The first occurred about 4:05 p.m. Sunday, March 15 about 200 feet west of the intersection of Highways 83 and 338. A 1961 Ford, driven by J. J. Roan Jr., of Childress, had stopped for the traffic light and was hit from the rear by a 1960 Ford pickup driven by James Harvey Wilson, Chief Nunnelley said.

Total damage was approximately $475 and there were no injuries, he added.

The second accident occurred Monday morning, approximately 120 feet west of the intersection of 8th and Dallas Streets, when a 1955 Mercury driven by Emmett David Poyner of Groom hit the rear of a parked 1965 Chevrolet pickup owned by John C. Coffey, who was in it, according to Chief Nunnelley.

Total damage to both vehicles was estimated at $325, Nunnelley said.

Never Too Much Guar, County Growers Told

"We've never bought too much guar. There are more uses for it this year than last year at this time, and there will be more uses next year," Orbie Cannedy told a group of Collingsworth farmers attending the guar informational meeting Monday afternoon, March 15.

Speaking at the meeting also was Lester Brooks, retired head of the Chillicothe Experiment Station, who developed the new Brooks variety of guar, and is now agricultural consultant of Stein, Hall, Inc., of Chillicothe, guar buyers. Cannedy is manager of the Chillicothe plant.

All interested persons in the county are invited to become members.

Police Chief Donald Nunnelley was elected acting president and N. E. Childers of Quail acting secretary.

"This summer, during storm watch season, all these radios will be in operation, and they will also operate for any type emergency," Nunnelley said.

There are a number of sets scattered over the county, and almost all are used for business or other essential use.

"Some farmers in parts of the county where it is impossible to have phones use citizens band radios as their means of communication," Chief Nunnelley continued.

Coleman, who lives in Wellington and farms at Dozier, uses his unit for communication between farm and town. Derryberry uses his in operating his butane business; several custom combine operators use CB units in harvesting operations, and a few ag planes

WHS Tracksters Bid for Third Consecutive Title

Wellington high school's track team, defending champion of District 2-A, already has broken four of its own school records and two track meet records. In some respects it is as strong as the team last year, Coach Don Beck believes.

Olan Moore, who has run the 880 in 2:00.3, is near the top among Texas schoolboy runners in this classification, Beck said. The state record now stands at 1:53.

Moore set this record Saturday, March 13, at the Rotan track meet. He also broke the 880 record for that meet and for the Lefors meet the week before.

At home, he clipped four seconds off the previous record of 2:04.6 set by Johnny Ford year before last.

Lynn Wolf, a senior, who runs the mile for the Skyrockets, broke his own record with a 4:58.6 at Rotan. His previous record of 4:59.1 was set as a sophomore.

Joe Rudy has set two new school records. He broke his own shot put record with a new distance of 48'6", almost four feet over his old record. His discus throw of 135'4" breaks that held previously by Chester McLain.

The team has three meets ahead before the District meet which will be held April 13.

One of these, at Duncan, Okla., Saturday, March 27 is one of the major schoolboy track and field meets of the north Texas-Oklahoma area.

The Domestic Science Club Marks its 50th Anniversary with a Tea Thurs.

Fifty years of contribution to Wellington's cultural life and its civic interests, and the cementing of many friendships through that half century, were noted in the festive seated tea observing the golden anniversary of the Domestic Science Club.

Members hosted this event Thursday, March 11, from two to four o'clock in the club room of the community building.

There was a quick look into the delightful past of this oldest of Wellington's study clubs, as Mrs. L. C. Hill read the club history, given elsewhere on this page.

A challenging view of the future came from the guest speaker, Mrs. Robert Lindsey, president of the Top of Texas District of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

But it was the presence of the women who have moulded the Domestic Science Club who gave spirit to observance.

The club's ten members shared hostess duties or assisted in other ways, and these were Mrs. John Coleman, president; Mrs. Jerry Nix, vice president; Mrs. Deskins Wells, secretary; and Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, Mrs. Paul Bell, Jr., Mrs. Farris Wood, Mrs. Troy Johnson, Mrs. L. C. Hill, Mrs. J. Frank Johnson and Mrs. Clyde Drake.

Mrs. Coleman presided and welcomed the guests, who included four former members living out of town, those still in Wellington, and members of other clubs making up the city federation.

