New Oil Talk Of Industry

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS AP - People used to fear that the Gulf of Mexico was just about drilled out, but now giant rigs are opening up new oil finds way out there in deep water.

Finds by separate oil company combines headed by Shell Oil Co. and by Amoco may portend a profitable new ball game for the gulf, though company announcements were cautiously worded.

There's no doubt that new oil and gas logged by the drillers are the talk of the industry along the Gulf, which has long been one of he world's richest oil areas.

With a lovely wildcat oil well now backed up by another hole two miles away, Shell and partners have two semisubmersible rigs, the Ocean Queen and Pacesetter II, making more holes.

Shell said the 9,770-foot "confirmation" well was drilled by a rig working in water 1,050-foot deep—a record for the gulf. However, Placid Oil Co. plans to begin drilling soon in water 1,750 feet deep.

The exploratory wells were carefully plugged with cement at several points below the sea-bottom. The day that they, and other wells, can be connected onto an underwater pipeline to shore won't come for four or five years.

Deep water strikes greatly expand the Gulf area here-to-fore considered prime prospecting area. The best shallow water section already bristle with some 12,000 oil and gas wells.

At this point, the deepest water over a producing well in the Gulf is about 370 feet.

But operations in deep water, whether exploratory drilling or production work, is very expensive.

Shell is designing a production platform that will stand on steel legs in 1,000 feet of water. In 1974, engineers estimated such a platform would cost $30 million but now they don't want to even talk about what inflation has added.

"Obviously, those 1974 figures no longer hold," a spokesman said.

The successful Shell and Amoco exploratory wells are located on offshore leases about 15 miles southeast of the Mississippi River's South Pass. The area lies about 150 miles due south of Biloxi, Miss.

Shell and partners paid the federal government $214 million for leases on three three-mile square tracts at a 1974 offshore sale. The Amoco combine paid $81 million for its one adjoining tract.

The first Shell well logged oilbearing stratas totaling 162 feet in thickness, with 9 feet of gas and 26 feet of probable oil. The second well, two miles away, logged 46 feet of oil strata, 24 feet of probable and 32 feet of gas.

ELF Demands Arms Ban For Life Of Americans

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Eritrean rebels threatened today to kill four Americans taken prisoner in northern Ethiopia unless the United States stops supplying arms to the Ethiopian government.

Two of the Americans were kidnaped Saturday along with six Ethiopians when raiders attacked the U.S. Kagnew communications facility near Asmara, the capital of Eritrea province. The Pentagon said the Americans were Navy Electronic Tech. 3.C. Thomas C. Bowidowicz of Jersey City, N.J., and Army Spec. 5 David Strickland of Orlando, Fla.

Two other Americans, Steve Campbell of San Leandro, Calif., and Jim Harrell of Milwaukee, Wis., were kidnaped from Kagnew in July. Both were civilian technicians and were reported seen by a Syrian photographer last month in the hands of the rebels.

A spokesman for the Eritrean Liberation Front in Beirut said the ELF transmitted four demands to Washington through "a U.S. embassy in the Middle East."

In addition to the arms ban the demands included:

—Dismantling the Kagnew base and an Ethiopian naval base under construction at Massawa, Ethiopia's chief port on the Eritrean coast.

—Compensation for areas of Eritrea that suffered heavy damage in attacks by the U.S.-equipped Ethiopian air force during fighting between the rebels and the Ethiopian government last February.

—U.S. government pressure on Ethiopia's military government to free all Eritrean rebels it holds.

"We demand a public U.S. government statement on these demands. Otherwise we shall not be responsible for what will happen to the four American captives," the ELF spokesman said.

He said the four captives were being treated well and fed well. He said they were being held "somewhere in northern Eritrea" but would not be more specific.

Harrell's mother, Mrs. William Harrell, said Sunday the State Department has advised her that negotiations for his release have broken down.

Sliding Oil Prices Scale Told

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The Australian government is introducing a sliding scale of oil prices to encourage more domestic exploration, but some major companies say it is unfairly distributed and inadequate.

Prime Minister Gough Whitlam announced the new system Sunday night after months of warnings from the oil industry that unless the government let prices rise, the industry would no longer be able to supply 70 per cent of Australia's needs from domestic production. Australia last year imported 90 million barrels of oil at a cost of $958 million.

The new pricing arrangement permits the price on oil from newly discovered fields to rise to the price paid for imported oil. Based on current import prices, the oil companies will be able to charge $9.17 per barrel on production from new fields, compared to the present price of $2.79. The government imposes an excise tax of $2.66 per barrel on top of the producer's charge.

However, the maximum that can be charged for production from an existing field is $6.98, on one field only, and then not until 1977. The price will rise to only $3.69 a barrel at the big Bass Strait Field, the country's biggest producer, which is run by Esso and Australia's BHP corporation.

"The increase . . . is a long way short of picking up the effects of inflation," said a BHP spokesman. An Esso spokesman added, "Inflation since the old prices were decided in 1968 has been about 80 per cent. The new prices give us a rise of only 11 per cent — and they are for three years to come."

The government will review the oil prices next in 1978.

The price hikes are expected to increase gasoline prices 1.3 cents, to about 80 cents per gallon.

Gunman Holding 4 Hostages Slain

By JIM WILLSE
Associated Press Writer

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A police marksman shot and killed a would-be airline hijacker early today after the gunman took four persons captive, including a doctor critically wounded.

The gunman, identified as Freddie Soloman, 24, was felled as he emerged from an empty Continental Airlines 727 passenger jet on a floodlit runway at San Jose Municipal Airport.

Police Sgt. Michael Van Dyke said the gunman was shot after he pointed a handgun at one of the 25 police officers surrounding the airplane. He was hit by a single shot, allowing the hostage he was using as a shield to escape unharmed.

The gunman, who began his violent journey through the streets of San Jose after leaving the scene of a rape and stabbing, earlier had ordered two captive airline mechanics to start up the engines of the jet. But police shot out the tires and two of the four captives jumped from the aircraft to safety.

That left the doctor, radiologist Frank Wiefels, and one of the two mechanics, Alden Lindekugel, 42. When authorities refused to meet his demands for a loaded gun and a pilot for the plane, the gunman shot Wiefels, according to police.

The doctor fell to the ground below the aircraft and crawled to safety. He was reported in critical condition today after surgery for a gunshot wound of the abdomen.

Police said the chase began when Soloman fled the scene of the rape and commandeered an auto at a nearby food store. Initial police reports said the driver of the car also was taken captive, but officers said later that the first hostage was Wiefels, seized when the gunman forced his way into a hospital emergency room.

From there, the gunman drove to Reid-Hillview Airport, a small airfield. Unable to find an airplane, he took an airport security guard as his second hostage and switched to a Santa Clara County truck, police said.

The gunman and his two captives then drove some 20 miles to San Jose Airport. Police said he then took the airline mechanics hostage in the main terminal building and began his effort to escape by air.

The rape victim was identified as Irene Rosas, 28, of San Jose. She was hospitalized with a stab wound in the chest.

Wiefels underwent surgery at the San Jose Hospital and Health Center.

The series of events began about 11:30 p.m. and ended with the gunman's death about 1:30 a.m.

After police shot out the Continental jetliner's tires, the plane came to a halt on the runway, its engines still running.

Police Lt. William Mallet began negotiating with the gunman over a radio from the control tower to the plane's cabin.

"He was yelling and screaming comments to the effect that he was going to kill all his hostages if his demands were not met," Mallet said.

Demos Leaning Toward Brief Decontrol Trial

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is growing sentiment among congressional Democrats to end oil-price controls just long enough to give Americans a taste of higher fuel prices.

Then, the Democrats' theory goes, consumers would set up a clamor, controls would be restored despite President Ford's objections, and Ford would have suffered a stinging defeat.

It is doubtful the battle between Ford and Congress over energy policy will end that way, but chances for such a turn will be improved this week unless House and Senate Democrats resolve their differences over terms of a brief extension of controls.

Both houses of Congress will devote virtually all their efforts this week to energy legislation. Because of the Yom Kippur holiday, the House planned no action today or Tuesday. The Senate scheduled a meeting for today but schduled no votes.

The House has cleared its calendar for the last three days of the week to resume work on a broad energy-conservation bill that also includes new oil-pricing provisions objected to by the White House.

Leaders of both houses will be involved in behind-the-scene negotiations trying to work out an extension of 60 days or so in the oil-price controls that expired Aug. 31.

Ford wants to end price controls in the hope that higher prices for gasoline and other fuels will force conservation, give the oil industry more money to find more energy and reduce U.S. reliance on foreign oil.

His Demcoratic opponents fear the effects higher fuel prices would have on unemployment and recession. They say the Ford plan would raise gasoline prices by 10 to 12 cents a gallon, compared with the White House estimate of 3 cents.

The President vetoed the Democratic plan to extend controls for six months to allow Congress time to develop its own energy plan. The House then passed a 60-day extension of the controls law.

But a snag developed when Senate Democrats insisted on limiting Ford's authority to send Congress a "take-it-or-leave-it" plan for phasing out price controls during the extension period. Such a plan would become law unless rejected by the House or Senate within five days.

Lake Gains From Rains

Although most of the copious rains of the past weekend soaked into the ground, Lake J.B. Thomas made a significant catch of water, the Colorado River Municipal Water District reported this morning.

The lake's elevation this morning was 2226.09, representing a rise of 1.17 feet since the rains began last Thursday night. This increased the water supply in the lake by about 3,000 acre feet. Lake Thomas held a total of 41,990 acre feet, which put it in better shape for this season than last year.

The sun tried to break through this morning for the first time since the cloudy, cool weather moved into the area Thursday night. Snyder had received a total of 1.64 inches of rain in the official guage over the weekend, making a total of 4.94 inches since Thursday. There was little runoff in this immediate area, as most of the rains fell slowly.

The light rains were spreading eastward today, although considerable cloud cover and some fog remained over Northwest Texas. Forecasts called for damp weather to keep moving over the central and east parts of the state tonight, while clouds were expected to thin in the west. Also, a little warming was in prospect for most sections. Theremeter readings were mostly in the high forties and low fifties Saturday and much of Sunday, but the mercury had moved in the sixties by Sunday afternoon.

