Alliance To Alter Food Basket Plans

An annual Christmas event, the preparation of Christmas baskets for needy persons will not be sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance this year, Rev. Glenn Roenfeldt, pastor of the First Baptist Church, announced.

"We are counting on civic organizations, clubs, veteran groups and individual churches to take up this program," Rev. Roenfeldt commented.

"The Alliance is making arrangements to serve a meal in Wallace Center at noon on Christmas Day. Not only needy persons, but persons who would otherwise be alone on Christmas Day are invited to this dinner," Rev. Roenfeldt noted.

"It is well known through the years, the days just before Christmas the people of Mitchell County have given hundreds of turkeys, canned goods, fruit and candy to be sure the needy persons in the county receive a basket filled with good foods," he said.

Groups planning to distribute food baskets are encouraged to call the office of the First Baptist Church at 728-3442, to leave a list of names to whom baskets will be given. In this way, lists can be compared and avoid duplication, he said.

"THANKSGIVING is a time for sharing and remembering," as Mrs. Margaret Clark (left) and Willie Johnson, Root Valley Fair Lodge residents, noted as they helped prepare green apple turkey gobblers and hens for Thanksgiving table decorations.

Lodge Residents Reflect On Thanksgivings Gone By

Thanksgiving is a special time for remembrance and reflection. The residents of Root Valley Fair Lodge will have their own special treat during this holiday season.

"Thanksgiving is a happy family time. I was raised on a farm and the family would all come and we would have a good time and enjoy being together," Mrs. Margret Clark, a resident of Root Lodge recalled.

"We raised our own turkeys and they would be killed and prepared. I learned to cook from my mother. She had an [illegible] family recipe for dressing that I cooked for my children" Willie Johnson remembered with a sparkle in her eye.

Sharing, being together and enjoying the true spirit of the Thanksgiving holiday season, residents Gertrude Henderson, Mary Russell, Mary Rogers, Nora Wood and Will Womack worked to build the green apple turkey gobblers and hens to decorate the tables.

"Things have changed, but Thanksgiving would still not mean much if you couldn't [illegible] it with your family and friends," Mrs. Willie Johnson commented.

Mary Lee Moore and Willie Womack have decorated the dining area in festive colors.

Horns of Plenty and fall floral arrangements adorn the tables and the Hospital Auxiliary has placed a special fall arrangement on the piano, according to Activities Director Jerry Wooddell.

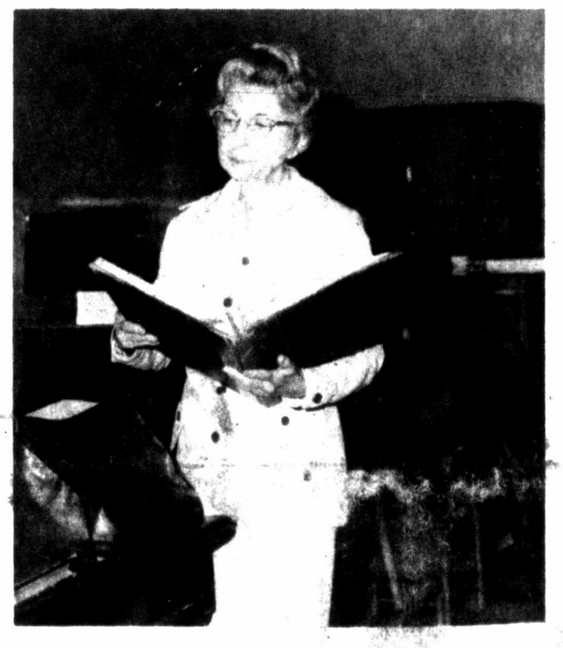

Residents have made an ornamental turkey from green apples, orange peels and felt during craft periods to help celebrate the holiday season.

Colorado City Museum Seeks A New Curator

After ten years of loving care, artifacts and momentoes in the Colorado City Museum will have a new curator.

Mrs. Bruce Campbell will retire on December 31.

Mrs. Campbell first began her duties as museum curator in August 1969.

At that time, the museum was housed in the old Legion Hut. After a one year's service there, the museum was moved to its current location at 175 W. 3rd.

"I have served under three city managers and three board chairmen," Mrs. Campbell said.

"We have gathered more than twice as many items as there were when I first began my job," she noted.

"I can't recall the first item that came in to the museum after I began as curator, there have just been too many. The last large item I accepted was a windmill donated by Mrs. Geisenberger. All the local lumber companies donated material to erect it," she said.

This petite lady of 68 can describe and detail almost every item in the museum from recall and delights in taking visitors to the many displays.

"I'm really going to miss all this. I've learned to appreciate my hometown. I use to take it for granted. It has such a history," she said.

"I'll miss all the people I've met here. They came from all over the world," Mrs. Campbell stated.

"This has been a rewarding job. I've really enjoyed being a part of all of this," she said.

"I would like to be able to say a personal thank you to all the people who have contri-

Volunteer Fire Department Men To Begin Color Coding

Drivers traveling the streets of Colorado City during the evening hours may soon observe what appear to be strange aberations.

The local volunteer fire department has begun a program of color coding fire hydrants in iridescent paint sensitive to the beam of headlights.

This plan was put into operation to enable firemen to determine, at first sight, the availability of water at any given plug.

"Some plugs should be removed because it is no longer possible to pump water from them. Others have been repainted and the old color code is no longer visible," Fire Chief Dwain McGuire noted.

Prior to coloring each hydrant, a system of gauges will be used to determine the number of gallons per minute the plug will produce.

The city owns two pumper trucks, one 1954 model and one of 1965 vintage, with which to fight structural fires. These trucks will pump 750 gallons per minute. There are two "G.I." trucks, dating back to the early 1950's, used to combat grass fires which pump about 100 gallons per minute. The city also owns one tanker truck and a 1977 rescue vehicle.

The city employs two full time drivers and a fire marshal to assist the 30 member volunteer fire department.

All major maintenance is done by city employees, McGuire said.

When a fire call comes in, the city driver mans the truck and goes immediately to the site. As volunteers arrive, they try to determine by radio what type of fire is burning and if additional equipment is needed.

Each of the 30 volunteers has a small one-way radio either in his home or office. The police dispatcher broadcasts the type and location of the fire. Volunteers carry their equipment in personal vehicles, allowing them to go immediately to the fire site without going into the station house unless additional equipment is needed.

"This pager system is quite an improvement over the original 10 fire phone system we used," Donald Webb, volunteer fire department secretary said.

"When we had the 10 phone system, these 10 individuals were contacted and they, in turn, tried to contact the remaining volunteers by phone," he noted.

"The average house or structural hot fire will completely destroy the building in 10 minutes," McGuire stated. "That is why speed is so very important.

"When we arrive at the site of a structural fire, the first thing to do is position the truck so that the hydrant is on the right side. If time permits, we back flush the plug to remove any debris. We tie on to the

Fisher Park Improvements To Begin With New Boat Ramp

Major improvements have begun in Fisher Park at Lake Champion.

Anyone who has not recently visited the area is in for a pleasant surprise, City Manager Ray Mason commented.

Ray Winsor, who operates the store at the park, has worked hard to remove trash and mow down weeds that have been real eye sores, Mason said.

The wheels of progress in park improvements were put into motion when Mason requested and received a government grant to construct a new boat ramp at Fisher Park under the auspices of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

An engineering firm was hired to specify the exact needs and bids were taken for actual construction.

The engineering firm of Willis Environment surveyed the property and reported to the city council that the project was entirely feasible and submitted plans for the construction.

The fee charged for this and supervision of the project was $2,300.

"The city paid $1,150 of the fees and I submitted a statement for reimbursement to the state for that amount and we have already received it," Mason noted.

Construction bids were opened during a council session October 29. It was the consensus of the council that the bids were all too high and the matter was tabled with a decision for the city to do a major portion of the preparatory work and ask for bids to be resubmitted.

"The maximum amount the Parks Department felt could be justified was $10,000. Burkett bid $22,500 and Abalos and Gonzales bid $13,260," Mason said.

"Buzz Rich, city water superintendent, and I took the heavy equipment out there last week, spent about four hours one afternoon and four the next morning to begin leveling the ground," Mason said.

The work done will go toward the city's $6,900 worth of inkind work necessary under the grant's provisions, Mason noted.

The state is furnishing $16,100 in cash funds to construct the 60 foot ramp which will be 20 feet wide.

The city is currently using the maintainer to break and level a 30 foot wide area on which the boat ramp will be constructed.

About 100 yards away, behind a knoll, another area will be cleared and leveled as a parking lot, according to Mason.

