Teachers Are Lauded At Banquet

"A teacher affects eternity, he can never tell where his influence stops."

That statement by Henry Adams made many years ago was used Tuesday night to relate community feelings to Olton teachers.

Occasion was the annual Teacher Appreciation Banquet held in the school lunch room. Teachers were lauded through out the night for their dedication in helping build student character and intellect.

Toastmaster for the banquet was J. D. Lancaster, minister of Main Street Church of Christ.

Just as soon as he was finished making the 300 plus in attendance laugh at his rapid-fire jokes, the main speaker took over.

He was Tom Parrish, head of development at Wayland College.

Parrish, a former teacher, superintendent and lawyer, began by saying, "I'm glad to see Olton has a young superintendent, because superintendents never grow old, they just lose their faculties."

He told his audience the qualities which make great teachers.

He listed them as 1. Being well informed and competent, 2. Being an appreciator, 3. Possessing leadership and influence, 4. Being firm and exact, 5. Having a great personal vision of life and 6. Making personal choices which determine destiny.

Parrish enlarged on these requirements by saying that a really great teacher should be efficient and have a sense of direction.

"They need confidence and competence," he added.

"Teachers," he continued, "should be the master of the subjects they teach and present them with spontaneity."

He also stressed moral responsibility and teachers getting it across to their students. "Schools are doing a better job today than they did in earlier times," he told his audience.

Company Warns Of Solicitors

Olton civic and city officials have received reports that a group of solicitors are moving through the country selling bogus yellow-page advertising.

The report was put out by R. E. Saunders, district manager of general telephone company of the southwest.

Receiving letters in Olton were Melvin McReynolds, chamber of commerce and agriculture manager and Gene Wilson, mayor.

The letter said in part about the solicitors:

They canvass in towns just prior to a regular telephone directory advertising campaign and leave the impression with the telephone customers that their advertising will appear in the next telephone directory.

It further stated:

A particular publication of this type was recently produced by Southwest Directory Company of Abilene but is not associated in any manner with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's regular directory.

Saunders advised that businessmen be on the alert for possible misrepresentation.

It is suggested that businessmen request credentials if approached by directory representatives.

'HAUNTED' WITH MEMORIES

Old Light House Reminder Of Past High Plains Era

BY LOMAN JONES

"Whenever I walk to Olton down the crooked cow trail from home, I trudged through knee-high grass and kicked up oxen bone."

That crooked cow trail is now Farm Road 168 that speeds 20th century traffic between Olton and Hart.

And home is the old J.M. Light place that still stands—like a sentinel guarding the past.

It's located about four-and-a-half-miles north of Olton.

Athol Light and his two brothers and three sisters walked and rode their horses along that cow trail, then came home to one of the most modern houses of that day.

The old house, now torn by weather and destructive hands, was built in 1911.

"My father," says Light, "built the house after our first one burned, I was only five years old at the time."

The elder Light hauled in sand from Running Water Draw, pumped water from the windmill and made concrete bricks from molds.

Lumber was brought by horse and team from Hereford.

All labor was manual. The concrete bricks apparently are as enduring as Moorish castles. The massive blocks, about two feet long and eight inches thick, are today almost all intact.

Inside the structure, rotting partitions have been ripped down and scattered about the floor.

Among the debris is a rusty length of stove pipe, and old cast iron bedstead and burners from an early kitchen stove.

Pigeons roost among the rafters and sparrows have built nests in every accessible nook. Sunlight shines through the worn shingles.

The house, Light remembers was without hot running water, electricity, gas and television.

"Our most modern convenience back then was our horse," said Light.

Compared to most early houses though, the Light house was something special.

"It had eight rooms and two halls and a basement," said Light. "The roof was gabled," he added, "until a wind storm blew it off."

"I never did like the roof that was put back on like I did the gabled one," he confesses.

The house has been vacant for 18 years except for transient laborers who have lived in it at different times, said Light.

"I don't own the place, my brother F. E. Light does, and he lives in Missouri. I'm sure he doesn't know it's as run down as it is," Light said.

Houston Carson was the last person to live in the house, Light told.

Raymond Carson farms the land around it now.

Light said there were only about 50 acres of land broken there until 1926, when 120 acres north of the house were broken.

"Our nearest neighbors back then were Artie Erb, Tom Keenen, Luther Williams, Harry Bond, Jim Ned Kiser and Steve Struve."

"We didn't take life so seriously back then and weren't busy trying to make a living. We boys thought more about becoming cowboys, and riding and roping were our favorite pastimes," relates Light.

Mrs. Light said, recalling early conditions, "When this part of the country here was just a prairie, we could count antelope by the hundred. And on any given night, we could look out and see a prairie fire."

The couple told that when the wind was strong, carelessness usually resulted in a fire.

"When that happened, dried 'cow chips' would catch fire and begin rolling before the wind. They left a trail of flames that usually burned off the cap (caprock)," they said.

The Lights built their new home in 1950, just across the highway from the old homestead.

Light said, "for 57 years, I've lived within half-a-mile of where I was born."

Light is often reminded of the homestead.

"Not long back, school kids put out a rumor that the house was haunted," he said.

In the mind of Athol Light, it would be more appropriate to say the house is bewitched with memories, haunted only by returning nostalgic thoughts.

"I was just about naked," he added.

ELMER MCGILL, Olton farmer, shows what was left of a pair of overalls and khakis he was wearing Monday. That was the day he got caught in a rod weeder and had the clothes chewed off his body. He escaped with only slight cuts and bruises.

Farmer Fights Off Shaft, Loses Pants

Elmer McGill, Olton farmer, was slowed this week from the effects of cuts and bruises, but he considers himself lucky to get off so lightly.

McGill was stripped to the waist Monday after getting a pant's leg caught in the drive shaft of a rod weeder.

