Dispute Reaches State's Top Court

Supreme Court Gets Building Plan Suit

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 9.—The $60,000,000 College Building amendment case reached the Supreme court today.

Opponents of the constitutional amendment filed applications for writ of error in a double-barreled action against Attorney General Price Daniel and Secretary of State Paul Brown.

The suit against Daniel endeavors to prevent his approving bonds authorized by the constitutional amendment, while the action against Brown technically would prevent his canvassing returns of the amendment election held in August, 1947.

Errors Alleged

Petitioners in both suits are Clarence W. Whiteside, Spencer A. Wells and Homer Maxey, all of Lubbock and H. E. Speer of Dallas.

In the case against Brown, they alleged the trial court erred in ruling the amendment valid because the proposed constitutional change was not published in any newspaper in six Texas counties.

The amendment would authorize 14 state colleges and the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. college to issue bonds totalling $60,000,000 for building programs.

Rulings Are Rapped

The petitioners alleged in the suit against Daniel that the trial court erred in holding that the proposition submitted to the voters did not contain two or more amendments. They charged error on the part of the court of civil appeals in holding that the different subjects of the amendment were all interrelated and germane to the general purpose and object of the amendment.

In the suit against Brown, the court of civil appeals is charged with error in holding that the voters in six counties where there was no publication of the amendment had knowledge of the text of the amendment. No evidence in the record warrants such a conclusion, it is charged.

Question Arises

The appellate tribunal is also charged with error for concluding that "no one who had previously read the amendment could have been misled or deceived by the ballot used."

There appeared to be some question whether the Supreme court will grant the writ of error sought in the case against the sec-

Rail Worker Slays Four, Kills Himself

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 9. (AP)—Four Northern Pacific railroad shop men, including the superintendent, were shot to death today by another employe, who then killed himself.

The victims were T. R. Williams, shop superintendent; W. L. Butler, electrical foreman; Arthur Buhrman and Joseph T. Murray, firemen.

The shots were fired by J. J. Hill, stationary engineer, who had been with the railroad 25 years. He then went into an adjoining locker room, put the rifle to his chin and shot himself.

Fellow employes said the shootings followed a disagreement among the men about who would do certain work.

Department Of Justice Hit

By J. W. DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — The Truman administration tonight asked—in vain—that House investigators step aside in the spy hunt and leave it to the Justice department "for reasons of internal security."

The House Committee on Un-American Activities, already smarting under President Truman's remark that it is only hunting headlines, promptly rejected the request.

"An utterly unreasonable attack upon the prerogative of the United States Congress," snapped the committee in turning down a request from the Justice Department that it:

Witness Balks

1. Stop interviewing witnesses, in the search for "leaks" of official documents to Russian agents, who have been called before the federal grand jury in New York, or who might be called.

2. Refrain from issuing "any information which it has regarding said investigation."

Only today the committee put on the stand a witness who also was under subpoena to appear before the grand jury. He was Henry Julian Wadleigh, a former State department employe, who refused to answer committee questions as to whether he slipped secret papers to a Russian agent while he worked for the government. Wadleigh refused to answer nearly all questions posed to him, on the grounds it might tend to incriminate or degrade him.

Third Man Found

Wadleigh, Alger Hiss, a former State department employe, and a third man—yet unidentified publicly—were named by Whittaker Chambers as sources he used a decade ago in getting secret U.S. documents while Chambers was a courier for the Reds.

The "third man" is known to have been located by the committee, in Appleton, Wisc.

(International News Service identified the "third man" as William Ward Pigman, former employe of the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

(Pigman, a committee spokesman told INS, was named by Chambers, in executive hearings, as another government employe

Israel's Hopes For UN Post Hit

PARIS, Dec. 9. (AP)—Israel's hopes for admission into the United Nations at this session of the General Assembly were dealt a severe blow tonight.

The Security Council cancelled late tonight a meeting called for tomorrow at which Israel hoped for action on its membership bid.

This development came as Jewish informants said Israel may soon unlatch a trap on 1,200 Egyptian troops encircled at Faluja in the Negev.

Action Is Expected

The Israeli move was interpreted as possibly advancing negotiations for an Arab-Jewish armistice in the Holy Land and the membership application.

The Security Council's scheduled meeting tomorrow was tied directly to progress on the Palestine issue in the assembly.

The Palestine case is expected to come up in the assembly when that body ends action on the declaration on human rights. The assembly, however, is scheduled to end its session Saturday.

Delay Is Seen

The relation between the assembly and council deliberations is this:

France and Canada, two council members with key votes on the Israeli application, want nothing done in the council until they see

LONDON, Dec. 9. (INS)—John W. Belcher, British Laborite government official who admitted receiving "gifts" from businessmen and promoters, informed a special board of inquiry today that he will resign his post as parliamentary secretary of the board of trade. This was a sensational turn on the 18th day of an investigation into alleged bribery within the government.

Commission Takes Steps Toward Improving Lubbock Police Setup

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

PROSPECTS for a more efficient, more courteous and better paid Lubbock police department emerged from the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission Thursday afternoon.

These prospective improvements resulted from an unscheduled commission inquiry into policing methods which gave apparent promise, at the outset, of producing sensations. The sensations failed to materialize, but something constructive may have been started.

The inquiry required the presence of Police Chief Lewis Kittrell and prowl car Patrolmen John S. Rucker, Lyndon P. Miller and N. H. Lassiter—Lassiter leaving a sick bed to obey the sudden summons to appear before the commission. All figured in incidents into which the commission probed at length, with Police Commissioner E. K. Hufstedler, jr., assuming the role of chief prober.

Wage Scale Discussed

It was at the end of the inquiry when prospects for improved policing in Lubbock were given a suddenly constructive turn by a question addressed by Hufstedler to Chief Kittrell.

"Are you able to get the kind of policemen you need with the salaries you are able to offer?" the commissioner asked.

"No, sir, I cannot," was Kittrell's emphatic answer. "When we get good men, we have a hard time keeping them. A man with a family cannot make ends meet on a policeman's salary."

Starting salary for a patrolman in Lubbock approximates $225 a month, including a cost-of-living bonus amounting to about $85. The average wage in the department as a whole, including the bonus, is somewhat under $250 a month. About 90 per cent of the men have families and most of them pay rent.

Officials To Study Problem

"If present salaries are inadequate," Hufstedler continued, "then I, for one, would like to have your recommendations as to a scale of pay which will get good men and keep them."

Concurring immediately in this request was the entire membership of the commission, composed of Mayor W. H. Rodgers and Commissioners W. B. Price, John Spikes and Clarence Whiteside.

City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., who already was on record with the opinion that wage increases would be necessary, is to assist Chief Kittrell in preparing recommendations.

The indications were that some sort of boost will be provided not later than next April 1, when the budget for the city's new fiscal year will become operative. There seemed a possibility, but hardly more than that, of wage relief before that date.

The police chief acknowledged the need for more intensive training of patrolmen and for more stress upon courtesy by officers in their dealings with their public.

"But, as a rule, we have to take men without previous police experience" Kittrell said. "About the time we get them trained, they usually quit for better paying jobs."

However, other direct results on Thursday's inquiries likely will be more attention to schools of instruction for apprentice pa-

Temperature To Take Sharp Slump Today

Lubbock is expected to have its coldest morning of the year today with an 18 degree minimum predicted. Other than the low reading for the morning, South Plains weather is expected to continue pleasant but chilly today and Saturday.

The cold front that now hangs over the Midwest from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico is expected to hold the maximum today down to 54 degrees, and push the mercury to 20 degrees Saturday morning, Saturday afternoon is expected to be slightly warmer with a reading of 56 degrees, the weather station north of Lubbock reported. Thursday's low was 20 degrees, and the afternoon high was 47.

Today and Saturday propably will be mostly fair, with no indication of high winds indicated, the weatherman said. Saturday terafternoon, unless something unforeseen appears, should be a perfect football day, he said. A cold front now in the Pacific northwest is not expected to crash through the present high pressure front before Saturday night, the weather observer pointed out.

Prisoner, Saddle Horse Are Missing From Texas Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 9 (AP)—A prisoner and a saddle horse were missing tonight from the main unit of the Texas prison system.

J. C. Roberts, chief of the system's records bureau, said Thomas Pickens, 26, serving 10 years for robbery from El Paso county, disappeared from a construction gang at 5 p. m.

Pickens had been working on the prison's rodeo arena just outside the prison walls.

The horse, Roberts said, was found missing from a corral near the arena at the same time guards missed Pickens.

Union Files Unfair Practices Charge Against Phone Company

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 9.—Charges of unfair labor practices against the Southwestern Bell Telephone company were filed with the National Labor Relations board today by division 20, Communications Workers of America (Ind.), the union disclosed tonight.

The union, representing nearly 50,000 members in a five southwestern state area, alleged company supervisors presented to various groups of employes the wage proposals just received by the workers' bargaining committee, before the union itself could announce the terms.

Everett E. Cotter, general counsel for division 20, said the company's action was "a refusal to bargain in good faith with the union by attempting to bargain directly with individual employes, and therefore coercing them in their judgement of the company proposal."

Cotter handed the management's negotiators a copy of the charge tonight as representatives of both sides met in an effort to avert a threatened strike by the union. At the meeting the union committee asked a $6 weekly wage increase for 49,187 members. This

Chinese Drive Dealt Blow By Bridge Blast

By PETER LIU
INS Staff Correspondent

NANKING, Dec. 9.— Chinese Communists blew up a major bridge 30 miles north of Nanking today in a blow to operations aimed at the rescue of trapped government armies in the Honan-Anhwei-Kiangsu border area

Destruction of the bridge, near Chaihsien, cut the strategic rail line running south toward Pukow It interrupted the flow of reinforcements and supplies for government rescue forces.

The rescue columns attempting to break the Communist encirclement of the trapped government forces are advancing from the Pengpu area.

New Battles Seen

New battles, meanwhile, appeared to be shaping up for control of Peiping and Tientsin, China's two largest northern cities, as fighting shifted from the Aihwei plains above the capital to the northeast.

Communist forces were reported moving closer to Peiping with southwesterly thrusts along the Peiping-Hankow railroad. Another Communist column moved northwest along the Kupeikow-Peiping railroad.

Four to eight Communist columns under Red commander Gen. Lin Pi-Ao were reported to have left Manchuria to gather near Tangshan, 80 miles northeast of Tientsin on the Yellow river.

Major Attacks Feared

This menacing Communist troop concentration threatened major attacks on Tientsin and Peiping. Government Gen. Fu Tso-Yi rushed reinforcements to Tangshan but neutral military observers in Nanking gave the Nationalists little chance of being able to stave off the expected Communist attacks on north China's two largest cities.

Government spokesmen claimed a Red attack from the south towards Peiping had been stopped at Tsomtsien despite reports that government troops had evacuated Shunyih on the Peiping-Kupehkow railroad. Shunyih is 25 miles north of Peiping.

Military sources in Nanking said that the fighting north of Pengpu was shifting eastward on the plains above the capital where 300,000 government troops are

HST To Discuss Aid For China

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP) — President Truman said briefly today he will discuss possible U. S. aid to China when he receives Madame Chiang Kai-Shek at five o'clock tea tomorrow.

That, he said, is what Madame Chiang is coming to see him about.

But the President gave reporters no inkling of his views — whether favorable or cool — on Madame Chiang's unofficial mission to seek help for Communist-threatened China.

Britain Unable To Help

Mr. Truman told his news conference it remains to be seen whether he will have further talks with the generalissimo's wife after their session over the teacups at Blair house, the temporary White House, tomorrow.

American diplomatic officials generally have made it clear that for a complex variety of reasons, they frown on extending all-out aid to China. This was echoed in London today by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin who declared that Britain is in no position to do "anything very material" for China.

Chinese officials have indicated that Madame Chiang would ask Mr. Truman for $3,000,000,000 over a three-year period and the

Rep. Bracewell Of Houston Resigns From Legislature

AUSTIN, Dec. 9 (AP) — Rep. Searcy Bracewell of Houston today resigned from the 51st legislature, and acting Gov. Allan Shivers set Jan. 8 as the date for a special election to fill the vacancy in place 3, district 19.

Bracewell's resignation was taken as an indication he will run for the state senate office from which Mrs. Lacy Stewart of Houston resigned today. The special election to fill the 16th district vacancy was called for Jan. 8 by Gov. Beauford H. Jester earlier today.

Mrs. Stewart gave "personal matters" as her reason for resigning, Gov. Jester said. Her term would have run until January, 1951.

THE Germans had now suffered an unbroken series of major defeats. Beginning with the bloody repulse in the enemy's abortive Ardennes assault, the Allied avalanche had continued to inflict upon him a series of losses and defeats of staggering proportions.

There was no atom of reason or logic in prolonging the struggle. In both the east and the west strong forces were now operating in the homeland of Germany. The Ruhr, the Saar, and Silesia were all lost to the enemy His remaining industries, dispersed over the central area of the country, could not possibly support his armies still attempting to fight.

Appeal Made To Germans

On March 31, I issued a proclamation to the German troops and people, urging the former to surrender and the latter to begin planting crops. I described the hopelessness of their situation and told them that further resistance would only add to their future miseries.

No. 24

My purpose was to bring the whole bloody business to an end. But the hold of Hitler on his associates was still so strong and was so effectively applied elsewhere, through the medium of the Gestapo and SS, that the nation continued to fight.

Field Marshal Model commanded the German forces in the Ruhr pocket. He first attempted to break out of the encirclement by an attack toward the north, and he was defeated. A similar attempt toward the south was equally abortive, and the German

Reds Charge Air Violations

By RICHARD S. WEIL
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Dec. 9—Anglo-American pilots poured 6,312 tons of supplies — the second highest daily record—into Russian-blockaded Berlin today amid Soviet charges of U.S. aerial safety violations.

The United States officer at the four-power air safety office politely but firmly rejected the Soviet complaint that on 15 occasions American planes flew too low in the air corridor.

A Russian note "requested" that future American flights keep an altitude of approximately 3,000 feet regardless of weather.

Personnel Congratulated

The Russians were told that American pilots had been instructed always to abide by the flight rules and would continue to do so.

Clearing skies enabled the western pilots to land the 6,312 tons in 758 flight in a 24-hour period ending at noon.

The record of 6,986 tons was made Sept. 18, but that was a special occasion celebrating U.S. Air Force day.

Maj. Gen. William H. Tunner, U.S. commander of the air lift task force, congratulated all personnel on today's haul of food and coal to supply more than 2,000,000 western Berliners whose ground routes are cut by the Russians.

Bitter Quarrels Break Out

Bitter quarreling broke out between the legal western-backed Berlin city government and the rump regime set up by the Russians in their sector over the severance of mail service.

Mail, including gift parcels for westerners, is piling up in eastern sector post offices because of a Communist blockade established late Tuesday.

The Communist regime offered as a reason a charge that the western government had seized mail trucks belonging to it.

The Communists chose their hand-picked government hurriedly before last Sunday's western elections and it purports to speak for "all of Berlin."

Five Are Drowned In Philippines Typhoon

MANILA, Dec. 10, (Friday). (INS)—Five persons were reported drowned today in the wake of a typhoon which lashed northern Luzon Wednesday night.

Reports to Manila said that five fishermen lost their lives when their boat was run aground during the storm.

The typhoon caused widespread damage throughout several northern Luzon provinces and officials feared that the property loss might run to millions of dollars.

Manila and other heavily populated areas escaped the full force of the storm.

Kansas Town 'Blacked Out' By Explosion

(By The Associated Press)

TOPEKA, Kas., Dec. 9.—A series of explosions rocked the Kansas Power and Light company's main plant near here late today, killing at least seven workers and injuring 17 others.

Seven bodies were recovered and firemen continued to grope through the dense smoke and gas in search of workmen still unaccounted for.

(The International News Service reported that several other persons, possibly bringing the total of injured to 35, were given treatment as a result of the blast and that many others continued to aid in rescue work despite their injuries.)

Capital Is "Blacked Out"

The blasts, which began at 4:20 p. m. (EST) continued to rock the plant for 45 minutes. This state capital of 90,000 population was without electricity for several hours. Even late tonight power was only partially restored through an emergency hookup with other plants.

Seventeen workers were brought to hospitals here either suffering from injuries or shock. Cause of the explosions had not been determined but it was believed the boilers of the big steam installation had blown up.

At first it was believed 100 construction workers had been trapped but most of these had been accounted for late tonight by their company officials.

Blasts Shake Countryside

The dead, as identified by Sheriff Bill Coates' office: C. A. Allensworth, Alphonse Bryant, Charles Miller, Boy Hamby, A. W. Freel, C. H. Redenbaugh and Albert Sheahan, all of Topeka.

Ambulances, firefighters and doctors were rushed from Topeka to the plant five miles away at the little town of Tecumseh. It was several hours before rescue workers could venture far inside the 300-foot square building because of the smoke and gas which swathed it.

The sharp blasts shook the countryside. Mrs. L. L. Bacher, whose home is a quarter of a mile away from the plant, said the first explosion jarred her house with a terrific impact. Running outside, she heard the

Terms Of Two Men Suspended

Five-year sentences assessed after two defendants had pleaded guilty of felony indictment charges were suspended Thursday afternoon by Judge G. V. Pardue of the 99th district court.

The charges named Eless Adams, alias Blackie Adams, a 38-year-old negro, and James Trammel, 17, of Lorenzo.

Both waived a jury and entered their pleas before the court. Neither had been convicted of a felony offense earlier.

Court Has Busy Day

Adams was charged with assault with intent to kill his wife Lillie Bertha Adams Nov. 7. He was represented by Waggoner Carr.

Trammel was charged with burglary Nov. 23 of John's Service station, at 1504 Thirteenth, which is under control of J. G. Willbanks. The defendant was represented by Byron Chappell.

The court had a busy day. At the morning session, Judge Pardue accepted pleas of guilty of two defendants in a total of four cases, arraigned one defendant on a murder charge, and denied a new trial motion made by another person recently convicted of murder.

Three Sentences Imposed

Henry Neal McKay, 30, of Lubbock was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary on each of three burglary indictments when he waived a jury and pleaded guilty before the court.

The terms will be concurrent. To run with the three years will be a two-year sentence recently imposed in Lynn county, also for burglary.

McKay admitted burglary of

IN SUIT ON TRADE MARK

Plans For Five Lubbock Stores Claimed Made By Grocery Firm

As far back as 1940, Safeway Stores planned to locate five grocery stores in Lubbock and had not the war interfered would have been operating the stores today, two witnesses in the trade name infringement suit of Safeway Stores versus B. M. Taylor et al testified in Federal court Thursday. Taylor operates Saveway stores here.

The witnesses, both for the plaintiff, were: W. D. Cockrill, Oakland, Calif., manager of the huge grocery chain's locating and planning department; and Sam McIntosh, Dallas, realty manager of the Dallas zone.

Had Visited Here

McIntosh testified he visited Lubbock in 1940 along with W. E. Williams, Abilene district manager; and E. T. Compere, Abilene realty broker. He said they inspected various locations and competitive locations and that three years later, in 1943, he decided on five 'theoretical locations' here.

He said the trio also visited Lamesa, Tahoka and Brownfield. Brownfield's location was the southeast corner of Hardin and fourth streets and Lamesa's location the northeast corner of Houston and South First streets.

Cockrill testified that the Safeway company started a nationwide plan in 1939 of acquiring sites and locating stores in cities over the nation well in advance of the start of operations in those cities.

Identifies Map

He then identified a location map of Lubbock, which he said was prepared in 1943, showing location of five "theoretical pins" where stores would have been placed.

The locations were: northwest corner of Broadway and Ave. L; northwest corner of Eighteenth and Ave. H; northwest corner of Nineteenth and Ave. V; southwest corner of Thirty-third and Ave. Q and northwest corner of Broadway and Ave. T.

Cockrill testified that prior to start of actual purchases that other checks were made on locations and slight changes were made. He said, however, that there had been no revision in Lubbock's map.

Testifies Before Recess

Cockrill's testimony came just before recess for the lunch hour this morning. He followed Drummond Wild, also of Oakland, general attorney for the company, on the stand.

Wild, who also testified Wednesday, was questioned at length by both plaintiff and defense counsel regarding various ramifications of the gigantic national grocery chain, which last year did more than a billion dollars worth of business in 2,250 stores.

Wild testified regarding holding companies, operating companies, subsidiaries, divisions of companies, total sales, advertising budget, processing plants, packing plants, canning plants, warehouses, etc. A total of more than 60 exhibits of stores, photostatic copies of newspaper ads, financial reports, contracts, lease agreements and various other documents have been entered by both sides in the trial.

Defendant Testifies

Taylor, the defendant along with Mrs. Eula P. Hardesty, testified Tuesday and Wednesday.

Cecil Morgan and A. B. Culbertson, Fort Worth and Vickers and Vickers of Lubbock, are attorneys for the defendants. Pat Coon, Dallas and James Milam and Geo. W. Dupree are plaintiff's attorneys.

A permanent injunction from use of the name Saveway and accounting of profits are being sought in the action.

Federal Judge Joe B. Dooley is hearing the non-jury case.

New Chemical Process Found To Sharply Cut Tooth Decay

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Dr. Bernard Gottlieb of Dallas, has perfected a process which may reduce tooth decay by more than 90 per cent.

Dr. Leon Lieber, a member of the orthodonita department of Sydenham hospital said yesterday that Gottlieb's "chemical topcoat" involves application of a 40 per cent solution of zinc chloride to all exposed surfaces of the teeth for a period of one minute.

"Then, one minute later, a 20 per cent solution of potassium ferrocynide is applied over the first solution with another applicator. That is all there is to it," he said

One Dead, 16 Hurt In Two Car Wrecks

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—One soldier was killed and 16 persons were injured last night in two separate highway accidents which involved nine cars.

Both occurred—about an hour apart—on U. S. Highway 90, east of San Antonio.

The only fatality was Corp. Pedro Cabrero of Fort Sam Houston, in the second crash.

Authorities said an automobile driven by Pfc. G. E. Moody struck Cabrero's parked car and glanced off, crashing into an oncoming car and causing still another approaching vehicle to pile up.

They said Moody was accompanied by Miss Jeppie Hinson, 19, and the couple was enroute to Seguin to be married.

Six persons were injured earlier when five cars were involved in a similar pileup, not far away on the same road.

U.S. Drops Plans For Breaking Up Japs' Industrial Combines

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — The United States threw overboard today its controversial plan for breaking up Japan's industrial combines.

The decision was announced to the 11-nation Far Eastern commission with the explanation that the proposal is "outmoded" and that its aims already have been largely carried out by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the Japanese government.

The commission, which sets the Allies' basic policies for the occupation of Japan handed Soviet Russia a 10 to 1 rebuff at the same session. It turned down a Soviet proposal for a new system of international control to prevent revival of Japan's war industry while permitting unlimited development of civilian industries.

Congress Hits Plan

Representatives of the other Pacific Allies supported the American contention that such a declaration is unnecessary and also would conflict with a future peace treaty.

The abandoned American program, known as FEC 230, was submitted to the commission by the U. S. 19 months ago. Some features were criticized in Congress as "socialistic." It detailed measures for breaking up the Japanese "saibatsu" system of controlling trade and industry through holding companies, interlocking directorates and family groups.

The decision to withdraw American support apparently forecast a greater emphasis on the recovery of Japan and less on decentralization of industry as an end in itself.

Project Incomplete

However, Major General Frank R. McCoy told the commission in announcing the decision that "the dissolution of certain Japanese combines and a widening in the distribution of the income and ownership of Japanese industry" continues to be a "fundamental objective of the occupation."

MacArthur and the Tokyo government, he said, have been able to speed up materially the breaking up of the combines as directed by basic postwar policies both of the commission and the United States. Acknowledging that the effort to broaden the basis of Japan's industry is not yet completed, McCoy declared adoption of the proposal might do more harm than good.

Other officials said the decision resulted from months of "soul searching" review within the government and in MacArthur's headquarters.

HONEST MAN

Customer Returns Store's Lost Funds

PARIS, Dec. 9. (AP)—Glenn Henry, Paris resident, thought the pair of pants and shirt he bought at a store here last night were pretty heavy.

Unwrapping the package at home, he found more than $1,000 in currency and silver.

Henry hurried back to the store where he found the personnel in a dither over loss of most of the day's receipts. A clerk had accidentally wrapped the money in Henry's parcel, bought at closing time.

The grateful store owner made Henry a gift of the clothing and dubbed him Paris' most honest man in 1948.

Japanese Diet And Cabinet Blamed For Labor Unrest

TOKYO, Dec. 9. (AP)—A spokesman for allied headquarters labor division today blamed the Japanese diet and cabinet for labor strikes threatening Japan's industrial program.

He said failure of the Japanese government to balance its budget and hold down prices has resulted in calls for four strikes to enforce demands for wage increases.

Threatening to quit work are unions of Japanese seamen, communications workers, electrical workers and coal miners. The communications workers are government employes. There's a law against their striking, but union leaders say they will defy the law if wage boosts are not granted.

Mexican Engineer Blames Reds For Headon Crash Of Trains

TOLUCA, Mexico, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—The engineer of a national railways train which crashed headon into another train Nov. 16 has blamed "Communists" for the crash, it was reported today.

The crash of the Mexico City-St. Louis-bound Azetc Eagle with a local train killed none but seriously injured several. Guillermo Fernandez Flores, the engineer, charged "a sinister cell of Communists in the national railways will complete its mission of carrying the line to chaos if the cell is not exterminated first."

Guillermo is being tried for negligence of duty.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

A STUDY (we are careful about use of the word "poll") indicates this: 70 per cent of the people keep Christmas gifts they don't like because of sentiment; 62 per cent of the women like to be surprised with a gift; 42 per cent of the men like to be consulted first.

"SWEET" YULE BOXES

IDEAL to give for Christmas are taffies and chocolate nut bars of your own making. Pack them prettily in boxes which will be useful after the "sweets" are gone.

This is a suggestion you will find inexpensive and easy to follow. Both the taffies and chocolate bars are easy to make and less expensive than most sweets. In the taffy you use sweetened condensed milk and in the bars, evaporated milk. These dairy products are always economical.

THE stores have an excellent variety of containers to use in the refrigerators and there are transparent crochet and knitting boxes galore. Shop for them in the housewares departments and at handicraft counters.

Such gifts are ideal for the hard-to-please friends on your list. Too, they will please the neighbors. For donations to the church or club bazaar. They are perfect and deliver a few to the hospital. If the patients cannot eat the sweets themselves, they will like having them to return the "Merry Christmas" of those who stop in with holiday cheer.

RECIPE

SPEAKING of confections, here is a repeat on a recipe that appeared here several years ago. Since we do not keep files of our column we'd lost it but Mrs. J. O. Morgan came to the rescue.

As we originally stated, these orange sugared nuts may be a welcome change from salted nuts.

Boil one and one-half cups sugar with one-half cup orange juice until the soft ball stage is reached. Remove from fire and add two cups nuts (pecans, walnuts or unsalted peanuts; whatever your choice is) and one teaspoon grated orange rind.

Beat until the mixture becomes cloudy and then drop on waxed paper or a greased pan or plate. Either shape as pralines or cut as fudge.

PREVENTING FIRES

TWO precautions would prevent most Christmas tree fires, the National Safety Council says. Be sure light strings are in good condition with no broken insulation or loose sockets. Keep the tree in a water-containing holder and keep it filled.