ON GRAIN SALES

Ford Refuses To End Suspension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford declined today to end his suspension of grain sales to the Soviet Union, despite the personal pleading of angry American farm organization leaders.

Ford met for 45 minutes with President William J. Kuhfuss of the American Farm Bureau Federation, deputy director Allen Lauterback and their general counsel in what was called a very frank discussion.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz told reporters afterward that Ford told them he would not end the grain-sales suspension because he wants the Soviets to promise a minimum level of grain purchases to lessen the impact on U.S. food prices.

The meeting was attended by Butz; William Seidman, the president's staff economic adviser; Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers; and Gen. Brent Scowcroft, one of the President's national security advisers.

Ford announced his suspension Sept. 9 after a White House meeting with AFL-CIO President George Meany, saying "The country must have a new procedure for the sale of feed grains and wheat to such large state purchasers as the Soviet Union."

Meany also urged direct government-to-government negotiations for Russian grain purchases.

Butz quoted the President today as saying he does not want the U.S. government to have complete control of the sale of farm commodities to foreign governments.

The President was reported to be committed to allowing international markets to control how much of the American farm surplus is sold to the Soviets.

Last week, Farm Bureau Federation leaders angrily accused Ford of "capitulation to political blackmail" when he announced that no further sales would be made before mid-October.

Guerrillas Hold Diplomat, Aides

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas took the Egyptian ambassador and two aides hostage in the Egyptian Embassy today and threatened to blow up the building at midnight — 6 p.m. EDT — unless Egypt pulls out its Sinai negotiating team from Geneva and scraps its new disengagement accord with Israel.

One of the five guerrillas said explosives had been placed at the entrance and all the windows of the embassy — a 12-room apartment on the first floor of an eight-story building in the heart of Madrid's diplomatic quarter. Families in the building and surrounding homes were immediately evacuated.

The Egyptian government in Cairo said it has asked Palestinian leader Yasir Arafat to take steps to secure the release of the diplomats in Madrid, and would hold him and his Palestine Liberation Organization personally "responsible for the incident and all its consequences."

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat formed a special committee to deal with the embassy siege. The seized ambassador in Madrid, a horseman and golfer, is related to Sadat through marriage.

In Beirut, the PLO said it was making efforts to "safeguard the lives of the Egyptian brothers at the Egyptian Embassy in Madrid," but denied responsibility for the takeover and denounced what it called the "threatening tone" of Cairo's statement holding Arafat and the PLO personally responsible for the incident.

A United Nations spokesman in Geneva said there were no immediate plans to call off the next meeting of Egyptian and Israeli Sinai accord negotiators, now scheduled for Tuesday.

The embassy takeover was the first such action in Spain since the Spanish civil war that ended in 1939.

As the embassy siege began, about 40 Palestinian students from the University of Madrid occupied the Arab League office a quarter of a mile away in the Madrid residential district, but left two hours later, releasing the Egyptian director and secretary unharmed.

The students said their action had no connection with the embassy takeover, and was meant only to dramatize their identical demand to scrap the Sinai accord.

At the embassy, about five Palestinian gunmen held 55-year-old Egyptian Ambassador Mahmoud Abdul Ghaffar, his press attache and a consul hostage.

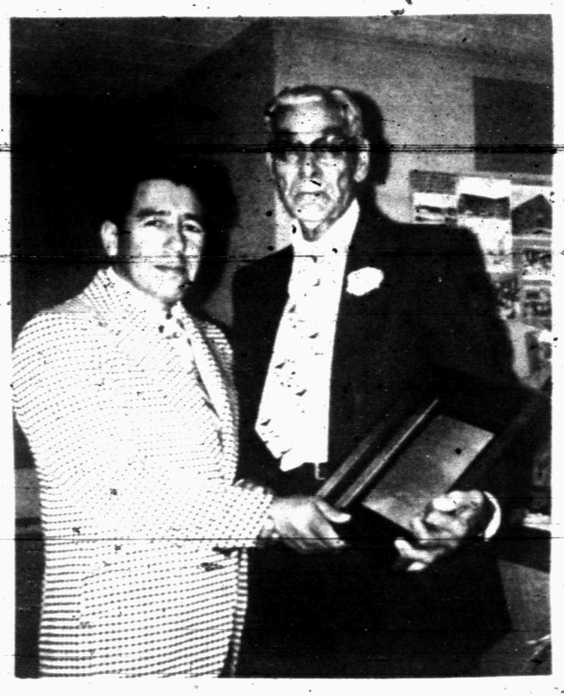

Jews Mark Yom Kippur

NEW YORK (AP) — Jews filled temples and synagogues the world over today to mark Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, with fasting, self-evaluation and repentance.

The holiday, the most sacred on the Hebrew calendar, began at sundown Sunday as cantors chanted the Kol Nidre, a traditional prayer beseeching God's forgiveness for man's fallibility.

One long blast of the shofar, or ram's horn, ends the day-long worship this evening.

Rabbis in the New York metropolitan area stressed in their sermons that the sacred holiday was one of hope with the obligation to improve the human condition.

MINISTER HONORED—Rev. E.P. Gonzales (right), retired minister, was honored at Templo Bautista Saturday night for more than 50 years of service in Spanish American missions and churches throughout West Texas, New Mexico and Wyoming. Here, he receives a plaque from the pastor, Rev. Juan Guzman (left).

Rev. Gonzales Is Honored Here

The Rev. E.P. Gonzales was honored for his more than 50 years of service in the ministry by Templo Bautista Spanish Baptist Mission, Saturday night. Some 150 friends and family members gathered to honor the retired minister.

Rev. Gonzales' pastor, the Rev. Juan Guzman of Templo Bautista, was master of ceremonies. Jorge Herrera of La Mission de Fe, Big Spring, led the music. Ned Underwood and Bob Melton, deacons from the First Baptist Church, participated in the ceremonies. Testimonies about the work of Rev. Gonzales were given by Ruby Butts, Alice Guerra, Domingo Abreo, Wayland Holt and the Rev. Malcolm Brown.

In response, Rev. Gonzales read from Psalm 26 and talked of his concern that his people might come to "know Christ as Savior."

The Rev. Basilio Esquivel, pastor of the First Spanish Baptist Church of Big Spring, brought the message of the evening on, "The Apostle Paul Evaluates His Own Career."

A plaque from Templo Bautista expressing appreciation for his many years of service was presented to Rev. Gonzales by Rev. Guzman. Underwood presented a watch to Rev. Gonzales from the First Baptist Church. The benediction was spoken by the Rev. Jose Ramirez, pastor of the First Spanish Baptist Church of Lamesa.

Following the service in Templo Bautista, supper was served by the church in the coliseum for the many guests who had come to share in the celebration.

The Rev. Gonzales was converted at Hagerman, N.M. in 1919 and was baptized in the First Baptist Church at Roswell. In 1922, he was ordained a deacon of the church, and in 1924, he was licensed to preach by the same church.

He preached in New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming, and in 1930, came to Texas. He was ordained into the ministry in Slaton in 1930.

Rev. Gonzales led in establishing Templo Bautista and in building the attractive building the church now occupies on Avenue R. He also has pastored churches in Slaton, Levelland, Lamesa, Midland, Colorado City, and Ozona. Other churches he has built are in Slaton, Colorado City and Ozona. He was the first missionary to the Spanish American people for the Mitchell-Scurry Baptist Association.

In 1960, Rev. Gonzales retired due to the illness of his wife. But he did not stop preaching. He has served as interim pastor of churches in Post, Rotan and Colorado City and twice in Snyder at Templo Bautista. He has preached in missions, held revivals and is presently counselor and pastor emeritus of Templo Bautista.

Among those attending the recognition service were Rev. Gonzales' children, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gonzales of Lamesa, Mrs. Juanita Cadena of Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Gregorio Gonzales of Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Gonzales of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. David Gonzales of Dallas, Mr. Ismael Gonzales of Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. Easy Arauza of Abilene, and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

UT President Protest Set

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas student leaders say they are organizing a student-faculty strike this week to protest the appointment of Dr. Lorene Rogers as president of UT-Austin.

Spokesmen for a new organization, calling itself Students Helping Academic Freedom at Texas (SHAFT) announced Sunday night there will be a demonstration on the UT main mall at noon Wednesday, followed by a scheduled general walkout of students and professors for the rest of the week.

UT student body president Carol Crabtree said the student senate will hold a special meeting Monday night to endorse the strike.

A general faculty meeting is scheduled Tuesday to discuss faculty action following Dr. Rogers' appointment last Friday by UT regents.

She was opposed by a faculty-student advisory committee which screened the presidential candidates.

A SHAFT spokesman said the group is protesting the appointment because Dr. Rogers as acting president for the past year "demonstrated that she is unresponsive to the needs of students and faculty as well as to the issues of academic excellence and freedom."

The spokesman said the campus coalition is demanding Dr. Rogers' immediate resignation.

A message was scrawled Saturday night on the pavement in front of the home of Alan Shivers, chairman of the UT board of regents. The inscription referred to Mrs. Rogers.

"I find it totally irresponsible, shocking and revolting that some individual or individuals would be compelled as a mean of expressing themselves to make such a defamatory and slanderous attack on the president of the University of Texas at Austin," Shivers said.

"This is not the time to prejudge anyone's capability," he said.

Ford Sales Off 20.7%

DETROIT (AP) — Sales by Ford Motor Co. dropped 20.7 per cent below 1974 averages in the first 10 days of September, the firm reported today.

Industry analysts said total U.S. domestic car sales would be off about 14 per cent from strong year-ago levels, when imminent price increases triggered a model-year closeout buying surge, analysts say.

Ford said that during eight selling days in the Sept. 1-10 period it sold an average of 5,110 cars, down from an average of 6,448 per day during seven selling days in the comparable 1974 period. Sales totaled 40,883 cars, compared with 45,133 in the 1974.

Other domestic makers were to report their figures later in the day.

Quake Area Has Sunk Six Inches

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The Oroville area, shaken last month by an earthquake that measured 6.1 on the Richter scale, has sunk about six inches in relation to the Sierras, a federal study discloses.