"I had told the boys and Fletcher (a hired hand) to cut off the machine before kicking weeds from the sweeps. I did just what I'd told them not to do," explained McGill.

"Anyway, I demonstrated my point," he added.

McGill's clothing, a pair of khakis and coveralls, were shredded by the machine.

The farmer held himself from the thrashing shaft by bracing against a back tool bar. His clothes were abruptly chewed to shreds.

The machine was geared down, and the slower speed helped McGill keep himself at a safe distance.

Fletcher switched the machine off, McGill said, but it was too late to help much though, my clothes were already jerked off.

"I was just standing there in my shirt tail," said McGill.

McGill's legs were slightly cut and bruised.

"Motorists on the highway stared at me," said the six-foot-three-inch, 220-pound farmer.

"I was just about naked," he added.

ENTERPRISE SEEKING 'MOTHER OF THE YEAR'

The Enterprise wants to know, "Is your Mom the greatest?" In connection with Mother's Day, the Enterprise is sponsoring an Olton "Mother Of The Year" contest.

It is open to all ages, pre-schoolers through owners of long gray beards. Any member of the family can submit mom's name.

And the number of nominations is unlimited. Extra coupons are available at the newspaper office.

All that is required is filling out the coupon in 25 words or less why your Mom should be named "Mother Of The Year."

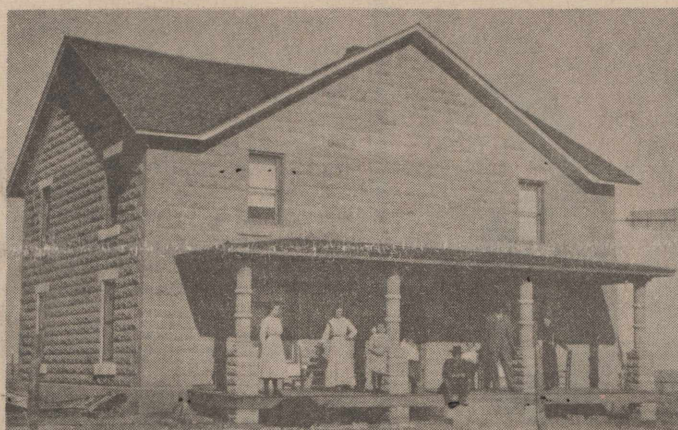

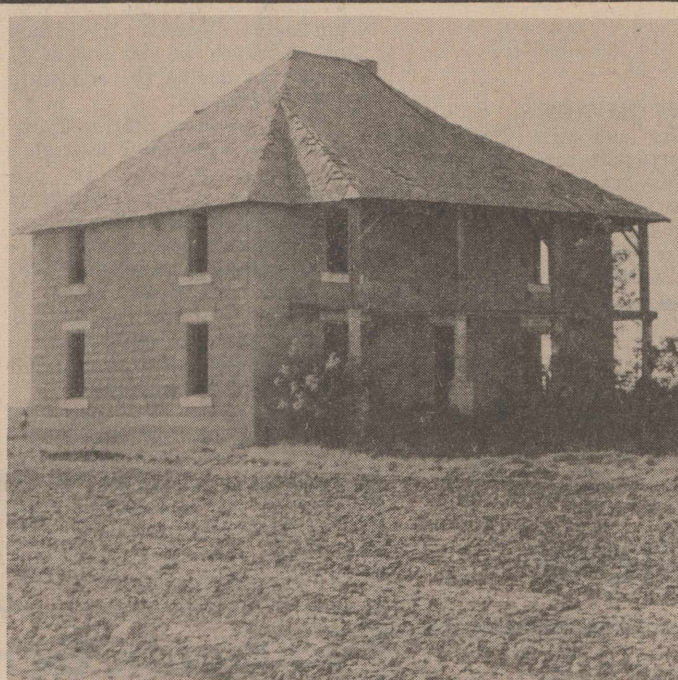

This is truly your chance to rave about Mom in public. The winning Mom will be chosen by a jury of judges; their decision is final.

The mother declared winner will be given a lifetime subscription to the Enterprise and will be presented flowers on Mother's Day morning.

Any mother residing in the Olton school district is eligible to be nominated.

Watch for the winning mom to be announced May 16 in the Enterprise.

Deadline for entering your mom is Saturday noon, May 11.

THE HOUSE by the side of the road described in the poem could have been something like the old J. M. Light place. This house was built in 1911. It is contrasted by its present make-up and that soon after it was built. It's located between Olton and Hart.

Baseball Drive At 'Standstill'

Finance chairman of the Olton Baseball Association, Lynn Fite, announced Monday night that $3,300 had been raised toward building the Little League Park.

"We're at a standstill," he said "and need some more people helping with this thing."

He added, "The campaign has lost its vigor."

"We should have someone working early mornings and evenings in an effort to raise the $1,000 we lack," said Fite.

"There are people who haven't been contacted," he added, "and five workers or less can't handle the job."

The handful of baseball men voiced their concern at the small turnout.

"We're going to have to hook up," said President Carroll Cox. He added, "This organization can't be run by just a few."

On the brighter side, Cox reported that the light fixtures are ready to be installed at the new park.

He said, "the poles will go up sometime this week and work will also begin on the dugouts."

REA gave four light poles and the baseball budget covered four.

Roy Granbery donated two more lots to the baseball organization, bringing his total to seven.

Coming up for vote and passing was the auctioning of boys to managers on the point system.

Such a system has long been the rule in franchised Little League baseball, said Bub Holt and Charles Polk.

Each manager will be given a certain amount of points and then they will bid for boys in relation to a boy's talent. Whoever gets one star player will have less points to bid on the next.

Polk said, "This will make for more evenly matched teams."

Boys must sign up to play before auctioning begins.

A deadline was discussed for boys signing up. Holt said he didn't think it would be fair to turn a boy down for not signing up before the deadline.

