water supply.

Today, the cost of energy to produce hydrogen is greater than the value of the hydrogen obained. When technology has developed to the point where solar energy becomes cost effective, then hydrogen would have a potential as the fuel to convert into electricity.

Hydrogen can be stored in liquid form. Since it is clean, it can be burned in open air. At a time when solar energy is in use, hydrogen could be stored to use as an alternate fuel during hours when the sun is not shining, overcoming the difficulties of storing solar fuel.

Dotterweich, in whose honor the natural gas chair was established at A&I, introduced both speakers to the committee.

Dotterweich suggested that these things should be discussed in the economic development of the Coastal Bend today. The Coastal Bend with all its sunshine and expanses of water is the part of the world that could benefit from the future research.

Today the economy of the region which depends so heavily on natural gas and petroleum production is in recession. All of the speakers indicated that these economic conditions will change and, depending on the factors discussed, the expected upturn might not be in the too distant future.

During the Civil War, camels were purchased in North Africa and brought to this area as an experiment by the Army. They were eventually released in West Texas.

To state ranches

Hightower, Mattox file to release corn

AUSTIN — Federal Judge Lucius Buntin of Midland has set Dec. 1 as the date for an El Paso hearing on a motion for a preliminary injunction ordering U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block to "activate and implement any one or al of seven specific disaster relief programs" to provide inexpensive livestock feed to drought-stricken West Texas ranchers.

The motion was filed as part of a lawsuit by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower and Attorney General Jim Mattox on Nov. 1 in an effort to force Block to exercise his discretionary authority to provide the disaster aid. By refusing to implement available disaster provisions in federal law, the Hightower/Mattox suit claims, Block has "arbitrarily and capriciously abused the discretion" given him by Congress to ease the impact on agriculture of natural disasters such as floods and drought.

Hightower has been battling for three months to convince Block to release to the ranchers nearly 20 million bushels of badly-deteriorated corn stored in the PLB Grain Storage Corp. facility in Plainview. The corn, much of it stored in the facility since the 1979/80 Russian grain embargo, costs taxpayers $532,000 per month to store, Hightower said.

USDA officials have denied the corn is going out of condition, but an inspection commissioned by Hightower's office and USD documents released by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's office indicate the corn is in much worse condition than USDA claims. The corn samples taken from the facility by Texas Agriculture Department inspectors were graded by a USDA-certified lab and indicated that well over half the corn has deteriorated past the allowable level for human consumption and much of it is "musty, moldy and weevilly."

USDA officials dismiss the TDA inspection as "unofficial" but thus far have refused to conduct an updated official inspection of their own to settle the dispute. Meanwhile, a U.S. House subcommittee is looking into the matter and Bentsen has asked the Senate Agriculture Committee to conduct its own inspection of the PLB facility.

Bentsen earlier succeeded in amending the dairy/tobacco price support bill to include a measure ordering Block to sell the corn to the drought-ravaged ranchers at a greatly reduced price, but at the time the Hightower/Mattox suit was filed, the bill still had to clear the House and its future was uncertain.

Hightower said the suit was filed mainly as a back-up measure and if the bill containing the Bentsen amendment wins congressional approval and is signed by the President, the suit would probably be dropped.

Airman 1st Class Molly Hynes graduates

Airman 1st Class Molly S. Hynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.W. Hynes of Star Route 1, Rockport, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force operating room specialist course at Sheppard Air Force Base.

Graduates of the course studied theory and skills of operating room procedures and pre- and post-operative care of patients. They also earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Hynes will now serve at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

She is a 1977 graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School.

Two thefts reported to Rockport police last

Two incidents of theft were reported to Rockport police during the past week.

Mary Hill of Rockport reported theft of $637 in coins and jewelry from a jar kept in a bedroom closet of her residence. She said the jar was last seen approximately three months ago.

In another incident, Kathleen Rasco of Rockport reported theft of $200 in cash plus a gold wedding band from the bedroom of her residence between 3 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 11.

The Rockport Police Department is investigating both incidents.

Olbrich enjoys the fishing...among other things

By PAT BLAIR
Managing editor

After "many, many years" of vacationing in Rockport, Roy Olbrich moved here in August 1976 because "I enjoyed the fishing."

He still does — along with golfing, beekeeping, his work with the Aransas County Council on Aging, the cancer society, the heart association . . .

Like quite a few other people in Aransas County, Roy believes in the active life. He has served as president of the Aransas County units of the American Heart Association and American Cancer Society, is senior vice commander of the Rockport Chapter of the VFW, a treasurer and member of the board of the Council on Aging (COA).

A member of the Live Oak Country Club, he plays golf every day. About 10 years ago, he started working with stained glass as a hobby and now he teaches a class in the art at the COA.

Not to mention the eight stained glass windows he has made, along with Liz Devenney of Fulton, for the new Fulton Community Church sanctuary . . .

A native of Burlington in Central Texas, Roy says "after about 21 years of raising cotton and pulling corn, I went to Texas A&M University."

He graduated in 1941 with a degree in engineering and "joined the Army." He went in as a 2nd lieutenant, spent 44 months in the South Pacific and was discharged in 1945 with the rank of captain. Shortly after his discharge, he married Eldora. The couple has two daughters and four grandchildren.

On Jan. 2, 1946, Roy went to work for the Texas Pipeline Co., a subsidiary of Texaco. "I started as an engineer trainee," he recalls. Later he advanced to chief engineer and when he retired from the company 5 years later, he was vice president in charge of maintenance and construction.

"We were largely responsible for laying both domestic and foreign Texas pipelines," Roy says. As far as he's concerned, the most challenging pipeline he ever helped lay was the one across the Andes Mountains in Columbia and Ecuador. "That was probably our greatest achievement."

The last 25 years with the company, Roy and Eldora lived in Houston. That was when they began vacationing in Rockport.

The Olbrichs are members of Sacred Heart Catholic Church — and Roy is a staunch supporter of A&M. "Next to my family and my church," he says, "comes A&M." Plaques in his workroom where he creates his years of contributing to the Aggies Club and A&M's Century Club.

Roy took up stained glass work as a hobby about 10 years ago, he said. "My wife wanted to do it and couldn't cut the glass, so I took it up."

Over the years he has made numbers of lampshades and window pieces, including several lamps in the Olbrichs' home in Little Bay Shores and the windows on either side of their front door.

Earlier this year he and Devenney volunteered to make eight stained glass windows for Fulton Community Church. Roy is now finishing up the last four. He figures it takes "at least" 40 hours of work per window — about 300 hours total on the project. It takes him an average of 40 to 50 hours to do one lamp, he adds.

A couple of years ago, Roy started sharing his hobby by teaching classes at the Council on Aging's Adult Activity Center. He also started taking a watercolor classes at the center and a number of his paintings — primarily seascapes and birds — grace the Olbrichs' home.

Roy is a member of the board of directors and treasurer for the COA and spends "at least two hours a day with the COA, I'm sure."

His beekeeping began about five or six years ago when bees living in a tree in his yard swarmed. "I decided to catch them," he said — and he did. This past spring, he caught a swarm to start his second hive and figures he has some honey that is just about ready for gathering.

"I don't know how many swarms I've given away to other folks," he adds.

Despite all his other activities, Roy still finds time for what brought him to Rockport in the first place — fishing.

But, he adds, he doesn't have time for a lot of fishing. "I don't go," he says, "but about . . . at least once a day . . ."

ROY OLBRICH is shown with two of his stained glass creations, a lamp and one of the windows that will be installed in the new sanctuary of Fulton Community Church.

Annual 4-H food show set for this weekend

TAFT — Sixty-seven 4-H boys and girls from San Patricio and Aransas Counties will vie for top honors on Saturday, Nov. 19, at the Annual 4-H Food Show in the Taft South Elementary School.

Exhibits of food entries will be on display for the public at 1 p.m. with the Awards Program set for 1:30 p.m.

Entrants in senior and junior and pre-4-H divisions will seek top honors and senior and junior winners will earn a slot in the district contest.

All divisions feature four entry classes — main dish, breads and cereals, nutritious snacks and desserts and fruits and vegetables.

Judging will focus on knowledge of nutrition, meal planning, food buying and meal service — along with the ability to prepare food.

The Bi-County 4-H Food Show is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Aransas County EMS answers 7,000th alarm

The Aransas County Emergency Service answered its 7,000th alarm since beginning operations on Jan. 15, 1977, on Monday, Nov. 7.

In the six years and 10 months of operations since the service began, the paramedics and ambulances have traveled over 289,143 miles. The Mobile Intensive Care Units have responded to 1,399 heart attack calls, 1,224 auto accidents, 1,303 miscellaneous calls and thousands of other types of emergency calls ranging from recreational accidents to falls, strokes, burns and drownings.

Paramedics have used their Life-Pak heart monitors 2,055 times, given IV's to 1,505 patients and administered lifesaving drugs to 713 persons.

Forty-seven percent or 3,274 calls have been in the City of Rockport, 49 percent or 3,416 calls in the county, 236 calls or 3 percent in the Town of Fulton and 1 percent or 74 calls outside of Aransas County.

Four thousand three hundred fifty-five persons have been transported aboard the modulances while the paramedics have found 218 persons dead on scene when they arrived.

Thirty-eight percent of all patients, for a total of 1,653, have been taken to Coastal Bend Hospital in Aransas Pass. Two thousand one hundred fifty-one patients or 49 percent of those transported aboard the modulances were taken to hospitals in Corpus Christi. Four hundred fifty-one persons have been taken to Enterprise Medical Center in Rockport.

The Emergency Medical Service, a non-profit corporation, is funded by donations, city and county funds, funds generated by the Women's Committee of the Emergency Medical Services and from fees collected for services rendered to the patients who use the system.

The system consists of three ambulances operated by a paid staff of four full time professional paramedics and 39 volunteer paramedics and emergency medical technicians.

The Aransas County Emergency Medical Service was the first "paramedic"-operated system in the southern one-third of Texas when it began operations almost seven years ago. The service responds to an average of 1,150 emergency calls each year.

Paul urges deportation of Cuban criminals

WASHINGTON — In a letter to the President, Rep. Ron Paul (R-Texas) today joined with more than 200 other members of Congress in urging the deportation of more than 1,000 violent criminals arriving from Cuba in the recent boatlift.

The deportation would take place in conjunction with the return of the several hundred Cubans captured in Grenada.

There are now 1,084 Cubans from the boatlift being held in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, many of whom are known to have committed violent crimes.

"It is clear that the Cuban government used the Mariel boatlift operation to unload a large portion of its criminal population on the United States," the letter said. "In the first couple of days of the arrival of the Marielitos, there was confusion and little screening, so that a substantial number of these criminals moved undetected into our population.

"Of those who were detected, there are still 1,084 in the Atlanta Penitentiary, many of whom are known to have committed violent crimes in Cuba and who would be a danger to our society were they to be released as some have been urging in our court system.

Of those who went undetected, a substantial number have committed crimes in this country and are currently incarcerated in jails around the country . . ."

Congressman Paul said the circumstances of the Cubans in Grenada "present an ideal opportunity to return the criminals," imploring the White House to give the request its "immediate and serious attention."

Women's Committee receives donation

The Christmas Bazaar, a donation, cookbook sales and proposed changes in the by-laws were among the items on last Friday's business meeting agenda during the Women's Committee of Aransas County Medical Services Inc. monthly luncheon at Charlotte Plummer's Restaurant. Ninety-four persons attended

The DuPont Company gave a $250 donation to the Emergency Medical Services Ambulance Fund after Juanita Wharton, corresponding secretary, wrote them about their matching grant program to organizations involving their employees and families. At least six wives of DuPont employees are active in ACMSI, according to Joann Haskell, president.

"Our new recipe book containing 701 recipes "More Taste of the Coast" is selling well for $6.95," announced Johnnie Vermillion, recipe book editor. Books will be sold at the bazaar, as well as at local businesses and the ACMSI Handcraft Store.

Ruth Gordon, vice president, discussed the proposed changes in the organization's constitution and by-laws which were presented to luncheon members by a committee including Gordon, Babs Muecke and Ella Anderson. Discussion will continue and voting on the revisions will take place at the January meeting.

Mary Casey, general bazaar chairwoman, asked that all workers at the Christmas bazaar wear name tags so that customers can recognize them as ACMSI members.

White Elephant Chairperson Helen Statesir requested that all White Elephant donations be brought to the workshop or to the Paws & Taws Building. Home pickup is available by calling 729-9745.

