Girl Nearly Loses Life In Effort To Swim Channel

"HAD ENOUGH" SHE CRIES AS RESCUE COMES

Miss Lillian Harrison Of Argentine Gives up Her Campaign

SAVED BY PACER

Egyption Leading Her In Crossing Saves Her From Death

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 10.—Lillian Harrison nearly lost her life today by drowning in her fourth unsuccessful attempt to swim the English channel. Only prompt work by Ishak Helmy, an Egyptian swimmer, who was in the water pacing her, prevented her from going t othe bottom.

"Catch me, Helmy; I am going down," Miss Harrison suddenly exclaimed while apparently swimming strong. She lurched forward, caught the Egyptian by the neck and nearly fainted. She was then hauled aboard the accompanying tug and brought back to Boulogne.

Her Last Attempt.

"This is my last attempt," said the little Argentine swimmer as she reached the deck of the tug in a semi-conscious state at 7:17 o'clock this evening after having been in the water seven hours and five minutes. "The channel is too much for me."

When forced to acknowledge defeat Miss Harrison was eight miles off Dover, just opposite Dover castle. Her position when she abandoned her effort was the best ever reached by any channel swimmer in the same elapsed time. The floodtide seemed to be rapidly pushing her toward the shore when she had to give up.

A Difficult Start.

The swim, which was started at 12:12 p. m., from Cape Griz-Nez, was attempted under most difficult conditions. Channel experts and ancient marines, who were along the water front when the girl made her swim, said she was doomed to failure and expressed no surprise when the tug returned to Boulogne with her at 10:20 o'clock tonight.

Miss Harrison revived physically shortly after she was taken aboard the tug, but her spirit seemed broken and she announced that never again would she try to cross the rough and treacherous waterway separating England from France.

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—A decision on the Burkburnett interstate bridge case will be made by the highway commission, Aug. 24, members told the Wichita county delegation Monday.

"I can't tell you that," he answered, "but you know I have been ready all the time to vote on it." The other members, he said, were causing the delay.

Not On Allotment

Senator J. D. Parnell told the highway commission when the Wichita delegation was given hearing that Wichita county was not asking allotment of aid, but asking the state to proceed with a contract made in good faith with the county on which both the state and the county have spent money in preparation of plans. The funds were only held up until objections raised had been removed, he argued and "Wichita county has now removed all of them."

"WE'LL PAY" IS BELGIUM'S VOW ON WAR DEBTS

Little Kingdom Pledges To Take Care of Her $480,000,000

CONFERENCE OPENS

Carter Meets With Mellon To Take up Discussion Of Obligations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP)—With an assurance from Ambassador de Cartier that Belgium will honor all her just obligations and with a promise by Secretary Mellon that she will be asked to pay only within her capacity, the American and Belgium debt commissions opened to day the negotiations for the refunding of the little kingdom's $480,000,000 war debt to the United States.

General discussion followed the formal statement of the positions of the two governments, the Belgians beginning a detailed presentation as to financial conditions in their country.

Several Days Long.

So many elements must enter into the equasion that their presentation may consume several days of continuous sittings before terms can be discussed.

Ambassador De Cartier told the Americans that his country would have opened negotiations sooner but for the non-fulfillment of "many solemn pledges given to her people during the war." He called particular attention to the levies imposed by Germany during the war and the failure of Germany to pay for the currency forced into use in Belgium.

One Small Share.

The ambassador also said the Dawes plan for reparations gave Belgium "only a small share of what we were entitled to," but he added that the working of this plan together with the gradual curtailment of government expenditures gave rise to the hope that the country would succeed in her efforts to place her finances on a sound basis.

Secretary Mellon replied that the United States would not ask Belgium "to do the impossible" and that the question before the two commissions was one of narrow compass with politics, local or international, not involved.

CAILLAUX ANXIOUS TO COME TO AMERICA

PARIS, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Finance Minister Caillaux told American correspondents today that he desires very much to go to Washington to present what he called a "gentleman's offer" for the settlement of the war debt which France owes to the United States.

He Wanted To Die And Wasn't Scared To Tell 'Em

HOUSTON, Aug. 10.—When an ambulance crew answered a call to 1119 Pease avenue, to take a man, who was said to have taken poison, to a hospital, they were met at the door by J. W. Rya, 43, oil field worker, who brandished a knife and said "don't you dare touch me," the man declared that he wanted to die, and held the ambulance crew at bay with the knife.

Realizing that those were not equipped for a clash with Ryan, the crew waited for short-call officers, who were sent to the scene when police were appealed to for aid.

The officers cut a screen to gain admittance to the room, disarmed Ryan and persuaded him to enter the ambulance. He was taken to St. Joseph's infirmary, where attendants say they pumped a quantity of poison from his stomach. His condition, they reported was critical late tonight.

THE WEATHER

"I'm glad I ain't crippled like Jack is, or broke out with measles like Joe is, or a girl like Jane is."

LYRICS OF LIFE.

By Douglas Malloch.

Arguifying Friends.

Me and him, and him and me,
Seems we never could agree;
Argued on the plantin' date,
Then on when to cultivate.
Disagreed on when to reap—
Seemed we always had to keep
Arguin' to keep in trim.
Him and me, and me and him.

Then one day he says to me,
"Seems we never can agree,
So I guess I'll run along.
Arguin' so much is wrong.
So, for just the sake of peace,
So we won't need no police,
Guess I'll make my presence slim."
"Run along," I says to him.

But it soon was plain to me,
Though we used to disagree,
Anything we talked about
We could always argue out.
Though we talked a little mean,
Find the truth somewhere between
When the truth was rather dim,
Him and me, and me and him.

Yes, I shortly come to see
Folks who never disagree
Haven't found truth's sparkling gem.
May be wrong, the both of them.
Now the folks I want to fight
Is the folks who say I'm right,
Always right in every whim—
Not dispute like me and him.

Well, he's back, back here with me.
Where we both can disagree,
Where we both can argue out
How to do what we're about.
And I hope the heavens send
You an arguifyin' friend
When the road of life is dim—
Like him and me, and me and him.

NEW YORK, Aug. [illegible] Final preparations were made today for the severance of legal relations between Mrs. Spas Browning, would-be bride of Cinderella, and Edward A. Browning, wealthy real estate operator, and disillusioned fairy god-father.

The girl left the home of Mr. Browning's secretary last night, but since she departed with the agent of a syndicate which she intends to write the story of her brief romance, little concern was felt concerning the fact that her whereabouts remained a mystery today.

SERVICE CARS KICK ON HIGH BOND EXPENSE

Prohibitive Terms Is Laid Down in Wichita Falls, Say Operators

A plea that the motor bus lines and taxi services in the city of Wichita Falls are being "bonded to death" and that insurance premiums required under Wichita Falls ordinances for service cars in the city are making that business prohibitive was presented the city council last night by Don Wofford in behalf of taxi lines. As pointed out by Mr. Wofford, the present ordinance requires a $2,000 insurance policy for every passenger that can be carried by a service car, as for instance one of the big busses carrying 25 passengers has to carry a $50,000 bond; an ordinary small service car carrying five passengers must carry $10,000 insurance.

Insurance Too High

The expense of keeping up these bonds and insurance is out of all proportion to the business here, he said, and some revision of the ordinance was needed to equalize things. It was his suggestion that insurance on passenger-carrying cars should range between $7,000 and $10,000 with the latter figure a maximum. This was logical and right, he said, pointing out that the average load of the big busses even is but five passengers.

His statements were seconded by a representative of the Wichita-Burkburnett stage line.

The matter was referred to Commissioner Quiesser for investigation.

Bullets from Bushes Strike Men Standing In a Country Road

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Aug. 10.—(AP)—At least five men were shot, two seriously, here late tonight in a riot which followed a large ku klux klan meeting.

The victims are Alonzo Foley, Thomas Sliney, Francis Maguire, all of Saxonville, and William Bradley and Edward Ward Purcell of Framingham.

Foley, who was shot through the left temple, is in a dangerdus condition at the Framingham hospital. The wounded men told Dr. C. J. Carr, who lives near the klan's meeting place, that they were shot from ambush while standing in the road.

Carried to Office.

Foley was carried into his office by the other wounded. After administering medical aid, Dr. Carr summoned Rev. John A. Maccauley of St. George's church and the priest gave Foley the last rites of the Roman Catholic church as he lay on a couch in the physician's office.

The physician after notifying the state constablary and Framingham police rushed Foley and Sliney to the hospital. The latter was shot twice in the cheek. The klan, he said, meets every week in the vicinity of his home and the meetings attract hundreds of spectators. There were no disorders before the shooting, he said.

Star At Palace

RUBE HOOPER

Rube Hooper, making his [illegible] to a Palace theater audience scored a knockout success Monday when he appeared in his famous comedy skit "O. U. Wildcat."

The play is laid in Paris and the French battlefields and has much of the army humor created during the big conflict. It gives the Rube ample opportunity to display the comedy that has made him famous on the stage and at no time in the play does he fail to take advantage of the chances. Lightning and scenic effects are also excellent.

While Hooper himself is the big star, mention should be made of the capable supporting cast, which includes Owen Bennett, Evelyn Hooper, Frank Shepard, Carman Mayer, Kenny Brema, Mart Moran, Burt Southern and others. One unique feature of the play was the opening song by Bennett, "The Southern Nightengale" in which each member of the troup was personally introduced.

The same play will be repeated at the Palace today.

Ches. Davis Peps Up Kiwanis Meet

Monday was "diversion day" at the Kiwanis luncheon. In place of the usual business program, the meeting was turned over to J. L. Jackson, Jr., chairman of the program committee, who in turn, handed it over to Ches Davis.

"One of the best programs of the year," was what one Kiwanian said about the Ches Davis offering.

Ches Davis and his musical comedy players from the Palace theater delighted the Kiwanians with a variety of snappy jazz, and tuneful ballads, the Spanish Serenaders jazz band furnished the music for the occasion, while Frank Shepard, Ches Davis and Mr. Kenna gave solo selections. The Taylor sisters were also on the program and added their several snappy songs to the merriment of the program.

The club was profuse in its thanks to Davis and his players and proffered a hearty welcome to them any time they chose to return.

WANTS TAXES REMITTED TO DRY COUNTIES

State Senator Urges Jim To Call Special Session Of Legislature

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—A called session of the legislature to remit taxes in drouth-stricken counties and make loans of state money to such counties was urged by State Senator Gus Russel Rosenberg in a conference with former Governor James E. Ferguson here today. Senator Russek, who represents the fifteenth senatorial district, made up of Fayette, Colorado, Austin, Waller and Lavaca counties, said Mr. Ferguson would not commit himself.

Drouth Is Costly.

"The drouth has wrought such havoc that many counties will not be able to pay state taxes. I sincerely believe it would be the proper thing for Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to call a special session of the legislature that would be empowered not only to remit taxes in drouth-stricken counties but to advance large loans to counties where part or practically no crop of any kind will be raised," Russek said. He indicated he would continue his efforts for the calling of a special session.

Other Conference.