"When we start practicing, that will bring them in," he said.

Thus far 37 boys have signed to play in Little League.

Halfway will enter two Little League teams this year, bringing the number entered to six.

Olton Little League teams will alternate playing one game a week at Halfway.

Next meeting of the association is set for 8 p.m., Friday, 10, in the American Legion Hut.

"We would like to see every boy's parents at this meeting," said Holt. "It makes a lot of difference to the boy if he knows his mother and daddy are really interested in him playing baseball," Holt added.

Thomas told the Enterprise:

"No doubt there will be a lot of people who will be ready to criticize me for my decision to contest the Mayors election. I had made a statement that as far as I was concerned it was a closed election. It must be remembered that this statement was made before the situation was fully analyzed."

"First of all it appears that enough illegal votes were cast to change the outcome of the election. I believe that some of the voters whose votes are being contested voted for me, but I also believe that according to our election laws that these voters should not have voted in our City election."

"Our Nation has become great because of freedom of choice, and because of our right to vote and to choose those who are to govern us. If we allow the ballotbox to become contaminated and do nothing about it then finally we will be engulfed and destroyed the same way that a small skin cancer will finally consume our whole bodies."

"Another reason for contesting the election is that I would always feel that I had let the people down who voted for me, if I did not go through with the contest. If the results of the election are not changed by this contest then no one is hurt. If the results are changed then we will have helped guard the integrity of the ballot box."

In his petition, Thomas named 11 persons he alleged were not resident citizens of Olton and therefore should not have been permitted to cast a ballot.

The 11 named in the petition are: Justo Garcia, Roberto Garcia, Mrs. Raul Fuentez, Jose Salinas, Serbando Casarez, Louis Luera, Mary Luera, Peggy Swainey, Eriberto Amaya, Ben C. Garcia and Mrs. Ben C. Garcia.

Thomas further alleged:

"That Carmen Hernandez and Fred de La Rosa each cast a ballot in said election and used a sample ballot as an aid in casting their vote....thereby rendering their votes so cast void and illegal."

"That Mrs. Ben C. Garcia and Fred de La Rosa each cast a ballot in said election and were disqualified to vote in said election for the reason that they were not citizens of the United States of America....."

Thomas alleged that the casting of ballots by these people were sufficient to change the results of the election.

He asked that the count order the city council's canvass null and void, and that "the true results....be established by this court."

Thomas and his attorney said it was their understanding that other results of the election, in which two city council posts were decided, would not be affected by Thomas' contest.

Results were close in all races in the April 2 vote, with Russell Rucker getting 305 votes and Bill Kemp 297 to win spots as councilmen. G. A. Bodkin trailed with 294 and Lefty Hollingsworth got 255.

The turnout of 592 was largest in history of city voting here. Eleven ballots apparently were tossed out in the mayor's race, in which 581 votes were counted.

Bill Thomas Seeks Vote Reversal

Non-Residents Voted, 1-Vote Loser Alleges

Another chapter in Olton's history of city turmoil was written Wednesday afternoon as W.E. (Bill) Thomas filed a petition in district court contesting his one-vote loss last month to Mayor Gene Wilson.

The petition, styled W.E. (Bill) Thomas vs. Gene Wilson, became a part of the court records at Littlefield shortly before 2 p.m.

Thomas alleged:

1. "That many persons were allowed to vote in such election who were not qualified electors for such election in that they were not residents of the City of Olton and that the majority of the qualified electors who voted in such election voted for Contestant."

2. "That such election was not conducted in compliance with the statutes of this State governing the conduct of elections in that certain electors used sample ballots as an aid in casting their votes in violation of Article 8.12 of V.A.T.S. Election Code."

Thomas was defeated in the April 2 city election by a count of 291 to 290. Returns of the election were canvassed by the city council and declared official on April 4.

Police Chief Emmett Burrows served papers on Mayor Wilson notifying him of the contest at mid-afternoon Wednesday.

Contacted Wednesday night, Wilson told the Enterprise: "I don't want to say anything about it yet. I haven't had time to study it."

Thomas' petition, drawn by the law firm of Day and Owen, Plainview, asked that District Judge Pat Boone order ballot and stub boxes impounded and placed in the custody of the district clerk, pending a hearing on the contest.

He asked for a special setting of the hearing, as soon as possible, but as of late Wednesday Judge Boone had not ruled on the hearing.

More than 800 United States government awards will be available to qualified American graduate students for study or research in any one of 49 countries during the academic year of 1964-65.

The graduate fellowships, available under the Fulbright-Hays act of 1961 are administered by the Institute of International Education as part of the educational exchange program of the Department of State.

A LUBBOCK man, Alvin Lee Swindall, was slightly injured Friday morning when his pickup overturned three times. It was loaded with planting corn and grain. Swindall was treated and released from Olton Community Hospital and Clinic. The accident occurred at the north edge of the sandhills.

Driver Escapes As Truck Flips North Of Sandhills

A Lubbock man, driving a pickup truck loaded with corn and maize seed, escaped serious injuries Friday morning when he overturned three times about four miles south of Olton. The accident happened about 9:20 a.m.

Taken to Olton Community Hospital and Clinic was Alvin Lee Swindall. He is an employee of R. C. Young Seed and Grain Company in Lubbock.

J. W. Wells and David Metcalf, following about 75 yards behind Swindall, said, "He had just come out of the sandhills when his pickup began a slight fishtailing motion."

Metcalf said, "His pickup had a low tire and the heavy load probably caused him to lose control."

Wells added, "when he hit the left side of the pavement, his tire blew out and spun him into a sideways slide. It looked like he might gain control, but the pickup whipped around and he began rolling."

Swindall followed the windshield out on the second roll, the men said.

"I thought it was a coat at first," said Metcalf, "but then I saw it was the driver."