LOST DEPT.

LINDA MARSH, member of the Amarillo A Capella choir, lost a silver antique necklace at the High school Wednesday night. Naturally she hopes the one who found it will turn it in to the Symphony office or write to her. Linda's mother had worn it when she was a girl.

AND Mrs. M. Caton, telephone 9759, lost a heavy sterling silver earring in town. Because of its sentimental value, she is anxious to get the jewelry back.

Today's Town Talk

MISS Ruth Ford entertained with a dinner at the Lubbock Country club Thursday at 7:30 p. m. for Elizabeth Stanley and her friends. Little boxes of thank you notes were individual favors.

Guests were Jane Austin, Dorothy Kennedy, Sammy Dunn, Zita Martin, Christine Toles, Mari Ruth Sims, Evelyn Burks, Elizabeth, Mrs. H. D. Stanley and Miss Ford.

Employes and their wives of Haynes and Kirby, Architects, attended a company Christmas dinner Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the Country club.

Places were set for about 30 persons and table decorations were centerpieces of holly, red carnations and red candles.

The unusual in Christmas decorations can be found this year in the W. M. Ryan home, 2018 Seventeenth.

On her mantel Mrs. Ryan has arranged three Christmas trees made of paper dolies and Christmas tree balls in graduated sizes. Successive layers of blue, silver, pink, green and gold balls are fastened to balloon sticks which have cork as a base. Separating the color layers are dolies.

On the piano is a snow tree decorated with pink ornaments, and on the wall behind it is a complimenting picture.

Continuing a 20-year-old tradition, faculty members of the Tech education department and their families will have an old fashioned Christmas turkey dinner Saturday night in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Cooper, 2024 Seventeenth.

Although guests are usually limited to the families of the staff members, this year Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Wiggins, and Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Jones and children will attend the party.

Each family is assigned a dish to prepare for the feast, which is always held on Saturday night. Then on Sunday everyone gathers again at noon to polish off the leftovers. Staff members alternate in having the dinner at their home from year to year. Parties are kept informal and are always "lots of fun," according to all reports. Gifts are exchanged and carols add a real holiday atmosphere to the event.

Every year when the group meets to decide who will bring what, Dr. R. E. Garlin, professor and head of the Tech education and psychology department, always says "We will cook the turkey" (meaning Mrs. Garlin, will do the work, of course.) He especially likes the way his wife prepares turkeys.

Lubbock High school Mary Emma club will present their "ideal man" at a semi-formal banquet to be given in the Hilton hotel at 7 o'clock tonight.

At the Central Ward faculty Christmas dinner at Hilton hotel this week, the table was centered with a seasonal arrangement of silvered spruce and pine cones and metallic balls illumined by blue tapers. Individual places were marked by cards in the blue and silver motif.

The following faculty members and guests gathered around a lighted Christmas tree for a gift exchange: Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Denham; Clyde Gee; Mesdames Elois Elliott, Cleo Hall, J. T. Shaver, Margaret Bailey; and Misses Anna Casey, Martha Mathis, Marya Hooten, Hattie Herm and Bess Lewis.

Gift Party Honors Mrs. W. W. Brown

Mrs. Douglas Adams and Miss Verna Crump gave a kitchen shower Tuesday night in the home of the former, 1912 Fourteenth, in honor of Mrs. William W. Brown, the former Miss Flossie Burkholder.

Games of bridge were played. Guests were Mesdames Lorenz Ellis, Harmon Jenkins, Anna Burt Gibson, Lloyd Ross, J. B. Snelling, Harlan Dowell, O. E. Lanham, Marie Coyle and Miss Gertrude Camp.

Newcomers At Party

Tech Newcomers club Christmas party held Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. H. F. Godeke at 3001 Twenty-first was attended by 32 persons including five new members, Mesdames F. P. Kallina, H. G. Fry, H. E. Mizell, Ruth Russell and R. J. Yantis.

Mrs. L. E. Parsons presented a chalk talk on the Baby Jesus and Mary, assisted by Mrs. S. F. Shatter who sang "Lullaby of the Hills," "Sweet Little Jesus Boy" and "Gesu Bambino," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. H. O'Connell.

Hostesses with Mrs. Godeke were Mesdames C. C. Schmidt, J. C. Hardgrave and O. A. St. Clair.

Christmas cookies, coffee and cranberry wassail were served from a lace covered table arranged with silver appointments and centered with red berries and candles.

Christmas Spirit Of Child Discussed By Dr. Norvel Young

Dr. M. Norvel Young of the Broadway Church of Christ talked on "The Child and His Christmas Spirit" at a meeting of Unit 4 of the AAUW Child Study group Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. L. P. Bennett, 2431 Twenty-seventh. Mesdames Frank Cook, M. W. Warren and Francis McWilliams were hostesses.

A question and answer period followed the talk.

Mr. Bennet was a guest.

Members present were Mesdames O. B. Haught, Hunter Bryant, Henry Buell, Cecil Brashear, Howard Keith, R. T. Mangum, Ralph Wallace, John Blakey, B. J. Welch, Owen Caskey, W. H. McKelvey, Leo Baggett and O. B. Hull.

Tea Given At Terrys

Yellow and green, chosen bridal colors of Miss Jewell Alice Pharr, decorated the living and dining rooms at the home of Mrs. O: A Terry, 2111 Twenty-ninth, Thursday afternoon when the young bride-elect was complimented at a gift tea.

Hostesses were Mesdames Terry, Ance English and J. G. Porter and members of the house party were Mesdames Vernon Brown, Homer L. Pharr, mother of the honoree, Rayburn Pharr, E. G. Pharr, E. R. McCune and Miss Betty Ruth Cobb.

Mrs. C. H. Cale played piano selections during the calling hours and accompanied Mrs. Emil D' Acosta as she sang and Miss Marya Hooten as she played violin numbers.

A heart shaped arrangement of yellow roses, edged with fern and green net and centered with a cupid figurine, decorated the refreshment table. Miss Pharr's name and that of her fiance, Robert E. Dawson, were lettered on the arrow which pierced the cupid's heart. A buffet decoration was of yellow roses and a mantel piece was composed of a miniature bride and bridegroom standing before an archway.

Approximately 40 persons called from 3:30 until 5 o'clock.

Dallas Writer Frozen On This One

When It Comes To Northers, There Are Different Kinds

ABILENE, Dec. 9. (AP)—You can't have a wet norther, a blue norther and an Amarillo blizzard all at once, Mr. Barnard.

That's the sage advice of Editor Frank Grimes of the Abilene Reporter News. He's a veteran of 34 West Texas winters—and a lot more of the milder Bell county variety.

He good naturedly takes to task Bill Barnard, Associated Press staff writer at Dallas. Barnard wrote a story Tuesday explaining the vagaries of Texas' strange weather this winter, which has been dry but not too cold.

Slightly Confused

In his story Barnard observed that what Texas needs is "northers from the north, dripping wet, blue northers, with a special blizzard for Amarillo."

In an editorial in today's Reporter News, Grimes chides Barnard to wit:

"Now, now, William, one thing at a time. You can't have a wet norther, a blue norther and a blizzard at one and the same time.

"A blue norther isn't wet, but dry. It strikes with the suddenness and deadliness of a King Cobra in the middle of a balmy afternoon, and the mercury drops out of the bottom of the thermometer.

"A wet norther, now, is wet. It can be with or without icing conditions.

"A blizzard is a blizzard is a blizzard," Grimes concluded with a shiver.

Losses In Blizzard Set At $3 Million

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 9. (INS)—H. L. Collins, federal-state agricultural statistician, today raised estimates of Kansas livestock losses in the Nov. 18-19 blizzard to three million dollars.

Collins said 10,000 cattle froze in the deep snow drifts.

Earlier estimates had placed the loss at 5,600 head of cattle.

Sheep losses were estimated at 45,000 to 50,000 head.

Court Will Study Appeal Of Attorney Fined For Contempt

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — The supreme court today took under advisement the appeal of an East Texas attorney who was fined $100 and sentenced to three days in jail for contempt of court.

Neither Judge F. P. Adams of Jasper county, Texas, nor the lawyer, Joe J. Fisher, appeared before the high court as it reviewed the case. With the court's permission, R. Dean Moorhead, of Austin, counsel for Fisher, presented both sides, saying his remarks would be "explanatory."

Fisher was held in contempt when he took exception to one of Judge Adams' rulings in a compensation suit in a state district court.

Judge Adams had ruled the amount of money involved in the suit could not properly be mentioned to the jury. Moorhead said Fisher took exception and tried to reframe his questions whereupon Judge Adams as quoted by Moorhead, said:

"I will declare a mistrial if you mess with me two minutes and a half, and fine you besides."

Moorhead said Fisher replied, "That is all right. We take exception to the conduct of the court."

Judge Adams then held Fisher in contempt and fined him $25, Moorhead continued, and further remarks were exchanged in which the fine was increased to $50, leading to Fisher's saying "you know you have all the advantage of being on the bench."

It was then, the high court was told, that Judge Adams imposed the $100 fine and three-day jail sentence.

Fisher appealed to the Texas supreme court but it declined to issue a writ of habaes corpus. Moorehead said the issues had not yet been tried before any court other than that of Judge Adams, who failed to be reelected last summer.

He contended the contempt charge was based not on the particular remarks made by Fisher but on his taking exception to Adams' ruling.

The alleged offense, Moorehead explained, was that Fisher "deliberately persisted in improper jury argument" in trying to reframe his questions and bring out details which the judge had ruled were not admissible.

Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter said, however, that he believed Fisher's comments were at issue in the case.

"I think the remarks are uncouth and discourteous," Frankfurter observed.

Chief Justice Vinson and his associates on the bench spent considerable time discussing the tone and inflection Fisher used in his comments to Adams and the possible meaning of the word "mess" as used by the judge.

Lubbock Youth, Man Find Total of $321, Turn It In To Police

Money totaling $32.04 and a check for $289.59 had been found here and turned in to the police for returning to owners, it was announced Thursday afternoon.

Jean Norris, 14, found a girl's purse on a city bus. It contained $27.04. In it was an identification card indicating the owner is Elwanda Ethridge, described by police as a Senior High school student of 2315 Sanders.

JEAN NORRIS

William B. Miller, about 30, of Lubbock route 1, found a woman's purse containing a man's billfold and $5 in currency and a check for $289.59.

An identification card indicated ownership of Valente Valanos of Rockdale. The check apparently had been made in payment for cotton.

Police asked that owners call at the station and identify themselves and their properties.

Young Norris is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Dee T. Norris of 2720 Merthel, and is an eighth grade student of Junior High school. The father is a freight clerk for the Santa Fe Railway company.

Police expressed appreciation to the youth and to Miller "in behalf of the entire community—there would be no need for a police department here if everyone were as honest as you."

Working Would Be A Pleasure Now

Injured Man Keeps Busy At Hobby With Leather Goods

"I think working would be a pleasure now," said Ray Walton, who has been unable to work since his back was injured Sept. 29, 1947.

"People take good health as routine," he said. "They don't think how good it is to be healthy."

The 29-year-old veteran missed three and one-half years from civilian work while in the Army. Adding that to time he is missing while recuperating from his injury, he expects to miss about five and one-half years from civilian work.

"People ought to be glad they have the chance to work," he said.

Time has hung heavily on his hands at times and he now is learning a hobby, through help of the Red Cross.

Finds Work Interesting

Miss Emma Morrison from Ralls, applied arts senior in Texas Technological college, is teaching him leather tooling and he finds the work interesting and expects to enjoy the hobby. Miss Morrison is training to be an occupational therapist.

She agreed to teach leather tooling to the injured man after a neighbor of Walton telephoned the Red Cross to ask if such instruction could be arranged. The Red Cross telephoned Miss Martye Poindexter, head professor of applied arts at the college.

Really Wants To Learn

"He certainly is interested. He really wants to learn," said Miss Morrison, who goes to the Walton home on Forty- seventh, near Slaton highway, once a week.

Walton hopes to go back to work in a few months, if "everything goes perfectly." He will not, however, go back into the carpentering he was doing before his back was injured. He will be in the insurance business. Because of his back injury, he does not expect to be able to do the physical labor connected with carpenter's work.

On Sept. 29, 1947, he was holding a wheelbarrow while concrete was dumped into it from a concrete mixer. When the weight of the concrete pushed the front of the wheelbarrow down, he held the handles and three vertebrae in his back were torn loose.

He wore a brace, hoping the injury would heal. On Sept. 10 of this year, a Fort Worth bone specialist performed surgery, taking bone from Walton's leg and transferring it to his back alongside the three vertebrae. "He froze the three vertebrae," said Walton, explaining that a solid piece of bone will be the result. He stayed in Fort Worth seven weeks.

Convalescence from an injury gives one plenty of time to think, he said. "It changes your ideas a lot, too. You think of things when you get slowed down like this. A person making a living goes in such a fast speed that he doesn't stop and figure things out. When I was working, I'd work eight or 10 hours and then I'd come in and build this house."

He built the house in which he and his wife and their four-year-old son, Dennis Ray, live.

Houston Negro Charged With Murder After Prison Slaying

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—A 21-year-old Houston negro was charged with murder today after the stabbing of another negro convict at the Wynne prison farm.

Robert Lee Lewis, serving a 55-year sentence for criminal assault, robbery by assault, burglary and theft, was charged with the murder of Norice Williams, 27-year-old Fayette county negro, who was killed as he slept in his bunk.

Williams entered the prison in May, 1944, to serve a 30-year sentence for murder.

At the last meeting of the state prison board, members voted a policy of state court prosecution of all offenses committed by convicts while in prison.

Funeral Services Held Here For Texas Tech Professor

Cross, a Tech graduate who had been a member of the college faculty at intervals since 1936, died Wednesday morning in West Texas hospital after a serious illness of two weeks.

AID PROGRAM EMPHASIZED

Scoggin-Dickey Buick Co. To Display New Home, New Buicks

Scoggin-Dickey Buick company this weekend is staging a twin showing—of its new home at 1917-27 Texas avenue and the new 1949 Buick models.

The new property fronting 240 feet on Texas avenue, contains the major building, a body shop and parking area covering 33,250 square feet. Constructed of brick, tile, steel and concrete, the main building covers 17,250 square feet and represents the latest in construction for buildings of its type.

"New Look" Displayed

The building makes a substantial addition to Lubbock's new "Auto Row" on Texas avenue and is one of the finest Buick sales and service units in the Southwest.

In showing the new models, Buick's "new look" will be displayed to the Lubbock public for the first time.

The new Buick's distinctive styling is highlighted by flowing full-length fenders, a lower, wider grille, full-vision curved windshield and rear window and functional, chrome-ringed "venti-ports" on front fenders for identification and cooling purposes.

TO SHOW NINE CARS

Buick's 11 new models include nine completely re-styled Super and Roadmaster cars. They are lower, wider and roomier with greatly-improved visibility through use of 22.8 per cent more glass in sedan models.

Nine cars will be displayed by Scoggin-Dickey in their formal opening, scheduled from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. Saturday and from 1 to 6 p. m. Sunday.

Cars Are Shortened

A three-inch reduction in wheelbase of the Super and Roadmaster models permits a propostionate cut in overall length to facilitate parking and storage. Although the cars are shorter, there is more room for passengers and luggage.

A new Roadmaster, the two-door six-passenger "Riviera," a solid-top custom coupe which offers the graceful lines of a convertible and a sturdy, all-steel, non-lowering top, will be in production next spring.

Buick's unique "no-shift, clutchless" Dynaflow drive transmission, introduced last January, is standard on 1949 Roadmasters and optional on Super series cars.

Major design and engineering improvements include:

A new, sturdier "turret top" body by Fisher of "unisteel" construction with thicker section door posts, more extensive use of "double walled" construction and husky "X-type frame."

New drive-centered instrument panel with all instruments and push-pull controls on left side.

Self-adjusting hydraulic valve lifters which keep valves correctly set and silent.

Installation of precision-type replaceable connecting rod bearings having greater durability.

Doors Swing Clear

New, concealed box-type hinges which permit front doors to swing out clear of the body; use of spring-set door checks and hold-opens that enable easier opening.

Complete new heating and ventilating unit.

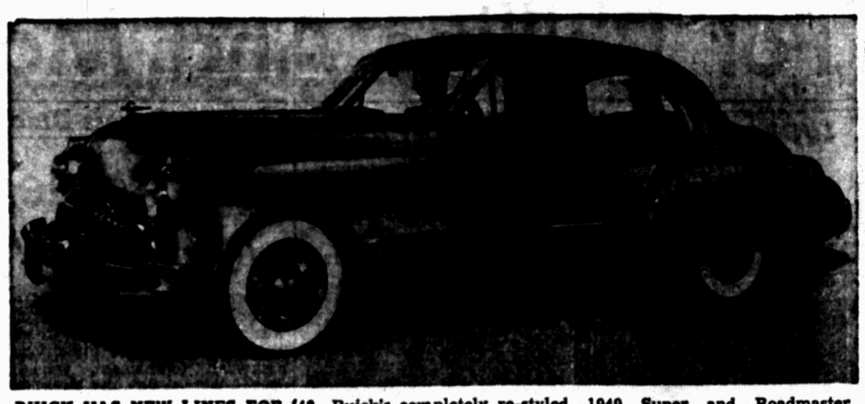

Wider front seats, more head room and three inches more leg room in rear-seat compartment.

Use of single-unit design rear lamps contoured into the afteredge of the rear fenders.

Buick's interior and exterior beauty is further enhanced by a wide variety of color and trim choices.

Six-passenger, four-door sedans, and six-passenger, two-door sedanets, offered in the Series 50 Super, Series 70 Roadmaster and Series 40 Special; and six-passenger convertible with hydraulically-operated top and six-passenger, four-door estate wagons are available in the Roadmaster and Super series. The six-passenger, two-door "Riviera" custom coupe is available in the Roadmaster models only.

BUICK HAS NEW LINES FOR '49—Buick's completely re-styled 1949 Super and Roadmaster models feature lower, wider and roomier bodies with greater visibility through use of 22.8 per cent more glass. The new models will be on display this week-end in Scoggin-Dickey Buick Company's new home at 1917-27 Texas avenue. Pictured above is the new four-door, six-passenger Super sedan.

Girl Dying A Few Weeks Ago Now Has New Lease On Life

BY BETTY HEINEMAN
United Press Staff Writer

COATESVILLE, Pa., Dec. 9.—Hope Hickey had a new lease on life today.

Three weeks ago, the frail, nine-year-old girl was dying of a rheumatic heart ailment. Her doctors said she had only a year to live.

Now she is on the threshold of health with a normal life before her, thanks to the Canadian Heart foundation and her father.

Public Appeal Made

When local physicians told Edward Hickey last month that there was no hope for his daughter, the father appealed publicly to medical men everywhere for aid.

Even if they could offer the girl no chance of life, he would let them perform any operation, prescribe any treatment—on the chance it might help other victims of the dread ailment.

Hickey's gamble won. Today, Hope, still frail but with the color of health back in her thin cheeks, is waiting for him in her room at London, Ontario, heart foundation where doctors gave her vitamin "E" treatments.

On Saturday, he will bring her home.

And her homecoming has changed all the plans for the coming holidays. The Hickeys hadn't figured on much of a Christmas this year.

"We weren't even going to have a tree," Mrs. Hickey said. "But now it will be the best Christmas we've ever had."

There might even be that bicycle that Hope always wanted. That was her big concern when she talked to her mother over the telephone earlier this week. Her parents promised one as soon as she is able to ride.

Hickey was almost ready to promise anything when he left here last night for London.

"It's like a miracle," he said jubilantly.

GOOD AND BAD

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The most lopsided victory ever scored by a Michigan State College football team was the 104 to 0 conquest of Hillsdale college in 1904. The worst beating the Spartans ever took was 119 to 0 by Michigan in 1902.

Good Weather Seen For Phillips And Monahans Tussle

Ticket Sales Are Moving Rapidly

Lubbock's first state Class A quarter-final game, to be played in Jones Stadium Saturday between Phillips and Monahans, probably will attract a crowd of over 10,000 persons, providing the weatherman cooperates.

The weather bureau here last night predicted nearly perfect weather for Saturday's feature, with only light breezes and temperatures in the high 60s and possibly 70s. It also should be a clear day, forecasters declared.

Jaycee officials yesterday were enthusiastic about the advanced sale of tickets. From initial sales in Lubbock alone, they estimated between 5,000 to 7,000 Lubbock football fans would see the game. Additional tickets are on sale in Littlefield, Levelland and Seminole, where reports are that the tickets are moving rapidly. In addition, requests are pouring in from all Class A football schools in the Panhandle and South Plains.

Don't Wait 'Till Saturday

Lubbock Jaycee officials, however, wish to emphasize that local grid fans should not wait until Saturday to buy tickets, or else they will cause a line jam at the stadium. There will be hundreds of persons from out of town trying to buy tickets the day of the game and an additional number of Lubbock fans will only make matters worse.

Although individual seats are not reserved, there will be a reserved seat section and tickets should be bought early to assure fans of good seats. Reserved seats sell at $1.50 each, while tickets for students, both public school and Texas Tech, are available at 50 cents each. Tickets may be bought at Wylie's Drug store, Hop Halsey's Drug store, McGuire's Drive-In, Tech's athletic office and the high school athletic office.

Both squads are busy polishing their offensive and defensive formations this week. Coach F. O. Scroggins of Monahans said that most of his attention was being given to tightening his defenses, which leaked badly against Ballinger last week. The Lobos won the game 33-28 in an offensive display, but Scroggins is filled with respect at Phillips' defensive record. The Blackhawks have given up only four touchdowns in 12 games and not more than one in any game. On the otherhand, Monahans has blanked six of its opponents.

Texas Lumber Bin Drubs Gasser Five

Four City Basketball league tilts were unreeled Thursday night, with the Texas Lumber Bin five drubbing the Plains Gassers, 45-28, in the feature tilt at the Senior High gymnasium. Wayne Covey tallied 13 points for the lumber Bin quint, while Eugene Shuey scored 12 for Plains.

In the other tilt at the Senior High floor, the Blue Flame Gassers trounced Hoyt Furniture, 35-24. Thomas George swished the net for 12 points and Glenn Quattlebaum notched six for Hoyt.

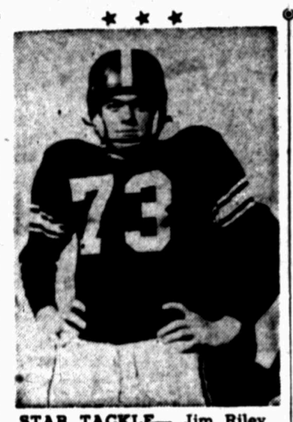

Two games were played at the O. L. Slaton Junior High gym, with Brown-Layco drubbing Trammell Magnolia, 43-20. Bill Wolf topped the winners with 13 points, while James Cowden tallied seven for Trammell.

Crawford Electric bested Hilton hotel, 36-18, as Bob Barkowsky hit the loop for 17 points. Carl Johnson paced the losers with six.

Wake Forest Gridders Stress Defense For Dixie Bowl Tilt

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Dec. 9. (AP)—Coach D. C. Walker sent his Wake Forest gridders through two hours of drills today, with the emphasis on defense.

Walker said his squad is still in A-1 shape for its New Year's Day tussle at Birmingham against Baylor in the Dixie Bowl.

STAR TACKLE— Jim Riley of Phillips at only 160 pounds, but he is one of Coach Chesty Walker's mainstays in the forward wall. He will be counted on to stop the thrusts of Ray Cathey and Waldo Young when the Blackhawks meet the Monahans Lobos Saturday afternoon in Jones Stadium here.

Matador Wins Tourney Game

MATADOR, Dec. 9. (Special)—Matador High school won a first round game here tonight on the second night of play in the Matador Invitational Basketball tournament, the Matadors turning in a 40-27 defeat of Lockney.

The Matador-Longhorn game was one of five boys games and two girls games that were played in the first round of the tourney that started here Wednesday night.

Other scores last night included Quitaque 20, Estelline 18; Spur 37, Turkey 34; Floydada 41, Kirkland 18; and Carey 41, Flomot 22. In the girls bracket, Flomot defeated Kirkland 34-9 and Spur beat Turkey 39-21.

Holcomb Paces Quitaque

Holcomb, with seven points, paced the Quitaque five to its close victory over Estelline, Quitaque winning the game in the closing minutes of play. Smith led the losers with six points.

Baker led Spur to victory with 10 points, but yielded scoring honors to Harris of Turkey, who had 12 tallies.

Giesecke paced the Matadors to their victory, scoring 14 points, while Don Bybee had 11 for the losers.

Burns Scores 21 Points

Carey rolled to victory on the unerring eye of Burns, who hit the hoops for 21 points, 11 more than Merritt scored for Flomot.

Johnson, with 14 points, led the Flomot girls to their win, while Atkinson had eight points for the losers. Curiously enough, the Atkinson brother and sister act ended with each scoring the same number of points for losing teams.

Durham was high scorer of the night in the girls bracket, hitting 18 points as Spur won, while Case had nine points for the losers.

Play continues today and tomorrow in the tourney.

Anton Cagers Roll Up 22-19 Victory Over Spade Quintet

ANTON, Dec. 9. (Special) — Spade and Anton cagers split two games here tonight, as the Anton boys rolled to a 22-19 victory and the Spade girls chalked up a 29-25 triumph.

Joyce Scott paced the Anton girls in the first tilt by tallying 10 points, while Greenwood scored nine for Spade. In the boys' clash, Glasscock tallied nine for Spade and Strutey connected for 13 for Anton.

REFINERS DOWN LITTRELL'S

LEVELLAND, Dec. 9. (Special) —Levelland Refiners won another basketball game here tonight, turning back Littrell's Service of Idalou 59-50. Virgil Johnson of Littrell was high scorer with 17 points. while Harold Thurman had 14 for the victors.

Happy Is Favored Over Idalou Team

TULIA, Dec. 9. (Special)—Two undefeated records will be at stake here at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon when the Idalou Wildcats, winners of District 4-B, and the Happy Cowboys of 2-B tangle for the regional schoolboy Class B grid championship.

The Cowboys, who edged Panhandle last week by a 12-6 margin for the bi-district crown, have been installed as one-touchdown favorites in the crucial encounter, despite the impressive record of the Wildcat eleven. Idalou nosed out Hale Center, 25-24, two weeks ago for the south bi-district title.

Cowboys In Top Shape

Tulia's Younger field was named as the site of the clash at a meeting of the rival coaches, Coach Lloyd Johnson of Idalou and Coach James Peterson of Happy, immediately following Happy's win over Panhandle. Both mentors agreed that the neutral site would be fair to both teams and sid fans of both schools.

Coach Peterson has reported that his Cowboys are in top shape for the game, but the situation is gloomy for the Idalou grid coach. Wildcat Halfback Alvin Joyner, 185-pound regular, will miss the tilt because of a broken leg, and Center Blacky Molynax is on the injury list. Tackle Sid Scoggins has two broken ribs and will not see action Friday.

High Scores Predicted

A high-scoring battle is predicted by area grid experts, since both teams boast excellent offensive records. The Wildcats have one of the top Class B backfield aces of the state in Donald Seale, who runs, passes and punts from the fullback slot. Seale, a 16-year-old, has completed 45 of 65 passes attempted this season and has averaged nearly 50 yards per punt.