Senator Russek also conferred today with members of the railroad commission regarding efforts that are being made to obtain reduced freight rates on feedstuffs shipped into drouth areas.

R. S. Bowers, Caldwell, state senator from the fourteenth district, who is also in Austin today, said he did not favor a called session. "Remission of taxes and lending of money would only postpone the inevitable. There has to be the pay day eventually, and I think it best for the drouth-stricken counties to worry through this hard season and look forward to better crops next year," Bowers said.

Death Mystery Baffles Police

DALLAS, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Unexplained circumstances about the death of Mrs. Cor Stewart, 36, wife of Henry Stewart, were under investigation today. Mrs. Stewart died early this morning.

A motorist, whose identity was not learned at the emergency hospital took her there early Sunday night, saying he saw her fall from an automobile in which two men were riding. He said the car stopped, the men got out and looked at her, then jumped into their car and drove away rapidly.

When the motorist reached her she was unconscious and he took her to the emergency hospital.

Mrs. Stewart went home after being restored, apparently not seriously hurt. Later neighbors heard her groaning and went to her assistance. She told them she thought she was dying.

Fake Negro Cop Has Plenty Of Fun With Young Klansman At Big Parade; "Fines" Him $8 Cash

Robed Visitor From New York Pays Off And Then Reports to Real Police But "Officer" Can't be Located Again

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—A negro rogue of whimsical turn of mind who has been impersonating a traffic policeman for several days for his own amusement and profit selected a young ku klux klansman for yesterday's performance.

Albert Watse, 18-year-old klan visitor from York, Pa., was the victim. While driving near the postoffice he was halted by the young negro, whose authority was visible in the form of a policeman's baton. He was driving without lights, the negro told him, and was placed under "arrest."

The negro then got into his car and told him to drive through the uptown streets for a "test" of his driving ability. After half an hour of this, the "policeman" approved the youth's technique and let him off with $8 "fine." He gave Watz the bottom part of a marriage certificate as a receipt and ordered him to report to the third precinct police station.

There the police learned the story and the young klansman learned the truth. Two days ago, the police related, a negro answering the same description "fined" Leonard Commack of Silver Springs, Md., $8 "for failure to make a left hand turn."

PHILIPPINES TO SEND RUBBER TO AID OF AMERICA

Part of Crude Supply To Be Available For Country

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP) The Philippine Islands have given promise of eventually bringing to the American rubber user a part of his crude supply. The commerce department in a report today on an exhaustive investigation of the potential value of the archipelago for crude rubber expressed the opinion that profitable production is possible there.

The report, representing many months of study, held that under favorable conditions an annual maximum of 70,000 tons could be produced in the islands, in the southern portion of which approximately 1,500,000 acres are suitable for rubber raising.

No Disturbances

The lack of political disturbances and the utilization of the present available labor forces in the islands were stressed as factors in reaching this estimate.

The report marks the completion of another stage in the department's world-wide survey of the rqubber situation started 18 months ago at the instance of congress and the rubber trade when it became apparent that the legalized restriction of the plantation rubber output in the British possessions might menace American consumers. In recent months high rubber prices, feared by the American industry at the outset of the British restriction program, have been realized.

CHILDLESS HOMES

Read Mrs. Benedict's Letter Praising Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kewanee, Illinois.—"When I was married about a year and a half I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because of ill health. I did not have any children. I now have two healthy little girls and I am sure I would not have had them had it not been for your medicine. Last spring and summer I got all run-down, irregular, and I had awful headaches, and my back and side hurt me so that I could stay up only a short time. My limbs would get so tired and ache till I could cry. I started to take the Vegetable Compound again and used the Sanative Wash, and it was not long till I was relieved. Now I do all my own work and help others. I sure praise Lydia E Pinkham's medicines to any one I meet that is suffering from similar troubles. I think if mothers with girls would give it to them when they come to womanhood it would make them stronger. People who have known me all my life are astonished to see me now as I was always sickly when in my 'teens and until I started taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MARY R. BENEDICT, 313 Payson St., Kewanee, Ill.

Millions Die Of Indigestion

Most Common, Yet Insidious of Fatal Diseases, Strikes Like Lightning and When Least Expected.

Protect yourself by strengthening your digestive organs with Ferraline—then eat what you please without trouble.

Nature, with Her infinite wisdom, has provided in Ferraline a quick and sure relief for the millions who are living in constant fear of that dreaded disease—Indigestion. Ferraline is not a concoction made by man but is a strictly natural product, and contains the essential elements which Nature has provided to strengthen and tone up the weakened organs of digestion.

Indigestion and weak blood march hand-in-hand. No dyspeptic can have pure rich blood until his digestion is made perfect again. Stomach disorders always weaken the blood and weak blood causes anaemia, weakness and nervousness.

If you have had warnings of Indigestion do not delay another day to accept the positive guarantee that your money will be promptly and cheerfully refunded if the very first bottle of Ferraline does not give you relief. Don't be misled into believing that heart-burn, gas, bloating, constipation, biliousness, sick stomach, heart and kidney pains will gradually go away. These are danger signals warning you that the dread disease, Indigestion, is gradually sapping your very life. Regenerate your digestive organs at once with Ferraline, then you can eat three good meals every day without discomfort. A 10-day's treatment of Ferraline will cost you only One Dollar at your druggists. The Ferraline Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

TAMMANY AND HYLAN SPLIT IS WIDENING

Banner of Roosevelt Is Raised Against a Third Term

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The split in the democratic organization of greater New York with Tammany opposing Mayor Hylan's aspirations for a third term has assumed wider ramifications.

Influential members of the party in the borough of Richmond, hitherto regarded as a Hylan stronghold, yesterday raised the banner of revolt against the mayor's renomination and announced their intention of playing in the field candidates for borough offices in opposition to the prospective nominees on the Hylan ticket.

Bertram G. Eadie, chairman of what is known as the regular Tammany organization of Richmond and nominal leader of the anti-Hylan faction, accused Davis S. Rendt, county leader, of "selling out the party" to Hylan and his newspaper supporter, William Randolph Hearst.

The clear cut issue upon which the coming primary fight will be waged in Richmond, it was said, would be "shall Governor Smith or W. R. Hearst lead the democratic party in city and state?"

Mayor Hylan yesterday denied charges that his split with Tammany hall was the result of disloyalty on his part.

Murchison-Fain Score Twice In North Texas

GET NEW WELL IN WILBARGER NEAR HUMBLE

Extend Litchfield [illegible]ol Quarter Mile to So[illegible] of

ONE A 3[illegible]-BARR[illegible]R

Litchfield Extension [illegible]ell Will Make Sm[illegible] Pumper

Murchison and Fain have scored twice in the past two days in North Texas oil development, once in the Gulf region of Wilbarger county on the southeast end of the Iowa field pool where they have effected something like a 1,500-foot southward extension of that pool with a prospective 30-barrel well on the Campbell land in block 1371, H&TCRRCO survey.

The Wilbarger well, located in the southeast corner of the east 20 acres of the north half of the northwest quarter of section 50, block 14, H&TCRRCO survey, directly between the Humble 1,300-foot well and the Gulf duo, was reported yesterday flowing into the pit at a rate of about 300 barrels a day from sand at a depth of 1,394-1,408 feet, the opener of a new producing horizon here in an area already characterized by three different pay sands in as many wells.

The Litchfield extension well is located 1,250 feet south and 150 feet east of the northwest corner of TE&LCO survey, block 1371, and has sand at 977-95 feet. It is reckoned as a possible 25 or 30 barrel well. A fire here Sunday night destroyed the derrick and part of the rig, but the well will be equipped for pumping as soon as this is rebuilt.

WEST TEXAS

That the rapid development of various counties in West Texas for oil fields is taking place can readily be seen by the number of wildcat locations made in the past few days. Five of these tests are being drilled by Choate & Henshaw of New York City on large blocks of acreage, these blocks having been acquired through trade with the Marland Oil company of Texas. The Marland company themselves are drilling four tests in West Texas that will test out good looking structures mapped by them.

Garza County

Garza county is receiving the attention of several of the major companies at this time. The Gulf company are drilling a well on a block mapped by their geologists. Choate & Henshaw have made location for their test on the Connell land just south of the Gulf test, well being located in the center of the southeast quarter of section 55, block 5, Galveston, Houston and Henderson Railroad company survey. This will be a 3,500-foot test and material is already on the ground.

Glasscock County

Glasscock county has already received numerous tests but drilling is still going on. The Marland company has made locations for two wells and are preparing to start drilling. These tests are located in the center of the southeast quarter of section 160, block 29, Waco and Northwestern Railway company survey, and in the center of the northwest quarter of section 24, block 32, township 4 south, T&P railway survey. Rig material has been hauled to location in the center of the southeast quarter of section 27, block 33, township 3 south for the No. 1 test of Choate & Henshaw on the Neal property.

Crockett County

Crockett county is said to be the next county that will get production like Reagan county has. The World well on the Powell property has led the way for further development. The Marland company have made location in the northwest corner of section 17, block WX, GC&SF railway survey and are making preparations to start drilling immediately. The Gulf has made location for its first test on the Powell land just northeast of the World well and the Humble have located another test just a little west of their producer. Choate & Henshaw will drill a good looking structure in the center of the southeast quarter of section 19, block B-2, GC&SF railway survey on the Corbett property.

Reagan County

In Reagan county the Marland are preparing to test out their large block of acreage just north of the Big Lake field and have made location for their No. 1 Wilson in the northeast quarter of section 1199 GCSD&RGNG railway survey.

Mitchell-Howard

The firm of Choate & Henshaw will drill two other wildcat tests in Mitchell and Howard counties. The Mitchell county test will be known as their No. 1 Scott and will be located in the center of the southeast quarter of section 32, S. P. block 17. The Howard county test is located in the center of the southeast quarter of section 34, block 30, township 1 south, T&P survey, and will be called their No. 1 O'Daniel. All material is on the ground for these two tests and drilling will be started in the near future.

Union oil company is drilling at about 900 feet in its No. 1, Kemp and Allen, located in the northwest corner of the east half of block 28, KWFVL, Moses Robert survey, abstract 246, southeast of the Petroleum Producers production, south Wichita county.

B-M, Stephens

Barkley and Meadows No. 3, Stephens, a location west of the southeast corner of their forty acres in section 83, H. & T. C. R. R. Co. survey, block 14, south Vernon, Wilbarger county, was setting casing yesterday to test a sandy lime showing lots of oil at a depth of 2,305 feet.

The well in the northeast corner of the lease will set a string of 5 3-16 inch casing to test sandy lime at a depth of 2,379-2,400 feet.

Deep Smackover Sands

The deep Smackover oil sands Saturday morning were doing 167,428 barrels a day from 627 wells, of which the Graves did 151,643 barrels from 600 wells, and the Lawton 15,785 barrels from 27 wells. Of this number of completions 154 were dead, 355 pumping, 50 on air, and 44 doing more than 75 per cent bs or water.

