The SDN Column

Those who have been doing some of the preliminary work negotiating with officials of an industrial firm which has expressed interest in Snyder are more excited over this prospect than anything that has come along since Ritz Craft came in.

A lot of local people will be directly involved when the labor survey is made week after next and to get the job done as desired, the survey must move like clock-work.

However, community leaders feel that it is a challenge that area residents need and that it will be beneficial to the community regardless of whether a new industry comes in immediately.

But the industrial foundation and Chamber of Commerce officials really want this one. It is one of the true "blue chips" in a type of industry which earlier surveys indicate would be especially desirable for Snyder and Scurry County to expand diversification.

If you will be out of the county on Nov. 23, remember to cast an absentee ballot in the junior college bond election. And also remember that the place to cast absentee ballots is being moved this weekend to the college campus. The election order provides for absentee voting in the college administrative offices. These were located in the former Standard building until this weekend. Beginning Monday they will be in the Western Texas College Administration Building on the campus.

And you will use your old voter registration credentials to qualify. If you registered in another county, but have lived in Scurry County at least six months, you may get your registration transferred, but it must be done at least five days before the election. Voters under 21 may cast ballots in the bond election if they registered 30 days before the election.

Larry Thompson, the journalism professor at Western Texas College, and yours truly have started work on a book dealing with Scurry County's history. We discussed this several months ago and now the History of Fisher County, brought out recently by E.L. Yeats and E.H. Shelton of Rotan, has rekindled the interest.

Hopefully, we will get to press with a volume by late winter or early spring.

Assistance Is Sought For Labor Survey Here

Machinery is being set up here to conduct a fast, in-depth labor survey over a three-day period for a prospective new industry in Snyder.

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce has announced that volunteer assistance will be sought from civic and service clubs, other groups and individuals to carry out the survey on Nov. 18-19-20 at the Scurry County Coliseum. The hours will be from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day.

The survey is being set up to determine the availability of labor for a firm which has indicated an interest in establishing a manufacturing plant here.

The firm, which manufactures women's and children's outer wear, is seeking a location for a sewing and-stitching plant.

Chamber of Commerce officials and representatives of Texas Electric Service Co., through which the initial contact was made, expressed hope that as many as 1,500 persons would respond to the survey.

They are seeking people who are available for work (both male and female) in the immediate future. They may be persons not now employed but who are interested in working, or they may be people already employed but who could improve their situation by working for the new plant if it is established.

"This firm is one of the most successful and one of the soundest in the business," said Mickey Nunley, Chamber of Commerce Manager.

If Snyder is selected as the site, the firm hopes to begin operations in temporary facilities within weeks, with subsequent plans for expanding into permanent quarters. They have indicated that some 100 employes would be needed to begin their operation, and that ultimately the working force could go as high as 500.

Representatives of the company will be on hand for the labor survey to discuss details of the employment requirements with those who respond to the survey.

Nunley said that the Chamber of Commerce hoped that around 150 persons would help with the survey. They will be needed to work short shifts at the coliseum during the three-day period.

The Chamber of Commerce is making the survey at the request of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation, which already has entered into negotiations with the manufacturing firm concerning temporary facilities and property for permanent facilities.

Dock And Coal Strikes Costly

By MALCOLM CARTER
Associated Press Writer

Long-running strikes in many of the nation's deepwater ports and Appalachia's soft coal mines have caused layoffs daily in dependent industries, mounting revenue losses and predictions of impending power cutbacks.

Since the two strikes started at the beginning of October, the combined estimated losses in revenue taxes and income have soared beyond half a billion dollars.

The railroads alone have furloughed more than 20,000 employes, and the Penn Central has sustained losses at the rate of $18.8 million a month.

Customers of Public Service Indiana, one of the state's biggest electric utilities, face power rationing in a week or two.

Indiana University and the University of Missouri already have cut back on heating and lights.

In West Virginia, more than 15,000 miners and their families received food stamps worth $1.5 million last week, while increasing numbers of the state's 39,000 striking miners were expected to apply this week.

"It's hitting us real hard," said Willia Ray, past president of the Mingo County, W.Va., Board of Trade Association. "Some folks have told me their business is off by as much as 60 per cent."

Negotiations in both strikes have proved fruitless, but federal mediator J. Curtis Counts will enter bargaining Tuesday in an effort to end the walkout by most Atlantic Coast members of the International Longshoremen's Association.

About a third of the ILA's 45,000 Gulf and East coast members were still off the job after the National Labor Relations Board successfully sought restraining orders in Philadelphia and New Orleans.

Board Near Agreement On Wage Guides

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board was reported nearing agreement today on post-freeze wage guidelines that would validate all but "grossly disproportionate" increases in existing labor contracts, with refunds for raises lost during the freeze.

A subcommittee of labor and management members met this morning attempting to settle the thorny issue of how large a raise should be considered "grossly disproportionate" and therefore disallowed, a source close to the talks said.

Such a settlement would represent a compromise of labor's initial position that all existing labor contracts should be honored without alteration and with full retroactive pay for frozen-out raises, and that post-freeze guidelines should apply only to newly negotiated contracts.

Earlier, the 10 management and public Pay Board Members had been reported ready to outvote the five labor members and clamp wage ceilings on even previously negotiated wage contracts, with no retroactive pay for the freeze period.

However, stories of the impending defeat of labor's position leaked to news media and the House Banking Committee quickly, but by a narrow margin, altered president Nixon's proposed post-freeze economic legislation to permit payment of raises in existing contracts, with retroactivity, except for "grossly disproportionate" increases.

A source close to the Pay Board said this action had strengthened labor's hand, in effect giving it a figurative shotgun to prop in the corner, and that it was being used as a model for bargaining toward post-freeze guidelines.

The source reported that early Friday the Pay Board rejected a management proposal that would deny retroactivity but allow first year wage increases of seven per cent in contracts negotiated between Nov. 13, when the freeze period ends, and January 1, 1972. The rejected management offer would have set a five per cent a year guideline for contracts negotiated thereafter, the source said.

As the Pay Board negotiations reportedly neared their conclusion, the public relations staffs of the Treasury Department and Cost of Living Council stood by ready to set up a news conference on two hours notice to announce any decision, a Cost of Living Council spokesman said.

Threats Close 5 US-Owned Firms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Five American-owned factories in Canada were closed today after an anonymous caller threatened to blow up 50 U.S. branch plants in the country if the Amchitka nuclear test goes off.

A number of demonstrations were planned across Canada against the Amchitka blast, scheduled for this afternoon on the Aleutian island.

And in Japan protests against the blast continued, but parliament declined to adopt an appeal to call off the explosion. The Soviet Union has made no official complaint against the planned test but its official news agency Tass reported Sat. in a dispatch from Tokyo that "numerous Japanese organizations" were protesting the blast.

An official source in Ottawa said a man in Edmonton, Alta., phoned a Vancouver newspaper office Friday with the threat against U.S.-owned firms.

"If the Amchitka blast goes," the caller was quoted as saying, "then so does a selection of American corporations and industries in Canada.

There will be 50 explosions set and they will be set across Canada."

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters in Ottawa said it had alerted its detachments and other police forces about the threat. But a spokesman said: "We don't know whether there is any substance to it at all."

All five American-owned firms that suspended operations are in Ontario. They are Hoover Chemical, Mastico Industries Ltd. and Canadian Leaf Tobacco, all of Tillsonburg, and North American Containers of Aylmer and Proctor-Lewyt Co. of Picton.

A spokesman for the Canadian Parliament told newsmen that President Nixon had received an official protest, approved by Commons on Oct. 15. A protest telegram signed by more than 100 members of Parliament was sent to Nixon Friday.

Service For Mrs. Maynard

Funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. today at the Fluvanna Methodist Church for Mrs. Bessie Maynard, 75, who died Friday morning in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. Phillip Lopes, pastor of Fluvanna Methodist Church will officiate. He will be assisted by the Rev. Thomas Hall, pastor of Fluvanna Baptist Church, and E. M. Steph, minister of Fluvanna Church of Christ.

Burial will be in the Fluvanna Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home. Pallbearers will be Vernon Miller, Bill Herring, Doyle Newton, E. L. Farmer, James Beaver and Norman Sneed.

Bob's transvestite 'joke' has her in shock

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: This is a strange one. I was recently the house guest of Marge, my old college roommate, and her husband, Bob, who live in Washington. The first evening, Bob took us to a ball game and we had a delightful time.

The next evening we were to have dinner at their favorite night spot. I got ready, and down the stairs comes Marge with a very beautiful, statuesque, well-dressed "lady" I had never seen before. In a booming masculine voice the "lady" said: "Well, girls, let's go!"

I nearly fainted! It was Bob. I couldn't believe my eyes. He looked so feminine. Believe me, I never would have known he wasn't a woman had it not been for his voice. Even his gestures were lady-like. The evening progressed quite normally, just as if we "three girls" were out on the town. Bob even went to the powder room with us, and no one suspected!

They later explained it was "harmless fun" and Bob frequently did this for kicks.

What on earth is the matter with him? Do you think he is a normal male? Would you call this "harmless fun?"

STILL IN SHOCK IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR STILL: Bob could be a transvestite [one who enjoys masquerading as the opposite sex]. Or he could be a far-out practical joker.

This is hardly "normal," but it is "harmless" except for the social consequences of being recognized. As for the ladies' powder room bit, Bob could end up in the cooler for that. And should he try the men's room in that get-up, he could wind up in the hospital.

There must be other ways to have "fun."

DEAR ABBY: My husband calls me "Mom." I detest this and have told him so. The only one who has the right to call me "Mom" is our son.

Yesterday, knowing how much I hate it, my husband called me "Mom" again. I very politely said: "I am not your mother." He got mad and left the house in a huff and when he came back he didn't speak to me for the rest of the day.

Am I wrong for not wanting him to call me "Mom?" Or has he the right to call me "Mom" if he wants to?

NOT MY HUSBAND'S MOTHER

DEAR NOT: The problem here is not what he calls you, but the fact that he deliberately addresses you in a manner that he knows you detest. And THAT is wrong.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of older children [23 and 21] telling their father in front of others that it is wrong to reprimand his younger son [age 13] in front of company? They say it embarrasses the child and the company.

I say a child should be corrected when he does some wrong, people or no people around. The 23-year-old said: "If you had learned psychology in school you would know different."

Since when does a parent need to learn psychology in school before correcting a child? This made a big argument in our house that lasted for hours. Your opinion might help.

FATHER

DEAR FATHER: If a child misbehaves in the presence of company, he should be "corrected" right then and there, but guests should not be subjected to a "scene" of humiliation or punishment. [Much depends upon the seriousness of the child's misbehavior.]

CONFIDENTIAL TO FIVE-TIME LOSER AND STILL SWINGING: A hairpiece may make you look younger, but unless you can get one with some brains under it, you won't be any smarter.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Laird Cuts Red Tape On GIs' Football

SAIGON (AP) — Laying the affairs of state aside temporarily, football fan Melvin Laird teamed with former Stanford University end David Packard on a play that cut through bureaucratic red tape to bring GIs more football on television.

The secretary of state told a farewell news conference that when he arrived in Saigon earlier this week he found there were some difficulties in getting proper football games on the armed forces radio and television.

"I instructed my staff to initiate a two-minute bureaucratic drill," he said. "We went into full action and I'm glad to report that former end from Stanford University and my deputy, Dave Packard, cut through this bureaucratic red tape.

"He followed through and there will be more football to be aired on the armed services TV network here next week."

Chrysler Recalls '72 Models

DETROIT (AP) — An automatic transmission defect that may interfere with shifting gears has prompted the Chrysler Corp. to announce the recall of 52,279 of its 1972 model Dodge, Chrysler and Plymouth automobiles.

A spokesman said Friday a small number of the cars being recalled are suspected of having an improperly mounted bushing, which could result in the driver shifting the control lever into the park position while the transmission remained in drive.

Chrysler says no accidents or injuries connected with this problem have been reported.

The company said only a small number of the cars being recalled is suspected of having the problem.

Mistake In Lab Analysis

DUMAS, Tex. (AP) — A Dumas woman is another told by the State Health Department that she should consult her doctor about possibly undergoing rabies shots after a mistake by the laboratory in analysis.

She is Miss Bertha Lee Sanders of Dumas, the operator of a liquor store.

Miss Sanders said she was bitten by a stray cat Sept. 16 when the animal wandered into her trailer home south of Fritch.

She said the cat bite was very deep.

Said Miss Sanders, "I tossed him outside, took my gun and pumped that cat full of lead."

The cat's head was sent to the Health Department laboratory at Austin for analysis. The first rabies report came back negative. But after disclosure of a mistake involving the rabies test for an Austin youth, the Health Department informed Miss Sanders of the situation.

She said she began the shots Wednesday.