Happy will field a well-balanced backfield group, with any one of four backs capable of going "all the way" on any play.

Happy holds a slight advantage on the basis of comparative scores, the records of the two teams indicate. Idalou was tied early in the 1948 slate by Kress, 13-13, and the same team was edged by Happy, 7-6.

Big Nine's Winter Meeting Scheduled

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (U.P.)—The Big Nine opens its regular winter meeting tomorrow with three items on the agenda which could make Western Conference history.

Major topics which faced the faculty representatives, athletic directors and football coaches were:

1. Decision by the faculty representatives whether to admit Michigan State as the tenth member of the league.

2. Approval, amendment or rejection by the faculty representatives of a new plan to tighten restrictions on scholarships held by athletes.

3. Preparation by athletic directors and football coaches of the grid schedules for 1950, 1951 and 1952.

It appeared that the major point affecting Michigan State's bid was whether the faculty representatives have become convinced that the league could be stronger as a 10 team loop again. Although most representatives decline to discuss their position, it was understood that Minnesota was the strongest supporter of the Spartan case.

PAGE EIGHT. LUBBOCK, TEX., FRIDAY, DECEMBER, 10, 1948

MORE THAN A NIBBLE—When you're fishing, you keep your eyes on the bait and this young miss from Boone County, Iowa, holds a catfish proudly to show that she followed the advice while fishing in the Des Moines river. It isn't easy to keep your eye on the catfish, which is the bait in this case. This summer picture still is handy to guard against the chill nights approaching.

Action On Expansion, Tech Expected

Morgan, Jennings To Attend SWC Meet

Texas Tech will be well represented at the meetings of Southwest Conference committees which will be held today and tomorrow in Dallas, when the primary question of whether the Lubbock institution will be admitted to membership in the conference will be discussed and in all probability acted upon.

Officially representing Tech at the meetings will be Dell Morgan, head football coach, and Morley Jennings, athletic director. They always attend the meetings of coaches and athletic directors respectively in order to fill athletic schedules. In addition, they also keep posted on eligibility requirements and similar information, which is given at that time.

In an unofficial capacity, Bill McMillan also will be present for the meetings. The Lubbock contractor, a former Texas A & M athlete, is one of three SWC college graduates living here who have led the fight this year to obtain membership for Tech.

The other two members of the committee, Tom Duggan, Jr., and Bill Evans, both lawyers, have decided that they will not attend so that no accusation of high pressure can be levelled.

At the same time, Clark Shooley, sports publicity director, and Frank Junell, administrative assistant to the president, also will be in Dallas. Primarily, both men are making the trip to Ft. Worth to attend a publicity director's meeting and will reside in Ft. Worth during the meeting. But both will go by way of Dallas to attend the conference meetings in an unofficial capacity.

Clayton Leads Spearman

The question of whether the SWC will expand is one of the principal topics on the conference agenda. A special committee was appointed at the spring meeting to investigate the possibility of expansion. The committee already has indicated that it will make no recommendation whatsoever to the conference.

While there is optimism in some quarters about the chances for Tech's being voted into membership, press releases from Dallas indicate that Tech will not be voted in. This action probably would be taken indirectly, the conference side-stepping the Tech issue and voting strictly on the question whether to expand or not.

Hardin - Simmons university of Abilene, another Border Conference member, also has made application for membership in the SWC. They probably will be represented by Warren Woodson, head football coach and athletic director, as well as other members.

A decision on whether Texas Tech and/or Hardin - Simmons will be voted into membership probably will rest until final meetings Saturday morning. If Tech is admitted, it would climax six applications and 21 years of trying.

Westerner Quintet Gains First Round Win In Borger Tourney

BORGER, Dec. 9 (Special)—Lubbock High's fast-breaking Westerners gained a first-round victory in the Borger Invitational basketball tournament, which opened here today, by drubbing Class B Spearman, 44-30.

The tall and speedy Westerners went ahead early in the tilt on a series of push shots by Forwards Charles Galey and Jesse Fullerton, then boosted the count to 20-13 at halftime.

The Westerners, undefeated this season, surged back to tally 24 points in the second half and clinch the meet victory.

Wilson Paces Offensive

Big Jim Wilson, the Westerners' giant center, paced the Lubbock offense with a total of 18 points on eight field goals and two free shots. Wilson hit four of his field goals in the final quarter to take high point honors for the tussle.

Galey collected nine points on four field goals and a single charity toss in the brief period that he saw action, hampered by a foot injury, and Fullerton and Guard Morris Turner each scored seven points.

Spearman was kept in the ball game during the first half by the sharpshooting of Guard Wally Cayton. The veteran cager hit the loop for six field goals and a free shot to score 13 points during the encounter.

The victory boosted the Westerners into the semi-final round of the meet. The Lubbock quint draws a bye in the second round Friday, but will play again Saturday afternoon. Championship game of the tourney is scheduled Saturday night.

Other first round winners included Borger's Bulldogs, who trounced Quanah of District 2-AA by a 53-20 margin, and McLean, which coasted over Perryton by a 36-27 count.

Baksi, Charles Tangle Tonight

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (INS)—There's an old adage of the prize ring which says that a "worthy contender" for the heavyweight championship never dies — he merely ossifies. And, for some reason or other, this has served to remind everyone that the indefatigible Joe Baksi is going to fight Ezzard Charles at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

It will be 1948-49's opening of the championship round-robin season and, if both principals don't wind up getting the "bird," then tradition will be flouted, and precedent ignored.

All the trappings and fripperies of high-pressure exploitation are being trotted out in an attempt to achieve a gala occasion. For one thing, the championship distance of 15 rounds is in order.

For another, the Joe Louis date in June has been covertly hinted at as the winner's reward.

Yet the records show that Baksi hasn't been considered good enough to "play" the Garden time since 1945, while Charles made a losing fight with a character named Elmer Ray in his debut there a year ago. The tapering fragile-looking Cincinnati negro, in fact, has spent 11 years in the prize ring and is only now getting up around 180 pounds.

However, Charles has been winning ever since his garden loss and scored a later knockout over Ray. He is considered hotter than a stove lid right now.

Villemain, Lamotta Fight Is Postponed

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (INS)—New York boxing got its second fight cancellation in 24 hours today.

The scheduled Jan. 7 fight between Robert Villemain, leading French middleweight, and Jake LaMotta of New York, was postponed indefinitely because of a reported injury to LaMotta's right hand.

The 20th Century Sporting Club announced that is is seeking Steve Belloise as a substitute for LaMotta against the Frenchman.

Belloise's scheduled bout with welterweight champion Ray Robinson in Jersey City tonight was postponed yesterday when Robinson reported he had injured a rib in training.

Abernathy, New Deal Cagers Meet In Double Bill Tonight

Abernathy's cage teams will invade the New Deal school for two tilts tonight, a boys' game and a girls' tussle, starting at 7:15 o'clock.

Earlier this week the Abernathy boys took a 33-20 victory over the New Deal quint, but the New Deal girls rolled to a 31-23 triumph over the Abernathy representatives. The New Deal girls have won 10 of 11 games played this season.

Stranahan Leads In Miami Open

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 9. (AP)—One of the nation's leading amateurs and an unknown professional led the field in the opening round of the 25th annual $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament today.

Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and Stan Straszowski, Winsted, Conn., professional, shot four under par 66's to lead the field over the 6,735-yard par 70 Miami Springs course.

Seventeen others broke par in the first day's battle for $2,000 top money, among them the favorite, Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Defending champion Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., came in with even par, one of a dozen to equal regulation figures. One stroke back of Stranahan and Straszowski were professionals George Bolesta, Tampa, Fla.; Tony Penna, Cincinnati, and Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans.

BOWLING

Sears-Roebuck keglers took two of three games from Cunnyngham's to move into a deadlock for the top spot in the Business Bowling league this week.

In other loop tilts the City Employers won two games from Reeves Insurance, Carl Maxey's crew won two settos from West Texas Gas and Household Supply gained two decisions over Hub Laundry.

The league standings:

TEAMS	WON	LOST
Cunnyngham's	24	15
Sears-Roebuck	24	15
Carl Maxey	21	18
City Employes	20	19
Hub Laundry	18	21

Household Supply	17	22
Reeves Insurance	15	24

Lubbock Cowhands Take Win In Roosevelt Cage Tourney

Most first-round games in the Roosevelt basketball tourney were unreeled Thursday, with the Lubbock Cowhands taking an initial win in the boys bracket. The Cowhands edged New Home, 28-21, in the only tilt played in the boys' division.

In the division for the girls' teams, Lorenzo nosed out Frenship, 36-35; Roosevelt drubbed Slaton, 38-14; and Whiteface dropped New Home, 37-29.

First round games will be completed this afternoon, then second round play will get underway tonight at the Roosevelt gym.

Twenty Schoolboy Games Slated

Two Semi-Final Tilts Saturday

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Twenty games this week-end will bring the football season to a close for two divisions and send two others into their semi-final round in Texas schoolboy football.

Arlington Heights of Fort Worth and Lamar of Houston, each undefeated but once tied, battle at Fort Worth Saturday for the City Conference state championship. Arlington Heights is favored over a crippled Lamar eleven. A crowd of 17,000 is expected to turn out as the City Conference determines its first title.

Denison and Breckenridge clash at Denison Friday afternoon in the first of four games in class AA. Saturday afternoon undefeated untied Amarillo will be at Odessa; unbeaten, untied Waco at Texarkana and undefeated, untied Port Arthur at Austin. The biggest crowd is due at Austin where 21,000 may see the state title favorites meet twice-beaten but resurging Austin.

Amarillo Favored

Breckenridge, Amarillo, Waco and Port Arthur are the favorites. Four games are set in class A with three of them Friday night. Phillips and Monahans tangle at Lubbock Saturday. Friday night Bowie meets New London at Dallas, Van plays New Braunfels at Temple and Aldine and Falfurrias swap touchdowns at Victoria. Phillips, New London, New Braunfels and Aldine are solid favorites.

Class B closes the campaign this week with regional championship games. Eleven titles will be decided. One was played Thursday night, Bridgeport meeting Whitewright at McKinney for the region 4 crown.

One will be played Friday afternoon with Happy meeting Idalou at Tulia for the region 1 title. Friday night's schedule:

Region 2—Menard vs Iraan at Iraan.

Region 3—Hermleigh vs Rising Star at Brownwood.

Region 5—Masonic Home (Fort Worth) vs Corsicana State home at Fort Worth.

Region 6—Talco vs Judson at Longview.

Region 7—Elkhart vs Midway at Mexia.

Region 8—Anahuac vs Tomball at Liberty.

Region 10—San Felipe (Del Rio) vs Floresville at Floresville.

Region 11—Ingleside vs Benavides at Robstown.

Here's how they look to this corner:

City Conference — Arlington Heights vs Lamar: A short vote for Lamar.

Class AA—Denison vs Breckenridge: we'll take Breckenridge by a touchdown; Amarillo vs Odessa: The Sandies did it once and they'll do it again but it will be closer—Amarillo by two touchdowns; Waco vs Texarkana: the Tigers will win this one since both teams are named the Tigers but we'll choose the Waco Tigers; Port Arthur vs Austin: Austin can't slow down the south Texas powerhouse.

Class A—Phillips over Monahans, New London over Bowie, New Braunfels over Van, Aldine over Falfurrias.

Sharpshooters Win Boys Club Tussle

Dan Atkinson tallied 18 points to pace the Sharpshooters to a 36-31 victory over the Roughnecks in a Senior Basketball league game Thursday at Lubbock Boys club.

In the Junior loop the Dirty Five topped the Dirty Demons, 23-21. J. R. Bradford swished the net for nine points for the Dirty Five, while Bill Averitt scored nine for the losers.

The Fighting Irish, led by Jackie Chancey's 16 points, chalked up a 28-16 Midget circuit triumph over the Mustangs in a feature tussle. Don Tucker notched nine points for the Mustangs.

The Hellcats of the Pee Wee loop bested the Wolverines, 8-2, as George Jones connected for two field goals.

NEW RULE WOULD LIMIT BROADCASTS

Minor Leagues Inaugurate Ban On Radio, Television Network

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 9. (AP)—Baseball's minor leagues today moved to protect themselves against invasion of their territory by network television.

Acting at the important executive session of its annual convention, the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues drew up extensive rules that would, in effect, ban any network baseball either by radio or television.

Under the new rule, radio and television broadcasts would be limited to stations located within the "home territory" of the club. That "home territory" was defined as all land within the circumference of a circle having a radius of 50 miles, with its center at the ball park.

Bonus Rule Discussed

The television business attracted most attention among outsiders at the convention but most of the baseball men were more concerned with proposed changes in the bonus rule.

Such huge cash payments as the $75,000 reportedly paid by the Boston Braves to John Antonelli prompted new discussion of the involved bonus rule.

The minors voted no changes although there was considerable pressure from the majors to make drastic alterations.

High school players may be signed in the future when their original class has graduated. There has been much confusion about the wording of a previous rule so a new amendment clarifies the issue. There are provisions for $500 fines to the club and loss of the player if a player is signed before the class with which he first entered high school, has graduated.

Legislation was passed that would permit changing the date of the annual minor league draft to coincide with the convention.

O'Neill Joins Tribe

Outside the official sessions which were closed to newsmen, baseball business continued as usual. Steve O'Neill, recently deposed Detroit manager, was signed as a coach by the Cleveland Indians. As of now the Tribe is well-stocked with ex-managers as coaches. In addition to O'Neill, Lou Boudreau will be assisted by Muddy Ruel and Bill McKechnie. Mel Harder, vet pitcher, also coaches the Indians.

The Boston Braves sold infielder Bob Sturgeon to Seattle of the Pacific Coast league in one of the few early player deals.

Morrie Arnovich, former big league outfielder, signed to manage Decatur, Ill., of the class B Three I league. Buck Etchison got the managing job at Griffin, Ga., of Georgia-Alabama league.

Tulsa of the Texas league, acquired Roy McMillan, a 19-year-old short-stop from Columbia, S. C., of the South Atlantic league. McMillan played for Tyler of the Texas State league in 1948, hitting .307.

SW Conference Must Approve Of SMU Trip

DALLAS, Dec. 9. (AP)—The matter of a trip for Southern Methodist university's football squad which plays in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1—the fifth time this year—will be submitted to the Southwest Conference faculty committee meeting here tomorrow night.

Southern Methodist athletic officials say that the football squad deserves a trip if it's going to play in a bowl game and playing at home as host in the Dallas Cotton Bowl it won't get one like Oregon, the visiting team, and other teams in Bowl games over the country.

Technically, under rules of the Southwest Conference, such a trip would not be legal because it would come under the provision having to do with "elaborate entertainment." Southern Methodist university will ask the Conference to amend the rule, pointing out that the Texas football team, which will play in the Orange Bowl, will take a trip to Havana.

The Conference will concern itself largely with applications of Texas Tech and Hardin-Simmons for entrance. A committee has submitted a report without recommendation regarding accepting the two schools as members.

Coaches, athletic directors and business managers of athletics will meet tomorrow afternoon.

AUSTIN, Dec. 9. (AP)—The University of Texas basketball squad opens its home season here tomorrow night against North Texas State.

Stuhldreher Is On Hot Spot Again

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 9. (INS)—A faculty subcommittee ruled legal today student plans to poll head football coach Harry Stuhldreher's "popularity" at the University of Wisconsin.

The ruling dispelled a report that university official planned to ban the referendum planned for Dec. 15 by the student board, ruling body of the campus student government.

Some faculty members had been reported as being of the opinion that the student board could not hold such referendum since it technically had no control over athletics.

Stuhldreher has refused comment on the poll, plans for which originated with a faction of students seeking the coach's dismissal because of Wisconsin's poor showing on the gridiron last season.

The university's board of regents is scheduled to hold a closed meeting Friday night and a public meeting Saturday morning.

Although a movement reportedly is underway to have various members of the board come out publicly in support of Stuhldreher, the regents probably will await the student vote.

Sources said the decision on Stuhldreher probably will not be announced by the board of regents until its January meeting.

The student referendum may have a strong effect on Stuhldreher's own decision in the matter. The former member of Notre Dame's famed "four horsemen" now holds the dual job of athletic director and football coach. An adverse student vote might result in Stuhldreher dropping his coaching duties.

Oregon Makes Net Profit Offer To Pacific Coast Conference

EUGENE, Ore., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—The Pacific Coast Conference today considered an offer by the University of Oregon to turn over to the Conference treasury any net profit it receives from the Cotton Bowl in excess of what the University of California receives from the Rose Bowl.

Oregon's president H. K. Newburn said the purpose of the offer was to make sure that the school playing in a game "other than the Rose Bowl" did not profit to a greater extent financially than the school playing in the Rose Bowl.

The offer was contained in a letter to all faculty athletic representatives.

That Monahans-Phillips quarter-final Class A game here Saturday afternoon at Jones stadium should provide fans with one of the top grid clashes in the state this weekend. Both teams are good, boasting undefeated and untied records, and each team features some of the top Class A players of the state. Monahans' Waldo Young and Ray Cathey should give fans a real exhibition of brilliant running, and the Phillips "T" is hailed as the smoothest scoring machine in the state.

Although there are numerous standout performers on each team, we believe Waldo "Swivel-Hips" Young will provide the top thrills for the crowd. Young has quite a large variety of names, such as "The Blur" and "Wild Waldo," and the youngster lives up to his rapidly-growing reputation. Young had his best night against the Seminole Indians, when he tallied six touchdowns against the previously undefeated eleven, but he has been a stellar performer in every game. Cathey is extremely dangerous, with his battering line smashes, but Young is the boy who is likely to go all the way every time he carries the ball. The Class A circuit has turned out many outstanding broken-field runners during the last 10 years, including Nocona's Jack Crain and El Campo's Glenn Lippman, but Young is probably as good at this stage of development as any of the earlier stars.

That Odessa-Amarillo setto, at Odessa Saturday afternoon will be another interesting tussle, too. Quite a number of Lubbock fans are planning jaunts to the sand hills city that day for the tilt, and Lubbock Coach Pat Pattison is taking the entire Westerner football squad down to see the battle. The Westerners have a special interest in the tussle, since they played both teams this season and will probably play both of the elevens in 1949.

We were very glad to hear that the Lubbock Westerner cagers won their initial game in the Borger tournament Thursday night by defeating Spearman, 44-30. We realize that Spearman probably does not have a state championship team, but on the other hand, the Westerners are still far from the peak they will reach in January. Five or six of the top Westerner players have had only about 10 days of practice since the end of football season, and are naturally still ragged on their ballhandling and shooting. But the fact that they did beat Spearman by a convincing margin at this stage of the season is encouraging.

We do not believe that the Westerners will win the Borger tournament, since at least two teams—Amarillo and Stratford—hold a decided edge at the present time. Stratford was good enough earlier this week to beat the highly-rated Pampa Harvesters, and Amarillo has a number of cagers who have not been tied up with football for the last four months. But when the district season gets underway, we expect the Lubbock schoolboys to give the Sandies and the Harvesters quite a tussle for top honors.

H-SU Leaves For California Tilt

ABILENE, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Hardin-Simmons football team left by plane this morning for California on the first of three December bowl trips.

The Cowboys meet College of Pacific in the second annual Grape Bowl game at Lodi, Cal., Saturday.

Coach Warren B. Woodson and a crew of 35 left after stressing defensive drills in the week's workouts preceding their first bowl tilt.

The Cowboy gridders will be given a "California" welcome when they arrive at Lodi today. A plane escort is to meet them 50 miles out. At the landing field, a ceremony has been planned.

BRITISH SUSTAIN NBA

garrison had nothing to look forward to except eventual surrender. Bradley kept hammering back the enemy lines and on April 14 the Americans launched a local attack that split the pocket in two. Two days later the eastern half collapsed. On the eighteenth the whole remaining garrison surrendered.

ORIGINALLY we had estimated we would capture about 150,000 of the German Army in the Ruhr. In the final count the total reached 325,000, including general officers. We destroyed twenty-one divisions and captured enormous quantities of supplies.

Hitler must have hoped that the siege of the Ruhr would be as stubbornly contested as was that of Brest, but within eighteen days of the moment the Ruhr was surrounded it had surrendered with an even greater number of prisoners than we had bagged in the final Tunisian collapse almost two years earlier.

April 12 I spent with George Patton. Before the day ended, the scenes I saw and news I heard etched the date in my memory. In the morning we visited some of Pattor's scattered corps and divisions which were pushing rapidly eastward in a typical Patton thrust here and there surrounding and capturing isolated detachments of the disintegrating enemy.

Vast Fortune Found

There was no general line of resistance, or indeed even any coordinated attempt at delay. However some of the local enemy detachments stubbornly defended themselves and we saw sporadic fighting throughout the day.

General Patton's army had overrun and discovered Nazi treasure, hidden away in the lower levels of a deep salt mine. A group of us descended the shaft, almost a half mile under the surface of the earth

At the bottom were huge piles of German paper currency, apparently heaped up there in a last frantic effort to evacuate some of it before the arrival of the Americans In one of the tunnels was an enormous number of paintings and other pieces of art. Some of these were wrapped in paper and burlap others were merely stacked together like cordwood.

In another tunnel we saw a hoard of gold, tentatively estimated by our experts to be worth about $250,000,000, most of it in gold bars. These were in sacks, two twenty-five-pound bars to each sack. There was also a great amount of minted gold from the different countries of Europe and even a few millions of gold coins from the United States.

CRAMMED into suitcases and trunks and other containers was a great amount of gold and silver plate and ornament obviously looted from private dwellings throughout Europe. All the articles had been flattened by hammer blows, obviously to save storage space, and then merely thrown into the receptable, apparently pending an opportunity to melt them down into gold or silver bars.

It is probable, of course, that sooner or later the mine would have been carefully searched by the captors. But according to Patton, except for the instincts of human decency on the part of two Americans, we might not have discovered it until much of it had been more securely hidden away The story was this:

In the little neighboring town the advancing Americans had established a curfew law. Any civilian in the streets after dark was instantly picked up for questioning. One evening a roving patrol in a jeep saw a German woman hurrying along the street after curfew and stopped to speak to her She protested that she was rushing off to get a midwife for her neighbor, who was about to have a child. The American soldiers decided to check on the story, being quite ready to help if it should prove to be correct.

Woman Gave Hint

They took the German woman into their jeep, picked up the midwife, and returned to the accouchement, which was all as described by the German woman. The soldiers, still helpful, remained long enough to return the German woman and her midwife friend to their homes. As they were going along the street they passed the mouth of one of the salt mines of that region and one of the women remarked: "That's the mine in which the gold is buried."

This remark excited the curiosity of the soldiers and they questioned the women sufficiently to learn that some weeks earlier great loads of material had been brought from the east to be put into the mine. The soldiers reported the story to their superiors, who, ir turn, sought out some of the German officials of the mining corporation and the whole treasure fell into our hands.

THE same day I saw my first horror camp. It was near the town of Gotha. I have never felt able to describe my emotional reactions when I first came face to face with indisputable evidence of Nazi brutality and ruthless disregard of every shred of decency. Up to that time I had known about it only generally or through secondary sources. I am certain, however, that I have never at any other time experienced an equal sense of shock.

I visited every nook and cranny of the camp becuase I felt it my duty to be in a position from then on to testify at first hand about these things in case there ever grew up at home the belief or assumption that "the stories of Nazi brutality were just propaganda." Some members of the visiting party were unable to go through the ordeal.

Shocked By FDR's Death

The day of April 12 ended on a note of dramatic climax. Bradley, Patton, and I sat up late talking of future plans, particularly of the selection of officers and units for early redeployment to the Pacific. We went to bed just before twelve o'clock, Bradley and I in a small house at Patton's headquarters, and he in his trailer. His watch had stopped, and he turned on the radio to get the time signals from the British Broadcasting Corporation. While doing so he heard the news of President Roosevelt's death. He stepped back into the house, woke up Bradley, and then the two of them came to my room to tell me the shocking news.

We pondered over the effect the President's death might have upon the future peace. We were certain that there would be no interference with the tempo of the war because we already knew something of the great measures afoot in the Pacific to accomplish the smashing of the Japanese. We were, of course, ignorant of any special or specific arrangements that President Roosevelt had made affecting the later peace. But we were doubtful that there was any other individual in America as experienced as he in the business of dealing with the other Allied political leaders.

WITH some of Mr Roosevelt's political acts I could never possibly agree. But I knew him solely in his capacity as leader of a nation at war—and in that capacity he seemed to me to fulfill all that could possibly be expected of him

Almost coincidentally with our arrival on the Elbe the Red Army launched a powerful westward drive from its positions on the Oder. The attack was on a front of more than two hundred miles. The Red drive made speedy progress everywhere Its northern flank pushed in the direction of the Danish peninsula, the center toward Berlin, and the southern flank toward the Dresden area. On April 25 patrols of the 69th Division of the V Corps met elements of the Red Army's 58th Guards Division on the Elbe. The meeting took place at Torgau, some seventy-five miles south of Berlin.

Lines Were Drawn

Because of differences in language front-line radios were useless as a means of communication between the two converging forces. The only solution to the problem seemed to lie in timely agreements upon markings and procedures.

As early as the beginning of April the air forces of the Western Allies and the Russians had come into contact, with some unfortunate results. Shots had been exchanged between Red aircraft and our own, and the danger of major clashes continued to increase.

The task of organizing a system of recognition signals was laborious and was not fully accomplished until April 20. However, both side had already agreed upon restraining lines for the use of their air forces, and by the exercise of care accompanied by a considerable degree of good fortune, no really serious errors took place.

THE mission of Dever's Sixth Army Group during the early days of April was to protect the right flank of Bradley's advance. To carry out this mission Devers organized a methodical advance by Patch's Seventh Army on his left and the French First Army on his right.

The French Army, of course, went into the attack under the orders of General Devers, who was responsible for the allocation of army boundaries, routes of supply, and all the other administrative arrangements necessary for troop maintenance throughout his army group. These boundaries placed the city of Stuttgart in Patch's Seventh Army zone, because the supply routes of the Americans would necessarily run through that place. The city was captured by the French, who afterward refused to evacuate to permit its use by Patch.

So unyielding were the French in their assertion that national prestige was involved that the argument was referred to me. I instructed Devers to stand firm and to require compliance with his plan. The French still proved obstinate and referred the matter to Paris. Not content with this, General de Gaulle continued to maintain an unyielding attitude on the governmental level in his reply to a sharply worded message from the President of the United States on the subject. The threat of a possible curtailment of equipment for the French forces proved effective, and the French finally complied.

Question Of Pride

The French position in the war was, of course, not an easy one. Once known as the foremost military power of Europe their army as well as their pride had been shattered in the great debacle of 1940. Consequently when the Torch invasion of 1942 again gave patriotic Frenchmen an opportunity to join in the fight against the Nazis they were sensitive to all questions of national pride and honor. Nevertheless, America's investment in the French forces paid magnificent dividends.

Among the French were numbers of important individuals who never caused the slightest trouble; men whose breadth of vision and understanding of the issues at stake made them splendid allies. I personally liked General de Gaulle as I recognized in him many fine qualities.

We felt, however that these qualities were marred by hypersensitiveness and an extraordinary stubborness in matters which apeared inconsequential to us. My own war-time contacts with him never developed the heat that seemed to be generated frequently in his meetings with many others.