A plan of conservation is about to be worked out in the Smackover field by the federal bureau of mines and the Arkansas conservation department. The experts wil seek to outline a policy for proceeding against salt water and gas blowouts.

There were 29 wells completed in the deep sands last week for a total initial output of 21,150 barrels, or an average of 729 barrels per well.

Cosden No. 1 Gardner

J. S. Cosden No. 1 Garner, drilling on the Edward E. Tomlinson block of leases five miles northwest of Bomarton, Baylor and Knox counties, Texas, has resumed drilling at 1,462 feet in a lime formation which is softening up. This well has been shut down several weeks for water but a new line has been laid and the rig steamed up Monday morning. Mr. Cosden has decided to drill this well to 3,000 feet instead of to the contract depth of 2,000 feet.

Barkley-Meadows Area

Freeman and Hampton are reported to have something like a 400-barrel well in their No. 3, Wilson, offsetting to the east the Muse and Robertson producer of last week, north of Archer city, on the west side of the Barkley-Meadows pool. Sand record was not learned. The well is the best that has been completed in the pool.

Freeman and Hampton's No. 2, south of their first well is on the sand with casing set and cemented, record not learned, as is also the Staley and Wynne No. 1, Wilson, south of the Barkley and Meadows lease.

Muse and Robertson have equipped their No. 1, Wilson, for the pump and expect about 100 barrels a day from sand at 1,514-24 feet. The No. 2 will be south of the No. 1.

T. G. Loma[illegible] has completed his No. 3 and will [illegible]ce it on the pump; he is skidd[illegible] to the No. 5 location, south o[illegible]o. 2.

On the Barkley-Meadows lease, bloc[illegible]S, No. 11 is setting up and No. 1[illegible] drilling past a last reported [illegible]pth of 1,120 feet.

GAS CUTS IN NORTH DON'T BOTHER HERE

Local Conditions Said To Account for Petrol Drops

Gasoline flurries in the north and east that in three instances at least, as evidenced by Associated Press dispatches printed below, resulted in substantial filling station and tank-wagon cuts for gasoline did not react in the Mid-Continent so far as could be learned here yesterday. In fact one refiner stated that the beginning of the week saw the market stiffen at bit, remarking that he had sold 25 cars to small buyers alone for domestic use. The filling stations in Wichita Falls still quoted 22 cents.

Local conditions are assigned for the cutting in Kansas and South Dakota, while New York is said to be flooded at present with cheap California gasoline.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Gasoline was reduced 2 cents a gallon by the Standard Oil company of New York today in New York and New England, making the tank wagon price 20 cents a gallon. The previous price change by this company was an advance of 1 cent in May.

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 10.—(AP) Despite the Standard Oil's posted price of 22.8 cents in this territory, the bottom apparently has dropped out of gasoline prices in Wichita. Two filling stations today were selling gasoline at 13.9 cents, not including the two cents state tax.

MITCHELL, S. D., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Standard, Texaco and White Eagle filling stations in Mitchell lopped 4 cents a gallon from their 26-cent price and today all Mitchell stations and the state highway depot were retailing gasoline at 22 cents a gallon. Saturday the refinery price of gasoline dropped to 11 3-4 cents.

120 KILLED BY AUTOS

Heavy Toll Taken By Machines in Midwest States.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP)—One hundred and twenty persons were killed in autoombile accidents in 11 middlewestern states the last week, an increase of a score from the previous week. The death list in Ohio was 31, while 20 fatalities were recorded in Illinois, mostly in Chicago and vicinity. The record in other states follows: Indiana, 15; Texas, 10; Michigan, 10; Missouri, 9; Minnesota, 9; Iowa, 7; Kansas, 5; Oklahoma, 3; South Dakota, 1. In addition several hundred were injured.

Copies of A. P. I. Report Received In Wichita Falls

Wichita Falls oil men have begun to receive copies of the American Petroleum Institute report on supply and demand, as prepared by the committee of eleven of the A. P. I. on the oil resources of the country. The report is a country wide survey of the estimated future supply of petroleum and the probable future demand of the country for petroleum products in times of peace and war. The report has also been transmitted to the federal oil conservation board at Washington.

In many respects the report is sensational, for it upsets many theories and confirms others. In many respects it is the most important contribution to the bibliography of petroleum that has ever been printed. Where other books and treatizes have been issued by individuals the American petroleum supply and demand is a semi-official document. The report presents:

Estimates of the volume of oil which may be expected from existing fields.

Indications as to probable discoveries of new fields.

Methods of possible recovery of liquid fuels from the country's vast deposits of oil shale, coal and lignite.

Calculations on the future population and industrial growth of the country.

The probable increase in the number of automobile and oil consuming engines.

Discussions of mechanical changes which will conserve oil through more efficient utilization.

The personnel of the committee of 11, which drafted the report as published in the book comprised J. Edgar Pew, president, and R. L. Welch, general secretary of the institute; E. W. Marland, Marland oil company; D. M. Folsom, general petroleum corporation; E. T. Wilson, Continental oil company; K. R. Kingsbury, Standard of California; George S. Davison, Gulf refining company; W. S. Farish, Humble oil and refining company; J. C. Donnell, Ohio oil company; W. N. Davis, Mid-Continent oil and gas association and Frank Haskell, Tidal oil company.

A reassuring note is expressed throughout the book, indicating that the future supplies are adequate for the next 175 years, at least. The future oil reserves lie in some billion acres of land underlain by sedimentary rocks and not fully explored.

A NEW PRECEDENT FOR HAIR-SPLITTING.

Russell Scott's escape from the gallows on a last moment plea of insanity establishes a new precedent for hair-splitting distinctions in criminal trials. The success with which this plea was urged may introduce a new ground for acquittal, although in the present case it secured only an indefinite suspension of a capital sentence. "Prison-insanity" is the novel legal term which we may expect to hear bandied about by defense attorneys in sensational cases. According to its definition, a man may have been in full possession of his faculties at the time he committed a crime and may remain sane until he is sentenced, and then the mere waiting for execution of the sentence may so derange his mind as to entitle him to a release from punishment.

Insanity of this sort is without any logical basis, and it was impossible for the defense in the Scott case to establish grounds for the claim it wished to prove. It must be assumed and upheld upon the general belief in the extreme suffering of condemned men. Whether such an unnatural strain as is undergone by one in the death cell would actually produce a definite derangement in the average case is problematical. But even if real insanity is induced it cannot alter the fact that the criminal was sane at the time he committed his crime. This question of responsibility for a criminal act is the issue to be decided in every trial, and it does not seem that subsequent derangement should cause it to be ignored.

It can readily be perceived how justice would be compelled to abdicate her rule if once the plea of "prison insanity" were accepted as valid. Any one incarcerated for a considerable period could invoke a suspension of judgment, taking a brief committal to an asylum instead of a long term in the penitentiary or a capital sentence. Justice would need to be made alarmingly swift in order to prevent this subterfuge. Whenever delay could be secured by any means, punishment on conviction would become impossible. The more shocking the crime and the more sensational the trial the more certain would be the escape from justice. In these circumstances, the punishment of lesser crimes, due to the more speedy trial of their perpetrators, would make the administration of justice a farce and bring it into general contempt.

NOT SUCH A GOOD SHOWING.

Statistics on the building of federal aid highways, made public by the department of agriculture, constitute an imposing array in their grand totals. Taking together the roads approved and those completed but not yet accepted by the federal government, the total mileage built during the fiscal year ending June 30, was 14,032. The cost when all vouchers are paid will be $295,608,485. Of this amount federal aid extended to the states will constitute $135,407,047, or almost one-half.

Such figures are impressive, and no doubt will be taken as a strong argument for the continuance of federal aid under the system of 50-50 appropriations. But when these figures are analyzed and inquiry made into the amount of aid received by the several states and the road mileage constructed, with the total cost incurred, certain dismaying aspects are brought to light. Texas built 744 miles of roads at a cost of $11,778,972 and received federal aid amounting to $4,867,315. Illinois built 431 miles at a cost of $13,045,775 and received $6,360,529. Texas received but about one-third of the cost of her roads in federal aid, while Illinois, building little more than half the mileage constructed by Texas, received nearly half the cost from the federal government. What makes the matter even worse is that the states which built less mileage and received proportionately more aid, spent the greater amount of money.

Thus it appears that the federal government is helping those states best able to help themselves, and it is promoting road construction where it is least needed, while it assists in niggardly fashion those sections of the country in which improved highways are a prerequisite to economic development. When such inequalities as these appear, federal aid can hardly be said to be justifying itself. The question presents itself whether the states presently building greatest mileage could not carry on their programs without federal aid. Certainly the states receiving the most aid could do very well without it. The motive power for building is not supplied to the former by the federal government, nor are needed funds furnished by the government to the latter.

TEXAS LEADS IN ROAD BUILDING.

According to a government bulletin during the fiscal year ended June 30 last, 9,440 miles of federal aid road were completed. An additional 4,587 miles is reported completed but not finally inspected and accepted. According to the report the outstanding result of the year's work has been the large mileage of continuous highway routes made available. In practically every state gaps in through routes have been closed and many extensions have been made.

All of the construction has been on the designated 170,000-mile federal aid system which is to serve as the main road system for the nation. Texas led in mileage completed during the year with 784 miles, followed by South Dakota with 458 miles, Illinois with 431 miles and Minnesota with 429 miles.

Texas should lead all the rest. Texas is as large as New England, New York and a part of Pennsylvania thrown in for good measure and modern highways will add millions to the population of the state and billions to the taxable values of Texas in the near future.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Doldrums.

It has been raining steadily for three days.

Sitting beside me on the veranda are four young men and two old ones who are quite unhappy about it.

The young men want to play golf. The old men want to row out in the lake and try to catch trout.

For a time they played bridge, two of them taking turns at watching the others play.

Now they are sitting staring out at the streaming skies and cursing the weather. They hate each other and the world.

Not a civil word has been spoken by any of them for more than two hours.

Inside, in the reading room of the hotel are two middle aged men who are better golfers and more enthusiastic fishermen than any of the complaining and unhappy people on the veranda.

They are placidly reading books they brought along with them. One of them has a Shakespeare, another an excellent biography of one of the great men of the world.

These men are weather proof.

They have enough philosophy to know that there must be rainy days and enough intelligence to employ these rainy days in doing what they would not be likely to do on bright days, especially in vacation time.

The doldrums through which the people outside are traveling do not affect them in the least.

And they will look back pleasantly on their vacation, if it continues to rain to the end of it, without any deep regrets, for it will have brought them some profit.

It is easy to be depressed by bad weather, especially if one has not the good sense to do in bad weather many things that are hard to do in good weather.

One of these is reflecting. Another is reading.

Nature has her work to do, and does it in her own way and in her own time.

Inasmuch as Nature is the boss, the human beings on this earth either must adjust themselves to her way of doing things, or spend a great deal of their time in unhappiness.

It is good to be outdoors, to breathe fresh air, to look at fields and lakes and mountains, and admire the works of the Creator.

But if one did this continually he would have little time to store away knowledge and information, and these are essentials of happiness as well as to success.