At each side of the speaker's table was a large basket of gold flowers, gladioli from the Excelsior Club, "daughter" organization of the Domestic Science Club, and chrysanthemums from a charter member, Mrs. R. L. Scott of Rusk.

"No need is greater than adult education," Mrs. Lindsey told the women, as she discussed this year's federation theme of community service.

"Every five years the world's knowledge doubles, and 90 per cent of all the research scientists are still alive. If we don't keep up, we will be illiterate in the world of tomorrow," she told the women.

Mrs. Lindsey reminded that this is the diamond jubilee of the Federation of Women's Clubs. In these 75 years, it has been instrumental in securing legislation pertaining to the food and drug laws, pure food act, 8 hour day, prison reform and others.

The Top of Texas District, she said, is made up of 90

Clubs in 22 Panhandle cities.

Of the four out-of-town former members, Mrs. Warren Cochran, remembered here as Mrs. Ben Stover, came the farthest, from McKinney. The others were Mrs. J. I. Crawford of Vernon, Mrs. J. R. Benson and Mrs. W. Y. Burden of Shamrock.

Mrs. W. R. Orr was recognized as the only charter member of the club. The other two living charter members are Mrs. C. C. Small of Austin and Mrs. Scott of Rusk.

Charter members of the Excelsior Club, organized for younger women by the Domestic Science Club in 1927, were recognized and were Mrs. Burden, Mrs. E. F. Bartlett and Miss Hattie D. Wells. One other charter member still in Wellington, Miss Inez Leach, was unable to attend.

Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, who came into the club in the early 1920's, read greetings from former members unable to attend.

Mrs. L. C. Hill is the only present member whose mother was a charter member. She noted in reading the history that she is its unofficial historian, having inherited the job from her mother, who from the earliest years saved yearbooks and other moments of meetings, now compiled into scrapbooks.

In keeping with the celebration, Mrs. Ben Meador sang "Memories," accompanied by Mrs. Bell.

The story of the organization of the Domestic Science Club is well preserved from the memories of those who were present. This, along with the names of the charter members, is described in the accompanying history.

The first president was Mrs. T. A. Hudson, who served from 1915 to 1917. Twenty-one women have held the office of president, and some have served more than once. The other past presidents are Mrs. C. E. Stone, 1917-19; Mrs. H. D. Creath, 1919-21; Mrs. Hardy, 1921-23; Mrs. Small, 1923-25; Mrs. S. R. Pinkston, 1925-27; Mrs. Lee O'Neil, 1927-29; Mrs. Pink Sullivan, 1929-31; Mrs. Orr, 1931-33; Mrs. E. N. Lewis, 1933-35; Mrs. Templeton, 1935-37; Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, 1937-39; Mrs. L. E. Gribble, 1939-41; Mrs. T. E. Bange, 1941-45; Mrs. Templeton, 1945-47; Mrs. Sullivan, 1947-49;

Mrs. L. C. Hill, 1949-51; Mrs. Deskins Wells, 1951-53; Mrs. Stevenson, 1953-55; Mrs. J. F. Johnson, 1955-57; Mrs. Charles Caldwell, 1957-59; Mrs. John Sherman, 1959-61; Mrs. W. R. Orr, 1961-63; Mrs. Clyde Drake, 1963-65.

Support of the fine arts has been the major concern of the club since its founding, and in recent years, because of the individual interests of the members, this has centered around painting. Works of members and their friends were exhibited during the tea.

Most of these local artists are students of Dord Fitz and several have had paintings in Amarillo and New York shows. Among the artists were Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Toft of Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Drake, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Farris Wood and Paul Bell.

Following the program, tea was served from a table covered with a white net cloth over linen, having a gathered floor-length flounce. At the center was an arrangement of yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums in a footed crystal bowl, and on each side were lighted tapers in a branched silver candelabra. Other appointments were crystal and silver.

Mrs. Jerry Nix poured and Mrs. Wood served the cake. Approximately fifty attended.

These tests for 18-year-olds are the result of President Johnson's action in 1964 which ordered the Director of Selective Service and the Secretary of Defense to examine all newly registered men who are out of school and available for service. Males married at age 18 and those known to be in school at that age will not be examined.

"Ask your grandmother if she remembers this old 1893 Mosley oil-fired water heater and folding bathtub . . . I dare say, it would hardly meet the needs of 1964 living—supplying dishwashers, clothes washers, bathtubs, and lavatories with instant clean hot water upon demand.