Treasurer Dorothy Hrubes reported workshop sales for October were $1,012.97; memorials and donations, $1,885; shrimp booth at Sea-Fair, $1,714.84; bake sale, $566.17. The Nov. 1 bank balance was $9,944.04 with a money market certificate of $21,049.42.

Jane Kemmerer, guest speaker, talked and showed slides of her May 1983 trip to China. She accompanied her husband, Dr. William Kemmerer, when he attended a general surgery seminar there.

Mrs. Kemmerer brought back a blue worker's coat and cap and observed, "One size doesn't fit anybody." Coca-Cola is just coming to China and people smoke Marlboro cigarettes. She said at 6 a.m. one can see people in the streets and parks doing their daily exercises.

Peking, with a population of 11 million, is a modern city. She visited such sites as zoos, the Summer Palace, the Forbidden City, the Great Wall and the Ming tombs. "I ate my way through China with 12-course meals three times a day; the food was absolutely delicious," she exclaimed. Only foreign guests were allowed to eat in the restaurants, she discovered.

Several things Kemmerer learned about China were that no one drinks the water; everything is spotlessly clean except bathrooms and that there are no birds or grass allowed in Peking. Couples also must have permission to have a child and then only one child is allowed or else a cut in pay is the penalty.

TOYS FOR KIDS Treasurer David Boling (right) received a $300 donation from Rockport Lions Club representative Allen Ray Moers Wednesday, Nov. 16. Boling also received a $200 donation from the Rockport Tennis Association. Cash donations to the drive may be mailed to P.O. Box 222, Rockport, Texas 78382 or call Boling at 729-9139. To make donations of toys, call 729-1684 or 729-2475.

Woman's Club seeks food donations

Past President Elizabeth Jones and Ina Bennett served tea and coffee during the Monday, Nov. 14, card party at the Aransas County Woman's Club.

Hostesses for the party were Barbara Hayes, Peg Childs and Macklyn Franklin, who also served as acting president in the absence of Faye Stensgaard.

Eight tables of canasta and six tables of bridge were centered with arrangements furnished by Franklin in celebration of her birthday.

Canasta winners were Irene Williams and Betty Briesmeister. Bridge winners included Minta Lancaster and Charlotte Kennedy, and Edith Stewart won the finale.

The Woman's Club is taking donations for a holiday bazaar on Dec. 9 and 10. Donations of food are welcome to help fill Christmas baskets for the needy. Items may be dropped off at the Woman's Club any Monday afternoon.

Tickets will be sold for a drawing for a tablecloth and doll.

Budgeting holiday spending helps when its time to pay the bills

COLLEGE STATION — Many families do not recall ever making a conscious decision on how much money to spend for Christmas gifts and other holiday items, says home economist Nancy Granovsky.

Christmas spending can have a snowballing effect, where a spending level or end point is never identified, says Granovsky, who is with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Advertising, offers for easy credit or no finance charges until after the holidays and the emotions associated with Christmas gifts tempt us to overspend. "Unfortunately, the thrill of purchase often escapes when the bills come due and some families wind up in financial trouble after the first of the year," she explains.

According to Granovsky, a specialist in family resource management, consumers can take these steps to control their holiday spending:

— Make a budget and stick to it. Set spending limits before you get involved in shopping.

— Have a game plan for shopping. Prepare a gift list and try to avoid impulse purchases or budget a specific amount just for impulse buying.

— Use your imagination to save money. Some alternatives include making a tax deductible charitable contribution in another's name; an IOU for services like babysitting or housecleaning; making gifts such as baked goods or plant cuttings yourself; giving a seldom-used possession or "family heirloom" to a family member who ha admired it; or shopping at thrift and garage sales.

— Shop early to take advantage of sales, better choices and faster service.

— Plan for next year. Advance planning allows you to shop at sales throughout the year. You can also set up a special savings account to save for the holidays. Bu avoid special "holiday accounts," cautions Granovsky, unless they pay the same rate of interest as other savings plans.

How much should you plan to save for holiday spending? Some financial counselors suggest allowing 1.5 percent of your gross income plus 109 suggest allowing 1.5 percent of your gross income plus 10 percent of that amount fo last minute purchases, says the home economist.

Turkey is an economical as well as nutritious buy this season

Consumers shopping for the traditional holiday bird will be pleased to find that it's just as economical as last year, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service poultry specialist.

Retail prices will be about the same or only slightly higher than last year, says Dr. David Mellor.

A larger than usual red meat supply is helping to keep prices stable, says Mellor, in spite of increased feed costs for producers and a reduction in the excessive storage stocks of turkey from last year.

Shoppers will find plenty of turkey in the stores, but prices will vary significantly between different types of turkey products — plain whole turkey, self-basted store brands and self-basted national brands, says the poultry specialist.

Economy and tradition aren't the only reason that the average American consumes about 11 pounds of turkey per year. "Turkey is one of the best high-nutrition, low-calorie foods around," says Dr. Dymple Cooksey, a foods and nutrition specialist with the extension service.

Roasted dark turkey meat contains 30 percent protein, 8.3 percent fat and 203 calories for a 100-gram serving, which is just under a quarter-pound. Roasted light meat contains 32.9 percent protein, 3.9 percent fat and only 176 calories per serving.

When shopping for a turkey, look first for the white, circular USDA inspection mark located on the package, says Cooksey. This mark assures that the processing was done under sanitary conditions.

The designation of a grade on turkeys is not mandatory, but a high percentage do have a USDA grade mark, she says.

Most turkeys sold at retail stores are grade A turkeys. Some stores also have grade B turkeys and a few may package grade C turkeys. "Don't hesitate to buy a grade B or C turkey when they are available," advises Cooksey. "The price will be lower, and the factor that caused the lower grade, such as a skin tear, has nothing to do with the wholesomeness of the bird."

Since tenderness of the meat is determined by the age of the bird, and not the grade, size or sex, look for the words "young" or "fryer-roaster," to get a tender bird, says Cooksey.

Plan on buying a turkey big enough to supply three-fourths pound per person or 1 pound if you want leftovers.

Smaller families and singles can enjoy a holiday turkey without having to purchase more than they can eat, says Cooksey, by shopping for a turkey half or quarter. Most stores also carry frozen boneless roasts and rolls in a variety of serving sizes, she adds.

Since turkey leftovers can be frozen in any high-quality moisture and vapor-proof material for up to a year without losing quality, planned leftovers make good food management for large or small families, says the home economist.

Dieters should select fresh-dressed or frozen plain turkey. Pre-basted frozen turkeys have more calories and usually cost more. Those on salt-restricted diets should also avoid pre-basted or processed turkey since salt is added to preserve the meat and enhance flavor, cautions the specialist.

Bon appetit!

By ANN THOMAS

This time of year seems to find most of us doing one of two things with a great deal of regularity: attending covered dish affairs and contributing to bazaars. In either case some new casserole recipes may come in handy. After all, we don't want to just drop off our offering at the bazaar and hurry home, do we? At the same time we don't want dad, et al, going hungry. Just prepare the casserole, leave it in the fridge, leave a note with directions on oven setting and length of time to bake it and enjoy yourself!

CHIPS AND TUNA CASSEROLE
- 1 cup crushed potato chips
- 1 small can tuna, drained and flaked
- 1 small can cream of mushroom soup
- 1 cup milk
- 1 can English peas, drained

Combine all of the above and put in a 1½-quart baking dish. Cover with ½ cup crushed potato chips and bake at 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes. Serves 4.

CHICKEN CASSEROLE
- 1 can (7 ounces) boned chicken and liquid
- 1½ cups cottage cheese
- ½ teaspoon finely minced pimento
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- ¼ teaspoon celery salt
- ¼ teaspoon garlic salt
- ¼ cup dry bread crumbs
- Dash black pepper

Toss lightly and put into a greased 1-quart casserole dish and top with 2 tablespoons parmesean cheese and ½ cup crushed potato chips. Bake at 350 degrees F. for ½ hour. Serves 4.

LAYERED HAM CASSEROLE
- 3 cups diced ham
- 6 hard boiled eggs, sliced
- 1 can sliced mushrooms, drained

Layer these beginning and ending with the ham. Heat over low heat until cheese is melted.
- 1 can cream of celery soup
- ¼ cup milk
- ½ pound cheddar cheese, grated
- 4 drops red pepper sauce

Pour over layered ingredients. Top with dry bred crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees F. for ½ hour. Serves 6.

ASPARAGUS AND CHICKEN CASSEROLE
- 4 cups bread cubes
- 1 cup sharp shredded cheddar cheese
- ½ cup melted butter, divided
- 1 10-ounce package frozen cut asparagus, cooked and drained
- ⅓ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup chicken broth
- 1½ cups milk, scalded
- 3 cups diced cooked chicken or turkey

Combine cubes, cheese and ¼ cup melted butter tossing lightly. Reserve about 1 cup for topping. Spread the rest in a baking dish. Arrange asparagus on top of the mixture. Combine rest of butter, flour, salt and pepper in a small pan until smooth. Gradually add broth and milk, cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thick. Stir in meat. Pour mixture over the asparagus and sprinkle with remainder of bread mixture. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes.

NOODLE BAKE CASSEROLE
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 pound lean ground beef
- ⅔ cup minced onion

Cook the beef in the butter until lightly browned, add onion and cook until tender but not brown. Reduce the heat and add:
- 2 cans tomato soup
- 3 ounces cream cheese, diced
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 5 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cook as directed 5 ounces of wide noodles. Drain them and place in a greased baking dish 11 by 7 by 2. Pour the sauce over the noodles and bake at 350 degrees F. for 15 minutes. Serves 8.

Any of the casseroles we've mentioned would be good with a fresh spinach salad which can be made ahead of time and a loaf of bakery-fresh French bread rounds out the meal. Fresh fruit makes an easy and nutritous dessert.

Until next week, bon appetit!

Consumer meat usage levels off

Consumer use of red and processed meats, such as luncheon meats, has steadied after recent declines compared to the use of poultry and fish.

That finding in a recent report of the American Meat Institute and the National Livestock and Meat Board spells good news for livestock producers and others in the meet industry, notes a meat specialist.

"Basically, the report provides positive information for those in the meat industry," points out Dr. Dennis Stiffler with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "It notes that while consumers are still concerned with health considerations — obesity, caloric intake, fat and cholesterol — when buying food, there is less emphasis on price than previously thought. Major concerns seem to be quality and convenience."

The report was based on 1,050 telephone interviews with grocery shoppers and was a follow-up to a similar survey conducted in 1981 by the same agency of Yankelvich, Skelly and White Inc.

Major findings were these:

— Reductions in meat consumption noted in 1981 appear to be leveling off.

— The market climate appears to be a more favorable one for the meat industry to get its message across.

— Regarding key issues on meat consumptions, data suggest that the health issue is a "mixed bag," that price is a factor but mainly among heavy users, and that lifestyle appears to be the key in determining consumption patterns.

"Today's lifestyle along with health concerns appar to have a major impact on meat consumption," notes Stiffler, in reference to the report. "The convenience factor of foods is a key issue regarding active lifestyles and single member and non-traditional households.

"On the other hand, the price factor is mainly a concern among heavy meat users — traditional and larger families," notes the meat specialist.

The report also gave some insight into the use of fresh beef (other than ground beef) over the two-week survey period. Data showed that fresh beef was served in 82 percent of the U.S. households during the period, with an average consumption of 3.4 times. It also showed that 7 in 10 users noted no change over the past year in their frequency of beef consumption.

Additionally, heavy beef users were found to be mainly young, blue collar families with a median age of 34 years and a median income of $19,400. Children in these families were generally under 13 years of age. On the other hand, moderate to light users of beef were somewhat older and were from smaller households, with a median income of $16,000.

Ground beef was reported as the most widely used fresh meat, being served in 89 percent of U.S. households during the survey period. Average consumption among users was 3.3 times during the two weeks.

Avocado-Salmon salad perfect for half-time meals

Even the most hard-core football fans have to eat, so why not surprise them with a little half-shell wizardry?

California's avocados are delicious, good for you and can serve as the perfect container for all sorts of culinary delights . . . from pate to salads to stews.

This creamy-tasting edible "bowl" provides good nutrition for your grandstand athletes. Avocados contain generous amounts of Vitamins A, C, E and several B vitamins, along with potassium and iron. They are low in sodium and contain no cholesterol. And the calorie count of an avocado may pleasantly surprise you . . . only 153 per half!

This golden green fruit is available all year 'round, so enjoy anytime. During winter, you'll find avocados with a green, smooth-texture skin, while in summer, look for the fruit with a green pebble-texture skin that darkens as the avocado ripens.