Synod Reaffirms Priestly Celibacy

VATICAN CITY (AP)— The World Synod of Bishops closed today after rejecting a proposal that married men be ordained as priests. Pope Paul VI praised the bishops' reaffirmation of priestly celibacy.

The synod, in the climax to five weeks of debate, passed a revised document on social justice calling for support by the Roman Catholic Church of conscientious objection to war duty. It also asked the Pope to set up a high-level Vatican commission to study the rights and roles of women in society and in the Church.

A resolution stating that married men may not be admitted to the priesthood of the Church's dominant Western rite, though upholding the Pope's right to change this rule, drew 107 votes.

A more liberal counter-proposal encouraging the Pope to approve the ordination of married men "of a mature age and upright life" got 83 votes. Three delegates abstained in the voting, which required a simple majority for passage.

All synod decisions are meant as advice to the Pope and have no legislative effect. About 200 bishops remained today after all-night sessions revising the two documents.

The synod's outcome, both in affirming celibacy and urging a strong effort to combat injustices in society and the Church itself, came as twin triumphs for the 74-year-old Pontiff.

His nine-year reign has been marked by unstinting dedicating to preserving Catholic doctrine and discipline, such as priestly celibacy, while trying to push his Church into deep involvement in campaigns against war, poverty and oppression.

Officially closing the synod, the third he has conducted Pope Paul declared:

"Your discussions bring out that bishops of the whole Catholic world want to retain in its entirety that absolute gift by which the priest dedicates himself to God. And of this gift, not a small part, in the Latin Church, is sacred celibacy."

Early in the synod, the Pope had warned that the church was "tenaciously conservative" in doctrine and thus ruled out any drastic changes from the synod, an advisory body.

Company Makes Offer

AUSTIN (AP) — An oil company has offered to double the distance between its proposed well and south Bird Island near Corpus Christi.

McMoran Exploration Co. made the offer Friday to meet objections of the Audubon Society and the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries.

The tiny island is 4,000 feet offshore from Padre Island National Seashore on the mainland side. It is the only nesting area in Texas for the white pelican and the eastern-most nesting area in the United States for that bird.

McMoran originally proposed to drill at a spot 1,703 feet from the island.

B. M. Rankin Jr., president of McMoran, said the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers refuses to grant his company a permit to drill so long as anyone objects.

He proposed, therefore, to move the drillsite another 1,000 feet from the island and also agreed to place all production facilities on the island.

McMoran leased the shallow submerged tract from the state land office.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong suggested Friday's meeting, which was attended by Armstrong, Ranking, John Spinks of The Audubon Society, a representative from the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and State Parks and Wildlife Executive Director James Cross.

Rankin said a slant well, which would allow the company to move the drill site even further from the island, would be hazardous in such high pressure sand.

There is a great danger of a break in the line, which would pollute a large area, he said.

New Version Of Hamlet Is Discovered

Midland Community Theatre's nationally-recognized Pickwick Players have discovered an exciting new way to approach the traditional Hamlet legend.

"To Be" an imaginative original rock musical version of the Shakespearean tragedy, is for young people and parents and friends of both. This latest creation of Ed Graczyk, founder-director of the Pickwicks, is the second in collaboration with Pickwick Player Gerry Pyle, who composed the score.

This is "Hamlet" with a beat, a new look for an old favorite. The action-packed plot unfolds within a stark construction site set used by city kids as a playground. This playground is very different however— it includes an ominous waiting grave (or it is merely a hole carelessly left uncovered?) and is peopled by a vigorous company of ghosts (or are they only imagined?). The kids are straight from today's world, with all the foibles, the frustrations, and the exhilarating idealism of young people everywhere. The play captures the adventure of growing up, the challenge and the hope of finally being someone, and spikes it all with an ingenious thriller-ending.

Produced in conjunction with the Junior League of Midland, Inc., "To Be" will play to all eighth grades in Midland. Students will be bussed to Theatre Centre for performances on Nov. 15, 16, and 17.

Public performances are scheduled for Nov. 18, 19, and 20 at 8 p.m. All seats are reserved, and tickets are $1 for students and $2 for adults. The box office will open Monday, Nov. 15, at 10 a.m. Call theatre box office, 682-2544, or write Box 4847 for reservations.

Protocol Snafu Prompts Order

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is a stickler for White House protocol, but sometimes he just seems to forget. So his wife has issued orders to insure that guests get out and kick up their heels on the dance floor instead of milling around like wall flowers.

The President has made it a point at formal social functions to explain some intricacies of protocol to his guests—like no one is supposed to leave the party until the guests of honor depart. He pointed that out this week at the end of an after-dinner concert in honor of Prime Minister and Mrs. William McMahon of Australia.

But instead of escorting the McMahons to the door and leaving the party with Mrs. Nixon as he usually does, the President set off on an impromptu 25-minute tour of the upstairs family quarters with the prime minister, Metropolitan Opera star Richard Tucker and their wives.

That left the other VIP guests, including top Cabinet officials, standing around in confusion with the Marine Corps combo playing soft background music, despite a schedule that called for dancing after the concert.

By the time Nixon returned, saw his Australian guests off and departed himself, it was about 11:30 p.m., and most of the guests left without having a dance.

Social secretary Lucy Winchester said she and Mrs. Nixon talked it over the next day, and the first lady has given orders that dancing will begin immediately if the President should repeat his upstairs tour in the future.

Asked about the protocol rule that the President keeps proclaiming, Washington social arbiter Carolyn Hagner Shaw explained it originated with rigid European protocol.

It always has been automatic in Washington social circles that no one leaves the party before the ranking guests, she said, but perhaps Nixon makes a point of it because there are "such mixed-up groups" at the White House these days.

"It isn't like the old days," Mrs. Shaw said, "when everybody was familiar with the rules and knew what to do. Now he (the President) has people from all over the world and the country. Maybe he's trying to make it easier for them."

Agriculture Leaders Hail Grain Sale Deal

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government and business officials, cheering labor's help in resolving a lengthy Iron Curtin trade impasse, say a multimillion-dollar U.S.-Soviet feed grain deal could yield a cornucopia of diplomatic and economic benfits.

The Nixon administration's surprise disclosure of plans to sell nearly three million tons of American corn, barley and oats to the Soviet Union for cash, with agreement by big U.S. maritime unions to load the ships, was applauded by influential agriculture leaders on Capitol Hill Friday.

In New York, sources said the bulk of the feed grains will come from the Midwest corn belt—thus cutting heavy surpluses from a bumper crop and firming up prices—and would be shipped through Great Lakes ports in foreign flag vessels.

The Agriculture Department, reporting this single sale is equivalent to more than 15 per cent of all U.S. feed grain exports last year, calculated the deal's value at about $135 million, compared to the $100 million-plus worth of wheat shipped to Russia in a controversial 1963-64 arrangement.

But there was speculation the feed grains plan—involving two million tons of corn, 600,000 tons of barley and 300,000 tons of oats to be delivered by next July—could clear the way for sales up to $185 million.

One of the companies involved, Continental Grain Co. of New York, had $140 million worth of sales through the deal, said its president Michael Fribourg.

In Minneapolis, Fred M. Seed, president of Cargill, Inc., the other firm involved in the deal, praised the government and unions for settling an eight-year impasse over shipment of grains to Russia.

Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans, noting the cooperation of maritime union leaders who say their people will load the ships despite a previous ban on such shipments to Communist nations, said the labor chiefs "displayed the highest concern for the nation's welfare."

The agreements are "a very significant step in establishing mutually beneficial commercial relations with the Soviet people," said Stans, who plans to go to Russia soon to discuss the potential for expanding trade.

An administration official told newsmen Friday that initial movements will be from ports on the Great Lakes. A strike has been in progress since Oct. 1 at many Gulf and Atlantic Coast ports, the official noted, and "there will be nothing moved if the port is on strike—this is not a lifting of the strike, that is a totally separate issue."

Administration sources said vessels of any origin offering competitive shipment rates will be eligible to carry the grain and any future business that might develop.

A requirement that Commerce Department permission must be obtained for export of wheat, flour and other grains to China, Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union was terminated by President Nixon in June. He also suspended a requirement that 50 per cent of any such shipments would have to be carried in U.S. vessels.

Progress Made On Release Of POWs

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today that "some activities are going forward" to obtain the release of American prisoners of war, but he cautioned against raising false hopes.

"Every opportunity is being taken by our government in both private and public channels to see that our men are fairly treated and that we have as early a release as possible," Laird told a news conference at the end of his three-day visit to Saigon.

"I do not believe, however, that it is a good idea for us to get into a public discussion on some of the activities that are going forward in this area," he said.

"I do not believe, as secretary of defense, in raising false hopes on the part of the mothers, the fathers, the wives, the children of the missing in action and the prisoners of war," Laird added.

One development Laird mentioned specifically was the release this week of nearly 3,000 Viet Cong prisoners of war by the South Vietnamese government.

The Communists have said repeatedly that they will not release all U.S. prisoners of war until Nixon sets a deadline for the complete withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

Laird said that American troop withdrawals will surpass the ceiling of 184,000 set by President Nixon for Dec. 1 and that additional servicmen will be sent home early in time for Christmas. He did not say how many.

Present U.S. strength in Vietnam, he said, is below 196,000 from a peak of 543,400 in April 1969.

The secretary of defense declined to go into any details on the report and recommendations he will make to Nixon on his return to Washington Monday.

But informed sources said Nixon plans to cut U.S. forces to 40,000 by next July 1, downgrade the U.S. Command to an advisory group and return Gen. Creighton W. Abrams to Washington to be Army chief of staff.

Shortly before Laird departed from Saigon the South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry announced that South Korea, will begin withdrawing 10,000 marines and their support units next month in its first pullout from the war zone.

Battlefield action remained in a general lull, but one U.S. soldier was killed and eight were wounded in a mortar attack on their position 45 miles east of Saigon.

Mother Killed In Crossfire

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — A mother of five children was shot dead early today in a crossfire between British troops and terrorist snipers in a Roman Catholic district of Londonderry.

As gunmen resumed urban guerrilla warfare after it was virtually halted by 24 hours of driving rain, a British army major was shot and seriously wounded outside his home in Belfast, and soldiers reported wounding two snipers believed to be members of the Irish Republican Army.

Mrs. Kathleen Thompson, who was in her 40s, was felled as 200 troops searching Londonderry's Catholic Creggan Estate for hidden terrorists engaged in a brief shoot-out with snipers.

Friends said Mrs. Thompson and other housewives had been out in the street banging on the sidewalks with dustbin lids to warn men wanted by the army of the soldiers' approach.

She was hit in the shoulder and neck by a single bullet and died almost immediately.

An army spokesman said Mrs. Thompson may have been hit by a riccochet from either side.

Mrs. Thompson's death raised the two-year death toll in Northern Ireland to 152.

The army said it made no arrests during the house-to-house search of the Creggan Estate.

Maj. Michael Mealyer, 34, was shot in the leg and stomach Friday night by two gunmen who tried to drag him from his car as he left his home in the Ardmore Park area of Belfast.

His son Damian 5, shouted "they've shot my daddy" as Mealyer slumped to the ground and his assailants fled.

It was believed the men may have been trying to kidnap Mealyer.

At about the same time as Mealyer was shot, a bomb exploded at the British navy recruiting office in downtown Belfast injuring a family of six as they drove by. They suffered cuts and bruises.

Miss USA Co-Favorite

LONDON (AP) — A brown-eyed Texas coed and a former girl-soldier from the Middle East were rated today favorites in the Miss World stakes.

But the odds are still a long 10-to-1 for cofavorites Brucene Smith, 20, of Port Lavaca and Miri Ben-David of Israel.

The gambling aura as the girls lined up together for the first time brought complaints from the sponsors.

"It makes the girls sound like racehorses—and they're not," said a spokesman for the Mecca, the outfit running the beauty show Wednesday night.

The girls themselves didn't seem to mind.

Told she was a cofavorite, Miri, a beautician who was a sergeant in the Israeli army, said: "That makes me very happy."

Brucene, who brought her mother, father and four brothers and sisters over as a cheering section, said: "It's nice to be a favorite."

But Brucene, who is studying to become a teacher, said quietly: "The other girls all look so pretty I feel like packing my bags and going home."

Miss Israel, whose hobby is writing poetry, has blue eyes, light auburn hair, stands 5 feet 6, weighs 114 pounds, and measures 35-23-35.

Brown-haired Miss U.S.A., whose hobbies include swimming and playing the guitar, stands 5 feet 7, weighs 123 pounds, and measures 36-25-36.

Students In Series Of Driving Tests

Students of the Ira and Fluvanna Schools had an opportunity Tuesday to see for themselves how the false impression aand sense of security that a driver of a modern automobile gets, can and does, often lead into the danger zone and trouble when they participated in a series of driving tests.