Few of us actually realize that over 2/3 of the water used in the home is hot water. With the completely automatic electric water heater there is no fear of a flame going out when hot water is needed the most. And being totally flameless, it requires no venting, is easier to install and maintenance is practically nil.

What a change from the 'good ol' days!"

For a Festive Golden Anniversary

Memories grown out of 50 years of club work mingled with reports of present achievement and a look into the future as members of the Domestic Science Club observed their golden anniversary at a seated tea Thursday, March 11. The paintings are by members of the club and their families, some of whom have exhibited in Amarillo and New York. The only member who is the daughter of a charter member, Mrs. L. C. Hill, left, and the only charter member still active in the club, Mrs. W. R. Orr, are shown in the picture at

was almost scalped! I remember that on Domestic Science Club day the school age children would go to the hostess house after school, and she had to prepare at least 10 extra deserts for them.

So you see, the club has raised any number of children, weathered two World Wars, the depression, several droughts and the dust bowl. During World War II, the club met only once a month in the evening, freeing members to do more necessary work.

Mrs. Hill's history continued with a growing list of community activities in which the Domestic Science Club has participated since it observed its 25th anniversary in 1940. But there were lighter moments.

In 1947, membership was increased from 12 to 16 and daughters, daughters-in-law and nieces became members. That year, Mrs. D. L. C. Kinnard of Memphis—president of the 7th District, was speaker at a meeting to which all federated clubs were invited, and when the party was over, it was discovered the help that was to clean up failed to come.

As the new members cheerfully set about putting the kitchen in order, one was heard to say to another, "Now I know why they wanted us in the club!"

The 7th District workshop was held, with Domestic Science Club as hostess, in 1952, and the following year the club raised money for the community building fund by staging one of the most successful fall style shows in the town's history. Darlene Hunter was emcee. In the early 1950's this club was responsible for the opening program around the Christmas tree on the court house lawn.

The 40th anniversary luncheon in 1955, at Mrs. Hill's home, brought many out of town former members, and there was a gay time reminiscing. That year the club also bought 100 rose bushes and various shrubs to help beautify the park.

Mrs. Charles Caldwell, president in 1957, brought the club many honors, for they won more awards during her tenure than ever before or since. And Mrs. Caldwell won Pan-handle-wide recognition when she reported the club's activities, orally and in verse, at the district convention.

From 1959 to 1961, Primrose teas were a regular feature. In 1961 also, Mrs. John Sherman was nominated "Mother of the Year" and Mrs. John Coleman, a member, was sponsored by the 1924 Study Club and was named "Club Woman of the Year" by the Top of Texas District.

Paintings of Dord Fitz were presented in an exhibit high-light in 1962. Presented at the same time were dresses by the Amarillo designer, Robert Perkins.

"For many, many years, we have without fail, mailed a Christmas box to the State Hospital in Wichita Falls. We have mailed clothing to Japan and Greece, contributed to CARE, and many other worthwhile projects and scholarship funds. We have sponsored Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls the Teen Canteen and a Charn School," Mrs. Hill recalled.

"Although we are not as aggressive federation-wise as we once were, we have been federated continuously since 1915, taking part in the state and district activities for 50 years."

Mrs. W. T. Williams of Abilene is visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Murray.

Mrs. Robert Fleming and two children of Austin are visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Kelso and Anna Kay.

Dinner Honors Working Women in National Business Women's Week

A springtime salute to working women came Tuesday evening, March 9, when members of the Business and Professional Women's Club honored other working women of the area at a dinner in the community building. This was in recognition of National Business Women's Week.

Recognition came to Mrs. Homer Ingram, owner of Ingram Produce, who was named Woman of the Month, and to a Quail high school senior, Patricia Kimbro, the Girl of the Month.

Entertainment was by the Wellington high school stage band, led by its student director, Raymond Horton, Jr. Playing in a disciplined yet lively manner, the group presented "Tuxedo Junction," "Basin Street Blues," "All of Me," "Rock Bottom," "Cha Cha Cha" and "Sunday Morning," and then the group was called back to play the cha cha a second time.

In presenting Mrs. Ingram, it was pointed out that she successfully operated the produce business founded by her husband, the late Mr. Ingram, and she also is active in her church, First Baptist, and participates in community activities.