Avocado half shells and salads go hand in hand. This tangy salad combines salmon, cheddar cheese, grapes and apples and is tossed with a dill dressing.

DILLY SALMON ON THE HALF SHELL
- 1 pound cooked salmon, boned, chunked or 2 cans (7¾ ounces each) salmon, drained, flaked
- 1 cup (4 ounces) sharp cheddar cheese, cubed
- 1 cup seedless green grapes
- 1 medium apple, cubed
- ½ cup sour cream
- 2 teaspoons milk
- ½ teaspoon dill weed, slightly crushed
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ medium cucumber, seeded, shredded, drained
- 3 California avocados, halved, pitted, peeled*
- Toasted croutons

Combine salmon, cheese, green grapes and apple. Stir together sour cream, milk, dill weed and salt. Stir in cucumber. Add to salmon mixture. Toss lightly. Serve on avocado half shells. Garnish with croutons. Makes 6 servings.

*To prepare avocado, halve lengthwise, then twist to separate halves. Slide tip of spoon underneath seed to remove. To peel avocado, place the cut side of the fruit down and strip to pare the skin away.

Attaining weight loss goal doesn't mean missing out on holiday foods

Instead of postponing your plans to lose weight until after the holidays, it can be easier and faster than you think to begin with the start of the season, right at your Thanksgiving Day meal.

According to Dr. Reva Frankle, nutrition director for Weight Watchers International, "Learning how to eat the right amounts of the right holiday foods is the key. It helps you to lose weight without losing out on all the traditional foods that are such a meaningful part of the holiday."

She notes that by beginning at Thanksgiving, those who are controlling their weight can continue to build on their success, so that weight loss during Christmas and New Year's can e even more easy to manage.

"Controlling your weight at Thanksgiving doesn't mean deprivation. And by starting to lose weight this Thanksgiving you — perhaps for the very first time — can make a New Year's resolution list that has maintaining — instead of losing — weight as your chief goal!" said Lena Aron area director for Weight Watchers in South Texas.

She recommends planning a Thanksgiving holiday meal that starts with fresh pressed apple cider, followed by succulent roast turkey breast with sherried apricot sauce. Prepare stuffing balls and vegetable bundles for creative, yet traditional, side dishes. Be sure to include a crisp mushroom sprout salad with tangy mustard dressing. And you can toast the start of the holidays — and your program to lose weight — with a glass of champagne or white wine. Serve it with your main holiday meal, or with a low-calorie dessert.

For a variety of tips on how to handle the holiday season, additional menu planners and recipes, plus the support of your peers, check your phone book for the Weight Watchers class nearest you or call toll free 1-800-692-4329.

Fruit has taste appeal for all ages

With increased emphasis on lighter, energy-producing foods, fruits make an ideal addition to any meal, says Donna Higgins of Del Monte Kitchens.

Higgins suggests ways fruit can become a routine part of a meal planning for virtually all ages and lifestyles:

Try it, you'll like it

Use a hollowed-out pumpkin as a serving container for this unique and hearty stew. Combine ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon seasoned salt, ½ teaspoon each seasoned pepper, ground ginger and cinnamon. Dust 1 pound lean pork cubes in seasoned flour and brown; drain. Add one package beef stew seasoning mix and 3½ cups water. Simmer, covered, 45 minutes Add one 8-ounce package mixed dried fruit and simmer 20 minutes. Add 1 chopped red apple and 1 orange, peeled and segmented. Simmer another 10 minutes. Serves four.

- Use fruits when dieting. For a light breakfast, or a must-have snack, Higgins suggests eating a banana. It's just 100 calories and is quite filling.
- Encourage children to eat fruit if they avoid vegetables. With its natural sugar, fruit makes a perfect dessert for children, alone or with ice cream.
- Use fruits as garnishes with the main meal. Fruits can enhance the appearance of a meal with their color while also being an integral part of the menu.
- For adult desserts, fruits can be used simply and exotically with yogurt or in a brandy or wine sauce, topped with toasted almonds.
- Make your own snacks with dried fruit, such as a trail mix or granola. You get to select the combinations and probably save money, too.

Bean sprouts are low-calorie potassium supplement

Potassium deficiencies have become more commonplace in Americans because of high salt intake in our diet. Bean sprouts are a great source of potassium with 234 milligrams per cup and only 7 calories! When combined with other leafy green vegetables or potatoes, the suggested 2,000 milligrams per day can easily be reached. Other food sources of potassium include oranges, whole grain, sunflower seeds and bananas.

By keeping salt and alcohol intakes to a minimum and eating more raw fruits and vegetables, the proper potassium level in our bodies helps keep skin healthy, assures normal growth for children and helps people suffering from diseases of the digestive tract. Potassium has been used to treat cases of high blood pressure and patients with mild diabetes.

Bean sprouts grown from mung beans have been recorded as a main part of the Oriental diet as far back as 3,000 B.C. Bean sprouts are gaining even more popularity as people discover the fun and health benefits of stir-fry cooking and adding the sprouts raw to salads and sandwiches.

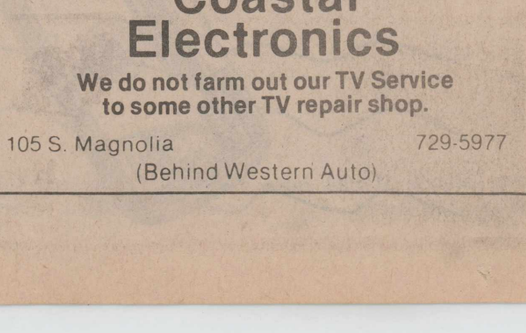

POTATO SALAD WITH BEAN SPROUTS
- 4 small red potatoes
- 1 cup cooked green peas
- ¼ cup shredded carrots
- 1 cup chopped fresh bean sprouts
- 3 tablespoons chives
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- ¾ cup mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons sunflower seeds (optional)
- Dash of garlic powder, black pepper, paprika to taste

Boil potatoes in small amount of water until fork tender. Peel and cube. Place potato cubes in bowl and coat with oil and vinegar. Let stand 10 minutes. Meanwhile prepare peas, carrots and sprouts. Combine remaining ingredients and blend well. Serve on a bed of lettuce leaves. Serves 4-6.

Council to consider means to fill vacancy

A special executive session to decide how to fill the vacancy created by the death of City Alderman Murray McMillan is expected to be on the agenda of the Rockport city council meeting Tuesday, Nov. 22.

The executive session would be closed to the public, but any action would have to be taken in open meeting. City Secretary Helen Braffett said the council has three options to consider: to appoint a successor to fill the remainder of McMillan's term (which would have expired next April), to call a special election or to take no action and leave the council seat vacant until the April elections.

McMillan died last week in Houston. He was originally appointed to the city council to fill a vacancy created by the death of Alderman Henry Bent and was then elected to a council term in April 1982.

In other action during the council meeting — which is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday following a joint public hearing with the planning and zoning commission at 7:15 p.m. — the council will consider on first reading ordinances annexing Unit 2 of Rockport Country Club Estates and approximately 300 acres of addditional land.

The 300 acres includes two state tracts in Aransas Bay plus acreage primarily in the area of Little Bay Shores and along Hwy. 35 North that is presently surrounded by the city but has never been annexed. No protests were received on this or the RCC Estates proposal in two public hearings.

If approved by the council Tuesday, the annexation ordinances will come before city officials for second reading and adoption Dec. 13.

Also on Tuesday's agenda is consideration of an agreement between the city and Urban Engineers for preparation of plans and specifications on the first phase of a project to cover the Tule Lake drainage ditch from Hwy. 35 to Little Bay.

Authorization for Urban to prepare the project plans was granted at the council's Nov. 8 meeting. First phase of the project is to cover 750 feet of the ditch through Little Bay Shores from the waterfront to Picton Lane.

Park board told

Rockport landmark is property of the city

Members of Rockport's board of parks and recreation learned Wednesday night that the Taylor Oak is part of city property.

Park Board Chairman George McCague told members at Wednesday's board meeting he had been contacted by Barbara Armstrong, a member of the city's planning and zoning board, who told him research indicated the city has title to the land on which the tree is located.

The Taylor Oak is the site of a camp pitched by Gen. Zachary Taylor during his march to the Rio Grande in 1845 to protect Texas from Mexican invasion when annexation into the United States was imminent. It has become one of Rockport's landmarks.

Park board members took no action on the matter other than to make note in the board's minutes that the site is city property.

McCague read a letter of resignation from park board member Doug Ocher and the letter was accepted, but park board members made no recommendations at Wednesday's meeting on a successor.

The remainder of the board's meeting concerned proposed improvements to Memorial Park, being funded by a grant through the federal land-water conservation fund. McCague told park board members he and John Olson, the improvement project architect, toured Memorial Park earlier this month and discussed locations of proposed facilities.

Olson is now working on detailed plans for presentation to the city council. He will draw up the contracts for the work jobs, according to McCague, and will supervise the work once it is in progress. McCague told board members when the plans and work contracts are drawn up, they must be presented to the federal government for approval before the project can proceed.

During discussion of the improvements to be made in the park, board member Cy Richards asked for a clarification on the number of youth soccer fields. Board members agreed there will be two regulation-size youth soccer fields in the park as a result of the improvements.

Other board members attending the meeting were Kathryn Winkelman, Patty McArdle, Howard Black and Bobby Jackson.

ROCKPORT LANDMARK, The Taylor Oak belongs to the City of Rockport according to information presented to the city's board of parks and recreation during its meeting Wednesday night.

vote of the commission.

Commissioners pointed out they can use the bond issue, if approved, in any of the district's three harbors for improvements.

The change in the Fulton Harbor plans is in the placement of a pier to provide additional slips for bay shrimp boats. The pier is to be constructed in the north basin of the harbor.

As originally proposed, the pier would have added 48 new slips but required demolition of eight existing slips for a net gain of 40.

As approved Tuesday night, the change in the plan will result in construction of 46 new slips and no loss of existing slips. Maguglin moved to approve the change and was seconded by Commissioner Hal McFnight.

In action related to the proposed harbor improvements, the commissioners — on a McKnight-Hicks motion — voted that the navigation district would handle the necessary permit applications required by the Army Corps of Engineers for the projects.

In other action relating to the district's harbors Tuesday, the commissioners voted to approve a marketing research study of Cove Harbor by graduate marketing research students of Corpus Christi State University during the coming spring semester.

The project was approved contingent on the cost of the study not exceeding $3,000. Purpose of the study is to seek possibilities for the diversification of Cove Harbor.

One Fulton Beach Road property owner questioned the easements the city has received from the county, saying that along some portions of the road, the county owns only the dedicated road itself. He added that he and other property owners have title insurance on the land along the east side of the road and that it is private property. The man stated that he thought the council's intentions for the path are good but that they may have trouble actually constructing it over the objections of residents.

Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline said that the town's attorney Gene Garcia will have to look into the situation. Garcia was out of town at the time of the meeting.

Precinct 4 County Commissioner Mike Womack said Thursday morning that the county does not have a 60-foot right-of-way along the entire road since parts of that right-of-way are now in the water, but that the county has at least a 20-foot easement over the portions of the road in question.

Fairness big issue in program

By ERIC R. KINGSON

SOCIAL SECURITY And you

In 1982, during a typical month, the Disability Insurance (DI) program paid about $1.5 billion in benefits to 2.6 million disabled workers and 1.4 million members of their families.

Benefits were also paid, mostly from the Old-Age and Survivors' Insurance (OASI) trust fund, to more than 100,000 disabled widows and widowers and over 400,000 adult children disabled before age 22. In addition, about $6 billion were paid out to 2.3 million low-income disabled persons under the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program.

Today, the big issue in the Disability Insurance program is whether it is being fairly administered.

The 1980 Disability Amendments provided for a greater rate of review of the disability status of workers whose disability was not permanent.

The stepped-up disability reviews began in March 1981 and, two years later, 803,289 DI and SSI disability cases had been reviewed. Initially, about 367,000 people were terminated from the disability rolls along with family members because of the review. In other words, in fully 45 percent of the cases reviewed, the disability benefits were revoked. Some of these decisions were overturned on appeal.

Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House Rules Committee, referred to these terminations as "nothing less than a wholesale purge of the disability rolls." Sen. John Heinz III, R-Pa., chairman of the Senate Aging Committee called the reviews "a holocaust against the mentally impaired." Newspapers have reported suicides by people removed from the program and have cited startling and highly questionable decisions to terminate benefits.