The U.S. Geological Survey adds that there is a "reasonable probability" of another earthquake in the range of 4.5 to 5 on the Richter scale.

The study was released over the weekend on the Aug. 1 quake and the smaller ones that followed at this Northern California community.

Meanwhile, a pair of state seismologists are warning of an even larger shock.

"People shouldn't be surprised" if another 6-magnitude earthquake occurs in the area, said Tousson Toppozada of the California Department of Conservation.

Other scientists have warned that such a quake might be expected anywhere along the Sierra foothills, which had been previously thought relatively earthquake-safe.

On the Richter scale, each full point represents a shock 10 times stronger than the preceding figure. The 1906 San Francisco earthquake measured 8.3.

Toppozada and seismologist Don Rodgers issued a memorandum linking the Oroville quakes to the nearby Oroville dam, at 770 feet high the nation's tallest earth-filled dam.

"The proximity of the earthquake to Lake Oroville suggests a relationship between the two," they said.

At the time of the Aug. 1 earthquake there was speculation that the weight of the water may have triggered a movement in the earth's crust.

Rodent Control Booth Slated

Larry J. Killgo, Rodent Control Specialist with the Texas Rodent and Predatory Animal Control Service, Texas A&M University and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Cooperating will be on hand for the Scurry County Fair Sept. 18-20.

Killgo will have a booth in the Scurry County Coliseum and be available to answer questions and give expert advice on the management or control of any animal in a pest situation.

Killgo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Killgo who live at 207 Thirty-sixth Street.

13-Cent Letters Due Airmail Type Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service says that starting next month it will give at least as good service for a 10-cent stamp as it now does for a 13-cent airmail stamp.

Under the program that takes effect Oct. 11, first-class mail will receive service "equal to or better than airmail," the Postal Service said Sunday.

"For the mailing public, the practical effect of the first-class improvement program is that domestic first-class postage will purchase the level of service that previously only airmail could buy," a Postal Service announcement said.

A Postal Service spokesman said much of the first-class mail destined for distant addresses now is transported by air. After Oct. 11, the Postal Service will guarantee that it will go by air, he said.

This means that there no longer will be an advantage in paying the extra three cents for an airmail stamp.

The Postal Service has discussed upgrading first-class mail since February but postponed the change until after new postal rates were decided upon.

The Postal Service on Sunday obtained the legal authority to begin the process of increasing postal rates. The Postal Service is expected to do so this week, resulting in an increase in the first-class rate from 10 to 13 cents after Christmas.

Pope Proclaims First Wholly American Saint

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Thousands of Roman Catholics from the United States today continued a week-long celebration of the canonization of St. Elizabeth Ann Seton, a convert to Catholicism nearly 200 years ago who has become the first native-born American saint.

U.S. Ambassador John Volpe and Henry Cabot Lodge, President Ford's envoy to the Vatican, were giving a reception for many of the nearly 20,000 Americans who came to Rome for the canonization ceremony in St. Peter's Square Sunday.

In the evening, John Cardinal Wright, the highest ranking American at the Vatican, was leading a tribute to Mother Seton at the Catacombs of San Callisto.

"Elizabeth Ann Seton was wholly American," Pope Paul VI told the throng of pilgrims packing St. Peter's Square Sunday. "Rejoice, we say to the great nation of the United States. Rejoice for your glorious daughter. Be proud of her and know how to preserve her faithful heritage.

The 77-year-old pontiff led the service standing at an altar atop the steps of St. Peter's Basilica. He spoke in carefully enunciated English.

The music was supplied by the Vatican's Sistine Choir and the Community Chorus of Emmitsburg, Md., where in 1809, Mother Seton founded the Sisters of Charity, the first religious order of women in the United States.

The crowd included a thousand of the 8,000 Sisters of Charity and more than 15,000 other Americans who came to Rome on a seven-day, $500 package trip.

Keyboard Hooked To Computer For LP

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Ned Lagin, an associate of the Grateful Dead, has produced an LP which he says is the first using a hookup to a computer.

"Seastones," the record released by Round Records here, Lagin says, "features music from a new electronic keyboard instrument centered around a 7-16 minicomputer with a high speed arithmetic logic unit from Interdata of Oceanport, N.J." The composition was written by Lagin, 27, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who is resident synthesizer-keyboardist for the Dead.

Grateful Dead Productions paid for the system's development. Also appearing on the LP are Phil Lesh, Jerry Garcia, David Crosby, Grace Slick, David Freiberg, Mickey Hart and Spencer Dryden.

Opening lead — J ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "The American Bridge Teacher's quarterly is always a fine source for hands used by teachers to illustrate points of play."

Jim: "They are almost always very simple and straight forward, so that even beginners can understand and follow them."

Oswald: "Today's hand is described by Paul Boardman. It is an exercise in not drawing trumps."

Jim: "Paul points out a trump or diamond lead would ruin South's party, but the actual lead was the jack of clubs. This enables South to make the hand by the simple expedient of cross-ruffing out the hearts and clubs and finally throwing East in with his ace of trumps. The line of play is to win the first trick with the ace of clubs while discarding a heart from dummy. Ruff a club, cash ace of hearts, cross ruff the rest of the hearts and clubs and lead a spade."

"East has to take his ace and must either allow South to ruff in dummy and discard a diamond or lead away from his king up to dummy's ace-queen."

Ask the Jacobys

A reader from Connecticut asks if you hold ♠ A Q 10 9 6 4 and are in a four-spade contract, how do you play your trumps if dummy is void?

The answer to this one is to play ace and then queen. In case one opponent held K x x x and his partner J x, this will pick up the jack and get you out with the loss of just one trump trick.

(Do you have a question for the Jacobys? Write 'Ask the Jacobys' care of this newspaper. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and writers will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Westerner Golfers Are Runnersup At Clarendon

Only two points seperate five teams in the Western Junior College Athletic Association after competiion in the first Fall tournaments at Amarrillo Friday and at Clarendon Saturday.

Ross Wortham and Bryan Hargrove are tied for second out of 50 golfers in the conference after the two tournaments.

The tournament Friday was held at the Tascosa Country Club. Weather was adverse with a strong wind coming out of the northeast. Par at Tascosa is 72.

Midland College won the Amarillo Tournament with a 16 over par 304. Runnerup was Amarillo with 305 while Howard placed third with a 308 and Odessa fourth with a 310. WTC was fifth with 311, South Plains 6th with 314, New Mexico JC 7th with 315, Clarendon 8th with 337, NMMI 9th with 340, and Frank Phillips last with 343.

WTC individual scores at Amarillo: Bryan Hargrove 39-35-74; Ross Wortham 37-79-76; Terry Bruner 39-40-79; Jeff Richardson 40-42-82; and, Grant Collyns 48-36-84. Hargrove's 2 over par was good for runnerup medalist. No player shot under par.

The second tournament was held at the Clarendon Country Club with a par 71. It was cold and it rained throughout the tournament.

Odessa College was winner with a 292 or 8 over par while the Westerners were runnerup with a 296 or 12 over par. Scores of other teams: Howard 297, Midland 299, Amarillo 301, New Mexico 304, South Plains 305, Frank Phillips 315, Clarendon 320, and NMMI 323.

Point standings after two tournaments: Odessa 17, Midland 17, Howard 16, WTC 15, Amarillo 15, South Plains 9, New Mexico 9, Clarendon 5, Frank Phillips 4, and NMMI 3.

Individual scores at Clarendon: Ross Wortham 35-36-71; Bryan Hargrove 37-36-73; Grant Collyns 39-37-76; Terry Bruner 36-40-76; and Jeff Richardson 38-41-79. Wortham's 7 par 71 tied for medalist honors.

Coach Bob O'Day of WTC stated that he was glad that the Westerners bounced back in the second tourney after getting off to a poor start in the first tourney.

"We played well at Clarendon in adverse weather conditions," he said. "It looks like the conference is going ot be tough again this year with seven strong teams. It should be a good conference race with eight tournaments to go, three in the fall, and five in the spring."

The next action for WTC is a dual match with Abilene Christian College at the Snyder Country Club course Friday. The next tournament will be the New Mexico Junior College Invitational at Hobbs, N.M. on Sept. 25 and 26. There will be 54 holes of play. The Westerners will play two teams in the tourney.

C. LONGLEY LEADS POKES TO VICTORY

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Interceptions, benchwarming and the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers failed to daunt Clint Longley Saturday night from his appointed path to victory.

In the final preseason game for both the Dallas Cowboys and the Steelers, Longley and Pittsburgh's Joe Gilliam were effective in relief of starters Roger Staubach and Terry Bradshaw, who both completed more passes to defenders than receivers.

After putting 10 points on the scoreboard in the second half to lead the Cowboys to a 17-16 victory, Longley said he found it easier to come off the bench in the second half than to start.

"The second half is always easier to play because you know what the other team is going to do. It makes it a lot easier," Longley said.

The second-year pro from Abilene Christian completed nine of 13 passes for 112 yards and a six-yard touchdown to Robert Newhouse. He also passed the Cowboys into position for a field goal.

Staubach completed only two of 13 tosses for a paltry 16 yards and was victimized by four interceptions. Longley suffered two interceptions, but wasn't too concerned.

"Interceptions don't really bother ... I've thrown a few before. You can't stop and worry about them," he said:

"He did what we hoped he would do," said Coach Tom Landry of Longley. "He read his keys well and put the ball in there. I had planned to spot him in the third and Roger in the fourth. But when a player is going good I don't pull him out."

Dallas forced five Pittsburgh turnovers, making a total of 11 in the game for both teams.

"We got the great rush, our secondary was with the receivers and we came up with the interceptions. It was a battle of two defensive teams and we had the edge," said Landry.

Gilliam hit only seven of 17 passes for 93 yards but he led the Steelers to a field goal and a touchdown in the second half after Bradshaw hit only two of nine aerials for 19 yards in the opening half.

Bradshaw admitted the Steelers are not "putting it all together," but he said he is far from discouraged. "I'm in excellent shape. I don't plan to let a thing like tonight let me down. It was quite obvious Dallas was fired up."