When Bremen finally fell to Montgomery's force April 26, the resistance in his front became markedly weaker. He quickly transferred his main effort to the sector of the British 8 Corps, which launched an attack across the Elbe April 29. The U. S. XVIII Corps made a simultaneous crossing somewhat to the south and provided right-flank protection to the British Second Army in its further advances.

ON May 1 the 11th Armored Division of the British 8 Corps began a brilliant dash across Schleswig-Holstein to the Baltic and entered Lubeck on the afternoon of May 2. This sealed off the enemy in Denmark and also prevented any of the defeated forces in Germany from withdrawing into that courtry.

Montgomery now rapidly consolidated his gains all along his front and on May 3 the U. S. XVIII Corps made contact with the Russians in Montgomery's sector. With Berlin in flames and the northern flank of the Red Army attack sweeping in our direction across Germany, all resistance collapsed.

Swarms of Germans streaming back from the Russian front now began giving themselves up to the Anglo-American armies. American troops standing on the Elbe daily received these prisoners by the thousands.

(The Wagnerian ending which Hitler had so carefully planned for his Third Reich was the disintegration of a massive army and the collapse of an entire continent. General Eisenhower held tight to a few simple rules in the confusion which swirled all around the Allied armies. They led him without major trouble, even with the Russians, to the fateful moment in the early morning of May 7 when Field Marshal Jodl signed an unconditional surrender in Eisenhower's office at Reims, saluted, and walked out. The war was over.

General Eisenhower's own account of this great climax to his "Crusade in Europe" will be published here tomorrow. It will be the twenty-fifth installment of his own personal story of the European war.)

Eckles Motion Overruled

Robert Lee Kelley, 19, an Amarillo negro, was arraigned in connection with a charge of murder with malice Oct. 17 of Tommie Lee Dinwiddie, a Lubbock negro. A. C. Cooke was appointed by the court to represent the defendant, whose case will be called Monday for trial setting. Kelley is expected to sign a waiver of a special venire, his attorney already having signed it.

Judge Pardue overruled a new trial motion for Walter Eckles, 27, former Slaton deputy constable who was convicted in a Dec. 2 jury verdict of murder with malice in connection with the May 22 slaying of Clyde Tune, about 37, an itinerant, in the Slaton railway yards.

Eckles was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. His counsel, E. A. Blair and Grady West, gave notice of appeal to the court of criminal appeals in Austin. Judge Pardue allowed counsel 90 days in which to perfect appeal.

Eckles entered into a $5,000 recognizance with the court.

Edgar Bergen Plans Temporary Retirement From Radio Work

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9 (INS)—Edgar Bergen today announced his temporary retirement from radio.

He and Charlie McCarthy will go off the air after their broadcast of Dec. 26.

Details putting the decision into effect were worked out at a meeting in New York of all of the parties concerned.

At the session were the National Broadcasting company, over which the program is broadcast; Standard Brands, the show's sponsor; J. Walter Thompson, the sponsor's advertising agency, and the Music Corporation of America, Bergen's agent.

Turning Point Seen In Berlin Dispute By Speaker In City

The United States will not be forced to go to war against Russia as long as we maintain our military and economic strength, and the present Berlin crisis is nearing a turning point.

This is the belief of Vivian Meik, columnist of "The Deseret News" at Salt Lake City, who spoke to approximately 150 members of the Lubbock Knife and Fork club at Hilton hotel last night.

The United States is not only seven years ahead of Russia on the matter of military weapons, he said, but the Marshall plan is gaining sufficient support in Europe to create unrest in the eastern zone of Germany which is now dominated by the Reds.

No Comparison On Economics

Economically, there is no comparison between the United States and Russia, he pointed out. Some four million persons died of malnutrition last year in Russia alone, and another 30 million people are in concentration camps in Russia and the Russian occupied zones of Europe, he added.

The Iron Curtain of Russia is not so much to keep information from leaking out of the country, he states, as it is to keep information from getting to the Communist dominated populations of Russia and eastern Europe.

Taught To Hate U. S.

Behind the curtain, he told the audience, children six to eight years of age are taken from their parents, screened, and sent to various schools to be trained in various phases of the Communist way of life. These children are taught to hate two things—religion and America.

Meik said that the one pitiful thing about the American people was their seeming indifference to the fact that they were the most fortunate people in the world today.

Mrs. R. B. Luker, a director of the club, introduced the speaker of the evening, and Clarence Whiteside, club president, was master of ceremonies.

Twenty-seven couples, who have been voted into the club during the past year, were given formal recognition at last night's meeting.

second which blew out all the power plant windows and left their twisted steel frames hanging on the structure like so much wire.

Debris Litters Area

Flames broke out soon after the explosions but they were brought under control quickly. The basement of the plant was a shambles of twisted metal and concrete. Heavy steel doors were ripped from their hinges.

Glass, brick and twisted metal window frames littered a wide area around the plant which is a part five-story and a part eight-story structure.

The blast and fire plunged Topeka into darkness. Electrically-operated equipment of all types were rendered useless.

While the electrical current was off hospitals here were forced to operate on standby equipment. Candles were used for light in both business buildings and homes.

A rumor that power lines might break in the plant area sent many of the residents fleeing by car from their homes. Later, however, they were advised it was safe to return.

None of the major equipment of the plant, a nearly new building, was believed to have been damaged. Several months ago a boiler exploded in the same plant, cutting off power to northeastern Kansas towns for nearly an hour.

Restoring Some Service

(Electric service was being restored to special areas tonight through company connections with power outlets in Omaha, Neb., and Wichita, Kans. hospitals and other business firms were getting service.

(Residents in other areas used candles, flashlights and oil lamps for illumination, the INS reported).

Every available ambulance, doctor and nurse in the vicinity was pressed into service shortly after the blast as were all policemen, state highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies.

Agriculture Official Discusses Crop Program At Vets Ag Meet

Walter Y. Wells, secretary and administrative officer of the county Agricultural Conservation association last night discussed various phases of the 1949 crop program before the regular monthly meeting of the Lubbock County veterans Agriculture association. The meeting was held at the livestock pavilion at Texas Tech.

Wells spoke on the agriculture conservation program for 1949, the price support program next year and the cotton crop insurance program for 1949.

Approximately 65 persons attended the session.

how the assembly will act on the plan for a three-nation Palestine Conciliation commission.

Therefore, say these delegates, there is no point having the council meet on the Israeli application until the assembly has decided whether to set up a conciliation commission.

Special Group To Meet

Although the council meeting was cancelled, a special Palestine committee of the council will meet tomorrow to hear more reports on its order of Nov. 4 for withdrawal of Israeli troops from the southern desert.

The council's Palestine committee postponed its meeting for 24 hours until tomorrow to give time for truce observers to check on British reports of Jewish troop movements in the Negev toward the Red Sea and along the Trans-Jordan border. It also gave more time for negotiations between Arab and Jewish commanders at Faluja.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, acting UN mediator, reported to the committee yesterday that he had not succeeded in getting Arabs and Jews to negotiate on an armistice as a step to peace.

Refuse To Withdraw

He said the difficulty was that the Arabs complained Israel had not complied with an earlier order to withdraw from Negev positions won between Oct. 14 and Oct. 21. He said the difficulty centered at Faluja.

Egypt and Trans-Jordan have agreed to armistice negotiations, he said, on condition that Israel withdraws.

Israel long has accepted the UN proposal to negotiate on an armistice, but refused to withdraw from the Negev completely. She kept her settlement garrisons and some mobile detachments in the Negev, withdrawing only the forces which she said were sent to reinforce her October offensive. She also refused to withdraw from around Faluja, at the northern edge of the desert, saying she was afraid the Egyptians would regroup and attack.

Reds Pose Objections

Israeli sources said the plan now under discussion was a stage-by-stage release of the trapped Egyptians, with the Jews maintaining their positions.

Chances of the assembly's finally passing the much-amended British resolution setting up a conciliation commission improved when Australia, Canada, New Zealand, China, Colombia and some other South American republics agreed informally on further amendments eliminating any mention of the 1947 partition plan and the Bernadotte plan even in the preamble.

The resolution passed the political committee by only a narrow margin. It needs a two-thirds vote in the assembly. The Arab bloc voted against it because they do not accept partition. Israel's friends objected to the Bernadotte plan.

Covering a wide range of subjects, Mr. Truman told newsmen:

He has not yet decided whether he will personally deliver his "state of the unicn" message to Congress in January.

Once again, he will ask Congress to approve the $500,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway project—a subject of bitter controversy which has been bobbing around on Capitol Hill for 14 years.

George W. Murfee, Former Lubbock Resident, Claimed

ABILENE, Dec. 9. (Special)—George W. Murfee, prominent West Texas lumberman and former resident of Lubbock, died at 10 p. m. tonight in his home here. He had made his home here for about 10 years.

Murfee is the son of Mrs. J. E. Murphee, sr., of 1923 Fourteenth, Lubbock, and the brother of Misses Mae and Vera Murfee, and J. Louis Murfee, all of Lubbock.

He was a member of the Yellowhouse Masonic lodge at Lubbock and retained his membership there until his death.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete late tonight.

Study Of Police Needs Planned

trolmen, with added and continuous stress upon courtesy.

"We want policemen who will treat others as they themselves would like to be treated at all times," Commissioner Whiteside commented.

"That's what I want, too," Kittrell replied.

The inquiries which led to constructive possibilities resulted from complaints which, Commissioner Hufstedler said, had been made to him about two incidents in which police figured.

Story Is Related

One of the incidents involved a negro man, identified only as "Louis," employed by George P. Livermore, prominent oil operator.

The report as made to him, Hufstedler said, was that two policemen—identified as Miller and Lassiter—stopped the negro late on the afternoon of Nov. 30 as he walked toward the postoffice with a sack of letters to be mailed. The complaint continued, according to the report to Hufstedler, that the patrolmen "cuffed" the negro around, scattered the mail upon the pavement and searched a shirt pocket from which, the negro later claimed, "four bits" disappeared.

The further complaint related by Hufstedler was that on the next day, the same officers searched out the negro in "The Flats," mistreated him, and "persuaded" him to accompany them to the police station and change his story about the previous day's occurrences.

Chief Asked To Appear

This version of the incident caused the commission to send out a quick call for Kittrell, Lassiter and Miller. All appeared within a short time.

Lassiter and Miller said they stopped the negro with the sack because they had been alerted a short while before to be on the lookout for a thief who had stolen a woman's purse containing more than $200 from a car parked not far away. They denied they subjected the man to any abuse or mistreatment, that any mail was scattered or that anything was taken from him.

They acknowledged they stopped the man again near the postoffice the following afternoon and asked him to go with them to the police station. They denied they had searched for him in "the Flats" or anywhere else or that they compelled him to accompany them.

"We had been put under the suspicion of cuffing him around and of taking his money," Lassiter explained. "We wanted to get those charges straightened out."

To Continue Study

Members of the commission made unsuccessful efforts to reach Livermore, who was out of the city, and the negro. The plan is, according to the mayor, to talk to both before closing the investigation.

The other incident into which the commission inquired resulted from a minor auto collision on Fifth street near College avenue on late afternoon of Nov. 27 in which a police patrol car driven by Rucker brushed one driven by J. A. Dunlap, resulting in fender damage.

Hufstedler quoted Dunlap as charging that the policeman attempted to speed from the scene after the accident. Dunlap said further, according to Hufstedler, that Rucker did not stop until after a chase, and was discourteous during ensuing conversations.

Rucker's version of the incident was that the fenders brushed when Dunlap started to pull away from the curb at the instant the police car passed. He said that he continued in the police car to the first parking space so as to avoid blocking heavy traffic at the scene, and that he radioed for another police car to make the investigation of the accident before he came to a standstill. He denied he attempted to run away from the scene or that he was discourteous.

"Mr. Dunlap said a good deal—he was practically jumping up and down," the patrolman related. "But I have learned from experience it is better to say nothing at such times. So I kept quiet, except to ask Mr. Dunlap whether he had a driver's license."

Other Business Routine

Members of the commission did not attempt to get in touch with Dunlap, but said they probably will talk with him before closing the investigation. The intimation was that he will be reimbursed for $17.60 repair expense.

The inquiries consumed nearly all of a five-hour commission session.

Other business transacted included:

Approval of an ordinance which provides for approximately 20 scattered blocks of street paving.

Adoption of a classification ordinance recommended by the city civil service commission.

The decision to keep the city fire marshal position answerable directly to the city manager rather than to the fire chief, as suggested by the civil service group.

The purchase of a lot at Twenty-third street and Tyler avenue from Mrs. Thomas H. Turner for $2,500 as the site for a new fire department substation.

Authorization to Lubbock Bus Co., to change its routing on the 16th St.-Tech line so as to turn west off College avenue into the Tech campus at Fourteenth street instead of Broadway.

Authorization of the publication of 5,000 pamphlets containing the city's new consolidated traffic ordinance at an estimated cost of $177.

Denial of a permit to W. W. Rix funeral home to operate a loudspeaker transmission of Christmas carols from 6:30 to 9 p. m. daily during the holidays from decorations at 1601 Thirteenth street.

Authorization to the Salvation Army to establish a Christmas kettle booth in a parking space on Broadway between Texas and Avenue J.

Approval of the city cemetery board's request for construction of a shop building in Lubbock cemetery.

ACTRESS FINED — Actress Lila Leeds, soon to face trial with actor Robert Mitchum on marcotics charges, seems unconcerned as she pays a $5 fine in Los Angeles traffic court for jaywalking on busy Wilshire Boulevard. She is wearing the same white turtle-neck sweater she had on at the time of her arrest when, police said, she tied traffic in a knot. (AP Wirephoto).

who, provided him with secret data a decade ago. During Pigman's employment at the Bureau of Standards it was doing considerable research in radar and the proximity fuse.)

The committee sent him a telegram today telling him to turn up at a closed hearing at 1 p.m. CST tomorrow. If he fails to do so, it is going to subpoena him.

Truman Stirs Feelings

For weeks now, the committee and the Justice department have been at odds over who is treading on whose toes in the double-barreled investigation. Tonight's exchange heightened the feelings, which had been stirred up by Mr. Truman's news conference statement this morning that the House probe is still, in his opinion, only a Red herring and that the committee should leave the case to the Justice department.

Committee leaders replied at the time of Mr. Truman's blast that he was actually helping hide facts about how Communists obtained U. S. documents. The committee is not playing politics, they said in reply to Mr. Truman's observation that the House hearing is political in nature.

Publicity Rapped

Tonight the Justice department released copies of its letter to the committee, asking that it call off its full-fledged proceedings.

"Premature and ill-advised publicity," said an accompanying statement from Attorney General Tom Clark, "can and will seriously impair the administration of justice, without any corresponding benefit to the country."

Clark said that "unlike the committee, the Department of Justice recognizes its responsibility to proceed within the framework of the Constitution."

Indictment Feared

At bottom is a conflict over whether the House committee or the federal grand jury now sitting in New York is the proper vehicle for sifting charges that many secret documents were filched from State department files in 1937-38. A cache of microfilms of these documents were found in a pumpkin on Whittaker Chambers' farm last Thursday, after the committee issued a subpoena to obtain any official papers Chambers might have.

Rep. Nixon said last night that the grand jury, operating under the Justice department, will indict Chambers for perjury and that this will make it impossible to get at persons who worked with him "because the chief witness . . . will be an indicted perjurer." Nixon called the whole proceeding part of administration efforts "to silence this committee."

The committee's chief investigator, Robert E. Stripling, appeared before the grand jury today by request. Also on hand to testify were Alger Hiss, former State department employe who Chambers said was a member of a "Communist apparatus," and his brother, Donald Hiss. Both the Hiss brothers have denied Chambers' charges against them and Alger Hiss has sued Chambers for $75,000 in a libel case.

The opponents of the amendment sought last week to have two questions in the case certified to the Supreme court. They noted in their motion at that time that "this cause, being an election contest, is one in which the jurisdiction of the court of civil appeals is final and in which no writ of error or other method of appeal can be employed by appellants by which the case can reach the Supreme court of the State of Texas."

Wave Of Thefts Continue Here

A wave of thefts which threatens to reach epidemic proportions continued Thursday with several more incidents reported to law enforcement authorities.

Thirty print bags and tools, total value $16.50, were taken from David Lucera, in the Mexican quarter just off Fourth.

The car of Charles Jones of Lubbock route 6 was reported stripped after it had been borrowed by a young Lubbock negro. The negro failed to return it, officials were informed.

Hub Caps Taken

Two chrome hub caps were taken from the car of Wilburn James of 405 Hub Homes. They were valued at $8.

J. C. Lane, who lives on the Levelland highway three miles west of College Ave., said the following property was taken from his irrigation wellsite: An air cleaner, a pair of cotton scales, a gallon of oil, and a blowtorch.

Alex Bednarz of Slaton route 1 said a spotlight valued at $15 had been stolen from his car here, and Guy Banks of 2404 Main said a foglight valued at $14 had been removed from his car.

Juvenile officials said they would question an 11-year-old girl in connection with burglary.

Man Claimed By Levelland

Sheriff Guy Swain of Levelland late Thursday accepted custody of J. C. Green, 23, from the Lubbock sheriff's department. Green was wanted on a warrant charging swindling by worthless check, a felony, Swain said.

James L. DePauw, 34, of Lubbock, was arrested here early last night on a fugitive warrant from Cincinnati, Ohio, authorities. DePauw posted $1,000 bond returnable Jan. 10 to the court of Justice of the Peace C. E. Lynn.

A 33-year-old Dimmitt man, who was released from police custody Thursday morning after paying a fine on a guilty plea of drunkenness, was back in city jail early last night on a more serious charge of drunk driving. Formal charges will be filed in county court today, police said.

The man's arrest followed when his auto was in collision with another at Thirteenth and Ave. G, police indicated.

Man Pleads Guilty

Horton B. (Bo) Sessums, 26, of Lubbock route 1, who was arrested Wednesday afternoon by a state highway patrolman after a chase which reached speeds as high as 80 miles per hour, entered a plea of guilty yesterday in county court to a charge of transporting liquor. Judge Walter Davies assessed the minimum fine of $100 and court costs.

At the time of his arrest, Sessums was wanted on a warrant charging maiming, a felony, and another charge of reckless driving was filed by the arresting patrolman. Thirty-three bottles of whiskey were allegedly found in his car at the time of his arrest.

Other county court judgments entered yesterday included: Clarence Ellision, 48, of Abilene, $250 and costs on a charge of liquor law violation; A. L. Holley, $25 and costs, violation of check law, and Eless Adams alias Blackie Adams, 28-year-old Lubbock negro, 90 days in jail for aggravated assault.

encircled in two Communist traps.

Government reinforcements were rushed to northern Kiangsu to meet advancing Red armies under Gen. Chen-Yi who launched a southward drive last week from Suchow, 200 miles north of Nanking.

Shifting of the battle lines to the northeast sector of the Anhwei plains indicated a possible flanking drive by the Communist armies on the capital.

Reports that portions of the government's 12th army group, trapped for 13 days near Kuchen 130 miles northwest of Nanking, had been able to break through the Red encirclement were officially described as "premature."

Heavy Losses Claimed

This army group, numbering 100,000 men, has been attempting to break through the Communist ring of steel to effect a junction with the Nationalist Hwai river defense units.

The Communist radio yesterday claimed to have inflicted 30,000 casualties on the 100,000 troops in the 2nd, 13th and 16th Nationalist army groups trapped near Suhsien 50 miles below Suchow.

Fighting was reported continuing near Chiangyen, 100 miles east of Nanking and 20 miles north of the Yangtze. A Red break through in the sector would sever the capital's river communications with the queen port of Shanghai.

Unfair Labor Charge

was a counter-proposal to the company's offer earlier in the day of raises ranging from $2 to $6 for various classifications of workers.

After receiving the union's counter-proposal the management's representatives asked a recess in negotiations so they might study its terms. They said they would call Federal Labor Conciliator A. E. Johnson at noon tomorrow, to begin arrangements for the next bargaining session.

Company spokesmen issued a statement denying the union's charge. It read: "We made available to employes the same information in detail that was published in the newspapers. The union claims the company did not tell its employes the truth about its offer. The company claims it did tell the truth, and there was no misrepresentation of a single item in its offer."

CLAIMS SCORED AS MISLEADING

Solon Disputes Claim Business Profits Smaller Than Reported

By H. K. REYNOLDS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. — Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), chairman-to-be of the powerful Joint Economic committee, today attacked testimany before Congress that business profits are smaller than they appear.

O'Mahoney interrupted a hearing of the Flanders subcommittee on corporation profits to declare such statements seem "designed to deter labor in asking for increased wages, or to deter the government in obtaining revenues from these large profits."

President Truman has repeatedly pointed to corporation profits as unduly high and contributory to spiraling prices. He twice unavailingly asked Congress for an excess profits tax on corporations.

Dividends Claimed Slashed

O'Mahoney, as chairman of the joint Economic committee, doubtless would lead any renewed administration fight for higher corporate levies.

Earlier an oil industry finance expert Joseph O. Pogue told the committee that American petroleum firms have slashed dividends this year to build up fluid stocks.

O'Mahoney spoke as the joint economics subcommittee for the second day received testimony that outdated accounting and an inflated dollar make profits appear large, and that circumstances make large profits necessary.

Study Is Made

The senator said "I don't want the public misled by these abstractions. The government has to be operated with actual dollars and not with abstract or relative dollars."

Pogue, vice president of the Chase National bank, took the oil industry as an example of the smaller profits premise. He said dividends in 1948 are only 24 per cent of the industry's reported net income, as against 35 per cent in 1947 and 43 per cent in 1946.

Pogue, who conducted a continuing study of 30 representative oil firms, declared the slash was necessary to build up fuel stocks. He said:

Oil Tanks Full

"This drop in the rate of disbursement is pretty conclusive proof that the industry was strapped for cash in 1948, despite the magnitude of its income, and that earnings were further converted into fixed assets.

"It is fortunate that this was so. A year ago we faced the prospect of a short oil supply. Today our tanks of oil are full and supply is beginning to run ahead of demand.

"If this trend continues the need for capital formation will become less insistent and the mechanism of the market will reduce profit margins and bring about a lower level of profits."

Profits Smaller

Pogue said that profits in inflated dollars are much smaller than they look, and that the drains on real profits are much greater in inflationary times. He continued:

"In all times, inflationary or normal, the most effective criterion to apply in the judgment of profits is their adequacy or inadequacy in the process of capital formation."

Lubbock Group Plans New Church Building

A lot at Seventh street and Ave. O has been purchased by the congregation of Bethel Tabernacle and will be the site of a new two-story building that may cost as much as $50,000 to $100,000, Rev. Boyd McSpadden, the pastor, announced Thursday.

The congregation in a meeting this week also voted to incorporate the church, changing its name to Faith Temple, Mr. McSpadden said. "We have had a fine growth in membership since Mrs. McSpadden and I came to Lubbock a year ago last June," he said.

No definite plans have been made for the building, although a financial campaign is underway. The church will continue to hold services at Sixth and Ave. L until the new building is completed sometime next year.

Fred Mize will act as chairman of the building committee, with Charlie Hansford and O. A. Webb as other members, Mr. McSpadden said.

Tech Students Give Program For Kiwanis

A group from Texas Tech college presented a musical program at the luncheon session of the Kiwanis club Thursday at Hotel Lubbock, and club president L. E. Davis stressed the re-showing of the McMillan African adventure film this weekend at the high school auditorium.

The group of musicians from the college included a male quartet, who sang three numbers, and Jimmy Wilson of Olton, announced as "one of West Texas' best tenors." He sang The First Noel, and Silent Night.

In the male quartet were Charles Nolan, Gene Alford, Robert Weisz, and Jim Holmes. They Wednesday night at Hotel Lubbock sang Green River, Little David Play on That Harp, and Drive On, the latter a semi-boogey number with piano accompaniment by Miss Margaret Wilson, who also accompanied Wilson's solo numbers.

Alvin Davis of Post, Garza county 4-H club boy who recently was announced as the nation's outstanding club boy in the 4-H leadership contest, was introduced by Jason O. Gordon. Now a student in Texas Tech college, Davis spoke briefly, expressing appreciation "on behalf of 4-H club workers throughout the nation" for support and cooperation given the work by business men.

Program personnel and numbers were introduced by Paul Schaefer, director of the choir at St. Elizabeth's Catholic church. Dude Buster was program chairman. Invocation was by Dr. J. O. Haymes, a visitor.

School Thieves Knock Knob From Safe, Fail To Get $500

HILLSBORO, Dec. 9. (AP) — Thieves broke into the high school building at Abbott, 10 miles south of Hillsboro, last night and knocked the knob off of a safe containing around $500 but failed to get inside the safe, Abbott school officials reported today.

The robbers, who gained an entrance to the building through a window, also broke into the principal's office and took $7 in currency, but left a small amount of loose change.

Series Of Long Range B-36 Flights Slated

Huge Plane Ends 8,100 Mile Trip

FORT WORTH, Dec. 9. (AP)—Maj. John D. Bartlett of Fort Worth, pilot of a record-breaking B-36 Superbomber, told a newspaper reporter tonight that his plane went to Pearl Harbor on its non-stop round trip from Fort Worth.

The flight, longest ever made by a B-36, was made on Dec. 7, Pearl Harbor day.

Bartlett told a Star-Telegram reporter that the plane went to Pearl Harbor and then to the northwest point of Oahu island.

Meanwhile, there was consternation in some quarters of Honolulu as a feeling spread that radar defenses on the island had been caught napping.

Might Have Been Traced

However, the commander of Hawaii's aerial defenses indicated his radar screens may have picked up the Superbomber in its surprise "raid" on Pearl Harbor on the seventh anniversary of Japan's attack.

Col. T. W. Blackburn, commanding the 81st fighter wing, said radar plots were made of 21 planes between 9:30 and 11:30 p. m. Tuesday, the estimated time the far-flying '36 dropped a "useful bomb load" off Honolulu.

Blackburn said it was not yet known if the B-36 was one of the plotted planes. Under peacetime conditions there is no way to keep a single aircraft from slipping through Hawaii's air defense net, he said.

Other Flight Planned

Previously spokesmen for the Air Force, Army and Navy headquarters in Honolulu said they had no report of any radar or radio contact with the bomber on its test flight . . . a trip of about 8,100 miles.

The Superbomber landed back at Carswell Air Field here at 7 p. m. (CST) yesterday, 35 hours and 30 minutes after takeoff time.

There was a feeling in some quarters today that the giant visitor had gone undetected.

The strategic air command said the roundtrip flight to Honolulu was a forerunner of a series of such long-range over water missions by the huge bombers.

Maj. Bartlett described it as routine . . . "Only slight engine trouble was encountered," the veteran of 28 combat missions with the 20th Air Force said.

The flight, said Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay's strategic air command headquarters at Offut Air base, Omaha, Neb., was part of the SAC'S program to "improve the proficiency of the bomber crews and achieve maximum performance out of the planes and equipment."

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE

Lubbock, Texas, Friday, December 10, 1948

Maverick Urges Morrow To Quit

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP) — Maury Maverick says Wright Morrow ought to resign as Democratic national committeeman.

The former Texas congressman declared here today that Morrow who resides at Houston, is a "muleocrat."

"Muleocrats" are a class of Democrats who are "like the mule that has to be beaten to death to get him out of the pen," Maverick said.