Some improvements have been made and more are likely. Strong support is building for more substantial changes in the disability review process, in part because of a recent General Accounting Office report showing that the guidelines subject the mentally impaired to more stringent criteria than other persons.

Under DI, if you become disabled, you may be eligible to receive monthly benefits after a five-month waiting period. The benefits last for the duration of a period of disability. Apply at your local Social Security office.

If you are eligible to receive DI benefits and have children under age 18 (older in some cases), a child age 18 or older who became disabled before age 22, a spouse (or divorced former spouse) who's caring for your disabled child or a child under 16, or a spouse age 62 or over, then they, too, are probably eligible to receive monthly benefits. Benefits for family members of disabled workers are identical to those for families of retired workers except the total amount of benefits any one family can receive is generally lower.

period, disabled workers, disabled widows or widowers and disabled children are eligible for Medicare benefits. Medicare does not, however, cover the other family members of disabled workers (except for a spouse who is 65 or over).

The definition of disability is essentially the same for the Social Security Disability Insurance and the Supplemental Security Income (SSI). Under either program, you must be unable to engage in any substantial gainful activity (SGA) by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last at least 12 months. Taking into consideration age, education and previous work experience, a worker must be unable to do any kind of work that exists in the national economy. The availability of jobs is not taken into consideration, just the ability to work.

For a disabled widow or widower age, education and work experience are not taken into account.

For most disabled workers, SGA is the ability to earn more than $300 a month from employment. You don't have to earn this amount to be ineligible for benefits; you just need to be able to earn it.

For blind persons, there's a more lenient test.

If your application for disability benefits has been rejected (or your benefits terminated), you may appeal within 60 days of receiving notice from Social Security. There's a high rate of reversal of initial rejections especially at the administrative law judge level.

Benefits stop if you recover from the disabling condition and are, therefore, able to work. However, Disability Insurance beneficiaries whose impairments have not ceased have up to nine months to test their ability to work without any loss of benefits. Medicare benefits can continue for three years after cash benefits end.

Hay buying strategies outlined for producers

County agent news

By MIKE ROTHROCK
County Extension Agent — AG

Livestock producers are facing the question of whether to buy hay now or to buy it as required during the feeding season to hold down the feed cost of wintering livestock.

The decision now involves less uncertainty than at the beginning of the hay harvesting season. But the alternatives for livestock producers are decreasing each day.

I suggest three hay buying strategies for the livestock producer who intends to carry his herd through the winter. One is to buy feed as needed during the coming months. If the winter is mild, hay prices will not increase as expected, which could be an advantage for buying as needed. Also, hay purchases can be better matched with requirements.

Another strategy is to secure required hay as soon as possible. Based on historical data, hay prices are usually lower in November than December, and February prices usually exceed those in January.

In evaluating this strategy, the cost of buying hay in November, when compared to buying as needed in January and February, must include the cost of holding the hay. Holding costs include interest on or opportunity cost of the money tied up in the hay, casualty insurance on the hay, and in some cases the cost of storage facilities.

Based on data from the last 10 years, a livestock producer could lower his hay purchase cost an average of $1 per ton by buying as soon as possible. The savings can be even greater if the decrease in the quality of hay available for purchase during the feeding season is entered into the calculation.

A third alternative is to buy one-third of the required hay each month — December, January and February. Compared to buying as needed, the buyer can lower his hay purchase cost by 50 cents per ton with this method.

The cost differences indicated in these strategies may seem insignificant or may even prove inconsistent when other factors are included. The data are averages for many hay markets for a large geographic area, so price variations in local markets are averaged out or nullified.

Furthermore, the analyses assume that hay purchased at any time can be acquired the same distance from the purchaser — a factor that could raise the net farm cost of hay purchased later in the feeding season.

Ticket issued after collision

Josephine Vucetich of Rockport was ticketed for changing lanes without safety after an accident Tuesday, Nov. 15, in the 400 block of North Bronte Street.

According to the report filed by Rockport police, Vucetich was traveling alongside a vehicle driven by Mary Blair of Rockport when she changed lanes, resulting in the collision. No injuries were reported.

No tickets were issued in another collision Tuesday at the intersection of Raht Street and Fulton Beach Road.

No injuries were reported to either Leslie Chapman of Paris or to Barbara Brake of Rockport, the drivers of the vehicles.

Obituaries

Marion D. Franklin

Funeral services for Marion Dolores Franklin of Rockport were conducted at 10 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 17, at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Rockport with Rev. Walter Clark officiating. Burial followed in Aransas Memorial Park in Aransas County.

Mrs. Franklin, 59, died Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 15, in Aransas Pass. A native of Joplin, Mo., she had been a resident of Rockport for the past 21 years. She was a member of St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

Survivors include her husband, William M. Franklin of Rockport; two sons, William M. Franklin Jr. of Rockport and Sam Franklin of Austin; one daughter, Donna Musselman of Rockport; and one sister, Lucille Shellburn of Rockport.

Marshall Funeral Home of Rockport was in charge of arrangements.

Council schedules open house

The Aransas County Council on Aging will hold an Open House Saturday, Dec. 3.

Activities will begin at 10 a.m. with a sale of home-baked goods and handmade crafts, as well as some selected custom made new clothing such as aprons, skirts and blouses.

At 1:30 p.m. there will be a program honoring senior citizens and volunteers and a luncheon for the honorees.

A drawing for a handmade quilt will be conducted at 2 p.m. Tickets for the quilt will be available prior to the drawing.

Future plans for the opening of the workshop are currently being made. The shop is being built adjacent to the present building and will be available for use by senior citizens of Aransas County. Any donations of hand tools for the shop will be greatly appreciated.

YOU AND YOUR HEALTH
by Peter J. Esse, M.D.

Dear Dr. Esse: My friend and I have high blood pressure. She's getting better; I'm not. I can't understand it. We're like peas in a pod, have good husbands, three fine children each, nothing to worry about financially, yet our pressures are high. Perhaps we're worriers and live in unnecessary stress. I can't understand why her blood pressure is under control while mine stays up. We take the identical medicines. I know because we have the same doctor. Yet, time after time, the doctor wonders why my pressure doesn't go down. Perhaps because I don't sleep well. Perhaps because I'm the one who smokes and drinks coffee. (My friend doesn't smoke or drink coffee.) Is it possible that my coffee and cigarette habit might be at the bottom of it? Mrs. D.

Dear Mrs. D.: You may have discovered the true culprits that your doctor has overlooked: coffee and tobacco. If you're a worrier and constantly under stress, it's evident that you're trying to relax by smoking and taking coffee. This combination is a commonly used method to neutralize stress.

Unfortunately, it works the opposite way. It raises pressure whenever you smoke and drink coffee. You'll be interested to know that the work of Lawrence E. Ramsay, M.D. of Sheffield, England supports this theory. Cigarettes and coffee have an adverse effect on blood pressure. He wrote: "The effect of combined caffeine and cigarette use is large enough to alter the prevalence of mild hypertension or to influence the degree of blood pressure control in treated hypertension."

Parson Jones

The Good Book talks about old men dreaming dreams. I ran across something the other day that is a good dream inducer ... Possom Pot Pie. I ate two slices of this delicious delicacy and before long, I had the strangest dream.

I dreamed the whole human race was holding a convention in the land of Nod. The scene was colorful as the people darted to and fro in their little god costumes. I learned form an informed source that the residents of earth had gathered to elect a new god.

It wasn't long until the business meeting was in full swing. Early it was determined that many gods would be better than one. "There is strength in diversity," said one fella from Chicago. Some thought gods should be chosen by color ... white, black, red, brown and yellow. Others were holding out for gods based on national origin. Some wanted the god breakdown based on class distinction.

One rather holy-looking delegate expressed a strong desire to choose gods along already existing denominational lines. "We can have a Jewish god and a Catholic god," he said. "How about one for the Episcopalians?" chimed in another. "Don't forget the Baptists," yelled a preacher with his Bible raised.

And so, on that day, it was decided that many gods would rule the earth. And the multitudes shouted, "Let there be gods in our own image," and behold, there were many gods. "And let them bring forth and replenish the earth," they chanted. And behold, of the increase of gods, there was no end. Just then, it started to rain and it rained 40 days and 40 nights, and an ark came by and all the people got on the ark ... and the old God said, "Welcome aboard."

Just then ... I woke up!

Windsor Castle, the country home of British kings and queens for nearly nine centuries, is the largest lived-in castle in the world. Originally, however, it was but a fortress on the edge of a vast forest.

Broadway is my beat

with Joey Sasso

Cast of Characters . . . Many top Hollywood stars are living in fear of being attacked by crazed fans who bombard them with a constant string of death threats with Larry Hagman and Linda Gray of Dallas the latest in a new rash of terrified victims.

The kill-crazy maniacs have forced many of their idols to resort to extreme measures to protect their lives. But experts say even the toughest bodyguards and most sophisticated security systems will not entirely deter the sick stalkers from pursuing their reign of terror. According to Professor John Castle, a leading psychologist, these people get much the same kick out of their death threats and crank calls that alcoholics and drug users do out of their own particular addictions.

"Stalkers are hooked on what they do in just the same way as people who drink too much or shoot themselves up on heroin," said Castle. "Stalking becomes part of their lives and they have to satisfy it by carrying out increasingly more threatening acts.

"Very often they start out as committed fans of a particular star, but as their efforts to contact them or meet them are frustrated, they become more and more embittered. Their loyalty turns to disillusionment and ever increasing hostility. The star they once regarded as their idol becomes the object of enimity and they find it necessary to fuel their hatred with crank calls and shocking threats."

Italian sex goddess Sophia Loren is nearing the half-century mark and she couldn't care less. "I don't feel all that old," she said recently. "I'm always astonished when I hear women say they feel old when we're nearly the same age."

Sophia says she sometimes feels that she was born old, having been in films since she was 15. Recalling the media explosion her 30th birthday caused, she said she has been made to feel as if she were some kind of national institution on the verge of crumbling away. Still gorgeous at 49, she shows no signs of aging.

Spoony Singh unveiled a model of Barbara Stanwyck in his Hollywood Wax Museum the other day and the legendary star told him the fastest way to become a movie star is to be a bad dancer. During the Roaring '20s the teenage Ruby Stevens was hired as a dancer at a Broadway night club owned by the flamboyant Texas Guinan. "I was okay in the chorus, but they asked me to do a solo," Ms. Stanwyck said. "I somehow tipped over and found myself inextricably entwined with table legs, customers' food and and champagne buckets. I was literally swimming in champagne."

Ms. Stanwick said Texas took her aside and fired her and suggested she change her name from Ruby Stevens and head for Hollywood. "She also gave me a $50 bonus for knocking over the champagne buckets because the customers then had to buy new bottles at $100 a crack."

In the Wings . . . Judy Garland's spirit, as restless in the world beyond as it was in this one, is stubbornly blocking the Hollywood careers of her daughters Lorna Luft and Liza Minelli.

"Judy worred herself sick over the idea that her daughters would fall into the same wretched trap that ruined her own life," said a friend of the late superstar. "She feared that, like her, they'd be unable to cope with all the phoniness and depravity of Hollywood, and I have no doubt that she's now using her spiritual powers to keep both Liza and Lorna from reaching the heights she reached . . . and fell from with such a resounding crash."

Page Morton Black, who is on TV & radio public service announcements, of which she is board chairman, is the same person who sings the popular Chock Full of Nuts coffee jingle. The PDF spots are the most effective in its 26-year history.

Chef Loic Avril of La Mangeoire restaurant in New York prepared a memorable Saddle of Lamb au Calvaros Boulard. Also not easily forgotten was the relaxing snifter of Calvados Boulard — a delicious apple brandy from France — that added a perfect finale to the meal. In the past, La Mangeoire has served such familiar figures as David Brenner, Hugh Carey and Tom Brokaw.

Swing Set Confidential . . . An in-depth interview with May Pang, the lover of murdered Beatle John Lennon; an investigative report on "Kids Who Kill"; and an insider's look at the sleekest and sexiest car investments for 1984 highlight the December '83 issue of "Oui" magazine.

May Pang's recently published book, "Loving Lennon," shocked the entertainment world with its behind-the-scenes look at the life of the late Beatle. In "Oui," Pang gives her own version of life since Lennon's death. Pang also reveals the anxiety and stress she had to deal with when Lennon's wife, Yoko Ono, approached Pang with the idea of becoming Lennon's mistress, and then relates the anguish she has had to deal with since Lennon's death.

In "Kids Who Kill," author Larry Garrison unearths a national epidemic of gun-toting kids who are roaming the streets in towns and cities across America feeling no guilt about killing.