Adaptability to weather conditions is as necessary as adaptability to business conditions, and to conditions brought about by human ignorance and stupidity. And it is more conducive to peace of mind, for we can do our little share toward improving the man made conditions, while no act of ours can change or modify the weather.

On the days that the Dutch are said to hang themselves one can be contented and happy and profitably employed if he tries.

And even if the trying is a little difficult to weather-sensitive people, it is worth the effort. We get all sorts of weather in a life time. And the roughest of it ought not to paralyze us into inaction and bitterness of spirit.

INEXHAUSTIBLE RESOURCES IN OIL.

The report on American oil resources, prepared by eleven directors of the American Petroleum Institute, should lay to rest all questioning about an approaching date for the exhaustion of our reserves. It should convince the newly created federal oil conservation board that there is no cause for alarm nor any reason for the board's existence or its much talked of policy of safeguarding an industry which is in no need of its protection.

The issuance of the report is most opportune, as the oil industry has just recovered from the bad effects of a scare about early exhaustion of its supplies. Production now is down to normal and good prices for oil are prevailing with renewed activity in the sale of oil lands and in drilling operations. Artificial stimulation has passed with the passing of the fright over the supposed prospect of exhaustion. The Petroleum Institute's report comes in time to clinch the matter by giving confirmation to an established fact.

The report scouts the idea that all the oil regions of this country have been discovered. The oil reserves, which it describes as lying in 1,100,000,000 acres of land underlaid with sedimentary rocks, are declared not fully explored and the belief is expressed that extended search will reveal additional supplies. Reserves of a different kind exist in deposits of oil shale, coal and lignites from which the report asserts, liquid fuel and lubricants may be extracted. These deposits represent an almost inexhaustible resource, as, in fact, do the regular oil pools.

Yet other resources exist for engineering to uncover. Improved method of reaching deposits at great depths, it is stated in the report, will disclose supplies tantamount to the discovery of new fields. Production methods also can be improved to the point where they will add tremendously to the present supply. Processes of refining the raw product can be made sufficiently economical to effect great savings, which will increase the volume of output. Indeed, the possibilities are unlimited. The only question is one of economic feasibility. Price levels, not natural resources, are what the oil industry has to contend with.

WHERE LABOR IS WINNING.

Now the Federation Bank of New York, a labor bank, has increased its capital stock a million dollars. This bank was established a year ago. Now it has resources of eleven million dollars and Peter J. Brady, its president, is recognized as a leading financier of Gotham. He started without a dollar in his pocket. He became a leader of organized labor. He pointed to labor the way it should go. He is a second Warren S. Stone.

There are five labor banks in New York and a big trust company controlled by labor is the owner of one of the biggest buildings in New York. John L. Lewis and his 600,000 coal miners should take the hint. They should walk in the path of the locomotive engineers. They should walk in the path of Peter J. Brady and his followers.

Leader Lewis and his miners threaten to strike on September 1st. Will they? President Coolidge says they won't. Time will tell.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

The planetary aspects of today are benign, rather than favorable for fresh enterprise or activity. They counsel attention to ordinary routine duties, and indicate that real pleasure will be derived from the carrying out of work, which, at other times, appears to be monotonous. The emotions are liable to be strongly influenced today, and there will be experienced a strong urge to right a wrong—if any has been committed—or there may be felt an awakening of love, where only a liking has existed before. In either case, it would be well to heed the "call," as nothing can be lost, under such favorable auspices, by forgiving and forgetting, or by declaring or confessing affection for another.

The physical future, or well-being of a child born today depends on sex. If a boy, he will be lusty, healthy, and vigorous, and will attain manhood in good condition. If a girl, she will be weak and ailing, and demand much care and exceptional vigilance before she reaches the glories of a healthy womanhood. In spite of these different conditions, they will both be very much alike temperamentally. They will both have wills of their own, and it will always be difficult to convince either of them that their way is not the right way. They will possess pleasing personalities, and be subject to the influences of affection, while always rebellious of too strict discipline.

If today is your birthday, you have not that degree of self-confidence or assurance which would permit you to display your mental wares to the best advantage. You are altogether too diffident to attain any phenomenal success. Those who blow their own horns on a basis of wind power only, are open to criticism: the hiding of one's light under a bushel, however, often does harm to the one who does so, and, frequently, to society in general. You have very positive and healthy ideas and opinions, but lack the necessary courage to give them voice. You do not lack determination, and are persevering and energetic, addicted to outdoor sports and recreations, and you are both kind and affectionate, and possess, as well, an amiable disposition.

You will not fall in love very readily, and, owing to your "make up," can never be flirtatious. When you do love, however, and provided the object is a worthy one, it will be with strength and vigor.

TILLMAN COTTON GROWING

Crop to Be Evenly Distributed Throughout Entire Section

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 10.—Cotton authorities here say that they believe that Tillman county will make its cotton in a more even manner than it has ever before, and that it will be which section has the heaviest production.

Recent rains have put the crops in good shape and it is thought that the county will gin more than 50,000 bales this season.

Tipton Plans For Banner 1925 Fair

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 10.—Plans to accommodate the largest crowd in history are being made for the Tillman county free fair to be held here Aug. 26, 27, 28, 29, says Mayor E. U. Gamblin. Amusements have been contracted for and there will be a rodeo and automobile racing.

Frederick will not be the only city vitally interested this year as indicated from the amount of enthusiasm that is being shown in the township fairs.

The Tipton township fair that just closed attracted the largest crowds in history and all exhibits and displays were above the ordinary. An extensive program has been outlined for the Grandfield township fair to be held Aug. 20, 21 and 22.

HOW IT STARTED

Calling Him the "Parson."

In the word "parson" for the minister or the preacher we have a curious example of the strange working of words. For "parson" is a corruption of "person," and in its application to the minister we find a story of theological principle which has been lost sight of in the modern use of the word.

The word "parson," as corrupted to "parson," and applied to the preacher, had its origin in the belief that in the person of the priest the church is represented. Among Trinitarians the word "person" had the theological significance of being in the Godhead (the Father, the Son, the Holy Ghost).

In its early use the term signified a Catholic priest as well as a Protestant minister. But today we find its use restricted usually to the latter. As a matter of fact the term is employed more in a sense of levity, the man speeking seriously of his pastor being more likely to refer to him as the pastor or the minister than as the "parson." It is in country districts that the term persists, "Parson Brown" being a provincialism with which we are all familiar.

Frederick to Buy Its Bread at Home

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 10.—Another step was taken here Saturday toward a "buy it in Frederick" campaign when an agreement to handle no bread other than that produced in Frederick bakeries was said to have been signed by 12 of the city's 16 retail dealers.

The agreement provides for an understanding between the retailers and the bakeries as to standard loaves, it is said, to insure customers the very highest quality and best values.

The movement has taken form from a desire to protect local bakeries, which are suffering from the inroads made into their business by out-of-town bakeries.

President C. E. Cook of the chamber of commerce will appoint a committee to wait on the four retailers who have thus far refused to sign the agreement. Unless all dealers sign the agreement is not to be binding.

LIQUOR SUPPLY FOUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Albert Fink, wealthy Chicago attorney and C. H. Goddard of Great Neck, N. Y., were arraigned at the custom house today charged with violation of the prohibition laws as a result of the seizure of the palatial houseboat Stroller. Coast guard operatives reported they found a quantity of liquor aboard.

IRRIGATION

Who owns the land below high water mark at Lake Kemp?

Many of our local citizens who are in the habit of visiting Lake Kemp at intervals to fish and swim have the idea that the irrigation district has some sort of a claim on the land lying between the present water level and the water line when the reservoir is full.

This idea is correct. The district does have a right. It has the right to flood this land with water without paying Mr. Waggoner any more money.

This right of the irrigation district does not give any citizen the privilege of using this land for camping, hunting, or fishing. Mr. Waggoner has reserved all these rights for himself as can be readily seen in paragraph (e) of the contract which reads about as follows:

"Party of the first part (Mr. Waggoner), reserves the exclusive right to the use of all the lands hereinabove mentioned down to the water's edge, of the wtaers impounded by the two dams above mentioned, during the life of the contract, and reserves all right title and interest now owned by him, except such as are herein conveyed in the said lands described, down to the water's edge shall not be used to pollute the waters of said reservoir."

Please note particularly that Mr. Waggoner is not to pollute the water. This matter of pollution was taken up by certain of the irrigation officials as it was thought that by means of this Mr. Waggoner might be deterred from fencing the alke and using it as a public park.

Tomorrow we will take up this matter of pollution and Mr. Waggoner's definition of pollution as given in the contract.

Plan Shrine To Memory of Bryan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Although little more than a week has elapsed since he was laid to rest, friends of William Jennings Bryan are considering the erection of a suitable monument to replace the wooden slab that now marks his grave in Arlington national cemetery.

The will of the commoner, probated Saturday in Miami, Fla., made a brief provision for "the use of such sum as my wife and children may deem proper for the purchase of a monument to mark my grave."

That this bequest, however, will be supplemented by contributions from his many friends and admirers seems most probable, especially in view of the announcement in Chicago yesterday of the launching of a nation-wide movement to obtain funds for the erection of a memorial.

The will of the Commoner, filled with characteristic Bryan phrases and idealisms by requesting that a monument be placed at his grave leads friends here to think that the funds collected in a nation-wide campaign will be added to the memorial to be erected eventually in or near Arlington cemetery.

TRIED FOR PERJURY

Oklahoma Woman Faces Court for Alleged False Statements

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Ida M. Blankenburg of Tulsa, Okla., went on trial today before Judge Prest in probate court charged with perjury in presenting before the court her claim to the $3,000,000 estate of Lotta Crabtree, Boston actress. Mrs. Blankenburg alleged that she was a daughter of the actress and produced an entry in a family Bible as proof of her contention.

"You know what I went to find out," he said at last, "the origin of this strange uneasiness, this strange unrest that seems to have taken hold of the whole country. It has been coming for some time. It began, as far as I could learn, months and months ago—and God knows how long before that. At first it was only vague rumors that poured in from all sides, rumors that have grown and grown until they have at last found definite expression. Everywhere I went it was the same. There seems to be some mysterious and sinister influence abroad in the land, stirring up the people for some purpose I have not yet been able to discover. Old hatreds are being revived, old quarrels are being renewed. But it is not only old scores between the tribes that are being raked up. It is a deliberate set against the French that is being fostered. I heard old men preaching what amounts to a jahad. I was told exaggerated tales of a people groaning under oppression. Taxes that have been held legitimate are now openly commented on, and their rejection discussed. I listened to wold stories that were almost incredibly fantastic. Hints were dropped of a conqueror coming from the north who would sweep away the present administration and dominate the country as Sidi Okba ben Nafi did when he brought Islam to Algeria.