The tests, which was in two parts, was given under the direction of Ben Bullard, Assistant Safety Director, Texas Farm Bureau.

The first section was a short talk and film on traffic safety, while the second was a demonstration on a street in front of the school.

High point of the demonstration came when driving tests were made with various students and faculty members in the specially equipped car. An electric detonator which was amounted on the front bumper of the car fired yellow painted bullets to indicate the distance required to stop the car in an emergency.

The driver being tested was signalled to stop by the report of the first shell. The second was fired automatically when the brake was applied and the third when the car halted. Distance between the spots of paint was then measured to determine the reaction, braking, and total stopping distances.

Tests was limited to 20, 30, and 40 mile per hour speeds because of the danger of making emergency stops at higher speeds. Police officers were used as drivers in the high speed tests.

As part of a program for safety on the highway, the Texas Farm Bureau Safety Department has presented this driving demonstration and test before the high schools of this state since 1957. The program was brought to these schools under the sponsorship of Scurry County Farm Bureau.

Aide Optimistic On Aid Bill

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House aide is betting Congress will wind up with a foreign aid bill near $2.8 billion—about 95 per cent of what President Nixon wanted in the first place.

"We'll probably get something we can live with although we're still hoping for $3 billion," the Nixon advisor said Friday. "The Senate has come about 90 yards back up the field and the President had already come down 10."

But House foreign aid opponents have begun organizing an effort to sharply limit even interim extension of the program next Tuesday. Top House leaders doubted it would succeed but they weren't certain.

Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said he believes the House will approve the continuing resolution for foreign aid, defense and the antipoverty program at the present level even though no nose counts have been taken.

Other leaders believed the House was unlikely to press a foreign aid stand on the continuing resolution since the Senate, and probably the House, would be working on regular foreign aid bills during the week.

But House GOP conference chairman John B. Anderson of Illinois said he believes enough opponents of military aid for Indochina may join the House' large anti-foreign aid bloc Tuesday to curb even the interim extension.

The House opponents have drafted one amendment to prohibit any new interim money, limiting foreign aid to the $4.6 billion already in the pipeline, and another to temporarily extend the program only to Dec. 1.

If not amended, the resolution would continue foreign aid at a level of $2.85 billion in addition to the pipeline money until Congress adjourns this year after putting out a regular foreign aid bill.

The Senate begins action Wednesday on separate military and economic foreign aid bills totalling $2.3 billion with administration forces pledged to try to get the total back up near the $2.9 billion bill killed by the Senate a week ago.

CJC Students To Perform In New York

CISCO — A student from Snyder will be among the 110 boys and girls making up the Cisco Junior College Band and Wrangler Belles who will appear in the nationally-televised Macy's Thanksgiving Parade on the morning of Nov. 25 in New York City.

The Macy's parade, the nation's most prestigious event of its kind, will be televised by NBC and CBS networks.

Kay Nix of Snyder is Captain of the CJC Wrangler Belles dance and drill team which will appear in the parade.

The CJC Band is one of only 14 bands in the entire nation scheduled to appear in the parade, and the Wrangler Belles probably will be the only girls drill team to be featured. The Belles will do a featured performance at Herald Square, adjacent to Macy's and the performance will be carried live in its entirety by NBC-TV.

Cisco Junior College is currently conducting a large-scale fund-raising campaign to help defray expenses for sending the group to New York via chartered airliner. A goal of $6,000 has been set for the Cisco community, and the college hopes to raise $2,000 to $3,000 more from local communities in which the boys and girls live. Donations may be mailed to Dr. Leland Willis, President, Cisco Junior College, Cisco, Tex. 76437.

Nixon Schedules Working Weekend

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon is at his Key Biscayne home for what was described as a "working weekend." With him a couple of top aides not normally seen in these precincts.

Among White House assistants who flew here with Nixon Friday were John Whitaker, Nixon's liaison man with the Interior Department and other agencies involved in environmental matters, and Leonard Garment who specializes in civil rights and cultural affairs.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon would meet with Whitaker on environmental questions. Asked if he was indirectly referring to efforts of environmentalists to cancel the nuclear bomb test on Amchitka Island, Ziegler suggested other unspecified matters were involved.

As for Garment, Ziegler said he would be conferring with the President on education programs. He did not elaborate. Some Nixon aides said earlier in the week that financing of public schools may be a major issue in the 1972 presidential campaign.

Also flying here with the chief executive was H. R. Haldeman, his civilian chief of staff. Joining the presidential party Friday night was Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, assistant for national security affairs. Mrs. Nixon stayed in Washington.

Ziegler said Nixon plans to return to Washington Monday before setting out a day later for speechmaking appearances at Republican fund-raising dinners in New York and Chicago. His talks will be relayed by closed circuit television to 18 other GOP banquets, which the party hopes will raise at least $5 million for next year's campaignm

Arriving at his bayside home here, Nixon was greeted by his friend and next-door neighbor, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

It was believed likely that, if recently dismal weather takes a turn for the better, Nixon would make an overnight helicopter visit to Grand Cay in the Bahamas. Grand Cay is owned by another wealthy friend, New York industrialist Robert H. Abplanalp.

Tigers Thump Lamesa, Remain In Title Race

You've heard of the charge of the light brigade? Well, Snyder's Tigers used the charge of a heavy brigade — a one-man brigade — Friday night in Tiger Stadium as the locals soundly whipped Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes 27-10 to remain in the running for the District 3-AAA gridiron title.

Mike Glasscock, 202-pound senior, was outstanding on both offense and defense for the Tigers. He gained 232 yards rushing on 35 carries and scored three touchdowns. One of those touchdowns was a defensive play from his linebacker post. He intercepted a pass and returned it 37 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter that gave Snyder a clear-cut lead in the contest.

Of course, it wasn't a one-man show. The team put forth its best effort of the campaign. The offensive line with tackles Gary Jones and Mike Dennis and guards Randy Wright and Albert Hernandez did a magnificent job of blocking.

When the chips were down in the second half, the defense shut the Tornadoes out. Glasscock played his best defensive game of the year, but there was several other lads who looked good, including tackle Sandy Land and Hernandez at middle guard.

Each team scored once in the first quarter. Snyder tallied another touchdown in the second period while Lamesa came through with a field goal.

But, single touchdowns in each of the last two frames wrapped it up for the tough Tigers.

The Tigers marched 58 yards in five plays on their first possession in the first quarter after Lamesa was unable to move with the ball after taking the opening kickoff. Glasscock carried the ball every time in this drive, and he punished the defenders with driving runs on the inside. He scored the touchdown on a 10-yard burst over guard with 8:25 remaining in the period. Sandy Land's extra point kick put the Tigers ahead 7-0.

About a minute later, the Tigers missed a golden opportunity to score again following a fumble recovery by linebacker Louis Loyd at the Tornado 24 yard line. On first down, quarterback Butch Buchanan fired a pass near the west side of the north end zone. Swing man Gary Patterson was behind the safety and heading towards the ball when the defender knocked him down. Apparently the official didn't think it was interference for he didn't call an infraction on the play.

Halfback Jimmy Don Dyess was stopped for a three-yard loss on second down, and Glasscock got the three back on third down. On fourth down, Land attempted a field goal from the 31, but the ball fell short.

Lamesa took over and drove the 80 yards to the goal in 10 plays with quarterback David Sisson slicing off left tackle on a keeper for the six points. Chawalit Tittendom's kick tied the game at 7-all. Big plays in the drive were a 26 yard run by left halfback Wayne Hogg and a 16-yard run by right halfback Kent McCurley, a 200-pound sophomore. On second and goal from the one, Sandy Land made a good defensive play, stopping Tornado fullback Kirby Marshall for no gain.

Lamesa muffed a good chance to go ahead early in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble on a punt at the Snyder 35. They drove down to the 11 on runs by Hogg and halfback Monty Bedwell and a short pass from Sisson to McCurley. Then, on fourth down at the 11 needing just one yard, they were stopped for no gain with Mike Dennis and Joe Mark Adams and a couple of other Tigers making a great defensive play.

Snyder took over and drove the 89 yards to the goal in 15 plays. The drive ate up the clock with Glasscock going over from the one for the touchdown with just 24 seconds remaining in the half. Land's kick was blocked by Wayne Swanson.

On the play previous to the touchdown run, Glasscock was knocked down for no gain on a great defensive play by Jackie White, 225-pound senior guard, who missed action last week due to an injury. It was one of only two times that Glasscock was stopped for no gain. The big Tiger fullback carried the ball six straight times during the drive, gaining 35 yards to the 46. Buchanan went right to the Lamesa 45, then Glasscock gained 16 to the 29 and 12 to the 17. Dyess added four to the 13, Glasscock added two to the 11, and Buchanan made six to the five. Then Glasscock carried over in three straight runs.

It didn't take the Tornadoes long to get back on the scoreboard. On first down following the kickoff, Sisson connected with Hogg on a long pass down the east sidelines, and the speedy halfback made it on down to the 11 before he was halted by Jackson Brewster on a touchdown-saving tackle. A half-the-distance to the goal penalty on the play pushed the Tigers back to their 5½ yard line with four seconds remaining in the half. Tittendom kicked a 22 yard field goal on the last play as the Tigers had to settle for a 13-10 lead at halftime.

Neither team could move the ball for penalties in the third quarter. Two 15-yard infractions against each team wiped out promising drives.

But Glasscock gave the Tigers a little breathing room with his interception and 37 yard return with 8:07 remaining in the period. He made the interception near the east sidelines and angled towards the west end of the south goal. Several crisp blocks were thrown on the return. Land kicked perfectly from placement following the touchdown as the Tigers went into a 20-10 lead.

A 30-yard run by Hogg to the Tiger 36 and a 15-yard run by tailback Sammie Harrison to the Lamesa 40 were wiped out by penalties in the third quarter.

Early in the fourth quarter, Lamesa fullback Marshall was stopped for no gain on a fourth and one situation at the Lamesa 48. He was knocked down at the line of scrimmage by Hernandez, Loyd and Joe Adams.

Snyder took over and drove to the 14 with Glasscock contributing 18 and 15 yard runs in the drive. But the Tornado defensive stiffened, and the Tigers found themselves facing fourth and nine from the 14. On the last down, Buchanan threw a pass on a fake field goal attempt, but the ball fell incomplete.

Lamesa took over and was held on fourth down at the 22. A 15-yard penalty pushed the Tigers back to the 37 and they spanned the distance in six plays. Glasscock gained three to the 34. Buchanan made five to the 29. Then the Tiger quarterback rolled left and raced for 24 yards to the five for a first and goal. Glasscock gained one and Dyess added another. With third and goal from the three, Buchanan lofted a short pass to Jackie Murray who was slanting towards the east side of the north end zone and the senior end made the reception for the last touchdown. Land's kick from placement made it 27-10.

It was a hard-fought contest with both teams showing great desire. White was taken out of the contest in the third quarter following a hard block. Tiger tackle Gary Jones went out of the game in the fourth frame, but he returned to action later. Early in the contest, Travis Bunch re-injured his hand, and he did not get back in the game.

Elsewhere in the league, Lake View upset Dunbar 21-14 and knocked them out of second place, Sweetwater beat Colorado City 27-6, and Estacado shut out Brownfield 40-0.

That leaves Estacado all alone in first place with a 5-0 district record. Snyder is all alone in second place with a 4-1 mark, and the two teams tangle this week in Lubbock in a showdown match. A victory would give the Matadors at least a tie for the crown plus the playoff berth. The Tigers have to win their last two games to get into the playoffs.

Lincoln Upsets Jefferson 22-14

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Port Arthur Jefferson, the state's No. 1-ranked Class AAAA high school football team all season, was defeated Friday night by arch-rival and fifth-ranked Port Arthur Lincoln, 22-14, to highlight the week's schoolboy action.

Meanwhile, there were four upsets among Top Ten teams in the four classes Friday.

The only AAAA team in the Top Ten team to lose to an unranked team was No. 10 Hurst Bell, who was edged 24-22 by Grand Prairie. One AAA team was beaten—ninth-ranked Iowa Park 12-6 to Burkburnett—and there were two upsets in AA, as No. 6 Hondo was held to a scoreless tie with Southwest and ninth-ranked Austin Westlake fell 19-6 to Caldwell. All the elite Class A teams were victorious, most of them by lopsided scores.

In other AAAA games, No. 2 Wichita Falls High moved into contention to take over the top spot from Port Arthur Jefferson with a 34-13 Thursday night win over Fort Worth Richland Hills, third-ranked Dallas Carter beat Dallas Kimball 23-10, No. 4 Arlington swamped Irvin Nimitz 42-14, No. 6 Odessa Permian shut out San Angelo High 14-0 and No. 9 San Antonio Lee rolled over San Antonio Jefferson 41-13. In a top game Saturday night, seventh-ranked Houston Westchester will tangle with eighth-ranked Conroe.