"In most cases," says Garrison, "it's emotionless, cold-hearted and premeditated murder."

Curtain Calls . . . The RCA original cast album of the smash hit Jerry Herman musical, "La Cage aux Folles," is the fastest selling Broadway album in many years. It is the No. 1 best-selling album in Boston, currently is the No. 2 or 3 best-selling in all New York metropolitan area stores, behind only the Police and Michael Jackson, and has hit Top 10 in the San Francisco and Philadelphia markets.

All this has occurred in the one month since the album first became available in the New York market coincidental to the opening of the smash hit musical August 21. Popularity of the album quickly is spreading to other major markets, including Los Angeles, Washington, Dallas, Chicago, Atlanta and St. Louis. RCA had gambled the show would be a hit and had recorded the cast album August 4. By opening night, the company had advance orders for 80,000 albums.

Corporate News-Wire . . . If you have a product or service that needs a lot of exposure, only you have a restricted budget, you may be interested in talking to a bright ad agency I just discovered. They call themselves the Jason Group, and from what I've seen, the Group is producing some very impressive, eye-opening campaigns for some small-budget advertising clients with big aspirations. If all this sounds like what you've been looking high and low for, why don't you give 'em a call to hear and see their success story first-hand. The number is 212-759-9583 and ask for Art Stone, president.

Street of the Midnight Sun . . . Dorothy Hamill, Olympic champ and Elaine Zayak World Figure Skating champ, polishing off French toast at the Trattoria in the Pam Am Building after an exhibition of Superskates at Madison Square Garden.

Impressionist Will Jordan was toasted as "performer of the year" at the annual Laurel and Hardy "Sons of the Desert" dinner. Present was Stan Laurel's daughter and also his valet from years ago.

"Broadway Joe" Namath, the great quarterback of the N.Y. Jets some shows ago, has now become a full-fledged actor. Currently in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," Joe was telling Luis Irizzary at the John Peel Room, "I've been studying quite a bit and have been working with two drama coaches. I have confidence that I can carry the ball (I mean role) quite well."

Walter Cronkite, in slacks and sportshirt, took a group of eight to the South Street Seaport and treated them all to dinner at Gianni's.

It was a maitre d's nightmare: Dustin Hoffman walked into Texarkana and there wasn't a table to be had. However, Dustin graciously waited around for 20 minutes until a table was available, chatting with Patti Lupone and six other friends.

Liza Minelli and Joey Heatherton nodded to each other from adjacent tables at Pete's Tavern while David Soul got up from his to chat with each of the actress-singers.

Today's gossip is tomorrow's headlines — Broadway may not be what it once was, but then who is?

Tower criticizes selling spare parts

Capitol update

By JOHN TOWER
U.S. Senator

A great deal of attention has been given to the problem of overpriced spare parts sold to the military. This is indeed a serious problem. We have seen $435 claw hammers, $35 turbine blades costing the government $390, plastic stool caps with a price tag of $900 and other overcharges which I consider inexcusable.

Even though only a tiny percentage of the thousands of items purchased each year fall into this category, this problem is nevertheless quite serious. During the past four years, we have spent a great deal of money on spare parts to restock supplies which had dropped so low that military readiness was affected. As a steward of the taxpayers' dollars, I am appalled to discover that even a small portion of this money has been spent on grossly overpriced materials. We cannot and will not tolerate these abuses.

The Armed Services Committee has held hearings on this problem. We heard from representative of the Defense Department, the independent Inspector General and contractors. Based on this study, I would have to say the blame for overcharges is shared by both those who bought as well as those who sold the materials.

Certainly, some contractors appear to have acted irresponsibly. I can find no excuse for some of the exorbitant prices we have paid.

I might note that it is to the credit of the Defense Department that these abuses have been uncovered. Almost all of the unreasonable prices about which you may have read were discovered by the Defense Department in the course of its internal audits. In some cases, the department has instituted steps to recover the overcharges, and in fact, many of the contractors have returned funds to the government. It is unfortunate that the Department has received virtually no credit for this careful work.

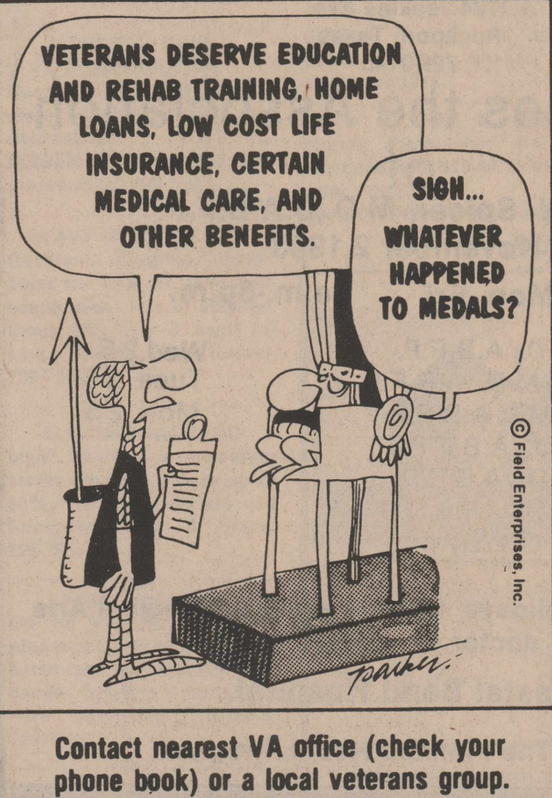

However, much of the blame for the problem rests in the procedures by which spare parts have been purchased. One problem, for example, has been frequent small-quantity purchases. Each time an order is placed, the supplier has to retool and start a production line, making each individual item much more expensive than it would be if orders were consolidated.

Other times, the military has placed excessive emphasis on speed and not enough on economy. Competition often has been insufficient, and too much ordering has been done routinely by computer and product number, without anyone properly evaluating the value received for the price paid.

I am pleased to report that the Defense Department has instituted a 10-point plan to correct these problems. For example, steps have been taken to encourage competitive bidding and reward employees who find cost savings, at the same time other steps have been taken to discipline employees who are derelict in their duty. These initiatives are most promising. I am convinced that the Defense Department is going to continue to work diligently to end overpricing in spare parts purchasing.

It is vitally important that we provide sufficent quantities of spare parts to keep our military equipment operating efficiently. We will continue our efforts in this direction, while we monitor the Defense Department's progress in making their purchasing procedures more efficient and less susceptible to abuse.

Advising, preregistration for CCSU held Nov. 28-Dec. 2

Advising and pre-registration for Corpus Christi State University's Spring 1984 semester will be held Monday-Friday, Nov. 28-Dec. 2, Sandy Speed, director of admissions, announced this week.

During this time, the Admissions Office, deans' offices and the Business Office will be open 8 a.m. - 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. - 3 p.m. Friday.

Students eligible to participate in these programs include students enrolled during the Fall 1983 semester and December graduates who reapply for admission by 3 p.m. Friday Nov. 18. New or former students admitted or reactivated before 3 p.m. Nov. 18 may also participate in these programs.

Students who may not participate in the programs include returning students who are on scholastic probation, who had a "hold" on their registration packets by any campus office or who complete or clear their records in the Admissions Office after 3 p.m. Nov. 18 and new students who submit applications for admission to the Admissions Office after 3 p.m. Nov. 18.

Faculty advisors will be available by appointment.

Once students are officially advised and their packets have been approved by their faculty advisor, students may pay registration fees in the Business Office.

Students who participate in advising and do not pay registration fees by 3 p.m. Friday, Dec. 2 must repeat the advising process during regular Spring 1984 semester registration day on Jan. 11.

Students who plan to concurrently enroll at CCSU and another institution during the spring semester should not pay their registration fees in advance.

The Spring 1984 semester Course Schedule will be available in the Admissions Office on the CCSU campus beginning at 8 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 17.

VA news

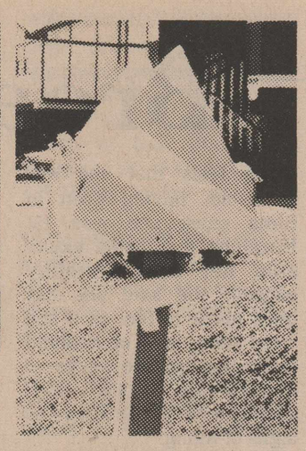

Houston Veterans Administration Regional Office officials have announced that all veterans, veterans' widows and children who received VA non-service connected disability and death pension benefits will receive annual income questionnaires for completion during November.

This questionnaire will be mailed separate from monthly checks. Failure to complete and return the questionnaire to the VA before Jan. 1, 1984, will result in the suspension of benefit payments and cause unnecessary hardships.

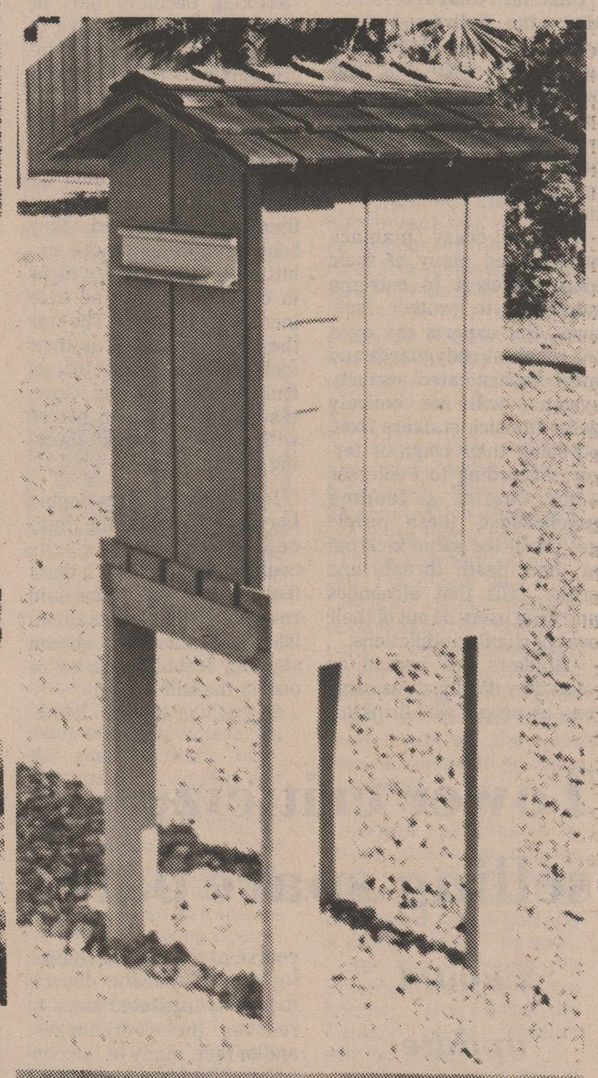

Pension recipients whose payments go to banks under direct deposit and who have relocated should take immediate steps to notify the VA of their current address. Failure to do so can cause the income questionnaire to be returned to the VA as undeliverable.

Until the beneficiary notifies the VA of the new address and the questionnaire is completed and returned, benefit payments will be suspended. It is therefore very important that all recipients of benefits keep the VA advised of their current mailing address, according to officials.

