Graduate Writes Impressions Of Founding, Operation Of School

By ELSA WISCHKAEMPER

When the school board of Samnorwood met for the first time in the spring of 1934, Samnorwood Rural High School was only a dream in the minds of the people. After much "night-howling" and tedious work, and after hard days of campaigning and petitioning, the Samnorwood Rural High School became somewhat of a reality. A contractor, architect, and laborers, were hired; the school building construction was begun.

Then, into each trustee's life came millions of people, applicants for positions in the wonderful new school that life became a blur of faces, names, and hard luck stories. One trustee remarked later that the only person he could remember was a woman who wore a brilliant red dress.

Finally the superintendent was

P. T. A. Reports Successful Year For Samnorwood

The Samnorwood Parent-Teacher Association under the guidance of its president, Guy Beasley, has accomplished much during this the initial year of its history.

Several programs have been sponsored by the finance committee headed by Mrs. Floyd Thompson for the benefit of various phases of the school's activities. The library has probably been the recipient of the largest share of these funds with a considerable portion being held in reserve to assist in the purchase of equipment for the home economics department next year.

Probably the most outstanding achievement during the year has been the acquisition of a large number of pictures and paintings for beautifying the high school building. Through the efforts of various members of the local association donations in the way of pictures have been secured until now the school is the possessor of a collection of pictures that ordinarily would require several years to collect.

Finally, through the work of the association, a feeling of unity has been brought about among the different communities of the district that would not have been possible through any other means. This phase of the work alone has been

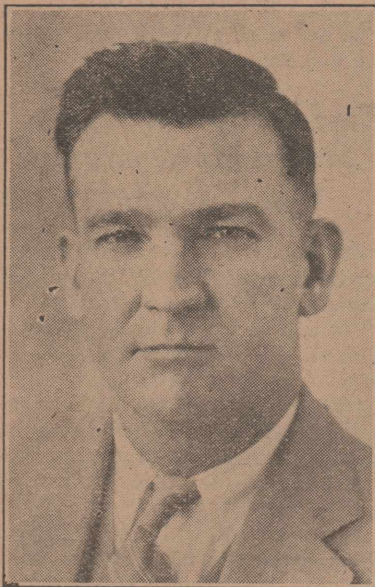

Abra Terminates Successful Year

The 1934-35 terms have been very successful and profitable for the Abra School, now operating under the Samnorwood Rural High School district featuring unusual cooperation throughout the term, according to announcements today.

Instructors report that the students have shown great interest in their work, and have entered in many extra-curricular activities. In addition to other accomplishments, the school had added a music class and served hot lunches for the students during the winter months.

Instructors of the school, upon the event of its closing, expressed their appreciation to Supt. E. G. Sanders, Mrs. Robinson, L. O. Cummings, county superintendent, and the entire Samnorwood faculty for their support and cooperation throughout the school year.

Samnorwood Plans Agriculture Fair For Next Season

School Staff Expects To Sponsor Event For All Panhandle Schools

"As this year draws to a close we begin to look forward to another and to make plans for it to be a bigger and better year than any of those in the past. It is in this attitude of mind that we begin to look forward and plan for some of the big events of next school term," E. G. Sanders, Samnorwood superintendent, said today.

"One of these events that is now being planned for that time is a fair, with all that it implies.

Superintendent Thanks Students For Willingness And Cooperation

By E. G. SANDERS
Superintendent

As the first year in the history of the Samnorwood Rural High School draws to a close, I want to thank the parents, pupils and teachers for the part each has played in making this year a successful one for the Samnorwood Schools.

In any community, the character of its people is reflected in its schools. If its teachers are wide awake and enthusiastic it is a safe bet that they are getting the cooperation of the parents and children, that there is a live Parent-Teacher Association in the community and that the school board is composed of understanding men who know that a word of encouragement to a tired teacher is worth more to the school, and the teacher, than one of criticism. Nearly every teacher in this district has, at one time or another, expressed himself as being more enthusiastic about his work this year than during any other year in his entire teaching career. This, I think, has been due in a large measure to the fine spirit of cooperation on the part of all concerned throughout the year, which made the teachers feel that they were being appreciated and inspired them to their best efforts.

One fine quality of the high school students, here, which I have noted throughout the year, and appreciated, is their willingness to respond to the wishes of their teachers without having to be forced to do so. Another characteristic

With unusual prospects for an exceptional team next year, the Samnorwood Rural High School recently closed spring football practice with a game between the seniors and members of the regular football squad for the coming year. The former game was won by the score of 12 to 0.

Recently, it was announced that Elsa Wischkaemper will be valedictorian and Catherine Jolley, salutatorian for the senior class of the Samnorwood high school for the current term. Elsa will receive the corresponding scholarship for the girls.

The above mentioned scholarships vary from fifty to two hundred dollars in value. These scholarships possess more than just monetary value. They will give their owners added prestige and standing with both faculty and student body wherever they may attend college and in the future will help them in a material way. These young people are to be congratulated on this splendid achievement.

Loss Slight As Thieves Enter School Office

Losses were reported slight when thieves robbed the Samnorwood High School office Thursday night, May 16. Nothing was said to have been damaged other than an office door, which was forced open. An overcoat belonging to Mr. Taylor, about four dollars in money, some checks, a small loving cup won by the Aberdeen boys basketball team, several fountain pens, and a large number of tickets for the senior play were taken.

No clues have been found which might lead to the recovery of the articles, school officials reported.

Change Made In League Rules For 1935 Season

Eighteen-Year-Old Age Limit Placed In All Contests In Division

AUSTIN.—A significant change has been made in the rules of the Interscholastic League, following the recommendation of the State meeting of delegates. The State executive committee has adopted the 18-year old age-rule to become effective September 1, 1936, in all contests, athletic, literary, artistic and commercial. This rule will render obsolete several rules which have cluttered up the rule-book for several years, it was pointed out by Roy Bedichek, chief of the Bureau of Public School Interests at The University of Texas.

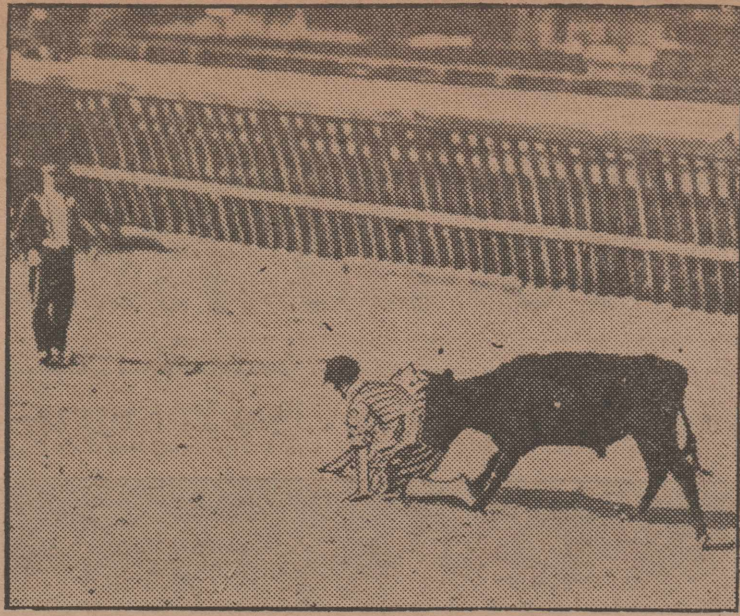

"It will do more than any other half dozen rules to guarantee to bona fide high school students the privilege of engaging in the League's program of educational competition," Mr. Bedichek said. "It definitely places the Texas organization far in the lead of other organizations of similar kind in other states. With the exception of New York, where a 19-year old rule is in effect, all other states permit participation until 20 or 21, irrespective of the fact that the average age of graduation is around 17 years."

On recommendation of the recent State meeting of delegates, the executive committee directed the appointment of a committee to work out a statewide conference of student self-government organizations under the sponsorship of the League, a proposal which has been under consideration for several years. Another action of the State meeting, recommending an addition of one individual to girls' tennis doubles teams and one alternate to girls' singles entries, was adopted. The recommendation made by the State meeting of delegates to include junior tennis in county meets, was adopted by the executive committee, effective for the 1935-36 school year. Junior claimers were advanced to regional competition by action of the State committee, also made effective for the next school year.

Hemphill county tried out lath subirrigated gardens a few years ago finding them satisfactory but not very durable. Last year County Agricultural Agent, H. M. Cantrell supervised the installation of tiled relief gardens which proved very successful. This year 16,000 feet of concrete tile have already been made and laid in the county.

Toreador Loses In U. S. Bull Fight

Looks like a Spanish bull fight, but it's really an Americanized version. Instead of a pit in Madrid, the setting is a Los Angeles stockyard. And a bull, usually the victim, seems to have the matador on route. Though the weapons used in this mock affair were rubber swords and paper stickers, the sponsors failed to win permission from the city humane department to stage a similar exhibition in the city's auditorium.

Texas History Series

Home Of Stephen F. Austin's Sister One Of State's Historic Plantations

AUSTIN.—Of all the plantations in Texas, surely none is of more sentimental interest to patriotic Texans than that of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Perry at Peach Point, for Mrs. Perry was the sister of Stephen F. Austin and it was this plantation that he considered "home" in Texas. Several documents concerning this plantation are in the family archives collection of the University of Texas library, and are revealing in their sidelights on plantation management.

In his reminiscences of "The Old Plantations and Their Owners of Brazoria County, Texas," Abner J. Strobel, published in 1926, describes Peach Point Plantation as follows:

"It was the home of Mrs. James F. Perry, the sister of Stephen F. Austin, and his home if he properly ever had a home in Texas. It can truly be said his home was wherever he hung his hat, for his duties were always of a public nature. The son of Mrs. Perry, S. S. Perry, inherited this plantation. It was a cotton and sugar plantation. It was well improved—had its residence, office in the yard, also residence for the overseer. I have made many visits to the plantation in my boyhood days—days that in life's afternoons I recall with pleasure. And as life's twilight shadows lengthen across my pathway, it is a pleasure to recall the many pleasant days I spent beneath its beautiful roof. Well do I remember when the day was spent and we were about to retire for the night. All would enter the parlor or sitting room, there to render thanks to Almighty God for his blessings through the day. A chapter would be read in the Bible, and then a prayer would be rendered. Morn, noon and night grace would be said, such was the daily routine at Peach Point. I mention this to show the Christian character of the people who resided in the colony, for the same can be said for the majority of the homes of those who came from the older states to reside and build up a civilization in the wilderness of Texas. A few of the descendants of this family reside at Freeport and Angleton. Others are scattered elsewhere. The plantation is practically a ruin."

In the University library is the following letter written by James F. Perry from Peach Point, "near Quintana, Texas, 55 January 7, 1839, to his friend, Greal McGraady, Jr., in Potosi, Missouri:

"I owe you an apology for not writing to you long since but my business has called me much from home for the last 12 months and I have neglected writing to many of my friends which I ought to have done, your kind letter by M. Jones was read. I was quit unwell at the time having been at Houston took a very bad cold but I am now nearly restored to my normal health. Our family have all enjoyed uninterrupted good health the last year. Mrs. Perry's health is quite restored. We have made fair crop, this season and are generally in good spirits. With regard to the claim on Big River we have concluded to let it lie a while longer as it don't amount to much anyhow.

"Now Sir for my advice respecting your removing to Texas. I have no doubt my dear Sir but what you would be pleased with Texas if you could only see it once. There is no doubt that it is a fine country and that a young man might advance his interest in with no moderate portion of industry, good management and economy there is no finer cotton country I presume anywhere. The lands near the coast is well calculated for sugar or cotton rather but I rather think sugar would be best. We raise all kind of provisions in abundance corn potatoes both sweet & Irish. Pumpkins vines of all description grow luxuriantly, feed grows enuf well all kinds of garden vegetables grow in abundance. Peaches figs plums & quinces produce in abundance hogs & cattle does well and horses in the up country. A planter here with eight or ten hands after he gets his place once improved can live very comfortable and in abundance but Sir with all these advantages there are many difficulties for an emigrant to surmount in a new country everything is very high labor of every description is high particular mechanics are hard to get even at high prices to work. A person to move here unless he had large means must expect to have to undergo some hardships and privations for the first few years this I know from actual experience but still young persons who are disposed undertake it will be some day well compensated for all there is also opportunity for men of business to advance themselves here in all new country men of integrity and business is smart and with industry they can always get along well. I think if you can spare the time to come and see the country it would be well worth the time & money spent in doing so but I could not advise you to move (although it would be very grateful to us all to see you and family in this country) without our first come to see and judge for yourself.

"Say to John Perry that I will write to him soon. Remember me to all my old friends who may think worth-while to inquire.

"Mrs. Perry desires to be particularly remembered to Mrs. McGraady. She says nothing would give her more pleasure than to see her and yourself in Texas."

Ex-Hubby Walks In On Honeymoon Ousts Bridegroom

OAKLAND, Cal.—Ten days after he married Dorothy Fitzgerald Schuster her former husband walked in and he had to walk out, William G. Schuster testified recently in winning an annulment.

"The honeymoon wasn't half over," Schuster said, "when a strange man walked in and said, 'Dorothy and I have made up, so you can go now.' I went."

Superior Judge T. W. Harris granted the plea of Schuster who, it seems, didn't know of his wife's former marriage and divorce.

The Story of COTTON

This is the first of a series of informational articles that we intend to publish in this space each week. They will deal with the history of the development of the cotton industry in general and of the impetus the cotton gin has given that development. By so doing we hope to set forth facts regarding cotton that will be of interest to the public and of benefit to the producers.

King Cotton—the factor which has completely revolutionized Collingsworth county during the past 34 years—is a familiar term. Cotton has been defined as the ruler over thousands of square miles and millions of subjects; on the other hand, it may be defined as the daily servant of 99 percent of the entire population of the world. Contradictory as it may sound, both definitions are strictly true.

Cotton has been grown by man for many years, but the early raisers did not dream of its present importance. Before the advent of the cotton gin and the spinning mill man could not imagine a single product of the soil that could furnish the race with most of its clothing and bedding and some of its shelter and house decorations; that could cause ships to plow the seven seas and wheels to turn in countless factories; that could supply hospitals with bandages and other materials of relief; that, on the other hand, could bring death and destruction in war by taking the form of explosives, and yet, in the same transformation, could work mines, cut roadways, and prepare the soil for agriculture; then as though these achievements were not sufficient, could provide the motion picture film whereon is recorded the doings of the world, could give us innumerable articles made from celluloid; could furnish markets for car tires, wheels, bodies, tops and seats and could furnish markers for the roads; could fly the air in airplane wings; could cover furniture and bind books as artificial leather, could help extinguish fires in the form of fire hose; could be used for waterproofing tunnels; could be spun into the appearance of silk under the name of rayon—yet all these things and many more are accomplished by cotton through a great variety of ingenious processes, using the fibre alone.

This county, in which cotton is the largest cash crop, is vitally interested in each market provided for its most important crop. But the fibre cannot be used for this long list of human services until it is separated from the clinging seed. This process is known as ginning, and upon the efficiency of the ginning depends part of the value to the grower of this very important crop. For this reason, we trust and believe, that the dissemination of the information that is to follow in other weeks in this space will be beneficial to the cotton farmer as well as to the community as a whole.

Relatives Clamor To Prove Kin To Richest Indian

Two Hundred Relatives Seek To Gain Oil Millions Of Estate

MUSKOGEE, Ok.—The oil fortune disdained in life by Jackson Barnett, the world's richest Indian, will be a bone of contention among more than 200 litigants during their first big inning in Federal Court this week on the first anniversary of his death. When Barnett died in California last year, a hasty examination of tribal records indicated he had no living relatives.

Now more than 200 claimants from half a dozen States, and from Canada and Mexico, will seek to establish claims to his oil riches through relationship.

In only one respect is the scene changed from that of a year ago. Still an outstanding claimant, disdained of her opponents, Anna Laura Lowe Barnett, white widow of the aged Creek, still is the dominant figure in the drama of the Barnett oil riches, valued at $2,000,000, just as she was in the last nineteen years of his life.

Federal Judge Robert L. Williams will rule at the proceedings to discover Barnett's heirs. Present as interveners will be District Attorney C. A. Summers and his civil law assistant, Charles W. Miller, who was United States Attorney when Barnett came into his money.

More than fifty attorneys, representing potential heirs to the Barnett riches, have been notified to appear in court. Included is the attorney of Mrs. Barnett.

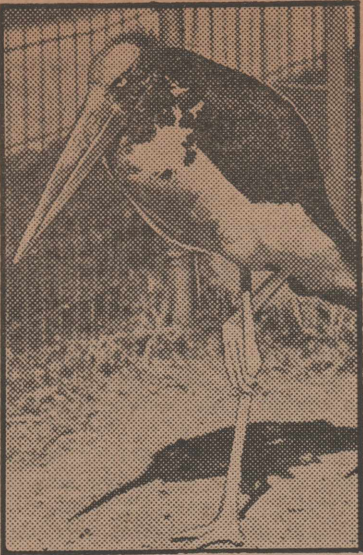

The aged Creek lived for seventy years in his shack near Henryetta with his dogs and ponies and until he became wealthy, was allowed to eke out an existence as best he could.

Then came the discovery of oil on his land in the Cushing field and Barnett became what Federal Judge John C. Knox of New York City termed a shuttlecock in a game of battledore in which the stakes were high.

Relief Officers Aid In Flood And Storm Districts

AUSTIN.—Officials of the Texas Relief Commission this week moved to meet an emergency created by current flood and storm conditions in six of the eleven administrative districts of the state.

E. A. Baugh, assistant director of the Commission, said numerous calls for additional funds have been received from widely scattered sections of the state. He instructed administrators in these counties to have caseworkers investigate all applications for aid by reason of destruction from storm or flood.

Each county was requested to report at once any increase in caseload caused by the emergency condition. On the basis of these reports showing increased additional funds will be made available above the present allotments to these counties for this month.

"In no case," said Mr. Baugh, "will suffering or hunger be permitted. To prevent such an occurrence, available funds in the counties may be used. Administrators must bear in mind, however, that existing regulations determining eligibility to relief must be applied in all cases."

Students Make Good Showing In League Meet

Teachers Praise Students And Community For Splendid Cooperation

When the schools of the Samnorwood school district close on June 7, Prairie View will end a successful and colorful year.

The splendid co-operation from both the patrons and student body, made it possible for the school to accomplish those things of which any school might be proud.