Miss Kimbro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Kimbro, has a long list of activities centering around music, for she is one of the county's talented young pianists.

she was choir accompanist for the Junior Music Club and the Federated Music Club convention in Hereford; and accompanied the choir at Borger Music Festival which received a superior rating.

Patricia has received many school honors and she is pianist for the Church of the Nazarene in Wellington. She was chosen Musician of the Month by the Wellington Federated Music Club.

Vignettes from 50 Years History Tell Domestic Science Club Story

(Presenting the history of the Domestic Science Club at its 50th anniversary tea was Mrs. L. C. Hill, the only club member who is the daughter of a charter member. Her own history was compiled from and brought up to date three earlier histories, one written in 1933 by her mother, Mrs. Cleo Templeton, in 1939 by Mrs. Lee O'Neil and in 1955 by Mrs. J. B. Stevenson. Here are excerpts from Mrs. Hill's history.)

The Domestic Science Club was organized in March 1915 at the Wellington Hotel with Mrs. Herbert Dysart as Hostess. Mrs. T. A. Hudson was elected president and Mrs. J. D. Camp corresponding secretary. Charter members were Mmes. A. E. Brady, J. D. Camp, Herbert Dysart, Joe Hardy, T. A. Hudson, W. R. Orr, R. R. Sherwood, C. C. Small, R. L. Scott, W. W. Joyner and R. L. Templeton.

Wellington had a very few study clubs in the early days. Clubs were not popular among the men, and ministers spoke of them in a whisper believing they were a little worldly, because sometimes for a social gathering they played "42."

It took some time for the community to become educated to the fact that when several ladies were seen going into a house it didn't mean someone was dead, but that it might be the next worst thing: they were having a club meeting.

In the fall of 1915, the club purchased a set of books on Home Economics from which the first year's programs were made out with such topics as "The House," "Household Hygiene," "Chemistry of the Household" and "Principles of Cookery." At the programs on principles of cookery, a demonstration was given by those on the program. When one member was given the task of demonstrating the making of a meat loaf, she resigned because she couldn't make meat loaf. Besides, she had seen another member let milk boil over on someone's perfectly new stove and she didn't want that to happen to her new stove. Later she returned to the club, but insists to this day she cannot cook meat loaf.

In 1918, the Womanless Wedding was given in the high school auditorium. Two performances were presented before packed houses. This huge success netting $200-$300 of which was given to the Red Cross and $100 paid on the school piano.

In 1923 a high pressure book saleswoman came to Wellington and sold almost every member a set of the Delphian Books; consequently the Delphian course was studied for the next two years.

In 1927, Mrs. O'Neil, realizing the need for a club for young women, sponsored the organization of the Excelsior Club.

In 1928, the Domestic Science Club donated money to the county library, but the main thing about 1928 is that it was the year of the cook book. To add a little spice to the programs that year, members were asked to do a stunt each time. Clay Sullivan wanted to do something different. The meeting before she was to give her stunt, she asked each member to write her favorite recipe. The members began to talk about the recipe book they were sure Mrs. Sullivan was going to give each one next time.

Mrs. Scott went to Dallas to see Mrs. Stone, a former member, and promised to send her a copy of the cook book. But as it turned out, Clay said she wasn't interested in the recipes, she was getting handwriting samples to read their fortunes by. But it was from this "stunt" the plans for getting out a cook book of favorite recipes originated. The book that some of you may still have in your homes was the result. I treasure my copy.

In 1929, the Domestic Science Club gave the city Federation $100 to start the building fund for a club house; club houses were much in vogue at that time, and the federation decided to have that as its first project. Mrs. Stevenson was the first president of the City Federation and about $1600 was raised. However the Community Building was built by the WPA and the Club House Project dropped. The federation money was invested in bonds. $800 was paid on the furniture for the community building. In the 1950's the reactivated City Federation cashed these bonds, buying a piano for the community building and books for the county library.

I think I joined the Domestic Science Club in 1947. However, I guess I belonged to the club in the 1920's, too. In those days, members brought their small children, and there was always much confusion, babies crying, children getting hurt, mothers running outdoors to see about their youngsters. Of course, I don't remember the time C. C. Small bit Marianna Scott on the finger, but I do remember John Roy Noles hitting C. E. Stone on the forehead with a board. We all thought John Roy was a terror and C. E. a sissy, but that day he had a right to cry. He

For Area Farmers

Swine Short Course Set March 22 to 25

A swine short course for adult farmers will be held Monday to Friday, March 22 to 25 under the sponsorship of the Wellington high school vocational agriculture department, according to J. L. Harper, superintendent, and Danny Garcia, teacher of vocational agriculture.