"Dallas just outhit us," said Pittsburgh Couch Chuck Noll. "They played better than us. We couldn't block Jethro (Pugh) or (Bill) Gregory. Every one of them got a shot at us. We didn't have time to pass. The turnovers were a result of the pass rush."

Noll added that the only bright spot for the Steelers was, "We got to play a lot of people."

Oilers Wallop Chicago, 24-13

CHICAGO (AP) — With their National Football League season opener just a week away, Chicago Bear Coach Jack Pardee admits his team is lacking some spark in its offense.

"We haven't got the killer instinct," said Pardee after Saturday night's 24-13 loss to the Houston Oilers. "We've got to get touchdowns instead of field goals. But I did see some progress."

There were statements last week that Chicago general manager Jim Finks was looking for "a proven quarterback."

However, Pardee has committed himself to seven-year veteran Bobby Douglass against the Oilers.

Douglass was 9 for 18 for 71 yards and two interceptions Saturday. His longest pass was an 18-yard touchdown strike to wide receiver Bob Grim that put Chicago ahead 13-10 early in the fourth quarter. Douglass also ran five times for 51 yards.

"I don't think they are going to trade for a quarterback," said Douglass. "If they've changed their minds about my physical ability because of a couple of interceptions then I'd be a little miffed. But I don't think that's what they mean."

For the preseason, Douglass was 31-71 for 379 yards with six interceptions.

Oilers quarterback Don Pastorini showed the Bears how to move a team when he drove Houston 65 yards in five plays to regain the lead 17-13 in the final quarter, just after Chicago's only touchdown. The drive was climaxed when Pastorini hit Ken Burrough for a 36-yard score.

On the first play of the drive, Pastorini found Elmo Wright open for an 18-yard gain.

The Oilers closed the scoring the next time they got the ball when Robert Holmes blasted up the middle for a 28-yard touchdown.

The Bears came out ahead on an exhange of field goals in the second quarter. Chicago's Bob Thomas hit from 26 and 41 yards and Houston's Skip Butler scored from the 40.

The lone score in the third quarter came when Pastorini, who was 17-27 for 204 yards, combined with Ronnie Coleman on a five-yard touchdown pass.

"I think we have the best receivers in the league and they can beat anybody in the league," said Pastorini. "Once we established our running game and went with our play action, our receivers had an advantage over the defense, which was man-to-man."

Houston gained 140 yards on the ground, led by Coleman and Holmes with 57 yards apiece.

Chicago ended the preseason with a 2-4 record. Houston was 3-3.

Hornets Sting Sun, 30-22

By The Associated Press

The former Trojans celebrated "USC Day" in fine fashion — only they were on the losing side.

It was billed as "USC Day" Sunday as former University of Southern California quarterback Pat Haden played his last home game for the World Football League's Southern California Sun. Besides Haden, the announced crowd of 11,123 paid tribute to other former Trojans now with the Sun — Anthony Davis, John McKay and Jimmy Sims.

Haden and Daryle Lamonica passed for 253 yards and Davis ran for 141 yards and two touchdowns.

But it was the Charlotte Hornets who came away with the victory, 30-22.

In other games Sunday, Memphis downed Shreveport 34-23 and Hawaii trimmed Jacksonville 33-15.

Ranked Schoolboy Teams Triumph

By The Associated Press

Curtis Dickey is perking again and that means trouble for opponents of The Associated Press' top-ranked Class 4A club—Bryan.

Dickey, who is being heavily courted as perhaps the top running back in the state, had only a so-so opener for him against tough Beaumont Hebert but came back running and passing against Conroe Friday night.

The swift Dickey scored on one TD gallop then passed for a touchdown from his halfback position in a 28-15 victory over Conroe.

Dickey is believed headed for Texas A&M but it's still a long way from next February's Southwest Conference signing date.

In the other classes, the top-ranked AP clubs rolled on.

Cuero blasted Victoria Stroman 17-0 in 3A, Cameron survived Rockdale 22-19 in 2A, Grapeland routed Winona 56-0 in A; and Big Sandy smashed Sabine 55-0 in B.

Coaches Envy Penguins' Problem

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Penguins Coach Marc Boileau is faced with a problem that other coaches in the National Hockey League would relish — he has one too many defensemen.

Veteran defenseman Steve Durbano signed a multi-year contract with the Penguins Sunday, bringing their roster total up to six.

Durbano was among the 30 players who reported to the opening of the Penguins' training camp in nearby Rostraver Township Sunday.

Dave Burrows and Ron Stackhouse will probably get the starting nod in two of the defensive spots, with Durbano, Barry Wilkins, Bob Paradise, Colin Campbell and Dennis Owchar competing for the other openings.

Bob Murphy's 69 was the only two-below-par score in the final round of the 1975 U.S. Open. He tied for third place with three other golfers.

Southwest Teams Face Tough Foes

The Southwest Conference has built a 7-2 edge against non-conference football opponents but there are at least four games this weekend where you can flip a coin it's so close and surely there's an apparent "gimmie" for the enemy at Fort Worth.

The Arkansas at Oklahoma State, Auburn at Baylor, Vanderbilt at Rice, and Texas A&M at Louisiana State battles should test the mettle of four unbeaten SWC clubs.

Rugged Arizona State travels to Fort Worth to play Texas Christian and will be heavy favorites over the hapless Horned Frogs who were slapped 24-7 by Texas-Arlington Saturday.

Undefeated Texas is at Washington and will be heavy picks over the Huskies while unbeaten Texas Tech will be favored over visiting New Mexico.

It was shades of '74 for the preseason favorite Texas Aggies Saturday in a 7-0 victory over Mississippi. The eighth-ranked Cadets, featuring one of the premier defenses in the land, dropped Ole Miss quarterbacks for losses 14 times yet had to struggle to victory.

Five Local Teams Play This Week

Five football games involving local teams are on tap this week.

The Snyder Freshmen host Andrews at 7 p.m. Thursday in Tiger Stadium. At 5:30 p.m. on the same day, the 8th Grade Black team meets Sweetwater there.

Friday night, the varsity Tigers take on the Big Spring Steers there at 8 o'clock.

Saturday, the junior varsity hosts San Angelo at 1:30 p.m., and the Sophomore varsity hosts Midland Lee at 2 p.m.

Elsewhere in District 3-AAA, Coronado meets Estacado Thursday night in Lubbock while Sweetwater visits Stamford, Lake View host Ector, Brownfield travels to Andrews, Dunbar vists Fort Stockton, and Lamesa travels to Pecos for Friday night affrays.

On the area scene, Gail will be at Smyer, Hermliegh visits Guthrie, Ira travels to Paint Creek, and Hobbs host Luders-Avoca in Friday night tussles.

Quarterback David Shipman's four-yard touchdown plunge in the first period was the only score.

A disappointed Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard said his offence was "about 40 per cent below what I thought they would be. We need to start coming off the ball, play with some enthusiasm and get our motor hummin'."

Texas didn't have any trouble with it's "human motor," fullback Earl Campbell who dashed for 103 yards in a 46-0 victory over Colorado State. Coach Sark Arslanian of the Rams said "Campbell is a super running back. He's as good a running back as we will see this year. Texas plays good smash-mouth football."

Arkansas unleashed three 100-yard plus gainers in quarterback Mike Kirkland, and running backs Ike Forte and Jerry Eckwood in a 35-0 victory over the Air Force. It was believed the first time that three Arkansas runners had gained over 100 yards in the same game.

Texas Tech Coach Steve Sloan's debut was a happy one as Rufus Myers and Larry Isaac shredded Florida State in a 31-20 victory. Myers scored twice and Isaac once.

"I was real proud of our running game ... we showed a lot of character and made the big play when we had to," said Sloan.

Rice stung favored Houston 24-7 after Owl Coach Al Conover had his quarterbacks cut cards to see who would start the game.

"We are a vastly improved team but this is just one of 11 battles," said Conover.

Houston Coach Bill Yeoman said "Rice certainly wanted it ... If your win, you usually deserve it."

Florida trampled Southern Methodist 40-14 and Mustang Coach Dave Smith said "Florida was quick, big and tough to stop. They ran the sweep better than any team I've seen. Sure the score was lopsided, but we beat ourselves."

Sophs Slap Abilene JV

The Snyder High School sophomore varsity whipped Abilene High's junior varsity, 32-8, here Saturday afternoon on the Travis Field.

The local lads built a 14-0 lead in the first period, extended it to 26-0 at halftime, and added another touchdown in the third quarter. The Abilene team got its only touchdown when the issue was already decided.

The first touchdown was set up by a 50 yard pass and run play, quarterback Frank Alvarado to split end Alvin Oilison. Tailback Clay Peterson got the six points on a three yard burst.

On their next possession, the Snyder boys drove 95 yards for a touchdown with fullback Tommy Smith getting the score on a five yard run over tackle. Halfback Scott Hendricks collected the two bonus points.

In the second period, Smith plunged across from the two to cap a 70 yard march. Defensive end Hubert Thompson blocked a punt to set up the next touchdown, which resulted from a 4-yard run by Smith.

In the third period, the Snyder sophs drove 85 yards with Hendricks getting the touchdown on a 5 yard run.

Abilene's TD came on an 8-yard pass. They ran for the two extra points.

Snyder's sophs will host Midland Lee at 2 p.m. Saturday on the Travis Field.

Scurryly Speaking

EDITORS NOTE: Mrs. Z.W. Davis is an enthusiastic quilt hobbyist who not only makes lovely quilts, but is also good for a story any day about the history of the patterns and much of the customs and folklore that has grown up around the art of quilting. With the Scurry County Fair coming up and in view of renewed interest in old handcrafts, the Scurry County Historical Committee thought it would be timely for Mrs. Davis to share her knowledge of the history of quilt-making.

BY JANELDA DAVIS

Quilting stands out preeminently today among the fireside crafts. In this machine age handmade quilts are recognized and valued for the skillful artistry of their needlework. There is both meaning and memory in a fine quilt, and there can be both history and heritage.

The earliest example of quilting is in a Leningrad museum in Russia. It was found in a tomb in Egypt and thought to have been made in the first century B.C. The center is quilted in scrolls and spirals. The border is quilted in diamonds with brown, purple and white figures of animals appliqued along the edges. A carved ivory figure of Pharaoh of the Egyptian Dynasty shows him wearing a quilted vest in a diamond pattern.