Soon after school opened on October 1, a program and pie supper were given at the school building. The proceeds of this entertainment were sufficient to obtain necessary playground and first aid equipment for the greater part of the year.

The student body also contributed to several group programs given in the Samnorwood high school auditorium.

Prairie View made a very impressive showing in the Interscholastic League meet in both literary and athletic events.

In the literary events, first place was won in choral singing, a third place in arithmetic and a second place in junior girls declamation.

In basket ball the girls lost only two games and those to Samnorwood and Dodsonville juniors. The boys also gave a good account of themselves, but lost to Nicholson in the semi-finals.

The girls' playground ball team kept their three year record clean by defeating all opponents in a very decisive manner. The girls played thirteen games during the season, winning games from Samnorwood, Wellington and Dodsonville. Again the boys were not so successful, but lost only one game in Interscholastic League competition and that by a one score margin to the county champions, Dodsonville.

For the second time the girls made almost a clean sweep of the junior girls track in the ward division, by winning thirty points and the relay. And with a one girl senior track team, Prairie View won the senior division of rural schools.

Prairie View was a close second in the all round county championship in the ward school division, being only defeated by Dodsonville by a few points.

Junior Girls' pralgroups ball team—Elva Lax, Francis Roan, Thelma Winters, Thelma Coon, Ruby Dell Henderson, Emma Jean Clements, Carmen Marchant, Lola Bell Lax.

Evicting Fish From New Home

The fish in Boulder Lake must think man a queer creature. First he creates a new home for them by damming the Colorado river, and then he pulls them from it via line and hook. But this cowboy discipline of Isaak Walton is too busy going after the finny ones to reflect how ridiculous it all is, and to think that where he is fishing was, a few weeks back, just a dry river bed.

hired, a man who had quickly won the admiration of the board by his modesty, straight-forwardness, and alertness.

The faculty members were all chosen, the building completed and then the dedication day was at hand. A huge barbecue dinner was prepared for the hundreds of persons who were expected, and to take up the slack time amusing and interesting side shows were prepared.

On the big day, more than 2,000 persons came to admire the building, marvel at the economy practiced by the board and superintendent; to hear the dedication address by State Superintendent Wood.

The gathering was also honored with the presence and addresses of Dr. J. A. Hill of Canyon, Sam Norwood, pioneer after whom the town and school were named, and Bryan Dixon, Deputy State Superintendent. Interesting talks were also delivered by E. W. Miller and Richard Wischkaemper, but one of the most interesting and enjoyable talks was that of Floyd Thompson, trustee president, who in two words said, "Let's Eat." The crowd enjoyed the barbecue with "all the trimmings."

As the weeks stretched into months, the dubious eyes of West Texas again turned to the largest rural high school district in the state. Would the teachers affiliate the credits they expected? Would the students co-operate? How long would it be before the desks would be cut and scarred, the windows broken, the school busses mutilated and the teachers maimed?

The Interscholastic League Meet brought an answer to some of these questions. Samnorwood carried away the high honors in all events

THE WHOLE WORKS

An exchange prints a little story, clipped from an unknown source, which is very good and perhaps very old. Anyway it's worth repeating.

It concerns an Omaha jobbing house and a customer merchant in a small Iowa town. A shipment of goods received by the customer was rejected as unsatisfactory.

The jobber prepared to institute suit for collection, and wrote to the railroad agent at the village for information about the arrival of the merchandise; to the president of the bank for information concerning the financial standing of their customer; to the mayor of the city asking him to recommend a good lawyer to handle their case; and to the merchant himself, threatening suit, if he did not make payment at once.

All the desired information came in a single letter, as follows:

"I received your letter telling me I had better pay up.

"I am railroad agent here and received the letter you wrote the agent.

"I am president and sole owner of the local bank and can assure you of my financial standing.

"As mayor of the city, I hesitate to refer you to a lawyer, since I am the only member of the bar in this vicinity.

"If I were not the pastor of the only church here, I would tell you to go to hell!"

BRIGHT BUT LAZY

Of its many thousands of high school graduates New York claims the brightest in the person of Ellen Elizabeth Benson, who finished her work preparatory for college at the age of 12.

Several stories of her precocity are told. At eight months she startled a physician who was examining her in a health contest by saying "baby wants dinner." At 16 months a psychological test showed her to have a vocabulary of 159 words. At 3 years she could read, although no effort had been made to teach her. She is now declared to have the mental capacity of a girl of 19.

All these accomplishments would naturally convey the impression that Ellen Elizabeth is an indefatigable student and worker. But let her tell about that for herself:

"No, I don't like to study. I just read and remember. And I'm lazy about housework. Just ask mother."

Little Miss Benson may make a mark in the world, and then again she may not. Many precocious youngsters revert to mediocrity in later life, because they are too lazy to make use of their natural gifts.

TURNING POINT

Most persons of middle age and beyond may look upon apparently trivial occurrences which seem to have changed the entire course of their lives. A chance meeting, a fortuitous remark, a casual letter, or even an accident, may mark a turning point in one's course.

Such ordinary unimportant events which turn out to be far reaching in their consequences most often have to do with matrimony. But in business and other relations of life these minor happenings also frequently have a weighty influence.

It is related of Disraeli, the Jewish boy who became one of England's great prime ministers, that his turning point came through a fist fight at school, as a consequence of which he changed his place of residence and fell in with friends who aided him in getting started on his brilliant career. Numberless similar instances may be found in biographies of the great and near-great, in which chance or small happenings led to fame and fortune.

Sometimes, too, they lead in the opposite direction, as in the case of Napoleon, who is said to have lost the battle of Waterloo, which changed the whole history of Europe, because it rained just before the battle, causing his cannon to be mired in the mud.

Thus, while carefully planned efforts count most, a great deal often depends on whether one gets the lucky "breaks" in the game of life.

ORIGIN OF ICE CREAM

Attempts to trace the origin of ice cream have been generally inconclusive, the invention or discovery of this popular dish being attributed to various nations and periods. But ice cream, or something closely akin to it, has been traced as far back as the middle of the sixteenth century, when it was introduced into France, from Italy.

By 1680, it is said, enterprising Sicilian had established the Cafe Procope in Paris, where ice cream was the special delicacy. It became known in England and Germany much later, and was probably not introduced into America until about the time of the Revolution.

The first advertisement of ice cream appeared in New York on June 8, 1786, but it was not served in Washington until nearly a half century later, when Mrs. Alexander Hamilton used it as a dessert at a dinner given for President Jackson. The wholesale ice cream business was originated by Jacob Fussell of Baltimore in 1851, and met immediate success.

In recent years the use of ice cream has been increasing with amazing rapidity, until its production has almost reached the proportions of a major industry, being nearly 350 millions gallons annually.

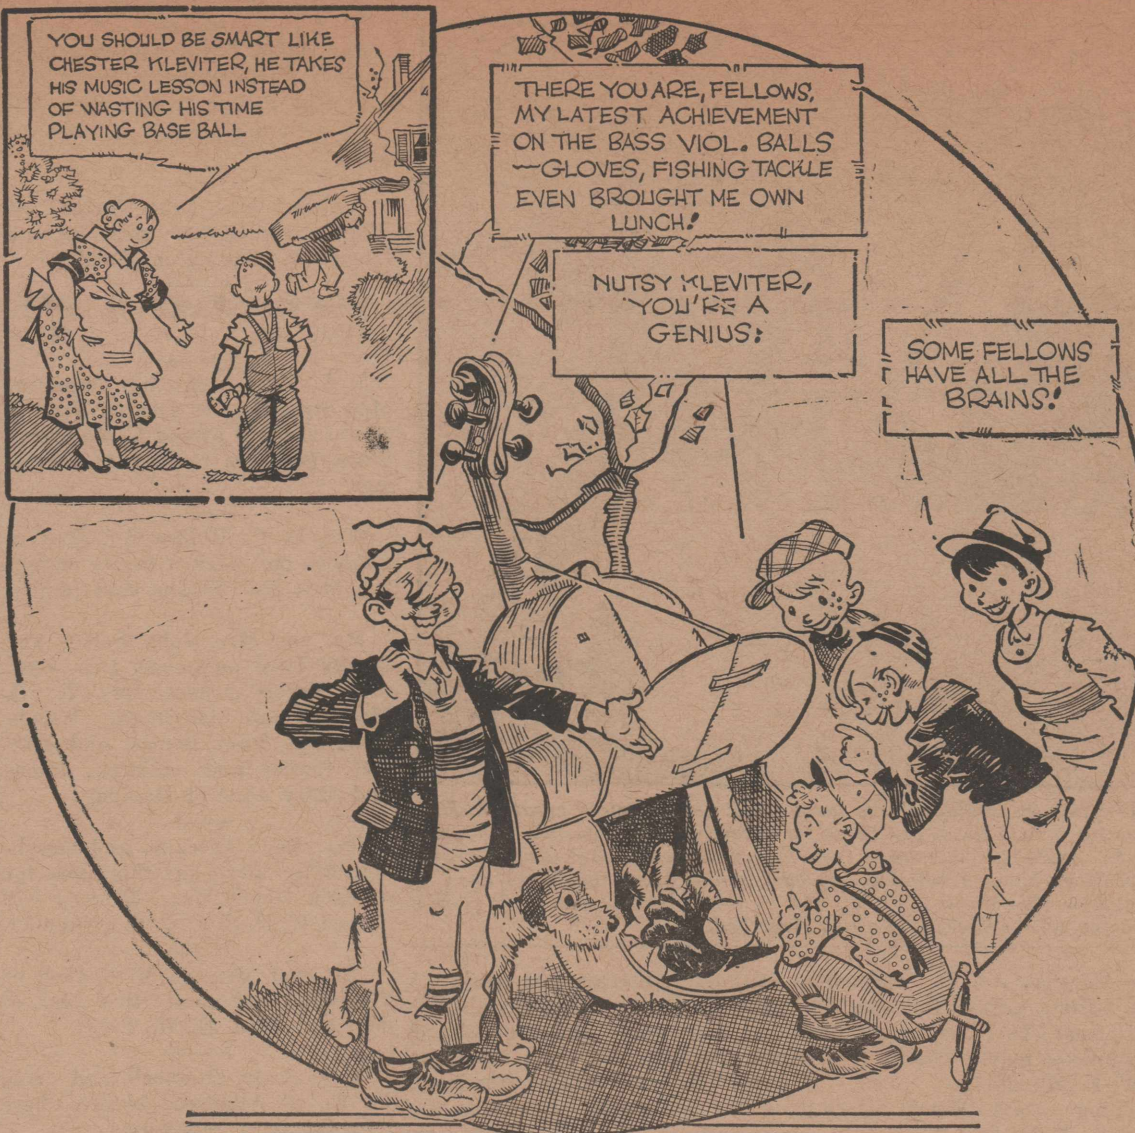

The increased consumption of ice cream is entirely desirable, as it is not only an aid to the dairy industry, but also is in the interest of better nutrition and consequently of good health.

The Great American Home

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

Many of our historical spots in Texas can only be reached by motor trips and in making preparations for such trips careful study should be given to our history in order to reach as many points of interest with as little travel as possible.

Traveling from Navasota on Highway number 90 westward you will arrive at Washington, the site of the beginning of the Texas Republic. Here you will see a monument in what is now Washington State Park that reads "Here a Nation was born."

This monument was erected by the school children of Washington County in 1899. Near the monument stands a replica of the building where the convention, which proclaimed Texas an independent republic, was held. Small in size, still evidently it was adequate to house over half a hundred delegates who assembled there to give birth to a nation. In its wall hang copies of the historic Declaration of Independence and of the Great Seal of Texas. Adorning the park also is a large brick pavilion, housing a commodious assembly hall and stage, and erected by the State in 1930.

Following a winding driveway from the park into the Brazos Valley, the motorist glimpses the junction of the "Navasot" River, with that of the Brazos River. It must be remembered that Washington has always been referred to as Washington-on-the-Brazos.

From this point of interest one may drive in a few minutes, to Independence which will impress visitors as one of the most beautiful spots in all of Texas. Washington is located on a good paved road but the one to Independence is only suitable in dry weather.

At Independence in a humble burial plot, marked by a tiny tombstone, lies the remains of "Margaret Lea," wife of Sam Houston, born in Marion, Ala., April 11, 1819, died December 3, 1866. "There also is the grave of her mother, "Nancy, wife of Temple Lea, born May 1, 1780, died February 7, 1864." Another tombstone marks the grave of the "Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Williams." Also graves of two of the Houston family servants, "Aunt Eliza," and "Aunt Lettie," are indicated by inscriptions on the tombstones. Adjoining the lot are the walls of a tomb prepared for the Houston family, but its state of decay ultimately led to removal of the bodies to the plot adjoining.

On every hand one finds evidence of early settlement—ruins of buildings constructed of native stone, stately mansions, sentinels of another era, dot the landscape. Visitors are shown the site of the Houston home, some logs from which today are said to form a part of a barn nearby.

Across the road from the Houston burial grounds stands the Independence Baptist Church, organized in September of 1839. The original building, remodeled in 1872, still is the place of worship for a congregation, there being an attendance of 42 in Sunday school on a recent Sabbath. The church

The Story Of Pentecost

Text: John 16:7-11; Romans 8:10-17, 26, 27

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 9.

The doctrine of the Holy Spirit is to be distinguished from the fact of the Holy Spirit, which helps us and works through us.

One recognizes the fact of the sun. One experiences the warmth of its rays, the joy and blessedness of its light, and all that it has meant to the work of the world, especially in times before mechanical invention had enabled the world upon so large a scale to turn night into day.

But this fact, of the sun, and of the sun's influence and blessing, is very different from a knowledge of the laws of light and heat. Here one enters into a realm of theory and doctrine as well as of fact. It may be said, indeed, that what the sun is to us in experience does not depend even upon our knowledge of many facts concerning it.

Much of this is true concerning the Holy Spirit. Jesus emphasized this mystic working of God's spirit on the souls of men when, in His discourse to Nicodemus describing the coming of new life, He said, "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth; so is every one that is born of the Spirit."

In the story of Pentecost, when the disciples were gathered together in consecration and expectation, we are told that "there came a sound from the heaven as of a rushing mighty wind." The mysteries of that day are not all revealed—or made plain to us, but the reality of what happened there and its effect have been manifest in the world through the history of the Christian Church.

Posing as undertaker's assistants, two men robbed the home of J. C. Stelwyn of Glencoe, Ill., after a funeral, getting $10,000 worth of jewelry.

Recently when two women were arraigned in court in Chicago for fighting, the judge told them to go home and read the 133rd psalm together.

For having danced to the music of a Salvation Army meeting, J. J. Rocca of Dover, O., was fined $10 and reprimanded by the mayor.

A bolt of lightning at Nice, France, stripped the trousers off Pietro Baldino as he walked along the street.

Fred O. Bailes of San Angelo, Texas, is an expert polo player, roper and rider, although he has only one arm.

Roy Scholes of St. Louis nearly killed Miss Harriet Snyder in a fit of jealousy, but she will marry him when he gets out of prison.

It would be well in our consideration, and in our teaching of this lesson that we should dwell largely upon the fact that the power and glory of the experience of the Holy Spirit in the soul, leaving to theologians the doctrine and the theories, even as we may enjoy the sun, leaving to the physicist the science of light.

The passages in our lesson from John and from Romans are appropriately chosen with this in mind. They link this experience of the Holy Spirit in the soul with the message of Jesus to His disciples concerning the work of the Holy Spirit, the Comforter, as that of convicting the world of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment.

The work of the Holy Spirit might be tested by these things, or we might test whether a man has really experienced the presence of the Holy Spirit by examining his life in these respects.

Has the Holy Spirit given to man a hatred of sin? Has it created in him the holy attitude of turning from sin to righteousness? And has it given him an enlightened judgment?

If a man have not these things, it might be said that a human spirit of ignorance and perverseness is more evident in his life than the presence of the Holy Spirit. Again, there is the witness of the Spirit that brings to man the consciousness that he is a child of God—a peace of soul that is the deepest and truest experience of the Christian life.

Out of this experience of the Spirit there comes a new consciousness of strength not in oneself, but through new resources of power. It was this that Paul meant when he spoke of his weakness, and of his prayer to be relieved of it, and in the answer to his prayer in the assurance "my strength is made perfect in weakness."

JOTS in JEST

Nineteen years after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schoenberger have located a trunk of wedding gifts lost in shipment from Wisdom, Mont., to Butte, Mont.

For forcibly expressing his dislike for dogs, Joseph Cuzek of Buffalo, was fined $25. Cuzek was charged with shooting a dog that came near his home.

According to the story she told police, Mrs. Roswell Lavery of Denver was robbed of $11 as she was praying in church.

A prisoner before Judge James Faffney in Marengo, Ia., was convicted of contempt and paid his fine in apples. The judge and jury ate the "payment."

Women members of a London church choir went on a strike because one of the congregation said they "looked like chorus girls."

Mrs. Catherine Palmer of Cincinnati celebrated her 100th birthday by laundering her own linen.

Items of Interest In The Panhandle

An unusual accident happened to Carroll Eugene Shannann of the Lutheran community the other day when he fell from a bench, causing him to practically bite off his tongue.

At a sanitarium in Plainview the severed part of his tongue was stitched back and was reported this week as getting along as well as could be expected.—Floydada Hesperian.

Dead Man Walks

Officers were called north of Quanah Wednesday night when a dead man was reported to be lying on the pavement of Highway 16 near the Red river bridge. By the time the officers arrived at the spot the man had been moved. People who found the man prone away on the roadway said that they finally woke him and that he disappeared in the darkness.

Last year officers answered a similar call and they are of the opinion that the same man was found asleep each time.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Doing Business

County abstractors are swamped with work and several report that it has been necessary to add new members to their force. At present the county court room is being utilized for a place for the abstract work to be done. On account of the sale of oil leases some of the abstract offices are over a hundred of the articles behind their ordinary capacity.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Wins The Pup

It rained fish!—at least one eleven-pounder.

Word received here by the U. S. Fish Commission from Coby Surden, relative of Mrs. C. W. Underwood, reveals that during the heavy rains of last week at his home near Aubrey, Denton County, a fish, weighing eleven pounds was found in his corn field.—Chillicothe Valley News.

Rain Scared Children

Mother had to quiet frightened children who had never seen rain falling when the patter started on the north Plains, but no sooner had they accomplished that than the children were swept into new fear by another unheeded apparition. Mothers investigated and found a few people still had umbrellas. The children had seen people walking the street with the umbrellas shielding their faces.—Memphis Democrat.