"Once we get this phase of the project completed, I plan to apply for more grant money to pave and improve the area still more," Mason said.

"Up there," Mason pointed to a hill located near the ramp area, "we are going to build a picnic area that will look down over the lake."

"This is really a pretty lake and once we make these improvements, I feel certain a great many more people will use it," he stated.

A second concrete boat ramp, located a few yards up from the proposed site and a good distance out of the water, will also be reclaimed by the maintenance crews for use in the event the lake should again rise to the necessary level, Mason indicated.

"Barring some unforeseen bad weather or mechanical breakdowns, we will have completed our portion of the work in the ramp area in the next two weeks. We will request new bids for construction at that time. One of the contractors has indicated to me that the work we have already done out here will save us about $4,000," Mason said.

plug with a suction line. At the same time, one of the men will grab the spaghetti line and begin laying a two inch hose to the fire. At the end of the hose is a "Y" and two, one and a half inch lines are attached there.

"The truck is placed in pump gear (the truck is immobilized in this gear) and water begins to flow if the plug is in operation, Webb commented." Twice a year we have fire conventions and as a part of this, we have a pumper race for men and women.

"The object of the race is to see who can hook-up and get water to the nozzel the quickest. The fastest time I have seen is 30 seconds," Webb said.

"If the plug is inactive the reversal process takes twice that time, plus locating a plug, moving the truck and reattaching the lines," McGuire stated.

"If the house can be completely destroyed in 10 minutes, you can see how important it is to know if there is water in a plug at first sight, McGuire said.

"That is why the iridescent paint is important. It will allow us to locate the proper plug even in the dark before we leave the truck," McGuire said.

"This is a group of dedicated men wanting to do a good job. We all feel like somebody has to do it and this time it is us.

"We're certainly not in this for the money. By the time we have started our pickups, we have lost money at $3 for a two hour grass fire.

"But we all know, the city cannot afford to do the job," McGuire said.

"We are always looking for new members and anyone wanting to join may contact city hall, myself or any member of the department.

"We are a majority rule organization and new members are voted in. A person must be 21 years old to qualify," McGuire noted.

"Our group is honored to have one of our members, Dale Mathis, serve as president of the Mid-West District Fire Fighters Association. Another member, Carl Guelker, is a vice president and Lon Robertson serves as chaplin for the organization," McGuire said.

Middle School Chatter

The past two weeks in P.E. have been spent playing kickball, hockey and tumbling. Most of the girls have had the most fun tumbling. We've practiced building pyramids and we had a test. The test consisted of everything we've practiced. We are also starting to make up our own tumbling routines. Mrs. Mathis seems to be having fun right along with us.

Carol Creswell

As we came to the end of the first trimester at C.M.S., the pain of trimester tests came and went also. Tests in science, math, history and English seemed to keep everyone's head stuck in a book. Knowing that the Thanksgiving holiday lay beyond the test helped to make them a little more bearable. It also helps to know that we now have a third of the year behind us.

Barbara Heredia
Beth Smith

Mrs. Mathis' athletic classes have been warming up for our first basketball game of the season. We are practicing to perfection our lay-up shots, chest throws, bounce passes, free throws and many others. Our first game of the season will be this Monday, so come on out and cheer us on.

Dear Duchess,

I really don't have a problem. It's just that sometimes I get tired of this person. When you talk to her, you must always be talking about boys. I would like to be her friend, but I am interested in more things than just boys. She gets on my nerves. What should I do?

Signed,
You Know Who

Dear You Know Who,

Try taking your friend to new and exciting places. Get her to read some good books. You can help her to see that life does not center around boys.

Dear Duchess,

I have a friend who calls me horrible names. She says that I call her names too. She picks on everyone and no one likes to be around her anymore because of her actions. How can I show her a better way to act around people?

Signed,
Mistreated

Dear Mistreated,

A person like this has to learn for himself that gossip and name-calling will not win friends. This person sounds like one who is very immature. Ignore her name-calling and try to show her what a true friend really is. Repay her bitterness with sweetness.

Dear Duchess,

I have a problem. I have this very good friend who follows me around constantly. Everytime I go to have private talks, she comes and tries to listen. What should I do?

Signed,
Help!

Dear Help,

If she really gets on your nerves, tell her you like her, but you also have other friends. If she is a good friend, she will understand.

Dear Duchess,

My ex-best friend got mad at me over something very childish. Now she hangs around with this friend that we used to talk about and call names. My ex-best friend is telling my other friends not to talk to me anymore. My problem is that everytime I try to be nice to my ex-best friend, she acts snobby. She immediately becomes an angel, however, if I'm going somewhere and she wants to go. Should I or shouldn't I be nice to her?

Yours truly,
Very Confused

Dear Confused,

A friend like that is not worth having, but you will not feel better if you are rude to her. Be nice even though there is hurt inside you. There are a lot of other friends in the world.

buted these items from their heritage. There have been so many and they have all been so kind," she stated.

Before coming to the museum, Mrs. Campbell worked for the public for 35 years. Several of those years were spent as bookkeeper for Griffin International Farm Implements. She has one daughter, Mrs. John Merritt of Houston.

Mrs. Campbell is the daughter of Mrs. W.H. Miller.

"She has done an excellent job and we are going to miss her greatly," Jake Merritt, head of the museum board, commented.

"I have only worked with Mrs. Campbell for a short while, but in that time I have come to greatly admire and respect her," City Manager Ray Mason said.

Applications are currently being accepted in City Hall for the position of museum curator, Mason noted.

"We will take applications until December 10. Applicants will be interviewed and a new curator selected by the museum board. Anyone interested or desiring more information should contact Brenda Tarter, city secretary, or myself at City Hall," Mason said.

Loraine Girls Play Tuesday

Colorado Girl Cagers Look Toward Season

The Colorado Girls' varsity basketball squad will open their season Tuesday night in Snyder with high hopes for the future.

First year Coach George Martin has nine returning lettermen from last year's squad which won three games.

Seniors Anne Marcom and Brenda Smith, both three year lettermen, will lead the team. Marcom is 5 feet, eight inches tall and plays the post position, Smith is 5 feet, 10 inches and also plays the post position.

Marcom was second team all district last season.

Jessica Randle, another five foot, ten inch Senior two year letterman, will also be returning for the Wolves.

The other lettermen who will be coming back are Juniors Saressa Mitchell and Tracey Gassiott and Sophomores Kim Feaster, Karla Herm, Angi Neff and Deloria Johnson.

Senior Sherri Uselton played on the junior varsity squad last season.

There are a number of other players who are expected to help the team and they include Debi Scott, Darlene Mitchell, Sherry Stinson and Linda Mendoza.

Martin stated that probably the team's biggest asset this season is the girls' desire to win and excel and also the leadership which will be provided by the Seniors.

As to the outcome of the District 6-AA race, Martin said that he thought that Abilene Wylie would provide the biggest challenge to last year's winner, Merkel.

Martin will be aided by Pat Parker who will coach the junior varsity squad and by Linda Mathis who will coach the seventh and eighth grade teams.

Indians Drop Colorado City

Seminole reeled off nine straight points Tuesday night to ice a victory in bi-district competition in Odessa against Colorado City girls' volleyball District 6-AA champions.

Before Seminole got on their streak in the second game after taking a 15-5 victory in the first game, the Indians trailed by 8-1 as it looked like the Wolves might be able to take an easy victory in the second frame.

However, that was not to be.

In the first game, Seminole moved out to a quick 3-0 lead but Colorado City turned things around to come right back and tie it up 3-3. However, Seminole was ahead 10-3 before the Wolves could get another point. The game was almost out of reach before the Colorado City girls made it 14-5, but then Seminole got the final point to win 15-5 with 2:32 to go in the first contest.

In the second game, Colorado City got out to a quick 2-0 lead, Seminole got one point and then Colorado City went out front by a count of 8-1. But that was all of the scoring for the Wolves as a strong Seminole team got everything together to win 15-8 with 3:04 left in the second game.

THE ACTION WAS INTENSE as evidenced by the expressions of these young fighters at the Mitchell County Boys' Club Boxing Tournament at the Wallace Center Friday and Saturday nights.

Faces that have not seen him shall thank him and bless him." She stated the importance of trees in our society in both industry and landscape beauty.

"The Texas Forestry Service, organized in 1925, assists in preserving Texas' 29 million acres of trees. This service assists in fire and disease control, planting new trees and educating the general public in the importance of preserving Texas Trees," she stated.