In the twelfth century the Crusaders from the Holy Lands wore quilted undergarments to protect them from their armor and the cold. They took the idea back to England with them. In the fourteenth century the Great Freeze descended on all Europe. Rivers like the Rhine, Rhone the Thames, which had never iced over, froze solidly and stayed frozen for a long time. A need for added warmth brought the art of quilting into it's own. Humble ladies and ladies of gentry both quilted. Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, quilted while she was in prison.

In the year 1620 the English Pilgrims boarded the Mayflower for their journey to the New World. Each person's baggage included a generous number of quilts. Transportation by ship in those early times did not require that the Captain or crew provide conveniences and comfort for the passengers. Quilts were used for bedding and curtains to provide privacy for the Pilgrims. The Mayflower's voyage to the New England coast covered a period from Sept. 6 to Nov. 11, 1620, but the passengers lived on their ship until the following spring. Food was scarce and many were ill. In their efforts to keep warm, many of their quilts were badly worn even before leaving the ship. They were patched until the clothe would no longer hold thread. It was many months before land could be cleared, flax seed planted, harvested and spun into yarn. The spinning wheel was a necessary article in every household. The women wove the flax yarn into coarse material. Two layers of this cream colored cloth were filled with dryed grass, corn husks or buffalo hair and tied together at intervals with yarn. Their sheep wool was too valuable to use in quilts.

After the first hard years passed Colonial women were not needed in the fields and they could spend more time at needlework. Their memory of the beautiful quilts they had brought with them and the more plentiful supply of cloth caused them to begin to use dyes.

Dye was made from nature. The bark of walnut or butternut trees made brown dye, red came from sumac berries and yellow from hickory bark. Several years later the indigo plant was raised on plantations in the south but it was expensive.

Linsey-Woolsey was their [illegible] fabric in the 1700's. It was part linen and part wool. Many quilts of Linsey-Woolsey are in museums today and they are still bright pinks, yellows, and indigo blues.

Eli Whitney invented the first cotton gin in 1793 and the first textile mills were built in the early 1800's. Fabric could be bought already dyed and a little later with printed designs. Women could at last express their desires for beauty and design.

Wealthy Virginia planters ordered silk, satin and velvet from England. Because the life style was more relaxed in the South, ladies had needlewomen to make their quilts. Many took two years to complete. Martha Washington was an excellent seamstress and she taught some of her slaves to make quilts.

In the northern states cotton was the most widely used and quilts were padded thicker against the cold weather. Women begin to revise old patterns. Some of these make you wonder if these women could have been architects. Many of these patterns remain unchanged today. During the long winter months pieces were cut and hand sewed together. When spring came quilt frames were put up in the yard and women gathered for quilting bees. Much recipe exchanging, child raising hints, and gossip circulated around the frames. The hostess served a light lunch while her friends quilted. The husbands and boy friends came for a large supper, dancing and games. At the end of the day the hostess had several finished quilts and all the news of the community.

Every girl's dowry had to have at least 12 quilts she had made herself. Since every girl began to sew by the time she was 9 years old her first quilts were simple and advanced to more intricate designs. Her "wedding quilt" could not be started until she became engaged. Most of the patterns had many hearts and flowers but sometimes her fiance designed the pattern for her. The quilt was then made and the pattern destroyed. No one ever copied a fiance's pattern for his bride. The wedding quilt was always appliqued. This was considered extravagant because of the amount of material used. Most patterns were patchwork and used the tails of worn out shirts, out-grown dresses and even long underwear.

There are several kinds of quilts. The patchwork quilt was made of pieces of material cut in squares, triangles or rectangles and stitched together forming a design with colors and shapes.

The applique method was done by the "laying on" of colored cloth, usually cut into flower and leaf shapes, onto a white background and stitched around the edges.

Crazy quilts were made from leftover pieces of irregular shapes. Foundation blocks of muslin or paper were covered with pieces of material and stitched down. Many Crazy quilts were made of velvet, silk and satin and lavishly embroidered with silk thread. Most of the pieces were from grandma's wedding dress grandpa's brocade vest or a silk petticoat.

The string quilt was the last one made. It used up every piece of material left in the scrap bag. Pages from the Sears-Roebuck catalog were used as a foundation. The thin strips of cloth, some only ⅛ of an inch wide, were stitched onto the paper overlaping each strip. This way the seams could be made smaller and every piece of material could be used. After the quilt top was quilted it was just as strong as the fancy tops.

There are several types of patterns. The Album or Presentation quilts were popular in the small communities. When a minister accepted a call to another church each of the ladies made a block using the same pattern. These were usually made of squares with a rectangular piece of white across the center of the block. The women either wrote in indelible ink or embroidered their names or a Bible quotation in the rectangle. The blocks were then set together, quilted and given to the minister and his wife.

Friendship Medley was probably the beginning of our bridal showers. All the bride-to-be's friends made a block of her own choosing with every block different. A party was held and the blocks were sewn together, quilted and given to the girl.

A Freedom quilt was made to celebrate a young man's 21st birthday. He lived with his parents and gave them all his earnings until this time. All his girl acquaintances made a block from scraps of one of their dresses and the quilt was finished and given to him. It was considered a part of his dowry.

Plain quilts were all white sheets of material quilted in lavish designs of baskets, fruit and feathered scrolls. Most women did not attempt this because it called attention to their stitches more than a pieced block.

One of the most popular of all patterns is the Star. Early colonists on the Southern Gulf Coast devised a new quilt pattern in honor of the LeMoyne brothers who established French colonies there. It was an eight pointed star taken from their family crest. There are more than 100 patterns based on the variations of the star and from it came the lily and tulip patterns, as well.

Religion, politics and nature contributed to quilt names. Great religious revivals swept the nation after the War of 1812. Patterns popular then were: Job's Tears, David and Goliath, Jacob's Tears, Joseph's Coat, King David's Crown and Rose of Sharon. This was an appliqued pattern of flowers and leaves and most brides had this quilt in their dowry.

Even though women could not vote they "took sides" in their handwork. A stanch Whig supporter husband never knew his wife's quilt was a Democrat Rose. She probably laughed to herself to have her political preference out in the open. Only the women knew if their quilt was Clay's Choice. Lincoln's Platform, Old Tippecanoe and Tyler, Too, 54-40-or Fight, Whig Defeat, Sherman's March or Radical Rose.

Quilt patterns were inspired by occupations: Anvil, Sawtooth, Carpenter's Wheel, Churn Dash, The Reel, Water Mill, Monkey Wrench and Dusty Miller to name a few. Cities have been honored in quilt patterns: Philadelphia Pavements, Georgetown Circle, Chicago Star, and Boston Commons.

Many names came from nature: Grandmother's Flower Garden, Brown Goose, Autumn Leaf, Duck's Foot in the Mud, Spider Web and lots of rose and lily patterns.

During the Reconstruction Days under President Rutherford Hayes, 1877-1881, his wife won herself the name of Lemonade Lucy because she refused to tolerate the serving of alcohol in the White House. Some one created a quilt pattern and named it Drunkard's Path, perhaps in wistful thinking. Patriotic symbols as eagles, stars and stripes were popular when done in red, white and blue.

Patients recovering from wounds received during the Civil War were taught to quilt to pass the time. It was found to be a relaxing pastime. Withdrawn, silent and mentally disturbed patients could express themselves in design and color.

Down through the years the surviving quilts have become a story book of our past. The woman of today has her labor saving sewing machine to give her more time. The quilt top can be stitched and even quilted on the machine. When it is completed, with the permanent pressed materials, bright colors and the mechanical perfect stitches, she can think back to the workworn hands of her ancestors who made the same patterns. Our life is like a patchwork quilt made of bits and pieces, some bright and happy and some dark and sad. But the pattern is left for each of us to choose.

If you have been lucky enough to inherit or buy an old quilt there are ways to establish it's age. Examine the cloth. It could be homespun linen if it is a thick and thin weave and coarse. The flax produced a light brown color and turkey red and indigo blue were the first permanent dyes available. If you can feel cotton seeds in the filler it was probably made before the cotton gin was invented in 1793 and made cotton batts plentiful. The name of the pattern used could help. Rose of Sharon began in 1820, Double Irish Chain was brought from England in 1800 and Double Wedding Ring, now called Rainbow, in 1870. Burgoyne Surrounded was of the Revolution period. Few quilts over 150 years old have survived the use and the rotting effects of the dyes, sun and humidity.

Triple Threat

FLEXIBILITY IMPORTANT

General Aviation Plays Vital Role In Economy

When the Wright Brothers made their successful powered flight at Kitty Hawk in 1903, they may not have realized the full future implications of what they had done. Certainly the United States Government did not, for as general aviation grew, it became a conglomeration of barnstorming, stunt flying and a sport for the adventurous.

World War II, however, stimulated the government's interest in heavier-than-aircraft, and by 1917, congress had appropriated large sums of money to build a military aviation industry. Technological advancements came rapidly after that, and in 1926, steps were taken to regulate the use of the airways and to promote planned and meaningful growth in aviation. The Air Commerce Act became law and the federal government assumed full control and responsibility for operating and maintaining the national airways system.

The aviation industry—the military, the commercial airlines and general aviation has grown significantly since then, and now touches every aspect of our lives, our economy, our growth and our future.

Today air transportation is a prime mover of commerce. It contributes immensely to the growth and well-being of the nation through a network of approximately 12,700 airports. Major airlines and general aviation serve 425 of these airports and provide efficient, dependable service to more than 200 million passengers a year. Thirty of these 425 airports generate 70 per cent of the total passenger traffic in the nation, and 150 of the airports board 96 per cent of the traffic. In addition, the 12,275 smaller airports which serve general aviation almost exclusively, provide thousands of American towns and communities with their only link to the vital air transportation system.

The General Aviation Manufacturers Association, which includes commuter airlines in their aviation statistics, reports charter services, business and private planes and others represent, as a category, one of the world's largest passenger carriers, boarding 90 million persons annually. It includes thousands of jobs, millions of dollars in revenues, and has aided in the growth of thousands of cities, businesses, services and manufacturing facilities throughout the U.S.