Drug By Horse

After being drug about a half a mile on the end of a rope attached to the saddle horn of a "run-away" horse, Lindsey Layney, 13, of the Cedar Hill community, looked up from his hospital bed at the sanitarium here Wednesday afternoon about 2 hours after the accident, and said he was glad "it wasn't worse."

Young Lackey stepped into the loop of a lariat rope as it was laid on the ground and the horse, which was being used in working a bunch of calves, suddenly became frightened and ran away, at full speed, dragging the boy for about a half a mile.—Floyd County Hesperian.

Trail Dust

A bug wades across the canvas of the past when an automobile drives up to a chuck-wagon. The scene of three decades is smothered with modernity and deprived of its colorful glory when the rear of a motor drowns the cadence of loping horses' feet. The romance of distance is lost to nimble rubber tires that are tougher than the iron shoes on the chuck-mules. And there is no privacy in which to dream old dreams but that cow trail in ravished by the rolling feet of this strange mustang that does not flinch when slapped by the thorny mesquite limb.—Matador Tribune.

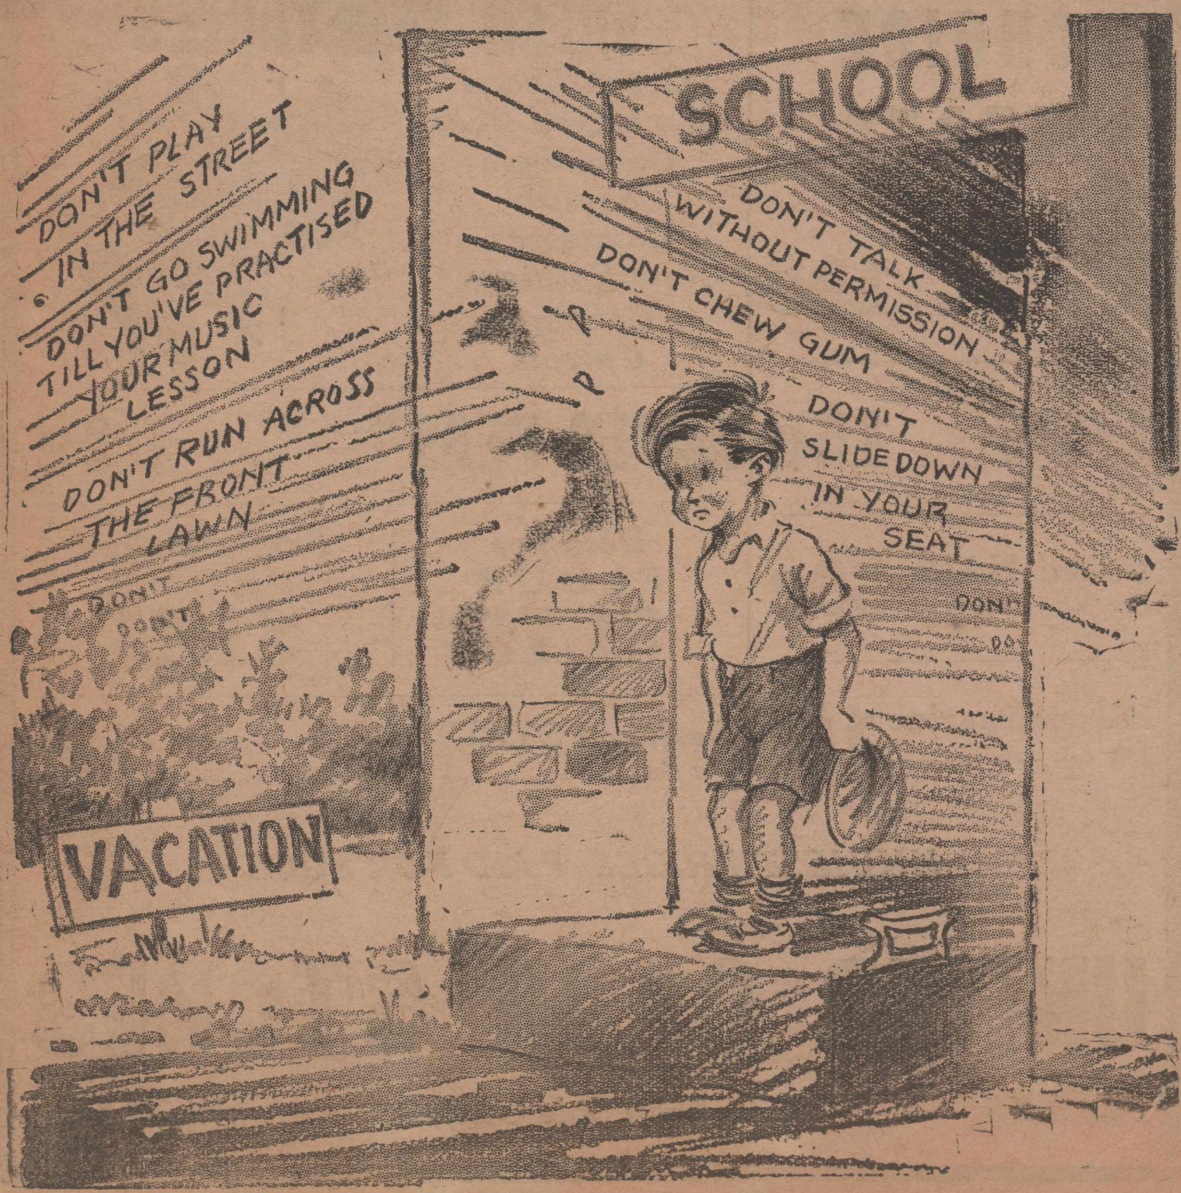

Murderer Ran Down

The mystery slaying of young Thomas Holmes, 19-year-old Hill City storekeeper and groom of 61 months, has been solved. Two young Hood county farmers, M. Cash, 21, and Bird Tracy, 27, have been arrested and Cash has confessed to Fort Worth officers and Texas Rangers.

"We knew that there was going to be a church singing at Hill City that Sunday (May 12) and thought that this man Holmes would have a little more money than at other times," Cash said in his statement to Assistant District Attorney Leo Brewster.—Stephenville Empire-Tribune.

Francis Jones of Chicago was knocked out by a girl with whom he tried to flirt, then he was fined $50.

Tech Plans To Hold Coaching School Aug. 5th

Outstanding Coaches Will Meet On Annual Tech Coaching Grounds

LUBBOCK.—For the fifth year Texas Technological College is presenting as instructors the foremost coaches of college athletics in the United States at the annual coaching school. This year's school begins August 5 and continues through August 17.

Frank Thomas of Alabama and Rose Bowl winning fame will instruct his "Dixie Howell" Notre Dame shift; Bernie Bierman, coach of the national collegiate champions, will discuss his system and tactics. Other headliners include: P. Warner and his Temple University double wing-back formation; Dana Bible of Nebraska, will discuss his short punt formation; Art Kahler and his triple wing-back formation; Bernie Moore will bring Jack Torrance and Slat Hardin, track combination, from Louisiana State University; Fritz Crisler of Princeton; Francis Schmidt, Ohio State; Bear Wolf, Texas Christian University line coach; Blair Cherry, the famed high school coach of Amarillo; Pete Perry, Arkansas' winner in scholastic football; and G. L. Hermande, physical education authority from Rice Institute.

The past four coaching schools have been attended by 1,670 coaches from many sections of the United States. This year's school is scheduled to break all attendance records, according to Head Coach Pete Cawthon and Line Coach Russell (Dutchy) Smith.

ON TEXAS FARMS

MARSHALL.—One hundred acres seeded with Bermuda and lespedeza in March 1934 on the farm of Web Rogers of Harrison county is furnishing excellent grazing for 75 dairy cows, according to G. M. Morris, county agricultural agent. Mr. Rogers thought that the dry weather in the summer of 1934 would cause the grass and clover to die out, but it is up to a good stand.

Fifteen acres of pasture land contoured in March 1935 by U. C. Lowry of Harrison county is also coming along fine. Lowry thinks the contours will help his upland pasture a great deal, according to the county agent.

The 1100 acre pasture of the Peterson brothers which was cleared and brushed during 1933, with 5 acres seeded to white Dutch Clover, black medic, Dallas grass, carpet grass, Bermuda grass and lespedeza, is also furnishing excellent pasture.

KERRVILLE.—Forty-eight dollars was made recently by the Kerrville Home Demonstration Club at a sales day at which aprons, children's clothing, quilts and pillow protectors, home made bread, cakes, pies, jelly, native ferns and cacti were among the articles sold. All home demonstration clubs in the county contributed and co-operated in the sales and the proceeds were turned over to the county home demonstration council to help fill the budget of $162.25 for the year. Another sales day will be held June 22, in connection with the wardrobe achievement day, according to Miss Frances Wilrey, Kerrville home demonstration agent. Each club will sponsor one event and the full amount called for in the budget has been raised.

Houston.—Forty-two Harris county farmers have agreed to carry on pasture improvement work in 1935 by planting some of the clovers and grasses adapted to the Gulf Coast area and by mowing it, according to D. D. Clinton, county agricultural agent. The records show that a total of 13,439 acres of pasture land will be improved by sowing these seeds, of which more than 6000 acres will be improved by mowing twice a year. This should improve the carrying capacity of the pastures, as recent experiments have showed that scattering seed and mowing improve the carrying capacity of a native pasture approximately five times.

Nearly five miles of concrete tile have been made and laid by relief workers in Ochiltree county this spring, according to the report of J. T. Stovall, county agricultural agent. The exact figures are 25,957 feet. The tile has been furnished in such cases at actual material costs, plus a one-fourth toll of the

Mother Starves Self To Feed Baby, But Loses Fight, As Youngster Dies

HOUSTON, Texas—A small white coffin, lowered in Hollywood Cemetery this week marked the end of a starving mother's fight of many months to keep her baby boy.

The mother, who shall be nameless because she lived up so fully to all that the word implies, was found in her empty home by police after neighbors noticed the shades had been drawn all day and no sound of life had been heard.

She lay on the floor beside a small mattress. One hand caressed the body of the baby boy, the other held a gas tube to her mouth. As she drifted back to consciousness officers learned the pathetic story of mother love.

For weeks she had tried to get along on $6 a week. Her husband is dead. She feared to ask for relief because she thought officials would place the boy in a home.

Often the $6 would not buy food enough for herself and the child. But it always bought enough for the baby—she went without.

A week ago the child became ill. Day and night she sat at his side in the bare room. Now he needed even better food, and she ate less and less.

Sunday morning he looked up into her anxious face.

"I'm all right, mama," he lisped. A few minutes later he died from a throat abscess.

Time stopped for the young mother when she felt the tiny body go limp in her arms. For thirty-nine hours she stayed alone in the small room with her dead child. Haltingly she told officers: "I bathed the baby and dressed him."

She had bathed the small white body with the golden curly hair. She dressed her little boy in clean white muslin night gown. She laid him on the mattress with his still, white face toward her. Then she turned on the gas.

"I could not call," she murmured in delirium. "I can not give him up."

Officers snatched the tube from her face. Windows were raised and fresh air and light came into the darkened room.

The child was carried down the narrow stairs. The mother cried until she was allowed to lie on the floor by the stretcher in the ambulance. "Oh help me go where my baby is," she implored Hollis Lee, ambulance driver.

The undertaking company donated a small white casket. But the mother could not be with her boy at the last moment. Too weak from her ordeal, she lay in bed, moaning, "I can't give him up."

Seventh Grade Enjoys Outing Near Plymouth

Games And Weiner Roast Are Features As Term Ends

The seventh grade of Plymouth entertained the seventh grade of the Samnorwood District with a picnic and weiner roast a few weeks ago. The whole affair was planned by the students of the Plymouth School. Invitations were mailed to the respective schools to meet at sunset. They met at the Plymouth School and from there journeyed to the picnic grounds on Mrs. Montgomery's place. The boys and girls enjoyed such games as "Flying Dutchman," "Dare Base," "Wolf-over River," "Little White House Over the Hill," and "Needle Eye," for about two hours. A big bon-fire was built and weiners were roasted. After the weiners were all gone the marshmallows were passed around.

Those who took part in the enjoyable evening were as follows: Abra: Dennis Ray, G. C. Tate, Freeman Tate, and their teacher, Huelyn Laycock. From Dozier: Della Faye Coleman, Travis Tension, Vernon Kirkland, Margaret Lowe, Harold Rapp, Orveta Shields, and their teacher, Ben Baldwin. From Lutie: Hays Wood, Opal Bird, John Rainey, Lee Wilder, J. E. Throckmorton, Clifton Brown, Glen Brown, Frank Gully, J. L. Jolly, and teacher and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ledger. From Prairie View: Thelma Winters, Francis Roan, Erna Jean Clement, Thelma Coon, Melvin Sparks, W. E. Marchant, Elmo Fritts, and their teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Powell. Supt. E. G. Sanders and daughter, Betty Jean, Mrs. Dollie Robinson were guests of the occasion. The hosts were Norman Dale DeBord, Jeanette Montgomery, Eldeen Jeffers, Lora Hill, Preston Glazner, Mammie Lowrance, and their teachers, Leroy McDaniels, Katherine McMinn, and Mrs. LeRoy McDaniels.

It was felt that the dedication program of last fall was a big and successful event for a community such as this, and yet it is planned to make of the fair a still bigger and more purposeful activity than anything this territory has known heretofore. There are to be agricultural and live stock exhibits from not only communities of the Samnorwood school district, but from all surrounding communities. Stock and poultry judging teams from all schools in the Panhandle maintaining an agricultural interest, are to be here. Speakers of national reputation have been contacted and have agreed to come. Plans are now being made to appoint a fair committee to work out the details of this vast undertaking in connection with the school board and superintendent.

"It is hoped to have this fair some time in the first half of October. Announcements will be made from time to time concerning developments in connection with same."

Unusual interest has been advocated in the graduation exercises and letters have poured in from educational leaders over the southwest in regard to the success of the school, which is considered as a solution toward giving students in the rural areas an equal opportunity with students in towns and cities.

Included among other accomplishments of the school during its first term is the securing of 15 1-2 credits of affiliation with the state department. Mr. Sanders also stated that the school may be granted an additional affiliation credit.

Trustees And Faculty
Trustees for the school during its first year of operation were all re-elected to their posts for another year. They are F. W. Thompson, president; E. W. Miller, secretary; Richard Wischaemper, D. A. Kinnannon, John M. Morgan, Theo Parker and John Coleman.

Instructors in the Samnorwood Rural High School District, which includes seven former districts, for the present year are: E. G. Sanders, Lewis Birdwell Bailey, C. C. Brown, Audie Johnson, Mrs. R. W. Bretz, Mrs. Dollie C. Robinson, Mary Allen, Olson Sweat, Mrs. Olson Sweat, Ben Baldwin, Mrs. C. C. worth all the effort put into the work this year.

The program of the Parent-Teacher Association, Thursday night, May 16, was to have consisted of the installation of the new officers for the coming year. However, Mr. Beasley, the president, was not present, thus part of the program was not given.

The program was opened by a song led by Mrs. L. C. Sweat. After which the invocation was given by Olson Sweat. A health program sponsored by Mr. McDaniels and Miss McMinn of the Plymouth school, and rendered by 20 pupils of that community, was given. Although this was the last Parent-Teacher meeting of the year, the attendance was small due to bad weather.

boasts a tower of rock from old Baylor, in which hangs a bell bearing an inscription recalling its donation to the church from Margaret Lea Houston, (Mrs. Houston was the daughter of a Baptist Minister). Inside suspended from the lofty ceiling is a brass chandelier, bearing a dozen kerosene lamps, used for lighting for many years. One of the stately windows contains all of its original tinted panes.

From the church may be viewed the hill where stood the original Baylor college, while on another eminence rise graceful columns denoting the spot where once stood the first Baylor College for Women. Parts of the walls still stand and nearby are its dormitories, now in a state of ruin.

Here for five years, students of Baylor were taught co-educationally in one small building, but became divided into two parts in 1851, taught by different faculties in separate buildings a mile apart. Today these are represented by Baylor University at Waco and Mary Hardin-Baylor College, located at Belton.

She expects to attend Texas Tech and major in math next fall, and then she says she would like to teach math in high school. Everyone admires Juanita for her disposition and wish her much success.

Vernon was born October 31, 1914, at Valera, Texas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Crossland of the Nicholson community. He has attended school at Shamrock, Nicholson and Samnorwood. During this time he has developed a special liking for history and math. His liking for the latter subject has caused Vernon to choose civil engineering as his life work. Vernon has participated in basketteristic which has been just as helpful is their tendency to forget those little unpleasantnesses that are sure to happen in the best of schools. Nothing is more encouraging to a teacher than to have a student, who has been pretty sternly disciplined, come in the following morning with a contagious smile tacitly admitting that, although he may not have been entirely at fault, he is willing to submit to those in authority for the good of all concerned. It has been this same attitude on the part of the American people that has brought this country through many a crisis in the past and will carry them safely through the present one.

It was thought by most of us that when our high school was finally accredited with the State Department of Education the rest would be comparatively easy. However, such is not proving to be the case. With a reduction in the number of our teachers for another year and with a shrinkage in the taxable valuations of the district and all the attendant complications, there are many grave difficulties to overcome in the progress of the Samnorwood school system toward its final goal. If the same high purpose is displayed by the people in the future, however, as has been in the past, these difficulties will be overcome.

Farmers Receive $100,000 In Cotton Rental Checks

Planting Starts On Large Scale Here This Week

Many Farmers Replanting
Cotton And Feed Crops
In This Section

Good Prospects

Extensive Moisture Gives
Hopes Of Abundant
Yields For 1935

Planting started generally over this area of the state as farmers took advantage of favorable weather this week following a total of 10 inches of rainfall over the county during the past 30 days.

Plant Cotton And Feed

Farmers in the sandy sections of the county especially pushed their work to completion, while those in other sections also planted their cotton and feed crops.

Practically all of the early crops had to be replanted following the heavy rains, but a few feed crops escaped damage and are expected to come out. There are also a few scattered farmers over the county who are waiting about replanting their cotton in order to see if it will be necessary for them to replant.

Expect Good Crops

Reports also state that weeds and grass are growing in abundance following the rains. However, their growth is being eliminated in the process of planting in most parts of the county.

Every section of this area has prospects for an unusually good crop this year and farmers say that the soil is turning prettier than they have seen it recently.