She also pointed out one kind of tree can be entirely different from another of the same kind, grown in another part of the state. The red cedar grows tall in Central Texas, but in far West Texas it is a mere shrub.

Sixteen pencil sketches of the most important kinds of trees were shown to help recognize them upon sight.

We Believe In This Community... And In You

We believe this is one of the best places in the world to live...and to rear able and responsible young people and for the enjoyment of life by senior citizens. And we believe you agree with us that one of the best ways for us to keep this as such a community is to support our local economy by doing most of our business at home...with each other.

Texas Electric TIPS help keep home electric bills down.

Saving energy – and energy dollars – in your home can be as simple as using energy wisely.

For example, make sure filters are kept clean in your furnace, air conditioner and clothes dryer. This ensures units are operating efficiently. And using less energy.

For additional savings on heating and cooling, keep drapes closed for extra insulation on overcast winter days and hot summer days. But on sunny winter days, open them to let the warm sunshine in.

And, turn off ALL appliances when you're not using them. When you stop and think of the many ways you use electricity, you'll see what an energy saver this can be!

For more information – and a lot more tips – get the TIPS booklet from Texas Electric. Just call Texas Electric or ask for the booklet on the comments section of your next electric bill.

At Texas Electric, we're trying to help you keep your electric bill down.

A THANKSGIVING PLAY "Paint Me A Memory" was presented at Hutchinson Elementary Tuesday morning by Mrs. Martha Anderson's fifth grade class. Shown above are the students involved in the production. It was a play about an elementary classroom showing compassion and love for a lonely old man.

'Paint Me A Memory' Presented By Fifth Grade

Mrs. Martha Anderson's fifth grade class presented a Thanksgiving play Tuesday at Hutchinson Elementary entitled "Paint Me A Memory" by Joan Shaddox Isom under the direction of Trina Taylor.

Characters in the play were portrayed by Natalie Abbott, Reggie Gardner, Kellie Beights, Becky Westbrook, D'Lynn Phariss, Audelia Rivera, Christi Dillard, Joe Cantu, Paul Arellano, Sara Salazar, Marty Cleckler, Daphne Fowler, Cindy Watkins, Jason Free and Larry Raschke.

Other students participating in the play were Tony Alvarez, Javiel Gallardo, Ralphy Gonzales, Blaine Lemons, Michael Molina, Henry Sosa, Randy White, Jimmy Worley, Maria Coronado, Christina Espinoza, Natalie Gonzales, Mary Salazar and Tina Thompson.

The Thanksgiving play takes place in an elementary classroom. The class is involved in a food collection project for a needy family; however, the class learns, through their concern for a lonely old man, Mr. Dunn, that the most important things in life are not always visible. They show compassion and love for Mr. Dunn by inviting him to visit their classroom and having him share stories about this boyhood life on the prairie.

A special thanks went to Tony Alvarez and his father, Rene Alvarez, for their beautiful art work.

Maranatha Club Meets With Mrs. Shorty Pace

The Maranatha Club met Nov. 15 in the home of Mrs. Shorty Pace.

Mrs. Elmer Martin, president, presided over the business meeting. Roll call was answered with a "Thanksgiving Blessing."

Mrs. Wilfred Fox and Mrs. R.M. Reed presented the program on "Angels Are for Real." "The Bible states that angels were created by God which we find in Col. 1:16," they commented. "Angels belong to a uniquely different dimension of creation which we, limited to the natural order, can scarcely comprehend."

"The angels are given higher knowledge power and mobility than us. They are ministering 'Spirits.' They do not possess physical bodies, although they may take on physical bodies when God appoints them to special tasks," they added.

Those present for the meeting were Mrs. Elmer Martin, Mrs. Sam Bullock, Mrs. Marion Bassham, Mrs. Wilford Fox, Mrs. R.M. Reed, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Woody Crabtree and Mrs. Shorty Pace.

Talk is cheaper than you think.

How to save up to 60% on Long Distance.

If you're one of those who thinks a Long Distance call is a luxury, read on.

The trick to saving money while keeping in touch with family or friends is knowing when to call, and calling One-Plus.

make a ten-minute call to Atlanta for only $1.55. That's almost worth making a new friend in Atlanta for.

Call between 11pm and 8am.

Before you groan about how you can't stay up late or see straight in the morning, think about it.

You'll be saving up to 60%! If you're a night person, you probably don't start counting sheep until after 11 pm anyway. And if you've got friends and family to call out west, it'll be a perfectly civilized 9 or 10 pm when their phone rings. If you like to see the sun rise, and you know folks back east, it'll be an hour later on their end.

Call out of state anytime before 8 am and you can talk all day if you want and still save 60%. In-state calls are also greatly reduced. Just remember to dial One-Plus.

Reach out on the weekend and save up to 60%.

Now this is a stroke of good luck: a really cheap Long Distance phone call just when you may want it most. Call any time between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday and really save. For instance, dial One-Plus and you can Even on weeknights, save up to 35%.

Sometimes you can't wait for the week end. Or you don't want to. But you can still save plenty Sunday through Friday from 5 pm to 11 pm. Think about what a bargain it is to call someone 1900 miles away, talk it up for ten minutes, and only run a tab of about $2.00. There's just no other way to get close to a faraway friend or relative so quickly, so cheaply.

On weekdays it's still a bargain.

Here's a surprise. From 8 am to 5 pm, a Long Distance chat still doesn't cost very much. A five minute call out of state, to anywhere in the continental U.S. is only about $2.50 when you dial One-Plus. Think of how good the sound of your voice would be to a friend (not to mention your mother!) right in the middle of the day.

Reach out and touch someone.

Garden Hints by Bill Jany

A neglected garden site this fall and winter can become an insect haven to explode next spring with hundreds of hungry and unwanted insect pests.

Don't maintain insects in your garden this winter. Destroy critical food supply and shelter to have fewer pests in your garden next spring. Garden insects, like most living creatures, need food and shelter to survive freezing temperatures and other adverse weather conditions. Don't give them a place to spend the winter.

Ideal places for insects to overwinter are trash, vegetable stuble, unharvested fruits and tubers, boards, mulch, tall grass and weeds. Removing plant residues and disposing of debris, weeds and other volunteer plants eliminates food and shelter for many insect pests, such as cutworms, webworms, aphids, wireworms, white grubs, and milipedes, sowbugs and spidermites.

When a garden plant stops producing, spade it into the soil or take it to the compost pile. Don't allow it to remain in your garden.

Spading the soil deeply during the fall is also a good idea as it will expose many insects to be eaten by birds and other predators. Other insects will be tilled enough into the soil to prevent their emergence.

By practicing good sanitation this fall, you'll be ridding yourself of many undesirable garden "Friends" and saving yourself time and money for insect and disease control next growing season.

Happy Thanksgiving!

BILL MACK

The story is true. The names have been changed to protect the guilty.

He is one of my all time favorite people. Several former members of his band have told me this tale (the boss is no longer active in country music) and swear that it actually happened back in the '60s when they were booked in Las Vegas.

At the time, the boss was heavy in the habit of liquid grape and the band had been performing without him for several nights while he suffered from a gargantuan hangover. As a matter of fact, the boss had yet to make an appearance since opening night, claiming he had a virus. However, the manager of the Vegas hot spot found out the true condition of the star via a female admirer who had accidentally been admitted to his hotel room.

The manager, his anger glowing more than the Las Vegas lights, informed the band members that if the boss didn't make an appearance that night, he was not only going to cancel the engagement, he was also going to make dead certain that the boss and his band would never play another Vegas spot!

The lead singer with the band went directly to the boss's hotel room and found him sitting on the edge of the bed with his head in his hands. "Boss," pleaded the singer, "you've got to go down and make the show tonight or else we're gonna be kicked out of Vegas!"

The boss mumbled something on the order of: "I don't wanna (hic) play. Tell 'em I'm (hic) sick!"

"They won't buy that any longer, boss. They know better. Now come on and put your clothes on and let's do a show. You'll be back in your room before you know it."

Against the wishes of the boss, the singer began dressing him. He managed to get his shirt on him and, after a bit of a struggle, finally maneuvered to get his fancy western pants zipped on to his body.

The big problem arose when it came to the boss's boots. "Where are your socks?" asked the singer. "We need to get your boots on, shave you, and we'll be ready to go down and do a show. Where are your socks?"

"I don't wanna (hic) pick!" belched the boss. "Tell 'em I got th' (hic) flu!"

The singer ignored his flimsy excuse and, noticing that it was almost show time, decided he would put the boss's boots on his feet without socks. After several minutes of groaning, the mission was accomplished.