The flexibility of general aviation is one of its greatest advantages. Each year, thousands of persons rent or charter aircraft to take them and their cargo to virtually any destination at virtually any time. The scheduled commuter carriers are one of the fastest growing segments of commercial aviation. They have been moving steadily into the small markets that have proven unprofitable for the larger aircraft used by the major commercial airlines, about 80 per cent of commmuter flights connect with scheduled airline service, bringing scheduled air service much closer to those who don't live near the major airports. according to figures from the commuter industry, last year it carried six million passengers, hauled 96 million pounds of cargo and 160 million pounds of mail. Texas has 10 certified airlines in operation.

Business flying represents the largest single category of general aviation. The economy and high efficiency of business flying makes it a sensible alternative to commercial airline flights. Businessmen use this form of transportation to save time in transporting their people, products and supplies. Nearly one-third of all business flights into major metropolitan airports each year connect with scheduled airline flights. The vast majority of general aviation business flights, however, are between communities that lack adequate airline service. Business flying has the flexibility to be at the right place at the right time, and the utility to perform where others can't.

For example, if a businessman in Snyder wanted to travel to a major city in the United States or anywhere in the world, the quickest trip would be by air. The first leg of the trip would involve getting to one of the major airline hubs such as the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport. By car, that portion of the trip would take at least four hours. Since Snyder has its own airport, however, a commuter aircraft or private plane could take him to D-FW in one-third to one-fourth the time. Depending on the distance, the businessman might find it more convenient or economical to fly the small aircraft to the final destination.

The reverse of the situation is also true. Snyder's airport makes this city more accessible to other businessmen and potential businesses as well.

There is a direct correlation between the use of a business aircraft and the financial well-being of the firms which operate them. In a survey of the top 1,000 industrial companies, conducted by Aviation Data Services, it was found that almost half, 432 companies, operated their own aircraft.

But those 432 companies grossed nearly 80 per cent of the total sales for the entire group. and earned 84 per cent of the net profits. By recognizing the advantages of speed, mobility, flexibility, convenience and safety, more and more companies are using business aircraft as a key tool in their operations. Moreover, cities which can serve industry needs are getting more industry. Factories ae going where the airplane can go.

Other types of general aviation include special purpose flying, personal transportation and sport flying.

Special purpose flying is the most diverse category of general aviation. battling forest fires, reforesting clearcut areas, using airplanes to study and redistribute wildlife populations, feeding livestock, using infrared photography to detect plant diseases, highway traffic control, and a multitude of others.

Of extraordinary benefit to Americans is the direct use of the airplane in agriculture. approximately 25,000 persons are employed in agricultural flying enterprises. They seed, fertilize and apply pesticides to more than 180 million acres of farmland each year. One airplane can do more work in an hour than a tractor can accomplish in a whole day, using approximately one-ninth the amount of fuel.

General aviation is also personal transportation for thousand. Many families find it much more convenient and economical than auto travel.

Again using Snyder as an example, a trip from here to a city 1,000 miles away would take 20 hours or more by car. The same trip in a small plane might take seven hours or less. and, the air distance between two cities connected by highways is usually shorter than the distance by road.

Sport flying represents about five per cent of general aviation activity. It's fun and exciting. It's the kind of flying that lets man escape the bonds of earth. This expression of freedom is also the inspiration and motivation behind many persons who have made aviation their career.

Aviation in general is a major segment of the nation's transportation system.

Midland Oil Men Loved Ford

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — President Ford came to this oil-rich area and said things oil producers had heard many times before.

And they loved it.

Ford jetted into Midland's rain and mud Saturday afternoon but leaden skies and chill rain proved to be no damper on his message to oil men.

"You heard how his reception was, he's a very welcome man in West Texas," said Stanley Moore, board chairman of Smith International, an oil producing firm.

The president followed three appearances in Dallas with a quick stop here for dedication of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum.

In a nutshell, Ford told some 380 persons invited to the ceremonies that he strongly favors decontrol of petroleum prices if America is to become energy self-sufficient.

"I'm very much in accord with what he wants to do," Moore said.

Another oil man, Allen Trobaugh, said the president didn't say anything new in his speech. "I think he reiterated it, which we were delighted to hear," he said.

Gator Decision Is Criticized

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — "They tell us we can't touch our alligators even though in some areas they are so thick they are eating each other," said John Crain of Cameron Parish.

Crain, bitter about a federal government decision that could prevent a gator hunt this year, complained that muskrat, nutria and other fur bearing animals are being wiped out in some areas.

An estimated 250,000 hungry alligators roam the swamps and bayous along the state's mushy coastline. Most of them are in Cameron, Vermilion and Calcasieu parishes.

They've grown fat and sassy under the Endangered Species Act passed by Congress in 1973. And after lengthy talks with state officials, the U.S. Wild Life Service agreed to remove them from the endangered list.

But the service announced Friday that last-minute protests by the Audubon Society will delay for at least nine days publication of new rules changing the gators' protective status.

That could ruin Louisiana's plan to conduct a limited killoff in the three parishes starting Sept. 20, said Jerry Jones of the Wildlife and Fisheries Commission.

"The only objections are the same ones the Audubon Society has given for the past three years," said Jones. "There's nothing new but they (federal officials) still say they need more time."

Wildlife officials fear that if the hunt is postponed the gators will bed down in the mud and hibernate for the winter, making it almost impossible to find them.

"The Sept. 20 opening was several weeks later than we wanted," said Alan Ensminger of the commission's refuge division. "If we can't start, then my opinion would be to abort the whole thing for this year rather than risk an unsuccessful season."

Jones said his agency is considering going to court to challenge the federal regulations.

He said that's already happened in New Mexico, where a three-judge panel ruled the federal law unconstitutional. The case, Jones said, has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

If a limited hunt isn't held soon, some fear the gators will be slaughtered illegally by trappers.

"The feds don't have enough men in the whole country to completely stop that kind of poaching," said Ensminger.

Army Is Dropping Officers

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, the Army is forcing out of the service some regular officers who in joining indicated they were making the Army a career.

The 625 regular officers are among 2,138 officers who will be dropped from the service by the end of September as part of a cutback to bring the number of Army officers to an authorized strength of 98,125 by June 30, 1976.

The change to permit the dropping of regulars during reductions in force was approved by a law sought by the Army. Before the legislation, the Army could drop only reserve officers even though they were outperforming regulars.

The new law permitted the Army to judge reserve and regular officers alike in identifying 2,700 officers for possible release from the service. A total of 2,138 were selected for release and were notified in June they would be dropped by the end of September.

All those selected for release were given a chance to appeal to the Army Active Duty Board, but the board says that as of early September it had received only 12 appeals.

The officers affected by this reduction in force were commissioned between 1967 and 1970, during the Vietnam buildup.

Dr. Lamb

Ulcer patient has problems

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 65-year-old man and have had a duodenal ulcer for many years.

My problem is that no amount of dieting does me any good. I never could eat between meals. I seem to get real full in a day's time and cannot choke food down. I also gain weight if I eat more than three meals a day. When I gain weight I feel lousy, short of breath, can't stoop over without becoming nauseated and light-headed.

The doctor said I should eat every two hours. It doesn't help my digestion, and the only thing that does help me any good is Maalox.

I'm 5 feet 7 and weigh 155 pounds. I normally weighed 135 to 140 pounds before I started the diets the doctors put me on. I would certainly appreciate any advice you can give me.

DEAR READER—Every ulcer patient has to be treated individually. Perhaps your doctor has a good reason for his recommendations.

There are some generalizations, though, that might interest you. The diet is often of limited value in the treatment of ulcers. Recent studies show that most people can even eat some spicy foods without it affecting the healing or management of the ulcer. You can eat so-called roughage too, and it will not make any difference.

The problem with many of the older diets is that they included too many calories, because they were loaded with fat, particularly saturated fat. That leads to obesity and an increase in heart and vascular disease.

The protein in foods tends to neutralize the acid-digestive juice in the stomach. But you don't have to use cream or whole milk for that. Unless you have poor tolerance to milk, which causes bloating and discomfort in many adults with and without ulcers, you could use fortified skim milk. A glass between meals might help. If you don't like the first brand try another. Some brands of fortified skim milk taste a great deal better than others.

You can take antacids such as Maalox. The best time to take them is between meals and at bedtime. Eating a regular meal will neutralize the acid-digestive juice for about one and a half to two hours. You have another increase at bed time. Use information to take antacids four time a day to neutralize stomach acid. That is what the food is for, so this might do the trick for you without making you fat.

Your doctor might also give you some medicine to block the nerve stimulation to the formation of acid-digestive juice. These help a great deal in some patients, but not everyone can take them. In older persons they can cause difficulty in bladder action if the prostate is enlarged, or occasionally problems with pressure in the eyes.

For a more detailed discussion of ulcers write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O.Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Send 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and ask for The Health Letter number 1-5, Ulcers—Duodenal, Stomach.

Also you should avoid caffeine, that means stopping coffee, tea, and colas, as these all stimulate the production of acid-digestive juice. Alcohol and cigarettes are also forbidden.

State GOP Leaders Say Bigwigs' Visit Helpful

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

Texas Republican leaders believe the recent visit to Dallas by an all-star cast of GOP officials will benefit all of the party's candidates from the county to the state level.

President Ford, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan were all in Texas during the past weekend to meet with the National Federation of Republican Women.

There also were appearances by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the 1964 presidential nominee, Gov. Christopher S. Bond of Missouri, and former Texas Gov. John Connolly.

The Republican women and the Texas GOP were encouraged by the stands taken on forced school busing by Ford, Rockefeller and Reagan. All said there were better methods to achieve racial balance in the public schools.

The president commented, "We must uphold the law of the land but our nation should rely more heavily on the neighborhood school concepts. There is a better way to achieve quality education in America than by forced busing and we will find that better way."

Rep. O.H. Harris, R-Dallas, said Sunday, "The cast of all-star characters that appeared here included all the big name Republicans, and that had to help the state party. But, the highlight was when Ford took his position on busing. That is very vital in Texas and his stand will benefit all the Republicans from the local to the state level."