In AAA, top-ranked Silsbee solidified its hold on the top spot with a 34-0 victory over Cleveland.

But five other ranked teams in AAA made bids to move up with shutouts over their opponents. Third-ranked Brownwood beat Vernon 21-0, No. 5 Cuero blanked San Antonio Samuel Clemens 33-0, sixth-ranked Plano edged McKinney 7-0, No. 7 Lubbock Estacado stomped Brownfield 40-0, No. 8 Uvalde whipped Kerrville 36-0 and No. 4 Brenham just missed a shutout, demolishing La Grange 60-3. Tenth-ranked Robstown toppled West Oso 48-22 and No. 2 Gregory Portland had an off week.

In Class AA, No. 1 Eastland blasted Winters 52-0, No. 2 Refugio toppled Kenedy 27-7, fourth-ranked Klein tripped Spring 29-14, No. 5 Kirbyville trampled Hemphill 42-0, seventh-ranked Tomball edged Bellville 21-15 and eighth ranked Needville slipped by Vanderbilt Industrial 13-6. Jacksboro, ranked No. 3, rolled over 10th-ranked Bowie 47-6.

Class A leaders were the most stable of all Friday, as all 10 of the ranked teams won their games.

Havlicek's Shot Sinks Pistons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics waited until the last second to demonstrate his shooting finesse, and it swept a victory out of the Detroit Pistons' grasp.

The Celtics' veteran captain poured in 14 points during a National Basketball Association game with Detroit Friday night, but his last basket—a 40-foot bomb that swished through the hoop as the final buzzer sounded—lifted Boston to a 103-102 triumph.

Jimmy Walker's free throw edged Detroit ahead with three seconds remaining. The Celtics then called time out, mapped their strategy and set up Havlicek for the stunning finish.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Milwaukee edged Chicago 104-102, Buffalo defeated Atlanta 122-117 in overtime, Phoneix blasted Cleveland 107-87, Los Angeles topped Baltimore 110-106, and Seattle beat New York, 101-97.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky downed Indiana 111-110, New York dumped Memphis 129-117 in overtime, Carolina nipped the Floridians 109-106, and Pittsburgh edged Dallas 98-96.

Kareem Jabbar bucketed 10 points during a three-minute, fourth quarter uprising that erased a 74-70 Chicago lead. Bobby Weiss paced the Bulls with 30 points. Jabbar led all scorers with 33 points.

Clem Haskins poured in 24 points as the Suns took advantage of a Cleveland cold spell to take an early lead and widen it en route to victory. Phoenix hooped 48 per cent from the field while the Cavaliers managed only 27 per cent.

Buffalo shattered a 105-105 deadlock behind the sharpshooting of Randy Smith who led all scorers with 35 points, and went on to ice the victory. George Trapp led the Hawks with 34 points.

Player-Coach Lenny Wilkens scored 26 points, nine in the fourth quarter to lead the SuperSonics. Walt Frazier scored 28 for the Knicks.

Highland Smashes Bulldogs, 54 To 8

IRA — Highland's Hornets stung Ira's Bulldogs 54-8 in a District 3-B Six-Man football game here Friday night.

The Hornets scored two touchdowns in the first 1½ minutes of play. They intercepted a pass and returned it 25 yards for a touchdown, and kicked for two extra points. A 45-yard pass gave them a 14-0 lead.

Ira cut the margin to 14-8 on a 35 yard pass from Donald Sellars to Kirby Sterling, Rickey Cox kicked the two-pointer.

Late in the second frame, Loran Krejci scored on a 9-yard pass to give the visitors a 20-8 lead in the first half.

Krejci fielded the kickoff opening the second half eight yards deep in the end zone, and he returned it all the way for a touchdown and a 26-8 advantage.

A couple of minutes later, Highland took advantage of an Ira fumble, and Krejci went across from the two yard line. He kicked from placement as the count went to 34-8. Later in the period, Krejci ran 28 yards for another touchdown as the score soared to 40-8.

Still in the third period, Terry Muncy scored on a six-yard pass, and Dodgin scored on an eight yard run. Another kick from placement made the score 54-8. There was no scoring in the final period.

COYOTES CLIP DRAGONS, 31-21

WELCH — Borden County's Coyotes held onto a share of the District 3-B Eight-Man lead here Friday night with a 31-21 triumph over the Dawson Dragons.

There was no scoring in the first period, but each team scored twice in the second quarter with Gail taking the lead on extra points.

Gail tallied again in the third quarter and once in the final quarter while the hosts got their last touchdown in the fourth frame.

Gail's Randy Hensley scored on a three-yard run in the second frame, and quarterback Randall Crittenden passed to Charles Billeck for a two-point conversion.

Also in the second frame, Billeck turned in a 58 yard touchdown run. Crittenden passed to Roy Hendley for the two extra points.

Dawson scored in the second quarter on an eight-yard run by quarterback Danny Preston and a 12-yard run by Charles Burkett. Raymond Hernandez kicked the extra point after the second touchdown.

Hensley scored on a 52 yard run in the third frame, and he added two extra points on a run. He also returned an intercepted pass 78 yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter. Crittenden ran across for the extra points following both touchdowns.

The Dragons' last TD came on a 15-yard run by Ted Phipps. Glenn Phipps added the two extra points on a run.

Cards Edge Hobbs 20-18

HOBBS — Hermleigh's Cardinals took a 20-18 decision over the Hobbs Panthers here Friday night in a District 3-B Six-Man football game. Two extra points were the margin of difference in this game.

Each team scored once in the second, third and fourth quarters, but Hermleigh added single points on passes after their touchdowns in the second and third quarters.

Ronnie Roemisch, Charles Kuss and Bubba Warren each scored a TD for the visitors. Tommy Wineyard and Mike Coonrod each passed to Moody Thomason for extra points.

Hobbs got its touchdowns on runs by David Martinez and S. T. Dooley with Martinez scoring twice.

Yomiuri Giants, Orioles Tie 9-9

TOKYO (AP) — In a battle of home runs, the Baltimore Orioles and the Yomiuri Giants of Tokyo fought Sat. to a 9-9 tie in 10 innings on the Orioles' Japan tour. It was the third tie between the teams.

Boog Powell hit two homers and Mark Belanger and Paul Blair hit one each for the Orioles before darkness forced a halt to play. For the Giants, Shigeo Nagashima, Tamio Suetsugu, Koji Ano and Isao Shibata blasted homers.

After six innings, the giants led 5-0. The Orioles tied the score in the top of the seventh, and then each team scored four more runs.

The Orioles' five-run seventh inning rally saved them from their first defeat in Japan. In addition to the three ties, they have won seven games in Japan—four against the Giants and three against various Allstar combinations. They have seven games left to play in Japan.

The Orioles sent five pitchers against the Japanese, who rapped out 16 hits. They picked up 13 hits off four Japanese pitchers.

Trent Shuts Out Buffs 48-0

Halfback Billy Beaver scored two touchdowns, end Monty Heatly, halfback Lonnie Riggan, and center Ty Martin each scored one touchdown. In addition, Bill Hamner was credited with a safety, and Heatly kicked for eight extra points.

The visitors took a 28-0 lead in the first quarter and coasted to victory. The game was halted in the third period under the 45-point rule.

Denver To Get Games?

By JOHN MOSSMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — While Denver says it will host the finest Winter Olympics ever, others aren't so sure it'll host the Games at all.

Denver was awarded the 1976 Winter Games on May 12, 1970, by the International Olympic Committee, meeting in Amsterdam. Since that time the subject has been replete with attack and counterattack from politicians, environmentalists and area residents as to the adverse effect the Games might have on Colorado's environment, economy and taxpayers.

Adding to the confusion, rumors have circulated recently in Europe that the Games might be transferred to Sion, Switzerland, runner-up in the 1970 selection process, if new proposals Denver must submit to the IOC do not fulfill Olympic conditions.

The Denver Olympic Committee, however, invested with the task of organizing the '76 Olympics, says it isn't the least bit worried about those rumors.

"Denver is in no problem and will not lose the games," says Norman Brown, manager of DOC's public affairs division.

"What we're doing is what we've always known we'd do—continue our studies of best possible sites for events, with regard to the environment, and make our report at Sapporo, Japan, next year.

"We're not about to panic; we're not even concerned. There's absolutely no danger they'll be taken away. We're confident we'll have the finest Winter Games ever.

Jurgensen Is Ready To Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With Washington Redskins' quarterback Sonny Jurgensen mending from a broken shoulder suffered during an exhibition contest, Bill Kilmer has fired some well-directed passes.

He has done so well, in fact, that the Redskins have enjoyed their best start since 1940 and have ridden a 6-1 record to the top of the National Football Conferences Eastern Division.

Jurgensen is expected to be ready for action Sunday when Washington battles the Philadelphia Eagles — but Kilmer will start as usual.

Philadelphia has posted two straight triumphs for a 2-5 record after Coach Ed Khayat ordered the players to shave their mustaches.

While the Redskins attempt to tighten their divisional lead, the San Francisco 49ers and Minnesota Vikings clash in a game pitting the Western and Central Division leaders.

The 49ers, with the stingiest pass defense and second-best total offense in the NFC, are 5-2. The Vikings, bolstered by their vaunted "Purple Gang" defense, have a 6-1 record.

Gary Cuozzo who sustained a bruised shoulder and mild concussion in last week's game with the New York Giants, will start at quarterback for the Vikings.

Miami, the American Football Conference's Eastern Division leader at 5-1-1, places its four-game victory streak against the winless Buffalo Bills.

Oakland and Kansas City, deadlocked for the AFC Western Division lead with 5-1-1 marks, both are on the road. The Raiders meet the New Orleans Saints, 2-4-1, while the Chiefs play the injury-riddled New York Jets, 2-5.

Cleveland, occupying a precarious No. 1 spot in the AFC Central Division after dropping its last two games, battles Pittsburgh. The Browns are 4-3 and the Steelers are close behind at 3-4.

Other Sunday games include Dallas at St. Louis, Green Bay at Chicago, Houston at New England, Atlanta at Cincinnati, Detroit at Denver and San Diego at the New York Giants.

Los Angeles will play at Baltimore in Monday night's nationally televised game.

Hass Earns Exemptions

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — New Orleans' professional golfer Freddie Haas earned automatic exemptions to the PGA Championship and PGA Club Pro Championship tournament next year with his one-stroke victory in the 54-hole PGA Golf States Section Golf Tournament.

WHY CHIROPRACTIC?

For those of you who have never been to a chiropractor, I'm sure that many of you have heard some very "strange" stories from friends or relatives. Most people acknowledge the fact that chiropractic might be good for stiff necks, or low back strain, but how in the world could it help anything like, stomach trouble or menstrual disorders.

Our nervous system controls and coordinates functions (the effectiveness of how our systems work and when our systems work.) When our controlling mechanism (the central nervous system) cannot function normally then the things it controls must function abnormally.

The only things that are strange to us are things that we don't understand.

Texans Eye Sugar Land

HONOLULU (AP) — Four Texans are here to view Kilauea Sugar Co. land on the island of Kauai and consider the possible purchase of some of the 8,600 acres owned there by C. Brewer and Co.

Merwin E. Bogue, whose claim to fame is his former role as Ish Kabibble with Kay Kyser's band, now is manager for Kilauea Plantations, will show the Texans the Kauai land Monday.

Kilauea Plantations is a partnership of C. Brewer, its subsidiary, Administration Inc., and American-Hawaiian Development Co.

The four visitors, all from Houston, are Frank Briscoe, a former Houston district attorney, his wife; Mrs. Howard M. Sieglar, wife of a Houston physician; and Mrs. Grady Hallman, wife of a Houston cardiac surgeon. They arrived Friday.

Briscoe is representing Dr. Siegler and about 165 other physicians affiliated with him in negotiations which may lead to acquisition of some of the Kauai land.

Dr. Siegler was unable to make the trip because he had to perform surgery Friday.

A Kauai sorce said no land zoned for agriculture on the island would sell for less than $4,500 an acre. But American-Hawaiian said no prices have been established and that the price would be negotiated.

"I've known Dr. Siegler for some time, and he's into a lot of different things, Bogue said. "It's a combined vacation plus a look at our properties," Bogue said of the Texans' 10-day visit.

Bogue said he's a long-time friend of Dr. and Mrs. Siegler.

"I've done parties at their mansion in Houston, entertaining in the past," he said. Bogue said he quit show business in 1950 and went into real estate.

"I still like to play a little Dixieland," he said.

Prince Philip On Bottom Of List

HONG KONG (AP) — Prince Philip is on the bottom of the list in the British royal family as far as Hong Kong residents are concerned, according to the Gallup Poll.