The boss looked almost alive after a few whisks of the electric razor by the singer, and the only thing left to do was place his white hat on his uncombed dome and get him on the elevator to the stage. The rest of the band was waiting with the coffee at the backstage entrance.

As they walked zig-zaggedly from the elevator toward the stage, the boss grumbled: "Socks!"

"They'll never notice you don't have your socks on, boss! Just get up there and pick a few numbers and you'll be back in your room before you know it . . . and we'll get paid for this job."

While the band poured numerous cups of coffee down his gullet, tears appeared in the boss's eyes as he continued to groan, "Socks!" The band members assured him, as the singer had, that no one would be able to detect the fact that he had no socks on under his fancy boots.

Finally, it was show time and the boss was introduced on the stage of the filled room. The patrons screamed with enthusiasm as the boss did his thing.

Surprisingly, the fact that he was bombed was not noticeable. The boss always acted a little weird when he was on stage. He played his numbers without a flaw. However, between every number he would look at the singer pathetically and mumble, "Socks!" After which the singer would reassure him that no one noticed he had no socks on under his boots.

After the show was completed, the manager of the night spot congratulated the boss on a job well done. He had brought the crowd to their feet that night. The boss, however, was in no mood for small talk. He kept groaning, "Socks!" as the singer and a couple of members of the band took him to the elevator and back up to his room.

The boss flopped on to his bed with tears in his eyes. "Socks!" he cried.

The band members decided to undress him and put him back in bed. They pulled his fancy boots from his feet and were shocked to notice his toes were dark purple in color and were bent under in a crumbled position. It was then that they noticed what the boss had been trying to tell them. His socks were wadded together in the toe section of one of his boots.

CHRISTMAS GIFT GUIDE

Welcome to Santa's place! He and his happy family have invited us in for a speical preview of all this year's best Christmas gifts - for mom and dad, brothers and sisters big and small, grandparents, grownup friends and favorite wee ones. Gather 'round with the North Pole clan and get ready for a Christmas full of gifts and glee for all.!

TREAT THAT EVERYONE CAN ENJOY

The Christmas season brings gifts from the oven—all sorts of cakes, candies and cookies abound.

But, for the 29 million Americans who must restrict their salt intake, the holidays are filled with temptations that may prove hazardous to their health.

With a little time and research, those who must restrict themselves to salt-free diets can also indulge in luscious holiday desserts that are safe and nutritious as well.

Spiced walnuts are a treat that can be enjoyed by everyone.

SPICED WALNUTS

¼ cup fructose
½ cup cornstarch
4 tsps. ground cinnamon
1 tsp. ground allspice
½ tsp. ground nutmeg
½ tsp. ground ginger
2 egg whites
2 cups walnut halves (or any other nut)

Preheat the oven to 250°F.

Sift together the fructose, cornstarch, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg and ginger into a bowl. Mix well and set aside.

Lightly beat the egg whites in a bowl. Add the walnuts and mix well.

Coat each walnut with the fructose-spice and shake off any excess dry mixture.

Place, well spaced, on a well-oiled cookie sheet. Bake 1½ hours.

Remove, cool and store.

This large quantity can be wrapped in a decorative fashion and given as a gift.

Catch the action ...

Exciting holiday parties are movie-making naturals

Catching all the action at a party or family get-together during the holidays is a natural movie event if you want to capture action and not just the frozen split seconds of a snapshot.

From icing the cake to blowing out candles at a birthday party . . . or from the chatter as visitors arrive through the groans and giggles around the holiday table, movies can catch it all . . . and so easily!

One very successful new idea is to let everyone shoot some footage. Pass the camera around the table as you would the turkey platter.

Movie-making tips

It not only creates hilarity during filming—but everyone will enjoy the "showing" even more. Just keep it set for wide angle to ensure good focus and minimize movement.

Here are some tips to make filming the party or family get-together even more fun:

- Briefly show everyone how to look through the viewfinder and press the "trigger." Today's movie cameras are so lightweight and easy to use that everyone can join in—from grandma to the young ones.
- In fact, if you leave the camera with the birthday party teens (or younger), just show them how to drop in the cartridge (it's easier than most still cameras), set it on wide angle, and show them how to change the focus if they want.
- Most indoor lighting is fine, with today's fast films and fast lenses. But if you want to augment room lighting without bulky movie lights, simply replace a couple of the regular bulbs with photo-floods (BBA).

The light will look natural, but be brighter. If your Halloween party, Thanksgiving dinner or Yuletime family group is big, it might be advisable.

- Simple instructions before passing the camera will make the "epic" even better: shoot for at least a count of 6 to 8 slowly.

If someone wants to "pan" the group, tell them to do it as if they've been frozen and can barely move—and then move the whole upper body, not just the head.

Use a telescopic mike if you have one—but a table mike works very well, too.

- Have plenty of film on hand. With everyone shooting, it can go quickly.

If you want a more planned film, plan to get shots of the guests arriving, the kitchen crew at work, kids playing together, the start of the groaning table, then the shots around the table and maybe end with the turkey's bare bones.

MOVIES CATCH ALL THE FAMILY ACTION . . . and they're so easy that everyone at the party or family holiday dinner can join in the fun of "shooting," says Sankyo, the movie people.

Remember someone special with this thoughtful gift from Cross. Fine writing instruments in gold filled, sterling silver or solid 14 karat gold. From $15.00.

FEAST WITH FLAVOR OF DAYS PAST

How about a good, old-fashioned Christmas this year?

Concoct a feast straight out of Dickens, and watch the expressions of joy on your loved ones' faces, the lights sparkling in their eyes.

Cook up a goose or a turkey with all the fixings, and finish up with that olde English favorite, a plum pudding.

You can find special plum pudding molds in shops specializing in gourmet cookware.

Don't wait for the last minute to begin preparing it, because your plum pudding will need time to age, so its flavors can intensify and combine.

Mistletoe is an old English custom, so old in fact that it dates back to Druidic times. Hang a sprig over a heavily trafficked doorway.

You might consider preparing a wassail bowl—a great bowl of spiced wine that is sure to warm the insides of your brood, when they've returned from caroling in the snowy streets.

Traditionally, a cup of wassail was given in thanks to carolers at each house they visited after their concert had finished.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC will liven up Christmas for any preschooler on your gift-giving list. And when the music is made by a lovable, banjo-pickin' bear, it's double the fun. Banjo Bear is the newest Zoodleland animal from Kusan Toys, and youngsters will love singing along to favorites including "Old MacDonald" and "Ten Little Indians." The music is created by four scratch-resistant discs and a special recessed needle out of kids' reach. The music begins when the child places a disc in Banjo Bear's "banjo;" the disc ejects automatically when the song ends. No needle arm to maneuver, no on-off switch for kids to forget (which saves batteries!). Banjo Bear is a great way to get little ones interested in music, while providing hours of Christmas—and year-round—fun.

Basic games for Christmas are run by kid-power for hours of active fun

In this age of gadgets and gimmicks, it's nice to know that you can still find some simple, basic games to give the children on your Christmas list, games that need no power but kid-power to activate the fun.

Basic games are ideal for teaching kids fundamental skills, cost only a few dollars and never need batteries. But best of all, they're fun!

Some games have been around long enough to become classics. Such a game is Cootie, everybody's favorite bug for more than 30 years.

Cootie is still teaching children fundamentals like colors, numbers and taking turns, as each player races to be the first to complete his or her Cootie by adding legs, eyes and so on.

Gift-givers can choose the standard Cootie game, or treat a child to Deluxe Cootie or Giant Cootie; all are as sure to please now as the original Cootie did three decades ago.

Other basic games are variations on traditional favorites. For instance, Stadium Checkers, from Schaper, combines the strategy of checkers with the excitement of marbles.

Players must move their marbles down the stadium by rotating concentric rings—but, at the same time, try not to move the opponent's marbles.

Bingo takes on a new dimension in Shake Bingo, a game played with dice. Players match the numbers on the dice with the dice configurations on the plastic bingo board; the first to cover six numbers in a row is the winner.

Another variation, on two classics, is Tiddle Tac Toe. This game combines the coordination skills of tiddlywinks with the strategy of tic tac toe, and the only predictable outcome is a fun time for all.

To help develop coordination and timing skills in little fingers, games like Ants in the Pants, Don't Spill the Beans or The Last Straw are ideal.

All are lively action games that require no reading skills, and are great tools for preschoolers to learn dexterity and competition.

Steering through the maze from flower to hive is the object of Tickle Bee, a Schaper classic for over 17 years.