Wells and Metcalf said the man was trying to get to his feet when they pulled up. "He wanted to see his pickup," said Metcalf, "but he didn't make it."

"He fell down," joined in Wells, "and we thought he was dead." He was bleeding from a head injury.

Swindall was reported to have lain unconscious for about five minutes.

By the time the Lubbock man had regained consciousness, Mrs. Merrill Brigrance was at the scene.

She lives about 200 yards north of where Swindall overturned. She also witnessed the accident.

"I called the ambulance before I left the house," she said, "I figured he was either dead or seriously hurt."

"His jaw looked terrible and we thought it was badly swollen," said Mrs. Brigrance. She asked the man, "Does your jaw hurt?"

"No," he said, "that's just tobacco."

"Don't you want to spit it out," she asked him.

"No ma'am," he replied.

When a Parsons' ambulance arrived, Swindall didn't want to get on the stretcher, said Metcalf.

An attendant at the clinic said Swindall was knocked "sort of dopey" and kept stuffing tobacco in his jaw all the time he was here.

Several stitches were taken to close the gash in the back of his head. He also suffered rib and foot injuries.

He was released shortly after treatment.

Bill Angel, Lamb County highway patrol, worked the accident.

Arriving first at the scene and directing traffic were Chief of Police E. E. Burrows and Deputy Sheriff V. L. Smith.

Dam Project Is Boosted

Farmers along Running Water Draw made up the largest speaking body last Wednesday in Plainview before the State Soil Conservation Priority Board.

Four members of the five-man board were present. They heard farmers, ranchers, business men, city and civic officials testify as to needs for undelayed construction of water sheds along the draw.

The area from Clovis to Plainview is attempting to get priority in building the conservation dams. More than 100 other regions in Texas have made priority appeals.

A. J. Spain, precinct 1 commissioner, said the priority board visits all water shed projects in Texas and determines who needs help the most.

After they have reached the Running Water Draw stage, he added, the priority board determines where work will begin first.

Draw farmers told the board that when high waters came, their fences were washed down, farms flooded, livestock lost and top soil washed away.

Movies and slides were shown, mostly by farmers, hit by the 1961, Plainview flood.

When the draw water is dammed up, it will be used for municipal, industrial and recreational purposes.

For that reason, city spokesmen from Olton and area towns put in requisitions for eventual and diversified use of the water.

Olton officials had earlier discussed seeking municipal water rights. At the Plainview meeting, Mayor Gene Wilson testified as to Olton's wishes in getting water from the multi-purpose dam.

In June the priority board will decide the construction order of all watersheds under consideration.

Among speakers at the meeting were Dr. Wayland Bennett, economist from Texas Tech and James Valiant of High Plains Research Center.

Valiant gave statistics on area water conservation and recharge value--the pumping of lake water back into the underground supply.

Voicing this area's project needs were State Representatives Bill Clayton from Springlake and H. G. Wells from Tulia.

Three Lamb County Commissioners were present. They were A. J. Spain, Olton, precinct 1; H. W. Lewis, precinct

II, and J. L. "Roy" Yeager, precinct III.

Officials attending from Olton were Melvin McRaynolds, Gene Wilson, Bill Kemp and Bob Gullett.

Others attending from this area were Judge J.B. Davis, Fred Long, Preston Sampler, Norris Sampler, Aubrey Ours-bourne, John Norfleet, Martin Phillips, Glen Phillips, Johnny Hodges and Frank Adams.

LENDING--All Texans were invited to appear and testify about the so-called "loan shark" legislation.

Enough Texans accepted to make it a three-hour session with the House Banks and Banking Committee. There were two major points of disagreement. One--the insurance provisions of Senate Bill 15 (passed by the Senate). And two--the maximum loan to be made for a company to fall under the act, and thus be allowed to charge more than 100 percent interest.

Witnesses representing the insurance companies generally protested that the new commissioner, to be called for under the act, would have too much power. Especially over rates.

APPROPRIATIONS----A record $3,100,000,000 spending program--the general appropriation for the next biennium--went to a conference committee following rejection by the House of Senate amendments.

Motion not to concur in Senate changes was made by Rep. W. S. Heatley of Paducah.

Men 27 Tons Overweight

NEW YORK, The gross tonnage of Lamb County's male population has gone up. It is considerably higher than it once was.

Back in 1929, when working hours were longer, when people would think nothing of going on foot to the corner grocery store and when a farmer walked behind his plow instead of riding on a tractor, it was easier to stay slim.

Now, in this push-button age, even the little effort that was once used in driving a car is being eliminated. Power brakes, power steering, electric windows and automatic shifting have cut that effort to the vanishing point.

As a result of little exercising and excessive eating, Lamb County's men are approximately five pounds heavier, on the average, than were men of similar height and age in 1929.

The local male population as a whole is about 54,700 pounds, or 27.4 tons, heavier than it would have been at that time.

The findings are based on national averages arrived at in studies conducted by the Society of Actuaries and by the Department of Agriculture.

They show that the changes that have taken place are different for different heights and ages.

At the 5 foot-8 inch level, the increase among 25-year-old men is listed as 4 pounds, at age 35, as 6 pounds, at age 45, as 5 pounds and, for those who are 55 years old, 3 pounds.

As to the women, in terms of 1929 standards they are not overweight. Actually they are found to be slimmer than they were at that time. When fashions dictated the slender look for women, they proceeded to diet and to lose weight.

They now tip the scales at several pounds less than in 1929. If men were to return to their 1929 size, the medical experts would still not be satisfied. For a longer and healthier life, they say, the average man should be 20 pounds lighter.

For Lamb County's male population, this would mean knocking off no less than 110 tons.

Impossible? Not really. It would require a great deal of will power, much less activity with the knife and fork and more exercise than at present.

Your Voice In State Government

BY BILL CLAYTON

We are soon to begin the last month of the session of the Legislature if the session lasts the full 140 days.