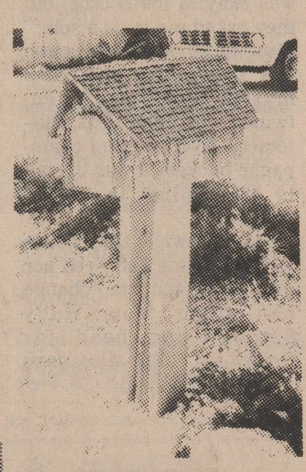

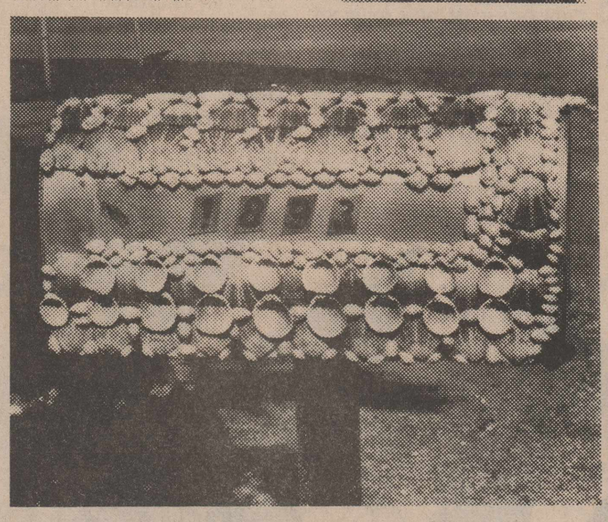

Mail call

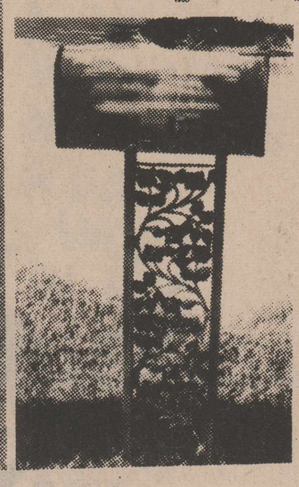

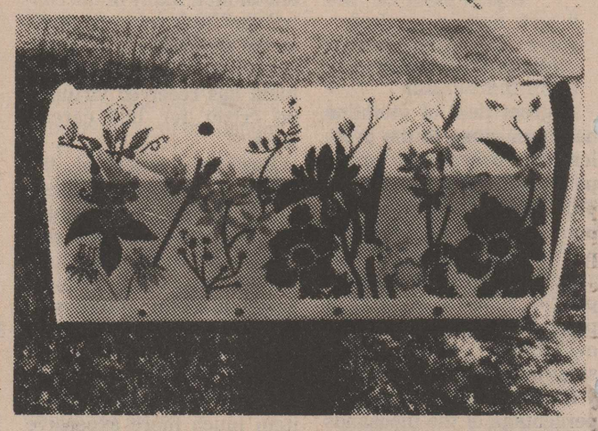

Who says a mailbox has to look like a mailbox? It doesn't . . . as this sampling shows. Although these photos were taken in Key Allegro, just about any neighborhood in Aransas County will turn up at least one or two examples of "mailbox art."

Flotilla 71 offers boating safety tips

Here are a few boating tips from the Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 71:

Many boating misfortunes are avoided by the wise skipper who carries aboard at least a minimum amount of safety gear. Pleasure crafts should be equipped with required legal safety items, plus others for emergency purposes that are necessary as part of the Coast Guard Auxiliary's free courtesy boat safety examinations.

Every boat is required by law to carry personal flotation devices (PFD's) for each person aboard, and stored within reach in case of an emergency. A workable fire extinguisher also is a necessity. It should be located where it is easily accessible, and fully charged and tested.

Boaters should always carry a signaling device in case of being stranded, and they should include a loud horn or whistle, signal flares, flashlights, signal mirror or other means of attacting attention.

For cruising offshore, a radio is essential for summoning help if needed.

Every boat should have a well-stocked first aid kit and container of fresh water. Another item of prime importance is a tool kit. It should include basics such as a screwdriver, wrenches, pliers, plus spark plugs, shear pins and similar items, if your vessel is an outboard.

To learn more about boating and boating safety attend safe boating classes.

'Brethren, pray for us'

The following excerpt from the "Morning and Evening Devotionals" by Charles Spurgeon, published 1980 by the Zondervan Corporation, was brought to the Pilot by H. C. Bristow of Rockport, a lay speaker at the First United Methodist Church.

This one morning in the year we have reserved to refresh the reader's memory upon the subject of prayer for ministers, and we do most earnestly implore every Christian household to grant the fervent request of the text first uttered by an apostle and now repeated by us. Brethren, our work is solemnly momentous, involving well-being or woe to thousands; we treat with souls for God on eternal business, and our word is either a savor of life unto life, or of death unto death. A very heavy responsibility rests upon us, and it will be no small mercy if at the last we be found clear of the blood of all men. As officers in Christ's army, we are the especial mark of the enmity of men and devils; they watch for our halting and labor to take us by the heels. Our sacred calling involves us in temptations from which you are exempt, above all it too often draws us away from our personal enjoyment of truth into a ministerial and official consideration of it. We meet with many knotty cases and are in a nonplus; we observe very sad backslidings and our hearts are wounded; we see millions perishing and our spirits sink. We wish to profit you by our preaching; we desire to be blessed to your children; we long to be useful both to saints and sinners; therefore, dear friends, intercede for us with God. Miserable men are we if we miss the aid of your prayers, but happy are we if we live in your supplications. You do not look to us but to our Master for spiritual blessings, and yet how many times has He given those blessings through His ministers; ask then, again and again, that we may be the earthen vessels into which the Lord may put the treasure of the gospel. We, the whole company of missionaries, ministers, city missionaries and students, do in the name of Jesus beseech you "Brethren, pray for us."

Community Thanksgiving service is set

FULTON — Fulton Community Church will host Aransas County's annual Community Thanksgiving Service Tuesday, Nov. 22.

The Rev. John Norvell, pastor of Gospel Lighthouse, will be featured speaker at the service which will begin at 7:30 p.m. Host pastor is the Rev. Richard Giller. The service is sponsored by the Aransas County Ministers' Association.

The service is open to the public. The offering to be received during the special ceremony will be divided equally between the Aransas County Council on Aging and the Christmas Toys for Kids program. Both are local projects to aid Aransas County residents.

Food Fair to be held at St. Peter's

The annual Food Fair of St. Peter's Episcopal Church will be held Friday, Dec. 2, at the church parrish hall.

Hours will be 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. and the fair will feature a tamale sale, baked goods, handmade Christmas ornaments and gifts. Dessert and coffee will be served at the church during the fair.

Tamales must be ordered in advance of the Food Fair by calling the church office at 729-2649 or Bessie Johnson at 729-5687.

Proceeds from this year's sale will be donated to improvements and additions to St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

Youth schedule car wash

The youth of Rockport's First Baptist Church will hold a car wash Saturday, Nov. 19.

The car wash will be from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. in the church parking lot.

If a care is too small to be made into a prayer, it's too small to be made into a burden.

SUNDAY

(ABC) SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"THE DAY AFTER" (1983) Jason Robards, JoBeth Williams, Steven Guttenberg, Bibi Besch. The starkly realistic drama of nuclear confrontation and its devastating effect on a group of average American citizens.

(NBC) SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"KENNEDY" (1983) Martin Sheen, Blair Brown, John Shea, E.G. Marshall, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Vincent Gardenia, Charles Brown. Part one of the three-part, seven-hour miniseries dramatizing the Presidential years and personal life of John F. Kennedy. After struggling through the closest Presidential election in American history, John F. Kennedy chooses his cabinet, while he copes with crises within his close, power-conscious family. With his inauguration, the glitter and euphoria of the "Camelot Years" begin.

MONDAY

(NBC) MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"KENNEDY" (1983) Martin Sheen, Blair Brown, John Shea, E.G. Marshall, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Vincent Gardenia, Charles Brown. Part two of the three-part miniseries. Along with his brother, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, the President must confront explosive racial violence in the South, the growing conflict in Southeast Asia, and the power of J. Edgar Hoover.

TUESDAY

(NBC) TUESDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"KENNEDY" (1983) Martin Sheen, Blair Brown, John Shea, E.G. Marshall, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Vincent Gardenia, Charles Brown. Conclusion of the miniseries. The world hovers on the brink of nuclear war as Kennedy demands that Russian missiles be removed from Cuba. In Berlin, Kennedy rallies the oppressed, then later in Washington, Martin Luther King Jr. tells of his dream during a dramatic civil rights march. Grieved by the death of their infant son, the First Lady takes a vacation in Greece, and upon her return home she accompanies the President on a campaign trip to Dallas. There, during a fateful motorcade, the dreams of millions are shattered as Kennedy is struck down.

Steve McQueen stars as a modern-day bounty hunter in "The Hunter," airing Nov. 22 on "The CBS Tuesday Night Movies."

(CBS) TUESDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"THE HUNTER" (1980) Steve McQueen, Eli Wallach, Kathryn Harrold, LeVar Burton, Ben Johnson. A modern-day bounty hunter tries to juggle the demands of his everyday life with the pressures and problems of his chosen profession.

WEDNESDAY

Ask Kate

Hope played Beau James

By Kate Woods

There's a Bob Hope movie that I've seen on TV in which he plays an old-time mayor of New York. Can you help out with the title? — B.C.

The title was "Beau James" and Hope played Mayor Jimmy Walker. The 1957 movie was based on Gene Fowler's biography of the colorful city executive.

JOPLIN SAGA — Didn't they once make a movie about Scott Joplin the ragtime pianist whose music was copied for "The Sting"? If so, who played him? — P.N.

Billy Dee Williams played the 1920s composer in a 1977 TV movie simply called "Scott Joplin." It was later released to theaters.

TASTY FREEZE — Was Lynn Holly Johnson, who played an ice skater on a recent "Trapper John, M.D.," also the star of "Ice Castles"? — P.O.

One and the same. Johnson played the blind Olympic hopeful in that 1979 feature. David Huffman co-starred opposite her on both shows, too.

LITTLE BROTHER — Is it true that John Belushi's brother is taking his place on "Saturday Night Live"? — C.C.

I doubt if anyone could ever take John Belushi's place, but his brother Jim joined the cast as a regular on Nov. 19.

RITTER FACTS — Can you give me John Ritter's birthdate? — S.D.

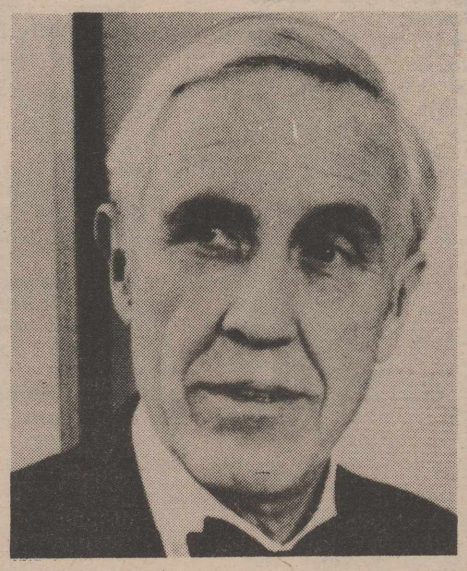

Sure. John was born to Tex and Fay Ritter on Sept. 17, 1948.

Send your letters to Kate Woods, United Feature Syndicate, 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, N.Y. 10166. Because of volume of mail, we can not make personal replies.

Week of Nov. 20- Nov. 26

ARIES
(March 21-April 20) Give in to the request of an older relative in a situation that really doesn't make a difference to you. Financial considerations could prevent you from taking a vacation.

TAURUS
(April 21-May 21) Demanding an explanation from someone caught in a compromising situation might not net you the results you expect. There could be more to this situation than meets the eye.

GEMINI
(May 22-June 21) Your abode might be more entertaining with the help of younger people in for a visit. Your reputation could be at stake in a delicate situation involving a number of different people.

CANCER
(June 22-July 23) Financial affairs require more of your attention than usual and all transactions should be duly recorded.

LEO
(July 24-Aug. 23) Protect yourself against the insinuation of a jealous acquaintance who would like to discredit you. A surprise gift perks up your spirits.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24-Sept. 23) Keep in close contact with relatives who live far away. Your appearance could play a major role in a business transaction that is shaping up.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24-Oct. 23) Someone with political aspirations arouses your curiosity and could strike up a friendship with you.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A change in your outlook on life could cause others you have known to sit up and take notice. Enjoy this extra attention.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Investigate any discrepancies found in your financial records or you may be in for a big surprise later.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22-Jan. 20) A night on the town may have unexpected results. Cutting through red tape in a matter involving the government might prove difficult.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21-Feb. 19) Keeping in mind the old adage that where there's smoke there's fire could help you get to the bottom of a complicated situation.

PISCES
(Feb. 20-March 20) A painful encounter with an old flame could lead to many moments of introspection. It might serve you well to see this person and sort your feelings out.

'The Day After' is here

By Andy Noble

A sunny afternoon along a Kansas highway. Stephen Klein, a University of Kansas student is thumbing a ride, trying to reach his parents' home in Missouri. Cars are locked bumper-to-bumper, horns honking, radio news reports droning about a military confrontation in Berlin. Suddenly a rumble, like distant thunder, is heard; the cars' engines all quit, and a great white light — like two suns — splits the sky, followed by an awesome mushroom cloud.

Klein is knocked to the ground, unconscious. When he awakens, he is surrounded by charred hulks, burnt bodies, rubble and dust. He has survived a nuclear blast. But for Klein, a nightmare has just begun.

This is just one of the harrowing scenes from "The Day After," an ABC TV movie, airing Sunday, Nov. 20, about the effects of a nuclear war on Lawrence, Kan. Months before air date, the show had already become one of the most controversial in TV history. Most audiences who have screened the film have walked away silently, with ashen faces.