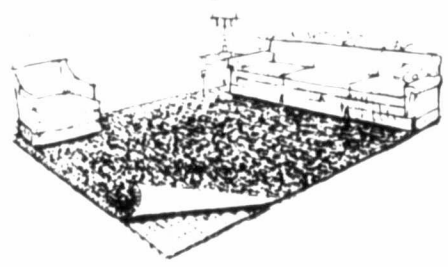

Using skill, concentration, and the magnetic "tickler" wand, players try to guide the bee without getting "stung." The nice part for parents is that Tickle Bee is self-contained, so there are no parts to get lost.

When you begin your search through the toy store this Christmas for a game that will entertain as well as develop children's skills, you needn't be dazzled by sophisticated gadgetry—and the high prices that go with it.

Good, basic games such as these can provide hours of constructive play from a limitless energy source—children!

Toys and games that offer excitement with electronics

When you think of gift-giving and what you can do to make this holiday season really special, think of electronics.

Today's electronics have created a whole new world of toys and games that will fascinate and challenge everyone on your Christmas list.

For example, Radio Shack stores offer a selection of radio-controlled cars and trucks, all inexpensively priced, thanks to recent advances in electronics.

Year 'round action

And they also offer several exciting electronic games for hours of fun all year 'round. These games are all micro-processor controlled and are designed with special lighting and sound effects, time clocks and digital readouts.

To delight any youngster, there are racing cars modeled after the Ferrari, Porsche 929, or a pair with authentic Lancia Stratos styling for competing with a friend.

The "Elf" racer, a sleek blue model, operates in forward and reverse with turn action at your fingertips.

There is also a 12" Radio Shack truck with swing open doors, and a tank that turns right or left at any angle.

Two other winners are the "Super Style" van with lighted headlights and the Off-Road Fang that climbs hills with simulated 4-wheel drive action.

The cars operate easily and safely with a hand-held, battery-powered radio control that provides instant response. With radio control cars there is always lots of action all year 'round, indoors or out.

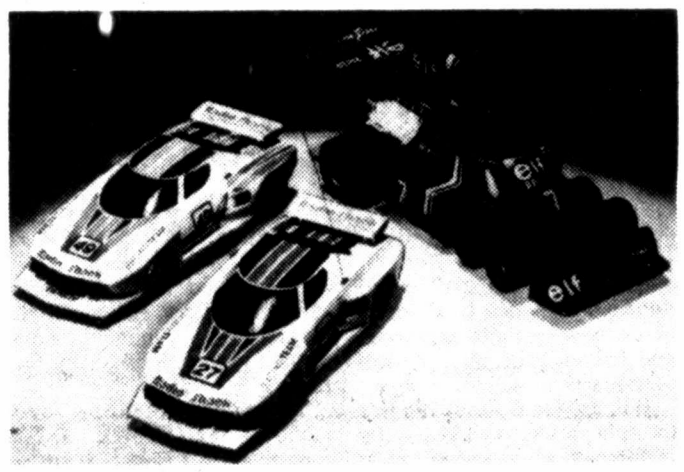

Captivating competition

Radio Shack stores also offer a selection of hand-held battery-operated electronic games that will captivate any sports enthusiast. When their favorite sport is out of season, you can keep them in the spirit of the game with electronic football, baseball, basketball or golf.

Other favorite games are blackjack and "Electronic Repeat," a challenging memory game that requires repeating a sequence and pattern of lights and sounds—fun for the whole family.

Something for everyone

Whatever your gift-giving needs, there's something in the world of electronics that's just right, and your nearby Radio Shack store can be your one-stop gift-buying headquarters.

THIS STREAMLINED RACING TEAM AND ELF RACER are only two of the great line-up of radio-controlled cars offered by Radio Shack stores. For holiday gift-giving, these are sure to please. Other electronic gift ideas from Radio Shack include hand-held games of baseball, football or golf.

Home control system is gift of pushbutton security, convenience

The plug-in home control system from Sears, Roebuck and Co. is a gift that offers year-round security.

In response to strange noises or to scare off prowlers, it can turn on indoor and outdoor lights instantly with the touch of a button.

It can control appliances in addition to lights and lamps. In the morning you can switch on the coffee pot, hair curlers and radio or TV for the news without getting out of bed.

The command console plugs into any electrical outlet near a night stand or throughout the house. Coded signals are sent over the home electrical wiring system to lamp, appliance or wall switch modules.

Lamps are plugged into modules which plug into wall sockets. Install them in a child's room so that you can remotely turn on lights at the sound of commotion or crying.

The appliance unit, handling up to 15 amps., works like the lamp module. It enables you to conserve energy by turning off appliances—anywhere in the house—when they're not needed.

And the wall switch module, installed like a light dimmer, can control outside, garage and ceiling lights.

One channel or button on the command console can operate more than one module. There also are buttons to dim and brighten lights, as well as to turn all lights on or off at once. Lights and appliances can still be operated manually with their own switches.

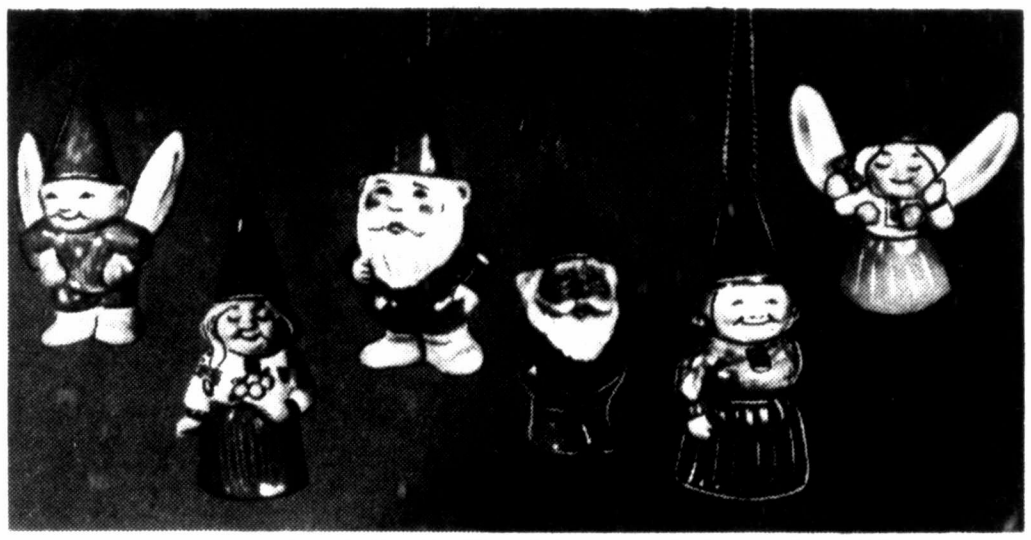

Want to operate the command console in a part of the room without an outlet? An optional cordless controller has the same keyboard as the command console. Point it at the console and you can ultrasonically control it from up to 30 feet away.

The command console costs about $40. Wall switch and appliance modules are about $15 each, and the lamp module is less than $14. The remote control unit costs about $20.

The home control system is available at most Sears stores or through the 1979 Fall/Winter and Home Improvement catalogs.

HEAR STRANGE NOISES? You can turn on indoor and outdoor lights simultaneously at the touch of a button (above), without getting out of bed. Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s command console (below, left) controls lamps and appliances, too, through plug-in modules. The light switch module is installed like a light dimmer. A remote control unit (below, right) can operate the command console from up to 30 feet away.

THESE COLORFUL GNOMES WILL BE AT HOME on your family tree this holiday season, or you can take them along as a present for a friend or relative. Certain to be admired by all who see them, they will be appreciated by collectors of unique Christmas tree ornaments. Left to Right: Boy With Wings, Female Newlywed, Male Newlywed, Father Gnome, Mother Gnome and Girl With Wings. Available at leading jewelry, gift and department stores from Gorham.

"Gnome" for the holidays with these unique gifts!

Christmas is a time of fun and fantasy and, when it comes to choosing unique gifts for family and friends, the imagination soars!

Half the fun is in finding just the right present. This year, gifts by Gorham are among the most imaginative ever, and without a doubt the most delightful.

Special visitors

One reason is "Gnomes." Almost everyone knows about them. They are legendary and are said to live 400 years, are stronger than men, and stand less than six inches tall!

They are inclined to visit frequently—especially during the holidays—and everyone agrees that they can add immeasurably to the festive spirit of the holiday season—even if you can't see them!

Fanciful gifts

But now you can see them, a family of Gnomes—gifts by Gorham—inspired by Holland's popular illustrator, Rien Poortvliet, in the best selling Gnomes book (published by Harry N. Abrams, Inc., UNIEBOEK B.V. 1979).