There are indications that this legislature may finish short of the full time, something that has not been done in recent years.

Both Houses have passed their appropriations bill, and a conference committee, made up

Golf Winners Announced

Louis Hair repeated as champion this year of the annual Lions Club Golf Tournament.

This makes the second time in two years that he has claimed the championship trophy.

of members of the two Houses, has begun work on the final draft of the money bill that will pay for the operation of the State for the next two years.

It appears that the tax bill passed by the House, and which exempt farm machinery as is presently done, will be passed by the Senate also, and it will provide the additional money that will be required for the next two years.

When both of these pieces of legislation, appropriations and money to cover the appropriations, have been taken care of then the major remaining work of the session will be finished.

The House has had two sessions, and another one scheduled for next week, at which they passed numbers of local and uncontested legislation. These sessions take care of, in a short time, much needed legislation that is either local or corrective in nature, and shorten the hours that would have been used to have passed the same bill.

The bills, appearing on this calendar, are submitted to a study committee, and are carefully checked to be sure that they are just what they say they are, "local" or "uncontested", and then they can be processed rapidly.

House Bill 159, having to do with the regulation of obscene motion pictures and obscene literature, passed the House, and I am hopeful that it will result in more careful selection of motion pictures that are shown in public theaters.

The House passed House Bill 164, Representative Bill Dungan's bill concerning the teaching of Americanism vs. Communism in the public schools.

The bill was amended in the House, and as it passed it provided that senior high schools should teach, either in American History or Economics, a study which would compare the economic and political systems of the United States with those of Communist countries.

The House also passed two bills having to do with the equal rights for women.

One of these bills provides that the married woman can have separate control over her own personal property, and the other does away with separate acknowledgment in transfer of property.

The hours per day are getting longer as far as House work and committee work is concerned.

The reason, of course, for the heavy work the last few weeks is that it looks like time for getting bills passed through both the House and Senate is growing late.

This being the case, more contested and controversial legislation will be up for discussion and many of them will die with the session.

It was awarded to him Tuesday at the Lions regular meeting and luncheon.

Hair was closely contested in the ORC held tournament, but beat off runner-up T.J. Robertson to take first.

Consolation man in the championship flight was Bobby Copeland. The two also received trophies.

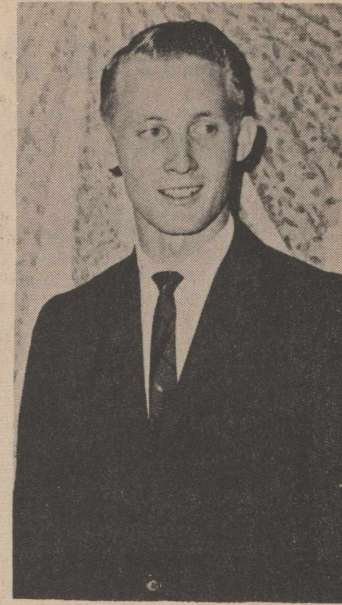

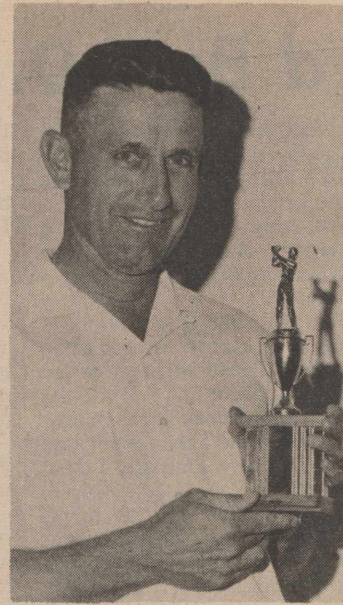

James Hall poured it on to nudge Eldon Franks for first place in the first flight. Franks was runner-up.

First flight consolation was taken by Ralph Glover. In the second flight, Dan Gregory packed home the first place trophy. Howard Hall was runner-up and Charles Polk was consolation prize winner.

Winning the third flight was Melvin McReynolds. He was pushed by runner-up Bill Richardson. Consolation went to G.H. Bley.