"I was kind of upset with the picture myself," said Steven Guttenberg, who plays Stephen Klein. "It changed my outlook about nuclear war — made me think a great deal. It really affected me."

Guttenberg says that as a result of filming "The Day After," he's become involved with antinuclear movements at UCLA.

The drama, directed by Nicholas Meyer ("Star Trek II"), also stars Jason Robards, Bibi Besch, JoBeth Williams, John Cullum and John Lithgow. Because of the distressing nature of the material, many viewers may switch channels before the drama is over.

"Will people sit and watch?" asks Guttenberg. "I really don't know. I hope so. But it is a hard picture to watch."

Unfortunately, this is sweeps week, with the networks again forcing viewers to choose between two worthwhile productions. On Sunday, while ABC is airing "The Day After," NBC airs the first night of "Kennedy," a three-part miniseries about the White House years of the 35th president.

The cast includes Martin Sheen as John F. Kennedy, with Blair Brown (Jacqueline Kennedy), E.G. Marshall (Joseph Kennedy) and John Shea (Robert Kennedy). It's an ambitious production that captures well the New Frontier's spirit. However, it's Vincent Gardenia as a paranoid, rigid J. Edgar Hoover who gives the miniseries' most memorable performance.

Before & after in the soaps

By Seli Groves

All My Children: Cliff turned down Nina's plea that they reconcile. He told her, "I'll think about it." Tad didn't fool Opal, although he deceived the Martins again. Angie went to see Jesse. Coming: Jenny is jolted when Opal tells her what she plans.

Another Life: Amber lashed out at Dave during her testimony. Alicia's lung infection grew worse. Peter rescued Courtney from Troy's new advances. Coming: Ben's decision to leave medicine gives someone some very special cause for rejoicing.

Another World: Mark insisted on marrying the pregnant Stacey immediately Blaine and Sandy returned from Wyoming after searching for Catlin. Jennifer left town taking Kevin with her. Coming: David has to approach Sally on an old matter.

As The World Turns: Anne realized she had to face more problems with Jeff; his old fears and jealousies hadn't disappeared. Barbara was shocked to learn more about James' plans. Coming: Steve finds it difficult to tell Betsy what needs to be told.

Capitol: Trey was confronted with more news about Kelly's past. Sam was confronted with another decision regarding Amy Burke. Myrna realized she had to take further steps to handle Paula's changing condition. Coming: Paula says things that make some people start to "think."

Days Of Our Lives: Beau's and Hope's evidence pointed to Mrs. Whiting as part of a corrupt ring in the prison. Neil demanded permission to marry Liz. Marlena and Sandy witnessed a murder and saw the killer's face. Coming: Anna's information about Alex leads her into danger.

Edge Of Night: Shelley caught Gunther taking money from the receipts, but agreed not to turn him in, in return for a future favor. Preacher told Miles he and Jody would marry. Mike Karr won the election and Calvin proposed to Didi. Coming: Sky and Raven find more than ghosts in the mansion.

General Hospital: Laura registered at the hotel as Laura Vining, later saw Luke and followed him to the Webber home. Lesley began remembering Luke and Laura's wedding. Stavros revealed that Helena Cassadine helped Laura flee from him. Coming: Celia and Grant show courage in facing a new challenge to their love.

Guiding Light: Ed's mental state worried Bert as he tried to overcome his fears about ever using his hand again. Kelly recalled some dreams of his past. Lesley Ann had another scare and learned she wasn't off the hook, yet. Coming: Floyd finds some reasons for Lesley Ann's problems.

Loving: Garth had less to gloat over as stories about his abuse of his daughter became more credible. Merrill gave Roger reasons for ending their affair, but he refused to accept them. Mike's experiences at home rekindled his anxieties. Coming: The district attorney springs a surprise on everyone.

One Life To Live: Asa claimed half the stolen treasury of San Carlos and went all out to get it. A mysterious young man came to Llanview seeking help from David. Danny Wolek started work on the copy desk of The Banner. Coming: Cassie proves something to her mother, Dorian.

Ryan's Hope: Maggie and Bess were desperate because of the questions being asked by Frank and Faith. Bess used one of Jill's blank checks to pay off Dusty's extortion demands on Maggie. Jack's TV producer, Sydney, set up a meeting for her and Jack in New Orleans. Coming: Dusty has a new extortion demand.

Search For Tomorrow: Vargas, on his way to Suzi's apartment, prepared his plans for murdering her. Rhonda Sue arrived there earlier and found Joy's body. Travis forced Warren to drop charges against Martin. Coming: Lloyd shares a discovery with Stephanie which may not please Phillip back home.

Young & The Restless: Traci's compulsion to lose weight took her on another dangerous track. Kay began to wonder about Jill's story that she was pregnant. Paul made new plans for his project. Coming: Patty continues to thwart Jack's plans.

THANKSGIVING WINE

For the American-style cuisine that's typical fare for Thanksgiving Day, domestic wines are ideally suited. And, since the main course is generally based on hearty roasted fowl, big, well-defined, strong wines are the best choices. Deciding between red and white can be entirely a matter of personal preference. What's important about your Thanksgiving wine is that it be intensely flavored with lots of fruit and suppleness; these are the characteristics of the best made American wines, and you needn't spend a fortune on them.

For one of the best bargains in a red wine, Monterey Vineyards Classic Red (about $4) is a great choice for the big holiday feast. The '81 vintages or Martini Merlot and Beaulieu Vineyards' Beautour Cabernet Sauvignon (both under $5) are other top choices of characteristic American reds that are ideal for Thanksgiving meals.

To be really in the spirit of the holiday, you might want to serve and drink a wine made from grapes grown on some of our earliest settled soil, in Long Island. Hargrave Vineyard's Petit Chateau Cabernet Sauvignon ($5-6 on the East coast) is an excellent red, well-suited to turkey eating.

For a white wine to serve at Thanksgiving, the California chardonnay is a superb choice. One excellent buy, Calistoga 1981 Chardonnay ($6) is certainly big enough to stand up to your bird. Other good choices at prices reasonable enough to serve a crowd are the San Martin 1979 Chenin Blanc ($5-6), or the Fetzer North Coast 1982 Chenin Blanc ($6-7). San Martin Fume Blanc ($7) is another excellent choice for a Thanksgiving white.

Soap Beat

LaGuardia's soap book is an aficionado's delight

By Connie Passalacqua

Accuracy is the bane of a true soap fan's existence. One blanches when one reads in a newspaper or a magazine for example that Susan Lucci plays Erica on "Another World" or that Tony Geary's first soap role was on "General Hospital."

The extent of soap facts and trivia is so immense that not even the most dedicated fan knows it all — correctly. To their rescue comes a new book written on daytime dramas, "Soap World" by Robert LaGuardia, published this month by Arbor House.

LaGuardia's book, the best one so far on the topic, is not only encyclopedic, but absorbing to read at leisure. Four introductory chapters relate the history of soap operas from radio days to the present, and explore specific aspects of that history such as the shaky days of early TV soaps plus a topic interesting to non-watchers, sex on the soaps.

Most amazing is the separate chapters on each soap currently on the air. Both their complete story lines and extensive cost lists since Day One of each show (and some of these shows date back more than 25 years) are included. Only a museum curator could have done a better job in collecting and collating the intricacies of this kind of material. Initial cast lists and other material are also included on every soap ever on the air including such short-lived, little-remembered ones as "Women Without a Past" (1954), "The Way of the World" (1958) and "Hidden Faces" (1968).

Many original interviews were done for this book and are included in chapters exploring the characters of each show currently on the air. Such original cast members of long-running shows like Charita Bauer ("Guiding Light") and Mary Stuart ("Search for Tomorrow") contribute their substantial insights.

Perhaps the best chapter is on "General Hospital," which was about to be canceled when it was taken over by executive producer Gloria Monty in 1978. Said she to a cast member at the beginning, "When I saw the show, the only thing I could think of doing was putting you all on a plane and crashing it." The story of how she made "GH" No. 1 in the ratings and a TV legend is fascinating.

MEDICINE CHEST

Your Professional:
Troy True, Reg. Pharmacist

Why do some people take acetaminophen instead of aspirin? — C.R.

People take acetaminophen when they are allergic to aspirin, suffer stomach upset from aspirin, have a tendency to bleed easily, suffer from gout or take oral anticoagulants (blood thinners).

I understand that steriods (cortisone-like medicines) are used to treat many diseases. Do these medicines cause many side effects? — S.T.

The many benefits obtained from steroids also carry some inherent risks. Steroids can cause problems in your body in the following areas: abnormal fat distribution, muscular weakness and fatigue, skin changes, heart and circulatory system, digestive system, nervous system, plus bone and blood chemistry. It's just good sense to see your physician regularly if you are taking steroids.

Are eyeglasses tax deductible? — P.S.

Yes, and so are any expenses you pay for their maintenance. Find out what is deductible. then keep a record of expenses on file so you can consult it at year's end to take the necessary deductions.

Football no longer reigns Thanksgiving weekend

BOXING, ANYONE? Remember when football was king on Thanksgiving Day weekend, with hardy souls attending local games, and those less hardy settling for the Green Bay-Detroit game on TV? Then there were the traditional season-ending college games on Saturday.

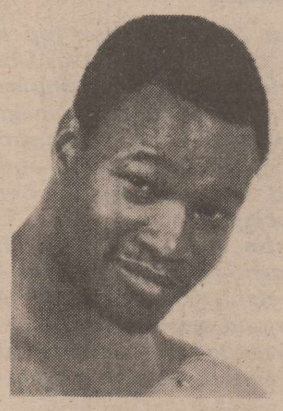

Times have changed, on TV at least!

While the Detroit Lions host the Pittsburgh Steelers on NBC this year, and CBS carries the Dallas-St. Louis game on the holiday, an addition has been made to the weekend.

The annual Army-Navy game moves in, and for the first time in history the service battle moves West to the Rose Bowl and will be played on Thanksgiving Friday.

That same day, boxing moves in on prime time when NBC presents the scheduled 12-round heavyweight championship bout between titleholder Larry Holmes and 23-year-old Marvis Frazier, son of ex-champ Smokin' Joe Frazier, from Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

For those who haven't enough of the fight, NBC's "SportsWorld" on Saturday has a discussion on the previous night's heavyweight battle.

Larry Holmes

Also on Saturday, NBC breaks tradition and presents "The Skin Game," which has nothing to do with Joe Theisman and his Washington team.

It's a new type golf tournament that will feature old-type golfers: Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Tom Watson. They play for $350,000 in prize money and it comes from Scottdale, Ariz.

Gymnastic fans can get their fill when HBO presents the Caesars Palace Invitational on Wednesday, Nov. 23 and the following Saturday. Olympic-caliber athletes compete in floor exercises and on the pommel horse, still rings, parallel bars and the horizontal bar.

Movie Nostalgia

By Marie Iandiorio

In 1936, "The Great Ziegfeld" won top honors with a best production Oscar. Fifteen years later, the Academy again voted this prize to a film musical, 'An American in Paris." Under the stylish and imaginative direction of Vincente Minnelli, this extravaganza had everything: a fine cast starring Leslie Caron and Gene Kelly, a charming and amusing script, a Gershwin score and dancing, dancing, dancing!

This colorful film also spotlighted Paris life, its gaiety, flowers and romantic spirit. In all, "An American in Paris" won eight Oscars, including best production, best story and screenplay, best musical score and a special award to Gene Kelly for his brilliant choreography, beautifully executed in the memorable finale.

Question: Kelly's sideman in this film was a popular "second banana" of the period, who invariably played the piano in each film he made. Can you name him?

Answer: Oscar Levant

INSIDE TV

BY CHRIS COLBY

CLOSEUPS: It's no longer a secret. The voice of Mr. Smith, the talking orangutan is that of Ed Weinberger, co-creator and co-executive producer of the show. "I cast myself as the voice out of sheer desperation," said Weinberger. "We auditioned over 100 actors and just couldn't find the right formula. We had to make a presentation to the network, so I did the voice. People felt it worked, so I stayed with it."

CHARLTON HESTON

When Charlton Heston was in Chester, S.C. filming "Chiefs," he had a lot of visitors, but one was especially important — his mother. "She was down for a week," Chuck recalled. "She sits in my chair in the corner and seems content just to watch. I used to think I was the main attraction. I'm not. She just likes movie sets." ... Gerald McRaney, the wisecracking star of "Simon and Simon" was asked if he'd ever been injured while filming an action scene. "Yeah," he answered, "Twice. Once, I had to punch a dolphin in the nose to make it stop biting my hand, and another time I went through a big batch of pain while learning never to get off a motorcycle going 40 miles per hour ... The current controversy over Hollywood Tour Buses taking fans to celebrity homes has a lot of stars speaking up. Says Barbara Eden, "I am really against the company that puts out books listing the stars' homes. People park outside and wait for hours. It makes me nervous and it scares my mother."