Baptist Laymen Organize Units

Laymen of the North Fork Baptist Association held a recent meeting at the First Baptist Church in Shamrock and formed an Associational Brotherhood organization.

The churches of the association were divided into four districts, each of which will be served by five laymen to be selected. One of these groups will cover the Collingsworth area.

Jeff D. Mankins of Shamrock, was elected president; Mitt Bullard of Lelia, first vice president; Mr. Jordan of Wellington, second vice president; Jess J. Cobb of McLean, secretary-treasurer.

Free T-B Tests Start In County

Eight government veterinarians this week started on the program of testing Collingsworth County cows for T-B. The test will include the entire county and the veterinarians will make house-to-house calls in making their tests.

All milk and dairy cows, herd bulls and 10 percent of the range cattle in this county will be subjected to the test. Tests are made by the government and are given without charge.

Haskell Street To Be Graveled In Near Future

Four City Employees Get Salary Increases At
Monday Council

The City Council voted Monday night to start work graveling Haskell Street from 8th Street to the northwest corner of the town section. The action was taken after W. W. Sugg had appeared before the Council and informed them that it would be satisfactory to use the money which he had secured by donations from property owners for gravel and trucking instead of planned. Changed regulations on trucking had prevented the work from going ahead. By using the money donated by the property owners for trucking as well as gravel, it is thought that the City will be able to get the project allowed.

Four Get Increases

Outside of various matters of routine business, the principal part of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of salaries of various city employees. Four salaries were raised Monday night. Richard Cocke received an increase of $20 a month for a six month period, and was instructed to begin work on the collection of delinquent taxes immediately. Aldermen Lewis, Wiley and Sullivan voted for the increase in salary, and Aldermen Larsen and Fortenberry voted against the increase. Bo Yates was given an increase in salary of $10 a month, and Paul Hardy and Earl Henry were also increased $15 a month. The vote was practically the same on all questions, except that Alderman Fortenberry voted for the last two increases in salary.

The schedule of salaries follow: Richard Cocke was drawing $20. It is now $40 a month. Bo Yates was drawing $50. It is now $60 a month. Paul Hardy was drawing $75. It is now $90. Earl Henry was drawing $75 a month. It is now $90. No changes were made in the salaries of the mayor and the aldermen, which were reduced just before the spring elections.

Rural Carriers Will Meet Here

Wellington will be host to the rural mail carriers of this district in September, according to announcements today. The district includes Wellington, Hedley, Shamrock, Turkey, Childress, Quanah and Kirkland.

The designation of Wellington as a meeting place was made at the district meeting in Kirkland last Thursday. Those who attended from here were L. A. Moore and family, Hugh Longino and family, Mrs. Hugh Autrey and Mrs. Glenn Brickey.

The exact date of the meeting here has not been set, but it will be held on a holiday in September, since the organization always meets on holidays.

School Head

J. D. Wilson will return to Collingsworth County next September as superintendent of the Quail Rural High School District. He accepted the post last Friday.

Wilson To Head Quail Schools

Former County Superintendent Accepts Post In New Rural District

J. D. Wilson, former Collingsworth County Superintendent, has accepted the position as superintendent of the new Quail Rural High School district, according to announcements made today by the Quail school board.

Mr. Wilson is widely known over this county, having taught at Dodson and served eight years as county superintendent. He became superintendent January 1, 1927, and left in January of 1935. Since that time he has been studying law at Baylor University in Waco.

He was elected as superintendent of the Quail district last week and definitely accepted last Friday, while visiting here. He expects to continue his school work this summer and will return to this county before the school opens in September. He and his family will make their home in the Quail community.

Residents in the Quail area expressed their high approval of Mr. Wilson's acceptance of the post. During 1934, Mr. Wilson was instrumental in laying plans for the creation of the Samnorwood Rural High School district and is probably as well versed on the operation and possibilities of the new district as any educator in the state.

Band To Offer Park Concerts

Mr. Collins recently moved to Childress, but said that he would conduct the band here and would continue his junior band classes here during the summer months.

Inspector Makes Survey On Needs In Wellington

Similar Structures In Panhandle Offer Possibility Of Building

A. S. Page, postoffice inspector of Fort Worth, visited here this week for the purpose of making a survey in regard to Wellington's need for a federal post office building.

Mr. Page declined to express his opinion in regard to the local situation, stating that the policies of the government did not allow him to express opinions. However, he spent Monday collecting data and pictures of the Wellington area.

Many expressed hopes for a possibility of a federal building here, following his visit, although the visit indicated nothing more than a survey of the local situation.

A post office building has been completed in Memphis, while similar buildings are under construction in Childress, Shamrock and Dalhart.

In case the government should decide to construct a postoffice building here it would be built entirely from federal funds and without expense to the local area.

Wellington Boys Take Vinson Nine

In a game which went to 10 innings the Wellington second team trounced the Vinson nine by the closely contested count of 10 and 9.

Things looked bad for the Wellington boys at the beginning of the ninth, as they faced a 9 to 6 score, but John Holton stepped up to the plate and smashed out a double to center. Wellington rallied and Marshall Johnson got a single to end the period with a 9 to 9 tie score. Bailey took up the good work and pitched a shutout in the tenth holding the Vinson boys without a hit and fanning the first two batters who faced him.

In their half of the tenth the Wellington boys scored after Son Strong got on with an error and John Anders smashed a triple to bring in the winning run. The work did not overshadow the hitting of John Holton, however; he accounted for two doubles and two singles out of five times at bat.

Expenses Cut In April Court Term

The April term of district court closed last week after having disposed of 37 civil cases and 21 criminal cases. The docket now carries only 21 civil and 12 criminal cases.

Visitors From Larger Cities Visit Location To Inspect Proposed Well

By JOE CLAUNCH

With oil men from over the state showing much interest in the Marella test well, it was announced this week that the well is to be rushed to completion with the possibility of spudding it in at an early date. Men from Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Dallas have been out during the week to inspect the well.

The water well has been completed with casing and pipe already placed in the well, and the storage tank is being filled in order to afford plenty of water for drilling. Much still remains to be done on the well, however. The engine and boiler, along with stringing the cable.

Producers must sign their Bankhead allotment contracts at the county agent's office by Saturday, June 8, announcements said today. News from Washington early Wednesday morning instructed agents to close the campaign on the specified date.

Although the checks numbered 1,625 they only covered payment on 1,167 contracts. County Agent John O. Stovall today said that there

Penalty Goes On Back Taxes Soon

Delinquent taxes, if paid July 1, or later, will go back under the old law and carry a 10 percent penalty, with 6 percent interest from the date that they became delinquent, according to the announcement of Howard Riggs, deputy tax collector, today. The delinquent taxes may be paid during June with only a 5 percent penalty.

Mr. Riggs also stated that the last half of 1934 taxes, where the first half was paid in October and November, are due this month, and will become delinquent on July 1, with the above penalty.

Methodists Plan Layman Program

Laymen of the Methodist church will hold a special Layman's Day Service Sunday, June 9, according to announcements today. The program will begin at 11 o'clock and is an annual event in the church; it will replace the regular service here Sunday morning.

The following program has been planned: "The Christian Home," B. W. Boardman; "A Christian Industrial Order," G. L. Farrar; "A Sober Nation," W. F. Decker; "A Warless World," S. R. Pinkston.

The Layman's Day program was instituted for the purpose of presenting the people with a "practical application of Christ's teaching to the daily affairs of life," leaders said. The public has been invited to attend the services.

Bankhead Act To Operate This Year

Late news dispatches eliminated fears among local farmers that the supreme court's decision will not prevent the administration power of cotton producers.

Many farmers became alarmed as the fate of the AAA became a point of contention following the court's ruling against the NRA, and some officials said that they believed extension of the 12-cent loans might be affected by the ac-

To Retain Gains

The late reports stated that the administration, Sen. Bankhead said in a formal statement, "has abundantly manifested a desire to retain the gains that have been made by the cotton growers." He added:

"It was two methods of protecting them on this year's crop. One method is by a 12-cent loan and the other method is by going back to the farmers, if it later appears to be necessary to do so, and rent additional acreage planted to cotton and avoid the harvesting of the rented acreage.

Farmers Complying

"There is no sort of doubt about the farmers complying with any program of that sort which may be presented to them by the administration."

Bankhead held as "without foundation in law or fact the widespread suggestion that the legality of the agricultural adjustment act may prevent a cotton loan this year." Observing "a satisfactory price would seem evident even without a 12-cent loan," the senator indicated a new retirement of growing cotton would be resorted to only in event of a larger crop than now anticipated.

They'll Carry Explorers High and Low

The globular vehicle at left, above, built for a trip into upper skies; and that at right, for excursions into ocean depths. Nine feet in diameter, the gondola, taken aloft by a giant balloon, will carry two men into the stratosphere, ascending from South Dakota's Black Hills. Equipped with claws that are strong, yet delicate enough to grasp a wriggling fish, the deep sea diving sphere, believed able to descend a mile below sea level, will be used in ocean treasure hunts.

Mattress Making Schools More Than Pay Their Own Way, Says Specialist

COLLEGE STATION.—"From district schools in mattress making for home demonstration agents conducted by the extension specialist in home improvement, carried by the agents to demonstrators in the women's clubs, and by the demonstrators to the cooperators and others, information worth thousands of dollars to rural women has spread rapidly in the past few years," says Mrs. Bernice Claytor, Extension specialist in home improvement.

"In 1932, 1317 mattresses were made at home by rural women; in 1933, 1723 were made; and in 1934, 1553 were made. No exact figures are available for 1935, but reports from home demonstration agents show that there is wide interest in the idea," Mrs. Claytor added.

Incomplete figures show that 28 mattress making schools have been held in the State during January and February of this year, and training has been given to a large number of women. These figures do not include demonstrations of mattress making and mattress re-novating given to only one club or to one community, but take in only schools held for the benefit of several clubs or communities.

As part of a county-wide campaign to improve old mattresses, one mattress making school and three schools on the renovation of old mattresses were held in Montague county during January and February. One hundred twenty-one citizens of the county, five of whom were men, attended these schools. Committees will repeat communities where it is needed.

The first mattress making school in Hardeman county was held in November 1933 and since that time more than 350 mattresses have been made. Other mattresses are being made in the county at the present time.

IS THERE ANOTHER INTERPRETATION?

Although fed by the snows of Hermon and the waters of the Jordan, the Dead Sea holds nothing of life. All tributary streams find here, their grave. All that it got, it kept—it gave nothing. This may have analogous meaning. It were better to chisel your dream on the yielding stone than to be a Dead Sea.

Convict Shot In Prison Break Is Granted Pardon

HUNTSVILLE, Texas—Homer Parker, shot by other convicts as they made a break from Eastham prison farm May 10, was notified in a hospital here Saturday that Gov. James V. Allred had granted him a full pardon upon recommendation of Lee Simmons, general manager of the prison system.

Parker was convalescing from six wounds inflicted when he pushed Jack Paddy, leader of the break, away from a prison guard as Paddy stood over the man threatening to shoot him to death. Paddy later was slain by a guard searching for the escaped men.

Parker, 28-year-old Houston waiter, lacked a little more than five months of serving out a ten-year sentence for robbery by assault in Harris county.

ADMITS SETTING 20 FIRES

NEW YORK—Two detectives, watching firemen fighting an apartment blaze, were surprised when Francis McHugh, 20, walked up and said, "Take me in." He admitted setting twenty fires in five months, explaining that it gave him a "devilish sort of happiness."

War Due In Two Years Says Farmer After Hen Lays Torpedo-Shape Eggs

TEXARKANA.—Eggs shaped like torpedoes led Charles Settles 64, Bowie County farmer, to predict the World War two years before it happened. Wednesday similar eggs led him to forecast another war in two years.

Settles said the same hen did not lay the eggs in 1912 and 1935, although he owned both. The one in 1912 was a Brown Leghorn. Her 1934 sister-in-prophecy is a Buff Minorca.

"I have raised thousands of chickens," Settles said, "and these hens are the only two that laid eggs of these shapes. I don't claim supernatural powers for either the hens or myself, but history can repeat itself, why not a prediction?"

Poultrymen agreed the eggs are rare.

The Brown Leghorn in 1912 laid eight eggs shaped like torpedoes, and four shaped like artillery projectiles. The Buff Minorca has laid nothing but torpedo eggs. All the Minorca's eggs are about two inches long and an inch and a half in circumference. Both ends taper off like the ends of a torpedo. In addition, at one end of each egg is a knot or war head, like that of a torpedo. The 1912 torpedo eggs also had this knot, Settles said.

"Everybody laughed at me then when I said a war was coming," Settles recalled, "but two years later they were laughing on the other side of their faces."

"If another war doesn't break out in two years, then my hen doesn't know her business."

"No, I don't intend to kill her, because she may lay an egg whose shape would indicate the country that will start the next war."

Trees Are Used For Windbrake In Garden Work

PERRYTON.—Chinese elm, Russian mulberry, American elm, red cedar, flowering willow, and red bud are a few of the varieties of 350 trees and shrubs set out by Mrs. Curtis Roach of Ochiltree County as a windbreak for her garden, she reports to Miss Marie Ludwick, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Roach has tiled her garden, and to insure plenty of water a 1000 barrel tank is being installed.

Mrs. Roach has completed her meat canning and has eight varieties of meats, totaling 900 pounds. She is also planning a supply of poultry products for the family and is raising 1200 baby chicks.

"Overwork" Said To Be Excuse, Not An Ailment

AUSTIN.—"One of the most maligned words in the dictionary is overwork," said Dr. John W. Brown, State health officer. "It is employed as an excuse to avoid unattractive social engagements. It is used to impress others with one's particular importance. It is frequently mentioned as the reason for one's business failures. And it certainly is most unjustly blamed for many bodily ills."

"As a matter of fact overwork is not nearly the hobgoblin it is painted to be. Abstractly speaking, overwork is a very decent term, behaves itself on most occasions, and does little damage to the lives of most of us. And more likely than not, where lack of health is concerned, overwork has had little if anything to do with the situation."

"Actually, work of a normal amount, or even above average, is not prone to do one any real damage. On the other hand, certain practices associated with the work or with living are likely to be the real offenders. Those who, for example, are victims of impure air, illogical diets, auto-intoxication, worry, lack of exercise and insufficient sleep are usually the first to blame work for their sorry condition. And, no doubt, even an average amount of work can easily turn into a sense of overwork when one's capacity to do the job has been weakened by enervating habits.

"The best bulwark against ill effects from hard and sustained work is the conscientious adoption of a well-rounded and properly balanced health program. And by this suggestion is not meant a fanatical adherence to a long set of fancy rules, but only a reasonable sense of the primary duty every one owes to himself to get plenty of fresh air and some exercise, to eliminate the excessive use of stimulants, to obtain an average amount of sleep, to eat moderately; in short, to treat one's body with the respect that it demands."

Speeding down a street in Milwaukee in pursuit of a motorist, Officer Walter Kohlman was pitched from his motorcycle. Shaking off his daze, he looked up at a street sign. It read: "East Fall- ing Place."

Cattle Diplomacy Is Great Problem

Diplomatic relations being what they are, it is not a simple matter for one cattle rancher to chin over the rail fence with another cattle rancher in order to learn the latest tricks of the trade.

Argentina, closely rivaling Russia in cattle numbers, is deeply interested in Russia's recent experiments in bovine eugenics. The Russians have hit upon a scheme for artificial breeding whereby the strain of a single bull may be propagated through the agency of as many as two thousand cows.

The Argentines have heard of it and want to know more. But they have struck a diplomatic snag. The Argentine Republic has not recognized the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, thus can have no relations with them.

But the Argentine Embassy in Washington has found a way. It has induced an American to go to the Russian Embassy and find out all about it.

In court Miss Johnnie May Lee of Knoxville, Tenn., testified that she shot and killed Walter Montgomery because "she didn't like his looks."

When an irresistible force meets an immovable object—that is an old story. But if the New Deal is to be considered the irresistible force and the Constitution is labeled the immovable object, then the present verdict must be in favor of the immovable object. In short the Constitution still stands. The tremendous popularity of the President coupled with his objection to the recent ruling of the Supreme Court, which killed the NRA, has caused many people to look on the Constitution in a different way. And yet the Constitution of the United States has merits all its own. The rigidity, which has caused considerable friction in recent weeks, has been a blessing to the American people for over 15 decades. It takes only a glance at the conditions in Germany, Italy or Russia to illustrate that the old document still has virtue. It requires only a reading of the latest decision to show that it still has strength. It has protected the individual liberties of our people for over a century and a half. Present emergencies should be weighed very carefully before they are allowed to change our sentiment regarding a bulwark that has served so well over such a long period of time.

Recent dispatches concerning the uncertainty of the 12 cent cotton next fall have brought grave doubts to all people in cotton producing sections such as ours. While there is no way of knowing now, the probability is that some method will be worked out to hold the price somewhere around its present level. Next year will present a different problem. Agricultural regions, such as Collingsworth County, now realize quite well that some kind of a plan must be continued. The domestic allotment plan is most favored. It would provide the farmer with a subsidy on that part of his crop that is used in the United States. At the same time he would be allowed to grow all he wanted to, but he would receive the benefit of the "farmer's tariff" only on that part of his crop which was used at home. He would be prorated at the beginning of the season very similar to the acreage reduction program.

Friends of agriculture admit that such a course is necessary even after the Bankhead law goes out of effect, if the present tariff laws protecting manufacturers and similar industries are to remain as they are. With organized labor entrenched as strongly as it is, and the great industries as powerful as they are, it will probably many years before the industrial tariff can be changed. Until it is altered, the farmer must have a tariff of his own. At the present it is the 12 cent peg and the reduction program, and in the future it may be the allotment program. Such a set-up, however, does not recognize the fundamental need. That is to take the burden of an industrial tariff off the farmer in the form of the stuff he buys, and to allow him free trade with the world. To make these two things practical two other questions must be settled. The first is the adjustment of world currency, and the second is to allow debtor nations to pay the United States in products. They can't pay us in gold as long as we have it and they don't. These things are a long way off. They may never come to pass. Probably there is no great cause to worry about them now, but I do think that their merits are worth considering. If the cotton producing regions could have had free trade and no tariffs for the past seventy-five years, its population would be the richest per capita people on the face of the globe.

Well, well, well, here I have been sweating over certain simple questions of economics and trying to get my dull brain to condense them into a space short enough to provide interesting reading. I suppose that the result will be that it will bore those who do try to read it. In spite of this fact, I think we ought to spend a little time considering the economics of agriculture once in a while. From it every living soul in Collingsworth County makes their living. However, I am not too hopeful of the interest any reader will take in the above paragraphs.