The Texas state Democratic executive committee recently voted 46 to 4 to replace Morrow with Byron Skelton, Temple attorney Since then there has been a dispute whether power to remove Morrow lies with state or national officials of the party. Morrow has refused to resign.

Morrow was unavailable for comment in Houston.

At an Austin press conference November 25 Morrow said he would not resign and under the rules of the group the national committee can fill vacancies created only by death and resignation.

Maverick said in his opinion "Morrow is not now national committeeman" in view of the executive committee action and a vote of the Texas state Democratic convention in Fort Worth last September calling for replacement of Morrow by Skelton.

Maverick said he had learned through a Texas congressman, who he did not name, that Morrow said he would resign if Texas governor Beauford Jester asked him to quit. Then he added: "Jester isn't going to ask him. He will denounce me for saying all this."

Maverick predicted that if Morrow does remain as national committeeman, he will have no power in regard to federal job appointments in Texas. These patronage favors, he said, would rest almost solely with the two Texas senators.

Doris Prater Named State's Top Gardener

Lubbock County Girl Wins State Honors

DETROIT, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Texas junior vegetable growers today were named winners of five awards in the 1948 production-marketing contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers association.

At the organization's 14th annual convention in Detroit, Doris Marie Prater, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Prater of Lubbock county, won a $100 scholarship awarded by A & P Food stores, as the Lone Star state's top performer.

Other awards to young Texans went to Margie Fogle of Marshall, Sally Jane Fitzgerald of Chireno, Josie Slaughter of Marshall and Myrlos Waters of Rio Hondo.

RECORD IS MADE IN 4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

Doris Marie Prater, announced as this state's outstanding young gardener at the annual convention of the National Junior Vegetable Growers association in Detroit, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Prater of Wolfforth.

Although the association has no direct connection with 4-H club activities, Miss Prater's record was made largely in connection with her 4-H club work, where she has been outstanding in this county, and in the state.

Unable To Attend

She was awarded $100 in cash as sectional winner with her 4-H garden project this year, and had planned to attend the Detroit convention, but said circumstances over which she had no control prevented her going. She was to have been accompanied by her mother.

The $100 scholarship at the Detroit meeting, an award additional to the previous cash award for club activities, was not further explained in the press dispatch, and the county home demonstration agent's office, from where 4-H club activities are directed, had not been advised of details.

Juryman's Excuse He Went To Wrong Court Is Accepted

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Everett Lewis Betts of San Benito explained today to Federal District Judge Allan Hannay why he failed to show up for jury duty.

Betts said he reported—to the wrong court. Furthermore, he said, he spent two days in 103rd District Court before he discovered he was not in federal court.

Judge Hannay accepted the explanation. Four other men ordered to report for jury duty were fined $50 each. Two other veniremen, who still are absent without explanation, drew the same fine, with $50 to be added every day until they report.

Oil Flows From New Scurry Test

Placid Oil company of Dallas apparently has a new oil discovery at its No. 1 Davis, north-central Scurry county wildcat, six and one half miles north and slightly east of Snyder.

That prospector flowed some oil, and recovered a total of 2,518 feet of oil, along with 30 feet of drilling mud, in a 45-minute drillstem test in the top of the Strawn lime at 7,020-7,178 feet.

The prospector is to be drilled deeper. After the tool had been closed after the 45-minute drillstem test, the operator began pulling the drill pipe. When 4,500 feet of pipe had been pulled, the well started heading oil. Operations were suspended at 5 a. m. Thursday until daylight, because of the fire hazard.

No Signs Of Water

The remainder of the pipe was pulled Thursday, and total recovery was 2,518 feet of high gravity green oil. There were no signs of formation water.

The possible discovery is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 387, block 97, H&TC survey. It is three miles east and two miles south of the Standard Oil company of Texas No. 1 Brown, recently-completed flowing discovery from the Canyon lime, which is higher in the geological section than the Strawn, the pay in the new Placid prospector.

38 Persons Loitering Near TEC Office At Fort Worth Jailed

FORT WORTH, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Police today jailed 38 persons loitering in the vicinity of the Texas Employment commission office here, and said they would be held for investigation.

Police Chief R. E. Dysart said the roundup followed complaints that the men refused to use a waiting room in the employment commission office. Dysart said he believed many of the men did not want work and were unjustly drawing unemployment benefits.

The complaints came from persons who parked their cars in the employment office area. They complained that loiterers sat on their cars.

Dysart also said a woman told him she asked some of the men to work for her and they refused.

ARIZONA CYPRESS IS MOVED—Many hundreds of persons gathered Thursday afternoon to watch the huge Arizona cypress in 1900-block Broadway being moved to make way for construction of the new Broadway Church of Christ. The above photograph was made a few minutes after the tree had been moved from the earth. A policeman remained at the scene part of the afternoon to ask drivers to move on and not block traffic. "Everyone feels as if they own that tree," said one boy. Several persons took pieces of the root as souvenirs. The tree, which is about 30 feet tall, will be transplanted on a site in Bobalet Heights off Levelland highway, on which Mr. and Mrs. H. T. (Buck) Luther, now of 2513 Twenty-first, plan to build a home. (Staff Photo).

McMillan Film Again Big Hit At Showing

Approximately 700 persons attended the first of a three-night return showing of "African Adventures" of the W. G. McMillan family at Lubbock Senior High school last night.

Those at the program expressed warm praise for the films, now shown with a complete sound track, complete with music and a running commentary, and additional film not presented in the first showings here and in this area several months ago.

The shows, sponsored by the Lubbock Kiwanis club for the benefit of the Girl Scout building project, will be presented again tonight at 8 o'clock at a matinee at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and again that night at 8 o'clock.

Price of tickets are $1.20 for adults and 50 cents for school children and Tech students with activity tickets. Tax is included.

The film is a pictorial chronicle of the trip McMillan, his wife and son took to Africa last year and was premiered earlier this year under the Kiwanis club sponsorship. The pictures have been shown in numerous cities of the Southwest.

It's all part of the commission's agreement with the economic cooperation administration. After the renegotiations, the commission will be free to use a $30,000,000 allocation from the ECA to pay for the cotton.

FUND RAISING BILLS DISCUSSED

Officials Agree Texas Cities Greatest Need Is More Money

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Dec. 9. — Money and still more money is the chief need of Texas cities, officials of several municipalities agreed here today.

The officials were sub-committee chairmen of the Texas League of Municipalities, meeting here today with Mayor Oscar Holcombe, district chairman.

They discussed nine proposed state legislature bills which were approved at the league's annual meeting last month in El Paso.

Proposals Approved

Action taken today on the proposals included:

Approval of a proposed tax on admissions to theaters and other places of amusement if and when a similar federal tax is repealed.

Highly favored a refund to cities on gasoline taxes paid to the state on gasoline used by city owned vehicles.

Backed, but were skeptical of passage, of a bill requiring the state highway department to assume construction, right of way and maintenance costs of state and federal designated highways that run through cities.

Approved licensing merchandise and music vending machines and skill or pleasure coin-operated machines.

Wanted authority for cities to broaden their tax base by imposing other taxes such as on utility bills.

Favored the levy of additional taxes by the state, to be collected for the benefit of cities and to be distributed on a per capita basis.

Participants in the conference included Mayor Ernest Langford, College Station, City Manager M. T. Walker, Bryan, Mayor Emmanuel Roos, Eagle Lake, City Commissioner Charles H. Oehler, Galveston, and B. T. McWhorter, city attorney at Port Arthur.

Mexican Mothers Claim Girls Losing Modesty And Pride

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Mexican girls are losing their time-honored characteristics of modesty, pride and simplicity, a group of Mexican mothers lamented today.

A long document charged "many young Mexican girls" with giving themselves up to the temptation of "contests in which the inexpert girls show off their bodies seminude."

The charges were obviously aimed at a number of current beauty contests directed by commercial agencies.

"The vanity of the girls is fomented by such (contests) . . . and they think the facile notoriety will aid their true feminine function, marriage and motherhood," the document said.

UN Urges Pact To Ban Destruction Of Racial, Religious Groups

By PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Dec. 9.—The UN Assembly recommended unanimously tonight after a two-year struggle that members sign a convention outlawing "genocide"—the mass destruction of racial or religious groups.

It was a great personal triumph for a Yale university professor, Raphael Lemkin, who lost his eastern Polish parents and 47 relatives in the second World War.

Red Amendments Rejected

Soviet efforts to write in amendments aimed at such groups as the American Ku Klux Klan, and trying to link the blanket term genocide specifically with "fascism" and "nazism" were defeated.

Mrs. Elea... Roosevelt led the night session fight for a second historic measure—the declaration of human rights.

The widow of the late president clashed with Russia's Andrei Vishinsky who demanded postponement and revision of the declaration, especially such clauses as those for a "free press." Vishinsky claimed these gave "fascists" a chance to foment war.

Mrs. Roosevelt turned smilingly toward Vishinsky, who ignored her and stared at papers on his desk. She said:

"In older democracies we have learned to bow to the will of the majority. We believe that when we have made a good fight such as the Soviets have made, but the majority is against us, that it is better to cooperate."

Given Great Ovation

Mrs. Roosevelt got the greatest ovation of the week—but the Russian bloc did not join it.

Assembly president Herbert V. Evatt termed the genocide development "epoch making" and said signatures may be attached to the convention beginning Saturday, the closing day of the Assembly.

It is understood that at least 25 delegations, including the United States, Britain, France and China, are ready to sign. The Soviet delegation is asking Moscow for instructions.

When 20 signatures are attached the convention will go into effect 90 days later.

The convention provides specific legal processes for bringing violators to justice. Those persecuted may appeal to national courts, UN units, the international court of justice, or finally to a contingent special international penal court.

Professor Lemkin conceived the plan and coined the name genocide after the mass Nazi exterminations of the recent war.

Had Been Rebuffed

Lemkin had been rebuffed with a similar plan by the League of Nations. He also tried to introduce it at the Nuernberg trial, after the loss of his parents and relatives.

In the early UN sessions at Lake Success, N. Y., he persuaded the late Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovak foreign minister, to do spadework for him with the Soviet bloc.

After his great personal victory today Lemkin decided to leave Paris for Yale university. Then he will visit some 25 capitals, beginning with those in Latin America, to urge governments to ratify the convention and transform it into a universal law.

Russia tried vainly to attach three amendments. One would recognize as criminal "cultural genocide," or the destruction of libraries and religious edifices.

A second would have deleted the provision asking an international law commission for an opinion on establishing an international tribunal to try violators.

A third would call on signatories to disband organizations preaching racial or religious hatred.

U. S. Scores Objections

Russian speakers made it clear they objected to the international tribunal as a violation of "national sovereignty." This is the same cry they make against the majority atomic bomb control plan.

U. S. delegate Ernest Gross said limiting prosecution to a national court would make the convention "a fraud and a delusion." He criticized the Russians for belatedly offering amendments in the Assembly instead of the legal committee.

The Russians finally declared that "since, however, the convention recognizes genocide as a crime and calls upon all countries to punish offenders the Soviet Union will vote for it."

Russia's Andrei Vishinsky asked deferment of the declaration of human rights until the Sept. 1949, Assembly session. He claimed there were too many "abstract" provisions like the clause guaranteeing rights of personal freedom and security.

Mrs. Roosevelt Speaks

Mrs. Roosevelt backed the draft guaranteeing fundamental liberties as "a great event in both the life of the United Nations and the life of mankind."

"This declaration," she said, "may well become an international magna carta of all men everywhere. We hope its proclamation by the General Assembly will be an event comparable to the proclamation of the declaration of the rights of man by the French people in 1789, and adoption of the bill of rights by the people of the United State . . ."

Gen. Carlos Romulo of the Philippines praised Mrs. Roosevelt's contribution to the draft by saying:

"She has carried on with energy, distinction, courage and honor in the tradition of her late great husband who gave the world the concept of the four freedoms and in whose path we are proud and privileged to follow."

Their Future is in the Balance

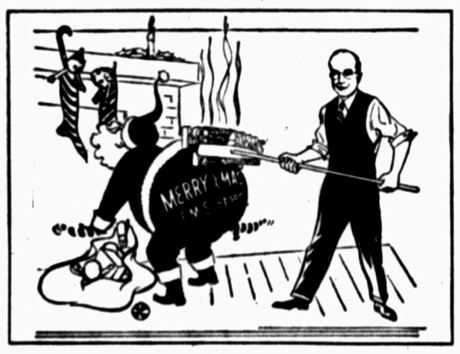

Meat animals are what they eat! It takes a balanced ration to keep them healthy, growing and gaining. Successful livestock men know this. Hundreds of controlled feeding experiments prove it. Morrison, the great feeding authority, states—"Lambs on unbalanced rations require 46% more corn and 15% more hay for each 100 pounds of gain!"

Balanced rations for hogs show spectacular results. Anyone can make a lot of fat and a little lean with corn and water. But that's the slow, expensive way. It takes a pile of corn to do it. But with corn balanced with proteins and minerals and vitamins hogs can be fed to market weights in six months or less. Think of the corn you can save—11 bushels of corn alone will make 100 pounds of pork, but only 6½ bushels of corn plus 35 pounds of protein supplement will do the same job faster.

Scores of feeding trials prove that a balanced ration pays with steers and lambs, whether on the range or in the feedlot. In fact, the same basic principle applies to all livestock and poultry. Forage and other homegrown feeds, properly balanced with proteins and minerals, make more and better meat pounds at less cost.

Continuous research affords new and exciting means of using available materials in improved rations for livestock. At first, tankage alone was used to add protein to hog rations. It did a good job. Then research proved that a combination of proteins is better than one kind alone. A mixture of tankage, soybean meal, linseed meal and, in some areas, cottonseed meal, produces better quality pork even faster. This improvement in rations makes for more efficient and economical use of proteins. But what about vitamins and minerals? Here, too, many advancements in techniques of supplying these nutrients have been made. Dehydrated alfalfa, milk solids, vitamin oils, and some synthetic sources provide essential vitamins and other factors. Mineral balance is necessary, too. Salt, the universal need, supplies sodium and chlorine. Steamed bone meal supplies calcium and phosphorus, and other major minerals. With these, alert research men now are combining other known essential elements, such as cobalt, manganese, iron, iodine, copper, and magnesium, to turn slow gainers into fast gainers.

How good are you kids at knowing the names of the animals used to help you play games?

In baseball, what part of a steer do you wear? Why, the glove has a padding that's made from its hair!

In what game would you say the pig best fits in? Yes, football, that's right—the ball's called a "pigskin"!

And the last time you walloped a tennis ball—wham! Did you know that the racket strings came from a—lamb?

By-products that meat packers save every day increase livestock values, make stockmen more pay.

First Calves Forecast Production

Marvin Koger

by Marvin Koger,
Animal Husbandman
New Mexico A. & M. Experiment Station

Want to estimate efficiency of calf production in your cow herd? The cow's first calf tells more than her good looks. In a New Mexico study, we took the weaning weights of first calves weaned by three-year-old cows. These weights were compared with the weaning weights of calves raised by these same cows in the next four years. Cows and calves were placed in five groups (according to the weaning weight of first calves). Here's the 5-year record:

Groups	Average First Calf Weight From 3-Year-Old Cows	Average Calf Weights From Same Cows for Next 4 Years
Group 1	321 pounds	404 pounds
Group 2	349 pounds	417 pounds
Group 3	383 pounds	430 pounds
Group 4	409 pounds	443 pounds
Group 5	441 pounds	456 pounds

Considering only the two extremes, Group One and Group Five, it was shown that breeding stock picked from Group One could be expected to produce, for the next four years, calves that had a yearly average weaning weight of only 404 pounds. But those picked from Group Five should produce calves with a yearly average weaning weight of 456 pounds, 52 pounds more than Group One.

These figures show that later calves are apt to be a repeat performance of the cow's first calf. Cows doing poorly their first calving year continued to produce the lightest group of calves. They were poor risks. Culling cows with light, scrubby first calves would be well repaid in greater profit through more efficient production.

If you would like a full report on this experiment, write to New Mexico A. & M. Experiment Station, State College, N. M.

BAKED HAM SLICE

Cover a 2-inch-thick slice of ham with honey or orange marmalade. Add 1 cup water or fruit juice. Bake in a covered pan in a slow oven (325° F.) about 25 to 30 minutes per pound (about 2 hours).

"It takes a big tractor to pull a heavy-duty plow"

This large tractor is especially designed to handle the big and heavy jobs—easily, efficiently, economically.

This little tractor is good when used for its proper purposes. But it is not built to pull such a heavy plow.

It's the same way with business, including the meat-packing business. There's need for all kinds and sizes of packing plants—large ones as well as small ones. Two-thirds of the livestock is produced west of the Mississippi River. Two-thirds of the meat is eaten east of it. Bringing meat and meat-eaters together is a big job!

That's where the "big tractor" proves its worth. The country needs nation-wide meat packers like Swift & Company. For with processing plants located where most of the livestock is raised, we can help bridge the gap between western range and feedlots and the kitchen range. It is an important job, filling the vital needs of producers and consumers. As we have served them over the years, we have grown. And as we have grown, so also our ability to serve has grown.

Benton Says Economic Stability May Be Best Form Of Defense

HOUSTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—A former assistant secretary of state tonight said the nation may find that economic stability is a better form of defense than even an enlarged Air Force.

William Benton, chairman of the board of Encyclopedia Britanniea, said the government's major problem is the achievement of economic stability despite heavier spending necessitated by the "cold war" with Russia.

Benton spoke before the annual banquet of the Houston Chamber of Commerce.

Fears Loss Of Freedoms

He said the new Truman administration will not be hostile but will be faced with grave problems which businessmen must share.

"The danger of continued inflation arises not from continuation or expansion of New Deal measures but from demands of the international crisis," he said.

"The dilemma is one of having to spend more money without letting this destroy us," he added.

"There is danger political and economic freedoms will be lost because of the need of an increasingly militarized economy," Benton said.

The former advertising executive said federal budgets of from $55 to $6 billions are possible in the future if international tension continues or increases.

Higher Taxes Foreseen

He also said business can expect higher taxes, presumably corporation taxes, but added that proper use of fiscal and monetary measures would minimize the need for direct intervention by the government in the nation's economy.

"The basic rule of a stabilizing budget is that tax revenues should rise relative to government expenditures in inflation and fall in depression," he said.

He referred briefly to the new report of the committee for economic development, of which he is vice chairman.

He said the report, to be released to newspapers tomorrow, cites reasons for confidence in the country's ability to maintain greater stability than in the past.

Red Strategy Described

It suggests that wise use of fiscal and monetary measures will reduce the need for governmental intervention in the economic field.

It also proposes a congressional commission to make a full study of the possibilities of improving banking, monetary, budgetary and related policies.

"This may seem strong medicine to some," he commented, "but it can be described as preventive medicine."

On the international situation, Benton said Russian strategy is based on the belief capitalism inevitably will collapse because of inherent weaknesses.

"This ideology requires Russia to expect and to prepare for the worst, to build its defenses and to spur forward the process of history, as rapidly as it can without inviting defeat, by weakening capitalism everywhere and by building anti-capitalist defenses," he said.

Judge Rules It Is Okay To Call Navy Officer 'Screwball'

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—It's all right to call your neighbor a "screwball" in Maryland, even if he happens to be a high-ranking naval officer.

Appellate Judge Edward S. Delaplaine decided yesterday that although "screwball" is an "epithet of disparagement . . . (it) does not connote opprobrium or reprehensibility."

In a courthouse just an anchor's throw from the U. S. Naval academy, the judge upheld a lower court ruling that Navy Capt. Thomas J. Kennedy wronged neighbor James T. Crouch by having him arrested for disorderly conduct for using the term. Crouch sued the Navy officer for "malicious prosecution," and won $1,400 damages in the lower court.

Explains Slang

"According to authorities on American slang," the judge explained, "the word 'screwball' has many synonyms such as blockhead, cabbagehead, dumbbell, galloot, goose, mutthead, mutton-head, sap, saphead and squarehead.

"The term may signify either (1) a peculiar or eccentric person like crackbrain, crackpot, crank, queer duck, queer fish, nut, queer potato and queer specimen, or (2) a stupid or insane person like batty, bughouse, crazy, boob, dippy, screwloose, and softhead."

But, said the judge, it's not a crime to use the epithet.

"Even in New Jersey," said Delaplaine, "it is recognized that not every derogatory epithet addressed by one person to another constitutes offensive language."

Crouch called Kennedy a "screwball" during an argument over residential zoning regulations in Silver Spring, Md., where both men live.

Ground Broken For Belton Reservoir

BELTON, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Ground was broken today for the Belton reservoir and dam two miles west of Belton after a barbecue and band concert.

Among those attending were Sen.-Elect Lyndon B. Johnson, Reps. W. R. Poage, Lindley Beckworth and Olin E. Teague, and Col. Henry Hutchings, Jr., division engineer of the southwest division, Corps of Engineers.

The ceremony attracted residents from at least seven towns in central Texas. High school bands were here from Cameron, Gatesville, Killeen and Temple. The ground-breaking was held on the Leon river near where the dam is to be built.

Work under way and proposed projects on the Brazos were outlined by Col. Hutchings. He said that much of the history of Texas hinges upon the existence of the Brazos.

The $42,000,000 Whitney Dam is under construction. The Belton dam is estimated to cost $23,000,000. Six additional dams proposed by the corps of engineers to cost a total of $100,000,000 include projects at Waco, Proctor, Lampasas, Laneport, Somerville and Ferguson, Hutchings said.

The Army engineer cited recreational possibilities on the reservoirs in addition to flood control and power on the Whitney and Belton dams.

Tabulations Show 48,680,009 Votes Cast In Nov. 2 Election

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—The total vote for president on Nov. 2, with all figures official except Connecticut's, was 48,680,009, second highest on record.

But the total number of ballots cast was 49,363,391 or 683,382 higher than the presidential total. This is explained by the fact that 16 states showed higher votes for state and local candidates than for the office of president.

Dewey Wins 16 States

This was one of the many striking features of the 1948 election which President Truman won with an electoral vote of 304 in 26 states against 189 for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in 16, and 38 for Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, States Rights candidate, in four.

The President polled a total of 24,104,548; Dewey 21,969,625; Thurmond 1,169,312; Henry A. Wallace, Progressive, 1,156,856; Norman Thomas, Socialist, 132,138; Claude A. Watson, Prohibition, 103,343; Edward A. Teichert, Socialist-Labor 27,921; Farrell Dobbs, Socialist Workers, 13,007 and the rest scattered.

HST Gains Plurality

Truman won only by a plurality—2,134,923—instead of a majority of all votes cast. This was the first time a candidate had failed to poll a majority since 1916.

Truman's percentage of the total vote was 49.5; Dewey's was 45.1, and the others combined 5.4.

Truman's highest plurality was 468,460 in Texas; next, 262,276 in his home state of Missouri. Dewey's biggest margin over Truman was in Pennsylvania, 149,771; in New Jersey, 85,669.

The total vote of 48,680,009 compared with the record of 49,820,312 in 1940 and 47,976,263 in 1944. Adding the excess state vote to the presidential vote for 1948 also failed to hit the record turnout of 1940.

Boy's Hanging Is Investigated

SPRINGFIELD, O., Dec. 9. (AP)—Police Inspector Lawrence Abbott said today the mother and step-father of seven-year-old John A. Smith were detained overnight for questioning about the boy's hanging death.

Young Smith was found hanging in a clothes closet of his home last night. The inspector said the boy's hands were tied behind his back so tightly the cord cut into the flesh.

Abbott said it was "practically impossible" for the death to be suicide.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Minnie Elix, 32, and stepfather, Roger Elix, 21, maintained steadfastly that young Smith killed himself, Abbott said.

"He was always tying himself up around the house," Abbott quoted the mother as saying. No charges were filed against Mr. and Mrs. Elix.

Incident Described

Abbott said the parents gave this version of the incident:

They were sitting in a bedroom when John walked past the door and entered a closet. When he did not come out after a few minutes, they investigated and found him hanging by a leather belt.

Inspector Abbott said a cardboard box was found in the closet, and the boy possibly could have stood on this to tie the belt around a coat hook.

"However, the hook appears to be too high," he continued. "It would be practically impossible for the boy to have done it himself."

Coroner Austin Richards said he would perform an autopsy later today.

Briton Thinks U. S. Plumbing Simpler, To Become Citizen

FORT WORTH, Dec. 9. (INS)—Dennis Mould has an idea American plumbers have an easier task than their British contemporaries.

Anyway, he's in Fort Worth to find out for sure. Mould, a Manchester, England, plumber has entered the United States under the immigration quota and plans to become a U. S. citizen.

His sister and brother-in-law, Mr and Mrs. Harry L. Binger live in Fort Worth. They met and were married in 1943 while Binger was serving in the Eighth Air Force.

After wrestling with the intricacies of English plumbing all these years, Mould decided to join them and plans to ply his trade in Fort Worth.

ALBANY, N. Y. (U.P.)—William Ladislaus Thomas Wisniewski told the judge it took registration for the World War I draft for him to learn that his real name was not Walter DeBerry. The judge granted his plea for a change of name when he explained that his parents had intended to name him Walter and he had been known as DeBerry all his life except on two occasions—when he signed up for the 1947 draft and in 1925 when he was married.

Scientists Discover Compounds To Fight Antibodies In Blood

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 9 (INS)—A group of Notre Dame university scientists disclosed today they have discovered two chemical compounds capable of neutralizing dangerous RH antibodies in the blood.

Such antibodies are thought to cause still-births and miscarriages in pregnancy, and jaundice and other blood diseases in newborn infants.

Dr. Charles C. Price, Notre Dame chemistry department head, headed the group which made its preliminary report in "the journal of the American Chemical society."

Research Experimental

Dr. Price emphasized that research with the compounds still is in the experimental and clinical stages. He explained that he and his associates are now attempting to determine the structure of the compounds.

He said that if they are successful, this will pave the way for synthesizing the compounds. The compounds could then be used to prevent diseases resulting from the RH factor.

Only a small number of persons are affected by the RH factor. It results when one parent has RH positive blood and the other RH negative blood.

It is possible, during pregnancy, for an unborn child with RH positive blood to interchange blood with the mother with RH negative. This results in the creation of an RH antibody in the mother's blood.

If such an antibody should come into contact with the RH positive blood cells of the unborn child, it would cause these blood cells to stick together, and might result in miscarriage or stillbirth, or jaundice and other blood diseases.

Downtown Cleveland Has Many Beer Parlors, But Little Milk

CLEVELAND, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—A survey by 50 sociology students here disclosed that there are 327 beer parlors in downtown Cleveland and 13,000 children in the area suffering health disorders from lack of milk.

More than one-third of the bars are within 1,000 feet of a public school, the Fenn College sociology department showed.

The area surveyed is a six square-mile segment enclosing the city's heavily-populated near-downtown region. Church attendance at the 115 places of worship within the area was found to be irregular, but more than 82 per cent of the children attend one or more motion pictures a week.

Tom Green County's First Flowing Well Is Completed

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 9. (AP)—Plymouth Oil company's No. 1 J. Wiley Green, first flowing oil well in Tom Green county, gauged 50.7 barrels of high gravity crude naturally in 10 hours ending at 6 a. m. today.

It ceased flowing one hour later and the quarter-inch tubing choke was found plugged with drilling mud.