Joe Tocquigny, swine specialist with the vocational agriculture division of the Texas Education Agency and the Department of Animal Husbandry at Texas A&M University will do the instructing in the course. He is headquartered at Texas A&M University.

Tocquigny holds a B.S. degree in agricultural education from Texas A&I College, and an M.S. degree in agriculture from Texas A&I. He has been a Hampshire breeder and commercial feeder for the past ten years maintaining a fifteen sow herd.

"Many swine short courses in various parts of the state have been taught by Mr. Tocquigny and all have met with outstanding success," according to Garcia. Arrangements for the adult education short course in swine husbandry and in other fields are made thru Garcia's office.

The short course at Wellington is scheduled to begin Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the vocational agriculture building. Other meetings in the series will be held each night through Friday. During the dates the short course is in progress, Tocquigny will be available to assist students with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction, according to Garcia.

Farmers interested in attending the short course should write or call the superintendent of schools, Mr. Harper, or the teacher of vocational agriculture, Mr. Garcia. An entry fee of $2.00 will be charged. Swine Production Short Course Certificates are to be presented to each student who attends all the training sessions.

Mr. Tocquigny states that the short course will be adjusted to wishes and interests of farmers enrolled, but that he expects to cover such subjects as selecting and breeding, feeding, and feeding requirements, management, disease and parasites, housing and equipment, and marketing.

Big Lakes and Little Lakes Needed in Our Water Program

On another page is the map of the proposed Salt Fork dam and reservoir, along with the holding reservoir, which will be a lake of some size in itself.

All major emphasis is now being put on this multi-million dollar project which through irrigation would have such a terrific impact on the county's agricultural economy.

This is not the only project envisioned by the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, however, and at no time does that body lose sight of the fact that its aim is the development of all waters.

Not to be forgotten either, is the possibility of the many small lakes that can be built in the county . . . those like the new Lake Atteberry.

This double lake, already overrun with fishermen even though there has been no fishing weather, was built through private enterprise of the young owners.

There are a number of other small but pleasant lakes in the county, also built on the initiative of their owners.

But we can use many, many more of them—and there are favorable locations available. Individual initiative, coupled with the work of the water district, can make Collingsworth a county of lakes.

SUNDAY AT THE RITZ

Jerry Lewis plays a bungling hospital orderly in his new Technicolor comedy for Paramount, "The Disorderly Orderly," which opens Sunday at the Ritz Theatre. In this comical scene, Jerry tries, in a somewhat odd fashion, to shave one of the hospital patients. "The Disorderly Orderly" was directed by Frank Tashlin and produced by Paul Jones, the same team that brought Jerry's "Who's Minding The Store" to the screen.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

My sleepless-student neighbor says he made a bad mistake a few years ago by not dropping out of school, so the government could now pay him to go back.

Says it would sure beat working to pay his own way through school, and getting part of his sweatings seized and spent by the Deficit Society on hiring other youths to take up learning.

Looks like, he says, it's just not very smart to get all tired out from paddling your own canoe, when the Federalia is so anxious to put the bite on somebody else to paddle it for you.

News is that high school dropouts will get paid $1.25 an hour for semi-work, as a bribe to get them back in school.

My mercenary neighbor says if anybody had paid him $1.25 an hour to go to school, he would have made a career out of it.

And he reckons if teachers got that much pay for every hour they put in teaching, grading papers, chaperoning, etc., it could start a rush back to the schoolrooms by teacher dropouts.

Supreme Court says states mustn't keep citizens from voting just because they can't interpret the Constitution.

Which my logic cull neighbor says is fair and reasonable, because nobody had ought to be expected to understand a document that won't stand still because of getting re-interpreted nearly every Monday.

Says, anyhow, we can't have a test for mere voters which some of our Court justices prove by regular disagreement that they themselves couldn't pass.

Congress is working on a $6,000,000,000 deal to put us Americans in fancier houses, on the grounds that low quality people is caused by living in sub-snazy dwellings, without build-in bars and stuff.