They include handpainted ceramic music boxes on which they appear with animal friends, or on a glass ball ornament for the tree.

Ma and Pa Gnome are savers—handpainted papier mache coin banks. Mother Gnome is a real Bell (e)!

An entire family of papier mache Gnomes makes colorful tree ornaments. One endearing Gnome is a collectible Thimble!

All are especially appealing holiday gifts by Gorham available in leading jewelry, gift and department stores this holiday season.

An alternative (energy) gift idea

Let your youngsters spend their winter months building some simple solar powered devices for use next spring and summer.

A booklet containing information about solar energy and plans for build-at-home solar ovens and cookers has been prepared by a troup of New York Boy Scouts.

To obtain a copy, mail $1.00 to Troup 70-Solar Booklet, Box M, 69-05 Ditmars Blvd., Jackson Heights, NY 11370.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

There's no place like home for the holidays, especially when the home reflects the creative interests of those who reside within.

Hand-made Christmas decorations add a warm, personal touch to the seasonal atmosphere of Christmas.

From tree ornaments to table arrangements, a little time, imagination and a minimum of supplies can result in an unlimited array of unique Christmas adornments.

With a little know-how, a pair of scissors, glue, and a needle and thread can transform pieces of colored felt into tiny drums, stockings and other Christmas mementos to hang on your tree.

To create an instrument reminiscent of "The Little Drummer Boy", cut out a rectangle of felt and 2 felt circles whose circumferences equal the length of the rectangle.

Sew the circles to the rectangle and leave a side seam for stuffing with cotton or any soft material.

Stitch the remaining side and decorate with sequins and glitter, attach a piece of felt for hanging and proudly display the tiny drum on your tree.

And, don't worry if your ornament doesn't look perfect. The beauty of a hand-made creation is that there is only one of its kind—yours.

China and hollowware add Christmas sparkle to home

Home, we say, is where the heart is and, during the holiday season, your home reflects the happiness and joy of Christmas.

Holly, mistletoe and evergreens touched with bright red accents add festive "specialness," and the family's best silver and tableware set the keynote for holiday hospitality.

Silver touches

This Christmas, you can add sparkle to your home that will last all year with china and hollowware gifts that add a bright decorative touch to rooms and table settings, suggests the Jewelry Industry Council.

Silver hollowware is a perennial favorite.

A small accent in sterling—weighted candlesticks, a Revere bowl or salt and pepper shakers—adds something extra to mealtime ambience.

Silverplate hollowware, an easily affordable alternative, is a ringer for sterling and, if properly cared for, will last indefinitely.

Pewter and brass

A butter dish or sugar bowl and cream pitcher on a small tray are useful gifts and don't have to match flatware exactly. They're great hostess gifts too.

Pewter and brass, decorative materials in a more casual mood, are becoming important parts of the hollowware picture.

Sometimes both metals are used in one piece for textural contrast. The soft sheen of pewter combines beautifully with the golden gleam of brass in candlesticks, liqueur glasses, napkin rings and trays.

As useful as they are pretty are fine china ornaments. China candlesticks graced with flowers in tones that harmonize with dinnerware give a spring-like feeling to luncheon table settings.

Serving utensils, such as a cheese knife or pie server with china handles, and matching serving plate make a lovely gift.

A porcelain figurine or hand-made crystal paperweight are desk ornaments sure to please.

As you shop for Christmas gifts to delight loved ones, remember to keep an eye out for gifts that will please every member of your family—gifts that add graciousness and beauty to your home.

BRIGHTEN YOUR HOME AT CHRISTMAS and all year round with gifts of hollowware and fine china. A silverplate butter dish or sugar bowl and cream pitcher lends elegance to your table and makes a great hostess gift, as does this brass tray and damascene-look bon bon box. For a casual setting, pewter combines with brass in handsome candlesticks. Floral candle holders add a breath of spring to table settings, and a crystal paperweight or porcelain figurine is a lovely accent for a desk or shelf—and is much appreciated by collectors, notes the Jewelry Industry Council.

God and sinners reconciled!

Make children happy while keeping Christmas costs down

The thought of Christmas shopping should conjure up visions of sugarplums, not of empty wallets in January. So thrifty shoppers will be glad to know that quality toys costing $5 or less can still be found.

That means kids can enjoy safe and entertaining toys, while parents and other gift-givers enjoy a Christmas well within their means. Here are a few possibilities.

An all-time favorite game for over three decades, Cootie is a lovable bug that kids put together. A throw of the dice indicates which plastic body part to add next, as players race to finish their bug first.

Perfect for pre-schoolers

No reading skills are required, so Cootie, from Schaper Toys, is a perfect gift for pre-schoolers.

For more active play, Cosom's Krazy Kones is an exciting yet inexpensive toss game. It comes with two plastic catching "kones" and a third "kone" with resilient plastic nose.

Safe for indoor use, "Krazy Kones" can be played in a variety of ways, throwing and catching the kone to rack up the highest score.

Dogs are man's best friend, and Lil' Pup is sure to be baby's best buddy. Lil' Pup, from Kusan Toys, has ears that flop, a nose that wiggles, and a tail that wags whenever baby pushes it down on the floor. A lovable pet for children ages 1 to 3, Lil' Pup costs less than $5.

For creative fun at low prices, kids will enjoy "whomping" buttons with Schaper's Button Factory. Children can create an endless variety of personal buttons or badges by using the "Whomper" to sandwich pictures in clip-on plastic badges.

Or they can create dozens of funny faces on Kusan's Trash Can Man. Trash Can Man is made of tough plastic with interchangeable arms, legs and facial features, and it also doubles as a bank.

TAKE ONE TRASH CAN, add arms and feet and a changeable face, and you've got a zany Trash Can Man that will give youngsters a barrel of fun on Christmas Day, and long after. Trash Can Man, from Kusan, is loaded with play value, yet costs less than $5.

Tiny toys

Gift-givers might also consider a starter set of Playmobil "little people." Playmobil, from Schaper, is a series of ten themed sets that include 3" high "little people" figures and click-on accessories for imaginative, creative play.

For under $5, Santa can start a child's collection of sets such as Farmers, Firefighters, Cowboys or Indians, or add new accessories to Playmobil toys the child already owns.

Delightful money-savers

Christmas shouldn't mean having to go into debt in order to fill children's gift requests. Knowledgeable shoppers, with careful selection, can find any number of inexpensive toys, such as those mentioned here, which will delight and entertain the most difficult-to-please child on Christmas list.

Get a head start on Christmas season

'Tis the season to be jolly . . . and with a little advance planning, the entire holiday season can be fun and hassle-free.

Organize and start pre-Yuletide tasks several weeks prior to Christmas, so when the merry-making begins, you can be ready to join in with family and friends for all the festivities.

Here are some "must dos" you can easily get a head start on:

- Buy your gifts and send your greeting cards early. Stores get crowded as the holidays draw near; early shopping can save you hours of waiting on long lines. Preparing your cards early will ensure their pre-holiday arrival.
- Give the house a major cleaning a few weeks before the holidays, so all that is left is light housekeeping. For quick and effective touch-up cleaning, keep a bottle of Glass*Plus® glass, appliance and cabinet cleaner handy.
- Just spray this versatile cleaner on washable surfaces all around the house . . . windows, mirrors, chrome, countertops and appliances. Then wipe with a paper towel or lint-free cloth.
- Making this year's holidays memorable should not be your responsibility alone. Arrange for help from all members of the family; assign tasks, large or small, and make each person responsible for his specific chore.
- Prepare cook-ahead meals. Cakes, pies, cookies and many main courses, such as casseroles, can be prepared weeks ahead of time and put into the freezer.
- The day when guests arrive, just defrost and reheat for a delicious holiday meal.

Week by week decorating tips

The Christmas season is the time for family fun and sharing. And, with so much warmth and good feeling in the air, don't confine family activities to just Christmas Day itself.

Instead, get everyone—from tots to grandparents—involved in preparing the house for a colorful holiday.

Starting early in December, set aside a few hours each evening for the family to work together on decorations, wrapping presents or making gifts for friends and relatives.

Here's a calendar of pre-Christmas events that involve the whole family:

First week of December

Time to address holiday greeting cards. (Remember, distant friends and relatives appreciate a short note.)

Deck your home with Yuletide spirit. Let the children gather pine cones, then spray paint them silver, gold or white. Tie the cones to the ends of red satin ribbons (use different lengths) and secure the ribbons together with a big bow. Tack to the front door for a welcome holiday look.