When the choke was removed the well resumed flowing oil to pits at a rate estimated by the operators at 15 to 20 barrels hourly. The oil was free from formation water. Gas-oil ration was estimated at 300-1.

B-36 Ends Long Trip

Honolulu said there was no advance notice to the Honolulu headquarters concerning the flight.

He said any radar contact would have registered a friendly identification signal, but acknowledged that he had no report the B-36 was specifically identified.

"Only slight engine trouble was encountered," said pilot Bartlett. "One engine gave us a little trouble on the return trip and we had to feather a prop on another for a short distance."

Bartlett, first Seventh Bomb wing pilot to be checked out on the B-36, emphasized that no "cheating" was done on the flight. "The plane wasn't stripped," he said. "We carried tons of combat equipment including three six-man life rafts."

He said the "useful bomb load" was dropped somewhere between Hawaii and the United States mainland.

"We still had some range left when we got back Wednesday night," Bartlett added "but I'm not allowed to say how much."

Bartlett turned in his report on the flight Thursday.

Bartlett was in the headlines in September a year ago, when the B-29 which he was flying crash landed in the Azores and skidded 3,500 feet with disaster facing the pilot and his 20 man crew.

The B-29, returning to Fort Worth from a training tour in Germany, lost two engines on a takeoff.

Bartlett, a captain at the time, was described in the official report of the incident as having done a superior job in saving the aircraft and the lives of his crew.

Former New Orleans Newsman Claimed In Texas Hospital

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 9. (AP)—Col. J. W. F. "Bill" Moore, 55-year-old former New Orleans newspaper man, died yesterday in Brooke General hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, friends here advised today.

Moore was flown to the Texas hospital for treatment of cancer last September while serving with the war crimes commission in Yokohama, Japan.

His death followed an operation about a week ago.

Moore was born at Andersonville, Indiana. He started out in the newspaper business as a typesetter, later attending the University of Wisconsin.

He served as a lieutenant and instructor in field artillery in the first world war, and afterwards was a professor of military science and tactics at Cornell university.

Moore was a member of the staff of the New Orleans Item for about 12 years, rejoining the United States Army in 1941 and serving in the Pacific area. He was elevated to rank of colonel in the field artillery in June, 1947.

His body will be brought to New Orleans for funeral services and burial.

Iraq is considering a five-year plan for mechanized farming which includes the use of 2,000 tractors, 450 combine-harvesters and 100 stationary threshers.

GRAND OPENING!!
FEATURING NEW BUICK MODELS

TOMORROW & SUNDAY!

FIRST SHOWING OF THE '49 BIUCK

FORMAL OPENING OF OUR NEW BUILDING

This is the high point of almost 20 years' dependable Buick service by the Scoggin-Dickey Buick Co. Grouped around this page are views which show details of our ultra-modern new building, 1917 Texas Avenue. Each tells part of the story about our plant, its equipment and personnel; for a first-hand inspection, we invite you to join our Grand Opening visitors tomorrow and Sunday. Members of our staff will guide you through the large Sales and Service building, as well as our Body and Paint shop nearby.

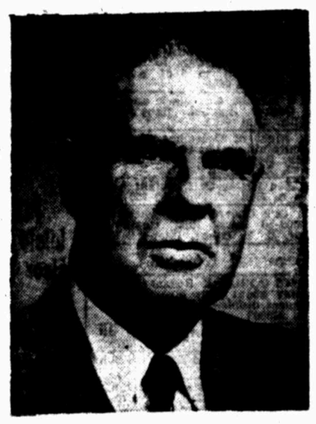

Of special interest in the Sales room will be the 1949 Buick, a car beyond the limits of automotive expectation. Get the close-up feel of its luxurious interior . . . see the comprehensive improvements that make the 1949 Buick the car for the years.

You will also enjoy a trip through our vast Service department, which has been constructed to take care of as many as 17 cars at one time. Our adjacent Parts department supplies our trained mechanics with genuine Buick parts to be used in servicing your car. For wheel adjustment, there is a new VISUALINER installation; engine cleaning is done faster and better with new steam equipment; our Circo DE-GREASING machine quickly removes grease and grime on parts being repaired; accuracy is a daily standard in our new machine tool room.

Look forward to Buick service that stands out like the Buick pylon at 1917 Texas Avenue, from the Scoggin - Dickey Buick Co. Come, and bring your family to our Grand Opening tomorrow and Sunday!

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP)—Soybeans paced a downturn in prices of all commodities on the board of trade today. Losses in beans ran to around 6 cents at times and caused a general weakening in grains and lard.

Losses in grains were mostly confined to a cent or less. Cash wheat receipts increased at major markets and cash corn was offered more freely by the country. Dealers placed purchases of corn on a to-arrive basis at around 175,000 bushels.

Wheat closed ⅝-1 ⅜ lower, December $2.39 ½-⅝, corn was ⅝-1 ⅛ lower, December $1.43 ⅝-⅝, oats were ¼-¾ lower, December 81 ⅛-¼.

In World War II there were 480,000 Marines. Ninety-eight per cent of Marine officers and 89 per cent of Marine enlisted men served overseas during the war. Of the total Marines in uniform were 19,000 Women Reserves.

MARKET AGAIN SLUMPS

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (AP)—Selling pressure put the stock market on the defensive for the third session in a row today.

Final prices showed a clear-cut majority of losses running from fractions to a point or more.

Volume of 1,320,000 shares was tops for a week and compared with 1,140,000 Wednesday. It was the 12th full session in which turnover exceeded 1,000,000 shares.

Many stocks that normally hug the background supplied more than their share of the day's business. Traders generally showed an inclination to single out that type of security for attention rather than some of the old standbys.

Heaviest traded issue was Barnsdall Oil. The price dropped almost immediately after Atlas Corp. announced the purchase of the minimum 200,000 shares which the company had said it would buy at 45. Atlas, an investment company, added that it might buy more Barnsdall stock but would not maintain a continuous firm bid for 45. The issue finished ⅝ lower at 44⅝. Following the original Atlas offer several days ago, the price jumped around 3 points to 45 and stayed there.

Another active issues, Electric and Musical Industries, Ltd., edged ahead ⅛ to 2. The buying interest in EMI was evidently a carryover from general demand for radio and television stocks yesterday. Others in that group which advanced yesterday, however, fell back today, including Radio Corp. at 13⅝ and Farnsworth at 7⅛.

Two oil issues were among the widest movers. Plymouth oil advanced more than 3 points at one time, and closed 2⅛ higher at 43½, after word from Dallas that the company had brought in a discovery well.

Amerada Petroleum showed a 2-point gain at 83½ following an extra dividend of $2 a share.

Also higher were Pacific Tin, Shell Union Oil, Lerner Stores, McGraw Electric, Bethlehem Steel, Packard, Studebaker, Deere, General Electric, Dow Chemical, N. Y. Central, Paramount Pictures and Warner Bros.

On the losing side were U. S. Steel, Midland Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Glenn Martin, Schenley, American Telephone, Consolidated Natural Gas, Kennecott Copper, American Can, Du Pont, Philip Morris, American Tobacco, Santa Fe, Standard Oil (NJ) Mission Corp., and Pacific Western Oil.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .3 of one point to 64.1.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Cotton futures were easy today under pressure of profit taking, and selling by local traders and New Orleans. Offerings were absorbed on the scale down through mill and export buying. Covering against export sales, however, was smaller than in recent sessions. Traders attributed the reaction to technical reasons following the recent sustained advance in the market and the lack of aggressive demand for cotton goods.

According to some reports, the recent advance in raw cotton prices brought out a fair amount of offerings from holders who have withdrawn their cotton from the market, although not placing it in the government loan.

Futures closed 45 cents to $1.80 a bale lower than the previous close.

Transport Workers Union Bars Reds, Sympathizers From Office

CHICAGO, Dec. 9. (AP)—The CIO Transport Workers union today unanimously barred Communists and their "consistent supporters" from holding union office.

It also adopted wage program calling for $2 an hour for a 40-hour week. This demand was made in reports of new officers elected Monday in a sweeping purge of left-wing elements. It called for pensions, welfare funds, increased vacations and more holidays.

New Constitution Okayed

The anti-Communist provision, adopted at the closing session of the sixth biennial convention, was part of an entirely new constitution for the union. This is patterned along the lines of the CIO United Steel workers document. It gives TWU President Michael J. Quill and his executive board powers to root out people who "fail or refuse to carry out instructions or act in violation of the constitution."

Quill is vested with complete powers to interpret the constitution and to hire and fire organizers and employes.

The board is given power to revoke local charters upon initiative of the president and to expel or suspend the locals.

Demonstration Touched Off

It was the anti-Communist provision, however, which touched off the biggest demonstration of the four-day convention. It provides that "no member shall be eligible for nomination or election or appointment (to any local or national office) who is a member, consistent supporter, or who actively participates in the activities of the Communist party, or of any fascist, totalitarian, or other subversive organization which opposes the democratic principles to which our union and our nation are dedicated."

The wage program had these provisions:

Two dollars an hour for a 40 hour week. Most of their members work a 44 to 48 hour week.

Jensions of one-half the highest wage, to start after 25 years service.

Increased vacations and more holidays.

Fort Worth Man Will Instruct Argentine Navy In PT Boat Use

FORT WORTH, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—A Fort Worth man who holds four decorations from the U. S., Great Britain, and France for outstanding service aboard the speedy PT boats during World War II, will serve as advisor to the Argentine navy, it was reported today.

He is Edwin A. Dubose, who left this week for Buenos Aires, where he will assume duties as tactical advisor to the Argentine navy in PT boat operations. He will instruct their personnel until April.

Dubose is a lieutenant commander in the U. S. naval reserve, and holds the Navy Cross and the Silver Star, in addition to the British DSC, and the French Croix de Guerre. He took part in invasions of North Africa, Sicily, Salerno, Anzio, Southern France, and the Philippines.

Driver Unhurt As Engine Wrecks Car

RENO, Nev., Dec. 9. (AP)—The car of Alton E. Glass, jr., 22, stalled just as the front wheels crossed the tracks at a railroad crossing today.

A westbound Southern Pacific passenger train was approaching.

Glass dived into the back seat.

The train crashed the front of the machine. Glass emerged unhurt from the rear.

It is safe to keep canned food in the cans it comes in, if it is kept cool and covered, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Actress Appears As Witness In $65,732 Damage Action

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9. (AP)—Madge Meredith insists that her presence at the scene of a kidnaping and beating was merely coincidental and that she had no part in it.

The 27-year-old actress appeared yesterday as a witness at a trial of a $65,732 damage suit brought by Verne V. Davis, who with Nick Gianaclis, former manager of Miss Meredith, was beaten in the alleged attack last June 30.

The actress is one of four defendants in the suit and is free on bond pending appeal of her criminal conviction of participating in the assault. She was sentenced to five years to life.

Miss Meredith told the court she didn't recognize any of the persons who stopped Gianaclis and Davis.

Brief Bits Of Local News

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Riddle of 2016 Broadway left Lubbock by train Wednesday for San Diego, Calif., where they will attend funeral services for Mrs. Riddle's brother-in-law, Frank Baumgardner, who died Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ancil M. Douthit and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Lorene Daniel, have returned to Lubbock from McKinney, where they spent three weeks with Ancil M. Douthit after he underwent a lung operation in the veterans' hospital there. Douthit's condition was reported as greatly improved, and he is expected to return to his home here soon.

Regular Sabbath evening service will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at Congregation Shaareth Israel, Twenty-third and Avenue Q, it has been announced by Rabbi Julius Kerman, who said his sermon subject will be "Character."

H. A. Cunningham, about 30, suffered cuts of one knee and was taken to Lubbock Memorial hospital for treatment early Thursday afternoon, as one of the results of a collision between two police motorcycles and a car driven by L. W. Tucker, 47, of 2410 Twenty-seventh. B. H. Dorman, another patrolman, was riding the second motorcycle. A report entered by R. O. Christesson and Tom Everheart, prowl car patrolmen, said Tucker suddenly braked his car and turned to the right in 1600-block Ave. H, about 1:32 p. m., to get in a parking lane. When he did so the motorcycles, following him, skidded into him. Tucker was given tickets charging negligent collision and failure to have an operator's license on his person, the investigators said.

Deer Waits For Michigan Farmer To Get License And Ammunition

MONTGOMERY, Mich., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Lowell Hawkins can thank a patient deer for his success on a first attempt at game hunting.

He saw a 10-point buck grazing with a herd of cattle and called conservation officials to find out what he should do about it.

"No," said the conservation department. "You can't shoot it with your rifle because you don't have a license, and besides, you must use buckshot for deer."

Hawkins drove into town and got the license and buckshot. The deer was waiting in the pasture when Hawkins returned and he dropped it with one shot.

GRAND JURY ALSO UNDER FIRE

Testimony In Spy Hearing Is Slightly Confused, Writer Says

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—If a pulp magazine hack tried to sell the Hiss-Chambers mystery to an editor, and put down the events just as they have been happening of late, he'd wind up with a surly rejection slip.

This one is confusing even for a Congressional committee, where a certain amount of native confusion is routine. Everybody seems to want in this particular act, and one wonders whether some appalling important business isn't being trampled to death here by double-talk, vapory allegations, false alarms, too many statements from too many spokesmen and professional jealousy.

Jury On Spot

For a time the other night when Isaac Don Levine was on the stand it appeared that the House Un-American Activities committee was going to put the federal grand jury on trial. The Congressmen are plainly sore as unpunctured boils because the feds ,who seemed to go to sleep on this case for many months, awoke with a lurch recently and grabbed the committee's two prize exhibits—Hiss and Chambers.

What followed after that was a fantastic jig-saw which, it is to be regretted, has had the caucus room guffawing from time to time.

The committee announced late last week that it would begin public hearings last Tuesday at 2 p. m. It yelled for its two bristling witnesses, but the FEDS wouldn't spring them out of New York. So the committee said okay, smarty, we'll have our hearing at 2 o'clock anyway, but it will be closed.

But at 11 a. m. Tuesday morning the committee said that the thing would be open anyway. It opened indeed at 2 p. m., on the motion of Rep. Hebert (D) La., it was immediately closed. Mr. Hebert explained that he had not had time to study the day's business. The boys retired to a private chamber.

Fifteen minutes later they were back. The hearing was open again.

Rep. Nixon's office was giving out conflicting statements under his name while Nixon was boating to Panama. Rep. Mundt was issuing other statements through the committee Hawkshaw, Mr. Stripling. On Thursday afternoon Mr. Mundt went on a local television show to state that the committee had nabbed one of the "mysterious" witnesses it has been trailing. Half an hour later he announced that the committee had not nabbed same.

There was considerable furore over a Mr. Peurifoy's assertion that other governments—Mundt said they were the Russians and probably the Germans and Japs—were able to break what was called "the State Department code" by reason of securing whatever dope Chambers, a retreaded Communist, was able to turn over to them a decade ago.

Chambers Is Defended

Truth of the matter is that there are a number of State Department codes and it has been the practice of the department for years to give them a shuffle every few months. Further to achieve secrecy in transmission, the department sends a message in one code to a certain point and then it is relayed on to its eventual destination — through other stations — in separate codes.

Mr. Peurifoy amended his testimony 24 hours later to the extent of inserting a "maybe" or two into what he had said.

Levine placed the name of Donald Hiss into the proceedings the other night, and made it pretty strong that. this Hiss was mixed up in what we call the underground apparatus. But members of the committee itself took reporters aside later on to recommend that they forget about Donald because everybody else says he's a peachy fellow.

As for Chambers, he was pictured Thursday night as a shining knight and loveable patriot for admitting that he was once an active cog in a sleepless machinery which seeks to overthrow the government which then, and now, affords him some fame, fortune and security. The FEDS were depicted as a villainous lot bent on throwing the book at the poor innocent soul. If it had gone another ten minutes I, for one, would have chipped in to any kitty raised to buy Chambers a medal.

Mechanic Must Pay Life For Assault

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec 9 (AP)—A 28-year-old motor car mechanic must pay with his life for slaying a young nurse whom he raped on their first date.

A Pulaski circuit court jury yesterday convicted Thomas Edwin Black of murder in a verdict that carries an automatic penalty of death.

Black testified that he and 25-year-old Betty Jane McCall parked at a secluded spot after they had been dancing at a night club and that the nurse offered "very little" resistance when he had sexual intercourse with her.

Bites His Hand

Later, Miss McCall bit his hand, he said, when he sought to pacify her during a "small argument," and he struck her.

"The next thing I remember I was lying on the left side under the steering wheel and she was over on the other side," Black said. "I thought she was asleep."

Black later drove the nurse's bloodstained body to police headquarters. The rape-slaying occurred early Sept. 23.

Army Documents Show Rommel Was Killed On Hitler's Order; Branded 'Defeatist'

By LEON SHLOSS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — The Army announced today that Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel had Field Marshal Erwin Rommel murdered on an order from Adolph Hitler.

The disclosure was made in the 11th and final volume of Documents covering the record of the war trials at Nuremberg, in which associate Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson was the American chief prosecutor. The volume will be available to the public Monday.

Keitel, German chief of staff who with Admiral Erich Raeder concluded the Nazi surrender, confessed to arranging Rommel's murder in a pre-trial interrogation.

Keitel said the widely-publicized commander of the Nazi Afrika Korps was killed because he was a 'defeatist." The conspirator admitted the official announcement of Rommel's death as a suicide was a lie and said a state funeral was held to protect the slain officer's "honor."

Reports from Germany at the time of Rommel's death said he was killed when an automobile in which he was riding was strafed by an airplane.

Keitel later testified at the war crime strials that Rommel actually had shot himself when informed he was about to be arrested for plotting against Hitler's life.

The Army did not explain why Keitel's confession, obtained before the trials, was withheld when the Field Marshal gave the conflicting testimony before the war crimes court.

Keitel was convicted of war crimes and hanged.

Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, also convicted and hanged, told interrogators that Hitler always complained that the English acted toward him "like a governess."

Franz von Papen, veteran German diplomat and spy who was acquitted at Nuremberg but later jailed for eight years by a denazification court, told his questioners about Hitler: "He was the greatest crook I ever knew."

A note of grim humor was injected into the pre-trial interrogations by the notorious Jew-baiter, Julius Streicher, who solemnly testified that he had always been a Zionist at heart and only wanted to re-settle the Jews on the island of Madagascar.

In an interview between Justice Jackson and Von Ribbentrop, arranged at the foreign minister's request, von Ribbentrop offered to assume "political responsibility" for the Nazi regime if the trials could be called off.

Jackson eventually forced von Ribbentrop to admit that what he had in mind was taking "responsibility" for everything except the deeds which it was the object of the trial to punish.

Also related in the volume is the lack of German knowledge of American progress on development of the atom bomb and War Production Minister Albert Speer's warning to Hitler in June, 1944, that the Allies had destroyed 90 percent of Germany's supply of aviation gasoline.

Speer also told the Nazi fuehrer that Ruhr and Saar coal production were down to 12½ and 4½ per cent, respectively, of normal.

Hitler's reaction was a scorched-earth order for obliteration of industry, communications and transportation systems. Speer's documents show he frustrated Hitler's plan by issuing secret orders forbidding destruction in order to leave Germany a chance for future rehabilitation.

The volume also describes how Germany and Russia in a single day's conferences agreed on the text of their non-aggression pact, including the secret annex dividing Poland, the Baltic states and Bessarabia between them.

U. S. Tourists Credited With Hiking Canada's Liquor Bill

OTTAWA, Ont. Dec. 9 (AP)—The Canadian statistics bureau reports that $525,000,000 was spent on alcoholic beverages in the dominion in the year ended March, 1947.

But the statistics bureau doesn't want Canadians to hog all the credit.

It noted that "several million" visiting tourists from the United States helped run up the bill.

Pennsylvania Prison Wants To Know Why Its Rugs Won't Sell

READING, Pa., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Berks County prison officials are trying to solve the mystery of the missing rag rug sales.

Loomed rag rugs are an important industry of prison inmates and sales are now the lowest in more than 30 years.

Charles Seifert, president of the prison board, said nobody but country folk and people in the anthracite regions are buying rag carpets these days. Three prison inspectors have been directed to find out why.

Changes In Support Level For Government Bonds Are Studied

(By The International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.— The federal reserve system was urged today to reduce the support level for long-term government bonds if inflationary conditions continue.

The recommendation was made by the committee for economic development as part of a 10-point program for achieving greater stability in government monetary and fiscal policies.

A report prepared by a subcommittee of CED businessmen, under the direction of J. Cameron Thomson, of Minneapolis, president of the Northwest Bancorporation, declared:

"We are fully aware that fiscal and monetary policy cannot be the whole of a program for economic stability . . . (But) they are now particularly urgent areas in which action can be taken promptly.

The CED's ten recommendations were:

In periods of inflation—Hold tax rates stable; tighten the reserve position of banks; use government surplus to retire debt held by commercial banks; refund maturing government debt so as to reduce holdings of the banking system; reduce volume of federal loans and guarantees of loans.

In periods of depression—Hold tax rates stable; expand money supply and increase bank reserves; finance the deficit by borrowing; re-finance maturing federal debt in part by borrowing; expand volume of federal loans and guarantees.

The CED also advocated creation by Congress of a temporary commission to make a year or two-year study of national monetary and financial policies; a federal loan council to coordinate government lending in the domestic field, and overhauling of congress' own fiscal machinery.

Thomson declined to say whether CED's "inflation" or "depression" recommendations should be instituted now. He said it was "impossible to predict whether the inflationary potential is going to get worse or whether deflationary trends will predominte.

The Minneapolis banker said a lot will depend on the size of the 1940 federal budget, particularly military and foreign aid items. Thomason added that he had heard "three sets of figures on the budget, none of them lower than the present one."

Thomason stressed that if inflation gets worse, the lowering of the federal reserve support price on long-term government bonds would be one of the most effective anti-inflation moves. Federal reserve now is supporting the bonds at slightly above par.

The CED official agreed that reduction of the support price might boost interest rates and raise costs of handling the national debt. But he defended the move as a method of restricting money supply in an inflationary economy.

Thomason indicated that the question of whether tax rates should be stabilized at the present level would depend on the size of the new budget which President Truman will present to Congress next month. He opposed an excess profits tax, however, as inappropriate in peacetime.

CED's report emphasized that government fiscal action to moderate instability "involves no enlargement of the sphere of government power." The document said:

"'In a word, our economy tends to be unstable partly because it is free, progressive and properous. We would not make our economy less free, progressive and prosperous in order to make it more stable.

"But we can change other characteristics of our economy in a way that will strengthen its capacity to resist fluctuations while remaining free, progressive and prosperous."

Ohio Hen Unable To Lay Golden Egg, But Starts With Nickel

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 9 (INS)—Nobody's ever found the hen that laid the golden egg, but Mrs. Lang Page of Blanchester, O., says she's found one that laid a nickel.

Mrs. Page showed neighbors the egg with a nickel lodged between the alubumen and the shell.

The egg was not for sale—but the nickel was o. k.

Most Of Denver's 'Missing' Persons Usually Reappear

DENVER, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—According to the head of Denver's missing persons bureau, "whodunit" writers would find little inspiration in records of the 100 individuals who drop out of sight each month.

Capt. E. S. Davis said Denver's missing persons just don't seem to become murder victims. Davis finds that 80 per cent of them show up within a month after their disappearance, most of them under their own power.

Of the remaining 20 per cent, most of them are found after searches by authorities.

Davis has a pointer for those en route to the Sahara to escape a mother-in-law. Phoney amnesia is fairly easy to spot and real amnesia is as rare as a picture of Joseph Stalin without a mustache.

Denver Man Claims Colorado Larger Than Lone Star State

DENVER, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Here's some news on the square that Texans, wherever they live, will find hard to swallow.

Thomas B. Burnite of Denver says that Colorado is large than Texas—in a cubic way, that is, because of its mountains.

Burnite points out that Colorado's volume of 134,349 cubic miles is first in the nation, while flat Texas' 86,070 cubic miles is a measly ninth.

Modern Streamlined Hen Sets New Egg Production Records

FRESNO, Calif., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Today's hen, living proof of the value of scientific breeding, turns out 50 per cent more eggs than did her counterpart at the beginning of the century.

Ray Houck, assistant farm adviser for Fresno County, ascribes the production line speed-up in the nation's hen-houses to organized flock improvement by planned breeding, use of commercial hatcheries and improved feed.

Solon Claims Half Of Nation's Doctors Will Oppose AMA Fund

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—Rep. Dingell (D-Mich) predicted today that more than half of the members of the American Medical association will refuse to contribute to a fund to oppose a government health insurance program.

The association's house of delegates decided last week to assess each of the 140,000 AMA members $25 to finance such a campaign.

Dingell, one of the sponsors of legislation under which wages and payrolls would be taxed to meet hospital and doctor's bills, called the organization's action "a declaration of war."

"Mr. average citizen is going to have to accept the challenge," he told a reporter.

Statement Is Challenged

Dingell said nearly all doctors he has talked to are in sympathy with the legislation, once it has been explained to them, "but they don't have a free expression."

In Chicago, Dr. George F. Lull, secretary and general manager of the American Medical Association, said Dingell "doesn't know what he is talking about when he states that more than half of the doctors in the United States will not contribute to the AMA assessment fund for public education."

"It would be interesting to know how Mr. Dingell arrived at his conclusion," Dr. Lull said. "There are about 140,000 practicing physicians in the United States and it's a bit doubtful that he interviewed one-half of them.

"The fund which the house of delegates of the AMA voted in St. Louis last week is not a war chest or propaganda fund as scores of government paid information experts have led the people to believe," he asserted.

Farmers Are Called New Aristocrats Of Germany

CANADOIGUA, N. Y., Dec. 9.—Germany's new aristocrats are the farmers, according to Albert Hoefer, New York State 4-H Club agents' leader.

Hoefer spoke here on four months he spent in Germany with a government program to aid in developing and investigating youth programs in the former Reich.

"I'd hate to spend five years in the Germany of today," he said. "Nothing is rebuilt. There is nothing to build with. Iron, steel, wood is scarce. Needles, pins and thread are unheard of. They are patching the patches and darning the darns.

"I didn't see a well-dressed or well-fed city person all the time I was in Germany. I didn't have the heart to photograph the youngsters outside my headquarters. They were pitiful. On the other hand, country people are surviving very well. They have food. In the cities I saw actual starvation."

PRESERVED PHILIP

The head of the Indian King Philip, who led a massacre of New England colonists, was kept on a pole in Plymouth for 25 years, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

JURY BELIEVES

Woman Cleared On Parrot Deal

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 9. A federal court jury has accepted the story of Mrs. Ray Hofmeister of Houston that she spoke first before 10 parrots turned stool pigeons.

The jury last night acquitted Mr. and Mrs. Hofmeister of charges of illegally importing the birds from Mexico.

The couple was arrested here September 2 and the birds were seized by customs agents.

Mrs. Hofmeister, testifying yesterday, denied any attempt was made to conceal the parrots. She said that when a customs agent asked "what are you bringing back? she replied:

"Nothing but the pollies."

Government witnesses testified that the parrots were in a talkative mood and that their chattering tipped off their presence in the car. They didn't quote the parrots.

Mexico Nears Completion Of Pan-American Road Section

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9. (INS)—Completion of the Pan American highway according to the plans of the Inter-American Federation of Automobile clubs would open up Mexico and Central America to an estimated 69 million tourists annually.