Many Texas cities and communities, including the big Dallas school district, are now facing court-ordered desegregation with massive busing apparently the only solution.

Rep. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, told The Associated Press, "The appearance of these party leaders will be a tremendous help to our state party. There were men of different political philosophy and this showed all voters we are not of party of narrow interests."

She added, "I think the president's statements on busing and the way they were received by the delegates from throughout the nation proves this will be a major issue in the next campaign."

The Republican women approved 11 resolutions during their final session Saturday, including these:

—That the House of Representatives to maintain the rights, power and authority over the Panama Canal Zone.

—That Congress pass legislation to prohibit busing or involuntary assignment of students because of race, color, creed, or national origin.

—That immediate steps be taken to reform the national food stamp program.

—Enactment of a national welfare reform act.

Leonardo da Vinci conceived the idea of contact lenses in 1508 but his theory wasn't tested until 1890.

Hard Water Costs Consumers

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) — Hard water costs consumers $6.3 billion annually, according to economists at the Water Quality Research Council. It wastes $1.8 billion in soaps, detergents, shampoos and other cleaning materials. It deteriorates plumbing at an estimated $2.7 billion rate. It does $1 billion in damage to sheets, linens, towels and washable clothing. In addition, by depositing insulating scale in water heaters, it adds $800 million to the nation's fuel bills.

About 80 per cent of the United States and Canada has hard water. On a per family basis, hard water damage costs each affected household $37 more each year for soaps, detergents, etc., $55 extra in plumbing repairs and replacements and $29 in shortened life for sheets, linens and other washables. Added annual fuel costs amount to approximately $18, the council reports.

NO PROGRESS IN CHICAGO STRIKE

NYC Teachers Are Set To Ratify Contract

By MARY CURTIS
Associated Press Writer

An agreement seems near and a ratification vote on a new contract to end the week-long teachers' strike in New York City could come as early as Tuesday, representatives of the teachers' union and the Board of Education say.

But the walkout by teachers in Chicago enters its 13th day today with no end in sight.

"We are near a conclusion, closer than we ever were," said Albert Shanker, president of New York's United Federation of Teachers. The UFT's 65,000 members struck the 1.1 million-pupil school system last Tuesday.

Shanker and Robert Christen, the school board's chief negotiator, said at a news conference Sunday that negotiations had been recessed until Monday because of Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of Atonement.

New York teachers, who made from $9,700 to $20,350 under the old contract, have reduced their original demand for a 25 per cent wage increase, in light of the city's fiscal problems. Besides class sizes, issues include school board attempts to reduce teacher preparation time and eliminate sabbaticals.

In Chicago, where 530,000 students and 27,000 teachers have been out of school since Sept. 3, the Board of Education and the city's teachers' union remained far apart in their differences over a cost-of-living salary increase proposal.

Chicago teachers made from $10,400 to $20,996 under the old contract.

Classes were scheduled to open today at the eight Chicago City Colleges and Thornton Community College where three-week teachers' strikes ended Sunday.

In Lynn, Mass., a strike by 320 teachers ended Sunday night with an agreement between the city's school committee and the teachers' union, Supt. J. Leo McGuiness announced.

In addition, teachers in North Providence, R.I. tentatively agreed Sunday night to end their strike with a new contract.

The 256-member union is scheduled to vote on the new pact today. The agreement calls for pay increases of 5.5 per cent. Acceptance will open schools for about 4,500 pupils.

Teachers in two San Jose, Calif. school districts settled their disputes Sunday and were expected to return to work this morning.

At the end of last week nearly two million students were at home and 125,000 teachers off the job as teachers struck a number of systems throughout the country.

Teachers in six Pennsylvania districts agreed over the weekend to end their strikes, but teachers in three others decided to walk off the job. Across the state, more than 10,000 teachers remained at odds with local school boards over pay raises and better working conditions. About 130,000 students in 21 districts were affected.

Talks in the 12-day-old teachers' strike in Berkeley, Calif., were stalemated despite a new district proposal. Teachers in nearby Milpitas, meanwhile, authorized a possible walkout.

In Hoboken and Englewood, N.J., teacher spokesmen say there is no end in sight to strikes affecting 700 teachers and 13,000 students.

Group Strives To Help SIDS Victim Families

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — When a baby dies of "crib death," Harriet Gerardo or someone like her goes to the child's parents to tell them, "It wasn't predictable, and it wasn't in any way preventable."

Mrs. Gerardo, herself a parent of a child lost to crib death, or Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS), usually finds the mother, father or babysitter shouldering the blame for the baby's death.

"You stress that this is a medical problem and not an accidental death," she said. "There's nothing they could have done."

SIDS is the No. 1 cause of death in infants after the first week of life, and 8,000-10,000 babies die of SIDS every year in the United States, said the National Foundation for Sudden Infant Death. This is two or three per 1,000 live births.

After Mrs. Gerardo, a nurse, and husband Jim, a physicist, lost 4-month-old Ryan to SIDS, a pediatrition asked Mrs. Gerardo to consider organizing a group to help other SIDS victim families.

"It took about eight months after Ryan died to decide I really wanted to do it," she said.

She and others in the 20-member her New Mexico Chapter of the National Foundation of Sudden Infant Death now visit SIDS families in Albuquerque as soon as they learn of a death through the state medical examiner.

A SIDS counselor usually makes contact with the family "in no more than 48 hours after the baby dies," she said. There have been cases in which a counselor was at the home the same day of the baby's death to help make funeral arrangements.

The SIDS counselor is rarely turned away.

The counselor meets in the family's home with the parents, brothers, sisters, aunts, uncles, grandparents and neighbors of a SIDS victim.

"We talk to anyone surrounding the family," she said. "These are people they are turning to for support."

If the family asks Mrs. Gerardo about her experience with SIDS, "I tell them," she said. "But right now, they've got enough of their own problems."

She does, however, tell them they can't play the game of "Ifs...If I had taken him to the doctor he might not have died...If I had not left him with a babysitter...

"All these things should be explored and put to rest," she said.

Mrs. Gerardo or another SIDS counselor also tries to help the family understand the normal feelings they will have after the funeral.

"Nobody ever told me that six months after my baby died that I would crack up in the grocery store at the baby food counter," she said.

Parents of babies who die of SIDS usually have one of two attitudes toward future children, she said. "Either you get the family who says, 'we must have a baby right away,' or you have the family who says, 'We'll never have another sleeping baby in this house.'"

The SIDS counselor encourages the family to call if they decide to have another baby. The SIDS Foundation provides counseling and literature on "the subsequent child" to help answer the question, "How will we feel about this next child?"

The Gerardos have two children now, Gina 7, and Nicole, 7 months, "the subsequent child."

Mrs. Gerardo and the 16-month-old New Mexico SIDS Foundation want similar counseling for SIDS parents throughout the state. SIDS families outside Albuquerque receive telephone calls, paid for by proceeds from a fashion show by the University of New Mexico Lobo football players and other donations.

Topless Girls Greet Prince

PORT MORESBY, Papua, New Guinea (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles, arriving here for ceremonies marking New Guinea's independence from Australia, was greeted by bare-breasted New Guinea girls in grass skirts who clapped and giggled.

Also on hand at the airport Sunday were Papua New Guineans wearing feather headdresses, with stone axes in their belts.

Amin Shrugs Off Reports

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Uganda Radio says there was nothing to reports of an attempt last month to overthrow President President Idi Amin of Uganda.

The radio monitored here Sunday said Amin shrugged off the reports as he returned home from visits to Itay and Algeria. He treated the stories "with disdain," the radio said.

Published stories in Nairobi said disgruntled Ugandan army officers led an abortive overthrow attempt while Amin was in Ethiopia last month.

"I think I should forewarn you — I intend to quit at the first sign of sexual harassment from any of the girls!"

Raunchy Romeo Crushes Relationship

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc

DEAR ABBY: I should be so lucky as the woman who for 30 years has been sleeping back to back with her husband like a pair of fireplace logs.

We've been married for 32 years, and my 220-pound Romeo holds me in his arms every night until my ribs ache. One night with him and I feel like I've been run over by a semi.

He smokes cigars and loves salami, pickles and garlic, so you know what his breath is like. I've smelled better cesspools.

His toenails are 2 in. long and sharp as razor blades, and he wraps his legs around mine like he's climbing a rope.

He sleeps in his shorts, and his chest is covered with bristly hair. It's like sleeping with a raccoon all summer. On top of this, he thinks he's the world's greatest lover, which he isn't.

Please help me. I'm about to cave in.

WATERLOO WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I assume you're on speaking terms with your Romeo, so start talking. Insist that he wear pajama tops, trim his toenails, use a mouthwash and loosen his grip. But don't tell him he's not the world's greatest lover because he'll wonder how you found out.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 31-year-old, single career woman. I live alone and recently decided to take up jogging to keep myself physically fit.

The first time I went out jogging, I was stopped by a cop. He said he had noticed me running for two blocks and wanted to know what the trouble was. I told him there wasn't any trouble and that I was just jogging.

I have tried to find others who would jog with me, but no luck. The people I know are just too lazy.

So, Dear Abby, where can a person jog in peace, without appearing that she had just robbed somebody and is making a getaway?

WANTS TO JOG

DEAR WANTS: First, get yourself a sweatshirt and have printed on the back, "JUST JOGGING!" Then, drive your car to a park or playground where other joggers jog and join them.

DEAR ABBY: I have received some expensive gifts (jewelry) from a gentleman with whom I have been keeping steady company for quite some time.

Shouldn't he pay for insuring these gifts? He surely must know that I don't have that kind of money, but so far he hasn't mentioned it.

GIFTED

DEAR GIFTED: So YOU mention it.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding AFFECTIONATE FATHER: There are a couple of guys—25 and 32—I see a few times during the year. They always greet me with a bear hug and [illegible] which I return. A 42-year-old 6'3" guy also gives me a big hug.

They're my two grown sons and son-in-law, and when that happens, my day is made.

Opinions Are Varied On Control Of Inflation

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Is inflation coming under control? Evidence that nobody knows is contained in the history of forecasts, which over the past decade have been lamentably inaccurate on this subject.

And the suggestion that one guess is as good as another is suggested by the amazingly wide range of opinions even among professionals who, like fortune tellers, earn good money for their alleged farsightedness.