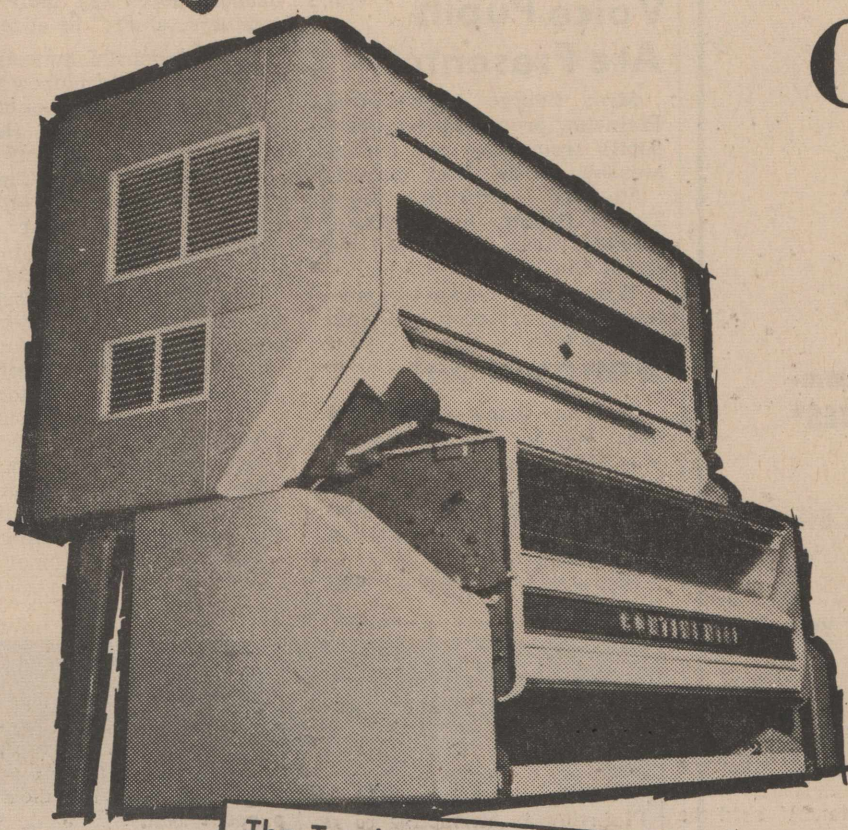

LION LAUIS Hair for the second year in a row won the annual Lions Club Golf championship. That's him on the left. Other flight winners in the tournament were James Hall, winner of the first flight; Dan Gregory, victor of the second flight; and Melvin McReynolds, third flight winner. The tournament was completed last week at Olton Recreation Club. Approximately 34 Lions were entered in the two-week competition.

AMHERST, TEXAS

Continental Gin Company
Lubbock, Texas

Dear Sirs:

Since we wrote you in December about the successful beginning of our ginning operation we have completed our first season. We ginned over 6500 bales on our new 3-119 saw Continental outfit this year and are now even more pleased with it than we stated in our first letter.

Operationally we have had a season that was highly successful. Every piece of your gin machinery performed dependably and efficiently. Even under the unusually difficult conditions under which this crop was made we were able to keep our capacity between 15 and 17 bales an hour. Considering the season, which produced a crop which was rough even for West Texas, we still believe that we have the best gin that can be bought in our Continental Comet System.

The unique overhead arrangement using multiple "Little David" stick machines has amazed everyone in its ability to handle our rough stripper cotton. We have learned to expect almost the impossible from our 119 gins. They have handled all types of cotton and maintained capacity. Their capacity operation on the heaviest of green cotton, which some of our outfits had turned down, has made us mighty proud of city which we operated we believe that the Tandem int Cleaners have proven the real answer to to satisfy our customers all season.

efore, very happy to again inform you that we are satisfied with our entire operation. Its dependability have given us the gin outfit we needed, particularly as long as our maintenance costs remain as minor as they have this year. We ginned the entire season on one set of gin saws and they still needed only minimum repair work.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO THE FARMER FOR 1963

The PANHANDLE MUTUAL HAIL ASSOCIATION has paid back to the farmers an average of 84c of each premium dollar over the last 4 years for HAIL LOSSES. The loss benefits is the important and simple crux of any insurance policy, and much sweeter than any token dividend or deviation.

TEN REASONS WHY PANHANDLE MUTUAL HAIL ASSOCIATION IS ONE OF THE LARGEST CROP HAIL WRITERS ON TEXAS CROPS:

- All Texas policies are reinsured by the LLOYD'S OF LONDON with billions of dollar assets.
- All liability is mapped and limited by section and township.
- Approximately FIVE MILLION dollars paid to West Texas farmers for losses the last five years.
- A-PLUS (EXCELLENT) RATING BY "DUNNE'S FIRE AND CASUALTY REPORT".
- Required legal reserve (policy holders surplus) maintained at all times and deposits are kept in LOCAL BANKS throughout the West Texas area.
- The PANHANDLE SPECIAL cotton policy DOES NOT have the REPLANT clause and we DO NOT use the PLANT POPULATION adjustment at any time on this policy.
- We DO offer the FB-10 with (Replant Clause) and the Broadform policy—full effect on June 5th in Zone 2 at (noon) with replant clause before this date and plant population adjustment at a reduced rate.
- The PANHANDLE Wheat Policy is the only policy with the "Extra Harvest Expense Award" benefits, also with the 10% credit on Tascosa and beardless wheat, only 48 hour waiting period and a nice premium saving in most counties.
- Free cancellation on crop failures (See Dates) . . . arbitration clause.

Shetland Mules Raised By J.D. Rodgers

J. D. RODGERS, A Hart farmer also has another sidelight. It's raising hybrid shetland mules. Here's one of the three he has on his farm. One of the colts weighed 39 pounds from the third day it was born. Rodgers plans more experimentation with genetics of the two breeds.

It has been suggested to J.D. Rodgers, Hart farmer, that he build a toll gate at the entrance of his farm.

Not only does he have a menagerie of wildlife, he raises a hybrid animal called a shetland mule.

One has the impression of being at a circus or zoo after spending a few minutes on the Rodgers' place.

"I guess it does seem pretty strange for the average person, but I just love animals," said Rodgers.

In one area of the farm, chucker quail and pheasant strut around. Turkeys, guineas and bantam chicken are abundant. Game cocks and a silver cock pheasant are there, too. When the two tangle in battle, it is always the fighting game cock that turns "chicken" and runs away.

"I keep the cocks away from that pheasant," says Rodgers, "he killed one not long ago." In the corrals, sight-seers are met by a creature both common and unusual.

There before them are three shetland colts with mule's ears and head.

"The animal isn't very common on farms," says Rodgers, "it usually is found in a circus." "What makes this animal so much different," he added, "is the small body of the shetland." Rodgers is raising the shetland mule both as a hobby and to sell.

"I'd like to train them too," he adds, "but I've been so busy I haven't had time."

Rodgers has a number of animals, including a jack and two German Shepherd dogs that vouch for his training ability. "They're almost human sometimes," says the Hart man, who once trained bird dogs for a living.

The shetland mule is a cross between a jack and a shetland mare.

Rodgers said, "I'm going to cross one of my spotted jacks with a spotted and striped shetland and get a spotted offspring."

He said, "That will be even more unusual to have a polka dotted shetland mule."

In almost all cases, says the farmer, the shetland mule is sterile. "I've never known any," he said, "that reproduced their kind."

Rodgers has been raising shetlands since 1954 and decided last year to start the cross breed.