All but the last 70 miles of the Mexican section near the Guatemalan frontier is completed and that is awaiting favorable weather conditions. Reports say the south end of Mexico's highway is impassible mud and that construction must be done by hand rather than by heavy road machinery.

Several Central American countries have been holding off from improving their sections until those between them and the United States are in order. They fear, it is understood, that their stretches of highway will be useless until the connecting links have been built.

Battle Against Disease Is Pushed In Mexican Schools

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9. (INS)—More than one million rats were killed, 200,000 more captured alive and 40,000 school children were deloused during July, August and September.

This record was set up by the rat, parasite and typhoid control campaign's office in the Federal District. The campaign is designed to prevent outbreaks of parasite transmitted diseases such as smallpox, typhus fever and bubonic plague.

Operating in conjunction with the Institute of Terpical Diseases, the campaign personnel have managed to rid Mexico City's cinemas of the plague of rats which infested them last spring and have cleaned up many of the poorer areas of the city from rats and fleas.

Among the latest novelties is a musical wedding album which plays "Here Comes the Bride" whenever it is opened to display the pictures taken on the Great Day.

U.S. Officials Studying Plans For Possible Trade With Slavs

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

United States officials apparently are convinced now that the Cominform-Tito split was not a phony and that greater trade between Yugoslavia and the West can be undertaken safely.

Yugoslavia has been under close scrutiny for the six months since Russia made her futile effort to oust Tito in favor of a regime which would pay less attention to nationalistic interests and more to the international program of the Communists.

Soviets Planned Revenge

There were signs of fear on the part of the Kremlin that Tito's tendency toward independence from Russian guidance might lead him into a position of neutrality in the cold war or any subsequent hot war. The Cominform underestimated the power of Yugoslav nationalism.

Tito still expresses loyalty to the idea of Communism, but insists that it can exist on a national basis without subservience to the rule of international obedience by which Russia's imperialists attempt to extend their materialistic domain.

The attempted purge having failed, Russia has been reduced to other forms of punishment for what it considers a renegade.

The United States is reported reviewing its export license policy toward Yugoslavia with a view to liberalization. There is no indication, however, that any chances will be taken with truly strategic materials which, through a change in Balkan political winds, might become a part of Russian military potential. Tito is a long way from being accepted as a partner.

There are also indications that steps will be taken to make it easier for Marshall Plan countries in Europe, particularly Italy, to trade with Belgrade.

Australia is getting twice as many British immigrants as those from any other nation.

EXPLOSION ROCKS PORTLAND WATERFRONT—Firemen battle flames in the wreckage of the Portland Dock Commission Building at Portland, Oregon, after leaking gas blew up the structure. Only one person, an engineer who turned on a light switch that set off the blast, was injured.

WIDOW'S MITE MIGHTY

MALDEN, Mass. (U.P.)—When Mrs. Briget Ahern O'Callaghan, 68, a supposedly penniless widow, died here, police found in her tenement cash, bonds and bank books totaling $21,000.

Technical specialists and some farmers made up the group of 716 European immigrants who arrived recently at Valparaiso, Chile, aboard the American transport "General Black."

Lauritz Melchior Welcomes Bid To Join Barbershop Singers

BEAUMONT, Dec. 9. (INS)—The Beaumont chapter of the Society For The Preservation And Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America is about to gain a distinguished member.

When famed Metropolitan opera star Lauritz Melchior sang recently in Beaumont, he was invited to join the local SPEBSQSA boys in a bit of harmonizing. He pleaded a previous engagement.

But member Lloyd Bumpas subsequently received a letter from Melchior asking if he might join the organization. Bumpas is certainly going to try to get the noted "voice" in.

But it's difficult to decide just who is more pleased at the opportunity.

Melchior wrote that he had never belonged to such a group—although it has always been one of his fondest desires.

Boating Club Suggests Use Of Postcard To Set Spark Plugs

CHICAGO, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—The Outboard Boating Club of America says the post office will help you check the gap in your spark plugs if you don't happen to have a convenient feeler gauge to run between the electrodes.

The gap should be from .020 to .025 inches wide, it says. Since an ordinary U. S. government postal card is approximately .010 inches thick, boating enthusiasts, or just plain motorists, can get a fairly accurate reading without much trouble merely by slipping two cards through the gap.

And, the organization adds, "if you can split a postcard in half for the extra .0[illegible] an inch, you're welcome to try."

Nebraskan Says Civilization Has Scared Ducks From State

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—The trouble with ducks, according to Lloyd Vance of the Nebraska game department, is nobody knows enough about them.

Vance wants to know where the birds are going, where they've been and why they left in the first place. There are fewer in Nebraska now than when the Indians roamed the plains, he said, and civilization is to blame. Farming, draining and grazing have scared the fowl away, Vance said.

Since civilization apparently is here to stay, Vance thought it likely the duck eventually will go the way of the dodo. But don't sell your shotgun. He adds "not in our time."

Italian Film Industry Offering World New Expression Rebirth

By EDWARD D. KLERR
INS Staff Writer

ROME, Dec. 9—The Italian film industry, overcoming the handicaps of antiquated equipment and frugal budgets, is offering world moviegoers talent-starred pictures in a "new renaissance in movie expression."

The postwar Italian film industry on the banks of the Tiber has turned out such acclaimed classics as "Open City," "Shoeshine," "Paisan" and "The Miracle."

Eric Johnston, president of the American Producers association told Italian film men in Rome recently that they are inspiring a "renaissance."

He also told the actors, directors and technicians to keep up the high level of their work, stressing:

"If you continue, you will elevate the taste of moviegoers all over the world."

Ask Italian movie people to explain the resurgence of their industry, which has developed new stars and found an international mass market, and they will credit the destruction of fascism with all its restrictions.

Could Breath Freely

They emphasize that after the liberation, the industry could breathe freely, develop all the potentialities of Italy's artistic traditions, climate, historic landmarks, and the creative genius of the people.

"Open City," produced in the cellars and on the roofs of Rome in the final stage of the German occupation of the Italian capital, catapulted to the world's stage an actress of exceptional talent, Anna Magnani, and a film director of outstanding qualities, Roberto Rossellini.

Miss Magnani's acting in "Open City" was such that critics, said they could almost feel pulsating through the cinema the waves of fear, hope and despair in the heart of the character that Anna created.

Maintains Stature

In her subsequent films "The Bandit," "Honorable Angelina," and "Misery," she has maintained the stature she attained in "Open City," story of the Italian underground.

Italian film critics awarded her the "Silver Ribbon"—counterpart of the American Oscar — for her interpretation of the leading part in "Honorable Angelina."

The realistic school of the Italian cinema has found in Massimo Girotti one of its best interpreters and performers.

A former student of engineering, he gave up his studies to devote himself to the screen.

Offered Principal Role

In 1942 the young film director Lucchino Viscounti offered him the principal male role in "Obsession," a movie based on James Cain's novel, "The Postman Always Rings Twice." Immediately after the war he gave a magnificent performance in "A Day Of Our Life."

Moving steadily in the direction of the new realistic school, Girotti played one of the principal parts in "The Tragic Hunt," the film which won him the award for best acting at the 1947 Venice festival.

His latest part was as one of the two male protagonists in "Juvenile Delinquents," which Pietro Germi directed. It won the "Silver Ribbon."

Chief Quanah Parker's Old House Stands In Oklahoma

LAWTON, Okla., Dec. 9. (INS)—The old house of Chief Quanah Parker near Cache, Okla., still stands today as a reminder of the old days when the 3,000,000-acre Kiowa-Comanche reservation was one big pasture leased to cattlemen by the Indians.

The house was built some 60 years ago at the foot of the Wichita mountains for the chief, his numerous wives, and children. It is said that the house was a present to the chief from his cattlemen friends with the lumber coming from Vernon and Wichita Falls. At one time, it housed the chief, nine wives, and 23 children according to legend.

The last of Quanah's wives is 94-year-old Tah-Pay, a full-blooded Comanche who lives at Cache, three miles from the old homestead. The old woman pleasantly recalls the memories of old when big cattlemen were guests of Quanah. The chief acted as go-between for the Indians and the cattlemen.

One of the chief's daughters, Mrs. Neda Parker Birdsong, is the present occupant of the house.

Forward Step In Forecasting Of Weather Taken In Rocket Test

EL PASO, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—A forward step in more accurate weather forecasting was taken today at the White Sands proving ground when a V-2 rocket was fired by Army Ordinance for the Army Signal Corps.

It was the first time wind velocity was measured from 100,000 to 200,000 feet through smoke trails emitted from the rocket. Special apparatus puffed out streams of intense white smoke which was made by combination of acid and water at 65 seconds after the take off at an altitude from 20 to 40 miles.

The smoke trails were clearly visable for 15 minutes.

Cameras Photograph Smoke

Three cameras on the ground photographed the smoke's movement in the wind at a height never before photographed.

The V-2 also carried a shadowgraph to photograph the shock wave of the rocket by its terrific speed at 3,000 miles an hour.

The shadowgraph consisted of a series of prisms in the nose of rocket. The wave was photographed by a motion picture camera.

To recover the photograph record the war head of the rocket was blown off by a radio signal from the ground. The remainder of the rocket, carrying the records, fell slowly to earth, like a falling leaf.

Records of the sun's position were made by other cameras. From these photos a flight history of the rocket will be made.

The rocket attained an altitude of 65 miles. Its speed and altitude was purposely reduced to provide steady flight while the smoke generated. The rocket fell 34 miles north of the launching platform.

Bond Forfeited In Gold Smuggling Case

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Federal District Judge Allan Hannay ordered $8,500 bond forfeited today for a missing Israelite under charges of smuggling Mexican gold into the United States.

Hannay set new bond at $18,500 for Felix Klarberg of Tel Aviv and New York and issued a warrant for his arrest when the accused man failed to show up for a scheduled hearing this morning.

Klarberg and two companions were arrested at Hidalgo, Tex., on July 10. Officers found a cache of gold secreted in their automobile and a border patrol spokesman reported it was destined for the new nation of Israel.

Besides the smuggling charge, Klarberg was accused of misrepresenting himself as a U. S. citizen.

Indicted with Klarberg were Charles K. Wajnryb of Kew Gardens, New York, and Jacques Bodmen, Flushing, N. Y. They came to court on schedule this morning.

State Sen. Rogers Kelley, their attorney, asked Judge Hannay for more time in preparation of a motion to quash the indictment against them. A hearing on Kelley's request for additional time was to be had this afternoon.

Dr. Hamilton To Present Paper At Meeting In New York Soon

Dr. T. Earle Hamilton, associate professor of foreign languages at Texas Technological college, will present a paper, entitled "Printer's Marks On A Lope - Autograph," at the sixty-third annual meeting of the Modern Language Association of America in New York Dec. 27 through Dec. 30.

The paper and discussion to follow will be devoted to Spanish literature of the Renaissance and Golden Age, and particularly the manuscript of "El Cardenal de Belen," written by Lope De Vega, considered to be Spain's Shakespeare. The manuscript is unique among all manuscripts, in that it contains a full set of printers marks for compositor guidance.

Approximately 3,000 member delegates are expected to attend the convention. The MLAA was founded in 1883 to advance the study of modern languages and their literature.

Austrian Leader Says Nation Has Strength To Crush Red Uprising

By IRVING R. LEVINE
INS Staff Correspondent

VIENNA, Dec. 9—Austrian foreign minister Karl Gruber declared today his government "is quite strong enough" to crush any Communist uprising once a big four peace treaty is signed and occupation troops withdraw.

The United States is ready for resumed Austrian treaty negotiations, and Britain and France are expected to go along. Gruber said he expects a favorable Russian reply to a note delivered two days ago.

The 39-year-old Gruber, former anti-Nazi underground leader, in an exclusive interview with International News Service, dismissed as "unfounded speculation" western fears that withdrawal of troops would signal a Communist coup d'etat such as occurred in Czechoslovakia, Romania and Hungary. He said:

"There will not be such a Communist attempt in Austria. Only five per cent of the people are Communists and the Austrian government is quite strong enough to keep the country free and independent.

"This conviction is shared by an overwhelming majority of the people.

"The government is determined to resist any illegal attempts to seize power and has every reason to believe it is able to do so."

The six-foot blond statesman talked in his office whose windows look across a park toward the Soviet flag atop the highest tower of the Austrian imperial palace.

Gruber refused any predictions on the outcome of the expected big four talks. These broke down in London last May when Russia insisted on backing Yugoslav territorial claims on Austrian Carinthia.

But Gruber insisted a treaty must grant full sovereignty to Austria before his government would sign.

Moscow's rift with Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia has intervened since the big four last quarreled over an Austrian treaty, but Gruber said there was no special timing of the latest Austrian appeal for resumed talks.

Woman's Seizure Scored

Gruber indicated another Austrian note to the big four governments might be forthcoming soon unless the Allied control council takes satisfactory action on the case of Margarethe Ottillinger, Austrian Marshall aid expert who was kidnapped by the Russians.

The western members of the control council vainly have protested to Russia on the seizure of the woman whom the Russians accuse of being an anti-Soviet spy.

The Russians have refused permission to Austrian officials to see her, have preferred no formal charges as a prelude to a trial, and will not say where she is held.

The western officials charge that the Ottillinger case and those of other kidnapped Austrian officials are a violation of four-power council procedure.

Gruber said, "We will of course have a certain amount of patience but do not have unlimited patience. Our duty is to protect government officials as much as it is in our power. We will take any step we are able to take."

The Austrian foreign minister then indicated that if there are no developments soon the government will dispatch a protest note directly to Moscow and the western capitals over the heads of the control council officials.

Survey Shows Living Costs Nearly Uniform

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—The idea that the cost of living varies sharply from city to city doesn't carry much weight with the business research bureau at the University of Nebraska.

Living expenses are 12 per cent lower in New Orleans than in Washington, but those are the two extremes, the bureau reported. In 34 cities studied, the "average difference" amounted to less than 3 per cent, Dr. Edgar Z. Palmer, bureau chief, said. Food costs varied about 1½ per cent.

"It seems to make little difference what city we live in," he said. "Living costs too much in any, and there is not much choice."

Population appears to have no effect on living expenses, Palmer said. Seattle, New York, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Boston and Detroit were classed at the top of the expense sheet, and Indianapolis, Buffalo and Houston among the lower cost cities.

College Paper's Poll Is More Accurate Than Election Checks

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—One poll that stood the test of an election has been found. But it wasn't the presidential election.

The College of Puget Sound's paper, The Trail, ran a poll to see who would be elected homecoming queen. The poll picked Cynthia Harris—who won—and had almost her exact total of votes figured. It also picked the order in which the other contestants would finish.

The average error on each candidate was less than two per cent. Strangely enough, the poll was conducted on the same principles that Gallup and Roper used to predict the presidential race.

GET ON GUARD!

Here We Go Again!

THE WORD is out in Austin that a sneak approach will be used when the Legislature meets in January to seek the enactment of so-called "fair trade practices" legislation.

For at least 12 years one of the most powerful lobbies in Austin has been working for a law under which out-of-state manufacturers and distributors would fix minimum retail prices for hundreds of articles sold in drug, department and other stores in Texas.

The attempt has been dishonest as to its "Fair Trade Practices act" title. If ever an unfair, discriminatory law was proposed, this is it. But the advocates of the law, which would cost Texans millions of dollars a year, are due credit for having stated in their proposed measure what they wanted done. Their attempts invariably have been blocked.

So now they reportedly are preparing a sneak attack. Austin hears they will propose the creation of some sort of "commission" in a law worded in such a way as to appear harmless and inoffensive. But, actually, it would put the selfish interests in position to dictate the membership of the commission, and the commission would be given power to impose price and other regulations far more drastic and far-reaching than any thus far proposed in any law.

Prospects are encouraging that the maneuver will fail. Enough legislators should be on the alert to minimize the possibility that sneak techniques will remain undiscovered. If the sneak attack is identified, it is incredible that enough legislative support can be secured to enact a law which so flagrantly would be against the interest of Texas and Texans.

Aid To Airports

WHILE some waste and criticism must be accepted as inevitable, the federal airport aid program has the appearance of one of the brighter spots in the national government.

The seven-year program, starting with 1948, contemplates expenditures not exceeding $500,000,000—a small sum by modern governmental standards—to improve existing airports and build new ones. Grants of $48,484,000 this year have improved airport facilities in 592 communities. The plan calls for improvements of 2,090 of the nation's 6,000 airports and the creation of about 2,000 new ones by the end of 1950. Requests, however, are about five times larger than can be granted with the finances likely to be available.

But, on the whole, the Civil Aeronautics administration appears to be proceeding with caution in the development of a program which should keep the United States well in the forefront of air-minded nations, serving an expanding peace time transportation need and providing vital facilities in case of war.

In the old days, life was more complex. We didn't have radio commentators to do our thinking for us.

Things could be worse. Just suppose there was a return of the chain letter craze.

A woman has reached the matronly age when she can't control her bulges.

Waltz Into Darkness

By WILLIAM IRISH

Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: Well-to-do Louis Durand carries on a correspondence courtship with a Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen. She comes from St. Louis to New Orleans by boat to marry him. She is young, ravishing, blond. Within a month of their marriage, she withdraws $50,000 from his bank account and disappears. Investigation proves her an impostor. Durand retains Walter Downs, detective, to prove that a crime was committed against the real Julia Russell, who vanished on the boat trip to New Orleans. A year later, Durand is alone in Biloxi. He makes the acquaintance of a Colonel Worth in a hotel bar. Worth persuades Durand to dine with him and his fiancee, Miss Castle, the following evening.)

SOMEHOW, the next day, he was too lackadaisical about the engagement even to send his perfunctory regrets in time, and so before he knew it, it was evening, the appointment had become confirmed if only by default, and it was too late to extricate himself from it without being guilty of the grossest rudeness, which would not have been the case had he canceled it a few hours earlier.

He'd lain down on his bed, fully dressed, late in the afternoon for a short nap, and when he awoke the time set was already imminent, and there was nothing left to do now but fulfill the engagement.

He sighed and grimaced privately to his mirror, but then commenced the necessary preparations none the less. He could remain a half-hour, he promised himself, as a token of participation, then arrange to have himself called away by one of the waiters with a decoy message, and leave.

Fortified by this intention, shaved and cleanly shirted, he shrugged on his coat, thumbed open his money-fold to see that it was sufficiently well filled, and glumly set forth. A 10-minute walk brought him to his destination.

THE GROTTO was a long, narrow, cabin-like, single-story structure, flimsy and unprepossessing on the outside.

The interior, due to some depression in the ground, was somewhat lower than the walks outside, so that he had to descend a a short flight of entry steps once he had been bowed in by the colored door-flunkey. The main dining room itself, seen from their top, was a disordered litter of white-clothed table tops, heads studding them in circular formation.

A pompous dining steward, with wide-spreading frizzed sideburns, greeted him at the foot of the stairs.

"Are you alone, sir? May I show you to a table?"

"No, I was to join a party," Durand said. "Colonel Worth and friends. In one of the private booths. Which way are they?"

"Oh, straight to the back, sir, at the far end of the room. You are expected. They are in the first one on the right."

He made his way down the long central lane of clearance to the rear.

At the back, the room narrowed to a single serving passage leading to the kitchen. Lining each side of this, however, were openings leading into the little private alcoves or dining nooks Worth had mentioned. All alike discreetly curtained-off from view, although otherwise they were doorless. The nearest one on either side, however, was not strictly parallel to the passage but placed slantwise to it, cutting off the corner.

As he fixed his eyes upon the one to the right, marking that for his eventual destination, though still a little distance short of it, with the last bank of tables projecting somewhat between, the protective curtain gashed back at one side and a waiter came out backward, in the act of withdrawal but lingering a moment half-in half-out to allow the completion of some instruction being given him. He held the curtain, for that moment, away from the wall in a sort of diamond-shaped aperture, with one hand.

IT was as if a cameo of purest line, of clearest design, were in that opening, held there for Durand to see, a cameo of dazzling clarity, presented against a dark velvet mounting.

On one side, fluctuating with utterance of orders to the waiter, was a slice of the lumpy profile of the colonel. At the other, facing back toward him, was a slice of the smooth-turned profile of an unknown, dark of hair.

Midway between the two, facing outward, bust-length, white as alabaster, dazzling as marble, were the face and throat and bared shoulders and half-bared bosom that he would never forget that he could never forget.

Julia!

Julia, the killer. The destroyer of his heart.

The waiter dropped his restraining hand, the curtainside swept to the wall, the cameo was blotted out.

He stood there stunned, blasted, robbed of his powers of motion.

Then suddenly he was going back the other way, the way he'd come, now, unsteadily, jostling into tables and the backs of chairs.

He reached the other end of the raucous place, and the same steward as before came solicitously to his side.

"Did you fail to find your party, sir?"

"I—I've changed my mind." He took out his money-fold, crushed an incredible ten-dollar bill into the man's hand. "I haven't been here asking for them. You didn't see me."

He stumbled up the steps and out, lurching as though he'd filled himself with wine in those few minutes. Wine of hate, ferment of the grapes of wrath.

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

AT an art exhibition being held in New York I saw a very interesting sight.

A woman was standing in front of a painting.

The woman looked familiar, but I could not place her.

I thought and I thought, trying to figure out where I had met her and who she was, but I could not come to any conclusion.

BRANDEIS

I went on looking at the pictures and when I came by again, on my way out, that woman was still standing in front of the same painting.

I was sure I had met her, and being a newspaperman and, like all newspapermen, curious and not too much concerned with formalities, I walked up to her and said:

"Pardon me, madam, but I am sure I have met you somewhere. My name is Erich Brandeis, may I ask what is yours and whether you recollect having met me?"

The woman smiled and said:

"No, I don't think I have met you, but perhaps you have met me. Did you look at all the pictures in this exhibit?"

"Yes, I did."

"Then did you look at the one directly in front of us?"

I had looked at it and I looked at it again.

Then it dawned on me, even before the woman went on.

"That picture," she said, "is a portrait of me painted forty years ago almost to the day. Perhaps when you saw me you detected a slight resemblance to the picture and thought that you had met me."

That was it. There, on the wall, was the woman of today as she looked forty years ago.

I shall not mention her name. She requested me not to. But you would recognize it, I am sure.

"Quite a change, isn't it?" she asked rather wistfully. "And certainly not a change for the better."

What could I say?

Well, I did say what was really in my heart.

"Oh yes, it is a change for the better. Forty years ago you were more beautiful physically, that I admit.

"But today there is an expression in your eyes that was lacking then.

"YOU were beautiful in those days, but your eyes showed a certain degree of conceit, of vanity, of selfishness.

"Today your eyes are still beautiful. But it is a different kind of beauty. There is experience in your eyes, and suffering and disappointment. But there is also forgiveness in them and understanding.

"Your skin was beautiful in those days, according to the picture. There are some wrinkles in your face today, but they are badges of honor. They are the marks of having lived and of having traveled a long and arduous journey. There is beauty in those marks as well."

We parted, and I did a lot of thinking on the way back home.

I was thinking of that picture of my wife I carried in my pocket. It was taken twenty-seven years ago. She was on horseback.

I was thinking of that picture on the wall of my bedroom, taken when Mother was a bride.

I was thinking of my own picture, right under hers, taken when I was a student. Then I looked up at the sky.

The sun was shining.

Ban On Tax Loop Seen

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Although the Federal Communications Commission has publicly assumed a hands-off attitude toward the sale and incorporation of Jack Benny and other star performers to the Columbia Broadcasting company, the Federal agency will probably ban the Benny transaction.

Off the record, the top FCC-ers say that there is a material and income tax difference between the sale of Amos 'n Andy and the sale of such programs as those headed by Jack Benny, Bing Crosby, Fred Allen and Kay Kyser.

TUCKER

The writer does not attempt to give legal advice on this Amos and Andy versus Jack Benny question. But here is the general opinion of the tax experts and judges who will eventually pass upon this extremely important tax problem:

The Amos and Andy sale, which enabled them to pay twenty-five per cent gains tax instead of about seventy-seven per cent income tax, had a sound property basis. They had built up a fictional family, a few croaked negro voices and a running dialogue.

In fact, it is understood that the originals of Amos and Andy have agreed, that when they near their retiring age, a few years hence, they will train understudies to take their places with the same voices and characterizations and family difficulties. The radio listener would not know who was Andy, Amos or Madame Queen. It was on that basis of legal and performance continuity that the Federal Communications commission and the Department of Justice approved the Amos and Andy sale.

As a matter of taxation fact, Internal Revenue did not give advance approval to the unique Amos and Andy contract. When the proposition was submitted to the Treasury tax experts, the had to okay the tax-escaping arrangement, but they did so off the record.

FAVORITISM: Similarly, the big shot revenue experts a Washington have shown an excess of tax favoritism toward the writings of General Eisenhower and the Roosevelt family, including Elliott, Eleanor and left-field members of the household.

Although F.D.R. condemned and excoriated tax dodgers in 1937, members of his own family, his former cabinet, now completely reorganized by President Truman, have taken every advantage of the taxation loopholes which F.D.R. and his friends on Capitol Hill left in revenue legislation.

DIFFERENCE: Now we come to the difference between the Amos and Andy sales contract—which has been approved by the Department of Justice, the Federal Communications Commission, and Internal Revenue—and Jack Benney's sale of himself to another broadcasting company.

The Benny lawyers, apparently, think that they can get the same sort of tax deal—twenty-five per cent capital gains as against seventy-seven per cent take—which Correll and Gosden, the original Amos and Andy, did.

But the Benny deal is different. Here is why:

Without Correll and Gosden, especially in view of their agreement to train substitutes to replace them a few years hence, their program can be carried on without much loss of listener interest.

But, in the opinion of the Washington legal experts—and in the opinion of a lot of other people, too—there can't be a substitute Jack Benny. In fact, in the few times that Benny was unable to appear on his own program, his producers didn't try to have an understudy impersonate the commedian. Guest stars were used under their own names. If somebody had played the Benny role, he might be in a better tax situation now.

PERSONALITY: It boils down to the assumption that the Amos & Andy show is a property and hence can be sold under a capital gains tax, but that Jack Benny is a personality and, valuabl though that personality is, can't he sold like a bundle of securities, in the opinion of the government's tax sharks.

This may cost Benny plenty. I hear he supported Truman.

SALES: More than department managers are watching the progress of Christmas buying this year, and they include some of the top advisers to President Truman. Retail sales dropped in November. That is, they didn't come up to a year ago, even though they were larger than anything dreamed about before the war.

Various reasons have been advanced, all the way from peculiar weather to Regulation W, but despite the smooth explanations, many government economists were worried.

Christmas sales are picking up, but how much they pick up will have many effects on Administration policy. If they do not reach satisfactory heights, by suggesting the boom is past its peak, they may lead to easing of the entire anti-inflation program, a further speeding up of Marshall Plan spending and even some changes in the coming fiscal budget.

CONCEDE: P.G.M. of Houston, propounds a political query to which the dejected Republicans on Capitol Hill and elsewhere seek the answer:

"I want to know what is wrong with the people in the big cities which makes the Republicans always concede in advance that the Democrats will carry those cities. Conversely, what is wrong with the Republican Party that it admits in advance that it does not expect to win the urban vote?