Here is something that may provide a small amount of interest. Tuesday, right in the midst of a very busy morning, I got in a car with Doc Murray and drove out to G. K. Patterson's farm. Due to the fact that the hands at the office got a little peeved at me leaving and due to the nature of the event itself, I do not care to elaborate on the reasons as to why I went. But I will make this prediction: I firmly believe that there will be more horses in the region west of Wellington next year than there were last year. I lived on a farm until I was twenty-five years old, and in those years I raised chickens, hogs and cattle, but Tuesday morning I saw something that I had never seen before. I have been to New York, Washington, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, New Orleans and several other places, but I cannot recall a single morning in any of them that I would trade for the memory of the morning of June 4, 1935.

Syringe Is Their Cafeteria

A medicine dropper proved a synthetic mother to these two waifs—a sparrow and a monkey. The sparrow, which made its nest in a Seattle, Wash., schoolroom, to which it returns regularly after its outdoor flights, is shown being fed by a schoolboy. A syringe, and the patient care of an Atlantic City Zoo proprietor, saved the life of the baby monkey, when its mother fell ill.

Even if my brother-in-law does sell tractors, I think that raising horses and mules offers a money-making sideline to any energetic farmer. With prices as they are, it is a field that will add considerably to the average income of a number of farmers of this county. There is going to be a demand for good work stock for several years, and the man who is willing to put out a little effort can practically get his plowing done for nothing if he raises horses and mules. Furthermore, it takes considerable effort to raise enough cotton to pay for four or eight head of real good mules when they are selling for $200 each.

Right at this time, I am not worrying very much about Dan Bevers winding up in the poor house when he gets old. Dan is operating a popcorn stand, and he is doing it in a manner that might profitably be imitated by older men. He has an aggressive policy, but he has something more. Tuesday morning he wanted to sell me a sack of corn. I did not want it, but his salesmanship was such that I bought one in advance. I told him I would send my daughter around and get the popcorn. I forgot all about it, but that afternoon Dan stopped me and asked me why Diane hadn't been around to get her popcorn. Right there you see displayed two of the fundamental principles of any business. The first was an aggressive selling method. The second was to see that his customer was properly cared for and satisfied. Some men operate business institutions for years without learning these two fundamentals, which Dan knows by instinct.

I wish someone would tell me why Lyman Robbins, publisher of The Memphis Democrat, used such small heads and poor position to tell his readers about the Mollie Low wheel when it looked like an oil well, and then used such good heads and position to tell them about the oil hopes being smashed at Childress, when salt water was discovered.

Relief Burden In Texas Now Shows Decline

Lower Case Loads And Lower Costs Shown Over Entire State

AUSTIN—The trend of relief in Texas during March was toward a lower case load and lower costs, according to a preliminary report embracing figures from eight metropolitan counties of the state.

Bexar, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Harris, Jefferson, Tarrant and Travis counties reported a combined decrease of 2,353 cases as compared to the February total. Cost of relief in these counties dropped from 1,036,563.44 in February to $869,695.98 in March, a decrease of $166,957.46. This sharp decrease was the result of reduced allotments for relief from all counties.

This reduction was reflected in these counties in the average amount of relief extended to cases. In March, the average case received $12.54; in February $24.46.

Bexar's relief load was reduced by 1,617 cases, but its total of 16,657 continued to be the highest in the state. Harris reported 14,991, a reduction of 276; and Tarrant had 13,059, a drop of 332. Dallas had 10,620 cases, El Paso 5,456; Galveston 2,224; Jefferson 3,736; Travis 2,600.

On the basis of these reports, the state caseload was expected to be reduced by 8,942, and cost of resident relief by $632,311.37.

Students Plan To Excavate Pueblo

LUBBOCK, Texas—Arrowhead Ruin, 150-room pueblo dating back to 1350 A. D., will be excavated by Texas Technological College's fifth annual archaeological field expedition this summer from July 19 to August 27.

Twenty-three rooms and a D-shaped kiva, the only one of its kind yet unearthed, have already been excavated there by a Tech expedition two years ago. Arrowhead Ruin, which is situated at Arrowhead Tourist camp, two miles east of Glorietta Pass and 22 miles east of Santa Fe, has an elevation of 7,500 feet and is on top of a pine-covered hill.

The course consists of lectures, reading, excavation and restoration. Each Wednesday afternoon will be passed at the laboratory on anthropology in Santa Fe, where Dr. Kenneth Chapman, authority on Indian design, Dr. H. P. Mera, pot shard expert, and other members of the staff will lecture to the class.

On week ends, trips will be made to the surrounding Indian pueblos and prehistoric ruins. Students will attend the famous dance at San Juan, August 4.

The last week of the term will be passed making tours of existing pueblos and prehistoric ruins, Pueblo Bonita, and Chetro Ketl, at Chaco canyon, 40 miles from the Arizona border. The class probably will go to Mesa Verde, Colorado also.

Dr. W. C. Holden, professor of history and anthropology and director of archaeological research at Texas Tech is director of the expedition. The initial fee for the field expedition is $50 and six hours college credit is given for the course. Each student will provide his own bed roll and cot. Reservations should be made as soon as possible with Doctor Holden.

Alaskan Pilgrims Immediately Alter Name Of New Home

PALMER, Alaska—To Alaskan railways and to the postal authorities, this place is Palmer, but so far as a group of Minnesota colonists here are concerned, it is Valley City. Theodore Giblin, Ores Powel and Ray Wilkes have made a huge sign, fastened to a side of the press tent, reading, "Welcome to Valley City."

No one knows whether railway and postal officials will follow suit when additional Midwest colonists families destined for Palmer arrive in Seward aboard the army transport, St. Mihiel.

Men and family belongings will be brought up first, according to Don L. Irwin, general manager of the colonization, and the drawings for farms to be occupied by colonists will be held at once. Women and children will be held on the St. Mihiel to come up several days later.

Chevrolet Now On Big Scale Of Production

Next Ninety Days Expected To Feature Peak Schedules In Plants

Production of Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks will continue at peak schedule throughout June, and probably considerably longer, W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, announced this week, following his return from a coast to coast trip through the territory, where he discussed with dealers and the wholesale organization in the field, the outlook for the next 90 days.

June output projections, Mr. Holler said, are higher than in June of last year, and full capacity of the manufacturing units and the company's 10 assembling plants will be required to carry out the program. This assures a wide spread of employment at a period when production normally begins to taper off. He added that it is the company's hope to maintain sales at such a level as to repeat the unprecedented achievement of last year, when Chevrolet sales in the second six months eclipsed those in the first.

"Several factors noted in the field justify optimistic predictions," said Mr. Holler. "In the first place, Chevrolet dealers have on hand a large bank of orders, which the plants are now working hard to fill. Deliveries are coming through much more promptly and this fact is naturally having a favorable effect on the number of orders received."

"More than a dozen executives from Detroit are now out in the territory addressing Chevrolet wholesale and retail personnel in all parts of the country. They are in constant touch with us, and the reports they have relayed in all point to continuation of business at or near its present peak."

"In the final analysis, the improvement can be traced clear back to the farm, which of course is fundamental in any picture of national prosperity. Farm income in most sections of the United States has shown a substantial gain over 1933 and 1934. The outlook for business from farmers would be good even without the addition of the government benefit moneys, which have been pouring into rural sections."

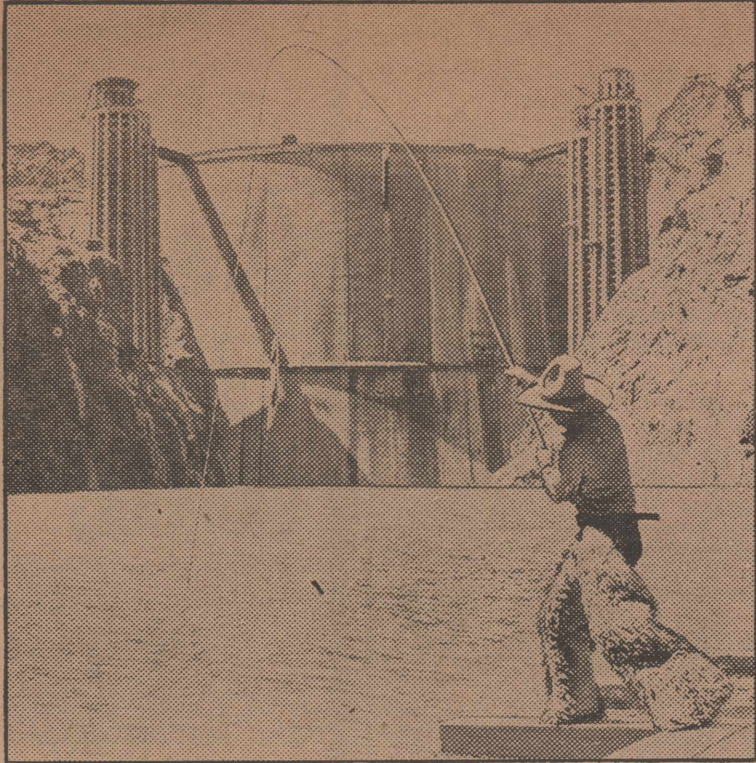

"For the first time in several years, the farmer is in a position to rehabilitate himself. Federal aid is helping him to improve his home and his buildings. Higher prices for his produce—with hardly a single item excepted—are leaving him something over and above his actual living requirements, for investment in the commodities he needs. And the supplemental income derived from government sources is enabling him to include such major items as farm implements, cars and trucks, in the list of urgently needed articles he can now afford to buy."

In a vain attempt to work a jigsaw puzzle, Henry Palmer of Flint, Mich., sat up until 5 o'clock in the morning, then went to his bedroom and killed himself.

Evicting Fish From New Home

The fish in Boulder Lake must think man a queer creature. First he creates a new home for them by damming the Colorado river, and then he pulls them from it via line and hook. But this cowboy discipline of Isaak Walton is too busy going after the finny ones to reflect how ridiculous it all is, and to think that where he is fishing was, a few weeks back, just a dry river bed.

Children Go Hungry All Winter As Dad Hoards $6,000.00 Treasure

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—With $6,000 in his possession, Willis Bridges, tenant farmer of near Stockton, has just completed the most nerve-racking winter he ever spent.

Bridges last autumn unearthed an old fruit jar on the place he tenanted. The jar contained about $6,000 in bills, ranging from $10 to $100 in denomination, the newest dated 1922.

All winter Bridges kept the money hidden, fearing to tell anyone about it, not daring to try to spend it, until last week. Then he offered a Stockton merchant a $10 bill in exchange for merchandise. The bill was so old and so unusual in appearance that the merchant, as well as a banker to whom he showed it, took it to be counterfeit.

It was then that Bridges went to Probate Judge Boyd Spencer, who owns the farm on which Bridges lives, and told him all about it. They went to Springfield Tuesday, consulted a lawyer and decided to divide the money equally.

Bridges, 41, dressed in overalls and jumper, still was heaving sighs of relief and joy Tuesday night—relief that it was off his chest at last, that he had not done anything illegal in keeping back the gold currency and joy that he has enough money to buy a little place of his own.

Bridges has seven children and was on relief during the winter.

"When you have seven kids crying for something to eat, and know that you got a wad of bills big enough to choke a cow, then you got some idea of what I been through this winter," he sighed.

Where the money came from is a mystery. The farm adjoining the place is the Groves farm. John Groves, who died some years ago, was a wealthy Cedar Countian, and eccentric, especially in money matters.

Poultry Business Showing Decline

AUSTIN, Texas—Poultry and egg movements from Texas to interstate points by rail during April were sharply below those of a year ago, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Forwarding of poultry and eggs combined totaled 113 cars of which 72 cars were poultry and 41 cars eggs. During April last year there was a total of 162 cars made up of 80 cars of poultry and 82 cars of eggs. The decline from last year was 31 percent. The decline in rail shipments is in part due to increased shipments by water to Atlantic and Gulf ports. It is also probable that truck shipments have made further inroads into this traffic, especially to New Orleans. Receipts of eggs from outside the State were only 20 cars, all of which came from Kansas. Last year 67 cars were shipped in, 63 from Kansas, 3 from Illinois and 1 from Wisconsin.

Shriners May Hear Convention News On Radio

General Motors Will Sponsor Broadcast From Washington Next Week

News of the world's most colorful convention, The Annual Conclave of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will be carried to the crowd of 200,000 people in Washington next week over the world's most modern public address and amplification system. This amplification system, furnished to the Shriners through the courtesy of General Motors, will be divided into thirteen segments so that any one or all of the segments may be pressed into use at the same time.

In addition to keeping up a continuous running comment on general events, the amplification system will be used to broadcast the divine services on the morning of Sunday, June 9, the Shrine Regatta on the Potomac that afternoon, using a "micro" on the Coast Guard Cutter "Apache," the open ceremonial meeting on Tuesday through means of a wire into the National Theatre, and the Ceremonial Banquet Tuesday night through a microphone from the Willard hotel.

There are three great parades scheduled. The escort parade of the uniformed bodies will be held on Tuesday morning, June 11, the night parade of the uniformed bodies, always a fantastic and colorful event, on Wednesday night, June 12, and the Monster Night Pageant, staged on the largest portable stages ever assembled and which will be viewed by President Roosevelt from his seat in the "Pavilion of Omar," built in front of the White House. All these events will be described over the amplification system.

In addition to furnishing the amplification system, General Motors has generously furnished 350 new cars, including Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobiles, Buicks, LaSalle and Cadillac, for the use of the officials and representatives and their ladies, and these will have a conspicuous part in the parades.

According to Director General Robert P. Smith, it promises to be the greatest convention ever held in the Capitol City.

Minister Sanders Moves Back Here

Minister Ira Lee Sanders of the Church of Christ has moved his family back to their home in Wellington and will now make this point his home. The family includes Minister Sanders, his wife and four-year-old son, Amos Lee Sanders.

Minister and Mrs. Sanders left here about nine years ago and since that time have lived in West Texas, coming here from Farwell. He was minister in the local Church of Christ for five years and was instrumental in the construction of the present church building. He built his home here at that time.

He says that he expects to engage in evangelistic work, but that his family will reside here and Wellington will be their future home.

Winner's Gown

A gown of this type designed by a famous designer will be created to suit the personality of the winner in the Beach Fashions Parade and Bathing Beauty Pageant. Duckworth Has New Display Case For Meats

The Duckworth Food Stores this week installed a modern refrigeration case in their meat department.

R. J. Duckworth, manager, stated that the new case was of the most recent make and featured a floating air system. Mechanical refrigeration furnishes the cold air, and in the bottom of the case is a series of fans which catch the air and circulate it through the box. Small ventilators are employed to allow the used air to escape; fresh air enters the case each time the doors are opened.

Mr. Duckworth invited the public to visit his store and see the new box, which he says will result in better service to his customers.

Bailey Stocks Up On Summer Goods

Arthur Bailey returned from Dallas Tuesday where he has been buying a varied assortment of high class ready-to-wear for summer use. Recent purchases include new styles in dresses, hats, shoe, hosiery and millinery. Mr. Bailey says that he thinks that it is highly important that the dry goods merchants of Wellington start now on a program of service that will provide the people of Collingsworth County with what they need. In his opinion, too, much business in this classification has been allowed to drift to other towns. "There was a time when it came from those towns to Wellington, and it can be done again," he says, "and I am starting now to get my part of that trade back."

Couch Elected Club Official

At a staff meeting of insurance company agents a "Good Fellowship Club" was organized. W. M. Cook of Clarendon was named president; Orval Couch, secretary-treasurer. The club includes salesmen from Collingsworth, Hall, Donley and Wheeler Counties.

Plymouth Closes Successful year

Seventh grade graduation exercises Wednesday night at the Samnorwood High School auditorium will close a successful year for the Plymouth school, according to the announcement of Leroy Daniels, principal, today.

The six graduates will be Norman Dale DeBord, Jeanette Montgomery, Eldeen Jeffers, Lora Hill, Preston Glazner and Maymie Lorraine.

In addition to Mr. McDaniels, Miss Katherine McMinn is also teaching at the Plymouth school. The teachers expressed their appreciation to the patrons of the Plymouth school, teachers and trustees of the district for their co-operation during the year.

Much significant work has been done by the Plymouth school including achievement tests which have shown a higher average at Plymouth than over the nation. The tests are sponsored by the National Educational Association in a series of 10 tests, including paragraph meaning, word meaning, literature, English, geography, civics, history, health, arithmetic computation and arithmetic composition.

Fruit trees are also reported to have been only slightly damaged during the rains and hail storms. Some gardens were said to be extensively damaged, but many escaped and scores of persons are now enjoying fresh vegetables from their own gardens.

All new teachers for both the grade and high school division will be required to have degrees. This is one of the many requirements which Mr. Wilson plans to follow in an effort to rank the new district with Texas' best schools next year.

are 1,800 rental contracts in the county. No definite date has been set for the arrival of the remaining checks, but they are expected as soon as technicalities have been straightened.

The rental payments will this year be made in two separate divisions. Persons who received their first checks will receive another check for a similar amount as soon as their certificates of compliance have been issued — and the certificates will be issued following inspection to prove that they are meeting with the requirements of their reduction-rental contracts. The compliance check is scheduled to begin in July.

Parity payments will this year be made in a lump sum and are not expected to be made until fall.

Artist To Be Kiwanis Club Guest Friday

Francois de Brouillette, poet-painter, will be guest speaker before the Wellington Kiwanis Club at the regular meeting Friday, according to the announcement of John Bonner, president, today.

Mr. de Brouillette will speak on "The Mud of Mexico," and will discuss the legends, superstitions and background of the last tribe of the Aztecs, the Tonal Indians.

His book, "The Peon's Prayer," which recently went into its fourth edition, was written about the Aztec country and this section of the southwest.

The public has been invited to

Samnorwood Commencement To Be Held Friday

Gassers Lose To Memphis In Double-Header

County Team Will Meet Paducah On Wellington Diamond Sunday

Games Are Close

Memphis Nine Victorious In Both Games By One Point Margin

The Collingsworth Gassers lost a double-header at Memphis Sunday, when the Hall County players rallied during the last inning of both games. The Gassers dropped the first game 7 to 8, and the last 4 to 5.

Dick Morgan, Jack Knight and Raymond did the mound work in good style, and the bats of McLearn, Wilson, Neeley, Brisbin and Morris drove the ball time and again to account for the Gassers' tallies.