"I weighed one of the little fellows," he said, "three days after it was born, and it weighed 39 pounds."

Rodgers' next experiment in genetics will involve the crossing of a jenny with a shetland stallion to get a henny.

Wanna bet on that toll gate?

Hart School Expansion Up To Voters Saturday

Hart school district voters will get a second chance to have their say on a proposed school expansion program Saturday. School trustees and officials have come out solidly behind two proposals which will be decided at the election:

1. $360,000 for construction of a new junior high and senior high school including 15 classrooms and a gymnasium.

2. $75,000 for construction of a 600-seat auditorium. The two propositions were explained in detail Tuesday night at a public question-and-answer meeting which was attended by a small but interested group at the school gymnasium.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday at the city hall.

"Education is our responsibility," Mrs. Clyde Witten, moderator of the question-and-answer meeting, told the group as she opened the session.

She called on Herbert Brasher, of Brasher and Goyett, architect, and Joe W. Smith, financial advisor of First Southwest Corp., for detailed explanations of the building program and finances.

In addition, school board members and supt. Paul Kennedy were on hand to answer questions.

Asked about plans for a "compact" building which could be windowless, Brasher explained:

"The board has made no decision as of now whether there will be no windows. They have considered putting a small window in each room. That's why they wanted this meeting, to find out how the people would feel about it. It's something that can be decided later and wouldn't be a factor in the cost."

Brasher said the board decided, after long study, that a compact building would be better than a conventional type because such a building is less expensive to construct. He said such a structure would mean a small increase in utility costs, but a large saving in maintenance costs. "Canyon school people say their compact building is saving them a janitor's salary," he added.

Questions and comments about the building plan came quickly, including one which drew laughter.

"I used to like to look out windows and day dream when I was a kid," said one man. He wondered if a windowless building could have an adverse effect on students.

A board member, Charles Martin, later commented: "I believe other schools with compact buildings have found that receptiveness is better among the kiddos and the teachers get along better, too, in a controlled climate which an air-conditioned compact building would give us."

Brasher told the group that a compact building with few or no windows and air-conditioning could be constructed at slightly less cost than a conventional building.

Asked about the feasibility of building on to the present high school, Brasher said:

"It's true that it would be less expensive to add to this building, but it is a much better arrangement to have students in junior high and elementary separated."

He said separate buildings are better also because the high school curriculum is getting more advanced and more special classrooms such as science labs, etc., are needed.

Buster Aven, a former school board member, commented:

Voice Pupils Are Presented

Mrs. George Morrison of Plainview presented her voice pupils from Hart in a recital Monday at the Hart School.

Students performing were Tina Proffitt, Jeyton Jones, Sharon Aven, Barbara and Debbie Hansen.

The closing number was presented by Hart choir students.

Banquet Set

The Hart Junior-Senior Banquet will be Saturday night May 4th in the school cafeteria.

It is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. The theme of the program will be "Evening in Paris".

Senior will and prophecy will be read.

LOOKING OVER PROPOSED SCHOOL---Patrons of the Hart School District are shown the exterior of a proposed $360,000 junior high-senior high school building which will be voted upon at Hart Saturday. A community meeting to discuss the bond election was held Tuesday night.

"DeKalb is one of the best there is to stand up till harvest." Sam likes the way DeKalb threshes and cleans out of the head. TEXAS COTTON GROWERS REPORT:

Entire Season Control of Thrips, Aphids and Mites...

Untreated plant

Di-Syston treated

Di-Syston Treated Plants Are Stronger, Straighter... Produce More Squares Earlier

West Texas and New Mexico cotton growers now have a new way to control thrip damage and early-season stunting... with Di-Syston granular insecticide. Di-Syston is placed in the soil with the seed or side dressed after planting. The chemical is then absorbed by the growing roots and carried to all parts of the plant through the sap stream—as soon as the plant emerges. No part of the plant is unprotected—even tender new growth as it is formed.

The result? With Di-Syston, your early cotton grows faster, has stronger, straighter stems, more vigorous foliage. Squares form earlier and the plant produces more of them. Many growers in the Lubbock area have reported full season control of thrip with just the one application. You get higher yields because of the good Di-Syston start. This year, get your crop off to a good start with Di-Syston. Complete instructions for use are printed on the label on every package. Use Di-Syston.

Junior High School Band Ranks Tops In Contest

Olton's junior high school band was judged among the best last week in the Seagraves Band Contest.

The band received a "one" in concert and a "two" in sight reading. Bands did not compete in marching.

Schools were entered from the South and High Plains. Four quartets from the Olton school were in competition.

The trumpet quartet was given a "one" rating and received medals.

Composing the group were Donnie Fancher, Lynn Campbell, Gary Parkey and David Neinast.

The trumbone quartet was also given a "one", but only one group was allowed to compete for the medals.

Listed on the trumbone crew are Johnny Lewis, Kim Parker, Jayson Latimer and Scotty Jones.

Both the clarinet and another trumbone quartet received "two" rankings.

On the clarinet unit were Robbie Langford, Judy Burkhalter, Debra Walden and Lupe Hernandez.

The other trumbone quartet was made up of Steve Spain, Larry McLain, Steve Burleson, and Danny Sides.

End-Of-School Rigors Evident In Olton Halls

The halls of Olton public schools and classrooms are taking on a "buzz" of vacation anticipation.

Teachers are finding their chores harder and end-of-school problems mounting.

Administrators, especially principals, are running into a few more corrective measures they must take to keep things running smoothly.

Classrooms are getting warm, and it's easier to watch butterflies and birds than concentrate on studies.

Seniors have returned from their trip and are "gearing up" for the final "kick" out of OHS.

There are 43 who will receive diplomas.

They get together again Friday at the TownHouse in Plainview for a senior party.

School activities are poised for their last big showdown in 1963.