"And his advent is to be the millennium. It is to be a land of prosperity and liberty without limit. All foreigners, and all sympathizing with foreigners, are to go and it is to be Algeria for the Algerians—not French Algerians as we understand the term, but Arabs, bien entendu. How that is going to be compatible with the rule of another foreign conqueror is past my understanding. The whole thing is absurd and contradictory to a degree. But that is the kind of rubbish that is being circulated. There is an evil breath blowing through the country like there was in India in the old days before the mutiny. Suspicion is rampant, and no one knows whom to trust, whom to believe." He stopped abruptly, his face grown set and stern.

And, almost stunned by his revelations, Diana sat with tight-locked fingers, trying to take in the full significance of what he had said. It was worse even than she had imagined. What would come of it all?

"Is that—all you found out?" she faltered.

"No, I found out more than that," he answered slowly. "I found out enough to make it extremely uncomfortable for certain persons if the French government weather this threatening storm. I have followed up clues and sifted fact from fiction until I have learned the truth—of one point, at any rate. It is external influence that is at work. The people are being stirred up by propagandists sent by some foreign country. I haven't got to the bottom of it yet but I am on the track of it—and of the devils who are doing the mischief," he added, with an odd ring in his voice that sent a little sick feeling of dread through her.

She had got him back—but only until such time as he would feel called upon to resume the dangerous work he had undertaken. She forced the thought from her, determined to be happy while she could.

"But how did you learn all this, Ahmed? You are so well known. How did you get them to speak openly before you?" she asked wonderingly.

He pointed to the stained and tattered garments that were so different to his usual rich and spotless clothing. "Behold my rags, beloved," he said, with a boyish grin, "and be thankful you did not see me before I washed the worst of the filth off my face. I have been a wandering minstrel, a horse dealer, and a holy man—a disgustingly dirty holy man, mais, since I saw you last. There were times when I wondered whether it was you or a bath I wanted most," he added, teasingly as Gaston came in with his supper.

She realized from his manner that for the moment there was no more to be expected from him, that he had said all he meant to say tonight. And she was content to leave the rest until later.

It was enough that he was with her, and safe, at any rate, for a time. And something else combined to keep her silent while he ate the hastily prepared meal that had been placed for him. Despite her happiness, she dreaded the question which would inevitably be asked very shortly.

He rose at last with a sigh of content and, going to her, caught her in his arms, his dark eyes kindling as they looked down searchingly into hers.

And his whispered words sent a wave of burning color rolling upward to the orots of her hair. Trembling, she hid her flushed face in his breast, murmuring incoherently. But with a soft little laugh of amusement he raised her head, compelling her to meet his passionate gaze.

"After all these years—Diane, you utter child! Have you not grown used to me yet, my wife?"

And with another laugh he let her go, and turned to extinguish the lamps. He was still smiling when he joined her in the inner room.

"Useless, I suppose, to ask why I find the tent blazing with light at this time of night! Might I bumbly ask if you have been to bed at all since I left you? And if you must turn night into day, ma mie, why don't you make that lazy son of yours keep you company? I'll swear the boy hasn't lost many hours of sleep on my account."

It was her silence, and something in her face that banished the smile from his lips and brought back the heavy scowl that so completely changed his expression. He flung off the ragged old burnous with a gesture of anger.

"Where is the boy, Diane?" he said shortly, and his face hardened as he waited in vain for her reply.

"Answer me." It was the old peremptory voice of command, harsh as she had not heard it for years, and her eyes filled with sudden tears as her hands went out to him in a little gesture of appeal.

"I don't know, Ahmed. I wish I did," she cried, with a quivering sob. He drew her to him almost roughly, kissing her with remorseful tenderness. "For God's sake don't cry, darling. Not tonight—of all nights. I'm not blaming you. But the boy—I warned him before I left. I made him understand that he was responsible. Grand dieu, I left you in his charge."

"But, Ahmed, he is only a boy. And there was Yusef and Gaston—" The Sheik jerked his head angrily.

"He is a man, Diane," he interrupted with swift sternness, "and he will have to answer for this as a man. Bon dieu, that he should have so little sense of honor, so little sense of decency—How long has he been gone?"

"Six weeks," she faltered, and shuddered at the great oath that burst from him.

"Who went with him?"

"Ramadan and S'rir."

"A proper trio," he flashed, with a rather bitter laugh, "and no other escort—when he knew the state of the country? The damned young fool!"

She broke down completely then, clinging to him and sobbing unrestrainedly.

And with another smothered oath he swept her up into his arms and carried her across the room.

"Don't worry, sweetheart," he answered, as he laid her down on the bed, "he'll turn up all right. Black sheep always do. I ought to know, for I was a blacker sheep than ever he will be—God help me. And God help him when I'm done with him," he added, grimly, to himself as he turned away to finish undressing.

CHAPTER III

The peace of heaven lay over the the one and only hotel in the little Arab town of Touggourt.

In the cool, shady entrance hall the stout French patron, ensconced within his caisse, lay buried in the depth of a capacious armchair snoring sonorously, his bald head covered with a vivid hued silk handkerchief that was wafting gently to and fro with his heavy breathing.

Through an open door which, opposite to the caisse, led to a big room, half lounge, half dining salon, there came similar sounds of more or less peaceful slumber that emanated from a small gathering of commercial travelers who, full led and wearying of each other's society, were putting to the best advantage a period of enforced idleness.

Near the hall door three or four Arab runners connected with the establishment were squatting on their heels, their backs against the wall, their heads sunk on their breasts, lost in dreamless meditation.

Outside the thoroughfare was deserted. For a full hour no living thing had passed the hotel save a hunted cat that had fled frenziedly before two gaunt, mangy dogs, of no particular breed, who chased her with a kind of half-hearted enthusiasm; and a miserable, little starving donkey of dejected mien that had wandered slowly down the street to pause for a moment before the hotel door while it uttered a long drawn wailing bray of intense melancholy before it pursued its zigzag, erratic course, snuffling hungrily at the ground until it was out of sight. Upstairs, in a private room, Raoul de Saint Hubert was sitting at a large table, writing.

During the two hours that had elapsed since lunch he had not ceased work except to light a fresh cigarette and add yet another stub to the growing heap on the ash tray at his elbow, and to reply briefly to the occasional remarks made by the short, fair young man who was lying in a cane chair beside the open window. These latter interruptions, however, had become fewer and fewer until finally they had stopped altogether, and Saint Hubert wondered without troubling to ascertain, whether his companion was asleep. But Caryll John Aubrey, Viscount Caryll, was very far from being asleep.

His obstinate chin thrust out, his brows knit in the formidable scowl that marked his only point of resemblance to his father's family, he was mentally reviewing a situation that each moment appeared to grow more distasteful, more unpleasant.

Out of tune with his surroundings, hating the necessity which had taken him from the one country in which he could see any good and where lay all his interests, and bitterly hostile towards the father who was nothing to him but faint memory, he grudged every minute spent out of England and shrank from the undertaking for which he was himself solely responsible. Had he done right? Or had he been an ever conscientious, overzealous fool?

For weeks he had been asking himself the question without getting any nearer to the solution of his problem.

Listening now to the scratching of Saint Hubert's busy pen, he found himself arguing the matter afresh, and scowled more darkly than before.

But, whichever way it went, he was convinced that he had done the right thing. And, thank God, he was sure of his own motive. It was not self-interest that had brought him to Algeria. And, being here, the thing would have to be carried through, pleasant or unpleasant—and there, for the moment, the matter could rest.

Resolutely he turned the current of his thoughts, pigeon-holing his difficulty with a promptness that was the result of deliberate training.

He was too modest to admit, even to himself, that it was a stern sense of duty alone that had prompted him to at step that now, as it neared fulfilment, filled him with acute dismay.

For duty was the keynote of his life. It had been instilled into him since he was old enough to understand anything, together with a high sense of his moral obligations and responsibilities in the position to which it had pleased Heaven to call him.

And, ignorant as he was of the tragedy that had wrecked his grandfather's life, he had never guessed that his own careful training had been but one of many means whereby a broken-hearted man had sought to retrieve his own early misdoings.

His upbringing had been almost unique. And from childhood orderly and methodical, with a fastidious abhorrence of anything that was unconventional and unordinary, constant association with a very old man had strengthened his prejudices and made him grave and reliable beyond his years.

Winning no academic honors, and not particularly good at games, but universally popular as an all-round good sportsman, his career at Eton was uneventful. And shortened, as it had been, by the precarious state of his grandfather's health, he had passed straight from school to plunge wholeheartedly into the task that was to be his life's work.

Shreveporters Hammer Spud Hurlers For Easy 9 to 4 Win

DICK MORGAN KNOCKED OUT EARLY IN GAME

Ping Poles 29th Homer Of Season. Winters Gets His First Work-out

SHREVEPORT, Aug. 10.—Shreveport batters enjoyed a slugfest at the expense of two Wichita Falls hurlers today and won the opening game of the series 9 to 4. Morgan lasted only one and two-third innings and was touched for six runs, Winters relieving him. Gleason was hit hard but brilliant support saved him. Bodie hit a home run in the first. In the eighth inning Umpire O'Hearne cleared the Spudders bench of all extra players because of the razzing coming from the dugout.

The Spudders broke into the lead in the first inning Metzger doubled to center, and scored on Distel's double to the same field. Distel took third on Fitzgerald's infield out. Ping Bodie then poled his twenty-ninth home run over the left field fence, scoring Distel ahead of him.

Gassers Come Back

Shreveport came back at the Spuds in the last half of the first, and shoved over four runs to take a one run lead. Ostergard's walk, a single by Kirke, and a walk to Benton filled the bases. Ostergard and Kirke spiked the rubber on a double to left by Bonowitz. McGaffigan hit to Distel, who fumbled the ball, Benton scored, Bonowitz also scored when Jonnard dropped Distel's peg to the plate.

The Sports rioted Morgan in the second and Winters was sent in to pitch his first game in a Spudder uniform. He pitched good ball the rest of the way. Burns dropped a single back of third. Ostergard walked after two had been retired. Burns tabulated nad Ostergard went to third on Kirke's single to right, and took second on the throw in. Ostergard scored and Kirke took third when Morgan uncorked a wild heave. Winters then took up the mound duty.

Singles by Turgeon, Callaghan and Dorman scored a run for the Spudders in the fourth.

More in Fifth

Shreveport counted another pair in the fifth. McGaffingan came through with a single with two mates in a scoring position.

Shreveport added one more to their score in the eighth. A walk, a hit batsman and a single by Ostergard followed by Kirke's sacrifice fly to Callaghan.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 10.—(AP).—Brooklyn took two listless games from Cincinnati today, 7 to 3, and 13 to 3. In the first game Luque and Osborne went along at a fairly even pace until Luque was taken out in the eighth for a pinchhitter. Biemiller was hit for three runs in the ninth. Score:

DUKE MIXES CHICAGO BOXER THURSDAY NITE

Fast Fight Promised For Legion Fans When Two Tangle

Duke Trammel, Fort Worth mitten tosser, will be returned to the legion main exent Thursday night at the Eleventh and Ohio arena in a ten-rounder with Tommie Mahoney, Chicago boy on his way to the west coast. Duke has been outboxed in the Wichita Falls right, but never outfought, and this is what young Mahoney intends to do, outfight the Fort Worth welter.