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, maintains the inflation rate will simmer down by next spring, and that the annual rate of inflation for 1976 would be about 7 per cent.

Even that rate, however, would hardly indicate that prices were under control, and Greenspan himself concedes it would be "by no means acceptable." No, not when we used to think that 3 per cent was too much.

The irrepresible Pierre Rinfret, whose opinions sometimes have been solicited by the White House and by political candidates, as well as by his regular big business clients, is a bit more cynical.

"Hope for the best, prepare for the worst. That's the strategy for 1976," Rinfret writes in his current "confidential" advisory.

"How do you protect yourself against inflation?" he asks rhetorically. "By raising your prices by more than the inflation rate," he answers, explaining that for a decade "the major mistake has been to believe inflation would disappear."

In the view of the National Association of Purchasing Management, the business recovery is under way but "an unwelcome return of price increases gives cause for concern."

But not all surveys of purchasing agents indicate a fear that inflation might undermine the recovery. The highly regarded magazine Purchasing World makes this unqualified declaration:

"Everybody is worried about prices — except buyers."

John O'Connor, editor, conducted two surveys and reached the conclusion that "the people who actually pay the bills for their companies' supplies of goods and materials don't buy the economic doomsday prediction."

O'Connor observes that many sellers are maintaining high list, or book, prices, but are quoting actual prices much lower. He suggests that the government indexes, which are based on list prices, are therby distorted.

Well, who do you believe? Searching for an answer one is eventually directed to the consumer, the final buyer, the final arbiter of prices, the ultimate decision maker. If the consumer is pessimistic he probably is so for good reason.

When the consumer believes his income will be sufficient and prices stable and the job market healthy, he is said to have confidence. Remove one of those facters, such as his belief in stable prices, and his confidence wanes.

The Sindlinger & Co. household survey was consulted in an effort to determine whether consumers were confident — that is, whether they thought prices and other economic factors were in their favor.

As of the final week of August they were divided 50-50, precisely, "a rare point when the ceaseless push-pull battle within the consuming public was at a total standoff."

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

Is Marilyn Chambers the girl next door? She started out as a high school cheerleader, Jr. Olympics diver and gymnast, who lost out as Homecoming Queen because she was accused of drinking beer. In her career she was the "99-44-100 per cent Pure" young American mother pictured on millions of Ivory Snow boxes. She modeled for Pepsi and for Clairol. Marilyn had a feature role in the film "The Owl and the Pussycat" with Barbra Streisand and George Segal. But when people hear her name, what comes to mind is the Sensual Sex Queen of X-film hits, "Behind the Green Door" and "Resurrection of Eve."

MAURICE: What was your childhood like?

CHAMBERS: Well, my family- they're nice, regular people. We went to church together when I was little–lived in the same house in Westport, Connecticut for 15 years; I've got a brother and sister. I had a good childhood. I was brought up like so many people. But the word 'sex' was rarely, if ever, heard around the house; uptight about sex. You know, most people working on X-films come from that kind of middle-class background.

MAURICE: That's a long way from Gloria in "Behind the Green Door."

CHAMBERS: When I discovered sex, I dicovered that it's a real, honest, good, healthy part of life and I found no reason to inhibit my own feelings as my mother and father had done. Why not be honest about it. It's great and it's a fact. Why pretend it isn't? You should see how mom and dad have changed over the past few years– they've loosened up a lot... just like the rest of society.

MAURICE: But what about those 'weirdos'– the guys in the raincoats?

CHAMBERS: Things have changed in the past two years The real hard-core stuff (8mm, 'loops') is a thing of the past. Sure, I guess there'll always be a small market of raincoat types and high school boys for that sort of film, but the X-films now are works of professional cinematography, technically well done with substance to characters and plot. They have more sophistication, more legit humor. They have sex in them because sex is a part of life. And the general audience for that type of film is growing all the time– a healthy cross-section of middle-class America who are getting rid of sexual hang-ups and like it better that way. I know, because I get letters from them all the time.

MAURICE: What would you attribute your success to at such a young age... to the X-films?

CHAMBERS: A combination of a lot of things, I guess– being in the right place at the right time... and luck.

MAURICE: What would you like to do with your career now?

CHAMBERS: I really don't know. I did a smash night-club act that was great fun and I've had movie contracts offered to me from Warner Bros. and Columbia Pictures. I recently wrote a book about my life story. It's entitled, in case your readers want to run out and buy it, "Marilyn Chambers - My Story". My husband- he's my manager and a fantastic businessman. So as you can see, there are a number of directions that I could go in. But I just want to relax and take it easy for a while.

MAURICE: How would you describe yourself?

CHAMBERS: That's easy. I'm the clean-living, young American mother of Ivory soap, to the sensuous kitten, to the glamorous star, to the girl next door. Really, I'm just the girl next door.

Mrs. Stcherbatcheff Sure Of Wedding

PARIS (AP) — Soviet chess champion Boris Spassky's prospective mother-in-law says she is positive the wedding will come off.

"I don't see any reason that could lead to its cancelation," Irene Stcherbatcheff, whose daughter Marina planned to marry Spassky on Nov. 11, said Sunday.

Spassky has said since he and Miss Stcherbatcheff, a secretary of the French embassy in Moscow, he has been denied the right to leave the Soviet Union.

"I can tell you that Boris has no intention to leave the USSR," said the fiancee's mother. "He can't conceive of a life outside his country which he loves so much."

'The Night Watch' Can Be Restored

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — The director of the Rijksmuseum says the damage that an apparently deranged man did to Rembrandt's "The Night Watch" can be repaired, but the restoration will take four months or longer.

"The canvas is badly damaged," said Dr. P. J. Van Thiel after a burly, 38-year-old man repeatedly slashed the priceless 17th century canvas, one of the most famous paintings in the world.

Officials said Wilhelmus de Rijk, a former teacher from a village 30 miles west of Amsterdam, entered the museum shortly after it opened Sunday afternoon, went directly to the spacious chamber where the "The Night Watch" hangs and began slashing at the lower center section of the huge painting with a serrated bread knife.

A guard grabbed his arm, but Rijk fought him off and moved across the painting to the right, slashing a center section about seven feet wide more than a dozen times. Knife marks were more than two feet long, and a piece of canvas about 12 inches by 2½ inches was ripped off.

Two bystanders and guards who rushed in from other rooms helped to overpower the man. According to a guard, Rijk said he had been sent by the Lord to attack the painting.

"I was ordered to do it," he was quoted as saying. "I had to do it."

Police said he had a history of mental illness and had taken the knife from an Amsterdam restaurant where he had lunch.

He was held on a charge of wilful destruction.

It was the second knife attack in this century on the painting. A jobless shoemaker protesting his inability to find work slashed the painting before World War I.

After the attack museum visitors poured through the chamber for more than an hour before the painting was screened and a notice posted: "We regret that Rembrandt's Night Watch is not on display due to wilful damage."

Two other artistic masterpieces — Michelangelo's "Pieta" and Pablo Picasso's "Guernica" — have been attacked in recent years while on public display.

Texas Violence Toll Drops

By The Associated Press

A norther packing rain and crisp temperatures may have contributed to the relativly few weekend violent deaths in Texas, nearly all of which occurred on streets and highways.

The fall season's first cold snap meant an end to swimming, water skiing and many other outdoor activities which contribute heavily through the summer months to the violent death toll each weekend.

The Associated Press began its regular weekend roundup at 6 p.m. Friday and continued the count until midnight Sunday.

The final tally showed 19 persons dead, 15 of them in traffic accidents and four by gunfire.

Here is how some died:

Douglas James Williams died Sunday night following a head-on collision just south of Fort Worth.

Thomas Clarence Brown, 29, was shot to death following an argument at a Dallas laundry.

William B. Jones, 30, was robbed and shot to death Sunday in Dallas. His companion managed to run to a nearby house and summon police.

Pauline Alston, 24, of San Antonio was shot to death Sunday in a lounge in south Bexar County.

Three persons were killed Saturday near Dumas in the Texas Panhandle when a car collided with a fuel tank truck. The victims were identified as Maria Ruis, 17; and her sister, Gabriel, 6, both of Brady; and James Martin, a truck driver from Amarillo.

CITED FOR HEROISM—Chang Lo, 14-year-old Shih Tzu breed, is shown with his plaque awarded for heroism. The tiny dog was presented the award by the American Humane Association for nudging his master, Will Mooney, of Dallas, Tex., awake during the early morning hours of January 25th, to alert him to fire in the house. The half-blind Chang Lo, sleeps on the foot of his master's bed. Mooney kept pushing the dog aside, but Chang Lo persisted until his master was awakened enough to realize there was fire in the house. OS Ranch Roping, Art Events Set

The Annual OS Ranch Steer Roping and Art Exhibit to benefit West Texas Boys Ranch is set for the weekend of Oct. 4 and 5 on the OS Ranch, southeast of Post, Texas, according to Jim Prather, chairman. This year 40 cowboy and western artists will be exhibiting their talents and 33 steer ropers, many former world champion ropers, will be competing in the main event on Sunday.

An open pit cooked barbecue will be served both days. On Saturday there will be an invitational calf roping, a team roping, and a GRA approved girls barrel race. The finals of the barrel race will be run Sunday at 2 p.m., Prather said.

The art will be on exhibit both days in the headquarters house of the OS Ranch and all art will be for sale. There will also be a big dance in Post on Saturday night with Red Stegall and band.

This is the fourth year of the combined event and the fifth for the steer roping. The OS Ranch is located six miles off U.S. 84. Last year over 5,000 people attended the two day event with a larger crowd anticipated for this year.

The benefit for West Texas Boys Ranch is the pride of Garza County. West Texas Boys Ranch is located 17 miles west of San Angelo and has cared for over 800 boys since being chartered in 1947. Presently 72 boys from all over West Texas live at the Ranch. The Ranch is dependent on the public, for support, receiving all of its income from donations and special projects such as the OS Ranch Steer Roping and Art Exhibit.

Last year's steer roping winner was Pake McEntire of Kiowa, Okla. At the art exhibit many of the artists will be present to meet the public and sign autographs.