Due to injuries received in Sunday's game, Jack Knight, veteran pitcher, will probably be on the lineup for the rest of the season. Knight's injury resulted when he fell on his left wrist in an attempt to cover first base while McLearn went out after a hot grounder.

The games had everything—good plays, six pitchers, hard hitting, and funny errors. It was a day of completeness for the fans, who stayed until the last ball was pitched.

McLearn led the day at bat, totaling two home runs, a triple, and a two-bagger. Nig Wilson also slammed out a home run. The bats of Neeley, Brisbin and Morris accounted for several two-baggers.

Sunday, June 9, the Gassers will meet the strong Paducah team. Paducah now stands at the head of the league division and the Gassers expect to put everything

Abra Terminates Successful Year

The 1934-35 terms have been very successful and profitable for the Abra School, now operating under the Samnorwood Rural High School district featuring unusual cooperation throughout the term, according to announcements today.

Instructors report that the students have shown great interest in their work, and have entered in many extra-curricular activities. In addition to other accomplishments, the school had added a music class and served hot lunches for the students during the winter months.

Instructors of the school, upon the event of its closing, expressed their appreciation to Supt. E. G. Sanders, Mrs. Robinson, L. O. Cummings, county superintendent, and the entire Samnorwood faculty for their support and cooperation throughout the school year.

Superintendent Thanks Students For Willingness And Cooperation

By E. G. SANDERS
Superintendent

As the first year in the history of the Samnorwood Rural High School draws to a close, I want to thank the parents, pupils and teachers for the part each has played in making this year a successful one for the Samnorwood Schools.

In any community, the character of its people is reflected in its schools. If its teachers are wide awake and enthusiastic it is a safe bet that they are getting the cooperation of the parents and children, that there is a live Parent-Teacher Association in the community and that the school board is composed of understanding men who know that a word of encouragement to a tired teacher is worth more to the school, and the teacher, than one of criticism. Nearly every teacher in this district has, at one time or another, expressed himself as being more enthusiastic about his work this year than during any other year in his entire teaching career. This, I think, has been due in a large measure to the fine spirit of cooperation on the part of all concerned throughout the year, which made the teachers feel that they were being appreciated and inspired them to their best efforts.

One fine quality of the high school students, here, which I have noted throughout the year, and appreciated, is their willingness to respond to the wishes of their teachers without having to be forced to do so. Another characteristic

Relief Monies To Be Reduced

AUSTIN, Texas.—Radically reduced allotments for the relief population of Texas are in prospect for the month of June, has been announced by Adam R. Johnson, according to John C. Harper, local administrator.

Federal authorities notified Mr. Johnson that the state will receive $2,500,000 for general relief, although application was made for more than $4,000,000. Budgets, therefore, were made up on the basis of a caseload of 210,000. Although the caseload has dropped steadily since January 1, Washington officials have repeatedly expressed dissatisfaction with the number of families on relief in Texas.

"Accordingly, our per case grants will be reduced from $17.00 in May to about $9.00 in June," Johnson said, "and our total relief disbursement from $5,612,000

Loss Slight As Thieves Enter School Office

Losses were reported slight when thieves robbed the Samnorwood High School office Thursday night, May 16. Nothing was said to have been damaged other than an office door, which was forced open.

An overcoat belonging to Mr. Taylor, about four dollars in money, some checks, a small loving cup won by the Aberdeen boys basketball team, several fountain pens, and a large number of tickets for the senior play were taken.

No clues have been found which might lead to the recovery of the articles, school officials reported.

Change Made In League Rules For 1935 Season

Eighteen-Year-Old Age Limit Placed In All Contests In Division

AUSTIN.—A significant change has been made in the rules of the Interscholastic League, following the recommendation of the State meeting of delegates. The State executive committee has adopted the 18-year old age-rule to become effective September 1, 1936, in all contests, athletic, literary, artistic and commercial. This rule will render obsolete several rules which have cluttered up the rule-book for several years, it was pointed out by Roy Bedichek, chief of the Bureau of Public School Interests at The University of Texas.

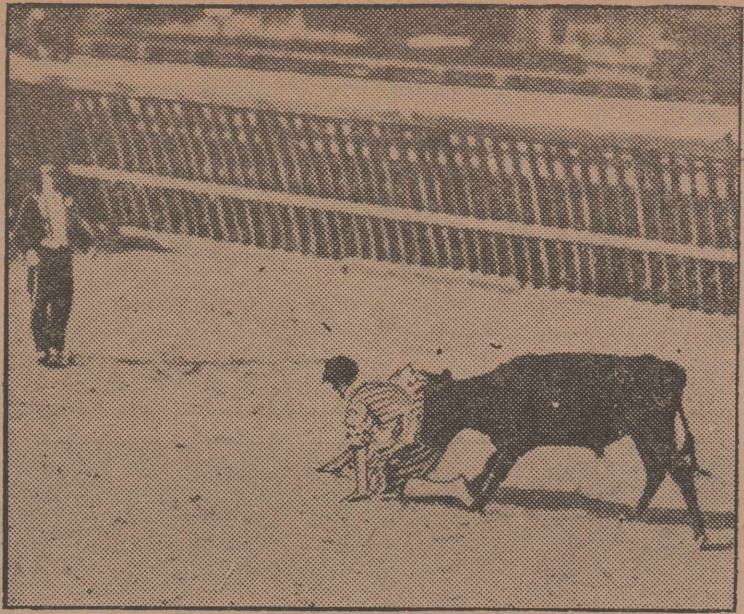

"It will do more than any other half dozen rules to guarantee to bona fide high school students the privilege of engaging in the League's program of educational competition," Mr. Bedichek said. "It definitely places the Texas organization far in the lead of other organizations of similar kind in other states. With the exception of New York, where a 19-year old rule is in effect, all other states permit participation until 20 or 21, irrespective of the fact that the average age of graduation is around 17 years."

On recommendation of the recent State meeting of delegates, the executive committee directed the appointment of a committee to work out a statewide conference of student self-government organizations under the sponsorship of the League, a proposal which has been under consideration for several years. Another action of the State meeting, recommending an addition of one individual to girls' tennis doubles teams and one alternate to girls' singles entries, was adopted. The recommendation made by the State meeting of delegates to include junior tennis in county meets, was adopted by the executive committee, effective for the 1935-36 school year. Junior declaimers were advanced to regional competition by action of the State committee, also made effective for the next school year.

Hemphill county tried out lath subirrigated gardens a few years ago finding them satisfactory but not very durable. Last year County Agricultural Agent, H. M. Cantrell supervised the installation of tiled relief gardens which proved very successful. This year 16,000 feet of concrete tile have already been made and laid in the county.

Though the weapons used in this mock affair were rubber swords and paper stickers, the sponsors failed to win permission from the city humane department to stage a similar exhibition in the city's auditorium.

Home Of Stephen F. Austin's Sister One Of State's Historic Plantations

AUSTIN.—Of all the plantations in Texas, surely none is of more sentimental interest to patriotic Texans than that of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Perry at Peach Point, for Mrs. Perry was the sister of Stephen F. Austin and it was this plantation that he considered "home" in Texas. Several documents concerning this plantation are in the family archives collection of the University of Texas library, and are revealing in their sidelights on plantation management.

In his reminiscences of "The Old Plantations and Their Owners of Brazoria County, Texas," Abner J. Strobel, published in 1926, describes Peach Point Plantation as follows:

"It was the home of Mrs. James F. Perry, the sister of Stephen F. Austin, and his home if he properly ever had a home in Texas. It can truly be said his home was wherever he hung his hat, for his duties were always a public nature. The son of Mr. Perry, S. S. Perry, inherited this plantation. It was a cotton and sugar plantation. It was well improved—had its residence, office in the yard, also residence for the overseer. I have made many visits to the plantation in my boyhood days—days that in life's afternoon I recall with pleasure. And as life's twilight shadows lengthen across my pathway, it is a pleasure to recall the many pleasant days I spent beneath its beautiful roof. Well do I remember when the day was spent and we were about to retire for the night. All would enter the parlor or sitting room, there to render thanks to Almighty God for his blessings through the day. A chapter would be read in the Bible, and then a prayer would be rendered. Morn, noon and night grace would be said, such was the daily routine at Peach Point. I mention this to show the Christian character of the people who resided in the colony, for the same can be said for the majority of the homes of those who came from the older states to reside and build up a civilization in the wilderness of Texas. A few of the descendants of this family reside at Freeport and Angleton. Others are scattered elsewhere. The plantation is practically a ruin."

In the University library is the following letter written by James F. Perry from Peach Point, "near Quintana, Texas, 55 January 7, 1839, to his friend, Greal McGraady, Jr., in Potosi, Missouri:

"I owe you an apology for not writing to you long since but my business has called me much from home for the last 12 months and I have neglected writing to many of my friends which I ought to have done, your kind letter by M. Jones was read. I was quit unwell at the time having been at Houston took a very bad cold but I am now nearly restored to my normal health. Our family have all enjoyed uninterrupted good health the last year. Mrs. Perry's health is quite restored. We have made fair crop, this season and are generally in good spirits. With regard to the claim on Big River we have concluded to let it lie a while longer as it don't amount to much anyhow.

"Now Sir for my advice respecting your removing to Texas. I have no doubt my dear Sir but what you would be pleased with Texas if you could only see it once. There is no doubt that it is a fine country and that a young man might advance his interest in with no moderate portion of industry, good management and economy there is no finer cotton country I presume anywhere. The lands near the coast is well calculated for sugar or cotton rather but I rather think sugar would be best. We raise all kind of provisions in abundance corn potatoes both sweet & Irish. Pumpkins vines of all description grow luxuriantly, feed grows enuf well all kinds of garden vegetables grow in abundance.

Peaches figs plums & quinces produce in abundance hogs & cattle does well and horses in the up country. A planter here with eight or ten hands after he gets his place once improved can live very comfortable and in abundance but Sir with all these advantages there are many difficulties for an emigrant to surmount in a new country everythings is very high labor of every description is high particular mechanics are hard to get even at high prices to work. A person to move here unless he had large means must expect to have to undergo some hardships and privations for the first few years this I know from actual experience but still young persons who are disposed undertake it will be some day well compensated for all there is also opportunity for men of business to advance themselves here in all new country men of integrity and business is smart and with industry they can always get along well. The Story of COTTON

This is the first of a series of informational articles that we intend to publish in this space each week. They will deal with the history of the development of the cotton industry in general and of the impetus the cotton gin has given that development. By so doing we hope to set forth facts regarding cotton that will be of interest to the public and of benefit to the producers.

King Cotton—the factor which has completely revolutionized Collingsworth county during the past 34 years—is a familiar term. Cotton has been defined as the ruler over thousands of square miles and millions of subjects; on the other hand, it may be defined as the daily servant of 99 percent of the entire population of the world. Contradictory as it may sound, both definitions are strictly true.

Cotton has been grown by man for many years, but the early raisers did not dream of its present importance. Before the advent of the cotton gin and the spinning mill man could not imagine a single product of the soil that could furnish the race with most of its clothing and bedding and some of its shelter and house decorations; that could cause ships to plow the seven seas and wheels to turn in countless factories; that could supply hospitals with bandages and other materials of relief; that, on the other hand, could bring death and destruction in war by taking the form of explosives, and yet, in the same transformation, could work mines, cut roadways, and prepare the soil for agriculture; then as though these achievements were not sufficient, could provide the motion picture film whereon is recorded the doings of the world, could give us innumerable articles made from celluloid; could furnish markets for car tires, wheels, bodies, tops and seats and could furnish markers for the roads; could fly the air in airplane wings; could cover furniture and bind books as artificial leather, could help extinguish fires in the form of fire hose; could be used for waterproofing tunnels; could be spun into the appearance of silk under the name of rayon—yet all these things and many more are accomplished by cotton through a great variety of ingenious processes, using the fibre alone.

This county, in which cotton is the largest cash crop, is vitally interested in each market provided for its most important crop. But the fibre cannot be used for this long list of human services until it is separated from the clinging seed. This process is known as ginning, and upon the efficiency of the ginning depends part of the value to the grower of this very important crop. For this reason, we trust and believe, that the dissemination of the information that is to follow in other weeks in this space will be beneficial to the cotton farmer as well as to the community as a whole.

Relatives Clamor To Prove Kin To Richest Indian

Two Hundred Relatives
Seek To Gain Oil Millions Of Estate

MUSKOGEE, Ok.—The oil fortune disdained in life by Jackson Barnett, the world's richest Indian, will be a bone of contention among more than 200 litigants during their first big inning in Federal Court this week on the first anniversary of his death. When Barnett died in California last year, a hasty examination of tribal records indicated he had no living relatives.

Now more than 200 claimants from half a dozen States, and from Canada and Mexico, will seek to establish claims to his oil riches through relationship.

In only one respect is the scene changed from that of a year ago. Still an outstanding claimant, disdained of her opponents, Anna Laura Lowe Barnett, white widow of the aged Creek, still is the dominant figure in the drama of the Barnett oil riches, valued at $2,000,000, just as she was in the last nineteen years of his life.

Federal Judge Robert L. Williams will rule at the proceedings to discover Barnett's heirs. Present as interveners will be District Attorney C. A. Summers and his civil law assistant, Charles W. Miller, who was United States Attorney when Barnett came into his money.

More than fifty attorneys, representing potential heirs to the Barnett riches, have been notified to appear in court. Included is the attorney of Mrs. Barnett.

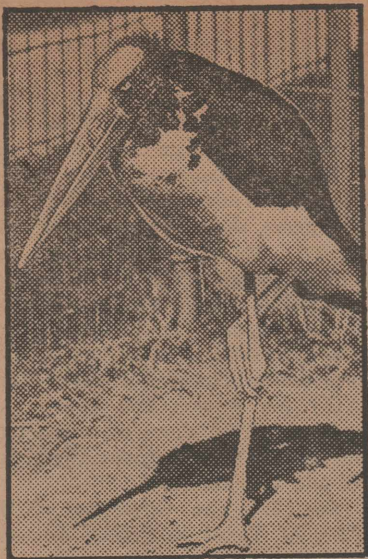

The aged Creek lived for seventy years in his shack near Henryetta with his dogs and ponies and until he became wealthy, was allowed to eke out an existence as best he could.

Then came the discovery of oil on his land in the Cushing field and Barnett became what Federal Judge John C. Knox of New York City termed a shuttlecock in a game of battledore in which the stakes were high.

Relief Officers Aid In Flood And Storm Districts

AUSTIN.—Officials of the Texas Relief Commission this week moved to meet an emergency created by current flood and storm conditions in six of the eleven administrative districts of the state.

E. A. Baugh, assistant director of the Commission, said numerous calls for additional funds have been received from widely scattered sections of the state. He instructed administrators in these counties to have caseworkers investigate all applications for aid by reason of destruction from storm or flood.

Each county was requested to report at once any increase in caseload caused by the emergency condition. On the basis of these reports showing increased additional funds will be made available above the present allotments to these counties for this month.

"In no case," said Mr. Baugh, "will suffering or hunger be permitted. To prevent such an occurrence, available funds in the counties may be used. Administrators must bear in mind, however, that existing regulations determining eligibility to relief must be applied in all cases."

Poachers Fish For Wild Geese

AMHERST, N. S.—Fishing for wild geese is the latest trick devised by poachers here to outwit game wardens. Police investigations have revealed that the poachers lay out long lines with fish hooks, baited with corn, attached at intervals. The geese in picking up the corn, swallow the hooks, too. All the poachers have to do is to kill them and take them home.

proposing an amendment to Article XVI of the Constitution of Texas by striking out Section 20a to Section 20e, both inclusive; prohibiting the open saloon and vesting in the Legislature the power to define and enact laws against such; vesting in the Legislature the power to regulate the manufacture, sale, transportation and possession of intoxicating liquors, including the power to provide for a State Monopoly on the sale of distilled liquors; providing that intoxicating liquors shall not be manufactured, sold, bartered or exchanged in any county, justice's precinct or incorporated city or town wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local option election held under the laws in force at the date of the taking effect of Section 20, Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas, until a majority of the qualified voters of such county or political subdivision shall determine such to be lawful at an election held for that purpose; providing that such shall not prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages containing less than 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight in cities, counties or political subdivisions in which the qualified voters have voted to legalize such sale under the provisions of Chapter 116, Acts of the Regular Session of the 43rd Legislature; providing for an election on the question of the adoption or rejection of such Amendment; prescribing the form of ballot; providing for the proclamation and publication of such by the Governor and making an appropriation therefor.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article XVI of the Constitution of Texas be amended by striking out Section 20a to Section 20e, both inclusive, and substitute in lieu thereof the following:

"ARTICLE XVI. Section 20. (a) The open saloon shall be and is hereby prohibited. The Legislature shall have the power, and it shall be its duty to define the term 'open saloon' and enact laws against such.

Subject to the foregoing, the Legislature shall have the power to regulate the manufacture, sale, possession and transportation of intoxicating liquors, including the power to establish a State Monopoly on the sale of distilled liquors.

"(b) The Legislature shall enact a law or laws whereby the qualified voters of any county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, may, by a majority vote of those voting, determine from time to time whether the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes shall be prohibited or legalized within the prescribed limits; and such laws shall contain provisions for voting on the sale of intoxicating liquors of various types and various alcoholic content.

"(c) In all counties, justice's precincts or incorporated towns or cities wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local option election, under the laws of the State of Texas, and in force at the time of the taking effect of Section 20, Article XVI of the Constitution of Texas, it shall continue to be unlawful to manufacture, sell, barter or exchange in any such county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication or any other intoxicants whatsoever, for beverage purposes, unless and until a majority of the qualified voters in such county or political subdivision thereof voting in an election held for such purpose shall determine such to be lawful; provided that this subsection shall not prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages containing not more than 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight in cities, counties or political subdivisions thereof in which the qualified voters have voted to legalize such sale under the provisions of Chapter 116, Acts of the Regular Session of the 43rd Legislature; prohibiting the open saloon and providing for local option."

And those voters opposed to said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"AGAINST the Amendment to the State Constitution repealing Statewide prohibition, prohibiting the open saloon and providing for local option."

If it appears from the returns of said election that a majority of the votes cast are in favor of said Amendment, the same shall become a part of the State Constitution.

Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for such election, and shall have the same published and such election held as provided by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Sec. 4. The sum of Eight Thousand ($8,000.00) Dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the State Treasury to pay for the expenses of said publication and election.