A poll taken following the visit to Hong Kong of Princess Anne which ended last Monday showed only 2 per cent of the local population would want to see Philip if there was to be another visit by a member of the royal family.

Princess Anne fared little better—5 per cent said they wanted to see her again.

Queen Elizabeth topped the poll with 42 per cent and Prince Charles had 19 per cent.

Another 7 per cent said anyone in the royal family would do, 24 per cent had no opinion and one per cent did not want to see any member of British royalty.

LIBRARIES BUSY — Pictured are a few of the many students taking advantage of the opportunity to study in one of the Snyder secondary school libraries before school. All of the libraries are open before and after school. The secondary schools have a total of 30,500 volumes, 179 magazines and 20 newspapers. A total of 32,750 volumes are checked out for home use during the year, with a major portion of the library work done during school hours. The libraries are set up to meet the students' needs as a vital part of the curricula and for the "pleasure reading" of the students.

Projects Give Students Start In Career Fields

By TOM SIEBERT
Associated Press Writer

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Under their own corporations, teams of students from Denver's Manual High School are running a gas station, remodeling a dilapidated two-story house, designing miniparks for an urban renewal area and putting down more than two miles of sidewalks.

The projects are unique, most of them unlike anything being tried elsewhere in the country, say Manual's teachers.

The idea is to give the vocational students—many of them poor blacks from disadvantaged backgrounds—a running start in their career fields through actual job experience, said Alfred Prudhomme, Manual's coordinator of instruction.

"It's a head start program in the world of work, and one of the biggest byproducts has been enthusiasm," he added.

Steve Moore, a 16-year-old junior in the drafting course and one of eight students manning the gas station's pumps five days a week, bears him out.

"I used to come up here just for the fun of it," said Moore, "but now I'm glad I'm working full-time.

"You really get to be friends with a lot of people and you get to learn how to deal with them. Besides, it's going to help me too when I get my own car."

A co-worker, Ken Bryant, 17, hopes to manage just such a station himself when he graduates next year.

"I've learned a lot more than I ever thought I would in the auto mechanics course," said Bryant. "Sometimes we make mistakes handling credit cards and we've gotten some bum checks, but not often."

The station, which sports a prominent "Operated by the Students of Manual High" sign, is on one of Denver's busiest streets. Eighteen months ago it was leased by one of the student corporations, Manual Standard, Inc., and has been running, with several breaks to iron out financial problems, ever since.

"For the students, it's terrific," said Arch Jefferies, the school's vocational coordinator. "Learning becomes a necessity. They see why they need decimals and fractions and such, because you can't change a set of plugs or points without it."

This past summer the station was run with the aid of a grant from the Neighborhood Youth Corps, with the students paid $1.60 per hour. During the last school year, the students worked it on a part-time basis, getting part academic credit and paid from its sometimes slim profits. Jefferies said it's hoped the NYC grant can be partly continued through the coming year to help keep the station out of the red.

A second student corporation, Creative Urban Living Environments, Inc. (CULE), has three other projects currently under way.

Presided over by 17-year-old Melvin Brooks, its president, and an eight-man board of directors, CULE has 55 student workers.

"I think it's really fine work and helps prepare you for life," says Brooks.

Four English students are publishing a free neighborhood newsletter, the Mitchell Legend, and doing public relations work under a $5,000 contract with the Denver Urban Renewal Authority (DURA). Another 10 from the drafting course are designing four miniparks for a blighted area under a $10,000 DURA contract, and the balance are handling two construction projects under several more contracts totaling $50,000.

So far, the students are breaking about even on the construction work, their teacher-supervisors say. Their costs include subcontracting electrical and plumbing work in the house they are renovating, and paying for ready-mixed concrete for 21 blocks of sidewalks being laid in the neighborhood.

CULE pays its workmen $1.75 per hour and is planning a 75 cents per hour bonus at the end of the jobs for outstanding performance.

But the big bonus for the 56 teen-agers is not just the money but the pride they have taken in themselves, said Jim Watsonn an industrial arts teacher who doubles as the construction boss.

"They can take pride they're pouring as fine a sidewalk as anyone in the city, and group pride in working together, steadily and on time, and accomplishing the job," he said.

"If anything, many of these kids are strictly marginal or below students," said Clifford Lewis, an attorney who teaches social studies at Manual.

"Most of them are overachieving. They're highly motivated because it's not just a matter of learning how to lay cement or repair a house. They learn to run their own companies."

Open Weather Allows Harvesting Operations

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — This week across Texas open weather over parts of the state has brought a return to farm and ranch activities. Fields have dried in some areas to allow harvesting operations to pick up once again. Most of the state was cool at mid-week as freezing conditions extended over a big portion of the High Plains.

The late cotton crop is still making slow progress on the High Plains, said Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Frost in the Rolling Plains should speed up the harvest. In the west central area, the crop is spotty due to heavy damage from boll weevils and continued delays in harvesting by rains. Harvesting of the crop is about complete in central and eastern sectors of the state.

Harvesting of grain sorghum will gain momentum on the High Plains as fields dry, noted Hutchison. The pecan and peanut harvests are also making good progress in most areas.

The bright spot across Texas is the range and pasture picture. Grasses are producing lush growth and are providing good grazing due to excellent soil moisture. Small grains are also making good progress although wet fields have delayed some plantings.

District agricultural agents report the following conditions in their respective districts.

PANHANDLE: Freezing temperatures have invaded all of the district. Moisture is adequate over the area and is boosting the wheat crop. Some cattle are moving into the area to graze on wheat pastures. The grain sorghum harvest continues to be delayed by wet fields.

SOUTH PLAINS: The late cotton crop continues to progress slowly. Frost should speed up defoliation of some of the young regrowth. Wet fields continue to delay harvesting of soybeans and grain sorghum. Wheat is making excellent growth and cattle are being moved to wheat pastures.

ROLLING PLAINS: Showers of up to three inches fell over the district with moisture being surplus in half the counties. Small grain planting is nearing completion and early plantings are making excellent growth. Cotton continues to open slowly due to cool, wet weather. Grain sorghum, peanuts and pecans are being harvested. Ranges are in good condition and stocker cattle are being purchased for grazing.

NORTH CENTRAL: The major farm activity is the completion of the cotton harvest. Rains have delayed the harvest considerably and have damaged some of the crop. The finishing touches are being put on the grain sorghum harvest and the peanut harvest also continues as weather permits. Pastures, rangeland and livestock are all in excellent condition.

NORTHEAST: Scattered showers over the district continued to boost wheat and oat pastures and some grazing is in progress. The sweet potato harvest is about complete. Fall vegetables are making good growth. Early pecans are being harvested and the crop is good in some counties. Cattle are in good condition and marketing continues strong with prices high and steady.

FAR WEST: Harvesting of cotton is making slow progress due to cool, damp weather. Some plant regrowth is causing delays in the grain sorghum harvest. Ranges and livestock are in top condition and fall calving is underway. Fall marketing of calves and lambs continues active. Small grains are making good growth and are providing some grazing.

WEST CENTRAL: Showers continued to fall, bringing further delay to the cotton, grain sorghum and peanut harvest. The cotton crop has been damaged by heavy rains and boll weevils and the pecan crop is also short. Early planted small grains are making good progress but fields are too wet to continue planting. Pastures are producing lush growth and excellent grazing. Most ranchers are preparing for the upcoming deer season.

CENTRAL: The cotton harvest is 80 to 90 per cent complete. Pecan harvesting has started and the crop is expected to be light. Small grains are making excellent growth and should provide good, cool season grazing. Livestock are in excellent condition and calf marketing is heavy.

EAST: The cotton and corn harvests are about complete. Small grains are up to a good stand and continue to benefit from showers. Fall vegetable gardens are making good progress. The pecan harvest is underway with expected yields ranging from fair to good. Pastures are making good growth. Livestock marketing is strong and calving is active.

SOUTHWEST: Early planted small grains are making good growth and plantings will continue as fields dry. Army worms are causing some damage. Cucumbers, peppers and cabbage are making good progress with some harvesting underway. About 200 acres of strawberries are making good growth in Atascosa County while carrots are nearing harvest in Uvalde County.

SOUTH: Planting of winter vegetables and spring onions is in progress. Peas are progressing well and fall tomatoes are beginning to recover from recent wet conditions. The citrus harvest is on the increase as the fruit continues to size well. Some hay baling is in progress. Livestock are in good condition and market prices are up. Mosquitoes continue to bother livestock.

Black Baptists Claim Christianity Setback

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The photograph which led the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board to halt distribution of a quarterly publication was described Friday as just a routine picture by the man who took it.

Rhon Engh of Star Prairie, Wis. said he took the picture, which shows a black youth talking to white girls at Hamline College in St. Paul, Minn.

Engh said he had no idea the picture would trigger a nationwide controversy or cause the cancellation of the Baptist quarterly, "Becoming," a teaching aid for Sunday school students aged 14 and 15.

The Southern Baptist Sunday School Board announced last week the quarterly was being withheld from distribution because of the picture and the text it illustrated, entitled, "A Ministry of Reconciliation." The board said the material "could have been subject to misinterpretation."

Dr. James L. Sullivan, executive secretary-treasurer of the board, said when the cancellation of about 180,000 copies of the quarterly was announced that the issue was "potentially inflammatory."

"We feel that we ought to be forthright in dealing with reconciliation among races and with biblical teachings concerning harmonious relationships," Dr. Sullivan said. "We shall continue to deal with these topics, but in a manner that is in itself conciliatory rather than potentially inflammatory."

The predominantly Negro National Baptist Convention of America denounced the action Thursday as a setback to Christianity.

The publishing board of the four million member black Baptist convention said the removal of the art and text from the quarterly would do more harm than the quarterly would have.

"There are churches among us that use some parts of the Southern Baptist literature," the black publishing board said.

"We feel, at a time when we of the Christian family are attempting to build better realtionships among the races and better fellowship among the redeemed regardless of race, that such denunciation and calling back of the article in 'becoming' ... is a setback for our Christian endeavors."

Individual Baptist churches also have criticized the decision of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board to withhold the publication.

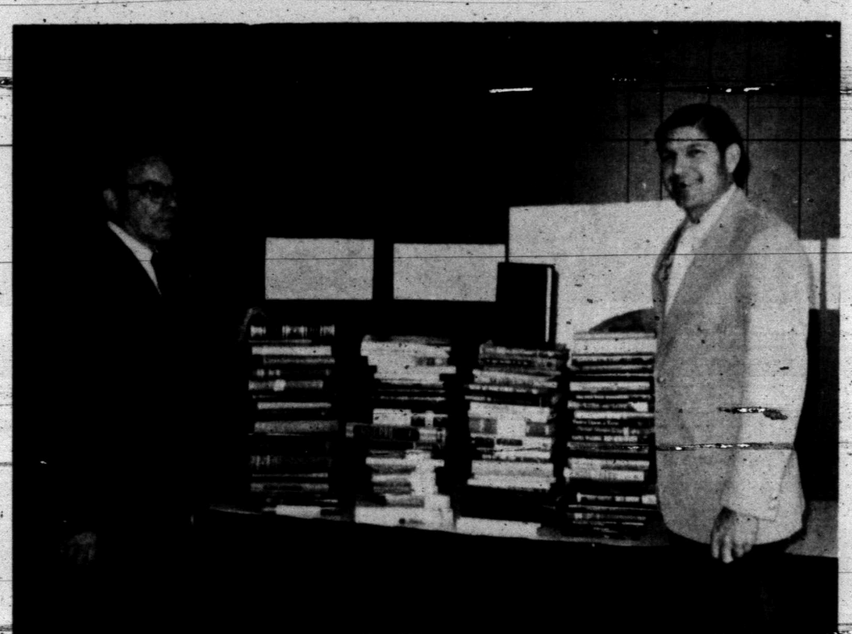
The congregation of the Oakhurst Baptist Church in Decatur, Ga. adopted a resolution this week condemning the action.

"The action ... places our congregation in the most difficult position as we seek to bear witness to our faith within a racially transitional community," the church statement said. "The action ... may prove to be more inflammatory than publication of this material ever could have been. Even more, it weakens the witness of our denomination to this acute problem of the nation."

The censored article illustrated by the photograph was written by Mrs. Twyla Wright of Casa Grande, Ariz.

"I wrote it for love for all Christian brothers and to help break down racial barriers," Mrs. Wright said. "I wrote it in love and don't want the cancellation to be in hate."

"I do understand why it was recalled and the reason is the racial climate of the nation," she added. The text deals primarily with the application of Christ's relationships with members of other races.