But my poor-housed neighbor says he has known some folks who moved from shacks into semi-mansions and it didn't improve them any.

So he takes the stand that this federal enriched housing plan won't amend anybody's character. He says beans will be beans even in a gold-plated can.

D. E. Scott

Another Step Up

Holcomb New Research Head of United Gas

Dysart E. Holcomb, former president of Texas Western College in El Paso, has been named research director of United Gas Corp. and its subsidiaries, effective March 15, and will move to Shreveport immediately, according to Ed Parkes, president.

Holcomb has more than 20 years of experience and background in the gas, oil and petrochemical fields and is especially qualified to initiate and carry forward an aggressive research program for United Gas and its subsidiaries, Parkes said.

Holcomb's career has encompassed major management and technical responsibilities in both industrial and academic positions; work in chemical processes and operations, including development, engineering, planning and evaluation of projects for expansion and diversification; and responsibility for organizing and developing research programs in the broad field of petrochemicals.

Immediately prior to joining United Gas, Holcomb had served since 1958 as director of research and development for El Paso Natural Gas Co. His experience also includes service as a chemical engineer with a consulting and process engineering firm in the oil industry (1941-46) and a senior projects technologist with a major oil company (1949-50).

In the field of education, Holcomb was assistant professor and associate professor of chemical engineering at Purdue University (1946-49); dean of engineering and professor of chemical engineering at Texas

Technological College at Lubbock (1950-55), and president of Texas Western College (1955-58.)

Explain Missing W-2 Tax Forms

A special tax problem may face the taxpayer whose former employer has gone out of business. In some cases, such employers fail to give employees a Form W-2 showing the wages paid and the tax withheld.

If this is your situation, Hubert B. Hamill, Administrative Officer of the Amarillo office of Internal Revenue, suggests the following.

First, try to get a Form W-2 from the employer. If you do not succeed, prepare your income tax return from the best information available and file it before the deadline. Attach a note explaining why the Form W-2 is not included with the return.

When a taxpayer leaves his job during the year, the law requires that the employer furnish a Form W-2 at the time of the last payment of wages. If a person leaves a job permanently for any reason and does not receive a Form W-2 when he receives his last payment of wages, he should request the employer to furnish one.

Irrigated Area Indicated

Major Features of SF Dam Pinpointed

A reservoir on Salt Fork River five miles in length and up to a mile and half wide, capable of storing 100,000 acre feet of water or more, was described for Builders Club members Wednesday night, March 10 by A. H. Woolverton, consulting engineer for the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District.

He pinpointed on a county map the location of the proposed dam and the lake it will back up, the holding reservoir a mile north of Wellington, and the general route of the irrigation canal that will carry water between the two.

There were two other speakers on related phases of the dam. C. P. Stearns, drilling superintendent in charge of the core testing now under way, discussed that work. James Stavenhagen, member of the Wellington high school coaching staff, told of an irrigation well survey which, when complete, will give water district officials a picture of the cost of irrigating from wells.

Dan Henard, president of the Water Board, was in charge of this part of the meeting. The overall Builders Club meeting was presided over by Henry Sullivan.

Indicated for the first time were the parts of the county which may go under irrigation, although Woolverton made a point of saying these were indications, as the specific lines have not been determined.

These are located south and southwest of Samnorwood and Dozier; south of the holding reservoir and east of Highway 83 as it extends south from Wellington.

It was indicated earlier the proposed reservoir can provide irrigation for as much as 22,000 to 23,000 acres of some of the best farming land in Collingsworth.

The dam itself was described as about 5,900 feet long and 95 feet high. Water at the dam will stand at a depth of 76 feet. Siltation will occur at about 500 acre feet per year, the engineer told club members.

It will take a bigger flood than any in the known history of Salt Fork to pose a danger to the dam, Woolverton pointed out. That of 1957 was the biggest flood on record, when 146,000 cubic feet of water per second went downstream.

"If we get a bigger flood it will begin to go through the emergency spillway," he said. Such a flood is due to happen not more than once every 150 years.

Woolverton described in some detail engineering features of the dam. The outlet structure, 7 or 8 feet in diameter, will release water traveling at as much as 600 feet per second, and it will be slowed down immediately by passing into a hydraulic jump before entering the irrigation canal.

The emergency spillway will be located on the south side of the dam.