Mahoney is a tough, rugged scrapper and intends to give the fans here a real fight when he exchanges licks with Trammel.

Junior welterweights are billed for the eight-round semi-final, Freddy Wilder, of the west coast, and Kid Granite, of Granite, Okla. Wilder is just back from Dallas where he claims he nearly whipped Tommie White, having him on the floor once. Wilder has been promised a battle with Duke Trammel if he can put Granite out of the way.

Loses His First.

Granite lost his first decision in a year last week to Wildcat Monte because he couldn't hit Monte. He believes he can whip Wilder.

Two big favorites here, although they have never met each other, are billed for the main preliminary bout of six rounds. Young Murdock, of Sulpuhur, Okla., and Johnnie Rivers, fast Mexican bantamweight from Fort Worth are the ones to be paired off for this match. They are the fastest boys of their class to ever box here and should make a fast fight.

A grudge battle is slated for the preliminary when Virgin Masters annd John L. Sullivan tangle for a four round bout. This is guaranteed to be a real grudge fight on the winner take all basis. Masters has boxed the last three successive weeks, winning by the K. O. in the first round.

Giants Cut Into Pirate Lead By A Win of 2 to 1

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—The Giants reduced Pittsburg's lead in the National league to three and one-half games by winning the first brush of a four-game series today before 25,000 fans, 2 to 1. Jack Scott had the better of a pitching duel with Lee Meadows. He allowed eight hits, but kept them well scattered, doubles by Cuyler and Barnhart in the sixth giving the home team their only run. The Giants bunched three of their five hits for a run in the first, while Young scored the winning tally in the fourth on an error, an infield out and a wild pitch. The game was interrupted for an hour and a half by rain.

Ross Young stands out tonight as the player who virtually won the opening contest by his speed on the base lines, although Meusel's bat was a potent factor also. Young scored the two tallies that snatched the game from the Pirate crew and Meusel got two of the five hits collected off Meadows. Southworth opened with a single but was forced at second by Frisch who was in the game despite a broken finger. Young singled to right and Cuyler's long throw nabbed Frisch as he slid into third.

The Passing Hour

~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

THE SECOND GUESS.

How often you hear in the bleachers—
"He should have walked Whoziss today"—
How often you sense from the sidelines
How a quarterback foozled the play:
Some gent in our midst from far Saturn
Or here from some heathenish lands
Would think that the brawn's in the melee,
The generals all in the stands.

But out where the rush of the contest
Is gripping some hurried lad's soul—
The play must be made on the moment
On the dope that his thoughts may unroll:
There's no second guess for the player—
Another play's on while you wait—
Here's the dope for the brains in the grandstand—
The second guess always is late.

Back Again.

THE reinstatement of Dicky Kerr probably writes next-to-last chapter in one of the tragedies of baseball's heartless system. The final one will be turned in when it is discovered that Wee Dickey, never a great pitcher, is not able to take his turn after a three-year lay off and he draws his release.

Kerr's story is baseball history now. He flashed into fame as the only Sox pitching star of the 1919 world's series, and a year later when the Black Sox disclosures were made, it was discovered that he had won his games from Cincinnati in spite of conspiracy behind him to throw them. 1920 was Kerr's last year. Unable to come to terms with Comiskey he jumped to the outlaws and under baseball's iron-clad system of handling these cases, has been out now for four seasons.

These were the years that would have been the best earning seasons of his professional career. But there are no exceptions to the law by which the game supports its illegal contract. If you jump, you stay jumped.

Kerr deserved better of baseball than he received. Doubtless now he will never get his just deserts.

STILL, baseball has made much of Kerr because he was not one of the Black Sox. He was not asked to participate in the conspiracy because they would lose, anyway.

THhe Chicago judge who asked $500,000 bond from the black gentleman accused of robbing gasoline stations probably thought the bail ought to be commensurate with the price of the commodity stolen.

The Chance Is Slim.

MUCH is made of Baylor's chance to defeat Notre Dame in the opening game of the Bears' season, September 22, when they invade South Bend. As a matter of fact, the chances of the Wacoans are pretty slim.

The presumption of opportunity is based on the new machine that Rockne will have to put in the field. Even considering that, Baylor would have a far better chance on November 1 than September 22, for the past four years under Bridges' coaching have always shown that the Bears are slow in rounding into form.

It is true that Baylor has a largely veteran team, but it will have only around two weeks' work together with the new players filtered in by the time that it meets the Catholics. And there is the staunch record of history behind it—Baylor's great teams of recent years have seldom played well at the start. Bridges is an intensive worker and gets his men up to their best, mentally andn physically and as a team, by the time he hits the conference schedule.

Notre Dame is never weak in material even with a new team, and called upon to face a hard road schedule year after year, has always been ready to get going from the start.

The chances are that Notre Dame will win this year. But the game will not be a fair test of the relative merits of either team, both of which four or five weeks later would be a competent and accepted representative of its action.

IT never pays to quit in any game, screeds Grantland Rice. How about poker at midnight when your pile is all velvet?

THE reason that newspapers writing "Twenty-five Years Ago" columns never print the standing of the clubs is that seven out of eight towns were not in first place.

Records May Fall.

EIGHT new club records were made in the Texas league in 1924 and two tied, but one of the new marks was not credited last fall to its maker. This was the highest fielding average ever made by a team, when San Antonio turned in a season figure of .973. This actually beat the best previous average, also made by San Antonio, .972, in 1921, but since 1917 Fort Worth has been credited with the record on the books when the guide books recorded .980, an extraordinary figure.

This, however, was an error, Fort Worth's actual percentage on the final official figures for the year was .967, not .980.

One club record has already been broken this year, home runs. Other marks that have a very good fighting chance to go into the discard are total runs, 1008; total hits, 1634; total bases, 2380, and runs batted in, 884.

But the only marks that most fans follow are total individual hits and batting average. Clark may beat Ike Boone's record for hits, but it is hardly likely his average will be bested.

Jimmy Brett Is Back From Cubs

The Spudders have been fortunate in the return of Jimmy Brett from the Cubs. Brett finished out the season last year with the Spuds, winning a pair of games and losing none with an earned run average of 4.23. Brett is a side arm pitcher who has been with the Cubs all this year but has seen very little work with the Maranville clan.

With the addition of Brett, Winters and Martin the Spudder officials must be planning for the trading of one, and possibly two, of their staff to the big top at the end of the year. Bob Osborn has been pitching a great brand of ball, but is losing many due to the fact that but few runs are made behind him. Morgan has been working well after getting strung out in his right stride.

Muny Cup Tilt For Wednesday

The annual club tournament for the Nafziger cup trophy is now up to the two finalists, who are Rennie Allred Jr. (7) from the upper bracket and [illegible] R. Sheldon (3) from the lower bracket.

In the semi-finals Allred (7) defeated Eads (16) 4 up and 3, and Sheldon (3) defeated Fisk (14) 1 up. The final match will be played Wednesday with Sheldon giving Allred a stroke each on the second, sixth, fifteenth and sixteenth holes. The match is arousing considerable interest from the fact that Allred's long game is almost as good as Sheldon's and Allred should easily win the four handicap holes for a stiff advantage. On the other hand Sheldon turned [in] a score of 70 Sunday which is believed to be the course record and sank five birdies in the last nine for a 31.

To Meet Wednesday.

Club officials have arranged the Allred-Sheldon match for 3 p. m. on Wednesday of this week and preceding the weekly family night to make it handy for the expected gallery.

The Nafziger handicap is an annual tournament for the cup presented to the Municipal club by the Nafziger Baking company and must be won three times for permanent possession. In 1923 it was won by J. T. Yeargin and in 1924 by Frank Collier.

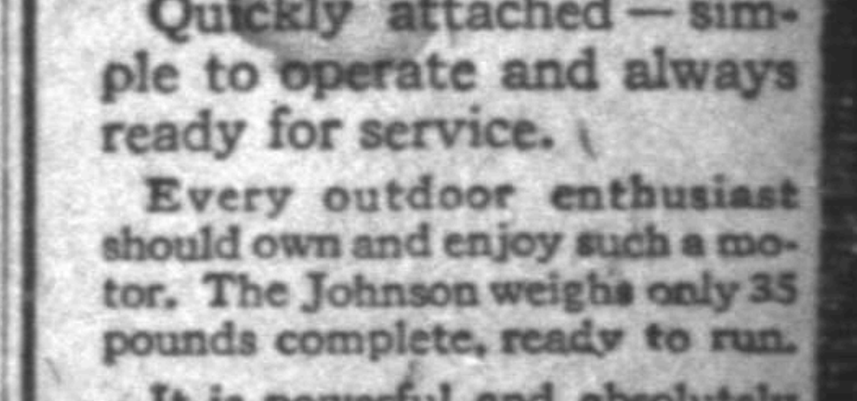

The consolation tournament growing out of the regular Nafziger tournament is getting up fully as much steam as the main event. L. R. mi[illegible] (6) turned in a 72 to defeat Roge[rs] (15) and arrived at the semi-finals where he will meet George Paull (1[illegible]) in the upper bracket. Paull rose to fame not long ago by taking but [illegible] putts on 17 greens and holing out from outside. His field game is not long but usually sure and safe. Lar[illegible] Smith is poison with irons and also good on the greens and his occasional lapses in driving make this match interesting.

In the lower bracket L. E. Tro[illegible] advanced to the finals by defeating Charles Kiersey 4 to 3. Trout will meet the survivor of the Smith-Pa[ull] match in the final.

More Truth Than Poetry

A PROTEST

A California veterinarian has succeeded in removing the bark from a and suggests that his example be universally followed.

What! Take from Towser, Tige and Tray
Their most enjoyable possession;
The joyful yelp, the deep-mouthed bay,
With which they strive for self-expression.
Must science, Heaven save the mark,
Engage upon a base endeavor
To still the watch-dog's honest bark
Forever?

Lord Byron, listening to this sound,
Composed a flaming panegyric
On dogs and home, which may be found
In his most widely quoted lyric.
While Goldsmith never failed to find,
When to his lowly cot retiring,
The voice that "bayed the whispering wind"
Inspiring.

Unseemly would the moon appear
In any of its changing phases
If, when it shone forth bright and clear,
No bark arose to sing its praises.
In midnight silence we'd be drowned
If, by a scientific fiat
Both mongrel, puppy, whelp, and hound
Were quiet.

Aye! spare the barks, the yaps, the bays
That form nearby or at a distance,
A thousand happy canines raise
To speak their joy in this existence.
We've clipped their tails and ears; in parks
With leashes we abridge their freedom,
By all means let 'em keep their barks—
They need 'em!

TIPTON AFTER GAS LINE TO OKLA. POINTS

Community Anxious to Secure Outlet Through Frederick

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 10.—Citizens of Tipton are whole-heartedly behind the movement being made to secure a natural gas line through Hobart, Snyder, Tipton and Frederick, and will send representatives to Frederick Tuesday to attend the meeting of the local city council when they vote on the matter.