Tonight, Thursday, FTA members will hold their annual salad supper in the lunchroom.

Tuesday, May 7, the school board will meet.

A general faculty meeting has been set for Monday, 13. Baccalaureate exercises have been marked on the calendar for Sunday, 19 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Junior High School will hold its graduation ceremonies Friday evening of the 24th. High School graduation is at 8 a.m. that night.

A sigh of relief is in order for teachers Saturday, 25; they will be dismissed.

And when the year is completed, 178 school days will have slipped into yesterdays.

Overcoming Rural Poverty Is Stressed By Freeman

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman is urging participation in Rural Life Sunday, (May 19) and Soil Stewardship Week (beginning May 19), with a call to church and other leaders to stress the need of overcoming rural poverty.

"The greatest peril facing rural areas today is the erosion of human resources through poverty stemming largely from underemployment and unemployment," Secretary Freeman said.

Rural Life Sunday--the fifth Sunday after Easter--is the traditional observance of churches to emphasize the spiritual, and other organizations.

Principal sponsor of Soil Stewardship Week, which begins on Rural Life Sunday, is the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

"These are occasions when church congregations and the community groups give special attention to total community developments--improving both human and natural resources," the Secretary said.

"Thus they are fitting times to stress people's participation in Rural Area Development, in which all the States and the U. S. Department of Agriculture are joining with regional and local groups to raise living standards in country areas by providing new economic opportunities.

"We must focus on people, not programs; on communities, not commodities." "Church and other leaders can aid tremendously in this nation-wide effort by helping and inspiring people to help themselves.

These leaders can help motivate, generate and guide action toward improved living for the millions on rural areas with sub-standard incomes."

Citizen's Help Called On In Auto Mishaps

The Texas Safety Association today labeled the traffic accident situation in Texas "Critical" and called on the citizens of the state to help stop the increasing trend in traffic accidents and fatalities.

"The traffic accident situation in Texas has reached a critical period," J.O. Musick, General Manager of TSA, said. "During the first three and one-half months of this year, traffic fatalities increased about 17 percent over the same period last year. Traffic accidents increased approximately 12 percent."

The safety director said it was going to take "an all-out effort on the part of every driver to stop the needless waste of lives, the human suffering and the economic loss caused by accidents." He also pointed out the urgency of checking the increasing accident trend. "Vacation time is 'just around the corner,' and if something isn't done to stop the traffic accident trend, it won't be safe for anyone to get out on our streets and highways," Musick said.

He urged individual drivers to increase or work toward developing skills and attitudes to meet every driving situation and appealed to all civic clubs and other organizations to encourage safe driving.

"Each driver can help himself and other drivers by driving carefully and courteously. Civic clubs and other organizations can aid the cause of traffic safety by initiating and supporting safety campaigns. "So, let's all drive safely and talk safety," Musick concluded. "The life you save may be your own."

Caution Is Advised While Tending Lawn

The discarded nail was hidden in tall grass. The mower blade hit it and suddenly it was buried an inch deep alongside the shinbone of the 23-year-old Williamson County secretary.

Accidents of this type will be on the increase now--this is lawn-mowing time, you know--until fall weather brings a welcome respite the weekly chore.

The State Department of Health does not keep statistics on non-fatal accidents, so the extent of injuries from carelessly handled power mowers is unknown. But one Central Texas city reports, conservatively, that 15 to 25 serious accidents are reported each year.

Like the man who stopped his car at the curb, intending to say hello to his perspiring neighbor busily mowing the grass, Neighbor wheels up with mower to return the greeting. Man in car--elbow resting on window--finds his forearm pinned to hip with a five-inch piece of wire flung at him by the whirling blade.

Power equipment is a tremendous boon to the man who likes to keep his yard neat with a minimum of effort. But it takes constant concentration to do the job safely. Even experience is no substitute for concentration.

A garden club member in a major Texas city used to pride himself on his safe and sane use of power tools that helped him maintain the sharpest yard in the block.

But no more. One afternoon recently, while trimming his driveway with a power trimmer, he reached down to lift a bloom-laden branch of a rose bush out of the way.

When he withdrew his hand two fingers were missing. "I wasn't alert," he wryly explained.

One of the most frequent mower accidents has this sequence:

A stick or wire or rock jams between cutting bar and blade. The operator attempts to clear the jam without going to the trouble of killing the motor. Results: Badly cut or severed fingers when the surge of power spins the freed blade.

Most power mowers come equipped with safety guards. Trouble is that guards are removed by owners for one reason or another and never replaced.

But use one carelessly and you're liable to become a candidate for a quick trip to the emergency ward of a hospital.

Corvair Monza Club Coupe

Who needs muscles?

Do you know how easy it is to take a corner with a Corvair or park one? Turn this newspaper sideways and it will give you a pretty good idea. The wheel handles just about that easily.

The Corvair's engine is in the rear, for not only greater traction, but more balanced weight distribution. And that's what makes the steering so completely effortless.

The engine is air cooled, too. No radiator. No water or antifreeze. No boiling over or freezing up to worry about. It takes the weather and the terrain as it comes.

AT YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER'S

So think about those trips to the beach this summer, those bright sunny days and balmy moonlit nights.

And besides, looking at it from a very practical point of view, it's Trade 'N' Travel time right now at your Chevrolet dealer's. He's got some beautiful buys.

But you had better hurry before somebody muscles in ahead of you. Spring's here. Summer's coming fast. And with these sporty good-looking Corvairs selling the way they are, he who hesitates will want to kick himself.

Don't you read before you buy?

Most people do.

They count on advertising in print to give them the information they want on products that interest them—information on features... designs... and prices, for example.

People not only read about products and services, they show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples; they tear out ads to take along when they go shopping.

When you add it all up, print advertising—the kind you read in the pages of this newspaper—makes sense.

And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sales.

Most people read—and then buy. Don't you?