COLLEGE GIFT — Roy McCloskey (left) presents Dean Morgan, sociology and Bible teacher at Western Texas College, with the gift of several books to be used in the Christian Student Center. McCloskey donated the books in the left stack. The other books were given by Tyndale House, Cambridge University Press, Moody Press, Bake Book House and Word Books under arrangements made by McCloskey. In addition, the complete works of Josephus were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Oren Sturdivant and Mr. and Mrs. Mozell Roggenstein in memory of Mrs. Bessie Holmes. The East Side and Thirty-seventh Street Churches of Christ also have donated books.

Report On Bank Bills Due Soon

AUSTIN (AP) — Chairman Menton Murray says the House General Investigating Committee expects to issue a preliminary report next week on its probe of two banking bills connected with Speaker Gus Mutscher's bribery indictment.

Murray, of Harlingen, said the report would contain no findings or recommendations, which will be held for the final report of the five-member committee.

The panel, named by Mutscher last spring, met for about three hours behind closed doors Friday, discussing the banking bills probe and "what to do with about eight to 10 complaints that have been registered with us," Murray said.

Some of the complaints, filed by private citizens and legislators, involve state agencies, Murray said. He declined to specify what the complaints might be.

Murray said committee members, the committee's attorneys or the Department of Public Safety are checking out the complaints to see if they warrant further investigation by the group.

The committee's next meeting probably will be in about three weeks, and "at that time, I feel we'll have some information you will want to have," Murray said.

He also said the committee is looking into a new angle in the banking bills probe "but we don't have enough information yet to go forward on it."

Mutscher was indicted Sept. 23 on a charge he accepted a bribe from Houston promoter Frank Sharp to push through two bills in 1969 that would have freed Sharp's banks from Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. scrutiny. Mutscher's trial is set for Jan. 10.

Stock Market Ends Up Even

By DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took investors on a miniature roller coaster ride this past week and, when the ride ended, left them almost exactly where they had begun.

The market opened Monday with a downward sweep that sent the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials plummeting some 13 points to its lowest level of the year.

On Tuesday, the Dow started building momentum for its upward sweep. This came Wednesday, when the blue chip indicator zoomed more than 14 points. On Thursday, it remained steady and on Friday took its final dip for the week.

In the end, the average showed a net gain of 1.39 points.

Analysts attributed the midweek rally primarily to technical factors, saying that the market had been sharply oversold.

Despite a wave of positive news developments, investors still remained cautious, showing uneasiness over Phase 2 of the Nixon Administration's economic program, brokers declared.

News of a cut in the prime lending rate, lower unemployment levels and declining wholesale prices failed to offset investor pessimism.

Many brokers, however, said that the market was out of touch with the improving economic picture and predicted an upswing in the near future.

Volume for the week on the New York Stock Exchange remained sluggish, with only 65.4 million shares changing hands. The previous week 61.5 million shares were traded. Analysts said this indicated that most investors were still remaining on the sidelines.

Of the 1,854 stocks traded on the Big Board, 807 advanced and 852 declined during the week. There were 26 new highs and 290 new lows for the year.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 0.4 to 308.2. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.23.

The Big Board index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.09 to 52.16.

Of the 20 most actively traded Big Board issues, nine declined, 10 advanced and one was unchanged.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price change index fell 0.07 to 24.54. Of the 1,265 issues traded, 398 advanced and 679 declined.

Of the 20 most actives, six advanced, two were unchanged, and 12 declined.

Rep. Gonzalez Understands Cotten's Denial

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Rep. Henry Gonzalez says he can understand why the state insurance commissioner denied any knowledge of Gonzalez' claim that two insurance firms may fail due to problems similar to those of National Bankers Life Insurance Co.

"He is in the understandable position of not wanting to be specific," Gonzalez said Friday night. "I think what he really is trying to say is, 'Whatever can be done is being done.' Perhaps they can work it out."

In Austin earlier Friday, Insurance Commissioner Clay Cotten said he was "at a loss to know what he is talking about."

"They may be working to solve the problem, but I'm sure he knows what I'm talking about," Gonzalez said after arriving from Washington.

Gonzalez said earlier this week he had information that two "substantial" companies are "in trouble for precisely the same thing" involved in the Texas stock scandal.

He did not disclose their names.

Cotten said a number of firms are in voluntary conservatorship or are under board supervision, but he could think of none that paralleled the NBL case.

Gonzalez said a situation like a "bank run" could develop of problems of the two firms were publicized.

"He doesn't want to be specific and I can't blame him for that," Gonzalez said.

Actress Ilka Chase Gives Views On Russian Cooking

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

"There's no lack of food in Russia," said actress-author Ilka Chase, recently returned from a tour of the Soviet Union. "But it's all pretty dreary. If you're longing for traditional Russian dishes like blinis, you'd better have them in New York."

Miss Chase and her husband journeyed to Russia to celebrate the publication of her new novel, "The Sounds of Home." Among their stops were Moscow, Leningrad, Samarkand and Tashkent.

On the plus side, Miss Chase noted that you can get a big bowl of caviar for $2 and that ice cream is good, even if it is almost always vanilla.

"Food is far from cheap," she went on, "yet the two best restaurants in Moscow always have lines. It cost us $22 for a very ordinary meal for two, but that included all the liquor we wanted."

Miss Chase said that the Russian hotels she stopped at had no room service. Breakfast, she said, usually consisted of yogurt, cheese, apple juice and cold soft-boiled eggs prepared hours earlier.

"Compared to ours, their food transportation system is primitive," said Miss Chase. "When we described to Russians the refrigerated trucks and boxcars which keep our supermarkets brimming with out-of-season produce through the winter, they hardly believed us."

Miss Chase described herself as a gourmet eater and her husband, Dr. Norton Brown, as a gourmet cook. She likes to whet her appetite before dinner with a Campari and sparkling water rather than a highball.

"A lower-proof aperitif doesn't dull the taste buds like liquor," she said. "What good is all that herb cookery, if you can't taste the delicate overtones and undertones?"

One of Miss Chase's favorite recipes is:

STRIPPED BASS WITH CUCUMBER STUFFING

5 pound striped bass
1 onion, finely minced
½ stick butter
½ cup chopped almonds
½ cup white wine
1 ounce brandy
4 cups dry bread crumbs
1 cup peeled, chopped cucumber
1 teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon fennel seed
salt & pepper to taste

Clean fish and rub cavity with salt, pepper and some extra butter. Saute minced onion in ½ stick butter till soft; combine sauted onion in bowl with bread crumbs, cucumber, almonds, thyme, fennel, salt and pepper. Moisten with about half the wine and the ounce of brandy, mix well and stuff lightly into fish cavity. Sew up fish, place in buttered baking pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and add remainder of wine to pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes or until fish flakes easily. Baste occasionally with pan juices and add more wine and a little melted butter if necessary. Serves four or five. Good with a chilled dry Graves.

Wig Stylist Is Historian

NEW YORK (AP) — Wig stylist Richard Hartwich, whose latest creation is a men's wig with a natural-looking part, is also a wig historian.

Wigs date back more than 6,000 years to ancient Egypt where they were worn for protection from the sun. Patrician women of early Rome wore wigs for about 300 years. From the time of Henry VIII to the beginning of the 19th century, the high fashion wig was worn by both men and women. With the French Revolution, wigs tumbled from popularity. However, the wig continued to be worn for medical and theatrical reasons.

Young Pianist Gets Around

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Voytek Matushevski, a young music student at North Texas State University, claims to be the only pianist in the world who has played for the Nixons, the Brezhnevs and the Kosygins.

Matushevski, studying here for a musical arts doctorate, won the 1969 young artists' competition of the National Federation of Music Clubs. He is a student of Leon Fleisher and has made concert tours throughout Europe.

The Polish-born pianist begun playing at the age of six and made his debut at 14 while a student at the Warsaw Conservatory.

Policewoman Named Sergeant

DALLAS (AP) — Mary Trout, one of 21 women on the Dallas police force, has been named its first woman sergeant.

The attractive 5 foot 6 policewoman joined the force in the juvenile division, later worked as an investigator and on the vice squad.

"I worked mostly with juveniles as a narcotics agent," she said. "But I did a little undercover work. I made one pretty good buy of LSD, which resulted in a five-year sentence. It was a thrill working undercover, but I was well protected."

Last year Mary had a spell in the missing persons bureau. With her new rank she will now go to the communications division after a month's training in police supervision at Southern Methodist University.

Snyder Garden Club Has Program On Tree Ecology

The Snyder Garden Club met Nov. 4 at Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. W. B. McSpadden, club president, presiding.

Mrs. S.L. Terry introduced the program, "The Ecology of Trees" and speakers Mrs. Wayne Boren and Miss Frances Clegg.

Mrs. Boren presented a program titled "The Significance of the Mesquite Tree." She described the tree as an iron-skinned, thorny-limbed, generally warped trunk thing found on the prairie where there are few other trees. They are called "invaders" and for non-natives, they have certainly adjusted well. They are tough, persistant and prolific. It is believed they came from Mexico and were spread in this area by the Indians and the Spanish explorers, probably in the middle of the 1500's. It is significant that today the growth of mesquite is increasing in spite of extensive control efforts. Mesquites cover more than 56 million acres in Texas (52 per cent of range land) and are growing denser year after year on infested land. Mrs. Boren noted that the Mesquite is a prolific seed producer and that seed can lay dormant for years and then when conditions are right, they will sprout. She said too that Mesquites have more beans during a drought, even two crops sometime, than during a rainy season such as this year. "There are some good things to tell about mesquite" Mrs. Boren said. Their food value is of significance–not so important to us now, but has been in the past. Indians made a mesquite meal from the beans and at one time a so-called coffee was brewed from the beans. An important trait of the mesquite is that it is a true calendar for spring. "The farmer learned to plant his crops by it and we gardners have learned to plant our flowers," she said. Spring is not really here until the mesquites come out." Mrs. Boren closed by reading a poem about the mesquite tree.

"Trees, Guardians of Our Soil and Water" was the title of the informative program which Miss Frances Clegg, Associate Professor of Science at Western Texas College, presented. Mrs. Clegg presented important facts and statistics about the ecology of trees. She said "We are dependant on plants and trees totally and yet we treat them as though we could care less." She said that water transpired by the trees is affected by atmosphere humidity, light intensity, air movement, air temperature and soil conditions.

She noted that one acre of mature oak trees transpire 20,000 to 26,000 gallons of water daily; for every pound of dry matter manufactured there is 200 to 1,000 pounds of dry water transpired; and that on a summer day one large tree transpires one ton of water. Another interesting point Miss Clegg made was the importance of recycling paper to preserve trees. She said that for every ton of paper that is recycled seventeen trees are saved.

In the business session Mrs. E.W. Schrader was appointed chairman of the committee to make flower arrangements to be donated to the Auxiliary of Cogdell Hospital.

The garden club will have a workshop at Martha Ann Woman's Club Nov. 18 at 9:30 a.m. to make holiday arrangements to be sold at the garden club bazaar to be held later in November.

Mrs. W. B. McSpadden and Mrs. Charles Jones attended the District I Fall Meeting in Lubbock Oct. 5.

Documentary Narrative On Mafia

HONOR THY FATHER. By Gay Talese. World Publishing. $10.

Here is a combination of journalism in depth and a documentary narrative about a topic that has been treated often in recent years—the Mafia.

Talese sketches in the whole picture, describing the Sicilian origins of the Mafia, naming major names among the 24 segments of the organization in the United States, and presenting in factual form some of the ideas expressed in Mario Puzo's novel "The Godfather." But the main thrust of Talese's report is the story of one family, an intimately personalized account focusing on two figures that seem to symbolize the rise and fall of the Mafia.

These two are Joseph Bonanno and his son Salvatore, known as Bill. Joseph built a fortune in the rackets, adding to it in legitimate enterprises. Bill inherited his father's leadership, but at a time when the family syndicate, torn by feuds, was falling apart. Eventually Bill, distracted by the feuds, made a comparatively minor slip that landed him in jail.

This book of more than 500 pages presents a viewpoint—that the Mafia, though much publicized, even at its height was a minor factor in organized crime, and since then has fallen apart. His narrative, immensely detailed, even touches upon the lives of the women and children who surrounded his principal figures.

Talese is a thorough-going reporter, as evidenced by his best selling story about the New York Times, "The Kingdom and the Glory." Once again he has covered a complicated theme in graphic style.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

So you took our advice years ago and planted nut trees, a tasty crop and beautiful. But what do you know about harvesting nuts?

Let nuts mature on the tree. They will fall off by themselves or with a gentle shaking. Pick them off the ground quickly to prevent discoloration of the shell and kernel—and reduce competition from squirrels and other creatures that like them as well as you do.

Persian walnuts and chestnuts should be collected daily, for they mold quickly if left in the hull and on damp ground, Purdue University horticulturists advise. Don't store chestnuts if they have mold or decay. Place chestnuts in cold storage promptly upon harvest.