The dam backing up the balancing reservoir will be approximately a mile in length, and this body of water, a mile north of Wellington, will cover some of the land now owned by Jerry Nix, Charles Cason and Henry McClure, the engineer said.

The lake is expected to cover from 500 to 640 acres, and its greatest depth will be 35 to 40 feet.

The lined canal, about four feet wide at the bottom, will carry water to a depth of four feet. Excavation of up to 50 feet will be necessary in some areas.

The balancing reservoir will make a smaller irrigation canal possible and insure a constant source of water during the heavy watering season, "when everybody wants water at the same time," it was explained.

There will be three pump locations at the main reservoir, connecting with three pipelines to carry irrigation water to the Dozier and Samnorwood areas.

The drainage or contributing area of Salt Fork River is 1013 square miles above the Wellington dam site, and of this, the Water Control and Improvement District has the rights on 665 square miles of drainage area. Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority has the rights on the area at the Lelia Lake wells, although it is within the Collingsworth WC and ID drainage area.

Stearns brought the group up to date on core drilling now under way at the dam site and which will include tests along the proposed canal and the holding reservoir site, 16 altogether.

Permeability of the underlying structure is the problem at the dam. Borings showed alluvium sand to a depth of from 20 to 40 feet, then a clay blanket covering the entire site at depths ranging from 30 to 50 feet. This is impervious to seepage. Gypsum and siltstone, described as "big water takers", begins at around 55 feet and then it goes into its true formation of gypsum and shale.

The final report will include tests of permeability and flow under the river bed.

Stavenhagen said that his survey of irrigation wells now in operation in the county is under way but is incomplete at this time. He is doing this work for the Builders Club outside of school hours.

He explained the survey will include a listing of all irrigation wells in use, their size, and the cost of operating them, including equipment, labor, repairs, fuel, etc.

when Rural Electricians help keep America strong

Greenbelt Electric Co-Operative, Inc.

Today, thanks to America's consumer-owned rural electric systems, our nation's defense planners can locate installations wherever they are needed without delay.

Whether it's an Atomic Energy Commission installation at Jackass Flats, Nevada, a NASA tracking station at Blossom Point, Maryland, or a SAGE listening post in some other remote part of the country, electric power is usually available from one of the more than 1,000 rural electricities that serve the countryside.

Throughout the country more than 580 defense installations, ranging from a Titan II base to Minuteman sites and SPADAT detection systems, are served by rural electric systems.

Until our rural electricians were built, with the help of Rural Electrification Administration loans, many areas of our country were without electric power. Today, as our population grows and power needs increase, rural electricians, with the continuing help of REA, are meeting the increasing demands for power all over the country and at lower and lower costs.

Together with many others who serve our defense installations, America's rural electricians are doing their part to keep our nation strong everywhere... and everybody benefits.

—By Deskins Wells

March is seldom too good a month for business in our region due to a number of reasons. One is the weather, but I suspect taxes have a more adverse effect. The farmers have just finished paying theirs and those who make estimates or have withholding taxes are making their last serious efforts and it puts a lot of people in a vile frame of mind. Fortunately people feel better in April and April and May are always good business months.

Next Sunday will be the first day of Spring according to the calendar, the vernal equinox; but according to the birds March 10 was the first day of Spring. Doves by the hundreds could be seen in the vicinity of Atteberry Lake, and by now they have paired off. People have been reporting cardinals, robins, wrens, blackbirds and all kinds of woodpeckers and sapsuckers for weeks. Turn on the sprinkler the first hot afternoon if you want the birds to gather.

We may not have too many nesting birds in our block this summer unless we do something about the cats. By some means or other we have acquired four or five alley cats that continue to thrive in spite of the dogs and as far as anyone knows they do not belong to anybody. Perhaps we will have to call on Donald Nunneley for help. Getting rid of them will not be easy for they are both wild and smart.

Dick Dudley, the hard-working editor of The Hollis News, phoned Monday to ask my opinion about certain new equipment that he will be required to purchase when the new regulations for mailing newspapers ordered by post office officials go into effect. In the course of his moaning and groaning, he mentioned that Oklahoma would vote on an increase in their sales tax which would increase it from 2 percent to 3 percent, and that is on everything.

The lament of the Hollis editor was that the increase in the sales tax would send more business to Wellington and other Texas towns. I cheerfully replied that it would be partial compensation for the money we had been spending for beer and whiskey in Hollis.