Pile extra pine cones in a pretty glass bowl on the hall table.

Or, tie several pine boughs together, cover with artificial spray snow or spray glue and sprinkle on glitter—cover the knot with a big red bow. For safe and effective use of aerosol products, read the labels and follow directions.

Second week of December

All join in a tree trimming workshop. Make your ornaments together—it's less expensive and you'll treasure those memories for years to come.

YOU'LL TREASURE family-made Christmas decorations and tree trimmings.

String cranberries and popcorn into red and white chains for the tree. Accent the chains with tiny bows of green or silver ribbon.

Construction paper is an ideal inexpensive medium for tree decorations. Cut out angels, reindeer, candy canes or stars—then coat them with a light spray adhesive and sprinkle with multicolored glitter or snowy cotton balls. Punch a hole in the top of each, then add bright colored yarn for a hanger.

And even the youngest members of the family will love making paper chains.

Third week of December

This is the week to "do" the windows in holiday style. Let the kids spray the panes with snow through a paper stencil snowflake. Then, hang the snowflakes cut out of paper.

Wrap those special gifts in different, creative ways. For a personalized touch, spray paint (through a stencil) a name right on the wrapping—it's better and brighter than a name tag. Or, spray paint the box itself and wrap with a big ribbon, streamer or garland.

Up goes the tree and everybody can join in the trimming. Use a waterproofer or fabric guard to coat the tree skirt and protect rugs or floors.

And, if yours is an artificial tree, an aerosol room freshener in a pine scent will bring the smell of Christmas that everyone loves.

It's always nice to finish each family project with a festive snack—cookies, brownies and, of course, hot chocolate with a delicious squirt of whipped cream.

The gift of time

Yuletide favorites from the kitchen

Christmas comes but once a year and lasts but a single day—yet we begin preparing for the gala event weeks in advance.

Between the pressures of shopping, decorating the house, planning and preparing festive meals and holiday baking, plus entertaining guests, one never seems to have the time to sit back and relax in the spirit of the season.

A multitude of elements combine to represent the holiday season, elements that together form our fondest memories of Christmas.

One special memory for many of us is the sweet aroma of mother's or grandmother's holiday baking throughout the house as we were growing up.

Better baking

Long hours spent in the kitchen meant looking forward to delicious old family favorites, as well as plenty of "good eating."

West Bend's Craftsman Bakery™ Collection bakeware can help lend you a hand in preparing those irresistible treasures, plus much more.

Seven heavy-gauge aluminum bakeware pieces with DuPont's Silverstone® nonstick surface, will make all your baking easier than before.

Cakes, cookies, muffins and breads will slide right out of the pan without sticking. Even the toughest baked on foods will clean-up in seconds with just hot soapy water and a sponge.

'Tis the season

This year plan ahead for the Christmas rush, by baking your special recipes in large quantities and giving them as gifts.

The fun's for everyone, with each member of the family letting their imagination run wild to design personal holiday creations.

Surprise a neighbor or friend with a scrumptious fruitcake or nutbread, tightly wrapped in cellophane and tied with some fancy ribbon.

A colorful Christmas tin packed full of homemade candy accented with a perky bow and some mistletoe—who could resist?

Using the Craftsman Bakery™ Collection, homemade goodies such as these make attractive and thoughtful gifts for babysitters, postmen, teachers and paperboys.

Here are some easy, delicious recipe suggestions for holiday entertaining and gift-giving . . . the perfect way to say "Merry Christmas!"

CHRISTMAS TREE BREAD

- 1 1-pound loaf frozen bread dough
- ½ cup golden or dark seedless raisins
- 1 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- red and green candied cherries
- 2 tablespoons chopped walnuts

Allow bread dough to defrost at room temperature, about 1 hour. Knead raisins into dough on lightly floured surface.

Cut dough equally in half. Roll each dough section into a rope about 3 feet long with greased hands.

Form a tree by placing end of one rope near center of narrow end of greased 15½X10½X1 inch Craftsman Bakery cookie and bake pan.

Bring dough straight down 2 inches and make a small outward loop. Bring dough down 2 inches and make a slightly larger outward loop.

Continue steps making 2 more loops, each slightly larger than previous loop.

Turn end of dough down to form small tree trunk.

Repeat steps with second dough rope to form other side of tree forming loops in opposite direction.

Cover and let dough rise in warm place until doubled in size.

Bake in preheated 350°F oven for 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown. Cool tree on rack.

In small mixing bowl combine confectioners' sugar, milk and vanilla. Stir until smooth.

Drizzle icing over bread tree and garnish with candied cherries.

Sprinkle walnuts over iced tree trunk.

Makes 1 tree bread.

CHERRIED FRUIT CAKE

- 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 7¼-ounce packages pitted white dates
- 1 cup mixed candied fruits
- 2 16-ounce jars red maraschino cherries, drained
- 1 16-ounce package whole pecans
- 6 eggs
- ⅓ cup light or dark rum
- ½ cup light corn syrup

Grease two 9X5X3 inch Craftsman Bakery-loaf pans with shortening.

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into a large mixing bowl.

Add dates, candied fruits, cherries and pecans. Toss until coated.

Beat eggs and run until well blended. Pour over fruit mixture. Stir until blended.

Divide batter equally between loaf pans, using a spatula to spread batter evenly into pans.

Bake in preheated 300°F oven for 1 hour 45 minutes or until cake tester or toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

Cool cake in pans 15 minutes. Then remove from pans.

Brush loaves with corn syrup while still warm. Cool thoroughly before serving or storing.

Makes 2 loaves.

THROUGH THE MAGIC of the polyurethane wheels, roller skating has taken to the streets . . . and the sidewalks. The new disco roller skates are as comfortable on the dance floor or off. They come in men's, women's and children's sizes, and are available for about $40 in most larger Sears stores and through the company's 1979 Christmas Wishbook.

TURN YOUR KITCHEN INTO SANTA'S WORKSHOP using this exquisite line of heavy-gauge aluminum bakeware to make delicious holiday goodies. Treat relatives and friends to your favorite recipes prepared quick and easy in West Bend's Craftsman Bakery™ Collection bakeware with Silverstone®.

This easy-care dress, with elasticized waist and cuffs, has Schiffli embroidered net handkerchief points finishing the pockets. Schiffli Venise lace trimmed anklets by Electric Sok.

THE CHARM OF LACE—Jodi Ford, one of the orphans from Broadway's hit musical "Annie," shows off a navy-blue holiday dress from Joseph Love in a washable velvet of "Dacron" polyester from Du Pont. Delicate, yet easy care, galloon trim of Schiffli Venise lace encircles her waistline, with coordinating Schiffli Venise lace edging the cape sleeves and neckline. KEEP FIT FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Whether it's chopping the Yule Log or gliding along the trails on a new pair of cross-country skis, Americans are on the go, leading more active lives and placing strong emphasis on sports, exercise and fitness.

Outdoor activities heat up during the Christmas season as recipients of ice skates, skis, toboggans and snowmobiles are eager to test their new winter wares.

And not all arctic outings are fun and games, as sidewalks and driveways pile up with snow that must be shoveled by able hands. However, all of these activities can lead to a common end—muscle aches, stiff joints and chilled bones.

To help prevent nagging aches and pains, the Gillette Company, Appliance Division, makers of Heat Wrap, a unique new flexible heating pad, advises holiday revelers to watch holiday activities that can lead to over-exertion and offers some common sense holiday hints:

- Wait at least 45 minutes after completing a meal before engaging in any strenuous activity.
- When shoveling snow, lift with the legs, not the back, to help prevent backache.
- When you feel fatigued, stop, rest and start again.
- Stretch arms and legs to limber and loosen muscles before the start of outdoor sports and chores to help avoid strains and pulls later.

Anyone can encounter aches and pains no matter how careful. Heat Wrap with its versatile shape, velcro fasteners, belt and shoulder loops is designed to wrap around muscle areas, including back, neck, thighs, knees, elbows and wrists, and keep heat exactly where it's needed.

The common sense approach to physical activities during the Christmas season can make the holidays happy and healthy.

A MEMORABLE GIFT WITH A HISTORY—This unique fine china reproduction from the Smithsonian Institution collection, the Lenox Saxony Vase, is a holiday gift that will be prized both for its decorative beauty and its fascinating history. The handsome new piece, 11 inches in height, faithfully reproduces a porcelain vase that was handmade and hand-painted at the Meissen Manufactory in Saxony, circa 1725. The decoration, an Oriental flower motif popular in Europe in the early 18th century, has been recreated from the original piece with the same brilliant color palette and intricate detail. This special vase, hand trimmed in 24-karat gold, also carries a gold back stamp with the Lenox China crest and the mark of the Smithsonian Institution. Gift-boxed with a card describing its historical significance, this dramatic reproduction will earn a place of prominence in the home this holiday season and for years to come.