Black walnuts should be hulled before they turn black. And if you wash them in water as soon as the hulls are removed the nuts will be more attractive when dry.

Dry all nuts, except chestnuts, before storing. If the kernels break with a sharp snap as you crack them with your fingers or bite them, they are dry enough for storage, at a relative humidity of 65-75 per cent. If you don't dry nuts properly, you'll have a moldy, poor quality. Too low humidity will cause over-drying; too high causes mold growth, rancidity and quality loss.

A moisture content of less than 3.5 per cent is suggested for pecan and walnut kernels for good storage. This is considered very dry.

Pecans, authorities say, must have less than 4.5 per cent moisture content within two weeks to prevent deterioration. This means drying must be done in a short period.

Pecans and walnuts should be placed in cold storage by a month or two after harvest. At 32 degrees, nut meats can be stored six to 12 months.

Winner Can Rest Sore Feet

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Attorney Fred Anthony may have sore feet, but at least he'll get a chance to sit for awhile—on the Erie County Common Pleas Court bench.

Anthony, a 37-year-old Democrat, won election Tuesday by upsetting incumbent Judge William Pfadt. Most observers credit Anthony's walking tour of the county with drawing the support for his surprising victory.

Anthony estimated he walked more than 2,000 miles visiting virtually every home in the county since last November.

"I find it very difficult to ever feel at home in a city. I guess I'm antitechnology and I think it's become a kind of monster we've created and now we don't know how to keep it under control. We're under its control." — Actress Candice Bergen, in an interview.

"Of course, I had broken my vow (to swear less) within a month and I had to pay the forfeit (write a story for her daughter)." — Actress Julie Andrews, who has written a children's book, "Mandy," under the pseudoym Julie Edwards.

"I've been doing a rain dance very day since they let school out... With the kids underfoot because of the rain, maybe some of the parents will think to go out and vote for the next levy." — Margaret Whetsel of Independence, Mo., where schools were temporarily closed for a lack of money.

Peony Transplant

This is an excellent time to transplant peonies.

As for evergreens, taxus, juniper and arborvitae all may be safely planted in burlap.

A mulch that will help protect plants and shrubs from frost damage and reduce ground heaving is a layer of bark, packaged just for this purpose. It will insulate plant roots against heat and cold. Mulch will encourage earthworms, prevent excessive water loss through evaporation, prevent soil erosion, discourage weed growth. Bark, waste product from sawmills and pole plants, are attractive and long-lasting and eventually will enrich the soil.

Bark mulch will absorb nutrients from the soil, especially nitrogen, so apply some nitrogenous fertilizer (5-10-5 or 10-6-4).

Ads Are Criticized

NEW YORK (AP) — An independent research group charges that some of the nation's biggest advertisers made misleading claims in ads that appeared in an environment supplement to the September issue of Reader's Digest.

The Council on Economic Priorities, in the report published Thursday, criticized the advertisements of Ford Motor Co., American Can Co., Continental Can Co. and the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute among others.

A spokesman for Reader's Digest said the council's report contained "inaccuracies and distortions," adding the publication had followed its usual procedures of checking advertising copy and requiring documentation for claims of superiority.

Educator: Coddled Kids Causing Campus Unrest

Editor's note: Why all the campus unrest? One reason says a noted educator, is that parents expect universities to be authoritarian and to baby-sit for their offspring no matter the student's age or background. It can't work, says Dr. Willis Tate, head of Southern Methodist University.

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The tendency of parents to demand that universities coddle their students is one reason for current school unrest, says Dr. Willis MM Tate, president of Southern Methodist University.

Dr. Tate, expected to be elevated to chancellor when the trustees meet Friday, said in an interview that many parents look on college as "some sort of a reformatory or some sort of a baby-sitting situation."

Even boys who served three years in the Marine Corps and girls who led independent lives as air hostesses must face being treated as children again when they come to a university, he said.

"The Americans have a tendency to keep their people young and treat them as youngsters," Tate said. "They do it all the way through school, regardless of how long that school takes.

"A third of our students have degrees (are doing post-graduate work) here and all of the Perkins School of Theology students are 22 or above and most of them are married. Yet to try and treat them as you would a 17-18-yearold is sort of traditional."

Observing that someone once wrote: "The only way to be an adult in our culture is to marry," Tate said a lot of students are doing just that to get treated as adults.

Upon marriage, he said, "automatically your dad, mother, everybody says: 'You're okay. You're on your own,' regardless of what your age is."

"If a boy goes into the Marines at the age of 18, he's never thought of as a child againm But, even if he serves three years in the Marines and comes back to the university, then we're supposed to tuck him up in bed, check his breath, and hold his hand, and tell him when he can drive, and preferably tell him how long his hair is—because, you see, he's a kid at school.

"Another example for girls the minute a girl becomes an airline hostess, and some do become airline hostesses below 18, airline hostesses or junior year abroad or what, and they (the students) won't respond to anything else.

"They really want to be independent and we can get the best participation out of these students, who are primarily very idealistic, by treating them as adults and putting the responsibility for their conduct on them."

Tate sees "part of the rebellion in American culture of young people" as a protest against the authoritarianism of their parents.

"They get mixed up a little bit between authoritariansim and authority," he said. "We have a lot of people who dislike the establishment or any university simply because it represents authority."

Speaking about SMU's future, Tate said he hopes it will not grow too big. It has just under 10,000 students today as compared with 706 when it opened in 1915.

"We never want to be a big university," Tate said. "We're about as big as we ever want to be or hope to be. We never want to get too big so that the students aren't individuals to us."

He said the only pressure he ever had from the United Methodist Church was that SMU be a fine educational institution that the church could be proud of.

"I think the thing that would hurt the church worse than anything would be for us to be a sorry, mediocre university," Tate said.

they're immediately accepted by the American public as adults. They can go to New York, sign up in a hotel, nobody ever worries about them, everybody treats them as ladies because they are. But, if that girl comes back to college she says: 'Wait a minute. You mean I can't live in an apartment: But I lived in an apartment when I was with the airlines.'

"Or we have the 'junior year abroad'—and I'm not talking about SMU but about universities in general....They run all over the Continent and they come back and we say: 'Well now, we want you in bed by nine o'clock now, because you're back on campus and you're a child again."

"So we have to fight this a little bit in the minds of parents," Tate said, "Who look at college as some sort of a reformatory or some sort of a baby-sitting situation, when really we can't (the parents won't allow us to) treat these people as if they were young Marines or young

More Funds Sevn For City Planning

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney says cities can expect increased federal assistance for growth planning and environmental programs.

Romney told an 11-county Houston-Galveston area council Thursday that the assistance would help with the "return of initiative to local areas, where it belongs."

Romney said assistance for land use planning would be part of the administration's proposed national land use policy legislation.

Romney said environmental programs and increased numbers are factors challenging a traditional belief that growth is a good thing.

"Federal assistance in the area of environmental quality will increase rapidly," he said. "And this also will mean increases in federal assistance available for many activities regional planning agencies have traditionally concerned themselves with, including land use, sewage, water, and open space."

Junior Editors Quiz on 'JACK O'LANTERN'

QUESTION: What is the origin of the term Jack O'Lantern?

ANSWER: It was believed in early times that witches, demons and spirits of the dead roamed the earth on the eve of November 1st. To protect themselves from bad spirits, people disguised themselves in costumes and masks. Bonfires were lit to drive away the bad spirits. The Catholic Chruch set aside the first day of November to honor all the saints. This was called All Saints or All Hallows Day. The night before was called All Hallow's Eve, from which the name Halloween was derived.

Since Halloween was a celebration of the harvest, the fruits or vegetables of the area were used in the festivities. Along with black cats, witches, and goblins, the Jack O'Lantern played a role. It combined the grotesque aspects of the Halloween celebration with the idea of the autumn harvest. The fruit or vegetable of the area was used to produce a funny face. In England, a funny face was carved on a turnip. In the United States, the pumpkin is carved out to produce a grim face. A lantern is placed in the pumpkin or turnip and the light shines out of the eyes, nose and mouth, producing an eerie effect. Legend has it that a man named Jack could not enter heaven because he was a miser, and could not enter hell because he had played jokes on the devil, so was forced to walk with a lantern until judgement day.

'Children Of God' Answer Questions Of Parents

Editors note: This is the second and final article resulting from an Associated Press investigation into the controversial youth sect known as the Children of God. In this article four of the children respond point by point to accusations which some parents have made against the group.

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP)—The Children of God say they carry a message for the "now" generation and youth subculture of America and the world. They claim they have offered thousands a new way of life and more than 90 per cent of those accepting have achieved "total deliverance from the hip and drug scene."

Some parents, whose children are involved, are sharply critical of the organization and its claims. They say the Children of God hypnotise the kids, brainwash them and keep them in subjection, that they teach subversion and hate, and operate a multi-million dollar racket.

In an investigation of the Children of God, four of the group's so-called elders were faced with what the parents say, and they responded point by point.

There weren't any signs of a multi-million dollar racket in the Dallas headquarters anyway. In a cramped office rusty springs stuck up through the threadbare covering of two settees. The small wooden table, used as an executive desk, looked rickety. The filing cabinet was rusty. The window air-conditioner made so much noise that it had to be turned off to make conversation possible.

Except for the universal youth uniform of blue jeans, the four Children of God looked rather square than hip. The two youths —Jehosophat and Mark, both from Southern California — had haircuts that were short by contemporary standards. The young women—Adria and Shua—were neat and tidy. They wore no make-up.

Sometimes one answered a question; sometimes another. All were firmly agreed on everything, sometimes chipping in with a text and its source or uttering a fervent Amen.

Here are the parents' charges and the replies of the Children of God:

THE PARENTS: It is believed that the group uses on-the-spot hypnosis to kidnap our youth off the streets. When approaching a youth, the group usually works in pairs, beginning by asking: "Do you believe in God?" Then they sing the youth a hymn with the use of the guitar and insert the name of the youth they are talking to into the hymn. After attracting the attention of the youth in a very unique way of eye usage, some type of hypnotic state takes place.

THE CHILDREN: Hypnotism, eh? You know what I think it is? Have you ever tried to walk down a street and look somebody in the eye? People always kind of avoid you. They don't want to look you in the eye because they think they might get involved or something. All we want to do is to sit down and really discuss with them. We're just honest, that's all.

We admit we have problems. When you tell somebody you had a problem and you know darn well that they're having the same one, they don't want to look you in the eye. They wonder: how can he face up to that problem? That guy sees no escape in his life from that problem.

He says: 'I'm on drugs; I really don't know any other way out.' I mean how can this person look me in the eye and tell me ....I mean it really blows his mind.

Hypnosis is only if you completely give yourself over to it.... We've never practiced it. I mean it's ridiculous, man. God can do it, why do you need that? We trust God for everything. It's just like a muckraker trying to think of some ridiculous ... See, they don't understand. They don't understand the kids changing, so they tag drugs or the Charlie Manson family on it or hypnotism or something like that because they don't understand. How can you explain that Jesus Christ changes a person's life?

THE PARENTS: The youth automatically deserts all—home, family, car, friends, etc.—and is carried off in a bus or van to a place where they undergo extensive brainwashing sessions. The youth are taught to hate their parents, schools, churches and government. It is usually from one to three weeks before anyone hears anything from them.

THE CHILDREN: Well, if teaching the Bible is brainwashing, then we brainwash the people. Every other preacher will be guilty of brainwashing, too. But we don't set people down and say: 'You're going to forget everything.' We don't do that. You're free to remember and learn whatever you want to learn.

We don't teach them to hate their parents. Some of these kids had no communication at all with their parents for years before they met us. And you know it's purely up to the kids. What can we say? But some of them, their relationship with their parents now is better than it could ever have been.

Most of them have already left home or school when we meet up with them. If they are minors, under 18, we have them call their parents immediately they get here, so the parents won't worry and will know where they are. We don't take in runaways without permission from their parents, given orally, that they may stay with us overnight. After that we must have a notarized statement from the parents for them to stay longer. We won't keep them without that. The Bible says you should obey the law of the land and we do.

We do encourage the kids to write to their parents and have set aside a time for that each week. Whether they do it is up to them.

As for subversion, if we didn't love this country we wouldn't be trying to help its youth. We're geared to work among radical youth—and they're the ones who are trying to degradate the country and tear it down. We feel that radical youth is destroying the nation. Eighty-five to 90 per cent of this group took drugs at one time. But here drugs are strictly out. Everyone is searched for drugs on arrival and their baggage and clothing is checked out. Any drugs found are confiscated.

We've had kids in here that planned to blow up cities. One 16-year-old—just 16 and he wanted to blow up 10 cities and he had plans to flood a whole city. Thank God, the Lord got him.