The above is a true and correct copy.

Seventh Grade Enjoys Outing Near Plymouth

Games And Wiener Roast Are Features As Term Ends

The seventh grade of Plymouth entertained the seventh grade of the Samnorwood District with a picnic and wiener roast a few weeks ago. The whole affair was planned by the students of the Plymouth School. Invitations were mailed to the respective schools to meet at sunset. They met at the Plymouth School and from there journeyed to the picnic grounds on Mrs. Montgomery's place. The boys and girls enjoyed such games as "Flying Dutchman," "Dare Base," "Wolf-over River," "Little White House Over the Hill," and "Needle Eye" for about two hours. A big bon-fire was built and wieners were roasted. After the wieners were all gone the marshmallows were passed around.

Those who took part in the enjoyable evening were as follows: Abra: Dennis Ray, G. C. Tate, Freeman Tate, and their teacher, Melvin Laycock. From Dozier: Dana Faye Coleman, Travis Tension, Vernon Kirkland, Margaret Lowe, Harold Rapp, Orveta Shields, and their teacher, Ben Baldwin. From Lutie: Hays Wood, Opal Bird, John Rainey, Lee Wilder, J. E. Throckmorton, Clifton Brown, Glen Brown, Frank Gully, J. L. Jolly, and teacher and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ledger. From Prairie View: Thelma Winters, Francis Roan, Erma Jean Clement, Thelma Coon, Melvin Sparks, W. E. Marchant, Elmo Fritts, and their teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Powell. Supt. E. G. Sanders and daughter, Betty Jean, Mrs. Dollie Robinson were guests of the occasion. The hosts were Norman Dale DeBord, Jeanette Montgomery, Eldeen Jeffers, Lora Hill, Preston Ghazner, Mammie Lowrance, and their teachers, Leroy McDaniels, Katherine McMinn, and Mrs. Leroy McDaniels.

teristic which has been just as helpful in their tendency to forget those little unpleasantnesses that are sure to happen in the best of schools. Nothing is more encouraging to a teacher than to have a student, who has been pretty sternly disciplined, come in the following morning with a contagious smile tacitly admitting that, although he may not have been entirely at fault, he is willing to submit to those in authority for the good of all concerned. It has been this same attitude on the part of the American people that has brought this country through many a crisis in the past and will carry them safely through the present one.

It was thought by most of us that when our high school was finally accredited with the State Department of Education the rest would be comparatively easy. However, such is not proving to be the case. With a reduction in the number of our teachers for another year and with a shrinkage in the taxable valuations of the district and all the attendant complications, there are many grave difficulties to overcome in the progress of the Samnorwood school system toward its final goal. If the same high purpose is displayed by the people in the future, however, as has been in the past, these difficulties will be overcome.

WHEN LIVES ARE AT STAKE

You need the same fire protection that race drivers demand

KELLY PETILLO, ON MAY 30, WON the 500-mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Tires, breaking the track record and driving the entire distance at a rate of 106.240 miles per hour.

This record is an astounding demonstration of tire efficiency. To go 500 miles in less than five hours on this rough and bumpy 26-year-old brick track, without tire trouble of any kind, demonstrates the strength and blowout protection that Firestone builds into their Gum-Dipped Tires.

AB JENKINS ALSO RECENTLY demonstrated the stamina, efficiency, and blowout protection built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. He drove his 5000 pound car over the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, 3000 miles in 23½ hours. This was an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, and although temperatures were as high as 120°, he had no blowouts or tire trouble of any kind.

There are reasons why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires give such amazing blowout protection. Every cord is soaked and every strand is insulated with pure liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat, the main cause of blowouts. Gum-Dipping is a patented extra process not used in any other make of tire.

Take no chances—protect your life and the lives of others by letting us equip your car today with Firestone Tires and give you the Safety and Blowout Protection that race drivers demand.

Before you buy new tires ask yourself these three questions

- 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"
- 2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"
- 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

Answer No. 1—Leading university tests show Firestone High Speed Tires stop your car 15% quicker than the best of all popular makes of tires.

Answer No. 2—Unequaled performance records for sixteen consecutive years prove that Gum-Dipping gives you the greatest blowout protection ever known.

Answer No. 3—Thousands of car owners report unequalled mileage records—evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

Volume—Direct Purchasing—Straight Line Manufacturing and Efficient and Economical System of Distributing to our 500 Stores and to 30,000 Dealers, enables Firestone to give you greater values at lowest prices

1 Leading University tests show Firestone Tires stop your car 15 to 25% quicker.

2 Gum-Dipped cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in any other make of tire.

3 More and tougher rubber with wider, flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear.

Sealtyle LEAKPROOF TUBES
These new Sealtyle Leak-Proof Tubes will give you greater mileage from your tires and are more economical. The initial cost is but little more than ordinary tubes. Firestone chemists have developed a process of sealing the inner wall of the tube, which prevents air leakage. This, together with new cured-in rubber valve and an extra reinforced valve base vulcanized into the tube, makes this tube leak-proof and pinch-proof.

THE WHOLE WORKS

An exchange prints a little story, clipped from an unknown source, which is very good and perhaps very old. Anyway it's worth repeating.

It concerns an Omaha jobbing house and a customer merchant in a small Iowa town. A shipment of goods received by the customer was rejected as unsatisfactory.

The jobber prepared to institute suit for collection, and wrote to the railroad agent at the village for information about the arrival of the merchandise; to the president of the bank for information concerning the financial standing of their customer; to the mayor of the city asking him to recommend a good lawyer to handle their case; and to the merchant himself, threatening suit, if he did not make payment at once.

All the desired information came in a single letter, as follows:
"I received your letter telling me I had better pay up."

"I am railroad agent here and received the letter you wrote the agent."

"I am president and sole owner of the local bank and can assure you of my financial standing."

"As mayor of the city, I hesitate to refer you to a lawyer, since I am the only member of the bar in this vicinity."

"If I were not the pastor of the only church here, I would tell you to go to hell!"

BRIGHT BUT LAZY

Of its many thousands of high school graduates New York claims the brightest in the person of Ellen Elizabeth Benson, who finished her work preparatory for college at the age of 12.

Several stories of her precocity are told. At eight months she startled a physician who was examining her in a health contest by saying "baby wants dinner." At 16 months a psychological test showed her to have a vocabulary of 159 words. At 3 years she could read, although no effort had been made to teach her. She is now declared to have the mental capacity of a girl of 19.

All these accomplishments would naturally convey the impression that Ellen Elizabeth is an indefatigable student and worker. But let her tell about that for herself:

"No, I don't like to study. I just read and remember. And I'm lazy about housework. Just ask mother."

Little Miss Benson may make a mark in the world, and then again she may not. Many precocious youngsters revert to mediocrity in later life, because they are too lazy to make use of their natural gifts.

TURNING POINT

Most persons of middle age and beyond may look upon apparently trivial occurrences which seem to have changed the entire course of their lives. A chance meeting, a fortuitous remark, a casual letter, or even an accident, may mark a turning point in one's course.

Such ordinary unimportant events which turn out to be far reaching in their consequences most often have to do with matrimony. But in business and other relations of life these minor happenings also frequently have a weighty influence.

It is related of Disraeli, the Jewish boy who became one of England's great prime ministers, that his turning point came through a fist fight at school, as a consequence of which he changed his place of residence and fell in with friends who aided him in getting started on his brilliant career. Numberless similar instances may be found in biographies of the great and near-great, in which chance or small happenings led to fame and fortune.

Sometimes, too, they lead in the opposite direction, as in the case of Napoleon, who is said to have lost the battle of Waterloo, which changed the whole history of Europe, because it rained just before the battle, causing his cannon to be mired in the mud.

Thus, while carefully planned efforts count most, a great deal often depends on whether one gets the lucky "breaks" in the game of life.

ORIGIN OF ICE CREAM

Attempts to trace the origin of ice cream have been generally inconclusive, the invention or discovery of this popular dish being attributed to various nations and periods. But ice cream, or something closely akin to it, has been traced as far back as the middle of the sixteenth century, when it was introduced into France, from Italy.

By 1630, it is said, enterprising Sicilian had established the Cafe Procope in Paris, where ice cream was the special delicacy. It became known in England and Germany much later, and was probably not introduced into America until about the time of the Revolution.

The first advertisement of ice cream appeared in New York on June 8, 1786, but it was not served in Washington until nearly a half century later, when Mrs. Alexander Hamilton used it as a dessert at a dinner given for President Jackson. The wholesale ice cream business was originated by Jacob Fussell of Baltimore in 1851, and met immediate success.

In recent years the use of ice cream has been increasing with amazing rapidity, until its production has almost reached the proportions of a major industry, being nearly 350 millions gallons annually.

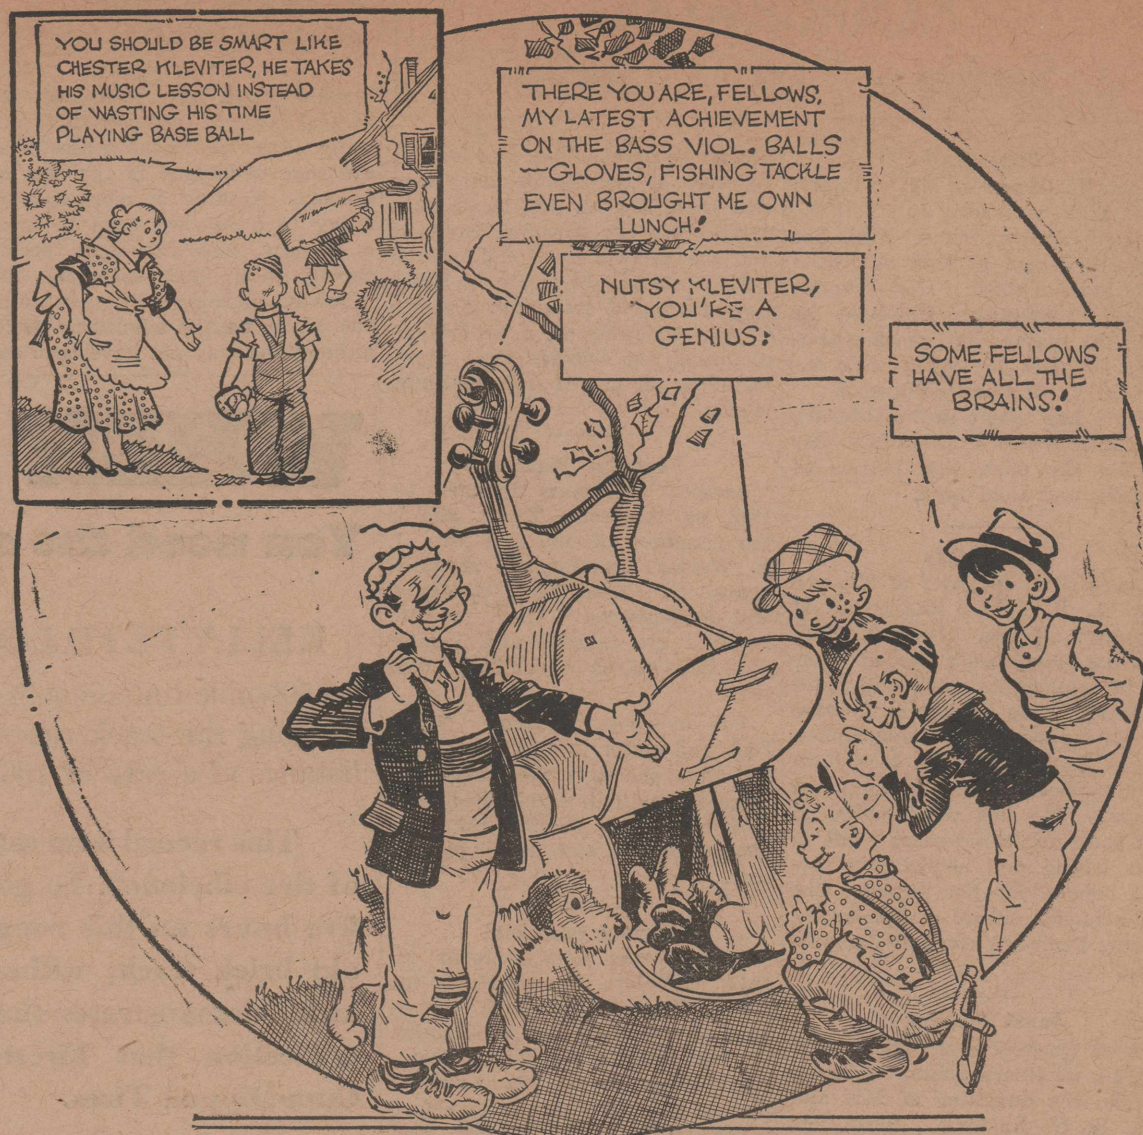

The increased consumption of ice cream is entirely desirable, as it is not only an aid to the dairy industry, but also is in the interest of better nutrition and consequently of good health.

With all the wisdom being syndicated daily by Mr. Brisbane and others, the rest of us hardly have to do anything at all.

Being a college president is easy. All he has to do is to please the board of control, the parents, the undergraduates and the alumni.

Hens lay more when coops are lighted at night, but an Oklahoma farmer claims even better results from crossing his White Leghorns with an owl.

The Great American Home

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

Many of our historical spots in Texas can only be reached by motor trips and in making preparations for such trips careful study should be given to our history in order to reach as many points of interest with as little travel as possible.

Traveling from Navasota on Highway number 90 westward you will arrive at Washington, the site of the beginning of the Texas Republic. Here you will see a monument in what is now Washington State Park that reads "Here a Nation was born."

This monument was erected by the school children of Washington County in 1899. Near the monument stands a replica of the building where the convention, which proclaimed Texas an independent republic, was held. Small in size, still evidently it was adequate to house over half a hundred delegates who assembled there to give birth to a nation. In its wall hang copies of the historic Declaration of Independence and of the Great Seal of Texas. Adorning the park also is a large brick pavilion, housing a commodious assembly hall and stage, and erected by the State in 1930.

Following a winding driveway from the park into the Brazos Valley, the motorist glimpses the junction of the "Navasota" River, with that of the Brazos River. It must be remembered that Washington has always been referred to as Washington-on-the-Brazos.

From this point of interest one may drive in a few minutes, to Independence which will impress visitors as one of the most beautiful spots in all of Texas. Washington is located on a good paved road but the one to Independence is only suitable in dry weather.

At Independence in a humble burial plot, marked by a tiny tombstone, lies the remains of "Margaret Lea," wife of Sam Houston, born in Marion, Ala., April 11, 1819, died December 3, 1866. "There also is the grave of her mother, "Nancy, wife of Temple Lea, born May 1, 1780, died February 7, 1864." Another tombstone marks the grave of the "Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Williams." Also graves of two of the Houston family servants, "Aunt Eliza," and "Aunt Lettie," are indicated by inscriptions on the tombstones. Adjoining the lot are the walls of a tomb prepared for the Houston family, but its state of decay ultimately led to removal of the bodies to the plot adjoining.

On every hand one finds evidence of early settlement—ruins of buildings constructed of native stone, Stately mansions, sentinels of another era, dot the landscape. Visitors are shown the site of the Houston home, some logs from which today are said to form a part of a barn nearby.

Across the road from the Houston burial grounds stands the Independence Baptist Church, organized in September of 1839. The original building, remodeled in 1872, still is the place of worship for a congregation, there being an attendance of 42 in Sunday school on a recent Sabbath. The church

The Story Of Pentecost

Text: John 16:7-11; Romans 8:10-17, 26, 27

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 9.

The doctrine of the Holy Spirit is to be distinguished from the fact of the Holy Spirit, which helps us and works through us.

One recognizes the fact of the sun. One experiences the warmth of its rays, the joy and blessedness of its light, and all that it has meant to the work of the world, especially in times before mechanical invention had enabled the world upon so large a scale to turn night into day.

But this fact, of the sun, and of the sun's influence and blessing, is very different from a knowledge of the laws of light and heat. Here one enters into a realm of theory and doctrine as well as of fact. It may be said, indeed, that what the sun is to us in experience does not depend even upon our knowledge of many facts concerning it.

Much of this is true concerning the Holy Spirit. Jesus emphasized this mystic working of God's spirit on the souls of men when, in His discourse to Nicodemus describing the coming of new life, He said, "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth; so is every one that is born of the Spirit."

In the story of Pentecost, when the disciples were gathered together in consecration and expectation, we are told that "there came a sound from the heaven as of a rushing, mighty wind." The mysteries of that day are not all revealed or made plain to us, but the reality of what happened there and its effect have been manifest in the world through the history of the Christian Church.

JOTS in JEST

Posing as undertaker's assistants, two men robbed the home of J. C. Stelwyn of Glencoe, Ill., after a funeral, getting $10,000 worth of jewelry.

Recently when two women were arraigned in court in Chicago for fighting, the judge told them to go home and read the 133rd psalm together.

For having danced to the music of a Salvation Army meeting, J. J. Rocca of Dover, O., was fined $10 and reprimanded by the mayor.

A bolt of lightning at Nice, France, stripped the trousers off Pietro Baldino as he walked along the street.

Fred O. Bailes of San Angelo, Texas, is an expert polo player, roper and rider, although he has only one arm.

Roy Scholes of St. Louis nearly killed Miss Harriet Snyder in a fit of jealousy, but she will marry him when he gets out of prison.

It would be well in our consideration, and in our teaching of this lesson that we should dwell largely upon the fact that the power and glory of the experience of the Holy Spirit in the soul, leaving to theologians the doctrine and the theories, even as we may enjoy the sun, leaving to the physicist the science of light.

The passages in our lesson from John and from Romans are appropriately chosen with this in mind. They link this experience of the Holy Spirit in the soul with the message of Jesus to His disciples concerning the work of the Holy Spirit, the Comforter, as that of convicting the world of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment.

The work of the Holy Spirit might be tested by these things, or we might test whether a man has really experienced the presence of the Holy Spirit by examining his life in these respects.

Has the Holy Spirit given to man a hatred of sin? Has it created in him the holy attitude of turning from sin to righteousness? And has it given him an enlightened judgment?

If a man have not these things, it might be said that a human spirit of ignorance and perverseness is more evident in his life than the presence of the Holy Spirit. Again, there is the witness of the Spirit that brings to man the consciousness that he is a child of God—a peace of soul that is the deepest and truest experience of the Christian life.