The project has occupied the attention of the southwestern Oklahoma cities for the past few weeks and it is thought that the entire matter will come to a head Tuesday night when the city council of Frederick will be asked to give its approval of a franchise that is to be offered it by Moseley and Myers, a gas firm from Tulsa, with extensive gas holdings and satisfactory financial resources.

As the matter now stands, Hobart, which would be the keynote of the supply which would run to Snyder, Tipton and Frederick, has already granted the franchise as far as the council is concerned, and there is practically no opposition to the matter in the citizenship.

The proposition has it has been outlined and shaped in the last few week after the acceptance by Altus of the A. C. Cravey line of Mangum, diverting the circle pipe plan of the Tulsa gas firm, has met with practically no opposition.

Leaders and business men in both Tipton and Frederick are getting unreservedly behind the matter and it is expected to be but a matter of time until the line is laid.

Snake Venom In Powdered Form To Aid Medicine

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—With a quart of powdered American rattlesnake venom Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles of the New York Zoological Park, is going to Brazil next Saturday to arrange for production of snake serum.

More than 100 persons die annually in the United States from snake bites Mr. Ditmars said yesterday. Thousands of requests for serum are received by him at the zoo, but can not be filled, Brazilian laboratories manufacture a snake serum from venom of the South African rattler, he explained, but this is ineffective against bites of the American variety.

He will take a quart of venom along to give the manufacturers something to work with. It was obtained from 2,500 rattlers collected by the zoo and by W. A. (Snake) King of Brownsville, Texas. It is injected into horses in increasingly large doses until after eight months anti-bodies form in the blood which is drawn off in small quantities to make the serum.

Waves Aren't So Terrible at All

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Reports about ocean waves 15 yards and more in height, says the Social Politischer Dienst, are to be classed with fairy tales. The length and height of waves, always a source of much speculation, have now been accurately determined by means of a specially constructed camera, according to the newspaper, and ordinary waves are from 2 to 4 yards high.

They may rise to 9 yards in a so-called high sea and even attain from 10 to 12 yards in a violent gale. The length of the largest wave, that is, from crest to crest, is described as about 300 yards, while the time in which one wave replaces another is estimated at 20 seconds. The speed of the large wave therefore, is about 20 yards a second or that of an express train.

The K.O. and the final O.K.

SPORT news is essentially a morning newspaper product.

Why?

Because morning newspapers enter the process of manufacture after---not during---the life of major sporting events the country over. That allows for details, pictures, the whole story. The ball game is played over from start to finish by the morning newspaper reporter. Press time does not cut it short at the fourth inning.

There is time not only for vivid reporting but mature judgment between Tilden's last hard-fought set and the "zero hour" in the press room.

Men and women turn to morning newspapers naturally for unabridged stories of their favorite sport.

Between the K. O. in the squared circle and the final O. K. on the editorial desk enough time has passed to perfect a true and complete account.
Not a breathless bulletin.

The Sport Lovers' Standby

MILLIONS of men and women turn first to the sport section in their morning newspapers. Love of clean sport is instinct with Americans. Consider the pilgrimages to race tracks—horse and motor; the frenzied throngs around a championship prize-ring; the crowded quays and shipping along the course of a boat race; the vibrant stadia during football clashes; the loaded bleachers and grandstands when ball teams meet—while away in the back-ground at home or at work millions of kindred souls await eagerly the full story. This virile element in American society, served so thoroughly by morning newspapers, is a morning newspaper audience for advertisers. Alive, free-handed, liberal buyers, the sport-lovers of any American community form a stratum rich in rewards for proper cultivation. And the morning newspaper is their standby.

USE MORNING NEWSPAPERS

THE SPORT LOVING ELEMENT in this community is, naturally, a morning newspaper following.

Morning newspapers live in the home during the "open store" period. The time between the buying impulse and the buying act is thus reduced to a minimum.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Stock prices staged a remarkable comeback after an early period of weakness in today's market, which was featured by the buoyancy of high priced industrial shares. Trading turned dull on the early decline but picked up perceptably in the late rallies, the day's sales aggregating about one and one-quarter million shares. Heavy selling of the motors and oils based on additional automobile and gasoline price cuts took place soon after the market opened. Early declines of one to 3½ points were recorded by Chandler Motors, Pierce Arrow common and preferred stock, Mack Trucks, Marland, Standard Oil of California, Independent Oil and Gas, Texas company and several others, but in some cases the earlier losses were materially reduced. General Motors showed independent strength by touching a new record high at 94⅝ in anticipation of an announcement of a special cash distribution on Thursday.

Sensational advances again took place in the so-called "rich men's stocks." General Railway Signal soared 12¼ points to a record top at 256½; Jersey Central and International Shoe each jumped seven points to 238 and 180, respectively, and American Can moved up over six points to a new high for all time at 224½. Midland Steel Products preferred attained a new maximum at 147 but closed unchanged at 145.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The cotton market was quite active today and prices broke sharply following an opening advance of 35 points on October due to the bullish character of Saturday's government report. Selling became general right after the opening partly due to the sales of hedges against the rapid movement of spots to market but mainly owing to the general disposition of traders to disbelieve the condition and crop indication issued by the government.

At the start Liverpool was better than due, although the market made a poor response to government report. Opening trades here showed gains of 34 to 35 points with October at 23.85 and December at 23.81. These figures proved to be the highs of the day. Selling became active right after the call and by midsession October traded down to 22.99 and December 23.31, or 60 to 66 points below the initial highs. The market then quieted down and in the final trading October traded as low as 22.80 and December at 23.04, or 77 to 85 points below the highs. The final figures were practically at the lows.

Exports for the day totaled only 2,361 bales.

Hruby has made all Europe his shunting ground and, somehow, has been able to solve the obnoxious passport problem. Although he has gone from one country to another at his pleasure he never has carried the official document which most international travelers are obliged to have.

Wireless Station Goes High in Air

RUGBY, England.—Six times as high as the Nelson monument in Trafalgar Square, London, are the 12 masts of the new British government wireless station here, through which it is anticipated telephonic communication with the United States as well as wireless communication with all parts of the British Empire will be effected.

There is a electric lift inside each mast to carry four men to the top in 15 minutes. There is also a ladder up which the top of the mast can be reached in half an hour. The masts are supported on porcelain insulators and can rock slightly on a joint at the base. In a high wind the top of the mast sways to the extent of eight feet.

NEW GAS TAX PLANNED

Senator Bowers Would Put 3 Cents a Gallon on All Sold

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—(AP)—A state gasoline tax of three cents a gallon, revenue of which is to be devoted entirely to highway construction and maintenance, will be proposed in a bill to be submitted by him at the next regular session of the legislature R. S. Bowers, senator from the fourteenth district, told the Associated Press today. Gus Russek, state senator from the fifteenth district, said he would support such a bill.

FRENCH BOMBING RIFFS.

Thirteen Encampments of Rebels Undergo Attack From Air.

FEZ, Aug. 10.—(AP)—French aviation squadrons bombed 13 encampments of the rebellious Riffians last night. Two flying columns have cleared the region of Djebel Amsheft, which had been overrun by the Riffians.

Spanish troops also are active. Detachments of artillery and a Spanish war plane have prevented a Riffian column from crossing the bend of the Loukkos river.

Reporter, Blind, Covers a Beat

GARY, Ind.—Total blindness has not interfered with the success of Allen Naive, 31, as a newspaperman.

Naive, city hall reporter for The Gary Post-Tribune, accepts all assignments and, according to fellow workmen, gets more than his share of news. He turns out "clean copy" on a regulation typewriter.

Naive was given a place on The Post-Tribune more than five years ago, upon completion of a course in a school for the blind. He showed natural aptitude for using a typewriter and for writing, and made good from the start.

He never has asked special consideration because of his physical handicap, and has accepted every assignment given to him, including his share of night meetings. His cane is his only companion on his beat.

A 100,000 BALE CROP

Brownsville Territory Looks for Banner Cotton Production

BROWNSVILLE, Texas.—(AP)—With 70,000 bales of cotton ginned by Aug. 1, prospects for a 100,000 bale crop are good, officials of a gin company said. This company, through a statistical department, keeps a close check on valley conditions. All indications point to a record crop. More than 90,000 bales were ginned in 1923, the best previous year for valley cotton. In 1924, 87,541 bales were ginned.

Rains at opportune times might increase the yield to 125,000 bales, officials of the company estimated.

DEPOT SAFE IS LOOTED

Thieves Get $23 for Their Trouble in Santa Fe Station

RICHMOND, Aug. 10.—Thieves who apparently were experts, blew the safe of the Santa Fe railroad ticket office here Sunday night. The safe was wrecked, the door was blown off and the bottom blown out. But so carefully had the robbers muffled their blast that S. P. Damon, agent, who resides just across the street heard no sound.

For their trouble the robbers got but $23, all that the safe contained.

25 CTS. PER LB. MINIMUM FOR TEXAS COTTON

Commissioner Says That Price May Go to Higher Figures

AUSTIN, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Twenty-five cents a pound likely will be the minimum price paid for cotton as the season wears on, with indications that the price may go above the mark, George B. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, said today in announcing that conditions of Aug. 1 in Texas, as represented by correspondents of more than 200 counties, indicated a crop of 3,450,000 bales of a million and a half bales short of the 1924 yield of 4,951,388 bales. Mr. Terrell said large cotton crops in other Southern states would barely be enough to make up the shortage of yield in Texas.

The agricultural commissioner suggested that preference be given by the state highway commission in making allotments for highway building and maintenance to drouth-stricken counties in order that no considerable number of persons will move from the counties where the crops are short and work of any sort scarce. Average condition of cotton over the state on Aug. 1 was 57 per cent; corn 41 per cent; hay 46 per cent; grain sorghums 50 per cent; sweet potatoes 53 per cent; peanuts 58 per cent; syrup sorghums 48 per cent and ribbon cane 45 per cent. Only 25 or 30 counties in East, Northeast and North Texas will produce any considerable corn crop, the report said.

Condition of cotton crop by districts, together with the 1924 production for each district follows:

Eastern district 73 per cent, 655,466 bales; northern district 70 per cent, 847,470 bales; western district 58 per cent, 453,945 bales; northwestern district 67 per cent, 892,882 bales; central district 36 per cent, 1,485,529 bales; southwestern district 43 per cent, 616,097 bales. Average, 57 per cent; total, 4,951,389 bales.

The northern and eastern districts likely will produce as much cotton as they produced last year, but the others will fall short of last year's production, and the central and southwestern districts likely will produce less than half of last year's yield.

Notice of Salary Increase Comes Too Late for Officer

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Notification that he had been granted a substantial advance in salary failed to arouse Sheriff Peter Gunn of Edmonton to any unusual pitch of enthusiasm. Not that he did not appreciate the liberality of his employer but rather to the fact that he will never reap the fruit of the "increase."

The notice of his salary raise came to the sheriff in a letter from the north country written nearly 30 years ago. By some trick of fate the letter had gone astray.