Wellington to Host Tennis Tourney April 2-3

Wellington high school will be host to an invitational tennis tournament Friday and Saturday, April 2 and 3, with teams from a number of surrounding schools competing, E. W. Clement, principal and coach of the Wellington team, announced.

The number of entries will determine if this is to be a one or two-day event, he said. Reporting when tennis practice opened a few days ago were Wellington's two regional finalists in singles play, Betty Courtney and Bill Spillman. Both are playing their last year as they graduate this spring.

Between 12 and 15 boys and girls are coming out for practice, but the teams to represent WHS have not been picked, Clement said.

Other returning players in the senior division are Phillip Hughey, Beverly Singley and Jan Glenn, all seniors; and Joe Wood, Mige Hughs, Marsha Elbert and Jackie Barton.

The district meet this year will be April 8 and 9 in Clarendon.

Benefit Volley Ball Tourney Set April 1, 2

An independent volleyball tournament will be sponsored by the Wellington Classroom Teachers Association, for both men and women. The date is Thursday and Friday, April 1 and 2.

This is a benefit event and proceeds will go toward a scholarship to be awarded at the end of school to a future teacher, according to James Stavenhagen who is helping with plans.

As many area towns as possible in both divisions are wanted, he said.

Trophies will go to first, second and consolation winners in both divisions.

There will be an entry fee of $1.00 for each player.

Stavenhagen said anyone who wants to get up a team can borrow a ball from him. There are volleyball courts at Ellison Park, or arrangements can be made to play in the high school gymnasium on nights when it is not in use, he said.

The sheer walls of Marble gorge of the Grand Canyon are 2,000 feet high.

By Graduation

Rockets, Rockettes Lose First Teams

Wellington high school basketball will lose by graduation its girls and boys entire first teams—and then some, 14 players altogether. The 1966 season will see a complete new slate of starters.

This doesn't mean weakness, Coach James Stavenhagen believes.

"I feel if our sophomore and junior girls improve and do as well as I think they will, we'll have a team that will make a good showing," he said, concerning the Rockettes. The Rockets, he believes, will have a fair team if they work hard and play inspired ball. The size is there, but the speed and experience are lacking.

Leading the list of Rockette graduates is Betty Courtney, who in three years as a varsity player, has a total of 1961 points scored for Wellington. Her average this year was a little better than 25 per game, or a total of 671. No other player can approach this for the 1965 season.

Joyce Holton graduates with 449 points, or an average of 16 per game; Beverly Singley has 337, a game average of 12.

Four guards will be lost. Karen Childress started two years and played quite a bit as a sophomore. Jan Glenn started three years, two at forward position and this year as guard.

Susan Sullivan started this year and was the leading rebouncer on the guard end. Joan James, a first substitute, played good ball, especially in tight situations.

The Rockettes won 25 games and lost 7, twice each to Clarendon and Samnorwood, and once to Spearman and Stratford. They were undefeated in conference play.

It is the first seven who graduate from the Rockets also, all of whom have played two years together on the varsity and turned in an overall fine performance.

Wayne Barton, captain, started two years and scored good as a defensive player. He also provided good leadership.

Ronnie Hurst, the other captain, was good on defense and a good ball handler, his coach said.

Phillip Hughey started part time and was a fine jumper and ranked fourth in rebounds, although he played less than the other six. Gary White also will be missed for his defensive play and rebounding.

Bill Spillman is considered by Stavenhagen as his best offensive man and probably the best team player. Leading scorer and also leading rebounder is Freddy Peters. Another leading scorer and second high rebounder is Roger Weems. He was out part of the season with a broken shoulder and after he did begin to play, this hampered him through most of the season.

Sometimes these business-like units are for fun—Collingsworth coyote hunters use them to advantage!

Their value in emergencies cannot be rated too highly, Nunneley believes. Recently Bill Cochran was monitoring his set when he heard a California motorist on an FM road leading to Memphis, who was almost out of gas. Cochran relayed the information via his CB radio to that town and the situation was taken care of.

The Federal Communications Commission is expected to designate one band as an emergency band within the near future.

Motorists traveling cross country often talk to CB operators en route, the police chief explained.

An operator has a base station usually located in his home and from one to three mobile units, depending on the scope of his operations.