Out of this experience of the Spirit there comes a new consciousness of strength not in oneself, but through new resources of power. It was this that Paul meant when he spoke of his weakness, and of his prayer to be relieved of it, and in the answer to his prayer in the assurance "my strength is made perfect in weakness."

Nineteen years after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schoenberger have located a trunk of wedding gifts lost in shipment from Wisdom, Mont., to Butte, Mont.

For forcibly expressing his dislike for dogs, Joseph Cuzek of Buffalo, was fined $25. Cuzek was charged with shooting a dog that came near his home.

According to the story she told police, Mrs. Roswell Laverty of Denver was robbed of $11 as she was praying in church.

A prisoner before Judge James Faffney in Marengo, Ia., was convicted of contempt and paid his fine in apples. The judge and jury ate the "payment."

Women members of a London church choir went on a strike because one of the congregation said they "looked like chorus girls."

Mrs. Catherine Palmer of Cincinnati celebrated her 100th birthday by laundering her own linen.

Dead Man Walks

Officers were called north of Quanah Wednesday night when a dead man was reported to be lying on the pavement of Highway 16 near the Red river bridge. By the time the officers arrived at the spot the man had been moved. People who found the man prone away on the roadway said that they finally woke him and that he disappeared in the darkness.

Wins The Pup

It rained fish—at least one eleven-pounder.

Word received here by the Underwood's from Coby Surden, relative of Mrs. C. W. Underwood, reveals that during the heavy rains of last week at his home near Aubrey, Denton County, a fish, weighing eleven pounds was found in his corn field.—Chillicothe Valley News.

Rain Scared Children

Mother had to quiet frighten children who had never seen rain falling when the patter started or the north Plains, but no sooner had they accomplished that than the children were swept into a fear by another unheeded apparition. Mothers investigated and found a few people still had umbrellas. The children had people walking the street with their umbrellas shielding their faces.—Memphis Democrat.

Drug By Horse

After being drug about a half a mile on the end of a rope attached to the saddle horn of a "run-away" horse, Lindsey Levey, 13, of the Cedar Hill community, looked up from his hospital bed at the sanitarium here Wednesday afternoon about 2 hours after the accident, and said he was glad "it wasn't worse."

Young Lackey stepped into the loop of a lariat rope as it was laid on the ground and the horse which was being used in working a bunch of calves, suddenly became frightened and ran away, a fit speed, dragging the boy for about a half a mile.—Floyd County Hesperian.

Trail Dust

A bug wades across the canv of the past when an automobile drives up to a chuck-wagon. The scene of three decades is smothered with modernity and deprives its colorful glory when the wheels of a motor drowns the cadence of the horses' feet. The romance of distance is lost to nimble rubber tires that are tougher than the iron shoes on the chuck-mul. And there is no privacy in what to dream old dreams but that cow trail in ravished by the ing feet of this strange machine that does not flinch when s by the thorny mesquite—Matador Tribune.

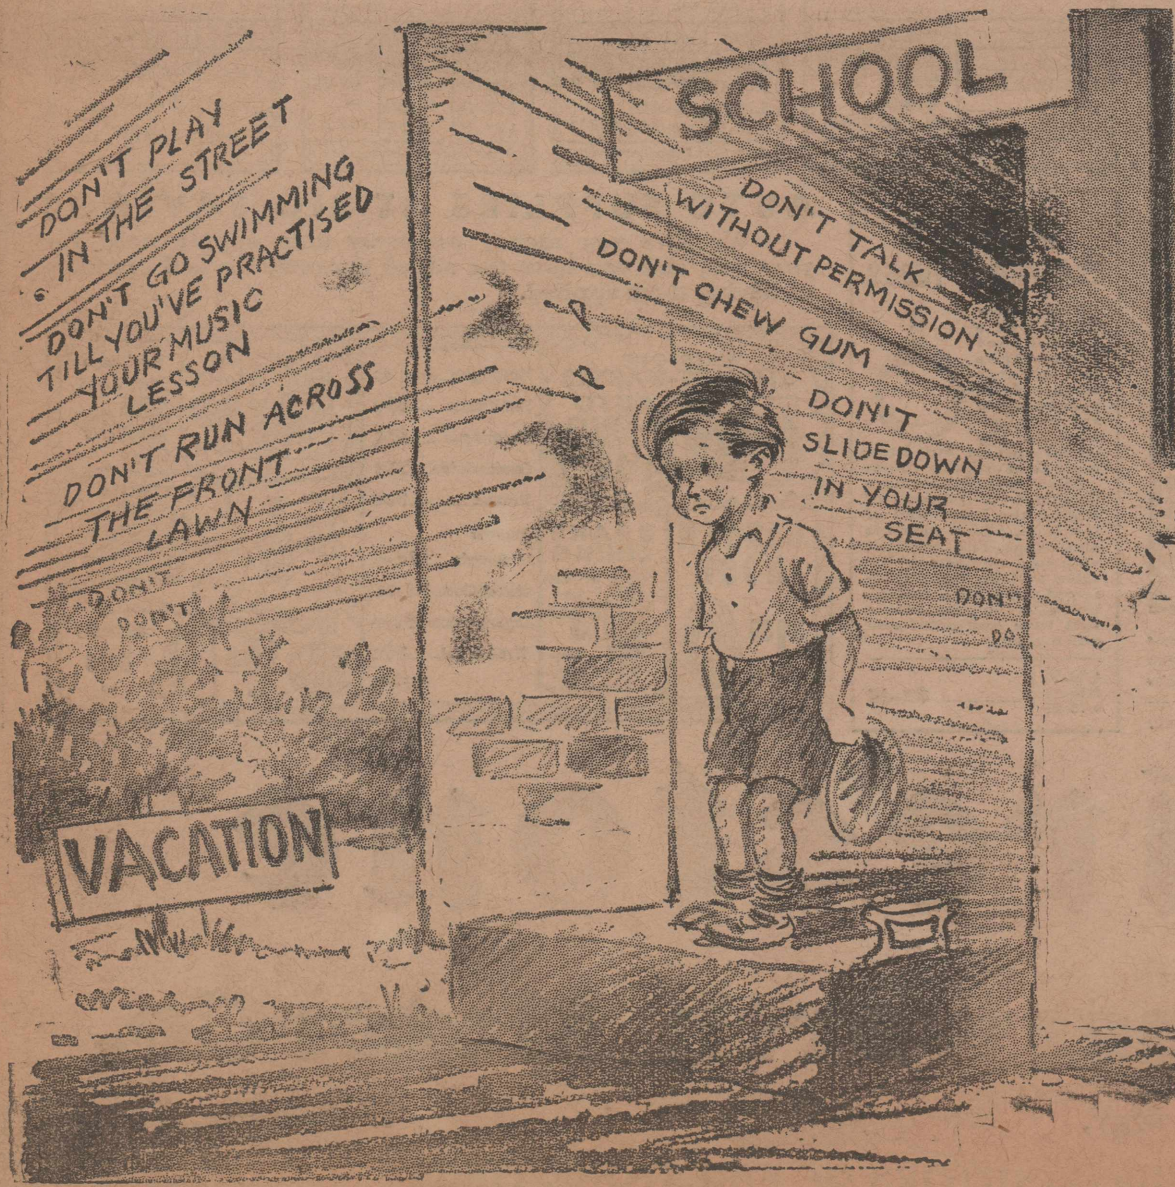

Murderer Ran Down

The mystery slaying of young Thomas Holmes, 19-year-old City storekeeper and groom of months, has been solved. Young Hood county farmers, M. Cash, 21, and Bird Tracy, 27, been arrested and Cash confessed to Fort Worth officers Texas Rangers.

"We knew that there was going to be a church singing at City that Sunday (May 12) thought that this man Holmes would have a little more money than at other times," Cash said his statement to Assistant District Attorney Leo Brewster.—Stephenville Empire-Tribune.

The past four coaching schools have been attended by 1,670 coach-ers from many sections of the Uni-ted States. This year's school is scheduled to break all attendance records, according to Head Coach Pete Cawthon and Line Coach Rus-sell (Dutchy) Smith.

ON TEXAS FARMS

MARSHALL.—One hundred acres seeded with Bermuda and les-peze in March 1934 on the farm of Web Rogers of Harrison county is furnishing excellent grazing for 75 dairy cows, according to G. Morris, county agricultural agent. Mr. Rogers thought that the dry weather in the summer of 1934 would cause the grass and clover to die out, but it is up to a good stand.

Fifteen acres of pasture land contoured in March 1935 by U. C. Lowry of Harrison county is also doing along fine. Lowry thinks the contours will help his upland pastures a great deal, according to the county agent.

The 1100 acre pasture of the Peterson brothers which was cleared and brushed during 1933, with 5 acres seeded to white Dutch Clover, black medic, Dallis grass, car-et grass, Bermuda grass and les-peze, is also furnishing excellent pasture.

KERRVILLE.—Forty-eight dol-lars was made recently by the Kerrville Home Demonstration Club at a sales day at which aprons, children's clothing, quilts and pil-low protectors, home made bread, cakes, pies, jelly, native ferns and arti-cles were among the articles sold.

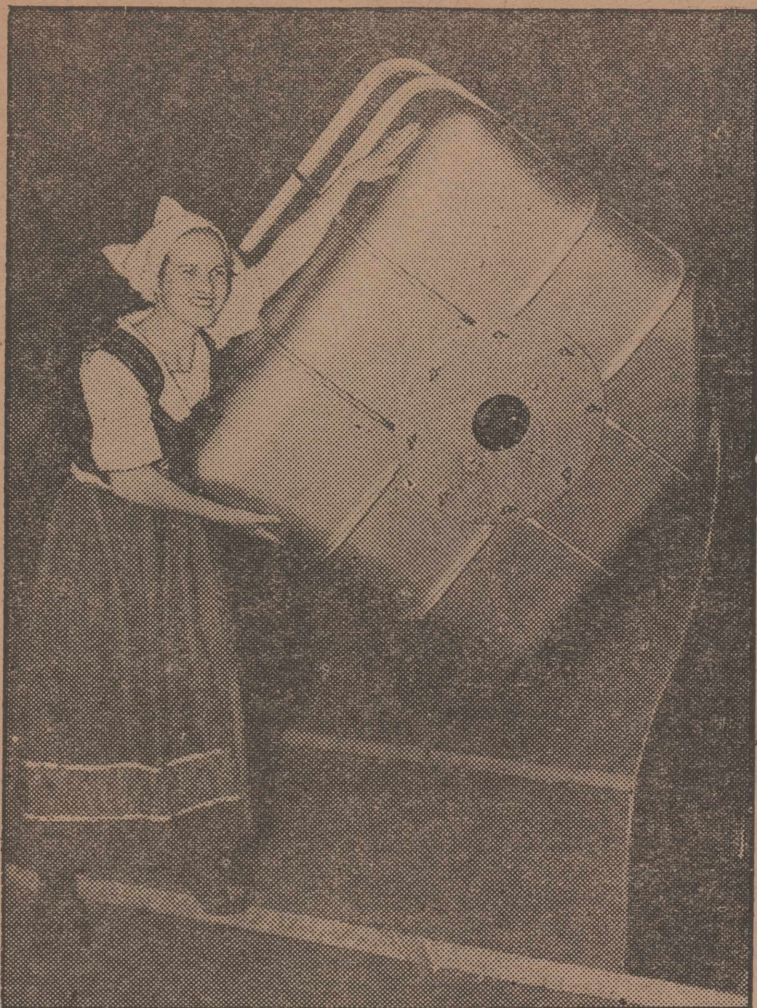

Home demonstration clubs in the county contributed and co-operated in the sales and the proceeds were turned over to the county home demonstration council to help fill the budget of $162.25 for the year. Another sales day will be held June 22, in connection with the ardore achievement day, accord-ing to Miss Frances Willey, Ker-rville home demonstration agent.

The club will sponsor one event the full amount called for in the budget has been raised.

Houston.—Forty-two Harris county farmers have agreed to car-ry on pasture improvement work in 1935 by planting some of the clovers and grasses adapted to the Gulf Coast area and by mowing it, according to D. D. Clinton, county agricultural agent. The records show that a total of 13,439 acres of pasture land will be improved by mowing these seed, of which more than 6000 acres will be improved by mowing twice a year. This would improve the carrying capacity of the pastures, as recent ex-periments have showed that scatter-ing seed and mowing improve the carrying capacity of a native pas-ture approximately five times.

Nearly five miles of concrete tile have been made and laid by relief workers in Ochiltree county this spring, according to the report of T. Stovall, county agricultural agent. The exact figures are 25,000 feet. The tile has been furnish-ing such cases at actual material costs, plus a one-fourth toll of the

HOUSTON, Texas.—A small white coffin, lowered in Hollywood Cemetery this week marked the end of a starving mother's fight of many months to keep her baby boy.

The mother, who shall be name-less because she lived up so fully to all that the word implies, was found in her empty home by police after neighbors noticed the shades had been drawn all day and no sound of life had been heard.

She lay on the floor beside a small mattress. One hand caressed the body of the baby boy, the other held a gas tube to her mouth. As she drifted back to consciousness officers learned the pathetic story of mother love.

For weeks she had tried to get along on $6 a week. Her husband is dead. She feared to ask for relief because she thought officials would place the boy in a home.

Often the $6 would not buy food enough for herself and the child. But it always bought enough for the baby—she went without.

A week ago the child became ill. Day and night she sat at his side in the bare room. Now he needed even better food, and she ate less and less.

Sunday morning he looked up into her anxious face.

"I'm all right, mama," he lisped. A few minutes later he died from a throat abscess.

Time stopped for the young moth-er when she felt the tiny body go limp in her arms. For thirty-nine hours she stayed alone in the small room with her dead child. Halting-ly she told officers: "I bathed the baby and dressed him."

She had bathed the small white body with the golden curly hair. She dressed her little boy in clean white muslin night gown. She laid him on the mattress with his still, white face toward her. Then she turned on the gas.

"I could not call," she murmured in delirium. "I can not give him up."

Officers snatched the tube from her face. Windows were raised and fresh air and light came into the darkened room.

The child was carried down the narrow stairs. The mother cried until she was allowed to lie on the floor by the stretcher in the ambu-lance. "Oh help me go where my baby is," she implored Hollis Lee, ambulance driver.

The undertaking company donat-ed a small white casket. But the mother could not be with her boy at the last moment. Too weak from her ordeal, she lay in bed, moaning, "I can't give him up."

program of last fall was a big and successful event for a community such as this, and yet it is planned to make of the fair a still bigger and more purposeful activity than anything this territory has known heretofore. There are to be agricultural and live stock exhibits from not only communities of the Samnorwood school district, but from all surrounding communities. Stock and poultry judging teams from all schools in the Panhandle maintaining an agricultural department, are to be here. Speakers of national reputation have been contacted and have agreed to come. Plans are now being made to appoint a fair committee to work out the details of this vast undertaking in connection with the school board and superintendent.

"It is hoped to have this fair some time in the first half of October. Announcements will be made from time to time concerning developments in connection with same."

Included among other accomplishments of the school during its first term is the securing of 15 1-2 credits of affiliation with the state department. Mr. Sanders also stated that the school may be granted an additional affiliation credit.

Trustees And Faculty
Trustees for the school during its first year of operation were all re-elected to their posts for another year. They are F. W. Thompson, president; E. W. Miller, secretary; Richard Wischkaemper, D. A. Kincaid, John M. Morgan, Theo Parker and John Coleman.

Instructors in the Samnorwood Rural High School District, which includes seven former districts, for the present year are: E. G. Sanders, Lewis Birdwell Bailey, C. C. Brown, Audie Johnson, Mrs. R. W. achievement during the year has been the acquisition of a large number of pictures and paintings for beautifying the high school building. Through the efforts of various members of the local association donations in the way of pictures have been secured until now the school is the possessor of a collection of pictures that ordinarily would require several years to collect.

Finally, through the work of the association, a feeling of unity has been brought about among the different communities of the district that would not have been possible through any other means. This phase of the work alone has been worth all the effort put into the work this year.

The program of the Parent-Teacher Association, Thursday night, May 16, was to have consisted of the installation of the new officers for the coming year. However, Mr. Beasley, the president, was not present, thus part of the program was not given.

The program was opened by a song led by Mrs. L. C. Sweat. After which the invocation was given by Olson Sweat. A health program sponsored by Mr. McDaniels and Miss McMinn of the Plymouth school, and rendered by 20 pupils of that community, was given.

Although this was the last Parent-Teacher meeting of the year, the attendance was small due to bad weather.

"Torchy" is well known in motion pictures as he started his career over eight years ago. Most all the famous stars are personal friends of his. He has promised a rapid series of introductions to famous movie stars personally. In addition to this invitation from "Torchy" the final winner and her chaperon will have another popular star, Reb Russell, as their personal escort.

Ritz In Colorful Event
Wellington has equal opportunities with any other city in contesting for this great honor. Manager Bonner states that he anticipates the greatest parade of beautiful and graceful girls on the Ritz stage that has ever been seen in this city, when the local winner is to be selected for the District semi-finals, which is to be held in Lubbock. A gorgeous two-weeks vacation trip has been arranged for the District winners this year, which has never been attempted before.

in May to $3,091,000 in June." "Although at first sight this may appear to be dreadfully severe, we expect thousand of cases to quit the relief rolls in June for employment on farms where they can make more than $9.00 we are able to give the families of six. Farmers everywhere are calling for labor to help them cultivate their crops and we feel that in the case of employable families there should not be any suffering because of this reduced grant."

June funds will be spent by the counties for purposes described in the following budget:

General relief, $2,125,342; hospitalization, $8,963; rural subsistence, $725,063; capital goods, $532,154.

To meet those obligations, the Texas Relief Commission will receive $2,500,000.00 from the federal government and $400,000.00 of state funds for general relief.

boasts a tower of rock from old Baylor, in which hangs a bell bearing an inscription recalling its donation to the church from Margaret Lea Houston, (Mrs. Houston was the daughter of a Baptist Minister). Inside suspended from the lofty ceiling is a brass chandelier, bearing a dozen kerosene lamps, used for lighting for many years. One of the stately windows contains all of its original tinted panes.

From the church may be viewed the hill where stood the original Baylor college, while on another eminence rise graceful columns denoting the spot where once stood the first Baylor College for Women. Parts of the walls still stand and nearby are its dormitories, now in a state of ruin.

Here for five years, students of Baylor were taught co-educationally in one small building, but became divided into two parts in 1851, taught by different faculties in separate buildings a mile apart. Today these are represented by Baylor University at Waco and Mary Hardin-Baylor College, located at Belton.