"Don't city people have the same problems as rural people—food, housing, prices, sanitation, drainage, education, and every other problem of everyday living?"

CONSERVATIVE: Answer: There are probably many answers to this profound question, but I suppose the principal explanation lies in the fact that, historically, the G.O.P. is a conservative party, whereas the Democrats at least as reorganized under F.D.R and President Truman, are known as the more "liberal and popular" organization.

The principal urban elements—workingmen and women, foreign-born and their descendants, social welfare groups, veterans, educators, even clergymen etc.—are far less conservative than their rural brethren, not only in political matters but in everything else. Naturally, they are inclined to support the party which stands for a mild form of socialized government.

The trouble about the man who shifts for himself is that you never know which way he is going to shift.

ELECTIONS MADE LITTLE CHANGE

Peron Still Rules As Dictator

By PETER EDSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (NEA)—Argentine elections on Dec. 5 to name delegates for a convention to revise the constitution, point up what's going on in Presidente Juan Domingo Peron's paradise.

Recent charges by the Chilean government and in the Colombian press, that the Argentinos were attempting to set up military dictatorships throughout Latin-America, have yet to be proved. But the Peron dictatorship within the Argentine still is not pretty.

EDSON

Under the law passed last August, the constitutional convention must be held within 90 days. So by March 5, the Argentine may have a new basic law. Admiral Tesaire, titular head of the Peronists Party, in a recent speech gave the best outline yet on what it was hoped to write into the new constitution.

One thing would be repeal of the present constitutional provision limiting the president to one six-year term. Last May Peron said he was against this change. Now it is obvious he intends to succeed himself in 1952, when his present term expires.

Seek To Retain Control

Another goal is to nationalize basic industries. Since Colonel Peron's coup of 1944, the Argentine government has been buying up British and other foreign-owned railways and public utilities. U. S. Electric Bond and Share still owns some power facilities in the Argentine, but under the proposed constitutional revision, they would have to be sold.

The Peronistas also want their government to have greater control over the use and disposition of private property. Last September the Argentine Congress passed a general organization law permitting the president to seize all property in an emergency, and to requisition the services of all Argentinos over 12 years old. Apparently there is some desire to put this into the constitution.

The constitutional convention will also consider permitting the government to operate private business, control trade, set wage rates and conditions of employment.

All these reforms, it might be noted, are done in the name of improving the condition of the masses and driving out foreign imperilistic interests that are supposed to have held labor in subservience. What they add up to is that Presidente Peron is fixing himself a nice totalitarian state below the Rio Plata. Whether you call it Fascist, Socialist, Communist or whatever, it still comes out a dictatorship.

It still gets by as a democracy because there are certain shells of opposition kept for appearance sake. The Peronistas control two-thirds of both houses of congress. In the minority are five badly split political parties—Communists, Socialists, Progressives, Radicals and Conservatives, reading from left to right. Peron has refused to outlaw the Commies.

Opposition Is Warm

In this opposition, only the Communists and Radicals bothered to name a slate of candidates for the Dec. 5 elections to choose delegates for the constitutional convention.

Peron in the past has made several statements that he encourages freedom of the press and radio and freedom of assembly. This is really a mockery. Opposition political meetings are by permit only, and then carefully monitored. In the congressional elections last March, all campaign speeches were censored. The Radical Party complained it was not permitted to buy time on the radio.

Civil liberties have probably taken a worse beating in the Argentine than in any other country in the western hemisphere. When the courts hand down a liberal decision not to the liking of the party in power, means are found to circumvent it. Even the loophole of the courts probably will be plugged in the new constitution.

There isn't anything the United States can do about these goings on, as they are entirely internal affairs. When press and radio rights were taken away from five U. S. correspondents recently, the U. S. embassy protested and the ban was lifted in 24 hours. Aside from protests directly involving American interests, relations between the two countries are on a cordial basis. The U. S. government recently signed an agreement to send Army, Air Force and Naval training missions to the Argentine for four years.

Peron's only real opposition in the Argentine comes from a minority military clique. Its basis for criticism is that Peron is too friendly with the United States.

By paying substantial subsidies, Norway has kept the prices of chemical fertilizers down to the 1939 level and greatly expanded their use by farmers.

FARM BUILDING PROGRAM FAVORED BY OFFICIAL

Building Plan Specialist Says Construction Costs Not Likely To Return To Level Of Pre-War Years

If you are among those waiting for things to "level off" before you build that new house, or add a barn or two on your farm or ranch, you are probably just wasting time.

That is the opinion of W. S. Allen, building plan specialist with the Texas Extension service, who doubts that lumber and other construction materials will ever return to 1935—or even 1940-41—price levels.

Allen's views, expressed to Louis Franke, extension service editor, were addressed mainly to farmers and ranchers, but the same rule, at least as concerns costs, would apply to urban as well as rural residents.

He said that if prices ever again reach the low levels of the 30s "it will be during a major and unlooked for depression, when farmers and ranchmen are seldom in a position to take advantage of low prices."

Says Best Time Is Now

He reasons, therefore, that "if you can afford to repair your old home, or build a new one, better get at it. The chances are you'll never have a better chance to do it than right now."

The view coincides with that expressed almost universally by building material suppliers and dealers, but Allen hastens to add that he has no connection with the building industry, and nothing to gain or lose. He is interested in the welfare of rural people he primarily serves.

What about the rural housing situation?

The shortage of houses in rural areas is not as acute as in urban spots, and although many new homes have been built in rural areas or older homes remodeled, Allen said the proportionate gain is small compared with cities.

Costs Not Discussed

He explained that most farmers and ranchers have used their profits of the past few years to build up their income-producing capacity. They've paid off debts and mortgages, bought tractors and other machinery; built fences, dug wells and tanks. And, Allen said, that is all to the good, exactly as economists recommend.

But, for that reason, farm home building and improvement has been put off.

Allen did not go into the question of costs in relation to long-term debts, or the possible effect on the nation's economy of a rural construction program that would involve heavy indebtedness.

That situation was covered, however, in his "if you can afford it" admonition.

Home Improvement Urged

For the women, who are interested in interior finish and conveniences, as well as in the new house as a whole, Mrs. Bernice Claytor, home management specialist with the extension service, chimed in a second to Allen's ideas and added some of her own.

Mrs. Claytor attended the recent outlook conference in Washington, when the nation's leaders gathered for discussion of possibilities of the future. She talked with Dr. Gertrude Weiss, family economist of the USDA's (U.S. Department of Agriculture) bureau of human nutrition and home economics, about the rural housing situation.

Records show that much has been done on rural home improvement in recent years. For instance, between 1940 and 1947, the number of farm houses with modern bathrooms nearly doubled, and more than a million farm homes were equipped with running water.

But, she adds, "that's only a drop in the bucket." Two out of three farm homes still lack running water, and four out of five lack modern bathrooms.

Repairs Generally Needed

Mrs. Claytor cited figures from a recent census bureau survey showing:

Nearly two and a half times as high a percentage of farm homes as city homes are in need of repair;

About one-fourth as many farm as urban homes have private baths, and one-third as many have running water;

Only half as many farm as urban homes have such conveniences as electric lights, installed cooking facilities, running water, flush toilets, bath tub or shower.

Concerning the storied high and magnificent income of farmers, and admitting that farm income has been up for several years, Mrs. Claytor said records show that "the income of some one-third of our farmers is still so low they can't afford much in the way of home improvement."

Believing that the effect of low farm prices of the 20s and 30s is still with us in the form of a sort of economic hangover, she points out that this large segment of farm people—one-third of them—have been caught in the inflation squeeze the same as have white collar workers (salaried people).

But, on the whole, things are looking up in the farm home, with reports from most areas showing more building and remodeling than ever before.

There are indications that prices for farm products may level off some, and there is some question on what congress will do with the farm production price support (subsidy) program, but Franke finds that farm housing experts are generally agreed that now is as good a time as any to go ahead with plans for that new house or barn.

Anyway, you'll probably never be able to build that $10,000 house for $4,000.

U.S. Abandons Curbs Against Marriage With German Girls

By TOM AGOSTON
INS Staff Correspondent

FRANKFURT, Dec. 9—Reliable sources said tonight that the U.S. military government is quietly abandoning its non-fraternization policy completely with the realization that love and romance thrive even in war-torn Germany.

These sources said that the military government now permits or shuts its eyes to marriages between American businessmen and their German sweethearts, and permits them to stay on in the U.S. zone.

Previously, they were forced to leave within 30 days.

According to military government sources American officials are considering completing Cupid's shot in the arm by extending the new outlook on international marriages to all comers, including Army personnel, by the first of the year.

The new step was said to be the result of acceptance of an old interpretation that businessmen should not be subject to military rules.

While this is a break for non-Army Americans who have been bitten by the love bug in Germany, it apparently does not apply to other Allied nationals.

Several top level British and French military government personnel and correspondents who married Germans were forced to leave Frankfurt, the trizonal capital. The reason given them was the shortage of housing.

Third Such Change

One high-ranking British official of the bi-zonal administration was forced to leave the U.S. zone only this week because his bride's new British passport was not recognized.

Even the argument that this amounted to a virtual challenge to the sovereignty of the British crown was to no avail.

The change in American ideas about international marriages does not mean a German woman marrying an American will be recognized as a U.S. dependent.

Legal sources stressed that the bride would not have the commissary privileges, but could become an American citizen as a non-quota immigrant.

The American switch in position has not been announced publicly, and in fact is still being kept quiet, because of the obvious flood of marriage applications such a move would bring.

The only occupation zone now adhering to a strict non-fraternization policy is the Russian. Marriages to Germans have been permitted for some time in the British and French zones.

The American switch in non-fraternization policy is the third since the occupation began.

The original, strict non-fraternization rule was lifted toward the end of 1945, and the marriage ban as it applied to GI's was lifted in December of 1946.

Heard the small son remark, "Mom's not caught in the Christmas rush this year." He had his hand in the cookie jar. Little does he know! But delicious, appetizing cookies are so easily and quickly made with Aunt Ellen's Pi-Do that it's no effort at all to maintain a generous supply of goodies for the family. Try it yourself!

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES...
a tested PI-DO recipe

½ cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
¾ tsp. soda
½ tsp. baking pwdr,
½ cup peanut butter
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 pkg. Aunt Ellen's Pi-Do

Blend brown sugar, white sugar, soda and baking powder thoroughly with package of PI-DO. Add egg and peanut butter. Mix well with hands. Roll into small balls the size of large marbles. Place on greased baking sheet then press flat with floured tines of fork across one way and then across the other. Bake in moderate oven, 325°, 10 to 12 minutes or until brown. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

Time-Saver — To easily remove the meat of a cocoanut place it in the oven until warm. A slight blow will do the job!

Chicago Jail Inmate, Realizing Crime Had Ruined His Life, Plots Fatal Prison Break

CHICAGO, Dec. 9. (INS)—Cook county jail warden Frank G. Sain today revealed a bizarre suicide plot by an inmate killed in an escape attempt Thanksgiving night.

Sain produced a letter which showed Andrew E. Evans, 29, realizing that crime had ruined his life, deliberately planned the jail break in the hope of being killed.

His wish was realized. He was shot down by guards.

The strange and tragic story was told in the letter written on jail stationery by Evans. Further testimony at the inquest today verified the plan.

Of the nine prisoners who broke out of the jail and were trapped in the yard, eight surrendered on the commands of guards.

Only Evans, obviously aware that he faced death, ignored de-William Riley, the guard who fired the fatal shots, testified that Evans lunged toward the guns.

The letter produced by Warden Sain indicated that Evans had been planning the suicidal break as long ago as Oct. 25.

The letter, found in Evans' wallet after he was killed, read:

"To whom it may concern, by Andrew E. Evans, Oct. 25, 1948. Every word the truth, believe me God.

Crime Is No Joke

"In two more days I will be 29 years old. I have thrown away my best years by playing around with crime. I always heard that crime doesn't pay, but took it for a joke. Well it's no joke.

"I am really starting off on the wrong foot now and I know I can't win. I hope and pray I get killed because I don't want to ever go to a penitentiary or any place again . . .

"I wish I could live my life all over again, but it's too late now, so I will go all the way."

On another part of the same folder, a short note was addressed to "my mother."

The jury gave a verdict of justifiable homicide and commended the jail guards for halting the break.

When tow soft drink plants in Havana closed recently the supply of soft drinks in Cuba dropped so low that the government took over the plants and operated them.

AFL Union Asks Government To Stop Importing Farm Workers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—The National Farm Labor Union (AFL) today asked the government to stop importing foreign agricultural workers.

H. L. Mitchell, president of the union, said a program of this kind is not needed. He charged that agricultural employers schemed with immigration authorities in October to allow thousands of Mexican workers to cross the Texas border in violation of U. S.-Mexican agreements.

These employers want a permanent system of forced labor on U. S. farms, he said, because foreign workers here illegally or under contract constitute "a controlled labor supply that is near peonage." Such workers are not free to change jobs, he pointed out.

Mitchell's remarks were prepared for a meeting of the special farm labor committee of the bureau of employment security. The committee is considering the country's farm labor needs for 1949. This past harvesting season was the first since the war for which the government has not directly sponsored a program of foreign labor recruitment. The bureau is responsible, however, for channeling workers to the places where they are most needed.

Mitchell said the bureau should concern itself only with placement of U. S. workers. In any case, thousands of Puerto Ricans who are U. S. citizens should be recruited before any foreign workers are brought in, he said.

He submitted a set of recommendations which were worked out between his union and Mexican unions for protection of Mexican nationals in case there is a recruitment program in Mexico next year.

Thinking About Certain Tasks May Cause Mental Fatigue, Magazine Writer Claims

CHICAGO, Dec 9 (INS) — Even thinking about a certain task ahead may cause mental fatigue.

That is the opinion of Ben Melnitsky of New York, writing for Hygeia, health magazine of the American Medical association.

Melnitsky admits that scientists disagree about the cause and even the existence of mental fatigue, but declares that, in his opinion, it may result from "subconscious desires to escape from unpleasantness or duty."

He states that strong emotions such as fear, love and hate are fatiguing "in every sense of the word."

He adds that persons in good physical health may feel tired much of the time because they don't know how to fight mental fatigue. He cites among its victims:

"The husband who lacks the strength to take out the car and drive his wife to the chamber music concert."

Melnitsky believes that husband is really tired "despite the fact that a call to a poker game later the same evening will find him not the least bit tired."

He also says that a young man who is tired at the thought of a blind date "may be quite stimulated" when he finds her attractive and "a great deal more fatigued if she is not."

The writer believes that active participation in "worthwhile struggles" causes driving excitement which gives a person "neither the time nor the inclination for fatigue."

He says that fatigue, in many cases, comes from the sheer dullness and sameness of life.

Mineral Samples From 3,000 Oil Wells Donated To Tech

Mineral samples from approximately 3,000 oil wells have been donated recently to the petroleum geology department at Texas Technological college, Dr. Raymond Sidwell, professor of geology, has announced.

These samples have been placed in what the department calls its "well-sample library" and will be used for study of sedimentation in laboratory work, Dr. Sidwell said.

Red Cross Aiding Fight On Measles

AUSTIN, Dec. 9. (INS)—The American Red Cross reports that since January it has distributed a total of 9,800 vials of measles serum to New Mexico and Texas physicians, hospitals and clinics.

The state relations officers for the two states, Miss Ivy Hendricks for New Mexico and Dixie Carmichael for Texas, point out that since the commercial cost per vial is about $6, this represents a saving to the people of over $58,800.

8,000 Placed In Texas

Over 8,000 vials were distributed in Texas this year, and 1,800 vials were distributed in New Mexico, according to the announcement.

In addition to the measles serum, Red Cross has also made available in the two states nearly 49,000 packages of plasma, 47,040 in Texas and 1,798 in New Mexico.

Dr. Raymond F. Barnes, administrator, medical and health service for Red Cross in the midwest, pointed out that before Red Cross distribution began in 1944, the death rate from measles was one in every 328 cases. Two years later it had been cut almost in half, with one death in every 568 cases.

Given in small amounts to children within four or five days after exposure, Dr. Barnes said that the serum spares the child from serious complications such as pneumonia, encephalitis, heart impairment, and middle ear infections.

"Where it is important to prevent a person from having measles, the serum can do so for weeks at a time," Dr. Barnes said.

A new firm expects to produce 100,000 tons of cement a year from a plant at the mouth of the Buller River, New Zealand, on a site close to deposits of limestone, marl and siliceous sand.

More than $129,000,000 will be spent in increasing the irrigated land area of Java, improving the water supply of Batavia and increasing the electric and water-power capacity of the island.

Many In Berlin Prefer Blockade To Rule Under Communist Setup

By JOSEPH FLEMING
United Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Dec. 9. — The taxi taxi driver was talking about faith.

"Sure we lost our faith at first. We thought the west would pull out. Now we have it back again.

"Ah, there. You hear? There is another plane. And there another. Our faith doesn't come from our hearts or our brains any more. It comes through the ears."

On the balconies the children shout as the planes buzz overhead. They have a new game. Berliners call the big ships Rosinenbrummer (raisin flies) because the first air lift plane carried raisins.

Lift Not Pleasant

"Listen to the motor," a child cries. "It brings raisins."

"Oh, no," cries another. "It whirls too fast. Those must be noodles."

Life under the cold siege is not pleasant for western Berlin's 2,500,000 people. But they would rather live under hardships of the blockade than move across town—or across the street—into the Soviet sector.

An American military government survey disclosed the overwhelming majority of western Berliners prefer the blockade to Communist domination.

Prefer Blockade

When asked "would you prefer continuing the present situation in Berlin or bringing it to an end by uniting Berlin under the Socialist Unity Party (The Communist Party)?" 88 per cent of those questioned said they preferred the blockade.

Only four per cent favored Communist control. Eight per cent had no opinion.

Most Berliners shared the "faith" of the taxi driver. Ninety-six per cent of those polled believed the air lift could supply Berlin through the winter.

For Berliners, the blockade has produced no danger of claustrophobia. They can go freely from one sector to another. They can go from western Berlin to a visit in the Soviet zone. The only restriction on their movements is that they are subject to checks by Soviet-controlled police to see that they are not bringing food into western Berlin.

Many Regulations

They are also subject to arrest if they are caught in Soviet territory with west marks in their possession.

A German who lives in the Soviet sector may not eat in a western sector restaurant and vice versa.

A Soviet sector resident who wishes to read a western sector newspaper must travel to the west to buy it, or get it on the black market.

Russia has forbidden eastern newsdealers to handle "warmongering" newspapers—those licensed by the Americans, British or French.

Two currencies have produced other muddles. The west mark is outlawed as "illegal" in eastern Berlin. But in the west it is used as a "luxury" currency while east marks pay for rent, food, takes and other essentials.

One-Armed Man Completes Construction Of New Home

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Oscar Sundin, 55, built his own house with one hand. Sundin lost his left arm in an industrial accident in 1941.

The hardest part of building his house was handling 45-pound cement blocks with just one arm. But he handled nails and a saw with surprising ease.

He did all the work himself except putting up rafters and installing some of the plumbing. His son-in-law and neighbors pitched in and gave him a hand there.

The house has four rooms, bath and an unfinished attic.

Vetch Proving To Be Good Soil Building

(By The International News Service)

Hairy vetch still is proving itself to be a soil-builder.

Leonard Nowell of the Marshall community in Hardeman county planted five acres of the legume in the fall of 1946, harvested a seed crop and then turned it under in the summer of 1947.

He planted this acreage and an adjoining strip, on which no vetch was grown, in cotton last spring.

Production Hiked

The vetch land cotton was taller, had heavier fruit and a darker green color. It produced almost double the amount of cotton that the other plot sustained.

Meanwhile, Hale county 4-H club boy Elewyn Ellis is planning on vetch to play a large part in his current program.

Ellis has a poland china gilt, five acres of maize and a steer which he won in a calf scramble.

After the maize is combined, he plans to sow vetch to furnish grazing for his steer and other cattle during the heavy-feeding winter months.

By March, he will turn under the winter legume and follow it with grain sorghum.

The vetch will serve as a cover crop to keep the soil from blowing or washing, will furnish grazing for livestock, and will improve the soil by adding organic matter and increasing the amount of plant nutrients.

Winston Churchill Great Actor, Former Pilot Says

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Captain Jack Ruggles, American flyer who was personal pilot for Winston Churchill during the war, startled a meeting of the chamber of commerce by calling his ex-chief a "ham" actor.

"He's a very great guy," Ruggles said. "To understand him you have to realize that he's a great actor — ham — who, once he gets the center of the stage, keeps it no matter what and milks every scene dry just like an actor on the stage on opening night."

"He's terrific and acting is part of his makeup," the pilot said. "He is dramatic and had it not been for that dramatism and his show of front during the dark days of the buzz bombs, it is quite likely there wouldn't always have been an England."

Texan, 101-Years-Old, Still Keeps Up With World Events

ELGIN, Dec. 9. (INS)—George Washington Hazelwood of Elgin has lived a mighty long life—101 years, to be exact.

A native Texan, Hazelwood has lived in Elgin for the past 40 years.

Although infirmities have kept him in bed for the past three months, Hazelwood was in good health for his birthday recently and keeps well informed on modern religious, political and cultural developments.

New World Colonists Took New Ideas Back To Europe

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—A "surprising" number of early New England colonists didn't stay long in this new country, according to a University of Wisconsin historian.

Prof. William L. Sachse says his research shows that numerous colonists, who came to America between 1640 and 1660 to escape persecution, returned to England.

They became important figures in British politics and had wide influence on their mother country's political and economic development, he said.

Texas Town Got Name Through Mistake, But Residents Kept It

MERCEDES, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—This town was named by mistake.

The story goes that the city fathers decided to name it in honor of the wife of the president of Mexico at the time. They were told Porfirio Diaz's wife was named Mercedes, so the town became Mercedes.

Her name wasn't Mercedes at all. But the folks like the town and the name stuck.

TRAINING BASE IS BUSY

U.S. Bearing Down In Massing Strength For Berlin Air Lift

By JOHN DRUCKENBROD
INS Staff Correspondent

GREAT FALLS AIR BASE, Mont., Dec. 9.—Col. John S. Chennault whose father formed the famed "Flying Tigers" warned today that failure of the Berlin air lift will peril American occupation of Germany.

Chennault, who commands the Great Falls Air Force base in Montana, made the statement in opening the base for newsmen to see how more than 4,300 pilots and flight engineers will be trained for the air lift during the coming year.

Chennault is turning out three-man flight crews for "Operation Vittles" at the rate of 29 and 30 a week.

Already 79 chief pilots, 115 co-pilots and 91 aerial engineers have left Great Falls for Germany since the school began an accelarted three-week training course last Oct. 11.

Chennault told a brief news conference, called together in one of the cardboard huts which serve as class rooms:

"We think we have a pretty big mission here. If we fail to produce students here, we're going to be embarrassed over there. 'Operation Vittles' will continue as long as there is need for it."

A spokesman said Chennault has been assigned overseas, but his destination is a mystery. Speculation immediately arose that he might be assigned to China or the Far East where his father, Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault organized a group of American volunteers into the "Flying Tigers."

Standards Are Strict

According to subordinates, Col. Chennault has had wide experience in China. Although there are virtually no Air Force planes there, he might be assigned as an observer or stationed in some other country of the Far East.

All the pilots now being trained at Great Falls have returned to the service from civilian life and volunteered for air lift duty. Volunteers, about one-sixth of whom are airline pilots, must meet rigid standards and undergo even more intensive training once their schooling begins.

They must have a minimum of 1200 flying hours, including 50 with instruments. Their training includes 104 hours in ground school, 10 hours in so-called link trainers which never leave the ground, and 21 hours of actual flying over a route laid out like the last 50 miles of the Berlin corridors.

A total of 19 C-54's, the same aircraft now carrying cargo to beleaguered Berlin, are assigned to the school.

According to officials, the training is costing only an insignificant fraction of the 73-odd million dollar bill for the air lift itself.

Training "washouts" are scarce. Only 14 officers and nine enlisted men out of about 750 trainees have been eliminated so far.

Students leave for Germany about 24 hours after graduating. They get quick but good instruction in the types of engines, communications, fuel and oil systems they will encounter on the air lift.

More than 75 per cent of the pilots have had combat experience. Their average age is about 27 years.

Instructors, numbering about 125, include men who have air lift experience and have been reassigned from bases all over the world.

Replacements are being turned out at such a good rate that it is estimated air lift flight crews will be relieved in Germany after only six to eight months duty.

The Great Falls base also is the "gateway" for aircraft being ferried to Alaska and the Aleutians. During the war, hundreds of planes lend-leased to Russia passed through the base.

Solution To Problem Claimed Needed

Doctor Wants Science To Take Up Marital Problem Of Snoring

LONDON, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—Dr. Ian G. Robin believes that science doesn't take the problem of snoring seriously enough even though, he reported to the Royal Society of Medicine, it may ruin a happy marriage.

More than that, he continued, "the unfortunate adult sufferers have to bear with it in fear of ridicule" and if they live in some parts of the United States, may find themselves in the divorce courts.

Not to mention, he added, "the agonized relations and associates", who have to spend sleepless nights listening to "vibrations in the soft palate and posterior faucial pallars." That's the technical description for snoring.

Dr. Robin proposes that western science follow the lead of the Japanese and do some intensive research on the subject. In Japan where the walls are literally paper thin one snorer can ruin the sleep of everybody in a wide radius so snoring has a lot more urgency there than the thickwalled homes of the west.

Snoring Civilised?

Snoring may be a condition of civilization according to experts consulted by Dr. Robin. One of them said he had never heard of a wild wolf snoring, for example, but that many domestc breeds of dogs descended from wolves snore. And that most sophisticated of dogs, the pekingese, frequently snores.

A chimpanzee was once heard to snore while under anaesthetic.

Dr. Robin says the apparent major causes of snoring include loss of muscle tone in the throat, nasal obstructions, fall in adrenal secretion, obesity, advancing age and mouth breathing among others.

He is doubtful of modern psychological theories that it has something to do with contentment and that snorers occasionally stop the habit while on vacation.

Remedies

Until science finds a specific cure these are most usual treatments, Dr. Robin said:

Amputation of the uvula (you can see it by looking into a mirror open-mouthed) which "very rarely gives much relief but may modify the degree and pitch of the snore."

Removal or prevention of throat obstruction by operation or even by the simple process of taking nose drops before sleep.

Changing position of the head to prevent the tongue falling back. "Many persons snore only when on their backs and on some occasions an uncomfortable cotton reel sewn into the back of the pajamas is efficacious."

Injection of a hardening solution into parts of the throat to step up the tone. Swallowing, breathing and phonetic exercises to alter the position of the tongue and soft palate.

Keeping mouth closed during sleep with a strip of adhesive plaster across the corner of the mouth.

Since science can't afford to be gallant, Dr. Robin adds this comment:

"Women snorers appear to be as numerous as men."

University Zoologist Denies Texas Has Flying Lizards

AUSTIN, Dec. 9. (INS)—Texas is admitting it doesn't have something, namely, flying lizards.

At least one Texan admits it. Dr. W. Frank Blair, University of Texas zoologist and an authority on animal life in the state, says that reports of flying lizards in Central Texas are erroneous.

The reports said the lizards had webbed feet and could fly from tree to tree.

It made a good addition to the "Texas Brags," but just "taint so" says Dr. Blair.