FOCUS: Fans won't have to wonder what's under all those clinging gowns worn by Joan Collins. The bitchy sex goddess of "Dynasty" bares all inside the pages of December's "Playboy." She also gets the cover, swathed in red and sequins. When someone asked Joan how she liked playing opposite all those handsome men in "The Making Of A Male Model" she rolled those gorgeous orbs and bounced back, "My 'Dynasty' co-stars John Forsythe, Jack Coleman, Gordon Thompson and John James aren't exactly chopped liver." ... David Hasselhoff is casting mooney eyes at soap star Catherine Hickland ... Did'ya know that Patrick Cassidy, who plays an outfielder in NBC's new "Bay City Blues" series was a star quarterback at Beverly Hills High? He led the nation in passing till he broke his collarbone during his senior year ... Beauteous Merete Van Kamp has had several movie offers since her appearance as "Princess Daisy" ... Woody Woodpecker's creator Walter Lantz makes a guest appearance on "Too Close For Comfort" playing himself. The 83-year-old Oscar winner visits fellow cartoonist, Henry Rush, played by Ted Knight ... Patrick O'Neal requested out of "Emerald Point N.A.S." and is being replaced as Harlan Adams by Robert Vaughn.

COMING EVENTS: "The Duck Factory," about a group of cartoonists, will be NBC's midseason replacement for the first of the Peacock's shows to bite the dust ... There's a big decision to be made on the November 27th edition of "One Day At A Time." Ann Romano's family could be growing again as Barbara and Mark consider adopting a baby. However, the young couple learn adoption could mean a five-year delay in their plan, so they consider several alternatives.

Morgan Fairchild is one of several guests joining Bob Hope for "Professor Hope's Thanksgiving Campus Comedy Capers," a special airing Wednesday, Nov. 23 on NBC.

Fitness buff Williams keeps on punchin'

By Joan Crosby

Billy Dee Williams

It's been a good couple of weeks for TV fans of Billy Dee Williams.

Viewers saw him last week as a Southern town's first black police chief in the CBS miniseries "Chiefs." And this week, on Wednesday, Nov. 23, he'll co-host "Classic Creatures: Return of the Jedi," a CBS special.

Williams, who's well known for playing Lando Calrissian in "The Empire Strikes Back" and "Return of the Jedi," will look at monsters from the motion picture past and contrast them with the creatures from the "Star Wars" trilogy. Carrie Fisher is the special's other co-host.

Williams has additional upcoming projects including a film "Fear City," due out in February. His TV pilot, "Shooting Stars," was well received when it aired earlier this year. Williams says he'd be willing to turn it into a series.

The suave, well-dressed Williams certainly keeps busy. But when he isn't working, he says his forms of relaxation "vary from day to day."

"I paint, I spend time with my children — I have a boy from my first marriage and a girl from my third and I spend a lot of time with them.

He's also a physical fitness buff.

"I hit the gym every day. I like the punching bag. Whenever I'm working at it, someone comes up and says 'Oh, you're getting your aggressions out'.

"I don't take it that way. I think of it as mental as well as physical. I also want to study t'ai chi.

Williams says he "always likes to be prepared for anything that might happen and with that in mind, I need my physical strength as well as my mental strength."

Refunding $$$ and sense

By Victoria R. Fleming

A recent series of refund deals requiring proofs-of-purchase from English muffins combined with other products such as cheese, meat and eggs, reminded all of us never to send in any more (or less) than is specifically required. If the offer calls for UPC symbols, that's all you should clip — or if it's the ingredient statement they're after — send only that part of the label. Many companies have more than one deal going at a time, or over a period of time, which require different qualifiers from the same product. So keep your leftover packaging well organized as these scraps often become valuable the next time around. As I've already used my muffin UPC for one deal now, I'm free to send in the ingredient panel for the latest mail-in!

Q. If a deal states, "limited to four refunds per name or address," for example, do you need a separate form for each submission?

A. This can be tricky as some companies don't care, but many do require a separate form. I play it safe and do it that way when I have the extra forms and I also mail them in the same envelope to save postage. But if they don't stipulate individual forms, you can try your luck with only one form and just remember to include the total amount of proofs.

PICK OF THE WEEK

JILL JACKSON'S HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD: Dolly Parton has composed the songs and score for "Rhinestone" in which she stars with Sylvester Stallone. It's the story of a singer in a New York City country-and-western bar who makes a high stake bet with her boss that she can transform anyone into a better C&W singer than the sorry lot on the current bill. Stallone is the object of the bet.

Broadway Joe Namath goes Hollywood when he co-stars with George Kennedy, Barbara Eden and Melissa Sue Anderson in "Chattanooga Choo Choo." Joe plays a football hero in the last stages of his career who becomes romantically involved with Eden on the final run of the famous train from New York to Tennessee.

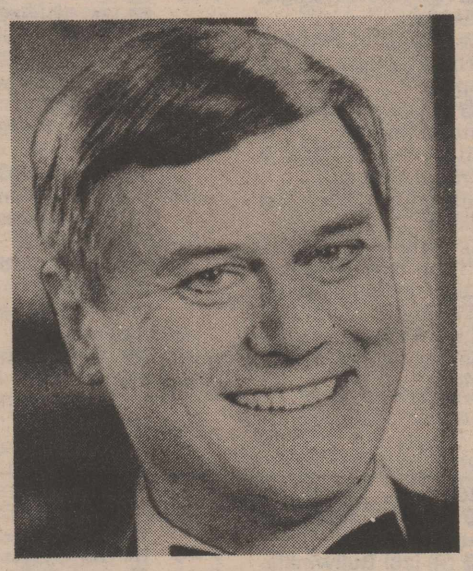

POLLY HOLLIDAY

Polly Holliday has signed to co-star with Jack Lemmon and Estelle Parsons in the world premiere of "A Sense of Humor" to open December 2 at the Ahmanson Theater in the Los Angeles Music Center. Lemmon loves to get a stage workout whenever he can "so he can feel the audience reaction."

HOLLYWOOD IS READING: The Dinah Shore Cookbook (Doubleday). It's filled with mouthwatering recipes for everything from haute cuisine to just plain down-home food like red beans and rice and potted shortribs. Dinah supplies a lot of fun dialogue along with the recipes collected from friends, restaurants, etc. etc. over a two-year period. This should make a great Christmas gift ... No Turn Unstoned compiled by Diana Rigg also from Doubleday. A devastating, venomous and hilarious collection of theatrical reviews. The very worst that critics have said about actors, playwrights, directors, sets, etc. etc. This time, Hollywood gets the last laugh at "the theater," but not for long. I'm told The Movies' bad reviews will be next.

BITS 'N' PIECES: Barbi Benton is mulling two offers to make her Broadway musical debut ... Hollywood males are already shivering. Jackie Collins' next is Hollywood Husbands ... Jetta Goudal, femme fatale of the silents, now confined to a wheelchair, but still a stunning lady, was awarded an honorary Life Membership in Actor's Equity ... Jackie Bissett and Alexander Godunov (his hair as long as hers) handholding at the premiere of "The Right Stuff" ... Watch Ed Harris' career zoom since his portrayal of John Glenn in the aforementioned flick ... Did'ya know Koo Stark now has an interview show on the London tube? She queries rock stars ... Buddy Hackett and his son Sandy teamed for appearances in Atlantic City and Las Vegas. Young Hackett is as funny as his pop ... You wouldn't know Muhammad Ali these days. All that ferociousness is gone as Ali dons black tie to attend social and charity functions with his beautiful wife. The Champ also lives in Fremont Place, one of Los Angeles' most prestigious and conservative areas ...

J.R. GIVES THANKS

A smiling Larry Hagman takes a break from playing J.R. Ewing on "Dallas" to co-anchor the "CBS All-American Thanksgiving Day Parade," a three-hour special, which includes parade reports from five cities, airing THURSDAY, NOV. 24.

Dear Debbie

DEAR DEBBIE:

I recently learned that my 16-year-old stepdaughter has been sleeping with her boyfriend for a year. I am extremely upset by this. She has lived with us for about that length of time, because her mother thought my husband should take more responsibility for her. Personally, I think she just couldn't handle the difficulty of dealing with a teenager. I have two daughters of my own (grown now) and I'm well aware of how much hard work it is to raise a teenager. Thank God my two turned out fine. I was strict with them and managed to instill a good sense of values by which they are currently living their lives. However, now I find myself with someone else's daughter, whom I didn't raise during her crucial, formative years, and having to cope with this horrendous problem. I know if my husband found out about this, he'd die. On the other hand, I don't think he'd take any steps to discipline her or even express his disapproval. He's quite lenient with her. I often find myself in the position of the "bad guy" which is made worse by the fact that I'm not actually her mother. What should I do about this? Should I just let her go on her merry way or tell my husband or confront her myself? I'm really in a quandary.

AGAINST IT

DEAR AGAINST IT:

I agree that your situation is so fraught with complications, it's most difficult to see your way out. However, I feel the best way to handle this is to confront her yourself. Try to approach it calmly and rationally. Outline to her exactly what the consequences of her actions could be, i.e., unwanted pregnancy. Be sure to ask what method of birth control, if any, she's using. Most of all, let her know that adult privileges carry adult responsibilities. Make sure she knows that you in no way approve of this and outline your reasons why.

In terms of your husband, I suspect the reason he cannot discipline her is guilt. Many "weekend" fathers take on the role of Mr. Nice Guy with their kids so that their time together won't be unpleasant. While your husband's role has now changed, he hasn't. Talk to him privately about it. Gently explain that his overindulgence will ultimately cause his daughter more harm than good.

DEAR DEBBIE:

I am a 17-year-old girl whose parents are divorced. Lately, Mom has taken up with a real creep. I hate him because he treats my mother pretty badly and is nasty to my little brother. But the worst thing is what he does to me. Mom gave him the keys so he pops by anytime he wants. He thinks nothing of barging into my room without knocking and always seems to catch me when I'm undressing. He asks me all kinds of embarrassing questions about my boyfriends and tries to touch me. I'm frightened of him, but I think if I tell my mother, she won't believe it. I'm thinking of running away, but I wrote hoping you'd have a better answer.

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED:

By all means, tell your mother right away. If that doesn't work, tell your father. I also suggest that if you don't have a lock on the room of your door, get one. Avoid going home alone. Go to a friend's house until you know someone else is home in your house. The guy does sound potentially dangerous. If all else fails, you can report him to the police.

THE RIGHT STUFF (The Ladd Co./Warner Bros. — PG) ★ ★ ★ Starring Scott Glenn, Dennis Quaid, Sam Shepard

By J.T. YURKO

One of the greatest achievements of the 20th century was putting a man on the moon. That feat of man and machine began in the isolated Mojave Desert when Chuck Yaeger became the first man to break the sound barrier. Then the Russians startled the world and put the first satellite into space. The space race had begun.

The pilots of yesterday would become the astronauts of the space age. They had to have "the right stuff," the right combination of ability, stamina and just plain guts. The word "astronaut" means "star voyager," and test pilots were the logical choice to become the first men to venture into space.

The men picked would have the eyes of the world and history upon them. Their story — those who made it into space, those who didn't, and those who should have — make up this three-hour portrait of the first American heroes of the space age.

Philip Kaufman wrote and directed this film, based on Tom Wolfe's 1979 book. The Mercury astronauts are heroes, but heroes are human as well, and this tale chronicles their story, their reasons for becoming astronauts, and the effect on wives and families. It is done so well one feels as though the material hasn't been touched yet, even though the film is more than three hours long.

As an ensemble piece of acting, however, those playing the seven astronauts are excellent to a man, as are the actresses playing their wives. The parallel plot of pilot Chuck Yaeger, who showed courage but himself never went into space, provides a superb counterpoint to the astronauts' stories.

"The Right Stuff" is not a flawless film (its portrayal of politicians, (especially LBJ, reporters, and the astronaut-program recruiters, is simplistic), but in the end it is as stirring and moving as any such epic would like to be. As for helping out John Glenn in his candidacy for president, suffice to say this will not hurt his chances. After seeing the film, though, you may join a "Chuck Yaeger for President" committee.