New table-top appliances inspired by professional cooks and computers

For years there have been appliances and food-preparation techniques that were the exclusive province of restaurants and professional cooks.

But now, several have been adapted, and electrified, for home use. Their ease of operation and small size make them convenient for use by busy singles and working marrieds as well as by full-time homemakers.

One of these appliances is the convection oven, tried and proven in restaurants for 25 years.

Sears table-top model is designed for home use. Its silent fan circulates hot air so food cooks about 25 percent faster, more evenly and with about half the heat. Natural juices are sealed in.

It can also slow-cook and dehydrate fruits and vegetables (six stainless-steel shelves are included).

The oven has a continuous cleaning interior of porcelainized steel. Its removable oven door of tempered safety glass is dishwasher safe.

The size of a small microwave unit, the convection oven sells for about $220 at selected Sears stores and through the catalog.

Diligent chefs spend years learning to wield a knife to expertly chop and slice. This apprenticeship has virtually been eliminated by the food processor.

Sears new seven-speed model can do everything from slicing delicate fruit to kneading bread.

Its "momentary" switch allows the user to turn it on for a short time to control the texture of foods with short processing times.

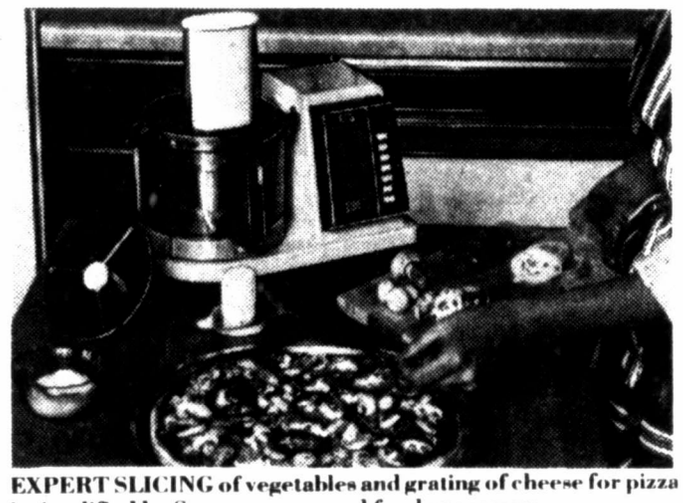

Included are stainless steel cutting discs and a nylon mixing blade. It sells for about $49.

Some table-top appliances can even "think," thanks to mini-computers.

Sears electronic blender can easily be programmed for 16 speeds and operating times up to 60 seconds, shown in a digital display. A chart tells what speed to select for each blending operation.

The blender also performs six common conversions from English to metric measurement and vice-versa, so the user can convert European recipes.

It has a flat, pressure-sensitive control panel that's easy to clean. The blender is available in gold, avocado and almond colors for about $50.

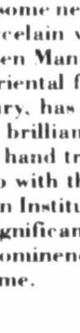

EXPERT SLICING of vegetables and grating of cheese for pizza is simplified by Sears seven-speed food processor.

Capture yuletide spirit, as well as Christmas, in holiday pictures

For the young, and young at heart, it sometimes seems that Christmas takes just a bit longer to arrive. Why do the end of summer vacation, that difficult piano recital, the first examination come so quickly, when Christmas morning is always so late?

Parents know how edgy children can become waiting for Santa Claus; reminders about Ol' Saint Nick, and his list of who's naughty and nice, can go unheard by the best of children. That's why it's so important to keep your offspring occupied.

Baking cookies, helping with the Christmas cards, getting out the traditional decorations, maybe even a clean sweep of their rooms, wrapping a present or two may be just enough distraction for youngsters.

These activities are part of the Christmas season, and they should be part of your Christmas pictures. A scrapbook of Christmas, and all the events leading up to it, will be treasured long after your children have outgrown their need to get up at 5:30 a.m. on December 25.

Here are some suggestions to make these pictures even more poignant.

One of the first things to keep in mind is "get in close." A pocket sized Kodak Tele-Ektralite camera is excellent for close-ups because it has a built-in telephoto lens—in addition to a regular lens—that lets you capture your children's natural reactions without intruding upon them. The camera also has a built-in flash to make matters that much simpler.

Look for action shots. Icing those cookies and wrapping those presents, possibly even putting that star on top of the tree, are the photos you will treasure. That means you should keep your camera within easy reach.

When lining up members of the family for group pictures, arrange them so that everyone looks relaxed. For example, most people look more formal when standing, less so when sitting.

You might want to have the family gathered around one person who is trying to wrap a present—or opening one.

While pictures of the family are essential to that Christmas scrapbook, simplicity is also important.

Putting too much in one photograph makes it look cluttered and possibly not as interesting. The trick is to take more pictures and zero in on one activity at a time.

Even though pre-Christmas pictures are great, don't forget the main event—Christmas morning. Have plenty of film on hand and be ready for a day of picture-taking fun.

WHEN TAKING PICTURES of holiday activities, one of the first rules is get in close. The Kodak Tele-Ektralite 40 camera, with its telephoto lens, puts you twice as close with a flip of a switch.

Cats, dogs enjoy holiday

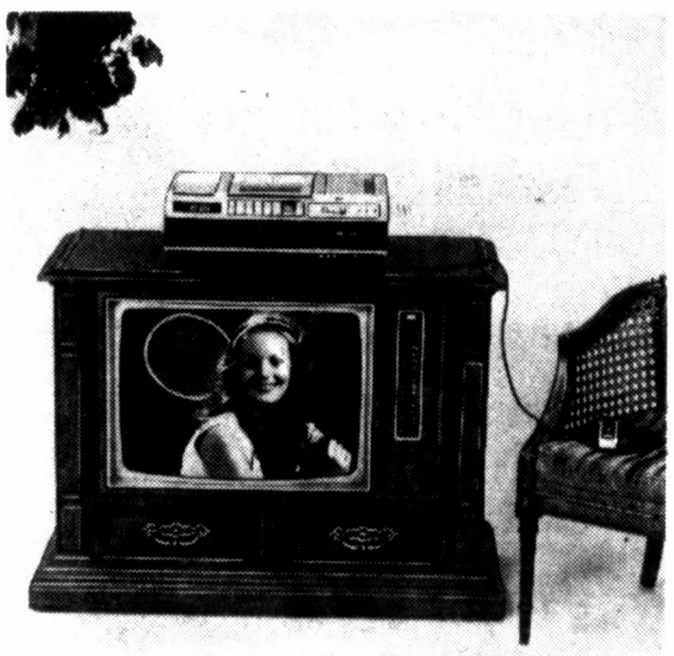

Legend says that the animals talked on Christmas Eve.

Maybe your pet keeps his thoughts to himself, but it's a safe bet that he'd like to join the festivities around the Christmas tree.

Cats and dogs love to romp through wrapping paper and play with ribbons. That's all very well for an adult, but be sure puppies and kittens don't get bits of paper and string down their throats.

Don't let them get too excited or you might have an accident on your hands—or a sick animal, which would throw a shadow over your own festivities.

Enjoy Christmas all through the year

YOU DON'T HAVE TO WAIT for warm weather to enjoy outdoor sports—Zenith's Video Director lets you bring them indoors with you at any time during the year. Action Control lets you Speed Search and Stop Action remotely. System 3 color TV console is the Malaga.

Those special Christmas moments can be enjoyed at any time during the year with the help of a video cassette recorder and a video camera.

A video cassette recorder can turn any color TV set into a complete home viewing system. The Video Director from Zenith has more features and offers the customer more control over color TV programming and viewing than ever before possible from Zenith.

The Video Director can record up to five hours on one cassette. Its "Weekend" timer allows recording time to be preset up to three days in advance.

The set can also be programmed to record programs of the same length at the same time on successive days until the tape is fully used. For instance, a week's worth of a favorite daytime serial can be watched in one evening.

A remote Action Control can be used to edit unwanted material during recording.

Speed Search can help you find just the spot on the tape you are looking for quickly.

Stop Action can freeze that important kick-off or goal—all by remote control.

Cameras that record picture and sound are also available. Add one to the Zenith Video Director, and those special moments need not be just a memory—they can be relived at any time throughout the years, to keep Christmas bright.