It was dated January 6, 1896, and was written by Ewen MacDonald, at that time manager of the Peace River district for the Hudson's Bay company. Gunn, then comparatively young, was employed at the company's post at Lesser Slave Lake.

The hard Scotchman, MacDonald, long since dead, informs Mr. Gunn in the letter that his "services have been highly saitsfactory" and that as a result, he has been awarded a "magnificent" increase in English pounds sterling. Just how much the "magnificent" increase amounted to Mr. Gunn declined to divulge but it caused the sheriff to chuckle.

PAPER FOR THE BLIND.

Braille System Brought Into Use for Afflicted in Tokyo.

TOKYO.—A daily newspaper printed in Braille, the first publication in Japan for the blind, recently has been issued. It consists of two sheets printed on both sides, giving four printed pages of news for those who cannot see. F. Kimura, a wealthy Japanese philanthropist, is financing the enterprise and the editor is S. Hirohasi.

As all newspapers in Japan are censored, the Tokyo police authorities are somewhat embarrassed as to how censorship can be applied to the new publication as it is claimed no one in the police department is familiar with the Braille system.

GAS TAX HELPS WEST.

Washington Collects Huge Sum From Motorists of State.

TACOMA, Wash.—The highways of Washington have received $6,175,300 from the state gasoline tax since Aug. 31, 1921. The tax now is two cents a gallon, having been raised from the original one-cent levy. At present the yield from the tax is close to $250,000 monthly, a sum sufficient to pave 10 miles of highway that already has been graded.

All money from the gasoline tax is used to build roads. This fund and the license fees from automobile drivers have been largely responsible for the improved highway system in the state.

A SECOND CHRISTMAS

Mail Boat Six Months Late Finally Reaches Outpost.

FORT SIMPSON, Northwest Territory.—Residents of this far north post recently had a second Christmas celebration. The first mail boat of the season, the Pioneer, arrived bearing 42 poches from the "outside." It was the first mail since last fall. Though six months late, the Christmas packages provided a gala event for the white settlers.

Lack of Liquor Breeding Race Of Jelly-Beans and He-Men Is Plaint of Aged Booze Addict

He Wants to Live to be 100 And Still Drink Whiskey—And He Believes He'll Succeed If Law Will Just Let Him Alone

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Declaring that the lack of whisky is breeding a "race of ping pong players," Nathan Douchy, 91-year-old champion of rum and tobacco, has spoken his mind about what this world's coming to.

Celebrating his birthday a few days ago with friends at Darien, Conn., he attributed his age to whiskey and smoking. Mrs. Alica J. Cumming, leader of the Stamford Women's Christian Temperance Union, promptly offered to appoint a committee to investigate what really made him live so long. She was certain it was not whiskey. Yesterday Douchy replied:

"My ambition has been to live to be a hundred and still drink whiskey. Seems as though prohibition will stop me. Just why people consider whiskey a thing to legislate against I don't know. They ought to legislate against soft drinks.

"One of the most of the disgusting sights is to see a young man ordering a sarsaparilla soda. My dad would have licked me had he seen me drinking anything like that.

"We're getting too highly moral, we're being dominated by the feminine mind. In time we'll be breeding a race of ping pong players. Football will be too rough; baseball too strenuous. Golf is one sign of our degeneracy. Poker is giving way to bridge and the like. It's not because of whiskey, but the lack of it."

Spain-Portugal Growing Closer

LISBON, Aug. 10.—The recent congress for the advancement of the sciences is only one of many ways in which Spain and Portugal appear to be showing a desire for closer relations. The president of the republic was to have presided at the congress but was prevented from doing so by illness. His place was taken by the president of the cabinet. French and Belgian academies of science also were represented in the congress.

Camp Fire Girls In Wohelo Council At Park Sunday

The Camp Fire girls held a "wohelo" council fire around the community fireplace at Scotland park Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in honor of their member who is leaving for Mayo Brothers Saturday afternoon, August 15. The council fire represented "WORK" in raising funds to help give "HEALTH" back to Camp Fire sister because they "LOVE" her. The members entered at the call of "wohelo" by Miss Mary McIlheran, local executive, who conducted the council fire and formed the "wohelo" triangle. "Wohelo for Aye" was sung in unison, and the lights of Work, Health and Love were lit as follows: Charlotte Kennedy, Work; Clifftine Butler, Health, and Fannie Blank, Love.

Interesting Features.

One of the many interesting features of awarding honor beads was the fifty-two home-craft honor beads won by one child earning money for music lessons for cleaning the chicken house once a week for a whole year. Hand painted leather honors were awarded to members representing work accomplished in swimming, woodcraft and other lines. Special honors were awarded for members whose work has been accepted for the permanent local, exhibit as follows: Mrs. Anna Barnhill, for butterflies, moths and dragon flies caught and mounted; Mrs. J. F. Hyland, beaded headband, woven on bead loom; Edith Crump, five pastel drawings of birds; Nell Smith for originating symbol for local nature honor.

E. S. Goodner, president of local council, who is leaving for California, made the presentation talk, expressing the desire of the members to "cleave to their Camp Fire sisters, wherever, whenever we find them." A beautiful leather purse with a check inside was presented from members, and a firemaker's bracelet given from the guardians' association. Cheers were sun and "I Want to Be Happy" sung by group. A brown sheepskin—"buffalo robe"—was presented to Mr. Goodner from members as a token of appreciation for his service as president of council. Mr. Goodner expressed his regret at leaving Wichita Falls and Camp Fire work.

Due to the absence of the president and vice-president, the executive board of the local council of Camp Fire girls will hold their monthly meeting on the third Tuesday of this month instead of the second Tuesday, which will make it August 18, at the chamber of commerce. Miss McIlheran, local executive, urges all members to be present.

SUB ROSA BY MIMI

Intolerance.

It's a very grave fault—intolerance. It may warp and sour your nature so that you will lose all the friends you ever had, and will find yourself unable to make new ones.

Perhaps you don't realize that you're intolerant. Sometimes, unless you've been brought up to avoid this particular evil, you will think yourself the most broad-minded person in the world until somebody one day has the courage to tell you the truth about yourself.

Usually when you're confronted with the fact that you possess this grave fault, a lot of damage has been done already—you may already have lost many friends and admirers.

So it might be a good thing to give your mind a thorough overhauling right now, and figure out for yourself just where you stand on this question.

Are you the sort of person who believes that people of a certain religion are all right in their way—but that really they're not quite as nice as those of your own denomination? Then get rid of that idea at once. For that belief of yours will unconsciously color your conversation and manner toward those whose choice of religion you deem to be unfortunate. Boys and girls of the particular creed you dislike will in time feel your intolerancy towards them, and they'll drift away.

Do you condemn people because their habits are such as you've been brought up to believe are bad? Then try to lose that sense of condemnation, and don't above all things let the boys hear you passing judgment on people whom you've no right to judge. Nothing sets a modern boy so much against a girl as the realization that she's a narrow-minded prig who delights in showing her superiority to her unrighteous friends.

Suppose Lila does smoke, and you consider smoking a bad habit. You mustn't go around confiding to your friends that you think Lila must be rather fast.

You shouldn't even harbor that feeling against her. Her ideas of life and manners may be entirely different from yours, and your intolerance of her only puts you in a bad light.

Girls are much too young and foolish themselves to display intolerance of other people's ideas, morals and religion.

Every time you show this particular little trait of refusing to see the other fellow's point of view, you are putting yourself in wrong.

Instead of condemning what you don't understand—what you don't believe in—just pass the matter up and say nothing about it.

You'll gain a great deal more by a sincere effort to understand your neighbors and friends, than by a scathing denunciation of those habits of theirs which you believe to be wrong.

Take a thorough stock of your mind—and put out intolerance if you find it there.

225 Commercial Articles

More than 225 commercial articles are extracted from coal. Just think of the wonderful utility of this ordinary but useful commodity.

It would be impossible to estimate the hundreds and thousands of ways in which the classified columns of the Record News may be used. It has been said that a few lines of classified advertising will sell anything from a toothpick to a threshing machine. We believe it. Prove it for yourself if you have around the house a chair, a mattress, a bed, or bed springs, a bicycle or a baby carriage, which you no longer need. Clear the attic and the store house of useless articles through our classified columns.

COUNCIL O.K.'S MILK LAW ON FINAL READING

Improved Sanitary Conditions Required Under City Ordinance

The milk ordinance, requiring concrete dairy floors and other devices calculated to improve sanitary conditions in dairies and dispensation and marketing of milk in Wichita Falls, with the clause requiring pasteurization was passed at its final reading at the meeting of the city council last night and will go into effect 30 days from that time.

Elimination of the clause requiring that milk offered for sale in the city undergo pasteurization treatment came at the suggestion of Commissioner J. L. Patton, who pointed out that pasteurized milk was objectionable for many purposes and distasteful in many households and was not absolutely necessary to insure a sanitary milk. Other members of the council in acquiescing made the remark that if at any time the treatment was found to be essential to insure good clean milk the ordinance could be amended to provide for it. The clause excluded provided for the installation of pasteurizing equipment within a period of 12 months after its final passage.

TRI-STATE DOG RACES STARTED IN WHEELER CO.

Many Sport Lovers Watch First Events Monday Morning

WHEELER, Texas, Aug. 10.—The age old combination of horse, dog and man, with the added spice of women, joined forces here in the running of the shooting dog races in the opening of the third annual tri-state field trial association races today, when dog lovers took the field behind their runners horse back.

While Judges C. W. Campbell of Tulsa and A. L. Curtis of Belton had not announced the winners early tonight, every one felt certain that Nellie Days Frank, owned by E. L. Freeman of Tulsa, was the winner of the Tony Chisum trophy in this event.

With a goodly sprinkling of women, 75 riders took the field almost at sunrise, to follow twelve braces in the first series and to finish the second.

Saddle sore but happy they are back into camp tonight chattering like a flock of parrots and those who do not speak dog language are out of the running.

In a shady grove on mud creek a tented city has been erected with restaurant, barber shop and dance floor, the latter for moonlight. It is estimated that 150 owners and trainers are in attendance.

More are coming for the members' derby tomorrow in which at least forty dogs will be entered.

One man in a real hurry to get to the scene was O. W. Lucke of Fort Sill, who came in an aeroplane in 55 minutes.

Nearly thirty petitions for waste water at the Thornberry end of the east Wichita county irrigation canal to irrigate farms lying in western Clay county have been received by the Wichita county water improvement district No. 1, it was learned yesterday.

The extension to the canal asked for in the petitions will put between 7,000 and 8,000 acres of western Clay county under irrigation, and relieve that section of the county in future dry periods such as have just been passed through. Indiana Avenue No Junk Heap, Claim

Instructions to clean up the unpaved middle of Indiana avenue from Sixth street north were given Street Commissioner N. M. Clifford by the city council at its meeting last night. The attention of the council was called to numerous old cars, old tires, junk and trailers to trucks that had remained parked there indefinitely, by Mayor Shepherd, who asked them what action they wished to take on the matter, stating that the street, one of the main entrances to the city, had become an eyesore to anyone passing through that end of town.