We need people for the Lord's army. And the biggest source of raw material is the young people—they're on the roads, sitting in the parks and on the beaches, just doing nothing. Thousands upon thousands of young people. We don't go much after the older people, but they will be reached through the young in the end.

Many of the parents are conventional churchmen and this rubs them the wrong way. Some of them even get uptight about the Lord healing on the Sabbath day. 'Wow man, you healed on the Sabbath' they say. 'You shouldn't do that.' And then they're worried about our long hair and because we listen to rock music.

But we don't teach the kids to hate the church, any more than we teach them to hate their parents or the government. We obey the government and the law. All powers that be are of God.

THE PARENTS: The youth are kept behind locked doors in a slave-like atmosphere and the place is guarded at all times... They all have a zombie-like appearance and talk as if reciting from memory some text ... The youth are told if they leave the building they'll die.

THE CHILDREN: Everybody is here voluntarily and we don't make anybody do anything. They were looking for something to do that they could really put their heart into.

We allow anyone to leave if they want to. Any of the kids in here could just walk down the stairs and leave. Lots of times they go travelling in a car from place to place. I think they could even leave with the car.

The street door is always open except at night. We close it then because this is a tough part of town. The guy at the top of the stairs is not a guard. He's there to greet the people who come in. He makes sure that there's someone to show them around.

We don't want to keep anyone who doesn't want to stay. We're all volunteers—white, black and brown. You can see how happy they are. They've been looking for something to do and now they've found it. But anyone can just walk out.

If you have a group of people with 85 to 90 per cent of them on drugs, they're not just like other people in the main stream of life. Our success rate is high because our program is for a special thing. We admit we all need each other to help each other out. We were drug users and none of us dropped out after the first two weeks (the testing time for a Child of God recruit), so obviously it's working. Only 15 per cent ever drop out. And a few of those come back, maybe 10 per cent.

The charge that those wishing to leave are told they will die if they do so is just absurd, absolutely ridiculous. Elders who have counselled a hundred or so have never told one person that. They might have been warned of the harm that would come to them if they returned to drugs, went back to their old way of life in the gutter. Maybe that's what the parents mean. Some kids were almost dead when they came to us.

THE PARENTS: The Children of God don't work. The leaders have been given millions of dollars in the form of money, clothing and food. It is believed that this organization has communistic motives because of some of its teachings.

THE CHILDREN: We don't like people to go away with the impression that we don't work. We're an organization, we call it a family, and we work inside the family. We are working just like you.

We had a ranch (at Thurber in Texas(—250 people on it, okay? It had babies to be looked after, it had livestock, there were classes to be taught, vehicles to be maintained, clothes to fix, meals to cook, dishes to wash—if there weren't workers doing it, it must have been a miracle.

Our people are taught carpentry, printing, mechanics, electronics, photography, tailoring, catering, bookkeeping and secretarial work, machine operating, child minding and animal husbandry. Good old-fashioned work is our backbone, but it's all done in the commune.

We've never seen any of those millions we're supposed to have been given, but we spend all we do get. We have no 30-year mortgages. We're salting nothing away for a rainy day. The harvest is plentiful and the laborers few. So we use it all up.

We're sharing everything in love, but that doesn't mean what we're communists as some people say.

THE PARENTS: All mail is censored... The youth taken in live almost entirely off oatmeal and stale bread, while the so-called elders and leaders eat steaks and the best of foods. The youth sleep on the floor and in sleeping bags while the leaders occupy nice beds.

THE CHILDREN: Mail is not censored. Every letter goes to the person to whom it is addressed and is opened by that person. Parcels are also opened by the addressee, although an elder is present to ensure there are no drugs or other contraband. That is to protect everyone, because people have been known to send in marijuana, even though this is a Christian commune.

Outgoing letters are not censored, but we read them and may make suggestions because some of the kids are spiritually immature. For example, if a kid wants to send home a letter that is a hundred per cent scriptures, we advise that he include something about himself and how is living. So you see it's primarily for their guidance.

That's a lie about the food. Everyone eats exactly the same. Anyone can visit one of our colonies and eat with us. As for living conditions, it's true that the kids sometimes sleep on the floor in sleeping bags when there is temporary overcrowding, but they are given beds as soon as we have them available.

THE PARENTS: The Children of God are running a multi-million dollar racket. People have been made to sell their property, cars, stocks, bonds and other possessions and turn the money over to the organization.

THE CHILDREN: There is no basis in fact for such a charge.

Those who join us give all they have—but they don't have to, it's voluntary. They don't need anything while with us. We feed and clothe them, pay their doctors' and dentists' bills, and give them whatever they need. Most don't have very much to give, but they give all they have.

Some of the kids get money from their parents, who send regular checks every month. But we haven't had any big gifts from millionaires, that sort of thing.

Our food is pretty well taken care of by gifts, except for milk. A lot of people just give it to us—large companies. A lot of businessmen are really interested. They like to see results.

Some of our money comes from parents who see their kids are really doing something with their lives. But this thing about kids joining us and then we are given millions of dollars, this is not true. Of course, we never have enough, but isn't that the general American complaint?

Above the door, was a parting message: "Pray—it may be the last thing you do."

In the 1840s, more than 700 American whaling ships roamed the world.

INDOCTRINATION AND PLANNING — Two officers of the Student Organization of Black Unity (SOBU) at Texas Tech University, Vera Newsom, second from left, secretary and Charles Mathis, right, president, discuss objectives of the organization with members in an orientation session. Gas Prices Going Up In California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Californians will pay about two cents a gallon more for gasoline beginning next July 1 due to legislation signed Thursday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The new law extends the present five-cent state-local sales tax to gasoline, levying it on top of the present 11 cents-a-gallon state and federal gasoline taxes. Gasoline is exempt from the sales tax.

The tax, will vary from about 1.5 to 2.2 cents a gallon.

This Fruit

. . . looks like an apple from a good tree. God used this parable to teach an authoritative lesson of truth to some who were calling, "Lord, Lord." He answered, saying, "Not everyone that calls me Lord, shall get to heaven." He spoke plainly and used small words, and said, "Only those who bear good fruit will make it." See this tree loaded with fine fruit! Few of us stop to ponder its history. But every orchard expert knows well every sound tree. The good fruit is detectable from way off. The lesson is clear. Goodness all the way to the core is the kind of fruit God wants. Soundness of heart, purity of mind and integrity of character are essential if one's fruit is to please God. No one gathers grapes from thorns, or figs from thistles. Read the Sermon on the Mount; Meditate on I Corinthians; Hear what He says in Romans 8 and 12. Here one will find soil where good trees may grow and from which good fruit may be gathered.

Engineering Still Good Career

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: To become an engineer has always been my goal. Now that I'm a senior in high school, I wonder if this is a smart thing to do with so many engineers out of work. – P.D., New Orleans

For-sure secure careers are in short supply these days. To quote the ironic wisdom of an old proverb: "To prophesy is extremely difficult – especially with respect to the future." However . . .

THE WORLD NEEDS scientists and engineers to solve its major technologically related problems, and if you're strongly motivated to become an engineer, get the best engineering education you can, develop a resilient attitude, and go ahead.

Yes, the engineering profession – like most others – has its ups and downs. In the 1964-69 period, engineering was golden. Now, an important new study has helped to clarify the real nature of engineering employment problems. The . . .

"EMPLOYMENT PROBLEM" rate is 4.7 percent, according to a survey of 100,000 individual members of 23 major engineering societies representing all fields of engineering employment. The survey was made last summer by the Engineers Joint Council (EJC), the federation of engineering societies.

(This 4.7 "employment problem" figure varies from a recently released government figure showing an unemployment rate for engineers of 3 percent, because of a different analysis of EJC. For example, a laid-off engineer working temporarily as a taxi driver is counted as employed in government statistics, but from the engineering profession's point of view, he is part of the employment problem. The statistics are too complex to explain here, but for details, you can write to Engineers Joint Council, 345 E. 47th St., New York, N.Y. 10017; enclose stamped, long white return envelope.)

THE EJC SURVEY shows that engineering unemployment has almost doubled between March 1970 and June 1971 – compared to an increase of about 27 percent in total national unemployment over the same period. Not all engineers have been affected equally:

* Engineers without college degrees had an unemployment problem rate 44 percent higher than those with degrees.

* Graduatess whose highest degrees were in nonengineering curricula were 49 percent more likely to have employment problems than those with highest degrees in engineering.

* The problem rate for electronics and aerospace specialists was over 60 percent higher than for engineers in general. Other specialties with higher-than-average "employment problem" rates of unemployment were manufacturing engineering, computer and mathematics, systems engineering and industrial engineering.

* Groups with the lowest incidence of employment problems were civil, petroleum, environmental and sanitary, and chemical engineering. Other specialties with low problem rates were agricultural and mining engineering.

* Engineers under 30 or over 55 had the highest rates of unemployment.

* Geographically, highest unemployment rates for engineers were founds in Seattle, Wichita, Southern California, Cape Kennedy and Boston.

ONE IMPORTANT FACT for would-be engineers is uncovered by the EJC survey: engineers possessing strong educational qualifications are much less likely to be unemployed than are individuals who received their preparation in other (technical) fields.

The survey has shown that engineers' employment problems are more complex than had been commonly assumed. The Engineers Joint Council now proposes that government funding be made available to conduct a full-fledged program of supply-demand surveys at regular 6 months-1 year intervals as a basis for more realistic manpower plannings – to help government agencies and professional organizations identify employment problem areas and initiate corrective action before the problems get out of hand. This proposal has obvious merit.

Border City Has Good Season

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — This border city has registered its best summer tourist season yet, the American Automobile Association reports.

Velia Uribe, manager of the office, said 209,824 U.S. tourists crossed here en route to the interior of Mexico during the 1971 summer months.

Labor Claims Victory On Retroactive Hikes

By JOHN HENRY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor members of the Pay Board reportedly gave a chilly reception to Phase 2 wage proposals made by the board's public and business representatives during the past week.

Sources close to the board said labor objected strenuously to the recommendations made by other board members that pay increases originally scheduled to go into effect during the period covered by the 90-day wage-price freeze should not be retroactive when the freeze ends Nov. 13.

The House Banking Committee Thursday approved retroactive payment of most wage increases negotiated before the freeze. The provision would require payment of all but "grossly disproportionate" pay hikes negotiated before Aug. 15.

Organized labor saw the committee's action as a victory.

President Nixon called it "clearly inconsistent with the purposes of the economic stabilization program." He said it would "provide for a piecemeal approach to the development of the program" and would "limit the flexibility" of the Pay Board and the Price Commission.

Public and business representatives on the Pay Board were understood to have recommended a 5 per cent guideline for wage raises in Phase 2. The public members, although not those of management, also urged a two-month extension of the freeze until Jan. 15, sources reported.

Corporations received guidelines of another kind during the past week when the government's committee on interest and dividends ruled that companies should limit per share raises of dividends paid after next Jan. 1: to 4 per cent.

For the balance of 1971 corporations should abide by President Nixon's request that payouts not be raised, the committee said.

Faced with tumbling short-term interest rates, many major banks across the nation cut their prime rate to 5½ per cent from 5¾ per cent. The move reduced the interest those banks charge their most creditworthy corporate borrowers to the lowest level in five months.

Industrial commodity prices in October were the most stable since World War II, according to a survey due to be released Nov. 8 by the National Association of Purchasing Management. Ninety-six per cent of the respondents said prices in October were the same as the month before, the association reported.

Automakers reported Americans bought some one million cars in October, a record high for any month. The industry attributed the booming sales to the government's new economic program.

The recent surge in auto sales was the main factor behind a record increase in installment buying in September, the government said. Installment debt used for purchases of other consumer products actually declined, however.

The government reported new orders placed with all manufacturers in September dropped 2 per cent and inventories rose by $148 million.

History Clings To Oak Trees

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (AP) — History still clings to the moss-draped oaks here.

In the island's forested setting, Indians once stalked game, English settlers outwitted Spanish soldiers, Southern planters grew rich on slave labor, and brother fought brother in the Civil War.

The Indians left ceremonial shell rings on the island about 4,000 years ago. The shell ring people were followed by a more warlike tribe that built its villages near the water and fortified them with shell-and-earth walls, says the National Geographic Society.

Pilot Plan On 'Pot' Shelved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has shelved a pilot plan used this year to pay farmers for destroying marijuana plants in favor of a new rule ordered by Congress barring crop program payments if they allow the weed to be harvested.

Under 1972 crop programs for wheat, feed grain and cotton, farmers will have federal payments canceled if they harvest or knowingly permit others to harvest marijuana and other drug-type plants.

The new rule was announced Tuesday by the Agriculture Department. It was directed by Congress in the USDA's appropriations law providing money for department programs this fiscal year.

Spokesmen said the pilot program that paid farmers in designated counties in 10 states to eliminate wild-growing marijuana on their land would be dropped.
